100 Wichitans To Board Special Train To South Plains Monday Night

DRAWING FOR BERTHS SET AT 3 TODAY

First Stop at Memphis For Breakfast in New Hotel

RESERVATIONS LISTED

Wichitans to Visit Many Towns in Three Days Tour

Headed by Orville Bullington, president of the chamber of commerce, approximately 100 business executives of Wichita Falls will board a special Pullman train Monday night for a three-day tour of the South Plains territory, accompanied by the chamber of commerce band.

Drawing for berths has been set for 3 o'clock Monday afternoon at the chamber of commerce offices in the Perkins-Snider building. Cards for lowers, uppers and drawing room berths will be in the hat, it was announced.

Pullman cars will be on track at the Union depot at 9:30 o'clock Monday night, and the train will leave this city at 2:35 a. m. Tuesday. Arriving in Memphis at 7:30 a. m. the trade delegation will spend 90 minutes in that city, taking breakfast at the new Memphis hotel. Estelline, Turkey, Quitaque, South Plains, Sterley, Lockney, Petersburg, and Lubbock will be visited during the day, with luncheon at Quitaque, and a banquet Tuesday night with members of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce in Lubbock.

Band to Lead Parades

Wednesday's itinerary, May 22, includes stops in Hale Center, Plainview, Floydada, Paducah, and Quanah, with luncheon scheduled at Plainview and dinner in Paducah. The third day's travel will carry the delegation to Childress, Quanah, Chillicothe, Vernon, Electra, and Iowa Park, the trade special arriving in Wichita at 5:25 p. m. Thursday. The mid-day stop will be in Vernon.

The chamber of commerce band will head parades in the cities on the itinerary, and will give concerts at various places. A baggage car for souvenirs, etc., is to be carried with the special, it was announced.

At a meeting of the trade trip committee, headed by L. H. Estes, held Saturday afternoon, 65 of the required 100 reservations were shown. Plans were formulated at the meeting for an intensive cam-

Men More Clad Than Flappers, Report Shows

WASHINGTON, May 19. (US)—The flappers must be wearing more clothes and the men less, if business conditions mean anything.

The commerce department reported today that the output of women's clothing increased 15.5 per cent in 1927, compared to two years previous, while the output of men's and youth's clothing declined 1.5 per cent.

Census of Vatican State Is Compiled

ROME, May 19. (UP)—The Holy See has compiled a list of slightly more than 400 citizens of the new Vatican state, including 25 Cardinals. The new state will be known as Vatican City after the Lateran treaty with the Italian government has been ratified.

JAMES KELLY — REG. L. ROBBINS

FORT WORTH, May 19. (AP)—The monoplane "Fort Worth" with Reg. Robbins and Jim Kelly alternating at the controls, which took off at 11:33 a. m. in an effort to beat the endurance flight of the "Question Mark," was droning over the city late tonight after being in the air 12 hours. Pilot lights were visible as the plane swept back and forth over the airport tonight at an altitude of 3,000 feet. Two notes, one stating that all was well and that the two pilots would not need anything the remainder of the night, were dropped by Robbins at 7:30 p. m. One was a personal note directed to Mrs. Robbins.

Statue of Liberty Guard Kills Wife And Himself After Both Sign Notes

Suicide Pact Almost Fails When Bride of Two Days Screams For Help Just Before Gun Is Fired

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—Charles B. Canto, 27, a private attached to the military police unit at the Statue of Liberty, today killed his bride of two days and then fired a bullet into his own brain. He died two hours later. Police said pencilled notes they found indicated the shooting was the result of a suicide pact.

The shooting took place in the upper deck cabin of the Statue of Liberty ferryboat General Meigs tied at the battery.

Six soldiers and a sailor asleep aboard the boat heard the shots. The sailor, V. N. Unto, said he was awakened by a woman's cries of "mother, mother, save me." A moment later he said there were two shots from the aft end of the upper cabin.

Unto and the six soldiers found the body of Mrs. Canto, 22, lying on a seat, her head pillowed on her husband's coat. Canto, unconscious was slumped over on the seat beside her and his service pistol was on the floor.

Three notes, all written by Mrs. Canto and each signed by both she and her husband, were found. One addressed to the commander of the military police unit to which Canto was attached said: "We cannot live together here, we prefer to live together in death."

As police reconstructed the shooting, Canto and his wife sat for perhaps half an hour writing the notes. Then, police believe, Mrs. Canto lay down on the seat and directed her husband to shoot, but at the last moment became panic stricken and screamed as Canto fired a bullet into her heart. As she collapsed Canto put the pistol to his temple and fired.

Military records show that Canto enlisted in the army in July 1919 and gave his home address as Hayward, Calif. He gave no emergency address, nor did he supply the names of any beneficiaries. Police said Mrs. Canto lived at Fort Richmond, Staten Island.

HOOVER HEARS DEBT QUESTION

Administration Favors Revision of Payments

WASHINGTON, May 19. (US)—The Hoover administration tonight definitely agreed to a readjustment of German payments to the United States on account of war claims. This action was taken at a White House conference of cabinet officers and congressional leaders of both parties.

The conference is reported to have been hurriedly called following receipt by President Hoover of an urgent cablegram from Owen D. Young and J. P. Morgan, unofficial American members of the reparations committee in Paris.

The conference was unanimous in agreeing to the readjustment program. Congressional leaders of both parties assured the president that legislation necessary to carry out the plan would be enacted without delay.

A complete financial program to put into force the projected readjustment was presented to the conference by Under Secretary of the Treasury Mills. The high spot of this plan is that the United States will agree to the remission of approximately 10 per cent of the German debt for the cost of occupation of the Rhineland and extend the time of payment of the balance five to six years.

Capone Henchmen Seek Al's Release

CHICAGO, May 19. (US)—Fortified with funds that are being raised by gangland, Mike Carrozzo, labor leader, racketeer and friend of Alphonse (Scarface Al) Capone, left for Philadelphia today in efforts to effect Capone's release from jail. He was accompanied by Frank Nitti, one of the imprisoned liquor baron's henchmen.

The freeing of Capone, it was disclosed, would be attempted through dealings with labor leaders in the Quaker city, and later with the political powers said to be responsible for the incarceration of the Chicago gang chieftain.

'Proxy' Wedding Held For Separated Pair

SAN ANTONIO, May 19. (AP)—Separated by more than 3,000 miles, Mrs. Laurencia Jackson-Burns Yarbrough, 30, of San Antonio and Captain Manuel Escalante, 31, of the Peruvian army, were married today by "proxy."

Fred C. Cross acted as proxy for Captain Escalante. He was authorized under a power of attorney drawn by Miss Della Guerra, who arranged the legal phases of the wedding. Immediately after the ceremony Mrs. Escalante cabled her husband, notifying him that he was married.

Planes Laden With Cameras Harrass Besieged Inmates of Morrow Estate

NORTH HAVEN, Maine, May 19. (US)—Colonel Lindbergh and his fiancee, Anne Morrow, remained incommunicado and in seclusion today in Ambassador Morrow's summer home here, while an army of reporters and camera men hemmed in their island retreat with airplanes, motor boats and automobiles.

All day long the aviator hero, Anne, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Elizabeth, and Constance were harassed by camera-laden planes which zoomed over their house, and by other noisy motors, both on sea and land. They withstood the seige while a thick fog and heavy rain enveloped the island making more secure their temporary shelter from the outside world.

The 400 islanders were disappointed that Lindy did not fly over North Haven during the day. His huge seven passenger Loening Amphibian rested on the aviation field fronting the Morrow place.

Not once did the party venture forth. Crowds gathered at the local church which the Morrows attend during the summer, but neither Anne her mother and sisters dared to brave the mob of scribes awaiting them. Instead, it was said, they listened to church services over the radio.

The islanders believe Lindy's stay here is just a week-end jaunt and that he will probably take off early tomorrow or Tuesday morning. No application for a marriage license was made at the town clerk's office.

Swollen Waters of Red River Cover 1,000 Acres Of Ark. Lowlands

LEVEE BREAK FEARED

Two Lives Claimed As Storms Buffet Scattered Areas in Texas

DALLAS, May 19. (AP)—The rampant Red river cast a flood menace over extreme northeast Texas and Southwest Arkansas today while other widespread sections of Texas rested from a week-end beating of wind and rain storms that took two lives, injured 10 persons and caused great material loss.

More than 1,000 acres in the lowlands about Index, Ark., were covered with water today and residents

LEVEE CRUMBLING

BILOXI, Miss., May 19. (AP)—Governor Theo Bilbo tonight ordered 300 convicts from the Parchan farm to proceed to Mound's Landing, 18 miles north of Greenville, Miss., where the levee was reported crumbling.

feared that the first rise in the river might pile up with another to come in and below the Index area with a resultant disaster like that of 1927. Additionally, the levee on the north side of the river was looked at apprehensively. It was completed only a few months ago and the probability that it had not "set" solidly was seen.

Highway Flooded

The state highway at Fulton, Miller county, Ark., was under water but still passable late today. The anticipated rise would cover the highway for a mile and halt traffic.

Plantation owners at all danger points prepared to remove tenants and livestock to higher ground. Some lowlands at Fulton were under water.

While Northwest Texas, in the Wichita Falls vicinity was the hardest hit by windstorms, the two fatalities occurred far to the south. At Bryan, Frank Trentacost, a merchant, was killed by lightning as he watched a storm's work. Walter R. Carothers, farm hand, was struck down in the same manner near Adrian.

Westfield, in South Texas near Houston, was swept by a minor tornado that injured four persons, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Farros, a Mrs. Benedict and Mrs. Benedict's daughter.

Vernon Couple Hurt

Mr. and Mrs. Merell Wilkerson, on their honeymoon trip near Vernon, were hurt by a twister that tore their house from its foundations and hurled them almost 300 feet.

In Northwest Texas William Ganders, Mrs. C. H. McDaniel, William Miller and Agnes Howard, 15, a school child, were injured by the high wind that lashed eight communities. The storm extended as far west as McCamey, where property damage was caused.

Dr. W. J. Johnson Is Critically Ill

Dr. W. J. Johnson, presiding elder of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, is critically ill at his home, 1915 Tenth street. Hoover Returns After Week-End Spent In Trout Haunts

WASHINGTON, May 19. (US)—Presidential inspection of the trout haunts of Virginia's hazy blue hills which superceded affairs of state over the week-end, ended today as the chief executive and his small party of frinds returned by motor from the Shenandoah mountain camp near the headwaters of the historic Rapidan river, arriving at the White House shortly after 5 o'clock.

The party left the mountains this morning after a hearty camp breakfast, stopped at Sperryville where the president attended Sunday school, motored through Luray, which is famous for its natural caves and scenic beauties, and then took the beautiful Shenandoah highway to Winchester through the valley.

JUMPING FROG JUBILEE HELD

Roaring Days of '50 Re-Lived at Celebration

ANGELES CAMPS, Calif., May 19. (US)—"There's more than gold in 'them thar hills'" of Calaveras county and a huge crowd swarmed this old mining camp today, eagerly panning excitement and fun.

It was the jumping frog jubilee. The roaring days of 1850 never saw its beat. Things happened here today that the bewhiskered miner of the Mother Lode never heard of. There was also an absence of things which he would have keenly missed.

He would have recognized the jumping frogs, from which this jubilee takes its name, but the barroom of the Hotel Angels, in which Mark Twain enshrined his "epic of Daniel Webster" has no bar. He would have recognized the burros' stage coaches, saddlehorse and Indians which again thronged the main street.

But the airplanes, landing in a new flying field, the swarms of automobiles, motorcycles, flappers and jazz would have been new to a returning argonaut.

The program of the jumping frog jubilee has some scope. It takes in such things as a lunching, a mail robbery, children's hour, hog-calling, flap jack flipping, gold mining, frog jumping and a snake fight.

Amusements range from watching quarts crushed into gold by the old Spanish Arasta to taking joyrides in airplanes. There is also a roulette wheel and a farobank—purely for historical purposes, of course, but yet paying expenses.

The celebration started yesterday with a grand ball. The thousaands of visitors without sleeping accommodations stayed awake until the close of the festivities at midnight tonight.

Royal Air Force Vet Crashes on Golf Course

NEW YORK, (US)—Six persons were injured today when a Lockheedvega cabin plane fell on the old Westbury golf course, adjoining the flying field, at Roosevelt field. At the stick was Bryan Shaw, formerly of the Royal air force. He had barely got the plane off the ground when the engine began missing badly. He could not get the plane high enough to pass over a couple of trees, he said afterwards, so he tried to pass between them, but his right wing struck one of the trees and the plane turned over several times and descended a wreck.

Flier Killed, Pal Hurt In Galveston Crash

GALVESTON, May 19. (AP)—Corporal Archibald Bryent of the 90th Squadron, Third Attack Group, U. S. Air corps, was killed and Lieut. Edward Hertzberg was slightly injured when their plane crashed here today. They were taking off from the flying field near here and presumably failed to gain enough flying speed when the machine nosed to the ground. Lieutenant Hertzberg's home is in San Antonio.

1,700 ATTEND SERVICES IN SENIORS' HONOR

College Auditorium Crowded for Baccalaureate By Dr. Bash

MUSICAL PROGRAM

Education Without Spirit Worth Little, Pastor Tells Grads

Before an assembly estimated to have numbered 1,700 persons, Dr. Floyd Allan Bash, pastor of the First Christian church, delivered a sermon on "The Possible You," at the Junior college auditorium Sunday morning in the annual spring baccalaureate service for high school and junior college graduates.

Choosing for his text John v:6, "Wouldst thou be made whole?" Dr. Bash declared that human nature has been so created that no man can set limits to its possible achievements. There are often undreamed of possibilities in the apparently most unpromising material, the speaker added, and as long as life is ours we may grow. "Power to become something more and different is the choicest gift of God to man."

Four Under Every Hat

"There are four persons under every hat," Dr. Bash said. "The man as he sees himself, the man as his neighbors see him; the real man as he is; but, greatest of all, in the fourth place, the possible man. He is not that man yet, but he has the power to become such a man. The Master knew that true education is the process of 'becoming.' The most notably heresy of Jesus was His belief in the hidden possibilities of human nature."

The speaker stressed the importance of religion in education. "If education is defined as 'The acquisition of the social inheritance of the race,' we must not rob the pupil of the spiritual heritage which religion brings. Education is the introduction of self-control into experience, and religion is the most powerful of all motives for self-control. By every definition it is clearly evident that religion is essential to the completion of man's education. Therefore the 'Possible You' can never be realized if the treasures and power of religion are not a vital part of your equipment for life.

"This thought-provoking phrase 'the possible you' is both accusing and prophetic. It accuses by saying: 'You are not all you ought to be,' and we know the accusation is true. Few can say that they are satisfied with themselves. But this phrase prophesies that better things are possible. We have power to become something better than we are. Education, of which religion is a vital part, plants seeds in our lives. A seed is important

CAGLE TRIAL OPENS TODAY

Prisoner Accused of Raids On Five Homes

Both the state and the defense are expected to declare ready for trial Monday morning when five burglary cases against T. O. Cagle are called in the 89th district court. Cagle, who suffered flesh wounds from the pistol of W. W. Allen, jailer, in an attempted break last Thursday morning, has been back in his cell at the county jail since Friday.

No indication of the line to be taken by the defense had been announced late Sunday afternoon. Cagle was arrested early in April following a raid on a Burnett street apartment in which several thousand dollars worth of goods, stolen from Wichita Falls homes, was recovered. It is understood that a signed statement, made to Sam Spence, district attorney, will constitute an important part of the evidence introduced by the state. Twenty-five witnesses have been summoned for the state, the district attorney declared. Cagle is accused of burglarizing the homes of P. P. Langford Jr., A. H. Spencer, Mrs. Jeff Waggoner, Ray Hirschi, and L. E. Whitham during February and March of this year.

Mrs. Mae Hart, arrested on the same day, and charged with receiving and concealing stolen property, is to be tried later this week, Mr. Spence declared. C. A. Wright, the third defendant named after the recovery of the goods, is charged with a third offense involving the Texas habitual criminal act and punishable by a life sentence in the penitentiary. He is also jointly indicted with Cagle in another burglary charge. Whight is to be tried early in June.

Girl, 11, Attacked After 2 Are Slain

WASECA, Minn., May 19. SUDDEN RAIN CAUSES PANIC IN NEW YORK

More Than 50 Injured By Trampling As Crowd Seeks Shelter

RUSH IRRESISTIBLE

Screaming Humans Pile Up In Mass Despite Efforts to Halt

NEW YORK, May 19. (AP)—A college girl and a teamster were trampled to death and between 50 and 60 persons were injured today in a mad rush by bleacher fans for Yankee stadium exits to seek cover from a sudden heavy rain during the first game of a scheduled double header between the Yankees and Boston Red Sox.

As the umpire's announcement of the end of play rang out, 5,000 fans in the south bleachers of the stadium rushed for an alley leading to 157th street. Some stumbled and fell, the thousands in the rear pressed forward relentlessly in their blind haste to escape the downpour and almost in an instant the exit was clogged with a screaming, battling mass of humanity.

Girl Dies in Offices

When police finally stemmed the rush of the crowd and reached those trampled, they found Joseph Carter, 60, teamster, lying dead in the passageway, and Miss Eleanor Price, 17, who lived in the Bronx and attended Hunter college, breathing her last. The girl died in the Yankee stadium offices beore medical aid could be administered.

She had attended the game with her brother George, 14, and both had joined in the rush for the exit. The boy was injured slightly. The injuries of the others, many of whom were young boys, ranged from fractured skulls to slight bruises.

Halt Impossible

The alley through which the crowd attempted to force its way is 12 feet wide and 35 feet long and has a floor of sand. Fourteen steps lead down to it from the bleachers. The first of the outrushing crowd took these steps in a few jumps, but the sand proved insecure footing and the crowd began to pile up.

As each succeeding wave of fans reached the top of the stairs and saw what was happening in the passageway, there was an attempt to halt, but the pressure from behind was too strong and the piling up process continued.

Women screamed and struggled frantically, boys shouted in fear and men battled silently toward the open. A wire netting on either side of the alley finally gave way and spilled part of the crowd beneath the bleachers and the grand stand, there they crawled away to safety.

300 Police Clear Passage

Even after the police partly had stopped the rush, surgeons summoned from three hospitals had to fight to get to the injured, carried to emergency hospitals established in a grand stand rest room and in the players' dressing rooms. Three hundred police reserves finally cleared the passageway.

Because of a shortage of stretchers many of the victims lay on the ground, some of them unconscious, their clothes torn from their bodies, until overworked doctors were able to remove them to shelter.

Police Commissioner Whalen, who rushed to the stadium, said he believed the accident was unavoidable. Colonel Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, said the accident was "most unfortunate but that it was impossible to control the crowd's mind."

Spectators Blamed

After an investigation District Attorney John E. McGeehan of the Bronx said there had been no negligence by stadium officials.

Discounting reports said to have been circulated by persons in the crowd that an exit had been closed at the time of the rush, the district attorney said there was only one door closed, and that was an exit leading to the arena. His investigation, he said, tended to prove that the responsibility for the accident rested entirely with the crowd, which became frightened at a sudden streak of lightning.

The game had started with a bright sun shining on the field. The great crowd of Yankee sup-

French Crowds Continue to Gaze Upon Zeppelin As Airliner Waits Motors

TOULON, France, May 19. (US)—The two new motors which will enable the Graf Zeppelin to fly back to Friedrichshafen for complete repairs before starting again for Lakehurst, are expected to reach here tomorrow.

Word was received here today that the motors were loaded on freight cars last night and started on their way.

Commander Eckener, who left yesterday for Friedrichshafen, will return by the time the motors are in place and will fly the dirigible home.

Some of the passengers, including Sir Hubert Wilkins and Commander Vincent A. Clarke, observer on the American flight for the American government, will remain here and complete their trip with the Zeppelin.

Meanwhile France continues to play generous host to the great German airship and crowds have visited the crippled monster in the hangar at Cuers. Every convenience has been put at the disposal of the Germans who were uninvited, but appreciative guests. And Toulon, the nearest city to the airdrome, jammed ever since the landing of the airship, is only becoming normal today as many of the visitors departed.

SUGAR BATTLE IS FOREMOST

Tariff Fight Reaches Crux In Conference Today

WASHINGTON, May 19. (US)—Overshadowing all other issues as the tariff war approaches its climax in the house this week, is the battle over provisions in the Hawley bill, increasing the duty on sugar.

Fearful that a vote on the issue in the house will see the proposed increase in rates either struck from the bill or materially slashed, the "sugar bloc" will make a bold attempt in the conference of Republican members, probably Tuesday, to prevent a vote.

Leaders in the sugar bloc have begun negotiations toward a deal with Eastern congressmen, whereby the representatives from beet and cane sugar states would join in a coalition to kill an increase in duty on Blackstrap molasses in return for sugar votes.

Westerners Whipped

Western congressmen who have been demanding an increase in the present molasses tariff of one-sixth of a cent to eight cents, have run up the white flag. They are fighting in the last ditch now to save the rate of two and one-sixth cents a gallon provided in the Hawley bill.

Aside from a few Democrats from Louisiana and other Southern states that produce sugar, the Democratic forces are opposed to any increase in the duty on sugar.

Within the Republican ranks there is a sizeable bloc from the Eastern consuming centers, who are opposed to an increase. Should the increase carried in the bill become law consumers will have to pay upwards of $100,000,000 a year more for this sweet, it is claimed.

The New England delegation is largely opposed to a sugar duty increase and there are others of the same opinion from New York and other Eastern states.

However, congressmen from 24 states are directly interested in seeing the duty raised, with the main support coming from Colorado, Utah, Nebraska, Louisiana and Michigan.

Stabilization Plan

Some of the Democratic forces have joined with Representative Garner, of Texas, Democratic floor leader, in support of his plan to stabilize sugar at around five cents a pound wholesale in New York. He would attempt this by applying graduated tariff rates, with no duties to be imposed when sugar touches five cents a pound wholesale.

Then Representative Frear, (R) of Wisconsin, is desirous of obtaining a vote on his export bounty plan for sugar producers. He believes that an increase in the duty on Cuban sugar will result in greater imports from the Philippines and other island possessions, since their sugar comes in free of duty.

Tomorrow the Republican members of the ways and means committee expect to complete their proposed changes in the Hawley bill, as a result of demands from congressmen indignant over features of the measure affecting their districts.

The ways and means committee will make their report to the Republican conference, where the final decision will be reached on the nature of the special rule under which the tariff bill will be voted upon in the house.

The leaders have set next Saturday as their goal for a final vote on the bill.

"Wisest Fool"

"The possible you is determined not by diplomas won but by the power of the spirit within you. Crammed with learning, King James yet was called the "wisest fool in Europe." San Francisco reported a dishwashers' union composed entirely of college graduates. Sing Sing prison recently had 100 college men listed among its convicts. The finest helps on earth will mean little to you unless you enkindle within your own heart the fires of faith, ambition, courage and will.

" 'Tis the set of the soul that decides the goal,
And not the calm or the strife."

"Nearly 50 years ago, in an Eastern town, the schools turned out their annual quota of graduates. At the center of the stage on commencement night sat the boy who was the favorite of all the girls and the town predicted he would become famous. Hidden away under the decorations in a corner, sat an awkward youth who was slow of speech and no one noticed him. The years have flown, and the boy who was in the spotlight that night is now an unknown clerk in a department store. The awkward, unpromising youth is a man of world renown because of personal achievement. His name is Charles M. Schwab, king of steel.

Follow Vision

"Life is made up of certainties, not accidents. This is a world of law. Spiritual life follows law as certainly as steel is moved by gravitation. The "possible you" will take care of itself if you follow faithfully your vision."

Music for the processional and recessional was furnished by the high school orchestra, directed by Leo M. Underwood, using the "Triumphal March" from "Aida," (Verdi) and Schubert's "March Militaire." Miss Elizabeth Langford, of the high school graduating class, gave a piano number, Greig's "Natturno." A vocal number, "The Heavens Resound," was sung by the Junior college male quartet, composed of Messrs. Murrell, Medford, McPhail and Bond, accompanied by Mrs. Hermoine S. Vaughan.

Naval College Officials Assure Black Boys Square Deal But Students Lay Plans for 'Social Freeze-Out'

ANNAPOLIS, May 19. (US)—Faced with the probability that the incoming class will have a colored member for the first time in more than half a century, officials and the student body at the U. S. Naval academy here are facing what they frankly admit to be a delicate situation.

If Charles E. Weir, appointed by Oscar de Priest, negro congressman from Chicago, enters the academy, which now appears likely, he will be accorded the fairest and most undiscriminating treatment by the faculty. To the instructors, he will be just another midshipman, they assert.

Social Chill Prepared

But the student body, openly hostile, is already planning to give Weir the "social chill." Completely ignored in all the activities of the institution, never spoken to—in fact "left completely out," loneliness will be the colored youth's lot during his stay at the academy.

And if any of the white students of more Democratic tendencies should fraternize with him, they too would be forced to share the same lot.

The three colored midshipmen, John H. Conyers, Alonzo McClennan and Henry E. Baker, were appointed by negro congressmen from the south, all attending the academy in the early seventies. All left, for one cause or another, before the end of the first year.

Baker was of a pugnacious type and appeared to have determined to stand the gaff and fight his way through the academy. Two midshipmen were expelled from the academy for attacks upon him, but Baker was himself dismissed for using improper language to another midshipman, by whom, he claimed, he had been jostled in ranks.

When the negro boys were in the academy, it was a period of rough and dangerous hazing, and the dusky youths certainly got their full share. There are stories which have become traditions around the academy of one incident when a colored midshipman was tied in bed clothing and hung from a window, and when another, taking part in a boat drill, was tied to a buoy in Annapolis harbor and left there.

Physical Exams Yet

A colored youth, who is fortunate or unfortunate enough, to become a midshipman, is no longer likely to have to undergo physical persecution, but that there has been no change in the attitude of the students is made plain by the middies themselves.

Weir still has the physical examination to pass before he becomes a midshipman, but in this matter, as in all others handled by the officials, he will be given a square deal.

Whether Weir becomes a midshipman or not, officials of the academy feel that it is more than likely that they must ultimately deal with the presence of a colored youth at the academy. De Priest will continue such appointments, he said, and there is every prospect that one will soon pass all tests, even if Weir should fail physically.

The military academy is in the same situation, Alonzo S. Parham, another negro appointee of Congressman de Priest, having passed his mental tests for West Point.

Close Association

However, naval officers feel that the presence of a colored officer in the navy would be a far more serious matter than if one, rose to commissioner rank in the army, as has, in fact, been the case in more than one instance.

The associations among officers in the navy, it is pointed out, are much closer than they are of necessity in the army. In the latter service, there would always be the possibility of assigning a colored officer to a command over his own race.

In the navy, there is no way to keep any officer from the closest contact with the others, they pointed out.

Realization of this fact has made the appointment of negro youths as candidates to the naval academy very rare. At the military academy however, there have been 12 cadets, three of whom graduated and became commissioned officers. One, Charles Young, reached the rank of colonel. He never commanded white men.

100 TO GO ON TRADE TRIP

Special Train Leaves Here Tuesday Morning

paign Saturday night and Monday morning, which it was believed will result in the sale of the remaining 25 reservations before the committee convenes again at 11:30 a. m. Monday. The per capita rate for the trade trip is $38.50, exclusive of meals and personal expenses. Persons desirous of joining the South Plains delegation, and not called upon by members of the committee by Monday morning, were urged to phone J. W. Chatham, traffic and industrial manager of the chamber of commerce, at 4131.

Messages received from various cities to be visited by the Trade Special have indicated that considerable preparations are being made in those places for greeting the Wichita Falls party. The tour undertaken immediately after the opening of the South Plains railroad last fall was cancelled after the first day owing to the death of the late John W. Bradley, and leaders here have stressed the importance of completing the trip planned for the Plains territory.

Resolutions Favor Road Appropriation

PRESIDIO, Texas, May 19. (AP)—Resolutions favoring Congressman Claude Hudspeths' bill for an $18,000,000 appropriation for a military highway along the Mexican border were adopted here yesterday by 150 citizens of Terrell, Presidio, Brewster, Hudspeth and El Paso counties.

The resolution said the highway was necessary to aid in enforcing neutrality, narcotic, immigration and prohibition laws.

A right of way 100 feet wide through the participating counties was pledged.

'Dangerous Ages' For Crime Are Computed

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., May 19. (US)—From 25 to 29 are the "dangerous ages" for men and women in respect to the tendency to commit crimes.

This is the conclusion reached by Mark Noon, secretary to the state prison board, after a long study of the comparative ages of those imprisoned in San Quentin. One-fourth of all the men and women in the prison fall within the age classification mentioned, Neon said today.

The superficial area of the earth is 196,940,000 square miles—140,295,000 square miles of water and 56,255,000 square miles of land.

FAN STAMPEDE FATAL FOR TWO

Girl and Man Crushed To Death by Crowd

porters, turning out for what promised to be a perfect day for baseball, cheered the home team through the early innings as it piled up a 3 run lead over the visitors.

The high spirits of the fans rose to the peak when, in the third inning, Babe Ruth sent his seventh home run of the season crashing into the right field bleachers.

Hardly had the crowd stopped scrambling for the ball, however, when the sky was suddenly overcast by a heavy bank of dark storm clouds. A few drops of rain fell and the bleacherites in right field looked apprehensively upward.

Then, before any had been given time to leave the stands, a peal of thunder reverberated over the stadium and the rain descended in a fierce cloudburst.

Screams Heighten Panic

Six thousand men, women and children in the right field bleachers made a mad rush for the exits leading under the stands.

The cries and screams of persons knocked down in the rush seemed only to heighten the panic. With the rain beating furiously upon them, the stampeding fans appeared to disregard everything in the scramble to get into the aisles and down the stairs at the foot of the bleachers.

Near the entrance upon which most of the frightened crowd was rushing stood Patrolman Louis Baer. He saw the panic stricken throng coming, knocking one another down, trampling over those who had fallen.

Mounting a seat in front of the entrance, the patrolman drew his revolver and faced the onrushing throng. His act had the effect he desired. The crowd stopped, and in an instant Baer had two men unfastening wires at the foot of the stands which had hemmed the crowd in.

With order finally restored, the fans passed through the nearest exist. When they left the stands, the bodies of a man and woman lay in the aisles and nearly a hundred persons lay helpless from injuries or from fainting.

Ambulances were summoned from two hospitals. With rain still falling in a near cloudburst, physicians and nurses, aided by a dozen volunteers, went into the stands and picked up the rain-soaked, unconscious victims of the panic.

Policeman Baer, stationed at the exit toward which the mob whirled when it became apparent that the others were closed, told of his vain effort to halt the human tide that swept toward the gate.

"I was nearly swept from my feet," Baer said. "For a time I battled against the shouting men and screaming women but was soon pushed slowly down the stairway. I can still hear the cries of the children as they were trampled underfoot.

"It was on that stairway leading into two small gateways that the man and girl were killed. People were screaming and hollering at the bottom. Many of them lay with their faces in the water, unable to breathe.

"Finally the wire at the side of the stairway gave way, easing the rush for a moment. I pulled my gun and ordered those at the top to stay where they were. By that time other policemen came and pushed the mob back."

According to an estimate of the Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research, the human race uses in its foods about two-tenths of one per cent of the solar energy captured by plants.

LANDSLIDE

Paint Fermin Dwellers Quit Homes As Bluff Sinks Into Ocean

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—With the renewal of earth movements today, homes along a high bluff adjoining Point Fermin were ordered vacated when geologists reported several acres of land will slide into the sea at any time and without warning.

The effected area was found to have slipped one foot towards the ocean today. Ten homes are without tennants as a result of the municipal order. New construction is forbidden.

Breakage of water, gas pipes and pavement last January 1 warned of the threatened landslide.

Preachers "Soft Pedal" Sermons To Please Fashionable, Says Martin

Sunday School Teacher Draws Comparison Between Modern Region and "Temple Worship" of Old

In an attack on the tendency to "lay one hand on the altars of the church and with the other cling fondly to sins and pleasures," Judge P. A. Martin, speaking to the Bible class at the Floral Height Methodist church, Sunday morning drew a parallel between the "temple worship" in the times of the Prophet Jeremiah and present day conditions.

The speaker's address, entitled "Hypocrisy and Thoughtless Living" is outlined briefly below:

Points Out Similarity

"There are many points of similarity between conditions confronting the Hebrew prophet, Jeremiah, and those of our own day and generation. The temple worship of the Hebrews had degenerated into a mere form of Godliness, without its power. The people assembled at the temple of the Lord and trusted in the temple for their salvation. They were lately re-converted to the temple worship under the administration of Josiah, who had torn the idols of Baal and Ashtoreth and under his royal decree they had cleaned out the temple and in name, if not in spirit, returned to the worship of Jehovah. But with most of them it was a mere formality; a religion of the head and not of the heart, if you please. Their hearts still clung to the worship of the heathen deities and the pleasures of sinful life. So Jeremiah says the word came from the Lord commanding him to stand in the gate of the temple, where most of the people could see and hear him and rebuke them for their hypocrisy. This he did in the words of the lesson for today:

"Trust ye not in lying words, saying
The temple of the Lord
The temple of the Lord
The temple of the Lord, are these
For if ye thoroughly amend your ways and your doings;
If ye thoroughly execute judgment between a man and his neighbor;
If ye oppress not the stranger, the fatherless and the widow,
And shed not innocent blood in this place,
Neither walk after other gods to your hurt,
Then will I cause you to dwell in this place;
In the land that I gave to your fathers,
Forever and ever."

And after this excoriation of the people for their sins and warning them not to put their trust in the "temple" the prophet quotes the divine command found in the golden text:

"Obey my voice, and I will be your God and ye shall be my people; and walk ye in all the ways that I have commanded you that it may be well with you."

It is not at all wonderful that Jeremiah was an unpopular preacher. He was heartily disliked by the powers that were in his day and spent a good part of his useful life in prison and in banishment.

Church Is Fashionable

Now let us turn to the present time and see just how far this lesson is useful for us in the present day. How many of the multiplied thousands of church people today depend upon church membership and the forms and ceremonies of the church alone for salvation! How little we grudgingly contribute to the cause of Christ and how much to worldly pleasure and worldly sin! Men join the church because it is respectable and fashionable to do so and because they want their families raised up in the church; they recognize that the Christian life is the best life after all and they lay one hand on the altars of the church and with the other cling to their sins and their pleasures. They bring their meager sacrifices to the altar and attend the Sunday service, thinking mostly of their personal idols, their Baals and their Ashtoreths, to whom their weekday offerings are made. They render at best but a half-hearted service to God and expect the church to save them.

To all such Christians the preaching of the modern prophet is as unpopular as that of Jeremiah was to the ancients; they don't want a preacher who interferes with their worldly plans and worldly pleasures any more than the ancient Hebrews did; so it has come about that many of our preachers have put on the "soft pedal" in their preaching and we seldom hear the awful sinfulness of sin and its awful consequences explained from the modern pulpit. Now and then a real prophet comes along and tells the people of their sins and he is usually branded as a fanatic or a radical.

But I do not believe there are very many real hypocrites here or elsewhere in the world. With all our thoughtlessness and worldliness, we are as a people, profoundly religious in sentiment and when we take the time to think soberly of the problems of life there are few, if any, who do not acknowledge deep down in the heart a hungering and thirsting after righteousness. We fall so far short of this profession of our faith that the outside world calls us hypocrites.

The world would have long since been completely evangelized if all "profess and call themselves Christians" had lived up to the high standard set by the Christ whom they profess to follow."

CHURCH OPENS NEW BUILDING

East Side Presbyterian Has Services

The congregation of the East Side Presbyterian church held its first meetings in the recently completed one-story brick building located one block from the Bowie school Sunday, according to Rev. E. F. McGaughey, pastor.

Initiating their use of the new structure with the Sunday school at 10 a. m. they marked up a banner attendance of 151. A special service for graduates of the junior and senior high schools was given in the evening.

Formal opening of the new church will be held in the near future, Rev. Mr. McGaughey stated.

Annual Luncheon Given by Girl Reserves at Forum Clubhouse

More than 60 covers were laid for the annual "Mother and Daughter" luncheon of the Girl Reserves of high school and Junior college, which took place Saturday at the Woman's Forum clubhouse. The long T shaped table carried out a color motif of blue and white, Girl Reserve colors. Bowls of blue larkspur were divided by candles in blue and white and even the place cards, emphasized these tones. About the room, large baskets of roses and vari-colored larkspur made a beautiful setting for the luncheon.

Betty Love Rugeley, retiring president, gave the invocation and during the luncheon, the following program was given: "Mother Machree" and "Follow the Gleam," vocal numbers by Mary Virginia Barron, accompanied by her mother; Toast to "Mother," Martha Ellen Hines; toast to "Sponsors," Margaret Bone.

A short and gracious farewell speech was made at this point by the retiring president, followed immediately by, "Toast to 'Betty Love Rugeley,'" Juanita Charlotte Joiner.

Betty Love Rugeley toasted Miss Kinsey and Miss Kinsey responded in her inimitably gracious manner. The incoming president, Jane Adams greeted the club in a clever talk.

The new officers were inaugurated with the lovely Girl Reserve ceremonial. Betty Love Rugeley, went with lighted candle in her hand to the right and to the end of the table where she was met by Jane Adams who came from the left. The lighted candle was handed to the incoming president who went back by the right to the seat from which the retiring president had come. This ceremonial was followed with all the new officers and during the candle lighting, Miss Erma Schnelle played softly.

The luncheon was closed by the mothers, daughters and sponsors singing together, "Follow the Gleam."

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We are glad humanity can't be reckoned with in the mass, particularly since we have read Dr. Watson's "Men Won't Marry Fifty Years from Now." Fifty years from now, we expect to be where there shall be no marrying but we do not like this man's Cosmopolitan article. We believe individuals have distinct personalities. We applied his theory to the block in which we live and it did not work. And we are glad we live in that sort of block.

We think that Thomas Fuller, the seventeenth century English historian was a real genius. His first procedure when beginning one of his learned dissertations was to set down a column of words on the left hand side of his paper, and then fill in the rest of the sheet. The column of words without change formed the beginning of the lines. We've tried it and cross word puzzles are nothing to compare.

Nothing but Hebrew is spoken there and on billboards, posters are in Hebrew. The climax of their celebration was a parade of native born children and the oldest man child, 20 years, presented a bouquet to the city's first and only mayor, Meyer Diezengoff. District Commissioner J. E. F. Campbell of Southern Palestine, represented Great Britain and made his speech in fluent Hebrew. But to our ears, all Hebrew sounds fluent.

Wonder what has become of all the "crazy jugs?" Or we wonder if anyone is as old as we are. We saw them making them when we were a very small young person and made one ourselves and it being our first work of art (?), we were proud of it. It was a jug covered with putty and on the putty were buttons and scraps of goods and nails and anything on earth that would make an odd shape. Then when the jug was entirely covered, it was gilded. Gone,—we suppose with the day of gilded cattails and full petticoats and "parlors."

Billy Bennett Has Birthday Party

Little Billy Bennett, the only son of Mr. and Mrs Homer F. Bennett, 1714 Eighth street, celebrated his ninth birthday Saturday with a theater and airplane party.

After seeing "The Air Circus" at a local theater, he and his guests went to the Martha Washington Candy shop where tables were arranged for them. In the center of each table was a large airplane and place cards were tied to silver metal airplanes that were making a nose dive into the ice cream. Tiny toy airplane sirens were given each guest.

Places were prepared for Billy Bennett, J. E. Duncan, Jack Hancock, Billie Ellis, John Welty and Charles Christie. When the party was over, Billy Bennett took little metal airplanes and the airplane sirens to friends whom he had invited and who were prevented coming by illness.

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

We Knew Her When

When a man becomes successful through his own efforts he will boast of being self-made. He is proud of having been able to reach his goal without family backing or "pull" in any form. And his friends are proud of him. His home town is proud of him. Old acquaintences point him out as a man who has not only been able to stand on his own feet but who has demonstrated that he can get somewhere on them.

But not so in the case of the woman.

If a girl, through her superior endowments of beauty or brains or charm, manages to raise herself to a plane higher than that on which she was born, the old home town remembers, to be sure—and how!

"We knew her when!" Whisper, whisper, whisper!

It is as if they considered her guilty of criminal deception because she does not wear a placard stating her origin and the progress of her life step by step.

"We knew her when. . . . !"

Perhaps women resent the advancement of another woman because they are less generous than men and to their minds her success is an implied criticism of themselves. They fail to see in it a hope for other women. And by reminding the world that she began life humbly—more humbly than those whom she has since outshone—they feel instinctively that they have "put her in her place" and justified their own inertia.

I fear it will be a long time before women are whole-heartedly praised for the virtues of strength, resourcefulness and courage which distinguish the self-made man.

For a long, long time it will be considered more admirable for a girl to have been "nicely" brought up, "sheltered," than to have seized life with her bare hands and moulded it to suit her design.

That's one of the good breaks women are denied.

The beggar-boy can become president of the corporation and the whole world will take off its hat or put on its charm—according to sex.

But if the beggar-maid marries the rich man's son the world will smile a little acidly and the feminine half of it at least will regale strangers with "We knew her when. . . ." And this will continue to the third and fourth generations.

Betty Brainerd will be glad to help her readers with their problems. Send a self addressed stamped envelope to her in care of this paper.

Record News Daily Pattern Service

"SCALLOPS ARE SO DAINTY"
Pattern 1614

The scalloped yoke and skirt of this little model, create a frock that is decidedly different and quite lovely. There are tiny puffed sleeves, too, that are adorable on chubby arms. Design 1614 is simple and so easy to make.

Printed percale, dimity, gingham or shantung are nice for this little rig. A colorful design of flowers or geometric figures in vivid shades may use white for the yoke and sleeve bands. Printed and plain pongee is very fashionable this season for tiny tots, and launders so well, too.

May be obtained only in sizes 2, 4 and 6.

Size 4 requires 2⅛ yards print and ½ yard plain fabric, 36 to 40 inches wide.

This model is easy to make. No dressmaking experience is necessary. Each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions, including yardage for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of fifteen cents (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

Our latest fashion book will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents (10c) in coin. Address all mail and orders to Record News Pattern Department, 243 W. 17th street, New York

Dorothy Dix Has Ten Commandments Calculated to Make Home Life Right

The Fact That Your Family Constitutes Your Nearest and Dearest Should Be a Special Reason For Letting Them Live Their Lives in Peace Instead of Trying to Run Everything for Them.

Here are ten commandments that, faithfully followed, will assure you a happy and a peaceful home.

FIRST. THOU SHALT NOT NAG.

There is hardly any criticism or suggestion that you cannot make once to your wife or your husband or your children without giving offense. It is the constant reiteration of the same thing over and over and over again; the continual harping on the same little fault, the never-ending "do this"—"don't do that," the bringing up of the same disagreeable topic for the millionth time that wears away their patience as the incessant dropping of water wears away a stone. Say what you have to say once and forever after hold your peace on the subject.

SECOND. THOU SHALT NOT PRY INTO THE PERSONAL AFFAIRS OF THY FAMILY.

Never forget that your husband, or your wife and the children have the same passionate desire for a little personal liberty that you have and that they resent just as bitterly as you do having some one snooping around, some one listening in on the telephone when they talk, opening their letters and reading them first, going through the pockets of their clothes and keeping tab on their every movement, so that they can't go around to the corner drug store without furnishing an alibi for every minute of the time they are out from under surveillance.

Cut out the questionnaire about where you have been and where you are going and whom did you see and what did they say and what did you say and why did you say it, etc. Don't put every member of the family through the third degree every time they move. It gets you nowhere, anyway, because your victim will tell you what he or she wants you to know anyway and lie about the balance. Family prying drives more young people away from home than all other causes combined.

THIRD. THOU SHALT NOT GIVE UNSOLICITED ADVICE.

Be not one of those family pests who never can see anybody doing anything without bobbing up with a lot of suggestions. Be not one of those back-seat-driver wives who tells her husband when to slow and when to put on speed and to watch out for a truck and who always picks out his neckties for him and tells him what sort of suit to get. Neither be one of those husbands who censors his wife's clothes and her haircut and her rouge pot and who wants to know why she doesn't dress as they did in the Theodore Roosevelt administration. Neither be those parents who think that their children never get over being three years old and feeble minded at that and that they have to be told as long as they live where to get on and where to get off.

Undoubtedly you are an oracle and wisdom will perish with you, but for all of that grown-up people feel that they have a right to run their own lives in their own way without being snowed under with advice from mother and father.

FOURTH. THOU SHALT NOT ARGUE.

No man and woman of even average intelligence can be married for two months without finding out their points of disagreement and that there are certain topics which it is like waving a red flag at a mad bull even to mention. Having ascertained what are the pet prejudices of the partner of your bosom, skirt as warily around them as you would around the brink of a dangerous precipice.

If husband says the moon is made of green cheese, don't dispute it and bring on a fight by displaying your superior scientific knowledge. If wife says something happened at 4 o'clock that you know happened at 6, let the statement go unquestioned. Nobody is ever convinced by an argument. Its only effect is to settle them more deeply in their conviction and to bring on a family row that disrupts the peace of the home and leaves everybody sore and bitter.

FIFTH. THOU SHALT NOT TELL HOME TRUTHS.

Do not think because you love your family it gives you a right to say to them things that their deadliest enemy would not dream of saying. You think they forgive you because of the relationship in which you stand to them, but it is precisely because our near relations know our weaknesses so well that they can always stab us in a vulnerable spot and so deal a wound that rankles and never heals.

Besides, there is no one for whose good opinion we care so much as we do for that of our own and no one can hurt us as they can. Therefore, if you are a husband, never tell your wife that she is getting old and fat and frumpy and that she looks like a figure of fun in flapper clothes or that she resembles a saleratus biscuit with that jade hat on.

And if you are a wife, bite your tongue off before you tell your husband that you consider him a false alarm as a business man and that he is the worst guesser at the stock market you ever saw or that he bores people stiff talking about his radio and how he tuned in on Havana and Squedunk.

And if you are parents, don't keep your children's deficiencies always before them, and keep reminding little Johnny that he is awkward and dumb and little Mary that she is stupid and little Sally that she is homely and little Bobby that he is naughty.

You will hurt them and mortify them and make them self-conscious and self-deprecating and intensify the very faults of which you complain. Many a man and woman are failures in life just because their parents gave them an inferiority complex by telling them home truths when they were children.

Therefore, if you want your home to be happy, use as much tact and diplomacy in what you say to your wives and husbands and children as you would if you were negotiating a foreign treaty.

—DOROTHY DIX.

Mrs. S. A. Man Gives Lovely Luncheon Honoring Miss Howell

One of the most exquisite tables of the season was that arranged when Mrs. S. A. Man entertained at the country club Saturday in honor of Miss Modena Howell, whose marriage to Stanley M. Raub has been announced as a June event.

Pink and green was chosen as the motif in decoration and it was carried out to perfection. In the center of the long table which was covered with pink petals and sitting inside, dressed in bridal attire, was a miniature newly married pair. Costumes were complete, even to bride's bouquet. Hung on the side of the car was a card, "On our honeymoon." Cupid sat on the radiator cap. Down the length of the table were delicate sprays of fern and among them pink rose buds and sweet peas. Silver and vases held clusters of sweet peas and fern. The service plate, the bread and butters, even the grape fruit plates were of dainty green crystal. Grape fruit baskets with sweet peas tied on the handle in fluffy green tulle bows, were the first course. Favors were little round French hat boxes filled with nuts and on each, tied with green tulle, were the place cards.

The bride's place was marked by a lovely bouquet of pink roses, tied with green tulle.

Covers were laid for the honoree, Misses Marguerite Haynie, Annie Laurie Long and Virginia Hicks and Mesdames W. W. Silk, Louella B. Thompson, C. Y. Tully, E. F. Bohmfalk, Ralph De Shong, Joel MacGregor, Lloyd Taylor, Paul Rutledge, J. W. Akin Jr. and Mrs. Man.

Miss Cole Honored At Surprise Shower

Honoring Miss Mabel Clair Cole, whose marriage to E. F. Noe is to take place May 25, Mrs. W. S. Pettit entertained in Miss Cole's apartment, 602 Sunset drive, Thursday afternoon.

The guests, laden with shower gifts, gathered first at the home of the hostess and went together to surprise the bride-elect in her home. Bridge was played through the afternoon.

A delicious luncheon plate was served to Mesdames Ralph Parker, Jesse D. Woods, Leon Butler, C. S. Burnett, H. J. Cole of Gainesville, and Hoyt Armstrong of Dallas, and to Misses Bertha Wray, Annie Maude Whigham, Bonnie Marie Morse, Cleo Bowers, Florence Robinson, and Mildred Essex.

CADILLAC LA SALLE
REVELATION WEEK
MAY 20th-27th

A Period of Practical Proof (for women in particular) of Handling Ease and Safety Features found in no other cars which alone almost compel the choice of Cadillac-La Salle

It is plainly apparent that one of the most valuable factors in motoring today, for whose easeful gear shifting no substitute can be found, is the exclusive Cadillac-La Salle Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission covered by basic patents.

Syncro-Mesh was introduced by Cadillac-La Salle with the restraint which has always characterized their public announcements. The excitement and enthusiasm it has created has been a result of the growth in public consciousness that here was something in transmissions which literally transformed that particular phase of motor car performance.

The emphasis that is being placed upon it in this Revelation Week (for women in particular) is the result of this public acclaim and the realization of Cadillac-La Salle that they had builded even better than they knew.

Revelation Week will endeavor to demonstrate to all women what thousands of women already know—that this is a new element of extraordinary ease in shifting and handling of which they cannot afford to deprive themselves.

Owners have also brought home to Cadillac the realization that the exclusive Cadillac-La Salle Duplex-Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes covered by basic patents are a revolutionary contribution, both from the standpoint of easy mastery and greater safety; and public acclaim, therefore, makes these new brakes a second item of good news for Revelation Week.

Exactly the same thing has happened with regard to Cadillac-La Salle Crystal-Clear Non-Shatterable Security-Plate Glass—what amounts to an actual reproach from the public for our seeming failure to lay stress on a feature which owners consider absolutely vital. All Cadillac-La Salle windows, doors and windshields are equipped with this vastly important safety feature.

Cadillac-La Salle came to Non-Shattering Glass through conscientious conviction and that conviction has been given tremendous impetus by public approval.

A mere witnessing of the demonstrations which will be given during Revelation Week will convince everyone that here is an additional security feature of such paramount importance that it simply cannot be brushed aside.

SUGAR BATTLE IS FOREMOST

Tariff Fight Reaches Crux In Conference Today

WASHINGTON, May 19. (US)—Overshadowing all other issues as the tariff war approaches its climax in the house this week, is the battle over provisions in the Hawley bill, increasing the duty on sugar.

Fearful that a vote on the issue in the house will see the proposed increase in rates either struck from the bill or materially slashed, the "sugar bloc" will make a bold attempt in the conference of Republican members, probably Tuesday, to prevent a vote.

Leaders in the sugar bloc have begun negotiations toward a deal with Eastern congressmen, whereby the representatives from beet and cane sugar states would join in a coalition to kill an increase in duty on Blackstrap molasses in return for sugar votes.

Westerners Whipped

Western congressmen who have been demanding an increase in the present molasses tariff of one-sixth of a cent to eight cents, have run up the white flag. They are fighting in the last ditch now to save the rate of two and one-sixth cents a gallon provided in the Hawley bill.

Aside from a few Democrats from Louisiana and other Southern states that produce sugar, the Democratic forces are opposed to any increase in the duty on sugar.

Within the Republican ranks there is a sizeable bloc from the Eastern consuming centers, who are opposed to an increase. Should the increase carried in the bill become law consumers will have to pay upwards of $100,000,000 a year more for this sweet, it is claimed.

The New England delegation is largely opposed to a sugar duty increase and there are others of the same opinion from New York and other Eastern states.

However, congressmen from 24 states are directly interested in seeing the duty raised, with the main support coming from Colorado, Utah, Nebraska, Louisiana and Michigan.

Stabilization Plan

Some of the Democratic forces have joined with Representative Garner, of Texas, Democratic floor leader, in support of his plan to stabilize sugar at around five cents a pound wholesale in New York. He would attempt this by applying graduated tariff rates, with no duties to be imposed when sugar touches five cents a pound wholesale.

Then Representative Frear, (R) of Wisconsin, is desirous of obtaining a vote on his export bounty plan for sugar producers. He believes that an increase in the duty on Cuban sugar will result in greater imports from the Philippines and other island possessions, since their sugar comes in free of duty.

Tomorrow the Republican members of the ways and means committee expect to complete their proposed changes in the Hawley bill, as a result of demands from congressmen indignant over features of the measure affecting their districts.

The ways and means committee will make their report to the Republican conference, where the final decision will be reached on the nature of the special rule under which the tariff bill will be voted upon in the house.

The leaders have set next Saturday as their goal for a final vote on the bill.

"Wisest Fool"

"The possible you is determined not by diplomas won but by the power of the spirit within you. Crammed with learning, King James yet was called the "wisest fool in Europe." San Francisco reported a dishwashers' union composed entirely of college graduates. Sing Sing prison recently had 100 college men listed among its convicts. The finest helps on earth will mean little to you unless you enkindle within your own heart the fires of faith, ambition, courage and will.

" 'Tis the set of the soul that decides the goal,
And not the calm or the strife."

"Nearly 50 years ago, in an Eastern town, the schools turned out their annual quota of graduates. At the center of the stage on commencement night sat the boy who was the favorite of all the girls and the town predicted he would become famous. Hidden away under the decorations in a corner, sat an awkward youth who was slow of speech and no one noticed him. The years have flown, and the boy who was in the spotlight that night is now an unknown clerk in a department store. The awkward, unpromising youth is a man of world renown because of personal achievement. His name is Charles M. Schwab, king of steel.

"Life is made up of certainties, not accidents. This is a world of law. Spiritual life follows law as certainly as steel is moved by gravitation. The "possible you" will take care of itself if you follow faithfully your vision."

Music for the processional and recessional was furnished by the high school orchestra, directed by Leo M. Underwood, using the "Triumphal March" from "Aida," (Verdi) and Schubert's "March Militaire." A vocal number, "The Heavens Resound," was sung by the Junior college male quartet, composed of Messrs. Murrell, Medford, McPhail and Bond, accompanied by Mrs. Hermoine S. Vaughan.

Annapolis Middies to Give Negro Entrants Unusually 'Warm' Reception

Naval College Officials Assure Black Boys Square Deal But Students Lay Plans for 'Social Freeze-Out'

ANNAPOLIS, May 19. (US)—Faced with the probability that the incoming class will have a colored member for the first time in more than half a century, officials and the student body at the U. S. Naval academy here are facing what they frankly admit to be a delicate situation.

If Charles E. Weir, appointed by Oscar de Priest, negro congressman from Chicago, enters the academy, which now appears likely, he will be accorded the fairest and most undiscriminating treatment by the faculty. To the instructors, he will be just another midshipman, they assert.

Social Chill Prepared

But the student body, openly hostile, is already planning to give Weir the "social chill." Completely ignored in all the activities of the institution, never spoken to—in fact "left completely out," loneliness will be the colored youth's lot during his stay at the academy.

And if any of the white students of more Democratic tendencies should fraternize with him, they too would be forced to share the same lot.

The three colored midshipmen, John H. Conyers, Alonzo McClennan and Henry E. Baker, were appointed by negro congressmen from the south, all attending the academy in the early seventies. All left, for one cause or another, before the end of the first year.

Baker was of a pugnacious type and appeared to have determined to stand the gaff and fight his way through the academy. Two midshipmen were expelled from the academy for attacks upon him, but Baker was himself dismissed for using improper language to another midshipman, by whom, he claimed, he had been jostled in ranks.

When the negro boys were in the academy, it was a period of rough and dangerous hazing, and the dusky youths certainly got their full share. There are stories which have become traditions around the academy of one incident when a colored midshipman was tied in bed clothing and hung from a window, and when another, taking part in a boat drill, was tied to a buoy in Annapolis harbor and left there.

Physical Exams Yet

A colored youth, who is fortunate or unfortunate enough, to become a midshipman, is no longer likely to have to undergo physical persecution, but that there has been no change in the attitude of the students is made plain by the middies themselves.

Weir still has the physical examination to pass before he becomes a midshipman, but in this matter, as in all others handled by the officials, he will be given a square deal.

Whether Weir becomes a midshipman or not, officials of the academy feel that it is more than likely that they must ultimately deal with the presence of a colored youth at the academy. De Priest will continue such appointments, he said, and there is every prospect that one will soon pass all tests, even if Weir should fail physically.

The military academy is in the same situation, Alonzo S. Parham, another negro appointee of Congressman de Priest, having passed his mental tests for West Point.

Close Association

However, naval officers feel that the presence of a colored officer in the navy would be a far more serious matter than if one, rose to commissioner rank in the army, as has, in fact, been the case in more than one instance.

The associations among officers in the navy, it is pointed out, are much closer than they are of necessity in the army. In the latter service, there would always be the possibility of assigning a colored officer to a command over his own race.

In the navy, there is no way to keep any officer from the closest contact with the others, they pointed out.

Realization of this fact has made the appointment of negro youths as candidates to the naval academy very rare. At the military academy however, there have been 12 cadets, three of whom graduated and became commissioned officers. One, Charles Young, reached the rank of colonel. He never commanded white men.

100 TO GO ON TRADE TRIP

paign Saturday night and Monday morning, which it was believed will result in the sale of the remaining 25 reservations before the committee convenes again at 11:30 a. m. Monday. The per capita rate for the trade trip is $38.50, exclusive of meals and personal expenses. Persons desirous of joining the South Plains delegation, and not called upon by members of the committee by Monday morning, were urged to phone J. W. Chatham, traffic and industrial manager of the chamber of commerce, at 4131.

Messages received from various cities to be visited by the Trade Special have indicated that considerable preparations are being made in those places for greeting the Wichita Falls party. The tour undertaken immediately after the opening of the South Plains railroad last fall was cancelled after the first day owing to the death of the late John W. Bradley, and leaders here have stressed the importance of completing the trip planned for the Plains territory.

Resolutions Favor Road Appropriation

PRESIDIO, Texas, May 19. (AP)—Resolutions favoring Congressman Claude Hudspeths' bill for an $18,000,000 appropriation for a military highway along the Mexican border were adopted here yesterday by 150 citizens of Terrell, Presidio, Brewster, Hudspeth and El Paso counties.

The resolution said the highway was necessary to aid in enforcing neutrality, narcotic, immigration and prohibition laws.

A right of way 100 feet wide through the participating counties was pledged.

'Dangerous Ages' For Crime Are Computed

SAN QUENTIN, Calif., May 19. (US)—From 25 to 29 are the "dangerous ages" for men and women in respect to the tendency to commit crimes.

This is the conclusion reached by Mark Noon, secretary to the state prison board, after a long study of the comparative ages of those imprisoned in San Quentin. One-fourth of all the men and women in the prison fall within the age classification mentioned, Noon said today.

The superficial area of the earth is 196,940,000 square miles—140,295,000 square miles of water and 56,255,000 square miles of land.

FAN STAMPEDE FATAL FOR TWO

Girl and Man Crushed To Death by Crowd

porters, turning out for what promised to be a perfect day for baseball, cheered the home team through the early innings as it piled up a 3 run lead over the visitors.

The high spirits of the fans rose to the peak when, in the third inning, Babe Ruth sent his seventh home run of the season crashing into the right field bleachers.

Hardly had the crowd stopped scrambling for the ball, however, when the sky was suddenly overcast by a heavy bank of dark storm clouds. A few drops of rain fell and the bleacherites in right field looked apprehensively upward.

Then, before any had been given time to leave the stands, a peal of thunder reverberated over the stadium and the rain descended in a fierce cloudburst.

Screams Heighten Panic

Six thousand men, women and children in the right field bleachers made a mad rush for the exits leading under the stands.

The cries and screams of persons knocked down in the rush seemed only to heighten the panic. With the rain beating furiously upon them, the stampeding fans appeared to disregard everything in the scramble to get into the aisles and down the stairs at the foot of the bleachers.

Near the entrance upon which most of the frightened crowd was rushing stood Patrolman Louis Baer. He saw the panic stricken throng coming, knocking one another down, trampling over those who had fallen.

Mounting a seat in front of the entrance, the patrolman drew his revolver and faced the onrushing throng. His act had the effect he desired. The crowd stopped, and in an instant Baer had two men unfastening wires at the foot of the stands which had hemmed the crowd in.

With order finally restored, the fans passed through the nearest exist. When they left the stands, the bodies of a man and woman lay in the aisles and nearly a hundred persons lay helpless from injuries or from fainting.

Ambulances were summoned from two hospitals. With rain still falling in a near cloudburst, physicians and nurses, aided by a dozen volunteers, went into the stands and picked up the rain-soaked, unconscious victims of the panic.

Policeman Baer, stationed at the exit toward which the mob whirled when it became apparent that the others were closed, told of his vain effort to halt the human tide that swept toward the gate.

"I was nearly swept from my feet," Baer said. "For a time I battled against the shouting men and screaming women but was soon pushed slowly down the stairway. I can still hear the cries of the children as they were trampled underfoot.

"It was on that stairway leading into two small gateways that the man and girl were killed. People were screaming and hollering at the bottom. Many of them lay with their faces in the water, unable to breathe.

"Finally the wire at the side of the stairway gave way, easing the rush for a moment. I pulled my gun and ordered those at the top to stay where they were. By that time other policemen came and pushed the mob back."

LANDSLIDE

Paint Fermin Dwellers Quit Homes As Bluff Sinks Into Ocean

LOS ANGELES, May 19.—With the renewal of earth movements today, homes along a high bluff adjoining Point Fermin were ordered vacated when geologists reported several acres of land will slide into the sea at any time and without warning.

The effected area was found to have slipped one foot towards the ocean today. Ten homes are without tennants as a result of the municipal order. New construction is forbidden.

Breakage of water, gas pipes and pavement last January 1 warned of the threatened landslide.

According to an estimate of the Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research, the human race uses in its foods about two-tenths of one per cent of the solar energy captured by plants.

Preachers "Soft Pedal" Sermons To Please Fashionable, Says Martin

Sunday School Teacher Draws Comparison Between Modern Region and "Temple Worship" of Old

In an attack on the tendency to "lay one hand on the altars of the church and with the other cling fondly to sins and pleasures," Judge P. A. Martin, speaking to the Bible class at the Floral Height Methodist church, Sunday morning drew a parallel between the "temple worship" in the times of the Prophet Jeremiah and present day conditions.

The speaker's address, entitled "Hypocrisy and Thoughtless Living" is outlined briefly below;

Points Out Similarity

"There are many points of similarity between conditions confronting the Hebrew prophet, Jeremiah, and those of our own day and generation. The temple worship of the Hebrews had degenerated into a mere form of Godliness, without its power. The people assembled at the temple of the Lord and trusted in the temple for their salvation. They were lately re-converted to the temple worship under the administration of Josiah, who had torn the idols of Baal and Ashtoreth and under his royal decree they had cleaned out the temple and in name, if not in spirit, returned to the worship of Jehovah. But with most of them it was a mere formality; a religion of the head and not of the heart, if you please. Their hearts still clung to the worship of the heathen deities and the pleasures of sinful life. So Jeremiah says the word came from the Lord commanding him to stand in the gate of the temple, where most of the people could see and hear him and rebuke them for their hypocrisy. This he did in the words of the lesson for today:

"Trust ye not in lying words, saying
The temple of the Lord
The temple of the Lord
The temple of the Lord, are these
For if ye thoroughly amend your ways and your doings;
If ye thoroughly execute judgment between a man and his neighbor;
If ye oppress not the stranger, the fatherless and the widow,
And shed not innocent blood in this place,
Neither walk after other gods to your hurt,
Then will I cause you to dwell in this place:
In the land that I gave to your fathers,
Forever and ever."

And after this excoriation of the people for their sins and warning them not to put their trust in the "temple" the prophet quotes the divine command found in the golden text:

"Obey my voice, and I will be your God and ye shall be my people; and walk ye in all the ways that I have commanded you that it may be well with you."

It is not at all wonderful that Jeremiah was an unpopular preacher. He was heartily disliked by the powers that were in his day and spent a good part of his useful life in prison and in banishment.

Church Is Fashionable

Now let us turn to the present time and see just how far this lesson is useful for us in the present day. How many of the multiplied thousands of church people today depend upon church membership and the forms and ceremonies of the church alone for salvation! How little we grudgingly contribute to the cause of Christ and how much to worldly pleasure and worldly sin! Men join the church because it is respectable and fashionable to do so and because they want their families raised up in the church; they recognize that the Christian life is the best life after all and they lay one hand on the altars of the church and with the other cling to their sins and their pleasures. They bring their meager sacrifices to the altar and attend the Sunday service, thinking mostly of their personal idols, their Baals and their Ashtoreths, to whom their weekday offerings are made. They render at best but a half-hearted service to God and expect the church to save them.

To all such Christians the preaching of the modern prophet is as unpopular as that of Jeremiah was to the ancients; they don't want a preacher who interferes with their worldly plans and worldly pleasures any more than the ancient Hebrews did; so it has come about that many of our preachers have put on the "soft pedal" in their preaching and we seldom hear the awful sinfulness of sin and its awful consequences explained from the modern pulpit. Now and then a real prophet comes along and tells the people of their sins and he is usually branded as a fanatic or a radical.

But I do not believe there are very many real hypocrites here or elsewhere in the world. With all our thoughtlessness and worldliness, we are as a people, profoundly religious in sentiment and when we take the time to think soberly of the problems of life there are few, if any, who do not acknowledge deep down in the heart a hungering and thirsting after righteousness. We fall so far short of this profession of our faith, that the outside world calls us hypocrites.

The world would have long since been completely evangelised if all "profess and call themselves Christians" had lived up to the high standard set by the Christ whom they profess to follow."

CHURCH OPENS NEW BUILDING

East Side Presbyterian Has Services

The congregation of the East Side Presbyterian church held its first meetings in the recently completed one-story brick building located one block from the Bowie school Sunday, according to Rev. E. F. McGaughey, pastor.

Initiating their use of the new structure with the Sunday school at 10 a. m. they marked up a banner attendance of 151. A special service for graduates of the junior and senior high schools was given in the evening.

Formal opening of the new church will be held in the near future, Rev. Mr. McGaughey stated.

Annual Luncheon Given by Girl Reserves at Forum Clubhouse

More than 60 covers were laid for the annual "Mother and Daughter" luncheon of the Girl Reserves of high school and Junior college, which took place Saturday at the Woman's Forum clubhouse. The long T shaped table carried out a color motif of blue and white, Girl Reserve colors. Bowls of blue larkspur were divided by candles in blue and white and even the place cards, emphasized these tones. About the room, large baskets of roses and vari-colored larkspur made a beautiful setting for the luncheon.

Betty Love Rugeley, retiring president, gave the invocation and during the luncheon, the following program was given: "Mother Machree" and "Follow the Gleam," vocal numbers by Mary Virginia Barron, accompanied by her mother; Toast to "Mother," Martha Ellen Hines; toast to "Sponsors," Margaret Bone.

A short and gracious farewell speech was made at this point by the retiring president, followed immediately by, "Toast to 'Betty Love Rugeley,'" Juanita Charlotte Joiner.

Betty Love Rugeley toasted Miss Kinsey and Miss Kinsey responded in her inimitably gracious manner. The incoming president, Jane Adams greeted the club in a clever talk.

The new officers were inaugurated with the lovely Girl Reserve ceremonial. Betty Love Rugeley, went with lighted candle in her hand to the right and to the end of the table where she was met by Jane Adams who came from the left. The lighted candle was handed to the incoming president who went back by the right to the seat from which the retiring president had come. This ceremonial was followed with all the new officers and during the candle lighting, Miss Erma Schnelle played softly.

The luncheon was closed by the mothers, daughters and sponsors singing together, "Follow the Gleam."

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We are glad humanity can't be reckoned with in the mass, particularly since we have read Dr. Watson's "Men Won't Marry Fifty Years from Now." Fifty years from now, we expect to be where there shall be no marrying but we do not like this man's Cosmopolitan article. We believe individuals have distinct personalities. We applied his theory to the block in which we live and it did not work. And we are glad we live in that sort of block.

We think that Thomas Fuller, the seventeenth century English historian was a real genius. His first procedure when beginning one of his learned dissertations was to set down a column of words on the left hand side of his paper, and then fill in the rest of the sheet. If they'd just hatch all them trees down, it would make a fine cemetery."

There's a little town on the sand dunes outside Jaffa, that resembles a California town with its two sided stucco houses lining its shrubbed avenues, the first Zionist city. It has its own theater, its own opera house, and for something near 50,000 inhabitants, 50 schools. That town is Tel Aviv, which has just celebrated not only the Passover but its twentieth birthday. Nothing but Hebrew is spoken there and on billboards, posters are in Hebrew. The climax of their celebration was a parade of native born children and the oldest man child, 20 years, presented a bouquet to the city's first and only mayor, Meyer Diezengoff. District Commissioner J. E. F. Campbell of Southern Palestine, represented Great Britain and made his speech in fluent Hebrew. But to our ears, all Hebrew sounds fluent.

Wonder what has become of all the "crazy jugs?" Or we wonder if anyone is as old as we are. We saw them making them when we were a very small young person and made one ourselves and it being our first work of art (?), we were proud of it. It was a jug covered with putty and on the putty were buttons and scraps of goods and nails and anything on earth that would make an odd shape. Then when the jug was entirely covered, it was gilded. Gone,—we suppose with the day of gilded cattails and full petticoats and "parlors."

Billy Bennett Has Birthday Party

Little Billy Bennett, the only son of Mr. and Mrs Homer F. Bennett, 1714 Eighth street, celebrated his ninth birthday Saturday with a theater and airplane party.

After seeing "The Air Circus" at a local theater, he and his guests went to the Martha Washington Candy shop where tables were arranged for them. In the center of each table was a large airplane and place cards were tied to silver metal airplanes that were making a nose dive into the ice cream. Tiny toy airplane sirens were given each guest.

Places were prepared for Billy Bennett J. E. Duncan, Jack Hancock, Billie Ellis, John Welty and Charles Christie. When the party was over, Billy Bennett took little metal airplanes and the airplane sirens to friends whom he had invited and who were prevented coming by illness.

Stopping preventable waste in lumber will yearly save as much as we now grow on one hundred and seventy million acres.

Junior League Of Grace Methodist Celebrates Birthday

Mrs. A. Gillespie and Mrs. Clyde Smith were joint hostesses in a party celebrating the anniversary of the Junior league of the Grace M. E. church Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gillespie.

A birthday cake in the shape of a house was on the table decorated in the Junior league colors, white and red. These colors were beautifully carried out in all the decorations. The children, all of whom brought a penny for each year of their age, put their pennies in the chimney of the cake.

We Women

By BETTY BRAINERD

We Knew Her When

When a man becomes successful through his own efforts he will boast of being self-made. He is proud of having been able to reach his goal without family backing or "pull" in any form. And his friends are proud of him. His home town is proud of him. Old acquaintences point him out as a man who has not only been able to stand on his own feet but who has demonstrated that he can get somewhere on them.

But not so in the case of the woman.

If a girl, through her superior endowments of beauty or brains or charm, manages to raise herself to a plane higher than that on which she was born, the old home town remembers, to be sure—and how!

"We knew her when!" Whisper, whisper, whisper!

It is as if they considered her guilty of criminal deception because she does not wear a placard stating her origin and the progress of her life step by step.

"We knew her when. . . . !"

Perhaps women resent the advancement of another woman because they are less generous than men and to their minds her success is an implied criticism of themselves. They fail to see in it a hope for other women. And by reminding the world that she began life humbly—more humbly than those whom she has since outshone—they feel instinctively that they have "put her in her place" and justified their own inertia.

I fear it will be a long time before women are whole-heartedly praised for the virtues of strength, resourcefulness and courage which distinguish the self-made man.

For a long, long time it will be considered more admirable for a girl to have been "nicely" brought up, "sheltered," than to have seized life with her bare hands and moulded it to suit her design.

That's one of the good breaks women are denied.

The beggar-boy can become president of the corporation and the whole world will take off its hat or put on its charm—according to sex.

But if the beggar-maid marries the rich man's son the world will smile a little acidly and the feminine half of it at least will regale strangers with "We knew her when. . . ." And this will continue to the third and fourth generations.

Betty Brainerd will be glad to help her readers with their problems. Send a self addressed stamped envelope to her in care of this paper.

Record News Daily Pattern Service

"SCALLOPS ARE SO DAINTY"
Pattern 1614

The scalloped yoke and skirt of this little model, create a frock that is decidedly different and quite lovely. There are tiny puffed sleeves, too, that are adorable on chubby arms. Design 1614 is simple and so easy to make.

Printed percale, dimity, gingham or shantung are nice for this little rig. A colorful design of flowers or geometric figures in vivid shades may use white for the yoke and sleeve bands. Printed and plain pongee is very fashionable this season for tiny tots, and launders so well, too.

May be obtained only in sizes 2, 4 and 6.

Size 4 requires 2⅛ yards print and ½ yard plain fabric, 36 to 40 inches wide.

This model is easy to make. No dressmaking experience is necessary. Each pattern comes to you with simple and exact instructions, including yardage for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of fifteen cents (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, style number and size wanted.

Our latest fashion book will be sent upon receipt of 10 cents (10c) in coin. Address all mail and orders to Record News Pattern Department, 243 W. 17th street, New York

Dorothy Dix Has Ten Commandments Calculated to Make Home Life Right

The Fact That Your Family Constitutes Your Nearest and Dearest Should Be a Special Reason For Letting Them Live Their Lives in Peace Instead of Trying to Run Everything for Them.

Here are ten commandments that, faithfully followed, will assure you a happy and a peaceful home.

FIRST, THOU SHALT NOT NAG.

There is hardly any criticism or suggestion that you cannot make once to your wife or your husband or your children without giving offense. It is the constant reiteration of the same thing over and over and over again; the continual harping on the same little fault, the never-ending "do this"—"don't do that," the bringing up of the same disagreeable topic for the millionth time that wears away their patience as the incessant dropping of water wears away a stone. Say what you have to say once and forever after hold your peace on the subject.

SECOND, THOU SHALT NOT PRY INTO THE PERSONAL AFFAIRS OF THY FAMILY.

Never forget that your husband, or your wife and the children have the same passionate desire for a little personal liberty that you have and that they resent just as bitterly as you do having some one snooping around, some one listening in on the telephone when they talk, opening their letters and reading them first, going through the pockets of their clothes and keeping tab on their every movement, so that they can't go around to the corner drug store without furnishing an alibi for every minute of the time they are out from under surveillance.

Cut out the questionnaire about where you have been and where you are going and whom did you see and what did they say and what did you say and why did you say it, etc. Don't put every member of the family through the third degree every time they move. It gets you nowhere, anyway, because your victim will tell you what he or she wants you to know anyway and lie about the balance. Family prying drives more young people away from home than all other causes combined.

THIRD, THOU SHALT NOT GIVE UNSOLICITED ADVICE.

Be not one of those family pests who never can see anybody doing anything without bobbing up with a lot of suggestions. Be not one of those back-seat-driver wives who tells her husband when to slow and when to put on speed and to watch out for a truck and who always picks out his neckties for him and tells him what sort of suit to get. Neither be one of those husbands who censors his wife's clothes and her haircut and her rouge pot and who wants to know why she doesn't dress as they did in the Theodore Roosevelt administration. Neither be those parents who think that their children never get over being three years old and feeble minded at that and that they have to be told as long as they live where to get on and where to get off.

Undoubtedly you are an oracle and wisdom will perish with you, but for all of that grown-up people feel that they have a right to run their own lives in their own way without being snowed under with advice from mother and father.

FOURTH, THOU SHALT NOT ARGUE.

No man and woman of even average intelligence can be married for two months without finding out their points of disagreement and that there are certain topics which it is like waving a red flag at a mad bull even to mention. Having ascertained what are the pet prejudices of the partner of your bosom, skirt as warily around them as you would around the brink of a dangerous precipice.

If husband says the moon is made of green cheese, don't dispute it and bring on a fight by displaying your superior scientific knowledge. If wife says something happened at 4 o'clock that you know happened at 6, let the statement go unquestioned. Nobody is ever convinced by an argument. Its only effect is to settle them more deeply in their conviction and to bring on a family row that disrupts the peace of the home and leaves everybody sore and bitter.

FIFTH, THOU SHALT NOT TELL HOME TRUTHS.

Do not think because you love your family it gives you a right to say to them things that their deadliest enemy would not dream of saying. You think they forgive you because of the relationship in which you stand to them, but it is precisely because our near relations know our weaknesses so well that they can always stab us in a vulnerable spot and so deal a wound that rankles and never heals.

Besides, there is no one for whose good opinion we care so much as we do for that of our own and no one can hurt us as they can. Therefore, if you are a husband, never tell your wife that she is getting old and fat and frumpy and that she looks like a figure of fun in flapper clothes or that she resembles a saleratus biscuit with that jade hat on.

And if you are a wife, bite your tongue off before you tell your husband that you consider him a false alarm as a business man and that he is the worst guesser at the stock market you ever saw or that he bores people stiff talking about his radio and how he tuned in on Havana and Squedunk.

And if you are parents, don't keep your children's deficiencies always before them, and keep reminding little Johnny that he is awkward and dumb and little Mary that she is stupid and little Sally that she is homely and little Bobby that he is naughty.

You will hurt them and mortify them and make them self-conscious and self-deprecating and intensify the very faults of which you complain. Many a man and woman are failures in life just because their parents gave them an inferiority complex by telling them home truths when they were children.

Therefore, if you want your home to be happy, use as much tact and diplomacy in what you say to your wives and husbands and children as you would if you were negotiating a foreign treaty.

—DOROTHY DIX.

WOMAN SICK THREE YEARS

Helped By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Little Rock, Ark.—"I was sick for three years after my last baby came. I could hardly walk and could not eat nor sleep as I should because I was so nervous. I took seven bottles of the Vegetable Compound and used that number of bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and I am feeling just fine. I have a large family and do the work for all. Your Compound made me a well woman, and I have a happy home now. I always try to keep a bottle in the house and I tell everyone about it." Mrs. H. A. Adams, R. F. Mrs. S. A. Man Gives Lovely Luncheon Honoring Miss Howell

One of the most exquisite tables of the season was that arranged when Mrs. S. A. Man entertained at the country club Saturday in honor of Miss Modena Howell, whose marriage to Stanley M. Raub has been announced as a June event.

Pink and green was chosen as the motif in decoration and it was carried out to perfection. In the center of the long table which was covered with pink petals and sitting inside, dressed in bridal attire, was a miniature newly married pair. Costumes were complete, even to bride's bouquet. Hung on the side of the car was a card, "On our honeymoon." Cupid sat on the radiator cap. Down the length of the table were delicate sprays of fern and among them pink rose buds and sweet peas. Silver and vases held clusters of sweet peas and fern. The service plate, the bread and butters, even the grape fruit plates were of dainty green crystal. Grape fruit baskets with sweet peas tied on the handle in fluffy green tulle bows, were the first course. Favors were little round French hat boxes filled with nuts and on each, tied with green tulle, were the place cards.

The bride's place was marked by a lovely bouquet of pink roses, tied with green tulle.

Covers were laid for the honoree, Misses Marguerite Haynie, Annie Laurie Long and Virginia Hicks and Mesdames W. W. Slik, Louella B. Thompson, C. Y. Tully, E. F. Bohmfalk, Ralph De Shong, Joel MacGregor, Lloyd Taylor, Paul Rutledge, J. W. Akin Jr. and Mrs. Man.

Miss Cole Honored At Surprise Shower

Honoring Miss Mabel Clair Cole, whose marriage to E. F. Noe is to take place May 25, Mrs. W. S. Pettit entertained in Miss Cole's apartment, 602 Sunset drive, Thursday afternoon.

The guests, laden with shower gifts, gathered first at the home of the hostess and went together to surprise the bride-elect in her home. Bridge was played through the afternoon.

A delicious luncheon plate was served to Mesdames Ralph Parker, Jesse D. Woods, Leon Butler, C. S. Burnett, H. J. Cole of Gainesville, and Hoyt Armstrong of Dallas, and to Misses Bertha Wray, Annie Maude Whigham, Bonnie Marie Morse, Cleo Bowers, Florence Robinson, and Mildred Essex.

REVELATION WEEK

MAY 20th-27th

A Period of Practical Proof (for women in particular) of Handling Ease and Safety Features found in no other cars which alone almost compel the choice of Cadillac-La Salle

It is plainly apparent that one of the most valuable factors in motoring today, for whose easeful gear shifting no substitute can be found, is the exclusive Cadillac-La Salle Syncro-Mesh Silent-Shift Transmission covered by basic patents.

Syncro-Mesh was introduced by Cadillac-La Salle with the restraint which has always characterized their public announcements. The excitement and enthusiasm it has created has been a result of the growth in public consciousness that here was something in transmissions which literally transformed that particular phase of motor car performance.

The emphasis that is being placed upon it in this Revelation Week (for women in particular) is the result of this public acclaim and the realization of Cadillac-La Salle that they had builded even better than they knew.

Revelation Week will endeavor to demonstrate to all women what thousands of women already know—that this is a new element of extraordinary ease in shifting and handling of which they cannot afford to deprive themselves.

Owners have also brought home to Cadillac the realization that the exclusive Cadillac-La Salle Duplex-Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes covered by basic patents are a revolutionary contribution, both from the standpoint of easy mastery and greater safety; and public acclaim, therefore, makes these new brakes a second item of good news for Revelation Week.

Exactly the same thing has happened with regard to Cadillac-La Salle Crystal-Clear Non-Shatterable Security-Plate Glass—what amounts to an actual reproach from the public for our seeming failure to lay stress on a feature which owners consider absolutely vital. All Cadillac-La Salle windows, doors and windshields are equipped with this vastly important safety feature.

Cadillac-La Salle came to Non-Shattering Glass through conscientious conviction and that conviction has been given tremendous impetus by public approval.

A mere witnessing of the demonstrations which will be given during Revelation Week will convince everyone that here is an additional security feature of such paramount importance that it simply cannot be brushed aside.

NO GOODS IN STOCK

Daily Editorial

YOU'RE a typical hand-to-mouther, with a filled wardrobe and an empty mind—a thriftless, superficial, patent-leathered, fashion-plated, plus-four bluff, constantly robbing Peter Prudence to finance Paul Folly.

There isn't a rainy day on your calendar or an umbrella reserve in your calculations.

If you devoted half the energy to promotion that you dissipate on camouflage, the biggest corporations in town would soon wear paths to your door, tendering prize berths on silver platters.

Your wife bought last season's frocks and furs with next year's expected pay increase. And the two of you are sitting up nights scheming ways and means to accumulate a further burden of debt.

You dress a wonderful show window, but carry no reserve stocks to substantiate the display.

You peddle a marvelous line of ability samples, but haven't yet delivered a solitary performance up to specifications.

Your clothes are immaculate, but your letters are frowsy and never quite fit the situation.

There always a fresh crease in your pants, but there are no new wrinkles in your ideas.

You know all the "good fellows" of the neighborhood, but you disdain to chum with any of the great ones in the library.

LINCOLN'S pipe knots and Jim Hill's privations, Franklin's penny roll and the Van Sweringen's barefoot beginnings, aren't admitted to your particular circle.

You can reel off the full list of "wows," but you can't quote a paragraph from the president's message, explain the purpose of farm relief legislation, recite a dozen recent acts of congress, debate tariff revision, or define the purpose and powers of the federal reserve board.

Time alone must teach you that success doesn't exercise with night clubs—that there are no notes on management in the saxophone—and that no short-cuts to advancement branch from "The Great White Way."

You're an authority on batting averages, and tournament scores fairly drip from your tongue, but no one ever saw you make the round for responsibility under bogey, or step into an emergency with the needed pinch hit.

You don't subscribe to technical publications, read trade bulletins, study business news or consult reference works.

But you can dish Hollywood dirt with the gabbiest of 'em, and there isn't a track from Tia Juana to Juarez that doesn't engage your faithful attention.

You can solve the toughest crosspuzzle, but the ingenuity that furnished its key its strangely baffled by the details of practical problems.

You can master any dance movement, but you somehow can't learn to keep pace with the simplest steps of efficiency.

You haven't earned a bonus, opened an important account or forestalled a competitive finesse since you signed the payroll.

You've never offered a suggestion at the sales manager's meeting—put your finger on a weak spot of policy or stuck it in a leaking office dike.

You're one of a million young Esaus, swapping the substance of opportunity for the flesh-pots of Egypt and the pottage-pots of Vulgaria.

You're willing to sweat for your creditors but you refuse to wilt a collar for a better chance.

Today in Texas History

MAY 20

1824—Stephen F. Austin commissioned political chief and judge by the members of his colony at San Felipe.
1857—Convention of Episcopal diocese at Houston.
1874—Reunion of survivors of Terry's Texas rangers in Houston.
Reunion of Sibley's brigade at Hutchins house in Houston.

Florida, fighting a fruit pest, decided to spray automobiles with insect powder. An awful blow to the rew remaining model T's.

Do not be alarmed at the increase in the number of holdups. Probably the burglar interests have merely gone in for cleanup week.

Just one more word about Marion Talley—she surely ought to be able to pick up a pretty nice piece of ground now for a song.

A Convention Dilemma

THE ANNUAL CONVENTION of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will be held in El Paso on July 2, 3 and 4, if the executive body of that organization and the El Paso Chamber of Commerce approve these dates, which were selected at the regional convention at Seymour Thursday.

For several months there has been no definite selection of dates for the convention in the hope they could be fixed at a time when President Hoover might accept an invitation to visit El Paso. It was felt that the presence of President Hoover would give the meeting a dignity and a prestige that would reflect on the organization and would attract a much larger attendance than might otherwise be expected.

But while President Hoover has expressed the hope he can come to Texas soon, because of his duties in Washington there is no certainty that he can come or that he can come at any definite time, and it was thought for the best interests of the organization that the annual meeting, already postponed beyond its usual time, now be held at the earliest dates practicable.

As said, the dates tentatively named are yet to be approved by the executive board of the chamber and by the El Paso Chamber of Commerce. Doubtless the El Paso Chamber of Commerce would prefer to entertain the convention during the latter part of October when army maneuvers will be held there, which could be connected with a celebration of the anniveresary of the Gadsen purchase. It is felt in El Paso, it is said, that there would be a better chance of President Hoover coming there at that time than any other, and if President Hoover should come it is believed that President Portes Gil of Mexico would come there to meet him. Of course, El Paso would rather entertain the convention at such a time when the delegations could be given a big show and more of them attracted to that city.

Entertaining the annual meeting of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is a big job and, as has happened at the Wichita Falls and Fort Worth meetings, it has sometimes been an expensive job for the host city, but it is believed El Paso will accept the dates tentatively chosen and go ahead and give the delegates who will come the best show possible.

Large attendance, the enthusiasm of crowds, rivalries of delegations and a spirit of fun and good will have characterized the annual meetings of the West Texans. How sober business has been transacted under these conditions has been difficult to understand. But it has and the organization has continued to go forward.

The dilemma in which the organization and the city of El Paso now finds itself will cause thought to be given to whether the business of the annual meetings cannot be transacted by a comparatively small body of delegates without the hurrah and confusion and crowds. It may be that the El Paso convention will be the least attended by the membership in general. If this proves so something picturesque will pass, but some gain may be made in efficiency.

Borah Defends His Vote

SENATOR WILLIAM E. BORAH of Idaho is always interesting, always unique, always changeable and always eloquent. He defends his vote against the Fess charge of disloyalty to the president. He had been for the debenture plan three years. He voted for the plan and this is the sting in his explanation:

"I am sure that Mr. Hoover did not assume for a moment that by my support I was changing my views upon public questions or surrendering the right to form them. Only a base class of intellectual slaves would entertain or promulgate such an idea."

Senator Fess of Ohio saw the point. Borah dearly loves to impale upon his shining spear the political cuttle fish of the period. A base intellectual slave, in politics or high place, is a "yes" man. Borah isn't a "yes" man.

No Great Loss, After All

A WRITER in the current World's Work points out that whereas there were 5,000 legitimate theaters in the United States 20 years ago, today there are only 500. Few cities, except for the large ones, support any theatrical season at all; the movies have conquered.

This is generally looked upon as some sort of national misfortune, but to our notion it isn't that at all. We can remember some of the drama that used to be offered in small city theaters in the old days, and it was pretty shoddy stuff.

Say what you will about the movies, the fact remains that the fare they offer averages a good deal higher, culturally, than the stuff the third-rate dramatic companies used to put on.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

Broadway Chatter by Grant Dixon

NEW YORK, May 19.—There is a man in the Bronx—Pincus Wallach, of No. 2015 Grand Concourse is his identity, should you ever become interested—who arranged marriages on a large scale.

It is a plain business matter with Pincus, and he has made a success of it in more than one way. Of 200 marriages he arranged in the past five years he finds that not one has resulted in separation or divorce.

They call him a marriage broker—a schatchen—but Pincus insists he is but a Cupid who charges for his arrows.

Marriage brokers, as a matter of fact, are by no means scarce in New York. There are many of them and recognized as necessary institutions. Surely there is no more needful place for them than New York, for in this city lives thousands of young men and women who, through circumstances and sometimes their own reticence, fail to meet members of the opposite sex.

The pity of it is there also are unscrupulous brokers, although these are found out sooner or later, by the law and summarily dealt with.

This sort of "brokerage" business incidentally is affected by conditions just as well as the Wall street money brokerages are. In good, plentiful times, there is a rise in the demand for husbands and wives. When hard times come, a slump follows—except for the persistently hopeful ladies who, having waited in vain for their knight to come riding, have gone out riding for him instead.

Prof. Bella Balu, who has been a lecturer on the drama at Columbia university, and Assemblyman Langdon W. Post, the millionaire society man referred to in this column before, have decided that the Theater Guild should have a rival. So they have organized a new "subscription" theater to begin operations next fall.

The remarkable thing about the new group is its theory—particularly when you realize one is a professor who has spent his time theorizing on the drama and the other is only an enthusiast of good plays. Their idea is not that Broadway failures are due to a lack of commendable plays but to a lack of capital. Whereas the Theater Guild seeks to provide talent and fine plays, the new organization will provide money.

I have an idea when Professor Balu gets through with his experiment he will be richer in experience—and that's about all. Too many men before him have failed in theatrical attempts backed only by money and not theatrical wisdom.

Poor old Riverside drive! I love it and so mourn its departed glories. Its beauty remains but like the beauties of a deserted castle. The park is well kept, the apartments are all shiny and the Hudson that sweeps before it is as sparkling as ever. But about it hangs the cobwebs of social decay.

Society, when it concentrated in Park avenue and vicinity, left the beauties of the drive behind. I cannot understand. Perhaps the cold formality of Park avenue is better representative of moneyed dignity. Today the drive is almost barren of social register names—if that matters.

Incidentally, the drive residents are protesting the plans of three airplane companies to use the land at the foot of the park for terminal facilities. It seems that fliers have discovered it as an excellent base for amphibians and hydroplanes—about the only worthy harbor of its kind in and near New York.

Of course, airplanes are modern and all that but the residents, clinging to the vestiges of their remote beauty, do not want the avenue spoiled by any invasion of commerce—even if that invasion be from the air.

This is the time of year when in a hundred or more places along the East river and Long Island sound, men prepare to escape from the city and take, even in a small measure, to the sea.

Of course, there are the exclusive places like Glen Head, Larchmont basin and Oyster bay. But besides are the places of clerks and laborers and such. They are busy painting and repairing their boats—one sailor says of them: "They aren't boats, they're driftwood." Maybe, but they are in fact "yachts" to the man of little means who loves the water.

They tell of a newly rich fellow here who bought genuine 200-year-old furniture as antiques and then painted it white—St. John Ervine, during a London lecture, said that while in New York he was shown off as a curiosity because he didn't drink.

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

"He who is self-righteous shall find that he has played the devil."

The evil in human nature is ever ready to justify self and condemn others.

The two satellites of "moons" of Mars are very much nearer to the planet than our moon is to the earth, but are of insignificant size compared with the moon. One of the moons of Mars is estimated to be about 10 miles in diameter. The other is set at 5 miles.

THE WALL STREET RESIDENTIAL SUITS

"A skyscraper residential community is to be established in the Wall Street area, New York, the project calls for a $50,000,000 colony of homes in the heart of the financial center of the world."—News Item.

Agent: Just think of having a home with an outlook like this. Why from any window in the house you can get a wonderful view of a millionaire!

PHILLIPS

Applicant: Not from this little kitchinette window, can you?

Agent: Well, of course that's a small window. You can only see half a millionaire from there, perhaps, but he's one of the most imposing millionaires in the city.

Applicant (peering at a prosperous looking gentleman in an office window nearby): I can only see his face and neck. That's no view at all.

Agent: He's sitting down now. When he stands up you can see him from the waist up.

Applicant (who has gone to a window in another room): Oh, this is a much better view.

Agent: I should say it is. From this room you get an unobstructed view of two oil magnates, a steel king and one of the biggest men in the copper industry, right at their desks.

Applicant: Which is the steel king?

Agent (pointing out window): The one with the white mustache just to the left of that chimney.

Applicant: The one with the big ears?

Agent: No, you're looking at the man between the flagpole and the shaving-cream sign.

Applicant: Oh, I see the man you mean. He's at the ice-water cooler, a little to the west of that big smokestack.

Agent: Yes.

Applicant: That's splendid. I've always wanted an apartment where I could look out any time and see a steel king.

(They go to the living room)

Agent: Look! There's the Stock Exchange, the United States Treasury building, the Standard Oil building, the offices of Kuhn-Loeb and the House of Morgan!

Applicant: The honest to goodness House of Morgan?

Agent: Positively. And not a thing between it and you. On a clear day you see Mr. Morgan.

Applicant: Plainly?

Agent: People have said you get the best view of Mr. Morgan from her of any place in the city.

Applicant (gurgling happily): I'll take the apartment!

Frederick Dairy Installs $10,000 Cream Machine

Special to The Record News

FREDERICK, Okla., May 19.—A $10,000 machine to make sour cream sweet is being installed by the Red River Creameries, Inc. The work is in charge of a representative from the factory at Westchester, Pa. It is known as the C. C. process and Fraser, president of the local creamery, says when installed it will create a larger market for whole cream.

Three Thousand Chicks Shipped Out of Quanah

Special to The Record News

QUANAH, Texas, May 19.—Three thousand baby chicks from an Oklahoma hatchery were handled by the Quanah postoffice on the morning mail Wednesday. They were transferred to the west bound Fort Worth and Denver train.

This office has frequently had as many as 1,500 baby chicks to handle in one day, but this is the largest shipment from a single hatchery every handled.

Thompson School Elects Commencement Officers

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, May 19.—The graduating class of the Thompson ward school met this week and elected officers, as follows.

J. W. Hastings, president; Russel Austin, secretary treasurer; Miss Doris Rogers, class prophet; Miss Golden Luvelle Williams, elected to read the class will.

Colors of pink and orchid were chosen, and the pink rose as the class flower. The motto is, "Build the Ladder, Then Rise." Graduation exercises will be held Saturday night, May 25, in the Thompson school auditorium, with the Rev. L. D. Grafton delivering the principal address.

Where to?

You expect to be somewhere 10, 20, 30 years from now—why not plan for it?

IF YOU would be financially independent at a given age your ticket should read: "Save and invest wisely." Not a slow trip when compound interest and reinvestment of dividends give you added speed.

For example, an investment in Cities Service Preferred stock at a price to yield 6% can, through the Cities Service reinvestment plan, double the value of your holdings in a little more than 11½ years. Or you can start on a program of investing $10 a month (on a 6% yield basis) and have an accumulation of $1638.79 in ten years; $4620.41 in 20 years. If you can invest $20 a month your accumulation will be twice the amount shown above; $50 a month will bring your 20 year accumulation to over $23,000.

Cities Service securities are particularly adapted to your plan of arriving at a definite place on time. They give you protection on your trip; monthly dividends speed the work of compounding; and if an accident should interrupt your plan, there is a ready market for your accumulated holdings.

During our Customer Ownership period, any employee can tell you more about the Cities Service reinvestment plan and take your order for Cities Service securities.

Health And Diet Advice

Bacon

At the risk of incurring the displeasure of my Semitic friends and also of some radical vegetarian health enthusiasts, I am going to give you a little lesson today on the use of the kind of pork meat called bacon. My readers know how often I emphasize my belief that the best proteins are beef, mutton, chicken, turkey, rabbit and fish. My main objections to the use of pork is that it contains such an over-abundance of fat in proportion to its protein. This amount of fat seems to make it more difficult of digestion, and many who are ailing believe that they cannot use pork in any form without having digestive disturbances.

Some religions prohibit the use of any animal with a cloven hoof that does not chew the cud, and other religions prohibit the use of any kind of flesh food. To those who do not have such religious beliefs, the eating of swine's flesh is mainly a matter of whether or not it is a healthful food, and the whole question then comes down to its ease of digestion.

In this regard I want to be specific in my discussion today so will simply take up the subject of the use of bacon. Bacon, as purchased, contains from 10 to 30 per cent of water, 9 to 18 per cent protein, and from 40 to as high as 60 per cent of fat.

Bacon is prepared by curing and smoking the back, sides and breast pieces of the hog. When selecting bacon, it is best to avoid the kind where the fat appears yellow, and to select that with a thin rind and an even streaking of thin white fat. It is more economical to buy in a whole strip, wrapped. It will keep for a long time if kept in a cool place and covered each time after opening. The finest qualities, but more expensive, are often sealed in jars or transparent wrappers.

The best method of cooking bacon is broiling. The slices should be quite thin, and the rind and the other brown edge removed. It should be broiled under a hot fire. It should then be eaten as soon as possible after cooking. Prepared in this manner, bacon is readily digested by most people. The fat of bacon is in a granular form that can be assimilated by many people where the other forms of fat are not readily tolerated. The best form is slightly crisp but not browned.

If not too large a quantity is taken, bacon combines well with any other food. It contains a large amount of fat and for this reason a large quantity will interfere with the digestion of starches or proteins. When broiled and chopped, it makes a pleasant addition to salads, and is a good flavoring agent to many cooked dishes and vegetables.

You have perhaps noticed that I often suggest using a small piece of bacon with eggs at breakfast. I am sure that many people who think they cannot digest bacon will find that they can do so if only a small amount is used and the eggs used at the same time are poached or coddled. Eggs fried in bacon grease are certainly made indigestible and this has given rise to the belief that the trouble after a bacon and egg breakfast came from the use of the bacon, itself.

Try it in the way I have suggested and you may find it will make an interesting addition to your diet.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Lemon Rinse)

Question—Mrs. W. M. C. asks: "Is it harmful to use a lemon rinse on a 18-month-old baby's hair? His hair is very light brown and I would like to keep it so?"

Answer—Wash the baby's hair with distilled water and then use just a few drops of lemon juice in the rinsing water. This counteracts any alkaline deposits on the hair and tends to keep it its natural color.

(Urticaria)

Question—Mrs. J. C. B. asks: "What is the cause of an itch that comes in a red blotch on my eyelids and on the front of my neck? Have had this frequently within the last three months. Worse in the mornings, as my eyelids are then terribly swollen. I consulted a doctor, but he did not tell me the cause, so I am at a loss to know what to do. A urinalysis showed normal, with the exception of the 'specific gravity' being low. What does this term mean?"

Answer—You are probably suffering from a form of urticaria and are not eliminating enough poisons from your body. The urinalysis shows this. Leave starches and sugars out of your diet and increase intestinal elimination through taking one or two enemas daily.

(Throbbing in Head)

Question—A. M. L. writes: "When walking hurriedly to catch the next car have a violent throbbing in the back of my head. Does this mean that some sweet day—the rupture of a blood vessel, and out I go?"

Answer—You may be suffering from high blood pressure, but this can only be ascertained through an examination by a physician. The ache in the back of your head may be caused by prolapsed organs which are still farther crowded into the pelvis when you are running.

Oklahoma Farm Women Hear Address on Dairies

SPUDDERS SCORE 4 IN NINTH TO TRIM BUFFS IN OPENER 4-3

JIM'S TOSSERS HALT LINDSEY

2,500 See Wichita Trounce Houston Hurling Ace

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Our Spudders and Houston's Buffaloes resumed battling yesterday where they left off last season. And it was the Wichita Falls athletes who triumphed in a hectic pastime. Galloway's men rallied in the ninth, after the Buffs had tallied three runs in the seventh, and by scoring four runs in the final round, took the opener of the series out at the lot, 4 to 3.

George Payne and Jim Lindsey engaged in a pitchers' duel with not a run scored the first six rounds. After the Buffs counted their three Payne retired from the pastime in the Spuds' seventh and Cy Smith finished. Cy limited the hostiles to one hit and no runs the two rounds he toiled and is credited with the victory.

Lindsey held the Spudders to three hits the first seven innings, two of the blows by Stapleton and the other by Fitzgerald, but Big Jim evinced signs of weakening in the eighth. Two hits after two were out were made off Jim in the eighth but he still managed to prevent scoring. And then the fighting Spudders broke loose in the ninth.

Here's The Good News

Stapleton started it, though it was Hock's wild throw on Bud's grounder that enabled our first sacker to amble to second. Lapan singled to right, scoring Stapleton. Pete still is the same old terror in the pinch. Gordon batted for Smith and walked. Benton beat out a roller to Lindsey, which Jim momentarily fumbled in his hurry to make a play, filling the bases. Andrews lifted to Martin, scoring Lapan. Fitzgerald singled through Smith, tallying Gordon with the tying run and sending Benton to third, but Howard was out at second, Williamson to Hock to Benson. Cotelle failed to snatch Bennett's short fly after a hard run, and Benton chased across the pan with the winning tally, sending 2,500 spectators home happy.

Rabbit Benton and Ray Andrews flashed some brilliant work around the keystone bag. Benton handled 14 chances and Andrews eight without a misplay. Benson also accounted for some fast work for the Buffs.

Both clubs maced nine hits each and a double by Williamson was the only extra-base smack. Howard was the batting leader of the day, the Buff right fielder also getting two singles. Our Howard, Fitzgerald, Bennett and Stapleton each had two blows.

Both Threaten in First

Both clubs threatened in the first inning. Williamson doubled to left after one was out and went to third while Andrews was throwing out Martin. Burrus walked but was forced by Smith, Benton to Andrews.

Fitzgerald strolled and stole second in the Spuds' half but two were out and Swenson fanned.

The Buffs were retired in order in the second. Stapleton singled to center and stole second off Lindsey's slow throw to catch him off first, but Crouch grounded to Smith.

Williamson got his second hit in the third, a single to right, after two were down and he was forced by Martin when Andrews went back of second for a harsh grounder.

Wichita Falls went out one-two-three.

Cotelle singled to right in the fourth, but again two were out and he was forced by Snyder, Benton to Andrews.

Spuds Get Man to Third

The Spudders threatened in the fourth. Fitzgerald led off with his second base on balls and went to second on Bennett's sacrifice, Lindsey to Burrus. Fitz went to third on a passed ball but Sullivan and Swenson were out on grounders.

The Buffs also got a man to third in the fifth. Benson started it with a hit to center and went to second on Lindsey's sacrifice, Payne to Benton. Benson moved to third when Benton went far to his left to throw out Hock. Payne struck out Williamson.

Lindsey fanned Stapleton and Crouch and deflected Payne's grounder to enable Smith to throw out George.

Payne retired to hostiles in order in the sixth.

Two Spudders were left on base in their sixth. Benton walked but was forced by Andrews on an attempted sacrifice, Burrus to Benson. Fitzgerald singled to center, advancing Andrews to second. Bennett forced Fitzgerald, Smith to Benson. Andrews going to third. Hock threw out Sullivan.

How Buffs Scored

Here's how the Buffs tallied three in the seventh: Cotelle went to second when Sullivan dropped his fly. Snyder singled to left, Cotelle going to third. Benson hoisted to Fitzgerald, scoring Cotelle and sending Snyder to second. Lindsey singled to center, scoring Snyder. Hock hit to center. Lindsey stopping at second. Williamson beat out a roller to Andrews, filling the bases. It was Williamson's third hit. Swenson threw out Lindsey at the plate on Martin's bounder. Payne dropped Burrus' pop. Hock scoring. Smith forced Burrus, Benton to Andrews.

Stapleton got his second hit, a single, but was left on base.

Cy Smith replaced Payne in the eighth, and held the Buffs scoreless, by fanning Snyder and Lindsey, although Benson singled.

The Spudders filled the bases but two were out and it was unavailing. Burrus dropped Benson's wide throw on Fitzgerald's grounder. Bennett singled through short and Sullivan to center, advancing Fitzgerald to third. Swenson lifted to Cotelle.

Martin walked and went to second when Lapan threw the ball into center field but Benton took Burrus' lift for the third out in the ninth.

NOTES OF THE GAME

The Buffs will look at more right-hand chucking today. Steengrafe or Goff will be Jim Galloway's hurler.

Paul Wachtel or Gerald Myres, a young lefthander, will be Pancho Snyder's hurler.

Gene Bailey, who pastimed last season for Beaumont, is to join the Buffs here tomorrow. He is an outfielder and first baseman and batted over .300 in 1928.

Sullivan had an error, rare for him, when Cotelle's drive fell safely in the seventh. The ball hit Dick in the tummy and knocked the wind out of him.

Bud Stapleton is playing a corking game, despite his injured finger.

The Lone Eastern Barrier

The Far West has been cleaning up the East with fairly steadily regularity through late years. Stanford of California or U. S. C. has been taking charge of the intercollegiate games at Cambridge or Franklin field. Last summer California's big crew rowed from the rest in the East, at Poughkeepsie, and then in the Olympic eliminations. California will soon be headed East again and if California is to be stopped the answer seems to be Columbia. Glendon's fast crew has already shown enough speed. If it can stand up under the four-mile test there will be something to watch at Poughkeepsie, where at this moment the entire show seems to be Columbia and California. If Columbia's fast crew can stop the Far Western charge there is small likelihood that any other university can turn the trick.

Recently some 250 golfers met at Muirfield and Gullane to qualify and decide the fate of the British open.

It is a far different story over here, where the goal is much harder to reach.

Over here there are 8,000,000 square miles to be accounted for. In place of 250 entries there will be something between 1,100 and 1,200. It is for this reason tht qualifying rounds must be played in many different sections—North, South, East and West.

There will be just one lone survivor on the afternoon of June 29, and he will be the survivor of some 1,200 shock troops.

Walter Hagen has accomplished a marvelous performance in winning four British opens, but winning the U. S. open is now the high spot in golf.

It is the toughest of all golfing jobs. In addition to all the star professionals there will be such amateurs as Bobby Jones, George Voight, George Von Elm, Chick Evans, Jess Sweetser, Harrison, Johnston and others to consider. Over here it is not so much a battle against the elements. Cold winds and rains rarely attack a June tournament.

The fact that no golfer has repeated over here for 17 years, shows how strong the barrier is. To be sole entry out of 1,200 starters from the best in the game is something to shoot at.

Michigan Again

Dear Sir: Michigan is leading the Western Conference baseball race. Michigan usually does just that. It has a gret coach in Ray Fisher, the former Yankee and Red pitcher. Michigan develops the best players in the conference, but few of them ever go in for professional ball. Michigan's athletic system discourages its stars making athletics a profession. —RUD.

Dear Sir: They were telling this Rockne story at the Ohio relays. When Elmer Leyden, fullback of the Horsemen, finished school, he came to Rockne for advice. He was undecided as to whether to take up coaching or become a bond salesman.

"What are the requirements of the jobs?" he asked Rockne.

"To be a successful bond salesman," Knute replied, "you have to be well dressed and dumb. To be a successful coach it is not necessary to dress quite so well."

—RED. T.

Dear Sir: Now that you are keeping bees, why not challenge Warren Brown to a race with his roaches. Warren staged a famous roach race in Youngstown several years ago and has some speedy ones. Such a race would amuse the boys when they grow tired of following Horton Smith in the open at Winged Foot. —F. J. B.

For that matter there may be a few of the boys also following Bobby Jones and Walter Hagen. They seem to have done fairly well in this respect for the last 10 years, where one usually needs a periscope to watch them swing at anything like close range.

A fanatic writes in to suggest that it might be just as well to keep an eye on St. Louis National league race. Why not? St. Louis won in 1927, came close to winning in 1928 and came back to win in 1929. Any team that has Haines and Alexander pitching, with Frisch and Bottomley around the infield, is no slight part of a set-up. The Cardinal line-up may not quite figure with the Cubs, but it won't be so far away when the final standing of the clubs is thrown into print.

"You might think," writes H. K. F., "that with a million targets to shoot at we would get a better run of heavyweights than the game knows today. That much money usually draws out something to look at it." You might think so, but it wouldn't mean anything. Apparently most of the heavyweights can't see why they should be bothered with any real fighting for only $1,000,000. They'll take a bow for that much loose change, but not much more.

This situation is almost bound to change in the near fueture. If the present crop still insist upon the dance and grapple, the tug and haul, there will be others coming along willing to take a chance and wing a few shots in the general direction of the enemy. And when a few of these arrive most of those now hanging around will jump over the ropes or take up another line of work.

Helen Extended By French Girl

Miss Wills Forced to Limit In Paris Tennis

PARIS, May 19. (UP)—For the first time since her memorable match against Suzanne Lenglen at Cannes in 1925, Helen Wills was extended to the limit by a frail, blonde French girl in the Franco-American tennis matches today.

The United States triumphed, four matches to three, when Miss Wills and Edith Cross, the California doubles team, beat Mme. Mathieu and Mme. LaFaurie, 6-2, 2-6, 6-4, in the last match of the day.

Previously Mme. Mathieu had Helen actually struggling to keep even during the great part of their singles match, which Miss Wills won, 8-6, 6-0. The French girl led 6-5 in the first set and for a moment it appeared that Miss Wills would lose her first set in two years. Only by bringing every resource into play did the California star win the last three games.

Memphis City League Will Start Today

MEMPHIS, Texas, May 19.—The Wholesalers will cross bats with the All Stars here Monday afternoon at 4 o'clock at Fair park, which will be the opening game of the City league, recently organized here, consisting of six teams, composed of All Stars, Wholesalers, Dry Goodsmen, Barbers, Grocers and Firemen-Lions.

The business houses of Memphis have been asked to close for the opening game Monday, and at least 500 people are expected to attend.

The schedule calls for three games each week. The season will be split, the second half beginning June 24. Winners of the two halves will play a three-game series in August for the championship and trophy.

GULF STATES STEEL
Five-Year Record

The Gulf States Steel company is the second largest steel producer in the South and is the largest "independent" in that section. It is an important factor in the southern trade and has built up a sizeable export business. Its products consists mostly of bars, wire rods, plain, galvanized and barbed wire and nails.

All the company's properties are located in the Birmingham district and render the concern independent of outsiders for basic materials. It has deposits of self fluxing iron ore estimated to contain 100,000,000 tons developed coal properties with reserves of 36,000,000 tons, undeveloped coal lands estimated to contain 350,000 tons and 450 acres of lime quarries. Its mills, blast and open hearth furnaces and manufacturing plants were thoroughly modernized in 1928.

Gross sales increased in 1927 over 1926 but were under those of 1923 and 1925. Net income in 1927 was $756,403 the smallest in 6 years comparing with $799,793 in 1926 and $1,036,778 in 1925. Funded debt totals $3,785,000 in 5½ per cent bonds due in 1942. Capital stock includes $2,000,000 in 7 per cent cumulative first preferred of $100 par redeemable at $110 and $12,500,000 in common of $100 par. Preferred and common have equal voting rights. Dividends on the first preferred have been paid regularly. One per cent was paid January 2, 1929 on the common. The last previous payment was 1¼ per cent in July, 1927.

As of January 1, 1928 total current assets were $7,008,309. Current liabilities totaled $659,969 and net working capital $6,348,340. Book value of the common stock amounted to $147.33 a share.

Your car runs smoother on good gear grease

GOOD grease prevents metal-to-metal contact of the gears. It puts a cushion of pure lubricant between the gear teeth. It reduces friction. It prevents noise and wear.

Such a grease is Whiz Gear Grease. It will not "thin" in hot weather, or "channel" in cold weather. It keeps right on lubricating, all the time. You get more miles per gallon. You save money in repair bills. See that your dealer puts in Whiz Gear Grease every 5000 miles.

CRANE-HENRY

Special to The Record News

ALTUS, Okla., May 19.—Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Mattie Henry to R. H. Crane at Lawton at 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Henry of 720 North Hudson street.

The ceremony was performed in the Walker hotel by the Rev. Frank Barrett, pastor of the Methodist church and formerly of Altus.

Announcement of the marriage came as a surprise to the friends and family of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Crane left Lawton Friday morning for a two week's visit to Oklahoma City, Tulsa, and Kansas City, Mo., after which they will return to Altus.

The bride is now superintendent of the schools of Jackson county with her term to expire July 1. She has been associated with the schools of the county for several years. She taught at Porter high, at Victory and at Willowvale before serving as deputy county superintendent of schools for four years and later being elected as county superintendent for four years.

Mr. Crane is associated with the Royalty Finance corporation of Tulsa. He has been in Altus the last two months attending to business matters here. After July 1 Mr. and Mrs. Crane plan to live in Tulsa.

JOHN D. OWNS SPEAKEASIES

Oil Magnate Finds Leases Infested With "Joints"

NEW YORK, May 19. (US)—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was revealed today as finding himself in the embarrassing position of being landlord of many flourishing speakeasies in the heart of New York City.

Mr. Rockefeller is not a speakeasy landlord by choice. He "inherited" undesirable tenants. They sublease from some leases of the Columbia university properties which were taken over by the oil magnate in January. Mr. Rockefeller had intended the properties to include the site for a new metropolitan opera house.

The properties cover the blocks between Forty-Eighth street, Fifty-First street, Fifth avenue and Sixth avenue, and were leased for eighty-seven years at $261,000,000 for the full period, or over $3,000,000 a year average over the entire term.

It was learned that on parts of the property Mr. Rockefeller will not be able legally to raze the old residences and rebuild properties, some of which date back seventy-five to 100 years, for another two years. Buying up some of the leases, which include subleases to persons operating the scores of speakeasies, brings up both legal and heavy financial obstacles.

DANIEL SEES RELIGIOUS GAIN

Bible Teacher Points To Christianity's Progress

Progress in socialized Christian conduct is being made throughout the world, despite frequent expressions of pessimism on that subject, according to the address given by Roy J. Daniel before the Kay Bible class at the First Methodist church Sunday morning.

Mr. Daniel mentioned recent developments in Japan, Mexico and elsewhere which he declared are modern fulfillment of the admonitions of the prophet Jeremiah at the gate of the temple: "Turn ye from your ways and amend your doings." In Japan, he said, the city of Tokyo has been given a new municipal government, succeeding one of extreme corruption which controlled the city for a long period prior to the passage of an universal manhood suffrage act in 1926.

In Mexico, "the richest country on earth, inhabited by the poorest people in the world," President Gil has set about the elimination of the liquor traffic by educating the people to its evils, Mr. Daniel stated.

In our own country, the speaker said, Chicago finally has been driven by the extremity of her crime wave to unusual efforts for the eradication of the criminal element and suppression of political corruption.

Mr. Daniel's speech follows:

"What do you consider the most unpleasant task in the world? Do you have any unpleasant tasks? Do you use psychology and thereby make all your tasks seem pleasant to yourself whether they are or not? Do you perform all your tasks in such a manner that they are pleasing to others? The end in view of every task we perform should be to bring pleasure to somebody. No true prophet enjoys denouncing anything or anybody. Jeremiah's task of publicly rebuking the sins of his age was a most unpleasant task. A private and personal correction of our own sins does more good in this world than a public rebuke or denunciation of others for their sins. Let us remove the beam from our own eye before we take the mote from our brother's eye. My circuit rider Methodist preacher grandfather of Civil war days, according to his diary, held the opposite view from mine, and I may have poor doctrine but that is what I believe about it anyway.

True Religion

"Jeremiah stood at the gate of the Lord's house and talked to the people as they came in to worship. He called upon them to amend their ways and their doings. He told the people that true religion does not consist of a fine temple or building alone. True religion is much more than a place to meet. Yet I think a man can worship God more reverently in a beautiful house than a rundown shack. To cry out 'temple of the Lord,' 'temple of the Lord' and put your trust in a house alone is to trust lying words. Real religion means to administer justice between a man and his neighbor, not to oppress the stranger, the fatherless and the widow. Real religion means not to shed innocent blood, not to walk after strange gods. Real religion means to love your neighbor as yourself, to forgive not just seven times but seventy times seven, to love your enemies, to do good to those that despitefully use you, and to be absolutely unselfish. Jeremiah called upon the people to bring sacrifices and burnt-offerings to God's service. A sacrifice meant to offer a thing to God; a burnt-offering meant the complete surrender of a thing to God. God had not called upon the fathers of the children of Israel of Jeremiah's day for sacrifices and burnt-offerings when He led them out of Egypt but He did command them, saying, 'Obey my voice and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people.' Let us today obey His voice, and He will be our God and we shall be His people.

"Are the peoples of the world obeying His voice today? A world survey shows that the situation is not so pessimistic. In fact it seems full of optimism. Why, over in Tokyo in far away Japan for a long time the people remained indifferent to a rotten condition of the city government.

"A universal manhood suffrage act in 1926 gave all the men of Tokyo the right to vote, and they exercised that right recently when they turned out the old corrupt political gang that had held on so long in the Imperial City. They placed in power a new municipal assembly called from a variety of occupations—from medicine, literature, education, commerce and retail trade. I presume they have lawyers in Japan but none were elected in the recent election. (That meets the approval of my good editor friend in Iowa Park, Irrigated Ike I am sure). In answer to Jeremiah's words of the long ago they are mending their ways in far away Japan. Tokyo made a marked stride toward decent government in that election.

Mexico and Prohibition

"Down in Mexico they are mending their ways. The defeat of the recent resolution shows that the people are amending their attitudes for the better toward legally constituted authority. President Gil, a lawyer and not a soldier, has now undertaken a war against Mexico's most persistent enemy, alcohol. He brought about partial prohibition in the state of Tamaulipas while he was governor of that state, and now he brings forth a program to make a dry Mexico. He is going about it in the right way. He does not want prohibition established by law or maintained by force at present. His plan is to educate the people of Mexico to the evils of hard liquor and to give government support to athletic sports and outdoor recreations especially for the youths. Mexico is the richest country on earth inhabited by the poorest people on earth. Drinking of liquor has had its part in making that condition. It may take the Mexican people a long time to learn that the drunkard pays and the nation pays but they will come to know the horrible truth. And when they do, Mexico will amend her doings.

"Why even in Chicago in our own country the people are beginning to obey the commands of Jeremiah. Grafters and official crooks had brought Chicago to the verge of bankruptcy and given that great city the reputation of being the most lawless of all our large cities. The city department of education is closing the school year $23,000,000 in debt, and it is not likely that her schools will open in September for lack of funds. Chicago is the second city in size in our country, and her failure to cope with crime and lawlessness has been the cause of her woes. Her financial condition is desperate. Her public treasury is empty. Her municipal salaries are being paid out of borrowed money. The city was beginning to stagger under its load of needless debt. So a determined attempt to break up the alliances between the politicians of Chicago and its underworld is being made by the capable district attorney, and 124 citizens and officials were recently indicted by Chicago grand juries on various criminal charges. Early trials are to be given them. A law breaking slot machine ring made millions of dollars in profits, and the evidence submitted to the grand jury showed that hundreds of thousands of dollars were paid to politicians and police officials for their help. But Chicago has heard the cry of Jeremiah, 'Turn ye from your evil ways and amend your doings,' and Chicago will in due time be a decent place in which to live.

Power Influence

"More than a year ago the United States senate ordered the federal trade commission to investigate the activities of the giant power companies of our country. It has revealed the vigilance with which the companies watch and try to dictate the doctrines taught in public schools and colleges on the subject of public ownership. It has revealed at least a part of the lobbying schemes by which the public utility companies protect themselves against laws that might hurt their interests. The latest disclosure is that the International Paper and Power company has acquired in recent years investments in thirteen newspapers, amounting to more than $10,000,000. The International denies any effort to control the editorial policies of the newspapers bought, and says that the sole object was to insure a market for its paper. Disinterested newspapers, however, did not view the purchases of the newspapers by the International so calmly. Newspapers are the mouthpieces of public opinion, and many view it as unhealthy business for a big power company to dominate a group of newspapers. So yielding to the pressure of public opinion, the owner of one of these purchased newspapers has repurchased from the International its investment in his newspapers.

'Turn ye from your ways and amend your doings,' said Jeremiah.

May Wichita Falls ever be a city that obeys the voice of conscience and of God. If she continues so to be then He will be our God and we shall be His people. Let us walk in His ways, and then it will be well unto us, forever and forever."

County Commissioners to Plan New Safety Devices for Jail

Installation of additional safety devices at the Wichita county jail and the possibility of employing further guards will be suggested to members of the county commissioners court Monday following an attempted jail break which resulted in the death of one prisoner and the injury of two others last Thursday morning.

Judge John P. Marrs, county judge, who undertook an investigation of possible new devices immediately after the tragedy, has suggested that the jail cells and area ways be inclosed in a fine wire mesh, making the smuggling of tools impossible. He has invited Sheriff W. G. Bralley, W. W. Allen, jailer, and other county officials to appear before the court at its regular meeting Monday to discuss conditions. It is understood that at that time a proposal to enlarge the jail guard will be made.

The move follows an attempted break last Thursday, in which Mr Allen, attacked by four men, shot and killed Raymond Sellers, 23, and wounded T. O. Cagle and Collie Exuner. The jailer has been exonerated of all blame by a court of inquiry verdict, but the grand jury has been asked to investigate the part played by each of the prisoners implicated.

Duckett Called to Trial Today On Charge of Slaying Officer

Selection of a jury in the trial of George Duckett, charged with murder in connection with the slaying of Charlie McDaniel, deputy sheriff, as the officer attempted to halt a bank robbery in Dundee last summer, is expected to occupy most of Monday, the opening day of the trial at Seymour. C. C. McDonald, local attorney, who is defending Duckett left Sunday afternoon for Baylor county where he will conduct the preliminary questioning of special veniremen summoned as jurors.

Wichita county officers who arrested Duckett in his home at Newcastle a few days after the shooting have been summoned as witnesses, but will await the completion of preliminaries before going on to the scene of the trial. Sheriff W. G. Bralley, Warren W. Belcher, deputy sheriff, and S. O. Hamm, state highway officer have all been called for the state.

Mr. McDaniel, a pioneer cattleman and long time resident of Archer county, was shot through the stomach when he attempted to stop a lone bandit leaving the First National bank at Dundee. The hijacker, escaping in an automobile, changed his car three times on the way into Wichita Falls, each time getting the new machine at the point of his gun.

The case was first called last fall in Archer county and a change of venue granted on motion of the defense. Duckett's defense will be based on an alibi, the defendant claiming that he was in his father's home at Newcastle at the time of the holdup in Dundee, Mr. McDonald has announced.

PASTOR URGES HOME SERVICE

Parents Too Busy to Pray, Says Hall

A re-establishment of regular religious services in the homes of church members in this country was urged as one of the greatest checks which could be exerted on the increase of crime, in a sermon given Sunday morning at the First Southern Presbyterian church by Dr. Gaines B. Hall, pastor.

Speaking on the text, "Them that honor Me, I will honor," Dr. Hall declared that the developments in the United States in recent years make it imperative the home again become the source of religious education.

"The three principal agencies in character building are the home, the school and the church. Our home turned over the burden of instilling a consciousness of God in our children to the church and the school. Now the Bible has been almost completely driven from the schoolroom by legislation. The church is trying to do the work, but one hour a week is not enough. Many of our women are so busily engaged in carrying on the work of various church and social and humanitarian organizations that they no longer have any time to devote to their own families. The result is an almost complete ignoring of God's command to "train up the children in fear and admonition of the Lord."

"Nothing indicates the feebleness of modern piety so strikingly as the complete absence of family worship in so many so-called Christian homes," said the speaker.

"If religion means much to the parents, they can find a time, even in this complex age when a united family for dinner is a rarity, to recognize God in the home, and to set the example of Bible reading and prayer. The memory of family worship, of parental prayer, will have a hallowed and sacred influence in the heart of a child, to go with him through many yers. Family worship is a fountain that puts forth streams of holy influence. If we are sincerely intent upon purifying the life of our generation, we may follow the example set in the statement of Joshua: "Choose you this day whom you will serve; but as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord."

KNIFE WOUND KILLS NEGRO

Battle During Dice Game Ends Fatally

Henry Toles, negro, was fatally stabbed early Sunday morning in an affray in his home at 602 Denison street. Raymond Lewis, another negro, was arrested.

According to statements gathered by officers from Lewis and several other negroes who were in the house, an accusation that Toles used "crooked dice" resulted in the fight.

Lewis surrendered at police headquarters immediately after the affray, turning in a pistol, a knife and a pair of dice as evidence, according to Pat Allen, city detective.

In statements made after the affair Lewis and the other negroes told officers that Toles had attempted to snatch a gun from under a pillow on a bed.

Another negro who was in the room at the time was said to have gotten to the gun first but that Toles jerked it out of his hand and turned on Lewis. In a scuffle between the two the gun was discharged twice. One of the shots slightly wounded Lewis in the side and the other went into the ceiling.

Toles had a gash under one jaw and was stabbed in the chest.

O. L. Gibbs, justice of the peace, returned a coroner's verdict of death from knife wounds.

Lewis was turned over to Sam B. Spence, district attorney, Sunday afternoon by the city police. Charges of murder will be filed against him Monday, Mr. Spence declared Sunday night.

7,760 Attend Sunday School

Jacksonville Pilot Off On Endurance Test

New record attendance marks at the Grant Street Methodist and East Side Presbyterian churches Sunday featured a gain of 1,634 in total attendance reported by 30 local churches over the mark of May 12.

The Grant Street Methodist school advanced to 281, a gain of six over its previous record established about three weeks ago, while the East Side Presbyterian, celebrating their first day's use of the new church building, had a total of 151 in classes.

The First Baptist Sunday school, with 1,233, retained the leadership.

Council to Consider Food Ordinance Change

An amendment to the city food handlers ordinance probably will be presented to the council Monday night at its regular weekly meeting.

The amendment to the present ordinance was recommended by the board of aldermen last week following a plea of a local wholesale produce handler that unnecessary clauses were contained in it.

Bids for 4,000 feet of fire hose will be submitted to the council for the purchase of new hose for the local fire department.

Fort Worth Pastor Accepts Call Here

Rev. S. F. Martin of Fort Worth accepted the pastorate of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church at the morning service Sunday, and will assume his duties here June 2, according to congregational officers of the church.

The Reverend Mr. Martin has occupied the local pulpit several times since the departure of Rev. W. H. Townsend, who resigned the Lamar Avenue post to accept the pastorate of the First Baptist church at Olney. He was called by the congregation last Sunday, May 12.

The new preacher will give the baccalaureate sermon for the high school graduates at Grand Saline, Texas, Sunday, May 26. He has a son in one of the Fort Worth high schools, and will move to this city immediately following the close of school activities for the year, Mrs. Martin is said to be an unusually accomplished woman, with extensive experience in church work.

Officers of the local church Sunday expressed great satisfaction in securing the services of Rev. Mr. Martin, stating that he will prove an interesting and valuable addition to the ministerial forces of the city.

CONGRESS NEAR ITS MAIN GOAL

Reapportionment and Farm Bills in Sight

WASHINGTON, May 19. (AP)—Congress slowly is working toward the end of its first goal, enactment of farm relief and reapportionment of the house, with President Hoover apparently in sight of victory on the agricultural issue despite a hostile senate.

This week is expected to produce conclusive developments on these phases of the administration program for the extra session and leaders are looking forward to a vacation from Decoration day to the Fourth of July.

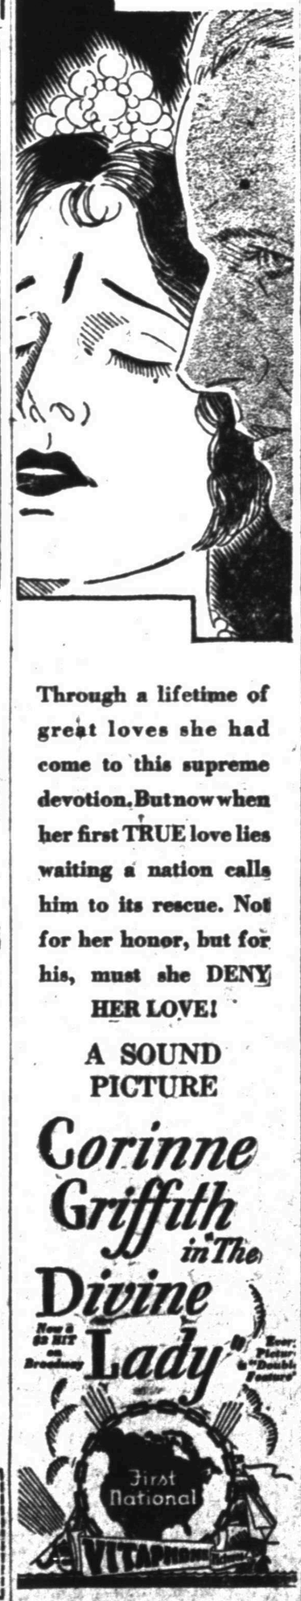

While the house pushes ahead on the tariff bill, with prospects improved for an understanding on it among the Republican majority, the senate will seek to complete work on the measures authorizing the 1930 census and a reapportionment of the house on the basis of that census.

Tomorrow, senate and house conferees will assemble behind closed doors to seek an adjustment between the conflicting farm relief measures of the two branches. A deadlock, or at least a long, stubborn contest, is in prospect over the export bounty provision put into the senate measure over the objection of President Hoover.

No decision is expected by the conferees before the end of the week on the farm controversy and some members believe it will take as much as 10 days.

Once the senate passes the census-reapportionment measure, little time is expected to be required for its adoption in the house.

Water on Hand for Quanah Street Paving

Special to The Record News

QUANAH, Texas, May 19.—Two and a half million gallons of water called for on the contract for paving the west end of Highway No. 5, which would have had to be pumped from Groesbeck creek, was practically all furnished by the heavy rains of the past ten days. The grade west to the Childress county line had been laid out with a series of dams about one foot in height, and water to fill these would have had to be pumped because of the lengthy dry season preventing proper mettling of the roadbed before pouring concrete.

Several carloads of gravel have been unloaded, and actual pouring of concrete will now start as soon as weather permits.

The Rockefeller Institute is financing the establishment, in northern Norway, of an observatory for the study of the aurora borealis.
