Half-Century's Service Record City's Unique Fire Department of the pioneer organizations Artesia, one that serves the town, will get its week in the when members join other similar organizations over the United States National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7-13.

There is a unique note about the fire department. It is one of a few in a town of this size which is a volunteer organization. It has 19 members, only two are employees. The other 17 are volunteers.

The sophisticated metropolitan may think such a setup would be for some sort of "old home outfit." It doesn't. The volunteer works effectively. That is a volunteer outfit and has been from the beginning, is a credit to civic-mindedness of its personnel.

The fire fighters can boast of a half century of serving the town, since the department was organized in 1905, only two years before the Artesia Advocate.

Two years ago the department moved into its present quarters, a Spanish type tile building at the corner of Fifth and Texas, the alley from the police station building and the city hall.

All three units are on the block. The fire station, there are three trucks and a two-room living room, kitchenette and bathroom, occupied by the Golden and family. Golden is the two paid employees of the department. The other is Cal Dunn. Both are truck drivers.

At the fire station is a bunk room for other firemen and a 40x24 foot recreation room with a kitchen, used for firemen's parties. There is a siren tower at the station that is 85 feet high.

Trucks

The department has two vintage Seagraves 600-gallon pump and a Ford, 500 gallons. One is a new Ford truck with a pump on the low side and 64 on the high.

Fire

Probably Artesia's most disastrous fire was one that occurred in January, 1948. This was at the Mexico Asphalt and Refining plant. Loss was estimated at $500.

Local Guard Calls for More Recruits shortage again appears in the Artesia unit of the New Mexico National Guard and organization is out to remedy the deficit. Not only does the unit want to attain minimum strength but they want the minimum in line with administrative of the Adjutant General in Santa Fe.

All there are 10 units of the unit below minimum strength. Artesia here's the situation.

Battery C, 697th Antiaircraft Artillery Automatic Weapons Battalion, has only 39 enlisted men, whereas the minimum requirement is 48. That means the outfit is nine men shy of even being at a minimum.

The unit drills at 7 p. m. each Wednesday at the Armory, 401-11th Centre. Captain Marshall H. is the commanding officer. Prospective recruits are invited to attend drill nights. Age limits are 17 to 34. With parents consent, they can enlist at the age of 17.

Santa Fe Thanked for Installation of Atoka Light

There are groups who vigorously for others to make improvements in public safety when the light is done crawl off and hide when it comes to saying a decent thank you."

Not so the Artesia Chamber of Commerce. For a long time it kept a move to get a signal light installed at the Atoka railroad crossing, a traffic danger spot.

Today the light is in place and use. To Earl Darst, local Santa Fe agent, Bob Koonce, chamber manager, sent the following letter, Oct. 2:

"On behalf of the membership of this organization and the entire community, allow me to thank you and railway officials for the installation of the signal light at the crossing.

Due to an increasing school attendance, the cotton gin and store, construction of a paved highway and this safety measure a "must." We, more and more sportsmen using the road. Please relay congratulations to the officials who recognized this need."

Carlsbad Editor Addresses Local Kiwanis Club

Freedom of the press means freedom of information for the public, Jack Sitton, editor of the Carlsbad Current-Argus, declared yesterday in an address to the Artesia Kiwanis Club. The press itself, Sitton said, is not important except as a vehicle for giving the public information on public affairs.

The Carlsbad editor declared that the people have been fighting for free speech and a free press for hundreds of years and the fight is still going on today.

He traced the struggles for a free press in England and France and in colonial America, pointing out that governments in the 1700's and 1800's suppressed freedom of expression by licensing newspapers and cancelling their licenses if they reported news that was critical of the government.

1843 Starting Point
Under English common law, he pointed out, it was not until 1843 that a publisher could offer proof of statements published as a defense against charges of criminal libel.

Freedom of information—the right of the people to know—is under attack throughout the world today, Sitton declared. He pointed to the loss of a free press in Argentina under the Peron dictatorship and in other South and Central American countries, as well as in the Iron Curtain countries.

Even in America, he said, there are those who would withhold information on governmental affairs from the public. He criticized President Truman's recent order to civilian agencies of the government to suppress any information which they consider as against the security interests of the nation.

Order Is Censorship
No newspaper wants to publish information harmful to the national security, Sitton said, but he declared the Truman order is in fact a censorship which every governmental agency will use to hide mismanagement, fraud and corruption.

"Why should some bureaucrat have the power to judge what information the people shall have?" the editor asked. "Democracy is based on the principle of rule by an informed majority and how can the people make intelligent decisions in government if they are not adequately informed?"

The people have an overriding interest in freedom of information, which is guaranteed by the first Amendment to the Constitution and it is "up to Congress to see" that the executive branch of the government does not take away that basic right, Sitton said.

The Carlsbad editor, who formerly was an editor for the Associated Press at Albuquerque and Santa Fe, was invited to address the Kiwanians in connection with National Newspaper Week, which is being observed throughout the United States this week.

Sitton, was introduced by Club President Ralph O'Dell. Names of persons to serve on committees handling the Eddy County Junior Livestock Show, Nov. 3, were announced.

Overall chairman, Ernest Hubbard, event chairman, Paul Frost; pens for stock, Waldo Ports, J. D. (Continued on Page Eight)

Governor Asked To Attend Area Church Conclave

Church dignitaries and lay officers of the National Council residing within the diocese of El Paso, of which Artesia is a part, and Gov. Edwin L. Mechem, have been invited to attend the Diocesan Council of Catholic Women convention in Carlsbad on Nov. 14-15.

Convention theme is "The Child—Citizen of Two Worlds." Although the convention title contains the word "woman" both men and women will attend and 200 persons are expected for the conclave.

Keynote speaker will be Reverend Cletine Zeiler, pastor of San Jose Mission, Carlsbad. Plans for the assembly were drafted in a meeting held Sunday afternoon, Sept. 30, in the Carlsbad Knights of Columbus hall, with Mrs. Gladys James, convention affairs chairman, presiding.

Carlsbad Catholic women of both St. Edward and San Jose parishes will be hostesses to the Council.

Reverend Hugh Rodke spoke to the women on the importance of team work and hearty cooperation.

Hobbs Man New Artesia Bank President

CHARLES JOHNSON

Effective Oct. 10, Artesia First National Bank will have a new president, Charles K. Johnson, former vice president of Lea County State Bank, Hobbs.

At a meeting of the local bank directors on Tuesday afternoon, Ross Sears offered his resignation as president and the board elected Johnson to the position. Sears, however, retains his post as chairman of the board and will continue his office at the bank and his place as board chairman, named at the top of the list of officers, Sears said.

Johnson, the new president, attended school in Roswell and Lovington. He began his work in banking at Lea County State Bank in 1931, at Lovington, then went with the bank to Hobbs when a Lea County State Bank was established in the county's biggest city.

Except for the four years, 1940-44, when he was Hobbs postmaster, he has been with the bank continuously.

Johnson has purchased the Dr. Charles H. Rundles place, 612 Runyan, where the new bank president, Mrs. Johnson and their two children, Patricia Jean and Charles Neal will make their home.

The Hobbs man has golf as a major hobby. He is a member of the Presbyterian Church, Lions and interested in the Boy Scout movement and Chamber of Commerce.

Pat Donahue Gives Sidelight On 'Aladdin' Play

It is the generally accepted view that actors, above all other human beings who have to some degree the same fondness for it, love talking about themselves. And Patrick Donahue who plays Aladdin in the production of "Aladdin and His Wonderful Lamp," to be shown in Artesia October 8 under the auspices of the Artesia Girl Scout Association, Central School P.T.A., and Story League, makes no pretense of being anything other than an actor.

But the personality whom he prefers to discuss is not the Donahue of off-stage hours, but the interpreter of the personality of Aladdin, whom he has portrayed so many times, with such intense conviction he is no longer sure which part of him is Aladdin and which part is not.

In a recent interview, Donahue said, "The feeling that I can rub a lamp and a genie will pop up somewhere to do my bidding lasts for some time after a performance.

"Sometimes, the hotel managements where our companies stay think I carry the Aladdin role too far when I ring for room service.

"Seriously, though, the Aladdin role is as stimulating to the imagination of the actor who plays it, as it is to the audience who views it. If our company has any one objective in its playing it is to enkindle the imagination of our youthful audiences so that they will go around for days saying 'genie, get my coat; genie, do my homework'."

"Then, someday, you may be sure this play acting will develop into a genuine sense of wonder at lifting a telephone and talking to someone four floors or four miles away. Not to have an awakened imagination is to be only half alive to the wonders about you."

Mr. Donahue appears in his Aladdin role Monday at the Artesia High School auditorium in the two performances at 9:30 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. Tickets are now on sale in the schools and are 50 cents for children and 75 cents for adults.

South American Progress at Rate Four Times of U. S., Club Told

Latin Americans have done in 20 years what it took the United States between 80 to 150 years to accomplish.

That is what members of the Knife and Fork Club learned from Carlos Fallon, noted South American author, as he addressed the first fall meeting of the club Monday night, which was attended by 125 persons.

Fallon illustrated his point by bringing out salient features of life in his native Colombia, using his own family as the basis for comparison.

He told of the hierarchical family organization, which used age as the basis of seniority.

This family hierarchy was brought out in every aspect of living, even down to the kind of candles which were used for illumination.

Here the best and biggest candles went to the oldest members of the large household, while the kids in the family had to make their own every week.

Outdoor baths also characterized life in Colombia in Fallon's childhood.

The father was the head of the household, not only in name, but also in fact, although Fallon managed to go against parental edicts when he joined the Colombian navy against his father's wishes, which were that he should study for the priesthood.

Mule Carts
Transportation in the early days was by means of mule drawn "street cars," over cobblestone streets.

Ten years later, when Fallon returned from a tour of duty with the Colombian navy, which saw him become chief of staff of it, electric lighting had replaced candles and the cobblestones of the early day pavement had given way to asphalt.

After another 10 years had elapsed the family household had progressed still further with everything being electric, even down to pencil sharpeners.

Fallon mentioned how he had to instruct members of his family in the use of these gadgets, cautioning them not to wash the dog in the washing machine.

No 4-F
One year's military service is compulsory for all South Americans between the ages of 16 and 21 and there are no 4-F's.

Artesia Airman Shows Jet Speed In Keesler Class

Charging through electronics like the Artesia Bulldog line does through its opponents, a former Artesia High School graduate, Pfc. Bruce E. Ployhar has completed a nine month course in five months at Keesler Air Force Base, Biloxi, Mississippi.

Private Ployhar, who graduated from Artesia High School in 1948, is a grandson of Mrs. Maude Ployhar, 503 West Richardson, and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ployhar of McCamey, Texas. The Ployhars moved to McCamey from Artesia two years ago.

The 20-year-old airman was born in Valley City, N. D., but with his parents came to Artesia when he was five years old. Besides Bruce, the Ployhars have another son, Billy, 13.

Private Ployhar was a member of both junior and senior divisions of the National Honor Society, a scholastic organization, while in school here.

After graduating from Artesia High, he studied electrical engineering at Park College, Parkville, Mo., and Los Angeles College.

Hunters May Be Active But Don't Do Much Talking

Are the nimrods less talkative than the anglers?
That's the sports question for today. While the fisherman keep up a steady flow about the big ones that got away and the big ones that didn't, bringing back a copious supply of photographic proof, the boys who go boom-boom with shotgun and rifle are as laconic as a Vermont farmer.

To date The Advocate has had only one hunting yarn. We'd like to have plenty. If you are going hunting or have hunted recently, write or telephone the news editor.

Be sure to be specific on full names, addresses, where you went, and exactly what your kill might be. We'll appreciate hearing about it.

Artesian Dies From Injuries In Car Wreck

Funeral arrangements for James Felix Nabours, 31, Artesia painter, who died at 1:30 a. m. yesterday, in a Carlsbad hospital, from injuries suffered in an automobile accident 12 miles north of Carlsbad, are pending at the Paulin Funeral Home here.

Mr. Nabours had lived in Artesia since 1944 coming here from Seagraves, Texas.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Nabours, both of whom are living and was born Feb. 5, 1920 in Anson, Texas. In 1940, he married Madge Wallace in Lovington.

Survivors, besides the widow, are their two daughters, Doris Ann and Alice Marie; two sisters, Cornelia Holley of Welch, Texas and Ula E. Jones, Madina, Ohio; four brothers: Lee of Artesia, Charles, Odessa; W. E. of Lamy and Lawrence T. Clifton, Ariz.

Advance Gifts Asked in Scout Financial Drive

Opening salvo in the annual financial drive of the Gateway District, Boy Scouts of America, was fired this week as circular letters, enclosing an advertisement of the campaign, were sent out by Hollis Watson, advance gifts chairman.

The letters are dated Oct. 1, however the "official" opening of the drive, is not until Oct. 10 and is expected to be completed in one week.

The letter explains the district goal is $5000 while the budget of the Eastern New Mexico Area Council 413, Roswell, of which Gateway is one of the eight districts, is $61,975.50 for 1951-52.

This budget was established at a meeting of 40 men in Cal Boykin Hotel, Portales, on Aug. 28.

Increase in the amount of money needed this year over last, is 10 per cent.

Not in Dollars
S. P. Yates, Artesia, Gateway district finance chairman, says: "Scouting cannot be evaluated in terms of dollars and cents, but in the lives of the boys who become (Continued on Page Eight)

Artesia Sector Oil Champion Of New Mexico

Ninety per cent of New Mexico's oil industry is located in the southeastern part of the state, which includes Eddy and Lea counties.

This was one of the points brought out by Ed Kinney in his talk to the Lions Club Wednesday.

Kinney went on to say that New Mexico ranks seventh in oil production among the states.

The oil industry in New Mexico has been profitable for the United States government, which has collected $23,000,000 in leases in the 27 years since the oil industry was established in New Mexico.

Although this is one of the major oil producing areas in New Mexico, attempts to obtain deep oil (in Eddy county) have been unsuccessful.

Kinney also mentioned that possibilities for gas production were limitless and that storage was the only problem.

In another part of the program, C. R. Kidd, visiting Lion from Peru, Ind., gave a brief talk on life in Mexico City and Lionism.

His remarks on Mexico City were of interest to the club because it is the site of next year's international convention.

Library Thanks School Board For Fund Grant

The Artesia Public Library has extended its thanks to the Artesia Board of Education for funds made available to the library this year. The library received $30 from the schools so that the library would have the necessary amount to request the maximum of $500 of state matching funds.

In expressing their thanks, Mrs. S. P. Yates, president of the library board, and Mrs. Donald Knorr, librarian, have stated that every effort is being made to correlate the work of the public and school libraries.

Speed and Power

BILL BROWN

As happy-go-lucky as a Celt on St. Patrick's Day, Bill Brown, 16, right end of the Artesia High School football team, was a one-man tornado against the New Mexico Military Institute Colts here last Friday night and is due to repeat his stellar performance when the Bulldogs play the Albuquerque Bulldogs here tonight. In the game against the Cadets, Brown racked up four blocked punts, blocked a kick for point after the Red and Black's lone touchdown and then scored a marker himself. Bill works every minute of the game. He never loafes altho his easy going manner may make him seem so.

A story on the game in last week's Advocate incorrectly gave Brown only two blocked punts instead of the correct four. The fault was the news editor's. There is no alibi.

Cakes A-Baking For Band Aides '51 Pastry Trot

If uniforms and traveling expenses are to be a-comin', somebody must bake and sell a lot of cakes.

That's the idea of the sixth annual cake walk of The Artesia Band Aides, booster group for the Artesia High School Band.

The stunt will include bringing in the cakes for sale at the Artesia Pharmacy, 402 West Main, after 10 a. m. tomorrow, Saturday, Oct. 6. Then there is to be a parade by the 50-member uniformed band of which Ben Stevens is director.

Exact route of the parade, exact time, formation point, and other details were not given, but the route will include Main street.

The cake walk will begin at two p. m.

Three Roswell bakeries—Mead, Freshe, and Holsum—have donated cakes to the Band Aides as has the Centre Street Bakery of Artesia.

Last year from "200 to 300" cakes were sold. Members of the club will also bring in their cakes for sale and the fact is stressed by the club that the cakes are "home-made."

Will Pick Up Cakes—
Persons with cakes to donate to the cake walk are asked to bring them to the Pharmacy. In case they cannot bring the cakes they are advised by the club to telephone 318-R and arrangements will be made to pick up the cakes.

Plans for the cake walk were (Continued on Page 8)

Artesia FFA Receives Eight Awards and $335

An octet of awards ranging from certificates to a jacket and $335 in checks was the tangible proof of accomplishments of Artesia Chapter of Future Farmers of America in a special assembly program on Wednesday morning in the Artesia High School auditorium.

In the program presented by the agriculture students, certificates and gold emblem charms representative of the state farmer degree, first in the history of the local school, were presented Albert Bach, Tommy Price and Bobby Thorpe.

It was Hunt Zumwalt, however, chapter president, who took the sweepstakes honors. He received the Sunshine State Farmer certificate, the top New Mexico award, a check for $100, a medal for representing the local chapter in the state public speaking contest, a medal from the state organization for being the best Artesia farmer and a check of $160 from the Santa Fe Railway for his expenses to the National Future Farmers convention in Kansas City, Oct. 8-12.

Tom Powell, treasurer of the Artesia chapter, produced the $75 check awarded the local club and given to it for having the best supervised farming program in the state.

On the distaff side, Alice Martin received a FFA sweetheart jacket. Presentation was by Zumwalt.

Presentation of other awards was by Supt. Tom Mayfield. In other parts of the program, Travis Zeleny, publicity chairman of the club, talked on state farmer qualifications; W. L. Gray spoke on supervised farming projects of the chapter; Jimmy Liles recited the FFA creed.

The assembly was conducted under parliamentary procedure and the ritual of opening and closing ceremonies incorporated into the program.

Abstinence Law
Now Applicable
Over Southwest

Catholics of Artesia, along with all others in the archdiocese of Santa Fe and the dioceses of El Paso and Gallup, today will begin to observe the general law of the church regarding abstinence on all Fridays of the year.

This means that every Catholic who has reached the age of seven is forbidden to eat meat and soup or gravy made from meat on the Fridays of the year.

As is generally known, the Catholics of the Southwest have enjoyed a special privilege that permitted them to eat meat on Fridays.

Pope Pius XIII however, realizing the seriousness of world affairs, has urged all Catholics to unite on this day of the week in memory of and out of love and gratitude for Our Blessed Savior's Passion and Death.

The rule of Friday abstinence is not new. As early as the ninth century, when Nicholas I was pope, it was a law of the church. Reason was to do homage to the memory of Christ suffering and dying on that day.

That Catholics of the Southwest long enjoyed the privilege of eating meat on most Fridays of the year, was due to the benevolence of the Holy See and was granted to the Spanish in Spain and her possessions because of Spain's wars against the Moors.

This dispensation was extended to all living in these former possessions even up to this day.

It is the intent of the ruling to make one law of abstinence for all Catholics of the world.

At the present time, the law of (Continued on Page Eight)

Money Order Window Will Remain Open Saturday Afternoons

Farmers and others who have money order business to transact with the Post Office, can now do so on Saturday afternoons from 1 to 5, beginning tomorrow, J. L. Truett, postmaster, announced yesterday.

Reason for the new hours is that there has been too much congestion on Monday mornings and farmers come to town on Saturdays anyhow, Truett pointed out.

No other departments of the post office will remain open, Closing time for other windows on Saturdays is noon.

When it comes to action plus Artesia Girl Scouts can show the grown-ups there's plenty. For the girls organization has been humming like a jet bomber plant this last week as the troops did everything from working on an area Girl Scout booth for the Eastern New Mexico Fair, Roswell, Oct. 9-13, to learning how to build a ditch-brick grill fireplace.

They elected patrol leaders, made cups from tin cans, took a tour of the local telephone exchange. Then, too, there's plans cooking for Halloween and for Girl Scout Week, Oct. 28-Nov. 2. On Sunday, Oct. 28, Girl Scouts and Brownies in full uniform, will attend their respective churches.

It is Troop 11 that has been working on the booth for the Roswell fair. The girls have made flags from green construction paper. Troop number, number of members and project is the data placed on each flag.

The flags will be set on a large map in the booth along with flags from the entire area.

Troop 11 also took an inventory of the work required to

Country Club Chatter

By JACK FAUNTLEROY
I am convinced now that there is no limit to what some golfers will do to try to get a stroke advantage in a golf match. I dropped in to see Stan Sutton Saturday morning after his finding out a pickup is rammied into the cab with the driver, it doesn't leave much room for anything else.

He had stitches in his chin, a couple of teeth missing, a dislocated thumb, lacerated knees, and other various and sundry bruises, and was so sore he couldn't blink but one eye at a time. His first words to me were, "Now listen, Fauntleroy, don't you think it would be fair if I only gave you one and a half strokes instead of two."

Well, I'm happy to say that Sut's sense of humor wasn't knocked out of him, and I'm happy to know that he is still around.

I must admit that the fact that he went to school down a half a stroke made quite an impression on me, but after all, there is a matter of principle involved.

If I gave in and reduced my handicap a half stroke, then I would never hear the last of the begging, bleeding, bluster from all the rest of a certain group of golfers.

Stanley, I wish you a speedy recovery, health, happiness, and prosperity, but I absolutely refuse to budge from the present handicap position.

Sarah Bourland is also on the sick list, but the latest report that I had from Bob, she was improving rapidly. I wish you a speedy recovery, too, Sarah, but what I said about strokes goes for you, too. I just ain't givin' nuthin' to nobody.

New Golfer—
Charlie and Glenna Murphy have a new little golfer in the family, and I understand that she is one of the pretties in the county. I just hope that Charlie isn't making her take too many practice swings before getting each bottle.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ratliff, Fort Worth who are the parents of Mrs. John A. Mathis, Jr. are visiting here. Mr. Ratliff and guests coming to visit recently were Mr. and Mrs. J. Priddy of Hobart, Okla. Travelers Newsletter Ancestor of Today's American Newspaper

The desire and need of people to learn the news and happenings in their community, their nation and the entire civilized world is as old as, perhaps older than, history.

In early times town criers walked through the streets of the community calling out items of interest and government proclamations, rumors, carried disquisitions from war fronts and other news of important activity and events.

Gradually businessmen began to see that keeping up with the news was vital to their prosperity. Exports and imports were affected by the current state of international relations, a storm at sea might sink a cargo ship and disrupt a creditor overnight.

His paper also carried essays on political theories then being advanced by such "radicals" as Cato and Addison and Steele. Of course he finally was arrested and forbidden to publish without previous censorship, but the paper went on as before, except that 17-year-old Ben was now listed as publisher.

The brothers eventually fell out on matters of policy, and the paper was discontinued, but while it was published it remained a fearless champion of the right of free comment and formed the roots of a tradition which was to grow in America into today's concept of a free press.

Adding to that tradition immeasurably was the trial of John Peter Zenger in New York a few years later. Zenger started publication of the New York Weekly Journal in 1733, and from the start he set his editorial policy against the tyrannical Governor Cosby.

Arrested for seditious libel in 1734 and held in jail for nearly a year before his trial he nevertheless managed to get instructions to his wife and shop assistants, and the Journal was published regularly during his imprisonment.

When Zenger was brought to trial in 1735 the jury was instructed, as was the law of the time, that they could decide only whether certain articles had been published in the Journal.

It was up to the court to decide whether these articles constituted libel. But during the trial the defense attorney, Andrew Hamilton, argued eloquently against the logic of such a situation. He defended the right of the people to complain against the abuse of power. Liberty was asserted to be the only bulwark against power, and the Zenger case was made the cause of all free men.

The jury deliberated for only ten minutes and brought in a verdict of "not guilty." The law of seditious libel was not changed by their decision, but the trial laid the groundwork for its later change. The Zenger trial brought the need of freedom of expression to the attention of the American people, not for the moment, but for all time.

After the American Revolution, only once was the right of freedom of the press seriously questioned in this country. In 1798 the Alien and Sedition Acts, passed by the Federalist party, were aimed at editors who were critical of the government.

Arguments by both the Republican and Federalist papers had been fiercely vituperative, couched as they were in the strong language then common to controversial writing in the United States.

By the laws of 1798 the Federalists sought to deport opposing editors who were aliens, and jail those who were citizens. The acts were so unpopular that they were enforced only in a few cases, however. In fact, it is believed to be the unpopularity of the Alien and Sedition Acts which brought about the defeat of the Federalists in the next election, when Republican Thomas Jefferson became President.

At any rate, the laws were allowed to expire on March 3, 1801, the day before Jefferson took office.

Two-Century Struggle Since that time the Anglo-American concept of freedom of the press has become so firmly established in the English-speaking countries that it is taken almost for granted.

It is hard for people to realize that freedom of the press was won only after a courageous two-century struggle, when it has been the common practice for 150 years for newspapers to publish all the news, freely and without restraint, and to comment editorially on the pros and cons of actions taken by private individuals and organizations and by local, state and national governments.

In a letter dated Sept. 30, addressed to "Vernon Bryan and Gang, The Advocate," Pot says: "I got out of the hospital the day after Labor Day," he says, explaining that an operation wasn't necessary after all.

"Three days later I went to Oklahoma City to pick up my car. It is a fire red Ford coach on which I have put nearly 5000 miles since I know almost as much about the South Plains now as Brownie although I don't know the county names.

"My territory includes Wichita Falls, Vernon, Childress, Plainview, Lubbock, Snyder, Lamesa, Strawn, Lubbock and Lampasas. In my travels I have flown from Oklahoma City to Amarillo, Amarillo to Wichita Falls and have also spun my wheels to Dumas, Dalhart, Hereford, Clovis, Tulia, Perryton, Fort Worth, as well as Boise City, Guymon, Okla.

"I have fished at Fort Phantom and Moran lakes and have seen Lake Kemp."

The old printers ink still remains, however, despite Pot's selling job. As a favor to a tied-up sports staff of the Abilene newspaper, he covered the Kansas City Monarchs-Indianapolis Clowns baseball game.

Pot mentions Artesians or former Artesians he has seen: Bob Rodke and family, Beach Barton in Amarillo, Mascheck of Buffalo Okla, Wichita Falls, Walt Varner made some adjustments on Pot's car in Snyder. He also saw Bob Collins who runs the airport and Dick Keys (the paper peddler) in Guymon, Okla. and Jonsey Jones.

Pot's address has been published before but for the benefit of you folks who want to write him and don't know it, here it is: Pot Bert, 1104 Matador, Abilene, Texas.

More than 35 million tons of perishable foods and beverages are shipped each year in the 126,000 refrigerator cars now rolling in the United States.

"In my car, and in our trucks and cement mixer, I must have a motor oil that can stand up under dust, dirt and cement powder. That's why I was so interested in your story of 50,000 Miles—No Wear."

"Since changing to Conoco Super Motor Oil, I've driven my personal car more than 50,000 miles. That's why I know—50,000 Miles—No Wear has sure been true for me. Since I can't afford to take chances on ordinary oil, it's Conoco Super one hundred percent for me!"

Wherein We Begin Our Poll To Determine Our Right to Poll

I hear references at the football games here to "guard of the week," "player of the week" and the like, which I understand is a sort of designation set up by some metropolitan newspaper in the state or by a "poll of sports writers."

It is by a state-wide poll, why doesn't The Artesia Advocate have a voice in it? Six months ago I heard talk of plans to form a New Mexico Sports Writers Association. I got busy at once, got in touch with the proper officials, and had my name submitted for membership.

There was no response and I never heard of any sports writers unit being formed.

Maybe so—tomorrow. Right now I'm interested in who casts votes in the "poll" and whether the deal is an Albuquerque, Northern New Mexico affair or state-wide deal. If it's a one-newspaper or one section deal, that's their privilege, but if it claims to be state-wide, The Advocate should be included.

No Names Important—No one likes to be referred to as B. Jones, A. Smith, or J. Brown. Due to space limitations it isn't possible in The Advocate to list full names of players on both teams in starting lineups. That's why it comes out Johnson, Brown and the like.

When there are two Johnsons or two Browns, naturally the initials have to be used to distinguish the two. But in the stories the full names should always be given.

Also I wonder why schools and some teams invariably think that a J. Anderson, or B. Tompkins is correct form. It isn't. Those names should be in full.

No Colleges Listed—It's standard operating procedure to list athletic officials by full name, college, and their particular job in that order. The 1950-51 directory of certified football officials specified the colleges but the New Mexico High School Athletic Association failed to repeat that process in its 1951-52 directory.

Why Not Used?—If high school sports in Artesia were operated on a "use" basis, and a cold-blooded business method was in effect, it is doubtful if a tenth of the high school's present playgrounds, equipment, and all other sports program that would see all facilities in use all day long and every day.

The facilities were as deserted as Glasgow's main street on tag day. Now the crowds—Comes now fall. Each Friday and Saturday night the crowds pour in Morris Field stands. But watching games isn't enough. Course the oldsters can't play football—but they could still be playing softball, pitching horseshoes, quilts, and participating in some kind of field and track athletics.

Sports facilities represent a lot of mazzama. Artesia has facilities—not as many as I think it should have—but when even those on hand are not utilized to the fullest—it poses a neat question: Why invest more money in sports facilities when only a handful of persons use them and then only for a few months of the year?

And as a hard-boiled business proposition such an attitude could be justified. I know that football games bring in lots of cash. But it also takes cash to run teams, pay coaches, and officials. I would like to see the facilities Artesia is fortunate to possess in use every day in the year by persons of all ages in all kinds of sports. And I mean players—not spectators.

This is merely my opinion but I have no apologies or excuses to make for stating it. It is not an attempt to tell anyone—the school board, coaches—or anyone else—how their business should be run. It's an idea of mine, perhaps not feasible. But I'd like to hear some comment on this from school administrators.

Old Morris Subway—I'm calling myself to account in this connection because I have protested the inadequacy of the press box at Morris Field. Obviously it doesn't make economic sense to expend money on improving it when it is in use only two months of the year.

I can understand that—yet the fact remains that the crowded, jammed condition of the booth, in which public address system, radio press, and timers are packed in along with a network of wires, mikes, and other gadgets, sure puts a bottleneck into proper coverage of the games.

March of Time—Looking over the official roster of the Bulldogs (and here I mildly "kid" the senior school because the junior high was the first to submit a grid roster). I note some names that were on the roster last season without even a number at that time.

I didn't know all the squad and there's many of the boys on the 1951 squad I wouldn't know by sight. These boys who were reserves are showing up splendidly. Time moves along and the unknown reserve of last year proves his mettle in the new season.

I know the "old guard" of course—Bill Brown, Jimmy Juarez, Doyle Cole, Yumpy Barker, Cowboy Calloway and a few—but few of the new ones.

For example, the list of names new to me includes Ozell Roberts, Jack Huddleston, Jimmy Dew, Doug Whitefield, Loren Gelwick, James Baker, Jimmy Walker, Don and Sammy Golden, Gary Aikens, David Bardonado, Bob Norrid, Jon Eastley, Vernon Crow, Don Sperry, Jerry Simmons, Howard Price and Robert DeAnada.

No Slight Intended—I know that Dew, Doug Whitefield, Huddleston, and Horace Price have been doing some bang-up good playing. Not long ago there was a picture of the Artesia line on the front page. Some of the linemen were not pictured. This was no slight—simply a matter of not having their cuts.

We have cuts of last year's regulars but do not have a complete set of the 1951 squad. For this reason I can't publish their pictures but this doesn't mean they are slighted or given the brush-off. This recalls a statement I made a year ago which I think needs repeating now. I have never "blown up" any player. I never will. I think a player rates special recognition, he'll get it. I base the rating on what I see, what I know of the player, and the coach's comments. After I put the three together I make my decision.

It takes all 11 players to make a team and it takes the work of all 11 for one to make a touchdown. Naturally the boy who scores that touchdown is going to be named—that's a matter of record. It is impossible for anyone to know every move 25 boys make in 60 minutes, every minute. Consequently, some fine plays may be overlooked. That goes with the game.

I have no ax to grind with or for anyone. I never will. It would be far easier to say to the whole squad that every player was a star. That makes it easier going for the writer. But I never played policy in my life. I never will.

Advocate Coverage Leads—And right now I want to say again that no newspaper anywhere in the world, regardless of the size of the place in which it is published, has devoted as much space to Artesia High School sports as has The Artesia Advocate.

There are folks who quote at length from something they've read in some paper published a long way off, some metropolitan journal. That's their privilege of course—but remember The Artesia Advocate is Artesia's paper. The money of Advocate employees goes into the houses, automobiles, food, and other commodities sold in Artesia by which other Artesians make their living.

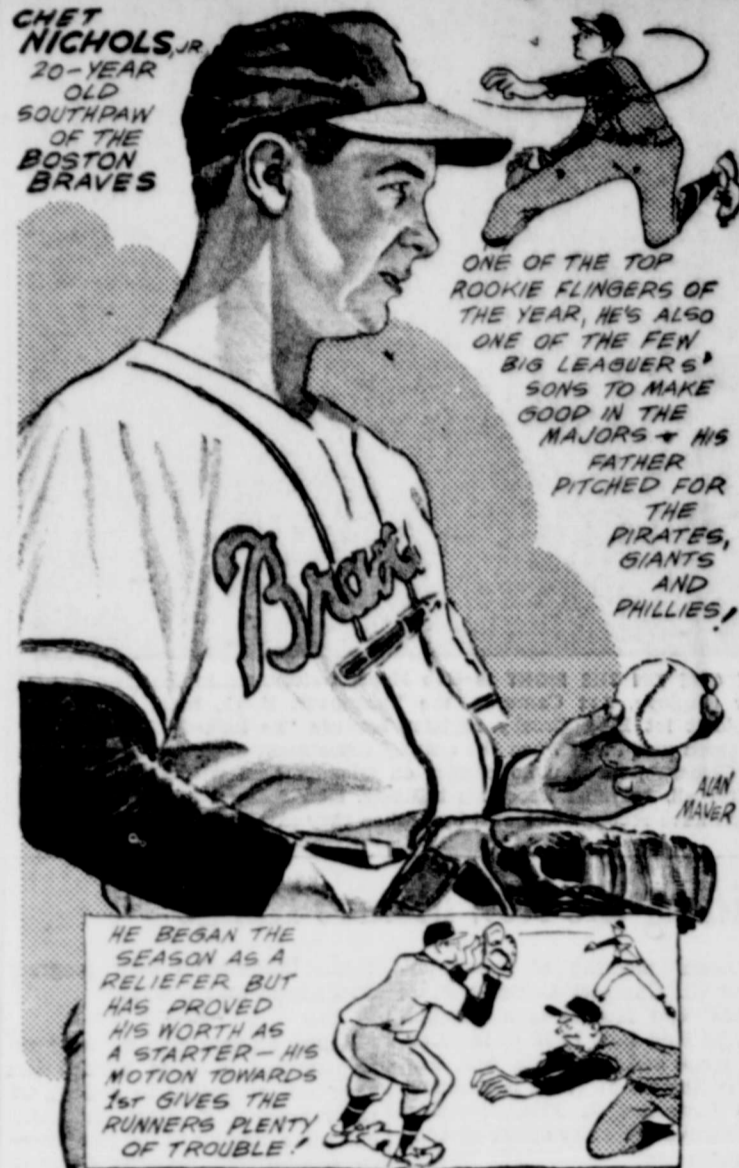

I have yet to see the "biggies" spending a dime in Artesia. Simply because it's bigger, a long way off, and richer, doesn't make it better for Artesia. If this newspaper used that reasoning we'd forget the Bulldogs and say nothing except about the University of New Mexico, Columbia, California, Pennsylvania, Army and Navy.

Giant Yankee Bulldogs Poise Grim Threat to Dixie Eleven

Take the Tucumcari Rattlers, the Roswell Coyotes, and a Sabrejet passing attack, and the continually increasing load of the Yankees Bulldogs have had to contend all season, and there you have the situation that confronts the Artesia High School team as it plays the Albuquerque High School eleven at 8 tonight on Morris Field.

Despite the showing the Artesia team made against New Mexico Military Institute Colts here on Friday night, Sept. 28, when the locals won 41 to 6 (score last year was Artesia 39, N.M.M.I. 0), Coach Reese Smith sees plenty of trouble for his charges.

The Albuquerque team is big, tough, rugged. Incidentally, they're Bulldogs, too, and the Yankee Bulldog is a shrewd gridiron foe. The Northern New Mexico team has played three games and won three games, the last a 25 to 6 win over Clovis.

The Dixie Bulldogs of Artesia have played four games, won three, lost was the photo finish 7-6 to Tucumcari.

Can the speed and hard blocking and tackling of the lighter Artesia eleven offset the beef of Albuquerque? Can the line stop Freddie Leyba, the Duke City team's famed back and passing artist?

Any cockiness that the Artesia team may have acquired as a result of its smacking the Colts is sure to be knocked higher than Hiroshima under the atomic bomb when the lighter Bulldogs battle the giants from Bernalillo county.

The local squad has been undergoing some stiff workouts this week in which Albert (Cowboy) Calloway, center, a powerhouse in the line all season, suffered a broken nose, and plucky, lightweight Bobby Loyd, the halfback it takes a tank to stop, hurt his shoulder in an injury he described

Hornets Bow to Roswell in Locals First Loss of Season, 20 to 14

The Hornets failed in their attempt to make it three in a row, as they fell before the Roswell Junior High Pups, by a score of 20-14, Tuesday night in a game played in Roswell.

However, the Hornets did not give up without a fight and were on the long end of the score until the third quarter, when the Pups recovered a Hornet fumble on the Artesia 48-yard line, which Sherman Pruitt converted into the winning touchdown.

The Hornets started off the scoring parade when Raymond Gressett scored the first touchdown in the second quarter to put them ahead.

The Pups came back in the same quarter with Pruitt making the six pointer from the one-yard line, thus tying up the game.

The Hornets forged ahead again when Freddie Sanders made a 65-yard run, which netted a touchdown. Pruitt countered with another Hornet marker, but this time the conversion was missed and the Hornets led 14-13 going into the second half.

However, that proved to be all for the Hornets and they chalked up their first loss of the season.

Duke City's Team Crushing Power Told Sports Club

The Duke City Bulldogs who meet their Artesia counterpart tonight on Morris Field are going to be tough, Coach Reese Smith told members of the Quarterback Club at Monday night's meeting.

Powering the attack of the invading Bulldogs will be four good, fast backs running from the T-formation.

The Albuquerque Bulldogs line won't be any push-over either, Coach Smith warned.

Reviewing last Friday's game Coach Smith said it was one of the most rugged contests he had ever seen, and that the boys were in good spirit and showed plenty of fight.

Hornet accomplishments in their two games of the season were reviewed by Junior High Coach Bud Wilborn.

He said the Hornets, who beat the Alta Vista Demons of Carlsbad 14-0 last Saturday, showed a lot of improvement over their preceding game in which they beat the Eisenhower Cavekids of Carlsbad by the same score.

Coach Wilborn noted that the Demon line outweighed that of the Hornets considerably.

Bullpups Start Practice—Activities also got underway this week on the Bullpup gridiron, as four teams engaged in workouts Tuesday afternoon.

The Pups will field four teams of 25 each from junior high school, Park and Roselawn Junior high and Park will furnish the power for three of the teams, the other squad will be taken from Roselawn.

The four teams will each have separate uniforms. Colors are black, blue, red and white.

The squads will be coached by Paul Kerley and John Daugherty. Practice sessions will be Monday, Wednesday and Thursday afternoons, and will be held near the swimming pool and using pool dressing rooms, according to Vernon Mills, elementary school supervisor.

Games will be played each Friday night preceding varsity games, between 6:45 and 7:30 p. m. They will be played in six minute quarters.

Publicity given Bulldog alumni A. L. Terpening and Bobby Morgan in broadcasts of University of New Mexico football games, was commented on by Bill Keyes, who announced that KSPV is carrying all Lobos games.

All sports stories from the University of New Mexico news bureau are regularly published in the sports page of The Artesia Advocate. This was done last year and is again being done this year.

Films of games between Northwestern University and Iowa State College and Southern Methodist vs. Texas University were also shown.

Last Monday's meeting was held at 7 p. m. Monday in the High School Cafeteria.

Pete McDavid is head coach of the Albuquerqueans. Colors are green and white; Artesia colors, orange and black; Reese Smith is chief coach of the locals with Cal Hall and Bud Wilborn as assistants.

Names of officials for the game tonight and their probable jobs: James W. Marberry, Jr., Iowa, referee; Homer H. Burkett, umpire; J. B. Micander, New Mexico Military Institute, field judge; T. J. Hall, Jr., Missouri, head linesman.

Broken Shoulder Writes Finis For Season for Greyhound Back

PORTALES, Oct. 5 (Special)—Just when signs pointed to a great year of football for Bill Speegle, Eastern New Mexico University halfback, fate intervened, and his career ended with a season just three minutes long.

Speegle was benched for the season last week when he fractured his shoulder in the opening game of the season with Panhandle A. & M.

On ENMU's fourth play from scrimmage, Speegle carried 10 yards to Panhandle's one-yard line. On the tackle, his shoulder was broken.

Thus, the final season of his football career ended—and just when Greyhound coaches were looking forward to Speegle's best year. Pre-season drills had pointed up Speegle as an outstanding example of fine backfield play.

"I thought Speegle had a great year ahead of him" Coach Al Gerten said in paying tribute to the 170-pound Portales product. "He was our best running back in pre-season play."

In 1950 Speegle was considered one of the best Greyhound gridmen on pass defense. In fact, he was frequently called the outstanding man on pass defense in the New Mexico Conference.

Speegle graduated from Portales High School in 1948 after lettering three years as a halfback. He was named on the All-State team that year and had earned quite a name for himself during his high school career.

He enrolled at New Mexico University where he played halfback for the University freshman team.

He decided to enroll at ENMU as a sophomore and served out a year to establish his eligibility for athletics in the New Mexico conference.

During his junior year, he was inserted into the Greyhound lineup frequently, running back punts and kickoffs, and establishing his great record as a defensive giant. Fans are still talking about his fine defensive work against Peru State last year.

One of his outstanding contributions was a 65-yard punt runback for a touchdown against Daniel Baker, a touchdown which eventually provided the winning margin, 13-7.

Besides his fine defensive records and his early season showing as a ball-carrier, Speegle is a good passer, a fine pass receiver, and a good punter.

Speegle is above average in his classes. He is considered a sincere student and is well liked on the campus.

He is a member of the "E" Association, the Physical Education Majors Club, and Cacique, a men's honorary service organization with members chosen for leadership.

Speegle is concentrating on secondary and elementary education as well as physical education and plans to go into those fields as a teacher. He will receive his bachelor's degree this year.

Wilson dropped out of college for a year, but returned in 1949. At an end position, he began to stand out, and for two years he has been relied upon heavily at that spot.

Wilson can't normally be classified as bashful, quiet, and the retreating type; however when it comes to football, he is definitely modest about his ability. He is willing to sit back and let others make a play for the limelight. All he is after is his share of playing time. With that under his belt, he's happy.

When Wilson was named to the all-conference team last season only one person around Eastern New Mexico was surprised—Wilson himself. He was sincere when he said he didn't deserve the honor.

But just as sincere were the congratulations of Greyhound fans who, if Wilson did not, recognized the qualities which put him in the honored position.

He is a good blocker and definitely a strong defensive man. He compares favorably with Rex Ormon, ENMU's all-time great at end who graduated last year.

Wilson can play defensive halfback when the team is sry of replacements at that spot—and does a good job.

He was named game captain for ENMU's first game of the season with Panhandle A. & M.

He is at home, however, in any athletic contest. In his freshman year, he was a member of the New Mexico Conference tennis championship. He also lettered in track in his freshman year.

Wilson is one of the fastest men to take part in track at ENMU in recent years. He has twice won the 440 for ENMU at the conference meet.

He was a member of ENMU's famous mile-relay team the year the Greyhounds captured that event and went on to win the conference track and field championship.

As an outfielder, he participated in baseball last season when ENMU's first diamond team won the conference title.

While he has never tried out for the varsity basketball team, he is known as a pretty fair player and participates in that sport

Mountain Lion Killed By Bear Near Magdalena

State Trapper Barty Henderson reported last week that a large bear had attacked a mountain lion caught in one of his traps in the Magdalena area.

Henderson told of a terrific battle between the two animals with the bear emerging as the victor. The time Henderson arrived at the scene, there was nothing left of the lion but a "bunch of bones, picked off clean."

The trapper said that the lion, a full-grown female, had been caught in one of his bobcat traps by a hind foot when she was attacked by the bear. Although caught, the light bobcat trap allowed the lion considerable freedom of movement.

Henderson managed to reconstruct the battle by reading the tracks made by the two animals across the rugged hillside. The lion had, apparently, tried to get to higher ground but the trap kept hanging up in the small trees in the area.

"In one place, there was a half circle of ground torn up where the lion had stood and fought off the bear," Henderson said. He added that you could plainly see where the bear had jumped back when ever the lion slapped at him.

Department men guessed that the bear, regardless of his size, must have been "awfully hungry" to attack a grown lion, even in a trap.

Artesia Jobless Total Only 200 Industrial activity in the Artesia area remains at a high level, although construction activity has slowed down, according to the latest report of the Employment Security Commission, dated Sept. 25 which has just been released.

Only 200 persons are unemployed, most of them unskilled construction laborers.

Openings are available for seamograph crewmen, clerk-typists, bookkeepers, radio engineers and auto mechanics.

Rental units, varying in cost, are in good supply and one to three bedroom houses are available from $800 up.

Potash Mines Major Over in Carlsbad the number of unemployed is the same, but most of these are available only for work in the potash mines, when production begins.

This is not slated to take place for several months.

Meanwhile, construction work is steady and only replacements are being hired.

Kress Building The number of unemployed in Roswell also stands at 200, but this represents an increase, due to the laying off of workers employed on the Wherry Housing project, which is nearing completion.

However, most workers laid off soon find other jobs.

On the construction front in the Roswell area, the foundation is being laid for the Kress Building and work is continuing on the Dexter high school.

Rooms and apartments are scarce but some unfurnished houses are available.

Over the state as a whole employment is up due to seasonal expansion of trade and service establishments and increased gas and oil activity.

Most construction is confined to critical areas and military bases. Mining activity is steady.

The number of unemployed has dropped from 6313 in July to 5815 at the end of August. A total of 9590 workers were placed during August, 3574 in agricultural jobs, the other 6025 in industrial jobs.

Workers in short supply over the state are stenographers, technical and professional workers, machinists and mechanics.

The Vatican City in Rome is about the size of an 18-hole golf course.

Carlsbad Man Buys Artesia Tourist Court

Sale of the Bryan Courts, 612 South First, by Tom Bryan to Floyd Childress of Carlsbad, was made known this week by Bryan. The deal was completed Oct. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Bryan plan on remaining in Artesia. Bryan said he had no plans for entering business.

The couple has three children—two sons, Brooks, manager of the New Mexico Welding Supply; Wayne, of Hobbs; and a daughter, Mrs. Wanda Howell of Livingston, Calif.

Childress, the new owner, formerly owned a grocery store in the Eddy county seat. The family consists of Mr. and Mrs. Childress and their three children, two daughters and one son, all in the school age bracket.

In commenting on the sale of his 27-unit motorists hotel, Bryan said he thanked the "business men and people of Artesia, and associates," for their patronage.

Bryan is a native New Mexican, born at Monument. He has lived in Artesia seven years, establishing his courts business when he first came here.

The Hilton Hotel in Albuquerque will award $25 to the artist entering the work judged best by popular vote during the New Mexico State Fair, Sept. 20-Oct. 7.

The New Mexico Guernsey Breeders Association will offer some special awards during the New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque, Sept. 29-Oct. 7.

As an outfielder, he participated in baseball last season when ENMU's first diamond team won the conference title.

While he has never tried out for the varsity basketball team, he is known as a pretty fair player and participates in that sport

Hagerman News

By Mrs. Edna Burck

Several members of the Hagerman Federated Garden Club motored to the mountains to attend a district meeting of the Federated Garden Clubs which was held Friday afternoon at the Navajo Lodge, Ruidoso.

En route the party made several garden tours. The first stop was at the Lemacher Ranch where the guests were greeted by Louise Massey whose ranch home, El Rancho del Padre, is located only a few miles away. She introduced the visitors to Mrs. Lemacher whose home (the old Joyce place) is a treasure house of many lovely oil paintings and other things of interest. Outstanding among them is a wonderful grandfather's clock richly ornamented with carvings.

The flower gardens and green house were lovely.

While at the Lemacher Ranch the guests, almost a hundred, were served hot rolls, deep dish apple pie, homemade candy and nuts and coffee, while they also enjoyed piano music by Louise Massey.

The next stop was at the Peter Hurd Ranch where Paul Horgan, the noted writer, met the guests and led the way to the greenhouse and other points of interest. A unique feature of the Hurd gardens is the water wheel with a chain pump arrangement which lifts the water from a stream to a tiny tiled canal which waters the landscaping shrubbery and drips through an opening into a pool in the orangery. Mr. Hurd gave an interesting discussion of some of the rare tropical plants which he is growing successfully—Egyptian papyrus, bananas, lemons (fruiting), papaya, blooming and fruiting, and lovely blooming orchids were among the interesting tropical plants grown by this famous artist.

While there was no special exhibit of paintings there were a number of beautiful works of art in the studio.

The club members also visited the famous Wilbur Coe Ranch where Mrs. Coe graciously greeted the visitors and explained various points of interest—one being the fact that the Coe orchards were started 75 years ago by the present owner's father who had come to the valley from an apple growing section.

This lovely ranch home, with its beautiful mountain background is surrounded by beautifully landscaped terraces and inviting patios surrounded by a large variety of colorful flowers.

While at the Coes the visitors were served hot tortillas.

Luncheon was enjoyed at the Navajo Lodge, Ruidoso, where Mrs. D. H. Wilmot, Jr., presided over the business meeting.

After luncheon part of the Hagerman group motored to the Jack Hull home which is situated on a high point from which a most outstanding view of the Ruidoso valley can be seen. This modern home has picture windows from which the view can be seen as well as a beautiful grassy terrace which overlooks the valley.

A unique feature of the house is the kitchen in which there is much greenery with a fernery planted in a hollow rock wall forming a bar between the kitchen and dinette.

The entrance driveway is gorgeous with its natural rock wall which has been made into a rock garden in which the autumn flowers are now a blaze of beauty.

Those from Hagerman making the trip were Mmes. Dub Andrus, Edith West, Jack Sweatt, L. R. Burck, W. E. Utterback, C. O. Holloway, Earl Stine and Carl Ridgley. Little Stephen Roy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Gibson is quite ill at St. Mary's hospital. He is one of the twins who spent the first few weeks of their life in an incubator. The little girl, Sandra Kay, is now getting along nicely.

The Hagerman Methodists were hosts to the Hagerman teachers at their regular fifth Sunday dinner which was held Sunday at the Undercroft which has recently been refloored and redecorated.

A bounteous dinner was served to about 115 guests and members. Ernest Smith of the Hagerman F.F.A. has left for Albuquerque where he will exhibit his calves.

Hagerman Schools will be dismissed Tuesday, Oct. 9, in order that the pupils may attend the Eastern New Mexico State Fair on the opening day.

The Hagerman Woman's Club entertained the Hagerman teachers with a covered dish supper on Thursday evening, Sept. 28, at the Woman's Club. Bingo was enjoyed during the evening.

Mrs. Reno Haley was taken to St. Mary's hospital by the Mason ambulance on Friday. She is now doing fine and is expected home soon.

Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Menoud has left for a visit with their son, Gene, who is stationed at Camp Polk, La. After visiting there they plan to go to Arkansas to visit relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Yingling and son, Dayton, are looking after things on the Menoud farm during their absence.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobbie Cumpsten were entertained on Saturday evening, Sept. 29, at an "open house" at the Woman's Club House.

Friends from Roswell, Carlsbad and Dexter joined with Hagerman friends in greeting these former Hagerman residents.

Sandwiches, cookies and coffee were served during the evening.

The hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Robert West, Mr. and Mrs. Homer

New State Speed Law Aimed to Cut Traffic Deaths

Drivers, watch your speedometers! If they register more than 60 miles per hour in the day time or more than 55 miles at night you are in violation of state law governing speed on highways.

That is what Artesians learned from a statement by A. B. Munsey, New Mexico police, which appeared in the last issue of the Advocate, and which was amplified in a recent issue of the Belen News Bulletin.

The action was taken by the State Highway Commission in an effort to cut down the mounting death rate on New Mexico highways. It had the backing of Governor Mechem and a pledge of his support through enforcement of the order by the State Highway Patrol.

Violation of the new order constitutes a misdemeanor and persons found guilty of the same may be fined up to $50. State Patrol Chief Joe Roach ordered his patrolmen throughout the state to enforce the new order rigidly.

Governor Edwin Mechem will crown the State Fair Queen Saturday night, Sept. 29. County contestants will be guests of the Fair for the entire nine days.

Reverend O'Dell of Artesia and Joe Willis of Carlsbad showed a number of films and gave a good talk on visual aids in Sunday school work at the Presbyterian church on Thursday evening, Sept. 28.

Mrs. Jack Nail has returned home from an Artesia hospital with her young son, Larry Ross.

A group of ladies of the Seventh Day Adventist Church and Elder and Mrs. Suzan of Roswell met on Wednesday afternoon, Sept. 26, at the church and organized a Dorcas Society.

Mrs. M. L. Brown was elected leader; Mrs. Milton Greer, assistant; Mrs. Marlin Sartin, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Edward Greer, assistant secretary.

Those present were Elder and Mrs. Suzan, Mmes. Fairgold, M. L. Brown, Marlin Sartin, Edward Greer, Tom Baker, L. H. Pilley, Jim Greer and Ed Carter.

Mrs. O. C. Basinger of Greentree is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Kirkpatrick and family this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis A. Wakman and children of Carlsbad were week-end guests at the home of Mrs. Edith West.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald West and children visited relatives the last of the week, en route to their new home in Oklahoma from Carlsbad.

Jim Pilley of the U. S. Army is now stationed in England. He writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Pilley, that England is a beautiful country.

Parking Meters Figure in 906 Rule Violations

Artesians still seem to be puzzled by the operation of parking meters, judging from the number of violations of that kind listed in the police report for September, which has just been released.

The report lists 906 parking meter violations to lead the list of law breaking activities.

Parking in the wrong spots, where no meters have been put up, accounted for another 23 police cases.

Improper use of liquor entered into 70 cases reported, of which 54 involved drunkenness, while driving while intoxicated accounted for 15; violation of the liquor law was the charge in the other case.

Motorists are still in too much of a hurry and seem to be oblivious of stop lights or stop signs, for these two activities accounted for 30 and 21 police cases respectively.

Twenty motorists were "caught with their brakes down" or with their lights out of order.

Some drivers seem to think the city streets are good places to do stunts on for 11 of them were charged with reckless driving.

Other traffic violations and written complaints totaled 59.

There were eight accidents in which no one was injured.

The rest of the police department cases were distributed among disorderly conduct, five; vagrancy, four; forgery, two; assaults, one;

Home Town Soldier

All military service is done in the person's home town, with the exception of the last three months when those able to do so participate in out of town maneuvers.

The Colombian soldier is well fed, with each man getting three pounds of beef per day.

Similar conditions are found in Argentina where everybody eats beef, and three fourths of the beef produced is consumed domestically.

Fallon pointed out that one of the reasons for United States difficulties with Argentina is that the two countries are too much alike, both being highly industrialized and with good topsoil.

Also both Argentinians and Americans like to tell others what to do.

Fallon made the point that the idea that Latin American nations are backward is erroneous, they only appear to be that way. They are expanding economically.

The standard of living of South Americans is rising because of advances in irrigation and deep well drilling and conquest of the jungle through quinine and other modern drugs.

On the other hand the standard of living of the United States is high but static, because Americans have everything and must wait upon new inventions, such as color television, before their can rise.

On the other end of the ledger are the peoples of the Far East, whose standard of living is low, because they like it that way, they are satisfied with what they have.

Bigger Than U. S.

Fallon pointed out that the Latin American Countries have a population of 153,000,000 spread out over a wide area.

As an illustration of the size of the South American countries he pointed out that just one of the 20 Latin American republics, Brazil, occupies an area equivalent to the United States, plus four states the size of Texas or Pennsylvania.

He said that Latin America needs no help because it, together with South Africa and Australia, is among the major productive areas of the world.

They Pay Way

Fallon noted that Latin Americans buy more from the United States than Europeans and pay cash for their imports, unlike the Europeans.

The South Americans get their dollars from export of strategic materials such as tungsten, manganese and tin.

Low Taxes

The South Americans don't need any economic assistance from the United States, because they are producing countries, which suffered no war damage.

Their taxes amount to one per cent of those paid by persons in the United States.

In answer to a question from the audience, Fallon said women in South America had no need for activities outside the home, because the family groupings were large and many activities which were carried on outside the home in the United States, could be done in the home in South America.

Often several families will join up to spend a summer together.

Preceding Fallon's remarks, the audience enjoyed a dinner of apple juice, chicken pie, sweet potatoes, beans, apple pie and coffee.

The dinner and meet were held at 7 p. m. Monday in the Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church.

During the rest of 1951, U. S. civilians will have 13 to 14 per cent more food per person than during the war, economists pre-

"Our committee on advance gifts will call on you probably prior to the date of the beginning of the general drive and we hope to have the major portion of $5000 which we have set as our goal for this immediate area, by the time the general drive begins.

"I know that you are concerned and will give the proper reception to the committeemen who will call on you.

What is meant by Q-13, 07012, and 4.5 average is not explained in the story. Q-13 likely refers to the class number and 4.5 average possibly in line with 5.0.

New Book Gives Clean Picture about Navahos

ELIZABETH WARD

The second of four new fall titles from the University of New Mexico Press will be released Monday.

Elizabeth Ward's "No Dudes, Few Women" and deals with her incredibly hard life as wife of a Navaho range rider in northern New Mexico.

By falling in love with a lanky cowboy, Elizabeth Ward let herself be swept into the life of the Navahos, a people who live in a land of stark contrasts, a land of wind-swept desert and a people of existence marked by all the things that go with the Navaho reservation.

"No Dudes, Few Women" is more than the straight-forward story of Mrs. Ward and her close-knit, hard-working husband who rode the Navaho range for 25 years. It is a story of a woman who rode the Navaho range for 25 years. It is a story of a woman who rode the Navaho range for 25 years.

The UNM Press released S. Omar Barker's "Born to Battle" September 15. Mr. E. B. Mann, Press director, has announced that he will publish Oren Arnold's "Savage Son" October 15, and G. W. (Dub) Evans' "Slash Ranch Hounds" on November 1.

Evans is a New Mexico rancher, hunter, ex-president of the State Cattle Growers Association and ex-state senator.

New Water Saving Deal Put Into Use

Artesia is the location of the first water conservation project in this area using underground concrete pipe irrigation ditches.

Place is Mitchell Vogel farm three miles southeast of Artesia.

Artesia office of the Soil Conservation Service, 106 West Main, supplied supervision and technical advice, according to Keith J. Dampf second technician.

The project utilizes 1291 feet of 18-inch pipe, that comes in three-foot sections, molded by mortar to make it water tight.

Capacity of the system, installed last Friday, is 3500 gallons a minute.

The project was effected in co-operation with the production and marketing administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Doing the job was Gifford-Hill-Western of Lubbock, whose South Plains territory includes 18 counties.

Dale Brown is manager and Bruce Spencer, co-manager.

those idealistic bureaucrats in Washington—asked the Navahos to destroy the very animals which were their means of living. That the drought and over-grazed ranges made this necessary meant little to the Indian. Losing his stock did mean a lot.

The most interesting thing about Mrs. Ward's book is not the weeks of reservation loneliness, the cold, heat, dust and lack of friends.

The charm of her book is the intimate description of Navaho customs, traditions, and frequent glimpses into those complex ceremonies called "Sings."

After reading "No Dudes, Few Women" you will say that here is a former newspaper feature writer, editor and college-educated author who could take life as it was dished out to her.

She ends her story: "It was rough, but, Yahteh-hey, it was good."

Power Increase Sought By KSVP

Application has been submitted by Radio Station KSVP of Artesia to the Federal Communications Commission asking 1000-watt power rating. This means the station would have the 1000-watt range in daytime, its current 250-watt at night.

If granted listeners would be told to move the radio dial from 1450 to 990.

The FCC moves slowly and it is not known when action will be taken. Even after such action Manager Dave Button said the station would require new tower, room, and equipment and it would likely be a year from the time the application is granted until the new power could be utilized.

No additional rights over and above those set forth in Amended Declaration No. RA-404 are contemplated under this application.

Appropriation of water not to exceed 315 acre feet per annum delivered upon the 105 acres of land herein described.

Old well to be plugged.

Any person, firm, association, corporation, the State of New Mexico or the United States of America, deeming that the granting of the above application will be truly detrimental to their rights in the waters of said underground source, may protest in writing the State Engineer's granting approval of said application. The protest shall set forth all protestant's reasons why the application should not be approved and shall be accompanied by supporting affidavits and by proof that a copy of the protest has been served upon the applicant. Said protest and proof of service must be filed with the State Engineer within ten (10) days after the date of the last publication of this notice. Unless approved, the application will be taken up for consideration by the State Engineer on that date, before or after the 22nd day of October, 1951.

Shop Talk Prints Story About Hope Editor's Lost Sleep

Trouble seems to come in bunches, at times. At least that is what W. E. Rood, editor of the Penasco Valley News, will tell you.

The Labor Day week-end was one such time for the Hope editor, according to a story in the October issue of Shop Talk, published at Albuquerque.

First a couple in a hurry to get married had roamed all over Artesia and Carlsbad, looking for a judge to perform the rites.

Learning that Editor Rood was a justice of the peace they got him out of bed Sunday, Sept. 2, to perform the ceremony.

The editor thought maybe he was going to get some rest the next day, which was Labor Day.

But he was not to be rewarded with such good fortune, for that night a truck backed into the office, again disrupting the editor's sleep.

Notice is hereby given that on the 30th day of August, 1951, in accordance with Chapter 131 of the Session Laws of 1931, Roy Ingram of Artesia, County of Eddy, State of New Mexico, made application to the State Engineer of New Mexico for a permit to change location of well by abandoning the use of Artesian Well No. RA-404 located in Lot 2, Section 5, Township 16 South, Range 25 East, N.M.P.M., and drilling a new well 13 inches in diameter and approximately 900 feet in depth at another point in Lot 2 of said Section 5 for the purpose of continuing rights for the irrigation of 110 (changed 9-19-51, E. S. Minton, Jr.) acres of land described as Lots 1, 2, 7 and 8 of said Section 5.

No additional rights over and above those set forth in Amended Declaration No. RA-404 are contemplated under this application.

Appropriation of water not to exceed 315 acre feet per annum delivered upon the 105 acres of land herein described.

Old well to be plugged.

Review Given On Family Farm Policy Meetings

A report summarizing the results of the series of four community meetings held in Eddy county by the county agricultural mobilization committee for the purpose of "conducting a family farm review as outlined in Memorandum 26" was issued today by Britton Coll, chairman.

One meeting was held in each of the following: Carlsbad, Hope, Artesia and Loving, with an attendance of 24, 24, 16, and 11 participating guests, respectively.

The county PMA office mailed approximately 150 personal invitations to the various civic and agricultural organizations. There were numerous spot announcements on three radio stations and numerous articles printed in the four newspapers in the county, as a means of publicizing the program.

The committee does not feel that the review can be considered very successful, and does not believe that this summary is a true representation of the Eddy county farmers. The meeting program is outlined below with the opinion of those participating included:

The Extension Service was generally favored however, there was definite opposition to the Extension Service being put under the direct control of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and it was further recommended that it should be continued as it is at present.

The Commodity Credit Corporation programs were favored to be continued as at present, with the recommendation that (a) CCC be allowed a more flexible disposition program of commodities acquired, (b) that direct subsidies not be considered.

The agricultural program was approved for continuance as at present at three of the community meetings, and one meeting elected to discontinue it because they felt the work would be continued without incentive payments, after considerable discussion.

The SCS programs as a whole were generally favored, with the exception that land utilization lands be returned to private ownership, and that no forcible acquisition of private lands be made by the government.

One meeting specifically recommended that Federal lands, in general, be reclassified and returned to private ownership by public sale.

The Forest Service program received only complimentary comments and was definitely favored for continuance.

Farm Credit Administration was generally accepted with no comments or recommendations.

Rural Electrification Administration was generally accepted with the recommendations (from one meeting) to increase ownership loan limitations to $25,000 and operation loan limitations to $10,000.

The Federal Crop Insurance program was generally approved for continuance with the recommendations that (a) spot coverages be allowed, (b) the insurance cover age be increased, (c) the production coverage, per acre, be increased. One meeting recommended that the insurance be set up in line with old line companies.

General comments were that the new labor agreements with Mexico is proving to be prohibitive in connection with imported labor, and since there is insufficient local labor to meet the farmers needs, a drastic reduction in the 1952 cotton acreage will be made, unless the labor agreement is greatly improved.

Some of the main objections to the labor agreements are (a) the restrictive housing regulations, (b) the laborers are from non-farming areas making them unsuitable for cotton picking, (c) the initial wage guarantee is not conducive to efficient work, and (d) the contract does not bind the laborers securely enough to keep them from returning to Mexico.

A general opinion seems to exist that the Department of Agriculture should have more authority concerning imported labor.

To 4-H and FFA boys and girls who are winners in Guernsey classes will go a Calf Show held for first place, and pen and pen sets for the other ten place. Awards will be based on the age and qualifications required in the regular Dairy Cattle show.

Conoco Workers Hold Jamboree In Carlsbad Park

Southeastern New Mexico employees of Continental Oil and their families are still talking about the good time they had at the company's annual picnic at Carlsbad Park and Beach.

The picnic at Carlsbad was one of 80 which are being attended by some 22,000 members of Conoco families this summer in communities from Baltimore to Los Angeles and from Montana to the Rio Grande. This annual family picnic custom was inaugurated by Continental Oil Company last year in conjunction with the company's celebration of its 75th anniversary.

The following officials of Continental Oil Company were present at the celebration:
H. L. Johnston and H. R. Coulter, Fort Worth and Harry Miller, Midland, Texas of the Production Department.

Employees and their families enjoyed horse shoe pitching, boat riding and other facilities of the Carlsbad City Park and Beach during the day. Barbecue and trimmings were served to over 700 employees and members of their families by the Odessa Chuck Wagon Gang.

A softball game between production department employees and employees of the Artesia Refinery and exploration department was won by the production department 14 to 2.

Prizes were awarded to P. A. Cooper and M. E. Ritz of Eunice, who won the horse shoe pitching tournament. Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gillespie of Artesia and Mr. and Mrs. Carter of Carlsbad won prizes in the waltzing contest which was held at the park pavilion.

The picnic was held Saturday, Sept. 22.

Kiwanis International has participated in the observance of National Newspaper Week almost from its inception 12 years ago. Newspaper Association Managers Inc., sponsor of the week, announced recently that this year's slogan will be "Your Newspaper Lights the Way of Freedom."

Kiwanis International, according to its president, Claude B. Hellmann, Baltimore, Md., each year urges its clubs now numbering more than 3,300, to observe the week because the daily and weekly press exercises "vigorous leadership in alerting the public against corruption, fraud, and other insidious elements which attempt to undermine our moral and democratic way of life."

President Hellmann said that within the past year totalitarian governments have silenced the free press, imprisoned newspaper personnel, and repressed political information in their efforts to revoke the freedom of the citizens. "In the United States and Canada, we are grateful that our Fourth Estate preserves our liberty through its constant vigilance and contributions to an informed public," he said.

Fire Prevention

ONCE AGAIN the nation will observe Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7 through Oct. 13.

This week has been set aside to stress fire prevention, to remind the public of the tremendous loss every year from fires, to stress how easy it is to start fires, to remind us all that our own carelessness costs our nation thousands and thousands of dollars and many lives every year.

Most of us, of course, have grown careless. We are just as careless about fires as we are careless about highway accidents.

But we should resume our activities in helping to prevent fires. We should take more active part in Fire Prevention Week and we should make more inspections to eliminate those things which cause fires.

During the past year, we have had some tragedies in the state which could have been avoided had adequate and proper inspections been made. We know of no better time for these inspections to be made of public buildings and especially of school buildings where many children are gathered than during Fire Prevention Week.

A careful check should be made of all buildings to see that all gas and electric appliances are properly connected and that all safety measures have been employed. Doors should be checked to see they open outward, all doors to the various rooms should be checked to see that they work and that the locks are in good order so that the doors can be opened easily in the event of a fire.

Citizens should have their gas and electric appliances and connections checked in their home to see there is no danger from these. Many a fire starts from bad wiring or from a poor connection.

And then in addition to the inspecting program, there should also be held various types of programs to stress fire prevention and to emphasize those things which cause fires.

Fire prevention week affords a real opportunity for reminding all of the dangers of fires and to stress just how easy it is for a fire to be started.

For far too long for the safety of our own communities, we have not placed the stress on Fire Prevention Week which should be placed on this important week in the year.

Let's begin a real observance of Fire Prevention Week.

Vote Own Convictions

ALTHOUGH THERE PERHAPS are those disappointed over the failure of any of the eight proposed constitutional amendments to pass, there is considerable more concern being voiced over the failure of the people to vote their own convictions.

Many registered their objection, of course, at the failure of the majority of the voters in the state to go to the polls to cast their ballot, but more complaints were registered because many individuals apparently voted as they were told to vote, rather than as they perhaps wanted to vote.

In some instances, the count was 100 or more against all of the proposals in one precinct and no votes for the amendments. This was indicative, of course, of the fact that the voters were told how to vote. It just doesn't happen that all of the voters think alike or act alike when they are free to do as they please.

This, of course, is not the first time that individuals have been told how to vote. They have followed instructions from others many times before. They will probably continue to do this.

It is a dangerous situation when one party, one organization, one group or even one individual can tell people how to vote. That is one of the troubles of our nation today. That is why individuals have been able to control elections—the fact they can tell certain people how to vote and that those who can't be told how to vote won't take the trouble to go to the polls and cast their ballots.

Thomas Jefferson once said, "Every government degenerates when entrusted to the rulers of the people alone. The people themselves are the only safe depositories."

That, of course, is true. We have a fine example of what happens when we leave the government in the hands of the rulers in our nation today. We have heard of scandal after scandal even involving members of both parties. We can see that those in power aren't interested in serving their nation or their people, but they are interested in serving themselves.

We want a nation where all people are free to go and vote as they please, to go and vote their own convictions instead of being forced to vote as someone else wants them to vote.

New Mexico will have a better government and better officials when every voter in this state is free to go to the polls and vote his or her own convictions without obligation to any public official, any public office holder or any party leader.

New Mexico will be freer to do a better job of governing itself and running its own affairs when the control of the government and the control of certain voters in the state is taken out of the hands of a few individuals and when it rests with the people of the state.

We, of course, are to blame for the fact that certain citizens were told how to vote in the recent election. We are to blame that they went to the polls and voted just as they were told to vote.

Because when the citizens of this state will take the trouble to go to the polls and vote and when they will see that other citizens go ballot those controlled voted won't be able to control an election and we can help free our state of this practice.

Telling American citizens how they must vote isn't the American way and this isn't the system which made America great.

All of us should be concerned about the fact that one or two individuals can control a few voters or a large number of voters. We should be so concerned about it that we will halt the practice for all future elections.

HARVEST MOON IN BRITAIN

What Other Editors Are Saying

KOREA IN PERSPECTIVE

It is becoming increasingly evident that the future of Korea is not going to be quickly determined. Neither negotiation nor fighting offers much prospect for an early settlement. The truce talks appear stalled if not defunct and military action has taken the center of the stage. Yet short of very much heavier investments of men and equipment by one side—and not by the other—neither appears likely soon to conquer the whole peninsula.

There is reason to believe that the aggression in Korea was intended as the first step toward capture of Japan. Such reasoning underscores the importance of the United Nations success in halting the Communists in Korea. In that light the stalemate looks not only like a moral victory for world law (however imperfectly expressed so far) but like a vital holding action in the world power struggle.

It is possible, of course, that Russia, seeing Japan passing definitely into the anti-Communist orbit, would be willing now to launch a general war by open and vigorous intervention. But this would be a much poorer risk for the Kremlin today than a year ago. At that time few people in Washington thought that Japan could be held if Russia turned loose her submarines and Far Eastern air force. Today the picture is very different. The chances of success for the Reds are much slimmer and the dangers of worldwide counterattack much greater.

So far it is the world struggle which gets prime attention both in the Kremlin and in the democratic chancelleries. That is the reason for both sides limiting their effort in Korea. That is the reason for both being willing to try truce talks. There have been and will be moving arguments for a different course.

Such appeals merit our sympathetic attention. The friends of Korea must recognize the difficulties in raising and maintaining a bulwark for freedom on that Peninsula. Even a unified Korea would today be no more than a toehold for democracy on the Asiatic mainland. It must not be forgotten that Koreans are more closely connected, by trade, culture, race, language and traditions, with their Asian neighbors than they are with the non-Communist West. In the long run these things will have as much to do

STATES ALSO SPEND

Your taxes higher this year? Yes, that's true of state tax collections in every state except one in the United States, according to a compilation by the Commerce Clearing House in Chicago. The exception is Nebraska.

The lowest per capita average of collections was in New Jersey, $34.74, while the highest per capita levies were Louisiana, $97.66; Washington, $95.03 and California, $90.50, with California collecting a larger sum in all than New York or Pennsylvania.

The total of the collections for the 48 states, according to the computation, was $8.9 billion for the fiscal year, 1950-51. If the total of county, city and other municipal taxes trailed close behind, as has usually been the case, the aggregate of state and local levies will amount to about one-third as much as the net revenues of the federal government for the same period.

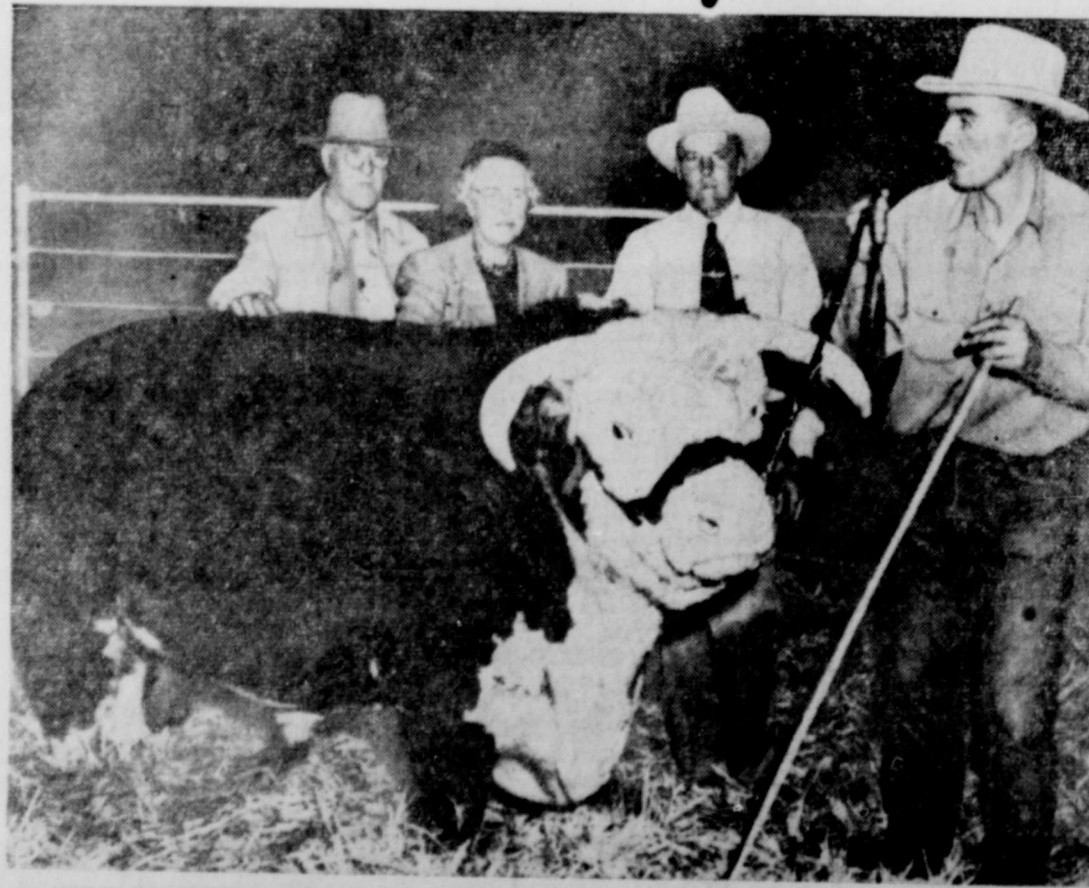

Even that showing indicates a considerable area for economy. Even though higher federal taxes have been advocated during rearmament to absorb purchasing power and avoid additional public debt, the reasoning does not apply to state and local affairs since these budgets, with the minor exception of civil defense, represent non-defense spending.—Christian Science Monitor.

with shaping Korea's future as military forces or ideologies.

The hope for a free Korea rests on two pillars. One is the rehabilitation of South Korea. Wise and vigorous aid to restore homes and factories, to improve education and government as well as military defenses, will be required. The free world owes a debt to Korea which must be honored. But just as the free world's security has been increased by the battle in Korea, so Korea's security will greatly be increased only if the democracies win the worldwide power struggle. Should Europe fall, Korea's case would be desperate. The free world's strength is the second pillar of a free Korea.

Neither pillar can be neglected in our thinking about Korea. At the moment is may be most practicable to emphasize the second. For Koreans—and for their friends—the patience and courage to carry on will come easier if we see that every victory on the world front of freedom brings nearer a united and free Korea.—Christian Science Monitor.

WORLD RECORD *$87,500 PAID FOR JUST ONE BEEF

5-YEAR-OLD BACA PRINCE DOMINO 20TH stands stolidly at Gunnison, Col., evidently oblivious to the fact that a world record high price of $87,500 has been paid for him by A. H. Karpe (left background) of Bakersfield, Cal. The purebred Hereford brought the price at sale of the Baca Grant herd. From left (after Karpe) are Mrs. Alfred M. Collins, widow of the late owner of the herd; Bill Hutchinson, builder of the Baca Grant herd; Mitch Minis, show barn superintendent.

Home on the Range

(By Will Robinson)

Down at the Elephant Butte capital, 732 of the more than 2,000 voters who ordered the name of the place changed to "Truth or Consequences," have signed a petition circulated by the alert businessman Otto Goetz, to return to the name of "Hot Springs" and there is little doubt that enough signatures will be secured to order the submission.

Naturally, the deepest interest is being taken in the matter all over the state. The people as a whole refused to take the submission seriously, or reasoned that it was purely the business of the people who live there and pay taxes in Sierra county. Basically they have a right to take any name they jolly well please.

Most of the state was against making the change in the first place, and would vote to change it back if they could. The country over "Truth or Consequences" is not taken seriously as a proper name for a county seat. Which is again some more of the concern of the people who pay the freight.

Of course, if there is a third election, and the majority vote to return to "Hot Springs," back to "Hot Springs" it will go.

Kid Day at Artesia
More than 450 children took part in the doings on "Kids Day" down at Artesia, staged by the Kiwanis Club as a part of the national observance of the day.

There was an imposing parade and oceans and wads of ice cream cones, soda pop, popcorn and free moving pictures.

Similar celebrations were held at many points in the state, none of whom have a majority of residents who are opposed to race suicide judging by the census of participants the whole state are of a single mind in regard to the holiday.

Cotton Ginning
Up to last Monday, the planters of New Mexico had ginned 1,362 bales of cotton, whose average weight was around 500 pounds. That is a good start toward our share of the 2,296,465 bales expected to be processed this fall. The speed with which the crop is gathered depends largely upon the common sense of the government in regard to the "Braceros."

Grouzers Grouse
At most of the points in the state where there was a good crop of grouse this fall, the shootists didn't connect with them. Unless the sections are near an army post, this means that the shootists will have picnic next year. At points in the state there were many grouse. It is no fault of the birds that the hunters couldn't locate them correctly.

Many Bicycles
According to the license sellers, there are more than 500 kids in Artesia who have bicycles. The city charges 50 cents for the tag for each machine.

For many years it seemed certain that the prong-born antelopes were going to join the buffalo and the elk in the forest of forgotten animals.

That was when the antelope was the common meat animal on the east side of the hills, and you could buy the carcass of a nice fat one, drawn but not skinned, for $1.50, anywhere in God's Country, which means east of the mountains of course. The hunter would skin them for you for $1.00 per head, skinner keep the hide. Most of the just ordinary folks did their own skinning.

As the dry claimers came into the country, the antelope fell in numbers, just as the prairie chicken, and wild turkey did in some sections, until it seemed certain that the only game animal left on the haldies and in the foothills would be the lowly cottontail rabbit, the pioneer of all American meat animals, far antedating the bison or buffalo as generally called, although it isn't even on speaker terms with the true buffalo, or ever lived in the same country. Then for a wonder New Mexico got some sense and started toward the conservation of wild life.

When the hastily-passed laws were enforced all of the wild creature came back with a bang. Three varieties of quail are to be found wherever there are no soldiers—the closed season did that, just as it returned the different deer folk. There never was any attempt to protect the bison, but the different members of the grouse family, even the prairie chicken, obeyed the scriptural command to reproduce and multiply and replenish the earth, a self-sustaining wild life crew is responsible for the come back.

Nearly Extinct
At one time the antelope were all but extinct. Then as the pot-hunters began to realize that the law was not a joke, they began to come back. This year 985 hunters out of a total of 1,421 applicants were winners in the annual drawing last Friday.

Of these drawees 275 got permits to see what they could do in the Roswell terrain out of the 498 who applied. And most of them will get their critters, not as fat as they ought to be, but good eating anyhow.

There is no possible accurate estimate of how many antelope there used to be in God's country. Herds were often seen, sometimes more numbering as much as a thousand than that, depending upon the lo-

MARCH OF EVENTS

Stalemate at Kaesong | Russ, Chi-Red Differ
Reveals Reds' Purpose | Spurs Allied Reactions

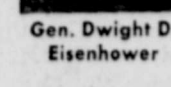

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—The stalemate Kaesong peace talks have served at least one good purpose. They have convinced United Nations leaders that Russia and Red China don't really want peace in Asia now and therefore the Allies must continue to build up their military forces to avoid a third world war.

The moribund peace talks have not been cancelled for only one reason. Neither side wishes to bear the onus of ending the negotiations and this purely for propaganda reasons.

From the beginning of the talks in July, the administration was cautious as to the outcome but it was inevitable that the American public should get rising hopes for an end to the fighting.

This public reaction stirred fears in official circles that a successful termination of the negotiations would result in a general letdown in public support for the rearmament program. Now that fear is largely dissipated because of the Communists' stalling tactics.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower

● IKE'S POSITION—Republican leaders now say that there is no question of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's willingness to accept the GOP presidential nomination if he can get it at his own terms. Eisenhower has been talking with the general in Europe during the past few days.

issaries just back from talks with the general in Europe during the past few days.

terms this way:
1—There must be a legitimate move at the Republican convention to draft Eisenhower.

2—The men who are fostering his candidacy must make no deal of any kind, patronage or otherwise.

3—Eisenhower will have no part of any mud-slinging campaign, but if things go his way, he will pledge himself to a hard-hitting battle.

4—The general will refuse to have anything to do with any mud-slinging behind-the-scenes strife as marked the unsuccessful attempt to deprive New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of the 1948 nomination.

● ACHESON-MARSHALL FEUD—Even though they got along well together in public life, it's possible that Secretary of State Dean Acheson had a good deal to do with the sudden retirement of Gen. George C. Marshall as Defense secretary.

Marshall was making plans to attend the Ottawa meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Council, and Acheson's only part in the proceedings apparently was to indicate that he thought this would be inappropriate.

Acheson's argument was that Marshall would be an overwhelming military figure who would have no counterpart at the meeting and might give the impression the United States was trying to run the show.

However, word from the State department was late in coming to Marshall and his plans for going to Ottawa were well advanced when he learned of Acheson's views on the trip.

Since his retirement was already set up, Marshall apparently decided to retire immediately. It is certain that his departure was sooner than he had planned 24 hours before his resignation was announced.

● MORE DISAGREEMENTS—Other high-level disagreement developed recently in Washington. This arose in the copper wage dispute and proved to be a major factor in the nation-wide strike.

Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson and some Wage Stabilization Board members are reported to be angry at Cyrus S. Ching, director of the federal labor conciliation service. The copper companies are said to be mad at Ching also and Ching, in turn, is nursing loggers' peevishness.

It all developed when Ching proposed a compromise plan for settlement of the wage dispute. Ching's proposal would have given an average 16-cent an hour pay boost to Kennecott Copper corporation employees.

At this point, it is rumored, Wilson advised the firm not to accept the Ching proposal. The Defense mobilizer and Wage Stabilization Board members both felt the proposal would damage the wage stabilization program.

and whether there had been rain enough to make good grass. Prefer Prairie—If there hadn't been the antelope would move until they found it, just as the little white-tail deer of the sand hills used to do. They preferred the open prairie or the and they would go where the getting was good. After being gone for a long time, they are coming back where they belong again, there to Bark and his appointed men.

More will die this year likely because of the high price of beef and mutton, which is more or less natural. Inflation always kills the prime of game meat, and there is only one way to meet the situation. Some ranchers think they have a right to kill and eat their own critters.

THE APPROACH of a World Series is always heralded by an amazing development. All of a sudden, 150 million Americans become baseball experts.

With five major league clubs having printed World Series tickets it looks like we may be in for another paper shortage.

Speaking of paper—a very fine grade of some has been made from grass by Australian chemists. We got it—today's lawn may be tomorrow's newspaper.

The parliament of Holland is debating raising the pay of the Dutch royal family. From Queen Juliana on down they, no doubt, hope it will be a princely sum.

With all those antique auto staging "races" on our highways we're inclined to agree with that wisecracker of two generations or so ago who pulled the witty: "Get a horse!"

The nation's brewmasters are staging a convention in Detroit. Grandpappy Jenkins wonders if they open each session singing "The Stein Song."

A 106-year-old Missourian is said to smoke six cigars a day. He's one centenarian who, it might be said, is inhale and hearty.

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

ONE OF Victor Borge's night club appearances was marred by one of those infuriating drunks who kept up a running fire of banal taunts from a front-row table. Borge ignored him until he suddenly demanded,

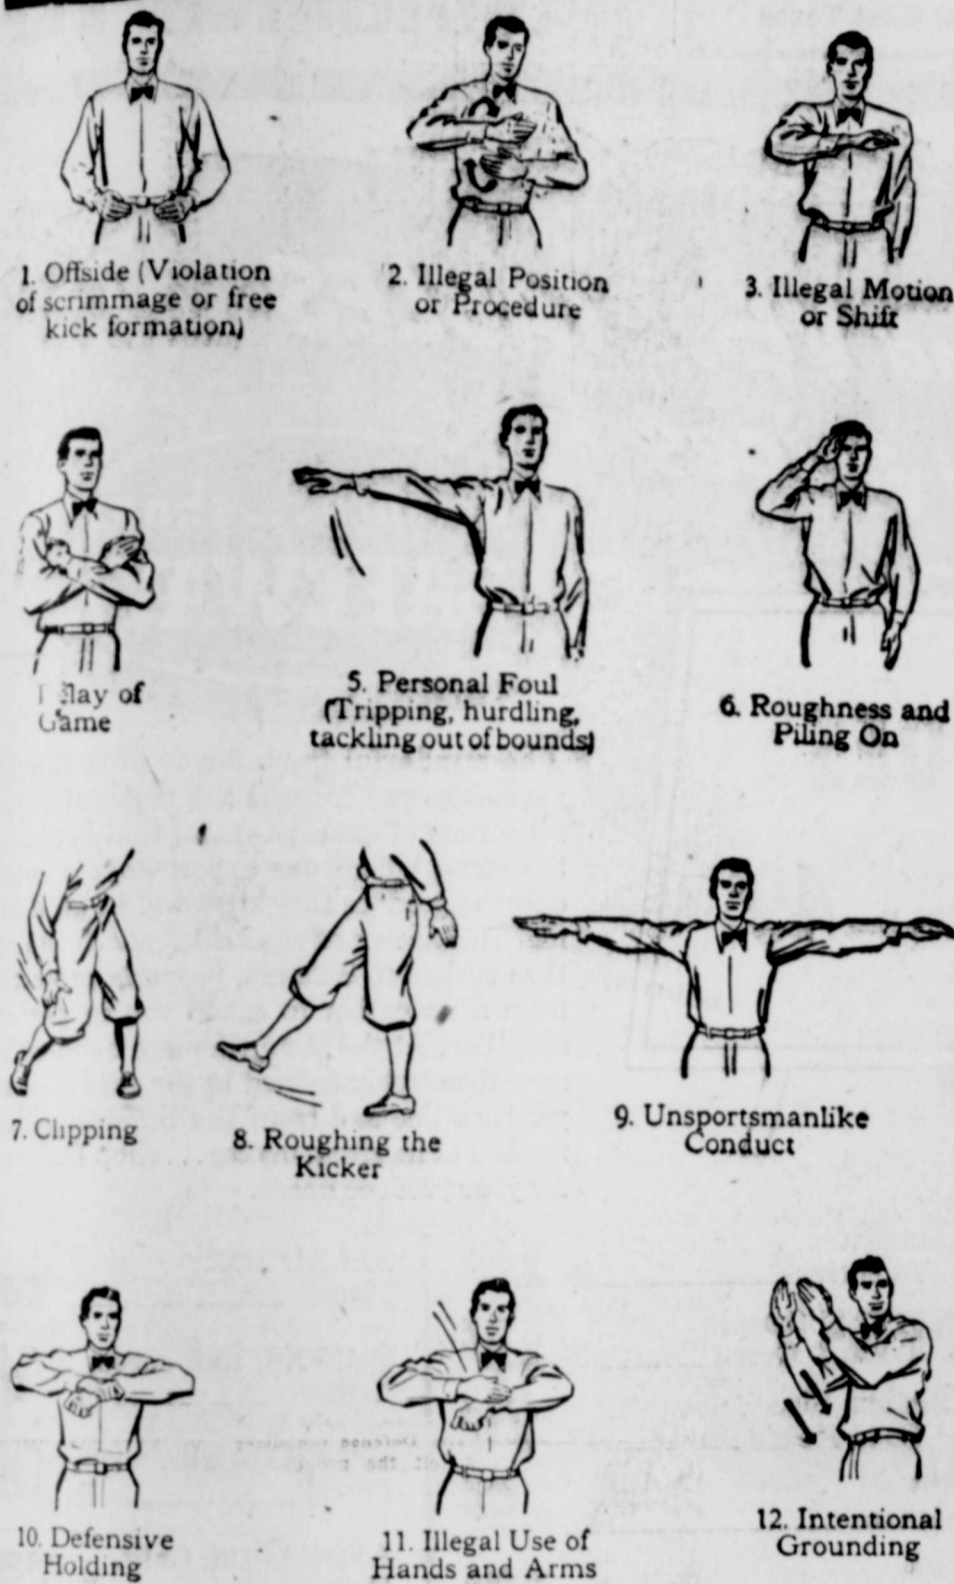

"Cut out that classical hokey and play The Star Spangled Banner." "I'd be glad to," Borge assured him grimly, "but for that the entire audience must stand up—and I'm sure you couldn't make it."

The crystal chandelier from the Presidential suite of San Francisco's Palace Hotel, under which Warren Harding died, is now the central lighting fixture of the upstairs bathroom in Lucius Beebe and Chuck Clegg's unbelievable Virginia City abode. Its co-furniture include a barber chair, three slot machines, a portable bar, and a rack that holds a hundred magazines. Explains Lucius, "The bath was formerly a bedroom and we felt we had to fill it with something."
