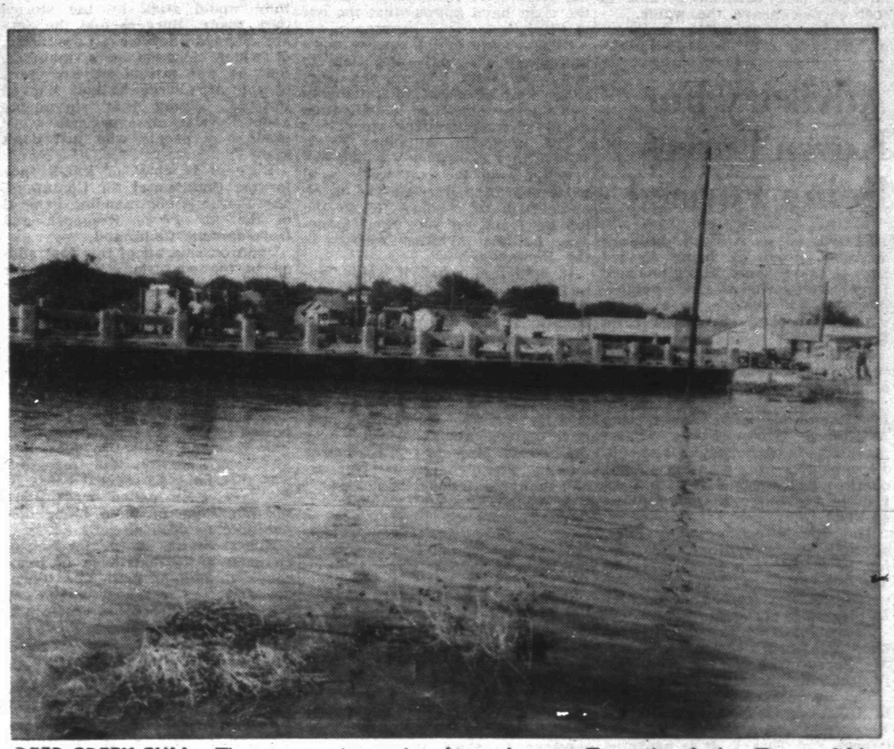
Flash Rains Boost Scurry Moisture; Lake Thomas Up

BRIDGE INUNDATED—Water is shown running over the Twenty-fifth Street bridge across Deep Creek. City officials said that the bridge approaches will require considerable repair when high waters recede, but apparently the bridge itself withstood the flood. (Lee Watson photo, rep.)



DEEP CREEK FULL—The picture above, shot from Avenue T north of the Twenty-fifth Street bridge across Deep Creek, shows water lapping at the floor of the bridge about 7:45 o'clock this morning. The creek was the highest it has been in recent years. (Lee Watson photograph)

Deep Creek On Rampage

Rain in almost cloudburst proportions hit Scurry County last night, dumping more than two inches of rainfall in the northwest part of the county and between one and two-inches in the rest of the county in less than an hour.

Hail came with the rain in most places. In all except the northeast part of the county, the hail was light. It was reported very heavy at some points northwest of Snyder.

Deep Creek rose out of its banks at some points early this morning. The rise came sometime after midnight last night, and late this morning the water was still over the low bridge on Twenty-seventh Street in Snyder. At least one house near the banks of the creek was evacuated, but water never got into the house.

Lake Thomas was at a new high this morning and was still rising. By 10:43, the lake level was 2,241.83 feet, which was an increase of 2.22 feet for this rain. Jack Dunn reported from the Snyder pump station that most of the water seemed to be running into the lake from the Colorado River, although Bull Creek was still running. He said gains indicated that the lake's total catch might be between three and four feet before the water stops running in.

Elevation of the lake before this rain was 2,239.61, barely over the previous high set last summer.

1.27 IN SNYDER

In Snyder, the rainfall was measured at 1.27 by David Strayhorn, weather observer. After a high of 91 yesterday, temperatures dropped to a low of 52 last night and moved back up to 58 by 7:30 a.m. today.

Northeast Scurry County had good rains and no reported damage. In the Lloyd Mountain community, Mrs. Wraymond Sims said 1.7 fell there with little hail or wind. The rain fell in spurts, she said, causing a creek in the community to get on its banks during the night. The creek had gone down by morning, however. The fast rain did not break terraces, she said.

At Camp Springs, the rain was from 2 to 2.5 inches, according to Mrs. Jim Beavers, who said the creek there got up and eroded its banks but caused no serious damage. There was little hail, she said. Mrs. Beavers said reports were that the area east of Camp Springs got about the same amount of rain.

H. L. Billingsley reported that about an inch fell at Dunn. He said reports that the area southeast of Dunn had much heavier rains.

There were reports of 1.5 inches at Ira and 1.75 at the Snyder pump staton at Lake Thomas.

BORDEN DRENCHED

Sheriff Sid Reeder of Borden County said the rain totaled 2.1 at Gail. He said about the same amount of rain fell north and south of Gail. The east part of Borden County had from 1.5 to 2.1, he said, adding that all the creeks between Gail and Snyder — Bull Creek, Mesquite Creek, and Gavett Creek — were up and that the Colorado River was up higher than at any other time this year. Bull Creek was about 150 feet wide on the Murphy Road at a low water crossing, Reeder said.

Most of the rain fell in about 15 minutes' time, Reeder said one old garage building was blown away early last night. The building was about 300 yards south of the courthouse in Gail, he said, adding that most residents were at the high school for baccalaureate services at the time and do not know what caused the damage. It may have been caused by a small twister, he said.

Hermleigh reported from 1 to 1.1 inches of rain with some hail. No reports of wind damage had been heard.

At Fluvanna, the rain was spotted, varying from 1.5 to 2.5 inches. Hail also fell at some places and damaged some cotton. Strong winds were also reported, although no damage was reported. Deep Creek was passable there this morning.

In the north part of Scurry at the Dan Gibson ranch, reports were that rain measured 1.6. The Texaco loading rack at Fullerville had 2.6.

Legislator Hired By Giles; Trial Delayed

By MAC ROY RASOR

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Former Texas Land Commissioner Bascom Giles won a postponement today until Aug. 15 of his bribery trial on grounds that a member of the Legislature, Rep. Cecil Storey of Longview, had been employed by the defense.

Judge M. D. Jones ruled the court has no discretion in granting the continuance in such an instance when the Legislature is in session.

The state vigorously condemned the defense legal maneuver. Asst. Dist. Atty. James Onion called it an "undignified abuse of the privilege."

He said it was a black mark on other members of the Legislature and a "reflection on democracy."

When the case was called in Criminal Court this morning, Defense Atty. C. C. Small Sr. presented the court with a motion for a continuance and an affidavit by Rep. Storey, supporting the motion. Small told the court the defendant was unable to go to trial at this time without the services of Storey and that it was impossible for Storey to leave the Legislature.

Onion called on the court for Giles to take the stand to answer questions in regard to the affidavit.

Louis Schlessinger, defense co-counsel, jumped to his feet, calling Onion's request "a grand stand play" intended "to humiliate and intimidate" Giles.

Judge Jones interrupted the proceedings, calling counsel for both sides to the bench for a consultation.

Later Onion renewed his request to question Giles on the stand.

Small countered the Legislature has done "meticulous things" to take discretion out of the matter and contended the law is mandatory in providing for a continuance without any requirement of corroboration for the affidavit.

In granting continuance Judge Jones said, "Irrespective of what I think of it, it is the law of the land."

He said "Aug. 15 is the first open date on the court's docket."

The law provides that postponement must be for 30 days after adjournment of the Legislature, which is still in session at Austin.

"If the Legislature goes past July 15, the court on its own motion will make a setting of the cause more than 30 days from the date of adjournment," Jones said.

Giles appeared in court in a neatly pressed light blue suit and blue tie.

With him was his son and business associate, Rogan. He was flanked by his attorneys, Slessinger, Small and Fred Semaan.

Representing the state besides Onion were Asst. Atty. Gen. Bill Allcorn and Sam Kimberlin.

It had been expected the defense would seek postponement first on grounds of only recently having hired Semaan and Slessinger, contending they had not had time to prepare for the trial.

Last week the defense indicated it was saving its motion concerning the legislator as an ace in the hole should other efforts for a delay be denied. Small today, however, presented only the one motion involving the legislator.

After the motion was granted, Giles told newsmen he might have additional information" in a few days. He declined to elaborate.

Giles, 54, is charged with consenting to accept and accepting a $30,000 bribe in a veterans land program deal in Bexar County, of which San Antonio is the seat.

He already had won one continuance of his trial, from April 11 to today, citing various reasons.

He refused to qualify last January 1 for his ninth elective term as land commissioner. A probe of the veterans land program was underway then.

Under the program, financed by a 100-million-dollar bond issue, the state buys land and sells it to former servicemen on long terms at low interest rates with small down payments. Giles helped get the program started and helped administer it from the beginning.

Texas Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd, who with Gov. Allan Shivers was a member of the Veterans Land Board while Giles was its chairman, worked closely with the grand jury. The land board administers the program.

The Bexar County transaction involved the sale of a 663-acre tract to 32 veterans.

British Dock Workers Out

LONDON (AP)—Almost a fourth of the dock workers in four major British ports struck today in an interunion squabble four days before the May 26 general election.

Whether the walkout would spread could not be determined until later today.

Labor Minister Sir Walter Monckton, meanwhile, continued negotiations to avert another and more serious nationwide strike, on Saturday by 70,000 members of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen.

Prime Minister Eden warned that a railway tieup could "impair the country's chances for prosperity and cause widespread unemployment."

The dock members were members of the small National Amalgamated Stevedores and Dockers Union, which claims 17,000 members in London, Liverpool, Manchester and Hull.

But Britain's giant Transport and General Workers Union, which claims most of the rest of the 80,000 dockers in the major ports, told its members to work as usual.

Experts Study Polio Vaccine

WASHINGTON (AP)—Polio vaccine experts opened a two-stage meeting today which may determine how soon the nation's polio inoculation program resumes and how far it will go this summer.

Scientists and consultants of the U.S. Public Health Service gathered this morning to study reports of plant inspections of five of the six vaccine manufacturers.

The same group was scheduled to meet in the afternoon with scientific representatives of all six producers.

A spokesman for the National Institutes of Health said the government experts would then go back into session to wrestle with these questions:

"1. What if any changes need to be made in standards governing the manufacture and testing of the vaccine.

"2. What this means insofar as we can establish it in terms of supply for the rest of the summer."

When the answers will be announced was uncertain. Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele has said the group's recommendations would be "advisory" and that he will make known his decisions "as soon as possible."

The result could mean early clearance of existing supplies or added time-consuming tests which might further delay release of vaccine.

State Maintenance Is Asked For Road

The commissioners court has petitioned the state highway commission to designate a two-mile strip of the county's farm road network for state maintenance.

In regard to the matter, two commissioners, Pat Moore and T. B. Knight, the county judge, Edgar Taylor, and the county auditor, Jimmie Billingsley, went last week to Floydada and talked with Marshall Formby of Plainview, a member of the commission.

Formby, who was there to address the Rotary Club, was quoted as indicating there was hope that continued negotiations with the commission would result in state maintenance, Knight reported.

The state department has taken the maintenace responsibility of the majority of mileage of the county's network of paved farm roads.

Pravda Keeps Up Criticism Of Secretary

By RICHARD KASISCHKE

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda made Secretary of State Dulles its chief American whipping boy today. The Communist party newspaper continued its criticism of the United States in articles touching on topics that may come up in the summer summit meeting of the Big Four.

A Vienna dispatch declared American oil companies long looted Austria. A Paris dispatch condemned the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and West German rearmament, to which Pravda referred as "a new revengist Wehrmacht" under American sponsorship.

But the sharpest words came in a long article by Boleslaw Wuiczicky, a Polish writer, charging that Dulles, his brother Allen Dulles, U.S. Central Intelligence Agency chief, and W. Averill Harriman, the former ambassador to Moscow who is now governor of New York, want to subjugate the Communist people's democracies of East Europe.

U.S. rulers are engaged in restoring the revengist Wehrmacht in West Germany, declaring one of their aims is to liberate Poland, Czechoslovakia and other people's democracies," Wuiczicky wrote.

He charged the Americans want to subjugate those countries and alleged that one aim was to recover business interests of the Dulles brothers and Harriman.

"John Foster Dulles was closely associated with German firms such as I. G. Farben; his brother, Allen, head of the American Intelligence Service, was one of the organizers of the so-called Committee of Free Europe; and Harriman is a former owner of many mines and plants in Poland," the Pole declared.

There was no immediate reaction from Secretary Dulles at the State Department in Washington. The office of Allen Dulles said he would have no comment.

Pravda's display today follows up a front-page editorial Saturday accusing President Eisenhower, Dulles and British leaders of "clearly planning to wreck" the projected talks of the Big Four government chiefs.

Butler Sets Texas Visit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic National Chairman Paul M. Butler will spend five days in Texas next month to address fund-raising dinners and party meetings in nine cities.

The national committee said today Butler accepted invitations from the Democratic Advisory Council of Texas, Mrs. Hilda B. Wienert, Texas national committeewoman, and the Texas Young Democrats.

The committee announced this schedule:

June 14—Lubbock dinner; June 15, Big Spring luncheon and Dallas dinner; June 16, Tyler luncheon and Waco dinner; June 17, McAllen reception and Weslaco dinner; June 18, Corpus Christi luncheon and Young Democratic convention dinner at Houston.

Prior to the Texas trip Butler will speak at a Portland, Ore., regional dinner, June 11.

Funnels Accompany Showers On Plains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tornadoes spun out of dark skies into the South Plains during the night, causing property damage but no reported injuries. Rain of up to 3 inches and hail hammered some spots as the twisters roared through.

Rains continued in scattered portions of Texas Monday.

A heavy rain started falling in Tyler at 8:30 a.m. and then turned to a lighter but steady rain after 20 minutes. The sky turned dark, causing motorists to drive with their lights turned on. Streets were filled with water.

Skies turned dark as night and heavy rain also fell at Kilgore.

A shower about midnight dumped 1.45 inches of rain on Colorado City in West Texas.

The Weather Bureau gauge at Electra in North Central Texas recorded .58 inches of rain between midnight and 5 a.m. Farmers in the Electra area reported as much as 1.75 inches of rain.

The Weather Bureau forecast more scattered thunderstorms in all sections of Texas. It said, however, the storms weren't expected to be nearly as severe as those last week which threatened to flood parts of the state.

Sunday night's tornadoes—exactly how many struck was anybody's guess—were centered around Lubbock, some 100 miles south around Lamesa and at Fairview in Howard County. The heaviest rain, 3 inches, pounded an area near Lamesa.

One of the marauding twisters dipped into Lorenzo, 30 miles east of Lubbock on U.S. 82. It ripped the roof from a house on the west end of town and flattened a small structure at the Plains Gas Co. plant. It whined off to the northeast, but there were no reports that it struck ground again.

A tornado whirled into Bill Harrison's farm five miles east and two miles north of Abernathy. It smashed a 10x20-foot frame barn and spread its parts over a half-mile area. It left a trailer load of cottonseed in the barn untouched but demolished a trailer next to the barn.

Harrison said he didn't see the funnel but "hail was knocking the leaves from the trees and the wind was blowing the leaves straight up." He said .80 inch of rain fell in 3 minutes. A wellhouse was demolished on a farm next to Harrison's.

Within the next 15 minutes a twister, possibly the same one, hit Jack Lee's farm 10 miles northwest of Abernathy. It demolished a barn and a 50x70-foot pile of heavy timbers. It toppled two cotton trailers and a tree. Said Lee: "It was raining and hailing so loud I didn't hear the tornado."

A tornado blew away a granary 10 miles north of Lamesa and unroofed several outbuildings. A tornado funnel was sighted near Fairview in Howard County but vanished between Fairview and Snyder.

A severe electrical storm accompanied by high winds unleashed downpour near Lamesa. Heavy rain and hail fell at Slaton, 15 miles southeast of Lubbock. They figure Slaton got some 1.5 inches of moisture. Hail damaged only gardens. Winds reached 40-45 m. p.h.

High wind that accompanied ½ inch of rain damaged some plate glass windows at Wilson, some 25 miles south of Lubbock. Heavy hail fell east of Wilson.

Big Spring received 1.13 inches of rain. Other rainfall reports included Crosbyton, Lorenzo, Ralls and Wilson .50 of an inch each, Southland .40, Lamesa .26, Tahoka .23, Floydada .10, Abernathy, Hale Center, Idalou, Lockney, New Deal, Silverson, Matador, Petersburg and Plainview received traces.

Early Monday showers or thundershowers fell at Wichita Falls, San Angelo, Abilene, Dallas, Childress and Austin. Drizzle dampened College Station and Waco. The sky was generally cloudy except for some clear patches in West Texas. Temperatures at 4:30 a.m. ranged from 53 at Dalhart to 80 at Galveston, Palacios and Brownsville.

A weak cool front had virtually stalled on a north-south line from Wichita Falls to the Big Bend country. Instability ahead of this front was expected to cause more spotty afternoon and night thunderstorms, but nothing like last week's series of gully-washers which revived range and crop prospects in many sections of the state.

Seniors Told To Accept 'Four Calls'

Snyder High School's 130 graduating seniors and an auditorium packed almost to capacity last night attended baccalaureate services for the class.

Ted Norton, minister of the Twenty-fifth Street Church of Christ, was main speaker for the service.

"The fellow who wins is the man who thinks he can," Norton said, speaking on the subject, "Thinking."

Norton told the seniors that life has four calls, and "Those getting the most of your attention will be the ones which get you." Those were:

The call of home, where a person finds love, security, comradeship, and happiness. In the home, a person should be sure to observe two commandments, he said, that of loving God and that of loving his neighbor as himself.

The call of economics, or making a living. Norton advised the graduates to learn to live off what they make and to make a budget and follow it. "Save some, spend some, and give some," he said, adding that money is a useful servant but a cruel master and that money is not happiness.

The call of citizenship. The world does not owe anyone a living, Norton said. He urged the students to gain the proper perspective and appreciation for government and to respect its laws.

The call of God, which permeates the other three calls. The call comes to each person through the Gospel, he said. "Live as children of God," he urged, adding that the student's goal should be, "Give to the world the best you have and the best will come back to you. . . ."

Dr. Cecil Yarbrough, superintendent of schools, introduced Norton. T. D. Wiman, Jr., high school principal, announced that commencement exercises will be held for the graduates at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the high school auditorium.

Processional and recessional were by Mrs. M. M. O'Rear. Invocation was by the Rev. John W. Reaves, pastor of the First Christian Church, and benediction was by the Rev. J. Lennol Hester, pastor of the First Methodist Church.

Music was by the Snyder High School a capella choir, under direction of Robert Clinton. Included in the four numbers was "Balm In Gilead," with Wanda Powledge as solosit.

Truck Strike In Fifth Day

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Trucking operations throughout the West ground to a virtual standstill today, the fifth day of a strike lockout.

Both management and union officials saw little chance of immediate conciliation.

"We are playing it by ear from day to day," President Frank Brewster of the AFL Teamsters Western Conference said. Brewster said his suggestion to call in a federal conciliator has been turned down by management.

Conservative Win Forecast In Britain

By LEONARD LEDDINGTON

LONDON (AP)—Predictions of Conservative victory mounted in Britain's press today as the quietest election campaign the country has seen since World War II went into its last three days.

Newspapers gave the election Thursday of a new Parliament only secondary attention. Public interest centered on the running of the Epsom Derby Wednesday and the threat of port and rail strikes.

The 17,000 member Amalgamated Stevedore and Workers Union called its men off the job today in four major British ports—London, Liverpool, Manchester and Hull. Effectiveness of the strike, however, depended on how many men of the giant Transport and General Workers Union observed the picket line. The TGWU said its men could continue to work in the ports if they wanted to.

Of graver import was the threatened strike of the Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen. Next Saturday 70,000 members of the society are scheduled to stage a walkout which would tie up Britain's state-run railroad system.

Some Labor party campaigners seized on the strike issue to predict that continuance of a Tory government would result in even more walkouts. But party officials expressed private misgivings since the Socialists are closely identified with the unions and paralyzing walkouts at this time are not expected to sit well with strike-weary Britons.

At least one pro-Labor newspaper joined Conservative publications and public opinion polls in predicting that Prime Minister Eden would return for a five-year term to head the government he inherited on Winston Churchill's retirement last month.

"Tories should win by 58," predicted the pro-Conservative Sunday Dispatch.

The Sunday Times, which also supports the Conservatives, concluded on the basis of public opinion polls that the Conservatives should get a 34-seat majority in the House of Commons.

The big-circulation pro-Labor Sunday People said, "The Tories should win but with no more than a majority of 20 seats."

The Tories held a 17-seat edge in the last 625-member House. Due to redistricting of many areas, 630 seats are to be filled this time. A Labor victory would bring back Clement Attlee, whose postwar Socialist Cabinet was defeated by Churchill in the heated 1951 election.

House Backs Off From Action On Statewide Water Program

AUSTIN (AP)—The House backed off from consideration of the controversial statewide water program today as Texas lawmakers began their 20th work week.

The major question was still how and when they would be able to solve the state's money problems and then go home.

Work on the conference committee report on the water program was postponed until Thursday as Rep. Leroy Saul of Kress received a cool reception on his motion to adopt the report. The Senate has approved the report.

Heading into their third week without pay, senators and representatives hoped a Senate state affairs committee meeting might bear fruit this afternoon.

The committee was to take another look at a gasoline-beer-cigarette tax proposition submitted by four of its members late last week.

It was offered after earlier rejection of a measure that would have taxed hotels, motels, big department stores, airlines, metals and liquids produced by chemical, metallurgical, or electroylitic process, gasoline, cigarettes, and beer and wine dealers licenses.

There were predictions in both House and Senate the committee would again fail to reach decision despite Friday's urging by Sen. A. M. Aikin Jr. of Paris to "be ready to take some final action Monday, not just have another postponement."

The forecasts of delay were based mainly on the idea that Senate sentiment on what to tax has not jelled sufficiently and the committee does not want to rush out a bill until it feels the measure has a fair chance of acceptance on the floor.

Most House members are freely predicting no bill containing an increase of two cents per gallon on gasoline will ever be accepted by the House.

The House must originate all tax measures, and that body rejected all proposals for a two-cent gasoline increase before passage of the revenue-raising measure which the Senate committee now seeks to amend.

Advisory For Korea Forces Being Formed

SEOUL (AP) — A U. S. military advisory group is being formed here to make South Korea's armed forces self-sufficient for defense purposes and provide for eventual withdrawal of U. S. forces from Korea.

It still is in the provisional stage, said a responsible source, and its aims are far off.

Commander of the new unit—Provisional Military Advisory and Assistance Group Korea (Provmaag-K)—is Lt. Gen. Claude B. Ferenbaugh, deputy 8th Army commander, who led the 7th Division in the bitter Korean fighting of 1951.

The 7th is one of two understrength U. S. divisions still serving in the Korean forward areas. The other is the 24th. Both are carrying many Korean servicemen for training purposes.

Provmaag-K will have advisers from the U. S. Army, Navy and Air Force, with the Marines represented by the Navy adviser.

The operation is to be similar to U. S. advisory groups in Viet Nam, Formosa, the Philippines, Greece and Turkey. It is expected to come under the U. S. military defense program about July 1.

Its first consideration is the site of an army, navy and air force that can be supported by South Korea now and in the future. It will also help draw up the amount of military aid funds South Korea will continue to receive from the United States.

Nurse To Continue Work Without Pay

CHICAGO (AP) — Mrs. Mathilda Maas is 70 and must retire on pension, the state law says. But she'll continue her 30-year nursing career at Chicago State Hospital on an unsalaried basis, with permission of Dr. Otto L. Bettag, state welfare director.

Why?

"It has been more than a job," said the 93-pound woman. "It has been my life."

Now supervising nurse on the 3-11 p.m. shift, she started work at the hospital the day after graduation in 1925.

Inquiry Planned On Armed Forces Waste

Washington (AP) — Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) says the Senate Investigations subcommittee plans to study reports of "terrific waste" in the armed forces after it completes an inquiry into alleged graft in military spending.

McClellan said yesterday he hopes the present investigation—which he said has revealed "a nest of small grafts"—will be completed by the end of the week. Public hearings will be resumed tomorrow.

Johnson Urges Clarification Of Defense Program Confusion

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) called on Secretary of Defense Wilson today to "step in and stop the confusion" he said exists about the national defense program.

The Senate Democratic leader said congressional committees are going to try to find out the "true story" of whether Russia is threatening to gain air superiority over the United States.

In the meantime, he said Wilson has the responsibility for seeing to it that "the generals and the secretaries get together so that the right hand knows what the left is doing."

"The people and Congress don't know who to pay attention to now," he said. "There has been a new rash of confusing statements and there should be clarification as to what is the true story."

The magazine Aviation Week, joining in a controversy which has raged during the last week, said yesterday that Russian air developments have shocked "even the top level and the most knowledgeable military aviation leaders in the Pentagon."

It criticized what it said "appears to be a deliberate deception practiced against them (the American people) by some of the highest civilian officials in their government."

A brief Pentagon report of Russian air developments 10 days ago led Sen. Symington (D-Mo) to suggest last Tuesday that Russia may have gained air superiority over the West. President Eisenhower told his news conference Wednesday such a statement "is not true."

A prepared speech which Lt. Gen. Thomas S. Power was to have delivered in Boston Friday said Russia now has the world's largest air force and "resources in manpower and material we could not possibly match."

As Power made the speech, however, he changed the text to say only that the Soviets have "a large air force" and "impressive resources in manpower and material," without saying whether this country could match them.

The change followed news reports of a speech by Brig. Gen. Woodbury M. Burgess in Detroit, quoting him that "the Russian air force is currently at least as good as ours, possibly better."

Although Detroit newsmen said they would stick by the stories they wrote, Burgess told the Senate Armed Services Committee, of which Johnson is a member, that he was misquoted. Secretary of the Air Force Talbott backed this up, saying that statements about Russian air superiority were made "by people who just don't know."

Burgess is chief of intelligence for the Continental Air Command, and Power is commanding general of the Air Force Research and Development Command.

Johnson said all of this just added to the confusion. He said the committees will want all the facts armed services and appropriations available.

Sen. George (D-Ga) said he is confident that the gap of relative strength between the Russian and U. S. air forces "still is wide."

He said the Senate Foreign relations Committee, which he heads, might want to hear Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, NATO commander, on the subject again if there have been developments in recent weeks since Gruenther testified.

He said Gruenther "didn't seem alarmed" about the Russian air buildup.

Gruenther said in a New York speech Friday that Russia's long range bomber program is "quite a long way behind ours."

Auto Workers Favor Strike

DETROIT (AP) — Returns from General Motors and Ford locals of the CIO United Auto Workers continue to show strong support for a strike if necessary to win a guaranteed annual wage.

The union scheduled further contract talks with both GM and Ford today. Neither the UAW nor the automotive firms have commented on the progress of negotiations.

Balloting yesterday at seven GM locals and one Ford unit in Ohio, New York, Indiana and Michigan, ran close to the pattern established at the start of the polling with union members voting more than 90 per cent in favor of authorizing a strike, the UAW reported.

More than half the 150 locals now have reported. Balloting will be completed this week.

The strike vote was called by the UAW two weeks ago to strengthen its bargaining position.

The Ford pact covers 140,000 employes. It expires June 1. The GM agreement ends June 7. It covers 325,000 employes.

The union has proposed the companies establish a multimillion dollar fund to finance the guaranteed annual wage.

Italy, U.S. Sign Surplus Agreement

ROME (AP)—Italy and the United States signed a 50-million-dollar surplus agricultural commodities agreement today.

Signing for the United States, Ambassador Clare Boothe Luce said the agreement is "further evidence of continuing friendship between Italy and the United States."

Premier Mario Scelba signed for Italy. He expressed his thanks for American aid.

The agreement involves American cotton, wheat and tobacco, to be paid for in Italian lire. The cotton will account for $36,600,000 of the total. The commodities are to be handled through private trade channels and sold at market prices.

The agreement includes a provision for a substantial 40-year loan in lire for the economic development of Southern Italy, Sicily and Sardinia.

Nationalists Plan New Jet Air Field

TAIPEI (AP)—Another huge air base is being added to the chain of jet fields within striking distance of Formosa, says the Chinese Nationalist Tatao news agency.

It is being built at Chanting, 280 miles west of Formosa, by 30,000 laborers working around the clock under the direction of Russian experts, the news agency reported.

The Chanting base, said Tatao, will be capable of handling every type of plane.

County Court Panel Reports

A county court jury panel reported for service this morning but was recessed until 1 o'clock this afternoon. Reason for recession was that none of several cases to be have been called was ready for trial, one of them being disposed of by plea of guilt.

Smith had been free on $500 since shortly after his arrest Feb. 9. He was charged with transportation of liquor for purpose of illegal sale.

Jurors on the new panel are Norman J. Hill, N. D. Browning, R. A. Schooling, Neil Holder, Jimmy Beck, Mrs Nathan Wade, Dee Myers, Frances Billingsley, B. E. Hanks, C. O. Lansford, Earl Sneed, E. E. HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Bob Hope, who concludes a five-year TV contract with NBC tomorrow night, said today he is negotiating with the network for another deal.

Previously the comedian had hinted that he might retire from TV.

"They want me to sign for another five years," he said. "I may do it if I get what I want." He said he wants to do only six shows a season. This season he did 10.

Hope performs his last show under the contract tomorrow night with guest stars Bing Crosby and Jane Russell.

CALUMET CITY, Ill. (AP)—Joan Foley worked as a tray girl in a hospital, short order cook in a cafe and baby sitter all through high school, in addition to helping her mother around the house.

Her industriousness won recognition—and a $4,000 scholarship—from the Erie Railroad, which employs her father John as a ticket clerk.

Joan, who will be graduated from Thornton Fractional Township High School next month, will study engineering at the University of Idaho.

Fine Is Paid In County Court Here

A fine of $33.50, including court cost, was paid in county court this morning by James C. Bell, 26, Cozy Courts, who pleaded guilty to a charge of swindling by worthless check.

Bell was arrested here, having reutnred to Snyder after spending much time in East Texas since the charge was filed Dec. 10, officers said. The charge alleged the check was for $25 and was given in September to Roy Church, operator of Rig Motel.

Red Campaign For Peace To Hit Climax

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — A Communist-style peace petition campaign will reach a climax during the U.N.'s 10th anniversary meeting in San Francisco June 20-26. The signature drive aims at a ban on atomic warfare.

Members of some U.N. delegations said today Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov might try to use the petitions as evidence of support for the repeated Russian demands for such a ban. Molotov announced Friday night that he would attend the San Francisco meeting.

The petitions were launched in the United States by the American Peace Crusade of New York City, which is on the U.S. attorney general's list of organizations he considers subversive.

The Communist-led World Peace Council, meanwhile, has postponed its world assembly in Helsinki, Finland, for a month, to June 22-29. U.N. sources noted the assembly thus would overlap the San Francisco ceremonies and could provide Molotov with echoes from the Finnish capital.

The peace council's governing bureau started the petition campaign with a communique Jan. 19 demanding "destruction of all stocks of atomic weapons wherever they may be, and the immediate stopping of their manufacture."

The Communist press claims that more than 400 million people have signed this in China, other millions in European Communist countries and tens of thousands in Austria, France, Italy, Syria and elsewhere. Statistics-minded observers question the figures.

Johnson Raps Highway Plan

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex) said today President Eisenhower's highway program proposes "bonds for boulevards' 'and "leaves out farm-to-market roads."

The Democratic leader referred in an interview to the administration's plan for a 21-billion-dollar bond issue to finance construction of a 40,000-mile interstate highwa of a 40,000-mile interstate highway network in the next 10 years.

"Like a great many other proposals they make," he said, "the Republicans seem to think that the bulk of the money ought to go to one type of roads, the boulevards. We think it ought to be spread among many types."

Johnson predicted the Senate, on a test vote, would reject the Eisenhower plan as "a bad bill" and adopt "without serious alteration" a Democratic plan prepared by Sen. Gore (D-Tenn).

Gore's bill proposes a $17,941,000,000 total outlay of federal and state funds for building highways in the next five years. The U.S. funds would come from direct appropriations.

The administration plan would call for completion of 40,000 miles of interstate highways, with 25 billion dollars of the cost furnished by the federal government. Of this amount 21 billions would be financed by floating bonds, on which Sen. Byrd (D-Va) has said interest payments would reach 11 billion.

Byrd contends the Eisenhower plan would evade the federal debt limit and surrender Congress' control over appropriations. Gore said the administration plan would freeze expenditures on farm-to-market roads at 100 million dollars less than the present yearly rate.

Johnson said the Senate Democratic Policy Committee was unanimous in its opposition "to a system that leaves out farm-to-market roads."

$1,000 Bond Set For Bootlegging Suspect

John Milton Bryant, 40, Roby, was released from the county jail over the weekend on bond of $1,000 set when he pleaded innocent Saturday morning to a charge of bootlegging.

The bootlegging charge was sort of a by-product. It was filed Saturday morning on information of two highway patrolmen, Bill Zimmerman and E. W. Green, and a deputy sheriff, E. E. Norris, after officers arrested Bryant on a speeding accusation.

Bryant was arrested on the Big Spring highway near here Friday night by the highway patrolmen whose radar equipment caused them to stop this automobile. The bootlegging charge alleges Bryant transported liquor for purpose of illegal sale.

Sureties on the bond were L. V. Armstrong and A. E. Hilbun, both of Roby.

Helps For Homemakers

Spring's the time to serve the best of the fresh vegetables. Scallions, or green onions, are usually served raw, but there is no reason why you can't cook them for a change.

To cook them, trim off the roots and enough of the green tops so there will be about four inches left. Do this before you wash the onions thoroughly, making sure no dirt is left in the tops. Put the clean onions in a deep skillet and cook them in salted boiling water very quickly just until you can pierce the white parts easily with a fork. This probably won't take more than five minutes. Lift them carefully from the skillet and drain them well.

To serve, top with melted butter and grated Parmesan cheese on toast. Add strips of crisp cooked bacon if you like.

Or marinate them in French dressing and serve with salad greens. Add a mushroom sauce when you want to serve them as a hot vegetable. They are especially good with broiled lamb chops.

To make the mushroom sauce, you will need:

1-3 cup milk
1 tablespoon flour
⅛ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon celery salt
1 can (3 ounces) sliced broiled mushrooms.

Pour the milk in a small saucepan and bring to simmering point over moderate heat. Stir flour, salt and celery salt with liquid drained from mushrooms until there are no lumps. Add to milk and cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth. Stir in drained mushrooms and heat thoroughly. Pour over freshly cooked, hot scallions. Count on about eight scallions for each serving. This recipe makes two-thirds cup sauce.

Rudy Vallee Story May Be Put On Film

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rudy Vallee may be the next show biz great to be immortalized in celluloid.

But the long-time Vagabond Lover won't be playing himself, and for a very good reason — money.

Vallee is back in his Hollywood haunts briefly and he was greeting old pals at the Brown Derby. Between bites of a healthful salad, he told about his film biography.

"Yes, we have been having discussions about it," he said. "MGM and 20th Century-Fox are interested and that pleases me, because both would go all-out for it.

"Of course, my wife wants me to play the role. That isn't as ridiculous as it seems. I recently made 'Gentlemen Marry Brunettes' in Europe and I played myself as I am now and also at 28 years of age. Quite convincing too.

'But I would prefer an actor who was a big name at the box office, say a Tony Curtis. Since I would be sharing in the profits, I would rather have a star who would bring more millions in."

Vallee is here for his Sunday night CBS radio show, but he's soon hustling back to New York. He explained that the advertising agency prefers to have it originate from there.

"And we find that there are so many more celebrities to interview back there," he added. "When they go to New York, they expect to be available for such things; here they're hard to get.

"It's a shame to leave my fabulous house, but I can't find enough to keep me busy here. In the East, I do radio, some night clubs, a few weeks of summer theater and an occasional TV spot."

Young Wife Is 'Mother' To Orphans

By DOROTHY ROE
AP Woman's Editor

Ismeme M. Kalaris, a dark-eyed young wife and attorney, has 2,000 children.

Sometimes she has to travel by jeep, muleback and on foot, climbing moumtains and fording rivers, to get around to them all—but she does it.

The children are Greek war orphans, and Mrs. Kalaris is director in Greece for the Foster Parents' Plan for War Children. She has held the job two years, living in Athens with her husband George, who is a lawyer with the American mission to Greece.

En route to Greece after a recent trip to the United States, Mrs. Kalaris told of some of the trials of caring for 2,000 children in remote mountain areas.

"I travel all over Greece visiting the children," she says. "Sometimes the trip is 15 or 16 hours by car and another 6 to 8 hours by mule—riding side saddle. But it's worth it to see the happiness of the children when they receive mail or gifts from their foster parents in America."

Though Mrs. Kalaris has no children of her own, she feels that all 2,000 of the small Greek orphans belong to her. Under the plan the foster parent contribues $15 a month for the care of a child in Greece—or in other parts of the world—and this makes all the difference between want and plenty.

"The children keep in direct contact with their foster parents," says Mrs. Kalaris. "They exchange letters, which we translate in the Athens office, and they send snapshots. Sometimes they even go to visit their foster parents in America.

"The idea is to take care of the children until they are rehabilitated—usually until they are old enough to become self-supporting. And it's amazing to see what a little help and encouragement does for these young people.

"When they can get the medical and educational aid they need, many become successful citizens."

Magic Figures, These

Some magic figures have been showing up in the metorological box-scores of West Texas newspapers. No miser ever studied the stock quotations with greater interest, no Hollywood talent scout ever rounded up a more eye-filling field of figures. They are the rainfall statistics—so round, so full, so fully packed with meaning.

A little on the plump side in places, though, like Eastland's 10-incher, which was matched by Hale Center's, way up on the Baldies. But most of them are just what any good rain doctor would recommend, such as Buffalo Gap's 6.40, Oplin's 5.5, Ranger's 5.61 and Bronte's 4.70.

In spite of wind and hail damage here and there, these figures mean pure gold to hundreds of urban and rural communities which hadn't seen enough moisture in the last five years to give any crop a real good ride for its life. The spectre of municipal water shortages which has haunted many a community for years has been dimmed.

Terraced fields that had never known known fulness are sloshing to their scuppers. Stock tanks in many localities have run around their spillways. The thirsty earth has been thoroughly soaked to a greater depth than in many dreary months.

Altogether, the more heartening demonstration of nature in a beneficial mood than many a West Texan has seen in a long time.

A word of cheer and thanks to a much-cussed institution, the U.S. Weather Bureau. USWB has been on top of this situation all the way through. Its tornado alerts have been little short of amazing in their accuracy. There have been scores of these twisters, practically all of them minor in nature, and the USWB alerting system has been right on the ball. Texans are learning to trust these alerts, which are based on radar stations scattered over the state. In time, as the public becomes accustomed to them, the panic that sometimes goes with these warnings will subside, and people will accept them in their stride.

No Second Best

American jet pilots who grew accustomed to having anywhere from three to six MIGs breathing down their necks every time they flew over North Korea in the early stages of that war must be watching the progress of the current quarrel over whether the U.S. or the U.S.S.R. has superiority in the air. And if a sardonic smile occasionally flickers across their faces, it wouldn't be surprising.

Only their greater skill and courage enabled them to stay in the same air with the MIGs at first. Later the margin of quantitative superiority narrowed somewhat, and as new model U.S. jets reached the scene the qualitative situation improved too.

Theirs had been the same experience as undergone by the Army Air Corps in the Philippines when the blow fell there in 1941. The Japs brought faster and more maneuverable fighters into play, in immensely vaster quantities, and our brave but sorely outnumbered men in their antiquated machines simply vanished from the skies. Back of that was the fact that the President had asked Congress for 5,000 planes when the situation became grave and war was imminent, but the best Congress could do was 500 planes.

It took the U.S. a long time to tool up and turn out enough warplanes in World War II before we gained equality and finally superiority over the Axis air forces.

Regardless of what either side says about it, there is a question mark hanging over our current air strength as to its relative strength to the Communist forces. A high-ranking Air Force officer said in a public speech we were inferior to Russia, later under pressure from higher ups denied having said so. Shades of Billy Mitchell!

If we are no better than Russia in the air, the American people have a right to know it. Second best won't do. If the atomic blow falls there won't be time to build the planes.

Noisy Welcome

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Snyder's Outstanding Motels Make Hotel Project Unnecessary At Present

(Letters from the readers of the Daily News are always welcome, provided they are signed by the writer and give his correct address. They will be printed subject to the publisher's discretion, based on whether the material contained is libelous or the language offensive. Letters should not exceed 300 words.)

To The Daily News:

It was with a distinct sense of shock and utter amazement that I read a public statement appearing in a recent issue of your paper. Quote. "Snyder needs a hotel." Unquote. At first I though I would let it pass, but I find I cannot lend it the dignity of my silence. For I believe that a statement of that sort should be answered, poor as my effort may be. I have no way of knowing why this suggestion was made, or on what basis it was offered. If feel confident it did not originate in the mind of a serious, experienced businessman, except perhaps, in jest. For no well-informed person would want to be a party to anything so rash, or lead anyone to believe there exists the need of such. When it just isn't so!

The fact is: Snyder needs a hotel like she needs five more years of drought, and about four fierce dusters a day, each gathering more momentum as they roll in, and each one worse than the last with almost unendurable intensity. Silly? Unreasonable? Sure! But so is the suggestion that Snyder needs a hotel! At the present, that is. I hope the time will come that we will see such a need, and I'm sure we will, say in ten, fifteen, or twenty years from now. Snyder has made tremendous strides in the past few years, and built many wonderful things, not the least of which is the motel industry, a visual fact which cannot be overlooked.

When a town decides it wants a hotel, it first ascertains the needs of such, by learning how many and what sort of rooms are already available, and if they adequately take care of the people coming to that town.

Another thing they ask, can this town support a hotel? At the present time Snyder has approximately some 300 fine, comfortable, modern, even luxurious motel rooms, equal to any to be found anywhere, which more than adequately takes care of the needs of all visitors, including our tourists, commercial people, and conventioners. The truth is, at the present time Snyder cannot support the motels here. If we all did not carry on extensive advertising, membership in all sorts of tourist clubs and guides, and taking advantage in every way at every opportunity to make ourselves known to the traveling public, some of us might find ourselves in the peculiar predicament of having to fold our wings and silently steal away. As it is, there is a slack period each year which we have come to expect, between the summer and winter tourists, but during which, we don't sit with folded hands expecting the government or some agency to lend us a crutch or a bridge to tide us over. Quite the opposite, in fact, we utilize these priods to enhance the beauty of our courts and the comforts of our rooms, adding any services feasible which we are not already offering. Question — Who gives away more service, dollar for dollar, than the motel operator? At the same time, with the optimism of the true innkeeper, casting a sometimes longing eye down the highway, for that party of people who will come in and enjoy the feast of luxurious comfort that has been so thoughtfully and untiringly prepared for him. It is a work without end, which goes on and on, day and night, twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week. But we love it, because people are our business and we love people.

A circumstance peculiar to our business is the fact that any revenue lost on a room on any night is forever lost; there is no way of making it up. It isn't like merchandise on a merchant's shelf that can be sold later. Any room not rented that day has forever lost the chance to earn back some of the money invested in it. And when the five, six, or eight thousand dollars investment each room represents is considered, then one can see why I could not sit silently and let this pass unnoticed.

A little food for thought: For the benefit of those whose attention has not been drawn to these things before, and who are now aware of them, due to the recent article referred to above, I offer this. Why not now, at this instant, get pencil and paper, write down every business and industry in Snyder. (If you don't know them all, get a city or telephone director to help you.) Go down the line, list every one, then their competitors: how many, if any? Are there any businesses in Snyder of which only one is represented? Write them all down, see for yourselves what businesses need more competition. Motel operators will be the first to admit that competition is "the spice of life" . . . no truer words were ever spoken. I feel I'm safe in saying I believe there is not a court owner in town who would want to be the only one here. For many reasons, because aside from the fact he would not be able to do his court justice, there would be no way in which he could present his services for comparison. Consequently, no one would know he was doing his best. Snyder motel operators are friendly competitors, working together to bring the very latest and best within their means to the general public. If there are industries and businesses in Snyder without competition, let them cast about for means of bringing some in, for that way, my friend, a town grows. Not by squeezing an industry already loaded with competitors.

I don't believe a hotel this far inland would stand a chance of inticing tourists, as was suggested in the article. Does anyone remember last year, the joint efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, motels, movies, restaurants, and service stations who tried to publicize Snyder by giving free lodging, meals, entertainment, a tour of the city plus a free tank of gas? Now I ask you, don't you think this program should have been successful in this 'gimmie' age? Let me stress here and now, it didn't die for lack of interest on the part of Snyder participants. The tourists just plain didn't have time!

I'm as civic minded as anyone, I want very much to see our town grow and prosper, and I hope to continue in my own small way to lend every effort to that purpose. I also want to see Snyder build the things she needs for that continued growth and prosperity, but not to stifle a business of which there already is an abundance. A public library? Yes. An office building? By all means. A television station? That, my friend, would be advancement and growth in the most modern degree.

I want to say now that I'm not an authority on anything; I don't claim to be. Far from it. I'm merely offering my opinion, and it is solely my own, based on my 23 years' hotel, plus five years' motel experience and observation. I believe I know just a little about the cost of operation and maintenance of a hotel, that being my first love. Believe me, it is no small amount, regardless of size. So I suggest that henceforth, all facts and factors involved be first ascertained before being given to the public.

EDITOR'S NOTE — The Daily News policy normally is to limit letters for publication to a maximum of 300 words. However, an exception was made in the case of the above letter, since it deals with a topic of particular interest to Snyder residents and is exceptionally well presented. The writer apparently refers to a remark by Dan Eddy of Dallas, who spoke at a kick-off breakfast for a Chamber of Commerce membership drive. At the time, Eddy was listing examples of projects which can be undertaken by chambers of commerce in the community interest. The Snyder Chamber of Commerce does not have a hotel project in its program of work at this time, but has such a project on a tentative list for a long-range objective, in the event that Snyder's growth eventually justifies it. This is in line with the writer's suggestion.

British Voter To Have Difficulty In Making His Selection Next Thursday

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON, May 23 (AP)—Arthur Bloxham — as British as bad weather—is hopping mad over the state of affairs in 1955, but he can't make up his mind how to vote about it.

"Can one chap change things with a vote?" he asked and then answered himself with, "I just don't know."

His chance comes next Thursday in the fourth British general election since World War II.

"I'm burned up about two things in particular — high prices and these bloody strikes."

He blames Prime Minister Eden's Conservative government for the high cost of living and says union labor is tormenting the average Englishman's life with strike after strike.

In the last 12 months Britain has gone through a stevedores' strike, a London bus strike, a national newspaper strike, a coal miners' strike and has barely warded off two railway strikes.

Many of those union men were, with their strikes, protesting against high prices too, by demanding higher wages in a world of rising costs.

Arthur Bloxham doesn't see it that way though. He's no union man.

He is 34 and the assistant manager of a big neighborhood dairy. He has a wife and two sons.

There are thousands of Britons much like him among the 51 millions who live on this tightly packed island.

His salary is $140 a month, around the average income of English working men.

Bloxham lives in a small four-room apartment for which he pays $34 a month. His monthly gas bill comes to $2.50. As to food, he dug through some old grocery bills that dated back to early 1951, the year the Conservatives threw out the socialists.

His bills showed he's paying about 75 cents a pound for beef. It cost him about 48 cents under Labor when food was rationed.

Bread was less than five cents a loaf then and now it's nine.

"Five years ago I was making 10 pounds a week and I went to see football on my days off," said Bloxham. "Now I make 12 pounds, but I have to take odd jobs in my spare time."

"Aw, cut it, Arthur," said his wife. "You used to walk to work. Now you ride a motorbike and we're going to buy a sidecar, and there's no more rationing."

Laborites admit there's been a rise in living standards under the Conservatives, but they say the rise has been much sharper for monied people than for ordinary folks. Conservatives say wages have risen as much as prices.

Armed with stacks of statistics, both parties point accusing fingers when it comes to one of the nation's most controversial election subjects—the cost of living.

Labor and Conservatives have published manifestoes and campaign guides that go deeply and tortuously into the dizzy decimals and staggered indices on the cost of living.

"The Tories fought the last election on a pledge to bring prices down," says the Labor manifesto, "and Mr. Butler (chancellor of the Exchequer) promised not to cut food subsidies. In less than a year he broke his promise and thus deliberately drove up the cost of living."

The Conservative answer in their 638-page campaign guide is:

"Six years of socialist government (1945-51) left this country in dire economic straits and it was obvious to fair-minded persons that the sharp upward spiral of inflation could not be reversed quickly.

"The runaway rise in the cost of living has been halted and prices are much steadier. It is true that some prices have gone up, but those represent once-for-all movements for special reasons."

And so it goes with a man like Arthur Bloxham bogged in a quagmire of charges and countercharges that he reads in his papers, hears over his radio and sees on his television.

Womanly Intuition Indicates Ike And Adlai Race In 1956

By INEZ ROBB

Many newspapers and news periodicals these days are full of "think" pieces by political savants dealing with the probability that Mr. Eisenhower will or will not run for re-election in '56 and that Adlai Stevenson will or will not be his Democratic opponent.

All of these pieces are "iffy," studded with "buts" and criss-crossed by more hedges than the fields of Normandy. Scorning such cagey tactics, this columnist is crawling right out on a limb and starting to saw.

Buttressed by womanly intutition and a fair working knowledge of political skullduggery, I am prepared flatly to predict that Mr. Eisenhower will be the Republican candidate and Mr. Stevenson the Democratic candidate in 1956, even as in 1952.

At this point in the course of human events, it must be fairly apparent that Mr. Eisenhower is all things to all Republicans, with the possible exception of Sen. William F. Knowland, who hath a lean and hungry look every time his glance strays toward the White House.

That is, Pres. Eisenhower is all things to all Republicans and to a good many independents except one thing: the President is no Houdini.

And Mr. Eisenhower will need to be a Houdini, a real escape artist, raised to the nth power if he makes good his getaway from the tearful entreaties of the Republican National Committee, powerful Republican politicians who hope to catch a victory ride on his coattails, and assorted GOP bureaucrats who would be turned out to pasture if the President cries "quits."

If the GOP brain-trusters could persuade a reluctant Ike to save the nation and the GOP by running in 1952, it should be duck soup to persuade him that the nation and the Republican party are in even more dire peril in '56.

Some Republicans were furious in print when Vice Pres. Richard Nixon said the GOP couldn't win in '56 without Mr. Eisenhower. But they probably will make no bones about that harsh fact when they have Ike's ear in private.

The President is a great man for fulfilling his duty and performing his obligations. The GOPers will prove to him beyond shadow of doubt that he will be walking out on his duty and selling his obligations short if he refuses to run for a second term.

So-o-o—what about Mr. Stevenson as fall guy for the Democrats in '56? He polled a tremendous vote in '52 against one of the nation's greatest public heroes. And I have a feeling the Democrats will no more let him get away in '56 than the GOP will forego Mr. Eisenhower.

"Honest Ave" Harriman hath a built-in lean and hunger look bestowed on him by nature, ambition and Carmine De Sapio. And he probably has that old seersucker suit, worn all during the Democratic National Convention in '52 to prove his affinity for the Common Man, ready for any emergency in '56.

But, the Democrats probably will work on Mr. Stevenson in much the same manner as the Republicans on Mr. Eisenhower. Like it or lump it, neither can escape his fate or his praty. And, as my sawing arm begins to tire, I give you Ike and Adlai in '56 and may the better man win.

'Reluctant Wagon' Makes Up To 103 Miles Per Hour

By JIM MARTENHOFF

MIAMI, Fla., May 23 (AP)—If you're ever down in these parts and start to pass a 1928 model station wagon, take a close look before you try.

It might be Worth Gruelle's "Reluctant Wagon" — a misleading name if there ever was one.

It's a 1928 model all right—he's owned it for 27 years. But it'll do 103 miles per hour.

Gruelle is an architect and builder—and you could call him a hot rod fan too, since he souped up the Reluctant Wagon.

But it wasn't always thus—he bought it new in 1928 for $325. Worth worked for an automobile agency near Norwalk, Conn.

There was a waiting list for Ford station wagons then. He sold it to a farmer a week later.

"He was a friend of the boss," he explains in faintly plaintive tones.

A few months later Worth bought it back — for $55. The farmer had turned it over on the Boston Post Road.

Worth fixed it up. His job was selling racing parts and equipment and souping up the "hot rods" of the time.

"I used to lower the steering wheels and slant back the windshields on roadsters for the sports of that day," he said.

So with his experience and ability, he repaired it for $30—including a new wood body and top.

He drove it then steadily—right on through World War II, hauling block and construction materials. He put over 300,000 miles on it, and in all that time he bought only one factory-rebuilt engine and the usual tires, condensers and coils, and similar odds and ends.

He refused to guess what the wagon cost him in upkeep. "It was pretty cheap to run," he said. "I can say one thing, though — it cost one heckuva lot less to keep up than a horse and that's for sure."

After World War II he decided to come to Florida, where his family had wintered since 1923. It was here that the Reluctant Wagon came into its own.

Gruelle stripped it down and reworked or replaced everything, painted it bronze-red and put in a 1948 Mercury V8 engine. Souped up with reboring dual carburetors and a modified manifold it gave him the power of 135 eager horses. He installed a 1939 Ford transmission, a Cadillac radiator, Lincoln hydraulic brakes, oversized wheels and tires, modern headlights, extra springing, radio, new instrument panel, spotlight and a new, solid mahogany body. He put in new floor carpeting, new leather seats and a fancy steering wheel.

But he kept that old, nostalgic, model A horn, the one that gently "ha-oo-ga's."

"That horn really gets 'em," he grins.

No one knows what'll happen next. Gruelle is putting a new engine in his wagon. It's a Dodge V8 and with an Offenhauser manifold, solid valve lifters and a few other refinements, it'll give him 205 horsepower.

"Anything can happen," he says, and grins a little expectantly.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

THE DAY THE CENTURY ENDED. By Francis Irby Gwaltney. Rinehart.

When the curtain rises abruptly on the first scene in this novel, Sam Gifford is a prionser, in chains, with an armed guard set over him. Sam tells the story:

It's in the Philippines, and Sam got there the long way round. An Arkansas boy, son of a leading local citizen, married to Jenny, he joined the National Guard and was being a soldier — unprofessional, a kind of sunshine soldier — but a soldier all the same when the bombs fell at Pearl Harbor. It still doesn't seem like a real mean war, for there's base camp to which Jenn follows him, and after all, her father, Col. Cozzens, is his colonel. It's a gentlemanly sort of business; there's a code, or so Sam supposes.

But Sam's offense can get him before a firing squad: during combat, while his outfit was routing out some Japanese, he swung the butt of his rifle on his commanding officer, a lieutenant, and was on the point of finishing him off, deliberately, when a comrade knocked him down — thus in effect of saving two lives. An officer who has courtmartialed so many men he doesn't dare go through with this "pardons" him by sending him off to a tough combat group, and we follow him from then til the bomb fell on Hiroshima.

So it's from bomb to bomb, from the old kind to the new, from the past with a great leap into the future. Few novels so good as this have come out of World War II. Gwaltney's sweeping story covers the two extremes of passion, love and hate—the tenderest and frankest ove, the most vicious and irrepressible hate. This is only one of the grand contrasts which give this novel its enviable scope and its eminent readability.

Auto Hits Fish

HAWESVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Two motorists reported they ran over a fish recently.

They were driving on a road covered by floodwaters when bump, bumpety, bump! The car bucked as if it were running over a log. The men looked around saw a 4-foot fish — probably a carp — floating away, his tummy skyward.

Vital Statistics

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — In police radio vernacular, "ten-six" means out of service.

Recently Sgt. Armando Burgos was absent from the sheriff's department. On the board reserved to determine the whereabouts of officers he noted "ten-six. Having a baby." It was a son.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — No rain was forecast for the annual Cherokee Area Council Boy Scout Exposition, but it came down in "buckets" shortly after a Talladega, Ala., troop did an Indian rain dance.

Many Around Capitol Hill Blend Paint And Politics

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Big-wigs like Churchill and Eisenhower aren't the only ones to take paint brush to blend politics out of the canvas of their private lives.

Some men on capitol hill, on the Chief's Team in the White House, their wives, children, and even their grandchildren, find pleasure, satisfaction — an escape — in the realm of color, perspective and form. In fact, a great many of these are professionals whose work has been exhibited in some of the country's best galleries.

The work of some 51 of these was exhibited at the Congressional Club, made up of wives of the lawmakers. It was their third art show. Mrs. Frank L. Sundstron, wife of the former Republican congressman from New Jersey, and an artist of note, was in charge.

Although the President was unable to exhibit any of his work, his White House family was well represented.

Mrs. Sherman Adams, wife of his top assistant, had two admirable oil paintings, one a New England scene, another a still life, on view.

Others showing included Mrs. Harold Stassen, wife of the foreign operations administrator, and Mrs. Gerald Morgan, and Mrs. Murray Snyder. Mrs. H. Struve Hensel, wife of the assistant secretary of defense; Mrs. Albert J. Roberston, wife of the assistant postmaster general (and a renowned lithographer in her own right); Mrs. Joseph Campbell, wife of the comptroller general; Mrs. William Burger, wife of the assistant attorney general, and Mrs. Kitty Cole Kaul, daughter of the housing, home and finance administrator, were other executive branch representatives with works showing.

A triple entry came from the family of Rep. Brooks Hays (D-Ark). The congressman and his wife and Mrs. Hays' 88-year-old mother, Mrs. Gila Prathers, who has only recently started to paint, had exhibits.

Other House members submitting work were Republicans Walt Horan, (Wash), J. Errett Scrivner (Kan), and John M. Vorys (Ohio), and Charles D. Bennet (D-Fla).

The wives of three Democratic senators also entered exhibits; Mrs. Lister Hill (Ala), Mrs. Estes Kefauver (Tenn) and Mrs. Herbert Lehman (NY). Mrs. W. E. Miller, wife of the Republican congressman from New York, and her daughter, Elizabeth, 11, were the only mother-child combination.

Tri-Service, Tigers Win Over Weekend

Tri-Service held onto its first place spot in the City Baseball League during the weekend, while the Tigers moved from third place into a tie for second.

The Tri-Service team yesterday afternoon downed Sun, which had been holding second place alone, 8-4 in a makeup game. The game had been rained out last week and was reset for yesterday. The Tigers took Hermleigh 5-3 in a Saturday night game.

Next play in the league is scheduled for tomorrow night, with Tri-Service to meet Hermleigh.

Charlie Epperson pitched the win in yesterday's game for Tri-Service. He allowed Sun six hits while striking out six and walking only one. Loser was Don Ballard, who gave up eight hits, fanned three, and walked one.

Tri-Service scored four of its runs in the first inning. Pete Hester got on base by error, followed by a single by Ben Bishop. Howard Sterling walked to load the bases, and Garland Bishop followed that with a single. Leroy Williams made first by fielder's choice, and Don Bruner singled. Four runs behind, Sun scored only once during the first, with Gene Kirby getting a single and later getting home on an error. Tri-Service got another run in the third when Garland Bishop got on by error and went home on Williams' double. A single by Kirby was followed by Dick Sparks' making first on error for Sun in the third. Both of those got in to make it 5-3.

Tri-Service kept scoring, however, getting two runs in the fourth when Hester singled, J. M. Sterling got on base by error, Howard Sterling singled, and Garland Bishop made his base by fielder's choice. The team got one more run in the fifth when Mickey Sterling walked and later got home on Hester's single. A walk by Jack Tanner turned into a run for Sun in the sixth when Parrish singled.

The Tigers and Hermleigh went scoreless in their game until the fourth inning. In that frame, D. Greene singled, Bill Voss walked, and Doug Chitsey tripled to bring them in. Chitsey came in on an error. In the same inning, Bernie Hagins walked and Ronnie Baker singled for the Tigers. Dwayne Prince sacrificed Hagins home, and Jimmy Bryant singled to bring in Baker.

The Tigers stayed behind until the sixth. In that frame, Hagins walked, Prince singled, Bryant sacrificed to bring Hagins in, Milton Ham singled Prince home, and Ham later got home on an error.

Prince was winning hurler in that game. He allowed four hits, struck out six, and walked two. Loser was Ray Isaacs, who allowed five hits, fanned five, and walked five.

Homers Win All Games In Texas Loop

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you don't think this is the era of the long ball, look at what happened in the Texas League Sunday. Six games were played, and home runs won them all.

San Antonio increased its lead to two games by bouncing Oklahome City 4-2 and 10-2.

Houston split a twin bill with Tulsa and held onto second place as third place Dallas tumbled before Shreveport, 4-2.

Fort Worth stayed in fourth with an 8-4 decision over Beaumont.

Houston outhit Tulsa in the first game, 7-4, but lost 1-0 in the eighth inning on Rod Graber's home run. The game was scheduled to go only seven innings.

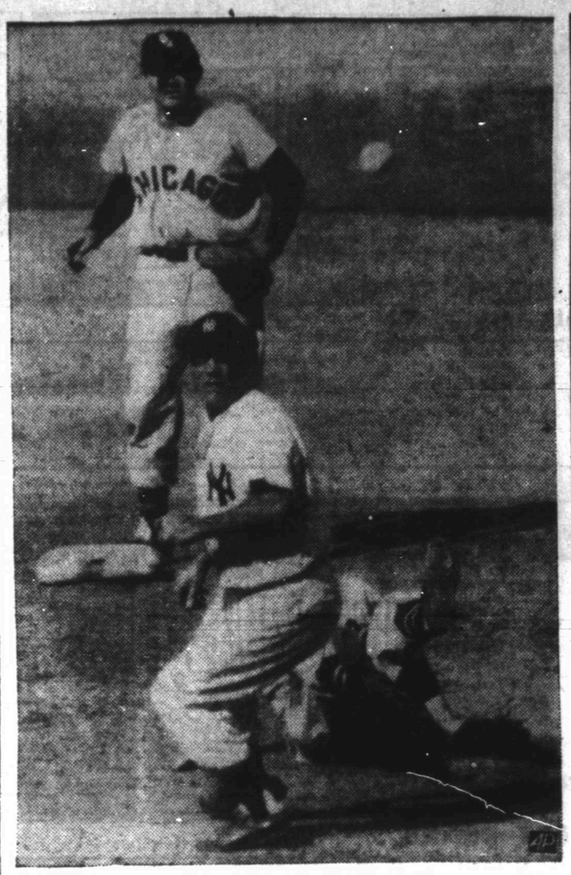
Houston came back to win the second 6-3 with back-to-back homers by Sherwin Dixon and Bob Boyd pushing the Buffs off to a first-inning lead Tulsa never could catch up with.

Frank Marchio pounded in six runs with a homer and two doubles as Fort Worth licked Beaumont. The futile Exporters got only four hits, just one of them in 7 2-3 innings that relief tosser John Janese worked.

Joe Koppe homered with one on in the sixth to bring Shreveport its victory.

Chuck Oertel's 2-run homer off Wayne McLeland broke up the first San Antonio-Tulsa game. It put the Missions ahead 3-2 and they were never headed.

In the second game the Missions splurged for five runs in the third to win going away. Witty Quintana Jim Pisoni each had a 2-run homer.



PLAY THAT ANGERED WHITE SOX—Chicago White Sox second baseman Nellie Fox, on the ground after colliding with New York Yankees' Hank Bauer on a force play at second, gets his throw off in attempt to nip batter Andy Carey at first for a double play in the seventh inning at Yankee Stadium in New York. Bauer, accused by the White Sox of "dirty baseball" for running into the lighter Fox, turns to watch first as Chicago shortstop Chico Carrasquel backs play in the background. Play started with Carey's grounder to Fox with bases full. Fox tagged Bauer before spilling, but Carey beat the throw at first. Yankees won, 11-6.

Several New Marks In West Coast Meet

By CHRIS EDMONDS

MODESTO, Calif. (AP)—An unhappy javelin thrower, a cocky relay team and a thwarted miler today are the toasts of the track and field world.

The six men combined forces Saturday night to make the 14th annual California Relays the outstanding meet of 1955, with three world record performances on the baked clay Modesto track.

Writing the new records were Franklin (Bud) Held with a whistling toss of 268 feet, 2½ inches in the javelin, the University of Texas' 440-yard relay team with a sizzling 40.2 seconds clocking, and miler Wes Santee, who ripped off an 880 in 1 minute, 48.5 seconds.

Santee, the ex-Kansas cowboy, is unlikely to get recognition in the record book although he bettered Mal Whitfield's recognized 1:48.6. The man he beat by 20 yards, Lon Spurrier of Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., has a recent 1:47.5 dual meet clocking which is virtually a cinch to stand.

The brilliant Longhorn sprint team of Dean Smith, Alvin Freiden, Jerry Prewit and Bobby Whilden announced before taking the track that it was making a final bid for the 40.5 seconds record set by the University of Southern California in 1938. Sophomore Whilden's anchor leg, on which he ran the University of Houston's Larry McBride into the ground, did the business.

Held, one-time Stanford star now competing for the San Francisco Olympic Club and already the world javelin king on his throw of 263 feet, 10 inches in 1953, was disgruntled when he took the field. He had tossed the spear only 188 fee tin the Los Angeles Coliseum Relays the night before.

Texas, by virtue of its record-cracking 440-yard squad and winning quartets in the 880-yard and 2-mile relays, won team honors with 34 points. Southern California was second with 32½.

PONY, LITTLE LOOPS SLATED FOR OPENINGS

It's anybody's guess whether the Pony League and Little Leagues will open their schedules.

There was no word from either organization this morning as to whether opening games will go on as scheduled tonight. Fields were wet down last night by rainfall, but there was a possibility the fields would be in shape for play by tonight.

In case play is held, here is the schedule: In the Pony League, Lions Club Phillies vs. Von Roeder Red Sox at 7 p.m., Courthouse Tigers vs. Scurry Butane Dodgers at 9 p.m. In the Little Leagues, Quarterback Giants vs. Lions Club Cubs of the National League at 7 p.m., American Legion Yankees vs. Holder Indians in the American League in the second game.

Pony League games will be played on the Towle Park baseball field, while those of the Little League will be played on the high school field. The Pony League was scheduled to start last week, but an entire week of games was rained out.

Mayer Wins Open At KC

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Dick Mayer, of St. Petersburg, Fla., who was beginning to wonder whether he'd ever win another golf tournament, had his confidence back today plus a $4,000 check for a 6-stroke victory in the Kansas City Open.

He breezed through the final round of the $20,000 meet yesterday for a 5-under-par 6, giving him a 72-hole total of 271.

Six strokes behind with 277s were young Billy Maxwell, the former national amateur champion from Odessa, Tex., and Chandler Harper, the veteran pro from Chattanooga, Tenn. The 25-year-old Maxwell closed out with a 71 and Harper shot a final 72 over the 6,665-yard Hillcrest Country Club course.

It was Mayer's first major victory this year.

He played steady golf during the four-day meet, carding 69, 67 and 68 to go with his final round 67.

In the No. 4 spot was Bob Rosburg, Stanford University graduate from San Francisco, with a 278 total. He collected $1,200.

Grouped next with 279s were Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill.; Eric Monti, Los Angeles, and Bud Holscher, Apple Valley, Calif. Each got $1,000.

Plainview Is Tightening WT-NM Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Plainview Sunday night tightened its hold on the West Texas-New Mexico League, pushing Albuquerque into third place with a 5-3 victory.

Pampa beat Lubbock 9-4, and moved into the second spot. At Clovis, a slugfest ended with Clovis on top of Abilene 15-14. Cellar-dwelling El Paso squeezed past Amarillo 2-1.

At Albuquerque, play was rough. Two men were forced to leave the game with injuries. Plainview shortstop Dick Vizkozki suffered a fractured collarbone and will be out several weeks. He was released from the hospital Sunday night.

Vizkozki collided at first base with Bob Flores.

Duke shortstop Gil Valentin left the game with a pulled leg muscle in the seventh frame.

Plainview scored one on a homer by Doug Lewis and broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth with two runs.

At Pampa, the home team blasted two Lubbock pitchers for 11 hits and capitalized on six errors.

Abilene had to fight to win by one run after leading at one point by nine runs. Abilene zoomed ahead in the first inning with six tallies and led 13-4 going into the bottom of the seventh. But Clovis tallied six in the seventh. Abilene added two for important insurance in the top of the ninth and stopped a Clovis onslaught in the final frame after the Pioneers scored four.

At El Paso, the Texans scored one in the first and another in the eighth while holding Amarillo to a third inning run.

Pogo Stick Champ Plans To Retire

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Ten-year-old Eddie Kozlowski, Dearborn's pogo stick jumping champion, is retiring without defending his title.

Eddie bobbed up and down 4,013 times on his pogo stick in setting a local record. But when he stopped he found his stomach continued to go up and down.

For two days he couldn't eat anything but ice cream.

From now on, his mother said, Eddie will work in more useful ways—such as household chores.

RUNNERUP TROPHY FOR BARBARA—Barbara Romack, 22-year-old U.S. women's amateur golf champion from Sacramento, Calif., receives British women's golf championship runnerup trophy at Portrush, Northern Ireland, from Jackson Taggart, captain of the Royal Portrush Club. Barbara was defeated for the British title by Scotland's Jessie Valentine, 7 and 6.

Berra Picks Up 34 Points In Series

By JACK HAND
The Associated Press

Here's a free tip to American League managers. Junk that strategy that calls for putting Mickey Mantle on base to get at Yogi Berra. Although Yogi is batting only .286, his home run spurt has lifted the New York Yankees into the American League lead on a seven-game winning spurt.

Berra hit five home runs in four games against Baltimore over the weekend and four times Mantle was sitting on first base when he connected.

When Baltimore came to town, Berra was hitting only .252. He picked up 34 points, 5 homers and 11 runs batted in, thanks to that "soft touch" Baltimore pitching.

In yesterday's double-header he hit three homers and drove in six runs while the Yanks clouted Baltimore 5-0 and 7-5. This boosted their lead over Cleveland to one full game, despite Early Wynn's one-hitter against Detroit for a 4-0 Tribe victory.

Third-place Chicago split a pair with Kansas City, dropping the opener to Alex Kellner 7-2 but bouncing back with 15 hits and a 10-6 edge in the second game. The Boston-at-Washington game was rained out.

Don Mueller's hot bat helped the New York Giants run their winning streak to six straight, with a double sweep over Pittsburgh 5-2 and 5-3. The Pirates now have lost 11 in a row, only one short of the modern club record of 12, set in 1939.

Although Brooklyn clipped Philadelphia again 8-3, the Dodgers lost half a game of their National League lead that now measures six games ahead of the Giants. Roy Campanella's 10th homer with a man on and Carl Erskine's two-run double were the big blows of a five-run spurt by the Dodgers in the sixth inning.

Gene Conley, the towering Milwaukee right-hander, held Chicago to three hits and struck out eight while fashioning his sixth victory 5-1. The loser was Sad Sam Jones, who pitched a no-hitter against Pittsburgh May 12. Four Chicago errors hurt him.

Luis Arroyo, little St. Louis pitcher, held Cincinnati to five hits as the Cardinals won the second game of a double-header 5-2 and in the process snapped the Redlegs' winning streak at six games. The Redlegs had to rally in the ninth to win the opener 4-3.

Berra's hitting wasn't the only comforting development to Manager Casey Stengel of the Yanks. Eddie Lopat, the veteran left-hander who had lost his first four starts, came through with a steady four-hit shutout, facing only 28 men, in the first game.

Fred Hatfield's single in the fourth inning was the only hit off Wynn at Detroit, where Cleveland ended its brief two-game losing streak. After the hit, Wynn retired 16 men in succession. The Tribe bopped Ned Garver and two others for 10 hits.

Enos Slaughter, on a hot streak since he was traded to Kansas City by the Yanks, followed up a three-hit Saturday with three hits in the first game and two more in the second while the A's split. Kellner's path wad eased in the opener when the A's scored six runs in the second inning, staking him to a 7-0 lead. Chicago couldn't hold a 5-1 lead in the second game and had to rally with a two-run single by Clint Courtney and a homer by Ron Jackson to win.

Mueller drove in all five Giant runs in the second game at Pittsburgh with a single and double to help Hoyt Wilhelm pick up a decision as the relief man for Johnny Antonelli. The second game was called at the end of the eighth on account of rain.

Erskine failed to last the route at Brooklyn when he appeared to be coasting home with an easy 8-1 decision. Homers by Del Ennis and Roy Smalley knocked him loose in the ninth. Ed Roebuck got the final outs.

32 Hits In One Longhorn League Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Six home runs were blasted, 32 hits smashed and 24 runs scored off nine pitchers Sunday night in one game as cellar-dwelling Hobbs whipped Artesia 15-9 in the Longhorn League.

The loss pushed the Numexers into fourth place, 5½ games behind league-leading Midland. San Angelo, idle at Midland because of a storm threat, moved into third place without lifting a bat. Carlsbad whipped Roswell 12-11, and Odessa bounced Big Spring 8-5.

Midland and San Angelo are to play at doubleheader tonight at Midland.

At Hobbs, Hobbs jumped off to an early lead and, by virtue of Manny Junco's bases-full homer in the fifth, led 10-1 going into the sixth. But Artesia came back with seven runs in the sixth and added another in the eighth. Hobbs scored two more in the sixth and three in the eight.

Carlsbad, playing at home, braved high winds in the tilt with Roswell. Four home runs highlighted the game although the league ace, Joe Bauman, could not beg a hit. The game was clinched by Carlsbad in the sixth with six runs.

At Odessa, Odessa scored five times in the fifth inning and stopped Big Spring rallies in the sixth and seventh.

Virgil Akins Is Favored Over Miceli

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Virgil Akins, the veteran St. Louis welterweight who moved back into fistic prominence by knocking out formidable Ronnie Delaney, is a 13-10 favorite to beat New York's jolting Joe Miceli for his fifth straight victory tonight.

Akins, 25, and Miceli, 26, meet in a 10-rounder at New York's St. Nicholas Arena. It was in the same arena May 2 that Akins knocked out Delaney, a ranking middleweight, in the fifth round with a left hook to end Delaney's seven-year unbeaten streak.

Akins' record is 27-13-1. Miceli, another powerful left hooker, whipped Luther Rawlings in his last start April 21. His record is 45-20-7.

Du Mont will telecast at 9 p.m., EST.

Amarillo And Abilene Make State Meet

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Amarillo and Abilene are in the State Schoolboy Baseball Tournament, and four more teams may make it Monday.

That would leave two to be determined later in the week for the big tournament in Austin June 1-3.

Amarillo won its way to the state playoffs by beating Austin of El Paso in two straight games last week. Abilene took two out of three from Midland.

Monday and Monday night these bi-district games are scheduled:

At Fort Worth:-Adamson of Dallas vs Fort Worth North Side. Adamson holds a 1-0 lead in the series.

At Garland:-Waco vs Garland. Waco holds a 1-0 lead in the series.

At Paris:-Paris vs Henderson. Paris holds a 1-0 lead in the series.

At Austin:-Houston Reagan vs. Austin Travis. Reagan holds a 1-0 lead in the series. Two games are scheduled.

Tuesday Port Arthur and Baytown clash, with the winner to go to the state tournament. They are tied in the series 1-1.

Also Tuesday Corpus Christi Ray and McAllen play at Corpus Christi in the second game of the series with Ray leading 1-0.

Corpus Has Biggest Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Corpus Christi held its longest lead of the Big State League season—seven games—Monday, and the Clippers were brutally emphatic about gaining it.

Pete Little, who hit four straight home runs, led an attack that produced 26 hits and smashed Austin 32-7 Sunday night.

It was one of the high-scoring games of the league's history.

All told, Corpus Christi clouted eight homers with Ed Charles getting two and Connie Ryan and Joe Christian one apiece.

Second-place Port Arthur lost 4-3 to Galveston. Don Carroll's single in the eighth drove in Ed Conine with the winning run.

The victory advanced Galveston to a tie for third place with Tyler, which took a 3-1 drubbing from Texas City. Elmer Toth was the man who tamed Tyler. He gave up only seven hits and it required eight innings for Tyler to score against him.

Harlingen moved past Waco into fifth place by beating the Pirates 10-9. The Capitols rallied for two runs in the ninth for the victory. Jorge Lopez singled in the tying run, and John Dewitt drove in the winning tally.

Williams To Play Tonight

BOSTON (AP) — Ted Williams, weary and stiff from lengthy conditioning drills, returns to the Boston Red Sox lineup against the New York Giants tonight in an exhibition game for the benefit of hospitalized war veterans.

The 36-year-old slugger plans to don his familiar No. 9, participate in a home run hitting contest and then take his old post in front of Fenway Park's chummy left field fence.

WHERE'S MAMA?—Two injured children, Robert Steven Adsit, 18 months (center) and Pamela, 4, ask question of Nurse Phyllis Holtgrave as she comforts them in a hospital in San Diego, Calif. Police say their father, Robert John Adsit, 27, navy sailor, beat them and killed baby sister, Cynthia, 4 months, by dashing her against a wall in rage over the disappearance of wife, Lois, 25, 10 days before and trials of caring the children alone. He was charged with murder and assault.

Flier Doubts Record Will Stand Long

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The flier who won his race with the sun from coast to coast and back doesn't think his record will last long.

"After all, the Sabre Jet is six years old," said 1st Lt. John M. Conroy, of the California Air National Guard. "There are faster fighters."

On Saturday, Armed Forces Day and the 28th anniversary of Lindbergh's landing in Paris, Conroy ate breakfast in Los Angeles, lunch in New York and dinner in Los Angeles again.

He flew the Sabre, nicknamed the "California Boomerang," about 5,085 miles in 11 hours, 26 minutes and 33 seconds, including the time for quick turnaround refueling stops and lunch in New York. That averaged about 445 m.p.h.

Conroy's east-to-west flight in 5 hours, 27 minutes, 37 seconds shaved more than an hour off Paul Mantz's 1947 mark of 7:00:04. His west-east leg, however, was slower than the mark of 3:46:33 set by Air Force Lt. Col. Robert D. Scott last March 10 in an F84F.

The lieutenant made the flight, he said, to demonstrate the combat potentiality of National Guard planes, pilots and personnel.

Now the decorated World War II bomber pilot goes back to building swimming pools, his civilian job, since flying is mostly for the weekends.

NAACP Sets 'Legal War'

BELZONI, Miss. (AP)—The National Assn. for Advancement of Colored People pledged legal war against Mississippi's voting laws today after the death of a Negro civil rights leader under mysterious circumstances.

NAACP Executive Secretary Roy Wilkins promised the court battle at a mass meeting yesterday of some 400 Negroes, called to protest the handling of the Rev. George Lee's death.

Wilkins, from New York, charged that an "atmosphere of racial hatred" stirred up by the prosegregation citizens councils "brought about this slaying."

Lee was found fatally injured when his car crashed into a house. The FBI laboratory said specks of metal around his face resembled buckshot.

Negro leaders believe he was killed for urging other Negroes to register to vote in Humphreys County, where Negroes outnumber whites.

Sheriff Ike Shelton agreed Lee was shot, but thought it might be the work of another Negro because the minister was a "ladies' man."

The New York chapter of the NAACP has pledged $500 to help the national organization investigate and publicize the unsolved death.

The mass meeting was held in an atmosphere of relative calm at the Elks Club in the Negro section of town. Three uniformed policemen sat outside in a patrol car while several carloads of plain clothesmen from the state highway patrol toured the area. There were no incidents of any kind.

WHY CAN'T JOHNNY READ?

Textbook Plan Is Geared To Stifle Phonetic System

By RDUOLF FLESCH

CHAPTER 2

FACTORY-PRODUCED TEXTBOOKS

There are one or two dozen textbook houses in America. By far the most lucrative part of their business is the publication of readers for elementary schools.

There are millions of dollars of profit in these little books. Naturally, the competition is tremendous. So is the investment; so is the sales effort; so is the effort that goes into writing, editing, and illustrating these books.

Now, with our Chinese word-learning system you can't produce a series of readers by printing nice, interesting collections of stuff children of a certain age might like to read. Oh no.

Every single story, every single sentence that goes into these books has to be carefully prepared and carefully checked to make sure that each word is one of the 637 that the poor child is supposed to have memorized up to that point—or if it's the 638th word, that it appears in just the right context for optimum guesswork and is then repeated 17 times at carefully worked-out intervals.

TIRELESS DRUDGES

Naturally, the stupendous and frighteningly idiotic work of concocting this stuff can only be done by tireless teamwork of many educational drudges. But if the textbook house put only the drudges on the title page, that wouldn't look impressive enough to beat the competition. So there has to be a "senior author" — someone with a national reputation who teaches how to teach reading at one of the major universities.

And that's why each and every one of the so-called authorities in this field is tied up with a series of readers based on the Chinese word-learning method.

As long as you used that method, you have to buy some $30 worth per child of Dr. So-and-so's readers; as soon as you switch to the common-sense method of teaching the sounds of the letters, you can give them a little primer and then proceed immediately to anything from the Reader's Digest to "Treasure Island."

I have personally met some of the leading authorities in the field of reading. They are all very nice ladies and gentlemen, and obviously sincere and well meaning. But they are firmly committed to the application of the word method, and it would be inhuman to expect from them an objective point of view.

FURIOUS HOSTILITY

Consequently it's utterly impossible to find anyone inside the official family of the educators saying anything even slightly favorable to the natural method of teaching reading. Mention the alphabetic method or phonetics or "phonics" and you immediately arouse derision, furious hostility, or icy silence.

Take the case of the late Dr. Leonad Bloomfield, professor of linguistics at Yale. Dr. Bloomfield wasn't just any scholar in the field of language; he was universally recognized as the greatest American linguist of modern times. His masterpiece was a book simply called "Language," published in 1933.

In the last few pages of that book, Bloomfield dealt with the teaching of English and reading in our schools. "Our schools," he wrote, "are utterly benighted in linguistic matters . . . Nothing could be more discouraging than to read our 'educationalists' treatises on methods of teaching children to read."

Several years later, Bloomfield took time out to prepare an alphabetic-phonetic primer, based on strictly scientific principles. It was an excellent piece of work, carefully designed to teach children quickly and painlessly. After Bloomfield's death in 1949 his literary executor offered the manuscript to every single elementary textbook publisher in the United States. Not one of them considered it. As I am writing, the book is still unpublished.

TAUGHT HIS DAUGHTER

The introduction to this Bloomfield primer was, however, published as an article in the Elementary English Review in April and May, 1942. I ran across that article eight or ten years ago and that's what started me on this whole business. Taking the ideas of that article and applying them in home-made fashion, I taught my eldest daughter Anne to read when she was five years old. She's ten now and reads anything and everything, all the time.

Here is what Bloomfield told the country's elementary English teachers 12 years ago: "The most serious drawback of all the English reading instruction known to me. . . is the drawback of the word-method . . . The child who fails to grasp the content of what he reads is usually a poor reader in the mechanical sense . . . If you want to play the piano with feeling and expression, you must master the keyboard and learn to use your fingers on it. The chief source of difficulty in getting the content of reading is imperfect mastery of the mechanics of reading. . . We must train the child to respond vocally to the sight of letters. . ."

And what did the teachers and reading experts do after the greatest scientist in the field had explained to them their mistake? Absolutely nothing.

ONLY ONE PRIMER

The most conspicuous example of this deadly warfare between the entrenched "experts" and the advocates of common sense in reading is the reception of the primer "Reading With Phonics" by Hay and Wingo, published by the J. B. Lippincott Company. By some miracle, this textbook company decided to jump into the fray and publish the Hay-Wingo book, the only primer on the market today that is based firmly on the alphabetic-phonetic principle.

The book was duly reviewed in Elementary English magazine by Dr. Celia B. Stendler of the University of Illinois. I quote: "'Read-With Phonics' does not fit the modern conception of the place of phonics in a reading program. . . One wonders at the naivete of the authors. . . . One wonders, too, whether the authors have ever had the thrill of seeing a group of children learn to read by the use of modern methods. The zest with which these children approach reading and the zeal with which they read will almost certainly be lost if we turn the clock back 20 years with 'Reading With Phonics.'" (This from someone who is all for turning the clock back 3,500 years!)

Now that I have gone through dozens and dozens of books on reading, I know how well it all fits together. The primers and readers are keyed to the textbooks on how to teach reading, and the textbooks are all carefully written so that every teacher in the land is shielded from any information about how to teach children anything about letters and sounds.

A FOOL PROOF SYSTEM

It's a fool proof system all right. Every grade-school teacher in the country has to go to a teachers' college or school of education; every teachers' college gives at least one course on how to teach reading; every course on how to teach reading is based on a textbook; every one of those textbooks is written by one of the high priests of the word method.

In the old days it was impossible to keep a good teacher from following her own common sense and practical knowledge; today the phonetic system of teaching reading is kept out of our schools as effectively as if we had a dictatorship with an all-powerful Ministry of Education.

TOMORROW—Learning or Word Guessing? Is English a phonetic language? Is failure to learn to read the fault of the parents? How does a child learn words if he can't sound them out? Is word guessing practiced only by beginners, or do children in the higher grades do it, too?

24 Persons Die In Virginia Violence

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Twenty-four persons died by violent means in Virginia Saturday and yesterday. It was one of the bloodiest two-day periods in the state's history.

Sixteen persons perished in automobile accidents—five in a head-on crash Saturday near Fredericksburg, three more in another collision yesterday near Jetersville.

Three small children burned to death in a fire yesterday near Charlottesville. Three men, one a Marine pilot and the others two prominent West Virginia businessmen, died in plane crashes.

There were two fatal shootings, one a homicide, the other a suicide.

Stratofortresses Cancel Exhibition

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—Two of the new B52 Stratofortresses started out yesterday for a military show in Washington but came back because they could not have been seen from the ground.

The two intercontinental bombers flew about 7 hours 35 minutes. Officers here said the exact distance and times could not be given as the B52 performance figures are classified information.

Officials at Bolling AFB, Washington, told the planes to turn around because of poor visibility from the ground.

The United States has 30 per cent of the world's railroad mileage.

The name of Hell-to-Pay, Wash., founded in 1889 as a railroad camp, has evolved into Eltopia.

Queen Hears Billy Graham

WINDSOR, England (AP)—American evangelist Billy Graham's prestige rose to new heights in Britain today after his first sermon for Queen Elizabeth and the royal family.

The 36-year-old American preached at the Queen's invitation for 25 minutes yesterday in the private chapel at Windsor's royal lodge, 20 miles west of London. Afterward he and his wife lunched with the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh.

The Queen and the duke drove over from nearby Windsor Castle for the private service, which was attended also by the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret. It was Graham's first meeting with the Queen.

"I can only say that it was a great privilege to be at Windsor today and that the Queen was very charming and gracious to us," he told reporters.

Other sources said Graham took as his text Acts 27:25: "Wherefore, sirs, be of good cheer: for I believe God, that it shall be even as he told me."

Queen Elizabeth is titular head of the Church of England. Although her church has never officially endorsed Graham's crusades, it has given them strong support.

Graham is ordained a Southern Baptist minister but has emphasized an interdenominational approach in his crusades.

He wound up his seven weeks of public meetings in Scotland and London Saturday night with an impassioned sermon before 90,000 in the capital's Wembley Stadium. The meeting was broadcast by the British Broadcasting Corp.

Graham's aides said attendance at his meetings in Britain this year totaled 3,139,365.

Graham left for Edinburgh last night to attend a general assembly of the Church of Scotland. Next Sunday he will go to Paris to begin crusade meetings on the Continent.

Pier In Hospital For Two More Days

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actress Pier Angeli, an expectant mother, probably will be hospitalized another two days.

A physician said the wife of singer Vic Damone was admitted Saturday because of premature labor pains. The doctor said the pains have quieted and chances "look very good" for successful birth of the baby she expects in three months.

Miss Angeli suffered a broken pelvis and an eye injury last Feb. 25 during an airplane ride to Palm Springs. The plane hit an air pocket and dashed her against the cabin wall.

McCormack Believes House Would Vote To Ovverride Veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Majority Leader McCormack (D-Mass) said today there is a "good chance" the House will override President Eisenhower's veto of the postal pay hike if it gets a chance.

Eisenhower turned down a compromise 8.6 per cent average pay boost for the half million postal workers Thursday, saying the bill was too expensive and not fair to some groups it would have affected.

The veto comes up for a Senate test tomorrow, and Eisenhower supporters say they've got enough votes to uphold the veto there. If they fail, the bill goes to the House for final action.

McCormack said in an interview he supported the 8.6 per cent measure as a compromise, including job reclassification features which the administration asked for.

Libyan King Due To Wed Rich Egyptian

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Libyan circles in Cairo say their King, 66-year-old Idriss I, will arrive in Egypt tomorrow to marry Alia Abdel Moneim Lamloun, 38-year-old daughter of a rich Egyptian landowner.

Miss Monelm Lamloun, whose family is of Libyan origin, will be the second of the four wives his Moslem religion allows the King. His first wife of many years, fortyish Queen Fatima, has given him no sons. Under Moslem law only a male can succeed to the throne.

Libyan sources said the King has never seen his bride-to-be but made arrangements for the marriage during a recent visit to Egypt.

Man Crushed By Elephant

DALLAS (AP)—A four-ton elephant, thrown from a trailer truck, crushed a man to death near here yesterday.

The truck jumped a ditch and overturned. Killed were Norman E. Joseph, 30, of Newark, N. J., and Queenie, 25-year-old 8,145-pound elephant.

Truck driver W. C. Hendricks, 36, of Atlanta, Ga., was treated for an injured nose.

Hendricks said the brakes failed as he tried to turn off an expressway.

Deputy Sheriff H. G. Vayette said Joseph, riding in the cab with Hendricks, jumped out when he saw the truck was going to turn over.

"He landed in the path of the trailer, and the elephant broke through the siding and landed right on top of him," Vayette said.

Hendricks said he and Joseph were on their way from Corsicana, Tex., to McKinney, Tex., to set up a Lions Club show. He said the truck and Queenie were owned by the T. J. Tidwell Shows and Carnival, of Big Spring, Tex.

Wife Shoots Officer, Then Kills Herself

RENO, Nev. (AP) — William McKenzie, second in command of the Nevada highway patrol, was shot to death yesterday by his wife, who then took her own life, Coroner William Beemer reported.

The bodies of the couple were found side by side in their bed behind a locked door at their home.

McKenzie, 43, had been with the highway patrol and the State Public Service Commission for 17 years. His wife was 42. Beever said relatives could give no reason for the shooting.
