City Council Hears Engineers

The City Council, in a special meeting Wednesday night, heard Gene Urban, of McLendon and Associates, discuss the map that he has been preparing, showing grade levels throughout the city.

Using this map, Urban said, it would be possible to plan future sewers and ditches to the best advantage for the city, and that it would also form a basis for properly orienting future subdivisions.

Asked by the council what the approximate cost of a proposed sewer line down Live Oak Street, from King to First Street, Urban said that it would run between $8,000 and $10,000.

W. W. McLendon, who accompanied Urban, told the council that in future, all developments should use the map for base data.

The hobby show and cake sale, sponsored by senior and junior high school Parent-Teacher Associations Saturday night, was an unqualified success, according to Mrs. A. L. Holland, who estimated that between 400 and 500 people were in the Woman's Club during the evening.

One of the most sought-after attractions was Joe Hissong's display of fluorescent minerals, which drew a steady audience from the time the doors opened until they closed.

Top door prize for ladies, of a silver teapot and cream and sugar was won by Mrs. E. W. Means; top prize for men, of a beautiful spinning rod and reel went to (continued on page 8)

Mrs. Johnson To Have Exhibit In Antique Show

Mrs. Naomi Johnson will have a late 19th century pitcher made by a German artist-actor, an 1850 Remington pearl-handled .41 caliber derringer made by Remington and a brass bell that may have been worn by one of the camels imported to this area before the Civil War in her exhibit at the 17th Annual Gulf Coast Antique show to be held in Munds Hall, Corpus Christi, from 10 a.m. to 9:30 p.m., March 23-26.

The pitcher was made by Aanton Lang, potter from Oberammergau, Germany, who played the part of Christus in the famous passion play held there in 1900, 1910 and 1922—the youngest person ever to take the role.

The first Passion Play was produced in Oberammergau in 1670 under the guidance of the monks. The pitcher is royal blue with scattered, enameled flowers.

The Derringer is double-barreled, .41 caliber, and of the type worn as a sleeve or holdout gun by gamblers and others in the bad old days of the West.

The brass bell to be displayed is of the type worn by the camels imported into this area under orders of Jefferson Davis when he was secretary of war for the United States, in an effort to find a means of transportation for the dry parts of West Texas and New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Government reports disclose the fact that they were quite successful with any intelligent care, but that the experiment failed because of the hide-bound inability of the government packers and others to accept the camels instead of the mules and horses that they had been used to.

Used in exploring the Big Bend and other parts of West Texas the camels far outstripped other means of transportation, but with the coming of the Civil War, the men interested in the experiment were scattered and the camels left to the not-so-tender mercies of ignorant and prejudiced men.

Rockport Man Accused Of Prowling Shot

Edwin D. Bradshaw, 25 of Rockport was shot Monday night by a home owner who had reported a prowler around his home several times recently. Bradshaw was reported in poor condition in Corpus Christi Memorial Hospital with a shotgun wound of the lower left abdomen.

Deputy Sheriff D. S. Mundine said that Jimmy Frandolig, who lives in north Rockport, had reported prowlers around his home several times. The prowler was seen peeping into windows of the Frandolig home.

"Frandolig always called the sheriff's office, but by the time we could get there, the prowler was always gone," Mundine said. "Last night he decided to hide in his yard and wait for the prowler."

Mundine said that a neighbor, T. E. Minyard, waited with Frandolig, who was armed with a 20-gauge shotgun. Frandolig's wife remained in the house.

About 10 p.m., Frandolig saw someone in the yard. Mundine quoted Frandolig as saying he called out to the man when the intruder peeped into a window of Frandolig's house.

"The man turned and Frandolig fired," Mundine said.

Mundine said that Bradshaw, married and the father of two children, said he had taken a short cut through Frandolig's yard.

Mundine said the yard is surrounded by a high fence and the only entrance is at the front.

COASTAL WORK KEPT GFC BUSY THROUGH 1959

Austin.—Ecology surveys, fish population studies, vegetation plotting, spawning ground research, oyster reef investigations, pinpointing pollution, and many other coastal fisheries operations, both in laboratories and on the waters, spelled a full year in 1959 for the Texas Game and Fish Commission.

According to the director of coastal fisheries, that division conducted everything from a survey of traweled scrap fish in the Port Arthur area to the construction of experimental oyster reefs near Port Isabel.

The Commission hoped to learn through the scrap fish survey, just what food or game fish are caught in the menhaden trawls off Port Arthur and the manner by which these fish were being disposed. At Port Isabel, planting oyster reefs was an attempt to extend the commercial production of oysters in that area where once great reefs were abundant.

An ecological survey continued in the upper Galveston Bay and Trinity Bay areas. Fifteen sampling stations established in the areas recorded water salinities and turbidity, air temperature, surface and bottom water temperatures, bottom types, kinds of vegetation growing there, and the animal life taken at each station.

The fisheries biologists learned what types of bottoms are found in Matagorda Bay area. They studies fish populations, hydrography, and other biological aspects of Corpus Christi Bay, and plotted the spawning grounds of the speckled trout in the Laguna Madre.

These and other projects are being continued in 1960.

Former Resident Honored By School

Roger C. Bunch, son-in-law of Mr. and Ruben Gwynn, of Rockport, recently received the award for being the most outstanding senior in agricultural education at the North Carolina State College.

Bunch graduated from the college on Feb. 1, and since that time has held the position of agriculture teacher at Coopers High School in Nash County, North Carolina.

He entered N.C. State College on Sept. 15, 1956, after completing four years in the U. S. Navy, during which time he was stationed at Corpus Christi and Rockport, where he married the former Virginia Gwynn.

While at North Carolina State he was active in the Agriculture Club, the Agricultural Education Club, the Agricultural Education Student Council, the YDC and the Kappa Phi Kappa, National Education fraternity.

APPLICANTS CAN HELP SPEED UP SOCIAL SECURITY PAYMENTS

The old saying, "a stitch in time saves nine," is particularly true of those persons who plan to apply for their social security retirement insurance, according to George A. Miles, Field Representative of the Corpus Christi District of the Social Security Administration.

The local office representative will assist an applicant to complete his claim. However, the applicant can help to speed up the first benefit check by bringing some necessary information when he comes in to file his application.

A person who has worked for wages should bring his W-2 Form, Wage and Tax Statement from each employer. This will save time in establishing the total amount of wages paid in the last year, Miles explained.

If a person was self-employed, during 1959, he should bring an extra copy of his 1959 income tax return. This copy will be made a part of his file, and it will be used in figuring the amount of his benefit.

Every applicant should bring some proof of his age with him when he visits the social security office to file a claim. Miles says that in addition to the birth or baptismal certificate established at the time of birth, other records such as a Family Bible or a life insurance policy may be acceptable as proof of age.

Some people never hit the mark because they never pull the trigger.

MOTORISTS URGED TO HAVE AUTOS INSPECTED NOW

Major Kent Odom, Commander of Region 3 of the Department of Public Safety, announced today that the deadline for having cars inspected under the motor vehicle inspection law is April 15, 1960. This means that motorists have only one month left in which to have their vehicles inspected.

Major Odom stated that all vehicles registered in Texas must be inspected by April 15 and have a 1960 inspection sticker displayed on the windshield. He further stated that there will be no extension of the April deadline and advised motorists who have not had their cars inspected to do so now, before long lines start forming.

In Aransas County, there are 2,963 vehicles and only 565 or 19% of the vehicles have been inspected.

Tariff Board Will Hear Shrimp Import Speakers

Washington.—The Tariff Commission has opened public hearings to find out what effect imports are having on the domestic shrimp industry.

Shrimp men on the Gulf of Mexico have raised a cry against mounting imports, contending economic ruin faces them unless some sort of control is established.

Rep. Sidney Herlong, Jr., (D-Fla) introduced a bill last August to impose import quotas and duties. Since then, 27 other Gulf Atlantic and Pacific Coast congressmen has submitted similar bills.

The bills were referred to the House Ways and Means Committee. Led by Rep. Hale Boggs (D-La), that group adopted a resolution directing the Tariff Commission to make a study of the problem, to submit their recommendation as to what action might be warranted. However, it is likely that the commission will only analyze the data it receives and set forth the facts in its report.

Congressmen testified first, then spokesmen for the domestic shrimpers, followed by those speaking for the importers.

Imports accounted for only 4 per cent of the 93 million pounds of shrimp domestically consumed in 1959. By 1959 imports amounted to 106 million pounds, the domestic catch amounted to 142 million pounds. Surplus shrimp in storage at the end of the year was estimated at 48 million pounds, or about 20 per cent of the annual domestic consumption.

More than 50 countries now export shrimp to the United States, compared with 10 countries in 1940.

The law the domestic shrimpers want would set up a quota system, the amount for each country based on its average shipments to the United States for the past five years. It would let in 138 million pounds annually by 1965, an actual increase over the present rate, since only 106 million pounds were imported in 1959. This import increase would be permitted in view of the expected continued increase in consumption.

"The domestic industry both producers and processors," says H. R. Robinson, Westwego, La., president of Gulf Shrimp Canners Assn., "is concerned at the prospect that unrestricted imports may bring about a widely fluctuating prices and wreck both the U.S. and traditional foreign suppliers."

A bill by Rep. Joe Kilgore (D-Tex), similar to many others introduced, would impose ad valorem duties on imports in excess of the quota—25 per cent on processed shrimp and 50 per cent on unprocessed shrimp.

Rep. Clark Thompson, (D-Tex), who also is sponsoring legislation, said:

"At times, the market is flooded and consequently demoralized by the foreign shrimp and shrimp products. "The domestic shrimp industry has felt, for a long time, that there should be quotas established which would permit a certain quantity of unprocessed shrimp to be imported and would provide for duty on all which came into the country in excess of quota. It also proposed that duties should be imposed on processed shrimp and that its importation in excess of the quota should be prohibited."

Shrimp Import Quotas May Result From Probe

A congressional investigation of the shrimp industry is booked for sometime in the late spring.

Imposition of import quotas and tariff dues may result.

The House ways and means committee, which has three bills calling for trade restrictions on shrimp, has indicated it might begin its inquiry soon after May 9.

By that date the Federal Trade Commission is supposed to report on its studies of the domestic shrimp industry and how it is affected by unrestricted imports. The commission will hold public hearings March 16.

The Bureau of Commercial Fisheries also is embarked on a long-range, comprehensive study of shrimp.

The trouble is not that people are eating too few shrimp—it's that they are eating too many foreign shrimp.

As a consequence, the domestic industry is depressed, although it holds first place in dollar value of all United States fishery products.

Widespread inland use of shrimp is a phenomenon accompanying technological advances in freezing and canning. In 1938, the industry produced 143,000,000 pounds. By 1954 this figure had jumped to 268,000,000 pounds and since has leveled off at about 200,000,000 pounds.

This increased demand led to the finding of new fishing grounds, larger fleet and construction of canning and freezing facilities throughout the South Atlantic and Gulf Coast areas.

But shrimp is found throughout the world. And a big, duty-free market looked mighty good to the 50-odd countries that fish for shrimp commercially. They invaded the United States market to the extent of about 100,000,000 pounds a year—or one third of the total consumption.

And even with new United States fishing grounds and efficient methods, American shrimpers have been hard put to compete.

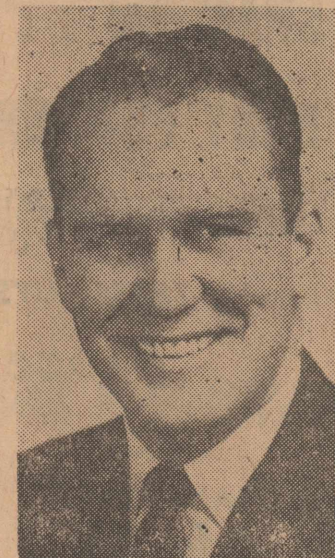

Since 1954 there has been a decline in average catches per vessel, sending up the unit cost of production.

Rep. Joe Kilgore (D, Texas) and Rep. Dante Fascell (D, Fla.) have submitted identical bills calling for duty-free quotas on imports and tariff imposts on imports above the quotas, through 1964.

Rep. Prince H. Preston (D, Ga.) would attack the problem more directly. He has sponsored a bill to impose a flat 33 1/3 per cent tariff on all imports.

CONGRATULATIONS

Joy Hamblin gave a magnificent performance in the role of Jane Eyre. James Smith, with his long hair and mustache, was striking in the part of Mr. Rochester. Carla Eller and Linda Mills, double cast in the part of Leah, both portrayed the part of the maid very well and captured the moods of comedy and superstitions. High-pitched laughter coming from the East Wing was effectively done by Robbie Boquet. The scene in which Mr. Rochester received guests played by Mary Katherine Hattenbach, and Mary Martha Shivers was well played. Henry's "Yes, my dear," brought peals of laughter from the audience. Beatrice Wofford did a very good job in the part of the housekeeper, as did Britton Dick in the part of Mr. Mason. Cynthia Highfill was perfect for the part of Adele, the little girl, and another bit of type casting was Jack Ballou in the part of the minister. The beautiful costumes were a definite asset to the play, as was the setting. —Pirate Log	ROCKPORT 2-story, good location, $1,950 for equity. 2 bedroom house, near downtown, $5,500. Extensive Program Planned for Scouts

The early part of April will be busy times for the Cubs and Scouts of the Mustang District, it was announced today by Ross Norman, Refugio, chairman of the Mustang district.

On April 2 and 3, Boy Scouts and their leaders of the district will join with the other scouts of the Gulf Coast Council at Knolle Dairy Farms for the annual Council Camporee. Some 3,000 scouts and their leaders will compete in a two day series of camping contests, based on the outdoor skills of scouting.

Some of the contests will be knot tying, flag pole lashing, water boiling, first aid, tug of war, tent pitching and compass and mapping. The camporee will be under the direction of the Council Camping and Activities Committee of which John Wakefield, Sinton, is a member.

Troops will camp with their own leaders and do all their own cooking. They will be judged on general camping ability, food preparation, camp layout as well as the competitive events. Troops will be awarded ribbons based on the number of points they accumulate during the two day event.

As a special feature of the camporee this year all boys participating will be eligible to purchase the Golden Jubilee Camporee uniform patch. The patch is being made available this year as part of the 50th Anniversary celebration of the Boy Scouts of America.

Cub Scouts of the Mustang district will gather at the Odom Football field on Saturday, April 9, for the annual cub field day. Some 400 cub scouts in the district are expected to take part in the day long event. Norman announced that Odom Kiwanis Club will be the sponsor of the event this year with Calvin Fagon as the director of the event. Events on the program will be the 50 yard dash, three legged race, softball throw, 100 yard shuttle relay, broad jump, high jump, tire roll, sack race and the tug of war.

Fagon will be assisted in the direction of the cub day by members of the Odom Kiwanis Club. Each cub den will be allowed to enter a contestant in each event or a team in the case of team-type of events.

Ribbons will be awarded the first five finishers in such event. It is hoped by district leaders that this will be the largest cub day in the history of the district.

Giant Whistling Swan Spends Winter At North End of Peninsula

A rare and beautiful visitor has been making Rockport home this winter—the great white swan that has been wintering at the north end of Live Oak Peninsula, a pitiful remnant of the flocks that were here during the early part of this century.

In recent years, nationally-known bird woman Mrs. Jack Hagar said, there have been only two or three whistling swans here, besides the one she discovered some five or six weeks ago. There were two crippled ones reported, she said, and several years ago a sixteen-year-old boy at St. Charles Bay Hunting Club shot a wanderer, thinking it was an extremely large snow goose.

But Roscoe Johnson remembers when the whistling swans used to winter in St. Charles Bay, and Buddy McLester says that when he was a boy there were numbers of them around.

Mrs. Hagar says there has been a sort of explosion of whistlers this year, and that several have been reported from Texas, although, normally they breed in Alaska and northern Canada, within the Arctic circle, and usually winter on the California and Maryland coasts.

Whistling swans are the second-largest of all the North American members of the family, being about as large as the tame swans seen in parks and zoological gardens, and eclipsed in size only to the giant trumpeter swans which have become almost as rare as the whooping cranes.

Whistling swans are so-named because of their calls, Mrs. Hagar said, and these may vary, being loud and striking at times, and again soft, like musical laughter. These notes are varied with others like wow-wow-u, heavily accented on the middle note; long whoops or clucking sounds; repeated who-who's; a high, flute-like note and murmurings, either high or low in key.

These distinguished the whistler from the trumpeter, which because of a different-type windpipe produces a resonant, trumpet-like call.

While the former vast number of these birds has been reduced, authorities say that they still exist in comparative abundance. Their breeding grounds are so remote, and the birds are generally so shy, that most ornithologists think it improbable that the whistling swans will ever be exterminated or much further reduced in numbers.

Other rare visitors, seen on FM 881, just west of town, are half a dozen cattle egrets, which Mrs. Hagar says have been there most of the winter.

These birds, normally Asiatic and African in their origin, suddenly appeared in North America eight or ten years ago, and since then have been spreading along the Gulf Coast and up the Atlantic seaboard.

Mrs. Hagar identified the first of these cattle egrets ever to be seen in this part of the country, when three were seen several years ago on Mustang Island, and since then she says that they are apparently becoming more plentiful, as she sees them from time to time.

Canadian Scientists See Whoopers

Three biologists and a game warden looked in on the whooping cranes over the weekend, via airplane, and counted 23 of the great white birds.

Two Canadians, Dr. Fred G. Bard and his assistant, Fred W. Lahrmann, of the Saskatchewan Natural History Museum, Regina, Saskatchewan, a Denver research scientist, E. L. Boeker, and Game Warden Joe Matlock, of Victoria, made up the personnel of the party.

Bard and Lahrmann are doing movie work and visiting conservationists in this country, coming here from New Orleans, where they had seen the two captive whoopers, Crip and Joe, and their three eggs. These authorities at the Audubon Park Zoo are hatching in an incubator, hoping to forestall the natural disasters that have killed the other chicks.

After their look at the cranes at Aransas Wildlife Refuge, Bard and Lahrmann headed for Atascosa Wildlife Refuge, near San Benito, and expect to return by way of San Antonio, where there is another captive whooper in the zoo.

Bard said the whoopers use Saskatchewan as a stop-over during their long migration from its northern nesting grounds in Wood Buffalo National Park in Canada to Texas wintering grounds.

Bard says that as he sees it, the extinction of the whooping crane is not vitally important.

"We've seen other birds become extinct—but it is important that we realize what is happening. That is a subject that concerns all conservationists."

The institution which Bard heads is comparatively new. For years natural history collections made in the province of Saskatchewan were housed in the parliament buildings, but in 1955 a building was erected for the purpose.

Since then, it has grown rapidly, and has had many distinguished visitors.

"This past year we showed the Queen of England through," he said.

In national mints a thousand coins can be counted out in a few moments by use of counting tables.

A Working Sheriff

HINTON says:

Your Sheriff and his Deputies have certain duties to perform without being called upon to do so, both day and night. Here are a few: To protect life, limb and property of every individual. Patrol at night as well as during the day. Question any suspicious people walking or riding your streets, and hold for investigation when the satisfactory answers are not given. Try and stop trouble BEFORE it happens. File charges against law violators and relieve our citizens of the responsibility of filing such charges. Furnish necessary evidence to the Prosecuting Attorneys in criminal cases, so as to bring about more and quicker convictions. Serve subpoenas and other processes promptly. Safely keep and protect his prisoners. Serve as officer of all Courts, and Grand Juries. But above all is to make all calls promptly DAY or NIGHT, which often times saves lives and unnecessary trouble for innocent people. When elected I will perform these duties to the best of my ability.

THE CANDIDATES FOR STATE SENATOR

THE CUERO RECORD has said: "There are two simple and direct questions each of them (the candidates for the State Senate) should answer for the enlightenment of the voters and to let the people know exactly how they stand."

"1. Will you, if elected to represent the people of your District in Austin cast your vote to protect and retain 'the right to work' laws of the State?"

Senator William S. Fly Answers:

I WILL DEFINITELY CAST MY VOTE TO PROTECT AND RETAIN THE "RIGHT TO WORK" laws of the State of Texas. I have voted for the "right to work" laws that we now have, and I will continue to work to keep them the law. I am not opposed to the right of workers to organize and I am not opposed to the existence of unions. If a worker wants to join his union, that is his business. HOWEVER, WHEN THE UNION BOSS SAYS TO A MAN, "YOU CANNOT WORK ON THIS JOB OR FOR THIS COMPANY UNLESS YOU JOIN MY UNION AND PAY ME DUES," I differ. I say that the individual has the right to work for anyone he chooses, and I will continue to defend him in that position.

"2. Will you oppose, by your vote, all efforts to weaken the existing laws of the State protecting the individual workers and to make forced union membership and a 'closed shop' possible?"

I will continue to oppose all efforts to weaken the existing laws of this State that protect the individual worker. I AM OPPOSED TO FORCED UNION MEMBERSHIP. I AM OPPOSED TO THE "CLOSED SHOP." I will continue to vote and work to keep workers free. I believe every man has the right to work for his company without having to join a union and pay dues to union bosses. Again, if he wants to join a union, that is his business and I shall defend his right to do so. BUT I WILL NOT VOTE FOR A LAW that FORCES him to join a union BEFORE he can get a job. The "right to work" laws that we now have guarantee him that right and I am for them.
