Voter forecast said low statewide, but not here

From local, AP service

Secretary of State John Hannah says it appears Texas is giving an election — but almost no one will come.

Hannah is predicting turnout for next week's primaries at a low 16.5 percent, despite a record 9 million registered voters.

He said turnout in the 1990 Democratic primary alone was higher than what he sees for both party primaries this year.

"It continues to amaze me that voters will decide to let others make important decisions for them," he said Tuesday.

A record of 9,041,906 Texans are registered to vote this year, Hannah said.

But based on early voting and other trends, he forecast a 10.7 percent turnout — just under 1 million voters — for the Democratic primary and 5.8 percent — or 525,000 — for the Republican primary.

Hannah said a lack of hotly contested races was contributing to the low turnout projection.

While voting is expected to be low statewide, that is not being reflected in Scurry County.

"Early voting is up, particulary in the Republican Party," said county clerk Frances Billingsley. She attributes the increase in Republican ballots to the county judge's race, in which incumbent Bob Doolittle is being challenged by Ricky Fritz.

As of noon today, 235 early ballots have been cast in the Republican Primary. That figure compares to just 146 early ballots cast in the Primary in 1990. And voters still have until 5 p.m. Friday to cast an early ballot.

Early voting in the Democratic Primary is down somewhat, 403 votes cast so far compared to 719 in 1990. Billingsley said, however, that she expects a large turnout over the next three days.

Statewide, the big races are after the primaries. Both Democratic Gov. Ann Richards and Republican gubernatorial hopeful George W. Bush face only token opposition in their primaries, as does Republican U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison.

Three Democrats are slugging it out for their party's U.S. Senate nomination — Jim Mattox, U.S. Rep. Mike Andrews and Richard Fisher. But most of the other statewide primaries have been low-key. Indeed, four Republicans and five Democrats face no primary opposition.

A combined 16.5 percent turnout for the GOP and Democratic primaries would be the lowest in recent years.

Hannah said turnout in the 1990 primaries totaled 28.3 percent. In 1986, it was 20.7 percent and in 1982, it was 26 percent.

In other political developments Tuesday:

— Andrews made public his 1992 federal income tax return and challenged Mattox and Fisher to do the same.

The return showed an adjusted gross income of $174,728, including a congressional salary of $122,676, and taxes of $50,559.

"My opponents will no doubt try to gain some political advantage by nit-picking at my returns. But I think the voters of Texas will concentrate on my opponents' refusal to release any of their returns," the six-term congressman said.

A spokesman for Fisher, a Dallas financier, accused Andrews of trying to create an issue. "He's trying to create an issue in the dying days of his failed campaign.

Balanced budget supporters hope Senate reconsiders

WASHINGTON (AP) — Supporters of a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution say that despite its defeat by the Senate, they believe Congress will eventually approve the measure, perhaps even this year.

But foes say the Senate's 63-37 roll call for the proposal Tuesday — four votes short of the two-thirds majority required for approval — buries it for the year.

The plan, a perennial favorite of conservatives and a few liberals, was thwarted by opponents led by President Clinton and Democratic leaders. It was the third time since 1986 that Congress has rejected a balanced budget amendment by a slender margin.

Nonetheless, House supporters planned a vote for later this month in that chamber, where the amendment is expected to pass. Their hope is that as this year's congressional re-election campaigns heat up, some senators can be pressured into changing their

City council...

Tippens to run for fourth term

Vernest Tippens on Tuesday filed for a fourth term as District 1 city councilmember.

At present, she is unopposed in the May 7 elections, which in addition to four city council seats, includes positions on the Snyder, Ira and Hermleigh ISD boards, and Western Texas College board.

Tippens, 62, has served on the city council since 1988. She has been employed as a custodian at Western Texas College for 13 years and was previously employed at Hall Drug for 17 years.

A resident of Snyder for 58 years, she is past president of the Scurry County NAACP Chapter, a member of Mt. Olive Baptist Church and has seven children: four boys and three girls.

"I enjoy working for the city and helping make the right decisions to benefit the citizens of Snyder," she said.

Tippens is the third person to file for one of four positions up for election on the council. I.E. Martin, who filled out an unexpired term last year, filed last week for a full term representing District 4. Kenneth Gibson II also filed last week for District 3, a seat currently held by Mike Post. No one has yet filed for District 2, held by Jack Denman.

The filing period continues through March 23. Candidates wishing to file must do so during normal weekday business hours at the office of the particular entity which they want to serve.

Only one person has filed for one of 10 positions up for election on area school and college boards. Geraldine Parker filed last week to for a second term as Place 2 trustee on the Snyder school board. Also up for election on the board is Place 3, held by Terry Martin.

Three are three board seats up for election at Hermleigh ISD. Those seats are held by Jimmy Hudgins, Juluis Roemisch and Tony Lambaren.

Ira board seats up for election are Place 4, held by Bo Robinson, and Place 5, held by Sid Wall.

Up for election May 7 on the Western Texas College board are Place 5, held by John Fagin; Place 6, held by R.C. Patton; and Place 7, held by John Gayle.

Student crime gets attention of teachers, police and courts

By Charli Garrett
SDN Staff Reporter

The judicial system and police are working hand-in-hand with educators to make a difference in how juvenile offenders are handled when the offense occurs in a Snyder school.

"We're obligated to give students who want to learn and their teachers a safe place to learn and work in," said Municipal Court Judge Tommie Mills.

Under a policy recently implemented in the school system, police are called when a student breaks the law at school. If it is determined that a criminal violation has occurred, the police will arrest the student, and take him or her to the police station, said Police Chief Lannie Lee.

The juvenile's parents are contacted and must come to the station to pick up the child. The juvenile is issued a ticket and both the youth and parents must appear before the municipal court judge within two days.

Lee said that of the 284 juvenile arrests in 1993, none were on school grounds because the new school policy was not effective until Jan. 14. But he said he does anticipate an increase in campus arrests in the future with this policy in effect.

When the juvenile and parents appear in municipal court, Judge Mills will issue a magistrate's warning which advises the juvenile of pleas, range of punishment and constitutional rights. If the youth wants an attorney but cannot afford one, Judge Mills will appoint one for him. Parents are also required to be present and a date is set for the hearing.

Mills said that "speed is important" and there should be no delays or corner-cutting in handling juvenile cases. He also stressed that all offenders will be treated the same.

If the juvenile is convicted, he or she is then sentenced and assessed a fine and court costs. Fines vary, but range from $1 to $100.

In most cases, the judge will give the first-time offender deferred adjudication for 30 to 180 days where, upon successful completion of the probation, the juvenile's record is cleared.

While on probation, a youth must report to a probation officer, cannot violate laws of the state of Texas or any other state or municipality, must perform community service, and is required to attend counseling. In a case where the offense is alcohol-related, the youth must attend an alcohol awareness program for juveniles at the Coun-

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The best thing about the future is that it only comes one day at a time."

Ira's Vic Baze used to be a regular at the WTC Golf Course. Medical problems have caused him to put his clubs in a closet, but his love for the game continues.

Baze hasn't given up on returning to the links, as he explained recently in a telephone conversation. Even if he can't swing a club anytime soon, Baze says that warm weather may allow him to ride around in his cart and watch others sink long putts.

Baze was upbeat when he called. He did note, however, how times seem to change — and not always for the better.

He recalled some 60 years ago when Cab Callaway and his dance band played a jazzed up version of the Star Spangled Banner. It caused such a national uproar that Callaway and his band were banned from future public appeareances.

Baze observed that it's sometimes diffcult to recognize the National Anthem when some of today's popular performers are called on.

Things even change drastically on the golf course. The exclusive Pine Valley Golf Club in Clementon, N.J., has voted to ban smoking on the course.

Second-hand smoke was not cited as the major reason. Reportedly behind the new rule is an effort to eliminate cigarette butt litter and prevention of brush fires.

And a firm in Nebraska had an idea that will appeal to many golfers, especially in place of smoking.

Harmon's Grain Products is marketing duffers mint-flavored golf tees.

State and energy department try to save benefits of collider

DALLAS (AP) — All may not be lost with the superconducting super collider as the state and the Energy Department have taken steps toward preserving some of the benefits already produced by the multi-billion project.

The two moved closer Tuesday to preserving some of the medical and scientific benefits by agreeing to try and keep alive some projects. An advisory committee to Gov. Ann Richards, which has been sorting through ideas for months, chose options involving continued work on magnets, high-[illegible] cancer research.

Although it may take several months and as much as $44 million to work out the proposals, state officials say the action is a good step.

"I believe that this agreement is good for the State of Texas and provides the framework for resolving unanswered questions and examining other uses of the SSC," said U.S. Rep. Martin Frost, D-Dallas.

Advisory committee chairman Jess Hay said the idea is that "you don't throw away $2 billion."

"You try to salvage it and in the process of doing so, you contribute to scientific advances of the country," he said. "The collider itself is not going to be kept going [illegible] 52-mile tunnel — but that doesn't mean you have to throw away the intellectual property and assets. A good portion of that can be preserved."

Texas spent more than $500 million on the venture before Congress voted to kill it last October. How the state gets reimbursed is another issue that was discussed Tuesday.

"The Department recognizes that the State has made significant resource contributions to the project and we expect that there will be a financial settlement with the State that properly recognizes its contributions," Energy Secretary Hazel O'Leary wrote in a letter to Richards.

Former Nueces County sheriff and lawyer acquitted by jury

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — A federal court jury has acquitted former Nueces County Sheriff James Hickey and lawyer Bradford Condit on charges accusing them of making illegal use of money from a federal drug forfeiture fund.

The former sheriff, 57, was accused of giving himself a $48,000 raise with money from the federal fund. He also was accused of giving Condit $100,800 for legal services.

Federal officials said the prosecution of the two men on embezzlement and conspiracy charges marked the first such case nationwide involving drug fund use.

"I really thank the jury for considering this thing so well," Hickey said, adding that he couldn't say yet what he'll do in retirement now that the criminal charges are behind him. "I'll have to figure out what normal people do."

Condit, 40, said the evidence proved that the payment he received from Hickey for legal services was legal.

"I feel vindicated, truly so," Condit said. "I am saddened that Washington bureaucrats have involved themselves in local politics."

"The prosecution did prove their case," jury foreman Darrell Simer said. He did not elaborate further and other jurors would not comment after deliberating more than six hours over two days.

Hickey and Condit also were indicted last year by a state grand jury in connection with the drug fund investigation. That charge against Condit was dismissed, and as part of a plea agreement, Hickey pleaded no contest to a misdemeanor and was given one year's probation.

County officials said they are considering a civil suit to get the money back from Hickey and Condit.

"We'll discuss this in the next few weeks," said Nueces County Judge Robert Barnes.

Your Birthday

Thursday, March 3, 1994

In the year ahead you might feel inclined to make some changes in your lifestyle. The choice, of course, is yours. However, once you commit yourself to a constructive course, proceed without looking back.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your probabilities for achieving your objectives will be diminished today if you vacillate where critical decisions are concerned. Trust your judgment. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Usually you tend to view life from a positive perspective, but today could be an exception where your focus is on negative aspects and self-defeating thoughts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Guard against inclinations today to put your trust in persons who cannot measure up to your expectations. Disappointment is likely if you do.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today's developments and circumstances might impose an arrangement upon you that is something like a partnership, but not quite. Be very careful in this type of an alliance.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you cannot arouse enthusiasm today to handle a tough assignment, it might be wise to temporarily postpone it until you can.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Lady Luck might be taking a day off, so don't get too deeply involved in risky endeavors. Without her help, you might not be able to swing it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't let an old, unresolved family issue surface today in front of in-laws or outsiders. This is something that could get out of hand in an unpleasant way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If an associate provides you with a better method for doing things today, be receptive instead of resistant. If you let your ego reject it, you may be sorry.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Something of significance can be learned about budgeting today if you'll analyze your financial situation realistically. Instead of condemning yourself for infractions, try to correct them.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Guard against dictatorial inclinations today, or else you may try to assert yourself with persons over whom you have no authority. They'll not take kindly to it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Do not put limitations on your imagination today nor allow others to do so. However, be very sure the thoughts on which you focus are positive, not negative.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Try not to let your friends draw you into an arrangement today you really can't afford. Be frank. If you haven't got the bread to back you up, bow out.

We've got that hometown spirit and we're passing it around!

A Bright Spot In Our Hometown!

Bob Doty

When people want something done, they fall back on the concept that the person you can count on is the guy with the most to do.

That often must be the case when folks look to Bob Doty, rodeo coach and agricultural professor at Western Texas College. He serves the community in so many ways, he is a natural choice for Snyder National Bank's hometown spirit award.

In his 15th year at Western Texas College, he is assistant professor of agriculture and serves as coach of both the men's and women's highly-sucessful regarded rodeo teams. He has been honored both by co-workers and by students.

Fellow faculty members chose Doty to serve as president of the WTC Faculty Association during the 1991-92 school year. WTC students honored him with the Founder's Day award in 1991.

Students from his rodeo teams have qualifed for the national finals for 13 consecutive years. His men's team captured the national championship in 1986 and was runnerup in 1982.

Doty has served as faculty director for the Southwest Region of NIRA for four years and he was national faculty president in 1988-89.

A recent accomplishment is the development of the agriculture-rodeo complex southwest of Snyder. The 300-acre facility is used for rodeo stock plus crop and livestock production.

He and other ag faculty members helped established the WTC Livestock and Land Judging contest held each March, an event drawing hundreds of high school contestants. Doty coached the WTC judging teams from 1979-83.

In addition to sponsoring two junior rodeos each year, Doty and WTC, in conjunction with the junior college rodeo, host a special rodeo for Humble-Smith exceptional students each April. When Snyder was host for the AJRA National Finals Rodeo, Doty served on the local planning committee.

His volunteer work includes being an assistant coach in the Snyder Boys Little Dribblers program for the past three years. He also serves as vice president of the Union and Fluvanna Water Supply board of directors.

Doty grew up on a stock farm near Leuders. He earned a bachelor of science degree from Abilene Christian University and a master of education degree from Sam Houston State University. Doty taught ag at Lueders-Avoca, Fort Davis and Big Spring before joining the faculty at WTC.

Doty and his wife, Darla, director of college relations at WTC, are members of the 37th St. Church of Christ where Doty serves as a deacon. The Dotys have two sons. Jay is a 6th grader and Sterling is in the fifth grade.

A tip of the 10-gallon hat to Bob Doty, a bright spot in our hometown.

What causes achy, stiff muscles?

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Do you have updated information on fibromyositis? I understand there is no cure or treatment that will make the symptoms disappear forever.

DEAR READER: Fibromyositis, more correctly termed "fibromyalgia," causes achy, stiff muscles and tendons. The disorder is grouped with other "rheumatic" afflictions, such as polymyalgia and rheumatoid arthritis. No one knows why fibromyalgia has a predilection for females and appears to be related to anxiety, depression and stress. Symptoms are, as doctors say, "non-specific": sore muscles without other organ involvement.

Although not a hazard to health, the disorder is worsened by over-use of muscles and may be associated with other troublesome conditions, such as irritable bowel syndrome. Almost any muscle can be affected, but those of the back, neck and shoulders are most commonly involved.

The diagnosis is one of exclusion, meaning that other, more serious diseases, such as lupus, must first be ruled out by blood tests.

Treatment includes heat, anti-inflammatory drugs (Indocin, Voltaren and the like), gentle exercises, massage, acupuncture, anti-depressant medicine (when appropriate), improved sleep, and — most important — reassurance that fibromyalgia will not adversely affect health.

Symptoms frequently disappear, only to return months or years later. Therefore, it is impossible to assess any single therapy as being "curative." In general, symptoms can be adequately controlled using the methods I described.

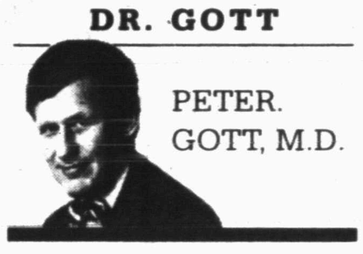

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was recently told I have H. pylori bacteria growing in my stomach. My doctor hopes to treat it with antibiotic suspension. Where do the bacteria originate and how would I have gotten them in my stomach?

DEAR READER: Many peptic ulcers appear to be caused by bacteria called "H. pylori." The reason for this is unknown; no one knows where the bacteria originate and why some people are especially affected by them. Anybody who has recurring or persisting peptic ulcers should have a blood test for H. pylori infection, which is treated with a combination of antibiotics and bismuth (Pepto-Bismol).

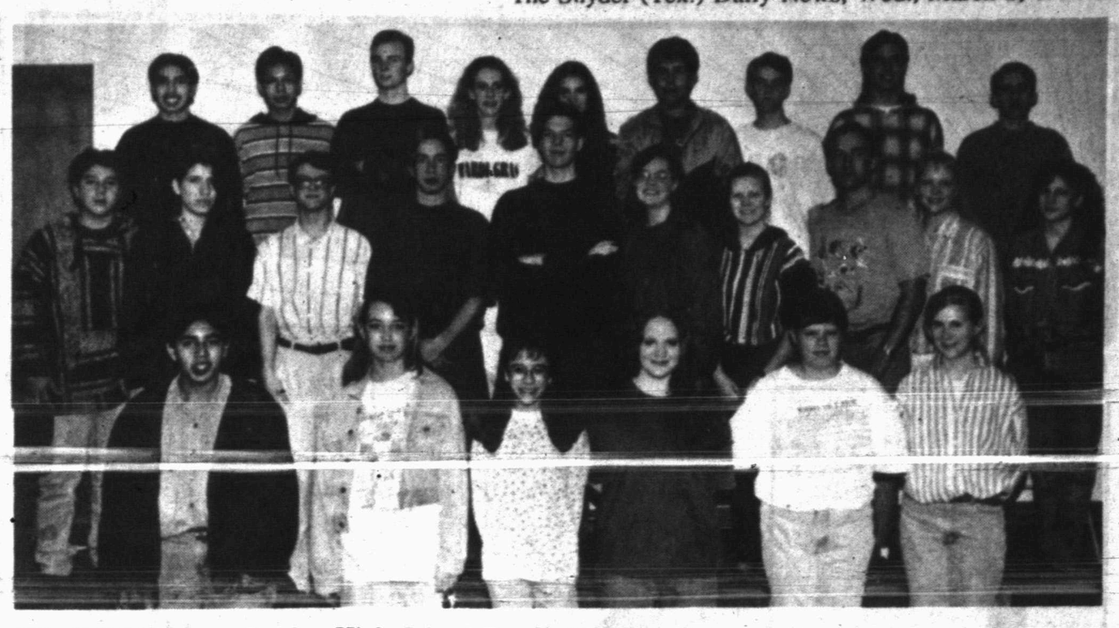

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Peptic Ulcers." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

Widow of ATF agent sues paper, TV station, reporter

WACO (AP) — The widow of a federal agent killed during last year's raid on the Branch Davidian compound filed a lawsuit Tuesday against a Waco newspaper reporter, his employer and a television station.

Leslie McKeehan, widow of U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agent Todd McKeehan of New Orleans, filed a wrongful death suit seeking unspecified damages.

Waco Tribune-Herald reporter Mark England, Cox Texas Publications Inc. and Cox Enterprises Inc., both Tribune-Herald parent companies and KWTX Broadcasting Co., which operates Channel 10 in Waco, all are named as defendants.

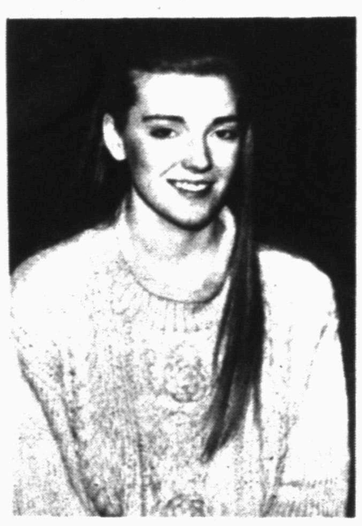

No specific allegations are outlined. However, the suit filed in state court claims that the defendants' negligent conduct on the day of the raid caused McKeehan's death.

McKeehan was one of four agents killed as ATF agents stormed the Mount Carmel compound Feb. 28, 1993.

Tribune-Herald Editor Bob Lott called McKeehan's death regrettable but said neither the newspaper nor its employees was responsible.

"A year's examination of the facts, in one forum after the other, has shown that neither our decision to print 'The Sinful Messiah' series nor our coverage of the raid caused or contributed to the tragedy," Lott said.

"In fact, an exhaustive Treasury Department probe, which approached the Tribune-Herald from an adversarial point of view, laid the blame squarely at the feet of leaders of its own agency, the ATF."

Charlie Reynolds
Justice of the Peace
Precinct One
Democratic Primary

Dear Friend,

I am running for Justice of the Peace in the Democratic Primary.

I believe I am qualified to serve you as your Justice of the Peace. I have 700 hours of law enforcement training, 9 and 1/2 years law enforcement experience, and 8 and 1/2 years serving as a Deputy Sheriff here in Scurry County.

For the last five years I have been teaching the D.A.R.E. (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) program in the schools of Snyder, Ira and Hermleigh. This is the largest anti-drug program in the world today.

If I am elected to serve as Peace Justice, another officer has been trained and is eager to step in and continue the quality of the D.A.R.E. program we have had these past five years in the Scurry County Schools.

I have worked hard to serve you as a Deputy Sheriff. I have given my best effort to your children and grandchildren through the D.A.R.E. program. As Justice of the Peace, you can expect me to continue to give you my best.

Thanks for your consideration.

Dusters thrash Cisco, 101-84

Western Texas to battle Howard in Region V semifinals

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

BIG SPRING — The Western Texas College Lady Dusters advanced into today's semifinals of the NJCAA Region V women's basketball tournament with a 101-84 victory over Cisco Junior College Tuesday at Dorothy Garrett Coliseum here.

The Lady Wranglers, who fell to the Dusters for the third time this season, could not overcome a stellar offensive performance by WTC and four starters riding the bench after fouling out.

"I was really happy that we played as well as we did in the first half," said WTC coach Ron Jones, "because, mentally, I think it is tough to play somebody you believe you're going to beat, and still have to do it.

"The second half, we kind of let up a little bit. That's not an excuse, it's just hard to keep that intensity up.

"But overall, we did keep the intensity up and we controlled the tempo, and that's what got them."

Western Texas will face Western Junior College Athletic Conference foe Howard College in tonight's 8 o'clock semifinal tilt.

Howard, ranked No. 3 nationally, dropped Ranger JC, 98-64, in first-round action Tuesday.

At 6 p.m. today, No. 6 Grayson County Junior College, a 77-66 overtime winner over New Mexico JC, will square off with South Plains College, which took an 88-79 win from Weatherford JC on Tuesday.

The Dusters trailed for only a short time early in the contest when an Amy Rodgers bucket made it 2-0.

A quick 8-0 run, capped by a 12-foot jumper from Carri Moss, put the Dusters ahead to stay.

Cisco trimmed the lead to two with 13:20 to go in the first half on a short baseline jumper by Josie Brumbalow, but Ericka Thompson drilled a three for WTC, one of four on the night for the freshman from Plainview, to set the Dusters ahead 17-12.

Shrae Johnson, who also connected on four long-distance baskets, hit a trey halfway through the opening stanza and Western Texas led by 10, 24-14.

The Dusters rolled to a 51-35 halftime margin and kept the Lady Wranglers at arm's length much of the second half.

Cisco's lone second-half rally, a 7-0 run, was highlighted by a put-back off the offensive board by Ann Hufstetler and a 3-point play from Harmony Rogers that drew CJC to within 71-63 with under 10 minutes remaining.

Western Texas hit six consecutive free throws and LaMeshia Roland added a bucket to extend the lead to 16 points, 79-63.

"We've been concentrating so much the second semester on becoming a better half-court team," Jones said, "that we've gotten away from running. But tonight we did a good job of setting the tempo of the game."

The Dusters were led by sophomore post Paulita Murrell, who canned 20 points, Roland, who finished with 17, Moss, who had 15, and Thompson and Johnson with 14 apiece.

Cisco's top producers, except for Charlene Williams, who scored a game-high 24 points, were all on the bench at the final buzzer.

Harmony Rogers, who wound up with 13 points, Brumbalow, who finished with 11, and Brandi Muirhead, who had 10 on the night, were joined on the pine by Ciara Rogers, all with five fouls.

"We want to make the game just as fast as we can against Howard," Jones reported. "We've got to do some things to get the ball out of the inside. We have to make them shoot and do a good job on the boards. We'll have a shot at them if we do those things. If not, they're probably too strong inside."

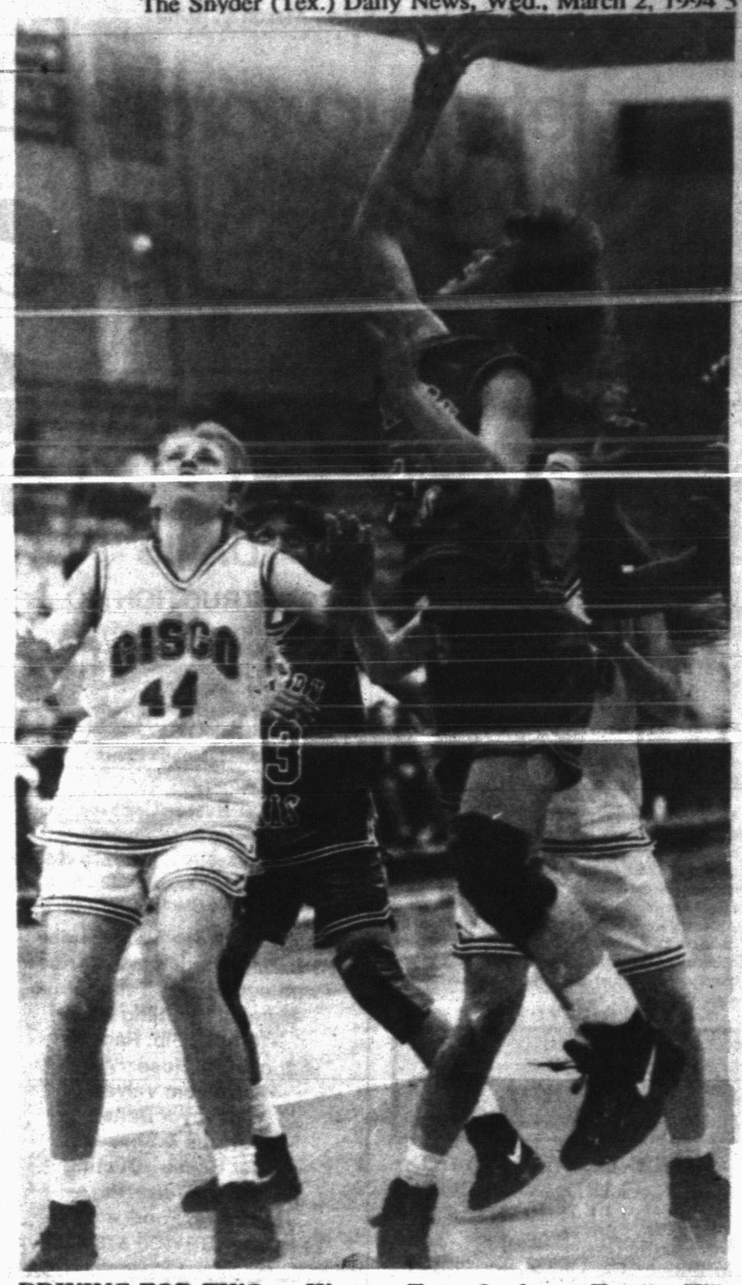

The winner of the regional event will advance to the national tournament in Tyler.

Snyder miscues prove costly in non-district loss to Ponies

Nine errors, including a dropped fly ball in the outfield, led Snyder to an 8-4 non-district baseball loss to Sweetwater in the Tigers' home opener Tuesday at Moffett Field.

"We had some miscommunications on defense that hurt us bad," said SHS coach Albert Lewis. "We had a fly ball fall in left field that wound up costing us four runs.

"We also had a lot of kids in new positions. They got a little playing time, but we need to do a better job on defense.

"Plus, Sweetwater has a lot of good athletes on their team."

The Mustangs broke on top in the first frame when starting pitcher Kyle Hale , who drew a walk, came home on a sacrifice by Tory Stephens.

The Tigers made it a 1-1 contest when leadoff hitter John Clinkinbeard accepted a base on balls and moved around on singles by Craig Lang, Brad Hart and Gene Pollard.

Curt Rinehart tripled and came home on a Clinkinbeard single to give Snyder a 2-1 second-inning advantage, before Sweetwater rolled four runs across the plate in the top of the third on a David Davis single, a double by Terry Clemmer, a walk to Stephens, a 3-RBI two-sacker by Kerry Carr and a run-scoring hit from Craig Huley.

The Mustangs, now 1-2, added one more in the fifth and two in the seventh, while the Tigers pushed in two more in the fifth.

Hale was the winner for the Ponies, lasting four innings, walking just one and fanning two, while giving up two runs on five hits.

Clemmer finished with three innings of relief, including three Ks, six walks, a hit and two runs.

Snyder's Reagan Key was the loser, giving up five runs in five innings. Key struck out six, walked only one and scattered five hits, but was saddled with a pair of crucial errors.

Lee Idom finished for SHS, going two frames and ringing up four strikeouts and walking two.

Karr was Sweetwater's offensive star of the game, getting a pair of extra-base hits in three at-bats, and driving in four runs.

Pollard, 2-of-4 on the night, and Rinehart, 1-of-2, were the Tigers' top hitters.

Snyder will carry a 1-3 season mark into the weekend Big Spring Invitational Baseball Tournament.

Gabriel Castillon will start on the hill for SHS when the Tigers meet Big Spring's JV in a first round matchup at 2 p.m. Thursday.

Plainview nudges Northwest

The Plainview Bulldogs, defending Region 1-4A basketball champions, needed every point they could muster Monday to nip Justin Northwest in a regional semifinal contest at Snyder's Scurry County Coliseum.

The Texans came out on the short end of a 75-74 ledger, but not before throwing a scare into the No. 3 ranked Bulldogs.

Led by three 3-pointers from Jason White and eight points from Durmond Freeman, Northwest closed a 57-53 gap to a single point in the final period.

Plainview took a 20-15 lead after eight minutes, behind a 12-point first quarter by Marcus Williams, then managed to hold on to a 38-35 margin at intermission on two threes and a duece by Dibi Ray in the second.

The two teams played almost even in the third, with PHS holding a slim 19-18 edge, before the decisive fourth quarter.

The expected showdown between two of the state's top posts was won, just barely, by Plainview's Steven Riddley, who finished with 23 points on 11 field goals and a 1-of-3 night from the line.

His counterpart for the Texans, Durmond Freeman, scored 20, hitting nine baskets, including one trey, and one of two free throw attempts.

Williams wound up with the game's scoring honors, pouring in 26 on the night, including two of the Bulldogs' four threes. Plainview teammate Ray added 14.

The Texans' charge was led by White's 23 points, Freeman's 20, 12 by Ryan Parker and Chris Morgia's 10.

The win lifts Plainview to 31-3 on the season and a berth in the regional championship game against Wichita Falls, a 74-72 upset winner over state-ranked Pampa Tuesday.

Justin Northwest, which was held to 20 points below its per-game average for the year, winds up its year with a 29-5 slate.

Gonzalez latest arrival at Texas training camp

PORT CHARLOTTE, Fla. (AP) — Outfielder Juan Gonzalez, and shortstops Manny Lee and Alfredo Griffin were the last of the Texas Rangers to report to training camp on Tuesday.

Gonzalez, bolstered by a $30.7 million, five-year contract, said, "I want to be able to play every day. I've a big responsiblity to play 162 games."

Gonzalez met with manager Kevin Kennedy, who asked for explanations for Gonzalez missing the club's February awards banquet and not being in Port Charlotte earlier.

Gonzalez said, "It's March 1 and I'm here. I had a lot of business to take care of at home. I would have liked to report early but I had problems at home.

"The banquet is history. There was a lot of traffic in Puerto Rico and I missed a plane. The island is small. And I'm sorry."

Gonzalez, who missed numerous games late in the season because of back problems, said he was feeling good although he played winter ball in Puerto Rico.

"The back is all right," Gonzalez said.

"There is a lot of pressure because I signed a big contract," Gonzalez said. "But I'm hungry. I want to play hard. We're in a new division and a new ballpark. And I want to win. I want a ring this year."

Foul ball hits Hobson during drills Tuesday

by The Associated Press

Boston Red Sox manager Butch Hobson lost his equilibrium, but not his sense of humor after he was hit by a foul ball during batting practice Tuesday at Winter Haven, Fla.

"It hit me in the head, I'm all right," he said, then continued an interview he was conducting in the Boston dugout when a one-hop grounder off the bat of Ruben Rodriguez struck him above his left ear.

Hobson began feeling dizzy and was treated in the clubhouse with smelling salts. Hobson said after the team's workout that he was feeling better, but still appeared a bit wobbly.

The Chicago White Sox will be without pitcher Jose DeLeon for three to six weeks after an MRI revealed a torn knee ligament. The White Sox signed right-hander Scott Sanderson to a minor league contract.

Don't lose your nerve

By Phillip Alder

Jean Paul Richter was only partly right when he said, "A timid person is frightened before a danger, a coward during the time, and a courageous person afterwards." Really, though, it is impossible to predict how one will react when faced with life-threatening danger.

At the bridge table, where one rarely gets an injury worse than a sprained finger, it is easier to be intrepid. But even so, some people's nerves fail.

Nowadays, an opener's reverse is treated as forcing for one round. For the auction's continuation, a popular method is to employ the fourth suit or two no-trump, whichever is the cheaper, as an artificial rebid showing a bust. Here North rebid his own suit, promising game-going values and at least a good five-card suit.

Against three no-trump, West leads the spade queen, of course. How should South continue?

There are seven top tricks: two spades, four diamonds and one club. Assuming the normal 3-2 club split, two more tricks can be established there. However, South doesn't have the time to play on clubs. Before he can take nine tricks, the defenders will have collected two spades, one heart and two clubs.

Instead, South must have the courage to go after the heart suit. And the only sensible play for two heart tricks is to lead low to dummy's 10. South must hope that West has the jack. If West does, declarer has his eighth and ninth tricks established immediately, while he still has stoppers in all the other suits.

Take the best chance for your contract.

Whitney Houston wins big; soundtracks too at Grammy's

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't be fooled: Those were the Grammys, not the Oscars.

Movie music from "Aladdin" and "The Bodyguard" captured the recording industry trophies at the 36th annual Grammy Awards.

The "Aladdin" soundtrack, which last year won two Academy Awards, took five Grammys Tuesday night. "A Whole New World (Aladdin's Theme)" won song of the year for composers Alan Menken and Tim Rice, while Peabo Bryson and Regina Belle were honored for their duet on the song.

And Whitney Houston, weeks after winning eight awards at the American Music Awards, won in three of the four categories she was nominated in at the Grammys — all for music for "The Bodyguard."

Miss Houston won best pop female vocalist and record of the year for the single "I Will Always Love You," which she sang to open the Grammy telecast. "The Bodyguard" soundtrack won album of the year.

"Bodyguard" producer David Foster picked up four Grammys, including producer of the year.

Miss Houston's version of "I Will Always Love You" has sold more than 10 million copies. Composer Dolly Parton happily presented her with one Grammy.

In an evening of sentimentality, it was up to a young lion and an old one to inject some life — U2's Bono and Frank Sinatra.

Bono, seemingly baffled to pick up an alternative music Grammy for his band's "Zooropa" album, uttered an expletive in his acceptance speech. He returned minutes later with a poetic, stream-of-consciousness tribute to a choked-up Sinatra, who received a lifetime achievement award.

"He's the boss of bosses, the man, the big bang of pop," Bono said. "I'm not going to mess with him. Are you?"

Sinatra, his voice breaking after Bono's speech and the audience's standing ovation, recovered enough to joke that he needed a drink and to throw a dart at Dean Martin.

"This is more applause than Dean heard in his whole career," he said.

The speech ended abruptly for television viewers. According to Michael Greene, president of the National Academy of Recording Arts and Sciences, one of Sinatra's assistants, Susan Reynolds, was worried that Sinatra "would have talked for about an hour," and after a few minutes she asked CBS to cut to a commercial.

After the break, program host Garry Shandling apologized. "Mr. Sinatra should have finished his speech. I think that was a slight mistake," he said.

Besides Sinatra, other recipients of lifetime achievement awards were Aretha Franklin, and the late jazz artist Bill Evans and pianist Arthur Rubinstein.

The academy also honored songwriter Curtis Mayfield, paralyzed four years ago when a lighting tower fell on him, with a performance by an all-star band that included Bonnie Raitt, Bruce Springsteen and B.B. King.

Sting, who had six nominations, won a best pop vocal performance award for "If I Ever Lose My Faith in You." He also won two technical awards for an album and video.

Some other multiple nominees — Billy Joel, Neil Young and R.E.M. — were shut out.

Soul Asylum, Aerosmith, Meat Loaf, Ozzy Osbourne and Stone Temple Pilots all won awards in rock categories.

Soul singer Toni Braxton won best new artist and was the only singer to beat Miss Houston, in the category of best female rhythm and blues performance.

Country star Mary-Chapin Carpenter won two Grammys for her version of "Passionate Kisses." Dwight Yoakam won best country vocal performance by a male.

Rapper Dr. Dre won a Grammy for best rap solo performance, while jazz rappers Digable Planets won the best group rap award.

In the classical field, conductor Pierre Boulez's version of "Bartok: The Wooden Prince & Cantata Profana" won four Grammys. A box set of Billie Holiday recordings won three awards.

In a mild upset, Tony Bennett — riding a newfound popularity among alternative rock fans — bested Barbra Streisand's "Back to Broadway" for best traditional pop vocal performance. Even Bennett seemed surprised.

'Excuse' says no thanks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — No Excuses jeans said "no thank you" to Tonya Harding. "We want somebody a little more universally liked," said Dari Marder, vice president of marketing for the jeans-maker. "At this point, we have no plans to use her."

Nancy Kerrigan is cashing in on her silver medal with lucrative appearances for Disney, Revlon, Reebok and Campbell Soup.

But Harding's people got nowhere when they explored a deal with No Excuses, Marder told the Los Angeles Times.

Harding apparently lacks the appeal of earlier spokeswomen such as Marla Maples, whose affair with The Donald broke up the Trumps' marriage, and Donna Rice, whose liaison with Gary Hart ruined his presidential hopes in 1988.

Even Nike, based in Harding's home state of Oregon, cut ties with the skater after she finished eighth at the Olympics and returned to face a grand jury probe into her role in the attack on Kerrigan.

Alzheimer's Symptoms May Differ From Symptoms of Age

by Abigail Van Buren

© 1994 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: According to a Gallup Poll conducted for the Alzheimer's Association in 1993, one out of three American adults say they know someone with Alzheimer's disease, and one in 10 say a relative has it.

With physicians now reporting an increase of "early onset" cases of people in their 40s and 50s, distinguishing signs of Alzheimer's disease from normal aging is of utmost importance.

To assist people in recognizing the symptoms of Alzheimer's disease, and to encourage them to see their doctors for a proper diagnosis, the Alzheimer's Association has launched a major educational campaign that includes public service announcements, educational materials and community outreach.

A free brochure outlining the warning signs of Alzheimer's disease, titled "Is It Alzheimer's? Warning Signs You Should Know," is now available by calling the Alzheimer's Association's toll-free number: (800) 272-3900. Anyone who is concerned because a loved one is exhibiting unusual behavior, such as disorientation or impaired memory, will find this brochure helpful.

Thank you, Abby, for your help in getting the word out.

ED TRUSCHKE, PRESIDENT, ALZHEIMER'S ASSOCIATION

DEAR MR. TRUSCHKE: I found your brochure to be very informative, as will many of my readers. Some excerpts many people will relate to:

"Your wife always misplaces her keys. But last Tuesday, she couldn't remember what they were for." ... "Your grandfather likes to take daily strolls around the neighborhood. But four times in the past month he got lost, and couldn't find his way home without help from a neighbor." ... "Your favorite uncle can't remember your name, or the names of your husband or children."

Everyone has a bad day once in a while, but someone with Alzheimer's can exhibit rapid mood changes — from laughter to tears, or calm to tears to anger — for no apparent reason. Also, a person with Alzheimer's will put things in inappropriate places: an iron in the freezer, or a wristwatch in the sugar bowl.

The memory loss, confusion and disorientation described in these examples are common symptoms of dementing illness — the most common of which is Alzheimer's disease. However, depression, nutritional deficiencies, drug interactions or intoxication, and thyroid imbalances can cause similar symptoms.

The same symptoms are also associated with stroke, Huntington's disease, Parkinson's disease, Pick's disease and AIDS.

It is important to consult a physician if you recognize these symptoms. Sometimes they are reversible with a physician's care. Even if the diagnosis is Alzheimer's disease, help is available to learn how to care for the person with dementia, as well as finding help for the caregivers in coping with these sometimes stressful circumstances.

Family: McDuff death sentence first step

SEGUIN (AP) — One of Texas' most notorious killers, Kenneth Allen McDuff, has received the death sentence for the murder of an Austin woman, but the victim's family said that is only one step toward justice.

McDuff, 47, was sentenced Tuesday to die for the kidnapping, rape and slaying of Colleen Reed, a 28-year-old secretary for the Lower Colorado River Authority, who was abducted from an Austin carwash on Dec. 29, 1991.

He also received two life sentences for aggravated kidnapping and aggravated sexual assault.

For McDuff, who has spent half his life in prison, it was his third death sentence.

Lori Rible, 32, Miss Reed's sister, said the next steps are to try McDuff's accomplice, Alva Hank Worley, 36, and hopefully find Miss Reed's remains.

"The last chapter will always be reserved for bringing Colleen home," she said.

As for McDuff, he will be returned to the Travis County Jail for several days before State District Court Judge Wilford Flowers designates attorneys to handle his appeals. Then he will be sent to death row in Huntsville.

A death sentence is automatically appealed to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

McDuff's trial attorneys, Chris Gunter and Andy Forsythe, who asked a jury to assess life in prison for the murder, said the appeals will cost millions of dollars and take more than five years.

McDuff showed no emotion when Flowers sentenced him, and told reporters earlier that he expected to get the death penalty.

In 1968, McDuff was sentenced to death for the rape-slaying of a 16-year-old girl near Fort Worth. He was also accused of killing the girl's two companions.

But in 1972, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that the death penalty was unconstitutional, and McDuff's sentence was commuted to life in prison.

His parole from prison in 1990 and subsequent murders have become a symbol of a criminal justice system gone haywire and led to changes in parole laws that make it more difficult for inmates to be released.

Last year, he was sentenced to death for the 1992 sexual assault and murder of Waco convenience store clerk, Melissa Northrup, 22, a pregnant mother of two.

In the Reed case, Worley testified that he and McDuff abducted Ms. Reed. As they drove north to Bell County, Worley said Ms. Reed was repeatedly raped, beaten and tortured by being burned with cigarettes.

He said he last saw Ms. Reed when McDuff placed her in the trunk of his car and said he was going to "use her up."

Worley said he confessed to police because he had a guilty conscience. McDuff's attorneys accused Worley of testifying against McDuff to try to get a reduced charge.

Worley also has been charged with capital murder in the death of Ms. Reed, but Travis County District Attorney Ronnie Earle said his office would decide next week how to proceed with his prosecution.

Rehnquist rules...

Packwood cannot withhold diaries

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist today denied Sen. Bob Packwood's request to withhold his diaries from the Senate Ethics Committee while he appeals the panel's subpoena.

Rehnquist said the senator's argument that the subpoena was overly broad "has been seriously undermined by the evidence, presented to the district court, that his diary transcripts and tapes have been altered."

"The evidence of tampering very likely renders all of the requested diary entries relevant to that investigation," the chief justice wrote.

Rehnquist also rejected Packwood's arguments that the ethics committee's subpoena violated his right to privacy under the Constitution's Fourth Amendment as well as his Fifth Amendment protection against self-incrimination.

The chief justice noted that Packwood's lawyers did not quarrel with the legal standard used by the district court in denying his Fourth Amendment argument.

The Supreme Court recently denied review to a separate case that asked whether the Fifth Amendment protected people from having to produce their private papers, Rehnquist added.

Packwood's lawyer, Jacob Stein, did not immediately return a call seeking comment. The senator's press secretary, Bobbi Munson, said she did not know whether Packwood would make any further legal attempts to keep the diaries from the committee.

Packwood's lawyers argued in court papers that personal diaries "are at the core of the right to privacy" protected by the Constitution.

For CIA officer...

Prosecutors allege KGB set aside $2.9 million payment

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — Payoffs totaling $2.7 million, Swiss bank accounts and the promise of a summer cottage in Russia were Aldrich Ames' alleged rewards for double espionage, government prosecutors say.

Details of the CIA officer's alleged working arrangement with his Russian masters were laid out in a letter prosecutors say the FBI discovered at Ames' home and other evidence introduced Tuesday at a bail hearing for Ames and his Colombian-born wife, Maria del Rosario Casas Ames.

U.S. Magistrate Barry R. Poretz ruled there was sufficient evidence for a grand jury to pursue the espionage case. Poretz ordered the Ameses held without bond, rejecting attorneys' assurances that the couple would not flee the country. He said Ames, if freed, would pose a danger to the nation because he possessed valuable intelligence information.

The Ameses are charged with conspiracy to commit espionage. They are accused of selling secrets to the Soviet Union and then Russia for eight years. If convicted, they could face a maximum penalty of life in prison.

votes and the Senate will reconsider the issue.

"Strange things can happen," said Rep. Charles Stenholm, D-Texas, one of the amendment's chief House proponents. "It's not inconceivable that the House could pass it and the Senate would have a second thought during the year."

But Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, a leading foe, pledged to do all he could to block a new vote this year.

"Absolutely not," he told reporters. "Under no circumstances over which I have any control will this matter come up again."

Forty-one Republicans and 22 Democrats voted for the amendment Tuesday, while three Republicans and 34 Democrats voted against it.

cil on Alcohol and Drug Abuse (CADA) office while on probation.

Judge Mills said he has found most parents to be cooperative and concerned. In some cases, the parents help him with the terms of their child's probation.

After two offenses in municipal court, the court must waive its jurisdiction and transfer the subsequent case to the district court.

Mills said although his court has seen several youth offenders since the cooperative effort with the schools began, it is too soon to measure its effects.

Mills said he is interested in finding punishment that would be more likely to deter future offenses.

"A juvenile's constitutional rights must be protected through the justice system," said Mills. The judge also said he feels there will be some changes made through the state legislature that will affect the juvenile offender.

Currently, a youth offender 16 years or younger is protected by law from public access to records and is tried in municipal court. If the age requirement is lowered, 15-year-old violent crime offenders will face the adult justice system.

Also under consideration is a law making it a felony to give or allow a juvenile to possess a hand gun without an adult present.

"The juvenile crime problem is one that won't be solved by the courts or legislature but is a problem that must be addressed by the entire community," Mills said. "The approach taken by the schools is the first step and I hope we will build on this and continue to address the problem."

Hutchinson meets with UWSA group

Doug Hutchinson, who recently assumed the position of economic development director here, met Tuesday with members of United We Stand, America at Towle Park Barn.

Hutchinson was introduced by Bill Seale, president of the Development Corporation of Snyder.

Hutchinson, his wife and young son, made the move from Brenham to Snyder on Monday. He told members of UWSA that he is ready to "roll up my sleeves and get to work" and that he sees "much potential" in Snyder.

He said he has plans to meet with all organized civic groups and will promote an "open door" policy in order to work effectively with the community.

The economic development office is in the American State Bank building.

UWSA's next meeting will be a fund-raising chili supper on Tuesday, April 12, at 5:30 p.m. in the park barn. The public is invited.

An expedition of English colonists, including Capt. John Smith, went ashore April 26, 1607, at what is now Cape Henry, Va., to establish the first permanent settlement in the New World.

Don't Bag It seminar set at City Hall on March 22

The City of Snyder and the County Extension Service announce the second "Don't Bag It" Seminar. The recycling program, designed by Texas A&M's Extension Service, aims to reduce solid waste into the landfill by urging citizens to leave their grass clippings on the lawn.

We are committed to this project for three reasons. First, individuals can help preserve our environment while saving space in the landfill. Second, we will use fewer natural resources with less watering and chemicals. And third, it is less work for citizens and for our city crews, reducing the cost of collection for the city.

The "Don't Bag It" Seminar will be held March 22, at City Hall, 1925 24th Street, at 7 p.m. Interested residents and businesses can learn how the program works by attending. There will also be a speaker covering the subject of 'Backyard Composting.'

"Grass clippings increase the volume of solid waste from 20 to 50 percent during the summer," said Dr. Bill Knoop, Texas A&M turfgrass expert and creator of the "Don't Bag It" program. "Leaving them on the lawn, however, returns valuable nutrients to the soil," he said.

Dr. Knoop developed the "Don't Bag It" program of watering, fertilizing and mowing practices that allows grass clippings to remain on the lawn. "Golf courses are the model — their landscape managers never bag clippings," he said.

In 1990, "Don't Bag It" received the EPA award for environmental excellence in solid waste reduction.

The City of Fort Worth estimated the pilot program in their city kept 25,000 bags of grass clippings out of the landfill. Fort Worth and the Extension Service also won the national Keep America Beautiful award in 1989 for "Don't Bag It."

We had several volunteers last year and would like to see a lot more participation this year, as Subtitle 'D' regulations for landfills are now beginning to affect the cost of disposal. We as citizens can make a direct impact on that cost by increasing the life of our landfill and decreasing the waste stream into the landfill.

Applications for those citizens that would like to participate in the "Don't Bag It" program will be available at the seminar. Sampling kits for determining fertilizer needed can be obtained from Mike Morrow with the County Extension Service. If the test results show your lawn needs fertilizer, the fertilizer will be provided at no charge (not to exceed 2 bags). If you are not able to attend the seminar, but would like to participate, contact Carolyn House at 573-4960 or Mike Morrow at 573-5423 for an application.

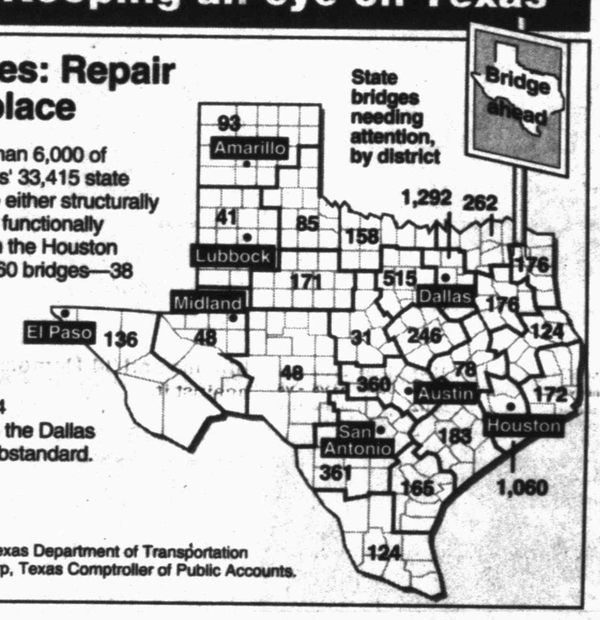

All city utility customers will be receiving "Don't Bag It" brochures in the mail during the next few weeks. Our purpose is to provide the citizens with the information needed to dispose of yard waste through not bagging grass clipping or with backyard composting.

It is very probable that the state will pass legislation in the near future that will prohibit the disposal of yard waste in the landfills. If that happens, the citizens of Snyder will be ahead in their knowledge of other means of disposal of yard waste.

Keeping an eye on Texas

Bridges: Repair or replace

More than 6,000 of Texas' 33,415 state bridges are either structurally deficient or functionally obsolete. In the Houston district, 1,060 bridges—38 percent—need to be repaired or replaced, while 1,292 bridges—34 percent—in the Dallas area are substandard.

Coffee exports perking up

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. coffee processors should perk up, the government says. Exports have hit all-time highs, brewing new opportunities for even more sales of American-processed coffee in Canada, South Korea and Japan.

The explosive expansion of U.S. coffee exports has persisted since 1988, reaching a record $133 million in 1993, the Agriculture Department's Foreign Agriculture Service reported. The service predicted that processed coffee sales overseas could reach $160 million by 2000.

Processed coffee includes decaffeinated beans, roasted coffee and instant coffee, but does not include green coffee beans.

The top export market currently is Canada, with a 91 percent increase in sales since 1989.

But the report said the U.S. fascination with gourmet brews, shown by the prevalence of espresso bars and specialty blends in supermarkets, is most likely a precursor to a similar trend in Canada. The government is advising U.S. exporters to get in the game early.

And government analysts identified South Korea as the top market for future growth of U.S. processed coffee sales. American shipments there jumped 137 percent between 1989 and 1993.

Instant coffee is still the most popular coffee item in South Korea, but rising incomes have increased demand for regular, dripground coffee.

In Japan, U.S. exporters' market share went from 2 percent in 1988 to 14 percent in 1992. Coffee consumption is growing in Japan and the number of coffee drinkers is rising steadily, the report said.

BACK TO HEALTHFUL EATING

Indulgent foods and hectic schedules can take their toll on an otherwise healthful diet. To get back to healthful eating habits, these suggestions might be helpful:

•Be sure to eat breakfast. It supplies energy you need to get through the morning. Some research has linked eating breakfast to a more positive attitude.

•Eat three meals a day that include a variety of foods, such as fruits, vegetables, lean meats, lowfat dairy products and whole grains. Eating a wide variety of foods helps ensure a well-balanced diet.

•Supplement meals, if you like, with nutritious snacks, such as bananas, raw vegetables, nonfat yogurt and other favorite treats that provide important nutrients.

•Keep staple foods on hand that will help you quickly make healthful meals. Stock up on pasta and rice, frozen vegetables, spaghetti sauce, seasonings, tuna packed in water, dried and frozen fruit and cereals.

•Shop for groceries when you're not hungry. Have a healthful snack first to reduce unneeded purchases.

•Sip flavored water while you prepare a meal to discourage nibbling and to help you feel temporarily satisfied.

•When preparing meals, double the batch and freeze half to reheat later in the week. This makes it easy to serve a nutritious meal on those days when you don't have time to cook.

•Eat slowly. Remember, it takes time for the food you've eaten to satisfy your appetite. Approach meals as a pleasurable activity. Eat consciously and enjoy each bite to its fullest.

TSCRA convention slated in Fort Worth

FORT WORTH — Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association's 117th annual convention here March 27-30 also offers busy ranchers, farmers, cowboys and their families one of the largest livestock-related trade shows in the southwestern United States, says John W. Jones, TSCRA president from Brady.

TSCRA is a livestock trade association based in Fort Worth with approximately 15,000 cattle producers as members in Texas, Oklahoma and surrounding states. More than 2,500 members are expected to attend the convention and trade show.

The trade show will officially kickoff the convention on Sunday, March 27, at 1:30 p.m. and will close at 6:30 p.m.

The trade show will be open on Monday and Tuesday, March

For those individuals who want only to attend the trade show, admission can be purchased on-site for $5 a day.

For the seventh consecutive year, a silent auction of donated prizes, including boots, spurs, jewelry, artwork, luggage, squeeze chutes and chemical products, will be held Sunday through Tuesday in the trade show during trade show hours.
