Walker enters new guilty plea

BALTIMORE (AP) — Retired Navy communications specialist John A. Walker Jr. pleaded guilty today to a new espionage charge of conspiracy, admitting for the first time that he passed Navy secrets to the Soviet Union from 1968 through 1985.

Walker, 48, submitted the plea to a new charge contained in an indictment which had been handed up Friday but was sealed until today.

Prosecutors and government sources previously had indicated that Walker, the alleged mastermind of a family spy ring, had been paid by the Soviet Union for as long as 18 years, but the five-count federal indictment against Walker had covered only evidence for 1985.

Juan batters Louisiana coast

NEW IBERIA, La. (AP) — Hurricane Juan battered the coast with 85 mph winds today, forcing thousands of people from their homes, stranding hundreds more and throwing offshore oil rig workers into 20-foot Gulf of Mexico seas where helicopter-borne rescuers struggled to save them.

Two deaths were blamed on the storm and Coast Guard spokesman Keith Spangler said nine people were missing, including five who were aboard an oil rig in the Gulf that disappeared during the night.

Eighty workers were forced to go overboard in escape capsules, special 30-foot fiberglass shell lifeboats, when one rig collapsed onto another, and a boat with nine people aboard sent out urgent pleas for assistance as it listed at 55 degrees.

"We have located two of the life capsules. There are people in the life capsules, there are people hanging onto the sides of the life capsules, there are people floating in the water," said Coast Guard Petty Officer Thomas Peck in New Orleans.

Helicopters hoisted people out of the water, while small Coast Guard crew boats attempting to aid in the rescue were tossed by the waves, he said.

Coast Guard spokeswoman Debby Westerberg said 35 people had been flown to shore by mid-morning and that one body had been recovered.

Of the missing rig, Spangler said people on a neighboring rig noticed at daybreak that it had disappeared, but there was no indication if it had sunk or had floated away.

As the hurricane churned off the Louisiana's central coast about 110 miles southwest of New Orleans, about 5,000 people were urged to evacuate low-lying areas.

However, because the storm came so late in the season, many people paid little attention to warnings until it reached hurricane strength after noon Sunday.

By that time, tides had already flooded some homes along lower St. Bernard Parish.

Q. — Does the no-pass, no-play rule apply to players at Western Texas College?

A. — No. But athletes do have grade requirements placed on them by the National Junior College Athletic Association. To be eligible, students must pass a minimum of 10 college credit hours with a GPA of 1.5 or better on a 4-point scale.

In Brief

Hearings set

GRAPEVINE, Texas (AP) — Eyewitnesses to the fiery crash of Delta Flight 191, the jumbo jet's crew, air traffic controllers and some of the tragedy's 29 survivors will meet again to re-enact the Aug. 2 disaster.

Almost three months after the crash of the L-1011 claimed the lives of 137 people, the cast of characters will appear before a five-member National Transportation Safety Board panel and the public to tell their stories.

Local

Pickup wreck

A.Z. Thomas of Snyder was taken to Cogdell Memorial Hospital Monday morning for treatment of minor injuries sustained in a one-vehicle traffic mishap north of the city.

According to Department of Public Safety accident reports, Thomas was driving a 1979 Ford pickup westbound on U.S. Hwy. 84 around 10:20 a.m. when he lost control of the vehicle 1.1 miles north of the city limits.

The Thomas vehicle veered into the highway median and then back across the westbound traffic lanes before striking a guard rail and overturning.

Thomas' injuries were listed as minor cuts and brusies.

Booster films

A video of the girl's volleyball game and the film from Friday's Snyder-Pecos game will be shown Monday night at the regular weekly meeting of the Snyder Tiger Booster Club.

It will begin at 6:30 p.m. at the student center at Snyder High School.

Weather

Snyder Temperatures: High Saturday, 72 degrees; low, 52 degrees; high Sunday, 76 degrees; low, 53 degrees; reading at 7 a.m. Monday, 60 degrees; no precipitation; total precipitation for 1985 to date, 27.09 inches.

Snyder Area Forecast: Tonight: low clouds and fog possible, otherwise fair with lows lower 50s. Light and variable wind. Tuesday: sunny after low clouds and some fog early morning. Highs upper 70s. Light north wind.

Scurry's economy 'healthy'

The Scurry County economy, with 1984 retail sales of just under $100 million, shows to be one of the most healthy in West Texas, according to data in the current issue of Sales and Marketing Management's Survey of Buying Power.

Effective buying income for Scurry residents representing 6,500 households, was $217 million. Effective buying income is considered income after taxes and after home mortgages.

Scurry county retailers were able to retain $95.8 million of that income in Scurry County, or 44 percent of the EBI.

Food sales totaling $23.7 million took the largest portion of the local wage earner's paycheck. Automotive costs totaled $22.3 million in county sales.

Eating and drinking establishments showed 1984 sales of $10.2 million while $7.9 million was spent for general merchandise. For furniture and appliances, $4.8 million was spent in the county while just over $4 million was spent on pharmacy items.

The median household effective buying income for Scurry County was shown at $26,740, an indication of two wage earners per household.

With regard to effective buying income, 29.5 percent of Scurry households fell into the $20,000 to $34,999 range. Next with 20.0 percent was the $10,000 to $19,999 range. A total of 16.3 percent fell into the $35,000 to $49,999 EBI range while 16.1 percent of the families had effective buying incomes of more than $50,000.

Scurry County's $217 million in effective buying income compares to the following counties: Nolan, $172 million; Andrews, $170 million; Dawson, $133 million; Gaines, $118 million; Terry, $127 million; Howard, $329 million; Mitchell, $76 million; Fisher, $46 million; Garza, $49 million; and Kent, $7.5 million.

Also, at the end of the third quarter in 1985, Snyder financial institutions showed total deposits of $245.3 million, an increase of $10.5 million over the same time in 1984.

FESTIVAL DANCERS — Square dance caller Pat Barber of Houston faced a sea of colorful costumes in the Scurry County Coliseum Saturday as he opened the first session of festival dancing shortly after 8 p.m. Around 300 square dancers from Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma were on hand for the 14th Square and Round Dance Festival hosted by the Sparkle City Squares of Snyder. Elevator repairs could top $20,000

Costs of from $15,000 to $20,000 were estimated Monday for repairs to the Scurry County courthouse elevator.

George Ring, service manager for Esco Elevator Inc. of Fort Worth, met with county commissioners.

He told the court the system requires a new pump unit, a selector — the mechanism that signals when and where to stop — a door operator and the master control panel.

Ring also recommended that commissioners consider upgrading the current system to meet handicap requirements by lowering the control panel and handrails in the elevator and lowering the call button in each hallway.

The court asked Ring to provide bid specifications for the project.

In addition Monday, County Auditor Bernhard Bartels distributed copies of a newsletter designed for county employees. The monthly "Scurry Scratchings" will feature information needed by employees to "bind us into a closer, more efficient organization," he said.

Bowlers will aid disease research

This Saturday, Snyder bowlers will be aiding in the drive to combat Cystic Fibrosis as a special Strike Force Bowl for Breath is conducted at Snyder Bowling Lanes.

From 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., a reduced rate for bowling will be charged and shoes will be furnished free of charge.

Funds from all bowlers participating will go toward the local effort. During the hours specified, youngsters and adults can bowl three lines for the discounted price of $4.50 plus the free shoes.

Prizes will be given out also for individuals collecting pledges for the event. First prize will be a color television and second prize will be a Columbia White Dot pearlized bowling ball.

Other prizes will be patches, Whataburger coupons and Strike Force T-Shirts.

Heading up the effort is Fran Farmer. Pledge sheets for the event can be picked up at Snyder Lanes and First Federal Savings and Loan.

Project sponsors note a recent major scientific breakthrough in Cystic Fibrosis research. Scientists from Boston and Toronto have identified a segment of DNA containing the Cystic Fibrosis gene.

Proposal would relocate prisoners

(Editor's Note: The SDN continues its countdown review of the 14 constitutional amendments which will be decided by Texas voters Nov. 5. This issue features Propositions 6 and 7. The following information has been provided courtesy of the League of Women Voters.)

PROPOSITION 6

If passed, this proposal would permit state prisoners to be placed in penal facilities of other states.

Presently, the Texas Constitution says that no citizen shall be transported out of the state. Historically, "transportation" was the process of exiling prisoners, usually to a penal colony in another country.

Passage of this amendment would allow Texas to join approximately 31 other states in adopting the Interstate Corrections Compact which provides procedures for one state entering into an agreement with another state for the placement of inmates in the correctional facilities of the other.

Arguments For

—Adoption of this amendment will give the Texas Department of Corrections more flexibility in separating certain classes of inmates and would be a valuable tool to control prison violence by transferring inmate gang leaders to a state where they would not be a security problem.

—TDC could transfer inmates who have been convicted in this state but who have families in another state. Also, certain low-risk inmates with special physicial or mental health-care needs could be sent to another state with facilities better equipped to handle such special problems.

Trick or treating tips offered for Halloween

In preparation for trick or treat activities Thursday, the Scurry County Crime Prevention office reminds parents to plan ahead to ensure their child's safety Halloween night.

Costume safety should first be considered, they note. Parents should determine if the costume poses a fire hazard.

If a wig is worn, check to see that it is non-flammable. Loose fitting costumes or flowing costumes are also a greater danger for fire.

Masks often impair vision, so facial make-up is recommended as a safe alternative.

The bag for collecting treats should also be small enough so that it will not trip the child. Shoes are also important in this regard. Everyday shoes should be worn rather than poorly fitting costume shoes.

As part of the costume, the child should also carry a flashlight to be able to see and be seen in the dark.

If the child will not be accompanied, parents should also discuss the route planned for trick or treating. A time to be home should be given also.

The safety rules for walking should be gone over. These include crossing the street at crosswalks, looking both ways before crossing, never entering

Man abandons son at school

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Care for William Clark's severely retarded, violence-prone son is going to have to come from another source because the 55-year-old Clark has reached a point of despair.

Last week Clark became so angry at John David Clark, 20, that he went for a gun. Instead, he said, he packed his son's suitcase, took him to the Fort Worth State School and drove away.

"I just got to the point where prison looked good to me — or the electric chair — compared to what I've been living through," Clark said.

Clark said his son has destroyed furniture and broken windows in his trailer home. When the boy attacked him again Wednesday, Clark gave up.

A state school spokeswoman said John David Clark has a man's body but the mental capacity of a 3-year-old and qualifies for 24-hour care.

After dropping his son off at the school without permission, Clark may not be forced to reclaim his son despite the school's two- to four-year waiting list.

"It's very stressful," said spokeswoman Barbara Edwards, adding no one was to blame for the situation. "I guess blame is not the word. We just need more public awareness of the dollars that we need."

She said the state school, operated by the Texas Mental Health-Mental Retardation Department, will admit the younger Clark on an emergency basis until an investigation is completed.

The Department of Human Resources will conduct a routine check of the circumstances in the Clark family, said Mel Hughes, school superintendent.

Ms. Edwards said John David Clark was put on the school's waiting list and counseling and care was provided in May 1984. The elder Clark said that's when he realized he was incapable of handling his son and "begged and pleaded" with school officials to take him in.

"He's been a problem for several years," said Clark, who became the young man's sole caretaker about four years ago. Clark and his wife divorced when the youth was 4.

Clark quit his job in the trucking industry and became a night security guard in order to be at home when his son was awake. Because the youth has problems going to the bathroom and dressing himself, and because he has a tendency to wander off, he requires constant supervision, Clark said.

"I put up a chain-link fence and tried to lock him in," he said. "He got to where he could get out of it."

But the worst problem faced by Clark was how to deal with the young man's violent outbursts.

Parents of strip-searched girls want teachers let go

CEDAR HILL, Texas (AP) — The father of a junior high girl who was among 15 students strip searched for a missing $1.85 says the faculty members responsible for the search stole the children's dignity and should be fired.

"What they really did was told our children their pride and dignity wasn't worth $2. It's only worth $1.85," said Bobby Hufstetler.

Some of the parents of the Cedar Hill Middle School girls who were strip searched are enraged by the action and say they plan to ask the school board at its Monday night meeting to fire the physical education teacher and assistant principal involved.

The students were ordered to remove their clothing Thursday when a girl in a seventh-grade physical education class reported $1.85 missing.

"This is a violation of basic human rights,' said Hufstetler.

"I feel like the school owes the girls something besides 'I'm sorry.' She (his daughter) was completely devastated," he said.

But other parents say they still support physical education teacher Janice Ellis and Jeanne Cothran, the assistant principal who authorized the search.

Mrs. Ellis acted out of frustation after several thefts occurred during the year, the parents said, and added that they plan to show support for the teacher at Monday's meeting.

On Friday, Ms. Cothran said the decision to search the students was made in haste and frustration.

"She (Mrs. Ellis) was very frustrated. It was the third day in a row that money was stolen," Ms. Cothran said. "In the back of my mind, I thought it might not be the right thing to do."

At least one girl was asked to strip completely while others were asked to strip down to their undergarments, parents said. Still others were asked to remove their bras. The missing money was not found.

Karen Kershaw, a friend of Mrs. Ellis, said the parents have overreacted.

The search was conducted in Mrs. Ellis' office, which has a window looking out into the locker room.

Dear Abby

Here's the Right Book For Latchkey Kids and Parents

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR READERS: I have just read a wonderful book titled "Alone After School" by Helen Swan and Victoria Houston. It's a complete self-care guide for latchkey children and their parents. Now that more than 60 percent of American mothers work outside the home and approximately 10 million children under 12 years old are coming home to an empty house, this book is a timely treasure.

It tells children what to do about accidents—bumps, bruises, burns, cuts, nosebleeds, poisoning, electric shock, stomachaches, etc. It covers every imaginable emergency, including what to do if somebody tries to break in; it stresses the importance of having the phone numbers of police, firemen, paramedics, neighbors and the 911 emergency number taped on every telephone. It tells a child how (and how not) to answer the door and telephone. There are simple recipes for children, and guidelines for parents on how to set up rules to keep peace between siblings.

A single chapter titled "Is My Child Ready?" is well worth the price of the book. It contains a checklist for parents to test a child's readiness to be left alone. (Age is not always the determining factor.)

"Alone After School" should be in every home where children are left unsupervised—if for only a few hours occasionally. It's available at your local bookstore for $8.95. If it's sold out, it can be ordered directly from the publisher by calling this toll-free number: 1-800-238-2333. Or send a check or money order to Prentice-Hall, Englewood Cliffs, N.J. 07632 (add a dollar for postage). You'll be glad you did.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old man with a problem. How can I find a woman that both my mother and I can agree will be the right wife for me?

It seems every time I get serious with a woman, my mother finds at least a hundred things wrong with her.

I want to get married and settle down, but I just can't seem to find anyone my mother thinks is good enough for me.

Can you help?

WANTS TO MARRY

DEAR WANTS: No, but you can help yourself by seeing a counselor to find out why your mother's approval is more important than your own in choosing a wife.

DEAR ABBY: I operate a motel in a college town. I have discussed this problem with other motel operators, and we seem to have the same problem: unregistered guests. We rent a room to one person, and it ends up with more than one occupant.

Our greatest fear? Fire!

The thought that we wouldn't know to search the rooms for other bodies in case there had been a fire is terrifying. Right now I have a room rented to a college female on a monthly basis. She's had four different overnight male visitors that I'm aware of, but I have no idea what their names are or whom to contact in case of emergency.

It's not only college students; some parents think because we don't charge extra for small children, they don't have to be registered. Abby, please bring this to the attention of the public, so people will understand how serious this matter is.

WASHINGTON INNKEEPER

DEAR INNKEEPER: Thanks for a letter that I hope will give people cause to pause—and sign the register.

CONFIDENTIAL TO TOMMY IN TAMPA, FLA.: Congratulations. But money isn't everything. Sometimes it's not even enough.

Lethal shock is now treatable

DEAR DR. GOTT — Please print something about Sheehan's disease.

DEAR READER — Sheehan's disease has, blessedly, become a medical curiosity. In the past, before modern obstetrical care, some women would develop shock during childbirth, which caused malfunction of the pituitary hormones. These otherwise healthy women would slip into a total body decline characterized by lack of breast milk, insufficient natural cortisone production, decreased thyroid function and loss of menstruation. Death was an inevitable result. Fortunately, hormones can now be administered to correct deficiencies, so the condition is fully treatable. More important, there are readily available methods to prevent shock; therefore, Sheehan's syndrome has, for all practical purposes, been eradicated.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I've always heard that medical columns are written by professional writers, not by practicing doctors. Also, those few doctors who do write don't practice, but I've been told that you do both. What's the story? Are you for real?

DEAR READER — Indeed I am. I have a busy solo practice of internal medicine which involves office work, housecalls, nursing-home visits, admitting patients to hospital and serving as medical director of a highly regarded preparatory school. I am on call every weekday night and every third weekend — that's when I do most of my writing, which is a form of relaxation for me.

This is as good a time as any to answer another reader's query having to do with how I respond to my mail. I am unable to answer each question personally but, with few exceptions, I try to answer every question in column form. The requirements of publishing, however, mean that I must complete my columns several weeks in advance. The advice I give in the newspaper is as up-to-date as I can make it. I respond the same way in print that I do on a face-to-face basis with patients. I do not take "potshots" at doctors unless I think they deserve to be criticized. I welcome readers' comments and questions, much as I welcome comments and questions from my own patients. Thanks for reading my column and taking the time to write.

DEAR DR. GOTT — May I offer a suggestion for women with dry flaky skin? I use one-third cup vegetable oil in my bathwater. It is cheap, convenient, and for once in my life my skin feels soft and the itching and flaking have disappeared. Using mayonnaise will accomplish the same results and, no, you won't smell like a salad. One drawback: washing the tub. Believe me, the tradeoff is well worth not feeling like a big potato chip after bathing.

DEAR READER — Thank you for your helpful suggestion. I'd be interested to hear other readers' reactions if they choose to try your novel approach.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

slam, our short-sighted declarer became careless. He cashed the ace of spades, pitching the diamond king, but West ruffed. Later the king of hearts was the setting trick.

Actually declarer has enough high clubs to play with complete safety. After ruffing the opening lead, declarer should play a low spade and ruff with the club 10. Now trumps can be drawn in four leads. Next a heart is led to dummy's ace. (Note that this is a safety play to guard against the singleton king with East.) Now declarer plays dummy's ace of spades, pitching the diamond king, and ruffs another spade in his hand. He then leads a heart to the jack, queen and king, and the slam is made.

A trump lead would actually set the slam, but I don't blame West for his imaginative lead.

Guarding against the improbable

By James Jacoby

The incidence of freakish hands at bridge is so slight that even seasoned players fall prey to carelessness when confronted by these distributional "monsters." Against the small slam, West led the diamond eight, a card meant to suggest to partner the return of a spade, which West could ruff. Unfortunately East did not have the diamond king, but even if he did, dummy was void of diamonds.

Naturally declarer ruffed the opening lead in dummy. He really had no way of telling that West was desperately trying to get partner on lead for the desired spade return. Who had ever heard of a suit splitting 6-7 anyway? In his eagerness to score up his

Art Guild to open booths

POST — The Post Art Guild will hold its annual Arts and Crafts Sale Nov. 13 through Nov. 23 in the Algerita Art Center on East Main Street.

Booth space is now available for sales of crafts, stitchery, paintings in all media, home baked foods and gift items. Participants may reserve booth space for one or both weekends. The center will be open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day.

Exhibitors will have an eight-foot by eight-foot space, but must provide their own tables and display material. Booth fee ranges from $25 for one weekend to $40 for the 10-day period. Booth space may be reserved for a $10 deposit. Booth sitters will be available upon request.

A miscellaneous booth will also be available for exhibitors with 10 items or less at a fee of 20 percent of sales.

Persons wishing more information may call (806) 495-4000 or (806) 495-3779.

BEAUTY BRIEFS

A moisturizer works by adding a small amount of water to the skin from its formula and by forming a barrier to prevent some skin moisutre loss.

Petrolatum or glycerol are commonly used barrier bases. A third kind adds natural skin substances called phospholipids, which bind water molecules within the skin. For fall, use a lotion for day, a cream at night.

Members hear minister on the joy of his profession

Mike Monroe spoke to members of the Business and Professional Women's Club Tuesday at the Martha Ann Woman's Club. The Eastside Church of Christ minister of education explained the joy of his profession.

Nellie Smith, program coordinator for October, introduced the speaker and presented an appreciation gift.

Hostesses Clemey Andress and Mrs. Smith decorated the dinner tables in a harvest theme, using crochet pumpkins crafted by Mrs. Smith, orange candies and mints, pumpkin napkins and nut cups. On the serving table, a harvest centerpiece featured orange candles inside a large pumpkin.

Frances Brown presided at the business meeting. Members finalized plans for a fundraising bake sale and garage sale in Towle Park Barn on Nov. 7. Monies raised will be used for civic and club projects.

In 1979, the Supreme Court upheld the paying of state unemployment benefits to striking workers.

Can earn 2-4A title here Tuesday...

Lady Tigers wrap up a spot in the playoffs!

After three years of early-ending seasons, Snyder's Lady Tigers have returned to the role they are so familiar with - state championship contenders.

The Tigers outlasted a scrappy Pecos team here Saturday afternoon, 15-2, 14-16, 15-12 to clinch a post season playoff berth and at least a tie for the District 2-4A volleyball championship. The team can grab the title outright with a win over Sweetwater here Tuesday night.

It was 1981 when the Tigers last entered post season play. As they had done in 1972, 78 and 80, they didn't finish playing until they were state champions. No one is ready to predict a state championship in 1985, but it's nice to have the opportunity to try.

"There's no doubt I'm excited," said Coach Vicki Nelms. She stressed, however, "Our main goal right now is to win tomorrow night. That's been our goal from the very beginning, to win district."

The Tigers host the Lady Mustangs on the back end of a triple header. Freshmen play at 5, junior varsities at 6:30 and varsities at 7:30.

Pecos came into Saturday's contest needing a victory to stay alive in the district race. Snyder needed the win to sew up an early playoff berth. Everything pointed towards an exceptional match, and with the exception of the first game, it was.

Snyder ripped the Lady Eagles 15-2 in the opener. It was simply no contest, as the Lady Tigers were hitting on all cylinders, both offensively and defensively.

Pecos got its offense going in the second game, however. It was a see-saw battle, with the game being tied at 8-8 and 13-13. Snyder eventually led 14-13, but couldn't put the determined Eagles away. Penny Brooks put down a spike for the Eagles to tie the game, 14-14, and a mishandled pass made it 15-14 in favor of Pecos.

The Eagles got the win when Bliss Standberry got off a good serve that Donna Anderson was unable to control.

Snyder led almost the entire way in the third and deciding game, though Pecos kept within striking range. The hosts mounted an 11-3 advantage before the Eagles came storming back with a 6-to-1 point rally to make it 12-9.

A block by Karlene Thompson and a bad hit by Pecos gave the Tigers a 14-9 lead. The final point was hard to come by, however.

Pecos got the serve back and reached point No. 10 on a spike from Brooks. Two bad serve receives by the Tigers closed the gap to 14-12 and it looked as if the Eagles might pull an upset.

Snyder pulled together, though, and got the serve back on a well-placed hit by Allison Adams. Her choice hit came at the end of some torrid back and forth action that left the crowd screaming in delight. The momentum went to Snyder at that point, and the winning point came on a block by Thompson.

To Pecos' credit, they were without veteran Kim Calhoun, a senior second-team all-district player, who was suffering a leg injury.

"We knew it was going to be tough," said Coach Nelms. "Pecos is the team I dread playing most because they pick up everything. They are a real scrappy team. They just don't let anything hit the floor."

Nelms said "I thought KT and DA (Karlene Thompson and Donna Anderson) played great games. I thought Hope Hernandez played extremely well. She hit the ball well and she really hustled on defense.

"We've got two matches left now and we want to win them both. This one Tuesday is especially important because we want to clinch the district championship at home, in front of our fans. Of course, we want to beat Monahans on Saturday, too."

Royals blast St. Louis, 11-0; claim world championship

KANSAS CITY (AP) - The Kansas City Royals finally have a crown as big as the one atop their scoreboard. They are champions.

Most unlikely ones.

Two years after a drug scandal wrenched them apart, and one night after they received the gift of an umpire's controversial call, 1985's losingest division winners peeled their backs off the wall one final time and staged the greatest comeback in World Series history. They did not just beat the St. Louis Cardinals; they destroyed them Sunday night, 11-0, in the seventh game.

In the 82 years these classics have been staged, no team ever had lost the first two games of a World Series at home and come back to win it all. Now Kansas City has.

"It would take me two or three weeks to tell you about this season," Royals Manager Dick Howser said, reflecting on the late-season charge when they overtook California to win the American League West and the victories that wiped out Toronto's three-games-to-one lead in the AL playoffs.

"No one likes to be behind like we have been this year, and always battling the odds. To put it mildly, we never did anything easy, from the regular season to the playoffs to the World Series."

Not easy, but also not new.

The odds were against the Royals even being in the playoffs. No division winner had repeated since the 1981 New York Yankees. And with a week to go in the season, the Royals were a game out of first place. They won.

Then came the American League playoffs, and the Royals were down 3-1 to Toronto, one game from elimination. They won.

Finally came the World Series, and the Royals won again, even if Cardinals Manager Whitey Herzog can't quite believe it.

"I'll give some credit to Kansas City, but they really aren't that good," Herzog said. "If they were, they'd have won more than 91 ballgames during the season. ... We won 108 games this year. Nobody else did that. They struggled in a very weak division. They couldn't have won the National League East. They couldn't have won the American League East."

But they won the World Series.

While Bret Sagerhagen, Kansas City's proudest new father and Most Valuable Player of the Series, silenced the St. Louis batters like so many Little Leaguers Sunday night, the Royals battered John Tudor, the Cardinals' ace, and a few of the pitchers who followed him to the mound.

Saberhagen, who had begun the Royals' comeback with a six-hitter and a 6-1 victory in Game 3, climaxed it in Game 7 with a five-hit shutout that left St. Louis with a collective batting average of .185, the lowest ever in a seven-game Series.

"Having a baby two days ago is my biggest thrill," the 21-year-old Saberhagen said. "This was a close second."

Tudor was gone after 2 1-3 innings Sunday night, having given up four walks and five runs.

After his quickest exit of 1985, Tudor swung at an electric fan in the Cardinals' clubhouse, requiring a quick trip to the hospital for stitches in his left index finger.

Almost lost in the drama was Darryl Motley's two-run homer in the second inning, the only runs Saberhagen needed. Almost lost was Steve Balboni's two-run single in a three-run third.

By the time the game ended, Herzog was long gone, thrown out by plate umpire Don Denkinger in a raucous fifth inning when the Cardinals paraded a record-tying five pitchers to the mound and the Royals scored their final six runs.

"I really didn't mind leaving," Herzog said. "I'd seen enough."

Pee Wee finals held Saturday

Butch Tippens scored on a 3-yard run and Lonzo Deere ran over the conversion as the nine-year-old Orange All-Stars defeated the Red All-Stars 8-0 in the finals of Pee Wee League play Saturday.

The contest was one of three games played at Travis Field.

The 10-year-old game was won by the Gold All-Stars, 20-0, over the Green team.

Eric Braziel had a 75-yard run from scrimmage and an 82-yard interception return to tally two of the scores. Barretta Collins got the other TD on a 5-yard run. Raymond Ware ran over one extra point try.

The 11-12 year-old game was the closest played, with the Orange team winning 12-6 over the Green squad.

Michael Torres got the Orange team off to a 6-0 lead with his 8-yard scoring run in the first quarter.

The Green team came back on an 11-yard scamper by Santos Gutierrez in the second.

The Orange then sealed the game when Jason Rios picked off a pass and ran it back 76 yards for a touchdown with just 3:58 left in the game.

Martin fired

NEW YORK (AP) - Billy Martin, the Yankees' fiery manager, was released again by the team Sunday - the fourth time in the past 10 years - and replaced by Lou Piniella. The move was announced in a news release that did not mention Martin by name.

Yankees General Manager Clyde King would not discuss what team spokesman Joe Safety called the "deletion" of Martin, who took control of the team April 26 when Yogi Berra was fired after the club got off to a dismal 6-10 start.

BU looks forward to week's rest now

by The Associated Press

The Southwest Conference-leading Baylor Bears get a week of rest before meeting the Arkansas Razorbacks in what could be the showdown game of the year.

Baylor bounced Texas Christian 45-0 on homecoming Saturday to increase its SWC ledger to 5-0 while Texas, the only other unbeaten team in league play, took a 44-14 strapping from Southern Methodist.

Baylor will travel to Little Rock for a night game Nov. 9.

In other games, Arkansas stayed in the title chase with a 57-27 massacre of the Houston Cougars and Texas A&M kept close with a 43-28 victory over the surprisingly tough Rice Owls.

The SWC spotlight game this week finds SMU at Texas A&M in a 6:45 p.m. nationally televised matchup on ESPN.

In other games, Texas finally gets back home to entertain Texas Tech, Arkansas travels to Rice, and Houston is at TCU.

SMU gave Texas its worst whipping in the 69-year history of their series and scored more points than the Mustangs had ever posted against a Longhorn team.

"We never anticipated that it would turn out this way," said SMU Coach Bobby Collins. "I'm surprised."

The only consolation for the Longhorns was a fourth-period touchdown, their first offensive TD in 12 periods.

"So many times Texas had the ball inside the five and couldn't score a touchdown," said linebacker T.D. Briggs. "That totally wipes out your concentration."

Tailback Reggie Dupard scored four touchdowns for the Mustangs.

Baylor is 7-1 for the year and even Coach Baylor Grant Teaff had to admit "Right now, we're in pretty good shape. But we still have a long road to travel. We've got to make two big road trips to Arkansas and Texas before this thing is decided."

Baylor rolled up 526 yards offense againstg TCU and held the Frogs to only 184.

Arkansas is now 3-1 in the SWC and 6-1 overall. Houston, which appeared in last year's Cotton Bowl, is 0-4 and 1-6.

"We stunk up the place and it's obvious we aren't the same team we were last year," said Harold Wheeler, Houston assistant coach.

The 57 points were the most for Arkansas since beating Tulsa 60-0 in 1974.

"I was shocked how wide open our guys were," said Arkansas quarterback Mark Calcagni who passed for 161 yards and ran for a touchdown.

Landry would take 6-2 again

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Give Tom Landry a 6-2 record in the second half of the National Football League season and he'd take a hike.

"I'd go fishing or play golf if you'd give me 6-2 again," said Landry after the Dallas Cowboys thumped the Atlanta Falcons 24-10 on Sunday and kept their National Conference Eastern Division lead.

"I'm very happy to be at 6-2 at this point," said Landry. "I never thought it would be."

Up jumps the hard part for the Cowboys, who play at St. Louis on Monday night Nov. 4 then travel to Washington the next week.

"Now comes our tough stretch," said Landry. "We have a tiring combination of games coming up."

A sore-ribbed Danny White was far from perfect in his return to the Dallas lineup. But he offset three interceptions by running for a touchdown, passing for another and hitting 27 of 47 passes for 362 yards against the 1-7 Falcons.

Tony Hill caught a 35 yard touchdown pass and had 10 receptions for 161 yards. Tony Dorsett gained 90 yards, 60 of them on a touchdown burst up the middle.

"Danny did have three turnovers but that's not surprising when you consider the harassment he was under," said Landry. "Still, he made the big plays for us. His experience enabled him to make those big plays."

White, who had beaten the Falcons in two previous outings against them, said "It wasn't pretty but it was a win. I did some good things and some bad things. It was good to get back. My ribs still hurt."

"We knew we were going to have a tough time," said Landry. "We had to make the big plays to beat them.

"Danny had to run for his life back there. We don't like to see him run because of those blitzes but sometimes you have to. He did what he had to do. He is hurting and this game probably didn't help him any."

The busy White called an audible and bootlegged a yard for a touchdown, and had to tackle Scott Case to save a touchdown after an interception in the fourth period.

"Danny threw a couple he wish he hadn't thrown," said Landry. "I feel good about this team. We'll go to the playoffs for sure if we keep playing like this."

Wins Texas Tech Rodeo...

Rodeo team does it again

LUBBOCK – The fall rodeo season ended here last weekend but if Western Texas College Coach Bob Doty had his way, the spring season would start tomorrow - and Bliss Mayhan might forever remain a sophomore.

The Westerners won their second Southwest Region rodeo of the season Saturday night at the Texas Tech University Rodeo, giving them two firsts, a second and a fourth place in the four fall rodeos.

Leading the way for the third straight time out was Mayhan, who rolled up 150 points to take all-around honors. The Kim, Colo., cowboy also took all-around honors at the Sul Ross State University and Vernon Regional Junior College rodeos.

Western polled a whopping 375 points to defeat second-place Sul Ross by 165. SRSU, defending regional champion, managed 210 points. Tarleton took third place with 200, followed by New Mexico Junior College with 180 and Odessa and Eastern New Mexico with 160 each.

Vernon won the women's division with 130 points. Texas Tech had 90 for second place. Western managed only 10 points.

Mayhan was second in the average of the bull riding, third in the saddle bronc and fourth in the bareback. His 77 first-go score was third in the bull riding. He followed that with with a 72 for a total 149. Teammate Adam Brewster of Snyder had scores of 71 and 70 and finished third in the average with a 141.

Mayhan took second in the first-go of the saddle bronc with a 69. He scored a fourth-place 61 in the short-go for a 130 total. Snyder native Van Hale, a former WTC competitor who competes for Sul Ross now, swept the event with scores of 72 and 70 for a total 142.

Mayhan put together a pair of 70s in the bareback for fourth place. Tony Hecksher led the way for Western in that event, scoring two 72s for 144 and second place in the average.

Western also took points in the calf roping with Keith Hudson. Hudson's first-go clocking of 9.7 was good enough for second place. He added a 9.4 in the finals and came away with first place in the average - a total 19.1.

Mike Carrillo, from WTC but not on the designated six-man team, earned himself some personal points with a short-go ride of 78 in the bareback. Combined with his first-go of 67, he won the average with a total 145.

The same held true for Tobin Tate, whose 140 was fourth in the average of the bull riding. He had scores of 71 and 69.

In another strong individual effort Jeff Gilbert and Shawn Goemmer took third in the team roping with a 32.9.

Also tallying individual points was Snyder's Wendy Lunsford, who did well in the barrel race. She clocked a first place 14.83 in the long-go and a second place 15.10 in the short-go. Her total 29.93 took second in the average.

WTC's only women's team points came in the goat tying where Niki Moist finished fourth in the short-go with a 9.9.

Shelly Eldridge, not on the women's team this week, won the goat tying with a 17.1 total. She also won the long-go with a 7.8 and tied for first in the short-go with a 9.3.

Gaidosh undergoes heart transplant

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A 47-year-old man kept alive for four days with an artificial heart today received a human heart and was reported in critical condition at Presbyterian-University Hospital, a hospital spokesman said.

Thomas Gaidosh received the human organ in a 3½-hour operation that began at 2:15 a.m., said spokesman Thomas Chakurda.

"According to Dr. Bartley Griffith, who led the surgical team, the surgery was 'routine,'" Chakurda said.

Chakurda would not release any information about the donor of the heart.

Gaidosh had received a Jarvik-7 artificial heart on Thursday as a stopgap as his own heart failed. Doctors had reported no complications with its operation.

Meanwhile, Pennsylvania's other artificial heart recipient, Anthony Mandia, 44, remained in critical but stable condition at Hershey Medical Center, 220 miles from Pittsbugh. He also is awaiting a human donor.

In San Francisco, family members visited Richard E. Dallara and he consumed an all-liquid meal Sunday night as twin mechanical pumps circulated blood through his body.

The pneumatically driven pumps were connected to the 33-year-old bachelor's failed natural heart Friday to help it keep pumping blood while his physicians search for a human heart for a transplant.

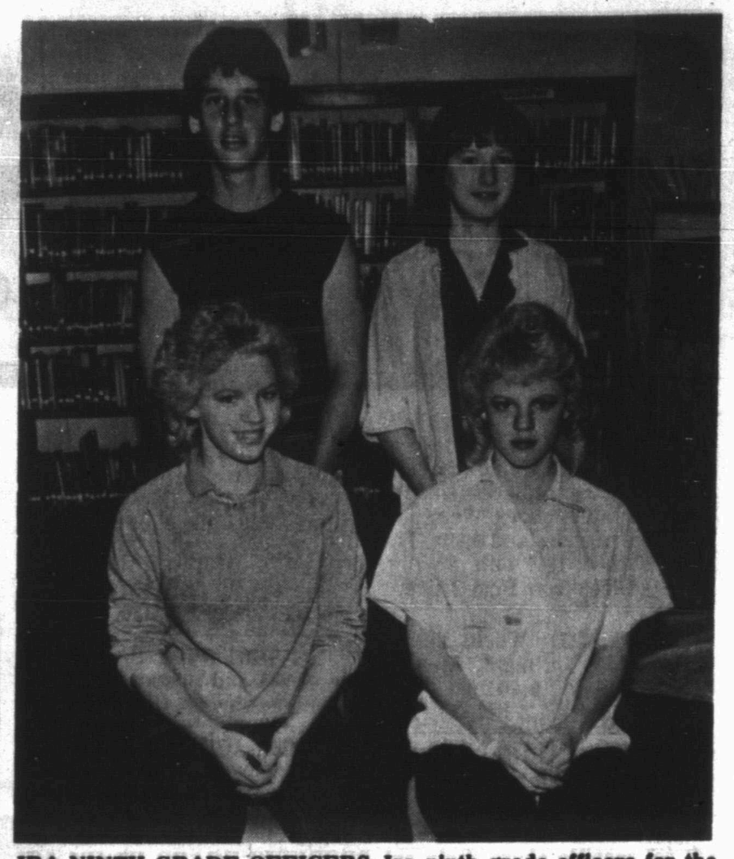

It was one of the first cases in which the device was being used for all heart functions, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Mandia and Gaidosh watched football on Sunday as they rested and waited for news of possible donor organs.

While Mandia, a Philadelphia bachelor, rooted for his hometown Eagles in a 21-17 victory over the Buffalo Bills, Gaidosh asked that Pittsburgh Steelers Coach Chuck Noll be given a message reading: "Win one for Tom 'The Gator' Gaidosh," his doctors said.

Gaidosh watched on television in his room as his favorite team lost to the Cincinnati Bengals 26-21.

Gaidosh's wife, Dolores, and two children, Pam, 27, and Tom Jr., 25, visited him Sunday morning, and his wife said he was alert and responsive, according to hospital officials.

Bumper pecan crops ready

GARDENDALE, Texas (AP) — West Texans hankering for the sweet, meaty taste of fresh pecans will find a bumper crop at supermarkets and roadside stands this holiday season, two Ector County nut cultivators predict.

"It's a fine crop," Gardendale pecan farmer John Sims said. Sims' 80-acre pecan orchard, about 10 miles north of Odessa, will be ready for harvest this week, he said.

"A lot of people have already started (harvesting)," said Jake Anderson, whose 20-acre orchard stands nearby. "But really, you need to wait until the biggest part of them on the tree are ready."

Prior to the harvest, pecan producers from an 80-county area converged on Sims' farm Saturday and Sunday for the Third Annual West Texas Permian Basin Pecan Seminar and Trade Show.

Ector County Extension Agent Jim Mazurkiewicz said the event offers education for the professional grower and useable information for the simply curious.

"We want everybody that's interested in pecans," said Mazurkiewicz beforehand.

"The pecan tree in the yard is the most beautiful tree you can have," noted Sims of the official state tree of Texas. "It will feed you, and it will shade you."

Favored recipes for the nut include "pralines, (chocolate) millionaires and turtles, pecan pie, cookies, banana nut bread, salads, ice cream and pancakes," said Mazurkiewicz.

"Barbecued pecans are good," he added.

In 1972, the Supreme Court said states could not set oneyear residence as a requirement for voting.

Congress mired in farm policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress grapples with farm policy and money issues this week, including a plan to force the swollen federal budget into balance by 1991.

The Senate is resuming work on the 1985 farm bill, a four-year plan for food and agriculture policy that is being criticized by the Reagan administration as a budget-buster that helps wealthy farmers along with those in financial trouble.

"I'm hopeful that somewhere in this chamber we can put together a majority (for a bill) that will not be vetoed by the president," said Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan.

Dole and other Republicans planned a series of controversial amendments aimed at paring back the cost of the bill, estimated by the Agriculture Department at $20 billion or more annually for the foreseeable future.

High on the list were proposals to scale back the four-year freeze on income subsidies for wheat, corn, cotton and rice farmers to just one year, and to slash the current $50,000-per-farmer subsidy payment limit in half.

But Democrats, who largely controlled the writing of the bill in the Senate Agriculture Committee, predicted they would be able to head off most efforts to cut the bill on the Senate floor.

Sen. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., said he expected Democrats would get help from between seven and 10 Republicans, particularly Midwestern senators feeling re-election pressure.

The House already has endorsed its own version of the farm bill. Senate consideration is expected to take at least a week, followed by a House-Senate conference to work out differences between the two versions.

House and Senate conferees also were scheduled to meet all week in an effort to draft a compromise version of the Senate-passed plan to force a balanced federal budget by 1991.

Another major money matter, a package of budget savings that cleared the House last week, is stalled in the Senate because of an attempt to attach a textile trade relief bill and a host of other amendments.

Holiday safety suggestions told the roadway between parked cars and staying on the sidewalk whenever possible.

Regarding treats, insist that these be brought home before anything is eaten. Unpackaged items such as popcorn or small candies should be discarded. Any items with torn or loose wrappers should be discarded also.

Fruit should be washed and cut into small pieces before it is eaten. Any items found tampered with should be reported immediately to law enforcement authorities.

After the night of trick or treating, parents should also help the child taper off from the excitment.

It is recommended that they talk with the child quietly about the evening. At bedtime, a nightlight should be left on if the child is at all frightened.

Individuals should consider also steps to make their homes safer for trick or treaters.

Obstacles should be removed from steps, sidewalks and lawns so children will not trip over them. An outside light should be left on Halloween night also.

Children should be greeted at the door, but not encouraged to come into the house. If handmade goodies are given out, individuals should add their name and address to the package to tell parents where the items came from.

Amendment 6 review noted

Arguments Against

—Since the amendment and the Interstate Corrections Compact do not require the consent of the inmate or even a hearing on the issue, an inmate might be sent to another state against their will, or in circumstances which would create hardship for the inmate.

—Texas could receive problem inmates from other states. Texas could also receive more inmates than it transfers out, thus increasing prison overcrowding.

PROPOSITION 7

If passed, this proposal would authorize Chambers County to add an additional justice of the peace precinct, increasing its number from five to six.

In 1983, voters amended the constitution to require each county to have a certain number of JP precincts, depending upon the county's population in the last census.

Amendment 7 would allow Chambers County to have one more precinct than its population would otherwise permit.

Arguments For

—Although it is entitled to five JP precincts now, Chambers County needs a sixth because it has an unusually large tourist traffic and consequently more traffic violations.

It also has geographical barriers (Lake Anahuac, the Trinity River) which prevent easy travel between precincts.

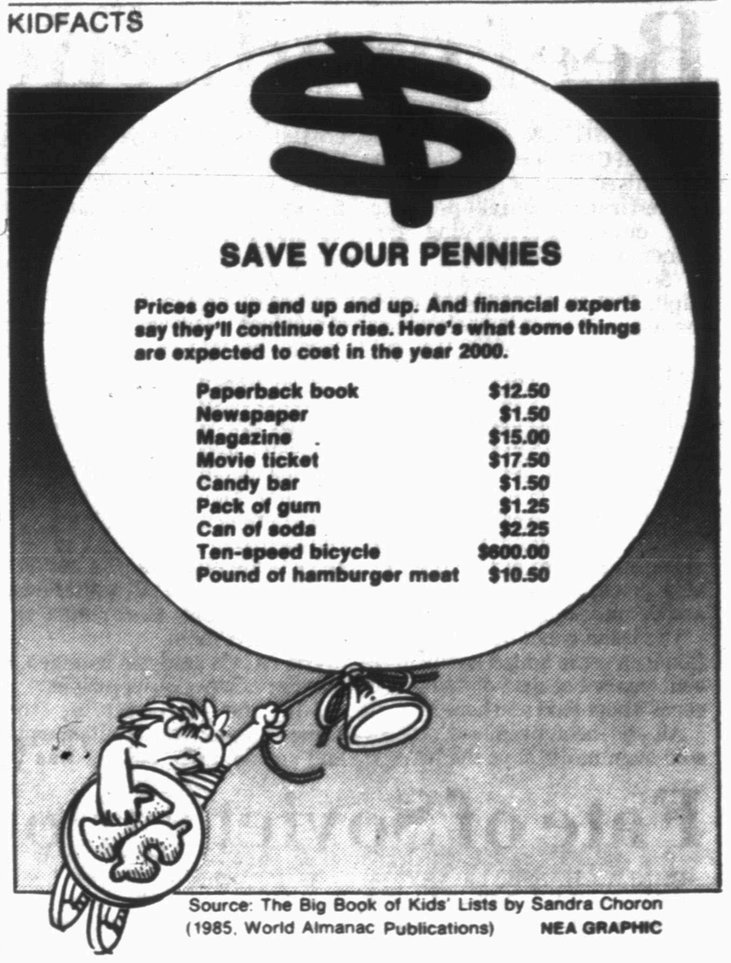

—Counties maintain JP courts with county funds, and the decision to add another court should be with county officials.

Arguments Against

—Amending the constitution with this type of local concern is a piecemeal approach which will lead to other counties attempting to create exceptions for themselves.

—The amendment would limit Chambers County to six precincts even if the county grows and the need arises for more JP precincts.

Assembly lines rolling again

DETROIT (AP) — The assembly lines were rolling again today at Chrysler Corp., where 70,000 workers began returning to their jobs after ratifying what a United Auto Workers official said was "the best contract we've negotiated in 25 or 30 years."

The three-year pact, which brings Chrysler workers wage and benefit parity with General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. hourly employees, was approved by 87 percent.

Weekend accidents said minor

Three minor traffic accidents were reported in Snyder over the weekend.

Involved in the first — at 1:07 p.m. Saturday in the 3700 Block of College Ave. — were a 1981 Ford driven by Elida Gonzales of Snyder; a 1983 Chevrolet driven by Gerardo Benitez Arellano of 408 25th St.; and a 1979 Chevrolet driven by Darren Pace of 604 N Ave. Y.

The weekend's second minor mishap was logged at 3:04 p.m. Sunday at the intersection of College Ave. and U.S. Hwy. 84.

Involved in it were a 1976 Chevrolet driven by Clifford Langford of Baton Rouge, La. and a 1973 Ford driven by Bradley Scott McClure of Rt. 3.

The third accident — a hit-and-run incident — was discoverd at 5:12 p.m. Sunday.

Benito Sauceda of Hermleigh told police that his 1985 Ford pickup had been struck by an unidentified vehicle while parked in the 1900 Block of Gilmore Ave. during the afternoon.

Guardrail struck

A county woman sustained minor injuries in a one-vehicle accident in north Snyder Sunday morning.

Linda Bramer Dodson of Rt. 2 was treated for minor injuries and then released from Cogdell Memorial Hospital after the 1971 Oldsmobile she was driving collided with a guard rail at the Santa Fe Railroad crossing in the 900 Block of College Ave.

Arrests told from weekend

Weekend arrests reported Monday include one shoplifting suspect and four individuals charged following a noise disturbance call.

Police took a 13-year-old shoplifting suspect into custody around 7 p.m. Saturday.

Officers responded to a call from employees of TG&Y in the Varsity Square Shopping Center.

The suspect was later released to the custody of his grandmother.

Police jailed three suspects — including one juvenile — on disorderly conduct charges and a fourth for public intoxication shortly after midnight Sunday.

Those arrests came after officers were called to a noise disturbance in the 1200 Block of Ave. O at 12:33 p.m.

Seven other suspects were also arrested by city officers over the weekend including three charged with DWI, two charged with public intoxication and one each on charges of being intoxicated on a premises licensed to sell alcohol and driving with an expired license.

4 tires said stolen locally

Police are investigating a misdemeanor theft report filed over the weekend involving four missing tires and wheels.

Deannie Courtney of 600 31st St. called police at 4:50 p.m. Saturday to file that complaint.

She told investigators the tires and wheels had been stolen from outside the residence sometime earlier Saturday or Friday night.

Value of the missing property was estimated at $600.

Beef production examined

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Cattlemen's Association has raised one of those which-came-first-the-chicken-or-the-egg questions regarding consumer demand for meat.

"Some persons equate per capita consumption and demand for meats," the association said in a recent report. "Actually, that cannot be done. We always eat all the beef that is produced, and the production level in a given year is largely determined by the size of the cattle herd about three years earlier.

"With any perishable commodity, everything that is produced in a given period is eaten, at a price, depending on supply and demand at the time."

The issue is not new, but it has taken on some added twists in recent years because of some concerns about food and health.

All the beef produced will be sold eventually, says the NCA. If consumers resist buying at a certain price, the price will come down. But the meat will be sold. In one of his colorful quips as secretary of agriculture, Earl Butz used to say about meat, "You sell it or smell it."

If prices decline enough, cattle producers will be forced to reduce production. And with less beef moving through the pipeline, prices eventually will rise.

What the cattlemen are saying is that meat — and other perishable agricultural products, for that matter — is not like wheat or corn. You can't store it indefinitely, not even in refrigerated lockers. It's not like nuts and bolts, left to gather dust in a hardware store until someone buys them.

The NCA's analysis included a number of other observations:

—In the early 1970s, the average annual per capita supply and consumption of beef was in the range of 80 to 85 pounds, retail weight. In the mid-1970s, the rate increased sharply, with per capita consumption rising to a record of 94.4 pounds in 1976.

That was an aberration caused by over-production plus the liquidation of cattle herds by hard-pressed producers. The result was an exceptionally large per capita supply of beef. A subsequent decline in the per capita supply was mostly cyclical, not a function of demand.

—Average per capita supplies of beef have shown little change during the past seven years. If some people have indeed been eating less beef, other have had to be eating more.

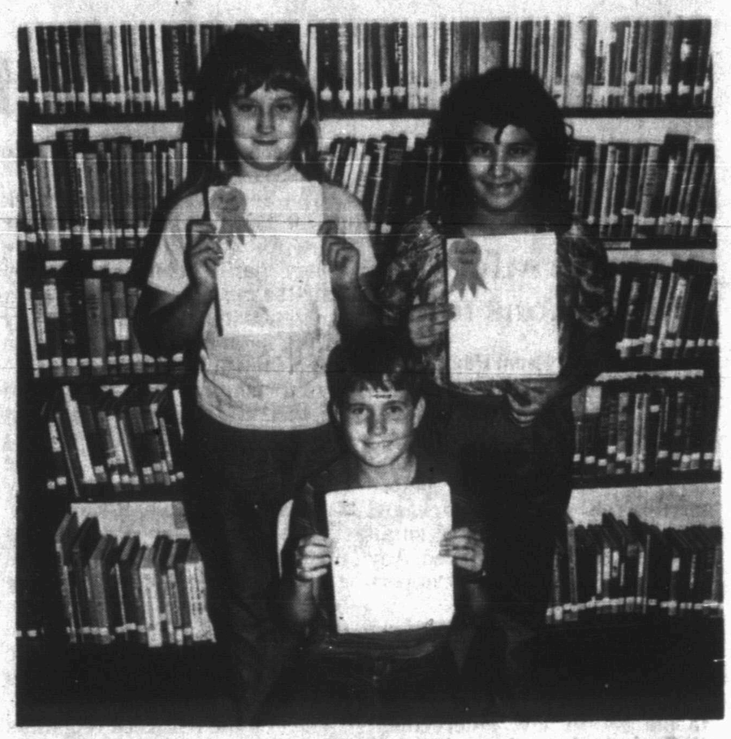

—Because of concern about health and fat, as well as economics, some consumers "undoubtedly are now eating less red meat than they have in former years."

The NCA report said the consumer switch from red meat to chicken may be less than indicated by surveys in which consumers simply say what they are doing.

"In some cases, because it has become fashionable to eat less red meat and more white meat, people are significantly overstating their diet changes," the report said.

But beef remains the preferred meat among most people, the NCA said. Consumer spending on beef is still greater than expenditures for pork and poultry combined.

"The biggest single demand problem for beef is the existence of a large and growing per capita supply of chicken, which can be produced and sold for much less per pound," the report said.

Fate of Soviet sailor remains unclear

BELLE CHASSE, La. (AP) — Customs agents guarded a Soviet freighter today as State Department officials negotiated for a third day the fate of a sailor who twice jumped ship but was returned to the vessel.

State Department officials, aboard the Marshal Koniev since Friday, were trying to determine what the sailor wanted to do.

"There's nothing definite that I can tell you," a State Department officer who spoke on condition of anonymity said by telephone from Washington late Sunday. "The talks are going on, there's no resolution at this point."

As the negotiations went on, U.S. Customs agents and Coast Guard boats kept watch on the freighter in the Mississippi River.

White House national security adviser Robert McFarlane said Sunday the State Department wants to interview the sailor at a neutral site and find out what he wants to do.

"I think we have a responsibility to assure that the wishes of the individual are understood," he said on CBS' "Face The Nation." "I would expect the Soviet Union to understand that is our authority and our interest and I expect it will be resolved."

The State Department officer said a doctor and a State Department official had talked with the sailor but that the department still wanted an interview on neutral territory.

Mike Flad, a U.S. agent for the Soviet vessel, said he saw the sailor Friday afternoon, about 16 hours after he jumped. The man appeared to be in his 20s, said Flad, an agent for Universal Shipping Agencies Inc.

The sailor dove from the ship into the river near Belle Chasse, a small port town downriver from New Orleans in Plaquemines Parish, on Thursday and Friday. Flad said he swam 80-100 yards across river to shore.

Thomas Richard, who works for Universal Shipping, said he received a call Thursday night from the Border Patrol saying that a sailor had jumped ship and come ashore.

Richard said he was ordered to put the sailor back on the ship. The seaman jumped from the boat that was ferrying him back to the Soviet freighter, but was recaptured.

He was returned again after he jumped a second time Friday, but Immigration and Naturalization Service officials in New Orleans contacted Washington, said David H. Lambert, district director of the INS. Lambert said Border Patrol agents could not communicate with the man and thought he was a stowaway.

Raymond Guthrie, a boat operator for Port Ship Services, said Saturday he had ferried the sailor back to the Marshal Koniev.

Museum holdup staged

PARIS (AP) — French police hunted today for gunmen who held up an art gallery and vanished with nine paintings, including works by Monet and Renoir, that one museum official said showed the bandits had the eye of "connoisseurs."

The thieves, said by police to number at least five, surged into the Marmottan Museum with pistols drawn during visiting hours Sunday. They forced guards and visitors to lie on the floor and fanned out through the gallery.

Within five minutes they were gone, along with artwork estimated to be worth $12.5 million, said Marmottan curator Yves Brayer.

"(It's) as if someone had stolen the 'Mona Lisa,'" said a shaken Brayer. "It's the theft of the century."

Among the canvasses stolen was Claude Monet's "Impression Soleil Levant" (Impression Sunrise), a port scene that gave the late 19th century Impressionist movement its name. Brayer said the painting "has no price" because of its historic value.

Two paintings by another Impressionist master, Pierre Auguste Renoir, were also seized by the gunmen.

A police spokesman said no motive was being excluded, but suggested the possibility of extortion.

One Marmottan Museum official, also speaking on condition he not be identified, said of the bandits, "They are connoisseurs. They knew what they were looking for."

But Brayer said, "I don't understand how you can steal (something) so famous, because it's impossible to sell. It's too well known."

One museum guard said the alarm system was not operating at the time of the theft.

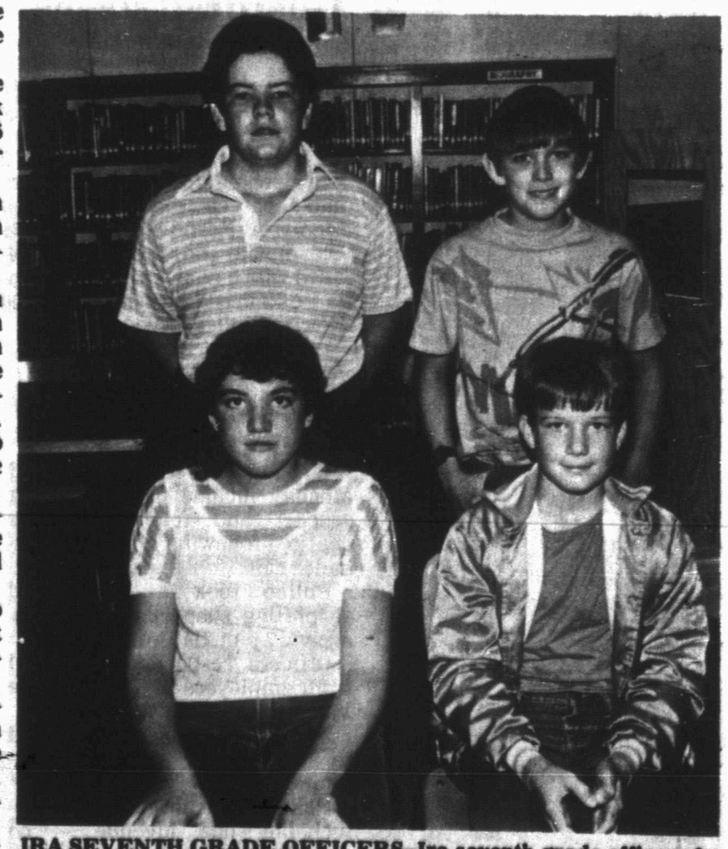

Brayer said everything was "in perfect order." But Estelle Tissier, who lives with her husband in the building, said the alarm was disconnected each day at 8:15 a.m. and reactivated at 6 p.m.

Witnesses said the men entered the museum shortly after 10 a.m.

Jury to decide Goodin's punishment

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Michael Wayne Goodin is an "executioner" who abducted, beat and killed a young woman, then kept her driver's license and photograph as "trophies," prosecutors said.

Jurors, after convicting Goodin of murder last week, today begin considering punishment for the 19-year-old Fort Worth man.

Goodin was found guilty Saturday of killing Lisa Lyn Griffin, 20, one of nine young women who disappeared or was found slain in Fort Worth during late 1984 and early 1985.

He has not been implicated in any of the other cases.

Goodin's attorneys have asked for probation. He faces a possible sentence of up to life in prison.

During the trial, prosecutors offered no evidence about a motive to counter defense claims that Miss Griffin was despondent and begged Goodin to kill her.

In a statement to police, Goodin said he met Miss Griffin at a bar where she worked as a waitress.

United Way tackles $100,000 goal

A record $100,000 budget was recommended Wednesday by committee members for this year's United Way campaign — a drive that will see the county's dent Donny Brown, who also served as a budget committee member.

"But we thought about it and decided that with the support of presented to the full 25-member United Way board next week, will mark an increased goal of some 30 percent when compared to last year. Regarding actual dollars from requests totaling in excess of $121,000. These requests were heard over a 5½ hour session Wednesday with 10 entities — including the eight traditional Hawes, Rex Robinson, Fred Castillo and Brown.

Last year's goal for United Way was $75,830 with $91,117 eventually raised.

United Way: 'people helping people'

As the 1985 Scurry County United Way campaign begins, drive officials want to express their thanks to the fine Snyder and Scurry County firms and individuals who helped make last year's campaign a 120 percent success.

This year's drive seeks a record goal of $100,000, a 10 percent increase over funds raised last year. The majority of these extra United Way dollars will go toward two special projects taken on this year, Noah Project, a haven for battered women and their children, and SCOOP.

The eight traditional United Way agencies will be benefitted as well with like or increased dollars.

This year, as in the past, the heart of the United Way campaign is people helping people because they care. The following is a list of some of the Scurry County people who have given generously.

Ag officials plan meeting

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Representatives of agriculture departments from 49 states meeting in their 97th annual conference have their eyes turned toward Washington, where the Senate is debating the 1985 farm bill.

U.S. Agriculture Secretary John R. Block is to address tonight the members of the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture, or NASDA.

Throughout the three-day conference, which began today, delegates will debate resolutions on policy for the nation's beleagured farmers that were passed earlier this year during regional meetings.

Ghoulies, ghosties afoot this week

by The Associated Press

With Halloween barely two shakes of a witch's broomstick away, business is booming at some California costume and coffin shops, paraders in Delaware were criticized for celebrating the devil, and Jaycees in Wyoming came under fire for a haunted house in which Santa Claus brandished a straight razor.

Jaycees in Charleston, W.Va., fared even worse: Their haunted house burned down over the weekend, sending members scrambling to find a new location for their main fund-raising event.

And revelers filled the streets of Key West, Fla., for a Halloween parade that capped an annual extravaganza marking the start of the tourist season.

In Los Angeles, adult trick-or-treaters were getting ready to trade their everyday clothes for Thursday-night stints as pirates, clowns and gorillas.

"Halloween has become an adult holiday," said Theresa Saidy, owner of Adele's of Hollywood, where military uniforms and Renaissance outfits were hot items, along with more traditional witch and clown costumes.

"We did our biggest business ever last Halloween," she said. "More than 700 people came in for costumes. The way things are going this year, we expect to do even better."

Cassandra's Costumes and Coffins in Los Alamitos, Calif., in Orange County, caters to people who take Halloween seriously enough to rent a real casket for party centerpieces.

Gloria Parker, who operates from her home, says the trade in custom caskets comes alive this time of year and all 22 of her coffins were reserved by Oct. 10. The rate is $35 per day.

"We have cobwebs, tombstones for the yard, snakes, spiders and little caskets," Parker said. For $50 a day plus a mileage charge there's a black 1964 Cadillac with silver curtains.

Not everyone was getting into the spirit, however.

Churchgoers in Georgetown, Del., denounced the "high holy day of Satanic worship" as about 700 children and adults in brightly colored costumes paraded Sunday.

Bennett's carries most oil field related office supplies

Bennett Office Supply offers a complete line of office supplies that will aid the efficiency of a well ran company. Oilfields depend on accurate records and charts. With the Kraft Built line of books and charts, you can depend on easy to read charts. Bennett's has Kraft Built Pipe Tally Books, weekly Gauge Books, Run Tickets and Drilling Time Reports. They also carry tally books by Vernon McMillan.

Charts and gauges can be hard to write on without a hard surface behind them. Bennett's can help you make sure you have a good surface to write on with clip and arch boards by Stempel. They also carry aluminum clip board holders by Rediform.

Why not pick up a Dymo labeling machine or Duro decal letters and numbers to mark your charts and gauges with. If you need to highlight the data, then you can use paint markers by Faber Castell.

When you are in the field, you will certanly want to have a Sterling portable letter file to carry all of those important papers with you. A Hazel business card file will come in handy to help you keep up with all those many business cards you receive from associates and friends.

For office use, Bennett's carries a full line of Canon calculators to help you figure those barrels of oil. They also have stencils and metal stencils from Presto. And what office would be complete if it didn't have filament tape from Scotch?

For all of your office supply needs, whether for the oil field or not, see Bennett Office Supply on the north side of the square.

Kay Halbert or Renda Palo can help you with all of your office supplies at Bennett Office Supply. (SDN Staff Photo)
