2 West Texans excel at their sport

By GREG JAKLEWICZ
Sports Editor

Last week, the top international trapshooters in the nation assembled at Fort Benning, Ga., for the 22nd U.S. International Shooting Championships. The two best shooters, after claiming their gold medals, then returned to their homes just a dozen miles apart in West Texas.

Mike Coleman, a 23-year-old rancher from Ackerly, and Kelly Rogers, a 17-year-old senior at Big Spring High School, reached plateaus of such magnitude that the significance of their performances is just now taking effect.

Shooting under pressure that turned his stomach into a rumbling cement mixer, Coleman overcame old nemesis Danny Carlisle on the final day of shooting to win the national championship. At the same time, Rogers, making his first trip to the Georgia Army installation, blasted his way to the junior title in an event he has only this year taken up seriously.

For Coleman — who finished fourth in this event last year in Eugene, Ore. — the top finish puts him on the four-man U.S. team that will shoot for the world championship this fall in Caracas, Venezuela. As exciting as that sounds, the championship effort makes Coleman a top candidate for the two-man team that this country will field at the 1984 Olympic Games in Los Angeles.

"I didn't know that I had won," Coleman recalls. "It seemed like I looked up and saw a whole lot of people there. Carlisle was the first to walk out there and shake my hand. Then I knew I won it, then."

Pressure is one thing Coleman put into the big event that he would just as well done without. "There is lots of pressure. I couldn't eat and didn't sleep too good. I got butterflies three or four weeks ago. They stay with you and the closer to the shoot, the worse it is."

Even under pressure, Coleman cracked 390 of 400 clay pigeons tossed in front of him during the five-day event. Carlisle was one fatal miss behind at 389. But entering Saturday's final round of 100, each had hit the same number of targets and the pressure was at a peak.

THE SHOOTERS fire rounds of 25 from five selected points. Coleman missed two shots early in his first 25 and then ran rest to finish at 23x25. "You have to wonder if you can hold it together," he said of his slow start. And if that wasn't enough, he missed the first bird in the second round.

"After I missed that first bird, I thought, 'We can't have no more of this.'" The pep talk must have helped as the Ackerly resident didn't again in that round, the next round and for the rest of the day.

Carlisle had 24s in the first two rounds. Coleman tried to avoid hearing how his top competitor was doing but overheard other contestants talk. "After the second round, I didn't hear anymore... I didn't want to

Israel firm in rejecting Reagan's Mideast plan

JERUSALEM (AP) — For Prime Minister Menachem Begin, President Reagan's Middle East proposals are more than an unacceptable challenge to his fundamental vision of peace. Informed sources say the stiffly proud Begin considered them a personal affront underscoring recent U.S.-Israeli tensions.

Defense Minister Ariel Sharon said Saturday that Reagan is trying to force his ideas on Israel and warned this is "a grave and regrettable mistake."

"It won't succeed," Sharon declared. "There is no chance of anyone from the outside dictating a plan like this to us."

He said Washington "will have no choice but to back down on the plan because it cannot be carried out. We not only reject it, we refuse to discuss it."

In his proposal, Reagan called for a freeze on construction of Jewish settlements in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, and for Palestinian autonomy in the regions in close association with Jordan. He rejected creation of a Palestinian state, as well as eventual Israeli annexation of the occupied areas.

Begin sees the settlements as fulfilling a Biblical mandate for the Jews to live in the "promised land." Despite U.S. assurances that Israel's security would be guaranteed, he rejected the Jordanian association as opening the door for Palestine Liberation Organization control of the West Bank.

Sources close to Begin say the cabinet's flat rejection last Thursday of the U.S. initiative could have been softened if Reagan had discussed the plan more thoroughly with Israel.

The specific proposals laid out by the American president had been heard before, unofficially.

But Israeli officials contend Reagan consulted with Jordan, Saudi Arabia and Egypt before he sent Begin a letter detailing his initiative, and later outlined the package on American television before Israel had a chance to respond.

They said the letter contained a favorable initial reaction from King Hussein of Jordan and this violated written promises by the Nixon and Ford administrations to consult Israel before launching a major initiative.

"I was boiling. I thought I was going crazy when I heard the speech," said an official in Begin's inner circle, who described the speech with the Yiddish word "chutzpah," or brassiness.

In Washington, State Department spokesman John Hughes denied Friday that the Reagan initiative violated any agreements.

This year: a 'fresh' county fair

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

Three things help to make and keep county fairs a success: innovation, a crowd and good weather. The planners of this year's tenth annual Howard County Fair have tried to be innovative and now they're hoping for the support of county residents and Mother Nature to make this year's edition of the fair the best ever.

Scheduled for Sept. 20-25, the fair will have a featured event daily along with nightly entertainment at the fair barn, according to Paul Hopper, fair chairman. Hopper said it has been the intention of the fair's board of directors to make the event as fresh and new as possible.

"We're having lots of new exhibits and at the same time we're still keeping on some of the people who have been around for several years," Hopper said.

"The main thing about a fair is somehow, somehow make it different every year so people don't walk out and say 'Well, it looks just like last year's fair.'"

The fair's grand opening will be 4 p.m. Sept. 20 with tickets priced at $1.50 for persons over 12 and children aged six to 11 getting in for 50 cents.

Kicking off the festivities will be two performances of the Shrine Circus at 3:30 and 8 p.m. and the Hard Times Band will perform at 7:30 p.m. between the fair buildings.

Also slated for Sept. 20 is the judging of the women's department, agricultural products and flowers.

Tuesday, the second day, is jam-packed with action, with a Howard County Farm Tour beginning at 8:30 a.m. from the fair barn and returning at 11:30 a.m. in time for a

Bentsen would be 'pleased' to debate Collins

By Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — The political feuding between U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and Republican challenger U.S. Rep. Jim Collins — all at long distance so far — may become more personal next month.

Bentsen, a Democrat seeking his third six-year term, said Friday he has told his staff members he will be pleased to debate Collins on public television and for them to work out the details.

While that still leaves open the question of details, Bentsen's statement at a news conference commits him to the idea of debating Collins in a one-hour live show to be produced at the Dallas studios of KERA-TV on Oct. 23.

Previously, Bentsen staff members had questioned whether their candidate would have time to appear on the program, which will be shown on all 11 public broadcasting stations in Texas.

Susan Caudill, KERA senior producer, said the senatorial candidates' debate would be featured along with one for attorney general candidates between 8 and 10 p.m. Oct. 23. Debates between candidates for governor, lieutenant governor and treasurer will be held on Oct. 16, she said.

The debates will include Libertarian Party candidates since they have been certified for the Nov. 2 general election ballot, she said, and that has been a major problem in obtaining Bentsen's confirmation.

Prostitution: the problem explored

Enormous profits can be made in America's multibillion-dollar sex industry. The quick money — and near total lack of punishment — has attracted a wide variety of subsidiary industries. For example, hotels and rooming houses rent out rooms to prostitutes and their customers.

Big Spring police chief Rick Turner said the problem in Big Spring is "houses that condone illegal activity" and "the things behind it when it becomes organized. People behind prostitution usually... are involved in many other criminal activities.

Watch for the Sept. 7-10, four-part series by staff writer Carol Daniel to find out more about prostitution in Big Spring.

chamber of commerce Agriculture Appreciation Dinner at noon at the fair grounds. Hopper said if you plan to take in the tour and banquet, notify the chamber and place ticket orders.

The second day of activities also includes a "Sew it with Cotton" style show sponsored by the Dryland Cotton Promoters at 7:30 p.m. Hopper said this is the first time the show has been done during the fair. A fiddlers' contest is slated for the same time for those who may prefer music.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday are days when patients from the state hospital and nursing homes and students from the elementary schools can get in free from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Wednesday's agenda has a lamb show at 9 a.m. and a goat show at 6:30 p.m. Entertainment for the evening will be provided by the Frankie Hernandez Band beginning at 7:30 p.m.

An omelet supper heads Thursday's highlights from 6-9 p.m. The Big Spring Prison Band will play at 7:30 p.m.

Friday has two popular events on tap: the cutting horse show and the all-animal pet show. For those who enjoys watching a horse show his stuff by cutting a calf from a herd of unruly cattle, the cutting horse show at 5 p.m. should be excellent. Dogs, cats, farm animals and exotic animals will be shown in the 7 p.m. animal show. Fairgoers can see "the best dressed dog" or the "best groomed pig," if there is such a thing, at this contest.

Saturday is graced by a day-long steer show beginning at 8 a.m. Entrants are limited to Howard County 4-H'ers and FFA'ers. According to Hopper, the winning exhibitor will receive a $1,000 prize. Also included in the day's activities are a horse show at 9 a.m. and roping and barrel racing at 4 p.m. A Mexican food meal is on tap from 6-8 p.m.

This year's crowd will be able to peruse a barn-full of booths, as well as a carnival which includes a trained bear and monkey act, Hopper said.

"They key to this year's fair is good weather and a good crowd — without those two things we're sunk. We encourage everyone to come out and make this the best fair ever," Hopper said.

Persons can win free tickets to the fair by entering the "Best of the Fair" contest sponsored by The Herald. Readers are invited to send in their own version of "I haven't had so much fun since..." to The Herald and winners will receive fair tickets. (Examples: "I haven't had so much fun since..." "I put my cat in the dryer." or "I saw Paul Hopper make Kool-Aid and try to get two quarts of water in that little package.")

Bring entries to The Herald, 710 Scurry, or mail them to: Best of the Fair, P.O. Box 1431, Big Spring TX 79720.

Those wishing to contribute can contact the State National Bank, Russell or Maxie Brashears.

Prison camp Jaycees taking telethon calls

Members of the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp Jaycees will be manning the phones in four- to six-hour shifts, said Robert Davis, Jaycee president.

Until 1980, the Big Spring Jaycees handled the phones. However, the Big Spring Jaycees disbanded that year, and the camp Jaycees took over the following year.

This year's goal is set at $10,000, Davis said. Last year, the Jaycees received $5,000 in pledges for victims of muscular dystrophy.

The MDA telethon will raise money nationally to combat muscular dystrophy, spinal muscular atrophies, diseases of the neuromuscular junctions, metabolic diseases of muscle and diseases of peripheral nerves.

The direct lines will be 263-8466.

Trapshooters

So while he was taking care of his own business with a 97x100 round, Carlisle dropped two more birds and the championship gold medal was draped around the neck of civilian competitor from Texas.

The civilian aspect of Coleman's feat is not one to overlook. The next three finishers behind the local shooter — Carlisle, Al Mullins and Randy Gates — are in the Army, all on the Army sharpshooting team and all stationed at Fort Benning. That put Coleman at a great disadvantage firing on his competitor's "home court."

"It is an advantage," he said of shooting in your own backyard. "They are used to the light conditions — that has a lot to do with the way you see the targets — and are used to the background. They're also used to the climate — it's really humid there."

Despite having those obstacles to overcome, Coleman began the week strong. "I shot pretty good during practice," he said of early warmups. "You don't get up so high for that."

On Tuesday, Coleman was successful on 73 of 75 shots but then he suffered his worst day Wednesday, hitting "only" 71 of 75 tries. "That's not too good," he says dryly. "I just wasn't paying enough attention. Your mind wanders and you start thinking about other things. You need to think only about the next target."

His total of 144x150 was good enough for third place but Coleman had higher expectations and set out to do something about it Thursday.

Few perfect scores were recorded during the week and one went to the civilian shooter the next day. Firing a sparkling 75x75, he moved into second place behind Carlisle, a Texan himself coming from Houston. Then came a 74x75 Friday which moved Coleman into a first place tie with Carlisle at 293x300.

Coleman is the first civilian every to win the national title "without Uncle Sam's help." Some former Army men have come back to claim the championship but Coleman is the first to do on his own.

THE NEXT step is the world championships where the U.S. finished a dismal fourth in 1981 in Argentina. "We just didn't shoot well. It doesn't sound like much but trying to get four people to get all together is tough."

"I'm glad it's over," the relieved shooter said. "You really worry about that one. It's the biggest shoot of the year and you put more effort into it, trying to make the team. It's hard on your nerves. If you don't do good there, all the other wins don't mean much. You can put your gun up until next year."

As if battling the Army shooters wasn't enough, Coleman had to work extra harder still. He's slightly colorblind and that forces him "to watch for movement more." He can't detect subtle changes in light but items. Lloyd Larson Jr. of 2308 Roberts told police that between midnight Friday and 10 a.m. Saturday someone stole a weed-eater from the back of his pickup truck parked at his home.

Wesley McCurtain of 1000 S. Lancaster told police someone stole his 1978 Ford Pinto as it sat parked at the above address.

Police said vehicles driven by J.B. Ward of 1804 Morrison and Bertie Henson Kirkland of Route One collided in a Safeway parking lot at 11:18 a.m. Friday. No injuries were reported.

Police said Scott Andrew Barnes of 1014 Baylor struck the concrete median strip in the 2600 block of South Gregg at 7:22 p.m. Friday. Barnes told police he swerved to avoid a collision with another vehicle.

Motor vehicles driven by John William Wendt of Lubbock and Mary Cooper Sneed of 1106 Ridge Road collided Saturday at 7:28 a.m. in the 1800 block of South Gregg, according to police reports. Ms. Sneed possibly was injured in the wreck, according to police.

sometimes it's an advantage. When the colors change on other competitors, he may not notice and proceed with his round without hesitation.

"The whole thing is maturity," he explains. "I'm a whole lot more settled now... I don't let things bother me like I used to. It takes a lot of experience. It's a long way from the top to close to the top. It took me two years to get that straightened out."

EVEN THOUGH Coleman was concentrating on his own performance, he kept an eye on the younger Rogers.

"Kelly shot really good... There's more pressure in this than in ATA (American Trap Association) shoots," he said.

Rogers hit 377x400 targets during his week of shooting to win the junior title and finish 12th overall among the 82 shooters originally on hand for the shoot.

Not only was his performance good on its own merits, but it came after a disastrous trip to Vandalia, Ohio, for the Grand American.

Prior to the trip north, he was hospitalized for a respiratory infection. Not wanting to miss a chance at defending his national junior title there, the Big Spring trapshooter made the trip anyway. Not fully recovered from his illness, he "shot terrible. I was really feeling weak," he recalls.

Knowing that the Georgia shoot was coming right up, Rogers rested up and "felt pretty good" when he began the trip east. His practice rounds went fine as he approached the first day of competition with an open mind.

"That first day, I was pretty casual. I didn't expect to do good," he says. He had a 67x75 the first day but followed that with a 74x75 Wednesday to record the best showing for that day and move him into a tie for first place.

"That brought me up into a tie for first. It surprised me. I was hitting them pretty good." Next came a 68 Thursday, a day when he shot at 8 a.m. into the Georgia haze. Four of the misses came in the first 25 as he battled to see the targets in the low treeline.

Friday's round was a 71x75 which zoomed him into a four-bird lead. Going into Saturday's final 100, he had to hold off Todd Graves of Mississippi. "I figured if anyone could catch me, it would be him," Rogers remembers. Both had 23s and 25s before Rogers missed his last shot in the third 25. Graves didn't miss another after the first round and finished with a 98, the high score of the day. Rogers was one behind at 97x100 but won the junior title.

"I was real excited... I surely didn't expect it," he says. "I don't think it has hit me yet."

An expert at American trap, Rogers has only recently tried the international style. "I like it. It's really exciting. It's two different style. American is more casual. International is more military-like. Regimented."

SPECIAL SESSION: Keeping a state fund from going broke

Clements, White turn session into a campaign issue

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) — Legislators will meet in special session Tuesday to prevent a Depression-era unemployment tax fund from going broke. The fund has been drained by the current recession in Texas as more and more workers are being laid off and collecting benefits.

The election-year session could determine the political fortunes of the two men seeking to become governor in 1983 — Republican Gov. Bill Clements and Democratic Attorney General Mark White.

White already has made the session an issue, claiming Clements had advance word that the fund was in trouble but did nothing about it.

"I think it's going to be a disgrace for a man who claims to run government like a business to preside over the first bankruptcy in the Southwest of an unemployment fund," White said.

"It's kind of a crisis-to-crisis approach to government," White added. "We just kind of bump along from one crisis to the next."

The special session will be the third since the legislature adjourned its 140-day session June 1, 1981, but Clements said those claiming that he knew the fund was in danger are "snapping at gnats."

One proposal that might not set too well with prideful Texans is to borrow money from the federal government to cover the projected deficit in the state unemployment tax fund.

Some have suggested that this would violate the pay-as-you-go provision in the Texas Constitution. White, however, held that the state could borrow money from the federal government.

Clements and other high state officials have stated they have no desire to get involved in all-out legislative debate on the tax fund, but merely want a "quick-fix" to carry the fund over until the legislature meets in regular session in January.

Basically, more money is being paid each week to jobless Texans than is flowing into the fund on a quarterly basis from a tax employers pay on the basis of each worker. The total draw on the fund for August was in excess of $61 million.

The Texas Employment Commission estimates at the current rate of withdrawal the fund will go bankrupt before Thanksgiving, and another report distributed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby estimates the deficit could reach $340 million next year.

Texas businessmen obviously are not pleased with predictions that they may have to pay huge increases in unemployment taxes to cover deficits, but various reports note that Texas now taxes its employers at the lowest rate in the nation. A 1981 study showed that the average tax in Texas was $36 per employee — $12 an employee lower than the next lowest, Colorado — and the majority of Texas employers pay only $6 per employee, the minimum required by state law.

WHEN DID HE KNOW? — Gov. Clements called the session only recently, but some officials say he knew of the fund problem considerably earlier.

Rep. Lloyd Criss, D-La Marque, has filed a bill that would raise the wage base on which the tax is levied from the first $6,000 of an employee's salary to $7,000, which would bring in additional money.

His proposal would raise the minimum tax rate from 0.1 percent to 0.5 percent and would set the penalty for late payments at 2 percent above the prime interest rate. The bill also would eliminate figures that automatically trigger increases and decreases in the tax rate. Of Oct. 1 each year, for every $5 million the fund is below the $225 million floor, a 0.1 percent surcharge is added to the tax. Likewise, if the fund is over its $325 million ceiling on Oct. 1, all tax rates are decreased 0.1 percent for every $5 million in excess.

Speaker Bill Clayton said, however, neither Criss' proposal nor three bills hastily introduced by Clayton were the answer to the problem, and new measures were prepared for pre-session review.

Clements and others have predicted it will not take the legislature long to overcome the tax fund shortage for the time being.

"I hope it will be handled quickly, but there may be someone who may try to demagogue the situation," Clements said on a campaign trip. "We are in what has commonly been called the 'silly season.'"

Shaw: employers can't handle paying more into the fund

By BILL ELDER
City Editor

Rep. Larry Don Shaw of Big Spring says he is glad the special session finally was called and thinks the tax fund issue should have been dealt with earlier by state officials.

"We were getting concerned whether (the fund) would collapse," Shaw said yesterday in a breather from his campaign against Monahan's GOP Rep. Jerry Cockerham.

Shaw said legislators returning to Austin Tuesday have two options: borrow from another fund temporarily until the election is past and the 1983 session of the legislature convenes — or increase the amount the state's employers pay into the dwindling unemployment fund.

The latter, he said, is "not beneficial to our economy — employers in Texas cannot afford that. It would be devastating in a tight economic situation."

The fund's future has become a campaign issue, Shaw noted, adding it has "damaged the governor some, politically — saying he didn't get the message. I don't think people will buy that."

"The flip side of the political uproar, he said, is that 'sometimes when there's political pressure (politicians) do things that are real good.'"

Shaw, who expects to fly into the Capitol Monday or early Tuesday, said he thought the session might last three days.

WHAT CAN WE DO? — Larry Don Shaw is one representative who journeys to Austin Tuesday curious about the form the solution to the fund problem will take.

Crisis meetings aren't unusual

By JIM DAVIS
Harte-Hanks Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — In just about every government class I can remember taking at Austin High School and the University of Texas years ago, teachers made fun of the once-every-biennium schedule of the Texas Legislature.

How could a governmental body meeting only five months every two years deal with the complex problems of our modern society, the teachers asked.

How could the legislators decide two years in advance how to spend the state's money wisely? Would you like to plan your budget that way?

In those days such questions to me fell on an eager and understanding listener. I had enough trouble planning my meager budget two days in advance. The Texas legislative system must be archaic and inefficient, I agreed.

The first dent in that conviction came in 1965, when I was hired by United Press International to cover the 59th session of the Texas Legislature. One night near the end of the session, while toasting down some suds with a more-experienced UPI reporter, I confidently ranted on the foolishness of limiting the legislature to five months of regular session every two years.

"Jim," my admired friend replied, "you've seen how much time they kill the first three months of a session. If they met every year for longer periods, they'd just have more time to kill."

The special session that begins Tuesday marks the third time in a little more than a year that legislators have been called back to Austin to handle state business.

Special sessions aren't rare in Texas. A check of legislative history shows at least one emergency call by the governor in five of the last seven bienniums, with four calls in 1971-72. The record was five in the early '30s.

Meeting seldom and reacting to emergencies often doesn't sound like a very efficient way to run a state legislature. In fact, it isn't efficient, but most Texans seem comfortable with it.

When state leaders designed the present Texas Constitution in 1876, they purposefully mandated infrequent legislative sessions. Their theory was that the less time the lawmakers were in Austin, the less damage they could do.

Weather

A stormy Texas Saturday

By Associated Press

Thunderstorms continued to rumble through parts of the Panhandle Saturday, with scattered thunderstorms also located along the Texas coast and through the western sections of South Central Texas.

On Friday, one man was killed and two others injured in northeast Harris County when high winds topped a house under construction, sheriff's deputies said.

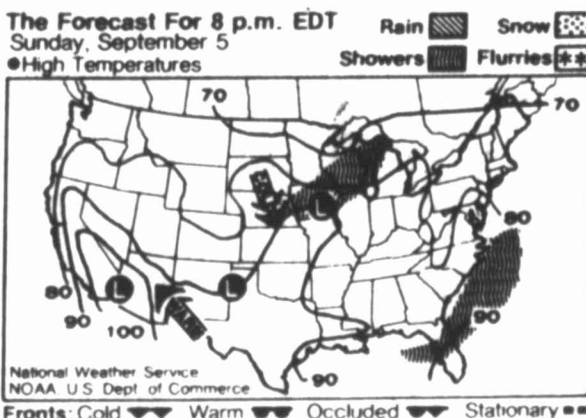

The injured men were flown by helicopter to Hermann Hospital and then transferred to Ben Taub Hospital, said a spokesman who did not want to be identified. The identities of the victims were not released by the Harris County medical examiner's office or the hospital.

In the southeast Texas town of Humble, a tornado with gusts of wind about 50 mph uprooted trees and heavily damaged cars and homes Friday.

The tornado hit the north side of Humble about 3:30 p.m. but did not injure anyone, according to Debbie Woodward of the Humble Police Department.

"It did some heavy damage to homes and cars, and pulled trees out of the ground," she said. "It put a tree through a couple of houses."

Partly cloudy skies covered most of South Texas, and North Texas was generally fair.

Winds were easterly to southeasterly through most of the state at 10 miles per hour or less. In the Panhandle, winds ranged from 10 to 20 miles per hour.

Late afternoon and evening thunderstorms southwest mountains otherwise generally fair with warm days and mild nights through Sunday night.

Partly cloudy and a little cooler Monday. Highs in the upper 80s and lower 90s through Monday, lows Sunday night in the 60s.

Bess Truman has an ulcer

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Former first lady Bess Truman was diagnosed Saturday as suffering from an ulcer in her small intestine, her doctor said.

The 97-year-old widow of President Harry S. Truman was in serious condition Saturday at Research Medical Center, said hospital spokesman Tom Peck.

Peck said that Mrs. Truman's doctor, Wallace Graham, reported that tests showed the former first lady's bleeding, which stopped Friday, apparently was caused by an ulcer in her duodenum, or the first section of the small intestine.

Mrs. Truman was taken by ambulance to the hospital from her home in Independence on Thursday after she began bleeding internally. Until Saturday, the source of the bleeding could not be determined since she was too weak to undergo extensive testing.

Peck said Mrs. Truman's condition was being treated with medication, and Graham did not plan an operation. Mrs. Truman, the nation's oldest former first lady, underwent upper and lower gastrointestinal tests Saturday.

Metric system moving slowly

Liters, meters, centimeters, kilometers. The language of the metric system is everywhere. Whether or not it will fit in with normal Texas linguistics remains to be seen.

Texans are "down to Earth" souls, and they can't see the point in changing a perfectly good system of measuring things. Things aren't much better in the rest of the country. Those opposed to the idea of switching over either see it as some sort of plot to create a one-government world, or just a total waste of time and effort.

Those who favor switching say that the world needs to have a common system of measurement primarily for the benefit of world trade.

It's not a major issue, but it is a bothersome one. We see the need for a common system, and to be honest the metric method of keeping measurements in a system of 10s does make sense — maybe more sense than the old quarts—miles—yards way of doing things.

But how do you make people stop measuring the way they've been measuring for all their lives?

It won't be easy. There are state officials who say it will happen and that it needs to be mandatory. We hope it doesn't come to that. Let's just inch along.

What about divorces

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: My present husband and I both had previous marriages which ended in divorce. Recently we both became Christians, but now we are wondering if we are living in sin because of our previous divorces. What do you think about this? —Mrs. M.S.T.

DEAR MRS. M.S.T.: No, you should not be concerned about this. The Bible says, "Each one should remain in the situation which he was in when God called him" (1 Corinthians 7:20). Christ has taken away your sins and brought you both into a new relationship with God. You should trust completely what God's Word tells us: "Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation; the old has gone, the new has come! All this is from God, who reconciled us to himself through Christ" (2 Corinthians 5:17-18).

That does not mean that divorce is not serious, or that somehow God has taken your divorces lightly. Marriage was given to us by God, and it is his will for a man and his wife to be married as long as they both live. You should remember that Jesus Christ had to give his life so that your sins could be forgiven — sin is that serious. But Christ paid the price for your sins — not only your divorces, but all the other sins you ever committed. Because you have repented of your sins and turned to Christ in trust and faith, he has forgiven you. "But you were washed, you were sanctified, you were justified in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ and by the Spirit of our God" (1 Corinthians 6:11).

Now look forward to your life together in Christ. Let him be the Lord of your lives and your marriage, and pray that he will help you honor him in your lives. Build your lives upon the Bible, and seek to let his love fill you and rule you. Learn to pray together and grow spiritually together. Be thankful for what God has done in your lives. It may be also that God wants to use you in the lives of other people who have experienced unhappiness in their marriages and need to find Christ's forgiveness and hope. God bless you as you live for Christ.

Who's to blame?

Dear Editor: Much has been said and written the past few weeks about our taxes. The fact is that few of us enjoy paying them but we all know they are necessary. Since the new state law requires all property tax values to represent 100 percent market value through reappraisal, most of us got a shock after seeing our new values and estimate of tax. We all began to look for someone to blame and ask questions about what we could do to help ourselves.

The most obvious place to start is the new appraisal district and the chief appraiser. Mr. (Gene) Pereira and his staff have very difficult and unpopular jobs to perform at best, one most people would not touch with a 10-foot pole. His job is to appraise property in accordance with guidelines set up by his profession and the state. If and when we feel his judgment or method is wrong on our property, it's our right to protest the value and try to work something out. But let's not blame Mr. Pedreira for our tax increase. He does not set our tax rates; our local officials do.

(Commissioner) David Barr said the tax burden would shift from about 18 percent local valuations and 82 percent mineral valuations in 1981 to an estimated 41 percent local and 59 percent mineral in 1982. Our problem here is that our local values have not changed in twenty-five years but the oil companies are reappraised every year and their values have gone up as a result. Our tax responsibility has been increasingly picked up by these companies. While going back to 1957 values sounds good to us, imagine how delighted the oil companies would be returning to 1957 values.

So who is to blame for higher taxes this year? I am afraid all the finger-pointing comes full circle back to us. This year we begin to pay our dues for 25 years of neglect. This year like never before, we have become more involved in our local tax process, which is exactly where we should be. You better believe our local officials are worried about setting the tax rates this year because they know we will be looking over their shoulders and asking questions about every nickel they want to budget.

Editor's Column

By TOMMY HART

A few spoil it for all

Linda Adams is on vacation. This week's column is written by former Herald Editor Tommy Hart.

When The Lord Jehovah, with whom we all communicate and relate to in one manner or another, gave man the talent and the incentive to create, He also endowed him with an occasional impulse to debase.

His savagery becomes most intense when he resorts to genocide, at which time he acts as if it had been ordained that he alone had been privileged to drink the sweet nectar that this earth is capable of producing and that everyone else should be regarded as an interloper.

At those times when all the tribes are at peace, man's weakness for destroying turns inward and he often is prone to appease his lust through vandalism, by vilifying something his fellow man may have created.

In times of great bounty, it is said, with reliable authority, that the vandal's willingness to desecrate and fragment man's noblest monuments increases in intensity until such time as it reaches a demented fury. When that time arrives, even the miscreant's apologists find it difficult to explain his behavioral patterns, the satisfaction he might have attained from the mischief he has wrought.

Lamentably, our community has more than its share of people who would attack those things the enterprising individual has created, often in a maniacal effort to reduce them to their native state.

Comanche Trail Park would be a far better and more idyllic place were it not for the nihilism practiced by the insidious few.

Scenic trials have been defiled by arrogant types who would deny their pleasures to others. 'No swimming' signs erected near the hollows visited by the artificial stream cascading toward Comanche Trail Lake have been totally ignored and, on occasions, twisted out of shape.

Smutty graffiti is in evidence in some locales within the park. Garbage cans, which apparently were used all too seldom, have disappeared altogether — quite probably spirited away by that breed of people which reasons that "possession is nine points of the law."

On at least four occasions, young men who should know better have been relieving themselves in congested areas, with enclosed facilities designed for that purpose less than 100 yards away.

On occasions, when clusters of young toughs gather and start hurling invective at passerby whose only sin has been to be in the vicinity, the park can become downright sinister.

Litterers may not be first cousins to the vandals but in their own way can bring as much shame to a public facility, and to a society that tolerates such behavior.

Big Spring has more natural beauty than most West Texas communities but the battered cups, the flattened beer cans, the broken bottles and the half-eaten sandwiches still clinging to cellophane wrappers — all of which can be found in great abundance around our public parks — did not come with the original concept. Such refuse is deliberately deposited there by louts who are too lazy to take the time to dispose of their litter properly; either that or they are coldly intent on denigrating an area's testament to natural beauty.

The vandals who would destroy, the litterers who would detract operate comfortably within a very placid, forgiving society. The average person, appalled at the thought of 'getting involved,' rarely accuses, and the courts have no appetite for pursuing such investigations.

Other communities seem to do a much more responsible job of keeping this kind of problem under control. (Lubbock is a good example, as is Midland). Some are prone to take swift action against those who would sneer at the law.

Unless and until we decide to take a harder line against such demeanor, we are going to have to continue to look the other way when the vandal and the litterer are abroad, bent on expanding their arena of operation.

A beer that made Monopoly famous

Beer monopoly. The very term is enough to curdle the blood of every God-fearing American. What if there were only one brand of beer? What if the brewer could charge whatever he wanted? What if ... Well, the possibilities are grim.

That is the specter raised by critics of a bill to legalize exclusive territories for beer distributors — in essence, monopolies on a particular brand in a particular area. A brewery designating one firm as its only wholesale outlet in Phoenix, for instance, would be able to do so without fear of anti-trust problems. The critics predict price increases of 20 percent or more if the bill passes.

Any beer drinker who resides, as I do, in Evanston, Ill., birthplace of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, is acutely wary of any interference with the wholesome consumption of alcohol. But the threat presented by this bill is no threat at all.

We have come a long way from the 16th Century Tartars, who scorned Russians for not only eating wheat — "the top of a weede," they called it — but, worse still, drinking it. The U.S. enjoys the high cultural distinction of being the world's biggest producer of beer. Americans drink 182 million barrels of beer each year, which works out to 24 gallons a year for every man, woman and child. (That's 11 cases, if you're counting.) Those figures put us at a respectable 12th in the world in per capita consumption.

So beer legislation is serious business. But contrary to what its opponents suggest, this bill would not wreak any great havoc in the American beer market. Most beer is already distributed through wholesalers who enjoy territorial monopolies. The bill would merely certify the legality of these arrangements — which now are vulnerable, at least theoretically, to anti-trust lawsuits. Prices shouldn't be affected.

The talk of beer monopolies is also considerably overwrought. The critics point with alarm to the fact that 83 percent of all beer sold in this country comes from only six companies. The answer to that is: so what? Six firms is plenty, as long as there are no legal obstacles to competition — such as barriers to new firms or restrictions on price competition.

The key to monopoly is not the number of firms but how they behave, and the beer industry is intensely competitive. Ask Schlitz, which has gone from the nation's largest brewer to a struggling third (and occasionally fourth) today. Beer drinkers can seldom turn on the TV or radio without being wooed to Miller or Pabst. Monopolists, by contrast, don't compete for customers, because customers have no choice. There is also brisk competition among retail sellers — liquor stores, supermarkets and taverns.

That said, it's still worth asking why even this small measure of monopoly should be allowed. The reason is that it serves the interests of both brewers and consumers. If exclusive territories were merely a way to jack up prices, why wouldn't breweries simply charge higher prices to their distributors, thus capturing the monopoly profits for themselves?

These monopolies grow out of an unfortunate characteristic of beer — its perishability. All beer begins to deteriorate as soon as it is finished brewing, and the sooner it is drunk the better it tastes. Bottled or canned beer has a shelf life of only 85 to 115 days; draft beer, which isn't pasteurized, decays even more rapidly.

If a brewer wants to protect his beer's reputation, he has to find a way to make sure it's sold while still fresh. A common solution is requiring distributors to visit retail outlets regularly to see that stocks are refrigerated and rotated. It's easy to enforce the rule on one distributor — if a brewer finds stale beer in Omaha, his Omaha distributor is to blame. With 20 distributors, it's a lot harder.

A distributor will agree to perform these costly services if he knows he can't be undercut by other distributors who don't. Benjamin Klein, a UCLA economist, says having several distributors creates a "free rider" problem: "If you have 25 distributors and one of them sells stale beer, all the distributors suffer, but the culprit bears only one-twenty-fifth of the cost — and he can charge a lower price. And a distributor who makes sure his beer is sold when it's fresh gets only one-twenty-fifth of the benefit."

It is argued that retailers will sell only fresh beer to protect their own reputations. But a beer drinker who buys a stale six-pack will probably buy a different brand the next time, rather than go to a different store. In most cases, says Klein, he'll blame the brewery rather than the retailer. That's the difference between beer and other perishable goods, like bread or milk.

If this bill passes, its critics may feel like the man who hoped to die in a tavern, so the angels would say, "God be merciful to this drinker!" I hate to discourage prayer, but in this case a free and open marketplace is protection enough.

Bessie's blues

"Give me a pigfoot and a bottle of beer
...Simply cause I don't care
...I feel just like, I don't care"

Bessie, my friend, you've done it again.

It's been said blues are the songs of despair, but I can't agree. When I'm in a purple funk, the blues function as an expression of at least resilience and survival, if not hope.

And Bessie Smith was resilient, at least until a slow-moving truck crunched into her side and took her life in 1933.

Rolling Stone calls her "one of the greatest, most influential musicians of the twentieth century. Bessie Smith's impact is so widespread it's almost impossible to gauge."

Bessie's voice — without amplification — filled the largest hall and every word she sang was clear, enunciated and natural. Apparently her stage personality matched the power of her voice.

"I'm goin' down to the river
...Into it I'm going to jump
...Can't keep from worryin' cause
...I'm down in the dumps"

"Bessie Smith was a fabulous deal to watch," guitarist Danny Barker said. "She was a large, pretty woman and she dominated the stage. You didn't turn your head when she went on. You just watched Bessie."

"If you had any church background, like people who came from the South as I did, you would recognize a similarity between what she was doing and what those preachers and evangelists from there did, and how they moved people. She could bring about mass hypnotism."

Another musician who worked with Bessie, Sy Oliver, recalled that she once said, prior to a show, "I'm going to walk me one today." After Bessie had sung a few numbers, a man in the audience rose from his seat and moved slowly down the theater aisle toward the stage, as if in a trance.

He remained transfixed in front of the singer until her song ended. Then he came out of his hypnotized state, looked around in confusion, and returned to his seat, accompanied by laughter from the audience.

Last night when I was asleep
...Someone knocked on my door
...I thought it was that sweet man of mine
...But it was my landlord, a great big chump

"I said stay away from my door, Mr. Landlord
...Cause I'm down in the dumps"

Bessie turned the blues into a modern jazz form, outdistancing most of her accompanists with her uncanny sense of phrasing and clear, powerful tone.

I was lucky enough to find Columbia's "World's Greatest Blues Singer" — covering Smith's first and last recording sessions in 1933 and 1934 — at The Record Shop. The first recordings were extremely crude, but the 1933 set combines Smith with trumpeter Frankie Newton, trombonist Jack Teagarden, Benny Goodman on clarinet, tenor saxophonist Chu Berry, Buck Washington on piano, Bobby Johnson on guitar and Billy Taylor on bass.

The relationship between blues singer and accompanying instrumentalist is a very special one, illuminating the instrumental quality of the singing and the vocal quality of the playing. It's difficult to say that any of her accompanists matched Bessie's uncanny ability to bend notes and completely personalize even the most trite material.

Some of the collection's best moments are the exchanges between Smith and a young Louis Armstrong.

Bessie began to make records in 1932, and through the next ten years recorded 160 songs, most of them blues, but also such things as the famous "Nobody Knows You When You're Down and Out."

Most of these, like most blues, dealt with various aspects of love — treated with a directness, sexual frankness, and humor far removed from the romantic treacle of Tin Pan Alley songs. But there were other subjects, such as in "Poor Man's Blues" and her own "Back Water Blues," inspired by observation of the effects of a Mississippi flood.

When I woke my pillow was wet with tears

...Just one day from that man of mine
...But I'm gonna straighten up
...Straighter than as a gun
...Ain't no use in me tellin' that lie
...Cause I'm down in the dumps

Bessie's career had its ups and downs, but at the time of her death while on tour in the Deep South, she was ready to make a comeback. I'm only grateful to the person who had the foresight to record some of her work. What I would give to have heard her in person.

Junior library club membership sought

By DONNA JACKSON
Children's Librarian

The tremendous amount of support we received from the young helpers during the Summer Reading Program encouraged us so much that we've decided to establish a Junior Library Club.

The club will be open to students from sixth through 12th grades. Meetings will be held at the library once a month, usually the first Saturday of the month. The first meeting will be held Sept. 11 from 10 to 11 a.m.

The purpose of the club will be to familiarize its members with the resources and procedures of the library. Members will be expected to spend approximately four hours a month at the library performing various duties.

These duties will include learning how to use the card catalog and Reader's Guide, directing patrons to various areas of the library to find books, running the film and filmstrip projectors, helping organize the books for the book sale, and keeping books in order on the shelves.

Sept. 11 horse show set

The Howard County Horseman Club will hold an all-breed open horse show Sept. 11, according to show manager Kenneth Williams.

Registration for the show will begin at the HCYH Arena on Garden City Highway at 9 a.m., and the show itself will begin at 10 a.m.

Entry fees are $2.50 for youth divisions and $3.50 for adults. The show will be followed by a jackpot barrel race, with registration for the race to begin at 3 p.m. Ribbons, rosettes and trophies will be awarded to winners.

GETTING THE FACTS — Dallas kindergarten teacher Lois Lamb delivers instructions to a group of her virtually similar-sized students on the first day of school.

Dwarf teacher

DALLAS (AP) — On the first day of school, Lois Lamb told her kindergarten class "people come in all sizes, shapes and colors."

She really was referring to size, since she is a dwarf, and at 4-foot-1 is about the same size as her 22 pupils at the south Dallas school.

"When I was made by God, he decided I was going to be a little person and teach little people just like you," she said.

Officials of the Dallas Independent School District say Mrs. Lamb is the first dwarf to teach in Dallas public schools.

"One of the great things about Mrs. Lamb is that she's more than willing to explain about her size," said her principal, Melvin Howe.

Mrs. Lamb explains to the class that she is a dwarf, not a midget, and prefers to be called a "little person."

"Now, can you say that: Mrs. Lamb is a little person?"

"Mrs. Lamb is a little person," the class obediently responds.

"Everybody remember that. Am I something to be afraid of?"

"No," says the class in unison.

Mrs. Lamb said she thinks she will set an example for the class to show the obstacles a person can overcome. And she thinks her job will help dispel myths that dwarfs can only find work in circuses or wrestling. Her husband, Davey, also a dwarf, is a Dallas attorney who is now running for the Texas legislature, she said.

As she continued her introduction to the class, Mrs. Lamb asked: "Do you notice anything different about Mrs. Lamb?"

"You're white," said Martin Guillory, a student in the all-black class.

Turkey walk scheduled

Scenic Mountain will be covered with Turkey Walkers and Turkey Trotters of the American Heart Association Sept. 11 from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The events are held by the local AHA chapter to raise funds to support research, education and service programs.

The course for both events will circle the top of Scenic Mountain in a 1.5 mile loop.

Turkey Walkers will get sponsors to pay so much per mile, and each person who turns in $75 to the AHA will receive a free turkey donated by Don Newsom.

Trophies will be awarded to Turkey Trot winners in categories of 25 and under, ages 26-45 and 46 and over. Certificates will go to second- and third-place winners.

The trot begins at 8:30 a.m., with a $10 per person entry fee in the three-mile run.

Official entry forms can be picked up at the following locations: Medicine Shoppe, Big Spring Herald, Specs & Co., office of David Rickey, D.D.S., Neal's Pharmacy and Citizens Federal Credit Union.

PONDERS ACTION — Ray Castleberry, fire chief for Artesia, N.M., grimaced as he received a status report on a refinery fire Friday. The fire began Thursday when lightning struck, officials said. Two firemen were treated at a hospital for smoke inhalation.

Texas unemployment level disputed

AUSTIN (AP) — Instead of producing joy, a decline in Texas' unemployment rate for August brought controversy over the accuracy of the data and sparked political bickering among state officials.

U.S. Department of Labor figures released Friday showed Texas' unemployment rate dropped to a seasonally adjusted 6.7 percent in August, down from a July figure of 7 percent.

But one member of the Texas Employment Commission said state data suggests the labor department figures are suspect, and a state representative came right out and accused labor officials of getting "creative" for purposes of political expediency.

The DOL calculated Texas' unemployment at a seasonally adjusted 5.3 percent during August of last year, which would mean unemployment rose 140 percent over the year.

But TEC figures showed that 231,185 Texans filed unemployment claims during August 1981 and that the figure jumped to 805,826 claims during August of this year — an increase of 350 percent.

"I'm very puzzled about that," said TEC member Ken Clapp. "I just have serious doubts about those figures when I look at the figures here in Texas."

"I'm basing that on things we know for sure here in Texas — people that are drawing benefits and all the layoffs that have taken place," he said.

Terence Travland of TEC's economic research division said he has confidence in the federal figures. He said they are gathered through a "highly scientific" household survey.

Travland said the number of claims filed is such a small part of the total unemployment statistics as to be unreliable. The federal statistics are more "all-inclusive," Travland said.

State Rep. Lloyd Criss, D-La Marque, issued a statement accusing the federal officials of playing politics with the data.

"I suspect someone up in Washington is massaging these figures to bolster Republican claims that Texas' economy is just fine when everyone knows it's not," Criss said. "The way the Labor Department calculates individual state's unemployment rates leaves a lot of room for creative figuring."

Hours after the new, lower figure was released Friday, Gov. Bill Clements, who is running for re-election, issued a statement applauding the good news.

'E.T.' suit

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston businessman wants to market mugs that say, "I Love E.T." and "E.T. Phone Home," but representatives of the movie studio that produced "E.T.: The Extra-Terrestrial" don't think the product is cute.

U.S. District Judge James DeAnda, who said he has not seen the movie, extended a temporary restraining order Friday against entrepreneur Andy Aberman's business.

Universal City Studios Inc., which produced the movie with Steven Spielberg, is seeking to stop sale of the cups.

Aberman said salesmen gave him the idea for printing "E.T." markings on porcelain mugs he imports from China. He said the court order has forced him to put $200,000 worth of orders on hold and estimated that a final ruling in favor of Universal could cost him $2 million.

Justice Department denies coverup in probe of FBI man

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is emphatically denying any cover-up in a two-year investigation into allegations that an FBI supervisor was involved in criminal conduct.

"There is no truth to a contention ... that the Federal Bureau of Investigation failed to conduct a criminal investigation of an FBI supervisor who was suspected of criminal conduct," Associate Attorney General Rudolph W. Giuliani said Friday. "The FBI has been completely professional and responsible."

Giuliani confirmed a report by Scripps-Howard Newspapers that the supervisor, a $40,000-a-year official at FBI headquarters here, is under investigation, but he refused to comment on allegations against the official.

Justice Department officials who asked not to be identified by name said the Scripps-Howard report was inaccurate in saying the supervisor is suspected of masterminding seven bank robberies in five years.

The Columbus, Ohio, Citizen-Journal — in a Scripps-Howard dispatch from Washington — and The Washington Post identified the agent as H. Edward Tichel, 42, a 14-year FBI veteran who until last November was a member of the bureau's technical services division.

FBI spokesman Wayne Bonner said he could not comment on the reports.

Interviewed at his lawyer's office, Tichel was quoted by The Post as saying: "I've worked hard for the bureau. I've been extremely loyal, and I have not done anything wrong."

18 die in LA apartment fire

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A "suspicious" fire swept through a four-story apartment building yesterday, killing 18 people and injuring at least 18, officials said.

The blaze, which broke out at 4:27 a.m., sent flames leaping from the third and fourth floors of the building on Sunset Boulevard, said fire spokesman Jim Wells. Firefighters brought the fire under control at 5:47 a.m.

Five juveniles and four infants were among the dead, said fire spokesman Ed Reed.

Nineteen companies of firefighters and eight ambulance crews were sent to the scene, and firefighters did not get the upper hand against the blaze until about an hour after the first alarm, Wells said.

Wells said the 18 injured were taken to hospitals for treatment for smoke inhalation and burns. Several of the burn victims were described as being in an extremely critical condition.

No firefighters were reported among the injured.

The cause of the fire was not known, but the blaze appeared to have started in the rear of the building in a second-floor hallway, Reed said.

The victims may have died because they attempted to flee through interior hallways rather than waiting in their rooms to be rescued by firefighters, said Battalion Chief Gerald Johnson.

"If these people had stayed in their rooms, they'd be OK," he said, pointing to the contrast between the charred hallways of the building and nearly undamaged apartments.

"It's not confirmed, but it could have started in that hallway because of the severe amount of charring. Arson investigators are on the scene and I can say that the fire is suspicious," said Reed.

The building had been listed as a "target house" by the fire department, meaning the building was considered a serious fire hazard, Reed said.

Asked why the building was considered a fire hazard, Reed cited "the age of the building and the type of occupants" — many of whom are transients. Some of the one-room apartments were packed with several beds.

N-plants checked for altered welds

NEW YORK (AP) — Checks of pipe welds at dozens of nuclear power plants around the nation have found no defects so far, despite the discovery that some technicians altered X-rays to make the welds look safer, federal officials say.

Hundreds of thousands of the X-rays are being examined after officials found technicians had doctored films with pencils to make them conform more closely to safety standards.

The changes were made by three people employed at two unrelated pipe supply companies. In one case, the X-rays had been altered over a six-year period, company officials said.

Nuclear Regulatory Commission records indicate the two companies have supplied pipe and pipe-weld X-ray records for about 40 nuclear units. Eight of the plants are operating on full- or low-power licenses, while the others are under construction or have been delayed or canceled.

Despite the altered X-rays, "to date no defects have been found in any welds," NRC spokesman John Kopeck said.

X-rays are used to verify that welds have been made properly. Breaks in water pipes would threaten the cooling systems that are crucial to the operation and safety of nuclear plants.

The NRC informed utilities about the doctored last month after it learned X-rays of cooling pipe welds at a Washington Public Power Supply System plant being built in Satsop, Wash., had been "enhanced" with a pencil.

The doctored of the films was uncovered during a routine audit by WPPSS of work performed by Associated Piping & Engineering Corp. of Compton, Calif., according to an NRC document.

WPPSS spokesman Tom Britton said pencil marks were found on X-rays of welds at plant No. 3 in May. Subsequently, 29 retouched X-rays were found among 3,200 checked at Unit 3 and another another WPPSS unit in Richland, Wash., he said.

"Only one possibly defective pipe weld was found and it was a borderline case, real iffy," Britton said. "We went in and fixed it, but it really didn't amount to anything."

He said the pencil marks were made "to cover up defects on the X-rays themselves, not to cover up actual weld defects."

Vietnam to allow kids fathered by U.S. troops to emigrate soon

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Vietnamese government will permit the immediate emigration to the United States of 63 children fathered by Americans during the Vietnam war, says the nation's foreign minister.

In a copyright interview appearing in today's Los Angeles Herald Examiner, Nguyen Co Thach said his government eventually wants to release all of the youngsters of mixed parentage still in Vietnam.

Thach met in Hanoi on Aug. 23 with Herald Examiner Publisher Francis L. Dale, who visited Vietnam at the government's invitation with other members of a Church World Service delegation. The group is an affiliate of the National Council of Churches.

During the 90-minute interview, Dale asked Thach specifically about 63 mixed-parentage children whose histories were obtained by Church World Service.

Thach replied: "We want to release all of them, but those (63) can go right away. You have my word on it."

U.S. officials estimate conservatively that there are 2,800 mixed-race children in Vietnam, which was united under a communist government after the fall of South Vietnam in 1975. Efforts by various relief agencies to bring them to the United States for adoption have often been frustrated. Thach also said that his government hopes for improved relations with the United States in the future, and regards the bilateral situation as better today than it was in the 1960s and 1970s.

"We are both, your people and ours, the victims of (the Gulf of) Tonkin (incident)," he said, referring to the 1964 naval engagement that led to the U.S. military buildup in Vietnam. "The misunderstanding of the Tonkin incident was a tragedy... We must never have war again. For now, it is enough that we have no hostility toward each other."

Italy's top anti-Mafia fighter slain

PALERMO, Sicily (AP) — Gen. Carlo Alberto Dalla Chiesa, Italy's top Mafia fighter, and his wife of less than two months were killed in a hail of bullets Friday in downtown Palermo in what police said may have been a Mafia assassination.

Premier Giovanni Spadolini told the Senate in Rome yesterday Dalla Chiesa had just prepared a comprehensive plan "to stamp out terrorism and put an end to the Mafia reign" in Sicily. He called the general Italy's "most intelligent and courageous fighter" against terrorism and the Mafia.

"The challenge of organized crime and terrorism against the democratic state has reached the most intolerable levels," said President Sandro Pertini, who cut short his vacation in northern Italy when he learned of the killings.

Like Pertini, Italians across political lines reacted with shock and dismay over the killings Friday.

Two unknown extremist groups claimed responsibility, but investigators said today they believe Dalla Chiesa, 61, was killed by Mafia gunmen. He was known both for his crusades against the Mafia and the Red Brigades.

An anonymous male caller told the Palermo office of the Catania daily "La Sicilia" that "the operation of Carlo Alberto is finished."

As head of the Palermo's police force and the government's prefect, or representative here, he was the most important official to be murdered in five years of Mafia-style attacks on police and government officials. He was sent to Sicily in May specifically to crack down on the Mafia.

Police said gunmen using two cars and a motorcycle pumped numerous bullets through the windows of Dalla Chiesa's unarmored car, killing him and his wife, Emanuela, 32, a former Red Cross volunteer nurse he married July 14. They said at least 30 bullets struck the car the general was driving.

A bodyguard following the general in another car also was hit repeatedly and was reported in critical condition at a Palermo hospital. Authorities earlier said the guard, Domenico Russo, 32, was killed, but later announced he was in a deep coma.

Results of the autopsies have not been made public, but sources close to the medical examiner's office said both were killed instantly with multiple head wounds. The bodyguard also was shot in the head and was later visited by Interior Minister Virginio Rognoni, sources said.

Neighbors at the scene said they thought the shooting was just another street battle in the bloody war rival Mafia gangs wage for control of the multi-million dollar drug traffic.

The vehicles used in the attack later were found burned in a street about one mile from the scene. The Mafia generally burns the vehicles it uses in attacks to destroy fingerprints and other evidence.

Whooping crane chick takes first flight

BARABOO, Wis. (AP) — Gee Whiz, a rare whooping crane born three months ago at the International Crane Foundation, has graduated from a chick to a fledgling by taking its first flight.

"When this chick flies, it means it's come of age," foundation director George Archibald said after Friday's rite of passage. "I feel like a proud father."

Archibald had performed a mating dance with Gee Whiz' mother, Tex, to encourage the bird to become pregnant. Gee Whiz was produced through artificial insemination.

Tex was later killed by marauding raccoons that entered her cage at the foundation.

Gee Whiz, 5 inches tall at birth, now stands about four feet tall. Officials won't know for another nine months what sex the bird is, said Joan Fordham, administrator of the foundation.

Q. We are finally getting to move closer to our children and grandkids. Since I am semi-retired, why should I pay a real estate agent to sell our house?

A. You shouldn't — if you want to spend extra time and possibly money selling your house, yourself. Services a realtor can do include: • Help you get a better price for the property. The agent may suggest simple improvements or save you from making expensive changes which won't add to the selling price. • Because of market knowledge, the agent can help you set a price for the property — one favorable to seller and buyer. • A realtor can make it possible for many prospective buyers to view the property, with the least inconvenience to you. • An agent can direct prospects toward available mortgage money.

Garden City

Student council organizing for 1982-83

After two weeks, the settling process is just about complete at Garden City High. During this time one of the more influential organizations on campus, Student Council, has organized and taken shape for the 1982-83 school year. The three top offices are held as follows: President- Robert Hefner, Junior; Vice-President- James Lopez, Junior; and Secretary-Treasurer- Michele Polendo, Junior.

Selected representatives throughout the school include: Sr.: Barry Holdampf; Jr.: Scott Anderson; Soph.: Stephanie Frerich; Fish: Gena Schaefer; Eighth: Brian Dalton; Seventh: Elizabeth Glass. Last Thursday, September 2, was the first time the council met for an open forum.

Kick-off on Friday night will be at 8:00 p.m. We urge everyone to come and support the Bearkats.

This school year will seem different from the last with addition of eleven new faces in the faculty. One of these new faces is that of Jack Asbill, high school principal. Mr. Asbill comes from Bronte High School where he held the same position. In the secondary, the new teachers include: Coach Bob Mace, Teresa Thedford, Theresa Eoff and Mary Margaret Randel. New elementary teachers are Martha Anderson, James Anderson, Evaristo Reyes, Su Cox, Mary Cain, and the new school nurse, Linda Schaefer.

As usual, the Senior class is very busy. Presently, they are stocking the concession stand for the football games and are distributing school jackets sold last spring. This year the Seniors are led by class officers: President- Marianne Hoelscher; Vice-President- Darla Plagens; Secretary- Staci Wilkerson; and Treasurer- Karen Halfman. Senior class sponsors include: Thom Vines, Dorothy Breneman, and Mary Margaret Randel. The Seniors thankfully acknowledge them.

Garden City is especially proud of their cheerleading squad which include: Marianne Hoelscher, Head, Debbie Bednar, Cecilia Hirt, Carol Hoelscher, Gena Schaefer, and Stephanie Frerich. Among their spirit boosting projects will be the selling of beat ribbons and buttons.

We'll, we hope this school year will be a good one for everyone and will consist of many successes.

Goliad

Mavericks' first game scheduled

The 1982-83 school year is off to a good start, according to principal, Jim Holmes. Holmes reports a total enrollment at Goliad this year of 796, as of Friday. The sixth grade is the largest class, with 411 students. Seventh-graders number 385.

Various clubs are once again being organized at Goliad. The Golden Girls Pep Squad is under the sponsorship of teachers Mrs. Loretta Ringhoffer and Ms. Rose Hodnet. Parent sponsors are Mrs. Burrows and Mrs. Carroll. Some of the duties of its members will be to make hall signs and locker decorations for athletic contests, and to boost the spirit of the Maverick team.

Richard Mitchell is the new band director. A Big Spring native, he is married and has one son, Christopher.

The Mavericks' first football game will be held Thursday, September 16, against Sweetwater. The team will be leaving Goliad around noon, and the first game will begin at 4:30. The second game will follow immediately after the completion of the 4:30 contest.

There are several new faculty members at Goliad this year. One is Ruth Quisenberry, who teaches sixth grade Language Arts. Mrs. Quisenberry, who is married and the mother of two small sons, says cooking is one of her favorite hobbies.

Edgar Gauer, Social Studies teacher and coach, is originally from Terre Haute, Indiana, and a graduate of Indiana State University. He lists his hobbies as golf, swimming, softball, and bowling. Mr. Gauer and wife have three children.

Mrs. Essie Person, Goliad Librarian, reports that plans are under way to continue last year's popular Calander Clue game. The Library Club will meet during advisory period on September 14, in the library.

TWO TERMS IS ENOUGH

Texans have a healthy skepticism of their elected officials, a wariness of entrenched power that they have embodied in the state constitution. They have historically refused to keep top state officeholders more than a few terms.

Now my opponent comes along, having spent nearly ten years in the Lt. Governor's office, one of the top state policy-making offices. Mr. Hobby wants yet another term to make it 14 years in that crucial job. That is unprecedented. Never in Texas' history has any Lt. Governor served that long—or wanted to.

His desire, frankly, puzzles me. You would think he would have other goals, other challenges he might want to tackle. As his primary opponent this year said, "If he had anything to get done, you'd think he would have done it by now."

My opponent will tell you that experience is what counts. I think voters need to look at the experience they have had with him. After ten years, our highways are in bad shape, the quality of education has declined, we still do not have a new, statewide water plan and he has refused to tackle the growing crime problem. We can't afford more of that kind of experience.

I have a long-held belief in what I call the citizen-politician: someone who holds a job, serves his country or state for a reasonable time, then returns to that job and private life. For that reason, the first order of business after I am elected will be to have a constitutional amendment introduced in the legislature limiting the Lt. Governor to two terms—eight years. That is enough time for anyone. Too great a concentration of power for too long is bad. That is a principle of democracy.

Mass murder suspect gets 60 years

HOUSTON (AP) — A mechanic who admitted killing 13 women in Texas and Michigan might take the secrets of as many as 20 more slayings to prison with him, says the judge who sentenced him to 60 years behind bars.

Coral Eugene Watts was formally sentenced Friday after a plea bargain in which he pleaded guilty to burglary with the intent to commit murder. In return, the government agreed not to prosecute him for the 13 killings, saying it lacked evidence.

At the sentencing, Watts, 28, received a stinging lecture from state District Judge Doug Shaver, who gave him the maximum penalty available.

Shaver said he hoped Watts would spend the entire 60 years in prison, without hope of parole.

"If you do not act well in the prison, it is my hope that they will put you so deep into penitentiary they'll have to pipe sunlight in to you," Shaver said. "Since the death penalty is not available, I therefore sentence you to the Texas Department of Corrections for a term of 60 years."

Shaver also said he feared that Watts "might shut up" about other killings. Watts is a suspect in a 1974 slaying in Kalamazoo, Mich.; three 1980 killings in Ann Arbor, Mich., and 15 other stabbing and strangling deaths in the Detroit area. He moved from Michigan to Houston early last year.

Watts was examined by psychologists who said he believed women were "evil." All of his victims were picked at random and usually were strangled or stabbed.

Watts sat motionless and without expression throughout the hour-long court appearance.

Under the plea bargain, he admitted killing women in Michigan and the Texas cities of Houston, Austin and Galveston.

The 60-year sentence was the maximum allowed by law for the charge of burglary with intent to commit murder, Shaver said.

"Sadly to say," Shaver said, "this is the only evidence the state of Texas has against you. The only greater sentence would have been death if you had been successful in this offense. I thank the grace of God that you were not."

Houston homicide detective Jim Ladd, called as a witness before the formal sentencing, said Watts led him to a series of graves. Watts also described in detail each of the 13 killings, Ladd said.

Cabbies at DFW airport battle it out over fares

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — American taxi drivers want Dallas and Fort Worth to ban foreign cabbies from their regional airport, complaining the competitors ignore airport regulations and cheat customers.

"There is a lot of tension out there and something needs to be done," said Lee Adler, vice president of the Dallas Taxi Association. "I'm afraid someone is going to get killed."

The foreign drivers, however, say they are a scapegoat for a slump in taxi business that should be blamed on the economy.

Foreign cab drivers were banned at the Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport — located between the two cities — until 1976. But now, one of every three cab drivers who picks up or lets off passengers at the airport is from another country.

Several quarrels and fights have broken out in the battle for the lucrative fares, which average $21 from the airport to Fort Worth and $18.50 to Dallas.

The foreign cabbies often refuse short trips between terminals for the more profitable rides into Dallas and Fort Worth, Adler said. They also cheat customers by taking unnecessary routes, he claimed.

"They don't know their way around Dallas and Fort Worth. They don't know how to read a (street map), and what's more, they don't want to know," he said.

The foreign drivers say the Americans just don't like the competition.

"The economy is bad and Americans are frustrated," said Andy Oziebo, a Nigerian paying his way through school by driving a taxi.

Samuel Dafa, an Ethiopian political refugee, said, "I have a right to work here and I have capital. I have a right to open my own business. If they don't like that, maybe they should change the Constitution."

Taxi association members recently asked the Dallas City Council to impose citizenship restrictions on the airport business. Council members declined, saying the restrictions would be unconstitutional.

However, airport police chief Tom Shehan said, "It would be a lot of help for us if every driver was a citizen."

"It's not uncommon for a non-citizen cab driver to pass his (driver's) permit on to the next. And if drivers get caught with the wrong permit, that's going to create quite a mess," Shehan said.

Tax & financial planning

ESTATE PLANNING (Still Very Important)

Many people believe that estate planning is no longer necessary since you can leave your "spouse" an unlimited amount upon your death and pay no federal estate taxes.

Because of the problems created when the surviving spouse dies, there is still money to be saved by properly planning the amount of pre-death and post-death transfers to each of the members of your family.

For 1982, there is no federal estate tax due on an estate of $225,000 or less which is left to someone other than your spouse. Leaving this size estate or smaller entirely to your spouse will not create problems in the second estate. By 1987, the non-taxable amount to non-spouses will be $600,000.

If the estate of an unmarried person is larger than these non-taxable limits, there will be estate taxes due. Depending on the total number of family members involved and a great myriad of personal planning considerations, you can eliminate estate tax dollars on the second estate.

There is nothing magical or mystical about estate planning. It is simply a matter of identifying your family's long-term goals, both personal and financial, and designing a program that best fits your personal wishes. Accountants, attorneys, insurance agents and other assistants can only help you with the mechanical aspects of carrying out your plan. You must give some thought to what it is you're trying to accomplish. There are trade-offs in tax planning. There seems to be one disadvantage for every advantage and vice versa.

You decide what makes you comfortable and then ask for the assistance of your counselors to implement your plan with the greatest tax savings possible, but always with your personal wishes in mind.

Surprises few during first week

So much for thinking Jackie Sherrill could lead Texas A&M down the Yellow Brick Road in his debut Saturday night in Aggie land.

So much for thinking Brownwood could be beaten this year by humans from Planet Earth.

And so much for thinking all this talk about a new Big Spring football team was just like the stuff that's been heard before.

Week one of football — crammed in there somewhere between the U.S. Open, major league baseball and everything else in the world that's going on — is now history. There were a couple of surprises but the results went pretty much as expected.

How about those Aggies? Were they severely overrated because the Pitt head coach had gone south for the fall and winter season? Or is Boston College an unknown collegiate football powerhouse this year? Regardless, mouths dropped wide open around the world last night when that game was announced as a final.

Poor Jackie. Even worse, poor Aggie fans who welcomed the idea of hiring Mr. Sherrill at College Station like the Jews welcomed Moses' idea to leave to Egypt. Already I've heard snickers from Austin, and I'm not talking about candy bars.

And how about Brownwood? Not to say Gordon Wood's Lions weren't supposed to be good this year but they got things together against Cooper. Looks to be just another ho-hum state championship year again in the central Texas football capital.

And then there are Steers. If you went to the game, you probably didn't get a lesson in execution. In fact, both teams could move backwards at will.

But as the game progressed, Big Spring got better and better. The defense was strong all night, and that's great considering in the first half, Snyder ran 40 offensive plays compared to just 19 for Big Spring. That entailed a lot of work for the defensive boys and could have tired them out for the last half.

But in the final two quarters, the Steers looked even better across from the Snyder offense. There's even the makings of a new "Sack Exchange," made famous by the New York Jets. Keat Wilkins and Doug Walker certainly look like candidates to start such a rush hour on the opposition.

If the Steers can get over the jitters and the mistakes — a dropped ball in mid-run down an open field by Danny Stephen? — and all those penalties (92 yards), this Friday's game with big and fast Estacado good be a dandy for the hometown fans.

And finally, Dallas fooled around long enough and had to stage a dramatic last-minute drive to defeat the boys from Houton. It was another game of mistakes — by both teams — but one that got exciting in the last quarter. Both squads have tough openers next week — Dallas at home against the Terry Bradshaws and the Oilers in the jungles of Cincinnati to test the Bengals.

So much for the first weekend of football. And just think, in nine weeks, it'll be time for basketball. In between there's the World Series and those guys in the NBA will take the court. And Moses Malone wants how much money per year? You say $2.2 million? For that much he should be able to part Pacific Ocean.

So much for sports in general.

BC shocks Ags with 38-16 win

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Boston College sophomore quarterback Doug Flutie spoiled Coach Jackie Sherrill's Texas A&M debut Saturday night by rifling three touchdown passes and running for another score in a 38-16 victory over the stunned Aggies.

It was the worst opening loss in 16 years for the Aggies since a 38-3 defeat at the hands of Georgia Tech in 1966.

Flutie, the ninth leading passer in the country as a freshman, winged a 44-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Jon Schoen in the first period and hit him again for a 16-yard scoring strike in the second quarter.

His third TD pass was a 32-yarder to Brian Brennan in the third period.

The 5-10, 175-pound Flutie also scored in the first half on a bootleg run around left end after he had faked a handoff that fooled the entire Aggie team.

The 15-point favorite Aggies got field goals of 28, 27, and 44 yards from David Hardy.

Aggie quarterback Gary Kubiak also hit tight end Mark Lewis with a four-yard scoring toss.

Ken Snow kicked a 31-yard field goal for the Eagles and Bob Biestek bulled across from a yard out in the season opener for both teams played before 55,177 fans in Kyle Field.

Steers outplay Tigers, 9-6

By GREG JAKLEWICZ

SNYDER — "The biggest thing to me is the kids beating Snyder High School tonight."

Those were the first words for quote from Big Spring High coach Quinn Eudy Friday night after his young but determined Steers overcame Snyder 9-6 in the season opening football game for both squads.

It wasn't the most picturesque game you'd want to see with both teams contributing their share of turnovers, penalties, mistakes and jitters, but any coach will tell you the most important thing is which team has the most points when the scoreboard clock ticks down to its final zero.

Big Spring waited until seven minutes were left in the contest to score its first touchdown of the season and then used defensive end Scott Griffin's bearhug of Snyder quarterback David Nicholson in the Tiger end zone for a safety to clinch the game.

This game had a little of everything and when the Steers were whistled for the last 15 of their 92 yards in penalties with three seconds to play, the outcome of the game was still in doubt.

David Delce set down his holder at the Steer 37 and tried a last-ditch 47-yard field goal. Not many placekickers around this area can boot the ball that far and Delce is no exception. His effort went halfway to the goalposts and the Steers had victory No. 1 for 1982 locked up.

"We did it like a team," a wear Danny Stephen panted in the locker room. "The defense played a helluva game — we've got the 'Sack Exchange,' man. Now we got to get Estacado."

The defense, indeed, did an admirable job. Having to play most of the first two quarters thanks to jitters by the offense, Stephen (weaksidelinebacker) and his crew shut down the Tigers.

Snyder managed only 11 net yards rushing for the evening with Delce getting the most with 16 on six carries. Nicholson completed four of his five passes in the first half but didn't have the time in the last two quarters to throw. Hurting the Steers with the option roll-out to buy time, Nicholson was buried under by the Big Spring rush as the game progressed with Doug Walker and Keat Wilkins doing the brunt of the damage.

"We had a hard time at first, but then we realized we had to pull together," Wilkins said. "We won. They didn't. That's all that counts."

Fired up after Stephen's touchdown with 7:04 to play and Carl Green's decisive, if not wobbly, extra point, Wilkins and Walker buried Nicholson twice on succession for 18 yards in losses. Snyder was so disorganized trying to handle the rush, coach George Byerly called for the punt on third down just to keep from going any further backwards than his 21.

WORKING THE OPTION RIGHT — Steer quarterback Adam Rodriguez (11) got his team going in the fourth quarter when he worked the veer option to perfection against the Snyder Tigers. He gained 10 yards on this play, getting by Tiger Ramsey Rodriguez (33) before David Delce (35) hauled him down. Big Spring won its fall opener 9-6.

Big Spring finally punched the ball into the end zone in the fourth quarter. After the Tigers had punted and a holding penalty started them with a first and 20 at the 24, the Steers go the wheels rolling.

After a first half of mishandling snaps and bobbling pitchouts, Big Spring decided to stay with a simple plan of attack. Quarterback Adam Rodriguez began kept the ball on the veer option and Snyder was in trouble.

The drive kicked off with an 18-yard pass completion from Rodriguez to Eric Sherman. Sherman got three yards on third down for the first to get Big Spring out of the hole. Rodriguez, then, began doing his thing on the option. On successive carries, he picked up 12, 10, seven, 10 and six yards as Big Spring drove inside the Tiger 10.

Two more tries got Rodriguez to the two and Stephen bulldozed his way up the middle for the touchdown. Green's kick looked like something out of dove season but passed through the uprights to snap the tie.

With 2:43 to go, Big Spring punted to Snyder and clipping yardage was tacked on to a 37-yard boot from Jay Pirkle to put the Tigers back at their own eight. Nicholson dropped back to pass but never got the ball off as Griffin laid most of his No. 89 jersey on top of the Snyder quarterback in the end zone.

The Steers tried to run out the clock after the ensuing Snyder punt but Rodriguez fumbled on a quarterback keeper with 36 seconds to go.

Nicholson was hurried on three passes and Snyder apparently lost possession of the football with 0:03 left when the Steers were slapped with another penalty. Delce tried his field goal but it was far too short of tying the game.

The first quarter was mostly error-prone football but Snyder got its act together near the end.

The big break came when Sherman dropped a punt from Casey Peterson and Tracey Neves recovered at the Steer (See 'Option plays' on page 4B)

OFF AND RUNNING — Houston Oiler return specialist Willie Tullis (25) is headed upfield with a long kickoff return Saturday night against the Cowboys. Tullis's return was one of few first half highlights by the Oilers in the final exhibition game for both teams.

Late score runs Pokes by Oilers

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Timmy Newsome dashed 15 yards for a touchdown with 22 seconds left to play, rallying the Dallas Cowboys to a 20-14 Saturday night win over the Houston Oilers in the final National Football League preseason game for both teams.

Newsome's touchdown run concluded an 81-yard drive by the Cowboys.

The Oilers had taken a 14-13 lead on two second-half touchdowns by rookie running back Donnie Craft.

Craft ran 20 yards for one score and caught an 18-yard pass from starting quarterback Gifford Nielsen for another.

The Cincinnati Bengals won their first pre-season game with a 28-21 victory over the winless Washington Redskins Friday night. Other exhibition results can be found on page 4B.

Dallas quarterback Danny White tossed a 14-yard touchdown pass to Tony Hill with less than two minutes to play in the first half, for the initial score of the game.

Houston was unable to move the ball and punted to the Cowboys, who promptly drove into field goal range. Rafael Septien kicked it from 39 yards out to make it 10-0 Dallas at the half.

Septien added a 47-yard, third-quarter field goal to give Dallas a 13-0 lead.

Craft dashed 20 yards for a touchdown late in the third quarter, dancing away from five would-be tacklers, to cap an 80-yard drive for the first Houston score.

In the fourth quarter, Craft concluded a 41-yard, 4-play drive by snaring a pass from Nielsen.

Although the Cowboys outgained the Oilers considerably, Houston's defense kept Dallas in check for most of the game with timely turnovers. The Oilers intercepted White twice, and snared two errant passes from reserve Gary Hogeboom, plus recovering a fumble.

Houston lost veteran wide receiver Ken Burrough to an injury in the first half. X-rays revealed Burrough had suffered a broken bone below his right knee. But team spokesmen could not say how long he would be out.

Cowboys coach not very happy

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Dallas Cowboys Coach Tom Landry was in no mood to brag about his offense Saturday night.

The Cowboys had to overcome five turnovers and 52 yards in penalties to take a 20-14 comeback win from the Houston Oilers in each team's final National Football League preseason game.

"I would like to have had a better offensive show than we put on tonight," Landry said. "We weren't playing well enough to keep from losing. It was a lot more ragged than we would like to see. You have to be very careful against a defense as good as Houston's, and we weren't doing that tonight."

"In all the interceptions," said Dallas quarterback Danny White, "we were throwing the ball into really tight situations. They (Oilers) played a different defense every play. You really couldn't anticipate what they were going to do."

The Cowboys drove 81 yards for the winning touchdown, scored by Timmy Newsome on a 15-yard run with 22 seconds remaining.

The Oilers had taken a 14-13 lead on two second-half touchdowns by rookie running back Donnie Craft.

Noah, Navratilova, Lendl advance Saturday

U.S. Open

Noah needed 3½ hours to outlast Korita 7-5, 6-7, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4. Navratilova cruised by Nancy Yeargin 6-3, 6-3; Austin stopped Jo Durie of Great Britain 6-4, 6-3; Shriver eliminated Dana Gilbert 3-6, 6-2, 6-3; Ruzici defeated Beth Herr 7-5, 6-2, and Leand ousted Heather Ludloff 6-4, 6-2.

Gene Mayer, seeded sixth, stopped Mark Dickson 4-6, 7-6, 6-2, 6-1.

"He is the best server I have ever played against," Noah said after edging Korita on the hard courts at Flushing Meadow. "He serves very well. Maybe he served very well today because this is the first time I have seen him. It (the ball) almost hit me four or five times."

The No. 5 player at Southern Methodist University, Korita had to qualify for the 128-player field in this $1.5 million tournament, the richest in the world. He earned his shot at Noah by beating SMU teammate Jerome Vanier of France in the opening round and Brad Gilbert in the second, serving 16 aces.

Both Vanier and Gilbert also had to qualify for this year's Open.

Against Noah, Korita, a native of Glenville, Ill., boomed eight aces. He followed his serve to the net and followed up many of them with put-away volleys.

But the experience and mastery of strokes pulled Noah through. In the final set, he broke Korita in the fourth set, only to be broken back in the seventh.

Then came the crucial 10th game with Noah leading 5-4 and Korita serving.

The Frenchman jumped out to a love-30 advantage before Korita fought back to knot the score. The next two points were split, bring the pair to deuce.

Bronte's sneaky play overcomes Buffs, 6-3

By BOB CARPENTER
Staff Writer

FORSAN — It's tough to lose a heartbreaker at the beginning of a season, but Forsan did just that here Friday night as a last-second touchdown toss by the Bronte Longhorns upset the Buffaloes 6-3.

With both team struggling with offensive execution problems it appeared that Forsan had the game won with 5:31 left in the fourth quarter when senior halfback Lewis Boeker booted a 28-yard field goal through the uprights. Bronte, which accumulated only seven first downs in the game, did not seem to have the firepower to mount a needed touchdown march.

The Longhorn's job was made much tougher when the ensuing kickoff was fumbled out of bounds at the two yard line. Bronte, however, met the challenge and began its scoring drive with three straight-ahead drive plays to fullback Jon Lee which amounted to a first down and breathing room at the 12.

After another dive play to the 16, Bronte deviated from its basic style of play which caught the Buffs off-guard. Quarterback Shane Webb tossed the ball to halfback Rusty Corley and Webb sprinted around left end managing to slip behind the Forsan secondary. Corley's pass to Webb was perfect and 40 yards later the Longhorn's were sitting pretty at the Forsan 44 yard line.

Aided by a completion from Webb to Corley for eight and two runs by Lee of five and nine, respectively, the Horns faced third and short at the Forsan 22. Webb took matters in his own hands and rambled around right end for an effort that resulted in an 19-yard gain to the three.

Forsan dug in for the assault with only 25 seconds remaining. An off-tackle play netted the Longhorns minus yardage back to the four. Bronte's hopes sank further and Forsan's rose higher when two consecutive motion penalties pushed the Horns back to the 14.

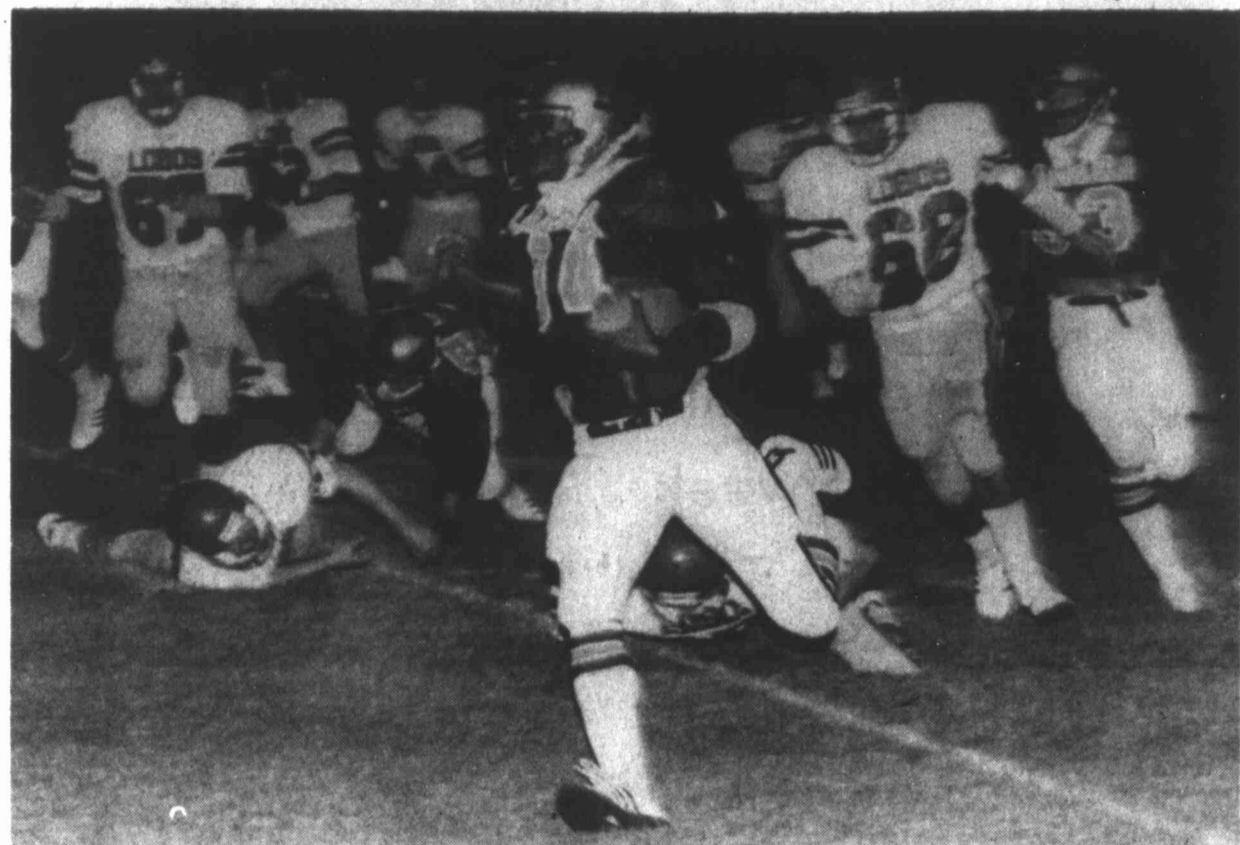

The clock read 19 seconds left when both team huddled for what would turn out to be the game's big play. Bronte's Webb handed off to Corley for what appeared to be a standard sweep left. Corley carried the fake off perfectly waiting until Forsan players were nipping at his heels before stopping and lofting a perfect spiral across the field to lonesome Lee, who was standing in the corner of the end zone, for six points and the victory.

It was a standard season-opening for the most part with both teams hampered by execution problems. Forsan, however, had good games from Boeker on both offense and defense and Rey Alcantar in the defensive backfield. The offense showed it did have the ability to sustain a drive at it managed to get into Bronte territory past the 30 yard line three times, but miscues each time forced the Buffs to try a field goal instead.

The Buffaloes lone scoring play came after a 13-play drive from its own 43 to the Longhorn 18. Boeker, who kicked the field goal, carried four times for 17 yards and caught one pass for four on the drive. He finished the game with 13 carries for 80 yards.

Forsan is now 0-1 in District 7-A play and it faces Garden City next Friday at 8 p.m. in Garden City. Bronte is 1-0 in 7-A competition.

Astros, Rangers lose again Saturday

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bo Diaz drove in three runs with a bases-clearing double Saturday, leading the Philadelphia Phillies to a 4-2 victory over the Houston Astros in a nationally televised game.

Reliever Sid Monge pitched three scoreless innings to pick up his sixth victory against one loss. Ron Reed hurled the final 1 1/3 innings for his ninth save. Bob Knepper, 5-14, took the loss.

Mets 3, Reds 2

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Kingman's 32nd homer of the season gave the New York Mets a 3-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds Saturday night in a game between last-place teams.

Craig Swan, 8-6, got the win although he was forced to leave the game after the fifth inning with stiffness behind his right shoulder. Charlie Puleo took over with a 3-1 lead and recorded his first save of the year.

Pirates 1, Dodgers 0

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rookie right-hander Lee Tunnel, in his first major league appearance, blanked Los Angeles for seven innings before relievers Rod Scurry and Kent Tekulve took over to complete the shutout as the Pittsburgh Pirates rode Lee Lacy's first-inning homer for a 1-0 win over the Los Angeles Dodgers Saturday night.

Fernando Valenzuela, 17-11, took the loss despite giving up only four hits, walking two and striking out a season-high 11.

Padres 4, Cubs 1

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Terry Kennedy smashed a pair of two-run homers and Tim Lollar hurled a three-hitter Saturday night as the San Diego Padres defeated the Chicago Cubs 4-1.

Lollar, 13-8, allowed only a second-inning single by Keith Moreland, and two hits by Jody Davis, one a leadoff homer in the sixth and the other a two-out single in the eighth.

White Sox 4, Rangers 0

CHICAGO (AP) — Richard Dotson fired a four-hitter and Greg Luzinski crashed his 17th homer of the year Saturday night to lift the Chicago White Sox to their sixth straight victory, a 2-0 triumph over the Texas Rangers.

Dotson, 10-11, won for the seventh straight time as he held Texas hitless through 4 1/3 innings before Bill Stein reached on a scratch single. John Grubb blooped a two-out double in the sixth. George Wright lined a single in the eighth and Pat Putnam doubled in the ninth for the other Texas hits.

Dotson struck out two, walked one and allowed only Grubb and Putnam to reach second.

Texas starter Frank Tanana, 6-16, gave up 10 hits, struck out five and walked two in a losing effort.

Brewers 8, Angels 2

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ted Simmons singled in the go-ahead run and Gorman Thomas followed with a two-run triple in Milwaukee's fifth inning and Pete Vuckovich won his 16th game as the Brewers defeated the California Angels 8-2.

Vuckovich, 16-4, was backed by a 15-hit attack as he won his seventh game in a row. He allowed five hits, walked six and struck out four in going the distance for the eighth time. He is now 5-0 lifetime against the Angels.

Yankees 3, Royals 2

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Dave Winfield crashed his 27th homer with one out in the ninth inning to snap a 2-2 tie and power the New York Yankees to a 3-2 victory over the Kansas City Royals Saturday.

Left-hander Shane Rawley, 10-8, scattered six hits in eight innings for his fourth consecutive victory while Royals' southpaw Larry Gura, 17-9, was thwarted in his bid to become the American League's first 18-game winner. The loss was only Gura's third in 12 career decisions against New York.

A's 4, Tigers 3

DETROIT (AP) — Tony Armas homered and hit a teabreaking, ninth-inning sacrifice fly Saturday to hand the Oakland A's a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The A's loaded the bases in the ninth with none out before Armas lifted a fly ball to right, scoring Davey Lopes, who opened the inning with a double and took third on Dwayne Murphy's infield hit.

Orioles 3, Twins 0

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jim Palmer pitched a one-hitter for his 11th straight victory and Eddie Murray homered as the torrid Baltimore Orioles downed the Minnesota Twins 3-0 Saturday night for their 14th triumph in 15 games.

Palmer, 13-3, retired the first 11 batters before Gary Gaetti bounced a single through the middle with two outs in the fifth inning. The only other baserunners were Len Faedo, who walked in the sixth, and pinch-hitter Randy Bush, who walked in the ninth.

Indians 4, Blue Jays 3

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rick Manning's seventh-inning single drove home the winning run and Tom Brennan picked up his first victory of the season as the Cleveland Indians edged the Toronto Blue Jays 4-3 Saturday.

Manning's one-out single to left off Dale Murray, 8-5, scored Von Hayes, who had singled and stolen second.

Brennan, 1-2, pitched 1 2/3 scoreless innings before two relievers finished up. Dan Spillner posted his 17th save.

Mariners 4, Red Sox 3

BOSTON (AP) — Julio Cruz stroked a two-run single to highlight a four-run second inning Saturday as Seattle edged the Boston Red Sox 4-3 despite three wild pitches by Gaylord Perry of the Mariners.

Perry, 8-12, allowed two of Boston's runs on wild pitches, but permitted only one extra-base hit, a second-inning RBI-double by Dwight Evans. Perry got relief help in the eighth from Bill Caudill, who got his 23rd save.

Bengals claim first victory

CINCINNATI — Ken Anderson completed 23 of 32 passes for 307 yards to lead the Cincinnati over Washington in the battle of winless teams.

"It was important to this football team that we won this game," said Cincinnati Coach Forrest Gregg. "I know it's only the preseason. But I think our people doubted themselves a little bit in a lot of ways."

Anderson had first-half scoring passes of 17 yards to Isaac Curtis, 10 yards to Steve Kreider and 38 yards to Cris Collinsworth in leading the Bengals to a 21-14 lead.

The winning score came with 12:54 to play when Anderson connected on a pass to Curtis and driving the Bengals 73 yards in eight plays.

Quarterback Joe Theismann, playing less than a half for the Redskins, connected on seven of nine passes for 140 yards. Wilbur Jackson rushed for 78 yards and a pair of first-half touchdowns.

Dolphins 16, Giants 13

MIAMI — Don Shula wasn't about to let his Miami Dolphins make the same mistakes against the New York Giants that they had made a week earlier with Kansas City.

And place-kicker Rex Robinson wasn't going to repeat his performance either when the Dolphins and Giants went into sudden-death overtime in their final National Football League exhibition game.

As soon as the Dolphins moved the ball to the New York 13, the Miami coach sent out his kicking team on first down to break the 13-13 tie. Robinson responded with a 31-yard field goal for the victory in the nationally televised game.

A week earlier in a 17-17 tie with the Chiefs, penalties cost Miami a victory when Robinson's 36-yard attempt bounced off the crossbar.

"Rather than take the chance of getting penalties on the next two plays, I decided to go ahead and kick," Shula said. "Rex could've been the hero last week, but the ball bounced out. This week, he made up for it."

The Giants got first possession in overtime but a quarterback sack and a penalty killed their chance for a winning drive.

Miami finished the preseason 2-1-1 while the Giants closed 1-3.

Bucs 34, Falcons 0

TAMPA, Fla. — Quarterback Doug Williams and Jerry Golsteyn tossed one touchdown pass each and the Tampa Bay defense limited Atlanta to 92 total yards as the Buccaneers demolished the Falcons 34-0 Friday night.

Williams, who has guided the Bucs to two NFC Central Division titles in the past three years, hit 13 of 20 for 150 yards in the first half, as the Bucs stormed to a 17-0 lead.

The fifth-year pro teamed with tight end Jimmie Giles on a 7-yard touchdown play in the first quarter, and used the pin-point passing to set up Michael Morton's one-yard touchdown run and a Bill Capece field goal in the second before giving way to backup Golsteyn.

The Buc's defense, meanwhile, held the Falcons to 70 total yards in the opening half, and

Vikings 24, Saints 21

MINNEAPOLIS — Minnesota quarterback Tommy Kramer hit Ahmad Rashad with a 22-yard scoring pass with nine seconds left to play and the Vikings pulled out a 24-21 victory over the New Orleans Saints Friday night.

The score nullified a fourth quarter rally in which the Saints came back from a 17-0 deficit to take a 21-17 lead.

But Kramer lived up to his "Two-Minute Tommy" nickname and engineered the winning score, taking the Vikings 73 yards in nine plays, all passes. Kramer completed 23 of 40 passes for 272 yards and two touchdowns. In the final drive, he hit eight of nine passes.

Rashad caught six passes for 82 yards.

Patriots 41, Packers 27

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — Tony Collins dashed for 130 yards and grabbed a touchdown pass as the opportunistic New England Patriots rolled to a 41-27 preseason victory over the Green Bay Packers to give Coach Ron Meyer his first National Football League triumph.

The Patriots, who bolted to a 21-0 lead after the first quarter, turned two interceptions and a pair of fumble recoveries into 24 points as they ended their preseason with a 1-3 record. Green Bay, which cut the lead to 24-13 at halftime, fell to 2-2.

Broncos 20, Jets 13

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Sammy Winder's 8-yard touchdown run capped an 84-yard drive led by quarterback Craig Morton with 4:58 to go to give the Denver Broncos a 20-13 victory over the New York Jets.

The winning drive was highlighted by a 37-yard pass to Jim Wright, followed by a 15-yard run by Gerald Willhite.

Denver tied the score 13-13 with 14:11 remaining in the game when safety Mike Harden intercepted a Richard Todd pass and returned it 54 yards for a touchdown.

Colts 26, Bears 17

CHICAGO (AP) — Rookie quarterback Mike Pagel threw first half touchdown passes of 22 and 41 yards to Ray Butler Saturday night as the Baltimore Colts rolled to a 26-17 victory over the Chicago Bears in their National Football League preseason finale.

The Colts closed with a 3-2 record while the Bears finished the exhibition season at 1-3.

Pagel, who is set to be the starting quarterback against New England in the Colts' regular season opener next week, played only the first half and completed 4 of 7 passes for 73 yards.

Chiefs 10, Cardinals 6

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Quarterback Bill Kenney teamed up with Carlos Carson on a 63-yard touchdown pass play in the fourth quarter, lifting the Kansas City Chiefs to a 10-6 preseason National Football League triumph Saturday night over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The winning bomb highlighted a shaky offensive display by Kansas City, held to just a field goal in the opening half. The Chiefs, who trailed 6-3 at halftime, originated only nine plays in the third quarter.

Bills 13, Lions 10

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. (AP) — Nick Mike-Mayer booted his second field goal of the game, a 25-yarder with 1:35 remaining, to lift the Buffalo Bills to a 13-10 National Football League exhibition victory over the Detroit Lions Saturday night.

Mike-Mayer put the Bills up 3-0 early in the second quarter with a 27-yarder. Wide receiver Robert Holt scored the Bills' only touchdown on an 81-yard reception late in the game.

Despite a listless three quarters, Detroit was even with Buffalo 3-3 on Eddie Murray's 47-yard field goal on the Lions' last possession in the half. The Lions took their only lead in the fourth quarter when rookie quarterback Mike Machurek hit Bobby Kimball with a 39-yard touchdown pass.

It was the exhibition finale for both clubs. The Bills finished at 3-1, while the Lions ended up 2-2.

Steelers 27, Eagles 24

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Terry Bradshaw threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to Bennie Cunningham with 1:59 left in the game to cap a 98-yard drive as the Pittsburgh Steelers rallied to defeat the Philadelphia Eagles 27-24 Saturday night.

Pittsburgh ended a 4-0 exhibition season. The loss, the third by the Eagles in four exhibition games, marred a standout first half performance by quarterback Ron Jaworski, who completed 14 of 21 passes for 206 yards and three touchdowns as Philadelphia took a 21-7 halftime lead.

Bradshaw completed six passes for 91 yards during the Steelers' final scoring drive, including passes of 22 and 10 yards to Jim Smith and three passes for 27 yards to John Stallworth.

After a 17-yard pass play from Bradshaw to Cunningham gave the Steelers a first down at the Eagles' 33, Bradshaw threw to Stallworth on two straight plays for 18 yards.

On a first down play, Bradshaw found Cunningham open in the right corner of the end zone for the winning touchdown.

Philadelphia tried to mount a comeback of its own and drove to the Steeler 23 with 1:14 left in the game before reserve defensive back Bryan Hinkle intercepted a Joe Pisarcik pass in the end zone.

ACU airshow bombs WTUS; Bears tip NTS

CANYON, Texas (AP) — Sophomore quarterback Loyal Proffitt completed three touchdown passes and piled up 272 yards through the air to lead upstart Abilene Christian to a 33-29 football victory over West Texas State Saturday.

Wildcats place kicker Boo Jones hit a pair of 28-yard field goals in the final quarter as Abilene Christian came from behind with 12 points to defeat their NCAA Division I adversary.

Proffitt hit scoring passes of 55 yards to Steve Parker and 20 yards to Lembia Kinsler in the second quarter. He then lobbed a 30-yard throw to Anthony Thomas in the final period to give ACU a 30-29 lead with 5:56 left to play.

Kinsler also scored on a 9-yard run with 3:28 left in the first half.

The Buffaloes' Victor McGee completed 21 of 41 passes for 406 yards and three touchdowns.

McGee connected with Mark Manley on a 40-yard scoring pass in the first period, then followed in the second quarter with a 6-yard TD pass to Gary Fletcher and a 54-yard scoring strike to Curtis Bennett.

Nicholls 14, Texas So. 6

HOUSTON (AP) — Osgag Smith scored on a one-foot dive to lift Nicholls State to a 14-6 season-opening college football win over Texas Southern here Saturday night.

Smith's touchdown capped a 44-yard, 10-play march. Keith Menard then skirted the right end for a two-point conversion.

Texas Southern drove 70 yards in 10 plays to open the scoring with 25 seconds left in the first half. Quarterback Harold Smith lofted the ball the final 18 yards to Arthur Cox. The extra-point attempt was blocked.

Penn St. 31, Temple 14

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — Quarterback Todd Blackledge threw four touchdown passes in a Penn State aerial show as the eighth-ranked Nittany Lions beat Temple 31-14 Saturday.

Penn State, famed for its tailback-oriented running game, gained just 100 yards on 31 carries. It was the Lions' 10th lowest running total since Joe Paterno became coach 17 years ago.

Blackledge completed 14 of 25 passes for 203 yards as he became only the third quarterback in Penn State history to throw four touchdown passes in a game.

Blackledge threw for three scores to open up a 21-0 lead in the first quarter.

The junior from Canton, Ohio, tossed scoring passes of 40 yards to Curt Warner, 31 to Kevin Baugh and 16 to Jon Williams. Freshman Massimo Manca converted after each score.

Blackledge threw his final scoring pass in the fourth quarter, a 4-yarder to Williams.

SWTSU 30, Lamar 0

SAN MARCOS, Texas (AP) — Quarterback Ron Jacoby ran for two touchdowns and Southwest Texas State intercepted a school-record six passes and rolled to a 30-0 college football victory over Lamar Saturday night in the season opener for both teams.

Southwest Texas, the NCAA Division II national champion last year, rolled up 388 yards and held Lamar to 166.

Jacoby, starting his first college game, scored second-quarter touchdowns on runs of five and 16 yards.

Neal Neunhoffer added a 32-yard field goal in the second half, Billy Hall returned an interception 42 yards for a touchdown and freshman running back Eric Cobble scampered 49 yards for another score.

Baylor 21, NTSU 17

WACO, Texas (AP) — Scrambling senior quarterback Mike Brannan guided Baylor to touchdowns on all three of its first-half possessions Saturday night in a 21-17 non-conference football victory over North Texas State.

Brannan's running, passing and his alert fumble recovery spoiled the homecoming of North Texas coach Corky Nelson, who quit as Baylor defensive coordinator two months ago to take the North Texas job.

The Baylor offensive was kept in mid-season form by Brannan for the first two quarters with help from Alfred Anderson, goal-line specialist Allen Rice and split end Gerald McNeil, billed as the smallest starter in college football.

Anderson, a former wingback making his debut at halfback, scored Baylor's first touchdown with a 1-yard leap and set up the second score with a 43-yard run, the longest of his career. Rice, alternating at halfback and quarterback near the goal, pitched out to Horace Ates on a 5-yard touchdown play and sprinted 5 yards for another score.

Miss. St. 30, Tulane 21

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Quarterback John Bond passed for 229 yards, including a 58-yard touchdown pass, to lead Mississippi State to a 30-21 victory over Tulane in a collegiate football season opener.

Halfback Michael Haddix had 106 yards on 14 carries and fullback Henry Koontz ran for 99 yards on 25 carries.

Mississippi State went out to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter and, although the game was briefly tied at 14-14 in the second quarter, State never trailed.

Koontz opened the scoring with a 1-yard, first-quarter plunge. Bond then hit wide receiver Danny Knight on the 58-yard scoring play.

Tulane came back to tie it with a 1-yard quarterback sneak by Mike McKay and a 1-yard plunge by fullback Kelvin Robinson.

Haddix put State back out in front to stay with a 15-yard sweep midway through the second quarter, and Dana Moore added a 29-yard field goal with 23 seconds left in the first half to make it 24-14 at intermission.

Option play does trick for offense

32. A personal foul moved the ball to the 13 after an incompletion. On third down, Nicholson rolled right and pegged a perfect strike to Britt Vincent on the goal line. He crossed the stripe for an apparent touchdown but the Tigers were whistled for an ineligible man downfield. Negate the touchdown and make it a loss of down. Nicholson tried the pass once more but it went incomplete to stop the threat.

After Big Spring punted again, the Tigers to find the end zone once more.

Snyder drove from its 46 to the Big Spring eight to open the quarter with the key play a 23-yard loss from Nicholson to Mike Luera. Rushes from the Steer 21 advanced the Tigers inside the 10 but when Nicholson was hauled down for a yard loss on third down by George Bancroft, Delce came on a field goal try. His 25-yard try sailed wide left.

Big Spring went backwards on its next series and had to punt once more. A personal foul was added to the return and Snyder was on the Steer 33 with 3:25 left in the half.

Nicholson tossed 14 and 11-yard completions to Vincent and suddenly the Tigers were at the Big Spring six. A pass interference call on another try to Vincent put the ball at the one. Nicholson got nothing once but then sneaked in for the score with 18 seconds left.

Delce kicked the PAT but a penalty wiped out the successful try. From 15 yards further away, he couldn't convert to leave the score at 6-0 at intermission.

The Steers ran only 19 plays in the first 24 minutes while Snyder piled up 40.

"We know we didn't do good," said receiver Alan Trevino. "We had a rough first half but then we rose to the occasion."

Starting the second half, Big Spring looked like a different team. Sherman broke for 17 yards and Stephen went 14 on a draw. A quick pitch to Sherman was diagnosed by Johnny Overton for a 10-yard loss and the drive died at the Snyder 30.

Later in the quarter, Snyder was backed up inside its own five by a tackle by Pat Burke. Punting out to the 30 on third down, Snyder still held off the Steers when Stephen was stopped for no gain on fourth down at the 20.

The next series, however, Big Spring drove 66 yards for the winning touchdown.

"It was great," Trevino said. "We showed them we could come together at the end."

"We had a lot of opportunities which we didn't take," Rodriguez explained. "We waited until kind of late but we can't wait that long. We need to score early. That WILL get better by next week."

Eudy was pleased with the effort, emphasized the Steers had only seven letterman on the field.

"We can correct what went wrong...we as coaches will make the corrections and the kids will respond to that," he said. "We had first-game jitters but, shoot, we took the fight to them."

While the offense was getting its show on stage, Eudy was happy his defense entertained the audience. "The defense played well to be on the field so long. We had an inconsistent pass rush but it will get better. We had way too many penalties but the kids were enthusiastic and in condition and we proved it at the end."

Stephen echoed the part on being in shape. "All those horeshoes we run got us in shape. We played four hard quarters. We had mistakes we've got to correct but we will."

Rodriguez finished with 50 yards on 21 carries while Sherman added 47 and Stephen 46 to give Big Spring a big advantage in the rushing department. And three of the four Steer turnovers came in the first half.

Rockets can match Malone offer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Unless the Houston Rockets are willing to offer a reported $2.2 million per season over six years, center Moses Malone will play for the Philadelphia 76ers next season.

Harold Katz, owner of the 76ers, said Thursday he had reached agreement on the long-term, multi-million dollar pact with Malone's agent, Lee Fentress.

The Rockets have 15 days from the time they receive a copy of the offer sheet to match the 76ers' bid for the two-time National Basketball Association

Most Valuable player. Malone, 28, the league's MVP last season, wasn't available for comment, having left Thursday for the Netherlands on a promotional tour with several NBA players.

Fentress said, however, that the 6-foot-10 Malone was very happy with the terms of the Philadelphia offer.

"He's excited at the prospect of joining the 76ers," said Fentress. "They've got a great team in place now and they have a good chance to win the NBA crown."

Volleyballers win

The Big Spring freshmen won two of three sets to take a match victory over Saturday Thursday night in the BSHS gym.

Tammi Green scored nine points in 15-13 win in the first game while Monique Jones tallied nine points from the service line but the Mustangs turned tables with a 15-13 win in the second set.

The third game was never in doubt as the Steers rolled to a 15-5 victory. Traci Wilkerson scored four points in that win.

The varsity Steers lost a match in Bronte to fall to 2-3 on the season. Big Spring returns to action against those same Longhorns Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Steer gym.

Local boxers excel

Big Spring won a seven-team boxing exhibition tournament Saturday night at the Big Spring Federal Prison Camp.

Big Spring won nine of 17 bouts between Plainview, Odessa, Seminole, Olton, Midland and Muleshoe.

OIL Raiders win

Head coach Larry Hudson will introduce the varsity Bulldogs and cheerleaders. Film of the Coahoma-Kermit game will be shown and a scouting report on Stanton given.

All Bulldog fans are encouraged to attend.

Eight win at golf

Eight golfers turned in match-play victories in the Big Spring Country Club championship Saturday afternoon.

Howard Stewart, who finished in the top four in the city tournament last month, defeated Mike Hall 2 and 1 while Travis Hunter needed an extra hole to beat Bernard Rains, third in the city tourney, 1 up 19.

In other scores, Don Osborne defeated Bobby Heath 2 and 1, Van Tom Whately defeated Daryl Hohertz 2 and 1, Mike Weaver defeated John Barden 1 up 19 and Pat Weaver defeated Don Cook 4 and 3.

Jim Welch defeated John Arrick 5 and 4 and Craig Olson defeated Kevin Young 5 and 4.

The tourney continues Sunday with winner's meeting Monday. A consolation bracket begins Sunday for Saturday losers.

A total of five flights were set up for the annual tournament.

Class B event set

The annual Spring City Class B Classic is planned for Sept. 10-12.

Entry fee is $85 with deadline set Thursday. Trophies will be given to the top five teams, individual awards to the top three, an all-tourney team selected along with a MVP, slugging award, gold glove and sportsmanship.

Contact Rocky Viera at 267-7773 or Junior Barber at 268-6874 to enter.

Bulldog fans meet

COAHOMA — The Coahoma Athletic Booster Club will meet Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

Peete grabs B.C. Open lead

ENDICOTT, N.Y. (AP) — Calvin Peete, putting on one of the best shows in a magnificent year for him, used an eagle-2 on 41-year-13th hole Saturday to vault off the pace where Jim Simons, Wayne Levi and Jim Colbert were bunched at 207.

By carding a 7-under-par 64, his 54-hole total of 196 was good for a one-shot edge over Zoeller whose 62 Friday broke the record on the 6,966-yard En Joie Golf Club course.

Jerry Pate was third, three shots back at 14-under 199 after firing steady rounds of 67-66-66.

Tom Kite stayed within hailing distance with a 68 and a total 202, while young Doug Tewell pulled in at 203 with his second straight round of 4-under 67.

From there, the list of pursuers dropped to 11 shots front nine before bogeys at Nos. 7 and 9 cost him two strokes.

Pate, playing in the same threesome with Peete and Zoeller, came out smoking with birdies on five of the first seven holes, but then lost his deadly touch and finished the round with 11 pars in a row.

Zoeller, the 1979 Masters champion, came back to tie at 16-under with a birdie on 14th hole but the deadlock was short-lived because Peete responded with another birdie — his fifth and last of the round — on No. 16.

Zoeller also had an eagle, sinking his third shot on the par-5, 550-yard third hole, and went 17-under on the

Did you hear about O.I.L. ... that it was going to shut down?

I heard that ... but my brother says it's not true. He says ...

To be or not to be. That is not the question.

There are a lot of rumors going around about O.I.L. and its future. We'd like to set the record straight.

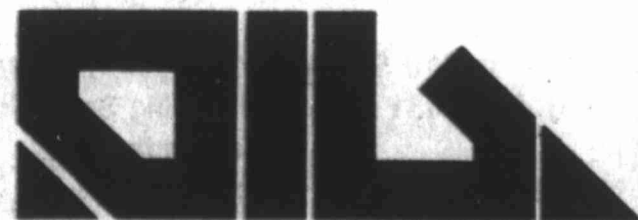

The current economic slump has hit the Petroleum Industry harder than anyone expected. We have not been able to grow as quickly as we planned.

But during 1982, while other drilling rig manufacturers have stopped production or closed their doors, we will have built 25 rigs, expanded our market and acquired two companies. Also we have developed several new prototypes (including a 30,000 foot rig).

We are not wasting time wondering whether we will be here tomorrow. We are hard at work improving our systems and trimming our operation to insure that we will be here tomorrow.

You can expect that O.I.L. will continue to be aggressive, positive, and ready for any opportunity. We believe in our future as ASSEMBLY LINE — Suszle Langley, Sherree Moates and Patsy Fryar work in an assembly line to put together Howard County Fair Cookbooks which are on sale at the County Extension Agents office in the Howard County Courthouse, and will be available at the Fair. The cookbooks feature blue ribbon winning entries from previous fairs.

What has been a constant pace throughout the year is turning into a frenzied rush as many people throughout the community prepare for the upcoming Howard County Fair, slated Sept. 20-25 at the Dora Roberts Fairgrounds.

One of the most active divisions of the fair association is the Women's Division, headed by Zula Rhodes, general superintendent. Mrs. Rhodes and several women helping her this year met at the Howard County Courthouse this week to plan strategies and get a head start on the final countdown to the fair's opening.

Patsy Fryar and Sherree Moates are co-chairmen for the crafts and hobbies division, which has been expanded to include several new classes.

The women explained that this division includes anything anyone can make, such as Christmas decorations, pictures, hand craft items, kiln products, etc. A new division will be added for all types of dolls. "This is a division we haven't had before," Mrs. Fryar said. "There were a lot of dolls entered last year."

The change in this division was only one of several the women made. "We saw a lot of changes we wanted to make last year, and we made them this year." The women hope this move will "give each item a fair chance at an award."

In all divisions in the Women's Division, just because an item isn't listed in the fair catalogue doesn't mean it can't be entered for competition in the fair.

"If someone wants to enter a certain item, we will add a category if it's not on the list," the women said.

Another aspect of judging that many people may not know is that everything is judged on its own merit, not against other items in the same category. "There can be several first place ribbons," the women said. "If a judge decides there is no entry good enough for first, there will be no ribbon awarded."

While judges make their selections, "all names will be covered up. We won't judge on names."

ALL OF THE CRAFTS will be judged in their classes. Winners in each class will then be judged against each other, and a grand champion and a reserve grand champion will be selected.

Seven women are taking entries in the hobbies and crafts division. They include Brenda Riddle, Janeice Barnes, Angela Gillespie, Cheryl Monger, Jan Maxwell, Teresa Gaskins, and June Kenner.

The crafts and hobbies division is only one section of the Women's Division. Another is the baked goods division, headed by Joyce Soles and Mica Drinkard. A series of special bake days will be featured this year, with judging CLOTHING DIVISION — Helen Larson, Nell Burgess and Laverne Green, chairmen for the clothing division at the Howard County Fair, make a last minute check of rules of these entries at 1:30 p.m. each day. Classes are cakes, Sept. 20; pies, Sept. 21; breads, Sept. 22; cookies, Sept. 23; decorated cakes and candies, Sept. 24; and candies, Sept. 25.

A new division, that of professionally decorated cakes, will be held Saturday, Sept. 25. Gail Pittman is heading this division, which is open to people who are teaching professionally or receiving pay for decorated cakes.

In this category, there will be a voting box for the public to put in their recommendations for the prettiest cake, and a "people's choice" award will be given.

In the canned goods division, chairpersons are Jen Davidson and Beverly Jeffcoat. To enter canned goods, entries must be submitted in regulation jars. All jars must be sealed with rings left on. No mayonnaise, coffee or old jars will be accepted.

Mrs. Moates urged people to enter the fair, saying that "The first year I entered I didn't think I had a chance. After I entered, I realized I could win just like anybody else." Pessimistic entrants "may be surprised," she said.

"THE FIRST YEAR I entered pickles, and I'd never made pickles in my life. I won a blue ribbon."

Mrs. Fryar said that the hardest part of entering is "just coming down and doing it." The women are in the process of putting up signs which read "Don't let others take home your ribbon. Enter your talents in the Howard County Fair."

Ireba Griffith has an important job as the Security Sitters Chairperson. "We watch the exhibits and keep them straight," she said. "If anyone wants to know about anything that is in the exhibit, they talk to the sitter that is there. Mrs. Griffith assigns sitters and coordinates each two-hour shift. Additional help is needed and interested persons may call 267-7825.

Geraldine Posey is another important person at the fair. Mrs. Posey is secretary. When the fair opens, she will be on hand everyday to "help people with their problems, and aid in handling business at the gate. There's always something to do," she says.

Ruth Mitchell is assistant superintendent of the Women's Division, and Mrs. Posey said "she is my counterpart. She has been with the fair for 10 years, and I'm pleased to have her work with me." Mrs. Posey handles most business during the day, and Mrs. Mitchell steps in at night.

In the adult clothing division, Nell Burgess, Laverne Green and Helen Larson coordinate all activities. All items in the division are to be sewn by adults but includes for the division during a recent meeting. The Howard County Fair opens Sept. 20 at the Howard County Fair Grounds.

all types of clothing — even doll clothes.

Although not listed in this year's fair catalog, a professional division will be added. It is a division for people who are paid to sew or are qualified to teach sewing. Entries for the Sew It With Cotton Contest may not be entered in the Women's Division of the fair.

Montez Bunn is chairman of the adult handwork division, and has been working for the fair for many years, Mrs. Rhodes said. This category "brings in a lot of showy things," Mrs. Rhodes said. The category displays items "which draw a great deal of interest," such as afghans, pillow cases, tablecloths, etc.

There is also a miscellaneous division within the women's division, for items which don't quite fit into a specific category.

EACH DIVISION listed above also falls into two other categories, the youth division and the over 60 division. Mrs. Leon Langley heads the youth division, and Mrs. Ben Boadle and Mrs. Opal Wooten head the Over 60 division. These categories are designed for people "who choose to be judged against their peers," Mrs. Rhodes said.

The Women's Division also oversees the production of a Fair Cookbook. Lola Mitchell is heading the cookbook division, which features blue ribbon winners from the 1980 and 1981 fairs.

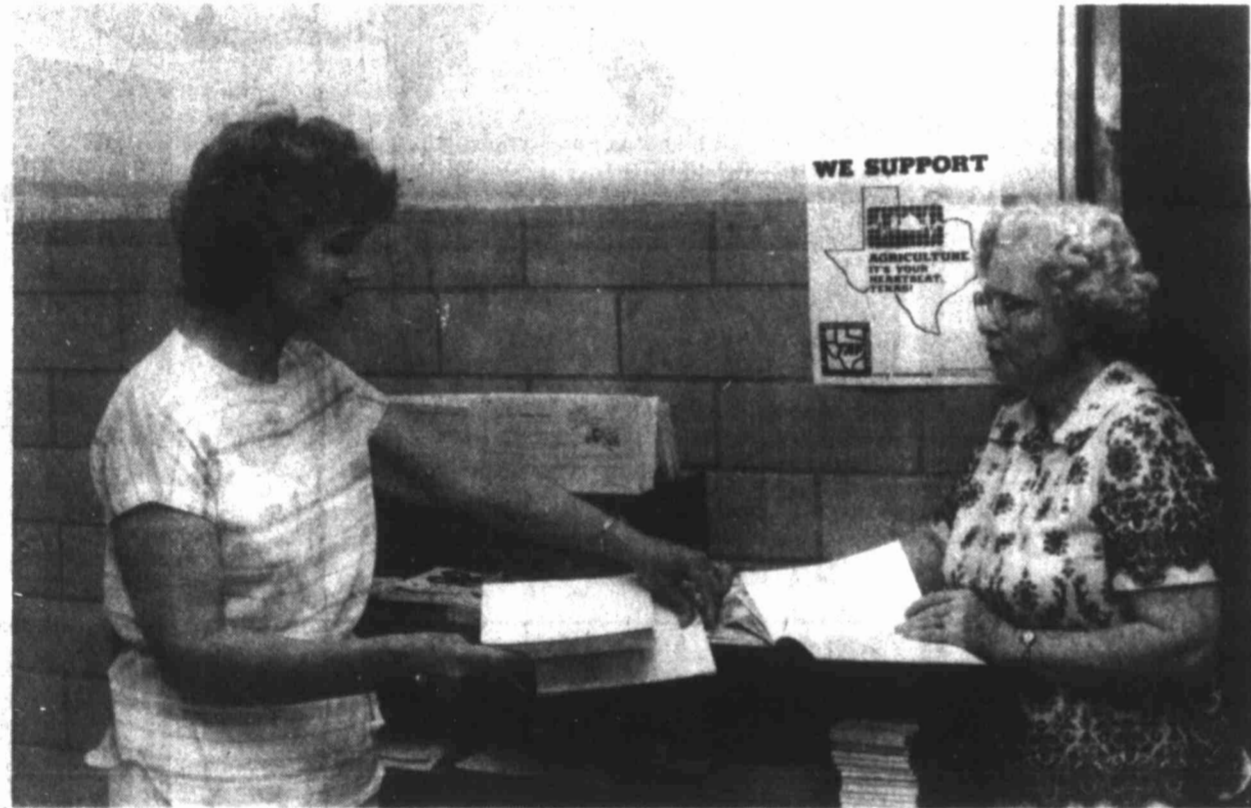

Also falling under the Women's Division are the art show and the flower show. The flower show is coordinated by the Big Spring Council of Garden Clubs. It will be open to anyone in Howard County interested in displaying their plants. There will be two divisions, container grown plants and African violets, cacti or succulent plants.

Mrs. Terry Patterson and Mrs. Howard Armstrong are chairing the art show. Paintings in oil, acrylic, watercolor, graphics and pastels and photography and sculpture will be accepted.

Women interested in reading about the fair may pick up fair catalogues at the County Extension agents office or at various ceramic shops in Big Spring.

People interested in booth space at the fair should contact Janey Blizzard, who is in charge of renting space. Ms. Blizzard said that almost all the booth space has been filled, so interested parties should call her at 263-1263 as soon as possible to reserve space.

Mrs. Rhodes thanks the new county agent, (Naomi Hunt) and Gail Earls, secretary in the County Extension Agent's office. "We couldn't do it without their help," she said.

CHECKING THE CATALOGUE — Geraldine Posey and Ireba Griffith look over the 1982 Fair catalogues during a planning meeting this week. Mrs. Posey is secretary for the Howard County Fair Association, and Mrs. Griffith is in charge of the Security Sitters at the fair, a group which watches over entries in various categories.

Fairs are her business

Zula Rhodes, general superintendent of the Women's Division of the Howard County Fair, has been involved in fair planning since the Howard County Fair was reorganized in 1972.

"This will be my 10th year with the fair working in different capacities," she said. "I was one of the workers in Hobbies and Crafts Division the first year. Hardly anyone knew what they were doing. It was the first year it was reorganized. The fair was disbanded during the war years and reactivated in 1972."

"The war years were hard on women as well as men. So many were rationing. The men were in the war and the fair was a pretty good-sized job to have."

"The first fair was held nine years ago in the County Fair Barn. The Women's Division was in the Center Barn.

That year, we had torrential rains during the fair and it leaked badly. We learned to use plastic sheets to protect the things people brought in. We shared our space with the art show and rock show. They would bring the livestock through the barn we were in to the Show Barn to keep them out of the rain.

"WE KNEW NOTHING about judging and displaying." The women working with the divisions learned to judge tough. By judging tough, items entered continually increased in quality.

"We moved over into the new building three years ago. Dora Roberts Foundation gave us the money to build a new fair building. Within that building, the Women's Division had the outside wall space and the commercial booths were in the center. It was still crowded and we still tried to display the best we could. Aisles were very narrow. Those helping had to stay in booths to keep things straight.

Two years ago, 2500 square feet was added to the Women's Division. "The art show and flower show stayed in the big building and that gave them some space."

Again, the Women's Division is outgrowing its space. Mrs. Rhodes said 1500 entries were received in the Women's Division last year and they expect more this year. "This is a good garden year—lots of canned goods. Women have more free time to take part in hobbies, crafts, cooking and canning," Mrs. Rhodes said.

Many women involved now were involved when the fair was re-established. Many younger women are getting involved and are being "groomed" for the jobs by the experienced women. The more experienced women hope the younger women will take their places in fair planning some day.

MRS. RHODES ENJOYS working year-round planning the week-long fair. "It's mostly a week of real fun. We've done our planning ahead. I saw a job to be done and volunteered to do it...I probably started (working with the

MRS. ZULA RHODES
...general superintendent of Women's Division

fair) because I knew the woman who headed the women's division and she asked me to help. My involvement with the local fair hung on after that first time. The fair is people sharing with other people.

"Fairs were a way of life for me when growing up. It is a big fall event. I've loved a fair all my life. It was a family thing and a special kind of day.

Seeing her efforts being enjoyed by others is her main reward. "I look at the sea of people coming to enter. Even when it's pouring down rain, people bring things to enter. A whole year of planning has gone into this fair and people are wanting to take part. I guess the dedication comes from seeing plans carried out," she said.

"My husband is my biggest supporter. He thinks I'm doing good with the fair. Some of my outside activities he is not so enthusiastic about. But he is at the fair on our opening day and is our gopher.

Not only does Mrs. Rhodes spend her year planning the Women's Division at the fair, she is active in the Elbow Extension Homemakers Club and is a volunteer with Retired Senior Volunteers Program

MRS. ANNIE MATT ANGEL just never slows down! She will be the reviewer at the Annual Fall Luncheon and Book Review Oct. 2 in Garrett Hall of First Methodist Church. The event is sponsored by the BIG SPRING COUNCIL OF GARDEN CLUBS.

My secret sources tell me that the L.K. GLADDIN family took a well-deserved vacation to the Bermudas. They spent five days living in luxury and "enjoying the pink sand and the turquoise water with white tips."

My sources also told me that MR. AND MRS. JAKE HANCOCK went on an Alaskan cruise. Following the cruise, they toured across the beautiful Canadian Rockies.

JOHNNIE LOU AVERY is another woman that never slows down. She is always doing something! This time she is the keynote speaker at an Armatoy Convention in Abilene. This week, along with her other duties, she will speak on self-images at a Hyperion Club meeting.

Speaking of Mrs. Avery, the JERRY AVERYS are expecting their daughter JONI AVERY home during homecoming weekend. The family will either stay home for homecoming or will enjoy the fellowship at a church retreat in Brownwood.

JAN AND VIC KEYES, SHELANE AND WAYNE ROBERTS, SANDY AND JACK GRIFFIN, RITA AND CHARLES GRAY, AND MARILYN AND FRANK CLARK of Wesley Methodist Church were spotted getting ready for a co-ed volleyball game against Berea Baptist Church. Church Co-ed Volleyball League started this week and is made up of teams from many denominations. This is one way our adults have an outlet for fun and games as a part of their social activities.

I passed by the LARRY DON SHAW campaign office this week to see a bee hive of activity going on. Among those helping him were SUSAN TRON, SANDY BURROUGHS, MIKE DONALD, KEN AWTRY, CINDY HOPPER, BRENDA JOHNSON, KAY BURNS AND ANN WEAVER.

I heard that TOM AND KAREN ADAMS, local school teachers were headed out Friday for a Labor Day weekend fishing trip. After the first week of school, they probably need it. Tom is a high school teacher and Karen is an elementary school teacher.

I hope you have a safe and joyous holiday weekend! Until next week...

Lovers' contract realistic

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — It was love at first sight. He said, "Do you want to live together?" She said, "Sure." And soon their tennis rackets, record collections and silverware were mingled in a jumble of possessions they called "ours."

They hoped it would last forever. It didn't. When they split, he said the records and tennis gear were his, she disagreed. There were loud arguments and some tears. Finally, they called a lawyer.

This apocryphal — and more and more typical — 1980s love story is why lawyer Merle Horwitz has written a book with the no-nonsense title: "Love Is Love, but Business Is Business."

"As we grow up, we are taught that you can't talk about money and love in the same breath," says Horwitz. "Sure, it's cold and crass. But we're not 2-year-olds."

Horwitz' book, a thin paperback with entwined red hearts and a dollar bill on the cover, offers live-in couples a complete legal contract which they can tear out and fill in to suit their own arrangement.

A question-and-answer section offers advice on how to split up such treasures as season tickets to the theater, the lease on an apartment, automobiles, jewelry and furniture. Horwitz says the contract will stand up in court if properly witnessed, and it avoids legal fees.

"About a year ago, I began getting calls from both men and women — people who wanted to live together but wanted to protect their separate property," says Horwitz.

Surprisingly, he notes, many of the couples were elderly and chose not to marry in order to preserve Social Security benefits or pensions.

"I told them I could draw up a contract for them, but I couldn't do it for less than $500 to $1,000. That was prohibitive to some people," says Horwitz. "That's when I came up with the idea for the book."

Horwitz sold his cohabitation contract to a major publisher but became dissatisfied with their plans for the book and bought back his idea. With the help of a friend, Horwitz printed 10,000 copies, went on radio to promote it and sold the books by mail order for $10.

"The response has been great," says Horwitz. "We've already sold a substantial number, and now a commercial publisher is interested in taking it over and putting it in bookstores."

"Everyone who hears about it seems to want a copy. My barber just made me promise I'd bring him one."

Horwitz concedes that the ground was broken by another lawyer, Marvin Mitchelson, whose landmark Marvin vs. Marvin "palimony" case opened the courts to property division suits by unmarried couples.

The Marvin case, named for actor Lee Marvin and his onetime live-in lover, Michelle Triola Marvin, applies primarily to couples who have no written contracts but agree through an oral or implied contract to share their finances.

"The Marvin decision had everything to do with making people aware," says Horwitz. "It says what's fair is fair and somebody shouldn't get the short end of the deal because there isn't a piece of paper."

But while the Marvin case encouraged many unwed couples to write out contracts, many people — particularly women — find the idea unromantic.

"I get calls from career women who have pensions to worry about, who have silver, crystal, maybe a condo they just bought. When a man moves in, they ask, 'Merle, how do I broach the subject?'"

"I tell them to be plain old frank and honest," says Horwitz. "Unless you get these things settled, how are you going to get on with your romance?"

LEARN HOW TO BECOME A MILLIONAIRE IN REAL ESTATE EVEN IF PRICES ARE NOT GOING UP!

NOTHING DOWN

"MAKING IT" IN A RECESSION WITH NO SPECULATION, NO NEGATIVE CASH FLOWS, NO "BALLOONS" AND NO RISKS!

There are at least seven ways to make money in real estate assuming no appreciation. Real estate is the only major investment that did appreciate last year, but you can make big money safely even if it doesn't!

—Bob Allen

If you're going to make money you've got to be out of step with the world. You're buying when others are selling... selling when others are buying!

—Hollis Norton

Gold has dropped from $800 to the $300 range. Silver has dropped from $50 to $10. Diamonds have dropped about 50%. Most other major investments have gone down in value, but REAL ESTATE went up in value about 3% last year. For those who knew how to buy it CREATIVELY, it went up much more! BUT... you don't even have to buy it to make great profits in real estate. Many people are becoming CREATIVELY SELF-UNEMPLOYED because their no-cash investments are bringing them more income than they could make on their jobs. A little information brings FINANCIAL FREEDOM, and it can happen to you!

Can't do it in a recession, you say? YES, you can! It's even EASIER in so called bad times, and thousands are doing it (as shown on the TV documentaries, "Making It!" and "Success!"). Over 90% of all millionaires made their fortunes in real estate and with the NEW, CREATIVE methods of buying, plus recessionary drops in some real estate prices, there's NO BETTER TIME THAN NOW. It takes little or no cash, and only a few hours of simple instruction.

A major university studied the successes of those who practice the methods taught by Robert Allen ("Nothing Down" and "Creating Wealth") and Hollis Norton ("How To Make It When You're Cash Poor"). They projected that 20,000 persons who've learned the simple concepts taught by these men buy over $20,000,000 worth of real estate A WEEK! That's over $1 BILLION A YEAR!

Almost every one of those people started learning "how-to-do-it" in a free seminar presented by Robert Allen and Hollis Norton. The free ninety-minute seminar will demonstrate some SPECIFIC "NOTHING DOWN" techniques you can use right away. You will also learn one of the many ways to ELIMINATE NEGATIVE CASH FLOWS, how to become FINANCIALLY FREE in FIVE YEARS OR LESS, how anyone can quickly establish GREAT CREDIT, how to earn MORE THAN 50% on your little-or-no-cash investments, and scores of other NEW, creative facts! You can buy depressed-price real estate with LESS THAN 10% INTEREST RATES, and even get interest-only financing NOW!

Just want to own your own home or trade up to a better one? Five years ago about 10% of all home sales were creatively financed. Now, the "ROBERT ALLEN NOTHING DOWN" revolution has occurred, and in the past year, MORE THAN 60% of all home sales are financed with the techniques taught in "NOTHING DOWN." (In some cities, more than 90% of all home sales involve creative financing.) Most real estate experts agree, if you want to buy a house in the future YOU MUST know CREATIVE FINANCING techniques.

Take ninety-minutes out of your life to attend this no cost, no obligation, illustrated lecture. You'll learn about America's fastest, simplest, safest road to success and financial freedom. The "Nothing Down" seminar is not just a variation of the old, "fix-up-the-dump" concept with a different name... it's a whole new 1980's program for success used by thousands across the country. Attend the no cost, no obligation, ninety-minute "Nothing Down" success seminar. It's presented by a successful associate of the two famous multi-millionaire investors, ROBERT ALLEN and HOLLIS NORTON. (Starting time is 8 P.M., but come early for a good seat. Please... no children under ten!)

Would-be senator working toward goals

By JILL SCHWARTZ
NEW YORK (AP) — Planning her future with care, Denise Dreiseszun hopes to succeed first as a corporate executive and eventually as a U.S. senator. And at the age of 22, she has already amassed years of experience in both the business and political fields, as well as an impressive list of honors and awards.

Latest of these is being named one of Glamour magazine's 1982 Top Ten College Women, a selection based on scholarship, leadership and involvement in campus and extracurricular activities. Among those activities have been many involved with politics in her home state of Arizona and in Phoenix — serving on the Mayor's Youth Commission, on a mayoral reelection campaign, as a registered lobbyist with the state legislature and in numerous posts at Arizona State University, from which she graduated in 1982 with a business administration degree. In the past five years Ms. Dreiseszun spent a lot of her time dealing with youth-related issues, she said in an interview in New York. "I only work on things that are worth it to me — causes I believe in," she explained. "Youth issues became important to me because it was difficult to see youth so torn." In 1978, on the Mayor's Youth Commission, she held positions on various task forces, eventually becoming chairman at Youth Town Hall, serving in an advisory capacity to the mayor and City Council. Ms. Dreiseszun acknowledges that she made some sacrifices along the way. "I didn't sleep in on Saturday mornings and I didn't go to parties after football games," she said, not regretfully. Instead she went to meetings and worked on new projects, polishing her political skills. She recently lobbied the legislature on state support for transportation, on not raising the legal drinking age and on state-backed student loans. Active in the Associated Students of ASU, she honed her business talents as student body president, overseeing a budget of $750,000 and supervising student services and programs. Among her many campus activities, she organized the first Career Awareness Week and dealing with what she said was a major issue on campus — alcohol use and misuse — initiated the first Alcohol Awareness Week. This called for organizing activities, working with various councils, directing conferences and compiling conference reports, she explained, adding that her responsibilities in student government at one of the largest universities in the country have given a boost to her political aspirations. "I try not to lock myself into doing something," she said.

Start holiday flowers now

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

If you'd like to grow your own holiday flowers — tulips and hyacinths, for instance — for Christmas plant giving or your personal enjoyment, the first week of September is the time to begin.

If you pot some hyacinth bulbs at the beginning of September they should be ready to add pretty flowers and a delightful fragrance to the holiday scene by Dec. 25. The same goes for tulips, and both are quite easy to force.

The potting dates are precise because the bulbs need 13 weeks' exposure to cool temperatures, and an additional 3 1/2 weeks in a warmer, sunny room to bring them to bloom.

Here's how to do it:
Select a 6-inch-diameter container with a drainage hole in the bottom. Cover the hole in the bottom with a large pebble or shard to prevent the soil from washing out. Fill the container halfway with a loosely packed mixture of one-third potting soil, one-third peat moss, and one-third vermiculite or sand.

A 6-inch pot will hold six tulip or hyacinth bulb set fairly close to each other. Gently place the bulbs on the soil, pointed tips up, so they are even with the pot rim. Do not press the bulbs into the soil. Add more potting mixture to within half an inch or so of the pot rim, so the bulb tips are barely exposed. Water thoroughly.

The trick to getting the tulips and hyacinths to bloom early indoors is to store them in a dark, cool location (35 to 48 degrees Fahrenheit) for the 13-week cool rooting period. Possible locations include a garage where the inside temperature does not fall below 32 degrees, an unheated closet, or a spare refrigerator in which no fruit is stored.

During the 13-week cooling period check bulbs frequently and water if the potting mixture feels dry. After the cool rooting period, bring the potted bulbs into a warm room (60-65 degrees) and place in a sunny location.

The bulbs should grow steadily from then on. Water every few days or when the soil feels dry.

Bulbs do not always perform on schedule. So — if they remain tightly budded a day or two before Christmas, speed the blooming process by placing them in a warm location. Or if they seem ready to open too quickly, return containers to the cooler location.

If you're looking ahead to some gift bulb flowers for Valentine's Day 1983, red tulips potted the week of Oct. 18 should be ready to present on Feb. 14.

Black headlines fashion story for holiday resort in Dallas

DALLAS, TEXAS — August 30, 1982 — Seductive, bold and uncomplicated black was the leading story on the runways at the recent Women's and Children's Midwinter Apparel Market, held at The Apparel Mart in Dallas on Aug. 13-18.

Looks ranged from black and white alone to black with bold prints, stripes, or bright geometric blocks of color. Black was most often seen styled in the tuxedo look which emerged during the fall market. Splashes of red, turquoise and gold or silver metallic gave the tuxedos added drama and excitement.

The newest trend this season was the arrival of the little black dress. The dress featured styles ranging from busy bodices and flounced skirts to a sleek v-plunge down the back with a lean closed-toe-body fit. The ball gowns still prevailed for the formal evenings with just the right amount of control and an understated fullness.

Color-blocking with such mixtures as black-white, red-turquoise, turquoise-white and black-red were newest combinations for slim suits and dresses. Fabrics used for these colorations ranged from new leather, suedes and knits to high-profile linen, cotton and silk.

Stone-washed and black denim made a strong impact in the sportswear market. Strongest statements were made with flirty, lean denim mini-skirts with detailed vests, and rugged-looking peg-legged pants with matching short jacket. This fabric and look becomes stronger as the weather becomes harsher.

Novel dots, stripes, splashy prints and solid panels of color dominated the resort market. These attention-grabbing patterns touched every category from polka-dotted sundresses and slinky evening dresses to body-baring swimsuits and matching printed short sets. The mini-skirt was the predominate piece shown in each variation of fabric and print. Newer pieces included the cropped top, halter top and the returning "hot" pants or short shorts.

L'Amour grinds out 81st western novel

THE CHEROKEE TRAIL. By Louis L'Amour. Bantam. 279 Pages. $12.95.

Book reviewers might as well take the day off when a new work by Louis L'Amour comes along.

No matter how frequently they do come along — which seems almost every other day with this prolific writer of Western yarns — his legions of fans will hasten to the bookshop regardless of what the pundits have to say. The magic name L'Amour is all that counts. The fans know what they'll get.

L'Amour's publisher terms him the all-time No. 1 best-selling Western frontier novelist, and with good reason. More than 125 million copies of his books are in print. Many have been made into movies or television shows.

Anyway, now comes his 81st book, and his readers should be as delighted as ever. The story focuses on a charming, self-possessed young widow who, through dire financial necessity, takes over management of a remote and rundown stagecoach stop in the dangerous Old West.

Problems aplenty ensue, naturally. Many are due to scorn incurred because women weren't deemed fit for that kind of job. Further adversity is provided by all the standard story ingredients expectable: bad guys trying to kill her, good guys trying to protect her, Indian rampages, nasty politics in the raw West, killings galore (with our heroine proving to be quick on the draw herself), etc.

No need to say more. It's all pure L'Amour. Frank Stilley For The AP

New brace gives mobility

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Every year in the U.S., 6,000 children are born with "split spine," which causes leg paralysis and other deformities.

Many wear a brace that holds their bodies upright and provides some mobility.

The Birth Defects Center of the University of Rochester says it has developed an improved brace that provides greater mobility, freeing the youngsters' hands and permitting them to sit and stand unaided.

It allows young children to take part in play and classroom activities more easily and confidently than previously possible.

SEPTEMBER RITE — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Perkins, Austin, announce the engagement and upcoming marriage of their daughter, Barbara Kaye, to Michael Wayne Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Harris, 1601 Indian Hills. The couple will exchange wedding vows Sept. 25 in St. Austin's Catholic Church in Austin. The Rev. Robert L. Pinkston C.S.P., priest of St. Paul the Apostle Church in New York, N.Y. will officiate.

Snacking can take pounds off

Snacks are a part of the day's total intake of nutrients and calories so plan them with totals in mind and you can actually snack pounds off. Snacks are an excellent time to include nutritious fruits and vegetables and dairy products. Of course, foods from all food groups including meat, fish and poultry and breads and cereals can be nutritious snacks.

The key is to choose a balance of nutritious foods from each group. Make sure they include a variety of necessary nutrients and that they meet calorie needs.

Snack extra pounds off — Calories can be a problem if the snacks selected cause us to eat more calories than our bodies can burn. Excess calories are stored in the body as fat leading to overweight.

Texas Agricultural Extension Service survey findings showed that 66% of all participants were overweight to some degree.

Weight watchers should consider calorie-conscious snacks like fresh fruits and vegetables, low-fat milks and cheese, breads without added fats and sugars and lean meats.

Don't snack teeth away — Dental cavities are another problem related to what and when we eat. Sweet, sticky foods eaten between meals promote tooth decay and provide little in the way of good nutrition and lots of "empty" calories.

More snacking tips — Watch for more snacking tips during September from the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Immunizations start at early age

School days are here again, and parents must make sure their children get all the necessary immunizations as their children head back to class.

All 50 states now require proof of certain immunizations before children can start school. Yet, even with this requirement, millions of preschool children are not adequately immunized. As a result, epidemics can and do break out.

Many health professionals recommend that children should be immunized at an early age and that up-to-date records on immunizations should be kept. By starting immunizations early, dangerous infectious diseases can be prevented in a child's life and also in the lives of playmates and friends.

Childhood diseases such as diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis (whooping cough), measles, mumps, polio and rubella can all be prevented by taking children to a doctor or health care clinic on a regular basis starting as early as two months of age.

Although recommendations change from time to time, most physicians recommend a vaccination schedule for infants that start with a DTP

(diphtheria, tetanus, pertussis) shot and a first dose of polio vaccine at about age two months. The second DTP and polio dosages are given at four months. At six months, the third DTP shot is given. Some physicians also give a third polio dose at this time. At one year of age, a child should be given a skin reaction test for tuberculosis.

At 15 months of age, the toddler will be given a combined vaccine to foster immunity to measles, rubella and mumps. At about 18 months, the child should receive the final dose in the primary series of immunizations for DTP and polio.

The next round of immunizations is considered necessary at four to six years of age, when the child will need a DTP booster and a polio booster. Then, in the mid-teens, he or she should have a TD (tetanus-diphtheria toxoid adult type) dose. Thereafter, a TD booster is recommended every 10 years.

What are the after-effects of immunizations, if any? Perhaps a few tears will be shed or the child may have a mild reaction, such as crankiness, a slight fever and no appetite. A physician can give advice on how to keep a child comfortable after an immunization. Smallpox has been entirely eradicated from the world because of vaccination against that disease. With a nationwide effort, measles may soon be wiped out in the United States. This can be done only if concerned adults see to it that measles vaccine is given to all young children.

Computerphobia now has cure

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Computerphobia. Computerphobia.

For every person who is wild about computers — usually someone age 20 or younger — there is another person — usually age 21 or older — who is intimidated by the thinking machines.

That is the observation of Phyllis Kent, assistant director of academic services at the Syracuse University Academic Computing Center.

According to Mrs. Kent, half the people on college and university campuses are computer whiz kids, while the other half are neophytes.

"This presents a major challenge to educators: how to develop a minimum level of computer ability so that the 'computer illiterates' can communicate with their younger colleagues, who were weaned on the computer," she said.

Syracuse University has developed a solution to that problem that has proven "effective, inexpensive and free of tension for those who must overcome their fear of computers," says John Koegel, senior programmer-analyst at the center.

That solution is a supplemental curriculum of "short courses" that give basic instruction and hands-on experience in using computers.

"Grades aren't given in these courses, so there is no pressure to perform up to any standards but your own," Koegel explained.

Advertising is the most effective money-stretcher of them all.

Advertising is a great educator. It brings news of products and services. It offers you a chance to compare claims and prices. It shows you pictures of products and suggests how to use them. Advertising informs you how products can save you time, energy, and money. How in the world would you know all this if advertising in the Herald didn't tell you?

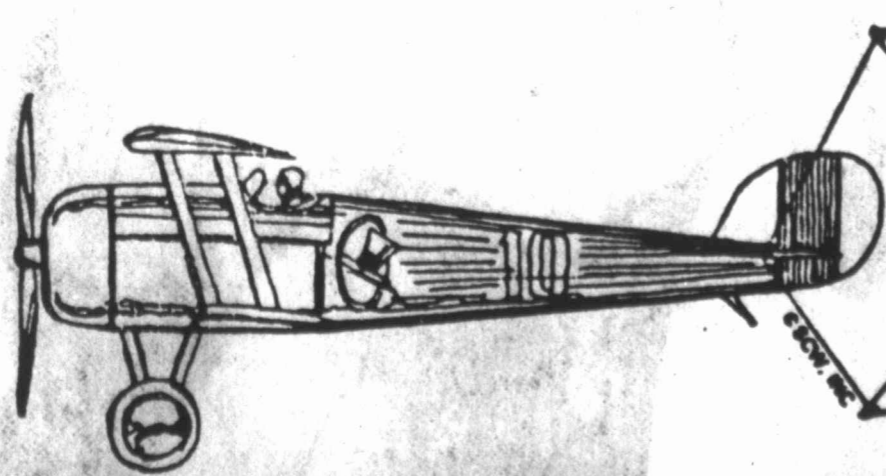

Advertising is an astute watch-dog of the marketplace. When one merchant's merchandise or prices appear to be most attractive to the consumer, other merchants take notice and try to provide a better sales environment or better values. Advertisers offer discount coupons to lure the consumer to try their products.

Advertising saves you a lot of time, a valuable commodity to working folks. You don't have to phone around or visit a dozen locations to find the product that's right for you, when you read the Big Spring Herald.

Advertising provides the energy that keeps the economy growing. New products arrive ... new colors ... new styles ... and the old ones must go out at reduced prices to make room. And the consumer, who's been reading ads all along, knows which items (or services) are best for his or her needs and can now buy at money-stretching sale prices.

Advertising is only one of the ways the Big Spring Herald saves you money. There's the popular classified section. And daily news of the world, editorial opinions, advice columns, entertainment reviews and much more information to help you make better, more productive choices in your daily activities.

And it can all be brought to your doorstep for only 17 1/2¢ per day, for leisurely evaluation, at your own time and pace.

Dear Abby

Couple gets too close for safety

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think this is a dumb question, because I need to know, and I can't ask anyone else. I am a 13-year-old girl who became a woman five months ago. My boyfriend is 15 and we are very much in love. I know you will say we are too young to know what real love is, but you are wrong, Abby. We are both very mature for our ages. Now my question: Is there a chance of becoming pregnant if a boy and girl are very, very close but keep their underwear on?

A girlfriend said you explained this in a book and even said a girl could become pregnant without losing her virginity. That is hard for me to believe. Please answer soon. I am...

tercourse is 'penetration.' (The male's sex organ must penetrate the female's.) However, as impossible as it may sound, in the medical literature can be found cases where there has been no penetration — the girl remained a virgin, but after engaging in heavy petting, she found herself pregnant.

...How can that be? Simple. ...The boy and girl were lying very close to each other (unclothed), doing 'everything but,' when a small amount of sperm leaked out... near (not inside, but very close to) the girl's vagina. The sperm got into the moisture around the vagina and found its way up into it, and fertilized the egg!

A copy of this booklet, which also contains a chapter titled "How Not to Get Pregnant," can be obtained by sending $2 and a long, stamped (37 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.

DEAR ABBY: How does one know when one is ready for marriage?

DEAR D.: If you have to ask, you're not ready.

What's bugging you? Unload on Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Dr. Donohue

Contrast baths speed recovery

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: What is your opinion of the use of contrast baths for swelling or pain in a joint that won't respond to the usual "ice-first — heat-second" formula you speak of? When is the contrast-bath method recommended? — H.H.

The goal in treatment of an injured joint is, of course, to make the period of immobility as brief as possible. The immediate goal is to keep swelling to a minimum, and that's the rationale behind the immediate use of the cold. This discourages circulation temporarily, limiting the fluid accumulation in the area. After a day or so of cold, heat is used. That is to encourage brisk circulation, removing whatever fluid accumulation remains.

If, after a couple of days, the pain and swelling remain, one must first of all be assured that there is not something more serious than a muscle pull, strain or bruise causing the problem. With that assurance, you can now turn to the contrast-bath technique.

You don't actually bathe the joint. You use packs. First apply a hot pack. It should be fairly hot, but not capable of burning the skin. You hold the hot pack on the area for a minute, then follow with an icepack. Hold the icepack on for from two to five minutes. Repeat this process five times — one minute of heat, two to five minutes of cold.

The object here is to create a kind of pumping action. The heat expands the blood vessels and the cold constricts them. The regular alteration of the two thermal extremes creates the desired pumping. The reason for the longer period of cold is to counter the fluid accumulation effect of the heat. It also produces a numbing effect, which can help relieve pain and permit you to exercise the joint more easily.

Probably the most important point to remember in this, however, is that an injury that won't respond to the usual methods in a couple of days has to be examined to be sure a broken bone is not part of the pain picture.

DEAR DR. DONOHUE: My husband is in excellent physical shape, and in fact he works out at a gym three times a week. He uses one of the plastic suits to sweat off pounds. I have read or heard some adverse comments about these suits. Can this practice harm a person? He really doesn't have to lose weight, and really looks like he could put on a few pounds. What about the suits? — Mrs. E.N.

There can be definite danger in using such suits. They are used by some athletes who must lose weight quickly in order to meet weight limits, such as in wrestling. Quite obviously, weight loss this way is almost entirely in fluid. The pounds return from the first few glasses of water or other liquid consumed afterward. The need for that quick liquid replacement should be a strong hint that the weight lost by such sweating was not wisely lost to begin with. The body needed that fluid.

I can best explain just what is going on by reminding you of what happens when you exercise vigorously on a hot, humid day. You sweat profusely, but somehow that perspiration does not work as effectively as under normal circumstances. It does not cool the body. Instead of evaporating into the atmosphere, leaving the skin cool, it clings to the body.

That's what happens inside one of the airtight plastic suitsuits. You create a super-humid atmosphere around the body. This causes a rapid rise in internal body temperature, which if carried to extremes poses dangers to internal organs. You are becoming dehydrated within. It is a foolish way to lose weight.

Right collar, tie flatters face

NEW YORK (AP) — What you wear on a job interview can be nearly as important as your resume and references, according to the Neckwear Association of America, which reports surveys it has conducted indicate that appearances are important in job evaluations.

"If you're already in a corporate position, how you dress can also be a factor determining whether you make it to the next level or stay fixed on the same job plateau," says Gerald Anderson, executive director of the NAA.

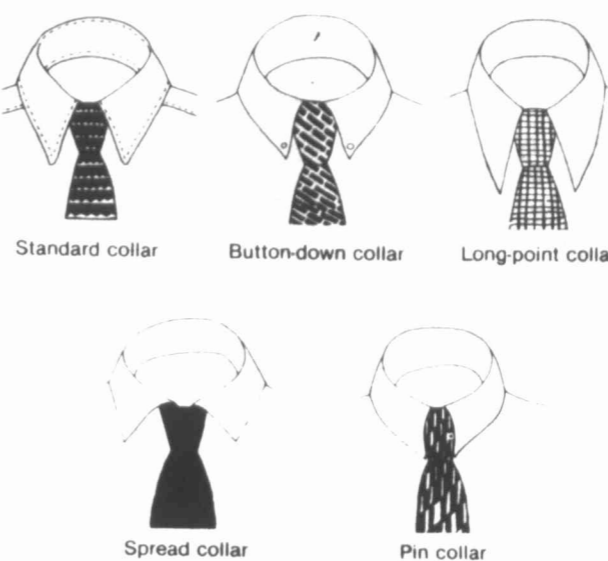

Though the majority of men have "pretty much figured out how to dress in a suit that flatters them," where most of them fall down is "from the neck up — and we're not talking about intellectual prowess."

"What we are talking about," he adds, "is shirt collars and neckties. When you walk into an interview, the interviewer will get an overall impression of you — shoes shined, suit neat and well-fitting. But once you sit down, you're viewed from the waist up only."

In general, most men aren't sure how a shirt collar and tie should balance out the shapes of their faces and the widths of their lapels, Andersen points out.

"Since most interviewers talk to your face, it's advisable to show it off to its best advantage with the right collar and tie," he says, offering these tips from the NAA:

—If you're heavy-set or have a round face you should choose a standard collar, about 3 inches from the neckband to the tip, or one that has slightly longer points. Your tie should be tied in a four-in-hand for either collar, or in a half-Windsor for the long point.

—The person with a square face can wear the standard button-down or pin collar with ease. The knot that looks best with all styles is the four-in-hand. However, if your face is a bit heavy, or if you have a short neck, you should avoid the pin collar.

—If you have a long face, a spread collar may work well for you. But if you're on the tall side, the slightly shorter tabs on this collar may not look particularly attractive. In that case, go for the standard collar. With the spread, a full or half-Windsor will look well, adding to the broadening effect that you want.

—If you have an oval face, you're in luck, because just about any shirt collar will look well on you (except the

here, and a long-point collar may be a bit too dramatic with a three-piece conservative suit.

It is generally believed that the tie should come to the belt buckle; however, it's not a bad idea if it's actually a bit longer, says Andersen, who suggests that if you enjoy full Windsor knots, you should buy ties that are slightly longer than usual. A longer tie is also suggested for a tall or portly man — because it has a bit farther to travel to reach that belt line.

Generally, tie widths should balance out your face, he advises. Just as a tall, thin man should avoid skinny lapels, so should he avoid skinny ties. Overly broad lapels and superwide ties aren't flattering to him, either, something that holds true for the heavier man. Also, your tie width should relate to your lapel width — skinny lapel, skinny tie; average notched lapel, average 3 to 3½ inch width tie; wider lapel, wider tie.

Mayonnaise may be safer than believed

COLLEGE STATION — If you're planning a holiday picnic and are worried about the safety of mayonnaise in hot weather, here's some tips on the subject.

If you're planning a holiday picnic, keep in mind that salads with mayonnaise have been implicated in food poisoning outbreaks in the past.

"These products do not support the growth of pathogenic bacteria. In fact, they are resistant to most microbial spoilage. Consequently, they should be of little public health concern," says Dr. Ranzell Nickelson,

Do's, don'ts of coping with acne

You can face up to an irritating acne condition, if you heed a few hints from experts.

Do wash three times a day. Don't wash an excessive number of times as this irritates the condition. Do use a drying soap, such as Ivory or one of the "acne" soaps.

Don't use soaps containing granules as these are abrasive and irritate the condition. Do wash gently with your finger or a washcloth. Don't use abrasive sponges as these irritate the condition.

Do keep your hands away from the areas. Don't pick, squeeze or rub as this irritates the condition. Do eat a balanced diet including all food groups.

Don't avoid any particular food to prevent acne, as this will usually not help. Do use water-based make-up if you wish to for appearance.

Don't use oil-based make-up or any other oils on your face or hair.

Do consult a dermatologist if you still have a problem. Following this advice can help you to improve a moderate case of acne.

Lead Crystal Characteristics

International standards dictate that true lead crystal have a lead content of at least 24%. So here at the ACCENT SHOPPE, we suggest you look for glistening transparency when a glass is held up against a pure white background. Look for diamond-like flashes when you hold it up to the light. And finally, listen for a clear, bell-like tone when you flick the rim with your fingernail. All of this indicates a high lead content — and a glass you'll be proud of to own for many years to come.
