Soviets walk out during arms talks

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP) — The Soviet delegation left the medium-range nuclear arms talks after 35 minutes today, the shortest session during nearly two years of negotiations, but U.S. officials said the two sides will meet Thursday.

The brief meeting came one day after the arrival in Britain of the first of 572 new U.S.-built cruise and Pershing 2 missiles scheduled for deployment in Western Europe if the negotiations fail to produce an accord.

Chief Soviet negotiator Yuli A. Kvitsinsky refused to comment to reporters as he left the U.S. delegation building where the session took place, but 20 minutes later the office of U.S. negotiator Paul H. Nitze announced that the talks would continue Thursday.

In Moscow, a leading Soviet commentator said today that the arrival of the cruise missiles proved President Reagan and his NATO allies are "hurrying up" new missile deployment and in effect scuttling the Geneva talks on limiting nuclear weapons in Europe.

The commentator, Alexander Malyshkin of Novosti news agency, also dismissed a new U.S. proposal to limit warheads on each side to 420 as a mere "propaganda exercise" designed to influence West German opinion before a crucial debate next week in the Bonn parliament on deploying new U.S. missiles.

Negotiating sessions have usually lasted from one to two hours since they began in November 1981, but the brief stay of the Soviets today was seen as significant since they have threatened repeatedly to leave the talks when the U.S. begins deploying new missiles.

CLOSE IN COMPETITION — A percentage point kept the Snyder High School "Pride of the West" Black and Gold Marching Band from qualifing for the finals at the State Marching Championships in Austin Monday. ## Marchers finish percentage away

The Snyder High School "Pride of the West" Black and Gold Marching Band fell three-tenths of a point short of advancing to finals at the State Marching Championships in Austin Monday.

Marching bands were rated on a point scale from 0-100. The top five bands in each class qualified for the finals performance Monday evening.

Contest judges awarded the Snyder group 89.5 of the possible 100 points. Assistant director Cliff Franklin said Tuesday morning from Austin that the band's score would probably hold up to be a sixth or seventh place finish for AAAA bands in the contest after ratings

Tax board vote counted locally

Balloting ended Monday afternoon for the five members on the Scurry County Appraisal District Board with four incumbents returned and one additional member elected.

The newly elected member —Bill Hairston — is no stranger to the board after serving on it previously as one of its initial members.

Balloting for the board — spread between six candidates — was counted Tuesday morning by county clerk's office personnel after final votes were taken Monday afternoon by two district member entities — the Snyder In-

Board directs value placed on WTC assets

While receiving an overall healthy report regarding the college's financial situation, trustees for Western Texas College directed administrators Monday to take steps to eliminate an "exception" noted during the 1982-83 outside audit report.

The report came from Snyder accounting firm representatives Larry Anderson and Jerry Vestal of the firm Anderson, Anderson and Vestal.

The pair told the board that the college's financial situation was overall in very good shape, to include an increased surplus involving revenues compared to expenses and a steady retirement of the college district bonded indebtedness.

A fund item regarding moveable fixed assets prompted the auditor's "exception" statement, however. Such assets include furniture, vehicles and equipment.

During the outside audit report offered last year, the auditors pointed out that an accurate value could not be placed on these assets due to a "dual problem." First, a complete inventory of such items was not available and, secondly, without an inventory no exact values could be assigned.

College administrators have addressed this situation during the past year by completing the inventory — a change made easier with the addition of an expanded computer system.

During the most recent audit, however, it was noted that assigning a value to respective items on the list — ranging from such things as a lab microscope to a golf course golf cart — had proved difficult.

A general estimate was prepared by college

WTC proposes higher tuition

A possible tuition increase to be implemented next fall was discussed Monday by board of trustee members at Western Texas College.

Trustees indicated they would consider the proposal for formal adoption at the December board meeting.

As proposed by administrative officials Monday, this per-hour charge would go from $4 to $6. For a normal student load of 15 college hours, this would entail a $30 per semester increase.

It was noted this change would place WTC "about in the middle" of tuition fees charged by area colleges.

At Monday's meeting, trustees also discussed possible changes regarding allowing fishing in the campus golf course lake and adopted a policy change for staffers requiring "compassion" leave.

The fishing discussion was tabled pending further staff recommendations to be presented at the December meeting. These range from discontinuing the privlege to allowing fishing around the entire lake on the two mornings when the course is closed to golfers.

The leave policy change now gives college staffers a guaranteed four days per school year for such things as absenses required for a death or illness in the family. In addition, the staffers may take up to 10 days above this four. Any of these days are then deducted from accumulated sick days, however.

In other college business, trustees voted to:

—Accept the resignation of computer programmer-instructor Joel Rose. His resignation will become effective Jan. 1, 1984.

—Nominate trustees Bill Jones and Bill Wilson to serve as the board represenatives on the WTC Scholarship Foundation Board.

Luncheon has cowboy theme

The Scurry County Museum will host a soup and sandwich seminar at noon Thursday in the museum on the campus of Western Texas College.

The seminar topic will relate to the American cowboy and is part of the "Where the Buffalo Roamed" project. Partial funding for the project came from the Texas Committee for the Humanities.

Oral histories will also be discussed at the Thursday program.

The luncheon menu will consist of beef stew and corn sticks with tea or coffee. There will be a charge of $3 per person to cover the cost of the food.

Reservations are to be made by 5 p.m. Wednesday by calling the museum office at 573-6107 or 573-8511, ext. 210.

The photographs have been on display here through the "Where the Buffalo Roamed" project. Thursday, a noon seminar and lunch is planned to further discuss the American cowboy. ## Burglary suspect returned locally

A suspect was in custody here Tuesday morning in connection with the Oct. 17 burglary of Margaret's clothing store on the south side of the Snyder square.

Noting that investigation of the case is still in progress, police released few details related to the arrest Tuesday morning.

Taken into custody was 20-year-old Damon Richardson of 1311 Auburn Ave. in Lubbock. He was arrested in that city on a burglary warrant by Snyder police and Lubbock County Sheriff's deputies late Monday evening.

Richardson was returned to Snyder around 3 a.m. Tuesday and is currently being held in Scurry County Jail in lieu of a $75,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace Dan Callaway.

The Margaret's burglary was discovered early on the morning of Oct.17 by city police on routine patrol who found an open door at the store. The thief or thieves entered the building by breaking the lock on the front door and investigators said that the merchandise was removed through the back door.

Exact values for the missing merchandise were undetermined.

Scurry County next year will celebrate its 100th anniversary, and much interest is being generated about stories of the past.

Here at the newspaper, we too, are interested in interesting stories about the past. We'd also like to have photographs from the county's past.

If you happen to have some old pictures of Snyder, Scurry County or residents, bring them by the newspaper office. We can copy them and return them to you. We will plan to use the pictures in a special Centennial edition to be published late next year.

The late Harrie Winston was one of the county's best known ranchers. Shorty Byrom told us a story about some advice that Mr. Winston had given.

Cattlemen have long been aware that mother cows are protective of their young, and that precautions must be taken when calves need treatment.

Mr. Winston said the way to avoid being run over by the mother cow is to always keep the young calf between you and the mother cow.

"I decided to try it," Shorty remembered. "But it didn't work. I used to be six inches taller."

Renal Rosson, former state representative, who has moved back to Snyder, remembers as a young boy when his family moved to Scurry County.

"I was about 10 years old and my folks enrolled me in Bethal School." Renal says the first boy he met was much older--at least 14.

"Where you'd come from?

"East Texas," Renal replied.

"Where in East Texas," the older boy asked.

"Eastland," said Rosson who then thought Eastland was in East Texas. "I sure had never been any further east."

The conversation didn't end there, as the older boy asked Renal his name and how he liked it in Scurry County.

"You'd better like it," he was told. "And you know," says Rosson, "I still like it."

Renal says he'll never forget Bones Jones, the name of the first person he met in Scurry County.

Ask Us

Q. — Does pleading "nolo contendere" on a speeding ticket keep it off of your record?

A. — This plea essentially indicates "no contest" and is not considered an admission of guilt. It will not keep a ticket from going on a legal record, but it will not count against an individual — as a guilty plea would — if a civil lawsuit arose from the traffic charge.

New Greyhound talks set

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Greyhound Bus Lines has agreed to new talks with representatives of striking workers, but is preparing to resume limited bus service Thursday in 27 states for the first time in two weeks.

The company, which is seeking wage cuts and other concessions, also said Monday that all its buses will be rolling again within 90 days even if the strike is not over.

Meanwhile, workers demonstrated in several cities at noon Monday as the deadline passed for the company's workers to indicate whether they would return to work, or lose their jobs. Several workers burned or tore up their back-to-work notices.

Chairman John. W. Teets of Greyhound Corp., who predicted Monday that service would be back to normal within three months, said he did not expect today's scheduled resumption of talks to be immediately productive.

Part of Cyprus independent

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The Turkish-occupied northern part of war-divided Cyprus declared its independence today and named itself the Turkish Republic of Northern Cyprus.

The Cypriot government, based in the Greek sector of the Mediterranean island, immediately called for an emergency meeting of the United Nations Security Council and protested the unilateral move by Turkish Cypriots.

The official Turkish Cypriot Bayrak radio said the independence decision was reached during a special session of the legislative assembly of the self-proclaimed Turkish Cypriot Federated State and was announced to thousands of people waiting outside.

Cyprus has been divided between Greek and Turkish sectors since 1975.

Billie S. Estes leaves prison

BIG SPRING, Texas (AP) — Flim-flam artist Billie Sol Estes, once known as a financial wizard and a confidant of Lyndon Johnson, was released from prison today after vowing that his wheeling and dealing days are over.

"I'm ready to go, ready to get out," Estes said in an interview in prison. "I'm just going to live a day at a time and not worry about tomorrow."

"My values have completely changed."

Upon release from the minimum security Big Spring Federal Prison Camp, Estes was met by his wife Patsy and eldest daughter Pam, 35, whose book, "Billie Sol," is due for publication in early December.

Estes will spend his first 30 days out of prison at a Salvation Army halfway house in Abilene, a city in which several members of his family now live.

The charismatic, flamboyant con-man, 58, has spent almost 11 years behind prison walls since his first conviction in 1962 for federal mail fraud and conspiracy to defraud and subsequent 1979 convictions for fraud and concealing assets.

"I seen myself as a Robin Hood back then," he said in a prison interview last week. "I'd take from the rich and give to the poor.

"I heard the cry of the poor and I answered the cry of the poor."

A lifelong financial contributor to Democratic politicians, including Johnson, Estes said his personal fortune once totaled as much as $400 million.

His financial empire collapsed after disclosures that its assets were mostly paper. Creditors claimed Estes owed them $38 million. The federal government once had $21 million in tax liens against him for income on nonexistent fertilizer tanks on West Texas farms and from government storage contracts.

Estes contends he now is broke.

While admitting no specific wrongdoing, Estes said it was his compulsiveness that got him in trouble and it is that same character flaw that concerns him even now.

"I'm just one drink away from being a drunk and just one deal away from being back in prison," he said.

Ashley remembered as child who aided others

CLYDE, Texas (AP) — Ashley Bailey was remembered not as the infant who touched an American president with her heartbreaking wait for a donor liver, but as a miracle who gave the chance of life to at least half a dozen other children.

The girl whose futile 10-month-wait for a liver transplant ended with her death Friday, was buried near her paternal grandparents Monday in a wind-swept cemetery not far from where she was born almost 15 months ago.

Her parents, Greg and Annette Gossett, said they will be staying with friends as they try to sort out their lives following the death of their daughter.

Ashley suffered from biliary atresia, an incurable disease that hardens the liver. Her frustrating wait for a transplant prompted an appeal by President Reagan during his weekly radio broadcast on July 23.

Although a transplant was her only chance for survival, her small size made it particularly difficult to find a suitable donor, doctors said.

Reagan asked the nation "to find Ashley a donor" because "time is running out."

The donor was never found.

About 150 family members and friends attended the funeral Monday at the Bailey Funeral Chapel in Clyde near Abilene. Ashley's parents wept as they sat on the front row before the small white and gilt casket.

Ashley's great aunt, Debbie Herrick, crouched and kissed the closed casket, covered in a spray of miniature, yellow roses with a color picture of Ashley resting on top.

One of the many floral arrangements came from the "nurses and staff of Station 56" at the University of Minnesota Hospitals, where Ashley had waited for a donor to be found so that she could receive the transplant she required.

"Well, have you folks from Congress been findin' lots of facts?"

at wits end

by erma bombeck

One of the main concerns of parents everywhere is that children do not put a monetary value on things.

This is because we have raised a generation of children who think everything is disposable. Use a lunch box? Throw it away. Use a beach towel? Leave it on the beach for a tip. Wear a sweater? Give it to a friend. Lose a door key? Another one will pop up in its place like a nose tissue.

This can create a problem. Especially if you are the parents of a child who is a flake. And you parents of flakes all know who you are. You are the ones who last winter bought the same pair of gloves 18 times for the same child. The first day he wore the new cashmere sweater his grandmother bought him, he lost the name tag. The second day he lost the sweater. He never leaves home without an umbrella and never returns with one. The library should bear your name since you replaced every vlume in it with books he has lost.

And every June before you can go on vacation, he has to claim all his clothes out of Lost and Found so he has something to pack.

We've tried every solution you can possibly think of. Once, we figured out that our kids had no sense of value because we didn't stress the responsibility of ownership. So one year, we gave one of them a bicycle and said, "This cost a lost of money. If you lose it, you will never get another one. It is 100 percent yours to keep in running order and keep safe. From this point on, we are absolved of any responsibility for it whatsoever."

"Are you saying I own this?" he asked.

Bingo. We had made contact.

Two weeks later, he sold it and bought a set of drums.

We tried having them use their own money for something they wanted, figuring that would instill a sense of pride and ownership. I defy a mother to sit by and watch a child go through eight inches of new snow because he can't afford to replace the boots that got ripped off when he left them in the gym.

Still we try. I went into the kitchen the other morning and there was a half-eaten orange in the sink. "Look at this waste," I said. "Do you think oranges grow on trees? That's it. Snicker. I'll bet you don't even know what a orange costs. That's the problem. Young people today don't know what anything costs. They just take it for granted there will be food on the table and clothes in the closet and gas in the car with no regard as to how it got there. Aren't you even curious?"

"Yeah, how much money does Dad make and how much did this house cost?"

"That's none of your business," I said.

Kids! Where do they come up with those questions?

Convicted man signs contract

DENTON, Texas (AP) — Self-proclaimed mass murderer Henry Lee Lucas has granted a Texas author the rights to his life story, on the condition part of the book's proceeds be used to help locate missing children, a newspaper said.

Hugh Aynesworth, co-author of a recently published book on convicted murderer Theodore Bundy, said Lucas signed the contract Nov. 9 while the former Jacksonville, Fla. resident was awaiting sentencing here, The Florida Times-Union reported Tuesday.

Lucas, who claims to have killed up to 200 people in 17 states, was sentenced to life in prison Nov. 10 after a jury convicted him for the August 1982 murder of Freida "Becky" Powell, 15, his common-law wife from Jacksonville.

The contract specifies 5 percent of the book's profits be donated to Child Find Inc., a New York-based agency that attempts to locate some of the 150,000 children reported missing each year, Aynesworth said.

The money would be given through a fund named for Miss Powell, who police said was "the only woman he (Lucas) ever loved," Aynesworth told the Jacksonville newspaper.

"I don't think he's doing any public relations. I just think he really did love her," Aynesworth said. "Even in his cell, he cried when he talked about her."

Under Texas law, Lucas, 47, cannot receive any of the book's profits, said Aynesworth, who had not signed with a publishing company Tuesday.

Jacksonville authorities say the drifter convinced them he killed at least eight women in Duval County. Police say Lucas is also the former lover and traveling companion of Ottis Elwood Toole of Jacksonville, a Florida inmate serving time on an arson conviction.

Toole claimed to have killed several people including 6-year-old Adam Walsh of Hollywood, Fla., a confession he later recanted.

Walsh was abducted in 1981 from a Hollywood shopping mall. The child's head was found about a month later in a canal near Vero Beach, Fla.

Foat testifies she didn't know '65 slaying victim

GRETNA, La. (AP) — Feminist Ginny Foat testified in tears that she "never met" the man she is accused of clubbing to death 18 years ago, and said her ex-husband and chief accuser once tried to strangle her.

Ms. Foat, a rising star in the National Organization for Women until she was charged in the 1965 killing of Argentine toymaker Moises Chayo, testified Monday that her ex-Marine former husband terrorized her with stories of killing and mutilation, threatened to kill her, and often beat her.

She said she did not lure Chayo from a bar to a fatal robbery.

"No, I never met this man," she said of Chayo. "I never robbed anybody. I never killed anybody."

Prosecutors were scheduled to cross-examine her today.

Asked about her 1970 breakup with John Sidote, the 42-year-old Ms. Foat said, "He said he would see me dead before I went, and he told me if I went, if he couldn't kill me, he would see me rot in jail the same as he did."

Sidote is serving a 25-year sentence in Nevada for another killing.

He testified last week that he and Ms. Foat joined in bludgeoning Chayo with a tire iron after she lured the businessman to this New Orleans suburb from a bar where she worked as a go-go dancer. Sidote said the two plotted the killing, and claimed he later confessed and implicated Ms. Foat because of feelings of guilt.

Ms. Foat's lawyers said Sidote, 45, was often beset by fits of alcoholic rage, and dismissed his testimony against her as revenge for her leaving him after what she says were five stormy years.

Hotel evacuated in Dallas

DALLAS (AP) — A small fire in a clothes dryer sent smoke wafting through laundry chutes in a downtown Dallas hotel today and forced the evacuation of about 50 employees and guests.

Fire officials said several employees on the top floor of the high-rise Sheraton Hotel fled to the roof and were escorted back to the lobby after smoke cleared the building.

Dallas Fire Department spokeswoman J.J. Howe said "certain areas" of the building were evacuated because of smoke concentrations and one employee who had an asthma condition was treated at the scene.

Are earth tremors related?

NEW YORK (AP) — Researchers are investigating whether the recent earthquake in Idaho triggered the subsequent tremor in Turkey by upsetting a global weave of stresses in the Earth's fractured crust.

"At face value, it certainly seems like the two sites are separated by too great a distance to have any connection between them," says Jay Pulli, a seismologist at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"But it seems to be a period of unusual activity. We've started to look into whether or not earthquakes occur in pairs — one in the East and one in the West."

Indeed, the quakes in Idaho and Turkey were part of what Pulli refers to as a "swarm" of quakes. The Idaho earthquake, one of the strongest in the United States in recent years, struck Oct. 28.

Two days later, more than 1,000 people were killed in eastern Turkey. Idaho was rocked by two after-shocks. And earthquakes hit Maine, New York, Afghanistan and the Sea of Japan.

"We started to become interested in this when there was an earthquake in New York (in October)," Pulli said. "There had been another in Ottawa."

The earthquake catalogues have now been pulled out, and a search for pairings and swarms is under way. On November 1, 1775, for example, an earthquake occurred off the coast of Portugal. Eighteen days later, the ground moved under Boston.

Pulli works with Nafi Toksoz, a professor at MIT who was born in Turkey and is perhaps the leading American expert on the myriad fault lines lying beneath Turkish soil.

Establishing whether earthquake pairing occurs will be difficult, if not impossible, researchers say.

Geological time scales — in which a hundred thousand years is but a moment — are so long and life so short that nobody has been able to demonstrate conclusively that earthquakes occur in any kind of cycle. Or whether they are prompted by changes in the position of the sun and moon, or by any of a host of other phenomena.

Seismographs to measure earthquakes have been in existence for about 100 years. The most ancient earthquake records, complied by the Chinese, extend back a mere several thousand years, says Dr. Robert Uhrhammer, a seismologist at the University of California's seismographic station in Berkeley.

In the Chinese records "there is an indication there might be periodicity in the larger earthquakes," says Uhrhammer. It's a clue, but a flimsy one. The cyclic variation differs only slightly from normal chance variations.

Asked about the apparent swarm of recent earthquakes, Uhrhammer says, "I have not seen an unusual deviation either in a very large number of earthquakes or a very small number of earthquakes in the last couple of months."

Earthquakes the size of those in Idaho occur at the rate of a hundred or so a year — an average of roughly every three days, says David Simpson, associate director for seismology of Columbia University's Lamont-Doherty Geological Observatory.

In the eyes of a scientist, then, the occurrence of the Idaho and Turkey quakes two days apart is scarcely worth noting.

Their importance lies in the fact that they did damage and caused loss of life, because they happened to strike populated areas.

"It's like the dog-bites-man, man-bites-dog story," says Simpson.

"Earthquakes are newsworthy when they are associated with large numbers of deaths or (are) in unusual areas."

Eighty-three percent of the world's earthquakes occur on the "ring of fire."

Dear Abby

Two's a Crowd In This Double Bed

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who is a widow and often travels with a widower. Their relationship is strictly platonic. (My friend says she does not find this man physically attractive.)

Recently the two of them attended her granddaughter's graduation in another part of the country, and the daughter, thinking her mother and this man were lovers and not wanting to appear old-fashioned, put them up together in a room with a double bed!

My friend said she was uncomfortable and somewhat embarrassed, but she didn't want to make a fuss, so she went along with it.

What are your thoughts on this?

NO NAMES OR LOCATIONS

DEAR NO NAMES: I find it difficult to believe that a grown woman with all her marbles would share a double bed with a man rather than "make a fuss"!

What fuss? It would seem perfectly logical for her to have told her daughter that she and the gentleman were just friends, not lovers, and separate accommodations were required.

DEAR ABBY: Our son was married to a nice girl whose parents had no money, so my husband and I gave the young couple a wedding reception and paid for it ourselves.

The invitations were sent out with reply cards. Eight couples we did not know but who were friends of our son and his bride returned the reply cards saying they were coming, so we counted on them for dinner as we did for all the others who accepted by mail.

When the dinner was served, those eight couples did not show up. Abby, dinner at $41.50 a plate for 16 people cost us $664. After the wedding, none of the no-shows called to explain or apologize. And none of them sent a gift.

My question is this: Since these people were friends of the bride and groom, don't you think they should make good the $664? We offered to foot the bill for the reception, but must we pay for guests who accepted but didn't show up?

STUCK IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR STUCK: You are indeed "stuck," because having offered to pay for the reception, you are obligated to pay for the no-shows. They were very rude, and your son and his bride should let them know about it, but the financial loss—unfair as it is—is yours.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I worked for a married man for 25 years. For 18 of those years I was his mistress. I finally broke it off after trying to end it for three years. He got mad and fired me. Then he hired a young divorcee to take my place. I needed that job, Abby. I told him if he didn't give me my job back I would tell his wife.

Should I keep my word?

UNDECIDED

DEAR UNDECIDED: No. If your boss fired you because you refused to sleep with him you can sue him for sexual harassment. You can also appeal to the Labor Relations Board and/or one of the many support groups for women's rights. WEAL (Women's Equity Action League, 805 15th St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20005) and your local chapter of NOW (National Organization for Women) are particularly effective. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: In reply to "Bible Student": Adam was not born, he was created. Also, the Bible states that "Mary was with child—not with fetus."

I really think "Bible Student" should go back to school.

RAY IN CHULA VISTA, CALIF.

Protest cruise arrival

LONDON (AP) — Anti-nuclear protesters chained themselves to the gate of a U.S. air base today, raided a submarine depot, and said the arrival of Europe's first cruise missiles had turned Britain into a prime target for a nuclear attack.

Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, however, praised the United States for its role as the West's defender and said the new missiles which began arriving Monday would help ensure peace.

"The United States is our ultimate defensive shield, the guarantor of Western freedom and the best hope for the world's oppressed," Mrs. Thatcher told a financiers' dinner Monday night.

Avoiding hardline anti-Soviet rhetoric, she said the missiles could be withdrawn quickly if the superpowers reached an arms control agreement. She vowed Britain was ready to pursue "sensible dialogue" with East bloc nations and "in that spirit" would visit Hungary early next year.

But opponents said the Conservative leader had handed Britain's destiny to the United States and turned the nation into a "saturation bombing" target by installing the long-awaited U.S. missiles.

At Greenham Common base, 50 miles west of London, troops deployed under blazing arc lights guarded the missiles through their first night on British soil. Nearby, police used bolt-cutters to free half a dozen chained women and dragged them off the gate.

Fifteen women were arrested as dozens more joined in, sitting down before the gate in freezing temperatures, police reported.

The early morning incidents brought to 32 the number of women from the 26-month-old peace camp arrested in demonstrations after silently watching a U.S. Starlifter transport touch down and unload the 20-foot missiles Monday.

The Defense Ministry said other anti-nuclear demonstrators staged a pre-dawn raid today on Britain's nuclear submarine base at Faslane in western Scotland, cutting through the wire perimeter fence.

Museum sets meeting for volunteers

Museum volunteers will meet for coffee and a planning session at 9 a.m. Thursday in the Scurry County Museum at Western Texas College.

Following the calendar survey, volunteers will begin work on ornaments for the museum's Christmas tree. The theme this year will be a Victorian Christmas and ornaments to be made include tussy mussies, pomanders, fans, lace gloves and cornucopias.

Persons who would like to work as museum volunteers are invited to attend the meeting, or can come only to the ornament workshop. Interested persons are invited to call the museum office at 573-6107 for further information.

Decorations will be pu on the museum's Christmas tree on Dec. 1 and 2 in preparation for the annual Christmas Happening set for Dec. 4.

Engineer convicted

HOUSTON (AP) — An engineer who worked on the space shuttle project has been convicted in a scheme to send 308 firearms to his homeland of Nigeria for sale on the black market.

A federal jury on Monday convicted John Chizoba Adi, 33, of dealing in firearms without a license, aiding and abetting in making a false statement to the U.S. government and lying to a grand jury.

Jurors acquitted Adi on charges of conspiracy, aiding and abetting and perjury.

Adi, who was working with Lockheed Engineering on the shuttle project, persuaded two American citizens to purchase the .25-caliber pistols for him, said Assistant U.S. Attorney Jim Powers.

Adi allegedly paid about $50 each for the pistols during 1981-82 and then shipped them to Nigeria, where they would sell for as much as $500 each on the black market, Powers said.

Bank records showed Adi deposited $14,000 during the same period, he said.

U.S. District Judge Carl Bue set sentencing for Jan. 9. Adi could be sent to prison for up to 15 years and fined up to $20,000.

Nicaragua told to learn from Grenada incident

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration, in a fresh appeal to Nicaraguan officials to establish democracy, is suggesting the alternative for them could be the kind of political upheaval that led to the imprisonment and death of the Grenadian leadership a month ago.

That thesis was set forth in a speech Monday night to Organization of American States foreign ministers by Deputy Secretary of State Kenneth Dam, who said the lesson of Grenada is that "political differences tend to degenerate into violence" without democratic safeguards.

Calling Nicaragua an obstacle to peace in Central America, Dam accused the Sandinistas of failing to negotiate in good faith. He challenged Nicaragua to accept proposals by Central American mediators calling for an end to subversion in the region, disarmament and the withdrawal of all foreign security forces.

These are among 21 proposals formulated in September by the so-called Contadora group, composed of Mexico, Venezuela, Colombia and Panama. The foreign ministers of the four countries hope to use this week's OAS meeting to sound out their Central American counterparts on verification procedures.

Dam spoke several hours after the surprise announcement by OAS Secretary General Alejandro Orfila that he is stepping down early next year, more than a year prior to the scheduled end of his second five-year term.

In an unusually candid speech, Orfila said he found during his eight-year tenure that the organization too often has been an irrelevant bystander when major hemispheric issues arise.

"It must be acknowledged that the OAS has been detached from, or only tangentially involved in many of the major issues that affect the present and determine the future of America," the Argentine diplomat said.

"In some cases it was conspicuously absent; in others, worse still, it was ignored."

The failure of the OAS to assume a central role in the turmoil in Central America and the Caribbean "clearly has marred its public image," Orfila said.

Meanwhile, two anti-Sandinista rebel leaders in Washington Monday had differing opinions about the future of Nicaragua's government.

Adolfo Calero, head of the CIA-backed Nicaraguan Democratic Force told a news conference that military intervention by other Central American nations to oust the Sandinistas is "definitely an option." He said his Honduran-based forces could establish a government on Nicaraguan territory and then ask for aid from "friendly countries."

But Eden Pastora, head of a rebel group based in Costa Rica, said the Nicaraguans can solve their own problems.

WEEDERS GUIDE

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

Seeds and nuts give the Thanksgiving holiday season a special touch when used as food or decoration. Proper handling, care and cracking are important whether you take them from your garden, nearby trees or a market.

You may eat seeds from pumpkin, melons, sunflowers and squash but hulling them may be a tedious process if not done properly. For instance, if you want to hull fairly large quantities of such seeds, make sure first that they are completely removed from the stringy fibers present in pumpkin and squash and let them dry thoroughly.

The first step then is to break the hulls with a rolling pin, hammer or food chopper. Then drop the seeds and hulls into a large container of water and stir vigorously. This will assure that the seeds make proper contact with water. If the hulls have been well broken, kernels should sink to the bottom and hulls remain afloat.

You can roast in a frying pan on the stove or in a shallow pan in the oven the dried kernels that have been separated from the hulls. In a frying pan, mix about one cup of the hulled seeds with 2 teaspoons of vegetable oil and 1 teaspoon of salt. Constant stirring will prevent scorching.

It will take 2 to 6 minutes for roasting the seeds in an oven. Set the temperature at 325 degrees Fahrenheit.

For many years roasted chestnuts have been associated with the fall holiday season. They are quite different in composition than most holiday nuts. They are higher in carbohydrates, I am told, but much lower in fat, which means lower in calories. Since they are higher in carbohydrates, they are more subject to spoilage and should be kept refrigerated.

Chestnuts, ever since a blight struck American chestnut trees early this century, are virtually all imported.

To roast them, cut an "X" on the side with a sharp knife. Spread them in a single layer in a pan and roast for about 20 minutes, until the husk curls open at the cut or the insides are soft.

Or spread them in a pan in very shallow water and bake them in a hot oven (450 F) for about 15 minutes. Peel and remove the inner brown skin while they are hot, for it will be difficult to remove when the nuts cool. The brown layer is bitter.

Chestnuts are delicious in turkey stuffing.

It isn't hard to crack pecans but you'll get more complete halves if the unshelled, uncracked nuts are soaked for 6 to 8 hours in a cold water solution containing 2½ tablespoons of salt (or less) per quart of water.

Black walnuts are hard to crack. It will be easier if you soak the nuts in water for 15 minutes then wrap them in a wet cloth overnight. English walnuts crack more readily if they are held with the pointed end up and hit sharply with a hammer.

To ease cracking Brazil nuts, place them in a freezer for 24 hours to make shells brittle. Or boil them for three minutes to soften shells, then drain and crack.

They must be kidding

South planned to play in four spades after North had raised South's one-spade response to two. The simple way to get there would be to bid it, but South knew there was no bonus for getting there with the least bids possible and called three clubs.

He had nothing to lose by this call since it was a forcing bid and he was not going past four spades in any event. North did bid four clubs. He did not know if his partner's three-club call was the start of a slam try with a spade-club two-suiter. In that case, North wanted to show his good club holding. He was also safe since no matter how many clubs South bid, North could go back to spades at the same level.

Needless to say, South closed the bidding at that same four spades he had been meandering to and it was up to West to lead.

A diamond or trump lead would let South take 11 tricks. The ace of hearts lead followed by a club shift would hold South to his contract, but West had seen camouflage bidding before.

He opened his fourth-best club, just as he probably would against straightforward bidding. The defense took two clubs and two hearts to defeat the normal contract.

Laverne Middleton Lee... art show opens Nov 20.

Lee art show to open soon at the college

Paintings by LaVerne Middleton Lee will be featured in the Fine Arts Gallery at Western Texas College in a show opening Nov. 20 and continuing through Dec. 11.

The public is invited to attend a reception marking the opening of the show on Nov. 20 from 1:30-3 p.m.

Mrs. Lee had her first art lesson in 1961 but she has always drawn and painted some, she says.

"When I was very young, mother showed me how to shade things so they would have form," she remembers. "I thought it was interesting that you can paint or draw things with a little bit of light and dark and make them look as if they curve or bend on a flat piece of paper."

Her first lessons were in oils, but she has worked with all media throughout the years. She likes watercolor best overall. She likes to paint objects with texture, such as tree bark, shells, leaves and flowers.

Although she sometimes accepts commissions, Mrs. Lee feels more at ease when she selects her own subjects. "I like best to paint what impresses me," she explains. "If people like the result, that makes the effort twice as fulfilling."

Mrs. Lee joined the Snyder Palette Club in 1963 and served as president of the group from 1972-78. She is now secretary of the club.

"If it hadn't been for the Palette Club I would not have had the opportunity to study with some of the good teachers I have," she commented.

These have included Bud Biggs of Dallas, Dick Cheatham of Lubbock, Michael McCullough of Albuquerque, N. M., Esme Glenn of Abilene, Ronald Thomason of Weatherford, Robert Gartland of Lawton, Okla., Naomi Brotherton of Dallas, and Dr. Emilio Caballero of Amarillo.

She has also studied painting and drawing with John Gibson and jewelry making and ceramics with Mike Thornton at Western Texas College.

Mrs. Lee and the late Foy Nutt started the July 4th art show here in 1961. Largely through the efforts of Mrs. Lee, Joy McGlaun, Marine Zimmerman, their families and "a lot of others," the show was continued until 1977. The Palette Club took charge of the project in 1979.

"Painting is great," Mrs. Lee says with enthusiasm. "You can get lost in it. And there is the opportunity to meet others interested in art. That's one of the nicest things about it."

Family support of her work has always been an encouragement to continue, Mrs. Lee says, adding that her son, Steve, is one of her best critics.

Mrs. Lee has won numerous awards for her paintings. Recent awards included the best overall award at the Post Art Guild show and one from the Texas Fine Arts Association. Her paintings are displayed by Fenton's Galleries.

Information about the new show can be obtained by calling the Fine Arts Division office at 573-8511, extention 234.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Ugly bloated belly

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am not overweight, but I have a bloated ugly tummy. I exercise, walk and watch my posture, but I feel stuffed and look pregnant.

Could my diet cause it? I eat salads, melons, yogurt and buttermilk, diet drinks and some raw vegetables, cauliflower, cabbage, carrots, etc.

I have had a spastic colon that cleared up on a fiber diet. I hate to change it. Please advise.

DEAR READER — A lot of people have similar problems. Probably more than half of such cases are caused by an intolerance of some foods (which does not necessarily mean allergies). Milk is a good example. If you can't digest lactose sugar in milk, it ferments and causes gas and problems.

A recent study in the United Kingdom showed that 60 percent of the patients had an intolerance of food as the cause of symptoms of gas, spastic colon and diarrhea.

You are eating a lot of foods that are gas formers or to which people often are intolerant.

If you want to experiment and find out if food is the problem, here is my suggestion: For three days eat absolutely nothing except lean beef or lean poultry and steamed rice, and drink room-temperature distilled water. That is a terrible diet and should be used only to see if all your symptoms subside. If they do, you know that the basis of your problem is in various foods.

The only seasoning you can use for the above diet is salt. And you must eat the rice to provide carbohydrates. Then you can add, one at a time, various foods and see what your symptom response is. If you develop symptoms, eliminate the food that caused it. It will take a while, but eventually you will have a list of foods that you can consume with little or no difficulty. From that list, you must construct your balanced diet.

To give you additional information about gas, I am sending you The Health Letter 6-8, Controlling Gaseousness. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — It seems that I have a cold for most of the winter. Several people have suggested that I take vitamin C. Does this really help?

DEAR READER — I wouldn't bet on it. There is no evidence that vitamin C prevents colds in people who already consume an adequate daily amount — say 60 milligrams. Some fresh fruit in the diet each day will take care of that.

This matter has been researched repeatedly, and large doses of vitamin C will not prevent colds. Some suggest that it may shorten the duration of the symptoms, but even that is debatable.

Colds are contagious diseases caused by a virus. The best preventive measure is to avoid exposure to the virus. You do that by staying away from crowds or away from people with colds.

A lot of colds are spread by the hands. The germs are picked up by the hands and then transferred to the face. If you go out, wear gloves. That will help protect your hands from surfaces such as railings and door knobs that may be laden with germs from someone with a cold who has just passed by.

Heart patients rest up from exciting trip

ROSLYN, N.Y. (AP) — Two Korean children awaiting lifesaving heart surgery were resting in a hospital today after hitching a plane ride with President and Nancy Reagan and becoming celebrities in their home country.

Lee Kil Woo, a 4-year-old boy from Seoul, and Ahn Gi Sook, a 7-year-old girl from Kyongnam, in southern South Korea, arrived at St. Francis Hospital late Monday after a stopover in Washington.

In South Korea, newspapers, radio and television have given widespread publicity to the adventure, which came as the president ended his visit to South Korea.

State-run television interviewed families and friends of both children, and newspapers gave extensive display to pictures showing them waving with the Reagans from the door of Air Force One before the flight to Washington.

Doctors met the children at LaGuardia Airport in New York on Monday. Although the youngsters, who suffer from congenital heart defects, ended their long journey sleepy, shy and at times fretful, they apparently suffered no ill effects from all the attention, the hospital reported.

The children, clutching miniature American flags, were also met at La Guardia by a horde of reporters and cameramen.

"I don't feel well. It's too hot, too many people," Gi Sook said through an interpreter as she clutched a box of popcorn and her flag.

Hospital spokesmen said the chance of successful surgery, scheduled for early next week, was about 90 percent.

Both children have holes in their hearts, and the little girl also has a displaced aorta and other problems.

"Without the operations, the strain on their hearts would become too great and they would die of heart attacks by the time they're 10 or 12," said Dr. Filippo Balbonio, the pediatrics director.

The surgery and ensuing four- to six-week hospital stay would cost about $20,000. Kil Woo and Gi Sook are in a program for poor children in developing countries that provides for their operations, and travel to the United States, through donations.

Word of the children's plight reached the White House through a series of efforts involving Rotary clubs in Seoul and abroad, an organization called the Gift of Life Inc., formed in New York in 1974, and Mrs. Harriet H. Hodges, coordinator of the international human assistance programs in Korea, who worked with local Rotarians.

Audit request after report

staffers, but administrators said after reviewing it they felt it was too low. Without a figure to base their calculations on, the auditors then noted they could not "express an opinion" regarding it.

Anderson, who has conducted the college's outside audit for several years, noted the problem of maintaining inventories and value figures for the moveable fixed assets was a "common one" among community colleges.

"Large universities normally have entire staffs to do just this sort of thing," he said, adding for the smaller colleges it is mainly a problem of "manpower."

Anderson noted also that failure to have such an inventory and assigned value will not reflect poorly on the college's standing with state agencies.

Trustees Monday directed that administrators attempt to have values assigned to the inventory of items by the April college board meeting.

Other highlights of the audit report offered Monday include an overall increase in the value of fixed assets of some $200,000 plus a retirement of another $465,000 in debt created by three revenue bond obligations.

The college's general "plant" is now valued at some $10.3 million. This compares to an estimate of $10.1 million last year.

The $465,000 payment towards bonded indebtedness includes reducing three debt funds. Individually, the district now owes some $915,000 for a building obligation bond incurred in 1970; some $960,000 for a building obligation bond incurred in 1972; and some $930,000 for a general revenue bond incurred in 1971.

These three debt funds are to be retired respectively in 1986, 2001 and 1988.

For the college's Current Fund, which includes the major operations on campus, a fund balance of some $1.7 million was reported.

This fund reflects the general expenses and revenues for the college's day-to-day operation. The latest audit pointed to an increase in the surplus after expenses are subtracting from revenues.

As of Aug. 31 last year, this "excess revenues over expenditures" surplus equaled some $124,000. The latest report placed it at $237,000, were finally tabulated later in the week.

San Antonio Alamo Heights High School garnered 89.8 points in the preliminaries to qualify for the finals as the fifth place band.

Class AAAA first place honors went to Georgetown High School followed by Fredricksburg in second, De Soto High in third with Katy-Taylor High School finishing fourth.

Two West Texas schools captured first place honors in their respective classes with Iraan winning first in Class A and Henrietta High School taking first place honors in Class AA.

Only the AAAA, AA, and A competitions were held Monday with competition in classes AAA and AAAAA to begin Tuesday morning.

The Snyder band was scheduled to tour the State Capitol Tuesday morning and depart for home shortly after noon with arrival in Snyder expected just after dark.

Car sides scratched

Police investigated a criminal mischief complaint reported around 4:25 p.m. Monday.

Patsy Ransom reported the vandalism of her 1981 Pontiac while it was parked at the Piggly Wiggly Store on South College Ave. The car was apparently scratched with some sort of sharp instrument down the length of both sides.

No damage value was set.

In other routine action, local officers jailed one suspect on charges of public intoxication at a private club Monday evening.

dependent School District and Scurry County Commissioners.

The school vote — taken by resolution — spread out 2,918 votes among three candidates. This count was 1,034 each for both incumbents Ross Blanchard and Kenneth Wilson and 850 for incumbent Pete Hester.

The commissioners court cast its 1,568 votes for three candidates. This count was 834 for incumbent Billy Huddleston; 639 for Bill Hairston; and 95 for John Reed.

In earlier balloting, the City of Snyder split its 259 votes with 129½ each going to Bill Hairston and John Reed.

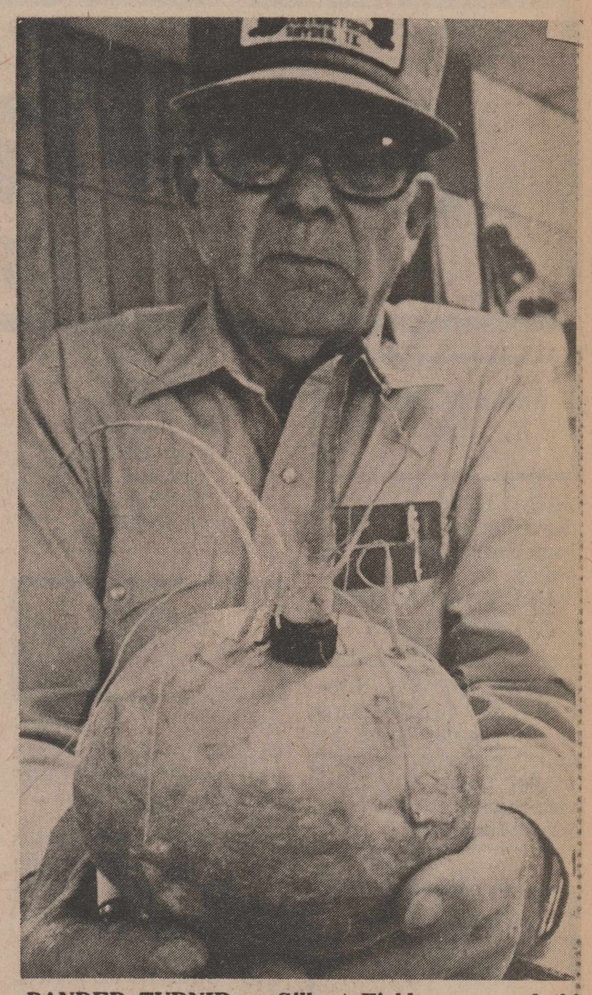

The Hermleigh ISD cast all 70 of its votes for Bill Hairston and Ira ISD cast all its 185 votes for incumbent board member Pete Hester.

The final vote count for each candidate is: 1,034 for Ross Blanchard; 1,035 for Pete Hester; 1,034 for Kenneth Wilson; 837½ for Bill Hairston; 834 for Billy Huddleston; and 224½ for John Reed.

A baby girl weighing eight pounds, 4½ ounces was born to Darlene and Donald Burk Nov. 14 at 7:17 a.m. in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Continental strikers stage protest walk

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — About 300 Continental Airlines strikers, their families and friends staged a march to the Continental terminal at Los Angeles International Airport to protest the airline's alleged "union busting tactics."

The protesters, who marched Monday from outlying parking lot C to the terminal, carried signs urging people not to fly Continental, but an airline spokesman said the demonstration was ineffective.

Banquet featured ex-Cowboy

Former Dallas Cowboys linebacker D.D. Lewis gave football players and fans his three components for a champion and told them "you can change any situation, if you want too" as he spoke at the annual Snyder High School Football Banquet here Monday evening.

Lewis, who played with the Cowboys for 12 years, was the guest speaker.

Head football coach George Byerly introduced all of the players and coaches, and asked his 15 graduating seniors to come to the front. He then introduced DeWayne Williamson and Eddie McClure as season captains, and Chad Peterson as the team's Most Valuable Player for 1983.

Lewis made light of the Tigers' 0-10 season by telling jokes about the seniors.

"John Rodgers faked out Eddie McClure so bad he was penalized for grabbing his own facemask."

But in a serious moment, Lewis, who is a believer in psyco-cybrenetics, a method by which an individual forms positive mental pictures of what he or she wants to happen before attempting it, told the group, "you can change any situation you are in by thinking (positively) about it."

He gave his three components to make a champion, which were desire to achieve, courage to do what it takes to get the job done and perseverence. According to Lewis, the three combine with mental toughness, "the ability to concentrate under the most adverse conditions," to make a champion.

Western Texas College president Dr. Don Newbury introduced the speaker. Snyder athletic director David Noble made the other introductions.

Entertainment was provided by Harley Bynum. Norman Malone gave the invocation.

The banquet was sponsored by the Snyder Football Booster Club.

Oilers finally locate first victory of season

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Oiler bulletin board has been dotted with fan mail that had gone unanswered until Sunday.

They all wanted a victory.

A seven-year-old's letter read "I voted for you. I'm mad at you. I want you to win for me please. Love, your fan, Sarah."

The Oilers answered Sarah's letter with a convincing 27-17 victory over the Detroit Lions that ended a 17-game losing streak.

The news likely has reached Greenhill, England, where a young British fan has agonized with every Oiler loss.

"Please hurry up and win a game as I follow you regularly, and know you haven't won a game this season," the lad wrote.

The Oilers eventually will have to put their historic victory behind them and get ready for Sunday's trip to Cincinnati, a team that beat the Oilers 55-14 two weeks ago.

But one more day of celebration will do no harm.

"We're going to make this last as long as we can," Oiler Coach Chuck Studley said Monday. "The players are off Tuesday so we won't talk to them about Cincinnati until Wednesday.

And when the Oilers do return on Wednesday, what will Studley tell them?

Studley said he would tell the team not think the battle is over and that more victories will automatically follow.

"It sounds terrible for a team that has just won one game," Studley said.

"But the pressure of this thing (losing streak) has been so terrible that they could sit back and say 'well, we took care of that.'"

Studley doesn't think that will happen.

"The ending of one thing signifies the beginning of something else," Studley said. "It could be some of the old or something that we accomplished yesterday. But based on what happened yesterday (Sunday) I think this team has more winners than losers."

The Oiler victory depended heavily on youthful performances, beginning with second year quarterback Oliver Luck, who threw two touchdown pass and led the Oilers to victory in his first pro start.

Tigers host Midland High in scrimmage

Snyder Coach Larry Scott's Tigers will scrimmage Midland High at 3 p.m. Friday in the Scurry County Coliseum.

It will be the second scrimmage for the Tigers, who worked against Lubbock Monterey last week.

Here, 7:30 tonight...

Western tests Ranger

Western Texas College's Westerners will entertain Ranger Junior College at 7:30 tonight in the Scurry County Coliseum.

The Westerners, 4-1, are coming off of consecutive wins in the Laredo Classic.

Coach Barry Davis is expected to start sophomores Larry Banks (6-5), Richie Fells (6-3), Fred Johnson (6-7) and Robert Mitchell (6-8), and freshman Billy Chambers (5-10).

Probable starters for Ranger are Jerry Thomas (5-11 soph), Larry Scott (6-5 soph), Bruce McDonald (6-3 fresh), Tim Ford (6-4 soph) and Richard Jackson (6-1 soph).

Scott and Thomas are returning starters for the squad which is 4-3 this season with wins over Tarleton State JV (2), St. Phillips and Dallas Baptist College.

Ranger is under the direction of third-year coach Larry Gibson.

The home game is sandwiched between two road classics for the Westerners, who participated in the Laredo Classic last weekend and head for the McLennan Classic in Waco this Friday.

At Waco, the Westerners will play Texas State Technical Institute (TSTI) of Waco at 6 p.m. Friday, and McLennan Community College at 8 Saturday.

Dickerson leads Rams in victory over Atlanta

ATLANTA (AP) - Eric Dickerson's first appointment with the Atlanta Falcons this year ended in disappointment, but the Los Angeles Rams rookie vowed things would be different next time.

The next time was the National Football League's Monday night television contest and Dickerson set two single-season club records. He raced for two touchdowns and ripped off 146 yards in 21 carries to pace the Rams to a 36-13 victory over the Falcons.

The game was played in a steady rain before just 31,203 fans. There were 28,253 no-shows.

Dickerson scored on runs of one and seven yards and increased his league-leading rushing total to 1,369 yards for the year. The yardage total and 19 touchdowns shattered Los Angeles single-season records.

Meanwhile, Rams' quarterback Vince Ferragamo, who sustained a cut right hand when he smashed it on a Falcon helmet during the second quarter and needed "a few" stitches after the game, threw touchdown passes of 61 yards to Preston Dennard and nine yards to George Farmer. The Rams ran their record to 7-4 to gain a share of the NFC West lead with the San Francisco 49ers.

Dennard's TD reception gave the Rams a 7-3 lead in the first quarter. Dickerson then scored his first TD in the second quarter to give Los Angeles a 14-6 halftime lead as the Falcons managed only field goals of 31 and 23 yards by Mick Luckhurst. Atlanta's only touchdowm was a fourth-period run of one yard by Gerald Riggs.

The Rams, who had 442 yards total offense to only 209 for the Falcons, broke it open in the third quarter on Dickerson's seven-yard scoring run and Ferragamo's TD pass to Farmer.

'Doc' Medich charged

PITTSBURGH (AP) - Former major league baseball pitcher George "Doc" Medich, now an orthopedic resident at a Pittsburgh hospital, was charged with improperly writing drug prescriptions, state authorities said.

State agents charged Medich with prescribing the addictive pain killer Percodan and other drugs for non-existent patients and patients who never received the drugs, said Bob Gentzel, spokesman for Attorney General LeRoy Zimmerman. The investigation began when a routine check of files at a pharmacy in Pittsburgh's Oakland section showed that Medich had picked up the drugs, Gentzel said today.

Medich, 34, of Allison Park surrendered Monday and was released on his own recogniz-ance after being arraigned before Pittsburgh Magistrate Nicholas Diulus on seven counts of improperly writing prescriptions, Gentzel said. Each count carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a fine of $5,000.

Three of the prescriptions were for a total of 121 tablets of Percodan, Gentzel said. Other prescriptions were for Flexeril, a muscle relaxant, Indocin, used to fight inflammation, and Catapres, used for high blood presssure, he said.

Medich played several seasons for the Texas Rangers and retired from the Milwaukee Brewers last year with a major league lifetime record of 124 wins and 105 losses over 11 years. He attended medical school during his sports career and twice rushed into the stands to try to revive spectators who had collapsed.

Evans inks with USFL

CHICAGO (AP) - Chicago Bears backup quarterback Vince Evans has signed a contract with the Chicago Blitz, joining the ranks of several other National Football League players who have defected to the United States Football League.

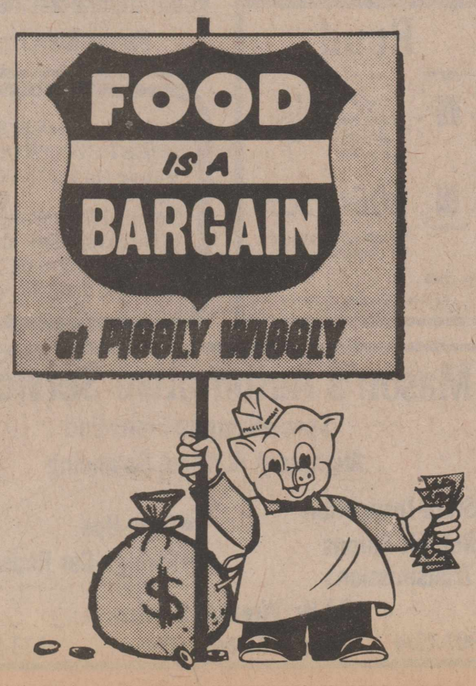

Evans said in a telephone interview Monday that he signed a four-year, guaranteed contract with the Blitz.

"One of the reasons was that I felt like I wasn't going to get an opportunity to be a starter for the Bears and the opportunity came up with the USFL," Evans said. "They were excited about me and I would have the opportunity to be a starter. That was the main thing, to use the God-given talents I have."

With the Bears, Evans worked mainly as a backup to regular starting quarterback Jim McMahon.

Evans said that under the terms of the contract, he would stay with the Bears for the remainder of the current National League Football season and join the Blitz when the USFL season begins in March.

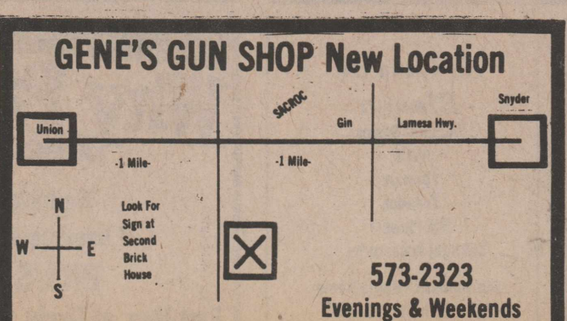

Evans declined to discuss details of the pact, other than to say the contract was for four years and that the Blitz had contacted him about joining the club.

BUSINESS AND INDUSTRIAL NEWS

Snyder Janitorial Service says dry clean carpets with Host

Snyder Janitorial Service has been in business here in Snyder for 18 years since August. Tommy Davis, owner of SJS, invites you to come by 2210 25th and let him show and tell you about all the great services his company can offer you. One of the advantages Tommy has for all you ladies and housewives is the Host Dry Extraction Carpet Cleaner. You can professionally clean your own carpets with Host.

Buying carpet is a major investment that demands special attention. This is why SJS is sold on Host because you get the special treatment you know your carpet needs. Dry carpet cleaning is a new method of deep cleaning that is easy—to—use, economical and safe. The dry cleaner is a moist, biodegradable compound made of thousands of tiny sponges impregnated with a blend of water, detergents and grease—cutting solvents.

The compound has the precise amount of moisture built in to remove the dirt. There is no danger of shrinking the carpet, no mildew problem and no waiting for it to dry. Another plus of dry cleaning is that unlike steam cleaning, in which the entire carpet must be wet, select areas of carpet that become soiled quickly (stairs, hallways and doorways) can be cleaned without causing disruption or inconvenience in the remainder of the house.

The lightweight dry cleaning machine is available for rental at SJS. For tough stains, such as coffee, blood or ground—in dirt, a pre—clean agent is recommended prior to the use of any dry cleaner. For more information on the Host Dry Carpet Cleaner, see Tommy at SJS or give them a call at 573-3576 and they will be glad to answer any of your questions. SJS is open five days a week to serve you and closed on Saturdays.

DRY CLEAN YOUR CARPET WITH HOST, a dry cleaning method available at SJS. Tommy Davis at SJS will give you all the information you might need on dry cleaning your carpet along with any of the other services and products he has to offer.

Computerized Bookkeeping might be the answer for you

Are you a farmer, rancher, or small independent business owner? Then there's a new business in town that is just what Snyder has been waiting for.

Computerized Bookkeeping Service, owned and operated by Joyce Kincheloe, provides full data processing services for small and medium-sized businesses. Joyce can set-up bookkeeping for your business and keep it on a business computer to make your business run more efficiently.

General Ledger Bookkeeping is a must for a small business. The ledger can be set on computer and save time and errors by doing so. Any part or all of the general ledger may be set, including profit and loss statements, balance sheets and cash income and disbursment listings.

Do you get tired of handwriting payroll checks? Let Joyce do your payroll, W-2 Forms and Quarterly Report forms. Of course, you still have to sign the checks.

Joyce can also handle accounts receivable billings including monthly statements to customers, aged trial balance, and sales history set-up by customer. She can print mailing labels for billings or business correspondence, and form letters can be addressed personally for anyone.

With nine years of bookkeeping experience in varied businesses, Joyce is qualified and prepared to handle most any bookkeeping needs for small businesses. And all work is kept strictly confidential.

Why invest in a computer and have to train the personnel to set up your books, operate the computer and pay for the upkeep, if all you need for your business are a few business transactions done? Joyce Kincheloe at Computerized Bookkeeping Service is at your service at an affordable price. Services are billed based on an hourly charge for computer time, with free pick up and delivery in and around the Snyder area.

If you are in the market for a computer for your business, or just need a few form letters sent with individual names on them, contact Joyce Kincheloe at 573-0683 or 201 Hickory Street, before you go buy a computer or pay dearly for having the work done.

JOYCE KINCHELOE AT COMPUTERIZED BOOKKEEPING SERVICE is ready to help the small business people of Snyder and the surrounding area with affordable prices for full data processing services and free pick-up and delivery of materials. Whether your needs are mailing labels or full bookkeeping service for your business, check with Joyce before you pay too much somewhere else. (SDN Staff Photo)
