Exposure of Large Narcotics Ring Claimed Here Two Texas Convicts Are Killed in Attempt to Escape

Prison Guards Are Attacked By Prisoners

Two Other Convicts and Pen Official Wounded in Break for Liberty While Returning from Wood Cutting Camp

Guards Threatened

Wheeler McCulley and Tony Corona Shot Down and Tom Shook, Jimmy Talley Are Injured; Fight Is Staged

HUNTSVILLE, Nov. 26. — Two convicts were killed and two others wounded late today as they attempted to overpower guards and escape as they were returning to the state penitentiary here from a wood cutting camp near here. The two men killed were Wheeler McCulley, 36, from Tarrant county, and Tony Corona, 30, of Houston.

Tom Shook, former police chief at El Paso, who is serving a 25-year sentence for murder, was seriously wounded in the stomach and Jimmy Talley, 30, from Wilbarger county, also was wounded. F. O. Ross, a guard, was slightly wounded in the leg.

A gang of 27 convicts had been cutting wood during the day at a camp about 10 miles west of Huntsville and were returning to the prison on a truck when the truck was still about a mile from Huntsville, Corona suddenly jumped on Ross, who was riding on a fender, and McCulley attacked Leonard Osburn, guard who was riding on the other fender.

The four men fell to the ground and a trusty who was driving, stopped the truck. McCulley and Corona had knives.

Talley jumped from the truck and joined McCulley in attacking Osburn. Shook aided Corona in attacking Ross.

Corona had disarmed Ross and left Shook to guard him, while he went to McCulley's assistance in the fight with Osburn. Using Osburn as a shield, he led in front of them, the two men had started backing away from the truck when Bud Barnes, a guard, who was following the truck in another car, drove up.

Legal Battle For Brady Is Staged

AUSTIN, Nov. 26. (P)—A few blocks from the scene of the fatal stabbing of Miss Leblita Highsmith which occurred a year ago this month a legal battle was staged today in an attempt to save John W. Brady, former civil appeals court justice, from serving three years in prison for her slaying.

The scene was before the state court of criminal appeals, to which Brady's attorneys have appealed in the hope of setting aside the finding of a Dallas county jury that Brady was guilty of murder without malice.

Representing the former jurist was Maury Hughes of Dallas, who for thirty minutes recounted alleged reversible errors in the trial court record. William McCraw, district attorney of Dallas county, needed barely ten minutes to present his answer.

RESISTING efforts of an officer to search him, Charley King, Negro, was shot twice early Wednesday night during a fight in the 1400 block of Avenue M. A charge of illegal transportation of liquor was filed against King.

The attending physician at Lubbock sanitarium, to which King was taken after the shooting, reported that the negro's injuries probably would not prove serious. On bullet entered the right hip and came out near the right groin and the other went through the left thigh.

Chief Deputy Sheriff O. B. Conley, the officer who shot King, said that when he stopped the negro, King resisted and a fight followed. King resisted and a fight followed.

Death Toll in Earthquake Is At Least 250

(By Associated Press)

TOKYO, Nov. 26. — A terrific earthquake shook the Izu peninsula near here early today, causing 250 known deaths and injuring 1,000 or more persons. So far as known, no foreigners were killed or injured.

For 20 minutes the "earth demon" shook the beautiful region, playground of Japan, 1,000 destroyed or partly demolished houses crashing upon sleeping occupants.

Fires burst forth from the earth cracked open, land slid from the mountains and water loosed by broken reservoirs added to the havoc and confusion.

Warned, however, by 16 days of preliminary tremors, most people had extinguished fires in their homes before sleeping and therefore escaped a conflagration such as that which, adding its horror to the earthquake of 1923, destroyed 10,000 buildings in Tokyo and killed approximately 120,000 persons.

Over partly restored communications, reports were received tonight which lengthened the list of casualties and told a story of devastation.

Fearing further shocks, 30,000 persons camped in what shelter they could find, grateful for food, supplies and medical aid hastily provided by the army and red cross volunteers from nearby cities.

Lighting of Huge Bonfire Climaxes Tech's Homecoming Eve Celebration

HOMECOMING eve at Texas Technological college was marked by a pep rally and lighting of a huge bonfire on the campus in preparation for the Matador-Stimmons university cowboy gridiron tussle this afternoon.

Returning alumni and other former students gathered on the campus with students and townspeople to view the tall blaze for which fuel was gathered by freshmen supervised by upperclassmen, and to hear speakers representing past and present student bodies.

There was morale-building music by the Technological college band and pep maneuvers of various kinds. The huge bonfire, a part of the annual pre-Thanksgiving rally, illuminated

Suggest Country Willing to Give Up Income Tax Slash to Permit Use of Money in Giving Work to Jobless

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. — A three way drive in congress toward the solution of the unemployment problem took shape on Thanksgiving eve in proposals to further restrict immigration, increase federal highway aid and to provide means for expediting the government's building program.

The suggestion the country was willing to give up the one per cent income tax reduction this year to permit the government to use the money in giving jobs on its works was made by Chairman Hawley of the house ways and means committee. His committee originates all revenue raising legislation.

World Ban Aliens

At the same time, Chairman Johnson of the house immigration committee, proposed permanent immigration restriction legislation and predicted the United States would never "again permit the arrival of immigrants who would interfere with economic conditions."

A plan to allow the federal government to match dollar for dollar all the funds spent before next July 1, by states for road construction was drafted by Chairman Dornan of the house committee with a view to early action at the December session.

Dornan said the federal government could lend its greatest indirect relief of unemployment through the road program.

Another relief measure—that of Representative Atwell, Democrat, Louisiana, to prove a $60,000,000 seed and fertilizer loan fund for drought stricken farmers—is to be considered by the house agriculture committee next week.

No Developments In Molina Probe

No developments were reported by city and county officers Wednesday night in the investigation of the death of A. L. Molina, 54, Lubbock Mexican, who died of injuries received in an attack upon him here.

Three Mexicans in the county jail are suspects in the case. Two are held on charges of theft. Sheriff Wade Hardy said that questioning of the latter two had been delayed because of need for an interpreter.

The suspects held on theft charges say that they can not speak English, the sheriff reported.

Molina, who died last Friday night in a hospital at El Paso, was said by officers to have named before his death the two men whom he believed responsible for the attack. Molina's life was said by Sheriff Hardy to have been threatened by two Mexicans as a result of Molina's services as an interpreter.

Former Agents Of Government Are Convicted

Bank Robbery Frustrated as Two Men Shot

W. R. Logsdon and J. G. Tyson Found Guilty of Accepting Bribe and Conspiracy While Prohibition Officers

WICHITA FALLS, Nov. 26.—William R. Logsdon and J. G. Tyson, former federal prohibition agents, were found guilty of accepting a bribe and conspiring to defeat justice by a jury in federal district court here this afternoon. Judge William Hawley Atwell had not pronounced the sentence.

Approximately eight hours was required by the jury to find its verdict in a case which required all of Tuesday for trial. The two defendants were charged with having accepted $500 from Pleasant R. Hill here in 1927 in exchange for effecting cancellation of a thirty day jail sentence imposed upon Hill by Federal Judge James C. Wilson at Abilene in September, 1917, on a liquor charge. Delivery to Hill of a spurious release order showing the purported signature of Judge Wilson also was charged by the government to Logsdon and Tyson.

Each co-defendant represented by separate counsel, and they gave conflicting stories in their testimony relative to the disposition of the alleged bribe. Hill testified that he paid Tyson $500 to get the sentence removed, and Judge Wilson denied knowledge of Hill's failure to serve the term until recently.

He also denied having served any kind of order for Hill's release.

Bank Robbery Frustrated as Two Men Shot

EL RENO, Okla., Nov. 26.—The second successive bank robbery attempt in Oklahoma in the last two weeks went awry today. The robber and a customer were wounded critically in an exchange of bullets.

George Lovett, 33, was shot through the chest in attempting to escape from the First National bank after J. M. Burge, assistant cashier, fired on him. Dee Polart, assistant coach at El Reno High school, was struck in the chest by one of three bullets fired by Lovett.

In Same Hospital

Both men were taken to the same hospital. It was believed Polart's condition was more serious.

Jimmy Jackson, Indian, was killed two weeks ago after the robbery of the Marland State bank at Marland and his companion, Carter Camp, was wounded and captured.

Lovett told officers this was his first robbery attempt. He said he had no accomplice and no automobile in which to escape, intending to commandeer a car after he left the bank. He said he formerly lived at Chickasha and returning yesterday to rob a bank at Union City, Okla., but changed his mind and decided on the El Reno bank.

Three Men Are Under Arrest At Plainview

Officers Claim Illicit Drugs Furnished Lubbock, Midland, Plainview, Amarillo, Hale Center, Floydada

Ringleader Caught

Abilene Said Headquarters for Operations of "Dope" Ring; $2,500 in Morphine Uncovered by Officers

ABILENE, Nov. 26. — Authorities here Wednesday night were confident that the largest narcotics ring operating between Abilene and Amarillo had been broken with the arrest of three men at Plainview and subsequent uncovering of morphine having a bootleg value of about $2,500.

Charges of illegal possession and transportation of narcotics were filed late here Wednesday night before United States Commissioner Victor H. Lindsey against J. A. Hicks, alias "Nig" Hix, of Abilene, alleged ringleader of the organization.

Hicks was charged with violation of the Harrison anti-narcotics law and the James-Miller law by a federal narcotics agent.

Abilene Headquarters

Using Abilene as headquarters, the ring had supplied illicit drugs for Lubbock, Midland, Plainview, Amarillo, Abilene, Hale Center, Floydada, Amberst and other points in the section, the narcotics agent said.

Hicks and two accomplices were arrested November 17 by Plainview police who found allegedly stolen morphine in their possession. The trio was charged with petty larceny.

Lubbock and Plainview police and the Lubbock county sheriff's department aided in breaking up of the trafficking in narcotics. Sheriff Wade Hardy indicated Wednesday night that an unusually large amount of "dope" had entered Lubbock during the last several months.

Morphine Found

Investigation led officers to Plainview where in the postoffice Monday night they found packages containing morphine. The return address on the parcels was that of an Abilene residence. Wednesday at that address, officers found more morphine beneath a floor.

Hicks' wife, the mother of three small children, was not arrested. Officers described her as "a tool of her husband."

A principal method of distribution used by the alleged drug ring was to mail morphine to dealers in towns of the section, officers said. Two men whom Hicks carried with him were drug addicts and aided their chieftain in finding and "selling" the morphine.

Mexican Bandits Sought In Murder

EL PASO, Nov. 26. (P)—Soldiers from the Juarez garrison and Mexican fiscal guards were patrolling the Rio Grande tonight searching for four Mexican bandits who crossed the river at noon today and killed Ramon Barajas, cotton farmer, in the presence of his family, then robbed him of $1,500 in gold.

Likewise, El Paso county deputy sheriff, more than 30 of whom were hastily sworn in as peace officers shortly after the murder, and border patrolmen, were watching the border closely to prevent the bandits from re-entering the United States.

Barajas was shot at his home, two miles southeast of San Elizario, a valley settlement 30 miles east of El Paso, when he protested against the attempt to rob him. He was shot through the body by a former employe and at the same time, was struck a blow on the head by another bandit.

Announcement Made of September Marriage of J. O. 'Buddy' Brothers

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCH E. BEAN
Avalanche Woman's Editor

SINCE this is Thanksgiving morning, it is fitting that this column shall carry an introductory statement making note of the occasion.

As newspaper reporters, we probably wouldn't know it were Thanksgiving, of course, if we didn't get to carry a lot of personals about people going places. Our grand holiday comes on Christmas when we get half a day, but on Thanksgiving it is just the same thing, except that we come down an hour early so we can spend an extra hour eating our turkey and dressing.

That last was a subtle statement by which all the customers are supposed to infer that I'm going to get the turkey to eat.

IT'S WORTH A VISIT

THIS afternoon I went out and visited the Mexican school, which is built on a little rocky knoll north of the railroad tracks and has Mrs. George Duval for a principal. This was my first visit to the school since the new building was erected out there and the trip was worth all of the time it took to get out into the Mexican colony and find the road leading to the school.

Some things about the little Mexican children particularly impressed me. For one thing, those in the lower grades had not adopted short hair in every instance by any means. Two little six or eight-year-old girls had shiny ropes of hair braided and hanging down their backs and it was as pretty as any hair I have ever seen. Nearly every Mexican child has heavy hair and it is usually a gleaming black.

There is a beautiful girl out there Mrs. Duval told me she is Indian. I could well believe that for she has the type of face that artists use—large clear eyes, perfect olive skin and beautifully spaced features. I didn't see the beautiful hair and complexion among the older girls. They have cut their hair and it is stiff to touch into the curls they desire, so that the result is anything except beautiful. The older girls had spotted their naturally olive skins with cosmetics in shades which do not blend with their coloring.

The Mexican school is a bright-eyed school and the younger children were particularly intriguing to me in their native efforts to understand and speak English and in their loyalty to their teacher.

THE NEW SLEEVES

THE more important sleeves, characteristic of our current styles, play more than one role in the architectural scheme of the costume, according to a style notice I saw the other day. Trended at the top, they make the waist look smaller; widening the shoulders; puffed above the wrists they lend a fragile grace to the hands by making them appear more slender; puffed at the elbows they supply curves to angular arms.

THIS REMINDS ME—

PERHAPS I look bloodthirsty this afternoon. A. B. Mason came by and after talking to me for a while was reminded of an experience of his early days in Texas, back in the Eighties. It concerned a man who killed a couple of other men on a ranch and then, with fifteen minutes start, evaded his pursuers and was never apprehended.

The early days in any country see a lot of unexplained killings because men can disappear into the wide open spaces. They don't follow beaten paths and aren't bound by the barriers that civilization brings. This section had its quota of unexplained deaths in the latter part of the Nineteenth Century.

LET US BE THANKFUL

RETURNING to the fact that this is Thanksgiving Day—the one day in all the year which we as a nation set aside in which to be thankful for whatever blessings we have received—it is well for us to spend some time in retrospection and reflection concerning the things we do have. You may think that everything in the world is wrong and that nothing is coming your way, but a little ungrateful thought is likely to prove that there are a lot of good things left.

Elise Janis wrote a verse one time which expressed this thought for me. In this, she was glad for the things she was not—a bird in a cage, a fish in a bowl, a pig in a pen, a fox in a hole, a bear in a pit, a wolf in a trap—She listed many of them and then concluded with "When I think of the hundreds of things I might be, I get down on my knees and thank God that I'm me. Then my blues disappear, when I think what I've got, and quite soon I've forgotten the things I have not."

Nuptials, Which Were Read in Clovis in September, Are Announced at Party in Abilene

Announcement of the marriage of Miss Mary Elva Burns, of Abilene, and John Orville "Buddy" Brothers, of this city, on September 6 has come as a surprise to friends of the couple here. The announcement was made Tuesday afternoon at a party given in Abilene by two friends of the bride, Misses Elaine Holt and Pauline Peyton.

Rumors that the couple would marry on Thanksgiving after the Tech-Simmons football game have been prevalent during the week, and friends of the young woman in Abilene believed that the wedding was slated for the same day until the announcement was made.

Married in Clovis

The marriage took place in Clovis, New Mexico, on September 6 with the Rev. Lux, Presbyterian minister of that place, officiating in his home, according to the announcement. It was kept secret from friends and relatives. Mr. Brothers expects to continue with his school work here, he said yesterday, as he is a senior in the institution.

Mr. Brothers, who has been residing with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Burns, in Abilene, expects to attend the football game here today and to remain in Lubbock to make her home. She was a student in Texas Technological college during the term of 1928-29 and previous to that time she had spent a year in Simmons University. During last year, she was a student in Washington University at Washington, D. C.

In Football Star

The groom is a halfback on the Tech college football team and has been a star player since his high school days here. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Brothers at 2122 Main street.

Twenty friends of the bride played bridge at the party given in her honor Tuesday afternoon in Abilene and sixteen more called during the tea hour. Guests were asked to bring gifts for the "bride-elect" and the nuptial announcement came as a surprise during the latter part of the party.

Every Woman Is Natural Actress Says Famous Man

One and the same model, dressed in different costumes, successfully assumed the role first of modern Madonna (left) and then Scherezade, posing for these two well-known paintings by C. Bosserson Chambers.

BY JULIA BLANSHARD

NEA Service Writer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—Saint or sinner? Madonna or siren? Every woman can become either—for the time being—according to C. Bosserson Chambers, noted portrait painter and America's best known authority on religious paintings.

"Every woman is a potential actress," he maintains. "She can be a high lady, a street girl, a madonna or a witch by the mere adjustment of a shawl, the addition of a piece of veiling or a jewel, perhaps."

Women instinctively dramatize their surroundings and become, at will, the heroines of romances and tragedies that are pure figments of the imagination.

Mr. Chambers cited the painting of an Oriental siren that lured out with her very tranquility. Linguist of eye, this Eastern beauty gazed with Oriental immobility from her full red lips, her hair bared over her shoulder, her folded hands.

"I could take any quiet little hombody, give her a headdress like that and a gilded robe to match and she would unconsciously imitate some of the spirit of the country that that costume represents. Party dress balls prove my point for me. Haven't you noticed how women love to change their personalities at a masquerade?"

"Chance To Be 'Different.'"

"A woman who spends her days tending the babies and doing the housework, usually selects some exotic and slightly wicked costume for the occasion and has a perfectly wonderful time being whatever 'the costume signifies. The seductive, alluring woman, on the other hand, often becomes the demure Quaker girl and the independent, modern girl revels in becoming the hoop-skirted lady of yesterday."

Because of this chameleon quality in women, C. Bosserson Chambers has never found it necessary to spend days hunting just the right model. One girl, the time fashion can be a dozen characters, as he has proved by using the same model for his two very diverse pictures "Madonna and Child" and the wicked "Scherezade" the immortal was once who saved her neck by keeping her suit amused (for 1001 nights with the Arabian Nights Tales).

An American girl taught C. Bosserson Chambers that every woman is an actress. He had succeeded in getting one or two very good pictures of this girl who had excellent features but was seemingly the most unimaginative of creatures.

"One morning I decided to paint a madonna," he recalled the time. "The model, with her unexpressed eyes and languorous slouch, was all wrong. Fully expecting failure, I handed her the virginal vestments to wear while I prepared my easel and brushes. When I looked up, she was seated in the model's chair, with a positively soulful peace in her formerly restive eyes. The change startled me so I asked her if she was, by any chance, of a religious turn of mind. She responded in the negative, but said she had always had a secret desire to wear clothes like those just to see how she felt."

Men, according to this painter, have so much histrionic ability. Dress the ordinary man in a medieval knight's costume and he feels like a fool—and acts it. Even a professional actor when posing for a picture is apt to overdo the business of acting the part. Clothes, according to him, do not make the man, but they certainly do make over the woman.

Park Work on West Side Is Planned Here

Plans Announced to Improve and Develop McCrummen Park Near New High School; to Lay Water Mains

Announcing plans for improvement and development of McCrummen park, C. H. Mahoney, chairman of the city park board, Wednesday said that grading work, laying of water mains and installation of lights throughout the park would be started this week.

Plans for improvement of the park, which is near the new senior high school building, were announced by Mr. Mahoney following a meeting of the city park board at city hall Tuesday night.

To Be Spanish

McCrummen park will be transformed into one of Spanish style and many novel innovations are expected to be established on the park. Fronting on 19th street, red brick walks will be laid to center of the block where a Spanish fountain will be constructed. The fountain will be made of colored tile as will a large Spanish well head. Ornamental lighting effects are to be played upon the water which will gush from the fountain continuously while white way standards will be installed throughout the park.

Plans at this time call for the building of an evergreen park, one in which trees and shrubs will remain green and fresh the year around.

Bill Posters Get Warnings

Ordinance Control of Promiscuous Advertising Practices May Be Instituted by Lubbock City Commission

Ordinance control of promiscuous advertising practices, including labeling of automobiles and painting of side walks and streets, will be instituted unless persons responsible cooperate in eliminating the nuisance, the city commission announced Wednesday.

Editorial stand of the two Lubbock newspapers in pointing out and opposing the advertising methods was commended by the commission.

Special reference was made to the flooding of automobiles with handbills, the painting of sidewalks and streets with signs by theatre operators and others and the piling of rubbish in alleys by store owners.

City officers pointed out that there is an ordinance prohibiting the letter practice and also one regarding the first named. No specific ordinance is in effect on painting of signs but officials stated that this would be handled under the encroachment on public property law. It was indicated today that police action would be taken unless the practice is abolished in all cases.

Five-Day Week New Objective

Railway Brotherhoods Stage Campaign to Relieve Unemployment Conditions in U. S. by Work Program

CHICAGO, Nov. 26. (AP)—The five day week for railway shopcrafts was added to the six-hour day program of the brotherhoods today in the movement to relieve unemployment in rail transportation through shortening hours of labor.

The six shopcrafts unions, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, in adopting a program for the five-day week with no reduction in pay announced they had no agreement, however, with the five brotherhoods, embracing operating personnel, who last week took initial steps toward a six-hour day for their members without pay reductions.

The two organizations represent a majority of the 21 railroad workers' unions of the country. Railroads have dropped 210,000 of their members since 1923, a shopcrafts official said.

B. M. Jewel, president of the shopcrafts in a statement last night, said that the five-day week proposal would be submitted directly to the railroad executives. If no action was obtained, Jewel added, the proposal would go through arbitration prescribed by federal statute.

Thanksgiving, Then And Now

SOME 300 years ago a few strong men in England said: "Let us cross the wide Atlantic. Let us go far, very far, away from England and risk life in a new land. Let us then find a way to worship God after the dictates of our consciences and tolerate no more the interference of men in this old homeland that is no longer home-like."

And they did even as they said they would do. Familiar faces and long loved scenes were behind, as this little company of men and women ventured forth into uncertain dangers and unpeopled hardships. Finally they set their feet upon a rock and with iron resolution went about the shaping of a new order of society. They had come neither for gold nor conquest, but to build homes and live in peace with God and man. So a day faintly dawned when they feasted well and felt the thrill of that first flush of success. The Indians looked on, and some came to partake of the feast. The feast ended. The new world grew apace.

Today the feast of Thanksgiving comes around again. But life is not so simple. Not only the Indian, but the Asiatic and the European and all the world have come to look on. For Thanksgiving is a truly American custom. No other people under the sun has anything quite like it.

The New World will always be the Old World simply grown up. We cannot get away and forget it any more than a man can get away from, and forget, his old home. It is good to be thankful for one's independence and security. It is also good to face one's tasks patiently, strongly, with justice, and without antagonism. Life is to be lived carefully, and the responsibilities of the Old World are America's. The first Thanksgivings were venturers for the common good.

The spirit of venture is not dead in their descendants. A few years ago they dared the deadly submarine to carry their doctrine of liberty and opportunity to the very mouths of the cannon of the German hosts. A little later they dared the deadly typhus and bearded the bolshevik in his lair to carry our grain to the starving hosts of starving Europe. Let us as we sit down to our feasting give thought to the spirit of that first Thanksgiving, and resolve to carry it abroad to our less fortunate neighbors in Europe, in the form of gifts of food and clothing that they may know that the soul of the Pilgrim Fathers still lives in America.

Some women are generous, however, and don't think their money is being frittered away when friend husband gives a nickel of his wages to his aged parents.

A genius is one who won't do bum work to rush a second book or picture on the market while suckers are jumping for the hook.

Perhaps the reason newspaper reporters never strike is because there wouldn't be any sympathetic strikes.

We view with alarm the great increase in alarm clock production.

Practical Health Problems

INFANTS REQUIRE MORE FOOD IN PROPORTION THAN ADULTS

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

When the food passes into the stomach it is digested. The digestive function varies with different infants, and there are certain distinctive features of the digestion of the infant in general as contrasted with that of the grown-up.

If a grown-up took as much cow's milk in proportion to his weight as does the normal infant, he would be drinking from eight to ten quarts of milk a day, and he would eat from one-half to two pounds of sugar. Because the infant is growing rapidly it requires larger amounts of food in proportion to his weight than does the adult, the digestive function is constantly at its top speed.

The digestive function is sensitive and may be particularly affected by infection, fever, hot weather or pain. Under such circumstances, the digestive capacity may be greatly lowered, and the large amount of food required for the development of the infant will not be available.

Whereas the grown-up takes the saliva to help digest starches, the infant does not require salivary digestion. Only after it begins to receive toast, crackers or cereals does it require particularly the salivary digestive functions.

In the stomach the glands provide hydro-chloric acid and the pepsin-ferment. The acid secreted by the stomach of the child is much less than that of the grown-up and it is gradually increased as the child grows older. As has been established by research in the laboratories of physiology, the secretion from the stomach is affected by many factors. It is greatly decreased when there is infection with fever, when there is hot weather excessive excitement, or pain.

An undernourished infant has less secretion than one that is fully developed. Foods that are especially rich in protein increase the amount of gastric secretion. Beef extract has this property. If the child is hungry, the secretion is likely to be more at the time of feeding than if there is no hunger.

During infancy the acid of the stomach is enough to prevent the growth of most of the germs that might get into the stomach. It also regulates the movement of the material from the stomach into the intestines and it enables the pepsin that is present to have some action on the food. Protein digestion during infancy is incomplete in the stomach and goes on in the intestines.

Seek To Entertain Farmer

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—When Dr. Charles J. Galpin of the agriculture department urges better co-operation among farmers, he means social co-operation.

Usually it is co-operative marketing that agricultural economists talk about. Dr. Galpin indorses that, too.

However, his particular job is to help the farmer and his family to lead the broadest, fullest—yes, and pleasantest—possible lives.

In fact, the division of farm population and rural life is the doctor's special niche in the department of agriculture.

THE TASK of the farm population and rural life division is the shaping of country living conditions—making the country, in its way, as desirable a place to inhabit as the big cities.

Some critics argue that Dr. Galpin's plan of accomplishing this end, if adopted by farmers generally, will spell the finish of country life altogether.

The doctor answers that they misunderstand him. Their theory is that he wants farmers to move in from their farms and huddle in settlements, with their wives and children, for the sake of community advantages.

"No such thing," says the doctor. "I do want community advantages for farm folk, but without the abandonment of a single farm house."

"A COMMUNITY," continued the veteran economist, "needs adequate numbers to afford worth while advantages, but it no longer needs to be packed into small compass."

"In the old days it did. The rural community of two or three decades ago was limited as to area, by poor roads and primitive means of transportation. Then 100 families were as many, maybe, as could reach a common center."

"In our new era of concrete highways and automobiles, 10 or 20 or 30 times 100 families can reach the same center in far less time than the original 100 required for the trip in horse-drawn wagons, sometimes wallowing through almost bottomless mud for weeks to get there."

"NOW 100 FAMILIES," went on the doctor, "represent a total population of about 500 and a population of that size, unless it is a very wealthy one, cannot pool sufficient resources to maintain a good school, not to mention other community conveniences."

"But 1,000 families imply a total of 5,000 people or thereabouts, and 5,000 people, even in moderate circumstances, can support an excellent school—indeed, a high school—and library and a number of additional conveniences of modern life. There are enough of them to provide electric lighting and power, and the district they inhabit—and fire and police protection—perhaps a water system."

"And, with its automobile, the most remote of these 1,000 families is no farther removed, in point of time, from its community hub, than the average city man requires to get from his house to his place of business in the morning."

"THE OBSTACLE in the way of effecting so desirable a readjustment," said the doctor, "lies in the fact that practically the whole United States was divided up into taxation units on a township basis, under old-fashioned mud road conditions."

"It is mighty hard to get away from any outworn idea, but it is mighty hard to get away from any outworn idea."

"A degree of progress has been made toward the consolidation of school districts. Otherwise we continue to think in townships, except in one state—North Carolina, where they are beginning to see the light, and are beginning to reorganize rural communities, by petition, to regroup themselves according to their actual needs and convenience."

"The sooner the township passes into oblivion the better it will be for the farmer. Presently the county will follow it. That also has lost its usefulness in the present generation."

HOW ABOUT our really "vast open spaces"—of which we still have some? They involve distances that would bustle even a racing auto to get the children into town in time to greet the school bell in the morning.

"Oh, the Great American Desert can wait awhile," agreed the doctor.

And the densely settled districts around our big cities—half rural, half urban?

"They present a problem all right," said Dr. Galpin, "but it's a suburban problem; it isn't agricultural. Consequently it isn't up to me to find the answer to it, and I'm glad of it, for it's rather difficult."

ILL-ADVISED CURTAILMENT
As an unemployment relief measure, President Hoover is said to have ordered abandonment of the postoffice department's program of rural route consolidation and general personal reduction.

Under this program the department has greatly reduced its working force, both through consolidation of the rural delivery routes and the non-replacement of clerks and carriers removed by retirement or death. The reduction of force has been of noticeable proportions.

In this the department has acted in direct opposition to the efforts of the executive to create employment. This, certainly, is not the best year for tampering with a payroll running into the hundreds of millions annually.

Postmaster General Brown would have been commended for his effective efforts at economic administration of postal affairs had he chosen a more propitious time for them. And he would have received even higher praise had he started at the top instead of at the bottom by putting figure-head postmasters to work producing something. Not all postmasters earn their salaries.

Let the postmaster general defer his force-reduction and first-class-mail-rate increase until business recovers, when an energetic prosecution of the former may make the latter unnecessary. Whatever business conditions, he will find it easier to cut his work-in-force than boosting the letter rate.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE TURKEY IS MISNAMED—The "Turkey" which is a native of the New World, has been misnamed in our tongue. The bird was unknown in Turkey until it was imported there from the New World. It is known in Turkey as the American Bird, and every country (except England) in naming it, took its true country of origin into account. Reference: Encyclopaedia Britannica.

MALE SEAL DOES NOT EAT OR DRING FOR 4 MONTHS—The male fur seal reaches his breeding grounds (boulder-strewn beaches known as "rookeries") about May 1. From then on until the end of August, when he withdraws to feed and to rest, he stays out of the water, and abstains completely from eating and drinking.

THE FLORENTINE DIAMOND—The priceless diamond known as the "Florentine" or the "Tuscan," originally belonged to Duke Charles the Bold of Burgundy, who lost it at the battle of Morat in 1476. A peasant, hesitantly recovered it from the mud into which it had sunk, and sold it to Bartholomew May of Berne Switzerland, for the equivalent of $215. The stone is at present in the Imperial Treasury at Vienna, and the story is contained in the "Catalogue of the Imperial Treasury."

J. E. HARGREAVES MADE 236 BUSINESS TRIPS ACROSS THE ATLANTIC—J. E. Hargreaves, a wool stock broker of London, England, sailed from New York on April 18th, 1923, returning from his 163rd return trip to this country. The story is continued in the New York Times of April 19th, 1923.

TOMORROW: "THE HUNGER ROCK."

Heart Hungry

by LAURA LOU BROOKMAN
AUTHOR OF "RASH ROMANCE" © 1930 by NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
CELIA MITCHELL, 17, leaves Baltimore where she has lived with her seamstress mother, MARGARET ROGERS, to join her wealthy father, JOHN MITCHELL, in New York. The parents are divorced and Mrs. Rogers is a widow following a second marriage.

BARNY SHIELDS, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl. MITCHELL asks EVELYN PARSONS, beautiful model, to introduce his daughter to other young people. Mrs. Parsons agrees, considering Celia a means to win Mitchell's affection. She soon becomes jealous of the girl and schemes to get rid of her by encouraging a romance between Celia and TOD JORDAN, fascinating but of dubious character.

Although Mitchell forbids Celia to see Jordan she goes about with the young man frequently. LEST DUNCAN, a girl of Celia's age, becomes her loyal friend. Shields comes to New York to work for a photographic service and meets Celia. She tells him she has lost her heart to Jordan.

Realization that it is really Shields she loves comes to Celia when the young man is imprisoned in a burning building. He escapes unhurt except for a broken arm. Mrs. Parsons, who pretends to be friendly to Shields, goes to Mitchell and tells him Celia is meeting the young man surreptitiously. That afternoon Celia and Shields are strolling together when Mitchell appears.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLVI
Neither Celia or Barny noticed the man until he was directly in front of them, scarcely 10 yards away. The boy and girl walked slowly. Barny was speaking and Celia raised eager eyes to his.

Suddenly she saw her father. John Mitchell was striding toward them briskly. The girl stopped, uttered a low cry.

"It's father!" she exclaimed. Barny Shields looked at her, puzzled. Before he could speak Mitchell had reached them, John Mitchell's face was a mask for his emotions, coldly formal, but there was a glint in his eyes which startled the girl. She had seen it once before.

"Why, father?" Celia began, "what a surprise to meet you here!" Mitchell halted. "And a surprise to meet you, too," he said evenly. "Won't you introduce me to your friend, Celia?"

"Of course! Father, this is Mr. Shields. Mr. Shields, my father." Her fluttering laugh added to instead of decreasing her appearance of embarrassment. "I was just wishing I had company for my walk when I met Mr. Shields. Wasn't that fortunate?"

"Very. How do you do," Mitchell said curtly, offering his hand. Barny took it eagerly.

"I'm certainly glad to meet you, Mr. Mitchell," Celia's told me a lot about you."

"Really? Have you—known my daughter long?"

"Oh, yes," Celia spoke up. "I knew Barny before I came to New York. He's a photographer, father. Makes pictures for newspapers. He goes to the most exciting places!"

"Newspapers?" Mitchell glanced at the young man quickly. "Interesting, indeed. Celia, I must ask Mr. Shields to excuse you if you don't mind. I have some things I wish to talk over with you. Matters of importance. You'll pardon me, Mr. Shields?"

It was done swiftly, but there was unquestioned finality in the way she had just happened to meet."

Both of the young people showed surprise. Hot color came into Celia's cheeks. Shields stepped for an instant, then he steeled back.

"Why—why, certainly," he said. Celia's eyes followed him. A flash of resentment overcame confusion and she whirled toward her father.

"Why did you do that?" she demanded. "Why did you send him away? It sounded as though you were deliberately trying to get rid of Barny."

"Bue he's my friend and I won't see him humiliated. He's here today because I particularly asked him to!"

"Oh? I thought you said you two just happened to meet!"

She saw that she had done and colored more deeply. Celia was angry and Mitchell taking exactly the wrong tactic, prodded her. His eyes were fixed on her.

Highway Work Is Under Way

Grading and Drainage Work on Highway No. 9 Progressing; May Be Opened to Traffic Late in December

Grading and drainage work on state highway No. 9, both north and south of Lubbock, is progressing satisfactorily and, unless unexpected weather conditions arise, the two joints of the highway will be opened to traffic in late December, according to Guy R. Johnston, construction engineer of the state highway department.

Most of the heavy work on the road has been finished, Mr. Johnston said. The road may be opened by Christmas, he indicated.

Grading is rushed
W. S. Thomson, of San Angelo, who has the contract between Lubbock and Abernathy, has received some heavy machinery and is rushing the grading. The machinery has replaced mule power.

Mr. Thomson is working north of Monroe. He will complete the sector in a couple of weeks. Nothing has been done so far on the construction of the underpass two miles south of Moore, underneath the Santa Fe tracks. The state has not announced its plans on this job.

Field Brothers and McColvey, who have the contract for the grading south, have completed all of the grading work except that around the drainage structures and culverts.

"Culvert work is nearly 75 percent completed," Engineer Johnston said. "We did not pour concrete Monday it was too cold, but we will pour the rest unless it turns cold again."

As soon as the concrete work is finished the contractor will back

DELAY CONSTRUCTION Funds for Aspermont School Not Yet Received

Delay in receiving an advance from the state, purchasers of the bonds, is holding up starting construction of the new Aspermont high school S. B. Haynes, architect, says.

H. H. Shadle, Aspermont contractor, has the contract for building the structure and is all ready, awaiting word from the state.

"As soon as Aspermont gets into its new building, the present one will be wrecked," Mr. Haynes added. Cost of the structure is expected to be around $60,000.

Construction work that will cost in excess of $25,000 is either under way or has been authorized at Texas Technological college, W. T. Gaston, business manager, announces. The work includes the $20,000 addition to the school's power plant, which was approved recently by state authorities. Plans for the addition are being drawn by the state's architect, Wyatt C. Plans for the new Goodland school near Muleshoe in Bailey county are being prepared by S. E. Haynes, Lubbock architect. Bonds to provide for the school building have been approved by the state.

A $25,000 building of brick and concrete is planned by the Goodland district. The school will include four class rooms and a combination auditorium and gymnasium.

Public Asked To Fight Gangsters

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26. (AP)—The head of the nation today appealed to the public to throw its weight behind weapons of the law in breaking up gangster activities.

President Hoover said he believed a mobilization of public support behind present laws would solve the problem.

The president said the federal government was assisting local authorities "to overcome a hideous gangster and corrupt control of some local governments."

He added, however, he did not plan to ask congress for any extension of criminal laws to cover "racketeering" and that reports to that effect were "untrue."

"Every single state has ample laws that cover such criminality," Mr. Hoover said. "What is needed is the enforcement of those laws, and not more laws."

Receipts Gain At Postoffice

First Ten Months Reveal an Increase of About $1,200 Each Month Over Same Period of Last Year

Lubbock postoffice receipts during the first 10 months of 1930, averaged an increase of $1,200 a month over receipts for the first 10 months of 1929, according to John L. Vaughan, postmaster. The October increase was $936.55, the postmaster reported.

"This increase is in the face of the present business situation," the postmaster pointed out. "Our increase for 1930 is $12,224 over the same period in 1929."

Every month so far in 1930 has shown an increase over the corresponding period in 1929.

The first ten months of 1930 showed total receipts as $109,772.25. For last year the figure was $91,547.80, a net gain of $18,224.45. Gain for 1929 over 1928 was $14,292.74, leaving the months of November and December to show a total gain of slightly over $2,000 to make the increase as large as the 1929 increase was over 1928.

In order for the local office to equal receipts of last year, it will be necessary for the office to have receipts of $10,934.83 during this month and December. It is believed that the month of November will show that figure. Last year's gain was slightly under 12.5 per cent over 1928. Gain this year so far is 11.9 per cent over the 1929 figures.

LYNN GETS $11,216 AID
TAHOCA, Nov. 26. (Special)—State rural school aid totaling $11,216.00 will be granted Lynn county schools this year on the recommendation of State Inspector G. L. Tech Gridders Out for Third Abilene Scalp

Langford, Despite Injuries, to Start Today; Game Marks End of Season on Lubbock Field and for Matadors

All was quiet on the Texas Tech gridiron from yesterday and last night, though excited fans made merry throughout a long evening as final preparations were made to ring down the football curtain for 1930 on the local gridiron.

The Simmons university Cowboys, 26 of them, arrived in Lubbock last night with their genial coach, Leslie "Pats" Cranfill, and took to bed early after a tiring bus ride from Abilene.

After a light workout on the Tech practice field, the last one of the season, the Matadors supped and retired to their dormitory for a final oral lesson as taught by Coaches Cawthon, Morgan and Smith, and retired fairly early, while large groups of students gathered at the gymnasium and around a huge bonfire on the campus and engaged in a lusty cheer meeting.

Langford To Start

A gleam of hope pierced the gathering clouds on the practice field yesterday when big George Langford, star and regular tackle, performed in a capable fashion, under the circumstances. It had been announced that Langford would not be able to play in today's game due to injuries sustained and aggravated in the game last Wednesday against Howard Payne's Yellow Jackets.

McWilliams In Hospital

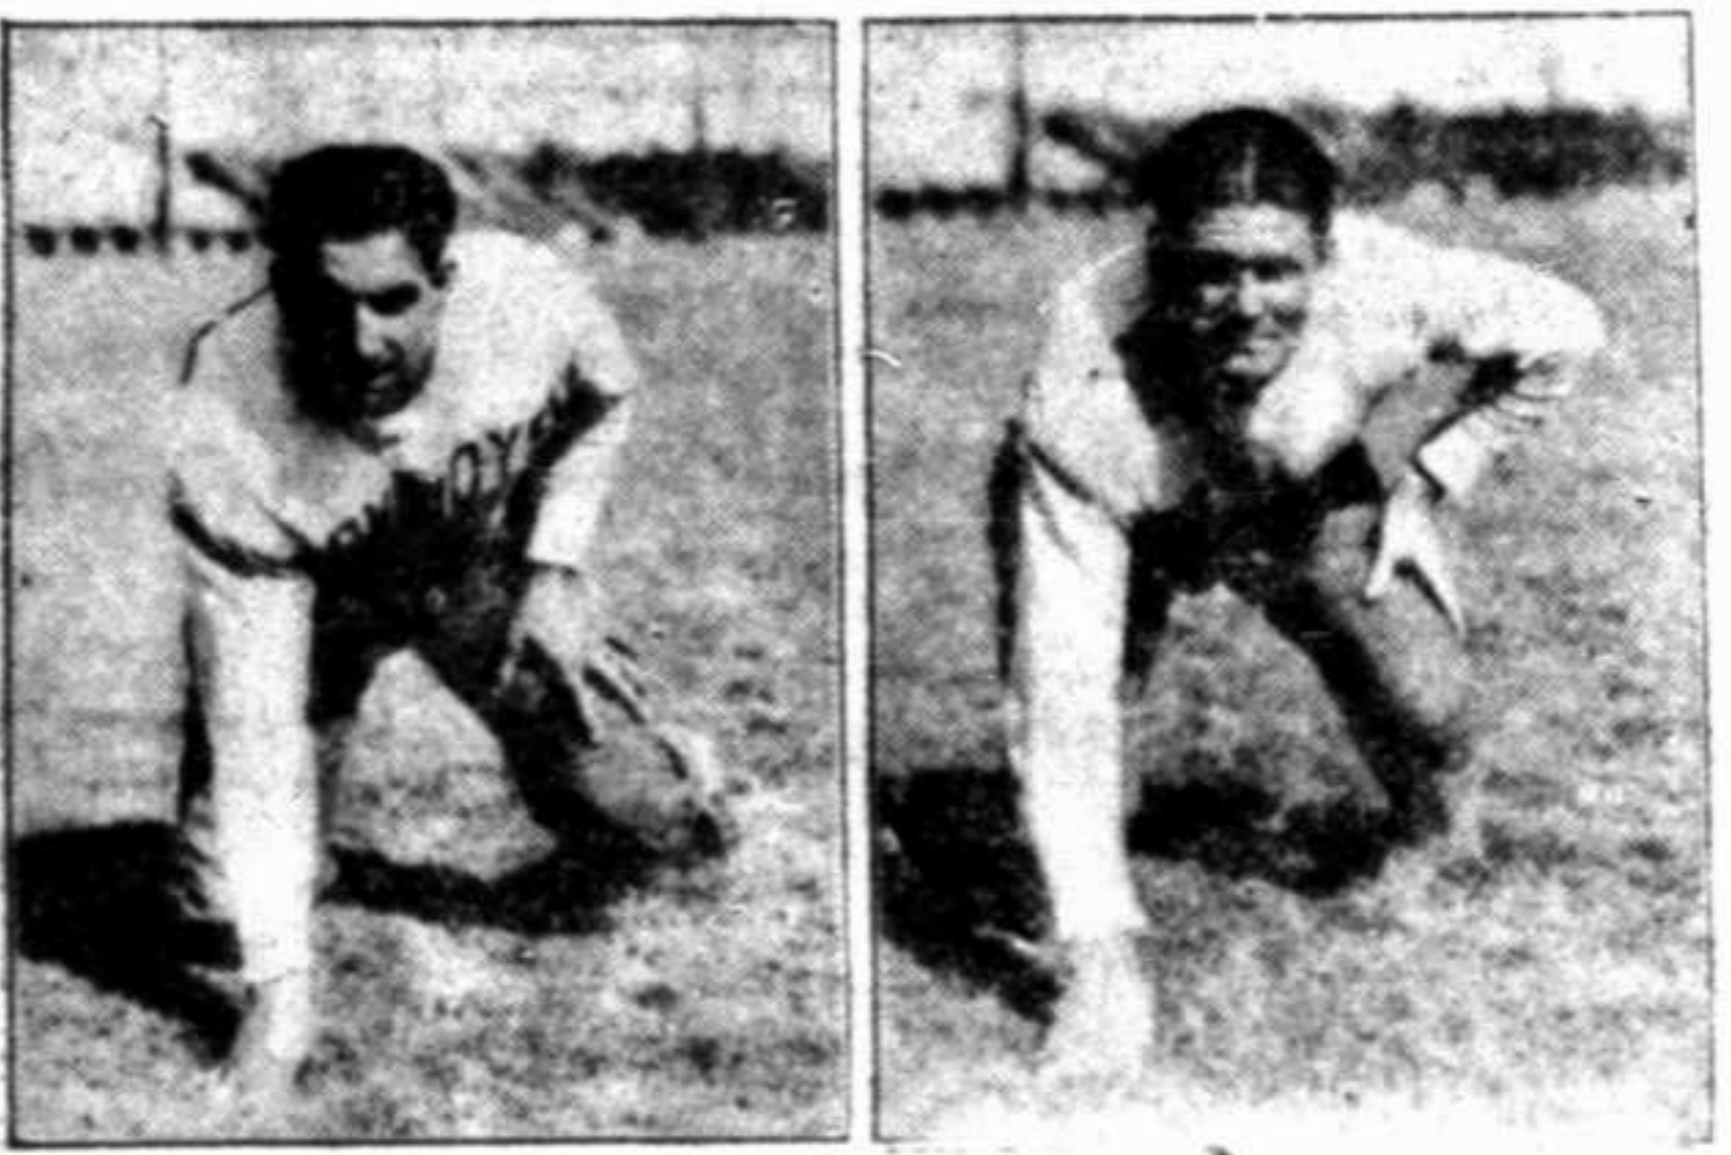

Bill McWilliams, the other regular tackle, will not be able to play, and this fact is a source of worry and disturbance to the Matadors and their members.

Today the Matadors will be out to avenge a 21 to 0 beating given them last season by the Cowboys, and also to make themselves 100 per cent victorious over Abilene in a season.

Goightly May Not Play

The Cowboys may have to play without the services of George Goightly, star pivot man who has already been mentioned for all-conference center, Goightly, who is a freshman in his off hours from school, inhaled too much smoke in a blast Monday night and was not able to make the all-important practice Tuesday afternoon. Half Of The Cowboy Backfield

Bill Sanders, left, quarterback and captain of the Simmons team, is playing his last game Thursday when his team meets the Matadors. Although given the tremendous responsibility this year on transferring from a half position after three years of playing there to quarter, he has discharged his duties well and still stands in position to be named all-conference halfback Steve Marshall, heaviest man on the Simmons team, is the man that furnishes his own momentum when his line is not opening satisfactorily.

Cup Presented To Cawthon Today

Immediately before the whistle sounds that announces the opening of the Tech-Simmons grid game on the Texas Tech field this afternoon, Coach Pete Cawthon will be presented a silver loving cup as a token of appreciation and thanks for giving his work as head coach of Tech during his first season.

Victory Will Give Crown to Longhorns; Loss Will Put Three Teams in Muddle for Southwest Conference Prize

A victory for Texas would give the Longhorns the title, while a defeat or a tie would throw the championship in doubt which would not be dispelled until games of Saturday have been decided.

A capacity crowd will be on hand for the game, officials of the University of Texas predicting the 48,000 seats in the stadium would be filled.

Weathering Favorable

The government weather bureau forecast fair with slowly rising temperatures and moderate winds.

The advance guard of the fans began arriving here this afternoon and continued throughout the night with thousands more scheduled to complete their trek tomorrow morning.

Hotels have been turning down reservations for the past three weeks. Most of the overflow will be taken care of in private homes.

City officials and athletic directors issued a warning to the fans to be on the watch for counterfeit tickets.

The game, which marks the 37th meeting between the two institutions, is the most colorful in the southwest.

Coaches of both teams have announced ready for the fray. The Longhorns went through a light limbering up drill and signal practice this afternoon.

The Farmers took a light workout at the Taylor High school field, 40 miles from here. They planned to continue to the scene of combat early tomorrow.

Washam will fight the visitors with a crippled team that is rated as the under-dogs. Playing three strong teams in a row, Slaton, Littlefield and Levelland, has given the Bulldogs some excellent experience.

Rumor That Matty Bell Might Have Successor Next Year Branded False By Texas A. & M. Heads, Ex-Students

College Station, Nov. 26—Dean Charles E. Friley, chairman of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college athletic council, today said there was no foundation of fact for a report that Matty Bell, former coach, would be replaced.

Coach Bell was appointed head of the department of physical education at A. and M. in 1929 to succeed D. X. Bible and in this capacity he has supervised over the entire program of physical education.

Dean Friley said "The physical education department is organized as one of the regular teaching divisions of the college and the members of its staff have the same academic status as other teachers, both as to tenure of office and recognition in the college education."

A. and M. college happily has passed the stage where the mere winning of losing of athletic contests is the criterion for the retention or dropping of any member of the athletic staff. It is the opinion of the college authorities, a majority of former students and others familiar with the situation that Coach Bell is one of the ablest football coaches in the southwest, and that he has done as well with his available material as could have been done by any other coach in the country."

Fort Worth, Nov. 26 (Special)—Coach Matty Bell of Texas A. and M. was given an enthusiastic vote of confidence here last night by the Fort Worth chapter of the A. and M. ex-students' association and the 15 members of the district athletic council.

Coach John A. Merckert is giving his boys the best of the trip to Lubbock and the admission price to the game.

D. W. Carleton, Fort Worth director of the state association, "no one is dissatisfied with Matty Bell, and many of us are in close touch with the athletic situation at the college."

Lubbock Crew To Plainview As Race Ends

Westerners Leave Early for Site of Final Game; Train of Rooters Leaves at 1:15 This Afternoon

Somewhat hesitant, yet glad that the grind was near an end, the Lubbock High school Westerners walked off the practice field at Fair Park yesterday afternoon for the last time this season unless post-season games are arranged.

Shades of night were falling when the team the final "that'll be all" was announced by Coach Henry Frnk and Bill Keeling. It had not been an arduous workout, but considerable time was spent in signal practice formations, dummy scrimmage, and a general rehearsal of offensive plays to be used against the Plainview Bulldogs whom the Westerners oppose this afternoon in curtain game of the 1930 season.

Coaches and crew of Lubbock High school leave early this morning for Plainview. Fans and friends of the team will leave at 1:15 by special train, arriving at 3:15. The game starts at 3 o'clock. It is thought that nearly all of the High school students and a goodly number of Lubbock fans will make the trip.

When the Westerners and their mentors gathered for the final workout yesterday and as they go into the field today there is no talk of what might have been. Now that it is all over but the championship fireworks the Westerners are through, and whether the actual players feel apologetic or incomplete or that they have fought a good fight, their fans and their coaches are pleased with the showing they have made during the 1930 season.

It is believed the Turkey Day game here will be a hard fought one and the Tigers are preparing for a stiff contest. With very slight exceptions, all members of the Slaton line-up are in good shape. The game will be called at 3 p. m.

After that the Westerners went like wildfire over the other teams of the district—successfully meeting Wichita Falls, Electric, Childress, Quanah, and Vernon. There was one snag in the mean time and that was when they ran up against the Amarillo Sandies and fought them to a scoreless tie. The Sandies have held the undisputed leadership over all other competition since the first, and air-grip clinched the championship. Pampa, losing only to Amarillo, is safely in second place, and the Westerners, "in one defeat and one tie, so far, have third place.

own face was white and she spoke carefully, attempting to control his voice. "I will not have you meeting young men in a park or any other public place. Your home is the place for you to receive guests, and you know that. No respectable young man would stoop to such subterfuge. I am thoroughly ashamed of you, Celia. This thing is never to happen again! As for Shields—your acquaintance with him is ended."

"Father! You wouldn't—you don't mean that!" "I certainly do mean every word of it! I insist upon it! You are not to see this young man again." Anger and dismay filled the girl's eyes as she stared at him. Slowly Celia shook her head.

"You've no right to say such a thing. You don't understand why—I wouldn't even talk to Barney a minute. Oh, how can you be so unjust!" She turned to hide the tears that would not stay back. John Mitchell did not trust himself to speak.

The man walked to the door, then said in a low voice: "Come—I'll get a cab." Celia dried her eyes and walked slowly, but she would not look at her father. A fresh outbreak of tears seemed imminent. Neither of them spoke. They came to the drive and Mitchell signaled a cab. The driver halted and the two got in. Mitchell gave the address of Mrs. Parsons' apartment.

He would have delayed conversation, but Celia's weeping was ended. Inexplicable suggestion chagrined her. "I have a right to choose my own friends," she said determinedly. "Barney Shields is a fine young man. When you know him better you'll see that I'm right."

"I will not discuss the subject further now." Mitchell's tone was so heated that the girl looked at him. His jaw was set and his eyes gazed stonily ahead, but his lips switched. Celia's hands were clenched. She had never seen her father so angry.

They reached the apartment. With rapidly beating pulse Celia entered the building, rode to the 22nd floor, handed Mitchell her key and waited until he opened the door. She took off her hat, tossed it aside and walked into the living room. Her father followed. There was an ominous warning in his calm manner.

Suddenly Celia turned. "All right," she said, "what is it you're going to say?" John Mitchell approached to within a foot of her. "Just this," he spoke slowly, "that you'll obey me and do as I say or you'll leave. Do you understand that?"

It was not what Celia had expected. Mitchell's voice trembled with suppressed violence. "I do want to obey you, father."

"You'll not only want to in the future, but you will! Is that clear? All right, then. Now I want you to answer this question, and if you don't do it truthfully I warn you I'll know it. Where did you meet this young man you call Barney Shields?"

"Celia, this is more than I will stand for!" The sound of the hall door opening interrupted them. The next instant Evelyn Parsons, wreathed in smiles, appeared in the doorway. "How blackmail, sweetly, hurrying forward and giving her hand to Mitchell. 'I'm so glad to see you, John. Why—Celia, has something happened?'"

The girl looked up through misty eyes. Evelyn, she said, "you make me understand! Father says I have to stop seeing Barney. He met us together in the park, only he wouldn't let Barney stay and defend himself. Father thinks Barney a blackmailer. You tell him he's wrong! He'll believe you."

Mrs. Parsons' brows drew together. "But I don't understand!" she said. "Who do you mean, Celia? I don't know any Barney!" "Barney Shields—you remember! Why he was here yesterday!" Evelyn Parsons' gaze was incredulous. "Child, what in the world are you talking about? I never heard of such a person."

Celia Mitchell stared unbelieving. "Why, Evelyn?" she gasped. "Mrs. Parsons dropped into a chair. 'Do sit down, John,' she said pleasantly. 'And you, too, Celia, and tell me what this is all about. I hope it's nothing disagreeable!'"

For a full second the girl held her ground. Then she fled from the room, locked the door of her bedroom and leaned against it weeping. No one came to disturb her.

Two hours later Celia planned a course of action. (To Be Continued)

PLANES TO RUSSIA
State Department Disfavors Shipment of Motors

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.—Special house committee heard today that American airplane motors had been shipped to Russia although the state department "looks with disfavor" on the practice.

Basil W. Deigan, a former vice-president of the Amtorg Trading corporation, made the charge before the house communist investigating committee. He said 400 Liberty motors, accompanied by "secret plans" for which "bribes" might have been paid, were sent to Russia as "other machinery."

The motors, he added, were bought from the war department by American citizens whom he did not name and resold to Amtorg.

Yugoslavia's population has just been estimated at 13,400,000.

Thursday Is

Thanksgiving

Yes, even in 1930, there are many things for which to be thankful

It is but to pause and gaze around us to find many things that are good—many things that we should give thanks about, whether we view the matter from a personal, sectional, state or national viewpoint.

Who is there that can not think of some other individual less fortunate, some area less desirable, some nation with less advantages, some business or social position less enviable.

We join you in pausing on this day and observing this national institution—Thanksgiving.

Our Store Will Be Closed All Day Thursday

Texas Tech vs. Simmons

Show your loyalty to Tech on Thursday afternoon for the final football game and Homecoming Day. Attend the game, meet your old friends and complete a real enjoyable Thanksgiving Day.

CLASSES SUSPENDED

All college classes were suspended yesterday and no classes will be in session until Monday. Until this time only one day was granted for turkey day, but officials of the college agreed for a three day vacation period this year. Most of the students who live outside of Lubbock are spending the week-end at their homes.

The college library will be closed today, but will be open from 11 o'clock until 12 o'clock Friday and Saturday, according to Miss Emma Main, college librarian.

The college switchboard also will be closed and only three offices at the college will be open. Telephone number 1280 will call Cecil Horne's office, 1281 will call the college gym, and 1282 will call the office at the Tech dairy barn.

PLAN-SUNRISE BREAKFAST

Baptist students in the college will attend the annual sunrise breakfast today sponsored by the Tech students each year by the First Baptist church. They will meet at 7 o'clock when Rev. R. C. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist church will lead the devotional. The affair will last one hour.

No charge will be made those attending the breakfast.

TO LEAVE TODAY

At the end of the first half of the Tech-Simmons football game, Professor K. M. Renner, head of the Tech dairy manufacturing department, accompanied by students in the condensed milk class will leave for Waco and other points in central Texas where they will inspect various milk plants. James Holcomb, Prater Kemp, Maurice Vahney and Albert Lockwood will accompany Professor Renner on the trip.

Tomorrow the Bell Ice Cream plant at Hico will be visited and from there the visitors will go to Waco where they will inspect the Borden Milk plant. The following day they will inspect the dairy department at Texas A. and M. College where E. W. Renner, brother of Professor Renner, is in charge. The Mistletoe creamery at San Antonio will also be inspected.

Members of the class are making a special study of the different methods of condensing and drying milk. Previously a trip to Wichita Falls had been planned for the class, but it was decided to inspect the plants at Waco and Hico as was done last year.

TO BROADCAST GAME

Through the courtesy of the R-P Finance corporation of Wichita Falls, a play-by-play report of the Tech-Simmons football game to be played at Tech Field today will be broadcast today by radio station WCKG of Wichita Falls. The game will start at 2:30 and the broadcast will start a few minutes earlier. The game today has been designated as homecoming game for the Tech graduates and ex-students. Approximately two hundred graduates and several thousand ex-students are expected to be here.

CALLS MEETING

Joe Barousett, Camp Springs, president of the Scurry county club, has called a special meeting of the club for Monday night in room 314 of the administration building.

Approximately twenty-five students from Scurry county are members of the organization which was organized to bring more Scurry county students to Tech and to promote social activities among the club members.

CLASS TO MEET

Floyd Woodruff, Plainview, president of the senior class in the college has called a class meeting for Monday night.

Plans for the senior class will be discussed at this gathering.

IS RE-ELECTED

Miss Lizzie Belle Clements, secretary of the student council, recently was selected as student representative on the publication committee of the college. Other members include Professor R. A. Mills, of the college English department, Miss Flora McGee, of the English department, and Cecil Horne, publicity director of the college.

Miss Clements was student representative on the council last year

Dynamite Blows Stump Into School, Kills Child

This picture shows how a rural school at Ironton, Ohio, was wrecked when workmen on a nearby highway project set off a charge of dynamite under a tree stump. The explosive hurled the 400-pound stump high into the air and it crashed through the school roof. One boy, James Dean, 12, was killed and six others were hurt. The arrow points to the stump.
