'HOPELESS' HEARTS OF INFANTS ARE REPAIRED

Surgeons In Oxygen Pressure Tank Prove Technique

BOSTON (AP) — Boston surgeons, working in a submarine-like tank under oxygen pressures up to 55 pounds per square inch, have mended tiny babies' faulty hearts formerly thought beyond repair.

The operations were the first under high oxygen pressure in American medical history, spokesmen for Children's Hospital Medical Center said Saturday.

They were planned to increase oxygen absorption by babies while doctors worked to improve hearts failing to circulate enough blood through the infants' lungs.

Such heart defects cause oxygen starvation and make the babies blue in color.

The success of the pioneering operations was seen as a major step in surgery and medicine that may benefit both adults and children, especially those needing operations but suffering from low levels of blood oxygen.

Therapeutic treatments may benefit such conditions as heart trouble, carbon monoxide poisoning, certain lung infections, gastrointestinal problems and blood vessel diseases of the legs.

Four infants who underwent surgery were too ill, by previous standards, for corrective operations.

Two, whose hearts were mended in October and November, 1962, have been discharged from the hospital and are at their homes.

One of the four died two days after surgery from unrelated complications, doctors said.

One died from heart failure eight hours after the operation.

The research was under the general direction of Dr. Robert E. Gross, who holds the William E. Ladd chair as professor of children's surgery at Harvard Medical School, and is surgeon in chief at the Children's Hospital. Dr. Wiliam F. Bernhard, clinical associate surgeon at the hospital, was in direct charge of the project.

The new technique is based on knowledge, more than 100 years old, that oxygen saturation of the body tissues is increased as air pressure around a person rises.

Kassem Slain, Iraq Reds Facing Death

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraq's rebel leaders sent fallen Premier Abdel Karim Kassem to the firing squad Saturday, Baghdad radio announced, and ordered the annihilation of Communist agents.

"The mad dictator has been trampled beneath the feet of the people," screamed a woman over the radio after the official announcement. But the rebel regime broadcast news of other actions which made it appear its grip on Iraq was far from firm.

The broadcast said Kassem, 48, who boasted two months ago of escaping 38 attempts on his life, went to his death at 1:30 p.m. after a military trial. Executed with him were three of his lieutenants, one of them a notorious Communist agent, the broadcast said.

Arab nations lined up to extend diplomatic recognition of the provisional regime of President Abdel Salam Mohammed Aref, a staunch admirer of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

Curiously, Syria was among the first. Its leaders had been reported deeply concerned that the Iraqi coup could bring only trouble to their anti-Nasser government.

Jordan, too, was among those giving early recognition, even though the boost the Iraqi revolt gives to Nasser's Arab unity dreams could work against King Hussein and other monarchies, sheikdoms and sultanates in the oil-rich Middle East. These include Saudi Arabia and Iran, where the United States has millions invested in oil and air bases.

Others recognizing the rebels included Algeria, the United Arab Republic, Yemen and Kuwait. The little sheikdom of Kuwait, with one of the largest oil reserves in the world, was claimed by Kassem.

What actually was going on inside Iraq could not be independently determined. Its borders were sealed and the world was told of developments through Baghdad radio.

The neighboring countries of Jordan, Iran, Turkey and Syria alerted their armed forces and hurriedly checked their border positions.

Jordan warned against any foreign intervention in Iraq, presumably meaning the warning for Nasser, who had rushed military aid to Yemen after a September revolt there overthrew the monarchy.

The leaders of the revolt appear to be a combination of anti-Communist Arab Ba'ath Socialists and nationalists. Although admirers of Nasser, they are believed to favor Arab unity through a federation of states, rather than outright merger as Nasser attempted with Syria in 1958.

Nevertheless, the turn of Iraq toward Nasser is expected to encourage Nasser supporters inside Syria, Jordan and Saudi Arabia.

Wishing You Well

Carolyn Roane, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Roane, drops her penny into the Wishing Well and wishes all persons afflicted with heart ailments as much good fortune as she has experienced in the past. At the age of 3½ years, Carolyn underwent open-heart surgery to correct a defect present at birth. She was born with a hole in the wall which separates the two upper cavities of the heart. The fountain at the College Park Shopping Center will be used as a Wishing Well the rest of this month. Donations go to the Heart Fund.

Cosden To Be Extinguished For New Firm

American Petrofina To Buy Assets, Name Will Remain

Within a week or so, Cosden Petroleum Corporation will be extinguished and another, bearing the name of Cosden, will take over all its assets.

American Petrofina, Inc., a holding company with offices in New York, is the prospective purchaser of Cosden Petroleum. R. L. Tollett, president of Cosden since 1939, will continue as president of the new corporation and as its general manager, and job security for all is assured for at least a year. These are some of the highlights in Tollett's message to the Cosden family in the current issue of the company magazine, The Copper.

Under orders not to comment on the negotiations now in progress with Petrofina, SA., an international concern of Brussels and parent company of American Petrofina, Inc., Tollett said in his column, "Mr. T. Talks," is a personal rather than an official matter.

"I have always regarded it as my duty to let our employes know what is going on, and in turn I have expected and received their loyalty and good performance on their jobs," he observed.

"Recent rumors to the effect that W. R. Grace & Co. is selling its shares are not without foundation," he observed in his comments to employes. "Actually, Grace is causing to be sold all the assets of Cosden, which is to say the whole business enterprise . . . providing two-thirds of the stockholders agree, the corporation will be liquidated by making cash distribution pro rata to all owners of shares.

"Assuming this is to be done . . . there will be another corporation organized on the same day so that there will be no interruption in progressing business as usual. . . .

"I am to continue as general manager and be president of the successor corporation. I have been deeply concerned with continuing to do business profitably and with the welfare of our employes.

"The new corporation will bear the name of Cosden. Employes will have job security for at least one year. There will be no reduction in fringe benefits and no impairment of rights of employes under the Cosden Pension Plan."

He went on to say that all the shares are likely to be owned by another American corporation, which would be American Petrofina, which is two-thirds publicly owned, principally by United States citizens. Cosden's responsibility would be solely to American Petrofina Inc., and not to American Petrofina Company of Texas, which has headquarters in Dallas.

Observing that during the past three years since Grace acquired a controlling interest (52 per cent) of Cosden, Tollett said that the company had functioned as a subsidiary rather than a strictly publicly owned corporation.

"Our principal business is buying crude oil, refining it and marketing the products therefrom. We do the best job we can, and whether we are owned by one stockholder or many we would keep on doing about what we have been doing for more than 30 years."

Don't Worry, Says K; We're Just Instructors

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev said Saturday the United States need not worry about a Soviet arms buildup in Cuba, that Russian troops are there only to instruct Cubans in the use of modern weapons.

Khrushchev's message was relayed by Roy H. Thomson, Canadian-born newspaper magnate, after a 2½-hour talk with the premier in the Kremlin.

In another appearance, a recorded television interview broadcast to the Russian people Saturday night, Khrushchev blasted France for signing a friendship treaty Jan. 22 with West Germany, a pact which he charged would help revive the old origins of war danger.

This was part of a special program, filmed for—but rejected by—France's state-run television network, about the 20th anniversary of the Battle of Stalingrad.

Thomson advised newsmen Khrushchev told him there are no Soviet nuclear arms in Cuba and only a certain number of Russian troops are there, engaged in training duties.

Asked how many such troops are on duty, Khrushchev said he did not know, but "many have left Cuba and are continuing to leave Cuba."

QUESTION IS WHEN

The current Washington estimate is 17,000. President Kennedy recailed at a news conference Thursday that Khrushchev promised the Russians would be withdrawn in due time. Kennedy said the United States is trying to ascertain when. He conferred Saturday with Ambassador Foy D. Kohler, who may take up the troop withdrawal issue on his imminent return to Moscow.

Thomson told Khrushchev that Americans were expressing great concern about reports of a buildup of Soviet arms in Cuba and asked if there was any basis for this concern.

"None at all," Khrushchev replied.

As to the missile situation, the publisher quoted him as saying: "All the atomic weapons are in our hands and we do not need to place them there. We can reach anyone we want with our own weapons from our own territory. It is more reliable to have them on our territory."

Resignations If Dunn Stays

PECOS, Tex. (AP) —Lawyers for the board of the only hospital here asserted Saturday that key nurses and technicians will resign if Dr. John Paul Dunn is restored to the medical staff.

The statement was an answer to a court petition by Dunn, in which he asks the court, in effect, to restore him to the medical staff.

A district court has set a hearing for Thursday to decide on whether a temporary injunction shall be issued against the board.

The board refused to retain Dr. Dunn on the staff. It charged him with numerous acts, including harassment of hospital personnel, failure to respond to calls and messages to attend patients, criticism to patients of other doctors' treatment, and of taking part in love scenes with patients.

The answer filed in court Saturday pointed out that the hospital is the only one in Reeves County, which has 20,000 persons.

The answer said, "If the plaintiff Dunn is granted a temporary injunction granting to him staff privileges, pending a review of the board's action for which he undoubtedly will apply, the majority of the key personnel of the hospital staff will resign therefrom."

The board's document added, "Such a loss of personnel would so seriously handicap the operation of said hospital that the reputable members of the medical staff would be reluctant to entrust their seriously ill patients to the care which then could be given such patients at the hospital."

The board said doctors would be compelled to send their patients to other hospitals in the area, since it would be impossible to restaff the hospital quickly.

"The equities demand the refusal of such temporary injunction," said the board's answer.

Dunn could not send his patients to the hospital or treat them there if finally removed from the staff.

The lawyers for the board also said Dunn's claim that the hospital board is not qualified to rule on whether he should be ousted because he is suing the board is not proper.

The board's lawyers said that to carry Dunn's reasoning further, "It would permit a successful party in a district court trial to prevent an appeal by simply bringing a suit against the judges of the Court of Civil Appeals . . . and thus permanently establish his victory."

Dunn was told Jan. 2 he would not be reappointed to the staff. He obtained a court order requiring a hearing by the hospital board, which this week affirmed its Jan. 2 decision after a hearing.

Senate Probe Of Air Project Is Growing

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate investigation of the Pentagon's handling of a multibillion-dollar warplane project was reported Saturday assuming major proportions.

The Senate Investigations subcommittee is looking into what Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., termed reports of inefficiency and favoritism in connection with the huge project.

Involved is the development of a supersonic fighter-bomber plane, now designated as the TFX, to be used by both the Air Force and Navy. Plans call for manufacture of about 1,500 of the aircraft after it has been perfected.

Reviewing The

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

It didn't take long for the new postage rates to show up in totals. Receipts at the Big Spring office in January were $52,848, about $19,000 up from the same month a year ago. Actually, the increase shouldn't have upped the total but by some $8,500, but then probably a lot of people laid in stocks of the new series of stamps (such as the 5-cent first class).

* * *

Incidentally, the post office had a fire last week to destroy stamps valued at $6,221. There was no need to burn these; we would have been happy to have hauled them out of the way of the postmaster.

* * *

A contract was let for $2,041,435 to the R. H. Fulton Company of Lubbock for construction of a 51.5-mile pipeline from Lake J. B. Thomas to northern Coke County. Bids were so favorable that directors elected to make the north 21.7 miles 24-inch diameter instead of 18 as originally planned and 21 as later specified. The significance of this is that the line will pass not many miles east of Moss Creek Lake. Water could be routed from Lake Thomas to Moss Creek and thence to Big Spring, giving this city access to a greater potential supply.

The session sponsored by the Howard County Council of the Texas Heart Association, in cooperation with registered and vocational nurse district groups, drew good attendance last week. The programs, according to those qualified to judge, were excellent. This is an example of the fine service your dollars given on Heart Sunday provide. By the way, Mrs. Tommy Hubbard needs more volunteers to help with the door-to-

U. S. Asks When Red Forces To Leave Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States asked Russia Saturday to say when it plans to withdraw Soviet military forces from Cuba.

The question was put to Soviet Ambassador Anatoly Dobrynin by Secretary of State Dean Rusk in a 75-minute meeting at the State Department.

Rusk had met with President Kennedy at the White House earlier in the day. U.S. Ambassador Foy D. Kohler participated in the White House conference and is expected to press the troop issue with the Soviet government when he gets back to his post in Moscow next Thursday.

Dobrynin, U.S. informants reported, was unable to give Rusk an immediate answer. That has been expected and the query in effect was a request from Kennedy through Rusk to Soviet Premier Khrushchev for an explanation of his policy on the 17,000 troops and military technicians retained in Cuba following the crisis of last October.

Dobrynin reportedly told Rusk that the troops are there for training the Cuban army in the use of advanced weapons.

Climax To Y Membership Drive To Be Annual Dinner

Climax to the current YMCA membership enrollment will be the second annual benefit dinner, a formal affair to be held at the Cosden Country Club February 18.

The dinner guest list is made up of those who become sustaining members of the Y through a $100 subscription. A large number of people already have accepted invitations which went out during the past week.

JOHN BEN SHEPPERD

Speaker for the affair will be John Ben Shepperd, Odessa attorney and one of the state's best known public figures. For years prominently identified in JayCee work (he was state and international president) and in other civic activities, Shepperd later went into the political field and served as the state's attorney general. Following an illustrious term there, he retired to private practice.

He is in great demand as a public speaker.

Other special program items are being arranged, including musical novelty numbers. R. H. Weaver, new Y president, is to be master of ceremonies.

The YMCA benefit affair last year drew a large crowd, and represented some $14,500 in sustaining memberships for the organization. Y leaders are confident of as big response this year.

General arrangements for the dinner are being directed by R. L. Tollett, with Ralph McLaughlin heading up a special solicitation team.

Governor Receives Scouting Report

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. John Connally received the annual report Saturday on Boy Scouting in Texas.

A total of 275 scouts from 24 cities gathered in the Capitol for the brief ceremony.

WHO'S YOUR CHOICE?

'Courtesy Month' Rewards Sales And Service People

Who's your choice as the most courteous sales or service person in town?

A young fellow at a service station? Somebody at the dry cleaning counter? A food checker? Saleslady in a department store?

It could be anybody in town (proprietors excluded) who, in your estimation, is the personification of friendliness and helpfulness.

You'll have an opportunity to nominate your favorite person, and perhaps win a big award.

It's coming about through a city - wide "Courtesy Month" sponsored by the Retail Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and in which every employed person in the city is eligible. Full details are on page 5-B of today's Herald.

Letters of nomination will be invited, beginning Feb. 18. They are to be of 35 words or less in length, and simply state the reason why you think a particular person should be honored as "most courteous." Letters should be addressed to the Chamber of Commerce.

Three winning letters will be chosen each week for four weeks. The writers of these letters each will receive $5 gift certificates redeemable at any Big Spring business house. The three sales or service people so named will receive identical certificates.

Then, at the end of the four-week period, the 12 winning letters will be reviewed (a board of impartial judges not connected with the retail or service field will make the decisions) and a grand prize letter will be chosen. The writer of that letter will receive a $250 gift certificate, good anywhere in the city. The sales or service person nominated in this letter will receive a special award and public recognition by the C-C board and other clubs.

During Courtesy Month, most of the people who serve you will be wearing name tags. You're invited to drop in at all places of business and get acquainted with them.

"We're out to prove that there are no more courteous people anywhere than in Big Spring, Texas," said Louis Wolfson, chairman of a special committee directing details of Courtesy Month. "We just hope people will take a little time and effort to recognize others who help them. We want to see hundreds and hundreds of letters."

West Texas Generally Fair

By The Associated Press

Clouds, fog and drizzle increased over the northeast third of Texas Saturday, teasing the thirsty area with the chance of light rain.

West Texas generally was fair.

All the state was mild; deep South Texas was quite warm with temperatures in the upper 80s.

The mercury rose to 90 degrees at Laredo for the state's high.

* * *

Rain, enough to slick the streets at least, fell in Big Spring about 10 p.m. last night. It was the first noticeable moisture for 1963, but was not enough to run water at the curbs.

Forecasts call for more possible showers or thundershowers this afternoon ahead of a cool spell due in Monday.

LT. N. T. REAVELY

Lt. Reavely Wins Honor

Lt. Neal T. Reavely, 3561st Pilot Training Squadron at Webb AFB, was named Instructor Pilot of the Month for January by Col. Harold C. Collins, Pilot Training Group Commander.

Lt. Reavely, a native of Mason, Mich., is a graduate of the Air Force Academy. He did his primary flying training at Spence Air Base, Ga., and completed his basic at Webb. He has been an instructor-pilot since December, 1961. He has approximately 1,000 hours of total flying time and 700 hours of jet time.

Lt. Reavely has maintained a rating of "excellent" with the local and command standardization boards and has established an enviable record in his work with marginal students. One of his students is now number one in class standings. In addition to his instructor duties, Lt. Reavely has served as Maintenance officer for student flying records for his flight.

Appeals Court To Hear Annexation Arguments

Texas Court of Civil Appeals at Eastland will hear oral arguments Thursday in the appeal brought by Gay Hill and Center Point schools from the finding of the 118th District Court here in the prolonged school annexation case.

Gil Jones, attorney for the Howard County School Board and the Big Spring Independent School District, will appear before the appellate court to defend the findings of the lower court.

The two common schools have a battery of attorneys, but who is to appear for them has not been announced.

Gay Hill and Center Point schools were annexed to the Big Spring District by an order of the Howard County School Board May 4, 1960. This immediately launched a legal war—which has gone on intermittently since. Finally, in July, 1962, the case came back to the 118th District Court here to be tried on its merits. The question, in essence, before the jury "was the county board empowered to order the annexation of the two districts to Big Spring District and did it do so in a proper manner?"

A jury returned a verdict upholding the action of the county board.

A notice of appeal was posted and the case worked its way to the Eastland court. The court has now set the matter for oral argument Feb. 15.

Regardless of how the appellate court may rule, the end of the long litigation is not in sight. Jones pointed out that if the court holds with the lower court, a motion for rehearing will undoubtedly be filed in the appellate court; if this is overruled an application to take the case to the state Supreme Court will undobtedly be offered. Should the court rule against the findings of the lower court, the Big Spring District would undoubtedly ask a hearing and, if denied, take its case to the higher court.

Meantime, in the nearly three years which have passed since the county board annexed the two common schools to Big Spring by a 3-2 vote, the personnel of the county board has changed. J. D. Gilmore and Fred Roman, who opposed the annexation order, are still on the board. Jim Lewis, who voted for it, was re-elected and is still a member. Two new members are serving—Chub Jones and Paul Bishop. The other two members who voted for the annexation May 4, 1960 were Jack Cook and Truman Jones, neither of whom is on the board now.

Members of the boards of the embattled schools have also changed.

The present county board was recently asked in a petition which was never officially considered to rescind the original annexation order. The board members said they were not certain it was within their power to do so, even if such action was favored. The attorney general was asked to rule whether such rescinding action was legal.

Wayne Burns, county attorney, who made the inquiry of the attorney general for the board, said Saturday that he had heard nothing from the inquiry.

Lamesa Rotarians Elect New Officers

LAMESA (SC) — A new slate of officers has been elected by the Lamesa Rotary Club.

They include Will Q. Morris, president; E. E. Wright, vice president; and Perry Roberts, secretary. New directors are A. Bill Reeves, Bill Beeson, Stansell Clement, W. B. Thompson; Bernie Holt, sergeant-at-arms; R. A. Gorsline, chaplain; and Walter H. Collins, outgoing president and ex-officio director.

The new officers will take office on July 1.

Transferred

Mrs. Mildred Stallings, Service Club director at Webb AFB since last June, will leave March 4, for Laredo AFB. Mrs. Stallings has five years of club work, serving at Lackland AFB and Moody AFB. She received a bachelor of arts degree from St. Mary's University in San Antonio. Born in Columbus, Ga., she calls San Antonio her home.

Sheriff Asks Auditor To Purchase Food For Jail

Sheriff Miller Harris said Saturday that he had asked the county auditor to assume the purchase of food for the county jail as has been the case with other supplies.

"I told the auditor Friday," said the sheriff, "that I think it will be a more satisfactory arrangement and method of doing business if food supplies for the jail are handled out of his office.

"He has graciously consented to do this, and I appreciate his acceptance of the responsibility.

"Records on all supplies—and food for prisoners is a supply—are funneled through the auditor's office anyhow.

"This will give the commissioners court an easier access to food records and to make whatever breakdown on per meal and other costs that members of the court might want to do. Our office is not equipped to prepare detailed breakdowns, and even if we were, this would be a duplication of the auditor's office.

"While I have disagreed with the court over certain matters of policy, such as the now-abandoned practice of feeding deputies a light lunch in order to have them on duty during the noon hour, I have been interested all the time in spending the county's money carefully. In asking that all purchases be handled by the auditor's office, I hope that this will help the court to carefully handle the spending of all county funds. Our jailer, cook and others will continue to perform their jobs as before, except that they will not engage in any buying except on orders from the auditor's office. Again, I want to say that I appreciate Wade Choate, our county auditor, agreeing to handle this."

3-Way Collision Fatal To 2 Men

WILLS POINT, Tex. (AP)—A loaded cattle truck and two cars collided three miles west of this Northeast Texas town early Saturday, killing two men.

The victims were Lynn Smith, 30, and Dock Roberts, 50, both of Wills Point.

Kiwanians Getting Ready For Annual Pancake Supper

Big Spring Kiwanians are busy assembling the mountain of food which will be needed Thursday night for its 11th Annual Pancake Supper.

This year, as last, the supper will be served in the Howard County Junior College Student Union Building. The serving starts at 5 p.m. and continues to 8 p.m.

As in the past, the menu will feature pancakes, made according to a recipe which has become famous in the past decade, with bacon, butter, syrup, coffee and milk. The price of tickets is 75 cents for adults and 50 cents for children. The theme is "Eat all you want for the price of a ticket."

Tickets are on sale now by all members of the Kiwanis Club and also will be sold at HCJC Thursday night.

The pancake suppers attract huge throngs.

"Not only is the food excellent," remarked one woman last year, "but the supper is a social event—it gives me a chance to see and talk to people I never see any other time in the year."

S. A. Walker, president of the Kiwanis Club, said that the assignment of club members to specific duties for the evening has been completed. Speedy service, good food and plenty of it, and a big crowd are the objectives of the supper, he said.

Profits from the supper are placed in the club fund for the furtherance of the Kiwanis program for underprivileged children.

It Won't Be The Same When Hugh Leaves Courthouse

Things aren't going to be quite the same around the Howard County Courthouse after March 1.

Hugh Compton, who has operated the concession stand in the first floor lobby for the past 12 years, is moving to Austin. He said he did not know what would be done about the stand.

Compton operated the stand under the State Vocational Rehabilitation program. He began its operation in the old courthouse and, when the new building was completed, reopened for business in it.

He said he and his mother, Mrs. H. M. Compton, would make their home in Austin. He hopes to obtain another stand or some similar work in the state capital. Hugh is a familiar figure to everyone who has occasion to visit the courthouse.

He has served as an unofficial guide for the building ever since he opened his stand. Strangers who come into the lobby and stand before the directory trying to find the office they want are usually approached by Compton.

He asks their mission and guides them to their destination.

He serves as changemaker for harassed courthouse workers and visitors who need money for parking meters. He distributes newspapers to the several offices. He dispenses cold drinks, coffee, cigarettes and candy and acts as a sort of official messenger for everyone around the county building.

If an official or deputy wants to contact some person, usually Hugh is advised. He keeps a sharp lookout for the wanted person and when he sights him he relays the message.

The Comptons have lived here 14 years. The State Vocational Rehabilitation Office will appoint someone to take over the stand.

DR. GRAUPERA

Third Refugee Joins VA Staff

A third Cuban refugee has been added to the staff of the Big Spring Veterans Administration Hospital. He is Dr. Luis E. Graupera, 41-year-old radiologist, who has assumed the position as acting chief of the radiology service at the hospital.

Dr. Graupera fled from his native Havana March 2, 1962. He was born there Nov. 2, 1922, received his doctorate from the University of Havana in 1948 and was in private practice there when he decided he no longer wished to live under the government there.

"I lied to get out of the country," Dr. Graupera said. "Doctors can leave only by getting a special permit. To get mine I told them I wanted to go to the United States to receive medical treatment." Dr. Graupera is partially paralyzed on his left side.

He was not coming to an altogether strange place when he arrived here. Already working at the hospital are Dr. Aristides Menendez and Dr. Tomas Armstrong, both of whom Dr. Graupera knew in Cuba. They are the other two doctors on the hospital's staff who have fled Cuba. Dr. Graupera arrived here Feb. 2 and went to work Feb. 4.

He and his family first lived in Miami, Fla., before he received his VA appointment. He was in Houston two months before transferring here.

DR. LUIS E. GRAUPERA

Dr. Graupera and his family live at 1500 Wood. They have two children who currently attend Washington Elementary School. He replaces Dr. John S. Jachna, who transferred to the VA Hospital in Los Angeles, Calif., Oct. 28, 1962.

Trustees Will Open Bids For New Building

Bids on construction at the Kentwood Elementary School site will be opened at 2 p.m. Tuesday in the Goliad Junior High School cafeteria.

The bids will be on a facility containing five classrooms. This will be the beginning of a full-size elementary school at the location if enrollment demands. One bid will be on a structure which can be air conditioned later with an alternate on an air - conditioned building.

Trustees will decide at the bid opening, or at a meeting to follow at 7:30 p.m. that evening in the board room of the Administration Building, 100 E. 10th, which route they wish to take at this time.

Other business slated for the regular evening meeting will be approval of the 1963-64 school calendar, ordering the school board election, a discussion of requests for use of school facilities and renewals of contracts for several administrative personnel.

Jaycees Planning Rattlesnake Hunt

Big Spring Jaycees are making tentative plans to hold a rattlesnake roundup in this vicinity during the spring, officers have announced.

New officials of the club talked about projects at their meeting last week. These included sponsorship of the spring and fall livestock shows, the Big Spring Beauty pageant, the turkey shoot, monthly entertainment for Big Spring State Hospital Patients.

The proposed rattlesnake roundup would be both an attraction as well as a money-raising project. One similar to it has operated at Sweetwater for several years. Also considered at the meeting was a budget for this year.

The regular weekly meeting of the Jaycees is set for Monday noon.

WHERE IS HE?

By T. H. Tarbet, Preacher
Church of Christ, 3900 West Highway 80

"There came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, Where is he that is born king of the Jews?" (Mat. 2:1, 2). These wise men had seen his star and had come to the capital of the Jews. Imagine the disappointment and shock they experienced upon learning that Jerusalem was ignorant of their new born king. They would have expected to find the city in celebration.

A similar disappointment is surely felt by people from heathen lands who visit this so called Christian land. From every pulpit they would surely expect to hear the Word of God, and that alone, preached. Imagine their shock to find many preachers who disbelieve the Virgin Birth and the other miracles of the Bible. Imagine their disappointment to find that many religious leaders are prejudiced against certain commands of Christ and ridicule these commands,—such things as baptism "for the remission of sins" (Act 2:38).

Would a heathen coming to America find Christ in the popular churches of the land? Or would he end his visit still asking, Where is he?

"Love,—the Basis" and "What Kind of Person Does the Lord Love?" are the sermons today, 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m. Welcome!

Miracle Product Eliminates Exterior Painting!

Textured Coatings of America has developed a remarkable product for exterior walls that virtually eliminates outside painting for many years to come. This product, called TEX-COTE, combines the long-lasting properties of fiberglas asbestos, mica, and perlite to make a wall surface that resists all climatic extremes.

Throughout the country, School Boards have found textured coatings so economical and lasting over the past several years that they are now specifying this type of material for a large amount of new construction and renovation work.

Many thousands of textured coating applications have been made on home, commercial and industrial buildings throughout the world, and these buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all weather extremes.

The United States government and most of the large companies have used textured coatings for many years. This remarkable exterior surfacing provides water-proofing, insulation and beauty, far outlasting any ordinary paint.

Comes in Colors

TEX-COTE comes in 12 beautiful decorator colors—and does not change the structural lines of the building. Actually it adds beauty to any home or structure and increases its value.

Waterproofs, Insulates, Fire Retardant

In addition to beauty TEX-COTE has the additional advantages of water-proofing and insulation. Through the use of silicones a modern-day scientific advance, a water-repellent "blanket" envelops the entire building so that no moisture can penetrate and damage the interior of the home. Through the use of fiberglas and perlite, highly efficient insulating material, the building becomes cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter. TEX-COTE incorporates long-fiber asbestos in its formula, thus reducing the possibility of a fire hazard.

Applied with a Gun

TEX-COTE is applied with heavy-duty spray equipment under high pressure. It fuses itself to the wall surface to a thickness 15 to 20 times that of normal paint. It remains flexible and withstands cracking and normal surface expansion and contraction.

Factory Guaranteed

Every TEX-COTE job is registered and factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking, or peeling.

No Obligation

Appliactions of TEX-COTE are being made in this area by TEX-COTE of Big Spring, licensed and approved applicators. Free information on how easily you may have TEX-COTE applied at low bank terms may be obtained by filling out coupon below, or phone AM 3-3581.

Rules For Howard County Spelling Bee

Herewith are rules governing the 1963 Howard County (Big Spring Herald) Spelling Bee. Howard County is one of 23 counties from which champions will be named, to enter a regional elimination in Lubbock.

The Howard County Spelling Bee will be on March 16, 1963. The winner will go to Lubbock for the regional contest on April 6, 1963.

The rules follow:

1. Any pupil is eligible who has not passed beyond the eighth grade at time of the Bee in his or her school, except that no pupil who will become 16 years of age on or before the date of the National Spelling Bee shall be eligible.

2. Howard County competition may be conducted either in writing or orally or both (an oral test is contemplated); or classroom champions may be designated on the basis of their daily grades. However the regional finals held in Lubbock for county champions are conducted orally and the National Spelling Bee reserves the right to conduct the national finals in Washington orally.

3. Words for the Howard County Spelling Bee sponsored by the Big Spring Herald, and regional Spelling Bee sponsored by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal will come from the "Words of the Champions" book, with additional words being used only if all words in that book are spelled correctly. Words used in the national finals contest will be selected from the "Words of the Champions" book, from the lists used in the various city and regional contests, and from Webster's New International Dictionary, Second Edition.

4. In competition, contestants may pronounce words before spelling them, after spelling them, or not at all.

5. A contestant may request that a word be re-pronounced, defined or used in a sentence. The pronouncer shall grant the request until the officials agree that the word has been made reasonably clear to the contestant. Judges may disqualify any contestant who ignores a request to start spelling.

6. Having started to spell a word a contestant shall be given no opportunity to change letters once pronounced. A speller having started to spell a word may retrace, provided letters and their sequence are not changed in the retracing.

7. If no definition of a homonym is given, the correct spelling of either word shall be accepted as correct. When a speller is given the definition of a homonym he must spell the word defined.

8. When a speller fails to spell a word correctly, he or she must drop out of the contest, and another word shall be given to the next contestant in line.

9. The elimination procedure changes when the contestants are reduced to two. At that point, as soon as one contestant, in the opinion of the judges, misspells a word the other contestant immediately shall be given an opportunity to spell that same word. If the second contestant spells that word correctly, plus the next word on the pronouncer's list, then the second contestant shall be declared the champion.

10. If one of the last two spellers misses and the other, after correcting the error, misspells the new word submitted to him, then the misspelled new word shall be referred to the first speller. If the first speller then succeeds in correcting the error and correctly spells the next word on the pronouncer's list, then he shall be declared champion.

11. If both spellers misspell the same word, both shall continue iff the contest and the one who first misspelled the word shall be given a new word to spell. The contest shall then continue under Rules 9 and 10.

12. Webster's New International Dictionary, Second Edition, shall serve as the final authority for the spelling of words. Such variants and reformed spelling as appear in small type at the bottom of the page in Webster's, keyed with a dagger or double dagger, will not be accepted as correct.

Obsolete and archaic spellings will be regarded as errors.

13. The judges are in complete control of the Bee. Their decision shall be final on all questions.

14. Any question relating to the spelling of a word must be referred to the judges immediately. No protests can be entertained after the contest is ended.

15. Parochial schools are eligible to enter contest.

16. County champions are asked to register for the Avalanche-Journal Spelling Bee at O. L. Slaton Junior High School Auditorium in Lubbock not later than 1:15 p.m., April 6.

17. First winner in the regional finals will be sent to Washington, D. C., for the National Spelling Bee, with transportation, lodging, meals and entertainment expenses paid by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. The regional winner will receive a set of Encyclopaedia Britannica; a Paper-Mate Capri pen and pencil set, and possession for one year of an inscribed rotating plaque. In addition, the school of the winner in the Avalanche-Journal Spelling Bee will receive free use of one Britannica film each month during the following school year.

18. Second place winner in the regional finals will receive a cash prize of $20.00; third place, $15.00, fourth place, $10.00; and fifth place $5.00.

19. Each county champion including the finalists, also will receive a plaque from the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. These plaques will become the permanent possession of the winners.

20. Each school champion shall receive a Paper-Mate pen. Unless requested by schools in advance, these pens shall be sent to the county Spelling Bee directors to be awarded at the county Spelling Bees.

Only 5 Weeks Until Champ Speller Picked

There are only five weeks left before the Howard County spelling bee championship match is held, sponsored by the Herald.

Between now and March 16 (date of the county bee) the schools of the county who have plans to compete for the championship must conduct their classroom and grade elimination contests and select their school champion. Each school will be entitled to one champion and an alternate at the county bee. Only the champion will spell however, unless it happens he cannot compete. In that event, the alternate may take his place.

The winner of the county championship will be sent to Lubbock April 6 to compete in the 23 county regional contest. Winner of the regional contest will win a free trip to Washington and a chance to compete in the national bee.

Walker Bailey, county director, said that it seems most of the schools plan to have a representative in the county bee. Demand for the official practice spelling book, (copies of which are available at the Herald office for 15 cents each) has been heavy. Several hundred boys and girls, representing the 19 schools of the county, are tentatively entered in the classroom and school eliminations. No school seems to have definitely set up dates for grade and home room eliminations. As soon as these are out of the way, each school will be able to set dates for its school championship bee. Bailey urged that speed be made in these preliminary events in order that the respective school champions will have more time to prepare for the county bee March 16.

The county bee will be held in the Howard County Junior College auditorium at 10 a.m. March 16. Judges will be selected from noninterested persons. An official pronouncer will be named. Tape recorders will be used to re-check on any word over which uncertainty as to spelling develops. Findings of the judges, however, will be final.

Bailey urged all boys and girls who have been considering entering the bees in their schools to do so at once and asked that each principal and each teacher accelerate plans for the grade and home room eliminations.

The boy or girl who goes to the Lubbock regional meet and wins the regional title will receive, in addition to an all expense trip to Washington, a set of the Encyclopedia Brittanica, a Paper-mate pen and pencil set, and possession, for one year, of the official rotating championship plaque.

Second place winner in the regional receives $20 in cash; third place, $15; fourth place, $10; and fifth place, $5.

Each county champion who goes to the regional meet will be presented with a plaque by the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, regional match sponsor.

Interest is extremely high in the regional meet this year. The number of counties has been increased to 23. This is Howard County's first year in the spelling bee.

The Herald is hopeful every school will make a special effort to see that its best speller is entered in the county contest.

County To Open Depository Bids

Howard County Commissioners Court will name an official depository for county funds at its meeting Monday.

An invitation to the banks of the county to bid for the privilege of handling county money had been extended by the court. At least one bank has already filed what Lee Porter, county judge, said he assumed was its offer.

The present depository for county funds is the State National Bank.

Reclamation Unit To Work On Canadian Project

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Interior Department has announced a Reclamation Bureau field office will be established at Lubbock to work on a portion of the Canadian River Project.

Reclamation Commissioner Floyd E. Dominy said the field office will have jurisdiction over about 230 miles of the project aqueduct system. In all, the aqueduct system will total 332 miles.

Dominy said about 17 employes are expected at the office by the end of June. He said they would be responsible for field engineering work south of Canyon.

Co-Op Continues To Make Gains

A pattern of gains continued in January for Cap Rock Electric Cooperative, Inc., according to the monthly operating statistics.

Sale of power amounted to 3,289,478 KWH, up from the 3,187,319 in December and 2,963,533 for January of 1962.

At the end of the month, Cap Rock had 2,367 miles of line energized, a gain of two miles for the month and well over the 2,279 a year ago. There were 5,099 members connected, a decline from 5,112 in December but up considerably over 4,772 in January of 1962.

The density of members per mile was 2.15, whereas a year ago this factor was 2.09.

County Library Has Record Patronage

Howard County Library, normally not overly busy in January, scored the biggest month in its history this past month, according to Mrs. Opal McDaniel, county librarian.

The library issued 7,454 books during the month, nearly 2,000 more than were checked out in the same month in 1962. It is 2,400 ahead of January, 1961.

"It compares with the summer rush," said the librarian.

Meantime, the library is pushing ahead with its complete registration of patrons. All old library cards have been cancelled. Applicants for books who present the old blue cards are informed they must obtain a new card. So far, the library has issued 1,500 of the new cards. The library usually issues about 100 cards a day, Mrs. McDaniel said.

She said the library is strictly adhering to the requirement that any applicant must comply with the rules. A child, for example, cannot be issued a new card unless the mother or father comes to the library and signs the application blank.

The plan is to bring the crowded index system up to date, Mrs. McDaniel explained. There were many inactive and inaccurate cards in the old files. The file had been six years accumulating, she said.

No one who has unpaid fines or who has books which are overdue can be issued a new card until the account at the library is straightened up.

As a result, she said the library hung up a new high in fines paid for January.

The delinquent book borrowers paid in $168.15 for their oversight during the month. For the same month in 1962, fines totalled $133.69.

Mrs. McDaniel said that new shelving has been installed in the library and that all books have been rearranged. The new arrangement, she said, will greatly improve the quick location of the volumes wanted. The reading room, which has been closed, is reopened.

New signs to identify the books, including a listing of authors where such writers are well represented in the stacks, will be installed.

Mrs. McDaniel urged all patrons who have not as yet obtained their new library cards to do so as soon as possible.

Sleeping Mother Dies After 781 Days In Coma

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A young woman, who lay unconscious for 781 days and unknowingly bore a son, died Friday.

Mrs. Sharon Jones, 23, of Abilene had slept since a traffic accident during a Christmas shopping trip at her home town Dec. 19, 1960.

Physicians said the collision shook her brain into unconsciousness.

Seven months after the accident, her son, Eddie, was delivered by Caesarian section. They were brought home where the mother needed constant nursing attention.

Last August doctors advised her husband, Jack, that she be moved to San Antonio. They gave two reasons. The sounds resulting from constant care was making the child uneasy, and care at the hospital was less expensive.

Sharon's story was published nationwide. Gifts poured in. Jack's boss, James B. Dunigan, helped him financially and allowed him ample time off work.

Jack was at her bedside when she died.

IT'S COMING THURSDAY

Valentine's Day Has A Long History, Boss

DEAR BOSS:

Next Thursday is St. Valentine's Day and if you haven't got a Valentine for your ever-lovin' wife, take a tip from me—go shopping.

I got news for you Boss—remember the old days when you were a kid and there were gorgeously hued Valentines on the market which sold for a penny.

You can still buy the penny Valentines at the variety stores—the difference is they come in packages of 15 and the price is 29 cents and 39 cents. (Plus state tax of course.)

BIG ONES

You can go all out if you want to. Woolworth stores have announced they are distributing a super-sized Valentine this season —two feet by six feet. It can even be mailed, an advance from the store's headquarters asserts. It also has the message: "Think about li'l old me on Valentine's Day, 'cause I sure think big of you." Cute, ain't it, Boss?

Herman Bauer, local Woolworth manager, said he had none of these big 'uns but he hopefully pointed to a high stack of assorted sizes which he has on hand. The counter was teeming with women, kids and an occasional male. These customers were pawing through the stock like the traditional goat in the vegetable garden.

Woolworth, according to Bauer, has been selling Valentines to Americans for the past 84 years. That seems like a long time, Boss, but when you consider that the origin of the day goes back nearly 1,800 years, it's not so long.

OLD OBSERVANCE

According to savants (a savant is a guy who knows about such things, Boss), Valentine Day has been observed so many centuries that its true origin seems to have been lost in history. Little is known of how it began or of the man who started it.

In fact, nothing tangible is really known about Valentine but it is believed that he was a young priest who fell into ill favor with Claudius II, a Roman emperor, who reigned in 269 A.D. Claudius, the legend says doomed Valentine to die.

While Valentine was in prison, the little blind daughter of his jailer befriended him. In the last few days before he was executed, according to the available sources, Valentine worked a miracle in his dingy prison cell—he restored the sight of his little friend. He also converted both the father and daughter from paganism to Christianity. (The historians who are grim in their pursuit of truth, record that because of their conversion, the jailer and his child were later put to death by the same bloody-minded Claudius who sent Valentine to the gibbet.)

According to the ancient story, Valentine, on the eve of his execution, wrote a letter of farewell to the little girl. He signed it "From your Valentine." On Feb. 14, 270 A.D., he was put to death. Pope Gadkins, 200 years later, dedicated that date to Valentine.

So we have been sending Valentines, Boss, ever since.

DEVELOPMENT

There's one interesting development in the past two or three years—folk are getting away from the habit of sending smart-alecky Valentines. No longer are the so-called "humorous" Valentines in demand.

So, Boss, folk are getting back to the sentimental kind—the kind all cluttered up with cupids, paper lace, hearts and "pomes."

Personally, I sorta like this new development, Boss.

O'Donnell Man Wins Award For Farmers

LAMESA (SC) — Harold Hohn, 29-year-old O'Donnell farmer, has been named recipient of the Dawson County Soil Conservation District's outstanding farmer award for 1962, it was announced Saturday by the board of supervisors.

A graduate of Texas Tech, where he majored in agricultural engineering, Hohn is married and the father of two daughters. He farms 456 acres, participated in the intensified plan of work last year, participated in the ACP program, is an honorary member of the Future Farmers of America, president of the O'Donnell Fair and Livestock Association and Young Farmer chapter and an active member of the First Baptist Church of O'Donnell.

"I believe that our soils at the end of the crop year must be in as good or better condition than at the beginning of the crop year," he said. "The best way to accomplish this is through good planning and follow-up action."

His farm consists of 279 acres of cropland, 11 acres of pasture, 144 acres of rangeland and four acres of farmstead. He discussed and encourages his neighbors to apply soil conservation principals to their own land.

Hohn's co-op plan practices include 297 acres of conservation cropping and residue use, 80 acres of cover crop, 100 acres of brush control, 144 acres of deferred grazing, 2,545 feet of irrigation pipeline, use of sprinklers, 297 acres of irrigation water management, 4,432 feet of diversion, 2.5 acres of waterway, 12.5 acres of pasture planting and 12.5 acres of pasture proper use.

In addition to the above practices, both permanent and recurring, Hohn is carrying out other related practices such as chiseling for wind erosion and water conservation, planting sudan and peas for soil improvement purposes, deep plowing for wind and water erosion control.

P. O. Contract

WASHINGTON (AP)—A $23,000 contract was awarded Friday to design a post office and federal office building for Alice, Tex.

That Strange Voice Means 'Hang Up The Telephone'

Big Springers have been hearing strange voices recently, and they may hear more.

"This is a telephone company announcement," says the Voice. "We have an indication that a receiver is off the hook on your line. Please check and see that all of your receivers are properly in place. Thank you."

And there you are. Could be that you have the receiver in your hand, but chances are that you have inadvertently or intentionally left the receivers off the telephones.

Harry Sawyer, manager of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, said the automatic equipment is designed to detect and release for the use of others any part of the Central Office dial equipment which has been held for 15 seconds without being used.

If a receiver is removed from the hook and there is more than 15 seconds delay prior to the start of dialing, the equipment providing the dial tone automatically is released.

This, then, makes it necessary to hang up and remove the receiver again to re-establish a connection to dial tone equipment.

"The key thought to remember," Sawyer said, "is that you must begin dialing within 15 seconds after the dial tone is received, otherwise the equipment will be released automatically."

Sawyer said the equipment is designed to eliminate equipment from being held up unnecessarily.

"There are many instances where a child accidentally knocks the receiver off, or the father removes the receiver so the youngster won't be awakened while the mother is out, or perhaps an individual just does not wish to be disturbed," Sawyer said.

"Prior to the installation of the equipment, removal of a receiver would engage and hold dial tone equipment until the receiver was restored to its place. On a two-party line, this means that the party line associate could neither place a call nor be called until the receiver was put back. Also, where receivers accidentally are knocked off, it can result in an important call being missed."

Fatal Tidal Wave

PATRAS, Greece (AP) — A 30-foot tidal wave rolled in on eight villages along the Gulf of Corinth Friday night, killed 4 persons and injured at least 26 others. Scores of homes were wrecked.

All Bids Refused 2nd Time

For a second time, bids on the former Texas Highway Department warehouse property on South Gregg have been rejected.

The Texas Highway Commission, after reviewing five proposals opened on Jan. 17, decided they were too low for a letting.

The tract may be advertised a third time.

J. C. Roberts, Abilene, district engineer, said that state highway authorities had advised that a brochure describing and depicting the property will be prepared for general circulation prior to setting a time for receiving additional proposals.

At the first attempt last autumn, Gibson's Discount Center submitted the only bid. Then in January, the same concern had the top bid of $51,180. Other bids ranged down to about $40,000. The property is the entire block between Gregg and Scurry and between 23rd and 24th Street. It has curb, gutter and paving on three sides and surfacing on the fourth side.

STATUS SYMBOL

There are two kinds of status symbols. One type has to do solely with financial status: certain makes of cars, mink coats, diamond tiaras and ocean-going yachts.

The other kind --- the kind we respect --- deals with achievement; things like a degree from a good school, the work of men like the Wright Brothers, Edison and Salk, the heroic acts of our men in uniform.

To become and to remain a member of the Order of the Golden Rule is a status symbol of the second kind. That's why we are truly and pardonably proud to announce that we remain the member of the Order in this community.

Sweetheart Banquet Highlight Of Week

By BONNIE SIMPSON

Saturday, Feb. 9, at 7:30 p.m., the FHA Sweetheart Banquet was held in the school cafeteria. The Sweetheart theme was carried out with decorations done in pink and white.

The welcome was given by Dena Parker, and Lanell Overton gave the invocation. Susan Elrod and Hubert Bardwell read poems and Dorothy Downey, accompanied by Sonnet Johnson, sang three musical selections. The benediction was given by Mr. J. W. Overton. Special guests were Superintendent Roy Stockstill and his wife, chapter parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Overton, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Conger, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Romans. The highlight of the evening was the presentation of FHA Beau. This year the honor went to Duane Allison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ozro Allison of Forsan. Junior and senior girls were in charge of decorations, while the sophomores prepared and planned the menu. Eighth grade girls from Forsan and Elbow served.

Friday morning the journalism class visited Elbert Garretson, who prints the school paper. The purpose of the visit was to see how the paper is set up and printed.

Mrs. Oscar Boeker, typing teacher at Forsan High School, following a suggestion of the superintendent, Mr. Roy Stockstill, is conducting an experimental typing class with some of the students from the third, fourth, fifth, and sixth grades. Three students were chosen from each grade, covering all ranges of intelligence. These students are being taught how to type for the purpose of seeing if learning to type will help them in their reading and spelling and aid in development of better coordination.

The typing class is held three days a week for a period of thirty minutes. Although there is a wide span between age and experience of the students, they are progressing almost as rapidly as the high school students did when they first began in Typing I.

It is too early to tell whether this experimental class will reach the goal set. However, the students show great interest in the class along with the ability to learn. In the two or three years that this experiment will cover, Mrs. Boeker feels that the class will fulfill the purpose for which it was begun.

INITIATION IS TONIGHT

Howard County Junior College Phi Theta Kappa, National Junior College Honorary Society, will have initiation of new members Sunday, Feb. 10 at 6 p.m. in the cafeteria of the Dora Roberts Student Union Building. All former Phi Theta Kappa members are invited to attend.

Membership Effort Is Near The Target

Range riders for the Triangle R (YMCA) membership roundup are within pistol shot of their target.

At the final formal report session Friday evening, audited totals showed $14,735 in pledges. Approximately $500 in other pledges not yet audited put the campaign within little more than $700 of its $1,600 goal.

STILL WORKING

"We still have about a dozen cowhands who have not yet ridden into camp," said Joe (Col. Pecos) Pickle, head of the roundup. "Until they come in and until we fill up those corrals with enough members to reach our goal, we can't call the roundup completely over. We're so close we've just got to finish the job we set out to do."

He praised his associates, James (Big Jim) Tidwell, head of the Circle T Ranch, and Buddy (Tex) Redden, chief of the Rocking R outfit, as well as the 150 other volunteers who pitched in to help contact prospective members.

"No one ever had a more loyal or enthusiastic bunch than we have had," said Col. Pecos.

They capped their enthusiasm Friday evening by coming forward to shake his hand, but instead tossed Col. Pecos into the hoss trough (Y swimming pool). In celebration, someone from the Rocking R shoved in Big Jim Tidwell, and then Circle T boys tossed in Tex Redden.

LED RANGE

R. H. Weaver, who is president of the Y, led his range to the top position and helped pace Tidwell's Circle T ranch to victory. Tidwell's four groups gathered in 810 members for $8,154.50, on the basis of audited figures, whereas Redden's Rocking R cowhands roped 663 members and brought in $6,581 in pledges. This entitled Tidwell to plant a pie in Redden's face.

Weaver's range had 368 members and $3,576. In second place was Mrs. K. H. McGibbon's range with 211 members and $2,188, followed closely by Mrs. Clyde Thomas Jr. and her range with 203 members and $2,021. Other ranges led by John Hogg, Clyde McMahon Jr., Phil Hines, Wade Choate and Freddie White were bunched close behind.

"We are, of course, proud of all these groups," said the chairman, "but particularly of the division led by Freddie White. Our high school young people wanted to do something for the Y, so we just let them take a range. This was their first experience, but they tackled it with a lot of fire and did a wonderful job."

Western hats went to Frank (Silent) Hardesty, who generated 69 points for the Circle T, and to Phil (Pistol Pete) Hines who got 84 points for the Rocking R. Buddy Redden, who worked on his own while bossing his ranch, had 72 points. Western ties went to the range winners, Mrs. Jack Irons, Phil Hines, Gil Gingold, Clyde McMahon Jr., Pete Cook, Mrs. J. B. Knox, Junior Holland and Freddie White.

QUOTA BUSTERS

Nationalist Agents On China Mainland

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The Independence Evening Post of Taipei said Saturday the Chinese Nationalists have sent more guerrilla warfare specialists to the Communist-held China mainland since Jan. 1. The newspaper attributed its information to an intelligence source in Taipei.

It said most of the 873 specialists sent to the mainland in the 10 months through December last year were still waging guerrilla warfare.

The Chinese Nationalists have admitted that 172 agents had been killed by the Communists, as claimed by Peking.

Lucy Thorton Has 2 Winners

Lucy Thornton, who last year showed the grand champion Southdown lamb, doubled her winning ways at the El Paso Fat Stock Show last week.

Where a year ago she had the top Southdown ewe, this year she had both the grand champion ewe and ram in the Southdown junior breeders division.

Her choice ewe was from the flock of Eugene Doversberger, Brighton, Colo. The grand champion ram was from the flock of Duron Howard, Mulhall, Okla.

Lucy took five ewes and the ram to the show. She was accompanied by her father, Jess Thornton, and sister, Mary, who helped her show the animals.

Earlier Delores Lankford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Lankford, had captured the reserve championship in the steer show. Friday her heavy (907-pound) Hereford brought $1.85 a pound in the auction. Sharon Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Harrison, sold her second place lightweight calf for 90 cents. Emma Lee White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. White, got 80 cents for her fourth place lightweight steer. The only other steer sold was the eighth place middleweight animal shown by Charlotte Mann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Mann. It brought 45 cents a pound.

Bud Saunders sold his reserve lamb for $2 a pound and his second place medium wool lamb for $2.20 a pound. Sharon Harrison, 13, won the steer showmanship award. Howard County, for the second consecutive show, had the champion pen of five steers. Lovell Kuykendall, assistant county agent, supervised the group.

Wright Scores 'Fun' Junkets

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional junkets for fun instead of study were denounced by Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., in a speech recorded for broadcast over Texas stations Sunday.

"Under the guise of 'official business,' some few congressmen have studied everything from saki consumption in Tokyo to the bikini market on the French Riviera," he said.

Space Stories

NEW YORK (AP)—A publishing company has offered the nation's 16 astronauts and estimated $3.2 million for their personal stories on future space flights, the New York Times News Service said Saturday.

Amy Freeman Lee Cited With San Antonio Show

A retrospective exhibition honoring one of Texas' leading artists formally opens in San Antonio today.

Subject of the one-man show is Amy Freeman Lee, whose paintings have brought her nation-wide acclaim. It will be her 75th one-man exhibition.

The show's opening will be from 3 to 6 p.m. at the Witte Museum, and the paintings will hang there until March 3. Sponsor is the San Antonio Art League.

The Lee Retrospective Exhibition is considered a major milestone in the 48-year-old artist's career, and most of her major works will be on display—many of them loaned for the exhibition by individuals and institutions who now own them.

The 75 works were selected by a panel of leading art experts, and represent all the succeeding phases in the development of Mrs. Lee's career.

These phases have included a sensibility alternating between brevity and sensuous richness as expressive surface color and linear arabesques come together in her work. Beneath is a polarity of fact and symbol and an eventual fusion of these in the matrix of a lyrical imagination.

But the phases of development as far as the exhibition are concerned are arranged chronologically and by subject, two themes which ran more or less concurrently in her career.

The first development began in 1945, a period devoted almost exclusively to watercolor landscapes. Beginning in 1950, Mrs. Lee switched to both real and imagined subjects in watercolor and oil, sandwiching in another phase in 1952 devoted to experimentation in spatial values.

Another overlapping development began in 1951 in the use of pointillism as a style, the human figure as a major form, and the fine arts as subject matter.

In 1960, Mrs. Lee began a period of drawing in search of subtlety and simplicity, and in the following year closely related the drawings to watercolors.

Mrs. Lee is best known in Big Spring for a one-man show and lecture at Howard County Junior College held March 4, 1960.

The House That Jack Borrowed

This is the white regency house where President Kennedy and his family live when in Palm Beach, Fla. The house, on the ocean side of North County Road, is borrowed from a friend, Col. Capton M. Paul, a retired Army officer and financier. It is well hidden from the road by resplendent foliage.

Mrs. Keller Is Runner-Up In Voice Contest Saturday

Mrs. Anne Keller, a vocal student at Howard County Junior College, was named alternate to the winner in her division Saturday night at the young artists competition of the Midland-Odessa Symphony, according to Ira Schantz, of the vocal music department at HCJC.

Mrs. Keller had entered the college voice division, and placed out of a field of 10 contestants from over the state. The contest was held in Odessa.

Winner of the college voice division was a student from Austin College in Sherman. Mrs. Keller will participate in the Midland-Odessa Symphony's young artists concert to be held in Midland and Odessa April 1, should the winner be unable to attend.

Saturday's competition involved many divisions at high school, junior college and university levels.

Mrs. Keller, a lyric soprano, received a top rating of "superior" from the judge, noted vocalist Aksel Schiotz, of Denmark.

The HCJC student is the wife of Lt. Wayne Keller, student officer at Webb AFB. She also is in the HCJC choir, directed by Schantz, and she also is among Schantz' private vocal students. Mrs. Keller also sings solo with the choir at St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

She was accompanied at the piano by Jack Hendrix, chairman of the HCJC music department.

Mrs. Keller sang an aria from Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," the "Deh vieni non tardar," she also sang "Oh Had I Jubal's Lyre" from the oratorio "Joshua," which brought exclamations of praise from Schiotz, who said the aria was "exquisitely done."

Hendrix also came in for some rare compliments for his piano accompaniment for contestants in other divisions. A judge of one division, Denno Rabinoff, said, "All the other accompanists could take a lesson from that man," referring to Hendrix.

Byrd said in an interview this estimate is based on the assumption that the measure will clear the House and reach his group in June. He said he has been told this is ths earliest possible time.

OTTAWA (AP) — Canada's nuclear crisis split Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker's government again Saturday amid signs the nation's senior military men were impatient with his hesitation at accepting U.S. nuclear warheads.

Trade Minister George Hees, a key figure in Diefenbaker's Conservative party, and Acting Defense Minister Pierre Sevigny pulled out of Diefenbaker's caretaker government and denounced his wait-and-see nuclear defense policy as endangering Canada's security and hurting relations with the United States.

Other finalists included Russell S. Wilkkinson Jr., 18, Lubbock.

Mystery Death Of Child Probed

FORT WORTH (AP)—Two tiny stabs in the brain caused the strange death Friday of Lawrence Ray Anderson, 3. Police were baffled Saturday as they sought to learn why and how.

An autopsy ordered by Justice of Peace Jim Boorman disclosed the wounds after the child died in a hospital where he had been taken unconscious an hour before.

Boorman said the holes could have been made by a hatpin. One dug through the skull an inch and a half into the brain. The other was from a different angle and a little shallower.

The official withheld a verdict as police investigated. Officers said they found nothing at the child's home that might have caused the wounds.

William Houser, 25, the boy's stepfather, said the child was playing and fell backwards against a dresser drawer, striking his head. Boorman said there were no visible marks on the child's head except the tiny holes discovered during the autopsy.

Diocese Council Hits Snag On Desegregation

GALVESTON (AP)—The 114th Annual Council of the Episcopal Diocese of Texas ended Saturday with a note of disharmony over desegregation.

A move to push up the date for desegregation of St. Luke's Episcopal Hospital at the Texas Medical Center in Houston was beaten down by a seven-vote margin shortly before adjournment. The vote was 208 to 201.

The hospital is the only one at the Medical Center which is not integrated.

Another resolution to bind future councils to avoid use of segregated facilities was tabled.

Ceylon Left-Wing Backs Government

COLOMBO, Ceylon (AP)—Left-wing leaders have backed the Ceylon government's decision "not to yield to pressure" on compensation to two U.S. oil companies. Rightist leaders opposed the move. The government Friday called off negotiations with ESSO Standard and Caltex in the wake of U.S. suspension of aid to Ceylon.

The compensation issue arose out of Ceylon's nationalization of 83 gasoline stations owned by the two companies.

British-owned Shell estimates its losses at $4.2 million, as against a total claim of $3.8 million from ESSO and Caltex.

One phase of the YMCA membership campaign was near its goal as the result of a roundup last week. R. L. Tollett is heading up the benefit dinner arrangements and Ralph McLaughlin the followup contacts on the sustaining division for a week from Monday. R. H. Weaver, president of the Y, made a touching presentation of a brand and branded leather inscription to this writer at the participating victory chuck wagon feed, then connived with others to promptly duck us in the pool. Such sentiment!

The Chamber of Commerce health and safety committee last week heard C. L. Abernathy, Hale County judge, describe the child welfare program in that county. It is a program that can't be done for peanuts but which is touching some 300 youngsters, he said. The local committee has voted to back such a program here.

Don't forget that this Friday evening brings up the annual Kiwanis Club pancake supper. Nobody can turn out better pancakes faster than the Kiwanians, so plan to take part in this benefit affair. You can go early and then make the First Piano Quartet program of the Big Spring Concert Series.

Dolores Lankford had the reserve champion steer and Lucy Thornton the grand champion Southdown ewe and ram in the junior sheep breeders division at El Paso last week. The Howard County pen of five steers won first place. A pretty fair showing, we'd say.

U. S. Gains A Bit In Cotton Battles

FORT STOCKTON, Tex. (AP)—The government won some limited victories last week in its challenge of some cotton allotment transfers by far West Texas farmers.

The hearings, before committees of local farmers and ranchers, were brought after the government challenged the authenticity of farm sale-leases. The government has lost almost all previous cases.

Under the procedure, authorized by law, farmers whose land has been taken over by government agencies can move their crop allotments to other land they purchase.

Challenged as possibly not an actual deal were cases where farmers sold their land to the displaced farmers, had the allotment transferred and then leased the land back from the new owners.

The situation was made famous by the Billie Sol Estes case. His sale-leases were challenged by the government, which has imposed penalties of more than a half million dollars on him.

Howard Rooney, Agriculture Department attorney, said the Estes cases will be heard after another group of cases is disposed of in mid-February.

In the Fort Stockton cases just concluded, Frank Coleman, a Pecos farmer who had land in nearby Pecos County, lost a part of his case before the farmer committee. The committee failed to reinstate Coleman's cotton allotments but revoked the financial penalties placed on Coleman by the government.

D. W. Wallace, also a Pecos farmer, withdrew his appeal of an earlier adverse verdict, but the committee ruled he is due a partial refund on penalties he already had paid.

Committeemen hearing the Coleman and Wallace cases were D. C. Jeffries, Seminole; Armond E. Hale, Lamesa; and Eugene Smith, Starton.

A different committee upheld Trans-Pecos Farms, managed by Paul Ivey of Pecos, a second time. This committee was composed of Willis McCutcheon, Toyahvale; Cal Miller, Valentine; and Pete Kennedy, Alpine.

A committee also upheld Bill Ramsey of Pecos, a tenant on a Dr. Harold Lindsey farm. This committee was composed of Eric Brandes, El Paso; Keith Hagley, Imperial; and Pete Shoupe, Alpine.

Is It Fat Or Muscle?

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP) — A veteran of 17 years military service has another 90 days to lose 32 pounds in excess weight or face enforced discharge and loss of pension rights.

Airman 1.C. Edward Maguire, 34, stands 5 feet 9 and weighs 225 pounds. The Air Force says his weight should be 193 pounds.

The Air Force said Friday Maguire was ordered last April to attain 193 pounds or be discharged under regulations ruling him unsuitable for military service.

After a week of a medically prescribed 800-calories-a-day diet, Maguire dropped one pound. He was ordered to do better.

He put himself on a diet of 400 calories a day. He informed his superiors of his extra effort and his deadline for reaching 193 was extended to Jan. 21.

Under the strict diet, Maguire said, he collapsed at the wheel of his car, so the doctors put him back on the 800-calorie diet.

Maguire appealed to Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D., and Leverett Saltonstall, R., both of Massachusetts, and his wife wrote to President Kennedy.

Last Thursday the commanding general of the 57th Air Division postponed a hearing on Maguire's fitness for duty and extended the deadline another 90 days.

Maguire said he weighed 210 while fighting in Korea as a Marine, and asked, "So why am I unfit now?"

An Air Force spokesman said, "There are 10,000 troops at Westover and regulations apply to them all, from generals down."

Maguire lives off the post with his wife and four children. He also has three other children by a prior marriage.

CAB Ruling Cuts Service At Pecos

HOUSTON (AP)— Trans-Texas Airways officials said Saturday a Civil Aeronautics Board ruling made Feb. 1 provides for suspension of service at Pecos.

The officials said the suspension cannot become effective until the order becomes final.

The CAB stated public convenience and necessity no longer require service at Pecos.

The 114-page order involved the Southwestern area local service case affecting 73 cities.

"All interested parties, including communities, have 20 days in which to file petitions in answer to the order," a Trans-Texas spokesman said. "The carriers involved then will have seven days in which to file answers to the petitions. The entire matter then goes before the CAB again for a final order. Not until the final order is signed will any of the findings in the case become a matter of fact."

Missing Tanker Mystery Deepens

NEW YORK (AP)—The American tanker Marine Sulphur Queen still was missing Saturday with her crew of 39 in a deepening mystery that recalled the unsolved disappearance of the Navy supply ship Cyclops in 1918.

Fifteen Coast Guard planes ranged over thousands of square miles of sea from Norfolk, Va., to a point 200 miles west of Key West, Fla., without finding a trace of the Queen.

Midway through the day the Coast Guard confirmed as reported by the Houston (Tex.) Chronicle that an oil slick had been sighted by a search plane 30 miles southwest of Key West, Fla.

However, the Coast Guard said a closer inspection of the slick showed it was of the surface type and "probably was dropped by some ship cleaning its bilges."

The 524-foot tanker, laden with molten sulphur, left Beaumont, Tex., last Saturday and was due in Norfolk at noon on Thursday.

An Atlantic storm that lashed the southeast coast with winds of 40 miles an hour lay across her course.

Fears for her safety grew, not only because she was two days overdue, but because she is not known to have been heard from by radio since last Sunday at 8:25 p.m.

That was a personal message sent by crewmen at a point estimated at 200 miles west of Key West as the vessel was crossing the Gulf of Mexico.

The Coast Guard said merchant vessels frequently do not report their location day by day.

But the Marine Sulphur Queen was to have given her position 48 hours before arriving in Norfolk so preparations could be made for her unloading.

Such a message never was received, although her skipper, Capt. J. V. Fanning, had a reputation for punctuality and for observing such regulations.

The Coast Guard, besides waging its intensive air search, was radioing other ships to ask whether they had sighted the missing vessel.

But although her route was heavy with sea traffic, no other vessel has reported definitely having seen her.

The lack of trace, message or sighting as the search wore on bore many similarities to the vanishing of the Cyclops 45 years ago in one of the sea's greatest mysteries.

The Cyclops was bound from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, for Baltimore with a crew of 309 men and a cargo of 10,800 tons of manganese.

She put into Barbadoes in the British West Indies, took on some coal, departed and never was heard from again.

Air Force Man, Age 45, Shows Walking Marines

AMARILLO (AP)—A graying 45-year-old Air Force lieutenant colonel took it upon himself Saturday "to beat any records the Marines might have set" following President Kennedy's recent physical fitness challenge.

The officer, Lt. Col. Ronald C. Force, made a 50-mile hike along a 4-mile course around Amarillo Air Force Base in 10 hours, 30 minutes and 45 seconds.

Wearing a short-sleeved summer uniform, the psychologist began the day-long effort at 7 a.m. in 30-degree weather. He jogged most the way and sprinted the final 200 yards.

Force, a trim father of four, says he "knocks off about two miles a day to keep in shape." Base physicians checked him periodically throughout the day.

An exchange of messages between President Kennedy and Marine Corps Commandant David M. Shoup regarding a 1908 presidential order by President Theodore Roosevelt recently started a nationwide hiking craze.

The order set forth rules for a 50-mile hike for Marine officers. Kennedy suggested a test to see "how well our present day officers could perform the task specified by President Roosevelt."

Earlier Saturday, two officers from the Marine Corps Air Station at Beaufort, S. C. claimed a modern-day record by hiking 50 miles in 15 hours and 10 minutes.

Part Of Town Out Of Power

Electric power in the greater portion of west and northwest Big Spring was disrupted for about 35 minutes Saturday morning. The area covered was from around Ninth Street, north to the State Hospital; and some of the downtown business section.

R. L. Beale, manager for Texas Electric Service Co., told The Herald that the circuit was thrown off for what should have been a momentary disruption and that a fuse blew out in a control panel.

About 30 minutes' time was required to trace out the circuit and locate the fault.

He called the Alliance for Progress in Latin America a failure, U. S. support of the U. N.'s action in the Congo "very wrong," and relations with Canada and Pakistan strained.

Robbers Invade Club, Murder One Member

PORTSMOUTH, Va. (AP) — A private club protected by barbed wire was invaded by four or five gunmen Friday night. Taking a page from gangland's heyday, they robbed its members and machine-gunned one to death.

Killed by a slug from a 9mm German machine pistol was Meyer Jacobson, 57, a bail bondsman from Portsmouth who had shot his way out of earlier robbery attempts.

The bandits fled the isolated clubhouse in Nansemond County in a stolen automobile shortly after midnight Friday, police said.

The entrance to the club — described by police as a gambling place—is guarded by an 8-foot-high chain link fence topped by barbed wire. The fence flanks a 30-foot sidewalk leading up to the building's only door.

Investigators said the gunmen apparently lay in wait at the club and when the first member arrived they forced him to admit them. The club members were robbed and held captive as they entered.

Officers said the bandits apparently were looking for Jacobson, because each club member was questioned about when the bondsman would arrive.

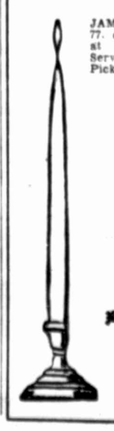
Jacobson was known to carry large sums of money. In 1934, he killed one of two gunmen who tried to rob him in Portsmouth. He was tried for murder and acquitted on the grounds of self-defense.

Shortly after World War II, Jacobson was reported to have been waylaid in another Nansemond County club by two gunmen. He drew a pistol and shot his way out of trouble, apparently wounding one bandit.

State police investigator H. L. Mundie said he had reason to believe Jacobson would not have been killed if he had not resisted the robbers.

Police officers described the club as a gambling place whose tight security previously had hampered raids. One officer who declined to be identified by name said the club had been under surveillance for some time.

Police said the dwelling-type building has two main rooms, one of which contained a pool table. In the other room, where Jacobson was killed, the only furniture was several round tables and a large number of chairs.



JAMES B. ECCLESTON, 77, died in a local hospital at 5:45 p.m. Saturday. Services pending at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Overpass Work Is Progressing

Planning on the Gregg Street overpass on US 87 is proceeding in the design division of the Texas Highway Department in Austin.

The schedule of work on this project has been coordinated with the Texas & Pacific Railway Company in order to create the least possible interference with its operations, said Jake Roberts, Abilene, district highway engineer.

The timetable on contracting for this four - lane crossing, which will replace the present overpass, still has a September target date.

Other highway programs indicated for starting in Howard County this year are proceeding, said Roberts. For instance, the right-of-way deeds for extension of FM 700 northwestward from IS 20 to an intersection with State 350 (Snyder Highway) have been delivered to Howard County Commissioners Court. As soon as the commissioners secure agreements for the right of way, the state is ready to advertise for bids on this project, said Roberts.

Tony Curtis Weds Teen-Age Actress

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Actor Tony Curtis and his teen-age bride German actress Christine Kaufmann signed up for a cruise on nearby Lake Mead Saturday—first day of their honeymoon.

Both admitted they were nervous at their wedding Friday night.

Curtis, 37, and Miss Kaufmann, 18, were married in a five-minute civil ceremony before Clark County District Judge George Marshall.

Capt. Hailey Getting Close Look During Critical Period

Capt. Robert Hailey, USN, who has been spending several days here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Hailey, 710 Edwards Blvd., is getting a closeup on South America during a critical period.

As district intelligence officer of the 15th Naval District and the district intelligence officer for the commander of the U.S. Naval Forces, Carribean, his work has put him in fairly regular contact with a dozen or more nations in Central and South America.

CAPT ROBERT HAILEY

Much of the work is at an ambassadorial level, consequently he has not only had contact with top military personnel in the various countries, but frequently he has had occasion to visit with the presidents of some countries.

Within the past 18 months he has been in every country in South America except Bolivia, and in some of them several times.

While the nature of his work will not permit discussion, Capt. Hailey said that the initial feeling of a person brought in contact with the Latin-American scene is one of pessimism. On the other hand, as association brings familiarity, there are grounds for encouragement and hope.

"You have to understand the problems, the background, the attitudes of these people before you can assess the record and opportunity of progress."

Last year he travelled over 45,000 miles and already this year he has put in some 10,000 miles. Much of this travel is in visiting the naval missions.

"These missions are in these countries at the invitation of those countries," Capt. Hailey observed. "We advise with their naval and other leaders as we are asked on matters of training, weaponry, organization, personnel, etc. Sometimes there are questions of logistics connected."

Naturally, the intelligence function includes assessment of political situations and possible trends. Most of the leadership of the countries desperately want stability, for it is to their own interests, but it is difficult to achieve.

One thing Capt. Hailey has noticed is a difference in approach than in this country. Our various elements, although in the minority, are taken into consideration, the disposition down under is for the party in power to not bring any of the opposition, however strong, into the decisions of government.

There is emerging, he reported, a greater middle class among the industrialists, merchants, etc. In time this may be a decisive factor, yet at present there seems to him to be a hesitancy on the part of this middle class to get involved in political action or decisions.

South America, as well as Central America, is a land of contrasts, one of fabulous resources beside formidable mountains or indescribably barren desert, a great wealth and deep poverty.

His work has taken him to Argentina, Brazil, Columbia, Venezuela, Uruguay, Paraguay, Peru, Chile, and other nations. It also takes him back frequently from his headquarters in the Canal Zone to Washington, D.C. It was a break in one of these calls to Washington that enabled him to visit here this week with his parents and to renew friendships with many he grew up with in the days when he was a student in Big Spring schools before going to McMurry College and then to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis.

Legislature's Score Not Breathtaking

By GARTH JONES

AUSTIN (AP) — If legislators figured up their weekly score today, the total wasn't breathtaking.

The only measures sent to Gov. John Connally during the week for his signature were a resolution declaring February as American History Month and two local bills.

Senators and representatives burned enough midnight oil over committee sessions to keep legislative skeptics from hanging the "do-nothing" sign on the legislature.

Debate schedules and committee hearings indicate another dawn-to-dusk week for many members.

High spots of the past week included the Senate's quick passage of the once highly controversial issue of giving women equal legal rights. The proposal is in a House committee now with no hearing date set. The House sent to the Senate statewide bills that would let state hospital facilities be used for mental retardation research and to put more controls on the sale of weed killers and insecticides.

Legislators spent considerable time on matters not on the debate calendars.

Senators caused quite a stir early in the week by refusing to accept former Gov. Price Daniel's appointment of Joe Ed Winfree, former dean of the House from Houston, to the State Board of Control. Connally will name Winfree's replacement, subject to Senate approval.

Backers of Speaker Byron Tunnell claimed 93 pledges of support, more than enough, for re-election as speaker of the 1965 Legislature. Some members challenged Tunnell to stop the 1965 campaign and get on with the 1963 session.

A spokesman for the seven Republican House members complained that a subcommittee is dawdling over a bill to change primary election dates from May and June to August and September.

Rep. Dick Morgan of Dallas wanted to know if legislators were having to consult Vice President Lyndon Johnson. The primaries were moved from summer to spring several years ago by supporters of Johnson's futile presidential nomination drive.

The week ended with a Senate blast of old time oratory by Sen. Culp Kreuger of El Campo against an injunction suit filed by the state AFL-CIO against the Texas Employment Commission. The suit accuses the commission and employes of "pro-employer lobbying" by advocating a series of changes in the state jobless benefits act. Krueger said the suit is nothing but "a straw man with a flaming breath and flashing teeth" designed to keep the Senate from approving the re-appointment of Commissioner Ed Lyles.

Police Check Rash Of Thefts

Big Spring police investigated a rash of thefts Friday. At the Lakeview school, three boys, ages 8, 10, and 11, were arrested and turned over to their parents when they admitted taking $20 from a purse belong to Mrs. Kathryn Robson. The money was for feeding a basketball team. The father of the oldest boy gave Mrs. Robson a check for $20 to make restitution for the missing money.

B. T. Falkner, Pioneer Builders, 1811 Scurry, reported the theft of four steel-encased windows, after several items to be sold for junk were cleaned up from the premises. Mrs. R. L. Metcalf, 1504 Tucson, reported the theft of four hub caps from her daughter's car while it was parked at the high school.

Jessie A. Neel, Greenville, Miss., told police that $45 in money and a $35 suit were stolen from his car while it was parked in the 300 block of North Bell. He said the front door vent was forced open to get to the items. G. A. McCallister, manager of the Wyoming Hotel, reported the theft of a glass ash tray containing 150 pennies from his room.

Mrs. Preston Myrick, 1107 E. 17th, reported the theft of a purse from her car between 3 and 5 p.m. Friday. Zora's cafe told police that tools were stolen from a pickup owned by Elmer Hurst. A tire and wheel were also taken from a pickup at Jeanie's Tavern about the same time. Floor mats were reported stolen from a car owned by Billy Badgett, 311½ W. 4th, about 1 a.m. Saturday.

Bad Check Total Lower

Two hundred and eighty - three worthless checks were processed in January by the bad check department of the Howard County sheriff's office.

Miller Harris, sheriff, said the number of checks turned in was slightly fewer than normal. The department, since its organization in January 1962, has processed 4,071 worthless checks.

The department collected $3,057.33 in January from the writers of bad checks. During the month, 14 cases were filed in Howard County court bringing the total to 167. Thirteen of these cases were tried in January.

Three felony cases were filed during the month in district court for a total of 51. One felony case was tried during the month.

The department said that 1,105 offenders have paid off worthless checks and 524 merchants and individuals have participated in the effort.

Palmer Leads By One In Phoenix Tourney

By CARL BELL

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Arnold Palmer eagled the 18th hole Saturday and surged into the lead after three rounds of the $35,000 Phoenix Open golf tournament, setting up another Big Three showdown for Sunday's finale.

Gary Player and Jack Nicklaus, the other members of the game's top trio, are only one stroke behind Palmer's 13-under-par 203.

Palmer and Player had third round 68s. Nicklaus had a 67.

Don January and Gardner Dickinson, with 67 and 68, respectively, are deadlocked at 205.

Jay Hebert, who held or shared the lead for the first two rounds, only could match par 72 on the 6,679-yard Arizona Country Club course. This dropped him to sixth at 206, tied with Johnny Pott.

Palmer, seeking his third straight Phoenix title, birdied the three par-5 holes on the front nine, picked up another bird at 12 to go 4-under. He lost two strokes with back to back bogie 5s on the 13th and 14th holes.

The Golden Man scrambled for pars on the next three holes, then got off a tremendous drive on the 523-yard par 5 18th. This blast was followed by a low, screaming 3-wood shot which sent the ball onto the green 7 feet from the pin. He sank the putt for an eagle.

His was the second eagle in the same threesome on this hole. Dickinson had just chipped in from 30 yards away for his 3.

Nicklaus had a long chance to tie Palmer as he reached the 18th in two blows also. He barely missed a 40-foot putt and settled for a birdie.

Gary Carle, Scottsdale, Ariz., club pro, scored the tournament's first hole in one with a 7 iron on the 140-yard 3rd hole. He had a 70 for the day and was nine strokes off the pace at 212.

The Grand Duke Of Grand Prairie

Despite frustrations from time to time, the Howard County Junior College basketball team is enjoying one of its better seasons this year. One of the big reasons has been the continued brilliant play of Ernest Turner (above), a sophomore from Grand Prairie. Turner and the Hawks play Monday night, meeting Frank Phillips of Borger.

Championship 11 Attractive To Kan. City

By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The required 25,000 season ticket advance sale for the move of the Dallas Texans to Kansas City is within reach because of the city's year-long drive to obtain a pro football franchise, a campaign leader said Saturday.

"We were prepared to purchase the franchise of the last-place Oakland team and guarantee 20,000 season tickets as well," said Bill Dauer, executive vice president of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce.

"Now we are getting the champions of the American Football League, already owned by a wealthy, attractive young man. It's entirely reasonable to increase the ticket requirement and I assure you they will be sold. We have been working on this for a year.

"Lamar Hunt (Texans owner) is a good selling point himself. He does everything first class."

Dauer pointed out the Chamber once sold 4,000 season tickets for the Kansas City Athletics baseball club, for a total advance sale of about $900,000. The football season tickets will cost $42 each, for a total of $1,050,000.

An advance of 25,000 would be double the record advance sale in the AFL. This was about 12,000 sold by the Los Angeles Chargers before the 1960 season. The average advance sale in the National Football League last season was 28,000.

"We prefer to compare Kansas City with Minneapolis-St. Paul which sold 26,000, more than the requirement for the NFL franchise," Dauer said.

The Twin Cities franchise was voted in September, 1960, a year before the first game was played, and 19,000 were sold the first three months. Kansas City has three months to reach its 25,000 goal.

Lenox Hits 18 As Aggies Win

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M withstood a closing rush by Texas Christian and went on to register an 85-69 Southwest Conference basketball victory Saturday.

The Aggies led by 20 points in the second half until Bobby McKinley speared a TCU comeback that trimmed the lead to only eight with three minutes to play.

Two layups by Gerald Woodard chilled the TCU rally and A&M increased its lead against the pressing Frogs.

Bennie Lenox scored 18 points for the Aggies although he fouled out with 13 minutes to play. Woodard, who hit 15 points in the last half, finished with 17.

A&M hit 51 per cent of its floor shots while TCU managed a 40 per cent effort. The victory gave A&M a 4-3 conference record. TCU is 0-7.

Rice Batters Tech, 89-77

HOUSTON (AP) — A pair of bench warmers provided the punch that gave the Rice University Owls an 89-77 victory over the Texas Tech Red Raiders in a Southwest Conference basketball game Saturday night.

Bob Hill, who has not played more than 10 minutes all season, found the range for 20 points and Dick Cramer, another reserve, chipped in 17 as the Owls held on to second place in the conference title race with a 5-2 record.

Kendall Rhine, held to only seven points in the first half, the lowest of the season, finished as top scorer with 21 points for the night.

Bill Murren topped Tech with 17.

Closed Circuit TV For Fight

NEW YORK (AP)— The battle of heavyweight contenders Cassius Clay of Louisville and Doug Jones of New York at Madison Square Garden will be beamed via closed circuit television to a number of cities, Garden officials announced Saturday.

The fight Wednesday, March 13, will not be seen on home television.

Harry Markson, managing director of the Garden's boxing department, said the theater and arena television rights have been secured by Louisville promoter Bill King.

Louisville will be one of the cities getting the telecast but the others were not yet disclosed.

Clay, unbeaten, second-ranked contender, has become a big attraction. The once-beaten Jones knocked out contender Zora Folley in the Garden last Dec. 15 and as a result was made the No. 3 contender by Ring Magazine. The WBA ranks Jones fifth.

Richardson Signs Pact For $35,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Richardson, the second baseman of the New York Yankees who was second in the voting for the most valuable player in the American League, has signed his 1963 baseball contract for a reported $35,000.

The Yankees, making the announcement Saturday, said Richardson got a substantial raise. He hit .302, a career high, and led the league in hits with 209 and at bats with 692. Richardson also gloved the final out off the bat of Willy McCovey in the winning World Series against the San Francisco Giants.

The Yankee second baseman was a leading candidate for MVP, but lost out to teammate Mickey Mantle.

Cincy Posts Narrow Win Over Bradley

CINCINNATI (AP) — The University of Cincinnati rolled to its 37th straight basketball victory—19 this year—Saturday night, a narrow down-to-the-wire 65-61 decision over Bradley in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

The game was a toss-up until Tony Yates went to the foul line for the two-time NCAA champions, with 58 seconds left and Cincinnati leading, 60-59. Yates, who had missed his last six free throws, hit with two and clinched it for the Bearcats.

Bradley, the last team to beat Cincinnati, had a 31-30 lead at halftime and led several times after the intermission.

The Braves abandoned an early experiment with zone defense when Cincinnati ran up a 25-16 lead halfway through the first period.

The switch to man-to-man defense worked. Cincinnati scored only one field goal in the next 8 minutes while the Braves crept up. Mack Herndon tied it, 30-all, with a long jump shot 2:16 before the gun sounded.

As the gun sounded, Joe Strawder, Bradley's newly returned 6-foot-9 center, was fouled. The officials ruled the foul was committed in game time and Strawder hit with the first try to put Bradley ahead.

It took Cincinnati 6½ minutes to squeeze ahead, 40-38, after the intermission. The Bearcats stretched that to 45-38, as Strawder left the game with four fouls. Herndon took over the Braves' pivot position and with 6:15 left, Bradley was leading, 52-51.

Tom Thacker, who got his 1,000th career point earlier in the game, then came through with a clutch basket that put Cincinnati ahead to stay. He ended the game with 18 points, leading all scorers.

Wyoming Standout Steady As Rock

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — University of Wyoming opponents are outscoring the Cowboys in basketball points this season and it might have been a massacre in some of the games but for Flynn Robinson, a sensational 6-foot-1 sophomore from Elgin, Ill.

All Robinson has done in Wyoming's first 16 games this winter is lead the team in scoring 15 times. Wyoming won only seven of its first 16 but Robinson is way ahead in team scoring with a 24-point-per-game average.

"Robinson is the best basketball player at 6-1 I've ever seen," says Wyoming coach Bill Strannigan, a veteran of 12 years in major college basketball.

Besides leading in scoring, Robinson dropped 66 of his first 85 free throws and ranks high in rebounding.

His high point total of 39 points came in a losing cause against Colorado State University. His low was five points in the opening Western Athletic Conference game against New Mexico.

Robinson earned a large following of fans in the 27th annual All-College tournament at Oklahoma City. He led his team to second place against tough competition and won the most valuable player trophy. His 76 points for the tournament tied Ray Wolford of Toledo.

With the season hardly more than half way over Robinson was within hailing distance of the Wyoming scoring record of 637 points made in 26 games by Joe Capua during the 1955-56 campaign.

With two more seasons to go, Robinson has a chance to re-write all of Wyoming's basketball records.

Arkansas Slams Bears, 75-65

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas snagged the tip, took a two-point lead, and walked away from Baylor, 75-65 in a Southwest Conference Basketball game Saturday.

Tommy Boyer hit 31 points to pace the Razorbacks, picking up 19 of them in the first half.

Baylor had four men in double figures. Ronnie Phelps led the Bears with 15 points. Ed Horne had 13 and Roy Wolfe and Winston Moore each contributed 13.

The game left Arkansas with a 4-3 conference record and 9-8 season card. Baylor is now 2-5 in loop play and 5-12 for the season.

Top Bowlers Due For Dallas Meet

DALLAS (AP)—More than 25 of the nation's top bowlers have entered the $20,000 All-American Classic scheduled here Feb. 20-23.

Don Ellis of Houston, Jack Feese, Earl Friend and Bob Carlyle are the latest entries. Ellis won the ABC Classic doubles with Joe Kristof in 1961.

Laver Shaded In U.S. Debut

BOSTON (AP)—"It was over awfully quick wasn't it? I'm behind the eight-ball already."

The words are those of Rod Laver, the red-headed southpaw from Australia, after he was beaten 9-7 by Barry MacKay Friday night in the former's American pro tennis debut.

A combination of MacKay's smashing service and Laver's difficulty adjusting to a canvas court was costly to the young man who became only the second player in history to complete the amateur grand slam last year.

Before walking onto the Boston Garden surface for his match, Butch Buchholz summarized the pro atmosphere. "Now the bloodletting begins. We're all buddies up to this point."

"I didn't have any excuses," Laver said. "These guys are a lot better than anything I've ever faced as an amateur.

"The pro game doesn't give you much time to get settled. What a difference from having five sets."

"Laver definitely will win his share of matches on this tour," said fellow-countryman Ken Rosewall, the defending pro champ who was upset by Spanish titlist Andres Gimeno 8-6.

Poss Waxes Warm In Tourney Win

ODESSA — Delnor Poss led the E. C. Smith Construction Company team to a 140-98 victory over Monahans Poll Well Service in consolation finals of the Commerican Basketball League tournament here Saturday night.

Poss, the Big Spring High School cage mentor, scored 58 points for the Big Spring team. Four other players for Smith's team hit in double figures.

SMITH (140): E. C. Smith 1-1-3, Al Kloven 1-2-4, B. Smith 2-1-5, Delnor Poss 26-6-58, Bill Nipp 7-0-14, Butch Virgin 10-2-22, Don Stevens 7-4-18, Ray Hill 8-0-16. Totals: 62-16-140.

MONAHANS (98): Bill Wynn 11-3-24, Don Edmonds 7-6-20, Bill Hewitt 7-3-17, Bob Lyons 10-6-26, John Adair 2-5-9. Totals 37-24-98.

Half time score—Smith's 78, Monahans 60.

Kelso Roars Home In Seminole 'Cap

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Bohemia Stable's Kelso swept past the field turning into the stretch and thundered to a convincing 2¾ lengths triumph in the $58,200 Seminole Handicap at Hialeah Park Saturday.

JGW Stable's Ridan was second and Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Bensinger's Sensitivo was another 2½ lengths back in third, with George D. Widener's Jaipur fourth, followed by Jopa Stable's Flying Johnnie and Wheatley Stable's Hitting Away, in that order.

Kelso, with Ismael Valenzuela making up most of his 128 pounds impost, ran the 1⅛ mile in one minute 48 4-5 seconds on a fast track.

Second choice with the crowd of 25,873, Kelso paid $6.70, $3.60 and $2.80. Ridan, top weighted at 129 pounds with Steve Brooks riding, was 6-5 favorite and returned $2.90 and $2.30. Sensitivo, under 115 pounds with Bill Hartack, paid $2.90 to show.

Hitting Away, with John Sellers making up most of his 124 pounds, and Jaipur staged a torrid duel for the lead through the first 6 furlongs, with Jaipur taking over around the far turn.

Ridan was third and Kelso fourth until they made the turn for home. There they matched strides for a moment and Kelso hurried past on the outside. When they straightened away for the run to the finish line there was no doubt of the outcome. Kelso was two lengths in front and gaining ground.

Kelso, owned by Mrs. Richard C. duPont of Wilmington, Del., earned $37,830 for his triumph.

Athletic Figures Will Be Honored

DALLAS (AP) — Coaches and athletes of the year will be honored Thursday night at the annual Sports Achievement Dinner of the Dallas YMCA with Darrel Royal, football coach of Texas, receiving the top award.

Johnny Treadwell, All-America guard on Royal's team, will receive a plaque as Amateur Athlete of the Year.

Hayden Fry, coach of Southern Methodist University, is Senior College Coach of the Year.

Leon Black, basketball coach of Lon Morris College, is the Junior College Coach of the Year.

Del Shofner, the Baylor star who played football with the New York Giants of the National Football League, is the Professional Athlete of the Year but may not be present to receive his award. Shofner is working in New York and said Saturday he might not be able to attend the banquet.

Presentations will be made by Bill Whitmore, Rice University sports publicity director who is president of the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Eddie LeBaron, quarterback of the Dallas Cowboys in the National Football League and member of a law firm in Dallas, will be master of ceremonies.

Aggies Proving Top Students

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — The scholarship standing of student-athletes of Texas A&M reached a new high during the fall semester just ended.

Athletic Director and Head Football Coach Hank Foldberg said that 42 varsity and freshman athletes posted a B average or better.

No varsity and only two freshman students failed to satisfy the minimum hour requirements to retain their eligibility.

Two All-Staters To Attend ACC

ABILENE, Tex. (AP)—Abilene Christian College announced Saturday that two all-state Class AA football players—Marion Giesecke and George Curtis—will enroll next fall.

The signing of the two Denver City players brought to three the number of all-staters signed by ACC during the past week. Mike Love, Odessa Permian High School's all-America and Class AAAA all-state fullback, announced his intention to attend the Abilene school earlier.

Giesecke, who led the Texas Sports Writers Association's 1962 all-state Class AA team, is 6-0 center who weighs 190. Curtis, an end, was on the 1961 all-state team but was ineligible last season because of age. He is 20 years old, a 6-3, 175-pounder.

Nelson Wins 500-Yd. Race

FORT WORTH (AP)—Ted Nelson of Texas A&M turned back a star-studded field in the special 500-yard dash Saturday night to highlight the third annual Will Rogers Indoor Games.

Nelson, a sophomore, unleashed a dazzling burst of speed down the home stretch to post a time of 58 seconds flat.

The former Andrews High School flash blazed past Northeast Louisiana State's Randall Walker, ex-University of Texas pic sprinter Eddie Southern.

He was named the meet's outstanding performer.

CHEVROLET TRUCK QUALITY

You can see the difference wherever you look

If you believe various makes of trucks are pretty much alike, you aren't doing justice to your pocketbook. There are differences.

A Chevrolet truck welcomes comparison. Look at the little things on it—latches, hinges, stitching in the upholstery. Notice how strong the tailgate is, the rubber encased chains that keep it from sagging.

The body floor is made of select wood to eliminate the rust problem and give you better footing. The lower side panels are double-walled; you might dent the inside but it won't show through.

Chevrolet designs suspension systems to fit your need. The light-duty type is strong on comfort. Another kind for heavier trucks stiffens up as you increase your load and vice versa. Make sense?

If you are going to need a new truck this year, you should look at the quality Chevrolet has to offer. May we bring over a new '63 so you can examine it?

Hawk Defense Shines In Win Over Odessa

ODESSA — The Howard County Junior College Jayhawks, thanks to a airtight second half defense which yielded only three field goals, swamped the Odessa Junior College Wranglers, 69-47, in a game here Friday night.

The Jayhawks, playing without the services of starter Conroy Lacy, played even with the Odessa team in the first half. The Hawks were never able to take a substantial lead and walked off the court at halftime with a mere five point advantage. The second half was an entirely different game. The Wranglers, which usually give quite a tussle in their own gym, never came close once the half got under way. The Hawks, with their full court press, gave the Wranglers just six points from the field and gave the Odessans few rebounds. In fact, the rebound story told a major part of the half. The Odessa team got one shot each time they brought the ball down the court. Had the Wranglers been able to rebound more consistently, the score might have been a lot different. It was strictly a team effort, according to coach Buddy Travis.

Three players finished in the double figures for the Hawks. They were Cotton Thompson, Ernest Turner, and Walt Carter with 17, 15 and 14 points respectively. Finishing high for Odessa was Ed Gardner with 11 and Stanley Heaps with 10.

The Jayhawks now stand 8-2 in the Western Junior College Conference. The Hawks play the Frank Phillips team Monday at home.

HC Is Forced To Yield Tilts

AMARILLO—San Angelo picked up another Western Junior College College Conference cage win last week with a 66-60 win over Howard County to run its record to 9-0.

Below San Angelo, however, there was a shakeup.

Howard County officials disclosed the team had unintentionally used an ineligible player for two conference games. National rules force the Jayhawks to forfeit the games and Amarillo took over second place with a 6-2 record. Howard County is in third with a 5-4 record.

The Jayhawks used their ineligible player against Amarillo College and South Plains. They had won both of the tilts. Scorers of the games and individual scoring during the two games will stand in the records, but Amarillo and South Plains are given wins.

Most Hunters In 20-35 Year Age Category

The Game Commission says it is pleased with efforts of South Texas industries in combatting water pollution.

The commission said numerous industries are setting aside "substantial sums for revamping present waste disposal systems." The oil industry specifically was praised.

"Industry knows clean water is the life blood of our state and that proper steps must be taken now before it is too late."

Judging from a few replies to questionnaires on 1962 deer hunting, the Game Commission says most hunters were 20 to 35 years of age category. Of about 250 reports tabulated, 161 killed their deer between Nov. 16-30.

The .30-06 was the most popular weapon, the .30-30 a close second, and the .270 third.

Hunters fired an average of three shots to get their deer.

Fish evidently have escaped unharmed from the two recent spells of freezing weather, biologists report. They say no major fish kills have been reported although temperatures in coastal waters dropped as low as in 1951 when a terrfiic fish kill occurred. The fish probably were protected this year by the gradual buildup of cold weather.

Big Selling Campaign Awaits Kansas City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lamar Hunt, wealthy young oil man who formed the American Football League to realize his dream of owning a pro team, says he'll move his champion Dallas Texans to Kansas City if the city sells 25,000 season tickets by May 15.

Hunt's announcement Friday came after the City Council promised to enlarge Municipal Stadium and erect an office building for the Texans, and agreed to provisions for a stadium leave. The work would cost $300,000 to $400,000 in stadium and outdoor theater bond funds already approved by the voters.

The AFL record for season ticket sales is 12,000 by the Los Angeles Chargers for the first AFL season, 1960.

Sale of 25,000 would equal the sale required of Minneapolis-St. Paul by the National Football League for an NFL franchise. But the NFL franchise was voted for the Twin Cities a full year before the first game was played.

Kansas City civic leaders said they were confident the goal could be reached.

Hunt, 30, admitted in his soft-spoken way that moving the Texans from his home town disturbed him and said he had given the idea much thought. The Texans were losing heavily at the gate in competition with the NFL Dallas Cowboys.

The people of Kansas City should keep in mind that the 25,000 figure was suggested by Mayor H. Roe Bartle, said Hunt, "and was not just something we thought up as a hammer to hold over their heads."

Hunt was the first president of the AFL in 1960. Refused an NFL franchise, he looked around, found other cities interested in pro football and organized the AFL in 1960. He had dreamed of owning a pro team, he said, as long as he could remember.

Hunt said if the Kansas City ticket drive is a success, there is no chance of the club staying in Dallas, even if that city also sold 25,000 season tickets. He said after the first year, the club would conduct the advance sale.

"The City Council has agreed to all the basic provision of the lease," Hunt said. "It's simply a matter of putting the lease in writing."

Joe Foss, AFL commissioner, said Hunt would have "one hundred per cent" backing of his fellow owners.

DALLAS (AP) — Lamar Hunt, the oilman who founded the American Football League and lost more than a million dollars trying to operate a Dallas club in competition with the National Football League, said Saturday it appeared certain he would move to Kansas City.

Declaring he had become convinced that two pro football clubs could not operate successfully here, he explained that as a matter of business he was taking his franchise to Kansas City if certain conditions were met.

Hunt, whose operation in Dallas has been hampered by huge losses over three years, even dropping about $200,000 this past season although Dallas won the American Football League championship, told the press and radio at a conference that he was virtually certain that Kansas City would be the Texans' home in 1963.

If the Texans leave, it will open the field to the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

He explained, however, that this didn't mean he would ask that the exact figure be reached. "We would not be obligated to move if it were not," he declared, "but we could."

Hunt said that when he brought a pro football team to Dallas he had not anticipated having competition but that the Cowboys were moved in by the NFL.

"Even then, I thought that I could win the attendance war if I had a winning team," he said. "I was wrong. Two clubs cannot operate successfully here, especially with the territory being saturated with television. If we could black out TV two clubs might be successful but that cannot be done."

He said Kansas City would have 90 days—by its own choice—to sell the 25,000 tickets.

"They are taking 60 days to organize the campaign and will start it April 15," he explained. "They have set 30 days as the limit for putting over the sale. I am confident it will be done."

OVER BIG SPRING

Shirley Gets 26 As Bulldogs Win

Midland's doughty Bulldogs went the free throw route to defeat the Big Spring Steers, 57-54, here Friday night.

The Longhorns outshot the visitors from the court, 21 field goals to 19, but the Bulldogs made good on 19 of 25 free shot opportunities, compared to 12 of 18 for Big Spring.

The defeat was the tenth in 12 conference starts for Big Spring. Midland is currently 6-6.

Midland went ahead to stay with about four minutes left in the game when 6-feet-7 Randy Kerth hit from in front of the basket.

The Longhorns led numerous times throughout the game, on five occasions building four-point advantages, but Midland always fought back with a tenacity that the Steers found impossible to contain.

Eddie Shirley won the individual scoring battle with Big Spring's Eddy Nelson. The two had been involved in a scramble for District 2-AAAA point-making honors but Shirley fairly well settled the issue by counting 26 points, compared to 22 for Nelson.

Shirley, a buzz-bomb who gets and takes a lot of shots, now leads the Steer ace by 24 points, with only two games to play.

Midland hopped off to a 13-4 lead early in the game but Big Spring surged back and was out front, 16-13, with three minutes to go in the second period.

In one stretch, the Longhorns made eight straight points, with Nelson getting two field goals, Mike Peters two gratis pitches and Ronnie Banks a two-pointer.

Tommy Brandon fouled out for Midland with five minutes to play in the game, at a time Midland was leading by a mere point, 44-43. Bennie Smith, who had four fouls himself, hit two important buckets from the side after returning to action and the Bulldogs stayed in front.

Kerth wound up with 14 points for Midland, eight of them from the penalty line. No one but Nelson scored in double figures for Big Spring. Albert Fierro had to sit out much of the action for the Steers because he picked up three fouls early. He finally exited with 90 seconds to play.

In the B game, Big Spring won a 44-39 verdict to return to winning ways. Rickey Earle tallied 21 points for Big Spring while Clyde Jones had 17 for Midland.

The Dogies overcame a five-point Midland lead to win.

The Steers return to action Tuesday night, at which time they visit Abilene for a contest with the Eagles. They play here Thursday night against San Angelo.

Blacker the Fish — Better the Day for Fishing

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

L. M. Hayes, superintendent of schools at Stanton, says he had inquiries about the job from as far away as El Paso, Dallas, Amarillo and Llano after Harlin Dauphin resigned as head mentor there . . . The Stanton school board is looking for a coach with at least five years' experience . . . Chances are the man's wife would be hired as a teacher, if she qualified and were interested . . . The head coach and his assistant at Stanton would both probably be expected to teach Social Studies . . . Jack Aplin, the well-known West Texas sports official, hung up his whistle after serving as an arbiter in the Big Spring-Permian basketball game in Odessa the other night . . . Jack, an auditor for a candy company in San Angelo, was given a $25 a week raise by his boss on condition that he call it quits as a whistle-tooter . . . That amounts to $1,200 a year in added pay . . . Two new champions are sure to be crowned in the Feb. 23 Comanche Relays at Fort Stockton . . . The host city, winner in Division II last year, will compete in Division I this time . . . The Division I champion, Carlsbad, N.M., won't be back . . . The E. C. Smth Construction basketball team of Big Spring lost to Bill Sears of Odessa in the Commercial Tournament at Odessa the other night, 107-100, although Delnor Poss, the local coach, scored 35 points in the game . . . Golf receipts at the local Muny course amounted to $600.50 for the month of January, whereas the income for the first six days of February came to $320 . . . Better weather, of course, brought out more linksters . . . Shorty Gideon, the Muny manager, has been busy in recent weeks planting trees lining the No. 9 fairway . . . Ray Frady, 30-year-old Edison Junior High coach, has been promoted to the San Angelo Central varsity coaching staff . . . Among other duties, Frady will help Allen Davis in basketball.

Gagne Needed To File Flight Plan

The Big Spring Steers, by hitting 72 per cent of their shots from the field against Permian in the last half of their recent basketball game in Odessa, merely were repaying the Panthers for looting the Steer larder . . . Permian had hit 70 per cent of its field shots in the last half of its game played here the night of Jan. 11 . . . Barry Rodrique, the former NMMI cage star, got in all of Rice University's first 14 basketball games and scored 93 points while capturing 34 rebounds . . . The HCJC ex, Elvis Spradling, played in 12 games for the same team and tallied 69 points while coming down with 70 caroms . . . A thief active during the Palm Springs Golf Classic playoff recently did better financially than did winner Jack Nicklaus . . . He raided the clubhouse and made off with $12,000 in receipts from the sale of food and drinks . . . A lady wrestling fan collected $3,000 from Vern Gagne recently after telling a court in Chicago that Gagne left the ring during a match and landed in her lap at ringside . . . She complained that no one acquainted her with a flight plan . . . Show me a coach's office and I'll show you a set of dominoes . . . The game is a favorite recreation with most mentors during off-duty hours . . . The last two basketball teams that the Big Spring Steers face this season will use a man-to-man defense just as did the Midland Bulldogs against the locals Friday night . . . Abilene's Fred Sanner puts Big Spring's Eddy Nelson on his District 2-AAAA all-star basketball team, along with Abilene's David Wray, Minton White of San Angelo, Eddie Shirley of Midland High and Charley Morton of Permian . . . Some observers reason Morton isn't as good as he was last year.

Net Team In Need Of A Gonzales

Writer Bob Milburn, mildly scolding this reporter for suggesting that the points of school district demarcation in San Angelo might be out of balance, says that the boundary lines were established a long time ago (a fact not argued by this department), adds that Big Spring remains the only non-multiple school system in District 2-AAAA . . . It may have remained non-multiple but it still has the smallest number of scholastics of any high school in the league . . . Milburn also figures that Midland High will offer the chief competition to the Bobcats for the 2-AAAA football championship next fall . . . Folly Malone, who starred for the Tyler Junior College basketball team against HCJC here a couple of seasons ago, recently became scholastically ineligible at the University of Houston . . . The U. S. Lawn Tennis Association officials insured themselves of a crack field in the 1962 National singles and doubles tournaments by chartering a special plane and flying all top-flight players from around the world to Forest Hills, scene of the meets . . . That's a professional approach to the problem, yet the USLTA has shunned proposals for open tournaments for years . . . I think the only way the Americans could win the Davis Cup back in the next half dozen years would be to burn all the pro records for the last decade and declare Poncho Gonzales an amateur again . . . The Athens High School Hornets, who used to dominate Texas high school basketball as no other team has before or since, won only ten of their first 20 starts this season in District 8-AAA . . . In conference play, they were 5-3 after eight games . . . Sidney Walker, better known on Muscle Beach as boxer Beau Jack, says he was afraid to turn pro until his father went to his reward . . . Beau, who now shines shoes in Miami Beach for a living, says he regards Dick Tiger as one of the ring's all-time greats, adding he would be compared favorably with Sugar Ray Robinson in time . . . A veteran of 128 fights, 96 of which he won, Jack retired from the ring in 1948 . . . He says the hardest hitter he ever faced was Al (Bummy) Davis but that he learned more in his two bouts with Fritzie Zivic than in all his other fights put together.

Illinois Bounces Spartans, 91-86

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Fourth-ranked Illinois, hitting 50 per cent of its floor shots, downed Michigan State 91-86 Saturday to swell its Big Ten basketball lead with a sixth straight conference victory.

The Illini, boosting their overall mark to 14-2, bounced into a 44-35 halftime lead and ballooned it to 63-49. But with 3 minutes, 20 seconds remaining in the game, the Spartans closed in 81-80. Fusing the rally was sophomore Marcus Sanders with 12 points in the last 10 minutes and Ted Williams with 10 in the same span.

But Illinois wrapped it up as Dave Downey hit a twisting one-handed shot and Bill Burwell, who scored all of his 16 points in the last half, made four quick free throws. It put Illinois on top 87-80 with 1:18 left.

Illinois, hitting 36 of 72 field goal attempts, had four players in double figures—Bob Starnes 20, Bill Small 19, Burwell 16, Downey 13.

Sanders took scoring honors with 29 points, 21 in the last half, as MSU made 33 of 81 floor shots for .407. Pete Gent had 17 before fouling out with 1:19 left, Williams 16 and Bill Berry 14. The loss left the Spartans with a 3-5 conference mark and 6-11 for the season.

Region V Meet Opens March 7

AMARILLO (AP)—The Region 5 junior college basketball tournament will be held here March 7-8-9 with eight teams competing.

The winner will go to the national junior college tournament.

HCJC Eligibility Case To Be Reviewed Today

Members of the executive committee of the Western Junior College Athletic Conference gather at Lubbock Christian College in Lubbock at 10 a.m. today to pass judgment on HCJC in the eligibility case involving Terry Williams of Hobbs, N. M.

Williams enrolled at the local school at midterm and proceeded to play in two WC games, one involving South Plains and the other Amarillo College.

HCJC won both games and Williams scored a grand total of six points, all the result of free throws.

A clause in the code adopted by the National Junior College Athletic Association states that a boy enrolling in a school while a sport is in season will not be eligible for that particular sport that season.

Officials of the local school said they were not aware of the rule. Williams has not played in a game since disclosure of the violation. He is out for track, however.

Minimum punishment would be forfeiture of the two games in which Williams played. The maximum penalty could be banishment of the school from all sports for a period of two years.

San Angelo College officials reportedly asked that the Lubbock meeting be called in order that the case be heard.

The enrollment of Williams buoyed Jayhawk spirits, coming as it did. Injuries and school dropouts had cut the able-bodied crew at HCJC to six boys at one stage. Williams, an all-state player in New Mexico in high school, had not been in school anywhere the fall semester and his credentials were in good order when he enrolled here.

There is a possibility that HCJC can be barred from playing in the Region V tournament at Amarillo next month, college officials conceded Saturday.

HCJC has been a fixture in the tournament for more than a dozen years.

Since disclosure of the Williams case, HCJC has played two games—losing to San Angelo and winning over Odessa.

Dr. W. A. Hunt, president of HCJC, and coach D. E. (Buddy) Travis will represent the local school at the Lubbock meeting.

BS Coaches At Region IV Conclave Held Saturday

MIDLAND — Eddy Nelson of Big Spring was one of seven Class AAAA players in Region IV nominated Saturday to perform for the North squad in the annual Texas Coaches Association All-Star football game, which will be played in August.

Nelson's name was put in the hopper along with Joe Hurley and Bob Stanley, both of Midland High; Pat Riordan, Borger; Gary Howell, Odessa High; Richard Montes, El Paso High; and Mike Love, Odessa Permian.

The nominations will be forwarded to the North All-Star Football committee, who will make the final selections. In all, 20 players in all classifications down through B will be named to the North squad. The squad will eventually be filled out with eight more names picked by the committee.

The North committee is composed of Theo (Cotton) Mills, chairman, Dallas Woodrow Wilson; Bill Davis, assistant chairman, Gainesville; Don Orr, Denver City; Truman Nix, Wink; and Ted Darland, Knox City.

Usually, four boys are chosen on each level of competition for the squads.

Over 100 coaches attended the annual Region IV meeting held at Midland High School and heard discussions by Mike Campbell, assistant coach at the University of Texas (on defensive football); O. W. Follis, Lamesa basketball coach; and Tom Rogers and Max Goldsmith, on track.

New rules to be used in football starting this fall came in for liberal discussion.

All Big Spring coaches attended the meeting with the exception of basketball mentor Delnor Poss, who was involved in other duties.

Next year's Region IV conclave will take place in El Paso.

Hank, Rodriguez Battle Monday

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Slugging Henry Hank of Detroit fights for a more prominent place in the light heavyweight picture Monday night when he battles Californian Sixto Rodriguez in a 10-round bout at the Oakland Auditorium.

Hank, formerly a ranking middleweight, graduated into the 175-pound ranks last year and likes it.

"As a middleweight I used to have to lose up to 20 pounds to make the 160 limit," he explained. "That cut my strength. I feel stronger at 170."

Rodriguez, from San Anselmo, previously held the California light heavyweight championship but currently holds no ranking. Hank, who stopped Sixto three years ago, is rated the No. 8 contender by Ring Magazine and No. 9 by the World Boxing Association.

Badgers Vanquish Coahoma, 71-46

MERKEL—Merkel, now 8-1 in District 6-A, routed the Coahoma Bulldogs, 71-46, here Friday night.

Sonora Trounces Stanton Bisons

SONORA — Despite a 36-point surge by Bob Stephenson, Stanton's Buffaloes lost to Sonora in a District 7-AA basketball skirmish here Friday afternoon, 74-72.

The defeat cost Stanton a tie for first place in the standings. Crane now has sole possession of first place, with a 5-1 record. Both Stanton and Sonora are 4-2.

Stanton led by four points at half time but three of the Buff regulars proceeded to foul out and the free shot opportunities extended Sonora (31 of them) proved to be too much for Harlin Dauphin's team.

Sonora rallied strongly in the third period to assume a 12-point lead.

Buddy Glaspie, who scored 26 points for Stanton, fouled out early in the fourth round and Stephenson and Max Mathis followed him to the bench not long after that.

Johnny Glasscock paced the Sonora offensive with a 20-point effort.

New Twist Added To Recruiting

DALLAS (AP)—The football recruiting season opens Tuesday with a new twist.

The Southwest and Big Eight conference schools will begin signing athletes to pre-enrollment applications or letters of intent. When a boy signs with one of the schools, he will have a hands-off sign on him as far as the other 15 colleges in the two leagues are concerned.

This agreement was reached by the conferences this winter to eliminate conflict that arose from a school in one conference grabbing off an athlete who had signed a letter of intent in the other conference.

No limit is placed on the number of athletes a school may sign.

After a boy signs he can not transfer to another school in either conference without loss of two years of eligibility.

Talent scouts of the 16 colleges hit the high road Tuesday in search of football players.

Big Eight colleges involved are Kansas, Oklahoma, Kansas State, Iowa State, Nebraska, Oklahoma State, Missouri and Colorado.

Sons Of Mustang Greats At SMU

DALLAS (AP)—Next fall there will be sons of two members of Southern Methodist University's Rose Bowl team of 1935 playing football on the hilltop.

David Wilson, son of all-America Bobby Wilson, will be a junior member of the varsity. David Shuford, son of fullback Harry Shuford, will be a freshman.

A Devotional For The Day

Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart. (I Samuel 16:7.)

PRAYER: Our Father, teach us to treat no man as common. Help us to search for beauty in people, as we do in nature, and recognize their potential good. May we with patience and love strive to win the unlovely person to Thee. In the name of Christ, who loved us and gave Himself for us. Amen.

(From The 'Upper Room')

Blotch On Civic Pride

One of our women readers writes about a deplorable condition along the right of way of Birdwell Lane from the T&P tracks north to the Snyder Highway intersection.

Someone, she complains, has turned this into a public dump ground, particularly in the areas where a deep ravine cuts across the roadway.

She is 100 per cent correct. And she is correct also in her position of being repulsed by the sight of this debris and by the lack of consideration some people have for others.

This is one of the worst spots in the vicinity of our city, but it is not the only one by any means. Even where there seems to be no concerted practice of dumping, there is evidence of carelessness. There also is evidence of civic irresponsibility in leaving bottles and cans along the roadside.

Also, we have the practice of some invading private property, which may happen to be vacant territory or acreage, and dumping trash there as though it were the public dumpgrounds. West of town there is a growing unsightly accumulation at the roadside.

Most of this dumping is illegal. Like most illegal acts it is done surrepticiously at night or when there is no traffic in sight. The public, however, can help in reporting illicit dumping, and an examination of trash dumped in roadways sometimes can reveal its source. If enough people become concerned about this, the situation can be helped.

Half A Century Of Proof

For the 53rd year, Scout Week is being observed across the country. This, within itself, is a testimonial to the Scouting movement. It could not endure, let alone maintain its vigor, if it did not have some depth and purpose to it.

From the beginning, Scouting has aimed at two fundamental objectives—character building and citizenship training. Its oath and law, the crux of the program, pledge boys (and girls in the Girl Scout program) to do their best to do their duty to God and country, to be of service to other people, and to maintain personal fitness in the realm of body, mind and spirit; to strive for the great qualities of honesty, loyalty, right attitudes, right habits of health and thrift, of reverence toward God.

Boys and girls learn and absorb love of their country, its flag and heritage. This is not a spasmodic, suped-up process, but one of steady, positive inculcation that has endurance and response.

These programs touch boys and girls as they are and where they are. They capitalize on the wonderful world of youthful discovery and anticipation, and on the tenet that everyone learns a lot when they are having fun doing it. Scouting is not an automatic miracle panacea, but half a century of success is fair proof that it is good for boys and girls—and good for the country.

It's Something That Makes You Tingle

Today we are going to talk about romance; not the kind that has to do with languages, or the picturesque type that might describe history or Nature. This is the lusty, full-blown type that makes hearts beat faster.

THE KIND that puts a light in a young girl's eye and a priss in her walk. The kind that makes a young swain throw out his chest and perhaps turn cartwheels. The kind that goes with youth and spring.

The why of this, if you didn't know, is that it's Valentine Week. Nobody has designated this, but there are flowers and candy available, and if we are going to get right down to pure and truly loving, this is the week to do it.

I ATTEMPTED to do some research on Valentine and associated characters like Dan Cupid, and as I muttered about lack of sources was advised that a lot of research would do nothing but dull the edge of the ecstasies of the subject. OK, no research.

HOWEVER, just to fill a paragraph, some of the reference books say that Valentine's Day was originally in honor of some saints, and there grew about a custom of lovers exchanging gifts, well, at least gifts — on that day. The whole thing is a bit vague. One of the books said that traditionally, birds began mating on Valentine's Day, and if that ain't sweet, what is? And another said that the whole romance business was just a coincidence with Valentine's Day, because it happened to occur about the beginning of Spring. Have you noticed, in the lovely days of late, a special scent in the air? One that draws boys and girls together in a mystic common bond? Where handholding is heavenly, and winks are wondrous and looks are luscious?

Yep, spring has something to do with it.

TRIED TO FIND out something about Cupid, too. He's been around a long time, and has probably shot down more people than all the warriors of history put together.

You might think that a little naked boy, with wings on his shoulders, a beatific smile on his face and armed with bow and arrow, wouldn't be too effective. Man, but is he! He shoots from the inside, and this is another thing about Valentine's Day you have to learn.

JUST TO GIVE this subject some substance, I tried to tick off the names of some of the great lovers of history, literature and mythology. For the life of me, I got stuck after four or five.

Cupid and Pschye must have been among the first, and she probably was the first to say, "Don't point that thing at me, boy."

AND THERE were Romeo and Juliet, of course, and she saying all the time, "We could do a lot better if you'd go get a ladder."

And Anthony and Cleopatra, and he was the one that said to her, "Whassamatter, you snake-bit or somethin'?"

Some books tell us about Pocahontas and Captain John Smith, and he kept shouting at her, "Be careful, honey, you're going to get hurt."

AND PRISCILLA and John Alden. When he knocked on the door, she said "Well, hello dere. Oops, aren't you the wrong man?"

But I guess he wasn't, and they lived happily ever afterward.

And what else can you ask of love?

Congress Takes Care Of Itself

WASHINGTON — With House members actually devising ways to cut down on the cost of congressional junketing, there are twinges of conscience on Capitol Hill about the building spree that is costing fantastic sums.

The latest addition is the newest House office building which will be completed some time toward the middle of next year. Reports have had it that this huge structure will eventually cost more than the Pentagon. The bill for the Pentagon built with remarkable speed under wartime conditions was $83,000,000.

THIS REPORT is denied by the office of the Architect of the Capitol, J. George Stewart. The cost of building and equipment is put at $71,000,000. That does not include $3,900,000 in fees for a Philadelphia firm of architects, $2,000,000 for "administration," and $3,500,000 for furniture.

In fact, the project was carried in the budget for a total of $115,000,000. But that covers the cost of a new subway link between the latest House office building and the Capitol. Matthew McCloskey, also a Philadelphian and the contractor, was recently rewarded for his services as Democratic party fund raiser by being made Ambassador to Ireland.

THE SENATE and the House have been playing a kind of poker game with each other, using office buildings as an ante. The Senate's second office building, begun in 1954, cost $26,000,000. The addition made it possible for each Senator to have a five-room suite instead of the three rooms apiece in the old building. Loud outcries came from many members when they moved into the pseudo-classical structure over deficiencies in planning and construction.

THE THIRD HOUSE office building now nearing completion will be three times as large as the newest Senate addition. But even with three buildings each House member will get only a three-room suite instead of the present two rooms. So perhaps another raise is due in this poker game.

Despite widespread opposition from virtually the whole architectural profession, Stewart backed by the stern insistence of the late Speaker Sam Rayburn carried through a remodeling of the East Front of the Capitol. Congress appropriated $17,500,000, but with a new subway terminal, repairs to the Capitol dome and other costs the bill ran to $24,000,000.

NOW STEWART, who is not an architect but a builder-surveyor and a one-term Congressman from Delaware, wants to "improve" the West Front. In hearings for the budget for the current fiscal year he estimated the cost at $18,200,000. Judging from past experience this is likely to improve, if Congress gives the go-ahead sign, a very conservative estimate.

The current issue of Architectural Forum is devoted entirely to Washington, with emphasis on the "mess" of an unplanned capital that has mushroomed into a world city with no vestige of representative government.

"MORE THAN any other building in Washington, Benjamin Latrobe's marvelous wedding cake of a Capitol belongs to all the people of the nation—not just to Congress and certainly not just to J. George Stewart." Donald Canty, one of the editors, writes. "It deserves to be in better hands, perhaps even in the hands of an architect. Moreover, the Capitol's immediate setting, increasingly blighted by obese monumentality, deserves a more orderly and sensitive treatment . . ."

He calls the new Senate and House office buildings "pompous." Harsher adjectives have been applied to the latest House addition. Its base is of brown field stone which rises from the street like the bastion of a fortress. Superimposed on this is a vaguely classicial edifice. Besides 170 office suites, it will house committees and their staffs. Theoretically the $115,000,000 will be sufficient to pay for remodeling the two old House office buildings, carving up the interiors to give each of the 435 members his or her three rooms.

THE NEW BUILDING is a symbol of the ever - increasing perquisites that members of Congress vote themselves. More secretarial hire, more long-distance phone calls, offices in home states and districts—the total goes steadily upward. It means that the challenger, the outsider, seeking a seat in the Senate or House must face an ever-greater disadvantage in competing with the man in the office who in innumerable ways can use his position of power to get re-elected.

Putting a curb on junketing by limiting the use of counterpart funds—local currency set aside to match American aid—dished out freely in the past—is a beginning. But as the momumental expansion on Capitol Hill goes on it is seen to be only a beginning.

Not A Tax Cut, But A Boom, That's Needed

WASHINGTON — "It's too little and too late . . . It helps the wrong people—the cut should be heaviest for corporations and high-income taxpayers . . . Taxes should be reduced only if spending is held at present levels and, better still, cut back . . . Forget a tax cut and increase spending."

THUS WENT the comments before the Joint Economic Committee. To say that no one likes the President's tax plan would be wrong. Almost everyone likes some phase of it. But few concede that it will achieve what the President and his advisers hope—a rousing stimulus to the economy. It's either the wrong remedy or its dosage is inadequate.

The theory, the philosophy of it, is clear: The economy is growing too slowly. We have idle plants and idle manpower. By cutting taxes, people will have more money to spend. They'll buy more, production will rise, jobs will be created, payrolls will increase. This will enlarge the pool of taxable national income.

EVENTUALLY, this enlarged pool will return to the Treasury more tax revenues than will have been lost by the tax cut. The Treasury will be better off. People will be better off.

That is the theory, the consummation that is wished. In one magnificent long-term swoop, it would cure the high rate of unemployment—5.8 per cent of the labor force—and stop America's persistent balance-of-payments deficit—the gold hemorrhage.

IF WE COULD only get a boom going . . . if we could get a sharp rise in production and employment . . . if we could utilize existing plant capacity and get business men itching to put up more plant . . . if all that were to happen, corporate profits would soar, business men would need money for expansion, and there would be a return flow of capital—yes, a rush of it—to the United States.

First, the boom would generate a natural rise in interest rates. Keeping money in the United States would become attractive, even necessary.

SECOND, the boom would slow corporate investment abroad. U.S. companies would need funds for expansion at home.

The balance-of-payments deficit would be reduced tremendously and perhaps disappear. On trade—merchandise movement—we have a surplus. Our military and economic aid programs deplete that close to zero.

Testifying before the Joint Economic Committee, Federal Reserve Board Governor George W. Mitchell explained the dilemma. It would be paradoxical and self-defeating to cut taxes to take up economic slack and at the same time make money tight — put a credit squeeze on business. Furthermore, this wouldn't deter domestic business men from investing abroad. On the contrary. Only profitable domestic opportunities would achieve that.

MITCHELL WOULD do something positive about the sale of foreign securities here. So long as U.S. interest rates are lower than those in West Germany, Italy, Japan, or other prospering nations, companies in such countries are apt to sell securities in Wall Street. Mitchell wonders if some sort of tax—to balance the differential in rates—might not be a useful device to stop this outflow of dollars.

Mitchell would not block the free movement of dollars. He doesn't want to impair dollar convertibility. But other countries don't permit free export of capital. Why should we?

EDWARD M. BERNSTEIN, now a private consultant and former director of research for the International Monetary Fund, also would try to stop the capital outflow—but differently. Never before have central bankers worked in such harmony as now, reasons Bernstein. Why shouldn't cooperation be extended to interest rates?

If countries of Europe lowered interest rates—to make their home markets more attractive to borrowers than the U. S. market—foreign business men wouldn't tap Wall Street for funds. Money would be available more cheaply at home.

HOWEVER, this requires central bankers and national governments to see the U.S. problem as their problem. Perhaps that is possible, in spite of De Gaulle's blackball of British entry into the Common Market.

Where does all this testimony leave us? Where we were—with plenty of proposals, but no positive solution. The only certainty is that the deficit will be big again (see chart) and that Congress will have a hard time deciding between tax reduction and tax reform. It's going to be a long hard spring in Washington. So pray for a boom.

Waster Of Time And Men

WASHINGTON—"We have another two-week supply of speeches," said Sen. Dick Russell, generalissimo of the Southern resistance to changes in Senate Rule 22 for extended debate, to your reporter.

"I'm already feeling the strain at the beginning of a session when I ought to feel most rested. But if this is what we have to do to preserve Constitutional order, we'll do it," he added.

SEN. RUSSELL IS chairman of the Armed Services Committee, which must question Defense Secretary McNamara and hold intensive review of a military policy which holds the fate of the nation.

Stennis of Mississippi, chairman of the Preparedness subcommittee, is waiting to get on with examination of the Skybold decision and of the strange doings in Cuba, where the administration has failed to follow up a signal victory. Keating of New York and Thurmond of South Carolina, who are not single-minded about Rule 22, have become possessed of similar information about a post-October build-up of Soviet weaponry in Castroland.

ANDERSON of New Mexico, a liberal Rule-changer, will probably have to lead a hard fight to toughen and maybe militarize our space policy. He is waiting out the stand-still filibuster.

Robertson of Virginia, more conservative about Rules than Anderson is liberal, is scheduled to move up a notch on the Appropriations Committee and oversee much of the proposed record-smashing spending. Byrd of Virginia and Talmadge of Georgia, chairman and stalwart of Finance, where the new tax reforms must be considered, are stymied.

SOME YEARS ago now, Walter Reuther testified on Capitol Hill as to how he would dragoon its denizens and ride roughshod over the Rules if only he were in charge and congressional members were unionists.

Sen. Russell retaliated by giving Reuther a tongue-lashing from which the labor leader slunk away with his ears chewed up. Ever since then Reuther has sicked the minority groups of race and religion upon the minority defenders of Senate and House. Reuther is a major reason why there are these stultifying struggles, year after year, against the orderly procedure of the national legislature. It is a planned attack for a plethora of new money-spending laws in a country where, from the beginning, we have known that the least governed people are the best governed.

ANOTHER CASUALTY of the Rules fight, it has seemed to me, is the office of the vice presidency. It has never been a position of power, yet it has been held by men who learned, before or after, to wield power — Adams, Jefferson, Burr, George Clinton, Van Buren, Theodore Roosevelt, Alben Barkley, Calvin Coolidge and Harry Truman.

Sadly, the last two vice presidents have muffed their chances truly to dignify the quasi-judicial position as presiding officer of the Senate. Both Nixon and Johnson have had an opportunity to leave a landmark decision in history. On the same subject of Rules changes, both of them have played peanut politics.

NIXON, AT A TIME when he was a me-too Republican, indicated that he would declare himself against the traditional proposition that the Senate is a continuing body of which two-thirds of the membership is always in being. Johnson, a great Senate leader in his time, has played the artful dodger by saying he would submit the question to a vote.

Altogether, a distressful business this filibuster now going into its second month. It wastes the bodies, minds and stamina of our best men. A Rule older than anything in Congress was enunciated by one of Shakespeare's imprisoned kings. He lamented that he'd wasted time; but now time wasted him.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

U. S. Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges considers advertising vital to the American economy. In a statement prepared for this week's issue of Advertising Age, Secretary Hodges said in part:

"Without advertising our national per capita income would fall, the market demand for goods and services would shrink, production would fall off and many jobs would disappear . . . The primary function of advertising is to inform—persuasion is secondary."

He also pointed out that its stimulation of competition among merchants and others promotes price competition and improved mercantile service. Without advertising, in his view, the consumer would pay more, not less, for a product. Volume sales, stimulated by advertising, enables the manufacturer to make profits on small margins per unit, Secretary Hodges emphasized.

Informed business men and economists will agree that the Cabinet official is correct. And in general agreement is it not possible to draw some specific comparisons? In the New York newspaper strike, for instance, is it not possible to trace job losses and business cutbacks directly to the absence of full newspaper advertising? What hurts one large metropolitan area also hurts the nation as a whole, does it not?

So far governmental authorities have not been able to link the New York strike with the national welfare and thus make it eligible for Taft-Hartley injunctive action. In the overall, long-range view as expressed by Secretary Hodges, however, it would seem that if advertising is essential to the national economy, there is a definite connection.

Medication Will Not Cure Cataracts

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M. D.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am told I have a cataract on one eye.

Have you ever heard of drops put in the eye to treat a cataract? If an operation is necessary, is it serious?—F. M.

We're all sensitive about our eyes and eyesight. If it's a refraction error and can be corrected by glasses, we don't think much about it. But an "operation on the eye"? That sounds alarming.

Actually, as now performed, it isn't bad although I guess hardly anybody really enjoys going to a hospital. (There have been times when I have found it very restful, though.)

Modern eye anesthetics eliminate pain, and sedatives are used before and after the surgery to take care of the natural nervousness. It's an operation demanding precision but I don't think I'd call it a serious one except for that.

Then after the eye is healed, lenses are fitted to direct the light rays to the proper part of the retina, the job done by the natural lens in the eye before the "cataract" clouded it.

The new lenses may be spectacles, or may be contact lenses which are coming into greater use for this purpose.

A cataract actually is a chemical change which causes the lens of the eye to become cloudy, thus gradually preventing sufficient light from passing through.

To date there is no medicine which will correct this. There have been claims from time to time. Some people were mistaken in their claims. Others were deliberately offering their so-called remedies because they knew gullible people would pay money for them in hope of avoiding surgery.

However, medication can be helpful to this extent. Since the problem essentially is that the lens, as it clouds, does not admit enough light, drugs which dilate the pupils will permit some added light to pass through.

In the right case, and at the right time, this can be helpful. The time varies because there is great variation in the rate at which the cataract turns cloudy—sometimes fast, sometimes slow. In some cases, it may not ever impair eyesight. But cataracts never get better, and if you can't see adequately, surgical removal is the only answer.

I'm often asked when this should be done. It used to be the custom to allow cataracts to "ripen," but these days the decision depends rather on the need for improving vision.

A person who needs to use his eyes for close work should have surgery much sooner than the person who doesn't. I've known plenty of people who, after the operation, vehemently wondered why they had put it off so long.

There is no hope of being able to heal that type of ulcer without medical attention, and then it isn't easy unless proper steps are taken to correct the varicose veins—the basic cause of the trouble.

Special Favors For A Representative

WASHINGTON — "Equal opportunity" now has given way here to "preferential opportunity." A Negro congressman who is chairman of the House Committee on Education and Labor is apparently being given favors that white citizens generally do not get.

SEN. JOHN J. WILLIAMS, Republican of Delaware, has just made a comprehensive report on the situation which was published in the "Congressional Record." He charges that agencies of the government are "shoveling out the taxpayers' dollars" to Adam Clayton Powell, chairman of the all-important House Committee on Education and Labor, while Mr. Powell himself is "delinquent" in his federal income taxes for the years 1949 through 1955. The Delaware senator made public a letter he had received from the Commissioner of the Internal Revenue Service listing a total of $13,000 as a "fraud penalty" imposed on Mr. Powell.

SENATOR WILLIAMS pointed out in his speech other favors or preferential opportunities allegedly given Rep. Powell, and said:

"Notwithstanding this tax delinquency, three agencies of the government were vying with each other as to which could curry the most favor with Mr. Powell by opening the doors of the Federal Treasury.

"The State Department, with no strings attached, freely financed Mr. Powell's tour of the nightclubs in Europe.

"THE DEPARTMENT of Health, Education and Welfare tapped a fund which had been approved by the Congress for the control of juvenile delinquency, and made an outright grant of $250,000 to a foundation which Mr. Powell and his administrative assistant, Mr. Wingate, had organized just eight days before the receipt of the gift.

"The Housing and Home Finance Agency, the third government agency, was equally generous; it approved three loans totaling nearly $11 million on property which was being purchased for approximately $8.5 million, and, as further evidence of the administration's philanthropy, it endorsed a bill which would provide complete exemption from all real estate taxes on one of these properties as long as it was owned and controlled by Mr. Powell's outfit."

THE QUESTION that is being asked here now is whether anybody else has gotten or could still get such favors from the Kennedy administration, and whether the rule of "equal opportunity" will be followed hereafter.

In his address, Mr. Williams made this further comment:

"During the past 12 months various agencies of the government have been scrambling around to see who could give Mr. Powell the most favorable deal . . .

"I CITE AN example of Mr. Powell's influence with this administration under the Housing and Home Finance Agency. Long-term loans totaling nearly $11 million at interest rates as low as three and one-eighth per cent have been approved to Mr. Powell and his associates . . .

"Not only were these loans sufficient to cover 100 per cent of the acquisition cost of the properties in question, but in one instance the loan approved was for exactly double the acquisition price."

THIS IS SOMETHING which will certainly cause an arching of eyebrows among those citizens who have applied for loans but have not been given more than the acquisition price. The real point is not whether any fault lies with an applicant who seeks to get all he can, but whether the federal agencies—anxious to "curry favor" with Chairman Powell, for instance, as Sen. Williams describes it, have overstepped the bounds of propriety.

Oil Fortunes Were Low In January

Area drillers put down a lot of hole during January of this year, but their fortunes were mostly bad as they experienced the worst January rating in new potential in four years.

A total of 31 projects were completed for 3,236 barrels of new oil. This is slightly less than half the 6,586.16 barrels from 44 new wells in January, 1962. Locations also dropped off considerably from both the previous year and the initial month of 1962. There were 40 new projects filed, compared to 60 in December, 1962, and 44 in January of last year.

The most pessimistic aspect of January drilling was the 20 dusters recorded. Operators drilled during January a total of 137,672 feet of hole which did not produce, equivalent to more than 26 miles. For the first time in eight months the local eight-county area failed to produce discovery oil at any of the drilling locations.

Martin County, with production contributions from the Mabee field and Spraberry Trend Area, had 1,201 barrels of new oil, almost double the 667 barrels of second place Dawson County. Most completions, however, were in Howard County, which had 12.

A look at the counties' statistics for January follows.

BORDEN

The county logged one producer of 133 barrels in the Hobo for its only new potential during January. Three wildcats and one Von Roeder, North site, were plugged and abandoned.

There were three new locations. One is an exploratory venture and the other two are in the Hobo field.

DAWSON

Total initial potential for Dawson County projects in January totaled 677 barrels from three new wells. Biggest producer was a 480-barrel well in the Wells field. Other production was from lone completions in the Ackerly and Welch fields. Three wildcats were failures.

One of the seven new sites, two were wildcats, three are in the Ackerly field and the Lamesa, West and Mungerville, East fields each gained one.

GARZA

Two small wells, one each in the Rocker "A" and Garza, East fields, produced a total of 151 barrels for Garza County's new potential statistics during January. One wildcat was plugged and abandoned as well as lone sites in the Duffy Peak and PHD fields.

There were nine new projects, most in the area counties. Six of these are in the Post field. There is one wildcat, one Dorward site and one PHD location.

GLASSCOCK

The Spraberry Trend Area in Glasscock County paid well on the only project in the field completed there during January, accounting for most of the 251 barrels of new oil logged. The other completion was in the Zant field.

Five prospectors were staked along with two more Spraberry Trend Area projects. One wildcat in January was a failure.

HOWARD

Eight of the county's 12 completions for the month were in the Howard-Glasscock field. Total potential was 579 barrels. Two wells are in the Iatan-East Howard field, the problematic Vincent field recorded one and the Snyder field had one. Four dry holes were also recorded. Two are wildcats. Others are in the Hobo and Sara-Mag fields, one each.

Only three new sites were filed. One is in the Howard-Glasscock field and two are in the Snyder field.

MARTIN

The Spraberry Trend Area logged five of the eight producers in the county during January, yielding 1,046 barrels of the 1,201 total for the month. The other three wells are in the Mabee field.

Two prospectors and one Ackerly project were plugged and abandoned. Two more wildcats were filed along with two Spraberry Trend Area locations for a total of four.

MITCHELL

The Iatan field logged a 103-barrel well and the Nena Lucia, West field picked up its fourth Strawn producer for the total of 234 barrels of new oil. One wildcat was plugged.

Filing of six locations in three areas spread out the activity for the county. One wildcat was filed, three new sites are in the Turner-Gregory field and two are in the Iatan-East Howard field.

STERLING

A 10-barrel Durham completion was the only new oil Sterling County recorded during January. One wildcat was a failure. Operators staked one project in the Durham field.

Garza County Gains Three New Wells

Three projects were finaled in Garza County at week's end, one each in the Justiceburg (Glorieta), Rocker "A" (San Andres), and Post (Glorieta) fields.

Bayview Oil Corp. No. 2 W. V. Roy is the Justiceburg field well, pumping a potential of 18 barrels of oil with 60 per cent water on potential. The gravity is 37.6 degrees, gas oil ratio is 542-1 and operator fraced with 50,000 gallons.

Elevation is 2,329 feet, total depth is 2,610 feet, top of the pay section is 2,430 feet, the 4½ inch casing is at 2,596 feet and perforations are between 2,431 - 579 feet. Wellsite is 330 from east and 1,650 from south lines of section 134-5-H&GN survey.

R. S. Anderson No. 4 Skelly Stoker is an old well workover in the Rocker pool, completing for an initial pumping potential of 43 barrels of 37 gravity oil with 19 per cent water. Operator fraced with 35,000 gallons.

From elevation 2,335 feet, total depth is 3,256 feet, top of the pay section is 2,461 feet, the 5½ inch casing goes to 3,250 feet and perforations are between 2,462-692 feet. Location is 330 from south and east lines of section 939-97, H&TC survey.

The Post well is T. F. Hodge No. 2-B W. V. Roy with potential of 77 barrels of 38.6 gravity oil pumping, with 24 per cent water. Operator fraced with 50,000 gallons.

Elevation is 2,340 feet, total depth is 2,640 feet, top of the pay section is 2,546 feet, 4½ inch casing goes to 2,640 feet, and perforations are between 2,546-97 feet. Wellsite is 1,980 from north and east lines, section 134-5-H&GN survey.

Rotary Count Is Up Again

A gain of 11 active units over the previous week was shown on Reed Roller Bit Company's Friday count of active rotary drilling rigs in the Permian Basin Empire.

The latest total for the West Texas-Southeast New Mexico area was 211 working rigs. That figure on the prior Friday was 200.

The survey for the comparable week in 1962 listed 221 active rotaries in the two-state area, 10 more than were listed on the latest check.

Lea County, N. M., with 34 working rigs on the Friday tabulation, held first place. That was a drop of one from the 35 credited to the county a week earlier. Ector County continued in second spot with 21 active rotaries, the same number it listed on the previous survey.

The county-by-county survey, with previous total in parenthesis, includes:

Andres 14 (11), BORDEN 2 (2), Chaves 3 (4), Cochran 1 (1), Coke 1 (1), Concho 2 (1), Crane 9 (12), Crockett 4 (5), Culberson 2 (1), DAWSON 8 (7),

Revolution Halts Oil Shipments

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Iraq's revolution halted Saturday the shipment of oil from river ports in Iran and Iraq.

Iraq ship pilots said that "until necessary orders arrive from Baghdad," capital of Iraq, they would not take ships into the Persian Gulf from ports on the Shatt-al Arab River. The river forms part of the Iran-Iraq border near its mouth on the Persian Gulf.

No reason for the stoppage was given.

Nine tankers were reported waiting at the Iranian port of Abadan, 40 miles up river, and at the Iraqi port of Fao, at the mouth of the river. An undisclosed number of ships also was reported tied up at Khurramshahr in Iran.

Iran exports about 17 million tons of refined oil a year.

Industry Not United On Oil Tax Cut Plans

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—The oil industry may have difficulty organizing a united front against the oil tax changes suggested by President Kennedy.

The situation is similar to the oil imports dispute that has had various segments of the domestic industry at odds for years.

President Kennedy's tax message Jan. 24 did not call for a direct reduction of the oil industry's 27½ per cent depletion tax allowance but it included four suggestions for correcting "unintended defects."

One suggestion asked Congress to prevent American oil firms from using excess foreign tax credit to offset U.S. tax liability on income obtained from the foreign operations.

One trade association that has battled for stricter oil imports controls hinted rather broadly this week it would not mind seeing Congress tighten the tax provisions which apply to such foreign operations.

The hint was made as the 6,500-member Texas Independent Producers & Royalty Owners Association (TIPRO) disclosed it is undertaking an evaluation survey of practical effects of the Kennedy proposals.

"It seems entirely possible government revenue can best be increased by tax changes which would have the effect of diverting American investment away from further unneeded foreign production and into increased drilling of exploratory wells in the United States," said Johnny Mitchell, TIPRO president from Houston.

TIPRO's depletion allowance resolutions traditionally have sought retention of the 27½ per cent allowance "for the production of oil and gas within the United States."

Mitchell said in July that TIPRO takes no position with respect to the level of percentage depletion for American companies operating abroad.

"The appropriate per cent in these instances is a matter which others are best qualified to answer," he said. "We have taken the position there are abuses of foreign tax credit allowances by some American oil companies operating abroad."

Most other trade groups normally have taken a position in the past that any attack on depletion as applied to foreign operations could trigger a full scale attack on domestic operations.

These groups include the 7,000-member Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPAA) which has been fighting oil imports since it was founded in 1929.

The IPAA executive committee is to meet in Washington on Monday and Tuesday to study the Kennedy proposals and develop courses of action.

Plans To Offer 'Pooling Bill'

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. Wayne Gibbens of Breckenridge said Saturday he will introduce Tuesday an oil and gas "pooling" bill.

The bill would authorize the Railroad Commission to set up "drilling blocks" by combining small tracts. It would not provide for fieldwide unitization, Gibbens said.

The issue of pooling small tracts has become increasingly controversial among oil operators during the last two years, when state courts repeatedly overturned the commission's one - third - two third proration formula. The formula provided that one-third of the gas or oil produced in a field be allocated equally among individuals and two-thirds of the gas or oil be allocated to wells on the basis of acreage. These formulas generally have been replaced with formulas based solely on acreage.

Gibbens said the West Central Texas Oil and Gas Association endorsed his bill.

SENATOR URGES:

Congressional Study Of Petroleum Situation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A careful congressional study of the world petroleum situation is an urgent national need, Sen. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., told the Senate last week.

"Far too many people, some of them identified as experts, continue to inflate the illusion that our oil industry is fair game—that it is a fat and fitting target for tax reformers," Monroney said. "This illusion, if allowed to flourish unchallenged, could lead this nation to disaster."

The study by Congress is needed, he said, to resolve uncertainties endangering the position of the free world in oil activities and to destroy that illusion.

"I hope that through such a study we can quickly resolve the present uncertainties that endanger the position of the free world in its most critical economic sector—the discovery, production and distribution of petroleum and petroleum products," Monroney said.

He cited two "alarming" news reports.

These, he said, were reports of deadly new effects of the Russian cold war offensive in oil exports and of a "tragic" decline in oil and gas drilling activity in the United States.

Monroney said a better understanding between the government and the oil industry is needed.

He called attention to a statement of Harold Decker, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, that President Kennedy's tax recommendations would severely depress development of oil and gas resources.

That warning should not be ignored, he said, and neither should warnings of the slowing down of the domestic oil industry and the Russian effort to make oil a major cold war weapon.

Grand Jury Indicts Eight

QUITMAN (AP) — Eight persons were indicted by the grand jury Friday in cases involving slant hole oil wells and various charges of theft and conspiracy.

Slant well drilling is deviation of an oil well so that it bottoms under a lease not held by the well's operator.

The district clerk's office listed the following indictments:

B. B. Orr, two indictments on theft charges.

B. B. Orr and W. R. Henderson, two joint indictments on conspiracy to commit theft charges.

W. R. Henderson, three indictments on theft charges.

C. J. Snider, Joe Snider and D. E. Hearn Sr., two indictments on conspiracy charges.

C. J. Snider, W. L. Powell, Edward B. Hearn Sr. and Douglas Godfrey, theft charges.

The indictments did not list their places of residence but they are known to reside from Houston to Dallas and into East Texas.

AREA OIL ACTIVITY

Wolfcamp Strike Listed, Yates Sand Pay Opened

A flowing Wolfcamp oil discovery has been indicated in Southeast Kent County at Atlantic Refining Company No. 1 Ruby Cave. On a two hour test at 4,132-54 feet, the venture surfaced gas in four minutes with no volume reported.

Oil surfaced in 52 minutes and after flowing to pits for eight minutes, gauged 8.2 barrels of oil in one hour flowing through a ½-inch surface choke. It reversed out 15.3 barrels of oil, no water, and recovered 120 feet of oil and drilling below the sub.

Bottomhole flow pressure ranged from 182 to 935 pounds with a 15-minute initial shutin reading of 1,728 pounds. The final shutin for 30-minutes was 1,473 pounds.

At last report, the explorer was deepened to 4,180 feet and was running logs.

Site is 660 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 360, block 2, H&TC survey, 15 miles northwest of Rotan and five miles northwest of the Rough Draw (Noodle Creek) pool.

* * *

Potential test of the Capps is under way in Runnels County at Bridwell Oil Company of Wichita Falls No. 1 George Garrett. Upon completion it will be a new pay for the Dick Richardson (Multipay) field.

Last gauge reported was 50 barrels of oil daily, pumping, from Capps perforations at 3,846-51 feet and was natural production. It will be a dual completion as the project was recently finaled from the Gardner Sand for 126 barrels of 42-gravity oil per day, flowing through a 12-64-inch choke from open hole at 4,271-77 feet.

The project was the second Gardner sand producer for the field and a ½ mile northeast extension to that pay. Site is 2,074 feet from north and 1,953 feet from west lines of Carter Anderson survey 523 and 2½ miles northwest of Hatchell.

* * *

A new pay, the Yates sand, has been opened in the Vaughn (multipay) pool of Crockett County. The new opener is Morris R. Antweill and Associates of Hobbs No. 1-D Shannon which finaled on a pump for 14 barrels of 28-gravity oil per day plus 220 barrels of water.

The production is from perforations at 1,052-154 feet with no treatment reported. Site of the opener is 330 feet from south and 2,586 feet from east lines of section 3, block UV, GC&SF survey and 15 miles northwest of Ozona.

A 5-870-foot wildcat failure in Nolan County will be re-entered and deepened to 6,700 feet for Mississippian conglomerate tests by Larson & Thomas of Dallas.

It is No. 1 T. E. Walker, 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 56, Block X, T&P survey, 13 miles southeast of Sweetwater and ¾ mile southwest of the EVB (Palo Pinto and Ellenburger) field and the same distance northeast of the Southwest EVB (Caddo, Canyon reef and sand) field. It was originally drilled and plugged by Diamond Drilling Company in 1957.

* * *

G-M Oil Company of Midland No. 1-B Robertson has been staked in Gaines County one location southeast of its recent east extension to the Robertson field. It is contracted to 6,250 feet, 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 16, block A-21, PSL survey and eight miles south-southwest of Seminole.

Garza, Andrews and Yoakum counties in West Texas have each gained a wildcat location.

Gould Drilling Company, and others, of Midland No. 1 Connell Estate was staked to 2,800-feet to test the Glorieta 1¼ miles east-southeast of the Glorieta discovery of the Post field in Garza.

The wildcat was spotted 467 feet from south and 2,818 feet from east lines of section 4, Holmes, Divers & Long survey and 14 miles east of Post.

In Andrews, 3½ miles southwest of the C-Ranch (Wolfcamp) pool, Pan American Petroleum Corporation staked location for a 12,700-foot Mississippian wildcat.

It is No. 2-AU David Fasken, 660 feet from south and 2,001 feet from east lines of section 1, block 41, T-3-N, G&MMB&A survey and 11 miles southeast of Andrews.

The Yoakum explorer was staked by Hill & Meeker of Midland and is a 12,100-foot Devonian test one-half mile southwest of the one-well Block D (Devonian) pool.

It is No. 1-398 Keller, 1,500 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of section 398, block D, J. H. Gibson survey and six miles southeast of Bronco.

A Crane County wildcat is operating under a new contract depth and an outpost has been staked in Reagan County.

Gulf Oil Corporation No. 853 W. N. Waddell, and others, a Crane County wildcat on the southwest side of the Sand Hill s(Ordovician) pool, is operating under a 6,500-foot contract depth and at last report was drilling below 3,031 feet in lime and dolomite.

The original depth was 5,700 feet for the venture which spots 1,980 feet from southwest and 660 feet from northwest lines of section 8, block 3, H&TC survey and 15 miles west of Crane.

In Reagan County, 4½ miles southeast of Big Lake, Hank Hankins, Trustee, of Abilene, has staked location for a ¾ mile southeast and a one-mile southwest outpost to Grayburg production in the Price pool.

It is No. 2-249 University Land, 1,650 feet from north and 330 feet from east lines of section 2, block 49, University Lands survey and is contracted to 2,600 feet.

Chemical Plant Site Announced

DALLAS (AP)—Lone Star Producing Co. said today that its $20 million chemical fertilizer complex will be built in Navarro County. It will be at a site crossed by Texas 31 from Corsicana to Athens and by the Cotton Belt Railroad.

The site location was announced by L. T. Potter, president of Lone Star Gas Co., the parent company of Lone Star Producing.

The location is bounded on the east by the Trinity River, making it near water transportation should a Trinity waterway become a reality.

The company disclosed one week ago the plans to build the plant but did not specify the location pending completion of a deal for the land.

The chemical division of Lone Star Producing will produce anhydrous ammonia fertilizer and other nitrogen material such as ammonium nitrate, urea, and liquid nitrogen solutions.

The complex will be built as rapidly as possible, Potter said, using the most modern production methods. Storage facilities for all materials will be built into the complex.

Natural gas, used both as a raw material and as a fuel in processing, will be obtained from Lone Star Producing's properties in the area. Potter said the Chemical Division expects to use 10 to 20 million cubic feet of gas a day.

The executive office of the Chemical Division will be in Dallas. Roy Jury has been named vice president of Lone Star Producing in charge of the Chemical Division effective March 1. Jury was a former vice president and director of John Deere Chemical Co. at Tulsa.

Commission Lists 100 New Wells

AUSTIN (AP)—The Railroad Commission reported Saturday the completion of 100 oil and 54 gas wells during the week.

The oil completions brought the 1963 total to 944, compared to 1,099 last year. The 280 gas wells compared to 401 in 1962.

Six wildcat oil wells and 24 wildcat gas wells were completed. A total of 142 wells were plugged, including 96 dry holes.

The total average calendar day allowable Saturday was 2,861,047 barrels, an increase of 7,433.

Car Inspection Deadline Nears

One car out of three in Howard County now displays the 1963 official inspection sticker, according to statistics compiled by Capt. R. M. Hammett, head of the Motor Vehicle Inspection Service with the Department of Public Safety at Midland.

"As of Feb. 1," he reported, "6,511 of Howard County's 20,150 registered vehicles had been inspected and issued a safety sticker. This represented 31 per cent of the total as of that date.

"However, since then the total has undoubtedly increased. It is likely the county is now around 35 per cent."

He warned that the time is drawing short to obtain inspection stickers. Deadline is April 1. The inspection period began Sept. 1. In five months, only a third of Howard County cars have been inspected. This means that nearly 18,000 must be inspected within the next six weeks.

Cars which do not display a current inspection sticker after April 1 are in violation of the law and the owner can be fined for his oversight, Capt. Hammett said.

Capt. Hammett's district covers 49 counties. The situation in this county, he indicated, is much like that in all of the counties he serves.

Typical examples of other counties (as of Feb. 1) are:

Ector County, with 59,945 vehicles registered, showed only 24 per cent, or 14,226, inspected.

Other county totals included:

Dawson — 16,191 vehicles registered; 2,883 inspected; 18 per cent.

Martin — 5,038 vehicles registered; 1,027 inspected; 20 per cent.

Glasscock — 835 vehicles registered; 36 inspected; four per cent.

Midland — 37,703 vehicles; 12,359 inspected; 32 per cent.

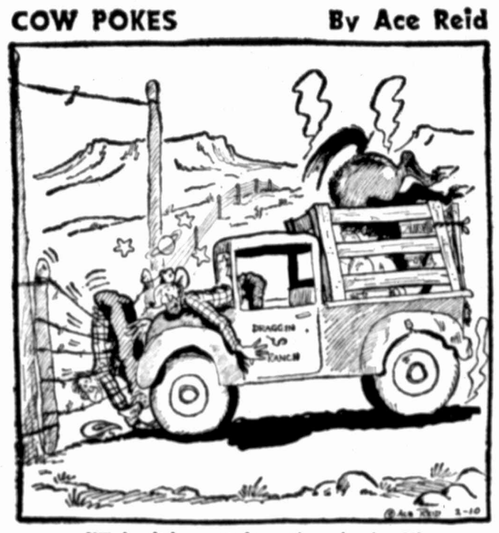
COW POKES — By Ace Reid



"Zeb, did you tighten them brakes?"

DEAR ABBY

Look For The Good Boys!

DEAR ABBY: You keep saying in your column that boys want GOOD girls, so how come when you go out with a boy he tries to get as much as he can from you? I am 17 and don't understand it.

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: If this is your common experience with boys, then you are going out with only common boys. There are other and better breeds. Look for them.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Every Saturday my 17-year-old daughter baby-sits from ten in the morning until six in the evening for a Mrs Thatchroof. She has an adorable three-year-old, well-behaved boy. The last three Saturdays Mrs. Thatchroof's sister has brought her noisy, ill-mannered four-year-old to Mrs. Thatchroof's, leaves him there and goes off with her sister. The four-year-old teases the younger boy and my daughter spends eight hours being a referee. Don't you think if my daughter must care for two children she should be paid double? Should she ask Mrs. Thatchroof? Or should her sister be asked? Would it be proper for my daughter to do the asking? Or should I?

DELAWARE AVENUE

DEAR DELAWARE: Your daughter should speak to Mrs. Thatchroof privately. If she has invited her sister to deposit her son at her home to be cared for, Mrs. Thatchroof should pay for it.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I need help. When I met Johnny he had no mustache, and when I married him he had none. All of a sudden, two years later, he decided to grow one. I think it makes him look too old. (He is only 25). He thinks it looks good. When I tell him to shave it off, he says I'm jealous and don't want other women looking at him. This isn't true. I don't like the feel of it, either. Am I wrong to demand he shave it off?

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Don't let a little mustache come between you, but change your tactics. Speak softly—but carry a big razor, Delilah.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a sixth grade teacher and this is my first year of teaching. The mother of one of my pupils came to see me yesterday and, with tears in her eyes, begged me not to call on her son to recite in class. She said he knows all the answers but reciting in class makes him so nervous that he goes to pieces when he gets home. I have noticed that the boy does much better in his written work, but I didn't realize reciting in class was so difficult for him. Should I make an exception of this boy to please his mother? Would it be fair to the other children? I'd like your opinion.

PUZZLED TEACHER

DEAR TEACHER: The boy obviously has a problem and to evade it when he will one day have to face and conquer it would do him more harm than good. Tell his mother she can't run interference for her son all his life, and if reciting in class is really such a traumatic experience the boy needs professional help.

Open House Set Today By Classic Homes

Classic Homes, now building about 20 new homes south of the Marcy School area, will hold open house from 2 to 6 p.m. Sunday at 2101 Cecilia Street. Bobby McDonald invites the public to go by and inspect the new home.

To reach the open house, drivers are directed to go out Wasson Road, turn south on Connally at the Marcy Elementary School, and watch for the signs.

The 3-bedroom home at 2101 Cecilia covers 1,250 feet of living area floor space, has vinyl tile floors except for the living room and hallway which are carpeted. A woodburning fireplace is in the living room of the shingled-roof "Fireside" home.

Caloric built-in range, oven, and cabinets are in the kitchen. The garage is attached to the brick-trim home for convenience and protection.

The public, especially those interested in new homes, is invited to go by any of the "Fireside" homes being built by Classic Homes during the week, from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m., and see the type construction going into them.

Valentines

From Cupid's headquarters, the campus of Howard County Junior College, today's Valentines were chosen. Marie Putman, Westbrook, and Jimmy Brown, Colorado City, found a tree for heart-carving purposes; Milton Morrow, Levelland, and Judy Anderson, Big Spring, strolled hand-in-hand through the park; and another couple, Hedy Gaida of Victoria and Buddy Webb, Albany, watched the world go by from the top of Scenic Mountain. Kay Crownover and Conroy Lacy met between classes, and a Saturday night basketball game went on while Marilyn Gum and Jerry Gilmore shared popcorn and their thoughts.

MRS. ABE W. LANE

(Barr's Photocenter)

Miss Carolyn Manning Marries In Stanton

STANTON (SC) — Marriage vows were pledged by Miss Carolyn Manning and Abe W. Lane Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the First Methodist Church at Stanton. The double ring service was read by the Rev. Ellis Todd, pastor.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James S. Manning Jr., Stanton, and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Terry of Tulia.

Basket arrangements of gladioli with candelabra and tapers flanked the nuptial scene. Mrs. Opal Jones, organist, accompanied Miss Kay Bryan who sang "Whither Thou Goest" and "Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of ivory crystalline. The portrait neckline was edged in lace appliques extending down the bodice onto the floor length skirt. The hem of the skirt which extended into a train, also featured the lace accents. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion was secured by a crown of seed pearls and crystals. White carnations and pink roses formed the bride's bouquet.

Miss Linda Manning, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and Mrs. Jerry Baugh, matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Mona Epley, Miss Glen Reid and Miss Sheila Manning, junior attendant and sister of the bride.

They wore red brocade sheaths designed with long tapered sleeves and jewel necklines. Each wore a headdress of matching brocade and tulle and matching red slippers. Their flowers were single, long stemmed white roses.

Bill Lane served as best man to his brother. Ushers were Jerry Hinkle, Jerry London and Jimmy Castleberry of Friona, Dean London of Lamesa and Bob Alsup, Lubbock, uncle of the bridegroom. Craig Alsup, Lubbock, was ring bearer.

RECEPTION

Guests were received in the church parlor, where the refreshment table was arranged with a centerpiece of white gladioli. The bride's cake was white embossed with roses and bells.

Miss Drucilla King, Lubbock, was in charge of the register. Other members of the house party were Miss Karen Gay, Mrs. Bob Alsup, both of Lubbock, Miss Nancy Robnett, Miss Jan Epley and Miss Marsha Bristow, all of Stanton.

Guests from out of town were J. S. Manning Sr., Bryan; Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Brumfield, Ralls; Mr. and Mrs. Gomer Alsup, Midland; Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Pipes, Lubbock; and Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Gosdin, Bryan.

WEDDING TRIP

The couple left afterward on a short wedding trip. For travel the bride chose a pink wool suit, white hat and pink shoes. She wore the corsage from the bridal bouquet.

After their trip, the Lanes will be at home at 809 North 5th St., Apt. C, Lamesa.

A graduate of Stanton High School, the bride attended Texas Tech, Lubbock. The bridegroom, a graduate of Ralls High School, is employed by Modern Implement Co., Lamesa.

HD Agent Tells Of Time And Energy

"Well-arranged time makes a well-arranged mind," Mrs. Delaine Crawford told Elbow Home Demonstration Club members Thursday afternoon. Speaking in the home of Mrs. Earl Bell, the Howard County HD agent told the group how time should be scheduled and energy saved in homemaking. She ended the program by reading a poem entitled, "Take Time."

Mrs. Bell gave the council report and directed games for the 12 members and two guests, Mrs. J. F. Skalicky and Mrs. Crawford. Following the entertainment, refreshments were served.

Mrs. Jack McKinnon will be hostess for the Feb. 21 meeting to be held in her home.

City Club Program Presented

Fifteen members of the City Home Demonstration Club met Friday at the home of Mrs. B. B. Rice. The hostess read the devotion. Guests were Mrs. J. B. Sample and Mrs. Bill Hanson.

Time and energy and how they are used were pointed out by the speaker, Mrs. Delaine Crawford, HD agent. They are a person's most valuable resources, she explained, saying that a homemaker must be a secretary, treasurer, chef, purchasing agent, laundress, nurse, teacher, seamstress, counselor, electrical engineer, interior decorator, gardener, companion, hostess, community member, a spark plug and decision maker.

A letter of thanks was read by Mrs. Ross Callahan from Elaine Holder, 4-H scholarship winner. Also, announcement was made of a training meeting for food and clothing leaders to be held Feb. 13 at 9:30 a.m. in the HD agent's office.

Musicians' Audition In March

The Rocky Ridge Music Center, a summer camp for talented young music students, will hold auditions on March 2 and 9 at 101 Cedar Road. A limited number of partial scholarships are available on a competitive basis.

Local students of voice, piano, strings, or wind instruments may contact the Regional Auditions Chairman, Mrs. Ann Gibson Houser, 101 Cedar Road, for application blanks and further details.

The Music Center is in Estes Park, Colo. at the foot of Long's Peak. Visitors to Rocky Mountain National Park may join the campers in attending the Sunday concerts by the distinguished music faculty, who are graduates of such music conservatories as Juilliard Eastman, and Fontainebleau.

There are opportunities for hikes, mountain climbing, and horseback riding, but music dominates camp life. Each student specializes in one field, with lessons under an artist-teacher. There are classes in theory, composition, and art. Younger students have supervised practice. String quartets, ensembles, singing groups, and orchestra emphasize the cooperative approach to music.

WEBB WINDSOCK

By MOLLI HARTZOG

The weatherman smiled on the 331st Squadron last Thursday. The dust settled, the local breeze took a vacation, the temperature soared, and the whole scheme of things was right for the "Flower Garden Luncheon" they sponsored for the Officers Wives Club.

With a mix-up on the club calendar, and on our own oversight on pre-luncheon publicity, the attending group was small enough that nearly everyone received a packet of tulip bulbs to take home. Mrs. J. E. Hogan gave us the first spring push with her gardening hints on adding phosphate, copperas and cottonseed meal to the alkaline soil in Big Spring, and her enthusiasm was contagious.

In the afternoon hours, ladies could be seen up and down the streets of Capehart, returning from the luncheon, darting inside to remove hats and gloves and high heels, then darting back out again to plant those bulbs, water those sad brown gardens, and mentally bedeck the flowerbeds.

The Webb OWC Garden Club will meet at 5 Albrook on Friday, Feb. 15, at 10 a.m. Hostess, Mrs. Rex Fryer, will welcome all potential members and any OWC member who just plain likes flowers.

There have been a round of farewell parties for members of the 331st Squadron who soon will leave Webb. Capt. and Mrs. G. L. Rule will take up residence on Parris Island, S. C., as part of an exchange program among the various branches of the service. Parris Island is an enormous Marine training base, and among other things has one of the most beautiful golf courses we have ever missed a putt on. We were disconcerted by a rabbit trimming the other side of the green in a most annoyingly nonchalant manner.

The warm weather has brought out the lady golfers at Webb this week. Fifteen of them participated in a tournament on Tuesday, and there was quite a flurry, shifting around on the scoring ladder.

Wednesday and Thursday mornings, Mr. Maxwell, Webb's golf pro, gives free golf lessons in group fashion. This is for beginners and advanced golfers, since slipping into a poor stance or some other such bad golfing habit is frequently worse than starting from the beginning. Then back to the pro you go to see how he does it.

How Capt. George Fortner does what he does, we don't know, but it was his handiwork in leathercraft that was given as door prizes at the recent Boots-and-Saddle Squadron meeting we reported on. Capt. Fortner reportedly will make items to order, for gifts, prizes, your own use, or any other use. We're putting in our bid now for next Christmas. The Fortners can be reached at AM 4-2624.

Seamstresses are invited to call Mrs. J. C. Woodd, AM 3-2718, to volunteer their sewing hands to make costumes for the Follies planned for April 20.

COSDEN CHATTER

Miss Hartin Is Visited At Stanton

Several friends drove to Stanton Monday to visit Arlene Hartin, who had just undergone foot surgery. She will remain hospitalized at Physicians Clinic for a few more days, then recuperate at home for a while.

Associates in the steno pool honored Mrs. Larry Phillips with a luncheon Friday, her last day at the office. She is anticipating a blessed event.

Sandy Baker is visiting in Lubbock over the weekend.

MRS. JAMES LEWIS WELCH

Welch-Casey Vows Said

Miss Karen Sue Casey became the bride of James Lewis Welch in a double ring ceremony performed by Curtis Camp, Church of Christ minister, at 8 p.m. Saturday evening.

The marriage rites were performed in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Billy E. Casey of the Silver Heels Addition. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Welch, 1500 Harding St.

Green palms, stock and gladioli with candelabra formed a background for the ceremony.

The bride wore a powder blue linen suit designed with sheath skirt and Eton style jacket. Her shoes were of a matching hue, and the blouse was of white linen. Her halo hat was of white net. Blue orchids surrounded by white narcissi formed the bridal bouquet.

Miss Katy Cochran, maid of honor, wore a pink linen sheath with matching halo hat. She carried a glamellia bouquet.

Tommy Welch Jr. of Lubbock, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Lighting the tapers was Miss Debra Welch, sister of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the home. With the couple in the receiving line were the parents. White net trimed with hearts and ribbon covered the refreshment table where candelabra held white tapers. The centerpiece was of white stock with hearts entwined. The white tiered cake was topped with a miniature bride and groom and decorated with a heart motif.

Presiding at the register was Miss Sharon Welch, a sister of the bridegroom. Members of the house party were Miss Nancy Thomas and Miss Cheryl Wilbanks. Out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Welch of Temple, grandparents of the bridegroom.

For the wedding trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride wore her wedding suit. Upon returning, the couple will reside at 1107 Owens.

The bride attended Big Spring High School where she was active in Hi-Y and Future Homemakers of America. The bridegroom, a member of the Future Farmers of America, will enter college this fall.

A Sylvia Laymon memorial plaque has been purchased by the group and will be placed in the Westside Recreation Center.

During the business session, Mrs. J. B. Hollis was elected treasurer and Mrs. Robert Short was named as the representative to the United Council meeting in San Antonio Feb. 19.

The gathering closed with prayer by Mrs. Harold Jones. Hostesses were Mrs. Kenneth Born, Mrs. Tommy Franklin, Mrs. Raymond Hamby and Mrs. C. W. Parmenter.

The honoree received a rose corsage, and the centerpiece for the register table was formed of small corsages which were presented to each guest.

The refreshment table was covered with a white linen cloth and centered with an arrangement of red roses. Ribbon streamers spelled the couple's name. Crystal appointments were used. Approximately 40 guests attended.

GARDEN CITY (SC)—Members of the Women's Federated Missionary Society are asked to have their cookies and gift items at Carter's Grocery or the Gill Drug Store by Wednesday at noon. Mrs. W. B. Bednar, president, makes this request.

For Wherever Or Whatever

A new accessory that can be squashed, expanded, worn backwards or upside-down and still look attractive, has appeared in time for spring. Called a cowlhood, it is a piece of double thickness chiffon sewn into a windsock shape that promises to do as much for a woman's clothes as a lipstick does for her complexion.

To put it on, the wearer slips it over her head; depending on just how far she pulls it down, she has a chic headscarf, a smokering for a round-necked dress, a dramatic triangular stole or a fill-in for V-neck line.

Figuratively Speaking Are You Simply Ideal?

TORONTO (AP)—"Why don't my clothes ever look like those I see in the fashion magazines?"

Many women, both those who spend a great deal of time sewing their own clothes and those who spend hours shopping for them, have asked themselves this question.

And the answer is simple. Perhaps they have never taken the time to analyse their figure (its good points and its defects), their skin color and their personality.

A woman must consider all these factors in order to choose styles that are becoming to her, says Mrs. Loraine Scott, an instructor in the fashion department at the Ryerson Institute of Technology.

"The ideal figure is balanced in all directions and you should choose your clothes with the aim to bring your figure back to the ideal." For example, if you are bottom heavy, you should choose clothes that will make you look broader in the shoulders to detract from the heaviness.

The structural lines of any garment are most effective for bringing the figure back into balance. "With lines, you can lead the eye up and down or across the figure to any point you may wish to emphasize."

FABRIC IMPORTANT

Long straight vertical lines and panels and the softer more feminine S-lines extending from neckline to hem lengthen the figure. The woman with the short figure should look for these tall lines in styling, while a tall woman should look for horizontal and oblique lines which make the figure shorter.

Structural lines should be designed within the silhouette that best suits your figure. The tubular silhouette, such as that given by the straight sheath dress, looks best on the average balanced figure, while the bell silhouette, which widens at the bottom, looks best on the figure that is heavy through the hips.

A woman must be careful not to choose a fabric that will counteract the effects of the line and silhouette she has chosen.

A plump or overweight person should stick to smooth-surfaced fabrics. Piles, shaggy materials and heavy tweeds, plaids and prints all add weight to the figure. Sheen surfaces such as satins, which catch the light and reflect it, also add weight to the figure and point up those features which are already prominent.

"Any fabric designs, plaids, stripes or prints, should be in proportion to your figure size." For example, a tall, rangy figure looks smart in a large plaid while a petite figure, in the same plaid, would look out of balance.

COLOR ADDS WEIGHT

Colors, just as fabric textures, can make the figure look larger or smaller. The figure looks larger in light, bright colors and smaller in dark, dull colors and this principle can be used to cover up figure faults, says Mrs. Scott. You can minimize the fact that you are top-heavy by wearing dark tops and blouses and minimize the size of your hips by wearing dark skirts with light tops.

Knowing whether your skin has an overbalance of red or yellow is a help when choosing colors. A person with a balanced skin can wear almost any color while the person with predominantly yellow skin will not look good in red shades, and the person with predominantly red skin will have difficulty in wearing the yellow and yellow-green shades.

Neutral shades — black, white, brown and their related shades of grey and beige — often tend to drain the color from a person's face and therefore good makeup and accessories are important if these colors are to look smart.

"Personality plays an important part in clothing." If a woman wants to emphasize her gentle feminine characteristics, she will choose clothes of soft fabrics and colors with curved structural lines. If a woman wishes to stress her aggressive competitive side, she will choose heavier tailored garments with straight structural lines.

MRS. JERRY DON BATEMAN

Miss Grant Bride Of Lt. Jerry D. Bateman

In a candlelight setting, Miss Kolia Grant became the bride of Lt. Jerry Don Bateman at 8 o'clock Friday evening in the First Baptist Church. The Rev. Frank Pollard, pastor of Seagraves Baptist Church, officiated in the single ring service. Vows were exchanged before altar arrangements of gladioli and palms.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Grant, Route 1. Lt. Bateman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bateman of Olney, Ill.

Jack Hendrix provided a program of organ music and accompanied the vocalist, Mrs. Don Newsom, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and Grieg's "I Love Thee."

Given by her father in marriage, the bride wore a gown of white peau de soie fashioned with bateau neckline, detailed with peau de soie rosettes, a fitted bodice with long tapered sleeves, and a full, sweeping skirt which extended into a train. Her bouffant veil of illusion was tiered and was secured by a tiara of roses. She carried a white Bible with a semi-cascade of red bacarra roses showered with ribbon and red hearts.

Mrs. Joe Guinn of Canoga Park, Calif., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Miss Sue Arrick served as bridesmaid. They wore red velveteen dresses styled with tapered skirts, long sleeves and necklines cut to a V-back. Their flowers were nosegays of white pompon mums with satin leaves and tulle.

Wayne Bateman of Olney, the bridegroom's brother, was best man. Terry Uyeyama was groomsman. Ushers were Bobby Grant, brother of the bride, Lt. John Adams, Lt. Mike Gallager and Lt. Ben B. Briggs.

Tapers were lighted by Bobby Grant, the bride's brother.

RECEPTION

The church hall was where guests were received after the wedding. With the couple in the receiving line were the parents and the bride's attendants.

The refreshment table, spread with white satin, was overlaid with white silk organza adorned with white satin roses. The bride's bouquet formed the centerpiece. The all-white, three tiered cake was served with red punch.

Guests, registered by Miss Carolyn Barnett, included Mrs. Wayne Bateman of Olney; Mr. and Mrs. Haskell Grant, Levelland; Mr. and Mrs. Amos Williams, Seymour; Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Trego, Lubbock; and Lee deLozier, Lubbock.

The couple will reside in Dover, Del., when Lt. Bateman completes training at Webb AFB. He is a graduate of Southern Illinois University. The bride, a graduate of Big Spring High School, attended Howard County Junior College. She is presently employed at the State National Bank.

'ROUND TOWN

With LUCILLE PICKLE

One of Big Spring's real old timers celebrated her 86th birthday anniversary Thursday just like most mothers do . . . she cooked a birthday dinner for her family. MRS. E. H. HAPPEL who is a native of Texas was born in San Augustine and can tell more Indian stories than fairy tales.

For 50 years she taught art and she still paints 'a little bit.' She was the organizer of the first club for painters in Big Spring and was also among the first mothers in the city to work with the Parent-Teacher Association.

MRS. DOC AIKENS (MARY) came from Lake Charles, La., to be with her mother and a sister, MRS. LEE HANSEN, who makes her home with Mrs. Happel. A grandson, FRANK HOUSE, who was reared by Mrs. Happel, couldn't be here with the family but he telephoned from Fort Worth for a birthday talk.

Tomorrow Mrs. Happel will accompany Mrs. Aiken back to Louisiana for an extended visit . . . but she says not too long because she gets too homesick.

DR. and MRS. EDDIE HOUSER and their children, BETH, MELISSA and BRUCE of Dallas, are visiting in the home of his mother, MRS. ANN HOUSER. The doctor and his wife are expected to return this evening from Lubbock where they spent several days. The children stayed here with their grandmother.

MR. and MRS. T. J. WALKER have received word from their daughter, MRS. FRANK FICKLIN, of her safe arrival in Barranquilla, Colombia, where she and the children, TOMMY, STEVIE and SUSIE, have joined their husband and father.

Mr. Ficklin is employed by an oil company and has been at the present location since November after having spent eight months in Big Spring. The Ficklins have lived in South America for four years having previously been in Guaiquill, Ecqurador, for two years and more recently at Cochabamba, Bolivia.

The children are in school . . . Tommy, the eldest doing his ninth grade work by correspondence as the American schools go only through the eighth grade.

Mrs. Ficklin and the children flew from Houston on Feb. 2 to Guatemala, through the Panama Canal Zone and on to Barranquilla where they arrived at 11:30 Saturday night. It would have been a shorter trip but they had a long layover in Guatemala.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker took the family to Fort Worth and remained there for a visit of several days.

MR. and MRS. RUPERT RICKER have been in Dallas where they attended a laymen's conferences. Mr. Ricker was a guest speaker at a number of North Texas churches.

Mrs. Barbee Guest At Informal Coffee

Mrs. Garrell Barbee was honored Wednesday morning at a shower held in the home of Mrs. Mark Farmer, 807 Lorilla. The coffee affair had Mrs. Olen Graves as cohostess and was attended by 13 guests. Gifts were presented to the honoree and refreshments served by the hostesses.

Make Your Valentines For Fun

Making your own Valentine's Day cards is always a nice, personal touch and it's not difficult. The requirements are simple: scissors, fold-up metal tube of glue, colored paper and crayons.

Start by sketching out a few ideas. Valentine's Day has only a few traditional symbols: the heart, Cupid, bow and arrow, man and woman. The possible combinations, however, can be as varied as your sentiments about the individuals for whom you are making the cards.

Designs can be as simple as a red heart glued to a yellow background, with a personal note inside. Or you can create scenes involving cut-outs of pictures of your children and surroundings, perhaps with Cupid shooting an arrow through the heart.

Dust Pan Care

No carpenter is better than his tools, it is said. So it is with homemaking. Good tools are an aid to good cleaning. Try waxing the dust pan and see how much easier it is to use as well as to keep clean.

Kitten Motifs

Embroider this playful kitten on your tea towels or other linens that you may have. There are seven motifs, one for each day. Pattern No. 577 contains complete instructions.

Send 25 cents in coins for this pattern to MARTHA MADISON, Big Spring Herald, Box 1490, New York 1, N. Y. Add 5 cents for third class or 10 cents for first class mail.

Down Side Is Right Side

The dessert may be upside down but the taste is right-side-up when baking date-apple gingerbread.

Arrange 2 cups thinly sliced apples and ½ cup sliced fresh dates in bottom of 9-inch square pan. Combine ¼ cup melted butter, ½ cup brown sugar and ¼ cup flour and ¼ cup chopped pecans. Add dash of nutmeg or cinnamon. Spread evenly over dates and apples.

Cover with prepared packaged gingerbread mix and bake at 350 degrees about 45 minutes. Cool about 10 minutes before inverting onto serving plate. Yield: 6 servings.

Wages A Global War On Illness, For AMMS

FORT PORTAL, Uganda (AP)—Mother Mary Benedict, M.D., is an energetic American doctor-nun who circles the globe at the rate of 50,000 air miles a year.

Right now she's here in the middle of Africa to open her order's 35th hospital.

"The sisters like to call me a second John Foster Dulles," Mother Benedict says with a laugh.

She has traveled more than 300,000 air miles since she became head of the American province of the Medical Mission Sisters in 1957.

DISEASES ARE MANY

The hospitals she administers and inspects take her from the bush and jungle country of Africa and South America to the hot and sometimes troubled areas of the Far East. The patients her skilled sisters treat have some of the most serious diseases known to mankind.

The hospital in Fort Portal is in the foothills of the snowcapped Ruwenzori Mountains near the Uganda-Congo border. Diseases prevalent here include leprosy, malaria and tuberculosis and a variety caused by malnutrition.

"This is the first time we ever took over a hospital. We usually start from scratch," Mother Benedict says.

"Making this hospital into a modern medical facility will be one of the biggest challenges we ever had."

FROM SMALL BEGINNING

The hospital was formerly run by the White Sisters of Africa who last year invited the Medical Mission Sisters to take over.

The Medical Mission Sisters was founded in Washington, D.C. in 1925 by Mother Anna Dengel, also a physician, who is now superior general of the order with headquarters in Rome. A co-founder of the order was the late Father Michael Mathis, a Holy Cross Father.

From a small beginning of 4 sisters the order has grown to more than 700 members. Fifty are medical doctors and more than 400 are nurses. Other specialists include laboratory technicians, pharmacists, dieticians and office workers.

Mother Benedict, 44, has two sisters who are also nuns.

A graduate of the Woman's Medical College, Pa., she is the only sister who is a qualified fellow of the International College of Surgeons.

As a surgeon she became used to performing difficult operations, sometimes by flashlight, in Pakistan and other parts of the Orient.

BUILT HOSPITAL IN DACCA

One of her first assignments was building a hospital in Dacca, East Pakistan, a hot, damp, disease-ridden area of the world.

"We had nothing to begin with, no money, no land — just the need existed. But we persevered and finally, after five years, due to a lot of generous people and hard work, we had a hospital," she says.

Holy Family Hospital in Dacca is now one of the most modern hospitals in the Far East.

Mother Benedict regards her work and that of her sisters as a "passing phase."

"We are the intermediate people. We bring hospitals and medical care to the places where the need is greatest. Then we work to build up the indigenous people to make them self-sufficient in all aspects—socially, medically and educationally."

LIVING IN ALASKA

Permafrost Problem

(This is the third in a series of weekly articles, treating informally with experiences in Alaska detailed by Mrs. Richard L. Davis who, with her husband, was stationed in the 49th state for nearly four years. Capt. Davis is now with the 331st FIS here.)

By LOIS DAVIS

What's in a name? In this supposedly true story which we shall call "The Case of the Vanishing Vowel," the "what" was a mistake that actually created a name. Once upon a time many years ago, a topographer from Washington D. C. was charting part of an area popularly known as "Seward's Ice Box." There was one small community of gold seekers which had not been given a real name so he made note of its location by writing the word "name." He planned to choose a proper name at a later date but the printers had his map set up for the presses before he remembered to make the change. Then because of a typographical error or perhaps because of illegible handwriting, the "a" became an "o" and Nome it has been ever since.

This story and other such anecdotes were told to us by the tour bus driver as we rode through the town and out to the gold fields. He also described the permafrost thawing process employed by the six giant gold dredges working to recover the gold deposited thousands of years ago by Ice Age glaciers. It is a coarse, higher grade ore than that found along the beaches.

PERMAFROST

Back in Nome, we were driven past the more important buildings and learned about the construction problems created by the permafrost which lies a few feet beneath the surface of the tundra. Buildings will sink away from their foundations because of the heat transference which melts the ice under them. In order to combat this situation, pilings are sunk 40 feet into the permafrost and then allowed to freeze into place before putting the structure on top of them. Refrigeration coils are often placed down beside the pilings to keep the ground always frozen.

On the second day of our excursion as we flew over the Seward Peninsula and Kotzebue Sound, the airplane suddenly dipped and rocked to signify passing over the Arctic Circle. All passengers received a crossing card before we landed in Kotzebue, home of several hundred friendly natives and few old mammal bones. In Kotzebue, as in Nome, there is not one foot of pavement. The main street is the beach with the buildings facing the Bering Sea. The shop of the jade cutters was not open but we looked for souvenirs in the general type stores where you see everything from mukluks to marshmallows.

WALRUS, SEAL HIDES

After purchasing a walrus ivory and baleen bracelet (baleen is the hard, black material taken from the jaw bone of a whale) I wandered along the beach searching for snapshot subjects. I saw walrus and seal hides staked out on the ground to dry. I saw the tall racks made of driftwood festooned with strips of seal meat left to sun cure to a delicate shade of black. And finally I discovered two Eskimo grandmas dressing out an oogruk (kind of seal). They were chattering away in their own language as they deftly sliced away the meat. I suspected they were wondering why they couldn't get a little work done without the tourists standing around asking stupid questions. The knives they used were the old style ooloos, a half moon of steel with a wooden handle on the straight edge.

MAN AND WOMAN

It occurred to me that the Eskimos really observe a double standard. The men carve ivory and the women sew. The men hunt and fish but turn the game over to the women to clean and cook. You never see an Eskimo man with a baby strapped to his back in the extra large hood of a parka. Many of the games are for males only, but the females are allowed to dance. The men always beat the drums, but the women can join the singing.

No dances were performed for us as we had such a short time to spend in Kotzebue By the Sea. Visitors are usually treated to a hoedown or two and even invited to join in if they wish.

IF SHE REMEMBERS

She'll Take A Course In Memory-When

NEW YORK (AP)—If anyone ever starts a memory-training course in our neighborhood I'll be the first one to join it—that is, if I can remember where and when the classes are held.

I'd like to be able to blame my sieve-like memory on what I gracefully refer to as my "mature" years. But the fact is, the only date I've ever been able to remember is my birthday, and lately I've been trying to forget that.

Some people forget the tag line of a joke. I forget the whole joke. I not only can't remember things—I can't even remember what it is I'm trying to remember.

FILE AND FORGET

While my husband is away at work I often think of things I want to tell him when he gets home. Or I run across some interesting bit of news in our old hometown paper and I stow the item in my mind for future reference. Unfortunately I always seem to put it in the "file and forget" compartment.

Not only do I not recall details—I don't even hang on to the generalities. Concerning our family vacation trips, I can never be certain whether it was Bunker Hill we visited, or Gettysburg.

CONCEALED HANDICAP

Mostly I am able to conceal this mental handicap but there have been occasions when it proved my social undoing.

Once a dear friend was visiting me when another friend dropped in unexpectedly.

That was fine, except that in the surprise at seeing Friend No. 2 her name escaped me completely when I started to introduce her to Friend No. 1.

Somehow I couldn't bring myself to mar my cordial greeting with the query, "By the way, what is your name?"

Suddenly her identity flashed across my memory. True, it was only her last name I had thought of, but at least I could make the introduction by surnames, even though it was a bit formal.

With relief, I beamingly announced, "Mrs. Kolman, this is..." all at once, Friend No. 1's last name had vanished from my mind.

Well, at least that's one incident I'll never forget.

Date-Timer

What could be more alluring than this little charmer, so feminine and demure, with the wide swirling skirt? No. 3189 comes in sizes 11, 13, 15, 17. Size 13 takes 5⅜ yards of 44-inch fabric.

Newcomers, Ezzells Actually Oldtimers

Being both newcomers and oldtimers in a way, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ezzell view Big Spring with mixed emotions.

Ezzell said, "Big Spring is really not new to me since the Texas and Pacific Railroad and my mother, the late Mrs. Mary Ezzell, brought me here in 1905." Ezzell completed what he terms an apprenticeship at the railroad and finished high school here. He did college work at Vanderbilt; later at Northwestern in Chicago. He saw service during World War II and started married life with the former Ellen Bell in Abilene.

Mrs. Ezzell was raised in Baird, the daughter of Judge and Mrs. Farley Starrow Bell. She is a sister of Mrs. Shine Philips, a local resident for many years. Mrs. Ezzell had also made her home in Big Spring and her son, Barkley Wood, graduated from high school here. He attended Annapolis and is now in the Naval Air Corps, stationed in Florida. He is married and has two children.

In 1952 the Ezzells established a home in San Angelo, and lived there until he became active in the printing and publishing business in Austin in 1958. While in Austin, Mrs. Ezzell was interested and active in social and cultural organizations as well as the League of Women Voters and the real estate business.

Ezzell's work keeps him traveling over the southwest. As a representative of the Anchor Printing and Lithographing Co., he sells school supplies which include college and high school yearbooks.

His wife has accompanied him often during his travels which take him frequently to Mexico. The annuals which his company prints for schools there are interesting in that they are laid out differently and are generous in the use of color.

Mrs. Ezzell is associated with the McDonald and McCleskey Real Estate Co., where her customers may think it strange to hear her "deep South" drawl in this part of the country. She explains this by saying that her family is from Virginia and that she finds it impossible to speak any other way.

The Ezzells are making their home at the Carlton House where their apartment is furnished in Early American style to make use of the many antiques that have been possessions of her family for several generations.

Return To Big Spring

Mr. and Mrs. Ezzell of the Carlton House look at one of the new yearbooks published by the company he represents in the Southwest. Having lived here years ago, the couple chose Big Spring for their home again since it is centrally located for his work and they have many old friends here.

Red Felt Valentine Suggested

Now is the time to go to the stores and pick your valentines from the hundreds on display. It is, however, more fun to revive the tradition of the 1840's when the first valentine was made in America—to do them yourself in felt.

St. Valentine's Day is a lover's day, and flower and candy shops are swamped with orders to deliver tokens of love. There is, however, nothing so close to the heart as that "she made it herself" knowledge of a gift.

Back in 1890 you might open the door and have a valentine made of pastry thrust into your hands, in the shape of wedding bells, wedding cakes, sofa pillows made of cake dough or even a pastry cuckoo clock.

Few people still have time to create such painstaking artistic endeavors with paint or pastry. There is today another quick and charming way to tell the ones you love, be they old, young or even brand new, just how much you do care and that is with felt fancies.

OF RED FELT

A bright red felt heart, appliqued with a pinked felt heart outline of white and decorated with a white or pink rose takes only seconds to cut out and glue. Large felt hearts, decorated with white paper doilies (to protect as well as prettify) make an excellent place-mat gift.

A large, pink felt heart apron with ribbons for ties, with heart-shaped pocket of bright red would warm the heart of any hostess, and when cut with pinking shears, would give an added touch of gaiety.

APPLIQUES

For that teen-ager on your list a red felt belt with white heart appliques needs nothing more than two pieces of red ribbon with white hearts at the end for ties. And for the brand new citizens in your circle what could be better than a bright red heart-shaped pillow, stuffed with cotton, and small enough for his little hands to hold; or the same pattern filled with beans, would be a toddler's delight.

Any of these gifts, which can be made quickly, will still carry the old time feeling of patient and loving endeavor, which is the true sentiment of St. Valentine's Day.

Georgeous Gussie Has Turned Fashion Pro

NEW YORK (AP)—Gertrude Moran, otherwise known as Gorgeous Gussie and the Tennis Temptress, has turned fashion pro.

However, neither a ruffle nor a fluff of lace is anywhere on her brand new line of tennis costumes. Wimbledon officials ought to be relieved to know this.

As an amateur some dozen years ago Gussie's style prowess was so influencial that the staid London club hasn't gotten over it yet.

Only recently Wimbledon officials issued fashion ultimatums limiting tennis costumes to white. And three years before that, they barred "anything daring or sensational." Both bans might not have been, if Gussie hadn't appeared there in her lacy britches in 1948.

After that, tennis stars tried to beat Gussie at her own game of fancy pants, even showing up in gold lame or the confederate flag. Even so, the eyes remained focused on Gussie to be sure what the score was in tennis fashions.

FASHION DOUBLES

With all that, you'd think she'd have turned fashion pro earlier. She did volley the idea around a bit—even wrote a column about it for a tennis magazine. But until last spring sports broadcasting and a few unsuccessful tries at marriage kept her preoccupied. Then Augusta Bullock, a West Coast fashion pro, suggested a team.

"There it is. She waves offhandedly at some white garments in a closet. "They don't look like much on a hanger."

But on Gussie, a lithe size 8 they look great as she proceeds to bounce in and out of the bedroom like a tennis ball changing from one to another.

PASTELS, TOO

Wimbledon will appreciate that her samples are white, although the new sportswear designer doesn't see why they should be, and has more back in the sewing rooms in other hues.

She conforms with such Forest Hills tennis taboos as spaghetti straps and bare shoulders. Her costumes are round or V-necked, sometimes double-breasted and low waisted, and in both long and short skirt versions. Under those short skirts are matching pants with a little gathering at the leg, but no ruffles.

"In all these years you'd think I'd come up with some good retort," says Gussie, swinging her feet in white sneakers onto the sofa. "But I still don't know what to say when people ask me about those ruffled panties."

MOTHER'S NEEDLE

Gussie to this day swears they were not her idea. Teddy Tingling who wrote a fashion column designed and presented her with a tennis dress. It had a big bertha collar, which Gussie disliked, and a wide short skirt which required something more. Hence the fancy pants with a ruffled band of lace came into being.

The real credit for Gussie's stylish tennis wardrobe goes to her mother, however. The proud mother stitched and stitched because her famous daughter couldn't find dresses with long waist lines and plenty of arm stretch room.

Today Gussie keeps these factors in mind while designing professionally for a growing number of amateur tennis players. She also keeps in mind the style propensities of the Wimbledon, which undoubtedly still keeps a baleful eye on her.

UNRUFFLED

It's Never Too Late To Fight

It's never too late to begin fighting tooth decay, but childhood is the best time. Because the habits children form remain with them for life, the American Dental Association annually sponsors National Children's Dental Health Week to impress youngsters with the importance of proper oral hygiene.

Dental authorities advise brushing the teeth after each meal; brushing each area at least 10 times—down from the top gums, up from the bottom gums, inside and out, and then brush the biting surfaces; and two visits each year to the dentist.

Rejuvenating The Eye Area

Rejuvenate the tissue and improve the music tone around the eye area and keep dark circles and bags at a minimum by placing the first fingers of each hand on your temples and press in firmly. Then shut your eyes tightly and hold for several seconds. Release fingers and relax. Repeat five times morning and evening as a preventive measure; twice as often for correction.

Baroness Gives Gowns

The woman who is contributing the "One Hundred Years of First Lady Gowns" collection to the Chicago Historical Society is the Baroness W. Langer von Langendorff.

The baroness is also known as Miss Evyan, the guiding star of a man-and-wife team that has made history over the last quarter of a century in the perfume industry.

With a background of culture, the baroness was born Lady Evelyn Diana Westall in Devonshire, England, the great-granddaughter of Sir Richard Westall, R.A.; the godchild of Bernard Shaw and Sir James Barrie; and direct descendant of Sir Francis Drake.

Because she had always read of the many lovely parties in the White House, and because of her interest in the history of fashion, the baroness conceived the idea of the "One Hundred Years Collection." The authentic reproductions (except for Mrs. Kennedy's gown) were made by Mme. Barbara Karinska.

Good Reading

Recommended for good reading is a book, "Backseat Quarterback" by Perian Conerly, wife of Charles Conerly of the New York Giants. The pretty "quarterback" has a fascinatingly witty style, according to a Chicago sports writer.

Whets Appetite

To perk up winter appetites, serve duck with onion stuffing. To stuff the duck easily and quickly, combine stuffing mix with canned french-fried onions, butter or margarine and water. For a pretty decoration, use whole kumquats. Make four petals by cutting the peel about ¾ of the way back and place in ice water for about 1 hour to open petals.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SEC. D. BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 10, 1963 SEC. D

How To Keep Up With The Times

Steve Burnett, son of Dr. and Mrs. Josh Burnett, and Bernard Watts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Watts, members of Cub pack 100 sponsored by St. Paul Presbyterian Church, solve that problem for Mayor George Zachariah. They present him with the official Scout calendar from Prager's, the outfitter for this area. They reminded the mayor to do a good turn daily.

Local Troops Join Annual Scout Week Observance

Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers of the Lone Star District join with those of the Buffalo Trail Council and over five million others this week in observance of Scout Week.

The anniversary actually began Thursday and Friday a number of units paused to observe the traditional rededication (on Feb. 8) to the Scout Oath and Law. Today, several units will observe Scout Sunday by worshipping together, in many cases sitting as a body with their parents beside them.

There are nearly 5,200,000 boys and leaders registered in the Scouting movement in 130,000 units (packs, troops, posts) across the country. This district, part of the Buffalo Trail Council, has approximately 1,400 boys in the program.

"This week we would like to have every member to invite another boy of his own age to attend the Scout Week meeting so that he may share the excitement of the program," said R. L. Tollett, district chairman.

Many of the Cub packs will conduct open house and "pot luck" Blue and Gold banquets. Several Scout troops are planning parents' night affairs.

Some packs have arranged for window displays. (For example, No. 137, sponsored by Washington P-TA, has a display at Gibbs and Weeks.)

A number of units are having outdoor activities (Troop 9, for example, took a long hike from Moss Springs to Signal Mount), including some overnight camps.

The special observance, recognized by the President, governors and mayors all over the nation, is set against a theme of "Strengthen America . . . Be Prepared, Be Fit."

This shapes up one of the major emphasis of the Boy Scouts of America not only to be morally, spiritually and mentally fit, but to be physically strong also.

Scout Week falls each year around the Feb. 8 anniversary date of the chartering of the Scout movement in 1910. Big Spring has an active troop almost that long—since 1911 as a matter of fact.

Goodlett To Report For District To Governor

Robert Goodlett, Explorer Scout and son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Goodlett Jr., 1802 Goliad, will represent the Lone Star District in reporting to Gov. John Connally next Saturday in Austin. He was chosen from several candidates for the honor by the district committee last week.

Young Goodlett will leave at 10 a.m. Friday with the delegation from the Buffalo Trails Council. They will be accompanied by Leo Lee and John Fanning, Kermit, both Council professional men. The Council will furnish transportation, but the boys from each district will provide their own meals.

The delegation will meet and have lunch with the governor Saturday and report their activities. Each delegation will have its picture made with Gov. Connally. An Explorer's Ball will be held Friday night.

Bill McRee, Scout executive for the Lone Star District, said Goodlett was named as delegate on the basis of his advancement and awards in Scouting. He said Robert had won the Eagle and the God and Country awards, along with many others.

"It is often difficult to select an individual from the candidates," McRee said, "but when all information is in, the committee has to judge the boy's qualifications on what he had done in Scouting, especially in Explorer work. The more awards a boy has the better chance he has in winning the delegate's post."

Teachers Meet

Howard County Teachers Association will meet Monday at 7 p.m. in Gay Hill school for the purpose of naming delegates to the district TSTA meeting, set March 8. Mrs. George Archer, president, urged all teachers to attend. Walker Bailey, county superintendent, is to report on legislative matters relating to education.

One Of Hardest Awards To Win

The God and Country award in Scouting, made by churches, is one of the hardest awards to win, Lester Goswick, Scoutmaster for Troop 9, sponsored by the Wesley Methodist Church, said.

Three boys from his troop won the award in 1962, out of five or six who started work. These boys were James Milner, Johnny Goswick, and Danny Reagan.

The Rev. Royce Womack, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church, directed the boys in their studies.

"Troop 9 has 26 members," Goswick said, "and we had an average of 24 at the regular Tuesday night meetings in 1962. We meet at the Scout hut at the church. The regular meetings are from 7:30 to 9 p.m., but the Scouts working on their God and Country projects were in class with Rev. Womack from 7 to 9 p.m."

Goswick said the boys had to work at least one full day a week in learning the Books of the Bible, what was in the books, how their church was founded, and what the church stands for. They also acted as ushers, took up collections, helped with the church bulletin, and did other work to gain a knowledge of church work.

The Scouts have to complete their God and Country award work within one year. In addition to conferences with their pastor they study handbooks and material covering their subjects.

Post Specialty Is Outdoor Activity, Survival Training

Scouts in Post 1 should be able to whomp up a right tasty rattlesnake stew or a cactus shish-kabob.

These are some of the things the boys are learning from survival training. They are gaining knowledge on how to live from the land should they ever be tossed into nature with few tools on hand for survival.

Specialty of the Post is outdoor activity, which makes survival an appropriate subject to learn. The course offered is the same one taught to personnel of Webb Air Force Base. They learn first aid, how to navigate without instruments and how and where to find food and water where little is available.

"The knowledge will stand them in good stead if they are ever forced to fend for themselves in the outdoors," Capt. Hal Brown, co-advisor for the Post, said. "The course has been received so well by the boys that it may be established for all Scouts."

The scouts learn how to live, even in a desert area, with so little equipment as a small snakebite kit, a pocketknife, fishhooks and string, water purification tablets, a waterproof box of matches, aluminum foil and a few bouillion cubes for flavoring.

A person can live for many days without food. The important thing is to find water. Most water is drinkable if boiled or purified with tablets, even though it may at first look dirty and stagnant. Bulk can be added to the diet by making a stew of whatever is available — even rattlesnakes.

The scouts learn that two trails which meet generally point to water. They learn that in gullies or stream beds they can usually dig down a few feet and find small amounts of water. Prickly pear and its fruit contain much water. The fruit makes a tasty morsel while the leaves can be roasted over a fire after the spines have been cut off. Cacti which have a clear milk are usually safe to eat while those whose milk is not translucent are not.

With only a small portion of the facts learned by the Scouts, almost anyone could survive for long periods with little assistance.

The strong outdoor program includes skiing. The Post members have made several trips to the Monjeau Retreat at Ruidoso to learn the sport. This is the third year the Post has made the trip. Each boy learns the basics of skiing before making the trip, then at the site he is taken through the rudimentary steps of skiing.

"Some of the boys become very good skiers," Capt. Brown said. "Almost anyone can learn to ski in an hour or so if he follows the rules."

The Scouts are planning another jaunt for later in the year which should prove to be exciting. They plan to take a trip down the Rio Grande through Boquillas Canyon in the Big Bend area. The raft trip will be made either during the Easter holidays or immediately after the current school term ends. They will make the 23-mile trip in two or three days.

The post has turned out some good products. One of its Eagle Scouts, Robert Goodlett, was selected as a district representative to attend a dinner with the governor this weekend in Austin.

Sponsored by the Rotary Club, the adult leaders are Capt. Brown and Capt. W. W. Pattison. Bill Schlecht is the representative from the Rotary. It was organized in October, 1960.

Officers in the Post are Goodlett, president; Jimmy Dawes, vice president; Phil Richey, secretary; David Burleson, treasurer; and two representatives, Pat Nelson and David Staggs.

Awards Constitute Boys' Incentive

Advancement awards constitute an incentive to boys to keep busy in the Scouting program.

Last year in the Buffalo Trail Council, there were 2,941 Cub advancements, 1,436 rank advancements by Scouts and 103 by Explorers.

The Cubs earned 1,330 Wolf badges, 848 Bear, 519 Lions, 246 Webelos. The Scouts earned 741 Second Class, 396 First Class, 191 Star, 83 Life and 25 Eagle. Explorers earned 20 Star, 10 Life and 10 Eagle, plus 31 Sea Scout apprentice, 11 Air Scout apprentice, three Air Scout bronze, seven Air Scout gold, 11 Air Scout Silver.

Fire Damages Twain Mansion

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A fire did an estimated $6,000 damage Thursday night to a vacant 30-room mansion that once was the home of author Mark Twain.

Twain (Samuel L. Clemens) lived in the three-story white brick structure with his bride, the former Olivia Langdon. The author was editor of the Buffalo Express in 1870-71.

A Well Banged-Up Scout

Robert Powers simulates multiple injuries for the benefit of other Scouts in Troop 146 so they may put into practice what they have learned about first aid. Learning what to do in the event of an accident is only one of the many facets of Boy Scout training. Here, Tommy Viruet bandages Powers' head while Greg Willis, left, and Robert Powers look on.

23 Troops Are Listed In District

Twenty-three troops are registered in the Lone Star District, and the low numbers of many of the troops testifies to the longevity of the scouting program in Big Spring.

The troops sponsors and scoutmasters are:

Troop 1, Big Spring Rotary Club, Ralph D. Grantham (this is the oldest continuously chartered troop in Texas, having originated in 1911 within a year after Scouting was officially chartered in the United States).

Troop 2, First Methodist Church, Fred Beckham; Troop 3, Big Spring, Kiwanis Club, Charles M. Bentley; Troop 4, Big Spring Hunting and Fishing Club, Garrett Patton; Troop 5, First Baptist Church, O. L. Bradford; Troop 6, First Christian Church.

Troop 7, Downtown Lions Club, C. B. (Bert) Andries; Troop 8, Coahoma Lions Club, Weldon Self; Troop 9, Northside Methodist Church, Austin Ferguson; Troop 12, Stockton-Currie Legion post in Sterling City, Richard W. Reed; Troop 13, Garden City Lions Club, Glenn Kingston; Troop 15, group of citizens, St. Lawrence, Robert Kohutek; Troop 17, Elk's Lodge, James C. Hough; Troop 39, First Presbyterian Church, Melvin K. Moelling; Troop 81, American Legion Post, Joseph H. Maenner; Troop 135, Center Point School, Roy L. Tubb; Troop 136, Cosden Petroleum Corp., Lee Roy Wright; Troop 146, Webb AFB, Sgt. Gordon Seals; Troop 179, Kentwood Methodist Church, Cecil E. Kelley; Troop 300, St. Paul Presbyterian Church, E. C. Council Reaches Peak Enrollment

The Buffalo Trail Council reached a peak in membership at the end of 1962.

At that time there were 10,953 Cubs, Scouts and Explorers registered. This compares with 8,630 five years ago and 5,272 10 years ago. In addition, the council had 3,160 adults registered in the program.

Ambulance-Rescue Car Stands Ready To Help

In event there is an emergency or a disaster in Howard County, one of the first units which will be on the scene is the ambulance-rescue car owned and operated by Sea Scout Ship 136.

The ambulance-rescue car, equipped with all types of tools and facilities for coping with a crisis, is on 24-hour duty, manned by four trained crews of boys and men.

The ambulance, designed from a 1959 sedan delivery car, is the property of the ship—purchased by the boys who are paying for it themselves. Occasionally they get a gift from some wellwisher but most of this donated money goes into the purchase of more equipment to better rig their ambulance for service.

Sea Scout Ship 136 is headed by Skipper C. Roy Wright. He has a sizeable roster of mates to lend a hand in the running of the ship —J. B. Hall, Jimmie Pierce, Roger Parker, Jim Merrick, Weldon Self, Doyce Wilhite and Troy Wilhite. The ship meets each Monday night in the Howard County court room. It is sponsored by Cosden Petroleum Corp. and directed by Sheriff Miller Harris and his office.

The ship and the organization is an official entry in the Sears-Roebuck Foundation ExplorEvent competition. This is an contest open to all Sea Scout units. It began last Sept. 1 and terminates Sept. 1, 1963. Winners will receive scholarships ranging rom $800 down. The selection of the winners will be determined by their service to their communities. Wright said that he and his men hope to win one of the awards this year.

The rescue unit has already made one mercy trip of significance—it took a heart patient from Big Spring to Galveston. It has been called on other occasions for service and is eager to lend a hand when opportunity offers.

The car is equippped with a regulation stretcher, a basket stretcher, 4-ton hydraulic rescue kit, first aid kits, fire extinguisher, fire axes and a Hallagan tool as well as with assorted ropes and other material likely to be needed in event of an emergency.

The four crews which stand ready to man the car are members of the Sea Scout organization.

Crew No. 1 is headed by Roger Parker, who has six men, all living in Big Spring. Crew No. 2 is headed by Jim Pierce, with a second six man Big Spring crew. Crew No. 3 has Lee Roy Wright, BSA, as its chief. He has five Explorer Scouts as his crew. The base for this group is Sand Springs. Crew No. 4, headed by Jim Merrick, is stationed in Coahoma. It has four crew members.

Wright said that a call for help from the unit will be instantly answered. The car is rigged with two way radio and the sheriff's office is in constant touch with it when it is on the road.

Progress Made In Leadership

Progress is being made on a council level in trained leadership for Scouting units.

In the Buffalo Trails area, 44 per cent of top leaders are training and 22 per cent of all leaders are completely trained. There were 11 Scouters keys awarded in 1962, 16 Scouter training awards, and 14 den mother training awards. Thirty basic training courses resulted in 216 certificates; 92 den mothers completed basic training, another 36 completed all Cub training. Twelve Scouters completed the super-tough Wood Badge training. Three Cubbers pow-wows (special training sessions with exhibits) drew 286.

BOY SCOUTS OF AMERICA

Scout Week Celebrates 53rd Anniversary

Physical fitness, one of the principal aims of the Boy Scouts of America for 53 years, is receiving special emphasis during Scout Week in February by the organization's 5,210,000 members. The theme, "Strengthen America—Be Prepared—Be Fit", as shown on the new 1963 Scout Week poster, will be dramatized during special meetings of nearly 135,000 Cub Scout packs, Boy Scout troops, and Explorer

C. R. ANTHONY CO.

Blue, Gold Banquets Being Planned

Most Cub packs in the Lone Star District, will hold Blue and Gold Banquets at their last meeting of this month. One or two will not hold them and one or two have already made awards usually made at the banquets.

Parents bring pot luck suppers to the meetings, set their own Den tables, and clean up afterward. Den stunts, demonstrations, or skits, are put on at the meetings for entertainment and for demonstrating themes for the month.

"Some packs will have their Pinewood derbies at the meetings," Scout Executive Bill McRee said. "This always brings a good turnout because the 'Dads' are interested in these races."

The Pinewood derbies are highly competitive. The Cubs carve miniature cars out of wood, paint or ornament them as they choose, and mount them on the smoothest and best wheels they can get.

"The cars are placed on a board chute," McRee said, "and the one making it to the bottom first is the winner. Some of them don't make the bottom. They flip, or leave the track, on the way down."

A lot of awards, showing advancement, are also given out at the meetings, and the Dens vie with each other at every turn for top honors.

There are 21 Packs in the Lone Star District, McRee said, and 688 boys were Cubs at the end of December.

Some dates for Blue and Gold banquets show Pack 45, Coahoma, Feb. 28; Gay Hill Pack 63, Feb. 18, and Pack 1, Airport School, Feb. 18.

Troop Stresses Physical Fitness

Living in the outdoors, knowing what to do in the event of an accident and a strong physical fitness program are the aspects of Scouting being pushed currently by Troop 146, sponsored by Webb Air Force Base.

At the helm of the Troop is M. Sgt. Gordon Seals, Scoutmaster, and M. Sgt. David E. Bayless, his assistant.

That a strong physical fitness program for each boy in the troop is working out well was ably demonstrated during the recent physical fitness camporee held here. Troop 146 walked away with most of the first prizes in the event.

The program used for physical fitness is basically the same used by airmen and officers at the Base. Exercise routines were begun slowly, each Scout working to harder exercises as he could. The rate was geared individually for each boy.

The Scouts are now working diligently to become adept in the "Buddy Care" first aid program being taught to men in the U.S. Air Force. They will use this knowledge in a First Aid Circus to be staged shortly.

Films are shown to the boys, demonstrating what must be done in case of an accident. It includes first aid treatment for difficult cuts and broken bones. Each Scout must successfully complete a written examination on the subject matter covered.

Camping and outdoor activities, all designed to insure plenty of exercise for the Scouts, are stressed by the troop, as with all Scouting units. The program is designed to complement other physical exercises which the boys would naturally do.

Cubs in the troop do their hiking and camping on the base proper, but Scouts venture to more exciting places. For instance, this weekend their plans call for a trip to Red Bluff Lake, on the Pecos River.

Giles Advises Air Scouts

Fifteen members of the Explorer Scout Air Squadron meet each Tuesday night at the Cosden hangar at Howard County Airport.

Elmer V. Giles is the senior advisor, and Don Bynum, former member of the squadron who has passed his eighteenth birthday, is assistant advisor. J. T. Wilkinson is a committeeman and works with the boys.

Activities include all phases of Explorer work and some phases of aviation.

The boys are taken on frequent weekend camping trips. Shortly after Christmas they were flown, by Cosden airplanes, to Santa Fe, N.M. on a ski trip.

A 65 Continental aircraft engine is now being overhauled by the squadron, under supervision of an experienced mechanic, in their work on simple mechanics.

Some weather study is made to give the Explorers some ideas of how to judge ground weather conditions. The use of the compass in simple navigation is also taught during the meetings.

The squadron is sponsored by Cosden and is advised by Cosden employes.

"We appreciate the fact that at least one boy has stayed with us after he has passed the age of the Explorer squadron members," Wilkinson said. "We have the advantage of Don Bynum's past experience and we hope we can have more as time goes on."

THEY'RE PREPARING!

Indeed our Boy Scouts are, in trying to live by the principles and ideals of Scouting, preparing to meet the uncertainty of the future with courage and wisdom.

May the clarion call of their motto, "Be Prepared," continue to challenge the spirit of boys everywhere!

Aquatic Skills For Dryland Scouts

Landlocked Boy Scouts in the Buffalo Trail Council of far West Texas are not denied the opportunity to learn aquatic skills. Here, at Camp Ed Murphy on Lake J. B. Thomas, scouts learn canoeing, among other things. They also get in plenty of boating, diving, and swimming as well as general camping.

New Method Found For Lost Scouts

By BOB SMITH

Few people would have thought that the science of astronomy would provide new insights into some earthly and rather mundane subjects.

It is already well known that astronomy has yielded principles tributed mightily to nuclear science (and vice versa). It is even more well known that classical astronomy has yielded principles of earthly navigation.

However, a Boy Scout or Explorer who finds himself going in circles out in the wilderness may have trouble getting his bearings. He can observe tree mosses—if there are any moss-bearing trees—or he may use a magnetic compass—if he has one, and if the earth's magnetic field is not bent or twisted out of line with true north in the particular geographical region the Scout finds himself lost in.

A confused young lad has still more methods to use, all of them with drawbacks. He may travel at night, except that night traveling in the wilderness exposes him to dangers he is not likely to encounter in the sunlight, and provided he knows his constellations. Or, choosing the daylight, he may use a complicated shadow-stick method described in all survival handbooks — if he has several hours to spend while the sun travels from one horizon to another.

Further, since a Scout must take his bearings several times a day, an hours-long method just isn't likely to produce exact results.

There is a way out. Just a few months ago, a budding young genius worked out a new shadow-stick method which takes but a few minutes to perform—making it possible for a Scout to gain his bearings during rest stops and to constantly keep account of his location and direction.

It works this way: the Scout puts a stick upright into the ground, with a pointed end upwards. It does not matter if the stick is not perfectly perpendicular to the earth's surface, so long as it does not fall over or move about. Steady does it.

A mark is made at the shadow point cast by the stick. After the shadow has moved slightly—say, an inch or so—a second marker is made at the latter point of shadow.

Since the sun circumscribes a perfect east-to-west pathway from horizon to horizon, a line drawn between the shadow marks will point generally east and west. The first mark will indicate west, the second will extend eastward. In the northern hemisphere, the perpendicular to the shadow line in the direction of the shadow will point true north.

This method has been tried in the field and has proven the most practical of all in areas where the sun may generally be counted on not to hide behind clouds or fog. (But who wants to travel around in a fog anyway?)

Most handbooks will tell you to find shelter in case of inclement weather. So the shadow stick method still holds up as the most practical yet devised.

Arrow Order Has 150 Scouts Active Here

About 100 Boy Scouts in this area qualify for the honor of being members of the Order of the Arrow each year. But, as the man said, "It ain't easy to be selected for the order."

At the present time, there are about 150 active members of the local chapter. The present organization is headed by Dennis McGonagill, a member of Troop 2, BSA, with Joe Hollingshead, as assistant chief. The chapter meets on the third Thursday night in each month.

Members of the Order of the Arrow are the Boy Scouts who are expert campers. They must demonstrate their interest in camping; prove their capabilities as campers and then go through the official "ordeal" satisfactorily to be elevated to the order. If chosen, they wear a white sash with a red arrow as symbol of their achievement.

Two win consideration for this honor, a scout must have at least 15 days and nights to his credit spent in camp. No matter how many times he attends summer camp at one of the established camps, he cannot claim credit for more than seven of the required 15 days. The remaining eight days must be spent in smaller camps—real camping experience. Only one candidate can be considered for the Arrow out of each 15 scouts in an active troop. That candidate has to be a first class scout.

McGonagill said that the ordeal specifies the candidate put in a hard day's work with only a minor allowance of food as a test of his right to be a member of the order.

Wrong Pastor

In Friday's Herald, the Rev. A. R. Posey was named as pastor of the Baptist Temple Church. Rev. Posey is no longer with the church. The new minister is the Rev. James A. Puckett.

HOLDERS OF THE ARROW
Joe Hollingshead and Dennis McGonagill, in Order of The Arrow costumes

During that whole day, the candidate must maintain complete silence—he is not permitted to talk to anyone and, if he violates this rule, he greatly reduces his chance of becoming a member of the chapter. At the end of the hard day's toil, he is allowed to eat a square meal.

He is required to go out on an all night camp alone. He has but two matches and he has to use these matches to provide a fire. He is allowed no food.

"When you get your camp fire going," said McGonagill, "you are supposed to meditate."

Other members of the chapter who are already holders of the coveted Arrow, check up on the candidate from time to time during that night to see that he goes through with his ordeal in proper manner.

He is then inducted, if he has proved worthy, into the chapter at elaborate ceremonies.

McGonagill, a Life Scout as well as a holder of the Arrow, said that the honor is one much desired by all scouts.

Scouts Love Hikes And Camping

James Henry, John Smith, Jerry Cryer, Steve Darden, Robert Reagan and Frank Horn, members of Troop 4, Garrett Patton, scoutmaster, set out on a hike and overnight camp.

Hiking, Camps Are Appeals Of Scouting

Hiking and camping are the basic appeals of scouting. Other activities are equally important, doubtless, but it is the allure that the great out-of-doors has for the average youngster which makes the call of scouting so insistent.

One troop which has had phenomenal success as an organization stresses hiking and camping. And Garrett Patton, its scoutmaster and one of the outstanding scouters in this area, credits the success of the troop largely to this program.

Patton's group is officially Troop 4, BSA, sponsored by the Big Spring Hunting and Fishing Club and housed in its own cabin on the shores of the Cosden Country Club lake.

His assistants are Bill Mims and Pete Cole.

Patton, who just last month, was awarded the top council honor—The Silver Beaver—has served 10 years as master of Troop 4 and has 18 years in all as a scouter to his credit.

He pointed out that to make a scout troop click was a job requiring full time and full attention.

"We meet reguarly at our cabin," he said. "We have 38 scouts in the troop now. They are in the younger age bracket—11, 12 and 13 years. We have three boys now trying for their Eagle badge and we have two older boys, now in the service, who have Eagle badges.

"We have formed a new Explorer post for the boys in our troop who have passed the scouting age. There are 18 boys in this Post which has the Number 444. Jack Owens of Webb AFB civil service, is the scoutmaster. Fully 75 per cent of these boys have grown up in Troop 4."

Camping and hiking, he declares, is the secret of the continued success of Troop 4. That, he adds, plus work.

He emphasized that members of Troop 4 camp as camping should be done. There's nothing slipshod about it, he said.

Wood Badge Is Difficult To Attain

The Wood Badge might well be called the master's degree of Scouting. It is that difficult to attain.

Big Spring has two men at this time who are working toward their Wood Badge. To earn the citation, the men must undergo a rigid session of practicing the teachings of the Boy Scout program and must be able to answer suitably 20 questions about Scouting.

The only man to have achieved the Wood Badge is R. L. Cranford, 2006 Merrily. Currently working on the written portion of the work after completing the physical activities section are Melvin K. Moelling, 1405 Mesa, and the Rev. James Puckett, who recently took over as pastor of the Baptist Temple.

Before a person can even be considered for the Wood Badge, he must have completed all the qualifications for adult scouting. Even then, the Badge is offered only on an invitation basis.

The initial phase of Wood Badge training consists of eight days of putting into practice the patrol method set up by the National Council of the Scouts. Each man must participate as a member of a patrol as would a boy in any Boy Scout Patrol. The course is strenuous and each man must take a physical examination before he begins.

"For the first couple of days you wonder just what in the world you are doing at the training camp," Moelling said, "but after completing it you can look back with pride. It is an accomplishment."

Moelling took his training last year at Camp Dale Restler, New Mexico. The Rev. Puckett completed his at Camp Tahuaya, near Belton in Central Texas.

After a person successfully completes the practical portion he has three years in which to write what amounts to 20 long essays on Scouting. If the answer to a question is unsatisfactory, it is returned to allow the candidate another try at it. The only stipulation is that all 20 be answered within the three-year period.

The Wood Badge was established in 1919 in Scotland after W. F. DeBois MacLaren, a district commissioner in Scotland, purchased a place known as Gilwell Park and presented it to the Boy Scouts "to provide a training ground for the officers of the Scout Movement." It was introduced into the United States in 1948 and since that time more than 10,500 men have become candidates. One of the highest honors that an adult Scout of the United States can have is to take his training at Gilwell Park.

The Badge is simple, consisting of two long wooden beads worn on a rawhide thong about the neck. It is a replica of beads captured from an African chieftain by Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scouts, in 1888. The beads and a neckerchief, which is worn during the interim while the men complete their written examination, are made only by an Explorer group in England and are exported to other points on the globe.

"One of the purposes of Wood Badge training is to get men to think about the practice of Scouting, to meet together, to exchange experiences, and to live together in the spirit of the Scout Oath," is the way Lord Baden-Powell expressed his sentiments about the Wood Badge.

The next area Wood Badge course will be held May 11-19 at the Scout Ranch in the Davis Mountains. Big Spring should have several candidates there, according to William T. McRee, executive secretary for the Lone Star District of the Buffalo Trails Council.

It Was Big Year For Camping

The year 1962 was a great one for camping in the Buffalo Trail Council.

There were 1,658 Scouts and Explorers who attended long term (six days and nights or longer) camps. A total of 45.3 per cent of Scouts registered were in camp for at least a week, and 63.6 per cent of the troops did long term camping; 50 per cent of Explorer posts had long term camps. There were 100 units in the council qualifying for the National Camping Award. Eight districts held expositions with over 20,000 attending; eight district camporees drew 6,500; three council Explorer events attracted 310 boys.

Jewelry Theft

NEW YORK (AP) — Irene M. Selznick, theatrical producer and former wife of motion picture producer David O. Selznick, reported to police Friday the theft of jewelry from her apartment in the Hotel Pierre on Fifth Avenue.

Police headquarters said gems valued at $250,000 were taken from the apartment. Mrs. Selznick declined to disclose the value of the jewelry.

Landlocked Sea Scouts Learn Water Skills

Sea Scouting is a bit difficult in West Texas, but Ship 111, formed about a year ago, will be well prepared for a deluge should one come. The boys have been learning naval skills and are on their way to acquiring a boat.

"We are still acquiring most of the basic equipment for camping and rescue work," Donald Snyder, skipper of the ship, said.

Projects the 14 members of the Ship have undertaken to make themselves qualified for Sea Scout work are many. Last month they studied photography, this month it is astronomy and next month they will take up navigation. A trip to McDonald Observatory is planned for the end of February. The group meets once each week. It is sponsored by the Optimist Club.

An intensive membership drive is being conducted by the Sea Scouts as they try to build up their ranks. Any boy between the ages of 14 and 17 can enter. He need not be a Boy Scout.

Since one of the specialties of the group is emergency assistance, they have devised a method whereby all boys in the unit can be alerted in about 10 minutes.

President for the group is Mike Gilbert. Bob Sneed is vice president.

Ten Explorer Programs Here

The Scouting program is made available to senior boys in 10 Explorer posts, Sea Scout Ships and Air Squadrons here. Boys 14 years and older are eligible to take part.

The units, sponsors and leaders are:

Post 1, Rotary Club, Capt. Hal Brown; Post 2, First Methodist, Dr. Charles N. Rainwater; Post 9, Wesley Methodist, Carroll O'Dell; Post 12, Sterling City Lions Club, Eddie R. Braswell; Ship 111, The Optimists Club, Don Snyder; Post 116, BPOE Elks Lodge; Ship 136, Cosden Petroleum Corp., C. Roy Wright; Post 146, Webb AFB M&S Group, Maj. W. A. Mason Jr.; Squadron 236, Cosden Petroleum Corporation; E. V. Giles; Post 300, St. Paul Presbyterian Church.

Derby Races Are Featured

A major feature of each year for the Cub Scouts of a community are the Pinewood Derby races.

This is a project for the Cubs in which each boy designs a tiny white pine automobile model which he races in competition with fellow Cubs.

The model has to be designed from an official kit which consists of a 2x5 inch block of white pine, standardized axles and wheels. The youngster may carve the car into the design he wants but he must have a finished product which does not exceed five ounces in weight.

Many packs have their Pinewood Derbies in connection with the annual Blue and Gold banquets.

One pack, No. 137 in Big Spring, largest in the community and an outstanding organization with a long career of achievement behind it, does not go along with the idea of having the Pinewood Derby in January. Its derby elimination and finals are conducted in July at the Big Spring City Park.

Tom Yeatts, cubmaster, John Taylor, his assistant, and Lloyd Nall, assistant in charge of the Webelo activities of the pack, are all agreed that the holding of the derby in the summer is a major factor in the year around success that the organization enjoys.

Pack 137 was organized in 1955 and has been under the sponsorship of the Washington Place P-TA since. At the close of this year, it had 102 members affiliated with eight dens and the Webelos.

All of the 102 youngsters are building Pinewood Derby cars and will compete in the July 13 runoff this summer. Prizes are awarded to the winners and runners-up.

The Derby is usually accompanied by an ice cream supper in the pavilion at city park, where old settlers have their annual reunions.

Taylor said the quality of the racing car models made by the boys is amazing.

Cub Pack 137 is proud of its having won the National Recognition pennant for the past three years.

The Cubs in No. 137 work diligently for awards, Taylor said, and he praised the den mothers for their work in this field. At the pack's Blue and Gold banquet, to be served Jan. 26 at the Goliad Junior High cafeteria, many of the youngsters will be given awards they have achieved.

He cited one enterprise of the pack which won it much favorable attention. In the past year it collected pop bottles which were sold for $70. The money was donated to the Milk and Ice Fund.

Taylor said that other factors in the success of the pack rest with the good attendance the committee meetings enjoy and the fact that John Hardy, institutional representative, is at all meetings. The den mothers' work so faithfully to keep their young charges enthused and interested is of tremendous importance.

The Pinewood Derby in the summer time, he feels, is one of the major enterprises to keep the organization going at good speed in a season when many packs are inactive.

Welcome

Shine Philips extends a welcoming hand to Kathy Newton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Newton, 2410 Allendale, into Girl Scouting as Larson Lloyd and Don Conley reminisce about the old days. Kathy is one of the city's newest scouts while Shine Philips, Dan Conley and Larson Lloyd are the three men who incorporated Girl Scout council.

West Texas Girl Scouting Continues Steady Growth

Girl Scouting has grown in many ways. The West Texas council has now taken three additional counties into the organization. In 1962, Haskell, Stonewall and Kent counties became part of the West Texas Council in 1962, bringing the total to 16.

In 1963 the Girl Scouts of the West Texas Council acquired a camp eight miles southwest of Sweetwater. Camp Boothe Oaks was built and is maintained through the efforts of the annual cookie sale. The camp is used as an established camp in the summer time and is available for troops to use on weekends for winter camping. The mess hall, troop lodge, craft lodge, and infirmary are winterized for camping accomodations. The 35 by 70 foot pool is used during summer camping.

Big Spring Scouts have a Day Camp under the direction of Mrs. Clyde Thomas. Brownie Scouts, Intermediate Scouts and Senior Scouts camp by day for two weeks in the summer at the Boy Scout Jamboree Grounds. Here girls lay trails, study nature, cook out and have fun in the out of doors.

The West Texas Girl Scout Council now has a permanent office building in Abilene, a staff of four professional workers and two secretarial staff members. There are almost 5,000 registered Scouts in the council and about 800 of these are in Big Spring. These work under the direction of Mrs. Ralph McLaughlin, district chairman and delegate to the National Convention, assisted by four neighborhood chairmen: Mrs. George Peacock, Mrs. Charles W. Head, Mrs. B. F. Larson, and Mrs. R. W. Rozell. Mrs. Floyd Smart is District Cookie Chairman.

The Girl Scouts are a United Fund Agency.

Girl Scouts Are Active, Busy Units

Girl Scouts are busy and active in service projects although they often do their good deeds without thanks and recognition. This is part of the Girl Scout philosophy. Nevertheless here are a few of the activities of Big Spring Scouts:

Troop 299, with Mrs. L. R. Lewis and Mrs. J. W. Eyler as leaders, are working at the Rehabilitation Center.

Troop 422, under the direction of Mrs. R. A. McClung and Mrs. R. E. Ryan, will receive the Second Class rank at their Court of Awards Sunday afternoon at the Service Club.

Troop 377, with Mrs. R. M. Thompson and Mrs. L. J. Forrest as leaders, will "fly-up" at the Teen Club on Monday.

Under Mrs. Dale McAfee and Mrs. F. B. Mecca, Troop 424 made a camping trip where they worked on their proficiency badges.

The large Troop 140, under the supervision of Mrs. George Foster, Mrs. James Lancaster, and Mrs. F. L. Bowers have recently had a Court of Awards where girls received Tenderfoot pins, Second Class badges and some proficiency awards. A proficiency badge means that a girl has done something often enough and well enough that she is now able to give service in that field. Then she is called proficient and is entitled to wear the badge. These are the brightly colored patches on the badge sash or the sleeve of the green uniform.

Troop 378 with Mrs. Charles Houston as leader is planning a ski trip to Ruidosa in March.

Mrs. Costlow Is Scout Advisor

Mrs. D. M. Costlow of Stanton, professional Girl Scout worker, is district advisor for the Yucca and High Cotton districts in the West Texas Girl Scout Council. This area includes the counties of Howard, Martin, Sterling, Glasscock, Dawson and Borden.

Being the only professional worker in this area, Mrs. Costlow travels to each county regularly to conduct training courses. She confers with and advises volunteer Scout leaders who carry out the program.

She is a graduate of North Texas Agricultural College (now Arlington State) and received a B.S. degree from Texas Tech. She is a member of the Association of Girl Scout Professional Workers.

A Girl Scout advisor for over four years, she has been joined in Scouting by the rest of her family. D. M. Costlow, her husband, serves on the sub-committee of the established camp at Sweetwater. Their daughters Linda, 13, and Laura, 11, are Intermediate Scouts, and the youngest, Judy, 8, is a Brownie.

Mrs. Costlow has announced a two-day training program for troop consultants and organizers which will be held at Camp Booth Oaks, Sweetwater, Feb. 12 and 13.

Burned To Death

SAN ANTONIO (AP)— Lonnie Faircloth, 75, burned to death Friday night in a trailer home.

Close Kinship In Programs

There is a close kinship between Boy and Girl Scouting. It was a Boy Scout rally at the Crystal Palace in London that inspired the first Girl Scouts to organize under the name of Girl Guides.

The khaki uniforms and wide-awake hats were appealing to the girls and Miss Agnes Baden-Powell, sister of Lord Robert Baden-Powell, the founder of Scouting, undertook the leadership of the first company.

It was the influence of Sir Baden-Powell and his sister that inspired Mrs. Juliette Low to bring to America the idea of Girl Scouting. The first troop met in Savannah, Ga., March 12, 1912.

The West Texas Girl Scout Council had its origin some time later. A smattering of lone troops throughout 13 West Texas counties organized in 1946. Howard, Glasscock, Dawson, Nolan, Scurry, Mitchell, Martin, Taylor, Fisher, Sterling, Jones, Coke, and Borden counties formed the Girl Scout area.

Dan Conley, Larson Lloyd, and Shine Philips were the men instrumental in getting the council incorporated and played important roles in both local and council wide affairs. Both Conley and Lloyd have served as president of the 13 county councils, and both have held the vice presidency. Conley has served as council-wide cookie chairman and has been a member of many committees. Lloyd, in addition, has held the job of finance chairman for the council and is now a member of the nominating and finance committees.

All three men have received awards and honors from the Girl Scout organization for the effort and service rendered during the formative years of the council.

Study Financed By Special Grant

One of the more common birth defects in the United States, water on the brain, or hydrocephalus, will be studied at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School under a second grant of $19,190 from the National Foundation—March of Dimes.

Dr. William Kemp Clark, associate professor of surgery, and chairman of the medical school's neurosurgery division, will direct the study following his preliminary work. He plans to conduct a series of experiments with animals, using an unusual plastic capsule which can be implanted in the brain of an animal around a special tissue, called the choroid plexus, that lies within the cavities of the brain. Many scientists believe that the choroid plexus secretes and produces the body's cerebrospinal fluid.

Circling The Square

Shirley MacLaine plays herself—uh, plays a kookie beatnik in the film version of the Broadway play, "Two for the Seesaw," opening today at the Ritz. She has eyes for Bob Mitchum, the Midwestern square who comes to New York to find himself but finds Shirley instead. We admire his choice.

MacLaine, Mitchum Star In 'Two For The Seesaw'

"Two for the Seesaw," the story of a square from Nebraska and an off-beat doll from Greenwich Village, comes to the screen from the Broadway stage. Starring Robert Mitchum and Shirley MacLaine, the picture, filmed in Panavision, which Academy Award nominee Robert Wise directed, will open today at the Ritz Theatre, through United Artists release.

Mitchum plays Jerry Ryan, the slightly square guy from Omaha, who's never really seen a girl like Gittel Mosca before—Gittel being a gal who can be most quickly and aptly described as someone like Miss MacLaine.

The story, based on William Gibson's play, concerns a lawyer from Omaha who, after a broken marriage which leaves him jobless and emotionally bankrupt, comes to New York to find himself. He succeeds through a romance involving an off-beat Greenwich Village gal.

The sometimes romantic, sometimes hilarious happenings of these two oddly-matched people in a big city, was adapted for the screen by Isobel Lennart.

Wise spent ten days in New York City with his cast and crew filming more than a score of famous and not-so-famous sites. The locations ranged from Brooklyn Bridge to the Bronx, lower Broadway to Times Square, and Greenwich Village to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

A double set encompassing the Village apartment of Gittel and the Lower East Side apartment of Jerry was created by Boris Leven, production designer for "West Side Story."

One Bride

Jane Powell has just been carried off by Howard Keel, along with six other girls, after he and his mountain-man brothers decide they need to get married. But once safely in the hills, the brothers discover themselves defeated by the same tactics used by some women of ancient times to make their men toe the line. "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers" returns tonight to the Jet Drive-In Theatre.

Martha Raye's Cannon Fodder

When Martha Raye made her return to the screen after an absence of 14 years—she came back with a boom.

In "Billy Rose's Jumbo," the comedienne starts off the fireworks by volunteering to be shot out of a cannon.

The studio built a special cannon with a circumference big enough to contain Miss Raye without a squeeze.

And, as a reward for her intrepid act, she was given an ensemble suitable for a lady from Mars—a space-suit made of silver.

Screen Veterans Are Seen In Lively Circus Film Here

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Billy Rose's Jumbo," screen version in Panavision and Metrocolor of the Broadway stage musical, opens Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre.

Its cast, headed by Doris Day, Stephen Boyd, Jimmy Durante and Martha Raye, with Dean Jagger co-starred, also features 50 specialties by the world's top circus stars, including the elephant who plays the title role, and its musical highlights include seven songs by Richard Rodgers and Lorenz Hart.

A glittering array of aerial, high - wire, rope - swing, slide-for-life, tumbling, juggling, unicyclist and animal acts, together with bareback equestrian routines and precision ballets, fills the screen in a sprawling circus erected over six acres on one of MGM's biggest lots, with the huge Big Top as the hub.

Miss Day performs in a ballet, Boyd makes his debut in a singing role, Durante does a clown act, Miss Raye enacts a "human cannon ball" and all four stars take part in the musical numbers. These feature such songs as "Over and Over Again," The Most Beautiful Girl in the World," "My Romance," "Why Can't I," "This Can't Be Love," "Little Girl Blue" and "Circus on Parade."

Set at the turn of the century, the story concerns the Wonder Circus owned by Pop Wonder (Durante) and his daughter, Kitty (Miss Day), with Lulu (Miss Raye) also taking a proprietary interest due to her romantic attachment to Pop, who has been putting off the wedding day for 14 years. Trouble sets in when it appears that the circus will be taken over by creditors because of Pop's penchant for gambling away the profits. Most heartbreaking of all, it will mean the sale of Jumbo, the circus' talented elephant star.

When things seem at their worst, Sam Rawlins (Boyd), handsome jack-of-all-circus-trades, appears out of the blue and gives every indication of not only saving the Wonder Circus but of capturing Kitty's heart. But then it turns out that he is the son of a rival circus owner (Jagger) who wants to put the Wonder Circus out of the running. But in the end, Sam sees the true light of love and honor and helps build Pop's circus from its shambles state into a bigger, better, brighter show than before, with Jumbo resuming the limelight as its biggest star.

Circus Folks

Doris Day, Stephen Boyd, Jimmy Durante and Martha Raye all co-star in the film musical, "Billy's Rose's Jumbo," opening Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre. All four sing, dance, appear in sawdust acts, and make love or laughs, according to their talents. But the elephant steals the show when he sits down to play the bass horn.

'BRIDGE TO THE SUN'

Movie Tells True Story Of Girl Who Married Jap

"Bridge to the Sun" tells of an American girl and her Japanese husband whose courage and tenacity are put to the test in the throes of war.

Starring Carroll Baker and the Hawaiian-born Nisei actor, James Shigeta, the Cite Films Production, released by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is based on the autobiography by Gwen Terasaki, the Tennessee girl who met and fell in love with the young Japanese diplomat, Hidenari ("Terry") Terasaki, married him and went to live with him in Japan after the outbreak of World War II.

The picture describes the extraordinary experiences of the couple and Mako, their little daughter. Gwen (Carroll Baker) is torn between devotion to her Japanese husband and loyalty to her own country. Terry (James Shigeta) hopes towards the fulfillment of a "rainbow across the Pacific," a bridge of peace between Japan and the United States.

Facing the trials of near-starvation and illness, fearful of the constantly watchful Kemper-tai, the secret police, their lives threatened by Allied bombings, and given the added anxiety of seeing their little girl growing up in a country that regarded America as an enemy, Gwen and Terry never lose their courage or integrity. And at the war's end and the surrender of Japan, when Terry is appointed to act as liaison between Emperor Hirohito and General MacArthur, it seems that his dream of a bridge between Japan and the United States will be realized at last.

Although the story has starkly tragic moments, they are lightened by many humorous and poignant scenes, such as those showing Gwen trying to learn perplexing and sometimes baffling customs and rituals and adapting herself to the subservient role of the wife in Japan as opposed to one of relative equality in the United States.

Since "Bridge to the Sun" was filmed largely on locations in Japan, its scenes have a breathtaking beauty as well as realism. Much of the footage was shot in Kyoto, the seat of Japanese culture, where the architecture, shrines and general atmosphere bespeak the Japan of another era.

Other interesting sequences were filmed in Washington, D.C.

Heading the supporting cast is the American-born Japanese actor, James

A Different Method

James Shigeta is amused at Carroll Baker's clumsy Western ways with Japanese food in this scene from "Bridge to the Sun," opening today at the State Theatre. Of course, Miss Baker has Occidents with the chopsticks, but she soon becomes properly Oriented—mainly because she marries Shigeta.

Air Raid

Carroll Baker shields her daughter during an Allied air raid over a Japanese city in this scene from "Bridge to the Sun," story of a woman who married a Japanese national and chose to live with him in Japan through World War II.

Switzerland has issued two sets of stamps in its regular postal series, according to word received by the Swiss Philatelic Agency in America. One set, designed to meet the new parcel post rates, consists of four stamps. Its subjects were taken from the "Architectural Monuments" definitive series of 1960. The 36 cents, 70 cents and 2 fr. values of that series will no longer be produced. The new ones in this set are: 1.30 fr.—Woodcutters Guildhall, Biel; 1.70 fr. and 2.20 fr.—Abbey of Einsiedeln; the 2.80 fr. — Collegiate Church, Bellinzona.

The second set, issued for use by the United Nations European Office, consists of two service stamps for UNCSAT (United Nations Conference on the applications of Science and Technology for the benefit of less developed areas). Denominations are 50 cents and 2 fr. The design features the emblem of the UNCSAT stamps — a cogwheel and retort—symbolizing the aim and purpose of this international conference.

John Edwin Myers To Have Still Another Day In Court

John Edwin Myers, 37 year-old Illinois itinerant who has confessed to slaying four persons and is facing a sentence of death in the electric chair for one of these slayings, will have another day in court Feb. 27.

His new legal appearance at which he will be represented by his court-appointed attorneys, will be in Austin before the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

The issue at stake before the high court is whether Myers was accorded a fair and impartial trial last March. A jury at that time found him guilty of murder with malice of Arthur DeKraai, hitchhiking plumber, and assessed his punishment at death.

The case was tried in the 145th District Court in Rusk before Judge James Moore. It had been transferred to Cherokee County on a change of venue from Howard County—the scene of the DeKraai slaying. DeKraai was shot to death as he rode in a car with Myers and the latter's teen-age girl friend, Donna Marie Stone, then 13 years old.

The slaying was just west of Big Spring on IS 20. DeKraai's body was left beside a lonely ranch road west of Big Spring.

Attorneys for Myers filed a motion for a new trial April 27. The motion was overruled by Judge Moore and the appeal taken to the Criminal Court of Appeals. Misconduct of the jury which found Myers guilty was the basis for the plea for a new trial.

Gil Jones, 118th District attorney who prosecuted Myers and obtained the conviction, will oppose the new trial motion before the state court.

Jones said that no ruling on the motion by the Criminal Court of Appeals probably will be handed down for several weeks after the hearing Feb. 27.

Myers, who has been in custody continuously since Sept. 1, 1961—the morning after the DeKraai slaying—is in the Howard County jail. He was taken to Rusk at the time of this trial but was returned here after conviction.

Meantime, Donna Marie Stone, his young sweetheart, is serving time with the Illinois Youth Authority. She pleaded guilty in that state to her part in the slaying of an Illinois man and his 11-year-old daughter — the first two persons slain by Myers and Donna Marie.

She was ordered confined until she reaches 21 years of age. At that time, her case will be reviewed and her future determined.

Scouters Have Two Camp Sites

Two camps, distinctly different, are operated by the Buffalo Trail Council.

The oldest and largest is the wilderness Boy Scout Ranch in the Davis Mountains. Although the base camp has such facilities as a mess hall, infirmary, chapel, trading post, swimming pool, etc., the camp is operated chiefly on a campout basis. Much of the boys' time is spent hiking up the rugged canyons with packs or sometimes with pack animals. Deer abound on the preserve and there are some small black bear in the area.

The other facility is Camp Ed Murphy, primarily an acquatic camp, on the north west shore of Lake J. B. Thomas. Activities here center chiefly around boating, canoeing, swimming, life saving, etc., although a general scouting program is available, too. This camp is steadily gaining in popularity. The ranch camp opens June 2 and will run for five weeks; Camp Murphy will open July 21 and run for three weeks.

Are So-Called "Bargain" Eyeglasses Really A Bargain?

Have you ever heard this famous quotation: "Quality Is Remembered Long After The Price Is Forgotten"? This is true. Of course, this doesn't mean that real values shouldn't be looked for whenever they truly exist. But, there is a difference in real value and so-called "bargains"...and this is especially true when it comes to eye care and eyewear.

So-called "bargain" eyeglasses may, in fact, not be a bargain at all. Unknown to the purchaser of so-called "bargain" eyeglasses, some important elements could be left out of the lens prescription, or a special type of bifocal or trifocal lens may be omitted, just to cut the cost of making the glasses. These omissions could result in strained eyes, discomfort and improper vision. Also, inferior quality frames might be used which could reduce the wearing comfort as well as the useable life of the glasses.

There is no good reason for risking priceless eyesight and comfort on so-called "bargain" eyeglasses, when real value in professional eye care and eyewear is available at famous Texas State Optical. For the past 27 years hundreds of thousands of people throughout Texas have learned to rely on TSO for outstanding professional eye care and finest quality eyewear at reasonable cost.

The next time you need professional eye care and finest quality eyewear, see the dependable TSO Doctor of Optometry in whom you can place complete confidence and trust for the care of your eyes and your vision.
