TRACK AREA CLEANUP

City of Wellington crews remove trees and brush Tuesday from an old fence line to create an enlarged parking area at the new Wellington High School track. The City has completed base work on the track and a layer of asphalt and a new rubber surface will be installed on the track by contractors within the next few weeks.

At Ellison Park

School to Pay Half of Courts

Wellington School Board approved at regular board meeting Monday, July 22 paying for half the cost of a new "Laykold" surface on the tennis courts at Ellison Park. The City of Wellington will pay for the other half of the $12,000 cost of the new surface.

City manager Glen Taylor asked the board to split the cost with the city since Wellington school students and teams also use the courts.

Taylor said the City built the four courts ten years ago and that they needed a new surface this summer.

Taylor also reported to the board on completion of the base for the new track. The city built the base for the new track at a cost to the district of $1 plus materials. Taylor said city crews worked about ten days on the project.

The board accepted Wellington State Bank's bid for school depository for the next two years.

The board also designated March 28 and March 30, the days before and after Easter weekend, as "bad weather make-up days." The two days are holidays on the school calendar, but class will be held on those days if the district has to turn out school during the year for bad weather.

Supt. Dr. Lawrence Ward told the board that the district would have to hire two new teachers and find space for two new classrooms this fall to comply with new state requirements.

The district will increase the number of sections of half-day kindergarten from two to three this fall to comply with the new state rule of no more than 22 students per classroom in grades K through 2. The additional kindergarten teacher is expected to teach elementary physical education in grades K through 3 during the other half-day, Dr. Ward said.

The district will also hire a teacher for pre-kindergarten classes for 4-year-olds this fall. The district is required to offer pre-kindergarten classes to certain disadvantaged children and children for whom English is a second language.

The board postponed discussion of an '85-'86 budget until August 12 when a public hearing on the budget will be held.

The board accepted the resignation of elementary aide Linda Powell who took a position at First Federal Savings and Loan. And the board hired Michael Don Bergman, a recent graduate of West Texas State University, as assistant coach.

Present were board members Frances Schmidt, Sharon Starkey, Kirby Campbell, John Barton, Jerry Duncan, Reed Souder and Bill Spillman.

Hospital Board OK's Equipment Purchases

Collingsworth General Hospital Board approved a variety of equipment purchases and discussed physician recruitment at regular meeting Tuesday, July 23.

Dane Altman of the Dallas physician recruiting firm Jackson and Coker discussed his firm's services with the board. Altman said that an average recruitment time for his firm was four to six months, although the time could be considerably longer or shorter depending on the community's needs and the physicians involved. Altman said the firm charges a flat fee of $19,000 and guarantees to send as many physicians as necessary for interviews until the hospital board and a physician sign a contract.

The board tabled action on the contract with Jackson and Coker for further study.

The board approved purchase of a used sterilizer to replace the hospital's old sterilizer which has broken, approved purchase of a new sterlizing dishwasher for the kitchen, and approved purchase of a new typewriter for the business office.

Hospital administrator Perry Foster told the board that a group of radiologists that serve St. Anthony's Hospital is considering service to Collingsworth General. Dr. Bob Metcalf of Hollis has given the board a 60-day notice of termination of his services.

The board also voted to send a letter to past due accounts asking for payment or an explanation of why the bill had not been paid, and saying that if the hospital did not receive an answer, legal remedies on the accounts would be pursued.

New cabinets for patient rooms are under construction by Earl's Cabinet Shop, Foster told the board. The new cabinets are one of the renovation projects approved by the board earlier this year.

The board also reviewed the proposed budget of the Collingsworth Central Appraisal District.

Present were board members Robert Owens, Bill Patrick, Corky Bowen, Emory Ewing, Dr. J.M. Orr and Yates Parker. Loretta Wright was absent.

Foster Whaley's Condition Good After Surgery

The office of Rep. Foster Whaley has informed The Wellington Leader that he underwent surgery in the Lutheran Pavillion at M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston July 22.

His administrative assistant in the Austin office, Mae Beth Palone, said Tuesday that Rep. Whaley will be treated with medication, as his doctors feel this will take care of the malignancy and he will be able to resume his normal schedule in three to four weeks.

His doctors say he will remain in the hospital about two weeks, then he will be able to go back to Pampa.

He was up and walking around Tuesday, and "feeling pretty good" according to Ms. Palone. "He is in good condition and the prognosis is good," she said.

During Rep. Whaley's absence, all phone calls and mail should be directed to his Austin office:

Land Heritage Applications Accepted

AUSTIN - The Texas Department of Agriculture is now accepting applications for the 1985 Family Land Heritage Program honoring families who have kept their land in continuous agricultural production for at least a century.

"This is the 12th year for one of the most coveted honors of state government," said Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower. "Keeping the same land in continuous agricultural production for 100 consecutive years is no easy task, and these families certainly deserve the recognition and thanks. While we celebrate their achievements of the past, the Family Land Heritage Program also points out the importance these family-run farms and ranches hold for the future. We need every one of these family farms and ranches in production for another 100 years."

Since the program began in 1974, a total of 1,821 Texas farms and ranches have been recognized and placed in the Family Land Heritage Registry. Last year alone, 92 properties were honored, including the 218-year-old Trevino Circle T Ranch near Zapata.

The oldest property every recognized is the Noriecitas Ranch founded in 1740 by Simon De Hinojosa, under the authority of the King of Spain, near what is today Hebbronville. That property was recognized in 1976.

According to program coordinator Carolyn Baethge, qualifications for inclusion in the program are quite specific. "The land must have been in agricultural production since 1885. If the land has ever been leased to someone outside the family, it cannot qualify. The owners must reside in Texas and must actively manage and direct the everyday operations of the farm or ranch," Baethge said.

Applications for families who believe they qualify are now available from their county judge, County Historical Commission, the nearest TDA district office, or by writing to Family Land Heritage Program, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711. Registrations will be accepted through August 31.

There are other sections for clerks in counties from 30,000 to 200,000, and for counties with population over 200,000.

"I consider it an honor to be appointed to a committee for an organization such as this," Mrs. Gollihugh said. "Most of the state is made up of counties that fall in this category."

WTSU to Honor Alumni Artists At Homecoming

WTSU - Do you remember the art work of Emilio Caballero in the sixties? Or, before that, Viktor Lowenfeld of Vienna? How about Isabel Robinson, organizer of the summer art colony in Palo Duro Canyon in the thirties?

Each of these people, and so many others, made significant contributions to the art program of West Texas State. The art program, in turn, made an impact on the community as a whole. So in this 75th anniversary year, the university would like to give special recognition to all its art faculty and art students over the years.

The 1985 homecoming weekend, October 11 and 12, will feature an art show and reception for all those who have been associated with the West Texas State art program, whether in the years when Isabel Robinson was the lone art teacher or since the program has moved into beautiful Mary Moody Northen Hall and added a master's degree.

EXTENDED COVERAGE

By Kirby Campbell

Lending your car to a friend means that you're lending your insurance coverage, too. Think carefully if you want to be liable for your friend's actions.

If your friend has his own auto liability insurance, that coverage--combined with yours--should be adequate even in case of a serious accident.

But if your friend has no insurance of his own, you are responsible if claims exceed your coverage. Your insurance premiums may be raised on the basis of someone else's accident.

Two important questions: if you let a friend drive who shouldn't--an unlicensed driver, perhaps, or one who is intoxicated--you can be held liable for negligence.

And if your friend--or even a family member--is using your car on a regular basis, that name should be added to your auto policy.

For auto insurance that offers all the protection you need, see the experts at...

AUSTIN, Texas, July 11 - Oil and gas operators in Texas reported 8,527 oil and 2,576 gas completions in the first half of 1985, according to Railroad Commission Chairman Buddy Temple. During the same period last year, 9,226 oil and 2,622 gas completions were reported.

However, the number of oil discoveries increased from 353 in the first six months of 1984 to 390 in the first half of this year. During the same period, gas discoveries dropped from 701 to 639. A discovery is an exploratory well that is completed in a previously untapped reservoir.

In June, a total of 86 oil and 128 gas discoveries were reported in the state. In the previous month, 69 oil and 105 gas discoveries were filed.

Oil discoveries in June included two in the Refugio area (District 2), 16 in deep South Texas (District 4), one in East Central Texas (District 5), 52 in West Central Texas (District 7B), seven in the San Angelo area (District 7C), two in the Midland area (District 8), three in North Texas (District 9), and three in the Panhandle (District 10).

Gas discoveries included six in the San Antonio area (District 1), 23 in the Refugio area (Dist 2), 21 in Southeast Texas (District 3), 60 in deep South Texas (District 4), six in East Central Texas (District 5), four in East Texas (District 6), four in West Central Texas (District 7B), one in the San Angelo area (District 7C), and three in North Texas (District 9).

The total number of completions reported in June included 1,335 oil wells, 442 gas wells, and 60 service (non-producing) wells. That compares with 1,453 oil, 410 gas, and 81 service completions in May.

A total of 499 dry holes were reported in June, compared to 518 in May.

The first incorporated city in the American colonies was Georgeana, Maine, now known as York. Incorporation took place in 1642.

NEW PUP IN TOWN

Deputy Sheriff Richard Keller and Betty J. Borgia, a representative of the National Child Safety Council, show Safetypup, a key figure in a new program to be introduced in Wellington schools this fall.

Safetypup Program Slated in Area Schools

Joining the ranks of the local sheriff department will be Safetypup, the friendly superhero, animated character of the National Child Safety Council. The new ally has received "a warm welcome" according to law officers who will be taking the puppet into schools to help present safety information.

Accompanying Safetypup are safety song cassettes geared to each grade level that cover a wide range of safety topics. Among them: How to say no to strangers, to sexual abuse, to drugs and alcohol, how to report emergencies, safety tips for latchkey children, and learning your telephone number and calling long distance.

Coordinating the program in Wellington are Sheriff John Rainey and Chief Deputy Richard Keller, with the help of Betty J. Borgia, Safety Coordinator for the National Child Safety Council.

Safetypup has been appearing on the sides of ½ pint milk cartons across the country with safety messages designed to educate children about the ways which they can help prevent a tragedy happening to them. Some of his safety messages are: Never go with strangers, always use the buddy system, go straight home from school, never take shortcuts on the way home, learn and memorize your full address, and know how to use the telephone the right way. These messages are appearing as part of the National Milk Carton Program which the National Child Safety Council initiated. The superhero is designed to be a positive role model that children can trust and look up to. It is our hope that Safetypup will soon be viewed by children as a trusted friend who will teach them how to protect themselves.

Other projects of the National Child Safety Council (NCSC) include the NCSC Abducted Children Directory, which is printed for national distribution. The directory is a service of Missing Children Search of National Child Safety Council, and is distributed to all police, sheriff, and state police departments, and the F.B.I., every three months. NCSC also initiated and coordinated the National Missing Children Milk Carton Program, paper bag effort, and the missing children effort with utility companies, who are printing missing children's pictures across the nation. NCSC is the largest and oldest (30 years old) child safety organization in the world which creates and prints hundreds of child safety educational materials on various safety topics for children of all ages and parents. These materials are distributed through local law enforcement agencies nationwide.

A story in last week's Wellington Leader of Gaylon Cochran's being listed on the Clarendon College honor roll should have read that he was employed by Lewis Grocery through high school and this summer is farming with his father.

He also visited in Virginia, Washington and other points of interest earlier in the summer.

Mrs. Lewis, Daughter Return Here to Live

Mrs. Charlene Lewis and her daughter, Janie, have returned to Wellington from Dallas, where they lived for the last schoolyear. Janie will be a freshman in Wellington high school this fall.

Mrs. Lewis' older daughter, Betty, also lives in Dallas and works for Texas Instruments.

how much does a funeral cost?

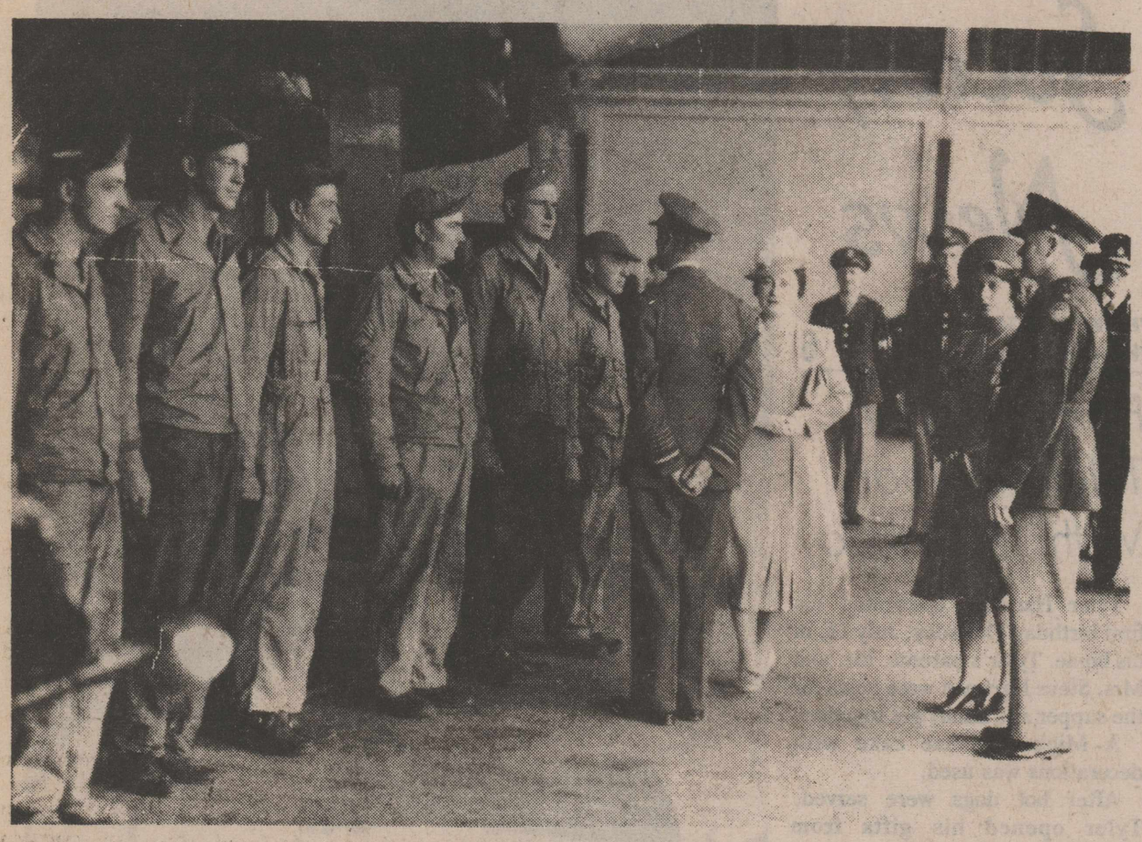

We've seen various approaches to answering this question in advertisements and brochures. Some firms and organizations will merely talk about "moderate prices." Others will talk about "national averages" or something like that. Frankly, neither of these approaches is satisfactory. Instead of specific answers, you get generalizations that shed no real light on the matter and can be confusing or misleading. The fact of the matter is that the cost of a funeral depends upon choices make by the family. There simply isn't any way to give a general answer that will cover the situation.

The one sure way to find out about funeral prices (and what they INCLUDE) is to visit a funeral director and ask. Better yet, visit several funeral homes and compare. Your questions are always welcome at our firm.

We believe that today's public wants to be informed...and that it has a RIGHT to be informed.

GROUND CREW HAS VISITORS

The mechanical crew of Ole Miss Destry, received British royalty when that World War Flying Fortress completed 100 missions over Germany without mechanical failure. John Wolf, of Wellington, fourth from left, was among them. Standing with back to camera is King George VI, and facing the camera is Queen Elizabeth. Farther right is Princess Elizabeth, now Queen Elizabeth II, and beside her an unidentified Air Force man. Crew members, from left, are Henry Christman, crew chief, and John Wiseley, Lawrence Kennedy, Wolf, Tex Goodwin, deceased, who was from Pampa, and Willard Everhart.

On 50th Anniversary

John Wolf Recalls a Flying Fortress That Was Special

[The famous World War II B-17G Flying Fortress was 50 years old on Wednesday, July 24, and the first of a series of celebrations was held at the Boeing Aircraft Plant in Seattle, Washington, [home of the main plant]. An invitation to attend came to John Wolf, a member of the ground crew on one of these planes. It flew more missions without mechanical failure than any other in the 8th Air Force.

Because of ill health, Wolf cannot attend, but he and his wife, Bethine, [former Wellington Leader society editor] set down his thoughts about the plane.]

BY JOHN AND BETHINE WOLF

Comrads from World War II days met recently for the first time in 40 years, when Henry Christman of Atoka, Tenn., and Willie G. Howell of Memphis, Tenn., visited in the Wellington home of John C. Wolf.

The three men served together for four years as members of the 305th Bomb Group, 366th Squadron of the 8th USAAF.

Their duties together began by setting up the first pup tents on the site for the building of the Salt Lake City Air Field. The group was organized there on the desert site in March of 1942.

September of that year saw them loaded onto the SS Queen Mary at Fort Dix, New Jersey for reassignment overseas.

Wolf recalled his misgivings as they boarded a small ferry for transport out to the Queen Mary, hidden from view several miles out. The ferry was the largest ship he had ever seen, but he felt heart sick as they hung a chair across the entry way and he wondered how they would ever make it across the Atlantic with such a boat. He heaved a sign of relief when the hugh Queen came into sight.

Their destination was Scotland for a short lay-over, then on to Grafton-Underwood England for assignment.

Their home for the next three years was Chelveston, England.

Christman and Wolf were assigned to the Boeing BM heavy Bomber (Flying Fortress) named "Ole Miss Destry," Christman as crew chief of the 6-man crew, and Wolf as A&E mechanic. Howell was a sheet metal specialist with line duty.

The other members of Christman's crew included Tex Goodwin of Pampa (deceased), John T. Wiseley of Michigan, Willard Everhart of Tennessee, Lawrence Kennedy of Pennsylvania and Wolf.

Ole Miss Destry made every mission over Berlin and the second Swienfurst raid.

On completion of 100 missions without a mechanical failure, the mechanics received a 15-minute notice they were to receive a visit from British Royalty--King George VI, Queen Elizabeth, and their older daughter, then Princess Elizabeth, now Queen Elizabeth II. They were accompanied by many British and American generals, among them Lord Louis Mountbatten and U.S. General Jimmy Doolittle, whose greatest fame lay ahead.

Because of his speech impedement, King George spoke only briefly, then turned to his wife.

Queen Elizabeth visited individually with each man, asked about his family, and thanked him for his part in helping to save England.

In November of 1984, plans were started by Michael Gibson of Bicester, Oxfordshire, England, historian of the 305th Bombstdment Group Memorial Association and a Scotsman, Alan Carlaw of Glasgow, owner of a lithograph company, Squadron Prints, Inc., to honor the plane that had completed more missions than any other of the entire 8th Air Force, a total of 138.

Wolf received the first request for photos, information--anything that would be helpful in producing a lithograph of the now-ancient plane.

Carlaw especially wanted colors of the nose art.

Wolf couldn't remember them. He contacted Christman, who could remember the colors and supplied the information.

Christman remarked "It's no wonder John couldn't remember. He hardly saw the plane in daylight. His work was done at night in total blackout conditions--by feel."

Copies of the completed lithograph were received by the men recently, in time for the 50th anniversary of the building of the first B17. The first of several celebrations marking that event were held in the main plant of Boeing Aircraft in Seattle, the company that produced the B17.

It began Wednesday, July 24 and will continue through Sunday, July 28.

Seattle will host 9 organized Wing Groups plus many entertainers from the Big Band era for the festivities. Among them will be Tex Beneke Band, The Crew Chiefs, Patti Andrews, Marion Hutton, and Johnny Desmond.

General Curtis Leman, Ret. and Gen Delmar Wilson, Ret., will be present. Wolf served under both.

The 305th Group will be hosted at the Boeing plant in Philadelphia at the second celebration, August 22 to 25. Christman and Howell plan to attend.

The third celebration for Boeing will be at the plant in Wichita, Kansas in October.

Of the lithograph of Ole Miss Desty, Christman commented: "It doesn't look like much to a civilian, but to a mechanic it's a work of art."

Yellow Perch Adapt

CANYON - Yellow perch are an easily-caught and tasty panfish which are creating new fishing opportunities in several Texas Panhandle-area lakes.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department biologist Bill Provine said the fish already have become established at Lake Meredith near Canyon, where stocking programs began in 1980.

"Fishermen already are reporting good catches of perch, including some strings from 20 to 60 fish," said Provine. "However, more time is needed to assess just how successful the program is."

Another lake where yellow perch are building populations is Greenbelt, near Clarendon. Provine said a 1/3-acre brood pond constructed near the lake has produced fingerling-sized yellow perch for stocking

Butter Blends Growing In Popularity Over Country

COLLEGE STATION - Americans eat more margarine than butter, but many still prefer the flavor of butter.

That's one reason for the growing popularity of new butter-blend and butter-flavored products, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.

While the split between butter and margarine consumption was about half and half 25 years ago, margarine comsumption is now about twice that of butter, says Marilyn Haggard.

Butter blends are so new that the U.S. Department of Agriculture has no consumption figures compiled. But preliminary figures from the National Cheese Institute show that the butter blends have cut more into margarine sales than butter sales.

"Evidently, some consumers would like to afford the flavor of real butter and find the blends a more desirable substitute than pure margarine," she explains.

Now consumers can also choose "buttery" flavored oils and vegetable shortenings or artificially flavored seasonings, condiments and other foods such as butter flavored salt or syrup.

Snack foods and side dishes such as butter flavored pretzels and dehydrated pasta and rice products flavored with butter are also in the markets.

Butter-flavored granules are made partially with dried butter and designed to be reconstituted. The butter granules can replace butter in many recipes and provide the butter flavor with fewer calories, the nutritionist says.

The specialist advises reading the label to determine the source of the butter content or flavor.

Annual 4-Day Reunion of the Robert Johnson Children Held

The annual reunion of the family of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson began Thursday evening, July 11, and continued through noon Sunday, July 14.

The opening event was the traditional dinner attended only by the brothers and sisters and their spouses. This was a steak cookout, held by Jerol and Martha Johnson Morris at their home, 1209 Amarillo Street.

Don Johnson of Channing cooked the steaks and Dean Johnson of Kelton gave the invocation.

Those attending were Dale Johnson, and Leroy and Wanda Johnson Brown, all of Amarillo; Don and Mickie Johnson of Channing; Buck and Robena Johnson Duncan of Artesia, N.M.; Evelyn Johnson Overcast of Clearwater, Fla., Dean and Agatha Johnson of Kelton, and the hosts, Martha and Jerol Morris.

The other sister and brother-in-law, Wesley and Belva Johnson Terry of Artesia joined the group the next day.

On Friday the family shopped, visited, and drove through the Quail area where the Robert Johnson family lived for many years and where the younger children grew up.

On Friday night, all of the family was together for a meal at the club room of Bura Handley Community Center.

Everyone went to Pioneer Park Saturday for visiting and reminiscing. On Saturday evening, a swimming party entertained them at Marian Airpark Pool.

One of the annual hilarious events of the Johnson reunion occurred on Saturday afternoon when the white elephant auction was held

The family business meeting was held Sunday again at the club room of the community center. Belva Terry gave the devotional, Leroy and Wanda Johnson Brown were selected as officers.

Of interest throughout the reunion was the diary which Theresa Verna Johnson Light, kept as a school girl from Sept. 20, 1909 to Dec. 31, 1911.

It contains her comments about many incidents and many people of the Aberdeen-Roundup community, as well as her comments on the appearance of Halley's Coment, which was approaching the Earth during the time she kept her dairy.

The dairy was located by Martha Johnson Morris and prepared in softcover book form by Wanda Johnson Brown and Dean Johnson.

Robert Johnson and his brothers and sisters were the children of the late Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Johnson, who came to the area southeast of Aberdeen in the 1890s.

The Robert Johnson family lived there until they moved to Quail.

Those attending were the Johnson brothers and sisters. These included:

-Wesley and Belva Terry, with Bruce, and Saundra Lainer, and D'Les and Stuart, all of Artesia, N.M.;

-Dean and Agatha Johnson with Leslie, Noel and Nicky of Kelton.

Scoopin'

Former Wellington coach Don Beck is back in Wellington in time to assume assistant principal and assistant coach duties here this fall.

I saw coach Beck the other day while he was completing purchase of a house here. Beck owns a ranch in Montana and between coaching stints he's spent time there off and on for the past 15 years. I asked him how the agricultural economy was faring up north.

He said that the farm and ranch economy in Montana is in even worse shape than in Collingsworth County. He said their economic problems are compounded this year by what is being called the worst drought in a century. He said the smoke from forest fires resulting from the dry weather had obscured for days a mountain range normally visible from his ranch.

He said the Montana economy was suffering also from a big slump in the mining industry which was one of the big employers there, and from a cutback in federal forest and land management expenditures in the state.

Later in the day, coach Beck was looking over the new high school track with head coach James Williams and I asked him if he thought it was an improvement over the track he used at the rodeo grounds when he was coaching here in the 1960's.

He said he and his wife, Zelda, had looked over the new track and laughed about the old one. He'd gotten someone to drive a road grader through the brush on the side of the rodeo arena and carve out an oblong track. Lanes were marked off with chalk, and he loaded kids on the bus each afternoon for the trip out to the track.

I don't know if it was Beck's coaching ability, or just that it was so much easier to run when the team got on a real track and didn't have to dodge clods, but a district championship track team emerged from the rodeo grounds in those years.

Anyhow, before long nobody will be dodging clods, because the new all-weather surface will be available this fall for Wellington students and for community walkers and joggers.

In another sports department, we reported last week on what we said was the first hole-in-one on Number 7 at the Wellington Country Club golf course.

Oops. It turns out that Tony Stephens' hole-in-one had been preceded by 3 others on Number 7: Mack Saied, Mark Williams and Vicki Parker.

Four golfers have made a hole-in-one on the Country Club's Number 4: Mark Williams, Willie Gragson, Teddy Martin and Edna Wooldridge.

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — Texas House Speaker Gib Lewis returned last week from his controversial trip to South Africa and remains opposed to ending state investments there to combat racial separatism.

He immediately caught renewed fire from some lawmakers critical of state law allowing investment of tax dollars in that troubled nation's economy.

Black lawmakers, in particular, have pushed past legislation banning such investments as a means of combating apartheid, defeated in part by Lewis' disagreement.

Lewis said he and sidekick state Rep. Charles Evans talked to blacks and whites on the "far left, far right and everybody in between" and he believes that divestment of U.S. investments would hurt struggling South African blacks more than it would help them.

"They (South African government) have got a lot of foolish laws I don't agree with, and they need to change."

Legislative Outcome?

How Lewis' trip will affect the outcome of divestiture legislation next session remains to be seen, but the fact that he took the trip at all signifies the Legislature's interest in the issue, perhaps brought on by its growing minority membership.

Lewis seems more convinced than ever that his stance is correct. He is himself a wealthy businessman, and very pro-establishment, but his political style has an unspoken pacifist streak to it.

He avoids blood-lettings where possible, and does not relish putting one lawmaker against another, as some do.

Nazi Comparison

Rather than ignoring the plight of South African blacks, he sympathizes with them in his own style: "The people pushing for divestment are hurting the people they are trying to help. When you start shutting down factories, the people in those factories are not white, they're black."

And if violent revolution is precipitated by economic collapse, the people gunned down in the streets are more likely to be black than white, too.

His sharpest criticism by a black leader came from state Sen. Craig Washington, who compared Lewis' trip to a 1930s House speaker who traveled to Germany as a guest of the Nazis.

Moral Obligation?

But Washington and Lewis have one thing in common: they both see South African blacks in the same situation as American blacks before the great strides in civil rights. Lewis says it compares with the American '50s.

Washington speaks for American blacks who hate racism so much they want to wipe it out in every corner of the globe, at least in an official form.

To them, we have a moral obligation as a freedom-living nation to combat it however we can, and so they introduced the divestiture legislation. They want something done now.

Lewis obviously feels some moral obligation, too, or else he wouldn't have gone. Maybe he went in hopes of finding a better line of attack, and is still formulating it. Maybe we'll find out next session if an alternate plan emerges.

"White OK"

Some 12,000 wells in the Panhandle oil field are affected by a recent federal ruling some say will spark bankruptcies and other economic hardships there.

The feds used new Texas Railroad Commission regulations to rule that some 35 producers illegally diverted supplies from another company by drilling "oil" wells into gas reservoirs then capitalizing on the higher prices available for "white oil," or casinghead gas.

Some 1,000 wells are now expected to be retested soon.

Political Manuverings

Former Democratic House Speaker Billy Clayton switched parties last week, and GOP State Senator Buster Brown of Lake Jackson announced he will run for attorney general.

Clayton, considered a possible gubernatorial candidate, said he won't run for any statewide office next year, but speculation is he might settle for a slot lower down on the ballot with enough urging.

Brown criticized incumbent AG Jim Mattox for spending over $250,000 in contributions for his legal defense and for not being tough enough on criminals. The expenditure was legal, but Brown says it was wrong, anyway.

Petty Officer Gibbons Teaches at The Citadel

Chief Petty Officer Chester L. Gibbons, U.S. Navy, was in Wellington recently with his wife and children to visit members of his family. They live at Charleston, S.D.

Gibbons teaches Naval Science at The Citadel, one of the nation's oldest and most noted military schools. He reminded that in 1861 the first shot that began the Civil War was fired from the Citadel onto Ft. Sumter.

Gibbons' wife, Ingrid, was born in West Germany and at age 13 came to Denver, Colo. The couple married there.

They have four children: Colene, age 9, Christopher, 5, Andrea, four and Jennifer, three.

In Wellington, they are visiting Gibbons' grandfather, Doc Turner, and other relatives and friends.

They came here from Oklahoma City, where they visited Mrs. Gibbons' father, Bill Hausam. She and her father had not seen each other for 25 years, and neither knew where the other lived until recently.

They met the four half brothers and three half sisters she did not know she had.

From Wellington, the Gibbons family went to Denver, where they visited his mother, Mrs. Bobby Withey.

Petty Officer Gibbons has completed 13 years service in the Navy. Before going to Charleston, was stationed on the USS Lafayette based at Groton, Conn.. at the Newport News, Va., Shipyard, and again in Connecticut, as well as in Washington state and Hawaii.

He will be at The Citadel until November, 1987, when he is due to have another tour of duty at sea.

Sen. Sarpalius Appointed to Energy Council

AUSTIN - Lieutenant Governor Bill Hobby today announced five appointments to the Southwest Regional Energy Council. Senator Grant Jones, D-Abilene; and Senator Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, are being reappointed to a second term.

Senator Cyndi Krier, D-San Antonio; Senator John Montford, D-Lubbock; and Senator Bill Saraplius, D-Hereford, are the newly appointed members of this Council.

The Southwest Regional Energy Council is a five-state compact of energy producing states. The Council acts as a voice on behalf of the member states in a broad range of energy and energy-related issues.

"These appointments assure Texas of continued participation in this all important segment of our economy. As a nationally recognized organization, the Council played a pivotal role by informing the Treasury Department of the disastrous effects some of the proposed tax changes would have on the oil and gas industry.

"Senator Sarpalius represents a large energy-based constituency and can put his interest, on behalf of that constituency, to good use by serving on the Council.

"On the strength of these five appointments, Texas will have a strong voice on the Council," Hobby said of these appointments.

Carolyn Reeves Edits History of the Choctaws

DR. CAROLYN KELLER REEVES

Dr. Carolyn Keller Reeves, an associate professor in the University of Southern Mississippi, Hattiesburg, has edited a new book which gives dimension to a neglected but important segment of southern-southwestern history, the Choctaw Indians in their original home in Mississippi, before their removal to the Oklahoma Territory and Arkansas.

Dr. Keller's book, "The Choctaw Before Removal" focuses upon Choctaw history from the time of the tribe's first contact with the white man in 1540, until the people went along "the trail of tears" in 1850. Much of significance occurred in that period, and the book brings this to light.

Reared at Wellington, Dr. Reeves is the daughter of Harold and Bertha Mae Keller and graduated from Wellington High School in 1959. She returns at regular intervals to visit her parents.

The book contains eight essays by several writers, all authorities on the Choctaw. Dr. Reeves contributed two, one is the introduction; the other relates to the Choctaw language.

Carolyn Keller has edited an interesting book that fills a need. The cost is $25, not expensive by today's standards.

The article below is by Roger Brinegar, a writer in the Public Relations Department of the University of Southern Mississippi, and appeared in the faculty newsletter:

A new history of the Choctaw Indians in Mississippi weaves myth and legend with historical facts to paint a literary portrait of the tribe from its first encounter with the white man in 1540, until its removal to the Oklahoma Territory in 1830.

"The Choctaw Before Removal," edited by Dr. Carolyn Keller Reeves, associate professor of curriculum and instruction at the University of Southern Mississippi deals with the anthropology and beliefs of the Indians and the Choctaw's experience with Europeans, frontiersmen and the United States Government.

From 16th century accounts of Hernando DeSoto's scribe to the famous "Trail of Tears" exodus of the Choctaw to what is now part of Arkansas and Oklahoma, the book tells stories of an indian chief swallowed by the earth, bloody tribal wars and broken treaties with the federal government.

The book, available this month from the University Press of Mississippi, also includes aspects of the Choctaw that have received little or no attention in the past. The oral tradition of the tribe, the Choctaw language, tribal economics and the Choctaw civil war are included in eight essays by noted authorities.

"I don't think a person would get tired of reading this book because each author has his or her own writing style," Reeves said. "I think that is the value of this book...each chapter is like talking to a different person."

Choctaw origin stories are based on "creation" or "migration" themes and have been told and retold throughout countless centuries. Ninih Waiya, the sacred mound of the tribe, is the central object of most origin stories. The mound, located near the southern boundary of Winston County and northern Neshoba County, has shown archeological evidence of 2,000 years of continuous use.

One migration story discussed early in the book was found in the National Anthropological Archives in Washington D.C. The legend, no longer used by the Choctaw, tells of the tribe coming from a "western country," crossing the Mississippi River to be overtaken by a large army of Chicameca Indians led by their chief, Chicameca. The Choctaw decided to fight to the last man. Just as the pursuing Chicamecas attacked the Choctaw, the ground opened, and the chief Chicameca was swallowed by the earth. According to the legend, centuries of rain eroded the site and exposed the petrified bust of the prehistoric warrior. The story places the location of the stone about six miles southwest of Louisville, Miss.

Reeves, who fluently speaks and writes the Choctaw language, was asked to edit the publication by the Choctaw tribe. She learned the language while serving as co-director of a five-year (1974-79) bilingual-bicultural teacher education project, which involved the Mississippi Choctaw.

In addition to editing the new book, Reeves also contributed a chapter on the Choctaw language. Using the "Choctaw Testament," an early 19th century translation of the King James Verison of the New Testament, Reeves' chapter deals with the word order, sound and meaning of Choctaw grammar.

WTU Increases Fuel Savings $3.9 Million

West Texas Utilities Co. has increased by $3.9 million the amount of fuel cost savings it wants to refund to its customers, bringing the total to $17.6 million.

This amount reflects the fuel cost savings achieved in June, and a lump sum refund of the remaining balance reconciled in the Company's last rate case.

The June fuel savings totals $1.6, with interest. The figures for June were not available when the original request to refund $13.7 million was filed with the Public Utility Commission on July 2.

The additional $2.3 million represents a lump refund of fuel cost savings balance, plus interest, realized prior August 1984. Under the Commission's. order in the Company's last general rate case, refund of the total savings commenced in mid-November 1984 and is scheduled to be completed in November 1985.

The Company has concurred in the PUC staff's recommendation that the remaining balance be refunded in one lump sum along with the fuel savings accumulated since last August.

The Company estimates that the increased refund will add about $9 to the $32 refund already requested, for a typical residential customer.

A pre-conference hearing has been set for Tuesday, July 16 on WTU's refund request before the Public Utility Commission in Austin.

New GI Bill Effective

The Veterans Administration is preparing to implement a new version of the GI Bill which became effective July 1, 1985.

The bill -- the Veterans' Educational Assistance Act of 1984 - was enacted last year and establishes a program of education benefits for individuals initially entering military service from July 1, 1985, through June 30, 1988.

Recruits entering the military during that period will participate in the program unless they decline in writing. To participate, the recruit's basic pay will be reduced by $100 a month for the first 12 months of service. In return for a two-year enlistment, the government will pay a basic benefit of $250 a month in educaitonal assistance for up to 36 months following the active duty commitment.

For a three-year enlistment, the government will pay $300 a month for up to 36 months. In addition, the Secretary of Defense may provide up to a $400 a month "kicker" on top of the basic benefit for those in critical skill areas. The Secretary also has the authority to provide another $300 a month to those members who serve an additional five years following their original three-year enlistment.

Members of the Armed Forces who have no break in active duty service since Dec. 31, 1976, and serve on active duty for at least three years after June 30, 1985, may take part in the new program with no reduction in their basic pay.

The current education benefit program in the Veterans Education Assistance Program (VEAP), a contributory plan that allows the recruit to voluntarily participate in a plan for future education or training. Those enrolled in this program are not affected by the new GI Bill.

COLLINGSWORTH COUNTY AGENT REPORT

CHOLESTEROL IN BEEF

The myth that beef is high in cholestrol should be set straight. The fact is, three ounces of cooked lean beef contains 73 milligrams of cholestrol.

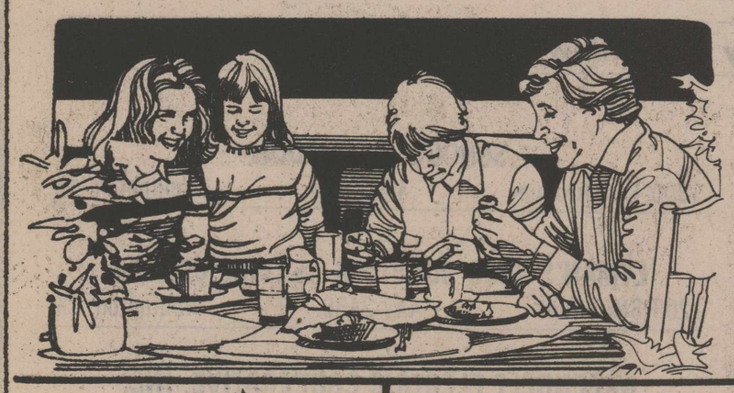

By comparison, the same amount of roast chicken contains 76 milligrams of cholestrol; fried chicken 74 mg; pork 77 mg; shrimp 130 mg, cheddar cheese 90 mg; of course the human body needs cholestrol-some 1000 milligrams a day, and the body normally will manufacture the difference between the amount consumed and the amount it requires.

The standard three ounce serving of beef provides only about eight percent of the cholestrol the body needs.

Remember, beef is a good buy and certainly healthful and one of the best sources of protein.

Frog's legs a favorite? An estimated 200 million Asian frogs are killed each year for European gourmets. This has left the wild frog population seriously endangered. Wild frogs help keep mosquitoes and harmful insects in check.

Collingsworth County Agent Report

by Nancy Janes

Is your kitchen poison proof? If it's not, someone - especially your pre-schooler - could get hurt. Make sure you can answer "yes" to the following questions:

*Do all harmful products in the cabinets have child-resistant caps?

*Are all potentially harmful products in their original containers? If not, some one might think they are food and eat them. Also, labels on the original containers often give first aid information if someone should swallow the product.

Are harmful products stored away from food?

*Have all potentially harmful products been put up high and out of reach of children? Locking all cabinets that hold dangerous products is the best poison prevention.

*Have medicines been taken off kitchen counters and window sills? These storage places may be convenient but they put danger within the reach of children.

For more information on poison-proofing your home, call the County Extension Office at 447-2313 for a "Poison Peril Check list."

Should you ever hear faint creaking or light tapping noises on the bookshelves of your local library, don't be surprised to find "bugs" in your books. The bugs, smaller than a grain of rice, are called book lice. They eat mold and mildew in old books and papers, and crawl on floors, bookshelves, windowsills and walls looking for dead insect bodies, bits of cereal and the glue used in hanging wall paper.

WTU to Begin Refunds for Customers

West Texas Utilities Co. customers may receive refunds as well as slightly lower fuel rates as early as next month.

A tentative agreement was reached this past week in meetings with the Public Utility Commission staff in Austin, and the matter is expected to go before the Commission July 26 for a final order hearing. That would be just in time for the refunds to go on the August bills for all of WTU's retail customers.

The full amount to be refunded now stands at $17.6 million. This is an increase of $3.9 million over the amount in WTU's original request, which included only fuel costs savings achieved from August 1984 through May 1985.

The new figure includes savings made in June and an additional $2.3 million representing a lump refund of fuel costs savings balance, plus interest, realized before last August. Refund of those total savings had begun in mid-November and were scheduled to be completed in November 1985.

WTU estimates that the total refund now will result in a $41 credit to the average residential customer's bill. The refund is made possible by WTU being able to spend less for power plant boiler fuel than was anticipated when fuel cost factors were set by the PUC last fall.

Former customers will not receive refunds. The reasoning is that if the former customers had been undercharged for fuel, they could not be billed in the future to make up the difference.

Any refunds will vary with the amount of electricity a customer used during the period from August 1984 through June 1985. Interest will be included.

Earned Income Credit Increased

Earned income credit, a tax benefit for certain low income persons, has been expanded to allow for the effect of inflation and higher social security taxes, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

In 1984, qualified persons were allowed a maximum credit of $500, which was gradually phased out as income increased to $10,000. Beginning in 1985, the credit will equal 11 percent of the first $5,000 for a maximum credit of $550. If income is greater than $5,000, the credit continues to gradually phase out. With an income of $11,000 there is no benefit at all.

The credit may be computed only on earned income, such as wages or self-employment. Since it is refundable, it may be claimed even though income is so low that there is no tax liability. It may be entered on either Form 1040 or Form 1040A.

Earned income credit is available to low income persons who provide a home in the United States that they share with a child for an entire year. Married persons must also file a joint return and claim the child as a dependent.

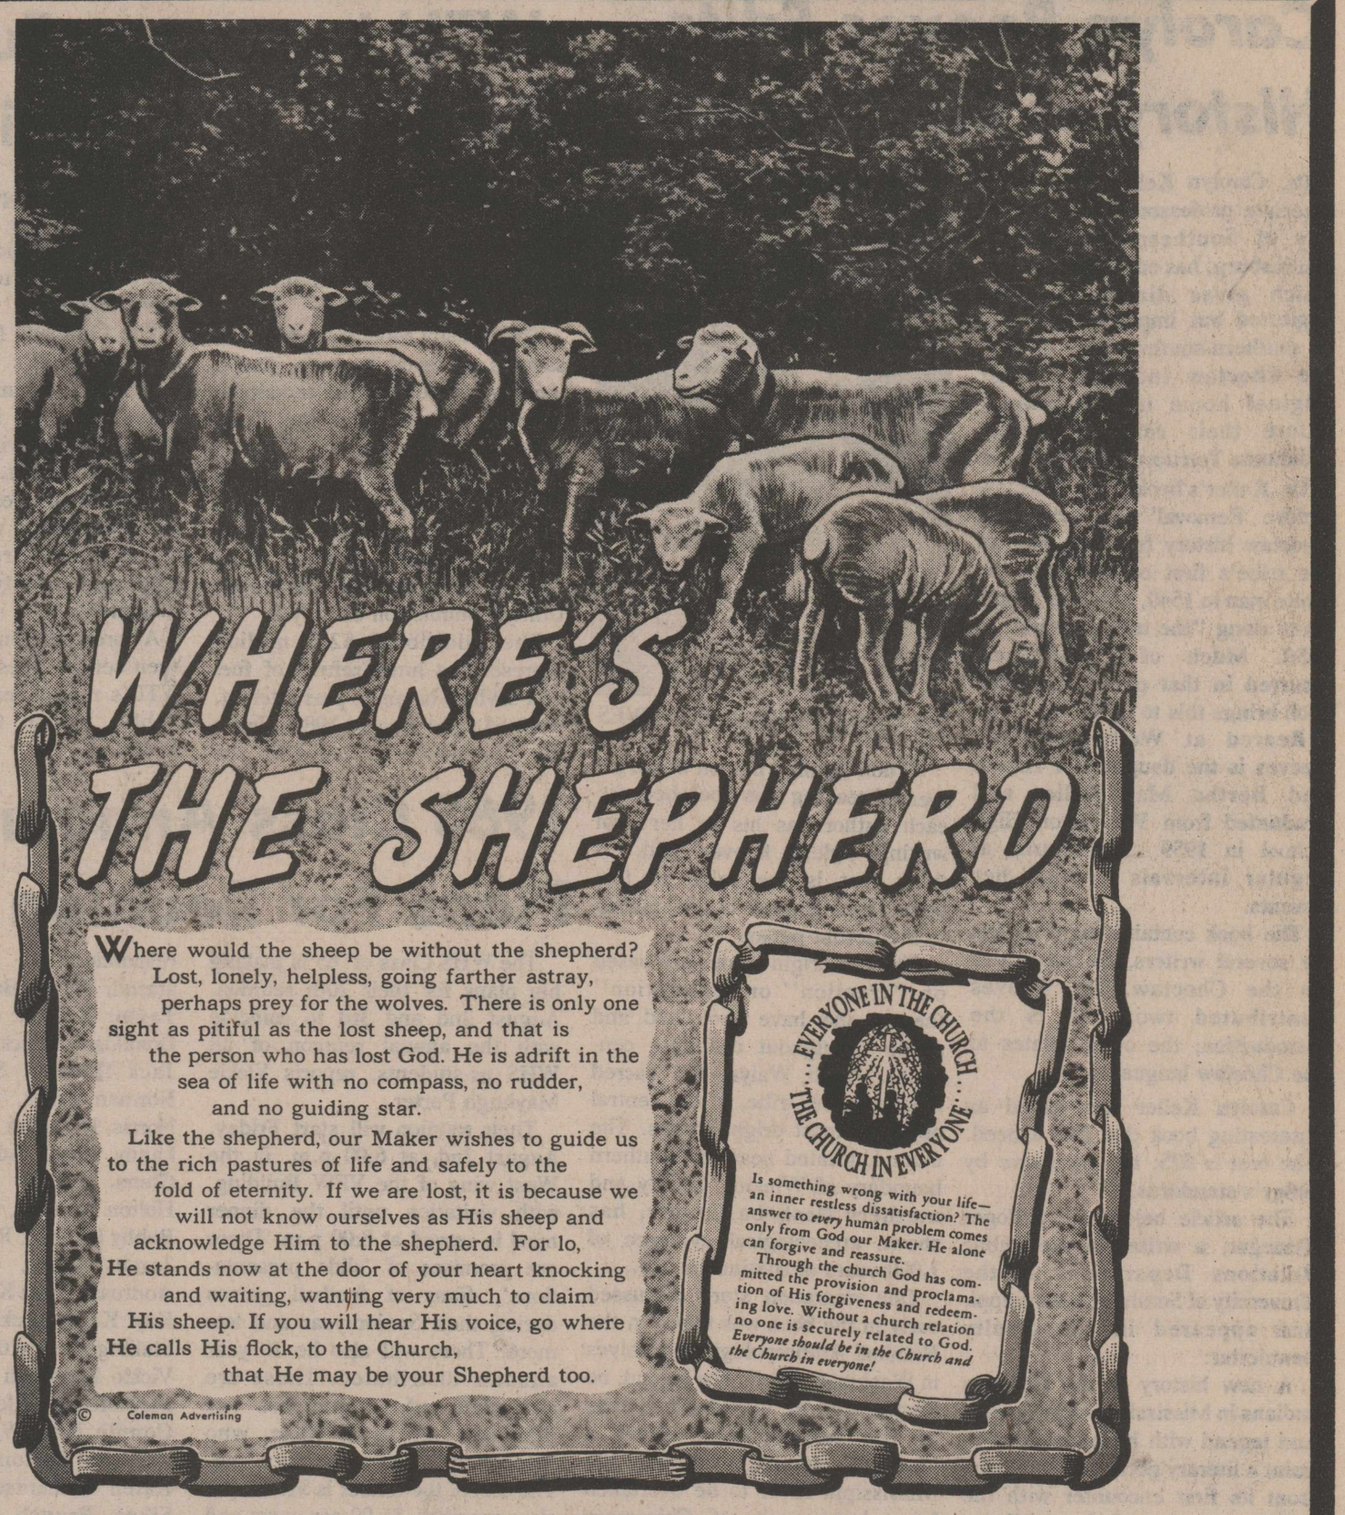

If you feel that you may qualify to receive the earned income credit, but would like help with preparing your tax return, you can get that help free of charge at any of the neighborhood Volunter Income Tax Assistance (VITA) centers. For a complete list of the VITA locations and their hours of service, call toll-free 1-800-424-1040.

Sims Team to State, Region

Sims Ranch, a slow pitch softball team composed of players from Childress, Wellington, Shamrock and Amarillo, won the one-day 24-team USSSA Class D tournament in Amarillo Saturday, July 20.

This qualifies the team for a state and mid-west regional tournament berth.

The state tournament will be played in Amarillo August 8, 9, and 10, and the regional tournament is scheduled on the Labor Day weekend in Moore, Okla.

Sims Ranch played four games in the winners bracket, which put them in the finals of that bracket. They lost there to Easy from Lubbock 24-15.

That moved Sims Ranch to the lower bracket, where they defeated H&H Plumbing of Amarillo 16-9 and put them into the finals, again playing Easy. Sims Ranch defeated Easy twice in the finals, 10-9 and 18-13, to win the Golden Spread tournament.

Chosen Most Valuable player was Sims Ranch second baseman Marty Smith from Childress.

Team members were Richard Sims of Wellington; Marty Smith, Jerry Reed and Tony Martinez from Childress; Charlie Moore and Danny Aaron from Shamrock and Danny Lancaster, Curtis Smith, Randall Sims, Gary Aaron, Leo Segura, Glen Reno and Dano Walker from Amarillo.

Cpl. Lacy With Marine Security at Hamburg

Marine Cpl. Larry G. Lacy, Jr., son of Mrs. Gene Mitchell of Shamrock and Glenn Lacy of Weatherford, has returned to Hamburg Germany after two weeks leave from Marine Security Guard duty for the American Consulate General at Hamburg.

Duties of a Marine Security Guard include protection of classified material and of American personnel in embassies and consulates throughout the world.

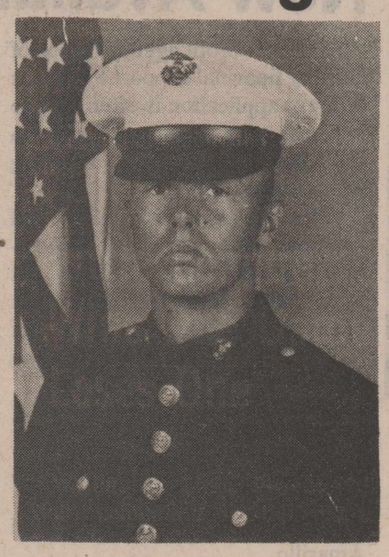

Pia Mueller, secretary for the foreign consulate general of Switzerland, was a guest of Larry and his family.

Time was spent attending a performance of TEXAS, fishing, boating, attending an Oklahoma rodeo, visiting Ft. Sill, and other points of interest in Texas and New Mexico. A family reunion was held.

They visited Mr. and Mrs. Gene Mitchell and with Lacy's brothers, Lee Lacy and Kent Crosby of Shamrock; also Glen Lacy of Weatherford; and with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Holton and Mr. and Mrs. Murl Lacy, all of Wellington. He is a nephew of Mrs. Bill Wells and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Duncan.

Cpl. Lacy was assigned to his post at Hamburg upon graduating from the Marine Security Guard School at Quantico, VA Sept. 1, 1984.

A graduate of Shamrock High School in May 1981, Cpl. Lacy began basic training at the Marine Corps Recruit Base in San Diego, Calif., August 17 of that year and graduated from A Company, 1068 Platoon, 1st Battalion. After serving at various Marine Corps bases in California, Lance Cpl. Lacy began his duty with the 3rd Force Service Group in Okinawa, Japan, on January 23, 1983, serving there until he entered the school at Quantico.

CPL. LARRY G. LACY, JR.

After World War II an alert, disciplined force was needed to protect American embassies, consulates and legations throughout the world, and the Marine Security Guard program was established in June 1949 when 6 marines arrived in Bangkok, Thailand.

Early assignments were based on the selection of outstanding Marines who were sent to the first new posts. Then in November, 1954, the Marine Security Guard School commenced a formal training program.

Qualified volunteers for the special duty are recommended by their commanding officers and ordered to the Marine Security Guard School for 6 weeks of extensive joint training, screening and processing. Graduates are issued dress blue uniforms and appropriate civilian attire, then assigned to a foreign service mission for a 30 months tour of duty.

Today, over 1150 Marines serve at 123 posts in 106 different countries throughout the world.

With the emergence of new nations in Africa and Asia, Marines have continued to serve in new and unusual places. The distinguished reputation enjoyed by all Marine Security Guards has been earned by their outstanding performance of duty while accomplishing an important mission for the United States.

Golf With The Swingers

BY MARY SANFORD

Much has been happening with the women golfers of Wellington Country Club, and I have been remiss in reporting it. So let's catch up and see what's going on.

I think first, I probably should tell you that Louise Mabery pared the course on 9 holes Wednesday morning, July 17. She birdied No. 1, boggied No. 2, and pared the rest. Don't think any woman has done this before.

This proves the old adage, "You're not getting older baby, just better."

Oh, Yeah? Well, I know there're always exceptions, and that I have certainly been playing long enough to be better.

Billie Holton, Lyna Hurst, Betty Cochran, Bennie Sullivan, Eugena Sherman, Iva Belle Mauldin and I played in Memphis Greenbelt Round Robin Scramble May 14.

Billie's team won first and Iva Belle was part of that team. I was on the team that won second that day. Billie has been on a winning streak. Her team won first in Shamrock Round Robin June 27, and later in partnership with Lou, won first again in Shamrock.

Eugena was on the second place team at that Round Robin.

Saturday, July 6, we had all our women here playing or working for our own ladies 18-hole best ball partnership.

Blueberry and apple muffins and Kringler were served, with juice and coffee, while players were registering, changing shoes, lining up teams, and carts, and all the other things to do preceding play.

Then tee off!

While the players were out on the course other helpers were in the club house preparing for the luncheon to be served following play. The tables were set with colorful cloths.

The serving table had a beautiful centerpiece of zennias and marigolds. Since the theme of the day was brass, there were individual brass boxes as table favors.

First, second and third place prizes were also brass. First place prizes were coffee servers, second place prizes were standing comfort holders, and third place prizes were serving trays.

After the luncheon of prairie chicken, many condiments, hot rolls and peach cobbler for dessert, Lou Mabery, touranment committee member, announced the golf winners for the day. The longest drive, was made by Mona Jennings of Shamrock, and the longest putt was made by Charlotte Stephens of Wellington.

These women received decorative butterfly plaques, brass of course.

Winners by flights were: first flight, first place a mother daughter team, Linda and Tina Foxhall of Memphis, with a score of 66.

Second place, another mother-daughter team, Mona and Bobbie Jennings of Shamrock with a 67. The third place winners in this flight were Joe Terry of Lubbock and Ida Goad of Wheeler with a 67.

Second flight, first place winners: Patsy Martin and Martha Morris of Wellington, with a 72; second place, Gwen Hensley and Cindy Chapman from Shamrock, 75; third place, still another mother-daughter team, Bennie Sullivan and Katie Davis, Wellington 76.

I don't know whether the inspiration comes from the mothers or the daughters, but isn't it nice.

Third flight, first place: Laverne Back and Joyce Ech of Shamrock with 81. Second place, Sue Stiles and Sally Ledbetter, Shamrock, 82; third place: Jackie Wilkerson and Vicki Parker Wellington, 82.

Card play determined all ties.

Event losers ended up winners, as the following merchants donated door prizes: Owens Supply, Parsons Drug, House of Jewelry, Gifts and Flowers, Rosie's Jeans and Things; Lewis Grocery, Pendleton Electric, Wilma's Beauty Box, Sears, Maritta's, Hatch Dry Goods, C&H Pharmacy, Saied's Department Store, Wellington State Bank, City State Bank, Holton Oil, Wellington Florist, Sullivan Hardware, Ben Franklin, Kut and Kurl, His and Her's, Martin Seed and Three's Country.

What would all our local organizations do without our gracious and generous merchants? A whole lot less!

And there are still things going on since this tournament. Another round robin at Canadian and yet another at Clarendon August 1.

And not to forget our own Round Robin Scramble coming up August 7.

This is to take the place of the one in June that had to be cancelled because of weather.

Busy, busy, busy, all summer. So stay tuned.

JUDY FORRESTER

Judy Forrester Given Chamber Sales Award

A committee from the Collingsworth Chamber of Commerce has selected Judy Forbis Forrester as its Salesperson of the Month for July.

Mrs. Forrester is assistant cashier of Wellington State Bank with additional secretarial duties.

This award remained a well-kept secret from the recipient until she was presented the certificate of appreciation.

Charles Darter, president of the Chamber of Commerce, made this presentation.

Born at Hollis, Oklahoma, she is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Eron Forbis of Wellington.

She was married to Jim (Tank) Forrester, also of Wellington, on Nov. 24, 1960.

The couple lives at 1508 Haskell Street with their three children, Al, age 16, Lyndy, 14 and Brenda, 12.

Although much of her life has been in Wellington, there was a period of a number of years when Mrs. Forrester and her husband lived in New Mexico, where he was a teacher and coach.

She attended Dodson elementary school, Wellington High School and Draughon's Business College in Amarillo.

She is active in First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Forrester tells of a good memory she has of awards such as she received during her working hours at Wellington State Bank a few days ago:

"Twenty-four years ago after Tank and I married, and he was attending Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, my first full time job was working for the Chamber of Commerce. They had a similar program there and I presented the award several times--but never expected to receive one myself. Thank you very much," Judy Forrester told Darter.

Funding Information Now Available for Area

For a non-profit agency the job of seeking financial support by means of grant applicaiton is often akin to looking up the spelling of a word in the dictionary without knowing where to begin.

Often times many dollars and needless hours are spent requesting applications and filling out forms only to learn the request has been rejected because it did not meet the guidelines of the funding foundation.

To avoid this waste of time, money and energy a nationwide network of funding reference collections has been established for free public use, one of which is in Amarillo.

Held by the Amarillo Area Foundation, the Funding Information Center is a collection of seven volumes of funding research guides. Included in the collection are current editions of the following publications:

The Foundation Directory, The Foundation Directory Supplement, The Foundation Grants Index, The Foundation Grants Index Bimonthly, Source Book Profiles, The National Data Book, Foundation Fundamentals.

"It is our hope all of the non-profit agencies in Amarillo and throughout the Panhandle will avail themselves of these resources," said Jack Cromartie, executive director of the Area Foundation. "We have an enormous amount of valuable information, including complete lists of every grant made by every private foundation in the nation last year."

Superior grain yields with a good grazing bonus. Excellent straw strength, too!

Our researchers were impressed by the tremendous pasture production and grain yields from these new varieties during testing. And now that the varieties have stood the test of actual production on many farms under many conditions, the proof is in!

They grow off well and show strong resistance to SBMV, leaf rusts, fungal leaf blights, and the Hessian fly.

- New 2157 gives you good, early grazing, then stays with you through the winter. And the grain yields are right up there with anything you care to compare it against. Choose 2157 for dryland or limited water production.
- New 2165 works with your irrigation program to make the most of all you put into the crop. Pasture comes on strong in the fall and grain yields are among the best you'll find, bar none.

Southland Life. We have a Medicare Supplement Insurance Plan to help cover those bills. We supplement your Medicare coverage. In other words:

They pay. You pay.

We pay.

With our Medicare Supplement policy, we help reduce the "You pay" portion. Call or write for details. There's no obligation.
