WTC board oks $6.7 million budget

Decides to put baseball program on hold until January

After deciding to put a baseball program on hold for another semester at least, Western Texas College trustees adopted a $6.7 million budget and set a tax rate Monday evening.

Taxes will go up almost 2 cents over last year, from 23.16 cents per $100 valuation to 25.13. Administrators pointed out that the rate is lower than the effective rate — the rate necessary to produce the same tax dollars as the year before.

The major reason for the 2-cent increase is a decline in property values.

In other business, trustees approved hiring Jana Martin as a full-time English instructor and Craig Keith Harrelson as a criminal justice instructor, agreed to a food service contract with Servicemaster Management Services and okayed revisions in purchasing and personnel policies.

The 1993-94 budget won't include any funds for a baseball program, a topic which has been discussed by the board several times several years. However, trustees did keep the possibility alive by agreeing to consider it again in January of 1994.

Two key concerns include whether revenues can meet costs, and the availability of practice and game facilities.

An informational sheet worked up by Athletic Director Milton Ham projects a cost of $32,000 for start-up of a baseball program. This would include uniforms, equipment, recruiting and a coaching salary for a half-year.

Dr. Harry Krenek, college president, said those monies can be taken from contingency, but it is future costs that worry him.

"That, (start-up costs) is not my concern, but when you get rolling and consider scholarships, a field, an assistant coach and transportation — those are some big-ticket items," said Dr. Krenek.

At least two members of the board — John Gayle and Carolyn Barbee — said that a baseball program is an opportunity for the college to give something to the community.

"People see taxes going up but a decline in enrollment and that's hard to take. But if they know that the number of students is growing, they don't mind so much," said Barbee.

Trustee Carl Williams noted taxes are going to continue to go up because property values will continue to decline along with oil production.

"Carl, I agree, and the only way you offset that is to increase the numbers (of students), which increases state funding," said Gayle.

But the question of whether state funding for students will offset expenses of the program is

Garcia pre-trial set to continue

Continuation of a pre-trial hearing for an elementary school teacher charged with indecency with a child is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Wednesday in 132nd District Court.

The hearing, for former Stanfield Elementary teacher Floyd Garcia Jr., had been scheduled last month but was postponed.

Garcia, 44, is charged with fondling a 7-year-old student in his classroom at Stanfield Elementary. The second grade teacher was placed on paid administrative leave by the school district on the evening of Feb. 16. Last month, school board trustees accepted his resignation.

District Judge Gene Dulaney has already made several pre-trial rulings in the case, but postponed two key defense motions until Wednesay. These include a request to quash a grand jury's indictment of Garcia and to supress the defendant's statement made to a Scurry County sheriff's deputy who investigated the case.

Garcia is being represented by Mary Alice McLarty of Lubbock.

In a previous hearing, the judge granted motion to discover criminal records of witnesses, and to require the state to reveal any agreement between the state and any prosecution witness.

A request for transfer venue to another city was waived by the defense.

Garcia's trial has been set for Sept. 13, pending rulings on the remaining motions.

Serb forces withdraw to more strategic peak

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — Bosnian Serb forces withdrew as promised from a key mountain overlooking Sarajevo but refused today to budge from a more strategic peak nearby.

Thousands of refugees were reportedly fleeing the Serb-held mountain, and mediators suspended peace talks in Geneva until both peaks are under U.N. control. NATO plans for air strikes on Bosnian Serb positions, approved Monday, also hinge on the Serb withdrawal.

In Geneva, Bosnian Serb leader Radovan Karadzic warned that a single NATO strike against his army would trigger an all-out war and doom peace talks with rival Muslims. And he suggested that U.N. peacekeepers in Bosnia could become the targets of Serb retaliatory attacks.

New reports of fighting and ethnic cleansing, meanwhile, were emerging from Mostar in central Bosnia. Sarajevo radio claimed Croats had driven 16,000 Muslims from their homes in the area in the past four days, but there was no independent confirmation.

Government and Bosnian Serb military commanders met with U.N. officials at Sarajevo airport in a new attempt to formalize an 11-day-old verbal agreement to stop fighting and to discuss the situation on Mounts Igman and Bjelasnica.

The peaks overlook Sarajevo, and their capture by Serb forces last week locked the Serb ring around the capital, under siege for 16 months.

Under a plan reached with U.N.

Slain man said to be CIA agent

TBILISI, Georgia (AP) — CIA Director James Woolsey Jr. flew to Georgia's capital today to retrieve the body of an American, reported to be a CIA agent, who was slain while traveling with a top Georgian security officer.

U.S. Embassy official James Hutchinson refused to discuss newspaper reports that the slain American, Fred Woodruff, was a CIA officer. But it would be highly unusual for the head of the CIA to come here to retrieve the body of a person who was not a CIA employee.

A Clinton administration official in Washington confirmed last month that American advisers have been training bodyguards for Georgian President Eduard Shevardnadze. The official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, declined to specify the number of men sent, or their precise mission. Woolsey, who had been visiting Moscow, was met at the Tbilisi airport by Shevardnadze, a former Soviet foreign minister.

After the two men shook hands, an American flag was draped over Woodruff's coffin, and the coffin was loaded into the U.S. government Boeing 707 that brought Woolsey from Moscow.

Woolsey spoke with Shevardnadze for about an hour in a cordoned-off section of the airport, then left with the body of the 45-year-old American. It was not clear when the body would be returned to the United States.

Woodruff was killed Sunday by a single bullet fired into his vehicle. He had been traveling with the head of Shevardnadze's security, Eldar Gogoladze, and two other Georgians. Gogoladze was not injured and greeted Woolsey at the airport.

Woolsey was accompanied by representatives of the FBI and the CIA, Georgian television reported.

A joint U.S.-Georgian investigation into the shooting is under way. Shevardnadze suggested criminals were to blame, while Interior Ministry spokesman Valerian Gogolashvili said the crime could have been ordinary or political.

"Ordinary because this is a dangerous region where car thefts are common," Gogolashvili said.

The SDN Column

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "The best thing about mincing your words is that they're easier to eat later on."

Growing up, a favorite retort was "bull" or "that's a bunch of bull." We had an English teacher who detested the usage and banned it from her classroom.

We just recently learned its origin. The term "bull" came from the blunderings of an Irish lawyer who lived in London whose name was Obadiah Bull. While many of his errors have been misplaced by history, the blunders of another Irishmen, Sir Boyle Roche, have become a living legend:

--Describing the poverty of Irish farmers, "They are living from hand to mouth like the birds of the air."

--Concerning poor conditions of the time, "Little children who could neither walk nor talk were running about in the streets cursing their Maker."

--"All along the untrodden paths of the future, I can see the footprints of the unseen hand."

--"The farmers ought to dispense with the use of wooden gates, and put up cast-iron ones instead, as the latter would last forever and in the end could be utilized for making horseshoes."

--In a letter to a friend he said, "If you ever come within a mile of our house, will you stop there all night?"

--"I answer in the affirmative with an emphatic 'No.'"

--His idea of a way to stop smuggling on the Shannon River: "Sir, I would anchor a frigate off each bank of the river, with strict orders not to stir; and so, by cruising up and down, put a stop to smuggling."

--Speaking about the relationship of Ireland and Britain, "Anybody who wishes to diminish the brotherly affection of the two sister countries is an enemy to both nations."

--"The cup of our trouble is running over, but, alas, is not yet full."

We suspect some of his descendants moved to America to serve in congress and write government regulations.

Pell Grant program plagued by fraud

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Russian immigrant who came to the United States in 1988 was surprised when government investigators asked him about a Pell grant he was receiving to attend an orthodox Jewish school in Brooklyn, N.Y.

The school, Toldos Yakov Yosef Seminary, received $4,700 in the immigrant's name from 1990 through 1992. But he told investigators he had never attended classes there, according to an Education Department enforcement report.

The case is just one of many examples described in government documents or by investigators of fraud that is costing the nation's largest cash aid program for higher education millions of dollars.

Education Department officials acknowledge the Pell program has lacked oversight.

"There is fraud and abuse in the program that we have to get on top of," said David Longanecker, assistant secretary for post-secondary education.

The allegations have spawned a federal grand jury investigation of at least three dozen orthodox Jewish schools in the New York City area, sources said.

And Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., says a subcommittee he chairs has uncovered evidence that some students in the program have been given kickbacks — paid either to attend a school or to allow their names to be used on Pell grant applications. The panel plans to present the evidence at a hearing in September.

"There's no real monitoring of the federal funds," said Kenneth Gribetz, the district attorney in Rockland County, N.Y., who handled one of the cases now under federal investigation.

"It's like Santa Claus came to town and just gave out money," Gribetz said. "A good program for needy people could be killed by inadequate supervision."

Last year, the government distributed $6.7 billion in Pell grants to assist some 3.8 million of America's neediest students — an average of $1,763 each. Some 6,300 schools nationwide are eligible to participate in the program, named for Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I.

The grants are intended to help needy students attend college or trade schools to improve their job prospects.

College hires two teachers for '93-94

Two teachers have been added to the full-time faculty at Western Texas College.

Jana Wesson Martin will teach both college-level English as well as preparatory English classes.

Craig Keith Harrelson, a native of Huntsville, joins the criminal justice training staff after having served as a sergeant/supervisor with the Texas Department of Criminal Justice Institutional Division at Fort Stockton.

As an instructor for WTC, Harrelson will be assigned to teach at the French Robertson Unit in Jones County. He will make his home in Sweetwater.

Since 1987, Martin has been employed at WTC in a part-time capacity, where she taught at extension centers and on campus as well as having served as a lab instructor and tutor.

A 1978 graduate of Snyder High School, Martin earned a bachelor of arts degree from Abilene Christian College in 1981 and is to complete work on her master's degree at Abilene Christian University this month.

She has done private tutoring for high school students in Spanish and English as well as having been a substitute teacher for Snyder High School and Western Texas College.

Martin is married and she and her husband, Rick, have two sons. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wesson of Snyder.

Harrelson is a 1982 graduate of Trinity High School and has attended Sam Houston State University in Huntsville.

He possesses a varied background, including four years as an Emergency Medical Technician in the Huntsville area to include instructing EMT courses for Sam Houston State University. He has also done extensive volunteer service for the Trinity Ambulance Association as an EMT.

He has also managed the Huntsville retail branch of TENNECO Oil Company for three years. Included in Harrelson's background is his kinship to Woody Harrelson of Cheers television fame. He and the Cheers' star are cousins.

Harrelson is an avid collector and accomplished refinisher of antiques. Hobbies include snow skiing, travel and singing.

Official quits high-level SSC position

DALLAS (AP) — A high-level administrator of the troubled super collider project has resigned, citing personal reasons.

John Ives was one of 11 associate directors for the project under construction in Ellis County, about 35 miles south of Dallas. He announced his resignation on Monday, project spokeswoman Julie Armstrong said Monday.

Ives left the project because he wanted to spend more time with his wife and three children, Ms. Armstrong said. She said Ives' departure is unrelated to the collider's other recent problems.

As chief for the conventional construction division, Ives was responsible for design and construction of the SSC, including its nearly 60 miles of tunnels.

There are no immediate plans to replace Ives, who joined the SSC laboratory in 1990 after his retirement from the U.S. Navy, Ms. Armstrong said.

In June, the U.S. House voted to halt all funding for the SSC. The project's future now depends on the Senate, which saved it last year after the House voted to discontinue the project.

Your Birthday

Wednesday, Aug. 11, 1993

In the year ahead someone who really likes you will work behind the scenes on your behalf to help improve your lot in life. This is a person who knows how to get things done.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your powerful sex appeal to members of the opposite gender might turn your head today and involve you in a forbidden situation fraught with complications. Be disciplined. Leo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A well intentioned friend might offer you some financial advice today that could prove detrimental if put to use. Get a second opinion before doing anything.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Unfortunately you might not fully capitalize on your opportunities today, owing to inclinations to take them for granted. Don't look a gift horse in the mouth.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Lady Luck will be willing to give you a helping hand today, provided you don't leave all the heavy lifting up to her. If you do, she might suddenly let you fend for yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're able to competently sort out problems for others today as long as there isn't any additional outside interference. If the uninvited get into the act, matters could go down hill.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Someone who let you down previously might make you some lavish promises today. Remember your past history with this individual and take him/her with a grain of salt.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your stick-to-it-iveness, as well as your attention span might be operating at low levels today. This could cause you to lose interest in your endeavors before finishing them.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be patient regarding something that must be done for you by another and not yourself. Your chart indicates things will work out, but they must be given adequate time.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be generous and giving towards others today, but don't go to extremes to make your point. A thoughtful gesture is more effective than a grossly extravagant one.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your friends like you for what you are, so the use of affectations is unnecessary today. Nothing will be achieved by attempting to gild the lily.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Financial conditions might be a bit "iffy" today, especially in areas where you're tempted to take gambles or financial risks. Be cautious and traditional.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Usually your practical outlook enables you to see things for what they are. Today, however, you may kid yourself into believing certain situations aren't as bad as they seem.

Engine fires prompt recall of Saturns

DETROIT (AP) — Saturn Corp. is recalling practically every car it's built to fix a wiring problem that has caused at least 34 engine fires.

The recall involves 352,767 cars from model years 1991, 1992 and part of 1993. The General Motors Corp. subsidiary said it has fixed the problem in the 85,000 cars built since April 15.

In a letter to Saturn owners, Saturn President Richard G. Lefauve said a short-circuit in the generator could cause a fire to break out without warning under the hood, with or without the engine running.

Saturn said no injuries have been reported. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has had no reports of problems with Saturns, an agency spokesman said in today's The Detroit News.

Saturn will install new generator wiring that trips like a fuse to prevent heat buildup and fires.

Industry analysts said the repairs could cost GM about $8 million, the News reported.

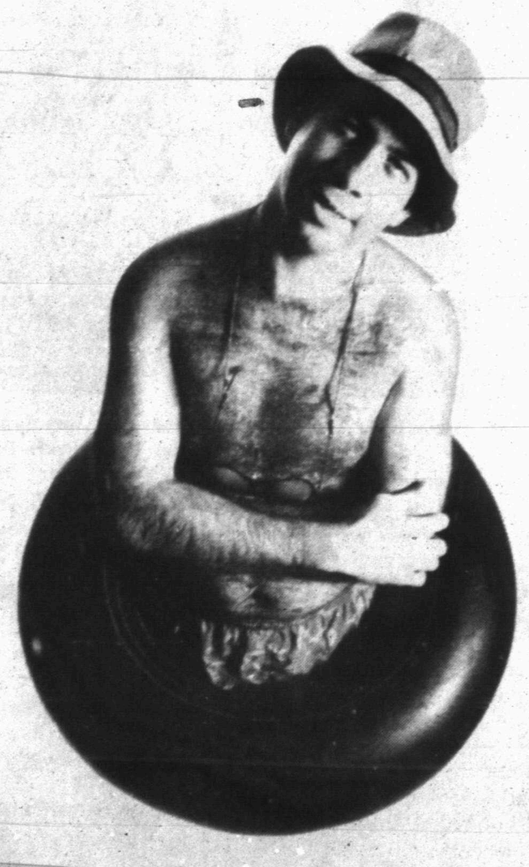
"In this kind of weather, wouldn't a heat pump be the last thing I need?"



A name like "heat pump" might be a little confusing, but here in Texas it makes a lot of sense.

In summer, the heat pump pumps heat out of your house and replaces it with cool air.

In winter, it uses the solar heat trapped in the earth's atmosphere to keep your house warm and comfortable, even on the coldest days.

Which means you save on energy, natural resources and your monthly bill.

Any more questions? Your heat pump dealer has the answers.

CLINTON, Ill. (AP) — Not many American firms can claim to be more than 200 years old.

One that can is Revere Ware, a cookware marketing company which traces its origins to 1783.

Ask Anne & Nan

DEAR ANNE AND NAN: Please help me find people or collectors of "Wedgewood" pieces — plates that are Christmas Special Plates. They are beautiful. They are new and still in original boxes. — F.J.G., Mt. Prospect, Ill.

DEAR F.J.G.: To the best of our knowledge, Wedgwood (please note spelling: There is no "e" in the name) never has made Christmas Special Plates.

Because Wedgwood china is so valuable, a lot of manufacturers have used the Wedgwood name in an effort to sell "knock-off" products, but as a result of international trademark restrictions they have not been allowed to exactly imitate either Wedgwood's name or stamp.

We aren't entirely sure what you have, but if you would care to send us a photograph of both the front and back of your plates, we'll try to find out!

STUMPED: Cindy Holmes of Ponca City, Okla., writes: "I prefer to make rather than purchase mixes — cake, biscuit mixes, etc. I have tried to make a cold chocolate mix to use in cold milk (like Nestle's Quik).

I have blended sugar and cocoa, also sugar, cocoa and cornstarch. But these won't dissolve in cold milk — I have to dissolve them first in 1 tablespoon hot water and then add the milk. I know Quik has lecithin in it.

Do you have a recipe that is equivalent to this powdered mix for cold drinks?"

We looked in all our resource cooking books and couldn't find an answer for Cindy. Any ideas, Dear Readers?

The courage of one's beliefs

Gerald and Stuart Tredinnick are twins who have been very successful in bridge recently. Today's deal occurred while they were winning the English international trials last year.

The popular contract was six hearts by North. Every declarer felt quietly confident — until East discarded on the first round of trumps.

However, one player made a slam — Gerald Tredinnick. In the twins' auction, one diamond was Precision, showing at least two diamonds and denying a five-card major, a six-card club suit and a balanced hand. East's two no-trump showed at least 5-5 in the minors. Four no-trump was "rolling," asking for more information.

South won trick one with the club king, discarding a diamond from the dummy. Next came the spade king; West unwisely won with the ace. South won the diamond switch with dummy's ace, crossed to hand with a spade to the queen and cashed the club ace, discarding dummy's last diamond.

Tredinnick knew that West, an aggressive bidder, would have made a one-spade overcall with a reasonable five-card suit. Judging, therefore, that East was signaling honestly with three spades to go with his known 10 minor-suit cards, South led his heart and finessed dummy's nine.

Well done, but East's bid of two no-trump was stupid. One opponent had opened the bidding and the other had made a strong jump shift. How could he win this auction? For once, justice was done.

Cavities filled without drill?

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A pain-free technique of treating dental cavities without the use of a drill was described recently at the Academy of General Dentistry annual meeting in San Diego.

Called the kinetic cavity preparation system, the alternative to the drill directs a high-speed stream of tiny particles at the tooth, according to Dr. Ronald Goldstein, an Atlanta dentist.

"It could be compared to a very precise miniature sandblaster, which literally sprays away decay without any pain," he said, adding:

"Most patients are fearful of the drill and needles because noise and pain can be intimidating."

Loesser wrote variety of songs

NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Henry Loesser, born here in 1910, was one of America's leading composers, lyricists and librettists.

Loesser began writing songs while a newspaper reporter and developed a highly versatile style. His songs ranged from "Tangerine" to "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition."

On Broadway, Loesser wrote the music and lyrics for "Where's Charley?" (1948), "Guys and Dolls" (1950) and "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying (1961). He also wrote the book, music and lyrics for "The Most Happy Fella" (1956).

Loesser died in 1969.

Lady Tigers begin volleyball practice

A total of 33 varsity and junior varsity volleyball hopefuls and 29 freshmen players turned out for the opening of summer drills at Snyder High School Monday.

"We had a good turnout," said SHS head spike coach Patty Grimmett. "The girls worked really hard. I thought it was a good practice.

"A lot of the girls came into the gym and worked all summer," the coach added, "and that really showed."

Varsity and JV spikers will practice three times for a total of eight hours today, the same as Monday, then will begin drills from 3 to 6 p.m. Wednesday through Friday before finishing summer practice Saturday with a workout from 9 a.m. to noon.

The freshman workout schedule features practice from 6 to 9 p.m. daily through Friday.

The Lady Tigers, hoping for a fourth straight appearance in the Class 4A playoffs this year, return five players from last season's varsity.

Heading the list of returnees is senior all-district honoree Kristen Kallemeyn. Also back for SHS are Vicky Green, Melissa Hernandez, Bridget Braziel and Misty Roquemore.

The Lady Tigers first competition of the '93 season is set for Monday when the varsity, JV and freshmen scrimmage at Denver City.

The regular season opens for the JV and varsity with an appearance at the Aug. 20-21 Monahans Tournament.

The season starts for the Snyder freshman on Aug. 21 at Andrews.

The Lady Tigers' home opener is scheduled for Aug. 24 when Snyder hosts Denver City and Andrews in a three-way match.

District 2-4A competition starts Oct. 9 at Levelland.

Assisting Grimmett for the 1993 campaign will be assistant varsity and head junior varsity coach Robin Turner, and freshman coach Vanessa Gutierrez.

Start contact drills Wednesday...

Gridders wind up two-a-days

"We're just about where we need to be after a week of workouts," reported Snyder High School head football coach David Baugh this morning.

"Knowledge-wise and technique-wise, we're just about on schedule. We've got a ways to go before we're ready to play, but we're getting there."

The Tigers wind up two-a-day practices today with an offensive workout at 5 p.m.

Contact drills start Wednesday at about 5 p.m. The Tigers began working out in partial pads Monday.

After last year's rash of preseason injuries, the Tiger coaching staff was glad to report no players hurt after a week of practice.

"It seemed like every time we answered the phone last year, somebody else was out for the season," said SHS defensive coordinator Jack Dorsett. "But we don't have anyobdy hurt right now."

A quartet of SHS gridders drew praise from the coaching staff this morning including linemen Derek Freeman and Emiliano Chaidez, linebacker Nathan Zalman and split end Larry Thompson.

"Derek has been a real surprise for us on both sides of the ball," Dorsett said of the two-way tackle. "He's done a good job on offense and defense.

"Emiliano has been real good at defensive tackle, too."

Zalman and Thompson were both mentioned by Baugh following this morning's workout.

"Nathan has been doing a great job at linebacker for us," the head coach reported, "and Larry has a string of four or five days going without missing a pass."

The Tigers' annual intra-squad scrimmage, the Watermelon Bowl, is scheduled for 8:30 a.m. Saturday at Travis Field.

The opening matchup will pit freshmen and JV players, followed by the varsity battling a mixture of JV and varsity gridders.

Snyder's first outside competition will be in Stanton Aug. 19 when the Tigers take on Fort Stockton in a controlled scrimmage. Baugh will lead the Tigers against Ballinger, there, on Aug. 27, in their final tuneup before the Sept. 3 season opener at Sweetwater.

Astros down Padres 5-4 in 10 innings

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Luis Gonzalez surprised teammate Eric Anthony as well as the San Diego Padres' defense. Anthony recovered, the Padres didn't and the Houston Astros won their third in a row.

Gonzalez's safety squeeze bunt as a pinch hitter with one out in the 10th inning scored Anthony with the go-ahead run as the Astros beat the Padres 5-4 Monday night.

"I got the sign to put it down if I had a chance," Gonzalez said. "I might have caught the defense off-guard. I knew they were trying to play for a double play there. So it just worked out good for us."

Anthony, who hit a two-run homer in the first, was unaware that Gonzalez had the option to bunt.

"I didn't know it was coming, but I saw his bat go through the zone and I was able to get a good read on the ball," he said. "I was going on contact anyway."

The game drew a season-low crowd of 8,237 fans to Jack Murphy Stadium. The previous low was 9,160 on July 19 against the New York Mets.

After poor showings in exhibition games...

Johnson plans to intensify workouts

AUSTIN (AP) — This year's pre-season Dallas Cowboys haven't looked a whole lot like last year's Super Bowl Champion Dallas Cowboys.

And because of that, coach Jimmy Johnson hasn't been very happy with the team, which tied the Detroit Lions 13-13 Sunday in London.

The team's back from Europe now, and Johnson says the rest of camp will be no vacation.

Johnson said the trip to England, with its mild temperatures, was a nice break from the grind of camp, but he's looking forward to intense workouts under hot summer temperatures the next three weeks at St. Edward's University.

"We'll go down to Austin ... and get down to work correcting some of the mistakes we've made the last couple of weeks," Johnson said Monday in Irving.

"It's going to be a very intense week, correcting the mistakes. We'll also be looking to put the team together, working as units for the next three weeks."

The Cowboys are winless in their two exhibition games.

Dallas committed five turnovers in dropping its opener to the Minnesota Vikings, 13-7. Johnson ripped his team for lack of hustle after a sloppy effort.

The Cowboys played better on Sunday, but Johnson wants improved execution from the offense, which was guilty of three more turnovers.

Special teams play also was a trouble area. Lin Elliott missed four field goals, three in overtime, on Sunday and John Jett had a punt blocked and returned by Detroit's Kevin Scott 34 yards for a touchdown, which tied the game.

The Cowboys are expected to welcome back quarterback Troy Aikman to full-scale workouts this week.

"I'm ready to roll," Aikman said after watching the Detroit game.

While the Cowboys were in London, Dr. Robert Watkins, who performed Aikman's back surgery in June, cleared the Super Bowl MVP to resume workouts and play in Saturday's exhibition game against the Los Angeles Raiders.

"Throwing over the last few weeks, I don't feel I've lost timing," he said. "I haven't suffered in that area. The thing I need is to get in against the rush, feel it coming around me."

Aikman has participated in non-contact drills during camp.

"Sure I'll feel better after I take that first hit," said Aikman, who threw in pads for the first time last week at Valley Ranch.

Aikman said he'll know if he's ready for the game by the end of the week, but mentally, he's ready now.

"I feel great. ... I'm anxious to get back."

WTC course ups golf fees

Western Texas College will implement a new fee schedule for its golf course, beginning Sept. 1, to try to keep the facility from operating in the red.

Among scheduled changes are a $1.50 increase per 18 holes on green fees, a monthly increase of $4 on membership fees and a $5 per month rate hike on cart shed fees.

New green fees will be $8.50 on week days and $13.50 on weekends, up from $7 and $12. The monthly membership fee rises from $30 to $34 and the course's shed fee will be upped from $22.50 per month to $27.50 monthly.

Golfers who use their own carts will be assessed a $4 trail fee per 18 holes. However, anyone on the waiting list for a shed space, will pay $10 per month and will not be charged the trail fee.

Other changes in the price structure at WTC include a jump in cost for tournaments and in rates charged area schools.

A flat rate of $750 will be charged to groups hosting tournaments at the Western Texas course, up from the old charges of $600 for a full day and $300 for a half day.

The college will host a maximum of two tournaments a month and will book events on a first-come, first-served basis.

Additionally, the college will go up on fees charged to local school districts for team practice.

The college will get $375 each month Snyder ISD uses the course, a jump of $75 a month. Ira, Jayton and other smaller schools in the area will pay $200 per month.

Soccer league schedules meeting

An organizational meeting for Snyder Soccer Association is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. today at Bethel Baptist Church.

Interested parents and coaches are invited to attend and help plan for the upcoming fall season.

SJHS gridders to get equipment

Junior high football players will be issued uniforms this week, and coaches also reminded all 7th grade gridders that they must have their physical exams completed before being issued equipment.

Eighth graders were issued their equipment Monday, while 7th grade players will be issued their gear between 1 and 5 p.m. today.

Also, any 8th grader who did not participate last year will also need a physical exam before beginning drills.

Rehab sets open house

ABILENE — Come to our anniversary party.

That's the invitation being extended to Scurry County residents from West Texas Rehabilitation Center.

The occasion is an open house celebration Sunday in honor of the center's 40th anniversary. Scheduled from 2-4 p.m., the event will include refreshments and tours of Abilene's newly expanded facility which is located at 4601 Hartford.

"We're proud to open the doors of the center to everyone, particularly those who have been a part of the Rehab's history," said WTRC President Bill Snowden.

Last year 114 individuals from Scurry County were served by Rehab out-patient facilities. With average treatment costs estimated at $769 per patient, Scurry County residents received approximately $87,666 worth of care.

"Even if you've already visited the center in the past, the recent expansion/renovations in physical therapy, industrial rehabilitation, the shop and the addition of a covered entrance are something exciting to see, Snowden said.

WTRC board members and staff will be available to assist with tours, answer questions and visit with those in attendance.

An encore presentation of Rehab's television special, "How Far Is Tomorrow?" also is slated to air on Abilene's KTXS-TV from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. and KRBC-TV, 2 p.m. to 3 p.m. on Sunday also. Featuring original script and songs by Denton writer Donna Trammell, the production focuses on the development of West Texas and ultimately WTRC.

The Rehab Center opened in temporary quarters in Abilene in 1953 and moved two years later into its first permanent building which today serves as the corporate offices. A second facility opened in San Angelo in 1977 following a merger of WTRC and the West Texas Therapy Center. San Angelo's present facility opened its doors in 1982.

For forty years, West Texas Rehab has provided out-patient treatment services to individuals without regard to age, race, origin or financial circumstances.

The only time patients are charged is when special equipment such as braces or hearing aids are secured for the patient to own. Admission is by referral from a physician or approved agency such as a school, hospital or nursing home.

More than 175 trained, licensed professionals deliver quality care in physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech pathology, audiology, arthotics, industrial rehabilitation and support services to approximately 13,500 patients annually.

"Our anniversary theme, 'Legacy of Love,' truly expresses what the center, its mission and its supporters have in common — a 40-year commitment of providing help and hope for the disabled of all ages," he said.

Amoco donates to scholarship fund at WTC

Western Texas College president Dr. Harry Krenek has announced the receipt of a donation to the college scholarship program in the amount of $1,000 from the Amoco Foundation, Inc.

The scholarship donation is part of a continuing program of financial support from Amoco Pipeline Company for the WTC scholarship fund.

The Amoco grant was made on an unrestricted basis and is intended to provide financial assistance to students.

Max Williams, Bill Armstrong and Tony Wofford presented the donation on behalf of employees of Amoco Pipeline Company,

Daughter born to Sean Penn

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sean Penn and actress-girlfriend Robin Wright are parents again. This time, it's a boy.

Hopper Jack Penn was born Friday at an undisclosed Los Angeles-area hospital, said Lois Smith, a spokeswoman for the couple.

The 32-year-old Penn and Miss Wright, 27, also have a 2-year-old daughter.

U.S. said vulnerable to exotic germs

Budget cutbacks limit valuable research programs

ATLANTA (AP) — A new highly virulent cholera. Killer bacteria in hamburgers. A rodent-borne virus that turns Southwesterners' lungs to soup.

Scientists say it's only a matter of time before another exotic germ or new strain of bacterium attacks, but budget cutbacks have sapped their ability to protect Americans from such emerging diseases.

"This is something you can't ignore," said Dr. Gail Cassell, a microbiologist who advises the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. "We are in for danger."

The CDC functions as America's medical sleuths, determining the reasons for sudden outbreaks and finding ways to prevent disease. With known diseases such as flu, lead poisoning and, recently, even AIDS, its system works well.

But there's no system to warn about emerging diseases, like the new cholera strain that has killed 5,000 people in India this year or the hantavirus that has taken at least 18 lives in the American Southwest since late May.

And Americans' vulnerability is heightened because the scientists who fight new, rare diseases are vanishing in the face of budget constraints and natural attrition, and there's no money for replacements.

"It's like letting your insurance policy lapse," said Dr. Robert Shope of Yale University School of Medicine. "The danger's always there, but our ability to react to it is not so great."

"We're going to be at increased risk for these things getting out of hand," said the CDC's Dr. C.J. Peters, one of the world's handful of experts on hantavirus. "Imagine what it would have meant to the U.S. if AIDS had been kept in Africa, for example."

AIDS was first detected in gay men in San Francisco in 1981, but doctors now know it infected people in Africa as early as the 1960s. They believe it originated in African monkeys and somehow made the jump to humans.

New diseases can evolve from animals, or mutate or migrate from other countries. The challenge is preventing or containing them.

But research into most infectious diseases is underfunded until the germ causes an outbreak, said Cassell, of the University of Alabama at Birmingham.

The CDC does expect from Congress a record $2.2 billion for 1994, to spend on everything from breast cancer to lead poisoning.

But for all infectious diseases except AIDS, which has an independent line of funding, the House has appropriated $40.3 million — less than half the $92 million requested and no increase from this year. The Senate has yet to set a figure.

Over the last decade, the CDC has lost about 20 percent of its personnel and its budget for infectious diseases other than AIDS. And last year, the Pentagon ended most of its research into rare diseases that threaten to migrate to the United States.

Only AIDS, tuberculosis and vaccine research — President Clinton's priorities — are getting increases at the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases next year, said financial manager Steven Berkowitz.

The reasons: More and more diseases must vie for a share of the same pool, and research costs far outstrip inflation, even when funds are increased, he said.

The CDC says three U.S. outbreaks, in rapid succession, depleted its funds this year:

—E. coli, a little-understood, food-borne bacteria that got into hamburgers in a Pacific Northwest restaurant chain in January, killing two children and sickening 500 other people.

—Cryptosporidium, an intestinal parasite that sneaked into Milwaukee's water, striking thousands in April.

—A new strain of rodent-borne hantavirus that has caused severe respiratory illness in the Southwest since May.

"We could not have done two of these at the same time," Dr. William Roper warned on his last day as CDC director.

The 1994 budget doesn't yet reflect it, but Congress is listening. The House budget report acknowledged emerging diseases are a threat, and Rep. William Natcher, D-Ky., told doctors that those with less "political clout" than AIDS advocates were getting shortchanged.

Also, Congress recently appropriated an emergency $6 million to fight hantavirus.

But doctors have been warning about emerging diseases since 1991, when the national Institute of Medicine asked the CDC to set up a global sentinel system.

Now, a red flag is supposed to go up when U.S. doctors can't identify an illness. Ideally, doctors call the state health department for help, which then alerts the CDC to investigate.

The system doesn't always work: Hantavirus actually struck last year in the Four Corners region of New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and Utah, where most of the 1993 cases have occurred. Two people fell ill, and one of them died, but their doctors simply declared the culprit an unknown respiratory illness and never alerted the CDC. Hantavirus wasn't identified until this spring's outbreak.

Nor is there now any way to warn of foreign diseases' migration. Exotic, rare diseases aren't included in routine surveillance. Even if they were, many doctors lack the means to test for them.

Defense rests in punishment phase

WICHITA FALLS (AP) — The defense rested today in the punishment phase of the capital murder trial of Jeffrey Dillingham, after the convicted killer's parents tearfully pleaded with jurors to spare the life of their only son.

Ray Dillingham said that growing up, his son was a good student who played Little League baseball, loved to skateboard and enjoyed the zoo.

Several women on the 12-member jury cried when Dillingham's mother pleaded with them to save her son.

"We wanted a large family, but the good Lord only gave us one. He's been such a blessing," said Toni Dillingham.

Dillingham was convicted Saturday of killing Caren Koslow, 40, with a pry bar and striking and slashing ex-banker Jack Koslow, 49, at the fashionable Koslow home. Jack Koslow survived the March 12, 1992, attack.

Prosecutors are seeking the death sentence for Dillingham, 20, whom they have branded a "butcher" whose heart "is a nest of scorpions."

In Texas, a capital murder conviction is punishable by lethal injection or life in prison. A defendant assessed life must serve at least 35 years behind bars.

Prosecutors say the crime was a murder-for-hire scheme bungled by three greedy young adults, including Koslow's adopted daughter from a previous marriage.

Kristi Koslow, 18, and her boyfriend, Brian Salter, 21, remain jailed and will be tried at a later date.

Prosecutors say Miss Koslow promised Salter and Dillingham $1 million for killing her father and stepmother.

The punishment phase of the capital murder trial began Monday with the defense calling six character witnesses. Friends of Dillingham and his family described him as caring and courteous.

Dillingham sobbed silently and trembled — never looking up — as the witnesses told how Ray and Toni Dillingham provided a loving home life of softball games and Christmas parties for their only child. His parents and fiance sat on the courtroom's front row.

"He's a kind and good person. The act he committed was wrong. But he's a human being and we all make mistakes," testified Barbara Aynne Palms, a secretary for Dillingham's father.

"I hate what he did, but I love him. He can be rehabilitated," Ms. Palms said.

Three jailers from Tarrant and Wichita counties testified to Dillingham's good behavior behind bars.

"I wish we had 100 or 150 more like him," one deputy said. Koslow frowned and shook his head.

Dillingham hung his head — his nose inches above the defenders' table — and appeared to gasp for air as attorneys and psychologists discussed his maturity level.

Dr. Leon Morris, a Wichita Falls psychologist, said tests show Dillingham has a mixed personality disorder and suicidal tendencies. The former Blockbuster video store employee is "preoccupied with fantasy and movies," Morris said.

Gary Terrell to seek DA's post in Lubbock Co.

LUBBOCK — Gary Terrell, a Snyder native and former county attorney, announced today that he would be a Republican candidate for Lubbock County criminal district attorney.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Terrell of Snyder and a 1970 graduate of Snyder High School, Terrell will seek the post currently held by DA Travis Ware.

Terrell, 41, was appointed county attorney for Scurry County on July 30, 1984, following the death of long-time county attorney George Killam. He was elected to that post in November, and resigned in 1985 to join the Lubbock law firm of McWhorter, Cobb and Johnson.,

Terrell graduated from Angelo State University in 1974 and from the Texas Tech School of Law in 1977. Terrell returned to Snyder in 1979 to join the law firm of Rosser, Armstrong and Terrell.

officials, Bosnian Serb leaders pledged to withdraw from both peaks. They turned over Mount Bjelasnica to U.N. peacekeepers on Monday, after blowing up an unused television tower there, said Cmdr. Barry Frewer, spokesman for the peacekeepers.

But Igman is considered the more important peak because it was the last clandestine weapons supply route for Bosnian government forces.

Frewer said Serb troops and trucks were moving on Igman, but the United Nations was not able to ascertain whether they were withdrawing or redeploying.

Peter Kessler, spokesman for the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, said authorities in Hrasnica, at the foot of Igman, reported 2,000 people fled the area on foot southwest toward Konjic. Several hundred others had arrived in Hrasnica, he said.

John Mills, spokesman for the Geneva peace talks, said mediators Lord Owen and Thorvald Stoltenberg had postponed negotiations until U.N. forces take over the peaks.

one for debate, said Dr. Krenek.

"You can figure, relatively, how much state funding is per student," said Dr. Krenek, "but the question is, how much do you deduct for maintenance, administration and the like?"

Other discussion included recruiting, availability of a field, possibility of having to hire additional support and faculty for an estimated 45 to 50 students.

Trustees conceded there are too many unanswered questions to make a decision on a baseball program at this time. Barbee asked administrators to work up a detailed report on the topic for presentation in January. Trustee Dr. Jay Kidd suggested that administrators attempt to get some community input as well.

In other business, the board approved changes in the college purchasing policy and amended personnel policy to comply with provisions of the Family and Medical Leave Act, which took effect Aug. 5.

During informational discussion, Dr. Krenek told the board that former Midland College President Dr. Jess Parish has agreed to perform a management audit of Western Texas College.

Trustee John Fagin had asked administrators to look into such a management audit earlier this year. "I just think it's good business," said Fagin.

Dr. Parish will visit with trustees in September to discuss information they will require from the audit.

Trustees also discussed golf fee rate hikes and were advised of prebid information on the purchase of paper goods.

As the meeting opened, Rep. David Counts came in and greeted trustees. Rep. Counts was attending a barbecue in the college courtyard for the 250 or so people attending Windham School in-service.

Present Monday were trustees Barbee, Gayle, Williamson, Kidd and Fagin. Absent were Bill Wilson Jr. and R.C. Patton.

Obituaries

George Vincent

Bond set at $15,000

Bond has been set at $15,000 for a 27-year-old Snyder man who was charged with attempted murder after he allegedly shot his wife in a dispute Saturday night.

Julio Arellano of 900 28th St. was transported to Scurry County Jail Monday. He had been at Cogdell Memorial Hospital under police custody Sunday while being treated for a wound to his left index finger.

His wife, 24-year-old Martha Arellano, had been sent to University Medical Center with a gunshot wound to her left hip. She has since been released.

According to police, the shooting occurred shortly before 10:30 Saturday evening in the parking lot of the Latin American Center. Witnesses told police that Julio Arellano wanted to leave the Center but his wife refused to give him the keys to the car because he had been drinking. He was sitting in the driver's seat of the vehicle, a Chevrolet, and she was standing nearby when Julio Arellano allegedly shot her with a large caliber revolver.

When the gun discharged, the bullet apparently first struck Julio Arellano in the top of his left index finger before striking his wife in the hip.

Two listed as 'serious'

Two Snyder residents involved in a one-vehicle accident early Sunday morning are in serious condition at University Medical Center in Lubbock.

Nineteen-year-old Brandon Paul Terry, of 3104 El Paso, and 16-year-old Lindsey Daniell, of 4516 Galveston are in separate parts of the intensive care unit and listed in serious condition, a hospital spokesperson said this morning.

Terry was the driver and Daniell a passenger in a 1992 Ford Mustang which veered off U.S. Highway 84 about 3 a.m. Sunday. Police said the vehicle hit a fence and rolled several times.

DPS notes 2 arrests

Department of Public Safety troopers made two arrests at 11 p.m. Monday.

Troopers arrested 32-year-old Henry Carrisalez of 903 Ave. Q for felony driving while intoxicated and driving with a suspended license.

Also arrested at the scene was a 26-year-old man for public intoxication.

Child may outgrow bone disorder

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My granddaughter has been diagnosed with Kienbach's disease. I understand there is no cure, and it will get progressively worse. What can you tell me about this disorder?

DEAR READER: Kienbach's disease is a fancy term for a progressive degeneration of a bone in the wrist (osteochondrosis). In general, the growth plate is affected, leading to pain, swelling and limitation of motion. The condition, of unknown cause, can be seen in the upper leg (Perthes disease), the foot (Freiberg's infractions), the lower leg (Osgood-Schlatter disease), and in other bones.

To my knowledge, osteochondrosis is incurable, although children usually outgrow it. Treatment is supportive: rest, slings, casts and so forth. Some orthopedic specialists advise surgical stabilization with a pin for cases that don't improve with time. Ask your granddaughter's orthopedic surgeon about the prognosis and what therapy needs to be considered.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I suffer from spastic colon. I've been treated with Donnatal, its generic forms, Tagamet, Librax, and am considering Metamucil. While I'm under a doctor's care for this condition, I feel bad telling him everything he's prescribed is ineffective. Where do I go from here?

DEAR READER: While I appreciate your thoughtfulness in wanting to assuage your doctor's feelings, you should level with him. You don't want him going off on an extended skin-diving vacation in the Bahamas thinking that you're cured, do you? Doctors love challenges and, believe me, irritable colon is a beaut.

Seriously, let him know your symptoms so that he can try other therapy, such as the stool-bulking agent Metamucil — or even counseling, if stress plays a significant role in your colon problems. (Irritable colon is often worsened by tension.)

As you know, the gas, bloating and constipation/diarrhea of irritable colon are annoying — but the disorder will not affect your health. Therefore, you have plenty of time, while he's away skiing in Switzerland, to experiment with various therapies.

Explain your situation to the doctor so that the two of you can sit down and plan a strategy. Let me know what happens.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Irritable Bowel Syndrome." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.

Refugees camp on roadside to guard their flooded homes

FENTON, Mo. (AP) — For 25 river refugees at a campsite between the floodwaters' edge and a bustling four-lane highway, the roof over their heads is a swimming pool cover draped over some 2-by-6 boards.

They've lived out here for 40 days and they're likely to be here another month. But they accept the crude conditions so they can keep watch on their homes and whatever meager belongings they have left.

"We feel like vagabonds living on the side of the road here. But we want to be as close as we can to our home. We got to patrol the neighborhood," said Rich Boyd. "We ain't got nobody else but each other."

Boyd, his wife and two children have been out here, along Missouri Route 21 about 20 miles south of St. Louis, since July 1. That's when the Meramec River, a tributary of the Mississippi, spilled its banks and became a lake.

The camp looks like something out of "The Grapes of Wrath," with people living in truck beds and campers.

Once known as Tent City, the place was dubbed the Canvas Condos after three donated generators arrived to power lights, a fan and a stereo. Under the swimming pool cover are two sofas and two armchairs that were donated.

If the refugees stayed in a Red Cross or Salvation Army shelter, they would be unable to guard their homes.

"Even though it's all under water, it's all they have left. It's their security blanket to be close to where their belongings are," said the Rev. Al Hortiz, flood coordinator of the New Life Evangelistic Center, which brings the refugees bug repellant, soap, toothpaste and other items.

The refugees set out every half-hour in a flotilla of pleasure craft and fishing boats to make sure no looters are messing with their property. The Coast Guard and Missouri Water Patrol also keep an eye on things.

The road to their Club City neighborhood is under 9 feet of gray water. A mammoth lake has swallowed ball fields and farms. The way is marked by the top beams of telephone poles poking from water. In some homes, only rooftops are visible.

"I miss my privacy the most," said Micki Boyd, rummaging through an assortment of coolers for a cold drink. "But you have to do what you have to do. I know once this water goes down the house will be trashed out. We left a lot there."

The camp exists on handouts. The Salvation Army, the church and passersby drop off everything from meals to money. The outpouring is so great that the refugees deliver excess items by boat to others in need.

Some refugees sleep in their cars to escape clouds of mosquitoes breeding in stagnant pools.

They also have to contend with the drone of traffic and highway dangers. On Aug. 4, a car went out of control and struck one of the cars in the campsite. The driver drowned after his car skidded into the floodwaters.

"Every day's an adventure," said Gary Reynolds, shaving in a mirror hung on a piece of lumber lined with laundry.

Leroy Vollmer's temporary home is the back of a tractor-trailer containing a bed, table and camp stove — all of which was donated. But the 53-year-old has his watchdog with him, something that would not be allowed in a shelter.

"I'm sort of picky: If my dog can't go, I won't go," said the white-haired, bearded Vollmer, dressed in a sleeveless work shirt and overalls.

Tommy Vardell of the Cleveland Browns was named the academic All-America for 1991-92.

Uvalde protests child-killer's presence

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Uvalde residents have gathered more than 1,000 signatures on petitions in an effort to have convicted child-killer Raul Meza moved out of their community, residents say.

Meza, 32, was transferred Aug. 3 to Nueces River Ranch Estates 16 miles northwest of Uvalde after a brief stay in the West Texas city of Sweetwater.

Meza was released from prison earlier this year after serving 11 years of a 34-year prison term for the rape-slaying of 8-year-old Kendra Page in Austin in 1982. His release was mandatory on June 21 because of "good time" he accumulated as a prison inmate.

His move to Uvalde County marked the sixth time he has been moved because of angry protests from citizens who said they didn't want him living in their midst.

His seven days in Uvalde County are as long as he's stayed in any of the other locations to which state officials have sent him, including San Antonio.

Residents say the rural area where he is staying has children nearby and is unsuitable for him.

"It's still the topic of conversation," Uvalde County Judge William Mitchell told the San Antonio Express-News in a telephone interview. "People haven't changed their minds about Raul Meza. They still want him out of here."

Josie Albrecht, a mother of three who lives about 500 yards from the home where Meza lives, said, "There are still a lot of unhappy people around here, and my kids are still afraid to sleep alone at night."

About 50 residents many of them children live in the subdivision, Albrecht said. It is next to Park Chalk Bluff, a family-owned recreation area that caters to as many as 2,000 visitors weekly.

"I have to take my kids to work with me every day," Albrecht said.

She said she and a small band of residents have collected the 1,000-plus signatures from county citizens on petitions calling for Meza's transfer out of Uvalde County.

The drive began within 24 hours of his placement in the rural subdivision, where he is living with relatives.

State Rep. Pete Nieto, R-Uvalde, said he'd continue to register complaints with the Texas Department of Criminal Justice's Division of Pardons and Paroles to have Meza transferred elsewhere.

Nieto said he and other residents were unhappy because the parole division did not notify Uvalde County authorities of Meza's transfer to the county until after he was moved.

Last week, Nieto said he would sponsor legislation that would bar the parole division from transferring a convict under mandatory supervision to a community without permission from the community.

Adoption makes Pfeiffer happy

NEW YORK (AP) — Michelle Pfeiffer says she decided to adopt rather than have a baby and get stuck with some guy "who's going to be driving me nuts."

The 35-year-old actress said in September's Vanity Fair that adopting a daughter last spring was "absolutely, positively the smartest and best thing I've ever done for myself." She said she didn't worry about her lack of a husband.

"Even today, with men sharing a lot of parenting, with all the women I know, the majority of the responsibility falls on their shoulders, even though they have a career as well," she said. "Men are like pinch hitters. So what's the deal?"

As for the biological option, she said, "I thought, I don't want some guy in my life forever who's going to be driving me nuts."

Headed to Moscow

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michael Jackson is taking his act to Moscow.

The pop star will perform on Sept. 15 at the 100,000-seat Lyzhniki Olympic Stadium, spokesman Lee Solters said Monday.

"The people in Russia have been making many attempts to get him there," Solters said.

Dear Abby

Laughter at Church Funeral Alters Boy's Status at Church

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1993 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: After reading your columns about laughter at inappropriate times, I had to write.

I am now 37. As a child, I was forced to go to a Catholic school from first grade through the eighth. I was also an altar boy.

I will never forget the time we were in the middle of a funeral service and the mourners were within a few feet of me near the casket. One of the mourners was a man who was a very heavy breather, and every time he exhaled, his nose made a whistling sound. After about 10 whistles, I started to laugh. Finally, I was laughing so hard I started to shake. The incense burner I was carrying had chains, and the more I shook, the more the chains rattled.

Needless to say, I was severely chewed out by one of the kindly nuns, who kicked me out of the altar boys.

Reading about all of the other people who went on laughing jags during funeral services made me realize I wasn't so bad after all!

PHIL S., EVERETT, WASH.

DEAR PHIL: Thanks. Here's another one to add to the collection:

DEAR ABBY: My grandfather's funeral service was held at his graveside because Grandpa had been a U.S. Marine. He was 97 when he died, and had a military funeral. Some shots were fired as a part of the ceremony. This scared the wits out of Grandma, who was sitting on a folding chair. Grandma fell off the chair — then one of the little kids yelled, "Gee ... they shot Grandma!"

AN UNFORGETTABLE FUNERAL

DEAR UNFORGETTABLE FUNERAL: Considering the number of random shootings that make the evening news these days, it's a wonder the entire funeral party didn't hit the ground.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I invited his parents out for dinner to celebrate their wedding anniversary. There were just the four of us. We made reservations at one of the very best restaurants because we wanted it to be an exceptional evening. My husband ordered a fine wine for the dinner, and champagne with dessert.

Everyone was in a good mood and the conversation was lively. It was a perfect evening — until the waiter brought the check to the table and handed it to my husband since he was the host. Well, his mother grabbed the check out of his hands and gave it to his father!

Abby, my husband and I have fairly good incomes, and paying that bill would not have been a hardship. He didn't want to make a scene, so he let his father pay for what was going to be our anniversary gift.

Please print this so other parents of adult children will realize how unfair it is to take over the party when they were invited as guests.

THWARTED IN NEW YORK

DEAR THWARTED: It isn't easy for parents of adult offspring to realize that their children are no longer youngsters and deserve to be treated as adults. Thank you for an important reminder.
