'Jersey Kid' Surrenders To Officers

Famed Gangster Gives Self Up Meekly In Barricaded Apartment In N. Y.

(By Associated Press) NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The "Jersey Kid," whose true name became known long ago in an interminable maze of aliases, and who is wanted, police say, for two murders in New Jersey and one in Chicago, gave himself up today.

Barricaded in an uptown apartment, with a pretty, red-headed girl companion, "The Jersey Kid" started to shoot it out with the police. There was a price of $25,000 on his head.

Meekly Surrenders But when they told him they were going to throw in the bomb he did not come out in five minutes, he poked his gun, stock first, out through a crack in the door, and meekly surrendered.

Tattooed on his arm he wore the legend "Death Before Dishonor," and the names "Jack Murray," "Frank McBrand," and "Jersey Kid."

Denies Names But after his arrest he suddenly denied he was either Murray, McBrand, or "The Jersey Kid." He said his name was Charles Davis, an alias which the police said he had used before.

As "Frank McBrand" the prisoner was wanted in Newark, for the murder of a motor bus terminal cashier, and in Bradley Beach, N. J., for the murder of a bank messenger. Both murders were committed during holdups. He was wanted in Chicago, too, for murder, the police said, but the declined to give any details. And as "Charles Davis," he is wanted in Philadelphia for two holdups that totalled nearly $75,000.

All Of Stolen Money Found In Buried Tin Box And Returned; Confession Is Only Clue To Robbery

THOMAS WILLIAMS, for the past five years postmaster at Matador county seat of Motley county, today under a $2,000 bond following the filing of a complaint here yesterday by Postoffice Inspector L. G. Bragdon charging that Williams robbed his own postoffice early Saturday morning.

The complaint was filed before United States Commissioner Leonard Pearson, of Lubbock, and bondsmen were announced as W. R. and T. J. Tison, of White Flat, Motley county.

Total is $3,325. A total of $3,325 taken in the Matador robbery, has been recovered, Inspector Bragdon told Commissioner Pearson. The lost included $2,500 taken from a registered letter addressed to the First National bank of Matador, and $825 of the general funds of the office.

When the robbery was reported in Matador Saturday Postmaster Williams displayed "jimmy" marks on the building's doors, corresponding with similar marks found following a number of South Plains store robberies which have occurred recently. He also reported that a window had been left open by whoever entered the building.

Money Is Buried

Inspector Bragdon told Commissioner Pearson that Williams became frightened during the robbery, and hid the money in a tin box, containing the money, from a farm a short distance from Matador, and the current was found intact.

The inspector said guilt would probably never have been established had not Williams confessed.

Attempt Made To Rescue 21 Survivors In Saturday Tragedy When 11 Persons Met Watery Death

(The Associated Press) TOKYO, Dec. 5.—Dispatches to the Japanese newspaper Nichi-Nichi Shimbun today said that seven persons were known to have drowned and 17 others were missing in the wrecking of the Japanese freighter Bunmaru near Ke-lung, Formosa.

PAGO PAGO, American Samoa, Dec. 4. (AP)—With eleven men known to have drowned in the wreck Saturday of the freighter Norichi City off Gardner island in the Phoenix group, 700 miles north of here, word was awaited today of the success or failure of efforts to rescue twenty-one of their companions.

Thirty-five men were aboard the Norichi City when she piled up on a coral reef, there to be broken to pieces by the heavy surf. A radio message from the Steamer Irongate told of the rescue of three members of the freight's crew, and it was presumed here that they had been among the 24 who reached in safety the shore of the bleak and uninhabited island.

Land Rocket Line The Irongate reported a rocket line had been landed on the island, and that despite the high seas, efforts would be made to get the other survivors on board the steamer today. The wreck of the Norichi City left ten men on the

Hoover Asks For Four Billion In His Budget Talk

President Says Nation's Finances Are In Sound Condition In Message To Congress Wednesday

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—To carry forward the manifold activities of the government, President Hoover in his first annual budget message today asked congress to set aside $9,930,445,231 for the next fiscal year.

At the same time he declared the nation's finances to be in a sound condition and renewed his plea for a speedy reduction in taxes due on 1929 incomes. He based his request on an estimated surplus of over $225,000,000 for the current fiscal year and past experience, which he said showed each slash in tax levies to have been followed by increased revenues.

Less Than This Year. The appropriations requested, while $145,696,000 less than for this year, were $272,493,469 less than estimated expenditures for 1930-31, at the end of which period a surplus of $122,000,000 was anticipated.

A $200,000,000 appropriation for the Federal Farm board, to be submitted later, and a carry-over of $72,000,000 from this year's appropriations would make up the difference, the message said.

Mr. Hoover asked for larger sums for the army, the navy, food control, rivers and harbors, public buildings, forest protection and India affairs.

Radio Censorship Before Committee

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (AP)—Censorship of radio programs held the attention of the senate interstate commerce committee today as its investigation of radio, telephone and telegraph communication was resumed.

The question arose in testimony by William D. Terrell, chief of the radio division of the department of commerce, who said censorship might be an "excellent thing" but for the present, at least, the matter should be left to the "good judgment" of the broadcasters.

Discussing censorship, Terrell said the radio commission on several occasions had asked his division to listen in on programs of various stations. Among them, he mentioned station KWKH at Shreveport, La., where the announcement is done by W. K. Henderson, who has attracted attention by his vigorous language and opposition to chain stores.

Solon Defends His Right To Seat In Senate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (AP)—The bitterly contested campaign for the senatorship from Pennsylvania in 1930 lived again today in the senate as William S. Vare, worn by illness, defended his right to a seat after hearing himself and the politics of his state denounced by Senator Norris of Nebraska.

The Nebraska had used the strongest language at his command in demanding adoption of his resolution to deny the oath of office to the senator-elect.

Using a cane and accompanied by his physician, Vare slowly entered the chamber and heard it said the election of three years ago "weakens with dishonesty and corruption."

At Last—Chicago Breaks Gangsters' Strong Grip On City And Cleans House With Law Enforcement Campaign

New State's Attorney Cuts Down Profits Of Underworld

BY BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Chicago has broken the power of its gangs. Underworld rule has come to an end. The dynasty of beer barons, racketeers and pineapple artists is definitely on the wane.

The underworld is still busy, of course. Liquor is still being made and distilled. Rival gangsters are still shooting one another down. Bombs still go off now and then.

But the worst is over. The underworld is no longer unabashed and defiant. Instead it is a much harassed and discouraged underworld, viewing with and permitting a state's attorney's office that means business and a police force that really makes arrests.

Many of the most powerful gangsters are leaving the city permanently, seeking greener pastures in Florida, where they plan to establish the gambling and vice operations that Chicago, at last, has driven out.

A year ago Chicago's citizens went to the polls and kicked out the Cuyler-Thompson machine, putting John A. Swanson into the state's attorney's office. Last January Swanson took office. The results have been apparent for some time.

Roche a Hard Hitter.

The man most qualified to speak probably is Patrick Roche, special investigator for the state's attorney's office, former ace of the federal intelligence service and a hard-hitting law enforcer. It is on Roche's shoulders that most of the responsibility for cleaning up Chicago has fallen.

"The gang's power has been definitely broken," Roche says. "The biggest thing we've done is suppress vice and gambling. That leaves the liquor traffic as practically the only source of income for the gangs—and that isn't enough."

"Al Capone, for example, is through here. It's probable that when he gets out of prison in Philadelphia he won't even come back to Chicago. He'll head for Florida. That's where lots of the Chicago gang chieftains are moving now."

"You see, gangs are expensive things. Capone, for instance, had around 500 men on his regular payroll. That took an awful lot of money. It takes altogether too much when vice and gambling aren't being allowed to run full tilt. So the boys are having a tough time."

Nightly Roche leads his plain clothes men through the suburbs, for, oddly enough, it has always been in the suburbs like Cicero and Calumet City that the Chicago underworld has maintained its worst dives. He has been so rigorous that crookdom has adopted a new attitude toward the law.

Says Gangs Fading.

There is another Chicagoan who is in a position to speak with authority about the new situation—Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago Crime Commission, who took up the fight for clean government here at a time when that was as discouraging a fight as a man could enter and who is still at it.

"The gangs have lost their grip," says Loesch. "There'll be more trouble from time to time, of course. There's bound to be a sensational flare-up now and again. But the worst is over. The underworld's domination is gone."

"Mr. Swanson is handicapped by lack of funds, and this has, to a certain extent, crippled him. But he is a man of thorough integrity and he is very much in earnest. Things are very much better."

A prominent Chicago professional man who has studied the situation for years, but who asked that his name be not used, revealed similar views.

"The tide has turned at last," he says. "We are not the murder capital that some people think. Our murder ratio, in proportion to population, is actually much lower than in many cities far smaller than Chicago."

Chicago is planning on a great world's fair for 1933 with visitors from all over the world.

"How can we have a world's fair with our underworld situation?" they asked. "People will be afraid to come. Visitors will be afraid they'll get held up in the hotel lobbies. The scheme won't work."

But the situation has changed. The rule of gangdom has come to an end. And Chicago is going to have its World's fair.

Hoover Withdraws Ambassador West

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—President Hoover had an experience which has come to few presidents—that of having to withdraw the name of a prospective ambassador from consideration by a foreign government.

Some time ago the chief executive decided to appoint Roy O. West of Chicago, interior secretary in the Coolidge cabinet, as ambassador to Japan and sent his name to Tokyo for the customary approval before making the appointment public.

Soon after the Japanese government was communicated with, Mr. West reconsidered, having found it inadvisable to enter the diplomatic service.

The president now is casting about for an ambassador to the Tokyo post, one of the most important.

RUBIO TO RESIGN

BALTIMORE, Dec. 4.—Although Ortiz Rubio, president-elect of Mexico has been reported as planning to enter Johns Hopkins hospital for a rest, officials of the hospital said today no reservation for him had been sought at the hospital. They added they knew of no staff physician of the hospital who had been in correspondence with him.

Bank Head Faces Charges of Fraud

GALVESTON, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Witnesses today detailed events before the failure of the Ed McCarthy and company private bank here three years ago. In the state's attempt to convict McCarthy, one of the owners, on a charge of receiving deposits while insolvent.

Through seven witnesses the state tried to prove its major contention that prior to the bank's closing on October 7, 1926, Mr. McCarthy had accepted deposits knowing the bank to be insolvent. Only one witness, Ed Perthus, produce merchant, testified to making a deposit and the court sustained an objection on the grounds that the deposit was in checks which do not represent real money as alleged in the indictment. County Attorney Owen D. Barker managed to present evidence from the same witness, however, of a cash deposit a few days prior to the closing.

Other witnesses, including Fred Harrel and State Senator T. J. Holbrook, receiver and trustee of the McCarthy estate at different periods in civil litigation, were used to present inventory statements regarding to bank's financial condition.

ATTORNEY INDICTED

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 4.—(AP)—E. B. Chambers, brother of Mayor C. M. Chambers and prior to October 1 an assistant district attorney here, was named in one of 13 indictments returned by a district court grand jury today. Chambers was charged in the indictment with conspiracy to manufacture liquor.

Manchurian City Destroyed by Reds

How Manchurian cities have been laid waste and burned by invading Soviet troops is indicated by this picture which shows the charred ruins of buildings on the Siberian frontier, after its occupation by the Soviets. Thousands were killed by the invaders, and Chinese troops were reported to have been decimated by the Russian advance. China has appealed to the United States and other nations that signed the Kellogg peace pact to "assist and punish" the invaders, charging the invaders in cold blood of innocent Chinese citizens.

Lehigh, dean of the School of Agriculture, that the classes in that school would be dismissed for the day.

BY MME. LISBETH

To keep the hair short or to let it grow is still a timely question which is worrying many women. With the new long skirts it seems long hair would be more appropriate, although women with graceful curly short hair look extremely chic in them.

The apparently never-ending period when the bob is too long to look neat and too short to be put up is a knot in the prospect that presents many women from letting their hair grow. They haven't the courage to see it through.

Monsieur Antoine, famous Paris hairdresser, has many ways of making the hair look charming through this trying period. In photo (1) is shown a typical growing bob, long enough to dress with combs and pins, but too short for knots and buns.

According to Miss Margaret Weeks, dean of the school, the hair is seen showing what can be done with hair at such a length. Since the young woman's face is long, rather than round, he combs down a fringe of bangs and brings some curls forward in front of her ears. In (2) Antoine shows how the curly ends may be tucked high on the head, instead of giving what he calls a "heavy line on the neck."

In the first arrangement (1), Antoine takes a yard or so of material ribbon and improvises an evening note for the same coiffure. (4) This arrangement reflects the mood of the high waist and long skirt, he explains.

Photo (5) shows the hair of the not-so-young woman as she has been doing it herself, parted at the back and too short to be put up. A knot is the prospect that presents many women from letting their hair grow. They haven't the courage to see it through.

Instead of the roll pinned low at the back of the head, he arranges the back hair higher, pinning it into place to follow the shape of the head. A side view of the same coiffure is shown (7), showing how the hair is fluffed toward to make a soft and flattering frame for the face. And (8) pictures the evening variation finished with a coronet of silver ribbon, which Antoine prefers to any of the bits of false hair in transforming a daytime arrangement into something festive for evening.

Undoubtedly the whole situation would have ended disastrously, if it had not been for an unexpected visit of the wife to her husband's office. It happened in this manner: One afternoon, while down town shopping, she found herself in the neighborhood of her husband's office, and realizing that she had not been there for a long time, she decided to pay an unexpected visit. Her husband was not in, and while she waited she saw all the young girls and women employed in the office. Exquisitely groomed ladies, neatly costumed girls glided before her, immaculate from the tips of their perfectly chosen pumps to the tops of their beautifully marcelled heads—$30 to $50 a week clerks! And this was the atmosphere in which her husband worked. Like a flash she contrasted her own dowdy self with these lovely, attractive girls, and felt ashamed. She hurried out of the office without waiting for her husband's return, and since her instincts, after all, were feminine, she landed in a beauty salon.

The beauty expert whom she consulted studied her features, the shape of her head and her figure, and realized that basically she had good material to work with. The results were so enthralling that the husband could not understand what had transformed his quiet little wife into a charming companion for him. And thus what might have been a marital tragedy was transformed into a happy companionship.

Winter resort styles are on the up-and-down, as these photos show, and it appears more than barely possible that the sun-tan had will be as popular as ever. Bathing suit backs seen on Florida beaches are as low as those displayed above by Lillian Castle, left, and Dorothy Strickland. Meanwhile, many golfers have adopted shorts in preference to the once conventional knickerbockers, and pictured below is a trio thus clad on the links at St. Petersburg, Fla.

Officers for the year 1930 were elected at a meeting of the Rebekah lodge Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Ladies Temple. A public installation will be held the first of the year.

Mrs. Leona Cross was received as a new member. Nineteen persons were present.

Dr. and Mrs. J. Eugene Nelms, 1311 Avenue Q, have just returned from a Thanksgiving visit with relatives in Sherman, Whitehouse and Dallas. Aerial Photographs Taken During Commander Byrd's Polar Expedition May Secure United States Sovereignty In Antarctic; The Pictures Map Out Area

Hobby May Play Role In International Complications

By NEA Service.
NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—A wealthy young New Yorker's hobby, now a valued instrument of science, may play the decisive role in an international complication over America's South Pole.

As Commander Richard E. Byrd's successful South Pole flight centers wide attention upon "the bottom of the world" and its commercial possibilities, the prospect grows that Great Britain and the United States may come to diplomatic blows over the question of sovereignty there.

Statemen on both sides of the Atlantic, it seems, are alive to the possibility that Antarctica may be buried beneath the Antarctic's centuries of ice and snow.

The Camera Doesn't Lie.
While the aerial camera's specter notes to one another, Sherman M. Fairchild, 30, goes about the daily routine of directing the varied aerial enterprises of which he is the head. High up in one of Gotham's most modern business buildings, remote from the hub of Antarctic and the mounting heat of diplomatic intrigue, he is not unaware that the first aerial photographs of the South Pole territory may determine whether Britain or the United States is to have dominion over the frozen wastes. For Fairchild made these pictures possible.

As heir to the fortune of a millionaire New York congressman, Fairchild devoted part of his patrimony to the hobby of amateur photography. The development of aviation turned his thoughts aloft to equipment that would accurately picture what the birdman sees.

Valuable Beyond Expectations.
This was developed the camera now in use by the United States military service, and a science which soon attained proportions beyond all expectations of its young originator.

Fairchild may not have had potential international consequences in mind when he suggested to his friend Dick Byrd that aerial cameras be included in the elaborate equipment he was assembling for his South Pole venture. Thinking of the advantage Byrd lost on his North Pole flight by having neglected to equip himself, he foresaw only the scientific value of such pictures of Antarctic regions.

From a mere adjunct to his exploit, Byrd's camera became an indispensable factor in it, for he

It is this close-knit patchwork of air views, revealing topographical features beheld neither by Byrd nor the British adventurers who went before him, which would be of inestimable value in establishing or discrediting their rival demands. Byrd already has officially claimed for the United States two vast ranges at the edge of British-claimed territory.

North Plains Fans Coming Strong For Tech-Buff Fray

Bisons In Prime Condition For Go With Tech Eleven

Canyon Seeks To Repeat 1927 Performance When Bull Fighters Were Defeated, 12 To 9

(Special To The Avalanche)
CANYON, Dec. 4.—Posters, that are making their appearance on automobiles throughout the Panhandle, reading "December 5" with a large question mark at the end, just tell of the coming post-season football game between the Buffaloes of West Texas and the Tech Tech Buffaloes, on that date.

The Buffaloes were scheduled to play their last game on Thanksgiving day, but about two weeks ago Athletic Director Burton of West Texas and Athletic Director Freehand of Tech decided to have a post season game.

Bisons In Shape
The Buffs are working out for their last time this week and expect to be in top condition. Here before, which ever team won the battle always decided their football season to be a success and both teams are doing hard labor to be able to make that decision. The Thundering Herd has been playing the Matadors ever since 1925 or when Tech was first started and has won only one game from the Matadors. In 1927 they defeated the Matadors on their own field by a score of 12 to 9.

There are nine Buffaloes that will be playing their last game and they are determined to do their best. Captain Ward, who has played the end position for four years, says Tech will be tough, but they are only human. "It is my last game, and I'll do my best."

Jones, the lad that has played this general this year, has played three years. He graduates this year and will play his last game.

Sanders, a staunch veteran and most formidable of guards, carries those three stripes of service, to which the glorious fourth will soon be added, with an unassuming air. One change, for the bi-district title.

The powerful Hereford eleven clinched the championship of the Panhandle district Tuesday by trouncing the Perryton Rangers, 35 to 7, and, as one of the strongest Class B aggregations in all West Texas, those who have seen both Lamesa and Hereford in action this season declare that the game here Saturday will be a close-up.

Both teams boast an array of fast-footing ball carriers and the contest is likely to merge into a wild scoring orgy. The game starts at 2 o'clock.

Miller Is A Power
Miller, the young giant with the physique of a Hercules, has made the world go round with his powerful playing at the guard position. West Texas will lose a great man next year when Miller fails to appear.

Newman, the man who plays the full back position has lettered three years in football, and has found him best of all. He is the high point man on the Buffalo team. And two games alone he scored three touchdowns in each.

Elkins chose the tackle position to spend his football career, and he hasn't failed to hold it down. He has certainly done the opponents much misery this year.

Run Special Train
According to President Hill, statement 500 students from West Texas will make the trip to Lubbock in order to back the Buffaloes. In order to accommodate the means of transportation a special train has been signed for. The rates have been cut very low. $2.10 will purchase a round trip ticket.

The train will depart from Canyon promptly at 9 o'clock Friday morning and will carry the pep squads, the band and all the football players. The train will leave Lubbock as soon after the game as possible.

The probable starting lineup for the Buffaloes follows: Ward and Bandy, ends; Elkins and Logan, tackles; Miller and Sanders, guards; Thompson, center; Jones, quarterback; Gerald and Powell, halves; Newman, fullback.

Earl "Sparky" Adams, 33-year-old infielder, was purchased by the St. Louis Cardinals from Pittsburgh recently. He played second and short for the Pirates in 1928, but saw little service last season.

Adams made his big league debut in a trial with the Cardinals in 1927, but did not play regularly until he joined the Chicago Cubs in 1927. He played in the Windy City six years before being traded to Pittsburgh.

Battle For Bi-District Honors To Be Between Tornadoes And Hereford Whitefaces; Odds Even

(Special To The Avalanche)
LAMESA, Dec. 4.—The Class B classic of the Plains will be played before approximately 3,000 fans here Saturday afternoon when the Lamesa Golden Tornadoes, champions of District Two, clash with the Hereford Whitefaces, District One champs, for the bi-district title.

The powerful Hereford eleven clinched the championship of the Panhandle district Tuesday by trouncing the Perryton Rangers, 35 to 7, and, as one of the strongest Class B aggregations in all West Texas, those who have seen both Lamesa and Hereford in action this season declare that the game here Saturday will be a close-up.

Southwest Seniors To Meet Big Ten Eleven On Jan. 1

Dodd, Holm, McEver And Banker Compose Best Backfield In Southern Conference

Quartet Of Ball Toters Stand Out Above All Others

Much Controversy Over All-Southern Line Positions; High Class Material In Line Is Plentiful

By WILLIAM BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Writer

You can get into almost any kind of a brawl down South about the relative merits of possible choices for linemen on the All-Southern Conference team. But you can name one backfield, and still be considered a respectable member of society.

The backfield consists of Bobby Dodd, the University of Tennessee quarterback; Billy Banker, the white-haired Tulane halfback; Tony Holm, the Crimson Tide's plugging fullback, and Gene McEver, the Tennessee Gopher.

The writer has consulted coaches and sports writers in Atlanta, Knoxville, New Orleans, Memphis and other cities where the football talent thrives. When you have to be wrong, it is well to be as slightly wrong as possible. These opinions have been carefully weighed in the final selections as shown above.

Hug and "Catfish" Smith are both fast, Hug being a 10-second man. They travel at great speed in covering punts and both are fine pass receivers and deadly tacklers. They are good-sized men but handle themselves like lightweight.

It seems fitting here to mention the work of several capable ends, whose work throughout the season has been of a high order. They are Moore, Alabama; Jones, Georgia Tech; Holland, Tulane; Schwartz, Vanderbilt; Baughman and Yates, Kentucky; Holt, North Carolina; and Peas, Maryland.

The choices for the first team at tackle position, Drury and Sington, are men who weigh more than 190 but who are very speedy for their size. Each is a savage tackler. Other linemen down south whose work this year has been notable are Porcuer, Kentucky; J. Johnston, Tennessee; Moorehead, Mississippi; Vanderbilt, Georgia; and Rivers, Florida; and Bryant, Maryland.

men stopped all afternoon. In a pinch he can be pulled back to punt too.

The task of choosing between these great players has been difficult. Roberts at Tulane, Baylor at South Carolina and Phinizy at Tennessee all have the famous of analyzing opposition plays on the instant they are started. Roberts has been outstanding in all of Tulane's victories. Baylor of Georgia was nominated by several coaches as their first choice.

The backfield will have to laugh for itself. So many coaches and writers were told at luncheon on the four men chosen that it is almost impossible to get other players back. But other players have been chosen, and among them are: Crabtree and Carls, Florida; Dandridge, Georgia Tech; Parker and Leonard, Vanderbilt; Hendrick, Tennessee; Butler, Alabama; Soper, Kentucky; Mackins, Virginia; Mohr and West, Georgia Tech; and a host of other half-backs.

There are 23 teams in the Southern Conference. It is estimated that 24 men cannot be named.

SLATON, Dec. 4.—When the Slaton High school Tigers and the Eagle of Canyon High clash on the local gridiron Friday afternoon in their post-season encounter, all the talk of a bi-district championship game is expected.

Both teams have impressive records behind them in respective districts, this season and are in prime condition for the battle here. The contest, clearly, is out in the District Two, now when the Lamesa Tornadoes slipped up on the cohorts of Coach Paul Wright and made away with the title.

A large attendance of fans from all sections of the South Plains is indicated by interest being shown in the coming game. Net proceeds of the game will go to Coach Paul Wright as a mark of appreciation for the good work he has done with the Tiger eleven. The Bengals have won ten games.

Mid-Westerners May Be Invited To Pasadena Tilt

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 4.—Percy Loe, coach of the football team which will represent the West in the shrine annual East-West game to be played here New Year's day, today announced he had five mid-western players under consideration to whom invitations probably would be telegraphed today.

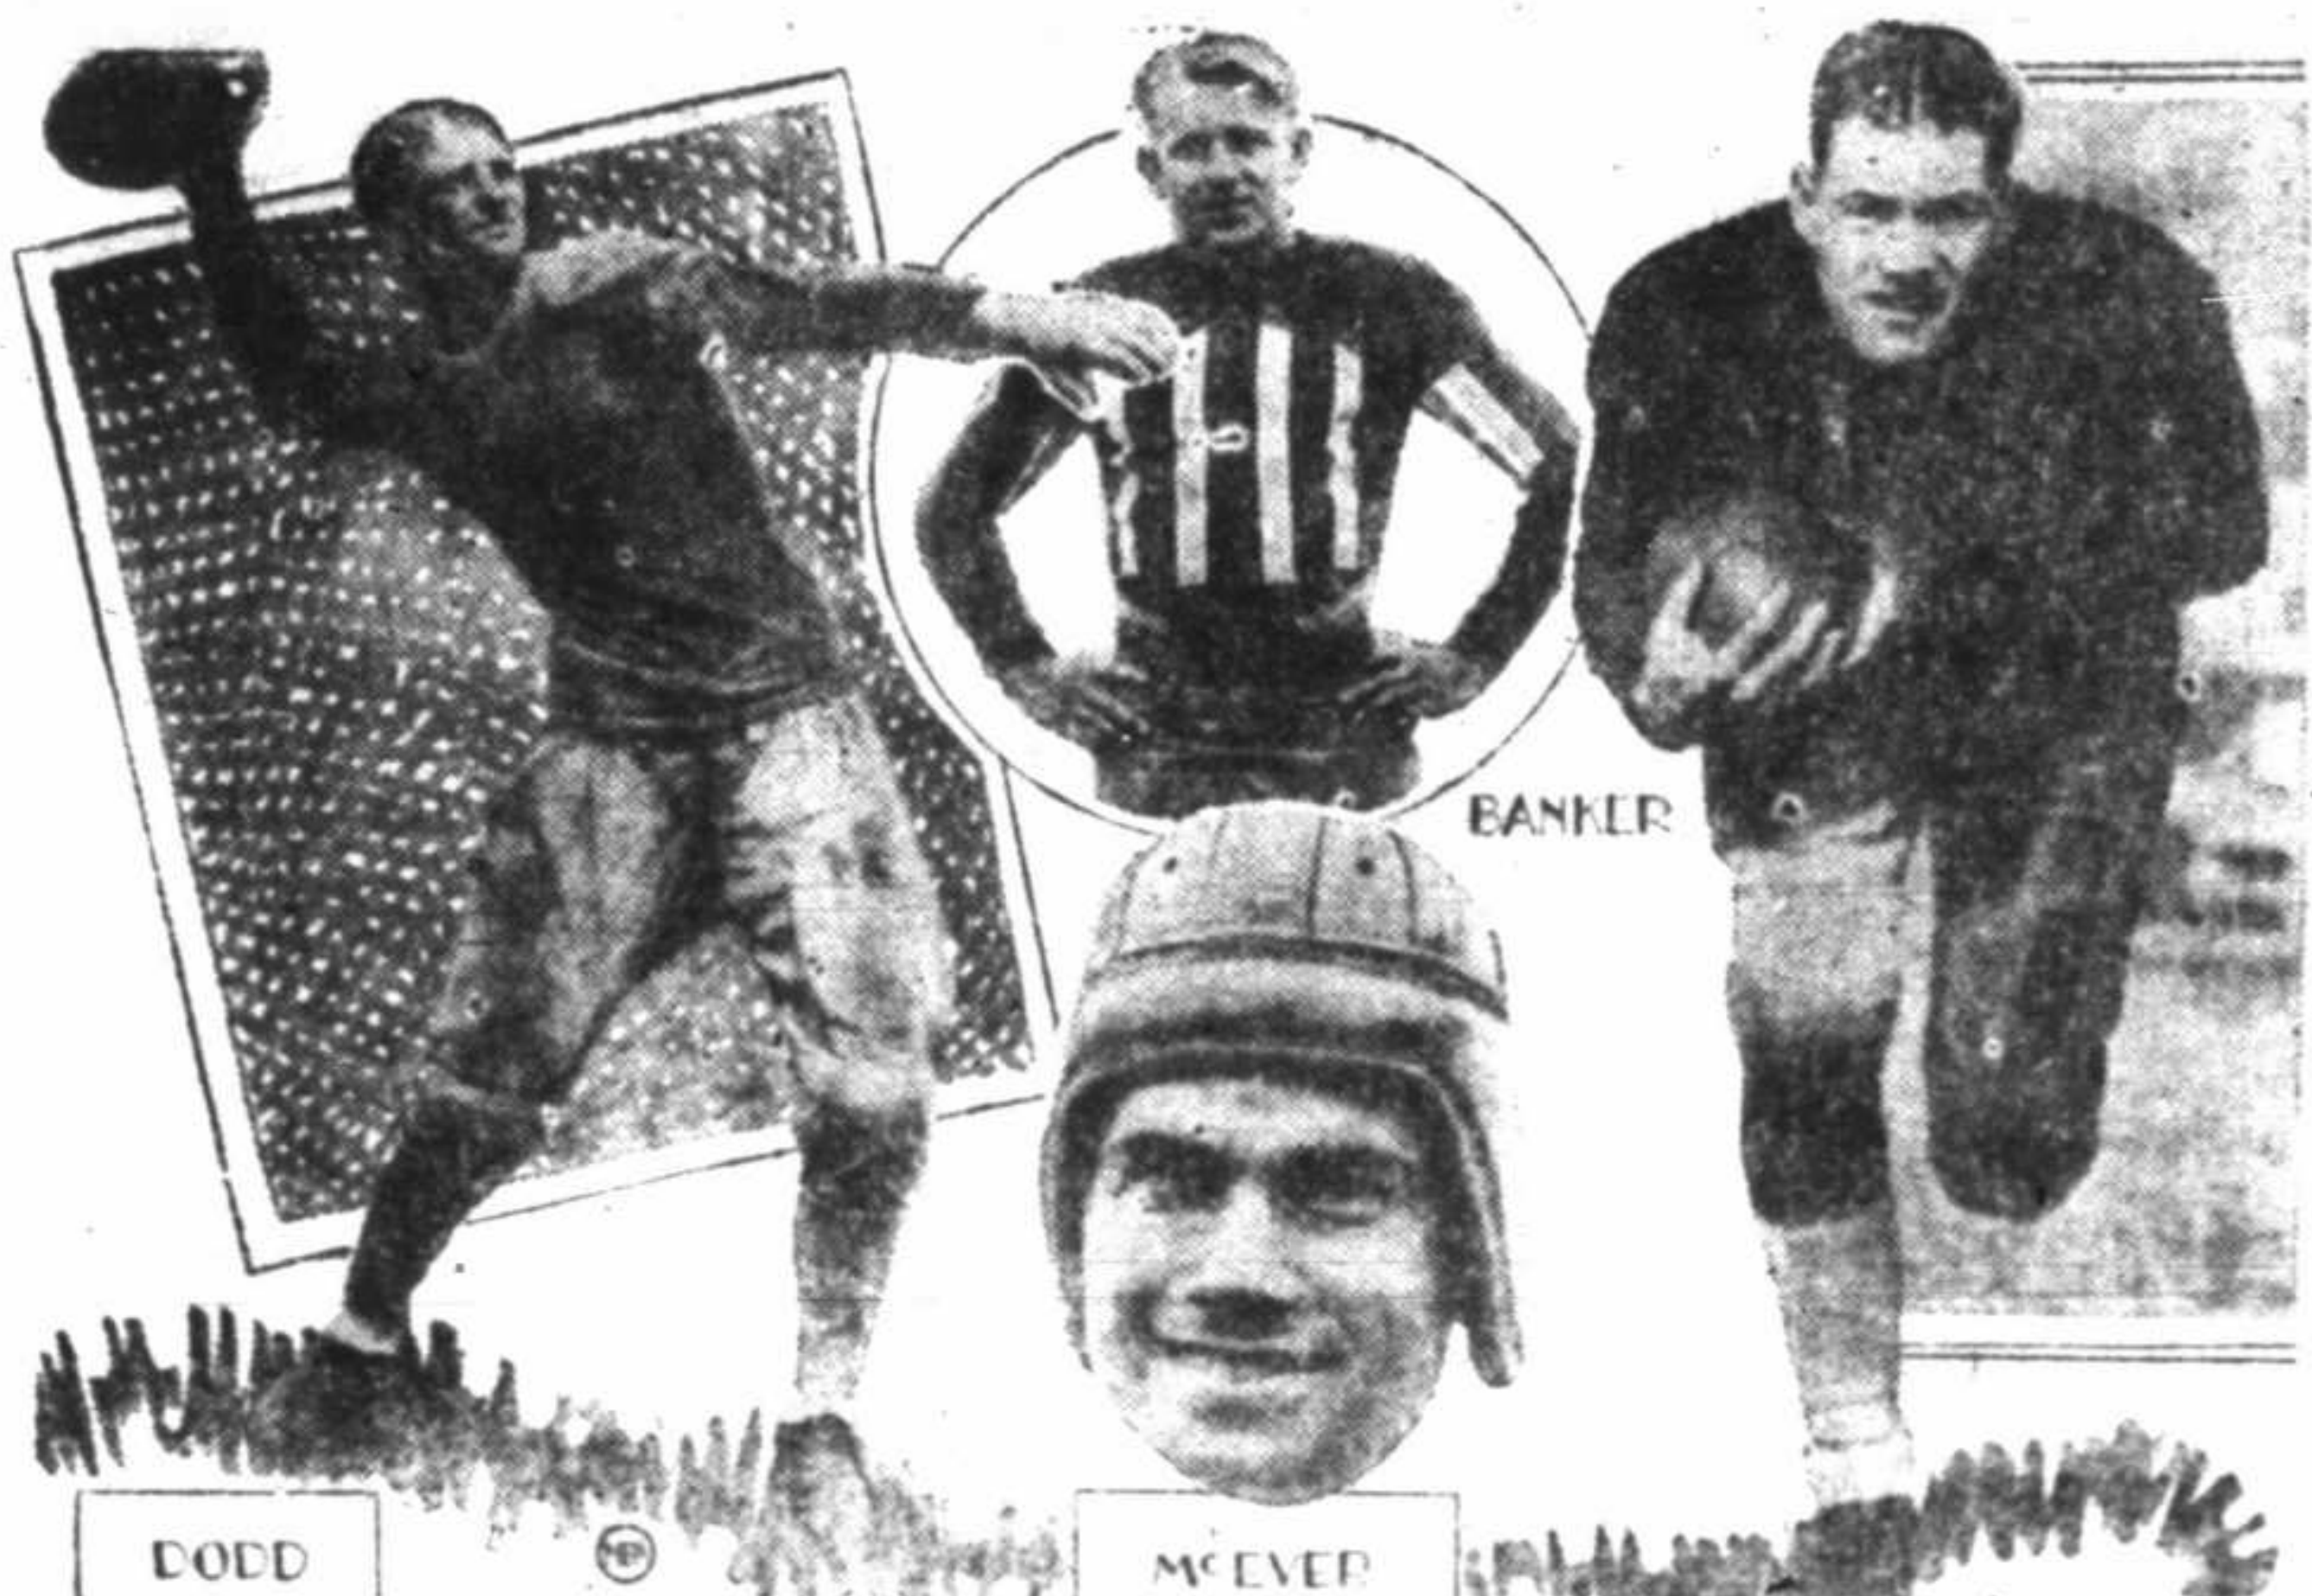

The names were suggested to Loe by Dana Bible, coach of the University of Nebraska, at Loe's request. The players are Richards, Nebraska; Neale, Nebraska; Schooner, Arkansas; and Churchill, Oklahoma end.

Simmons, Howard Payne Clash On Cowboy Field; Jackets Seek Second Successive Championship

ABILENE, Dec. 4.—The Howard Payne College Yellowjackets will seek to sew up their second straight Texas Conference football title when they meet Simmons College here in one of two final conference games scheduled Friday.

St. Edwards University and Austin College tied for second place, each with three victories and one defeat, clash in the other bout at Austin.

Howard Payne, with four straight victories over conference teams, will enter Friday's game a heavy favorite, but Coach Bridges' Cowboys are hopeful of upsetting the dope and making amends for one of their most disastrous seasons.

In the event of a Simmons victory, the Yellowjackets would finish in a tie with the winner of the game at Austin.

Those who accept the invitation will be gathered here a week before the game to learn a set of plays and perfect their teamwork. Morrison is anxious to make a better showing than was made by last year's Southwest stars against a Big Six eleven.

Coach Jimmy Phelan of Purdue Big Ten champion, is expected to raise a mighty squad from his conference. His team is certain to attract the attention of one of the American halfbacks from Sherman, Texas, and other great stars. Phelan received permission to draw from Notre Dame, not a member of the Big Ten, if he chose.

Hagen And Diegel Win In Pro Meet

Former Title Holder And Defending Champ Come Through Second Round Of Los Angeles Tourney

BY RUSSELL J. NEWLAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—Paced by two favorites—brilliant Les Diegel, defending champion, and Walter Hagen, five times holder of the title, contenders for the 1929 professional golfers association tournament stroked their way through a grueling second round of 36-hole match play that saw the field narrowed down to eight.

Diegel swept through his match in easy fashion, with Herman Barrow, Port Chester, N.Y., 10-9. Hagen eliminated Charles G. Hunter, Los Angeles, 3 and 4.

Diegel Gets Lead
The Agate Caddie, Mexico professional won the first hole from Barrow and was never passed from that time on. At the ninth he was three up and had increased the lead to eight at the eighteenth. The match ended on the twenty with Diegel leading by 10-9.

Two former national open champions, Gen. Sarazen and Johnny Farrell advanced to the third round. Farrell defeated Fred Morrison of Los Angeles tournament medalist, 3 and 2. While Farrell eliminated Henri Culet, Bridgeport, Conn., 2 and 1.

Wild Bill Loses.
In the most bitter struggle of the day, Al Espinoza, Chicago, needed out another veteran campaigner, William Mehlhorn, New York, on the 40th hole.

Al Watrous, Detroit, removed Larry Nabholz, Houston, Texas, from the picture with an overwhelming 6-7 defeat, while Tony Manero, New York, raced through his match today with a 6-5 win over Eddie Sulz, Troy, N.Y.

Craig Wood, young Bloomfield, N.J., star, entered the third round with a 32-3 win from Neil Christian, Portland, Ore.

Tomorrow's matches will pit Diegel against Sarazen in the outstanding test. Hagen will meet Manero.

Both teams were composed entirely of reserve griders, who have served as cannon fodder for the regulars throughout the season just passed.

ero in the other lower bracket play. Diegel and Hagen are the favorites and if they come through as expected, will face each other in the semi-final classic Friday.

In the upper bracket matches tomorrow, Watrous takes on Espinoza and Farrell meets Wood.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

I sought the Lord and he heard me and delivered me from all my fears.—Psalm 34.

It is a great truth, "God reigns," and therefore grace reigns through righteousness unto eternal life, by Jesus Christ our Lord; and, therefore, no sinner on earth need ever despair.—Isaiah 55:1.

SLATON AND ITS POULTRY SHOW

FOR THE past several years Slaton has been host to scores of poultry breeders in a December poultry show. It now appears that the Santa Fe center will become regional headquarters for such an annual exhibit and The Morning Avalanche, for one, is glad to see it. Lubbock has the regional fair each year. Plainview has a dairy show of similar proportions and Slaton, as a pioneer in the poultry division, has asked to be approved by the balance of the South Plains in this regard, offering, in addition, to provide permanent housing facilities.

Not long ago Lloyd A. Wilson, secretary of the Slaton Chamber of Commerce, wrote the commercial organizations of Lubbock and Plainview, asking their support in his campaign to have Slaton selected as the poultry show headquarters. In a regular meeting the directors of the Lubbock organization approved Slaton's proposition and while we have not yet been advised of Plainview's action, the chances are that the same result was obtained. If promised support of Plainview and Lubbock, and stressing the fact that it is the third largest city in the territory, Slaton plans to ask co-operation from other cities of the area and get down to business in making its exhibit outstanding in the state.

The Morning Avalanche has nothing but commendation for the ambitions of Slaton and for the action of the directors of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and Board of City Development. The stand the local organization takes can best be described by quoting from a paragraph of the Lubbock letter answering Mr. Wilson's query. It reads:

"It is our well defined policy and we are trying to show it in every way, that it is our sincere wish to co-operate in all movements which will build up this entire territory. We are firmly convinced that the best way to build up this territory is to build up all of its component parts and not try to 'grab off' everything for Lubbock."

That stand, as this newspaper views it, is the only fair and logical one to take. Lubbock expects co-operation from its neighbors and receives it. It is, then, no more than fair that we expect to co-operate with them and do so, in fact, "I'll scratch your back and you scratch mine" is a pretty good slogan to stick to, after all.

We will be glad to see other cities swing into line and support Slaton's campaign for regional poultry show headquarters. Already a poultry center, Slaton's success with the show there in the past has marked it as a logical spot to choose for expansion along this important line. The annual exhibit opens in Slaton today and, if it is like its predecessors, will interest in a measure the coming success of a regional show.

DO IT TODAY!

Crowded stores indicate that for once the public has taken to heart the annual warning to "Shop and Mail Early." The Millennium for the merchant and postman will be when everybody shops and mails early. They are encouraged this year, but will postpone their rejoicing until Christmas day tells the tale.

Thousands are buying and mailing already, but there are still those who will wait until the eleventh hour to think about their Christmas gift list. These latter resolve each day to heed the warning. Each morning they realize that one more day of the few remaining has dawned and determine to do their shopping and mailing before night—and then they banish all thought of their good resolution until the stores and post offices are closed.

These are long and difficult days for store workers and postal employees. Few breathing spells come in December to those who are as necessary to the fullest enjoyment of Christmas as Santa Claus and the Christmas tree. But their burden would be lightened if the week before Christmas brought a diminishing instead of a swelling of the rush. After weeks of working at top speed, it is not surprising that an eleventh hour deluge of shoppers and mail shatters the nerves, patience and health of store and postal workers.

Shopping and mailing early shows as much consideration of self as of others. Christmas shopping and mailing in the rush period are as cruel on shoppers as on those who serve them. Moreover, gift lists filled in haste often fail to please recipients. So shop and mail early that those who give, receive and serve may be happier on Christmas Day.

THE TURKEY GOBBLER

The great American bird is not the hen nor the eagle, but the turkey gobbler. The gobbler is lord of the barnyard and field marshes among the fowls. See him strut in the fullness of his pride, tail feathers spreading, head up, wings trailing, but not insignificantly. His crimson comb and purplish wattles give him the appearance of a red-faced and important gentleman who is querulously concerned in everything going on about him. Such pomposity, dignity and swagger is rare. His irritable "Gobble, gobble, gobble" strikes terror into the hearts of little children, but is music in the ears of the more sophisticated who envision him trussed up in a roaster and stewing in his own juice.

The turkey has been closely associated with American history from the beginning. It will be remembered that at the famous Thanksgiving feast of the Pilgrim Fathers in November, 1621, in which the friendly Indians participated, wild turkey was the chief delicacy. Once this elusive bird was plentiful but now the wild species is all but extinct. In only a few sections of the country the wild turkey may be found. It begins to look as though the domestic turkey is destined to go the way of its progenitor. Young turkeys are hard to raise and the Thanksgiving and Christmas demand exceeds the supply. No one wants to see the day when the turkey has disappeared from the land and the proud gobbler struts and fumes no more.

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

STEWART COMPARES YOUNG TURKS
WITH BOYS WHO OVERTHREW SULTAN
IN CONSTANTINOPLE 20 YEARS AGOBy CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Senator Henry J. Allen, of Kansas, is known now as Enver Bey, because he is leader of the Young Turks in the upper house of congress. The fact is, this style of nomenclature is beginning to grow complicated. Young Turks! Enver Bey! We shall be hearing the White House referred to as the Yildik Kiosk next and the capitol police as janissaries. It becomes necessary to brush up on our history to understand it all.

Who were the original Young Turks—and Enver Bey?—anyway.

As for the Young Turks, they were the boys who overthrew Abdul Hamid as sultan, in Constantinople, back in the first decade of the 20th century, just as the Young Turks of today are trying to overthrow Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, at present, as G. O. P. boss of the superior branch of the national legislature, here in Washington.

It looked like a pretty risky conspiracy at first. A good many of the plotters were mighty afraid of it. If anybody asked them, "Were they connected with prophet no," they would answer hastily.

They WERE in it, though—up to their necks.

The original Young Turks' initial choice of a leader was a chap of the name of Niaz-Niaz Bey, to give him his full title.

For some reason Niaz Bey failed to measure up to expectations as the plot attained momentum. I imagine he was not a very sincere radical. When it came to the final parting of the ways between old Sultan Abdul and revolution, Niaz was balky.

In our present day instance Senator Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, fits rather neatly into Niaz's role. They both were very active while their respective Young Turkish movements were simmering; neither one showed much enthusiasm for a conspicuous part when the hour arrived to unshrink a similar and start smiting heads off.

At this juncture, in the original version, Enver Bey sprang to the front.

He said he had not intended to lead (through some folk always thought he was only looking for a good opportunity) but was prepared to do it if nobody else craved the job, rather than have the revolution fizzle.

Once on the warpath Enver went the limit.

He dethroned Abdul, put a puppet sultan of his own on the throne, abandoned his title of bey (a comparatively minor one) to become a full-fledged pasha, married the new sultan's daughter and might have lived happily ever afterward if he had not made the mistake of pushing his hand-picked sultan into the World war on the wrong side, as a result of which he lost all his power, was driven into exile, disappeared entirely and is supposed to have been killed in some small rumple in central Asia about 1920.

Senator Allen Bey is not in a position to wed any sultan's daughter, being already married.

It is not certain, indeed, that he will be as successful in clearing the G. O. P.'s senate throne as Enver was with Abdul Hamid in Constantinople. Sultan Watson will be back early in the regular session of congress from the rest cure he is taking in Florida; he may prove harder to handle than Abdul was.

The rank and file of the Washington Young Turks are mindful of this possibility. They are nearly as bashful about identifying themselves with the plot prominently as the other Young Turks were in pleading loyalty to Young Turkish affiliations 20 years ago.

Enver was a notably handsome young man, with a marvelously engaging personality, a wonderful talker and a bearer of a scrapper, but critics never spoke of his judgment as of the higher order—as witness his error at the outbreak of the world conflict.

Maybe his Wichita namesake duplicates some of these qualities, but perhaps it would not be tactful to insist on comparing the whole lot of them.

Anyhow, it is charitable to hope that the senator will meet a less tragic fate than the late bey, or pasha.

But it is hard to tell as to that.

What kismet (political kismet, of course) has in store for Allen Bey will not be revealed until 1933—in Kansas, not central Asia.

SIMPLE HEALTH HABITS HELP TO REDUCE
INFANT MORTALITYBy DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Among the saddest of spectacles in our modern life is the large number of deaths of infants occurring before they are one year old.

There was a time when 275 to 300 infants out of every thousand born died before they were one year old. Most civilized countries now have rates varying from 50 to 80, but there are sections of France, Germany and England, and even portions of the United States in which rates are still above 100.

The League of Nations surveying the subject has made certain general recommendations for the prevention of infant mortality, which should serve to lower the number of deaths greatly. Wherever such methods have been put into effect, the rates have responded promptly.

One of the most important points is education of the public in the hygiene of maternity and infancy. Chicago lowered its infant mortality rate greatly by undertaking a definite campaign of education of mothers as to the proper care of the infant month by month from the day of its birth.

The emphasis placed on breast feeding and on a sufficient amount of sunlight and fresh air results in an appreciable effect on the infant mortality rate. Other factors of importance include special attention of physicians as to new methods in the care of babies and proper supervision of the mother previous to the child's birth and during the birth process.

Among recent efforts, special attention is being given to the prevention of colds and lung infections among infants by education of parents in the control of communicable diseases. An older person with a cough or cold should remain away from an infant, since such infection is more serious for a child than for a grown up person. The child should sleep alone and the ventilation and temperature of the room in which the child sleeps must be watched.

The rules for the proper care of infants are essentially simple, but they demand a good deal of detail and attention in their observance. When the rules are followed, the results are found to be more than worth the effort.

SURGEONS WARNED
DALLAS, Dec. 4. (AP)—Surgeons were urged not to measure their work by their bank accounts but rather by the practical good it does to the community by Dr. W. C. Tenery of Waxahachie, president of the North Texas Medical Association, at the semi-annual convention of the organization here today.

It is the duty of a conscientious surgeon, Dr. Tenery said, to keep well posted in his profession through scientific journals and clinics. He cautioned surgeons to study their cases carefully and not to operate unless positive of definite relief to the patient.

It is generally supposed that Damascus, the chief city of Syria, is the oldest city in the world.

The first world's fair in the modern sense of the term was held in the Crystal Palace in London in 1851.

Today's Poem

THE SHADOWS
By J. H. LANE

Because the end of all seemed near,
Her glassy spirit, ever quick to rush,
Had run on her bond-slave, even on me.

She came in with the twilight
noiselessly,
Fair as a rose, immaculate as Truth.

She leaned above my wrecked and wasted youth,
I felt her presence, which I could not see.

God keep you, my poor friend,
I heard her say,
And then she kissed my dry hot lips and eyes.

Kiss thou the next kiss, quiet
Death I pray,
Be instant on this hour, and so surprise
My spirit while the vision seems to stay.

Take thou the heart with the heart's Paradise,
Philip B. Marston (1850-1887).

PUBLIC OPINION

To the Morning Avalanche:

The recent editorial expression of regret over your excellent paper over the serious injury to Halfback Carroll Laird in the Plainview-Lubbock High school football game played in Lubbock Thanksgiving day, has inspired me to express my sentiments regarding athletics as now featured by our schools and colleges. It seems that sports are being paramount above book knowledge and that some of our supposed institutions of learning are in a mad rush to turn out star players instead of educated students, and unless sentiment undergoes a change our educational system is going to greatly suffer. In fact it looks like it is already suffering, and that more harm than good is growing out of our school sports.

As an illustration, take the game above mentioned, in which young Laird was doubtless maimed for life, should he recover. No one was materially benefitted by the game, but much bad feeling was engendered between the rival contestants and their friends. These things occur at nearly every game, and for months afterward much ill feeling exists as the aftermath.

Besides all this, the minds of the pupils dwell upon the game for days before and days after it is played, which naturally detracts from the study of the lessons in the text books. Another bad feature is the large amount of betting on the game, and if gambling was eliminated or prohibited the game would soon lose much of its popularity. I do not object to athletics if properly managed and kept clean, but let us get back to safer and more playing. I would like to hear expressions from others on this subject.

JAMES T. BUCK,
Crosbyton, Texas.

EXTRADITION SOUGHT

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 4. (AP)—A requisition for the extradition of Thomas Vernon, alias Averille and Hall, from Pawnee, Okla., to Los Angeles to answer charges of wrecking and robbing a Southern Pacific train at Sausal last November 10 was approved by Gov. C. Young today.

The Avenging Parrot

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Between 11:45 and 12:15, Saturday night, June 29, MRS. EMMA HOGARTH, said to keep a money hoard in her room on the second floor of Mrs. Rhodes' boarding house, 19 strangled to death, BONNIE DUNDEE, "cub" detective, assists LIEUTENANT STRAWN. Suspicion falls on EMIL SEVIER, former boarder whom Mrs. Hogarth accused of trying to rob her and who has completely disappeared.

CORA BARKER, thought to have had an affair with Sevier, is arrested as a material witness against him when she confesses she was in the murder room shortly after 12.

Other boarders, under suspicion are: HENRY DOWD, MR. and MRS. SHARP, NORMA PAIGE, heiress to the Hogarth hoard; WALTER STYLES, also under suspicion, who had quarreled with Mrs. Hogarth; REBECCA HOGARTH, BEATRICE, who was heard typing in his room until 12:15, and DAISY SHEPHERD, the only boarder who moves from the murder house.

Dundee learns from the postman that a monthly letter came to Mrs. Hogarth from SALLY GRAVES of New York. Recalling details of the mysterious murder of a Sally Graves a month previous, Bonnie ransacks Mrs. Hogarth's trunk and learns that Sally is her daughter and that the "D." of her diary is DANIEL GRIFIN, her son-in-law, who embraced a large sum in Belton, Mo.

Strawn leaves for Belton, placing Dundee in charge of the case. He meets JEWEL BRIGGS, "cutie" stenographer and boarder, absent during the murder. Bonnie examines the boarding house register to find that Dundee was in the room the night of the murder.

He believes Griffin killed both women. But who is Griffin? Dundee recalls the mysterious circumstances of Sally Graves' murder in New York a month previous and concludes Griffin killed both women. He examines the house register to find that Dundee was in the room the night of the murder.

Avenging Parrot

and the coat to Dowd's "other suit," which were neatly disposed on hangers in the closet.

But there was nothing else—not even a scrap of paper bearing a sample of Dowd's handwriting. If the man had received any letters since his arrival in Hamilton he was carrying them or had destroyed them. Satisfied upon this point, Dundee entered the closet and pressed upon the wide board to which Cora Barker had called Lieutenant Strawn's attention. It yielded easily, with only a faint whining of the nails at the top. Yes, it made a wide enough hole to permit a man's entry into Mrs. Hogarth's closet.

Emil Sevier had contrived that illegal entry into Mrs. Hogarth's room, but—he had kindly left it available to the next tenant of his room. Was it not entirely possible that Henry Dowd, whether or not he was Dan Griffin, had discovered that ready-made passage and had made use of it on the night of June 29?

Henry Dowd had no alibi for the night of the murder, beyond his own statement that he was in his own room. And, with that loose board between the two closets, he could have committed the murder and robbery without having once stepped out of his own door or window.

"But of actual evidence against him I have none," Dundee reminded himself ruefully. "Unless Dan Griffin's description happens to fit. If it does, then we can add motive to opportunity." He broke off to listen, then hastily scrambled out of the closet, having replaced the loose board, and ran from the room, closing the self-locking door softly behind him.

"Coming, Tilda!" he shouted up the stairs, and took them two at a time. "Thanks, awfully," he said a minute later, as he closed his door upon the girl.

"Sergeant Turner again, Dundee?" came a voice over the wire from headquarters. "An answer has come to your wire to the Riverside chief of police. Ready. . . . Herbert Magnus, son of Benjamin H. Magnus, prominent fruit-grower, lived in Riverside until February, 1924. Profession, bookkeeper. Age 34. Weight about 170. Height 5 feet 9 inches. Dark brown hair, gray eyes, red mustache. Wears glasses. Family irregular correspondence with him. Father questioned has read newspaper account of the Hogarth murder and is worried lest son involved in it, wants to go to him. Got all that, Dundee?"

"Every word," Dundee assured the man who was now technically in charge of the case. "Please wire the Riverside chief of police our thanks and tell him Magnus is not in the least involved, and that there is no necessity of his father's making the trip, that our inquiry was merely routine. Anything new on Sevier, Sergeant?"

"Half a dozen false leads," Sergeant Turner replied. "You know how it is when you set the news press and the public on a man's trail. Any number of helpful citizens think they have seen him, all the way from her to Chicago, and from here to Cleveland."

"Has the motorist who turned on lights on the running man in the alley come forward yet?"

"Not a peep out of him. Looks to me like them lights musta been a signal," the sergeant growled, then added, "though I guess my opinion ain't asked for."

It required five precious minutes for Dundee to soothe and jolly the disgruntled sergeant into something approaching good humor, but he counted the time well spent. New to the detective force himself, he could not afford to antagonize the humblest man on the homicide squad, and much less so a man of Sergeant Turner's rank and real power.

Back on the second floor and ready to assume his unpleasant duty of snooping in his fellow-boarders' rooms, Dundee was about to pass by Bert Magnus' door when a sudden thought made him pause. He had become so absorbed of his mind that the Hogarth murder had been a direct outcome of the Sally Graves murder and that Dan Griffin must eventually answer for both, that he had almost overlooked a possibility which the thoroughgoing Strawn would undoubtedly have pointed out to him.

It was certain now that Bert Magnus was not Dan Griffin for in February, 1924, Dan Griffin had been a teller in the First National bank of Belton, Mo. And on June 2, 1922, Dan Griffin had certainly been a resident of Belton, since he had married Sally Harkness on that date. But—what if the two murders had not been committed by the same man, after all? What if Dan Griffin had found what he was looking for in his wife's apartment, and had had no reason to journey to Hamilton to kill and rob his mother-in-law? Certainly this possibility existed, and was strong enough so that every inmate of the Rhodes House on the night of Saturday, June 29, was still open to suspicion, since greed is the commonest of all murder motives.

"Even so, Bert Magnus has an alibi," Dundee argued with himself against his distaste for searching the room of a man he both liked and pitied. "Four people heard him typing in his room at the very time Mrs. Hogarth was being murdered and robbed. But there still remain two very faint possibilities: first, that he had an accomplice typing in his room while he himself slipped out of his window and did the job; second, that, knowing he had an iron-clad alibi for himself, he could take a chance on acting as an accomplice for someone else, in the capacity of receiver of stolen goods, which is lunacy, and I know it, but—here goes!" And he used Mrs. Rhodes' passkey to unlock Bert's door.

The big roll-top desk, the dresser and the clothes closet were all unlocked. Dundee turned his attention first to the closet. Bert's clothes were very good but not expensive, and the clothes' labels were intact. Indeed, a well-worn winter overcoat still bore the label of a Riverside, California, haberdashery. A pocket of the coat held a pair of solid brown leather gloves, but Dundee's common sense was not so submerged in suspicion that he could fail to recognize that an overcoat pocket was the most natural place in the world for a pair of winter gloves.

After satisfying himself that the closet afforded no hiding place for a large sum of money, Dundee turned to the desk. Its numerous drawers and pigeonholes were practically empty, but the young detective conscientiously accounted for every inch of space before he abandoned his search for the stolen money. Scattered upon the desk top were pages of the manuscript, "More To Be Pitted," the scenario for which the glib amateur himself was more to be pitied than censured; a stack of cheap yellow copy paper, and three letters. The return addresses told Dundee that Bert's correspondents were his father, his sister and his Philadelphia landlady, Mrs. Christine Starnett. A romance there possibly?

Memoranda and notes on the scenario also afforded several specimens of Bert's rather cramped handwriting—the awkward script of a man who had been forced to change from right hand to left. Out of curiosity, Dundee compared the left-handed writing with the only available sample of Bert's right-handed script—the signature on the fly-leaf of the textbook on scenario-writing which he had briefly examined on his visit to Magnus' room the day before. The two samples matched as well as could be expected.

The young detective was about to leave the room, glad to be finished with that part of his ugly duty, when his eyes caught sight of a small army trunk pushed far back beneath the desk, against the wall. He stooped, dragged it forward, and opened it, for it was not locked. At what he saw he uttered a sharp exclamation of surprise—and then grinned broadly.

Cotton Trade Limited; Stock Advance

Traders Awaiting Official Report On Crops Monday

Small Amount Of Business Developed In Wednesday Market Is Of Evening Up Character

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 4. (AP)—Limited trading characterized cotton today, traders seeming indisposed to enter upon new ventures until after the issuance of the official crop report due Monday. Such business as developed was mainly of an evening up character. The market advanced early on bullish private estimates but the improvement met moderately heavy selling and prices reached the low of the day in final trading. January traded off from 17.51@17.25 and closed at 17.31, or 12 points net down. The general market closed steady at net declines of 10 to 18 points.

Cables As Due.
Liverpool cables were about as due to one point better than due. This was evidently construed as favorable as initial transactions here showed gains of 6 to 8 points with March at 17.7. Two private estimates with relatively small figures below the early firmness.

The advance attracted liquidation and evening up in advance of Monday's official crop report and before the offerings were absorbed. January traded to 17.27, March 17.64 and May 17.88, or 13 to 14 points down from the early high.

Steady Cables Encourage Advance
NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (AP)—An opening advance in cotton today was encouraged by the relatively steady Liverpool cables but buying was checked by somewhat higher private crop figures combined with some Southern selling. January contracts sold off from 17.36 to 17.34 and closed at 17.40. The general market closed steady at net declines of 5 to 13 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 4 to 8 points with the active month selling about 6 to 8 points above yesterday's closing quotations.

Liverpool Firm
The demand was promoted by the firm showing of Liverpool which had evidently been influenced by the local firmness of yesterday, but it was not active. A private report placing the crop at 15,054,000 bales seemed to bring in some selling shortly after the call.

Cattle and Calf Supply Is Light
FORT WORTH, Dec. 4. (AP)—The cattle and calf supply was rather light at Fort Worth today as compared with a year ago. Prices 25 to 30c higher with the best calves showing the most advance. Hogs steady to fifteen cents lower.

Sheep steady.
Steers 10.75 and others at 10.25 and down to 9.25.

Better heavy bulls 6.00 and 6.50; common light bulls 5.25 and 5.75. Yearlings 10.00 and 12.50.

Canner Cows Active
Canner cows fairly active, steady at 4.00 and 4.35. Butcher cows 6.00. Good fat cows at 7.00.

Brahman calves 9.35; packers paid 8.75 and 9.00. Bulk culls 6.00. Stocker heifer calves 9.00; steer calves 9.50, 10.50 and 11.00.

Stocker yearlings 9.15 and 10.00. Few early sales in the pack division ten cents higher, top 9.35; bulk truck butchers 9.90 and 9.25; rail butchers up to 9.10; packing sows at 7.75 and 8.25.

Sheep steady, fall shorn fat wethers at 7.00; feeder lambs and yearlings at 8.75.

Price advances of late were rapid.
The fact that although sterling exchange today was at the highest point in many months, North American wheat export business was failing to follow upturn in values did much to turn traders to the selling side of the market. Piling up of crop disaster reports from Argentina appeared to have lost effect for at least the immediate present.

Closing quotations on Chicago wheat were heavy at about the day's lowest level, 1.5-8c to 2.1-8c under yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-2 a 3-8c off, oats unchanged to 3-8c down and provisions varying from a 5 a 7c decline to a rise of 2c.

A large part of today's selling of Chicago wheat future deliveries came from previous buyers who were in a position to realize profits.

Bullish Showing Features Market Sessions In N. Y.

Spectacular Demonstration In Selected Issues Aids Revived Forward Movement From Going Astray

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Writer.
NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (AP)—Spectacular bullish demonstrations in selected issues saved the revived forward movement in share prices from going astray in today's market. Profit taking caused hesitancy during the early hours of the session, but spirited bidding for the utilities and several chemical, rail, oil, food and specialty issues sent two-score issues sharply higher before the close.

The definite turning of the tide was accomplished only with a sharp quickening of trading. Total sales were 4,437,460 shares, more than 1,000,000 changing hands in the last hour. This was the largest turnover since mid-November, and contrasted with 3,809,150 yesterday. Closing quotations displayed a wide sprinkling of gains of 3 to 19 points, the Associated Press index of 90 stocks, however, indicated that the average gain was only about two-thirds of yesterday's.

News Constructive.
Further constructive news from Washington was the dominant factor in the upturn. Secretary Mellon's estimate of a treasury surplus of $255,000,000 for the current fiscal year, and his statement that implications point toward favorable business conditions in 1930, provided fuel for the bullish enthusiasm engendered by President Hoover's message to congress yesterday.

Wheat Is Forced Down By Selling
Values Take Nose Dive In Wednesday's Market Due To Stampede Of Sales At Chicago; Reports Heavy

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor.
CHICAGO, Dec. 4. (AP)—Something in the nature of a stampede to sell forced wheat values down today, sentiment becoming widespread that price advances of late were rapid.

The fact that although sterling exchange today was at the highest point in many months, North American wheat export business was failing to follow upturn in values did much to turn traders to the selling side of the market. "All of this remodeling has been made possible through the loyalty and friendship of our customers," said C. F. Drexel, cashier. "One of our main objects is to give the best of service and we feel that now we are situated so that this can be done to best advantage. We are proud of our new home and we want our many friends to share this pride with us."

Mr. Mord closed doors to the bank yesterday when she found the vault locked and had no money for the day's operations. She said that she could not ascertain the hour-limit set before the vault could be opened.

Committee Approves Tax Reduction Plan
(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Setting what it hopes will be an example for the house, the ways and means committee quickly approved the administration program for a $100,000,000 cut in 1929 income taxes today and the house will take it up tomorrow. Under Secretary Ogden grown with its community. "We extend a most cordial welcome to all, and earnestly desire that everyone share with us the things they have made possible — our new home."

After the committee hearing, Chairman Hawley obtained unanimous consent of the house to report the measure tonight to eliminate obstacles to consideration.

Opposition In House.
The first opposition recommended to congress by President Hoover and approved by party leaders in both branches developed in the house.

Representative Ramseyer, republican, Iowa, said such a program would create a deficit in the national treasury. The action took the republican leaders by surprise but they joined with the remainder of the house membership in granting him unanimous consent to file minority views.

court. Selection of the twelfth juror concluded two days of questioning 39 veniremen from a special list of 200.

To Demand Death.
District Attorney Durwood Bradley announced last night that he would demand the death penalty, while Schenck and Triplett, Lester's attorneys, announced a triangular defense.

"The defendant will seek to show," said Mr. Triplett, "that the first shot which struck Mrs. Lester was accidental, that the remaining shots were fired while Lester was in a state of insanity, and that he (the defendant) went to his home armed, believing that another man was interfering with his domestic affairs.

Claims Insanity.
"The defendant will interpose a plea of insanity in its various forms, one state of which might result from excessive use of narcotic drugs. Evidence will be introduced to show that when the various shots were fired Lester was insane, to the extent that he didn't know right from wrong. The defendant will not introduce evidence to show that his wife was making an attack upon him."

Actual opening of the testimony today has followed a series of dilatory tactics employed by Schenck & Triplett, defense attorneys. The case attracted national attention when Judge Clark M. Mullican issued an order October 31 restraining Lubbock county newspapers from publishing any of the sworn testimony adduced in the habeas corpus hearing.

Lester was denied bond at the hearing and subsequently the defense counsel filed a motion to quash a special venire and it was overruled. A motion for change of venue was also overruled, but a motion for continuance was granted November 4.

Sought Postponement.
A second effort for postponement of trial, filed last Monday, was overruled by Judge Mullican Tuesday afternoon, and shortly afterwards questioning of veniremen for selection of the jury was started.

At the interrogation of prospective jurors yesterday afternoon L. W. Wilke, New Hope farmer; Clyde McCrummen, Lubbock; Walter Hitt, Lubbock, and J. I. Noah, Lubbock, were excused by the defense counsel.

The state counsel excused N. E. Shockley, of Petersburg.

Tom Leslie, of County Line, was dismissed because of conscientious scruples against infliction of the death penalty.

AUSTIN, Dec. 4. (AP)—The University of Texas land leasing board today decided to advertise for bids on section 20, block 19, Pecos county. Bids will be opened here December 14. Each bid must include $1 an acre rental and one-eighth oil royalty in addition to the bonus.

Josephine, one-time empress of France, at one time owned between 700 and 800 gowns, some 500 chemise, 850 pairs of shoes and slippers, and more than 600 pairs of silk hose.

Home Demonstration, County Agents Expected to Attend Two-Day Session

Approximately 50 home demonstration agents and county agricultural agents are expected to be in Lubbock when a two-day conference of farm agents of district No. 2 of the A. and M. college extension service convenes next Monday to continue through Tuesday.

The program will be started with a breakfast for all visitors Monday morning at 8 o'clock in Hotel Lubbock, following which business of the convention will come up for discussion. Representatives from about 20 counties in this section will attend the meeting. All sessions are to be held at Hotel Lubbock and Roy B. Davis, of Brownfield, will be toastmaster at the opening breakfast.

Prominent Speakers.
Several prominent speakers are to appear on the program though definite announcement as to who they will be has not been made. It is understood that Miss Myrtle Murray, district agent; Miss Lila Blair, food specialist of A. and M. college, and Sterling C. Evans, district agent, are to be here, while it is possible that O. B. Martin, director of the extension service will preside at all business gatherings.

Those in charge of the program state that banks in every county of the district are expected to have representatives here. Mr. Lee, of the Spur National bank, has been chosen as leader of the bankers in every county. This group will meet at noon Tuesday for a luncheon and discussion of plans for cooperation with the extension service next year.

The purpose of the conference is to work out next year's program of work in the district.

DECEASED IDENTIFIED

Alcoholism Victim Bordered Murder Suspect

SEMINOLE, Okla., (AP)—A man who died Sunday of alcoholism, was identified by E. C. Beard of Seminole, as George Kelly, who Beard said, was sought on two murder charges, at Borger, Texas.

Beard told Seminole police that Kelly was alleged to have killed a man named Ray and a man known as "Eight Mile Blackie," who, he said, operated a restaurant at Borger.

He said that he saw Kelly in Oklahoma City last Thursday and that Kelly apparently was disturbed at being recognized.

ACCIDENT FATAL.
BEEVILLE, Tex., Dec. 4. (AP)—Joseph Hendrix, 22, living 11 miles west of Beeville, died 30 minutes after accidentally shooting himself through the abdomen with a 22 calibre rifle yesterday. His body was brought here for burial today.

TEST DRIVE FATAL.
DALLAS, Dec. 4. (AP)—An automobile test drive on a boulevard near Dallas today ended with the death of Fred Grady, Fort Worth factory representative of an automobile company, and the injuring of three other men.

Trinidad, Bolivia, will spend $25,000,000 on harbor improvements.

State Nears End Of McManus Case

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. (AP)—The state neared the end of presentation of the case of murder-it is attempting to prove against George McManus today with one of its "star" witnesses giving testimony exactly opposite from what it had expected her to give.

Bridget Farry, chambermaid at the Park Central hotel, who George N. Brothers said in his opening address to the jury would testify she saw McManus in room 349 in the hotel Nov. 4 a year ago a few moments before they plotted to shoot Arnold Rothstein there, took the stand today and denied she had ever seen McManus in that room.

Wearing a bright green dress purchased especially for the occasion Bridget sat stiffly on the edge of the witness chair and loudly answered "no" and shook her head when Brothers had McManus in the room 349.

JURY COMPLETED

VICTORIA, Dec. 4. (AP)—A jury for the trial of R. F. Robidoux, murderer and fisherman who was charged with the murder of William Moore, was completed late today.

Selection of the jury was facilitated by a court ruling barring delegates from questioning prospective jurors as to whether they would feel Robidoux self-defense plea was weakened by the fact that after killing Moore and his brother he dragged their bodies to the edge of the Guadalupe river and rolled them in.

You Are Invited To Be Our Guest

Thursday Evening, December 5th., 7 to 10 p. m.

AT OUR FORMAL OPENING

The above picture is of executive offices to the right as you enter, wherein you will always find officers and directors ready to assist you.

The Labor is done. Years of planning and months of toil that our bank might combine utility with outstanding beauty are at last completed. It's the culmination of a dream, having its setting several years ago. Tomorrow, December 5, we open the doors to you, to you who have made it possible—here we will greet old friends and new acquaintances in a banking room typical of the influence you have helped build for this institution in the Great South Plains.

Accessable friendly offices—modern system of handling accounts—executive officers in constant contact with customers—enlarged vault and safe-deposit department—and a general arrangement of services that will make your call here a pleasure. Entrance from Broadway—all these important features carefully planned with a beautiful and impressive setting.

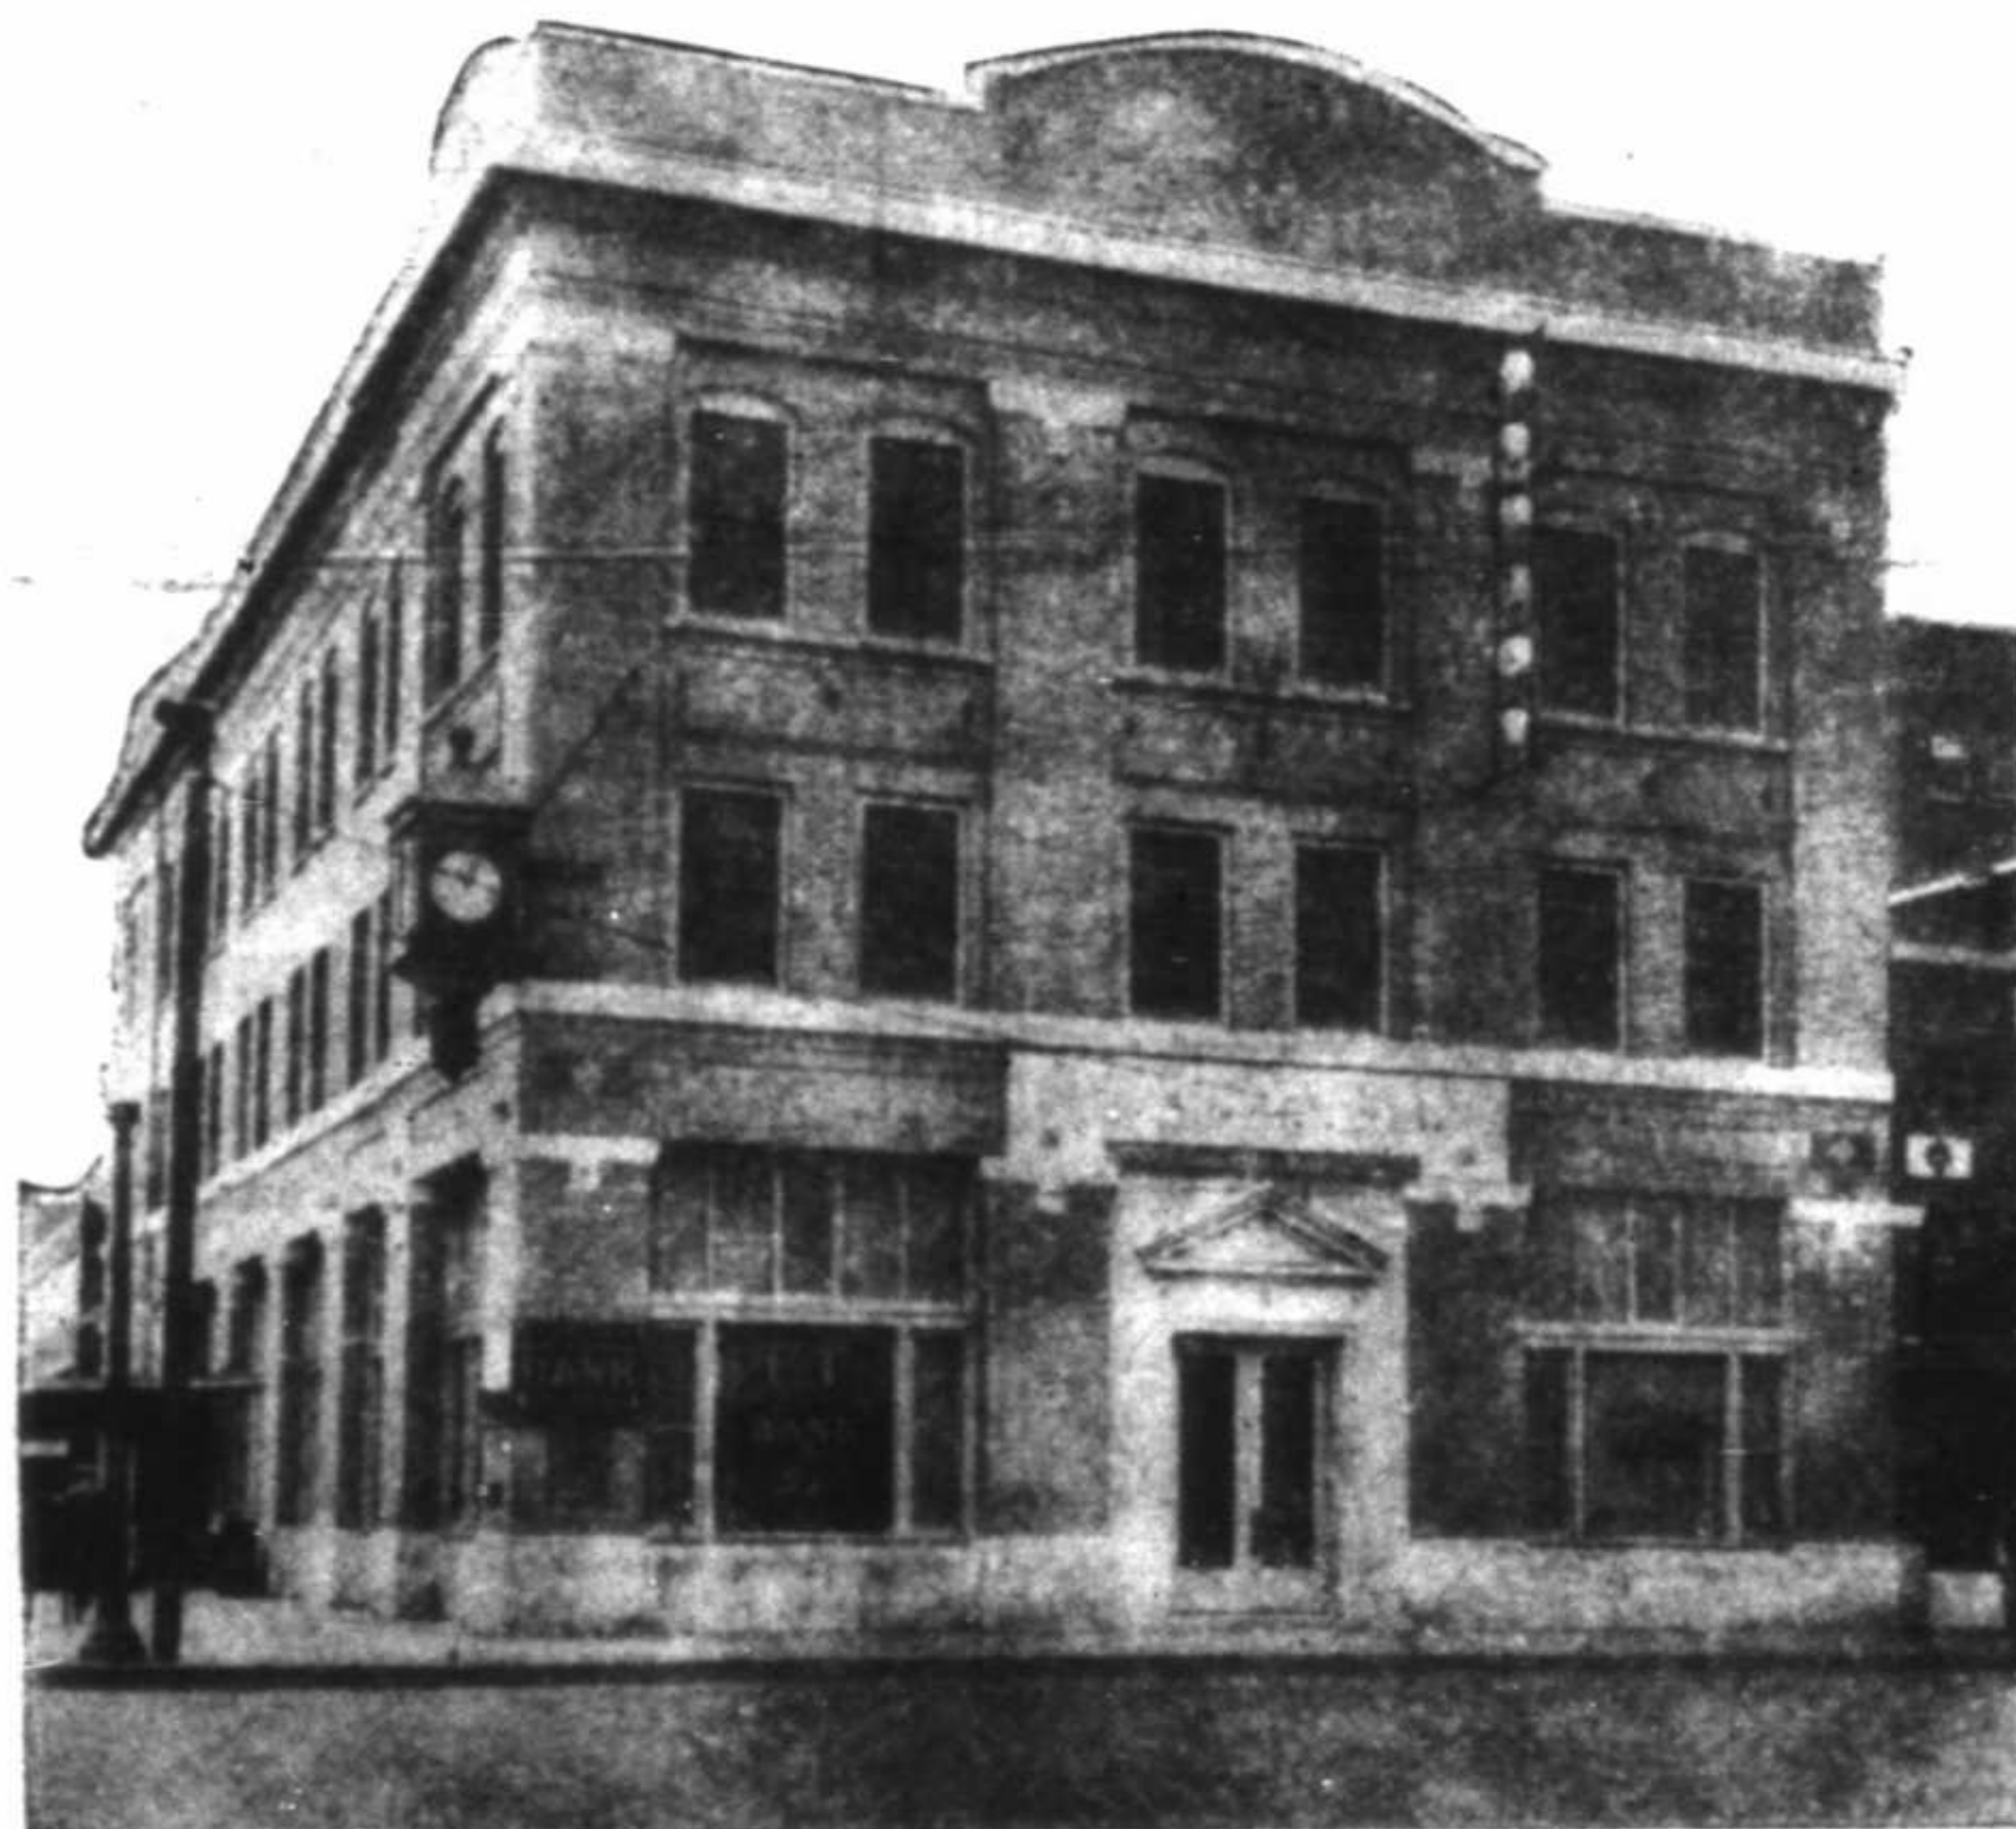

We are proud of our new banking room—and we feel that our friends too—when they see it—will be proud of the facilities for their financial needs.

A view of the new Teller's cages, center, and desks for your convenience. This arrangement eliminates confusion, and facilitates service.

Our Policy Of Service Now Fulfilled

It has always been our policy to give polite and efficient service to our customers. We do this as a matter of business operation, and will now be enabled to do so better. We always strive to serve a great number of people at the lowest possible cost to them—not only cost in money, but cost in time. Time is money, it has been said, and we are now equipped to give you that "prompt and efficient" service which is the foundation upon which this bank was established. Come and get acquainted with us.

A view of the Citizens National Bank Building, showing the new entrance on Broadway. "The Bank With the Chimes," is an old landmark, but has an entirely different appearance. Wide doors make entrance and exit easy.

New Conveniences That Represent Our Step Of Progress

Private conference rooms; lounges where you may rest; newly arranged tellers cages; more room in the lobby of the bank for you to get about to your particular department, whether savings, paying and receiving, bank president cashier, or whoever you wish to see; a new vault with patented ventilator, making it impossible for a man to suffocate therein; private booths for figuring out your problems, with no one looking over your shoulder; good lights for bad eyes; someone at all times to assist you to your department. Come and get acquainted with us.

Intimately Associated With The Develop- ment of the Great South Plains

Intimately associated with the progress and development of this South Plains Empire for twenty-three years, this Bank takes pride in having "grown up" with its community. The officials and directors are men who know business conditions and trends in the South Plains. It is through this knowledge—plus the conveniences we now offer—that we are better able to serve you. We extend you a hearty welcome, and earnest desire that you share with us the things you have made possible for us... our new home.

Poverty Hovers Over Newlyweds

HOUSTON, Dec. 4. (AP)—Work was scarce here a few weeks ago for Edgar Linderman, so Pearl, his 19-year-old bride, at his insistence went back to their former Oklahoma home for the time being while he sought to get on his feet.

For a time Pearl heard regularly from the husband as he stuck it out here. Then the letters became less frequent, and Pearl was afraid. So she started hitchhiking back from Oklahoma to Houston.

Last night she arrived alone with a cold north wind. With the help of a reporter she found Linderman. She found him in a hospital with double pneumonia.

She was close beside his bed today.

BILLS AIMED AT TRADING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (AP)—Two bills designed by their authors to prevent recurrence of the recent stock market crash were introduced today by Representative Kelly, republican, Pennsylvania, and Cross, democrat, Texas.

Both were aimed at margin trading of stocks and securities in cases where the seller does not have the stock in his possession and the buyer does not receive it, and no actual transfer was contemplated.

The dispatch stated that President Hoover yesterday recommended an expenditure of $90,500,000 to congress. No new projects were called for in the budget, but continuation and completion of current projects were provided.

Other than Lubbock, the cities to be benefited by the amount include: Beaumont, Brownsville, Dallas, El Paso, Galveston, Mexico, San Antonio and San Diego.

In addition he asked $32,131,040 for the coast guard, an increase of $2,298,968, a total of $47,331,040 for the customs service permitting an increase of $79,300 for more administrative and field officers and $2,072,292 for the department of justice, an increase of $4,079,522 permitting also an increase in personnel.

Oil Men Discuss Market Problems

More Than 3,000 Split In Groups To Consider Main Difficulties Confronting Oil Production

CHICAGO, Dec. 4. (AP)—More than 3,000 oil men split into groups today to work on producing, refining and marketing problems before bringing the tenth annual convention of the American Petroleum Institute to a close.

The newly constituted board of directors met to choose officers of the institute for the coming year.

Makes Recommendation.
At the only general session of the convention, held yesterday, Sir Henri Deterding, managing director of the Royal Dutch Shell company, recommended the creation of an international "Association of Cooperation" as a means of stabilizing the world's petroleum industry.

The directors adopted a resolution endorsing the policy of utilization, under which oil companies would pool their acreage in various domes for unit operation to control production.

Sir Henri warned that dumping of surplus oil on foreign markets would result in government protection and rapidly exhaust the supply needed for domestic consumption. He recommended conservation by reduced production and export, improvement of quality instead of expansion, and protection against future high prices by limitation of capital expenditures to actual needs.

G. O. P. Head Says Misunderstanding Causes Criticism

Republican Campaign Contributions in Texas Are Object of Congressional Attack in Washington

FORT WORTH, Dec. 4. (P)—Congressional criticism of the Texas system of republican campaign contributions is based on a "persistent misunderstanding" of the facts, said a statement issued last night by Leonard Withington, director of organization for the republican party in Texas.

Commenting on the report of the Brookhart investigating committee, Withington said the claim that the note system used in Texas impaired the financial credit of the contributor was "ridiculous."

"The report," said the statement, "continues to claim that the use of note forms for contributors is in some way improper, throwing the contributor in the hands of the banks. As a matter of fact, no note has ever been collected through a bank, and if a contributor fails to pay nothing is done about it. In the event of the death of a contributor the note is cancelled."

"The note system permits contributions on the installment plan, and the notes are no more nor less than pledges like those used in other fund raising campaigns. They are entirely voluntary, and nothing is ever done if they are unpaid."

TO REVIVE CASE

Supreme Court To Take Up Sugar Rate Suit

AUSTIN, Dec. 4. (P)—The supreme court today decided to review the Houston-Galveston "sugar rate" case. The railroad commission granted application of Galveston for equal rates with Houston to points inland, and the Houston Chamber of Commerce brought suit in the Travis county district court challenging right of the commission to equalize the rates. The district court upheld the commission, but on appeal to the third court of civil appeals the judgment was reversed. The railroad commission sought a writ of error to the supreme court, which granted it because "of the importance" of the case.

Plainview Man Wants To Tell The World About It

Orgatone Restores Health
After Flentge Was All Run Down

"All my troubles have been completely overcome since I commenced taking Orgatone, and I never enjoyed better health in my life," said Ben Flentge, a well-known farmer residing on rural route 1, Plainview, Texas.

"About seven years ago," continued Mr. Flentge, "my stomach went back on me, and I began to have nervous indigestion. I lost my appetite also, and just had to force myself to eat enough to keep me going. Everything I ate, would sour on my stomach, and I would often be so badly bloated with gas that I could hardly get a good breath. I was so nervous from headaches, too, and would often have such bad dizzy spells I could hardly walk. I also suffered from a pain in my back around my kidney nearly all the time. I didn't seem to get a particle of good from any of the many different kinds of medicine I took and I finally got so weak and run-down that I was hardly able to go at all."

"One of my friends had been taking Orgatone, and he had done him so much good that he insisted on my giving it a trial. Well, I bought a bottle of Orgatone, and it wasn't very long after I commenced taking it until I could see that it was the very medicine I needed. My appetite came back, and now I can eat three square meals every day, and I never suffer the least bit from indigestion or stomach trouble of any kind. Why, I even eat big meals of heavy foods like meats and pastry, and it doesn't hurt me at all. The nervousness has left, and I sleep just fine and dandy every night. I never have that pain in my back any more, and haven't had a headache since I took my first bottle of Orgatone. In fact, I never had better health in my life, and I will tell the world that Orgatone did the work fine."

Genuine Orgatone may be obtained in Lubbock at Brown's Drug Store.

BUSINESS UNUSUAL

Insull Interests Planning Expansion Program

CHICAGO, Dec. 4. (P)—"Business will be about as usual" in 1930 for the utilities operated by the Insull interests.

Manuel Insull, expressing his views on the business situation before the economic club last night, announced his companies would go ahead with a $200,000,000 expansion program "just as planned before the stock market took sick."

Mr. Insull said the two hundred million dollar expansion program was based on a survey that showed "the credit situation good; collections practically normal; no extraordinary accumulation of inventories; that the market disturbance was not caused by a shortage of money; that money is, in fact, plentiful."

Membership of trade unions in Great Britain and Northern Ireland decreased by 119,000, in the last year.

Prohibition Termed Greatest Moral Success of Age by Temperance Head

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. (P)—Prohibition was termed the "greatest moral success of any adventure of the age" today by Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church.

In his report to the annual meeting of the board, Dr. Wilson asserted "America must show the world how to get rid of its two most dreadful scourges—rum and war."

He asked for prohibition "as fair a chance and as long a time to show the world what it can do as the license system" had.

"It has never had a fair chance until now," he said. "It never could have till we elected a president on the direct issue of a strict and impartial and uncompromising observance and enforcement of prohibition, who will determine to call out all the resources of this republic before he will sit in the White House swivel chair and see the constitution of our country trampled upon by a gang of aliens who affect to despise us."

Captain Kleinschmidt Sets Out On Last Lap Of Search For The Home Of Santa

Reindeer Teams Used On Dash To North Eskimoland

BY CAPT. F. E. KLEINSCHMIDT
Special Correspondent of the Avalanche-Journal and Head of Expedition to Home of Santa Claus
(By Wireless)

At midnight last night the Avalanche-Journal received word by radio that its expedition to find Santa Claus at his home near the North Pole was ready to start from the most northern point of Eskimoland on the final dash to the home of Santa Claus.

Capt. F. E. Kleinschmidt, the noted explorer and intrepid aviator, who is in command, reached this most northern point by airplane yesterday after a gruelling flight fighting sleet, snow storms and intense cold as he proceeded northward for four days, forced down in Hudson Bay and lost for two days.

Message Is Delayed.

Here is his last message: "Our preparations are completed. We leave by full moon tonight. The airplane is housed in a snow cave, had to cut down the personnel and equipment to the minimum. Our assistant cameraman is going to stay behind to get pictures of the Eskimos for the films for the kids."

"I have decided not to use dogs, we need the pemmican for ourselves and cannot haul other bulky dog food such as seal or walrus meat. At the beginning of winter the snow is loose like feathers, because the blizzards have not packed it solid. The dogs would walk in it unless trail is broken with snowshoes. The reindeer with their long legs can step right through it and pull a load besides we do not have to carry any feed for them, they dig through the snow for the reindeer moss and feed while we sleep."

"There are in our party, Mrs. K. myself and Sparks who will operate the portable short-wave wireless set, and two Eskimos. Pat-tu-nuk, who speared the Polar Bear yesterday and killed a walrus, who fought the walrus today. Both brave, agile and resourceful men."

"I must tell you about the Walrus hunt. Pat-tu-nuk is the only son of an aged father and Kusenena has only a mother and two sisters. Both are therefore the only providers for their families. You may think that I should not have taken them along, but I know from experience that an unmarried Eskimo is much better on an expedition than a married man, who is always thinking of when he can get back to his wife and children. The only thing that was necessary was to see that their dependents lacked no food while we were gone. So I decided to take a walrus hunt. A single walrus means 2,000 pounds of meat, almost enough to last a family for half the winter, but a walrus hunt is fraught with danger and difficulties to these men when they have to attack them and are attacked in their trail skinboats and try to kill them with the spear and harpoon. They are often out 50 miles from home on the icefloes and then they cannot get all the meat home before it drifts away. I told the mechanics to take out the plane, take a cruise and drop smoke bombs when we saw a herd. Then I was to approach on the sea side of the walrus. I explained the plan to the Eskimos for I needed several men to turn over, skin and cut up the walrus. They immediately grasped the situation and were eager to go along and obtain food."

"We brought the plane down on a level flat icefloe to the sea of a herd of 16 sleeping walrus. The walrus has to be killed like an elephant with one shot in the brain, otherwise he will rush off the ice into the water and you lose him."

"The Eskimos crawl up to the walrus, harpoon one and tie the line fast to the ice, then they have to get into their skinboat and spear him to death. This often takes hours as the animal is big and ferocious and attacks them, but we used our rifles and shot two of them."

"Well, you will see the hunt in motion pictures. You will even see Mrs. K. crawling, with rifle in hand, up to the monster animal and bagging one—right before your eyes. Sparks is going to wire you a still picture right with this message."

HEADACHE AND BAD BREATH

These Symptoms Often Go Away Following the Use of Theodor's Black-Draught

Winston-Salem, N. C.—"I have been using Theodor's Black-Draught for twenty-five years," says Mrs. Lydia E. Kerley, of 315 West Seventh Street, this city. "I try never to go without it in my home, because I find that a pinch will ease the headache."

"I take Black-Draught when I am bilious or have indigestion. I have found that much of the trouble of this kind comes from constipation. Black-Draught is the best medicine I have ever found to prevent it."

"It is the only medicine I can take and keep on with my work. One of my children was troubled with bad breath, and I gave her Black-Draught. She got over it right away."

"I favor Black-Draught, because it seems to drive the poison out of the system in a natural way."

"When you take Theodor's Black-Draught, the digestive organs are helped in a healthful, easy way, and normal elimination is restored without the sickening effects that characterize the use of powerful mineral drugs."

When Vicks VapoRub was introduced, mothers especially were quick to appreciate it, because it is just rubbed on and cannot upset children's delicate stomachs, as "dosing" is so apt to do. Of course it is equally good for adults.

Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing," and the demand for Vicks has grown until it is necessary to again raise the figures in the famous slogan. There are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly."

Two Women Burned

VICTORIA, Dec. 4. (P)—Two women were severely burned in a fire and explosion in the Jarinks Dry Goods store here last night.

Mrs. Louis Jarinks was burned about the face, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Ray Hamill of Chicago, was seriously burned on the face and arms.

The store was closed and the women were in the rear, where one of them was using an electric iron. It was believed as aping gas was ignited by the iron.

The stock was badly damaged by fire and water and the building partly destroyed. No estimate was made of loss.

Documents Enter Oil Lease Trial

Government Attempting To Cancel Leases On Over Six Hundred Acres Of Land In California

(By Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—Numerous letters and documents, which passed through the hands of Edward C. Finney, first assistant secretary of the interior under former Secretary Albert B. Fall, and resulted in the leasing of 600 acres of the Kern county naval oil reserve to Edward L. Doheny and the Pan American Petroleum company, were placed in evidence today as the government's first move in its suit to cancel the $15,000,000 leases.

Finney, now solicitor for the interior department, was the first government witness. He identified the exhibits, which included many letters, as those submitted to him in 1921 prior to the letting of the leases. His testimony was climaxed in the late afternoon by the reading of the order issued May 21, 1921 by the late president, Warren G. Harding transferring the reserve from the navy to the interior department.

Atlee Pomerene, former United States senator and chief of the government counsel, in his opening statement yesterday declared the executive order was illegal and fraudulent. He also said the government would show the leases were granted to Doheny by Fall as the results of their relationship established by the payment of a $100,000 bribe to the secretary of the oil magnate.

Before Finney took the stand Pomerene and the Doheny counsel stipulated to entering as evidence the findings of the senatorial investigation committee of 1924, which inquired into the passing of the $100,000 between Fall and Doheny and recently ruled in the conviction of the former secretary on a bribery charge.

Pomerene said he would not call Fall as a witness, as he was ill at his El Paso, Texas, home. Doheny has been subpoenaed as a defense witness.

GULFPORT, Miss., Dec. 4.—Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi told the American Shore and Beach Preservation association in session here today that the United States government should accept states in the control of beach erosion. A measure dealing with this problem is scheduled to come before congress, he said.

Slaton's new $125,000 hospital building, shown above, was formally dedicated Nov. 27. The hospital is owned by the Sisters of Mercy, and is known as the Mercy Hospital. Several Slaton people also had parts on the ceremonial program. Representatives were present from all sections of the South Plains.

Go through all the advertisements, locate these items and insert one with the corresponding advertiser's name in one of the spaces shown hereon. When you have inserted as many as you can find, send all of the finished pages to this paper in care of Santa Sleigh Editor. And, in closing out every article in the store, I sincerely want all my regular customers and everybody else of Lubbock county and the South Plains to know that there are only—
