SECRECY VEILS TEXAS PATRONAGE HEARING

AL AND GENE TOTAL 142'S TO TOP OPEN

Pace Makers Finish Round Before Near-Cloudburst Engulfs Bobby

FARRELL ELIMINATED

Hagen and Horton Smith Also Falter in Fall Of Many Experts

WINGED FOOT CLUB., Mamaroneck, N. Y., June 28.—A terrific storm, nearly a cloudburst, struck the national open golf championship today, scattered title hopes and helped remove the famous Atlanta amateur, Bobby Jones, from the leadership, as the field wound up the first half of the spectacular 72 hole championship battle.

Early in the morning, before the stormy gale broke, Gene Sarazen, New York, champion in 1922, and Al Espinosa, Chicago, shot out in front, deadlocked with totals of 142 each for 36 holes that withstood attacks throughout the day and its disastrous downpour.

Sarazen, putting sensationally, duplicated his first day's score of 71. Espinosa added a par 72 to his 70 of the opening day to create a deadlock that Bobby Jones failed to break after a gallant effort under conditions considering unprecedented for the open.

Followed by the greatest and also the most soaked gallery of the day Jones started with the storm, fought the gale and rain with brilliance but finally finished his second round with 73, three over par.

A bad six on the 17th hole just when it appeared his rally would at least carry him into a tie with the pace-setters forced Jones to forfeit the advantage gained by his 69 yes-

Injunction Would Halt Purchase of Textbooks

AUSTIN, June 28. (INS)—Sen. A. J. Wirtz, of Seguin, today filed suit in the 53rd district court of Travis county seeking an injunction against the purchase of school text books on four awards made by the Texas state text book commission.

The contracts were signed this week by Gov. Dan Moody and S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction. Attack on the contracts is made on the claim that the books are sold at lower prices in other states.

Seven Jurors Chosen In Poison Death Trial

BOSTON, Texas, June 28. (UP)—With the court still attempting to secure an unbiased jury, the trial of Ocie Nix, charged with poisoning his 17-year-old wife, was continued late today until tomorrow.

Seven jurors had been chosen when court adjourned, the first venire of 50 being exhausted. Another panel was to be on hand for the opening of court tomorrow.

Youths Killed In Fight With Alligator

CLEARWATER, Fla., June 28. (INS)—John Freddy, 8, and Norman Gold, 9, were dead today after a death struggle with an alligator in a golf course water hazard here.

Gashes on their bodies bore evidence of their struggle with the reptile. Golfers, hearing the screams of a four-year-old brother of the boys' retrieved the bodies and found the alligator.

Prof's Wife Charges Cruelty in Petition

COLUMBIA, Mo., June 28. (UP)—Cruelty, humiliation and threats of death against one of her sons today was charged against a Missouri university professor by his wife in a suit for divorce.

Paul P. Rogers, Spanish language professor, is accused by his wife, Mrs. Lillian M. Rogers of having said he "did not like" their son, Paul Jr., 5, and that "sooner or later he would have to kill the boy or the boy would kill him."

ST. LOUIS JUST "COUPLE OF RIVERS" FROM WICHITA BY AIR, Says Marjorie

Blase Mr. Eddleman * * * * Statler Hotel Roof * * * * Forest Park Summer Opera * * * * Girl Reporter Begins Story of Her "Air Vacation"

By MARJORIE MATHIS
Record News Staff Reporter

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 28.—It hadn't occurred to me until about 3:10 this afternoon that St. Louis is just over a couple of rivers or so, across some fields and woods, and not so much as around one single corner from Wichita Falls. The actual flying miles seem to count up to 590, and any other way around comes close to a thousand. But you don't seem to notice all that acreage in the five hours and a half it takes to fly it.

Takes in Town

Here I am about three-quarters through with the first of my five days having literally overlooked the general territory. With a brilliant panoramic view of the cities and rivers, fields and woods in parts of three states still vividly before me when I close my eyes, and the prospect of hearing "Castles in the Air," sung in St. Louis' great open air theater out in Forest park. As soon as I can tear myself away from the Statler roof garden and its orchestra.

But may be I better start at the beginning, just a little way back there in Kell field where the voyagers from Wichita Falls took the air at 9:45 this morning. I was just before feeling haughty on the score of having left the ground several times before, when along comes Charles I. Francis (you know him) talking about his flying away back in 1919. Disgusting of course. But there was C. E. McCutchen admittedly making his first flight. At last a novice—and probably just a tripper. While I was really going somewhere.

"I will wire you from Chicago at 7 this evening," promises the officious fledgling, the while motioning to the boy to see that his golf things were aboard.,

E. H. Eddleman was there too, going with Mr. Francis to Tulsa. But I didn't dare ask him for fear he was at least a world flyer. Certainly he acted it all the way to Tulsa, with a most annoying and blase air, refusing to look alert and curious even at the very beginning. I am sure he took advantage of the engines' roaring to do a little snoring between Oklahoma City and Tulsa. I decided it was best to ignore him.

But I clung desperately to the last thread of my prestige when the mate, a bare headed boy appropriately called Mate Smiley, had the effrontery to offer me cotton for my ears.

"Fool! I'm not a landlubber. I'll take my flying straight, if you please."

Of course maybe my ears wouldn't have felt stuffy and full of the ringing of bells when I stepped out of the ship at the Lambert airport here, but I wouldn't admit it.

Comfortable Ship

The Miss Sweetwater, one of the all-metal 14-passenger Ford trimotored cabin planes which serve the Southwest Air Fast Express on its line between Sweetwater and St. Louis., is a dainty liner. Done in light green as to ceiling with two shades of brown on the walls and chairs. Those are comfortable high-backed chairs, tapering to a reassuring leather head cushion at the top.

There are window shades and electric lights ready to be turned on over each seat at 6 o'clock in the afternoon. The ship takes off almost imperceptibly and that youthful snub-nosed captain with a brilliant smile out of a wind-burned face certainly knows how to let 'er down easy. His name is Clarence E. Norton, and personally, I can't tell him from Lindbergh. I suppose everybody knows by now how extraordinary well swept the dusty old earth looks from about 1,800 feet in the air. An amazing order suddenly takes form beneath the eyes, as distance smooths off all of the rough edges, straightens geometric pattern, intelligence (maybe) to Mr. Einstein, takes the place of the random forms we know on earth.

There's a lot of space and very few people on the earth, if you should ask a man from Mars. Back there in Texas and Oklahoma the world was inhabited with altogether stationary cattle, of a size to delight Tom Thumb, mankind having disappeared leaving his little fields and his prickly, porcupine oil derricks behind him. And beyond Springfield, Mo., where wooded hills swell from the earth, slashed here and there by shining, meandering roads and dotted with apple orchards, we traveled for an hour and forty minutes, covering close to 200 miles without sighting more than four small towns which we deliberately high-toned. One would gather by watching the speedometer, or whatever they call those things on air liners, standing at 100 miles an hour as the unoccupied lands unfolded below, that the problem of over-population has not yet become acute.

We deigned a pause at Oklahoma

Girl Reporter Starts "Airplane Vacation"

Marjorie Mathis, girl reporter of The Record News, had plenty of company Friday morning when she started out on the S. A. F. E. lines for a five-day air vacation. The photographer went out to Kell field to take Miss Mathis' picture, but ended by taking all passengers present and a couple of youngsters out to bid goodbye to Marjorie. Left to right, Wichitans who boarded the plane for various destinations are: E. H. Eddleman, J. G. Groves, C. E. McCutchen, Charles I. Francis and Miss Mathis. OKLAHOMAN ON FARM BOARD

Carl Williams Given Post By Hoover

WASHINGTON, June 28. (US)—President Hoover today announced the appointment of three members of the farm board of nine who are to administer the agricultural relief fund of $500,000,000. They are:

James C. Stone, Lexington, Ky., farmer, banker, organizer and president of the Burley Tobacco Growers' association.

C. B. Denman, National Livestock Producers association, headquarters Chicago, home Farmington, Mo.

Carl Williams, Oklahoma City, Okla., publisher of agricultural periodicals, banker, farmer and officer in many cooperative associations.

Alexander H. Legge, Chicago, president of the International Harvester Co., who was offered the first position of the board, that of the key man in the great agricultural-financial institution which is to be set up, has not yet definitely accepted. He left here yesterday after a conference with the president to obtain the permission of his business associates to serve on the board. His acceptance is momentarily expected, it was stated.

City Denies Blame For Drowning of Student

SAPULPA, Okla., June 28. (UP)—City officials today denied blame in the drowning here Wednesday night of Frankie Peters, 15-year-old high school graduate, when she was caught in a syphon pipe in the municipal swimming pool here. Councilmen said they were unaware the syphon had been placed in the pool.

Sooner Highway Bond Issue Is Defeated, 48-46

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 28. (UP)—The Oklahoma house of representatives defeated the proposed road bond issue of $150,000,000 late today by a vote of 48 to 46, with 10 members absent. The issue, which was the principal measure in the program of Governor Holloway, fell before a vote in which enough Democrats sided with Republicans to bring about defeat.

R. H. Stanley of Choctaw county, Democrat, announced his intention to move reconsideration of the vote. Republican opposition resulted in failure to amend a section retaining the present highway commission in office for six years. Democrats previously had voted in caucus to retain the section.

Pastor Among 31 Held After Booze Raids

HARRISON, Ark., June 28. (UP)—Thirty-one residents of Boone, Searcy and Newton counties, Arkansas, are under arrest today as a result of liquor raids conducted in this region by federal prohibition agents the past few days. All 31 are under bonds of from $1,000 to $3,000. Included in those held are the Rev. E. B. McEntire, pastor-merchant.

Youth Given Life For Tehuacana Bank Job

WACO, Texas, June 28. (UP)—Charlie Knox was sentenced to life imprisonment here today by a jury which found him guilty of participation in the robbery of the Tehuacana State bank last November.

BOND SET IN SAFE ROBBERY

Butler and Stanley Held On $3,500 Bail

H. D. Butler and Hub Stanley, charged with theft of $700 from the Silver store last Sunday, were placed under bonds of $3,500 each pending action of the grand jury at the conclusion of preliminary hearings before Justice R. V. Gwinn at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The grand jury is scheduled to convene next Monday, and it was said that neither of the accused men would attempt to perfect bond before that time.

Hammer Slayer Voted Death on Gallows

LOS ANGELES, June 28. (AP)—John L. Howard was convicted of first degree murder by a jury in superior court which returned its verdict today after deliberating approximately 12 hours. Howard attacked Victor A. Cooley, Pasadena, Calif., automobile man and his employer with a hammer April 16. Cooley died four days later. Monday, Howard will be sentenced to death on the gallows.

HAWKS LANDS AT NEW YORK

Flier Breaks Own Record For West-East Hop

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., June 29.—(Saturday). (AP)—Capt. Frank M. Hawks broke his own record for a non-stop transcontinental flight from West to East on his arrival here from Los Angeles at 1:20 a. m. (E. D. T.) today.

As Captain Hawks brought his plane to earth it taxied and struck a fence surrounding the Meadowbrook Polo club. Its landing gear was broken and its fuselage ripped but Hawks was unhurt.

37-Hour Trip

The flier's unofficial time for the West-East flight was 17 hours and 43 minutes. This would make the elapsed time for the round trip flight approximately 36 hours and 53 minutes, since Hawks flew from New York to Los Angeles in 19 hours, 10 minutes and 52 seconds.

The official time of the plane's arrival here was 1:16:03 a. m.

The flier succeeded in making the trip from the West coast without a stop. It was the second leg of a round trip flight which started at Roosevelt field at 3:37 a. m. Thursday, and in completing it Hawks established a record for having traveled from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and back again, in faster time than the trip ever was made before.

DEATH HOVERS OVER NEW RECORD ATTEMPTS
(By United Press)

Three competitors for refueling endurance flight honors carried on tonight after one of the entries in last night's four-cornered contest crashed today.

Jack Ashcraft was killed and Viola Gentry was injured critically when their plane crashed near Roosevelt Field, N. Y., after it had been in the air about nine hours. Officials said the accident occurred when Ashcraft attempted to land his plane in a fog after he had run out of gas and failed to make connections with the refueling plane.

'Minneapolis' Leads

Owen Haughland and Thorwald Johnson in the Miss Minneapolis were leading the race as they closed their fifth day of flying over Minneapolis, Minn. They must remain in the air until about noon Sunday to set a mark which will supersede the present record of approximately 172½ hours.

Martin Jensen of transpacific flight fame was just starting his third day of flight over Roosevelt field in the Three Musketeers, with 49 hours of flying behind him. Mrs. Jensen and William Ulbrich are accompanying him.

The plane, City of Cleveland, with Byron K. Newcomb and R. L. Mitchell as pilots, took off at 6:38 p. m. today in a second assault on the record. The first attempt was started last night, but the flyers were forced to land because of storms after being in the air about six hours.

Hurtling Stump Wounds Bowie Man

BOWIE, Texas, June 28.—Sam T. Scott of Bowie, road foreman for the state highway department in this district, sustained three broken ribs about noon Friday when struck by a flying stump during the process of clearing a widened right of way, about four miles northeast of here.

The state highway department recently took over the maintenance of the Bowie-Montague road, and several days ago began the work of setting back fences to increase its width. Grubbing of stumps along the road was being done by hitching on a five-ton tractor. Mr. Scott was standing about 15 feet away when a large stump yielded suddenly and struck him in its flight. He was brought to the clinic hospital here.

Education Association Meets at Atlanta, Ga.

ATLANTA, June 28. (AP)—The National Education association, some 10,000 strong including guests, assembled today in Atlanta for the second convention held in the South in 72 years.

William John Cooper, United States commissioner of education, and Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy in the Wilson cabinet, were here to address the educators tonight.

Six Texas Towns Caught in Path Of Tropical Gale Which Sweeps Coast

Communications Disrupted and Considerable Damage Done By High Winds and Rain; Four Men Missing

(By The Associated Press)

Barometers were rising slowly but steadily and tides falling Friday night as residents in the vicinity of Matagroda Bay were hopeful that the tropical winds from the Gulf of Mexico had spent their force after causing considerable property damage late Friday.

Victoria, Port Lavaca, Port O'Connor, Freeport, Palacios and Matagorda apparently were the hardest hit by the winds, which reached a velocity of 50 or 60 miles an hour.

Communications Down

At Victoria, the wind uprooted trees, leveled signs, crushed windows in two business buildings, lifted shingles from the roofs of houses and tore the face from the courthouse clock.

Telephone communication with Port Lavaca and Port O'Connor, southeast of Victoria, could not be established. Many residents of Victoria who were at Port O'Connor fled before the storm.

A few small fishing smacks were damaged at Palacios by the wind which lasted about four hours.

Some apprehension was felt for the safety of four Houston men who were at Decros Point, at the tip of the Matagorda peninsula. The men went to Decros Point from Port O'Connor Friday morning in two speed boats and it was feared their crafts might have overturned if they were caught by the storm on their return trip. The identity of the men could not be ascertained further than that one of them was named Lockhart.

Heavy Rain Falls

The wind was accompanied by a heavy rain. It reached a velocity of 50 miles an hour at Freeport and Matagorda. At Matagorda several trees were blown down.

The weather bureau reported that the storm passed inland at 7 p. m. and predicted diminishing winds for the remainder of the night.

No reports were available from Bloomington.

At Cuero the wind seemed to be diminishing. The storm put 400 telephone connections out of commission at that point and interfered with long distance connections.

At Corpus Christi a rain this afternoon and a few gusts of wind were the only evidences of the storm. The sky was only partly coludy there Friday night.

Sheriff Defies Mob To Protect Negro

PARSONS, Kan., June 28. (UP)—Sheriff Alfred Coad of Oswego faced a mob of 100 persons from Chetopa today and refused to tell them where he had hid a negro prisoner whose life they demanded. The negro, U. R. Smith, charged with breaking into the home of a white man at Chetopa with intent to assault his wife, had been removed to another jail when indications of a mob reached the sheriff.

Houston Real Estate Board Wins Honor

BOSTON, Mass., June 28. (AP)—The Houston, Texas, real estate board was awarded first prize for the best display of newspaper advertising by boards of between 50 and 100 members at the national association of real estate boards convention here today.

Resumption of Erie Dividends Ordered

NEW YORK, June 28. (AP)—Directors of the Erie railroad today ordered resumption of dividends on both classes of preferred stock at the full annual rate of four per cent after a lapse of 27 years. The stock is non-cumulative.

ANN'S LETTERS ARE NOW READ

Tulsa Beauty's Missles Are Heard in Balm Suit

By W. F. SULLIVAN

CHICAGO, June 28. (UP)—Two sides being necessary to a love quarrel, Franklin S. Hardings, 63-year-old millionaire furnace manufacturer, today began his recital of the "romance of Ann and Franklin" in which Ann Livingston, Tulsa beauty, is asking $250,000 for breach of promise.

The love letters of Ann, with which the defense hopes to prove that she was the aggressor in the courtship which led to a proposal and the "desertion at the altar," were introduced by attorneys. for the warm-hearted oil burner magnate.

'Poor Working Girl'

The letters were filled with endearing terms and of hints that she wanted to come to Chicago, where she later visited for two weeks, was wooed, won and later told the marriage could not take place.

She told Hardinge in her letters that she was "just a poor working girl" and that her debts in Tulsa would prevent her from coming to Chicago "until they are paid."

The sentimental side of the pretty divorcee was shown in one of the letters in which she wrote to him one night when she was on a trip in the mountains.

"I'm lonely up here tonight above the clouds," she wrote, "sitting by a wood fire and listening to the

Additions to Be Made To Stadium at A. & M.

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, June 28. (AP)—Construction of two concrete units to join the present west unit and give Kyle field stadium a seating capacity of 33,500 has been authorized by the board of directors of Texas A. & M. college, it was announced today by Byrd E. White, Lancaster, vice president of the board.

Mine Workers Attacked By Union Members

BONO, Ind., June 28. (UP)—Officials of the Dana mine near here reported today that 500 supposedly union miners attacked non-union miners working in the Dana mine, beating them with hammers, brass knucks and clubs. About 65 men were at work in the mine at the time of the attack and all were injured, none seriously, officials said.

New Search and Seizure Bill Passed by House

AUSTIN, June 28. (AP)—One of the two bills revamping the search and seizure act to conform to court decisions bearing on it was passed finally by the house today, and the other failed to muster enough votes to suspend the rules and go to final passage after having been engrossed.

TESTIMONY OF TWO WITNESSES IS HUSHED UP

Possible 'International Effect of Evidence Is Given As Reason

OFFICIALS CRITICIZED

Creager Forced to Apologize for Question Asked By Bullington

SAN ANTONIO, June 28. (AP)—Evidence uncovered at an executive session of the U. S. senate patronage committee here today was of such important nature that it will not yet be revealed, Sen. Smith W. Brookhart, committee chairman, said when the session had ended.

Before beginning the session, Brookhart announced that a witness wished to testify to facts "which might have an important effect on international relations." He said that if the evidence affected any persons who had testified previously before his committee they would be informed and allowed to defend themselves.

Two Witnesses Heard

At least two witnesses, however, testified. One, Col. P. J. Hennessey, former coordinator of the eighth corps area, had told the committee of differences between Texas customs and immigration officials. The other executive session witness, E. T. Meecham of Cerralvo, Mexico, had not testified previously.

Brookhart said: "It was an executive session and we have no further statement to make than we heard more than one witness."

In the committee's open session a threatened jail sentence drew an apology from Republican National Committeeman R. B. Creager for an innuendo attack on Congressman John H. Garner of Texas, Democratic minority leader.

Beer Drinking Played

Shortly after Creager had placed in the record apologetic remarks for the attack on Garner, Roy Campbell, customs collector and Creager appointee, defended his operation of that office for more than an hour. Campbell, however, was criticized by Sen. Kenneth McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, investigation committee member, for "crossing into Mexico and taking a drink of beer."

Creager was threatened with arrest during interrogation of Mrs. H. O. Schaleben relative to conditions in Hidalgo county. Mrs. Schaleben had renewed charges of a combine between Creager and Sheriff A. Y. Baker, chief of the Democratic "ring." Orville Bullington, Wichita Falls, vice chairman of the Texas Republican executive committee, conducted the examination, coached frequently by Creager. When Bullington asked the question: "Then John Garner is aligned with the crooked Democratic machine in Hidalgo county?" McKellar interrupted.

Threatened With Jail

"Mr. Garner is not here to defend himself, so we will hear no charges of that kind."

"There are others who are not here," Creager declared.

"Two or three men are in jail

War Lord's Harem Hard Hit by Chinese Politics

PEKING, China, June 28. (UP)—The prized harem of Gen. Chang Tsung-Chang, once a powerful war lord and governor of Santung province, has been scattered by the turn of the political wheel in China, and now only two of the beautiful women remain with the ward lord in his exile.

Chang's harem occupied several extensive estates when the war lord lived at Tsinan, but the number was reduced from 40 women to 12 when the general was defeated and forced to return to Dairen.

Decrease in Drinking Reported in Sweden

COPENHAGEN, June 28. (UP)—The anti-prohibition congress was presented an official review of the Bratt system in Sweden today, showing a decrease in consumption of distilled spirits, public intoxication, chronic alcholism and acts of violence in 1928 as compared to 1913, when the system went into effect. The system revised by Dr. Ivan Bratt, provides that all wine and spirits in Sweden be sold through the central control organization.

Death Wins in Texan's Futile Race to Bedside of Stricken Wife

PARIS, June 28. (AP)—Unaware that he had lost in his race with death, a frantic husband was hurtling through space in an airplane tonight in a vain attempt to reach the bedside of his wife before she died.

Mrs. Cleve Ghio, a native of Paris and here on a vist from Cartagena, Colombia, died early today from swamp fever. Her husband is expected to arrive from Cartagena not earlier than tomorrow night.

Suddenly becoming critically ill, efforts were made to locate Ghio, who is field superintendent for the South American Gulf company. He was reached Wednesday and informed of his wife's serious condition. Arriving in Cartagena from the interior, Ghio boarded a special plane for the United States. He arrived in Panama yesterday and resumed the northward trip today.

CLARENDON SEEKS NEW JUNIOR COLLEGE

JUST THE Baer Facts

By Bugs Baer

NEW YORK, June 28. (US)—Commissioner Whalen has made some notable improvements since he was made director of metropolitan jams.

His suggestion that motor cars be made smaller is not new.

Truck drivers have been trying to cut touring cars in half for years.

The new town car of Henry Ford's is a very natty job and almost meets the traffic problem.

It is so small that all the shocks of collisions are absorbed by the chauffeur's knees.

The trouble with our roads is that they were boulevards when police rode bicycles. The answer to the present traffic jam is to go back to roller skates.

Over in France there is a very small car running around under foot. It is about five feet long, two feet wide and is propelled by an outboard motor.

They are so tiny that they average about 10 cars to one summons.

But we are glad that Noah didn't have one of them instead of his ark.

If he had, he wouldn't have saved anybody except his stenographer.

You get about 30 stops to the gallon out of the average car in America.

I could make much better time touring if people were not so huffy about wheel tracks on their lawns.

The French car is built so the chauffeur is in front. You are directly in back of him. There is no room for anybody else.

When you fly down the boulevard at three miles a tour, you look like two sox on one ironing board.

They are not comfortable. Neither are they healthy.

Things are so crammed together that every time the chauffeur steps on the gas he takes your blood pressure.

Instead of solving traffic guesses by making the boat smaller, it would be a good idea to build roads wider and have the Macadam nearer the service.

Put in more green lights and throw away the red ones.

Hold down the speed limit to one installment a month and have a scientist invent a formula that will enable a car to grow new fenders.

Vote for fewer accessories and more improvements. How is a man going to drive when his windshield wipers are hopping all over the glass like the dolly sisters?

And, lastly, don't make the cars any smaller. When a man takes a ride in one of those little jiggers he doesn't want to get his showerbaths from a street sprinkler.

We appreciate Wichita Falls' patronage because we're the old home town company, always ready with Friendly Ice Service. Wichita Ice Company, phone 3101.—Adv.

COUNTY-WIDE SCHOOL ASKED

Victory Predicted in Election, Called for August

Special to The Record News

CLARENDON, Texas, June 28—The move to make a county-wide junior college of the Clarendon Junior college is progressing here and some 15 petitions have been circulated over the county for signatures. Already more than the required 10 per cent have signed the petition to call the election but the petitions will not be called in until tomorrow. The county board of education will receive the petitions Saturday at their meeting and pass them on to the state board which will act on them next week and set the date for the election in this county. It is thought the matter will come to a vote between the first and tenth of August. Practically no opposition is seen to the matter and it is thought the election will carry. The election if carried will provide free tuition to any child of college age and eligibility in the county for only a 20 cent tax levied on prevailing state and county valuations, thereby allowing any child two years of college work on practically the same cost as high school.

REVIVAL ATTENDANCE GOOD

Special to The Record News

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, June 28.—Large crowds are attending the revival services at the First Baptist church, where the new pastor, the Rev. Ross A. Smith is doing the preaching.

Even the balconies of the spacious church building were used to seat many last night, even though the hot weather and vacation season is calculated to decrease attendance at all kinds of gatherings at this time of year.

Frederick Berry Crop Profitable

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., June 28.—H. F. Michael, tenant on the Carl McFall farm, near Tipton, raised 228 gallons of blackberries on 31-100 of an acre. These found a ready market in Frederick for 40 cents a gallon, making a total of $91.20. At this rate $294 an acre would have been realized. McFall says many times this many berries could have been sold here.

Additional Air Service Promised Breckenridge

Special to The Record News

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, June 28.—Breckenridge patrons are to have additional air mail service, effective July 1, which will be furnished to the citizens of Texas and Oklahoma by the National Air Transport, Inc.

Contact with the additional service is made at Fort Worth, according to DeWitt Hoxworth of the local offices.

Under this schedule, most points in Texas and Oklahoma will have twice a day air mail service.

Stephens County School Transfers Close Soon

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, June 28.—Mrs. Millie Blackburn of the county superintendent's office announced today that next month was the last month in which parents could transfer their children from one district to another.

If not transferred next month the students will be required to attend the school in which they were registered as of the last scholastic census, she added. Application for transferring scholastic should be made at the county superintendent's office.

WOMAN MAYOR VISITS STATES

English Executive Attends Lynn Ceremonies

NEW YORK, June 28. (INS)—The Marchioness of Townshend who rules over the British town of King's Lynn, England, and is addressed as "Mr. Mayor," if you speak the king's English, arrived here today aboard the Cunard liner Mauretania, to attend the tricentennial celebration of the founding of Lynn, Mass.

"My plan is to make all towns in America bearing the same names as English towns friendly as the two Lynns," said "Mr. Mayor."

The marchioness, who is a widow, was accompanied by her 13-year-old son, George Patrick Dominic, also known as the marquis.

Pal With Sailors

"Call me George," suggested the clean-eyed, sun-burned lad, to the newspaper photographers who addressed him as "your lordship," "sonny" and "prince."

The picture boys had a lot of trouble digging up George to pose with his charming mother. He was down in the hold saying goodbye to his friends in the crew.

It was that way when the other passengers gave a surprise dinner for his mother and him. They looked all over the ship for George and finally found him in the crow's nest.

"What do you want to see in the United States?" George was asked.

"I want to see your boys and girls and baseball games and ride your horses," he answered enthusiastically.

"You want to see our girls?"

"I want to see everything," George insisted.

Some Sheik

As a warning to the girls it should be recorded that George is at least as goodlooking as the Prince of Wales.

The marchioness is an attractive woman in the forties. She was dressed in a stylish gray ensemble with a silver fox fur trimmed coat. She wore a double string of pearls about her neck.

In addition to her administrative duties and taking care of George and a 12-year-old daughter, Elizabeth Mary, officially known as "the mayoress," the marchioness manages her broad estates and is well known for her welfare work.

"I most want to meet the American woman," she said. "I believe that both the British and American woman have started on the road to destiny."

Mrs. L. O. Lewis Dies at Clarendon

CLARENDON, Texas, June 28.—Mrs. L. O. Lewis of this city died here Wednesday morning and her funeral was held this afternoon at 4 p. m. Mrs. Lewis was 55 years of age and had been in ill health for some time. She is survived by her husband, L. O. Lewis, of this city, and three children, Leon O. Lewis Jr., Mrs. B. L. Jenkins Jr. and one other daughter of Green River, Wyo. The funeral was conducted by Rev. S. E. Allison, pastor of the First Methodist church of this city, and by Rev. J. T. Griswold, pastor of the First Church of Childress and former presiding elder of this district. Mr. and Mrs. Lewis have lived in Clarendon for the past 15 years and were among the most prominent citizens of this community.

SAVAGE WINS YO-YO TOURNEY

Youth Spins Top For Six Hours, Ten Minutes

With almost 24,000 spins of the yo-yo to his credit, Bill Savage, 16, 1408 Scott avenue, emerged victorious from the yo-yo marathon shortly after 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. He was the only contestant remaining out of the 15 who entered the contest at 8 o'clock Friday morning at Bellevue park. He kept his toy in motion 6 hours 10 minutes.

The winner of second prize in the marathon was Orbie Sullivan, 12, 305 Burnett street. Orbie feebly gave his yo-yo one last flip several minutes before the winner gave in. Third prize winner was Floyd Pitts, 15, 802 Fifteenth street. The marathon was sponsored by the city park department, C. C. Bunnenberg, superintendent.

Introduction of the winners and presentation of the prizes were held at Bellevue park Friday night following the conclusion of the nine special events held during the evening. A crowd of about 750 persons witnessed the events of the evening, in which 50 boys and 25 girls were entered.

First prize for the smallest yo-yo went to Harold Davis, who succeeded in yo-yoing one of the toys which measured slightly less than one-half inch in diameter. Second prize in this event went to J. E. Parks. In the contest for the longest string, T. W. McReynolds made a perfect yo-yo cast of 18 feet with second prize going to John Klovstad. The best left-handed yo-yoer was Leslie Flemming with J. R. Roberson running a close second.

With a total of 29 different tricks, T. W. McReynolds won first prize in the dexterity event. In this contest J. Deaton was second with 20 tricks, Leslie Flemming was third with 19 and O'Neal Taylor was fourth with 17. The best girl yo-yoer was Elizabeth Muirhead, with Janice Taylor and Darlean Tread well taking second and third prizes.

A yo-yo made of two alarm clock bells won first place for Bill McKenney in the event for the oddest yo-yo. Bill Savage won first prize for the largest yo-yo with a top measuring 24 inches in diameter. Floyd Pitts, O'Neal Taylor and Harold Davis won the other three prizes in this contest. Ruth Bonette of Denver, Colo., won first in the out-of-town contest, with Ruth Renfro of Texas City and Elida Thomas of Aherville, La., taking second and third.

Music for the events was furnished by the Playground band, under the direction of Paul Seeds.

YO-YO WINNERS SELECTED AT THEATER

First and second places in the yo-yo contest held at the Olympic theater Friday night were awarded to Misses Pauline Stallings, 14, and Bernadine Stallings, 17, respectively, both of 1309 Bell street.

Friday night's competition concluded the first two rounds of the prize contest, which were devoted to boys under 16, and ladies. On Saturday and Sunday nights boys over 16 and men will twirl the spinning disks for places in the finals to be held on Monday night.

Plantation Owner Out On Bond in Slaying

TEXARKANA, Ark., June 28. (AP)—L. K. Person, Miller county plantation owner charged with the fatal shooting of L. H. Simmons, range rider in the south Arkansas tick eradication campaign, was at liberty under guard of a special deputy today. Person was freed under a $5,000 bond.

THREE SMALL FIRES

Firemen were called to the 1600 block on Tenth street shortly after 10 o'clock Friday morning when grass in a front yard caught fire and endangered a house. No damage was reported.

Another call on account of burning grass at Fifth and Burnett streets was reported at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon and a trash fire in the 1700 block on Eighth street called out the firemen shortly after 3 o'clock. No damage was reported in the afternoon calls.

Liquor Seized As Delivery Is Made

One man was arrested and one half-gallon jar of whisky was seized by F. E. Summers, city detective, about 6 o'clock Friday evening. The offices became suspicious of a man's actions and the arrest followed in the 1000 block on Burnett street just as the whisky was being delivered, it was said.

The man was in the city jail Friday night and will be turned over to federal authorities Saturday for investigation. Officers Summers and A. L. Stubblefield have been conducting a series of raids within the last few weeks, their activities resulting in the arrest of a number of persons and the seizure of large quantities of liquor.

Popovers—the New Simplified Recipe

Mixing Time for These Glorious Ones, 4 Minutes

Mrs. Morgan Miller, after years of home baking, advises "Use only 'Kitchen-tested' flour."

The Week's Prize "Kitchen-tested" Recipe

Here is a recipe for Popovers that's a delight to women. Of 118 women who tried it, not one failed in perfect results, first time, due to this new way of simplified baking.

By the development of an utterly new type of flour—Gold Medal "Kitchen-tested" Flour—baking has been simplified amazingly for housewives. And the cause of most baking disappointments banished.

"Kitchen-tested" means that every batch of this flour has been tested in an oven just like yours, before it goes to you. Tested for uniformity of result with home recipes.

That means Gold Medal Flour always acts the same way EVERY TIME with your recipes.

Ask your grocer for GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour. For perfect results, be sure and get that brand of flour before you try this recipe.

Cut out along this line and save

RECIPE . . . . Popovers

2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1 cup GOLD MEDAL "KITCHEN-TESTED" FLOUR, ½ tsp. salt.

METHOD: 1. Grease deep muffin tins well, using part butter for flavoring. 2. Put pans in oven to heat 4 minutes while preparing popovers. 3. Beat eggs very thoroughly and add milk. 4. Sift flour once before measuring. 5. Mix and sift flour and salt together and add to egg and milk mixture. 6. Beat thoroughly with rotary egg beater. 7. Pour into sizzling hot pans and bake. TIME: Bake 45 minutes. TEMPERATURE: 475° F., hot oven for first 15 minutes, decreasing to 350° F., moderate oven, to finish baking. AMOUNT: 9 large Popovers.

Herbert Kaufman's Daily Editorial

DUNMOW NEVER BOLTS

THE PRINCE OF WALES is 35 years old. He wasn't knee-high to a grasshopper on the morning of his grandfather's coronation, as he leaned from the nursery window and watched a Gurkha regiment, encamped at St. James park, perform their ablutions and begin to preen for the procession.

George the Fifth, quietest and most retiring of all the Coburg-Gothas, wasn't especially popular.

The writer remembers an imperial industries dinner at which the gentleman opposite sneeringly dubbed him, a "bloody German," who hadn't yet lost the family's Hanoverian accent.

Men were not wanting then to insist that the new king would prove the final British monarch, just as folk now prophesy that the next Edward will be the last Briton to wear a gold hat.

They also said the same thing in Watt Tyler's day, and a minority actually believed that John Bull had permanently discarded ermine robes with the coming of Cromwell.

But conservatism and Englishmen are synonyms.

The delegate at the 1913 brickmakers' convention in New Orleans who enthusiastically confessed, "I'm a naturalized citizen but I can't help loving a king," spoke in the voice of his native land.

Even Carnegie couldn't quite get it out of his system. If Victoria had been less hidebound in bestowing titles on repentant strayed sheep, the Laird of Skibo might have attained his secret heart's ambition and swaggered in peer's robes too.

The Old Lady of Windsor didn't like the little man, and he forever spilled the beans and spoiled his chances for baronage by impudently offering to contribute two stained windows to one of her favorite chapels provided the glass portraits of Cromwell and Monk were respectively installed to right and left of the altar.

Victoria was as fond of her deadlines as Mrs. Astor. Social climbers found it hard going during their parallel reigns.

But neither of them held a candle to the exclusive set at Dunmow some of whose family trees were planted there when the Roman Emperor Hadrian built the town.

DUNMOW'S chief claim to distinction is not the flitch of bacon immemorably bestowed upon the married couple who have not quarreled for an entire year.

Nor because H. G. Wells and De Vere Stackpole acknowledged themselves liege villeins of Lady Warwick and thereby hold feudal leases to cottages on her neighboring estate.

These were once Dunmow's cachet. But they became inconsequent when one of her patriotic sons, hearing that a family from Bishop Stortford (two miles away) contemplated the purchase of a home in those sacrosanct precincts, proceeded to buy up all the available property within bounds "to keep the damned foreigners out."

A characteristic gesture of a community which has consistently ostracized several long wealthy and cultured citizens, guilty of descent from a sixteenth century farmhand!

While the English countryside cherishes like fetishes and taboos and competes with the Chinese in ancestor worship, don't let a trivial incident like the Labor party's recent victory deceive you into thinking that either London bridge or Buckingham palace is falling down.

The upper house, with its aristocratic privileges and vast entails will eventually pass—India will compose caste and religious differences and become autonomous—Canada and Australasia set up their own political households—these evolutions are self-evident.

But long after they transpire scions of the Prince of Wales will kneel in Westminster abbey to receive the crown from an archbishop of Canterbury.

Dunmow never bolts the ticket.

A New York pastor says the middle class is not drinking. Maybe that's why they manage to keep to the middle of the road.

Archduke Leopold of Austria plans to open up an "idea shop" in New York. Wonder if it will have a notion counter, too?

A Little Riddle Out of American History

FIGURING OUT the rights and wrongs of historic events is sometimes a fairly tough job. A brief news item in the daily papers the other day brings up one of the most perplexing riddles of that kind in American history.

This item told of the death of William Buckner, who died in Missouri at the age of 101 and who was one of the two remaining survivors of the war with Mexico.

It calls to mind an episode out of a past that seems incredibly remote. The men who fought in the Mexican war were gray bearded veterans when the civil war came around. Grant, Lee, McClellan, Jackson—they were stripling lieutenants in 1848; like the rest of the army, they wore the queer, romantic looking uniforms that the West Point cadets wear today, used wheezy old muzzle loading muskets and endured a campaign in the tropics swathed in stiff collars and high leather helmets, unbearably hot.

It is perplexing enough, ordinarily, to figure out the rights or wrongs of any war; but this war with Mexico is the toughest problem of the lot.

On the face of it, it was a supremely unjust and wicked war.

A relatively large and strong nation—the United States—attacked a small and weak nation, Mexico, after trumping up a very thin excuse, for the avowed purpose of grabbing some territory. Might made right; Mexico ceded California, New Mexico and Arizona, and abandoned its tenuous claim to Texas.

On the face of it, it was a piece of villainy; and the history books that tell us we ought to be ashamed of our record are, doubtless, correct.

And yet . . . would any man undo it and put California, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona back under the Mexican flag? Millions of progressive, educated and prosperous men and women live in these states today; does anyone dream of suggesting that the same would be true if those states had always remained in Mexico?

So there you have your problem. The war was wrong, by every standard you can apply—and yet it worked out as if it had been right. Surely it is not going too far to say that all of North America is better off today than it would be if the war had not been fought. So what's the answer?

History is full of incidents like that. Justice, in some strange way, does seem, at times, to grow out of injustice. And it is almost beyond our power to figure it out.

Does it mean that the old fashioned doctrine, "whatever is, is right," is correct after all? Or does it simply mean that the human race has a genius for muddling through; that people can make the best of a bad bargain, and can make events work out properly even from a bad beginning?

It is a queer riddle. If you can solve it you will know more about the invisible force we call destiny than most men ever hope to know.

He Thought of It Too Late

DR. JAMES H. SNOOK, the Ohio State university professor who has admitted killing Theora Hix, medical student, says that he did it for the sake of his family.

"I loved my wife and child too much," he explains, "to allow her to destroy their happiness as she had threatened to do."

That all sounds quite noble, until you give it a second thought. Then, no doubt, it will occur to you that if the gentleman had really loved his wife and child as devotedly as he says he did, he wouldn't have got involved in an affair with a pretty medical student in the first place.

The time for him to think of the love he had for his family was a couple of years ago, when the relationship with Miss Hix first began—not after it had progressed to a point where murder was the only way out.

Customers and Markets

INTERESTING figures on America's foreign trade are contained in a compilation just issued by the Central National bank of Cleveland. This compilation shows that Europe is still our best customer. During the first quarter of 1929, Europe bought $647,480,000 worth of American products, selling us in return only $321,315,000. England regained its old place as our biggest single customer, buying $235,523,000 worth of goods, and Canada, buying $232,394,000, was a close second.

In the realm of imports, Asia proved our best market. The United States bought $324,357,000 worth of Asia's goods, and took $254,427,000 from Canada, Mexico and Central America.

These figures, remember, are only for three months. Their stupendous size helps one to realize the vast extent of our commercial operations.

Lindbergh to Pulaski

FAME is a fleeting commodity. Today's hero is apt to be forgotten tomorrow. Not even the most daring exploits are proof against eventual obscurity.

All of which is by way of preparing you for a rather odd little news item.

In Milwaukee there was, for years, a park called Pulaski park.

Two years ago, when Lindbergh flew the Atlantic, the name of this park was changed, by unanimous consent, to Lindbergh park.

Now, on petition of hundreds of Milwaukee citizens, it has dropped its new name and has become, once more, Pulaski park.

Is Lindy losing his popularity—or were people just too used to the park's old name to get used to a new one?

Quotations Worth Noting

"According to all figures on suicide, it usually happens that the inclination toward self-destruction is greater among the single than the married and greatest among the widowed and divorced."—Prof. Calvin F. Schmid, University of Pittsburgh.

"Snobbery for snobbery, there is not much to choose between a snobbery whose object is the titled and a snobbery which adores the very rich. Both are comic."—Aldous Huxley. (Century).

The GREEN SHADOW - By Herman Landon

(Copyright by Public Ledger)

A woman has been murdered and Captain Summers of the police believes "The Picaroon" responsible for the crime. "The Picaroon," who preys upon the rich and then offers to return his loot on the payment of 10 per cent of its value to charity is Martin Dale and a firm friend of Summers when they are both "off duty." Summers has found a cigar band of the same rare brand that Dale smokes near the woman's body.

The murdered woman has been identified by Alexander Ferryman as his wife, but Dale and Adele Castle know her to be the myasthenia Miss Conway, who took Adele to the house where the murder was later committed for a weird interview with a man calling himself Dr. Moffett. The interview took place in a room flooded with a strange green light which rendered Dr. Moffett almost entirely invisible. Moffett tells Adele he knows her father was associated with Daniel Forrester, who obtained a fortune by fraudulent means and demands blackmail of $100,000.

Dale offers to help Adele and tells her he was present when she talked to Dr. Moffett. Later in visits the room and accuses Axelson, the caretaker, of knowing Dr. Moffett. Axelson, an employe of Ferryman who lives next door, denies knowing Moffett.

An intruder enters Dale's apartment. Dale tries to capture him, but grabs only an empty sleeve. Then the room is flooded in green light and the invisible burglar strikes Dale on the jaw and escapes.

Dale calls on Adele and meets her friend, Paul Ainsworth. The two are immediately suspicious of one another and Dale especially notes that Paul has only one arm.

Dale enters the house where the murder occurred and investigates a flaw in the wainscoting he had noticed on his previous visit. He finds a sliding panel and behind it a rope of pearls. When he seeks to leave the room, a locked door bars his way.

Through the door enters Ferryman, Axelson, Summers and the police. Summers accuses Dale of murdering Mrs. Ferryman to obtain the pearls and then hiding them behind the panel.

The Picaroon smiled serenely now. Did Summers expect to convict him on the strength of a cigar band? It was ridiculous, but at the same time he was impressed with the realization that Summers was not such a fool.

"Suppose you tell me one thing," Summers added. "How did you know the pearls were in that hole in the wall? You were in the room only a few minutes. You must have gone right straight to it. How did you know where to find the pearls?"

The Picaroon was silent. He perceived a surprise of some sort was on the way. Summers approached, with automatic sternly leveled, and he glided easily to the end of the table. Each moment gained might mean a reversal of the situation.

Summers growled irritably. "Don't care to answer my question, eh? Then let me tell you something. I found the pearls yesterday afternoon—found them right in that hole over there. I showed them to Mr. Ferryman and he identified them immediately as belonging to his wife."

Dale started. A dim understanding was knocking at his brain. Somehow he had been mistaken. The pearls did not belong to Dr. Moffett, but to the murdered woman. But how, why? He looked at Ferryman, and Ferryman looked back at him with a suspicion of anger in his eyes.

"I don't care about the pearls," he was saying. "But the murderer—the murderer shall be punished. If you killed her," and his voice, previously weak from heartbreaking grief, took on a firm and menacing quality, "then, heaven help you, I'll hound you to your grave!"

The Picaroon's eyes fell. This was the most awkward, the most devastating moment in his career. The threats did not matter, but he had conceived a liking for Ferryman, and he did not relish being looked upon as the murderer of his wife.

"You are mistaken," he said quietly, fixing Ferryman with a level glance and again speaking in the accents of the Picaroon. "I swear I didn't murder your wife."

"Then how did you know where to look for the pearls?" Summers demanded. "As I told you, I found them in the hole yesterday, and Mr. Ferryman identified them. His wife had them with her when she disappeared four years ago, and she was wearing them the night she was murdered—the night you dropped the cigar band in this house."

The Picaroon was speechless again. The woman had worn the pearls the night she was murdered! He was conscious of something threatening closing in about him.

The Cigarette

"I found the taxicab driver who took Mrs. Ferryman to this house in the night," Summers went on. "She wore a long wrap, parted in front, and he saw the pearls distinctly when she paid him his fare. She was murdered on account of those pearls. There was no other motive.

"The murderer followed her to this house. Probably he didn't intend to kill her, but we know how such things happen. She resisted him, screamed for help, and he lost his head. To silence her he killed her, grabbed the pearls, and started running. But something interrupted him—I haven't discovered yet what it was—before he could get to the door. Murderers get panicky and do foolish things sometimes without realizing it.

"There he was, with the pearls in his pocket and his escape cut off, as he thought at the time. He dashed into the library and hid the pearls in the hole in the wall, meaning to come back for them later." Summers grinned complacently.

"Tonight he came back, and I was waiting for him. When I found the pearls yesterday, I suggested to Mr. Ferryman that he let them remain in the hole and that we keep a watch over the house. I convinced him it was the quickest and surest way to catch the murderer of his wife."

The Picaroon meditated. There were weak links in Summers' chain of reasoning, but on the whole he had made out a reasonable case.

"Now will you tell me," the captain jabbed the words at him, "how you knew the pearls were in that hole?"

The Picaroon smiled faintly. "I haven't admitted that I have the pearls," he protested. "You are asking many strange questions. Now let me ask one. How did the murderer know there was a hole in the wall in which to hide the pearls? You tell me he had to hide them in a hurry. He had no time to search. How did he find the hole so conveniently? Are you in a position to tell me that?"

"Oh," said Summers easily, "the Picaroon has a special sense for queer hiding places. He can smell them in the dark."

"You flatter him. One more question, please. You say something frightened the murderer, deciding him to get rid of the pearls. How do you know? You haven't told us what frightened him. It merely fits your theory, doesn't it?"

For a moment Summers was nonplushed. A doubting impression came into Ferryman's eyes.

"Something in that," he mumbled. "Your theory fails to pieces, Captain Summers, unless you can prove that the murderer had a good reason for hiding the pearls in a hurry?"

"Oh, my theory is all right. The officer on this beat knows that the house is unoccupied, except for an old caretaker. He has a habit of trying the outer door when he comes by here on his rounds. That was probably what frightened the murderer. Besides, this man," and he indicated the Picaroon, "hasn't told us yet how he found the pearls so easily."

"True," Ferryman murmured, and his hand, accusing expression came back. "Perhaps you will tell us?"

The Picaroon had had time to recover a part of his composure. "You might ask Doctor Moffett," he lightly suggested.

"Doctor—who?" Summers barked out.

"It is very peculiar," said Ferryman thoughtfully. "The Mr. Dale who called here last night was making inquiries about a certain Doctor Moffett. If this is the same Mr. Dale, as you seem to think, I am now inclined to believe that the the inquiries were only pretext."

"Of course!" Summers grunted with great certitude. He was nosing around for the pearls last night. Oh, Carrigan," he called to the policeman at the door, "is that door locked?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, put the key in your pocket and come here. We're going to settle this little matter right now. Get your gun ready."

The huge policeman drew his pistol from the holster and came toward the group at the table. The Picaroon's eyes narrowed. The steel jaws of the trap were closing. From one side of the table approached Summers, from the other Carrigan. Axelson stood at the door while Ferryman looked grimly on.

"Get him, Carrigan!" Summers cried.

The policeman's heavy paw fell on the Picaroon's arm, but with an agile twist the quarry darted away. The only direction that offered unhampered movement was toward the corner in the back. It gave him but temporary respite, but each added moment of freedom might bring his salvation. Into the corner he sprang, swung a heavy chair in front of him, and confronted his pursuers with a challenging and faintly mocking smile.

"Idiot!" Summers snarled. "What do you think you are going to gain by that? Put the irons on him, Carrigan!"

With a purposeful air the big policeman drew a pair of heavy steel links from his pocket, but the massive chair blocked his progress. With his pistol in one hand and the manacles in the other, he sought to shove the obstruction away with his foot.

"Careful!" Summer cried. "Watch out!"

A very simple and yet quite astounding act on the Picaroon's part had inspired the warning cry. He had merely taken a flat case from his pocket and from it had extracted a cigaret. Now, with an air of utter unconcern, he struck a match, lighted the slender cylinder and began to smoke.

Carrigan desisted and stared at him, his lips dangling open in surprise. It was a most extraordinary thing for a cornered man to do.

"It's a trick!" Summers shouted. "I know this bird. He's full of tricks."

"You are ridiculous, my friend," said the Picaroon. He held the cigaret between his fingers and blew the smoke toward the ceiling. "Surely you don't begrudge me a cigaret. It may be my last."

But Summers was feeling decidedly qualmish. The cigaret did not look like just an ordinary cigaret to him. Besides, he thought he saw a look of great intensity behind the cornered man's mocking smile. And he had seen many an apparently innocent act of the Picaroon's turn out surprisingly in the past.

While four pairs of eyes stared at him the Picaroon leaned lightly against the chair that served him as a bulwark, and continued blowing smoke with outward placidity. The handcuffs hung limply from Carrigan's hand. Summers' attention was divided between his pistol and the Picaroon's cigaret. Ferryman appeared extremely ill at ease. Axelson, his shoulders hunched up and his head hung low, moistened his lips and twisted his neck. Three of them had heard of the Picaroon's subtle little trickeries; one of them had experienced them in a personal and humiliating way.

And as he smoked, the Picaroon's brain threw out thoughts as a beaten iron from the fire throws out sparks. He was in no mood to enjoy the stupefaction created by his innocent cigaret. It gave him a little time for thought, but his thoughts rebounded against obstructions everywhere, and the spell might break any moment now. He could see no loophole. The Picaroon's star of luck appeared to have set at last.

Again his eyes roved about the room, fixed briefly on Axelson's lowered face and then he looked at Summers' reddish countenance.

"Thanks for the delay," he murmured with a shrug. "I'm enjoying this cigaret."

Then he pushed the chair aside and stepped out from the corner. Carrigan's chest heaved out as if to form a barricade. The pistol in Summer's hand rose a trifle higher. He was about to call a halt, but he desisted. Nothing the Picaroon might do would avail him now. He was caught in the net, and there was a sportive instinct in Summers which wanted to see the quarry's final, hopeless flop against the meshes.

The Picaroon flung the cigaret away. Three pairs of eyes followed its curve through the air and saw it land in the fireplace. Carrigan made a motion with the steel links. Disgust and relief were written in Summers' face.

"Summers," said the Picaroon gently, "you are a blundering ass."

The captain reddened and thrust out his topheavy head like a belligerent ox.

"You have a genius for making a fool of yourself," the Picaroon pursued. "But then you are a policeman, and the rating of the police for intelligence was never very high. You're hopeless. I have tried to educate you, but it's no use. Why, you are such a perpetual duffer that if a man lights a cigaret you think it's going to explode and blow your poor head off. Why don't you laugh at yourself?"

"Oh, I'll laugh," said Summers with heavy sarcasm.

"No, you won't. You will eat humble pie. Well, here I am. Arrest me. Have your laugh. Mine will come later."

With a slack and indolent gait he walked up to Summers, pausing only when the captain's automatic touched his midriff.

"But before you make the crowning mistake of your life," he said gently, "wouldn't you like me to show you the murderer of Mrs. Ferryman?"

Summers uttered a hoarse bellow. Axelson lumbered forward. The Picaroon had executed a sudden spring, light and swift as a thought and now he seized Axelson by the scuff of the neck and with a powerful swing brought him so close to Summers that their faces all but touched.

"Here is the murderer," he said calmly. "Look him over."

Axelson squirmed and puffed and bleated. He was like a figure of straw in the Picaroon's firm clutch.

"Him?" Summers chortled derisively. "No, Dale, that trick won't work. You're playing for time."

The Picaroon, still holding the servant so close to Summers that their noses almost rubbed together, cast a swift glance over the room, and for an instant his eyes fastened on Ferryman, who was witnessing the scene with a look of gaping stupefaction.

"Tell him," he whispered in Alexson's ear, but loud enough for Summers to hear, "about Miss Conway."

Abruptly the servant's struggle ceased. It was as if the whisper had hurled a numbing jolt into his body. A look of terror came into his face, congealing into a grimace that showed a guilty conscience stirred to the depths.

Summers stared at him. The derision faded out of his face, its line tightened in a look of astonishment and suspicion. For a moment or two all his faculties were bent upon reading the secret in the servant's eyes.

The Picaroon watched his chance. In another second the mask might drop back over Axelson's features, concealing a black and twisted heart's involuntary revelation. With a vigorous shove from behind he knocked Axelson's head into the captain's face. In almost the same instant his hand darted out and wrenched the automatic from Summers' limp hand.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, June 28.—I was standing in the lobby of the New Amsterdam theater one afternoon, talking with a Zeigfeld press agent. He broke the conversation by exclaiming:

"It's 3 o'clock. I've got to go."

"I knew there was no clock in the lobby, and he hadn't looked at his watch.

"How do you know the time?" I asked.

He pointed out an old gentleman who was shuffling toward the street doors, supported by a man on either arm. Outside a Rolls-Royce was waiting for him.

"That's A. L. Erlanger," the press agent said. "He leaves here at exactly 3 o'clock every day, rain or shine."

Erlanger, who is now 69, is one of the most remarkable men in the show business, and the ceremony of his departure from the office is a fascinating and unchanging routine. It takes five men to get him started home in his Rolls.

Everything is done to guard him from shock. Two men help him walk. Two more go ahead of him, and clear the sidewalk. They must prevent any hurried passer-by from bumping into Erlanger. A fifth man, the chauffeur, holds the car door open, and stands ready to throw the blanket over the old gentleman, once he is seated.

When the chauffeur is ready to swing the car into a traffic channel, two of the Erlanger retinue walk into Forty-second street and halt or detour all passing cars. Erlanger is as safe as a baby in its crib.

Still Active

At 69 he is more active than ever. His arrival at the New Amsterdam theater at 9 a. m. is as prompt and regular as his departure. Recently he has been adding to his huge string of theaters. He has bought the historic Ford's theater in Baltimore, which was built by the same John T. Ford whose Washington playhouse was the scene of Lincoln's assassination. Another recent purchase is the Klaw in New York—and no sooner had Erlanger completed the deal than he announced that the name would be changed to the Avon.

Years ago Klaw and Erlanger was a great firm, but the partners split, and Erlanger is reported to have vowed he would wipe the name of Klaw from the theatrical records.

Old Papers

Notwithstanding the huge sums spent every year by the street cleaning department—the budget would pay the entire expenses of a fairly large city—New York streets are admittedly dirty. One can walk for blocks without finding a trash barrel into which to drop the latest nine star, hot-stuff edition. So the usual procedure is to drop one's newspaper the instant one has finished it. I like to have mine in a subway seat, and then pretend I am considering picking it up again. Persons beside me and across the aisle have spotted the fallen journal as quickly as a squirrel eyeing a nut. They watch each other and me furtively, and when I finally walk to the exit without retrieving my property there is a swift maneuver for possession of it. The other day I was walking in Wall street, and accidentally dropped my Wall street closing edition. Before I could pick it up, a man had snatched it and begun to read it as he walked. He didn't mean to be rude. If you drop a paper here, it means you have finished reading it.

An Oldtimer

A group of playwrights, producers and would-be playwrights and producers (which means press agents) has established a round table in a new Childs' restaurant in Madison Square garden. It is a gesture of defiance toward the theatrical cliques that lunch in the hunting room of the Astor, and the log-rolling wits of the Algonquin. The group just grew; it was never organized.

Recently there was some discussion as to who had started the round table. "Why," said one of them, "Bob and I did. We were here before any of you. We used to eat here in the old days when Childs owned the place."

The Fish Monger

Down in Greenwich village there is an Italian fish peddler who trundles his wares around in a little hand cart. His Italian customers look forward to his visits much as children might await the arrival of an organ-grinder and his monkey. "Show us something good," say the women who gather around his cart. But, instead of displaying a choice bit of fish as the best that he has, he brings forth a large, live lobster, or a distracted crab. The brute wiggles its feelers and opens its claws, and is horrifying. The women scream in delighted fear. "Now show us something better!" they cry. And the obliging peddler hauls out a slimy eel, and waves its menacingly at his customers. More screams. And then the less interesting business of buying ordinary fish gets under way. The housewives have had their thrill.

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Strange Case of Sir Thomas

"I think you'd better come over and at once," said Wymess over the telephone.

PHILLIPS

"What's wrong?" asked Sir Crombie Iverness, the tea magnate's personal physician.

"He's acting that way again, sir," said the man servant.

"Let me see; how long is it since he had his last spell?" asked the physician.

"Ten years, sir. It was back in 1919."

"Dear me! I thought we had him cured. Just how is he acting?"

"Well, sir, he has a far-away look in his eyes, and he goes about the house looking tenderly at the old photographs of all the Shamrocks and muttering about garboard strakes, halyards, gaffs, and sail areas. Last night he talked in his sleep and I heard him mention Sandy Hook several times."

"I'll be right over," said the doctor. "This is truly alarming."

Sir Crombie Iverness arrived presently at the home of Sir Thomas Lipton and was shown to the sportsman's room at once.

"Well, how are you feeling?" asked the physician.

"Pretty terrible," said Sir Thomas hoarsely. "It's the old weakness. I've felt it coming on for a long time. I've tried to fight it off, but it's no use."

"What're the symptoms this time?" asked the doctor.

"Same old symptons," said Sir Thomas, toying with a pair of binoculars. "Constant uneasiness, inability to concentrate on important business matters, dull headache."

"Irritable, impatient and easily annoyed by trifles?"

"I'm afraid so."

"Can't sleep nights?"

"Hardly a wink. I just lie abed tossing and thinking. Sometimes I fall into a brief doze and have the most startling dream. It's always the same dream; that's the astonishing part."

"What is it?"

"Well, I seem to be journeying overseas at first . . . then I'm in some sort of a water event. . . . I see a lot of boats. . . . Always there are two sailing vessels that seem greater than the rest. . . . One of them is an American yacht. . . . The other, it seems, belongs to me. . . . I see a race between these two vessels and always my boat is away out in the lead. . . . And then I wake."

"It's probably just as well you woke up," suggested the physician.

"It leaves me limp and lifeless. I just can't go on this way. I've tried to fight it off but. . . ."

"No use trying to fight it off," said the physician. It's one of the old spells. You've a challenge coming on, that's all."

"I think you're right, doctor. Maybe some pills would. . . ."

"Nope. You've been immune a full decade. It's in your blood. You'll just have to have these spells every decade or so. The thing to do is yield."

"Yield?"

"Yes," commanded the physician. "Give in. Don't suppress your challenge. Issue it to the New York Yacht club at once. I could use cold water packs to keep it down, but it would be folly. You'll feel better as soon as you get it out of your system."

"I suppose so," said Sir Thomas, calling for pen and paper.

And so it came to pass.

Junior C-C Urges Delay In Y. M. C. A. Campaign

Recommending that a Y. M. C. A. building campaign be postponed to some later time, but that completion of such a project be adopted by the chamber of commerce as an early objective, the report of the Y. M. C. A. committee of the junior chamber of commerce was adopted by the board of directors at a luncheon held in the Wichita club Friday noon.

The committee registered disapproval of a suggestion that a Y. M. C. A. be organized and quartered in a rented building temporarily. Members of the committee are O. Abernathy, chairman; Wilburn Page, D. A. Kahn, W. B. Swint, Wilson N. Reedy, Paul Hines, Guy Pool, W. P. Lacey, J. R. Terrill, G. R. Tillman, Walter Nelson Jr., John C. Barnard and J. A. Kemp Jr.

Telegrams to legislators from this district asking exemption of gasoline for airplanes from the state's three-cent tax were authorized by the directors. A proposal from T. J. Waggoner Jr. that the junior chamber of commerce have a committee to welcome new citizens was adopted.

Walter Nelson Jr., J. A. Kemp Jr., Dr. Bailey R. Collins, Ralph Pittman, James V. Allred, James L. Randel, Frank Haley, Shadie Hale, Jerry Vinson, T. J. Waggoner Jr. and C. Abernathy were present at the luncheon.

Ann's Letters Read to Jury

rain. I have been thinking about the love and kindness I have missed—but here I am getting sentimental. I only want to know you. Sweetest good-nights. Lovingly, Ann."

'Call Me Ann'

In another letter she told Hardinge, "I want to see you in Tulsa soon;" and added a postscript "you may call me Ann."

This letter was written before the Chicago millionaire attended an oil burner convention in Tulsa when, according to Ann, he admired her form and told her "you would make a wonderful wife for me."

Previously in the trial the millionaire's fervid love notes were read.

Offered Her Cigar

Telling of the meeting on the train en route to Denver from Kansas City where the romance began, Hardinge said she was the first to make the advance towards friendship.

"I was sitting on the rear platform smoking," he said. "She came out and passed the remark that she had been refused permission to smoke in the diner. I said: 'Go ahead, it's all right with me.' So I passed her a cigar."

The audience laughed and the witness corrected himself to say he had passed her a cigaret.

"She asked me where I was from," Hardinge continued, "and I told her. I explained that I was on my way to California and was then going to Vancouver to visit my aunts."

Then he told of stopping off in Denver and playing a joke on a Mr. Randall, a friend, introducing Ann as his wife. His friend was surprised, he said, and remarked:

"You've got me, she's a pretty good looker."

Other Letters Read

Other letters written by Ann were introduced in which she urged the furnace manufacturer to "be sure to have a booth at the oil show in Tulsa so I can see you again."

Hardinge said Miss Livingston told him she was unhappy after her "war marriage" with Robert Puderbaugh from whom she was divorced.

"He learned a lot of bad habits in France,' she told me," Hardinge testified.

The witness occupied the stand the entire day. Ann who had been on the stand for five days listened as eagerly to the love letters and testimony as the crowd of spectators who again fought for choice seats in the courtroom.

D. Dix Tells Girl Of Compensations For Married Life

When a Girl Marries, Must She Give Up Her Freedom?—Why This Wife Should Help Earn the Living. How Far Is a Married Man to Blame for Petting?

Dear Miss Dix—I am engaged to a young man, but find that marriage is a most unattractive proposition to me, for I hold no illusions about it. I am a freedom-loving soul and I just hate the idea of staying home cooking when I would like to be out playing tennis or something like that. I love skating, dancing and even fishing with the boy friend, but I see this all shot to pieces with the advent of the first baby. Gee, I almost wish I was back in a century where all women were expected to do was get married and have children, but nowadays it means giving up a lot for a girl to get married.

Do you know anything good about marriage that would enhance it in my eyes and thus change my state of mind? I am 22.

—DISGRUNTLED.

Answer: It is true that matrimony is no picnic, but, after all, it isn't as bad as it is painted. When we see the number of divorces and so many husbands and wives fighting together like the Kilkenny cats, it does seem that marriage is a failure and the surest way a man and woman can take to bring misery upon themselves, but just remember it is only the unhappy marriages that we hear about. It is only the divorces that get on the front page of the newspapers.

Nothing is said about the thousands of happy marriages, where a man and a wife go on quietly and contentedly loving each other and making each other happy and living out their days together in a quiet, peaceful way. It is news when a Hollywood star gets another divorce, but nobody gets out a band when Darby and Joan celebrate their golden wedding.

Of course, getting married is the greatest gamble on earth, because when you do it you stake everything you have in life on the outcome. But it is because when you win out the reward is so great that men and women continue to plunge on in spite of the failures they see all about them.

For there is no disputing the fact that there are no other people so happy as those who are happily married. To love and to be loved is a necessity of the human heart, and lacking love we go hungering and thirsting for the very bread of life on which to feed our souls. No love is so strong and enduring, no love so satisfying as this wedded love of a man and woman who have found their mates and who give each other a devotion that never falters, a companionship that never wearies.

To have a friend whose loyalty never fails you, whose affection excuses your very faults and finds them dear because they are part of you; to have some one who will cherish you and to whom you could turn if the whole world fell away from you; to have some one whose interests were so completely your interests that you never talked out, surely nothing could be a greater joy than this, and that is what a happy marriage will bring you.

As for your dreading marriage because you feel you will have to give up your outdoor sports and dancing, that is an unfounded fear, as you will perceive if you look around you and see how many married people are playing tennis and golf, and hopping around at balls and parties. People don't retire from society and nail themselves down to a fireside nowadays when they get married. They have found out that all matrimony and no play make Jack and Jill get on each other's nerves and fight, so they pursue their diversions after marriage even as they did before.

And you will have this further solace, that as we grow older our tastes change, and we find our pleasures in different things. It is only while one is young and bubbling over with life and strength and youth that one cares for the more strenuous games. After a bit we are content to settle down to quieter diversions.

Furthermore, I will hazard to bet that after your first baby comes, who will shoot your game of tennis to pieces, you would rather have it in your arms and have it call you mother than be tennis champion of the universe.

St. Louis "Just a Couple of Rivers From Wichita" by Air, Says Marjorie

City. But only a pause. The Southwestern air fast express was on its way. There was only time for a glance at an airport worth more consideration. A couple of more passengers were seated and their luggage stowed away behind a door in the ceiling, and we were taking off again. The hills near Tulsa and the trim streets of the city itself were looming beneath us in less than an hour.

The S. A. F. E. has its headquarters there and I am stopping to confer with R. W. Cantwell, chief pilot, on my way back. It was 11:50 when we landed in Tulsa with instructions to change ships. There is one thing about this air travel, you don't catch ships. They catch you, and there is no nonsense about it. Some efficient and kindly person (I don't suppose they call him the "steerer") gripped an arm, asked me if I wanted a "box lunch," informed me that my bags would be looked after, and gently but firmly suggested that the other ship was waiting. The experienced Mr. Francis and the blase Mr. Eddleman left us there.

Mac's Viewpoint

For a while, Mr. McCutchen and I, shepherded by a most understanding mate and a dignified captain named Curly, who thought us beneath his notice had it our own way. It was then that Mr. McCutchen confided to me that it always looked to him like we were landing on a mountain, though there wasn't a hill in sight, and that he thought the farms looked like blankets. For myself, having become air minded about the time we sighted Red river, (Still disguised as a meandering Sahara) I thought they resembled well marked landing fields, or newly rolled tennis courts to say the very least.

Curly's real name is Walter F. Riggs and the sympathetic mate is H. S. Christenson. They lost no time in crossing the Oklahoma line and giving us a look at some lovely Missouri hills and orchards. As to the box lunches, thoughtfully supplied by the Flying Boots at the Tulsa airport—well, they stayed under the seats. There were oranges, and lettuce and tomato sandwiches. After a while I tried an orange, but thought better of it almost at once. Mr. McCutchen, still later, was quite daring with a sandwich. That man's a born flyer. Springfield, which is also to receive more attention before I land at Kell field again, came upon us out of a clear sky in a little more than an hour. More passengers boarded with scarcely more than two minutes delay and we were up again. That last lap of the journey was perhaps the most delightful of the lot.

Plane Climbs

We climbed high over rolling hills and fields, traveling almost half the way without a glimpse of a town or a sign of human life below us. The Missouri river appeared to our left about 20 miles out of St. Louis and we ran parallel with it for many miles. Presently the red tiles of the outskirts and the heavy mists that covered downtown St. Louis were sighted and we were landing for the last time today. This time the captain taxied up alongside a concrete landing where a high-powered automobile and an equally high-powered chauffeur were waiting to take us along a pleasant road 15 miles into the city.

We glimpsed a lovely country club and an inviting links on our way in, and passed the Fisher body works, which is to St. Louis what the Ford plant is to Detroit. Hundreds of newly born Chevrolets, quite enough to pass around to distinguished visitors, were ready to climb aboard a freight. The driver showed us Forest park, where I am going to hear the Municipal Opera company in a few minutes, and the Lindbergh collection. A group of the flyer's trophies, which, appropriately enough, I will inspect tomorrow. Which brings me almost up to now.

How Much It Cost

I managed to register here at the hotel before I called for the cold ham and chicken, the potato salad and ice tea which had been my crying need since I foreswore the box lunch.

And now the canopied roof garden. Soft lights, music, dancing, more to eat (pardon the lapse from romance), and presently the music in the open air, where the best of the light summer operas are to be heard at prices which range from 50 cents to boxes at $2.

That Leaves Out the Money Part

Well, let's get it over. The air passage from Wichita Falls to the entrance of the hotel cost $59. There is a slight reduction on round trip fares. Then there is the wire home. But does everybody wire home? I dare say everybody does. Well, I made it in 10 words and cost 60 cents. Do I have to tell how much I ate? A reasonable meal served to one not so lazy as to have it served in the room wouldn't have cost more than $1. I am to pay $4.50 tonight for the room. Dinner and the theater will be $3 more, though I won't be paying for it. Now add that up for me. I make it $68.10.

Got the Secret From Her Mother

"I can remember very well how my mother struggled to get me into the habit of taking care of myself," says lovely Lucille Mason, Fort Worth girl, who lives at 205 Kentucky avenue. "It is the secret of my good health now though. She always believed Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) was the best to keep away indigestion, constipation, sick headaches, etc., and though I have used other medicines once or twice to see if she was right, I always go right back to NR Tablets. I know I can depend on them."

That's because NR Tablets are purely vegetable. They do not carry off vital body fluids like salts do; they do not salivate you as calomel does; they cannot poison you as excessive use of phenolphthalein preparations may do. Get the 25c box of NR Tablets at any drug store and be safe.—Adv.

190 ATTEND CHURCH MEET

Quarterly Conference Held Here Friday

The third quarterly conference of the 22 pastoral charges of the Methodist church in the Wichita Falls district was held at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon at the George D. Keith farm on the Henrietta road. The meeting was called by Rev. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church and presiding elder of the conference.

About 190 delegates were present at the meeting, including official members of the conference, pastors and their wives and secretaries from the various charges. The session was held on the banks of Holliday creek, where Mr. and Mrs. Keith, as hosts to the delegates, served a barbecued chicken dinner following the business session. Reports from each of the pastors and charges were heard.

DEATHS

BERT BRYAN SMITH JR.

Funeral services for Bert Bryan Smith Jr., infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Smith, 2129 Princeton avenue, who died at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon, were held from the chapel of the Hines mortuary at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon with Rev. L. S. White, pastor of the First Church of Christ, officiating. Interment was in Rosemont. Survivors are the parents and a little sister.

C. B. WOMBLE

C. B. Womble, 30, 2318 Yale avenue, died at the family residence at 2 o'clock Friday morning following an illness of six months. The body was taken in charge by the Hines mortuary. Funeral services will be held from the home at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon with Rev. T. J. Furniss, pastor of the Southside Baptist church, officiating. Interment will be in Rosemont burial park.

Survivors are his widow; five children, Mildred, C. B., John C., Bessie Lee and Mary Elizabeth; his mother, Mrs. Maggie Robinson, 1600 Magnolia street; three brothers, Douglas, Frank and Dorsey Robinson, all living at 1600 Magnolia; one sister, Minerva Robinson, 1600 Magnolia; four uncles, S. W. Darland of Rock Crossing, Texas, Press Darland of Electra, L. R. Gilliland, 1611 Wilson street, and George Darland of Pampa, Texas, and one aunt, Mrs. J. M. Simmons, 1613 Magnolia street.

Mr. Womble served with the U. S. navy during the war, having made 26 trips across the Atlantic while in the service. He served for two years and seven months.

SECRECY VEILS TEXAS HEARING

Testimony in Patronage Probe Hushed Up

now for contempt of the senate, and we don't want to have to jail any more," the Tennessee senator warned.

"We don't want to be in contempt," Creager said.

"Please see that you don't, for we don't want to arrest you," McKellar replied.

After two other witnesses had testified, Creager and Bullington expressed regret that the Garner question had been asked, repeating that they had not wished to attack the Texan.

Campbell's testimony dwelt mostly on the disposition of seized liquor and his connection with a farm. He said that all liquor turned over to his agents was receipted for and destroyed legally.

Quizzed on Drinking

"Do you ever take a drink?" McKellar asked.

"I drink a little beer in Mexico occasionally."

"Do you think it is proper for a customs official to cross the border and drink?"

"I don't think it promotes confidence," Campbell declared.

"Then why do it?" McKellar questioned.

"I want to."

Subsequent testimony showed that Campbell had operated a 1,000 acre irrigated farm near Laredo, using Mexican labor, "about half of whom," he said, might have entered the United States illegally.

"Did you ask whether those workers were aliens before you hired them?" McKellar asked.

"I did not."

Campbell then said that in 1921 about 95 per cent of liquor seized in Texas was Mexican, indicating it was smuggled, but that the present percentage of Mexican intoxicants was less than two. He denied that "spotters" were employed in Mexican saloons, telephoning United States customs officers of individual purchases.

Official Criticized

As Campbell prepared to leave the stand McKellar remarked: "I doubt the advisability of a customs collector drinking, or any one as closely connected with immigration as you are employing alien labor."

Campbell had denied that there is "at present" any difference between the customs department and W. A. Whalen, immigration officer for this district, as charged yesterday by Colonel Hennessey.

Diamond Identified As One Stolen Here

A diamond brought from Dallas Friday afternoon in the belief that it was one of two stones stolen from Kirby's Jewelry store about two weeks ago was identified by officials of the store, Frank Burns, chief of police, stated.

A negro man, arrested in Dallas in connection with the case, was brought to Wichita Falls and is being held in the city jail. He was said to have identified the negro arrested by local officers shortly after the theft as the one from whom he obtained the stone. Charges of robbery were filed against the negro arrested here following the incident.

Enjoy healthful fruits and vegetables . . .
Flavored with sugar they are delicious

"MY FIRST RULE for healthful eating," said one of the foremost food scientists in this country, "would be to insist on at least one dish of raw vegetable salad and at least one raw fruit every day.

"My second rule would be very similar—to eat at least one cooked vegetable and one cooked fruit every day. You can vary the fruits and vegetables according to the season, their price, and your taste."

His next remark emphasized the value of sugar in making fruits and vegetables so palatable that people would eat them, not simply for their beneficial results, but for general enjoyment of their flavors. "Sugar," he explained, "is the greatest of all condimental foods. It brings out the natural flavor of fruits and vegetables."

It is important that people enjoy the food they eat. Otherwise they will not eat a varied enough diet. Sugar, nature's most perfect flavor, plays a part in making almost all the foods we eat more inviting.

A pinch of sugar improves the flavor of nearly every vegetable. Remember a dash of sugar in cereal, in tea or coffee, in all milk drinks. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

SPUDDERS CHECK BUFFS' NINTH-INNING RALLY TO WIN, 8-7

WILTSE STEADY SAVE IN FINAL

Lindsey Batted Off Hill; Martin Leads Attack

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

The Spudders won the second game of the series of three from the Houston Buffaloes yesterday, but not until Jim Galloway, the home athletes themselves and some 1,000 paying customers had enjoyed the thrill of a scare.

Leading 8 to 2 in the ninth, with Hal Wiltse hurling superb ball, the Spudders saw their margin whittled away as the champions dug toeholds and swung and hit. Then, after scoring five tallies, with a runner on base and two out, Foreman Jim Bailey hammered a harsh liner. Pete Turgeon leaped for the ball—thrust out his gloved hand—and came down with the pellet desperately clutched in his paw, and possible disaster was averted.

Wichita Falls won its third straight, 8 to 7, by hammering Jim Lindsey, ace of the Buff staff and one of the league's leading chuckers, off the hill in the sixth, with a big inning on their own account. Fire runs were scored by the homelings in the sixth, which with three earlier constituted their run-getting for the day. Dick Schuman finished and held the Spudders at bay. Lindsey now has won 12 and lost six games.

Bennett Clouts Homer

Twelve hits were made by the Buffs to 11 by Wichita Falls, but the Spudders again made their blows count to greater advantage. Red Bennett hammered a home run over the right field wall and Rabbit Benton led the Spudder attack with three hits.

Pepper Martin was the big offensive star of the day, however, the center gardener clouting four hits, including a triple; driving home four runs and scoring three himself. Martin thus directly accounted for SEVEN of the hostiles' eight tallies.

Hock, Moore and Funk each made two hits.

Save for the ninth round Wiltse held the Buffs impotent. He struck out four and issued only one base on balls. Hal also contributed to the offense, with a double and single, both of which figured in the scoring.

Both Nines Tally in First

Both teams scored in the first inning. Martin singled to center, stole second and continued all the way home on Lapan's wide throw.

Benton and Turgeon singled. Fitzgerald forced Pete at second. Jordan to Hunt, Benton going to third. Bennett's lift to Bailey tallied Benton. Stapleton singled to left but the speedy Fitzgerald was thrown out at the plate on a perfect peg by Taylor.

Wiltse and Lindsey turned back the batters in order in the second.

Hock hit to center in the third and stole second but two were out and he was stranded.

The Spudders hit hard in their third to tally two. Wiltse doubled to deep left and moved to third on a passed ball. Benton singled to left, scoring Wiltse. Lindsey deflected Turgeon's harsh grounder to enable Jordan to throw out Pete, Benton advancing to second. Fitzgerald was tossed out by Jordan on a sharp bounder, Benton going to third. Benton scored on a wild pitch.

Buffs Score in Fourth

Martin led off in the fourth by slashing the center field boards for three bases and tallied on Moore's hoist to Bennett. It was Pepper's second hit.

Sullivan hit through short after one was out and fooled Lindsey for a stolen base and went to third on Lapan's lift to Bailey but was left.

Funk smashed a hit off Wiltse's ankle in the fifth but first base was as far as he got.

The Spudders went out one-two-three.

Moore and Bailey singled in the sixth but two were out and Taylor forced his boss at second, Benton to Turgeon.

Bennett whaled his homer over the right field wall to start the Spudder half. Stapleton walked. Hermann singled through short. Lindsey threw low to Moore on Sullivan's bunt, filling the bases. Sullivan got credit for a sacrifice and Lindsey was charged with an error. Lapan singled to right scoring Stapleton and Hermann and advancing Sullivan to third. Wiltse hit to center off Schuman, who had replaced Lindsey, tallying Sullivan and sending Lapan to third. Benton rattled the center field wall, scoring Lapan.

Buffaloes Rally in Ninth

The Spudders became a trifle careless, the Buffs swung freely—and the old ball game almost went blooie in the ninth. Taylor, first up, was safe on Benton's error. Funk singled to center. Hunt popped to Turgeon. Wachtel batted for Schuman and singled to center, scoring Taylor and sending Funk to second. Hock hit to left center for two bases, scoring Funk and advancing Wachtel to third. Wiltse tossed out Jordan.

Martin singled to left, his fourth hit, Wachtel tallying and Hock stopping at third. Martin went to second on a wild pitch, which Lapan dug out of the dirt, Hock holding third. Moore crashed a hit to center, scoring Hock and Martin. Galloway conferred with Wiltse and decided to leave Hal in there instead of replacing him with Skinny O'Neal. Turgeon then saved the day with a leaping snatch of Skipper Bailey's liner.

NOTES OF THE GAME

George Payne, one of the league's leading hurlers, will try to make it nine straight for him and four in succession for the Spudders today in the final of the series.

Outfielder Ray Blades and Pitcher Lefty Rinehart have been transferred to Houston from Rochester by the St. Louis Cardinals, owners of both clubs. The new Buffs are expected to join the champions soon.

Despite lots of run-getting and and hitting, yesterday's pastime was played in the fast time of 1:45. Barr and Sears, best pair of umpires in the league, hustle and the players follow their example.

The Spudders had only six assists yesterday, and oddly enough Benton and Wiltse had three each.

The Buffs show some new faces since their last trip here, although recent additions to their personnel are well known here. Roy Moore, first baseman and Chink Taylor, outfielder, both acquired from Southern association clubs recently, formerly pastimed in the Texas league.

And everybody who follows sports knows Joel Hunt, the new Buff shortstop. Hunt, a halfback at Texas A. & M. college, was one of the greatest football players who ever donned grid regalia in this state. He also was a baseball star with the Aggies.

Jordan continued his steady play with eight chances handled flawlessly.

Maintains Terrific Pace

Rabbit Benton is headed for a major league or class AA minor club sure as fate. Indeed, inquiries indicating they are highly interested in him have been received by Prexy J. Alvin Gardner from major league clubs. Benton is playing great ball offensively and defensively. He led the Spudder attack yesterday with three hits.

Hennessey Eliminated by Cochet And Allison Defeated by Borotra

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 28. (AP)—America's women tennis invaders stepped into the breach today and saved the United States from almost utter rout in the English championships on the Wimbledon courts.

In the elimination of John Hennessey and Wilmer Allison of Texas, United States Davis cup players, by Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra, Uncle Sam's forces were given a taste of what might be expected if they hook up with France in the final Davis cup round. With the win of P. Landry the French are assured of three of the eight players in the quarter-final round.

But the two Helens from California—Wills and Jacobs—and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy did the same thing for America in the women's section. All three qualified for the quarter-final round.

Mrs. Bundy Victor

Mrs. Bundy turned in the sensational upset in downing Miss Eileen Bennett, English Wightman cup player, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Rising above the setbacks handed America's men racquet wielders was the old war horse, "Big Bill" Tilden, seeking his third Wimbledon title. Tilden, by beating Christian Boussus of France, 6-3, 9-7, 6-4, became the only American to qualify among the last eight today. George Lott, Davis cup youngster, still has a chance of gaining a berth by winning from Koseluth tomorrow.

Miss Wills, with accustomed ease, beat Miss Sigart of Belgium, 6-2, 6-3, as Miss Jacobs also won her way into the last eight by eliminating the English girl star, Joan Fry, 6-3, 6-4.

Senorita De Alvarez Loses

The other sensation of the women's play was the defeat of Senorita De Alvarez of Spain, picked to meet Miss Wills in the championship match, by Mrs. C. O. McIlquham, a comparatively unknown. Mrs. McIlquham won 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

The Allison-Borotra match provided the most exciting finish of the week. The Texan finally was beaten, 6-3, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3.

While the Americans were falling by the wayside in the singles, the doubles combinations were going much better. Tilden and Hunter defeated O. G. V. Turnbull and J. B. Gilbert of England, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4; Hennessey and Lott disposed of the German pair, Kohlman and Nourney, 6-1, 9-7, 7-9, 6-2, and Lott and Miss Edith Cross eliminated the English-New Zealand combination of Miss Urber and F. M. B. Fisher, 6-4, 6-8, 6-4.

Dempsey to Start Light Training Soon

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28. (AP)—Jack Dempsey, arriving here today to begin a three weeks vaudeville tour, said he would "begin training immediately after his threatical engagement." The former heavyweight champion was uncommunicative about his future ring plans, but indicated he was open to offers.

The defeat of Paolino Uzcudun by Max Schmeling last night was expected by Dempsey.

Dempsey said Gene Normille, his one time business manager and now connected with the Agua Caliente resort in Mexico, was in the East "on business." A few weeks ago Dempsey conferred with officials of the Agua Caliente company relative to a comeback.

MIDLAND BEATS ACES

ABILENE, June 28. (AP)—Midland won a hectic ball game here today, beating Abilene 17 to 13 on the next to last day of the first half of the split season, to give Coleman a lead of a game and a half. Double headers tomorrow at Coleman and here will decide the winner of the first half, but it would be necessary for Coleman to lose two and Abilene to win twice to give Abilene the pennant. Score:

Bell Wins Semi-Final Net Match by Default

HAVERFORD, June 28. (AP)—Gregory Mangin, of Georgetown today defeated Edward Jacobs, University of Pittsburgh, in the semi-final round of the intercollegiate tennis tournament at the Merion cricket club. The scores were 11-9, 6-4, 6-4.

Berkeley Bell of Texas won the other semi-final from Julius Seligson, Lehigh, defending champ, by default. Seligson left the club house during a heavy rain, believing that the matches would be postponed. He was informed that if the rain ceased play would be resumed, but when the storm abated Seligson could not be found. The referee then awarded the match to Bell.

ESPINOSA AND SARAZEN LEAD

Pros Shoot 142 and Jones Falls to 144 in Storm

terday, and with a total of 144, drop back into a tie for third place with 24-year-old Densmore Shute of Columbus, Ohio. Shute added a 71 today to his opening 73.

The net results of as hectic a day as the national open has ever known served to reduce the array of contenders to no more than about eight, remove the 1928 champion, Johnny Farrell, from the further competition with a total of 167 for 36 holes, and likewise dispose of the slight remaining title chances of Walter Hagen, British open king and Horton Smith, sensation of the winter season. Hagen, adding 81 to his 76 of yesterday, totalled 157 to be 15 strokes back of the leaders, while Smith, attaching a 77 to his first round of 76, was at 153 and out of the running.

With the field reduced to a sum of 65 competitors out of the original entry of 152 for the final double barreled chase of 36 holes tomorrow, the main fight centers among the twin leaders Espinosa and Sarazen, along with the next pair, Shute and Jones. Should any of these four slip off the pace, Tommy Armour, who added a brilliant 71 to his 74 of yesterday for 145, may be ready to step into the breach.

Six strokes behind, are Leo Diegel, 74-74—148, and Leonard Schmutte of Lima, Okla, with 73-75—148. In eighth place, another stroke away, loomed the amateur ace, George Von Elm of Detroit, who got himself back into the picture with 70, two under par and a 36 hole total of 149. Von Elm's round, the best of the entire day, was scored with the last nine holes.

Among scores made by Texans:
Larry Nabholtz, Houston..78-81—155
Jack Burke, Houston.......77-80—157

GOLF TOURNEY STARTS TODAY

City Championship Meet to Be Held at Weeks Park

Play in the all-city golf championship tournament will get under way today at Weeks park club course with the start of the qualifying round. Phil Hesler, professional at the muny club, in charge of the tournament, has directed work of several days of putting the links in tip top condition.

Players have until July 4, inclusive to qualify. An entry fee of $1.50 will be charged. The championship flight will be composed of 32 and other flights of 16 players.

IT'S GREAT to win, but when the going is rough it takes a fellow with lots of patience and intestinal fortitude, as Knute Rockne says, to stay in there and pitch—or catch. Frank Snyder won the Texas league and Dixie championships last season with his Houston Buffaloes. Now he is out as manager of the Buffs.

The release of Snyder is no surprise. It was no secret that Pancho was dissatisfied with his berth at Houston. While here on the previous trip of the Houston club, Snyder bemoaned to me his fate that cast him with a ball club of inferior quality.

Snyder and Fred Ankenman, president of the Buffs, had a row last fall over the players' division of the Dixie series receipts and Snyder resigned, but was induced to return this spring as leader.

The Houston club probably will win about as many ball games without Snyder and it isn't unlikely that Gene Bailey, a most likeable man and a smart and capable baseball player will be successful as new skipper of the Buffs.

PARDON ME while I "point with pride" to my forecast on the fights Thursday night. In this column Thursday morning I picked Schmeling to beat Paulino and Von Porat to knock out Christner. Which they did. Here's what I said Thursday morning preceding the battles:

"This fight tonight is between a fellow who can pitch and one who can catch . . . Write your own ticket . . . My choice would be Schmeling, because he can hit and has youth in his favor.

"Christner is a veteran; Van Porat a youngster . . . I string along with the kid . . . I believe Otto will win by a knockout."

Damage Suit Jury Deadlocked

Special to The Record News

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, June 28.—The jury hearing the $101,000 damage suit being brought against Mrs. Myrtle Aycock, operator of the Miller hotel, by O. J. Bigson, for personal injuries claimed by Gibson to have been sustained when he stepped into an open water meter box on the east side of the Miller hotel, was still out this afternoon hopelessly hung over the case.

The jury received the case about 5 p. m. Tuesday. Judge Hamlin kept the jurors until 10 o'clock last night and then asked them to return early this morning when it was apparent they could not reach a decision.

Judge Hamlin stated that he was of the opinion that the jury would fail to agree as did the first jury that heard the same case some months ago.

Golfers Favor American Ball

WASHINGTON, June 28. (US)—The great American golfer, who once would as soon try to knock a medicine ball around the course as to play with anything but an English golf ball, is now favoring the American product at the rate of 350,000 pellets a year.

Golf ball import figures published today by the commerce department, show that the total number of balls imported in 1928 from England was 2,641,489 as compared with 3,057,192 in 1927, and that the 1927 figure was more than 300,000 below that of the year before.

Figures for the first five months of 1929 are already almost 100,000 below those for the first five months of 1928.

Meager Receipts for Cards' Houston Park

HOUSTON, June 28. (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals' huge investment here, including a $350,000 plant installed last year, seems likely to prove a poor investment this season.

In mid-June last year the Houston Buffaloes were five full games ahead of their closest rivals and some 25 games removed from the cellar.

At the same point this season the Junior Cards find themselves in the basement, with slight prospects of climbing out. Attendance has been correspondingly light.

Naishapur Has Habit Of Finishing Second

NEW YORK, June 28. (AP)—Naishapur, Chafee Earl's equine express from the west, appears to have a long lease on the "second hole."

He finished second in the Coffroth handicap last winder, ran second to Clyde Van Dusen in the Kentucky Derby and wound up in the same place in the American Derby at Washington park last Saturday.

A slow breaker and a powerful finish may mean that he is best at one mile and a half.

All of his stake events have been at nine furlongs.

Mental Complexes

The science and art of psychoanalysis has given us an insight into many peculiar activities of the mind. On every hand you hear the word "complex" referred to. There are both the inferiority and superiority complexes, the sexual complex and a dozen others which you hear discussed.

One of the greatest truths brought out by the psychoanalyst is that past events which should have had an unimportant meaning are given undue present power through the magnifying ability of the imagination and the multiplying strength of exaggeration. A "complex" is thus built as the seed of an idea in the memory mind, and seems to collect around it all of the materials for its growth, that is, other ideas of a similar nature and those possible of association seem to gather together, making a complex of associated ideas. The trouble is, such a complex is often a destructive one. A simple sexual incident of childhood may become a devouring monster in later life because the neurotic patient unconsciously gathers together all of the ugly and unwholesome ideas around this subject.

A child, criticised for his failure in school, may build up a destructive complex of failure lasting all through his life. He may learn to think more of failure than success—to actually scan the newspapers for stories of failures, to find excuses for his own anticipated failures, and thus spend all of his life making excuses—instead of making good. The psychoanalyst and the psychologist can be of great help to such neurotic individuals by helping them to uncover the complex. This is done by simply helping the patient to unravel the tangled skein of destructive ideas and understand each thing for its true worth. The greatest difficulty in doing this is that the patient is usually unaware that the complex has been developed through his own imagination and exaggeration. To be bluntly told this fact will often defeat the object of the well meaning friend or of the psychologist.

The one who honestly wishes to get rid of destructive mental complexes should learn to earnestly study over all the events of his past life and view each happening in its true importance, as viewed in the light of more mature understanding. He must, figuratively, lay all his cards on the table and not be surprised at what he finds. All experiences must be honestly judged at their true worth. He must learn to balance his thinking and emotive life so that he will no longer suffer from an undue exaggeration of some idea.

Many psychologists are publishing books today which are of great help to the patient who earnestly wishes for the proper mental and emotional balance.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Eggnogs

Question—T. H. asks: "Are eggnogs good for a working man who is underweight, and if so, when is the best time to take them?"

Answer—Eggnogs, being made of raw eggs and milk, are always a bad combination. One should never take such food in an effort to gain weight, as more trouble will only develop from such a stuffing process with foods in bad combination.

Removing Baby's Birthmark

Question—Mrs. M. E. B. writes: "My baby, four months old, has a large red birthmark on the end of his nose. Is it safe to have it removed now, and what method would you advise?"

Answer—It would probably be advisable for you to have the baby's birthmark removed while he is still young, as the scar will not be so large as when he grows older. Various methods are used, such as electricity, carbon dioxide snow, and acids. The first two methods are usually more easily controlled.

Can't Retain Cold Drink

Question—Mrs. T. H. writes: "When my mother takes a drink of anything cold it comes right up, even before it seems to reach the stomach. Hot drinks stay down. What causes this? She is 81 years old."

Answer—Your mother may have inflammation of the stomach, and the cold water and sensitive lining causes the stomach to contract. The best method of getting rid of the inflammation is to follow a milk diet for a time and then a well balanced diet.

Sweating Hands

Question—J. L. K. writes: "I have been troubled with my hands sweating. Will you please publish a cure for this?"

Answer—Excessive sweating of the hands is generally a sign of some nervous disorder. If you will search out the cause of your trouble you will no doubt find that your nervousness originates from dietetic errors and lack of exercise. If you will get up a good sweat every day this will help materially in throwing out irritating impurities which may be causing your nervousness.

Texas Power Station To Get New Generator

ABILENE, Texas, June 28. (UP)—Plans for the installation of a 20,000 horsepower steam turbogenerator, increasing the generating capacity of the Concho station near San Angelo from 15,000 to 35,000 horsepower, were announced today from the general offices of the West Texas Utilities here.

The new equipment will be delivered in November and operation of the largest generating station of the company is expected to be begun in the early spring of 1930, it was announced.

Missing Houston County Farmer Is Located

PALESTINE, Texas, June 28. (UP)—C. W. Butler, prominent Houston county farmer who disappeared two months ago, is still alive in Wheeler county, Sheriff W. G. Rogers of Anderson county announced today.

Four men are under arrest at Crockett charged with slaying Butler, who is said to have had $1,000 in his pocket when last seen at Lovelady, Texas. A country-wide search was conducted for Butler by rangers and detectives.

200 Reported Killed In Mine Disaster

BUENOS AIRES, June 28. (UP)—La Prensa's Santiago, Chile correspondent, reported today that 200 persons had been killed in an explosion at the Chile Exploration company's mine in the vicinity of Chuquicamata, Chile. The shock was felt as far as the town of Calama, 20 miles away, it was said.

$100,000 LEASE SALE REPORTED

Peckham Wilbarger Holding Changes Hands

King Royalty company and Barkley-Meadows is reported to have purchased from George W. Peckham and associates a lease consisting of 320 acres out of section 21, block 4, H. & T. C. R. R. survey W. T. Waggoner lands in Wilbarger county for a cash consideration of approximately $100,000. The property purchased by the King Royalty company and associates has one completed, and one drilling well with a daily output of 450 barrels. The holding is also located north of the "Section 40" pool in M. E. P. & P. R. R. survey.

Upton-Crane Line May Be Resurveyed

Special to The Record News.

MIDLAND, Texas, June 28.—Upton and Crane counties boundary line resurvey looms as the Upton commissioners failed to ratify a survey made several months ago. Some surveyers say a correct establishment of the line would give Upton a large part and perhaps all of the rich Gulf-McElroy field now lying in Crane county. Other surveyors maintain the present line is correct. County officials say there is no friction between Crane and Upton over the line.

Sand Promised in Eliasville Semi-Wildcat

BRECKENRIDGE, Texas, June 28.—Six and five-eights casing is being set this week in the Pitzer and West's semi-wildcat test which is being drilled a few miles south of Eliasville, according to reports.

The depth of the well was reported today to be around 2800 feet, with the formation running about 30 feet higher than corresponding logs in that section.

Pay is expected at thre depths, these being 3100, 3500 or 3800. The drillers say that the formation encountered look mighty promising for a good well. The nearest production is about a mile and one-half.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW

NEW YORK, June 28. (AP)—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Trade and industry this week show a slight tapering off, part of this, perhaps, due to purely seasonal influences, particularly hot weather, part of it to reports of slightly modified estimates of yields of crops, such as wheat and some fruits. However, the general trend of reports is still at a higher level than a year ago. In the iron and steel trade, the effects of the hot wave of last week finds reflection in reports of a slightly slower speed of operations, but, in addition, the facts are apparently visible that lack of rain in some areas, is perhaps responsible for a slowing down in future business, while in others too much rain has been an influence in holding back distant buying. In the steel trade, effects of the lessened prospect for fruit crops are noted in a slowing down of tinplate production and in a lessened call for material for automobile and implement manufacture.

Weekly bank clearings $11,925,318,000, an increase of 13.5 per cent over a year ago.

FOARD COUNTY LOCATION

Harris and associates made location for their No. 1 F. F. Rodenmeyer wildcat to be drilled 660 feet from the south and west lines of the southeast quarter of section 363, block B-A in H. & T. C. R. R. survey Foard county. The well, which is approximately one mile due north of the townsite of Margaret will be drilled with cable tools to a depth of 2,500 feet.

WILBARGER COMPLETION

Fain & McGaha completed as a 200-barrel producer their No. Y-2, W. T. Waggoner well, located in section 43, M. E. P. & P. R. R. survey in Wilbarger county. The sand was topped at 2383 and drilled to 2405 feet.

A COUPLE FOR BERT

The Shaw Oil company added two more producers to the number on its lease in section 40, M. E. P. R. R. survey, Waggoner lands in Wilbarger county, cluttering up the pipelines to the extent of approximately 650 barrels. The wells finished in the usual 1848-foot sand were Nos. 5 and 6.

TIDAL OIL COMPANY TEST

The Tidal Oil company No. 1 J. H. Turbeville, located 450 feet north and east of the southwest corner of northwest quarter of section 152, R. Carson survey, is drilling at 1300 feet.

WILDCAT TEST WILBARGER

Fain & McGaha has spudded in on their No. EE-1 W. T. Waggoner wildcat, located section 43, block 2, H. & T. C. R. R. survey, Wilbarger county. This well is located about four miles northwest of the Melat pool, and a like distance southwest of Rock Crossing production. Cable tools will be used.

NORTHWEST OF MEGARGEL

Encountering a good looking sand at 1458 feet in their No. 1 C. Lane test north west of Megargel in the southeast corner of block 46, Meade pasture, Hodge and McCarty may set casing to test. The test drilled a two foot sand topped at 1451 to 1453 feet a few days ago showing traces of oil but not enough to make a producer.

NORTHEAST YOUNG PRODUCER

Bridwell Oil and C. W. Clark completed their No. 2 F Cullers well, located in block 25, Young county school lands northwest of Markley in northeast Young county, making 40 barrels from the pay at 585-89 feet.

TEXAS COMPANY-ASSOCIATES

The Texas company-Golding & Cochran completed their No. A-7 Waggoner brothers well, located 150 feet south and west of the northeast corner of block 28, H. George survey, abstract 454, southwest Wichita county. The well which came in swabbing at the rate of 250 barrels from the sands at 1284-98 feet is being placed on the pump as a 200 barreler. No. A-8, location is rigging up 475 feet west and 150 feet south of northeast corner of the same block and survey.

A NOBLE EXPERIMENT

The Hoover Scientific Development company of Fort Worth, Texas, has made location 1000 feet east and 500 feet north of southwest corner of northwest quarter of the west half of section 25, block 2, H. & T. C. R. R. survey, W. T. Waggoner lands in Wilbarger county.

And Why Should Dawes Wear Knee Pants at Court?

KANSAS CITY, June 28. (UP)—The Kansas City Times sees no cause for international alarm in Ambassador Dawes' penchant for long pants.

Commenting today on the ambassador's appearance in the court of St. James in pants instead of breeches, the Times said, "if Dawes prefers to appear at court in evening clothes with a white tie instead of a Nights of Pythias uniform, the affair should not constitute a diplomatic episode.

"This opinion holds," the Times added, "whether the ambassador chose evening clothes just because he felt he would feel more at home in them or because his legs would not look well in knee breeches and silk stockings."

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, June 28. (AP)—Cotton was generally higher today on some covering or trade buying in July and a little commission house demand for new crop positions which seemed to be influenced by report sof further showers in the eastern belt and reiterations of heavy boll weevil infestation. October sold up to 18.68, making a net advance of 9 points and closed at 18.66 with the general market closing steady at net advances of 3 to 15 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 5 points to a decline of 3 points. The firmer ruling of July which advanced to 18.28 or 15 points above yesterday's closing quotation probably helped the general tone of the market and the best prices of the day were reached in the late trading. December sold up to 18.92 and closed at 18.89. Closing prices generally were within a point or two of the best.

Private cables said calling had been supplied by hedging and scattered liquidation in Liverpool and that cloth buyers showed a disinclination to pay present prices.

Exports today 20,673, making 7,985,571 so far this season. Port receipts 3,292. U. S. port stocks 791,916.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, June 28. (AP)—Less bearish private crop reports than expected and prospects for unwanted rains in sections of the belt caused cotton prices to work moderately higher today although trading was quiet and prices fluctuated narrowly. After easing off in early trading the subsequent rally carried October up from 18.45 to 18.56, or 6 points up. The general market closed steady at net advances of 6 to 10 points.

Liverpool cables relatively were steady and the market here opened slightly higher in response.

Prices gradually recovered under buying promoted by a private report from Texas giving the condition of the crop in that state at 74 per cent of normal and estimating the increase in acreage at 2 per cent.

Federal Reserve Statements Lend Bolstering Influence to Stocks

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, June 28. (US)—Indications in the reserve statements that a more liberal policy was being followed offset the $122,000,000 increase in loans and influenced a higher stock market today. Utilities and Specialties featured again, moving into new high price territory. American and Foreign Power gained 5¼, General Electric 8⅝, Commonwealth Power 13¾, American Water Works 3½, United Corporation 3, and American Telephone 5 points. Commercial Solvents gained 8¾, Business Machines 5¾, and Otis Elevator 5¾. Steel added a point to its advance but other standard industrials held to narrow price range.

Erie gained over a point while the Katy climbed 2 more in an otherwise quiet railroad group. Oils remained dull and uncertain. The call money rate held at 10 per cent throughout while total turnover remained around the 4,000,000 share level.

The increase of $67,000,000 in bills discounted and of $10,000,000 in government security holdings of the federal reserve system is regarded as equivalent to release of $400,000,000 or more credit. It is the first real indication of a change in the policy of the reserve. The increase in government securities of two weeks ago resulted entirely from the treasury financing of that time as was shown in the subsequent decrease.

The reserve system in taking steps to ease credit now, it is felt, is not only influenced by belief that the stock market has been sufficiently tamed but also by desire to facilitate agricultural relief. The crop moving season starts before long and continuation of the more liberal policy of the reserve would mean materially lower money rates before the end of July. Further indication of such development is given in the easing of time money rates to under 8 per cent.

Public Service of New Jersey and other utilities continue to forge ahead in a manner that indicated further merger deals and acquisitions were in the offing. It appears that the United Corporation-Public Service of New Jersey get-together will be the next announced. It is expected that the two shares of United will be offered for each share of Public Service. United Light & Power "A" shares were taken by one of the most important groups in the utility field. American Telephone continues to be talked of for a splitup while the International Telephone interests look for even greater activity as soon as the rights are out of the way.

Recent buying of Continental Baking reflects the improvement that has been effected in both financial position and earning power since the debacle of three years ago. The new interests in the company have expected many economies as a result of giving their time to the affairs of the company rather than to the stock market. As a result, it is estimated the company should show net of over $12 a share for the current year.

Other baking companies are reported to be showing corresponding improvement. Kelvinator's better performance is influenced by the knowledge of a gain in income as it is believed that the third quarter net will establish a new high record. There is talk of a favorable announcement by Mexican Seaboard in the very near future.

Dividend action by Erie forecast here many months ago was announced. The next step in the plans of those in control, it is expected will be provision to replace the existing preferred issues with a new class of stock. Then will come something that was thought impossible a few years ago—a dividend on the common stock. Katy's move to a new high was regarded as influenced by buying from outside sources. In some quarters it is maintained that the Morgan-Van Sweringen group are dickering for Loree's stock and while the deal is pending are picking up some shares in the open market for their Alleghany corporation.

NEW YORK, June 28. (AP)—Sales (in hundreds), high, low and closing quotations on the New York stock exchange today.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, June 28. (AP)—Widely circulated estimates that 1929 Canadian wheat production will be away below last year's total put wheat values up with a rush today. According to one current forecast, the Canadian spring wheat crop of the prairie provinces this season will amount to only 315,000,000 bushels, compared with 508,000,000 bushels harvested in 1928. Officials of the Canadian growers' pool, however, denied having made this estimate, and instead suggested that western Canada with ideal conditions from now on would raise 400,000,000 bushels.

Wheat closed unsettled, 2¼ to 3 cents a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¾ to 1¼ cents up, oats ¼ to ½ to ⅝ cent advance, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 17 cents.

Something of a reaction from the day's top prices for wheat followed denial that the Canadian growers' pool had issued the estimate of only 315,000,000 bushels yield for western Canada. Later, however, the market here developed fresh strength as a result of Minneapolis advices that some of the best posted trade authorities are looking for a small crop of spring wheat not only in Canada but in domestic territory as well, reports showing that wheat in all upper South Dakota and lower North Dakota is very poor, a consequence of the driest June ever known in the Dakotas.

Corn and oats went higher as a result chiefly of wheat strength. There also was talk that monthly unofficial surveys next week will indicate a relatively low condition of corn growth.

Provisions tended upward on buying credited to packers.

MIDWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, June 28. (AP)—Livestock trade around the 11-market circuit was featured by a moderately active outlet for hogs at strong to 25c higher prices. Lighter weights of butchers were mostly 15 to 25c higher, but at several points most of the early upturn on strong weight butchers was erased. The days extreme top of $11.40 was realized in Chicago. Killing classes moved freely steady to strong. Several markets reporting upturns of 15 to 25c on fat lambs and yearlings. Choice Idaho lambs at Chicago scored $14.75.

Cattle receipts at most centers were insufficient to make a fair test of market conditions. Choice 1,398-pound Kansas fed steers in Chicago cleared at $15.65. Demand for the in-between grade of yearlings continued narrow. Aggregate receipts, estimated at 10,600, were about the same as a week ago and 1,500 short of a year ago.

QUAKER STATE-MENTS

It is the part of thrift, my friend, to use Quaker State Motor Oil, for there is an extra quart in every gallon. Special refining has taken from each gallon a quart of material that has little or no value in thy motor. Thus, instead, of the usual quart of waste, thee gets in every gallon four quarts of lubricant—an extra quart.

From Here to SKYLAND In 24 Hours!

Golden sunshine . . . cooled by the light, dry, invigorating air from Nature's own refrigerators--snow-capped mountain peaks . . . upland valleys, where silver spruce and pine filter every breath, and leave a trace of their own delicious fragrance as a guarantee of purity.

A single day in these surroundings will send new life and zest throbbing through every vein . . . so COME . . . forget the heat.

COLORADO—on the Denver Road—no smoke—no cinders—direct route—finest Pullmans, observation and diner—low summer fares. Include Yellowstone and Glacier National Parks for a few dollars more.

Phone Your Classified Ads to 4391

Our courteous ad taker will receive your Classified Ad and help you to word it, then our collector will call the next day. These accounts are "accommodation accounts" for the convenience of our patrons in transacting business over the telephone.

Classified Ad patrons desiring to have ads charged must have a telephone listed in their own name. No book record is made by the publishers on account of the great number of transactions, hence the necessity of collecting promptly.

Correction of errors in Classified Ads must be made before the second insertion. No allowance will be made for more than one incorrect insertion.

Cancellations and adjustments regarding errors should be telephoned to the Classified Ad department between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Ads accepted for afternoon papers up until 11 a. m. same day.

Morning paper up to 6 p. m. for the following morning.

Sunday paper up to 7 p. m. Saturday night.

Same copy in both papers.

THE CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT IS OPEN ON SUNDAYS from 4 to 6 p. m. And telephone orders for classified ads to be inserted or to be discontinued will be accepted.

Exceptions: Want ads will be accepted over the telephone for all excepting the following classifications: Situations Wanted and Wanted to Rent. Ads for these classifications are cash with the order and will not be accepted over the telephone.

The Times reserves the right to classify all Classified Ads under the appropriate headlines and to revise or to withhold from publication any ads deemed objectionable.

STATE ACCEPTS 13½ MILES OF NEW ASPHALT OUT OF SEYMOUR

ROAD BUILDERS OF AREA BUSY

Archer City Concrete to Be Ready by September

Extensive paving of highways and grading of others in this section of the state preparatory to being hard-surfaced within the next two years were reported Friday by D. M. Puckett, division state highway engineer, when he returned from a tour of the district.

Thirteen and a half miles of asphalt pavement on highway No. 23, leading south from Seymour toward Throckmorton, recently completed, was accepted Wednesday. From the Throckmorton county line to the Shackelford county line, that highway is now under contract for grading and concrete bridge construction, Mr. Puckett said.

Lake Kemp Road

Grading of the highway from Seymour to Mabelle has been completed and work is now beginning on the same road from Mabelle to the Archer county line. Traffic between Wichita Falls and Lake Kemp by way of the Seymour road will be greatly inconvenienced for a short time, according to Mr. Puckett, but it was pointed out that no detour was possible except by way of Diversion dam. The best possible passage over the newly graded road will be provided while the work is in progress, it was said.

Contract has been let for the paving of highway No. 30 from the Knox county line west of Seymour through Goree and Munday to the Haskell county line, the report stated.

In the Graham territory, asphalt pavement on highway No. 24, leading to the Jack county line, has just been completed, and will be accepted within the next few days, according to Mr. Puckett.

Construction work in grading roads and installing concrete bridges is under way in more than a score of other places in the district, among them the section of highway No. 5 between Tolbert and the Hardeman county line, which is being completed this week. This contract includes the building of an overpass across the Fort Worth and Denver City railway. The six-mile stretch of road, which will be open to traffic within the next few days, represents the only unpaved section on the highway between Wichita Falls and Quanah. It is to be paved in the spring, according to present plans.

Open New Road

A two-mile strip of graded road with concrete bridges, extending from the end of the pavement on the Seymour road, eight miles west of here, to the Archer county line near Holliday, will be opened to traffic this week. Concrete is now being poured on the highway between Archer City and Wichita Falls, the construction crew moving northward from Archer City with expectation of completing the job in September.

According to the present program, Mr. Puckett said that all of the roads now being graded and equipped with concrete bridges should be paved within the coming three years.

$6,000 Verdict Given In Suit Over Lease

Judgment for $6,000 was rendered by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court Friday afternoon for the plaintiff in the case of W. H. Portwood vs. Roy I. Carter, the sum representing an alleged unpaid balance on the purchase of a lease about four years ago.

In the original hearing, the court found for the plaintiff, but later set aside the judgment because of reported discrepancies discovered in evidence which had been given.

Attorneys indicated that the case will be appealed.

Anti-Saloon League Head Plans Two Addresses

Discussion of present "dry" laws and a plea for their enforcement will be given in an address on "The Unfinished Task" by Dr. Atticus Webb of Dallas, state Anti-Saloon league superintendent, at the Highland Heights Baptist church Sunday at 11 a. m., and at the Grant Street Methodist church Sunday night at 8 o'clock.

The address to be made here promises to answer much of the anti-prohibition propaganda, to inform the public more completely relative to the problems and issues involved, and to stir the citizenry to the need of law enforcement, according to announcements.

Doctor Webb emphasized in his announcement that he will speak from the standpoint of Christian citizenship rather than from a political viewpoint.

JUDGE HEARS MOTIONS TODAY

Martin to Pass on Pleas For New Trials

Arguments on motions for new trials in a number of criminal cases were set for 8 o'clock Saturday morning by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court Friday. Saturday is the closing day of the present court term.

Based upon contentions that the jury's methods of determining its verdict were irregular, and that the court erred in certain details of the trial, attorneys for Ed Pryor, former Electra constable, have filed a lengthey amended motion which will be argued Saturday morning. Pryor was convicted and given a prison term of eight years several weeks ago. He will be represented by Shields Heyser.

The motion filed by E. F. Freuchte, attorney for F. O. Bentley, also will be heard Saturday morning. Bentley was convicted on a charge of theft by false pretext earlier in the week, and was given a term of four years.

Attorneys for Freddy Hostler and R. B. Nichols, who received terms of five years each recently on charges of robbery, indicated that arguments for new trials also will be presented to Judge Martin.

Jury Deliberates On Issues in $50,000 Suit

After more than four hours of deliberation, the jury in Mrs. Lena L. Phillips' $50,000 damage suit against the General Motors Acceptance corporation was excused at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon by Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court with instructions to resume its study of the case at 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

Trial of the suit began Thursday morning, and it was given to the jury shortly after noon Friday. The action developed from an accident on the Iowa Park road on March 5 of this year. According to the plaintiff's petition, she was struck by an automobile owned by the defendant and driven by Tom Williams. It is further alleged in the petition that the plaintiff has been rendered permanently incapable of following the vocation by which she asserts she was earning her living prior to the accident.

Boy Scout Campers Go on 14-Mile Hike

Boy Scouts at Camp Ephriam Griffin on Diversion lake went on a 14-mile hike Friday, cooking their meals while on the trip, Frank B. Creighton, scout executive, said Friday. They explored the region around the camp and were given lessons in out-door life.

The second period of the camp will close Sunday and the boys will return to Wichita Falls. The third period will not be held until Aug. 4 in order to allow those now attending summer school to take part in the camp activities, it was said.

Quanah Inspected For Fire Hazards

Special to The Record News

QUANAH, Texas, June 28.—A canvass of the business district for fire hazards was made by State Fire Inspector T. F. Justiss Thursday and Friday of this week. Few hazards and only such as can be easily remedied were located by the inspector, who made the rounds accompanied by T. J. Merrick, city marshal, and Frank Thwing, fire marshal.

COULDN'T SLEEP FOR BACKACHE

Texas Lady Tells How She Improved After She Had Taken Cardui

Hillsboro, Texas.—Mrs. S. P. Hudson, of 201 North Covington street, this city, says that when she was a young woman she often suffered from headache and backache "and almost every month had to go to bed."

"When I was about sixteen years old," she adds, "I suffered from backache until I could not sleep at night. Frequently I would stay awake half the night. I would have to sit up in the bed and cry from the pain. It would be daylight before I would get any ease.

"My mother began giving me Cardui, and I began to improve right away. It was not long until I began improving and gaining in health and strength.

"Cardui seemed to relieve my trouble, and after taking several bottles I felt fine.

"I have taken Cardui twice since I have been married. I was run-down and needed a tonic. I believe in this medicine because it was so much help to me."

Cardui helps women to health.

The greatest tire of them all!
ONCE you use Kelly REGISTERED Balloons you'll never be satisfied with any other tires. Size for size they are even larger and sturdier than the regular Kelly line. The tread is much thicker and is carried further down the sidewalls so that the possibility of puncture is negligible. There is more rubber between the plies, and the seven-inch size has two extra plies of cord. Furthermore, for your protection, each is individually REGISTERED by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Co. At the present time we have a full stock of these tires, but they are going faster than the manufacturers can replace them, and we may not have your size long. Come in and let us quote you an allowance for the unused mileage in your present tires. You may find that after deducting this allowance from the price of a set of REGISTERED Balloons the cost is even less than you expected to pay for regular balloons.
KELLY Registered BALLOON
