Castillo Sworn In

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leonel Castillo was sworn in today for a job that President Carter called perhaps tougher than his own - heading the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Castillo, a 38-year-old Houston city official, took the oath from Att. Gen Griffin Bell as his family and the President looked on in the White House Rose Garden.

Bell also gave the oath to Graciella Olivarez, new head of the Community Services Administration; Jay Solomon, the new administrator of the General Services Administration; and Alan Campbell, who will head the U.S. Civil Service Commission.

Castillo, Carter said, will have "one of the most difficult jobs in government... sometimes I think it is perhaps harder than the Oval Office, particularly at this time."

Agencies Get Reprieve

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Two state agencies threatened with elimination got a reprieve today, with greatly reduced budgets.

House and Senate negotiators trying to write the 1978-79 spending bill agreed to fund the Greater South Texas Cultural Basin Commission, but only with $250,000 for each of the two years. The House appropriation bill originally left the commission with no funds.

In another compromise action, the conference committee kept the Texas Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations alive with appropriations of $279,500 and $286,000 - about half of the amount estimated to be needed to maintain the agency at its present level.

GM Probe Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission has ordered a formal investigation into General Motors' substitution of engines in a number of GM cars, the agency announced today.

The investigation also will inquire into the adequacy of GM's recent offer to some 128,000 owners of 1977 Oldsmobiles, Buicks and Pontiacs equipped with a Chevrolet engine, the FTC said.

The commission said the investigation does not imply that violations of law have occurred.

Aaron Edgar of the Munday Courier thinks the Nixon-Frost interview is just another example of raking up something that most people would just as soon forget.

"We think the noble thing for a people and a nation to do would be to let the hurt of bygones dwindle to nothing," said Edgar.

"It's been some 14 years since President Kennedy was assassinated, and a long time since Martin Luther King met the same fate. Yet, ever so often, we pick up a newspaper or light up the tube and find a renewal of these events back into the limelight. We find such things quite distasteful."

We may have a lot longer to go before these things are pushed into oblivion, however. They are still digging around on the Abraham Lincoln shooting.

Kim Pease of the Rotan Advance and Roby Star Record found another problem arising from the coffee situation.

"The thought struck me the other Sunday morning as I was pouring bacon grease out of a frying pan. The worst thing about the rising price of coffee is not that we can't afford to drink the stuff," said Pease. "No, the very worst thing is that we will no longer have a surplus of coffee cans around the house."

Large Economic Bill Is Inked

By James Gerstenzang
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter today signed a bill authorizing $20 billion for general economic stimulation and a $4 billion public works bill, calling the legislation "a major move in the right direction."

With mayors from some of the nation's major cities and congressmen and senators looking on, the President said in the White House Rose Garden ceremony that the legislation demonstrated "in a vivid way the close cooperation that has evolved" between the White House and Congress and the local and federal governments.

The $4 billion appropriation bill for public works is among the spending plans authorized by the large economic stimulation bill the President signed.

The economic stimulation bill also authorizes $8 billion for public service jobs and $1 billion for a program to boost employment by 200,000 among young people. Bills actually appropriating the money for those programs are still moving through Congress.

The President said that in talking with foreign leaders in Europe last weekend, he found that "the most unified concern expressed was for jobs for young people."

Also included in the economic stimulation bill is authorization for $631 million in general financial assistance for state and local governments.

Administration officials have predicted the public works bill will create 300,000 jobs directly in the construction industry and another 300,000 jobs indirectly.

AFL-CIO President George Meany, who had criticized the proposal as being insufficient, was in the crowd in the Rose Garden. He did not take part in the ceremony.

Business Group Is Optimistic

HOT SPRINGS, Va. (AP) — The nation's economy, with growing strength in its investment sector, is on a "sound growth path" that should continue well into 1978, economic consultants to the Business Council predicted today.

In a fairly optimistic forecast, the group said the biggest problem areas for 1977 were the possibility of another spurt in inflation and potentially negative effects of President Carter's energy program on consumer and business confidence.

About 100 members of the Business Council, composed of the chairmen and officials of some of the nation's largest and most influential corporations, opened their spring meeting here Thursday night.

"The only way the economy is going to keep its upward trend is to keep capital goods moving," council members said.

The council forecast also expected that the real gross national product would grow 4.9 per cent this year and 4.4 per cent in the first half of 1978.

Unemployment, now at 7 per cent, would continue to decline, approaching 6.5 per cent by mid-1978, according to the forecast.

The council looked for consumer prices to rise 5.9 per cent this year - about the same as last year - but said that in the first half of 1978 inflation should go down.

The outlook for the business community was for an 11 per cent increase in corporate profits.

It also predicted an 11.8 per cent rise in current dollar outlays for non-residential fixed investment.

July 4 Booth Fees Are Set

Snyder Chamber of Commerce directors established booth fees for the Independence Day celebration and heard encouraging reports on housing and industrial development negotiations at their meeting last night in the Chamber conference room.

Preliminary plans have been launched for the annual celebration on July 4 in towle Memorial Park, and the Chamber board studied finances for the event last night. Bill Henry, executive director, reported that last year's Independence Day celebration wound up with a deficit on nearly $2,000. Contracts already have been signed for the fireworks display, which will cost around $3,500 this year, Henry said.

Following this discussion, directors voted to establish commissions of 15 per cent of gross sales for booths operating in the park during the celebration. This will apply to the crafts show booths as well as the booths for food, etc. Also, plans are to continue offering the merchandise prizes at the celebration.

The board authorized Henry to have 10,000 fireworks "tickets" to be printed for those who contribute to the fund.

The Chamber of Commerce has staged the Independence Day celebration here annually since 1961 and it has attracted thousands of people to Towle Memorial Park each year.

Henry reported that prospects for new apartment housing, as well as single-family units, continue bright. It was noted that the extremely low unemployment situation here is one of the major problems confronting business and industrial expansion, but that additional housing would help solve that problem. Many prospective workers are interested in moving here, but are unable to find suitable housing for their families, it was pointed out.

Also, Henry told the board that the Scurry County Industrial Foundation still is negotiating with prospective tenants for the Wickes Building and that interest in the former Lincoln School building has been revived.

The board approved salary increases for LaVerta Lovell, assistant manager, and Claudia Melton, secretary. Also, Henry was authorized to check into the possibility of the city removing a metal building on property across the street from the Chamber office. The building, which is on a lot deeded to the Chamber several months ago by C.L. Noble, is now vacant.

SHS Bands In Concert

Snyder High School Bands will be presented in concert at 2 p.m. Sunday in the high school auditorium.

Included on the program will be the SHS Symphonic Band, the SHS Concert Band and the SHS Stage Band. They will present a variety of music, including pop, rock and Latin music. Also to be featured is Ronnie Mayfield, trombone soloist.

There will be no admission charge, and the public is invited to attend the concert.

Future Bright, But Not Easy, WTC Grads Told

"We have good reason to believe that the possibilities of the future far exceed the accomplishments of the past, and your role in that future should be interesting and rewarding, but it will not necessarily be easy," declared Dr. Cecil Mackey in addressing 125 students who were awarded diplomas Thursday night during graduation ceremonies at Western Texas College.

Dr. Mackey, president of Texas Tech University and former president of the University of South Florida, was the guest speaker at the commencement ceremonies.

Hundreds of persons gathered in the central courtyard at WTC to attend the outdoor ceremonies held on a calm summer evening. A gentle breeze wafted the tassle strands attached to the caps of the graduating sophomores in WTC's fifth annual commencement ceremonies.

Mackey lauded the efforts and sacrifices made by the graduates and their families in securing a college education and challenged the graduates to eagerly accept the offerings of the future.

"Education for you will be a lifetime process," Mackey said. "Remember," Mackey continued, "That what you have learned are not the answers but some of the questions to ask; not the solutions, but ways to analyze the problems.

"Above all, I encourage you to develop what has been called the courage to fail," Mackey said, reminding the graduates they can not hope to win in all the endeavors they may engage in after graduation.

"One of the reasons mature people are apt to learn less than young people is that they are willing to risk less, for learning is a risky business and people do not like to fail," he said. Mackey told the graduates not to fear failure and reminded them that it is only through risking possible failure that great honors are won.

There is simply no way you can consider your education as a once and for all proposition," Mackey said. Education will continue, he told the newly-graduated students, as long as they have to make decisions.

While reminding the graduates not to forget the lessons of history, Mackey pointed out to the graduates the need to think of the future.

"I am optimistic about the future. I believe that it will be in good hands," he said.

"There is still a question as to who the present belongs to, the old or the young. That has not yet been resolved. There is no question, however, about the future. The future belongs to you," Mackey told the graduates.

Associate in arts degrees were awarded by Dr. Ben Brock, WTC vice president, and associate in applied science degrees were awarded by Dr. Gene McClurg, dean of occupational education and technology. George Patterson, secretary of the board of trustees, welcomed the graduation audience and Dr. Robert L. Clinton, WTC president, introduced Dr. Mackey. The Rev. R. Virgil Mott, pastor of Bethel Baptist Church, gave the invocation, and Gary Lowe, director of the Christian Student Center, the benedication.

a mixup of signals

Average Americans who try to keep abreast of developments in world affairs have difficulty in trying to decide whether the official position of this country is being stated by Secretary of State Cyrus Vance, UN Ambassador Andrew Young, or President Carter. This curiousity is based on the fact that these spokesmen are supposed to be members of the same team and have access to the same sources of information.

But whatever the explanation may be there are times when high-level officials seem to be working at cross purposes. A few recent incidents illustrate the point. Soon after taking office Secretary Vance visited with foreign ministers of NATO powers. He also made a round of the capitals in the Middle East.

He reported a common desire for peace in the Middle East. Heads of state were reported to be in agreement in that respect. They talk peace now. In times past they talked war. Mr. Vance regarded this a hopeful sign. He forsees possibilities of an understanding in that part of the world. The climate is encouraging.

That sounded logical. A few days ago President Carter was quoted as saying that the United States would not support a peace plan for the Middle East that does not include surrender by Israel of Arab territory occupied in the 1967 war. He was quite specific, where Secretary Vance had talked in general terms.

The President's statement, if followed up, narrows the area of negotiation and means Israel would abandon Golan Heights, the West Bank section and an important section of the city of Jerusalem. If that is the final word it probably means another war in that troubled section of the world.

Completing the picture of contradictory positions is the current series of visits by UN Ambassador Andrew Young to countries in Africa. He seems to entertain no doubt about his freedom to express his opinions of the way other nations run their business. He has expressed admiration for Cuba's Fidel Castro and praised him for having done a great service for humanity by intervening in affairs of Angola. He has denounced the South African Government as illegitimate.

So one must wonder. The Carter Administration is new. Time is needed to arrive at a correct evaluation of complexities of international politics. No doubt there will come eventually an agreement among our top people. Pending a meeting of minds a little more care in weighing words would seem in order.

school costs rise

The number of students enrolled in the nation's public elementary and secondary schools has been going down little by little every year since 1971, when enrollment reached a peak of more than 46 million. This year, it is 43,721,000.

Population forecasts indicate that the decline will continue to 1983, down to about 40 million; then a gradual rise will begin.

Interestingly, despite this 2 per cent decline in public school enrollment, total expenditures for public elementary and secondary schools in the same period have soared — the state and federal share of the education dollar. Before World War II, local governments provided over two-thirds of all support for public schools, the states furnished less than one-third and federal support was negligible.

By 1975-76, reports the Tax Foundation, the state share had risen to 44 per cent and the federal contribution was 8 per cent, but the share financed by local governments had fallen to 48 per cent. The figures are national averages; there are wide variations from state to state.

In New Hampshire and North Dakota, for example, the state governments provide less than 15 per cent of total school funds, contrasted with Hawaii, which finances 93 per cent, with the federal government supplying the remainder.

Expenditures per pupil are also vastly different from state to state. New York, which spends $2,179 per pupil, is at the top of the scale. Arkansas, which spends $881, is at the bottom. Tennessee, Missouri and Louisiana also spend less than $1,000 per pupil.

No matter how the statistics are sliced, however, Americans, through their state, local and federal taxes, are spending more and more to educate fewer and fewer children. Even the states on the bottom of the scale have registered increases of from 55 to 71 per cent since 1969.

ordinary events continue

NEW YORK (AP) — While our thought followed the world's leaders to the summit, where high above the storm clouds they proclaimed the ideal of economic cooperation, more ordinary events continued in the rainy valleys.

On Lexington Avenue in New York a shopper received an unforgetable lesson in why some people, despite talent and hard work, can't seem to make a living. Or was the lesson that of the effectiveness of mass production?

The shopper's quest was a metal picture frame, one foot by one foot, unassembled, for which he was quoted a price of $12, glass included.

While the proprietor measured the glass for cutting, the customer inquired about the price of a print, already matted and glass-enclosed in the identical frame.

"Seven-fifty," he was told.

"Do you mean this print, along with a mat, and the frame already assembled, costs $4.50 less than an unassembled frame with no mat and no print?"

"Yes."

"Then why should I pay $12?"

"You shouldn't. We buy the frames at wholesale and the print is thrown in."

"Which leaves one wondering: While the value of volume buying is obviously beneficial, what in the world is left for the artist, whose major contribution, it seems, is to lower the price of the frame?

If everyone lived in the suburbs of the nation's Capital, says Albert Sindlinger, we would all be enjoying an economic boom.

Sindlinger & Co. conducts marketing and opinion research throughout the year by telephoning more than 150 households every day of the week, asking specific questions about current and anticipated economic status.

One of his telephone interviewers called his attention to an unusual set of responses from the residents of the Washington suburbs, after which the firm conducted a concentrated, 56-day study of the area that ended April 6.

It found that nearly 57 per cent of all households enjoyed an income gain in the preceding six months, and that two-thirds of household heads expected an income gain in the following six months.

Only one in 12 households had an income decline in the preceding six months and better than two of three expected business in the area to improve in the following six months.

The pattern, Sindlinger found, clashes not only with the district itself but with the rest of the country, which makes him conclude that the Washington suburban area, heavily dependent on government, is the "land of milk, honey and money."

Over 40 Arrested In Drug Raids

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — More than 40 persons had been arrested and dozens more were sought today in the midst of a citywide drug crackdown by federal, state and local police officers.

Authorities acted on the basis of 133 sealed indictments returned by the Bexar County grand jury. The indictments named 117 persons on various drug charges.

Police said the indictments were based on the undercover work of two officers, including a woman who posed for the past five months as drug addicts.

More than 100 law enforcement officers fanned out across the city to make arrests beginning Wednesday night.

Most of those named in the indictments were wanted for alleged sales or delivery of drugs.

Lt. John W. Smith said the indictments resulted from undercover assignments by San Antonio police officers Phillip Jefferson, 22, and Lucille A. Franckowiak.

red tape costly

The Carter administration is firmly committed to cutting the government red tape that frustrates businesses and complicates all our lives, says Bert Lance, director of the White House Office of Management and Budget.

"That alone will help restore public confidence in government," says the former Atlanta banker. "Business is spending too much time fooling with government forms and government regulations."

Of which there is no end. Last year, the Federal Register contained 57,000 pages of notices, rules and regulations issued by government agencies. The 94th Congress enacted 588 new public laws, each carrying its own economic impact. The Commission on Federal Paperwork conservatively estimates that federal reporting requirements alone cost $40 billion a year.

If the Carter people are really serious about tackling this problem, they might take a fresh look at an idea that has been kicking around Washington since at least 1974. Originally advanced by the National Canners Association during the economic summit meetings held that year, the idea is to require every proposed new regulation or law to first undergo a cost-benefit analysis to make sure the public gains more than it loses.

As an example of well-intentioned but unnecessarily costly regulation, the Food and Drug Administration a year ago proposed that labels on canned foods bear drained-weight information showing how much fruit or vegetable was in the container after liquid was poured out. This would have involved taking samples off the production line, storing them for a month, opening them and then weighing and destroying the contents.

The canners submitted data showing that the regulation would cost $104 million a year and add about a cent more to each can or jar of food. Instead, they suggested a voluntary program, costing only $10 million, in which the solid weight of raw food was weighed before it was put in the can. FDA agreed to try out the simpler, less expensive plan.

It was one small victory for common sense. Now the canners' idea of making cost-benefit analyses mandatory has been revived on Capitol Hill in the form of the Regulatory Cost Impact Act, which has been introduced by bipartisan supporters.

The act would require every federal agency to prepare a consumer cost assessment setting forth the direct and indirect costs, as well as the benefits, of any proposed regulation or legislation that may have a significant impact on costs to consumers.

The Regulatory Cost Impact Act would, of course, generate new paperwork of its own. But in this case, more would really be less in the long run.

Domestic fuel consumption is expected to leap from 8.9 billion gallons in 1976 to 15.6 billin in 1988, says a recent report by the Federal Aviation Administration.

in washington

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON-(NEA)- Hypothetical problems seldom command much attention on Capitol Hill, where the political imperatives of today always seem more compelling than the "what ifs" of tomorrow.

But there is a storm gathering out in the states which could break over the Hill with disastrous consequences a year or so from now unless Congress heeds the portents and acts upon them while there is still time.

The threat stems from a drive by anti-abortion forces to get two-thirds of the state legislatures to demand that Congress call a national constitutional convention to draft a "human life amendment" banning abortions.

Eight states have already passed a "con con" resolution, another 15 are considering it, and legislators in a dozen more states say they will introduce the proposal soon.

At this juncture, no one can predict what might happen if the requisite 34 states should actually submit formal convention petitions to Congress, for the simple reason that it has never happened in the nation's history.

Could Congress refuse to call a convention? Could it pass upon the validity of the petitions submitted by the states? How soon would a convention have to be held? Who would pay for it? How would delegates be chosen?

Most importantly, could the convention be restricted to a consideration of the single issue adddressed in the original state petitions that triggered its calling, or would it be free to dismantle and reconstruct our entire Constitution?

These are not trivial questions, and they will become even stickier if Congress postpones answering them until the crisis is upon it and passions of the abortion issue- or any other triggering controversy that might arise in the future-distort consideration of crucial procedural matters.

There is no reason to wait, and no need to. A decade ago, Congress took a hard look at all of the questions surrounding the calling of a new constitutional convention and made a start at resolving most of them.

Its review, conducted by former Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the hero of Watergate and a leading constitutional scholar, was prompted by the clamor for a new convention which arose following the Supreme Court's controversial one-man, one-vote ruling on legislative apportionment.

That drive, spearheaded by the late Senate Minority Leader Everett M. dirksen of Illinois, came very close to succeeding. By 1969, when Dirksen's death sapped the moment of the effort, 32 states-just two short of the requisite two-thirds margin-had petitioned Congress for a constitutinal convention.

Both Ervin and the American Bar Assn., which conducted its own study in 1973, ultimately concluded there was no reason to panic at the prospect of a new constitutional convention.

Congress, they decided, did indeed have the power to set ground rules for such a convention and to restrict its scope to the one subject addressed in state petitions.

Ervin drafted legislation to spell out his committee's findings and recommendations, and the Senate twice passed his bill. But the measure died each time in the House Judiciary Committee, so it never became law.

Now, with the anti-abortion drive gathering speed, new legislation patterned after the old Ervin bill will soon be introduced in Congress.

It deserves careful consideration and timely adoption. Sooner or later, 34 states will demand a new convention-if not on the abortion issue, then on some other matter. We need to know, well ahead of time, exactly what the rules would be for such an unprecedented gathering.

TOURISM DEVELOPMENT

A national study compiled by the U.S. Travel Data Center in Washington, an independent travel research organization funded jointly by private and public sectors, indicates Scurry County ranked 90th of 254 Texas countries in 1975 travel receipts.

Specific dollar figures showed Scurry County received over $4 million of the state's $5 billion in 1975 gross travel receipts. That money generated 162 jobs with an annual payroll of $789,000. The study also estimates $160,000 in state and $43,000 in local taxes were paid by visitors.

Since 1975, we've done much more work in attracting visitors to our city and, hopefully, increased our standing and share of the tourism market in the state. It's obvious from the forementioned figures that tourism is BIG business and something we should expand.

BIG DIVIDENDS

The state's largest cities have received a majority of the funds, obviously, but some of our neighboring counties have produced quite a bit of revenue off tourism development efforts. Howard County (Big Spring), for example, ranked as the state's 20th leading tourist area with more than $40 million in generated income.

Employment generated in Big Spring from the travel industry surpassed 1700 with payrolls in excess of $8 million. It also produced more than $1.5 million in state and nearly $500,000 in local taxes. To generate this $40 million income for the city, Big Spring spends about $50,000 in their tourism development efforts from the Motel Tax.

BIGGER CITY?

You say Big Spring is a much bigger city (30,000 compared to our 15,000). That, however, isn't the answer. Nolan County (Sweetwater) ranked as the state's 45th largest tourist development county by producing over $12 million in receipts and 497 jobs with a payroll of nearly $2.5 million. It accumulated nearly a half-million dollars in state and $126,000 in local taxes.

Nolan and Scurry Counties are about the same in size, but Nolan more than tripled our income from tourism. Howard County's income was more than 10 times ours and it's just about twice our size.

GOOD BUSINESS

Efforts have been and are being continued to step up our tourism development revenues. The AJRA Rodeo, scheduled for its second of five annual appearances here in August, is a large money maker for Scurry County and is expected to draw larger crowds each year.

The Airstream Rally set for October will be a large income producer as well with between 200 and 400 trailers in town for a week's stay. The Texas Cowboy Artists Association's desire of having Snyder serve as its headquarters and museum site will also have a dynamic impact in tourism development for our city and county.

Because of its unparalleled benefits, we must continue to strive for increased community visitors through all possible avenues. We have a myriad of opportunities to develop tourism in our community such as the college, Scurry County and Diamond M Museums, beautiful parks and good shopping facilities.

GET INVOLVED

If your organization is scheduling a meeting in the near future, make a bid for Snyder to serve as its host. The chamber, City and County will help in any manner in setting up your program and promoting the event. The benefits of increased tourism dollars help everyone.

South had won the spade lead in his hand, led a small heart and finessed dummy's jack. East had taken the trick with his king and some five minutes later South had written down 50 points on the opponent's side of the score. He could only come to 11 tricks because he could only collect two in the heart suit.

If South had stopped to think before playing to trick two, he would have seen that he needed three heart tricks to make his slam. He was sure of them unless hearts broke 4-1. He would also have seen that any 4-1 break, except a singleton king, would have surely beaten him. But he could handle that break by simply playing dummy's ace of hearts right away. This safety play would cost him an overtrick if West held K x. But what is an overtrick when you are trying for a slam?

Ask the Jacobys

A Nevada reader wants to know what "Chicane" means.

It is an archaic bridge word to mean void of trumps. In the game of bridge a player who was "chicane" was given a small honor bonus. This was doubled if both partner's were void of trumps.

Group Presents Program To Lodge

The Twilight Garden Club met May 5, at the Martha Ann Woman's Club with the president, Mrs. Edgar Carpenter, presiding. Several members told of the spring pilgrimage to Midland where they visited the rose gardens of Mr. Jim Galyean.

An interesting plant grown by Mr. Galyean for exhibition is one hundred year old rose that has a creamy, cabbage type bloom, opening only 75 percent. It bears the impressive name "Marchioness of London-dory." "Gene Boerner" is considered a good rose for drying purposes. "Snow Fire" and "Don Juan" were also recommended. Mildew should be eliminated for better color in flowers.

A suggestion from the greenhouse is to place a quarter of an apple in the well of the bromeliad to encourage bloom.

Mrs. Ray Martin reviewed briefly the schedule for the flower garden show for the Scurry County Fair. Begin now to plan the plants and flowers you will enter for exhibition.

Mrs. Hugh Lowry read her own poem, "My Friend of the Wind" to the accompaniment of a recording of the mockingbird's song. The poem and bird song are a delightful reliving of her actual experiences in early childhood on a farm in Oklahoma.

During Activity Week at the Leisure Lodge Nursing Home, members of the club took several arrangements of homegrown flowers to the home. After a visit and discussion of the flowers, the arrangements were presented to the residents and staff.

BROWNIE DAY—130 Brownies attended Brownie Day at Camp Booth Oaks located at Sweetwater recently. Also 21 leaders and parents accompanied, all riding school buses driven by Alex Rodriguez and W.E. Loyd. The camp was toured and the group ate a nose-bag lunch before returning. Lavada Cates was chairman of this activity.

Yugoslavia Leading Chair Importer

Yugoslavia is the largest source of imported chairs. Other important sources of chair imports are: Taiwan, Singapore, Romania, Mexico, Italy, Denmark, Korea, and Japan. Some imports are limited to furniture parts made of wood, rubber and plastic with Taiwan being the most significant importer. Canada, Yugoslavia and Korea are also major contributors with imported furniture parts, reports Mrs. Patricia Seaman, area housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Dinner Salad From Garden

COLLEGE STATION--A fresh garden salad may be the perfect dinner accompaniment, Mrs. Sally Coble, a foods and nutrition specialist, suggests.

Ingredients can be lettuce, other salad greens and fresh vegetables--plentiful in spring gardens now, she said.

Mrs. Coble is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Greens and other raw vegetables are best served cleaned, cold, crisp and dry--except for salads of wilted lettuce or spinach in which a hot dressing is poured on the raw vegetables," she advised.

To prepare vegetables for a salad, wash them well under running water. Use cold water for most items, but try lukewarm water for crinkly leaves--as it opens the creases in leaves to let sand and soil wash out easily.

Cut or tear salad greens before serving. Cut raw vegetables immediately before serving the salad--to avoid loss of nutrients.

Cooked vegetables in salads are best if they are tender, but firm enough to hold their shape. Some salad favorites are green beans, asparagus and pickled beets.

Others salad items--for variety--include raw fruits, nuts, crisp bacon, anchovies, olives and croutons. For more interest, add onions, cut fine or in rings--or herbs, either fresh or dry.

For a mild garlic flavor, add cut cloves of garlic to salad dressing and remove them just before serving--or use cut garlic cloves to rub on the salad bowl just before adding the salad ingredients.

To top a "Green Garden Salad," made with lettuce, cucumbers, tomatoes and mushrooms, the specialist suggests "Sesame Seed Dressing."

Green Garden Salad
Romaine lettuce
Leaf lettuce
Cucumbers
Tomatoes
Mushrooms

Tear lettuce into bite-size pieces. Slice cucumbers, tomatoes and mushrooms and add to lettuce. Just before serving, add Sesame Seed Dressing.

Sesame Seed Dressing
(1cup)

1-3 cup sugar
½ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon worcestershire sauce
1 teaspoon onion juice
¾ cup salad oil
1-3 cup vinegar
¼ cup toasted sesame seeds

Thoroughly combine sugar, seasonings and onion juice in bowl. Add oil; beat well; add vinegar; beat well. Keep covered in refrigerator. Pour dressing on salad; add sesame seeds and toss well. Serve immediately.

Lodge Presents Awards

A brunch was held for volunteers Monday at Leisure Lodge. Afterwards, volunteer organizations were presented 'Golden Deeds Awards.' Among those presented were: East Side Church of Christ, 37th Street Church of Christ, Bethel Baptist Church and Faith Baptist Church, Church of God, First United Methodist Church, Retired Senior Citizens Program, Woman's Missionary Union for First Baptist, Snyder Daily News, Snyder Day Care Center, Highland Park Bakery and Hinshaw's House of Flowers.

Each of these organizations assists with various social activities.

Baking Powder Substitute

Be resourceful--when you're in the midst of preparing a recipe that calls for baking powder and find you're out of it, substitute one-half teaspoon baking soda and one-half teaspoon cream of tarter for each required teaspoon of baking powder, suggests Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt, consumer marketing information specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Paramount And Producer Sued

LOS ANGELES(AP)- Paramount Pictures Corp. and movie producer Dino DeLaurentiis are being sued for $6 million in federal court for an alleged copyright violation.

The suit by author W. Ware Lynch claims the book and movie "Lipstick" were based on his book, "Rape!- One Victim's Story. A Documentary." Lynch said his book was written more than three years ago and much of the material was used in the highly publicized "Lipstick."

Perry Pitches Best Performance Of Season

KANSAS CITY (AP)—His thinning hair is mostly gray now and the once-trim waistline has grown flabby, befitting a man just 16 months shy of his 40th birthday.

And he's been worried he might lose his job.

But Gaylord Perry, the big righthander with the southern drawl and the famous spitball, shooed the wolves from his door Thursday night with his best performance of the year, pitching the Texas Rangers to a 2-0 victory over the Kansas City Royals.

"You guys have been saying I was pitching bad," Perry told a cluster of writers after checking the Royals on two singles and two doubles. "And you were exactly right."

He took the mound Thursday night with an unsightly 6.69 earned run average and a 1-4 record and hadn't won since his first start more than a month ago. The talk around the American League was that Perry, with a career total of 232 victories and 2,690 strikeouts, was through.

"I knew they were saying that," Perry said. "I didn't blame them. And the way I'd been pitching, I knew I could go only so far. There are some good pitchers on this club who deserve a chance to start."

Perry, who struck out five and walked only two, said he was "determined to challenge the hitters."

"I think maybe that's one of the things I've been doing wrong. Physically, I've been feeling pretty good. But tonight I didn't care if I walked four straight batters. I felt like if I made my pitch, I could get them out."

Dennis Leonard, 2-2, went the distance for the Royals, scattering 11 hits. Singles by Bert Campaneris, Willie Horton and Dave May nicked him for a run in the first, and Claudell Washington's double in the fourth brought Jim Sundberg home with the second tally.

The game was a yawner in contrast to the volatile confrontation that many people had expected after a 20-minute brawl erupted between the two teams last weekend in Texas. There was never any sign of renewed hostilities.

"I don't think I've ever pulled so hard for anybody in my life as I did for Gaylord tonight," said Rangers Manager Frank Lucchesi.

Little Sensation Expected At UIL State Track Meet

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The state schoolboy track meet opening today promised few sensational performances - if regional qualifying times and distances are any indication.

The fastest qualifying time in the Class 4A 100, for example, is 9.6 seconds by Anthony Washington of Abilene, three-tenths of a second off the state record.

An exception is pole vaulter Randy Hall of Port Lavaca Calhoun, who soared 16 feet 6 inches, the best ever by a Texas schoolboy.

Other good performances in regional include a 6-11 high jump by Ricky Thompson of Houston Jones, which equals the state record; a 21.37 in the 220 by Carl Williams of Columbia; and a 13.7 in the 120-yeard hurdles by Raymond Cockrell of Killeen.

Johnny Jones of Lampasas holds the 220 state record of 21.0, and two Texas schoolboys are tied at 13.5 for the state hurdle record.

Fourteen defending individual champions qualified for the schoolboy meet today and Saturday, but it appears that five new team champions will be crowned.

The 1976 team winners were Abilene in 4A, Lampasas in 3A, Columbus in 2A, Memphis in A and Big Sandy in B.

This year, however, the top point potential in 4A is 50 and that is shared by El Paso Burges, Galveston Ball, Garland and Abilene Cooper.

San Antonio Southwest and Mount Pleasant have a chance at 70 points in 3A, followed by Lubbock Estacado with 68 and Belton with 60.

In 2A, Rockdale and Hooks could reach 70. Stanton, Karnack Wellington and Granger have a potential of 60 in A. Ben Bolt, Meridian and Era have the high point possibilities in B with 70 each.

Crenshaw Laps Lead At Colonial National

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)- For casually erratic Ben Crenshaw, golf is more than a challenge. It's an adventure. It's golf with a grin and a "gosh what's next?"

When he's good, he's great. When he's bad, he's beautiful-if you can find him.

He does indeed visit unusual and isolated places.

"I finally convinced myself I don't need a driver," grinned Crenshaw, 25, the surprise co-leader entering the second round today of the $200,000 Colonial National Invitation.

"I went to my three wood. It's a lot easier from the fairway."

He and Al Geiberger, a former winner here, slashed five shots from Colonial's par 70 treachery and shared a one-stroke lead in the chase for the $40,000 top prize.

"A 65 here is just great for me," said Gentle Ben, who one-putted 11 greens to offset persistently erratic tee shots and other foibles.

On one hole, the 6th, a "Goodawful" tee shot took him into the trees, down an adjacent fairway and finally to the green for a miraculous bogey.

At the 7th, he hit a tee shot so bad it turned out good-clearing a hazardous wooded area-and he collected one of his six birdies of the day.

Some may recall that Ben eagled the 68th hole at the Byron Nelson Classic last week, then took bogies at the final two holes to permit Ray Floyd to elbow past him for the title.

But Thursday was a remarkable day here in every sense, uncommonly clear and calm, and a near-record 23 players seized upon the conditions to slip under par.

Behind Crenshaw and Geiberger, who birdied the final two holes, were a trio of 66s, including Roger Maltbie, Chi Chi Rodriguez and John Schroeder.

Montreal Needs On More For 18th Title

BOSTON (AP) — For all the Boston Bruins' threats, vows of retaliation for past incidents and such, and despite the 12 penalties called in the first period, it was a peaceful game. The only punch thrown was by Montreal's Guy Lafleur, and that was his scoring punch.

The prized Canadiens right wing scored two goals and set up two others Thursday night as Montreal posted a 4-2 triumph and pulled within one victory of its 18th National Hockey League championship.

In left wing John Wensink's promise to "cut his Lafleur's head right off," the Boston forward may have made a fatal error. He got the mild-mannered Lafleur just a trifle too annoyed for the Bruins' good. Boston had held Lafleur without a shot on goal in the first two games. Thursday night, he had six.

"It stimulated me a lot," said Lafleur, commenting on Wensink's remark. Lafleur skated around everyone who tried to check him, scored a power play goal with a 15-foot shot at 4:08 of the first period, and set up power play tallies by linemates Steve Shutt and Jacques Lemaire later in the period while the puzzled Bruins still tried to figure out how to beat Canadians goalie Ken Dryden.

Bruins Coach Don Cherry said, "Guy Lafleur is Guy Lafleur - the greatest hockey player in the world today, bar none."

Lafleur's performance helped get Montreal's power play untracked, "and we couldn't have picked a better time for that," said Shutt. "We weren't working together; everyone was letting the other guy do it all." But after getting just seven power play goals in 46 chances previously, Lafleur guided the Canadiens to three goals in five opportunities in Game Three.

Meanwhile, "they never let us get untracked," said Boston left wing Wayne Cashman. "We can't seem to get the jump on them. They're such a good hockey club, they make it tough to come back. We went out and gave it everything we had."

Style Cramped

DALLAS (AP) — Vitas Gerulaitis isn't so sure clean living is a ticket to success but he's going to have to live without the nightlife as long as his father is with him at the World Championship of Tennis finals.

Gerulaitis, 22, known as something of a playboy on the WCT circuit, outlasted Wojtek Fibak of Poland in a marathon five-set quarterfinal match Thursday night 1-6, 3-6, 6-0, 6-2, 6-3 and wondered aloud if he was getting too much sleep.

Records In Reach For SWC Trackers

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Seven Southwest Conference track records appear within the range of performers at the 1977 meet today and Saturday.

Texas freshman Johnny Jones has beaten the records for the 100-and 220-yard dashes. And his anchor leg on the 440 relay has helped produce a time of 39.57, 23 hundredths under the record set in 1970 by Texas A&M.

Jones has run a college-record equalling 9.21 in the 100 and set the school record at 20.4 in the 220 two weeks ago. The SWC records for those events are 9.3, b SMU's John Roderick in 1964, and 20.7, shared by three runners.

And Longhorn Coach Cleburne Price wants Jones to give him some points in the long jump in an effort to help Texas win its sixth straight conference title.

"He might not take more than two or three jumps," Price said. "It just depends on what happens."

What Price hopes for is a jump over 24 feet, which Jones did last year in high school with little practice. That might stand up for third place and six points.

"You'd think as good as his form is in running, it would be good in jumping, too," Price said. "His form is terrible. Absolutely terrible."

But he has more lift and more speed than anyone Texas has ever had, and those are more important than form, Price said.

Three SWC distance runners already have run the three-mile faster than the 13:44.9 record by Arkansas' Randy Melancon, set last year.

The pole vault record of 16-8 has been topped twice this year by Texas A&M's Brad Blair.

Baylor's Bill Wimberly has gone an inch above the 7-1½ record.

The 1:48.1 record in the 880 could be in trouble if Arkansas' Jall O'Shaughnessy and Baylor's mark Collins are running against each other.

Another record, 13.7 in the high hurdles, has been exceeded by Davy Duncan's wind-aided 13.4 for Baylor back in February.

76ers Take Lose Well

HOUSTON (AP)- It was George McGinnis' turn to take some ribbing over the way his Philadelphia 76ers had played against Houston and the star forward took it well-there was little else he could do.

The scene was an almost deserted 76er dressing room following Houston's 118-94 victory in the third game of their National Basketball Association NBA playoff series.

"Where's that gorilla?" asked a Houston fan who had found his way into the dressing room.

"No gorillas around here," McGinnis replied.

"I just wanted to see that Darryl Dawkins who calls his dunk shot a gorilla dunk," the fan needled. "We'll keep Mo Malone and you all can keep the gorilla."

"I'd better not comment on that," McGinnis said smiling.

"But we will keep him."

The Rockets, who had been ridiculed as too ponderous and slow to compete with the stream lined 76ers, definitely took their revenge against the surprised 76ers in Wednesday's game and silenced some of their critics.

Asked about the Rockets being compared to water buffaloes and only being able to beat the 76ers if the game were played in tall grass, McGinnis said, again smiling, "Well, I guess they changed all that didn't they.

Namath Set With Rams

LOS ANGELES (AP)- "I'm here to play football," Joe Namath said simply after he's signed a contract with the Los Angeles Rams.

"Sure, I'm interested in getting more involved in the movies and television, but as everybody who's dealt with me knows, football comes first."

Namath, the colorful and sometimes controversial quarterback who'd spent his 12 professional football seasons with the New York Jets, agreed to terms with Los Angeles Thursday. His move from Broadway to the Sunset Strip was accompanied by fanfare hardly expected for the signing of a 34-year-old third-string quarterback with gimpy knees.

At a jammed press conference in a plush Beverly Hills hotel, Namath said he was pleased to be with the Rams, a preference he'd made known as early as 1975.

"Every player dreams of being part of an organization like the Rams," he said. "They have a very high caliber of players, fine personnel. I am grateful to Mr. Rosenbloom and the Rams organization for bringing me here. I am also grateful to the New York Jets. They were good to me while I was there."

Namath was the most feared passer in the NFL in the late 1960s, but knee injuries and the Jets' flagging fortunes in recent years made him generally in-effective.

The Rams got the chance to sign Namath when the Jets failed to pick up his contract, worth nearly $500,000 annually, and he became a free agent April 1.

Carter Is Maturing In Role As World Leader

By Donald M. Rothberg
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- Jimmy Carter, home from his first summit conference, is coming across as a man with reinforced confidence in his ability to lead the United States and the free world.

The weeks before he headed for Europe were difficult ones for the Carter presidency. His disarmament proposals received a brusque rejection in Moscow. His tax rebate fared no better on Capitol Hill.

But at his seventh news conference, Carter seemed to be a man with renewed confidence. He sounded more like the candidate who told countless campaign audiences: "I don't intend to lose."

His manner also contrasted with his first presidential press conference when he was apologetic toward congressional critics and then left the room quickly after the traditional "Thank you, Mr. President" ended the questioning.

When he was asked Thursday about criticism from within his own party, Carter brushed it aside with no apologies. Questioned about whether he was emphasizing style rather than substance, the President discoursed on why style is substance in his administration.

And when the questioning was over, he lingered among reporters and said he thought Richard M. Nixon was guilty of an impeachable offense, a question he had ducked a week earlier.

Carter opened the news conference by hailing the results of his European summit meeting with the heads of other major non-Communist industrial nations. He said he found a "renewed spirit of hope and confidence" in the ability of western democracies to compete with the Communist world.

While upbeat in his answers to foreign policy questions, Carter cautioned that "the chances for Middle Eastern peace are still very much in doubt."

It was when he dealt with domestic criticism that Carter sounded like a man who is convinced he knows what he is doing.

While Carter was in Europe, Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., addressed Americans for Democratic Action and questioned whether Carter's commitment to a balanced budget would take precedence over traditional Democratic social welfare programs.

A month before he took office, Carter received a memorandum from pollster Patrick Caddell which advised him not to subvert style to substance and also warned that Carter might face more political danger from Democrats like McGovern and California Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr., than from Republicans.

"I don't see either McGovern or Gov. Brown as an adversary or threat," said Carter.

Then he drew laughs by adding, "I feel quite secure in my position."

Obviously annoyed by the McGovern criticism, Carter acknowledged that he could lose liberal support.

It was when he talked about style that Carter sounded his most confident. He wasn't the least defensive when the subject of Caddell's recommendation was raised.

In fact, he said, "I agree....I think to the extent that I can have a good relationship with the people, it makes it easier for me to be a good President."

Nixon Confident In Second TV Interview

By Barry Schweid
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- A relaxed Richard Nixon, casting himself as coolly in charge of his own foreign policy, says he initiated overtures to China, faced the Russians down in the 1973 Middle East war and rescued Egyptian President Anwar Sadat from "a coup or worse."

In a taped interview with British television personality David Frost, Nixon said he had to overcome the reservations of Henry Kissinger to maintain U.S. military operations in Cambodia in 1970, despite demonstrations at Kent State and other universities.

And, again over Kissinger's warnings of possible political and diplomatic implications, Nixon said he ordered the Pentagon to "send everything that flies" to Israel to help the Jewish state snap back from the 1973 Yom Kippur attack by Egypt and Syria.

Thursday night's telecast over an informal network of 155 television stations was the second of five programs expected to bring Nixon approximately $1 million.

Nixon appeared as confident discussing world affairs in Thursday's taped interview as he had appeared uneasy in dealing with his Watergate downfall in last week's telecast.

Nixon, the only man to resign the presidency, assessed the world leaders he met while president and called Kissinger, who became both secretary of state and national security chief, "a genius" who had to have things his way.

Of the world leaders he met, Nixon said:

-The late Chairman Mao Tse-tung of China had "a devilish sense of humor" and lived very simple. Despite debilitating strokes he maintained control over China until his death last year.

-The late Soviet leader Nikita Khrushchev was both brilliant and boorish, with "a terrible inferiority complex."

-Khrushchev's successor, Leonid I. Brezhnev, is not as quick intellectually, but also is not as volatile "and in that way a much safer man to have sitting there with his finger on the nuclear button."

Nixon called Kissinger an emotional intellectual who "likes to say outrageous things." He said Kissinger, who liked being a celebrity, constantly feuded with William P. Rogers before succeeding him as secretary of state.

After the Watergate scandal forced Nixon's resignation, Kissinger was sometimes critical of his old boss. In a dinner conversation in Ottawa, Canada, in October 1975, for instance, he was overheard describing Nixon as an odd and artificial man.

"Quite candidly," Nixon said, "it drives my family right up the wall and it's only because it bothers them, that it would bother me at all."

Besides, he went on, "after such accounts appear, I know that I always get a call from Henry on the phone explaining that there's been either a misquotation, or misinterpretation, or what have you.

"And, I have always said to him, 'Forget it.'"

Kissinger could not be reached for comment on Nixon's observations. An assistant in his downtown Washington office said the former secretary of state would have nothing to say. A call to his home in Georgetown was taken by an answering service and not returned.

Gen Tel Strike Chances Slim

SAN ANGELO (AP)- Union and company spokesmen now say the possibility of a Communciations Workers of America strike against General Telephone Co. of the Southwest is "greatly reduced."

A joint release Thursday said a major breakthrough had occurred in the negotiations over the job re-structuring proposal of the company.

The contract between the company and the approximately 6,000 employes in four states expires Sunday.

Strike ballots had been mailed to employes in Texas, Arkansas, New Mexico and Oklahoma.

According to the statement, the new proposal agreed upon by both parties offers "full protection under the life of the agreement" for employes in the top wage schedule.

For the lower ranked jobs in which the company wants to slow down wage increases "several options have been developed but details have not been finalized," the statement said.

The company's original proposal, termed retrogressive by the union, had called for approximately seven per cent of the employes covered by the contract to receive slowed wage increases over the three-year contract term.

In previous negotiations, the union had expressed dissatisfaction with the total dollar amount of the wage and benefit package presented by GTE.

The union and company differed on the exact percentage increase contained in the benefits.

No statement has been issued on the progress of wage and benefits negotiations.

Senate GOPs Submit Incentive Energy Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans, rejecting all new tax proposals contained in President Carter's energy program, are offering a rival plan aimed at "incentives rather than punishment."

The energy proposal, adopted without dissent by Senate GOP members on Thursday, calls for removal of price controls on oil and natural gas and tax breaks for Americans who conserve energy in their homes and businesses.

It calls for some of the same energy conservation measures advocated by the President, but none of the taxes.

Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., said elements of the GOP counter-offensive to Carter's energy package will be introduced in the Senate piece by piece in the coming days.

If the 38 GOP members of the Senate stand solidly behind the plan - as Republican leaders say they will - it could pose a major obstacle to enactment of some of the more controversial elements of the administration's energy program.

"We do not have a tax on gas-guzzlers and we specifically reject a standby tax on gasoline," said Sen. John Tower, R-Texas. "Our provisions are positive, incentives rather than punishment."

Carter asked for authority to impose a gasoline tax of up to 50 cents a gallon if gasoline consumption continues to rise rapidly, and for a tax of up to $2,500 on fuel-inefficient automobiles.

But Senate Republicans rejected the President's proposal for taxes on domestic oil production and on utilities that continue to use oil and natural gas.

The GOP plan for deregulation would allow domestic oil and gas prices to rise to world-market levels.

Deregulation has been a goal of the U.S. energy industry and members of Congress from oil and gas-producing states, who claim the current federal controls keep prices artificially low and discourage exploration for new reserves.

The Republican plan advocates an immediate end to price controls on newly drilled oil and natural gas and on petroleum products such as gasoline and heating oil.

But energy companies would have to reinvest their anticipated extra profits in further exploration and development or face a possible "windfall profits tax."

Price controls also would be removed from oil from older wells and from some gas from older fields, but more gradually.

In contrast, the administration plan would allow the price of domestic oil to rise to world-market levels, but through a complex tax placed on oil at the wellhead. The Carter plan also would continue federal price controls on natural gas, raising prices in the interstate market while lowering them in the currently unregulated markets in gas-producing states.

Like Carter's plan, the GOP version offers tax breaks for home insulation and for various other energy conservation measures in homes and businesses.

Texas Group Opposes Ban

HOUSTON (AP) - The executive council of the Texas Diabetes and Endocrine Association has voted to "strongly oppose" the ban on use of saccharin in foods by the Food and Drug Administration FDA.

The group's policy board charged Thursday night that the FDA "has no conclusive evidence that saccharin causes cancer in humans". It said it would urge the federal regulatory agency to reconsider its earlier action on the artificial sweetener.

Workshop In Multicultural Studies Set

A few places are still available for a summer workshop for school personnel dealing with multicultural studies scheduled in Abilene for May 30-June 17, Dr. Thomas Lawrence, exective director of Region 14 Education Service Center, has announced.

Hardin-Simmons University, The Texas Center for Human Resources and the Service Center will team up for the workshop. It will be conducted by Hardin-Simmons staff on the H-SU campus and is designed to increase understanding of the various cultures in society, to improve skills in working with children from various cultures and to assist school personnel in preparing instructional units incorporated multicultural understanding and skills. Hardin-Simmons will grant three hours of graduate credit to participants.

Each participant will be given a stipend of $200 to pay tuition and other costs by The Texas Center for Human Resources. Dr. Lawrence is planning agent for the workshop and inquiries and applications should referred to him at Box 3258, Abilene 79604, or by calling 915-677-2911.

TIA Offers Peanut Fares

HOUSTON (AP)- Texas international Airlines says it will reduce fares between Houston Intercontinental and Dallas-Fort Worth Airport effective June 1.

The Houston based carrier said Thursday the fares will be reduced from the regular $39 to the so-called peanut fare rates of $15 and $25. The fair depends on the time of day.

Airline spokesman Jim O'Donnell said the carrier also will expand it schedule June 1 to offer the most non-stop flights between the two cities.

Fingers Of Thieves Glow

AUSTIN, (AP)- Texas Capitol police are able to determine which Capitol employes have sticky fingers by checking to see who has glowing fingers.

Capitol police are periodically planting coins, dusted with an invisible powder that glows under ultraviolet light, in petty cash outlets to combat a rash of small thefts this session.

Chief Bobby Williams said four unidentified alleged thiefs have been nabbed since the technique was begun last January. More than $500 in petty cash had been stolen, he said, mostly from coin boxes in various offices.

When any of the planted coins were stolen, Williams said, employes with access to the money are asked to submit to the ultraviolet light test.

The powder cannot be washed off and remains visible under the light for about 36 hours.

Williams said the petty thefts have dropped off dramatically since the coin powdering began in early January.

"People know we're operating the program," he said.

"They know that there is a very good chance they will get caught. They just don't know when or where we'll strike."

Williams said some of the persons arrested were transient custodians who had access to offices at night.

"The thefts would drop off for a while, then we would have some new people come in and they'd pick up again," he explained.

Man Is Sentenced For False Report

On the same day as reporting to police an allegedly bogus burglary, a 38-year-old Snyder man was charged with making a false report and entered a guilty plea in county court to the charge.

Raymond Leak was assessed a $200 fine and a 30-day jail term Thursday in county court on a charge of making a false report. He is accused of fabricating a report of a burglary in which, he allegedly told officers, a set of chrome wheels and chrome hubcaps were taken from a service station he is employed at.

Leak was one of several persons entering guilty pleas to charges of misdemeanor offenses yesterday in county court.

Frank Edward Thurman, Bruce Wayne Wortham and Thomas Rene Mills all entered guilty pleas to charges of driving while intoxicated.

Thurman was fined $100 and sentenced to serve three days in the county jail. Wortham and Mills each received a $100 fine and 30 days in the county jail, probated for six months.

William Nelson Rose entered a plea of "nolo contendre" (no contest) to a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was assessed a $100 fine and a three-day jail term. He had been arrested Feb. 3 by troopers of the Department of Public Safety.

Roy Garza Jasso of Snyder pleaded guilty to a charge of possession of less than two ounces of marijuana. He was assessed a 90-day jail term, probated for 180 days. He had been arrested May 4 by officers of the Snyder Police Department.

Douglas Edward Sparks was sentenced Thursday in county court after having earlier entered a guilty plea to a charge of possession of less than two ounces of marijuana. He received a $200 fine and a 30-day jail term.

Couple 'Adopted' By Wealthy Widow

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N Y News Synd Inc

DEAR ABBY: My friend is a wealthy 76-year-old widow who is being "taken" by a couple in their 40s who live near her.

This couple is a husband-and-wife team who have made a "career" out of being this widow's friend. They see that she has company every evening (inviting themselves to her home for dinner), they do all her chores: shopping, cleaning, painting, yard work, etc.

I understand they even have a key to her home and her safety deposit box! She bought them a new car and has given them an interest-free loan so their son could go to college.

I am told that these con artists are going to get a bulk of her estate when she passes on. I think her estate should go to her own kinfolk who live in a faraway state, don't you?

Should I get in touch with her relatives and tell them what is going on here? They haven't been here in years, so they have no way of knowing.

CONCERNED FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Allowing for your good intentions, I think you are meddling in your friend's affairs. She obviously appreciates the couple's companionship and help, and unless she is mentally incompetent, she's entitled to do whatever she wants with her money—now and later.

Her kinfolk who haven't visited this aging widowed relative in years seem less deserving to share in her estate than the neighbors you describe.

DEAR ABBY: I think my husband is entirely too friendly to strange women. For instance, he will bury his nose in an elevator operator's hair and say, "My, you have beautiful hair—and it smells nice, too."

Or he will compliment a waitress on her "beautiful legs" or "school-girl figure."

When I tell him that it shows a lack of respect for me when he does this in my presence, he says he is only trying to make a poor working girl feel good.

How do you feel about this sort of thing, Abby? Am I wrong to resent it?

BARRY'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: It is ill-mannered and presumptuous for a man to make personal remarks (complimentary or otherwise) to strange women in (or out of) his wife's presence.

Tell Barry if he doesn't cut it out, one of those poor working girls is apt to work him over.

DEAR ABBY: I am 16 and have a CB radio. Last month I met someone in person that I used to talk to on the radio. We go to the same school, so he was easy to meet.

This person is 15 and spends his weekends at Juvenile Hall. He told me last week that he has six months more at Juvy Hall, after which he will be on probation for a long time. He said he would rather kill himself than to keep going back there for weekends, and that is what he is planning to do.

He said his mother is finally sick of him, and his stepdad couldn't care less about him. I asked if he didn't have some relatives he could stay with, and he said nobody wants him.

Do you think it would be a wise decision to ask this person to come and live with my family because that's exactly what he needs. A family. I think living with us could help him a lot. What do you think?

T.S.

DEAR T.S.: I think you are to be commended for your concern about this person's welfare, but it's up to your parents to make that decision, not me.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Carter Aid Grant Is Victory For Israel

By Kenneth J. Freed
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)- Israel and its congressional supporters have won a significant victory over the State Department with President Carter's decision to grant the Jewish state special treatment on weapons aid.

Carter signaled the Israeli accomplishment when he disclosed at a Thursday news conference that the Jerusalem government would be given high priority in obtaining new U.S. weapons and military technology and the right to co-produce some American-designed armaments.

Carter's announcement came just two hours after he and a group of senators who support Israel worked out an agreement to grant Israel special treatment. The senators agreed in exchange to shelve an amendment aimed at giving lawmakers the power to circumvent Carter's arms policy.

Thursday's events capped an all-out lobbying battle between the State Department and the Israeli embassy and its backers. The department wanted to exclude Israel from a category of preferred nations that receive priority consideration in arms matters.

Led by Undersecretary of State Lucy Wilson Benson, department lobbyists argued that including Israel in that category would upset the Arabs at a sensitive point of Middle East negotiations.

They also argued that the United States needed to adopt an "even-handed" policy toward the Middle East antagonists.

The Israelis fought back, seeing these positions as an attempt by pro-Arabists in the administration to weaken the Jerusalem government so it could not oppose an American-imposed Middle East settlement.

A concerted effort by Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz, the Israeli lobby and congressional supporters produced two amendments to legislation calling on the United States to live up to commitments by the Gerald R. Ford administration to provide Israel new weapons, technology and rights to co-produce some armaments from U.S. plans.

Child Care Bill Action Delayed

AUSTIN (AP)- Final House action on a bill to exempt church-related child care centers from regulation by the Texas Department of Public Welfare must wait until Monday.

Representatives said the bill would be postponed because its sponsor had to leave town on personal business.

It advanced Thursday on tight 68-67 vote after more than an hour of debate that played off horror stories of child abuse in the name of religion against claims that the state was interfering in religion.

"There are no regulations that the welfare department could promulgate that would not contain elements of secular humanism, and this is repugnant to fundamentalist Christianity," said sponsoring Rep. Kenneth Vaughan, D-Garland.

Under his bill, state welfare workers would have the right - but not the duty - to inspect the institutions. If they found a violation of health, safety or child abuse laws, they would be required to report it to "the appropriate enforcement authority."

Both secular and religious child care institutions - including day care centers - were brought under state regulation by a 1975 law, passed largely in response to allegations of mistreatment of children people in homes operated by evangelist Lester Roloff.

Order Is Issued On Art Sales

EL PASO, (AP)-The Southwest Starving Artist Group, Inc. must stop alleged deceptive trade practices, a state district court judge here has ruled.

Judge Edward S. Marquez issued a permanent injunction Thursday against the Dallas-based company that conducts traveling art sales throughout Texas and other states.

The order came after Atty. Gen. John Hill brought suit alleging violations of the Texas consumer protection laws. Hill's office in Austin announced the injunction.

The order stops the firm and its president James McNabb from:

-Misrepresenting the geographical origin or subject matter of paintings offered for sale by using such business names as Southwest Starving Artist art sale.

-Failing to disclose that paintings originate in several countries and misrepresenting the number of artists contributing to the sale.

-Using a local address in ads unless the company has enough local personnel to accept calls, return merchandise and forward messages and correspondence.

The name Kuwait means "Little Port."

Friday, 13th Came Early

Friday the 13th was observed one day early for one Snyderite who was involved in two separate traffic accidents that occurred within one hour of each other.

Tate Walter Lockhart, driving a 1969 Ford, was first involved in a minor traffic accident in the parking lot of Snyder Drug. The vehicle he was driving was in collision with a 1971 Dodge driven by Cynthia L. Humphries yesterday at 10:40 a.m.

Lockhart's second traffic accident occurred at 11:34 a.m. at the intersection of 24th St. and College Ave. when his car was in collision with a 1969 Chevrolet driven by Marsh Provence. Only minor damages were reported to the cars involved in the two mishaps.

A third traffic accident was investigated Thursday at 6:33 p.m. at the parking lot of the Rainbow Grocery.

Involved in that mishap were a 1968 Chevrolet driven by Antonio J. Rodriquez and a parked 1972 Pontiac owned by Ernest Forrest.

A STAKE IN THE FUTURE

"The communications industry has the largest family of stockholders of any industry in America," so states the "Wall Street Journal." That statement has many implications, many meanings. For me it means that more people believe in the future of the development and use of outer space than any other area of endeavor.

I can remember when my favorite ad was one that showed a young, happy couple beneath whose picture was the caption, "We retired on $200 a month for life." A little plot of ground in Florida and $200 a month for life! Those were the days!

But now we all want a stake in space. For out there lies the future. Colonization of the stars lies just ahead, and a "little plot of ground on Mars" may not be impossible for our grandchildren.

Why does man reach out like that toward the future? He was made in the image of God, and God is the God of the future. The desire to go to heaven, to live with God forever, is the most natural and normal desire of the human heart. Even Job, 3,000 years ago cried out, "I know that my Redeemer lives, and that at the latter day . . . I will see Him with my own eyes, and He will not be a stranger."

That's a real stake in the future, in glory. Joy, peace and power of outer space and inner space—"I shall see Him as He is, with my own eyes."

1st Baptist Youth Schedule Musical

Approximately 55 youth of the First Baptist Church will present a teaching musical, "The New Covenant" during the worship service Sunday night at 7 p.m. The musical, under the direction of Jerry Neill, deals with how to live the Christian life on the deeper level. Neill stresses the emphasis on "teaching" rather than "performance".

"Our main purpose is to involve the cast, as well as the audience, in a learning experience about Christianity, rather than entertain, or 'put on a performance.'"

"Although the musical is comprised of modern music with a 'now' sound, the message comes through loud and clear."

Accompaniment for "The New Covenant" features the following: Keyboards--Bobby Wells and Judy Neill; acoustical guitar-Kerry Wood; lead guitar-Randy Price; electric guitar-Barry Mayo; key bass-Karen Sue Jones; drums-Steve Tate; and flute-Becky Wafer.

Soloists and narrators include: Ellen Cox, Kim McPherson, Sherilyn Campbell, Kerry Wood, Carlos Melgar, Karen Sue Jones, Crystie Selfars, Britt Inman, Natosa Bills, Veronica Melgar, Gary Miller, Judy Schooler, Damon Clawson, and Susan Minor.

Ensemble and madrigal parts feature: Susan Minor, Suzanne Cross, Rita Black, Veronica Melgar, Sherilyn Campbell, Patti Pierce, Ellen Cox, Vickie Kornegay, Kim McPherson, Damon Clawson, Carlos Melgar, Shelly Clawson, Gary Miller, Britt Inman, and Kerry Wood.

A special surprise dramatic appearance of Pastor Ken Andress, as Moses, also is included in the presentation.

The public is invited to attend. There is no admission charge. A nursery will be provided for small children.

BETHEL BAPTIST
"What Manner of Ministry Is Yours?" will be the sermon topic of the R. Virgil Mott on "The Back To Bethel Broadcast" at 8:35 a.m. Sunday on KSNY. For a ride to Sunday School call 573-7267 or 573-5968.

Sunday School will begin at 10 a.m.

"Doing Your Own Thing" will be the sermon topic of the pastor at the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday.

The budget and finance committees will meet Sunday at 5:30 p.m. Church Training service is set for 6 p.m. "Communion With The Saints" will be the sermon subject of the pastor at the 7 p.m. service.

On Wednesday, the GA's will meet at 7 p.m., and all other organizations will assemble in the sanctuary for prayer time. The pastor will direct the altar and prayer service. "The Grapevine Singers" will appear at the church in a full hour program Sunday at 7 p.m. The singers are from Vine Avenue Baptist Church, Odessa. The public is invited to hear the program directed by Vaughnny Taylor.

Enema habit only hurts

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — For the past several years I've had a good bowel movement twice a week. My family doctor says this is normal for some people. Is this true?

Now I am to the point where I have to use a laxative or enema to have a bowel movement and these still give very little results.

My doctor says that I have gall bladder problems. Could these be related?

Also is it necessary that I should have a gall bladder operation when at this time I am experiencing no pain, just a slight occasional tenderness at the position of the gall bladder?

DEAR READER — It is not necessary to have a bowel movement every day. However, people who do not usually are on a diet that is low in bulk. If you eat mostly refined foods and get no cereal fiber there simply is not enough residue for normal colon function. The same thing happens to people who go on a crash diet that contains no bread (it should be whole wheat for a normal diet anyway) and a little food.

The laxative and enema habit only makes matters worse. By speeding up elimination artificially you simply empty the colon prematurely. It takes longer then for it to fill sufficiently for the next elimination.

Your symptoms may be related to your colon rather than your gall bladder. In any case the indication for gall bladder surgery is definite disease of the gall bladder, a competent surgeon and a patient healthy enough to minimize the surgical risk. If the gall bladder is diseased it is better to have it removed while you are young and in good health but that will not correct your bowel problem. To help you with that I am sending you The Health letter number 2-1, Irritable or Spastic Colon and Constipation. Also I am sending you number 4-9, Gallstones and Gall Bladder Disease. Others who want either of these issues can send 50 cents for either one and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Just send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — A few weeks ago there was an article in the paper by a lady who was saying what relief she got from a diet of bananas, almonds and avocados for her arthritis. The paper got mislaid before I got a chance of noting her address.

Would you be able to furnish this to me as I would like to try it?

DEAR READER — I'll do better than that by telling you such a diet won't do any good at all for arthritis. Save yourself the trouble.

There are no special diets for arthritis. An individual with arthritis should eat a sensible diet that prevents obesity. Also some patients with rheumatoid arthritis seem to do better if special care is taken to be sure they get more than the Recommended Daily Dietary Allowance of vitamins. Care must be taken to be sure the diet is at least adequate. Other than that any claims for magic cures from super vitamins or special diets is not based on sound information.

Testimonials such as the one you read usually don't mean a thing in medicine. You could get testimonials for snake oil if you wanted to bother.

Dick Smothers Is Wine Grape Grower

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP)- Dick Smothers has walked away from the bright lights and applause into the dusty world of irrigation and sugar content as a wine grape grower.

Since July, when Dick and Tom Smothers broke up their famous brother act after more than 17 years, he, his wife, Linda, and their three children have lived quietly on a ranch in the Santa Cruz mountains, where they are cultivating 13 acres for premium white wines.

He expects the first bottling of his wine, under the label Vine Hill Wine, to be done this fall.

Belfast Rehab Center Aids Maimed Survivors

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

BELFAST (AP)-Sammy Wilson is one of Northern Ireland's forgotten victims, one of the 18,000 men, women and children maimed and wounded in the province's sectarian war.

Two years ago his right leg was ripped off at the thigh when a bomb exploded in a north Belfast bar. Now he limps around on an artificial leg trying to get his shattered life together again.

Sammy is a 47-year-old Protestant. Before he was maimed he was a bus conductor, but now he faces an uncertain future.

It's been a long painful haul for him since March 14, 1975, when three young terrorists with guns blazing lobbed the bomb that crippled him in Conway's Bar in Greencastle.

But he says with unwitting irony: "I'm determined to stand on my own two feet. Otherwise, it's all been a waste."

Most people in this brawling province have, often to the exact grisly digit, that more than 1,720 people have been slain since Protestant and Roman Catholic extremists launched a terrorist campaign in 1969. Many of the dead are martyrs to one side or the other.

But it's staggering how few are aware of the number of wounded from the bombings, shootings, riots and fires. Even the figure of 18,000, police say, doesn't show the full cost of human misery that the conflict has caused. "We didn't bother to keep statistics on the wounded until the end of 1970," says one authority.

"There must be hundreds more we haven't listed. And that total doesn't include the people, especially kids, who'll need psychiatric care for years because of the violence."

"The people who've been killed are the lucky ones," said a doctor at Belfast's Royal Victoria Hospital.

"The people who've been maimed and blinded in this madness are the ones who really suffer," he says. "They have to go on living."

"I don't remember much about the bombing," says Sammy. "I went into Conway's for a quick one between shifts. I'd just sat down when the young lads came in shooting and threw the bomb.

"I didn't know I'd lost my leg until several days later. I felt completely helpless. I felt it was all over for me. I was a cripple. What could I do? My wife had died 18 months before the bombing. It all seemed so empty."

"It all looks bad. I'm 52 years old and it's all over. My wife's not working and I'm not good for anything any more." Robert is a 22-year-old British soldier. The bombers got him New Year's Eve, 1975, at the White Heather Bar in Dungannon, a longtime trouble spot.

He doesn't remember much about the explosion. "Something hit the back of my head and I was falling, falling. I thought I'd never hit the ground.

In the months that followed, his right leg was amputated, his stomach was chewed up, his kidneys damaged, his spine twisted and his back a mass of scars. They'd found a chair leg embedded in it.

The two men now are at the Felden Rehabilitation Center in north Belfast receiving elementary training for a new life.

"The main objective is not simply to train people for new jobs they can handle," says Harry Knight, the director, "but to build up their confidence to return to society in a meaningful way, restore their self-respect."
