Israeli, Syrian Planes Stage Fight Over Lebanon

By The Associated Press

Israeli and Syrian warplanes battled in the sky over southern Lebanon today for the first time in five years and the Israelis claimed they downed five Syrian MiG-21s.

The Syrians acknowledged four of their planes were "hit" and claimed two Israeli planes were shot down. A military communique issued in Damascus, the Syrian capital, indicated the four Syrian planes were downed, saying "all remaining Syrian planes involved in the air battle returned safely to bases."

In Cairo, an Egyptian government statement condemned the Israeli attacks on Palestinian targets which set off the dogfight, saying they posed a grave danger to the Mideast peace process.

The Syrian announcement claimed to have prevented the Israelis from "shelling civilian targets in the Damour area south of Beirut."

The Israeli military command steadfastly maintained all Israeli jets returned safely from the raid against Palestinian guerrilla strongholds.

Yasser Arafat's Palestine Liberation Organization claimed in a communique that its guerrillas brought down two Israeli jets with shoulder-fired Sam-7 STRELA heat-seeking missiles.

It was not immediately clear if these were the same planes the Syrians said were shot down.

A wealthy rancher called The Associated Press in Beirut with a report matching the PLO's, saying one of the two Israeli jets went down just inside his property near Kfar Beirut, 35 miles southeast of the Lebanese capital and 18 miles north of the Israeli frontier.

He said three pilots bailed out the two planes.

The Israeli army spokesman's office said the dogfight occurred during an Israeli air force raid against Palestinian concentrations in southern Lebanon at about 11 a.m. The Palestinian targets were not identified, but presumably they included heavy artillery pieces that have been shelling northern Israeli towns.

"During the operation they were intercepted by Syrian planes," the command spokesman said. "Five Syrian planes were shot down. The Israeli air force continued the mission. All our planes returned safely to base."

The PLO communique said one target of the Israeli attacks was the Ein El-Hilweh refugee camp on the southern fringe of Sidon. The camp houses 21,000 Palestinian refugees.

Israel Radio said the downed Syrian planes were Soviet-built MiG-21s and that the dogfight was near the Lebanese port city of Sidon, 35 miles north of the Israeli-Lebanese border.

Egypt declared the air battle underscored the grave dangers which could face the peace process because of Israeli attacks on Lebanon.

In a government statement attributed to an unnamed high foreign ministry official, Egypt condemned the Israeli attacks on Palestinians.

While the the Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty was being ratified by the Egyptian Parliament in April, Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil hinted Egypt might aid Syria if it was attacked.

It was the first aerial clash between Israeli and Syrian jets since 1974. On April 19 of that year the Israelis shot down two Syrian MiGs and the Syrians downed two Israeli jets in a dogfight.

High Court Approves Firm's Racial Quotas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court ruled today that employers with no proven history of racial bias may offer special advantages to minority workers in hiring, training and promotion.

In a major victory for advocates of "affirmative action" to provide help for minorities, the court ruled 5-2 that employers sometimes may use racial quotas to determine who gets the preferences.

Specifically, the high court ruled that a white worker, Brian F. Weber, was not a victim of illegal racial bias when he was excluded in 1974 from an on-the-job program in Louisiana designed to help blacks.

Writing for the court, Justice William J. Brennan Jr. said that a 1964 federal law that bans racial and sexual bias in employment "does not condemn all private, voluntary, race-conscious affirmative action plans."

Benjamin Hooks, executive director of the NAACP, said the decision would "further the progress of all people in this nation.

"Had we lost this case, it was our prediction that the cause of affirmative action would have been set back 10 years," Hooks said in Louisville, Ky., where the NAACP is holding its 70th annual convention.

"The nation will now once again be confronted with the reality of the fact that we still have a long way to go," Hooks added.

The AFL-CIO called the court's decision "a big victory."

Weber, interviewed in New Orleans, said he was very disappointed with the decision and did not know whether he would ask for a rehearing.

"I think we fought a good fight," he said. "I've been involved in his for over five years now, and it has taken a lot of time and energy."

Justices John Paul Stevens and Lewis F. Powell Jr. took no part in deciding Weber's case.

Stevens disqualified himself as soon as the court agreed to study it last December. Although he refused to tell reporters why, it has been learned that Stevens did so because he had represented Weber's employer, Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Co., in his days as a Chicago lawyer.

Powell was recovering from surgery for removal of an intestinal tumor when the court heard arguments in Weber's case last March 26.

Weber, a 32-year-old laboratory worker at Kaiser's plant in Gramercy, La., sued his employer in 1974 after being refused participation in a craft training program that led to higher-paying jobs.

The program, approved in a collectively bargained agreement between Kaiser and the United Steelworkers union, accepted minority and white employees on a one-for-one basis.

It was begun in response to Kaiser's concern about the small percentage of its black employees holding craft jobs.

In 1974, 39 percent of the local work force was black, and 15 percent of Kaiser's Gramercy plant workers were black. But less than 2 percent of the plant's craft workers — 5 of 273 — were black.

Also, Kaiser recently had been sued by black employees at two other Louisiana plants for alleged racial discrimination.

Kaiser did not blame itself for the obvious racial disparity in skilled jobs. It attributed the disparity — and the need for a voluntary affirmative action plan — to a lack of training opportunities for

Saudis Fight Oil Increase

GENEVA, Switzerland (UPI) — OPEC ministers appeared ready today to raise the price of oil by 38 percent, to $20 a barrel, despite strident objections from Saudi Arabia, the top petroleum exporter.

After a morning session that lasted three hours and five minutes, Qatari oil minister Khalifa Al-Thani said the 13 member states would "come to a collective decision on a unified price. We will not come to a split decision.

"The minimum will be around $20 per barrel," after premiums are added for the higher quality crudes, he said.

It was obvious a serious fight was underway between Saudi oil minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani and a majority of the 13 OPEC member states.

Conference chairman Mana Saeed Al-Otaiba, asked if the ministers were now discussing prices, said, "We discussed the hot point," adding that no agreement was reached.

Al-Thani said the ministers were deciding whether to allow continued surcharges as well as the usual premiums for top grade oil.

Asked whether Saudi Arabia was rejecting a majority demand for a minimum of $20 per barrel — which would be a 38 percent hike over the current benchmark price of $14.54 — Al-Thani replied, "Collectively we will come to an agreement."

Yamani's opposition to a base price of $20 per barrel raised the possibility of a formal split in OPEC ranks, with most members charging that price — or more — and Saudi Arabia sticking to a lower level.

All OPEC ministers did agree, however, that there should be, if possible, a unified price with an end to the current system of free-for-all surcharges based on what the market can bear.

The United Arab Emirates was pushing for a compromise based on setting a benchmark price of $18 or $18.50 per barrel with a ceiling of $21.50 per barrel.

This would permit those producers with top-grade oil to charge the traditional premiums up to the $21.50 level.

Order Extended In Furr's Case

By KAY BELL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

FORT WORTH — Furr's Inc. officials this morning were allowed to continue operating the company as a "debtor in possession."

During a brief hearing here, Bankruptcy Judge John Flowers extended the debtor in possession order for the company another 60 days.

Troy Welch, attorney with the law firm of Simon and Simon of Fort Worth who is representing Furr's, requested the extension. Arthur Ungerman, a Dallas attorney who is representing an unofficial committee of Furr's major creditors, offered no objection to the company's request for the extension.

Furr's attorneys filed a petition May 22 seeking reorganization of the company under Chapter XI of the Federal Bankruptcy Act. A week later, Flowers signed a temporary order allowing Furr's to continue its operations as a debtor-in-possession.

Chapter XI Bankruptcy Act provisions provide a company a method of holding off creditors until the petitioning firm is in a better position to assess and pay off debts.

Flower's May 26 debtor-in-possession order provided that existing company managers shall continue in control of the firm "as usual," subject to stringent controls and mandatory reports to the court and company creditors.

The judge's extension of his order authorizes Furr's managers "to purchase on credit terms in the usual and customary course of its business, inventory of the kind customarily purchased" for the next two months.

The debtor-in-possession provisions basically protect Furr's from "acute collection practices" until the firm and its creditors reach an agreement on how the parties owed money will be paid.

The first meeting of creditors is scheduled for July 12 in the Fort Worth court.

At that meeting representatives of the almost 5,000 Furr's creditors, who are owed more than $56 million, will examine the detailed financial statements Furr's officials have filed with the court.

The creditors also may file claims

Albertson's New Outlet Opens Here

Albertson's opened its second store in Lubbock today at 6524 Slide Road. The new food and drug store marks the 20th combination facility operated by the firm in Texas and Louisiana.

The store, containing about 55,000 square feet of floor space, includes bakery, hardware and automobile supply areas in addition to its food and pharmacy departments.

Albertson's appointed Gordon Berggren to manage the new operation. Berggren, who in recent years has traveled for the company as district manager, opened the first Lubbock store at 3249 50th St. in 1971.

The new store will employ approximately 100 persons and will operate 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

The Lubbock retail units are part of Albertson's Southco Division, which is headquartered in Orlando, Fla. The parent firm maintains its home offices in Boise, Idaho.

The Southco Division's food-drug retail outlets throughout Texas and Louisiana range in size from 47,000 to 55,000 square feet. Store space is normally allocated equally between food and drug sectors, with cosmetics, household appliances, cameras and toys also included in the mix.

Albertson's has scheduled a four-day program of specials in conjunction with its opening. Items range from food to home improvement supplies.

Iranians Report Attack On Shah

A-J News Services

TEHRAN, Iran — The head of Tehran's revolutionary court said today Iranian guerrillas attacked and slightly injured Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi in the Mexican city of Cuernavaca but "the jackal ran away this time."

In Mexico, federal authorities and local police in Cuernavaca, a resort 50 miles south of Mexico City, denied that there had been an attack. However, a Mexico City newspaper, Diario de Mexico, reported a helicopter attack on the shah's Cuernavaca retreat Tuesday night. No injury to the shah was mentioned. Other Mexican newspapers did not carry the report.

Mark Morse, an official spokesman for the shah, denied the report. He said a helicopter he believes had been hired by photographers flew low over the house several days ago but "that there were no shots fired in either direction."

"No one has made any attempt on the shah," Morse said.

Ayatollah Sadeq Khalkhali, who announced a reward earlier this month for the assassination of the exiled shah, said the deposed Iranian monarch was attacked as he rode in his car near his Mexican resort compound. Khalkhali said the car in which the shah was riding was destroyed.

"The jackal ran away this time, but he will not escape unharmed next time," Khalkhali told The Associated Press by telephone from his home in Qom, 100 miles south of Tehran.

He said the guerrilla group he heads, the Islamic Fedayeen, was stepping up its plans to assassinate the shah.

"He (the shah) must know that he will never escape from the clutches of the Islamic Fedayeens," Khalkhali said. "Even if he hides in a small corner of the White House, we will pull him out."

Last week, Khalkhali said anyone willing to kill the shah would receive a reward of $143,000. Previously, Khalkhali reported signing a death verdict against the shah, his wife and several other members of his family and said that assassins had been sent to Mexico to carry out the deed.

Giant Store Opens Near Loop 289

Grand Central, which deals in a wide variety of merchandise ranging from appliances to seasonal goods, traces its origin to a grocery business founded in 1926 by Maurice Wuarshaw.

The firm made a transition from groceries into the mass merchandising field in 1946 and currently is a publicly owned company listed on the American Stock Exchange. Headquarters are Salt Lake City, Utah.

Gaylen Binggeli, a native of Weston, Idaho, will head the Lubbock store, which represents the firm's 32nd retail unit. Binggeli has been with the company for seven years and was most recently store director in Albuquerque, N.M.

The new store contains approximately 82,000 square feet of floor space. It will be open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Other units are in operation in Utah, Idaho, Wyoming, Nevada and New Mexico, as well as another location in Texas.

The Lubbock store will stock general merchandise such as clothing, cosmetics, jewelry, candy, books, drugs, furniture, automotive supplies, hardware, cameras and film, clocks, sound systems, school supplies and toys.

Burt Skinner of Las Vegas, Nev., will serve the Lubbock operation as first assistant store director.

Deputies Probe Man's Shooting

By JACK DOUGLAS
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The bullet-riddled body of a 48-year-old Lubbock County man was found sprawled outside his home about three miles east of the city shortly after 7 a.m. today.

The dead man, victim of at least four .22-caliber bullet wounds in the chest and face, was identified as Arthur Williams Jr. of Route 1, Box 588.

Justice of the Peace Charles Smith ruled the death a homicide — the county's seventh of the year — and ordered an autopsy, which was to be performed this morning at St. Mary's Hospital.

Authorities by noon had not determined a motive for the killing and had no suspects, Chief Deputy Albert Smith said. A weapon had not been found at the scene.

A sobbing Maggie Stiggers, Williams' 62-year-old mother who witnessed her son's body, said, "I have no idea who could have done this." Mrs. Stiggers of 2701 E. Eighth St. said she had seen her son during the past two days and that he had not mentioned having any problems with anyone.

Preliminary investigation showed that Williams had suffered at least four bullet wounds — in the chest, chin, right portion of the face and in the upper part of the nose. Four spent .22-caliber shells were found next to the body.

Williams was found face up in his dirt driveway leading to the dead man's small stucco house. He was barefooted and clad in a green jumpsuit.

Smith said the victim may have been standing next to a vehicle lighting a cigarette when he was gunned down. Fresh tire tracks were found near Williams' feet, and a book of matches and part of a cigarette were found next to the body.

Williams apparently had been dead only a short time when he was found, according to investigating deputies. One dollar was found in the dead man's pants pocket and an empty wallet was found inside his residence.

Smith said there were no signs of a struggle inside or outside the house, and the dead man did not appear to have been dragged.

Persons living near Williams' house who were questioned by deputies said they did not see or hear anything out of the ordinary early this morning.

City tax appraiser Willie Kelly said he was at his property near the dead man's house about 7:15 a.m. today when a man confronted him and said he had found a body.

Executions Of Florida Inmates Stayed By Jurists

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A federal judge's order staying the execution of Charles William Proffitt — one of two men who had been scheduled to die this morning — has shut the door, for this week at least, to Florida's execution chamber.

U.S. District Judge W. Terrell Hodges ordered a stay of execution Tuesday and referred Proffitt's petition for a writ of habeas corpus to a U.S. Magistrate in Tampa for a recommendation on whether an evidentiary hearing should be held.

Their death warrants were signed last June 19 by Florida Gov. Bob Graham. They expire at 12:01 a.m. EDT Friday. The two had been scheduled to be put to death by electrocution at 7:00 a.m. today — first, Sulligan, then Proffitt.

Lawyers for both Proffitt, a slim 33-year-old warehouse laborer, and Sullivan, a burly 31-year-old former University of Miami business administration student, alleged their clients had "ineffective counsel" at their trials.

Proffitt was convicted of fatally stabbing Joel Medgebow, a Tampa high school wrestling coach, during a 1973 burglary, and Sullivan was convicted of the 1973 shotgun slaying of Homestead motel manager Donald Schmidt.

Even before he had seen Hodges' stay order, Florida Attorney General Jim Smith said he would not jet around the country to fight the most recent execution stays as he did successfully in the case of John Spenkelink last month.

Smith flew in the governor's jet plane to Washington, New Orleans and Atlanta, where higher courts overturned the last legal barriers to Spenkelink's electrocution May 25, two days after the original execution date.

Proffitt, who was with members of his family when prison officials notified him of the stay, was described as being "elated" by a family spokesman. Like Sullivan before him, he was taken from a holding cell outside the death chamber at Florida State Prison's "Q" wing back to his former cell on Death Row.

At a press conference Tuesday afternoon inside the prison, Sullivan said, "I don't envision any execution in Florida for at least 18 months. The next execution will be in Texas in 1980."

Both Proffitt and Sullivan had exhausted all of their avenues of appeal in state courts, and had turned to the federal courts as their last resort.

In his opinion, Hodges, who last month issued a similar execution stay on a habeas petition from Willie Jasper Darden, noted that Proffitt's petition for habeas relief was the first he had presented to a federal court.

In Tallahassee, the Florida Cabinet, acting as the state Clemency Board, commuted the death sentences of Learie Leo Alford and Clifford Hallman to life in prison. Graham had recommended the commutations.

Judge To 'Review' Begelman's Film

BEGELMAN

Begelman, 59, showed his film on the dangers of PCP, or "angel dust," to Judge Thomas C. Murphy on Tuesday. Murphy didn't "review" the film immediately, waiting until today's court session to decide whether to take Begelman off the probation he was given last year on convicted of forging $40,000 in studio checks.

Production of the movie was the key condition Murphy imposed on the film executive when he decided against sending Begelman to jail. It eventually will be provided free to schools, community groups and law enforcement agencies.

The film, narrated by Joanne Woodward and Paul Newman, also was viewed by Deputy District Attorney Sheldon Brown who said he thought the movie was "impressive and very professionally done."

But, said the prosecutor, he still planned to oppose the motion to end Begelman's probation.

Alan Ladd Jr. Leaving 20th Century

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Alan Ladd Jr. earned almost $2 million a year and was responsible for the production of "Star Wars," the most successful movie ever. But he's stepping down as president of 20th Century-Fox Pictures when his contract expires.

LADD

Ladd, 41, will not renew his contract after Dec. 31, 1980, because of the burden of administrative work, according to Dennis Stanfill, the studio's chairman of the board.

"This prevented him from giving as much time to the production and marketing of pictures" as he would like, said a studio announcement Tuesday. Ladd also resigned from the Fox board of directors, effective immediately.

A decision about Ladd's successor will be made later, Stanfill said. Ladd, the son of the late actor Alan Ladd, joined 20th Century-Fox in 1973. Ladd earned $1.9 million last year.

Queen Mother Visiting Canada

HALIFAX, Nova Scotia (AP) — For England's 78-year-old Queen Mother, Elizabeth, it's a week of ceremonial duties in Canada and then off to the races.

The Queen Mother is in Canada to open on Thursday the International Gathering of the Clans, the kickoff to a summer-long festival.

She was to present today new flags to Canada's Maritime Command on behalf of her daughter, the Queen. The presentation of a new color is a time-honored tradition of the Canadian military. The color will be used by naval units of the Canadian Forces.

Then Queen Mother heads to Toronto, and on Saturday she will attend the 120th running of the Queen's Plate, Canada's richest horse race.

Plates Even Up Odds

MANTUA, N.J. (AP) — For four years, Edward Thiel never thought to compare the front license plate on his car with the back. But then odd-even gas rationing struck and too late Thiel discovered he owned a minor miracle.

The Lighter Side Of Today's News

Thiel had mistakenly received one odd- and one even-numbered license plate. But instead of being allowed to buy gasoline on any day under the state's ration plan, he was almost bounced from a neighborhood service station — compact car and all.

Thiel reached the pumps after a brief wait Friday, an even day, and the attendant dutifully checked the rear license plate — 882 GTH.

"He was shaking his finger at me and telling me never to come to his station again," Thiel said. The dealer was pointing at the front license plate. Confused, Theil got out and looked — 883 GTH.

Digging through his wallet, he found the registration card. It agreed with the rear plate the dealer hadn't seen.

"I guess that guy thought I was trying to cheat him or something. But I showed him the registration and he apologized," he said.

Gasoline Storage Warning Renewed

WASHINGTON (AP) — You may have already heard this, but the United States Fire Adminstration keeps getting inquiries so it is repeating its warning: don't store gasoline in your car trunk.

"Depending on the heat within the trunk, gasoline can rapidly expand, releasing flammable vapors. Then, any type of spark can cause an explosion," said Administator Gordon Vickery.

Home storage of fuel for a lawn mower or other power tool should not exceed one gallon, in an approved container, he added. This should always be kept away from any source of heat and only approved safety cans should be used.

"I know the possibility of running out of gas is a worry to all of us. Yet, the possibility of an explosion, endangering the lives of loved ones, certainly exceeds the need for extra gallons of gas," Vickery said.

Judge Wants To Know If Lee Marvin Lied

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Superior Court judge says he wants to know if Lee Marvin lied under oath during the actor's landmark court battle with his former live-in lover, Michelle Triola Marvin.

Judge Arthur Marshall has asked the district attorney to launch an investigation in response to Marvin's published comment about his testimony: "I learned how to lie."

Deputy District Attorney John Kildebeck, heading the investigation, sat in a front-row seat Tuesday during a stormy hearing in which Marvin Mitchelson, Miss Marvin's lawyer, claimed the actor had "sullied the judicial process...and insulted this court."

"We will be performing a complete investigation — everything we think can shed light on whether a material misrepresentation or lie was made under oath," Kildebeck told reporters.

The investigation is expected to begin today.

He said perjury is a felony and anyone found guilty of the crime can be sent to prison.

Mitchelson asked that the judge reconsider his award of $104,000 to Miss Marvin, increasing it if he finds that the actor lied about their relationship.

Miss Marvin, a former singer who lived with the actor for six years, had sued him for $1 million, saying she was entitled to part of the money he made while they lived together.

The probe came in response to a column by Jimmy Breslin published in the New York Daily News on April 22. It told of an interview with the actor about his court fight with Miss Marvin and its resolution.

The column contained this exchange as reported by Breslin:

"The only thing that I really got out of it (the trial) was that I learned how to lie," he said.

"Lee," his wife said.

"That's true. I learned how to lie. You had to. Everybody lied. Wtinesses, lawyers. I never knew that's how they do it."

"Didn't anybody tell the truth during the trial?" he was asked.

"Of course not," he said.

In an affidavit, Marvin insisted he didn't mean he had lied in court. Breslin supported him in another affidavit.

But Mitchelson said, "Those are the words he used. If there is any doubt, let us subpoena Mr. Breslin and his notes."

Marvin's lawyer, A. David Kagon, reacted angrily and later asked the judge to extend the probe to whether Miss Marvin lied at the trial. The judge refused.

"You may make any charges you wish," Marshall told him. "But right now the court is acting on charges made against your client.

Proxmire To Continue Award

WASHINGTON (AP) — "The Golden Fleece will go on," vows Sen. William Proxmire. "I will issue another award next month and shall continue to issue them."

The Wisconsin Democrat, who regards his monthly "fleece" awards as a major weapon in his war against wasteful government spending, said he would not be deterred by a Supreme Court ruling that the target of one of his citations could sue the senator for libel.

"Nothing in the court's decision will inhibit me ... I feel no constraint, none, in continuing the fleece awards as I have in the past," said Proxmire in a statement issued a few hours after the court announced its decision.

The first senator to undergo a hair transplant, the senator who runs five miles to and from work, the senator who hasn't missed a roll call vote since April 1966, the senator who has spoken at every Senate session for 12 years to urge approval of the genocide treaty — that senator is not easily inhibited or discouraged.

That senator has been described as a loner, as antisocial, even, as an eccentric.

"All those things are true," Proxmire once said in an interview. "I don't like the term eccentric because it implies that you are off yourrocker. I call myself a pragmatic eccentric."

His monthly Golden Fleece awards are directed at what he calls the most outrageous examples of wasteful spending of tax money.

Projects singled out by Proxmire include a $3,000 study of whether Air Force men should be permitted to carry umbrellas, a $2,500 study of why people are rude on tennis courts and a $222,000 study of motorists' attitudes

Agency Reports Gain In Savings Deposits

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government regulatory agency has reported that savings deposits at the nation's thrift institutions grew $1.6 billion in May, a sharp recovery from the $1.5 billion savings outflow of the previous month.

Kenneth Biederman, chief economist at the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, this week said that although the May performance was an improvement from April, it was the poorest savings gain for the thrifts since April 1978.

The fgures are watched closely because of the important role savings and loan associations and savings banks play in the financing of housing.

The loss of savers' dollars means that the thrifts have less to lend for home mortgages, and that can depress housing construction and re-sale.

Biederman said the outflow in April — the largest on record and the first since September 1974 as the economy was sliding into recession — was due to heavy passbook withdrawals.

That would suggest, he said, that Americans were probably withdrawing to pay taxes or to purchase durable goods.

New savings had exceeded withdrawals by $3.1 billion in March, bank board figures show.

A statement from the U.S. League of Savings Associations, an industry group, said "the minimal savings growth in May, coming immediately after a month in which savings associations experienced a loss of deposits, will unquestionably result in further pressure on the availability and cost of mortgage funds."

The league attributed the modest May performance to lower demand for six-month savings certificates.

Pair Says Spraying Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two residents of Scottsdale, Ariz., testified today that pesticides sprayed on crops near their neighborhood caused serious illness to members of their families.

Susan Watkins and Mrs. Claude Prosnier told a House Commerce investigations subcommittee that local authorities have refused to take any action despite repeated reports of leukemia, respiratory infections, headaches and asthma among area residents.

Mrs. Prosnier estimated about 3,000 families in an area adjacent to cotton fields have been affected by chemicals sprayed "almost daily" from crop-dusting airplanes.

She said the spraying of organic phosphates continues, despite evidence that the chemicals are a health hazard.

Mrs. Prosnier heads an organization of 500 persons who have tried unsuccessfully to get government action to limit or halt the spraying.

Miss Watkins said the spraying often is so heavy it is impossible for residents to go outdoors. At one point, she said, her year-old son had a 107-degree fever and he suffered a seizure.

Two veterans exposed during the Vietnam War to a defoliant called Agent Orange told the subcommittee Tuesday that children born to them since they returned from the war have all had birth defects and unexplained serious illnesses.

The veterans, Michael Ryan of Stoneybrook, N.Y., and John Woods of Hempstead, N.Y., also complained of ailments themselves — such as sudden loss of weight, migraine headaches and skin rashes.

Referring to the military's extensive use of Agent Orange in Vietnam to clear away thick vegetation and underbrush, Ryan said: "We were human guinea pigs." He said his 8-year-old daughter was born with 18 birth defects.

Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., chairman of the subcommittee, said Tuesday he has asked Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr. to study the health effects of Agent Orange and similar chemical compounds.

"I have been struck by the paucity of human health data collected to date," said Eckhardt in a letter to Califano. "I am quite frankly puzzled that an epidemiology study on the health effects of dioxin-contaminated phenoxy herbicides has not been conducted utilizing American service men exposed to these products during the Vietnam War."

Dr. John A. Moore of North Carolina, an official with HEW's National Institutes of Health, confirmed Tuesday that dioxin chemicals, which are found in Agent Orange, cause birth defects and cancer in mice, monkeys and other laboratory animals.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Ravel In Security Blanket

ONCE A venerable breed commanding great deference, chairmen of committees in the House of Representatives complain today that their influence does not reach very far. One reason may be the fact that their ages and lengths of service in Congress set them apart from most of the membership.

The mean age for House committee chairmen at this point is 62 years; the mean age of the House membership is 49.5, according to a research report of the Foundation for the Study of Presidential and Congressional Terms.

Chairmen have served an average of 25 years; the average service for the whole House is slightly less than 9 years.

A similar gap exists in the Senate where mean age of committee chairmen is 65, versus a mean age of 53 for all senators.

THE AVERAGE service for the current Senate membership is less than 10 years, but Senate committee chairmen have served an average of 23 years.

And the gap isn't likely to close, judging from similar comparison for House and Senate members next in line to assume committee chairmanships.

In the House, the next highest ranking committee members have served an average 23 years, and have a mean age of 60 years. Among the next highest ranking senators, the average service is 24 years, and the mean age stands at 66.

"In both houses the chairmen represent the survivors, those who have attained the Valhalla of congressional service by fending off challengers and holding on to their seats long enough to claim real influence," foundation researchers observed.

If the chairmen are older than most members, it is because they had to wait a long time to reach the top of the senority ladder.

"GEORGE MAHON, D-Tex., who retired at the end of the last Congress after distinguished service as chairman of the House Appropriations Committee," the group noted, "did not inherit that post from Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., until he was 65."

The man who succeeded Mahon in January, Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., is 69.

It is true that three unpopular House chairmen have been ousted by the Demo Caucus exerting the reform power voted in 1973. And it is true that chairmen are obliged to defer more often to the will of their committee majorities.

Nevertheless, the foundation study makes a convincing case that the chairmen's largest liability may be their long wait to attain eminence. It's possible if not probable they are presiding over members who tend to see them as Nestors, not as contemporaries.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

Kenneth May

Ready For Teddy?

WHEN THE ULTRA-LIBERAL Americans for Democratic Action attack a Democratic President, it normally would mean:

(a) He's not doing as bad a job as the moderates and conservatives perceive him to be doing; or

(b) He's asked the ADA to come out against him, and it has obliged, in hopes its opposition will be enough to re-elect him.

In the case of President Jimmy Carter, though, the ADA is merely parroting the widespread perception that he is well-meaning but inept.

"Inadequate Presidential leadership," the ADA labeled Carter's performance in urging Sen. Ted Kennedy to challenge him for the 1980 Democratic nomination.

Texan John C. White, Democratic National Chairman, promptly noted that the ADA similarly opposed Harry S Truman in 1948 and Lyndon B. Johnson in 1968.

It is dissatisfied with the nation's drift toward socialism and wants the President to take an activist socialist stance on domestic issues.

Kennedy, the ADA figures, would do just that.

"If Senator Kennedy chooses not to run, we further commit ourselves to seeking an alternative progressive candidate who can uphold the principles of the Democratic party and offer effective, progressive leadership," the ADA resolved at its weekend convention in Washington.

"Progressive" is the organization's euphemism for radical.

This long-standing commitment was outlined by ADA's national director, Leon Shull, in a 1976 issue of ADA World.

"ADA HAS LONG HELD the conviction that it is possible to bring about a far-reaching redistribution of power, wealth and income with the tools at hand," Shull wrote.

He added:

"The great masses of private wealth, which characterize our society, are in fact a symptom of social disease, an imbalance which increasingly hampers the operation of the social machine...

"We must learn about resources allocation; we must begin to understand the dynamics of income and wealth distribution...Social goals must in fact precede economic policy."

In line with that leftist philosophy, the ADA on Sunday lashed Carter for increasing defense spending and cutting domestic programs.

"HIS WARPED BUDGET priorities reflect a thoroughgoing desertion of the 1976 platform...," the ADA alleged in accurately describing the radicalism of that platform.

"At stake is the future of the Democratic Party as the party of the people," the ADA resolved.

To some, it seems the ADA uses "the people" in very much the same connotation as it is used in such phrases as "The People's Republic of China."

Were the ADA to have its way, the free enterprise system would give way to total government control over all our wealth and resources.

It is significant, and disturbing, that it faults Carter mainly for being "inadequate" in leadership in achieving ADA goals; it doesn't accuse him of opposing those goals.

Maker Of MX Marks The Spot

WASHINGTON—Up till now the world's deadliest weapon, the thermonuclear MX, is also the world's best hope of partial disarmament.

Paradoxically, President Carter and some senior Defense Department officials chose the biggest of the new super-missiles because it brought the biggest pressure on the Russians to be reasonable when time for SALT III comes around in the mid-1980s.

SALT III is supposed to be the treaty which makes an earnest effort at Arms Limitations.

Nobody, of course, can be sure, and very few knowledgeable persons agree, that the USSR will behave in a reasonable and logical fashion.

For that matter, some of us who heard an off-record briefing on the MX and its subterranean basing system were not able to make the briefing officer tell us who designed MX.

AT LEAST ONE of us came away with the conviction that the designer must have been Boob McNutt. Not since the Civil War has the term underground railroad forced its way into the language.

But there is nothing else to call the tracks that whisk the 190,000 silo-busters at the speed of a mile a minute from one haven to another.

The huge vehicles which carry the missiles can change hiding-places while an enemy projectile is airborne across the ocean.

Given these elements, which seem nothing less than scenes from the Theatre of the Absurd, it does not appear out of sense that Carter, whose career-ambition is to exterminate all nuclear weapons, should have picked the most mammoth of weapons with 10 MIRVs of 335 kiloton thermonuclear warheads, enough to demolish all the Soviet missiles in their hardened silos, or to wipe out "soft" targets of women and children in their cities.

It doesn't sound like a born-again peace lover unless you line it up with the Boob McNutt contraption and all the rest.

BUT CARTER CHOSE the weapon he did, I think, because he knew that the MX, while still on the drawing board, is rated as having greater striking power than our current Minute Man III, and greater than the Russian heavyweight SS-18.

But the MX will not have its first test flight until 1983, and will not become operational until 1989.

Warned by Pentagon scientists that the Soviet SS-18 will not stand still, and may increase its wallop within the next few years, Carter evidently decided to meet Brezhnev at Vienna with the mightiest man-killer allowed under SALT II.

Will Brezhnev agree to plan for a decrease in lethal kilotonnage for SALT III in 1985? There is a school of thought which holds that the Soviets have reached a limit in military spending, or are close to it.

They need to find a way to let down after 15 years of steady increase in their arms budget and starving of the domestic economy. Foreign adventuring has added to the expense, and Cuba has never become self-sufficient.

There is even talk that the Soviet Union is only half Russian and that the non-Russian "republics" are restive—for instance, the Ukraine and Georgia.

The only thing certain in all this is that Carter has chosen to put the U.S. ahead in the size of multitude-killer missiles. The MX has scared a lot of peace-mongering Americans, and it might just disturb the President of the Soviet Union.

Sylvia Porter:

Basic Medicare Aid Not Part Of Support

(Sixth of seven columns)

IF YOU'RE supporting a parent, the U.S. government has some unexpectedly good news for you.

Due to a new U.S. ruling, what your mother or father receives in Medicare can no longer hurt your chances for claiming your parent as a dependent on your return.

You wind up a double winner:

(1) Medicare relieves you of part of the financial burden of supporting your mother and/or father.

(2) But you don't lose out on the $1,000 dependency deduction.

FOR INSTANCE, SAY your mother receives $5,000 in basic Medicare benefits in 1979 and also gets $3,000 in Social Security. You provide all the rest of her support needs—$4,000.

Until now, the government's position was that you are not entitled to a dependency deduction for mother under those conditions.

The IRS explained that the $5,000 your mother received in Medicare must be added to her Social Security benefits when totaling the support she provided for herself.

What you gave her for support amounted to less than half that total—$4,000 out of $12,000. And the rule is that you can't claim your mother (or any relative) as a dependent if you don't provide more than half the support.

But the U.S. has reversed itself. In the new ruling, it says that basic Medicare benefits do not count as support.

FOR DEPENDENCY purposes, all the support your mother receives consists of the $4,000 you contribute plus the $3,000 she gets from Social Security.

So you meet the more-than-half support test and get the dependency deduction as well.

Q. How about benefits received under supplementary "Part B" Medicare? Do they count as support?

A. No. Supplementary Medicare benefits always have been treated as other health insurance benefits have been—not taken into account in figuring how much support your mother receives.

However, the supplementary Medicare PREMIUMS (the amounts deducted from your mother's Social Security check) do count against you. They're treated as support she provides herself.

Q. MY MOTHER RECEIVES both Medicare and Medicaid. Is Medicaid also disregarded in figuring her support?

A. No. Government benefits that are based on need—such as Medicaid payments—do count as support. They are considered support provided by the recipient.

Caution: While Medicare can no longer knock out a dependency deduction, other items might. For instance, Social Security benefits spent by your parent work against you when figuring your parent's support.

And Social Security benefits are scheduled to rise 9.9 percent in July, a few days from now.

Do not overlook this increase in Social Security benefits to your parent or parents!

A FEW EXTRA dollars might be enough—by themselves—to cost you a valuable $1,000 dependency deduction for 1979.

This one point is complete justification for the scheduling of this save-on-taxes-now series in mid-year.

Countless numbers of adults who dutifully support their parents year after year have in the past few years ignored the annual hikes in the payments to their parents—and by so doing have discovered far too late (in the following year, when they are filing their returns) that they have, because of their ignorance or apathy, forfeited a valuable deduction upon which they had counted.

Don't let this happen to you in 1979, when the dependency deduction is up to a new, tax-saving high of $1,000 each.

Your tax strategy now: Make a complete list this summer of all items that go toward your parent's support, urges Prentice-Hall.

Compare how much you spend on your parent's support with what your parent spends on his or her own support.

A HELPFUL STEP: Obtain Form 2038 from the Internal Revenue Service. This is a questionnaire that covers all the requirements for getting a dependency deduction for an individual other than your child.

The form contains a worksheet for computing support. After filling out this form, you will have a clear blueprint of how much you will need to contribute in the months before the end of 1979 to meet the more-than-half support test and to nail down the deduction.

Tomorrow: How to Make a Tax-Free Profit on Home Sale.

So They Say...

Overheard: "He's the kind of person who is very seldom in doubt but very often in error."

A budget is what you stay within if you go without.

John D. Lofton:

John Wayne--The Last Cowboy

WASHINGTON—In his biweekly column in The Washington Post, two days before John Wayne died, Mr. Henry Fairlie, a transplanted Englishman, waspishly denounced the idea of Congress striking a medal to honor the movie actor:

"John Wayne has contributed nothing to the welfare or progress of the American people beyond what has been demanded of him in the normal pursuit of his career and its pecuniary rewards; he has set no example of exceptional endeavor or duty which mothers might repeat to their infants to excite them to lives of civic virtue; the sad fact that he is dying of cancer is of no relevance in determining whether he should be singled out for one of the highest awards of the state. It is impossible to discover any tenable ground for bestowing the honor."

POOR FAIRLIE. The fact that he would write such tripe demonstrates that he is incapable of understanding what John Wayne meant to millions of Americans.

His maladroit analysis of the meaning of John Wayne calls to mind what happened when a highly sophisticated computer was programmed to translate English idioms into foreign tongues.

The phrase "out of sight, out of mind" reemerged in Japanese as "invisible, insane."

Based on his observations about John Wayne, it seems not overly unjust to say of Fairlie what the German poet and critic, Heinrich Heine, once said of a contemporary: "Generally, he is insane, but he has his lucid moments, when he is merely stupid."

JOHN WAYNE symbolized the authentic American hero.

He was the personification of the quintessential "Go-Getter," described by Dr. Daniel Boorstin in his book "The Americans: The Democratic Experience."

"The Go-Getters made something out of nothing, they brought meat out of the desert, found oil in the rocks, and brought light to millions. They discovered new resources, and where there seemed none to be discovered, they invented new ways of profiting from others who were trying to invent and to discover."

Boorstin's description of a Go-Getter is a description of John Wayne:

"THE HERO of the western success saga was bright and enterprising, housing a strong character in a sturdy physique—the first American athletic idol. A hybrid of Davy Crockett and Horatio Alger, he could not have won his fortune without the agility to dodge Indian arrows, the stamina to ride for days, and the boldness to match fists with all comers."

John Wayne had a sense of humor and could poke fun at his own macho image. In a 1974 Harvard debate with a student audience, when asked if he looked on himself as the embodiment of the American dream, he replied:

"I try to look at myself as little as possible, friend." When asked his opinion of women's lib, he answered: "I think women should work anywhere they want." Applause. "Just so they have dinner ready when the man comes home."

IN 1978, JOHN WAYNE was an outspoken proponent of the treaties to give away the Panama Canal. In a column that took the form of an open letter, I accused him of having been had.

I corrected certain statements of his which I considered to be erroneous. In reply, I received a five-page, highly detailed rebuttal.

Suspicious of the degree of specificity with which he responded, I called his office in Los Angeles and asked his secretary if she would ask Wayne if anyone within the Carter administration had helped him prepare his answer to me.

Later in the day, a flustered secretary buzzed me and said that John Wayne was on the line.

Assuming that it was one of my practical-joker friends, who frequently call as either Martin Borman or Rudolf Hess, I picked up the phone and barked: "Make it snappy, Duke, I have work to do!" But it was the Duke. And for 15 minutes he chewed me up one side and down the other. It was an honor.

AN ARTICLE in the January 1976 issue of Encounter magazine, titled "Trans-Atlantic Letter to England," confessed that the English mind and character are "peculiarly susceptible" to "not arrogance alone, not frivolity alone, but an arrogant frivolity."

These words were written by Henry Fairlie, and I couldn't have put it better myself.

Did I say that John Wayne was a symbol of the quintessential American hero? Hell, he was the real thing.

PRODUCE GLUT IN CALIFORNIA — A vendor in the high volume open-air Grand Central Market in Los Angeles sells his wares Tuesday. The listed prices are five lemons for 25 cents, four pounds of nectarines for $1, four pounds of apricots for $1, two pounds of limes for 59 cents, four cantaloupes for $1, grapes for 59 cents a pound, four pounds of tomatoes for 50 cents and bing cherries for 49 cents a pound. The independent truckers shutdown is causing a glut of produce in the California markets resulting from the problems of trying to move the crops east. (AP Laserphoto)

Violence Slows Freight Flow

By The Associated Press

Gunfire, firebombs and rock-throwing plagued working truckers today as highway violence again erupted in the prolonged nationwide protest by independent haulers.

Meanwhile, growing fears of food shortages spread from the East to the Plains as California farmers, unable to get the trucks to haul crops to market, plowed fresh produce into the ground and some Midwestern meatpackers sent their workers home.

One trucker was wounded in Arkansas late Tuesday night, and police today reported three highway shootings in Illinois, truck firebombings in Indiana and New York and two rock-throwing incidents in Pennsylvania.

The driver of a flatbed truck was wounded by shotgun blast in Faulkner County, Ark., and authorities reported at least a half-dozen tractor-trailers damaged by gunfire and bottles elsewhere in the state. The trucker suffered buckshot wounds in the arm and face and was treated at a hospital and released.

Police arrested two men today in connection with two of three shootings that occurred on Illinois highways Tuesday night and early today. One trucker received cuts from flying glass.

In Gary, Ind., two unoccupied rigs were firebombed early today outside a nightclub. On Staten Island in New York, a firebomb was tossed into a moving tractor-trailer from a van, and the truck driver jumped from the rig and put out the fire with an extinquisher.

A planned peaceful shutdown of a truckstop near Akron, Ohio, turned violent Tuesday when the windshield of a truck was smashed and other truckers reportedly tried to roll barrels in the path of a rig leaving the station.

While truckers in Michigan picketed Green Bay packing plants Tuesday, a Manitiwoc trucking company reported nearly 200 tires punctured. At least 11 gunshots hit a truck being driven near Camden, S.C.; and in Alabama, a third man sought on charges of murdering a Teamster driver surrendered to authorities.

The truckers' protest, now in its third week, has had a serious impact on California's agricultural industry, which produces 40 percent of the nation's fruits and vegetables. And industry spokesmen told state legislators on Tuesday that the only way to solve the problem is to end the shutdown.

While drivers ended their protests in some areas and tightened their economic stranglehold in others, an Energy Department official said the Carteradministation could require an increase in diesel fuel production if refineries don't boost supplies.

The truckers seek lower diesel fuel prices, higher speed limits and an end to weight regulations that vary from state to state.

One trucker spokesman warned that the weekend violence in Levittown, Pa., sparked by the gasoline shortage and the truckers protest, was only the beginning.

"This country is heading for an emergency," said William Hill, chairman of the Independent Truckers Unity Committee. "We're going to have rioting in the streets as far as I can see."

But in North Carolina, Gov. Jim Hunt, speaking from the back of a big rig, persuaded drivers blocking a fuel terminal complex to disband.

"You are in the strongest position with regards to how people and public leaders feel about you," Hunt told drivers.

Governor To Meet Truckers

By The Associated Press

Texas truckers revved up for a meeting with Gov. Bill Clements in Austin today, after a spokesman for independent haulers assured truck company executives the independents want to settle their problem peacefully.

Truckers traveling in convoys from San Antonio, El Paso, Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston, Lubbock and East Texas were scheduled to meet with Clements in his private office at 11 a.m.

One security officer said the Department of Public Safety had received reports that as many as 2,000 trucks might converge on the Capitol in a busy downtown area.

Gov. Cliff Finch of Mississippi was riding with truckers to California to get a first-hand look at their fuel problems and was in the Dallas-Fort Worth area Tuesday.

In recognition of the truckers' protests against rising diesel prices, the Texas Railroad Commission held an unprecedented statewide meeting in Austin on Tuesday to discuss problems of the transportation industry.

General counsel Walter Caven of the Texas Railroad Association said fuel costs rose by 307 percent from 1967 to 1978 and "have been climbing by an unbelievable rate since January."

"If the railroads stopped running," Caven said, "this country would be completely paralyzed in less than 30 days."

Railroad Commissioner Mack Wallace said as a result of the energy shortage, "We are perhaps in more peril today than at the beginning of World War II — the only difference is we're not losing men on the battlefield. We're in a war for the economic survival of our nation."

Bill Hoadley of the South Texas Independent Truckers Association said independent truckers are "completely and totally shut down in the state of Texas because it is not profitable for us to operate."

He reminded truck company executives the independents' protest in Texas had been non-violent and no attempt had been made to interfere with motorists obtaining gas. "We can all work together and do so in a peaceful fashion," he said.

"It looks like the railroad commission is making a sincere effort to see that our problems are solved," said Hoadley.

"That's a beautiful attitude," said Railroad Commissioner John Poerner.

"We are dedicated to keeping up with increased costs" by raising freight rates and handling rate requests as rapidly as possible, he added.

Later, Hoadley told reporters the independent truckers association would seek a 40 percent increase in freight rates.

Wayne Cudd of Cudd Brothers in Wellington, a livestock carrier, protested calls for deregulation of the transportation industry. He said the effect "would be to increase the number of independent truckers involved in headlines about violence."

Strike Leads To Crop Losses

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Like farmers, city dwellers depend on trucks to haul produce from fields to supermarkets. With trucks now parked, farmers face million-dollar losses and consumers are looking at higher prices.

"We're moving headlong into a disaster-type situation," said Jack King of the California Farm Bureau Federation. He said Tuesday that losses have already been "in the millions" for California's $10.4 billion agriculture industry,which supplies 40 percent of the nation's fruits and vegetables.

And Karl Kristierson of the 1,650-acre Major Farms of the Salinas Valley said that while letuce was selling on California markets for less than the cost of production, Eastern consumers could be paying more than $1 a head by the end of the week.

King said the situation will have reached crisis proportions if the strike by the nation's independent truckers — who carry much of the farm produce to market — continues for another week.

Growers in other states also are becoming increasingly worried.

"Our situation is nearly desperate," said Mer Edmondson, fruit sales manager for Snowkist Growers in Yakima, Wash., where despite the use of rail lines, one grower said, the shipment of cherries has become a "day to day matter."

Sporadic shortages of meat and some fresh produce began appearing from the Midwest to the East Coast as meat packing plants closed and farmers were forced to watch their crops rot in the fields.

There has been panic buying at Pennsylvania supermarkets as consumers seek to stock up. Supplies at the New Haven, Conn., Food Terminal are at 50 percent of capacity and beef is critically short.

Tennessee livestock sales have been cut in half in some areas. "We just can't get pigs out of Tennessee," said a spokesman for the Putnam County Livestock Association.

"If we don't get some relief and some more trucks within the next few days, we'll have to start plowing under more and more crops and leaving fruit trees to rot," said Marshall Anderson, chairman of California's United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association, whose members handle more than 80 percent of the nation's fresh fruit.

While independent truckers represent only about 5 percent of the nation's total, they carry a disproportionate share of farm products. The shipment of many agricultural products is not federally regulated and farmers, themselves in a precarious business, hesitate to sign binding contracts with union drivers.

Because of the strike, said Anderson, canteloupe, tomatoes, potatoes, cucumbers, eggplant and bell peppers were piling up in Los Angeles storehouses, sending local prices plummeting while pinched supplies on the East Coast have sent prices soaring.

"It backs up," Anderson told a California legislative committee Tuesday. "Then when we have to lower the prices, it becomes unprofitable for the farmer to keep producing the merchandise.

Some Eastern States Considering 'Pump Now, Pray Later' Plan

By PETER MACKLER
Associated Press Writer

Some Eastern states are taking a "pump now, pray later" attitude to solve their fuel shortage, seeking next month's allocations to meet the clamor for gasoline this week.

And a 10th state — Pennsylvania — decided to institute odd-even rationing to help ease lengthening lines at gas stations. An aide to Gov. Dick Thornburgh said the statewide plan will begin at midnight tonight. Thornburgh is expected to detail the plan at a news conference later today, the aide said.

With many service stations already pumped dry, those still open drew 100-car lines in the New York City area on Tuesday. Gas was stolen in Pennsylvania, there were fights on lines in New York, and an elderly New Jersey man died when he was overcome by carbon monoxide while waiting for fuel.

Officials in New Jersey, Rhode Island, Connecticut and Maine have asked the major oil companies to advance dealers at least part of their July allocations to get through the month.

In New York, officials said they were were prepared to thumb their nose at federal regulations and dip into the state's emergency "set-aside" reserves for July to ease the gasoline crunch.

They later backed off and agreed to a plan whereby individual dealers may borrow against July allocations and the state will later reimburse them from its emergency reserves.

Rhode Island officials said only Shell Oil agreed to advance July allocations. There was no word yet on the responses in other states.

But officials conceded the plan could further tighten an already tight gasoline picture for next month.

"We believe we're in the midst of an emergency," said New York Energy Commissioner James Larocca. "It's a calculated risk."

Reports from some oil refiners indicated not much relief was in sight next month.

Mobil Oil Corp. said its July shipments will be 97 percent of what was shipped in 1978, but after making allowances for filling stations in high-growth areas, for state reserves and for agricultural and emergency cases, only 82 percent of last July's supplies will be available for general consumers.

Reports from five other oil companies in recent days showed their shipments will be as much as 19 percent below last July's levels.

Meanwhile, gasoline dealers are demanding the right to charge higher prices to meet inflation. Dealers in Pennsylvania are threatening to close up Thursday and in other states on Sunday.

And Maryland charged in a federal lawsuit that the Energy Department has failed to fulfill its congressional mandate to allocate gasoline equitably across the country.

Shale Oil Production 'Almost' Feasible

DENVER (AP) — Tucked beneath the peaks and buttes of western Colorado lies enough oil to keep the United States rolling along at its current gas-guzzling rate for another 500 years.

That's not new. The Indians knew all about "the rock that burns" and the Navy has been sitting on a major untpped reserve of shale oil in the area for half a century, waiting for the fuel's time to come.

What's new is that shale oil production may be almost commercially feasible, thanks to OPEC oil ministers and their $20-a-barrel price tags.

Almost is the key word, says Bob Cookston, mining manager for Tosco Development Corp. The costs of extracting oil sandwiched into shale — a rock made of compacted clay, mud or silt — are staggering.

"Technically, it's feasible now," he said, "but economically, it's marginal." Another five years, though, and shale oil-gasoline could well be available at the corner service station.

On Tuesday the House approved a measure to provide a multibillion dollar package of federal subsidies to get the nation's infant synthetic fuels industry off the ground. The vote was 368-25.

The bill, which still needs Senate action, would authorize the government to pay up to $3 billion in price supports for fuel made from shale, coal or other substances.

Tosco is the country's second-largest independent oil producer, one of about six oil firms involved in shale oil research. Along with Atlantic-Richfield as part of Colony Development Corp., Tosco has developed the first complete set of plans for a commercial plant.

For a plant that could produce 50,000 barrels a day, construction costs are estimated at up to $1.25 billion. Current technology might allow the shale oil to be mined, crushed, extracted and made ready for refining for maybe $7.50 a barrel.

Texas Motorists Handling Rationing Well

By United Press International

The "odds" may have temporarily had a better time of it than the "evens," but oddly enough, at least in the eyes of some pessimists, Texas motorists have handled gasoline rationing even better than expected.

However, travelers seeking an alternative to rationing via mass transit discovered in Houston that the MTA bus fleet, described earlier this year as the worst bus system in the nation, fell miserably short of being able to handle increased demands.

The gasoline lines, which often caused hour-long waits last week before Gov. Bill Clements' odd-even day rationing program went into effect, rarely exceeded four of five cars Monday and the lines were only slightly longer Tuesday.

A Houston Shell service station owner said odd-day motorists, because the program started on an odd-numbered day, didn't have to worry as much about running out of gas.

"The evens had to wait an extra day. Odd could have filled Sunday and yesterday too. Evens had to wait two days to get it," he said.

"And they're getting a lot more gas than the odds did," he said. "Instead of getting 10 gallons, they're getting 18."

While only Dallas, Tarrant and Harris counties were affected initially by Clements' program, the governor has said he will add Collin, Ellis, Brazoria, Montgomery and Fort Bend counties to the plan.

Motorists in the state's other major metropolitan centers — and all rural areas — have found gasoline readily available and the service station waiting line has been exceedingly rare outside Dallas-Fort Worth and Houston where motorists preferring to ride buses found 37 percent of the fleet was out of service during the opening day of rationing due to breakdowns.

"There has been a slight increase in riders, but we are running at near capacity at peak hours on all of our buses," said operations director Richard Drake. "There's no way to accommodate more" riders than can fit in the 354 buses running during peak hours.

For the MTA, which had a fourth of its fleet damaged in April floods during a crash program to buy new buses and upgrade maintenance facilities, the killing blow was the gasoline shortage.

"It (gasoline rationing) couldn't come at a worse time as far as we're concerned," Drake said.

But for the rationing plan, the biggest problem was expected to be enforcement. Clements and other state officials said they were counting on motorists to discourage cheaters from trying to buy gasoline on the wrong days and early reports indicated it seemed to be working.

"Yesterday the first car in line was even. First car today was odd. I had a bunch of odds come in," said the Houston service station owner.

"We just tell them we can't serve them until their day shows up. Most of them understand. If their gauge is on empty, I will help them out."

In Dallas, however, Robert Breem, manager of a Shamrock station, said, "I just really don't have time to worry about all that rationing stuff. The lines are down. The people aren't complaining, so I say, let's let it go the way it is."

In areas outside Dallas, Houston and Fort Worth, only 3 percent of the service stations are limiting customers' gasoline purchases, the American Automobile Association said.

In a survey of 415 stations, the AAA said 71 percent of the station operators planned to remain open on the fourth of July unless their fuel deliveries were delayed.

The AAA also found 13 percent of the stations were out of one or more grades of fuel, 2 percent more than the previous week and that prices continued to increase, rising a cent or more per gallon in a week.

U.S. Refiners Indicate Tight Fuel Supplies In July

NEW YORK (AP) — Gasoline supplies are likely to remain tight in July, reports from refiners indicate, even though Mobil Oil Corp. is boosting its gasoline output a bit.

Mobil said Tuesday that next month's gasoline shipments will be 97 percent of last July's levels. This month, Mobil's gasoline sales amounted to 95 percent of the gasoline it shipped in June 1978.

But that 97 percent figure shrinks considerably after allowances are made under federal rules for stations in high-growth areas, for agricultural customers and hardship cases, and for state "set-aside" reserves.

After providing for these special categories, Mobil said it actually would have 82 percent of last July's supplies available for general customers, up from this month's "individual" allocation of 80 percent.

Mobil, in a prepared statement, said the federal regulations, "although well-intentioned, are at least partly responsible for urban areas being burdened with a disproportionate share of the current gasoline shortages."

Continental Oil Co. (Conoco), said its refineries are running "at 100 percent of available capacity," but it will be able to supply only 82 percent of the gasoline it sold in July 1978.

Conoco predicted its gasoline sales through the end of this year will be about 85 percent of those in 1978's second half.

Problems at Conoco's Denver refinery continue to be a major reason for the company's shortage. The refinery, which has 9 percent of the company's domestic refining capacity, was severely damaged in a fire last year, and now is running at one-third its normal rate.

The company also said it formerly bought some of its gasoline on the open market for resale. If it were "to join the bidding" for scarce gasoline supplies Conoco's actions "would drive prices even higher and do nothing to increase overall supply," a spokesman said.

Many State Service Stations To Open July 4th

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas service stations will be selling gasoline on the Fourth of July, but motorists will be paying at least a penny more a gallon for the fuel than they did last week, says the American Automobile Association.

About 71 percent of 415 service stations across the state surveyed by the AAA indicated the would be open July 4th, but planned to continue their policy of closing Saturday night and all day Sunday.

The AAA said gasoline supplies for the last week in June will tighten in Austin and San Antonio while remaining about the same as last week for the rest of the state.

The price of self-service regular has risen to 80.3 cents a gallon, compared with 79.3 last week. Other new prices, and last week's costs, are:

Self-service unleaded 84.3, 83.4; premium 86.1, 85.7; full-service regular 82.7, 81.7; unleaded 86.7, 85.5, and premium 88.1, 87.2.

Diesel fuel soared 1.4 cents per gallon in the past week to 87 cents.

The survey showed that 75 percent of the stations will be closed Sundays, 72 percent weekday nights and 61 percent by 6 p.m. on Saturday.

While the station owners said the odd-even allocation system now used in Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth and counties bordering the big cities had reduced the length of lines at the gas pumps, almost none of them planned to change operating hours.

Finch Takes 18-Wheeler On Journey

BIG SPRING (AP) — Mississippi Gov. Cliff Finch took his 18-wheeler through the southwest flatlands today on his cross-country trip to learn firsthand about the problems of truckers.

Finch and his co-driver, trucker Clarence Harrison from Pearl, Miss., refueled at Big Springs and then pulled out for the long haul through vast West Texas.

"No one knew I could drive it," Finch said earlier Tuesday in Dallas, several hours after he left the governor's mansion in Jackson, Miss.

"I've learned a lot about truckers' problems," the 52-year-old Finch said in Texas. "I never knew how much truckers were being affected by the high cost of fuel."

Finch's truck had fallen in with a convoy of about 60 trucks, but fell behind when the governor and Harrison slowed to a legal 55 mph.

"The governor said he most certainly was traveling at 55 mph and the speed felt like 25 or 30 mph up in one of those trucks," said Robert Burns, Finch's press secretary.

Luxury Items In Great Demand In Canton, China

By WILLIAM J. HOLSTEIN

CANTON, China (UPI) — For the man on Canton's streets, the main concern is not socialist transformation or class struggle. It is the acquisition of luxury goods.

Although Canton is China's oldest center for trading with the West, the traveler is greeted with penetrating stares from the Cantonese, mostly directed at watches, cameras, shoes, stylish clothes and other trappings of Western civilization.

Chinese authorities are battling an upsurge in the smuggling of these goods into China and each traveler must fill out detailed forms upon entering and leaving the country to insure that he did not sell his highly sought luxury items.

Chinese shoppers in Canton's Nanfang Department Store cluster around new displays of jewelry. Japanese-made television sets began appearing in Canton's stores last year and each shipment is sold out as soon as it arrives.

The television craze extends into the countryside as well. A 25-year-old mother of three living in Lokang Commune near Canton was asked what she most wanted to buy for her primitive home.

"A television set," she replied without hesitation.

It seems clear the Chinese will judge the success or failure of Vice Premier Deng Xiaoping's (Teng Hsiao-ping's) modernization program on the basis of their acquisition of the "better things of life" — not abstract notions of steel production or fertilizer output.

The bulk of the few consumer goods that China does produce are offered to tourists, who provide China with an important source of foreign currency. The "Friendship Stores" set up for travelers feature the best fabrics, liquors, jewelry and other goods that China has to offer. Nanfang Department Store offers a mere fraction of these items.

To see Canton is to understand how far China must travel to reach its goal of transforming itself into a modern industrial power.

Water buffaloes plowing rice paddies can be seen on the ride from Canton's tiny airport. Although it is a city of 2 million persons, the lack of electricity at night makes Canton virtually dark in comparison with the neon glitter of Hong Kong.

Like most of China, Canton depends on coal as its major source of energy. The coal is brought by train from the north and dumped in large coalyards. Small trucks and bicycle-drawn carts take the coal to neighborhood distribution points, where residents pick up basketfuls to heat their homes and cook their food.

The result is that Canton, like London and other European cities earlier this century, is grimy and soot-blackened from the burning of coal, charcoal and wood.

Another major problem is transportation. The only cars on the road date back about 20 years and are allotted to Communist Party and military officials.

The streets are clogged with bicycles, crowded buses and ancient agricultural vehicles. An 18-mile ride to an outlying commune takes a full hour because of the congestion and pot-holed roads.

Most of Canton's houses are low slung, often nothing more than rows of one-story brick or stucco dwellings resembling an early urban resettlement project in the United States.

Most Cantonese wear loose-fitting tops and slacks with sandals, striking an entirely different image than residents of Peking or Shanghai who favor Mao-style suits. A few Cantonese women sport patent leather shoes.

After seeing Canton and environs, it is not hard to understand why more than 200,000 Chinese, mostly from Guangdong Province, will flood into Hong Kong by year's end at the current rate of emigration.

Crossing the border by train provides a stark contrast. On one side are villages, rice paddies and bamboo forests. On the other are skyscrapers, freeways and the constant din of jackhammers.

There is also a dramatic difference in salaries. The average Chinese makes about $360 a year, while the Hong Kong worker can expect to make at least 10 times that.

Ironically, the vestiges of the colonial past have been better preserved in Communist Canton than in Hong Kong, which is still a British colony.

When European traders returned to Canton following the Second Opium War, they built an island in the Pear River where they could live and work in safety. Work on Shameen Island was completed in 1858 and it was not until 1950 that the last Western trader was driven out.

The beautiful old homes from that era still stand with their broad verandas, turrets and ornate facades. Inside are wood parquet floors with high ceilings and ceiling fans whirling softly overhead.

The mansions have been taken over by the Chinese for a variety of offices, homes and military barracks. A Roman Catholic church built by the French has become a factory.

The island has an unhurried pace, compared with the rest of Canton. Old men play cards under the banyan trees along the river. Small boys play soccer or swim in the brown waters.

As a symbol of foreign privilege, Shameen has been destroyed. As a remnant of a colorful and sometimes turbulent past, it remains intact.

Rota Annulls 139 Marriages

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Sacred Rota, the Vatican's highest court, annulled 139 marriages during 1978, at least one of them because one of the partners was bisexual.

Vatican documents released Monday said the Rota refused to grant annulments in 66 cases last year, including some in which a wife or husband accused the other of sadism, transvestitism, fetishism or simple immaturity.

In annulling a marriage in which the husband was bisexual, the court said it reached its decision "because his bisexuality was charaterized by psychopathic behavior of the homosexual type."

In another case cited by the documents, a wife sought an annulment because her husband "is a man dedicated almost exclusively to his profession as a soccer player and is therefore immature."

The court refused to consider the argument, saying, "All forms of incapacity or immaturity must refer in a specific way to the genisis of the marriage, that is the moment of consent."

The documents showed that the Rota's caseload on annulment requests is rising. The 207 cases handled in 1978 compared to 169 the previous year.

PASSENGERS INJURED

TOKYO (AP) — A Japan Air Lines DC-8 jet carrying 151 Japanese tourists from Hong Kong to Chitose, in northern Japan, ran into violent air turbulence over western Japan, and 27 persons were cut and bruised when they were thrown from their seats, police reported. Officials said the plane plunged nearly 1,000 feet Monday but was not damaged.

Citizen Groups Call For Inflation Halt

WASHINGTON (AP) — A diverse coalition of 70 consumer, labor, church and senior citizen groups promised today to press President Carter and Congress to take immediate steps to try to halt inflation.

"The mood of the American people is one of disappointment and frustration," United Auto Workers president Douglas A. Fraser told 2,000 persons at a Washington conference. "Now I believe it is turning to anger."

Fraser told the coalition — Consumers Opposed to Inflation in the Necessities — that his union's workers will be asked in the next week or so to "express some of their frustration and anger" in letters to elected officials.

"We will ask the nearly 1.5 million men and women in the UAW across this country to lay down their tools and take their pens in hand and at their workplace send hundreds of thousands of messages to people in government who have betrayed their trust," Fraser said.

The union leader's call to action came at the start of an all-day anti-inflation teach-in by COIN, whose membership includes the AFL-CIO, the Consumer Federation of America, the National Council of Senior Citizens and the National Women's Political Caucus.

Economist Gar Alperovitz said COIN's proposals represented "a major first step toward controlling rapid price increases in food, housing, health care and energy."

The prices of these items have been going up at an annual rate of nearly 18 percent so far this year, he said.

"Either we will go after these most important prices or we will not control inflation," he said.

COIN is urging Carter and Congress to take steps ranging from food subsidies to controls on mortgage interest rates. These and other programs, COIN contends, could cut the annual inflation rate by three percentage points over the next 18 months.

The group's news conference today followed by less than 24 hours the government's announcement that consumer prices rose a dramatic 1.1 percent in May, the fourth straight month that saw prices up at least a full 1 percent.

COIN argues that inflation, like a tax, reduces a family's buying power. Last year's 9 percent inflation rate, for example, reduced what each consumer's dollar bought by 9 cents.

Of most concern to COIN are rising prices for food, housing, fuel and medical care, items that constitute approximately two-thirds of the average family's spending.

Food and fuel prices have been the most troublesome this year. Although food prices rose only a moderate 0.7 percent in May, each of the five preceding months registered gains of at least 1 percent.

House To Refuse Compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two House members testified today that if the Senate approves President Carter's bill to implement the Panama Canal treaties, the House will refuse to accept it.

Rep. Robert E. Bauman, R-Md., told the Senate Armed Services Committee theHouse will accept no substantial compromise in the proposed legislation it approved last week. The House bill generally would tighten U.S. control over the canal until it is transferred to Panama by the year 2000.

Bauman accused Carter of deliberately trying to undo the House bill by getting the Senate to approve his own, and called that "a tragic miscalculation."

Said Bauman: "If the legislation is changed substantially, there will be no legislation."

Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, agreed. He said that was "the mood of the House."

Both Carter's bill and the House bill would carry out treaties turning the canal over to Panama but in substantially different ways.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Armed Services Committee and himself an opponent of the treaties, told the House witnesses he doubted the House would really refuse to compromise.

"If there are differences, we'll try to reconcile them," Stennis said.

Carter's advisers told the senators Tuesday the House bill threatens to revive anti-American antagonism in Latin America and urged the Senate to return to the president's original bill.

But Carter's bill drew opposition from some senators on the committee, and several predicted the committee will approve something closer to the House bill.

The legislation would carry out treaties turning the Panama Canal Zone over to Panama Oct. 1 and the canal itself Dec. 31, 1999.

Sen. Carl Levin, D-Mich., who chaired Tuesday's committee session, predicted the panel itself will approve some sort of compromise.

But Rep. Roger W. Jepsen, R-Iowa, said, "I don't think the administration bill will come out of the committee. I think it will be close to the House bill."

And Sen. John W. Warner, R-Va., said, "I think it will be a close vote between the administration bill and the (House) bill."

President Carter lobbied for the House bill for fear of getting something worse or no bill at all. But immediately after it was approved, 224-202, last Thursday, he announced he would try to get a better bill from the Senate.

Deputy Secretary of State Warren Christopher told the Senate committee Tuesday provisions of the House bill violate the spirit or intent of the canal treaties, threatening to revive anti-American antagonism in South America.

The basic difference is that the House bill would require annual approval of canal expenditures by Congress while Carter's bill would have a semi-independent corporation run the canal.

Either way is permissible under the treaties but Christopher said other provisons of the House bill would violate the treaties' spirit or intent.

He said these include provisons that would:

—Assert Congress' right to yet refuse to turn over the waterway or other property to Panama.

—Prohibit any of the some $75 million in payments scheduled to go to Panama under the treaty if the president or Congress determines Panama is promoting revolution in other nations.

—Virtually eliminate $10 million due Panama in years canal revenue is high enough to make the payment.

Talmadge Decides To Testify

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Herman Talmadge has changed his mind and now says he will testify in his own defense to allegations of financial misconduct filed by the Senate Ethics Committee.

Talmadge also told the committee Tuesday he planned to present other witnesses in his defense.

The committee announced public hearings on the five allegations against the Georgia Democrat would resume July 9, but there was no indication when Talmadgehimself would take the stand.

The two major charges against Talmadge, outlined in six weeks of testimony, are that he knowingly overcharged the Senate some $50,000 for his official expenses and that he knew and profited from the diversion of campaign contributions.

Talmadge told the committee last week he would not present any defense to the allegations. His attorneys contended the case against him was so weak a defense was not necessary.

But that decision did not set well with the committee and several members publicly stated that Talmadge's testimony was essential.

After two closed sessions Tuesday, the committee unanimously and formally "requested" — but did not subpoena — Talmadge to appear before it in open session.

Talmadge's announcement came only hours later. In a two-page letter to the committee, he said he had hoped to rest his case with no defense "to avoid painful, private matters relating to my personal and family life."

He called it "unfortunate that the committee and the Senate will be burdened further by these proceedings. The committee's actions, however, have made additional hearings unavoidable."

Talmadge's testimony will be the first sworn statements he has given in public. His earlier testimony to the committee, in which he denied any knowledge of wrongdoing, came in closed sessions.

The committee reportedly is highly interested in Talmadge's testimony on the source of his spending money from 1971 through 1977.

Panel Says Companies Abuse Privacy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many of America's largest corporations collect medical information about employees and use it to make decisions on hiring, firing, promotions and other personnel matters, a new study shows.

The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee cited the study as it opened hearings today on the privacy rights of workers.

Sens. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., chairman of the panel, and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., said the evidence shows U.S. firms often abuse their employees' privacy rights when it comes to medical information.

Richard Beattie, an attorney for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, told the committee that most of the traditional protections for medical records were informal ones and have been lost now because the use of computerized information systems.

"Information is transferred, with or without the patient's consent, from one state to another," he said. "The maintenance, use and disclosure of medical information has beome a natonal business."

Beattie said few states have enacted laws to protect medical records and that "we need uniform protections across the country that people can rely on."

John Shattuck, an official of the American Civil Liberties Union, testified that "the erosion of medical privacy in this country has reached epidemic proportions."

Patients rarely can get access to their medical records, but they are frequently available to firms such as insurance companies and credit reporting agencies on demand, said Shattuck.

He complained that the authority the firms get is too broad "and there is no choice but to sign" the consent authorization.

"The use of recorded information to make judgments about people is something that has come into being in the last 10 to 15 years as computers and data banks have come into being," said Shattuck.

The survey, sponsored by the University of Illinois, drew responses from 74 companies employing a total of 2.5 million persons. The committee released the results in advance of the hearing.

More than three-fourths of the firms surveyed — 77 percent — responded "yes" when asked if they "collect and maintain any medical information about personnel for use in making employment-related decisions."

Number Of Cohabitants, Singles Rising Sharply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of unmarried couples living together has more than doubled in less than a decade, accounting for approximately 1.1 million U.S. households, the Census Bureau says.

Meanwhile, more than 20 percent of all households have only a single member as increasing numbers of young career-oriented Americans postpone marriage, according to a new bureau report.

The report on "Marital Status and Living Arrangements" issued Tuesday also disclosed a continuing increase in the number of divorces and predicted that half the children being born today will spend a significant part of their lives living with a single parent.

As of March 1978, more than one American household in five consisted of someone living alone, the study said. Total households in the country numbered more than 76 million.

Most of the growth in single-person households involved people under age 35, the report said, adding this "may reflect an increasing desire among young adults to seek advanced education and careers before marriage."

In 1970, the report said, 17 percent of the nation's households consisted of a single individual. By 1978 that had grown to 22 percent.

The bureau defines a household as a person or group of people living together in a house, apartment or other housing unit.

Sixty-two percent of these single-person households were maintained by women, although since 170 the proportion of men living alone has grown more rapidly than that for women.

The increase in unmarried couples living together is even more impressive, up 117 percent.

When I discovered that an air conditioner with an Energy Efficiency Ratio (E.E.R.) of 10 was twice as efficient as one with a rating of 5, it got my attention. Because with electric power at its present price and likely to go higher in the years ahead, twice as much cooling for my money makes real sense.

So shop for the higher E.E.R. rating when you buy any appliance and compare prices. Just remember that a higher E.E.R. means less electric energy required. And conservation of power is the only sure way to save on your electric bill.

Officials Tour Rebekah Home

CORPUS CHRISTI (UPI) — The Rev. Lester Roloff went to jail three times to keep welfare agents off the grounds of his homes for delinquent children, but those same state officials have now toured the Rebekah Home for Girls with Roloff as their guide.

This time, however, the home was nearly deserted as grimfaced agents from the Department of Human Resources walked through its halls. They told the tearful evangelist Tuesday the remaining five girls would soon have to leave.

The five were the last of about 400 children who left three Roloff homes during the past week at the climax of the six-year feud between the state and the fundamentalist preacher who said he would license the homes "when there are two-foot banks of snow in hell."

Most of the girls were sent to a Roloff home in Hattisburg, Miss., or home with their parents as part of a truce between Roloff and Attorney Oeneral Mark White. Roloff called it a "strategic withdrawal" in his long fight to keep the state from inspecting his facilities in Corpus Christi and Zapata.

Roloff, who preaches strict religious doctrines and anti-big government philosophy, indicated he hopes to reorganize his children's homes directly under his People's Church so that boys and girls might once again fill the empty dormitories and classrooms.

After losing his separation of church and state argument all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, Roloff defied a court order last week that would have closed the facilities by joining hands with a group of Bible-clutching preachers. The ministers held welfare officials at bay while the children were kept in a chapel.

After a two-day standoff, Roloff announced Friday he had worked out an arrangement with state officials to restructure his organization, putting the child care facilities under the aegis of the church instead of the corporation to avoid state licensing.

Meanwhile, County Attorney Mike Westergren said Tuesday he would ask the Nueces County grand jury to indict Roloff on a misdemeanor charge of operating child care centers without a license.

For the past month Westergren had been seeking a similar indictment against Roloff Evangelistic Enterprises, but said Tuesday he has broadened the request to include the 64-year-old preacher, himself.

Westergren said he originally planned to file a Class B Misdemanor charge against Roloff under a provision allowing him to bypass the grand jury if a citizen complains but "I never had anyone come forward with a desire to file such a complaint."

He said if Roloff was convicted he could receive a maximum six months in jail or a fine up to $1,000.

Westergren said he hoped the grand jury would act on his request for the misdemeanor charge against the fiery evangelist during its Thursday meeting.

Roloff Girls 'Visiting' Bethesda

HATTIESBURG, Miss. (UPI) — Operators of the Bethesda Home for Girls in southeast Mississippi have confirmed they have taken in some 20 former residents of a sister facility in Texas operated by controverisal evangelist Lester Roloff.

They maintained, however, the girls were just visiting the Mississippi home, which also was founded by Roloff, and would be there on a temporary basis.

"They're just traveling around on tour this summer and will only be here for three or four days," said Dorothy Barnwell, who operates the Bethesda Home along with her husband, Hubert, on a 211-acre vegetable farm about 15 miles south of Hattiesburg.

Mrs. Barnwell said Tuesdy the home could accommodate only 50 girls and the facility was near full capacity at the present time. She said construction of a new 50-bed wing was planned.

"It's a shame they're trying to close up Brother Roloff over there (in Texas)," she said. "Everybody has been real nice here. Some say they think we need a home like this in every county."

A federal district court in Texas recently ordered the Rebekah Home for Girls in Corpus Christi and two other child correction homes operated by Roloff in that state to be licensed or else closed, and the children turned over to state-operated facilities. There is no such licensing restriction in Mississippi.

Mrs. Barnwell said the Bethesda facility takes in girls who are hooked on drugs, have run away from home or have other problems. She said some of the girls, who generally range in age from 15 to 18, are sent to the home by the courts and some are brought in voluntarily by parents unable to cope with their problems.

Mrs. Barnwell said the girls usually stayed at the home for a year, during which time they are allowed to go to high school through an "American Schools" correspondence course and perform odd jobs on the farm.

She said solitary confinement is not used as a form of punishment at Bethesda nor are there "any beatings." She said, however, "spankings" are sometimes administered to girls who need to be disciplined.

"We go strictly by the Bible, which teaches 'spare the rod and spoil the child,'" said Mrs. Barnwell. "A child left to himself will bring disappointment to his parents. Nowadays, the philosophy is to let them have their own way.

"When girls come in here, we spend time with them and read the Bible to them," she continued.

HY GARDNER HAS THE ANSWER:

Glad You Asked That!

Q: Settle a bet. I say Gene Autry was the first singing cowboy to star in Westerns. My pal says it was Bill (Hopalong Cassidy) Boyd. Who's right? — Glenn Brady, Phoenix.

A: It's an impasse. You're both wrong! The first of the singing cowboys was Ken Maynard. Autry got his first opportunity to sing in a Maynard movie.

Q: What was the name of the Indian who played Jock Mahoney's sidekick in the TV series, "Yancy Derringer," back in 1958? — Bill Williams, Milwaukee.

A: He was billed as Pahoo-Ka-Ta-Wah. His real name was X. Brands!

A: Statesman-politician-President Harry S. Truman.

A: Pierino.

A: No. It wasn't Nicky Hilton Jr., it was Liz's studio, MGM, which squandered some $1,200 to create the billowy white satin gown.

Q: Isn't Britain's new prime minister, Margaret Thatcher, an old friend of former Gov. George Wallace? And don't they correspond frequently? — Mrs. M. Hite, Birmingham, Ala.

A: The two political in-fighters aren't exactly "old" friends. The spunky Wallace only met with Margaret once — when he visited her at her office in the Palace of Westminster on a goodwill tour of Europe in '75. He hoped it would make him more electable in the then-upcoming race.

No doubt, being a thoughtful Southern gentleman and diplomat, Wallace recently wrote to congratulate the Conservative party leader upon her stunning victory.

Recalling his grueling trip to Europe, he admitted the idea was proposed by an aide. "You can learn as much about Europe reading books and watching TV," he told reporters. "I didn't think it was all that necessary!"

Wallace, speaking with the Common Market commissioner, offered the opinion that he couldn't understand the fuss in Europe about Spain executing terrorists who killed policemen.

"We," he observed, "fought the Germans and the Japanese, but we've forgiven them. Why can't you forgive the Spanish?" We're told it was chillier than usual that October afternoon in London.

Reagan, Baker Lead Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Both Ronald Reagan nd Senate Republican leader Howard Baker were running ahead of President Carter in the latest ABC-Harris poll, with former Texas Gov. John Connally closing fast.

Reagan trailed Carter 47-45 percent in a similar sampling of voters in May but in June led by a 51-43 percent margin. Monday's poll showed. Baker, like Reagan an unannounced candidate for the GOP nomination, led the president by 1.0 point, 46-45 percent.

Carter still led Connally 52-41, but the gap had narrowed sharply since the 62-32 percent lead he enjoyed in March.

The survey said a majority of Democrats and independents — 58 percent — believe Kennedy would defeat Carter for the nomination.

Evangelist, TV Station Work Out Compromise

DALLAS (AP) — James Robison, a crusading evangelist whose television series was canceled after a program critical of the homosexual lifestyle, told an overflow crowd at Dallas' First Baptist Church Tuesday that he has reached an agreement allowing him to return to the airwaves.

Robison was canceled by WFAA-TV in Dallas, citing the Federal Communications Commission's fairness doctrine. His Feb. 25 telecast sparked protests from the gay community.

"We never objected to his being on the air," said Louise Young, president of the Dallas Gay Political Caucus. "We objected to his derogatory use of homosexuality in a politica context."

She said the caucus would not object to Robison's reinstatement but would "urge him to stick to the Bible and not the political."

Robison said he did not regard his agreement with WFAA-TV as a victory. "I'd like to just say God has answered prayer," he said.

The agreement was hammered out at the church just prior to services, a Robison aide said.

"I don't have to compromise my message or my convictions. We have a full understanding together. I feel like I can abide by any policy they have without compromising my message.

"They feel the very same way."

The agreement allows WFAA-TV to preview Robison shows prior to airing.

WFAA-TV general manager Dave Lane, who was in the church when Robison announced the agreement, said the pact was not finalized in that the date of Robison's return has not been pinpointed.

Robison aide James Huckabee said the evangelist's program would return in about two weeks.

"I'd frankly like to say that they've (WFAA-TV) been gracious and they've been concerned about the public...about the people here in Dallas," Robison said.

He said he would be sensitive to any broadcaster's position in the "hotseat of public skepticism."

"I hope that through the pressures of this experience that I have matured...that WFAA management has had some maturing experience, too. I think that it's been beneficial to both parties," Robison said.

Congressional Campaigns More Lavish After Election Reform

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When we built the interstate highway system, one of the goals was supposed to be rejuvenation of the cities by making it easier to get goods and people in and out of their congested centers.

Instead, we gave the suburbs a giant boost, and at least for a while, made things economically and politically worse for the established cities and the people who remained in them.

That was the kind of negative accomplishment that well-meaning planners have made infamous in recent decades. But it isn't just public works enthusiasts who get us into situations that are just as bad or even worse than the original predicament.

Public financing of election campaigns provides an example. Back in the heat of Watergate days, reformers jumped on the chance to get the "fat cats" out of politics by pushing public financing.

In fairness, it should be said that groups like Common Cause tried very hard to get across-the-board legislation that would cover congressional as well as presidential campaigns.

The Senate, in fact, approved congressional public financing. But opposition in the House was led by Wayne Hays of Ohio and he still had enough clout to stop the show.

The big public objection against public financing of congressional races was that it was a waste of taxpayers' hard-earned dollars. The real beef was from incumbents, who failed to see why they should vote to provide campaign funds for their opponents.

The reformers had to settle for financing of presidential elections only in 1974, although the same legislation did provide for new controls on private contributions to congressional campaigns.

Public financing for congressional campaigns was supposed to be the second step in the reform process.

Public financing of presidential campaigns passed in part because Congress wanted to demonstrte that it had no part of the hank-panky that was being disclosed in the White House. It is doubtful that many of the members of the Senate and House who voted for the bill did so because they saw potential windfalls for their own campaigns.

But that's what they got. With private donations to presidential campaigns barred, a lot more money went into congressional campaigns, especially in presidential election years when big contributors usually concentrated on the national contest.

Candidates for House and Senate, especially incumbents, now are able to put on increasingly more lavish and sophisticated campaigns as the economic and political special interests concentrate their funds on congressional contests. Some conressional candidates probably have come to think of the present situation as normal and all that new money from interest groups as their due. If that state of mind takes hold, no one should suspend breathing waiting for that second step to be taken.

Soviets Give Pensioners New Jobs

By DOUGLAS STANGLIN

MOSCOW (UPI) — At age 65, seamstress Olga Arkhipova can no longer operate the fast sewing machines that have been part of her trade for more than 30 years.

Under the Soviet system, she could have retired 10 years ago on a pension. But she wasn't ready to sit idly at home.

The Soviet Union, on the other hand, has a chronic shortage of workers.

The solution is an ambitious plan to find less strenuous jobs for retiring workers and allow them to continue feeling productive as long as their health will permit.

More than 1,000 factories in the Soviet Union are especially designed to provide jobs for pension-age workers. Most are in light industry where workers turn out toys, knitwear, or dresses and baby clothes.

"We give her lighter, simpler jobs," said Pyotr Viksman, director of the factory and himself a pensioner.

Olga, who wears thick blackrimmed glasses and has lost most of her teeth, works quietly and intently. But her eyes are bright and her smile warm.

"I'd rather be working here with others than just staying at home," she said, tugging at the needle with slim fingers.

Olga is able to draw both her pension and her salary to make $405 a month. That is $75 more than she was making as a fulltime worker, but most retired workers make less than they did at full scale.

Retirement age in the Soviet Union is 60 for men and 55 for women. Tamara Uzlikova of the State Commttee for Labor and Social Security says about 30 percent choose to quit work and go directly on pension.

Those who stay on can continue at the same job and at the same pace if their health permits. Others from heavy industries such as coal mining or whose health is deteriorating can work at one of the special retirement factories.

At the Mosshveya factory, almost half of the 2,000 workers are past retirement age. Another 300 pensioners and invalids work shorter hours at home on machines provided by the factory.

"We consider pensioners additional sources of working hands," said Miss Uzlikova, who heads the department of working pensioners. "This helps both economic and social needs."

Of the 110 million workers in the Soviet Union, one in ten is a pensioner who chose to stay on the job.

A research commttee frequently polls workers to determine job interests and where they might be placed as they move toward retirement age, Miss Uzlikova said.

A worker may attend one of 14 specialized secondary vocational schools, 50 vocational schools or six production and training centers that teach new trades to more than 13,000 people a year.

The name America was first applied to the Western hemisphere by the geographer Mercator in 1541.

Malaysia Rejects More Refugees

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The Malaysian navy towed 826 more boat people back out to sea today while almost twice that number arrived in Hong Kong harbor on 12 leaky boats.

The 826, mainly ethnic Chinese from Vietnam, were towed into the South China Sea Tuesday aboard eight boats. They were the latest flotsam from Malaysia's get-tough policy on refugees.

The government said it would maintain its strict enforcement policy and announced it has begun buying additional boats on which to expel the Vietnamese.

Malaysian Home Affairs Minister Ghazali suggested the problem of Indochinese refugees could be solved by establishing a large processing center for the fleeig boat people in te United States or another Western nation.

Ghazali told a news conference Tuesday night that if Western countries did not follow his suggestion Malaysia and Indonesia might establish their own refugee center on an Indonesian island. There are approximately 76,000 Vietnamese refugees in Malaysia and 34,000 in Indonesia.

Earlier this month, Malaysia announced a strict policy of blocking new arrivals of refugees and forcing those boat people who do get to shore back to sea. Since the policy began, officials said 77 boats carrying more than 14,457 refugees have been pushed back into international waters.

In Hong Kong, a government spokesman said 12 rickety boats arrived in groups Tuesday carrying 1,579 refugees. They were taken to a ramshackle government dockyard already packed with 10,000 boat people.

The British colony has nearly 57,000 refugees in its makeshift camps and the spokesman said at the current rate of arrivals, there will be more than 200,000 refugees by the end of the year.

A Japanese Red Cross official said 61 Vietnamese boat people entered the Bay of Tokyo on a Belgian tanker Tuesday night after being rescued last week from a sinking craft in the South China Sea. The refugees hope to settle permanently in Belgium, the official said.

A Vietnamese delegation has been visiting Southeast Asian nations this week to discuss the refugee situation. The various governments have expressed skepticism concerning a Vietnamese agreement negotiated with the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees. The agreement calls for the orderly emigration of Vietnamese who wish to leave to countries willing to accept them for resettlement.

The first 107 refugees designated under the plan arrived in Bangkok, Thailand Tuesday on a special Air Vietnam flight. The U.N. refugee office estimates there are 350,000 Indochinese refugees in temporary camps n Southeast Asia. Most of them are ethnic Chinese and claim they have faced Vietnamese discimination.

Most face overcrowded conditions in the various camps. Malaysian officials last week investigated a reported outbreak of Bubonic plague in the rat-infested Tengah refugee camp on Pulau Island. There was no confirmation of the disease, which is transmitted by flea-carrying rats. Health officials were taking steps to exterminate the estimated 19,000 rats and other vermin on the island. They did confirm several other viral diseases among the 9,500 refugees there.

BELONGINGS TAKEN BY PIRATES — Tran Thi Banh, 37, holds her child and cries after her arrival in Pulau Bidong, Malaysia. The Vietnamese refugee said that all her belongings were taken by Thai pirates three days ago during their voyage from Vietnam to Malaysia. The Thai pirates held the refugee ship for one day and night in Thai water. (AP Laserphoto)

DR. LAMB

Most Common Pain

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 74-year-old man. I am 5-foot-7 and weigh 170 pounds. For the last nine months I have been having severe head pain. I wouldn't call them headaches. I wear glasses so I thought I would have my eyes tested. I got new glasses but that didn't solve my problem so I saw an ophthalmologist. He went through all the tests and said my eyes were all right.

He sent me to an ear, nose and throat specialist. I had X-rays of the sinuses. He said that my sinuses were normal and not infected, but he didn't know what caused my head pain.

I get the head pain when I wake up in the morning. I get up and move around and they leave me and I do not have any head pains the rest of the day or night. But when I wake up in the morning I have them again. My blood pressure is normal.

DEAR READER — I'm not sure why you think a pain in the head isn't a headache. There are many causes for head pain, if you wish to use that term, and it's true that they can be caused by sinus problems, which apparently you don't have.

Your mistake is in not seeing your family doctor or a specialist in inernal medicine. You need someone to look at your total medical status and see what might be your problem. In any case you should have some medicine to help relieve the pain if it's that severe.

You should know that headaches are one of the most common complaints that people have. Sometimes they're related to life situations, tension, sinus troubles, migraine headaches and many other factors. To give you a better appreciation of the problem, I am sending you The Health Letter number 2-9, Headache: Man's Most Common Pain. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Even the time of day for your head pain may be important. Although you've said your blood pressure is normal, it's interesting that headaches associated with high blood pressure and migraine headaches commonly occur in the early hours whereas headaches associated with eye problems are more apt to occur in the latter part of the day or in the evening.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I tried taking alfalfa tablets and they seem to help the arthritis in my wrist. A friend of mine said a doctor told her that alfalfa will make one's blood thicken. Is this true? Could you write about the benefits or lack of benefits from taking alfalfa?

DEAR READER — It won't do you any good and it won't do you any harm.

You might be surprised to know that about a third of people with real illnesses feel better when they take something, usually regardless of what it is. That's one of those little tricks our minds play on us. It also explains why so many people adamantly claim that some pill they've been given has produced a miraculous cure or at least relief.

The unscrupulous individual of the past used to sell the public snake oil and depended upon this reaction to make people believe in his products. We still have our modern versions of the people who sell snake oil, as tablets inside a bottle.

Searchers Comb For Survivors From Tankers

FIUMICINO, Italy (AP) — Relief workers resumed the search today for more than 20 crewmen believed missing after a French freighter and a gasoline-laden Italian tanker collided and burned near this fishing port 15 miles west of Rome.

Twelve rescue vessels and several Italian army helicopters participated in the operation as workers succeeded in separating the still-burning ships shortly before the tanker sank, 14 miles off the Italian coast.

Authorities had feared the 5,000-ton tanker Vera Berlingeri would explode or drag the 12,000-ton freighter Emmanuel Delmas down with it. The ships collided in dense fog early Tuesday, midway between Fiumicino, the site of Rome's international airport, and the resort town of Santa Marinella.

"With her sinking the danger that the flaming tanker might explode has disappeared," said Aldo Savelli, coordinator of the rescue operations.

Italian authorities said four bodies were recovered in rescue operations Tuesday. Ships picked up 23 seamen from the Italian ship, many of them burned severely.

PULL OUT DEMANDED

PANMUNJOM, South Korea (AP) — Three days before President Carter visits Seoul, North Korea demanded on Tuesday that the United States pull its troops out of South Korea to help speed national unification.

GLOOMY FORECAST ISSUED

WARSAW (AP) — Communist leader Edward Gierek issued a gloomy economic forecast for Poland as he blamed a hard winter for shortcomings in the nation's economy. In remarks to party activists and factory workers Monday, Gierek said "The severe winter caused major disturbances in our transport, power supply, industry and building" and spring winds "complicated the agricultural situation."

Checking Account Bill Facing Tough Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to legalize interest-bearing checking accounts nationwide is facing a tough fight in a key House subcommittee, the panel's chairman concedes.

Rep. Fernand J. St Germain, chairman of the House Banking subcommittee on financial institutions and sponsor of the bill, postponed action on the measure last week, citing time conflicts of some members.

However, congressional sources who asked not to be named said mark-up of the legislation was put off until after the July Fourth recess partly because subcommittee approval was in doubt.

St Germain, D-R.I., denied in an interview that the legislation is in trouble although he conceded he foresees only a two-vote margin for passage on his 18-member subcommittee.

St Germain's bill would legalize so-called NOW accounts nationwide as a way of overcoming a U.S. Appeals Court rule that prohibits automatic savings-to-checking transfer and shared draft accounts as of Jan. 1.

The NOW — for negotiable order of withdrawal — accounts are specifically permitted by law only in New England and New York. Those NOW accounts would not be affected by the court ruling.

St Germain's subcommittee is also considering a competing bill by Rep. Frank Annunzio, a staunch foe of NOW accounts. The Illinois Democrat contends NOW accounts will end up costing consumers money through high bank service charges and steeper lending rates.

Annunzio's bill would simply overturn the Appeals Court ruling and permit continued use of automatic transfers and credit union shared drafts outside of New England and New York.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By United Press International

Today is Wednesday, June 27, the 178th day of 1979 with 187 to follow.

The moon is moving toward its first quarter.

The morning stars are Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Mercury, Saturn and Jupiter.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Cancer.

Blind author Helen Keller was born June 27, 1880.

On this day in history:

In 1847, telegraph wire links were established between New York City and Boston.

In 1960, a typhoon struck Luzon Island in the Philippines, killing more than 100.

A thought for the day:

In the story of her life, blind author Helen Keller wrote, "Literature is my utopia. Here I an not disenfranchised. No barrier of the senses shuts me out from the sweet, gracious discourse of my book friends."

KIDS-ONLY CLUB

Kids Want Details About Waystation

By SHARI LEWIS

I think I should change the name of this column from the KIDS-ONLY CLUB to YOU ASKED FOR IT! When I hit a subject you like, you write letters — by the pound — asking for details. That's what happened when I told you about Martine Collette and the Wildlife Waystation in California.

To answer all of your questions:

"Who is she?" Martine's father was a naturalist, and she spent her childhood in the African and Australian bush. She cares for more than 160 charges — lions, tigers, monkeys, wolves, racoons, skunks, deer, reptiles and other creatures who have found their way to the shelter.

"Where do the animals come from?" Some of the wild creatures were bought by people (on a passing whim) as babies, and when the cuddly cub or monkey grew into a creature of power and appetite the owner's affection wore off.

Two lions named Harley and Davidson belonged to a motorcycle gang, and the animals suffered so badly from malnutrition that they could hardly stand up. The courts seized them, and rather than destroying the lions gave them to the Wildlife Waystation.

"How does Martine take care of the animals?" She and eight volunteers make an effort not to befriend the wild creatures or turn them into pets, so they can be returned to the wilds.

"How can we help?" In the United States, as far as I can discover, there are no government dollars available for the care of discarded "wild" pets (as there are for dogs and cats). If you would like to know more about the Wildlife Waystation or to help support it, write to: 14831 Tujunga Canyon Road, San Fernando Valley, Calif. 91342.

Yesterday's Brain Twister: Look at the two triangles. In your mind's eye put them together so that they form a square. Now cut them out and fit them together. Were you right?

Answer: (See illustration.)

Today's Brain Twister: There are 12 legal federal public holidays, but only six are recognized by all states. Which are they? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)

(Do you have something you like to do give a helping hand to others — people or animals, friends or strangers, youngsters or senior citizens? Share your "helping hand" idea with me, and I'll send a copy of my book, "The Kids-Only Club Book," as a prize for the helping hand idea submitted that we print. Just write to Kids-Only Club, care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1111, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.)

Bible-Readers Reprimanded

MOUNTAIN HOME, Idaho (UPI) — Two more enlisted men have been reprimanded at Mountain Home Air Norce Base for reading the Bible while on duty.

Airmen 1st Class Douglas Bickford of Klamath Falls, Ore., and Chris Christensen of New York City, both of the 366th Security Police Squadron, were given written administrative reprimands Monday by their commanding officer.

Capt. George Titus, a spokesman for the base, said the airmen were relieved of duty Thursday "for carrying unauthorized reading material." He said they were reading the Bible.

A week ago an honorable discharge was issued to Airman Steve Ristau of San Mateo Calif., who continued to read the Bible while on duty despite court-martial threats by the Air Force.

Ristau, who describes himself as a "born-again Christian," had said he wanted the court martial and threatened to sue to prevent the honorable discharge. But he decided to accept the discharge and plans to enter seminary school.

At Wit's End...

(Editor's Note: While Erma Bombeck takes a one-week vacation, we are taking the opportunity to reprint three of her most popular previous AT WIT'S END columns. Erma Bombeck will resume writing next week.)

By ERMA BOMBECK

For some reason, Americans cannot work up a scrap of compassion for (a) a Mercedes with a flat tire, (b) a price increase in polo scorecards, (c) the woman who holds down the homefront while her husband travels.

The first two I could understand, but why pick on a woman who is bravely shouldering the responsibilities of both mother and father? The women assure me it is true. A friend of mine kept a log of her week just to prove a point.

On Monday, she went to a parent-teacher conference alone to be told her son stole paper towels from the restroom (the girls'), wrote an obscene word in the dust on Mr. Gripper's car, and was flunking lunch. She said her husband travelled a lot and the teacher said she should be glad he was working.

On Tuesday, the dog got hit by a motorcycle, the house payment got lost in the mail and her daughter tried to crush a tin can with her hand like the bionic woman and required a tetanus shot. She told the doctor her husband travelled a lot and he said she was lucky she had a car.

On Wednesday, the television set blew a tube, the car developed a wheeze and she had to cancel a night out with the girls. Her mother-in-law said, "Be thankful you have the children."

On Thursday, as she was making a left-handed turn in her VW Rabbit, a car plowed into the back of her. As she sat there crying softly, "The rabbit died...the rabbit died..." a police officer stuck his head in the window and said, "You're lucky, lady. Nobody got hurt."

On Friday at the supermarket, so bored she was carrying on a conversation with a broom display, she went through the mechanics of shopping — lashing one kid to the basket, getting another out of the bean display where he found a hole in a bag of pintos, and on finding the third had eaten an unknown amount of fruit, offering to weigh him and anything over 53 pounds, pay the difference. The checkout girl in noting all the convenience foods said, "You're lucky to have your husband gone a lot. At least, you don't have to cook big meals."

On Saturday, she car-pooled it to Little League, two haircuts, one dentist appointment, baton twirling lessons, the cleaners, the post office, and a birthday party. As she pulled in at dusk, a neighbor yelled over the fence, "You're lucky. At least you get out of the house."

On Sunday, she dragged the brood to church. As she extended a limp hand to the minister, he said, "Glad to see you. At least coming to church gets rid of the kids for an hour. Incidentally, if you sleep during the sermon, I'll understand."

He was the only one who did.

The Russians are coming! The Russians are coming! Judged by their success in other sports, they will soon be a threat in world bridge competition. At a recent tournament in Tallinn, which was attended by many of the best players from Eastern Europe, Russia dominated both the team and pair events. If this hand is indicative of the ability of the Russians, watch out world.

While North had a good hand, he was a trifle optimistic in driving to a slam over partner's jump to four hearts. As the cards lie, a spade lead, or a diamond lead and a red-suit return, would have led to the contract's defeat.

West was reluctant to open anything that might help declarer, so he got off to the safe lead of a trump. Even looking at all the hands, it is not easy to see how declarer avoided the loss of a diamond trick and a spade, but watch what happened.

Declarer won the trump in hand, cashed the ace of clubs and ruffed a club. Dummy was re-entered with the queen of trumps and another club was ruffed—had the king dropped, declarer would have been home.

Unfortunately, the monarch did not, so it seemed that declarer would now have to rely on the spade finesse. But declarer found a better move—he led the queen of diamonds from his hand.

East was in a quandary. If he won the ace of diamonds, he would be end played. A diamond return would allow declarer to discard a spade, while giving declarer an extra entry to dummy to ruff a club and set up the queen for a second spade discard. Exiting with a black suit would be equally disastrous. So East allowed the queen of diamonds to win.

Now declarer simply led a spade to the queen. East won the king and returned the ace of diamonds. Declarer ruffed and ran the ten of spades, and when that held, the slam was secure.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR ABBY: I've been living in an apartment for the last eight years and have gotten used to the noises that occur. However, I have recently encountered a noise I don't know how to deal with. It's most annoying since it usually occurs late at night or early in the morning. If you haven't guessed by now, it's my upstairs neighbors' squeaky bed!

A pair of newly weds recently rented the apartment above me. Their bedroom is directly above mine and it's extremely difficult for me to fall asleep at night or sleep late in the morning.

I have only a nodding acquaintance with the girl, so it's not as though we can sit down for some friendly girl talk.

Meanwhile, I'm losing sleep. My name is Kathy and I live in Atlanta, but signed me ...

Bleary-Eyed And Envious

Dear Bleary-Eyed: Catch the girl when she's alone and give it to her straight: "My bedroom is directly under yours. Your bed squeaks. It keeps me awake. Will you please do something about it?"

If you are unable to deliver this message in person — write!

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter became engaged last December. Sarah is 25 and David is 29.

Sarah lives at home and David lives 30 miles from here. He drives over every night to be with Sarah, which is fine, but he shows up regularly just in time for supper. I invite him to have dinner with us every Sunday, but he's here every other night, too.

Abby, he is a successful businessman (accountant), has good manners, and we like him, but I am fed up with his free-loading. Not once has he offered to take my husband and me out for a meal.

I've asked Sarah to say something to him about this, but she's afraid she might hurt his feelings.

I hate to be rude, but I am up to here with having him for supper every night of the week.

Who should tell him? Or am I wrong for feeling imposed upon? Please help me.

Fed Up In Brooklyn

Dear Fed Up: Since you feel "imposed upon," tell your daughter that is her responsibility to find a gentle, loving way to inform her fiance that enough is enough. Also that a gentlemanly reciprocal invitation is long overdue.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I'm 43 and my husband, Pete, is 45. Two years ago I had an affair with Pete's nephew. He's 29. He's not a real nephew since Pete and I are living common-law. Since then the nephew met another girl and he's living with her now, so it's all over between us.

In the meantime Pete heard about me and his nephew, so I confessed. Just to get even with me, Pete had an affair with a night nurse. When he told me about it I got mad and had an affair with a cop who had been after me for a long time. Pete had to get even again, so he went to a bar and picked up a girl. Then, for spite, I started in with the cop again.

Now, it's a contest to get even with each other and we can't seem to stop. How can I put an end to all this?

Too Tired To Garden

Dear Tired: Tell Pete that he is the winner, and declare a moratorium.

Budgeting Good Skill For Young People To Learn

(Editor's Note: This is the third of a five-part series on "What We Haven't Taught Our Children," financial planning for young people. This series is a special report by Purdue University.)

WEST LAFAYETTE, IND. (Special) — After establishing goals, young people and young families need to make realistic evaluations of their income and outgo.

"There is no better way to do this than through the use of a budget sheet for the income and expenses and the balance sheet for changes in assets and liabilities," says Leslie A. Bryan, a consumer economist on the staff of Purdue University's School of Management.

"One of the major uses of a budget and balance sheet is to identify and keep a controlling handle on debt and the burden of its repayment," he says.

The budget identifies the weekly, monthly or yearly income and expenses. Listing these items allows the family to observe the burden of debt repayment in the budget period and evaluate the wisdom of additional credit purchases.

The balance sheet lists a family's assets and liabilities. Like a snapshot of the family's net worth, these lists, made perhaps once a year, will help the family to recognize dangerous increases in the liability or debt side of the balance sheet.

Bryan describes the wise use of credit as a useful and necessary tool for modern living but warns it can also be a burden leading to family stress and unhappiness.

"Prospective homeowners do not realize that getting a mortgage loan often hinges as much on the amount of outstanding debt a family has as it does on total income," Bryan notes.

One lending institution indicates that it will not lend if the housing costs (payment on the principal of the loan, interest charges, taxes and insurance) plus debt obligations total more than a third of gross monthly income.

BEEF AND POTATOES

Beef and potatoes — what a winning combination! This tasty twosome complement each other not only in appetite appeal, but in nutrition as well. One of beef's most outstanding nutrient contributions is high quality protein, while potatoes are an excellent source of Vitamin C. Both meat and potatoes offer important amounts of the B-vitamins, niacin and thiamin, and the minerals, potassium and phosphorus. In addition, beef is a good source of riboflavin. Lean beef cuts, roasted or broiled, and potatoes, baked or boiled, are a nutritional bargain for dieters, too.

Thus, figures Bryan, a family with a $1,500 gross monthly income might qualify for a $45,000 loan (which would require monthly payments of approximately $500), but if a $200 per month debt payment is added to their budget, they might be hard pressed to qualify for a $25,000 loan.

"Although home ownership is usually the largest expense of all family purchases, it is not normally the first," Bryan says. "Breathes there a youth with soul so dead who never to himself said, 'I want to buy a car'?"

A Purdue survey indicates young persons lack a clear understanding of auto insurance and automobile costs. Buying a new car these days is almost like buying a house 20 years ago, Bryan notes, and one of the pitfalls is the four-or five-year loans now available for new car purchases.

"This may make monthly payments affordable, but because the car depreciates initially faster than the loan is being paid off, there is a period of time in the early life of the loan, lasting as long as several years in some cases, in which the car is worth less than the outstanding principal of the loan.

"This is a perilous time if one is forced to sell or becomes involved in a major accident," Bryan warns.

The Slim Gourmet

By Barbara Gibbons

For the taste of cream cheese without all those cream calories, discover the versatility of low-fat cream cheese. It has the taste and texture of cream cheese, but it's called "imitation" because it's made with more milk protein and less butterfat than the federal standards for cream cheese allow. Actually, it's more nutritious than the so-called "real thing."

Today, we're going to show you how to use it in a bake-and-chill "custard" that's made with only one egg, so it has less cholestrol than the 'real thing.' Our "custard" is also less fattening.

MILK 'N' HONEY ONE-EGG CREAM CHEESE 'CUSTARD'

3 cups skim milk
1 egg
8-oz. pkg. low-fat cream cheese, cut in chunks
½ cup honey
2 tsps. vanilla extract
1 tsp. grated orange rind
¼ tsp. salt
1 envelope plain gelatin
2 tbsps. cornstarch
nutmeg

Combine ingredients, except nutmeg, in blender. Cover and blend smooth. Pour into a glass ovenproof casserole, or non-stick loaf pan. Sprinkle top with nutmeg. Bake in a preheated 325-degree oven 1 hour. Cool, then refrigerate several hours. Serve chilled, topped with chopped fresh fruit or Strawberry Romanoff Sauce, if desired. Makes 10 servings, 135 calories each (without sauce).

Unemployment Poses New Crisis In India

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — Already reeling from drought, disease, hunger and poverty, India is being hit by another national crisis — growing unemployment.

No one knows exactly how many millions of Indians are without jobs, but conservative estimates place the figure at about 20 million persons. Rural areas, where more than 80 percent of the nation's 650 million people live, are suffering the most from the lack of jobs.

Employment exchanges set up by the government have been unable to alleviate the problem. One frustrated unemployed Indian described the exchanges as "nothing but poorly administered workshops of bureaucracy where thousands of officials have to fill out assortments of forms but do not hold out hopes for the hopeless."

"I don't know how many times I have been called for interviews in hundreds of government departments," said Narayan Joshi, 25, echoing the tale told by many jobless men. Despite having a double master's degree in history and economics, he said he was unable to find full-time work in a nation struggling for a foothold in the 20th century.

Though unemployment is high in the overcrowded cities, the situation is much more bleak in the farmlands and foothills. Approximately 2 to 3 million persons leave their homes in these areas every year looking for work and most who leave never return.

In the lower reaches of northern India's Himalayas live Joshi's wife, four children, two sisters, and mother. Like millions of other Indian men, Joshi left his family so he could find work in the bustling urban centers.

Some men are able to save enough money to send for their families. Others linger on in the cities, earning enough to keep themselves alive.

According to Dr. N.C. Pant of the Delhi School of Economics, growing unemployment is the major reason why the majority of young village men are leaving their homes in a search for work. The exodus is tearing apart India's traditionally tightknit family unit.

Another reason for the villagers' exodus to the cities is that most traditional farming families are now without any land to plow.

Despite the government's five-year development plan emphasizing rural development, the number of landless workers in the nation has risen by 21 million in the past 14 years.

According to official figures, more than one-fifth of all rural households own no land at all. Another 25 percent own fragments of land of less than one acre. An additional 14 percent own "uneconomic" land holdings of one to 2.5 acres.

'Yorkshire Ripper' Mass Murderer Taunts, Mocks Police In Tape

WAKEFIELD, England (UPI) — "I see you're still having no luck catching me," the voice sneered. "I'm not quite sure when I will strike again but it will be definitely sometime this year...I'll keep on going for quite a while yet."

Boasting, mocking, laughing at police, the voice of the Yorkshire Ripper — Britain's most diabolical mass murderer since Jack the Ripper of the 1880s — described in a tape recording how he planned to kill for a 12th time and even pinpointed the probable place.

Assistant Chief Constable George Oldfield, who has led the Ripper hunt since he first struck in October 1975, said he was convinced the tape was genuine.

"I believe we have now got the break we have been waiting for," he told reporters as he played the cassette at West Yorkshire police headquarters Tuesday. "Someone, somewhere must know this man."

The voice on the tape had a regional accent known as "Geordie" — so distinctive that Oldfield said he felt certain the killer was from the northeast port of Sunderland.

Yorkshire police said they received more than 200 telephone calls after the tape was broadcast to the public. They planned today to begin looking into information gleaned from the calls.

Descriptions from four victims who survived and a police psychiatric profile provide a picture of a white man between 30 and 50, probably single, who is, in Oldfield's words, "strong, mad and clever."

His hatred of prostitutes is pathological. Nine of the 11 women he slashed and stabbed to death were prostitutes and police believe he mistook the other two for prostitutes as well.

In the brief tape, addressed to Oldfield, the mocking voice says "I'm Jack (the Ripper). I See you are still having no luck catching me.

"I have the greatest respect for you, George, but Lord, you are no nearer catching me now than four years ago when I started...

"I'm not quite sure when I will strike again but it will be definitely sometime this year, maybe September or October, even sooner if I get the chance. I am not sure where, maybe Manchester, I like it there, there's plenty of them knocking about.

"They never learn, do they George? I bet you've warned them but they never listen. At the rate I'm going, I should be in the book of records. I think it's 11 up to now isn't it? Well, I'll keep on going for quite a while yet.

"I can't see myself being nicked (caught) just yet. Even if you do get near I'll probably top (hang) myself first. Well, it's been nice talking to you George. Jack the Ripper."

His last words to Oldfield were "no good looking for fingerprints. You should know by now it's clean as a whistle. See you soon. Bye."

Staff Cutbacks Planned For Troubled Hospital

By KIM COBB
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Staff layoffs at Health Sciences Center Hospital probably won't get started until the county hospital district board of managers finds a new executive director, LCHD board member Dub Rushing said today.

However, hospital department heads were asked this morning to start submitting positions within their various departments which could be eliminated, a hospital spokesman said.

The Board of Managers voted late Tuesday not to renew LCHD executive director Gerald Bosworth's contract in light of the hospital's pressing financial problems. The unanimous public vote came several hours after a stormy closed executive session which Bosworth sat in on.

But the board voted earlier in the meeting to give Bosworth the authority to start making staff layoffs to cut costs — including almost 60 nursing staff positions.

Many of the positions have already been eliminated through attrition and it is expected that registered nurses will be last on the list of layoffs — if at all. Nurses aides and LVNs will be laid off first.

Attempts will be made to relocate as many as possible of the people whose jobs are eliminated, a hospital public relations spokesman said. For example, a staff member who loses his or her original job may be relocated within the hospital to fill a vacant position which must not remain empty.

The decision to lay off personnel is based on a series of cash flow projections through 1980. The layoffs are an attempt to forestall what might mean a closing of the hospital's doors in the next few months if the rate of financial loss continues.

The hospital is only filling about 67 percent of its 170 beds. Hospital officials hope to drop the number of open beds to 120, reducing the staff positions proportionately.

Health Sciences Center Hospital has amassed more than $7 million in unpaid bills since the teaching facility for the Texas Tech School of Medicine opened in February 1978. Some board members have said the blame for the backlog of bills rests with Bosworth, while others say the management firm hired to help get the hospital open (Hyatt Medical Management Services, Inc.) is to blame.

The public vote may have been unanimous, but according to board chairman Jack Strong, the opinion in the closed executive session was divided. Rushing said later that those people who had worked with Bosworth for a long period of time liked him personally and spoke up for him in the meeting.

The board voted after deciding not to renew Bosworth's contract that the district would pay him for 90 days beyond the date of his contract's expiration — Saturday.

Chairman Strong said the search procedure to find a replacement for Bosworth would begin immediately. The move for dismissal came rather quickly, motivated by the appointment last week of two new board members who immediately spoke out against Bosworth.

Bosworth's predecessor — Harold Coston — was pressured to leave in February 1977, when the hospital district was in the middle of still another crisis. Board members and medical school representatives had been battling it out for three years over the administration of the still incomplete hospital.

Coston had difficulty in getting along with board members almost from the beginning of his term with the hospital district. Bosworth was reported to have been the unanimous choice of the board, as well as the medical school staff and administration, when he was hired in June 1977.

The board's immediate goal in hiring Bosworth was simply to get the hospital open. After postponing the opening date already, district officials were afraid the opening would have to be postponed again.

Under Bosworth's guidance, district officials settled their disagreements with the medical school and the hospital opened as planned in February 1978. But what had looked like a strong financial base in the facility's opening days quickly turned into a problem as the number of unpaid bills mounted.

New board member Dub Rushing claimed Bosworth has to take responsibility for the hospital's depressing financial situation. Changing administrators, he said, is a normal business practice under the present circumstances.

Earlier in Tuesday's meeting, Strong had assembled a group of hospital doctors, nurses and volunteers to speak up for what he called "some of the good things that are happening" at the hospital. Recent publicity has created the impression that nothing positive is coming out of Health Sciences, he said.

Mars Prices Go In Orbit

Gasoline prices topped the dollar mark momentarily at the Mars Service station at 2315 Fourth St. but were rolled back this morning to their previous price of 99.9 cents a gallon across-the-board.

Manager Bennie Jester said the company, Mars Oil Co. of St. Louis, called her about 10 a.m. today and told her to lower the prices.

Since Tuesday morning, the station had been selling regular for 105.8 cents a gallon, 113.8 for premium and 111.8 for unleaded.

City Council To Consider Reservoir Costs

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Financing construction of a pair of reservoirs southeast of Lubbock, estimated to cost $109 million, will be one of the items considered by the Lubbock City Council when it meets at 9:30 a.m. Thursday in council chambers.

The council will officially receive the $109 million cost estimate for the Justiceburg and Post reservoirs formulated by Freese and Nichols, Inc., a consulting engineering firm in Fort Worth.

Although the firm estimated the cost for construction of the two reservoirs, four pump stations, a pipeline, terminal storage and a filter plant would cost $108,962,500, the real construction cost is expected to rise with inflation between now and 1989 when the project, located about 60 miles southeast of Lubbock, will be substantially complete.

Council members must decide whether to finance the project, which will provide the city with a third major water source, with tax-supported general obligation bonds, water revenue bonds paid for by water users or a combination of the two.

They also must determine whether one bond election to finance the entire project should be held, or whether voters should be asked to approve funding in two phases.

The result probably will be the largest single bond issue ever held in Lubbock.

Also at the meeting, council members will consider setting a date for a public hearing on a request to annex land between Indiana Avenue and University Avenue from 107th Street to 114th Street.

The annexation request, made more than a year ago by Norton Baker and Leroy Elmore, finally was recommended for approval by the Planning and Zoning Commission earlier this month.

Consideration of the annexation request was postponed pending the formulation of an annexation policy by a Planning and Zoning Commission subcommittee.

Council members will be asked to delay implementation of a portion of the state tax relief bill which specifies certain agricultural which specifies certain agricultural recommended the implementation be delayed, as provided by the legislature, because of the time involved in changing the methods of taxing farm land for the current tax year.

Council members also will discuss state legislation authorizing local governments to create non-profit authorities to help provide housing for low and moderate income persons through tax exempt mortgage bonds.

Assault Charges Filed Against Slaton Man

Felip DeLeon, 29, of Slaton was charged with two counts of aggravated assault in connection with stabbings Saturday night of two men, one of whom remains in serious condition today in West Texas Hospital.

DeLeon is accused of stabbing Julio Toralva Rodriguez, 18, and David L. Martinez, 20, during a fight at the Fiesta Club, East Fourth Street and Redbud Drive.

Rodriguez of 412 N. Elgin Ave. suffered stab wounds to the chest and remains in the hospital. Martinez was stabbed in the hand and lower chest, and was treated at Health Sciences Center Hospital and released.

Witnesses told police Martinez and his wife were sitting at a table in the lounge when the suspect and a companion approached and asked to dance with Martinez's wife.

The suspect became angry when Martinez told him to leave, and the suspect pulled out a knife and attacked Martinez, police said.

Rodriguez was injured as the suspect, who was fleeing the lounge, started slashing him, police said.

Also, Monte Lee Bowman, 33, of 1507 46th St. was charged with aggravated assault. Bowman was charge in connection with a fight that occurred June 17 about parking space in the 1500-block of 46th Street.

Jurors Deliberating Mass Murder Retrial

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Jurors began deliberations today in the retrial of mass murder defendant Elmer Wayne Henley, accused in connection with a homosexual torture and death plot in which at least 26 Houston-area boys were slain six years ago.

Henley, 23, is charged specifically with six of the murders. He was convicted of the same crimes at a 1974 trial.

"There is no evidence against Elmer Wayne Henley Jr. — nothing — if you take the alleged written and oral confessions away," defense attorney Ed Pegelow said.

Bell To File Request For Rate Increase

A-J News Services

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Thursday will file a $145 million rate increase request to cover increased operating expenses statewide, a Bell spokesman in Dallas said.

"We'll make full disclosure of all the specific rates in the individual towns and the dollar amounts and so forth Thursday when we file," Bell representative Joe McNamara said Tuesday.

"It will be in the range of $145 million but right now we think it's inappropriate to disclose the details until the (Public Utilities Commission) commissioners have it. President Carter's (voluntary price controls) call for no more than about a 6 percent increase and it will fall within those guidelines."

The rate increase, if approved, will affect Lubbock, local Bell spokesman Jim Goodwin said this morning. Goodwin declined to comment on the extent the increase would be felt here, saying only, "I imagine it would be some time before local rates went up."

Goodwin indicated more information regarding the proposal will be available Thursday, after it is filed with the PUC in Austin. The requested increase is based on Southwestern Bell returns for the year ending March 31, 1979.

Southwestern Bell also operates in Missouri, Arkansas, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Seventeen months ago Bell asked for a $214.3 million statewide increase but the PUC granted only a $124.5 million raise.

McNamara said the increase was necessary because of inflation, increased operating costs and expansion of the statewide system to keep up with industrial growth.

Five Still Hospitalized With Accident Injuries

AMARILLO (Special) — A child remained in critical condition and four persons were in serious condition this morning in Northwest Texas Hospital here with injuries sustained Monday morning west of Canyon in a traffic accident which killed six.

The dead were traveling in a car which was in collision with a pickup truck about 10 a.m. Monday. Four-year-old Alma Gonzales, who remained in critical condition early today, and the four victims listed in serious condition, also were passengers in the car.

The seriously injured were Rolando Moreno, 19, Gabriel Moreno, 3, Mary Christine Moreno, 1, and Albert Moreno, 20 months.

The driver of the truck, Dolpha Dale Scott, 47, of Hereford, and his two sons, Michael Lynn, 12, and Jason Kyle, 8, were listed in satisfactory condition today at the Amarillo hospital.

Killed in the accident were the driver, Antonio Yuregas, 27, of Muleshoe; Roel Moreno, 8-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Rolando Moreno of Amarillo; Raquel Moreno, 21, of Amarillo; Esther Moreno, 17, of Amarillo; and Yolanda Yuregas, 24, of Amarillo.

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Stock Mart Continues Advance

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market edged upward today as Wall Street awaited a pricing decision from the oil-exporting countries.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 11.44 in the week's first two trading sessions, recovered 1.74 to 839.40 by noontime today.

Gainers outnumbered losers by a 7-5 margin in the mid-day tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries, in the second day of its meeting in Geneva, was working toward a decision on how much to raise prices.

There were varied and sometimes conflicting reports on whether the cartel was ready to agree on a benchmark price of $20 a barrel with no surcharges, or less than that with individual OPEC members permitted to continue imposing surcharges.

The NYSE's composite common-stock index rose .18 to 57.85. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .74 at 199.65.

Volume on the Big Board totaled 14.63 million shares at noontime, against 13.68 million at the same point Tuesday.

Advertisers Pick 'Benson' As Most Likely To Succeed

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — The butler is going to do it.

That's the best guess from the advertising industry, which is betting on "Benson" as the new show most likely to succeed in the 1979-80 season.

"Benson" stars Robert Guilliame, who will quit his job as the Tate's butler in "Soap" to accept a new job in a governor's mansion, which he will take over.

Phil Burrell, who does the television prognosticating for Dancer, Fitzgerald, Sample ad agency, says the spin-off is "perhaps one of the funniest new comedies of the year," a conclusion backed by others in the field.

"Benson" is an ABC entry, and the advertising industry, and just about everybody else connected with television, has put their money on the 1979-80 ratings game ending up just like the past season, with ABC finishing first.

According to Broadcasting magazine, the shows most likely to fail include both ABC's "20-20" and NBC's "Prime Time Sunday — which would leave "60 Minutes" in a class by itself as a successful prime time news magazine.

Other shows that could run into trouble include "We're Cruisin'" (CBS), and "Real People" and "Buck Rogers in the 25th Century" (both NBC).

NBC Combines Four Failed Pilots Into Wednesday Night Movie

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Who says imagination is absent from network television? NBC, through vigorous exercise of fancy, has managed to transmute four failed pilots into the Wednesday Movie of the Week.

Think about it. Rather than having four separate awfuls ruining four separate nights, somebody at NBC was clever enough to bunch them together, thereby ruining only one night.

Now, this mixed batch may not look like a movie to you and me, but it is. Says so right there in the listings. It's called "The Generation Gap," so named because each of the pilots has at least one teen-ager and one adult.

The first is "Home Again," about a tough-minded bachelor cop (Darren McGavin) who hates teen-agers. In the world of TV sitcoms, of course, such a man is soon to be visited by a teen-ager.

If I didn't know that TV shows cost a lot of money, I'd suggest that "But, Mother..." was made specifically for a summertime throwaway movie.

Then there's "Starting Fresh," about a mother who goes back to college and ... right, gets involved in generational problems with her daughter, who attends the same college.

The fourth part of this movie was unavailable for preview. It is "The Paul Williams Show," with Williams as host of a kid's show.

Baker Eyes Treaty Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker said today he will vote against the SALT II treaty unless it is amended by the Senate because "it provides a substantial strategic superiority to the Soviet Union."

"If the administration does not signal a willingness to consider amendments, and if the Soviet government does not desist in trying to threaten the Senate, then I will work diligently and, I trust, effectively to defeat this treaty," Baker said at a news conference.

Baker could be a key figure in the Senate's eventual ratification or rejection of SALT II, the strategic arms limitation treaty that President Carter and Soviet President Leonid Brezhnev signed recently in Vienna.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, told reporters Tuesday he believes the Soviet Union must be made to understand that the Senate is likely to adopt some amendments, reservations or understandings.

Church hinted that ways are being sought to change the treaty just enough to improve chances for ratification but not enough to cause the Soviets to reject the amended treaty out of hand.

He said he believes it would be a "grave mistake" for the Senate to doom the treaty by adding a "killer amendment" unacceptable to the Soviets.

"It would be preferable for the Senate to kill it outright rather than face a renegotiation which Soviet leaders have said would be unacceptable to them," Church said.

Meanwhile, proposals to amend the pact were made by senators with strikingly different points of view.

Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, a conservative treaty opponent, proposed six substantive changes that he said "underscore the very serious deficiencies in the SALT II agreement." Garn says the treaty is not verifiable and would seriously weaken U.S. security.

Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., who has criticized SALT II for not going far enough to control the arms race, filed an amendment that would freeze the strategic arsenals of the United States and Soviet Union at their present levels.

"President Carter, as well as those who oppose the SALT II treaty agree that the United States and the Soviet Union are roughly equal today in the overall strategic balance," said Hatfield in a statement. "The moratorium amendment I offer will freeze into place the present strategic balance and make unnecessary the new $75 billion spiral in the arms race in the decade ahead."

Church said he believes the logic of the situation eventually will compel Hatfield and Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., who shares Hatfield's view, to vote for the treaty. "There would be an unfettered nuclear arms race that would be far greater if the treaty were to be rejected than if it were ratified," he said.

Church said if the Senate concludes some reservations or understandings are necessary, the distinction will have to be made between changes that clarify treaty provisions from those that change the terms of the treaty itself.

He said the first type of change might be acceptable to the Soviets while the second variety probably would not be.

Asked for an example, Church said changes might be made to help verify compliance with the treaty while not changing its substance by calling for advance notification of all missile tests and mass bomber flights.

He said the Soviets have found mass flights of U.S. bombers "very scary" because they cannot verify where they are going or what their mission is.

And he said advance notification of Soviet missile tests would permit the United States to pre-position surveillance planes to determine whether the tests meet SALT II requirements.

President Becomes Riled Over Giscard Comments

TOKYO (UPI) — A "deeply angry" President Carter reacted bitterly today to criticism of American energy policy made by President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, opening a rift with a key European ally on the eve of the Tokyo Economic Summit.

White House officials told reporters the president was angered over Giscard's statement in a recent interview that the Americans "haven't started" on an energy conservation program.

The officials said Giscard's remarks in Newsweek magazine were "accusatory and somewhat confrontational in tone."

"The tone and the attitude (of Giscard's comments) have not been favorably received by American officials here," a White House official said. "That is the second time this has happened and frankly it is beginning to wear a little thin."

The bickering between the United States and France broke open as leaders of the Big Seven industrial nations converged on Tokyo for the two-day summit beginning Thursday.

The squabbling underscored the deep divisions among the leaders on what action to take at the summit, even though all are agreed that dramatic steps must be taken to counter the energy crisis.

The White House officials also said the oil import freeze plan adopted by France and other European powers in Strasbourg was "totally unworkable" for the United States and Japan.

They were particularly vexed by Giscard's remark in the interview that the Americans were responsible for the lack of progress in U.S.-Soviet relations. They said the comment was "absolutely absurd."

The American statements, coming on the eve of the summit, were surprising because the seven industrial powers have been seeking to display their unity in the face of an imminent oil price increase by the 13-member OPEC cartel.

Giscard had arrived only hours before the American broadside attack aboard a Concord jetliner. He was quickly followed by British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, the last summiteer to arrive.

Although the summit had not yet begun, the heads of government were jockeying for position in Tokyo with a frantic round of one-to-one meetings. Japanese Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira, hosting the first summit held in Asia, welcomed freshman Canadian Prime Minister Joe Clark. West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt, Giscard and Common Market Chairman Roy Jenkins.

A visibly fatiqued Carter met Clark and Mrs. Thatcher at the U.S. Embassy following his return from the Japanese port city of Shimoda, where he attended a "town hall" meeting and motorcaded through the city's winding streets.

The summit leaders were pushing at least two rival oil conservation plans. The Japanese and Americans were zeroing in on a proposal to set specific ceilings for each country's oil imports for the remainder of 1979 and 1980.

The four European summiteers — Britain, West Germany, France and Italy — agreed last week in Strasbourg to freeze imports for five years at 1978 levels.

Nicaraguan Fighting Intensifies

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — Sandinista guerrillas were reported advancing northward from the Costa Rican border, attacking towns south of Managua and locked in "ferocious fighting" in the capital in their war to oust President Anastasio Somoza.

Sources linked to the rebels claimed Tuesday they had broken through national guard lines that had blocked their advance northward from the Costa Rican frontier.

The sources said the guerrillas were striking toward La Virgen, six miles south of Rivas whre they hoped to set up their provisional government. Rivas is 16 miles north of the border, and La Virgen is the site of a national guard compound and infantry training school.

But a spokesman for the guard, Somoza's army and police force, said reports of the Sandinista advance in the south were "totally false." He said Somoza's troops "made a slight tactical pullback to avoid charges that the national guard was threatening the Costa Rican border." He claimed the guard was holding the Sandinistas approximately four miles north of the border and was inflicting heavy casualties with mortars, artillery and air attacks.

Informed sources said the rebels attacked several small towns between the Sandinista-held cities of Diriamba, 28 miles south of Managua, and Masaya, 20 miles southeast of Managua. They speculated that the Sandinistas were trying to establish a front south of Managua stretching across the isthmus between Lake Nicaragua and the Pacific and cutting off the guardsmen battling on the southern front.

But the guard spokesman said the attacks south of Managua were "only diversionary attacks and have no real significance."

He claimed that all Sandinista positions in eastern Managua, where the rebels have held half a dozen slum barrios for more than two weeks, "will be cleaned out within 72 hours."

The guard claimed early Tuesday that it had driven the rebels from the Belo Horizonte slum, but late Tuesday refugees streaming from the area said the rebels were still entrenched and confident they could defend their positions.

They said there were many dead in the streets, including a pregnant woman, and the stench of decomposing bodies was "unbearable."

Members of Congress belonging to Somoza's Liberal Party met late Tuesday in the Intercotinental Hotel amid speculation they were discussing a successor should Somoza heed the calls for his resignation from the Organization of American States and the United States.

Somoza, his Cabinet and top legislative leaders met Tuesday morning and called a special legislative session for Thursday afternoon. But Somoza's private secretary denied categorically that the president would resign or that the session was being called to discuss a successor.

Somoza's term ends in 1981 and he has vowed not to step down until then. His family has run Nicaragua since invading U.S. Marines helped put his father in power 42 years ago.

The guerrillas of the Sandinista National Liberation Front take their name from a Nicaraguan rebel who fought the Marines. The guerrillas' latest offensive began in September with a two-week uprising in which some 1,500 persons were killed. An estimated 10,000 more have died in fighting since.

Thais Respond To Viet Attack

ARANYAPRATHET, Thailand (UPI) — Thai artillery shelled Vietnamese positions in Cambodia today in retaliation for a Vietnamese mortar barrage that wounded 15 Thai villagers near the volatile border, military sources said.

Thai 105mm howitzers pumped five rounds into the Vietnamese positions where the mortar attack was believed to have originated, the sources said.

Shortly afterward a white flag was seen near the Vietnamese positions and the shooting stopped, they said.

The exchange came as fighting between Vietnamese-led forces and Khmer Rouge guerrillas flared again near the Cambodian border town of Poipet.

At noon, six mortar shells plowed into the Thai village of Wang Mon, only two miles south of Poipet, just as top Interior Ministry official Chalaw Thammasiri was inspecting the area.

Two of the mortar shells exploded within 35 yards of Chalaw's limousine and the other four were duds, witnesses said.

The villagers hit by mortar shrapnel were immediately taken to the Aranyaprathet district hospital, some of them in Chalaw's car.

Eyewitnesses said 15 villagers were hurt in the incident, but hospital officials said 19 persons were treated for injuries and two — a man and a small child — were seriously injured.

Thai military sources said Khmer Rouge troops, moving along the border under the cover of heavy monsoon rains, launched small-scale attacks on Phnom Penh government and Vietnamese troops dug in north and south of the border trading town.

Three Soviet-built T-54 tanks were operating in the area trying to throw back attacks by the lightly armed Khmer Rouge, the sources said.

Vietnamese artillery in Ban Kup, southeast of Poipet, were supporting the defense of the town with regular barrages, they said.

Khmer Rouge soldiers told Thai troops at the border they had captured a Vietnamese military officer during the fighting and taken him to their headquarters for questioning, the sources said.

There were no indications how many from either side were killed or wounded in the fighting.

The level of fighting has increased in the past week as the Khmer Rouge apparently try to take advantage of the monsoons to regain some of the territory lost in the past two months.

White Man Loses Case

blacks in the building trades industry.

Had trainees been selected solely on a seniority basis, no blacks would have been included in the Gramercy program. Therefore, all white applicants were selected from one "pool" based on seniority and all black applicants were selected from a separate "pool," also based on seniority.

Weber had more seniority at the plant than two of the blacks selected for the program. His lawsuit charged that his exclusion made him a victim of "reverse discrimination."

The suit charged that Kaiser's program violated a section, known as Title 7, of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 banning racial discrimination in private employment.

Weber was victorious in a federal trial court, and his victory was upheld by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The appeals court ruled that Kaiser — or any employer — cannot set up an affirmative action program using racial quotas unless ordered to do so by a court or government agency that has found the employer guilty of past racial bias.

The ruling put employers in a perplexing situation. If they first had to admit to past bias in order to increase current job opportunities for minorities and women and avoid "reverse discrimination" suits by white men, they would have exposed themselves to lawsuits by minorities and women who contend they were the victims of the admitted bias.

Kaiser, the Steelworkers and the federal government all urged the Supreme Court to reverse the 5th Circuit court's ruling and allow "voluntary affirmative action."

Because today's decision is based on an interpretation of the 1964 law and not the Constitution, Congress could amend the law to overcome it. But Congress might prefer to pass up such a potentially explosive issue.

The court today said Weber was wrong in believing that Title 7 protects whites as well as blacks.

Many of the two dozen creditors at this morning's hearing pointed out that the Furr's Chapter XI filing is unusual in that only two of the creditors are secured, that is, have any property they can repossess if they are not paid.

The secured creditors are Mr. and Mrs. Art Lang of Las Cruces, N. M., who sold their New Mexico liquor license to Furr's for $76,132 and I.L. Beavers of Alamo, Texas, sold his liquor license to a Hobbs package store to the company for $54,670.

If Furr's is unable to pay the debts, the liquor licenses will revert to the previous owners.

The remaining debts of about $55 million are unsecured.

Members of the unofficial creditors' committee will meet with Furr's officials and attorneys here Thursday to discuss any amendments to the operating order that might be proposed at the July meeting.

Possible payment plans also will be discussed.

Any arrangement Furr's will file with its creditors will not erase the company's debts, but will provide a step-by-step method of payment.

Smaller creditors ordinarily are paid off first for ease of administration, he said. But the plan of payment must be approved by 51 percent of the creditors — that percentage based upon both the number of creditors and the amount owed them.

Among Furr's major trade creditors are Gold Bond Stamps Company, owed an unsecured $5.2 million, and Topco Associates of Chicago, owed slightly more than $1 million, also unsecured.

Lubbock creditors include: Borden Dairy Service, $646,759; Plains Poultry, $530,144; Calmaine, $570,514; Coca-Cola of Lubbock, $259,906; Rainbo Baking of Lubbock, $215,413; Bell Dairy Products, $138,385; and Baird's Bakery, $149,449.

Police Rescue Rape Suspect

MIAMI (UPI) — Police rescued a rape suspect from about 40 frends and neighbors of his alleged victim, who chased him for a block and and cornered him on the second floor of an abandoned hotel near downtown Miami.

Police arrested David Lee Fields, 32, Tuesday and charged him with burglary and involuntary sexual battery.

Police said a 21-year-old woman, eight months pregnant, was asleep in the bedroom of her apartment when a man broke in through a window and raped her.

A police spokesman said the woman managed to escape through the same window and made her way to the front of the apartment building, where she screamed for help.

Neighbors armed with sticks, boards and lengths of pipe chased the intruder to the Carver Hotel about a block away while police were being called.

When police arrived they found the angry crowd had surrounded the hotel and in a search ferreted out Fields in a second-floor closet. Fields went to a window of the hotel and shouted for police to come and rescue him.

Officers said Fields did not appear to have been hurt by his pursuers.

Grain Futures

CHICAGO (AP) — Most grain and soybean futures closed slightly higher today on the Chicago Board of Trade in generally directionless trade.

Little outside news emerged to influence prices. Commercial selling early in the trading session triggered selling in nearby soybean contracts covering the 1978 crop, and selling by local traders helped erase some of the sharp gains of last week.

Corn and wheat futures fluctuated. Corn futures held gains throughout most of the session, supported partly by an Agriculture Department report showing corn export shipments last week were sharply higher than the previous week or the same week a year ago.

At the close, soybeans were 5 cents lower to 12¾ cents higher, July $8.31½; wheat was ¼ to 3½ cents higher, July $4.71; corn was unchanged to 3 cents higher, July $3.11¾; and oats were ½ cent lower to 2½ cents higher, July $1.70¼.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A keen sense of timing and an instinct for the right answers will make tomorrow an excellent day to nail down situations that have been tough to consummate.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Tomorrow you will have the self-confidence to take a bolder course of action on a project you're involved in with another. This person will have reasons to go along with you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Follow your instincts if you feel you have something to say to one who is important in your life. You'll encounter a friendly ear.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Tackle the mountain tomorrow and ignore the foothills. Your aspects indicate you'll be up to doing big things in a big way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you keep your mind and energy on that high mark you're shooting for, you'll have a good chance of hitting that bullseye tomorrow.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Some might think you're a guru the way words of wisdom will flow from your mouth tomorrow. To top it off, you'll know how to put what you say into action.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There will be an abundance of opportunity that could spell both advancement and added revenue with your work or career tomorrow. Use your time well.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your personality will be exceptionally strong and powerful and you will favorably impress those with whom you're dealing. No one will intimidate you tomorrow.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It won't be just "business as usual" for you tomorrow. The time is ripe for you to accomplish an important and major goal.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you use a little humor in your manner when dealing with others tomorrow, you'll find them to be surprisingly supportive and cooperative.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You will have an excellent mind for commercial matters tomorrow, because you will be both practical and realistic in your approach. Put this to work.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You are normally talkative, but tomorrow it won't be just idle chatter. What you say will have purpose and conviction.

Foot Power Urged To Conserve Energy

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — A 67-year-old, still-spry salesman says Americans can beat the high cost of gasoline and do wonders for their health at the same time. The trick? Walk.

George Collins isn't kidding and he has the credentials to back up what he says. He once walked nearly 3,000 miles from New York to Texas and, today, continues to walk an average of 10 miles a day.

"If everybody would walk, we probably could save 20 percent of our gasoline bill or maybe 30," Collins said in a recent interview.

He thinks Americans jump into their cars for many short trips which they could just as easily make by foot.

"Walk to church. Walk to the grocery store and take along a little cart to push the groceries back in," he said.

Aside from saving gasoline, he says hoofing it is great for the health.

"I feel like I saved my life by walking," he said. He had a circulatory problem which cleared up after he began putting in his daily treks.

Collins' big walk came in 1962, when he was 50. A salesman for a carpet firm, Collins volunteered to walk across country in a pair of shoes made out of his company's carpet.

Instead of his going coast to coast, the backers of the promotion decided he should walk from New York City in a circuitous route through Pittsburgh, Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, and Oklahoma to Houston.

He wore out two pairs of the carpet shoes and was working on the third when the four-month trek ended.

"That was just at the time Jack Kennedy had his health program going," Collins said.

Thermostats Turned Up

By NANCY DORN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Summertime will seem hotter this year regardless of the weather, as rising energy costs force businessmen to turn up the thermostat on air conditioning in officies and factories.

Don Chastain, building manager of Lubbock National Bank said the bank is paying the same amount in cooling costs that it did several years ago even though thermostats have been significantly raised.

The bank lobby is kept about 75 degrees in summertime and 68 degrees in wintertime, Chastain said. Conservation efforts were initiated three years ago when timers were installed to shut off air blowers when the building is not in use.

"We have cut down on kilowatt hours one-third to one-half some months," he said. "But the cost is still the same."

"The customers are all fussing at me but I think they are just going to have to get used to it," he said.

Even the South Plains Mall, which used to advertise a perfect shopping climate of 72 degrees, has upped the temperature to an energy-conserving 74, said general manager Richard Colby. Thermostats were lowered several years ago, he said.

"When we get a large number of people in here, it can get up to nearly 80 degrees," Colby said.

Individual stores, however, still regulate their own heating and cooling at the mall, he said.

A Hemphill-Wells maintenance man said there have been no policy changes regarding store temperatures this summer. The temperature at the South Plains Mall store is usually between 74 and 76 degrees, he said, but "it depends on who set the thermostat."

One of the oldest office buildings in the downtown area may be one of the most energy-efficient. Kenneth Gaut of the Metro Tower office building said the 25-year old structure conserves more on energy per square foot than any other in the downtown area.

Temperature in the Metro Tower is kept around 75 degrees, Gaut said. He said refective glass installed several years ago helps keep the building cool in summer and warm in winter.

Production areas of Devro Industries, as well as office areas, are kept at an energy-saving 78 degrees, said spokesman Paul Evans.

"We've been maintaining 78 degrees or better since the Arab oil embargo (in 1973)" he said adding that he expects the regulation temperature to go up to 80 degrees soon.

The 78 degree cutoff for cooling is a company policy and applies across the board to production areas and offices alike.

In "hot spots," the company tries to increase the air velocity by putting in fans and air blowers, Evans said.

The company, a branch of Johnson and Johnson, is located on east Loop 289 and employs more than 200 people.

"The employees recognize for the most part what we are trying to do," Evans said, adding that few employees have complained about the temperature of the plant.

Texas Instuments Inc., one of the biggest manufacturers on the South Plains, also is regulated by company policy on thermostat control. Temperatures range from 76 to 78 degrees in all parts of the building except those where extreme temperatures damage electronic parts, said Leon Whitsel, facilities director.

Even hospitals are concerned about restricting heating and cooling as long as patients are not inconvenienced.

Max Hodge, assistant director of engineering at Methodist Hospital, said thermostats have been fixed at about 75 degrees in most office areas, although patient areas are cooled and heated as usual.

"But we can't cut back on anything that would cut back on the comfort of the patient," he said.

Efforts initiated in 1975 earned Methodist Hospital an award from the American Hospital Association for conserving more than 12 percent from the previous year in energy costs.

"We just eliminated waste from the building," Hodge said. He said timers were installed throughout the office areas to turn off power after business hours.

Sales Tax Revenues Increase Over '78

The City of Lubbock has received nearly $1.2 million in sales tax revenues for the month of June, bringing sales tax income for the first six months of 1979 to $3.8 million.

That represents a 5 percent increase through June of this year over the $3.6 million collected during the same period last year. Lubbock received nearly $1.1 million in June 1978, compared to the $1,175,936 figure for June of this year.

Texas cities shared $218 million in rebates from the 1 percent optional city sales tax during the first six months of 1979, State Comptroller Bob Bullock said in announcing the cities' June tax allocations.

Bullock said June allocations for the more than 900 Texas cities will be $67.7 million, compared to a 1978 statewide allocation of $60.9 million for the month.

Dallas will get a check for $7.9 million, bringing the city's year-to-date payments to $25.8 million.

Houston received the largest payment in June with a $14.3 million check. The city has received $45.8 million in tax rebates for 1979.

San Antonio's rebate for this month will be $3.5 million and Fort Worth's check will be $2.6 million, Bullock said.

South Plains cities receiving June sales tax rebates include Abernathy, $7,128; Amherst, $1,751; Andrews, $38,99; Anton, $3,740; Big Spring, $133,120; Brownfield, $43,154; Childress, $24,883; Crosbyton, $5,295; Dickens, $1,539; Dimmitt, $13,317; Earth, $2,965;

Farwell, $3,518; Floydada, $13,888; Friona, $10,276; Hale Center, $5,448; Hereford, $59,498; Idalou, $3,465; Lamesa, $48,560; Levelland, $60,391; Littlefield, $34,034; Lockney, $6,257; Matador, $2,663; Midland, $517,657; Morton, $6,560; Muleshoe, $22,377;

New Deal, $880; Odessa, $652,743; O'Donnell, $2,679 Olton, $6,859; Paducah, $7,442; Petersburg, $3,261; Plains, $2,142; Plainview, $121,181; Post, $16,395; Quitaque, $2,396; Ralls, $5,751; Seagraves, $8,738; Seminole, $21,286; Snyder, $90,551;

Spur, $4,150; Tahoka, $6,611; Tulia, $15,911; Turkey, $2,049, and Wolfforth, $3,289.

Sales taxes are collected by merchants and other tax permit holders along with the state sales tax. The tax is rebated monthly to cities in which it is collected.

Mennonite Legislation Awaits Hearing Date

By JOHNNY HOLMES
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Everyone involved with congressional legislation that would allow the 653 Mennonites living near Seminole to remain in the country agrees that "it's just a matter of time" befor the legislation is acted on, but there is sharp disagreement as to exactly how long that "matter of time" might be.

The legislation, which would grant the Mennonites permanent resident status, currently is awaiting a date for hearing by the Senate Judiciary Committee. U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., the sponsor of the bill, has asked Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., chairman of that committee, to act "as quickly as possible" on the bill. But a spokesman in Kennedy's office told The Avalanche-Journal that Bentsen's bill isn't "priority legislation" and could be postponed indefinitely.

"The committee has a lot before it this summer," said Chris Maher. "And a lot of it is big, complicated legislation. The Mennonite deal might have to wait quite a while."

The earliest date the bill could see any sort of action is July 10, at the next scheduled meeting of the Judiciary Committee, but it hasn't been placed on the calendar yet, and isn't expected to be added. The committee meets weekly, barring cancellations such as one which forced the next gathering to be kicked back until the second week in July, and the bill technically could be acted on at any time.

But it may never be acted on, either. Bentsen and Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., a former chairman of the same committee, attempted to enact a similar bill two years ago, but failed when the bill died in committee.

"Realistically, we feel we have a 50-50 chance of the bill passing," said Brent Budowsky, Bentsen's legislative assistant in charge of handling the Mennonite bill.

"Most of these type special bills don't pass," he admitted. "But I don't think this one is very controversial. It's tough to be against it just because of who the Mennonites are."

"Once this bill comes out of committee, it'll go off like a roman candle," Budowsky predicted. "The press will pick it up, and the Mennonites will be back in the news. They'll be instant celebrities all over again, and we should be able to build some solid momentum."

All preparatory work on the bill has been completed. Bentsen last week sent a report to Kennedy asking the committee to act as quickly as possible. And both Budowsky and Rosalie Helms, secretary of the Judiciary Committee, told The A-J they know Kennedy has been made personally aware of the bill.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service, which has thrice threatened to deport the religious colony, has completed and submitted its final supplemental report to the committee. Budowsky said that report contained no new information other than the confirmation of several more labor certifications.

Earlier this year, the INS told the Mennonites they could remain in the country if they found jobs that could be certified as skilled labor by the U.S. Labor Department. Since then, all the Mennonites needing jobs have found them.

Mrs. Helms said the Mennonite Central Committee submitted a complete report on the history and current situation of the Mennonites that "must have been at least an inch thick."

Mrs. Helms confirmed that the Bentsen bill is not on the committee calendar, but said, "It's better to have good reports and be delayed a meeting or a couple of meetings. The better the reports, the better they will be received."

Budowsky commented that an inherent problem in passing legislation through the Judiciary Committee is dealing with the committee itself. "That committee has an inability to get a lot done," he said. "They have to look over a lot of controversial legislation and work with Sen. Kennedy."

"We don't want everyone, especially those directly involved, to get all worked up," he continued. "This is a special bill, and has a long road ahead of it that will take quite a long time."

Should the bill pass out of committee, it would then be voted on by the full Senate. If it passes it would be sent to the House to undergo the same procedure. If it passes the House, it will be sent to President Carter to be signed into law. But any changes made or amendments added along the way would send the bill back to its starting place, where it very likely would die.

The legislation would allow the Mennonites to return to farming, which is their first love and an integral part of their simple, natural lifestyle.

To meet INS requirements they were forced to turn from farming because agricultural jobs cannot be certified by the labor department.

The colony lost its 10-section ranch near Seminole earlier this year after defaulting on a land payment, but keeps as its goal the chance to get enough land to start a self-sufficient agricultural colony where all inhabitants can live, work and worship together.

Author Pursues Life Dream Of Following Circus

By NANCY DORN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Kids of all ages watch the circus and fervently wish to join the lion or trapeze act or at least follow the show to the next town. Chappie Fox has spent a lifetime and made a career of chasing that dream.

Fox, the author of 10 books on the circus, is now the director of research and project development for the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus which will be in Lubbock July 13-15.

His fascination with 'The Greatest Show on Earth' began in 1925, when he saw his first circus, a side show circus with a scant menagerie called the 101 Ranch Wild West Show. He gave up the circus as a hobby in 1959 when he became curator of the Circus World Museum in Baraboo, Wis.

The museum, owned by the state of Wisconsin, collects memorabilia from circuses all over the United States and has historical documents on many acts and performers in the circus's colorful history, Fox said.

"But of course I had photographed and observed and studied the circus since 1935," Fox explained. He said that he spent many weekends and vacations following the circus while employed full-time with railroads.

He is now the official historian for the Ringling Brothers Circus and travels as an advance man for Ringling Brothers and as an expert on circuses in general.

"You know, the ringmaster starts each show with 'Ladies and gentlemen, children of all ages...'" Fox said. "Adults are children at heart, which explains why circus still holds that special fascination for people."

The Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus entertained 7 1/2 million people in 80 major cities last year, selling about two-thirds of the tickets to adults, Fox said.

Calling the circus the "most democratic form of entertainment," Fox said circus lovers come from all ages, colors and economic backgrounds.

"No matter what you do for a living, you can relax and get away from it all," he said. "Circuses still do that for people."

Circus is still G-rated entertainment, but Fox claims that it is the realism of the circus that appeals to crowds accustomed to celluloid action.

People who are used to watching television stuntmen take all the spills are fascinated by a man taming a lion before their eyes, Fox said.

"It's realistic, and that's what makes the circus so good," he explained.

Circus is one of the last surviving forms of family entertainment, Fox said proudly. "It's a tremendous compliment to never have been censored," he said. "Can you imagine having to censor a circus?"

The circus business is a never-changing, ever-changing business, Fox said. The high cost of showing under canvas was choking the circus business out until the 1960s, when many circuses moved indoors to public buildings and coliseums.

Ringling Brothers brought the Big Top to Lubbock for the last time in 1956. Fox explained that it took 1,500 men to put up the top that held 10,000 people. The circus would stay in town only one day and then would move its 100-railroad car train to the next town, Fox recalled.

The circus was in the construction business to erect the tent and the seating every day, in the restaurant business to feed the roustabouts and performers and harbored a veritable zoo at the time, Fox said.

"We had more animals than the Dallas Zoo," he chuckled.

Economics forced the circus indoors. "Indoor performing is very successful, but some of the romance is gone," Fox conceded.

The Ringling Brother Circus now travels in a 38-car train and features 75 performers and a menagerie complete with 22 elephants, 30 lions and tigers and assorted horses.

Perhaps the gap left by the absence of the Big Top has been filled by acts that are changed and updated each year, Fox said. The Ringling Brothers Circus has added 176 new acts this year featuring new animals and an Evel Knievel-inspired motorcycle act.

The Barnum and Bailey Circus was started in the 1880s and had grown to a 60-car national touring circus by 1890, the expert on circus history recalled.

The Ringling Brothers had a "pitiful little start" in comparison to the big-time Barnum and Bailey circus, Fox said.

"In the beginning, they had a blind hyena and an eagle with a broken wing for a menagerie, but they kept growing," he laughed.

The Ringling Brothers bought out the Barnum and Bailey Circus in 1919 after both owners died.

When he is not traveling as a Ringling Brothers advance man, Fox appears on talk shows as a circus expert. He is also in charge of all the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey records and historical documents.

Fox said he has visited 10 cities in six months, answering questions and promoting the circus as one of America's favorite entertainment forms. And, Fox says, there is a lot of interest out there. After all, it's the Greatest Show on Earth, especially to Chappie Fox.

Southwest Boardings Spark Airport Record

By JOHNNY HOLMES
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Even though Lubbock International Airport showed record boarding figures for May, only two of the four major airlines serving the city reported boarding increases.

Through May, 196,461 persons have flown out of the airport, a record by 4.9 percent over the 1978 figure of 187,363.

The 31-day month also saw a record set this year, with 42,907 passengers boarding here. That figure is an increase of 5.2 percent over the previous May record, set only last year with 40,769 persons.

As has been the case since Southwest Airlines began service to Lubbock in the summer of 1977, that carrier led the way with 20,957 boardings in May, an increase of 16.3 percent over the May 1978 figure of 18,016 boardings.

Braniff International showed an even greater increase in percentage for May, although its total was smaller. Braniff flew 9,884 persons from Lubbock in May, up 17.9 percent from its May 1978 figure of 8,381.

Continental And Texas International Airlines both recorded drops in boardings in May. TI's figure of 3,495 persons was a drop of 9.1 percent from its May 1978 figure of 3,843 persons. Continental lost a whopping 28.4 percent in passengers in May, flying out 7,455 persons. The carrier flew out 10,407 persons last May.

Crown Aviation, Lubbock's oldest commuter airline, also dipped a bit this May as it flew three less passengers to Clovis, N.M., than it did in May 1978, reporting 119 passengers as compared to 122 last year.

The two new entries into the city's aviation market, Air Midwest and Permian Airways, recorded solid figures, but because they did not serve Lubbock in 1978, there are no comparison figures.

Air Midwest, which links Lubbock with 20 cities in Colorado, Kansas, Oklahoma and New Mexico, flew out 441 persons in May, while Permian, which flies between Midland-Odessa, Lubbock and Amarillo, flew out 556 during the month.

For the year, Southwest has flown out 97,031 passengers, more than twice as many as Braniff, its nearest competitor. Southwest currently is 28.8 percent ahead of the record it established for Lubbock last year.

Braniff has flown out 44,288 persons through May, an increase of 12.3 percent over its 1978 figure of 39,430, but not a Braniff record. In May 1977, BI flew out 48,421 persons from Lubbock.

For the first five months of the year, Continental has boarded 36,199 persons, a loss of 34.3 percent from the 55,073 it carried out through May 31, 1978. And, effective June 1, the carrier dropped all flights between Lubbock and Dallas, the route Southwest and Braniff are thriving on.

Crown Aviation has flown 588 passengers to Clovis so far this year, a pickup of 22.3 percent over the 481 it had departed at the same time last year.

Air Midwest has flown out 1,065 persons since March 1, and Permian has boarded 566 since May 1, but again, since the carriers did not serve Lubbock in 1978, there are no figures for comparison.

The 196,461 boarding figure for the first five months at Lubbock International is up 4.9 percent from the 187,363 of 1978. For the first five months, the airport averaged 39,292 departures per month, slightly lower than the pace needed to set a new record for the year. However, the summer months are traditionally very heavy months for air travel and departures are expected to rise enough to establish an annual boarding record.

Lubbock's May figure of 42,907 is higher than the May figures reported by Amarillo and Midland-Odessa International Airports. Amarillo reported 32,402 boardings in May, while Midland-Odessa charted 38,426.

For the year to date, Lubbock International's 196,461 remains well ahead of Midland-Odessa's figure of 171,360 and Amarillo's number of 149,565 passenger boardings.

Montford Requests Salary Increases

A preliminary budget proposal for the Lubbock County Criminal District Attorney's Office asks for an overall salary increase of 25 to 30 percent.

The proposal still was being prepared Tuesday, office administrator Hal Hensley said, and will be given to County Auditor Dale Gallimore sometime this week.

Lubbock County commissioners last fall approved Montford's request for a budget increase from $390,000 to $490,000 for his first year in office. The proposed 1980 budget reportedly is for $600,000 to $650,000.

In addition to the salary increases, Montford will be asking an increase in operating expenses from $35,490 this year to about $60,000 next year. Part of the increase will be for automobile expenses of the seven office investigators. They receive a $50-per-month car allowance now, but would be paid 15 cents per mile each month under the 1980 proposal.

Panel Approves Plan Outline

The Community Development Advisor Committee Tuesday night approved the rought outline of the 1980-81 Community Development Plan, which will be aimed at fostering increased citizen input and participation.

The proposed plan, which must be submitted to the City Council for approval July 12 and to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development by July 15, will be fleshed out by city staffers and submitted to committee members individually for final review.

Community Development is a federal grant authorized by the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The money, which for Lubbock will total $3.3 million for the next program year, will be spent for such projects as housing rehabilitation, neighborhood revitalization, improvement of public facilities and promotion of public and private participation in economic development activities.

Most of the nine areas of weaknesses in past plans, as spotlighted by the federal department, emphasize further citizen participation in the full process of deciding how the money will be used and keeping citizens informed of progress and plan changes.

To remedy some of the deficiencies, the CDAC agreed Tuesday it will meet on the second Tuesday of every other month, rather than only during the fall as it has in the past.

Telephone surveys and door-to-door surveys also will be included in the new plan.

City Man Faces Charges For Aggravated Assault

The man allegedly pointed a .38-caliber handgun at a Lubbock police officer, two former officers and three female companions while they were at Der Wienerschnitzel at Third Street and University Avenue.

The Criminal District Attorney has recommended a $10,000 bond on each of the six charges.

According to police reports the incident began when officer Tom Robison stepped out of his vehicle to ask Rodriguez what he wanted. Robison told officers the suspect was in a truck behind the vehicle he was occupying and was staring at him. When Robison addressed the man, the suspect reportedly jumped out of the truck and pointed a revolver at the six persons. The suspect later drove to the south side of the restaurant where he allegedly drew a shotgun out of a sheath.

When officers arrived at the scene they reportedly found the suspect standing there with a shotgun. The handgun and shotgun were found to contain live rounds.

In another case, David Knox Brown, 20, was charged with burglary of a building in connection with Thursday's break-in at Alamo Tune-Up, 2216 Fourth St. A bond of $7,500 has been recommended by the Criminal District Attorney.

Also, Gordon Grant Hughes, 17, of 3020 36th St., was charged with burglary of a vehicle and a $2,500 bond was recommended.

State Probes Effort To Sell Baby

A-J Correspondent

BIG SPRING — Events leading up to alleged attempts by a Louisiana couple to sell a baby here last week are under investigation by the Department of Human Resources.

Tom Hoosier, child placement supervisor for the Big Spring-Midland area, said that the 3-month-old baby girl is healthy and is in foster care here.

Her alleged parents, Yvette Margaret Wierson and Robert Lee Gibson, both of Leesville, La., remain in custody in lieu of $10,000 bond each set by City Judge John Coffee.

The couple has been charged with attempted sale of a child. A first offense is a Class A misdemeanor, punishable by a $2,000 fine or one year in jail or both. A second time offense is a felony, punishable with a penitentiary term, according to Howard County attorney Harvey Hooser.

Hooser said an investigation is being conducted to determine if the child is actually the daughter of the suspects and to piece together the events that caused them to offer the child to several employees at a Big Spring truck stop June 20.

According to the employes, the couple was asking $30 for the infant.

UAW Political Fund Agrees To Pay Fine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Election Commission and a United Auto Workers political fund have reached a conciliation agreement concerning the fund's contributions to President Carter's 1976 campaign.

The commission said Tuesday that the UAW-V-CAP had agreed to pay a civil penalty of $1,250 because it contributed $6,000 to the Carter campaign, $1,000 more than the legal limit. The fund also agreed to comply with the Federal Elections Campaign Act in the future.

Ali Ends Boxing Era With Retirement

Three-Time Heavyweight King Makes It Official With Letter

By ED SCHUYLER JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali, who has announced his retirement a couple of times and has been written off by the press on other occasions, is finished fighting. And this time it's in writing.

"Yes, that's the truth," Ali said Tuesday when asked if he has sent a letter to Mike Mortimer, chairman of the World Boxing Association Championships Committee, announcing that he was retiring as heavyweight champion.

"I'm in a position that I can go no further in boxing," the 37-year-old Ali told a news conference in Newark, N.J., by telephone from Los Angeles. Ali is scheduled to fight exhibitions Friday night in Jersey City, N.J., against Gov. Brendan Byrne and Mayor Thomas Smith.

Ali told reporters in the days leading up to his title defense against Joe Bugner in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, July 1, 1975, that it would be his last fight. Three months later in the Phillipines, he fought Joe Frazier in "The Thrilla in Manila."

Two days after he won a controversial decision over Ken Norton on Sept. 28, 1976, he told reporters in Istanbul, Turkey, "As of now, I am quitting boxing and will devote all my energy to the propagation of the Moslem faith."

"Mark my words and play what I say right now fully," he said. "At the urging of my leader Wallace Muhammad, I declare that I am quitting fighting as of now and from now I will join the struggle for the Islamic cause."

Ali fought four more times, the last on Sept. 15, 1978, when he regained the WBA share of the title from Leon Spinks. Larry Holmes is recognized as champion by the World Boxing Council.

"This time I'm thinking about my family, my children, the record books," Ali said Tuesday. "I think about how Joe Frazier doesn't feel good every day when he wakes up (because he retired as ex-champion), how George Foreman doesn't feel good. It's a terrible thing. It's just sports, but it can ruin your life. Every day I'm happy. Come back, for what?

"I have other battles to fight. I'm going to Russia in two weeks. I'm going to talk to President Carter. I want to set up headquarters in Washington. There are things more pleasing to do than beat up people."

The Washington headquarters presumbly is for World Organization for Rights, Liberty and Dignity, a non-political group Ali plans to form to foster goodwill among peoples.

Mortimer said last week that he had received a letter of resignation from Ali and that a copy had been sent to WBA President Fernando Mandry Galindez of Argentina.

But Ali said nothing of the letter until Tuesday.

"The only think I can do to increase my popularity is to lose and win the title back for the fourth time," Ali said.

Ali first won the title as Cassius Clay when he stopped Sonny Liston in the seventh round on Feb. 25, 1964. He made nine defenses, including a controversial one-round knockout of Liston, before losing a decision to the U.S. government.

On April 28, 1967, he refused to be inducted into the U.S. Army at Houston. "I ain't got no quarrel with the Viet Congs," he said.

He was convicted of draft evasion June 20, 1967, fined $10,000 and sentenced to five years in prison. But he didn't go to prison because of an appeal, and on June 28, 1971, the U.S. Supreme Court, by an 8-0 vote with Justice Thurgood Marshall abstaining, overturned Ali's conviction.

Ali's biggest victory came eight months after he returned to boxing, the climate in the United States concerning the Vietnam War having changed.

On Oct. 26, 1970, he stopped Jerry Quarry on a cut eye in three rounds at Atlanta and on Dec. 7, he knocked down Oscar Bonavena three times and stopped him in the 15th round at New York's Madison Square Garden. That set up "The Fight," a title bid against champion Joe Frazer for the unheard of purses of $2.5 million each.

Although, it ended in Ali's first pro defeat after 31 victories, it was one of Ali's greatest efforts in a career marked by the unexpected and the spectacular. Ali was knocked down in the 15th round in losing a unanimous decision and there were those who felt his career might be finished.

But the loss to Smokin' Joe wasn't the real crisis in Ali's career, which began professionally Oct. 29 after the talkative

Texas Baseball Clubs Headed For Series?

A-J News Services

An all-Texas World Series?

Before you laugh, remember the Texas Rangers are only one game behind first-place California in the American League West and the Houston Astros — who have never won more than 84 games in any of their 17 years of existence — have suddenly pulled out to the major leagues' largest lead — 6 1/2 games over Cincinnati in the National League West.

"I have to say they (Astros) are for real," conceded Cincinnati's Joe Morgan Tuesday night, after Houston rallied for five eighth-inning runs en route to a 6-5 triumph over the Reds. "They are no fluke. They are getting a lot of breaks but you have to have them to win."

What you also need for a pennant is all 25 players contributing throughout the season.

Seldom-used Denny Walling slammed a three-run homer and pinch hitter Jesus Alou, who moonlights as the regular first-base coach, hit a two-run double as the torrid Astros won their 18th in the last 20 at the Astrodome.

Joe Sambito, who earned his seventh save, has not allowed an earned run in his last 19 appearances, spanning 30 2-3 innings.

The Texas Rangers are doing it in spite of injuries and that's a good sign for any manager.

"Right now the best thing we are doing is pitching the ball and catching it," Texas Manager Pat Corrales said after the Rangers topped California, 2-1, to move within a game of first place in the Western Division.

Jon Matlack, 5-4, struck out nine and allowed seven hits through 8 2-3 innings before Jim Kern came on to record his 12th save. Billy Sample broke up the game in the eighth with a solo homer.

"It's always big to drive in the winning run," said Sample. "But this was a big game, a good game, a well-pitched game and to break up a game like that is something special."

Even though Richie Zisk is slumping and sitting on the bench, Al Oliver is still out of the lineup with a sprained hand and catcher Jim Sundberg is in the hospital with a bruise on his head from being hit with an Don Aase pitch, the Rangers managed to win their eighth game in 11 outings and hand the division-leading Angels their fifth straight loss.

Aase's record slipped to 6-6 and in those six losses the Angels have scored a total of eight runs.

Royals 7, A's 6

The way George Scott is playing these days for the Kansas City Royals, the faces at Boston could soon be as red as their sox.

"He is really one heck of a dedicated ballplayer," says third baseman George Brett of the newest Royal.

The Red Sox traded away their longtime slugger earlier this month, but might well be embarrased by that decision the way the pumped-up Scott is hitting for the Royals.

Hardly showing his age — which is 35 — Scott continued to look like a million with an RBI single in the 10th inning that provided the Royals with a triumph over the Oakland A's. The base hit raised his batting average to .417 since he came to Kansas City.

"Sometimes a guy just gets in a bad situation, like he was in Boston," said Brett. "A guy gets depressed and he gets in a slump. But now he's smiling and happy all the time and playing every day. He's certainly no .220 hitter (Scott's Boston average)."

Tigers 6, Red Sox 4

Champ Summers drove in three runs with a homer and an eighth-inning, bases-loaded single as Detroit defeated Boston. Detroit's Jack Morris, 5-4, went the distance for the victory, scattering seven hits and striking out four. Boston reliever Bill Campbell, 2-3, took the loss.

"I think he (Manager Sparky Anderson) knew I had good stuff, and I felt I had good stuff," said Morris. "I was pretty pumped up when he left me in. He almost never does that."

Twins 8, Brewers 7

Orioles 3, Indians 2

Rich Dauer looped a two-run double into the right field corner, keying a three-run fourth inning as Baltimore defeated Cleveland. It was the 17th victory in 19 games for Baltimore, the American League East leaders and the ninth consecutive loss for the Indians.

Yankees 11, Blue Jays 2

Jim Spencer's two-run homer capped a five-run first inning that powered New York over Toronto. Spencer's sixth home run of the season followed a two-run single by Graig Nettles.

Fred Stanley, who took over at second base in the fourth inning after Willie Randolph was hit by a pitch on the left hip, also drove in two runs for the Yankees with a suicide squeeze bunt and a single.

Mariners 3, White Sox 2

Tom Paciorek's pinch-hit sacrifice fly capped a two-run eighth inning that paced Seattle over Chicago. The Mariners had tied the game 2-2 earlier in the eighth when they strung together three straight singles, the third a run-scoring bloop hit by Dan Meyer of Chicago reliever Steve Trout, 1-3.

Expos 5, Cards 3

"I'll take it. In the boxscore, it'll look like a rocket. Whatever it takes to win is good enough for me," Ross Grimsley said after a bloop sixth-inning single off the end of his bat gave the Expos their 12th victory in the last 16 games.

Singles by Tony Perez and Gary Carter and Jerry White's grounder put runners at second and third. After Larry Parrish was walked intentionally, Tommy Hutton's grounder scored Perez to make it 2-2 before Grimsley got his two-run hit off pitcher John Denny's glove.

Giants 6, Braves 5

Phillies 5, Cubs 3

Singles by Greg Gross, Bake McBride and Pete Rose accounted for one Philadelphia run in the sixth inning, then Mike Schmidt drove in three with his 21st homer of the season to beat the Cubs.

Pirates 2, Mets 1

Bert Blyleven and Grant Jackson teamed to four-hit the Mets while Bill Robinson, celebrating his 36th birthday, hit a tie-breaking homer off Tom Hausman in the seventh inning and turned in a game-saving catch for Pittsburgh an inning later.

Padres 5, Dodgers 1

Fernando Gonzalez's three-run homer off Los Angeles' Don Sutton in a four-run fourth inning eabled the Padres to halt their four-game losing streak and hand the Dodgers their 16th loss in the last 23 games.

Bob Shirley pitched his first complete game of the season — but it didn't come easy. He was tagged for 11 hits by the Dodgers en route to his first victory since May 30.

Ex-Yank Murcer Returns

TORONTO (AP) — Bobby Murcer left New York disgruntled and disillusioned following the 1974 baseball season, but that has all changed now that the Yankees have reacquired him.

The 33-year-old Murcer had the unique experience Tuesday of taking batting practice for an afternoon game in Chicago only to wind up playing a night game in Toronto.

Murcer was in his Chicago uniform and scheduled to start for the Cubs against the Philadelphia Phillies. But a few minutes before gametime, the Cubs swapped him to the Yankees for minor league pitcher Paul Semall and an undisclosed amount of cash.

"I feel like a new man," Murcer said. "I've never been so happy in all my life."

It wasn't easy, but Murcer made it across the border, arriving in the Yankees' clubhouse 15 minutes before their game against the Blue Jays. He dressed hurriedly, played right field and delivered two singles in four at-bats — he also walked twice — as the Yankees crushed the Blue Jays 11-2.

Although he hit 139 home runs in six seasons with the Yankees (1969-74) and was one of the most popular players in New York, Murcer pouted when Manager Bill Virdon moved him from center field to right to make right for the brilliant glove of Elliott Maddox. And although owner George Steinbrenner had promised that he would always be a Yankee, Murcer was traded to San Francisco for Bobby Bonds on Oct. 22, 1974.

The Giants, in turn, dealt him to the Cubs on Feb. 11, 1977, along with Steve Ontiveros for Bill Madlock and Rob Sperring.

"I can't think of a word to describe it," Murcer said when asked how it felt to be back with the Yankees. Then he thought of the word.

"Delighted," he said. "When they (the Cubs) asked me if I would like to go back to the Yankees, I couldn't get 'yes' out of my mouth fast enough. I'm delighted they even asked me to come back.

"I just felt like I was visiting those other clubs. My place is in New York. It's home to me. I'm sorry I had to leave for a few years, but now I'm back.

"I just felt more comfortable in New York. I felt in my mind it was the place I really wanted to be. I grew up with this club and I learned to play baseball in this organization."

Murcer was in the third year of a five-year $1.6 million contract in Chicago and Bob Kennedy, the Cubs' general manager, called the trade "a financial windfall for us."

He said the Cubs would platoon Scot Thompson and Mike Vail in Murcer's right field spot.

Yankee Manager Billy Martin said he was "really happy" to have Murcer. "I've always respected the kind of batter he is," Martin said. "He can play the outfield and he gives me speed."

Martin was so anxious to see Murcer in action that he made out a provisional lineup card listing pitcher Ron Guidry in right field and batting sixth, hoping Murcer would arrive before Guidry had to bat or play in the field.

But he answered the inevitable question about how Murcer's acquisition would affect the status of sidelined slugger Reggie Jackson, this year's disgruntled and disillusioned right fielder, by saying that Jackson would be the right fielder when he recovers from the calf injury that has kept him on the disabled list for more than three weeks.

"I think Murcer can switch to other outfield positions without any problem," he said.

While Murcer was ecstatic, Jackson remained unhappy and mystified as to why he was the target of recent verbal attacks by Steinbrenner and Martin.

The Yankees disclosed Monday that Jackson asked to be traded when Martin returned as manager last week. His name was placed on the American League waiver list but withdrawn when several teams claimed him, meaning that he must remain a Yankee for at least another month.

Steinbrenner said it was "clearly up to Jackson now" to reconcile his differences with Martin and said the club has "done all the coaxing it intends to do toward bringing Jackson around." Martin said if Jackson "doesn't want to come back and help his teammates, that's his own thing," and then adopted a policy of strict silence on the matter.

"I'm in the middle and I don't understand why," Jackson said Tuesday after taking special batting practice in New York several hours before the Murcer deal was announced. "It's incredible. George is trying to turn the press and the fans against me.

"I'd like to think they can't mess with my head but I guess they have. I just want to play ball. I just want to get back in there."

Judge Again Rules For Camps

HOUSTON (UPI) — Lawyers have won another skirmish in their fight for a court order abolishing a Texas high school rule that penalizes student athletes for attending private summer training camps.

U.S. District Judge George Cire Tuesday issued a temporary injunction forbidding the University Interscholastic League from enforcing the rule against six youths, but he postponed a broader final decision until this fall.

Cire scheduled a trial Sept. 4 to decide whether the rule — which disqualifies from interscholastic competition athletes who buy special summer training — violates parents' constitutional rights to educate children as they see fit.

The suing parents want the private camps to maximize chances for college scholarships and professional careers. UIL wants to limit them as a potential athletic excess and contends such camps would discriminate against those who could not afford to go.

Cire, who took the case from resigning Judge Finis Cowan, met lawyers privately and did not explain his ruling from the bench. Lawyers said the decision mirrored Cowan's temporary order in the Greg Kite case last year.

Kite, a Madison basketball star who signed with Brigham Young University, filed suit last year challenging the rule, which affects athletes in every team sport except baseball. Individual sports are exempt.

Despite the Kite ruling, UIL Members reaffirmed the rule May 5 but changed it so banning of a boy or girl applies only to those team sports in which the athlete bought special summer training. It previously applied across the board.

Cowan last year said it appeared the state could demonstrate no sufficient reason for infringing the constitutional right of parents to regulate their children's education.

"Judge Cire has decided plaintiffs have the same merit as Greg Kite had," said Dean Steffey, lawyer for the athletes. "The UIL has indicated they're going to appeal."

Lawyers for both sides had requested a final judgment in the case Tuesday, but Cire delayed it pending presentation of all evidence in a September trial.

Former Monterey Star Joins U.S. All-Star Team

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO.—Although Scott Gardner is disappointed with his low selection in the recent professional baseball draft, he seems content with a more immediate goal he has set for himself.

The former Montery High School hurler is working towards a gold medal as a member of a special team of All-Stars selected to particpate in the Pan American baseball games which begins July 1st in Puerto Rico.

Yeah, I'm looking forward to winning a gold medal," said Gardner in a telephone interview from the Olympic Village training ground here. "Our team should be one of the favorites."

Gardner, who is entering his senior year on the Oklahoma baseball team, joins 19 other college players on the United States club. "Eight regional tryouts were held and two 20 man teams were chosen," explained the 6-5 pitcher. "We competed in exibition games in Venezuela from June 9-18."

From those two groups one team of the top players was chosen to represent the United States in the Pan American games which will be played in San Juan.

"The competition was tough but I had a pretty good series in Venezuela and made the team," said Gardner, who compiled a 42-10 record in three years at Monterey.

"I don't know for sure what the starting rotation will be (in San Juan) but I'll be one of them," he claimed. The other starting pitcher is expected to be Tim Leary, who was drafted in the second round of this year's draft.

The Americans will face teams from 34 countries in the tourney including teams from Brazil, Argentina, Canada and Cuba. Cuba has won the international games four times in the last seven years. "They will be tough because they are like a major league team. In fact, we will have the youngest team here," exclaimed Gardner.

"The competition will be strong but our pitching will be tough for the opponents." And for his own role, Gardner plans to challenge the other teams with his fastball.

"The fastball has always been one of my strongest assets and I think I can challenge them with it. American players look for the fastball more but I think I can get it past most foreign players," said Gardner, who's fastball has been clocked at 93 mph. "I'm working hard on the curve ball now though because if the curve works I'll throw very well," he added.

But what about the draft?

"Sure I was disappointed with my selection in the draft," he said. (Gardner was not chosen until the 28th round by the Baltimore Orioles.) "But I had a slow start this past year at OU and the scouts just weren't too impressed." The hurler was 1-7 midway through the season but rebounded to win his last seven games and finish 8-7 while leading Oklahoma to the Big Eight title.

"I experimented with a new wind-up in the beginning of the season but it didn't work so I went back to the way I used to pitch in high school and my game has been much better," explained Gardner.

The former All-State performer is returning to Lubbock later this summer to play with the Lubbock Hubbers. Then he plans to return to the OU for his senior season and work towards the 1980 draft. After all, the last time Gardner was a senior—in 1976—he was selected in the 3rd round by the Milwaukee Brewers. "I'm a smarter pitcher now," said Gardner. "So I know I can make it in the majors."

Ali Retires Champion

The fight that could have wrecked Ali's career came at Inglewood, Calif., Sept. 10, 1973, against Ken Norton, who had broken Ali's jaw and outpointed him over 12 rounds in March, 1973. In the Norton rematch, Ali went into the 12th and final round ahead on one official's card, behind on another and even on the third. He won the round and was on his way back to the top of the boxing world, with an important stop at the Garden Jan. 28, 1974, where he scored a unanimous decision over Frazier.

In the African dawn of Oct. 30, 1974, to a battle cry of "Ali booma-yay (Ali kill him)," Ali joined Floyd Patterson as the only man to win the heavyweight title twice by knocking out George Foreman in the eighth round in a shocking upset at Kinshasa, Zaire.

It was a spectacular achievement and must rank with Ali's victories over Liston and the first and third fights against Frazier as his greatest achievements in the ring.

"I was like death," said Ali, who admitted he wanted to quit after the 10th round. The time was the morning of Oct. 1, 1975, the place was Manilla, the opponent was Joe Frazier.

It was one of the greatest of all heavyweight fights, with Ali winning when Frazier, his eyes closed, was unable to answer the bell for the 15th round.

Ali had fought Spinks on Feb. 15, 1978. Spinks had fought only seven pro fights before his title bid and most boxing observers considered it a mismatch.

In the past, Ali has spouted poetry, bellowed "Float like a butterfly and sting like a bee," and named his opposed — Liston, "the Bear;" Patterson, "the Rabbit;" Frazier, "the Gorilla," and Foreman, "the Mummy." For Spinks, he said nothing, wrapping himself in cloak of public silence which stretched for 2½ months and ended the day before the fight.

The night after the fight, he said to an acquaintance, "Don't call me champ. He's the champ." Ali had lost a split decision and the heavyweight championship.

He also said on that night of defeat, "I'll be back. I'll be the first man to win the heavyweight title three times."

On Sept. 16, Ali stood in a New Orleans hotel room and said, "It's my biggest fight because I'm older and it's my last fight." The night before, Ali, who had punished his aging body to get it in the best possible condition, easily outpointed Spinks.

It was the 56th victory in a 59-bout career in which his purses topped $51 million.

After the decision was announced, Spinks went to Ali. "I wanted to congratulate him," said Spinks. "He's still Muhammad."

Will there ever be another?

South African Runner Barred

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sydney Maree is a young black South African and a world-class miler, but because he is the former it appears he will not have a chance to compete as the latter again this weekend.

The 22-year-old Villanova sophomore wants a crack at New Zealand's John Walker, the world record holder in the mile; Ireland's Eamonn Coghlan, indoor mile record holder; three-time AAU 1,500-meter champ Steve Scott and fellow Wildcat Don Paige, the NCAA 800 and 1,500-meter champion who outran Walker last week.

Walker and the others are to run in Saturday's Meet of Champions at the University of Pennsylvania's Franklin Field.

So was Maree, until the Amateur Athletic Union threatened to withdraw the meet's sanction and bar any Americans competing from the 1980 Olympics if Maree competes.

The AAU is backed by the International Amateur Athletic Federation in London, which says Maree cannot compete in any meet involving foreign athletes representing their countries. The prohibition is against any South African athlete, a result of pressure by the 46-country African Sports Council, according to meet director Ron Stanko.

"These rules are tailored to help the black man of South Africa, but keep this black man down," said Maree, who says he has no contact with the white South African government and says it does not represent him.

Maree was forced to withdraw from the New Jersey meet last weekend when Walker contacted the New Zealand AAU and was told not to compete if Maree did. New Zealand has taken a strong stance because the country's rugby match against South Africa provoked a walkout by African national teams in the 1976 Olympics in Montreal.

"If you don't have a sanction and run against us, you must consider the effects on us — we could be barred from the Olympics," said Rod Dixon, another New Zealander and fourth in the 5,000 in the 1976 Olympics.

"For these people to change the rules, you have to take a stand," said Maree, whose 3:53.7 in the Kronenbrau Invitational in Stellenbosch, South Africa, is the fastest mile this year.

"If six or seven athletes compete here, that's not a stand," said Walker. "What was the 1976 Olympics like without 36 countries? It still went on."

"The African Sports Council doesn't care whether you're white or black — they want to change the political structure (apartheid in South Africa)," said Dick Quax, New Zealand's silver medalist in the 5,000 meters at the 1976 Olympics.

"We all know it's hypocritical," said Walker. "But unfortunately, we are all governed by different bodies and under an umbrella organization and we can either ship in or ship out, and that's what it's all about."

"If I don't run, how does that resolve the problem?" said Maree. "I don't have any rights at all."

Tennis' 'Bad Boys' Face Off

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Two of the reputed bad boys of world tennis were set to meet today in a potentially explosive men's singles second-round match at Wimbledon.

John McEnroe, the second-seeded American known for on-court tantrums, was to play the sometimes abrasive British No. 1, Buster Mottram, on center court.

McEnroe crushed Mottram in the Davis Cup final at Palm Springs, Calif., late last year, and the Briton was seeking revenge for that humiliation.

"He walked all over me in the Davis Cup," Mottram said, "and he is a really difficult man to play."

Mottram's chances of causing an upset did not appear good. The Briton, controversial here because of his right-wing politics, had to find a counter to McEnroe's booming left-hand serves.

"Playing on grass is like Russian roulette," Mottram complained after his first-round win over compatriot Richard Lewis. "I hate it. There is no strategy."

That sort of attitude was unlikely to help Mottram's game against 20-year-old McEnroe who has been christened "superbrat" by the British tabloid press.

Both McEnroe and Mottram behaved impeccably in their opening matches. The young American has vowed not to let his temperament get in his way.

Defending champion Martina Navratilova, watched by her mother for the first time in four years, downed the young South African Tanya Harford 4-6, 6-2, 6-1. Mother and daughter were reunited just before the tournament started. They had not seen each other since Martina's defection from Czechoslovakia to the United States.

She was joined in the next stage by second-seed Chris Evert Lloyd who beat Califrnian Maria Redondo 6-4, 6-2 in less than an hour.

The only seeded woman to lose was Britain's Sue Barker, beaten 6-3, 4-6, 8-6 by the up-and-coming young Argentine, Ivanna Madruga.

Jimmy Connors and Guillermo Vilas, two of the top contenders for Borg's title, both won in convincing style. Connors, who led by two sets to one overnight, completed a 6-2, 6-7, 7-5, 6-3 win over Jean Francois Caujolle of France, while Vilas swamped British veteran Roger Taylor 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

The most impressive performance of the day came from No.8 seeded Victor Pecci of Paraguay who crushed big-serving American Sherwood Stewart 7-5, 6-2, 6-3.

Sports Notes

Pinehills States Golf Tourney

Area golfers interested in competing in this weekend's summer partnership at the Pinehills Golf Course had better move fast.

Officials at the Pinehills golf shop reported Tuesday afternoon that 89 teams had already signed up to compete in the Saturday-Sunday event.

The first 120 teams that enter the marathon event will be allowed to compete in the tourney. The entry fee is $55 per team, and the deadline for entry is 6 p.m. Friday.

The action begins with shotgun starts at 9 a.m. and 2 p.m on Saturday and Sunday. The teams will be flighted on the basis of the first day's scores, reported host pro Courtney White.

Hillcrest Concludes Golf Tourney

The four golfers won the tournament by a stroke with a 57 in the 18-hole competition.

Pan Am Golf Deadline Nears

The tourney is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday at Meadowbrook golf course. Entry fee is $20 per person, and interested golfers can contact Rudy Moreno at 795-9053.

The field will be organized into four flights and Saturday's tee time is noon. Trophies will be presented to the winners and a closest-to-the-pin and longest drive contests will be sponsored.

Lady Bug Partnership Ends

Cathleen Oswalt and Jane Gray combined for a lowball 63 to win the Third Annual Lady Bugs' Partnership golf tournament at Hillcrest Country Club Tuesday.

Hillcrest Tennis Tournament Nears

Several Lubbock families are taking advantage of the warm weather on hand to prepare for an upcoming tennis meet at Hillcrest Country Club.

Of course, it's not just any tournament; it's the regional competition of the Equitable Family Tennis challenge slated for July 10 at Hillcrest.

Earlier this month, Jane and Amy Irons won the area mother-daughter competition, Kay and Greg Plumber of Seagraves took the mother-son play, Clarence and Barbara Baugh won the father-daughter event, Carlos and Carlos Rojas the father-son division, and David and Billie Hester won the husband-wife play.

These area winners now compete in the West Texas district tournament, also at Hillcrest, on July 10. Regional winners then advance to the sectional tournament in Dallas sometime between July 30 and Aug. 28.

And the sectional winners (there are 16 in the U.S.) will receive all-expenses-paid trips to the U.S. Open in September.

South Plains Signs Two Netters

LEVELLAND (Special) — South Plains College has announced the signing of two high school tennis players, Leslie Hall of Fort Stockton and Robert Chonoles of El Paso.

Hall, a state Class AAA tennis runner-up, won nine tournaments during his career at Fort Stockton. Chonoles, a graduate of El Paso's Austin High School, placed first in the James Donges Memorial and El Paso Fall Junior Open tournaments, and was second in the District 1-AAAA, El Paso Public Closed and the Burges Indoor tourneys.

AAU Action Comes To Borger

Four individuals in each of the events will qualify for regional competition. The winners in intermediate (14-15) and senior (16-17) classes, plus the next two best times or distances in all selected events, will qualify to compete in the Region IX Championships July 14 in Lubbock.

Winners at the Region IX Meet will qualify to compete in the National Championships.

Baseball Old-Timer Has Lots Of Memories

By AL BROWNING
The Tuscaloosa News

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — Joe Sewell can take a man down Memory Lane faster than the flight of a 1927 Babe Ruth home run.

At 80, his mind is as impressive as was his ability to make contact with a baseball during 16 major league seasons.

"I've got a lot of good stories to tell, some suitable for publication, some not," said Sewell, reflecting on his days with the Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees.

Sewell has enough plaques, pictures and preserved equipment in his home to strike the fancy of any baseball fan. He will make room for another plaque next month when the Alabama Sports Hall of Fame member is inducted into the Ohio Baseball Hall of Fame.

Included in his awards room display is the bat he used almost throughout his career and a bronzed glove that helped him to fielding fame.

"I named that bat 'Black Bessie,'" Sewell said, "and I've never seen another one quite like it. We got a lot of hits together, particularly on Sundays when there were big crowds in the stands.

"Do I think I could still swing today? I sure do. In fact, if I were playing today on those Astroturf infields, I bet I'd hit 15 or 20 ponts higher. The ball would fly through the infield.

"See this picture? That is my last time at bat. It was taken in an old-timers game at Yankee Stadium in 1972. I hit a ground ball into right field for a single and took half a day to get to first base.

"It was all uphill. The running might come hard, but I could still hit major league pitching after about a month of training in Florida."

"I've got numbers, numbers, and numbers of memories," said Sewell, "but the most gratifying did not come hitting, throwing or winning. It came one day in Cleveland when I looked up and realized I was on the same field with Ty Cobb.

"Cobb was my idol when I was a kid. When the Tigers came to town and I found myself playing against him, I thanked the Lord for the ability he gave me.

"I see people play on TV and want to go to bat for them. The Atlanta Braves have some of the sorriest hitters I've ever seen. They act like they're afraid of the ball.

"Do you know how many players off the Yankees team last year would have made our club in 1932? Two, and they would both be in the bullpen. (Thurman) Munson would be our backup catcher and (Ron) Guidry would be a relief pitcher."

NBA Stars Roomates

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Walter Davis has the master bedroom.

But, he said, that's only because Phil Ford "had it last summer, and we alternate."

The two were teammates at North Carolina. Now, as professional basketball players, they play on different teams. But this summer they are sharing a house outside of Chapel Hill.

Davis plays for the Phoenix Suns and has just completed his second year in the NBA. Ford starts for the Kansas City Kings and finished his rookie year. They're living near Chapel Hill with old friend Greg Miles, who was a student basketball manager at North Carolina when they played.

Thanks to NBA contracts handled by shrewd agents, both are millionaires. Each made $50,000 in addition to his contract payments in bonuses and awards as a rookie. But they live on monthly allowances and say it takes a few phone calls to get more money. Ford, mindful of his budget, negotiated with a neighborhood youth about cutting the back lawn.

GONZALEZ HOLDS SESSION

TOKYO (AP) — Betulio Gonzalez of Venezuela, the World Boxing Association flyweight champion, held his first public sparring session in Japan Tuesday in preparation for his July 6 title fight against Japan's Shoji Oguma. Gonzalez sparred five rounds of five to six minutes each with junior flyweight Jose Galiegos of Mexico, a southpaw like Oguma. Gonzalez, 30, who arrived in Japan saturday, also did 45 minutes of road work Tuesday. The 15-round bout between Gonzalez and Oguma, 27, will be their fourth meeting. In their last championship match Jan. 29, the two battled to a draw.

King Decision Due This Week

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — A decision will be announced before Monday on whether the Kings National Basketball Association franchise will remain in Kansas City next season, the teams managing partner said after meeting with Mayor Richard Berkley Tuesday.

Managing Director Paul Rosenberg said the team's owners — himself and nine local businessmen — had come to "no firm conclusion" about the franchise's future in Kansas City. Kings General Manager Joe Axelson, however, said he was "encouraged".

The meeting was the first time owners of the Kings had talked with city officials since the collapse of the roof of Kemper Arena.

TRIPLE WRITTEN LIMITED WARRANTY
1. LIMITED FREE REPLACEMENT WARRANTY
Whites tires will be repaired free within 30 days, excluding repairable punctures when used under normal conditions. This free replacement warranty extends to tires failing due to BLOW OUTS, CUTS, BRUISES, TREADWEAR or separations resulting from usual wear and tear in road use under normal conditions providing the tire is not repairable.
2. LIMITED MILEAGE SERVICE WARRANTY
Whites tires are warranted for the number of miles per months indicated against BLOW OUTS, CUTS, BRUISES, TREADWEAR, RUT WEAR and all other road hazards except running flat or use on misaligned wheels. Any tire failing from any of these causes will be replaced on the basis of service rendered or repaired free of charge if reparable, providing failure resulted from usual wear and tear in road use under normal conditions.
3. LIMITED LIFETIME WARRANTY
We further warrant all Whites tires for the life of the tire against defects in workmanship and materials during and after the above warranties have expired, without limit as to time or mileage prorated on tread wear.

Some ideas work and some won't! In 1978 over 2000 growers from California to Delaware and from Canada to Florida agreed that the Spray Sickle is one weed control idea that really works.
The 1979 Spray Sickle is better than ever — (Over 35 New Improvements.) If you have Johnson Grass (or any other problem weed) the Spray Sickle is really the only sure way to eradicate it.

Lubbock Pastor Briefs Confab

By JEFF McCASLIN
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The Rev. Eliseo Aldape called for new directions in church leadership during his speech Tuesday night at the Mexican Baptist Convention being held through today in Memorial Civic Center.

Aldape, president of the Mexican Baptist Conference and pastor of Arnett-Benson Church in Lubbock, said that too often church leaders get the idea that leadership begins with leading instead of service.

"We've got a lot of people in key positions (in the church), both pastors and laymen, who have never been servants in the ministry of Christ," Aldape told the conferees that Christians need more discipleship in the church.

"We're not geared for the battle. We wait too long to get ready. We stop to count the cost," he said.

Turning his message to young people, Aldape cautioned the youth to prepare for tomorrow. He warned them about allowing politics to get in the way and causing them to lose the evangelistic thrust of their Christian mission.

As of Tuesday night, 1160 persons registered for the conference, which will convene for a final session tonight. About 600 of those registered were messengers representing 197 churches throughout Texas.

Also highlighting Tuesday's activities was the election of officers.

The Rev. Omar Pachecano, associate to the director of Missions of the El Paso Baptist Association, was elected president to replace Aldape. Other officers elected were: The Rev. Rudy Trevino, minister of music and youth at the Mexican Baptist Church in Friona, first vice president; the Rev. Santos Ramos, minister of the Baptist Temple Mission in Lubbock, second vice president; and the Rev. Hector Hernandez, pastor of First Mexican Baptist Church in Pharr, secretary.

Other new officers include Mrs. Marcella Casarez of Dallas, president of the Womens Missionary Union; Moises Perez, president of Baptist Men; the Rev. Leopoldo Samaniego, pastor of First Mexican Baptist Church in Laredo, president of the Pastors Conference; and Robert Cuellar, minister of music at South San Antonio Mexican Baptist Church, president of the Music Conference.

LPOA Eyes Presentation Of Petitions

By SYLVIA TEAGUE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Lubbock Property Owners Association officials say they have more than enough signatures to force the Lubbock City Council to call an election on proposed charter amendments to hold city taxes at their current level.

LPOA chairman Bob Green said the group has collected more than 15,000 signatures on petitions which began circulating 16 months ago in the heat of the local tax revolt.

Green wanted to present the petitions to the Lubbock City Council at its meeting Thursday, but was told by Mayor Dirk West that it would be difficult because of Texas Open Meetings Law requirements.

That law says all items on the council agenda must be posted 72 hours in advance of the meeting.

However, West said he told Green "if he felt like it was an emergency" the item could be placed on the agenda.

Green "said he would call me back" on whether it could be classified an emergency, West said, but Green had not called before 10:30 a.m. today.

Reportedly the group will attempt instead to present the petitions to the City Secretary while the council meets Thursday. But West said the City Attorney has said the petitions only can be presented to the council.

Green said the group had enough signatures "within two to three weeks" after the petition drive began in February of last year, but the association had "been sitting on top of them."

"To show it was not just a fluke, we just went on gathering signatures," he said.

Green acknowledged there was "quite a bit of strategy" involved in the request for an election now. Although he refused to elaborate, the submission of the petitions coincides with the tax office's annual revaluation of property which sparked last year's tax revolt.

The petitions also are being submitted one or two months prior to city budget deliberations.

The LPOA petitions would limit the city tax rate to the current $1.12 per $100 valuation and limit the assessment ratio to the current 60 percent of market value.

Also, the proposed charter amendments would require approval of city voters if the city lowered the tax rate or ratio, then attempted to raise it.

Numerous constitutional questions have been raised about the proposals and it appears one of the amendments could be in direct conflict with a recently-enacted state law.

A portion of tax reform legislation sponsored by Rep. Wayne Peveto of Orange requires all property to be taxed at 100 percent of market value — not 60 percent.

Police Searching For Suspect In Daylight Robbery Of Girl

Police early today were looking for a man who reportedly robbed a girl of $78 at gunpoint after jumping into her car about 3:20 p.m. Tuesday at Fourth Street and University Avenue.

Amanda Blair, 16, of 2010 Ninth St., Apt. 2, said she had stopped for a red light when the man got into the passenger's side of the vehicle, displayed a blue steel revolver and demanded her purse.

After the teen-ager said she did not have a purse, the bandit grabbed her wallet containing the cash and fled, according to reports.

The bandit was described as a black man, about 30 years old, tall, thin, and with pasted-down, shoulder-length black hair. He was clad in a blue shirt, blue pants and brown coat.

In another reported assault, an 18-year-old Lubbock woman told police she was threatened about 11 p.m. Tuesday by a knife-wielding man who she said wanted to drink beer with her.

The woman said the man came to a residence and knocked on the door. She said he grabbed her as she walked out and dragged her to his nearby residence, where he wanted her to drink beer with him.

The woman said she wrestled with the man after he would not let her leave, and that he displayed a knife and threatened to kill her if she called police.

The suspect was described as black, between 18 and 25, short, and wearing a blue jean coat and blue pants. No arrest had been made by early today.

In a recent burglary, Laurie Bensberg of 2119-A Seventh St. said she lost about $775 in stereo equipment and jewelry when her place was broken into between 9 p.m. and 10:45 p.m. Tuesday.

Two Lubbock businesses reported to police Tuesday that tires were stolen by burglars wearing tennis shoes.

Edward Poole, 28, of Lubbock Manufactoring Co., 401 N. Ave. H told police that someone cut a chain link fence surrounding the business and stole 12 tires and wheels from the parking lot.

Poole estimated the value of the tires and wheels at $2,795. He said the burglary occurred between 8 p.m. Monday and 7:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Dean Yeisley told police someone cut a wire fence around the building, and then broke down a door, sounding an alarm. Before police arrived, the burglars had stolen several truck tires, worth about $300. The burglary occurred about 3:30 a.m. Tuesday.

Court Upholds Earlier Ruling

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals today stood by its earlier approval of Lucinda Stout's murder conviction and 99-year sentence in the stabbing death of her mother.

Miss Stout was 16 when accused in Dallas of killing Sharon Stout on June 11, 1977.

In April, the court rejected Miss Stout's argument that her oral confession should not have been used against her in court.

She told Dallas police officers she had taken her parents to dinner for a "last supper" the day her mother died, the appeals court said in April.

The court said witnesses testified she followed her mother to the backyard when she went to empty the trash and stabbed her in the back. When her father came to the back door, the daughter shot him twice with a pistol, the court opinion said.

Sunny Skies Forecast For Lubbock Vicinity

A-J News Services

Fair skies and warm temperatures are forecast through Thursday in the Lubbock area, compliments of a buffering high pressure system that early today was located just west of the South Plains.

Hub City temperatures were expected to climb to the low 90s this afternoon and inch upward to the mid-90s Thursday. The high in the city Tuesday was 88 degrees.

The extended South Plains forecast through the weekend shows continued sunny skies, with high temperatures ranging from the mid-90s to near 100 degrees and the lows fluctuating between the mid-60s and low 70s.

Elsewhere in the state today, generally fair skies were expected except in South Texas, where scattered afternoon and evening showers and thunderstorms were forecast. High temperatures were primarily forecast in the 90s, with a reading near 100 degrees expected along the Rio Grande River.

Rainfall reports from over the state for the 24-hour period ending at 7 a.m. today showed Waco with 1.35 inches, Victoria with .78 and Abilene with .42.

More severe weather occurred Tuesday in the Midwest. An advancing cold front spawned showers and thunderstorms from Michigan to Nebraska, and damages to property were reported in at least three states.

Tornadoes were reported late Tuesday at Chadron in northwestern Nebraska and near Crofton at the opposite end of the state. In addition to the twisters, hail ranging in diameter from three-quarters of an inch to baseball-size was reported at several locations in the Nebraska Panhandle.

Strong winds accompanied by hail showers reportedly knocked down a barn in northeastern Iowa, and in Austin, Minn., wind gusts downed a hangar at an airport.

TRC Postpones Lake Decision

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Railroad Commission has postponed until Monday a decision on whether to resume oilfield brine disposal operations at Whalen Lake.

Railroad commissioners Tuesday said they wanted to know if the Texas Department of Water Resources claims jurisdiction over the Andrews County lake.

In October 1978, the railroad commission ordered the Whalen Corp. to quit using the shallow, playa lake as a dumping ground for brine water that surfaces with crude oil.

Commission chairman John Poerner ordered general counsel Rex White to find out if the water department claims jurisdiction over Whalen Lake. White is expected to report back at Monday's weekly oil and gas conference.

Whalen Corp.'s operation was shut down after the U.S. Interior Department and environmentalists said oil and sludge in the Andrews County lake was killing migratory birds.

Oil producers argued that they would have to cut back production if they were unable to dump salt water, a natural by-product of oil wells.

On May 7, hearing examiners recommended the lake be reopened to brine disposal because the corporation had made principal changes in its disposal procedures.

READY FOR REFUGEES

CAYENNE, French Guiana (AP) — The village of Ouanary, on the northeast coast of this French possession in South America, says it is ready to take in about 50 Vietnamese refugees. "We're underpopulated," said the 71-year-old mayor of the village, Lionel Oloue. "If they are workers, they will be welcome in our community." Ouanar has a population of 121.

in order to receive testimony concerning the State of Texas Water and Waste Management Strategy and the State/EPA Agreement. These documents have been prepared in response to a guidance document and policy statement prepared by the United States Environmental Protection Agency and published in the Federal Register March 21, 1979, under the authority of the Federal Clean Water Act, the Federal Safe Drinking Water Act, and the Federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act.
The State/EPA Agreement has been prepared through a cooperative effort of the Texas Department of Health, the Texas Department of Water Resources, and the Railroad Commission of Texas as a mechanism to coordinate response to health and environmental problems relating to water supply, solid waste, and water pollution control. The Agreement integrates environmental programs conducted under the Federal Safe Drinking Water Act, the Federal Clean Water Act, and the Federal Resource Conservation and Recovery Act.
Preparation of the Agreement has been preceded by and closely linked to preparation of a strategy document which establishes goals for addressing problems over a multi-year period. The agreement translates the strategy into a management work program for fiscal year 1980.
Drafts of the State/EPA Agreement, Appendices to the Agreement, and strategy documents are available from Mr. Frosty Gray, Texas Department of Water Resources, P.O. Box 13087, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711 (512/475-3454); Mr. Wiley Osborne, Texas Department of Health, 1100 W. 49th Street, Austin, Texas 78756 (512/458-7717); and Mr. George Singletary, Railroad Commission of Texas, P.O. Medical Procedures Used In Growing Business

By LEROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some sophisticated medical procedures are being used in a growing business with the tongue-twisting title of psychophysiological testing.

This testing — by measuring brainwave and musclewave patterns — is used to determine the ability or willingness of people to pay attention to newcasts, ads, radio and TV dramas, signs and lectures.

The technique first attracted attention about seven years ago when some advertising agencies began using the electromyographic recorder to study the muscular reaction of people in the laboratory to TV commercials.

Now, Neurocommunications Laboratories in Danbury, Conn., and Psychobiology Research Associate's two laboratories in Denver and in Purchase, N.Y., have combined their resources into a company called Psychophysiological Research Management Co. to carry on the research.

"Unfortunately," said Bill Harvey, publisher of the Media Science Newsletter and managing executive of the company, "we can't reveal the names of our clients. They are deterred from publicity by two considerations. Naturally, there is a desire to maintain a competitive edge, but mainly they are afraid they will be accused of planning to manipulate people's minds by playing the role of hidden persuaders, which they don't really intend to do."

Harvey said the company presently is conducting about six tests a month either for clients or in furtherng its own research.

The tests employ electromyographic recordings to test muscle tension but the main reliance is on measuring brain wave patterns by electroencephalograms. Effectiveness of this measurement derives from the fact the right hemisphere of the brain controls emotional response and the left hemisphere the logical or intellectual response.

"The best immediate commercial market for the testing obviously is with the broadcasting business and advertising agencies," Harvey said, "but its potential in the general fields of education and entertainment is large."

He said, for example, the tests can analyze the emotional and intellectual response and attention span of people in listening to a newscast or a lecture.

It's possible to determine at just what points the newscaster or lecturer loses the audience's attention, at what points he grips their attention and whether their responses reflect primarily emotional reaction or intellectual interest."

Of course, Harvey said, the machines can't measure the editorial or educational value of the newscript or lecture, but "they definitely can tell you if the writing of the script is over the heads of the test audience."

He added somewhat wrily that this probably is an indirect method of determining how dumb or uninformed the test audience is — "and that's vaulable information to the broadcasters and advertisers too."

Harvey said the method also can be used to evaluate probable audience reaction to musical compositions or plays. At present the only way to evaluate such reaction is to go to the expense of a full production in a tryout and even the fact that they loved it in Zenith City doesn't mean Broadway or Los Angeles will go for it.

Fireworks Display To Highlight Festival

DETROIT (AP) — Seven tons of rockets and shells will be fired midway between the American and Canadian shores over the Independence Day holidays.

Some 600,000 spectators are expected to watch the pyrotechnical display from both the Detroit and Windsor, Ontario, sides of the Detroit River.
