KIRK WELL SWABS AFTER RE-TREATING

New Gains Discovery Gets 3,000 Gallons Of Acid

BY FRANK GARDNER
Swabbing was underway again today in Landreth Production Company No. 1 Kirk, prospective pool opener in the south central part of Gaines county, after it had been treated with acid for the second time. Acid crew ran 3,000-gallon shot from 10:30 last night to 4:30 this morning and followed it with a 65-barrel oil load. Tubing is set at total depth of 4,820 with the bottom joint perforated, and packer set well up in the 7-inch casing at 4,270. Results of the second acid treatment will not be known until the oil load and acid residue have been swabbed out.

The first acid injection given the No. 1 Kirk, 1,000 gallons, failed to materially increase the production of about 3 barrels an hour natural. It had been making on swab gas. When increased, however, while it is doubtful that the second acid shot will make the Landreth discovery a flowing well, it will probably be able to pump as allowable as a pool opener.

The No. 1 Kirk logged many streaks of oil saturation in cores from 4,703 but didn't encounter any soft section until near 4,800. It was a rank, unclastic, closest production being in the Means pool of Andrews eight miles to the southeast. It is located in the southwest corner of section 22, block A-21, public school land.

The men parked their car across the main street in front of the bank one remaining in the machine while the other two crossed the street and entered the front door of the bank.

Both men drew revolvers and forced McLean, his wife and Miss Orma White, bank employees, and Euth Lee, a customer, to enter the vault. Then a heavy door was swung shut but not locked, and the bandits went out the back door.

FORMER SUITOR OF SLAIN WOMAN HELD IN CHICAGO

Man Changes Story As Lie Detector Is Used

CHICAGO, June 30 (P)—James D. Britt, Stevens Point, Wis., a furrier, was sought today for questioning in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle, 24, who was found beaten to death in her hotel room yesterday.

CHICAGO, June 30 (P)—A night club masters of ceremonies who police said gave "shaky" answers to questions under the "lie detector" was held for investigation Monday in connection with the slaying of comely Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle, 24, night club hostess.

The young woman was beaten to death in bed early today, by what the police called a "blackface" assailant who talked in negro dialect to the 7-year-old son who lay beside her and unwittingly watched the tragedy before going back to sleep.

The master of ceremonies, a friend and one-time fellow employee of Mrs. Castle is Sid Schaps, father of two children.

He was submitted to a "lie detector" test in Northwestern university's scientific crime detection laboratory after police said he changed his story of his movements at the time of the crime.

Police Capt. William O'Brien said none of the employees of the night club where Schaps works had seen Schaps at the club continually last night or early today.

The dead woman's mother, Mrs. Frances Polfus, told police Schaps was "jealous" of her daughter and "threatened" her.

Detectives had said they were seeking a "jealous suitor" as the killer as the result of the account of the crime as related by the son, James.

TAXPAYERS HAVE LAST CHANCE TO SAVE PENALTIES

Penalties, Interest Will Be Charged After Today

Officials of the tax-collector's office announced this morning that this is the last day to pay the second half of the 1935 split payment taxes and delinquent taxes due to the city and county. Penalties and interest will be added or increased after the deadline this evening.

Taxpayers of Midland and Midland county can save money by paying today, a look at the interest and penalty schedules of city and county collectors reveals.

Second half payment of 1935 taxes are due no later than today. Standard penalty of eight per cent, together with the beginning of interest per annum will be affixed to the second half tax bill July 1. Thus, delay until Wednesday penalizes the taxpayer 8 per cent of his bill at least, and additional delay means affixing of the interest.

A sizeable saving can be made in paying up delinquent 1935 taxes (those not involved in the split-payment plan) which bear a five per cent penalty now and rise to eight per cent in penalty July 1. Too, after today, interest charge of one half of one per cent per month begins accumulating.

Only addition to 1934 and prior delinquent taxes is one half of one per cent interest on July 1, and one half of one per cent each month thereafter at the regular schedule of six per cent per annum on the interest. The penalty of eight per cent already has been applied to 1934 and prior delinquencies. So total additional to 1934 and prior delinquencies will be 14 per cent Wednesday.

DRIVER OF DEATH CAR IS BEING HELD IN JAIL AT PECOS

Car Theft Charge Is Filed Against Johnson

MONAHANS, June 30 (P)—Under bond of $2,500 after waiving preliminary hearing, Tony Johnson, alias K. T. Edwards, was being held in jail at Pecos on a charge of car theft this week pending posting of the bond. Deputy sheriff Ray Keenan brought Johnson back here when the car in which he was riding when it crashed into another, in Stanton, killing one man and injuring others, was found to have been the car reported stolen in Monahans earlier that day from D. F. Langley of Royalty.

Johnson was charged with negligent homicide in Martin County following the fatal crash. He was taken to a Big Spring hospital for first aid treatment for lacerations about the head. Upon his release from the hospital he was taken back to Stanton where the charges were entered. Monahans officers were then notified.

Questioned by arresting officers, Johnson denied knowledge that the car was stolen. His own car, he said, had been stolen in Monahans, and he got in the car with another man, a stranger to him. When he got to Midland, he said, the man told him to go on in the car; he got out in Midland and Johnson continued to search in the car, he said. Officers in Ward county at a late hour Saturday night had not found any record that Johnson owned a car.

JURY NEEDS ONLY EIGHT MINUTES TO RENDER DECISION

Self-Defense Plea Of Defendant Gains Freedom

FEARED FOR LIFE

Witnesses Tell How Threats Led To Death

Roy Cain, charged with murder in connection with the death of Jack Denton April 12, was freed by a jury in district court at 10:15 o'clock last night. The jury reached a verdict in near record-time, spending only eight minutes in taking a vote. They agreed unanimously on the first ballot to free Cain on his self-defense plea.

The case was started yesterday morning and took only a little more than 12 hours to pick a jury, hear testimony and arguments and reach a verdict. The jury was completed at two yesterday afternoon and testimony started at 2:35.

"Shorty" Dunn was the first witness called for the state. He testified that he and Cain were sitting in a car in front of the beer parlor where the shooting occurred when Walter Rhodes "talked up and started talking to them. As the trio was talking, Dunn testified, Denton walked up, cursed Rhodes and Cain as "WPA" workers and offered to "whip both of you."

Dunn said that Cain went inside the place and was followed by Denton. Once more he cursed Cain and offered to "pinch his head off" with the permission of A. A. Dean, proprietor. Dean refused to sanction the idea so Denton attempted to make Cain buy beer for him. Upon the refusal of Dean to sell beer to Cain or Denton on credit, Cain walked behind the bar, Dunn related.

Denton then told Cain that he was coming around the bar and "stomp his head off." Cain asked him not to try to come around the bar, but when he made a movement as if to live up to his threat, Cain fired, Dunn said.

Dr. Waldo Leggett was the next state witness. He testified as to the nature of the wound suffered by Denton and said that cause of death was the bullet wound in the neck. After testimony by Leggett the state rested.

A. A. Dean was the first witness for the defense and his story closely corroborated the version given by Dunn. Other defense witnesses told practically the same version of the story, thereby building up the defense of Cain.

DEVELOP THIS GOLD MINE

The World Championship Centennial Rodeo has come and gone. Future rodeos held at Midland Fair Arena, dropping the Centennial portion of the name, should continue to be world champion in nature. One newspaper writer whose work has taken him to rodeos everywhere, professional and amateur, large and small, remarked yesterday that he had never seen such a collection of champions, former champions and near champions as were gathered at Midland for the three day show.

Although only the second rodeo staged in the new plant, the western entertainment was of a class to be compared to only a few in the world. Rodeos are staged in so many localities that they are "common," but only a few of them measure up to world championship proportions from the standpoint of entertainment to the spectators, popularity with contestants, wildness of livestock and orderliness of presentation.

The Midland rodeo has not yet become perfect from those angles but it has assumed a place in the rodeo world already which many shows twenty years old would covet.

However, considering the magnitude and championship proportions, not enough people are passing through the gates. Even a small profit on the operation of the program is not sufficient to justify the splendidly equipped and expensively substantial plant.

It is up to Midland citizens to join the officers of Midland Fair, Inc., and the committees staging the rodeo, to see that it is properly advertised to the world as the same class of entertainment to be found at Calgary, Canada; Cheyenne, Wyoming, and Pendleton, Oregon.

Thousands of people everywhere go across the continent to attend rodeos of that class. Many of them go from Texas, and even from West Texas. When those spectators learn that such a show is being staged once a year at Midland, the World Championship Midland Rodeo will be assured as a success.

Until then, Midland people cannot be satisfied with the fact that the importance of the local show is not widely enough known.

Before next summer's rodeo, there should be selected a name possessing individuality which will stay in the minds of the rodeo minded world, just as the Calgary Stampede, the Cheyenne Frontier Celebration and the Pendleton Roundup.

In addition, there should be some feature of the show, such as the cowgirl sponsors contest, worked out to the Nth degree to give the people of a hundred or more towns a personal interest in the rodeo here. Hats off to Stamford for seizing the Cowboys' Reunion as an old timers' feature. Midland must find something of general interest which will assist in advertising the big rodeo and which will bring more spectators from a wider area.

Too much cannot be said for the hard work and untiring effort given by members of the rodeo committee. They gave all of their personal time for weeks and put in long hours each day, both in preparation and in staging the show. They brought the wildest of livestock here, the kind of steers, calves and horses which will leave the gates only one way—in a mad frenzy to do their worst. They attracted to Midland, through offering liberal purses, the cream of rodeo talent. These men deserve heavier cooperation. It will behoove every citizen of Midland to assist in making the World Championship Midland Rodeo known world-wide.

'Is It True What They Say About Dixie?'

BEHIND THE SCENES
—IN—WASHINGTON
By RODNEY DUTCHER
Reporter-Telegram Washington Correspondent

PHILADELPHIA, June 30—The democratic platform of 1936 has the imprint of Roosevelt all over it.

It leaves out much and it pussyfoots painfully here and there. It omits all mention, as it proceeds with its proud boasts, of many mistakes, wastes, and abortive experiments.

It tends to make more definite the cleavage between the New Deal democratic party as a liberal party and the republican party as a conservative party—or, as its own George Moses insists, a "Tory" party.

Roosevelt had a large advantage in dictating its terms, since he was able to study the republican platform and the personal amendments of Governor Landon, which between them compromised with much of the New Deal.

Outstanding as it is, declaring war as it does against special privilege, and seeking as it does to promote the idea that the seat of government has been removed from Wall street to the habitation of the people's representatives in Washington—with the result that government benefits are now spread over the masses instead of handed out to just a few—the platform's brilliant verbiage should not make you forget that parties seldom live up to their platforms.

Up To Voter To Judge

You, as a mere voter, have the tremendous job of deciding whether the New Deal has achieved its glowing boasts and whether the platform's conspicuous omissions of unflattering facts tend to balance off the achievements and the probable performance of promises.

For the platform is an expression of Roosevelt not only in his boldness and his steps forward, but also for the president in his timidity his seeming desire to compromise, and his frequent tendency to be all things to all men.

It is an expression of the fact that the New Deal and its administrative ranks are loaded with both progressives and conservatives—and even, with no great stretching of terms, with some radicals and reactionaries.

Marvel of Adroitness

Three planks stand out: Those on the constitution, on the consumer, and of housing.

The constitutional plank is worded as adroitly as any three paragraphs you ever read in your life.

Whereas Landon suggested that regulation of wages, hours, and child labor might possibly be handled only by state legislation and a constitutional amendment, this platform declares definitely that federal as well as state legislation is necessary. It promises, if necessary, to seek an amendment allowing both congress and the states to legislate within their respective jurisdictions.

The platform is very silent as to where the lines of jurisdiction are to be drawn and, after all, who knows—except, maybe, the supreme court?

Roosevelt's hope of appointing new supreme court justices until the court's majority is more liberal is merely inferred.

The plank labeled "Consumer" is perhaps more astonishing than any other. It says: "We will act to secure the consumer fair value, honest sales, and a decreased spread between the price he pays and the price the producer receives."

If it meant what it said, this would be a grim threat against a wasteful distribution system, against the profiteering "middlemen," against meat packers, millers, steel manufacturers, the aluminum "trust" and other monopolistic or alleged monopolistic or price fixing corporations.

"Break" for Consumer

At any rate, the plank is an affirmation of the fight made against great odds by official consumer agencies in the AAA, NRA, and elsewhere against exploitation of the householders and housewives who pay the bills.

Labor and the farmer have been mentioned from time immemorial in platforms, often hypocritically, but here is a document which gives all of us a chance to call a party to account in our capacity as consumers.

For consumers also are given a break in the paragraph which promises to promote cheap electricity "by means of the yardstick method." And the "consumer" is specifically mentioned in the labor plank and again in the monopoly plank, and yet again in the agricultural plank.

The housing plank, undoubtedly forced through by Senator Bob Wagner, is remarkable for its commitment to provide decent homes for those unable to afford decent quarters as priced by private industry.

This means a genuine low cost housing program if Roosevelt is re-elected and can sell it to congress, although it would sound better if Roosevelt had got on the job early enough to force Wagner's housing bill through congress in the last session, instead of coming to its support only in the final hours, when it was lost despite the delayed administration effort.

Plank Is Disappointing

The monopoly plank is little if any more constructive than the republican, especially if you bear in mind that the department of justice under Roosevelt has a notorious—more so than under republican regimes—record of failure to enforce anti-trust laws.

Other plans are routine except for bragging as to deeds done and promises to make a better stab at budget balancing and to bring more federal employees under civil service.

The promise to work to "take the profits out of war" would ring better in the ears if democrats had not smothered legislation of that character in the last session.

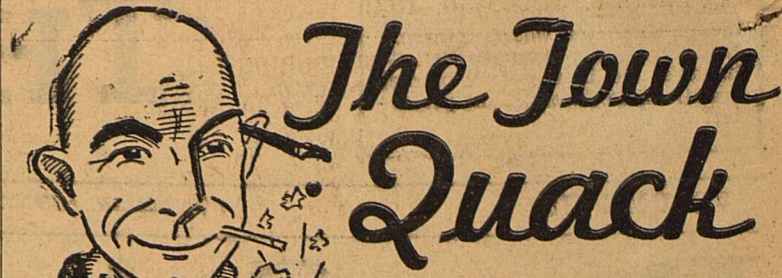

Nevertheless, this is a fighting platform—even if it did take the combined efforts of the republicans, Landon, and Lemke to scare the New Deal into it.

Land Bank Loans To Remain Another Yr.

The emergency 3½ percent interest rate on Federal Land Bank loans will remain in effect for another year, according to Albert S. Goss, Land Bank Commissioner.

In a telegram received Saturday by A. C. Williams, President of the Federal Land Bank of Houston and General Agent of the Farm Credit Administration of Houston, Mr. Goss said:

Action of Congress approved June 25 continues for one year the temporary Federal Land Bank in-thoroughbreds,—the kind of horses which have turned into real revenue here. And the work stock also ought to be given some of the premium money.

Midland has always enjoyed a reputation for being a horse breeding section. Why not develop it by getting these animals on display once a year?

Believe it or not, there are a good many people in Midland now trying to figure how to invest their money to the best advantage. A few more good duplexes and apartment houses would pay off right well. And the families who are paying rent could put that rent money to better advantage by building their own homes.

Midland property is worth the money.

What has become of the old fashioned ranch woman who referred to bulls as "those animals?"

Let's not forget about having a horse show here at the fall stock show and race meet. I don't mean just one of those shows in which the five galloping animals go through their five paces. We can have some of that too, but the main idea is to judge these off-spring from the government and privately owned terest rate of 3½ percent which otherwise would have expired on June 30. The 3½ percent rate will be effective for all interest payable in the year beginning July 1, 1936, on nearly $2,000,000 of Federal Land Bank loans made through National Farm Loan Associations.

"Continuation of the 3½ percent rate for one year takes the place of the 4 percent rate that would have prevailed for the coming year and the succeeding year. Under the law as now amended land bank borrowers will resume on July 1, 1937, interest payments at the rate at which their loans were written originally.

"The temporary interest reduction provided by Congress does not change the contract rate of 4 percent at which land bank loans are now being made through National Farm Loan Associations. Farmers who obtain loans now at the 4 percent contract rate will get the benefit of the 3½ percent for all interest installments payable in the one year period ending June 30, 1937 and after that date will pay 4 percent for the entire duration of their loans."

All fathers and mothers want their children to succeed and as long as they can, mothers and fathers the country over sacrifice and plan to give their boys and girls every advantage, every opportunity, for they want them to have a start which they too often were denied.

"We want to send Jim to college if we can afford it," they say. "We plan to give Mary special training in music if we have the money when she has finished high school."

But why should an IF threaten these dreams? A PRAETORIAN EDUCATIONAL POLICY can erase that IF and permit mothers and fathers to say positively: "MY CHILDREN ARE GOING TO COLLEGE." The Praetorians' plans offer a systematic way of saving. A little put away each month makes the education SURE. Investigate the Praetorians' Educational policies for children.

Dr. Denham will officiate at the marriage of his son.

The bride will have as her attendants Miss Elizabeth Stacy of Cassville, Missouri, as maid of honor, and Miss Margaret Henson of St. Louis, and Miss Bonnie Lenore Denham of St. Louis, sister of the groom, as bridesmaids.

For best man, the bridegroom-elect has named his brother, Mr. W. E. Denham Jr., with Mr. Charles Denham, another brother, and Mr. Roland Rogers, brother of the bride as other attendants.

After the ceremony a reception will be held at the home of the bride's parents.

Following a leisurely trip south by automobile, the couple will be at home at 609 N. Big Spring here after July 4.

Mr. Denham is a graduate of Washington university at St. Louis, holding a bachelor of arts and a master of science degree from that school. He also did post-graduate work for a year at the University of Oklahoma.

He is micro-paleontologist for the Humble company, having come to Midland last February. He is active in church circles here.

The bride-elect received her college training at Southwest Baptist college, a junior institution, at Bolivar, Missouri.

FEMININE FANCIES

BY KATHLEEN EILAND

Our idea of perseverance—trying to ward off a blinding headache by means of taking aspirins and drinking cokes.

Another time when all our dreams of sometime being a strong character get a big set-back is when we have a new book of poetry and succumb to the temptation of reading love poems instead of mending and sewing as a properly practical person would do. But we never did like those insufferable people who always do exactly as they should, anyway, so why try to be one?

In our wanderings about town recently, we've seen some delightful dresses of organzelle, a sheer fabric, attractive for the new dark dresses that are fashion high this summer. One particularly fetching one was of dark bright blue with white lacings on the blouse front. These lacings attained a note of novelty by being repeated down the front of the skirt.

Another dress of the same material exemplified the eternal smartness of black contrasted with fascinating white, while a brown frock also chose white for its high note.

The only way we know to trade is to price what we have so low that the other fellow gets the best of the bargain. For which reason we are mighty glad we don't have to earn our living by trading.

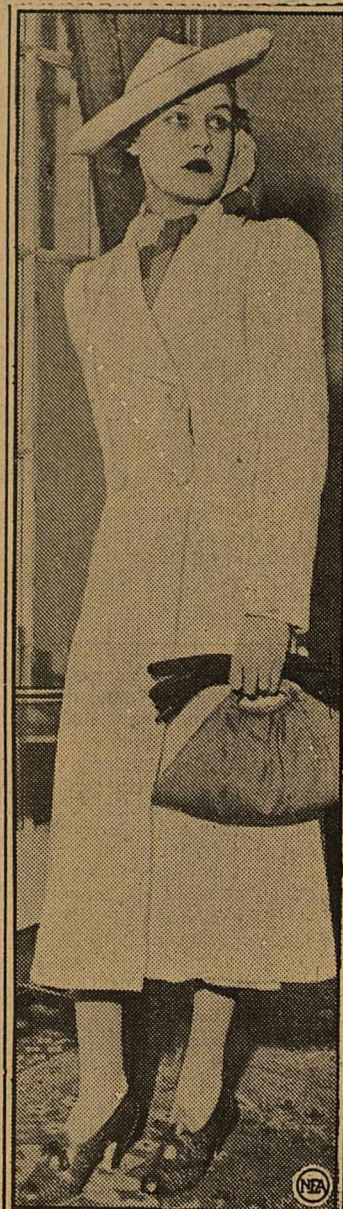

Special dislikes: Flycatchers that don't catch flies; a cake of soap that breaks in two while being used; needles that can't be threaded; odds and ends that aren't worth keeping and are too good to throw away; dishes with too much pepper in them; having to wait for something we want immediately.

Extra special likes: Planning for a long trip; day dreaming about a time when we'll (incredibly and impossibly) be really good-looking, smartly dressed, clever, and entertaining; reading poetry—especially Masfield's, Kipling's, or Lexie Dean Robertson's, Sara Teasdale's, or Elizabeth Browning's; having people act as if they really like us.

HEJLS RETURN

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Hejl and family returned Monday from Breckenridge where they took Mrs. Hejl's mother, Mrs. N. W. Jones, to visit another daughter. Mrs. Jones has been visiting in Midland for the last six weeks. The party went to Breckenridge Sunday.

Artists' Exhibit At Univ. Centennial

AUSTIN—An art exhibit devoted wholly to the works of Texas artists opened Sunday on the campus of the University of Texas as a part of its Centennial Exposition program.

Oils, water colors, pastels, etchings, lithographs, woodblocks and pen and ink, pencil and charcoal drawings will be shown in the exhibit, from time to time. Walter T. Rolfe, supervisor of the division of fine arts, described the exhibit as having "considerable merit."

"We have sought to provide a cross-section of Texas art as it is today. Some of the work is very good, some is fair—I wouldn't say any of it is bad, but if Texas had bad art we would have examples because we want this to reflect the true work of Texas artists," he commented.

The oils are being shown in two groups because of the limited space. Thirty are being shown in the first group and approximately the same number in the second which will be put on exhibit July 15.

Paintings for the exhibition were sent in by the artists following the request of Mr. Rolfe that all artists in Texas send in their best work for exhibits here.

Among those exhibiting work in the first group of oils are Adele Laure [Brunet] of Dallas, Mallory

WORLD'S GREATEST HOUSEKEEPER SERVES RAILROAD TRAVELERS

Pullman Porter George Linton is seen above explaining to Ruth Bloem just how five thousand sleeping cars, traveling some three and a half million miles a day, are kept supplied with fresh linens throughout the year.

Chicago, Ill.—The Pullman Company, operators of sleeping cars on the railroads of America, on the average annually "sleep" one-fifth of the population of the United States, it was revealed today in a letter received by Harry G. Taylor, Chairman of the Western Association of Railway Executives.

And with this huge overnight sleeping population to care for, the company has become one of the greatest housekeepers in the world—keeping a linen stock on hand totaling close to 9 million pieces. The company stocks nearly four million towels, over two million sheets, one and three-quarter million pillow slips, five hundred thousand blankets, a similar number of pillows, a quarter million mattresses—and the porter who tends these things has over one hundred fifty thousand white jackets on hand for his own dress.

Employees of this great organization are planning active participation in the celebration of the second annual "Railroad Week" which will be observed in 500 cities and towns throughout the west, July 13th to 18th inclusive.

NEW YORK, June 30—Trained observers called Joe Louis the first worth while heavyweight since Gene Tunney.

Those in-between fighters—Schmeling, Sharkey, Carners, Baer, and Braddock—were phonies who chafed and elbowed their way to the top. They were the best of a sorry lot—the maximum of mediocrity.

I wonder. Can it be that the much maligned mugs, who composed the field since Tunney called it quits, were underrated?

Or were they wise guys who knew that the leaders of the new crop were worse than themselves?

Your opinion is as good as mine, which is that the beak busting business is softening up.

As though Max Schmeling exploding the myth that was Louis wasn't enough, the 33-year-old Jack Sharkey gets off the floor to trounce young Phil Brubaker in Boston. Brubaker came out of California heralded as the prize recruit of the period. Such a schooled inspector as Robert Edgren, the famous sports writer and cartoonist, vouched for him.

Before Louis turned out to be the Dark Dud, Pacific coast critics said that Brubaker could whip any white heavyweight. When Louis discovered that a fighter couldn't be taught how to take a smack on the chin, authorities of the golden slope visioned Brubaker as the next champion.

So what? So Sharkey shows more aggressiveness and viciousness against Brubaker than he ever exhibited in his heyday. Inspired, no doubt, by the victory of the Schmeling whom he fouled into the championship and from whom he won the title two years later, the former gob created a perfect setup for an old home week among the heavyweights.

If Schmeling could flatten Louis, there is no reason why the Max Baer, who stopped the German, can't get back in a sort of consolation tournament.

If Sharkey could outglop Brubaker, the Primo Carners who ironed out the synthetic Irishman, ought to get out of that hospital bed. Johnny Risko wants in, and maybe Paulino Uzcudun should be flinched too. After all, the championship is in the hands of James J. Braddock, who has been beaten so often that statisticians have lost track of his reverses.

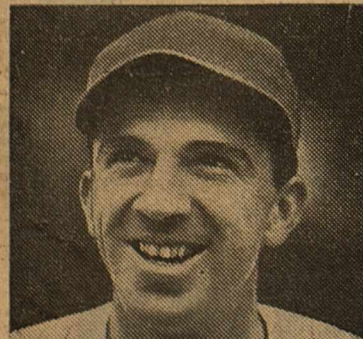

Mike Jacobs, who moved in as

the foremost promoter of pugilistic productions while the Garden was sleeping at the switch, professes to be in a quandary in regard to an August attraction.

But the problem really is quite simple, as a matter of fact. The solution is to make four matches out of the group of frisky has-beens, Schmeling, Sharkey, Baer, Carners, Paulino, Risko, Loughran, and Lomski. The survivor of that wouldn't have suffered half as much as the customers who then would have to watch him fight Braddock.

A meeting between Braddock and the survivor of the suggested tournament also would decide the waiting championship. All hands waiting long enough before they got hot.

The washed-up used to be brigade's eagerness to fight Johnny-Come-Latelys just for the exercise is a sad commentary on the current class of peagreens.

Schmeling asserted that he wasn't interested in the money when he arrived to meet Louis. The German proved that he was sincere by putting up another fortune, to hurry back to the Fatherland.

Now that they are worth $500,000 and $250,000, respectively, Schmeling and Sharkey have decided that, after all, boxing is a lot of fun. It now is plain that their inspections of the present talent did not tend to make them take fighting any more seriously.

This appears to be a great year for the rehabilitation of broken-down heavyweights. Why, late reports have even my old pals Heywood Brown and Rodney Dutch winning decisions. They had best tie Jim Jeffries to that Burbank ranch.

Nothing counts any more. Anything can happen.

Parking Rates At Centennial Cheap

DALLAS.—Parking rates from five cents an hour to 25 cents a day, tourist caravan, camping spots from nothing a day up and regulation of tourist camps from $1.50 a night up for a couple. That's what the tourist to Texas finds and with the $25,000,000 Texas Centennial Exposition on in full swing, the travel trend is to the Lone Star State.

The thousands of motorists coming here for the first World's Fair of the Southwest are experiencing no difficulty in finding quarters for themselves and their cars. In addition to an abundance of garages, there are many parking lots in the immediate vicinity of the 200-acre exposition inclosure. All-day parking fees range from 10 cents to 25 cents and motorists are taking advantage of these low rates in great numbers.

Rodeo Star and Mount on Chisholm Trail Reproduction

Hardy Murphy, of Ardmore, Oklahoma, is pictured astride Buck, famous trained horse. Murphy and Buck have appeared daily in the Johnson rodeo, at the Centennial, where Murphy went for a ride over the Chisholm Trail, one of nine roads and trails reproduced for Roads of the Southwest, as featured by the Ford Motor Company near its exhibit building. New Ford V-8's are driven over the roads day and night carrying visitors without charge.

Tourist camps for the "tin-can" caravans have sprung up like villages on the outskirts of Dallas to take care of Centennial Exposition visitors. Most of these are thoroughly modern in design and equipment, supplying running hot and cold water, private bathrooms with showers and really comfortable accommodations in hygienic surroundings. Many of the camps have electrical facilities for those who prefer to live in their trailers.

Although Dallas is crowded with motorists from throughout the nation, traffic is being handled with a minimum of new and special regulations. A few streets in the Centennial Exposition area have been made one-way thoroughfares, but the three-light system, the amber caution light accompanied by the ringing of a bell has served to keep traffic moving without need of much assistance from traffic officers.

In the Dallas business district, visitors have found the parking meters of great convenience. For five cents an hour motorists get undisturbed possession of a parking place near all hotels and shops, without necessity of traveling for blocks to locate an open spot.

Officials from various American cities always seek information regarding the success of the parking meter system. Dallas is second large city to install the system. Tulsa, Oklahoma, where the parking meter was invented by Carl C. Magee, militant newspaper editor, was the first city to put parking meters in its business district. Many other cities have followed suit.

Dallas officials declare the system is a success, both financially and from the standpoint of regulating traffic. The meters are on iron-pipe standards, about four feet high. When a motorist parks in the space marked off within proper range of the meter, he inserts a five-cent piece and a green light signifies that the space is reserved for an hour. At the end of the hour, the

Reconstruct Rooms Of Pioneer Homes

AUSTIN.—A typical room of a pioneer Texas home has been reconstructed at the University Centennial Exposition at Austin under the supervision of J. Everett Haley, director of the history division. The room is housed in the New Library building, which is open to visitors every day.

In one side of the room wall a fireplace with crane and kettle has been built. A low closet is at the left side of the fireplace, and a long mantle is above. Antique china and jugs are displayed on the mantelpiece, and above it is the owner's gun.

In one corner of the room stands a handloom loaned by Miss Betty Wood of Weatherford. This loom was made in Roane County, Tenn., in 1812 by Sam Woody and was brought to Texas in an ox wagon in 1848. It is built of hand-shaped cedar. Upon looms of this type the home-spun worn by many of the pioneers was woven.

In another corner is the spinning wheel, known as the Granny Taylor wheel, which was loaned by Mrs. A. P. Wynn of Austin. The wheel is more than 100 years old. An old table is the centerpiece of the room, and a number of rawhide-bottom chairs, an old wooden cradle, a sewing box and other relics of pioneer days complete the display.

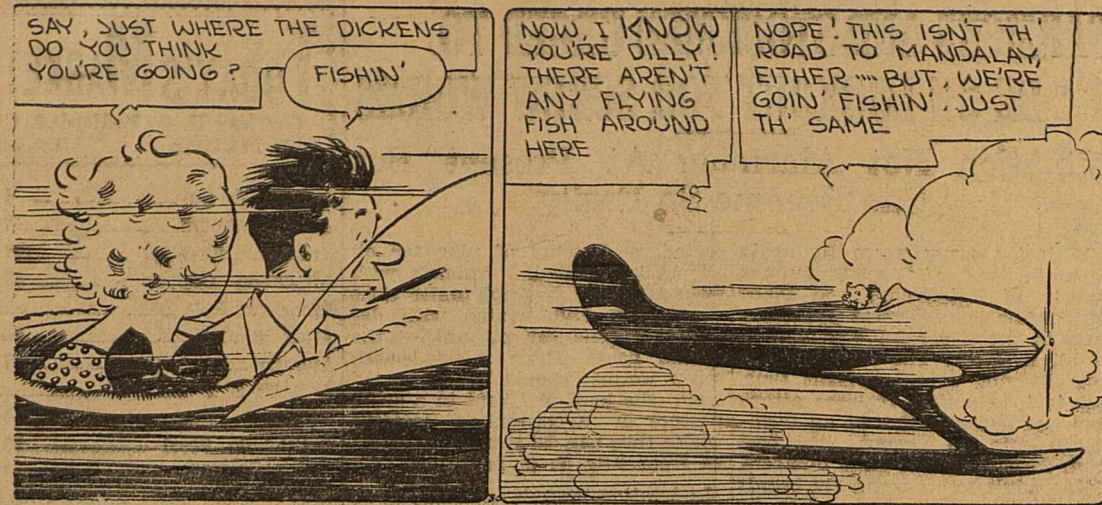

The room is arranged, Mr. Haley said, much as a typical living room of the 1840's in Texas.

Ask Child Be Given Vacation Pleasure

AUSTIN. —Schools are closed for the summer all over the State, and citizens interested in the welfare of the future generation are confronted with the fact that a vast amount of energy and ability may go to waste if skill and patience are not employed in directing growing children in this play time season, according to Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer.

"The civic, moral, and educational value of developing the natural talents of each child," Dr. Brown said, "has a far-reaching influence on the health, knowledge, and character of the future men and women of this State. The child need not be directed in each little act that he performs. Let the summer vacation season be the time when the child has a chance to develop his own individuality. Many an artist, statesman, or competent executive has come from humble surroundings. But looking back of this, we probably will find that this outstanding individual had a chance to develop his natural talent.

"It has been observed that children grow faster during the summer months than at any other time. This is explainable, perhaps, because it is then that they are out in the sunshine and fresh air. Good health is essential to physical and mental growth. The prime factors of good health are care of the body, nourishing food of the right kind, regular habits, sufficient sleep, rest and play and a happy state of mind.

"Of course, where the child lives and under what conditions, means a great deal as to the type of recreation he will find during the summer. The city child will look forward to trips to the country or hours spent in the play grounds and swimming pools. The child living in the country will have many things to do that will keep him in the sunshine most of the time.

"Let us all work toward the end that each child may feel at the end of summer that he has worked out some of his own ideas and dreams, and still developed his physical and mental capacities during these few months of play."

London Adopts Gas Defense

Air Raid Precaution committees have been appointed by the various boroughs to draw up plans which will be submitted to the Home Office.

In the latest competition here she won two gold medals with a score of 192 out of a possible 200 in the women's class and a score of 269 out of a possible 300 in the men's class.

FARMERS AND STOCKMEN URGED TO BE ON LOOKOUT FOR SCREW WORMS

Situation Not Alarming At Present But Can Become So Easily

With the screw worm fly again active in the Gulf Coast States, the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine urges farmers and stockmen to make careful examination of all livestock. The situation is not alarming at the present time, but it is one that requires attention and consideration of all farmers in order to prevent the pest from developing into large numbers.

The adult screw worm fly breeds only in living animals and lays its eggs on any wound, scratch, dog bite, tick bite, or abrasion on livestock. Infestations of screw worms often follows such operations as dehorning, castration and branding. The eggs of the screw worm fly hatch into maggots within 8 to 21 hours and bore into the flesh of the animal. The maggots destroy living tissues and causes bleeding. The flies may continue to deposit eggs around a wound, and as the eggs hatch into screw worms, the size of the wound is made larger. The worms usually fill cavities or pockets of the wound and are found packed close together with only the tip end of their bodies showing. About the wounds hard swellings are commonly found. After the maggots finish feeding and become nearly three fourths of an inch long, they drop to the ground and enter the soil where they spend a resting period. From this stage they emerge as adult screw worm flies, and after mating, they seek wounds on which to lay their eggs. The entire life cycle from egg to grown fly may take place in a period of two to four weeks.

At present time, the greatest source of trouble is the infestations of the naval in newly born calves. All new calves should be watched closely and careful examinations of the naval for any sign of screw worms should be frequently made. As a precautionary measure, it is well to protect the calves as soon as they are born by tying the naval cord about one inch from the stomach and using iodine on the cord. Pine tar oil should then be applied only about the base of the cord. Cattle should not be dehorned at this season, and if any livestock are earmarked, branded or castrated, a dressing of pine tar oil should be applied. Animals with wounds should be kept under close observation and treated with dehydrated pine tar oil until the wound heals. Those infested with screw worms should be separated from the herd and kept in a small pasture in a convenient location where they can be seen and treated as frequently as is necessary.

Slayer Pleads State Hang Him

Declaring that he wanted the state to hang him, so he could be free of the ghastly complex that made him hate all women, Albert Walter, 28, New Yorker, is shown above in San Francisco jail, after confessing he strangled Blanche Cousins, 24, business student. The court refused his guilty plea. He admitted killing the girl during a San Francisco date, after they had met on a long bus trip.

Restore Remains Of A Mammal Elephant

AUSTIN, June 30.—Tusks and part of the skull of a huge mammal elephant discovered several years ago near Yorktown have been restored by geologists, and are a part of the University Centennial Exposition exhibits on the University of Texas campus in Austin. They may be seen by the summer visitor any afternoon in the Geology Museum in the basement of the Journalism building.

The tusks are about six feet, six inches long. They are nearly 12 inches in diameter at the base of the skull. Geologists have estimated the age of the elephant at more than 60,000 years. It was taken from a limestone formation, known as the Glen Rose.

The skull and tusks were crushed, which forced extensive repairs. Plaster paris was utilized to fill in cavities, to re-mould parts which had been lost, and to shape the entire specimen into its original appearance. The tusks weigh about 150 pounds each, the skull weighs more than 400 pounds.

Also in the geology museum is a plaster paris replica of a dinosaur

YORK AND HARPER MAKE NEW FOSTER LOCATION

York and Harper have made location for their No. 1 Wither in the Foster pool of Ector county. It will be in section 13, block 42, township 2 south, T. & P. survey, offsetting the Stanolind No. 1 Witcher to the east and the Barnsall No. 1-B Foster to the south. Operations will start within 30 days, with Harry J. Brown contracting the job. Hole will be carried to the top of line with rotary after which cable tools will be used.

Nitro shot of 200 quarts from 4,210 to 4,310 is scheduled for this afternoon in W. H. Dunning Jr. No. 1 Cummins, pool opener in Ector, which recently started deepening from old total depth of 4,252. It did not show any great increases in pay in drilling to 4,310, but has maintained a flow of 30 barrels hourly. Location is 440 feet from the east and 2,200 feet from the south line of section 33, block 45, township 1 north, T. & P. survey.
