Q—What political party is new Commissioner Jerry Morgan affiliated with and when does he plan to resign from Snyder Police Department?

A—Commissioner Morgan is a Republican and his last day on the local police force is July 26.

In Brief

Policeman shot

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An off-duty police officer was wounded by gunfire early today at a northwest San Antonio apartment complex where he worked as a security guard, authorities said.

Guillermo Cantu was taken to Medical Center Hospital, where he was reported in stable condition with gunshot wounds to his chest and neck, officials said.

Texas Rangers

WESLACO, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers have been called to help investigate the rape of a 25-year-old woman, who says the act was committed by a Donna policeman.

The officer accused of the rape is a sergeant, and has been suspended pending completion of the investigation.

Weslaco Police Chief John Pape said the Texas Rangers were asked to join in the investigation because officials were not sure who has jurisdiction in the case.

The woman, described as being in a state of shock, was found Wednesday lying on a sidewalk with torn and dirty clothing, bruises and abrasions, and no identification. She said she had been beaten and raped, following what she thought was an arrest conducted by the Donna police sergeant.

Lubbock cowboys set pace at rodeo

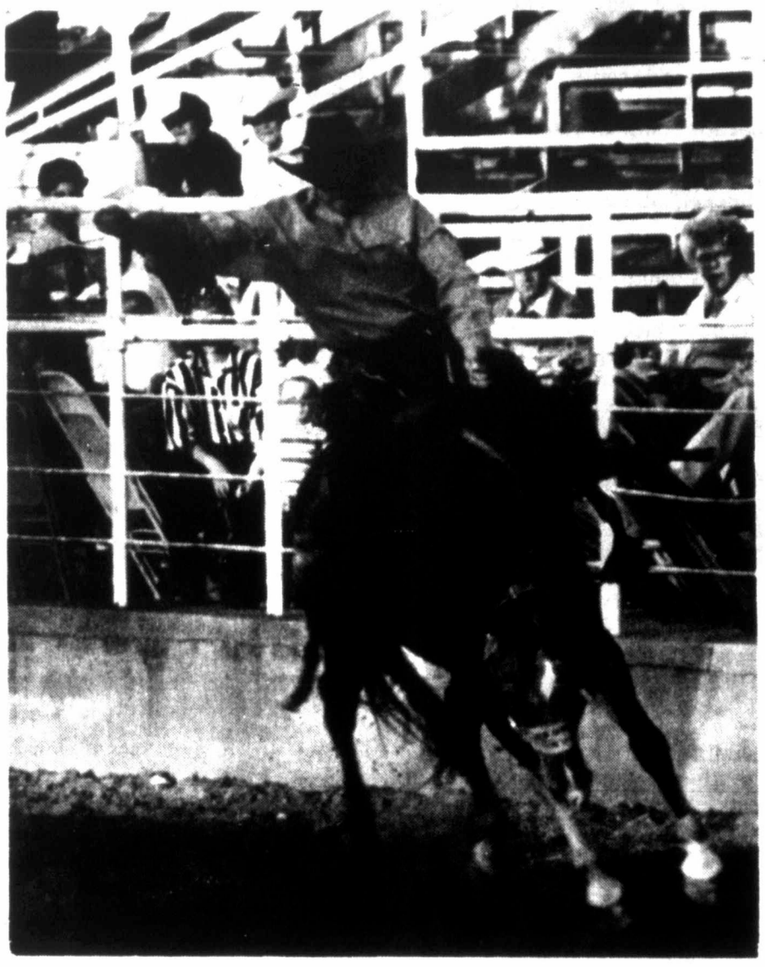

A pair of Lubbock cowboys were the only bull riders to beat the buzzer in Thursday's opening show of the 56th annual Scurry County Rodeo.

Kenneth McKee scored a 71 and Keith Adams tallied a 70 to take over first and second in an event dominated by some top stock provided by Smokey Davis and the Rafter D Rodeo Company.

The rodeo continues with 8 p.m. performances today and Saturday. Tickets are $5 at the gate for adults. Children under age 12 get in free. The arena is located west of Snyder on Gary Brewer Rd.

The rodeo was preceded by a parade through the city square, sponsored by the Scurry County Rodeo Association. Employees of Kmart received $150 for the first-place float, World Peace. Second place and $100 went to Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church with its float featuring folkloric dancers. The VFW and American

Republican plan would chop state employees by 10%

AUSTIN (AP) — A plan by Republican lawmakers to cut the budget further would fall mostly on state employees.

"It's our contention that we can do a budget without raising new taxes," Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland, chairman of the House GOP Caucus, said Thursday.

Lawmakers face a projected $4.8 billion revenue shortfall to continue the current level of services.

The Republicans unveiled a plan to slash an additional $2.3 billion from the 1992-92 budget, in addition to proposed reductions contained in State Comptroller John Sharp's audit of state government.

Under the plan, the state work force would be chopped by 10 percent. In addition, employees would have to pay their share of Social Security, take one day off per month without pay and lose five holidays.

Craddick said the changes could be made "without real pain and suffering."

In other budget developments, a proposal to transfer the functions of the controversial Texas Alcoholic Beverage Commission to other agencies appeared to be dying.

The TABC fight was one of several battles raging over Sharp's plan, which has become the centerpiece of legislative efforts during the special session.

"I think a lot of members are beginning to ask questions as they go through the (Sharp) report ... they're beginning to see some problems with what's been recommended," said Rep. Tom Uher, D-Bay City.

But Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock and House Speaker Gib Lewis downplayed such comments, saying that Sharp's recommendations were going through typical battles that accompany major legislation.

"The Sharp report is not the 11th commandment," Bullock said. "It is a blueprint. There will be deviations from it from time to time."

"Sure there are going to be a few changes made, but that is what the process is all about," said Lewis, D-Fort Worth.

On the TABC proposal, Bullock and Lewis acknowledged the measure was undergoing major changes.

The agency has been criticized for being too close to the alcoholic beverage industry, and Sharp had recommended its tax and licensing functions be placed under his authority, while enforcement be transferred to the

Sharp increase in tax rebates

Sales tax rebates received by both the city and the county for July were up over 27 percent, according to the state comptroller's office.

The positive report indicates that rebates for the year are also up substantially.

The City of Snyder received $72,178.18 in July, an amount up 27.31 percent from the $56,695.50 received the previous July. Year-to-date totals show rebates to the city up 17.02 percent, or from $516,137.62 this year to $441,049.81 in fiscal 1990.

Scurry County received $45,817.95 in July, up 29.67 percent over the $35,334.29 taken during the same month a year ago. The county has received $332,302.06 during the fiscal year, up 18.10 percent from $281,380.31 a year ago.

Sales tax rebates from area communities included:

—Abilene received $1,187,204.29 for the month, a 17.43 percent increase from the $1,011,022.30 of a year ago. The year-to-date total of $9,408,586.00 is up 30.65 percent.

—Andrews received $47,143.06 for the month, a 6.84 percent increase from the $44,126.77 of a year ago. The year-to-date total of $412,222.47 is up 8.35 percent.

—Big Spring received $216,860.31 for the month, a 172.57 percent increase from the $79,560.43 of a year ago. The year-to-date total of $1,719,237.92 is up 113.52 percent.

—Colorado City received $24,941.02 for the month, an 0.04 percent increase from the $24,931.53 of a year ago. The year-to-date total of $198,957.33 is down 1.78 percent.

Coach, AD sought by college trustees

Western Texas College trustees voted today to begin advertising immediately for someone to handle the duties of men's golf coach, athletic director, pro shop manager and physical education instructor to replace Dave Foster.

Foster announced his resignation Monday to accept the position of golf coach at the University of North Texas in Denton. He had been golf coach at WTC since 1981 and athletic director since 1982.

College President Dr. Harry Krenek said the college will take applications through 5 p.m. Thursday, July 25. A committee, appointed by Bob Hargrove, board of trustees president, will meet at 9 a.m. on Friday, July 26, to review the applications.

Committee members are Hargrove, Trustee Howard Sterling, Krenek, and WTC Men's Golf Association President Billy Roach. Another golf association representative will also be named to the committee.

The committee is to make a recommendation to the board in a called meeting scheduled for 5:45 p.m. on Monday, July 29.

"Obviously the board wants to move quickly," said Krenek. "We'd like to have someone assume responsibilities as soon as possible."

Foster has contacted recruits and second-year golf team

School finance law may face federal court fight

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas officials, already embroiled in a state court challenge to the new school finance law, may face a federal court battle as well.

U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders, who oversees Dallas Independent School District's long-running desegregation case, on Thursday granted the district's motion to file a complaint against the state in the case.

The district says a projected loss of at least $47 million in state aid under Texas' school finance law would impede its desegregation efforts.

The state has not previously been involved in the desegregation case, said Robert Thomas, a lawyer representing the school district.

The estimated loss in state aid is virtually all of the school district's state funding, said Robert Johnston, secretary to the DISD school board and administrative assistant to the superintendent.

The district's total budget is $646.9 million this year, said Rodney Davis, director of information services.

"If left unchecked, Senate Bill 351 (the new law) may have the undesired effect of forcing the DISD back into a segregated system," said a court brief filed by the school district.

The SDN Column — By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Wisdom is knowing when to speak your mind and when to mind your speech."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors:

John Brooks, managing editor of the Hereford Brand, was disappointed when the state legislature failed to pass the law that would have made coupon books available for speeders on four-lane highways.

The idea was to give a coupon, worth $5, when stopped for exceeding the speed limit. John thought the coupon idea would also work in other areas:

Kids who don't do their homework, burned supper, being late for supper when guests have been invited, forgetting a birthday or anniversary, forgetting to pick up inlaws at the airport, teen late after a date, being on the telephone too long, late for work, not visiting parents often enough, simple assualt on someone who really deserves it, clicking the remote control too often.

John suggested that things be spiced up with double coupon days at least every Wednesday.

Gene Dow, in the Seminole Sentinel, says people often long for the "good ole days."

He quoted a high-powered national marketing executive who said: "You know what I want to hear? I want to hear a screen door bang again. That memory means so much safety and security to me. I haven't heard a screen door since the 1950s."

Larry Crabtree, in the Vernon Record, saw the following sign on an executive's desk:

"The world is not interested in the storms you encounter, but did you bring in the ship?"

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been diagnosed with celiac disease and have begun a gluten-free diet. Do you have any information on the disease that will help me?

DEAR READER: Celiac disease is an inherited sensitivity to gluten, a cereal protein found in wheat, rye, barley and oats.

Many patients exhibit no symptoms, other than occasional bloating and diarrhea. However, in some people, it causes chronic diarrhea, pale and malodorous stools, anemia, weight loss, rash, abdominal discomfort and malabsorption of dietary nutrients.

The diagnosis is suspected by the symptoms (and X-ray tests of the intestine), and confirmed by a biopsy of the jejunum (part of the small intestine).

Treatment consists of assiduous avoidance of gluten in any form. This may be difficult because the protein is widely used in processed foods, such as soups, sauces and hot dogs. Supplemental vitamins are necessary to prevent deficiencies. In the rare instance where a gluten-free diet fails to alleviate symptoms, a course of cortisone (by pill) may be necessary.

You can obtain further information from your physician or write to the Celiac-Sprue Association at P.O. Box 3554, Des Moines, IA 50322.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My daughter has cervical dysplasia. Please explain what it is and the recommended treatment.

DEAR READER: Dysplasia means cells that are abnormal in size, shape and appearance. Apparently, your daughter had a Pap test that showed dysplasia of the cells of the cervix, the opening of the uterus.

Such cells could indicate chronic irritation or infection — or, in some cases, cervical dysplasia may be a forerunner of cancer. Therefore, when faced with this problem, most gynecologists recommend further testing, such as a cone biopsy. During this office procedure, part of the cervix is cut away and examined under a microscope in an attempt to identify deep-seated cancer cells that could be associated with dysplasia.

Fortunately for most women, the presence of dysplasia does not indicate a serious underlying disorder; nonetheless, the association does exist and must be investigated.

Once a cancerous growth has been excluded by biopsy, gynecologists usually urge treatment of the dysplasia (antimicrobials for infection, safe sex for women with multiple sexual partners, and so forth). Frequent follow-up, with Pap tests, is mandatory.

Biodegradeable ticker tape parade set

DALLAS (AP) — There will be little difference in the size of Saturday's welcome home party for Desert Storm troops, and the ticker tape parade thrown for General Douglas MacArthur after World War II.

This weekend's parade, however, aims to be environmentally safe.

Professionals will blow the makeshift ticker tape, which will be made with biodegradable paper, from rooftops of downtown buildings along the 2-mile parade route.

"And we're sealing off all the parade sewer ducts, to make sure none of the paper gets into the Trinity River," said Lynette Reisheit, director of fundraising for the $1.1 million Southwest Stars & Stripes Salute.

More than 100,000 spectators are expected to show up at the event, which will feature more than 4,000 troops from Arkansas, Colorado, Kansas, Louisiana, Missouri, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Texas.

Among the marchers Saturday will be 21 bands from across the nation, representatives from Persian Gulf War allied countries, and military hardware used during the war.

The festivities continue through the day with demonstrations by the Navy SEALs, a picnic, a USO show and fireworks. On Sunday there will be a memorial service and a diplomatic reception.

While the focus of Saturday's parade will pay tribute to the Persian Gulf War soldiers, veterans from other wars have been asked to attend.

"We're not only recognizing what the boys did in the Persian Gulf, but the contribution from other veterans," Ms. Reisheit said Thursday. "The response has been just incredible."

However, parade officials are scrambling to come up with $300,000 still needed to pay for the $1.1 million party.

"It's going very well," said Hugh Robinson, chairman of the Dallas-Fort Worth Welcome Committee. 'We have not caught up entirely. We were really behind several weeks ago. But we've caught up to the point we're at least in the position to move on with our program."

Additional fundraising after the event is expected, Robinson said.

By midweek, about $700,000 had been raised, Robinson said. By Thursday afternoon another $100,000 had been raised, he said.

To cut costs, parade organizers have asked the city to pay for the clean up, police security and crowd control. The city is also lending $40,000 to the event, parade officials say.

"Everything is great, we're adding to it," said Sharon Holman, an event spokeswoman.

Most of the budget is being used to house and transport about 4,200 troops.

"We had no idea this many people would respond and this many people from Desert Storm would want to participate," said John Weekley, a parade organizer.

Highway bill oks extension of I-49

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the House transportation committee have endorsed extending Interstate 49 through Texarkana as part of a plan that Rep. Jim Chapman believes could turn the northeastern corner of Texas into a "critical crossroads."

Extending I-49 from Shreveport, La., to Kansas City was included in a five-year, $153.5 billion highway bill introduced Thursday by Robert A. Roe, D-N.J., chairman of the Public Works and Transportation Committee, and the ranking Republican, Rep. John Paul Hammerschmidt of Arkansas.

Chapman said the entire 517-mile extension is at the top of the list of 16 new highway corridors proposed for construction in the bill. And although only 17 miles of the I-49 extension would pass through Texas, Chapman had sought it for years because the highway would link the region to Canada and deep-water ports on the Gulf of Mexico.

"This goes beyond good news, this is a revelation." Chapman said. "We have been lobbying furiously for the inclusion of provisions that would authorize the extension of I-49 from Shreveport to Kansas City through Texarkana. I have been working on this for five years."

Chapman said a 1987 study found that when completed, the highway would serve 40 million people in eight states. It would become the only north-south artery between the Mississippi River and the Rocky Mountains that runs the length of the country, connecting Canada to Gulf of Mexico ports in Houston and New Orleans.

With a North American free trade agreement being negotiated that would link Mexico, the United States and Canada, Chapman said I-49 would become vital for moving goods between the three countries.

"And Texarkana will become literally the crossroads for all of that commerce," Chapman said. "And from Texarkana, you can go to Dallas, Shreveport, Little Rock and Memphis, Kansas City, Houston and Mexico."

Conoco Inc. donates wildlife refuge

MORGAN'S POINT, Texas (AP) — An island in the Houston Ship Channel purchased for a deep-water petroleum dock has become Texas' newest wildlife refuge.

Conoco Inc. officially donated Atkinson Island, a 150-acre island at the north end of Galveston Bay, to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Thursday.

Wildlife enthusiasts hope the acquisition marks a renewed interest in public and private cooperatives needed to compensate for shrinking state dollars.

"Atkinson Island is a quiet place where birds and other wildlife flourish now and now will be able to do so in the future," Dave Branch, Conoco vice president and general manager for natural gas and gas products, said. "Atkinson Island is not a beginning or an end to our commitment. We recognize much more needs to be done."

The island, once the site of a raid by Mexican General Santa Anna, is considered a wildlife oasis in the heavily industrialized ship channel, which is bordered almost completely by petrochemical plants.

The island of marshy lowlands and scattered brush serves as a resting place and fresh water haven for migratory birds. It also is a nesting area for wading birds like herons and egrets.

"The main function immediately is protection," Andrew Sansom, executive director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department said. "Our primary purpose will be to protect the resources there. As we learn more about it, we'll be developing appropriate ways for people to enjoy it."

Santa Anna attacked the island in 1836, hoping to capture the top officials of the new Republic of Texas. But the Texas leaders had fled and Santa Anna headed for nearby San Jacinto, where his forces were routed in the famous battle led by Sam Houston.

Conoco, a subsidiary of DuPont, bought the island in 1974 as a proposed site for a deep-water terminal for unloading liquid petroleum gas tankers. When the project fell through, the land remained undeveloped.

Joyce Kelly, executive director of the Silver Springs, Md.-based Wildlife Habitat Enhancement Council, said she was pleased to see the donation as a corporate action rather than mere rhetoric.

"It's an example of private industry helping deal with the issue of loss of dwindling wildlife habitat," she said. "Industry has enormous power and responsibility to solve environmental problems and affect change. That power carries with it a challenge of proving that economic growth can occur simultaneously with environmental protection."

Sansom said he feared that $46 million in budget cuts imposed on his department because of state money problems could mean fewer such refuges for the state in the future.

"We're looking aggressively as we can for these kinds of deals with industry," he said. "I'm tense. I've never confronted a $46 million hit.

"I understand people are talking about education and prisons and health care and I don't say that parks should rank above those things. But clearly people are telling us they rank among them."

The survival of some of the Sonoran Desert's most important plants depends largely on lesser long-nosed bats, which eat cactus nectar and fruits and then transfer pollen and disperse seeds, according to National Geographic.

Keeping matters under control

By Phillip Alder

When you have a trump-suit, you enjoy control over the side-suits. Even if you hold losers in a side-suit, as long as the hand opposite is void, you can win a trick in the suit by ruffing. However, if the hand with the void has no trumps left, you could be in trouble.

Given that introduction, how would you, South, play in six spades on today's hand, West leading the heart king? (The deal is from Bill Root's "How to Play a Bridge Hand.")

Over the weak two-spade opening, North used the grand-slam force. This asked the opener to bid seven spades with two of the top three trump honors. Holding only one top honor, South signed off in six.

You have three red-suit losers in hand, but three discards are available on dummy's club winners once trumps have been drawn. The right play is to lead dummy's spade 10 at trick two and let it ride.

If West produces the queen, you still have the spade king in dummy to ruff a heart return. Then you will cross to hand with a club to the 10, draw trumps, and run the clubs.

Here, though, the spade 10 wins. Next cash the spade king. If both opponents follow, lead a club to the 10, draw the last trump, and claim an overtrick. But if West discards, start running the clubs. As long as East has at least two, you are safe. If East ruffs a club winner, you overruff, draw East's last spade and return to dummy with a diamond to the ace. You will lose one red-suit trick. If East never ruffs, you discard your losers and eventually concede a trump trick.

Former thrift officer is indicted

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — A federal indictment accuses a former El Paso savings and loan officer of pocketing money he said he borrowed on behalf of a local Optimist club.

Phillip A. Baker is accused of taking a total of $44,000 on six occasions between November 1988 and July 1990 from El Paso Federal Savings and Loan Association. The money was supposed to benefit the Transmountain Optimist Club.

But Baker knew the money loaned was for his personal use and also that signatures of club officers were forgeries, the indictment issued Wednesday says.

"We don't know what happened to the money," Jim Francis, current club vice president, said.

Francis said Baker was president of the 103-member club.

Baker surrendered Thursday morning to federal agents, said FBI spokesman Terry Kincaid. He is accused of bank fraud and embezzlement, a felony punishable by up to 48 years in prison and a $2 million fine.

Kincaid said the indictment is part of an extensive investigation of El Paso Federal and more indictments are likely.

Federal regulators seized the troubled thrift last September.

Foreman will host

HOUSTON (AP) — Heavyweight boxer George Foreman will be host of an entertainment special for HBO later this year.

The cable channel wants the show to be a comedy vehicle for the former champ, but Foreman said in a recent interview that he has other ideas.

"If they're going to give me one fraction of an inch to get up there before an audience and with a microphone, then I want to sing," he said.

To make his point, he belted out a few bars of "New York, New York."

Empty county accounts leaves no funds for psychiatrist in desert deaths case

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — El Paso County is looking through its coffers for money to pay for a psychiatrist to examine a man accused in the deaths of six women and girls.

The money would have come from an account that pays costs of court-appointed attorneys for indigent defendants. But the account is empty.

Donald T. Lunde, a California psychiatrist and professor, is asking for $25,000 to examine David Leonard Wood, give expert testimony at Wood's Sept. 5 trial and perform other services.

Wood faces a serial murder charge in connection with the slayings of six women and girls between 1987 and 1988. Their bodies were found buried in shallow graves in a stretch of northeast El Paso desert. Wood denies the charges.

County Judge Alicia Chacon said county commissioners are expected to approve a budget amendment next week that would allow them to dip into the County Attorney's Office budget to pay Lunde.

"We all recognize the importance of that case," said Ms. Chacon. "We don't want in any way to jeopardize that case."

A judge has allowed Wood's attorneys, Norbert Garney and Dolph Quijano Jr., to spend $30,000 in county money to hire Lunde. So far, Wood's defense has cost the county $32,647 in legal and other court-related fees, County Auditor Steve Seely said.

Meanwhile, court-appointed attorneys want to know when they'll get paid.

Quijano already is owed money by the county. He told the El Paso Herald-Post he is owed between $4,000 and $5,000 in legal fees.

"I look at it as a forced savings account," Quijano said and laughed.

Attorney Tom Hughes isn't so understanding.

Hughes, who often defends indigent criminals, said he is owed between $12,000 and $13,000 for legal services since April.

"I tried two murder cases, and now the county won't pay me," he said. "I don't think that's fair."

As of July 8, the county owed $161,653 to court-appointed lawyers and experts, Seely said. At the beginning of the fiscal year last October, the account for paying court-appointed attorneys was allocated $1.2 million. Seely said bills for court-appointed attorneys have been greater than the amount allocated.

Hughes said he is considering organizing other lawyers and going to Commissioners Court to get some answers concerning delinquent legal payments.

Fed officials probe fetus deformities

SAN BENITO, Texas (AP) — Cameron County is experiencing an abnormally large number of babies born without complete brains, and federal and state health officials are investigating if the cases are linked.

At least nine cases of anencephaly have been reported in 1991 out of approximately 4,300 babies born in Cameron County. That is about five times the normal rate, health officials say.

The condition means a fetus fails to develop part of its skull and brain. Most are stillborn. The rest die within hours of birth.

The federal Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta has dispatched an investigator to this Texas-Mexico border area to look into the mysterious increase of the birth defect.

"This may be a random statistical occurrence, so we don't want to alarm the community," said Dr. Gregg Sylvester, an epidemic intelligence officer with the CDC. "It would be horrible to think that someone would not get pregnant, or not have their baby in Cameron County, because of this."

Valley Regional Medical Center in Brownsville reported six anencephalic babies in six weeks, and Valley Baptist Medical Center in Harlingen has reported three in 1991, Sylvester said.

Dr. Margaret Diaz, the Brownsville physician who first reported the outbreak to the Texas Department of Health, said she believes similar births occurred at Brownsville Medical Center, the county's only other large hospital.

Brownsville Medical Center spokeswoman Jamie Amaya on Thursday said there has been one anencephalic birth in the last five years.

"It hasn't been prevalent at BMC," she said.

A 1989 Texas Department of Health study indicated anencephaly occurs in approximately four births out of 10,000 in Texas, with slightly higher rates in the southern and eastern regions of the state and among female and Hispanic babies.

"It had been suggested that paternal exposure to pesticides and solvents might be a factor," said Dr. Jean Brender, director of the Environmental Epidemiology Program for the state health department. "Pesticides have never panned out in other studies, and we didn't find any association."

But, she added, "We found that fathers employed in occupations associated with solvent exposure were more likely to have offspring with anencephalia."

The study also found that mothers who previously had stillbirths or who had three or more children also faced higher risk.

Sylvester, who arrived July 10, began interviewing mothers of the anencephalic babies this week. So far he has interviewed two mothers, but neither produced a lead. The probe likely will last into next week, he said.

One problem confronting investigators is a significant percentage of the approximately 10,000 babies born each year in Cameron County have Mexican parents who may have been exposed to different risks, Sylvester said.

"We haven't come up with anything yet — and the sad thing is, we may not. Birth defects are caused by many things," Sylvester said. "This may be just a random thing that happened in 1991, and in the long term, it may not mean anything ... On the other hand, I don't want to trivialize it. I'm a pediatrician. I feel for these women who had these babies."

Jugglers share secrets of keeping balls in the air

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Mantras and the lotus position are fine, but if you really want to relax and forget your troubles, try juggling.

That advice was heard more than once here as 1,000 of the nation's best jugglers gathered Thursday for a weeklong convention at which they'll discuss the fine points of keeping balls, bowling pins and flaming torches in the air.

"I highly recommend it," said Brian Rohlfing of St. Louis. "If I'm stressed-out or worried or whatever, I grab a couple of rings and it focuses my energy and my breathing gets better."

Michael Bruneau, a professional from Houston, said juggling definitely can be spiritual.

"At one point I was considering writing a book about Zen and the art of juggling, it's that sort of experience," he said.

At least one juggler disagrees.

"It's not relaxing for me," said 18-year-old Anthony Gatto of Las Vegas, who juggles 10 balls or eight clubs at a time in his casino show there. "When you get that many things going, it's not meditation. It's frustration."

Gatto took a break from the show to attend the International Jugglers Association's convention at Washington University.

The group began 47 years ago as a spinoff of the International Brotherhood of Magicians. It has 3,000 members in 21 countries. Association officials say about 1 million Americans do some juggling.

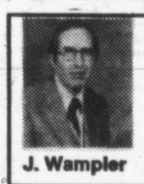

The convention's workshop topics include safety with torches, math and juggling, and five balls the easy way.

A representative from the Guinness Book of World Records is on hand to witness record attempts at esoteric events such as the 100-meter joggle (running while juggling).

Distance jogglers can compete in the mile, 5-kilometer and mile relay Saturday. Obstacle course joggling is also scheduled.

The association's members include a team of jogglers who have run a mile relay in under four minutes and a joggler who ran a mile in 4:43 while keeping three balls going. Gatto can run the 100-meter dash in 13 seconds while juggling.

Those in the know call juggling "object manipulation" and there's almost no limit to the number of objects enterprising jugglers can manipulate.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Jays unimpressed with Ryan's cash

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — No one was surprised and everyone seemed happy to learn that Nolan Ryan will be with the Texas Rangers for the rest of his active baseball career and beyond.

Not even Nolan Ryan and his newly acquired millions could slow down the Toronto Blue Jays.

Ry n no-hit the Blue Jays at Texas on May 1. But on Thursday night, Toronto left no doubt who the hot team is. Ryan's contract celebration was spoiled when Joe Carter and Greg Myers hit home runs as the Blue Jays beat the Rangers 4-0 at Arlington Stadium.

Ryan agreed to terms on contract options for 1992 and '93 totaling $8.1 million before the game but the Blue Jays were in no mood to let him enjoy it. He pitched seven innings, allowing five hits, walked four and struck out five.

"The contract deal wasn't a distraction, I just made bad pitches," Ryan said.

David Wells (11-4) bested Ryan (5-5) in the 97-degree heat, needing relief help from Duane Ward after giving up three hits in 6 2-3 innings. Ward finished the combined four-hitter for his 16th save.

"From a playing standpoint, I don't know of a better time to be a Ranger with the quality of ball club that we have and the pennant race that's going on and what's happening with the attendance," Ryan said Thursday after he and the team agreed to two option years and a 10-year personal services contract that would begin with his retirement from the game. "It's really exciting to come to be ballpark to see the enthusiasm and the appreciation of the fans."

The contract calls for baseball's all-time strikeout leader to be paid $4.2 million in 1992 and $3.9 million in 1993. The Rangers will have until eight days after each season to exercise the options.

Ryan is being paid $3.3 million this season, his 25th in the major leagues, and would rank sixth on the payroll list next year.

The 10-year personal services contract calls for Ryan to be paid a total of $2.1 million.

Seve shoots 66 despite winds

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — The bashing at the British Open came not from fans against Americans, but from players against Royal Birkdale.

Rather than jeer Yanks to get back for the shabby treatment of Ian Woosnam at the Masters, British spectators cheered them as they joined the assault on par.

The seaside course did its best to blow balls into the grassy dunes or catch them in the dozens of deep, sandy craters. Yet it suffered the insult of 17 players breaking its slimmed-down par-70 in the first round Thursday — and the further indignity of a naked lady who streaked across a fairway.

Seve Ballesteros led the brigade with a 66 crafted out of booming tee shots and brilliant putts. Watching the Spaniard, but not matching him, was partner Johnny Miller, who beat Ballesteros and Jack Nicklaus by six strokes to win here in 1976.

This wasn't so much a stroll down memory lane as a walk along fairways that revealed how much time had passed. Miller looked too old for the game, Ballesteros mature enough to win again.

"In 1976, he was a boy who hit everything straight," Miller said, recalling how the young Ballesteros charged boldly at the pins instead of trying to finesse his shots. "Today, he was a man who went out and conquered the course."

Three of the par-breakers own a total of 10 British Open titles among them — Ballesteros with three, Nick Faldo (68) with two and Tom Watson (69) with five.

Reception slated for Dave Foster

WTC Men's Golf Association held match play Tuesday afternoon at the WTC golf course.

Next Tuesday's two-man scramble starting at 6 p.m. will be preceded by a reception for Dave Foster in the pro shop, starting at 4:30 p.m.

Foster, WTC golf coach and pro shop manager, has announced his resignation to become head golf coach at the University of North Texas in Denton.

Tonight in Merkel...

Snyder All-Stars challenge Clyde

MERKEL — Snyder Little League All-Stars, exhibiting powerful offense and alert defense, face Clyde at 7:30 tonight at the Merkel Little League Park.

At stake is the right to stay alive in the 1991 playoff march and the right to face Abilene Dixie next Tuesday at a site to be determined. The teams are expected to flip for home field advantage.

Snyder, 3-1 in playoff competition, carries the lone loss into the double-elimination tournament. Abilene Dixie defeated Albanay, 23-1, Thursday night in Albany.

Coach George Page is expected to start Patrick Cumbie on the hill for Snyder against Clyde, a squad with one loss also.

In playoffs, Cumbie has pitched 7.6 innings and has allowed five hits and 17 strikeouts.

Other starters include catcher Scott Sanders, first sacker Ramsey Castillo, second baseman David Smith, third baseman Jeremiah Johnson and shortstop Patrick Jordan.

In left field will be Chris Ramirez with Toby Delce in center and Tommy Fields in right.

Other Snyder All-Stars are Matthew Fambro, Teddy Murray, Kyle Beck, Luke Green, Jerry Cervantez and Coach Gary Smith.

Snyder began playoff competition last Tuesday in Rotan with an 18-1 rout over the host squad. Snyder spanked Colorado City, 15-0, on Friday and then missed a chance at the championship on Monday when the locals bowed to Colorado City, 4-3.

On Tuesday night, Snyder came from behind for the victory as C-City scored four runs in the second inning. Snyder earned one run that inning — a homer off the bat of Cumbie. It was his fourth in the playoffs.

Snyder held C-City scoreless in the third, and then took the lead when Jordan hit a bases-loaded single to drive in two runs. A double by Castillo scored two more runs and Cumbie later scored on a grounder from Johnson.

Colorado City fought back to tie the game in the fourth after walks loaded the bases. Two runs scored on an error.

The tilt remained deadlocked until the bottom of the fifth when Delce pounded a two-run triple and later scored on a sacrifice shot off the bat of Fields.

Also in four playoff games, Jordan has hurled 12 innings, allowing six hits and fanning 19 batters. Castillo has worked 3.3 innings on the mound, allowing four hits and fanning one.

In the playoffs, Jordan has been at bat 15 times and sports an impressive .667 average. This includes eight singles plus a double and triple. Cumbie has been at the plate the same number and has a .538 record, including two home runs. Smith, Castillo, Sanders and Johnson each have .500 batting records.

As a team, Snyder sports a .359 average. The squad has pounded 32 singles, six doubles, two triples and a pair of homers.

CHARLIE CHRANE

SHS tennis coach resigns

Charlie Chrane, Snyder High School tennis coach for the past 10 years, has resigned to accept a position with the San Angelo Independent School District.

Chrane came to Snyder from Durango, Colo., taking over the local program following the death of long-time tennis coach Bill Boles.

Last fall, Chrane's Tigers won the district championship, and two players advanced to regional in the spring.

Chane is expected to be involved in the San Angelo tennis program as a junior high coach. Snyder school officials Friday confirmed Chrane's resignation, and said a search would begin to find a replacement.

School officials said Chrane's wife, Barbara, who is a sixth grade teacher at North Elementary, also has submitted a letter of resignation.

Germany studies kidnappers' demands

BONN, Germany (AP) — Officials held an emergency meeting today to discuss threats by Shiite Muslim kidnappers demanding the release of two Lebanese terrorists held in German prisons.

A statement released Thursday by the pro-Iranian Islamic Jihad group in Beirut, Lebanon, warned of "grave consequences" for German interests unless Mohammed Ali Hamadi and his brother, Abbas, were freed.

The group also issued a photograph of American hostage Terry Anderson, raising questions about his safety. Anderson, 43, the longest-held among the 13 Westerners believed held in Lebanon, was kidnapped more than six years ago.

There were no immediate details of the meeting of representatives from the Foreign, Interior and Justice ministries in Bonn. On Thursday, German officials said they would not be pressured to release the Hamadis and rejected claims the two Shiites were mistreated in prison.

Police in Saarland state, where Abbas Hamadi is imprisoned, said they had stepped up security because of the threats, but they also would not elaborate.

The kidnappers' statement came one day after the German Supreme Court upheld the murder conviction of Mohammed Ali Hamadi. He is serving a life sentence for the slaying of U.S. sailor Robert Stethem during the June 1985 hijacking of a TWA airliner.

Willi Fundermann, spokesman for Germany's federal criminal police, said in Bonn today that his government "is taking measures, of course, against those threats," but he would not elaborate.

The statement also came three days after Hamadi's brother Abbas was stabbed in a prison in Saarland state. German police said he suffered minor wounds.

Abbas Hamadi, 31, was convicted in April 1988 and sentenced to 13 years in prison by a Duesseldorf court for kidnapping two Germans in Lebanon in an attempt to gain freedom for his brother. The two Germans were later released.

A German Justice Department spokesman, Matthias Weckerling, dismissed the kidnappers' claims that the Hamadi brothers are being tortured.

Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent of The Associated Press, was seized in Beirut on March 16, 1985.

The black-and-white photograph of Anderson showed him from the chest up, wearing what appeared to be a roll-neck sweater over a T-shirt. He had a beard and was looking up and slightly away from the camera. He was not wearing eyeglasses.

It was the first picture released of Anderson and the first Islamic Jihad statement since November 1988.

Anderson's sister, Peggy Say of Cadiz, Ky., said she believed Thursday's photograph was from four to six months old because Anderson was shown wearing a sweater, which would not be appropriate for summer in Beirut.

She said that in view of reports that Anderson has been ill, "I am not comforted by knowing that is a picture that is at least several months old. ... He looks a lot thinner than in a lot of the other pictures and again, that disturbs me.

Legion and their auxiliaries were third with an OK Corral theme.

Howard County Sheriff's Posse and Dawson County Sheriff's Posse were judged 1-2 among riding clubs entered in the parade.

Monte Jones of Aspermont was Thursday's lone participant in the saddle bronc event. He set a pace of 72, which is sure to be challenged over the next two shows. Rodeo association officials said that the final two performances will feature a complete slate of roughstock riders.

A 10.8-second run set the standard in the calf roping. Arlis Baze of Midland took the early lead, followed by Jed Garrison of Channing with a 12.1 and Turk Sweatt of Lubbock with a 12.9.

Karen Smith of Lubbock set a 3.6-second pace in the breakaway roping. Sharing second place were Lari Dee Guy of Abilene and Kody Newman of Stanton with equal 3.9 clockings.

The judges gave the night's top bareback score, a 70, to Allison cowboy Cole Tindol. Jim Martin of Canadian was just off the pace with a 69.

Smitty Smith of Lubbock and David Mosley of Farwell flashed a 5.601-second run to take the lead in the team roping competition. Clovis, N.M., cowboys Tim McCreight and Ben Pierce are holding down second place with their 6.156.

The top barrel racer for the first show was Rosenburg's Kathy Phillips, who skirted the cloverleaf in 17.426 seconds. Chris Stubbs of Washington, Tex. clocked a 17.760, followed by Mary Carter of Odessa in 17.769.

Colorado City youngster Max Graham won the mutton bustin' competition for kids age 5-7. A team from Snyder Country Club won the merchant's calf dressing event.

Dances are held each evening at 9 o'clock in the pavilion adjacent to the rodeo grounds, with Jody Nix and the Texas Cowboys providing the music.

Lewis said the DPS doesn't want the TABC's enforcement functions, and that the Mothers Against Drunk Driving has a good relationship with the current agency.

"Which tells me something ... that they must be doing a fairly good job," Lewis said.

John Posey, a spokesman for MADD, said the group works well with local TABC agents, but added, "We've had a horrendous relationship with them (the TABC) at the state level."

Police work 3 accidents; one arrested

Snyder police made one arrest and worked three accidents Thursday.

Arrested at 11:48 p.m. in the 2600 block of Ave. R was a 50-year-old female for driving while intoxicated. The subject was booked into the county jail.

At 8:22 a.m., a woman came to the police department to file charges on a male subject for criminal mischief. She complained that the man had broken into her residence at the Coleman Apts. on Wednesday, looking for his wife.

At 8:37 a.m., Barbara Thamez called police in reference to someone stealing tools from her garage at 120 Canyon. Police took a report for Class A theft.

The first of three accidents took place at 5100 College Ave. at 1:40 p.m. Involved were a 1990 Ford pickup driven by Kendrick Graves of Box 128 Ira and a 1990 Dodge driven by Lynn Boyd of Abilene.

The second accident took place at 4:40 p.m. in the Furr's parking lot. Involved were a 1969 Volkswagon driven by Stacy Lynette Bracewell of Houston and a 1984 Toyota pickup driven by Toby Cushing of Carthage.

At 5:10 p.m., officers worked an accident in Anthony's parking lot involving a 1985 Chevrolet pickup driven by Roy Brandon of Lamesa which was towing a 1970 shop-made trailer. The trailer was in collision with a 1986 Oldsmobile driven by Lana Prewitt Hataway of Rt. 2 Snyder.

No wrecker or ambulance was needed at any of the accidents.

members, the president said. "The golf team is established and we believe that most, if not all, of the players will be here for the fall semester," Krenek noted.

He said the college will release any golfers signed by Foster who do not wish to attend WTC.

Foster will continue his duties as pro shop manager through July 31. If his replacement is not named by that time, the college will use existing personnel to handle routine duties, under the direction of Gay Hickman, vice president for business and finance.

Krenek said the college has already received four to five applications.

Present for this morning's called meeting were trustees Hargrove, Sterling, John Fagin, Carl Williams, R.C. Patton and John Gayle. Bill Wilson Jr. was absent.

Helen Kay Deck

1926-1991

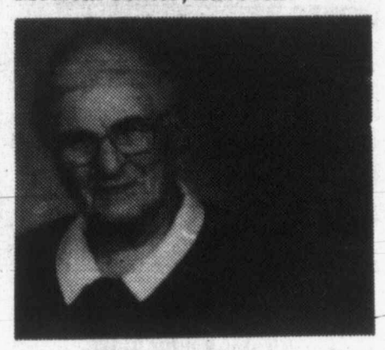

Graveside services are set for 2 p.m. Saturday at Snyder Cemetery for Helen Kay Deck, 65, of Hobbs, N.M., former Snyder resident. The Rev. Rusty Dickerson, pastor of Trinity United Methosdist Church, will officiate.

Mrs. Deck died at 5:20 a.m. Thursday at University Medical Center in Lubbock following a lengthy illness.

Born April 19, 1926, in Snyder, she was a former resident of Olney and Eunice, N.M. Mrs. Deck had been the secretary for Industrial Communications in Hobbs for about 20 years. She was a member of the First United Methodist Church in Olney and the Eunice, N.M., Order of Eastern Star No. 66.

Survivors include one daughter, June Williams of Duncan, Okla.; one son, Gary Deck of Eunice, N.M.; and three granddaughters, Kim and Christa Williams and Amanda Deck.

The family requests contributions be made to the Southwest Cancer Center, at the University Medical Center, Lubbock.

Astro-Graph

By Bernice Bede Osol

Your Birthday

July 19, 1991

It looks like you should be rather lucky both financially and romantically in the year ahead. Heed this warning, however, regarding the management of your resources.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may encounter someone you know only casually today. If the two of you will take time to really talk, you'll discover you have numerous things in common. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for Cancer's Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may derive some type of unique benefit today from an unusual chain of circumstances. You'll have to respond quickly, however, in order to take advantage of it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you've been contemplating getting involved in a social activity with a new group of people, this is a good day to make your move. It could prove both exciting and interesting.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Shop wisely today, especially for items that can be used in your household. If you look around a little, you'll have good probabilities for making some real buys.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) The race goes to the swift today, so it behooves you to be both a self-starter and a go-getter. Take the initiative in arrangements where you're not pleased with the pace others have set.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your possibilities for financial gain are much better at this time than you may realize, but you must be able to recognize and appreciate opportunities as they occur.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try to participate in a fun activity with friends today. The more the merrier, too, because you'll blend comfortably in a group comprised of a variety of personalities.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Accelerated progress is likely today in an endeavor that has been extremely sluggish of late. It looks like you'll finally be able to make up for lost time.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Make an effort today to associate with friends who stimulate your thinking. An active conversational exchange could stir up several useful ideas.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your instincts in matters of a material nature are sharper than usual today. People you'll have dealings with are likely to be impressed by your ingenious tactics.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A constructive idea might pop into your head today regarding something you can do to improve upon a relationship with someone you like. It'll be worth a try.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Substantial progress where your work is concerned can be made today through the use of innovative techniques. Don't be reluctant to take a chance.

3 participate in annual contest

Snyder residents participated in the 17th annual Speech-Theater-Debate Camp held recently in Lawton, Okla.

They include students, Mindy Robertson and Tasha Naegle, and Irene Masters, teacher.

Some 275 high school students from Oklahoma, Texas, Kansas, Montana, North Carolina and Maine participated in the annual event.

This year's competition was divided into eight divisions.

More than 180 people drowned in 1987 when a British ferryboat capsized near Zeebrugge, Belgium.

Student group gets probation

DALLAS (AP) — A student leader placed on probation by university officials for his part in a condom giveaway says the sanction will not deter him from educating others about safe sex practices.

"AIDS is a serious problem. We're not talking about a penicillin shot, we're talking about dead and buried," said Wade Duchene, vice president of the University of North Texas' Student Assembly.

The Student Assembly distributed condoms this week to incoming freshmen during orientation sessions.

Following a meeting between school officials and Student Assembly leaders Thursday, the university placed the student association on probation. Duchene and Student Assembly President Bill Miller were individually placed on probation as well, Duchene said.

"They've treated us like they would a fraternity that goes out and gets in a fight," Duchene said Thursday night.

He said he was unsure what effect the probation would have.

"I don't see much effect on Bill or I personally," he said. "I kind of feel like I got detention."

The probation begins immediately and runs through Aug. 26, according to a statement issued by the school.

Officials also warned that if the student group continues to hand out condoms, it will result in additional disciplinary sanctions that would include being barred from freshman orientation.

"I think they are trying to scare us with that," Duchene said.

HBO film to tell story of drug dealer turned drug informant

NEW YORK (AP) — Barry Seal died in his big white Cadillac on Feb. 18, 1986, with 11 bullets from a submachine gun in his body and a $500,000 price on his head put there by the Medellin cocaine cartel.

Saturday night on HBO, Dennis Hopper stars as the flamboyant federal drug informer in "Doublecrossed," a movie made for the cable channel.

In his death scene, Hopper shows Seal watching his death approach, a half-smile on his lips. It's an heroic moment in this distinctly unsettling drama, but it's not the most ambivalent.

Hopper, fresh from his brilliant work in the title role of "Paris Trout" in April on Showtime, creates a character who's mercurial, quixotic, macho and cocky and crazy enough for a regiment of men.

How else are we to understand a man like Barry Seal?

He was, as one Drug Enforcement Administration spokesman put it, "a crucial witness in the biggest case in DEA history." His undercover work as a DEA operative led to charges against 23 major drug smugglers.

It's not likely, though, that Seal would have undertaken such heroic work had he not been arrested in a 1983 DEA drug sting and sentenced to 10 years in prison. Once turned, he worked zealously against his former masters.

Hopper plays a Seal who has realized that he no longer can be the world's greatest cocaine pilot, so he is determined to be the world's greatest federal informant. That's not the moment of greatest ambivalence, however.

Adler Berriman Seal was an adventurer. A talented pilot, he was hired out of the Army by TWA and became one of its youngest jetliner pilots.

Fired by TWA after his arrest in a gun-running operation with anti-Castro Cubans, Seal had his conviction overturned on appeal and went into business as an airplane dealer, charterer and marijuana smuggler.

A nine-month stretch in a Honduran prison on a weapons charge in 1979 got Seal his connection to the Medellin cartel and the cocaine smuggling business. He later estimated that between 1979 and 1984, he made $50 million on drug runs.

"Doublecrossed" refers to Seal's treatment by the U.S. government after he was trusted by the Colombian drug lords.

The CIA learned that the Sandinista government of Nicaragua was allowing cocaine transshipments from its military bases and got Seal to photograph participating Nicaraguan officials with a secret camera.

The teleplay, by director Roger Young, suggests that then-Lt. Col. Oliver North leaked the story to the Washington Times, blowing Seal's cover. But that, also, is not the moment of peak ambivalence.

Seal continued to work undercover, setting up cases that netted dealers in Las Vegas and officials of the Turks and Caicos Islands.

And when finally he headed back to the federal courts in Florida and Louisiana for his sentence reduction hearings, the CIA was nowhere to be found. Seal got off with six months in Florida, but the Louisiana judge insisted that he serve six months on probation, spending his nights in a Baton Rouge halfway house.

It was a death sentence, and Seal knew it.

Norwegian explorer Roald Amundsen announced in 1912 he had discovered the South Pole on Dec. 14, 1911.

Dear Abby

Disgusted Magazine Fan Is Suffering Ad Nauseam

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am totally disgusted with magazines these days. I've been keeping a running tally and I refuse to renew subscriptions to magazines that are one-half to three-quarters ads!

I read my magazines from cover to cover, except for the ads. (My radio, newspaper and television give me all the advertising I can stomach.) Abby, I remember when magazines contained interesting book-length novels that were serialized month to month — also some wonderful "special offers." Can't you urge the publishers of magazines to bring them back? I realize that ads bring in big bucks, but so do subscription checks! Aren't publishers interested in making their readers happy?

The full-page ads and parts thereof added up to:

May 1991 Ladies' Home Journal, 111 3/4 pages of ads; June 1991 Home, 47 out of 116 (I will renew); June 1991 McCall's, 74 1/2 out of 142; May 1991 Redbook, 92 out of 170; June 1991 Redbook, 52 out of 130; May 1991 1001 Home Ideas, 46 1/2 out of 96; June 1991 Victoria, 34 2/3 out of 126 (I will renew); September 1990 Reader's Digest, 75 out of 237 (I will renew).

Abby, can you add voices to people like me who are calling for a change to these policies?

BEVERLY GARBER,
HARRISONBURG, VA.

DEAR BEVERLY: Now that you've made me "ad" conscious, I counted the number of advertisements in Lear's — 30 out of 100 pages were ads. (I will renew.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who is an intelligent, single woman in her late 20s. She dresses well and is proud of her slim figure. We frequently have dinner and see a movie together. She loves pepperoni pizza, so very often we go to a pizza parlor, where she orders two large pizzas, one after the other! Then she goes to the restroom and — you know the rest. (She forces herself to throw up.)

I know this can lead to serious health problems. Do I have the right to tell her she should stop doing this before it ruins her health?

SORRY FOR HER

DEAR SORRY: Yes. Compare it with the "right" to warn a person who is stalled on the railroad tracks that a train is coming.

Your friend appears to suffer from "bulimia" — a compulsion to overeat.

She should see a doctor who will refer her to a professional who specializes in eating disorders and behavior modification.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Please do a kindness to animals and publish this for all your readers to see:

Always make sure that your discarded glass containers are clean or covered with a lid.

All empty tin or aluminum cans should be crushed because a hungry little animal looking for food could push its head inside the container and be unable to get it out.

What a horrible way to die!

E.J. IN NAPLES, FLA.

Some senators: raises to go to charities

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators who face re-election challenges next year already are trying to distance themselves from a $23,200 pay increase the Senate voted itself.

A day after the raise was approved by a 53-45 vote on a surprise amendment brought to the Senate floor by Democratic and Republican leaders in the dead of night, at least five members whose terms expire in 1993 said they will refuse all or some of the money or give it to charity.

"The majority of senators have stiffed the American people and this time the voters will remember," consumer advocate Ralph Nader predicted Thursday. "People can be pushed around by crooked and greedy politicians only to a certain limit ... and then a simmering revolt erupts."

The measure attached to an appropriations bill would close the gap between the $125,100 annual salaries of the House's 435 members and the $101,900 that senators now get.

In exchange, senators would be banned from pocketing thousands of dollars in speaking fees that more than half of them now accept each year from special interest groups seeking to influence legislation. The House renounced such honoraria in boosting its salaries by $28,500 last January.

However, some frequent performers on the rubber chicken speaking circuit actually could get an honoraria windfall this year.

Those who already have pocketed the $23,068 limit on honoraria this year could make a total of $134,364 in pay and speaking fees in 1991 if the legislation is finished and signed by President Bush before Congress goes on vacation next month.

Of the 33 senators who face reelection in the next two years, 25 opposed the pay increase and only eight supported it. Three of those eight — Republican Leader Bob Dole of Kansas and Sens. Tim Wirth, D-Colo., and John Breaux, D-La., explained their votes.

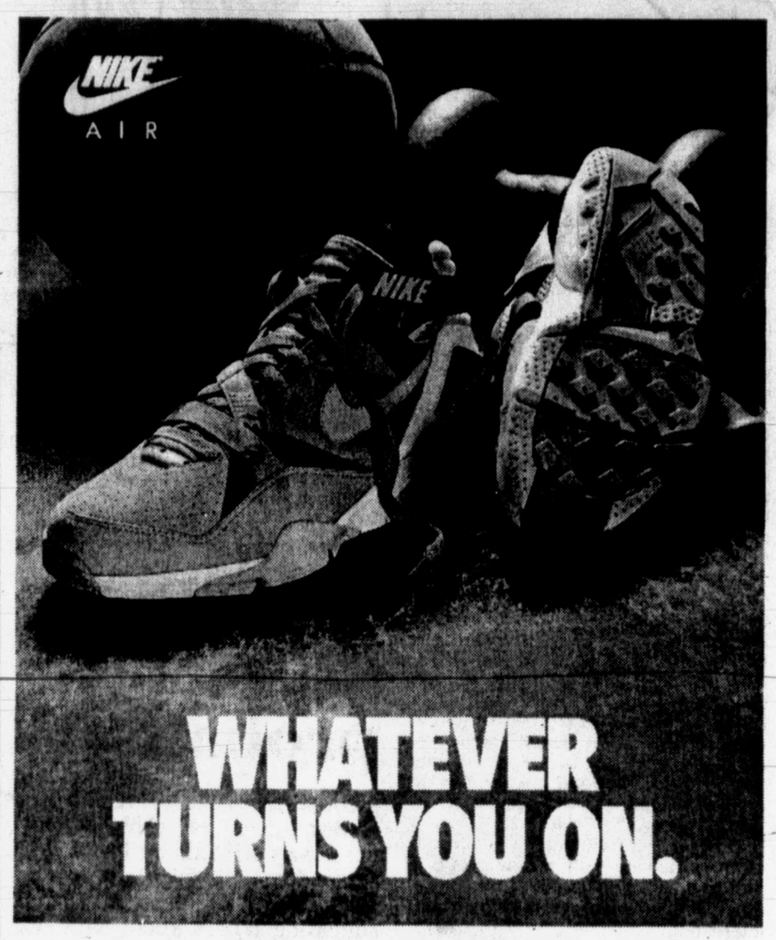

"Maybe we're all overpaid," said Dole. "But we can't cut House salaries and I believe most people in my state will understand ... there ought to be parity."

Breaux complained that many of his colleagues "too often are eager to vote against a pay raise but all too willing to accept the money."

Wirth defended his vote as a way to rid the Senate of honoraria and encourage more non-millionaire candidates with families to seek seats in it. But he said he was going to divert all of the increase to setting up a charity program in Colorado.

Three other senators up for reelection in the next two years but who voted against the increase also said they will give it all to charity to return at least a portion of it to the government.

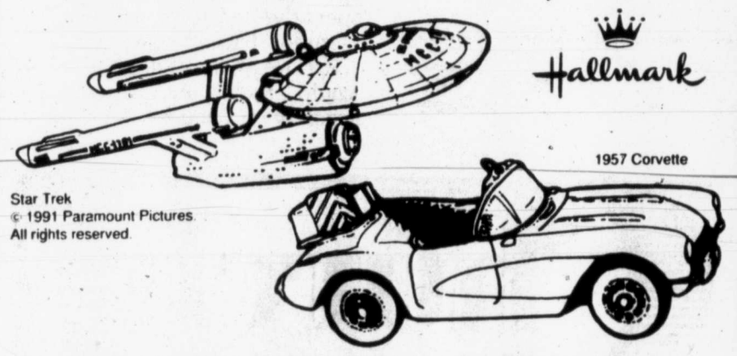

Sen. Harris Wofford, D-Pa., said his first donation would go to a fund to help families of Pennsylvania soldiers killed in the Persian Gulf War

Panel approves buying Calhoun County land

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee has cleared the way for the preservation of valuable wetlands in Calhoun County, where the petrochemicals industry is competing for space with waterfowl and whooping cranes.

The vote Thursday by the Merchant Marine and Fisheries subcommittee on wildlife conservation was merely to rename the 5,000-acre parcel of wetlands, known as Rancho la Bahia, after an 83-year-old woman.

Her husband, Roy Whitmire, was willing to come down $5 million in his asking price for the federal government, on the condition that the land be designated the Myrtle Foester Whitmire division of the Aransas National Wildlife Refuge, said Rep. Greg Laughlin, D-West Columbia.

But the Fish and Wildlife Service has a policy against naming preserves for living people, unless the land is donated.

So Laughlin introduced legislation to rename the area, which he said contains some of the finest wetlands in Texas, after Mrs. Whitmire. The land, on Matagorda Bay outside Indianola, had been in her family for more than 100 years, a Laughlin staffer said.

Although the elderly Roy Whitmire signed off on the deal last week, it was with the hope that Laughlin would succeed in getting the bill passed, the aide said.
