TWO LAW PARTNERS SHOT TO DEATH IN OFFICE

Farm Boy Saves Speeding Katy Train When He Flags Special At Washout

COOKE COUNTY YOUTH AVERTS RAIL DISASTER

Anton Hermes Stops Passenger Out of Wichita To Give Warning

WICHITANS ABOARD

Cloudburst Washes Out Line in Vicinity Of Gainesville

Racing far down the tracks to wave a desperate warning to the oncoming locomotive, Anton Hermes, young Cooke county farm boy, late Friday afternoon wrested more than 100 lives from danger when he stopped a Katy passenger train speeding eastward from Gainesville toward a washout in the road bed which would have spelled disaster.

Wichitans on Train

Many Wichita Falls passengers, who had boarded the train when it left the station for Dallas at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon were among those saved from the results of a serious wreck. A description of the boyish heroism which averted the disaster reached here through J. Wilkie Talbert, one of the number.

The speeding train was brought to a sudden, jolting halt within a few hundred yards from a 30 foot washout which must have hurled it from the tracks. Railroad officials said Friday night that had the train taken the defective section at its usual speed, unwarned by the boy, a wreck would have been inevitable.

The washout resulted from a cloudburst which flooded all of Cooke county late Friday afternoon, railroad men reported. Young Hermes, walking along the track toward his farm home, discovered the washout and remembered that the eastbound passenger train was due in a few minutes.

Races to Meet Train

Realizing that no time was to be lost if he was to signal his warning before the locomotive was too close to the washout to be stopped, the boy started on foot down the track, racing against time and the speed of the engine to prevent the disaster.

His frantic signals were seen and the engineer brought his engine to a halt just as the boy jumped aside from its path. The track was examined and the train taken at a snail's pace over the dangerous section to safety.

Repair crews were rushed to the spot, discovered first by the keen eyes of the boy, and the road was again in order before 2 o'clock Friday night.

Passengers and railway officials joined in gratitude to the youth as he waved the train once more upon its way.

GRAIN PRICES AT NEW 'LOW'

Tumbling Values Met By Heavy Selling

CHICAGO, May 31. (AP)—The grain markets went careening down again today with new momentum.

Holders of wheat, corn, oats and rye scrambled to unload and the lowest wheat prices in 14 years failed to exhibit interest for pathetic buyers. Wheat was 2 to 2¾ cents lower at the finish, contracts for May delivery sagging as low as 93¼ cents a bushel, but closing at 94⅝ while July contracts went at 97⅛@⅝ cents.

There was little trading in grain contracts for May and wide fluctuations were the rule. May rye was particularly vulnerable, driven down nearly 8 cents below Wednesday's close only to recover and finish 6¼ cents lower for the day at 73¾ cents. Corn was 2⅝@2¾ cents down, May at 79¾ and July deliveries at 80⅛@80⅝. Oats finished 1 to 3¼ cents lower, May contracts at 38¼@39 cents and July at 40⅛@40½.

The initiative in this latest plunge came from Winnipeg, where prices had made a nose dive yesterday while United States markets were closed for the holiday. The reason was the prediction that Germany would follow France and Italy in boosting its grain import duties.

Chiropodists Debate New Name for Craft

LOS ANGELES, May 31. (US)—Many of the California state association of chiropodists members in convention here aren't at all satisfied with the ancient and honorable name that designates their profession.

What's needed, they claim, is something modern and fancy—something like "pediatrist." In fact, that's the term being advocated by the sponsors of the proposed change.

There's a lot of discussion going on, and the delegates have until the conclave closes Saturday to decide if a change shall be made.

Companion of Youth Held in Altus Sought in Series of Robberies

Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., May 31.—Doyle Morgan, 17, of Clinton is in the Jackson county jail and officers are searching for his companion as the result of the theft of a car and the robbery of two filling stations here Wednesday night.

Two boys are alleged to have taken a Ford coupe belonging to Cecil Smith from its parking place at 600 West Commerce, stopped for gas at the Bill Kent filling station, two miles west of Altus, held up Kent with a gun and took about $12 in money and some checks.

Officers stopped the pair in Olustee after a second filling station near Duke had been robbed of an undtermined amount of money. One boy escaped after throwing the money obtained from the Kent filling station in the back of the car.

Morgan, who was driving the car, was captured. He denied knowledge that the car was stolen, and says he does not know the name of his companion.

MASON WINS ACQUITTAL ON BRIBE CHARGE

Prolonged Questioning On Motor Car Bribery Brings Collapse

'POVERTY' PICTURED

Queried as to Whether His Wife Does House Work, Jurist Falters

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 31. (AP)—Charles W. Mason, chief justice of the Oklahoma supreme court, tonight was acquitted by a senate court of impeachment of a charge of accepting as a bribe a motor car valued at $4,000 from Willis G. Sautbine and Charles D. Sautbine at a time when they had litigation pending before the supreme court.

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 31. (UP)—Chief Justice Charles W. Mason of the Oklahoma supreme court was weeping when he retired from the stand after hours of questioning in his impeachment trial here today.

The justice had been turned over to the defense for examination after prolonged questioning by the prosecution concerning his alleged acceptance of a motor car as a bribe for a valuable opinion. He made a blanket denial of all prosecution testimony.

Question Brings Tears

Harve Maxey, his counsel, seeking to establish the jurist's financial condition, asked whether Mason had servants. Mason replied that he did not.

"Your wife does her own work, doesn't she?" Maxey asked.

Mason broke at this question and was excused when he seemed to be unable to continue. He left the chamber immediately.

The prosecution has sought to establish that the justice was given a $4,000 motor car by W. G. and C. B. Sautbine, motor dealers, while they had a $40,000 case before the supreme court.

Russell Charlton, New Mexico state policeman, was put on the stand by the defense and testified the motor car was merely loaned to him for a trip to New Mexico.

The prosecution also sought to set up that Mason had been approached for a favorable opinion in a $3,000,000 estate case involving the Crews heirs at Enid. R. L. Williams, state witness, secretary of the estate, had testified negotiations had been entered into to get a favorable court action during the week of Sept. 29 and Oct. 4.

Meeting Related

The defense placed Thomas E. Elliott on the stand. Elliott testified late Thursday that Mason was his guest on the date of the alleged interview with Williams and that they were at the Oklahoma City airport together when Col. Charles A. Lindbergh made a landing there.

Williams was recalled to the stand and retracted the time of the alleged meeting of the justice with D. J. Milburn, who he had said was Mason's intermediary in the Crews case. The witness insisted, however, that the meeting took place.

SHIELDS LOSES

Des Moines U. Trustee Fails in Move To Close School

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 31. (US)—Dr. T. T. Shields, president of the board of trustees of Des Moines university, today lost his move to dissolve a court injunction gained by the student body to compel the university authorities to keep classes in session.

The university "row" began a month ago when Shields "fired" the faculty and ordered the university closed. The student body stood with the faculty and ugly charges were hurled at Shields and Miss Edith Rebman, his secretary. When Shields sought to enforce his closing order Judge Frank S. Shankland granted the students an injunction to protect their credits.

$1,000,000 LOSS IN HUGE FIRE

Industrial Section of Sheboygan, Wis., Razed

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., May 31. (UP)—Buildings over an area of three city blocks in the industrial section lay in ruins tonight when a spectacular fire which swept the Sheboygan river front for three hours today was brought under control.

The fire, one of the most disastrous in the city's history, starting in a frame warehouse from an unknown cause, spread quickly to the plant of the Garton Toy company and to other buildings. Only one small warehouse remained tonight. Damage was estimated at $1,000,000.

Hundreds of citizens, using water buckets and garden hose, fought successfully to save their homes when flaming embers, carried by wind, were spread over several blocks in the adjoining residential section of the city.

Fire departments of Milwaukee, Manitowoc, Kohler, Sheboygan Falls, Port Washington and Elkhart rushed companies here when the blaze went beyond control of the Sheboygan department.

The tug Peter Reiss also was brought into the fight when the flames were spreading to other buildings—the Sheboygan Chair company, Sheboygan Dairy Products company, Gustch Products company and two gas holders of the Wisconsin Public Service corporation.

Several hundred employes in the business district, just two blocks away, and residents throughout the city lined the water front and watched the battle.

A shift in the wind late in the day aided the firemen, but another shift off Lake Michigan drove the flames westward again toward the river front. This increased the work of the river tug and threatened for a time industrial plants on the opposite side of the Sheboygan river.

AGED TOY MAKER WATCHES BLAZE

SHEBOYGAN, Wis., May 31. UP—An 87-year-old man, who was actively at the head of his company, watched the plant he had spent many years in building, go up in flames when the Garton Toy building was destroyed today.

Eusebius B. Garton, who came here from Toronto, Canada, had worked at his plant each day since 1864. He came here as a worker but later saved his money and started a company to make wooden novelties. Out of vast holdings only one small warehouse was left tonight.

Prison Walls Again Hold Bill Gordon

HUNTSVILLE, Texas, May 31. (AP)—The walls of the Wynne state prison farm, which gave way last night before the onslaughts of William Gordon, serving a 10-year term from Harris county for theft and burglary, tonight again held Gordon a prisoner, thanks to the flood. After leaving the farm, Gordon obtained a motor car at Huntsville which he abandoned at a washed out bridge south of New Waverly. Felix Hardy, deputy sheriff, captured the fugitive in the woods east of New Waverly today and returned him to the farm.

Shrine Nobles Take Over Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, May 31. (US)—As gentle eventide settled over Los Angeles today, it found a multitude of nobles from here, there and everywhere in possession of the town and eagerly awaiting the opening tomorrow of the six-day annual Shrine convention.

The estimates of the number of Shriners and their families who will be here by tomorrow night runs from 25,000 into the millions, depending on where the figures originate.

Child Marriage Brings Charge Against Mother

FORT WORTH, May 31. (AP)—The disclosure of the alleged marriage of Helen Hadie Cowger, 11 year old girl, to a 21 year old man resulted today in a complaint against the child's mother, Mrs. Gertie Cowger.

The woman was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor. It was alleged a marriage license was obtained with her permission. Helen will be tried Monday in district court as a delinquent child.

TWO DROWN IN HOUSTON'S MAIN BUSINESS AREA

Messenger Boy Swept Into Torrent as Spectator Topples Over

EXPERT SEES RELIEF

Partially Flooded City To Be Normal Again By Late Today

HOUSTON, May 31. (AP)—Two persons were known to have drowned tonight in the destructive flood which had been sweeping the city for 24 hours.

A messenger boy who rode his bicycle too near the torrents on a downtown street toppled from the bike and was swept away. A horrified bystander lost his balance and fell into the water. He, too, was whirled away.

The identity of neither victim was learned.

The body of the youth was believed swept into the flooded basement of a nearby business establishment. It must remain there until the waters subside.

Floods Crest Passes

Meanwhile, the crest of the flood passed and the flood waters tonight were beginning slowly to recede from the business section. Weatherman Lawrence H. Dalngerfield predicted late tonight that Buffalo Bayou will be back within its banks by tomorrow night unless additional rains develop.

No estimate of the damage had been made and none will be made until departure of the waters reveals full extent of the havoc wrought by the inundation.

Traffic was in a hopeless snarl during the rush evening hours as thousands of automobiles attempted to cross the remaining two bridges across the Bayou. Traffic which normally passes over more than a dozen bridges jammed the structures remaining passable.

Scouts Direct Traffic

Boy Scouts directed traffic downtown as all available officers guarded danger points in the flooded area.

The rampaging Bayou, which cuts through Houston, is being fed by an immense lake west of here, persons who surveyed the situation from the air, reported today.

Flood waters surround Clodine, Gaston and Katy. From Clodine upstream the Bayou is 10 miles wide and wider in places. Considerable livestock was drowned between Houston and Katy and farmers in the west part of Harris county were moving out.

Trains Cancelled

Train service had been suspended for two days at Katy and the townspeople were out of many necessities. A train load of supplies was expected soon.

H. L. Shaw, city engineer, made an inspection trip by airplane this afternoon. He spoke of "pitiful desolation" in the upper Buffalo Bayou and Brazos river sections.

Bray's Bayou was flooding the country southwest of Houston. Several persons were marooned at the Colonial Country club.

City records a century old were ordered removed from the basement of the city hall as the flood waters approached.

Only four bridges over Buffalo Bayou remained open to traffic tonight. About half of Houston is located on the side of the Bayou opposite the principal business section.

Mayor Walter E. Monteith instructed the fire commissioner to place extra supplies of chemicals

Fair Speeder Blames Barbecued Meat for Her Fast Pace

CHICAGO, May 31. (US)—New York's naughty night clubs are not half so hard as Chicago's barbecue palaces, according to Miss Barbara Shaw, 21, a Gothamite today.

Hailed before Judge McCarthy on charges of reckless driving and resisting and officer, Miss Shaw said:

"I'm awfully sorry, your honor, but barbecued meat always makes me wild. This Chicago stuff especially."

Judge McCarthy assessed a $10 fine and a warning to "be careful of what you eat."

CONVENTION OF ROTARY ENDS

Friendship Comes to Fore At Last Session

DALLAS, May 31. (AP)—The 20th convention of Rotary International adjourned here today while the building still was ringing with cheers for Chilean and Peruvian delegates who shook hands on the stage and assured each other that the Tacna-Arica dispute was a thing of the past.

The gesture of international friendship came as delegates from all nations were delivering greetings to the assembly.

Francisco Mordones of Santiago, Chili, assured the convention that the Tacna-Arica dispute, which for years had kept Chili and Peru on the verge of war, was a thing of the past. The next speaker on the program was Louis A. Chaves Velando of Arequipa, Peru. Senor Velando echoed Mordones' words and said his country was happy that it could regard Chili as a friend. Mordones rose and the two shook hands, later taking seat beside each other on the stage.

Newsom Elected

The closing session of the convention transacted little business and gave most of its attention to speeches on subjects of community and international service. The election committee announced that M. Eugene Newsom of Durham, N. C., had defeated Raymond Knoeppel of New York for the presidency, and the vote was made unanimous on the motion of Mr. Knoeppel.

Three vice presidents were elected at the last meeting of the old board of directors this afternoon as follows: Dr. Otto Boehler, Vienna, first vice president; Edouard Willems, Brussels, second vice presi-

Boxing Exhibition Halted at Dallas

DALLAS, May 31. (AP)—A boxing exhibition was called off before it started at a private club here tonight as a result of the presence and action of Ranger Captain Tom Hickman. Hickman said he acted under orders of Adjutant General R. L. Robertson, Governor Moody's chief law enforcement aid.

William McCraw, Dallas district attorney, issued a statement criticizing the governor for what he asserted was the executive's attempt to enforce "blue laws," classed by the attorney with others which "forbid the sale of Coca Cola on Sunday and Sunday movies." Stopping the fight the order he characterized as "cheaply theatrical."

MINE OWNER SURRENDERS IN DUAL SHOOTING

Two El Paso Attorneys Victims of Former Client's Wrath

IN SEPARATE ROOMS

Grievance Over Outcome Of Suit Involving Mine Blamed

EL PASO, Texas, May 31. (UP)—To avenge what he termed continual harassment for the past four years, Jose M. Marin, 67, a Spaniard, owner of rich mines in Mexico, today shot and killed Frank J. Lyons, 44, and Herbert D. Oppenheimer, 37, members of a prominent El Paso law firm.

The double slaying occurred in El Paso's largest office building as 1,000 occupants were scurrying to lunch. Attracted by the shots they milled to the fifth floor, making it impossible for police to reach the dead men.

Marin Gives Up

After the shooting Marin walked into an adjoining office. Placing his .38 calibre revolver on a desk he asked that the police be called.

Marin took a seat, apparently composed, and calmly awaited arrival of police as hundreds of spectators crowded about him, eager for a sight of the avenger.

There were no witnesses to the tragedy. Marin had waited until the lawyers' secretary stepped from the office on her way to lunch. She had just reached the elevator when she heard the shots. Returning to the office she saw the bodies of her employers. She fainted.

Violence Threatened

Threats of violence ran through the crowd which jammed the offices and corridors but before a leader could organize for action police arrived. Marin did not resist and he seemed to be the coolest person in the building.

At police station he asked to make a statement.

He is unable to speak English and an interpreter was summoned. Another statement, which had been prepared prior to the shooting, was found in his pocket when searched. It was addressed to the El Paso Post. Through the finding of this document and the fact that Marin two weeks ago purchased his pistol, police advanced the theory that murder was premeditated.

Slains Swindle

Marin charged in his statement that he had been swindled of $250,000 by the lawyers. He said they had charge of his mining property and the accounts of his mining company, in which the lawyers owned $300 stock. Through this connection they were able to draw checks at will without making an accounting, Marin said.

The aged mine owner recalled an alleged attempt by the lawyers to have him deported as well as several of his friends who had valuable information against the law firm, he charged.

Marin several weeks ago challenged Oppenheimer to a duel to end their grievance, police say, but charges filed against Marin by Oppenheimer were dismissed.

Prominent Lawyers

The lawyers are among the most prominent in West Texas. Lyons is a native El Pasoan. He is survived by his widow and two children, his father, Tim Lyons, who is now visiting in Ajo, Ariz., where a brother of the dead lawyer is a constable, and a sister who is a nun in Loretto Heights convent, Denver. Oppenheimer is survived by his widow and three children. He is a native of Taylor, Texas. Both were graduated from Texas university law school.

The accused man said the shooting followed Oppenheimer's refusal of his request for an accounting of the mining company's finances. Oppenheimer, on whom Marin had called, was shot first. Lyons, who had just returned from a federal court trial heard the shots and entered Oppenheimer's office. Seeing his partner on the floor Lyons started to retreat and was shot in the back.

Marin said he shot only after Oppenheimer reached into his desk for a pistol. The pistol was found in the drawer.

Ramsay MacDonald Slated as Prime Minister; Lloyd George Real Ruler

LONDON, May 31. (UP)—The Labor party has won the British general election and its leader, Ramsay MacDonald, is expected to become prime minister of Great Britain for the second time.

The decisive defeat of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin, Conservative party, which has held power since 1924, was surprising, but it was not great enough to give MacDonald a majority in the house of commons.

As a result, David Lloyd George's Liberal party will hold the balance of power in the new parliament and only through sufferance of the Liberals will the Labor party be able to form a new government or remain in power.

With 597 of the 615 seats in the house of commons decided, the results were as follows:

Labor won 289 seats, representing a net gain of 125 seats over the number they held in the last parliament. The gain was made principally at the expense of the Conservatives.

The Conservatives won 262 of the 597 seats, representing a net loss of 136 seats.

The Liberals won 51 seats, representing a net gain of 12 seats. Other parties had five seats, one less than in the last parliament.

Perry Holds Over

Chesley Perry, secretary, will hold over until the newly chosen directors meet in Chicago July 8. The new board will name a secretary and a public relations man, and will decide the 1931 convention city.

A resolution giving a man 10 years in the organization the privilege of retaining his membership after retiring from business was passed by the general convention without comment.

The election committee also announced the names of five directors from the United States who won in yesterday's election and the board of directors announced appointment of three directors from countries which do not have permanent seats on the board.

Those elected were: Dave Clerk, Charlotte, N. C., Roy Ronald, Mitchell, S. D., Dan O'Hern, Oklahoma City, Clyde Huldizer, Des Moines, Iowa, and Charles W. Ackley, Vineland, N. J., Dr. Otto Boehler of Vienna, Dr. Edouard Willems of Brussels and Florestan Aguilar of Madrid, were named to the non-permanent seats.

Tours Planned

With the adjournment of the convention Dallas became a cross roads for tourists as most of the delegates are planning pleasure trips. Most of those from New England and the north are making western and southern tours. The delegates from Germany are making tours of Mexico and the Mexican delegation itself is taking a number of delegates from other countries for a 10-day sightseeing trip in the Aztec republic. Airports reported that they were doing the largest business they have known.

Governors of the various Rotary districts and all other officers and officers-elect will remain here for a week conferring on problems of international service. Member of the board of directors also will meet next week and probably will select a meeting place for the 1931 convention. King Alphonso of Spain is understood to have invited the convention to meet in San Sebastian, Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires are other foreign cities from which invitations may come. Memphis, Tenn., has waged an active campaign.

Baptist Workers Stage Auto Parade

Members of the young people's departments of the First Baptist church staged an automobile parade through the business district of the city Friday afternoon, with banners, flags, and children's voices informing the public that a two-weeks daily vacation Bible school is to open at the church Monday morning.

According to J. W. Mason, educational director, the church is making preparations to enroll 500 boys and girls of the city in the various courses which are to be offered. Children from 4 to 14 years, inclusive, of any or no denominational affiliations, will be welcome, Mr. Mason stated.

Courses will include singing, music memory, Bible and character stories, Bible memory, hand work, recreation and amusement.

The following supervisors will have charge of the departments indicated: Intermediate, Mrs. Marion Smith; Junior-Hi, Mrs. R. L. Smith; Junior-low, Mrs. George A. Dog-Gone 'Em!—They Look Almost Human Maybe it was their personality that won London Kennel association championships for the four blue-blooded canines pictured here. For Artist George Clark, of the New York staff of NEA Service and The Daily Times, has demonstrated with impressionistic pen that these aristocrats of dogdom have strikingly human characteristics. For instance, "Orchard Shazaman," upper left, winner of four prizes in the Salukis class, looks like a none-too-young but deliberately demure duchess. A flapper? Certainly, my dear! That's "Chieveley Chinchilla," upper right, who vamped the judges for two poodle first prizes. Looks just like that blonde stenographer down the street who's letting her hair grow. Maturely masculine is the austere but kindly old bloodhound shown at the left, below. Though he plays the game for all he's worth, he isn't half so serious as he looks. Neither is "Champion Pugillst," at the right, winner of bulldog blue ribbons. Blunt, blustering, bull-headed, he's like a politician of the old school.

Daring Deeds of Three Women And Man Win Bell Telephone Medals

NEW YORK, May 31. (AP)—Three women and one man today were announced as 1928 winners of the Vail silver medals and $250 each awarded annually by the Bell Telephone system to those of its employes who during the year have performed the most "noteworthy public service."

The four are Mrs. Mabel Hite, Potter, Neb., Olin E. Perdue, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Athea P. Marks, Saticoy, Cal., and Miss Anna C. Turecsko, Rockaway, N. J.

Mrs. Hite, a telephone operator was cited for alertness and responsiveness in sensing an emergency under unusual circumstances." Through her efforts a mail plane pilot made a safe landing during a blizzard in a field marked by flares held by men summoned by the operator.

Perdue, a line measurer, saved a fellow employe from drowning.

Mrs. Marks was cited for "courage and devotion to the public service" during the St. Francis dam disaster when she remained at her post to warn residents of the Santa Clara, Cal., river valley that the dam had gone out although aware at the time that the flood waters might reach her.

Miss Yurescko, hearing that an automobile had plunged over an embankment on railroad tracks near Rockaway warned train dispatchers and summoned police and hospital aid for the injured, thus averting the probable wrecking of a passenger train.

Nose This Grindstone

LONDON.—What is believed to be the largest grindstone in the world was recently exhibited here. It is 6 feet in diameter, 14 inches thick and is built in 24 sections. The sections are grindstones in themselves, shaped in the form of a keystone arch and joined to the hub to form the surface of the wheel.

Gold in Gulf Stream

PARIS.—The gulf stream carries more than $8,000,000,000 worth of gold past any given point annually, according to M. Claude, French engineer, who is trying to convert the waters of the gulf stream into power. Something less than a cent's worth of gold is contained in every 220 gallons of the stream's water, it is estimated.

Checking Driver

LONDON.—A robot system is being tried out here on an information car of a London bus company. The car's speed, the length of time spent at traffic stops, the highest and lowest speeds, gas consumption and so on is registered on a black strip of paper. This information is used by the company in checking averages.

Hard on the Eyes

BERLIN.—The fruit of three months of work with a hard pencil has finally been displayed here by a German artist. He has succeeded, without the aid of a magnifying glass, in writing on an ordinary postcard, a 10,000-word story of the history of Colonel Lindbergh's flight across the Atlantic.

Nearly 70 marriages took place in England last year between husbands and wives who had been divorced.

GHOST TOWN

Della Plains Nothing But Farm Land Today; Was a Gift

Special to The Record News.

FLOYDADA, Texas, May 31.—A town that was deeded to the people of Floyd county but which was to revert back to its owner should the land ever be used for the sale or manufacture of intoxicating liquors is today but a level stretch of land used for farming purposes. Not a business structure remains to mark the founding of the first town in Floyd county which was given to the people with the above restriction.

The story was brought out by R. E. L. Muncy at the Old Pioneers day here Tuesday. He referred to Della Plains which was the first town in Floyd county and up to the organization of the county was one of the strongest of the young towns on the Plains. Following the organization and the election of Floydada as the county seat Della Plains was abandoned.

ROADS HEAVY AFTER RAINS

Unpaved Highways Reported In Poor Shape

Unpaved highways in this section of the state were in bad condition Thursday as a result of continued heavy rains, but improved materially under a day of sunshine Friday, according to reports received by D. M. Puckett, division engineer of the state highway department.

The roads between Wichita Falls and Olney, by way of Archer City, were particularly troublesome Thursday, highway employes said, being marred not only by numerous bad mudholes, but with a surface torn up by heavy traffic soon after the rain.

Muddy, rough roads were reported also from Throckmorton and Haskell counties, with the Seymour road through Baylor county in fair condition.

Hardeman county escaped the latest heavy rains, and on Thursday and Friday was carrying on with the construction of new paved highways.

TWO DROWN IN HOUSTON FLOOD

Bayou Overflow Expected To Subside Today

in all fire stations as an added precaution against fires.

Ferry Tied Up

The ferry at Lynchburg was halted and the boat was in danger of being washed away. More than $250,000 damage was said to have been done to the stock of Sears Roebuck company's new $1,000,000 plant here. The Houston Chronicle lost $100,000 worth of paper when the Houston terminal warehouse was flooded.

Practically all trains were running and the Galveston highway was the only through road leading from the city said to be safe for travel.

The highway to Beaumont had been passable but the approaches to the San Jacinto river bridge near here were washed out.

The Colorado river reached flood stage in the town of Wharton. The business section is only two blocks from the river and another stream parallels the river and traverses the business section.

In this city Buffalo bayou and its tributaries already had caused damage amounting to millions of dollars but the crest had been reached tonight and weather forecast was that a recession soon would begin.

Clean Water Scarce

While dirty, swirling water covered almost every bridge in the city, surrounded hundreds of homes and stood many feet deep in business buildings, Houston experienced a scarcity of drinking water. The central pumping plant was rendered useless by the raging Buffalo bayou.

The six water substations still were functioning, although under a heavy strain, and business houses with private wells had volunteered to turn water into the city mains. A serious fire menace existed due to low water pressure.

No drownings had been reported but about a dozen persons were rescued in narrow escapes. Several houses were swept down stream.

Colorado Raging

The Neches river rose rapidly in Orange county and was flowing today over the old Spanish trail between Orange and Beaumont.

The Colorado river was seven miles wide at Columbus. State prison farms in Fort Bend and Brazoria counties, especially those in the deep Brazos bottoms, were menaced, and at least one transferred all its prisoners to safety some 10 miles away.

A terrific rainstorm headed down the Brazos late today, it was reported here. The towns of Lynchburg, Gaston and Clodine near here were lakes. The residents either were moving about in boats or had gone to higher grounds.

Upper reaches of the streams were receding and farmers were attempting to recoup losses suffered when the water inundated hundreds of thousands of acres.

Movement of vessels in the channel at Houston today was at a standstill because of the swift current. Water overflowed two docks at the turning basin and several warehouses were flooded. Loading was not affected, except at the two docks.

LEVEE BREAKS AT MADISONVILLE

MADISONVILLE, Texas, May 31. (AP)—From eight to ten thousand acres of farm land was inundated in Houston county today by the breaking of a levee on the Murrays farm which borders Madison county.

No loss of life was reported. The breaking of the levee relieved the flood situation in Madison county somewhat, a drop of four inches being recorded since the hour the levee gave way. Another rise, however, was expected tomorrow in Bedias creek, one of the largest streams in Madison county.

A crew of workmen continued today to stack sand bags along federal highway No. 75 in an effort to prevent further destruction of the road. A large section of the highway already had been washed away.

Rains Damage Fertile Oklahoma Cotton Area

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, May 31.—So much damage has recently been caused in consolidated school district No. 2, southwest of Frederick, by erosion following heavy rains, that a series of meetings have been held by affected property owners with a view of perfecting a drainage district. This is one of the most fertile cotton sections of the county but so much havoc was wrought by the late rains, that great gullies were washed in some farms, carrying away much of the soil.

SHORT CHANGE GAG FIZZLES

Shysters Not Only Fail But Lose Five Berries

Efforts to trick the cashier at the Holliday street A. & P. store Friday afternoon cost two shysters a brand new hat and $5 in cash.

The pair attempted to work an old "short change" gag. A small bill for groceries was paid with a $10 bill, but the customer was discontented with his change, explaining that he had meant to offer $1 instead and would be very pleased to exchange five $1 bills for a single $5 note. The accommodating cashier agreed to the exchange, picking up the five separate bills before the customer had a good grip on the single note. The finicky young shopper was still unsatisfied, and he gave himself away by demanding the original $10.

The cashier secured the $5 bill and attempted to secure the customer, but the young financier managed to escape after a brief scuffle. His partner, seated in an automobile outside, had the motor running, and the two fled, leaving the new hat and the $5 as souvenirs of their visit.

Boil sugar, water and cream of tartar together until first indication of a thread appears, 234° F. 2. Pour hot syrup over stiffly beaten egg whites and beat with egg beater constantly. 3. Add vanilla and continue beating with spoon until mixture is fluffy and will hold its shape (about 15 minutes). 4. If this mixture does not set so that it will stay on cake, add 2 or 3 tbsp. powdered sugar, a tbsp. at a time until mixture is stiff enough. 5. Reserve 3 tbsp. of this mixture and spread rest over top and sides of cake. 6. Melt chocolate and add reserved icing. Spread chocolate mixture over white frosting on top of cake in ¼-inch strips about 1 inch apart. Then draw a knife quickly across the strips at 1-inch intervals. This gives a wavy, marbled effect.

AUDIT FILLED WITH ERRORS

Examiners Office Probe Gets Testimony

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 31. (UP)—Testimony of an audit containing so many errors that the attorney general dismissed prosecution based on the audit was given today to the house committee investigating the state examiner and inspector's office.

The testimony was given by W. A. Peck, Ada, former county clerk of Pontontoc county.

Audit was made by J. N. Davis and E. J. McBride, deputy examiners and inspectors under John Rogers.

Peck refused to approve claims made for the audit but they were approved by a deputy in his office, J. P. Wallace, after Davis had promised Wallace a job under Rogers, Peck said.

The chairman of the board of county commissioners also approved these claims, Peck testified.

Peck charged that the commission chairman approved the claim after the audit had showed he owed $800 to two townships. The money was paid to the townships by the commission chairman, Peck said, but was repaid to the chairman after he approved the claims, Peck charged.

Peck said that Jack Bryans, now a deputy under Rogers, had collected while deputy tax assessor what Peck considered illegal fees for assessing delinquent taxes.

Peck asked Davis to quit this and Davis replied, Peck charged, that Bryans was a special friend of Rogers and that Rogers had instructed him, Davis, not to do anything about investigating this charge.

General Roy Hoffman of Oklahoma City appeared before the committee investigating the state school land department to refute an allegation that he had bought land from the department and then sold an oil lease on the land for more than enough to pay for the land.

Hoffman declared that he had never bought any land from the school land department, but said he bought the land in question from a rancher who years before had bought it from the school land department.

The land was not leased for oil at that time and never has been leased for oil, Hoffman said.

Social Register to Carry Name of Lindbergh, Paper Says

NEW YORK, May 31. (AP)—The Evening Post says that the name of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh which has been blazoned on the first page of every newspaper on earth, will next month be printed for the first time in the more exclusive pages of the Social Register.

The entry in the summer edition, it was said, would read:

"Miss Morrow, Anne Spencer (Dwight W.) married at Englewood, N. J., May 27. Lindbergh, Colonel Charles A."

This would follow the policy of the Social Register to record the marriage of one already listed. Continuation of listing of the person to whom the Social Registerite was married in later editions is in the discretion of the committee which passes upon qualifications.

DEBT PARLEY CHEERFUL NOW

Agreement on Owen D. Young Plan Speeds Work

PARIS, May 31. (INS)—Having reached an agreement upon the reparation annuities Germany must pay, the experts today took up the remaining points amid an optimistic atmosphere.

Owen D. Young, American chairman of the expert's committee, and Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, chief of the German delegation, were to meet the representatives of the allied creditor nations late this afternoon to discuss reservations and other reparation matters.

According to a spokesman for the French delegation, two subcommittees were engaged throughout the day whipping into compromise form the remaining points at issue.

It is believed that the conference will end before Monday.

The annuities agreed upon will average 2,050,000,000 marks, as proposed by the Young plan, but they will begin under that figure, topping it later on. The present capital value of the amount Germany must pay, based upon an interest rate of 5½ per cent, is approximately $8,779,000,000. Under the proposed agreement Germany will pay for 59 years. The new reparation plan is to be effective Sept. 1, supplanting the Dawes plan. It is understood there will be a conference of the interested powers later on to consider political aspects of the agreement, notably the German demand for evacuation of the Rhineland before the end of the year.

Forum Garden Club Launched At "Flower Breakfast" Here Friday

A Woman's Forum Garden club was organized at the close of the "Flower Breakfast" given Friday morning under the auspices of the civic department of the Woman's Forum at the Forum clubhouse. The breakfast was one of the most enthusiastic of the season.

No tables had been more beautifully decorated, for each flower grower brought specimens of her best flowers. There were roses, nasturtiums and shasta daisies from the Mrs. Bain's garden at the forum; larkspur of every hue; gladioli in pastel colors; a green bowl of nasturtiums that was a thing of beauty; a basket of wild thistle in lovely lavender tints; white and pink water lilies floating before Mrs. Bert Bean and a bowl holding 30 varieties of blossoms cut from the garden of Mrs. Frank Timberlake.

Mrs. Bert Bean, chairman, presided, and after the invocation introduced Mrs. C. B. Haynie, who won the dahlia prize at the flower show last year. Her talk was one of the most interesting given.

Mrs. Landon Cullum, winner of the rose prize, was next introduced and talked on rose culture. Mrs. F. L. Mercer explained the planting and pruning of chrysanthemums. Mrs W. L. Myers of Henrietta was called on to talk on poppies, as Henrietta has been a garden of poppies this year, and then Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, who won the flower show prize for zinnias, was asked to explain their culture. Mrs. Oneal said she thought she won the prize because no one else exhibited zinnias but she told the variety she had used and how they had been planted.

Mrs. S. L. Burns, who brought a dahlia of enormous size to The Record News office recently, had another specimen on exhibit with a spray of lovely gladiolus and a shrub she called Joseph's coat.

Mrs. Frank Timberlake took each of the 30 varieties of blossoms from her enormous bowl and spoke of them and of other plants in her garden. There was sweet lavender and red carnation and blue forget-menot; there was scarlet pomegranate from a pomegranate hedge and orchid, rose, cerise and purple "cut and come again" stock; there were cornflowers and cosmos, calendula and star jasmine, pansies and daisies and flowers whose names one had never heard and that beggared description. Spanish broom could not be described and "albizzia" was a tree with feather flowers of white with tinted edges which one could never know from description. Blue flowers are difficult to find but she had a specimen of deepest blue in a border flower, "cerata stigma."

Mrs. Timberlake said in her talk that no one was a true gardener unless they were ready to divide whatever they had. At the end of the breakfast talks, Mrs. Bean's suggestion of forming a Forum Garden club was eagerly applauded. All forum members are eligible and may become members by telephoning Mrs. Frank Timberlake, who was elected president. There will be another meeting called sometime in the near future.

At this point in the meeting, Mrs. Ben G. Oneal announced that The Record News would cooperate with the flower lovers of the city in an enterprise that would stimulate the garden work—the naming of a city flower. She said that Fort Worth had recently voted the red bud the Fort Worth flower: that she had thought of Henrietta as the "poppy" town and that The Record News would carry for a period of something like two weeks blanks on which one could name the flower they thought would be most fitting as symbolic of Wichita. Her announcement was greeted with hearty applause and people began at once to discuss the flower for which they would vote.

Mrs. Bean, chairman of the civic department, introduced Mrs. C. E. Bailey as her assistant and Mrs. Rhea Howard, secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. Timberlake took the names of those who wished to join the Forum Garden club and the first members are Mesdames Fred Weeks, O. B. Kiel, Ben G. Oneal, L. L. Boardman, R. L. Hargrave, W. W. Cook, Leslie Humphries, J. Merrick, Walter Caldwell, W. H. Myers of Henrietta, J. L. Elkins, Ola G. Hamlin, Landon Cullum, C. L. Burns, Louise Miller, Walter Campbell, C. E. Bailey, C. P. Burton, A. G. Holmes, T. M. Conrey, Bert Bean, Rhea Howard, Hubert Harrison, Frank Timberlake, Pies Crouch, W. M. Mason and Mrs. Carl Worsham of Henrietta.

Covers were laid at breakfast for Mesdames R. G. Scheurer and party, C. E. Bailey, L. L. Boardman, Ben G. Oneal, Fred Barron, Frank Timberlake, C. B. Haynie, H. Craven, R. L. Hargrave, Bert Bean and party, A. G. Holmes, F. L. Mercer, Rhea Howard, Walter Campbell, C. D. Slifer, Carrie Joline, W. M. Cason, Pies Crouch, J. L. Elkins, Newton Maer, T. D. Anderson, W. H. Myers and party of seven from Henrietta, Landon Cullum, C. P. Burton and party, C. L. Burns and Misses L. C. Sellers and Nora Dent.

NEW YORK, May 30. (US)—A Chicago woman wants a divorce. She says her husband loves sweet corn and he wants her to get up at 3 in the morning and cook it for him.

Being constantly corned has always been grounds for divorce.

A taxicab passes mine in the park. A man is sitting meekly in the corner and a young girl is throwing her arms about him and kissing him madly.

If you don't believe this is a woman's world, you should have seen them! I'll bet the little rascal gets him eventually.

Russia has forbidden kissing in the public parks and the populace is up in arms.

That's a funny thing, being up in arms and no kissing!

Fanny Ward, just 62 and a kid, has a row with a woman of 55 and calls her "old" and a "cow." The woman is suing her.

But no juror will ever sit on that kind of a Fanny.

Susie packing for her summer vacation: one bathing suit, one pair of slippers (no hose) one very short skirt and a sweater, a banjo, six lemons and a bottle of Scotch.

Asked where she was going, Susie said she hadn't fully decided.

"But it will have to be a place near the water?" I said, viewing Susie's equipment.

"Oh no, not necessarily," said Susie.

"Americans are so discourteous to each other," says a mere man, "and should notice the Chinese and the colored people, who are the politest persons in the world. They recognize that others have feelings and rights." (Colored people not being Americans!)

I once knew a woman, when someone stepped on her or shoved her painfully in a crowd, would walk close to them and step on their heels. It hurt. They used to rave and she looked innocent and didn't know what the trouble was.

Once she accidently stepped on a lady's heels, and there was no explosion. The lady hadn't done anything to deserve it.

Annual Flower Show To Become Spanish Fiesta

A Spanish fiesta is to be held this fall instead of the usual ordinary flower show. Mrs. A. G. Holmes made this announcement Friday at the flower breakfast at the Woman's Forum clubhouse. Mrs. St. Andrew Myers of Henrietta, suggested that all garden enthusiasts plant golden glow that it might be used in massed decoration on this occasion. The suggestion was greeted with enthusiasm. The Spanish fiesta will embody the forum's annual event in unique decoration and program, it was said. Mrs. A. G. Holmes, Mrs. Arch Dawson and Mrs. Ben G. Oneal are working out the plans.

DIX ADVISES MOTHER OF 12

Wife Wins Praise for Her Work and Philosophy

An Inspiring Example of the Highest Type of Womanhood—Should The Woman Who Resents Her Husband's Son Attempt to Bring Him Up?

Dear Miss Dix—I am a woman 31 years old. I have been married 15 years and have 12 children. Twin sons 14, twin daughters 12, a boy of 11, twin sons 9, triplet daughters 7, a girl 5 and one 4—five boys and seven girls. When I was married my father gave me a nice, well furnished home in my own name, but for years on end my husband grumbled and grouched because I wouldn't work outside of the home. He never considered that I worked, although I cooked, washed, scrubbed, ironed, washed dishes, made beds, kept house, nursed, sewed, raised a garden and chickens, milked two cows, to say nothing of bearing and rearing 12 children and seeing to their needs.

My husband himself has never made any more than a poor pitiful little salary that barely fed us after he had bought his own clothes, his whisky and tobacco.

Well, I got tired of being so poor and one Monday morning four years ago I took my 3-month-old baby and the other little one, under school age and left him with a kind old neighbor who loves children and agreed to care for them. I got a job behind a counter for $15 a week and, as I developed a real talent for selling things, my salary is now four times what my husband makes.

Besides that I carry on my former work at home with the help of the children, whom I have drilled into most efficient assistants. I have taught them to cook, sew and clean, so the house is as well kept as ever and my money buys clothes, good times and luxuries for them. Besides, I feel that my work is good for me. It gives me a new interest in life and it gives my children responsibility. A few hours' separation of mother and babies each day is good for us all and how glad we are to get together at night!

Now, here is my trouble. Now that I am working my husband is furious with me because I won't give him the money that I earn, and because I have succeeded better than he has. He insists on my giving up my job and taking the boys out of school and putting them to work. He says parents do not owe their children anything after they are 12 years old. I think that parents owe their children the very best education that they can give them. My 14-year-old boys are so clever that they will graduate from high school in two years. They lead their classes and I mean to keep them in high school until they finish.

Of course we are poor, dog poor. It is no joke to feed, clothe, rear and educate 12 children, but to take a little boy and put him to work at 14 when you could give him an education is criminal.

So am I not right to hold on to my good job and rear and train and educate my children and make good men and women out of them? I am young, healthy and strong and I can work for them and we do have such adorable years together. I feel that I am right, yet I was raised old-fashioned to "mind" my husband. I was only a silly young idiot when I married, but I have to be wise now for myself and 12 others.

MOTHER OF A ROUND DOZEN.

Answer—I think that is the finest, bravest, most philosophical letter that has ever come to the letter box, and I commend it to the careful consideration of all the neurotic ladies who weep upon my breast because their husbands don't kiss them when they go away in the morning or take them out to the movies in the evenings or because they can't go to Europe or because their husbands were polite to some woman at a dinner party and they are jealous.

Here is a woman who is married to a man who not only can't support his family, but who is fault-finding and little and mean and jealous and nagging besides. Here is a woman who has not one or two children to take care of, but 12, and she has to do every bit of her housework and baby-tending. And besides that she has to go out into the world and make the money to support them.

If ever a woman was up against it, it is she. If ever a woman had work and worry a-plenty, it is she. But instead of howling and complaining over her lot, she thinks it is all perfectly grand, and is having a bully time and getting more fun out of working all day in a stove and half the night doing housework than most women get out of going to bridge parties and dinners and luncheons and riding around in an automobile.

And what a job she is turning out! Twelve splendid youngsters who have developed strength of character and efficiency in their very babyhood; who have been taught to play the game and pull their weight in the boat; who have been taught how to do all sorts of work and to do it cheerfully and get fun out of it. What splendid men and women they will make and what a crown of glory they will be to their mother.

My hat is off to this woman and if I had the awarding of Carnegie hero medals I would pin one as large as a dinner plate over her brave heart.

But as for your problem, dear lady, there is just one answer to that. Stick by your worthwhile children and let your worthless husband go. Don't give up your good job that makes it possible for you to provide for your children and keep them with you and that, above all, enables you to give them the education that will mean so much to them as long as they live.

The first question that every boy and girl is asked who applies for a job is whether they have had a high school education or not, and on the answer depends very generally the sort of a situation they get. So it is worth making every sacrifice to keep your boys in school until they graduate.

And don't give up your job because of yourself. Evidently you cannot depend upon your husband and when your children are gone you will need your work to supply you with an interest in life, as well as money so that you will not become dependent upon them.

You have shown that you have more enterprise and intelligence than your husband, so the idea of obeying him is ridiculous. Perhaps when the Biblical advice was given, "Wives, obey your husbands," husbands were of a different caliber from what they are now in some cases. —DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I have been married just six months to a man I love dearly. We are both in our early 20s and have been very happy, but now he asks me to do something I cannot do. He wishes me to adopt a beautiful 3-year-old child that is his son and the result of an indiscreet love affair. I want babies of my own and not another woman's. The mother is dead, but feeling as I do I could not make a good stepmother. Don't you think it best to leave the baby with its mother's people? —X.

Answer—Undoubtedly it will be better for the child to remain with its mother's people if you feel that way about it, for no crime on earth equals that of being cruel to a little defenseless babe. The good stepmothers who take another woman's children to their hearts and mother them surely will have the reserved seats in Heaven, while as for the bad stepmothers—truly "it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck and he cast into the sea than to offend one of these little ones."

Of course, there is no reasoning with jealousy, but inasmuch as this child was born before you had any claim upon its father I do not see why you should be any more opposed to receiving it as a stepchild than you would to your husband's bringing his child to you if he had been a widower. It would certainly take great love and great nobility of soul for a woman to take her husband's illegitimate child and rear it as her own if it was a constant reminder of his unfaithfulness to her, but such is not the case with this babe.

Surely you must recognize that it would be a fine thing to help your husband atone to this child in some way for the wrong he has done it. But if you feel that you would be jealous of it and hate it, don't bring it into your home. The poor little creature is better off where it is, and to have no father than to be the victim of a cruel stepmother.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Delicious flavor for vegetable foods

Any woman interested in appetite appeal can use it

COOKING history was made recently when four famous cooking experts met in a kitchen high up in a New York skyscraper. The question before the house was what could be done to make vegetable dishes as delicious as they could be. The result of the experiments, which were carried on for several days, was the far-reaching new discovery of an old secret. The best way to cook vegetables is in a small amount of water, and with the addition of sugar. In every case vegetables so prepared received the unanimous vote of the experts.

For luncheon or dinner cook 6 medium carrots with a level tablespoon of sugar in the least boiling water possible. Slice, reheat and let simmer 10 minutes in 2 teaspoons of butter, pinch of salt, and 1 level tablespoon of sugar.

For delicious stewed tomatoes, peel, slice and stew 6 ripe ones, then add a lump of butter, 3 teaspoons of salt, 2 level tablespoons of sugar, and 1 tablespoon of bread crumbs. Cook 10 minutes longer and serve.

Just try sugar with vegetables in your own kitchen and notice how much better it makes these healthful foods. Try a dash of sugar with lima beans, string beans, corn, peas, parsnips, squash, onions and tomatoes. It makes children and adults like them. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar. ABSCESS IN CHEST INCREASES PERIL FOR ENGLAND'S RULER

MONARCH MAY NOT SURVIVE

Physicians Refuse to Say Much on Illness

By ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE

LONDON, May 31. (US)—Although the condition of King George was pronounced "satisfactory" in a bulletin issued at Windsor castle tonight, it is felt that the British monarch is in grave danger because of the abscess which has formed in his chest.

None of his physicians would venture to say how soon the king would be able to leave his sickbed.

The anxiety of the royal family, which reached a high pitch yesterday when the king's relapse was first learned, was somewhat lessened this evening after the announcement was made at Windsor:

"The king has had a quiet day. He had some sleep during the day, and his condition remains satisfactory."

The Prince of Wales and the Duke and Duchess of York have been notified of their father's illness, and although it is not known whether the duke and duchess have gone to the castle, the king's illness has not changed any of the prince's plans. Edward P. spent the day at Southampton attending the agricultural show there, and although he was visibly disturbed by his father's illness, he said he would week-end at his Sunningdale home, which is within easy reach of Windsor.

The cause of the king's relapse was first made known in the afternoon bulletin, which read:

"The king has had a fair fight. An abscess formed under the site of the old scar on the right side of his chest, and is now draining.

"His general condition remains good. Although the king will need to remain in bed, his majesty will be able to transact public business."

The bulletin was posted at 1:15 p. m., and was signed by H. L. Martyn, apothecary to the king; Lord Dawson and Sir Stanley Hewatt.

King George himself was responsible for the news of his illness being kept from his subjects until after election, it was disclosed after the visit of Apothecary Martyn [illegible] o'clock [illegible] morning. The king's reason for keeping his condition secret was that it should have no influence on the elections.

The hectic flush which forced the British monarch into bed just when his subjects believed him to be convalescing from his winter's illness was laid to his being too much in the open when he took tea at Frogmore in celebrating Queen Mary's birthday Sunday. The same sort of feverish attack preceded his illness during the winter.

King George has been abed since Sunday, it was disclosed by Lord Dawson of Penn, when the surgeon returned to London by airplane after the "hurry call" to him in Paris.

Tech Baptists To Build Home

LUBBOCK, Texas, May 31.—Baptist students of the Texas Technological college, cooperating with the First Baptist church of Lubbock are planning to erect a cottage on College avenue, adjoining the college campus which is to serve as the center of Baptist student activities.

All Baptist students are to have a part in the construction of the cottage. No Texas college has on its campus a similar meeting place to the proposed one for the Tech campus. There are very few such cottages in the entire South. The Baptist students of Tech are eager to be the first to place a B. S. U. cottage adjacent to the Tech campus.

The cottage will contain one large room, for council meetings, and a smaller room for meetings of smaller groups and committees. Folding doors will separate the rooms, so that socials and large groups of students may be accommodated. It is planned to keep the cottage open during the day for a reading room, and devotional literature will be kept there.

Plans call for erection early in the fall of 1929.

Famous Bathroom in Kansas City Hotel Holds Interest for Hoover Jr.

KANSAS CITY, May 31. (INS)—Bathrooms may not interest a great many people other than places to take a bath, but a bathroom in the Baltimore hotel of this city adjoining room 307 has a unique interest to a son of President Hoover.

Herbert Hoover Jr., radio technician for Western Air Express, who has been in Kansas City the last week with officials of the company getting ready for the inaugural flight to Los Angeles tomorrow, expressed a desire to see the now famous room. For therein lies a remembrance of the days of the Republican convention last summer.

Room 307 housed almost always the Hoover leaders and there conferences rang out continually. A telephone service, that is, uninterrupted service, was needed by the leaders; their first step was to locate a direct wire in the bathroom adjoining the room. The circuit was only known by Hoover representatives and was always busy.

Herbert Hoover Jr. held long conversations over this phone with his brother Allan, who was in Kansas City, and in this manner received the news of the convention.

The room is similar to the remainder of the rooms at the Baltimore, but the bathroom will undoubtedly be preserved in political history. It is no small wonder that the president's son wishes to see the room.

WOMAN'S RECORD HARD TO MATCH

WASHINGTON, May 31. (UP)—Mabel Walker Willebrandt, retiring from prohibition enforcement activities, leaves behind her a record for success in liquor prosecution which has meant prison for literally thousands of bootleggers and other liquor dealers.

Probably her greatest achievement, however, is the establishment of a long series of supreme court decisions which serve daily as precedents for all federal prosecutions under the liquor laws.

In her eight years as assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition, customs and taxes, Mrs. Willebrandt has directed and in many cases presented the government's side of the important cases under the Volstead and Willis-Campbell enforcement acts and the eighteenth amendment itself. She has been notably successful. Every provision of the Volstead act has been upheld, as have the no-beer prescription and other limitations of the Willis-Campbell act.

Under her direction of the government won the famous Cunard cases, in which the supreme court denied United States ships the right to bring liquor under seal into American ports. She won a decision upholding prosecution of a prohibition director for failing to report a prohibition violator, under the Volstead act.

The one-pint-in-ten-days prescription limitations was upheld over the opposition of the American Medical association.

Mrs. Willebrandt advocated passage of what is now the Jones "five and ten" act, for five years.

One of her most important duties was the writing of briefs opposing the appeals of convicted bootleggers and rum runners for supreme court reviews of their convictions and prison sentences. She was quite sucessful in this, the court rejecting at its front door most of the 50 or 60 appeals of this character which are made annually.

MORGAN GIVEN CLEAN BILL

Ohio 'Dry' Solon Absolved Of Charges

WASHINGTON, May 31 (INS)—The investigation of charges that William M. Morgan, dry Republican congressman of Ohio, brought liquor into the United States on arrival from Panama last month disclosed no violation of the law, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman announced today.

"The sworn statements of custom officers in New York were taken," Lowman said. "They show conclusively that none of the inspectors saw any liquor in or associated with any of the baggage of Representative Morgan or his family. The whole matter rested upon what was believed by some members of the party to be a discrimination concerning the port and upon conservations which took place at the pier, and different interpretations as to what was said and what transpired in connection with the handling of Representative Morgan's baggage.

STAFF SCANDAL

Enochs Court Martial Plans Linked With Mess Rumors

WASHINGTON, May 31. (AP)—The impending court martial of Col. Berkely Enochs, former chief of staff of the Second Corps area, on charges preferred by the area commander, Maj. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, was connected by army officers here today with unofficial reports reaching the capitol of discussions of the conduct of the officers' mess at a recent meeting of staff officers at Governors island.

The reports were to the effect that Maj. Gen. Ely considered Col. Enochs insubordinate and disrespectful to him during a discussion of complaints against the operation of the officers' mess.

Enochs, as then chief of staff of the area, acted in a supervisory capacity over the officers' mess.

TILLMAN ASKS HIGHWAY VOTE

State Bonds Favored In Straw Ballot

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., May 31.—Four hundred thirty-seven citizens of Tillman county have signified their support of a state wide bond issue for hard surfaced roads to be retired with a gasoline tax and the tax on automobiles, according to a check made of returns received by George M. Burkhardt, who is conducting the survey for the chamber of commerce. Votes against the proposition numbered only 36, which gives a ratio of more than 12 to 1 in favor of the proposition.

Several of those who answered in the negative qualified their answers to say that they would be for the bond issue if the tax money would be equally divided and if they could be assured that no tax other than on gasoline would be levied.

It is expected that practically all of the cards that were sent out will be returned within a few days, according to Burkhardt.

WATER WAGON AXLES SQUEAK

All Washington Wonders About Diplomatic Rum

WASHINGTON, May 31. (INS)—All Washington—social, political and official—has been wondering what prompted Sir Esme Howard, the courtly British ambassador, to recently express the opinion that the diplomatic corps would "go on the wagon" should President Hoover request it.

Diligent inquiry in reliable sources has revealed that there was no reason other than that Sir Esme is "fed up," as the British have it, with the persistent pin-picking to which diplomats are subjected in and out of congress because they exercise the right to import and serve liquor—a right, incidentally, voluntarily accorded by this government.

Friends of the British ambassador, who is also dean of the diplomatic corps, said today Sir Esme's offer to relinquish the right to have what is available in nearly every other country in the world was "perfectly sincere." He has keenly resented, as have other diplomats, the word pictures painted by Senator Blease, Democrat of South Carolina, of "gin-guzzling, wine-drinking diplomats violating American law." He also resented the recent wave of publicity attendant upon the transfer of diplomatic liquor from Baltimore to Washington, with its escorts of police, photographs, etc.

The government has done nothing to smooth the path of the diplomats, nor has it ever expressed, by word or intimation, any regret for the embarrassment caused them. Such being the case, Sir Esme decided it would be well to inform the world at large and the American public in particular that liquor was not the life-bread of the diplomats in Washington.

Incidentally, no official notice has been taken of Sir Esme's offer, which was voiced in a personal letter to a Virginia prohibitionist. President Hoover has not availed himself of the offer, nor has the state department. The betting in Washington is that they won't.

THE world has out grown your type. We've mastered the primeval instinct which bred dread of all things intangible and suspected hidden menaces in all inexplicable operations of normal phenomena.

Nowadays, we interpret the voice of thunder not as a rumble of wrath but as a promise of beneficient rain. We hear in the roar of the water fall a message of utility. We behold in the plague not punishment from an outraged deity, but the protest of outraged nature. We have trailed the banshee to a creaking tree limb, and traced the nightmare to a conspiracy of lobster, cucumbers and whipped cream.

We know at last that there is no ghost but conscience, and no magic spell except determination.

Real civilization did not start until we ceased to confide in fairies and demons and began to pin faith on ourselves.

Making Tools of Toys

RAY LITTLE, a veteran aviator who flew the first eastbound transcontinental air mail plane out of San Francisco in 1920, and who has been flying in that service ever since, is getting very disillusioned about the business of flying.

Aviation is a dandy calling, he says, except that it is no longer thrilling. It used to be dangerous and exciting; now it is neither, and the pilot's chief trouble is the boredom that sooner or later settles upon him.

We who are still held to the ground don't usually look at it that way. An airplane, to us, is still a thing of wonder. The pilot belongs to a tribe that is set apart from people of common clay. The race has not yet worn its wings long enough to take them for granted.

But Little—and most experienced pilots, we suspect, share his feelings—finds that piloting an airplane is just another job. It is too safe, too certain, too regular; and because it is all of these things it has lost its kick.

All of this, as first glance, looks like nothing but the casual comment of a somewhat blase flyer. But it is really a symptom of something very important.

It means that the airplane—this strange, glittering new tool that mankind has been fumbling with for two decades—has at last been about mastered. We are learning how to use it. In a very short time the country at large will share Pilot Little's opinion about flying—and then we'll be ready to go on and tackle something else.

During the last 25 years or so we have developed a great many new tools.

Each one has been a sort of toy, at first. Little by little, however, we have discovered the ways in which they can make life freer and richer; and as those discoveries come, the tools cease to be toys and become important weapons in the fight to lift ourselves into a broader and more open region of existence.

We have not yet mastered them all. We have a great heap of them—airplanes, radios, moving pictures, new chemical processes that can hit drudgery and poverty a death blow, electrical appliances that can set us free from small tasks and petty annoyances; but we haven't yet found out how to use them to the best advantage. They still dazzle us.

Eventually we shall master them all and take them for granted. When that day comes we shall be able to transform our daily life in a way we never thought possible.

So it is that Pilot Little's remarks are more significant than that gallant aviator dreams. They indicate that we are turning the airplane from a toy into a tool.

The Value of Texas Sulphur

TEXAS is the largest producer of sulphur of any American state. Sulphur plants and deposits are located in Wharton county. Assessment of the Texas Gulf Sulphur company is slightly below $3,000,000. Taxpayers of Wharton county insist that the sulphur company should pay on assessments in the same ratio as other taxpayers.

Assistant Attorney General Paul D. Page has been assigned the job of boosting the assessment or rather enforcing a correct assessment.

Page and the lawyers associated with him say that the sulphur deposits are worth $1,000,000,000; that subtracting the usual cost of operation and marketing, together with interest charges, the net value is alleged to be $450,000,000 and that the assessment should be $150,000,000, "thereby maintaining the same proportion as levied on other property."

If the sulphur deposits in Wharton county have a value of $1,000,000,000 there is a fixed supply on hand sufficient to maintain blazing fires in hades for many centuries to come.

Cross of Texas Backs Tariff

REP. O. H. CROSS of Texas made his maiden speech. He demanded a tariff on hides. He demanded a higher tariff on cattle. He declared the present tariff on cattle "no better than none at all." He addressed his remarks to "you boys." He made a hit. Republican leaders in the house have let it be known that a small tariff will be placed on hides—green as well as dry hides. Many Republican congressmen from the northwest are lined up with Garner and his Texans for the protection of hides. Is the tariff a local issue? Ask the Texans. Ask the sugar senators from Louisiana. Ask the textile manufacturers of the Carolinas and Georgia and Alabama.

The Once Over
By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE STOCK MARKET
CASEY JONES

Come all you rounders, if you want to hear
A story about a brave engineer.
Casey Jones was the rounder's name—
In a railroad market he won his fame
The court told Casey at ten of three
That the loser was the I. C. C.;
Mounted to his cabin with "buy" orders in his hand
And he took his long-sought trip to the Promised Land.

Chorus

Casey Jones! Mounted to his cabin!
Casey Jones! With "buy" orders in his hand!
Casey Jones! Reachin' and a-grabbin'
For Erie, Frisco, Wabash and some Rio Grande.

Put in your water and shovel in your coal,
Put your head out the window, watch them drivers roll.
"I'll run this engine off the rails, and how!
'Cause I'm four years late in the market now."
He looked at his watch and his watch was slow,
He looked at the ticker and he craved the dough;
He turned to the fireman and he said,
"We're going to make plenty at full speed ahead!"

Chorus

Casey Jones! Going to make plenty!
Casey Jones! Figures in his head!
Casey Jones! Going to make plenty!
We're going to make plenty at full speed ahead!

Casey pulled up that "Wall Street hill,"
He tooted for the crossing with an awful shrill,
The switchman knew by the engine's moans
That the man at the throttle was Casey Jones.
He pulled up within two blocks of the place—
The F. R. B.' stared him right in the face;
Turned to the fireman, said, "Boy, you'd better jump,
'Cause there's two locomotives that's a-going to bump."

Chorus

Casey Jones! Two locomotives!
Casey Jones! That's a-going to bump!
Casey Jones! Two locomotives!
Two locomotives that's a-going to bump!

Casey said just before he died,
"There's two more roads that I'd like to ride."
Fireman said, "What can they be?"
"The oils and chemicals look good to me."
Mrs. Jones sat on the bed a-sighing,
Just received a message that Casey was dying.
Said, "Go to bed, children, face it like a sport,
'Cause you got another papa and he sold 'em short.

There are 11 members on the commission, with Mr. Wickersham at quarter back and Mr. Newton B. Baker as a fleet broken-field runner and Mr. Roscoe Pound specializing in drop-kicking. The other players are so little known nationally it may be necessary to number them.

TOONERVILLE FOLKS By Fontaine Fox

The Day Book of a New Yorker
Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, May 31.—Going into the 86th Street and Lexington avenue subway station about 10 o'clock one morning this week, I saw sound asleep on the bench on the platform a man whose beard and general appearance indicated that he had selected the subway for a night's lodging rather than a hotel for economic reasons.

Upon investigation this writer discovered that many people, men and women old and young, black and white, make the subways their regular lodging places. It is almost impossible for the company to check up on its passengers. Therefore, through the payment of a nickel, a passenger can enter the subway and spend hours riding back and forth and up and down. These uninvited lodgers of course do not have the convenience that a hotel affords, but the price recommends the quarters. Many of them take their lunches, and they are among the few passengers of the New York underground who are not impatient at delays. The corner seats, which are the most comfortable, represent to the subway lodgers what a suite does to a hotel guest.

As I was going into the subway station at Park place the other morning, a studious looking man wearing glasses and carrying a square package, which to my amateurish eyes resembled about the size of two bottles of Scotch, Johnny Walker Black label, lost control of his bundle as he stepped from the train, and it crashed to the concrete floor of the platform. He hastily picked it up, and it began to drip. As he started upstairs a large quantity of liquid which smelled like alcohol, gushed from the bundle.

Thoughts of $10,000 fine and five years in jail, as provided by the Jones' law, evidently rushed through his mind, because with undue haste he dropped the bundle on the stairs, took off his glasses, probably in a hurried effort to disguise himself and slipped through the crowd to the other end of the platform. He seemed very much disturbed by the incident and, if he had a mustache, I am sure he would have pulled a razor from his pocket and shaved that off to.

As the bundle seemed to me surely to contain two bottles I was almost tempted to investigate to see whether by any chance one of the bottles had been saved in the crash, but I, too, lacked the courage.

While getting my hair cut the other day the telephone rang and the head barber had a long discussion with his broker. This paragraph is intended to show how deeply interested everyone is in the stock market. I closed my eyes, and overhearing the barber's instructions to his broker, I thought it might be Pierpont Morgan, W. C. Durant or someone else interested in large quantities of stock. He certainly sounded like a big trader. The conversation was something as follows:

"Sell five hundred shares from the No. 1 account at 31. Buy 400 shares for the No. 8 account at 37. You wouldn't let me sell this stuff before when it was at 35 and now I have to sell it at 31. After this I'll run my own business. Do the best you can for me."

Bang goes the receiver.

There is a wave of gambling in New York. Stock speculation runs high, and bets are made on all kinds of propositions. To begin with, nearly everyone is in the market. Then bets are made on golf, cards and all sorts of propositions.

I heard a story the other day of a man who has made a considerable amount speculating in stocks and has retired and devotes most of his time to cards and golf playing both at high stakes. The story is that recently he was one of two survivors in a studpoker hand where he held a pair of Kings back to back, and there was an Ace showing against him. The man with the exposed Ace bet him $275,000. After smoking a couple of cigarets and giving due consideration to a transaction of that magnitude, he called the bet, and the Kings were good. The man with the Ace was bluffing.

This same sport was recently invited to take a trip on a large yacht by a friend of his, and the owner of the skiff requested that he and some of his companions refrain from gambling, because it didn't interest the other guests. However, as soon as our hero came on board he pulled a couple of decks of cards out of his pocket and turning to a friend of his, with whom he gambled a lot, said:

"Come on Joe, let's get started."

The owner of the yacht protested.

"I told you fellows there was to be no gambling on this boat. Now you'll have to cut it out."

"I'll tell you what I'll do with you," remarked our hero casually. "This boat is worth $350,000. I'll cut you high card $350,000 against the yacht."

The owner declined the offer.

Afterwards, I asked whether or not he would have gone through with it.

"Yes," replied the sport. "I knew the boat was worth $350,000 and if I had won I would have loved to put the owner in the launch and send him ashore, and we could have gambled as much as we wanted to."

The current sensation of New York is Rudy Vallee. This gentleman is the star at the Villa Vallee night club and croons sentimental songs which are broadcast over the radio. His chief auditors are women, and one woman described his appeal as being direct to her.

"I knew he was singing to me all the time," she said. "There wasn't anybody else listening in."

To hear Vallee on the radio, one would think he was a dark Latin type, but, as a matter of fact, he is light, tall and slim. No one could ever mistake him for Valentino.

He played at the Paramount theater recently, and they had to get out the police because of the riot of females to get in the theater. He is probably another seven-day wonder of the metropolis. I have heard, and I do not know how true it is, that his real name is Thomas and that he went to Harvard.

DURANT AUTO STOCKS FLOP

Shares Go Down to Crimp In Operators' Rolls

NEW YORK, May 31. (INS)—A crimp has been put into the bank rolls of a number of Wall street's big operators, according to reports in the financial district today.

Five of the best known motor-car stocks, in which William C. Durant, the Fishers of Detroit and Arthur Cutten of Chicago have been extensive holders, broke today to the lowest levels of the year, the liquidation giving rise to reports of heavy selling by these and other operators. At 69, General Motors was down 22 points from the high of the year, representing a shrinking of $967,000,000 in total value of the 43,500,000 shares of the total outstanding common stock of the company.

Though William C. Durant is now in Europe, he maintains intimate touch with the market through his brokers and agents. Market gossip has credited him with having maintained a private cable service at $1,000 a day, while his telephone calls from Europe on his previous trip ran as high as $2,000 a day, according to Wall street reports.

Durant's activities in the stock market can only be traced by the movements of the stocks in which he is interested, International Combustion Engineering, one of the Durant favorites, dropped abruptly today to 54½, the lowest price in two years and down 60 points from the high of the year. Cast Iron Pipe, a Durant favorite, also skirted bottom. General Motors was thrown on the market in the forenoon at the lowest price of the year.

Wall street gossip refuses to divulge the name of the "big operator now abroad, who unloaded $40,000,000 worth of stocks in the break in the market since May 15."

EAST SWELTERS IN HEAT WAVE

Seaboard Cities Experience Sizzling Day

(By The Associated Press)

Still sweltering in heat all the harder to bear because it was so unseasonable, the people of the greater part of the United States have turned expectant faces to the north.

For riding the wings of northerly breezes that started blowing across the eastern sites about noon Friday, relief was reported to be on its way.

Boston, one of the hottest places in the whole country at 8 a. m. Friday with a temperature of 84, experienced the pleasing sensation of a 19-point degree drop in temperature around noon. However, before it got cooler in Boston, it got hotter. The temperature had gone up to 90 at 11:30. Then a breeze off the Atlantic came to the aid of the northerly wind, and by 12:45 p. m. the mercury had dropped down to 71.

But while Boston was cooling off other Atlantic seaboard cities just were getting the crest of their heat wave.

By the middle of the afternoon it was 90 in New Yor kand in Philadelphia, and in both cities the humidity was high.

The end apparently had been recorded in New York, however, after the 90-degree temperature had been recorded at 3 p. m., making Friday the hottest day of the year in New York. There was a drop to 89 by 4 p. m.

While it was cooler in Boston, the same could not be said of all parts of New England, nor even Massachusetts. Springfield reported 94 degrees, practically no breeze, and a high humidity.

In many parts of the country, particularly in the middle Atlantic states, there were numerous prostrations.

SIMPSON IS LIKE A BRAND NEW MAN NOW, HE STATES

"I am a brick mason, sixty-nine years old, and a hard worker. I had suffered with a complication of ailments for fifteen years, and for three weeks before starting the Sargon treatment, I had been too weak and run down to spend a day on the job—then this treatment picked me back up and put me to work again, feeling fine. And I never would have believed that any medicine on earth could have done it.

"A man has got to be in good physical condition to stand my kind of work. For years by stomach and kidneys were out of order. I would have to get up an average of five times a night, and this continual strain just about exhausted me. Then, my stomach got all out of order. Nothing I ate agreed with me, and always caused me a lot of distress with gases and pains, and made me very nervous, and weakened from undernourishment. I was constipated and bilious and so dizzy at times I could hardly get about.

"I tried dozens of medicines that I thought would help me, but I might just as well have been taking water for all the good they did me. Then, I started the Sargon treatment, and I felt better after the third dose. Soon I could eat anything I wanted, as much as I wanted, without any stomach trouble of any kind, and day by day I got stronger. I kept right on with the treatment, and I was never more surprised in my life than when every pain and ache left me, and I could step out on the job and do a day's work with any of them. I just feel like a new man!

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills toned up my liver, rid me of constipation and biliousness, and did it without sickness of any kind. This Sargon treatment restored by health when everything else failed, and I want all my friends to know about it."

The above statement was recently made by E. E. Simpson, of 5267 Charles St., Dallas. Mr. Simpson has lived in Dallas for forty years and has a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Sargon may be obtained in Wichita Falls from the Rexall Drug Co., Eighth and Scott streets, No. 1 main store, and Seventh and Indiana, No. 2; in Electra from Lough's Drug store; and in Burkburnett from Burkburnett Pharmacy.—Adv.

20 Police Squads Search Chicago For Killer of Three Detectives

CHICAGO, May 31. (US)—Three men were killed and three others were probably fatally wounded late today when Fred Preuss became suddenly insane and resisted police interference in his avowed intention to kill his wife.

The dead are: Detective Sergeant John Conley, Detective Herbert Hagberg, John Chorasek, a coal dealer and neighbor of the Preuss family.

The wounded are: Detective Joseph J. Murphy, Detective Burton McInenerney and Gus Jaros, who attempted to quiet Preuss pending the arrival of the police.

Preuss and his wife had a quarrel and the man was believed to have become suddenly insane and threatened to "kill everyone."

Police squads rushed to the house and were met by a double charge of buckshot as they sought to enter the apartment house. Preuss escaped and 20 squads of police are scouring the city for him.

TWO HELD IN STAMP FRAUD

Nation-Wide Conspiracy Uncovered

NEW YORK, May 31. (US)—Startling revelations of the operations of a nation-wide conspiracy, by which the United States has been defrauded of $4,500,000 in the past year, were made by post office officials here today.

The exposure followed the arrest and arraignment of two of a group of men charged with washing and selling cancelled postage stamps.

The men accused as members of the gang were L. A. Beebe and Frank Marquis. They were held by Federal Commissioner O'Neill in $1,000 each for examination on June 15.

This pair surrendered but the authorities are still seeking five other men on the same charge—H. Childare, Samuel Boyaner, Charles J. Gregory, C. C. Kellon and Edgar Nelton.

Postal Inspector Shea added that the quintet would surrender tomorrow.

Inspector Shea described the ring as a great, loosely strung organization with ramifications into every section of the country. The members of the ring worked—and some of them are still working—by a process so simple as to be primitive.

They obtained cancelled parcel postage stamps of large denominations from banks and mail order houses, paying as little at $2.10 a pound. Ostensibly, the cancelled stamps were desired for collectors and dealers in used stamps and no suspicion ever was stirred.

When the stamps were received, the cancellation marks were bleached or washed off. A layer of mucilage was spread on the backs and the stamps were re-sold. The resale price averaged about fifty per cent of the face value of the stamps.

To persons unfamiliar with the situation, Inspector Shea said, the possibility of bleaching cancelled stamps in quantities large enough to make millions in profit seems fantastic, but the crux of the case lay in the fact that countless thousands of stamps of denominations running from $1 to $30 are used every day for shipping merchandise and papers through the mails.

Wholesale merchants, financial agencies and mail order companies are the largest users.

The loftiest capital in the world is La Paz of Bolivs, which stands on a mountain top 12,470 feet above the sea.

Business Conditions Good, Report Says

AUSTIN, Texas, May 31.—General business and industrial conditions in Texas continued on a satisfactory basis during April, according to Bervard Nichols, editor of the Texas Business Review, issued monthly by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas. Mr. Nichols has just completed his monthly survey of the April business and industrial situation.

"Expansion in many lines was above the usual seasonal gain, and the value of business done was greater than that in April a year ago," Mr. Nichols said. "Even though the strained credit conditions are still causing some concern, financial conditions of the country are fundamentally sound. Industry is experiencing little difficulty in obtaining ample funds for financing the large volume of business being done. There is certainly considerable speculation in the stock market but so far commodity prices have not been inflated."

WARSHIP COST HUGE BURDEN

Stimson Points Out Price of Preparedness

WASHINGTON, May 31, (AP).—Declaring that the authorized and contemplated naval program of the United States for new ships amounts to $1,170,800,000 Secretary Stimson said today in a statement that few realized the immense burden on the world by the cost of modern ships of war.

The secretary's statement was made in commenting upon the speech of President Hoover at Arlington National cemetery, Mr. Stimson declaring he wishes to "call attention to another aspect" of naval disarmament.

Emphasizing that the $1,170,800,000 involved the construction program of only one nation—the United States—the secretary said that if this country proceeded other nations would be impelled to "follow suit," and "the burden of unproductive expenditures which will be imposed upon the economic world during the next 15 years can be to a certain extend realized."

The West Texas geologists will concentrate at Midland, and will be joined by New Mexico geologists at some point yet to be determined in the eastern part of that state.

Wichitan Doubts Own Sanity After Physician Testifies

Asked to testify in defense of his own sanity after he had listened to evidence against him, a defendant in the county court Friday morning admitted to some doubt on the subject.

"Well," he remarked, "I thought I was sane, but if I haven't got any more sense than the doctor says I have, I reckon you better send me right out there."

The jury found him sane.

The lunacy trial was somewhat complicated by the intervention of the district attorney's office in behalf of the defendant, who is also under indictment for driving an automobile while intoxicated. A five year suspended sentence for burglary is already on the records against him in Denton, officials said. Evidence introduced in the hearing Friday showed that the defendant had twice swallowed poison within the last few weeks.

From July 22 to Aug. 3, Schmidt will be at Furman college, South Carolina, with Coach Wade of Alabama and Coach Alexander of Georgia.

Brook Hollow Links Ready for Tourney

DALLAS, May 31. (AP)—The Brook Hollow Country club course here is being put in topnotch condition to receive the state amateur golf tournament June 4-8. Fairways and greens have been groomed to the point of perfection, and there will be no such thing as a bad lie when the cream of the state's linksmen tee off their 36-hole qualifying round.

While there is only one real water hazard on the Brook Hollow layout, the course is heavily bunkered and wooded and will offer a genuine championship test. Players who cannot keep their shots down the middle will come to plenty of grief in the yawning pits that flank the fairways and surround the greens.

Par for the 6,655 yards championship course is 70. The figure seldom has been equalled, and it has been predicted that a score of 150 will suffice to gain entry to the title flight of the approaching tournament.

THE world has out grown your type. We've mastered the primeveal instinct which bred dread of all things intangible and suspected hidden menaces in all inexplicable operations of normal phenomena.

Nowadays, we interpret the voice of thunder not as a rumble of wrath but as a promise of beneficient rain. We hear in the roar of the water fall a message of utility. We behold in the plague not punishment from an outraged deity, but the protest of outraged nature. We have trailed the banshee to a creaking tree limb, and traced the nightmare to a conspiracy of lobster, cucumbers and whipped cream.

We know at last that there is no ghost but conscience, and no magic spell except determination.

Real civilization did not start until we ceased to confide in fairies and demons and began to pin faith on ourselves.

We no longer exercise the devil with an incantation, but with ventilation and sanitation and education.

We do not heal the halt and the lame and the blind with relics and witches' brews, but with surgeons' knives and plaster casts and sticks of caustic.

We've torn the lying mask from the face of superstition only to find ignorance under an alias—cowardice ashamed to acknowledge itself.

We have not only left aboriginal tails behind us, but old wives tales to boot. The two belong to the same epoch of our development.

The more we think the less we shrink from the incomprehensive. We've simplified life into a primal equation—we succeed when we're right, and we fail when we're wrong.

Wit and will are the only proven lucky charms.

Today in Texas History

1690—Dedication of Mission San Francisco, first Spanish mission in Texas, near the present town of Crockett.

1832—Mass meeting of American colonists at San Augustine decides to demand release of Protestant ministers imprisoned by Piedra at Nacogdoches.

1876—Marlin celebrated the completion of the bridge over the Brazos with a barbecue.

Making Tools of Toys

RAY LITTLE, a veteran aviator who flew the first eastbound transcontinental air mail plane out of San Francisco in 1920, and who has been flying in that service ever since, is getting very disillusioned about the business of flying.

Aviation is a dandy calling, he says, except that it is no longer thrilling. It used to be dangerous and exciting; now it is neither, and the pilot's chief trouble is the boredom that sooner or later settles upon him.

We who are still held to the ground don't usually look at it that way. An airplane, to us, is still a thing of wonder. The pilot belongs to a tribe that is set apart from people of common clay. The race has not yet worn its wings long enough to take them for granted.

But Little—and most experienced pilots, we suspect, share his feelings—finds that piloting an airplane is just another job. It is too safe, too certain, too regular; and because it is all of these things it has lost its kick.

All of this, as first glance, looks like nothing but the casual comment of a somewhat blase flyer. But it is really a symptom of something very important.

It means that the airplane—this strange, glittering new tool that mankind has been fumbling with for two decades—has at last been about mastered. We are learning how to use it. In a very short time the country at large will share Pilot Little's opinion about flying—and then we'll be ready to go on and tackle something else.

During the last 25 years or so we have developed a great many new tools.

Each one has been a sort of toy, at first. Little by little, however, we have discovered the ways in which they can make life freer and richer; and as those discoveries come, the tools cease to be toys and become important weapons in the fight to lift ourselves into a broader and more open region of existence.

We have not yet mastered them all. We have a great heap of them—airplanes, radios, moving pictures, new chemical processes that can hit drudgery and poverty a death blow, electrical appliances that can set us free from small tasks and petty annoyances; but we haven't yet found out how to use them to the best advantage. They still dazzle us.

Eventually we shall master them all and take them for granted. When that day comes we shall be able to transform our daily life in a way we never thought possible.

So it is that Pilot Little's remarks are more significant than that gallant aviator dreams. They indicate that we are turning the airplane from a toy into a tool.

The Value of Texas Sulphur

TEXAS is the largest producer of sulphur of any American state. Sulphur plants and deposits are located in Wharton county. Assessment of the Texas Gulf Sulphur company is slightly below $3,000,000. Taxpayers of Wharton county insist that the sulphur company should pay on assessments in the same ratio as other taxpayers.

Assistant Attorney General Paul D. Page has been assigned the job of boosting the assessment or rather enforcing a correct assessment.

Page and the lawyers associated with him say that the sulphur deposits are worth $1,000,000,000; that subtracting the usual cost of operation and marketing, together with interest charges, the net value is alleged to be $450,000,000 and that the assessment should be $150,000,000, "thereby maintaining the same proportion as levied on other property."

If the sulphur deposits in Wharton county have a value of $1,000,000,000 there is a fixed supply on hand sufficient to maintain blazing fires in hades for many centuries to come.

Cross of Texas Backs Tariff

REP. O. H. CROSS of Texas made his maiden speech. He demanded a tariff on hides. He demanded a higher tariff on cattle. He declared the present tariff on cattle "no better than none at all." He addressed his remarks to "you boys." He made a hit. Republican leaders in the house have let it be known that a small tariff will be placed on hides—green as well as dry hides. Many Republican congressmen from the northwest are lined up with Garner and his Texans for the protection of hides. Is the tariff a local issue? Ask the Texans. Ask the sugar senators from Louisiana. Ask the textile manufacturers of the Carolinas and Georgia and Alabama.

The Once Over
By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE STOCK MARKET
CASEY JONES

Come all you rounders, if you want to hear
A story about a brave engineer,
Casey Jones was the rounder's name—
In a railroad market he won his fame
The court told Casey at ten of three
That the loser was the I. C. C.;
Mounted to his cabin with "buy" orders in his hand
And he took his long-sought trip to the Promised Land.

Chorus

Casey Jones! Mounted to his cabin!
Casey Jones! With "buy" orders in his hand!
Casey Jones! Reachin' and a-grabbin'
For Erie, Frisco, Wabash and some Rio Grande.

Put in your water and shovel in your coal,
Put your head out the window, watch them drivers roll.
"I'll run this engine off the rails, and how!
'Cause I'm four years late in the market now."
He looked at his watch and his watch was slow,
He looked at the ticker and he craved the dough;
He turned to the fireman and he said,
"We're going to make plenty at full speed ahead!"

Chorus

Casey Jones! Going to make plenty!
Casey Jones! Figures in his head!
Casey Jones! Going to make plenty!
We're going to make plenty at full speed ahead!

Casey pulled up that "Wall Street hill,"
He tooted for the crossing with an awful shrill,
The switchman knew by the engine's moans
That the man at the throttle was Casey Jones.
He pulled up within two blocks of the place—
The F. R. B.' stared him right in the face;
Turned to the fireman, said, "Boy, you'd better jump,
'Cause there's two locomotives that's a-going to bump."

Chorus

Casey Jones! Two locomotives!
Casey Jones! That's a-going to bump!
Casey Jones! Two locomotives!
Two locomotives that's a-going to bump!

Casey said just before he died,
"There's two more roads that I'd like to ride."
Fireman said, "What can they be?"
"The oils and chemicals look good to me."
Mrs. Jones sat on the bed a-sighing,
Just received a message that Casey was dying.
Said, "Go to bed, children, face it like a sport,
'Cause you got another papa and he sold 'em short.

"Federal Reserve Board, if you must know.

President Hoover has named his commission of citizens to seek a solution of law enforcement and organization of justice. It's a big job, but the commission has a lovely century for it.

It is announced that the commission expects to take two years for the task. Don't be silly! Forty-two is par for half the distance.

There are 11 members on the commission, with Mr. Wickersham at quarter back and Mr. Newton B. Baker as a fleet broken-field runner and Mr. Roscoe Pound specializing in drop-kicking. The other players are so little known nationally it may be necessary to number them.

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, May 31.—Going into the 86th Street and Lexington avenue subway station about 10 o'clock one morning this week, I saw sound asleep on the bench on the platform a man whose beard and general appearance indicated that he had selected the subway for a night's lodging rather than a hotel for economic reasons.

Upon investigation this writer discovered that many people, men and women old and young, black and white, make the subways their regular lodging places. It is almost impossible for the company to check up on its passengers. Therefore, through the payment of a nickel, a passenger can enter the subway and spend hours riding back and forth and up and down. These uninvited lodgers of course do not have the convenience that a hotel affords, but the price recommends the quarters. Many of them take their lunches, and they are among the few passengers of the New York underground who are not impatient at delays. The corner seats, which are the most comfortable, represent to the subway lodgers what a suite does to a hotel guest.

As I was going into the subway station at Park place the other morning, a studious looking man wearing glasses and carrying a square package, which to my amateurish eyes resembled about the size of two bottles of Scotch, Johnny Walker Black label, lost control of his bundle as he stepped from the train, and it crashed to the concrete floor of the platform. He hastily picked it up, and it began to drip. As he started upstairs a large quantity of liquid which smelled like alcohol, gushed from the bundle.

Thoughts of $10,000 fine and five years in jail, as provided by the Jones' law, evidently rushed through his mind, because with undue haste he dropped the bundle on the stairs, took off his glasses, probably in a hurried effort to disguise himself and slipped through the crowd to the other end of the platform. He seemed very much disturbed by the incident and, if he had a mustache, I am sure he would have pulled a razor from his pocket and shaved that off to.

As the bundle seemed to me surely to contain two bottles I was almost tempted to investigate to see whether by any chance one of the bottles had been saved in the crash, but I, too, lacked the courage.

While getting my hair cut the other day the telephone rang and the head barber had a long discussion with his broker. This paragraph is intended to show how deeply interested everyone is in the stock market. I closed my eyes, and overhearing the barber's instructions to his broker, I thought it might be Pierpont Morgan, W. C. Durant or someone else interested in large quantities of stock. He certainly sounded like a big trader. The conversation was something as follows:

"Sell five hundred shares from the No. 1 account at 31. Buy 400 shares for the No. 8 account at 37. You wouldn't let me sell this stuff before when it was at 35 and now I have to sell it at 31. After this I'll run my own business. Do the best you can for me."

Bang goes the receiver.

There is a wave of gambling in New York. Stock speculation runs high, and bets are made on all kinds of propositions. To begin with, nearly everyone is in the market. Then bets are made on golf, cards and all sorts of propositions.

I heard a story the other day of a man who has made a considerable amount speculating in stocks and has retired and devotes most of his time to cards and golf playing both at high stakes. The story is that recently he was one of two survivors in a stud-poker hand where he held a pair of Kings back to back, and there was an Ace showing against him. The man with the exposed Ace bet him $275,000. After smoking a couple of cigarets and giving due consideration to a transaction of that magnitude, he called the bet, and the Kings were good. The man with the Ace was bluffing.

This same sport was recently invited to take a trip on a large yacht by a friend of his, and the owner of the skiff requested that he and some of his companions refrain from gambling, because it didn't interest the other guests. However, as soon as our hero came on board he pulled a couple of decks of cards out of his pocket and turning to a friend of his, with whom he gambled a lot, said:

"Come on Joe, let's get started."

The owner of the yacht protested.

"I told you fellows there was to be no gambling on this boat. Now you'll have to cut it out."

"I'll tell you what I'll do with you," remarked our hero casually. "This boat is worth $350,000. I'll cut you high card $350,000 against the yacht."

The owner declined the offer.

Afterwards, I asked whether or not he would have gone through with it.

"Yes," replied the sport. "I knew the boat was worth $350,000 and if I had won I would have loved to put the owner in the launch and send him ashore, and we could have gambled as much as we wanted to."

The current sensation of New York is Rudy Vallee. This gentleman is the star at the Villa Vallee night club and croons sentimental songs which are broadcast over the radio. His chief auditors are women, and one woman described his appeal as being direct to her.

"I knew he was singing to me all the time," she said. "There wasn't anybody else listening in."

To hear Vallee on the radio, one would think he was a dark Latin type, but, as a matter of fact, he is light, tall and slim. No one could ever mistake him for Valentino.

He played at the Paramount theater recently, and they had to get out the police because of the riot of females to get in the theater. He is probably another seven-day wonder of the metropolis. I have heard, and I do not know how true it is, that his real name is Thomas and that he went to Harvard.

DURANT AUTO STOCKS FLOP

Shares Go Down to Crimp In Operators' Rolls

NEW YORK, May 31. (INS)—A crimp has been put into the bank rolls of a number of Wall street's big operators, according to reports in the financial district today.

Five of the best known motor-car stocks, in which William C. Durant, the Fishers of Detroit and Arthur Cutten of Chicago have been extensive holders, broke today to the lowest levels of the year, the liquidation giving rise to reports of heavy selling by these and other operators. At 69, General Motors was down 22 points from the high of the year, representing a shrinking of $967,000,000 in total value of the 43,500,000 shares of the total outstanding common stock of the company.

Though William C. Durant is now in Europe, he maintains intimate touch with the market through his brokers and agents. Market gossip has credited him with having maintained a private cable service at $1,000 a day, while his telephone calls from Europe on his previous trip ran as high as $2,000 a day, according to Wall street reports.

Durant's activities in the stock market can only be traced by the movements of the stocks in which he is interested, International Combustion Engineering, one of the Durant favorites, dropped abruptly today to 54½, the lowest price in two years and down 50 points from the high of the year. Cast Iron Pipe, a Durant favorite, also skirted bottom. General Motors was thrown on the market in the forenoon at the lowest price of the year.

Wall street gossip refuses to divulge the name of the "big operator now abroad, who unloaded $40,000,000 worth of stocks in the break in the market since May 15."

EAST SWELTERS IN HEAT WAVE

Seaboard Cities Experience Sizzling Day

(By The Associated Press)

Still sweltering in heat all the harder to bear because it was so unseasonable, the people of the greater part of the United States have turned expectant faces to the north.

For riding the wings of northerly breezes that started blowing across the eastern sites about noon Friday, relief was reported to be on its way.

Boston, one of the hottest places in the whole country at 8 a. m. Friday with a temperature of 84, experienced the pleasing sensation of a 10-point degree drop in temperature around noon. However, before it got cooler in Boston, it got hotter. The temperature had gone up to 90 at 11:30. Then a breeze off the Atlantic came to the aid of the northerly wind, and by 12:45 p. m. the mercury had dropped down to 71.

But while Boston was cooling off other Atlantic seaboard cities just were getting the crest of their heat wave.

By the middle of the afternoon it was 90 in New Yor kand in Philadelphia, and in both cities the humidity was high.

The end apparently had been recorded in New York, however, after the 90-degree temperature had been recorded at 3 p. m., making Friday the hottest day of the year in New York. There was a drop to 89 by 4 p. m.

While it was cooler in Boston, the same could not be said of all parts of New England, nor even Massachusetts. Springfield reported 94 degrees, practically no breeze, and a high humidity.

In many parts of the country, particularly in the middle Atlantic states, there were numerous prostrations.

Beautiful Girls At Galveston for Pageant

GALVESTON, May 31. (AP)—The vanguard of beautiful girls who will participate in the international pageant of pulchritude here June 8-15 arrived today aboard the steamship Algonquin.

They were met at the pier by a reception committee, headed by Mayor J. E. Pearce.

The girls, who will compete with contestants from other countries and all parts of the United States, were Miss England-Benny Dick; Miss France-Germaine Le Bordeau; Miss Holland-Johanna Koopman; Miss Roumania-Magda Dementrescu; Miss Germany-Ingerborg Grahn; Miss Spain-Rosario Vallesquez; Miss Luxembourg-Ketty Hipp; Miss Austria-Lisa Goldarbeiter.

"A man has got to be in good physical condition to stand my kind of work. For years by stomach and kidneys were out of order. I would have to get up an average of five times a night, and this continual strain just about exhausted me. Then, my stomach got all out of order. Nothing I ate agreed with me, and always caused me a lot of distress with gases and pains, and made me very nervous, and weakened from undernourishment. I was constipated and bilious and so dizzy at times I could hardly get about.

"I tried dozens of medicines that I thought would help me, but I might just as well have been taking water for all the good they did me. Then, I started the Sargon treatment, and I felt better after the third dose. Soon I could eat anything I wanted, as much as I wanted, without any stomach trouble of any kind, and day by day I got stronger. I kept right on with the treatment, and I was never more surprised in my life than when every pain and ache left me, and I could step out on the job and do a day's work with any of them. I just feel like a new man!

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills toned up my liver, rid me of constipation and billousness, and did it without sickness of any kind. This Sargon treatment restored by health when everything else failed, and I want all my friends to know about it."

The above statement was recently made by E. E. Simpson, of 8207 Charles St., Dallas. Mr. Simpson has lived in Dallas for forty years and has a large circle of friends and acquaintances.

Sargon may be obtained in Wichita Falls from the Renfro Drug Co., Eighth and Scott streets, No. 1 main store, and Seventh and Indiana, No. 2; in Electra from Lough's Drug store; and in Burkburnett from Burkburnett Pharmacy.—Adv.

20 Police Squads Search Chicago For Killer of Three Detectives

CHICAGO, May 31. (US)—Three men were killed and three others were probably fatally wounded late today when Fred Preuss became suddenly insane and resisted police interference in his avowed intention to kill his wife:

The dead are: Detective Sergeant John Conley, Detective Herbert Hagberg, John Chorazek, a coal dealer and neighbor of the Preuss family.

The wounded are: Detective Joseph J. Murphy, Detective Burton McInenerney and Gus Jaros, who attempted to quiet Preuss pending the arrival of the police.

Preuss and his wife had a quarrel and the man was believed to have become suddenly insane and threatened to "kill everyone."

Police squads rushed to the house and were met by a double charge of buckshot as they sought to enter the apartment house. Preuss escaped and 20 squads of police are scouring the city for him.

TWO HELD IN STAMP FRAUD

Nation-Wide Conspiracy Uncovered

NEW YORK, May 31. (US)—Startling revelations of the operations of a nation-wide conspiracy, by which the United States has been defrauded of $4,500,000 in the past year were made by post office officials here today.

The exposure followed the arrest and arraignment of two of a group of men charged with washing and selling cancelled postage stamps.

The men accused as members of the gang were L. A. Beebe and Frank Marquis. They were held by Federal Commissioner O'Neill in $1,000 each for examination on June 15.

This pair surrendered but the authorities are still seeking five other men on the same charge—H. Chidare, Samuel Boyaner, Charles J. Gregory, C. C. Kellon and Edgar Nelton.

Postal Inspector Shea added that the quintet would surrender tomorrow.

Inspector Shea described the ring as a great, loosely strung organization with ramifications into every section of the country. The members of the ring worked—and some of them are still working—by a process so simple as to be primitive.

They obtained cancelled parcel postage stamps of large denominations from banks and mail order houses, paying as little at $2.10 a pound. Ostensibly, the cancelled stamps were desired for collectors and dealers in used stamps and no suspicion ever was stirred.

When the stamps were received, the cancellation marks were bleached or washed off. A layer of mucilage was spread on the backs and the stamps were re-sold. The resale price averaged about fifty per cent of the face value of the stamps.

To persons unfamiliar with the situation, Inspector Shea said, the possibility of bleaching cancelled stamps in quantities large enough to make millions in profit seems fantastic, but the crux of the case lay in the fact that countless thousands of stamps of denominations running from $1 to $50 are used every day for shipping merchandise and papers through the mails.

Wholesale merchants, financial agencies and mail order companies are the largest users.

The loftiest capital in the world is La Paz of Bolivs, which stands on a mountain top 12,470 feet above the sea.

Business Conditions Good, Report Says

AUSTIN, Texas, May 31.—General business and industrial conditions in Texas continued on a satisfactory basis during April, according to Bervard Nichols, editor of the Texas Business Review, issued monthly by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Texas. Mr. Nichols has just completed his monthly survey of the April business and industrial situation.

"Expansion in many lines was above the usual seasonal gain, and the value of business done was greater than that in April a year ago," Mr. Nichols said. "Even though the strained credit conditions are still causing some concern, financial conditions of the country are fundamentally sound. Industry is experiencing little difficulty in obtaining ample funds for financing the large volume of business being done. There is certainly considerable speculation in the stock market but so far commodity prices have not been inflated."

WARSHIP COST HUGE BURDEN

Stimson Points Out Price of Preparedness

WASHINGTON, May 31, (AP)—Declaring that the authorized and contemplated naval program of the United States for new ships amounts to $1,170,800,000 Secretary Stimson said today in a statement that few realized the immense burden on the world by the cost of modern ships of war.

The secretary's statement was made in commenting upon the speech of President Hoover at Arlington National cemetery, Mr. Stimson declaring he wishes to "call attention to another aspect" of naval disarmament.

Emphasizing that the $1,170,800,000 involved the construction program of only one nation—the United States—the secretary said that if this country proceeded other nations would be impelled to "follow suit," and "the burden of unproductive expenditures which will be imposed upon the economic world during the next 15 years can be to a certain extend realized."

Wichitan Doubts Own Sanity After Physician Testifies

Asked to testify in defense of his own sanity after he had listened to evidence against him, a defendant in the county court Friday morning admitted to some doubt on the subject.

"Well," he remarked, "I thought I was sane, but if I haven't got any more sense than the doctor says I have, I reckon you better send me right out there."

The jury found him sane.

The lunacy trial was somewhat complicated by the intervention of the district attorney's office in behalf of the defendant, who is also under indictment for driving an automobile while intoxicated. A five year suspended sentence for burglary is already on the records against him in Denton, officials said. Evidence introduced in the hearing Friday showed that the defendant had twice swallowed poison within the last few weeks.

Brook Hollow Links Ready for Tourney

DALLAS, May 31. (AP)—The Brook Hollow Country club course here is being put in topnotch condition to receive the state amateur golf tournament June 4-8. Fairways and greens have been groomed to the point of perfection, and there will be no such thing as a bad lie when the cream of the state's linksmen tee off their 36-hole qualifying round.

While there is only one real water hazard on the Brook Hollow layout, the course is heavily bunkered and wooded and will offer a genuine championship test. Players who cannot keep their shots down the middle will come to plenty of grief in the yawning pits that flank the fairways and surround the greens.

Par for the 6,656 yards championship course is 70. The figure seldom has been equalled, and it has been predicted that a score of 140 will suffice to gain entry to the title flight of the approaching tournament.

Fitzgerald Hammers Three Doubles and Single

Special to The Record News

FORT WORTH, May 31.—The Spudders today lost their fourth consecutive game when the Fort Worth Panthers swept the three-game series by taking the final, 11 to 5.

Fort Worth scored all its tallies in the first four innings off Cy Smith and Ed Taber. The latter held the Cats scoreless the rest of the way, but the Spudders, although they hammered out 12 blows off Dick Whitworth, could not make their knocks count to any degree of success. Thirteen hits were made by the Cats.

Benton Gets Three Hits

Howard Fitzgerald emerged from a batting slump impressively. He clouted three two-base smashes and a single. Rabbit Benton hit a double and two singles. Stapleton was the only other Spudder to clout more than one knock, the first sacker getting two hits. Red Bennett whaled a home run.

Grimes and Harrington led the Fort Worth attack with three hits apiece.

The game was marked by 10 two base hits.

Wichita Falls pitchers were unsteady, giving eight bases on balls, of which four were issued by Galeria.

Swenson at Third

Wally Swenson played his first game in several days at third base.

Bud Stapleton continued his fine fielding and Benton and Turgeon also turned in some excellent defensive bits, despite two boots by Pete.

The Spudders play at Shreveport tomorrow, with a double header Sunday at Sportville winding up their present trek.

New Entries Are Made for Speed Races at Fairgrounds Tomorrow

The program of auto races scheduled for tomorrow afternoon at the Texas-Oklahoma Fairgrounds track will begin promptly at 1:30 o'clock with the time trials. Each car must race one lap of the track against time. The results of their efforts place them in the races of the program and eliminate the less speedy cars. The first race on the program will begin exactly at 3 and the fans are assured by Manager Onley that the races will be presented without any delays between events.

Drivers are warned that if not ready to get on the line when called that they will be disqualified from the event.

New entries are continuing to come in and among them one finds Art Hutcheson of Oklahoma City with a fast Hutcheson Special and a Frontenac. Speedy Walker from Dallas and his snappy Walker Special, and Harley Wells of Kansas City with a Brown Special. Very little is known of the actual work of these cars, except the fact they are high point winners in other state elimination meets. The fact that they were late entries and also not scheduled to arrive until time for the time trials has caused much worry among entries who are here. Drivers who have tried the track however are firm in their belief that it will take much more than a darkhorse entry to beat the field for already the fastest cars in the southwest division of the national elimination contests have been entered and seen in action.

The fact that drivers are entered who hail from Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Colorado, and Missouri is the cause of much intersectional rivalry among the drivers that will add extra effort to the part each driver does in the afternoon's speed show.

The first event on the card will be the time trials at 1:30 with the first race beginning at 3. The class A race will be open to the eight fastest cars according to time trials.

The class B race will be open to the non-winners of the first event and the balance of the entry list.

The fourth event on the program will be a match race between the three fastest cars on the track. This event is bound to be one of the big hits on the program for it is reasonably sure that the cars will be almost equally matched and likely to be a neck and neck fight throughout.

The fifth event is a consolation race for previous non-winners. This race besides offering speed and thrills affords the fans many hearty laughs for each driver is furnished with a large straw hat which he must wear while racing. If the driver loses his hat then he is immediately disqualified; the winners are the first three to finish with their hats on. Extra thrills are afforded in the event by the fact that the drivers use only one hand in piloting their car and the other hand is busily engaged in holding the straw lid.

The final event on the card is the sweepstakes, open to all entries. The race will cover 25 laps of the track and the winner, besides the cash award will receive an additional 100 points to his credit towards the national speed crown.

Fifteen judges and clerks will tabulate the results of the races and supervise the timing of all events. Don C. Onley a veteran driver and official will manipulate the flags.

'Jockeys' O. K. In Association

Hickey Refuses to Silence 'Pea Ridge' Day

KANSAS CITY, May 31. (UP)—Baseball players may yell as loud, long and often as they choose at their rival players in the American association, according to a ruling of President T. J. Hickey.

Hickey had received complaints from rival teams, that "Pearidge" day, Kansas City pitcher, was making himself obnoxious by yelling the opposition out of all conscience. The president attended Wednesdays' Blues-Millers game at Minneapolis to "see for himself."

Day was in form with his vocals but Hickey announced that "if this is all Day does, I can have no objection to his yelling as much as he wants to. There is no rule against yelling and the fans seem to like it."

Tilden, Helen Win In French Tennis

PARIS, May 31. (AP)—Three American tennis stars joined in a determined effort today to shatter the myth of European supremacy on the courts in the quarter-final round of the French championships. Two clean cut victories were chalked up for the United States while the third invader seemed well on his way to triumph.

Big Bill Tilden and Helen Wills, America's first ranking stars, went into the semi-finals by defeating a pair of Europe's leaders, Baron Humbert de Morpurgo of Italy and Helene le Faurie of France. The tide of the third match seemed to be turning strongly toward a victory for Frank Hunter over Jean Borotra when darkness put an end to the day's play.

The Herts colt has been unsuccessful thus far in England, and has been ridden by Chick Lang, an American jockey.

JEFFRIES HITS 2 HOMERS

DALLAS, May 31. (AP)—Irvin Jeffries, sensational rookie third baseman, planted two home runs into the left field bleachers today and the second one, coming with the bases empty in the eighth sewed up a 7 to 6 victory for the Dallas Steers in the third and final game of their series with the Shreveport Sports. It also knocked the Louisiana entry off the top in the Texas league pennant race. Score:

Hudkins-Belanger Fight Still Sought

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31. (UP) Although Ace Hudkins, Nebraska middleweight, has refused an offer of $15,000 to meet Charley Belanger, light heavyweight champion of Canada, Willie Ritchie, local promoter seeking the match, said tonight he was not discouraged and would continue negotiations.

Ritchie said he could not understand why Hudkins should turn down such a prospect unless he was anticipating an early bout with Mickey Walker, the champion, which, he claimed, was unlikely at this time.

Compston Beats Hagen, 8 and 7

British Pro Repeats Victory Over Walter

MOOR PARK, Eng., May 31. (UP)—Walter Hagen bowed to Archie Compston today in their special 36-hole match at Moor Park, the scene of "the Haig's" worst defeat, suffered at the hands of this same British professional a year ago.

Compston won today, 8 and 7. Last year, he defeated Hagen in a 72-hole match here, 18 up and 17 to play.

Hagen and Compston will play 36 holes tomorrow at Blackwell, near Birmingham.

STANFORD TOPS COLLEGE TRACK

Champs Favorites to Take Third Straight Title

FRANKLIN FIELD, Philadelphia, Pa., May 31. (AP)—Stanford university's brawny band of athletes dominated qualifying trials of the intercollegiate A. A. A. A. track and field championships today.

By capturing 14 places in the preliminaries, four more than Pennsylvania, the Cardinals demonstrated that there was no ballyhoo about advance notices of their prowess. Favorites to romp off with their third successive team championship in the finals tomorrow, and thereby give the far west its eighth triumph over eastern talent in nine years.

So sensationally did Stanford's stars perform in the field events, their specialties, that it seemed they are almost assured of sufficient points to clinch the title without lifting an implement tomorrow, since this afternoon's achievements all stand.

Harlow Rothert, Cardinal all-around star, turned in the only record performance. He hurled the 16-pound shot 50 feet, 3 inches, eclipsing by two inches the mark of his teammate, Eric Krenz, who did no better than fourth in today's tests in defense of his title.

Stanford qualified men in eight of the eleven events in which trials were held.

Baer Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

NEW YORK, May 31.—The easiest thing in the world to predict is yesterday's weather.

We do not know what kind of atmospherical pressure you have had in your neighborhood for April and May. But we do know that New York weather wins the rubber gum-drop.

It rained 26 days in April out of a possible 30.

May was so bad that we had to print the calendar on blotting paper.

We only took the flivver out on one Sunday out of eight. We are way behind on our grade-crossing sideswipes.

Sunday afternoon is the big day for family gatherings in the grumble-seat. Everybody trots out the caisson and the limber and conducts expeditionary maneuvers to the martial air of body squeaks and chassis canaries.

This is the only afternoon on which the family can all get together in papa's lap.

The old man always elects himself driver of the soda-pop-and-sandwich-caravan by a unanimous minority.

Oscar is perched on daddy's knee, Minnie is parked on his vest, uncle is around his neck and six innocent relatives are exercising squatter sovereignty on the back seat.

Eight people are the correct details for a holiday repair junket. Even at the most complicated road-crossings this number gives you a vote for every informatory sign.

When you come to the parting of the one-way ways known as five points, that is the time when the finger of authority is as useful as an ear trumpet in a cloudburst.

Every member of the family has his own idea of which way to go. And with all those arms stretching out of the tonneau, startled traffic cop ain't sure whether you are a family party or an octopus.

In order to provide for the betterment and enlightenment of civilization en route, we suggest that the jolt-riders in the complimentary seats allow the man at the wheel to do the driving.

The rest of the committee on outdoor advertising can share the happy responsibilities in ratio to their seniority. Uncle can be the foraging detail who leads the bayonet attack on the hot dog stands along the via gasolino.

Granny can argue with the village constables and Oscar can help towser to bark at bigger and better cars. Minnie can have charge of communications, using a lolly-pop for a semaphore and an ice cream cone as a battle flag.

The rest of the birds on the rear roost can supervise and offer advice, but not in habit-forming quantities. While realizing that taxation without representation is tyranny, we have yet to see a relative leave the rear ranks and step to the front when there was gasoline to be paid for at one of the Standard oil's wayside shrines.

O'Doul Helps Phils' Rise

Without stirring anyone, even themselves, Burt Shotton's Phillies are stepping along in select National league company these days.

NEW YORK, May 31. (AP)—What about the Phillies — are they going anywhere?

The wise men of the East get a big laugh out of that question. Anything better than sixth place for Burt Shotton's club seems out of the question to the baseball thinkers looking on from this distance.

The club itself has set its goal as the first division. Shotton, an old baseball head who produces convertible ideas in good quantity, is not bothered with pennant giddiness and truly will be a happy man if he finishes higher than fifth.

If the hard thumping of his great slugger, Lefty O'Doul, means anything, the Phillies will gain their objective and Shotton will land a big stock of joy to scatter around in Philly town next fall.

O'Doul, who went to Philadelphia because of the good trading judgment of his new boss, recognizes few National leaguers who are hitting the ball harder and oftener than he this season. Lefty has been clouting at better than a .400 clip.

When Shotton took over the team last year he looked around to see what had kept the outfit in the cellar seven times since 1918 and below sixth place for the same period.

He spotted much useless material which he promptly replaced with a train load of fresh man power from the bushes.

The infield, outfield and catching staff he constructed have been good enough to make the first division under the burden of a minor league pitching staff.

When Manager Burt digs up a hurling crew of corresponding strength he will have a contender and the old "Just Another Ball Club" sign which has become a Philadelphia land mark can come down.

The SPORTLIGHT

(Copyright, 1929, New York Tribune Inc.; Trademark Registered, U. S. Patent Office)

The Dizzy Month

By the time this month is over the average camp follower of sport and those who record the various details will be standing on the backs of their necks. In addition to the usual baseball turmoil, racing, etc., June closes out with the Schmeling-Paulino fight, the U. S. open golf championship, the boat race at Poughkeepsie and the Yale-Harvard clash at New London.

The golf championship, the two boat races and the heavyweight elimination all take place in less than ten days. Any survivors after this hurricane is over will be sent to the mountains or to the sea to recuperate.

Ten-Round Fights

No ring battle of any importance should be limited to 10 rounds. Most of these 10-round affairs have finished with the argument in an undecided state and with the majority of the taxpayers highly dissatisfied. The announcement that any fight is to be for only 10 rounds indicates in advance that it isn't highly important in any respect.

A 10-round fight is nearly always indecisive and unsatisfactory. The two principals just about start to warm up when the final bell rings. The place to prove any superior stuff is through the last five rounds of a 15-round contest. The late Labarbara-Chocolate meeting was a fair sample. Few of the judges or critics ever agree on how the rounds went in any close fight, but they have a better chance to reach some saner agreement at 15 rounds, where class as well as stamina has a better chance to show itself thoroughly.

At the prices being charged, 15 rounds is short enough. It has been said that many of the fights are so bad that 10 rounds are long enough. That might also be said for one round. But the only way to prove a verdict is to give them the longer route.

Hagen and the U. S. Open

Dear Sir: It has been 10 years since Walter Hagen was last able to win the United States open championship. But during that span of years he has captured the British open four times. What, in your opinion is the reason for his failures at home and successes abroad?

My own idea is that Haven has the British field stymied from the start. The British have seen the Hair perform so many great feats along their fairways that they believe him a practitioner of the black arts and are beaten before they start. Walter has much the same hold upon the professional brigade of America, and may be called the complex of professional golf.

But, I believe that Hagen has an insurmountable complex in the American open in Robert Tyre Jones. He never has won an open title when Jones was competing with him in the same field and has led Bob very few times either at home or abroad. I believe that in Jones, Hagen sees his superior; the one man who always is capable of throwing Walter's fastest round back in his face and bettering it. I may be entirely wrong. You may have some better explanation and I would like to hear it.

—OVERLAND RED.

The Return of Bucky Harris

Dear Sir: Bucky Harris no longer is the "boy manager" of baseball, but he still is a very capable baseball leader. He has the Detroit Tigers up there fighting for the lead in the American league race, and how the turnstiles at Dunn field are spinning.

Do not laugh at this, but Detroit might win the American league pennant. The Tigers always have been a poor spring team and usually were so far down at June 1 that the fine drives of midsummer were lost. This year Harris has the Bengals around the top in mid-May, and if they can put on their customary late season rush, Detroit will be a contender down to the last game.

No team with sluggers like Hellmann, Fothergill and Johnson; Alexander, Gehringer and McManus, can be taken lightly. If George Uhle can find some pitching aid, Detroit's ball club will be as good as there is in the league.—J. F. K.

The early rumor that New York was to have another exclusive world series this year remains unverified.

One trouble about golf medicine is that a cure that will work one day may not work the next. And if it doesn't work the next it is promptly abandoned in the search for another cure.

Just about one out of 10 will qualify for the next U. S. open at Winged Foot, and this means that nine out of 10 will be explaining the number of short putts they missed.

Health And Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper

Clams and Oysters

These two most prolific shellfish are similar in composition. They were probably among the first animal foods to be eaten by primitive man. Oysters and small clams are readily digestible when raw, even though the flesh is swallowed whole. When cooked they are a little more difficult to digest and should be well chewed.

Oysters contain 86.8 water, 6.8 protein, 1.2 fat, and 3.5 of mineral matter, being especially rich in chlorin, sulphur, phosphorus, and sodium. Clams are almost of the same composition, but they contain a little less protein, fat and carbohydrates, but more of the mineral matter.

Both of these are highly acid-forming and should, therefore, be used with a large quantity of the non-starchy vegetables to provide an alkaline balance.

While the smaller clams may be served raw, as oysters are, the larger ones are more tasteful broiled, fried, steamed, baked or stewed. The best flavor probably comes out in clam chowder or upon roasting over coals.

Neither of these two are very rich in nourishment, although they make a pleasant addition to the menu. It has been stated that over a dozen oysters are required to produce an equal food value to one egg.

Many people believe that oysters should be eaten only during the months in which "R" occurs, in order to avoid the spawning season, but, while this is true of the Northeast and New York oysters, it is not true of Chesapeake bay, the greatest oyster source. In southern waters the spawning season may occur at any time of the year.

Canned oysters are as wholesome as the fresh, and may be obtained at any season. Oysters may be shipped live in good condition for several days. There is, of course, more danger of the oyster becoming decomposed during the warm weather, but careful packing in refrigerated cars would prevent this.

At one time it was the practice to raise oysters in beds where city sewage was dumped and this resulted in a number of cases of contamination and typhoid. This danger hardly exists at the present time, as the government exercises a careful supervision over the beds and harvesting of the oyster.

The best portion of clams and oysters is the muscular tissue. Because these shellfish are scavengers, all of the stomach and intestinal portions should be discarded. Their stomach may contain an accumulation of rotting protein material which they have sucked up from the ocean bed. We occasionally may read of a case of acute poisoning because of this, and since there is no method of telling whether or not this is the case, it is better to discard this portion of the oyster or clam.

While I cannot consider clams and oysters as especially healthful foods, they may be used occasionally, for variety, by those in good health.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Progressive Muscular Atrophy

Question—Mrs. F. writes: "My brother has been gradually losing the use of his arms and legs for the last two years and has been told that he was suffering from a progressive muscular atrophy and nothing could be done for him. Can you tell me the cause of this, and if there is any treatment to at least check this disease, as he is getting more helpless all the time."

Answer — Progressive muscular atrophy is undoubtedly a serious condition. Usually a prolonged fasting regime is necessary at the beginning of the treatment in order to rid the system of the toxins causing the atrophy. This followed by a well balanced diet and manipulatory treatments, especially from a doctor who uses the Morse wave or sinusoidal current, would probably be helpful.

Craves Raw Potatoes

Question—Mrs. G. C. writes: "I seem to have a craving for raw potatoes, and I would like to know if it is harmful to eat them."

Answer—I do not believe the raw potatoes are injurious to your health. Perhaps there is some element or vitamin which they contain that your system craves. Eating large quantities of other raw vegetables would probably overcome the desire for the potatoes.

Eyelids Inflamed

Question—Miss W. P. writes: "My eyelids are always inflamed, especially in the mornings, and they remain red all day. I have spent considerable money having them treated, but to no avail. What is your advice."

Answer—I suggest that you take short fasts at frequent intervals of about a month apart, following a well balanced diet between the fasting periods. Cold applications should be used on the eyes as often as possible. Send for my article, "Inflammation of the Eyes."

FOUR COUNTIES GET OIL WELLS

Nine Completions Good For 54,171 Barrels

Special to The Record News

SAN ANGELO, Texas, May 31.—Nine wells completed last week in four counties rating a daily total of 54,171 barrels gave the West Texas Permian basin a much better record than the week before when failures outnumbered producers 9 to 7 and the seven completed producers in three counties were good only for 17,085 barrels a day. Only three tests were abandoned last week and one was a junked hole from which the rig was skidded a short distance to a new location. In addition to the seven oil wells finished was a million cubic foot gasser in Mitchell county.

One Winkler county well, Southern Crude Oil Producing Co.'s No. T-88-M-32 Hendrick, accounted for 48,000 barrels of last week's total, flowing 500 barrels in 15 minutes initially, a rate of 2,000 barrels an hour or 48,000 barrels a day. Four completions in Winkler were good for 52,552 barrels, three in Howard county for 1,229 barrels, one in Loving county for 250 barrels a day and one in Jones county for 150 barrels daily. Abandonments were two in Fisher, and one each in Jones and Mitchell counties.

Completions follow:

Culberson—Deep Rock Oil company and Grisham-Hunter corporation No. 2 Kloh, Rumsey and Abrams, section 33, block 59, T. & P. Ry Co. survey, elevation 3805 feet, total depth 1600 feet; abandoned, dry.

Fisher — Landreth Production company No. 1 Cooper, section 115, block 1, H. & T. C. Ry. Co. survey, elevation 1825 feet, top of Fisher county line 3200 feet, show of oil 3228 feet, hole full of water from 3370-85 feet and at 3610 feet, total depth 3702 feet; abandoned, dry.

Roeser & Pendleton No. 1 Haught section 191, block 1, B. B. B. & C. survey, elevation 1792 feet, total depth 1965 feet; hole junked.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 31. (AP)—Opening advances influenced by reports of over holiday rains and overflows in Texas were followed by declines in the cotton market here today under liquidation and local or commission house selling promoted by weakness in the grain market and the failure of cotton to advance further on the weather and crop news. October contracts broke from 18.62 to 18.30, making new low ground for the movement and closed at 18.31 with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 9 to 17 points.

Opening was steady at an advance of 4 to 11 points. July contracts sold up to 18.48 while December advanced to 18.74. The demand inspired by bullish weather and crop advices was readily supplied and the market turned easier before the end of the morning.

One private report pointing to an increase of 4.1 per cent in acreage and placing the condition of the crop at 70.8 compared with 68.6 at this time last year seemed to make rather a bearish impression on sentiment and may have been partly responsible for the reaction. Selling became more active as prices eased off and was supposed to include considerable liquidation for Wall street and western account.

Prices made new low ground for the movement on all positions with July selling off to 18.15 and December to 18.50, and closing quotations were at the lowest levels of the day for most positions.

Exports today were 16,314, making 7,683,388 so far this season.

Port receipts 11,570. U. S. port stocks 1,067,789.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 31. (AP)—Cotton was on the downgrade throughout the entire session today, all flurries of buying being smothered under fresh waves of offerings. The depressing influences were unfavorable cables and weakness of stocks and grains. October contracts opened at 18.53 and eased off to 18.27 and closed at 18.31, or 21 points net lower. The general market closed steady at net declines of 27 to 33 points.

Liverpool came in 3 to 7 points lower than due, private cables explaining the weakness there as due to disappointment over election results.

Three private acreage reports were issued with estimated reductions in acreage ranging from 1 to 4.1 per cent. The market encountered some buying at the beginning of the second hour probably on the continued unfavorable weather in the western belt and disappointing crop advices from Texas but the subsequent rally was small and soon lost under the selling pressure that followed.

MIDWEST LIVESTOCK

KANSAS CITY, May 31. (AP)—Livestock trade around the 11 market circuit was featured by a fairly broad shipping demand for hogs at strong to 15c higher prices. Packers, however, resisted the advance and at some points enforced slight declines on strong weight butchers. The day's top of $11.05 was paid both at Chicago and St. Louis.

Further loans of 25c or more were enforced on fed lambs while spring lambs were on a steady to 25c lower basis.

Aggregate receipts of cattle were estimated, at 19,200, an increase of 8,000 over a week ago. Better grades of fed steers and yearlings scored slight upturns at markets where supplies were sufficient to test prices.

CHICAGO COTTON

CHICAGO, May 31. (AP)—The cotton market opened higher on strong cables and reports of steady rains yesterday in northeast Texas, Oklahoma and north Georgia. Prices turned downward after the posting of the weather map and prospects of better weather during the next few days. The close was barely steady from one point net higher to 15 points net lower. With cables 14 to 18 American points better than due opening prices here were 8 to 14 points up except on January which was one point down. Weakness in stocks and grains may have contributed to losses in cotton.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, May 31. (AP)—Cotton goods opened quiet and unchanged with an easier tendency based on lower raw cotton.

There was some bidding for print cloths but at prices that mills would not consider. Burlaps were quiet and unchanged. Raw silk was dull but price levels were holding.

Reparations Settlement Main Factor In Bringing Rally to Stock Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, May 31. (US)—Word from Paris that the reparations agreement was signed influenced rally in the stock market today, that was helped by expectation that loan report would show a substantial decline for last week. The report showed drop of $232,000,000 when issued late in the day. Continued liquidation in the so-called "Durant stocks" caused irregularity in the Industrials but Rails and Utilities forged ahead steadily throughout the session.

Public Service of New Jersey gained 6½, American Water Works 14, New York Central 7⅝, Erie 3¼, and New York, New Haven & Hartford 4⅞. Combustion lost 1¾ for the session, Montgomery Ward 1⅜, Industrial Rayon 3 while other Industrials not directly connected with Durant rumors gained from a fraction to over two points. Call money held at six per cent throughout while turnover increased to 3,500,000 shares.

"Three times and out!" was the word that went all over the street as Combustion and others dropped. The leader of the groups in these stocks has scored remarkable comebacks before but never suffered a similar situation as he is now faced with. It will be some time, at least, before his following will forget. In so far as the market as a whole was concerned the cleaning out process was welcomed. That was evidenced in the action of some of the good Industrials and the outstanding ability of the Rails and Utilities to forge ahead. Due to the liquidation of loans resulting from the taking over of big blocks of the speculative stocks both in the market and through private transactions, it is believed that the reserve bank will report another substantial reduction in borrowings in its statement next week.

Atchison, Central and the other "gold plated" Rails remained the favorites in the transportation group because they benefit most from removal of possibility of recapture of income. It is earning power, also, that is the prime influence to buying in the Utility group. Electric Power and Light, Electric Investors, Water Works, American Superpower and others have enjoyed progressive increase in revenues through their own or subsidiary operations since the first of the year. The Utility and Power group also is influenced by knowledge of other important mergers that are planned as well as recapitalizations expected to be announced by Water Works and others in the near future.

Corrected stocks are near the stage where fundamental factors will again be an influence to buying. A big block of Warner, it is understood, passed to an investment trust. Interests associated with another investment trust commenced to pick up Rayon, it was reported. Chrysler's market is now watched closely by those who have been interested in the company for some time but who refused to take part in the group operation that brought the high price for this year and was followed by the wide-open collapse. Montgomery Ward feels the double effect of the collapse in wheat price and the "taking over activities" of the moment but there are important people in Chicago who have not changed their opinion as to future earning power.

Bankers heard that Secretary Mellon would become head of the reserve board and be succeeded by Dwight Morrow as secretary of the treasury. No change would please followers of the stock market more. It is felt that with Mellon as head of the reserve there would be an end to the secrecy and mystery that has undermined business confidence by threatening all manner of disaster to security prices. Another favorable piece of news received via Washington was report that other states would follow the example of California and pass laws to prevent waste in oil and gas production. California's action, it was pointed out, benefits Standard of California and others.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, May 31. (AP)—Prices on the cash grain market today followed the consigned market to sharply lower levels. The Memorial day holiday brought larger receipts Friday and demand was generally slow except for oats, corn and sorghum heads, which were in fair request.

Wheat—2 to 4c lower; demand slow; mills bidding as follows, basis delivered Texas common points: No. 1 ordinary hard selling $1.00@1.01; 13 per cent protein $1.01@1.02; 14 per cent $1.04@1.05; 15 per cent $1.08@1.09½; 16 per cent $1.13@1.13½; No. 1 soft red mixed delivered gulf quoted around $1.01.

Corn—1 to 3c off; demand fair. No. 2 mixed delivered Texas common points 91@92c; No. 3 white 87@88c; No. 2 yellow 9@90c.

Oats slightly off with new grain rolling; demand improved. No. 3 white delivered group one 51½@52c; group three 1c more. No. 2 red delivered Texas common points 54@56c.

Sorghums—No sales, market nominal; No. 2 milo per 100 pounds, delivered Texas common points $1.35@1.40; No. 2 kaffir $1.35@1.39.

Sorghum Heads—Unchanged, fair demand. Milo per ton delivered Texas common points $31.50@32.50; kaffir $19.00@20.00.

Cane Seed—Nominally unchanged. Bulk country run red top, per 100 pounds, delivered Texas common points $3.10@3.40.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, May 31. (AP)—Tomahawking of grain values took a fresh start today; and wheat, corn, oats and rye all suffered worse low-price records. New selling tension which brought about this result had its origin in Winnipeg, where quotations on wheat were cut right and left yesterday while United States grain exchanges were closed for Memorial day. A reason given for Canadian price slashing was that the German wheat tariff is likely to be raised after jumps the last few days in the French duty and in the Italian import rate as well.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were unsettled, 2⅜

FLOYD COTTON BEING PLANTED

Full Acreage Depends Upon Weather Gods

Special to The Record News

FLOYDADA, Texas, May 31.—If weather conditions permit the total acreage to be planted in cotton in Floyd county will be planted this week, according to the opinion of several farmers and gin men of Floydada and south Floyd county. Ideal conditions offered by the recents warm weather following the heavy rains that fell this month started the planting in earnest and the growers are optimistic over the prospects for an unusually good crop.

Opinion varies as to the total acreage in the county. A conservative estimate is approximately 90,000 acres. In the south portion of the county it is believed that the increase in acreage will not amount to much and in some instances decreases have been made. While in the north part of the county there has been several reports of increased acreage.

G. T. Assiter, who has a large acreage in cotton in the south portion of the county and who is interested in the gin at McCoy, states that dry weather is the greatest need at the present time. "The cotton will be some later than usual due to late planting, but I have never seen a poor crop in Floyd county when we had received a good underground season as we have this year," Mr. Assiter stated.

Martin Expresses Appreciation For Scores Who Searched for Boy's Body

A statement, expressing his appreciation for the scores who joined in the search for the body of George Rockhill, and for the sympathy of the searchers and many other Wichitans, was issued Friday by N. H. Martin.

Young Rockhill, well known here, was drowned Monday afternoon when a heavy wave at Lake Wichita knocked him from a boat into the waters. Rockhill was a nephew of Mr. Martin.

The statement follows:

"To the many friends who spent hours of tireless effort through sunshine and rain, through the chill of night and the heat of day, waiting and watching and working in order to recover the body of our dear nephew, George Rockhill—I would express the deepest gratitude of my heart. Having to leave so soon after finding the body made it impossible for me to thank each one in person whose sympathy and service during this trying ordeal made my lot easier to bear. I shall always feel under a keen sense of obligation to each one who was so kind and helpful in a time of great sorrow and deep need.

"Gratefully yours,

COUNTY FILES SUIT ANSWER

W. R. Andersons Claim For $31,200 Denied

A formal answer, denying all the claims of W. R. Anderson in a suit for $31,200, filed against the county several weeks ago, was filed Friday afternoon in the office of Miss Eunice Jackson, district clerk. Mr. Anderson claims the money according to the terms of an alleged contract for delinquent tax commissions.

An amended answer for the county, further outlining its defense, will be filed a few days before the case goes to trial, Ralph Mathis, special counsel for the county, announced Friday. The case will be set Tuesday of next week when the appearance docket for the 78th district court is called, he explained.

The plaintiff claims the money on the basis of an alleged contract whereby he asserts that the county was to pay him a commission on all delinquent taxes collected, beginning in October, 1923. He claims that had the terms of the contract been carried out he would have earned $31,200 before its expiration.

County officials have explained that the agreement was allowed to lapse upon the basis of a ruling from the office of the attorney general, holding the arrangement unconstitutional.

City Stores Equipment Used in Lake Search

As a precautionary measure in the event of future drownings in Lake Wichita, Police Chief Frank Burns and Fire Chief J. L. McClure have collected the many types of grapnel used in the search for the body of George Rockhill, and have constructed a storehouse under the lake pavilion for the equipment.

Chief Burns has asked the co-operation of all clubs and civic organizations for the addition of new equipment, especially toward the purchasing of a diver's uniform, the absence of which delayed the recent search in the waters.

The purpose of such an emergency room is to prevent the loss of time in starting other searches, Chief Burns said.

COUNTY BOARD MEETS TODAY

Trustees to Pass on Final State Aid Pleas

Applications for tuition refunds from the state, sent in by 11 Wichita county schools, will be acted upon in the final meeting of the county board of education to be held Saturday morning in the office of Burl Bryant, county superintendent. The schools are asking for an aggregate amount of around $2,000 as refunds from the state for tiutions paid by the districts for students whose work was not given within the resident district. The county board must sanction the applications before they are sent on to the state board of education, Mr. Bryant said.

Unless more rains make the roads impassable, Mr. Bryant expects to leave late Saturday for Lubbock, where he will be a member of the summer faculty of the Texas Technological college during the first six weeks' term. Mr. Bryant will conduct three courses, two on education, and the third on the administration of rural schools. During his absence Mrs. W. D. Hines will be in charge of his office in the basement of the countyhouse.
