Enemy Leaders Lose Control Over Forces

Russians Capture Large Station On Kiev-Warsaw Line

By HENRY SHAPIRO
United Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Jan. 7.—The government organ Izvestia reported today that the Red army had broken the German defenses along a continuous 200-mile line now looping a dozen miles into pre-war Poland, and said the Nazi command had lost control of disorderly fleeing men in some sectors.

West of Olvesk in the northwestern Ukraine the Soviets smashed across the boundary line

715 MILES FROM STALINGRAD

LONDON, Jan. 7 (AP) — In driving the Germans back across the old pre-war Polish frontier the Russian army has advanced 715 airline miles from Stalingrad — approximately the distance from New York to Chicago — since last February.

The advance represents an average gain of about two miles per day, and swampy, roadless terrain, beating down fierce German resistance, and captured Rokitno, large station on the Kiev-Warsaw line and a fortified stronghold.

While maintaining the westward pressure beyond Rokitno, Gen. Nikolai F. Vatutin's forces mopped up along a line 30 miles southeastward as far as Gorodnitsa, bastion of the powerful Sluch river fortifications.

There was no indication that the boundary line had been crossed at any point except in the Rokitno direction.

Some 200 miles to the southeast Vatutin's left wing, which in three days had pushed 36 miles south of Belaya Tserkov, was within shelling distance of the railroad running westward from Cherkasi.

10 Divisions Face Trap

With Cherkasi already in Russian hands and the nearby rail junction of Smela invested, German forces estimated at no less than 10 divisions (possibly 150,000 men) within the Cherkasi bulge along the Dnieper faced an imminent threat of encirclement.

(Nazi radios reported that a great tank battle was raging in the heart of the Dnieper bend around Krivoi Rog and Kirovograd, a Berlin communique acknowledging increased pressure on both sides of the latter town. It also reported "heavy fluctuating" fighting in the Berdichev sector

New Draft Plan Will Be Used

At Least 3 Weeks Notice Provided

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7—A plan for eliminating uncertainties among draft-eligibles concerning whether they are physically acceptable for service, and to provide a minimum of three-weeks notice of induction, was announced by selective service headquarters today.

This will be done by:

Abolishing the present system of "screening" examinations by local boards.

Examinations Earlier

Giving pre-induction (final) examinations at least 21 days before the induction date.

Doing away with all post-induction furloughs, now three weeks in the Army and one week in the Navy.

The new system does not apply to registrants ordered to report for induction before February 1 but local boards will begin at once to order a substantial number of men now in class 1-A to report for the pre-induction examinations, in addition to taking enough men in the old manner to meet their January quotas.

At first, these men may be inducted 21 days after passing their physical, but this interval will be gradually lengthened as a pool of physically - acceptable - men is built up. If a registrant passes his physical and still has not been inducted 90 days later, he must be given a new pre-induction physical before being called.

Trial Of Ciano Will Be Started Saturday

(By The Associated Press)

Trial of Count Ciano and other members of the Fascist grand council who voted for the ouster of Premier Mussolini last July 25 will begin tomorrow at Verona in northern Italy, the Berlin radio said today.

All are charged with treason by Mussolini's puppet regime.

The broadcast said Ciano, Mussolini's son-in-law and former Italian foreign minister, would be the first to face the court and that sentences were expected to be pronounced within a few days after the opening of the trials.

The radio report said Ciano is imprisoned in a scantily furnished cell.

Only five others of the 19 members of the grand council who voted against Mussolini have been arrested, the broadcast said. The other defendants, including Count Dino Grandi, one-time ambassador to London, are to be tried in absentia, according to previous German accounts.

Train Hits Bus In Arizona; 27 Soldiers Killed

Eight Critically Hurt At Kingman Army Air Base

(By The Associated Press)

KINGMAN, Ariz., Jan. 7 — Twenty-seven soldiers were killed and eight critically injured when a Kingman Army Air base bus collided with a Santa Fe freight train at the entrance to this gunnery school about 9 o'clock last night.

The air base public relations officer said all of the dead but one were aviation cadets who had been on a night gunnery mission at a range across the railroad tracks from the base.

Army officials said C. L. Hickey, Needles, Calif., engineer of the freight, said that his train was going at the "usual speed of about 45 miles an hour" when he saw the flagman at the crossing wave down the bus.

Went Out Of Control

Hickey was quoted by the public relations office as saying the bus appeared to stop and then went out of control.

Bodies and wreckage of the bus were scattered for about 100 feet along the railroad right-of-way. The bus was carrying 36 passengers, none of whom escaped injury.

The dead were identified by the public relations office as:

Second Lt. Altemont R. Britten, jr., Hamilton, Ala.; Robert L. Johnson, son of Irvin Johnson, Pottstown, Pa.; Seymour Kahn, son of Morris Kahn, the Bronx, New York; Donald B. Keller, son of Francis B. Keller, Minot, N. D.; Kenneth L. Kirk, son of Michael F. Kirk, Sioux Falls, S. D.; Alfred M. Kite, son of Mrs. Ethie E. Kite, Waynesboro, Va.; Robert J. Traffic Fines Total $1,241 In December

One hundred sixteen motorists who thumbed their noses at legal speed regulations in December paid fines totaling $1,241 into the registry of corporation court.

Solon Lea, city recorder, said collections were highest since the month of August, 1941, when $1,304 was taken from traffic violators.

None of those fined for speeding were fined less than $5, none more than $20, Lea said.

American Mail In Jap Camps Scarce

Conditions Said To Be "Satisfactory"

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 — In one Japanese prisoner camp where 1,174 American soldiers are interned, there has been no mail since May, 1942.

But the International Red Cross, reporting on the visits of its representatives to this and two other camps, describes conditions as "satisfactory."

The reports were made public today by Senator Thomas (D-Utah) chairman of a special Senate committee on war prisoner treatment, to whom they were sent by Secretary of War Stimson.

"Undoubtedly," said the secretary, "the camps reported on . . . are 'show' camps. Nevertheless, there is some comfort to be derived from the fact that at least a few of our men are faring no worse."

Christmas Dinner Planned

Christmas dinner for the prisoners was being planned at the Shanghai camp when the report was made, Dec. 15. It said:

"Owing to high cost of commodities and difficulties of securing supplies, the celebration will be on a smaller scale than last year. Planning dinner consisting of good soup, pot roast with vegetables, pies, fruit, coffee and

Three Youthful Thieves Caught

MEMPHIS, Jan. 7 (AP) — Three young fugitives from San Quentin, Calif., prison were captured in uptown Memphis shortly before midnight last night and were jailed after confessing they robbed a Jackson, Miss., hotel today, inspector M. A. Hinds said.

The inspector asserted that the men would be turned over to the FBI and Jackson, Miss., authorities.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said the bandits' car was stolen in San Antonio, Tex., and was used in holdups of the Western Union office at Baton Rouge and a Houston hotel.

This car was abandoned in Jackson in favor of two cars seized from a garage.

Armed When Captured

Hinds said the men were armed when captured and one of them attempted to shoot an arresting officer.

Hinds identified the men as Roy Drake, 20; Ralph Ward, 23; and Lawrence Motari, 21.

Hinds said the men were carrying three pistols and a sawed-off shotgun. He asserted that more than $5,000 was taken from them, most of it in bank sacks and containers.

The inspector said the three youths escaped from San Quentin on Dec. 26.

Police in Jackson, Miss., said a trio of gunmen robbed an auto storage company and the Robert E. Lee hotel of an estimated $5,000 to $10,000 in a bold holdup today.

Tries To Shoot Officers

Hinds said one of the youths tried to shoot Patrolman Frank Stott but, as he confessed later, "I couldn't get the pistol cocked fast enough."

Another of the fugitives tried

U. S. Planes Hit Targets In Germany

Chemical Center Of Ludwigshafen Said Objective

(By The United Press)

LONDON, Jan. 7—United States Flying Fortresses and Liberators bombed targets in southwest Germany today.

(The Clandestine radio station Atlantic identified the American objective as the Rhineland Chemical center of Ludwigshafen, site of a giant I. Farbenindustrie plant.)

Heavies Hit French Coast

The 8th Air force heavies streamed out across Germany at the height of a furious Allied aerial bombardment of the French invasion coast. American and Canadian medium bombers, supported by swarms of fighter planes, smashed repeatedly at enemy military installations and airfields in northern France, carrying the pre-invasion bombardment of that area into its third day.

It was the third major attack of the week for the Fortresses and Liberators, which blasted the German shipping center of Kiel in great strength Tuesday, and followed up on Wednesday with a four-pronged blow that hit Kiel, other targets in western Germany, and Bordeaux and Tours in France. Munster also was bombed by a diversionary force on Tuesday.

Invasion Ship Output Halted

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7. (AP)—A work stoppage halted production of invasion ships for the Navy at the vast Cramp Shipbuilding company yards for the second day today, with leaders of 17,000 workers asserting operations would be resumed if the Navy takes over the plant.

The yards' gates, closed early yesterday, were thrown open today while a crowd of about 6,000 workers milled outside. Only a few walked in, however, and union spokesmen said they "took the position that they were locked out, and now they are going to stay locked out until this thing is settled."

The company termed the stoppage a strike.

Want Navy Seizure

A statement by union officials that "it is high time for the Navy to seize the plant" was greeted with wild cheering at a meeting of more than 2,000 employes who voted yesterday to stay away from work until "all grievances" against the company are settled.

The strike, entering its second day, halted all production at the huge shipyard which is engaged in building vessels for the United States Navy. Strike action by the workers was the result of a dispute involving 42 painters.

"Buy A War Bond TODAY"

Woman, 47, Has Posed As Male All Her Life

DENVER, Jan. 7 (U.P.) — Miss Jacqueline Moret, 47, told authorities today that ever since she learned to walk she has posed as a male.

Her life-long hoax was disclosed when detectives, believing that she was a man, arrested her for failure to carry a draft card. She was using the name of Jack Starr.

Miss Moret said she was born on her father's 38-foot ketch somewhere "in the South seas." Her mother, she said, died shortly after her birth. Her father, a pearler who always wanted a son, dressed her in overalls, and she became known from the time she could walk as "Jack."

She worked in shipyards as a riveter and a steamfitter, drove trucks and was a longshoreman, she said.

"And I also am a good bartender," she said.

She told police her true identity was discovered only once before—when she "got in a scrape" at Casper, Wyo., and was sentenced to a two-year penitentiary term.

"It would kill me to have to wear women's clothes," she said. "I'd rather work around men any time. I just let the rough talk go in one ear and out the other."

Panhandle Storm Is Said Worst In 52 Years

Blizzard Reported Worst In History At Dalhart; Zero Weather Is Expected By Nightfall; Heavy Cattle Losses Seen

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, Jan. 7.—The most crippling blizzard in 52 years roared into the Panhandle today, with upwards of ten inches of snow and a 42-mile wind quickly blocking means of transportation. The temperature here skidded to 14 degrees and the weather bureau reported it was headed for zero-level by nightfall.

A plant making military armament halted a changeover of shifts, telling its oncoming workers to stay home. The weather bureau predicted the storm would continue at a severe level for at least 48 hours.

FAIR, EXCEPT FOR BLIZZARD

AMARILLO, Jan. 7 (AP) — With tongue in cheek, the Amarillo Globe reported its weather today:

"Panhandle weather fair, warm and pretty except for howling blizzard. Heavy snow, stiff wind. Snow drifting. Temperature drifting — downward.

"Snow falling on cake of snow and ice which came several pretty days ago. Extremely hard on cattle which have been fed on red tape from Washington the last two months. Air lines have grounded planes, highways are hazardous, the visibility is poor. No clothes have been blown off yet."

of this city, brought word that it too was encompassed by the worst blizzard in its history.

Cattle Losses Expected

Amarillo cattlemen predicted to the Amarillo Globe that the storm was expected to inflict a loss of possibly 20 per cent among their herds of cattle on the range. Ice and snow caked on the ground here since Dec. 9, combined with a lack of protein feed, has made it difficult to feed these animals in recent weeks, they said. The cattle were further imperiled, the Globe was told, by the high wind drifting the snow into huge mounds against fences.

Railroad trains brought out their snow-plows and were running behind schedule.

On the Canadian river, about 20 miles north of here, the snowfall already had reached 10 inches or more and was drifting high.

Citizens were asked by city and state police to stay off highways and city streets. In past severe blizzards autoists, trains and

Blizzard Hits Lubbock Area

Transportation Is Uncertain

Old Man Winter was blowing his icy breath on the South Plains again this afternoon.

Borne on the wings of a biting north wind, snowflakes began falling in Lubbock shortly before noon and by two o'clock, the record blizzard sweeping down from the Panhandle area had apparently struck in full force.

The temperature, which had fallen no lower than a balmy 35 degrees during last night, and was at 37 degrees from 7 a. m. to 10 a. m. dropped three degrees from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m. today and skidded further to 32 degrees at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Bus travel from Amarillo to Lubbock, where the worst storm in 52 years was said to be raging, was indefinite early this afternoon but one bus which left there at 7:45 o'clock this morning had arrived safely and reports were being sought on a second which left there about three hours later. A bus, scheduled to leave for the North Plains city at 1:45 o'clock this afternoon, was being held up pending word from the second bus.

Approximately 30 passengers, who had planned to go to Amarillo on the early afternoon bus, were stranded at the Union Bus terminal this afternoon after it was decided not to send buses north. A Texas, New Mexico and Oklahoma coaches driver at Tulia reported that "it was plenty rough." The snow was whipping and drifting deep across the highways, he reported. It was snowing heavy at Tulia, he said.

Roads Are Blocked

All roads leading from Amarillo except to Lubbock were blocked, it was said.

Livestock owners were warned by the weatherman to protect their stock. Temperatures of between 15 and 20 degrees were pre-

Cotton Products Use Less Labor In Texas

DALLAS, Jan. 7. (AP)—Critically-needed protein feed and other essential war materials supplied by cotton can be produced with less labor in Texas than in other sections of the cotton belt, A. L. Ward, Dallas, educational director, National Cottonseed Products association, said today, adding that Texas farmers have their greatest opportunity to contribute to the war effort by increasing cotton production in 1944.

"Labor is scarce for the production of all crops, livestock and other war materials," he said, "but the fact that cotton supplies food, feed and fiber for the war and can be produced with relatively low demand on manpower in Texas gives cotton farmers added incentive to devote more acreage to cotton this season. In addition, cotton is Texas' most dependable cash crop, and more farmers have the experienced and equipment to grow it successfully than any other crop.

"Getting enough acreage planted to cotton this spring to supply protein feeds that are essential to maintain Texas livestock production is the immediate and major problem before this state."

Fighting Bitter In San Vittore

(By The Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 7 — With grenades, machineguns and small arms American troops fought over the drenched stones of San Vittore and assailed three bitterly contested strongpoints in the fortified village today as the Fifth army pressed its offensive all along the 10-mile front straddling the Via Casilina to Rome.

Forging ahead short distances through the snow-covered mountains, the Americans stormed the strong defenses built by the Germans to cover the key town of Cassino six miles ahead of San Vittore. The Yanks captured the 3,500-foot peak of Monte Maio about a mile southwest of Viticuso and five miles northwest of Venafro.

Nazi Supply Road Cut

The seizure of Monte Maio under a hail of German artillery and mortar fire cut the German supply road from Cevaro to San Vittore near Viticuso.

The Americans who entered San Vittore from the northeast and southwest had taken more than half the town and now were driving on three clusters of grey tumbledown stone buildings where the Germans had barricaded themselves.

It was a no-quarter fight with the Germans refusing to give themselves up.

The doughboys had to creep up to the pillboxes, toss grenades through the apertures and wipe out the defenders.

San Vittore is about two miles up the road from the village of ADVANCED ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, Jan. 7—U. S. Marines were reported killing Japanese by the hundreds today in slow, tedious advance toward Borgen bay in northwestern New Britain against the toughest resistance they have encountered since they landed on Cape Gloucester Dec. 26.

Six hundred enemy troops were killed Tuesday alone, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's communique said, boosting the Marines' toll of Japanese since the landing past the 2,000-mark.

An official spokesman reported that the fighting was especially fierce in the inland jungles, where thick underbrush and rough terrain make machineguns, rifles, bayonets, grenades and knives the principal weapons.

"Jet Propulsion" Fighter Plane Pronounced Success

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — Whole new vistas of rocket plane travel were opened today with the disclosure that a fighter plane using "jet propulsion" has been developed and pronounced a success.

The new plane, visions of which awakened scientific research years ago, was announced jointly last night by the Army Air forces and the Royal Air force. It already has completed several hundred test flights without mishap, and quantity production will begin soon.

Today's planes of orthodox design have about reached their speed limits, and jet propulsion has been regarded by engineers as the logical next step.

Jet propulsion — commonly called rocket propulsion — eliminates the propeller. Instead of a propeller "biting" into the air to pull the plane forward, jet propulsion, a series of powerful explosions, not unlike a Fourth of July skyrocket, push it forward.

The propeller performs satisfactorily at speeds up to 400 miles

Army Corporal Nabbed By FBI As Unregistered Jap Agent

NEW YORK, Jan. 7. (AP) — An Army corporal, said by the FBI to have been at various times a radio commentator, department store floor-walker, Chinese Army general and U. S. Army second lieutenant, was held under $10,000 bail today on charges of being an unregistered agent of the Japanese.

The man, Arthur Clifford Read, 32, American born, was arrested while on furlough from Camp Croft, S. C., yesterday. U. S. Commissioner Garret W. Cotter held him for federal grand jury action.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said in Washington that Read admitted getting $15,000 from Japanese authorities in Hong Kong, Seattle and New York for propaganda work.

Hoover said Read began working for the Japanese in Shanghai in 1938, giving information on the Chinese Army. He later returned to the United States, the FBI head said, and lectured in the Middle West and New York as Chinese General Lee Tok Kow Goon, making disparaging remarks about

Try These Marine Exercises To Distribute Weight, Slim

BY ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

ONE reason the Marines are the "Fightingest" men is because they are fittest. Daily exercise—scientifically planned to bring every muscle into play—keeps them that way. And that goes for the women reserves, too.

Here are two Marine toughening exercises which also slim the waistline and thighs:

Run in place. Hands are carried chest high, clasped slowly at first in tempo with running, then accelerated. Knees are raised waist high. Continue for one minute until running in place at top speed.

Now try this one: Begin with feet together, hand son hips. At count of one, hands are clapped overhead and a side straddle hop brings feet 30 inches apart. At two, return hands to hips and bring feet together smartly. Perform as fast as possible during last 16 counts.

Before long these exercises will begin to distribute your weight and put you in Marine-like trim.

BY RUTH MILLETT

An Iowa judge, after passing sentence on three delinquent girls, came out with his idea of a sensible step toward lowering juvenile delinquency. He believes that coeducation should be discontinued from the third grade through high school, and from then on the boys should be taught by men and the girls by women.

It's a cinch that steps toward lowering juvenile delinquency need to be taken.

But will a step backward—as educational segregation of the sexes would be—help in any way?

Now that the war has opened up most of the business, industrial, and professional fields to women, it would seem that more than ever the need of boys and girls is to learn to get along with each other—to learn to work and play together, maintaining respect for each other as individuals.

It would seem that rather than being made more conscious of their sex, as segregation would tend to do, they need to be made less conscious of it.

MANPOWER SHORTAGE

But the judge is undoubtedly right in maintaining that boys need men teachers. But, then, so do girls. And both boys and girls need women teachers.

However, the number of men teaching in grade schools and high schools is pitifully small. The majority of men who like teaching get into college and university work as soon as they have the necessary degrees, because the pay is better.

And that condition will exist so long as teachers, as a group, are so poorly paid.

But that is still another problem. However, it is one we had better get to work on, because the shortage of qualified teachers willing to stay in the teaching profession is becoming alarming.

Don. L. Jones, superintendent of the experiment station, talked on "Trees — the best planting for our limited space in the city" when South Plains Dahlia society members attended their first of the year meeting Thursday night at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Porter, 3518 Twenty-second street.

Highlights of his talk were that in choosing trees for the avenue one should consider the avenue as a unit. "Novelty trees are out," Mr. Jones declared. "Consider the vista of your home when you plant.

"My dream for Lubbock is to see one avenue or street lined with the same variety of trees, say black walnuts."

Planting Suggestions

The speaker said in foundation planting at the home shrubs should conform to the general outline of the house and suggested that old-fashioned evergreens are the enduring ones. Slow growing trees live longer than fast growing ones, he said. One may express his individuality and plant as he please in back areas.

"Plant for tomorrow unless you intend to live here only today," he concluded.

The society presented Mr. Jones with a book.

At this interesting and enthusiastic meeting yearbooks were distributed by Mrs. John Fry, yearbook chairman and new officers were introduced. They are: Mrs. H. S. Weiss, president; H. J. Kendrick, vice president; Mrs. W. B. Sides, recording secretary; Mrs. H. L. Burgess, treasurer; B. B. Pullen, corresponding secretary; Mrs. L. L. Miller, reporter.

Thirty members were present.

Mrs. A. S. Alsobrook of Lamesa and Corono, Calif., was a guest.

Bricker Cites Election Issue

DETROIT, Jan. 7. (AP) — Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio, aspirant for the Republican presidential nomination, said today the election issue would be whether to have a government "subservient" to the people or a people "subservient" to the government.

Bricker, in an address prepared for a rally of Republicans in his neighbor state of Michigan, said America and her Allies were fighting the war to destroy tyranny in the world and then added:

Assurance Of Freedom

"A Republican victory (in next fall's election) will be an assurance that, in freeing the world from tyranny, we shall also free our people of unnecessary governmental domination . . ."

Victory for the Republicans, Bricker said, will mean that the "policy-making power of government will be taken from the bureaucrats and placed in the hands of the elected representatives of the people."

"The question for America to decide, simply stated," he said, "is this: Shall government direct the lives of our people or shall the people direct the government so that it may aid them, individually and hopefully, to find their own way?"

Germany Low On Reserves

BY JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Jan. 7—Slowness of the German high command in hurling adequate reinforcements into the old Polish border sector to plug the Russian breach in the Nazi eastwall underscores Germany's great weakness of 1944—a potential basic factor for her total defeat.

That weakness is a lack of sufficient reserves for her colossal problem of defense.

The whole Allied strategy as sealed at Tehran apparently is aimed at wrestling victory through the exploitation of this factor by bringing maximum pressure simultaneously to bear on the greatest possible number of fronts.

Strategy Is Successful

As the hour nears for the great invasion from the west—anticipation of which is forcing the Germans to stand to arms in strength from Norway to southern France—the success of that strategy already is being reflected in the east, where the rampant Red Army is smashing head-on through defenses the Germans apparently fear to bolster at the cost of a cross-Europe shift of their thinned reserve force.

With five to seven million men under arms—including the air force and other services—Germany is estimated by London military sources to have from 300 to 325 divisions in the field. Russian Premier Stalin has said that 257 divisions—207 of them German and the remainder satellite troops—are now facing the Red Army.

As the tide of battle shows, the Russians alone probably equal Germany's total number of men under arms, and clearly outnumber the Germans and their faltering satellites in divisions on the eastern front.

Only once since the massive Russian offensive began six months ago has Hitler risked lashing out with a really strong counter-attacking force.

Payments for January will be $2.30 below the authorized grant. This compares with the $2.44 cut effective in December. January checks average eight cents increase. Total payment will be $3,777,437.

The blind rolls sustained a net loss of one recipient, $114,528 being distributed this January to 4,680 recipients in average grants of $23.47.

The aid to dependent children rolls lost 216 families, representing 470 children. In January, $216,279 will be paid to 10,173 families, representing 22,530 children in an average grant of $21.26 per family.

Conservation Studied At School Meeting

AUSTIN, Jan. 7. (AP)—Speakers discussed conservation of natural resources as a conference of Texas school executives and teacher trainers entered its second day here today.

The conference was told yesterday by Lt. Col. Forest J. Agee of the adjutant general's department at Washington that the Army's specialized training program was now training 150,000 men yearly in more than 250 universities and colleges.

Agee also said that less than one-half of one per cent of all the men in the Army had been incorrectly classified when they entered the services.

Lt. Col. Jay Dykhouse of the Eighth Service command's civilian pre-induction section told the conference that 90 per cent of the men in the Army did not require knowledge of their mathematics to perform their tasks, and he urged that high school students be persuaded to stay in school instead of quitting to go to work or enter military service.

The conference also heard Dr. Harry A. Jager of the U. S. Office of Education explain guidance programs which he said would provide factual information as to mental and physical qualifications and leadership of students from the elementary grades up.

Bolivian Event Being Studied

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — Nineteen American nations bent on rooting out Axis political influences in this hemisphere began an exhaustive joint study today of the forces that put a revolutionary government in power in Bolivia on Dec. 20.

A full exchange of information began among Washington and the 18 other capitals regarding the suspected influences which may have contributed to the accession of the new Bolivian president, Major Gualberto Villarroel.

Include Sovereign States

On the basis of this information, and acting through the inter-American emergency advisory committee for political defense, the American nations, which include all sovereign states except Bolivia and Argentina, will then decide whether to accord the government at La Paz friendly recognition or to take measures which in effect would isolate Bolivia from its neighbors, both politically and economically.

Similarly stern procedure unquestionably will be applied to Argentina, where a revolutionary regime was set up last June, if it is found that Argentine influences were instrumental in bringing about the overthrow of the old government in Bolivia.

Arnold Cites Aerial Goals

FORT WORTH, Jan. 7 (AP) — Berlin has been three-fourths destroyed "and we haven't called off the dogs yet," says Army Air Forces Chief Gen. Henry H. Arnold.

In an interview here last night while on a visit to Lt. Gen. Barton K. Yount, commanding general of the AAF training command, the stockily-built general's reply to reports that the Germans have 1,000 more front-line combat planes than a year ago was a repetition of the Air Force's goal:

"We've got to exterminate the German air force."

Trying New Methods

The Germans "know they've got to stop us or they've lost the war," he said. "They've tried the orthodox methods and they're springing something new all the time. So far we've been lucky enough to outguess them."

He added:

"With our bombers increasing in number every day, and in conjuction with the RAF, we expect to give Germany 24-hour 'bombing service' from 360 degrees. If our bombers keep on going into Germany, it won't take long. There won't be much fight left when the time for invasion comes.

"It won't be an easy job, for they are fighting desperately, determinedly, and skillfully. They know that if our bombers are not stopped, it won't be long till Germany will not be able to continue."

State Reply On Newton Filed

State has filed its arguments in connection with the appeal of Dr. W. R. Newton of Cameron from a 7-year assault to murder conviction, and will file supplementary arguments this week, it was announced here Thursday afternoon by E. A. Bills, Littlefield attorney and special prosecutor in the case.

Dr. Newton was convicted of having shot Dr. Roy E. Hunt, Littlefield surgeon, the early morning of May 21, 1942, near Littlefield. Mrs. Newton's trial, not set, will be called for setting in the current term of court in Hale county.

Newton's Arguments

Dr. Newton had charged in his appeal argument that the trial court had erred in failing to grant a continuance so that certain witnesses from Houston might testify that Dr. and Mrs. Newton spent the entire night of May 21 in Houston, approximately 700 miles from the Littlteflied shooting scene.

Bills said the state contends the defense did not show sufficient dilignce in getting those witnesses; further, that when Dr. and Mrs. Newton successfully moved for severance (they had been jointly charged) and his case was set for trial ahead of hers, that was an indication Dr. Newton was ready for trial; that he should have asked for a contuance before moving for severance, if he wanted a continuance.

Spaatz Has Devoted Life To Transforming Air Power From Question Mark To Real Thing

By BOYD LEWIS
United Press Staff Writer

Lt. Gen. Carl Andrew Spaatz has devoted most of his adult life to an effort to transform air power from a question mark to a sure thing.

He soared into newspaper headlines in 1929 when he took the Army plane "Question Mark" aloft on a refueling endurance flight and held it there for six days and a new record. His assistant was a young Army captain named Ira Eaker. Both boys have done rather well in flying circles since.

He comes up from the Mediterranean to command the strategic bombing of Germany for second front Generalissimo Dwight D. Eisenhower convinced that he has erased that question mark on American Air power.

If adequate air power can be applied against the heart of a nation no other force is necessary, he asserted after Pantelleria hoisted the white flag to air power unassisted in June of last year. Nothing has occurred in the course of the air war since that time has caused him to change the idea—one which he has held, incidentally, since he fell under the spell of Gen. Billy Mitchell as a young officer.

Bomber Force "Adequate"

Informed persons believe that the heavy bomber force which will be available to Spaatz in Britain, soon to include the B-29 bombers, will satisfy him as "adequate." Of course he will not be asked to reduce Germany by air assault alone. His task will be to wage a war without front—to pour destruction through the open door of the Nazi fortress Europe—before, during and after Eisenhower hurls his massive land forces across a bridge of ships against the German land defenses.

The man behind this 20th century warmaking concept is no winged automaton but an extremely human high-stake poker player, fond of strumming a guitar to accompaniment of group singing and addicted to buckets of coffee and chains of cigarets when under pressure.

One of the first American fliers of World war I, he commanded the training center at Issoudon through which virtually every American pilot and mechanic was filtered. He emerged a rabid fan for air war and was delighted to demonstrate it with a flying circus of Army planes after the war. Then followed command of various Army flying fields and training centers until he and Eaker took the Question Mark up for its endurance record.

Eaker Piloted Plane

While Eaker held the controls, Spaatz would juggle the refueling hose, leaning far out of the supply hatch. At one point in the flight the Question Mark jerked away from the refueling ship, drenching Spaatz with high octane gasoline which would have seared his skin. Without hesitation he stripped off his soaking clothes and resumed refueling — stark naked.

He was one of the first officers called by Eisenhower to join his air-ground team in North Africa. Teaming up with British Air Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, another red-hot air power fan, he had ample chance for experimentation, culminating in the reduction of Pantelleria by air.

His return to England will be in the nature of a return engagement because he was stationed there as commander in chief of the U. S. Army Air forces in the European theater when Eisenhower recruited him for Africa. His blunt, forthright diplomatic methods and his flamboyant poker playing made him a popular officer among British as well as American circles.

Of his diplomatic methods, these stories are told:

Warned About Briton

He had been warned that Sir Sholto Douglas, then chief of the RAF fighter command, was a formidable individual. When they met, Spaatz thrust out his hand and said: "I hear you're damned tough and that you and I aren't going to get along together. Is that right?" They got along famously from that moment.

While reviewing the eighth Air force with Queen Elizabeth, a storm blew up. With the gallantry of a Sir Walter Raleigh, Spaatz dropped his battered air force raincoat over the queen's shoulders and said: "Your Majesty, this makes you a major general in the Army Air force."

His poker playing is described as more enthusiastic than expert. He plays generally with an "inner circle" of officers on his own staff who are said to be regarded by old-timers among airmen poker artists as "easy meat." British Air Marshal Sir Arthur Harris and several correspondents are supposed to have discovered that while the free and easy betting of the Spaatz clique is momentarily disconcerting, they usually fall victim, to close-to-the-vest players.

State Given Title To Oil Property

AUSTIN, Jan. 7 (AP) — A judgment rendered in district court at Edna gives the state title to 265.2 acres of lakes and bayous in Jackson county containing 18 producing oil wells.

The attorney general's department said the judgment grew out of a vacancy suit in which the state intervened. The suit sought recovery of 2,600 acres against various defendants.

The judgement released $150,000 of royalties held in escrow and continues a lease by the state to Humble Oil and Refinery company. The state is required to pay from its royalty accumulation $6,250 to the J. H. Drummond estate and Humble mut pay a similar amount to the state.

Village In Dither Over Ban On Slacks

SHERBURN, Minn., Jan. 7, (AP) —This village is in a dither because high school girls want to wear slacks to school and two girls who defied a faculty order against such apparel have been sent home.

Mrs. John P. Schroedel, mother of a high school girl, went to St. Paul to confer with the Board of Education to find out whether the local faculty and school board have the authority to enforce a "no slacks" rule.

Girls sent home when they appeared wearing slacks were given assignments to study at home.

Political Unrest In South Cited

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP) — Governor J. M. Broughton of North Carolina said today that the South would support the Democratic ticket this year despite what he described as resentment against the national administration.

"The southern states are in great political turmoil," he said in an address for delivery at "America's Town Meeting of the Air" and broadcast over the Blue network's national hookup. He declared, however, that differences would be settled within the party.

"They resent what they consider unwise and unwarranted attempts of the National administration to interfere in matters of purely state concern," he said. "Delicate race relationships, which are being worked out with mutual understanding and good will, are frequently endangered by ill-advised activities which are deplored by leaders of both races.

State Legislations Threatened

"State regulation of forestry, employment, voting privileges, aviation, seed and fertilizer inspection, and many other traditional and constitutional rights are threatened. Freight rate inequities shackle the industrial growth of many southern sections.

"These are some of the conditions which have stirred sentiments of resentment if not revolt in the South. They must be reckoned with. They can and will be settled within the party. The South will support the Democratic ticket in 1944."

Broughton said he believed the Democrats would win but said they could win "only as a liberal party with a liberal candidate." He added that it could not be denied that his party had lost ground on domestic issues.

Have a Coca-Cola = Let's be friendly

...a way to win a welcome wherever you go

Where you find democracy, you find the feeling of friendliness, of give-and-take—the spirit of neighborliness. It's made up of little things that mark a way of life: sports, fair play, movies, comics and swing music. A simple phrase like Have a "Coke" turns strangers into friends, the same in both hemispheres. Around the globe, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become the high-sign of the good-hearted.

Foreign Dishes Give Meals Zest

ACCORDING to Crosby Gaige, noted gourmet, rationing and curtailed supplies are teaching Americans to look for new dishes. These are southern and Near East dishes.

CHEESE CHILI FONDU
(Serves 4)

Two cups enriched bread, cubed; 2 tablespoons fortified margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 pint tomatoes, ½ cup water, 1 teaspoon chili powder, ¼ pound snappy cheese, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, separated.

Toast the cubes of bread and set aside until needed. Melt margarine in saucepan. Add flour and mix to smooth paste. Add tomatoes (canned or fresh) and water. Cook, stirring constantly to prevent lumping, until creamy. Add salt, curry powder and cheese cut into bits. Stir until cheese is melted.

Add the egg yolks, stirring as you add. Remove from over heat. Beat egg whites until light and fluffy. Fold into cheese sauce. Pour over the toasted bread cubes. Again fold together lightly. Turn into a well-greased baking dish. Set dish into pan of hot water. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) about ¾ hour until set. Serve hot.

CURRIED LAMB PIE
(Serves 6)

Two pounds lean breast of lamb, shoulder or neck, 2 tablespoons fortified margarine or drippings, 3 cups boiling water, salt and pepper, bay leaf, paprika, 2 small onions, 2 stalks celery, 1 teaspoon minced parsley, ¼ cup flour, 1 teaspoon curry powder (or to taste), cold water, 2 cups cooked hominy grits.

Have meat cut into serving size pieces. Brown in hot fat. Add boiling water, salt, bay leaf, onions and celery thinly sliced. Simmer togteher, covered, about 2 hours (until meat is quite tender). Mix flour and curry powder. Add cold water slowly, just enough to make a smooth paste. Stir into the meat gravy. Cook, stirring constantly until gravy is rich and creamy. Pour into casserole or baking dish. Arrange cooked hominy grits around the edge (like a pie crust). Reheat in oven if necessary. Dust edge with parika, garnish with parsley.

LENTIL CHOWDER

Take 1 lb. lentils, soak for 2 or 3 hours, put on to boil with plenty of water since it is to be soup, and salt. When nearly soft, put in with the lentils about 3 cupfuls of raw peeled potatoes diced into small pieces. In frying pan place 2 or 3 strips of bacon cut in thin strips, and one onion cut fine, and fry until slightly brown. Pour into the cooked lentils and stir well. The bacon fat should be the consistancy of thick soup. Serve vinegar with this soup, for those who like to add a little zest.

Here's another economical foreign dish, contributed by Angela M. Carlozzi.

PASTA E FAGIOLI

Soak one cup of navy beans overnight: start to cook in plenty of water. Add celery tops while cooking. Cook until beans are soft but not disintegrated. In a separate pot, start to boil about 1½ quarts water. When boiling, add ¾ lb. elbow macaroni and cook until well done. Strain and add to cooked beans, to which a little more water has been added.

In a frying pan, put about 2 tablespoons olive oil (or mixed oil) and brown in it one clove of garlic, cut into quarters. Remove garlic. Add ½ can tomato sauce and cook slowly for 20 minutes. Add salt and pepper to taste and ½ teaspoon chopped parsley, ½ tablespoon of oregano (Italian thyme). Add this sauce to macaroni and serve bean mixture. Cook together for about 10 minutes. This will serve 4 people.

Here's a Polish recipe form Mrs. Janina Donimirski.

GOLARKI

One pound half-cooked meat (pork, veal or beef), ¾ cup of cooked rice, ½ onion, fried and chopped, ½ pound half-cooked mushrooms (cooked in stock or water, the residue of which is kept for use in latter part of this recipe), 3 tablespoons shortening (butter or vegetables), salt and pepper to taste.

Mix all ingredients together, then add stock of mushrooms. Carefully loosen leaves of half-cooked cabbage, and stuff these leaves with mixture, and fasten with tooth pick. Fry in vegetable shortening, or place in a pot, pour stock over them, and cook in a moderate oven until tender.

FOOD NUTRITION and Point Rationing NEWS

EDITOR'S NOTE: This feature is presented each Friday with hope that it will be of benefit to Avalanche-Journal readers in these days of rationing and nutrition problems.

CHICKEN CHANGES: Chicken a la king shortcake on biscuits, chicken soup with dumplings, cold salad plate.

Bank On Chicken And Save! One Of Best Buys For Flavor

FOR A FAMILY of four, a large stewing chicken is one of the best buys for flavor, nutrition and ration point saving. And it makes meat money go farther.

This chicken can be extended for four meals, at least when combined with other foods. In addition, chicken stock and fat from the stewer are good in a number of appetizing food combinations.

Select a plump stewer. Clean it and cut up or cook whole. Place in a kettle and cover by three inches with cold water—this allows for plenty of chicken stock. Add a teaspoon salt, five or six celery leaves and several sprigs of parsley. Cover tightly, slowly bring to a boiling point, lower heat and simmer until the chicken is tender. About two hours is enough to give good flavor and texture.

When the chicken is tender, remove it from the stock and it is ready for a variety of chicken dishes. Cool and chill the stock. Fat will come to the top, skim this off into a jar, cover, store in refrigerator, and use as any other fat in cooking.

STEWED CHICKEN and gravy make a grand first meal for the stewer. Make up a thick, creamy gravy, well seasoned, put in part of the stock for liquid and all chicken fat for the fat called for. Add part of the chicken, reheat for 10 minutes in covered double boiler. Serve as is, or poured over creamy hot mashed potatoes or broiled rice.

CHICKEN POT PIE is delicious. Pour the chicken and gravy into shallow, greased baking dish, cover with biscuits or thin layer of cornbread and bake 30 minutes in moderate oven. Put chicken fat in biscuits or cornbread in place of any other shortening.

For CHICKEN CREOLE, add diced cooked chicken to a pungent tomato, green pepper, celery, onion sauce. Serve on boiled rice or browned noodles. Chicken leftovers can be made into timbales or loaf. Bake and when unmolded cover with any desired savory sauce.

Chicken stock seasoned with diced celery or chopped celery leaves, parsley and a faint hint of herbs and beef extract or beef bouillon cube for extra nutrition, has several culinary uses. It makes good soup, when served plain. For a chowder, thicken a little and add some cubed cooked potatoes and carrots and a few chopped onions slightly browned in diced salt pork.

FEATHER DUMPLINGS
(For Soup)

1 cup sifted cake flour
1½ teaspoons double-acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons milk
2 teaspoons melted fat

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Add milk and fat. Then stir quickly and lightly until a very soft dough is formed. Drop by small spoonfuls on simmering soup. Cover kettle tightly and cook gently 14 minutes. Do not remove cover while dumplings cook. Makes 6 to 8 dumplings.

CHICKEN A LA KING

2 cups chicken, cut in pieces
½ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1½ cups milk
3 tablespoons butter
3½ tablespoons flour

Heat chicken, salt, pepper, and milk in double boiler 15 minutes. Blend butter and flour and add to chicken, stirring until thickened. Cook 15 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Serve on buttered split hot biscuits.

"Rinse" out the catsup, chili sauce or other relish bottle with 4 tablespoons or so of French dressing. This prevents any waste of the catsup. Add the dressing and use as desired.

Let 'Em Eat Cake, Says Dakota Champ

VOLGA, S. D., Jan. 7. (AP) — "Let 'em eat cake" may be just a famous quotation to most people but to Mrs. J. M. Johnson, Volga farm wife, it's a motto that has paid out in big dividends.

She lets 'em . . . and from coast to coast, pastry lovers have smacked many a lip over Mrs. Johnson's export specials. She's taken cake making from the kitchen and transformed it into a one-woman, transcontinental industry.

The South Dakota cake maker's hobby—she insists it's only that and nothing more — began with wedding cakes for her own family. Enthusiastic guests nibbled politely at first and then dug in with both hands.

Mrs. Johnson's fame grew, jumped community limits and spread out on a big scale. Her cakes began to excite admiration and envy throughout the middle west and in no time orders were coming in from other states. Big league cake baking followed.

Three-and-four-layer products are mere child's play to this farm woman whose record was firmly nailed up in baking's hall of fame with a 13-layer behemoth which took two days to decorate and went by request to Flint, Mich.

One architectural masterpiece — a replica of the steamship Olympia—crossed the Atlantic to London.

—GRIND?—

PERK KUT—Intended only for percolators, this is the coarsest of our grinds. Admiration's special process grinds the coffee to uniform-size particles, free from coffee dust. Perk Kut produces a perfect brew—in percolators.

DRIPKUT—This grind is ideal for all the various types of drip pots. It has the consistency of a fine meal, and like all Admiration grinds is free from coffee dust. Hot water has but to saturate it to extract all the flavor.

GLASSDRIP—Vacuum coffee makers brew on an entirely different principle from percolators or drip pots. A vacuum literally "pulls" the flavor from the coffee. Such coffee-makers require a very fine, almost flour-like grind—and that's exactly what Glassdrip is.

Grind is very important in coffee-making. It has a direct bearing on the strength of your brew and the quality of its flavor. Too fine a grind for your pot produces a sediment in the brew. This often makes coffee bitter. Too coarse a grind brews improperly and results in weak, flavorless coffee. The exact grind recommended for your coffee-maker is what you should use. It will be one of three standard grinds: for the percolator . . for the drip pot . . or for the vacuum bottle. Admiration Coffee is scientifically ground for all three. When you buy and brew the right grind, the final strength and flavor of Admiration will be exactly as its roasters intended it. And you, like countless thousands, will love it. Try a pound today.

White Collar Worker To Have His Economic Pains Aired

BY JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE
Associated Press Staff Writers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 — The white collar worker will soon get a brisk start in the new year by having his economic aches, pains and tattered pocketbook examined publicly.

The Senate sub-committee on wartime health and education, headed by Senator Pepper (D-Fla), will begin hearings Jan. 25 on the white collar worker's living conditions, living costs and income.

Then what? There will be head-shaking over his sad condition if it is shown he has been badly squeezed between an income which has remained low and steady while living costs went up. And beyond that?

There isn't any simple solution and probably not a speedy one, if at all.

There are perhaps between 10½ and 15 million people in the white collar class if those on a fixed income, like pensioners, are included.

Industrial workers in this war have been able to get their income up to an all-time high in various ways: through labor organizations, strike threats, general need for manpower.

Not so white collar workers.

Suffer In Transition

Traditionally they are the group which suffers in the transition of a country from a peacetime to a wartime economy. They are the last to receive salary increases because their demands can be least effectively expressed. While they wait, living costs rise, as they have in this war, and then their money is worth even less than before the war.

Some sources have suggested that white collar workers might gain relief through lower taxes but this seems unlikely.

Some relief might be afforded through revision upward in government controls on salary raises but those increases are now, and have been, tied in with the government's whole policy on stabilizing living costs. Uncle Sam could hardly break his rules for one group without having all other groups screaming at once.

Representatives from the following groups may appear at the committee hearings:

The government's bureau of labor statistics, the CIO's United Office and Professional workers union; Metropolitan Life Insurance company; Russell Sage foundation; American Association of University women; National Education association; American Bankers association; conference of mayors; and others.

Aged Widow Must Pay Tenant $1,500

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 7 (AP)—A 71-year-old widow, who charged 50 cents per week above the OPA maximum rental for an apartment, must pay $1,500 to a tenant.

Mrs. Mary Bochino of nearby Baldwinsville, testifying through an interpreter, was ordered yesterday in state supreme court to pay the amount to Morris R. Ward of Granby Center.

Ward paid $5 weekly rental for 31 weeks. He sought, in his action, the $50 penalty provided under the emergency price control act of 1942 for each week.

Justice Frank J. Cregg, directing the jury's verdict, said Mrs. Bochino had violated the act and therefore the court could exercise no discretion, however much sympathy it had.

Expansion Program Planned For Trinity

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 7 (AP) — A $6,500,000 expansion program is planned for Trinity university.

The program was drafted by the school's board of trustees and was concurred in by the synod of Texas of the Presbyterian church at a joint session of the two groups here yesterday.

As the first step, member churches will begin immediately campaigning for $1,500,000. Architects are to be employed at once to plan for construction of about seven buildings on the campus following the war, it was announced after yesterday's meeting, which was presided over by Dr. R. Thomsen, chairman of the university's trustees.

Yanks Raise $4,000 For British Airmen

CAIRO, Jan. 7 (AP) — American soldiers aboard a troop ship in a Mediterranean convoy today chipped in $4,000 to express their gratitude to RAF fighter pilots who drove off two attacks by enemy planes.

The money will go to the dependents of any casualties among the air crews defending the convoy.

Thomas Challenges Texas Labor Law

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — In a petition filed with the Supreme court, R. J. Thomas, a CIO vice-president, has challenged the constitutionality of Texas laws which require paid labor union organizers to register with the secretary of state before soliciting members.

The Detroit labor leader, who is president of the international union, United Automobile, Aircraft and Agricultural Implement Workers of America, was convicted of contempt of court at Austin, for violating a court order enjoining him from soliciting union members without obtaining an organizer's card. He was sentenced to three days' imprisonment and fined $100.

Freedom Said Violated

Thomas' Supreme court petition, filed yesterday, asserted that his constitutional right of freedom of speech was violated by the statute and the injunction, and added:

"The effect of this statute is to restrict and limit the labor unions of this country in their effort to organize workers, particularly in states where only recently organizing efforts have begun."

Attorney General Gerald C. Mann urged dismissal of the appeal in that the legislation involved "is nothing more than a registration statute and it is clearly a proper exercise of the police power of the state of Texas."

Mann asserted the issue did not involve the "right to make a speech" but involved Thomas' "solicitation, as an unregistered labor organizer engaged in the business of organizing labor unions, of a particular individual to join a named union."

East Texas Field Is Said Good For Three Billion More Barrels

AUSTIN, Jan. 7 (AP) — The East Texas oil field can produce 3 billion more barrels in the next 30 years if present conservation practices continue, Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson asserted today.

His estimate followed an engineering report that the field produced 128,989,845 barrels last year with a drop in bottomhole pressure of only 3.27 pounds per square inch.

Pressure increased 5.03 pounds in the last month of the year.

At year's end it was 1,012.44 pounds per square inch.

The pressure decline per million barrels produced last year was .02535 pounds.

World's Largest Reservoir

The reservoir, world's largest, has produced more than 1,900,000,000 barrels of oil in 13 years.

"This is perhaps a record in conservation of reservoir energy in a field that old," said Thompson.

"It was made possible by water-oil ration of five barrels of water to one barrel of oil removed and by reinjection of salt water into the field on the water drive side."

Water encroaching from the west side of the field gradually pushes the oil ahead of it so that with return of water to the producing horizon it will be possible eventually to drain the field of virtually all of its oil reserves.

This can be accomplished only if the rates of oil withdrawal is not too rapid, Thompson said.

MISCELLANY

EL DORADO, Kas.—Farmer George T. Onnen found a woman's handbag containing:

$165 in cash, a bank book showing deposits of $4,645, an unrecorded mortgage for $300, a diamond ring and three sticks of gum.

Onnen also found the owner next day — and a $50 reward.

PERPETUAL YOUTH

AINSTY, England — Judge Henry Hopkins, 82, retired from the bench because, he said, he felt he was too old.

Local magistrates unanimously elected as his successor W. H. Shaw, 85.

ALL IS FORGIVEN

FRESNO, Calif.—John W. Marshall claims this record—absent without leave from the Army for 60 years.

He's back at an Army camp now—as a civilian employe at Pinedale. The 80-year-old man told officers he had escaped from guard duty in Missouri 60 years ago and had taken up civilian life in Memphis, Tenn.

Army legal minds have decided the statute of limitations has run out on the offense by now.

SANTA FE, N. M.—A Chama valley bus broke down completely on the rough road to remote Canjilon.

So Joseph Burne, president of the bus line, asked the State Corporation commission for authority to use a horse and buggy to carry passengers and mail.

Chairman Robert Valdez predicted the commission would say yes.

YES, MR. MORALES!

LOS ANGELES — Release orders arrived at the county jail for one of two men named Roberto Morales. One is 20, the other 17.

Jailers, after turning out the elder, discovered their error and had to release the younger.

A few hours later the elder Morales came back.

"What's wrong?" he asked. "When I got home I asked everybody who bailed me out. They all said 'not me.'

"You guys made a mistake?"

Development Of Area Seen

DALLAS, Jan. 7. (AP)—C. Joseph Snyder of Dallas has been designated to initiate plans by which southwest financial, business and industrial leaders would form an organization to take advantage of war industrial development in the postwar period, Rep. Wright Patman (Dem.) of Texarkana, has announced.

Patman said the name Gulf Southwest Empire builders has been tentatively selected for the organization to be formed after plans are put before leaders in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and New Mexico.

A meeting in Dallas for the area will be held in about 60 days to organize the group formally Patman said.

Snyder Knows Resources

Snyder, an executive for the Lone Star Steel company, was chosen "to lay the ground work because of his familiarity with the resources of the Southwest and with the inter-relation of its states in economic development, gained in his work with Lone Star Steel," Patman said.

"The blast furnace and the projected steel mill will use coal from Oklahoma and Arkansas, Limestone from Louisiana, maganese from New Mexico and Arkansas and Texas iron ore. The plant has already revived the coal industry at McAlester, Okla., and will help the entire Southwest. Other industrial development in any state of the Southwest likewise wil help all of its states," Patman said.

Steel Mill Started Move

The idea of forming the Gulf southwestern states into a group to promote an industrial empire was conceived when Patman, in seeking endorsement of the Lone Star Steel mill, obtained the support of the ten senators and 35 representatives for the project.

Patman, who recently disclosed plans for building a postwar industrial empire from the nucleus of war plants, conferred in Dallas on the program with industrial and business leaders, as he had done previously in Texarkana and Washington.

Patman said the five Gulf southwestern states had, by the 1940 census, a population of 13,596,343 or 2,000,000 more than the Pacific coast states and one-tenth of the nation's population.

FOR WOMEN ONLY

MOBILE, Ala., Jan. 7 (AP)—One of the state liquor stores in Mobile has been designated for women only. It is near another state store which sells to men only. Both are in the heart of the shopping district.

Some of the "universal" languages proposed from time to time are Volapuk, Esperanto, Mondolingue, Universala and Kosmos.

Radium Powder Gone; Thief Given Warning

HILL FIELD, Utah, Jan. 7 (AP)—Radium powder stolen from the Ogden Air Service command may be expected to retain its radiating quality for 3,000 years, Carl H. Larson, instrument repair foreman, said today.

He warned the possessor of the powder of its potential power and said it would affect persons in its immediate vicinity, even though it were not brought into actual physical contact with them. Fifteen tiny vials of the powder, each containing five grams, were discovered missing from the lead-lined vault of the radium room yesterday.

The room had been left open during remodeling, Larson said.

Safety matches were first used in 1850.

Southwest Coaches To Be Instructors

BRYAN, Jan. 7 (AP) — Southwest grid coaches will serve as instructors for this year's Texas High School Coaches association coaching school, says Bill Carmichael, secretary-treasurer of the organization.

Directors of the group will confer tomorrow in Austin to select the instructors and the site for the school, said Carmichael, adding that a poll of the membership favored having instructors from the Southwest.

He said the association plans its all-star football game as usual, to climax the school, despite the fact players — boys who have completed their high school eligibility the year before — are difficult to obtain because of the war.

Solon Says Islands Should Be Retained

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7 (AP) — Senator Albert B. Chandler (D-Ky) says this country should retain all mandated Pacific islands after the war.

"We are taking those islands now at the cost of many American lives," he told the Democrats luncheon club yesterday, "and it would be absolute cruelty to give them up after the war only to be forced to retake them with further loss of lives at another date."

Planning Body Approves Plats

Plats for two proposed additions to the city of Lubbock were approved, another was approved subject to the opinion of the city attorney and a fourth was rejected at the first regular meeting of the city planning board in the city hall council chamber Thursday night.

Subdivisions approved were those presented by E. P. Norwood and located northwest of the city; and by C. M. Dickinson, located on East Broadway immediately south of the main fairgrounds entrance. Pending legal approval was the application of R. A. and R. D. McKinney, owners of Frances Place, on west Nineteenth street. Held up for proper plat was property adjacent to the southeast part of the city, Mill addition, owned by the Leftwich interests.

Technicality Holds Up One

Sole reason for not fully approving the Frances Place application rested on legal technicalities, L. Wesley Read, chairman of the planning commission, said. The Frances plat is fully acceptable and includes dedications of streets and alleys, he said.

Chairman Read appointed a subcommittee to work with the State Highway department in the matter of diagonal traffic arteries leading into a proposed highway beltline, planned for the immediate postwar period. On the subcommittee were named City Manager Marlin R. Smith, City Engineer Arch King and W. L. Bradshaw. A second subcommittee, to study with Fire Chief Ed Twitty prospective sites, for additional fire stations, was formed in the personages of Smith, J. H. Murdough and Chas. A. Guy.

Nineteenth Street Discussed

Commission Secretary King was directed to advise abstractors, lawyers, real estate men and "other directly interested persons" regarding a new state law which permits a Texas municipality of more than 25,000 population to control subdivisions and additions for residential and business purposes lying within a five mile radius of a community's corporate limits. A lengthy discussion covering Nineteenth street from Avenue Q east to Texas avenue, and the possibilities of opening that thoroughfare through to Avenue H, thence Eastward to Avenue A, was held at request of the City commission. The planning board, however, voted to make no definite recommendations until further study of the problem.

Present at the meeting, held in the City commission chambers at City Hall were Dr. J. T. Krueger, Smith, Read, King, Bradshaw, Murdough and Guy. Absent were K. N. Clapp, J. D. Hassell, jr., and City Attorney D. H. Bradley.

Population Increases Around Large Cities

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7. (U.P.)—The bureau of the census reported today that the population in areas around big cities in the southern and western parts of he United States increased by about one-eighth between April, 1940, and March, 1943.

The jump, amounting to 12.2 per cent in the South and 12.5 in the West, was paralleled by a decrease of 1.5 per cent in metropolitan areas in the North, the bureau said.

The bureau pointed out that the increase was developing a lot of new residents for suburban areas.

"Increases tend to occur in suburban counties, rather than in those containing the largest cities," the bureau explained.

Among cities whose surrounding population has increased more than 25 per cent include Washington, D. C., with 28.2 per cent; San Diego, Calif., with 40 per cent; and Mobile, Ala., with 64.6 per cent. The biggest decrease was 17.9 per cent in the area around Scranton and Wilkesbarre, Pa.

Gamblers "At Work" In Houston Plant

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 7. (U.P.)—Professional gamblers are wasting production time and fleecing workmen of their money in the huge Irish bend yard of the Houston Shipbuilding corporation, a company official charged today.

Arthur Stout, president of the shipbuilding concern, in an open letter to some 20,000 employes, made foremen and supervisors responsible for keeping employes away from gambling games inside the yard.

Principal offense, his letter stated, was "shooting craps."

The games, it continued, apparently go on at all times and on all shifts.

The gamblers, it was reported, have arranged an elaborate setup in which they have "lookout men" to prevent games from being broken up and "steerers" to guide players to new locations when a game scene is changed.

Stout said any player caught gambling in the shipyards in the future would be dismissed immediately.

New Clause For War Contracts Expected

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7. (AP)—The White House is expected to issue within the next few days a new standard clause, for inclusion in all government war contracts, covering contract termination proceedures.

Constructed out of a great variety of clauses presently in use by the war, Navy and other government purchasing agencies, the new provision will be made a standard part of all new contracts and negotiations will be undertaken by the government to insert it in all old contracts.

Two Lamesa Quints Lose To Westerners

B Team Game Is 28-27 Thriller

Dixie White's Lubbock Westerners uncovered a fast brand of basketball Thursday night at the high school gym to gain a pair of cage wins over the Lamesa high school A and B teams.

The Lubbock B team came from behind to win the opener in the final 13 seconds of the ball game, 28 to 27, but the Westerner A team took an early lead and was never headed in romping away with a 50 to 32 victory.

It was some sensational shooting by Jerry Crawford that gave the Westerners their comfortable lead early in the ball game, then the steady stream of field goals from the fingers of Marion Manderson that kept the locals out in front.

Manderson was the high point man for the night, dropping in eight field goals from all angles to amass 16 points. Crawford finished second in the scoring race, getting six field goals and a free pitch for 13 points. Four of his field goals, and the free pitch, came in the first period a sthe Westerners rolled to a 18 to 8 lead in the first quarter.

The game started slowly with Lamesa gaining the lead on Tabor's free toss early. Crawford then tied the score at 1 to 1. Cope made it 2 to 1 on another free pitch, then Billingsley again tied the game at 2-2 with a free pitch. Burl Gene Moore then started the Westerners off with a donation goal, Crawford hit three goals in rapid order, then after Manderson and Moore had hit field goals, Crawford hit another to give the Westerners a 15 to 2 lead.

It was Manderson and Cope that went on scoring sprees in the second period and at the halftime, the Westerners held a 33 to 14 lead over the visitors.

Hawkins paced a rally by the Lamesa club in the last half, getting five field goals and a free pitch, all in the final half to pace the scoring for the losers with 11 points, two better than Rhodes and four better than Tabor.

The opener was a thriller in the last half, but found the Dawson county lads roaring away to a 17 to 8 lead in the first half, and seemed to be well on the road to a victory.

C ch Dixie White's kids came back with blood in their eye in the last half and during the third period roared into an 18-19 tie with the Lamesa five. Lubbock had eased into a 22 to 21 lead at the end of the third period.

With the timer's watch ticking off the final seconds, Pearson dropped one in from behind the foul line for the winning goal just 13 seconds ahead of the timer's gun.

Lamesa stars took off scoring honors in this game with O. Roberts nosing out his team mate, Horton, for the honors with four field goals and four donation tosses for 12 points while Horton accounted for 11 points with five field goals and a free pitch.

Nelson Is Favorite In Los Angeles Open

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7 (AP) — He hasn't fired a shot but Toledo's Byron Nelson is the pre-Los Angeles $12,500 open golf championship favorite.

A field of 135 set out today over the Wilshire country club in quest of first prize, $4,375 in war bonds, among them 26 top flight professionals and amateurs who were exempt from the 36-hole qualifying test Wednesday.

Nelson, who recently completed a coast-to-coast benefit tour with Jug McSpaden and gave par a spanking almost everywhere, has tried several times to capture the Los Angeles open, but it always has eluded him. He must be right, now, for last Tuesday he toured the Hillcrest course here in 65, seven under par.

Lord Byron will be up against some mighty stiff competition. McSpaden is here. So are Craig Wood, national champion for the duration; Willie Goggin, Johnny Revolta, Willie Hunter, Lloyd Mangrum, Olin Dutra and Tony Penna.

There will be 18 holes today and tomorrow, then the field will be cut to the 60 low scorers, plus ties, and these will fight it out through Sunday and Monday.

SEWELL NOT SIGNED

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 7. (AP) — The St. Petersburg Times said today that Truett (Rip) Sewell, "blooper ball" pitcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates, had returned his 1944 confract unsigned.

Big Crowd Sees Three Cagé Tilts In LAAF League; 498th, 495th And 84th Fives Win

Opening with a 24 to 22 thriller won by the 495th Squadron over the Finance Department team, the Lubbock Army Air field Squadron Basketball League offered all styles of basketball in three games played before one of the best crowds of the year.

In the second game of the night, the 498th Squadron team opened up with a last half drive that broke another nip and tuck battle and gained a 38-28 win over the 1017 Guard Squadron cagers. In the nightcap, the 84th Base Headquarters five ran away from the Medical Detachment five to win 66 to 37.

The first game was the thriller of the night, but may prove a costly one to the Post team tonight in it's battle with South Plains Army Air Field. Late in the ball game, Lt. Wyllis Reece went out of the game with a broken finger. Reece is a star of the regular post team, and was playing with the Finance Department in the Squadron League.

Scoring honors for the night went to Elrod, 495th, who dropped in three field goals and six free pitches for 12 points. McNeely of the Finance Department paced his team with nine points while Greiser of the winners finished with eight points.

The game was a nip and tuck affair with the lead changing often and kept one of the best cage crowds of the season in a wild uproar all the way.

The second game started off as a duplicate of the first, and the score was tied four times in the first half, but late in the game, the 498th Squadron began to pull away and were never headed off in spite of a wild rally by the Guardsmen in the closing minutes. In a wild first half finish, both sides scored in the last 22 seconds to reach the half in a deadlock.

Scoring honors for the night went to Harris of the winners, getting eight field goals for 16 points to nose out Volz who dropped in six field goals and two free tosses for 14 points.

Fletcher carried off scoring honors for the Guardsmen with 10 points. Bowles and Harrell each played great ball for the losers, accounting for 13 more of the Guards points between them.

Pryor accounted for half of the 84th Base Headquarters five in their runaway race with the Medical Detachment, accounting for 33 points in the final game. Foll paced the Medicos with 14 points, but the outcome of the game was never in doubt after the early minutes.

LITTLE GIVEN AWARD

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP) — Lou Little, Columbia university football coach, last night was formally presented the Touchdown Club's annual award for meritorious contribution to the game. The presentation took place at the club's annual dinner.

SWC Games Set Tonight

T. C. U., Arkansas In 2-Game Series

(By The Associated Press)

Two Southwest conference basketball games tonight bring four more conference teams into action for their first taste of title competion.

Texas Christian's cagers journey to Fayetteville to open a two-game series with the University of Arkansas Razorbacks and Southern Methodist's Mustangs travel to college station, where they tangle with the Texas Aggies in a one-night stand.

Conference play opened Wednesday night at Waco, when the Rice Owls defeated the Baylor Bears 45-27.

Tomorrow night finds three games carded — the second TCU-Arkansas fray, the SMU-Rice game at Houston and the Baylor-University of Texas contest at Austin, when the Longhorns initiate their conference schedule.

Among the starters Coach Manning Smith intends to use for the Aggies against SMU tonight is Steve King of Denton. Of the others, three hail from Houston: Joe Atlas, Mike Salibo and Max Mohnke, while the fifth man is Charles Ekas of Kilgore.

Arkansas, with five wins in seven starts, has the best pre-conference record of any club in the loop. TCU lost six out of nine.

Beau Jack To Meet Costantino Tonight

NEW YORK, Jan. 7. (AP)—Mike Jacobs' champ dollar magnet gets the call to start the 1944 Madison Square garden fight season in the approved big money tempo tonight when Beau Jack, the New York and Pennsylvania lightweight king, risks his reputation against Lulu Costantino in a non-title 10-rounder. Twelve thousand are expected to look on.

It's 1 to 3 that Jack, the Augusta, Ga. shoeshine boy, will be able to outpunch the clever East Side New Yorker but the dissenters argue that the Beau won't be able to catch Lulu let alone punch him.

Jess Willard Sues For Film Profits

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 7. (AP) — Jess Willard, former world heavyweight boxing champion, has sued for an accounting of profits of the movie, "The Great American Broadcast," which included a film of his title bout with Jack Dempsey in Toledo, Ohio, July 4, 1919.

In his suit against 20th Century-Fox Corp., filed yesterday, Willard contended the fight scene was used in the 1941 picture without notifying or payment to him for the one-third interest he claims in it.

Tech Cagers Book Games With Childress Team, New Mexico

Four basketball games have been booked for the Texas Tech Red Raiders in addition to the games of the newly formed four-team basketball loop of the Tech five and the three service teams of this area. Two of the four games will be played at Lubbock and two in Albuquerque.

The Red Raiders will go to the New Mexico city for a pair of games with New Mexico university on Feb. 4 and 5. The date for the New Mexico five to play in Lubbock was not settled, but the Lobos will play one game here on either Jan. 22 or 29.

The remaining game on the home schedule will bring to Lubbock the fast Childress Army Air Field Officers five on Jan. 19.

The local warmup games here with Childress and possibly New Mexico will be played before the Red Raiders open the league play with Lubbock Army Air field at the LAAF gym Jan. 25.

The organization of the four team league to comprise the three service units of Lubbock and the Red Raiders was completed Wednesday and will end in time for the staging of a double elimination tournament at the Texas Tech gymnasium for the city championship among the four teams of the local cage league.

What Readers Of The Evening Journal Say—
The Plainsman Gets Some Mail

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Letters from readers are welcomed at all times and on all subjects. However, no letter of more than 500 words will be considered for publication, and all letters belittling, or impugning the motive of any individual, firm or corporation must include for publication, the true name of the author. The Editor shall be the sole judge of whether or not letters may be published and cannot engage in correspondence concerning them).

APPROVES WACS

Dear Plainsman: The principle difference between this war and World War I lies in the fact that more technical training and skill is needed now. The Army has almost exhausted its sources among the men within the military age limits; is scraping the bottom of the barrel and taking pre-Pearl Harbor fathers.

There are hundreds of thousands of women who are making no contribution to winning the Victory. Women enjoy the privileges of America so why shouldn't they accept the responsibilities of American citizenship? I have seen the WACs at our field doing important and essential work. They are doing the work as well, and in many cases, better, than we men could do it. I don't expect the women to work in the trenches, but I do expect them to get in there and fight by performing noncombatant jobs.

The general public has the mistaken idea that WACs are not needed but, believe me, they are. The WACs I have seen are a fine group, their enthusiasm is high and they work like Trojans. They are not enjoying a tea party; they have rolled up their sleeves and are helping their brothters and husbands the best way they can.

I would like to see a Woman's army of the 500,000 that are needed. I am a soldier and am in a position to tell whether or not they are worth their salt. I know they are.

The true Americans have never let their buddies down. There is no reason to start now, particularly when the need is so great. Come on women! get into this scrap and show the men that you are worth coming back to. The best way I know of to do your part is by joining the WAC.

Our guess is the Japs are now ready to admit that at least one American was right —Sherman!

COMING to the Lindsey theater here Sunday is a film titled "Princess O'Rourke." The Plainsman hasn't seen the picture, but he heard about it months ago when it first started making the rounds.

Our information is that "Princess O'Rourke" is a very pleasant and interesting bit of light cinema entertainment. We also understand that its brightness and pleasantries disguise a swell bit of political propaganda. We are told that, in a chocolate-coated way, "Princess O'Rourke" in spots craftily beats the drum for the New Deal. And we learn from theater men themselves that numerous American picture show owners are hopping mad over the subterfuge, on the theory that eventually political propaganda, via the entertainment route, will seriously injure show business.

As noted above, we have not seen "Princess O'Rourke," but we intend to, just to study the propaganda technique, if any. We got our dope on it from two men actively engaged in the movie business on a large scale and who keep in touch with the business throughout the nation.

Certainly their report on "Princess O'Rourke" is given credence by the fact that it is a product of Warner Brothers, which company filmed the first all-out and only clumsily disguised political propaganda extravaganza, "Mission to Moscow."

Citizens should see "Princess O'Rourke," if for no other reason than to judge for themselves whether or not the world's slickest political machine is trying to slip something to them.

WELL, what we were afraid would happen did happen. Last Monday, in commenting on our 20th anniversary in Lubbock, we listed all the men we could think of who have marched down the years with us in their same jobs—men who are doing the same thing today they were doing on Jan. 3, 1924, and have continuously done since that time.

We said we'd probably miss a few and we missed at least four whose names have since been called to our attention. They are Hubert L. Allen, J. B. Morrisset, R. W. (Wade) Walker and Frank M. Maddox, sr.

Mr. Maddox, by the way, must have set some kind of a record. Not only has he been in the farm and ranch loan business here since 1912, but for the past 31 years he has occupied the very same offices in First National bank building. We do not believe there's a man in Lubbock, or, for that matter, on the whole South Plains who has occupied the same offices that long. Mr. Maddox must have paid for the bank building all by himself during all those years.

To Dr. Herbert H. Bidwell, who called our attention to missing Mr. Maddox, thanks, sir!

In the case of Mr. Walker, it well may be said if all the houses he has built in Lubbock were to vanish in thin air, there'd be a lot of empty spaces.

It will be 32 years ago, come Jan. 17 that Mr. Walker came here and went into the contracting business, first 17 years of which he was a partner with Cash Royalty. He and his family have resided at 1318 Avenue M for 30 of those 32 years.

Incidentally, Mr. Walker has a son whom he expects to carry on for him after Victory. The son is Lt. Earl Walker, of the Navy, trained as an architect and engineer at University of Texas.

Nobody, including Mr. Walker, knows exactly how many houses he has built here but they run into many hundreds.

HOW in the world we ever happened to overlook Hubert Allen is one of life's mysteries.

Since the second day we hit town he has been one of our very favorite people—probably due to the fact that he was so kind and so friendly to us when we hit town as a fuzzy-faced kid. J. H. Hodges, for instance, told us right off the bat that we'd be lucky to stick out a year and certainly wouldn't have to pay any income tax on 1924 earnings. (He was half right!) But Mr. Allen was all encouragement and, by golly, we really needed encouragement.

We missed Mr. Morrisset simply because we haven't seen much of him lately. Like Mr. Allen, Mr. Morrisset has been doing the same good job over the years he was doing when we arrived—then with Texas Utilities, now with Southwestern Public service.

To these gentlemen, a thousand pardons for a bad memory. And if we've missed others, won't someone please (kindly) tell us?

Many a heart catches fire from the flicker of an eyelash.

That Man on Avenue Q says children raised with great care often grow up to do as well as those who weren't.

You can be either ahead with your work, or behind with your worrying. Take your choice!

BASED upon the economics of "normal times," economists of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., of New York, have figured out how much it costs to feed children from birth to age 18.

Assuming that the family involved has an average income of $2,500 per year, it costs $2,360 to feed a boy up to age 18; $2,180 to feed a girl over a like period.

We wish the adept pencil wielders of the insurance concern would busy themselves on the total cost of bringing up kids—including everything, not just grub.

We're guessing in the over-all expense that a girl will cost at least $500 more—maybe as much as $1,000. We wouldn't know, of course, being a specialist in having sons. But some of our chums with growing daughters say the expense is terrific, although we don't know any of them who'd be willing to forego the pleasure in order to save money!

Merely aspiring to be successful won't get the job done. You've got to perspire some, too!

NO matter how hard man thinks and works, he's never quite able to beat out Mother Nature when it comes to superlatives.

While our fastest planes, under the best of conditions, can't do much over 400 miles per hour, there is currently in the heavens a star which is running away from the sun at a speed of 500,000 miles per hour!

Smaller and redder than the sun, called by astronomers a "K-type" star, it was discovered by Dr. Frank K. Edmonson, of University of Indiana.

Only about a half-dozen other stars have ever been known to move at a higher speed.

CHAPTER XVIII

The doctor was home and glad to see her. She said, entering his gloomy, old-fashioned office.

"This is off the record, Doctor Mannering, but I've just made a call on your patient, Mrs. Elster."

"Sit down, Emily. I haven't seen you in some thime. How's your Dad — he was looking all right last time we were together, at the Medical Society."

"He's had the flu, but he's all right now," she said.

"I like that young assistant of his, what's his name?"

"Thompson . . ."

"He's needed one for years."

"How about you?"

"Me? Pooh," said Mannering, "I'll die in harness, and like it."

"The Elster case," began Emily again . . . "I thought as long as you were nearby . . ."

"Nice people," said Mannering promptly, "the little girl has an old head on her shoulders, poor child. Elster drinks, I suppose you've learned that? Psychological, an escape. He can't bear not having his self-respect, not being able to support his family. Which, of course, is a vicious circle because he'd have no difficulty getting a job if he didn't drink."

Emily said, "I think I may be able to get him one." She told him all she had learned during her call.

He went to the door with her, a thin, shabby, immaculately clean old man, very stooped in the shoulders. He said,

"When she's better—Mrs. Elster I mean—I think maybe Nellie—you remember my housekeeper—could find something for her to do here. Nothing very tiring of course. Sewing," he suggested vaguely, "my buttons are always off and my shirts—" He groaned. "But Nellie's eyesight isn't of the best. She could come over mornings with the little girl . . . what's her name? Mary? Mary could make herself useful. And there's all the yard for her to play in. Of course if Elster finds a job, things will be less difficult for them."

Telephoning in for her next calls Emily wrote them down, snapped her book shut, and then called the Silkenbloom Mills and asked for Mr. Edgar. She reached his secretary and in a moment, Frank himself. She said,

"It's Emily, Frank, I—"

"I don't believe it," he said flatly. Then, with caution, "You must want something."

"Just a job."

"I'll fire—" He lowered his voice. "Well, it's yours, up to the vice presidency. What do you know about stockings?"

She said, "Nothing, dope. It's for a man." She explained, rapidly. She said, "If there could be a place for him—in some sort of clerical work. Frankly I've never seen him—he might not fit in at all. But if you'd see him—"

Frank said, soothingly, "Send him over. I'll be here until 4. I'll talk to him and then send him along with a note to personnel. This puts you in my debt, Emily."

"I know," she said, "and I don't much like it."

"You're honest enough," he said, laughing. "Skip it. When am I going to see you? Suppose I come around tonight and report?"

Between her next calls she returned to the Elsters, with a leaf torn from her notebook upon which she had written Frank's name. She found Mrs. Elster sleeping in the small bedroom and Mary sitting quietly in the kitchen by the window, her thin hands folded.

The door opened and John Elster came in, walking as if he were intolerably weary. Emily with a pang of pity understood the look of intense relief which flooded the child's drawn face when she saw that he was himself—tired, but sober. She said warningly, "Mother's asleep and this is the nurse Doctor Mannering sent."

Elster was a slight man, lined and haggard, but the eyes he lifted to Emily were clear and unhappy. He explained, sitting at the table, eating his dinner without appetite, that he had walked all morning, answering the men wanted advertisements. But when they asked him for references . . .

She had urged him to eat, while they talked. She said now, putting the notebook slip on the table, "If you'd go there this afternoon, Mr. Elster, I think there may be a chance. I can't promise anything. But Mr. Edgar will do the best he can for you."

He said, "If he does, I'll be grateful to you, on my knees." He added, "Mary, I think I heard your mother, will you go look at her, please?" When the child had gone silently from the stifling room, he asked slowly, "Have you—seen the doctor?"

Emily nodded.

"Then he's told you—about us?" A dull flush rose under the thin skin. He said unsteadily, "If I get work I'll never touch the stuff again. I swear it to you."

Mary came tiptoeing back. She reported, "She's still asleep," and looked from one to the other, anxiously.

"Best thing in the world for her," said Emily.

Elster got to his feet. He was looking at the open shelves, better stocked than they had been when he left in the morning. He asked with sudden harshness, "Where'd all this stuff come from?"

Mary answered, worried, "I don't know . . . the grocery boy said a lady had sent them . . . after the nurse went, that was. They were paid for," she said in her grave little way.

Emily found herself coloring. She said, hastily:

"Please, I merely thought that—"

"We don't want charity," said Elster, angrily.

This Curious World

BY WILLIAM FERGUSON

Today's Journal Editorial

THE PEOPLE WILL DECIDE—AND HOW!

Already in the making, more than a year in advance of the next regular session of the Texas Legislature, is an attempt to boost the pay of legislators. However, this is one of the inevitables. Various legislators have been hinting for sometime that they feel that they are under-paid, and numerous schemes have been proposed to remedy the condition. None has yet reached the well-known first base.

However, for sheer absurdity, none has equalled one most recently proposed. It suggests that legislators be paid according to tax valuations in their districts, with a maximum of $5,000 per year being set for any member of the Texas law-making bodies. The absurdity is apparent from the one fact that, under such a scheme, one legislator would be receiving $5,000 per year while another, perhaps from an adjoining county and possibly a much more valuable and diligent member of the legislature, would be receiving only a few hundred dollars.

One scheme offered last year which found a good deal of support in the legislature—but nowhere else—would have paid each member $3,600 per year. The idea seems to have penetrated legislative minds, however, that a lot of people would regard that as extremely generous compensation for the three to four months spent in actual session during two years.

Fortunately, these matters of pay increase will require popular approval, in the form of a constitutional amendment. No practical Texan can be in much doubt as to what would happen to such an amendment, if submitted.

Big Invasion Force Training In Africa

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Jan. 7 (AP)—American, British and French troops are undergoing training throughout French North Africa for coming assaults across the Mediterranean against the Germans, it was disclosed today.

North Africa was officially described as "one vast training center for troops destined for future operations," with camps scattered throughout Tunisia, Algeria and Morocco.

Realistic training in landing operations is being given at Mediterranean and Atlantic coast centers, while, inland, troops are being trained in battle conditions in the mountains, muddy plains, bogs, swamps and heavy woods.

The Americans and British are newly arrived troops while the French are those recently rearmed.

SANDEFER IN INDIA

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — The American Red Cross today announced the safe arrival in India of Gilbert Bryan Sandefer of Abilene, Tex., one of its program directors. Sandefer was manager of the Hardin-Simmons university Cowboy Band before joining the Red Cross a year ago.

Ernie Pyle Sees Some Service With Pack Mule Outfit

Transportation Problem In Italy Tough One

BY ERNIE PYLE

Journal War Correspondent

AT The Front Lines In Italy, Jan. 7 (By Wireless) — You have been reading in the papers for weeks about mountain fighting in Italy, and how some of the troops are so high and remote that they have to be supplied by pack mule.

Well, for the last few days I have been hanging around with one of these mule outfits.

ERNIE PYLE

There is an average of one mule packing outfit for every infantry battalion in the mountains. Some are run by Americans, some by Italian soldiers.

The pack outfit I was with supplied a battalion that was fighting on a bald, rocky ridge nearly 4,000 feet high. It fought constantly for 10 days and nights, and when it finally came down less than a third of the original men were left.

All through those bitter days every ounce of their supplies had to go up to them on the backs of mules and men. Mules took it the first third of the way. Men took it the last bitter two-thirds, because the trail was too steep even for mules.

Make Trips By Night

The mule skinners of my outfit were Italian soldiers. The human packers were mostly American soldiers.

The Italian mule skinners were from Sardinia. They belonged to a mountain artillery regiment, and thus were experienced in climbing and in handling mules. They were bivouacked in an olive grove alongside a highway at the foot of the mountain.

They made no trips in the daytime, except in emergencies, because most of the trail was exposed to artillery fire. Supplies were brought into the olive grove by truck during the day, and stacked under trees. Just before dusk they would start loading the stuff onto mules.

THE Americans who actually managed the supply chain liked to get the mules loaded by dark, because if there was any shelling the Italians instantly disappeared and you never could find them.

There were 155 skinners in this outfit and usually about 80 mules were used each night. Every mule had a man to lead it, and about ten extra men went along to help get the mules up if they fell, and to repack any loads that came loose, and to unpack at the top. They could be up and back in less than three hours.

Usually a skinner made just one trip a night, but sometimes in an emergency they made two.

On an average night the supplies would rune something like this—85 cans of water, 100 cases of K ration, 10 cases of D ration, 10 miles of telephone wire, 25 cases of grenades and rifle and machine-gun ammunition, about 100 rounds of heavy mortar shells, one radio, two telephones, and four cases if first aid packets and sulfa drugs.

In addition, the packers would load their pockets with cigarets for the boys on top; also cans of Sterno, so they could heat some coffee once in a while.

Also, during that period, they took up more than 500 of the heavy combat suits we are issuing to the troops to help keep them warm. They carried up cellophane gas capes for some of the men to use as sleeping bags, and took extra socks for the boys too.

MAIL was their most tragic cargo. Every night they would take up sacks of mail, and every night bring a large portion of it back down—the recipients would have been killed or wounded the day their letters came.

On the long man-killing climb above the end of the mule trail they used anywhere from 20 to 300 men a night. They rang in cooks, truck drivers, clerks, and anybody else they could lay their hands on.

A lot of stuff was packed up by the fighting soldiers themselves. On the biggest night, when they were building up supplies for an attack, another battalion which was in reserve sent 300 first-line combat troops to do the packing.

Soldiers Chart Way

Back to the mules again—they would leave the olive grove in bunches of 20, starting just after dark. American soldiers were posted within shouting distance of each other all along the trail, to keep the Italians from getting lost in the dark.

Those guides form a little sidelight that I wish everybody in America who thinks he's having a tough time in this war could know about.

THE guides were men who had fought all through a long and bitter battle at the top of the mountain. For more than a week the had been far up there, perched behind rocks in the rain and cold, eating cold K rations, sleeping without blankets, scourged constantly with artillery and mortar shells, fighting and ducking and growing more and more weary, seeing their comrades wounded one by one and taken down the mountain.

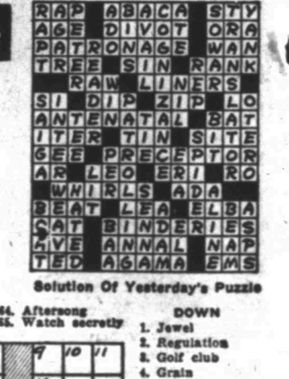

Finally sickness and exhaustion overtook many of those who were left, so they were sent back down the mountain under their own power to report to the medics at the bottom and be sent back to a rest camp. It took most of them the better part of a day to get two-thirds of the way down, so sore were their feet and so weary their muscles.

And then—when actually in sight of their haven of rest and peace—they were stopped and pressed into this guide service, because there just wasn't anybody else to do it.

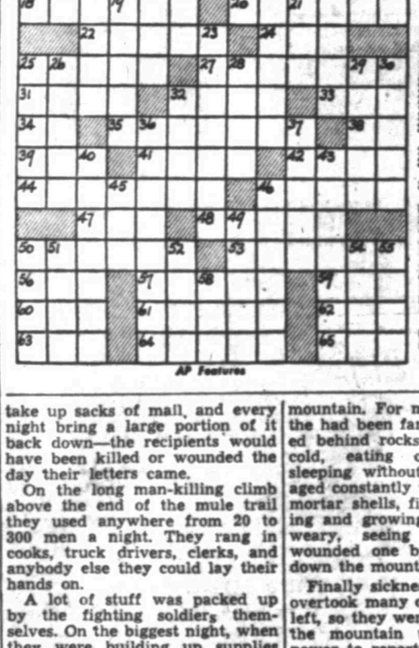

So there they stayed, right on the mountainside, for at least three additional days and nights that I know of, just lying miserably alongside the trail to shout in the darkness and guide the mules.

They still had no blankets to keep them warm, no beds but the rocks. And they did it without complaining. The human spirit is an astounding thing.

Revolution In Reich Unlikely

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 7. (AP) — Signs of flagging morale in Germany have brought a wave of death sentences making it impossible for any group to organize a revolution, Christer Jaederlund, Berlin correspondent of Tidningen, said in a dispatch today.

"A collapse of the home front could be precipitated by doubt as to whether to go on fighting, but today doubters are punished by death," he wrote.

Numerous executions in recent months, Jaederlund said, have frightened the Germans, quieted defeatist talk and made the people suspicious of one another.

Real Revolution Needed

To overthrow the Nazis, the correspondent added, "a real revolution must be organized, but the German people have been stripped of all possibilities to organize a revolt.

"One of the leading Nazis close to Hitler told me that only the Hitler regime has a possibility of organizing a revolution. Even the slightest manifestation of organized opposition to the regime, or criticism, has been nipped by the all-powerful Himmler organization."

Robbers Caught

to escape down an alley. Two Marines gave chase and helped in the capture.

In the Jackson holdup, the men ripped out telephone connections and held the hotel staff and several guests at bay while ransacking the safe and deposit boxes.

Hinds said the fugitives would be turned over to the FBI and to the Jackson, Miss., authorities.

CHARGES FILED AGAINST YOUNG MEN IN HOUSTON

HOUSTON, Jan. 7. (AP)—Charges of robbery by firearms were filed today in Justice W. C. Ragan's court against the three young men arrested in Memphis, Tenn., last night following a series of robberies which they reportedly committed this week in Houston, Baton Rouge, La., and Jackson, Miss.

The Men charged were listed as Roy Drake, 20, serving from two years to life for robbery; Ralph Ward, 23, serving five years to life for robbery; and Lawrence Motari, 21, serving five years for burglary.

Police here said the three escaped from California's San Quentin prison Dec. 26.

They were charged with robberies at the William Penn hotel, a storage garage and the home of W. H. Garner.

Orthodox Christmas Observed In Russia

MOSCOW, Jan. 7 (AP) — Candlelit Christmas trees sparkled in Russian homes today and church worshipers turned out in greater numbers than any time since 1917 as Russians celebrated their orthodox Christmas 15 days after its observance in the western world.

Except for the special church services, however, the Soviets put in a war-time working day as usual, with no provision being made for a civil holiday, and the munitions factories turned out their usual quotas.

Mother Nature Provides Tip In New Treatment For Burns

BY FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — Two Navy doctors took a tip from Mother Nature and developed a new surface treatment for burns which they said today is better than any of the "many methods in vogue during the past two years."

The method involves application of a medicated solution of human blood plasma directly to the surface of the burn — thereby providing another role in medicine for that blood derivative.

Plasma has been used and will continue to be used intravenously for the relief of "shock" due to burns and other wounds. In that procedure, plasma is injected into the veins to restore the volume of lost blood fluid.

Commander Melvin D. Abbott and Lt. John R. Gepfert declared in the naval medical bulletin they had employed plasma in surface treatment after reviewing these observatons:

Whenever the human body suffers a surface burn, nature seeks to compensate for the damage by causing the body to give off serum — the main constituent of human plasma.

Blisters are formed, with the serum inside them providing a protective covering for surviving tissue beneath and allowing it to regenerate.

Even if the blisters are broken, the serum spreads and covers the injured surface, serving as a protective and soothing layer of insulation.

Blizzard Grips Panhandle

buses have been marooned by ice and snow in the Panhandle.

The snow fell so thick and fast here that news photographers found it not worth trying to snap pictures.

Weather bureau records traced back 52 years did not reveal a more severe blizzard and the bureau promised that conditions would be worse by tonight.

Not Entirely Unexpected

The blow was not entirely unexpected. The U. S. weather bureau in New Orleans forewarned cattlemen of bitter temperatures.

The weather was thick in all parts of the state with drizzling rain reported throughout both east and west Texas.

Mid-morning weather conditions included:

Texarkana, rain, 35 degrees; Tyler, rain, 39; Dallas, rain, 39; Fort Worth, rain, 39; Gainesville, rain, 36; Abilene, fog, 43; San Angelo, cloudy, 45; Big Spring, fog, 36; Clarendon (Panhandle), snow, 32; Wichita Falls, rain, 38; Waco, rain, 42; Austin, rain, 47; San Antonio, rain, 50; Corpus Christi, rain, 59; Brownsville, 65; Houston, rain, 46; Galveston, rain, 49; Beaumont, rain, 46; Paris, rain; Denison, rain, 35; Longview, rain.

SNOWSTORM WIDESPREAD IN ROCKY MOUNTAIN AREA

DENVER, Jan. 7 (AP)—A widespread snowstorm sent temperatures tumbling in the Rocky mountain area and adjoining plains states today.

Near "blizzard" conditions were expected by weather bureau forecasters to develop on the eastern Colorado plains and in northeast New Mexico. Lighter snow flurries were predicted for Nebraska and Kansas.

Snow began falling Thursday in Wyoming and western Kansas, and by late nightfall the storm had advanced well eastward on the eastern slope of the mountains and southward to some portions of the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandles.

Eight inches of snow were recorded late last night at Sheridan, Wyo., and Craig, Colo.

Lowest temperatures of the winter were recorded in Utah and Idaho with 20 below zero at Blanding, in southeastern Utah; 7 below at Coalville in northern Utah, and 13 below at Idaho Falls, in eastern Idaho.

BRITISH USED TO NEW PROPULSION PLANE NOW

LONDON, Jan. 7 (AP) — When one of the new British-American jet-propelled planes first flew over the outer London area in an experimental flight many people rushed for shelter, thinking that a heavy bomb was screaming down.

The mystery plane's arrival was heralded by a distant screech which grew in volume until it sounded like a giant whistling kettle. Then the rumble of its powerful engines was heard as the plane shot overhead.

The people soon came to know it, however, as the flights became more frequent, and they finally dubbed it "the squirt."

"CONVENTIONAL PLANES TO REMAIN"—WRIGHT

DAYTON, O., Jan. 7. (AP)—Orville Wright, co-inventor of the first successful heavier-than-air plane, said today he believed the new jet-propelled plane announced by the Army Air forces, never would compete with the conventional motor-type.

He did believe however, that the jet-propulsion idea fits into a very definite place with American air force plans.

"Its greatest advantage," he said, "is the fact it produces a great amount of power for a few seconds."

dicted for the South Plains area tonight. It was expected to be 10 to 15 degrees in the Panhandle.

Dalhart, north of Amarillo, was said to be completedly isolated. Wires to that city were down, a telephone official reported. Fritch, to the east of Dalhart, was said to be "enveloped by snow." The temperature there as 15 degrees at 2 o'clock this afternoon, the West Texas Gas company pipeline station here reported. Canyon reported a temperature of 16 degrees at that hour.

At Lubbock Army Air field this afternoon "you couldn't see from barrack to barrack," an officer reported by telephone.

Spice Supplies Are Now More Adequate

NEW YORK, Jan. 7 (AP)—Spice supplies now are more adequate than at any time since shortly after Pearl Harbor, the American Spice Trade association disclosed today.

"The first year after the Japanese attack," said the organization, "certain spices almost disappeared from the market. In the second year supplies increased but still were low and now, in the third year, there are ample stocks of everything except cinnamon."

The spice association, representing most domestic spice importers and packers, said there now was about a two years' supply of pepper compared with three years' stocks on hand at the outbreak of war. Pepper makes up about 50 per cent of America's spice needs.

Specialists Are Said In Group

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Jan. 7.—Roundabout reports reached Stockholm today that Allied specialist troops had landed at several strategic points on the coast of Yugoslavia.

Meanwhile dispatches from Allied headquarters in Algiers called "completely erroneous" a report that "crack Allied divisions" had landed in Yugoslavia. This account was carried by Reuters, quoting the Stockholms-Tidingen, which in turn was said to have credited its information to reports from Zagreb, capital of puppet Croatia. A qualified but unofficial source in London said the report "probably was planted by the Germans as a feeler."

The story that Allied specialists had reached Yugoslavia also was roundabout, reaching Stockholm from Zagreb by way of Budapest, and likewise must be considered with reservations.

No Indication Of Size

These reports gave no indication of the size of the forces, or whether they were American or British, but American and British officers and liaison missions have been reported active with Yugoslav guerrillas for several weeks. Some of these apparently are supply officers.

The Reuters dispatch from Stockholm said the Americans and British were engaged in "heavy fighting" with Germans and Ustachis (Croat puppet troops).

Residents Tense

Zurich dispatches to London yesterday said Zagreb residents were "suffering from invasion nerves" and mentioned a report circulating in the Croat capital that strong units of the British First and American Seventh armies — neither of which has been engaged in active fighting as a whole since the invasion of Italy—were concentrating on the Italian east coast at Bari for a Balkan invasion.

Raids Over France

night in succession.

The Marauders returned from their cross-channel sweeps in early afternoon without a single loss. The medium bombers were a part of the partde of Allied fighters and fighter-bombers observed streaking across toward the French coast shortly after the Mosquitos returned from their night raids.

No Losses For RAF

The fleet plywood bombers knifed into their targets and skipped away without losses at the hands of German anti-aircraft defenses or night fighters, an air ministry communique said.

In addition to bombing objectives in Germany, the identity of which was not disclosed, the Mosquitos also stabbed at northern France and other RAF planes laid mines in enemy waters, the bulletin declared.

Apparently a considerable number of the hard-hitting Mosquitos participated in the operations, for observers on the British southeast coast reported last night that they had heard outward bound planes passing overhead for almost two hours. This at first gave rise to belief that the big bombers were again out.

The Mosquito raids were accompanied by air alerts in Geneva and other Swiss cities, the German-controlled Paris radio said.

Pound Baltic Port

The previous night the Mosquitos staged a diversionary raid on Berlin, causing the Germans to rush their night fighters to the defense of the capital while a great fleet of British heavy bombers pounded the Baltic port of Stettin with more than 1,000 tons of bombs almost unopposed.

Yesterday, the air ministry said, RAF light and medium bombers teamed up with fighter-bombers to attack military objectives in northern France. The light and medium bombers were escorted by Allied fighters.

RAF, Dominion and Allied fighters also carried out supporting sweeps, the ministry said.

From the daylight operations six Allied aircraft were reported missing. Three enemy planes were shot down.

Fighting In Italy

San Pietro captured by the Americans Dec. 18 after one of the bloodiest and fiercest battles of the Mediterranean theater.

While the Americans fought from one pillbox-converted house to another, the British on their southern leg on the 10-mile front pushed an attack at Rocca D'Envandro, capturing 79 more prisoners for a two-day total of 126.

Cold weather with snow falling in the mountains and dense clouds obscuring the mountain tops impeded the movement of the Eighth army on the Adriatic coastal front. Indian troops nevertheless made a short advance west of San Tommaso.

The weather grounded most Allied aircraft, but A-36 Invaders and P-40 Warhawks dive-bombed and strafed German gun positions and troop concentrations in the Cervaro and Aquino areas just behind the enemy on the Fifth army front, and shot up the town of Fondi, northeast of Terracina as well as motor convoys and trains east of Rome.

Intercepting 20 German planes over central Italy, American Spitfires destroyed two for the only score of the day against enemy aircraft. No Allied planes were lost yesterday.

Negro Charged With Pump House Burglary

CROSBYTON, Jan. 7. (special) —Ernest Williams, 27, a negro, was charged Thursday with burglary of a pump house belonging to John C. King.

Another negro, Charlie Lyons, charged in the same offense, convinced authorities he had no criminal connection with the burglary, so was released on his own recognizance to await action this summer of a 72nd judicial district grand jury. He was described as an excellent farm worker and badly needed by his employer.

Burton S. Burks, district attorney, took statements from the blacks.

Sheriff Roy E. Hillin informed the district attorney property taken in the burglary, a generator and a belt from an engine, had been recovered.

cigarettes."

"Conditions generally very satisfactory, . . . health good," said the Shanghai report, remarking that while winter clothing was needed, it probably would be available in the January relief shipments. Heating, the report said, will be limited but the condition is shared by all residents of Shanghai. An effort was being made to compensate by increasing hot meals and hot tea.

Conditions "Satisfactory"

A report from the Haiphong road camp also described conditions as "highly satisfactory in every respect."

Conditions at the Hoten (Mukden) Manchukuo camp, where there are 16 American officers, 511 non-commissioned officers and 647 privates were reported in considerable detail.

The men, says the report, are housed in three new two-storied brick buildings, with separate hospital, canteen, bathhouse and utility buildings.

Foods include flour, cornmeal, fish, fat, vegetables, soybeans, apples, tangerines, salt, some spices and tea, to provide 3,800 calories for patients, 4,120 for laborers, as compared with 3,457 for Japanese soldiers. The prisoners, the report said, are satisfied with the food but find the diet, in the long run, somewhat monotonous.

Prisoners Paid For Work

The prisoners work each day but Sunday and national holidays at camp maintenance and administration, in factories as cobblers, tailors, in metal and wood working shops. They are paid.

At the canteen four cigarettes a day are available for enlisted men, also sweets, toilet articles, stationery. Profits are expended by the prisoners.

Anglican church services are held each Sunday.

A full sized outside sports grounds is available for exercise and games.

Privates may mail three cards a year, others more according to rank. Major Hankins, prisoner representative at the camp, told the Red Cross observer that Americans had received no mail since May 1942 but have received five replies to radiograms.

Senators Of Midwest Urge Pork "Holiday"

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — Congressional demands for a two-week suspension of pork rationing to relieve hog-glutted livestock markets were underscored today by a threat from midwestern senators to force that step by legislation, if it becomes necessary.

On the other hand, War Food administration (WFA) officials say that reduction of pork ration point values is aggravating the butter shortage since ration stamps are interchangeable between meats and butter and some consumers are using points formerly spent for pork to buy butter.

Patrol Ship Thought Sunk Off New Jersey

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 7 (AP) — A Navy patrol ship was believed sunk in the Atlantic ocean 60 miles southeast of Cape May, N. J., following a collision with a merchant ship, the fourth naval district announced today.

The two ships collided shortly before midnight last night and it is not known whether any of the crew members were lost or injured, a naval spokesman said.

Olton Mother Given Son's DFC Today In LAAF Graduation

Presentation of the Distinguished Flying Cross to Mrs. Beulah Hulsey of Olton, mother of T/Sgt. Dale G. Hulsey, missing in action, highlighted graduation ceremonies for the first 1944 class at Lubbock Army Air field this morning.

The DFC was presented Mrs Hulsey on behalf of the War department by Col. Ralph E. Holmes, commanding officer. The coveted DFC was won by Mrs. Hulsey's son during the famous Ploesti oil field raid and was awarded for the bravery and skill shown by Hulsey in completing his mission in the face of terrific ground and air attacks by the enemy. Mr. Hulsey was also present for the ceremonies.

Stormy weather and uncertainties of wartime travel were not enough to keep the post theater from being crowded to capacity in the graduation.

Other highlights of the graduation ceremonies included a special recognition for Robert N. Cyzmoure, from Milwaukee, Wis., who tied the highest academic mark ever made at LAAF. Maj. Gordon J. Mott, director of ground school pinned the wings on the honor student. The invocation was given by Chaplain Randall T. Miller, post chaplain and the oath of office was given to the class by Major Russell DeW. Shively, secretary.

Relatives and friends came from Seattle, Cleveland, Oklahoma City, Dayton, Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee, Peoria and many other points throughout the United States. Among the guests was a member of the General Staff Corps, Col. George W. Cutting from Washington, D. C., whose son was a member of the graduating class.

Investigation To Be Made Of Complaints

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — Acting on complaints that petroleum interests are retarding the development of blended gasoline utilizing grain and wood alcohols, Senator Gillette (D-Iowa) disclosed plans today for an exhaustive congressional investigation.

Gillette declared that preliminary inquiries by the agriculture subcommittee of which he is chairman indicated American petroleum companies belittled the alcohol blend in this country while "lauding its merits abroad."

before the Bug river line.)

Izvestia, reporting the Nazi defenses shattered on the whole Ukrainian battle arc, said the Red army was storming forward relentlessly, clearing one district after another.

In Disorderly Flight

The Germans were in disorderly flight at some points, their hard pressed commanders having lost control, and they were throwing away their arms and other equipment to facilitate their rout, the official newspaper said.

The magnitude of the German losses, particularly in armor, was becoming more apparent daily.

While extending his spearhead westward along the Rokitno-Warsaw railroad and broadening his salient into the west Ukraine, Vatutin developed his main drive in three prongs.

Cleaning Out Railroad

He was cleaning out the Berdichev-Shepetovka railroad, pushing southwestward in the direction of Vinnitsa and the Dniester, and closing the trap on the Germans along the west bank of the Dnieper in the Cherkasi area.

The Soviet press printed pictures showing long columns of prisoners trudging eastward through the snows, still lightly clad.

Dispatches cited statements on the utter rout of the elite panzer SS and Adolf Hitler divisions, some units suffering losses so high that only six and eight survivors remained from many armored companies.

To the north the Baltic front army of Gen. Ivan C. Bargramian was assaulting Novosokolniki, the junction of the Leningrad-Pelotsk and Moscow-Riga railroads.

Nevel Far Behind Line

Red Star said that Nevel, until recently within easy artillery range of the Germans, now was far behind the front line. The retreating Germans were reported leaving waste the country they yielded, burning all villages.

(German broadcasts and news dispatches indicated that further retreats were contemplated. The Nazi-controlled Scandinavian telegraph bureau quoted a German military spokesman as saying that the Nazi military command "does not intend to keep Russian territory occupied only for reasons of prestige. . . . If the Germans should be forced into total retreat from Russian soil, this would be a secondary question compared to whether the front had been broken along the entire line.")

In their first confirmed penetration of pre-war Poland, the Soviets advanced 18 miles west of Olevsk, seven miles east of the former border, and captured Rabitno, 11 miles west of the old frontier and only 260 miles from Warsaw.

based American planes made their third raid since Christmas on Kavieng, Japanese stronghold 150 miles northwest of Rabaul, and damaged heavily two destroyers with 1,000-pound bombs and torpedoes. Eight intercepting enemy fighters and a bomber were shot down against a loss of one American plane and damage to others.

Supplementing the raid on shipping, land-based Allied medium bombers made a night raid on Panapai airdrome, one mile from Kavieng, and nearby Kaselok plantation, starting fires.

American fighters from Bougainville continued their daily sweeps over Rabaul, shooting down 10 to 15 enemy aircraft out of a formation of 30. One American plane was lost.

Two Airdromes Hit

Medium bombers followed through at night with attacks, despite adverse weather, on Rapopo and Vunakanau airdromes near Rabaul and installations at Cape St. George, at the southern tip of adjacent New Ireland.

On the New Guinea front, Allied medium and heavy bombers dropped 243 tons of bombs on the Madang-Alexihsafen area of the north coast. Fires were started in supply dumps and bivouacs and guns were silenced.

At Sarang harbor, 30 miles north of Madang, a night air patrol sank a 1,500-ton Japanese supply ship.

Australian ground forces on New Guinea, pursuing the Japanese along the northern shore of the Huon peninsula, reached Kelanoa harbor, two miles north of Cape King William and 13 miles below the Japanese barge center of Sio, which American Sixth army troops were approaching from their Saidor beachhead to the northwest. The Americans reported patrol contact with the Japanese at Cape Iria.

Post-War Extension Of Poland Proposed

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The newspaper "Prefree Poland," published in Moscow, calls for post-war expansion of Poland westward at the expense of Germany, and warns the Poles that Russia won't give up the Polish territory which the Soviet occupied in 1939 when Hitler began his effort to conquer the world.

The Moscow dispatch which reports this development doesn't identify "Prefree Poland," but the publication may be associated with a Polish organization having the approval of the Soviet government. In any event, we are safe in assuming that the paper wouldn't be permitted to print such an article if it was disapproved by the Red authorities.

Paper Is Daring

"Prefree Poland" has been daring. The idea which it advances is sensational and, from some viewpoints, undoubtedly provocative. Still, it strikes me that publication of this bold suggestion may help ease the tense Russo-Polish situation and so brighten the councils of the Big Three—Russian, America and Britain.

Such a solution of the Polish imbroglio isn't, of course, a brand new thought. A lot of folk have been wondering quietly why Germany shouldn't be made to foot the bill, since she has been the cause of the world's greatest ills during the past generation of turmoil. Speculation along this line, however, has been restrained because of its inflammability.

Contented With Program

So far as my advices go, there are many people high in Allied circles who definitely would like to see Germany split up into its component states after the war. My guess is that Russia, for one, would be contented with such a program. It isn't a far reach from this to "Prefree Poland's" advocacy that some portion of the reich go to Poland.

After all, who weeps at the thought of Germany paying for some of her crimes?

Unless Moscow unexpectedly changes its position, Poland must look to the reich for territorial compensation.

No Use Mincing Words

What's the alternative to acceptance of Moscow's claim? There's no use mincing words: All the signs read that any effort to compel Russia to surrender the disputed area would precipitate another world war.

Russia points to her maps and history and says this territory must return to her because it's ethnologically White Russian and Ukranian.

It's easy to understand the heart burnings on both sides of this dispute. But despite hot words, no nation has yet come forward to say that it wants to take a hand in settling the issue with bombs and guns.

Walker Points To Solons' Job

WASHINGTON, Jan. 7 (AP) — Asserting that the Democratic party is going to "stand or fall on the job we do of winning the war and planning the peace," National Chairman Frank Walker called today for election of a Congress pledged to "support an international policy that means something."

In an interview outlining his views on the issues of the political campaign, Walker criticized the Republican leadership for what he described as its failure thus far to display any disposition toward agreeing with the Democrats on a post-war foreign program.

Walker, who has said he does not know whether President Roosevelt intends to seek a fourth term, declared he regarded the election of a Congress determined to avoid the mistakes of the Versailles treaty as equally important to the election of a president with the same views.

Congress Support Needed

"Whoever is president ought to have the support of Congress for an international program on which the country is agreed," he said, adding: "I say that as an American who is interested in the future of his nation and not as a politician."

Walker's suggestion for an agreement on foreign policy paralleled proposals from both Democratic and Republican sources that the political parties get together on an identical plank covering this issue. However, leading members of Congress said this might be impractical from a mechanical standpoint, if for no other reason, because only the party conventions, meeting at different times, will have the final decision on the question.

Welles Says Talk Of Candidacy Premature

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 7. (AP)—Orson Welles said here today that talk about his running for Congress is "a little premature." He didn't reveal who had talked about it.

The movie and radio celebrity, best remembered for his "man From Mars" broadcast, announced during an interview that he was definitely interested in politics. His wife, Rita Hayworth, listened silently.

He is chairman of a committee which is doing many things, such as seeking votes for soldiers, abolition of poll taxes and post-war cooperation, but stated "I'm not running for anything and won't belong to any party. I try to get ideas across to people."

Welles and Miss Hayworth are vacationing here.

Pilot Of Crippled Plane Saves Ship After Air Battle

TOROKINA AIRFIELD, BOUGAINVILLE, Jan. 1 (Delayed) (AP) —About all the "blessed event" had left when she limped away from Rabaul was her name and a grim will to live.

One engine of the big liberator had conked out, another was virtually useless. Her left rudder had been shot away, the landing gear blasted, the radio and electric systems disrupted and the instrument panel punctured.

But Lt. Harry P. John, Crowley, La., 140-pound pilot of the 40-ton ship, finally brought her down on the Torokina Airfield where she rasped along the landing mat and came to rest on the edge of the strip.

Eight of nine crew members were wounded, and the tenth man was dead.

Together, they had downed four Japanese planes and probably three more in a blazing 40-minute fight in their first mission over the enemy's New Britain stronghold.

Back-To-Church Order Issued German Troops

NEW YORK, Jan. 7. (AP)—Two German newspapers, echoing a new back-to-church order reportedly issued to the gestapo and storm troops, have told the German people that they may fall back on religion to find solace and bolster their morale, the Office of War Information said tonight.

The first indication of the changed Nazi attitude on this subject, the OWI said, came in a press dispatch from Sweden reporting that Gestapo Chief Heinrich Himmler and Gen. Wilhelm Schepmann, storm troop chief of staff, had instructed members of their organizations to attend Christmas church services.

"By your attendance, you will make the faithful believe national socialism can cooperate with the church and with religion," the order was quoted as saying.

Handful Of East Indians Who Escaped Japs Set Up School In Australia For Training

BY JACK O'BRIAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 7—The handful of Dutch East Indies citizens who escaped ahead of the Japanese invasion in March, 1942, have assumed a tactical importance far beyond their numerical limitations.

They have set up in Australia a civil service school. The men being trained—both white Dutch and Indonesian residents of the Netherland East Indies — know their way about the islands. They have an irreplaceable understanding of psychological problems facing any invasion force in the area, as well as first-hand knowledge of physical obstacles. Trained in languages, dialects and district affairs, they will be guides, interpreters, mouthpieces for propaganda and information as the island-to-island hopscotch to Tokyo progresses.

Escaped By An Hour

The story of the islanders' attainments was brought to New York by Lt. Comdr. Hugo Van Berestein. He escaped the Japanese by an hour, but was forced to leave his wife and family behind.

He didn't want to leave, but military necessity and a briefcase full of secret Dutch documents made it imperative.

When the Japanese took over, all white civil servants were imprisoned. Indonesian civil servants continued in their jobs, but under heavy surveillance.

Quickly, the Allied strategy saw the importance of setting up a civil service school in Australia. There is no discrimination or color line, Cmdr. Berestein emphasizes. He points out that the people's council of the Indies was predominantly Indonesian and that the director of education, Loekman Djajadiningrat, now in New York City, is a native.

Some Underground Workers

Some of the students were Dutch underground workers who escaped from Holland to England and then went to Australia. Others were veterans of Holland's "five day war" in 1940.

While the importance of the civil servants is paramount, other Dutch have not been resting in the South Pacific.

The Dutch merchant marine carries supplies to MacArthur. Remnants of the land and sea forces were placed under Allied operational command. The Dutch army air arm lost all its planes in the battle of Java but was given B-25's and immediately went back into action.

The American air transport command has a number of Dutch crews and pilots, and their familiarity with the region has been highly important.

"Our men were trained and directed in a fashion much the same as the British and American forces," he reports. "There has not been the slightest friction. Our only argument is with the enemy."

INTERCHANGE OF PEOPLE

MELBOURNE, Jan. 7 (AP) — Urging "a free interchange of people" to enable Australia and the United States to become better acquainted, Sir Keith Murdoch, of the Australian-American cooperation movement, today described as "a great tragedy Australia's failure to interest Wendell Willkie in a visit there."
