DEATH CLAIMS TEXAS 'DRY' LEADER

City Council Slashes Rental Price Of Auditorium

Al Smith Not To Attend Democratic Gathering, He Says

ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 16. (UP)—Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, said today he would not attend the national convention in Houston, Texas, next June.

Smith said his decision not to attend was final and he would not change his mind.

"No," he said when someone suggested he might alter his decision, "I mean that I will not attend."

Spith conferred with Judge Frank Carter and Judge Thomas Jones of Asheville, today. Both men are ardent Smith leaders in the state.

$125 CHARGE APPROVED FOR CONCERTS HERE

Sliding Scale Adopted On Rental of New Auditorium

BUDGET CUT $200,000

Contract For Audit Of City Books Given Smith-Allred

A sliding scale of rental prices for the municipal auditorium was adopted by the city council at its meeting in the auditorium Monday night. Free use of the auditorium for conventions for the good of the city is provided.

The budget estimates by heads of city departments, which totaled $978,213.31, were presented by the mayor to the council in revamped form with a total of only $770,377.50 remaining in the budget. The mayor said that this is still above $761,678,000 which the city is expected to pay in taxes this year. No action was taken on the budget as the new amendments to the charter, which amendments have been approved by the secretary of state at Austin, provide that the city manager make the recommendations. The city will operate on emergency appropriations by the council until a manager is named.

Custodian Provided

The ordinance providing for the scale of prices for the auditorium was presented unexpectedly, and provides that the mayor shall name a custodian of the building and that the custodian shall be given complete authority to rent in accordance with the scale adopted.

Grand opera prices were set at $250 a night under this schedule. Road Shows and stock companies will have to pay $350 a night. Shows presented here by a local person shall have to pay $175 a night and concerts for benefit purposes will cost only $125 a night. Home talent plays will have to pay $100. Cooking schools sponsored by newspapers will cost $75 for the first day and $50 for each succeeding day. Conventions are free. Matinees are half price. The former auditorium price was $250 and up.

Many salaries are cut in the tentative budget which was presented by the mayor and much equipment and repairs which had been asked was cut off. Provision was made that firemen who now receive $105 will be paid $120. Otherwise the fire and police departments generally stand as at present. Some heads of departments were listed for cuts as high as $50 a month.

The $518,000 script debt of the city came in for discussion when Alderman Patton introduced C. A. Wheeler, former member of the attorney general's department at Austin. Mr. Wheeler said he would be glad to go over the present outstanding warrants and notes with a view to making recommendations on their refunding in one bond issue which probably would be at a lower rate of interest and would relieve the city of its floating debt. He also said he believed there was a way by which the warrants now in litigation could be refinanced and thus do away with the litigation.

Handbills Scored

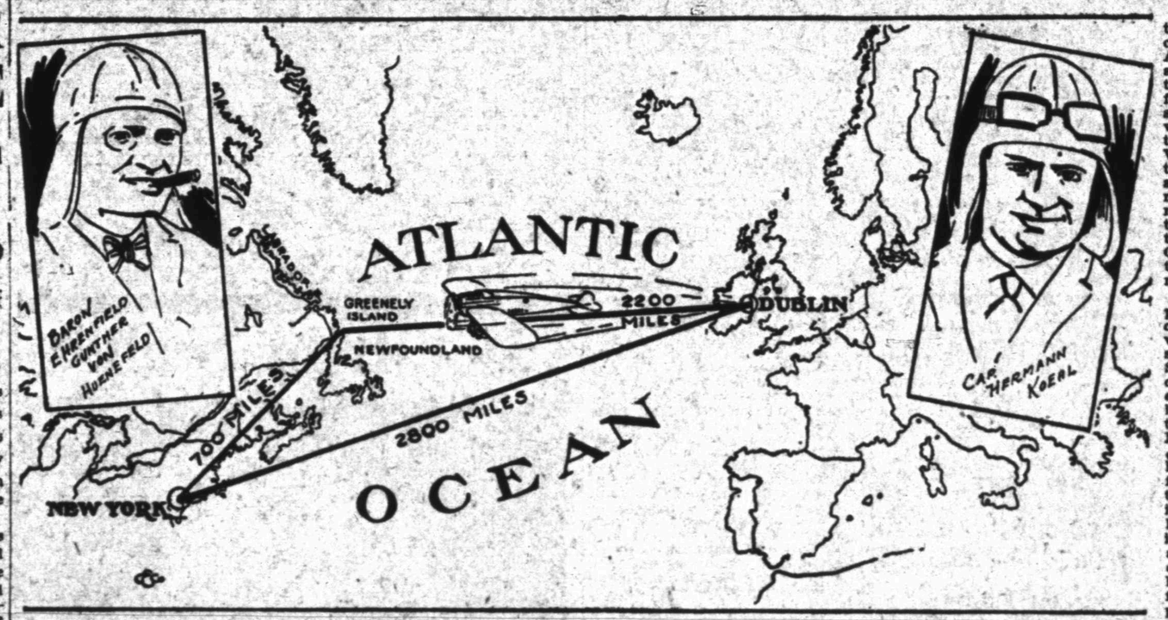

An ordinance transferring the sewer department to the water department at once was passed on an emergency reading so that work could be started on the collection of past due sewerage assessments.

This ordinance also provides that all back sewer rental must be paid day of June or the sewer and water connections will both be cut off and will not be reconnected until all charges, including the charge of connecting and disconnecting have been paid.

Throwing handbills in automobiles, hanging tags on the doors of cars and such similar practices were attacked, and the city attorney was requested to draw up an amendment to a present ordinance on littering and throwing away such things, so that it will be

Westward, Ho! And How it Was Done by Three Brave Men

Map shows the route taken by the Bremen fliers in the first successful effort to span the North Atlantic ocean in a heavier than air machine. The insets show the two German occupants of the now famous Junkers plane which is stranded on Greenly island but which will take off for New York, the original destination, on Wednesday according to plans of the aviators as announced through a message to New York Monday night. Commandant James Fitzmaurice, the Irish co-pilot of the transatlantic craft, departed from the snowbound isle yesterday in a Canadian rescue plane, landing in the province of Quebec, on the mainland.

The flight is believed to have explained in a large measure the causes of previous failures of fliers who attempted to cross the stormy spaces of the North Atlantic. Strong headwinds, causing an uncalculated use of fuel by the Bremen fliers, finally forced them to land on the little island, far from their projected goal, Mitchel field, New York.

Faced with immediate fuel exhaustion, the fliers began to look for a landing place as they neared the American continent. In a blinding snowstorm they sighted the lighthouse beacon on tiny Greenly isle, mistaking it for the light of a fishing ship. Descending they discovered that they were over land, and made the landing on a frozen lake, hardly more than a pond.

HARPER KIRBY DIES SUDDENLY AT CAPITAL

End Comes Immediately After Conference With Governor

HEART DISEASE

Prominent Member Of "Constitutional" Group In Bad Health

AUSTIN, April 16. (AP)—R. Harper Kirby, 67, retired capitalist and chairman of the Texas "constitutional democrats," gave his life today for rigid prohibition—the cause he had espoused through life.

Five minutes after completing a long conference with Governor Dan Moody, head of the "harmony democrats," in which the two chieftains sought to cement the party in Texas and iron out differences, Mr. Kirby died in his home near the capitol.

The fallen leader left the governor's office briskly. Apparently forgetting his waiting automobile, he walked to his home, seated himself on a sofa and slumped. Physicians' efforts to revive him were futile. Death was attributed to heart failure.

Given Warning

Mr. Kirby's physicians had advised him to cease his efforts as director of the organization, warning him that a weak heart, overtaxed, might be fatal. "Mr. Kirby, however believed he could carry on," former Attorney General W. A. Keeling, one of the dead man's closest friends, said.

Kirby once offered his resignation, explaining that trips to Dallas, where the "constitutional" headquarters is located, were too strenuous. He kept the post with the understanding that activities would be directed from Austin.

His bags already had been packed preparatory to a trip to the Mayo sanitarium, where he was to have been treated.

Led by Mr. Kirby, the "constitutional" faction insisted that Al Smith, Reed, Ritchie or any man they deem "wet" should not be the democratic presidential nominee.

His followers propose a delegation to the convention instructed against such candidates.

Governor Moody's group, while bespeaking opposition to Smith, would have the delegation instructed for prohibition but not against any individual.

Made Donations

Kirby was born in Hempstead, Texas, March 20, 1861. He was educated in Texas military institute, Austin; Eastman Business college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; Vanderbilt university and Texas university. He married Annie E. McAshan, Houston, and engaged in various businesses, including land, farming, cattle, city property, timber and oil. He was a member of the board of directors of the American endowment fund for the Texas American legion; chairman of the men and religion forward movement; state chairman of the statewide prohibition campaign in Texas during 1919 when he traveled 58,000 miles, mainly in an automobile, and spent more than $100,000. He was donor of about $2,000,000 to religious, charitable and educational enterprises. Among recipients were the Harper and Annie Kirby Theological building, Southern Methodist university of Dallas.

Mr. Kirby was a Methodist.

'DRUNK ONCE,' OFFICER SAYS

Pryor Tells of Armistice Celebration in Paris

"I was drunk only once in my life."

This simple statement was the denial made by Ed Pryor, Electra constable, testifying in his own behalf in the county court at law Monday afternoon. Mr. Pryor, indicted by the grand jury on three misdemeanor charges of drunkenness in office, went on trial Monday morning. The charges are denied by Mr. Pryor.

Armistice Episode

Following Mr. Pryor's testimony the case, with all evidence in, was continued until Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock, when Judge C. M. McFarland will instruct the jury.

Immediately following the signing of the armistice ending the World war, Mr. Pryor testified he and a number of companions, serving with the American army in France, celebrated the war's end with a party in Paris. This occasion, the Electra constable told the jury, was the one time in his life he had been drunk.

On other occasions, he admitted, under examination, he had taken a drink when duties had kept him up for many hours and his nerves were shattered from lack of sleep. Never, he testified, had he taken a drink of intoxicants while in public office.

Character Witness

Judge E. C. Wilson, justice of the peace at Electra, testified that he had known Mr. Pryor for a number of years and that during this time he had not known Mr. Pryor to take a drink of liquor or show symptoms of drunkenness.

C. H. Honneycutt and Walter Suttles were witnesses for the prosecution.

CAL TELLS OF TRADE DANGER

President Addresses D. A. R. Convention

WASHINGTON, April 16. (US)—President Coolidge tonight advised the American people to get back to state's rights, to keep the government out of private business and to resist the steady trend toward the establishment of bureaucratic government in Washington.

His declarations in these policies were contained in a speech made by him to the national convention of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Government was established in this country, he said, through the suffering of patriots who believed that the people were competent to run their own public affairs.

Spirit Lapses

But there has been a dangerous lapse from the old spirit of individual liberty, he insisted, with the result that Washington is becoming littered with boards and commissions vested with arbitrary authority to regulate the habits and property of the people throughout the nation.

The people, therefore, must throw off their indolence, he declared, and not surrender their local self-government to Washington every time they have a complaint to make or when things are going temporarily wrong.

Government in Business

He asserted that the "domain of private business" should not be entered by the government. Monopolies must be restrained by government regulation, he conceded. But when the government goes into business on a large scale, it is beset by politicians anxious to hand out jobs and contracts to favored friends and by selfish private interests who would have the government ventures managed for their private profit, he continued.

The girl and the pilot were in the cockpit when they left. Her brother had attempted to enter the cockpit but she cried:

"Go into the cabin."

He did.

Her mission was to take spare parts to her countrymen, Baron von Huenefeld and Captain Koehl, and to even give them the propeller from her own ship if that is necessary and possible.

Reports that Commander Fitzmaurice, the third member of the Atlantic crew, had flown from Greenly island today thrilled New York. He set out for Quebec to go from there to New York.

Welcome Plans.

Preparations went forward today to give the three fliers a rousing welcome when they reach here. Representative leaders of German-American activities joined the city officials in making plans for the reception.

They expect to make the greeting one of the most enthusiastic ever accorded to air heroes. Fifteen loud speakers will be installed around the city hall to enable a crowd of 50,000 to hear the speeches.

Dance Hall Owner Hinted As One Responsible for Tragic Blast

WEST PLAINS, Mo., April 16. (UP).—The theory that J. W. Wiser, owner of the garage in which the disastrous town dance was held Friday night, may have been responsible, either intentionally or accidentally, for the holocaust which claimed 39 lives, was the theme of an investigation which a coroner's jury started late today.

Possible motives were being investigated by Prosecuting Attorney H. D. Green, Jr., in connection with the mysterious explosion. It has been rumored that Wiser was in financial straits. It also was reported that Wiser, a Pentecostal minister and devout church member, had expressed opposition to dancing.

The theory propounded by some that nitro-glycerine might have been responsible for the blast was given little credence by Coroner T. R. Burns and members of his jury.

Coroner Burns said he believed Wiser went to his garage, opened the door and struck a match, either for the purpose of finding his way to the electric light switch or intentionally to destroy the building. Wiser's body was found about 20 feet from the wrecked building.

Italia Equal to Any Task, Says Gen. Nobile After Perilous Flight

STOLP, Germany, April 16. (AP)—General Umberto Nobile, who brought his dirigible Italia through heavy weather from Milan to the Seddin airdrome in a perilous 30-hour flight, sprang the first surprise of his brief stay at Stolp by quietly stealing away from the hotel to the airdrome this morning when everybody supposed he was sleeping. Meeting the Italian mechanics, who preceded him a fortnight ago, he instructed them to repair the damage to the left stabilizer, which was slight, and also to overhaul the engines.

Returning to his hotel, he rested for a few hours and emerged in buoyant mood, now that the first actual step on his antarctic expedition has been taken.

"Yesterday's perilous flight," he said, "showed that the Italia is equal to any occasion. At times a head wind blew at 90 kilometres an hour. As the Italia only makes 100 kilometres an hour we could negotiate only ten kilometres hourly for part of our journey."

The Record News Staff

The damage from frost is always the worst the next morning. A few days of good weather will make a big difference in the looks of the crops. Where the cold was severe enough to kill the peaches and other fruit, there is no comeback. A good percentage of the early planting of the potatoes were frozen down to the ground. The later plantings did not suffer so greatly and the damage will soon grow out. It will reduce the yield considerably, but with a favorable season from now on the potato crop will not be an entire loss by any means. There has been quite an acreage planted in the last three weeks, which had not as yet come through. While these are going to be very late, yet with a favorable season they will make some crop.

There is nothing that can be done for the fields. New foliage will be grown in a few days and the plant will recover. For the balance of the season, however, the crop should be kept growing all the time. Sufficient moisture must be provided that plants may not have to suffer a day for they are going to need every day between now and harvest.

SHOULD KNOW LOVER'S PAST

Infatuated Girls Deaf To Reason, However

Should a Girl's Friend Tell Her of Her Fiance's Dark Past?—The Sordid Business of Postponing Happiness Until Death of Wealthy Relation—Old Story of an Aged Man and His Grafting Relatives

Dear Dorothy Dix: A young man is soon to be married to a splendid girl who is a great friend of mine. This young man has not lived a clean life and there are things in his past that are bound to act disastrously upon the woman he marries. He has not told her and I am wondering if I should not tell her. My only object is to save her unhappiness, as I am myself soon to be married to the dearest girl in the world. What should I do?—BOBBY.

Answer: It seems to me that it is your duty to tell the girl what you know about the man she is to marry. Possibly it may do no good, because a girl who is in love is generally deaf to reason, but you will have given her a chance to save herself, and at least you will have washed your hands of your responsibility in the matter.

When a man and woman are married, it is a wrong and cruel thing for any one to shatter their faith in each other by revealing any wrong thing that either one is doing or has done. It does no good to tell a man of some misstep his wife has made in her youth and of which he is in ignorance, or even that she is flirtatious, or that she is indiscreet and makes eyes at other men and goes joy-riding when his back is turned. Nor does it bring a woman anything but a broken heart for some unkind friend to tell her that the husband she loves and trusts is unfaithful to her.

There is nothing that the husband and wife can do about it except to be humiliated by the bitter knowledge and to be made jealous and miserable over it. The good husband can not make his flighty wife staid and respectable. The good wife can not stop her wandering husband from philandering with other women.

So the friends of married couples should hold their peace when they know something that would disrupt a home and destroy a husband's and wife's confidence in each other. But before a couple are married it is a very different matter, and then it becomes a crime for those who know some just cause why this couple should not be joined together in the bonds of holy wedlock, as the marriage service says, to remain silent.

If we saw a friend blundering out on a bridge that we knew was rotten and would break under his weight, we would shout warnings to him until we were hoarse. If we saw a friend about to plunge over a precipice to a horrible death, we would risk our own lives to save him, and we would consider ourselves cowards and morally guilty of murder if we let him go to meet a terrible fate without our having raised a hand to try to prevent it.

To make an unhappy marriage is a far worse calamity than to die, for the agony that the marriage brings endures for years, while the sufferings of death are but for an instant. Yet we will let our friends wreck their lives by making marriages that we know can bring them nothing but misery without lifting our voices in protest.

Many a girl marries a man who is a drunkard, or a gambler, or a criminal, or who is diseased, without knowing it. Many a man marries a girl with a dark past, or who has the curse of some hereditary disease in her veins, without knowing it, when each had friends who could have warned them before they took the fatal step.

Of course, the infatuated lovers may not listen. Generally they don't, and hate the one who told them the thing they didn't want to know, but at any rate he who has tried to save them has shrived his own conscience.—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix: I am a young girl and have been married almost a year, but my husband and I do not live together, although we love each other dearly. The reason is that I have a relative who is quite wealthy and from whom I have expectations. I married a man of a different faith than hers, and if she knew that I married without her consent she would disinherit me. My mother is afraid that she would disinherit her also, and she keeps me and my husband apart.

By next fall we shall have enough to start our own home and live very comfortably. Would you advise me to wait until this relative dies or be happy on our own initiative?

Answer: I should certainly advise you and your husband to have enough spunk and backbone to announce your marriage right away and set up your own home, no matter how humble it is.

It is ill-waiting for a dead woman's shoes for many reasons. One, because they are a long time coming. People that you wait for to die seem to be endowed with as many lives as a cat and live on, and on, and on, and on.

By the time this woman dies you and your husband may be middle-aged people yourselves and you will have wasted all of the sweetness and freshness of your youth. You will have missed all the glamour of young love, and in the unnatural relationship which exists between you will almost certainly cause you to quarrel and drift apart.

Another reason why it is ill-waiting for a dead woman's shoes is because you are so apt not to get them in the end. I have known dozens of people who danced attention for 20 or 30 years on a crotchety, whimsical old woman; who put up with her moods and insults and abuses; who were veritable slaves to her and never dared called their souls their own, and then in the end, when they expected to be repaid, when the will was read it was found that she had left her fortune to build a home for senile tomcats or disabled canary birds.

You certainly will be making a foolish gamble if you stake your life's happiness on the chances of what a notionate old woman is going to leave you when she dies.

And the third reason why it is ill-waiting for a dead woman's shoes is because nothing else is so utterly demoralising to one's character. Every minute of the time murder will be in your heart because you are wishing that she would die and leave you free to go to your husband. It will make a liar and a hypocrite of you, because you will have to flatter and cajole her and hide from her your secret.

So I earnestly advise you to have the courage and independence to defy your relative and live your own life. You and your husband are young. Go to work and honestly earn your money. Don't wait for an old woman to give it to you. You will be a thousand times better off standing on your own feet than yo uwill depending on her, and you will be happier. For, take it from me, my child, if you put your husband off until your relative dies you will lose him. No man who is worth having would stand for that sort of treatment.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am an old man over 70. A year ago I was nicely situated in a good hotel and had rented my home out for $200 a month. Perhaps I felt under obligations to some relatives by marriage for some nice Sunday dinners. Anyway, they came to me in a panic when they were ordered out of their apartment and told me that if I would let them go into my house they would make me a nice home with home cooking and care. In a moment of weakness I fell.

But now that I am with them I get nothing, no food, no care, no decent place to live, and I have the annoyance of the worst child I ever saw. The house is bedlam. What shall I do? E. Q. B.

Answer:

Tell your troubles to the police and get them to evict your grafting relatives so that you can rent your house out again and go back to your hotel. Your experience is that of 99 old people out of a hundred who undertake to live with their kinfolks. They are all promises and no performances.

DOROTHY DIX.

MODISH MITZI — MITZI PREPARES FOR MARIE'S VISIT — BY JAY V. JAY

Mitzi can't be disturbed. No, indeed. She's working. Dad says that is just one time when no one should ever interrupt her because it is such a rare occurrence. Mitzi has put on a flowered cotton dress with an apron to match—such a nice idea—and is fixing the guest room for her niece, Marie.

Mitzi must select suitable bedside literature for 15-year-old Marie. Oh, yes, she has changed her dress to do it. Who wouldn't, who possessed a flowered dotted swiss with green organdie fichu collar. It's a dress that almost convinces Mitzi that a domestic life would be agreeable—for a change.

It's too bad that the phone has been ringing so madly all the time that she has been fixing Marie's room—but she is too busy to answer it. She was almost too busy to change into this printed pique dress with the wide revers. Mitzi is, on the whole, pleased with her handiwork and her reflection in the mirror.

The Goofer says he's been trying to get her all morning. She's been busy, she tells him. (Busy changing into four dresses, the last a printed linen with organdie insets.) He has some plans for entertaining Marie. Does she want to hear them? Oh, yes, she has time for that!

"Every last button in its place when washed with the NEW Maytag"

ALONG with several other features of convenience, this latest Maytag incorporates a new method of soap and water removal—the safest, gentlest, but most efficient method ever devised.

The top roll of the wringer is made of compensating rubber. This soft roll with large working surface rides on the firm bottom roll much like a balloon tire hugs the pavement. Instead of riding on the high spots, it penetrates every fold of the clothes the full length of the wringer. Everything is wrung thoroughly yet so gently that the most delicate buttons or filmy lace go through unharmed, and without pressing in hard-to-remove wrinkles. There is also a new safety feed—an exclusive Maytag feature. This new Roller Water Remover is exclusively owned and controlled by Maytag.

Try a Maytag on your next washing. Experience the joy of complete freedom from hand-rubbing, of a cast-aluminum tub that keeps the water hot throughout a big washing, that cleans itself and empties itself. An average washing only takes an hour with a Maytag.

Ramblin'
Marie Theresa

WOMEN stopping to catch a careful glimpse of the summery dresses displayed in the downtown windows . . . a minute of conversation with the lady who can't decide whether the returning sunshiney days are making her drive recklessly or whether everybody else is reckless . . . kiddies with dimpled knees uncovered as if it were already summer . . . little girl using the elevator at Perkins-Timberlake for a car . . . shoe clerk in one of the downtown stores wearing a foolish looking miniature cap over one ear . . . a hurriedly withdrawn glimpse from the corner where is displayed a hat and parasol set of matching floral design—people sipping cokes again after two or three days of layoff—that was a few minutes of sightseeing about the streets of Wichita Falls, Monday.

REV. S. S. McKENNEY, pastor of the First Methodist church, South, devoted the church hour Sunday morning to the discussion of the merits of the Order of the Rainbow. He pointed out that there are still pots of gold to be found at the end of the rainbow, if only we become as children again and look for 'em.

He seems to have the correct idea of the organization and the type of young girls that are interested in the work of the order. The minds of the young have to be filled with something that is both tangible and elevating. When the girls are taught the significance of the ritual of the Order of the Rainbow, it means that those members will become straight thinking little individuals who have seen the gleam and are ready to follow it in the search for that pot of gold.

MARIE THERESA found another old-fashioned person—he is the man who when asked for a pin, turns back the lapel of his coat, and voila, your needs are gratified. That's not a bad idea, after all—it supplies an excuse for those coat lapels.

THE spring bride need not worry about an opportunity to express her individuality in color. The large number of wedding announcements that have reached this department, sent Marie Theresa to the downtown shops to learn the nature of the household essentials from which the Wichita Falls spring bride may make her choice.

And what a choice there is! And the bright colors! Gone is the day when pure white was the only correct color. Now everything from bed linens to kitchen utensils radiate a splash of color. Not to mention bathroom linens and mats, for nawadays with a wide range of bathroom colors accepted, the natural trend is that towels, mats, and even soap, match the color scheme of the ensemble. Lavendar is a favorite among colors for bathrooms and all the downtown department stores are showing a deluge of this color among others equally new and dashing.

But the kitchen is coming in for the largest amount of variation. You may have your mixing bowls in bright vermilion, bright green, bright blue, or any other color, so long as it will keep the housewife cheerful and peppy while she is at her everyday tasks.

The pure white bed linens have lost some of their honors and are now sharing their laurels with linens in all the pastel shades, fashioned to preserve the single color idea carried out in the greater number of bedrooms.

Betty Ann Montgomery makes a queer mistake—she likes to go to Sunday school because she thinks it is a picnic. And she makes another mistake, common to all children about three years old. She opens a book any old place and reads—and everybody knows there is something wrong with that item of narration.

She is an only child and her mother says she is ordinary—just like any other child, but that is difficult to believe—this department believes it is being "strung along" a little. Anyway, the picture above is being displayed for the purpose of letting you make your own decision as to her correct place in life.

Camp Fire Sparks

At the luncheon held at Camp Fire headquarters Tuesday the following officers were elected: President, Rex Watland; first vice president, Mrs. Oral Jones; second vice president, Dr. V. E. Wratten; treasurer, Marvin Smith; secretary, Miss Mary McIlheran. Directors for a two-year term are John W. Bradley, Julian Bobo, H. D. Wolff, Mrs. Arch Dawson and Mrs. M. H. Glover. Directors for a one-year term are Dr. J. W. Cantwell, Miss Ida Moore, Dave Henry and Mrs. R. H. Graham. New members elected to the council were Morris Zale, Jack Barnard, T. A. Bradley, Mrs. E. F. Riley, Dr. James Powers, Frank Creighton, Mrs. A. H. Carrigan, Judge R. O. Kenley, Bert King, J. C. Hunt, W. A. Franklin, Mrs. Paul Colvert, Mrs. G. B. Smedley, Mrs. Charles Daniels, Harry Hines and Mrs. Wenonah Roach Ware. The executive board, consisting of the officers of the council and 10 directors, meets annually. The other members meet with the executive board once a year, but are invited to attend any and all of the board meetings they desire. An outing will be held the latter part of this month, probably the 23rd, for all members of the council, their wives, husbands or friends, as the case may be, and all the guardians' association. Definite plans will be announced soon.

Julian Bobo, who has served as a member of the council ever since its organization and as president for the past year, gave a short talk expressing his pleasure at being so closely affiliated with an organization that is doing the work for the girl that Camp Fire is.

"One of our dreams for Camp Fire has been realized in the past year in the new headquarters and the beautiful cabinets which furnish an ideal home for the organization," he said. "Although the cases are not entirely paid for, as yet, we know that will come and they have already paid for themselves in value as Miss McIlheran and Mrs. Bartholomew can tell you how many people, not only in Wichita Falls, but from other parts of the country, are learning of Camp Fire for the first time, through the splendid exhibits in our cases. Visitors who come to the auditorium are impressed with the work being done by the Camp Fire Girls. It will be my pleasure to continue to work with Camp Fire and to see it growing in its work." Mr. Bobo urged that the members of the council support the new president, and assured them that Rex Watland would do his part. Mr. Watland was out of the city and could not attend the luncheon.

Members of the council were urged to attend the council fire to be held Sunday afternoon at the Weeks golf course at 3:30 and to bring someone with them.

Mrs. R. E. Davis, president of the Guardians' association gave a report of the year's work of the association. The financing of Edith Crump's trip to the national training course at Colorado last August was one of the accomplishments of the association.

Mr. Shepherd moved that the members give a rising vote of thanks to the guardians who prepared and served the luncheon and said that so long as Camp Fire produced such splendid cooks he was for them.

Those attending the luncheon were: Julian Bobo, Dr. V. E. Wratten, Mrs. Arch Dawson, Miss Ida Moore, R. E. Sehpherd, Dr. Nat Grafton, Mrs. R. E. Davis, H. D. Wolff, and Miss McIlheran.

Settlement Recommended by Kenley In Dispute Over Kerr Audit

The Lone Star Road and Machinery company of Dallas and the Austin Bridge company were successful bidders in two contracts, covering expenditure of $3795, awarded Monday by the commissioners court. A number of monthly and quarterly reports also were received by the commissioners.

The tentative report of R. O. Kenley, retained by the county commissioners as attorney to advise them as to the proper course of action to be taken in the Kerr audit controversy, was received.

Mr. Kenley, in a letter to the commissioners, declared that he, after several weeks of study, had been unable to find reason why extensive litigation should be necessary to settle the accounts. Next Monday, Mr. Kenley's report advised the commissioners, he expects to make recommendations which will lead to final disposition of the matter.

The Lone Star Road and Machinery company, with a bid of $1495, was awarded the contract for furnishing a grader to be used in precinct No. 2. Contract for power maintenance in precinct No. due.

went to the Austin Bridge company, whose bid was $2300.

Monthly reports of Auditor E. P. Walsh, Justice of the Peace R. V. Gwinn, Justice of the Peace O. L. Gibbs and District Clerk Eunice Jackson, all for March, were received by the commissioners court. Quarterly reports also were received from Judge Gibbs and Miss Jackson.

Wayne Somerville, county attorney, was authorized by the commissioners to attend the court of criminal appeals at Austin next week.

County Auditor Walsh was directed by the commissioners to advertise for bids for gravelling one mile of the Stringtown road, beginning at the Kriss Schnocker road. Bids are to be opened on May 14.

The commissioners also transferred $4000 from the hospital maintenance fund to the Wichita General hospital. The money is to be used in payment of bills now due.

"NEW" TREES

Juniperus Phoenicea In Bunnenberg's Office

C. C. Bunnenberg is raising trees in his office in the municipal auditorium.

Two "Juniperus Phoenicea," gathered in the Balearic islands by David Fairchild for the United States department of agriculture, office of foreign seed and plant introduction, are happy in their new home in Wichita Falls.

The trees were sent here from the departmental office at Chico, Calif., for experimental purposes, as they are recommended for growth in dry and stony soils in the southwestern part of the United States.

Juniper trees have long been known, but this particular species is something new to Wichita Falls. Each of the trees is in a flower pot and each tree is less than a foot high. Mr. Bunnenberg said the trees were about a year old.

A Great Oil Producing Country

VENEZUELA is said to be the coming petroleum producing country. J. Edgar Pew, president of two or three big oil companies, has returned from South America. His companies have large concessions under South American skies. He thinks highly of Venezuela as a petroleum producing country. Indeed, in 1927 the South American republic occupied fourth place in oil producing nations.

Its production in 1926 was 35,000,000 barrels; its production for 1927 was 64,000,000 barrels and the estimated production for 1928 is 110,000,000 barrels. Oil King Pew predicts the production of Venezuela, when finally developed, will run into billions of barrels.

This, he says, is the confident prediction of men who are closest in touch with the situation. All the big American companies are working the field, all the big European companies, including the Dutch Shell, are heavily interested. Last year the Standard Oil company invaded Venezuela. Its guiding heads have invested millions of dollars in Venezuela oil fields and this is only the beginning of its operations and investments.

It may be interesting to remind the readers that petroleum is on the free list. Texas is the greatest petroleum producing state. Its independents and its wildcatters have as rivals the American producers of petroleum in Mexico and other Latin-American countries. If protection is a good thing for some Americans, why not for all Americans?

Total production of oil in the world for 1926 was 1,224,915,000 barrels. Of this amount the United States produced 75 per cent, Mexico 5.15 per cent, Russia 5 per cent and Venezuela a little less than 5 per cent.

According to the president of the Beacon Sun Oil company, 15 other countries, including Persia, Roumania, Dutch East India, Colombia, and Peru, produced the major part of the balance. If in coming years Venezuela fields produce billions of barrels of oil, why should the motorist of America indulge in sleepless nights?

Jesse Holman Jones

JESSE HOLMAN JONES was responsible for the coming of the national convention of the Democratic party to Texas. Jesse Holman Jones was eulogized at a great banquet given in his honor by the citizens of Dallas and many Democratic leaders of Texas. His check book and his influence spoke when money and eloquence were necessary and the gathering of Democrats of the nation voted to come to Texas in the coming month of June. This for the first time in 75 years that a national convention of the party has been held on Southern soil. Maryland is not a Southern state, although it was an old slave state. In the great contest of the sword in the long ago, Maryland was divided. Thousands stood for the flag of the Planters' republic, while other thousands stood for a union of states and the cause of the north.

Jesse H. Jones has been a Texan for more than 30 years. He came from Tennessee to Texas. The banquet in his honor was a great day for Tennessee as well as a great day for Jesse Holman Jones. Were it not for Tennesseeans, or if the names of Tennessee pioneers who were statesmen and warriors were omitted, the history of Texas of the long ago would be almost a blank. Col. Jones was dined but not wined by his admirers and toasted and praised and glorified.

Texas has been kind to Col. Jones. He is many times a millionaire. He owns a great newspaper. He has large investments in many of the leading Texas cities. He has large investments in the city of New York. He is widely known. He is high in the councils of his party. He will be the chief of the hosts to the Democratic multitudes in June.

He is for a delegation uninstructed for or against any man; he is for a delegation instructed as to principles; he is for peace and harmony in Democratic ranks and for a united democracy after the convention to rescue the federal government from the hands of spoilers who have blackened the pages of their country's history in recent years.

This is the verdict of his friends and admirers, this is the verdict of former Tennesseeans and sons of Tennesseeans who made the Dallas banquet a notable event of the year.

Temple Votes Big Bond Issue

TEMPLE is an enterprising Texas city. Temple is a trade center. Temple is building two modern hotels. Temple is in the heart of a rich farming country. Temple voters put over a bond issue of $350,000 for paved streets and public parks and playgrounds. They didn't hesitate or stammer about it. They gave the proposition a big majority. "Bond issues for public improvements" is the only way for a city to move upward and onward. This is the record of all Texas cities and towns that are on the map, and it will be the record of all cities and towns in the future that hope to be on the map and then remain on the map.

Is Hoover Color Blind?

TWO Southern senators are on the war path. They are out for the scalp of Herbert Hoover. Blease of South Carolina is one; Stephens of Mississippi is another. They say that the secretary of commerce forces white men and women clerks to sit side by side with negro men and women clerks. They demand to know the reason why. Hoover says "many glaring untruths have been told about the matter." Blease and Stephens call for a direct denial to the charge. And away down here in Texas Gooseneck William McDonald of Fort Worth, leader of the shady section of the Republican party, advises his black battalions to attend the May precinct primaries and instruct their delegates to vote for the effacement of Boss Creager.

It Happened in Kansas

KANSAS is ever on the map. A damage case that started in a district court at Manhatten with 12 jurors in the morning resulted in only 11 jurors appearing in their seats at the afternoon session. Where was the twelfth? In jail charged with drunkenness. He came from the country, he was thirsty, he found moisture somewhere, he imbibed it and won a place in the headlines. There are queer people in Kansas. There are queer people everywhere for that matter, but they do not break into jail from the jury box.

What Fess Says

SENATOR FESS of Ohio predicts that President Coolidge will veto the McNary-Haugen bill. Senator Fess is said to have the ear of the president. No man is accused of having the tongue of the president. It goes without saying that the president is opposed to the equalization fee of the measure. He vetoed the first McNary-Haugen bill sent to him. Why shouldn't he veto the second?

GOOD ROADS FOR A RETURN TO POSTAL SANITY

The house's unanimous vote in passing the postal rates revision bill Monday is sufficiently obvious recognition of the bungling which set the present rates so high that they decreased rather than increased revenue. The bill, which is the first postal rate reduction measure ever passed by the house, restores the 1921 schedule of charges and creates several new services calculated to attract business use of the mails.

"CANARY" MURDER CASE

© Charles Scribner's Sons

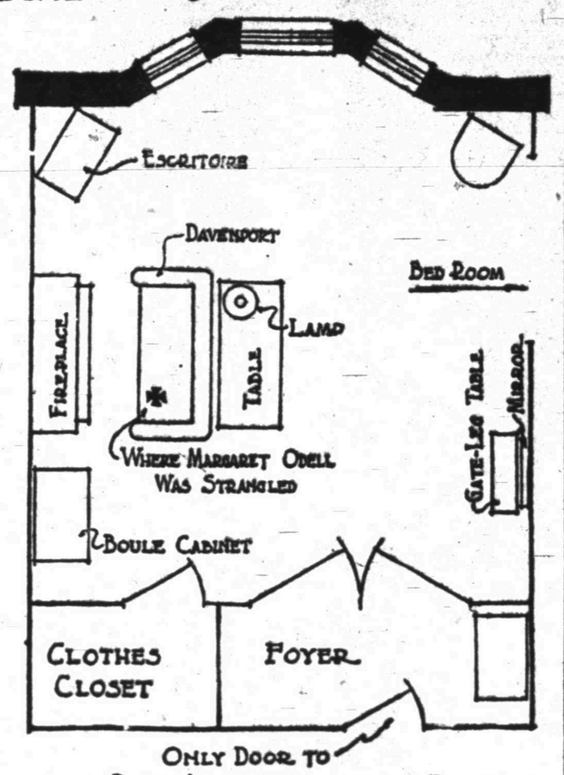

by S. S. VAN DINE AUTHOR of THE BENSON MURDER CASE

CHARACTERS

Philo Vance.
John F.-X. Markham, district attorney of New York county.
Margaret Odell (the "Canary").
Charles Cleaver, a man-about-town.
Kenneth Spotswoode, a manufacturer.
Louis Mannix, an importer.
Dr. Ambrose Linquist, a fashionable neurologist.
Tony Skeel, a professional burglar.
William Elmer Jessup, telephone operator.
Harry Spively, telephone operator.
Earnest Heath, sergeant of the homicide bureau.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Vance has his own theories about criminal procedure and he tells them to his friend Markham, who is considerably worried over the crime situation in New York. Then the newspapers announce the murderer of Margaret Odell, known as the "Canary," former Follies girl and reigning Broadway beauty. Markham turns to Vance for help and they visit the "Canary's" apartment.

CHAPTER III

As Markham entered the Odell apartment that morning Sergeant Ernest Heath came forward at once and extended his hand. A look of relief passed over his broad, pugnacious features; and it was obvious that the animosity and rivalry which always exists between the detective division and the district attorney's office during the investigation of any criminal case had no place in his attitude on this occasion.

"I'm glad you've come, sir," he said; and meant it.

He then turned to Vance with a cordial smile, and held out his hand.

"So the amachoor sleuth is with us again!" His tone held a friendly banter.

"Oh, quite," murmured Vance. "How's your induction coil working this beautiful September morning, sergeant?"

"I'd hate to tell you!" Then Heath's face grew suddenly grave, and he turned to Markham. "It's a raw deal, sir. Why in hell couldn't they have picked some one besides the Canary for their dirty work? There's plenty of Janes on Broadway who coulda faded from the picture without causing a second alarm; but they gotta go and bump off the Queen of Sheba!

As he spoke, William M. Moran, the commanding officer of the detective bureau, came into the little foyer and performed the usual hand-shaking ceremony. Though he had met Vance and me but once before, and then casually, he remembered us both and addressed us courteously by name.

"Your arrival," he said to Markham, in a well-bred, modulated voice, "is very welcome. Sergeant Heath will give you what preliminary information you want. I'm still pretty much in the dark myself—only just arrived."

"A lot of information I've got to give," grumbled Heath, as he led the way into the living room.

Margaret Odell's apartment was a suite of two fairly large rooms connected by a wide archway draped with heavy damask portieres. The entrance door from the main hall of the building led into a small rectangular foyer about eight feet long and four feet deep, with double Venetian-glass doors opening into the main room beyond. There was no other entrance to the apartment, and the bedroom could be reached only through the archway from the living room.

There was a large davenport, covered with brocaded silk, in front of the fireplace in the left-hand wall of the living room, with a long narrow library table of inlaid rosewood extending along its back. On the opposite wall, between the foyer and the archway into the bedroom, hung a triplicate Marie Antoinette mirror, beneath which stood a mahogany gate-legged table.

On the far side of the archway, near the large oriel window, was a baby grand Steinway piano with a beautifully designed and decorated case of Louis-Seize ornamentation. In the corner to the right of the fireplace was a spindle-legged escritoire and a square hand-painted wastepaper basket of vellum.

To the left of the fireplace stood one of the loveliest Boule cabinets I have ever seen. Several excellent reproductions of Boucher, Fragonard and Watteau hung about the walls. The bedroom contained a chest of drawers, a dressing table, and several gold-leaf chairs. The whole apartment seemed eminently in keeping with the Canary's fragile and evanescent personality.

As we stepped from the little foyer into the living room and stood for a moment looking about, a scene bordering on wreckage met our eyes. The rooms had apparently been ransacked by some one in a frenzy of haste, and the disorder of the place was appalling.

"They didn't exactly do the job in dainty fashion," remarked Inspector Moran.

"I suppose we oughta be grateful they didn't blow the joint up with dynamite," returned Heath acridly.

But it was not the general disorder that most attracted us. Our gaze was almost immediately drawn and held by the body of the dead girl, which rested in an unnatural, semi-recumbent attitude in the corner of the davenport nearest to where we stood.

Her head was turned backward, as if by force, over the silken tufted upholstery; and her hair had come unfastened and lay beneath her head and over her bare shoulder like a frozen cataract of liquid gold. Her face, in violent death, was distorted and unlovely. Her skin was discolored; her eyes were staring; her mouth was open, and her lips were drawn back. Her neck, on either side of the thyroid cartilage, showed ugly dark bruises. She was dressed in a flimsy evening gown of black Chantilly lace over cream-colored chiffon, and across the arm of the davenport had been thrown an evening cape of cloth-of-gold trimmed with ermine.

There were evidences of her ineffectual struggle with the person who had strangled her. Besides the dishevelled condition of her hair, one of the shoulder-straps of her gown had been severed, and there was a long rent in the fine lace across her breast. A small corsage of artificial orchids had been torn from her bodice, and lay crumpled in her lap. One satin slipper had fallen off, and her right knee was twisted inward on the seat of the davenport, as if she had sought to lift herself out of the suffocating clutches of her antagonist.

Her fingers were still flexed, no doubt as they had been at the moment of her capitulation to death, when she had relinquished her grip upon the murderer's wrists.

The spell of horror cast over us by the sight of the tortured body was broken by the matter-of-fact tones of Heath.

"You see, Mr. Markham, she was evidently sitting in the corner of this settee when she was grabbed suddenly from behind."

Markham nodded. "It must have taken a pretty strong man to strangle her so easily."

"I'll say!" agreed Heath. He bent over and pointed to the girl's fingers, on which showed several abrasions. "They stripped her rings off, too; and they didn't go about it gentle, either." Then he indicated a segment of fine platinum chain, set with tiny pearls, which hung over one of her shoulders. "And they grabbed whatever it was hanging round her neck, and broke the chain doing it. They weren't overlooking anything, or losing any time. . . . A swell, gentlemanly job. Nice and refined."

"Where's the medical examiner?" asked Markham.

"He's coming," Heath told him. "You can't get Doc Doremus to go anywheres without his breakfast."

"He may find something else—something that doesn't show."

"There's plenty showing for me," declared Heath. "Look at this apartment. It wouldn't be much worse if a Kansas cyclone had struck it."

We turned from the depressing spectacle of the dead girl and moved toward the center of the room.

"Be careful not to touch anything, Mr. Markham," warned Heath. "I've sent for the finger-print experts—they'll be here any minute now."

Vance looked up in mock astonishment.

"Finger-prints? You don't say—really! How delightful!—Imagine a johnnie in this enlightened day leaving his finger-prints for you to find."

"All crooks aren't clever, Mr. Vance," declared Heath combatively.

"Oh, dear no! They'd never be apprehended if they were. But, after all, Sergeant, even an authentic finger-print merely means that the person who made it was dallying around at some time or other. It doesn't indicate guilt."

"Maybe so," conceded Heath doggedly. "But I'm here to tell you that if I get any good honest-to-God finger-prints outa this devastated area, it's not going so easy with the bird that made 'em."

Vance appeared to be shocked. "You positively terrify me, Sergeant. Henceforth I shall adopt mittens as a permanent addition to my attire. I'm always handling the furniture and the teacups and the various knicknacks in the houses where I call, don't y' know."

Markham interposed himself at this point, and suggested they make a tour of inspection while waiting for the medical examiner.

"They didn't add anything much to the usual methods," Heath pointed out. "Killed the girl, and then ripped things wide open."

Heath had become acquainted with Vance during the investigation of the Benson murder case two months previously.

LINDA

A Love Mystery of Collegiate Life

By Virginia Swain.

A LOBBY ENCOUNTER

She grabbed the paper in both hands and read:

"Dr. Arthur Graham Prine of the archaeology department of Marbury university has been missing from his home and from his classes since last Friday.

"The university authorities at first ignored the fact, knowing Dr. Prine's eccentricities of yore.

"But when he failed for the fourth day to appear in the class room, they sent messenger to his home. The messenger found the house dark and apparently empty. The accumulation of mail and of milk bottles seemed to verify the belief that the professor had left town unexpectedly last week.

"Though friends of Dr. Prine have assured the university authorities that he must only have gone on business and forgotten to notify the registrar, the university officials have voiced grave doubt of his safety.

"After several days' quiet investigation, they have asked the police to look for him."

Linda dropped the paper and sat staring at her grapefruit. The overflow of mail, the milk bottles, the dark and silent bungalow—did they mean then that Arthur Prine was gone, vanished for all time beyond the exigencies of her struggle?

She left her breakfast untouched and went upstairs. It was a long morning, with nothing to do but unpack her smaller bags and watch the lazy stream of passers by on Broadway.

At noon, Linda ordered a sandwich and a glass of milk. Thus reinforced, she sat down to the composition of a 20-page letter to Simon Whitlock.

If the Sigma Nu had not chosen that night for its mid-year formal, Linda would have spent the evening in her room.

Their music, their clattering and their laughter conspired to drive Linda from the couch, from the room, from the building. All this gay uproar was now a part of something she could never know again—she, with eight Chicago evening dress creations in her trunk and a hundred-dollar paradise fan!

She flung aside her magazine and crawled off the couch. It was too late to see all of a movie, even at the second show. But she might spend an hour and a half in the theater's comforting darkness before coming back to this position on the outpost of mirth.

The clerk cast down his eyes as she walked past him five minutes later, and then stared after her.

The movie turned out to be an unhappy selection for a girl seeking shelter from her memories. Linda had no sooner seated herself than she realized that almost directly in front of her some one was speaking in a voice she knew. She strained her eyes in the darkness, and could just make out the unmistakable outlines of Doyle Hoskin's head. The dark, fluffy head beside him was Dulcy's.

Trembling in the wave of fear and loathing that surged upwards from her knees, Linda scrambled over the feet of enraged neighbors, hurried up the aisle and reached the lobby.

A young man was just ushering a Dresden girl up the steps of the theater when Linda burst open the door and ran headlong into them. The young man had put out his arm to ward off the collision, but when he saw Linda he held her tightly instead.

She looked up into a pair of impassioned eyes within horn-rimmed spectacles. Leonard Van Horne continued to hug her tightly under the lights on the theater steps. His lady stood aside, forgotten, her childish mouth and baby blue eyes wide open. In her white furs she looked like a stray bit of thistledown drifted from last summer's meadows.

Leonard began to speak. "Linda! Where have you been? Oh, Linda, how cruel you are! I've looked for you everywhere. Don't you know that for me you're the one woman, the spirit of Beauty—"

The bewildered baby on his right moved into action. One tiny, white-gloved hand swung into a wide arc, clipped him across the ear and sent him reeling against Linda, who tottered on the icy step. "Thpirit of applethauthe," lisped the thistledown, "we're late for the pictureth."

The last Linda ever saw of Leonard was his protesting entrance into the theater lobby, propelled by his Dresden maiden.

Gay young things in sequins and velvet were trailing their glories through the Tavern lobby when Linda reached it. One group of bedizened Alpha O's clustered around the open fire, giggling and talking shrilly to their patent-leather young men.

Linda slipped past them all and started toward the elevator. No, it would be full of their mirth and their youth and their beauty, and the music from the ballroom had shown her that she was not proof against these things. She turned back to the stairs.

There were five flights, and she took the last two slowly. To her relief, her own corridor was deserted.

She slipped her key in the lock and turned the knob of the door. It slipped open easily.

But she did not enter. Whether it was by her ears, or by some subtle instinct, she knew that there was oneone in the room.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy, who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Types and Habits

We are confronted at all times with the problem of understanding different personalities.

It takes a good deal of study along the line of metaphysics to realize why one person is as different from another as a dog is from a fox.

It is not true that all humans are shaped the same, even physically—let alone mentally. While each man who is normal will have one head, two ears, two arms and legs, yet, one will be tall and the other short. While another is thin of waist, his brother may even be burdened with a 50-inch circumference!

How are we to account for these great physical differences when we are supposed to be made in the image of the Creator? The answer is explained very simply if we are to accept the belief that we are what we are because of our habits of thinking, eating, exercising, working, etc. It is true, we are all born with certain tendencies to physical growth, but any leaning, for instance, toward thinness, can be easily corrected by a proper change in physical and mental habits which will encourage the growth of a beautiful and symmetrical form.

In some respects we are born with the same raw physical material to be worked over into various shaped bodies according to the habits we acquire.

We are also born with some definite impulses often called instincts such as to avoid danger, to obtain food and warmth, to seek the opposite sex, and so on. But even from these natural desires we acquire a great deal of misery because of the inhibitions and restraints of organized society, and from improper training in our educational institutions.

One who has so shaped his life as to be healthy, successful and happy has not done so because of any innate advantage acquired before birth, but solely because of the habit systems he has learned to develop since birth. If sickness, failure and unhappiness have developed, these have come as the result of errors in living, and bad habits, not fate, are to be blamed.

If sickness is present, it is not because the doctor has not been consulted, but because the ailing one has lived the way, which, in his case, produced disease. If a physician is then consulted, great care should be used in choosing one who will teach the patient how to change his "sick" habits to healthy ones.

In a like manner, the one who wishes to develop a charming personality can learn how from the competent psychologist or psychoanalyst. It is all a question of cultivating good social habits. He must honestly examine himself to find out what disagreeable traits of personality he has been acquiring, and substitute good traits for the bad ones. If he has been inconsiderate of others, it will be necessary to study how to be kind and considerate of others. He must avoid untruthfulness, and develop sincerity. Bodily cleanliness is as important for a succesful social life as it is for physical health. He must learn to be fair in his games, whether playing blind man's buff, or poker.

We should all watch habits as they grow in ourselves, and realize that there need be no mystery about acquiring character or likable personality, as bad habits can be easily changed to good ones as soon as we sincerely wish to do so. A start must be made as soon as we understand this fact if we are to hope for success after years of living with haphazard habits.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question—I. T. writes: "I am 60 years of age, and have had eczema for 12 years. Will you kindly name the foods I should use? Is there a sanitarium that you would advise for a few weeks or longer if satisfactory?"

Answer: Take a fast for a few days and follow the menus I give you each week in this column. Any ordinary case of eczema can be cured by the use of a correctly balanced diet. No sanitarium treatment is necessary if you will follow the proper regime at home.

Question: K. L. M. writes: "I have trouble sleeping at night. Will you please tell me the cause of this? Also, I have a dizzy feeling in my head upon arising."

Answer: Insomnia is generally produced by over-eating at the evening meal, or using foods which make stomach gas. This would also cause biliousness, with the resultant dizzy spells which you experience each morning.

Question: Mary J. writes: "Does a rise in temperature of from one-fifth to three-fifths of a degree signify any bodily disease? This rise comes sometimes in the morning, but generally in the afternoon."

Answer: Such a slight rise in temperature does not indicate any specific disease. Most people are below normal in temperature during the morning and come up to normal in the afternoon. Normal temperature undoubtedly varies with different people.

'Happiest Girl in Texas'

So many mothers nowadays talk about giving their children fruit juices, as if this were a new discovery. As a matter of fact, for over fifty years, mothers have been accomplishing results far surpassing anything you can secure from home prepared fruit juices, by using pure, wholesome California Fig Syrup, which is prepared under the most exacting laboratory supervision from ripe California Figs, richest of all fruits in laxative and nourishing properties.

It's marvelous to see how bilious, weak, feverish, sallow, constipated, under-nourished children respond to its gentle influence; how their breath clears up, color flames in their cheeks, and they become sturdy, playful, energetic again. A Texas mother, Mrs. E. C. Toeppervein, 2416 Wyoming St., San Antonio, says: "When my little daughter, Mildred, was just two, she became so constipated that I was badly worried. Then a friend got me to give her some California Fig Syrup. It stopped her constipation quick; and the way it improved her color and made her pick up made me realize how run-down she had been. She is so sturdy and well now, and always in such good humor that neighbors say she's the happiest girl in Texas."

Like all good things, California Fig Syrup is imitated, but you can always get the genuine by looking for the name "California" on the carton.—Adv.

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.—Adv.

Liver Doesn't Hurt but Watch Out

The dangerous thing about liver trouble is that it may be present and not recognized as such! No pain probably in the vicinity of the liver, but mysterious sick headaches, dizzy spells, kidney disturbances and probably heart palpitation and high blood pressure.

No organ will bear closer watching than the liver. It's the liver's important job to keep the blood clean of the poisons formed in food waste. Let the liver become sluggish, as it frequently does under the strain of modern living, and the whole system becomes toxic, which weakens stomach, kidneys and heart.

The liver occasionally needs a little help, and there's nothing better for this, as medical men know, than a little ox gall. Ox gall is a remarkable natural stimulant for the human liver, promoting its normal, active functioning. Dioxol tablets are genuine ox gall in dainty and tasteless form, each tablet representing 10 drops of pure ox gall. To be sure of getting the genuine ox gall, be sure of getting Dioxol. They cost less than 2c each at good druggists.

Free Test Take this ad to the druggist named below and he will give you a free sample of Dioxol tablets. Try them yourself. See the splendid, quick results. One trial of Dioxol and you will want a full package!

Fain-McGaha-United Producers No. B-5 in the southeast corner of block 27, L. F. Wilson land, Gerald's townsite, Archer county, is on the pump good for 350 barrels per day from the sand at 1563-74 feet.

HASKELL COUNTY

Edmiston and others No. 2 Reynolds Land and Cattle company, 150 feet south, 150 feet east of northwest corner section 4, D. E. Brock survey, Haskell county, is underreaming 10-inch casing at 1072 feet.

$2,000,000 Claim Review Denied by Court

WASHINGTON, April 16. (AP) — The Oxford Oil company and J. G. Bass were refused by the supreme court today a review of their $2,000,000 claim against the Atlantic Oil Producing company and others, which they lost in federal district court at Dallas, Texas.

As owners of a narrow strip of land in Navarro county, Texas, the oil company and Bass contended that the Texas railroad commission illegally refused them permission to drill offset wells to protect it from drainage through operations of the Atlantic and other oil companies on adjoining land.

Local Danger Passes In New England Area

United Producers, Petroleum Producers and Mast-Staniforth have brought in their first producer since their entry into the Shackleford county field, No. 1 Mathews in the E. L. R. R. survey flowing at the rate of 700 barrels per day.

The well which is in the heart of the shallow field in which a number of big wells have been brought in among which was the Tannehill No. 1 flowing around 4000 barrels. The new well topped the sand at 1129 feet and was penetrated to 1137 when it began flowing. The same interests have two other tests drilling and some interesting happenings are looked for in the next few days.

WATER SOAKS TWO BIG WELLS

Spread of Sulphur Holds Winkler Interest

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, April 16.—Encroachment of water into Republic Production company's two big wells in section 45, block 26, which until then had the highest average daily production over a long period in Winkler county, and the appearance of water in western edge wells in the Pecos field were developments during the week just ended in the Permian basin of West Texas. Chances of production near the corner of Pecos, Crane and Ward counties continued to diminish. Interest increased with new operations in Runnels and Concho counties.

Pinching of Republic Nos. 1 and 4 Hendricks to reduce the water and the resultant restricting of Roxana north offsets as a precautionary measure accounted in a great measure for the slump in the production of the Hendricks pool from 224,912 barrels on April 6 to 171,152 barrels on April 12. The other reason was congestion of storage and pipe line facilities.

Before water appeared, Republic No. 1 Hendricks had produced in excess of 700,000 barrels since it came in Dec. 11 at 2878 feet. It was pinched to 5000 barrels daily through a one-inch choke when 12 per cent water broke in. A half-inch choke was substituted and the flow was reduced to 7 per cent water and 40W barrels of oil daily. Republic No. 4 Hendricks was making 9000 barrels of oil through a 1 5-8-inch choke when 7 per cent water appeared. Substitution of a half-inch choke caused the well to flow 5000 barrels of pipe line oil daily. No. 4 was completed on March 16 at 2852 feet, for rating 33,000 barrels daily. It is in the northeast corner of the east half of the southwest quarter of section 45. No. 1 Hendricks is in the northwest corner of the same 83. The Republic wells are the farthest north in the field to make water excepting Gulf No. 10 Hendricks, a diagonal northeast offset to Republic No. 4 Hendricks. This well for a month has been flowing around 90 per cent water. Roxana Nos. A and 2-A Hendricks, north offsets, respectively, to Republic Nos. 1 and 4 Hendricks, were averaging 22,000 barrels daily, approximately one-half of Roxana's total field production—and had reached 22,000 barrels a day—when pinched to around 10,000 barrels as a precautionary measure when water intruded in the Republic wells.

Seminole March Total 9,231,300 Barrels

TULSA, Okla., April 16.—In March the Seminole pools produced approximately 9,231,300 barrels as follows:

Earlsboro	3,123,100
Bowlegs	2,595,100
Seminole City	1,728,350
Little River	1,228,050
Searight	556,700

There were 47 completions in Seminole county in March, a majority of them being in the Seminole district, and 27 were oil wells, five gassers, and 15 dry holes, and the oil wells had a ninitial production of 20,096 barrels.

Humble to Erect 110,000 Bbls. Tankage

PORT ARANSAS, Texas, April 16. (AP)—Five oil storage tanks holding 110,000 barrels each will be built by the Humble Pipe Line company at its Harbor Island terminal at once as part of its deep water loading project, it was learned today.

NEW PITTSBURG

PITTSBURG, Texas, April 16 (UP)—A test by the Benedum-Trees company is to be made on the John Browning farm. The contract of the well calls for a depth of 3500 feet.

NAVARRO COUNTY

CORSICANA, April 16. (UP)—A deep test for the east central area has been started by the C. F. Lyle Thompson No. 1. The test will go down about 3000 feet and is being drilled by eight major companies and individual operators.

Favorite Jokes of Famous People

As Told by Them to

FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON

By GENE TUNNEY

GENE TUNNEY

On a bench in Madison Square park one morning, two squatters fall into conversation about their futures.

One was a boxer in the light-heavyweight division, who lived not far from where he was sunning himself. His hands had gone back on him in his early fights and he could not train, and, as the story goes, those who saw him had no high hopes for him.

"I'm going to be heavyweight champion of the world," the boxer said to his friend who in turn looked at him in amazement. The idea that a frequenter of a Madison park seat had such an ambition started an argument that brought no change in the views of either.

"The study of Dempsey's style is going to be my life work. Knowing how that I can beat him, I'm going to work to improve myself and watch him when he is on the way out."

"What's the matter with you," said the other, "are you goofey before you start? You haven't the ability to be anything better than a pretty good light-heavyweight. Your brittle hands alone will keep you back."

"Don't worry about my physical shortcomings," returned the boxer. "I will remedy them as I go along, improving my knowledge of Dempsey. I will beat him and show you, when I become a champion, how a determination, strictly followed in every detail, will get me where I am aiming."

"All right for your pipe dreams," was the parting shot of the boxer's companion, "but they don't often come true when they begin in this park."

This particular one did, for the boxer in the story was none other than Gene Tunney. Here follows a favorite joke of his.

"Clancey O'Toole came home late from the club. He was in a bad humor and seemed greatly to enjoy throwing the furniture about.

"Mrs. O'Toole was aroused, and, sitting up in bed, asked:

"'What's the matter with youse, Clancey?'

"'Sure,' he replied, 'I'm mad—mad as a hornet!'

"'And what made ye so?'

"'Flaherty down yonder; he called me a liar!'

"'Sure, now, ain't ye a foine one. Why didn't ye make him prove it?'

"That's why I'm so mad,' Clancey replied. 'He did!'"

SPUDDERS BUNCH BLOWS AND PAYNE PITCHES THREE-HIT WIN

CHAMPS SCORE 4 TO 1 VICTORY

Williamsmen Break Even In Series With Panthers

FORT WORTH, Tex., April 16.—Fort Worth has been talking all spring about their pitching. George Payne today showed the natives that all the good chucking isn't confined to Cat hurlers. Pitching superb ball the "screw ball" master turned back the Panthers with three hits and gave the Spudders an even break in the series.

The score was 4 to 1. It was Payne's second victory of the season.

After the second inning, when the Cats went ahead by scoring their only tally with the aid of a brace of hits, Payne was master of the situation throughout. Bischoff smacked a double in the third inning. That ended the Cat attack.

For in the last six innings Payne was in inimitable form, not a Panther reaching first base.

Spuds Win in Fourth

The champions won in the fourth inning when they got to Lefty Walkup for three hits, one a double which with a base on balls, and an error, netted their four runs. Payne and his comrades also fielded brilliantly, making nary an error.

Walkup and Burns, who went to the mound in the sixth inning, held the Spudders to five hits. But that one big inning was enough.

Here is how the Spudders won in the fourth:

Benton flied to left. Turgeon doubled to left. Fitzgerald hit to second and was safe when Kibbie let the ball get away from him, Turgeon scoring. Lamb flied to center. Jenkins walked. Swenson singled to center, scoring Fitzgerald and sending Jenkins to third. Stanton singled past second, scoring Jenkins and Swenson. J. Cobb grounded out, third to first.

Fort Worth scored in the second: Bonowitz singled to center. Holland grounded out, Benton to Stanton, Bonowitz taking second. Richardson singled to center, scoring Bonowitz. Kibbie hit into a double play, Benton to Turgeon to Stanton. One run, two hits, no errors.

Lapan Banished

The pastime was enlivened in the third inning when Pete Lapan was banished by Umpire Hunter Hill for protesting too vigorously on a called second strike. Pete swung at the third strike but was so disgruntled at the ump's decision on the second that he made remarks not complimentary to Hunter's eyesight. Whereupon Pete was asked to go away from there, much to the joy of the Cow Town fans.

The Spudders tomorrow will help inaugurate the 1928 season at Shreveport. In an effort to repeat the victory of the opening day at home, Skipper Carl Williams will send Joe Kiefer or Milt Steengrafe to the hill.

Featuring today's play was the stellar work of Rabbit Benton, who glittered afield and smacked two base hits to lead the attack.

Aggies to Meet Texas This Week

AUSTIN, Texas, April 16.—Plunging into the toughest part of a hard schedule, the Texas Longhorns will battle the Texas Aggies, their most dangerous competitors in this season's Southwestern baseball race, in a two-game series at College Station Friday and Saturday, April 20 and 21.

Thus far the Aggies have staged such a showing that they have been picked by not a few followers of the conference race to take the pennant away from Uncle Billy Disch's crew. Just after Rice had fought the Longhorns to a standstill in barely losing two games by one-point margins, the Farmers proceeded to overwhelm the Owls by top heavy scores. All of which looks rather bad for the rest of the Aggies' opposition.

Of late, however, Uncle Billy's boys have been training their eyes on the ball, and in the S. M. U. and T. C. U. games showed a great improvement in the way of fence-busting. Everybody seems to be hitting just now. If this pace in an offensive way can be kept up to par, Texas should have even more than a fifty-fifty chance of coming through with another title. The entire infield has picked up in hitting, and the outfield is holding its own, as ever.

Hallas Victor Over Yaqui Joe

Yaqui Joe met defeat. After winning three straight matches the Indian was beaten last night in a hectic, thrilling match at The Gym. Billy Hallas was the victor in three falls.

Hallas took the first fall in 21 minutes with a body slam and won the third and decisive fall with the same tactics in 19 minutes, after Joe won the second fall in 25 minutes with a flying toehold.

Joe Turner was referee.

Country Boy Owens won another ring bout. He scored a K. O. over Martin Craig in the fourth round in the feature boxing bout. It was a corking scrap. Wildcat Monte, local lightweight, was referee. He got a big ovation when introduced.

Alex Rose correctly stopped the Bob Raley-Billy Hollis go in the fourth round with the former winning easily, in another interesting mill.

Marshall Raley and Kenneth Adams boxed three rounds and Bill Daley stepped three in other bouts.

A battle royal, in which blind folded negroes rang bells in their hands, furnished lots of laughs.

The show was interesting.

Boxer Is Exonerated In Death of Sparring Pal

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., April 16. (UP)—Les Marriner, University of Illinois football player and now a professional boxer, was exonerated today from any responsibility in the death of his friend, Fred H. Bobzin, Jr., of Chicago.

Bobzin died here Saturday shortly after he had sparred with Marriner in the university gymnasium. Marriner's testimony to a coroner's jury that he had not struck a hard blow during the sparring was substantiated by Paul Prehn, the university's leading wrestling coach, who was in the gymnasium at the time.

Hawaii had more visitors during the past winter than in any previous tourist season.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

WATCH THE BUFFS! It will be recalled that such warning was issued in the winter, even before the makeup of Texas league clubs was assured. Months before April 11 several deals were made with the St. Louis Cardinals, in which the National league club "sold" athletes to Houston, to warrant the opinion that the Bisons would be pennant contenders. Further evidence that Messrs. Breadon, Rickey et' al intend to have a Texas league winner is seen in the recent transfer of players, one of whom is Hein Heinie Schulte, the star shortstop, to their Texas farm.

The St. Louis moguls did not build a $400,000 stadium at Houston for the mere purpose of giving the athletes a pretty field in which to play. The main purpose of minor league farms for big league clubs is to develop players, of course. But a dollar in the box office at Houston is worth as much as a buck in the coffers at St. Louis. And a winning club brings in the dollars, no matter where. Too, the policy of the St. Louis club is not to build minor loop clubs as mere feeding ground to the parent body. They had a pennant winner last year at Danville and their Syracuse and Houston clubs were up in the race. It seems their intention to make winners of their farms as well as their own team.

A BUFF INCAPACITATED will not seriously hamper his club, while it might wreck another pennant contender. For instance, Homer P. Peel was injured the other day and will be out of the game several weeks. The Cardinals merely sent reinforcements. The loss of a hard-hitting outfielder such as Peel would be a severe blow to any of the other Texas loop flag contenders.

SOME CRITICS are inclined to view the successful start of the New York Yankees with surprise, in view of the woeful play of the champions in spring training games. A bit of harking back to history, however, would have those critics who saw a possible decline of the Hugmen, a precedent. Two springs ago the Yankees played in Florida like a team of bushers. Many and decisive were the trouncings they sustained. Even the Gotham scribes accompanying the club were lugubrious in their forecasts of a possible debacle. But the Yankees won the pennant that year.

Miller Huggins does not drive the Yankees in the spring. He assembles his men, tells them to get into condition for the American league season, and then goes about directing the work of conditioning, watching the veterans that they don't work too hard and keeping a keen eye for possible future talent among the rookies. That Huggins' stystem is effective is shown by the results.

IT WAS NOT until the last two years, incidentally, that the worth of Huggins as a manager has come to be realized. Even the first two years that the Yankees were winning pennants they were saying it was the ball club, and not the mite manager, who was responsible for their success. Then came the fall of the Yankees. It was the Year of the Flop of Ruth (Boob Ruth they called him then) by which time is reckoned in Gotham as they reckon time in other localities by great disasters or unusual events. Huggins, his critics said, was through. But Miller then demonstrated his worth as manager. He called Babe Ruth to time. He convinced Ruth that baseball and the Yankees are bigger than Babe Ruth. And it is to the credit of Ruth that he did his part in his own reformation. He brought order out of chaos and with some alterations in his lineup gathered together the mighty club that won the pennant in 1926, run away with the flag in 1927, and climaxed that season with four straight victories over the Pirates in the world series.

Hike In Crude Oil Prices Rumored On Wall Street--Cotton Down--Wheat Up

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 16. (AP)—Reports of unfavorable weather in the South over the week-end was offset in the cotton market today by prospects for improving conditions, and a slight opening advance was followed by reactions. July contracts sold off from 19.89 to 19.62 and closed at 19.71 the general market closing steady at net losses of 12 to 15 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 3 to 6 points on covering and local buying, promoted by reports of low temperatures and rains in the South over Sunday. Relatively firm Liverpool cables were attributed to the same influence and there was some Liverpool and continental buying here during the first few minutes. The advance met heavy realizing, however, and there was evidently some selling for a reaction on the forecasts for warmer weather.

Prices reacted under these offerings, May selling off from 20.08 to 19.80 and October from 19.80 to 19.50 during midday, or about 20 to 22 points net lower. The selling appeared to taper off at these figures, and the market later recovered 8 or 9 points of the loss on covering, while there also appeared to be a little trade buying.

Private cables said there had been London and continental buying in the Liverpool market on the unfavorable weather reports from the South, but that demand for cotton cloths and yarns was less insistent, owing to a general disinclination to pay current prices.

Port receipts today 12,407. U. S. port stocks 1,573,300. Exports today 50,132, making 6,182,560 so far this season.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 16. (AP)—An official forecast for fair and warmer weather resulted in a slight decline on the cotton market here today. The downward trend was held in check by severe cold weather during the week-end in the western and central sections of the belt and a prediction for killing frost in the eastern belt tonight.

July, the most active month, after opening at 19.60, one point above Saturday's close, eased off to 19.37 and closed at 19.41, 18 points down for the day. The general market closed at losses of 14 to 18 points.

Liverpool was 1 to 6 points better than due and in the early trading here prices gained 1 to 2 points, with May at 19.76, July at 19.60 and October at 19.36. These slight gains were due to the bad weather and strength of cables.

When the official weather forecast was issued the market eased off on realizing by recent buyers and on selling by ring traders and by the time the offerings were absorbed May had dropped to 19.52, July to 19.37 and October to 19.15, 21 to 24 points below the early highs and 19 to 22 points under Saturday's close.

Detailed weather reports there were received showing much rain in the eastern belt and a frost warning for Alabama, Georgia and the Carolinas. As a result some covering by shorts developed which carried prices up 6 to 8 points from the lows. While some of this recovery was lost in late trading, the market rallied slightly at the end on covering, May closing at 19.56, 18 points down, and October at 19.19, 15 points down.

Private reports said extensive replanting will be necessary on account of the cold weather.

Ohio Bell Telephone Company
5-Year Record

OHIO BELL TELEPHONE CO.

The Ohio Bell Telephone company is controlled by the American Telephone & Telegraph company, and was incorporated in 1921 as a consolidation of two predecessor concerns. In the same year the company purchased two other properties, operating in Ohio and West Virginia. These expansions were supplemented by the acquisition of the Springfield-Xenia Telephone company and the Montgomery County Telephone company in 1923. The Ohio Bell Telephone company now serves all the state of Ohio except Cincinnati and territory immediately adjacent to that city. In 1927 the corporation bought the instruments used by it which were formerly owned by the American Telephone & Telegraph company.

Funded debt totals $5,411,000. Capital stock outstanding consists of $28,219,700 in 7 per cent cumulative preferred of $100 par, and $75,000,000 in common shares of $100 par. The preferred stock has no voting power except in case of default of four quarterly dividends, when it assumes full voting control.

Preferred dividends have been paid regularly since organization. On the common stock 4 per cent was paid in 1921; nothing was paid in 1922; 1 per cent in 1923; 3 per cent in 1924, and 6 per cent in 1925, 1926 and 1927.

Net income in 1927 amounted to $6,299,586, which compared with $6,131,384 in 1926. In 1927 net was equivalent to $22.32 a share on the preferred. Practically all of the common stock is owned by the American Telephone & Telegraph company.

As of January 1, 1928, current assets totaled $5,136,873; current liabilities were $5,914,741, an excess of current liabilities over current assets $777,868. Book value applicable to the common stock amounted to $108.83 a share.

The company plans to spend $92,000,000 on improvements in the next five years.

Bonds

Leading Issues on New York Market

NEW YORK, April 16. (AP)—The bond market today was a rather quiet affair, with Seaboard Air Line and New York Traction liens holding the center of interest. The tone of the list as a whole was firm.

The Seaboard issues continued the rally which was begun late last week following an optimistic statement by President Powell. Adjustment 5s were the leaders in this group, scoring a fractional advance on a large turnover.

Interborough 7s and Third Avenue Adjustment 5s attained new peaks after advances of a point or more. Lorillard 5½s and Porto Rico American Tobacco were in fair demand in sympathy with the strength of tobacco stocks on the "big board." Goodyear 5s and Westinghouse Electric 5s were among the few soft spots.

Italian obligations again led the foreign group, the public utility 7s selling at 10½ for the first time this year. Some of the Mexican issues again moved forward.

United States government securities were steady.

Oil Shares Outstanding Features On Stock Exchange With Gasoline and Crude Reported Due for Climb

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service Financial Expert

NEW YORK, April 16.—General Electric with a 7-point gain to new high record price featured an otherwise unsettled market on the stock exchange today in which liquidation was the main influence to the more than 4,000,000 share turnover.

There was a feeling of uneasiness throughout the financial district for while money was in good supply and trade reports mostly favorable, there was knowledge that pools were out of certain stocks and passing on others at a rate that threatened a shakeout.

Failure of any important development to result from the Steel corporation annual meeting proved disappointing and the continued offerings of Steel common enhanced nervousness somewhat.

Oils were the outstanding features of strength as all moved higher under leadership of the Standard group. Rails displayed less rallying tendency than the industrials. While the utility and power stocks were well taken, the coppers turned dull and soft. Return of Norway to a gold basis helped Scandanavian currencies while the balance of the foreign exchange market remained steady. Cotton, wheat and other commodities were in better demand an receipt of bullish weather advices.

Standard Oil of New York was one of the outstanding leaders of the petroleum group which started higher as the industrials turned ragged. Report was wdespread that gasoline prices would be advanced this week and would probably be followed by higher crude oil quotations in most fields. Richfield scored the best gain in the independent group as pool work was resumed. Higher prices for crude and refined products would be no surprise as even greater seasonal increase in consumption is being experienced than a year ago. However, the oil move would have more stability if producers could get together and agree on holding down output on reasonable levels.

National Power and Light led the power stocks with some of those most active in industrials recently responsible. Merger talk was in the air and had favorable influence on Consolidated Gas although no definite development there is near. Cerro de Pasco stood out in the copper group. Its annual report is to be issued next week and will show a remarkably strong cash position which has enhanced hope for an increase in dividend soon. Armour benefited from announcement that Cutten had taken over a block of the stock. Chrysler moved higher on western buying, while other motors felt the effect of distribution. Plan for merging Universal Pipe and Pressed Steel Car, both controlled by the same interests, it was reported, would be announced soon.

Curb

Leading Issues on New York Market

NEW YORK, April 16. (AP)—The curb market turned reactionary in sympathy with the "big board" after opening strong today. Trading continued heavy and a number of stocks moved to new high ground, but at noon the trend generally was downward.

The motors again were strong. Marmon Motor moved up more than 4 points to a new high at 56¼. U. S. L. Battery soared more than 10 points to a new high at 131, but subsequently lost 7 points of the gain. Wire Wheel, reported to be the center of a new wire wheel company merger was in demand, selling at just under its top.

Canadian Industrial Alcohol, Meadows Manufacturing, Procter & Gamble, United Piece Dye and a few others reached new peaks.

Bancitaly was under pressure, sagging nearly 2 points. Canadian Marconi, Columbia Graphaphone, Firestone Tire, Melville Shoe, New Mont Mines, showed losses. The artificial silk stocks slumped 1 to 5 points.

The utilities continued to show group strength, with heavy buying lifting Electric Bond & Share, Electric Investor and several others 1 to 5 points to a new high ground.

Darby Petroleum touched a new high at 16½ and Pantepec and Penn Max Fuel was strong, but other oils were inclined to sag.

Grain

CHICAGO, April 16.—New buying of wheat in the circle of speculative activity that is rolling out across the country from the futures market at the Chicago Board of Trade carried prices upward more than 2c into new high ground today.

Professional traders who thought that the advance of more than 10c during the last four days of last week took profits and were left behind. They gazed sadly at the climbing market and waited for a break on which to reinstate their lines. The break did not come.

At the close wheat was up 2⅛c to 2⅝c for the season; corn advanced only ⅛c to ½c, but oats shot upward ⅝c to 2⅝c, and rye jumped 1⅛c to 2⅛c.

The wheat market rolled uphill like a powerful tractor. The selling for profits and short sales by those reaching for the top were crushed in significance.

Buying was said to be coming in from the east and was attributed to security houses whose customers have been making huge profits in the stock market.

Big bulls in wheat are short corn. So are little bulls who have taken their wheat profits. Probably they would like to buy in their corn and are waiting for a break on which to cover.

It is that condition of the corn market, supposing it exists, which seems to argue against the possibilities of any decided decline in corn at this time. The market is close to its highest prices for the year. Longs who have strained their patience up to the present time are not likely to let go of their holdings now.

In the cash market wheat was up 1c to 2c; corn was unchanged to 1½c higher; oats were unchanged to 1c up; rye was firm; barley was 1c higher.

SECOND TRADE TRIP PLANNED

Band Secured For Trek To Seymour Wednesday

The program for the second trade trip of the season by Wichita Falls business men was released Monday by J. W. Chatham, traffic and industrial manager of the chamber of commerce.

The Panhandle Refining company band of Wichita Falls will be one of the features of the trip. The last trip made to Waurika and nearby towns was made without music save that made by Mayor R. E. Shepherd who provided a major part of the musical entertainment.

Emphasis was laid on the fact that the party will leave the chamber of commerce at 9:30 o'clock sharp, Wednesday morning. The luncheon will cost $1 a plate and will be paid for by the Wichita Falls men. The Seymour business men will be the guests of the Wichitans in Seymour, an innovation in trade trips.

Luncheon will be served in the dining room of the Seymour hotel at 12:15 o'cleock Wednesday and the band will provide the music.

Mayor J. A. Britton of Seymour will give the address of welcome, and the response will be by Charles I. Francis, president of the Wichita Falls chamber.

J. A. Wheat, Seymour attorney, will then make a short address. One of the members of the intercity relations committee of the Wichita chamber also will speak briefly.

The luncheon will adjourn early so that the visitors may spend the afternoon visiting in Seymour and calling on the merchants there.

12 Delegates To Attend Presbytery

Twelve delegates from Wichita Falls will attend the spring meeting of the Amarillo Presbytery which will open in Plainview April 18.

The Rev. N. F. Grafton, D. D., W. Beavers, Mrs. James Bernard and Mrs. Will Brothers will attend as delegates from the session and missionary societies of the First Presbyterian church. The Rev. David Rees-Jones will attend from the Floral Heights Presbyterian church and Grady Snuggs as a session delegate from the East Side Presbyterian church. Others attending the meeting will include Mrs. N. F. Grafton, Mrs. C. W. Beavers, Mrs. I. H. Roberts and daughter, Irvine, Miss Lena Andrews and Mrs. W. A. Jarrell.

Herta Junkers (She's a girl) is going to the rescue of the German plane which almost reached its goal in the westward flight from Europe. With several others she is hopping off from Mitchel field to the tiny island off Newfoundland. The point in this is that we may expect to see motion pictures of Herta doing her stuff in the news reel at some of the Wichita Falls movie houses in the next week.

Who ever heard of sailors going wrong? It's an old saying in the navy that a sailor is no good unless he has a sweetheart at every port, and if they are pretty well lined up, the question naturally arises. "How can they go wrong?" Whatever it may be about, there is a film at Manager Charles Moorehead's Mission named "Why Sailors Go Wrong." To make it more curiosity arousing, the star of the play is announced as Sammy Cohen.

A really great film is in its last day at the Olympic. That is "Rose Marie." There was a chorus girl in the original company of "Rose Marie" that this column will never forget. Oh, man, what a show she helped "Rose Marie" to be!

Harold Lloyd is packing the house at the Majestic. His pictures are few and far between, but when they come they are really masterpieces of comedy. "Speedy" is high quality comedy that is remembered long after the slapstick, pie throwing affairs are forgotten.

The city council ran opposition to the shows Monday night, attracting one of the largest crowds of the season. The features were too numerous to mention.

Wichita Falls

Folks, Facts, Fancies

Vital Statistics

Fourteen deaths were reported in Wichita Falls in the past week, according to the report of the city health department. The report also showed 26 new cases of measles. This is more new cases than in several weeks. Three new cases of chicken pox, two of smallpox, and two of scarlet fever also are shown on the report.

Negro Sentenced.

Claude Day, negro, pleading guilty in the 30th district court Monday to a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicating liquors, was sentenced to serve 30 days in the county jail. The negro already had served 61 days since his arrest.

Honored at Austin.

Dolores Peavy of Wichita Falls and student at the University of Texas, has been selected for membership in the Austin Little Theater club, according to announcement received here. Only three other students at the university were selected for the honor.

Visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Wilkerson of Cisco were the week-end guests of Miss Marjorie Watson at the William Mary hotel. Mrs. Wilkerson is Miss Watson's sister.

Elk Visitors.

Several out-of-town guests visited the B. P. O. E. club rooms on Eighth street over the week-end. Visitors were: C. C. Smithson of Tuscon, Arizona; S. J. Jordon of Eufaula, Ala.; and Jodie Hayhurst, Chickasha, Okla.

Scout Board.

The executive board of the Wichita Falls Boy Scout council will hold its regular monthly meeting at 12:15 o'clock Tuesday at the Kemp hotel.

Three New Homes

Permits for three new homes were granted by W. E. McBroom, city secretary, Monday. The largest was to Herbert Ferguson for a new $5000 brick home at 1918 Speedway. L. G. Cooke is the contractor. W. B. Mankins, 3102 Avenue S, took out a permit for a $2500 house. George Kent, 2045 Avenue L, was granted a permit to build a $3000 home.

Chest Worker Ill

Otto Lazenby, collector for the Wichita Falls community chest, has been confined to his home with an attack of influenza. Meantime, Miss Merle Neealy of the community chest, has asked that all who have made contribution pledges as yet unpaid, send in as quickly as possible.

Scout Field Leader Returns From Tour

Jerry Phillips, scout field executive of the Wichita area council, has just returned from a two-weeks' tour of the area, reporting that scouting conditions look very bright at Vernon, Electra, Burkburnett, Thrift, Byers, Charlie, Henrietta, Seymour, Throckmorton, Graham, Archer City and Olney.

Troops are being organized in several of the smaller places, he announced. Geraldine, Mankins, Holliday, Westover, Megargel, Clara, Cashion, Elbert and Murray, have either already organized troops or are planning to do so at once.

Cigaret License Fee Collections Total $600

City tax collectors have received $600 for cigaret license fees since the announcement was made a few days ago that these fees should be paid, according to announcements made Monday by H. R. Hyer, collector.

"This does not represent all of the cigaret fees, and we wish that those who sell cigarets would take notice and pay," Mr. Hyer said. "It is less expensive and troublesome for the city when these are paid at the office without question by the vendors than it is when the office has to go after them."

JURY CLEARS WICHITA MAN

Bob Davis, 71, Freed On Liquor Charge

Bob Davis, 71, who once was a friend of Jesse James, was found not guilty by a jury in the 30th district court, where he was tried on charges of possession of whiskey.

The indictment against Davis grew out of the seizure of four half-gallons of alleged whiskey at his place. The aged man, feeble and almost ill, paid little attention to the proceedings.

Following the trial the jury twice reported to Judge E. G. Thornton that they were hopelessly deadlocked before the verdict of "not guilty" was brought in. The defense won the case on a contention that the state had failed to prove that the liquor belonged to Davis.

Becontree, London's new suburb, having a population of nearly 140,000, as yet has no churches.

Many children have succumbed during and epidemic of meningitis of the brain that has prevailed in the Yallourn district of Australia.

One of the floats in the recent carnival procession at Dresden, Germany, was entitled "America Longing for German Beer."

4-DOOR SEDAN F.O.B. DETROIT

Leads off first and holds its lead

With more horsepower per pound than any other motor car in its class, the Victory easily triumphs in performance.

For this exceptional ratio of power to weight gives the Victory an advantage which its rivals simply cannot hope to compete with.

You notice the difference instantly at the take-off—the Victory always leading. You notice it still more at top speed—the Victory always holding its lead. And when the hills are reached, all attempts to follow the Victory abruptly end.

Rugged Dodge construction makes possible this calibre of power, and the car's unique and beautiful design is peculiarly adapted to fast, smooth travel.

The chassis frame, for instance, is the full width of the body—eliminating body overhang and sidesway. And the gravity (or safety) center is lower because there are no body sills.

A car that deserves the brilliant welcome it has received—and one that you should drive and study at your first opportunity.
