Shenandoah Widow Says Husband Asked For Delay

TAKES ISSUE WITH CHIEF OF U.S. NAVY

Claims Commander Wanted To Postpone Trip Westward

REALIZED DANGER

Weather Was Bad And Mast of Ship Untried, Woman Says

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Ross Lansdowne, the young widow of Commander Zachary Lansdowne, took direct issue today with Secretary Wilbur before the naval court of inquiry on the question of whether her husband did protest against the mid-continent flight of the airship Shenandoah.

Recalling that immediately after the wreck of the Shenandoah she had asserted that her husband had lodged a protest against the flight, and that the naval secretary had followed with a statement that no protest had been made, Mrs. Landowne said one of her reasons for appearing before the court was to emphasize that her assertion had been substantiated by official correspondence read into the records of the court.

Says Warning Unheeded.

This correspondence, she added, consisted of her husband's letter to the chief of naval operations August 4, recommending postponement of the flight until the second week in September and the making of a trial flight to Detroit to test the mooring mast there late in August. Both of these recommendations were disapproved by the chief of naval operations on August 12.

"Because of weather conditions during the thunderstorm period in the middle west," Mrs. Landowne continued, "the long legs (of the flight) on a rigid schedule and the untried mast, my husband was very much opposed to this flight and protested as vigorously as any officer is allowed to do to his superiors.

"Commercial" Trip.

"My husband also felt that the Shenandoah, being our only fighting airship, should be treated like a man-o'-war used only for war problems and should not be taken on commercial trips inland simply to give taxpayers a look at their property."

CHURCH VOTES FOR IMMERSION IN MISSIONS

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The international convention of the Disciples of Christ late today committed itself to a policy requiring baptism by immersion of all new church members received in foreign fields.

This stand was taken when the convention adopted a resolution prepared by a conciliation committee appointed last year to appease discordant factions of the church. The resolution was adopted after the convention had rejected a suggestion of the recommendations committee that it disapprove the demand for immersion.

The resolution recommends that no person be employed by the United Christian Missionary society, the principal missionary organization of the church, "who has committed himself to belief in, or practice of, the reception of unimmersed persons into the membership of churches of Christ." It further recommends that if any person is now in the employ of the society, his relationship be severed.

BISHOP BROWN PLANS FIGHT TO A FINISH

Is Summoned to Appear Next Monday for His Sentence

TAKES CASE TO COURT

Will no Longer Use His Title, Says Deposed Prelate

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Right Rev. William Montgomery Brown, Episcopal bishop convicted of heresy by a church court and whose conviction was sustained by the house of bishops of the Episcopal church here, tonight announced that he had received summons to appear Monday before the most Rev. Ethelbert Talbot, presiding bishop, for sentence.

The United States court at New Orleans will be asked in a petition to be filed tomorrow to restrain the Episcopal house of bishops from imposing sentence on the Rev. Brown for alleged heresies, Brown announced here late tonight.

Exhibiting an order to that effect purported to bear the signature of the presiding bishop, the deposed prelate told newspapermen that he had now "changed his mind about leaving New Orleans, and would stay and fight this thing out to a finish."

Brown announced today that he would no longer use the title "bishop."

After the approval of the verdict of the church courts by the house of bishops yesterday, all that remains to end the Brown case so far as the house of bishops is concerned, said members of the house, is formal utterance of the sentence deposing him as a member of the house.

AMARILLO, Oct. 9.—Della Myrtle Powers, 26, stenographer, of Los Angeles, was arrested on a charge of assault with intent to kill and was released on $1,000 bond.

The bond was fixed by Judge Bishop. Her arrest followed an indictment by the grand jury shortly after noon.

The case arose out of an alleged attack on Dr. W. F. Dutton, yesterday afternoon in his office in an office buildin. Dutton turned over to the police a .25 calibre automatic pistol which he said he took away from the woman when she is alleged to have attempted to shoot him.

The woman denies having a gun, and says she went to the office "to have a talk with the doctor," and he threw her out in the hall. She stated that she first became acquainted with Dr. Dutton in Tulsa, Okla., in 1919.

Bill Fold Identifies Man As Mason, Texas, Citizen

HAMILTON, Texas, Oct. 9.—The bodies of a man and woman who died from bullet wounds were found near the Mount Pleasant school house Friday by John Ables, Hamilton, who was driving along the highway 20 miles north of Hamilton. Ables saw buzzards around an automobile near the road and upon investigating he found a man and woman dead near an extinct camp fire.

Officers from Hamliton were called and learned from neighbors that the couple had camped there Wednesday night and had been seen Thursday morning. The car contained full camping equipment.

The man apparently was 40 years old and had one wound in the head. The woman about 30, had wounds in the breast and head. A revolver found near the bodies showed evidence of having been fired.

The couple had about $40 in money, and jewelry, including a diamond ring. A bill fold found in the man's pocket bore the name of A. N. Baxter, Mason, Texas, and gave the same address for a brother, who was notified and is on his way to Hamilton.

"The Open Water Ditch"

THE accusation broadcasted through Wichita Falls only recently that movements for closing of the ditch from Lake Wichita to the city water plant was merely a matter ord News to investigate the situation as regards the city's water supply in that regard. The Record News, interested solely in the health of Wichita Falls, submits these facts for consideration in a series of four articles. They include the information obtained in the open ditch investigation. Whether or not talk of closing the ditch is propaganda, foolish, ridiculous to waste time about is of course, left to the reader to determine.

Many kinds of water borne bacteria injurious to men are killed or greatly weakened by the introduction of air or rather the oxygen in the air into water. The action of the wind in creating waves on a lake puts oxygen into water. Falls or rapids in a stream do the same thing.

Light or rather the actinic rays of sun light kill bacteria in water, but to do this the water must be clear so the rays can penetrate. The actinic rays of light are the ones which affect a photographic plate in a camera.

Chlorine which is now used as a germicide in our city water is a powerful destroyer of all germs and bacteria.

Now let us get this straight—sun light does kill germs in water and so does the oxygen from the air. In other words as the water flows down the open ditch from Lake Wichita to the pumping plant it should arrive there with less bacteria in it than when it leaves the lake. But it don't. Tests have shown that the number of death dealing bacteria are just about doubled.

Why is this? Simply because there is so much disease carrying filth entering the ditch as it flows along through the city in its journey to the pumping plant that all the effects of the sunlight and air are useless.

It is perfectly possible by modern scientific methods of water purification to take the vilest kind of sewage and change it into water which so far as disease germs are concerned can be drunk with safety.

It is possible to take our own city sewage and by proper treatment render it safe for us to drink. It could be purified and pumped back into our city mains and used again and again as drinking water

FOLLOWING is the text of the call issued Friday by Representative A. H. King of Throckmorton for an extraordinary call of the state legislature to convene in Austin, November 2:

To the Members of the Thirty-Ninth Legislature of Texas:

D. 1925, for the following purposes, vis:

First. To amend or repeal a certain law passed by the last legislature changing the rules of evidence and making it more difficult to obtain convictions for law violations.

Second. To amend or repeal the law known as the "Search and Seizure Act" which handicaps peace officers in their efforts to protect society from criminals.

Third. To investigate all state departments and state institutions to the end that efficient service in public officials may be commended and unworthy ones, if any, may be exposed and punished.

Fourth. To tighten the prohibition laws so that the sale of "jake," "cloc" and other poisonous decoctions may be stopped.

Fifth. To investigate the abuse, if any, of official powers and prerogatives by state officials.

Sixth. To exercise the collective wisdom of the Thirty-Ninth legislature for the welfare of the people of Texas.

Seventh. The doctrine has been settled for more than a thousand years that a free people have a right to act through their lawful representatives at any time to protect themselves from actual and threatened dangers.

Eighth. It is to be hoped that the Governor of Texas will see the imperative need of this extraordinary session and supplement this call with the usual proclamation and in case the governor does not do so it is hoped that the speaker of the house will take such action in order that there may be no quibbling as to the constitutionality of the action of this special session of the legislature.

Respectfully submitted,

A. H. KING,

Representative of the 113th Representative District, composed of the counties of Baylor, Haskell and Trockmorton.

Throckmorton, Oct. 8th.

WICHITAN SEES KING'S CALL AS MOVE AGAINST FERGUSON; LOFTIN VIEWS LEGAILTY OF PLAN

Rev. Barnes Says Jokes Passed Recently Ought To be Corrected

Wichita Falls looked on with only mild interest yesterday at the call of A. H. King, representative of the 113th district, for a special session of the state legislature Nov. 2 for the purpose of considering certain reforms and undertaking certain investigations. A number of Wichitans approached last night for opinion regarding Representative King's call declined to talk on grounds they were not sufficiently familiar with the matters be set forth to comment authoritatively.

Some Laws "Jokes."

W. B. Chauncey said he had not heard of the call, knew nothing of the propositions submitted by the representative and therefore could not discuss it. Rev. S. A. Barnes, pastor of the Floral Heights Methodist church, asserted there "were some laws passed by the last legislature that are jokes and need correcting, but aside from that I don't feel qualified to discuss the need of a special session.

Bruce Greenwood, local attorney, asserted he had given the matter but little thought and had nothing to say about it. C. A. Rogers, oil operator, interpreted the call as possibly a move against the Ferguson regime, stirred up by the recent highway department squabble at Houston. That was the extent of his discussion of it.

Loftin Explains Law.

From Henrietta, Representative Rube Loftin sent explanations that on written request of 50 or members of the legislature, the speaker of the house could call a special session for the purpose only of impeaching the governor. A special session for any other purpose, he said, must come from the governor's office. Loftin had nothing to say as to whether or not he believed a special session necessary at this time.

LYRICS OF LIFE.
By Douglas Malloch.
America the Most.

If wooden shoes or skirts of plaid,
It doesn't matter very much,
What nationality they had,
If English, German, French or Dutch,
Whether they love the motherland,
The fatherland, some other land,
If they whatever birth they boast,
Now love America the most.

Oh, I will join the German's song,
And I will share the Frenchman's pride,
To love some land is never wrong,
Some land for which your father died,
Some mountain old, some island old,
Some lowland old, some highland old,
If you, however loud your toast,
Still love America the most.

Whatever fatherhood a man's
Whenever born across the seas,
We now are all Americans,
Whatever our nativities.
Yes, now there is a nearer tie,
A truer tie, a dearer tie,
For we, from many a craig and coast
Now love America the most.

The weather bureau of the Wichita Falls Electric company announces the weather for the past 24-hour period as follows:

LEGISLATIVE SPECIAL CALL TO GET LITTLE OF JIM'S HELP

Dispatches From Austin Hint Governor's Husband Is Against Move

DOUBT AUTHORITY

Speaker Satterwhite At Amarillo Says Majority Members May Convene

"When bald-faced vice, arrogant and rampant, stalks abroad by day and night and virtue sleeps it is time for the forces of righteousness to become aroused.

In these words, State Representative A. H. King of Throckmorton by long distance telephone from Seymour, Baylor county, gave his reasons to The Record News last night for having issued during the day over his signature a call for an extraordinary session of the state legislature to convene at Austin, November 2.

Road Fracas A Reason.

"My decision to call an extraordinary session of the legislature," added Representative King, "came to me Thursday morning after I had read headlines in newspapers of that date, chronicling events in our state affairs. Among them, of course, was the decision of the district court in Harris county to enjoin a contract let by the state highway commission."

Mr. King added that he felt fully within his constitutional rights in issuing the call and expressed himself as confident that a majority of the members of the legislature would join him in convening at Austin for the special session on the date he has designated.

Sees Enough Support.

"I have been in Seymour throughout today," said Rep. King, and so have not received any messages either by telephone or wire, indicating to me the response which will meet my call, but I am sure when I return home I shall find I have sufficient support for the extraordinary session expressed to me through communications sent me there."

Jim to Oppose?

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson will consider the call of a special session of the legislature by Representative A. H. King of Throckmorton and probably will make a statement, former Governor James E. Ferguson said today.

Mr. Ferguson said he would discuss the call with the governor and see what action, if any, she would take. He declined to make further statement.

It was indicated at the governor's office that Representative King was exceeding his authority in calling the special session November 2, at Austin.

Under the call for an extraordinary session of the state legislature to

MAN'S FIRST DUTY.

No matter what other vocation he may have, man's chief vocation is to think.

This does not mean that he is to shut himself within four walls, and bend his body and mind over books.

Men thought before books were written, and some of the greatest thinkers never entered what we call a library.

Nature, society, life, present perpetual subjects for thought.

And the man who collects, concentrates, employs his faculties on any of these subjects for the purpose of getting the truth, is a student, a thinker, a philosopher, and is rising to the supreme eminence of man, for as Channing observed, "Thought, intelligence, is the dignity of man, and no man is rising but in proportion as he is learning to think clearly and forcibly."

It is time we should cease to limit to professed scholars the titles of thinkers, philosophers.

Whoever seeks truth with an earnest mind, no matter how, belongs to the school of intellectual men.

In a loose sense of the word all men may be said to think.

That is, a succession of ideas, notions, passes through their minds from morning to night.

But in so far as this succession is passive, undirected, or governed only by accident and outward impulse, it has no more claim to dignity than the experience of the lower animals, who receive, with like passiveness, sensations from abroad through their waking hours.

Such thought, if thought it may be called, having no aim, is as useless as the vision of an eye which rests on nothing.

Thought, defined by William Ellery Channing, is "Energy of the intellect."

In thought, the wind not only receives impressions or suggestions from without or within, but reacts on them, collects its attention, concentrates its forces upon them, breaks them up and analyzes them.

Surely this universe in which we live was intended to stir up such thought as has been described.

It is full of difficulty and mystery.

Every object, even the simplest in nature and society, every event of life, is made up of various elements subtly bound together.

So that, to understand anything, we must reduce it from its complexity to its parts and principles, and examine their relations to one another.

AN AMERICAN SOCIALIST.

Victor L. Berger of Milwaukee is an American socialist and a member of the American congress. He has returned from Europe. His verdict is that conditions in Germany and France are a menace to all the world.

Great Britian, he says, is not paying unemployment doles to 1,500,000 idle workers for funds. Berger says she is doing it because the British workers have votes and to stave off for revolution.

This Wisconsin socialist, who is a national lawmaker, would be in favor of wiping out all the debts of European countries if in turn they consented to wipe out militarism and agree not to enforce oppressive treaty conditions against Germany. If this could be done, according to the Berger mind, then Europe would be at peace and at work and the future would be brighter. Yes.

OLD ENOUGH TO VOTE.

Wisconsin has the oldest woman voter, Mrs. Louisa K. Thiers, who cast her ballot for young La-Follette for senator and then celebrated her 111th birthday. She is a believer in cold baths and until she reached the age of a hundred, she took one every morning.

Uncommon Sense

By JOHN BLAKE.

Better Read in Bed Than Not Read at All.

The wife who is annoyed because her husband reads in bed may succeed in breaking him of the habit, if her will happens to be stronger than his.

If she does, she will do a great deal of mischief.

For many men like to read in bed, and will read no where else.

And inasmuch as there can be no intelligent education without a great deal of reading, to prevent their getting their education in this way is foolish.

In any kind of an even matrimonial partnership the wife prospers as much as the husband.

If the husband takes no interest in anything but buying and selling—if he knows nothing of the inside of books he is going to be a very dull and tiresome fellow by the time he is forty, no fit companion for a bright woman.

Mark Twain, self educated, but one of America's greatest writers, and even more highly esteemed in England than he is in this country, got most of his education in bed.

Never did he lie down at night without a book beside him, and often, if he was interested he would read till four or five o'clock in the morning.

We would advise men who have not developed a taste for reading to put two or three books on a table beside their beds, where they could be easily reached at night, to be sure they had a good light, and then to read themselves to sleep.

If they get the right kind of books, and if their minds are capable of concentration they will sometimes be a long time getting to sleep.

But they will get more out of the books than they would out of the sleep which it costs to read them.

It may be that there is less eye strain in reading sitting up in a chair, although I know very many old gentlemen who have still perfectly clear visions who have read in bed almost every night of their lives.

The Society of Gideons, in America has done an excellent service in putting a Bible in every hotel room in the country.

Thousands of men, wakeful when traveling have read those Gideon Bibles until they got the taste for Bible reading that always comes to those who read more than a few pages.

And they have read them in bed.

Fortunately for them that no society had put cheap novels in the rooms.

For the Bible is the beginning of education.

It was all the education that John Bunyan had, and he wrote a book that will never die.

Our own times and generation are interesting, but why confine ourselves to it when wise men of all generations are ready to talk to use from printed pages.

Read what they say, and read it in bed if they have no time or disposition to read elsewhere.

If you get eye strain from what occupation any good oculist will prescribe glasses which will prevent it.

Most eyes, with proper care will last a life time, no matter how much they are used in reading, either in bed or anywhere else.

ANOTHER PARAMOUNT ISSUE.

Senator William H. King of Utah has started something. He says that the time has come for the cession to the states of all public owned lands, except those which have mineral value. He says the national parks and the national forests should be included in the lands which he wants turned back to the so-called public land state.

Early in the session he threatens to introduce a bill which enacted would practically put the federal government out of the real estate business. Reclamation, forest and park control, Senator King says, should be vested into state governments.

This would mean the abolition of numerous federal bureaus and agencies and the savings to the taxpayers of millions of dollars annually. The passage of such a bill, he admitted, would mean the financing of reclamation projects by the states in which such projects are located.

Senator King is a democrat. He insists that the time has come for the federal government to get out of the land business. Texas is not interested. Uncle Sam never did own or control the public lands of Texas. Those who frame the articles of annexation made it impossible for Uncle Sam to become the possessor of the public lands of the Lone Star commonwealth.

These pioneer Texans who fought for liberty and independence were powerful advocates of education. They dedicated millions upon millions of acres to the school fund of Texas.

Did they have foresight? Well some day the oil lands of the state, the property of the state university, will make it possible for the university of all the people to be more richly endowed than any like institution under American skies.

WHAT TODAY MEANS TO YOU

Libra.

Today's planetary aspects are, during the morning, quite adverse, and strongly counsel abstention from any duties involving change or departure from routine. They also promise to affect the temperament, and engender the besetting evils of irritation, bad temper and jealousy. Poise and philosophical calm must be exercised in order to avoid giving way to such influences. Shortly after noon, the day's aspects change, and become benign, without becoming actively favorable. They do not indicate any great success for business pursuits, but will undoubtedly promote a feeling of good fellowship and comradeship, and insure happiness for all social or recreative gatherings. Those, too, who are in love, will experience an urge to tell "the old, old story," and the signs denote that it will not fall on deaf ears.

Children born today will, regardless of sex, enjoy similar physical conditions. They will go through infancy with flying colors and only, after attaining the age of youth, will their physical condition demand special care and attention. In character and disposition, they will be bright and vivacious; witty and amusing. They will never delve deeply into any subject, but their superficial knowledge, combined with their inherent alertness and agility, will earn for them credit for more ability than they really possess. Personality—at once, attractive and compelling—will be one of their chief assets, and utilizing this weapon at all times, they will nearly always be sure of success.

If today is your birthday, there is no difficulty presented in making a correct diagnosis of your character. You are very transparent, and, being absolutely natural, never make any effort to hide your feelings, or suppress your emotions. This often leads to regrettable "countretemps," and your outspokenness often causes embarrassment to those who are near and dear to you. It may, too, interfere with your own success, as very few people like to be told "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth," all the time. Dissimulation is not necessary, but silence is sometimes preferable to speech.

You are very fond of reading, and your taste inclines more to biography and adventure than to literature of light vein. Your personality is strong, but not attractive, and your likes and dislikes are extreme.

You possess a very affectionate disposition, and are never happier than when giving to or receiving from those who love you, and those whom you love, demonstrations of endearment.

Successful people born on this date are:

Nathan Miller, ex-governor of New York.
John J. Stevenson, geologist.
Edna Dean Proctor, poet.
Robert Gould Shaw, soldier.
George P. Morris, poet.
Joshua Bates, banker and statesman.

HOW IT STARTED

"Wand" Proves to Be Only Funny Paper

"Oh, no. I am not superstitious, but I take no liberties with thirteen."

This inconsistency is not peculiar to the person quoted above. It seems to be one of those common paradoxes which link our modern practical, cold-blooded world to the romantic, eerie, goblin tenanted ages of past.

We are emphatically not superstitious, yet, though we may not walk around all day on the thirteenth with our fingers crossed, how many of us are there who will start an important business arrangement on that day, or who do not find it expedient to alter our arrangements when we think there will be thirteen at the table?

It may be because of the absolute unequivical penalty that this superstition, above all others, has survived into this unsuperstitious age. One of the thirteen is doomed to die and nobody is sufficiently interested in delivering posterity from its tentacles to try the experiment.

The unpopularity of "thirteen" started with the Last Supper at which Christ and his disciples numbered thirteen. The implication we all know. The reason why the first to rise from the table is supposed to be the one to die is the fact that Judas, who was the first to leave the supper table, very soon after hanged himself.

Rain Insurance Didn't Count For T.-O. Fair This Year

For oratorical purposes the time limits may have been somewhat rearranged, but the general idea can be conveyed by quotations from R. E. Shepherd of what luck the fair association ran in the last two days of the 1925 exposition.

The fair, of course, carried rain insurance. How much has not been made public, but it is known to have been considerable. If it rained a certain fraction of an inch between 10 a. m. and 6 p. m. of any day the fair was in progress, the association collected heavily.

Speaking yesterday, Shepherd remarked that, on Wednesday and Thursday it rained up to 9:45 a. m., then stopped and began again at 6:15 p. m.

"It just didn't count," he groaned.

"The medicine men don't give me as much competition as they once did," Dr. Sturdevant said. "I found one old fellow with a wide reputation for curing babies by making mystic signs and passes with a bundle, which when unwrapped proved to contain a colored comic magazine. Usually, though, it's hard to find out who the medicine man of the village is. He prefers to be anonymous."

Tuberculosis is showing an alarming increase among the Eskimos, Dr. Sturdevant reports.

The Storm CenteR

By BURTON L. STEVENSON

They became conscious presently of O'Neill, who had watched the scene with shining eyes, Pat gently freed herself and sat down again. Delage regarded O'Neill with a whimsical smile.

"It was inevitable, Monsieur O'Neill," he said, and seated himself and lighted a cigarette. "I felt it from the moment I first saw her, so straight, so slim, so full of grace. It was my type, my ideal—something I had been searching for and never finding; I knew it instantly. I count myself very fortunate," he added simply.

"So do I," agreed O'Neill.

"I also am fortunate," said Pat quietly.

She was entirely unembarrassed. Her glance was as fervent as Delage's. She recognized her mate, as he recognized his, and was ready to go to him without question or condition. Already they possessed each other. And O'Neill, looking at her, marvelled at how little he had known her. Never would he have guessed that under that quiet, self controlled exterior lay such depth of passion. How right it was that she should be like that—ardent and unashamed!

"But since this has happened," said Delage in another tone, "our affair is much more serious. We must reconsider it.

"O'Neill, when you reach the zawia tomorriw evening, you will instruct Belayed not to stable the horses but to keep them ready in the court." As soon as the banquet is over and Ahmed has retired, get Monsieur Landon started off with Belayed, and then do you wait for us under the colonnade of the inner court. You will not be seen there. But remember there is a guard at the gate."

"I understand," said O'Neill again; "but your plan has one serious flaw. I shall never be able to get Landon to ride away and leave his daughter at the zawia."

"You must manage it somehow," said Delage. "Perhaps some pretext may arise. Perhaps he may not be as unwilling as you suppose."

"What do you mean?"

"I mean," Delage explained, "that in what he caused to be done to Monsieur Landon, Ahmed had but one object—to convert him from an enemy into a friend. No matter what happens to mademoiselle here, there can be no outcry, no appeal to the authorities, if her father approves."

"But that is impossible!" protested Pat, her eyes wide. "Dad would never do that!"

"Remember, my dear," said Delage earnestly, "that he is not himself."

"Now I must return," added Delage, rising. "My absence must not be noticed; besides I have many things to arrange. Till tomorrow night, Monsieur O'Neill!"

Pat went with him to the door of the tent, and the flap fell behind them. O'Neill knew better than to follow.

Instead, he lighted his pipe and settled back in his chair.

Pat came back presently her eyes like stars and O'Neill got up and took her hands.

"I wish you all happiness my dear," he said; "but I don't need to tell you that!"

"I have it now," she said simply. "I never thought there could be such happiness."

She stopped, for there was a clatter of hoofs on the rocks outside.

It was Landon and Belayed, and a moment later, the former thrust aside the door flap and entered.

"How were the dancers?" O'Neill inquired.

"We didn't go to the cafe—at least I didn't. We met a messenger from Ahmed on the road; he was sending me an invitation to join him. So I went."

"Was he alone?" asked O'Neill casually.

"No; Sidi Yada had come over from Teniet. He expounded the doctrines of the Koran," Landon answered curtly. "He wishes me to understand them."

"Oh," said O'Neill; "so they are really trying to make a Mohammedan of you! Evidently you have forgotten that you have a daughter."

"No, I have not," said Landon. "On the contrary, I am planning a great future for her."

"For me, dad?" cried Pat, her eyes wide with apprehension. "What sort of future?"

"No," said her father curtly; "that is all I can tell you now. I am too tired to talk any more. I am going to bed," and he arose and disappeared behind the screen.

O'Neill's eyes met Pat's in a long glance. Yes, assuredly the man was mad! In any event, there was only one thing to be done—that was to get away.

CHAPTER XIX.

The Coils Tighten.

O'Neill had expected that sometime during the following day Delage would find an opportunity to visit the camp and give them some final instructions; but he did not appear.

During the day he and Pat managed to put their heads together more than once and talk over their plans for the evening. One thing impressed him more and more—that was the danger and the folly of her trusting herself in Ahmed's hands—even with a pistol in her own. He pointed this out to her at considerable length, but she was adamant.

"You must realize," she said, "that I am not a child. I have made up my mind what I am going to do. There is no need for you to worry."

"Well, I'll tell you one thing," he said finally. "I am not going to leave that house until I know that you are safely out of it."

She saw from the set of his jaw that it was no use to argue with him, so they left it at that.

"You will not forget to tell Belayed that he is to keep the horses ready," she reminded him; and as Belayed was preparing lunch, O'Neill sat down beside him and told him what he wanted done.

So the day passed and evening came, and presently they were in the saddle for the ride to Tijdad.

A gay little cavalcade met them half-way to Tijad. It was Ahmed, clad in a handsome scarlet burnoose and elaborately-embroidered clothes, riding a horse whose harness glittered with gold and silver.

The marabout greeted his guests with great ceremony, then he fell in beside Landon at the head of the column. Pat and O'Neill followed, and the natives brought up the rear.

"Why all this magnificence?" O'Neill inquired of Pat. "It looks like a wedding procession."

"You can't have a wedding without a bride," Pat pointed out.

It was evident at once, as they rode into the courtyard, that some unusual festivity was preparing. The place was thronged with men, most of them carrying guns. O'Neill looked around at the crowd with something like dismay. To escape under these circumstances was going to be much more difficult than he had expected.

And his eyes sought vainly for Delage.

Ahmed, a curious smile upon his lips, held out his hand to Pat and led her ceremoniously past the staring crowd to the door of his own apartments. As she stepped through it, a native bent quickly and broke an egg upon the sill.

"What is that for?" O'Neill inquired of Landon, who had dropped back to his side.

"The egg is the symbol of fertility," Landon answered shortly, in a tone which discouraged any further questions.

But O'Neill had no desire to ask any more. The answer to this one had given him plenty to think about. Fertility—but fertility for whom? For Pat? And suddenly the sickening conviction swept through him that what he was witnessing was a Mohammedan wedding.

Pat must be warned!

There was no opportunity for the moment as they proceeded along the narrow passage and entered a room.

Two men met them as they entered the room, and again O'Neill looked to see Delage; but it was not he. It was Sidi Yada with an attendant priest.

As soon as they were seated, Ahmed's students filed in through the door, passed before him, and took their places along the wall on either hand. Here surely, O'Neill told himself, Delage must appear; but there was still no sign of him.

A servant brought a great bowl of copper, filled with water, into which they dipped their hands, drying them on a napkin offered by another servant; and the meal began in silence.

When the coffee arrived with it came the musicians, who filed in and bowed before Ahmed, and took their places and struck a few preliminary notes.

"I have a novelty for you this evening," said Ahmed, looking around at his guests with a smile; "one which I hope will give you pleasure. It is a dancer, new to this country and with a dance not in manner, but very wonderful."

He nodded to the chief musician, who struck a loud note, and a draped female figure appeared in the doorway. She had over her head a shawl of silver lace which concealed her features; and she was tall and slim and graceful as a lily. She paused just before the dais, bowed low before Ahmed, and then snapped upright to her full height, whisking away the shawl as she did so.

For an instant O'Neill stared uncomprehendingly at the beautiful, painted, smiling face. Then his heart turned sickeningly within him.

It was Delage's sister.

For the merest breath she stood poised there motionless, like a bird ready for flight; then she whirled away in the dance. It was not the danse du venture; it is rather a wild bacchanal, a symbol of joy, of abandon, of the ecstasy of life, pulsing faster and ever faster and culminating in a fury of movement. And O'Neill watched it, like a man hypnotized, scarcely daring to breath.

When it was over, Ahmed motioned her forward, drew a ring from his finger and gave it to her as she knelt before him, speaking at the same time some words in Arabic. She glanced up at him with a smile that sent O'Neill's pulses racing, bent her head acquiescently and bowed herself from the room.

Almost at once another dancer entered and began the slow movements of the danse du ventre.

The dance whirled to a close in a crescendo of ectasy, and Ahmed, throwing some money to the dancer and to the musicians, dismissed them with a wave of the hand and rose to his feet.

"Come, my dove," he said, bending above Pat and offering his hands; "I will show you the bower."

She took his hands and drew herself erect and permitted Ahmed to lead her to the door. There she turned and waved her hand and was gone.

For a moment O'Neill sat staring after her, trying to think, trying to remember what it was he had to do. But his brain was in a whirl.

"I must get some fresh air," he said. "I can't stand it in here; this place is suffocating," and he struggled to his feet.

"I will show you the way, monsieur," said Sidi Yada, rising too and placing a steadying hand upon his arm.

O'Neill looked down at Landon. He was lying back among the cushions, his eyes closed.

"This way," said the priest. "Do not be afraid—there is nothing to trip you."

He seemed to possess the faculty of seeing in the dark, for O'Neill was conscious that they turned at two corners in the course of what seemed an interminable journey.

But at last Sidi Yada stopped.

"Rest here a moment, monsieur," he said, "and I will get a light."

The hand was lifted from O'Neill's arm—and then the floor seemed suddenly to drop away beneath him.

CHAPTER XX

The Den of The Wolf

O'Neill lay for a moment without stirring, staring vacantly up into the darkness, which seemed to press down upon him like a pall. Then he became conscious that his right leg was paining him horribly and that he was very cold. He tried to move and finally managed to sit up.

And then it all came back to him in a flash. He had been dropped through a trap. He had been lying there unconscious.

He staggered to his feet, regardless of the pain in his leg, and tested it cautiously. At least he could use it, so it was not broken, only bruised or sprained. He felt his pocket to make sure that his pistol was still there, then he moved cautiously forward, testing the floor at every step. The first thing to do was to discover what sort of place it was into which he had been dropped.

He was not long in finding out. It was evident enough where he was—in a chamber about ten feet square, with walls of stone and floor of earth; the only opening a single heavy door.

With teeth hard set, O'Neill explored the floor on hands and knees. If he could find some implement—a rock—anything—he might batter the door down. But there was nothing.

LEGION PICKS OHIO VET FOR COMMANDER

Wrangle Over Mitchell Issue Is Cleverly Avoided

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 9.—(AP)—The American Legion's seventh annual convention ended today with the elevation of John R. (Go-Get-'Em) McQuigg of East Cleveland, Ohio, white-haired, 59-year-old lawyer and banker and wounded over seas engineer officer, to the office of national commander.

His election was assured long before the end of the first roll call of states was announced and his two opponents, Howard P. Savage of Chicago and Edward Spafford of New York, successfully moved that the election be made by a unanimous vote. The vote was McQuigg 661; Spafford 224 and Savage 55. Thus ended what was termed by many the legion's most harmonious convention, despite it was convened and operated four days under a storm cloud which threatened to send the delegates in a terrific fight.

The matter of commendation for Colonel William Mitchell, severe critic of the nation's aerial defense was the hidden rock of dissention which never was revealed.

Harmony.

The able hands at the helm of the legion guided a course so clear that the matter was not brought to the floor of the convention.

Committee reports and resolutions were read off and adopted by viva voce votes under the precise parliamentarianism of the retiring national commander, James A. Drain of Washington, D. C., with a surety and swiftness not previously witnessed at legion conventions.

Most of the reports and resolutions adopted had to do with services for world war veterans, or interests peculiar to the legion and of national or international interests, one, however sought to have the legion go on record as favoring United States adherence to the policy of the world court of the League of Nations but was amended so as to favor adherence to a court of international justice.

The next meeting will be held in Philadelphia in 1926 and that of 1927 in Paris, France.

Pick Vice-Aides.

Five vice commanders chosen today were Hugh B. Davis, Bartlesville, Okla.; Joseph Y. Cheney, Orlando, Fla.; Vincent A. Carroll, Philadelphia; James A. Howell, Ogden, Utah, and Ray B. Littlefield of Providence, R. I.

James F. Burton, Des Moines, Iowa, was chosen national adjutant and Robert H. Tyndale of Indianapolis will be national treasurer.

The Rev. William Patrick of San Francisco was elected national chaplain.

A sister of Jack London, the late novelist, was chosen to head the women's auxiliary of the American Legion. She is Mrs. Eliza London Shepperd of San Francisco.

Among the vice presidents chosen were: Eastern division, Miss Mary C. Coyle, Waterbury, Conn.; southern division, Mrs. A. F. McKissick, Greenville, S. C.

A sharp fight occurred on the convention floor over recognition of the 8 and 40, auxiliary to the 40 and 8, resulting in recognition being refused because a clause in the 8 and 40 constitution barred negro women.

$15,000 LOSS IN REFINERY BLAZE HERE

Pump-out Line From Stills Cracks and Flames Break Out

Fire starting when a pump-out line from the main battery of stills cracked caused loss of approximately $15,000 late Friday afternoon at the Wilson Brothers refinery just north of town on the Burkburnett road. The exact extent of the damage could not be ascertained last night, but officials of the company believed it would run to something like that figure.

Only a fortunate wind direction prevented a much higher loss, it was said. Principal damage came when the structural steel supports of an overhead battery of condenser boxes were melted in the intense heat and allowed one unit of the condensers to crash to the ground.

Trucks were called when the flames were discovered but returned to the station when refinery officials decided not to pour cold water on the flaming oil and into the heated maze of pipes. Later, however, No. 4 station pumper truck was called again. It dropped a suction hose into an irrigation ditch at the side of the refinery grounds and flooded out the flames from two long delivery lines.

Oil-Gas Chief Advises Operators To "Make The Best of Situation"

COMMISSION TO MEET WITH ALL OIL MEN TODAY

Little Relief Promised For Two Years Says Judge Bell

"SHOW" ON JACKSON

Matter Will be Taken Up Thoroughly in Meeting Today

By A. HALLIMAN

"Make the best of the situation, such as it is."

This was, in brief, the advice of Judge H. E. Bell of Austin, chief of the oil and gas division of the Texas railroad commission, given in an interview at the Kemp hotel last night. Judge Bell deplored the status of legislation governing the actions of deputy supervisors of the commission, but stated that beyond "making the best of things, such as they were" the future held no other promise for betterment of condition, for two years at least.

"In The Field."

"It was the hope of the commission," Judge Bell explained, "that an attorney general's interpretation of the words 'in the field' which occur in the last budget allowance for the division might permit the use of the deputy's own judgment about the division of time between office and field, it being our contention that 'in the field' was intended to mean in the line of duty whether that be on the derrick floor or in the office. Just before I left Austin, however, I talked with Assistant Attorney General Sutton, to whom the matter had been referred, and was told that his decision in the matter would be that 'in the field' was to be interpreted literally, and that a deputy supervisor would be required to spend all of his time in the field, away from an office."

"Making the best of the situation," Judge Bell went on to explain, means in this instance, putting a deputy supervisor in an office just so long as is necessary to consummate work necessarily incident to his field activity. The time thus spent in the office, is not expected to exceed an hour and a half or two hours. According to Judge Bell oil men of north Texas have agreed that if they might count upon communication with a deputy supervisor at certain hours every day, the inconvenience of the present system whereby that official is difficult to locate at any time, will be eliminated, and the operator may be able to arrange his work accordingly.

Division of Time.

It is hoped in this connection, Judge Bell states, to make an arrangement whereby Mr. Coplin may be in his office at Wichita Falls the first two hours of every morning, Mr. Tilley likewise at Olney, and the same elsewhere over the district. No relief is promised, though, as to centralizing the work of the commission at Wichita Falls as the operators here have asked. The budget of the oil and gas division is rather certain in its specifications as to just where money is to go, and would not allow the expenditure of an amount necessary to provide office facilities at Wichita Falls for work over all of north Texas. Thus work in Olney's district must be handled through the Olney office, as heretofore. Electra through Electra, and the east half of Wichita county and Clay, Montague and Cooke, through the Wichita Falls office.

Although admitting the imperfection of these arrangements Judge Bell insists that they are the best allowable under the present legislation governing the commission's activities. "Make the best of them" is his advice.

In commenting on the situation Judge Bell stated that relief of any sort could hardly come before September in 1927 when a new budget would be worked out, inasmuch as a special session of the legislature would be necessary to make any changes before then.

The matter is to be taken up thoroughly at a meeting of oil men and officials of the commission this morning, at ten o'clock. Judge Bell has signified that he and Commissioner Terrell who will be present at the meeting also, will be open to any suggestions that oil men here may care to make. Deputy supervisors from all over north Texas will be present for the meeting.

CHATHAM HAS HOPES TO SAVE $150,000 TAX

Traffic Manager In Report On Irrigationists Incomes

A detailed written report on success of his efforts to secure an income tax adjustment for property owners in district No. 2 of the irrigation project was made Friday to the chamber of commerce business council by J. W. Chatam Jr., traffic manager, who has just returned from Washington where he had the matter up with the treasury department. As a result of the readjustments, Chatam believes district 2 property owners will be saved over $150,000 a year.

Through a somewhat complicated system of computation, tax payers of district 2 are to be allowed a deduction from their income tax statements on the strength of assessments made against their property and paid by them as irrigation taxes.

A suggestion that the diversion lake of the irrigation project be named Lake Sam Bellah in tribute to the man who worked long and tirelessly with J. A. Kemp for the creation of what is now the Wichita County Water Improvement project has been made here and recommendations passed on to the directors of the two districts.

Bellah, now a resident of Decatur, made the selection over a decade ago of the point where a dam should be thrown across the Wichita river to form an impounding lake.

SELL STILLS TO JUNK MAN

Frederick Rids Itself of Whiskey and and Whiskey Paraphernalia

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 9.—(Special)—Tillman county Tuesday disposed of 10 stills to a junk dealer in a destructive campaign on confiscated whiskey stills. Some 30 gallons of whiskey was poured into the city sewers, and 10 stills chopped up and sold for junk.

There was also a large market for some of the choice whiskey among the bystanders, who witnessed the event with long faces and dry lips.

Zale Diamond Buyer In City To Conduct Sale Of Stones For Company

Max Kurjan, diamond buyer for the Zale Jewelry company, is in the city to personally conduct a diamond sale for that firm. Mr. Kurjan has recently returned from Europe, where he bought an enormous quantity of diamonds which will be placed on sale today.

In answer to a question as to the condition of the diamond market at present he stated that good stones were in greater demand than ever before. Prices, he said, were on a steady incline owing to the fact that practically the entire industry has gone into the hands of J. P. Morgan, therefore he urged immediate buying.

According to Mr. Kurjan, he will have with him some of the finest diamonds in the country which will be offered at extremely reasonable prices because of Zale's contracts with the world's diamond center, thereby giving him a greater buying power.

OPEN DITCH

and no one would be killed on account of the disease germs it would contain. But who wants to drink sewage, no matter how treated?

No commercial water purification plant ever devised can or does operate continuously one hundred per cent perfect. The greater the pollution of the water which enters our plant the greater the chance of something going wrong and allowing death dealing germs to get by and enter our water mains.

The greater the amount of filth and corruption carried by our water as it flows through the open ditch the greater the chance of some of it getting by the filters and killing some of us.

There is a vast difference in pollution. To the popular mind a few dead horses, cows, dogs, cats, or fishes would render a water dangerous to drink. They would undoubtedly make a rather unappetizing beverage, yet as far as giving you typhoid or any other disease, it might be entirely harmless. But on the other hand let some of the wastes from a typhoid patient get into your water. You would never know it, still you would be in serious danger of death.

Typhoid germs and their ilk do not come from animals but from the wastes of human beings. That is one of the reasons why the open ditch through the city is so dangerous. Death dealing germs from the people living along it are quickly conveyed by the flowing water down to the water plant. With a pipe line no germs can enter after the water leaves Lake Wichita.

Lake Wichita is subject to all kinds of pollution but not to the same degree as the open ditch.

The number of people living around the Lake whose wastes might get into the water are few compared to those along the open ditch. This of itself means less danger of pollution.

Filth coming into the Lake must come in from the sides or down Holliday creek. The lake is still. It does not flow like a river. Therefore the filth coming into it remains close to the banks or far up at the head miles away from where the open ditch takes out. For months and months it is exposed to the action of the sun light and the oxygen dissolved in the water. Injurious germs are either killed or greatly weakened before they reach the outlet of the lake into the open ditch.

On the other hand disease bearing filth entering the ditch is conveyed rapidly and surely by the flowing stream to the water plant.

50,000 ACRES ADDITION FOR DITCH SOUGHT

J. A. Kemp Outlines Holliday Creek Valley Project To Council

Unified support of a plan to bring 50,000 or more acres of fertile land under irrigation was implored of Wichita Falls business men Friday when J. A. Kemp, speaking before the business council of the chamber of commerce, revealed that definite steps had already been undertaken looking to acquisition of this new territory.

Area of Plans.

The area on which attention is now being centered south and east of Wichita Falls in the Holliday creek valley and can be served adequately by extensions and laterals from the south side canal. Sufficient surveys have been made, it was said, to prove the feasibility of irrigating at least 50,000 and perhaps 60,000 additional acres there. Mr. Kemp also indicated that two more extensions of the project, one involving a small territory around Iowa Park and the other a much larger section in the Thornberry and Charlie communities, were under consideration. These, however, will not be developed with any intensity for some time yet.

Must Sell the Idea.

With irrigation of this section a proven engineering possibility, the next big step, Mr. Kemp said, was gaining the approval of farmers and landowners in the affected area. A campaign designed to "sell" the irrigating idea to them has been decided upon; and to that end the services of J. W. Chatham, Jr., traffic manager of the chamber of commerce and formerly with the irrigation boards, have been secured. Mr. Chatham will retain his chamber of commerce post but will devote practically all of his time hereafter to visits through the new section and signing contracts with the landowners for taking the water.

To Aid Chatham.

Traffic work of the chamber will not suffer in the meantime, arrangements having been made by other members of the chamber of commerce staff to take over Mr. Chatham's duties.

Need of preaching the irrigation creed; inspiring in landowners in the Holliday valley a confidence in irrigation and in lending all co-operation possible to the directors and officials in their work was stressed mainly by Mr. Kemp in his address. He expressed full belief that the contemplated acreage could be brought under the ditch without much opposition and said that the time was now ripe for it to be done.

GAS LEAKAGE IS BLAMED IN FATAL BLAST

Four Lives Lost, $200,000 Damage Done In Explosion

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 9.—(AP).—A gas leakage in the basement of the 10-story Laclede Gas Light company building was declared today by two survivors nearest the scene to have caused the terriffic blast late yesterday which killed four employes and injured 51 others, nine severely.

Company officials estimated the damage at between $200,00 and $300,000.

Anthony Kahler and Frederick Bristow, both of whom were critically injured, said they detected a strong odor of gas in the basement several minutes before the explosion.

AMARILLO FIGHTS SAN ANTONIO FOR $100,000 MEMORIAL FOR COWBOYS WHO WENT UP TRAIL

Panhandle Town Promises To Raise Half of Amount Necessary

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 9.—For the first time during the convention of the Old Trail Drivers the possibility of erecting the $100,000 memorial shaft in some town other than San Antonio was broached today during the afternoon business session. Various speakers followed the lead of Charles Goodnight, trail blazer, in suggesting other locations. Colonel Goodnight placed Amarillo's hat in the ring for the coveted honor. Other speakers supported his plea.

The Amarillo delegation, headed by Goodnight, soon disposed of other contenders, and the race soon narrowed down to a contest between San Antonio and the Panhandle capital.

Goodnight assured the convention that Amarillo would contribute $50,000 to the monument fund.

Promise $50,000.

The fight was first precipitated on the floor of the convention when the committee named to solicit funds for the memorial reported less than $100 had been contributed by San Antonio interests to the $100,000 fund. Colonel Goodnight said Amarillo would raise $50,000 to get it there.

"In my judgment the town that will help spend $100,000 to erect a memorial to the pioneers o fTexas will receive more publicity than they could buy for twice that figure," Guston Borglum, sculptor, told the audience. His talk was interrupted frequently by prolonged shouts that could be heard for blocks.

A Publicity Feature.

"Do something and you will get publicity," he laid down as a creed for a town or community. "Erect this shaft in San Antonio and every newspaper and magazine in the United States will give it more publicity than could ever be bought.

"Texas has a distinct personality in the eyes of the outside world that only needs perpetrating to sightseers from every quarter of the globe, if tourists are what you want. The Texas town that evinces sufficient interest in the Old Trail Drivers to help them erect this proposed monument will be the mecca for the tourists of the future.

ONE WICHITAN

convene in Austin November 2. Mr. King enumerates eight demands or reasons therefor.

Significant Reasons.

Significant of these reasons was the third:

To investigate all state departments and state institutions to the end that efficient service in public officials may be commended and unworthy ones, if any, may be exposed and punished.

And the fifth which read:

To investigate the abuse, if any, of official powers and prerogatives by state officials.

Rep. King concluded his proclamation with the statement that "it is to be hoped that the governor of Texas will see the imperative need of this extraordinary session and supplement this call with the usual proclamation and in case the governor does not do so it is hoped that the speaker of the house will take such action in order that there may be no quibbling as to the constitutionality of the action of this special session of the legislature."

In this legislative district opinion from legislators who could be reached prevailed that Rep. King did not have the authority to convene the legislature, the only encouragement given his proclamation being the expression which came from speaker of the House Lee Satterwhite of Amarillo. Mr. Satterwhite, in enumerating provisions for the convening of an extraordinary session of the legislature mentioned that such session could be convened upon a petition of the majority of the members.

Satterwhite Says He Has Heard Rumors Of Special Session

AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 9—"I had no information of a definite plan to call a special session of the legislature until informed by newspapermen today," Lee Satterwhite, speaker of the Texas house of representatives declared in reference to the A. H. King statement.

"I have heard rumors that a number of the members were considering a call, however. A law passed by the thirty-fifth legislature provides three ways in which a special session may be called:

"First. By a proclamation issued by the governor; second, a proclamation issued by the speaker of the house upon petition from as many as 50 members of the legislature, and third, by a majority of members of the house."

Alaskan Natives Exchange Wives

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 9.—(AP) If the natives of some 30 Alaskan villages bordering on the Arctic ocean and Bering sea would discuss wife-swapping before the deal was consummated instead of afterward, the work of Uncle Sam's seagoing court in the north would be easier, Lieutenant Commander William P. Wishaar, executive officer of the coast guard cutter Bear, declared. The Bear returned from its 37th annual cruise yesterday.

Commander Wishaar is a deputy United States marshal when justice is necessary.

Open polygamy among the Eskimos has become rare, due to the activities of the missionaries and coast guard, Wishaar said, but wholesale exchange of spouses upon occasions seems to have taken its place.

Preparations were made to take him to Atlanta within a few hours.

The results of his life's labor as a gambler, broker and finally, fugitive from justice, are about $2,000,000, he says.

Mitchell Sentence Is Still in Doubt

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—While the official decision still is to be made, it appeared probable today that no punitative measures would be taken against Colonel William Mitchell for his refusal to qualify as a witness before the naval court of inquiry into the Shenandoah disaster.

The only concrete development in the case was the formal certification of the facts to the war department by the navy department. Thus, the navy leaves the first step to the army, while high officers in that service take the unofficial view that the issue rests squarely with the naval court.

Only ten cases were tried Friday morning in city police court and all but two of these were for alleged traffic violations. One drunk was docketed and one man billed on a charge of using profane language.

Dr. E. C. Routh, editor of the Baptist Standard, Dallas, will be in Wichita Falls Sunday and will preach at both the morning and evening services. Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the church, is in Houston where he is conducting a revival.

SPARKS FLY AT MARTIN TRIAL; LAWYER FINED

Ted Monroe Is Handed Jail Sentance and $100 Penalty

DALLAS, Oct. 9.—A fitful day closed tonight over the W. A. Martin murder trial as attorneys at 7 p. m. began arguments which carried them far into the night.

The fate of the man charged with the murder of R. B. Parsons, Denton county deputy sheriff, on August 6, should be known by noon tomorrow.

A defense attorney fined $100 and sentenced to three days in jail, children playing over the lap of the defendant, and sheriffs in 10-gallon hats contradicting each other, were some of the contrasts of the fifth and final day of testimony.

Testimony was closed at 2 p. m., after the state had offered several character witnesses, who testified that the deceased Parsons was a respectable and honest citizen, and not an imported killer, as alleged by the defense.

Court Room Packed.

Judge Charles A. Pippen's court room was packed like a world series ball park, when the judge, overcome with impatience, slapped the $100 fine and jail sentence on Ted Monroe, counsel for defense, when he plied his cross-examination too vigorously.

Former Sheriff William Swinney of Denton county, who was defeated by William Fry at the last election, was on the stand. Monroe was shouting questions at him.

"Isn't it true that you are going to run for sheriff at the next election and you are afraid to tell the truth about this matter? You fear public opinion. Now isn't that true? You are under oath and must tell the truth."

Afraid of Nobody.

The witness was confused by the storm of language, but he answered that he wasn't afraid of anybody.

As the witness was leaving the stand Monroe shouted at him:

"Good-bye, Mr. Candidate. Thank you."

"Here! here! what do you mean?" Judge Pippen asked, glaring over the top of his bench.

"I have had enough of this. Mr. Monroe I fine you $100 and sentence you to three days in jail for that conduct."

He ordered the sheriff to serve the papers on the counsel at the conclusion of the trial.

Mr. Monroe took exception to the action of the court in the presence of the jury and it was so noted in the record.

Sheriffs in Conflict.

Conflicting testimony given by Sheriffs Fry of Denton and Schuyler Marshall of Dallas also enlivened the tense court room. The two officers gave entirely different accounts of instructions given the Dallas sheriff on the night of August 6 by Sheriff Fry, when Sheriff Marshall went to his aid in arresting Martin.

Martin's children, Ada Rhea, 10, and Duana, 8, came running into the court room as the first witness took the stand in the morning. They jumped into their father's lap and kissed him, and throughout a part of the day played about his knees, unmindful of the danger their father faced.

More Truth Than Poetry

WARNING

O maids of the far away beaches,
Where soft is the breath of the breeze,
O girls by the uttermost reaches
Of murmuring tropical seas—
We think about you with compassion,
What time we are penning this song,
For you'll be the victims of fashion
Before very long.

No rude vandal scissors have shorn you—
As under the palm trees you pose,
Your beautiful tresses adorn you,
Sometimes almost down to your toes.
With locks you are mantled and bodiced,
They are all of the clothes you require—
And you always look charmingly modest
In nature's attire.

But the bob wave is slowly receding,
And the girls in the temperate zone
Before very long will be needing
Your hair to parade as their own.
So traders will come to entreat you
And offer you trinkets for pay,
To let them with clippers deplete you
Of all your array.

A while with pathetic elation
With your hair unbecomingly short,
In the fashion of civilization
'Neath the sheltering palms you'll disport,
In all fitting calico dresses
You will amble and caper about,
But how will you get back your tresses
When your bob-craze goes out?

J. Pluvius Beats Series Contenders Friday, So Third Game Today

FERGUSON AND KREMER STILL MOUND CHOICE

Bluege Recovers, Will Be Back in Senator Lineup

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Rain drops curved across the landscape and that familiar old veteran, J. Pluvius, silenced the batteries of world's series forces today and put off until tomorrow the renewal of hostilities between the deadlocked Washington Senators and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The downpour started at 8 o'clock this morning, simultaneous with the arrival of most of the warring battalions from the haze of the opening two skirmishes in Pittsburgh. It kept up almost continuously until noon, when a deep sea conference, participated in by High Commissioner Landis, President Clark Griffith of the Washington club, and Manager Bill McKechnie of the Pirates concluded that the field at Griffith Stadium was in no condition for championship combat.

Then, just to play a prank on the thousands of capital rooters disappointed in their hopes of seeing the first game on home soil, old Sol checked the watery attack and gave a balmy finish to the afternoon. The chief encouragement in this, however, was the prospect that tomorrow and the following two days would provide suitable weather for the play to go on under its delayed schedule.

Rest Welcomed.

The washout provided an unexpected, yet welcome, rest for most of those in the warring camps, despite the impatient desire of the competitors to keep in stride but it was especially a blessing in disguise to Bucky Harris and his gallant champions.

The Senators came back to their home port with ranks somewhat shattered and shaken in sustaining their first defeat of the series in the second game yesterday and today's rest presented an opportunity to consolidate their lines once more. It not only provided an interval which will permit the two Washington sharpshooters, Johnson and Covelskie, to come back to the firing line earlier than had been hoped, but it also was expected to assure the return to the lineup of Ossie Bluege, brilliant third baseman, who was laid low by one of Vic Aldridge's fast ones yesterday.

Bluege tonight was pronounced entirely out of danger of any ill effects of the blow that struck him down and cast an added bit of gloom over the Senator camp in the midst of defeat. An x-ray of the third sacker's head revealed no injury of any sort. He was resting easily at his apartment in a hotel, and physicians who had earlier believed he could not don a uniform again until Sunday, decided he would be fit and ready for service tomorrow.

Peck Rests Up.

This was the most cheering development of the day for the capital camp, while the veteran Roger Peckinpaugh, whose wobbly fielding had been another damaging factor in the Senators' defense also hailed the rest as a chance to shake his fielding jinx and get back into normal gait.

So far as the twirling staffs are concerned, Harris and McKechnie both regarded the delay as a benefit although it did not change the plans originally laid by the rival boards of strategy for the third game. After an afternoon of deep thinking among the master minds it was assured that tomorrow's tussle would find Alex Ferguson, Washington's right hander and master of the "screw ball" opposed to Ray Kremer, a comparative newcomer to the major leagues but a seasoned moundsman nevertheless. This probably will result in McKechnie calling on his youthful southpaw star, Emil Yde, for Sunday's game. Harris, for that day may rely on his veteran portsider, Dutch Ruether, although Johnson and Lee Meadows, opponents in the first game, will have had three days rest, enough to permit either to go back into the fray.

The fifth game now is scheduled here Monday with the scene shifting to Pittsburgh for the sixth and seventh, if the issue is prolonged that far. It will be, unless either team takes three straight games here and this possibility is regarded as remote in both camps as well as among observers who have watched the closely waged struggle so far.

Strangler Flattens Munn Second Time

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Ed "Strangler" Lewis, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling title, strengthened that claim by again conquering Wayne "Big" Munn here last night. It was Munn who cast the cloud over the Strangler's title last winter by gaining a decision over him when he tossed him out of the ring, but Lewis refused to recognize the verdict.

The headlock, made famous by Lewis, won the first fall for him last night in 28 minutes. The crotch hold, which gave the questioned victory to the Nebraskan at Kansas City, resulted in the second fall, going to Munn in 12 minutes. The deciding fall went to Lewis after another series of headlocks in 19 minutes.

The diamond studded belt, emblematic of the championship which Lewis had refused to surrender after the Kansas City bout, was at stake. The victory was Lewis' second over Munn in five months, having defeated him at Michigan City, Ind., on Memorial day.

Vernon Reserve Eleven Slams Devol Machine

Sayre and Lion Regulars Slated for Contest Today

VERNON, Texas, Oct. 9.—That weak Lion reserve squad ran rough shod over Devol's eleven this afternoon at Fair Park, defeating the visitors 41-0. The Oklahoma gridders never had the ball in Vernon's territory.

As this game was in progress, two elevens from Sayre and the Vernon regulars were running signals on a field nearby in preparation for the tilt tomorrow. Sayre appeared to have a powerful eleven, having much weight and speed in evidence.

Three local lads stood out particularly this afternoon in the second string's game with Devol. Castleberry, News and Heyhurst ran wild in the Vernon backfield. Castleberry made a number of the most sensational runs recently seen on the local field, scoring a touchdown after a 45-yard run through a broken field, stiff arming his way through.

Newts carried the ball within striking distance for Vernon's first score by an 18-yard end run, then carried it over for a touchdown after Key and Heyhust had made short gains through the line. A series of line bucks carried the ball from Vernon's 40-yard line for the next touchdown, Heyhurst going over for the score. C. Key placed the ball on Devol's 15-yard line shortly afterward with a 22-yard run and Newts bucked it over. Another 35-yard run by News placed the ball on Devol's 5-yard line and Heyhurst went over for a goal. Castleberry scored next with his 45-yard run for a touchdown. Nabors scored Vernon's final counter when he blocked and covered Devol's punt.

The line-up:

Vernon	Position	Devol
Hopkins	Left Tackle	Barrett
Black	Left Guard	Usher
Parker	Center	Houston
Walker	Right Guard	Postelwait
Lewis	Right Tackle	R. Wright

Casey Jones Wins Detroit Plane Race

MITCHEL FIELD, N. Y., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Casey Jones of Garden City, N. Y., won the aviation town and country club of Detroit trophy race, the only event run of those scheduled today in the national air races. He flew a Curtiss-Oriole plane at an average speed of 128.42 miles an hour.

Despite the steady down pour of rain which forced postponement of the balance of the program until Monday, nine of the eleven planes which started in that event finished the 100-mile course.

HEAVIER BOWIE ELEVEN RUNS OVER MONTY'S JUNIOR SQUAD FOR EASY VICTORY, 49 TO 0

BOWIE, Oct. 9.—Bowie's heavy football machine smashed through, over and around Wichita Falls Junior High school here this afternoon for an easy 49 to 0 victory. The local team tore through the lighter Wichita Falls line almost at will, and ran off around ends frequently for long gains with Raines, Watson, and Wade doing the ball packing mostly. Raines played fullback and was easily the outstanding performer in the contest. He was Bowie's greatest ground gainer.

Delaney, Wichita Falls substitute quarterback, played a wonderful defensive game. Stationed at the safety position time and again it fell his lot to turn back Bowie's advance after the runner had passed the rest of his team mates.

Farris, Wichita Falls captain and fullback, was the only man who could advance the ball against the Bowie defense. He got away with several gains on short end runs and tackle brushes.

Nichols, Wichita Falls' center, managed to squeeze through the opposing line several times to break up plays, but on the whole there was no stopping of the Bowie drives.

BOWIE (49)	Po.	W'Falls (0)
Aikman	Left End	Stevens
Lynch (c)	Left Tackle	Holstead
Sadler	Left Guard	Tandy

Rumor Now Has It McCarthy To Take Cub Reins

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Reports persisted in baseball circles tonight that Joe McCarthy, manager of the pennant winning Louisville club of the American association would be signed as manager of the Chicago Nationals for 1926.

President Veeck of the Cubs would have no announcement to make until after the city series.

WORLD SERIES NOTES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—Lightning calculators figure that today's postponement adds about $1,000,000 to the world's series bill. This includes increased hotel and maintenance costs to the followers and contenders, added expense to the clubs and the wide variety of revenue that is connected otherwise with such a traveling performance.

The Pirates will be greeted tomorrow morning by President and Mrs. Coolidge at the White House and pose for pictures with the chief executive and his wife, who have arranged to attend the game in the afternoon.

Close to a thousand hopeful fans huddled under umbrellas, papers, oil cloth and tarpaulin covering in the center field bleachers in the rain for nearly two hours before the postponement decision was reached. Many of them had stood in line since daybreak to be sure of their seats, but they planned to be back in line again tomorrow.

One of the most interesting phases of the series thus far has been the superior defensive work of the Pirates. Before the series, their youth and comparative inexperience was expected to make them unsteady but McKechnie's youngsters have outsteadied their more seasoned opponents for the most part. This was particularly true of the stone wall infield defense put up behind Aldridge in yesterday's game.

With two games in the bag, the official averages show Joe Harris, slugging Washington right fielder, leading the regulars of both teams at bat with a mark of .571 compiled from four safe blows in seven times at bat. Harris also is the leading run getter, with two tallies to his credit and sets the pace in total bases with seven.

CHILDRESS IS BEATEN BEFORE FAIR THRONGS

Hollis High School Team Trounces Texas 20 To 0

CHILDRESS, Oct. 9.—The Hollis high school Indians of Hollis, Okla., defeated the Childress high Bobcats 20 to 0 here this afternoon before a crowd of more than 3,000 spectators attending the Childress State fair. Hollis was master of the game in almost every quarter and crashed the left side of Childress' line for heavy gains. Two bad passes from center and a blocked punt broke the morale of the Bobcats in the first half of the game, when Hollis took the breaks and scored 14 points. Both teams used forward passes for good gains. The Bobcats were outweighed on an average of 30 pounds.

The line-up:

Hollis	Position	Childress
Sims	Left End	Hill
Davis	Left Tackle	Wood
Denton	Center	Johnson
Moore	Right Guard	Stribling
Pryor	Right Tackle	Sport

Series Scalpers Find Going Hard

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Hard luck has hit twice at the scalpers who operated here during the first two games of the world's series. Not only have 15 of them been arrested, but all agree that business is bad.

"Pittsburgh is the toughest job I ever tackled. I'll be lucky if I break even on the series," one of the arrested told police. Of the 15 arrested nine were discharged and six were awaiting hearings today.

STARTLING NEWS

Rumors, when they once get started, no matter how far fetched, certainly travel at a rapid gait. Met one fellow on the street yesterday afternoon: "Gosh, this fellow Bluge who got hit yesterday died!" was his startling information.

* * *

Moved around the corner and ran into none other than Buddy Tanner who inquiried about Bluege's "death." Every few feet we bumped into some world series fan who had heard, he said, that Bluege had kicked off from the injury received when hit in the head with a pitched ball by Vic Aldridge Thursday at Pittsburgh.

* * *

That was the biggest topic of conversation along with the weather, over the coffee cups, down at the restaurant. Ossie Bluge had died, so they had it, but where did they get it?

NOT A. P.

Oscar isn't dead, in fact, he expects to play in today's game at Washington, and if not this afternoon surely in the Sunday tilt. Cecil O'Hara, the A. P. operator, declares you can't blame it on the Associated Press, this rumor. All the racket was started by some dumb bird over the radio, he averred.

FIGHTS SEMI-MONTHLY

Speaking of rumors, few fight fans yesterday had it Don Wofford had quit the game and boxing matches this winter were all off. We buttonholed Don down on the corner and asked him why he'd quit. He was surprised to hear the news, and then declared the only excuse he could imagine for the rumor was the recent word he dropped to one or two that bouts would be held semi-monthly during the cold months instead of weekly.

TRAMMEL RETURNS

Incidently, the first indoor fight carded this winter is slated for Monday a week, Oct. 19, featuring Duke Trammel, former favorite, after a long lay-off. Dukey is coming back against Johnny Ercangrack of Houston, said Wofford. Wildcat Monte and Johnny Sherrod are to stage the semi-windup. Both mills are to be over the ten-round route.

* * *

Trammel hasn't performed in a Wichita Falls ring for more than two months now, and it is quite likely fans here will welcome the return of the one time very popular Fort Worth socker. Duke made several poor showings before he took his vication from the local arena, but this was attributed to staleness and overwork by many of his followers. Meantime, he's supposedly rested up and come out of that.

PECULIAR, INDEED

It may of interest to know Jim Brown, Chicago's Greek welterweight wrestler who meets Matsuda here Tuesday night in a finish match, is grappling gratis, free for nothing, without any recompense, and not a dime coming to him other than a round trip ticket with Chicago marked on it twice and Wichita Falls once.

* * *

This may sound unusual. Well, it is. But Brown has his reason, according to Matchmaker Ross. Following the tussle last January in Chicago between this pair which lasted three hours and 45 minutes without a fall, Brown has been pursuing Matty for a return match. He's willing to wrestle for nothing in order to get another shot at Matsuda's belt, declares Ross, and being somewhat of a business man, Alec straightaway signs the Chicagoan on that basis. Matty is to receive 50 per cent of the gate.

* * *

It's not necessary to emit that should Brown beat Matty the Jap loses his championship belt. Possibility of Wichita Falls seeing a title change hands.

The Spudders made a mistake in not covering up Bubber Jonnard, the catcher who some think, including the writer, the best backstop in the Texas league, while others aver he's the worst. Although there were rumors Thursday night that Joe Pate and Jonnard had been drafted by major teams the news was not verified until Friday.

What do we mean by "covering up?" Nothing whatsoever, except we venture that Howard Fitzgerald, Alex Metzler, and possibly Bob Osborn will be back with the Spudders next year. This trio, as you recall, was sold to the Cubs at the close of the Texas league season.

CARL MITZE TO MANAGE BEARS

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Carl (Honus) Mitze, veteran, minor league catcher, this year manager of the Fort Smith club of the Western association and former pitching coach for the St. Louis Cardinals, has been appointed to manage the San Antonio Bears in the 1926 Texas league race, it was announced today. Mitze succeeds Bob Coleman, who was offered the position of manager again but declined. Coleman's plans are indefinite but it is possible he will act as scout for the Boston Red Sox.

Mitze caught the left-handed curves of Harry Ables, now president of the San Antonio club, when Ables twirled for Oakland in the Pacific Coast league a dozen years.

The new manager is still an active catcher and will take his regular turn behind the bat for the Bears. He caught for the pennant-winning New Orleans club in the Southern association a few seasons ago.

He will attend the Texas league meeting at Dallas Sunday.

HOLLY ROOD SUSAN WINS.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Holly Rood Susan, driven by the owner, J. L. Dodge, won the May Day stake in straight heats at the grand circuit races here this afternoon. Guy Dean was second and Polly Peachtree and Station Belle divided fourth money. The best time was 2:11¼.

The race was worth $7,500 to the winner.

PACK LEADER AND TRIO OF LINEMEN OUT

Six Athletes in All Get Ax On Neck—Pierce On List

chances to defeat Electra's Wichita Falls high school's Tigers in the conference opener here next week-end were considerably dimmed Frday night with announcement by Coach Bud McCallum to effect four of the Coyotes' outstanding players and two squad men have been declared scholastically ineligible for the contest.

Although these men will not be allowed to participate in the Electra game there is a possibility they will be used against Vernon in the second league tilt, that is, if they make their grades up in the meantime.

Captain Rowdy Curtin, halfback; Lofton Edmondson, guard and tackle; Bob McCullough, tackle; Jim Pearce, tackle; George Taylor, halfback; Alvin Chewning, end and back, are the ineligibles.

Curtin's broken field running will be sorely missed. Edmondson stacks up as one of McCallum's best linemen. McCullough ,a new man, has proved himself a nice prospect. Pierce is the undoubtedly best in the line, and Taylor is McCallum's leading place-kicker.

WACO FEARS FROG SCRAP WITH BAYLOR

WACO, Oct. 9.—Can a pair of makeshift ends, a re-made line, an uncertain squad of quarterbacks, an erratic punter, a trio of fleet halfback, and a good center of the line form into a team by next Tuesday that is capable of turning back the young and ambitious T. C. U. eleven on the Fair park gridiron at Dallas? That is the question that is causing much worry to Baylor university coaches and supporters. The above enumeration just about describes the Baylor football squad at the present time although the Bears are showing some improvement daily but they are still a long ways from being in shape to take on conference competition.

The Bruins are working hard for that T. C. U. game and they are not out of the battle yet by any means in spite of the fact that many critics are trying to count them out of the race. They are having trouble in forming into a team as a unit, a team that can play a high type ball game with co-operation and co-ordination but they are improving daily and Bears fans are hoping that if they can get a few breaks they will be able to pass by the Frogs and then will have a little time in which to complete their preparation for the Texas Aggies whom they play on Oct. 31.

The Baylor team is always late in getting into shape and it is not an unusual thing for it to lose a game or two in the early part of the season to small T. I. A. A. teams but the fact that a conference game with T. C. U. is coming so early is the cause of worry to the Baylor fans.

The Horned Frogs will enter the game with a great chance of marking up a victory over the Bears and it will be a great laurel for Matty Bell's eleven if they can turn back the champion Green and Gold.

BABE RUTH ILL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Babe Ruth, earstwhile monarch of big league sluggers, left today for New York ill as a result of a slight recurrence of the malady that kept him out of the game last spring.

The big Yankee hitter's illness was said to be due to the after-effects of his operation for internal abscesses some time ago.

Matty Laughs When Told He Fears Jim

Matty Matsuda, they said, was afraid to meet Jim Brown, the Chicago Greek, after that worthy battled him three hours and 45 minutes with neither gaining an advantage early this year in the Windy City.

But this was how Matty looked when told that some of the fans really thought he feared the Greek. He laughed outright and straightaway agreed to meet Brown here next Tuesday night.

The PASSING HOUR

~ by Wm. B. Ruggles ~

GRID LIFE—AS IS

Binks stayed four years in college that he pastimed with the scrubs—
The coach who looked him over always classed him with the dubs;
And so when in the final game of Binks' mis-spent career,
They sent him in at halfback, he thought his day was here.

'Tis true the reason Binks went in was due to rival zest
That crippled up some score of backs in legs and arms and chest,
But Binks the last remaining hope was happy 'spite of all
When the quarterback called signals that let him heft the ball.

Did I mention that the score was naught against a nothing, too—
That Binks' best girl was in the stands? Of course these things were true
And so when Binks with courage that is born in prince and king
Tore 'round an end to cross the line, applause was deafening.

Alas! This did not win the game, offside were both the guards—
The referee with eagle eye set Binks' team back five yards—
The foemen blocked a punt and ran—a winning score they made—
For football most infrequently like joyous fiction's played.

Trained Under Fire.

IF THERE is anything in the theory Doctor Stewart developed last fall for the showing of the Texas eleven at Thanksgiving when, after a more or less disnatrous season, it defeated A. and M., the Aggies should be in for another tough engagement this Turkey day, regardless of how the preceding games may terminate for the Longhorns.

Stewart had played from pillar to post last fall with a battered eleven. With each recurring game, fresh regulars limped out and fresh reserves went in. "When we met A. and M." Stewart said later, "we had had so many players in regular positions that we had a pretty strong team of well trained players available for Thanksgiving."

Not for the same reason, it is to be hoped, but a better one, the team that the Aggies face at College Station this year should be a thoroughly tried one. For it goes through such a schedule as no conference eleven has ever assailed before—Mississippi, Vandy, Auburn, and then the conference games in order.

If that route list will not test a team under fire, what will?

THE old-fashioned alumnus who used to gripe about the team losing, football saw it first in the east. Over 30,000 people have seen a football game in Texas. And that is twice as in as large as the record for a baseball contest.

ALL is not yet lost for McGraw. He won the interborough title by taking more games from Brooklyn than Brooklyn took from the Giants.

BUT there is no world series money in beating Brooklyn.

AND derned little glory.

FOR the fifth time in six Dixie series one is moved somewhat to compassion for the defeated Southern leaguers by reason of the fact that is almost inevitably overlooked at this section of the contest—that some of their defeats may be attributed to the spitball pitching of Paul Wachtel.

Mr. Wachtel uses a delivery which no Southern leagurer looks at from one Dixie series to another, because, outside of a few aging major league handlers of the moist slant, no persons in organized ball, except two per club in the Texas loop, are permitted to use it.

WEST wants to know if New York is a menace, Methodist board asks. Not in the opinion of Messrs. Clark Griffith, Bucky Harris, Barney Dreyfuss and Bill McKechnie.

Not So Long Ago.

THE DIXIE SERIES drew 73,030 paid admissions and $100,975 in cash custom, according to the official figures.

Very far from the million-dollar gate that the world series plays to nowadays—but, on the other hand, you do not have to go all the way back in series' history to find a world series drawing no more. And there has never been a time in the history of the big fall classic when the contending cities did not represent populations far in excess of what the two class A champions stand for.

Of course, small stands that could accommodate no more than Fort Worth and Atlanta can now must be counted in the reckoning. Interest less keen on the part of larger bodies of people does the rest.

Still the day may come when the million-dollar gate will pay to see the Dixie battle.

Football, though, will see it first, as spends all his extra breath now cussing the seats he got.

CORTEMGLIA PLUNGES PONIES TO VICTORY OVER WASHINGTON

DALLAS, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Southern Methodist university Mustangs galloped over the line of Washington university's eleven from St. Louis this afternoon to a 20 to 6 victory. The powerful Cortemeglia, Mustang halfback, in a series of brilliant line plunges, was responsible for much of the scoring. The St. Louisans gained their single touchdown on a beautifully executed pass durin gthe last quarter.

Cortmeglia made two of the three touchdowns for S. M. U. The third one, made by Wade, was on a fumble recovered across the line when Cortmeglia made a dive for a touchdown and failed to register.

Much of the game was played in the rain. The Pikers were unable to gain on several trick plays attempted. They made a few gains through the line but the real threat was on a forward pass, Levy to Hayes, in the last quarter, which gave them their only score.

Early in the game the Mustangs abandoned everything except line bucking, with an occasional end run. Cortmeglia carried the ball much of the time, while Visor also made good gains while he was playing. Mann and Roy Bishop were the most consistent gainers around the ends. Bishop kicked two goals after touchdowns, missing the third by inches.

Aggies to Battle Sewanee Men Today

DALLAS, Oct. 9.—The Texas Aggies arrived here today for their big inter-sectional clash with the Sewanee Tigers at Fair Park Saturday. Both teams had a light workout this afternoon and then doffed their pigskin regalia to await the starting whistle at 3 o'clock tomorrow.

Veteran teams will form both line-ups in tomorrow's fray. Coach Dana X. Bible of the Aggies has at his command a powerful team, that last year gave much trouble the Southwest conference.

Coach Bennett will put into the fray a team that is liberally sprinkled with two and three-year letter men.

When Sewanee trots onto the field, Dallas fans will glimpse one of the best backfields in the south. Barker at quarter, Gibbons and Powers as halves, and Mahoney at fullback compose a brilliant quartet of stars who can run, pass and kick well. These men caused the upset in Sewanee's decisive victory over Vanderbilt at the close of last season.

While the amount you pay with a solution of the puzzle does not have any effect on your winning a prize, it does affect the amount you will receive, should you win one of the first nine prizes, as the value of these prizes is determined by what the winners pay. This is explained in the prize list, which you should study carefully before sending in your solution.

The time a solution is received has no bearing upon its winning a prize. Accuracy is what counts.

Not more than one prize will be awarded to any one person.

The sum total of the figures are not known to any one.

The drawer and maker of the cut knew the total as he drew it, and no one else. When the cut was received by The Record News several figures were clipped out. No Record News employe knows the drawer's solution and the drawer does not know what numbers were cut out by The Record News, and will not know until after the closing date, November 14th, 1924. No one knows any more about what the correct answer is than the contestants themselves.

Deciding Ties

In case of ties those tied for any prize will be presented with a second puzzle, which will consist of drawing a line across the face of a chart of figures, like the accompanying chart, only larger, so that the figures thus connected when added together will total the greatest sum. If necessary this chart will be used four times, after which, should any ties remain, each contestant will receive full value of any prize tied for.

In case there are no ties on counting the Elephant no other puzzle, of course, will be presented.

NEW YORK COTTON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The big break in the cotton market yesterday was followed by rallies today on further trade buying or covering which seemed to be promoted by apprehensions of killing frosts in the southwest.

December sold up to 21.78 or 68 points above the low of yesterday and closed at 21.72, the general market closing steady at net advances of 36 to 48 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of six points to a decline of six points. There were many overnight selling orders in the market representing the disturbing effects of yesterday's government report but there was buying on relatively steady cables and rather the initial offerings had been absorbed the market advanced on the official forecast for frost in northern portions of the western belt and rumors of a golf storm. The latter was found to be based on nothing more serious than a small craft warning along the Texas coast and after selling about 42 to 51 points net higher, the market hesitated.

The trade buying which has been so active on the decline of yesterday afternoon and again at the opening this morning seemedto be tapering off around the 21.75 cents level for December contracts and there was a renewal of selling on the increased crop figures. Offerings were absorbed on reactions of some 20 or 30 points, however, and the market firmed up again late in the afternoon on the fear of an early killing frost in the southwest, a renewal of domestic and foreign trade buying, particularly for the European or Japanese account and covering.

October sold up to 21.83, a new high for the day and March also made a new high in late trading, selling at 21.34. Last prices were within three or four points of the best on most positions.

Exports today 34,085 making 1,434,176 so far this season.

Port receipts 55,613. U. S. port stocks 988,961 bales.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The cotton market was active today and the price trend was upward in strong contrast to yesterday. The stimulating influences included the first frost scare of the season, and a good demand for spots at a higher basis. Following a slight recession at the start the market turned firm on a prediction by the weather bureau of killing frost in the northwest and a possible freeze in northern Oklahoma. This coupled with a small craft storm warning for the Texas coast caused prices to advance rapidly and by the end of the first hour were 46 to 50 points above the early lows. There was a later recession of 20 points on fears of bearish weekly statistics but they proved less bearish than expected and a good spot demand developed, the market rallying to within a few points of the best in the late afternoon and the close showed net gains for the day of 38 to 41 points.

Liverpool advices were ignored and first trades showed gains of 9 to 15 points. The market eased off right after the call to 20.25 for December, 20.56 for January and 20.63 for March or two points under yesterday's close, but when the frost prediction was issued prices rallied rapidly, reaching 21.05 for December, or 46 to 50 points up from the lows.

Prices eased off moderately toward the end of the morning on realizing, but were steady again after the weekly statistics were issued. The afternoon rally carried prices within a few points of the highs.

Hester made mill takings 327,000 bales for the week and the into sight 670,441 bales. Exports to rthe day totalled 30,083 bales and for the week 173,490.

TEXAS VEGETABLES.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 9.—Although the movement was light, Texas entered sweet potato markets yesterday with heaviest shipments to date, three cars of a total of 137. This state was not listed in the movement of other commodities, which continued to be featured with the heavy potato and apple rollings. Total shipments of the day in the various commodities follow:

Apples at Colorado shipping points yesterday were dull for extra fancy boxed Jonathans at $1.60 to $1.65, with fancy around $1.30 to $1.40. Danish cabbage at Rochester was slow at $15 to $16 ton usual terms and domestic about steady at $10 to $12. Potatoes at Idaho Falls were strong at $1.25@2.00 for sacked Burals on a cash track basis, while Russets at Grand Junction, Colo., were firm at $1.35 to $1.40 on a sacked wagon lot basis. Demand for potatoes generally was active.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Oct. 9.—Cattle buyers were offering steady prices for fat cattle and the Friday market in Fort Worth was more active than on most days this week. Calves, however, had to be peddled, and sales indicated an additional decline of of 50c. Stockers sold freely at \ good, steady values. The count called for 3,000 head of cattle and 1,000 calves.

Beef steers played an important part in the day's livestock market, receipts being almost too small to make a showing. Sales looked steady with the mid-week break, which was around 15@25c.

Fleshy cows were easier to sell, buyers apparently being fairly well pleased with present levels. A feature was the purchase of a string of seven carloads at $4. Canners and cutters met with the usual good demand, the market showing activity. Unchanged conditions were noted in the heifer and yearling division. Bull trading was at steady prices.

It was late in the session before many calves were turned into the alleys. Buyers were talking lower, and when sales were made they reflected another downward revision. Quality made a good average, a large number of good calves of a weighty type being on offer. Early sales included a few cars at a spread of $7@7.50.

Anything in the stocker classification that was desirable was disposed of at satisfactory prices and the call was good. Decent corn fed sold around $8.75 to $9.00.

Feeder steers are bringing $6.50@7.10.

Hog salesmen were more willing to trade, and the market was active for the first time within several days. Prices ruled 25c lower, but at the decline the Fort Worth market was on a relatively high basis. Two cars brought $12.50 and the remainder of the receipts cleared at $12.25@12.40. Receipts amounted to only 600 head, and ifcluded a few that came on direct packer billing. Not enough pigs and sows arrived to test the trade.

Receipts in the sheep house were estimated at 1,200 head, some sheep coming on packer billing and a few decks being consignments received by feeder buyers. The market was steady. Good shorn wethers notched $8.10, some feeder yearlings cleared at $10.75 and three decks of goats made $3.00.

TEXAS PRODUCE.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 9.—There is a firm undertone to poultry and eggs at all leading markets in the state this morning and an apparent scarcity in the production this year is being reflected in higher prices. Hardly enough eggs were received at San Antonio to establish a farmer market. Most of the receipts brought $9.50 per 30 dozen case, but a few were taken in as high as $10.

San Antonio—Hens 20c, few 18c, fryers 22@25c, old roosters 12c pound live weight; eggs No. 1 candled per 30 dozen case mostly $9.50, few bidding higher.

TEXAS COTTON SEED.

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 9.—Cotton seed markets declined today, largely under the influence of restricted outlets for mill products. Demand was reported light at most points with wagon loads of prime at Texarkana bringing $30 and carlots $33 ton compared with $33 and $36 respectively a week ago. A two-dollar ton drop was listed at Fort Worth for the day with wagon lots selling at $24 ton, making carlot market about $27 to $28 ton.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Stock prices gave another impressive demonstration of strength today under the leadership of the high priced industrials. The buying was the usual mixture of short covering and bull pool operations. It was probably influence by the absence of any strain on the credit situation as reflected in the lower renewal rate for call money and the maintenance of the 3½ per cent rediscount rate by the New York federal reserve bank and growing indications of expanding fall trade.

Nearly two score issues mounted to new high levels for the year on total transactions that exceeded 2,000,000 shares. Group movements were again in evidence with the automotive chemical, express, merchandising, public utility and tobacco issues making the best showing.

Spectacular advances took place in the so-called rich men's stocks. S. S. Kresge soared 51 points to a new high record for all time at 705, or 125 points above Monday's low, and then slipped back to 700 on profit taking. Talk of a stock split-up accompanied the rise. Detroit Edison jumped over ten points to a new top at 154¾, closing within a point of the top. Chrysler, which sold as low as 101¼ earlier in the year, was bid up nearly eight points to 200.

The weekly mercantile reviews confirmed reports of better business. Bradstreet's states that "cool weather, with snow in the northwest and parts of the central west and rains quite well distributed throughout the rest of the country, have given a stimulus to retail buying of clothing, shoes and other apparel and spurred the production of soft coal."

Dun's sets forth that "both statistical records and reports from widely separated cities give increasing evidence of the upward course of business.

"Some holding back still appears," it add, "but the main trend is unmistakably toward expansion, and there is greater stability now than has prevailed for a long time."

Short covering played a prominent part in the rise of the motor stocks. Studebaker, General Motors and Dodge Brothers "A" all mounted to new peak prices for the year, as well as a number of rubber and motor accessory shares, including U. S. Rubber, Goodrich, Timken Roller Bearing, Fisher Body and Gabriel Snubber.

Department store issues were bid up in anticipation of record breaking holiday trade. Gimbel Brothers, McCrory Stores "B" and Associated Drygoods all breaking through their previous maximum quotations. Tobacco stocks were given another whirl under the leadership of United Cigar stores, which soared seven points to 97 a new top, and a gain of 13 points in two days.

Standard Industrials were held in check by profit taking. U. S. Steel common opened with a block of 6,000 shares at 124⅛ and then slipped back to 123¾, for a small fractional loss on the day. Baldwin showed a slight loss at 118⅝ after having sold more than a point above that figure and American Can closed about a point higher at 238. Rails continued to lag behind the industrials although St. Paul preferred advanced over a point on the announcement that the reorganization plan had been declared operative.

Call miney held at 4½ per cent all day. Time money and commecial papes sates were unchanged. Foreign exchanges were easy with the exception of demand sterling which held firm around $4.83 13-16. French francs ruled nearly three points lower around 4.60½ cents. Other recessions were of a nominal character.

BRADSTREET'S REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say:

Cool weather with snow in the northwest and parts of the central west and rains quite well distributed throughout the west of the country, have given a stimulus to retail buying of clothing, shoes and other apparel and spurred the buying and production of soft coal. Despite some interruption to country trade and to seeding of winter wheat, the general effect has been beneficial to jobbing and wholesale trade, which seems to have thrown off the hesitation noted last week, and to be better than a year ago at this date. A feature of retail trade also has been the frequent mention of "sales" at retail, rather early in the season, it would seem. Intensive advertising has seemed to bring about a good distribution of these goods, but several markets report department store trade as chiefly benefited, small neighborhood concerns not getting as much business.

Weekly bank clearings $10,475,081,000.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET.

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

The tendency of wool values is upward the world over. Worsted manufacturers are tremendously busy for the most part and the woolen end of the business seems to be slightly better. Medium woods are well sought and in narrow supply, although there has been relatively more demand for the finer grades the past week.

The new fall wools are getting into warehouses in Texas, although no sales are yet reported. The fall mohair clip is practically cleared, all large pools having been sold with best goat hair bringing close to 60 cents at the top and kid hair bringing fully 70 cents. Quotations:

Scoured bases, Texas fine 12 months selected $1.25@1.28, fine 8 months $1.10@1.15.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Efforts to prepare for surprises in the government crop report as well for a holiday on Monday were largely responsible for a material upturn in wheat prices today. Contrary to general expectation the official forecast showed a decrease instead of a substantial increase of the 1925 domestic yield of spring wheat. On the other hand, the government estimate of corn productions exceeded by 48,000,000 bushels the average of private estimates.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1½ to 2c net higher, new style, December $1.38⅝ to $1.39 and May $1.39½ to $1.40, with corn 1½ to 2⅝c up, oats ½ to ½c gain, and provisions varying from 20c decline to a rise of 17c.

Rough weather and scantiness of receipts gave a lift to the corn market. Oats followed corn.

In sympathy with the hog market, provisions averaged lower.

TO EXTRADITE RYAN

AUSTIN, Oct. 9.—Governor Miriam A. Ferguson today honored a requisition issued by the governor of Ohio for the rendition of John J. Ryan, wanted in Hamilton county, Ohio, on a charge by indictment of giving a check against insufficient funds. Ryan is under arrest at El Paso.

Market Gossip

MARKET GOSSIP.

R. E. Flowerree and Co., brokers, Basement Staley building, today received the following market comment from Fenner and Beane of New York, New Orleans and Chicago:

COTTON.

A very sharp rally occurred today owing to buying by shorts over prediction of killing frost and freezing weather in the west.

Aside from this, there was not much feature to the trading. The weather bureau predicted rising temperature tomorrow, so the frost may not prove as injurious as now expected.

It is interesting to note the government last crop figure is not being assailed like the previous one, on the contrary there are many expressions of belief in a crop of 15,000,000 bales.

What is a crop of such a size worth? Whatever the answer proves to be, it seems logical to assume that until more of it is moved in the channels of trade, prices will give away.

Under the pressure of hedges and at least a partial filling of manufacturers immediate needs.

GRAINS.

Wheat: An advance in the deferred deliveries of wheat at Liverpool, together with more evidence of strength in the domestic situation gave firmness to the market today. Export news from the seaboard remains of a very discouraging sort and if any business is being done, it is probably by the Canadian pool and is not made public.

It is doubtful if there is any large volume, judging from the export clearance.

It seems probable that the tightness in the domestic situation is responsible for the present demand from previous sellers, as there is nothing in the foreign news or export trade suggestive of higher prices.

It is hard to buy cash wheat except at high premiums.

If there is to be any decided trend in prices it will be secured from the outlook for the Argentine crop and at the present time this is favorable.

The rally in corn is considered as a natural reaction, not as any change of fundamentals. The cash end only remains, expecting higher prices is the discount of commercial prices under the farm feeding values, and this is not likely to be effective market wise until present accumulations are lightened or until there is a decided improvement in the distributing demand.

STOCKS.

There was an early morning resumption of upward movement in many sections of the list. Higher prices in general prevailed at the opening in response to unchanged rediscount rate.

Timken Bearing continued the feature, making another new higher. Chrysler passed its previous high. The movement was generally regarded as a confirmation that a new adjustment of capital is pending in the near future.

Further gain also made in United Cigar stores, American Can and Woolworth. Remington was another fast moving specialty. The market had an appearance of being free from selling pressure and trading proceeded in an orderly manner until the last hour, when buying in large volume again came into certain stocks and Chrysler sold at new record prices.

Other strong features included Studebaker, Industrial Alcohol and General Motors.

BANKERS ARE READY

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Bankers are realy to take the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway, the largest railroad system in the country, from receivers and place it on a firm financial basis.

Truett of Dallas, noted Baptist minister, will be in Burkburnett Saturday and will conduct the dedicatory services of the new Baptist church building in this city Sunday morning. He also will preach here each day of the week at the noon hour and at night until Wednesday noon, when he will return to Dallas.

Dr. S. P. Brooks, president of Baylor university at Waco, also will be here during Dr. Truett's stay from October 10 to 14.

Other churches will suspend their Sunday services here next Sunday and the stores will be closed for the noon hour meetings.

Today's is the second meeting of the club since teachers in the public schools have been admitted to membership. A cordial invitation is extended by the club to have them attend. Judge J. H. Dickey is president. Other features on the program besides the address have been arranged.

Accuse Farmer In Daughter's Attack

FREDERICK, Oct. 9.—T. A. Baxley, prominent Tillman county farmer, was bound over to await the action of the district court in his preliminary hearing in Justice C. S. Rossen's court here. Baxley is charged with a statutory offense, the complaining witness being Mrs. Thelman Fox, his daughter.

DIES IN GANG WAR

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Another murder was attributed by police today to th bootlegger-gangster feuds that have taken a steady toll of lives during recent weeks. Michael Pironi, taxi cab chauffeur, was riddled with five bullets fired from across a street with the unerring accuracy of a sharp shooter.
