Soviet Racks Up Win Over Yank Writers

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press Staff Writer

IN RUSSIAN-OCCUPIED GERMANY—Uncle Joe Stalin's unstoppable Red Army chalked up another victory—won with artfulness, courtesy and vodka — when it completed envelopment of an all-out assault of Allied war correspondents.

Scores of us were bound for Berlin, bound for the Soviet front lines, bound for any place inside the Red Army's fighting zone. For the first time in history we were going to be the foreign correspondents actually covering the combat activities of the Russian army.

Kenneth Dixon

That's what we thought.

The Russians, in keeping with the longtime tradition that they don't want foreign—and possibly unsympathetic—newsmen messing up their war, thought differently.

Smart Money Wrong

The smart money was on the American city hall reporters, but the Russians won. And they did it so smoothly that practically nobody feels any pain.

Everyone on both sides was as sweet as sugar about it. The Soviets greeted reporters with shouts of "Tovarich," shook their hands, kissed their cheeks and offered to give them anything they wanted.

Obviously this was going to be like taking candy away from a baby. In fact it was so easy that the first press assault wave disdained to use camouflage tactics or take advantage of natural cover. They simply dragged out maps, said "Okay, Tovarich, now how about showing us the best and safest route through your lines into Berlin?"

With gracious courtesy befitting the great occasion some subtle scribes also said "naturally, we will put Uncle Joe's name in headlines and your particular outfit will be mentioned in the very first paragraph."

The roughly translated Russian answer was a delighted "that's terrific, Tovarich. Let's have a drink to it."

Now all war reporters long since have been carefully schooled in the Soviet system of toasts. It's bottoms up or you are a bad boy, and it was no time to create a wrong impression. Now—believe it or not—there are some newsmen who don't drink, but even they grimly drained water glassfuls of Russian rum or vodka.

Comrade, have you ever drain-

Five U.S. Ships Sunk By Japs

Nips Attack Savagely And Lose 150 Planes; Drive For Davao Continues

By CLYDE BARTEL
Associated Press War Editor

A SAVAGE Japanese air and sea attack on U. S. ships off Okinawa yesterday sank five light American warships and damaged another small surface vessel, for which the Nipponese paid with 54 planes shot down and 15 tiny suicide boats destroyed.

American carrier planes struck furiously the same day at Japanese air units in the Amami island group north of Okinawa, downing 96 enemy aircraft for a total of 150 accounted for during the day.

New Suicide Bombs

The Japanese used their new baka bombs, 19-foot explosive glider craft released from bombers and controlled by suicide pilots. One of these was shot down.

There was virtually no change in the ground fighting on southern Okinawa, said Fleet Adm. Chester W. Nimitz in a communique announcing the surge of Japanese air and sea activity. About 600 Nipponese using landing craft attempted to attack the rear of American lines, but were repulsed at one point and faced annihilation where landings were made.

Australian troops invading Tarakan island off the northeastern Borneo coast captured military barracks from the Japanese defenders of Tarakan city and seized the water supply installations, Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported.

Jap Shipping Pounded

Allied planes supporting the five-day old Tarakan operation hammered Japanese shipping and installations around the Borneo coast, sinking more than 15 deep water and river craft, including two 300-ton transports.

British and Indian troops completed the occupation of Rangoon, capital of Burma and port city on the Bay of Bengal, finding no damage done to harbor installations by Japanese forces which evacuated the city April 25 after three years possession.

Allied headquarters said Japanese armies in Burma have been decisively beaten, leaving 97,000 dead on the battlefields. Only fragments of Nippon's once-powerful forces remain in the country, and the liberation campaign which started 15 months ago from India is "virtually over," the official announcement said.

Seizure of Rangoon gives the Allies a base for future operations, which may include an offensive to recapture Singapore, and also reopens the southern terminus of the old Burma road to send supplies to Chungking.

Chinese troops killed 3,000 Japanese and stopped the Nipponese four-pronged westward drive toward the U.S. air base at Chihkiang, in western Hunan province, the

Air Giants Lash Honshu, Kyushu

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP) — A very large force of B-29 Superfortresses carried out a two-pronged attack on the Japanese home islands of Honshu and Kyushu today (May 5 Japanese time), headquarters of the 20th Air force announced tonight.

One force attacked an industrial target at Kure on the main Japanese island of Honshu, while other B-29s continued the assault on air bases on Kyushu.

Possibly as many as 150 of the big bombers participated in the attacks.

From Marianas Bases

Both phases of the operation were carried out by Marianas-based Superfortresses of the 21st Bomber command under Maj. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay.

Further details, the 20th Air force announcement said, will be disclosed after the bombers return to their bases.

It was announced at Guam that "good to excellent" results were accomplished in visual bombing of Oita and Tachiari airfields on northern Kyushu by 25 to 50 Superfortresses on the morning of May 5 Japanese time.

The Superforts dropped bombs visually from medium altitude.

The mission was the third attack on Kyushu in three days and the tenth in 14 days. It was the sixth time both Oita and Tachiari airfields had been bombed by Marianas-based B-29s.

Today's War Casualties

S/Sgt. Clifton W. Rivers, son of Mrs. Carroll Jay of Petersburg, is now listed as killed in action in Germany March 24. He was previously listed by the War department as missing since that date. As a member of a paratroop unit, he had been in several invasions, and had been overseas 15 months.

Widely Known SMU Sports Leader Dies

DALLAS, May 4. (AP)—James W. St. Clair, head of the physical education department at Southern Methodist university since 1924, died at Baylor hospital at 4 p.m. after being stricken with a heart attack at his home this morning. He was 59 years old.

As executive secretary of the Southwest conference, which governs all inter-collegiate sports, St. Clair instituted a system whereby all game officials are required to qualify physically and mentally, thereby raising sports in general to a higher plane.

He was chairman of the national basketball committee to the United States and Canada; chairman of the National Collegiate Athletic association basketball rules committee; head of the physical education department at SMU, executive secretary of the Southwest conference and secretary of Southwestern Officials association.

From 1924 through 1935 he was head basketball coach, tying for the Southwest conference championship one year and winning the title in his final season, 1935.

Surviving are the widow, one daughter, Mrs. B. E. Hull, of Dallas, and one grandchild.

J. C. Deal Death Is Ruled Suicide

SAN ANGELO, May 4 (AP) — A verdict of death by self-inflicted gunshot wounds was returned today by County Judge McNeil Wylie of Coke county in the death of J. Culberson Deal, 51, manager of the San Angelo Board of City Development.

Deal's body was found at noon today in a ravine 18 miles north of San Angelo.

The inquest revealed that Deal had been shot in the head twice with a .38-calibre pistol. Police believed he had been dead at least 24 hours at the time his body was discovered.

Funeral Set Today

Funeral services will be held here tomorrow at 5 p. m., with burial in a local cemetery.

Deal had contributed notably to securing government approval of a dam on the North Concho river for irrigation and flood protection for San Angelo, the establishment here of two Army flying schools and fish hatcheries, and management of the San Angelo Fat Stock show and rodeo. He was widely known in military circles and in Washington, D. C.

Deal was chairman of several war loan campaigns, served two terms as city commissioner in the 1920s, and was a veteran of World war 1. His widow and two sons, Capt. J. Culberson Deal, jr., of the Army and Ensign Lanham Deal of the Navy, survive.

Fear Of Reds Seen As Cause Of Nazi Holdout In Norway

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press War Analyst

THE omission of Norway from the surrender of all German forces in the north stirs conjecture as to its probable significance. Coupled with the attempted desperate flight of German Army personnel from Denmark to Norway, it implied a further enemy stand in that Nazi-tortured country.

If so, however, the possibilities are it would be only in hope of avoiding falling into Russian hands. There seems little doubt that the isolation of Norway from Red Army hosts, plus the fact that in a geographical sense it is logically a target for Allied rather than Russian assault, marked it in some Nazi eyes as a final refuge without any prospect of a long holdout there.

Surrender of all German forces in the north with the exception of Norway was too clearly indicated for General Eisenhower's announcement of the accomplished fact to have come as much of a surprise.

The presence of enemy forces in Norway, southeastern Germany, northern Austria and Czechoslovakia, together with pockets in France and the channel islands, however, leaves the Allies still far from having achieved yet that absolute and "unconditional surrender" to which the United Nations war fellowship has been pledged ever since President Roosevelt uttered that phrase at Cacablanca.

With the total collapse in the north with the exception of Nor-

Nazis Angling For Safety Guarantee

By ELTON C. FAY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 4 — The delay in surrender of German forces in Norway may be pegged on a Nazi demand for guarantee of the safety of those troops after they lay down their arms.

Some military experts, suggesting this today, believed it probable that Admiral Doenitz insisted that British or American troops be in Norway in strength before the estimated 150,000 to 300,000 German troops put down their guns under unconditional surrender terms.

Military men here, however, did not discount the possibility that the new Nazi fuehrer, if unable to induce British Field Marshal Montgomery to agree to this, might accept an agreement between the major Allies and the Norwegians pledging safe exit for Nazi troops from Norway.

In the latter case, the time of the surrender in Norway might be much earlier than if Allied troops had to be sent there in large numbers. Estimates on the time this would require ranged from a few days to two weeks.

In the meantime, there appeared to be no certain indication that the enemy might not fight on with vigor in the mountain fastnesses and fjords until an Allied amphibious and air attack overwhelms that opposition. The Germans have been reported to have immense food supplies and presumably substantial quantities of munitions there.

Concern Understandable

The concern of the Nazis over the safety of their troops in Norway is understandable. While the Nazi occupation of that nation has not been accompanied by reports of mass atrocities on the scale practiced in Poland, Russia and elsewhere, the conquerors have ruled with a ruthless hand. Executions and imprisonment have been the order of the day. Norway has been stripped of food and clothing for the benefit of Germans. Much of the products of her fisheries and farms and virtually all of her mineral and forest production have been siphoned off to the Reich.

It is presumed that unconditional surrender of Nazi troops in Norway would operate as it has in the other field surrenders—a cessation of hostilities and an immediate laying down of all arms. The Germans can well have an abiding fear of finding themselves unarmed among a thoroughly angered population.

Submarines Dangerous

Until the Germans give up in Norway the Allies can not be certain of the end of Germany's submarine warfare. The Norwegian ports now are the last usable ones for the U-boats.

Officials in Washington, watching the closely spaced announcements of various German Army capitulations, have wondered when Doenitz would call off the last of Germany's naval weapons, the U-boats.

Although many of the undersea raiders may be far from their home ports, it would be possible for Doenitz to contact them with surrender orders almost immediately. Submarines on patrol surface at night to recharge their batteries and ventilate the ship. At that time they are in radio contact with their bases.

There was speculation over whether the U-boats, upon receiving surrender orders, would return to European bases or whether those far at sea might be instructed to surface and surrender at the nearest Allied port or shop. In the latter case U-boats currently operating in the western Atlantic might appear at American or Canadian ports.

The Irony Of War

Soldier Dies Enroute Home

LEVELLAND, May 4 (Special) The final chapter of one of the many tragedies of war will be written in Levelland Saturday afternoon when funeral services will be conducted for Pfc. Earl W. Brown, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harper Brown of this city.

The body of the young infantryman is expected to arrive here Saturday morning.

Pvt. Brown had gone through tough fighting on the western front in Europe, was captured in Luxembourg last December by the Nazis and interned. On April 2 he was liberated from a prisoner of war camp, and was given a trip home. He cabled his parents when to expect him. Then to his parents came word from the War department that Pvt. Brown died aboard ship en route home.

Services will be held at 4:30 o'clock in the First Baptist church with pastor Rev. Franklin E. Swanner officiating.

Young Brown had been in military service since October, 1943. He was an automatic rifleman with the 129th infantry division.

Besides the parents, survivors are three brothers, Meadow Brown, Camp Hood, Tex.; Corp. H. B. Brown, somewhere in Germany; Fred Brown, Levelland; two sisters, Mrs. Duff Abel and Miss Allie Mary Brown, both of Levelland, and a grandmother, Mrs. Martha Brown of Levelland.

Million Dollar War Plant Is Destroyed

SHREVEPORT, May 4. (AP) — The Brewster company, a Shreveport war plant, was virtually destroyed today by fire. Damage, including the buildings, machinery and equipment, was estimated unofficially at $1,000,000.

The fire broke out at 11:25 a.m. A spark from a welding torch was said to have caused the blaze.

Four companies, due to lack of water facilities, were unable to quell the flames.

The new plant, occupied about three months ago, manufactured bomb casings for the War department. It recently had been awarded the Army-Navy "E."

A. Olin Price, manager of the company, could not be immediately contacted. Firemen and others familiar with the plant, however, said the damage would run well over $1,000,000.

Million Quit In North And Others May Follow Soon

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Saturday, May 5. — All enemy troops in Denmark, Holland and northwestern Germany surrendered unconditionally yesterday in the greatest mass capitulation since the armistice of 1918, and Gen. Eisenhower declared the enemy was beaten "on land, sea and in the air."

Only formal admission by Fuehrer Karl Doenitz that further fighting was unless was needed to bring peace to Europe five years and eight months after the dead or missing Hitler plunged the continent into the most terrible war in the history of mankind.

Lay Down Arms Today

A half million Germans in the north will surrender today, to Field Marshal Montgomery under terms of the capitulation order, and with the 500,000 captured on the British-Canadian front yesterday will account for one million men. This overshadows even the mass capitulation in northern Italy and western Austria Wednesday.

It was estimated that no more than 500,000 Germans remained to fight of the Army that once made all Europe tremble. The German Army at its peak strength numbered 8,000,000 men.

By these estimates there were 300,000 in Czechoslovakia and Austria, where the enemy was surrendering almost as fast as Americans approached, 150,000 in isolated Norway, and 50,000 in the French ports and channel islands.

Associated Press correspondent Daniel De Luce reported that negotiations were in progress for the surrender of both the Norway and Czechoslovak pockets, with Doenitz apparently delaying capitulation to let as many troops as possible escape the Russian occupation zone.

De Luce said he had learned in Stockholm that the Germans in Norway had reached a tentative agreement with Swedish officials to pull out of Norway and accept internment in Sweden.

(The Luxembourg radio said that Vikdun Quisling, puppet ruler of Norway, had appealed to all party leaders in Norway to retain discipline in order to avoid turning the country into a battlefield.)

Present Situation

From north to south, this was the story of the fall of the military machine with which Hitler set out to conquer Europe.

1. The Germans agreed yesterday to surrender at 8 p. m. today (2 a. m. eastern war time) all northwestern Germany, Holland, Denmark, Helgoland and the Frisian islands.

2. Gen. Eisenhower declared Germany was "thoroughly whipped" and called on all enemy troops holding out in Norway, Czechoslovakia, Austria, the channel islands and the French coastal pockets to surrender.

Sub "Swordfish" Is Said Lost In Action

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP) — The submarine Swordfish is overdue and presumed lost, the Navy announced today.

The next of kin of its approximately 65 officers and men have been notified.

The Swordfish was the 43rd submarine and the 297th naval vessel lost from all causes since the start of the war.

She was the 37th submarine reported overdue and presumed lost. Four others have been reported sunk and two destroyed to prevent capture.

Commander K. E. Montross, whose wife lives at Round Bay, Severna Park, Md., was skipper of the vessel and is listed as missing in action.

The Swordfish was built at the Mare Island, Calif., Navy yard and was launced April 1, 1939, with Mrs. Claude C. Bloch as sponsor. The vessel was commissioned July 22, 1939. It was of 1,450 tons standard displacement.

Commander Montross, a native of Saginaw, Mich., had been in command of the Swordfish since February 8, 1944.

Reds Lash Out For Clean-Up In South

By ROMNEY WHEELER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 4. — Russian troops struck from the east and south tonight into the Nazis' Czechoslovakian stronghold and reportedly fanned out in Austria in a double offensive aimed at a quick cleanup of final German resistance in the south.

While Russian and American forces reportedly neared a linkup near the Austrian city of Linz, the German-controlled Prague radio reported an immense tank battle raging in the Morava river valley south of the arsenal city of Olmuetz (Olomouc).

Two Armies Converging

Two Soviet armies were converging on this important rail center, 128 miles southeast of Prague, in preparation for an all-out drive westward toward the Czechoslovak capital.

The German radio said the Russians already had broken into Prostejov, 10 miles south of Olmuetz and 30 miles northeast of Bruenn (Brno).

Moscow's nightly war bulletin announced that an additional 22,000 German prisoners had been captured in the mop-up of German resistance in north-central Germany, while in Berlin Soviet troops captured six high-ranking Nazi generals.

North of Stettin, Red Army troops crossed the Dievenow canal and battled on to Wollin island, one of the last German hold-out pockets along the Baltic coast.

Pressure Along Elbe

By German accounts, heavy Russian pressure also was being exerted on both sides of the Elbe river near Meissen, six miles northeast of the Saxon capital of Dresden. A Nazi front reporter acknowledged the Germans were being pushed back under heavy armored attacks.

This reported mop-up offensive south of Berlin threatened Prague from a third direction. Marshal Ivan S. Konev's First Ukrainian Army was 72 miles north of Prague in this area, but faced crossing the high mountains marking the German - Czechoslovak frontier.

The Prague radio—the Nazis' last major radio station in the southern redoubt—said Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhim's Third Ukrainian Army in Austria was striking toward the mountain top city of Graz from points south of the Semmering pass and due east of Austria's second city.

Mop-up Isolated Pockets

The Red Army continued to mop-up other isolated enemy pockets. North and northwest of Berlin, Marshal Konstantin K. Rokossovsky's Second White Rus-

Big Four Ironing Out Differences

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4—Big Four statesmen lined up tonight for an amicable showdown on changes they will propose jointly in a world charter for peace.

Foreign ministers of the powers sponsoring the United Nations conference — Secretary of State Stettinius of the United States, Foreign Secretary Eden of Britain, Foreign Minister Soong of China and Foreign Commissar Molotov of Russia—already had found a common ground of agreement on many important amendments.

POSSESSION OF ISLANDS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4 (AP)—American spokesmen disclosed today there is no plan to give the security council of the proposed world organization power to vote United States possession of strategic Pacific islands. They thus eased fears of a group of visiting senators that islands won by American troops in bloody combat with the Japanese might be subjected to international control in the postwar era.

Some Differences

But they still had their differences on such points as inserting into an international constitution a formula to permit revision of peace treaties yet to come from this war.

They decided on one final attempt to submerge conflicting views at a dinner meeting tonight in Stettinius' luxurious suite atop the Fairmont hotel.

Side by side on easy chairs and a divan, flanked by nearly 50 members of their delegations and advisers, the Big Four agreed at an earlier session to let in France later on in future discussions of conference procedure. France thus will become almost, but not quite, one of the conference sponsors.

Polish Question

Most conference delegates, divided among eight committee meetings to sort over a hefty sheaf of amendments proposed by all countries to the Dumbarton Oaks blueprint for a world organization, stirred with talk of a still remote Polish settlement.

Several times the Big Four were reported on the verge of agreement on treaty revision. But each time Molotov raised some new question. Some of those present were gratified, however, at the manner in which the Russian commissar was making spot decisions without consulting Moscow.

Friendly Atmosphere

And the atmosphere was described as friendly, with Americans occasionally tossing at Molotov a word or two of newly acquired Russian and getting grins and joshing comebacks.

An American proposal to permit revision of peace treaties, to allow for "peaceful change of conditions in the world so that the world is not frozen," has been questioned by Foreign Commissar Molotov of Russia. The British were described as trying for a compromise "but perhaps leaning a bit toward the American side."

One United States official said the differences were more over wording than over basic issues.

WOULD HOLD ISLANDS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4. (AP)—Edward N. Scheiberling, national commander of the American Legion, today urged that the United States retain full control of islands wrested from Japan with unlimited power to fortify them.

Air Blows Sink 74 Nazi Vessels

LONDON, May 4. (AP) — The largest RAF force ever hurled against enemy shipping knocked out at least 74 Nazi vessels fleeing toward Norway today in a blazing climax to a record week-long massacre in northern Germany and the Baltic sea.

Rockets, bombs and cannon shells spread havoc for the second successive day among frantic Germans trying to escape from Baltic ports toward a possible last-ditch stand in Norway, where the enemy still was holding out after surrendering in northwestern Germany, Holland and Denmark.

Constantly Hounded

All through the daylight hours, ships and land vehicles were hounded by Mosquito bombers, rocketfiring Beaufighters and Typhoons, Spitfires and Mustangs as the RAF coastal command and the fighter-bomber command joined the Second Tactical Airforce in the slaughter.

Attacks spread over a wide area of the Baltic near Schlewsig-Holstein and Denmark, where the waters were jammed with craft of all descriptions loaded with troops driven into the sea by Allied armies. The attacks reached even into the Kattegat waters between Sweden and northern Denmark, where Mosquito pilots reported a

Danes Go Wild With Joy As Nazis In Nation Surrender

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, May 4. (AP) — The Danish people burst loose from the long, hard bonds of German occupation tonight with scenes never before equalled in Copenhagen's 800-year history.

The ordinarily temperate Danes swelled into the streets, shouting, singing, crying . . . and fighting.

In the midst of the celebration the Danish Freedom council ordered mobilization of the whole resistance movement, on what was said to be a direct order from King Christian X.

This put under arms an estimated 300,000 men in the capital alone. They seemed to be everywhere, carrying tommy guns, machine guns and pistols, mostly of British and American make, and wearing armbands in the Danish colors.

Some of the members of the resistance movement immediately attacked the police building, main seat of the feared Hipo (Danish Nazi auxiliary police corps), the Gestapo headquarters in St. Anne palace, and the headquarters of German Ambassador Werner Best at Dagmarhus on the Raadshusplatsen, the capital's central square.

Most of the people seemed unmindful of this violence in the midst of their exultation at the return of freedom.

Church bells are ringing throughout the capital. Columns of people are marching, led by American, British and Danish flags.

DEAR . . . .

As this is written everyone is standing by as has been the case for a week waiting to hear that the seams that have been pulling in Germany have at last burst and the end of hostilities has come in Europe. Indications are that the celebration will be in the nature of fire sirens announcing that V-E day, followed with a call to worship in all of the churches. We are not forgetting that the war is only half won.

William Dickson Green, prominent land and property owner of Lubbock and other sections of Texas, died suddenly at 4 o'clock Monday morning following a heart attack at his home, 2801 Nineteenth. Burial was at Shiner Thursday afternoon.

Survivors are his wife, one son, William D. Green, jr., a student at Lawrenceville school, Lawrenceville, N. J., and his mother, Mrs. Julia C. Green of Shiner.

Mr. Green was president of the Wilson State bank and owner of much Lubbock real estate property including several business blocks.

At least seven Lubbock men were believed to have been interned at Stalag 7-A, where the Allies reportedly liberated 110,000 United Nation prisoners, although no members of their families here have been notified.

Included in the men believed held at Mossburg were: Lt. Neil H. Wright, jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Neil H. Wright, sr., 1634 Main; Capt. Harold H. Fulghum, husband of the former Miss Inez Davis, 2710 Twenty-eighth; Lt. Jack Rogers, son of Mrs. Artie Hill, 1002 Ave. X; Capt. Stanley Wright, son of Mrs. Bertha Wilson, San Antonio, formerly of Lubbock; Lt. Young B. C. Newsom, whose wife is residing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Graham, 2308 Tenth; Lt. Milton G. (Tid) Scarbrough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Scarbrough, 1612 Sixteenth; and Capt. Vernon Turner, whose wife, the former Miss Cora Jean Watson, resides at 1810 Thirteenth.

S/Sgt. Billy Joe Louder, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Louder of Lubbock, has been liberated from a prisoner of war camp, according to a story written by Amon G. Carter who was one of a number of newspaper men in Europe to report conditions in the concentration camps.

Lubbock Aero Service airport on west Thirty-Fourth's extension and five airplanes were burned when fire swept through the hangar last Sunday afternoon. There was no certainty of the fire's origin. Owners of the Service are Robert J. Walker, Dr. Olan Key, Al Finnell and Charles Akey.

Clean-Up Drive To Open Today

Property owners of Lubbock have been urged to clean their premises and to take part in national salvage campaigns during the 16th annual Clean Up campaign which opens here this morning.

The Clean Up-Paint Up campaign committee has given details of plans for the drive in letters distributed in Lubbock public schools for pupils to take home to their parents.

The salvage phases of the campaign include contributions of paper, tin cans and waste fats to national salvage campaigns.

Newspapers and magazines should be bundled separately and tied securely in bundles not exceeding 20 pounds. Trucks from Lubbock Army Air field will pick up all paper on the east-west streets from First to Nineteenth streets, inclusive, Sunday morning and will pick up paper from Twentieth to Thirty-fourth streets Sunday, May 13. Residents of avenues are to take their bundles to corners and residents of streets may place them in front of their residences. All paper is to be put out not later than 9 a. m.

To Remove Labels

Labels are to be removed from tin cans given and the ends are to be cut out, the cans mashed and taken to grocery stores. Girl Scouts and Brownies are to pick up waste grease from residences. The campaign committee requests, "however, should these youngsters miss your house, won't you please take what you have on hand to your grocery store and turn it in for the red points you are allowed for this waste grease."

Of the sanitation phase of the campaign, the committee says: "For the sake of preventing the possibility of an epidemic, please check your garbage cans and see that they are sanitary, that they have a good tight cover, and be sure and wrap your wet garbage in newspapers before you place it in the garbage can. This is most important and every housewife can safeguard the health of every child and adult in Lubbock by being cautious."

During the campaign, which will continue through May 19, the city garbage trucks are to haul off, without charge, everything placed in or near the garbage can except sod.

The committee recommended that all fire hazards be removed from premises. "Keeping dust cloths and inflammable material in the closet with the hot water heater is a most hazardous practice," it was stated.

Officers Named By Civic Center Group

Members of the Civic Center committee elected W. C. Wood, president of the Lubbock Kiwanis club, as their permanent chairman and C. W. Ratliff was named secretary at the first meeting of the group at a luncheon at the Hilton hotel Friday noon.

The committee, composed of Wood, Ratliff, Mayor O. W. Ribble, J. D. Hassell, jr., Jas. L. Quicksall, Fred H. Childress and City Manager Marlin R. Smith, is to make an extensive study of the project and present recommendations for action on it to the City commission.

Visits are planned to various cities throughout the Southwest where projects of a similar nature will be viewed and conferences held with officials regarding operations, maintenance and other problems.

The committee is to recommend that an architect be employed in the near future to act as an ex-officio member and accompany committee members on the various trips

Two-Year Sentences Assessed On Youths

Two years each in the penitentiary was Judge G. V. Pardue's assessment Friday afternoon after two 17-year-old youths, Dennis Carlton and Sidney Parr, and 19-year-old former soldier D. E. Morris had pleaded guilty in 99th district court of having wilfully burned a large haystack at Ralston Purina mills and stolen several automobile trailers.

Morris and Parr were charged under five felony indictments, Carlton under four. The assessment was in each of the charges, to be served concurrently. A jury was waived. Sentence was not asked. Grady West and Bryan Dillard represented defendants.

Five-year suspended sentences were allowed L. C. Chowning, 18, and Walter T. (Buck) Fulcher, 30, both of Lubbock, when they pleaded guilty of theft indictments charges Friday morning.

It was announced that Judge Pardue had appointed former Judge Homer L. Pharr to represent Helen Johnson, 56, negro woman charged with murder in connection with the shooting Saturday midnight of Earl Day, a negro man. Pharr indicated he would seek a raignment of his client at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Burton S. Burks, district attorney, said he would ask that Willie Wilson, 20, a Mexican charged with murder in connection with the shooting three weeks ago of Mercy Romero, 19, a Mexican girl, be arraigned at the same time. The Mexican has employed B. B. Chappell, a Lubbock attorney, to represent him.

Bill On Continuous Court Term Here Is Signed By Governor

Judge G. V. Pardue said Friday afternoon that the governor's signing into law the fixing of time for holding sessions of 99th district court had this effect:

"The Senate March 12 had passed a bill providing for a continuous term of the 99th court. The House passed the bill April 4. Rep. Preston E. Smith informed me in a letter dated Tuesday that the House would vote that day on the Senate bill, which would have the effect of obviating reference of the matter to a joint committee that would have the function of determining whether verbiage of the bills passed was the same and agreeing on necessary changes to make them so acceptable by the two houses.

"Sen. Sterling J. Parrish introduced the bill in the Senate, Representative Smith in the House. The emergency clause obtained, making the law go into immediate effect.

"As a result, 99th district court will open the first Monday in January, close the Saturday before the first Monday in July, when the next six-months session will be convened.

"Further, Lubbock Bar Association expressed its wishes that under the changed setup the entire civil docket be called by this court each first Monday of the year. That hereafter will be the procedure of the court."

Another bill affecting Lubbock was signed by the governor, "creating a road system for Lubbock county." There was no explanation forthcoming from any source here on that announcement, made by the United Press from Austin.

"We don't have any idea," said County Judge Walter Davies. Commissioners expressed the same lack of understanding. The state highway department's officials here did not know what it meant.

Lubbock Third In State As Dean, Lowery Take Firsts

Clay Cops First In Discus Throw

AUSTIN, May 4.—Lubbock's two man track and field squad did right well by themselves here today, and carried off a couple of first places that were good for third place in the state meet of the Texas Interscholastic league's 34th annual meet.

Jim "Pinkey" Lowrey burned up the runways in the half mile gallop, and turned in the greatest race of his career to beat the highly favored defending 1944 champion, Rhea Nichols of Adamson of Dallas, touring the cinder oval in 2 minutes 1.7 seconds. Nichols ran second.

Cliff Dean, the field half of the Westerner track and field team, soared into the air for 12 feet and 6 inches to take first place in the pole vault, making that peak for the first time this year under pressure. Dean had touched 12 feet in every meet he entered, but each time he failed to make the next step, six inches higher.

Dean Is Pushed

For the first time this year, Dean was pushed up to the new peak when second place winner, Richey of Edison (San Antonio) topped 12 feet to crowd Dean for the honors. The co-favorite before the meet, Jack Simpson of Woodrow Wilson, who tied Dean at Fort Worth, fell a foot behind the winner.

In the Region One meeting, Dean broke the regional record, and Lowrey equaled the regional mark.

The other record breaker in the Region One meet, Randall Clay of Pampa, also came in with a first place victory, beating out the highly favored Tom Watt of San Antonio in the discus throw. But Clay's toss at the state meet was six feet under what he did in the regional meet.

W. C. Harrison, the speed merchant of Denver City, a double winner at Lubbock's regional meet, flashed in for fourth place in the 440 yard dash. The only other man to place from Region One was Sutton of Panhandle, who turned in the third best time in the mile run, doing the distance in 4:43.4.

Brackenridge Top Team

With only two men in the finals, the Westerners won as many first places as the meet winning Brackenridge Eagles of San Antonio—two. But manpower overcome the Westerners, and the Eagles dethroned their city rivals, the Thomas Jefferson Mustangs for team honors.

Thomas Jefferson finished second, winning the most first places in the meet, four. Brackenridge scored 29 points with the manpower gaining them plenty of seconds, five to be exact. Jefferson was 2½ points behind the Eagles.

In third place was Lubbock with 10 points, John Reagan (Houston) wound up fourth with 9 and Woodrow Wilson (Dallas) was next with 8½.

A crowd of 3,000 watched one of the finest meets held in the 34-year history of this Texas Interscholastic league event.

No records were broken, although several were approached, and two defending champions fell in the thrilling battles that were all close.

Chunky Perry Samuels of Thomas Jefferson ran the 100 yards in 9.6 seconds, just one-tenth over the record set by his former teammate, Charley Parker, in 1943, and he also won the 220-yard dash in 22 seconds flat to wind up as high point man of the day.

Tom Watt, Brackenridge's defending champion 200-yards low hurdler, finished fourth as Claude Allen, the Midlothian trackster without a coach, romped in with first place in 22.7.

The only titlist to repeat was August Erfurth of Brackenridge, who won the high hurdles in 14.3, two-tenths of a second over the state record. He had been expected to break the mark since he had tied it in a previous meet.

Finishing in sixth place in the meet was Austin of Houston with 7 points, while Austin High and Midlothian tied for seventh with 6 points each.

Other points totals:

La Vega, Pampa and North Side (Fort Worth), 5 each; Abilene, Highland Park (Dallas), Bastrop, San Antonio Tech, Adamson (Dallas) and Edison (San Antonio), 3 each; Wharton, 2½; El Paso, Jacksonville, Orange Grove, Panhandle and Brownwood, 2 each; Lamar (Houston), 1½; Denver City, Talco, South San Antonio, Deer Park and Mt. LAAF-Hobbs To Play Only One Game Today

Lubbock Army Air Field's Fliers raise the curtain on their 1945 baseball campaign at 3 o'clock this afternoon when they tangle with Hobbs Army Air Field's nine in a single game at the main diamond at the big west base.

Planned as a doubleheader with the two negro nines of the two fields meeting in the opener, the schedule was changed Friday and only the two post teams will play, it was said. In addition, bowling, badminton and handball teams from the two fields will clash during the afternoon in what promises to be a day of hot competition.

The game will be the first of more than 30 planned for the LAAF squad thus far this season and will give the Fliers their first real test of the campaign. In a practice session with the LAAF negro nine last week-end, the Fliers won an easy 13 to 4 decision, hitting almost at will but looking a little weak in the field.

Little is known of the Hobbs club, Lieut. Joe B. Holmes, athletic director at LAAF, said, but it is expected that the New Mexico nine will field a strong team.

No permanent lineup has been named for the Fliers as yet, Staff Sgt. Sam West, who is in charge of the club, waiting to see how several of his proteges perform under fire.

The highly controversial question, injected by those who think spring grid work interferes with other sports of that season, was discussed at the annual breakfast of the Interscholastic league held on the occasion of the state meet.

Cobb Makes Motion

The motion, made by P. C. Cobb, athletic director of Dallas High schools, was that a rule be invoked allowing a school to start fall practice August 15 if it does not hold spring training. If spring practice is held, however, the school would have to wait until Sept. 1 to open fall work.

A motion also was passed to recommend to the state council that some plan be worked out for making baseball an official sport of the league. It was left to the council as to whether it be on a state or regional championship basis.

Another motion would increase the points for winners in track and field events in the state meet. Under this plan there would be six places instead of four with points of 10, 8, 6, 4, 2, 1 and with 16, 10, 6, 4, 2, 1 in the relay races. The state executive committee is empowered to act in this matter, the advisory council having already given it an o. k.

Cage Change Hinted

A motion that would have recommended operating Class AA basketball on the same plan as football instead of the bi-district winners going to a state tournament in Austin each year failed to carry.

Dissatisfaction over distribution of receipts led to this move. The teams coming to the tournament get so much per mile instead of sharing in the "gate" and there has been some complaint that they lose money on the trip.

Athletic Director R. J. Kidd of the league said, however, that the tournament was breaking even only after paying expenses and he expressed hope the schools would not decide to discontinue Class AA tournament participation, declaring it would kill interest in basketball which always has been conducted on a tournament basis.

Eighty At Meeting

There were some 80 persons at the league breakfast presided over by T. H. Shelby, chairman of the state league executive committee.

Director Roy Bedichek announced that a referendum on the question of moving the age eligibility date from May 1 back to Sept. 1 would be received by the league members within the next two weeks.

The motion to make spring training optional came after a motion to eliminate spring football altogether failed to get a second. Cobb, in making his motion, stipulated that the vote on the question be by conferences of which there are three in schoolboy football—Class AA, Class A and Class B.

A motion to recommend that a boy who enters the armed service and is discharged then returns to school have the same eligibility status provided he meets the age limitation was defeated by a one-sided vote. Under present rules a boy who returns must await a certain period before he can participate.

A motion was passed to return to separate divisions of debate for boys and girls. Now they are mixed.

Roger Cramer, Detroit Tigers' 39-year-old outfielder, has a batting average of .298 for his 16 years in the American League.

Westerners Turn On Power In Third Spring Grid Tilt

Coach Dixie White's Lubbock Westerners turned on the power Friday afternoon at Chapman field, and the first stringers rolled over the second stringers to the tune of 44 to 0 in a regulation game scrimmage.

But while the Varsity was rolling up the points, the individual honors of the day went to the Scrubs. The vaunted power attack on the First Team circled the ends, went up the middle, and struck through the air, but they never cracked the tackles.

Paul Waters, 170-pound tackle for the losers, was the outstanding man on the field. Waters smeared everything that came his way defensively, and stood out on his blocking assignments. He was a Cowhander last year.

At the other tackle, a lad playing his first football, 180-pound Gene James, was making himself into another stumbling block for the vaunted running attack of the Varsity.

Backing up these two fine tackle prospects was Orlando Moyers, 280 pound tackle, who couldn't be stopped. Moyers, only a sophomore in school, stopped everything the first string could throw at him, and rounded out a forward wall trio that threatens to make some of the first string veterans move over and make room in the starting lineup.

But the Varsity still had scoring punch, and Arthur Rampy was showing a clean pair of heels to the second stringers on several 50 and 60-yard gallops that cheered Coach White. Don Austin, Charles Pressley and John Paul Jones also came in for their share of the scoring honors.

Grade School League Race Near Showdown

The Central Ward Spurs turned in a double victory in the Lubbock grade school softball league race Friday afternoon, while the boys teams from Dupre and Guadelupe turned in single wins.

The Central Ward boys won a 16 to 6 decision over Wilson Wranglers, and the girls pounded out a 36 to 11 victory.

With Simon Hernandez and Gregoria Ramos dividing the pitching honors, Guadelupe won an 8 to 3 victory over the Bean Broncos. The Dupre Dogies pounded out a 20 to 10 win over the Sanders Steers.

President Off To A Good Start

NOW THAT President Harry S. Truman has been in office for a matter of three weeks, and observers have had opportunity to watch him in action and study his methods in light of his background, general opinion in Washington and around the country undoubtedly is: "He's all right."

Not the dynamic, sensational personality that Mr. Roosevelt was, Mr. Truman nevertheless has his own strong points. Some of them are not those which Mr. Roosevelt possessed, but they are strong points more needed by Mr. Truman, coming in, as he does, behind the late President.

Members of the capital press corps generally sum Mr. Truman up as being "decisive." (When he finds a bad situation he moves in on it before it gets worse, rather than letting it ride, is the general opinion of newsmen.) He is a man of "action." (When he thinks he has the facts in a case, he goes ahead, is the summation.) He is "courageous." (He proved that as chairman of the Senate committee investigating war activities. He recognized no 'sacred' cows and moved in on miscreants no matter who they were.) He is a sincere "liberal." (But not an impractical 'uplifter' who would try to remake the world overnight.)

Important, too, is the summation of his character.

"There is no question of his honesty and integrity," is the verdict among those with best reason to know. On top of that he is applauded as being a "hard worker."

All in all, the new President looks like he can and will "fill the bill" to the satisfaction of a great majority of his fellow citizens, as he undoubtedly has done thus far.

If he does, he will be his party's nominee for a full elective term in 1948—and he will be difficult to beat.

As a matter of fact, most Americans outside the ranks of those who look upon a political party as something approaching a religion will naturally back him for an elective term if he makes good on the one Fate handed him.

And that is what they should do.

There Are Two Mad Dogs

THUS far, and perhaps naturally, the American people and the heads of United Nations governments have talked much more about "what shall be done with defeated Germany" than about what shall be done to Japan when the last Nip is beaten to his knees.

The problems, as we view them, are identical — and of equal importance. If there were two mad dogs loose in town it would do no good to shoot one and let the other continue to run loose. As we lay plans to keep Germany from ever becoming strong enough to again plunge the world into a blood bath, we should also lay similar plans to keep Japan in line.

Maj. Gen. Robert S. Beightler, who has been through much of the fighting in the Pacific, including the recent re-capture of much of the Philippines, sums up the Japanese angle fairly well with this statement:

"We must never, never forget the revolting, savage cruelty of the Japs. They must never be allowed to escape this war with only a military defeat."

Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo, an aide to Gen. Douglas MacArthur and one of the leaders of the Filipino people ,remarks:

"Manila is dead and Tokyo must die — not in reprisal, but as a defense measure necessary to insure Pacific peace."

There is the testimony of two men who know the Japs.

The world, and especially the American people, will do well to remember this testimony at the proper time.

Police Have Troubles, Too

THE LUBBOCK police department, individually and collectively, has been under the hammer of public opinion several times recently in connection with charges that arrested persons have been unnecessarily slapped, beaten, or "pushed around." While it is our studied opinion that there has been more smoke than fire in these charges, there undoubtedly has been some fire. There should be no more. There shouldn't have been any in the first place.

But Avalanche-Journal reporters who "cover" the police and who do not uphold the "rock 'em and sock 'em" theory that several officers have espoused at times, say that sometimes the patience of a plaster saint would be tried by persons who run afoul of the law. Just the other day a man berated and cursed officers arresting him on a drunk charge of which he was plainly guilty—daring them to hit him because "you'll get fired if you do." The officers miraculously held their heads and their tempers and the man drew a $65 fine, $15 for drunkenness and $50 for excessive use of abusive language, instead of the nominal $15 drunk fine he ordinarily would have been assessed.

That is the way such cases should be handled. No prisoner should be struck unless he offers physical harm to an arresting officer and then he should be banged over the noggin hard enough to put him away for awhile and thus rendered unable to injure others.

It is true that officers give up much of their individual rights when they don a badge. But it is only fair to say that sometimes they lose their heads only because it is human nature to do so under excessive insult.

THE STORY: Nick Trent, Army pilot, has been buzzbombed out of the war. On the boat home a mysterious stranger named Booker makes him a vague money-proposition which he turns down. Pat Hudson and Charley Strand, old friends, greet him at the dock. Pat notices Booker staring at them and wonders who he is. Nick arranges to meet Charley later the same afternoon at the Parker House.

ENTER CALAVESTRI
II

NO MAN ever went with a more unsuspecting heart than I to the Parker House that fall afternoon.

Pat and I had eaten a long lunch at the Locke-Ober, where I had a steak and three cups of the first real coffee I'd tasted in 123 days. We'd sat around afterwards and chinned some and then she'd made me promise to come up to the house for dinner that night.

Now as I walked across the Common, everything was in its place. The same sleek squirrels and pigeons were getting their peanuts and breadcrumbs from the same sanctimonious old ladies and the same leather-lunged newsboy was hawking his papers outside the subway kiosk at Park Street.

At the Parker House I bought some cigarets and a paper and sat down to read and smoke. There was a subdued hum of activity in the lobby and I was slowly anaesthetizing myself in the book reviews when I suddenly had an uneasy feeling. I felt that I was being watched. Finally, I put down the paper and looked across the room.

At first, she looked a mere girl. Slim and dark, with unforgettably dark eyes and blue-black hair, she regarded me fixedly. She was wearing a fur tippet which I shall always have occasion to remember and her fur-trimmed suit matched the hat. What struck me most was the unwavering vigilance of those serious dark eyes. I looked back at my paper and read four times that car loadings were off. When I looked across again, she still gazed steadily at me.

I NEVER knew how long Booker had been watching us. It was my first experience with his habit of omnipresence. He stood just inside the revolving door with a tiny stub of cigaret between his lips. As soon as he saw that I saw him, he came toward me.

"Well, Trent," he said, "this is a surprise." He tilted his head in the direction of the dark-eyed girl across the lobby. "You two should meet."

"Who?"

Booker laughed.

"The lady in the tippet. The one you've been receiving 'fair, speechless messages' from."

In the genteel atmosphere of a hotel lobby, singleness of purpose comes hard. So despite an inward resolve to have nothing whatever to do with Booker, I weakened. Besides I was curious. Even as I walked across the lobby, I reminded myself of a little saying about the curious cat.

"Magda," said Booker, "may I present Captain Nicholas Trent; Miss Calavestri."

She gave me her hand. It was ice-cold. I noticed too how very pale she was, and how very alert.

I dug down in the morass of my memory: Magda Calavestri. That name had a very familiar sound. Then I came up with 1940's headlines — a woman who had fled across half of Europe when a regency had been set up to dispose of a king who had loved her.

"Nicholas Trent," she said and she appeared to repeat the name to herself. Her voice was amazingly rich and deep. She glanced swiftly up at Booker with the faintest hint of question, then looked back at me.

Booker smiled thinly.

"I've been trying to get Trent to join me in a little enterprise, but he seems to lack the acquisitive instinct."

"That is where you make your mistake, Booker," she said. "You judge everyone by your own standards." She turned to me. "Did he tell you what the enterprise was, Mr. Trent?"

"No."

I saw her face relax and she said to Booker:

"Perhaps that is where you made your mistake."

Booker stiffened. The little clefts at the corners of his mouth turned white. With his bony hand he fingered his chin.

"You can't expect to interest a man in any other way," she continued simply. "Where are you staying, Mr. Trent?"

"At a friend's, until I can get an apartment."

"Here in the city?" she asked.

She spoke quite casually, but I sensed an alertness in the attitude of each of them. She was fishing and I knew it, but while I was debating the answer, Booker said:

"Magda, you are losing your subtlety."

I saw a flash of anger in her eyes.

"It's the Commonwealth Apartments," I said. "Suite 9A."

Both their heads turned toward me. In the silence that followed I had a feeling that I had done something very foolish.

CALAVESTRI was searching in her bag for something when I caught sight of Charley coming thorough the door.

"I have an engagement," I said. "It has been pleasant."

A strange look came into Magda Calavestri's eyes. I sensed that she wanted desperately to tell me something, but was prevented by Booker's presence.

"I'm sorry you have to leave, Mr. Trent," she said evenly. She gave me her hand, the one that had been searching in her bag, and I felt the pressure of something hard and cold in my palm.

"I hope we may meet again soon. Meanwhile I should advise that you avoid like the plague this insistent individual." She gave Booker a long, significant look. "His instincts are wholly predatory and his impulses are never good."

Booker bowed elaborately.

"Thank you, my dear Calavestri," he said. "After all, I have to compensate somehow for my lack of charm."

I had something in my hand. Something that Magda Calavestri had given me. And as I turned to go, I saw her lips frame the word: "Tonight."

Looking At Life - - - - - - By Erich Brandeis

I READ about an interesting case yesterday.

A prominent banker had been approached by some real estate men about investing a considerable amount of money in a suburban home development near the Atlantic seaboard.

The deal was nearing completion, when the banker decided to look over the property by himself.

He drove out to the proposed homesite which is located west of the city and noticed that almost all the way out the sun was shining so intensely right into his face that he could hardly see the road.

A little more investigation indicated that the same sun, rising in the east, equally would blind the home-owners as they drove to their work in the morning.

The development was intended for wealthy people most of whom would drive to and from their offices.

The next day the banker called the deal off.

Here was a piece of land ideal in every respect but one.

A less sagacious person than the banker would probably never have noticed that one handicap which was almost sure to spell failure for the enterprise.

The average person goes into many a venture without the proper precautions.

Marriage is probably the least investigated of all undertakings.

And yet, there, too, the sun so often blinds the parties to the deal.

Then, when the contract is signed, it is too late.

HOW many of thousands of people have bought homes without really knowing what they were buying?

I know of a shrewd real estate woman who sold the same old ramshackle house over and over again just because it was covered with beautiful wisteria and a picket rence surrounded the otherwise awful place.

The buyers moved in with storybook anticipation, but after a few months found out that even the most beautiful wisteria cannot take the place of decent plumbing and that termites are none the less destructive because of a picket fence.

No matter what you buy, it is a pretty good idea to take a leaf out of the banker's book—don't let the sun blind you so that you can't see the road ahead.

Big U. S. Postwar Navy Is Urged

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker

HIGH admirals and members of the House Appropriations subcommittee handling naval funds took a few hours off from formal matters at recent executive sessions and exchanged views on the size and strength of the U. S. Fleet in the postwar period. Listeners-in would have got the impression that they were congenial jingoists, but their conclusions prevail on Capitol Hill.

The Forrestal spokesmen insisted that the United States, for defense and diplomatic considerations, should maintain the largest blue-water armada in the world. By "blue-water armada" they mean a force which, like our present task units, can go and fight anywhere in the seven seas with or without land bases. However, the sailors insist on retaining major harbors in the Far Pacific and Atlantic.

TUCKER

Getting down to brass tacks, the admirals declared that, at the close of the conflict, we should keep all the functional, operating vessels of all classes except small landing boats. Our warships are suffering terrific wear and tear, so that the postbellum era may not find us with as many seaworthy and battle-going ships as might be supposed.

For instance, if we wind up with 40 battleships and heavy cruisers capable of duty, the Navy and Congressional brethern believe that we should keep them in readiness for action everywhere. If our strength in carriers should be 60 after Japan's defeat, they think the U. S. ought not scrap a single flat top. And the same applies to light cruisers, destroyers, submarines, tankers and necessary auxiliaries.

It is believed that President Truman may be as big a Navy man as Franklin Roosevelt. Middle Westerners, many of whom never see the ocean till they grow up, have always been naval romanticists. Our three top seadogs—Admiral Leahy, King and Nimitz—were born in Iowa, Ohio and Texas respectively.

HIROHITO: The bombing of Berchtesgaden should make Hirohito shake in his sandals. The all-out attack on the Bavarian chalet warns that the imperial palace of the bespectacled and imprisoned Japanese boss may not be held sacrosanct by our Army and Navy fliers in the coming showdown days.

Jimmy Doolittle had strict orders not to harm the "heavenly grounds" on his pioneering raid over the Japanese capital. American forces were then a long distance from the Philippines, Iwo Jima and Okinawa. We were taking no chances.

But Washington sentiment and policy have changed since those dark days. It is now believed that a sound strafing of the home of Nippon's make-believe divinity would demoralize the Japanese people, especially if it caused his death.

SCHEMERS: Experienced military and diplimatic men in Washington, who have seen service in the Far East, argue that the emperor is only the puppet of the war lords and capitalists, although the conspirators conceal that truth from kowtowing Japanese.

In fact, it is known that Hirohito did not want war with the United States, and instructed his pre-Pearl Harbor cabinets to keep that in mind. But they flouted him. It is believed that he was not permitted to see President Roosevelt's last-minute plea for peace because Zero planes were then winging their way toward Honolulu.

Shintoism, which is only a system of emperor-worship, was imposed on the populace by palace schemers so that the people could be kept under control. Having sold the shibboleth of the "imperial holiness" to the multitude, and then manipulated the emperor with hidden strings, the Togos, the Mitsuis and the Mitsubishis became the real rulers of the country.

GOOSE: Japan's "big guns" have never shown the respect for the emperor which they have inculcated in the nation as a cloak for their military and financial adventures.

Hirohito was shot at in an attempted assassination when he was the regent in 1923. Many predecessors have borne similar indignities. Only a few years ago ministers of a peace-minded cabinet which he had helped to pick, among them several members of the imperial circle, were murdered by rampaging jingoists.

Nevertheless, the warmakers have managed to picture him as a godlike person to the little folk, especially to the peasants, whose sons are the principal source of their cannon fodder.

In recent conferences in Washington, our best authorities on Japan have advised a direct blitzkrieg on Hirohito. One objection is that it might infuriate the hypnotized Japanese population and inspirit it to fight more fanatically and suicidally. But the consensus is that the emperor's death from the bombs of a despised western enemy would awaken the nation from its medieval and commercialized stupor.

One final consideration may spare the weak, spindle-legged, nearsighted occupant of the throne. Should defeat bring the same social and economic collapse to Japan that it has to Germany, Italy and the Balkans, the United Nations may need him as a stabilizing influence in the Jap-controlled sections of the Far East. Save for that factor, he is a gone goose!

WINNING THE WAR

ORGANIZED opposition to the expansion of the Reciprocol Trade Agreements act is growing in New York manufacturing circles, although more Republican businessmen support the lowering of tariff barriers than ever before.

Foes of the Hull pacts championed by President Truman reason tha. it will be dangerous to open the doors so wide as to unsettle American industry, when little real trade except with South America can be expected directly after the war.

Europe and Asia, they maintain, will be so flat that they cannot purchase consumers' goods from us except on loans from United States taxpayers. Their own gold will be used to buy food and rehabilitation machinery.

LEMAN

Many Manhattan executives think that President Truman's return to party government means that the Democrats will present a solid front in favor of low rates and that the Republicans as a unit will revert to their traditional protectionist stand.

GOP businessmen and members of Congress accuse Democratic spokesmen of not telling the truth when they say that tariff walls kept out imports and that the Smoot-Hawley act helped pave the way for World War II.

They contend that under this Republican measure the majority of commodities came in duty free, such as drugs from the East Indies, farm machinery from Britain and Germany, coffee from Brazil, rubber from Malaya. The high duties on watches did not prevent importers of Swiss timepieces from selling here at a profit.

If the GOP trade law was so bad, they ask, why didn't the Democrats repeal it at once in 1933?

TRADE: Republican protectionists believe that if the public knew a bit more about what went on in the pre-Roosevelt days of tariff making, it wouldn't be so willing to accept—sight unseen—the new low rate proposals.

In the past, Congress usually split neatly down the aisle when the subject of rates was before it. A small group—Atlantic seaboard and Louisiana "sugar" Democrats—joined the GOP and a few Republicans from farm states went over to the opposition.

World Spirit Missing At Parley

By THOMAS L. STOKES
Special Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO.—The feelings and impressions of an average American observer at such a momentous event as this United Nations conference are a part of reporting.

This is true especially if such an observer has lived, as this one has, through the period of two World wars; if he has been swept up eagerly in the wave of idealism that immediately followed the first World war and then dropped, as from a high place, into the trough of disillusionment; if he has had a look at the second World war which grew out of the first, even though a quick look at its European phase, but enough to see and feel the awful destruction that man has brought upon himself.

STOKES

The outstanding impression of this observer after watching this conference for 10 days is that these men gathered here have been too timid, have looked too closely—almost with microscopic selfishness—at their own little national interests. They have followed too much the age-old pattern of what is known as diplomacy, which has come to be another name for sharp dealing and trickery.

Missing Boldness Needed

Boldness is needed here to shape a new world, and such boldness seems to be missing. Someone is needed who will stand up bravely and proclaim that the only thing to fear is fear itself, as Franklin Roosevelt once did to rally us to a fight against depression and despair. Our own world in this country was tottering about us then.

Another world has fallen about us, a whole world, and we need a voice to lift us up, even if only the still small voice in all of us.

If this is the feeling of an American reporter, how much stronger would be the feeling if they could know about this, of those who have fought in this war? Those who have survived the millions of their comrades killed and are going back some day to their homes all over the world, some whole of body if not of spirit, some maimed for life and consigned to watch the slow procession of empty days and years. How strong the feeling would be among the mothers of the world, and the wives and the sisters.

These can not be here. The boys are still needed on the battlefield. The mothers and wives and sisters still must wait at home.

THIS may sound naive and simple, although it comes from one who has watched men perform in their political capacities for many years, one who knows something about human beings, one who has learned the hard necessity of compromise and being practical.

But this is not an ordinary situation that the men of 46 nations face here. This is it. This is the vital hour of history. Someone should speak out.

This is not to say that there is no hope in this conference, no sincerity and well-meaning. For there is. There is a semblance of democratic spirit here which is fine. There is attention to the interests of small nations to a degree. But there could be so much more, so that these men here would rise above themselves and do something really noble.

Philadelphia Spirit Needed

Those men who assembled in Philadelphia so many years ago also were practical men. But they had something else—a vision, a determination, a big spiritedness—and this has come down to us from that hall so that it still lives among us citizens of the United States of America.

That is needed today, out here in San Francisco.

WE need less of the things that we reporters see and hear, as we go about from meeting to meeting here. We need less of the old "spheres of influence" philosophy that is apparent in the orbits Great Britain and Russia and ourselves are building up, just as in the past, to be pitted again at each other in combinations here and hereafter.

We need less talk of who won this or that diplomatic skirmish, as if this were a game on an athletic field somewhere on a sunny afternoon in spring, instead of a deadly serious matter involving the lives and fortunes of all for generations to come. We need less talk of ourselves as Americans, or Englishmen, or Frenchmen, or Russians, or Chinese, or Belgians or Greeks, and more thought of ourselves as citizens of the world who must get together if we are to survive.

We need courage to think of ourselves as human beings.

Legion Sets District Convention Sunday

Herman G. Nami, San Antonio attorney and candidate for state commander of the American Legion, will attend the district 19 Legion convention here Sunday.

O. K. Woodall of Littlefield, district commander, is to preside at the convention and Mrs. J. O. Cade of Lubbock, district president of the legion auxiliary, will be in charge of the auxiliary meeting.

An open meeting of both groups is to be conducted at 11 a. m. at Hilton hotel and lunch is to be served at 12:30 at the Legion hall. Business sessions will open at 2 p. m. at the hall and the legion and auxiliary will meet separately.

Included in business will be the election of district commander for the next two years and selection of delegates to state and national conventions.

There are 32 posts in the district.

Perspective deals with the phenomena of appearance and is usually applied to the construction of drawings intended to represent objects as seen from some definite point of view.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Buses are overburdened as never before. A crisis is near. With more men, tires and gas going to war, present service can barely be maintained. Each day brings greater loads. When you must travel locally, let this be your creed:

1. Do Not Ride in Rush Hours, except to and from your job.
2. Have Exact Fare Ready, saves time and fuss.
3. Move Back When Driver Asks, speeds your ride.

This simple creed will work wonders.

THANKS FARMERS
IN BEHALF of our boys in the armed forces, we wish to thank you for the way you responded to our plea for large clean grade A eggs. Because of your patriotic cooperation, we have been able to get their eggs to them much faster than could have been possible otherwise. We still have many more war department orders to fill, and the government is looking to you to help us meet our increased quotas.
If you haven't heard of the way that you can make more money, and still be helping our soldier boys, ask your neighbor, or we will give you the information. Your large clean grade A eggs are still desperately needed. Thanks again.

IRRIGATION FARM FOR SALE CLOSE IN AND A BARGAIN
150 acres of fine land, located about 1 1/2 miles out of Lubbock on pavement. A very fine irrigation well, fair improvements. This is a real investment. All mineral rights go. 58 acres produced 92 bales of cotton in 1944, and the feed crop was equally as good. The owner received over $3,000.00 in rents. Considering the distance from town, the possibilities of oil and the fine land, this is a bargain at $140.00 per acre. Mr. Investor, this is your chance to own a close-in farm.

"highly successful" raid on the day's German convoy.

A preliminary count on the day's operations showed at least 13 ships sunk and 61 damaged despite bad weather and very heavy flak defense put up by some ships.

In more favorable weather yesterday Allied planes sank at least 53 vessels and damaged nearly 100 others.

In southwestern Czechoslovakia and northern Austria, U. S. Ninth Airforce fighter-bombers attacked Nazi rail and road traffic during the day.

They destroyed or damaged 30 locomotives, 200 railroad cars and 90 trucks, many of them in the Karlsbad-Bucholz area, and wrecked one German plane on the ground.

Of the first 300 planes sent out by the Ninth, one was reported lost.

Ickes Seizes More Bituminous Mines

WASHINGTON, May 4. (AP)—Solid Fuels Administrator Ickes today took possession of 33 bituminous coal mines, bringing to 272 the total number, exclusive of anthracite mines, held by the government.

Today's action, at mines which have remained idle since April 30 because the workers failed to go back under a new contract agreement, was taken under an executive order issued on April 10, empowering him to take possession of bituminous mines where strikes or threats of strikes interfere with production. The previously-held 239 soft coal mines were taken on April 10 and yesterday.

Ickes directed that the mines be re-opened for work Monday morning and appealed to the 10,500 workers to return to the pits "to speed winning of the war with Japan."

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up .1 of a point at 65.2, equalling the recent peak since Aug. 31, 1937. Of 947 issues appearing, 475 are gains against 472 down or changed.

The movement of the staple into the loan and purchase program fell off somewhat according to the latest CCC statistics.

Two Armies Surrender

4. The remnants of the German Ninth and 12th armies, beaten by the Russians, gave up to the U. S. Ninth Army west of Berlin near Stendal.

5. The Bavarian - Austrian redoubt vanished, with the U. S. Seventh Army seizing Hitler's Berchtesgaden, the bastion of Salzburg, and Innsbruck, key to communications in the Alps. Organized resistance virtually ceased on a 70-mile front and 50,000 prisoners were taken.

6. The Seventh Army plowed on into Italy through the Brenner pass, meeting the U. S. Fifth Army's Italian veterans.

7. The U. S. Third Army accepted surrender of an entire Panzer division at the Czechoslovak border, then drove 10 miles or more unopposed inside, threatening to outflank the arsenals of Pilsen.

8. The Third Army last was reported three miles from the stronghold of Linz, and the German communique said the Americans had entered that third largest city of Austria.

Civilians Flee Reds

9. Pilots back from Czechoslovakia bombing missions said thousands of civilians were in flight from Prague, fleeing toward the American lines ahead of the Russians. Apparently they were German civilians.

Involved in the surrender of Denmark, Holland and northwest Germany were these forces under the overall command of Field Marshal Ernst von Busch:

Col. Gen. Johannes Blaskowitz's armies in the Netherlands.

Col. Gen. Georg Lindemann's armies in Denmark.

Gen. Schiemm's First Paratroop Army.

A makeshift Army under the command of Gen. Gunther Blumentritt.

The German 25th Army.

Doenitz Discounted

Supreme headquarters discounted reports that Doenitz himself figured in the surrender, asserting that the capitulation was strictly a "battlefield surrender" and Doenitz now is considered head of Germany.

The abrupt capitulation of the Germans to Field Marshal Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's forces stilled the guns of Europe's northern battlefields for the first time since fateful Sept. 1, 1939.

All the Reich that Hitler ruled when he came to power had vanished save for a tiny shread of Bavaria around fallen Berchtesgaden.

All the soldiers who on that September day struck at Poland to erect a Reich for 1,000 years, were dead, captured or were backed into isolated Norway, the southern pocket, already cut in two, around Dresden and in surrounded French ports.

Four Armies Released

The fall of the German armies in the north released the British Second, Canadian First and U. S. First and Ninth armies for the invasion of Norway or the attack on the broken enemy retreat in Austria and Czechoslovakia.

The surrender embraced many a symbol of German might, both military and economic.

There were the great naval base of Kiel, the rock of Helgoland which Kaiser Wilhelm fortified to defy the British in another generation, the port of Bremerhaven from which ocean liners used to sail, and the U-boat nests of Emden and Wilhelmshaven.

It ended five years of bondage and starvation for the greatest cities of Holland—Amsterdam, Rotterdam, Utrecht, and The Hague, where the nations once met to try to abolish wars.

Invaded In 1940

Holland was invaded May 10, 1940, and Denmark April 9 of the same year.

There was no immediate suggestion where the surrender was signed.

(Stockholm's Afton Tidningen reported earlier that Montgomery had met at Flensburg, near the Danish border, with Grand Admiral Karl Doenitz, who has proclaimed himself Hitler's heir.)

Also unanswered was whether Doenitz intended to flee to Norway. The broadcast of the German high command communique from Copenhagen indicated that he was in the Danish capital.

Governor Vetoes Cochran Tax Bill

AUSTIN, May 4. (UP) — Gov. Coke R. Stevenson today vetoed two bills of the present legislature, one of which would have levied a county wide school tax in Cochran county, and the other fixed salaries for assistant county attorneys in Galveston county.

Each veto was accompanied with the same message that the governor has sent to the legislature in vetoing other bills that were limited by brackets so as to apply to single places. This message recited the Supreme court ruling that such bills are unconstitutional.

Tech's 'Fish Day' Bells Almost Set Off V-E Jubilee

Texas Tech's victory bells pealed out shortly after midnight, and dozens of sleepy-eyed Lubbockites, thinking the war was over, hurried to their telephones to ask if big news had broken.

Many calls were received at the Avalanche-Journal offices, and several were also answered at the police station. Queries by excited citizens included, "Say, is the war over?" "What are the Tech victory bells ringing about?" And, "When did the war end?"

Texas Tech freshmen rang the bells to usher in "Fish day" on the campus. As another part of this annual event, a freshman flag was run up on the campus as a challenge to the upper classmen.

Soviet 'Victory'

ed a water glass filled with Russian rum or vodka?

Suffice it to say that when subsequent courteous but compulsory toasts were drunk to the Red Army, the American Army, the British Army and the Allies in general, the American correspondents were almost total casualties. It wasn't necessary to call in the heavy weapons — second round toasts to Truman, Stalin, Churchill et al.

Pals Put 'Em To Bed

The smiling Soviets put the Yankee pals to bed.

The second assault wave, plus a few survivors of the first, avoided announcement plans and declined drinks on pleas of stomach ailments, the only excuse the Russians seem to recognize. But even such tactics require requests for information on whether the road ahead is clear or still inhabited by Germans. Strangely, the Soviet soldiers were unable to remember such trifling details unless you had time to sit down and eat and drink with them.

If you insisted too much they called in an officer who gently explained that the road ahead was dangerous. Furthermore you were his friend, his ally, his responsibility and he would be nothing less than a traitor to the United Nations if he permitted you to proceed further, but wouldn't you stay awhile and eat and drink?

Somehow, the conversation always got around to that. It's easy to understand the Russian successes. They simply know with which weapons they excel and insist on getting their choice.

If you became really troublesome and persisted on your way, you encountered numerous large, rough looking characters who waved tommyguns and understood no language whatever except that you were to turn back.

Then It Gets Worse

And if you proceeded beyond that point you heard one of the world's most discouraging sounds—the chatter of Russian machineguns. They were not aimed at you, understand, but somehow it seemed a warning to stop.

After all, the Russian officer had explained that he couldn't be responsible for what happened to reporters who insisted on taking risks.

Thus the second, third and fourth reporter assault waves returned to lick their wounds—and to find that the Russians hadn't overlooked even the remote possibility that they might have gotten through to Berlin. Supreme headquarters announced it would not pass a single story thus obtained until it had been approved by Russian censors.

Chalk one up to the big Red team.

way that can be felt as well as heard.

The announcement that German troops had surrendered to Field Marshal Montgomery reached Denmark in a BBC broadcast at 8:30 p.m. (Danish time) and immediately the capital seemed to boil with jubilant, thankful humanity.

Old and young, rich and poor streamed into the streets, bringing with them all they had in voice, laughter, flags and kisses.

Strangers embraced each other and exchanged precious cigarettes. They called one another the familiar "thou" and slapped any and every person's back.

Youths climbed roofs of tram cars and rode through the city screaming the news. Trucks and automobiles—the few that are left—drove about, filled to overflowing and decorated in Allied colors.

Reports Say Nazi Axeman In Denmark

STOCKHOLM, May 4 (AP)—Reports from a usually reliable source said tonight that Heinrich Himmler, Gestapo chief and commander of the German home army, was in Denmark.

This might mean that Admiral Karl Doenitz and other officials of his German government also are in that country.

There has been no indication here that British forces yet have crossed into Danish territory.

sian Army caged thousands of additional German prisoners as the Nazis laid down their arms in Mecklenburg province in anticipation of general capitulation.

Off the Baltic coast, the island naval and seaplane base of Reugen was brought under heavy aerial attack, while Russian planes also swept over island-bound Swinemuende.

The prisoner count in Berlin still mounted as additional German troops emerged from underground hideouts, but so far there were no reports that the Russians had found the remains of either Adolf Hitler or Propaganda Minister Goebbels.

Fire Destroys Evidence

Hitler's body was not found in the Reichschancellery, where the Germans asserted he had died May 1, but a fire in the chancellery seemed to have destroyed any evidence if Hitler actually died there. Russians expressed the opinion that both Hitler and Goebbels had succeeded in escaping.

The German high command finally admitted the loss of Berlin, and in another German pocket in the Courland peninsula of northwestern Latvia the enemy command reported that there was no fighting. The remnants of 30 trapped Nazi divisions have held out in this area since last fall.

Thousands Surrendering

Moscow dispatches said that from almost every sector of the Russo-German front, thousands of German soldiers were surrendering, giving indications that they felt they had "performed their duty" to Hitler and that now their fate was in their own hands.

The Germans were reportedly giving up in such large numbers that it was difficult to get an accurate figure of the overall toll, and it may be several days before complete figures are issued for fighting during the past two weeks.

Pacific Battles

Chinese high command reported. But in northern Hupeh province Japanese succeeded in contacting the encircled Nipponese pocket inside Laohokow, former American air base city.

In the Philippines, American 24th division doughboys fought Japanese rearguards from house to house in battered Davao, east coast port on Mindanao island, and threw back Nipponese counter-attacks outside the city.

Road Junction Taken

MacArthur said the 31st division driving through central Mindanao northwest of Davao advanced 14 miles to take the road junction at Kibawe, and that Filipino guerrillas had cleaned the Japanese out of Surigao province on the island.

In northern Luzon, American infantrymen completed mopping up Baguio, Philippine summer capital, and freed the towns of Itogon, Antamok and Acops.

Marianas-based Superforts in sizable force, probably around 100 planes, hit three airfields on Kyushu island and another on Shikoku island, both in the southern Japan mainland, yesterday for the second straight day of B-29 attacks on vital enemy air installations in that area. Headquarters said bombing results were good and no planes were lost to Japanese action.

Kirke Simpson

way, similar surrenders in Czechoslovakia and in what is left of the Bavarian redoubt cannot be long delayed. Unopposed American seizure of Salzburg, eastern pivot of that Alpine retreat, foreshadows that. It had already been exposed in the south by the German surrender in Italy and there is little doubt that Hitler's famed lair at Berchtesgaden, already bomb wrecked, is now in Allied hands or surrounded.

By every indication, although Moscow has been silent for days as to exact whereabouts of Russian columns, an American-Russian link-up in the Linz area on the Danube is at hand if it has not already taken place. That would complete the Allied-Russian encirclement of Czechoslovakia since Russian forces in the south and north joined hands two days ago in the Morava valley to close that southeastern gap.

It is highly probable that arrangements for surrender in the field of such German troops as have holed up behind Czechoslovakian mountains are in process. Allied and Russian reluctance to carry the full ravages of war into that country where Hitler started his thwarted conquest march has been obvious in the development of the campaign that has now swept all Germany clear and most of Austria as well as all Italy.

News Briefs

Discovery in a Morton service station of a crude, makeshift bomb was reported to Lubbock military and civil authorities Friday afternoon. The bomb was to be turned over to the FBI, military sources said. It consists of a Band-Aid cylindrical box almost filled with powder and small shot with a rubber-encased wire for a fuse. One observer opined that it might have been made for killing of birds—placed in bushes and detonated electrically.

Two-room servants' quarters and a rick of corn nearby on a farm five miles northwest of Lubbock were destroyed by fire Friday afternoon. Fire Chief W. E. Twitty said the dwelling caught fire when an oil stove exploded, the flames spreading to the corn rick.

Mrs. Jack Puryear, of 2008 Ave. J, suffered a head injury about 6:30 o'clock Friday night when the cab in which she was riding crashed into the rear of a car that stopped suddenly in 1200-block Nineteenth. Driver of the cab was Johnny Day of 2008 Ave. K, according to Don Stewart and Rufus Penny, investigating police patrolmen. The other automobile left the scene of the accident without stopping, they said. Mrs. Puryear was taken in a Plains ambulance to Lubbock General hospital. She received emergency treatment and was released.

Police took legal recourse again Friday in their defense against a recent upsurge of "contrariness" among their prisoners. Irie L. Duke, 26, of Lubbock, was charged with using abusive language toward a peace officer after his arrest for drunkenness at 1:25 o'clock yesterday morning in 1200-block Broadway. Duke allegedly directed abusive language toward Policemen L. W. Bell and L. N. Bartley when he was being booked at the police station. He pleaded guilty to the abusive language charge and was assessed a $25 fine by City Recorder Solon Lea. He paid this and a $15 fine for drunkenness. Newspaper reporters have noted a sharp increase in rebelliousness among those who run afoul of the law since publicity of the city commission's recent rebuke of the police department for purported "discourtesy" toward the public.

Rhea Nell Gregory, 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Gregory of Abernathy, died about midnight Friday in Lubbock General hospital. The body is at Rix Funeral home.

The body of C. E. Mann, 47, of 502 Ave. H, who died early Thursday in St. Mary's hospital, was sent Friday night to Annona, Tex., where burial will probably be Sunday, Byran McDonald and Son Funeral home reported.

Mrs. J. N. Farr Dies At Her Home Here

Mrs. J. N. Farr, 72, died Friday afternoon at her residence in northwest Lubbock after an extended illness.

Mrs. Farr is survived by a brother, J. R. Streater of Temple; three sons, M. S. Farr of Levelland; Thomas Farr of Whiteface, and J. B. Farr of Galveson; six sisters, Mrs. A. C. Murrell of Coleman county, Mrs. J. T. Vandveer of Nolanville, Mrs. Arch Gee of Temple, Mrs. R. D. Akerson of Temple, Mrs. W. A. Ellis of Wichita Falls, and Mrs. Ollie Shipp of Phoenix, Ariz.; four daughters, Mrs. Lula Ashby of Lubbock, Mrs. Paul Nelms of Lubbock, Mrs. Denver Ross of Temple, and Mrs. J. W. Read of Happy; 24 grandchildren; and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Rix Funeral home chapel, with Rev. Jeff Welch, pastor of the Central Baptist church, officiating. Burial will be in Memorial Park cemetery.

American Airmen Freed Near Braunau

WITH THE U. S. THIRD ARMY IN GERMANY, May 4 (AP)—The Third Army today found 21,000 Allied prisoners, including 4,100 American airmen, in woods five miles south of Braunau.

The Americans, appearing for the most part in fair physical condition, scribbled their names on frayed envelopes, cardboard ration boxes, labels and other scraps of paper in a desire to notify their families of their safety.

These names of air crew sergeants from Texas were included: Elmo N. Fisk, Austin; Joe Bullard, Madisonville; Harold O. Lee, Houston; Archie M. Thomas, Coleman; Gerald E. F. Swift, Dallas; Scott F. Swinburn, El Campo; William Mavity, Calhoun; A. C. Beckham, Fort Worth.

Included also was the name of Tom W. Bagwell, Hobbs, N. M.

Cinco De Mayo To Be Tame Day With Mexicans In City

Lubbock Latin-Americans apparently will make a passive observance today of Cinco de Mayo, anniversary of the election of Santa Anna, first president of the Mexican republic.

Father James A. Noon of St. Joseph's church said that no public events had been planned in the Mexican quarter.

"Cinco de Mayo evidently is not as important to local Mexicans as their Independence day (Sept. 16)," said Mrs. George Duval, former long-time principal of Guadalupe school. "At least, their observance of the day is restrained."

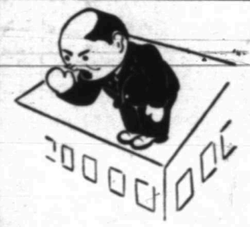

There possibly will be isolated observance of the day. Some families usually set a "heavier" table—more enchiladas, tortillas, tomales, chile and frijoles.

Police said there was no more activity than usual in the Mexican district last night.

Congratulations To:

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Davis, 1311 Ninth, on birth of a daughter weighing 6 pounds 8 ounces at 12:44 p. m. Friday in the residence, Porter-Sistrand clinic reported. The father is a mechanic.

The P-59A was the first jet-propelled fighter plane used by the U. S. Army Air Force.
