99-YEARS SENTENCE GIVEN HOMER FLEMING.

The jury in the case of the State vs. Homer Fleming, of Kimble County, charged with murder, returned a verdict of guilty about noon Tuesday and assessed his punishment at a life term in the penitentiary.

The case was called Monday, May 12th, at Llano, District Judge McLean, presiding. Five attorneys were employed in the defense and three assisted the District Attorney in the prosecution.

Most of Monday was consumed in an effort on the part of the defense counsel to continue the case. Tuesday and Wednesday were consumed in securing a jury, a special venire of 102 men being exhausted, and only a few of 20 additional talesmen were left when the twelve had been selected Wednesday night about eight o'clock.

Evidence in the case was completed Saturday night. Court recessed until Monday when arguments were heard. The case went to the jury at ten o'clock Monday night.

Several hundred from Kimble, Edwards and Mason Counties many of whom were witnesses in the case, spent all last week and the first two days of this week at Llano. Probably no case in recent years has attracted such attention as has this one, and there was hardly standing room in the court room at any time during the trial, many people took their lunches and were at the court house as early as six o'clock in the morning. Throughout the trial, probably more than half the seats were occupied by women.

Fleming was arrested about the 18th of December last year, the date on which Mrs. Annie Herbst Fleming was shot, and placed in the county jail here. Two days later Mrs. Fleming died. At the examining trial, Fleming was denied bond and was transferred the next day to Burnett County.

He was indicted by the February Grand Jury. At a habeas corpus proceeding in the District Court he was denied bond. The Court granted a change of venue to Llano County, and since that time defendant was confined in the Kimble County jail, until some two weeks ago when he was taken to Llano for trial.

Authorative information was not available here yesterday as to what further action would be taken in the case, but it is understood that application will be made for a new trial, and in the event a new trial is denied, an an appeal will be taken.

RED CREEK REVIEW.

Misses Bernice, Vera and Emma Hensley were pleasant visitors at the Bowers home last Sunday.

Many people of this community have been attending court at Llano this week; some few of them have returned to their homes.

Many farmers of this community are busy planting and plowing their crops. Some of them had to stop planting on account of the dry weather. We sure do need rain.

Red Creek school closed last Friday, May 9th. On Saturday night the pupils of the school entertained a large crowd at the Community Hall at London.

Mrs. D. M. Stewart is visiting her daughters in Los Angeles, California.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Stewart and family of Fort Worth are visiting his and her folks, D. M. Stewart and Mrs. Dan Gephart.

THE JUNCTION PUBLIC SCHOOL CLOSES TODAY

This week ends another year for the local school and has been taken up with final details, of getting out reports, taking in text books, and arranging for the commencement exercises.

The past year's work has accomplished a great deal for the students who were willing to apply themselves, and has been a very decided imrovement over the accomplishments for the past two or three years. Fifteen members of the Senior Class will graduate.

On Thursday evening, at the hall, the Seniors Class presented a play, "The Brown Mouse." Sunday night Dr. Chandler of Daniel Baker College, Brownwood, will preach the Baccalaureate Sermon, at the Methodist Church. On Monday night of next week, the graduating exercises will be held at the Hankins-Riley Hall.

Miss Nan Swayze, teacher of the 7th grade, will present the graduates of the grammar school in a program at the Methodist Church.

ADJUSTED COMPENSATION BILL PASSED OVER VETO.

On Tuesday of this week the U. S. Senate overrode the recent veto by President Coolidge, of the Soldiers' and Sailors' Adjusted Compensation Bill by a vote of 59 to 26, both Senators from Texas voting for the bill.

This is the third time within the past few days that the veto power of the President has been overridden by Congress.

The House passed the bill last Saturday by a vote of 313 to 78, after it had been returned to this body by the President.

In 1922 the House overrode the veto of President Harding, but this action was not sustained in the upper branch.

The bill as passed provides for 20 year endowment insurance policies for veterans entitled to over $50 and cash payments for those entitled to less than this amount.

The work of issuing the policies will be started by the Veterans' Bureau of the Treasury Department as soon as proper arrangements can be effected.

Mr. Jackson of Indiana. Southwest and Northwest. A Webber and Fields Offer? A Tree for Tombstone.

Edward Jackson, indorsed by the Ku Klux Klan of Indiana, swept the State for the Governorship nomination. He got more votes than all five of the other candidates put together. Lew Shank, Mayor of Indianapolis, most important candidate against Jackson and enemy of the Klan, was wiped out 10 to 1.

This election is important outside of Indiana, and indicates that the Ku Klux Klan has gained rather than lost strength, and will play an important part in the coming national election.

An El Paso bank closes its doors, in the Southwest, that should know only prosperity. The other day an important bank in the Northwest was in trouble and only saved by merging with another bank.

Farmers can't make a living, and while everything is done for railroads and other corporations, to make sure that their stockholders get dividends, nothing is done for farmers except to give them fatherly advice.

Something better must be done before long or there will be trouble in more banks, and trouble in two old political parties.

While Japan tells us how much insulted they feel because we don't let them come into the United States, the Chinese are warning Matsui, Japan's foreign minister, that they, the Chinese, are much insulted because they are not allowed to settle on Japanese soil. Somebody in Japan must lack a sense of humor.

In Presidential primary election of Haverhill, Massachusetts, 693 men, 121 women, took the trouble to vote out of 17,000 registered voters. Proud Americans seem to lack interest in politics. Had a trained chimpanzee walked a tight rope stretched above the principal street of Haverhill, on primary day, beating a drum as he walked, all the 17,000 registered voters would have been out to see that chimpanzee.

LYNCH DAVIDSON TO BE AT STATE CONVENTION

Goldthwaite, Texas, May 20. —"Now is the time for all good people to come to the aid of their party," or words to that effect, was the way Lynch Davidson urged the Texas democrats to attend the State Convention at Waco during the course of his address here this afternoon in behalf of his gubernatorial candidacy.

"Whether you are a delegate or not, all you democrats ought to be there," continued Lyynch Davidson. "I am going to be there, not as a delegate, nor as a candidate, but as a democrat, because I could not let such a party convention go by without attending and mingling with the other democrats of Texas."

He extended the "democrats of Texas" an invitation to meet him there, saying, "Let's get together as democrats, talk democracy and live democracy, for that short time. I always look upon a Texas Democratic Convention as an assembling point for reaffirmation of principles and pledges to a great party. I will expect everyone of you to be there in that Raleigh Hotel lobby. If I beat you there, look me up; if you get there first, I will look you up. But let's all be there just for the downright good it will do us."

Lynch Davidson said there wouldn't be any Lynch Davidson for Governor rally, speech making, or anything else. "The less of candidates at this convention and the more democracy, the better it will be for all of us," he concluded.

FIFTH CAVALRY CAMP HERE AGAIN MONDAY.

The first squadron of the 5th Cavalry, which passed through here some two weeks ago enroute to Brownwood for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention, camped here again Monday night on their return to Ft. Clark at Brackett.

Officers and men were in fine spirits and all mounts and mules were in good condition. The Cavalry boys report a wonderful time at the convention and are still continuing to enjoy themselves along the river.

Monday night they camped in the Schreiner Park, where they found fishing and bathing very enticing. The next morning the squadron moved to the 15-mile crossing on South Llano and camped there Wednesday night at the last water hole on the river and get into Rocksprings for the following night, arriving at Fort Clark about Saturday night.

Capt. J. M. Tully, who is in command, decided that in order to have men and animals in better condition for the last three days marching, which will be more than the usual length, that they would spend three days going to Rocksprings, instead of two. This will allow the men to enjoy swimming and fishing in the river for three nights.

On the way up, Lt. Wells, Adj and Supply officer, found that he could purchase forage, grain and bread here at reasonable prices and arrangements were accordingly made to buy around $1,000 worth of supplies here. H. G. Perry assisted the Supply Officer and the grain, forage, bread and meat were delivered to them at all stops, even inciuding the stop at Rocksprings

Only one accident occurred on the trip. One horse got a leg broken at Brownwood and had to be killed. The horses in this outfit are old cavalry mounts and average 15 years in age; but with the excellent care given them, they have the appearance of much younger ones.

This squadron has the distinction of having among its enlisted personnel, the champion boxer of the Eighth Army Corps Area, and among the officers, the champion polo team of the Eighth.

The Eagle has just finished printing 2,000 large illustrated folders for the Junction Hardware Co. This progressive firm doubtless does more to bring tourists here and to assist them after they arrive, than any other half dozen business institutions in the town. They have gone to a considerable expense in getting out this picture folder, which will be sent out to all parts of the country and will result in bringing hundreds of people here who have never visited here before. This will mean increased business for the town and a better market for the things farmers have to sell. While we feel that practically all our business houses are much more progressive than is usually found in a town of this size, we still lack a lot when it comes to concerted effort in interesting people in spending their vacation here. We must all pull for the town and must pull together for our mutual interests.

THE FINANCING OF FARM MORTGAGES.

January 1, 1920 census bureau showed $7,857,700,000 farm mortgage debt.

The census enumerators only returned $4,003,767,192, having secured returns on only about half of the mortgaged debt.

Based on these facts, farm mortgage debts, January 1, 1924 were estimated at $10,500,000,000.

The loans carried on farm mortgage debts are distributed as follows: carried by farm mortgage bankers, $2,450,000,000; farm loan companies, $1,600,000,000; life insurance companies, $1,672,900,000; fraternal insurance companies, $2,884,864,313; federal land banks, $799,596,834; joint stock land banks, $392,638,853.

This is a remarkable showing of small percentage of farm mortgage debt mostly held by farm loan bankers and insurance companies with aggregate farm values as security of $70,000,000,000.

American agriculture is operated on about 15 per cent of borrowed capital and 85 per cent of capital owned by the farmers themselves.

This is a remarkable contrast to all other lines of business, industries and corporations run on average with 50 per cent or more of borrowed capital.—Industrial News.

ONE WAY TO HELP THE FARMER: IMPROVE SOIL.

Soil fertility lies at the very basis of human life. As soils grow poor the human race dies out. America is consuming and wasting its soil fertility at a rapid rate.

We have come to the point where our land must be fed if it would feed us. The question asks itself: Can soil be kept indefinitely fertile? The answer is found in land that has been cropped for 2,000 years and more, and is yet very fertile. But such land is not to be found except in stable civilizations.

Within the memory of men now living, commercial fertilizers in America were hardly known. America now consumes over 6,000,000 tons of these every year. Of this, 80 per cent is from raw materials found in our own country, but the 20 per cent we buy from abroad costs us more than $35,000,000 every year.

This money goes mostly to Germany for potash and to Chile for nitrates. Potassium nitrogen and phosphorus are the three elements most needed for soil sustenance, and these are what we seek in commercial fertilizers. Raw phosphorus we have in abundance. Indeed, the world comes to us for it, because our deposits now open, are very rich and easily worked

One way to help the farmer besides lending him money and marketing his products, is to ensure him cheap fertilizers as a national policy.—Industrial News.

CONVENTION PARADE WAS FOUR MILES LONG

Forming a procession that was unquestionably the greatest demonstration that Brownwood has been permitted to witness, and one that in point of numbers participating and the enthusiasm shown, would do credit to any of the largest cities of the State or nation, the delegates to the sixth annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce staged their annual parade Wednesday morning.

Led by Governor Pat M. Neff, Alvin Owsley, past national commander of the American Legion, and A. B. Spencer, president of the West Texas Chamber, the parade took an hour and five minutes to pass a given point.

There was music galore, thirty-five bands by actual count, vieing with each other as to which could play the loudest and snappiest music. A conservative esfimate places the number of musicians participating at 1,050.

Men experienced in judging the size of a crowd place the number of participants in the parade at between 13,000 and 14,000, and then insist that their figures are conservative. The parade was more than four miles long.

First came an automobile bearing Governor Neff, Colonel Alvin M. Owsley, President Spencer and other dignitaries. The famous Brownwood Gray Mare band was next and right upon their trail was Weatherford band. Then came three troops of cavalry. The cavalrymen marched with heads up and sabers at attention.

IMPORTED WOOL.

During the month of March, wool imports received at Boston alone totaled over 6,000,000 pounds, coming from all parts of the world. Argentine and Australia sent about 2,000,000 pounds each. From New Zealand came 1,160,000 pounds; from Chile, 34,870; Iceland, 20,000; England, 149,000; Scotland, 56,000; Turkey, 11,000, and Canada, 27,000 pounds.

ABOUT ADVERTISING FOR ROAD BIDS.

County Engineer W. E. Simpson was here from San Antonio this week. Mr. Simpson usually knows as much or more about when new highway work is to start as anyone.

He says the plans are still not quite ready for bids to be asked for on the ten miles of the Del Rio road in Carta Valley community. And neither are plans quite ready to ask for bids on the Kerrville road in Real County. The indicatoins now are that the bids can be ordered advertised for on both pieces of road at the June term of Commissioners' Court, and that bids can be opened July 9, subject to approval of the High way Department.

The Edwards County Commissioners' Court, and Mr. Simpson went over east and met the Real County Commissioners Wednesday, at a point on the road and they discussed road matters together. Commissioner Babb says the Real County Commissioners are boosters for the new Kerrville highway, with bright prospects that a highway will be built from Leakey north to intersect the new Kerrville road and thus connect Leakey as well as Rocksprings direct with San Antonio. They are now getting deeds to the right-of-way in Real County.

Mr. Babb says fourteen men, mostly hungry county commissioners, were entertained at the hospitable Marshall ranch home while down there, and if they did not build much road they were certainly given a delightful dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Marshall.—Edwards County Leader.

RADIO ON THE FARM.

The radio, while generally regarded as belonging more to urban than rural life, has become popular in the country. The department of agriculture recently completed a survey showing that 145,000 farm families are now equipped with radio receiving sets.

Based upon an estimate of five persons to a family, this would mean that there are now 750,000 rural radio fans capable of tuning in and hearing the various programs put on at the broadcasting stations.

The radio may work as a greater influence than the telephone, good roads, electricity, or the motor car, in keeping people on the farm, for these conveniences, in many cases, only increased the hunger for things urban.

SUTTON COUNTY DISTRICT COURT.

Owing to the heavy docket for this term of Court, it was necessary to carry it over into the second week. Four cases and one application for a new trial was heard this week.

Kereno Sanchez was tried for delivering liquor and found guilty and received a sentence of one year. An application for a new trial was entered but was denied.

John A. Martin who was charged with assault and attempt to murder, was found guilty of aggravated assault and was fined $25.00.

Pancho Rocha, who was charged with the theft of 198 head of sheep from Geo. S. Allison, was found not guilty.

Jack Brisben, who was charged with theft of a watch, was given a thre-year suspended sentence.—Devils' River News.

THE JUMEL MANSION

The Robert Morris house, more recently called the Jumel Mansion, located near One Hundred and Sixtieth street and Amsterdam avenue, in the city of New York, is one of the most famous of all the historic buildings in that greatest of all American cities. Well preserved, it is a splendid specimen of Georgian architecture.

As history goes, Colonel Robert Morris of the Forty-seventh British regiment and a comrade-in-arms of General George Washington, purchased the property and erected this mansion which he subsequently presented to his bride, in 1763.

General Washington occupied the place in 1776, while 8,000 volunteer soldiers camped in the neighborhood. During a battle which resulted in the capture of Fort Washington, this house was the center of operations. In 1777 it served as the headquarters of the British army. In 1778 it was occupied by General Baron Von Kuypausen and his German following as Hessian headquarters.

Following the close of the Revolutionary war, this building was familiarly known as Calumet Inn. Stage coaches operating between New York city and Albany changed horses at this point. President Washington and his cabinet dined here in 1790.

In 1810 Stephen Jumel, a French wine merchant of fame and fortune, purchased this mansion, restored it to its condition in the time of Washington. Jumel died in 1832. The following year Mme. Jumel married the illustrious Aaron Burr who, in 1801, was elected vice president of the United States, and who shot and killed the celebrated Alexander Hamilton in a duel which was the outgrowth of a political feud, at Weehawken, New Jersey, in 1804. Subsequently, Attorney Chase, who studied law in Burr's office and who married a niece of Mme. Jumel, occupied this house for 50 years.

In 1903 the property was purchased by the city and in 1907 the Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution acquired the use of the house for a museum of historical relics and furnishings of the Revolutionary period.

In the council chamber, a large octagonal room at the rear of the broad hall, General Washington, it is said, received visits from the sachems of the five Iroquois tribes who came to offer their allegiance to the cause of liberty.

Since his inaugural address, President Coolidge has had two outstanding issues to deal with --a new tax bill and the adjusted compensation bill. In the inaugural address he used nine words in referring to the compensation bill, stating that he was opposed to it in any form.

Through the old guard in the House and Senate, he has been waging a continual battle to defeat this compensation bill and to have enacted a bill that would tax the rich less and the poor more. Secretary Mellon furnished the outline of the tax bill. Mr. Mellon is reputed to be one of the three wealthiest men in the country, and was very careful, in helping to draw the bill, to see that his millionaire friends were taken care of.

Unfortunately the oil scandal has consumed the greater part of the time of the present Congress. This has added a great load to the already heavy burdens of the President, who is more and more being looked upon by the masses as the tool of big business.

Seemingly, he has gone further in his efforts to defeat the compensation bill than to secure the passage of the Mellon tax bill. While it has been evident all along that in both Houses there was a substantial majority for the compensation measure, the President and "stand pat" Republicans have hoped to divert the minds of enough members of the Senate to prevent the necessary two-thirds majority, as was the case two years ago, under President Harding. A number of the doubtful Senators were called to the White House for breakfast with the President the morning the bill was to be voted on, in a last effort to change them into the ranks of the President's loyal followers. The figures were juggled in every conceivable manner by the Treasury Department, in an effort to show that the compensation measure would bankrupt the country. The President's high sounding phrases about buyying patriotism availed him little in this fight. It seems he is willing for the large manufacturing interests, headed by his present campaign manager, to make enormous profits from the manufacture of war materials, but was unwilling to allow the men who served in the trenches, a few dollars. This is the third time in the past few days that both Houses of Congress have voted decissively against the President's will.

"If you want to know exactly how a thing ought to be done, ask some man who has no responsibility in the matter, and who has never given the matter in question a thought. The man with responsibility and who thinks is never sure of his position as is the man without responsibility, and who doesn't think."—Comanche Chief.

The man without responsibility never thinks, and the fact that he does not think is the reason he has no responsibility.

The men in a community who do most of the knocking are the ones who never contribute anything to the enterprises they are always so happy in working against.

The man who knows everything about what should be done is nearly always the man who never makes any contribution towards getting things done, or if he agrees to make a small contribution he usually places such conditions on his small contribution that he feels safe that it will never be met and he will have the pleasure of telling the stranger about what he offered to do if so and so was done—"but they wouldn't do it."

R. S. Price, owner of the Price's Camp, just above town on South Llano, arrived this week and will be here for some time arranging his camp for the summer Tourist Season. Mr. Price is having The Eagle get out a splendid folder advertising his camp and the Junction country in general. This folder is very attractively arranged with numerous scenes of the camp and other places along the river. Six cottages are about ready for use at his camp and others will be provided, as well as a number of tents Mr. Price says he is glad to see that some others are taking up the tourist camp idea and that he hopes by another year there will be several large camps around Junction.

Rev. Skaggs reports a most enjoyable occasion at Eight-Mile last Sunday, where a large crowd gathered for a program as announced in this paper some two or three weeks ago. Cavaness Brothers

You Need Not Fail
by Witt Hadley

Frank C. Riblet, from Gallon, Ohio, had every right to—but didn't. Riblet's father owned a store in Gallon and couldn't make it pay. His family were in abject poverty. Taken from school when a small child he started as a freight train coupler in the yards of Gallon. Then he became a vender of candy on a train from Crestline to Indianapolis. Next he fired a locomotive and then became an engineer, holding his job eleven years. He built a shanty to live in and spent half of each night studying how to make more money, and starving himself to save every penny.

Then he went to Cleveland and as a free lance tried to sell real estate. He hit upon a novel scheme of taking an option on a lot, trading the lot for a grocery store, developing the store and selling it. His profits were meagre but they were profits.

With them he bought a half interest in a livery stable, paying $86 down. He found himself handicapped by a competitive livery man, so with three city lots bought on option he traded them for his competitor's business and gave him notes in addition. With the profits from both stables he took up the options and bought more real estate on option. Then Riblet took a 99-year lease on land next to a big hotel, erected a five-story livery barn and doubled his income.

When his wife's health failed he sold out and went to Arizona, living there three years, then returned to Cleveland. He made plans to erect the finest garage in town but stopped to have his picture taken. Becoming interested in photography he went across the street, rented a store, hired the photographer's clerk who had waited on him, to run it, and started to do business. It became necessary for him to hire six assistants.

Recently Riblet became interested in Texas oil wells. He struck oil the first shot at 1300 feet. He used a peculiar argument in securing capital. He impressed upon each investor that the risk they ran was great. He suggested that each one put in only what he could afford to lose in case of failure.

Today Riblet is a well preserved man of seventy-one, and is worth one million dollars.

MEMORIAL DAY

All stand upon a common ground this day, duty bound to make this nation a living monument to our soldiers of all wars who gave their lives in the cause of Liberty and the furtherance of our national ideals.

We want to join you in honoring our heroes and are happy to cease material tasks of the day and turn to the lofty and the spiritual. We bow in respectful silence and renew that prayer of freemen that this nation "shall not perish from the earth."

Ours is a nation free at last from all lines—no North—no South—no East—no West—a world leader in every great movement for peace and happiness. We are eternally grateful for our enviable position as a nation.

When Work is Fun!

Every man knows the annoyance of trying to do handy jobs around the home, when not equipped with the proper tools. But he also knows there is a joy in doing work with keen edged tools that cut true to the line.

Many men, however, have not stopped to consider the great saving in the cost of repairs through the purchase of a "Handyman Tool Kit" aside from the pleasures enjoyed in the work.

It is failure to attend promptly to the little jobs around the home which quickly causes depreciation of property.

For economy's sake don't attempt another job until you have equipped yourself for the job. Tools are a good investment.

THOROUGHBRED POULTRY PAYING FARM PRODUCT.

(By Tom Mann.)

Two of the most enthusiastic chicken breeders in East Texas, or any other part of Texas, as to that, are Mr. and Mrs. C. W. White, who live near the town of Atlanta, Texas. Certainly they have every reason to be enthusiastic, for after many years of experience with all sorts of chickens, on just a back yard basis, and for the past five years specializing on White Leghorns and now merging into the breeder class, they have found that their chickens have been and still are, the very best money producing product of their farm.

Up to this time they have not operated on a very large scale but have kept about 150 hens, but these hens have had to be real producers or they found their way to the pot, or to the market, but never to another home, for, as Mr. White remarked: "I would never put off my culls on some one else. If the chickens are not good enough for me to keep, they are certainly not good enough for some one else to keep, so I sell my culls to the market man. A still better plan is to dress and sell them direct to the consumer.

This plan works two ways. It gets you more money for your cull chickens and gives you the satisfaction of knowing absolutely that these culls will not be sold to anyone else as breeding and producing stock. Selling cull chickens as breeding stock has worked great hardships upon conscientious breeders and has been the means of discouraging and disgusting many people with the chicken business who, otherwise might have become enthusiastic and constructive poultrymen.

"Up to this time we have had very few chickens of any sort to sell. We have use for every good producer that we can raise or buy, as we have specialized upon egg production for choice market purposes and some for sale for hatching eggs. We are beginning to spread out some, however, and this season we have purchased several hundred day-old chicks of the highest producing strains that we could find anywhere. We are having fine success raising these and later along we intend to increase our incubator capacity and to utilize the eggs from our best producing hens for hatching.

While looking about the place I noticed a conspicuous absence of all cockbirds and when I remarked about this Mr. White said: "After the breeding season is over the poultry man who allows the cock to run with the hens is doing so to his own detriment and loss. The public generally is educated to the point that they know the difference between fertile and infertile eggs. So when the breeding season ends we either dispose of or segregate the roosters and specialize on infertile eggs.

"We have a Co-operative Infertile Egg Circle in this community and we work in co-operation with other similar organizations scattered throughout the country and ship sixteen crates of infertile eggs every week. These egg circles have not only been the means of the small producers receiving more money for their eggs, but they have been of great value in stimulating interest in poultry generally, and anywhere you go in Cass County you will find the farmers 'swatting the roosters' after the breeding season."

"What about feed—and do you raise much of the feed you use here?" I asked.

"I raise as much of it as I possibly can," replied Mr. White "I believe in feeding. In fact, I have found that proper feeding and care is the exact difference between a profit and a loss in poultry raising, and when a person attempts to starve a profit out of his chicken he is going to find that his 'profits' will show up on the wrong side of the ledger. We raise corn and common field peas for the chickens. We feed the corn chopped and the peas are fed in the hulls This supplies both food and exercise and exercise is very necessary if you are going to have vigorous, healthy chickens. We also feed shorts and mill feeds."

When asked as to his opinion concerning the development of the poultry industry in East Texas, Mr. White said: "I believe that it will not be long before East Texas takes the lead in the matter of poultry production. We have every natural advantage here and our people are rapidly coming to the realization that when properly handled the chickens pay better than most anything that can be raised on the farm, and if there is any doubt about this, I invite anybody who is skeptical to visit our farm and I will show them a flock of chickens that are paying their own expenses and all of ours besides."

EDITOR TAKEN TO TASK FOR TRIMMING BIG FISH.

The editor was taken to task Saturday by Dr. Patterson and M. G. Roberson for taking ten pounds off their big fish reported in the last issue of the X-Ray Dr. Patterson says: "You gave our fish as weighing 27 pounds, when the weight was really 37 pounds." BANK ADVERTISING.

Hon. Henri Edwards, editor of the Troup Banner, in commenting on the value of modern bank advertising, offers the following thoughtful observation:

"The trouble in this country today with those who would get on a solid financial footing is not that times are hard, for times are really extremely good in comparison with the times thru which practically all have had to labor who have laid by a competence. The trouble is not with the times—it is with the people. So many of us have never learned the value of our time, our days, our hours, which provide us an opportunity to labor a gainful occupation. We have never learned the difference between our mere wants and our actual necessities. Too many of us are trying to live a Cadillac life on a wheelbarrow income. Not one in a hundred of us who are working to get on in the world, or think we are so working, know the value of small savings, or of laying by any of our income with a view to putting it to work for ourselves."

Bank advertising of the present day is largely devoted to the encouragement of savings. Bankers realize that a prosperous bank must have a prosperous constituency, and that spendthrift ways are not conducive to prosperity. A comfortable bank balance is one of the most desirable of possessions. Savings accounts are therefore solicited and encouraged.

Among all the varieties of service offered by the modern bank none is more valuable than the present-day effort to help the depositor conserve his means..

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.

Mrs. T. M. Hodges was pleasantly surprised at her home while attending a meeting of the Blue Bonnet Club at Mrs. Bissett's Thursday afternoon.

Upon returning home after inviting the guests to come with her to eat cake and ice cream that she would have to order, she found that some one had beat her to it and had the house beautifully decorated and the birthday cake and cold drinks all ready and waiting for her return. She was the recipient of lovely gifts and appreciated this beautiful way of remembrance on her 72nd birthday.

After several hours of pleasantry, all departed, wishing Mrs. Hodges many more happy surprises and all as good as this one.

PLEASANT PICNIC.

Mrs. Oren C. Reid entertained the Grammar School Graduates with a picnic at Cedar Crossing Monday evening.

A delicious chicken supper with all the necessary trimmings to go with it, was served.

The class colors, green and white, and the class flower, the honey suckle, made the table very attractive.

After supper, various games were enjoyed and Mrs. Reid escorted a happy group of boys and girls home.

PICNIC PARTY.

A jolly crowd of picnickers met at the Hankins home Wednesday evening at six o'clock; decided after the hard shower, "It Ain't Gonna Rain no Mo," and fled to the river for a swim. Eleene Newby and Dillard Motley won the bathing caps for the fastest swimming. Too much dampness drove the crowd back to the Hankins home with their lunches and a feast was enjoyed on the "back porch."

Like the musical comedy, they decided after lunch to have a show, and the up-stairs was ransacked for costumes, part played the audience. La Verne Smith dressed in trousers, red jacket, leather hat and whip in hand, announced the coming of the actors; while Bessie Cowsert, in poriet costume was one of the beauties; Eveylin Nance, a Chinese lady tripped with Jewel Riley as a Japanese lady; Cloma Murrah, H. T. 2 BIRTHDAYS OBSERVED.

M. G. Coyle reached the 68th milestone of his life's journey and Miss Nannie Lamar was also to the 'Steenth anniversary of her birth, so last Sunday some sixty of their friends gath ered at the pretty Coyle suburban home south of town and enjoyed one of the usual birthday feasts. The plans were made as a surprise to Mr. Coyle and Miss Lamar and indeed they were surprised when the cars rolled up soon after church services and deposited their many human burdens and baskets of good eats.

The ladies of the South Methodist Aid were in charge and soon had the tables spread and turned the hungry crowd to the festal board and each and every one did complete justice to the excellent eats. The occasion was like so many others at the pleasant Coyle home, a most enjoyable one, and both of the guests of honor, Mr. Coyle and Miss Lamar, felt indeed grateful to the friends for remembering them.—Houston, Mo., Herald.

Many local people are acquainted with Mr. Coyle, who with Mrs. Coyle, spent last winter at the McKee ranch.—Editor's Note.
