

TORNADO

What To Expect And Some Rules That Might Save A Life

What should you do if you see a tornado?

How can you know if a twister is coming at night?

What precautions can be taken?

These are three questions frequently asked by persons to police and weather bureau officials.

Many "wives tales" circulate throughout the midwest which answer these questions in one way or another, but only a person who knows and understands tornadoes can give the correct answers to these questions.

Every year in the months of April through September persons in the Olton area often find themselves under severe weather or tornado alerts.

When this happens, people begin to watch the skies for the terrifying funnel clouds which have been responsible for millions of dollars of property damage and taken hundreds of lives.

When a tornado or severe weather alert is given for Olton, residents should listen for local sirens and tune in to the county radio station or one of the two Lubbock television stations.

In a severe weather alert, local police cover the area, watching for signs of a tornado.

If a tornado is spotted in the area, six sirens, one on the ambulance, one of the deputy sheriff's car, two on the police cars and two on the fire trucks, are turned on and the cars warn residents by traveling up and down the streets.

This means there is a tornado approaching.

The big siren at the fire station is turned on with a continuous blast warning residents to take cover.

In the event there is not time for car sirens to warn residents, only the big one will be used.

A new, louder siren is expected to arrive here soon.

When a person spots a tornado, either on the ground or in the air, he should call either the local police department, county police in Littlefield, Fire Chief Tom Smith, or the weather bureau in Lubbock, giving the location and direction of movement of the cell.

One should never tie up these lines for any other reason than to report severe weather activity.

A barometer can be a man's best friend at night when under a severe weather alert.

If a tornado is approaching the area, there will be a rise in pressure when it is about two area, there will be a rise in pressure when it is about two miles out and then a sudden drop—seven to eight hundredths every 15-30 minutes a cell moves closer.

If this drop is noted, one should take cover for a tornado, because there is one in the immediate area.

One of the many thoughts about tornadoes is that just before they hit, the weather suddenly becomes quiet, but, according to weather bureau officials, a tornado can strike during the most torrential rain and hail storm.

There are a number of precautions which can be taken to preserve both lives and property.

The most important thing is to save one's life.

This can easily be done if one has access to an underground storm shelter, but if there is no shelter of this type, there are still ways of finding a safe place.

At all times, keep a battery operated radio nearby, officials recommend.

One should try to get into a small room away from windows or doors. The small the room, the less the chance of getting hurt, since most injuries are caused by flying debris.

A small closet near the middle of the house would be best, but a bathroom also serves very well for a shelter, weathermen said.

The smaller the room, the less roof space is spanned which could possibly fall in on a person.

To lower the damage done to a home or any kind of building, a window should be opened facing the tornado.

At night, one would be wise to open both a south and west window. Weather bureau officials say that 99 percent of all tornadoes in this area come from either the Southwest or the South.

A tornado suddenly lowers the pressure. If there is no outlet for the air inside the building, it may rip apart at its weakest points.

Many of the structures in this area can endure the winds inside tornadoes, but cannot withstand the sudden drop in pressure.

The most important things to remember during a tornado alert are to keep listening to a radio or television station and for local sirens and to report any severe activity as soon as possible to the proper authorities, giving the direction in which the tornado is moving.

Paving Petition Names Adding Up

Names were adding up this week on petitions circulating here asking the city council to call a $60,000 bond election for street improvement.

Although no exact figure was available as to the number of names on such petitions, leaders in the movement expressed confidence that a sufficient number would be obtained.

Mayor Bill Thomas earlier said that he felt there would have to be at least 150 signatures on the petitions to warrant the calling of another election.

The first such election was held here April 5 and defeated 139-120.

At that time, some of the backers of the paving bond seemed to feel that the defeat was due to a poor showing at the polls.

There are 411 registered voters in the city.

Plans this week were to present the petitions to the city council at the next meeting June 14.

The petition asks the city council to call the bond election for street improvements, which would include new paving and repairs.

A map accompanying the petition shows 23 blocks of new paving.

Property owners would pay for curb and gutter on new paving.

Mayor Thomas noted that taxes would not be raised this year regardless of the outcome of the paving issue.

He also said that, in his opinion, even if a bond election were called and approved, taxes would not be raised "in the next four years at least."

Bookmobile Appears Set In 1967 For 4 Counties

Library leaders and commissioners from four counties, Lamb, Bailey, Farmer and Cochran, met recently to discuss the takeover by the counties of the High Plains Bookmobile.

This week, it appeared that the unit would be taken over Jan. 1 by the four counties. It has in the past been "loaned" and operated by the state.

County commissioners will sign a one-year contract for support of the bookmobile.

In this county, the unit has loaned 16,587 books. In the same period, the county library in Littlefield checked out 13,011 books.

Most of the books checked out from the bookmobile are in communities without local libraries.

The unit makes numerous stops throughout this county with Olton named as the "biggest" stop in the county, or the one where most books are checked out.

Commissioners have been told that it will take a $14,000 budget to operate the bookmobile in four counties during 1967.

The $14,000 budget covers the estimated operating expenses, including salaries, gas and oil for the bus, repairs and maintenance, supplies and books and materials during 1967.

By agreement between the four counties and the Texas State Library in March of 1964, the bookmobile has operated on a three-week circuit, involving 42 stops in the four counties.

Cost of the program has been prorated for the four counties, according to county population estimates contained in the 1966 Texas Almanac.

Lamb County's share of the $14,000 came to $6,391 with an estimated population of 23,975, largest of the four counties.

Other populations and cost included Farmer County, 11,200 and $2,986; Bailey County, 9,850 and $2,620; Cochran County, 7,500 and $2,003.

Disaster Plan Being Set Up

Disaster.... An ugly word that describes something that happens to someone else.

But what happens when that "someone else" turns out to be you?

The answer to that question could depend largely on just how prepared your community was to handle the situation.

A disaster program for Olton, sponsored by Community Hospital and Clinic, is in the planning stages here.

Local doctors and registered nurses are being contacted for their assistance in the program.

Volunteers are needed. A spokesman for the hospital said this week that anyone who has had medical experience in the armed services, nursing experience or is a graduate of a first aid course is needed to assist in the event of a disaster.

Such persons are asked to contact Maxine Singleterry at Community Hospital.

The hospital spokesman noted that, under disaster conditions, only authorized persons would be allowed in the hospital building to care for the injured.

He added that, under such conditions, the public would be urged not to come to the hospital or to call unless they or members of their immediate family needed medical attention.

Flag Etiquette

Proper respect for the Flag is one of the fundamental responsibilities of United States citizenship.

Thus, it is surprising the number of people who do not know what to do when the Flag passes by or is being raised or lowered. As Flag Day - June 14, and Memorial Day, May 30 - approach, it is perhaps time to review a little Flag etiquette.

Most people wish to pay proper respect, but have simply forgotten the fundamentals from school days. A few take "a care less" attitude.

Here are some common questions asked concerning the Flag:

Q. Is it proper to fly the Flag of the United States of America outdoors all night long?

A. No, the rules of civilian Flag etiquette govern, and the Flag should be displayed outdoors only cases where the Flag properly doors only from sunrise until sunset (Public Law No. 829, commonly known as the Flag Law). The only cases where the Flag properly flies all night long are:

(1) Two Flags over the Capitol Building in Washington; one over the east front and one over the west front, day and night, throughout the year.

(2) Over a permanent fort or ship when engaged in battle.

(3) When our armed forces are engaged in battle.

(4) Certain other patriotic shrines where Congress has specifically authorized display at night.

Q. What interpretation is placed on that part of (Public Law 839) which reads: "the Flag may be displayed at night upon special occasions when it is desired to produce a patriotic effect?"

A. The term "special occasions" means athletic events, bond campaign ceremonies, patriotic pageants, parades, etc.

Q. Is it proper to carry the flag with a band or other marching unit at night at an athletic event, and to display the Flag on a pole, with a spotlight or floodlights on it, during the event?

A. Yes, it is entirely proper. The provisions of the Flag Code which prohibit the display of the Flag at night apply to the display of Flags on buildings and on stationary flagstaves except as provided in the Flag Law for the display of the Flag on special occasions for a patriotic effect.

Q. When the Flag is not flown from a staff, how should it be displayed?

A. It would be displayed flat, whether indoors or out, or so suspended that its folds fall as free as though the Flag were staffed. When displayed either horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the Flag's own right, that is, to the observer's left. When displayed in a window of a home or a place of business, the Flag should be displayed in the same way; that is, with the union or blue field to the left of the observer in the street.

Q. What is proper respect to the Flag during the ceremony of hoisting or lowering the Flag, or when the Flag is passing in a parade or in a review?

A. All persons should face the Flag, stand at attention, and salute. Those present in uniform should render the military salute. When not in uniforms, men should remove the headress with the right hand, holding it at the left shoulder, the hand being over the heart. Men without headress should salute by placing the right hand over the heart. Aliens should stand at attention. Women should salute by placing the right hand over the heart. The Salute to the Flag in the moving column should be rendered at the moment the Flag passes.

Q. When should the Flag be at half-staff?

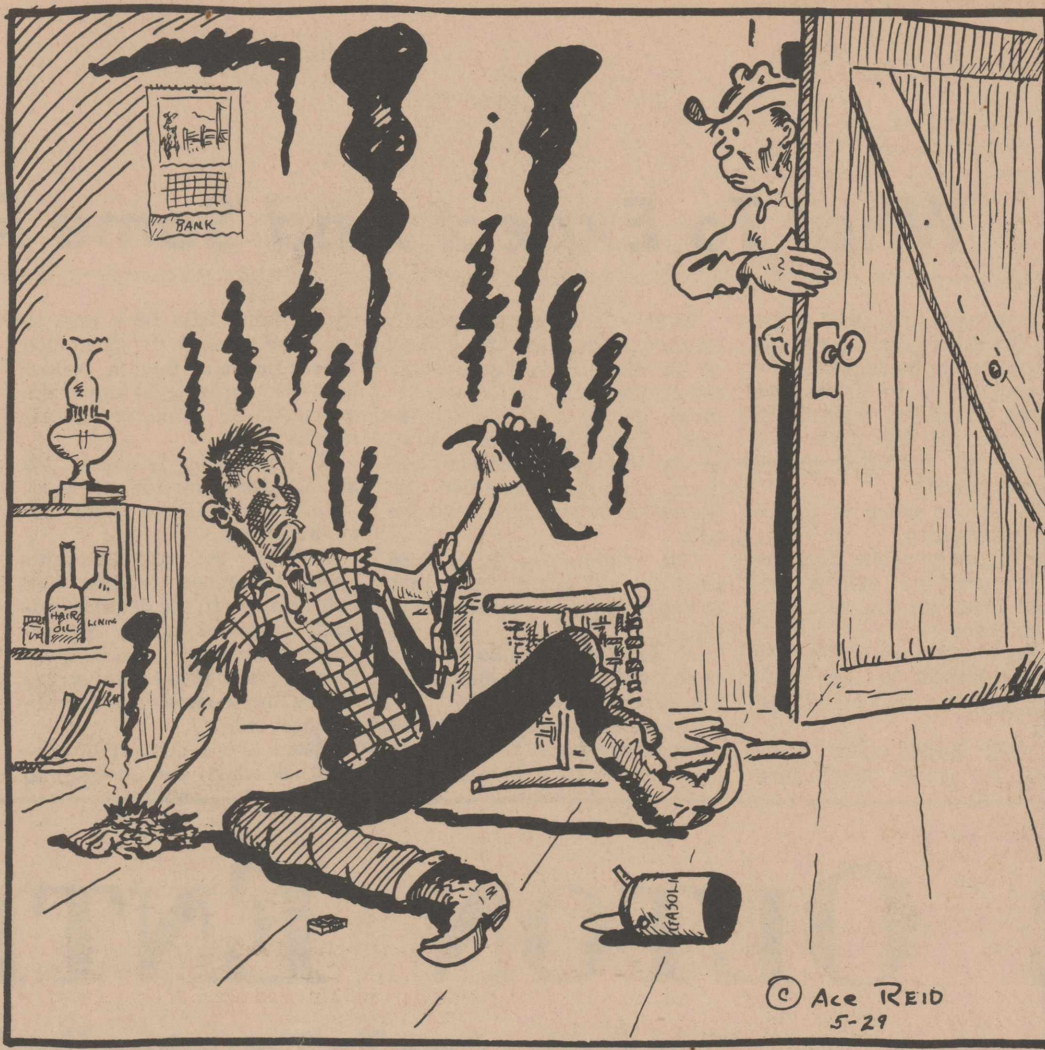

A. (a) The Flag is half-staffed on Memorial Day, May 30, from sunrise until noon; it is displayed at full-staff from noon until sunset.

(b) Since the Flag symbolizes the nation, it should be half-staffed only in cases where it is appropriate to indicate that the nation mourns and then customarily by proclamation of the President of the United States. When it is desired to show that a state, city, club, large industry, or a society mourns, then the state, city, club, industry or society flag or banner should be half-staffed or dressed in crepe.

It is important that the Flag should never be used for advertising purposes in any manner whatsoever. It should not be embroidered on such articles as cushions, or handkerchiefs and the like, printed or otherwise impressed on paper napkins, boxes, or anything designed for temporary use and discard; or used as any portion of a costume or athletic uniform. Advertising signs should not be fastened to a staff or halyard from which the Flag is flown.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the Editor:

To me, there is no greater opportunity to serve God and Country than being in an elected public office. This has been my privilege for nearly 18 years as a member of our Texas House and Senate.

It was a thrill and an honor to again, this year, place my name before the people and participate in our sacred, and almost unique, system of free elections - a right denied to most of mankind today.

Now the people have retired me from public office -- and, as always, I am more than willing to accept their verdict.

But, from the depths of my being, I wish to express my most sincere gratitude for the opportunity of the past 18 years to serve the interests, ideals and principles of the people of our State as my conscience directed.

Last, but not least, I wish to thank each and every individual who gave me their vote and support in the recent primary.

My very best wishes to you and every citizen of our 30th Senatorial District.

Sincerely,
Andy Rogers

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

TOO GOOD A LOOKER

Dear Amy:

I'm a 22 year old married woman with three children. I have a very happy home but I have a problem.

I am a good looking woman with no friends (lady friends) because the husbands of all the couples I know look at me too much or look at me not caring if their wives are watching or not. Pretty soon their wives build up a resentment towards me or don't speak to me at all.

I'm not a flirt and I don't wear make-up ... so what should I do?

D. I. Beauty

P. S. Even my own brothers-in-law look too much!

Dear D. I.:

Being too good a looker has its drawbacks. But if it's not your fault that women burn while men yearn, discourage the males and encourage the females by putting to use domestic or creative qualities that they will find appealing.

my 6th cousin until after I fell in love with him. We just overlooked that fact and still do.

Now he wants to marry me. No, I'm not ready for marriage at 17, but that's not the problem.

I'm wondering how my parents will feel towards me marrying someone who is related to me. So far they have allowed him to come and go. But I don't know how they will feel towards marriage.

I've refused to take the engagement ring he has for me. I want to wear it but I want to give my parents time to give me some clues about how they feel.

Undecided

Dear Undecided:

The "relation" is so far removed that it should be your last concern. But, at 17, the feelings of your parents should be your first concern.

Clue them in and solve the mystery!

Dear Amy:

I was very pleased with your article on teenagers necking and I agree with you entirely. Now I have a problem and I hope you will be able to help me.

For many years I have had a close relationship with my daughter. After her seventeenth birthday, I found out that she was necking with older boys. I told her that she would have to stop this, and she did ... for a while. Lately she has been staying in her room, doing nothing and wasting her time. One day, I went up to her room and found her "entertaining" one of her older boyfriends. I am very upset about this.

Could you please help me with this problem?

Worried and Frightened

Dear Worried:

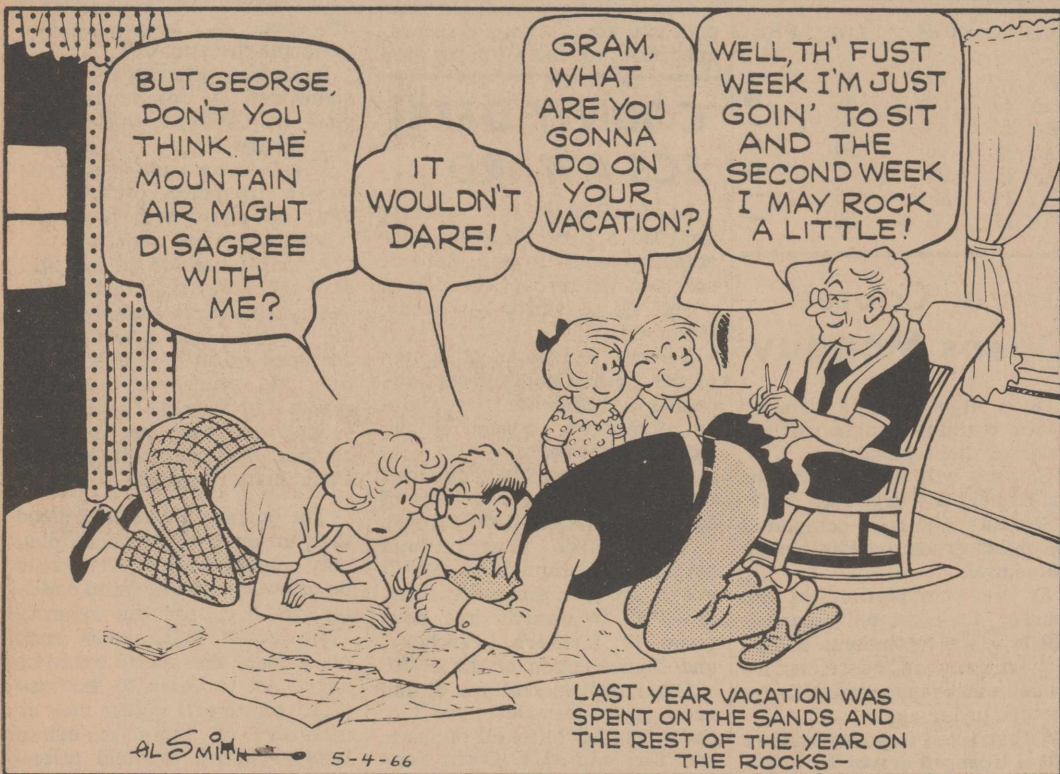

Assuming your daughter knows right from wrong, mother, it is imperative to secure the help of a psychologist. There is a reason for her wanton behavior, and dealing with her yourself could even be more disastrous.

"And because they had no root, they withered away"

Matthew 13:6

It was no accident that Matthew used the language of farmers in his teachings to men.
The land was close to life.

And it seemed a lot closer then because cultivation depended mostly on a digging stick, a hoe and a good strong arm.

Pretty precarious tools when you have to produce enough food and fiber to feed and clothe the world.
Fortunately, over the centuries, farmers, soil experts, inventors and plant pathologists have found a few better ways of disciplining the land. And enriching it to increase yields.

We've helped do a little enriching, too. With modern plant foods, like

Olin NH3 and Ammo-Phos (made only by Olin)

It can give enough to the roots of young cotton and grain sorghum plants to get it over the top.

And, we hope, into its place in the sun.

Chit Chat

(DELAYED ONE WEEK)

Here are a few statements you might have heard this past week, the last week of school and the one for final tests. If he said, "I got no home-work," it meant he had only to bone up for vital tests in history and English, which he planned to do during the first study period. If he said, "I got no home-work to speak of," it meant he had assignments only in his four major subjects and planned to get them done the next morning, probably on the school bus. If he said, "Boy, am I loaded with homework!" it meant it was his turn to help with the dishes.

WHO'S WHO

Mr. Moore, Why don't they ever play the old waltzes anymore?

Dale DeBerry, You sang on key at the concert, but was your tune a bit FLAT later?

Eddie Hooper, "Double or nothing, heads or tails, Hooper!" Do these words sound familiar?

Robbie Langford, How did your make-up get wet Saturday night? By the way, Robbie, WHERE did it happen?!

S. L. G. wants to thank FRECKLES and her dear friend, J.A., for the nice article last week!

UP FOR FUN

Sherry Caddell: Did you meet George at the gym?
 Susan Norfleet: Why, no, I've known him since the fifth grade!

Lucy Gunter to Susan Gordon: "Paulette's party was marvelous — no decorations, fancy food, or games — just two boys to each girl!"

Father, about teenage son: "Freddie's at that awkward age — too old for a spanking and too young for analysis."

We overheard someone talking the other day: "I was giving a 'dancing' party for a few friends when my father came into the room. He stood gawping at the gyrating dancers for a few moments, then turned slowly to my mother and said, 'If this doesn't bring rain, nothing will.'"

In answer to the question — How does one know when he has reached the North Pole? — Gary Parkey said, "Oh, nothing easier. One step beyond the pole, you see, and the north wind becomes a south one!"

Teenager in shoe store to friend: "It's a difficult choice — I need a pair that will bring me to Roger's shoulder but not over Herbie's head."

Children grow up fast. Before you know it, the little girl in the frilly feminine dress is a teenager in blue jeans.

Linda Collins to Shirley Leonard: "Trouble is, he likes me just the way I am — single."

KITCHEN KORNER

BY LELA GALLION

My, the weather has been nice outside or at least they say it is. I've been spending the last few days in the hospital. I would like to take this opportunity to say I've made some wonderful friends here at the hospital. The doctors and nurses have all be so very thoughtful. I thought maybe some cool recipes would help make the day seem a little cooler.

CHICKEN SALAD

1 c. cooked chicken
1 apple
1/2 c. sweet pickles
1/4 c. mayonnaise
Salt, pepper, paprika to taste.
Chop chicken, pickles and apples together. Mix with mayonnaise. Serve on lettuce leaf.

COCONUT VELVET CREAM SALAD

1 pkg. orange jello dissolved in 1 c. hot pineapple juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Add 1 c. milk. Chill again. Fold in 3/4 c. whipped cream, add 3/4 c. angel flake coconut, and chill again.

PARTY PUNCH

2 boxes Jello
4 c. boiling water
1 1/2 c. sugar
2 c. cold water
18-oz. bottle lemon concentrate
1 46-oz. can pineapple juice
1 qt. gingerale
Dissolve Jello in boiling water. Then stir in sugar until dissolved; allow to cool slightly and add cold water, lemon concentrate and pineapple juice. Pour into punch bowl and add crushed ice and gingerale. Do not let stand in refrigerator as jello will begin to thicken, however it will thin again when you add the gingerale and ice just before serving. Serves 25. The jello in this punch makes it a real smooth drink.

Straw Downs Parsons 20-9

Parsons outit Straw Gin Tuesday night but wound up on bottom as the Gin team capitalized on bases on balls to take the win, 20-9.

In the first, the visiting Gin team tallied six runs while collecting one hit, a single by Tony George. Parsons' Willie Sheffield singled in the bottom of the first and scored on an error.

In the second, neither team could score although Jimmy Ferguson singled for Parsons. Once again the Gin team took advantage of Parsons' pitching, scoring four runs in the third, on no hits. Parsons made it 3-10 on a single by Sheffield and a double by Charles A. McClain and both runs scoring on an overthrow.

Parsons threatened in the fourth with walks and a double by Jason Latimer loading the bases with one out. Gin's Carroll Blackwell made an unassisted out on Sheffield and pitcher Robert Charles Davis struck out McClain to kill the attempted rally.

In the fifth, Gin collected six more runs on a single hit, Tony George's second single of the game. Parsons' Mack Lancaster and Joe Schultz singled with Lancaster scoring on a fielders choice to Ferguson. The Gin team continued to rub salt on Parsons' wounds in the sixth with four more tallies on one hit, a double by Barry Cowart. Parsons rallied for five in their half of the inning. Darryl Huguley and Sheffield walked with McClain loading the bases on a single. Lancaster drove in two with a double. McClain scored on a steal. RANGER INSURANCE

1966 CROP HAIL PROGRAM

ONLY through Ranger can you get the most competitive, well rounded crop hail program at the lowest rates in the state of Texas. In addition to rate reductions up to 15% on the standard forms, the following low cost features are available ONLY through the Ranger Insurance Exchange.

RANGER INTRODUCES TWO NEW POLICIES

The RANGER ECONOMY FORM has been developed by Ranger to reduce your insurance costs and still provide protection during the critical stages of growth when the plant is most susceptible to hail damage. This form will save you money because you pay for only the insurance you actually need.

The COTTON PROGRAM COMPANION COVERAGE policy has been designed by Ranger which truly is a companion to the 1966 cotton program. Coverage begins where the cotton program ends. By combining this coverage with the cotton program you will have complete protection at a very low cost. Cotton programs change year to year so your crop hail insurance needs change.

Your Ranger Agent will be happy to explain these NEW policies.

In addition to the two new policies Ranger continues to offer the following programs:

1. ★ RANGER STAR STEPLADDER ★ is again offered and is becoming very popular.
2. FULL COVERAGE POLICY—100% in force on June 1st.
3. STANDARD POLICY FORMS at rate reductions of up to 15%.
4. ADDITIONAL INSURANCE ENDORSEMENT at less than half of annual rate.
5. EXTENSION OF POLICY TERM A 30 or 45 day extension is available at great savings and can be purchased at the beginning of the season or anytime during the season.
6. X520P Increasing payment provision under full coverage policy on cotton.

RANGER INSURANCE EXCHANGE IS NON-ASSESSABLE AND IS REINSURED 100% BY THE EXPORT INSURANCE COMPANY, A CAPITAL STOCK COMPANY. BOTH COMPANIES HAVE AN A+AA RATING PUBLISHED BY BEST'S FIRE & CASUALTY INSURANCE REPORT.
