FIRE FIGHTERS ANNUAL BANQUET

EVENT LAST NIGHT WAS MOST SUCCESSFUL IN HISTORY OF THE ORGANIZATION.

AFTER DINNER ORATORY

I. H. Roberts, Toastmaster—Speeches by Chief Stampfli, Mayor, Judge Rye and Others.

The annual banquet of the Wichita Falls Fire Department, held in their room in the annex to the city hall last evening was perhaps the most successful event of the kind in the history of the organization, both in point of attendance and in the interest manifested by the members and their guests.

The attendance was about 150 and all were well entertained and seemed to enjoy the occasion to the fullest extent. A splendid menu had been provided for the occasion and this was a delightful feature of the evening.

I. H. Roberts acted as toastmaster and performed this usually difficult role in a most pleasing manner, impressing those present with his ability to fill the part to which he had been assigned. He made a most interesting talk and in calling on the different speakers, did so in such a pleasing way as to provide an inspiration for the remarks that were to be made.

The first speaker called was V. E. Stampfli, Chief of the Department, who reviewed the work of the department for the year and also referred to the work of providing and furnishing the new hall, giving in connection therewith an itemized statement of the receipts of the department and the disbursements of same. He referred especially to the hearty cooperation that had been given the department by city officials and public and thanked them for the interest manifested in the work. He also expressed an appreciation for the consideration that had been accorded the boys by the public at large, and for the splendid donations that had been from time to time, both to the regular department fund and for the purpose of furnishing the hall.

Mayor Noble was the next speaker and he made a most excellent talk along the line of encouragement to the members of the department, encouraging them for their unselfish devotion to duty and complimenting them for the splendid record made during the past year in protecting the property interests of the city. The mayor's address was well received by those in attendance.

Following Mayor Noble, Judge Edgar Rye, City Secretary and Recorder, delivered an address that was full of encouragement and good will and such as was calculated to inspire a deeper feeling of interest, if possible, on the part of the members, as well as upon the guests of the occasion.

Alderman-elect Young and Pond both made short talks, pledging their support and encouragement to the department in connection with their work on the city council. Alderman Hickman spoke in his usual humorous and entertaining style, his remarks being received with much enthusiasm by the audience.

The menu provided for the occasion included mince ham sandwiches, salmon salad, boiled eggs, celery, assorted cakes and other delicacies. Strawberry cream and orange punch were served and candy and nuts were provided for the ladies, while the men were treated to fine cigars. The table was handsomely decorated with flowers and each lady was presented with a chrysanthemum.

Decidedly the feature of the evening was the part played by the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Habern,

Married Minute After Bride Became of Age

By Associated Press. Louisville, Ky., April 7.—Oscar Mullins and Miss Bessie Van Hook of Pulaski County, Kentucky, were married at 12:10 a. m. today in Jeffersonville, Indiana, just across the Ohio River from this city, after having waited there since last Monday morning for the girl to reach her eighteenth birthday.

When they first applied for a license they were told it could not be issued without the consent of Miss Van Hook's parents until she became of age. Her fiancé immediately arranged for Miss Van Hook to stay at the home of Magistrate True until today. At one minute past midnight their marriage license was issued and within ten minutes the ceremony was performed.

the mascot of the department. The little fellow was dressed in a full fireman's uniform, being an exact duplicate of that worn by the members of the department, and around him was placed a sash with the lettering "W. F. D. Mascot." The little fellow attracted quite a lot of attention, both on account of his appearance and the pleasing manner in which he carried out the part.

Much favorable comment was unfeigned on account of the splendid appearance of the new hall, which has been fitted up largely through contributions of furniture, furnishings, and the boys can just be proud of this splendid provision for their comfort and convenience. Among those who have contributed to the furnishings are the following: North Texas Furniture Company, rocker; Lee Simmons, three chair and a table; Wichita Planning M. handsome glass book case. In addition to these contributions a committee of ladies contributed three Brsels Art Squares that cost $110, which the department is very proud of. The ladies comprising the committee were Mesdames James Bachm, William Howard Mack Heck, F. Smith, Grover Habern, and E. Stampfli, and Misses Eula Myrtle Hughes. Special contribution for the banquet of last evening was the flowers used, by J. L. Downing a box of 10-cent cigars by Carr Brough-Robertson-Gates.

PASSENGERS TAKEN OFF PRINCESS IRENE

RESCUE OF 1,720 PASSENGERS FROM GROUNDWATER STEAMER IS BEGUN.

ALL WILL BE SAVED

Sea Is Lumpy But Life Savers Are Confident They Will Save All.

By Associated Press. New York, April 7.—Life saving crews were ready this morning to take off the passengers from the stranded Prinzess Irene, which went ashore night before last off Long Island coast with 1,720 passengers aboard.

A breeches buoy connects the steamer with the shore, while 2 life saving crews stand by their boats on shore. Near the Irene, waiting about a fleet of tugs waiting to aid in the transfer of the passengers. A smart northwester made a lumpy sea. The life savers, say however, there is no danger to those aboard the liner. Some played bridge and whilst this morning, others listened to a band concert, while children played about the decks.

The Prinz Friedrich Wilhelm was sent to the Irene's assistance. The passengers are to be transferred to the Wilhelm when the sea moderates sufficiently.

The transhipment of passengers from the Wilhelm began at one o'clock this afternoon when a surf boat carrying ten women headed for the relief ship. The women went into a boat down the ladder on the Irene's lee side. The Irene looked like a big black spider in a web owing to the many lines radiating from her to the tugs trying to pull her off.

The scene of the grounding is about ten miles east of Fire Island. The vessel lies 1,000 feet from the beach on the treacherous sand spit which skirts Long Island.

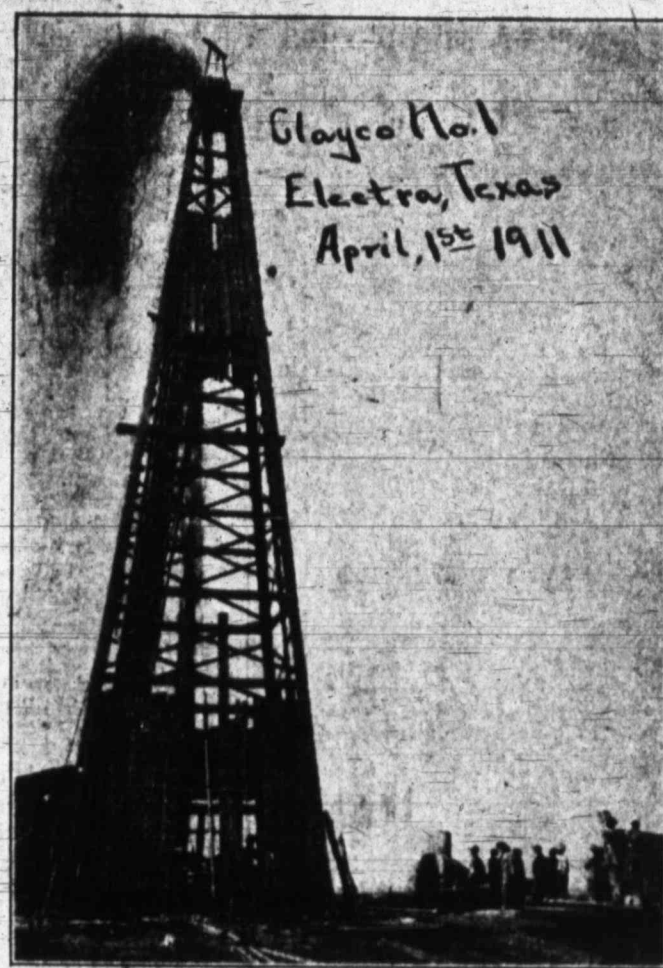

Sweeping in carefully in the murky weather, the Prinzess Irene did not strike hard and few of her passengers, 235 of whom are in the cabin, realized what had happened until they arose for breakfast. Although two-thirds of them are Italian and Greek immigrants unable to understand the assurances of the officers they are reasonably calm.

Colorado City Is Dry. By Associated Press. The official count will be made today and the "drys" declare they will carry the matter to the courts in the event that the count does not show a "dry" victory.

WICHITA COUNTY'S FIRST OIL GUSHER.

Five tank cars of oil from Clayco well number 1 were shipped from Electra last night, they being the first shipment from this well. A telephone message from Electra this morning says the well continues to flow more than 400 barrels of oil daily and it is expected that the flow will be much stronger when the well is fully opened.

The Producers' Oil Company is now erecting a rig about ninety rods distant from the Clayco well and will sink a well at once. Officials of the Electra Oil Company who reside in Indiana, are expected at Electra tomorrow and drilling will start at once.

The cut shown above is reproduced through the courtesy of the Electra News. The following excerpt is taken from the write-up of the opening of the gusher printed in this week's issue of the News:

"The Texas and Producers' Companies have at present a little cluster of ten derricks located on the Bywaters, Waggoner and Rogers leases about two miles west of Electra and from one to one and one-half miles southwest of the Clayco No. 1. The Texas Company brought in their first well November 14, 1909, and since then work has been continuous; they have spent many hundred thousands of dollars in developing and in building to handle the oil business."

"Credit for the new gusher should be given F. D. Woodruff, our prominent and ever progressive citizen who was farsighted enough to see that extensive development was necessary to promote the oil business and bring out the limits of the field and by his liberal lease the Clayco people were willing to spend some money to help find the extent of the field; a contract was made for immediate drilling and without a bonus, and October 7, 1910, the rig was completed and drilling commenced. It took about six months to bring in this well, as much rock and hard drilling was encountered and some bad luck in twisting off pipe nearly caused the loss of the hole.

"The oil is said to be 45 gravity and is the finest grade of green oil the writer has ever seen in the southern oil fields.

"The well was drilled to a depth of 1630 feet when the bit became clogged and caused them to pull out. This was done early Friday morning and upon cleaning the hole of the tools, a gas blow-out followed which looked so good that it was decided to bale the hole and make a test. It was about ten o'clock Friday night when the hole was baled enough to allow the gas pressure to begin to blow out the mud and clean the hole.

By Saturday morning the well had practically cleaned itself of mud and had settled down to gushing pure oil, free of sand and water.

"Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning Field Manager Denison put a force of men to work on a temporary pipe line and loading rack as several thousand barrels of high grade oil was about to break over the dams and a heavy rain would have meant the loss of the entire output, an emergency two inch line was laid to the stock yard switch here five tank cars were loaded out Wednesday afternoon.

"Storage tanks have arrived and are being rushed to their location and before a week's time has lapsed the well will be turned into large storage tanks. The gas pressure is so great that the gate valve cannot be closed without danger of blowing out about 1250 feet of six inch casing and the well is still without a liner or packer and over 300 feet of open hole. It is impossible to estimate the capacity of the well until it is completed, but estimates are placed from 500 barrels a day up."

Practical Joke Has Fatal Ending.

By Associated Press. Chicago, Ill., April 7.—The combination of a bed spring and a practical joker yesterday brought about the death of James Jurek, a 17 year old boy. Leo Totelek, the joker, who is 20 years of age, is in jail.

Totelek picked up an unframed bed spring and handing one end of it to Jurek, remarked: "Let's pull this thing and see how far it will stretch." Jurek pulled and pulled. Finally the united strength of the two young men had the wire stretched almost taut, when Totelek conceived the notion that it would be a fine joke to let his end go. The freed end of the spring flew back at Jurek with terrific force and struck him on the head. He fell like a log, with a fractured skull.

Sheriff Jiwright denies this and has retained lawyers to defend him.

NOTED INDIAN SCOUT TELLS OF LITTLE BIG HORN AND CUSTER

CAPTAIN GEORGE BARLETT RECOUNTS THRILLING EXPERIENCES OF PERILOUS DAYS OF THE GREAT WEST OF WHAT HAPPENED YESTERDAY.

El Paso, Texas, April 7.—Capt. George E. Barlett, the once noted government scout, deputy United States marshal and Indian fighter, was in El Paso a few days ago, having come here from his home at Los Angeles. Capt. Barlett is known as the best shot in the country and has in his possession many medals and trophies which he has captured throughout the country as the result of his fancy pistol and rifle shooting.

The former scout is well known all over the country and has gained much fame as the original "Wounded Knee" a name given him by the Sioux Indians in South Dakota in the early eighties. It was he who owned the trading post near the scene of the great Indian battles of Wounded Knee and it was he who carried the tidings of the fight to headquarters after more than 400 Indians had been killed by United States troops near his home.

The sobriquet of "Wounded Knee" was given him by the Indians on account of a wound in his right knee received in a battle with horse thieves near the Rosebud reservation in Dakota. It was at the time that he led a posse of six men against a band of horse thieves consisting of seven of the toughest characters who were ever in that part of the country.

During the fight a horse which was ridden by Barlett dropped with a bullet through its brain. In falling the animal reared and succeeded in throwing the scout to the frozen earth where he alighted on his right knee breaking the knee cap. From the injury he has never completely recovered and to this day walks with a decided limp. The end of the fight witnessed six dead thieves and the seventh in a critical condition from wounds inflicted by Barlett. The wounded man was later hanged by an excited mob after he was taken from what was probably his death bed.

Barlett then bought a piece of ground near the Pine Ridge agency and built a trading post which was christened Wounded Knee after the owner. It was only a short distance from this spot that in 1890, was fought the famous battle of Wounded Knee or rather as the captain says, "was conducted the horrible massacre called a battle. The end came only when more than 400 Indians had been killed about half of whom were squaws and children.

According to the story of Barlett, the Sioux had left the agency and was starting out on a raiding expedition when they were cornered at the trading post by about 300 American soldiers. Most of the Indians were disarmed by the troops who had formed in a horseshoe about them. While this was going on a young buck who was in the corner of the mass of Indians fired his rifle into the air and threw a handful of dirt above the heads of his companions.

This was the beginning of the massacre. Without waiting to ascertain the trouble, the troops poured a deadly fire into the midst of the Indians and several rapid fire guns were opened on them. A great many of the red men seeing that there was no chance of escape, wrapped themselves in their blankets and steadily awaited death.

A few, however, succeeded in wresting weapons from the soldiers and replied to the fire. The majority of the soldiers killed are said by Capt. Barlett to have been shot by their own comrades on the other side of the "smoke circle" and fell in the cross fire to which they were subjected. A party of Indians made a rush to escape and succeeded in breaking through the lines but were immediately mown down by the fire of the machine guns directed on them as they sought to attain the crest of a nearby hill.

When the smoke had cleared away about 400 Indians immediately dug a trench and buried the fallen warriors. Five Indian squaws who escaped to the top of the hill were pursued by the troops and shot after they had covered their faces with their blankets.

It was underneath one of their bodies two days later that Capt. Barlett found a baby about a year old which was still alive. The child was brought to the trading post and later given to Gen. Colby and his wife who had requested it. The baby who was a girl was christened Lost Bird and was tenderly reared by the general and his wife and is now a beautiful Indian maiden who is very popular with the surviving members of her tribe.

There have been many versions of the death of Gen. Custer and the battle of Little Big Horn, and many imaginary pictures have been painted portraying the scene but none of them agree with the version as given by Capt. Barlett and he obtained his information directly from the warriors who committed the deed. Barlett as well as a great number of the Indians believe that the famous scout and fighter died by his own hand after his comrades had been all slain.

Barlett was reared with the Indians and talks the Sioux tongue as well as any of the warriors, having learned it at the same time when he was learning English. He has attended many of their dances and is an authority on their customs. He has heard the story of the death of Custer as chanted by the warriors at their pow waws and he says the massacre of the Indians at Wounded Knee was the terrible revenge the soldiers took for the Custer massacre.

The Indian version is that before the battle Custer cut from his head the long golden curls which were known to every Indian in that part of the country. At the beginning of the fight the troops moved up the river opposite the Indian village and fired across into the tree tops. To their surprise they were answered by a deadly fire and were forced to retreat toward ravines on the side of hills nearby.

When they had gotten within a short distance of the supposed places of refuge they were met by a withering fire from members of the tribe who were concealed there. They were then unable to either advance or retreat and many of them, laid down and fired until their ammunition was gone and they were massacred.

Just as the battle came to an end a soldier mounted on a large horse made a dash for life and succeeded in escaping through the lines of Indians surrounding him. Many of the redmen took up the chase but so fleet was the animal on which the man was mounted that they were unable to overtake him. Later he was found near the bank of the river with a bullet hole through his head. Self-inflicted was the story of the Indians and that man they say was Custer.

KEEP IN TOUCH WITH THE NEWSPAPER MEN

By Associated Press. Cambridge, Mass., April 7.—"Keep in touch with the newspaper men," is the advice of the Rev. C. F. Rehner, a New York pastor, who is chief speaker at the New England conference of Methodist churches in session here this week.

"It is a great mistake for some clergymen to keep aloof from newspaper men and refuse to be interviewed," said Dr. Rehner. "Everybody reads the newspapers and if you want to get your interests before the public, you must advertise in this important agency. They will always treat you fairly if you give them reason for doing so. I never could get a congregation in my church did I not get the newspapers on my side."

Very Few Actual Workers Taking Advantage of This Glorious Opportunity.

Promptly at 10 o'clock tomorrow evening the first voting period in THE TIMES' great prize giving contest will end. In order to put all contestants on an even footing and in order to permit them to work for subscriptions up to the last possible moment of this period, we will include any money and subscriptions that are deposited in your postoffice before 10 o'clock tomorrow night in this period. It almost has the appearance as though every contestant expected some one else to win the grand prize.

There are fewer actual workers in this contest than we have ever seen or heard of being in a contest before, where such a high-class list of prizes were offered. It has been hard enough work getting the few already entered, and now they have done it, the majority are quite content with the votes they received on account of the nomination and the ten vote coupons clipped from THE TIMES.

If the work so far done during this period may be taken as a criterion there will be very little, indeed, done during the second and third.

At the present writing our prizes are anybody's and it behooves you to get busy and make one of them yours. Do you best before 10 o'clock tomorrow night. Bring in every possible subscription. If unable to come in person, drop what you have in the postoffice and they will be taken care of for you upon their receipt.

In addition to its being included on the Extra-Prize offer you secure the first period scale of votes. It may be that what you do tomorrow will win either the $10 or $5 for you and at the same time you advance your standing for the original prize of your choice. Remember that there is no chance of any one buying a single vote.

The only way in which they can be obtained is by securing and turning in business for THE TIMES and by clipping coupons from your daily paper. You have an equal show with every else, that is, if you care to have. But you must secure the business in order to get the votes.

It is little enough consideration, we think to ask for such a magnificent array of prizes, but we have no fear that you will not be repaid many fold if we can prevail on you to do a little work each day for THE TIMES. It is for you to decide if you want to be a winner April 29th. If you do not, some one else most likely will, then you will regret it when the final count is made.

Look over our outside districts and you will notice that several large towns in our territory have not a single contestant entered, or if they have they are not interested enough to clip out the ten vote coupons.

If you have a friend living in some of the towns where nothing is being done—a friend whom you would like to see win one of our prizes—send in a nomination for her or him immediately, and then drop your nominee a few lines telling what you have done, and advising her or him to get to work and win.

If any one of our contestants is in doubt as to the standing of any subscriber by phoning to the office we shall be pleased to advise you correctly just now—any certain subscription stands, as it often happens that the subscribers are in doubt themselves, as to how far they are paid for.

There are a lot of people in this world today who can never amount to anything for the simple reason that they are not sufficiently aggressive. Instead of determinedly going after whatever they want they sit and wait for it to come to them.

Other than what we receive from dead relations very little is got that we do not have to go after these days. Those who sit down and wait for dead men's shoes are the ones to suffer for it, and it is nothing but justice that they should. Don't be one of these people; get off on one side of the fence or the other and strike out for yourself. You'll like it after you have had a taste of it.

FOR A SMALL EFFORT.

Contestants should remember these facts. In each of the three districts THE TIMES will give absolutely free one $50.00 award, one $25.00 award, one $10.00 award and one $5.00 award. Then there are the two Grand Awards, $500.00 and $250.00, respectively. All that is necessary to win is to receive the largest number of votes, according to the conditions in THE TIMES.

GET FULL INFORMATION.

If there is one single point in connection with this contest that you do not understand get in communication with the Contest Manager at once, either by phone, 167, or by mail, and have your doubtful points cleared at once. Then when you clearly understand everything lose no time in getting started.

BACK PAYMENTS COUNT.

Subscribers to THE TIMES who are in arrears on their subscription account and who pay up the same are entitled to votes according to the amount paid. When you pay up your subscriptions be sure and secure the votes to which you are entitled, because it will be impossible for us to allow them afterwards; they must be secured at the time payment is made. And remember that no votes can be allowed on a subscription for less than three months to THE DAILY TIMES or one year to THE WEEKLY TIMES.

HOW VOTES ARE SECURED.

Votes are secured by subscribing to THE DAILY or WEEKLY TIMES, or by purchasing a Classified Advertising Book. These ballots can be held and voted later in the contest by the person holding them, but the daily coupon clipped from THE TIMES are only good for one week from date of publication and will not be counted if voted after the vote date printed upon them expires.

HOW TO WIN.

Any resident in the three districts mentioned in our double-page announcement, who desire to compete in this great contest and win one of the valuable awards offered, should at once see that their names are sent to the Contest Manager. Those who get in on the start have the best chance of winning, so it is desirable that the names be entered at once. Candidates who enter do not necessarily have to subscribe to THE TIMES. Enter your name and your friends will assist you to do the rest. Should there be a tie for any one of the prizes offered the same will be divided equally between those so tying. The time is short, as the contest will end April 29th. There is no lottery attached to it in any way, you must get the votes to win. There is no lucky number or element of chance connected with it, and you will never know how popular you are until you enter a contest of this kind.

CHAIRMAN WOLTERS REPLIES TO CRITICISM OF THE TIMES.

Dallas, Tex., April 6, 1911.—Editor Wichita Daily Times, Wichita Falls, Texas: Dear Sir:—
In your issue of April 1st appears an editorial under the title, "The Police Records of Two Cities Compared." You quote from a statement sent to the Anti-Statewide Prohibition Organization headquarters the number of cases in the police courts of Houston during the year 1910, on the charge of drunkenness, abusive language, and assault, which for the year 1910, amounted to 1,328 cases. Then you say: "Is there any intelligent, fair-minded man in Wichita Falls, or in Texas, for that matter who can believe for one moment that the figures given by Mr. Hulien have not been made to fit his cause?" Further on you use this language: "In conclusion, the Times will say that it will always be glad to give a reasonable amount of space to the discussion of both sides of this question, but only wants the facts."
Your criticism, of course, is a very serious reflection upon the integrity of the men who gave out this statement from the Anti-Statewide Prohibition Organization headquarters; and if you are correct, such statements would, and should, discredit them in the eyes of the people of Texas. However, the findings to which you referred have not been made to fit our cause.

Herein I append a certificate signed by B. F. Frederick, Clerk of the Corporation Court of the City of Houston, certifying to the correctness of the figures given out by this organization. The only difference between the figures given out, to which you refer, and the certificate of the Clerk is that the Clerk includes the months of January and February, 1911, under a separate paragraph.

I hardly presume there will be any further doubt in your mind as to the correctness of these figures, but, in order to evidence good faith, I make this proposition: Let the Editor of the Times select any minister in good standing, (that is, any minister now in charge of a church of any denomination in the city of Wichita Falls) send him to Houston to examine the police records; and if the figures, as given in the certificate of the Clerk of the Corporation Court, are not correct, I will pay the expenses of this minister from Wichita Falls to Houston and return, and his expenses while in Houston; and in addition, I will donate the sum of $100.00 to any charity in the City of Wichita Falls which the editor of the Times may designate.

I wish to add, in addition, that it is due the city of Houston to say that it is probably the best policed city in the South. That city, by ordinance drawn under its charter, regulated the hours of closing saloons even before the Legislature of Texas enacted the Baskin-McGregor law, and under the administration of Hon. H. Baldwin Rice, as mayor, with the commission form of government, all the laws relating to the liquor traffic have been rigidly enforced, as are other laws. The people of that great city stand for temperance and good order, but the vast majority of them are opposed to Statewide prohibition, for the very reason that they are convinced that in their city it is better to maintain the regulated licensed saloon in relaxation to the liquor traffic than to experiment with statewide prohibition, which in other states and cities has always proven to be a failure, in that it developed a system of illegal, unregulated liquor traffic.

I am sure that your sense of fairness will prompt you to give this letter the same space and prominence in your columns, as well as the certificate of the corporation court clerk hereto attached, that you gave to your editorial criticizing these figures.

Yours truly,
J. F. WOLTERS,
Chairman Executive Committee, Anti-Statewide Prohibition Organization of Texas.

The records of the police department of the city of Houston for arrests for drunkenness, abusive language, and assault, which for the year 1910, amounted to 1,328 cases.

B. F. FREDERICK,
Clerk Corporation Court.

The editorial referred to above was written in reply to an attack made on a statement made by Dr. Gambrell of Dallas to the effect and in substance that the average number of cases in both the police and justice courts of Houston was 448 per month. In seeking to refute the statement of Dr. Gambrell, Secretary Hulien did not get the records of the justice courts, but only had the police court records "certified" to by the Clerk of the Corporation Court, and with only this Mr. Hulien is apparently seeking to place Dr. Gambrell in the light of a falsifier.

It was this part of his communication which the Times attempted and is still endeavoring to call the attention of all fair-minded people, whether pro or anti, and the Times sincerely trusts that Mr. Wolters, as chairman of the Anti-Statewide Prohibition Organization of Texas, will yet be made to see that no reputable paper can afford to accept for publication communications that are not based on facts, especially when such communications reflect seriously on the honor and reputation of a man whose reputation for truth and veracity has never been successfully questioned. Had Mr. Hulien wanted to reply to the statement, as made by Dr. Gambrell, he should have procured the records of the justice courts in Houston as well as that of the Corporation Court, and when he does this, the Times will accept it for publication. And if such records are properly authenticated, not merely "certified" to, it will then acknowledge that Dr. Gambrell, in making the statement that the average number of cases in the police and justice courts were 448 per month, was made without thorough investigation, and was therefore misleading. But until he does this, the Times must conclude that Mr. Hulien has deliberately attempted to mislead and deceive the people of Texas.

WHY GOV. COLQUITT VETOED THE EIGHT-HOUR LAW.

Since Gov. Colquitt's veto of the "eight hour" measure has caused considerable criticism from union men in Wichita Falls the Times reproduces a letter written by the Governor to W. S. Berry of Dallas explaining why he vetoed the measure.

The Austin Statesman says: "The contention of Harry M. White that the Governor's veto was invalid because the twenty days allowed him had expired before the bill was vetoed was not brought up yesterday. While it had been supposed that the matter would be referred to Attorney General Lightfoot by someone for an opinion, he insisted that no question as to the validity of the veto had been asked him."

F. A. Williams, formerly Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, who has just retired, believes that Governor Colquitt is right in his position that the twenty days allowed the Governor to veto bills after the adjournment of the Legislature is exclusive of Sundays. He thinks the "except Sunday" provision is read into the twenty day provision as well as into other provisions of the clause of the Constitution.

Gov. Colquitt's letter to Mr. Berry follows:

April 5, 1911.
Mr. U. S. Berry, box 790, Dallas, Tex.
Dear Sir:—I acknowledge your letter of April 2, which was in reply to mine of March 31.
I discussed the so-called eight-hour bill with Mr. Starling, the labor Commissioner. The bill as it came to me contained no provision whereby a contractor would be permitted by agreement with employees in cases of emergency to utilize their services over eight hours per day by paying extra compensation for extra work.

Mr. Starling furnished me extracts from statutes in other States similar to the one I vetoed last Saturday. The statute in Indiana contains the following proviso:
"But over work for extra compensation by agreement between employer and employee is hereby permitted."

The Kansas statute contains the following proviso:
"Provided that in all such cases the laborers, workmen, mechanics or other persons so employed and working to exceed eight hours per calendar day shall be paid on the basis of eight hours constituting a day's work."

The bill passed by the Texas Legislature evidently was intended to unconditionally prohibit contractors from employing their laborers overtime at extra compensation. Mr. Starling advised me that similar statutes in all other States having a like enactment contained provisos like those I have quoted from the Indiana and Kansas statutes. I infer, however, from the following extract from your letter of April 2 that it was the intention to prohibit, unqualifiedly, contractors from employing laborers overtime with extra pay. The expression in your letter to which I refer reads as follows:

"The Dallas News of today makes you say if the bill would prevent freedom of contract between employer and employee, and prohibit the employment of able-bodied men whose families might need the extra earnings. Until we fall on some plan to reduce the number of wage-earners, we must shorten the hours of labor in order to give employment to all."

This language seems to indicate that the bill was intended to do the thing which is said, to wit: Prohibit all contractors engaged in erecting public buildings for the State, for any county, for any city or for any school district for allowing a laborer to work over eight hours per day, even though said laborer was paid for the extra time and was willing to perform the services. This being the evident purpose of the bill, or the unavoidable effects of it, was the reason which impelled me to veto it. Had there been a clause in the measure which would have left the right of contract between the employer and the employee, as in the statutes of other States, allowing over work for extra pay, under conditions of public necessity, I would have been glad to have given the bill my approval. Yours truly,
O. B. COLQUITT,
Governor.

The reasons given by Gov. Colquitt are, in the humble judgment of the Times, perfectly justifiable. It is ridiculous to think that an employer of labor cannot be permitted to work his employees for more than eight hours per day, provided he is willing to pay for the extra or overtime work at an increased scale, and the employee is willing to do the work, and is really anxious to get in the overtime because he feels able to do it, and perhaps the needs of himself or those dependent on him for support require that he shall manage to earn a few dollars over and above his regular time. As is nearly always the case, employers of labor much prefer to give all the work to regular employees that is possible, even if they are required to pay a higher rate for

Since Gov. Colquitt's veto of the "eight hour" measure has caused considerable criticism from union men in Wichita Falls the Times reproduces a letter written by the Governor to W. S. Berry of Dallas explaining why he vetoed the measure.

The Austin Statesman says: "The contention of Harry M. White that the Governor's veto was invalid because the twenty days allowed him had expired before the bill was vetoed was not brought up yesterday. While it had been supposed that the matter would be referred to Attorney General Lightfoot by someone for an opinion, he insisted that no question as to the validity of the veto had been asked him."

F. A. Williams, formerly Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, who has just retired, believes that Governor Colquitt is right in his position that the twenty days allowed the Governor to veto bills after the adjournment of the Legislature is exclusive of Sundays. He thinks the "except Sunday" provision is read into the twenty day provision as well as into other provisions of the clause of the Constitution.

Gov. Colquitt's letter to Mr. Berry follows:
April 5, 1911.
Mr. U. S. Berry, box 790, Dallas, Tex.
Dear Sir:—I acknowledge your letter of April 2, which was in reply to mine of March 31.
I discussed the so-called eight-hour bill with Mr. Starling, the labor Commissioner. The bill as it came to me contained no provision whereby a contractor would be permitted by agreement with employees in cases of emergency to utilize their services over eight hours per day by paying extra compensation for extra work.

Mr. Starling furnished me extracts from statutes in other States similar to the one I vetoed last Saturday. The statute in Indiana contains the following proviso:
"But over work for extra compensation by agreement between employer and employee is hereby permitted."

The Kansas statute contains the following proviso:
"Provided that in all such cases the laborers, workmen, mechanics or other persons so employed and working to exceed eight hours per calendar day shall be paid on the basis of eight hours constituting a day's work."

The bill passed by the Texas Legislature evidently was intended to unconditionally prohibit contractors from employing their laborers overtime at extra compensation. Mr. Starling advised me that similar statutes in all other States having a like enactment contained provisos like those I have quoted from the Indiana and Kansas statutes. I infer, however, from the following extract from your letter of April 2 that it was the intention to prohibit, unqualifiedly, contractors from employing laborers overtime with extra pay. The expression in your letter to which I refer reads as follows:

"The Dallas News of today makes you say if the bill would prevent freedom of contract between employer and employee, and prohibit the employment of able-bodied men whose families might need the extra earnings. Until we fall on some plan to reduce the number of wage-earners, we must shorten the hours of labor in order to give employment to all."

This language seems to indicate that the bill was intended to do the thing which is said, to wit: Prohibit all contractors engaged in erecting public buildings for the State, for any county, for any city or for any school district for allowing a laborer to work over eight hours per day, even though said laborer was paid for the extra time and was willing to perform the services. This being the evident purpose of the bill, or the unavoidable effects of it, was the reason which impelled me to veto it. Had there been a clause in the measure which would have left the right of contract between the employer and the employee, as in the statutes of other States, allowing over work for extra pay, under conditions of public necessity, I would have been glad to have given the bill my approval. Yours truly,
O. B. COLQUITT,
Governor.

The reasons given by Gov. Colquitt are, in the humble judgment of the Times, perfectly justifiable. It is ridiculous to think that an employer of labor cannot be permitted to work his employees for more than eight hours per day, provided he is willing to pay for the extra or overtime work at an increased scale, and the employee is willing to do the work, and is really anxious to get in the overtime because he feels able to do it, and perhaps the needs of himself or those dependent on him for support require that he shall manage to earn a few dollars over and above his regular time. As is nearly always the case, employers of labor much prefer to give all the work to regular employees that is possible, even if they are required to pay a higher rate for

As is nearly always the case, employers of labor much prefer to give all the work to regular employees that is possible, even if they are required to pay a higher rate for the overtime work. This is but natural, and to a great degree shows that the employer has confidence in his employees, and is desirous that they should enjoy to the fullest extent the fruits of the business which they, as regular employees, have by their efforts, made a success. Had those who are now condemning Gov. Colquitt for his action made it so that an employee could not be required to work more than eight hours unless he so desired, and should receive for his over-time work the increase or the scale of wage called for, their criticism of Gov. Colquitt might meet with favor among fair-minded men, but to say that a man cannot work overtime to better his condition and the conditions of those dependent upon him for support, is ridiculous.

An Arkansas father recently sent his son to a big university, and gave him the following letter addressed to the president: "Dr. Blank: I want my son to take an A. B. course. I should like to have him attend the chapel exercises regularly. I want to know that he attends his classes. You need not fear he will overwork himself, for he is a perfectly healthy and normal boy. He is fully versed in baseball, football, wrestling, boxing and rowing, and I prefer that he receive no further instruction in these branches of higher education. I do not think it necessary to have the professors explain the Bible as a fable, the Son of God a myth and the miracles of the New Testament as folk lore. I prefer that he retain his self respect and his faith in his mother's Savior. Do not seek to shield him from rough usage. If the boys want to initiate him into the mysteries of class riots and hazing, do not prevent. He is provided with brass knuckles, an eight-inch dirk and an automatic revolver. He can split an inch board with his bare knuckles, shoot off a squirrel's head at forty steps and has licked two Irish section hands at one time in a fair fist fight. I don't think you need fear about his digestion, for he is accustomed to light or heavy diet, can eat five times a day or fast five days without injury to his constitution. Just see that he reports for duty and does not shirk his work. He will do the rest.—Bonham News.

This company, only recently located here, is a live, wide-awake firm and will no doubt build up a large business in this city. Mr. Simmons has not as yet announced the business in which he will engage, but stated that he will likely spend some time out of business, further than looking after collections on account of his former business.

Wichita Falls is just completing the job of raising a stock subscription of $200,000 to supplement a like amount put up by outside interests for the establishment of a cotton factory. Kemp and Kell subscribed $100,000, which helped some. Wichita has not been slow in her effort to locate factories. Materials are now being shipped in for a $100,000 automobile factory. No small inducement for the location of these enterprises is the cheap gas which is piped into the city from Petrolia fields. What ever has been the main cause of our neighbor's success, she has succeeded. However, much all neighboring towns envy for this success is impossible that all may attain to her commercial importance. It is not possible for men to achieve what the world calls greatness. Let each individual and each town strive to develop their possibilities to the greatest possible extent along lines of the right ideals, and true success will follow, no matter if the world does not call you great.—Baylor County Banner.

GOVERNOR WILSON OF NEW JERSEY FLAYS G. O. P. AND "INTERESTS."

NOTES AN AWAKENING

Thinks The People Are Aroused and That They Will Demand a Square Deal.

Burlington, N. J., April 7.—Governor Woodrow Wilson, speaking to the toast "The state of New Jersey," at the democratic dinner here said it was against the theory of government by "superior people" that the "great reaction" had set in.

New Jersey had waked up to this, he said, "waked up to the reconstruction necessary to revive and reconstitute our democracy and put our institutions once more on the footing of their original conception and inspiration."

The country had supposed New Jersey, devoted to "the service of interests, of the big business, irrespective of the interests of humanity," he continued, "and it was taken for granted that she was too completely controlled by the great combinations of capital to follow the impulse of the change which is now everywhere else abroad. But the country had been mistaken."

The tariff he characterized as "The Chief ambush of special privilege," and declared that the interests had sought to control legislation, partly of fundamental distrust of popular government.

He brought to mind the persistent rumors current; some time ago that there was danger of establishing a monarchy in this country. However, foolish the idea was, it was hailed by some he said, with unconcealed satisfaction.

"Under the demoralizing influence of such policies as are embodied in the high protective tariff, this has become in fact the theory of the republican party. The 'superior people' the people of large business, and of large experience must, in their view, determine the policy of their country for the policy of their country is their first inspiration and founded their once more upon absolute confidence in the people as their own masters and arbiters."

"It is against this theory that the great reaction has set in. The first victories for the people have won; victory after victory will follow these first successes until we have again carried our instructions back to their first inspiration and founded them once more upon absolute confidence in the people as their own masters and arbiters."

Along Non-Partisan Lines.

Chicago, Ill., April 7.—Plans for the organization for the new city council along non-partisan lines were perfected yesterday when the committee on committees represented 54 members of the new council met at the City Hall and agreed to proceed to do the work of arranging the committee appointments this week.

The committee will go to Hot Springs, Arkansas, for its deliberations, leaving the city tomorrow. The number of aldermanic changes will make the work of the committee more difficult than in recent years. Mayor-elect Carter H. Harrison let it be known that, while he would not interfere with the non-partisan organization of the council, he wanted the chairman of the committees, which will have charge of carrying out the administration policies to be men in harmony with his plans for the civic improvement of Chicago.

EIGHT HUNDRED PITCHERS IN ONE COLLECTION

Samples of Handwork of Nearly Every Nation Is in This Interesting Lot.

The Kansas City Star of March 26 has an interesting article concerning a collection of eight hundred pitchers owned by Mrs. R. W. Mathis. Mr. Mathis is now in Denison, connected with the bridge and building department of the city.

Pitchers to the number of something over eight hundred compose the collection which Mrs. R. W. Mathis of Parsons, Kas., has been gathering for nearly fifteen years. There are no two pitchers alike, and they range in size from one-fourth inch to fourteen inches in height. There are pitchers from every country on the globe and of every kind of ware; they range in price from a penny to $200. It is a pleasant trip to take with Mrs. Mathis as she shows her treasures and tells where they came from. The most have been given her by friends who knew of her fond for the entire collection started in a friendly jest and with a small 10 cent pitcher. She has not confined herself to historic pitchers, but rather wished her collection to represent the different wares and ideas of different nations.

About the most interesting is the baby pitcher, a perfectly formed pitcher only one-fourth of an inch high, from Old Mexico. This is of the Mexican ware and is so tiny that it sits on a bed of cotton in a glass case. By the side is another of the same ware only one inch in height. Another Mexican pitcher is a double pitcher, on which are the arms and legs of Old Mexico. An oddity from Senora, Mexico, is one of the black and white glaze ware in the shape of the Mexican god. The largest pitcher in the collection is a fourteen inch Egyptian piece with figures and emblems, which is the real thing.

Judging from the amount of money in it, a gran pitcher five inches high is the most expensive. It has on the bottom the following: "Made of United States banknotes manufactured at the United States Treasury, containing $5,000." But there are others of more real worth and novelty than this. A very valuable one given Mrs. Mathis by Senator Porter and wife of Canon Kan. 7/8 of silver and from London. On the side of it the coat of arms of England, raised and richly engraved. The oldest pitcher in the collection is 200 years old and is the old time lustre ware which was a lost art until recently. A pitcher from Japan is adorned with a serpent which also forms the handle. Another is of the Japanese take wood and retains its odor. Australia is represented by a face pitcher. England has several representatives among the pitcher clan—one unique and very old has the sentence, "Stracht Fre the Coo"—straight from the cow. A miniature pitcher of the royal ware of 1734 is another English treasure. British Columbia is represented with its coat of arms on a small pitcher. France is represented by one from Paris, which is small but unique. It represents a champagne cork with the tinfoil and cord and brand, "Veuve Pommeroy" on. One with Napoleon's picture is also from Paris. The pitchers from Germany are all fine—and as the Germans like words on their ware, there are some original ones. A tiny one only an inch and a half high has the picture of Kriss Kringle and the words "A handsome hostess, a pot of ale, merry host and now a toast" beautifully done. Another has "Sorgen Mergen Fremunde Heute." The pitcher from Denmark looks like iron, but is in fact very light.

Mrs. Mathis has many beautiful samples of the Austrian ware, one from Carlsbad being particularly fine. It is only three inches high but has an exquisite picture of a monk with glass uplifted. Scotland's contribution is like itself, rugged and strong. A pitcher from Holland is over a century old. A Chinese pitcher is from "King Joy Lo's restaurant" in New York. The different wares of our own country are well represented. There are pitchers from several tribes of Indians—Navajo, Pueblo, etc. Then there are two dainty specimens of Rookwood. Wood pitchers also are found, the most historical being whitened from a piece of a tree by a boy whose grandmother planted the tree in Joliet, Ill., over sixty years ago—one of the first trees on the townsite. One from California is of orange wood.

MONEY ON EGGS

The "Water Glass" Solution a Cheap but Very Efficient Preservative.

Manhattan, Kan., April 6.—Why pay anywhere from thirty to fifty cents a dozen for eggs next winter when, by laying in a supply now, they can be had at from fifteen to twenty cents a dozen and the slight trouble is that is necessary to preserve them? The eggs can be kept by putting them in the "water glass" solution and nobody can tell them from the strictly fresh product.

Eggs stored in the "water glass" solution at the Kansas State Agricultural College last August, when the weather was very warm, were used last month, and none who ate them was able to distinguish between them and fresh eggs.

Now is the Time to Gather Eggs. March, April and May are the best months in which to preserve eggs. Most of the cold storage eggs are gathered in April, but "water glass" eggs can be preserved in any month. It is the best method for the farmer or housewife who desires to keep forty or sixty dozen through the winter. Here is the secret described by V. S. Jacoby of the poultry department at the agricultural college:

The receptacle used should be either wood or stone. A 10-gallon earthenware jar will hold about thirty-three dozen eggs. Place the eggs in the vessel the day they are gathered. The fresher the egg the better it will keep. Be careful not to crack any of the eggs in placing them in the jar, as they will spoil and cause trouble. Use only clean, unwashed eggs. There is a thin coating on the outside of the egg which aids in sealing the pores of the shell. When the egg is washed this coating is removed.

With one or two dozen eggs as a beginning, the water glass solution may be prepared. Take nine gallons of boiled water and add to it one gallon of water glass. After the mixture is cool it may be poured over the eggs. Use enough liquid to cover the eggs. From day to day more eggs may be added and also a sufficient quantity of the liquid to keep them submerged. The eggs should not float. When the jar is full the liquid should be one-half an inch above the top of the last egg. Place a large plate or a round wooden board over the eggs so as to keep them submerged.

Salt and Lime Unsatisfactory. The practice of preserving eggs in salt is quite common. The one objection to this method is that the contents of the egg evaporate and they causes it to lose its flavor. Lime water has been used to some extent, but limed eggs have a flavor which is easily detected and quite objectionable.

RISK IN MODERN

Fifteenth Annual Meeting of American Academy of Political and Social Science.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 7.—The fifteenth annual meeting of the American Academy of Political and Social Science began in Witherspoon hall today. This year's meeting is devoted to the consideration of "Risks in Modern Industry," and more than the usual number of distinguished Americans will make addresses at the several sessions.

The initial session this afternoon began with a discussion of the topic
"Industrial Insurance and Retiring Allowances." The speakers were E.
Spencer Baldwin, Edwin W. DeLeon and A. M. Landis. The prevention of industrial accidents also was considered. Among the speakers heard on this subject were Miss Mabel T.
Boardman of Washington and Mrs.
Florence Kelley, representing the National Consumers' League.

Tomorrow's sessions will be devoted to the consideration of the topic, "Defects in Our Present Liability Laws," and the speakers will be P. T. Tamm Sherman, Talcott Williams, Miles M.
Dawson, Joseph P. Cotton and Walter S. Nicholls. Other speakers will discuss the subject of "Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation."
The final session tomorrow night will be given over to the subject, "Industrial Progress in Legislation with Reference to Employers' Liability and Workmen's Compensation." The speakers will be Austin L. Crothers, John Mitchell and United States Commissioner of Labor Charles P. Neill.

PENNANT RACE WILL BE CLOSE SAYS LYNCH

By Associated Press.

New York, April 7.—High up in his office on the thirtieth floor of New York's tallest skyscraper, President Thomas J. Lynch of the National league has figured out that the race for the pennant this year will be the closest and most keenly contested in many seasons. Here is his statement of the situation:

"Any one of six clubs has a good chance to win this year. Rarely have the teams presented a more even front.

"While St. Louis and Boston do not seem to be as strong as the other clubs, still you never can tell what a crowd of young players will do and they may surprise the baseball world this season.

"As for the other six clubs, it is just about an even thing. New York looks good and is stronger than at this time last year. Those who think the days of Chicago's men are over may have cause to change their opinion before the season closes. They are no weaker than last year in my opinion. It was because the Athletics were so much faster than Chicago that the world's series resulted as it did. The team is well supplied with youngsters. Take the purchase of Shean. That was a good stroke of business. Evers may last a whole season and may not last a week. Mr.
Murphy has a second baseman to step right in there. If that happens, you are likely to hear people begin to talk of Chicago luck, and how fortunate it was that Shean was secured.
No luck about it, it was planned beforehand.

"A letter reached me the other day from the Pittsburg camp saying that Leach, Clarke and Wagner, the big trio, were never in better condition and that Adams and Camnitz were putting them over in great form. I tell you that Chicago would have not had such an easy time winning a pennant last year had they not got the jump in the early months. It will be different this spring, unless all signs go wrong.

"Both Philadelphia and Cincinnati were strengthened by the trade made last fall. It does a player a lot of good to be shifted around. It puts new and more life in him and many times a man who has played only an average ball with a team gets in with a lot of bustling youngsters and becomes a star. The fans like to see new faces, too, and applause is as sweet to a player's ears as it is to an actress. When a man steals second base and is heartily cheered, he wants to steal third right away. Both the Phillies and the Reds will be factors in the pennant race this year.
Neither can Brooklyn be counted out.
From all reports Mr. Ebbetts has acquired some youngsters who will give a good account of themselves this season.

"Every season in baseball seems to be greater than the one immediately preceding. I don't think that this season will prove an exception and look for the biggest year and one of the closest races in the history of the game."

Fire Near Burk Burnett.
Wednesday morning about 10 o'clock, the residence of J. F. Pickle, one and one-half miles northeast of town, was destroyed by fire. Mrs.
Pickle was ironing at the time the blaze broke out, and as the flames had gained considerable headway before she was aware of the house being on fire, it is the supposition that the fire had its origin in the upper part of the building.

Mr. Pickle was planting corn and had just left the house a few minutes before and had driven through the field for a distance of about a quarter of a mile, when upon turning at the end of a row, discovered the house ablaze. Owing to the start the fire had before it was discovered, practically nothing was saved from the burning building.

Mr. Pickle carried $1000 insurance in the Home Insurance Company, of New York. He will begin work today rebuilding on the old site.—Burk-burnett Star.

laws to permit two or more fire insurance companies to unite and furnish an underwriters policy.

VITOZZI, THE PRIEST
FEINTS ON STAND

Session of Camorro Trial Comes to Sensational and Abrupt Ending Today.

By Associated Press.
Viterbo, Italy, April 7.—There was a sensational ending of today's session of the Camorro trial when Vitozzi, the priest, feinted while testifying. He invoked the soul of his mother to witness the truth of his story. He had been fasting and the judge adjourned court ordering him to eat a half dozen eggs.

The climax came when the priest said: "With me in my cell I had lock of hair of that Holy soul my mother. This was taken from me upon the order of the Magistrate who insisted the hair was that of some woman companion of mine. What nonsense. Why it was my own hair. Can any one imagine a greater profanation? Scoundrel Vitozzi—there have been feintings forty-eight hours sustained during my whole interrogation by divine power. With these words he collapsed.

Giovanni Rapi, another of the accused was not present today. His physician gave as an excuse that Rapi had a sore throat because he "cried too much" during his interrogation.

It was Vitozzi who secured the release of Giuseppe, whose proper name is Giuseppe Alfano. Alfano, Ivelli and Rapi, when they were first arrested charged with complicity in the murder of Genaro Cuocolo and his wife, the "beautiful Sorrentina."

The priest went to the authorities and said that he had learned in the confessional the identity of the assassins and the men under arrest were innocent. He got only secured the freedom of his friends, but subsequently denounced De Angelis and Amadio as the murderers. These men had some difficulty in discrediting the priest. As he testified today, Vitozzi could not or would not control his emotions, and aided by his attorney who interrupted with counter charges against the carabinieri, caused such an uproar in the court that President Bianchi was forced to suspend the sitting.

The priest has suffered physically from his long confinement in prison, and when he was summoned to the bar he advanced slowly, leaning on his cane.

At his elbow was his physician, who explained to the court that he would have to give his patient frequent stimulants to save him from fainting. Nevertheless, the prisoner spoke in a voice strong in the tone of the preacher. He proclaimed himself innocent, expressing surprise that he was the godfather of Erivone should have been indicted against him. He had never done wrong, he said, and knew evil only as a servant of the church must know it in order to fight it successfully. "When I was arrested," he continued, "I mentioned the queen mother, recalling to her mind that at the time of King Humbert's assassination I celebrated masses for the repose of his soul for eight days."

BAILEY PREPARES TO DEFEND HIS TITLE

Washington, April 7.—Reports that the question of the validity of Senator Bailey's seat in the Senate would be raised by a member of that body were renewed today, but who is to take this step or upon what cause the question will be raised could not be learned.

The latest report in regard to this subject came from Dr. Atkinson, a resident of Merkel, Tex., who passed through Washington today enroute to Europe. Dr. Atkinson informed Representative Smith, congressman from his district, that he was informed in Senator Bailey's office today that the question of the validity of the Bailey resignation is going to be raised in the Senate, and that preparations are being made to meet that issue. Dr. Atkinson left for New York this afternoon, after obtaining a passport through Representative Smith for his visit to Europe.

By Associated Press.
Belton, Texas, April 7.—Bell county farmers at a meeting last night adopted resolutions favoring the initiative, referendum and recall. The resolutions said: "Whereas, the legislature has declared by a majority vote against the initiative, referendum and recall, and since these wise men are nothing but hirelings employed to represent us, they no longer do so and are discharged from service."

A MUCH MARRIED
WOMAN MILLIONAIRE

By Associated Press.
Louisville, Ky., April 7.—Mrs. Elizabeth Heasley Maxon Smith Baumgardner, whose age is variously estimated by those who know her best at from 70 to 83 years, and who only last October obtained a divorce from U. G. Baumgardner after a brief honeymoon followed by spicy depictions, last night confirmed the report she was to marry again—the fourth time. Her fortune is estimated at from $750,000 to $1,000,000.

Mrs. Smith, as she calls herself, said she was to marry Carl Neumeyer of this city, government revenue employee, in Pittsburgh some time within the next two weeks. She said she did not know the exact date or hour.

When reporters called on Mrs. Smith last night she informed them there was a man in the parlor other than her fiancé, who wanted to marry her.

"I don't know how to break the news to him," she said laughingly. "Carl and I have been engaged five months. He is a dear boy and is not marrying me for my money, either. He really loves me."

Mrs. Smith became Mrs. Baumgardner, the wife of a local dairy lunch employee, in Washington in June, 1909. Just at the conclusion of the ceremony there was a deafening crash of thunder. The echo had not died away when the bride is said to have ejaculated: "Heaven has sealed our union."

A few months later she gave Baumgardner a check for $15,000 when she obtained her divorce.
