AUSTIN, July 8. (P)—Drastic action to force absent members to return to Austin so the house may complete its organization and begin the task of considering appropriation bills was in prospect today as the lower branch marked time without a quorum.

With only 92 of 160 members present, Representative J. B. Snelgrove, Henderson, said he would ask that warrants be issued tomorrow for the absentees if a working membership failed to develop. He called revealing 34 senators present, the senate was ready to transact business but was unable to begin its proceedings due to the failure of the house to become organized. Both houses recessed until 2 o'clock in the hope of beginning their task of providing for the judiciary and educational and eleemosynary institutions.

That Governor Moody may be forced to submit a few minor subjects other than appropriations bills in order to keep lawmakers busy while money bills are being considered by the appropriations committee was indicated in a statement of Speaker W. S. Barron today.

"It may be necessary to consider a few additional subjects in order that members of the two houses may be kept here," he said after conferring with the governor.

Two Members of Legislature Quit

AUSTIN, July 8. (P)—Representatives Ben Woodall, Marshall, and J. C. Shipman, Hamilton, today tendered their resignations to Governor Moody, effective immediately.

Woodall, whose name was mentioned as a possible candidate for speaker, quit his post in order to become deputy county and district attorney of Harrison county.

Shipman left the legislature on account of his removal to Abilene, where he will practice law.

Woodall was chairman of the criminal jurisprudence committee. Special elections to name successors to the two men will be held at an early date, Governor Moody said.

WASHINGTON, July 8. (P)—The acreage of cotton under cultivation in the United States July 1 was 3.2 per cent more than a year ago, the department of agriculture today estimated the area at 48,487,000 acres, compared with 46,948,000 acres on July 1, last year.

SUMMER EXAMS TO BE HELD JULY 18, 19

Final examinations for the students of the summer school, scheduled for July 18 and 19, will bring to a close and unusually successful term's work, it was said today by R. C. Campbell, director general. With six teachers employed to teach the 64 pupils in the high school, junior high school, and the grades, the same high quality of work demanded in the long term has been required, and much progress has resulted, he said.

All subjects usually offered during the regular school session, with the exception of the laboratory courses, were given in the summer school when there was a request. No high school or junior high school student was permitted, however, to carry more than one new subject, or more than two old ones, if the grades on work previously studied were far below the passing average. Pupils in the grades have carried from two to four subjects. Forty-four students in the high and junior high departments and 22 in the grades were enrolled for the entire summer term. The high school faculty included Supt. Campbell, his daughter, Miss Christine, Miss VeLora Reed, and Miss Fannie Florence Sims. Mrs. Annie Daniels and Miss Josephine Thomas are teaching the grade work.

Marvin Jones to Be Here Today

Congressman Marvin Jones is expected here this afternoon to confer with Postmaster W. A. Crawford and local citizens on the post office needs here. Conditions have become so congested that a larger building is necessary. Mr. Crawford talked with the congressman, who is a member of one of the postal committees, in Amarillo this morning.

Air-Rail Route Is Opened Today With Ceremony

GLENDAL, Calif., July 8. (P)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took the controls of a 12-passenger tri-motored airplane at 8:59 a. m., today and soared away to the east from the Grand Central air terminal here, bound for Cleveland, N. M., on the opening eastward flight over the new Trans-Continental Air Transport line.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 8. (P)—Despite rainy weather, the air-rail service of the Pennsylvania railroad and the Trans-Continental Air Transport, Inc., was inaugurated here today.

Two planes, The City of Columbus, and the "City of Wichita," took off from Port Columbus. The "City of Columbus" soared into the skies at 8:15 a. m., and the other plane followed a few minutes later. Each ship carried 10 passengers. In Washington, Secretary of Commerce Lamont pressed a button in his office, a gong sounded at the airport here, and the "City of Columbus" took off for Indianapolis. Miss Amelia Earhart, trans-Atlantic flier and assistant general traffic manager of the T. A. T., was one of the passengers in the first plane.

The flight from here to Waynoka, Okla., of the two ships marked the first time in the history of aviation that train and plane have been linked in regular trans-continental service.

Channing Boy Is Drowned in Lake

OKMULGEE, Okla., July 8. (P)—Alvin Davis, 22, of Channing, Texas, employed by the Carter Oil company at Seminole, was drowned at Greenwood lake, near here last night after diving into shallow water. He apparently struck his head and was rendered unconscious.

LOS ANGELES IS SHAKEN BY HARD TREMOR

Santa Fe Springs Is Most Affected
Today

LOS ANGELES, July 8. (P)—Four persons, two men and two children, were injured in an earthquake which severely shook Los Angeles and communities within a 30-mile radius at 8:45 a. m., today. These injuries were reported from Santa Fe Springs, oil town fifteen miles south of here.

Long Beach, Hermosa Beach and Santa Monica, on the Pacific ocean, felt the tremor more than the inland communities of Pasadena and Glendale. The tremor was an undulating north and south movement, causing chandeliers in some buildings to sway like pendulums, rattling windows and moving small objects, but causing no damage.

A second tremor of less intensity, was felt an hour later at 9:45 o'clock. In Long Beach the Press-Telegram building at sixth street and Pine avenue was rocked for more than fifteen seconds causing the machines in the composing room to vibrate while printers were getting out the first edition. Other buildings in the city rocked perceptibly. Considerable excitement was created as it was the first earthquake of any consequence ever felt there.

Few Arrests During Week-End Period

Pampa spent a quiet week-end after a holiday featured by accidents, death, and police-court cases. No serious accidents were reported over the week-end and court dockets were light. In justice court only three fines were paid this morning. All were for drunkenness. In city court, one lone disturber of the peace paid a fine.

Woman Giant Slays Big Man

TOULON, Ill., July 8. (P)—Laura Weaver, 21-year-old woman of great size and strength, was held today for the torch murder of her common law husband, Wilmer T. Kitzelman, 52. Six feet tall and weighing 230 pounds the young woman told of strangling Kitzelman, wrapping his body in a quilt, rolling it downstairs, lifting it into an automobile and driving into the country where she dumped it by the roadside, poured naphtha over it and then touched a match.

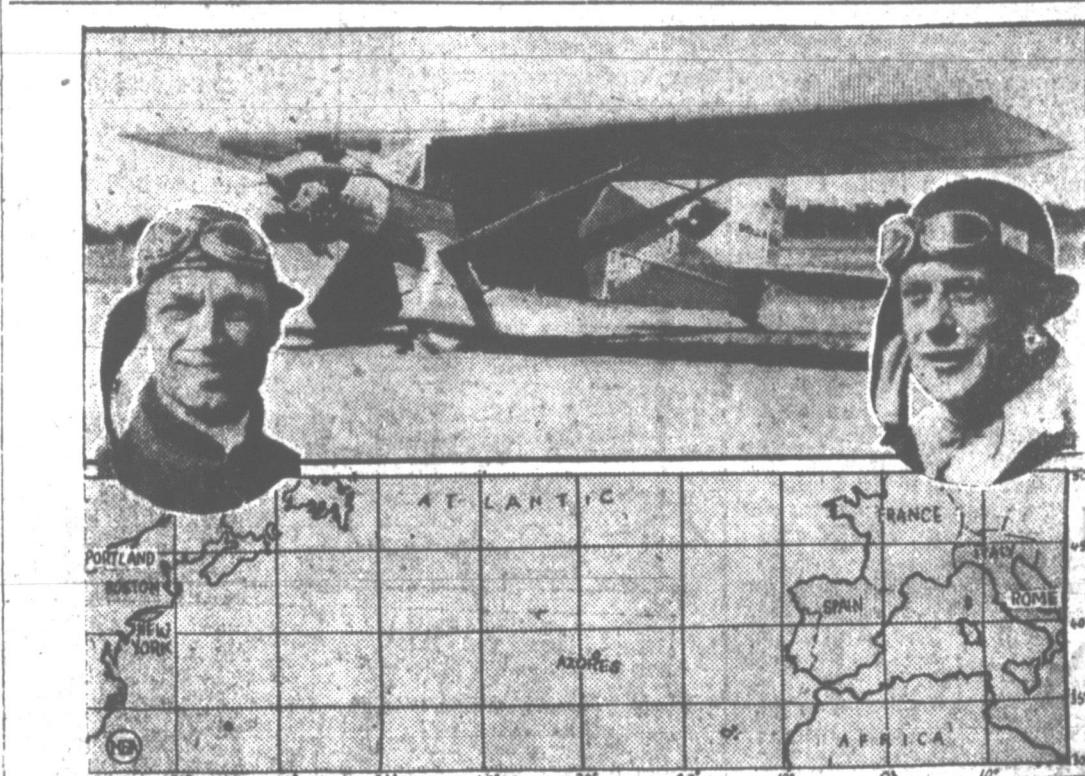

Since Kitzelman himself weighed 200 pounds, her signed confession would have been less plausible were it not that she is large and muscular. For several days after the burning body was found by two farm boys July 1, it remained unidentified. A brother finally made the identification.

After two hours questioning, the woman detailed the story of her affair with Kitzelman and its ending. Her confession told of her growing disgust with Kitzelman's drinking.

Chicago Plane Again Is Flying

OTTAWA, July 8. (P)—The American airplane, Untin Bowler, took the air today from an undetermined point in the Hudson Bay country, continuing its flight from Chicago to Berlin.

Rome Fliers and Their 4,800-Mile Course

The monoplane Pathfinder, with Pilot Roger Q. Williams (left) and Navigator Lewis A. Yancey (right) aboard took off from the beach at Old Orchard, Me., this morning with Rome as the destination. The fliers expected to make the 4,700-mile flight in from 45 to 50 hours.

B. C. D. HAS NEVER ADVERTISED FOR WORKMEN HERE

The Pampa Board of City Development has never advertised that hundreds of workmen were needed in Pampa or that there was plenty of work to be had here, George W. Briggs, manager of the B. C. D., declared this morning.

"I have had not one, but dozens of men, here wanting work who claimed they read in papers throughout the country that Pampa was in need of workmen," Mr. Briggs declared. "If that is the case the reports were not sent out from the Pampa Board of City Development or Chamber of Commerce," he declared. "I will give $25 to the person who can bring a paper to me showing that the Pampa B. C. D. or C. of C. has ever stated that there was plenty of work in Pampa. We have more men here now than jobs," Mr. Briggs declared.

A local motorist brought from Amarillo to Pampa recently two men who said they were from Arizona and that Pampa was well known in that state.

"Angeleno" Still Working Perfectly

CULVER CITY, Cal., July 8. (P)—Con fidence rode the single motored biplane "Angeleno" today with pilots L. W. Mendell and R. B. Reinhart as the passing hours brought them nearer the record of 174 hours 59 seconds for sustained flying which they hoped to surpass.

At 12:30:30 a. m. the fliers had passed the 137-hour mark in their flight which started at 7:29:30 a. m. last Tuesday. Should they keep their plane in the air until 2:30:29 p. m. tomorrow, they will have shattered the mark set at Cleveland by Roy L. Mitchell and Byron Newcomb last week.

Mendell and Reinhart kept their plane dropping close to the lighted airport here. The 220-horsepower motor was functioning perfectly.

KING IS NOT WELL

LONDON, July 8. (P)—All Britain was shocked today when, within 24 hours of an empire-wide thanksgiving service for his recovery, unsatisfactory progress of a phase of King George's illness prevented his planned departure for Sandringham, British Royal summer home.

RAINFALL OF LAST NIGHT IS HALTING HARVEST—MARKET IS HIGHER AFTER POOR OPENING

Three Men Hurt at Rose Building

When the scaffold upon which they were working collapsed this morning, three plasterers at the new Rose building sustained minor injuries.

D. J. Ellison suffered an injured foot and was taken to his home. Howard Brady was taken to Pampa hospital in a Malone ambulance, but after his shoulder injury was dressed he was able to leave. J. Johnson was only slightly bruised.

The men in their work had moved close together on the scaffold, which gave away under the added weight. They were plastering the ceiling of the ground floor when the accident happened.

Gov. Moody Kills Three Measures

AUSTIN, July 8. (P)—Gov. Moody today vetoed three appropriations measures providing for support of the state government during 1930-31, payment of miscellaneous claims and accounts against the state and making refunds for illegally assessed taxes on busses traveling on no-fixed routes. The explanation that appropriations voted for the legislature totaled $55,000,000 was responsible for his refusal to sign the measures, the governor said.

"I believe that considerable reduction can be made in these bills," governor said in his statement accompanying the vetoes.

Love for Dogs Is Cause of Shooting

MISSION, July 8. (P)—Clyde Latham's love for dogs led to his being near death from a shot gun wound in a hospital here today. Latham went to the city dog pound Saturday to seek the release of his dogs. There an argument arose with Ephraim Deckard, pound-master, and Latham smashed the pound gate with an iron bar, releasing the animals. The shooting followed.

Both Latham and Deckard explained what happened. Deckard was held by police.

Wheat harvest, which continued strongly through Sunday, suffered a setback today when rainfall of last night, amounting to .35 of an inch, kept most combines from operating. Assuming that there will be a heavy dew tonight, cutting will not likely be resumed before 10 o'clock tomorrow.

The stream of trucks was noticeably smaller today, and elevators had opportunity to reduce their stored wheat.

The grain market broke sharply this morning under reports of good weather in principal wheat belts, but recovered to close around 96 cents here, or a cent above Saturday's price.

Canyon Wheat Crop Sets Record

CANYON, July 8. (Special)—A total of 445 cars of wheat already have been shipped from the Canyon trade territory, according to grain buyers here. An additional 85 cars was estimated to be in storage either in elevators or on the ground.

More than 750,000 bushels of grain from the 1929 crop has been received by elevators in Canyon, Happy, Dawn, and Umbarger, grain buyers advised. Fully 50 per cent of the crop yet is to be harvested, elevator managers estimated. Less than 60 per cent of the grain cut already has been harvested, they believe.

Negroes Sought in Dallas Stabbing

DALLAS, July 8. (P)—A big negro who last night stabbed G. D. Tension, 23, operator of a one-man street car here, and a negro who argued with Tension before the stabbing, were sought by police today. Tension was in a critical condition.

According to J. L. Walker, only white passenger on the car, a number of negroes boarded it. The negroes took down a Jim Crow sign which designated the negro portion of the car.

Tension replaced the sign and told the negroes to leave it alone. The big negro in the car then stabbed Tension. Walker opened the front door, and Tension staggered to the curb, where he collapsed. Walker called the police and the negroes and the big negro who stabbed Tension escaped through a rear car window.

TWO BIRDMEN START EASILY ON LONG TRIP

Williams and Yancey
Succeed in Third
Attempt

"GREEN FLASH" WAS DAMAGED

Merely "Day's Work" in Prospect Says
Aviator

OLD ORCHARD, Maine, July 8. (P)—Successful in their third attempt to take off from the beach here, Roger Q. Williams and Lewis A. Yancey were presumably winging their way toward Rome in the monoplane, Pathfinder, today. The Pathfinder took off at 8:49 a. m.

Three planes accompanied the Pathfinder. A coast guard amphibian was on the left, a small commercial plane on the right and a large commercial amphibian close in the rear.

The Pathfinder seemed to be just able to hold a 100-foot altitude as it passed out of sight. This was the ceiling of the machine as computed by Williams before the take-off.

The small commercial plane returned to the beach in a few minutes.

Yancey said they planned to land at an airfield about 15 miles south of Rome. "I am a working man and I am going out to do a day's work," Yancey said when newspapermen asked him for some statement just before the take-off. Williams, as usual, would not comment.

Has Wright Motor
The Pathfinder, a Bellanca monoplane, powered with a Wright motor, bears the insignia "NX-3789" in black on the tail and underneath the left wing. The wings and tail are painted with aluminum paint and the fuselage is a light green with the name "Pathfinder" on both sides.

As the fog lifted for a moment spectators on the beach could see the Pathfinder and its two accompanying amphibians circle, apparently in an effort to gain altitude.

Aboard the commercial amphibian were a dozen persons, among them Thea Rasche, German aviatrice.

The fliers planned to strike almost due east to the tip of Cape Cod, N. S., there to head east southeast to the "corner," a junction of steamship lanes, about 1,000 miles from Old Orchard.

Their course was laid along the 41st latitude, passing 100 miles north of the Azores and reaching the mainland at Cape Ortegal, along the northern tip of Spain. They planned to cross Bayonne, France, and head across the Mediterranean, passing over the island of Corsica.

Gained Altitude
Harold Beedle, representative of an oil company, who was in the commercial plane which went four miles with the Pathfinder, said the plane was then at an altitude of 500 feet and was gaining more altitude slowly.

"She was going fine," he said. Beedle said Williams had dumped some of the 500 gallons of gasoline in the Pathfinder before the take-off. He had checked the gas consumption of the motor carefully in the two weeks it had been at Seabrook airport and the beach and determined it could reach its objective with 450 gallons. Reducing the load gave an added factor of safety at the take-off.

It was the third time in six weeks Williams and Yancey had essayed a take-off. The other two attempts, both of which were unsuccessful, were made in the Green Flash, sister ship of the Pathfinder.

On May 29 one of the wheels on the Green Flash crumbled soon after the run down the beach started. The rest of the plane was not damaged and another try was made on June 13. On

"It's Like This—"

AUSTIN DISPATCHES only casually refer to what must be the keen impatience of those legislators who remained at the capitol last week, convening "from day to day" but never having a working quorum.

Many members who had hoped to pass appropriation bills agreeable to the governor and go home to their private businesses must be chafing at the delay caused by those legislators who are playing truant. And it must be discouraging to Governor Moody to preach drastic economy on one hand and have to call repeated sessions costing $100,000 or more cash.

The Moody administration may cut the appropriations within the expected revenues, but it will not be described as a period of brilliant legislation. With Texas growing at an astonishing pace in many respects, Moody is apt to draw more criticism for sapping the vitality of state institutions than he would by permitting the money bills to approximate the size the legislators have found it expedient to make them.

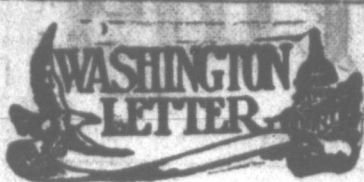

COMPLACENCY THAT COMES FROM SATISFACTION has its place, but that place is not in the development of communities.

Vacationers often remark to the writer that they feel lost when they stop in some long-settled community where civic pride has gone to seed and where the chamber of commerce is replaced by the society circle which admits new members reluctantly.

America is essentially a land of growth. The Southwest typifies growth. Texas is a thriving portion, of which the Panhandle is one of the "hot spots." The spirit of youth, of hope, of energy predominates. That spirit knows no age.

Opportunity abounds for those who are willing to pay the price of pioneering—which is literally growing up with the country. Sometimes the desire to grow results in harmful speculation and destroys the power to keep fishing until the minnows grow large enough to swallow the ambitious-sized hooks dangled before them. Minnows spring full grown for some of the oil-grimed fishermen, but most of us have to wait for natural growth.

And nature, after the all, is the master workman. Fortunately the community which realize the inexorable laws of city building, and constantly cultivates the factors which make growth possible. The weeds of misconceptions obscure many towns which expect outside influences to build them. Pampa has many citizens, fortunately, who allow no weeds in their civic aspirations. May their tribe increase.

WASHINGTON

Now that all the signatory nations have ratified the Kellogg treaty to outlaw war and the peace dove is cooing more comfortably than it ever could before, the government may one of these days issue a special postage stamp to commemorate the treaty.

The State Department and the Postoffice Department have before them a request of the American branch of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom for a special two-cent stamp whose design would reproduce the signing of the pact by President Coolidge at the White House and it is understood that both departments are considerably interested in the idea.

Senator Borah, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, favors the peace stamp proposal. The stamp could be issued by the Postoffice Department either with or without authorization of Congress. The State Department naturally would be interested because the recent ratification of the Kellogg pact by the Japanese Diet represented the consummation of one of the major strokes of modern American diplomacy.

Sees It as a Symbol
The Women's League for Peace and Freedom argues that special postage stamps have been issued in honor of far less momentous events and that the peace stamp would symbolize both an event of world-wide significance and the obvious intent of President Hoover to continue and extend our efforts toward world peace.

Issuance of a peace stamp at about this time would come with extraordinary timeliness, for the world peace outlook, what with the Kellogg pact and the expected visit of British Premier Ramsay MacDonald for a heart-to-heart talk with President Hoover, is unusually bright. There may be a war cloud here and there, but none is especially dark.

Peace societies such as the Women's League are very optimistic about it all and no less than ecstatic over President Hoover's strong pronouncements in favor of armament reduction. They believe that various other measures more or less directly connected with the general peaceful trend are now bound to be effected and that their position in support of these measures has been vastly strengthened.

Next winter the Senate probably will take up Elihu Root's formula for American adherence to the World Court protocol, which is favored by the peace societies. Previously the Senate agreed to enter the World Court with five reservations. Other nations choked on the fifth reservation, which would have given the United States discretionary power to prevent court decisions on matters in which we claimed to have an interest. The Senate will undoubtedly have another try at adhering to the World Court and it is commonly believed that the Root formula, with Hoover's support, will be accepted.

The Senate will also consider ratification of the Pan-American arbitration treaty, which is a far reaching document although it does not outlaw war as the Kellogg treaty does. The Pan-American treaty, which has now been signed by all the American republics concerned, binds the contracting parties to submit to arbitration all disputes judicial in character. Specifically, these disputes include the interpretation of treaties, all questions of international law, existence of any fact which, if established, would constitute a breach of international obligation and the nature or extent of reparation to be paid in event of breach of an international obligation.

The legislators at least might read the papers so they would know when to return for the current sitting of their houses.

We may be egoistic, but at least the idea of making talkies out of these little things has never entered seriously into our thinking.

Physical culture must henceforth be taught in all Texas public schools. And maybe the pupils will keep in condition to do a little manual exercise around their homes, too.

Those who insist on "turning native" fortunately do not insist upon acting the part of a savage race. It is a downright shame, however, to adopt stockings which require a microscopic gaze to tell whether it is natural or silkworm-ish.

Pistol toting is a serious offense, but we had rather meet a motorist armed with two 45's, a bowie knife, and a machine gun than one with a good load of home brew under his belt.

Hollywood Sights and Sounds

BY ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—This beehive of cinema activity is probably the only place in the world where an actor can "leave home" for a month or longer and "return" to receive a welcome equal in warmth to that of a sorely missed friend—all without ever leaving Hollywood at all.

Such travel is commonplace and the phenomenon is attributable to the fact that great distances separate most of the film plants, making it impossible for a borrowed actor or actress to visit the home lot during the making of a picture on "foreign" soil.

Lella Hymans, to cite a recent example, regularly works at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, in Culver City, some 15 miles from this vaguely defined section known as Hollywood. Fox borrowed Lella for a role in "Masquerade," so she and her makeup kit journeyed over to William's lot.

After six weeks she has returned home for a part in "The Thirteenth Chair" and her first day in the M-G-M lot was an almost endless succession of greetings like those bestowed on a homecoming Aeneas. It was "Where have you been?" and "Did you have a good time?" and "We've missed you so!" at every turn.

NOT IN HOLLYWOOD
All very natural, because the studios popularly supposed to be all in Hollywood, actually are scattered about the surrounding country in various directions, leaving Hollywood merely a symbolic label for the home of the industry.

There are, to be sure, several studios actually in Hollywood—Paramount, R-K-O, Tec-Art, United Artists, Warner two lots, Metropolitan, Christie, Columbia, Chaplin's, the old Fox lots, and a few independents.

But First National is at Burbank in the San Fernando Valley and Universal a bit further on at Universal City. A few miles more, and you reach Studio City, where Sennett's bathing beauties frolic—but from there to Culver City, home of M-G-M, Pathe and Roach, is a good hour's drive or more in the opposite direction. So after a day's or night's work at one of them, what chance has the traveling star to spin back home for a visit?

Barthelmess Is Well Liked for "Weary River" Role

Richard Barthelmess has at last made his debut in talking pictures—and what a debut! This motion picture star has entered into this newest phase of the cinema with a vengeance and it is predicted a career of success that will dwarf his already brilliant one.

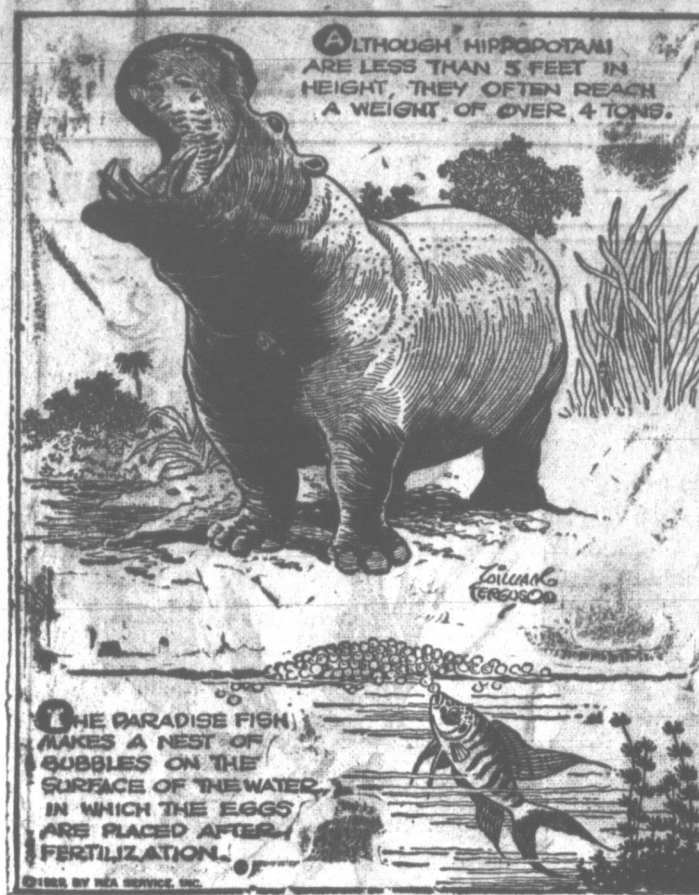

Barthelmess appeared—and was heard—in his newest First National starring vehicle, "Weary River," at the Rex theatre Sunday.

Silent or otherwise, "Weary River" would have been adjudged a great picture. It is one of those rare Barthelmess characterizations which was right fully expected from him in "Tolable David," "The Patent Leather Kid," and more recently in "The Nose" and "The Wheel of Chance."

But in addition to Barthelmess' usual splendid screen presence, his unmatched pantomime talents are abetted to an amazing degree by the use of his voice. Audiences will be surprised to hear the highly pleasing quality of his voice in "Weary River." He plays the song, "Weary River," on the piano with excellent feeling and respect for its sentimentality.

Frank Loyd has done an exceptional piece of directing and the cast is a notable one, especially in regard to Betty Compson, who was seen before opposite Barthelmess in "Scarlet Seas." Miss Compson also speaks, as does William Holden as the warden, and both render exceedingly well.

The story concerns a singing convict whose musical inclinations are brought out in prison from where he broadcasts over the radio, thus winning fame, liberty and a girl. The story is deeply human and fraught with the genuine stuff of greatness.

B. C. D. Directors to Convene Tonight

The regular monthly meeting of the Pampa Board of City Development directors will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the B. C. D. rooms in the White Deer Land building. Much important business is to be transacted, according to President Frank Keim.

Plans for gathering data supporting the Fort Worth & Denver line from Childress to Pampa will be discussed. The local airport question and highway work will also be taken up at the meeting, the president said today.

NO POISON FOUND

TEXARKANA, Ark., July 8. (P)—With a report from the state laboratory at Austin that the viscera of Mrs. Chester Peavy of Spring Hill, who died suddenly on June 20, contained no poison. Her husband, who had been held in the county jail here since June 23, was expected to be released soon. No charges were filed against Peavy.

Mrs. Siler Faulkner and daughter, Miss Virginia, together with their guests, Mrs. H. H. Holt of Waco, and Mrs. J. A. Connelly of Fort Worth, left this morning for Carlsbad, Las Vegas, and other points of interest in New Mexico.

Pampa Golfers Lose in Borger

Only six members of the local golf club made the trip to Borger yesterday afternoon to play Boney Bonetbreak's crack team. The locals were no more successful in Borger than they were on the home course the previous week.

W. H. Gurry was the only Pampa player to win his eighteen holes. He came in 2 up for the 18 holes. Phil Carlson, Ernest Eslick, Buster Kaufman, Bill Lang, and Dr. R. A. Webb were defeated in close matches.

The local club may be host to a team from Shamrock next Sunday afternoon, it was announced this morning.

CHARGES FRAME-UP

NEW YORK, July 8. (P)—Ball for Charles H. Boyle, 68, held as a fugitive from justice from Amarillo, Texas, was reduced to $15,000 today. The hearing was adjourned until Friday when police informed Judge Rosenzuth the Amarillo sheriff had telegraphed he would arrive then with extradition papers. Boyle asserts that charges of bigamy, grand larceny, and jumping bail bond in Amarillo was a "frame-up."

CAMDEN, Ark., July 8. (P)—E. E. Marsh, city marshal at Childress, near here, and Walter Patterson, alleged bootlegger, were shot to death in a gun fight which grew out of a liquor raid near Childress last night.

ATHLETICS ARE MUCH WORRIED OVER CATCHER

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Events over the week-end were not exactly beer and skittles for Mr. Cornelius McGillicuddy, what with the loss of Mickey Cochran and two ball games; but even so, the Athletics can not yet be said to be in any need of a ball against which to place their backs. The Yankees were able to get only an even break in their first two skirmishes at St. Louis, and the Mackmen were left with a lead of eight and one-half games.

The Macks were more concerned over the return of Cochran to the line-up than with the immediate fight at hand. The loss of a .365 batter, who also is one of the leading catchers in either league, never did any team good. Cochran is suffering from a fractured rib. Physicians promised an early return of Mickey to the line-up, but declined to specify any particular date.

Ted Lyons halted the Mackian attack, while the Sox climbed upon Earnshaw, Yerkes, Shores and Rommel for 11 safe hits to win, 9 to 3.

At St. Louis Hoyt was failing for the Yanks after the champions had stretched a winning streak to eight games by taking the opener on Saturday. The Browns hammered Hoyt for two markers in the seventh and three more in the eighth to win at the finish by 7 to 2.

Earl Whitehill pitched four-hit ball to give Detroit a 7-to-1 victory over Washington, and the Indians divided a pair with the Red Sox in Cleveland. The home team won the opener by 4 to 2, but Ed Morris pitched the Bostonians to a 3-to-0 victory in the nightcap.

The three foremost contenders in the National league maintained the tension by winning simultaneously, but the Giants gained a paper advantage by taking two games from the Reds, while the Pirates and the Cubs were limited to one victory each by the schedule. The Cards and the Phillies rested.

Fred Fitzsimmons ran his string of scoreless innings against the Reds to 27 by shutting out Jack Hendricks' boys again yesterday. Fitz won the first game, 8 to 0. The Giants just failed to win, 8 to 7, in the nightcap. Home runs by Grantham, Brane, Russell and Comoros helped the Pirates to defeat Brooklyn by 17 to 6 and maintain their lead of half a game over the Cubs, who won in Boston by 15 to 4.

DWIGHT DAVIS WELCOMED TO PHILIPPINE ISLANDS

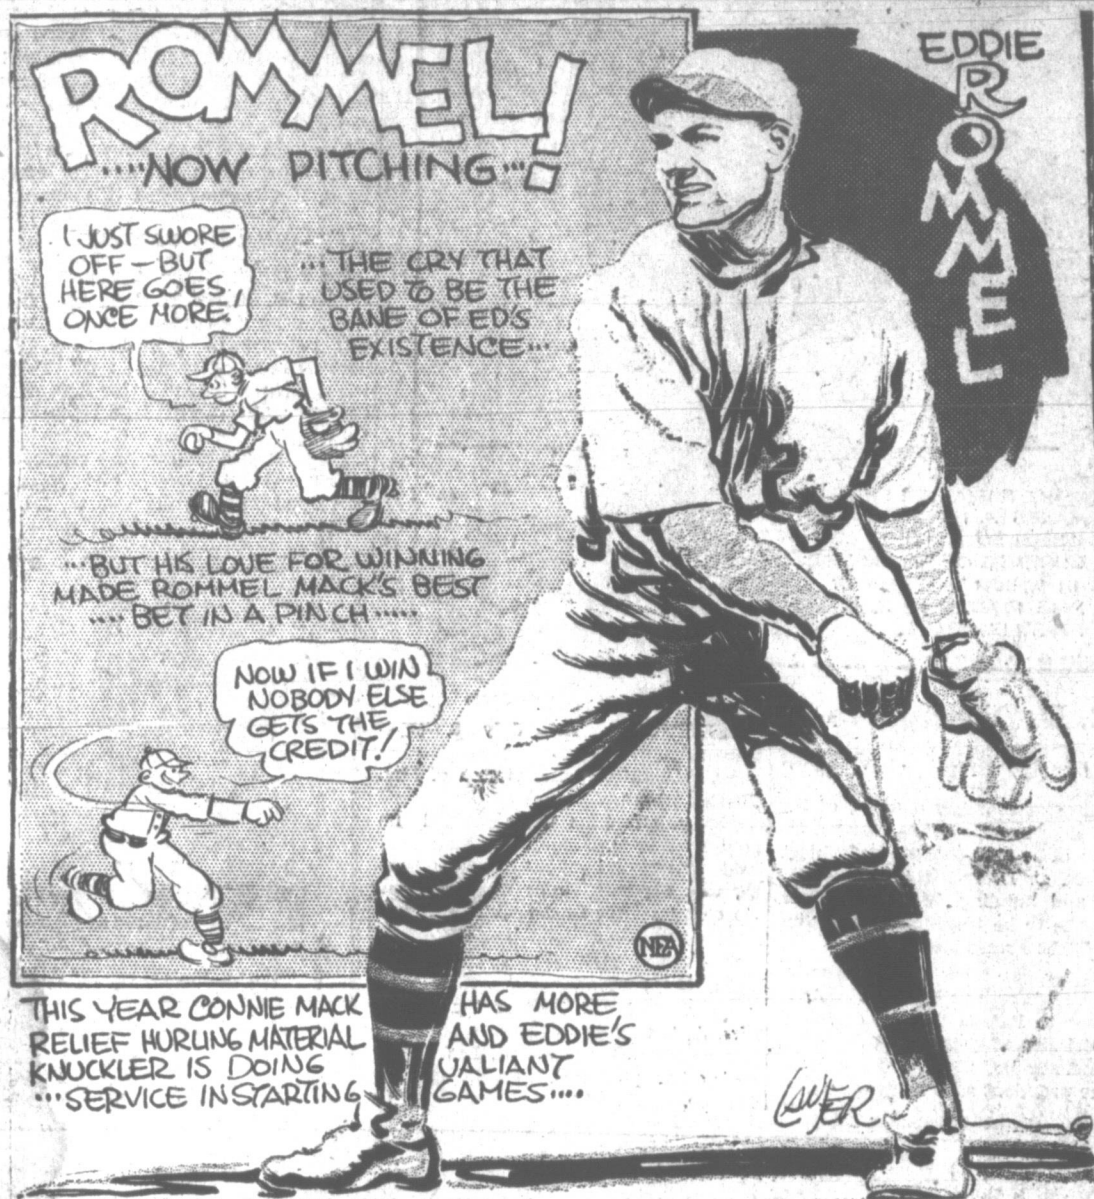

MANILA, July 8. (AP)—Welcomed to Manila today by thousands of persons who crowded the pier, streets and the ayuntamiento, the old legislative buildings, Dwight F. Davis became the ninth American governor-general of the Philippine Islands.

Dr. Davis pledged his administration to the friendliest co-operation with the Filipino people and to a policy of efficient economy.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. De Cordova have as a guest Mrs. De Cordova's sister, Miss Lois Ammons of Oklahoma City.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS

By Laufer

One day last summer Eddie Rommel, Connie Mack's relief ace and conceded by every grammar school pupil in the land as the greatest trouble shooter in the big league, delivered an ultimatum to the world in general.

"I'm no blankety-blank relief pitcher," said Eddie. "I can't pitch that kind of ball. I hate it. It's a pain in the neck. I'm not going to do any more of it."

"I don't care a damn what happens out there today. I don't care two whoops in hades if 16 pitchers get their blocks knocked off and we lose a 15-run lead. I'm not going into that box today. I wouldn't go in for the Czar of Russia. I'm no relief pitcher. It's a lousy, dirty job!"

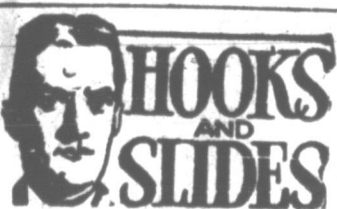

Whether or not that speech had anything to do with it is hard to say, but this year Ed Rommel has been starting games. And up to the middle of June Eddie had won six and lost none, taking part in 11 ball games.

The Athletics' knuckle-baller began his baseball career in 1916 with the Seaford, Delaware, team of the Peninsula League. He learned the ways of the spitball and in 1917 the Baltimore Orioles took him south on their spring trip. He was lopped off the roster, however, because that year the ban was put on the spitter.

Rommel liked to hang around the Orioles' park, however, and one day "Cutter" Drury, first baseman taught him how to hold a knuckle ball. Rommel practiced the knuckle for three years, mastered it and is regarded as the premier knuckle-baller in the big league today.

Last year Rommel was in 43 ball games for the Macks, winning 13 and losing five. Judging from his start this season, 1929 will be one of his best years.

HENRY L. FARRELL

NO BREAKS FOR JACK

Down in their training camp at Orlando last spring, Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds said:

"If we get some hitting and Donohue pitches we ought to be up there for the pennant."

Well, the club isn't hitting and Donohue isn't pitching and at the time of writing the Reds are in the cellar and the Cincinnati customers are yowling for the scalp of Mr. Hendricks.

Recently we wrote a few words defending Hendricks on the theory that you can't win ball games unless you have a ball club. And the following letter was submitted by "A Reader" to the sports editor of the Cincinnati Post.

BUT HOT STUFF FOR JACK

Dear Sir:

Being a reader of your paper for the last 28 years I am surprised to read in one of the columns under Hooks and Slides and written by Mr. Henry L. Farrell, an article about Jack Hendricks being the most wonderful manager of a baseball club in the country. I have been a baseball fan and a regular supporter of the Cincinnati Reds for the last fifteen years, having in fact never missed a game at the home grounds. Also having played quite a little baseball myself.

I would like to go on record as saying that Mr. Henry L. Farrell is all wet in regards to Jacks handling the ball club. In fact the both of them must belong to the same lodge or social club.

Jack Hendricks has had some of the best ball players in the country on his team, what did he do with them, traded them or gave them away. He had a player on his team about two years ago by name of Pee Wee Wannalger that was obtained from the St. Paul club. Pee Wee went down with a charley-

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Johnny Murphy, Fordham, rated as one of the best college pitchers of years, didn't last long with the Yankees—Miller Huggins sent him right along to Albany—But told him he'd be back next year if he got real good—Every time Heinie Mueller, the clown Braves' outfielder, sees a yellow cigarette wrapper on the field he stops and picks it up—And the ball players started calling him a street sweeper—And he gave them the laugh—"Some of these days one of them things will be a twenty-buck bill—And then you won't laugh at me"—he said—Dusty Cooke and Ben Chapman, two of the players in the American Association, are the property of the Yankees—Ethan Allen, Cincinnati outfielder, hit a homer over the center field fence the other day—It never had been done before except by Babe Ruth—And they say the National League isn't hot.

horse and was taken from the game in the sixth, the next day fat head Jack ordered him to play at short that same night I myself took Wannalger to my home for dinner and had to almost carry him up the porch to my home. Then you had such rotten players as Pipp for Kelley for first base. Pipp can play rings around Kelley at anything in baseball, field better. He was always good for a hit in the pinch, still Mr. Kelly stayed and Pipp left. Val Picnic, Roush, Rube Bressler, Val Picnic, Pipp, Carl Mays, Jack Scott, Wannalger, Harper, Neff, and about 2 semi-pros to make Farrell's Jack look like a dirty duse. These men all were good ball players but still they are gone, and when there is no harmony there is no ball players but still they are gone, and one of his men get his neck broke out on the field and he would not as much as get off his lazy seat to see if the man was going to die or not.

If Mr. Henry L. Farrell wants to find out how popular his Jack is let the Cincinnati Post take a vote of the fans or the Post readers and they will tell him in very short time what a fine manager we have.

Now the Cincinnati Post is supposed to be a fearless newspaper lets hear a reply to this letter.

Grays Defeated in Lakeview-Stars of Team Are Absent

The Lakeview baseball team jumped on the delivery of Briske and Reynolds yesterday afternoon and when the smoke of battle had cleared away the Grays were at the small end of a 20 to 12 score. Every Gray run was scored from home runs.

Four umpires saw action during the game, which was one of the most hectic seen in some time. Everyone was hitting safely and fielding was ragged. Most of the short base hits were of the fluke variety, but were good for runs. McCasland, ex-Amarillo Texan left fielder, hit two for the circuit. Ed Guber cracked one and Christian, Briske, and Reynolds accounted for the others. While the Grays were hitting homers, Lakeview was doing the same but was contented with four circuit blows.

Stearns, ex-Baylor star, started in the box for Lakeview but was knocked out in the fifth. Williams finished the game. The Grays were without the services of Edwards and Waller, pitcher and outfielder, and Mitchell, first baseman.

Coltexo Again Is Winner as Magnolia Pitchers Let Up

Coltexo of LeFors rang up another win yesterday when that nine downed the fast Magnolia nine from Pampa, 8 to 0. The oil boys simply couldn't find the smoker's ball and as a result got only three hits and failed to reach home plate. Coltexo crossed the rubber eight times, on 10 hits.

Pitchers Dickey and Waller for Magnolia were hit freely and couldn't stem the black tide. Fitzgerald pitched airtight baseball for Coltexo and had wonderful support. Moore, Coltexo first baseman, cracked out two homers during the afternoon. Fitzgerald and Ross got doubles for the only other extra-base blows.

The Coltexo team will play at home the next three Sundays with the twentieth being the big day, when Western Carbon of Borger will play.

Flock of Upsets Mark Year's Trend in Sport World—New Stars for Many Sports Appear as Favorites Decline

NEW YORK, July 8. (AP)—The campaign along the sports trails has reached the halfway point with a flock of upsets already on record and quite a few more in prospect.

Here are a few of the principal surprises so far:

Golf—The 23-stroke margin of Bobby Jones over Al Espinosa in the U. S. open playoff and the failure of Johnny Farrell, 1928 champion, to qualify for final 36 holes.

Tennis—Defeat of Cochet-Brougnon and Tilden-Hunter teams in Wimbledon doubles by young Americans, Van Ryn and Allison in winning title.

Rowing—Defeat of California eight, 1928 world's champions, in Foughkeeps regatta; victory for Browne and Nichols schoolboys of Cambridge, Mass., in Thames challenge cup finals at Henley after Columbia's favored "lightweights" were eliminated.

Track—Victory of Eddie Tolan, Michigan negro, over Bracey, Wyckoff, Sweet and others for national sprint crown.

Turf—Defeat of Blue Larkspur, favorite for 3-year-old crown, by 30 to 1 shot, Grey Coat, in withers stakes; triumph in classic English derby for Trigo, 3 to 1.

The biggest upset in sight over the next few months is the prospective downfall of the world's champion Yan-

HOUSTON NOW LEADING TEXAS LEAGUE TEAMS

By The Associated Press

Houston today roosted atop the Texas league heap as it did after the memorable 1928 battle with the Wichita Falls Spudders.

The Buffaloes, minus Frank Snyder, showed a return to form and defeated San Antonio yesterday.

The Wichita Falls Spudders, second only to Houston last season, were second only to the same today.

Dallas, champion of the first half of the split season, snapped out of its slow play of the past week and climbed out of the cellar by defeating Snyder's Fort Worth Cats.

Of the five games played, the Waco-Beaumont tangle on paper easily was the best exhibition of baseball. It was errorless, and the hitting, while heavy enough to make things interesting, was not heavy enough to spoil it.

Six thousand fans at San Antonio saw Reinhardt and Wachtel of Houston turn in two well pitched games to win 4 to 2, and 8 to 4. Heavy hitting by Funk and Hook materially aided Reinhardt did more than pitch, however, for he was credited with a sacrifice hit and a single.

O'Neal, Wichita Falls new hurler, kept Shreveport popping up throughout a game which the Spuds won 9 to 1. So well did he have the situation in hand that few ground balls were batted and the Spud infielders were credited with only three assists.

Charlie Barnabe, who starred for Del Pratt's Waco Cubs last season, pitched another good game for the Dallas Steers, who won a fair ball game 9 to 4. Jimmy Walkup, Cat star, was hit hard. He was relieved in the ninth by Phillips, but the game was gone.

Waco's 4 to 3 win over Beaumont marked the second time in the series the Cubs took a game by a ninth inning rally and by the same score. Blackberry, last year's league leading swatman, smashed out a triple which Bob Samguinet, home run expert from the West Texas League, followed with a single to put his mate across with the winning score.

quite as clear-cut as was the Tilden-Johnston reign of a few years ago for America.

If their astonishing form at Wimbledon is a criterion, the future hopes for the United States in Davis Cup competition will be Jimmy Van Ryn, the hard-hitting ex-Princetonian, and Wilmer Allison, the Texas youth. Both outshone not only the veterans, Tilden and Hunter, but the experienced Lott and Hennessey, comprising the top ranking four in American tennis. Their performances just about clinch their places on the Davis Cup team for the interzone finals and possibly the challenge round against France.

The boxing "racket" would appreciate a few upsets, but it has nothing in sight to stir the imagination, unless it is the possibility of action when Tommy Loughran and Jimmy Braddock fight for the light heavyweight crown on July 18 at the Yankee Stadium.

In the two principal heavyweight engagements this year, Stribling-Sharkey and Schmeling-Paulino, there has not been even a knockdown, much less an upset.

THEY HAD CAPTAINED JOHN CURTIS MORGAN. He was a man in his late thirties, with a handsome face, dark hair, and a strong, well-set body. He was a man of the world, a man who had seen many things and who had learned to keep his own counsel.

He was a man who had been married for three years, and who had a young son. He was a man who had been a successful business man, and who had a good reputation in his community.

He was a man who had been a member of the local club, and who had been a frequent guest at the home of the local social leader.

away now—or do you want to face the music and see your new office?

"I please," Nan began, but was interrupted by the opening of the door.

"Oh, it is you, Mr. Morgan! I thought I recognized your shadow against the glass pane of the door."

A blithe, excited young voice cried.

"That's one of the curses of being so tall," Morgan admitted ruefully. "What is it, Miss O'Hara?"

"Miss Carroll—I mean, Mrs. Morgan—"

"He's floundered, his austere face flushing darkly—and I am about to catch a train—"

THE pretty Miss O'Hara clasped her hands and glowed her pleasure. "So you're actually married! I'm too thrilled for words. I do hope Mrs. Morgan decides to let me stay over."

"But wait a minute! I'm thinking of," she broke off with charming confusion. "Mr. Blake wanted to go right over to City Hall to make sure of finding you before you left on your honeymoon, but I said that would be simply terrible, and I knew anyway that you would want to show Mrs. Morgan the new offices and the sign and everything."

Morgan cut short her breathless rush of words. "Just what has happened, Miss O'Hara?"

"Oh, I am dumb, but I'm so excited!" Kathleen O'Hara exclaimed herself with a bubble of laughter. "Well, just about 40 minutes after you left this morning, Mr. Morgan, a long distance telephone call came for you. I took it, of course, and it was David Blackhall that the papers—"

"David Blackhall?" Nan and her new husband cried in chorus.

Kathleen O'Hara's face glowed. "I knew you'd be absolutely dumbfounded! Imagine it! The police and the reporters combing the country for him and he telephones you long distance! You know, it gave me the oddest feeling—actually talking to a murderer—"

"We don't know that he is a murderer," Morgan reminded her curtly. "What did he say? Please be as brief as possible. We have a train to catch—"

"Oh, I'm sorry!" Miss O'Hara stuttered. "Nan wondered if she had acted so silly, so hero-worshipping, when she first came to work for John Curtis Morgan. He said he was just ready to 'take-off' in a friend's plane and would be here by 11 o'clock, and it's 10 minutes after 11 now, and—"

"He wants me to defend him?" Morgan interrupted again.

"Oh, of course, and when I told him you and Miss Carroll were being married—and were going to leave at 11:30 on your honeymoon, he said, 'Ask him for God's sake to wait till I see him.'—"

"Well, I can't see him—that's final," Morgan decided flatly.

"Please, Mr. Morgan!" Nan broke in. "Shall we go into your office and talk it over for a minute? There's time enough, I'm sure."

offices was in place, even to telephone.

"As a matter of course, Nan dropped into the stenographer's chair drawn up to the side of the big desk, and Morgan took the swivel chair. It was as if nothing had occurred to change the old relationship of employer and secretary."

"DON'T want the case, Nan, and even if I did, I wouldn't take it today of all days—" Morgan began firmly.

"Because everything points to the boy's being guilty?" Nan challenged him. "I don't believe he is! I don't care if he did seem to be in hiding while the police searched for him! He's coming forward now voluntarily, to give himself up for questioning. If he does reach this office without being stopped by police, I want you to see him. Please give him five minutes. If he isn't here by then, we can still make our train—"

"You're always put business before pleasure, haven't you, Nan?" Morgan asked, with a queer smile turning down a corner of his mouth. "For a moment Nan said a feeling, heart-twisting fear that he was hurt."

"There was a knock on the door, immediately followed by Kathleen O'Hara's vivid, excited little face. 'He's here!' she gasped in a thrilled whisper. 'And he doesn't look like a murderer at all! Just a marvelous man that the police didn't catch him before he got here! Shall I show him in?'"

"Yes," Morgan answered curtly. Then, to Nan, in a low voice: "We can take a later train, I suppose."

Kathleen O'Hara was right. No one could have looked less like a patrician than David Blackhall. A slender, well-groomed boy of about 30, with wavy, sun-brown hair, frank eyes, a fair, freckled chin, he might have passed for a picture to be entitled, "Composite Portraits of American College Youth."

"Nan liked the way he thrust out a steady hand, as if it did not occur to him that anyone might hesitate to clasp it. She offered her own hand instinctively when Morgan performed the introduction: "My law partner and—my wife, Mrs. Morgan."

Ironie, Nan thought, that the first time those words, "my wife," passed his lips in reference to her, they should be addressed to a boy suspected of the murder of his father.

"Well, I made it all right," David Blackhall said, with just a trace of boyish bravado. "But I can't blame the police for not spotting me right off. I look too much like most other fellows. I wasn't hiding, sir. I—I didn't know my father had been killed until I saw a paper this morning. I've been up north in the woods with a pal of mine. He has a hunting lodge and when he came in at dawn this morning from Mountain View—that is the nearest town to his lodge—with a paper, why, of course, there was nothing to do but to come and give myself up, but I wanted to see you first."

"And the plane?" Morgan prompted, after he had seated the young man in the armchair across the desk.

"Oh, he has a moth monoplane that he buzzes around in," this son of wealth explained easily. "Stupid, isn't it? I mean, maybe you've heard of the family?" At Morgan's nod, the boy went on eagerly: "He offered to bring me in and we stopped just once on the way, to telephone. I put the call through a pay station in a village, using Grant's name, but when I got your office I told you I was a thoughtless boy. I don't want to have the operators listening to me. It looks as if they didn't."

"Your luck was certainly with you," Morgan interrupted dryly. "Now, about your father—"

NAN sprang to her feet, excused herself with a word and ran out of the office to return a minute later, breathless. Jerking out the stenographer's feet of the desk, she flung open her notebook and began to take rapid shorthand notes of the boy's story.

In spite of her half-fearful, half-joyful absorption in her approaching wedding, Nan had taken an enormous interest in the sensational murder of the millionaire automobile manufacturer, Thornton Blackhall. The papers had shrieked the news of the disappearance of the old man's son within a few minutes of the murder. The millionaire had been found dead, shot through the heart, his son's automatic clumsily hidden behind a row of books in a case near the door.

The Butler, who found the body, and noticed the disappearance of the books which led to the discovery of the weapon, had told of hearing a violent quarrel between the old millionaire and his son early in the evening. The murderer had taken place, according to the medical examiner, at approximately 2 o'clock in the morning. The Butler, asleep in his room on the third story of the Blackhall mansion, had not heard the shot, but had been aroused at the long, low, grating sound of a car on the gravel drive below his window and had gone to the window to look out.

He said that the car was David Blackhall's, and the next morning, when he went to notify the boy that his father had been murdered, the boy was missing, had not slept in his room that night. Naturally, the police had been searching the country for the missing son, with warrants out for his arrest.

And now he sat in John Curtis Morgan's office, telling his own story of that last day and night of his father's life.

"He didn't kill his father, but he's hiding something back," Nan told herself, as her pencil flew. At last she looked at the young man. With an audacious exult by her new status as Morgan's law partner, she interrupted:

"Mr. Blackhall, was your father happily married to your young stepmother?"

The painful blush which suffused the boy's face told her that she was on the right track.

"I—she—they—" David Blackhall stammered. "She was so much younger than Dad, you know—just 25 to his 64. But if you're suspecting Nina—I mean, my stepmother—she left for Chicago the day before—before it happened."

"But after she left for Chicago, your father made a will in which he gave her nearly everything, leaving you only $10,000." Nan told him quietly. "Do you know why?"

"An hour later a very subdued and bewildered young man left with the senior member of the firm of Morgan & Morgan to give himself up for arrest."

"There would be no honeymoon for Miss O'Hara Morgan. Along in Morgan's office she broke into a hysterical laugh, then bowing her head upon her husband's desk she released the flood of tears that had swollen her sore heart almost to bursting.

John Coolidge and Bride-to-Be

When John Coolidge registered for the summer session at Harvard University Business School, his fiancée, Miss Florence Trumbull, went along to make certain he wasn't late for his first class. As they appeared on the campus, someone offered to lend John a car for the summer. "No you won't," Miss Trumbull retorted. "He's here to study, and it's a hard course." The son of former President Coolidge has enrolled for a six weeks course in transportation, which he believes will aid him with his work as a railroad employee. Here you see him on the campus with the daughter of Connecticut's governor.

Rockefeller Is Healthy at 90 on His Birthday

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., July 8. (AP)—John D. Rockefeller master of the fine art of living, celebrated his ninetieth birthday anniversary today.

Observance of the day brought little deviation from the daily routine by which the veteran oil magnate has learned to be healthy and happy.

The day marks the close of the third decade since, having amassed $1,000,000,000 Mr. Rockefeller relinquished his business interests to his son and began his pursuit of health and happiness.

In those 30 years he has evolved a philosophy of life based on moderation and quiet activity so that where at 60 he was a semi-invalid, seeking a diet that would agree with him, today he announced he was in perfect health, scanning the future with cheer and hope.

In a statement he said: "I have every reason to be grateful on my ninetieth birthday. Everybody has been so kind and good to me all the year. With perfect health and full of hope and cheer for the future, I have nothing but kindness and good will for everybody."

His birthday was spent with members of his family at his estate, Pocantico Hills.

California Oil Production Cause for Some Concern

AUSTIN, July 8. (Special)—In many ways the statistical position of petroleum was weakened during June but there are enough elements of strength still present to offset largely the increase in crude production, according to Bervard Nichols, editor of the Texas Business Review, issued monthly by the bureau of business research at the University of Texas.

"Runs of crude refineries continue at record rates and gasoline consumption seems to be increasing slightly," Mr. Nichols said. "Stocks of both crude and gasoline were but slightly higher. However, crude stocks are beginning to accumulate in California and it is the record output from that state, coupled with the new high record in Texas, that is cause for most concern."

"Daily flow of crude in Texas averaged $36,000 barrels in June, against $38,000 barrels in May and $38,000 barrels in June, 1928. This is by far the highest daily output on record. A total of 25,079,000 barrels were gathered during the month, compared to 25,403,000 barrels in May. In the first six months of the year, 145,135,000 barrels were produced, against 124,750,000 barrels in the first half of 1928."

"Field work was less active in June than in May but the number of new wells completed was considerably above that in June, 1928. During June, 580 new wells were completed, which makes 3,492 for the first half of the year. In June, 1928, 445 new wells were drilled and 3,429 were completed in the first half. There were 309 producers among the new wells in June this year, bringing the total for the half to 1,860, or only four more successful wells than in the first six months of last year. It is interesting to note that, although the number of producing wells in the first half is approximately the same as last year, production was increased to 16 per cent."

"Price changes were rather narrow during the month. Crude prices were advanced a few cents per barrel in several local fields, but the general list remained about unchanged. Gasoline prices were reduced 1-4-cent a gallon at refineries, while the retail price was advanced about the same amount."

Taking a chance on an "off brand" product is risky! The one safe way to buy is to know that the product you want is nationally known and advertised! You then eliminate the inferior products.

At Malone's you'll find only the best—standard brands that have stood the test of years!

WHY TAKE A CHANCE—
