Drive Opened Near Shanghai

(By The Associated Press)

SHANGHAI, Friday, May 6. — Several thousand Communist troops today opened attacks northwest and southwest of Shanghai. This may mean the move against this great city has begun.

The garrison announced this development as Red columns plunged deep into the mountains of southeast China and reached for the lifelines of the central Chinese bastion of Hankow.

The Communique said several thousand Reds were attacking Kashing, 50 miles southwest of Shanghai. So far, the garrison reported, the attackers had been held off.

Attack Launched

Simultaneously, a Communist force estimated at 5,000 attacked Taichang, 37 miles northwest of Shanghai.

The Communist forces in southeast China were surging into the mountain strongholds to which they were chased by Chiang Kai-Shek in 1927.

The newspaper Sin Wan Pao said authorities of Fukien province were getting worried as Red troops moved south from captured Hangchow.

Fukien is the province opposite Formosa. Formosa is the island province where the government may make its last-ditch stand.

Reinforcements Dispatched

The dispatch said reinforcements had been sent to the area around Chungan, near Fukien's north border. Chungan is 315 airline miles southwest of Shanghai.

Red vanguards were reported only about 20 miles from Fukien's north border. But already they were in the mountains of southeast China where they retreated in 1927 after they broke with Chiang Kai-Shek.

In quiet, rain-sodden Shanghai, the government's official Central News agency meanwhile reported the Reds had signed a mutual defense pact with the Russian-sponsored North Korean regime and had pledged aid to Burmese Communists in "the joint struggle against American and British imperialism."

Surrender Reported

If true it would link Communist forces in an arc stretching clear across East Asia.

Killing Of Wood Labor Bill Called Administration Victory

Truman To Continue Fight For Repeal Of Taft-Hartley Law

By LEON SHLOSS
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 5.—President Truman today flatly refused to make any concession on repeal of the Taft-Hartley law and said he would wait as long as necessary to get it off the statute books.

Mr. Truman told a news conference that he regarded the House action yesterday as an administration victory in that it gave Democratic forces a chance to start over and get the sort of bill the administration wants.

The House killed the Wood bill and left the Taft-Hartley law on the law books unthreatened, for the time being at least. The Wood bill would have retained Taft-Hartley with modifications.

Original Bill Praised

Earlier today House administration leaders announced that a renewed effort will be made "as soon as possible" to pass a new labor law in place of the Taft-Hartley act.

Mr. Truman declared the original administration bill, repealing Taft-Hartley and re-enacting the old Wagner act with "improvements," was a good bill. He said it was what he wanted.

Mr. Truman said refusal of the House to accept the administration bill had not convinced him that he should make any concessions on the labor law issue.

"Unity" Meetings Planned

The President's efforts to have the administration measure enacted were blocked by a powerful Republican - southern Democrat coalition, which missed out in its drive to pass the Wood bill by a three-vote margin.

Rep. Lesinski (D-Mich), chairman of the House Labor committee, and the Democratic leaders said they would not wait for Senate action on the President's top 1948 election campaign pledge.

Lesinski said he would on next Monday begin a series of "unity" meetings designed to write a labor bill which would pass the House. He said all factions in the red-hot fight would be invited to take part.

Willing To Wait

Mr. Truman pointed out that his administration runs for four years and he is willing to wait as long as is necessary to get the Taft-Hartley law repealed.

The President was asked if he thought his warning of a week ago on party loyalty had been effective. He replied that he believed it was working.

The President served notice last week that patronage would go only to Democrats who stood by the party's legislative program.

Mr. Truman declined to comment on the compromise Taft-Hartley repeal bill which was submitted by the House Democratic leadership in an effort to block the coalition-backed Wood measure.

The President said the compromise measure had not been submitted to him for approval.

Asked if the compromise, which includes labor-opposed injunction against national emergency strikes, would be acceptable, Mr. Truman said he would answer that question if the bill ever reached the White House.

Then the President remarked that the original administration repeal bill was a good measure although Congress had a right to amend it in any way it sees fit.

Lesinski flatly charged John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers with inciting the revolt in the House by pro-labor northern Democrats which led to defeat of the administration's compromise bill. Lesinski said:

"The compromise was sufficiently acceptable to all other labor organizations. The coal boys did the job on the compromise."

Reorganization Sought

Lesinski said he would move immediately to obtain action on a resolution creating a labor-management commission which would attempt to frame labor legislation satisfactory to all factions. He said he hoped this commission could work concurrently with his "unity" meetings so that the next bill presented would represent all

Residents Of Berlin Joyful

By JAMES LEE
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 5. — The Big Four powers formally announced today that the Berlin blockade ends May 12 and the council of foreign ministers will meet in Paris May 23 to seek again a path to permanent peace.

President Truman told his news conference that he is happy that discussions between the Western Powers and Russia can be resumed where they were halted 10 months ago.

Mr. Truman was asked whether he had anything to say in connection with the big four agreement to end the Berlin blockade and resume four-power talks on Germany.

Truman Gratified

The President replied that of course he is happy that there now is a chance to resume the talks which were interrupted last year.

Mr. Truman lent no support to reports that he would meet with Soviet Premier Stalin, French Premier Queuille and British Prime Minister Attlee after the foreign ministers' conference.

He said that such a meeting would not be required if the foreign ministers reach any kind of agreement.

The President denied that he had been in personal communication with Stalin on the Berlin situation.

(Meanwhile, in Berlin, western leaders served notice that establishment of a truly democratic Germany will be their price for agreement with the Russians at the forthcoming Big Four foreign ministers conference, the Associated Press reported from the German capital.

New Struggle Seen

(British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin and Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, British commander in Germany, set the keynote.

(The cold battle for Berlin has been ended by agreement. Now the East and West face a greater test of strength—a struggle for all of Germany, the AP reported.)

Other Berlin reports told of a different reaction among Germans. Jubilant Berliners were reported to have swamped rail station offices in an effort to get places on the first interzonal train westward once the Soviet blockade is lifted.

West German politicians hailed the agreement to lift the blockade but many were not too optimistic. Ordinary Berliners, while joyful at the prospect of getting fresh po-

Ford Strike Is Underway

(By The Associated Press)

DETROIT, May 5—Half of Ford's work force struck today. The world's second largest auto empire faced complete paralysis.

Some 65,000 workers thronged out of two Detroit plants at noon.

Frantic last-minute negotiations between the company and the CIO United Auto Workers broke off abruptly. No further meetings were scheduled.

The union charged Ford was running assembly lines too fast at its big Rouge plant and the Lincoln-Mercury factory. The company denied the speed-up charge and said the strike violated the Ford contract with the UAW.

No Disorder Reported

A Ford spokesman said the walkout would tie up operations in Ford's 47 other plants around the world within about a week. This would hit 106,000 production workers and a small number of other employes.

Effects would also spiral out to 3,500 smaller firms supplying parts to Ford, the company said.

There was none of the disorder which marked the UAW's first and only other major strike at Ford. That was the bloody 10-day battle for recognition in 1941.

President Walter Reuther of the UAW said the strike, first big one in the auto industry since the Chrysler walkout a year ago, would not interfere with contract negotiations May 16.

Appeals For Free Access

But many observers failed to see how it could help but have some effect if it lasts.

Several hours after the strike began, Ford charged UAW pickets had "prevented entry into the Rouge plant by anyone." The company appealed to Dearborn Mayor Orville Hubbard to use the city's police force to guarantee free access to the plant, and to seek help from county and state authorities if necessary.

The company issued a statement saying a settlement of the speed-up dispute on union terms would be "an unwarranted limitation of

Symphony Concert Is Scheduled Tonight

Amparo Iturbi, internationally-known concert pianist, who will appear with the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra in Lubbock Senior High school auditorium at 8:15 p. m. today, and again Saturday night, arrived in Lubbock Thursday afternoon after having had two frustrating "bird's eye" views of the city.

Miss Iturbi, who played a concert Wednesday night in Garden City, Long Island, flew from the East Coast to Wichita Falls, and there presumably, enplaned again for Lubbock. When the airliner neared Lubbock yesterday, weather conditions here were such that the plane returned to Wichita Falls. Later the plane on which Miss Iturbi was a passenger again attempted to land in Lubbock and once again returned to Wichita Falls.

Finally the pianist flew from Wichita Falls to Amarillo, and from Amarillo to Lubbock. She arrived in Lubbock late yesterday afternoon in time for the scheduled rehearsal with the Lubbock Symphony last night.

Miss Iturbi, who for the past several weeks has been on a concert tour of England, played her final concert there last Sunday night and returned to this country immediately afterwards.

Tonight's symphony concert will be attended by holders of season subscription tickets. The Saturday night concert will be open to purchasers of individual admission tickets.

Liquor Charges Filed In Crosby

(Special To The Avalanche)

CROSBYTON, May 5.—A total of 28 charges of liquor law violation have been filed here against seven Crosby county men, as a result of recent raids conducted by agents of the Texas Liquor Control board in co-operation with Crosby county officials.

The raids and subsequent charges against the seven men, coming at this time, apparently have intensified interest in an election Saturday in which Crosby county voters will approve or reject the proposed legalized sale of four per cent beer in the county.

Move Was Surprise

Ernest Joiner, editor and publisher of The Ralls Banner, said tonight that especially has it caused consternation in the ranks of the county's "dry" factions, which have joined together in the United Drys of Crosby county, since the drys in past weeks have pointed out verbally and by printed handbill that bootlegging does not constitute a serious problem in Crosby county.

Joiner has been an outspoken foe of bootlegging in the county for the past several months.

He sponsored petitions calling for the election, however, in an effort to bring a legal showdown on the issue of drink in the county, he said.

The seven charged with liquor law violations, four of whom are from Ralls and three from Crosbyton, will be tried in county court here on May 16, county officials said tonight. Bond of $250 per

10 Western Nations Approve Council Of Europe Charter

LONDON, May 5 (AP)—Representatives of 10 western nations signed today the charter for a Council of Europe, which in effect sets up a joint cabinet and parliament.

The 10 nations are Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Italy and Ireland.

The council is to hold its first meeting this summer in Strasbourg, France. It will be limited to debate and recommendations on political, cultural and some economic matters.

Federal School Aid Approved By Senate

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP)—The Senate passed tonight a bill authorizing federal grants of $300,000,000 a year to help the states pay teachers' salaries and other school operating expenses. It goes to the House. The vote was 58 to 15.

The Senate slapped down a series of major amendments. Two brought in the question of church and state relations in dealing with schools.

One of the last amendments rejected was one by Sen. Donnell (R-Mo) to limit the bill's funds to public schools. It was snowed under, 71 to 3, with Donnell, Cain (R-Wash) and McClellan (D-Ark) voting for it. The bill lets the states decide who gets the money.

Earlier, senators rejected by voice vote an amendment of Senator McMahon (D-Conn). It provided that any of the federal funds used by a state for school bus service must be available to all children, whether they attend paraochial or public schools. The bill leaves this question for the states to decide.

Tech To Gain Financially Under Terms Of College Money Bills

By BILL CLARK
Avalanche Staff Writer

AUSTIN, May 5 — Texas Tech will fare somewhat better financially under terms of higher education appropriation bills which have now come out of the Senate Finance committee and the House Appropriations committee.

Rep. Preston E. Smith, of Lubbock, chairman of the House Sub-Committee On Higher education, said he will bring the House bill up for discussion on the floor Monday.

As the two bills come out of committee, the Senate bill is the more generous of the two with regard to Tech, with a total appropriation of $2,041,575, for fiscal 1950 beginning Sept. 1 and the same amount for fiscal 1951.

The Senate bill proposes the following amounts for Tech for each of the next two years: Salaries, $1,569,747; summer school, $76,573; research, $27,250; maintenance, equipment and travel, $268,005 and improvements $100,000.

No Trace Found Of Morton Man

(Special To The Avalanche)

MORTON, May 5.—No trace had been found late tonight of Roy Hickman, 46-year-old Morton resident, who left his home here early Monday night for Rising Star in Eastland county and apparently vanished, Sheriff H. D. Crockett said.

The missing man left Morton about 7 p. m. Monday, planning to attend to business in connection with a ranch owned by the family near Rising Star. Foul play was feared when he failed to arrive on schedule.

Brother Reports Absence

He planned to contact someone going toward Rising Star at a Lubbock travel bureau, since he had a sore eye and needed someone to help drive his car, it was learned.

When he failed to arrive at his destination early Tuesday morning as planned, his brother, B. B. Hickman, who lives there, phoned the Morton sheriff and inquired as to his whereabouts. An important hearing today on an estate at Brownwood was not attended by Roy, B. B. Hickman told Sheriff Crockett later.

Mrs. Hickman told Crockett she believed her husband was

Baylor University President 'Resting' After Slight Illness

WACO, May 5 (AP)—Dr. W. R. White, president of Baylor university, was resting well today at Hillcrest hospital. Dr. White went to the hospital for a "routine examination and rest" yesterday after suffering a slight illness in Washington Tuesday.

Dr. White had been averaging a speech a day since becoming president of Baylor Feb. 1, 1948. He has flown more than 30,000 miles and made many trips by automobile or train. Since Jan. 1, he has appeared at 45 commencements.

Dr. White had gone to Washington to appear before the Federal Communcations commission in behalf of Baylor's radio station KWBU. He flew back to Texas on advice of his physician.

His doctor, D. D. Warren of Waco, said "he is not seriously ill." He was said to be suffering from high blood pressure.

Steel Union Demands New Wage Increase

PITTSBURGH, May 5. (AP) — Steel unionists (CIO), often the nation's pace-setter in wage matters, demanded today a fourth-round pay boost—plus social benefits. Amount of the wage hike was not specified.

The demands of the United Steelworkers' wage policy committee were the first officially levelled on America's "big four" of industrial production—steel, coal, auto and electrical industries.

Coal, auto and electrical union spokesmen have indicated they, too, want more benefits for their workers.

Steel industry spokesmen said they had no comment on the steelworkers' demands, reached after a three-day huddle of the union's top strategists.

The steelworkers want the industry to pick up the entire tab for such social security benefits as pensions and insurance.

Cool Front Is Expected To Bring More Rain To Area

MORE rain, or at least thundershowers of varying intensity, was forecast for the South Plains today as farmers' hopes rapidly swung from precipitation to sunshine.

A cool front, which late last night had moved into the Panhandle area, was expected to stir up heavy showers, occasionally strong winds, and "patches" of hail early today over the South Plains.

While no general rain is expected, the Lubbock Weather station emphasized the thundershowers probably would leave a trail of heavy precipitation in their wakes as they moved southeastward across the area.

Some Hail Foreseen

"The thunderstorms probably will not reach the violence of the squall line that moved in early Thursday morning," the station said, "but the possibility of some hail, occasionally strong winds, and local heavy showers cannot be overlooked. Conditions are right for the shower activity."

Some hail had been reported in the Panhandle late last night, and a thunderstorm was reported "brewing" at Carlsbad as the front moved nearer the Plains area.

The advance guard of the front was expected to move over the area between 3 a. m. and 6 a. m. today. Thunderstorm activity will precede the cool front by about an hour, the station said, with light rain continuing up into the day.

Temperatures are expected to drop sharply today, but nowhere near the freezing mark. A low in the upper 40's is expected this morning with a maximum of 60 degrees this afternoon. "Saturday morning's readings may be a little lower," the station said. The maximum Thursday afternoon was 73 degrees.

Warmer temperatures are predicted for Saturday afternoon, but strong northerly winds are due to sweep the area today.

Meanwhile, an unseasonable

Tire Puncturing Picture Gets Man 30-Day Jail Term

(By International News Service)

DENVER, May 5 — An action photograph of a man puncturing an automobile tire resulted today in a 30-day jail sentence for Daniel G. Leonard, 46, of Denver.

Leonard appealed the justice court conviction to the Denver county court.

The picture was snapped by Denver detective James Shumate, who had hidden behind a bush for five consecutive nights before he secured the evidence. Complainant was Le Roy Smith, a friend of Leonard's divorced wife, Mamie. Smith said the tire puncturing had been going on for ten months.

Negro Girl Held In Stabbing Case

Ruby Nell Mims, a negro girl, who told investigating officers and the district attorney's department that she is 15 years old, was charged late last night with assault with intent to murder in connection with the critical stabbing of her husband, Albert Mims, 25, in a washroom at the rear of Luby's cafeteria, 1010 Broadway, where the two were employed.

The stabbing occurred shortly after 7:40 p. m.

The girl, who said she and Mims had been married about six months, said in a signed statement before A. W. Salyars, assistant district attorney, that the stabbing was a result of an argument over a pack of cigarets.

Victim's Condition Critical

Mims, who lives at 301 East Twentieth, was carried in a critical condition to West Texas hospital by McDonald ambulance about 7:45 p. m. where it was found he had suffered a deep stab wound just under the heart.

Hospital attendants at first gave him little chance to live, but the administration of blood plasma revived the negro sufficiently that he was able to be transferred to Chatman hospital less than two hours later. An attending physician there said shortly before midnight that his condition

The action was taken 10 minutes after Judge Pardue had been informed that County Judge Walter Davies had ordered them released from a county court contempt commitment of one day in jail. The commitment was outgrowth of a flareup of state and defense counsel at noon in the trial of a liquor case.

County Attorney Waggoner Carr and E. A. Blair, counsel for the attorneys, were those who presented the dismissal order to Judge Pardue.

A few minutes earlier, a group of attorneys from Lubbock County Bar association had conferred with Burks and McNeil in an of-

MILITARY 'OVERHAUL' PROPOSED

Former Air Force Chief Urges Broad Changes In Defense Setup

NEW YORK, May 5. (INS)—Gen. Carl Spaatz, retired Air Force chief recommended tonight a drastic overhauling of the national defense department to achieve "real unification."

Topmost on the list of five recommendations made by Spaatz in the current issue of Newsweek magazine is abolition of the secretaries of Army, Navy and Air Force, with their functions turned over to the defense secretary and undersecretary.

New Offices Urged

Spaatz described the National Security Act of 1947—designed to produce armed forces unification—as a "half measure." He said that if all five of his recommendations are adopted by Congress "a real department of defense would be created to administer the military forces as other departments of the government are administered."

The other four suggestions made by Spaatz to Congress call for:

Creation of a "suitable number of assistant secretaries on a functional rather than a service basis—for procurement, for budget, etc."

Abolition of the joint chiefs of staff, now responsible for strategic planning, and substitution of a "general staff of the armed forces under a single chief of staff responsible to the secretary, to make strategic plans and give general direction to the armed forces."

Placement of general staff officers on a separate promotion list "to remove them from undue influence by their own services."

Making the uniformed commanders of the three services "wholly responsible to the secretary of defense for the efficiency of their services."

With adoption of the five recommendations, Spaatz declared, the defense secretary "would have authority commensurate with his responsibility. The present difficult problem of formulating a budget for the armed forces would be largely solved."

Because whisky and crawfish don't mix and whisky is again obtainable, sales of crawfish are falling off in South Africa, Johannesburg wholesalers say.

CROSBYTON THEATER GOING UP—Jack Arthur of Crosbyton has begun construction of this $50,000 theater on the north side of the square in Crosbyton, it was announced Thursday. Mr. Arthur, mayor of Crosbyton, will call it the "Chieftan." The structure will seat 600 persons. The exterior will be brick and the building will be air conditioned. A small confectionary adjoins the entrance, as shown in the sketch by Atcheson and Atkins, Lubbock architects. One feature of the building will be a "swag floor," which slopes downward, then upward again as it approaches the screen. (Staff Photo.)

Patrol Boat Goes Fishing With Radar To Hook Fishermen Who Violate State Laws

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5 (NEA) — Radar, which helped win the battle of freedom, is now hard at work in the battle of fish.

The Albacore, newest patrol boat of the California Fish and Game Commission, is using a radar set to detect violators of the state's fishing laws.

Specifically, the new equipment will aid the fight against commercial boats fishing inside the three-mile limit and those using a drag net in illegal waters.

Already, the presence of mysterious radar on the Albacore has thrown a scare into California fishermen. They seem to think it possesses powers even more potent than it actually does.

Can Stay In Rough Weather

"There's a great deal of speculation going on among commercial fishermen in Northern California," says the patrol boat's skipper, Captain Ralph W. Dale, "over just what we can see on the Albacore's radar screen.

"There's talk along the wharves that we know just how many fish are aboard, or whether the legal limit of 500 pounds of crab per boat has been exceeded. Some of the men are sure that the very kinds of fish and size of catch can be seen as they are brought aboard, although we may be many miles away with fog and darkness making visibility zero."

Even though the Albacore's General Electric radar set can't do those things, it has proven a big help in the conservation fight. It enables the 83-foot boat to be out in any kind of weather, night and day. Previously, patrol boats sometimes stayed in a port a month or more in bad weather.

The viewing screen is calibrated so that the radar operator—and every member of the crew except the cook is an operator—can take dead reckoning. The little "blob" of light on the screen tells him whether a boat is a fisher or a coastwise tanker or an ocean-going vessel.

Boats More Effective

"Our boats are now much more effective," says Chief LaRue Chappell of the Commission's Bureau of Patrol and Law Enforcement, "especially in determining whether or not a boat is using a drag net within illegal waters. We can see whether the boats are moving or whether they are clustered within a certain area, which usually means the drag nets are out."

Poor enforcement of conservation laws has resulted in a depletion of fish along the Northern California shelf. Where once a catch was spoken of in tons and could be made within an hour, now it takes perhaps four hours to bring in a few hundred pounds.

Captain Dale thinks that the radar equipment will prevent violations, as well as result in the capture of violators. He adds that he would much rather prevent a violation of fishing regulations than catch an offender. With radar, he says, the Albacore will be able to move more quickly and surely.

The Commission, too, with an eye to the fall of fishing to fifth place in the state's industries, is interested primarily in conservation, not punishment.

"There is room for all, commercial and sports fishermen alike," says Chief Cappell. "Both businesses are valuable to the state, and we must not by neglect or ignorance ruin our good bounty."

TCU President Unable To Accept Senate's Speaking Invitation

FORT WORTH, May 5 (U.P.)—Texas legislators could have saved themselves a lot of time and trouble if they had just asked Dr. M. E. Sadler, TCU president, if he would be able to address them.

As it was, the lawmakers yesterday voted to hear an address by Dr. Sadler after defeat of a similar motion on the House floor.

But Dr. Sadler said he couldn't accept the invitation. He has not done any speaking at all since last November, upon the advice of his physician. And he doesn't plan to do any until next fall.

Dr. Sadler, who receives a daily average of four speaking invitations, said he was grateful for the invitation, his only regret being that "they did not speak with me about the matter before they brought it up."

STILL MUST SOLVE PROBLEMS

'Space Ship' Capable Of Flying 25,000 MPH Is Claimed Possible

By S. BURTON HEATH
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, May 5. — This may sound like somebody's pipe dream—but:

Solemn scientists and engineers actually are talking about the possibility of man-carrying airplanes that will fly at 25,000 miles an hour—planes that could go outside the earth's atmosphere, where no air friction would slow their speed, that could circle the earth at such speed their centrifugal force would offset the pull of gravity.

Out in sub-stellar regions, somewhere between here and the moon, the engineer could cut his engines. Then plane and crew could circle the earth forever—or, at least, until they got hungry and lonely and bored—without using any power.

When their job was done, or the crew members couldn't tolerate one another any longer, the engineer could start his engines, and the plane could fly back to where gravity took control. From there on the trip back to earth could be a coast-in.

Plane Not Impossible

"There are lots of things to be licked before we could do that," remarks Robert D. Grange, project engineer in the Wright Aeronautical Corp.'s gas turbine division, "but there's nothing that says it's impossible."

The experts do not flirt with such ideas out of idle curiosity, or even to provide future escape for folks who get fed up with human society. The military thinks such a "space ship" would be a valuable weapon.

It could hang in the sky, overlooking a full half of the earth's surface at once. With electronic devices, the crew could take control over atomic missiles, launched from the earth, and guide them unerringly to explode in the Times Square, the Wall Street, the Pennsylvania Avenue, the Willow Run of any enemy country that was no more than half a world away.

To Take Time

Obviously, nothing like this is just around the corner. But the rocket engine, perhaps even more than the possibility of atomic power, makes it an idea from which scientists of substance do not turn scornfully away.

Ignoring atomic power for the time being, the rocket engine is the only power plant that might make such a venture conceivable. For one thing, only the rocket engine could provide speeds from 23,000 to 25,000 miles an hour necessary to break through the earth's gravitational pull, so that the ship could coast along through space.

For another, engines and turbines and jets need air, as a source of oxygen to support combustion. But the rocket engine carries its own oxygen supply and it alone can operate above the 80,000-to-100,000 foot level at which the earth's atmosphere becomes too thin to support combustion efficiency.

Still Face Problems

There are several obvious major problems in connection with such a space ship. They start with the designing of a plane capable of building up, in a few hundred miles, to a speed of 25,000 miles an hour.

The cabin would have to stand a pressure of 14.7 pounds to the square inch, inside, against no pressure at all, outside, without exploding. Insulation would be needed against heat generated by air friction while moving 25,000 miles an hour in the earth's atmophere; and also against the fact that in space there would be no atmosphere to temper the sun's heat by day or to hold and distribute remnants of that heat by night.

In the absence of gravity's pull, there would be nothing to hold down the crew, or anything else that was loose.

The rocket engine still is in its infancy. It has been used on experimental fighter planes chiefly because, at the time no turbo-jets powerful enough were available. Its principal immediate interest is in connection with missiles of the V-2 type. It has helped to achieve manned-plane speeds unofficially estimated to have approached 1700 miles an hour—unmanned missile speeds up to about 4000 miles an hour.

Fuel Consumption Heavy

It has at least one major defect thus far. Its fuel consumption is so enormous that a rocket-powered plane can stay in the air only a few minutes.

The name "rocket" is deceiving. Its power does not come from a series of explosions from rockets, but from the continuous burning of a mixture of ethyl alcohol and liquid oxygen at a temperature around 5000 degrees fahrenheit.

The rocket engine actually is another jet engine that carries its own oxidizer instead of depending on the air. Like any jet, it expels high pressure, superheated gases from a rear nozzle, and these kick the plane along with the same reaction a heavy guage shotgun applies to the hunter's arching shoulder.

Very secret work is being done on new propellants to replace ethyl alcohol and liquid oxygen. Most are very poisonous and highly corrosive. Some will ignite with explosive suddenness the instant they come together, which creates a hazard to experimenters and adds to the problem of finding new materials to contain and utilize them.

The rocket engine can operate at any speed, but—unless working beyond the atmosphere at 16 to 20 mile altitudes—there is no excuse for using it until speeds from 2000 miles up are required.

Any use at lower speeds, now that turbo-jet and ram-jet are available, is not because of the rocket's own virtues, but merely to permit study and experiment with rockets before really speedy planes become available.

Patents On 'Wonder Drug' Are Assigned To Rutgers University

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 5 (U.P.)—Dr. Selman A. Waksman, one-time Russian immigrant and the discoverer of streptomycin, has assigned his patents on that and eight other drugs to Rutgers university where their royalties will found a $1,000,000 institute of microbiology, Dr. Robert C. Clothier, university president, announced today.

The exact amount of Waksman's accumulating gift was not disclosed. It was said, however, that the Russian-born scientist gave up a multi-million dollar fortune when he assigned the "wonder drug's" patent to the university's research and endowment foundation in 1946.

He made the assignment, he said, to express his gratitude to the United States for giving him shelter and opportunity as a young man and to help make such opportunity available to other poor students from all over the world.

Waksman came to this country in 1910 at the age of 22. He was graduated from Rutgers in 1915, received his Ph.D. from the University of California in 1918 and has been a member of the Rutgers faculty for more than 25 years.

Waksman will be the first director of the institute, Clothier said. The announcement said it was hoped construction would begin this year and the institute would be ready for use by May, 1951.

Nest Of Near-Extinct Cranes Found In Texas Game Refuge

CORPUS CHRISTI, May 5 (AP)—The first nest ever made by whooping cranes in captivity has been discovered on the Aransas National Wildlife refuge.

Two eggs and the nest of two captive whooping cranes were found yesterday by C. A. (Bud) Keefer, refuge manager.

He said it was the first nest discovered in the U. S. since 1890.

Keefer said only 33 whooping cranes are known to be living.

"If the eggs are hatched successfully the Aransas refuge may be the habitat for a revival of this great bird which is now nearing extinction," he declared.

The two captive cranes on the refuge near here were wounded in wings by hunters' guns and cannot fly. Three others—not in captivity—are spending this year on the lower end of the refuge.

They did not accompany the 28 other cranes who rose late in April to fly to their normal nesting grounds somewhere in the wilderness of South-Central Canada.

For three days the people of El Musel, near Gijon, Spain, mass-hunted a mole which had held up work for a week on the local football club's new grounds.

California Bill Proposes Ban On Television For Motorists

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 5. (U.P.)—"Soap operas should be heard but not seen" will be the advice of California police if the state senate concurs with the lower house in passing a bill.

The bill rules out television to motorists behind the wheel.

Drivers will have to content themselves with the old-fashioned radio. However, there is nothing in the legislation to prevent television from quieting back-seat hecklers.

LUBBOCK MORNING AVALANCHE
PAGE FOUR. LUBBOCK, TEX. FRIDAY, MAY 6, 1949

The Woman's Angle
By Ellen Miller

MOST people work on a newspaper 20 or 30 years before they settle back to write their memoirs.

But we are too impatient. A veteran of six weeks or so in the women's department, we are just bursting with answers to the question we hear ever so frequently, "What is it like to work in the women's department?

Most of the time we sit with both hands on a typewriter keyboard and one ear to the telephone (such a position takes a bit of practice, but is not impossible) and chat with our news sources.

Some of the women who call to report parties or club meetings simply tell us when and where the event was, who attended, and describe the decorations. They have all this information on the tips of their tongues, and they know how to spell all the names. We silently bless these people every time we talk with them. But, let's face it—they aren't very exciting.

NOW for sheer delirium, we also take calls from those women who think a newspaper reporter is akin to a detective—so they call and tell us that a club met, and that they want the names of the guests in the paper. Among the guests were Mrs. Smith, but they don't know her initials. "Go ahead and run it," they direct, "everybody knows Mrs. Smith."

Or they suggest that we ask some one else whether Mrs. Smith married a fellow named John or Sam. (We suppose they mean to ask the first stray person who drifts in. Just between us girls, that won't work.)

Sometimes the voice of the telephone gives us all the facts about a party in almost one breath. And when we thank them and ask if there is anything else, the voice suddenly gets shrill, and says, "But of course! That's just the headline!"

Innocently enough, we one day tried to explain why all the information couldn't be a headline, because it would take about eight columns. We were properly squelched when the voice told us that would be quite satisfactory.

One most busy afternoon 11 people asked us to look up addresses of people who were to be club hostesses. Of course, it doesn't take us much time to look up an address, but we, d a r e s a y, it wouldn't take the person calling much time either.

And then there are the people who want to give us guest lists. If such lists are long, we prefer that they be written out and brought or sent to the office . . . that is much faster than checking spelling of each name on the telephone. But sometimes we get caught because, when we ask how many guests are listed, the voice says, "Oh, not many," and then proceeds to give about 30 or 40 names.

And then there are the club reporters who tell us that they had a perfectly wonderful speaker at their meeting who said so many interesting things. Much pleased that we will have such an interesting account, we always ask what he said. And sometimes the reporter tells us, but sometimes she sounds pretty flustered and says, "Oh, he just talked. But it was very interesting and please give us a good writeup."

BECAUSE we are still rather new in the women's department these things sometimes confuse us. Our co-workers tell us that all this, plus the fact that needle club members seldom sew at club meetings, is perfectly natural and that we will get used to it all in time.

That is why we are writing this column now instead of waiting 20 years. We may have grown used to it all by then.

In Beautiful City On The Seine

American Is Interpreter, Guide On Tour Of Paris

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Margaret Turner, Lubbock Avalanche and Journal Woman's Editor, who is vacationing in Europe writes today of sights in Paris.)

PARIS—The stranger in Paris can wish for no better break than to have this beautiful city on the Seine interpreted to him by either a Parisienne or an American who has fallen in love with her and understands her equally as well. Today we were fortunate in being escorted over Paris by the latter, one John Robbins, a dramatic student, whose mother, Mrs. Mayme Robbins lives in Lubbock and Athens. It was a perfect ending for our stay here.

Under sponsorship of the American Express, Mrs. John Lynch, Miss Ruth Ford and the writer had spent three days on conventional tours of Paris and its environs. That was interesting because it made history pages come to life. We toured Paris proper and inspected Malmaison and went to Versailles. On our own we strolled over to the shopping districts on the Rue St. Honore and Place Vendom. We had our hair shampooed and set in Parisian style at Michel's; ate at a sidewalk cafe on the Rue de la Paix; attended the Opera Comique and bought a few gifts at Old England and the Lafayette Galleries.

Today was open on our schedule and we awoke with a sense of leaving Paris without knowing what she has that sets her apart from any other city in the world. And when John called and asked if we would like to have him accompany us to some of his favorite spots, we accepted quickly. Tonight we are glad that we did because today turned out to be the sort of which dreams are woven.

JOHN ROBBINS is a young man whose looks, and voice remind you of Dean James G. Allen. He is as enthusiastic over his adopted home as Dean Allen is over a good book and his interpretation of the real Paris was as interesting and inspiring as one of Jimmy's book reviews. Awaiting a call to Zurich, where he is to appear in a movie featuring Cornel Wilde, John is continuing his French studies here and living the life he loves.

First we went by taxi to Montmarte and visited Sacred Heart church, one of the city's splendors. We stood on the high hill over looking wide spreading Paris. From there we walked back through the narrow streets where artists and art students live, existing on rations that would be meager to us; denying their bodies but rinding a satisfaction in the arts, John, a confessed dreamer, said. Our walk continued through Pigalle, the sector so popular with the American soldiers, a spot which appears tame, and somewhat dirty in the morning hours.

TAKING a Metro, we went to Boulevard St. Germain, the section inhabited by the intellectuals. We ate lunch in Le Pre aux Clercs on Rue Bonaparte, a typical French restaurant, and from there caught a taxi to the Arc de Triomphe. This is Paris in the springtime and the chestnut trees along Champs-Elysees are in full bloom. One wondered if anyone had been left at home. Hundreds of persons were on the wide walks and leisurely picking their way across the streets. The boulevards are wide in Paris in order that the pedestrian may dodge the car driver and vice versa, John explained to us.

Since a week ago rationing has been lifted on most food stuffs and more gasoline is available than heretofore. We could note the difference from when we came through three weeks ago and saw only a few motorists. Today the streets were crowded.

WE went by elevator to the top of the Arc and again had an incomparable view of beautiful Paris, with John explaining high points. This is known as "the place of the star" because the avenues extend from the beautiful structure like star points. Descending we stood before the Memorial dedicated to France's unknown soldier and watched the eternal flame that was extinguished by Hitler's order but was lighted once more as soon as the American army marched in in 1944.

A brief call at the New York Herald-Tribune office was next on our agenda and from there we went back to the Champs-Elysees, window shopped at fashion stores, browsed in book shops and dropped in to buy perfume at one of the popular salons. The day had started with a chill wind, blowing gusts of rain, but by now the sun shone and the streets were thronged with an amazing group. No one seemed to hurry.

France's foreign currency black market, which had flourished since the nation's liberation five years ago, ended quietly this week and the rise in this country's economy, fortified by the ERP, can almost be felt. No longer do you see men scurrying along, hunting tourists to ask "Money exchange?"

Spring 1949 in Paris is gay, it is exciting, it is in our blood.

Lions Add Tents To Buffalo Lakes Girl Scout Camp

Five permanent tents have been added to Las Leonitas camp within the past two weeks, it has been announced. Las Leonitas is an established camp at Buffalo lakes for Lubbock Girl Scouts, which is being built and improved over a five-year period by Lubbock Lions club.

Finishing touches are being put on the new tents today; they are built off the ground and are constructed with four-foot side walls. Building program of the camp is in its second year. Both Las Leonitas camp and camping there are made possible by the Lions club, explained Mrs. Fentress.

Floods Follow Worst Italian Drought In 30-Year Period

ROME, May 5 (AP)—After the drouth the flood.

Japanese Plan Series Of One-Day Strikes

TOKYO, May 5 (AP) — Three times this month Japanese coal miners have gone out on strike.

But each day the strikes were called it was a legal holiday on which the miners would not have worked anyway.

The first was May day, the second Constitution day, May 3, and the third today—Childrens' day in Japan.

Neither employers nor allied occupation authorities were worried about the work stoppages.

But the 17,000 miners in Yamaguchi prefecture took their holiday today and declared they will strike tomorrow because it is useless to strike on days we would not have worked anyway."

The miners are bucking a management proposal to increase their output for the same day. A government effort at mediation has been rejected by the union men.

A second round of one day strikes is schedulel to begin on Saturday unless the issue is settled. Under the union plans workers in Hokkaido, Kyushu and Honshu will alternate in one day strikes.

HORSE NOT FAST ENOUGH

WELCH, W. Va. (AP)—It was the battle of the machine and the horse and once again the horse lost. This time it cost an alleged Army deserter his freedom. The serviceman was on horseback when police spotted him. They flagged a passing switch engine and chased the horse for a mile up the tracks. The horseman was nabbed at his home.

Oil Firm Starts Preliminary Seismograph Tests In Wyoming

GLENROCK, Wyo., May 5 (INS) The usually quiet ranching community of Glenrock was seething with oil excitement today as seismograph crews set off charges of dynamite right up to the city limits.

The Phillips Petroleum company has acquired oil leases throughout the area surrounding Glenrock, and has made plans to drill wildcat tests this summer.

Discovery of oil might lead to drilling of town lots, and speculation over this possibility already has doubled property values in Glenrock.

Ross Gardner, veteran attorney who specializes in oil leases, said: "I have never seen anything like it in my 32 years in Glenrock."

Nyasaland's maize, tea and tobacco crops were hard hit by drought this year.

DEFENSE SECRETARY WARNS AGAINST PROFITEERS

Johnson Says Dispersal Of Small Business Over U. S. Offers Best Defense Against Atom Bombing

By ALAN J. FUNCH
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 5 — Defense Secretary Johnson declared tonight that America's small businesses offer a natural defense against atomic bombing by the very nature of their dispersal over wide areas.

At the same time, the new national defense secretary turned the guns of his powerful oratory against "those few power-seeking and merger-mad corporation officials" whom he accused of threatening the basic freedoms of the United States.

He also blasted brokers who claim to have "influence in the right spots" to place defense contracts. He declared that he will drive them out of the national military establishment.

Industry Would Be Targets

Johnson, in a speech before the 37th annual meeting of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, asserted:

"None of us wishes war, but we must prepare for all contingencies.

"And if war does come and it proves to be an atomic war, we must assume the big industrial centers of our country will be among the first targets.

"The main burden of producing war material will then fall on the smaller plants which are scattered in the smaller cities and towns.

"Their very dispersion offers a special incentive in an atomic age for giving procurement orders to small business."

Sounds Blunt Warning

In his crack-down against "power-seeking and merger-mad corporation officials," the Defense Secretary declared:

"The enemies of our economic system are gambling on a hope that American big business, by concentrating more and more economic power in fewer and fewer business enterprises, will finally drive us into some form of the corporate state which can readily be seized by a small group of ruthless men to spell the death knell of freedom.

"The hundreds of thousands of small businessmen scattered throughout our land, together with our millions of independent farmers, are the essence of our Democracy—they are our basic safeguard against the dangers of statism."

Johnson emphasized that the national defense establishment is ready and willing to do business with the small firms in America, adding:

"There is no need for special brokers, for 15 percenters, for 10 percenters, for even five percenters. There is no need for anyone to intervene between small business and the government to procure government contracts.

"And to those who claim to sell 'influence at the right spots,' I say 'we will drive you out of the national military establishment!' And let those who engage in questionable brokerage activities heed this warning."

Clifton Webb To Star In 20th Century-Fox Film; Frank Buck Signed For New Picture

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
INS Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, May 5—"Cheaper By The Dozen," one of the funniest books ever written, will have Clifton Webb as its star. Darryl Zanuck bought it some time ago. Because "Mr. Belvedere Goes To College" has broken every record of every picture 20th has ever made, he's decided to put "Cheaper By The Dozen" into production in September with Mr. Belvedere as the star.

Webb will do eight other "Belvederes." Walter Lang, one of the top directors—and certainly the best comedy director on the lot, will handle this highly amusing story by Frank B. Gilbreth jr., and Ernestine Carey, his sister.

Hunter To Make Film

Frank (bring 'em back alive) Buck, who started his career as a bell boy, turned out to be an authority on tigers, cobras, leopards, pythons, etc., is going back to the jungle again after 11 years.

Mr. bring-em-back-alive has signed a contract with Richard Polimer to star in "They Kill To Live." He will play himself in the role of a big game captor in a sort of documentary way. The whole company, with Jean Wallace in the lead, will go to the Malay jungle, with Singapore as the base of operations.

Polimer leaves May 12 to make final arrangements for the trek.

Star Goes To Broadway

Kent Smith is packing his bags and heading back to Broadway to be Helen Hayes' leading man in "Good Housekeeping." He couldn't be happier—all of Helen's shows are solid gold at the box office. Besides, he has not worked with her in ten years when they did "Caesar and Cleopatra" (not to be confused with "Anthony and Cleopatra" which he did with Katharine Cornell).

Kent won't be forgotten by movie fans during his Broadway stint because he has "The Fountainhead" coming out.

"Good Housekeeping" is a dramatic comedy by William McCleary.

Betty Grable goes to work Monday on "Wabash." She is going to get that picture made before the Del Mar races start in August or else. There is nothing that Betty will let interfere with that month at the seashore and at the races.

James Barton, who was in "Tobaco Road," has been added to the cast. He will play a dipsomaniac. My friend, Reggie Gardiner, who has just become a father, will play a pickpocket.

Hubbers Edge Lamesa, 4-3

Fowler Scores Duarte For Win

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, May 5 — Chick Fowler slammed a double into left centerfield in the seventh inning here tonight to score Al Duarte from second with the run that gave the visiting Lubbock Hubbers a tight 4 to 3 victory over the Lamesa Loboes.

Fowler's third hit of the night broke up a fine mound duel between Charles Willis and Lefty Leon Hayes. It was Willis' first victory of the season and richly deserved. He set the Loboes down on six scattered hits, walked only four and struckout seven.

Took Lead Early

Lubbock piled up an early lead, scoring a run in the first and two in the second, but Lamesa came back with single tallies in the second and third to stay within shouting distance. The Hubbers and Loboes traded runs in the closing innings and Willis retired the side in order in the ninth for the victory.

Dan Pinto, Lobo centerfielder, was the defensive star of the night for the losers. His brilliant running catches, two of them on line drives, was responsible for the score being as close as it was.

Fowler was the offensive star for the Hubbers, with three hits in five trips. He beat out a bunt in the second, singled another time and his double gave Willis and the Hubbers a deserved victory.

A crowd of 1,350 persons paid their way into the park, possibly in the expectation of seeing another fracas such as took place Wednesday night. They were disappointed, but they saw one of the best games of the year here.

Walk Opens Scoring

Lubbock opened the scoring on Buddy McCallum's walk. He advanced to second on a passed ball and scored on Jim Prince's single. Two runs scored in the second. Fowler bunted and stole second, scoring on Willis' double to right center. Willis scored on Manager Jackie Sullivan's single.

Lamesa picked up one run in the second on a double by Glenn Selbo, walks to Eddie Mellilo and Frank Calo and Glenn Coats' infield out. With the bases loaded again followed Walt Buckel's being hit, Willis escaped trouble on a force play at the plate and an infield out. It was his roughest inning.

After that Lamesa got a run on a walk, a stolen base, an infield out and a single and the final run on a double by Pinto and single by Coats. In five of the nine innings, Lamesa went down in order.

Good, Better Fowler!

Feller Hurls First Victory Of Season As Tribe Crushes Bosox

Bengals Edge By Athletics, 6 To 5

CLEVELAND, May 5 (AP)—With Bob Feller going all the way for his first win of the season, the Cleveland Indians' sluggers crushed the Boston Red Sox, 7 to 3, today.

The Tribe did the trick with a big inning, the second. Six runs on six hits in that stanza included Ken Keltner's three-run homer.

It was followed on the next pitch by the first major league homer ever hit by Orestes Minoso, the young Cuban speedster who made his first major league start only yesterday.

Feller grew a little wild in the fourth inning, and it cost him a run. With two out, Billy Goodman singled and then the Cleveland fireballer walked Sam Mele, Mat Batts and pinch hitter Lou Stringer, forcing in Goodman.

Joe Gordon hit his fifth homer of the season in the fifth inning to end the Cleveland scoring.

Ted Williams drove out his fifth of the season for Boston in the eighth inning, followed in the same inning by Bobby Doerr's first homer of the year.

The loser was starter Jack Kramer, who was blasted from the box in the big second inning.

Lubbock Track Squad Enters State Meet

A five-man track squad will be Lubbock's representative at the thirty-ninth annual State Track and Field meet which gets underway this morning at Memorial stadium in Austin.

Sponsored by the Texas Interscholastic league, the meet is the climax to cinder activities throughout the state, and several Texas records have been posted as national schoolboy marks.

The Lubbock entries in the Region One meet here surprised everyone by taking first places away from Amarillo in several events, especially the 100-yard dash, 220-yard dash, and the 440-yard relay. In Austin the sprinters will be facing the Amarillo team and strong teams from South Texas in the same events.

The quintet of Lubbock thinclads are Donald Decker, Charlie Williams, Wayne Stroud, Malcolm Young, and Alfred Adair. Coach Fred Brown and Manager Davis Hopper made the trip with the boys by private car Thursday morning. The TIL arranged living accommodations for them in Austin prior to their arrival.

Decker and Williams are entered in the century, and Decker will run the 200-low hurdles. Williams will be entered in the 220-yard dash and the broad jump, and Young will also enter the 220.

Tornado Nine Slates Game

LAMESA, May 5 (Special) — Lamesa High school's Golden Tornadoes, still holding securely to first place in District 3-AA standing despite a 5-1 upset loss to Sweetwater here Tuesday, journey to Big Spring Friday to meet the oft-beaten Steers in a district contest.

The Tornadoes, with seven wins and two losses in district play, have only San Angelo to contend with for the district title. Lamesa has three games left to play, meeting San Angelo here Tuesday and Abilene later in a make-up tilt at a date to be named.

Coach Jack Wetzel has named Lefthander Royce King to hurl against the Steers. King has two victories against no losses, including a shutout, this season.

The Tornadoes, whose seven-game winning streak was spoiled by Sweetwater, are in good shape for tomorrow's tilt and in no mood to take another beating at the hands of an underdog opponent.

Weather Slows Westerner Drill

Westerner baseball practice the past two days has been slowed by the weather, and the conditioning for the playoffs in District 1-AA is not on schedule.

Thursday afternoon a wet field prohibited practice, but moving pictures were shown the team of big league hitting and pitching. Among the hitting stars shown on the screen were Ted Williams, Johnny Mize, Lou Boudreau, Stan Musial, and Joe DiMaggio. Demonstrating pitching were Robert Feller, Ewell Blackwell, and others.

No definite schedule of playoff games has been set, but they will be played next week. Lubbock won the south half of the district with six consecutive wins, but the north half race has been nip and tuck all the way. Borger and Amarillo are the only teams with a chance of winning, and Amarillo has an edge over Borger, having lost only one game to two losses for Borger.

Amarillo has cinched a tie for the top half crown, and if Borger should lose the tilt today with Pampa or the other tomorrow with the Sandies they will be out of the running.

Coach Fred Taylor indicated that he would go to Borger Saturday for the game between the Bulldogs and the Sandies and make arrangements for the playoff to decide the District 1-AA winner.

Browns Trade Al Zarilla To Red Sox For Stan Spence, Cash

ST LOUIS, May 5 (AP) — The St. Louis Browns said today they have traded outfielder Al Zarilla to the Boston Red Sox for outfielder Stan Spence "and a cash consideration."

The 29-year-old Zarilla was the leading Browns hitter last year with .329 He was fourth in the American league. Spence, 34, batted .235 for Boston last season.

The 440-yard relay quartet will be composed of Stroud, Young, Williams and Decker.

Adair will handle the Westerner end of the pole vault and high jump. The local vaulter has cleared 11 feet this season, and with a good day he could take the pole vault title. In the high jump he will have to do better than his best so far this year, because the mark at the meet is expected to go above six feet.

Chances for a team prize are slim for the local team, but it would not be surprising if the boys placed high in several of the events entered. Decker's best time in the 100-yard dash this year has been 10 flat, and the expected time at Austin is below 9.9.

Williams was slowed all year with a pulled muscle in his right leg, but in the past three weeks he has been running at near top form and should better 22 seconds in the 220-yard dash. He will probably have to run that time to qualify for the finals on Saturday.

State Meet To Open

Over 500 Athletes Go After Titles

AUSTIN, May 5. (AP)—The Texas Interscholastic League's biggest sports show of the year—the three-way state track and field meet—goes on tomorrow.

More than 500 athletes enter preliminaries in the battle for championships of Class AA, Class A and Class B with Corpus Christi, Falfurrias and White Oak the respective favorites. Tight fights are indicated, in the AA and B divisions.

Amarillo's Golden Sandies, making their first serious bid for a state title in track, could beat out Corpus Christi with no great surprise. The relays, in which Corpus Christi appears superior, may decide the title. Amarillo is strong in the mile relay but so is Corpus Christi while the latter is favored to win the 440-yard relay.

Both teams have plenty of point potentials in individuals. George McCormick of Amarillo is likely to win the half mile. Jimmie Clifton is due to place high in the broad jump, Bob Whiddon should be around the top in the high jump, Charles Seiber is a strong contender both in the shot and discus and Galen Fowler is a threat in the sprints.

Falfurrias Is Favored

Corpus Christi's Bobby Dean is one of the state's greatest sprinters, Joe Carson is a leading high hurdler, Manuel Gonzales is one of the best half-milers, Bob Prather is a likely winner in the pole vault and Jack Little should place in the shot put.

Falfurrias is a heavy favorite in Class A. This school appears to have both the top relay teams, the leading quarter-miler in Gilberto Munoz and a point-making broad jumper in Alonzo Lopez. No other school can boast such balance.

White Oak faces a tough fight from Refugio. The former figures on winning both the 100-yard dash and 200-yard low hurdles with its Sonny Mitchell, placing high in the 220-yard dash with its Tommy Mercer and getting valuable points in both relays. Refugio's J. P. Neeley is favored in the 220-yard dash and rated high in the 100. Refugio has a top 440-yard relay team.

Woodsboro, with its Jerry Henry in the pole vault and Lew Gilcrease in the shot and discus and Marfa with its Reymundo Roman in the 100-yard dash, Eliseo Flores in the high jump, Tommy Lee in the broad jump and a crack mile relay team are very much in the title picture.

Record May Be Broken

One overall state record appears in danger. That is the discus mark of 155 feet 8½ inches set by Byron Townsend of Odessa last year. R. Lawrence Strickland of Tyler did 164 feet 3 inches in the regional meet this season.

A number of division marks are likely to fall. Those in greatest danger are the broad jump in Class AA of 21 feet 6 inches. John Cavileer of Austin has done 21 feet 11¾ inches and Amarillo's Clifton has leaped 21-11. Barfield should set a Class A record in the pole vault. The record is 11 feet and Barfield has soared 11 feet 4¾ inches this season. Dale Gosnell of Spring Hill turned in a 1:58.7 for the half-mile in the regional meet and should wipe out the Class B state record of 2:04.0.

Preliminaries are to begin at 8:45 a. m. tomorrow and continue throughout the day. Finals will start at 2 p. m. Saturday.

Mike Jacobs Will Bow Out

NEW YORK, May 5. (AP)—Mike Jacobs, who for a dozen years has bossed boxing more than anyone since Tex Rickard, quietly bowed out today.

Jacobs silently nodded in agreement as John Reed Kilpatrick, president of Madison Square Garden, said Jacobs' 20th Century Sporting Club would relinquish its promotional rights to a new corporation. The new group will be allied with the International Boxing Club of Chicago.

Actually the change won't take place until June 1, when Jacobs' leases for boxing at the Garden and "elsewhere," including Yankee stadium, will be transferred to a new corporation which is in the process of formation.

But for all practical purposes, this means Jacobs had relinquished his active role as a boxing promoter and Joe Louis the man whom Mike guided to world championship heights, will take his place.

The extent of the alliance between the new and unnamed corporation which will supplant the 20th Century Club in New York and the International Boxing Club, recently organized by Louis, James D. Norris and Arthur M. Wirtz of Chicago, has not been determined.

It will be "very close," Kilpatrick said.

LOUIS' IBC WILL JOIN UP WITH NBC FOR TELECASTS

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 5 (INS) — The Milwaukee Sentinel learned today that the National Broadcasting Co., will affiliate with Joe Louis' International Boxing Club in televising boxing shows.

The Sentinel learned that with consumation of the deal whereby Mike Jacobs was bought out by an organization closely affiliated with the IBC, the way has been paved for the resumption of talks between NBC and Arthur Wirtz, one of the partners in the International Boxing Club.

Sidney Stroz, vice president in charge of the western division of NBC, told the Sentinel from Los Angeles:

"Negotiations between NBC and the International Boxing Club have been going on for some time. They halted while the deal between Madison Square Garden and the new promotional organization was in progress. Now that everything is settled, I expect to hear from Mr. Wirtz shortly. Our meeting, in which we hope to iron out details, will probably be held in either Chicago or New York.

Brooklyn Noses Out Cincinnati, 7 To 5

BROOKLYN, May 5 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds hooked up in a home run duel today with the Brooks coming out on top, 7-5.

The Reds took care of Dodger starter Jack Banta in the third with three runs. Hank Sauer clouted a homer behind a double by Danny Litwhiler for two markers. The other was scored on two hits and a pair of walks.

Barney Schotton's men came back in the sixth with four tallies, to finish Red starter Herman Wehmeier.

Cox singled home Jackie Robinson and Gene Hermanski who had opened with hits. Gil Hodges then whacked his first home run of the year, scoring Cox.

Trick Shot Golfer To Exhibit Here

Joe Kirkwood, nationally famous as a trick shot golf artist, as well as a fine tournament player, will be in Lubbock Tuesday afternoon for a special exhibition.

Kirkwood, who is playing his way East, will stop off at the Lubbock Country club for over three hours. He will play a nine-hole match and follow that with a combination trick shot demonstration and golf clinic.

Golfers Urged To Attend

The famed golfer is coming here through the efforts of the Country club. It will probably be his only appearance in West Texas and definitely will be the only one in this area. He plays Albuquerque, N. M., on Sunday.

All golfers, whether amateur or professional, high school or college, are urged to attend the demonstration Tuesday. Kirkwood first will play a nine-hole match with Herb Schroeder and two amateurs. The amateurs will be announced later.

The golf match will begin at 3 p. m. and will take the better part of two hours. At approximately 5 p. m., Kirkwood will stage a demonstration of his famed trick shots. They have always been popular throughout the nation and he is considered the greatest living exponent of trick golf.

Golf Clinic Slated

The trick shot demonstration will be followed by a golf clinic, during which Kirkwood will explain the correct swing, demonstrate various shots, answer questions and assist persons with golf problems.

Tickets for the golf match, trick shot demonstration and golf clinic will sell for $1.50 each and may be obtained at the Lubbock Country club or from club members.

Field Of 14 Horses Expected For Kentucky Derby Saturday

LOUISVILLE, May 5. (AP)—This fine old capital of the distillery belt is sweltering as the diamond jubilee Kentucky Derby draws nigh. More and more horse owners are deciding to take a shot at Olympia in Saturday's $100,000 classic.

Only four horses ran against last year's great Citation-Coaltown coalition, so it is obvious Olympia's rivals do not consider him quite in the same class with the Calumet bullets. Unless Saturday's track is deep in mud, it is virtually certain 14 will start.

Latest to succumb to the "Olympia can be beat" urge is a woman owner and trainer named Mrs. Albert Roth, who has a colt named Senecas Coin.

"He's got four legs," said Mrs. Roth, a trim figure in jodhpurs, "and a miracle could happen. Maybe it will take a miracle for any horse to beat Olympia."

Longhorns Blank Mustangs, 9 To 0

AUSTIN, May 5 (AP)—The Texas Longhorns blanked Southern Methodist 9-0 here today, mounting a 12-hit attack on two Pony pitchers that was highlighted by first baseman Tom Hamilton's two home runs.

Hamilton, who also hit a single to go with his roundtrippers, drove in five runs. Right fielder Ed Kneuper also hit a four-bagger.

Irwin Kay started for SMU but was shelled from the hill after four innings and was succeeded by Bob Argadine. Argadine gave up but two hits—both home runs with none on—the rest of the way.

Murray Wall toiled five frames for Texas, and Frank Womack finished up. Wall fanned six batters, Womack eight, and they split SMU's six hits between them.

The line score:

Byron Nelson Leads Texas PGA Tourney

DALLAS, May 5 (AP)—Byron Nelson, one-time king of professional golf, fired a three under par 68 today to lead after the first round of the Texas PGA tournament.

Nelson was among the early finishers.

The tournament's defending champion, now in semi-retirement from competitive golf and operating a farm at Roanoke, Tex., had two rounds of 34.

Harry Todd of Dallas and Chuck Klein of Amarillo turned in 70s.

Bunched behind these two were Gene Mitchell of Plainview, Jack Harden of El Paso and Iverson Martin of Graham at 71.

Tourney Play In 5-B Opens Today

Play in the District 5-B baseball tournament begins at 12 noon today at Rosenthal field. and New Home will advance to the second round Saturday without playing its scheduled game.

Ropesville was unable to field a team and forfeited the game. Teams playing today will be Robertson and Idalou at 12. Frenship and Lorenzo at 2; and Shallowater and Roosevelt at 4 p. m.

The winner of the district will play the District 6-B champion in the bi-district. Class B teams do not advance to the state finals, but complete the play in bi-district.

Rosenthal field has been used for the tournament the past three years. Umpires will be furnished by the teams, one each from each school playing, and the conference will supply two regulation balls for each contest. If more balls are required, the contesting teams will purchase them.

Admission to each session will be 25 and 50 cents, and coaches will be allowed to pass a maximum of 15 players.

Lubbock Group Presents Tech Program

200 Potential Work Seekers Get Tips On Applying For Job

The "How To Apply For A Job" forum Thursday night in Tech Engineering auditorium packed the hall with over 200 potential job seekers.

The program, presented by Lubbock Personnel association, was presided over by Nat Kizer, VA personnel officer, and included discussions by employers and personnel directors of various concerns.

Employers repeatedly emphasized that personal appearance, and mannerisms revealing character traits, are of prime importance, and suggested that applicants learn as much as possible about prospective employers, and the jobs involved, so that a favorable impression may be made.

Should Get Experience

J. P. Watt, of Lubbock Auto company, stressed personal salesmanship stating that it is a lifetime propostion. Replying to the eternal question "What if the job requires experience?" he answered, tongue in cheek, "go out and get a little experience."

B. T. O'Connell, of Texas Employment commission, stressed that an applicant should dress appropriately for the job he expects, and pointed out that employers look with disfavor on an application containing a large number of previous jobs held in a short time. He suggested that jobs of short duration, held while students, not be listed on a formal application blank.

Suggestions Offered

A point brought out by B. Watkins, assistant manager of Dunlaps, was the fact that many employers look upon a new employe as an investment, and an applicant is wise to show how he may be of value to the employer.

W. D. Rogers, jr., sales manager of Coca Cola company, said that in many instances the receptionist, or secretary, makes or breaks an applicant, and strongly recommended full attention of job seekers in this direction.

J. H. Botik, of Purina Mills, made suggestions regarding filling out of application forms, and stated that as a general rule it is better not to give relatives as references.

Miss Marion Simmons, personnel superintendent of Sears Roebuck, said that interest, aptitude, and self-possessed, poised, confidence, is more important than experience alone. The "hard to get" applicant, she said, is successful only in the movies, or after achievements have been proven.

W. H. Bacus, VA personnel assistant, talked on general problems of the applicant, and Argo Peek, city personnel director, presented typical interviews, good and bad, calculated to aid future applicants.

said towns captured below the Yangtze included Shunan, Chiki, Sihsien, Wuyuan and Wannien.

This would seem to give the Reds a front of about 160 miles wide, stretching southwest from a point 80 miles southwest of Communist-held Hangchow to a point 60 miles east of Nanchang.

(The Peiping broadcasts as heard in San Francisco by the Associated Press reported surrender of 2,000 government troops at Chiki and 6,400 at Sihsien, indicating little or no fighting.)

Another Peiping voicecast heard in Shanghai said six government planes dropped more than 30 bombs on a Peiping airfield.

BRITISH TO BOLSTER HONG KONG DEFENSES

LONDON, May 5 (INS)—Defense Minister A. V. Alexander announced tonight that RAF fighter planes are part of "substantial reinforcements" being sent to strategic Hong Kong off the coast of embattled China.

The British minister declared Britain "does not intend to become involved" in the Chinese civil war but that a "very vigilant watch" will be kept on the status of Kong Kong, the "Gibraltar of the east."

Alexander said up to six battalions, of approximately 6,000 men, will be stationed in the crown colony.

The war office announced later that the first battalion of the Leicestershire regiment stationed in Leicester is scheduled to sail May 11 for Hong Kong.

Alexander replied at the opening of a debate on China. He spoke after Conservative Harold MacMillan attacked the government for what he termed "faulty appreciation of the situation and a serious lack of judgment" when Chinese Communists riddled four British warships in the Yangtze river recently and killed scores of British seamen.

MacMillan accused the government of a "masterpiece of mismanagement" and called for a Pacific pact to "buttress and support the Atlantic pact."

Hong Kong, he said, "must be held," and it must be made clear to the Chinese Communists that any attack on it will be regarded as aggression "with the necessary consequences."

views.

The labor committee chairman predicted that the final form of the new bill would be along the lines of the defeated administration compromise, with some of the provisions objectionable to labor "tamed down."

Mr. Truman also told the news conference that he was anxious for the Senate to pass the bill enabling him to reorganize the executive branch of the government. Unless this is done he will not be able to carry out any of the recommendations of the commission headed by former President Hoover.

He is considering Wright Morrow of Texas for an ambassadorship, the President said in answer to another question.

Students Call Strike At Sulphur Springs

SULPHUR SPRINGS, May 5 (AP) — Striking Sulphur Springs High school students met in the town square tonight and demanded that the school board drop reported plans to dismiss Principal H. C. Cheek.

Spokesman for the group—and principal speaker at the meeting of about 200 pupils—was the senior class president, Billy Wayne Harry. He is also co-captain of the high school football team.

Today about half the students—100 to 150—walked out of classes shortly before noon. They paraded through downtown streets and held a meeting at the square. They carried signs, some saying "no Cheek, no school."

There has been no confirmation of school board action against Cheek, a long-time teacher here and a favorite among pupils. The gray-haired principal, who began here as a teacher, reportedly asked the students to return to their classes. They refused.

Tonight Cheek was believed to be attending a banquet at Greenville.

Some of the students said they will picket the school tomorrow, and not attend classes, if Cheek's position is not declared secure.

Liquor Charges Filed

each charge against each individual was set by County Judge Emzy Pieratt at a court hearing here last Monday.

Those charged are J. S. Pruitt, Paul Boyd, Forest Shearin, and Lewis Flowers, a negro, all of Ralls, and Olen Ogle, W. J. Wallace, and Lawrence Boggs, all of Crosbyton.

At a preliminary hearing held in Crosbyton before Justice of the Peace H. R. Nickson, in the absence of County Judge Pieratt, bond of $1,000 was set for each of the men to appear in county court before Judge Pieratt Monday morning.

At the Monday court session, Pruitt, 74, pleaded guilty to two liquor law violation charges and not guilty to two others. He was fined $250 for each of the two guilty pleas and sentenced to 60 days in jail.

Fines Are Assessed

Flowers pleaded guilty to one charge and not guilty to four others, and was fined $250 and sentenced to 30 days in jail.

Shearin pleaded guilty to one charge and not guilty to another. He was fined $250. His 30-day jail sentence was waived because of an infant child of his.

Boyd, who until recently had operated a filling station at Ralls, was charged with five separate violations, to which he pleaded not guilty. Boggs, charged with possession of liquor, also pleaded not guilty.

Wallace pleaded not guilty to six separate charges.

Car Also Seised

Taken into custody along with Ogle was a heavy Chrysler Town and Country convertible coupe in which 5½ cases of beer were found. A total of six violations were charged against Ogle, five liquor sale charges and one transportation charge, to which he pleaded not guilty.

The automobile has been placed in a bonded warehouse, awaiting outcome of the forthcoming trial.

With the exception of the transportation charge against Ogle and the possession charge against Boggs, the charges all are liquor sale violations.

The raids were staged April 29, and all men except Boyd and Boggs were taken into custody at that time. The other two were brought in after returning from out of town trips Boggs from Oklahoma City, and Boyd from Glen Rose. Accounts of the action were made known tonight.

With the exception of Pruitt and Flowers, who are not eligible for bond, and Wallace, all have posted the necessary bond, county officials said.

Meanwhile, a large number of Crosby county voters is expected to turn out Saturday. County officials have estimated the vote will be somewhere in the neighborhood of 1,800. There are approximately 2,000 qualified voters in the county.

The United Drys of Crosby County, who for the past several weeks have conducted a vigorous campaign throughout the county, have called off a parade of young people here which they had planned for Friday.

our rights under our union contract."

"There is only one conclusion for us to draw," the statement added. "This strike is the result of arbitrary action by the union, and the company and our employes are the victims."

Picket lines formed at both Rouge and Lincoln plants right on the deadline. Sound trucks blared instructions.

Speed of production has been an issue since late last year at the Rouge plant. Officers of the union made repeated efforts to head off a strike, but the local forced their hand Tuesday by calling one regardless. The international executive board quickly authorized the walkout.

The Lincoln strike was authorized earlier.

Reuther told a press conference: "Ford has a right to expect treatment from this union comparable with that given other companies."

He charged Ford was seeking "a competitive advantage" by stepping up output. He said he had proof of the speed-up.

Peace Hopes Boosted

tatoes and other vegetables, were dubious about the long-range aspects.

The announcement formally signifying an end to one phase of the cold war between Russia and the western democracies was made simultaneously in the United States, Britain, France, and the Soviet Union.

No strings were attached to the lifting of the blockade imposed by Russia last June and the counter-blockade created by the Western Powers. The agreement was unconditional on both sides.

Secretary of State Acheson promptly affirmed that he will head the American delegation at the Paris conference, first big four meeting in 17 months.

The problem of Germany is the chief matter confronting the foreign ministers. But the State department let it be known that other differences which have contributed to the cold war can be added to the agenda.

Democracies Hail Move

Capitals of Democratic nations greete dthe big four announcement with elation. Berlin itself rejoiced and hailed the agreement as a western victory.

But the State department refrained from official comment. Some officials warned against too much optimism, mindful of the futility which has marked many past negotiations with Russia.

However, the business world shared the hopefulness of the man in the street. In New York, news of the blockade-lifting affected the stock market like a shot in the arm.

The agreement came about through informal talks conducted over a period of months between United Nations Delegates Philip C. Jessup of the United States and Yakov Malik of Russia.

Stalin Omits Issue

Thte talks stemmed directly from Soviet Premier Stalin's historic question-and-answer exchange with J. Kingsbury Smith, European general manager of International News Service.

Stalin in emphasizing to Smith his desire for peace conspicuously omitted mention of the German currency problem, the ostensible Soviet reason for imposing the blockade.

Diplomatic observers attributed to these principal reasons the Russian switch from the previous policy of stubborn refusal to lift the blockade until the whole German problem had been threshed out:

Reasons Given

1. Communist successes in China afforded Russia a psychological opportunity to move for accord on Germany without loss of face.

2. The extraordinary success of the Berlin airlift increased the prestige of the Western Powers throughout Europe.

3. The western counter-blockade brought economic hardship to Russia and her satellites.

Significance also was attached to the fact that the Russian policy change occurred after Andrei Vishinsky replaced V. M. Molotov as Soviet foreign minister and after Dean Acheson succeeded Gen. George C. Marshall as U.S. secretary of state.

The Kremlin's agreement to end the blockade 11 days before the foreign ministers' meeting was regarded as a major concession by Russia.

Bee County Rancher Is Victim In Axe Slaying; Employe Held

BEEVILLE, May 5. (AP)—Glenn W. Clare, 66, Bee county rancher, was killed today by an employe who split the rancher's head with an axe, highway patrolman R. F. Kirkpatrick said.

Kirkpatrick arrested the employe two hours after the killing. Clare was working in an excavation repairing a leaky cistern when the employe attacked him, the patrolman said.

Clare's survivors include his widow, and two sisters, Mrs. Chrys Wood, Beeville, and Mrs. Effie Lemert, Cedar Vale, Kans.

Attorneys Freed After Flareup

fice of county jail and with Carr and Judge Davies at the courthouse. The attorneys requested that both sides in the controversy make concessions so that the misunderstanding could be ended quickly.

Both sides listened to the emissaries, newsmen were told, and Judge Davies picked up his phone and called the sheriff, instructing that the attorneys be released immediately.

They had been under court commitment slightly more than an hour at that time, although had gone upstairs as a guest of the sheriff and eaten luncheon with him in the jail kitchen pending delivery to the sheriff of a lengthy commitment dictated by Carr and signed by Judge Davies.

Would Not Identify Defendant

Contempt was adjudged after Carr had insisted that the defense attorneys, Burks and McNeil, announce whether the defendant in the case of State of Texas against Sidney Hall was "in the courtroom."

Burks informed the court that he and McNeil were in court as "lawyers, not witnesses." He contended that identification of his client had a legal significance in the trial inasmuch as the state had indicated it would attempt to prove two former liquor law violation convictions against the defendant as a prerequisite to asking an enhanced penalty. Further he said, there were other methods available to the state to identify the defendant, including the calling of a state witness who made the arrest.

Both sides were firm in their insistence. Carr asked assistance of the court and the court bailiff, Dep. Sheriff F. R. Land, and even called the name of the defendant himself, asking that the defendant, if in court, identify himself. But, the state charged, Burks was obdurate and even whispered to the negro sitting beside him at the counsel table, so that the negro too gave no answer. And, it was contended, McNeil proved equally uncooperative.

Claim Commitment In Error

Finally, Burks addressed the court, saying he had no intention of violating court decorum but explaining that he had an obligation recognized under the constitution and the law to protect his client from "giving evidence against himself." If that stand constitutes contempt, he said, "I must pause to await the court's action. . ."

Judge Pardue had set 4 o'clock as the time for hearing testimony upon the habeas corpus remedy.

The court freely announced that he would not disturb the finding of Judge Davies, Blair told newsmen directly after Judge Pardue had authorized issuance of the writ.

Burks and McNeil were visited by numerous attorneys in an office on the ground floor of county jail. Burks and McNeil said the commitment was in error in part. A portion of the court reporter's transcripts, for instance, refutes the commitment charge that the defense attorneys "refused to announce ready for trial. . ."

The court reporter, Miss Georgia Cheney, prepared excerpts from her notes. One revealed this exchange:

"Carr: Is the defendant in the courtroom?

"Burks: We are ready."

Burks Gives Stand

Burks told newsmen after his release that Carr was talking with Hall, a negro, in the courthouse corridor when he and McNeil went to court Thursday morning.

"Just been talking with your client," Burks said Carr told him.

He related the incident to support his contention that Carr "knew the defendant and did not need to ask our client to give evidence against himself in court." Further, he said, Judge Davies already had signed two judgments against the defendants within the last two years, and accordingly would be presumed to know him.

No official announcement had been made but it was presumed by newsmen and attorneys in the case that Hall will not be tried before the jury selected Thursday.

Clifford Brown, associate member of the firm and Miss Thelma Felton, firm secretary, were kept busy answering the telephone most of the afternoon as friends of the attorneys, hearing of what had happened, called to make inquiries or to "rib" them.

Burks, former district attorney, and McNeil later told newsmen "both sides acted in good faith, but probably unfortunately in some respects. He laughed at the incident as he spoke—especially when McNeil referred to him as "jailbird."

"No Comment," Says Burks

"No comment," Burks said when newsmen visited him and McNeil as they ate their lunch with Sheriff Harrist in the jail kitchen.

Neither was under formal commitment at that time.

"Me too," McNeil said.

Both were laughing and attacking their food with evident enjoyment.

They had macaroni and cheese, coffee and milk, sliced bread, blackeyed peas and, for dessert, canned sliced peaches. Harrist had even thoughtfully provided a tablecloth for the men.

Both shook their heads when asked if they would pose for pictures. Later, however, they did pose.

"See My Lawyer"

"I'll talk with you off the record, of course," Burks said. "Long as you like, as usual. But there's a legal adage that goes something like, 'A lawyer who undertakes to represent himself represents a fool.' I'd prefer that you see my lawyer."

Who was his lawyer?

No comment except, "This food surely is good."

McNeil, looking like he'd had enough to eat, watched Burks lift a forkful then essayed another bite himself.

Blair said he was in the courtroom when the climactic action took place.

"It was about three minutes until noon," he said "Mr. Burks, according to my conception of the facts in the case that was being tried before Judge Davies, was within his rights in efforts to represent his client's interests in not acceding to the court's order. Identity of the defendant has peculiar bearing in this case, since the state seeks to prove two final convictions in similar cases against a man named Sidney Hall. Mr Burks was merely taking the position that there were other methods available to the state in proving identity."

Workers Find Copy Of 1911 Avalanche

Workmen tearing brick and stone columns from the front of the First National bank building Wednesday came across a 1911 edition of the Lubbock Avalanche and the bank's president, Walter E. Posey was exhibiting it to old timers Thursday.

The paper was deposited in one of the columns by W. M. Crawford, who owned a drug store next door to the bank at the time. Mr. Crawford recalled Thursday having deposited the paper in the column when the bank building was under construction. The paper, in good condition, bore a pencilled signature of Mr. Crawford and the date, Sept. 27, 1911.

Tearing down of the columns is a portion of the remodeling job going on at the bank. A complete new exterior of tile is being put on the building. Interior remodeling is also being done.

Cool Front Expected

and record shattering heat wave gripped much of the nation Thursday from the Mississippi river to the Atlantic seaboard. However, a snowstorm blocked U. S. Highway 30 in Wyoming and traffic-halting snowdrifts stopped travel. More than 100 cars and trucks and two buses were reported snowbound in the area. Snow measured 15 inches at Rock Springs.

The Weather Bureau reported readings of 91 in Chicago, and similar high readings along the Atlantic seaboard.

Lubbock received .75 inch precipitation between 11:14 p. m. Wednesday and 4:55 a.m. Thursday, according to measurement at the weather station and other points on the South Plains received precipitation in varying amounts. The measurement at the experiment station was .53 inch Wednesday night.

South Plains farmers were more anxious for sunshine than rain today, so they may complete preplanting work and may plant cotton.

The cotton planting time for the majority of farmers in the area is from May 10 to 20, said Don L. Jones, experiment station superintendent.

Jones said the outlook from the standpoint of soil moisture is "excellent for this time of year."

Other points on the South Plains shared in Wednesday night's precipitation. Ralls reported 1.05 rain was received. Wind was strong there most of the time. Rain apparently was general in that vicinity.

Reports From Lamesa

From Lamesa, information was received Thursday that the precipitation measurement was .09 inch and that heavier rain estimated at about one-half inch was received at Munger, 12 miles northwest of Lamesa. Moisture up to one inch was estimated in Hancock vicinity, eight miles northeast of Lamesa. Light showers were received in the east part of the county. Wind was high. No hail was received.

Reports had been received earlier of rainfall at Littlefield, Muleshoe, Denver City, Plainview, Levelland, Brownfield and other towns in the area.

Participants in the Del Rio conference will bo to Saltillo, Saturday on invitation of Governor Paul Lopez Sanchez of the state of Coahuila. The governor is to meet with the group Monday. A large delegation representing the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Latin-American commission is expected to press for development of the Big Bend park and the transportation proposals.

Brownfield Man Held In Charge Of Theft

Earl Edward Kerr, 37, of Brownfield, indicted in the January term of the 99th district court on a charge of theft by bailee of a typewriter valued at more than $50 was arrested Thursday by Dep. Sheriff Buel Powell of Terry county.

The arrest followed approximately a half-hour after Powell had been requested to assist the Lubbock sheriff's department in apprehending the man.

Kerr was returned here Thursday afternoon by Dep. Sheriff Earl Horton of the Lubbock department.

The sheriff's department here was investigating a burglary of an irrigation wellhouse belonging to R. E. Jones. Burglars who inched their way into the wellhouse through wellpipe, removed 34 quarts of oil the complainant said.

George A. Thomas, jr., 29, of Martinsville, Va., was arrested here yesterday after receipt of a telegram from Sheriff M. T. Prillaman of Martinsville.

A fugitive complaint, charging sale of mortgaged property, was filed in the court of D. W. Robertson, justice of the peace, by Leroy Boling, jr., city detective.

Thomas, who had signed a waiver of extradition to Virginia, last night was released on $1,000 bond.

City police said a $20 lawnmower had been stolen from the 1808 Ave. U residence of L. M. Pelley.

Negro Girl Charged

was still critical. Blood transfusions were being given.

The girl told Salyars that she had left the cafeteria earlier in the afternoon when she finished her duties in the "dish room," but had returned shortly before 5 p. m. to wait for her husband to get off work at 8 o'clock. He was employed as a dishwasher, she said.

The argument over the cigarets started about 7:15 p. m., she said, about a half hour prior to the stabbing.

She said she had placed the pack "in my bosom," and that Mims had tried to remove them by force twice. After foiling the attempts, she said, she had walked over to a table and picked up a butcher knife. She stated that she slapped him "on the behind" with the flat edge of the knife when he turned to do some work in the kitchen.

Picks Up Knife

Later, she said, she went to the washroom, leaving the butcher knife on the top of an icebox.

Mims, according to her statement, later followed her to the washroom and told her that he was going to get the cigarets. When she used a curse word in addressing him, he reprimanded her and told her that he wanted her "to mind him."

She picked up an old "boning" knife, she said, and was cutting some paper with it as she talked with him. He grabbed the knife and threw it in the trash can, she added.

A few minutes later in the course of the argument, he struck her and knocked her down near the trash can. Then she retrieved the knife, she told Salyars.

When she stood up with the knife, she explained, he grabbed her and pulled her to him, receiving the stab wound in the chest at the same time.

He knocked her down and struck her several times before he staggered out of the washroom and collapsed on the floor, she finished.

Several other negro women, all employes of the cafeteria, were in the kitchen, but did not witness the altercation in the washroom.

The charge against the girl was prepared by Salyars and filed in the justice court of C. E. Lynn.

College Money Bills

Finance committee noted that the first draft of the Senate bill contained no fund for improvements and repairs at Tech, and made a motion to appropriate $200,000 per year, or a total of $400,000 for the purpose.

Flat Hike Proposed

The motion failed to carry, Corbin being the only member of the committee to vote for it. However, the $100,000 per year appropriation did carry.

"I am anxious to work with Mr. Smith in carrying the bill through," Corbin remarked.

Under terms of the House bill as released by the sub-committee, state supported colleges will uniformly receive a 15 per cent per capita increase in operating expenses over the last bienniel appropriation.

For Texas Tech the House bill proposes a budget of $1,700,357 for fiscal 1950 beginning Sept. 1 and $1,871,157 for fiscal 1951 the total compares with appropriations of $1,775,170 and $1,791,640 for the last two years.

Museum Fund Urged

A noteworthy addition to the new bill is proposed appropriation of $22,200 per year for Tech Memorial museum. This is the first time an appropriation for the museum as a separate institution has been considered.

Specific sums set out by the bill for the college are as follows, with the appropriation for fiscal 1950 first and for fiscal 1951 second:

Salaries, $1,307,538 and $1,449,311; summer school, $78,770 and $87,308; maintenance, equipment and travel, $189,049 and $209,538; improvements and repairs, $125,000 each year.

"Fair" Basis Sought

Two years ago the bienniel appropriations were: Salaries, $1,137,998 each year; summer school, $60,000 each year, maintenance, equipment and travel, $200,000 a year; improvements and repairs, $90,000 each year.

The last appropriation also included $33,500 for research.

"We did our best in the subcommittee to treat each school on a fair and equal basis and still stay within the anticipated revenue," Smith said. "If we don't stay within the revenue we will have to have new taxes."

The 15 per cent increase in the per capita appropriation for state supported schools was made as a cost of living adjustment. This gives $352 for each full-time student in the upper level and $274 for each full-time in the lower level and $39 for each full-time student in technical courses.

Wallace's Testimony Against Treaty Brings Sharp Retorts

WASHINGTON, May 5. (AP) — Henry A. Wallace accused the State department today of deliberately withholding Russia's offer to lift the Berlin blockade for fear the announcement might block the North Atlantic treaty.

The former vice president made that charge before the Senate Foreign Relations committee. He testified against the 12-nation security pact.

That and other parts of his testimony brought sharp words from high ranking members of the committee. Chairman Connally (D-Tex) shouted at one point:

"What do you want us to do—sit down and let Russia absorb the world and do nothing about it?"

Senator Vandenberg of Michigan, No. 1 Republican on the committee, told Wallace he could never condone his action in insisting that your country is imperialistic in attitude and objective—that it is bent on world conquest in one form or another."

Project Officer Arrives At LAFB

One step further toward reactivation of Lubbock Air Force Base was taken this week with the arrival here of Lt. Col. N. F. Stradleigh, who has been named LAFB project officer.

Further information on plans for reopening of the base were given Thursday afternoon by Col. Stradleigh at offices in the city hall. Col. Stradleigh temporarily is maintaining an office at the base during the mornings and at the Chamber of Commerce during the afternoons.

Col. Stradleigh, who for the past year has been stationed at Goodfellow field, San Angelo, arrived in Lubbock Tuesday. His new duties here will entail many, if not most, of the details connected with getting the local base into actual operation. Broadly interpreted, his duties will be those of a liaison officer acting between the military and civilians.

Job Details Unknown

Definite assignment of an assistant project officer for LAFB has not yet been made, but will be announced later, Col. Stradleigh said Thursday.

At present, he said, details of jobs which will be available at the base are unknown, and applications are not being taken. Ultimately, personnel at the base will include some 650 civilian employes, in addition to the approximately 2,700 officers and airmen.

Col. Stradleigh explained that details of employment at LAFB must be withheld until further word is received from Barksdale field, Shreveport, La., which has jurisdiction over the Lubbock base, concerning the number and nature of workers to be transferred from there. He stressed, however, that further job details would be made known later.

Talks With Contractors

Likewise, he explained that his duties did not empower him to award various contracts for work on the base. He said that he has talked with a number of local contractors and that announcement would be made when bids for various construction and repair jobs on the base may be received.

The project officer remarked that he is "pleased with the way the base is laid out." He said he was confident that the present buildings would provide space for the administrative and other phases of operation of the base.

Col. Stradleigh said, too, that there had been far less deterioration of the LAFB buildings and equipment than at many other military bases which have been inactive for a comparable period of time. Lubbock and its people, he said, "have been more than cooperative."

Served Overseas

Col. Stradleigh, a native of Oregon, has been in the Air Force 22 years, and has been assigned to posts in Oregon, California, Wyoming, Texas, New Jersey, Florida, and Washington. He was stationed his first 15 years on the West Coast. In 1941, he was sent to Signal Corps school at Fort Monmouth, N. J., after which he was assigned there as an instructor. He later was assigned to Drew Field, Fla., and from there went to the West coast.

Following, Col Stradleigh was sent to Saipan, Guam, and Japan, in that order. Before assignment to Goodfellow field about a year ago, he was connected with Fifth Air Force headquarters in Japan.

Col. Stradleigh's wife and two children, a daughter, 4, and a son, four months old, probably will join him here in early June, or at such time as he is able to locate living quarters for them.

Morton Man

carrying only $25 or $30 and "some checks" when he left home, but that he was known to carry larger sums at times.

Former County Agent

Crocket said that Hickman's excellent reputation added weight to the theory that foul play was involved in his disappearance. He has lived in Morton for the past 10 or 11 years, and was county agent for several years before resigning the position to manage some farms.

Hickman—described as 5 feet 7 inches tall, 145 pounds, with brown hair, gray eyes and wearing glasses—was driving a light gray 1948 Pontiac two-door sedan, bearing license AL 7444, when he left home.

A radio description of Hickman and his car has been broadcast statewide, but no reports on his whereabouts have been learned, state and local officers said tonight.

Officers thus far have discounted any connection with the missing Morton man and a reported "kidnapping" which was reported to have occurred in Lubbock Wednesday. No further reports have been made on the "kidnapping" and officers in Lubbock today were inclined to write it off as a hoax, although admittedly holding out the possibility there could be some connection between the two cases.)

Funds Okayed For Texas Projects

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP)—Nine flood control and six river and harbor projects in or affecting Texas were included in a Senate Appropriations subcommittee's recommendations for the next fiscal year.

A $158,233,420 increase in funds voted by the House for civil functions of the Army was approved by the Senate group yesterday. Included in the record $751,515,690 bill were $493,159,300 for flood control projects and $145,694,290 for improvements on rivers and harbors.

The subcommittee will possibly submit its report to the full committee next week. Its recommendations may be cut there, in the full Senate or in compromise with the House over differences.

Iowa Anglers Find Selves Sharing In Ownership Of Fish

DECORAH, Ia., May 5. (INS) Two fishermen today hooked the same trout in a stream near Decorah.

Fishing from opposite banks of a trout run, Roger Sampson, Decorah, and W. G. Cornish, Des Moines, hooked the trout at the same instant.

Their lines had drifted so close together the fish took both hooks at once.

Sampson surrendered the fish to Cornish.

Auto Buyers Wary Since Drop In Re-Sale Values Of Used Cars

DETROIT, May 5. (AP) — The sharp drop in re-sale values is chasing many would-be car buyers out of the market.

There are some instances where dealers are offering high trade-in allowances to make sales. But this happens only when the dealer has more cars than he wants. It doesn't happen often among dealers in the more popular low price makes.

Three years of car scarcity led thousands of persons to believe they could go on indefinitely selling year-old cars at more than list price. That era has gone. Its disappearance accounts in no small degree for the dwindling of the industry's unfilled order backlog.

Buyers Take Losses

Many persons of modest income bought medium and high price cars, secure in the belief they could re-sell at a profit. Now when they discover they must take a loss of from $600 to $1,000 on the year-old car, the reaction usually is:

"Not me; I'll drive it another year."

This isn't just an occasional occurrence. The remark is heard often in most new car salesrooms.

The shaking out of these car speculators is one of the major reasons the buyer's market has come back.

A few makes of cars cannot be had on short notice, but the buyer is no longer taking any car he can get. He is demanding and getting exactly what he wants.

Red States Increase Efforts To Abolish Private Land Ownership

BY WALTER KALARZ
United Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 5—Official reports from Eastern Europe indicate that private land property behind the Iron Curtain will be abolished completely by the end of 1955.

The new Bulgarian five year plan, the full text of which has just reached London, revealed that 60 per cent of the Bulgarian peasants are to be included in "co-operative labor farms" (collective farms) by 1953. In the last phase of the collectivization, class struggle in the villages undoubtedly will be reinforced and full collectivization then is likely to be achieved within two more years.

Bulgaria is the only country which so far has come out with clear target figures regarding the collectivization of agriculture, but experts on Eastern European affairs believe the Bulgarian collectivization program is, with certain variations, characteristic for the entire eastern and southeastern European zone.

Hungary Follows Suit

Collectivization is also the implied aim of the other long-term eastern European economic plans which have come out recently. The Hungarian five year plan, which will come into force on Jan. 1, 1950, stated that its aim was "the complete social transformation of the Hungarian village," which is to be achieved by the organization of state model farms and the creation of 500 machine tractor stations.

The latter will share with the state farms the monopoly of the possession of tractors, threshing machines and harvesting combines. Apart from bringing about the mechanization of agriculture, the machine tractor stations will become the real ruler of the eastern European countryside. The machine tractor stations are to give priority treatment to collective or co-operative farms and thus will make the position of the individual peasant farmer untenable.

The machine tractor stations so far had their biggest boom in Poland, where they are called "machine centers." There their numbers increased from 405 in 1947 to 2,000 in 1948, and there are to be 3,000 machine centers by the end of this year. Apart from the machine centers, the most important instrument for the collectivization in Poland will be the Communist-directed Peasant Self-Aid union, which is boycotted by members of the Polish Peasant party.

Romania to Act

The Romanian Communist party has so far not worked out a long-term plan for the development of agriculture and its collectivization, but a recent statement of the Communist Central committee indicated that Romania will abolish private land property with greater ruthlessness and probably also more quickly than any other iron curtain country.

Yugoslavia, although outside the Cominform, is likely to compete with its Communist neighbors, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria, in the setting up of collective farms, state farms, and machine tractor stations.

Marshal Tito undoubtedly will do his utmost not to lag behind the Cominform countries in point of collectivization, since the principal Cominform accusations leveled against him referred to his alleged opportunistic agrarian policy and his softness towards the rich peasants.

The Soviet government is setting the example to its satellites by putting increased pressure on the still remaining individual peasant farmers in those territories of the Soviet Union which before the war belonged to Poland, Romania, Czechoslovakia and the Baltic states.

YOU CAN BE A WINNER!

TICKETS

Tickets may be obtained free at Furr's Super Market, today and through the Food Fair, May 7. Holders must fill in numbered stub and this will be dropped in any Furr's store drawing box. There is no limit to number of stubs placed in boxes. They will remain throughout all drawings.

RULES

All regularly employed personnel or their immediate families (living in the same house) are not eligible to win any prize. Immediate families of Kaiser, Servel, Norge and Coolerator dealers, too, are ineligible to win their respective prizes. . . . Should a stub of ticket not be legible, it will be held until May 14, 3 p. m. at which time another drawing will be held, should the winner not appear to claim the prize . . . action of the judges will be final in all drawings.

Second Gilmer-Aikin Education Bill Sent To Jester By Senate

AUSTIN, May 5. (AP)—The Senate today sent the Gilmer-Aikin bill setting up a special school financing fund to the governor.

This was the second of the school reorganization measures to gain final approval of both houses.

The Senate held up the remaining G-A bill and called for a conference committee of House and Senate members to work out differences. This is the measure setting up a minimum school foundation program and providing higher teacher salaries.

Amendment Accepted

The financing fund measure, as amended by the House, was approved by the Senate, 23 to 2. Senate sponsors privately chuckled over an amendment put on by the House in an attempt to give rural road construction funds priority over education's financial needs from the state clearance fund.

They said the amendment was incorrectly written in the House and would be "meaningless."

The House amendment, which caused tempestuous debate last week, aims at giving rural roads priority by stating "allocations in sections 4-B of this act, as provided in Senate bill 287 (the road bill) . . . shall be made before those provided for in this section."

Senator Ottis Lock of Lufkin, author of the minimum foundation fund bill, said there is no section 4-B in his measure.

He was willing to accept the amendment rather than try to have it deleted. Thus he avoided a conference committee.

Oil Plan Passed

In the House, Rep. Jack Ridgeway asked and received permission to introduce a bill correcting the recently-passed basic science bill. Several amendments were left out of the final version by accident.

A bill to allow voluntary agreements for development of oil fields was passed on second reading by the House, 88 to 32.

Already approved by the Senate, the controversial measure awaits final House passage.

All amendments were killed on the House floor.

While the House spent most of the morning arguing whether the bill would hurt the "little man" in oil pooling agreements, the Senate heard a resolution calling for the legislature's regular session to end at noon May 27.

Appointments Okayed

The senate confirmed the following appointments:

Directors of the Texas State university for negroes — Galloway Calhoun, Tyler; Charles Devall, Kilgore; the Rev. I. B. Lord, Dallas.

Members of the board of dental examiners—Dr. H. Arthur Zappe, Mineral Wells; Dr. W. C. McNeil, Silsbee.

The Senate amended and returned to the House a bill which sought to raise annual dues of the state bar association from $4 to $5. The Senate would leave fees at $4 and require approval of 51 per cent of the state bar members to make a change.

A House resolution setting up a 20-man committee to recommend changes in the state criminal code was approved by the Senate. It goes to the governor for signature.

An amendment providing anti-trust laws would not be diminished or altered by the oil utilization law was defeated by the House, 79 to 46.

Rep. Tom Whiteside of Tyler, author of the amendment, told the House if sponsors of the bill did not accept the change, there's a dead hog in the branch somewhere."

Both Houses Adjourn

Both House and Senate adjourned until Monday after long afternoon sessions.

The Senate passed 23 bills including a statewide fishing license law. It would permit fishing anywhere in the state on the payment of a $1.65 annual fee and replace all special and local licenses. It returns to the House for consideration of a Senate amendment which would exempt fishermen in home and adjoining counties from paying the fee except in the use of artificial lures.

The House passed a Senate-approved bill creating a Texas real estate commission, 93-30. The bill returns to the Senate with an amendment providing for a six-man board appointed by the governor rather than a three-member board approved by the Senate. The commission would handle real estate laws now under the secretary of state.

A bill correcting errors in the basic science measure already signed by the governor was passed unanimously in the House. Rep. Jack Ridgeway of San Antonio explained the bill that went to the governor did not have attached amendments the House had put on. The corrective bill now goes to the Senate for approval.

GEN. CLAY GREETS SUCCESSOR—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, left, scheduled to retire as military governor of Germany on May 15, shakes hands with his successor, Lt. Gen. Clarence R. Heubner, who is his chief-of-staff, during massive farewell tribute at Grafenwoehr, Germany. Gen. Clay, who plans to retire from the Army on June 1, said he is leaving Germany convinced an East-West war is not inevitable but that basic struggle between Russian Communism and Western Democracy will continue. Tech Seniors Start Final Exams May 19

Graduating seniors at Texas Tech will begin taking their final examinations May 19 and continue through May 25.

This is one week earlier than the regularly scheduled finals for all students. It is being done for the first time this year. Dr. E. N. Jones, vice-president, said the move was made in order that seniors would have a chance to be prepared for graduation.

Graduation exercises will be held June 6 in Jones Stadium.

Toll Line Halted By Court Order

A temporary order restraining the Southwestern Associated Telephone company from extending its toll lines in the area adjacent to the Lubbock Air Force Base was granted Thursday by Judge G. V. Pardue in 99th District court.

The order was granted on petition of seven property owners on whose land the telephone equipment would have been placed. The petition was signed by S. H. Bradford, J. R. Crisp, A. F. Williamson, H. A. Williamson, Jim Cates, G. W. Bartlett and J. A. Andrews. All reside near the Hurlwood community.

At the time the restraining order was granted Judge Pardue also set Friday, May 13 as the date for hearing cause why the order should not be extended or become permanent. He set $500 as plaintiffs' bond.

In their petition the plaintiffs said none of them granted permission to the telephone company to proceed with construction of new lines.

Only One Telephone

They also stated that the company threatened to go ahead and erect poles and lines without the permission from the property owners.

The plaintiffs further charged that no telephone company had ever provided adequate communication for the Hurlwood community. They stated that a single old-fashioned "hand-crank" telephone was the only instrument located in Hurlwood available for use. In present service, they state, the calls from Hurlwood must first go through Levelland.

In seeking the restraining order, attorneys G. H. Nelson and George McCleskey said the plaintiffs fear an extension of the alleged inadequate service now in force would hinder the possibility of getting better service from some other utility. The telephone company is represented by L. A. Howard and George Gibson.

TRIPPED UP BY OLD COINS

KEYSER, W. Va. (U.P.)—When a man charged with drunkenness paid his $10 fine with half-dollars dated in 1800 and early 1900, the police became suspicious. Investigation resulted in the confession of two men who said they stole the coins from a Keyser farmhouse. State police had been investigating the "old coin" case.

FURTHER 'ADJUSTMENTS' IN BUSINESS SEEN

Economic Experts Advise President Consumers Can Look Forward To New Drop In Living Costs

By FELIX COTTEN
INS Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 4 —President Truman's top economic advisers informed him today that an orderly readjustment is taking place in business which will bring a further drop in the cost of living.

Dr. Edwin G. Nourse, chairman of the council of Economic Advisers, and other council members presented to the President a mildly optimistic report on the economic situation, tinctured with caution.

Prices Still Going Down

On leaving the White House, Nourse said:

"We anticipate a further easing in the cost of living."

This forecast was based on drops in wholesale prices that have not yet "trickled down" to the ultimate consumer.

Nourse said the decline will reach the consumer in time, with consequent relief to wage-earners. That relief has not been great thus far, he observed.

He recalled that the cost of living has declined 3.2 per cent from the all-time high of last August, and that it shaded off an additional three-tenths of one per cent in the last month.

Prices are still going down, he said, but not on a "demoralized basis."

Sales Show Decline

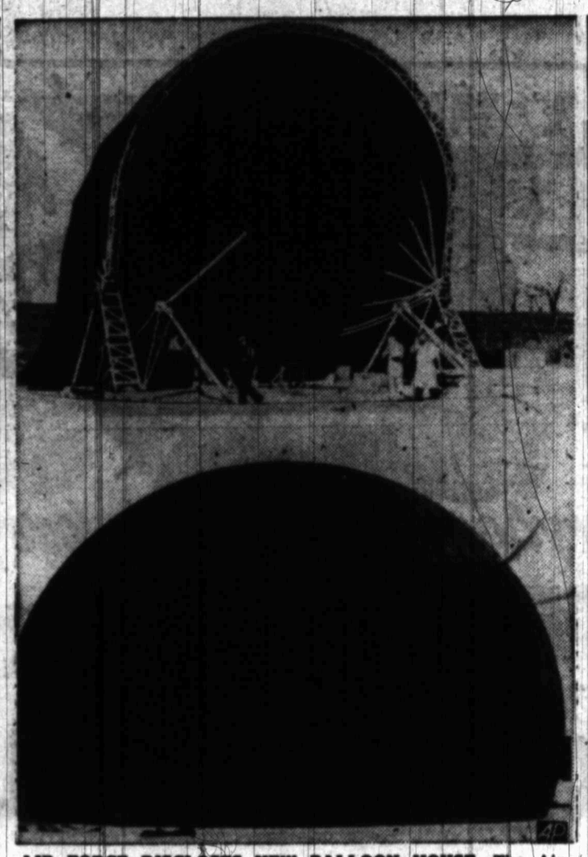

The federal reserve board announced that post-Easter department store sales had fallen for the second consecutive week. Last week they were four per cent below the previous week.

For April as a whole they were unchanged from last year, but this indicated a slump in Easter buying. Since Easter came late this year, April sales would have had to be six per cent higher to be on a par with April, 1948.

The council members, who submit reports to the President each month on business trends, were more confident and definite in their statements than for some time. But they still guarded against flat forecasts.

CIGARETTES TOO CHEAP

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (U.P.)—Police knew something was wrong when they learned that a man was selling cigarettes for $1.25 per carton. They arrested Eudy Baskin and he admitted he was selling cigarettes supplied him by a porter at a neighborhood store.

AIR FORCE DISCLOSES NEW BALLOON HOUSE—The Air Force has developed this new house for its radar equipment. It is made of glass and rubber and is inflated. The top photo shows the house, called the Radome, put into place at Red Bank, N.J., by a special erecting gear of collapsible ribs which do not touch any radar towers or equipment. Below, the Radome is shown inflated. The Radome, a development for Watson Laboratories, Air Materiel Command, is held up by a vacuum cleaner blower. (AP Wirephoto.)

Air Force Develops New 'Balloon House'

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 5. (AP)—A vacuum cleaner holds up an amazing new baloon house made of only air, glass and rubber.

This house, disclosed today by the Air Force, is flexible but strong. It will stand up under winds of 140 miles an hour that would wreck a sturdy frame dwelling. Seventy-five-mile winds are a hurricane.

The house is half of a huge balloon 36 feet high and 53 feet in diameter, fastened to a concrete base. It's made of fibre glass and rubber, and is only as thick as a few pages of this newspaper.

Air holds it up, acting as the timbers and beams. Once it's inflated, a vacuum cleaner pushing air in keeps it pumped up and ventilated. You enter and leave through an air lock.

The pressure inside is less than that inside a child's toy balloon. But a puncture wouldn't make this house explode. It would just collapse slowly. If hit by shellfire, there would be no wood or stones to fall on men or equipment.

The balloon house, called the radome, was built to protect new radar eye equipment for the Air Force. It was made by the Cornell Aeronautical laboratory here. But the idea could be modified for movable private homes or for buildings like an ice skating rink.

State Financial Problem Grows

By DAVE CHEAVENS
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, May 5—Two clear facts emerged today from a maze of newly-revised figures on the state's fiscal status:

There is $134,000,000 left in the general revenue fund for the legislature to spend.

Unless there is sharp cutting of money bills in their present varying versions, the state faces a deficit estimated at from $22 million to $56 million.

Four Possibilities Open

That leaves these courses open to the legislature:

Trim spending down to $134,000,000.

Go on deficit financing. That takes a four-fifths vote of both House and Senate under the constitution.

Raise more money by new or boosted taxes.

Make appropriations for one instead of two years, and come back into session next year to try for a solution.

The wide range in the possible-deficit estimates is because appropriations bills in the Senate and House vary in cases by many millions of dollars.

$134 Million In Fund

Some bills are still in committee. None has been enacted. The showdown with final figures awaits adoption of conference committee reports.

The $134,000,000 figure was announced today by Comptroller Robert S. Calvert. It is what's left in the general revenue fund after deductions of money already spent by the legislature.

Calvert also took into account probable state spending under the Gilmer-Aikin school program, presuming the Senate would adopt the minimum foundation bill approved by the House. He gave no precise figure for it.

This extra money for school support does not come from the general revenue fund. It comes from a revenue pool called the clearance fund. If any money is left over in the clearance pool, it goes to the general fund.

Right now, the comptroller says, the clearance pool is dry.

'Successful' Cure For Spotted Fever Found

GALVESTON, May 5. (INS) — University of Texas medical medical branch experts now predict a high probability of the successful cure of Rocky Mountain or spotted fever by a new "golden drug."

Guinea pigs infected with the fever were successfully protected when treated with "aureomycin."

Results of the tests were reported in the spring issue of Texas reports on biology and medicine, medical branch publication, by Dr. Ludwick Anigstein, Dorothy M. Whitney, and Joe Beninson of the Rickettsial Research laboratory.

The "golden drug" is a relatively new antibiotic which was isolated from mold.

A complete or at least partial suppression of fever was effected when treatment followed the infection within 24 or 48 hours.

When daily treatment was replaced by intermittent treatment every 48 to 72 hours, the results were equally good. With few exceptions, all treated animals recovered, contrary to the high fatality rate of the untreated cases.

Further, guinea pigs which recovered were immune to re-inoculation with the organism of the disease.

The study was aided by a grant from Lederle laboratories division, American Cyanamid company.

Arkansas Police Arrest Man Sought In Slaying Of Nurse

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 5 (AP) — A sharp-eyed city marshal today captured an ex-Texas convict identified as Robert L. Smith, 42, sought for the pistol slaying of his former wife, while the man was waiting to surrender to Little Rock police.

The arrest was made by Marshal C. S. Garner in nearby Jacksonville, Ark., after Smith had telephoned detective Chief C. O. Fink in Little Rock—collect—to come and get him. Garner wasn't aware, he said that Smith already had contacted authorities.

Pulaski county Prosecutor Edwin Dunaway identified the prisoner as Smith and said he was the man sought for the slaying here yesterday morning of Mrs. Sally Barner, 40-year-old nurse's aide.

Dunaway quoted Smith as saying he "went haywire" and shot the woman five times in the back. Several persons witnessed the shooting, near the University of Arkansas Medical School hospital. Mrs. Barner was on her way to the hospital.

Light Plane Takes Off, Lands Under Own Power Near Sherman

SHERMAN, May 5. (INS) — The owner of a plane in Sherman has learned the hard way not to leave his ignition switch on.

The plane was parked at the Sherman Municipal airport when an attendant accidentally brushed against the propellor. The engine started; the plane knocked the attendant down, taxied downfield, and took off on its own power.

It was found in a field several miles away, where it crashed after running out of gas.

New Mexico Authorities May Exhume Body Of Slain Girl

LAS CRUCES, N. M., May 5 (INS) —Plans to exhume the body of slain Cricket Coogler were under way today after human flesh had been found in the running gear of a 23-year-old professional football player's car.

District Attorney T. K. Campbell said the man is Jerry Nuzum, father of two children and a deputy sheriff in Dona Ana county. He is being held "without charge" while "certain circumstantial evidence is being checked in connection with the disappearance of the 18-year-old waitress."

When her body was found 17 days after her disappearance, in a sandy grave 12 miles south of Las Cruces, Sheriff Happy Apodaca said she had been raped and murdered.

San Antonio Man Makes Belated Discovery Of Slashed Throat

SAN ANTONIO, May 5. (INS) — It was a stranger, no his best friend who cut his throat, but Magarito Perez didn't like it a bit—when he found out about it.

Perez told San Antonio police that a group of men stopped him at 1 a. m. and asked for a cigaret. As he left, he said, he felt something hit him.

Later, at his home, he discovered he had been slashed. He was treated at Santa Rosa hospital.

Georgia VFW Post Devises 'Library' For Aid To Cripples

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 5. (U.P.)— A "library" for cripples has been started by the Charles G. Edwards post No. 960 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The idea is to build up a stock of devices which enable crippled persons to get along by borrowing them when they cannot afford to buy them at high prices.

The first gifts include two wheelchairs, a pair of crutches and several other items useful to the lame.

A police traffic sergeant, Robert Funk, came up with the idea. He said that all too often crippled persons need to borrow such gear until they can buy their own.

Malta's latest census shows 2,511 persons to the square mile.

Value Of Mexican Peso Skids As Nation's Banks Observe Holiday

MEXICO CITY, May 5 (AP) — Mexico's banks reopen tomorrow after a patriotic holiday hoping the skidding peso has found a resting place.

The peso has dropped one-seventh in 10 days. It appears unlikely to regain the loss. Tomorrow's market may determine whether the peso has reached a temporary stability of around eight to the dollar.

The peso was at 6.97 on April 25. It dropped rapidly, closing yesterday at dollar buying and selling rates of 7.90 and 8.10. Half the loss came yesterday and the day before.

Trade Affected

The Bank of Mexico could steady the peso by throwing in its dollar reserve. The reserve has been built up with much difficulty the past year, and it is known the bank feels the peso should "find its own level," and there is great risk in throwing enough dollars on the market to support the peso artificially.

The wobbly peso is affecting trading in Matamoros and other cities along the U.S. border.

In Brownsville across from Matamoros, some Texas merchants were not taking pesos in trade yesterday.

One merchant said:

"Practically the only outlet I have for the peso is for change."

Other businesses were taking small quantities of pesos.

Exports Reported Good

The peso fluctuated wildly in Matamoros yesterday. Once it dropped to 8.87 to the U.S. dollar.

Pedro Coronado Mills, Matamoros customs chief, said exports to the United States continued good. A ban on such important household articles as refrigerators ranges and radios went into effect again. Until recently, border cities were free of the ban, which covered the rest of the nation.

Bankers here suggest the Bank of Mexico may step in occasionally to frighten speculators. But none expects the bank to try to force the peso back to seven to the dollar.

Businessmen say the situation would improve if the government would lift the present 15 per cent export tax, hold back on placing other hindrances on exports and improve control of smuggling and legitimate imports.

Housefly Blamed For Many Deaths In U.S.

AUSTIN, May 5. (INS) — The common housefly "claims thousands of lives annually throughout the nation, George W. Cox, state health officer, warned today.

Dysentery, diarrhea, typhoid fever, tuberculosis, and many other disabling or fatal diseases are spread by flies, he said.

"To protect our families," Cox said, "we should make sure our homes are fly-proof through proper screening. Then concentrate on eliminating filth, garbage, and other breeding places for flies."

Window Screening Urged

He asked that families should screen windows, doors, and porches "so that the stray fly from some careless neighbor cannot molest your family."

"Make sure that your grocer observes proper sanitation standards and keeps your meat, food, and vegetable supplies screened from flies," he went on.

"Then direct your efforts to eliminating all fly breeding places such as open garbage pails, open privies, and other filth that offers the fly warmth, moisture, and food.

Flies thrive on filth, and inasmuch as one female housefly will lay from 600 to 1000 eggs per season, if can easily be seen that one breeding place left available in a community can be responsible for tremendous horde of flies."

Cox recommended organized community efforts to wipe out flies. He emphasized that cleanliness in one home does not render it safe if another home down the street leaves exposed filth where flies can breed.

T. U. Archives Collection Adds 'Republic Of Texas' Passport

AUSTIN, May 5. (INS)—Mirabeau B. Lamar, former President of the Republic of Texas, issued a passport in 1840 that now rests in the University of Texas archives collection.

The 109-year-old document, dated November 9, 1840, permitted Sashce-Zinda, a chief of the Sarretakes tribe, "freely to pass the city of Santa Fe or any points near that city in the Republic of Texas, and to return to the city of Austin, or to go elsewhere in the Republic of Texas;

"So long as he conducts himself with decency and in order, and in good faith toward the citizens of Texas; and in case of need to give him all lawful aid and protection."

The board of regents of the university has formally accepted the passoprt gift from J. W. Heard of Bakersfield, California.

Reports that Greek Communists are seeking United Nations mediation in their war with Athens carry a strong suggestion Russia really is making a general change in tactics.

The Berlin Blockade negotiations created expectancy regarding Russian policy, but with widespread western recognition that one swallow does not make a summer. Two swallows, however, double the chances.

In Prague, the minister of justice of the Greek rebel government announced he had written Herbert Evatt, president of the UN Assembly, suggesting mediation.

No mention was made of previous Communists demands that negotiations be preceded by withdrawal of Anglo-American military units, lending significance to what might otherwise be mere propaganda.

Terms suggested were for an interim government composed of non-political figures acceptable to both sides, pending UN-supervised elections.

The minister is Militiades Porphyrogenis, former member of the Athens government.

He is quoted as saying "the atmosphere of appeasement that has developed in recent weeks in the European scene makes peace seem impossible."

Red Aims Stressed

He thus intimates Russia has switched to a policy of appeasement. If there should now be some break in the deadlock over a peace treaty for Austria, or a move to open the Danube, the situation would be clear.

Temporary appeasement does not mean Russia is yielding in the cold war or in the pursuit of the ultimate aims of Communism. A change of methods which fail is always called for—in fact, demanded, by Communist teachings. Change of intentions, never.

If these moves mean, then, that Russia is seeking a truce merely to adopt more hopeful tactics, what are the possibilities for a real end to the cold war?

It may take unforeseen developments to answer that.

Will Clayton of Houston, former undersecretary of state, says there can be no peace until Russia returns to her pre-war boundaries.

Some observers feel that it cannot come until Communism is wiped out in Russia itself, even if that requires war.

I think it cannot come through force, that it can come only under a combination of circumstances.

Port Said, at the entrance of Suez Canal, is to be enlarged so that 18 large vessels, instead of nine as at present, may wait their turn to enter the canal.

Texas Mother Finds Missing Daughter; Another Disappears

FORT WORTH May 5 (AP) — Mrs. W. E. Arington, sr., of Fort Worth is appealing again today for her daughter to return home. This time it's a different daughter.

Earlier Rosa Lena, 15, ran away because Mrs. Arington banned her marriage to Grady Van Over, 24, Dallas. Mrs. Arington tearfully relented but she and Grady couldn't find Rosa—until yesterday. Then they found her boarding a bus at nearby Grandbury. Rosa and Grady were quickly, and happily wed.

Today Mrs. Arington was searching again. While she and Grady were hunting down Rosa, Clora Lena, 13, ran away.

'Stolen Car' Found In Police Garage

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., May 5. (U.P.)—Gerald Scarpino got his car back and the local police department spotted some slightly red faces.

For four days Scarpino and police searched for the car he had reported stolen from a parking lot. All the time it was tucked snugly away in a garage—parked there by police who had towed it away for blocking a driveway.

What they hadn't thought to do was check his license number with the list of towed-away cars.

"A police oversight," said Police Superintendent Martin T. Considine, who also announced that Scarpino would get back the $3 he paid to have his car released.

Plumber's Assistant Rises To Head Department Of College

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 5. (U.P.)—From plumber's assistant to head of the sociology department at Pennsylvania State college is the success story of Dr. Seth W. Russell.

Dr. Russell first worked as a plumber's assistant in Williamsport, Pa. Later, after he had become a master plumber, he decided on the ministry and enrolled at Dickinson seminary, now Lycoming college.

While serving as a Methodist pastor in several rural parishes, he became interested in rural social problems and he began to study sociology. After earning a bachelor's and a master's degree in the subject at Penn State, he was offered a teaching position there. He has moved through several teaching promotions, beginning as instructor.

Dr. Russell now holds the degree of doctor of philosophy, conferred on him by the University of Pittsburgh. His teaching career was interrupted in 1941 when he became a U.S. Navy chaplain.

J. P. SEIBERLING VISITS HERE

Tire Company President 'Amazed' By Rapid Growth, Beauty Of City

By EDWARD WELSH
Avalanche Staff Writer

"I am amazed and overwhelmed by the growth of Lubbock since I last visited here in 1934," James Penfield Seiberling said glowingly as he stopped in the city Thursday noon. The visit was part of an extensive tour of Texas and the Southwest.

Seiberling is president of the vast Seiberling Tire and Rubber company at Akron, Ohio. The primary aim of his trip through West Texas is to visit with various dealers and distributors of his company's products.

Construction Praised

"Of course from our records and news reports I have been aware that the Southwest has been growing at an accelerated pace, but I never expected to see anything like the Lubbock of today," Seiberling enthused.

Seiberling particularly remarked on the type and quality of building construction.

"It is obvious that the present program of expansion is not of the transient type. These buildings you have and the fine homes, represent the best of permanent construction. Such construction also indicates that you have attracted people with the permanent qualities," Seiberling said.

Confers With Dealers

Seiberling came from a district conference at Big Spring and passed through Lubbock on his way to Amarillo where he will confer with dealers and representatives in the Panhandle area.

"Naturally I am taking advantage of this trip to make a survey to determine the prospects for business in 1949," Seiberling stated. "What I have seen has impressed me very much."

Final Plans Are Made For Event

By C. W. RATLIFF
Avalanche Staff Writer

Texas Democrats are trying to get together again and forget their past difficulties and for that reason Saturday's big $10-a-plate Democratic barbecue at Texas Tech is expected to be as much of a harmony session as anything else.

That was indicated Thursday from reports being received by the local arrangements committee on sale of tickets for the event from over West Texas. Both the liberal and conservative elements of the party are buying tickets for the barbecue here. More than 1,500 are expected at the affair.

Final plans have been made for the program, third such fund raising event in the state this year. Meanwhile, ticket sales continued at a brisk pace, officials in charge of arrangements ordered more barbecue and it appeared that only the weather was the major worry left to hamper efforts at making the event a complete success.

Conservatives To Attend

Arranged by Arch S. Underwood, Lubbock compress owner and long-time "liberal," the barbecue is attracting many of the conservative leaders of the party, who in the past two national campaigns have been parading under "Texas Regular" and "Dixiecrat" colors.

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan, whose national farm program recently announced has been compared to radio giveaway programs, is to be the principal speaker. Maybe the rightwing of the party wants to learn all about Brannan's new idea on farm legislation.

Wright Morrow of Houston, national committeeman from Texas, about whose shoulders a storm of protest over his selection has been raging ever since the choice was announced, is to be here and will respond to the address of welcome given by Dr. D. M. Wiggins.

Many Leaders Expected

Byron Skelton, Temple attorney who is credited with swinging last year's Democratic convention for President Truman, heralded as the leader of the liberal element and favored by many for Morrow's post, will also be here.

Other contrasts of the party coming will include John C. Calhoun, Corsicana, state executive committee chairman; Geo. Parr of San Diego, the "man from Duval" who caused such a furore in last year's U. S. Senate election; and Warren Phillips of Corpus Christi, prominent party leader in that area.

Raymond E. Buck, Fort Worth attorney and long-time middle-of-the-roader in the party, is to

Enumerators Urge Co-Operation Of Lubbock People

Business Census Starts Today

Work on Lubbock's first official census of business since 1939 will begin today.

L. D. Whiteley, Lubbock district supervisor of the census, announced Thursday that four enumerators will tackle the king-size task of canvassing all local business establishments to obtain information required in the census.

Whiteley, who last week returned from a four-week training course at Houston and Fort Worth, said that because of unavoidable delay, the project here is starting six weeks late.

The district supervisor asked full co-operation of local businessmen in the taking of the census. Because of the inexperience of some enumerators, he said he anticipated possible slight delays in interviews during the early stages of the census here. But as enumerators gain experience, he said, the process should speed up.

Whiteley said he wished to emphasize again that the census is designed to benefit all business concerned. Statistics compiled in the census are widely used to obtain reliable information on a comprehensive scale about the distribution of goods and services in all parts of the country. He pointed out that the census has the support of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, the American Retail federation, and other leading merchants' organizations.

Information supplied to census officials is held in strict secrecy, Whiteley said. All census employes are required to take a special oath of secrecy, and are subject to criminal action of they disclose information to anyone other than sworn census employes. No other agency of government—federal, state or local — has access to census files. Information in the files cannot be used for investigation, regulation or taxation. In addition, information is published in summarized totals so that the operations of any individual business are not disclosed accidentally.

Whiteley, who also will be in charge of the 19th Congressional district population census next year, said that the business census work of the district will begin in Lubbock, then slowly spread to the other 24 counties of the district. The project is expected to be completed by late summer.

Lubbock County Boy Scouts To Assemble For Camporee Today

Approximately 350 Lubbock county Boy Scouts are to gather in Mackenzie State park this afternoon for a Plainsman district camporee which will be highlighted by an outdoor fire ceremony and Eagle award presentation at 8 o'clock tonight.

W. G. McMillan, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. McMillan of Levelland highway, will receive the Eagle Scout award, the highest award which may be won in scouting.

Meet Ends Saturday

The camporee, which will be conducted east of the barbecue pit, will continue until after noon Saturday. Tonight's program will be open to the public.

McMillan, who will receive the award from Dr. Clifford B. Jones, member of the executive board of South Plains council of Boy Scouts of America, joined troop 3 when he was 12 years of age and became a first class Scout. He joined the Navy in June, 1945, and was in the submarine service. He started to Tech in the fall of 1946. In July, 1947, he went on a big game hunt in Africa with his father and mother. Two Returned To Jail After Break

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, May 5—Freedom was short lived for two prisoners who escaped from the Dawson county jail about 12 o'clock last night. One gave himself up less than two hours after his escape and the other was captured three hours later.

The escapees were Jimmy Quinn, 17, Lamesa, and J. B. Gibson, 35, Odessa. The escape was accomplished by filing through the iron bars of the main door on the third floor, according to Sheriff Roy King. After getting into the corridor the two men made ropes from blankets, climbed through a window and lowered themselves to the ground. Six other prisoners in the jail at the time made no attempt to gain their freedom. At the time of the escape no officers were on duty in the jail.

Quinn had been in the jail for three weeks charged with burglary. Gibson was serving time for swindling with worthless checks. Quinn had previously been an inmate of the Texas Reform School.

Quinn told Sheriff King that he and Gibson had planned the escape some time ago. Gibson was to have obtained an automobile and then meet Quinn at a designated spot. Quinn said he waited for the older man and when Gibson did not appear he went to the home of his parents. The parents urged the boy to give himself up to Deputy Sheriff John Mowell.

Gibson was picked up about 4 a.m. on the Seminole Road eleven miles east of Lamesa by Sheriff King. Deputies Sam Floyd and Mowell and State Ranger J. L. Rogers. At the time of his capture Gibson was trying to catch a ride.

India's Fabulous Princes Lose Power, Splendor In New Setup

By ROBERT BRANSON
United Press Staff Writer

NEW DELHI, May 5—India's native princes are being stripped of much of the power and splendor that once made them living synonyms for luxury.

Their private realms, strongholds of privilege in the days of British rule, are being swallowed up by the present government at the rate of nearly one a day.

Out of 562 princely states which studded the Indian map, all but 24 have been brought under government control since India won independence 20 months ago. Most of them were merged with adjoining provinces.

The princes did not lose their palaces, their titles or their personal hoards of riches. But their ruling powers were reduced almost to nothing in most cases, and their incomes were cut to an "economical" level by the central government.

Given Pocket Money

Peasant tax money, which used to pay for silk and gems and champagne, now goes directly into the government treasury. Out of this, the princes are allowed fixed amounts of spending money.

The 41-year-old Gaekwar of Baroda, who has spent much of his life in continental resorts and who owns some of the fanciest racing in Europe, used to collect nearly $150,000,000 (460 lakhs of rupees) in revenue every year. Now he is allowed about $300,000 (10 lakhs).

Rulers of smaller states get less. The Nawab of Tonk's allowance is only $90,000, for instance.

A few princes resisted the government's embraces. The 62-year-old Nizam of Hyderabad, said to be the richest man in the world, protested to the United Nations and spent many millions on tanks and guns. India finally brought him to heel with a full scale armoured invasion that lasted only five days.

Gaekwar "Persuaded"

The Gaekwar of Baroda was stand-offish to India for many months, but finally was "persuaded" to merge his state with Bombay Province after some private talks with Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel, India's deputy prime minister and so-called "Iron Man." What the Sardar told the Gaekwar never was made public.

The Maharajah of Kashmir was willing to join his state to India, but his accession touched off a mountain war between Indian and Pakistani troops. The Maharaja no longer has any say in the matter. A United Nations commission headed by U.S. Admiral Chester W. Nimitz is arranging a plebiscite to determine whether Kashmir should belong to India or Pakistan.

Fourteen princely states disappeared together when they were fused to form a huge new province in northwest India. Known as "The Greater Rajasthan Union," it is the biggest province in India and will be governed by a popularly elected administration.

The ceremony inaugurating the new union was attended by all 14 princes. Glittering with jewels, they sat in gold and silver chairs to watch proceedings which foretold, perhaps, the coming extinction of their own species.

Two Children Die In Blaze As Outhouse Burns In El Paso

EL PASO, May 5 (U.P.) — Two children were burned to death in an outhouse today. They were: Solena Sanchez, two and-a-half-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Sanchez and Ernesto Rodriquez, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Rodriquez. The children were apparently playing with matches in the out-house which is in the backyard of the Thomas Rodriquez home. Rodriquez is an uncle of the children.

Rodriquez said he had gone to the outhouse, an open pit toilet. As he left it the children entered. Soon after he heard screams and saw the old, wooden structure in flames. Paper had been piled in the building. The flames soared so high and hot he was unable to rescue the children.

When firemen arrived the outhouse was roaring mass of flames and the children were charred and dead.

Army Group Urges Enlargement Of Port Arthur Ship Channel

WASHINGTON, May 5 (AP)—Enlargement of the Port Arthur, ship channel was urged today by Army engineers.

They told a House subcommittee considering legislation to authorize navigation projects that the major cost of the Port Arthur undertaking would be in the alteration of a highway bridge across the channel.

The total cost of the work was estimated at $609,270, of which $298,000 would be spent on the bridge and $143,000 on deepening the 32-foot channel to 36 feet and widening it to 400 feet.

The remaning $168,270 would be spent in relocating an Army engineers field station now situated on land which would be dredged out in the process of widening the channel.

B. T. McWhorter, Port Arthur city attorney, urged prompt action on the project as a safety precautionary measure. He said tankers carrying high octane aviation gasoline continually move through the channel.

"We shudder sometimes when we see six or eight barges coming toward the narrow part of the channel at the same time one of these big tankers approach," he testified.

"The bridge is just opposite the main part of the city, and if we had a collision and an explosion there is no telling what would happen. We remember the Texas City explosion."

Typical U. S. Boy Chosen For New 'Voice Of America' Film

CONWAY, N.H., May 5. (U.P.)—The government is spending approximately $50,000 to document the daily activities of a 14-year-old Conway boy in a Voice of America film with which they hope to penetrate the iron curtain.

The non-professional star is green-eyed Richard (Pee-Wee) French, picked at random from 25 freshman high school students in this New Hampshire hamlet to act in the film which will be distributed in Europe.

Jack Rowles, in charge of the picture's production for the State department, says the five-foot, three-inch youth is a natural actor "because he never mugs or hams it up. He seems always to be at ease."

The picture, which also features the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin French, his elder brother Edwin, jr., his younger sister Joyce and his girl friend Joanna Smith, 14, will be one of a series on typical American families.

The film is being shot entirely under natural conditions—no settings, no make-up, nothing which would not occur in the family's normal life.

SOME OF WORK IS DESCRIBED

Production Of A-Bombs Divided Between New Mexico Projects

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, May 5 — Five thousand workers produce our atomic bombs today. This number equals the war-time peak.

In war, all 5,000 were concentrated at Los Alamos, N. M. Today the work is split, with 1,400 at a new bomb laboratory at Sandia, N. M., working as a branch of Los Alamos.

The steps in bomb-making are sketched by Dr. J. H. Manley, technical associate director of the Los Alamos laboratory, in the Bulletin of the Atomic scientists, published in Chicago, center of another large group of atomic energy workers.

Laboratory Makes Fuses

Sandia designs many things in finished bombs. One is the A-bomb shape. Published reports have indicated that these bombs may weigh three or four tons. Also that they are long. Upon the shape depends part of the accuracy of the bomb drop.

Fuses are another Sandia job. These fuses fire the queer sort of cannons inside the bomb to shoot pieces of plutonium or uranium metal so that they come close enough to each other to explode. The fuses can be made to obey a time clock in the bomb, or a radio signal or pressure of the atmosphere. Use of atmospheric pressure is so accurate that a fuse will operate within about 20 feet of a pre-selected height. Details never have been published.

Storage and guarding of bombs is another Sandia job. Sandia supervises when bombs are exploded at the Pacific Proving ground at Eniwetock atoll. Sandia can also use this atoll for experiments considered too risky for inhabited areas.

Electronic Brains Used

Bomb-production starts with the theoretical division at Los Alamos. This requires not only some of the best scientific minds, but also mechanical electronic brains. There is a battery of International Business machines. When these reach their limits, the electronic Eniac brain at Aberdeen Proving ground, Maryland, takes over.

A-bomb problems reach literally to the stars. Only in stars does ordinary matter exist in some of the states that happen momentarily in the nuclear explosion of an A-bomb. These are temperatures of millions of degrees, pressures approaching a billion pounds a square inch and action that happens in millionths of a second.

Chemical Element Studied

The bomb work does not stop with uranium and plutonium, the only known metals that explode. The physics division is exploring in addition the light-weight chemical elements. Not all of these are metals. Dr. Manley does not identify these light elements. He says, however, that in some reactions they release the nuclear energy. This is the same kind of concentrated energy that forms an atomic explosion. Dr. Manley says the light element study is designed to learn more about the mysteries of nuclear energies.

(Other scientists, not at Los Alamos, have named hydrogen and helium, the two lightest elements, as subjects for energy release.)

Dr. Manley says that "exotic materials" are used in A-bombs. The materials are secret. They are the job of the Chemistry and Metallurgy division, at Los Alamos.

New materials, are being studied at Los Alamos. Some of this exploring is done in a cryogenic laboratory, a place where temperatures can be dropped very close to absolute ezro, the point where the heat ceases to exist.

If wars should cease, not a pound of the explosive metals made for bombs would be wasted. Every bit can be converted for atomic power fuel.

BUGS IRONED OUT

INDIANAPOLIS (U.P.)—Amateur radio operators tracked down two "mystery stations" that have been interfering with television broadcasts in this area. The "stations" were electric germ killers which, acting like transmitters, sent out a signal in the television wave bands. The owners of the devices promised to quit using them.

Brownsville Plant To Produce Motor Fuel From Natural Gases

OLEAN, N. Y., May 5. (AP) — A plant being built at Brownsville, to make gasoline from natural gas will use a new process which may add 25 per cent to America's motor fuel supply.

A centrifugal compressor is the heart of the Hydrocol Process plant. Made by Clark Bros. Co., Inc., a subsidiary of Dresser Industries, Inc., it can produce gasoline from coal, shale or gas.

A public demonstration of the compressor was given here yesterday.

Then, at a luncheon, Ernest O. Thompson, Texas Railroad commission member, told newsmen "the hydrocol process can easily mean an added 25 per cent to the motor fuel supply of America."

Natural Gas Used

"These compressors and more like them soon will be turning billions of cubic feet of waste gas daily into gasoline. If the opportunity is fully understood and grasped and utilized," said Thompson.

In the Brownsville hydrocol plant, oxygen and preheated natural gas will be reacted at 250 pounds of pressure in a generator to produce the carbon monoxide mixture known as hydrocol gas. A similar process can make use of low grade coal or shale.

This method of producing hydrocarbons has been known since 1902, but a commercial unit was not built until 1933 when the German government subsidized one at Oberhausen-Holten. The gasoline produced there had an octane rating that was too low to permit its use as a motor fuel without additional treatment.

Refinements tested at an experimental station here yielded 82 octane gasoline and led to the commercial plant in Brownsville.

The Brownsville plant will have a daily capacity of 6,000 barrels of high octane motor fuel and 1,000 barrels of by-products.

The cost of the gasoline will be about 5.25 cents a gallon, the same as that produced by other methods.

House Authorizes $111 Million California Reclamation Project

WASHINGTON, May 5. (INS)—The House today authorized a $111 million irrigation and reclamation project in the American River basin of California.

It approved by voice vote and sent to the Senate legislation expanding work already underway on the Folsom dam and reservoir.

The measure increases the storage capacity of the dam from 355,000 to 1,000,000 acre-feet at a cost of approximately $51,800,000.

It also authorizes construction by the Reclamation bureau of certain facilities on Sly Park and Camp creeks for irrigation of lands in El Dorado county, of a hydroelectric plant at Folsom dam with an installed capacity of 120,000 kilowatts, of smaller power plants downstream, and of all necessary transmission lines from these power plants to load centers.

Cost of this work was estimated at $59,200,000.

Railroad To Serve Experimental Radar Cooking In Diners

NEW YORK, May 5. (INS)—The Pennsylvania railroad announced today it is experimenting with "radar" cooking for its diners.

Railroad officials said the radar cooking unit, installed in an experimental car, will be used occasionally in regular service. They indicated, however, they do not yet plan to install radar cooking as a regular feature.

The method, which uses microwave energy developed for wartime radar, will cook a steak in 45 seconds or a half chicken in two minutes.

THEY'LL CATCH UP

California Authorities Trace Safe-Crackers By Tool Marks

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 5. (U.P.)—Two California safe-crackers were very careful to leave no fingerprints behind on several successful jobs.

But they didn't figure on the scientific sleuthing of the state department of justice. Highway patrolmen who stopped their car found a kit of burglar tools. Technicians from the state crime laboratories went into action.

In short order, the test tube detectives had identified the tools of the suspects as those which left marks as tell-tale as fingerprints on one of the looted safes.

The thugs have plenty of time to work out some scratch-proof tools before their sentences are completed.

FORESTRY SERVICE CRITICIZED

Rocky Mountain Ranchers Bitter Over U. S. Grazing Land Policies

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The festering controversy in areas of the Rocky Mountain west between livestockmen and the Federal Forestry service has reached the erupting point in certain sections where small ranchers maintain they are being forced out of business. International News Service has sought to learn the facts of the problem which has received national attention in recent years. The findings in one "hot" area are presented as learned from neutral sources as well as from the principals.)

By LYLE L. MARINER
INS Staff Correspondent

DENVER, May 5—Ranchers and forest rangers who once greeted each other as friends and worked together in common interest, today are enemies and watch each other's every move with suspicion.

There are instances in the Uncompahgre and Kannah creek areas of western Colorado where small, independent livestockmen whose fathers and grandfathers operated the ranches before them, today are working at outside jobs to hold family ranches together.

Ranchers 'Give Up'

In other cases the small rancher living next to the forest area has given up and sold to his larger neighbor who may have enough "commensurate" land to operate an economic unit. This is prevalent in areas where the forestry department has told them that eventual cuts of 50 to 80 per cent will have to be made in grazing permits.

Taxes are being lost to school districts in this section.

Policy changes of the Forestry department over a score of years have brought much of the trouble, while rangers and regional supervisors have been caught in the web of hatred that only independent men can generate when they see privileges swept away from them.

Bloodshed Feared

David Rice, Delta county agricultural agent caught in the pincers of the warring factions, is fearful that enmity may reach the point that bloodshed will take place and forever rob the stockmen of favorable public opinion, "their only weapon of defense."

Miles Richards of Delta, a businessman selling services to stockmen, declared that cattle and sheepmen grazing stock on the forest are the only segement of the American population having no recourse to courts on "arbitrary orders from the forest service."

County Agent Rice, trying to remain neutral, pointed to the changing forest policies which brought on part of the current situation. He said that about 20 years ago the department decided forest land was understocked and issued permits for larger quotas of livestock.

Group Admits Error

Next, Rice said, came the period when a certain proportion of "commensurate" property gauged the amount of forest grazing that a rancher was permitted to use.

This still-basic policy sets up a requirement that the rancher must own sufficient land to provide winter feed for a certain number of livestock permitted to summer graze on the forest.

Rice said that "light grazing" now appears to be the rule.

Earl Sandvig, in charge of regional grazing management for the Forest service in Denver, said the service admits the error in permitting "over grazing" in the period 20 years ago. He said that an attempt was made to correct it 12 years ago, but ran into too much opposition from stockmen.

Forester Defends Policy

Sandvig said that the current program must be seen through to a finish, because ranges are in a "deplorable condition," particularly in the Uncompahgre and Kannah creek areas.

County agent Rice said the average ranch in the disputed section runs less than 100 head of cattle. If the number is cut to 50 through slashing of forest grazing permits, the ranch family no longer has an economic unit.

He said the Forest service makes no provision for family units, but cuts the large and small operators proportionately.

Forester Sandvig maintains the ranchers refuse to reorganize their ranches to meet the current situation. He said they should raise more feed on their land, irrigate pastures, and generally increase productivity of private property as the Forest service is attempting to do for the public lands.

Trespass Rule Invoked

Adding to the fuel in the Delta, Colo., area are the current orders going out from the district forester's office to ranchers, serving notice that all livestock found trespassing in the forest will be impounded. Forester Sandvig said this is a long standing policy of the service, but he admitted that it seldom is invoked.

Since the disputants will not back down, businessman Richards said, the only solution is to give legal rights through federal law to stockmen on an equal basis with mining and timber concerns."

County Agent Rice feels that a board of appeal having legal authority should be set up to arbitrate differences. He said the boards at present have no value except to make recommendations.

Forester Sandvig declared that the public forests and their watersheds must be protected at all costs or the service would be failing in its duty.

The resulting impasse holds many dangers, not only for the individuals involved but for the general public as well.

One Dead, Seven Are Hurt In Ohio Blast

DOVER, O., May 5 (AP)—One workman was killed and seven were injured in an explosion which wrecked the Hardesty Chemical company's plant yesterday.

Two were burned seriously, and five more had minor injuries.

About five hours after last night's blast ripped apart a two-story brick building, Samuel Bonifant, 40, of New Philadelphia, O., died in Union hospital.

Robert Kline, 23, burned on the arms and legs, and Frank Rossi, 19, with third-degree burns on the lower half of his body, were in serious condition. Both are Dover men.

Others Are Treated

Three other Dover workmen were treated at the hospital and released. Still another three, and a fireman who was cut got first aid at the explosion scene.

There were about 45 night shift workers in the plant when the blast occurred a few minutes after 7 p. m. (EDT).

The firm makes cosmetics and products for use in plastic goods.

The cause, and the amount of damage will not be established until after several days of investigation, Walter Sommers, plant superintendent, said. Unofficial estimates of the material loss were about $100,000.

New Pay Discovery Indicated By Andrews County Deep Test

Possibilities of the discovery of another pay in the area two miles southeast of the Dollarhide field in Southwest Andrews County were shown on a drillstem test at Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 18-B Cowden, deep wildcat.

The examination was in an unidentified lime formation at 10,995-11,035 feet, with the tool open five hours, using a 2,250-foot water blanket.

Oil Is Recovered

In one hour and 35 minutes after the tool was open, gas reached the top and flowed at the rate of 9,000 cubic feet per day.

Recovery was 3,570 feet of free, 39.1 gravity oil, 450 feet of heavily oil and gas cut drilling mud, the water blanket cut with oil and gas.

Bottom hole pressure flowing varied from 1,175 pounds to 1,900 pounds. After 15 minutes shutin, pressure was 2,000 pounds.

Drilling was continuing under 11,074 feet. Another drillstem test is due shortly. The project has already shown for commercial production from higher formations.

The current horizon, although unidentified by the operator, is thought by some observers possibly to be Silurian.

Operations To Start

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 12, block A-55, psl survey.

Operations are starting immediately on a 6,000-foot, rotary tool wildcat in East-Central Hockley County, five miles west of the town of Smyer.

Designation will be E. Constantin, jr., et al, No. 1 J. H. Goodpasture, staked 440 feet from east and south lines of tract 2, section 4, Wm. Tubbs subdivision A of psl survey.

Extension Is Completed

An extension to the Seminole field of Central Gaines County has been completed at J. G. McMillian, et al, of Midland No. 1 S. R. Simpson, outpost to the pool, 330 feet from north and east lines of the lease in section 284, block G, WTRR survey.

Flowing six hours through a one-inch choke, the well was finished for a calculated 24-hour potential of 916 barrels of oil. Gravity was 34 degrees. Gas-oil ratio was 950-1. There was no water.

Production followed a 2,000-gallon acid treatment in the pay formation at 5,144-5,256 feet.

Tech Educator Cites Need For 'Adult Outlook' In Talk To Parenthood Group In San Angelo

SAN ANGELO, May 5 (AP)—Romantic traditions concerning marriage are "blown to smithereens" when preparing young couples for the occasion, Dr. Ivan Little of Texas Tech, said here today.

Dr. Little, of the department of philosophy and sociology at the Lubbock college, was guest speaker at the morning session of the Planned Parenthood League of Texas, meeting here. The two-day convention was to close this afternoon.

Adult 'Outlook' Needed

The Texas Tech professor said it is his belief the world is in the "mad state that it is" because those who are supposed to be adults do not have an "adult outlook on life." Dr. Little teaches a course on marriage at Lubbock.

Mrs. George Ripley of Dallas spoke on her early associations with Margaret Sanger, which was followed by a luncheon at which Mrs. Sanger was guest speaker.

Woman Continues Work

This was the first convention Mrs. Sanger has attended in years, she said here today, "But I couldn't resist the urgent invitation of these Texas women."

Mrs. Sanger, an exponent of birth ontrol, said she feels that the work she first began before World War one is well established in America.

She said she now spends her time and efforts in crusading for "Better health for mothers in European countries which are over populated and underfed."

Frederick Peter Pieters was fined $80 for drunken driving in Gwelo, Southern Rhodesia, after having been arrested while driving a water wagon.

Tech Vice-President Speaks At Kiwanis Club Luncheon Meet

"There is too much evidence of spiritual shriveling-up in individual Americans," Dr. E. N. Jones, vice-president of Texas Tech told the Kiwanis club at noon Thursday.

"The average citizen today wants too much of the tangible and material comforts and is overlooking the importance of spiritual freedom," Dr. Jones added.

The speaker and his subject were brought before the club as part of a "Spiritual Aims" program sponsored by the Kiwanis.

Dr. Jones delved into the historical background of nations that grew to great power and then collapsed because they lost sight of the spirit and dignity of the individual and sought material power.

"Rome collapsed because of internal decay," Dr. Jones said. "That is the danger we have to recognize and prevent in our own country today. Democracy must return to its basic fundamental which was established by Christ, the dignity of individual man."

Bob Rose made a brief announcement in which he urged the Kiwanis club to get behind the efforts of "Clean-Up Week" so that Lubbock could continue to be called the "cleanest city."

F. L. Scruggs was introduced as a new member and guests included Harry Van Pelt, Albuquerque; Bob Rose, W. H. Tinney, O. P. Davis, G. C. Reed, Fort Worth; Horace Kaufman, Maurice LaFan; J. P. Seiberling, Tom White and Jack Luize, Akron, Ohio.

CHANGE IN RED POLICY SEEN

West May Now Face Struggle For All Of Germany Against Soviets

BERLIN, May 5 (AP)—The western powers, victorious in the cold battle for Berlin, come now to the greater struggle for all of Germany.

Many international observers here believe that a victory for the westerners in this struggle would shatter the Russians' iron curtain. Eastern Europe traditionally depends heavily on Germany for the supplies it needs—supplies which it is doubtful Russia alone can provide.

Spells Western Victory

Russia's failure to attain her goal of driving the western powers from Berlin with the blockade obviously spells a western victory in the Berlin phase.

The next phase will open with the forthcoming four-power meetings in Paris, called in connection with the agreement announced in New York yesterday to end the blockades and seek a settlement of the whole German problem.

Many top American officials in Germany expect the Russians, at the Paris meetings, will shift from a policy of obstruction to one of foxy, limited cooperation, designed to give them the strongest possible voice in a central German government merging the eastern and western zones.

Concessions Expected

These officials predict the Soviet bargainers will make certain concessions, even to the point of allowing satellite nations to seek renewed economic ties with the West to relieve economic distress before they become too restive.

Russia, these Americans believe, realizes her get-tough policy with the West has failed. So they look for a leavening of this policy designed to strengthen the propaganda hands of Communist parties in western Europe, and to wangle Communists into influential positions in a central German government.

These are not unanimous views, however.

Discard Useless Weapon

Some very able observers expect the diplomatic struggle for all Germany will be sharper and less subtle. They predict that the Russians, pinched by the Allied counter-blockade which has stagnated the economy of the Soviet zone of Germany, simply will discard the blockade as a useless weapon.

These spokesmen say they will be surprised if the four-power meetings are not marked by the same tough, futile discussions which marked past ones, with the Russians making few concessions but blasting the West with propaganda in the hope of winning German support.

There's A New Addition Coming!

Rites For Levelland Couple's Infant Son Set In Brownfield

BROWNFIELD, May 5 (Special)—Graveside services for Thomas E. Durkee, 3-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Durkee of Levelland, will be at 10 a. m. Friday in Terry County Memorial cemetery. Brownfield Funeral home will direct burial.

The infant died Wednesday afternoon in a local hospital.

Survivors include the parents; three half-sisters Fredie Ruth, Frances and Felicha Lowe; the maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Pharr of Brownfield; and the paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Durkee of Tulsa.

Arctic Codfish To Be 'Warmed' In Pacific Waters By Scientists

PALO ALTO, Cal, May 5 (U.P.)—Arctic cod fish are going to have a hot time for science's sake in a Stanford university experiment.

The cod, which thrive in waters as cold as three degrees below freezing, will be dropped into waters comparable in temperature to California's Pacific coast. To the cod, physiology professor John Field said, that's hot water, and the fish probably will suffer a heat stroke.

The resulting data will further the Office of Naval Research study of body reactions to extremes of hot and cold.

Lubbock Man Elected To Credit Group Post

One person was elected to an office and another was recognized at the 49th annual meeting of the Retail Merchants association of Texas, Retail Credit Executives of Texas and the Lone Star Council of Credit Women conducted in Dallas Saturday through Tuesday.

Q. B. Taylor, president of the Lubbock Credit Granters club, elected a director of the state board of the Retail Credit Executives of Texas.

Mrs. R. W. Workman was recognized as secretary of Lubbock Retail Merchants association, which was one of six such bureaus in Texas with two or more employes receiving honorable mention for service in credit work.

Lubbock was transferred out of district one into district two, which is bounded by El Paso on the west, by Fort Worth on the east, by San Angelo on the south and Lubbock on the north.

Lubbock persons attending the meeting were Q. B. Taylor, representing Fenner Tubbs Co., and Mrs. Taylor; D. W. Holloday, of Dunlap's, and Mrs. Holloday; Mrs. Mary Louise Fulkerson, Grollman's; Mrs. June Woodrum, Dryer & Lee Oil Co.; Mrs. Lucille Coltharp, Lubbock Auto Co.; R. W. Workman of Workman Motor Co., and Mrs. Workman, representing the Retail Merchants association.

Motorists Make Mistake Of Siphoning Gas From Police Car

SAN FRANCISCO, May 5. (U.P.)—Two Marin college freshmen had just taken their girl friends home after a dance and were rattling toward San Francisco in their battered old model T when the car ran out of gas.

It was a black night and they walked along the highway until they came upon a parked car. They decided to siphon a gallon of gas and leave a half dollar with an explanatory note on the front seat. But they drew the gas before writing the note.

In the midst of their operations two policemen pounced out of the darkness. They were hauled away and spent the night in jail.

The next morning the judge listened to their story and dismissed them with a stern lecture.

As they left the courtroom the judge began to laugh. "Imagine those kids siphoning gas from a police car!"

MANY RESEARCH STUDIES PLANNED

'Living Memorial' Is Set Up To Aid Scientific Work In Pacific

By BOB CONSIDINE
INS Staff Writer

NEW YORK, May 5—This is a "living memorial" piece involving some people you know. It is made up of pertinent quotes.

"I was interested in the letter from Frank M. Shore, jr., of Washington, which you printed recently," writes Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, jr., commander of the Army and Air Forces in the Pacific island area under Admiral Nimitz.

"Mr. Shore suggested that veterans receiving rebates from World War II insurance policies should assign all or part of their rebates to a worthy project.

Field Station Set Up

"The Pacific war memorial, of which I am president, is a living memorial dedicated to all those who died and served in the Pacific war. Its object is to bring good out of the many sacrifices made in that war.

"It established last November a scientific research field station on the island of Koror in the Palau islands. The station occupies the former Japanese scientific building which has been made available to the memorial through the cooperation of the Navy department. Two young naturalists from the University of Michigan restored the building. An adequate lab has been installed and beginning this summer, well-known scientists with important research projects, ranging from studies of tropical medicine to fisheries, will be making this station their base.

"The Pacific war memorial is dependent on public subscriptions for support of the immense work which it is starting. A service membership costs only $2. I believe that the Pacific war memorial is the type of organization which Mr. Shore had in mind when he wrote you. As support increases the memorial hopes to establish other field stations and other conservation areas through the vast territory of the Pacific, and to draw from these activities immense benefits for this country and the world."

To Push Research

Because a great man, Lou Gehrig, died from a version of multiple sclerosis, something important is happening in that bewildering field of research. Medical science still does not know whether this crippling disease is caused by a virus or an allergy.

"It is the sad sack of disease," Cornelius H. Trager, colorful and competent medical director of the national Multiple Sclerosis society, told a group of sports writers the other day . . . writers who have promised to help aid Lou's widow in her fine efforts to raise funds for the society. He said:

"We are in the same position as the polio people were 30 years ago. It is a sad but true fact that the crippling of Franklin D. Roosevelt alone made possible the funds with which competent men and women are now fighting polio. The name of Lou Gehrig, and his memory, will do the same for multiple sclerosis. He is the light that will lead us and the public to an awareness of the need of research in this disease. Now, perhaps, we can do something definite about tackling an enemy which has struck down at least 250,000 Americans."

Waiter Keep Up Search

Harry Lepselter, the New York waiter who refuses to believe that his Air Force son was killed in 1944—as the Department of Defense insists—has aroused international interest in his touching story.

People are now helping him in several countries in Europe. An Air Force sergeant who insists he saw young Lepselter in a Belgium prison hospital for the mentally stricken, months after his announced death, is visiting Lepselter. A dozen countries have tacked up Lepselter's poignant poster "have you seen this American flier?"

A southern lady who has been supporting a young sufferer from amnesia, who might have been a flier, has sent the boy's pictures to Lepselter. It is not his boy, but now Lepselter, with his limited funds and limitless faith, is doing what he can to help that boy.

"My own son is in that same kind of condition . . . somewhere in this world," he told me the other day. "And I am going to find him."

8 SONS IN SERVICE

Investment Of $170 Brings In Oil Well For California Man

LOS ANGELES, May 5 (AP) —Two years ago Glenn J. Homan spent $170 for mineral rights to 320 acres of sun-baked land in Cuyama valley, about half-way between Bakersfield and Santa Barbara.

He stood by a well drilling rig yesterday and watched himself become a potential millionaire—without cracking a smile.

He had leased the land to Richfield Oil Co., developers of the booming, oil-rich valley. Homan, 55, an accountant with a cement company in Glendale, Calif., waited calmly as the drill neared the 7,400 foot level, then with a gushing roar, came in.

"I've never bet on a horse race in my life," Homan told newsmen, "But I can't resist a wildcat oil lease. This is the first one that's come in."

The area was believed barren until Richfield brought in a discovery well in June, 1948.

The new well is flowing at the rate of 5,088 barrels of 34 gravity oil and 1,500,000 cubic feet of gas a day, Richfield reported. The company said it plans to drill 32 more wells on Homan's land.

Homan's cost was $10 filing fee, plus 50 cents for each acre, or a total of $170.

Medical Group Ends San Antonio Meet With Election Of Officers

SAN ANTONIO, May 5. (AP) — The Texas State Medical association closed its convention today after electing officers and choosing Fort Worth for 1950.

Dr. William M. Gambrell of Austin was named president-elect. Dr. C. V. Brindley of Temple was installed as president for the coming year—succeeding Dr. Tate Miller of Dallas. Gambrell will take office next year.

The association picked Galveston as its 1951 meeting place.

Delegates heard from William Alan Richardson, editor of the American Medical Economics magazine, that British people were receiving "more medical care than before but it is poor care."

He said that Great Britain couldn't afford its new national health service without Marshall plan aid.

Dr. Gambrell's wife was named president-elect of the association's auxiliary yesterday.

Other association officers elected included Drs. Robert Homan, El Paso, speaker of the house of delegates, and E. A. Rowley, Amarillo, trustee.

Councilors included Drs. George Turner, El Paso; R. E. Windham, San Angelo and C. E. Willingham, Tyler.

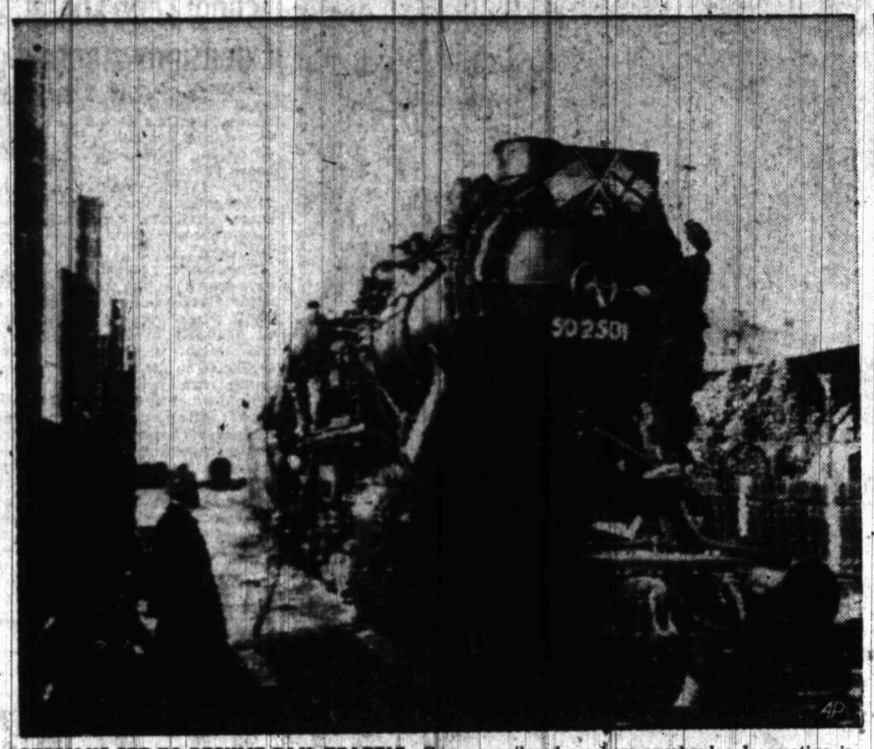

Richardson recently returned from a month's study of England's national health service.

U. S. Faces Loss On Large Quantity Of Mexican Meat

WASHINGTON, May 5. (AP) — The United States faces a loss on more than 100,000,000 pounds of Mexican canned meat acquired under a campaign to aid Mexico fight an outbreak of the foot and mouth disease.

This government agreed to buy considerable quantites of Mexican meat which prior to the outbreak came to this country as live animals. A quarantine barred entry of the animals and the meat. Some meat has been sold abroad at cost, but a shortage of dollar exchange and an improvement in the general food situation has made it difficult to sell all of the meat.

The United States paid about 28 cents a pound. It now is negotiating for the sale of about 40,000,000 pounds to Great Britain.

GERMANS SET TO RESUME RAIL TRAFFIC—German railroad workers overhaul a locomotive in Berlin's Grunewald Station in anticipation of lifting of the Berlin blockade May 12. New Mexico Indians Threaten To Revolt Against Tribal Heads

TAOS, N. M. May 5 (INS) — A tense atmosphere prevailed at the Taos Indian pueblo today as 300 younger tribesmen threatened revolt against the stern dictatorship of the "council of 36."

Ringleaders of the threatened revolt included some 100 World War II veterans who contend they have been denied an opportunity to participate in the GI training program.

They also demand a voice in governing the pueblo and want electricity and facilities for improving sanitation

The pueblo council, made up of 36 members who elect their own successors, reportedly was considering "jail sentences" for some of the "younger element."

The council rules the world's "eldest apartment house," a five story structure at the foot of Sacred Mountain three miles from Taos. The population of the pueblo is around 1,000.

The fight started when Eric T. Hagberg, superintendent of New Mexico's united pueblos, was invited to the pueblo to hear the troubles of the dissatisfied element.

Hagberg was met at a Taos hotel by five councilmen and Jesus Romero, the council chief, who told him, "go back to Albuquerque. Don't go one foot closer to the pueblo."

They informed the superintendent they had their own "laws and regulations and don't want any meeting."

The 100 "young bucks" violated council orders, however, and met with Hagberg in Taos to discuss their grievances.

Iowa Farm Wife Is Consultant To U.S. Army Group In Germany

ACKWORTH, Ia., May 5 (AP)—An Iowa farm wife—the world's first lady of farms—will spend the next two months acting as consultant for the department of social and cultural relations of the United States Army's occupation forces.

She is Mrs. Raymond Sayre of Ackworth, president of the Associated Country Women of the World. She also has important posts with two sub-organizations of the United Nations.

A 53-year-old housewife and mother, Mrs. Sayre is going to check on conditions in farm homes in the American sector of western Germany. She also will meet with women of the Landsfrau Verein, the German affiliate of the Associated Country Women of the World.

Farm Life Praised

At home in the kitchen or doing outdoor chores, Mrs. Sayre is convinced farm life has virtues not found in city life. She says:

"Husband and wife living on a farm naturally have the same interests—all that goes on at the farm is of mutual concern. Our farm is our home and our business. We talk things over, reach our decisions together.

"In city homes, so many wives know nothing about their husbands' work except how much money they bring home.

"Living here, we have all the advantages of city life, none of the disadvantages. We can look at the view, in any direction."

The Sayres live in a roomy, modern home. They have four children, but only one, 14-year-old John, still lives at home.

Bill, their oldest son, a graduate of Iowa State college last June, is now his father's partner on the farm. Bill is married and has his own home nearby.

The daughters are Mrs. George R. Coolidge, jr., of Farmingham, Mass., and Alice, who is employed by the U. S. intelligence agency in London, England.

Among the family pictures in the Sayre living room, one in which Mrs. Sayre takes the usual grandmotherly pride is that of healthy-looking George Ruggles Coolidge III, son of their daughter, Helen, in Framingham.

Because of her extensive traveling, Mrs. Sayre says she is home about one week out of three.

"I allow one or two days for the heavy housework, like washing and ironing and cleaning. Then I devote a couple of days to desk work.

"I first get my files organized, then call in a girl to take letters.

"I couldn't operate without a schedule—I've got the whole family doing it now."

Mrs. Sayre is proud of her remodeled red and white kitchen. She planned the changes and supervised the work after extensive study of plans in magazines and conferences with college extension experts. A doorway was moved, a window taken out and cabinets installed.

Of the things she has collected from all over the world, her favorite is her antique Staffordshire china. The dainty china pieces, etched in light blue, have been collected from far and near.

Her husband is an active farmer, with special interests in sheep. Besides operating the 600-acre home farm, he supervises six other farms. He is vice-president of the Iowa Purebred Sheep Breeders' association and holds offices in other sheepmen's groups. He has a flock of 600 head of sheep, 150 of them purebred Hampshires.

Mrs. Sayre's growth as a leader among farm women has moved steadily from an Iowa township to the world stage in the last 30 years. She began working when extension services first started, was elected to county office, then for 10 years was chairman of the women's committee of the Iowa Farm bureau.

Affiliations Given

Mrs. Sayre's affiliations are:

President of the Associated Women of the American Farm Bureau federation; member of the Rural Welfare Advisory committee of the Food and Agricultural organization of the United Nations; member of the Agricultural committee of the National Planning association and American Farm Bureau representative on the National Commission for UNESCO.

Mrs. Sayre previously has been honored as a "master farm homemaker" and has been state and national president of the Master Farm Homemakers guild and president of the American Country Life association.

Air Force To Use Handwriting Test In Medical Examinations

SAN ANTONIO, May 5 (AP)—Buzz boys in the U. S. Air Force of the future may need to show a steady hand with a pencil as well as their controls.

"Graphologists" at Randolph Air Force base's School of Aviation Medicine, now developing a new method of character reading by handwriting, believe a tense man will show his nervousness in cramped and tight writing. When he is relaxed, they hold, his handwriting will be "smooth and flowing."

Dr. Abraham Bingel, in charge of the project, said he disliked the word "graphologist," explaining that such practitioners in centuries past had been mountebanks who worked "almost from intuition and imagination."

"We are developing an entirely new method on handwriting forces, accordng to sound neurophysical principles," Bingel said. "It will be capable of exact objective measurements that can be correlated to traits of character and personality. A pen is so common that it does not excite emotional responses," he added.

The couple had gone fishing Sunday in a 12-foot skiff. Kelly was a junior high school teacher here. His body was found Tuesday.

Inquest verdicts of death by accidental drowning were returned in both cases.

Kilgore Youth Fatally Burned In 'Horseplay' With Friend

KILGORE, May 5 (AP)—Donald Whittington, 18, was fatally burned yesterday as the result of some good-naturerd horseplay.

Whittington and a friend were tossing buckets of water on each other at a local establishment.

But one bucket happened to contain gasoline. The companion threw the gasoline on Whittington, and sparks from a welding machine ignited the youth's clothing.

He died in a hospital last night.

State To Ask Death Penalty In Abilene 'Wrong Woman' Slaying

ABILENE, May 5 (AP)—District Attorney Esco Walter said today he will ask the death penalty in the murder trial of John Thomas Williams, Abilene barber. Williams is being tried in 104th District court for the "wrong woman" slaying of Jeanenne Paschall, 19, here Oct. 17, 1948.

Shortly after the shooting, Williams made a statement to officers in presence of a news reporter that he had shot the wrong woman.

His estranged wife was in the cabin at the time of the shooting, according to today's testimony. Miss Paschall was the fiancee of Williams' son.

A niece, Jessie Blunt, testified she also was in the cabin. She said she opened the door when Williams arrived at the court. He shot through the screen, she related. The three women ran screaming into the bathroom and Williams shot again, Miss Blunt said.

"Jeanenne fell. Blood was running from her head," Miss Blunt testified. "I jumped from a window and ran to call the police."

City policeman C. W. Cunningham testified that on arresting Williams he had to ask three times for a .38 caliber pistol, which the state introduced as the murder weapon.

Cunningham quoted Williams as saying after the slaying that "I don't give a . . . if I killed all of them."

School Land Lease Extensions Approved

AUSTIN, May 5 (AP)—Mineral lease extensions, netting the permanent public school fund $1,358,643 in cash bonuses, were approved by the state school fund land board yesterday.

The 197 extensions involved 84,448 acres of land, Bascom Giles, board chairman and state land commissioner, said in announcing the board's action.

The board yesterday added 53 new leases to the 144 it had already given preliminary approval. These newly-approved leases added $410,434 in bonus payments and should bring an additional $5,000,000 to the school fund in accruing royalty, Giles said.

Holders of the 26 leases covering 11,928 acres passed up the extension chance and will automatically relinquish their leases at the end of the current 25-year terms, Giles said.

The 50th legislature authorized extensions of lease periods as long as commercial production was maintained by paying extension bonuses.

Tech Agriculture Division Ends Third Year Of Grazing Tests

Wednesday marked the end of the third year of experimental grazing on irrigated grass which the agriculture division at Texas Tech has been carrying on.

Dean W. L. Stangel, head of the agriculture division, said plots of alfalfa and brome-grass and alfalfa and perennial rye as well as a combination of the three had been used in the experiments.

During 1947 the plots, which were one acre each were stocked with three animal units per acre. That proved to be over stocked however and in 1948 the load was reduced to two animal units per plot.

The latter plan proved to be just the opposite. Two animals were insufficient to properly graze the plots. For the past year the load was put at two and one half units per acre. Results of this operation have not been announced.

Tech Agriculture Students Vote Gift Of Pictures To Department

Graduating seniors from the division of agriculture at Texas Tech have voted to leave small individual pictures of themselves to the division.

Dean W. L. Stangel, head of the agriculture division, said it was the first time students had done such a thing. The pictures will be put in one frame and hung in the dean's office.

Old Bank Books Offered In Court

Several hundred pounds of ancient bank records were brought into Federal court yesterday to be offered as evidence in the case of B. C. Riley versus the heirs of J. L. Howard.

The records for the most part were ledgers of the now defunct City National Bank of Bowie, Texas. Some of the volumes date from the 1890s and continue in an unbroken chain down to about the year 1914.

Asks For Accounting

The suit brought by Riley is for an accounting of the estate left by his mother, Mrs. Sally Howard. Mrs. Howard died in 1901 and left her estate in equal shares to her son, Cash Riley, and to her second husband, James L. Howard. At the time of her death the family was residing in Montague county where Mrs. Howard owned several hundred acres of land and a large herd of cattle.

The will of Mrs. Howard had the further provision that upon the death of her husband, Riley was to receive the benefits of any accretion to the estate which she left.

At the time of his mother's death, Riley was 12 years old. His stepfather was named his guardian and also executor of the estate. A stipulation in the will was that Howard would furnish an accounting to Riley when he should become of age.

Objections Overruled

Attorneys for Riley say that they hope to prove in their suit that Howard failed to make any proper accounting to his stepson and also failed to turn over to him properties and funds which were rightfully his.

Judge Joseph B. Dooley, Amarilla, is hearing the case in the Federal court for the northern division of Texas, currently sitting in Lubbock. Judge Dooley overruled the objections of the defendants counsel who sought to bar the admission of the old bank accounts. Much of the day was taken up in the examination of the venerable pages by attorneys on both sides.

When court was adjourned for the day the enormous volumes were loaded onto a four-wheeled truck and hauled into the marshal's office for safe-keeping.

Atlanta Slaying Probe Shifts To California

ATLANTA, Ga., May 5 (INS)—Atlanta police revealed that Detective Lieutenant M. M. Coppenger was in Los Angeles tonight questioning nine members of the Metropolitan Opera troupe in connection with the murder of tenor John Garris.

Atlanta authorities said Coppenger slipped out of the city Tuesday and stopped in Dallas, where the opera company performed a few days following the slaying of the young singer.

Coppenger was said to have gone to Los Angeles to question Aamon Vinay and George Cehanovsky and seven other male members of the cast after he talked with Dallas police.

Background Sought

Atlanta officials declared that Coppenger was attempting to probe into Garris' background.

Police said that Vinay was in Atlanta the morning Garris' body was found in the rubble of an alley in the city's warehouse district two weeks ago.

The handsome German refugee was discovered dead with a bullet in his heart only a few hours after he had finished a three-day performance in Atlanta with the Metropolitan company.

Police in New York, Atlanta and other cities have been working on the case. All leads thus far, however, have fizzled. Police have even been baffled as to the motive of the slaying. Garris still had his valuables when found.

Farm Program To Have Effect On Prices Paid For Food In 1950

By VINCENT BURKE
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 5.—What Congress does about farm price supports within the next few months may have a lot to do with the prices you pay for bacon and eggs a year from now.

There is a good chance that prices of these products will be lower next spring, if Congress either (1) Enacts the administration's new farm program, or (2) Does nothing, thereby letting a new flexible support system go into effect next year as now scheduled.

However, consumers' chances of getting price cuts on pork or eggs next year would be slim, if Congress should decide to extend the present support law, as is, for another year.

Prices May Drop

Unless the government holds them up at present support levels, market prices of these products are expected to sag next year. For several years the government has been holding up egg prices by taking price-depressing surpluses out of the market. The outlook is for an even bigger egg "surplus" next spring. As for hogs, they're selling near support levels now, with production on the upswing.

Under the administration's proposed new farm program, the government would not buy up surpluses of meat, eggs or dairy products to hold up prices. Instead, the old law of supply and demand would be allowed to set prices. The government would send out checks to farmers to cover any difference between the average market price and a support "price" farmers "ought" to get to be assumed of a minimum income.

Would Protect Farmer

Thus, consumers would benefit. And farmers' income would be protected. But it might cost taxpayers, consumers and farmers a lot of money out of the other pocket. The administration has declined to estimate the cost. Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan says no one can predict the cost of a price support program in a dynamic economy.

The law requiring the government to support the market price of eggs and hogs by buying up "surpluses" expires Dec. 31. Officials believe the only way that consumers could be kept from getting at least some break on egg and bacon prices next year would be for Congress to extend this law for another year, as is. In that event, they say, the cost to taxpayers probably would be heavy and consumers probably would get little or no break on prices.

Brannan contends the total cost to the public of his program would be less than it would cost to extend the existing program. Both would provide record-high peacetime supports for farmers.

If Congress does nothing, the so-called Aiken law will go into effect on 1950 crops. This provides for flexible and generally lower supports for basic, storable crops. It gives the agriculture secretary discretionary authority to support eggs and hogs and other crops but does not require him to do so.

Strikes cost 21,260 New Zealand workers $641,476 in lost wages in nine months of 1948, the Government announced.

Accident Discloses Woman's 'Secret'

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 5 (INS) — Twenty-two year old Edith Barnett of St. Paul couldn't keep her secret, hard as she tried.

Her ankle got caught today in a weight-reducing machine at a St. Paul reducing salon—and her call for help brought a police ambulance, two squad cars, a fire department rescue squad and an engine company.

Several hundred persons also jammed the health studios to watch the weight-reducing device pried apart and Miss Barnett's ankle released.

All that Miss Barnett suffered was embarrassment. She sobbed:

"Now everyone'll know I'm trying to reduce. And I was trying to keep it a secret."

Petroleum Firm, Official Post Bond In Louisiana Oil Violation

LAKE CHARLES, La., May 5. (AP) — Bonds of $5000 each were posted today for the two defendants charged Tuesday at Opelousas with violation of the Connally oil act.

Dudley Tower of Houston, posted bonds for himself and for the Union Oil Company of California.

Tower, Houston district manager of the California firm, and the company are charged in 30 counts with interstate shipment of Louisiana oil to Texas for refining, contrary to Louisiana conservation rules.

U.S. District Attorney Malcolm Lafargue, who announced the charges, said the bill of information fixes the time in the charges between January 1946 and March 30, 1947, and the place as the Mathilda Gray lease of the Vinton field in Calcasieu parish.

Over production from the lease as a whole is not charged but instead the oil company and Tower are charged with producing more oil from individual wells than the allowables set by the State Department of Conservation.

California Man, 13 Children Fail To Catch Speedy Burglar

PASADENA, Calif., May 5 (AP)—Despite plenty of reinforcements, James Hankels was unable to catch the would-be burglar.

He told police he investigated a noise yesterday to find a man crouched under the crib of his one-year-old son, Godfrey.

Hankels let out a whoop and dived for the man. The prowler scrambled away and sprinted out the back door, with Hankels and his 13 other children hot on his heels.

But the 14 of them couldn't run fast enough.

Appraisers looking up the history of a $12,000,000 estate at Sydney, Australia, found that in 1837 it was exchanged for a horse.

House Group Reports Favorably On Canadian River Water Bill

WASHINGTON, May 5 (Special) The House public lands committee today reported favorably on a bill permitting a compact between Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma regarding division of Canadian River waters.

Introduced by Rep. Eugene Worley, of Shamrock, the bill is considered one of the preliminary steps in damming the Canadian to insure water for municipalities throughout the Panhandle, including Lubbock and Amarillo.

The proposal states the agreement must be entered into not later than June 30, 1953. It provides that one suitable person shall be named by the president from the Department of Interior as U. S. representative, who will report proceedings to Congress.

The compact shall not be binding unless ratified by the legislatures of the three states.

Most Housewives Shun 'Old-Time' Practice

Opinion Divided On Merits Of Spring House Cleaning 'Orgy'

By ROGER SOUTHALL
Avalanche Staff Writer

In spring a woman's fancy turns to thoughts of . . .

Spring house cleaning!

At least, that's the way it was back in the old days, when no good housewife could rest with an easy conscience until every rug had been beaten, every shelf scrubbed, every curtain washed and starched stiff enough to stand alone.

But that's all changed, we've been told, and the annual spring cleaning orgy now is as outmoded as Uncle Otto's sideburns. Nowadays, it seems, spring holds no drudgery for the housewife, for with all the modern aids to housekeeping, she can keep her house spotless all year round with a few minutes' work each day.

Housewives Questioned

Even so, the thought lurked in the back of our mind that women (like the rest of the species) are apt to be creatures of habit, and that SOMEWHERE there must be a few housewives left who actually enjoy spring cleaning, who wouldn't give it up for a dozen Little Blitz vacuum sweepers. No, not even with all the attachments thrown in.

With that quest in mind, we turned to the local telephone directory. In the best tradition of the give away programs, we picked 10 numbers at random from it, and called those numbers.

To the 10 housewives who answered, we asked this question: "Do you or do you not believe in thorough top-to-bottom cleaning each spring? If you do, how do you go about it?

Opinion Divided

Four who were questioned said flatly they did not believe in such large-scale cleaning. Another three said they believed in a thorough spring cleaning, but did not make it an annual practice.

The remaining three housewives emphatically favored spring cleaning. Not only do they believe it's a good thing, they also practice their conviction each spring down to the last sparkling window pane. And while each of the three agreed as to the benefits and advantages of a good spring cleaning, no two go about it in the same manner.

One housewife said she has no particular system but begins her cleaning where attention is needed most. "If the woodwork needs scrubbing above everything else, I start there. If the curtains are dusty and limp, I clean them first, and if the closets are littered I straighten them before I do anything else," she said.

Family Clears Out

"Of course, the usual case is that everything needs cleaning equally bad, so I just pitch in wherever the mood strikes me," she said.

Another member of the spring cleaning school has a very definite system which she follows stringently.

First I get my children off to school with extra money so they can eat lunch there. Then I get my husband off to work with strict orders not to come home for lunch. Then I go to work," she said.

And where does she start, we asked.

'Junk' Goes Out

"Well, first of all, I go through all the junk that's collected during the year and throw it away. That's one reason I won't let my family come around while I'm cleaning. Someone or the other just can't bear to throw out a six months-old magazine because there's a story in it they plan to read someday. And one of the children is always sure he'll need last year's crepe paper Hallowe'en costume again someday, even though it's practically torn to pieces.

"Anyhow, by the time the family has come home in the afternoon I have the junk disposed of so they can't paw through it and bring half of it back in again. And usually no one misses the stuff I've thrown out," she said.

Family Cleans Windows

"You know," she added, "I have to watch myself while I'm doing all this cleaning or I catch myself putting aside a magazine with an interesting recipe in it that I mean to try someday, but probably never will, or saving used gift-wrap paper and ribbons that aren't fit to be used again."

She says she's perfectly willing for her family to stay around after she's completed operations clearance, especially when she gets ready for window washing and waxing!

And while the above two housewives tackle their respective cleaning jobs with energy and determination, they can't hold a candle to the whirlwind cleaning campaign of the third housewife we talked to.

System Is Thorough

"First off," she said, "I take down all the curtains and pictures and roll up all the rugs. Then I clean all the ceilings and walls and mop the floors. After that I wash the woodwork and windows, clean the curtains and hang them again. That's what I do on the first day.

"Then I clean the carpets and upholstered furniture with the electric sweeper and pack away the winter clothes after having mothproofed the closets. Next I polish all the furniture, wax the floors, hang the pictures and mirrors, and move the furniture back into place. That's the second day's work."

And what, we asked her, does she do on the third day?

"The third day is the most important," she said with a laugh. "That's the day I don't get out of bed at all."

American Flag Has Topsy-Turvy Day At Alabama Statehouse

MONTGOMERY, Ala., May 5. (AP)—(INS)—Old Glory had a topsy-turvy day at the Alabama State capitol.

Mrs. May Harmon, capitol receptionist, thought someone was trying to play a joke on her when a telephone call informed her that the capitol flag was flying upside down. A few more rings convinced her something must be wrong.

The building attendant was sent to make matters aright. But another good-hearted soul, who had not seen the change, called with another report about the bottoms-up flag.

Up the dome steps the attendant went again. He followed his orders and reversed the flag's position.

There came another flood of calls, followed in turn by the attendant's third trip to the roof.

Old Glory was righted permanently.

Jury Selection Completed In Iowa 'Triangle' Slaying Trial

CEDAR RAPIDS, IA., May 5. (INS)—Nine men and three women, two of them housewives, were chosen jurors today to hear the Cedar Rapids "love triangle" trial of a prominent St. Louis physician accused of killing a rival for his wife's affections.

The trial was recessed until Monday morning after selection of the jury. The judge ordered the jury locked up until they return to court that day.

DON'T BLAME YOUR INSURANCE AGENT!

If you were one of those who sustained damage in the recent hailstorm, and had the $100 deductible clause on your policy—DON'T BLAME YOUR INSURANCE AGENT. You may be sure your Agent would not have attached this clause had it not been a mandatory ruling of the Board of Insurance Commissioners, who promulgate the rules and regulations which must be complied with by all local Agents and Companies doing business in Texas.

On September 1st 1946 the Board of Insurance Commissioners adopted the mandatory $100 deductible clause as, definitely, the lesser of two evils, the alternative being to double the cost of your Extended Coverage insurance.

We wish we didn't have the $100 deductable clause, but it is much to be preferred to an increase in rate. After all, it is much more important to be protected against a catastrophe-loss at the present low rate than against minor losses at a much higher rate. We have been fortunate in this area in that there have been no wide-spread, severe storms since the adoption of the $100 deductible clause, consequently the difference between the present .42 dwelling Extended Coverage rate and the alternate .84 rate has resulted in a tremendous saving to the insurance-buying public.

Price-Fixers Lose

MANY attempts have been made in various disguises to slip bills through the present session of the Legislature to fix by law the minimum prices Texans would be required to pay for a wide variety of commodities and services.

All such attempts appear thus far to have failed. The one rebuffed most recently proposed regulations of the dry cleaning industry. Supporters of the measure have said, sanctimoniously, that its only purpose is to "protect" the public. Most legislators and legislative observers seem to share the opinion that the actual result of such a law would be to force people to pay higher prices for dry cleaning by restricting competition. Critics have charged, further, that the bill would force many dry cleaners to close their doors, and keep others from going into business, because they could not comply with the terms.

The support for the measure has been obscure. Conjectures are that drumbeaters include those who would find it easier to establish price-fixing under such a law. Other support reportedly has come from equipment manufacturers which happen—purely by coincidence, of course, to make the only type of machinery which would meet the proposed requirements.

The cool reception given the proposal, however, strengthens previous evidence that the present Legislature is not one which knowingly will saddle higher prices by law upon the people of Texas. It appears definitely to be an anti-price fixing legislature, which is a great deal to be thankful for.

Welcome, Friends!

ONE chief reason for the rapidity and soundness of development of the South Plains has been team-work. Residents usually can subordinate localized rivalries to the area interest. If a community's leaders cannot obtain some desired asset for themselves, they pitch in and try to get it for some other South Plains town. This splendid spirit is rare in the high degree exemplified by this area.

Lubbock will have the privilege and pleasure of being host today and tomorrow to a group of men and women who have played a most important part in shaping and encouraging the cooperative spirit which prevails on the South Plains. They are the members of the South Plains Press association, which will hold its first annual convention in this city.

Few groups are in position to do as much toward unifying and coordinating efforts in behalf of the entire area as those who will attend the convention. One of the chief motivating reasons for organization of the association was to create an agency through which all could work together more effectively in matters of concern to the whole South Plains.

Without such an organization, they have made a tremendous contribution to past progress. Individually, they have practiced the realization that anything which helps any part of this region benefits all of it. With their association, they have provided the coordinating agency which should enhance enormously their power as a constructive force.

It is an honor to salute and entertain men and women who have done so much toward building the South Plains we enjoy today and whose past contributions to progress are likely to be surpassed only by their indispensable part in future achievements.

Wonder If Anybody's Watching?

Island Of Escape

By HUGH LAWRENCE NELSON
Disributed By NEA Service, Inc.

(THE STORY: Henry Gough Harding, eccentric master of the "New Eden," on Spears Island, has invited, through a matrimonial club, four women to be his guests. One, after a three-month period of acquaintanceship, will become his bride, but his bride need not expect to share his money. Bea Cosgrove, Mabel Jones, Agnes Firth and Lilly Warren are given each a difference colored dress—the badge of her household duties. Bea, who is to cook, shares a room with Lilly. The morning after their arrival, Lilly says that during the night Miss Cosgrove talked in her sleep about "some guy named Jim."

IV

THERE was a huge pot of coffee on the back of the stove. Bea had a cup while she stirred up hot cakes and sliced bacon from a side with a razor sharp knife.

Mabel Jones came in the back door to the kitcher. "About time," she said.

Bea stared. The green of Mabel's dress was kind. Obviously Lilly's description of the woman's body was true, but the soft color made her sallow cheeks take on a more lifelike coloring. It gave new depth to her eyes and a sheen to her gray-brown hair.

"Why how nice you look!"

Mrs. Jones's face relaxed. She chuckled. "Surprised you too, did it?" She sobered instantly, went on. "He's upset because you're so late."

Bea bit her lips "Where is he?"

"Out showing Miss Firth where to take the sheep. She only wanted a cup of coffee." Mabel shrugged at that nonsense. "But he'll be back soon now."

"All right. Go in and sit down. I'll have things ready right away." When Mabel obeyed, she muttered to herself "Mustn't let him get upset. No indeed!"

There were large quantities of bacon and hot cakes consumed at the first breakfast but even Lilly Warren gave up trying to make it a pleasant meal.

Henry Harding was pleased for a moment at the way the dresses fited, but sank back at once into gloomy silence broken only when he pushed back his emptied plate. "I realize," he said, "this morning is an exception. I make allowances for that. However we must set up a schedule at once."

He was silent again and Mabel Jones took the opportunity to slip away, back to the garden.

"Miss Cosgrove which bed did you choose in your room?"

She told him.

"Good. Every morning when I awaken I will pound on the wall from my side of the tower room. So you will know when it is time to get up."

"Oh fine," Bea said. She rattled a plate to cover the words.

"Then next week," he went on, "you can change beds with Mrs. Warren and she can take over the house duties. And now, Mrs. Warren, if you'll come with me, I'll show you what to do."

Lilly smiled and got up. "I'm ready," she said.

MABEL Jones moved swiftly into the room, panting. "People coming. Men!" she pointed back over her shoulder.

Henry Harding hurried out on the veranda. The three women made a bright-colored background for him when he stopped.

Five men walked slowly toward them, bunched together. Swarthy men, in tattered jeans and shirts with loud, once-clashing patterns run together in a new pattern of cheap dye. They all carried knives in their belts, yet they stopped a short distance from where Harding stood and moved even closer together.

"Our water, senor. It did not come." The man who spoke moved a half step in front of the others.

"It was forgotten. It will come."

"Why should it be forgotten? Are you the good God to take away our water?" The man scowled. He looked at the four behind him and advanced another step. "We are thirsty. We are tired of this foolishness."

"Are you making a demand?" Harding asked.

Bea shivered at the tone although Harding's voice was not raised. The fisherman felt it too but he stood his ground. Bea thought him a fool.

One of the four men behind him stuck a short pipe in his mouth and struck a match.

Harding made a low, wordless sound deep in his throat. He moved swiftly, neither walking nor running yet with a sinuous fluid method of erasing space. The spokesman had only time to raise one hand halfway the palm out, before he tumbled back on his haunches.

Harding twisted one hand in the shirtfront of the man who had struck the match. His own white shirt split across the shoulders as he struck. There was a dull meaty sound.

THE fisherman turned a half somersault, landed on his shoulder blades, arms and legs flying. He settled quietly and flatly to the ground. Harding dropped the portion of the man's shirt he still held.

A little puff of smoke spiraled up from dry grass.

Harding tore at it with his bare hands. He stamped on it. He fought it into oblivion.

He stood erect and faced the men. They stepped back quickly. One crossed himself. The spokesman knelt beside his unconscious companion. "You have broken his jaw."

"Fortunate for him it was not his neck," Harding said calmly. "You know the rules about fire. Carry him up to the porch and I'll fix him up." He turned his back on the men, walked slowly toward the women.

Bea stifled a warning. She saw a fisherman come to a crouch. She saw his hand dart toward the knife in his belt. She saw that hand stop, watched the fisherman stare at it, shake his head in disbelief. He muttered under his breath and helped the others carry the man as Harding had ordered.

Bea Cosgrove read the hatred in their eyes Their hatred for Henry Harding and their hatred for themselves because they were

Looking At Life -- By Erich Brandeis

THERE is a word in our language that you don't hear very much these days.

The word is "Boss."

There was a time when many a boss considered himself a sort of Simon Legree who cracked the whip and made his workers cringe.

BRANDEIS

Those days are gone forever.

We talk world peace. We strive for world peace. We hope for world peace.

Peace was the subject of prayer in every church and every synagogue during the Easter and Passover holidays.

But when we talked of and prayed for peace we meant peace between nations.

There is another kind of peace which we must first obtain, or rather I should say, two kinds of peace.

They are peace at home and peace within ourselves.

All peace is based upon justice.

We have too many strikes, too much unrest, too much hatred between management and labor.

Both executives and workers are human beings.

They are flesh of the same flesh, blood of the same blood.

On Sundays they worship in the same churches, pray to the same God.

Life is short, and some day the same sod will hold all of us. One surely can't believe that God's realm, to which all hope to go some day, is departmentalized and that there are bosses and underlings in the Hereafter.

Nowhere in the Bible have I read of Vice Presidents in Heaven.

The rules for justice in business and industry are as simple as those for the proper conduct of a home.

The principle of the equality of men should not just be an empty slogan.

But equality means give and take. Give value for what you get.

The head of a business or a department should respect his workers as fellow humans. But the worker must perform the labor that deserves respect.

Every laborer deserves decent pay, but he must do work that entitles him to decent pay.

He must take orders, but the orders must be fair and logical.

JUST as the laborer must earn his pay, so must the leader earn his right to lead.

To give an order he must be able to explain the order and to justify it.

Human beings, no matter what their station, are not robots or slaves.

Literacy and education have made them think.

It is the leader's function to direct the thoughts of laborers into the proper channels.

The most fertile soil in the whole wide world is the heart of man.

NEW THREAT TO U.S.

Reds Boost Air Force

By RAY TUCKER
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON — The Truman-Johnson order junking the 65,000-ton supercarrier, the United States, as well as forthcoming changes in the organization and structure of this country's armed forces, was based partially on confidential reports of Russia's preparations for a war of offense or defense, with the U. S. as her main foe.

TUCKER

Stalin has concentrated in the last few years on construction of latest-model submarines and powerful, long-range aircraft, including both bombers and jet fighters, according to confidential information submitted to several Congressional committees.

It is understood that he has at least 200 U-boats, built on the German schnorkel model, and that his objective is 500. He is building no carriers or capital ships.

At the same time he is building an air force expected to have twice the strength of a combined Anglo-American unit. Although he had almost no bombers for use in the last conflict, he is turning out great numbers based on American types which fell in Red territory, or which we loaned to him.

WALL: In short, Russia is preparing for a wholly defensive conflict designed to prevent any seizure of her territory, including land which she may occupy in Western Europe and China before the North Atlantic Pact nations can even mobilize.

Taking advantage of mistakes made by Hitler, who was unable to prevent an allied landing on Festung Europa, the Red dictator aims to erect an impregnable, submarine-airplane wall around the European and Asiatic continents.

Although our military attaches abroad admit that Moscow conceals detailed data on postwar rearmament, they are certain of his plans and preparations with respect to submarines and airplanes.

BOMB: It was this extremely secret report on Russia's overall strategy for a possible World War III which, together with other factors, led to the sensational scrapping of the supercarrier after her keel had been laid.

If the Soviet has the strength in undersurface and air forecast in these communiques, it would be almost impossible for even a supercarrier to approach foreign shores near enough to survive the opening engagement.

If a Schnorkel did not penetrate the ring of protective subs and destroyers to sink her, a single, well-aimed bomb from a high-flying plane might do the trick.

PACT: The Truman-Johnson decision, incidentally, has an aspect not generally stressed. The first not so surprising revelation is that the only nation we regard as a possible antagonist in any future conflict is Russia. Thus the order is pretty close to a peacetime declaration of war.

The second is that, if possible, we hope to fight it along defensive lines that will not permit Stalin to occupy all of Europe, as Hitler did. It confirms the basic theory of the North Atlantic Pact and the program for rearming signatories of that document.

With the recent dispatch of our lone atomic air squadron to England, the scrapping of the United States clears the air—if not the battleship decks—for a possible war.

"TRAITOR": The apparent withdrawal of two prominent New Englanders from the Republicans' presidential stable for 1952 narrows the list of entries before the race for the nomination has even started. Their action leaves Yankeeland without a look-in.

Senator Raymond E. Baldwin's acceptance of a judicial appointment at the hands of such a New Dealish, Democratic Governor as Chester W. Bowles removes him from the picture. Besides the certainty that the G.O.P. will not pick a man holding such a comparatively obscure post from the national viewpoint, his voluntary departure from Capitol Hill has angered Republican colleagues.

Frankly, they count him a "party traitor" to quit the legislative battlefield at this time. It gives Governor Bowles a chance to appoint a Democratic substitute, thereby reducing the strength of the Truman opposition.

LODGE: The other distinguished Yankee bowing out is Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts. While declinations of a nomination not yet proffered are never final, his recent letter to the writer is self-explanatory:

"In a recent copy of your interesting column, you speak of Republicans who are 'presidential stuff,' and, in mentioning my name, you say 'He wants it badly.'

"Let me say to you in complete frankness that I not only do not want it badly; I do not want it at all. I am not in any way, shape or manner running, and, what is more, I will not be. I do appreciate your mentioning me, but I wanted you to have the facts 'straight from the horse's mouth'."

BENEFICIARIES: Principal beneficiaries from these exits are regarded as men like Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio and Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota. Although frequently mentioned as a possibility, Governor Duff of Pennsylvania may be crossed off because of his age. He will be 70 several years hence.

Another curse of civilization is the radio, which enables a person to holler over millions of square miles.

Man is a dumb creature. He has been using salt for centuries, and yet it has never occurred to him to color it so he could tell how much he was shaking on white foods.

It is expecting too much that Congress know what the people want and act accordingly, as most of the time most of the people don't know what they want.

From the standpoint of supply, one need not worry about the future. There will be as much of it as anybody will ever be able to use.

It doesn't make a bit of sense, but all the powerful nations in the world are feverishly preparing for a war that none of them wants.

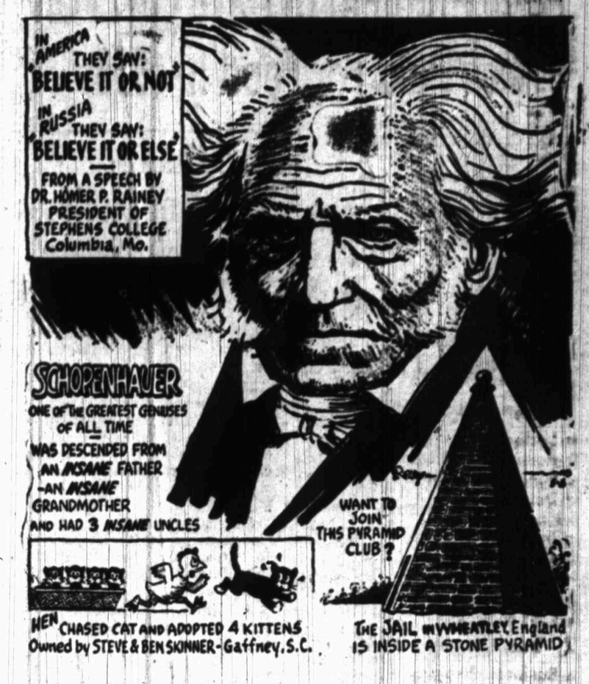

The Old Grouch just dropped in. "In these here days and times," he said, "I don't believe nothing I hear, nor nothing I see till I look twice."

"A woman has a much better memory than a man," asserts a psychologist. Yes, indeed. And a woman's memory is infallible if you promise her something.

"What should I do about my wife? She hasn't spoken a word for the past 10 weeks." —Query to a psychologist. Sounds to us like a case that calls for burying.

"The baby knows more than you do about how much he should take at a feeding," says a physician. No doubt; the baby has inside information on the subject.

HST FACES PROBLEM IN GERMANY

Drive Against Cartels Lagging

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—President Truman is faced directly now with responsibility to redeem a war aim to which both he and his predecessor, Franklin D. Roosevelt, pledged themselves. This was to break up the giant German industrial and financial monopolies, or cartels, that dominated the government and economy of that nation and plunged it into aggressive war.

Only recently the President said he never would permit revival of the cartels as long as he was in the White House.

Yet such a revival is in the making. An official verdict that the decartelization program has not been carried out as directed by our government is before the President in the report made by a special commission sent to Germany late last year by then Secretary of the Army Kenneth C. Royall at Mr. Truman's instruction. The commission consisted of Garland S. Ferguson, Federal Trade commissioner, chairman; Samuel S. Isseks, New York lawyer, formerly in charge of the Justice department's anti-trust division, New York office, and Arthur T. Kearney, Chicago business management expert.

Officials Are Blamed

As revealed in detail in news dispatches last weekend, the commission found that the decartelization program had been virtually abandoned, as has been disclosed by this reporter frequently in recent months, and it pinned the blame on the lack of sympathy with declared government policy by top officials in American military government, as also had been revealed here.

How the President may proceed to remedy this situation is suggested by the commission.

Its criticism of top-policy officials and its recommendation that the staff responsible for carrying out the decartelization program be "strengthened" was carried a step further in a supplementary report by Mr. Isseks who urged that three American military government officials — Lawrence Wilkinson, economic adviser; Phillips Hawkins, his deputy, and Richardson Bronson, chief of the decartelization branch—be removed from any responsibility over the program.

Among many other things, the commission also recommended that the program be put under civilian control; that it be kept under American control and not turned over to the Germans; that it be pushed vigorously in a case-by-case method, and that the chief of the decartelization branch be familiar with our anti-trust laws, which is basic.

The excuse given by the top officials named, who were responsible for changing the policy laid down by our government, was that the policy would interfere with production in Germany. The commission, on the contrary, held that this was not true, but that production would be increased under decartelization. It said that the policy was sound as laid down, and should be continued.

Whether the responsible officials like the policy or not and what they speculated might be its results hardly were issues, or even their business. That they chose, at their own whim, to change it seems one of the strangest cases of government by men, and not laws, ever seen. With all that is at stake it is nothing short of shocking.

The whole story boils down very simply to two things—our policy and its objectives and an attitude of mind. Our policy had a double aim—first, to break up the giant cartels so they would not be a potential for another war, as they have been for two wars in our generation; second, growing from the dissolution of these giant trusts, to make industry in Germany more Democratic as part of the necessary program to democratize that nation.

To carry out such a policy required an understanding of, and sympathy with, that objective. A predominant influence in the setup in Germany was given to men whose background and experience in big business and finance were hardly conducive to that. This was pointed out in a series of articles by this reporter at the time, over three years ago, analyzing the backgrounds of influential figures delegated to plan the program, some of whom were in corporations and financial institutions that previously had connections and interests in Germany.

Under such direction it hardly could be expected that anything would happen but what has happened. It is late, but something still might be done to salvage the program and correct an error that may prove dangerous to our national safety.

Floyd Soil Tour Scheduled Today

FLOYDADA, May 5 (Special) — The annual Floyd county soil conservation tours will be climaxed Friday at noon with a barbecue at the Lockview farms and presentation of awards in a window display contest which has been sponsored by the Floydada Junior Chamber of Commerce.

A large group of businessmen, farmers and ranchers are expected to take part in the tours which will leave the courthouse here at 9 a.m. Friday. They are sponsored each year by the chamber of commerce and the Floyd County Board of Development.

Barbecue Is Planned

The tours serve to acquaint residents of the county with conservation methods being used by ranchers and farmers of this area. The group will be joined by a similar group from Lockney and during the morning they will inspect farms in the northeast part of the county.

At noon the group will arrive at the Lockview farms for the barbecue. C. B. Spencer of Fort Worth who is a soil conservation expert with the Cotton Crushers association will speak at the barbecue.

During the afternoon the group will study farms in the northwest part of the county. Conservation practices to be observed will include: mixed pasture grass, dryland terracing, wheat variety tests, irrigation systems, irrigation efficiency tests, winter legumes, bindweed control, crop residue management and fertilizers.

Winners Are Named

Four-H and FFA boys from all over the county have participated in the window display contests. Awards will be made at the barbecue by Fred Zimmerman, Jr., president of the Jaycees.

An exhibit arranged by Billy Earl Carroll, Johnny Wood and Aubrey Poe has been awarded first prize. Second prize in the contest went to a display arranged by Lawrence Stovall, Rodney Hinkle and Wayne Robertson.

Five displays won third place awards. These were arranged by: Herbert Watson, Bobby Dean McLeod and Charles Dippry; Troy Lee McNeill and Billie Charles Carmack; Fred Marble, Kenneth Hollums and Phillip Smitherman; Robert Mathews, Cecil Boedeker and David Catlin; and Hert and Hershey Irwin.

Troy Lee McNeill and Billy Charles Carmack are 4-H boys under direction of County Agent Bob Gibson and James Murphrey, assistant agent.

All others winning awards are FFA members under the direction of Henry Barber, agriculture teacher in the Floydada schools, and F. L. Montandem, Lockney agriculture teacher.

VETERANS SAY, NO THANKS

MINNEAPOLIS, (AP)—The University of Minnesota American Veterans committee is conducting a campaign to kill veterans' pension bills sponsored by Rep. John Rankin (D-Miss.). The campus AVC spokesman Jack Elliott said the Minnesota group is "following our motto of citizens first, veterans second."

MARKET TRADING HITS SNAG

NEW YORK, May 5. (AP)—A high-flying stock market deckly came down today.

Prices started to rise immediately after the opening but in minutes, profit-taking sales clamped down on the advance. Some issues retained a part of their gains, others were forced into minus territory. Turnover of 926,000 shares was above average but well under yesterday's 1,180,000 shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined .22 of one point to 83.7. The industrial component remained unchanged but small declines were noted in rail and utility groups.

American Telephone lost ⅝ at 143¼, the lowest price at which this issue has sold since 1943. Pressure has been influenced by the prospect of the issuance of additional shares.

Richfield Oil, a recent favorite, moved to a new 1949 high for a short while but finished ⅛ lower at 97⅞.

Other lower included Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Shamrock Oil, Gulf Oil, Warner Bros., U. S. Steel, Republic Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Studebaker, Douglas Aircraft, Consolidated Natural Gas, Anaconda Copper, Du Pont, and American Woolen.

Higher were U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Wedgworth, Consolidated Edison, American Smelting, Phelps-Dodge, General Electric, Dow Chemical, Philip Morris, U. S. Gypsum, Celanese, Monsanto Chemical, Tidewater Oil and Standard Oil (NJ).

Corporate bonds showed minor improvement. Several long-term U. S. Government issues slipped.

Higher in the curb were Atlas Plywood, Savoy Oil, Humble Oil, Electric Bond and Share, and American Gas. Losers included Pantepec Oil, Imperial Oil, Cities Service, and Ashland Oil.

Grain

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, May 5 (AP)—Most grain contracts eased on the board of trade today, but the May wheat delivery provided a strong market all by itself. May wheat was up more than a cent most of the session on aggressive short-covering.

New crop wheat deliveries did not follow May. They showed weakness attributed to scattered showers in the spring wheat territory.

May wheat closed 1⅞ to 2 cents higher at $2.30-2.30 ⅛. Other wheat deliveries were ⅛-⅝ lower.

Corn ended ⅛-⅜ lower, May $1.32 ⅝-½, oats were unchanged to ⅛ lower, May 86 ½.

afraid.

Harding's face was set, calm. He went inside and reappeared with a metal first-aid case. He worked quickly, skillfully with the fractured jaw, bound it up.

The patient groaned, opened his eyes. One hand went to his jaw. Harding helped him to his f . and the man trembled to the touch. He lurched away, arms outstretched until his companions caught him.

The spokesman said, "The water, senor?"

"Will be turned on," Harding promised. "It will not be late again."

The fisherman nodded, joined the others. They went away slowly, half carrying the injured man. No one of them looked back.

HENRY GOUGH Harding sucked boyishly at a skinned knuckle on his right hand. Lilly Warren put on iodine.

"That's fine. You see, I must be quite firm about the rule of no fire. Those fishermen know the rules. I used the only language they would understand."

Bea asked, "The water? What did they mean?"

"There's only one source of fresh water on Speare Island. Before I took over it made a little stream and spilled over the cliff to a basin near their camp and was wasted. The water is needed. For the sheep, for irrigation of the garden. I had a pipe installed at considerable expense down to their camp. Each day while they are on the island I turn on the water at a specified time. Today—well the incident is unimportant in itself, but it does show the need of a schedule. Now I'll give them their water."

The woman watched him stride away around the corner of the house.

"What a man!" Lilly Warren said. "What a sock! And the way he faced down those five. And he wasn't afraid."

Mabel Jones said harshly, "Fear! He does not know the meaning of the word." Her thin face was flushed. Her eyes were hard brilliants.

Agnes Firth emerged from a small gully, moved toward them sidewise like an orange crab. Her eyes were glassy, her hair filled with grass. An elbow was skinned and her costume torn near the knee.

"We—we'll all be dead soon," she gasped. "We're to die. I felt it before. Now—now I know. There have been other women here before us."

Bea Cosgrove snapped, "Don't be a fool! What frightened you?"

"I hid until those men left. I waited until he left before I dared to come out. To tell you . . ." Her body stiffened. Harding had returned.

"What is is?" he demanded. "What happened? Did something happen to the sheep?"

Agnes Firth laughed. "The sheep—the sheep? Not the sheep. The graves I found. The four fresh graves."

be master of ceremonies. He may turn the affair into a big "love feast."

Donkey To Be Presented

Highlighting events prior to Secretary Brannan's talk will be the presentation of a papier mache donkey to Brannan by Jay Taylor, Amarilloan who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for governor next year.

The donkey, symbol of the Democratic party, is being made by commercial art students at Texas Technological college, and Secretary Brannan will be asked in turn to present it to President Truman.

More Food Slated

Meanwhile members of the local arrangements committee were beginning to worry about a number of things.

First, they started wrinkling their brows over the weather and secondly if the weather is clear, they're worrying about whether or not they'll have enough food for the 1,500 or more persons which present indications point as attendance at the affair.

They're going to take care of food worries by instructing the Lubbock Lions club to prepare for at least 2,000 persons, so there'll be assurance of food for everybody.

As for the weather, that is the reason the affair was scheduled in the Tech gymnasium, so that if the weather turns bad, the barbecue can be served inside instead of outside.

Ticket Sales Brisk

In the meantime, ticket sales for the barbecue continued at a brisk pace, both in Lubbock and over West Texas. Reports continue to come in from county chairmen indicating attendance from a wide area of the state.

"It looks like there will be larger contributions and more people from Fort Worth than from Lubbock," Robert Howard, chairman of the local ticket sales committee, declared Thursday morning. Howard said his teams had reported sale of less than 300 tickets for the barbecue.

Secretary Brannan and a party of Texas congressmen and distinguished persons will arrive here at about noon Saturday after a stop Friday at Waco. Brannan is scheduled to address a farm meeting at McGregor today.

In the party, being arranged by Underwood, Rep. Geo. Mahon, who will introduce Sec. Brannan at the barbecue here; and Reps. W. R. Poage, Waco; Omar Burleson, Anson; Ed Gossett, Wichita Falls; Clark Fisher, San Angelo; Eugene Worley, Shamrock; and Antonio E. Fernandez, Santa Fe, N. M., and Ralph Triff, director of the Production and Marketing administration; William J. Neal, assistant chief of the Rural Electrification administration; Harrington Wimberly, vice chairman of the Federal Power administration; Chief Judge Marvin Jones of the U. S. Court of Claims, Judge Luther Johnson, Corsicana, former congressman and now on the U. S. Tax Court; and Lacy Sharpe, assistant to Congressman Poage.

Tech Band To Play

The group will fly to Biloxi, Miss., and Waco in Air Force planes provided by Air Force Secretary Stuart Symington. They will be brought here in planes owned by Clint Murchison, Dallas capitalist; and C. T. McLaughlin, Snyder oil man.

Texas Tech's band will furnish music during the barbecue.

Following Sec. Brannan's talk, all employes of the Agriculture department attending the affair, will meet informally with the secretary for a brief period.

As many women are coming here for the barbecue, a reception and tea has been scheduled for 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Hilton hotel, Wesley Read, co-chairman with Underwood on the barbecue arrangements, announced Thursday. Mrs. J. W. Walker, Plainview, district committeewoman, will be official hostesses at the reception.

A press conference is also planned at the Hilton with visiting newspapermen conferring with Sec. Brannon prior to his talk Saturday night.

Members of the South Plains Press association, who will close their first annual convention at Hotel Lubbock Saturday noon, will be invited to this press conference.

SET FOR BLOCKADE'S END—German railroad workers are shown above as they repaired switch-rails at the British sector's Grunewald station recently, preparing the line for resumption of rail traffic to the Western zones. The work on the rails started before the official announcement came that the blockade would be lifted. Residents in Berlin jammed stations seeking passage on trains to the western zones following the announcement. (NEA Telephoto.)

Texas Dental Society Closes State Convention At Houston

HOUSTON, May 5. (AP) — After the election of Dr. Barney E. Farmer of Austin as president-elect, the Texas State Dental society closed its 69th convention today.

Dr. Farmer represents the southeast division. Three vice-presidents were named by the society from their divisions; Dr. C. L. Cunningham, El Peso, southwest; Dr. Bruce Cunningham, Tyler, northeast, and Dr. R. D. Bridgeford, Colorado City, northwest.

The general clinics demonstration were made in small conferences known as "table clinics." The University of Texas School of Dentistry staff presented clinics on preventive orthodontics, on partial veneer restorations, on use of dental amalgam in restorations, on biopsy in the diagnosis of cancer, and some seven other subjects.

Dentists from 20 districts covered every phase of dentistry at another 200 table clinics.

In the house of delegates meeting, Dr. A. J. Wimberly, retiring president, turned his gavel over to Dr. Crawford A. McMurray of Ennis who has held the title of president elect since last year, and received the past president's award from Dr. W. O. Talbot.

Dallas was named 1950 convention site.

Implications Of 'Whistle Stop' Incident Alarm Rail Officials

WICHITA FALLS, May 5 (AP)—A Fort Worth and Denver railroad official said today the Electra, "whistle stop" incident could lead to discontinuance of fast passenger train service on all major railroads in the nation.

The statement came from R. Wright Armstrong, vice-president of the railroad. He addressed officials and directors of the railroad at a meeting here.

"If the Railroad commission and politicians can make us stop at Electra, it will mean the end of fast trains in America," Armstrong said. He said that "local" trains—those that stop at all towns—bring little revenue. Other towns in the railroad's system can now insist on regular stops, he added.

Electra sparked a vigorous protest drive which led the State Railroad commission to cancel the railroad's plan to make small towns, including Electra, "conditional stops" for its Zephyr.

year in West Texas had fallen off about 15 per cent in the rubber industry. This he attributed to dealers anticipating price reductions.

Price Reduction Unlikely

"There is no likelihood of any further price reductions at this time," Seiberling said, referring to tires and tubes. "The price of raw rubber, cotton and other tire materials is more-or-less pegged. While labor costs may not increase, I am sure they will not decrease. Therefore it is not logical to expect any price cuts."

Seiberling found that most stocks and inventories in this area have been depleted or are nearly exhausted. Because of this fact he looks for dealers and suppliers to begin placing orders so as to be able to supply the heavy summer demands.

On this survey of West Texas, Seiberling said he has been paying particular attention to the rural areas.

Mechanization Trend Cited

"It is plain to see that the trend toward mechanization has been rapid on the plains," he said. "This is good sign. It will permit a greater production without the need for increased manpower."

J. P. Seiberling, now a dynamic, aggressive and democratic executive in his middle years, took over the presidency of the great rubber company in 1938. He succeeded his father, F. A. Seiberling, who founded the company in 1921. The elder Seiberling, now 89 years-of-age, is currently chairman of the board.

In summing up the conclusions he reached while in the Lubbock area, J. P. said:

"Prospects for business here are as good or better than anywhere else in the country. I see no reason why 1949 won't be equal to last year in business volume."

As he left to continue his journey to Amarillo, Seiberling said that he would not wait so long before he returned to pay Lubbock another visit.

London zoo had 2,335,539 visitors last year, 55,000 more than in 1947.
