No end in sight

NEW YORK — Baseball owners rejected the players' proposal to settle the 5-week-old strike Friday, but postponed until early next week an announcement on whether to call off the season and the World Series. "We have to establish a common ground, and tragically we have failed to do so at every level to this point," acting commissioner Bud Selig said. Selig earlier said that Friday was the deadline for reaching agreement or canceling the rest of the season and the postseasoh, including the World Series, which has been played each year since 1904./5C

Garage fire

Midland firefighters fought more than two hours to extinguish a blaze that consumed a garage and several vehicles at a residence in northwest Midland. Firefighters were called to 2408 Whittle Way just before 7 p.m. An additional fire unit was sent out to assist in battling the blaze just before 9 p.m. No further information was available at press time./Police reports/8A

No death penalty

LOS ANGELES — Prosecutors said Friday they will not seek the death penalty against O.J. Simpson and instead want to put him behind bars for life without the chance of parole in the slayings of his ex-wife and her friend. In a letter to Simpson's lawyers, Assistant District Attorney Frank Sundstedt said the decision was made after "consideration of all available aggravating and mitigating . . . evidence."/9A

USAir crash remains mystery

Investigators work to determine cause of tragedy

■ Officials may be able to piece together more information from listening to background noises picked up on recordings.

Associated Press

ALIQUIPPA, Pa. — A blackened hillside crater yielded shattered body parts and shards of twisted metal but no answer Friday to the mystery of a USAir jetliner that abruptly fell from the sky on a clear, still evening.

"We're all very much at a loss to explain this accident," said U.S. Transportation Secretary Federico Pena.

The crew of USAir Flight 427 radioed from six miles away on final approach for landing at the Pittsburgh airport Thursday evening and gave no indication of any problem. Thirty-eight seconds later, the plane was in trouble and the crew said:

"Oh. (unintelligible) Oh God,"

The control tower told the flight to maintain its altitude at 6,000 feet.

Two seconds later, the crew said:

Official: U.S. needs to develop energy policy

By John Paul Pitts
Business/Oil Editor

America must develop a new energy policy before it is too late, according to People for an Energy Policy (PEP), a Houston-based group.

Larry Strahan, president of the organization, said if the United States does not develop a viable energy policy to lessen dependency on foreign oil within the next two years, the nation could be hopelessly caught up in a war over oil.

The group — chaired by Robert O. Anderson and former Secretary of Energy Donald Hodel — proposes to develop a broad-based sustainable energy policy that will include the interests of consumers, producers, conservationists and environmentalists.

Referring to the recent book "Victory," which reveals how the Reagan administration conspired with Saudi Arabia to bring down oil prices during the 1980s, Anderson said the United States has been playing with a stacked energy deck for too long.

He called Reagan's energy policy "a strategic secret that was an absolute disaster for the oil industry and energy policy."

Paul Fuhs, commissioner of the Department of Commerce & Economic Development for the state of Alaska and a PEP board member, said energy is the currency of the world. It underlies the economies of all nations and it should not be subjected to the whims of secret backroom deals, he said.

U.S. hopes agreement with Cuba will halt refugee exodus

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Cuba reached an agreement Friday that will allow thousands more Cubans to enter the United States legally, a move the White House hoped would replace the chaotic refugee exodus with "a safer, legal and more orderly process."

The agreement, initialed by negotiators on behalf of President Clinton and Fidel Castro, acknowledged the interests of both countries in ending the risky flight by raft across the Straits of Florida.

Attorney General Janet Reno said the United States would admit a minimum of 20,000 Cubans a year under existing

Judge dismisses charges against woman accused of murdering baby

By David Kligman
Associated Press

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. — With the pressures and demands of motherhood pulling at her, it was all Karen Henderson could do to stay awake each day.

The 21-year-old woman said she soon found that a snort of methamphetamine, or "crank," every now and then was a cheap, quick way to keep from falling asleep. Despite the occasional drugs, she breast-fed her infant son whenever she ran out of baby formula.

One day last September, Henderson awoke to find her son lying still in his crib, not breathing, his lips blue.

Two-month-old Jason died on the way to the hospital, and Henderson was charged with murder for allegedly poisoning her son with drug-laced breast milk.

After a jury failed to convict her of murder last month, the district attorney's office refiled the murder charge. But on Friday, the judge dismissed the case at the request of the prosecutor.

The World in brief

■ Croatian Serbs join Bosnians against Muslims

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — Ethnic Serbs from neighboring Croatia came to the aid of their Bosnian brethren Friday in an offensive against Muslim-led government troops in the northwest.

In northeast Bosnia, Serbs expelled another large group of Muslims just hours after they said they would stop.

Some 500 Serb troops and tanks from a Serb-held part of Croatia have crossed the border to bolster fronts against government troops in the Bihac region of northwest Bosnia, U.N. spokesman Paul Risley said.

■ Americans eye Russian firefighting bomber

LARKHILL ARTILLERY RANGE, England — The Russian bomber flew low across the clearing, dropping a load three times bigger than anything currently used in the United States.

"If I were a fire, it would discourage the hell out of me," said Joe R. Madar, aviation manager for the U.S. Forest Service in the Pacific Northwest, after watching the Ilyushin 76 spray 100,000 pounds of water in two runs over a British military installation.

And the U.S. Forest Service, he said, may be in the market for this airborne fire engine.

An eight-year drought has brought America its worst forest fires since the 1920s, blackening some 3 million acres this year alone. Fourteen firefighters perished in a July blaze outside Glenwood Springs, Colo.

The troubles have put pressure on the Forest Service to bring things under control, and technology from Russia may offer a good weapon against big, hot blazes that sear the American West.

■ Top Hutu general denies genocide accusations

GOMA, Zaire — The man who led Rwanda's Hutu army to defeat walks with a slight limp and has a passion for crossword puzzles and French television.

He also says he's innocent of genocide.

"I am a farmer's son and I have done no wrong," says Gen. Augustin Bizimungu, chief of the exiled army.

Some human rights monitors believe the Hutu army could have, but failed to halt the slaughter of hundreds of thousands of Tutsis.

■ Japanese may cut off town near Auschwitz

TOKYO — Two decades ago, a Japanese town in the shadow of Hiroshima and the Polish community nearest the Auschwitz death camp became "sister cities," united by their brush with war's worst calamities.

Now they're considering divorce.

Next Friday, the town council of Kurose, 13 miles southeast of Hiroshima, will vote on whether to formally abolish the tie it established in 1973 with the Polish city of Oswiecim.

What happened between Kurose and Oswiecim is a tangled tale of two cities, replete with cultural miscues, small-town politics and the burden of war's remembrance.

Japanese attitudes toward the Holocaust are complicated. There is widespread ignorance about Jews and Judaism here, and bizarre anti-Semitic tracts often make the best-seller lists.

Population group reaches abortion compromise

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The U.N. population conference finally reached a compromise on abortion Friday, but could not persuade the Vatican to go along.

Vatican delegates, outspoken in their opposition to previous proposals, held their peace when a committee adopted a paragraph on unsafe abortions and the mother's health. That still left open the possibility — though unlikely — that the Holy See would join the majority.

The text is now almost certain to be adopted by the vast majority of countries when the report is brought before the full conference for approval.

The U.N. Conference on Population and Development is drawing up a 20-year Program of Action for slowing the world's population growth. But for a few paragraphs here and there, the 113-page final draft is complete.

The remaining paragraphs deal with divisive issues such as teenage sex and contraception. Work on them has been delayed because of the abortion issue, which the Vatican and some Roman Catholic countries have kept in the forefront during the first five days of the nine-day meeting.

Currently, world population is growing by an additional 90 million people a year. The draft sets target spending at $17 billion a year worldwide by 2000 for basic health care for women and children, family planning and AIDS prevention. That's projected to rise to nearly $22 billion a year by 2015.

Delegates stood to express their acceptance of the compromise language on abortion at a meeting of the committee drafting the text.

Last smallpox stocks to be destroyed in '95

N.Y. Times News Service

After a reprieve, the smallpox virus seems headed for destruction after all.

In a decision that seems to spell the end for the last remaining stocks of smallpox virus, a 10-member committee of the World Health Organization recommended unanimously Friday that the virus be destroyed on June 30, 1995.

The committee's recommendation now goes to the executive committee of the WHO, a United Nations agency based in Geneva, and will be put to the full membership at its annual meeting next May.

But Dr. Frank Fenner, chairman of the smallpox committee, said he expect the recommendation to be accepted, particularly because it was unanimous. Fenner, an expert in smallpox from the John Curtin School of Medical Research of the Australian National University in Canberra, spoke in a telephone interview.

The virus, once slated for destruction on Dec. 31, 1993, had received a one-year stay of execution to allow WHO to consider a groundswell of opposition, primarily from scientists in the United States. But Friday's vote was unanimous.

U.S. Marines, Haitians in sandals train for war

VIEQUES, Puerto Rico (AP) — Grenades and mortar shells exploded Friday along the sandy shores of an island off Puerto Rico, where U.S. Marines in jungle camouflage stormed beaches and seized buildings in a practice invasion of Haiti.

An island away in Haiti, a ragtag column of soldiers armed with World War II-vintage rifles, many wearing sandals or street shoes, jogged through the capital's marketplace in morning maneuvers. Some wore army-issue T-shirts emblazoned "No to Intervention."

It is hard to imagine a greater contrast than that between the two armies that would face each other if the United States carries out its threat to invade Haiti.

The five-day Puerto Rican training exercises, involving 1,300 Marines, were the latest saber rattling by the U.S. military, as the prospect of an invasion to topple Haiti's military rulers appears to grow more likely.

Next week, Army specialists will begin training forces from eight Caribbean nations for peacekeeping duty after the planned restoration of Haiti's constitutional government.

The training on Vieques, an island of 7,000 people just east of Puerto Rico, began at 3 a.m. Wednesday with a mock helicopter and sea landing and seizure of a mock U.S. embassy — a converted Seabee headquarters.

On Friday, Humvees and amphibious assault vehicles roared across the island's dirt roads and white beaches. Two thirds of the island is owned by the U.S. Navy, which used it as a training site for both the Gulf War and the mission to Somalia.

Platoons of Marines, their faces blackened, launched grenades and mortar shells and fired M-16 machine guns at flare targets and rusted vehicles set up in mock enemy positions.

■ Related story/6A

Some officers said the exercises were practice for evacuating U.S. citizens from Haiti.

But a Navy lieutenant commander said the Marines and two Navy ships carrying them are the advance wing for any intervention in Haiti.

"When President Clinton and Defense Secretary (William) Perry say we're looking at a wide range of options in Haiti, we're that wide range," said Lt. Cmdr. Mike Andrews, the Navy spokesman for the joint force.

First official envoys head for N. Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The first official U.S. delegation to go to North Korea was heading for the capital, Pyongyang, today in a major step toward normalizing diplomatic relations.

The five Americans officials, led by State Department Korea specialist Lynn Turk, are to hold technical talks on how Washington and Pyongyang can open liaison offices in each other's capitals.

The United States has never had relations, with North Korea since its founding as a communist state in 1948. Opening liaison offices would be a major step toward mutual recognition.

U.S. officials say relations won't be normalized unless North Korea lets inspectors in to dispel suspicions that it has been secretly building nuclear weapons.

But South Korean officials believe the liaison offices will be opened by the end of the year in any event because they would open a channel of communication that may help speed resolution of the nuclear problem.

President Nixon ended decades of U.S. isolation of China by opening liaison offices in Beijing and Washington. President Carter subsequently normalized relations.

The U.S. State Department sees no symbolic significance in the fact that it is going to Pyongyang to open the talks, but spokesman Mike McCurry conceded last week that the North Koreans might.

The talks in Pyongyang, expected to last Sunday through Tuesday, are to focus on technicalities such as mail delivery, office space and telephone service. A simultaneous round of technical talks on nuclear issues will begin in Berlin.

Polls: Canadians may elect fresh team, keep union

MONTREAL (AP) — Bernard Smith has doggedly campaigned for Quebec's independence for 30 years, nearly half his life.

The 62-year-old jewelry store owner is confident the Parti Quebecois, the separatist party he joined at its inception in the 1960s, will win Monday's legislative elections and form a government.

But he doubts that once in power, the party can muster the support needed to take the French-speaking province out of Canada.

If the polls are right, Smith represents the majority of voters, who are sending mixed signals about the election that could determine Canada's future.

For months, opinion polls have given the Parti Quebecois a comfortable lead over the governing Liberal Party in the campaign for Quebec's legislature, the National Assembly.

But the same polls say voters would reject the referendum on independence that PQ leader Jacques Parizeau has promised to hold in 1995.

Why would anyone elect a separatist government while opposing its goal?

"People want a change of government, but they don't want to separate," said Frank Romani, leaning on a mound of lettuce at a Montreal market. "The economy would be 100 percent worse (after separation) because nobody would invest in Quebec."

Steve, an egg producer from Laval, Quebec, who would not give his last name, said he feared independent Quebec would not be able to afford the universal healthcare, pensions and other social benefits Canadians now have.

"You've got to decide which side your bread is buttered on," he said. "They (PQ supporters) know that a fragmented Canada will not give them a piece of buttered bread."

NATION

Scattered thunderstorms stretched across much of the nation Friday, while a cold front dropped hail over the Great Lakes and snow fell in the mountains of the Pacific Northwest.

A bizarre thunderstorm near Glasgow, Mont., caused a heat burst, the National Weather Service said. The temperature increased from 67 to 93 in just 15 minutes. About 20 minutes later, the mercury had fallen back to 68.

In the Pacific Northwest, a stalled low pressure system caused cool temperatures and rainfall throughout the Northern Rockies and dropped snow levels to about 6,000 feet in the Cascades.

Up to 4 inches of snow may accumulate above 7,000 feet.

In the Great Lakes region, thunderstorms developed from Wisconsin to New York. In Wisconsin, thunderstorms dropped hail near Cazenovia, Reedsburg, Necedah and Madison.

South-central Texas was drenched by rain, causing some flash floods and prompting a flash flood watch for parts of southern Texas. A thunderstorm dumped more than 3 inches in two hours in Addicks, and between 3 inches to 6 inches fell throughout the region.

Scattered thunderstorms moved across much of the Southeast.

Rainfall for the six hours up to 8 a.m. EDT included 1.16 inches in Orlando, Fla., 1.1 inches in Montgomery, Ala., and 1.01 inches in Walnut Ridge, Ark.

CUBA: Agreement to allow more refugees into U.S.

immigration authority, not including immediate relatives of Cubans who have become U.S. citizens. An additional 4,000 to 6,000 Cubans currently on the waiting list for visas would also be allowed in.

Currently, the 20,000 figure is an upper limit instead of a minimum, and only a few thousand Cubans have actually been allowed to immigrate each year.

"The aim is to identify Cubans who have strong reasons for seeking exit from Cuba ... and have U.S. sponsors," Reno said.

Castro's government agreed to try to prevent unsafe departures from its shores, "using mainly persuasive methods," and to allow some of the 35,000 Cubans who have fled this year to return home without repercussion.

Reno said the Justice Department would announce details of immigration procedures late next week. The department will determine which Cubans will be eligible for "parole" status, which could apply to family members who currently do not qualify for immigrant visas, officials said.

"This agreement, when carried out, will help ensure that the massive flow of dangerous and illegal migration will be replaced by a safer, legal and more orderly process," the administration said in a statement released in New Orleans where Clinton was giving a speech.

The settlement was a "fair, good agreement, good for the United States," Clinton said at the airport as he was leaving for Washington.

The U.S. Coast Guard has picked up nearly 35,000 Cuban rafters trying to reach the Florida coast this year, most of them during the past month. It has been the biggest exodus of Cubans since more than 120,000 fled to Florida in 1980.

In the U.S.-Cuba talks held in New York on Friday, Cuba agreed that arrangements could be made through diplomatic channels for the repatriation of "those Cubans who have recently left and wish to return."

Refugees intercepted at sea by American naval forces have been taken to the U.S. military base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. They have not been allowed to enter the United States. Some were sent to U.S.-run camps in Panama this week to relieve conditions at Guantanamo Bay, which also houses about 15,000 Haitian refugees.

Reno said the Cuban refugees now at camps at Guantanamo would remain ineligible for legal immigration to the United States. Their only options would be to stay at Guantanamo or other U.S.-run havens in the region.

Speaking at the same news conference with Reno, Peter Tarnoff, the undersecretary of state, said the New York agreement had no effect on the U.S. economic embargo against Cuba.

OIL: Nation could be caught in war without policy

(From 1A)

Fuhs said PEP proposes an energy policy — based on real and not manipulated prices — that will allow conservation and alternatives to fill some of the growing U.S. energy demand.

He sees an energy future in which alternative fuels and conservation would double and nuclear and hydroelectric power would remain constant. The energy assumptions see coal use increasing slightly, natural gas increasing greatly and crude oil in a steady decline.

While the current mix is now 40 percent oil and 20 percent natural gas, Fuhs said a sustainable energy policy would have natural gas ahead of oil — 29 percent to 28 percent — by the year 2020.

Ralph Lewis, a former vice president for Gulf Oil Co., agrees that a new energy strategy for the United States is in order. He said energy and food and health are linked worldwide.

Lewis, speaking to a group of Chevron retirees in Odessa, said the United States has been compared to an energy addict with a gun. "That makes us dangerous."

Lewis, who agrees with some of PEP's conclusions, said coal will be the fuel of the future.

"Coal is everywhere. We have a 350-year supply."

Anderson said a main element of the Reagan-Saudi strategy was to kill alternative fuels by lowering oil prices to a point where the alternatives could never be economical.

He said the United States had more crude oil in the oil shale of western Colorado than in an all of Saudi Arabia, but low energy prices killed the effort to develop it. He called such hydrocarbons "buried sunshine."

Not only did low oil prices kill oil shale, it killed nearly every bank in Texas and Oklahoma and created a price manipulation ploy that costs the U.S. economy about $1 billion a day, Anderson said.

"Worse of all, the plan is still in effect, because nobody ever turned it off."

Anderson said oil associations could not develop a viable energy policy because they were too much oil-orientated. He said "a grass roots energy policy good for America" is what is needed.

"At my age the last thing I need to be doing is leading another charge, but here I am," Anderson said.

Hodel, who claimed to be out of the loop when the Reagan-Saudi deal was formulated, said he didn't feel like a mushroom when he was secretary of Energy, but he probably was.

"I never thought I would see the fall of the Soviet Union in my lifetime."

Hodel praised Reagan for bringing down the fall of the Soviet Union, but said the destruction of the U.S. oil industry as fodder in an economic war against the Soviet Union was inexcusable.

He compared members of the U.S. oil industry to veterans of a war.

"But there were no bands and no parades when the war was over and most didn't even know they had been in a war."

MILK: Judge drops murder charge

(From 1A)

The jury, which deadlocked 11-1 last month in favor of conviction, found her guilty of child endangerment, for which she is currently serving six years in prison.

Prosecutor Lisa Green said Friday they dropped the case because of the child endangerment conviction.

Earlier this week Green had expressed reservations about trying the case again.

"Has she been punished?" Green said. "Yes, her baby's dead. Maybe that's punishment enough. If our goal was to get the message across of not taking drugs while breast-feeding, I think we've accomplished that."

Defense attorney George Boyle said the dismissal Friday was unexpected.

"I don't think it's fair that he's gone," Henderson said during an interview in jail last week. "I don't deserve to be put through this. I'm the one who took care of him."

Boyle said that if Henderson had been convicted, any mother could be charged with murder if she took any type of drug and her baby died.

"Does that include aspirin, which is a drug?" Boyle asked. "Does that include alcohol, which is a drug? The implications are so great that it's just astounding."

Prosecutor Lisa Green had disputed such reasoning as absurd.

"We never contended that taking a glass of wine is equivalent to taking something like crank," Green said. "No woman would be opening herself up to prosecution if she took a couple of aspirins or had a glass of wine."

Green contends Henderson, who admits having taken the illegal street drug since she was 15, disregarded at least three warnings from social workers not to breast-feed her baby if she used drugs.

But Henderson said social workers told her to wait at least two days before nursing her son if she used drugs. And just to make sure, she said, she waited three days.

"Before, I knew drugs were illegal, but I wasn't out there robbing or stealing. I was staying home and taking care of my kids," Henderson said. She has two other children, ages 2 and 4.

Henderson had been estranged from her mother, who lived across the street. And with no job and little income except her welfare checks, she found motherhood difficult and exhausting. The high she got from methamphetamine seemed to help.

"She became so worried that she might fall asleep and she wouldn't be able to take care of her children," Boyle said. "There was nobody there to help her."

In the first trial, several doctors testified for the defense that Jason died from sudden infant death syndrome and exhibited no characteristic signs of methamphetamine poisoning.

They added that because only a minuscule amount of the drug was in his system — .039 nanograms — Jason couldn't have died of a drug overdose.

But the prosecutor argued that Jason had a high temperature that was characteristic of methamphetamine use but not SIDS. Green added that three days after birth, Jason was hospitalized for withdrawal of the drug.

MYSTERY: Investigators work to find cause of crash

(From 1A)

(Unintelligible) "Traffic emergency. (unintelligible) Oh shit."

There was no further communication from the plane, according to a transcript released by the Federal Aviation Administration.

The plane flew nose-first into the hill, killing all 132 people on board.

A review of the recordings from the air tower and those contained in the cockpit voice recorder shed little light on the cause of the crash, Carl Vogt, a member of the National Transportation Safety Board, said late Friday.

Investigators may be able to piece together more information from listening to background noises picked up on the recorder, he said.

At about 6,000 feet, with both engines operating, the plane apparently rolled to the left in an abnormal way, according to preliminary information from a flight data recorder.

That was 23 seconds before impact, Vogt said.

An examination of the plane's left engine indicated it was operating when the plane hit the ground, Vogt said. It wasn't clear if the right engine was operating.

There were no immediate indications of explosives or a bird caught in the engine, he said.

USAir Chairman Seth Schofield said the airline had received no threats toward Flight 427 and had "no reason to believe there was sabotage."

The five-member crew was on the last day of a three-day flight, Vogt said.

Witnesses reported seeing the jetliner bank to the right, roll a few times and crash nose-first into a ravine. Some witnesses reported hearing an explosion before the crash; others said they heard the engine sputter, then go silent.

Hundreds saw the plane go down, including children and parents at a soccer game about a half-mile away and people outside a shopping center.

"The engines sputtered," said 10-year-old Jason Moka, who was on the soccer field with his younger brother. "Then there was fire and smoke coming out of it. Then it turned upside down, and it spun."

The Boeing 737-300 gouged out a crater in a stand of trees and shattered into countless small pieces. Only the plane's tail remained intact. All 132 people aboard — 127 passengers and five crew members — were killed in the deadliest U.S. crash in seven years.

"Usually when a plane crashes, there's some large section left somewhere, but that didn't happen in this case," said Jim Eichenlaub, Hopewell Township's director of emergency services. "They're all very small pieces."

President Clinton called Gov. Robert P. Casey and Pittsburgh Mayor Tom Murphy to offer condolences.

Body parts, pieces of plane, luggage and clothing were scattered over the trees and ground.

"It's a just a horrifying scene of destruction," Casey said after surveying the scene from the air Friday morning.

The crash site, about seven miles northwest of the airport, was sectioned off with tape and stakes as investigators began trying to identify the debris and the victims.

The scene was declared a biological hazard because of the amount of blood.

About 60 state police officers kept the curious away from the site. Six people were charged with trespassing Thursday night.

Officials accustomed to disaster and tragedy were at a loss to describe the scene.

"There was a hand with a ring on it," the Rev. Alden Hathaway of Pittsburgh said after visiting the site. "They think it was an airline stewardess because her uniform was close by."

Vogt said it will take several days to remove the bodies and the wreckage. Crews cut a road into the rocky terrain to reach the site. Refrigerated trucks took bodies to a temporary morgue at Pittsburgh Airport.

Some victims may never be identified, said Beaver County Coroner Wayne Tatalovich.

A passenger list released by the airline showed most of the victims were from Pennsylvania, including a family of five from Upper St. Clair. The Weaver family had been in Chicago attending the funeral of a 9-year-old cousin.

The flight had originated in Chicago, and was to continue on the West Palm Beach, Fla. after a stop in Pittsburgh.

It was the nation's deadliest crash since 1987 and USAir's fifth fatal crash in as many years.

Schofield, the airline chairman, said there were no maintenance problems with the 7-year-old aircraft. It underwent a routine maintenance check, performed every 35 hours, on Wednesday in Hartford, Conn. The last heavy maintenance check, done every 11,000 hours, was completed Feb. 3, 1993.

In all, it had logged 23,846 flight hours and 14,489 takeoffs and landings.

The plane's captain, identified as Peter Germano, 45, of Moorestown, N.J., who had worked for USAir since February 1981 and had a clear record. He had 9,112 hours total flying time and 3,269 hours in 737-300 aircraft. The first officer, Charles B. Emmett III, 38, of Nassau Bay, Texas, had worked for the airline since 1987. He had 9,119 hours total flying time and 3,645 hours in 737-300 aircraft.

Among the victims was 43-year-old Alan Sefcik of North Franklin Township southwest of Pittsburgh, who was returning from a business trip, said his wife, Jane. He was a business manager of a paint company.

Mrs. Sefcik said her 7-year-old son, Tom, told her, "I've only had my dad for seven years. I wish he could have been here longer."

Officials detail possible Haiti invasion

WASHINGTON (AP) — An invasion of Haiti would involve around 20,000 U.S. troops, including women from the aircraft carrier Eisenhower, and some of the forces would remain for a year or longer, Pentagon officials said Friday.

Preparations are being made for an invasion sometime between around Sept. 21 and the end of November — should President Clinton order it — a senior military officer said.

The invasion force apparently will include the 5,500 sailors and combat pilots of the Eisenhower. The huge warship has been conducting training exercises in the Caribbean recently, and is the first aircraft carrier to include women as part of its combat crew and as fighter pilots.

A senior official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said up to 20,000 troops are expected to participate in an invasion campaign, should President Clinton order one to go forward. Asked about the duration of an invasion force, the official agreed some forces could be expected to stay in Haiti a year or longer, depending on the extent of the mission.

Meanwhile, steps are also being taken to warn Haitians that an invasion is being readied.

Aircraft are expected to drop leaflets this weekend over Haiti, repeating U.S. insistence that the military leadership that ousted elected President Jean-Bertrand Aristide must step aside or be expelled by force, a second Pentagon official said.

The senior military officer, who also spoke on condition of anonymity, said preliminary plans call for the invasion to be led by stealthy U.S. Army Special Forces units and Marines who would seize vital points such as the airport and main ports.

Invasion likely to come between Sept. 21 and end of November probably will feature 20,000 troops, last 1 year or more, officials say.

They would then be followed by Army paratroopers, and, within five days, by members of an Army light division.

"It will be primarily an Army show," said the officer.

An Army light division numbers around 13,000 troops, depending on how it is organized. There are about 1,800 Marines aboard ships in the Caribbean.

Also on Friday the Pentagon announced five additional cargo ships would be pulled out of the ready reserves in a further move to prepare for an operations against Haiti. Two are in Neches, Texas; two are in Mobile, Ala., and one is in Orange, Texas.

The Pentagon said Thursday that it had activated seven such vessels.

Officials said the cost of operating each of the ships, once they are fully manned and prepared to sail, is $37,000 per day, bringing the cost of running such a fleet to over $440,000 a day.

Growing inflation spurs Wall Street sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inflation at the wholesale level is on the rise, the government said Friday, touching off waves of selling on Wall Street and making another round of interest rate increases more likely this year.

The Labor Department said wholesale prices in August rose more rapidly than they have in four years, as higher commodity prices pushed their way through the economic pipeline.

Analysts said while consumers are likely to feel the pinch soon, there is no reason to fear a return to 1970s-style runaway inflation.

The Producer Price Index, measuring inflation pressures before they reach the consumer, shot up 0.6 percent last month. The advance was broad-based, including higher prices for food, gasoline, automobiles and tobacco.

The rise, exceeding analysts' predictions, was the largest since 1.1 percent in October 1990. It also is on top of a 0.5 percent advance in July that ended a string of benign wholesale reports.

"It looks pretty awful, at least on the surface," said economist Sung Won Sohn of Norwest Corp. in Minneapolis. "But it is contained, especially because the Federal Reserve acted ahead of the curve."

Also, he said, there may be a silver lining since labor costs — by far the largest component of consumer price rises — are still under control.

The Clinton administration agreed. "There still is no sign of inflation stemming from any wage push," said Labor Secretary Robert Reich."Wage increases have been very, very slow."

Stock and bond prices tumbled. The Dow Jones industrial average fell nearly 34 points.

"The numbers aren't quite as bad as the markets believe," said Norman Robertson of Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh. "But odds are at the retail level we're likely to see small but continuing increases over the next year or so."

The Federal Reserve, anticipating inflation as the economic recovery headed into its fourth year, has boosted short-term interest rates five times since February. Analysts said a sixth rise before the end of the year now looks inevitable.

"Higher inflation guarantees they will have to tighten in either November or December," said economist David Jones of Aubrey G. Lanston & Co., a Wall Street government securities dealer. "It took a long time in this expansion to start to see inflation. Now we're seeing it come down to hit the consumer's pocketbook."

The government will announce its Consumer Price Index for August on Tuesday, and many analysts predict it will be up 0.3 percent.

"I don't think anyone can now dismiss the inflation threat," said Eugene Sherman of M.A. Schapiro & Co. in New York City.

Clinton: Babies need married parents, child neglect is wrong

■ 'Someone has to say again it is simply not right. You shouldn't have a baby before you're ready, and you shouldn't have a baby when you're not married,' Clinton says.

Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS — Giving no ground in the political tug-of-war over family values, President Clinton said Friday "it is simply not right" for Americans to have so many babies out of wedlock or for parents to neglect their children.

"I know not everybody's going to be in a stable, traditional family like you see on one of those 1950 sitcoms, but we'd be better off if more people were," the president said in an impassioned speech to the nation's largest black church group.

Clinton also decried violence among America's young people. "We've got to keep them from getting shot and keep them from shooting," the president said.

He made his remarks before the National Baptist Convention U.S.A. Inc., one day after former Vice President Dan Quayle, speaking in San Francisco, renewed his attack on a "poverty of values" in America.

The family-values theme, pushed by Vice President Dan Quayle, has become a popular issue as the nation gropes for a remedy to urban violence and other woes. Quayle is considered a potential Clinton election foe in 1996.

For Clinton, the family values issue also provides a chance to change the subject to safer ground.

In an arm-waving, scripture-quoting address, he said that about 40 percent of all American children are born into homes where there was never a marriage and that 27 percent of all pregnancies end in abortion.

"Now, I don't care what your position is, whether you're pro-choice or anti-, that's too many," said Clinton, who has liberalized abortion rules since taking office.

Clinton got a warm reception. "The National Baptist Convention is Clinton territory," proclaimed its leader, the Rev. T.J. Jemison.

Zeroing in on the family, Clinton said the nation has "to be more honest with our young people in teaching them to respect themselves: their bodies, their souls and their future."

"And we always talk about how irresponsible it is for young men to father these children and run off, but we've got to get more young women to make a different choice in life, too," he said, drawing applause.

"That is a disaster. It is wrong. And someone has to say again it is simply not right. You shouldn't have a baby before you're ready, and you shouldn't have a baby when you're not married. You just have to stop it. We've got to turn it around."

Clinton said parents have an obligation to care for their children, discipline them and tell them, "This is right and this is wrong."

Ex-prosecutor to probe Espy, company gifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — A former federal prosecutor from Los Angeles was named Friday to investigate whether Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy illegally accepted gifts from companies regulated by the department.

Donald C. Smaltz, 57, will examine gifts to Espy of travel, lodging and professional sports tickets from Arkansas-based Tyson Foods Inc., the nation's largest poultry producer, and from Quaker Oats.

Smaltz, now in private practice, also will be free to examine any other allegations of criminal wrongdoing that may arise from the investigation.

A Pennsylvania native, Smaltz spent four years as an assistant U.S. attorney in Southern California in the 1960s. He taught law during the 1970s, and now practices with the firm of Smaltz and Anderson.

He has specialized in defending white-collar criminal cases, and his most recent trial work was in environmental cases.

Smaltz is widely known among federal judges in the West for his work on various committees, including an administrative conference of nearly 300 judges in the region.

The inspector general's office at the Agriculture Department began investigating Espy this spring, then referred the case to the Justice Department when possible criminal violations were suspected. The White House has requested a separate ethics investigation.

The criminal probe centered on whether Espy violated the 1907 meat inspection law that forbids officials accepting gifts of any size from a company. Violators face a year in prison.

The investigation is an embarrassment for President Clinton and his wife, Hillary Rodham Clinton, because of their close connection with Tyson when Clinton was Arkansas governor.

The appointment of Smaltz by a three-judge, federal appeals panel is the second since the independent counsel law was revived June 30.

The appointment of former Solicitor General Kenneth Starr in the Whitewater case, an extensive investigation of Clinton's business dealings and campaign finances in Arkansas, has been sharply criticized by Democrats who question Starr's Republican ties.

Drivers with CBs coax trucker into committing suicide

ICARD, N.C. (AP) — A truck driver committed suicide after passing motorists used citizens band radios to egg him on during a three-hour standoff with police.

Crisis teams trying to talk David Carroll out of killing himself inside the cab of his 18-wheeler heard several radio taunts prodding him to do it, Burke County Sheriff Ralph Johnson said Friday.

"A lot of people were very compassionate . . . and a lot of people were very cruel," he said.

Carroll, 32, shot himself to death with a rifle Thursday in the cab of his truck, parked at a convenience store about 180 miles east of Charlotte.

Police were talking to him over the CB because he refused to accept a cellular phone. Truckers passing nearby on Interstate 40 were mocking Carroll on the same channel, saying he didn't have the guts to pull the trigger, Johnson said.

"I think they thought they were being funny, but it just pushed this guy over the edge," an officer on the scene, who spoke on the condition of anonymity, told The Charlotte Observer. "Some of these truckers didn't think this guy was seriously going to kill himself."

Johnson said Carroll recently separated from his wife, Anita, and told police he was distraught over the breakup.

Simpson prosecutors rule out death penalty, seek life sentence

■ Seeking death penalty 'probably would have undermined chances of the prosecution to obtain conviction,' civil rights lawyer says.

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Prosecutors said Friday they will not seek the death penalty against O.J. Simpson and instead want to put him behind bars for life without the chance of parole in the slayings of his ex-wife and her friend.

In a letter to Simpson's lawyers, Assistant District Attorney Frank Sundstedt said the decision was made after "consideration of all available aggravating and mitigating . . . evidence."

It said prosecutors would not make any further statement about the decision until the after the trial, which begins Sept. 26.

Simpson is charged with two counts of first-degree murder in the June 12 slashing deaths of Nicole Brown Simpson and her friend Ronald Goldman.

Simpson's lead attorney, Robert Shapiro, said his office did not appear before the special circumstances committee that helped make the decision.

"Our position was that since Mr. Simpson has unequivocally proclaimed his innocence, this was not an issue," Shapiro said.

The district attorney's office said public sentiment did not play a role in the decision.

"While the office is aware that there is deep public concern about whether the death penalty will be sought in a case, the decision must be made independent of this concern," the letter said.

The letter said the final decision was left to Sundstedt after he met with members of the committee.

"District Attorney Gil Garcetti reviewed and affirmed Mr. Sundstedt's decision in this case," the letter said.

A concern raised earlier in death penalty discussions was a possible perception of inequity between the Simpson case and another high-profile prosecution, that of Lyle and Erik Menendez. The brothers are charged with murdering their wealthy parents. Garcetti is seeking the death penalty for them.

"The two cases have absolutely nothing in common," Shapiro said, "since the Menendez brothers have admitted killing their parents."

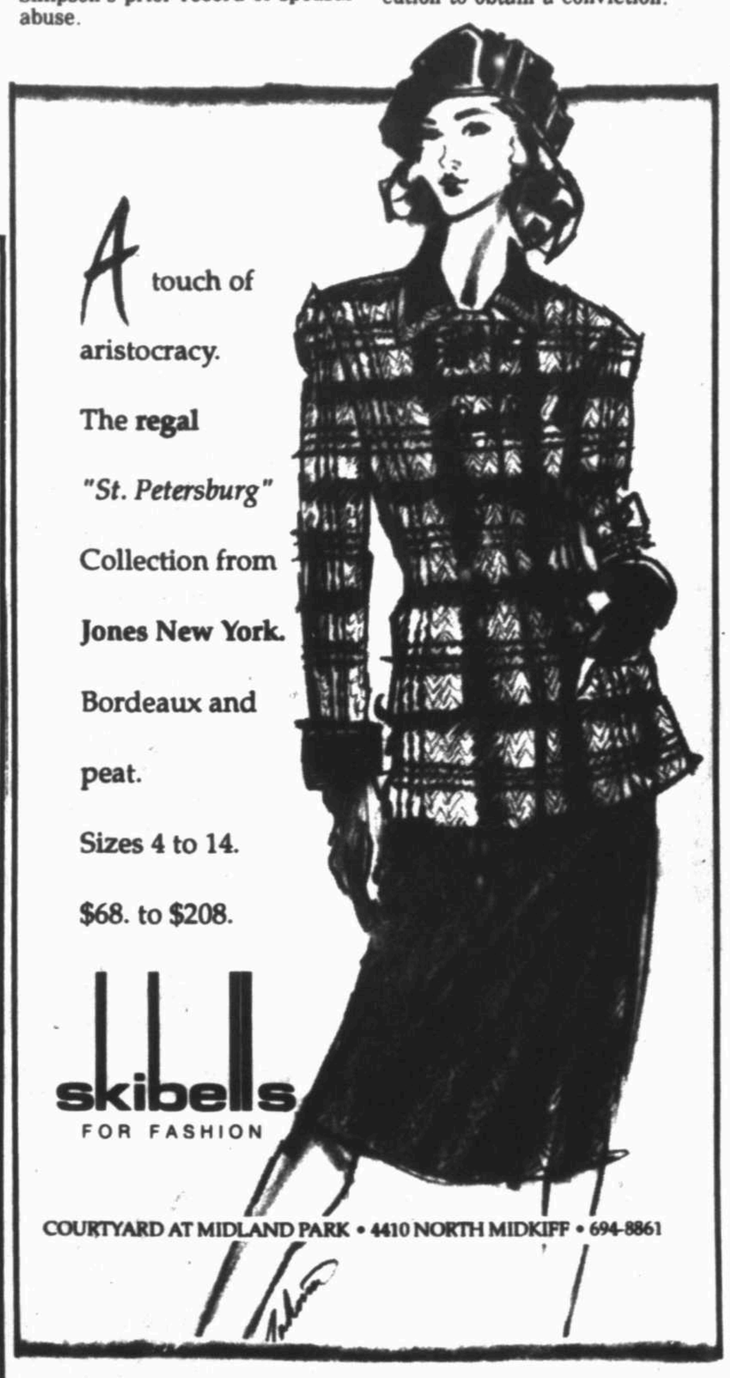
The Menendez brothers said they were abused children who killed to save their own lives.

Garcetti was implored by black leaders not to seek the death penalty in Simpson's case for numerous reasons, including the argument that death is disproportionately sought for black defendants.

Feminists represented by attorney Gloria Allred had pressed Garcetti to seek death because of Simpson's prior record of spousal abuse.

The decision not to seek death for Simpson "is very wise, very smart," said Leo J. Terrell, a Beverly Hills civil rights attorney. "It was legally correct and definitely politically correct."

Terrell said seeking the death penalty "probably would have undermined the chances of the prosecution to obtain a conviction."



High costs derail Texas excursion train

HOUSTON (AP) — A popular excursion train from Houston to Galveston is shutting down because of financial losses.

Franklin M. Denson, president and founder of the Texas Limited, said the passenger train is going out of business due to losses from high insurance rates and high operating costs.

The train also was hindered by having to travel at a maximum speed of 35 mph on the two-hour trip, limiting its trips to one a day.

"It's another attraction Galveston will suffer the loss of," said John Tindel, president of the Galveston Chamber of Commerce. "I hate to see us lose that."

The last scheduled run of the Texas Limited is next Saturday, but that run is strictly for employees of a Houston food distribution company. The train's regularly scheduled summer service ended as usual on Labor Day.

The silver-gray, eight-car passenger train, built with remodeled vintage cars and considered a near antique by train buffs, operated on the tracks of the Union Pacific Railroad.

At least three other excursion trains that rented equipment from Union Pacific also have ceased operations this year because of the high cost of liability insurance, which typically is $25 million a year for an excursion train, said Union Pacific spokesman Mark Davis.

Denson said he hopes to bring the Texas Limited back for chartered trips only. But the ability to do so will hinge on getting favorable insurance rates, he added.

Fisher: Polls show Clinton's unpopularity in Texas

Democratic U.S. Senate hopeful Richard Fisher said Friday that opinion polls showing him trailing in the race partly reflect President Clinton's unpopularity among Texans.

"Polls are snapshots. I think a lot of it, frankly, is frustration with the president. I think it is hurting me," Fisher said.

A Texas Poll published Aug. 31 showed Fisher running 19 percentage points behind Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison, R-Texas. Mrs. Hutchison led Fisher 49 percent to 30 percent, with 19 percent undecided.

Mrs. Hutchison, meanwhile, campaigned in the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

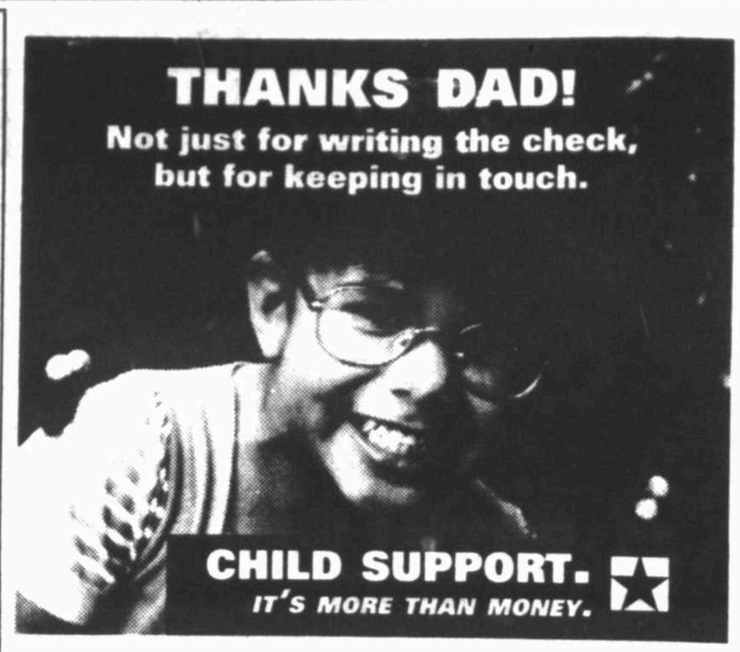
State Capitol items to be auctioned this weekend

AUSTIN (AP) — Contractors, history buffs, politicians and people just looking for a unique gift gathered Friday to bid on thousands of items from the Capitol that were placed on public auction.

The two-day sale gives bidders a chance to buy doors and transoms with etched-glass, wainscoting, decorative molding, paneling, shutters, door pediments, and flooring from the House and Senate chambers.

"I think it's really neat to have a piece of what was happening," said Beth Gilmore of Austin. "And the Capitol is so interesting anyway. I think it's exciting."

She said she was looking for a gift for her two boys, ages 5 and 9.



Police hold mom, find 9-month-old buried out back

DALLAS (AP) — A 9-month-old boy's mother was held Friday in the child's death after police discovered his body buried in the back yard of her vermin-infested home.

Juanella Settle was held at Lew Sterrett Justice Center after the body of her son James Earl was unearthed Friday morning from a shallow, unmarked grave behind her trailer home.

Police Sgt. Jim Chandler said the boy was malnourished and had become sick but contended that her mother, who had a crack cocaine habit, had hidden his health problems from relatives.

"She had used crack during her pregnancy and throughout the boy's life, so he had been born smaller than usual and was sickly," he said. "He had become increasingly ill."

But Chandler said the mother wouldn't seek medical care because of her fear that child protective services officers would take two other children from her.

Mrs. Settle, 33, was held on a $50,000 bail bond set by Magistrate Darrell Clements on a felony charge of injury to a child, said Dallas County sheriff's Lt. Ronnie Franks.

The woman's cousin, Brenda Stoker, contacted police after the mother gave three different stories to relatives about her son's fate.

"She was trying to keep the child hidden from her family for the past several weeks," said Chandler. "She told one relative the child was sick, told another he was in the hospital. She also said the child had died and was at a funeral home."

Mrs. Settle had filed a missing persons report on her son, telling police she had returned from a store to find him missing. But she later admitted to child abuse investigators that she had buried him in late August.

Grace Lutheran begins fall classes with Sunday rally

Grace Lutheran Church begins fall classes with a Sunday School Rally Day with a breakfast buffet at 9 a.m. Sunday. The fall programs are for ages birth to adult.

After breakfast, children attend an opening program. Adults depart to their choice of four classes: Journey Through the Bible: Ester; Colossians and Philemon: Take a New Look at Christ; Parenting with Purpose, a video series; or Together with Jesus, a new interactive course for parents and their 2-year-olds to 3-year-olds.

The Elementary Department, grades one through six, divides into three classes. The curriculum uses Concordia Publishing's Our Life in Christ series starting this fall with "Important Event's in Jesus' Life."

The Youth Department includes a class for seventh- and eighth-graders led by Gus Keller and Shannon Granat. They will study Acts: Active Christians Through His Spirit. The ninth through 12th grades will study how the New Testament relates to our lives today.

At 10:30 a.m., students and teachers will form a Rally Day Procession into the sanctuary, sing the Rally Day song for the congregation, and sit together in a reserved section during the rest of the service.

The mid-week study program provides in-depth Bible classes and choir for students in second grade through adult. Children through seventh grade meet at 5 p.m. for a light supper, choir practice at 5:20 p.m. and Bible study for an hour beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The adult mid-week program uses the LifeLight series, digging into Exodus this fall. The adults meet for an hour beginning at 6:30 p.m. Adult choir practice follows at 7:45 p.m.

Television to bask in its own glory

What's all the fuss about?

David Caruso, who will exit 'NYPD Blues' after four episodes this fall, first said he would not attend Sunday's Emmy ceremonies for fear of a barrage of media questions. Now, he insists he'll be there ready to walk on stage to accept his trophy for Best Actor in a Drama Series — if necessary.

LOS ANGELES — Producer Don Mischer is singing a different tune about this year's Emmy ceremony, and not just because Bette Midler is set to perform a number from "Gypsy."

The 46th Annual Primetime Emmy Awards, to be broadcast live at 7 p.m. CDT Sunday on ABC, will be lighter and frothier than last year's stately affair, Mischer promised.

In 1993, when Mischer produced his first Emmy broadcast for ABC, the celebration was dampened by a boycott by other networks and unrelenting criticism of television violence.

"I don't feel like we are as much under siege as we were," Mischer says. "That doesn't mean there's still not a lot of concerns nationally about how this medium is used."

But Sunday night is the TV industry's night to shine. And last year's deliberately elegant tone, intended to bolster the medium's image, can give way to playfulness, Mischer says.

■ The 46th Annual Prime Time Emmys will air at 7 p.m. Sunday, on ABC, KMID-Ch. 2.

"This year, we're trying to have more fun with it," he says. Two ABC comedy stars are serving as co-hosts: Patricia Richardson of "Home Improvement" and Ellen DeGeneres of "Ellen."

"Pat and Ellen complement each other nicely," Mischer says. "One is a key player in the most popular comedy on television right now, and Ellen is edgier and on the way up."

The selection of Richardson and DeGeneres, made in part by ABC and the Country enjoys tributes

Little Richard is in the running for a 1994 Country Music Association Award for Album of the Year. So are Huey Lewis and Natalie Cole. We're not kidding.

■ Country Music Memo

See, every artist and every producer of every song on an album gets one of those crystal thingies (what IS that supposed to be, anyway?) from the CMA if the album wins. This year, along with Alan Jackson's "Who I Am" and George Strait's "Easy Come, Easy Go," three compilation albums have been nominated: "Asleep at the Wheel's Tribute to Bob Wills," "Common Thread: The Songs of the Eagles," and "Rhythm, Country and Blues." Altogether, 45 artists and groups, plus a whole bunch of producers, are nominated in just that one category.

But wait 'till next year. After seeing the Eagles tribute sit at the top of the charts for three months, and seeing "Rhythm, Country and Blues" make history by debuting on three charts simultaneously (Pop, Country, and R&B), Music Row decided that compilation/tribute albums might be a good idea.

Scheduled for release in the next few months are a Tammy Wynette duets album featuring the First Lady of Country Music paired with Aaron Neville, Sting, Wynonna, and others. George Jones has a duets album, featuring the Possum with Keith Richards, Travis Tritt, Vince Gill, and his ex-wife Tammy Wynette (they do a new recording of "Golden Ring").

Also coming up are a Keith Whitley tribute album, featuring his widow, Lorrie Morgan, among others; a new

Is time still on their side?

Rolling Stones still 'vital, vigorous' in pursuit of rock-and-roll immortality

By Michito Kakutani
N.Y. Times News Service

As the remnants of tropical storm Beryl pelted Giants Stadium with buckets of rain a few weeks ago, turning the set into a slick, treacherous puddle, the Rolling Stones took the stage and broke into the familiar chords of "Not Fade Away," the Norman Petty-Charles Hardin standard they first recorded 31 years ago in England.

"I'm gonna tell you how it's gonna be," sang Mick Jagger, 51, as he swaggered across the stage, seemingly impervious to the rain and the passage of three decades. "You're gonna give your love to me./Love will last more than one day./Well, love is love and not fade away ..."

Like all their shows, the Rolling Stones' new "Voodoo Lounge" tour is a meticulously orchestrated spectacle: it has a surreal, futuristic set that looks like something out of Fritz Lang's "Metropolis," a phallic light tower that's part brontosaurus, part cobra; billboard-size video animations, lasers and 60-foot-tall inflatable dolls.

But while some of these elaborate special effects could not be used in the driving rain — no giant Elvis balloon looming over the set, no fat Shiva god squatting on the deck — no one in the New Jersey stadium seemed to notice.

As the eternally youthful Jagger pranced up and down the stage, and Keith Richards, Charlie Watts, Ron Wood and Darryl Jones (who was recruited to replace the retired Bill Wyman) blasted into the song's opening chorus, the 54,000-odd people who had turned out seemed to agree: the Stones have not only refused to grow old and fade away; after 36 albums (22 studio albums) and 12 North American tours, they have proven that they are still a vital and vigorous working band.

■ The Rolling Stones will play The Alamodome in San Antonio, Nov. 5.

For much of its short history, rock-and-roll has been considered a game for youth: Jagger himself once said, in an often-quoted remark, that he did not want to be singing "Satisfaction" when he was 40. And yet he and the other Stones have defied all expectations, continuing to work into their fourth decade as a band, producing new work and gathering new fans, even as they've taken their place as venerated members of the Rock-and-Roll Hall of Fame.

Not only have the Stones turned out to possess the stamina and inventiveness of the old blues musicians like Muddy Waters, whom they emulated in their youth, but they have also achieved some of the very things that the critic Martha Bayles, in her much-debated new book, "Hole in Our Soul: The Loss of Beauty and Meaning in American Popular Music," has praised in the African-American musi-

Novelist captures American public

He has captured America's fancy like few writers before him. Every plane you get on, every laundromat you go to, every beach you tan on, and every mountain ski lodge you will visit this winter, almost everyone is reading a John Grisham book.

Patterson

The former Mississippi lawyer is, by now, a multi-millionaire, so revered by book readers and movie-goers he was paid $7 million dollars for the screenrights to a book he hadn't even written yet. As it turned out, that book, "The Client" has done pretty well at the theaters and is widely considered the best film adaptation of a Grisham novel yet.

The guy can flat hold a reader's interest. He'll never be mistaken for Shakespeare or John Steinbeck or even Larry McMurtry, but what he does, he does better than anyone around today.

Grisham knows how to keep readers turning pages in his legal thrillers. He offers quick reads and suspenseful scripts. Before his latest book, "The Chamber," his best characters were women — Darby Shaw, the law student from "The Pelican Brief," and Reggie Love, the divorced, middle-aged attorney in "The Client."

But with "The Chamber," Grisham has created an unforgettable character. His best yet.

For those two or three of you who have yet to read Grisham's latest, "The Chamber" is a different sort of Grisham book. It contains no references to the mafia, no chase scenes, no gripping suspense to speak of. "The Chamber" is simply the tale of a man's final weeks on death row. Sent to defend him in his final days is his long lost grandson. The two develop a bond along the way and the book's central character, Sam Cayhall, a former Ku Klux Klan member, is pitied, sympathized, loved and hated by the reader.

Cayhall is Grisham's grandest achievement. The character, in fact, is the only part of "The Chamber" worth remembering. The book's ending, while realistic, is unfulfilling. There are at least a couple of plot lines left almost totally unresolved, which is unlike Grisham.

But Cayhall carries the book in a way no other character has in any of his works.

He goes from cynical and bitter to a man who truly grieves at what he has done to his victims. The change in Cayhall's character is gradual, but by the end of the 486-page book, many readers probably hold out hope that Cayhall will somehow escape the gas chamber.

Who will play Cayhall in the movie? Who knows,

MEMO: Willie to team with Jimmy Dale Gilmore in duet

(From 1B)

"Trio" album from Dolly Parton, Emmylou Harris, and Linda Ronstadt; a tribute to Lynyrd Skynyrd; a Merle Haggard tribute called "Hungry Eyes," which will benefit the Second Harvest Food Bank; and an album that should be hitting the stores right about now, "Red Hot + Country."

This last album is worth checking out, if only for some stunning musical pairings. Brooks & Dunn join forces with Johnny Cash for an unusual version of "Folsom Prison Blues," while Carl Perkins, Duane Eddy and The Mavericks rock out on "Matchbox." Cash pays tribute to Bob Dylan with "Forever Young," Mary-Chapin Carpenter does a stunning hard-edged ballad called "Willie Short," and in an especially inspired pairing, Jimmy Dale Gilmore joins Willie Nelson for "Crazy." Personally we think that if Gilmore and Nelson don't immediately head for the studio to cut a duets album themselves, they're crazy.

In the past, folks on the Row wouldn't touch compilation albums because they just didn't sell. This is, after all, the music Business, and it's ruled by profits. But country music has a long tradition of benefit concerts (Jimmie Rodgers did a series of concerts to benefit flood victims over 50 years ago). It has an equally long tradition of artists joining each other onstage and playing on each other's albums.

We're glad that, at least for now, some of those almighty dollars will go to some causes that really could use the money. And along the way, we get to listen to some pretty terrific sounds.

A Bible and a Bus Ticket Home Dept.: If you're thinking about hopping a Greyhound to Nashville and becoming a country star, bring money along with your dreams. The Nashville Salvation Army reports that one-third (987 people) of the folks it helped last year were pursuing careers in music. Of those, 786 said they moved to Nashville specifically for their music careers. Good luck, ya'll.

Let 'er Rip, Boys, Dept.: If you remember what country music sounded like on the radio before 1955, or would like to hear it, check out Rounder Records "Old-Time Music on the Air" and Benton Flippin's new album, "Old Time New Times." They feature everything from some of Benton's radio performances from the late '40s on WPAQ, Mt. Airy, N.C., to 85-year-old fiddler Melvin Wine, to new kids like The Heartbeats and Kirk Sutpin. If you can listen to either album without getting up and dancing, check your pulse!

Rough Cuts Quote of the Week: "There's not a lot of individuality in the new people that are coming along. ... You could take ten people and put them on a record and you wouldn't know who was singing what line. And that's not really good for the music." — Randy Travis, on today's country music.

TV: Presenters to dole out 27 awards

(From 1B)

Academy of Television Arts & Sciences, breaks new ground by pairing two women.

"I think it's great," DeGeneres says. "I think it's great that women are doing a lot more."

Twenty-seven awards will be presented during the approximately three-hour ceremony. Top nominees include ABC's "NYPD Blue," with a series record 26 bids, the HBO AIDS drama "And the Band Played On," CBS' "Gypsy" and the NBC comedies "Seinfeld" and "Frasier."

Presenters include Tim Allen, Brett Butler, Dennis Franz, Heather Locklear, Jay Leno, Paul Reiser, Garry Shandling and last year's Emmy host Angela Lansbury.

David Caruso, Franz's "NYPD Blue" co-star and fellow Emmy nominee, now says he'll attend the ceremony. Caruso is leaving the police drama and had said he wanted to avoid a barrage of media questions about his decision.

Last year, it was executives from CBS, NBC and Fox who were stay-at-homes, boycotting the Emmys to protest ABC's exclusive four-year broadcast deal. ABC since has agreed to relinquish its hold two years early, and the ceremony will rotate annually among the networks.

"To have the Emmys back on a rotating basis has really made a difference," Mischer says. "The whole industry is uniformly behind this show. We're getting calls from heads of networks about trying to get their stars on. ... You feel like the industry is solidly behind you."

The competitive spirit is not dead, however. There's still a bit of counterprogramming mischief planned tonight by ABC's rivals, with the films "Other People's Money" on NBC and "Steel Magnolias" on CBS.

Mischer, who has produced several Tony Award ceremonies, hopes to lure viewers with star power and performances that avoid award-show cliches.

"If you do an opening dance number, for instance, people just tune you out," he says. "Research shows, and they do minute-by-minute analysis, that even on shows like the Oscars, viewership drops during musical numbers."

The music must be related to the ceremony, and Mischer believes he's found a sure-fire winner in Midler's "Gypsy" performance: The TV movie received high ratings and 12 Emmy nominations.

Program highlight packages also are planned, including one tracing the influence of stand-up comedy on television.

"Home Improvement" star Allen will host that segment. That may or may not make up for Allen's lack of an Emmy nomination: His staff inadvertently missed the nomination deadline.

Jason Alexander, a nominee for "Seinfeld," will be featured in a musical salute to TV series theme songs, apparently an endangered species because some networks think they encourage channel flipping, Mischer says.

Viewers also will go behind the scenes at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium, traditional home of the ceremony.

"We find that people like getting a sense of the whole event, not just what happens on stage," Mischer says. "We hope to use the environment around the show, from the fans outside, to the press room where the winners go."

Radner's pal pays tribute

N.Y. Times News Service

When Alan Zweibel finally was able to take the painful steps to deal with the death of his best friend, Gilda Radner, he found himself re-creating their 15-year relationship.

He has allowed readers to eavesdrop on it through memories shared in "Bunny Bunny, Gilda Radner: A Sort of Love Story" (Villard Books; $14.95), a personal and touching tribute to his pal, who died of ovarian cancer five years ago at age 42.

"I didn't want the book to end," said Zweibel, 44, a resident of Brentwood. "As long as the book kept going, she was alive."

The book, written in dialogue, begins with their first meeting, behind a potted tree — he a nervous writer, she an actress needing his help to portray a parakeet — in the offices of "Saturday Night Live" in 1975, and continues through to the moving eulogy he wrote for Radner's memorial in 1989.

"These are emotional highlights in terms of the relationship," said Zweibel, who also has written "It's Garry Shandling's Show" and the novel, "North." He co-wrote the screenplay for the recent film.

Zweibel is donating proceeds from the sales of this book to Gilda's Club, a nonprofit New York-based support group founded by Radner's husband, actor Gene Wilder.

PATTERSON: Mahoney good choice for lead

(From 1B)

but John Mahoney, Frasier's dad on the popular NBC situation comedy, would seem to be a pretty close fit. Robert Downey Jr., would be a good choice for the grandson, Adam.

"The Chamber" will leave you feeling unsatisfied, much as Tom Wolfe's "The Bonfire of the Vanities" did, but the relationship readers can build with Cayhall is worth the ticket price for the book.

Unsorted thoughts and stuff: Don't ask me why because I'd never be able to answer it, but for some reason that dumb S.O.S commercial that shows nothing but pots and pans clanging together to spell S.O.S in Morse Code, is funny and enjoyable to watch (my wife thinks I've gone completely off the deep end). ... Randy Travis' "Whisper My Name" is one of his best songs ever and ceraintly should qualify as one of the best country songs of the year.

STONES: Success comes in part because of band's rock-solid roots cal tradition and accused much of rock music of killing: continuity, craft, professionalism and a vital, ever-evolving connection to an audience.

Just what accounts for the band's remarkable longevity? In part, of course, it's the Stones' ability to remain true, emotionally and musically, to their rock-solid roots in the blues while at the same time assimilating country, funk, reggae, punk and even disco influences into their signature style. They haven't become a nostalgia act, but they haven't lost touch with their past either.

In retrospect, the Stones' visceral and unsentimental vision of the world also plays a large role in their endurance as artists. Although their abrasive image was initially a marketing scheme cooked up by their manager, Andrew Oldham, to distinguish them from the clean-cut Beatles, the image stuck and was galvanized by the Altamont tragedy of 1969.

But for all of the Stones' self-mythologizing, there was always a hard kernel of truth to the image. The band's music (italics) was (end italics) darker and grittier than that of their contemporaries, and it often served as an eerie harbinger of the directions that art and social attitudes would take in the decades to come.

Although the Stones' work hardly seems shocking today, given the raw, unaccommodating messages of contemporary performers like Snoop Doggy Dogg, the band remains a lightning rod for conservative critics.

In "The Closing of the American Mind," the scholar Allan Bloom prudishly railed against what he called the "barbaric appeal to sexual desire" purveyed by rock music and by Mick Jagger in particular; and Ms. Bayles echoes parents' complaints against the Stones in the 60s, assailing the band for failing to adopt a "crowd-pleasing manner," ignoring religion and playing "at being 'black.'"

For all the talk about their subversive image, however, the Stones have never been political in any ideological sense; as artists, their stance was always summed up by the narrator of "Street Fighting Man," who shrugs, "What can a poor boy do except to sing for a rock 'n' roll band."

What the Stones did do was to describe in dark, Rabelaisian terms a world in which evil exists, a world in which death, betrayal, class tensions and random violence are a simple fact.

Their famous 1968 album, "Beggars' Banquet," echoed and anticipated the social convulsions of the late 60s, while their 1978 song "Shattered" offered a prescient portrait of New York in the '80s as a city obsessed with success and reeling from poverty and social disorder.

When it came to the subjects of love and sex, the Stones were equally tough. Unlike the Beatles, Jagger and Richards would never have suggested that "all you need is love." Their view of relationships was always more complicated, more ambivalent, more realistic. They liked to paint, if not in black, then at least in more troubled colors than the pretty pastels traditionally used for love songs.

Indeed, one of the band's specialties has been songs that explicitly celebrate the carnal pleasures of sex or anatomize the crude power games that can accompany romance.

"Under my thumb," Jagger sings in the band's 1966 song, "The girl who once had me down. Under my thumb, the girl who once pushed me around ... the change has come. She's under my thumb."

While such lyrics have been denounced by feminists as evidence of the Stones' misogyny, they actually have less to do with willful sexism than with the authors' refusal to sentimentalize relationships, their awareness of the hidden Freudian maneuverings that often inform human behavior.

If women have been described in their songs as dogs who have had their day, well, men, too, have been characterized in Stones lyrics as randy, conniving monkeys and goats. Not only is the use of animal imagery a traditional one (remember "Little Red Rooster"?), it is also a convenient shorthand for the primal impulses that endure beneath the polite veneer of civilization.

Nor is the Stones' work really dominated by swaggering tunes about men on the prowl. There are just as many songs about men trying to get their women back ("Beast of Burden") or pleading for commitment ("Mixed Emotions").

And while more attention is often paid to the band's driving hard-rock numbers, some of the Stones' most moving and powerful songs remain their ballads — tenderly romantic ballads like "Wild Horses" and "No Expectations," which depict the feelings of loss and longing that love can inspire.

Looking back on the more than 300 songs Jagger and Richards, 50, have written and recorded, one is struck not only by the sheer number of standards they've produced ("Satisfaction," "Gimme Shelter" and "Honky Tonk Women," whose first few chords are instantly recognizable to entire stadiums of people) but also by the number of variations — in mood, ambition and sentiment — they've been able to work on such conventional and seemingly limited rock-and-roll subjects as girls, drugs and sex.

They have written elegiac story songs ("Memory Motel") and theatrical character songs ("Jumpin' Jack Flash"), love songs masquerading as drug songs ("Moonlight Mile") and drug songs masquerading as existential laments ("You Can't Always Get What You Want"), sex songs dressed up with historical allusions ("Brown Sugar") and love songs disguised as social allegory ("Indian Girl").

"Time waits for no one," the Stones reminded us in a 1974 song, but as their new album and tour attest, they continue to create at least the illusion that it is firmly on their side.

Thoughtful Moments™

Bouquets

I plucked a bunch of daisies
As the morning sun arose,
Sun-filled and touched by heaven,
And each was glad I chose

To share them with my neighbor,
Who always thought it best
To get bouquets while living,
Instead of when at rest.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By Jeane Dixon

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1994

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Your calm and confident manner is a very important asset. Both work subordinates and children will be eager to follow your lead. Although your expensive tastes could make redecorating a rather costly proposition, the end result will be worth the expenditure. Romance is exciting but may not be permanent. Live for the moment! You are often drawn to people who are not ready to settle down.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: actress Amy Irving, well-traveled newsman Charles Kuralt, actress Fay Wray, basketball player Bob Lanier.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): A relative or friend may let you down. Spend the day at home if social plans are canceled at the last minute. Catch up on your reading. An old pal could pop into town.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Excitement accompanies the arrival of some good news today. Family members have ideas that could conflict with your plans. Tread carefully. Your independent streak could put a new relationship to the test.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): You may have to spend more money than you really can afford today. Be honest if you are not yet ready to make a commitment. Yielding to someone's pleas would be a mistake.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): An unusual plan to increase your cash reserves has a good chance of success. Romance beckons from a distance. Socializing enjoys highly favorable influences this evening.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The outlook for romance is excellent. Be careful not to spend too much money on luxury items. Your associates will make your job easier by being pleasant and supportive this coming week.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Mixed trends are indicated. Although influential people are cooperative, you may have to overcome certain roadblocks at home. Be careful not to trip over self-created problems. Give ground on minor points.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Get an early start today. Those who have been cooped up indoors need to spend some time outside. Inspiration strikes during quiet times of retreat. Jot down clever ideas for future use.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A talent for acting or writing receives new attention. Do not give up a regular income to pursue what may be a passing fancy. A family member's concerns influence your financial decisions. Be open-minded.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Hang on to your dreams! A loving partner will encourage you to aim high. Romance brings together those whose talents complement each other's. Show your creativity. Try your hand at poetry or writing fiction.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): An argument between friends could make this an uneasy day. You might find it fun to work behind the scenes in a political campaign. Physical fitness is the key to good health. Exercise regularly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Romance is in the air! When you meet someone you really like, follow through. A young person demonstrates why she is so special to you. Be on time for a special event.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A good day to come to financial terms with your loved ones. Romance has a lot to offer you now. Open the door to happiness! Show confidence in your ideas and others will rally around.

TODAY'S CHILDREN are well-mannered, considerate and bright — devoted to family and friends. Diligent students, these Virgos have a passion for accuracy. They make highly respected historians and journalists.

Roseanne says she's oldest, fattest woman ever on MTV

NEW YORK — She was hired to be outrageous, and Roseanne — no last name, please — delivered at the MTV Video Music Awards.

Roseanne appears on MTV Video Music Awards.

The star of "Roseanne" opened the ceremonies Thursday by announcing she was the fattest woman ever to appear on MTV, as well as the oldest — except for Cher.

By the time she was done, nothing had been spared.

On her sex life: "I'm 41 years old and at my sexual peak. Let me tell you, it's lonely at the top."

On Tom Arnold: "I'm not upset about my divorce. I'm only upset that I'm not a widow."

On seeing Mick Jagger backstage: "Hey Mick, nice ribs. What are you, 50? Put on a shirt."

LOS ANGELES — Funk and jazz keyboardist Herbie Hancock got his own star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame.

Herbie Hancock gets star on Hollywood Walk of Fame.

Among the 200 well-wishers on hand Thursday when the walkway's 2,033rd star was unveiled were former Mayor Tom Bradley and musician Stevie Wonder.

The 54-year-old Grammy-winning Hancock is a former member of the Miles Davis jazz group. Members of the Herbie Hancock quartet have included Wynton Marsalis, Ron Carter and Tony Williams.

OMAHA, Neb. — Edward James Olmos decried TV violence but defended his role on "Miami Violence."

During a question-and-answer session after a speech on gang violence Thursday, the actor was asked whether shows such as "Miami Vice" glorify violence.

"I think it's disgusting," he said. But he said he had creative control over his character, Lt. Castillo, and saw to it that Castillo didn't glorify or romanticize brutality.

Speaking to 1,200 people at the University of Nebraska, he said news organizations should adopt a policy where "for every single minute of bad news, they give a minute of good news."

And he said that society would benefit if movie producers made as many encouraging films as they do violent ones.

SAN ANGELO — Whoopi Goldberg says people misunderstood the intent of a theatrical piece she wrote about a teen-ager's abortion.

Parents were offended after "The Surfer Chick," about a 16-year-old girl who uses a coat hanger to perform an abortion on herself, was performed at Sonora High School's freshman orientation.

In a letter published in Thursday's San Angelo Standard-Times, Goldberg defended the play as a plea for communication to help prevent teen pregnancies.

"The point of the story was to remind people that if you don't have dialogue going and don't counsel your children and if you take away safe, clean abortions, they may find themselves — as millions of women did — back in the bathroom and back on the butcher's table," Goldberg wrote.

COOS BAY, Ore. — Jeff Gillooly is off to boot camp to try to shorten his prison sentence.

Tonya Harding's 26-year-old former husband starts on Monday as a member of a platoon at the new Oregon Summit Program.

Gillooly was sentenced to two years in prison and fined $100,000 after pleading guilty to racketeering in the January attack on Nancy Kerrigan.

He has served a month and a half behind bars. If he completes boot camp, he could have 11 to 18 months taken off his sentence.

NEW YORK — John Mellencamp canceled the remainder of a national tour Thursday after doctors found a clogged artery in his heart.

"The doctors are coming up with a course of treatment," Lauren Murphy, a spokeswoman for Mercury Records, Mellencamp's label, said Thursday in New York.

"The prognosis is extremely good for a full recovery."

Mellencamp, 42, the rock singer and composer, had a checkup in his hometown of Bloomington, Ind., on Wednesday after suffering unusual fatigue, and it was then that the condition was detected. He is resting at home.

The tour to promote his album "Dance Naked" started on July 29 and had 15 more performances scheduled this month.

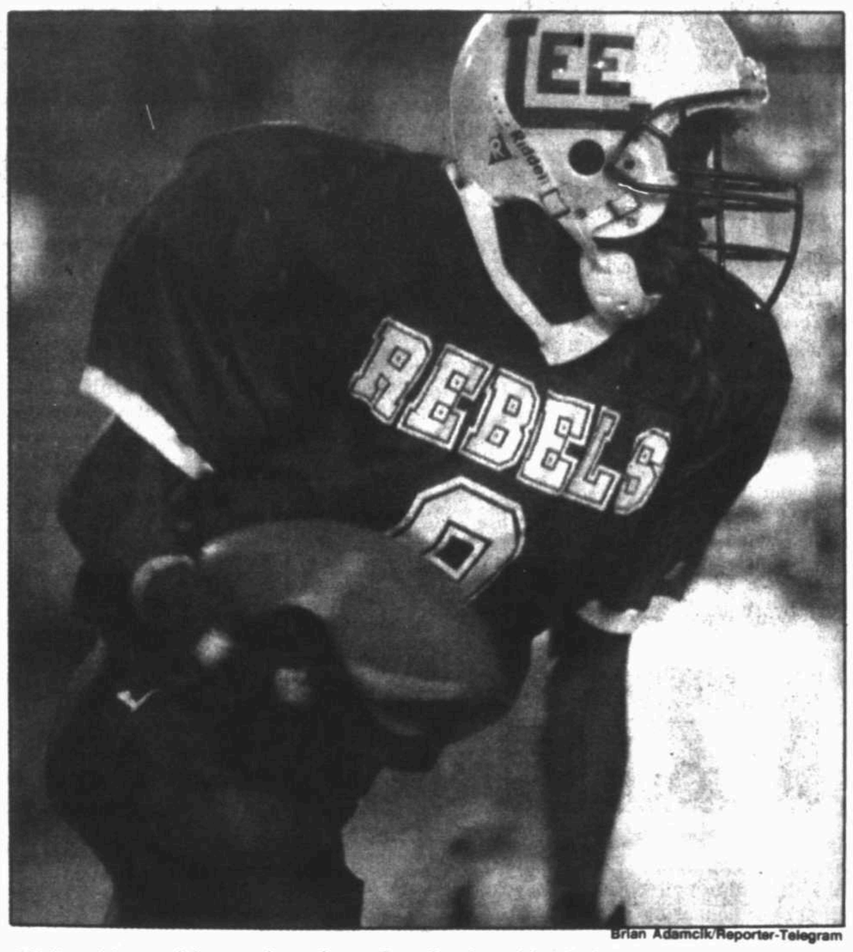
FRIDAY NIGHT THUNDER

Lee airs out Marshall, 29-7



Brian Adamcik/Reporter-Telegram

Midland Lee wide receiver Jerry Stanford grabbed eight receptions for 188 yards during Lee's 29-7 win over San Antonio Marshall.

■ Rebel receiver Jerry Stanford catches San Antonio Marshall's defense sleeping wth 188 yards.

By Bill Petitt
Staff Writer

Midland Lee coach Earl Miller broke out of his patented wishbone and the results broke the back of San Antonio Marshall.

Miller found the airways a much easier route of travel Friday night as the Rebel wide receiver Jerry Stanford caught eight passes for 188 yards and one touchdown to lead Lee to a 29-7 win over the Marshall Rams at Memorial Stadium.

The win improves Lee's record to 2-0 while Marshall drops to 0-2.

Stanford was a man possessed and produced a reel of highlight film material which included 73 yards in punt and kickoff returns as well as his receptions.

"Coach thought we could run a lot of outs and streaks," said Stanford. "They were stuffing the run early by putting so many people up on the line so we had to throw."

Quarterback Dedrick Adams picked apart the Rams secondary, completing 8-of-10 for 197 yards and a touchdown.

"They had a lot of single coverage so we took advantage," said Miller. "We had some chances to score and didn't and that's something we can work on."

"I was a little surprised to see then throw," said Marshall coach David Visentine, who spent eight seasons at Andrews High School in the 1980s. "They have a quarterback who threw the ball well and Stanford just killed us with his speed."

Stanford and the Rebs scored on five consecutive possessions in the second and third quarters which brought Lee back from a 7-6 deficit in the second period after Marshall running back A.J. Austin ran 52 yards for a score to stun the Lee faithful.

With Marshall leading 7-6, the Lee offense looked like the team of a year ago, striking quickly as the Rebels scored three touchdowns with drives of 1:31, 1:20 and 17 seconds to erupt.

Running back Melvin Dunson rushed for 121 yards in the first half. He scored on two consecutive runs, of 70 and 34. On the 70 sprint he appeared stopped at the Lee 40, but sprung from the pack and coasted the final 40 yards untouched.

"Melvin finally ran like a Lee running back," said Miller. "We weren't sure that he was tough enough, but he ran very well tonight. It was really good to see him run the way he did."

Afterwards Marshall went three plays and out. Stanford then struck deep with the 87-yard bomb to give Lee a 26-7 lead it held at halftime.

The Lee defense tightened in the second half, holding Marshall to 77 yards.

"Defensively, I wasn't happy with the way we played," said Miller. "We just aren't hitting people right now and we are dropping interceptions. But they are young and played hard. We just have to be patient."

Coats' 337 breaks record in MHS win

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

EL PASO — Midland High senior running back Roy Coats had a career rushing night, and the result was an 11-game losing streak drought breaker.

Coats rushed for a Midland record 337 yards and three touchdowns to spark a 31-14 victory over El Paso Bel Air here Friday night, which was MHS first victory since the final game of the 1992 football season.

Only former Midland Lee running back Farris Strambler had ever broken the 300-yard single game barrier as a Midland runner prior to Coats' 26 totes to glory.

"I had no idea how many yards rushing I had," Coats said. "I figured I had a few with the long runs and the way our offensive line was dominating the game, but I had no idea I had over 300 yards."

Still, Coats would forgo the 300 yards just for the win.

"I have to go with the win over the record," Coats said. "This is the happiest I've ever been. It's the happiest day of my life."

Teammate Tom Woodside added, "I almost forgot how this felt."

MHS coach Ronnie Reeger said, "This feels one-thousand percent better than what we have gone through. We need a lot of improvement, but I'm as proud as I can be of these kids and their effort out there tonight."

Coats delivered MHS' lead at 21-14 in the third quarter with a 55-yard touchdown run and then David Leaverton followed with a 28-yard field goal, the first of his varsity career, for a 24-14 margin and it was suddenly evident that MHS was going to win a game.

Coats got an insurance TD in the fourth period for the final margin.

"Roy had only 26 carries and that's not much more than usual," Reeger said, "but we probably wouldn't have used him quite as much if Demetrius Lee hadn't gone down with an injury and we had to leave another fullback at home due to grades."

The game started out like it was going to be the Coats-Jaime Arredondo show. Arredondo had two touchdown runs of 80 yards each to account for Bel Air's two first half touchdowns while Coats had 172 yards in the first half, including a 92-yard TD romp to give MHS a 14-7 lead and a 36-yard run to set up Demetrius Lee's 26-yard romp up the Highlander gut.

Buffaloes sprint past Garden City in early track meet

■ Running backs Jerele Lee and Todd Davis lead Stanton to a 48-6 win over Bearkats with a combined five touchdowns.

By Mike Butts

STANTON — Funny thing about the track meets the Stanton Buffaloes have hosted the past two weeks. The same two guys keep winning every race.

Running backs Jerele Lee and Todd Davis again flew past defenders for touchdowns Friday at Buffalo Stadium in Stanton's 48-6 win over Garden City. This time the two put up even more impressive numbers than in the Buffs' 34-0 win over Midland Lee's junior varsity Sept 1. And all in the first half.

"We just couldn't stay with their speed," Garden City coach Dennis Bryant said of the Stanton pair that led the Buffs' 401-yard rushing attack. "They've got some jets back there."

The jets took off for five touchdowns, two by Davis and three by Lee, each of at least 52 yards. Davis (six carries, 154 yards) carried once in the second half for 22 yards and Lee (six for 157) had no carries after Stanton went out to a 42-6 halftime lead.

"It reminds me of some of my old Hamlin days," said Stanton coach Bill Grissom, who coached Johnny "Ham" Jones at the high school north of Abilene. "I'll take speed any day. That's a

Red Devils control line for shutout win over Forsan

■ Rankin gets two touchdowns in the first quarter and goes on to hold Forsan scoreless in the Red Devils' first win of 1994.

By Tom Ruiz
MRT Correspondent

RANKIN — The Rankin Red Devils are said to be in a rebuilding year. But try telling that to the 1-1 Forsan Buffalos who were worn down and eventually shut out 12-0 here Friday night by Rankin.

Rankin, 1-1, used a ball control attack that kept Forsan's defense on the field for most of the game. Rankin controlled the ball a total of 27 minutes of the contest.

"We wanted to control the line of scrimmage and we did that very well. Our kids got the shutout and I am very proud of them for that," said Rankin head caoch Raul Sanchez.

While the Red Devils may not have the flash and dash of past years, one thing going for them is youthful enthusiasm and a blue collar work ethic.

For example, tailback Juan Bautista, rushed for 107 yards and caught a 10-yard scoring strike from quarterback Jo'el Armendarez in the second quarter.

Armendarez also got into the act with 97 yards of rushing and a one-yard touchdown run in the opening period.

In the fourth quarter when the game was still in doubt, it was the sure-handed John Evridge who made a a pair of clutch third down grabs to sustain a Rankin drive and eat away at the clock.

Another Red Devil who brought his lunch pail to the game was Jerry Lewis, and he didn't need a telethon to get him crucial yardage in both the third and fourth quarters.

After the game Forsan coach Jan East felt like heading back east and pronto.

"I felt that if we could've controlled the ball and taken advantage of their small defensive line we might've had a chance to win. As it turned out, they had us dragging our tongues out there," East said.

The Buffalos lost two key offensive starters to injuries early in the first quarter which stymied some early running success. Later, the blue collar demons virtually halted the Buffaloes offensive game plan.

Said Sanchez, "What we did instead of scraping our linebackers and shoot early, we stayed in a base defense and went from side to side. That stopped them from getting the seven to eight yards a rush, and then only allowed them about two yards per carry."

Despite the dominance of the clock the Red Devils managed to put themselves in precarious positions a few times in the game. In the first half a haywire punt that bounced off the back of a Red Devil gave Forsan excellent field position inside the Rankin 30 yard line.

But the Red Devils forced Forsan's Chad Kemper to cough up the ball at the Rankin 20.

In the second quarter with Rankin leading 12-0, the Buffalos marched 61 yards to the Red Devil four yard line. Then on fourth and goal quarterback Jason Lentz lofted what would've been a scoring pass had Bautista not come from 10 yards out and knocked the ball away in the endzone.

Forsan also blew a golden opportunity to score in the early moments of the third quarter, when they took the second half kickoff all the way to the Rankin 31.

But the Rankin defense had an answer for that too, as they picked off a Lentz pass.

In the fourth period Lentz again had his team within striking distance when another Red Devil, Victor Castillo, stepped in between two Buffalo receivers and buried any hopes for a comeback.

"It was a whole team effort and I know that we'll keep improving," Sanchez said.

Rankin will travel to McCamey next Friday.

great asset."

Class 2A Stanton scored on the first play of the game against the 1A Bearkats. Tailback Davis took a pitch left and fled down the sidelines for 64 yards and the blue ribbon on the meet's first sprint. Fullback Lee took the baton seven minutes later, going 69 yards for a score on a quick opener.

Garden City played without starting halfbacks Ryan Seidenberger and Bryan Harp. But their presence prabably wouldn't have helped the Bearkats (0-2) win any dashes.

"We just got outclassed all the way," Bryant said. "I thought that the kids that we had in their (at halfback) did as good as they could do. Hopefully we'll have Bryan Harp back next week."

"Our line blocked superbly and our backs hit every hole," said split end Cody Hirt, who caught a 14-yard TD pass from J.J. Oritz with 17 seconds left in the first quarter to put Stanton up 19-0.

The game's only drawback may have been that Stanton's first teamers didn't get a full game under their belts. Most of the second team offense opened the second half for the Buffs.

Garden City quarterback Brent Seidenberger teamed with receiver Kelly Langford to get the Bearkats on the board on the last play of the first quarter with a 59-yard tipped pass. But that was the only race Garden City won.

Lee broke for a 60-yard TD on the first play of the second quarter. The next time Stanton had the ball Davis won a 62-yard dash on the first play. Later in the period Lee ran over a Garden City wouldbe tackler at the 30 yard line and skipped past the tape, er, goal line, for a 52-yard touchdown.

The Buffaloes had three one-play drives for touchdowns and one two-play drive for a score before halftime.

With a combined score of 82-6, Stanton hasn't been tested yet this season. But a test could come next week when they take on Class 3A Merkel at Merkel.

Lee and Davis now have five touchdowns each after the two wins. Grissom has no concern about a rivalry between the runners.

"They're all for each other," Grissom said. "A lot of times when you have two backs like that there can be some friction."

There's plenty of friction — between Lee and Davis' feet and the grass on the field.

It has Grissom using the "P" word.

"We're playing at a level now (that) I think we're a playoff football team," Grissom said.

Fiesta Bowl could host title game

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — The Fiesta Bowl will be the site of the new bowl alliance's first potential national championship game after the 1995 season.

As the highest bidder among the three alliance members at $118 million, the Fiesta Bowl had the the option of staging the alliance's first potential title matchup. The game will be Jan. 2, 1996.

The new bowl alliance was created this summer to replace the existing agreement that expires after this season.

On a rotating basis, the Fiesta, Orange and Sugar bowls will have the opportunity to match up the two top-ranked teams from the Atlantic Coast, Big East, Big 12 and Southeastern conferences as well as Notre Dame. The Rose Bowl will continue to invite the Big Ten and Pac-10 champions.

The Fiesta Bowl's choice to be the first potential title site was disclosed during a news conference to announce that the Dial Corp has signed on as a "backup sponsor" from 1996 through Jan. 1, 2001.

Dial will replace IBM OS/2, which notified the Fiesta Bowl on Wednesday that it would pull out as title sponsor after next January's game.

IBM, which replaced Sunkist as sponsor in 1991, decided to "get out of the sports marketing business," said past Fiesta Bowl President Bob Hunt.

REBELS: Adams passes for 197

(From 1C)

"We just didn't have any offense all night long," said Visentine. "They have a great defense and we played with poor field position all night long, but they we well prepared defensively."

Marshall was led by Austin with 54 yards rushing and sophomore running Warren Sauls with 48 yards on 14 carries after a 134-yard performance in a loss to Round Rock Westwood last week.

Marshall began inside its own 15 four times during the night, twice when the Rams fumbled kickoffs after Lee scores.

Lee, on the other hand, started inside Marshall territory five times, scoring three times for 17 points.

The only score of the second half was a 23-yard field goal by Lee kicker Clay Boyd in the third period.

BULLDOGS: Coats rushes for 337 yards in a loss to Frenship, but he had smashed that standard in the first half. Arredondo had 149 yards rushing last week against El Paso Burges and three touchdowns. Again he had a huge first half with 167 yards.

Coats' first half statistics would have been even more impressive if a game opening pass of 40 yards to Lee Maston had been allowed to stand. Flags hurt MHS in the first half, also erasing an 85-yard TD pass from Craig Coleman to Tyler Krueger in the first period. In facts, the two passes by Coats and Coleman came on consecutive drives, getting no points, and Bel Air took advantage of the huge break with the first of two 80-yard TD runs by the fleet-footed Arredondo.

But Coats was the one to step into the Midland history books with 337 huge yards. It was a night to remember in more ways than one.

No. 8 Gainesville snaps Southlake Carroll streak

SOUTHLAKE (AP) — Southlake Carroll's unprecedented 72-game regular-season winning streak ended with a thud Friday night as the Dragons were smashed 43-21 by Class 3A's eighth-ranked Gainesville Leopards.

Gainesville running back Brandon Harrison carried 24 times for 239 yards and scored two touchdowns as Carroll ended its 49-game unbeaten streak that includes the postseason.

Carroll, the two-time defending 3A champions, now has no chance for an eighth-straight undefeated season, which would have set a national record.

"What happened to us tonight was the best thing that could happen to this football team," Dragons coach Bob Ledbetter said. "We got beat, but now we can strap it back on and get ready for district."

Although the Dragons were playing only their second game as a 4A school, they were facing a familiar foe in Gainesville. In the second week of last season, Carroll crushed the Leopards 44-13.

Carroll (1-1) had beaten Gainesville (1-1) three times in the past two seasons by a combined score of 153-26.

"I've dreamed about this every day," said Gainesville defensive lineman Chad Pegues, who played in each of those losses. "They pick on you and pick on you, like a big bully. They finally got theirs."

Neither team controlled the first half, although Gainesville led 28-21 at halftime. Then the Leopards scored 15 unanswered points in the second half for the victory.

The Dragons left 3A having won three of the last five titles and going 16-0 in each of the last two years. They were 112-5-1 in 3A from 1986-93.

Gabriela Sabatini prepares to stand up after missing the ball on a diving lunge in her 6-1, 7-6 (8-6) loss to Arantxa Sanchez Vicario in the women's semifinals.

Graf, Sanchez Vicario move to women's final

■ U.S. Open

NEW YORK (AP) — A sense of inevitability accompanied Steffi Graf and Arantxa Sanchez Vicario into the U.S. Open final, their matchup utterly predictable and the manner of their victories Friday reminiscent of other times.

There was Graf, No. 1, being run around by Jana Novotna again and beating her, memories of Wimbledon 1993 setting in as Graf came back from 2-5 in the second set, saved three set points, watched Novotna double-fault three times, and won 6-3, 7-5.

There was Sanchez Vicario, No. 2, playing the role of human backboard once more against Gabriela Sabatini, wearing her down from the baseline for the seventh time in their last eight matches, taking her out 6-1, 7-6 (8-6).

Both semifinals had the feeling of reruns as they set up a final Saturday between the top two women for the 28th time in the U.S. Open.

It wasn't quite Wimbledon all over again for Graf and Novotna, but it was close. The big difference was that Graf won this match much more than Novotna lost it, a subtlety not lost on fans as they cheered a superb performance by both players.

"We had some incredible rallies there, some great points, some good passing shots and some really fun points," Graf said.

Novotna showed all her emotions on the court, pumping her fists on winners, looking angry when she missed, complaining about dubious calls, talking to herself almost nonstop.

"I was really aggressive today, even when I was up, and I think I played great tennis during the second set," she said. "The way I got to 5-2, I think that was unbelievable, very exciting tennis. ... But there were points where I couldn't do anything. There were times when she made a winner or she passed me or she made a lob over me that was very difficult."

Capricious breezes made it difficult to control the ball on this warm afternoon, and Graf's slice backhand suffered the most as some of her shots drifted long. Novotna, who had stayed back to beat Mary Pierce in the quarters, attacked the net more this time to take advantage of the conditions.

Lengthy rallies and thrilling exchanges at the net pushed the first set to 42 minutes, nearly as long as some of Graf's matches had been. Graf's punishing passing shots and too many netted approached shots by Novotna turned the set in Graf's favor.

But in the second set, Novotna took control early, just as she had in their memorable Wimbledon final last year. Novotna's aggressiveness began to pay off with winners, and in a gripping game of great rallies she broke Graf's service to take a 3-1 lead.

Novotna held to 4-1 and, after an exchange of serves, led 5-2. Her opportunity now lay before her, a chance to put away the set and take Graf to a third as she did at Wimbledon. It was in that third set last year that Novotna led 4-1 and was five points away from winning. This was still the second set, but the moment was no less crucial.

A forehand volley by Novotna created double-set point at 15-40, but Novotna netted a forehand to waste the first chance. Graf didn't play defensively, as she had at Wimbledon, but instead put pressure on Novotna to make her earn it. Novotna responded with a forehand long that put the game at deuce.

Two points later, Novotna got another set point, but Graf drilled a deep forehand that Novotna could barely reach, popping up a long lob.

That would turn out to be her last real shot at an upset. Graf whipped a backhand crosscourt past her, went back to deuce on an overhead by Novotna, then put the game away with a pair of service winners.

Graf could sense the tide of the match shifting, but knew she had to keep up the pressure.

"You can't bank on it, really," she said. "My confidence level got a bit up from where it was in the beginning of the set. I think I pumped up myself and she was getting worried, more or less. And I felt I was playing the points better than I had before. I didn't want to just get the ball in play and hope that she is going to miss it. This is not the way I think to play."

Graf broke Novotna and held serve, yielding only two points in the two games, to take a 6-5 lead.

Owners reject players proposal

■ Strike Talks

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball owners rejected the players' proposal to settle the 4-week-old strike today, but postponed until early next week their threat to call off the season and the World Series.

"We have to establish a common ground, and tragically we have failed to do so at every level to this point," acting commissioner Bud Selig said. "Nobody dreads these circumstances more than I do, or is more dismayed by them. ...

"We have done everything to avoid the situation we find ourselves in."

Selig earlier said that Friday was the deadline for reaching agreement or canceling the rest of the season and the postseason, including the World Series which has been played each year since 1904.

But at a news conference on Friday, Selig said the owners would "have no announcement about the season until very early next week."

Selig said no further talks were scheduled, adding owners would "let the weekend play itself out."

"Hopefully there will be some communication. If not, we'll have an orderly announcement next week," Selig said.

Union chief Donald Fehr said baseball was running out of time with the regular season scheduled to end Oct. 2.

"It becomes progressively harder with each passing day," he said. "But we're not going to shut the doors until they shut them."

Striking players delivered a "taxation" plan to owners Thursday and hoped it would be accepted in place of a salary cap.

Management's six-person bargaining team spent the morning at the commissioner's office analyzing the proposal and Selig joined them at midday. A bargaining session began shortly thereafter.

Selig, the Milwaukee Brewers owner, stayed away from the talks until now saying he would enter them at the time he believed appropriate. The strike began its fifth week today.

Asked if Friday's events had caused him to let the deadline pass, Selig's answer wasn't clear.

"I don't think so really," he said, refusing to give more detail other than to say he would make an announcement early next week.

The players' plan calls for a 1½-2 percent payroll tax, a 1½-2 percent tax on revenue and for clubs to split 25 percent of gate receipts, sources said.

Sixteen clubs would contribute "tax" revenue to the other 12, sources said. The union suggested that clubs be required to maintain minimum payroll levels and that teams be prohibited from receiving money under the tax plan for more than three consecutive years.

It was unclear if enough clubs were inclined to accept a deal without the salary cap owners have been demanding.

Twenty-one teams must approve a settlement, meaning any plan must have broad-based support. If owners aren't inclined to accept a deal the World Series probably will be canceled.

Longhorns, Aggies look for revenge

■ SWC Roundup

Associated Press

The Texas Longhorns and Texas Aggies have reason for revenge against their opponents on Saturday.

Louisville embarrassed the Longhorns 41-10 last season in Louisville. Oklahoma placed the only blot on the Texas Aggies' record a year ago, 44-14, in Norman.

Now Louisville and Oklahoma must come to Texas for rematches, although A&M coach R.C. Slocum denies any revenge factor.

Respect is a better word for what his No. 16-ranked Aggies feel for Saturday's foe, No. 15 Oklahoma.

"We know how thoroughly we got beat up last year so we know what we are up against," Slocum said.

The Aggies edged Louisiana State 18-13 last week in Baton Rouge. They look forward to hosting the Sooners at Kyle Field, where the Aggies have won 20-straight games since a tie with Baylor in 1990.

The Aggies are a 2-point favorite.

In other Southwest Conference games this week, Rice is a 14-point favorite to initiate the Ken Hatfield era with a victory over Tulane (0-1); Texas (1-0) hosts Louisville (0-1) and is a 10-point favorite; Southern Methodist (0-1) is a 24-point underdog at UCLA (1-0); Texas Christian (0-1) is a 6 1/2-point underdog, playing at New Mexico (0-1); Houston (0-1) is a 2-point favorite playing at Louisiana Tech (0-1); and Baylor (1-0) is a 14 1/2-point favorite playing at San Jose State (0-1).

Texas Tech (1-1) got the SWC week started with a 42-16 loss to No. 1 ranked Nebraska.

The Longhorns will have All-SWC wide receiver Mike Adams back from a one-game suspension but Lovell Pinkney is still awaiting the verdict on eligibility questions.

Adams and Pinkney were suspended for accepting the use of a rental car for five weeks earlier this year.

Pinkney is still out while the school investigates whether he flew to Los Angeles in May to visit a sports agent. Pinkney has denied taking the trip.

"He's (Adams) gone through a lot," Mackovic said. "I don't know if anyone would trade with him. He's learned a lot. I think he'll show it off the field too."

TCU coach Pat Sullivan once again had to send out the call for running back prospects after another spate of injuries, including oft-injured Derrick Cullors.

Cullors, coming off an injury last season, gained 117 yards against North Carolina last week before suffering a ligament injury that will cost him three to four weeks.

Sullivan had an early-week scrimmage to try out prospects.

"Everybody who ever carried the ball here or in high school, we put back there and tried to find a runner," Sullivan said.

Cullors was injured in the first game last year and missed the entire season.

Hatfield will send his first Owls team out to play Tulane at noon on Saturday, where quarterback Josh LaRocca gets his first chance to play.

"This offense is different from anything I've run," LaRocca said. "I've have to get used to running a true triple option, riding the fullback and reading the defensive end. That's been the biggest adjustment. It's become pretty much second nature."

More Sports/8C

LaRocca earned the starting job as a sophomore, then broke his collarbone and missed the rest of the season. Last season, he was Bert Emanuel's backup.

Now it's his turn again.

Houston will try to get its first victory of the season at Louisiana Tech and wide receiver Ron Peters is ready. Two years ago, Peters averaged 26.2 yards per catch, No. 1 among the nation's top receivers.

After last season's bust, Peters got started in Houston's opener with seven catches for 135 yards, including a 51-yard touchdown catch.

Baylor's lopsided victory over Louisiana Tech last week and finding a starting quarterback in Jeff Watson, won't mean complacency against San Jose State this week.

"We know that we have to play at our highest level every week if we are going to be a contender," coach Chuck Reedy said.

SMU coach Tom Rossley hopes familiarity with UCLA's four-wideout offense will be helpful.

Notre Dame, Powlus gear for Michigan invasion

■ College Roundup

Associated Press

Notre Dame quarterback Ron Powlus, who shined after dark in his collegiate debut, will move into the sunlight Saturday at South Bend. That is, if he lives up to his already high expectations.

Powlus, who missed his freshman year because of a broken collarbone, completed 18-of-24 passes for 291 yards and four touchdowns in the third-ranked Fighting Irish's 42-15 win over Northwestern last Saturday night at Chicago.

"I just want to have close to a flawless game," Powlus said. "We can't afford any mistakes by anyone."

Sixth-ranked Michigan figures to be a much sterner test for the Irish than was Northwestern.

Even without running back Tyrone Wheatley, out for the second week because of a separated shoulder, the Wolverines have plenty of firepower, as they demonstrated in a 34-26 victory over Boston College at Ann Arbor last week. Todd Miller completed 16-of-24 passes for 258 yards and two touchdowns for Michigan.

The game will be the last between the two rivals until 1997. Michigan leads the series 14-10-1, but in 14 games since 1978, Notre Dame has an 8-5-1 edge.

Other Top Ten teams in action Saturday will be No. 2 Florida at home against Kentucky, No. 4 Florida State at Maryland, No. 5 Miami at Arizona State, No. 8 Penn State at home against No. 14 Southern California, No. 9 Arizona at New Mexico State, and Eastern Michigan at No. 10 Wisconsin.

Games involving other teams in the Top 25 will be Vanderbilt at No. 11 Alabama, Northeast Louisiana at No. 12 Auburn, Southern Methodist at No. 13 UCLA, No. 15 Oklahoma at No. 16 Texas A&M, No. 18 Ohio State at No. 25 Washington, No. 19 Tennessee at No. 23 Georgia, No. 20 Texas at Louisville, No. 21 Virginia Tech at Southern Mississippi, North Carolina State at No. 22 Clemson and No. 24 Stanford at Northwestern.

Kentucky at No. 2 Florida

Coach Steve Spurrier undoubtedly reminded his Gators (1-0) about what sloppy play can mean as they prepared for Kentucky (1-0). Last year at Kentucky, Florida made numerous mistakes, including throwing seven interceptions, and needed Chris Doering's 28-yard touchdown catch with three seconds left to pull out a 24-20 win.

No. 4 Florida State at Maryland

Maryland gave up 49 points in losing to Duke last Saturday. Florida State scored 41 against Virginia. Get out the calculator.

No. 5 Miami at Arizona State

Miami (1-0) has lost all three games it has played in Arizona State's Sun Devil Stadium. Saturday, however, will be the first time the Sun Devils (1-0) get a chance at beating the Hurricanes. Miami's previous appearances were in the Fiesta Bowl, including a 29-0 loss to Arizona.

No. 14 USC at No. 8 Penn State

The Nittany Lions (1-0) might be a bit off balance concerning Southern Cal's attack. In recent years, passing was the key to the Trojans' offense. In opening the season with a win over Washington, however, Southern Cal rushed for more yards (169) than they passed.

Cowboy LB Jones pleased with play

IRVING (AP) — Just when Dallas Cowboys often-maligned middle linebacker Robert Jones thought he'd taken major steps toward silencing his critics, in stroll the Houston Oilers.

Since the Oilers rely on the run-and-shoot offense, Jones likely won't have many opportunities Sunday to solidify his spot on the NFL's best defense.

But that's OK, because Jones says he is happy with himself after his performance in the season-opener in Pittsburgh, where he had nine tackles in Dallas's 26-9 trouncing of the Eagles.

"I've put the confidence back into myself," said the 1991 first-round pick who was benched most of last year.

"I know I can do it because I proved it to myself. Now I've proved it to my teammates and they have confidence in me, and that's the most important thing."

Dallas Coach Barry Switzer says Jones' role will likely be reduced against the Oilers at Texas Stadium Sunday, when Nickel packages featuring pass defenders will replace much of what the Cowboys normally do on defense.

"But it's a long season, and he'll get plenty of other chances," Switzer.

Still questionable is who will be throwing for the Oilers.

Starter Cody Carlson injured his left shoulder during the first half of Houston's opener against Indianapolis. The Oilers lost 45-21.

Backup Bucky Richardson was taking the first-team snaps in practice this week although Carlson hoped to be back in the game Sunday.

Oilers coach Jack Pardee doesn't see the two-time defending Super Bowl champs as unbeatable.

"They haven't gone undefeated in any year yet," Pardee said. "So they're like anybody else — they can be had."

The Oilers shut out the Cowboys 6-0 in a rain-marred exhibition game in Mexico City. But Emmitt Smith, the NFL's leading rusher, didn't play.

Pardee said he plans to win with "error-free, great football."

Tyrone Wheatley's shoes hard to fill

■ Backup Ed Davis lacked dependibility while trying to fill in for Michigan star running back in Wolverines' opener.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Ed Davis tried so hard to play like Tyrone Wheatley last week that he forgot how to play like, well, Ed Davis.

Normally a steady, dependable running back, the Michigan junior had a miserable opener filling in for Wheatley, the Wolverines' star running back. Davis carried 20 times for 41 yards, matching his two touchdowns with two fumbles.

"He wanted to prove he's Tyrone's equal," said fullback Che Foster, Davis' roommate.

Backup Tshimanga Biakabutuka was outstanding in the win over Boston College, gaining 128 yards on 12 carries. But Davis, the Wolverines' second-leading rusher in 1993, will start again when No. 6 Michigan meets No. 3 Notre Dame Saturday.

Davis won't be the only tailback looking for redemption in front of a national television audience. Notre Dame's Lee Becton gained only 16 yards on 10 carries in last week's win over Northwestern.

Becton admits he also tried to do too much. Last year, Becton gained 1,044 yards and had seven straight 100-yard games.

Becton also is being pushed by a flashy sophomore, Randy Kinder, but he promises to return to the blue-collar style that made him so successful as a junior.

"There were times when I think I made bad decisions, but that goes with the game," Becton said. "So I just need to take my level of play up a little and try to make better decisions."

Becton got little help against Northwestern. The Wildcats dominated the Irish on both lines, especially in the first half. Notre Dame finished with only 161 rushing yards and an uncharacteristic average of less than 4 yards per carry.

The revamped offensive line, which has only one starter at the same position from the dominating unit of a year ago, must improve if the Irish are to beat Michigan.

Coach Lou Holtz considered making a change at left tackle, where fifth-year senior Mike McGlinn again will start ahead of sophomore Mike Doughty. Both should play Saturday.

Michigan also has worked to improve its running game this week after gaining only 206 yards against Boston College.

"Both teams are going to be more determined to run," Michigan coach Gary Moeller said. "You'll see a stronger effort placed on that."

Notre Dame quarterback Ron Powlus, in his long-awaited college debut, was outstanding last week. He completed 18 of 24 passes for 291 yards and tied a school record with four touchdown passes.

Michigan's Todd Collins put up nearly identical numbers: 17-of-24, 258 yards, two TDs.

Each will be throwing to one of the nation's best receiving tandems.

Michigan's Amani Toomer and Mercury Hayes combined to catch 11 passes for 240 yards and two touchdowns last week. Notre Dame's Derrick Mayes and Michael Miller had 13 catches, 237 yards and three touchdowns between them.

"You've got to loosen people up when you've got the ball," Moeller said.

Deion Sanders could be charged with felony

CINCINNATI (AP) — A Hamilton County grand jury will consider a felony charge against Cincinnati Reds center fielder Deion Sanders within two weeks, a prosecutor said Friday.

The charge police filed Friday stems from a confrontation with an off-duty officer at Riverfront Stadium last month. The officer said he was injured when Sanders ignored an order not to drive his motor scooter through a restricted gate.

"No matter what your position or station in life, if you cause injury to a Cincinnati police officer, you are going to be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law," safety director William Gustavson said Friday. "And we're going to recommend to the judge, if convicted, that you go to jail."

Sanders did not return a message left on his answering machine. His attorney, James Keys, said he expected to talk with Sanders over the weekend and would issue a statement early next week.

"I said earlier that my client is 100 percent not guilty, that they did not have a case against Deion," Keys said.

Sanders surrendered to police in the Reds' clubhouse following the Aug. 8 altercation. Police said specialist Herb Kohus, who was working as a private security guard, was dragged 30-40 feet while trying to turn off Sanders' motor scooter.

Assistant Hamilton County prosecutor Steve Martin said Sanders would be allowed to speak to the grand jury while it considers an indictment.

Sanders has pleaded innocent in Hamilton County Municipal Court to the original misdemeanor charges of resisting arrest and failing to provide a driver's license. A pretrial hearing is scheduled for Tuesday.

On Friday, Sanders was charged with the felony count of failure to comply with a police officer's order, and two more misdemeanor counts of fleeing the scene of an accident.

A conviction on the fourth-degree felony charge could be punished by up to five years in jail and a $5,000 fine. The maximum penalty for resisting arrest, a second-degree misdemeanor, is 90 days in jail and $750 fine; the other three charges, first-degree misdemeanors, each carry maximum penalties of 180 days and $1,000 fines.

"We feel the additional charges are warranted," Gustavson said. "Deion Sanders' actions have caused physical suffering to one of our officers. His actions cannot be ignored, nor can they go unpunished."
