Police Kill Thugs In Kidnap Attempt

By BOB THOMAS

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Pistols raised, two men crashed into the home of Leonard K. Firestone Thursday night in an apparent attempt to kidnap the wealthy industrialist. Staked-out police killed both with shotgun blasts.

Cal Bailey, 40, was killed instantly as he attempted to rush into the living room of the palatial home. George Scalla, 28, fell wounded on the threshhold and died three hours later in the prison ward of General Hospital. They held three guns, but never got a chance to fire a shot.

Police said the men may have planned to ask $2 million in ransom.

The deaths ended three weeks of police undercover work, during which the proposed kidnaping was tipped by an undisclosed source. Firestone, 58, was warned to leave the city.

Compliments Police

"This has been a very distressing and upsetting thing to have gone through," said the president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. of Calif. at the home of a friend in San Francisco Thursday night. He complimented the police for a "thorough, intelligent, masterful job."

Capt. John E. Hankins, chief of Beverly Hills detectives, told this sequence of events:

First hint of the kidnap came three weeks ago in connection with a burglary that took place in the jurisdiction of the Los Angeles police. Ten days ago, the tipster disclosed that the intended victim was Firestone, the handsome son of rubber empire founder Harvey S. Firestone.

"I was very much disturbed and concerned," said the industrialist. "I just made up my mind that I would try to work with the police as best I could."

Police Move In

Trusty Decides To Visit Family

ODESSA (UPI) — Jose Sandoval, a 21-year-old trusty serving time in the Ector County jail for a traffic violation, left his mop and went home the other day.

Three hours later he returned with the explanation that "I just wanted to visit my wife and family."

Changes In Paper Due

AUSTIN (AP) — University of Texas regents approved today recommendations made by a special committee of editors concerning student publications at the university.

W. W. Heath, chairman, said the university administration was directed to make recommendations to the board at a subsequent meeting which would put into effect the recommended changes.

Salary Hike Urged

The recommendations, made after a study of university student publications by 12 prominent Texas editors, included suggestions that a professional newspaper editor be hired as editorial manager of the Daily Texan, the student newspaper, and that salaries of Texan editors and sub-editors be upgraded.

Much of the report concerned the relationship of regents to the Texan and the board's responsibility for views expressed in the Texan.

"The committee is aware that the board of regents is from time to time subjected to criticism because of actions and opinions of university students and faculty members," the committee of editors said.

Role Is Difficult

"Criticism of this sort seems to the committee uninformed and lacking in appreciation of the difficult role of the board of regents in supervising the operations of a large university in

Dallas Woman Shoots Prowler

DALLAS (AP) —A woman told police she shot five times after a prowler opened her window Thursday night and officers found a man mortally wounded in a car one block down the street.

Detectives identified the man as Gilberto Ramirez, 22. He died less than two hours later.

Mrs. Iva Grindele gave police these details:

She heard a window screen being removed. A man raised the window. She threatened to fire, the intruder wheeled and ran, and Mrs. Grindele fired five shots. He staggered to a parked car and sped away.

In the next block, however, the car struck a parked automobile. Patrolmen found Ramirez slumped in the wheel. Two bullets had hit him.

PAROLE ASKED

Church Aids Convicted Holdup Man

The congregation of the First Church of Christ (Congregational) believes Samuel G. Donnell, 37, Lynn father of three, is innocent.

Donnell himself has tried for 2½ years to prove that he was a victim of mistaken identity — that he did not commit a $200 robbery for which he was given an 8-to-12 year prison term.

War Veteran

Donnell, an ex-Marine who was decorated for bravery during the Korean War, has filed a petition for commutation of sentence with Gov. John A. Volpe.

The state parole board, which advises the governor on such matters, will hold a hearing on the petition Jan. 28 at Norfolk prison colony where Donnell is confined.

The 125 families of the church have pitched in a total of $3,000 to finance Donnell's legal battle to clear his name and reputation. Church members, fellow deacons and the boys he coached on the church's basketball team also have appealed in letters to Volpe for Donnell's freedom.

Man Stabbed

It was on June 28, 1963, that a gunman robbed the Household Finance Co. office in nearby Saugus and beat and stabbed the manager.

On Aug. 12, Donnell was arrested. During his trial, he was identified as the holdupman by the manager and three witnesses.

However, three other persons testified that Donnell was at their home in Somerville, several miles away, at the time of the holdup. They said Donnell, a gas company employe, was working at their home.

GOP Calls For Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) House Republicans today charged "scandalous misuse of funds" in the Johnson administration's War on Poverty and demanded a congressional investigation.

Rep. William H. Ayres, Ohio, ranking GOP member of the House Labor Committee, was joined by other Republicans on the panel in his call for an inquiry.

The Republican lawmakers did not produce any detailed evidence to back up their allegations. They said they relied on widespread news reports of misuse of antipoverty funds.

Not Many Helped

"We can't find many poor people who have been helped," Ayres told a news conference.

The administration's antipoverty office, reacting to the GOP charges, defended the agency and said it had moved fast to correct any abuses in handling of funds.

"From the very beginning we established stringent auditing, accounting and inspection procedures, anticipating there would be more administrative problems than would be the case when dealing with established organizations," a spokesman said.

"We have been pleasantly sur-

NO HELP WANTED

Pennsylvania Mayor Takes On Government--And Wins

Last October, Tompkins ordered an Army recruiter's automobile impounded for consistent illegal parking. He said the government could regain the car if it would pay the parking, towing and storage charges—totaling about $100.

Tompkins said a legal fight was allright with him.

Thursday, a local tavern owner, Joseph Crowe, said the fight was giving the city "a bad name" and offered to pay the charges.

Tompkins told Crowe to

Way Sought To Reduce Costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission may scrap its plan to build a $348-million atom smasher.

A source outside the commission said Thursday that three alternative proposals are under consideration.

He said each would be cheaper, and each would be for a machine of lesser intensity than the proposed 200-billion electron volt (BEV) accelerator which would be used for basic research.

Scramble For Project

Some 85 communities in 43 states have been scrambling to win the $348-billion project for their area.

Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., a member of the Joint Senate-House Atomic Committee, was told of the report and said: "To me, it looks like possibly the beginning of the end for the 200-BEV, $348-million machine. When you start talking about alternatives it adds up to that."

The source said the AEC has scheduled a late January meeting to get the views of some of the nation's leading high-energy physicists.

Alternatives Listed

He described the alternatives as:

—A suggestion by Prof. S. Devons, chairman of Columbia University's department of physics, that the AEC's existing 33-billion electron volt atom smashers at Brookhaven National Laboratory, Long Island, N.Y., be scaled up to the 120-150 BEV range. This could cost about $150 million.

—A suggestion from the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory of the University of California that the existing 200-BEV plan be scaled down to a lower intensity. This would cost about $260 million.

—A suggestion by Prof. R. R. Wilson of Dornell that a $150-million machine of lower intensity be built with provisions to increase its intensity over a period of years.

Selection of either of the latter two proposals still would require the AEC to choose a site.

Miracle Saves Falling Infant

By a miracle, an unemployed glazier, who happened to be at the scene only because he made a wrong turn while driving home, spotted one-year-old Sandra Monzon and caught her before she hit the pavement.

James Oliver, 26 of the Bronz, said he was driving home with his wife when he inadvertently turned into West 122nd Street. Noticing smoke coming from a building he jammed on his brakes, and jumped out of the car to see what he could do to help.

Oliver heard a woman scream and looking up saw the child plummeting toward him. He thrust out his arms almost instinctively and caught the infant.

24-YEAR SEARCH REACHES CLIMAX IN LUBBOCK

LONG SEARCH PAYS OFF

Family Will Be Reunited Here Saturday After 24 Years Of Waiting, Hoping

By GAYLE NOLL
Avalanche-Journal Staff

TWENTY-FOUR YEARS of waiting and wondering if he had a family are over for Glenn Boyett.

The 27-year-old San Bernardino, Calif., man will be reunited in Lubbock Saturday with six brothers and sisters he wasn't sure existed until last summer.

After years of searching for her brother, who was adopted from Milam's Orphans' Home in Lubbock when he was 3, Mrs. Neal Burroughs, 4515 40th St., found Boyett in August 1965 in California after what she calls a "chain of miracles."

The story began to unfold in 1938 when the effects of the depression still held a grip on the country.

LIVED ON FARM NEAR LITTLEFIELD

The John Beckham family lived on a farm near Littlefield, where the father worked as a farm laborer. That year Mrs. Beckham died after giving birth to Glenn, her seventh child.

Joyce Beckham (now Mrs. Burroughs) was 5 when her mother died. The other children ranged in age from 3 to 16.

After their mother died, the seven children went to live with relatives for a year, then returned to Littlefield.

The three older children, Kenneth Doyle Beckham (now of Eureka, Calif.), Vonda Lee (now Mrs. Gus Jones of Brownwood) and Jeraldine (now Mrs. J. B. Springer of Tulsa, Okla.) left home to "rough it" for themselves.

THE OTHER SISTER, Martha Alice, who was about 10 at the time, went to live with a Littlefield woman who moved to Denver, Colo., shortly after the child went to live with her.

The three younger children, Joyce (Mrs. Burroughs), Glenn and John remained with their father.

But soon after that, the father had to leave, and Mrs. Burroughs, who was only 6 years old then, says she was left to care for her two younger brothers.

"We always had been very, very poor, but after my father left, we were destitute. We lived by ourselves in a little shack in Littlefield," Mrs. Burroughs recalls. "We lived on W.P.A. (Work Progress Administration) rations. I remember making flapjacks out of flour and water."

CHILDREN LIVED ON INSTINCT

"I don't know why I knew even how to put flour and water together, except that, even though I was only 6, I knew there was little between us children and death, so we lived on instinct.

"We used to go around town and pick up metal and old scrap iron and sell it at the junkyard for a few pennies to buy food.

"This went on for a couple of years, then when I was 8, I was caught taking hamburger meat at a supermarket and the welfare agency moved in and took us to Milam's home in Lubbock."

WHEN THE CHILDREN arrived at the home, Mrs. Burroughs recalls that she had tuberculosis and all three were suffering from malnutrition. Although she was 8 years old at the

For Sale: One High School

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI)— A classified advertisement Thursday offered the following description of a large estate for sale: "Fifty acres, 10 bedrooms, five baths, servant quarters, 2 kitchens, large parking facilities, large indoor recreational area, with indoor heated swimming pool, lighted tennis courts and a baseball diamond."

The ad told interested buyers to telephone Leroy Amen.

Mr. Amen is principal of Linderberch High School which fits in most particulars, the "large estate" offered for sale. Amen said he had no plans to sell the high school and blamed a prankster for the ad.

Snow, Rain Pelt East

(By The Associated Press)

Snow, rain and sleet fell across scattered sections of the nation today but no severe storms were reported.

The storm in the Midwest which dumped more than a foot of snow in parts of Wisconsin and northern Illinois, weakened as it moved into the Northeast. However, fairly heavy amounts were reported in some areas, including three inches at Buffalo and Syracuse, N.Y.

A mixture of snow, sleet and freezing rain hit areas in high elevations of the Appalachians of Pennsylvania and the Virginias. Rain extended southward to the Middle and Western Gulf Coasts.

More Rain

More rain splashed across areas from Northern California into western Washington. Snow flurries fell in the northern Rockies and light snow dampened sections from parts of Minnesota to the Upper Great Lakes. Skies were clear from the far Southwest to the central Plains.

The severe storm which lashed Wisconsin Wednesday and Thursday was blamed for the deaths of 11 persons. Ten of the victims died of heart attacks while shoveling snow and one man died of a heart attack while brushing snow off his car.

A fresh surge of arctic air spread into the northern Plains and northern Midwest areas and dropped temperatures far below zero in parts of Minnesota and North Dakota and to near zero in northern Michigan. The mercury dipped to 34 below zero at International Falls, Minn., and to -17 at Grand Forks, N.D.

Drops Into Teens

Temperatures dropped into the teens as far south as the South Plains of Texas. Panhandle and South Plains readings included 16 at Childress and Dalhart, 18 at Perryton, Hereford, Silverton and Locketville Gin at Ropesville, and 19 at Plainview. Amarillo and Lubbock had 21 degrees.

Two Air Crewmen Are Shot

Pilots' Bodies Are Mutilated

SAIGON (UPI)—The Viet Cong today executed the pilot and co-pilot of a privately operated U. S. transport plane after shooting it down, and led a third crew member away with a rope around his neck, a company spokesman said.

The guerrillas donned the flying suits of the men they had killed and tried to lure a U. S. Army rescue helicopter into a trap. However, the helicopter escaped when the Communists opened up with automatic weapons fire and hurled grenades, the spokesman said.

The plane was shot down near the Mekong Delta town of Vi Thanh, 100 miles southwest of Saigon, while on a freight-hauling mission for Air America, a civilian-operated charter line under contract to the U. S. Operations Mission (USOM).

Pilot Wounded

An Air American spokesman said the pilot radioed he was wounded in the shoulder, leg and arm while flying at about 1,200 feet and crashed into a small canal. The co-pilot radioed to another C45 freight plane and it called for a U. S. rescue helicopter. The co-pilot was wounded by groundfire during the crash landing.

A U. S. Army helicopter landed at the scene an hour or two after the first attempt was driven off and recovered the bodies of the pilot and co-pilot. Both had been shot in the face and their bodies mutilated, crewmen reported.

One Led Away

Villagers living nearby said the third crewman, an air freight specialist, had been led away with a rope around his neck and his hands tied behind him.

4 Children Die In Fire

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (UPI) — Four children of the Norman Mayer family were killed today when a fire of undetermined origin swept their two-story frame home here. Another child was reported missing.

Police said the mother, Elsie Mayer, was awakened by flames about 6:45 a.m. and rushed from the house screaming. Her screams awoke neighbors who came to her assistance and turned in a fire alarm.

When Mrs. Mayer attempted to re-enter the gray shingled home she found that she had locked herself out, police said. She became hysterical and had to be restrained by neighbors.

The father had worked the overnight shift at the Babcock & Wilcox Co. in Beaver Falls, and was not at home when the fire broke out.

The children were identified as Norman Jr., 8; Debora, 6; Davie, 5; and Judy, 4. The missing child was 15-month-old Timothy.

Angry Housewife Pursues Bank Robber Around Shopping Center

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—"There I was," said Mrs. Helen Leonard breathlessly, "chasing a man who I thought stole my purchases and all the while he was a bank robber."

Mrs. Leonard, wife of a heart specialist, reflected for a moment.

"On second thought, he did steal something from me. One banana."

Joseph Fitzpatrick, 28, of Mars, Pa., was charged with bank robbery shortly after a branch of the Mellon National Bank in the North Hills village shopping center in suburban Ross Twp. was robbed of $2,310 Thursday.

The suspect fled the shopping center in an automobile which he had stolen from another nearby shopping center where Mrs. Leonard had parked it. He drove it to the other shopping center, the Northway Mall, where he intended to get into his own car and flee.

But Mrs. Leonard—who hadn not known her auto had been stolen—came out of a store at the precise moment the robber was returning the car. She screamed:

"Hey, get out of my car."

Fitzpatrick got out of the car and fled through the shopping center with Mrs. Leonard in pursuit.

"I ran after him, shouting to give me my package he was carrying. How was I to know—until later—that it

TO RESTORE EXCISE CUTS ON CARS, PHONE BILLS

LBJ Detects 'Minimum Of Opposition' To Tax Plans

By EDMOND LE BRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson says he detects "a minimum of opposition" to his proposal to restore excise tax cuts on cars and phone bills.

"I think most of the legislators would prefer receiving revenues in this form than revenues in new taxes on corporations and individuals," Johnson told a news conference at the White House Thursday.

Amid a burst of criticism from congressmen over his tax proposals announced in Wednesday night's State of the Union message, Johnson said he had sounded out sentiment in advance and "I did not detect overwhelming resistance to it."

He said he believed that "most of the people are patriotic" and would be willing to give up reductions in the taxes, which took effect Jan. 1, to finance additional military costs stemming from the Viet Nam war.

Other Major Topics

— He will appoint Robert C. Weaver as secretary of the new Department of Housing and Urban Development and Robert C. Wood as undersecretary. Weaver would be the first Negro member of the Cabinet.

— "The number of incidents" in Viet Nam has "dropped off some." But he added: "I don't say there is any connection with that and our peace moves." U.S. envoys will continue to visit foreign capitals in the search for peace, he said.

— He is "disturbed" that the New York City transit strike lasted so long and "I am equally concerned by the cost of the settlement," which "violates our national guideposts for noninflationary wage increases."

— Reaction to the State of the Union message was "very good" and "I was very pleased with it."

— He has no foreign travel plans now.

Collection Speed-Up

Besides rescinding the two excise tax reductions, the administration's tax package includes a speed-up in corporate tax collections and a graduated withholding plan under which taxpayers in higher brackets would pay more as they go along and less at the end of the year.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler formally submitted the tax package to Congress Thursday night and estimated additional revenues from it at $4.8 billion in the fiscal year which starts July 1. Hearings on it will begin next week before the House Ways and Means Committee with Fowler as the first witness.

On Capitol Hill, economists often consulted in congressional studies of the national economy said Johnson's tax medicine looked like aspirin compared with the stiff dose poured in the first year of the Korean War.

The economists, who insisted on speaking without being quoted by name, said the proposals are not likely either to slow substantially the growth of the economy or to halt the decline in unemployment.

The Real Debate

One put it this way: "When the real debate begins before the congressional committees the argument is likely to be, not whether these tax raises are necessary, but whether they are enough to insure against inflation."

He recalled that three major tax-increasing measures enacted by Congress in 12 months beginning in 1950 raised annual revenues by an estimated $15 billion. He said a tax program of comparable impact today, because of higher prices and the growth of the economy, would have to call for additional levies of some $30 billion.

Neither the proposed speed-up in corporate taxes or the graduated withholding of personal income taxes would involve payment of more taxes, although they would increase government income by $3.2 billion and $400 million respectively in the next fiscal year only.

Restoration of 1 per cent of the automobile tax and 7 per cent of the phone tax would bring in about $1.2 billion each year it stays in effect.

Woman Gives Up On Husband Who Left Her 28 Years Ago

CHICAGO (AP)—Julia Michuda, 60, has given up hope that her husband would come back. She got a divorce. Her husband, Stephen, 63, a retired bridge engineer of Chicago, lives in Las Vegas, Nev.

"Why did you wait so long to sue?" asked Circuit Judge Robert L. Massey.

"I had always hoped he would return, but after 28 years I guess he won't," Mrs. Michuda said. They married June 6, 1926, and he left March 1, 1937.

WHO'S VILLAIN, HERO?

Winner In Transit Strike Is Debated, But It's Easy To Spot Loser—The People

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Who won?

That will be the big question when history gets around to writing the final script of New York City's big 12-day transportion strike of 1966.

It is like a play by Edward Albee or a Perry Mason television show plot—full of drama but hard to figure out just what it is all about.

And if Hollywood ever tries to turn it into a major film, there'll be considerable difficulty deciding which characters to make heroes and which to make antiheroes or downright villains.

Victims Are Easy

There will be no problem, however, about who were the innocent victims. They were the millions of people in the metropolitan area who had to come to work by improvised means.

They arranged car pools, they hitchhiked, they rode on unicycles, bicycles, even skateboards. And they walked. Even Mayor John V. Lindsay himself hoofed it from his hotel suite to City Hall.

The other favorite wisecrack was this:

There are those who see Mayor Lindsay as a clean-cut St. George fighting the good fight to save the metropolis from a fire-breathing dragon—Quill, leader of the striking bus and subway workers.

The trouble is that the dragon wound up with all the best lines. Few who saw the scene will forget Quill, on the verge of going to jail, utter in a quivering bronchitic brogue:

"May the judge drop dead in his black robes."

Role Pondered

What role should be assigned to the young mayor? Was he another Horatius at the bridge, hero of the hour? Was he an irresolute Hamlet who asked himself too long, "To call out the National Guard or not to call out the National Guard—that is the question." Or did he, like Gen. Custer at the Battle of the Little Big Horn, err through overconfidence because he hadn't seen so many Indians at one time?

Time will tell.

There is no doubt whatever who lost the people as usual. They paid for the whole inconvenient show, and look forward to an eventual rise in the cost of going to and from their jobs. The 15-cent ride seems surely doomed.

If Hollywood should ever make a film of this civic imbroglio, only one writer would appear capable of doing it ironic justice: the ghost of Lewis Carroll.

He wrote "Alice in Wonderland."

New Multi-Fuel Engine Unveiled At Detroit Show

DETROIT (AP)—A multi-fuel engine—one that would run equally well on gasoline, kerosene or diesel oil—was unveiled Thursday by two researchers from the Southwest Research Institute at San Antonio, Tex.

The men, John M. Clark Jr., director of the institute's department of automotive research, and Juliu E. Witzky, senior research engineer, presented their findings in a paper at the Society of Automotive Engineering Congress and Exposition at Detroit.

Economy Cited

They said the engine's multi-fuel capability has been demonstrated by switching from fuel to fuel without a change of engine operating parameters. The engine has demonstrated fuel economy about 60 per cent better than equivalent carbureted engine at highway speeds.

The use of diesel oil or kerosene, presently less expensive than gasoline, would further reduce the net cost of operation.

Witzky, a German born scientist, who designed the engines that powered the Graf Zeppelin dirigible, has spent 10 years in developing the engine. He holds the patents on the system with Southwest Research Institute.

No Decision Reached On Estes Trial

TYLER (AP)—Billie Sol Estes, the former West Texas promoter who is serving a prison term for mail fraud, may be tried here again on swindling charges but the time remains indefinite.

The judge and prosecutor who will have most to say about the next step both new to their offices since the Estes conviction—said Thursday no firm decisions have been reached.

Estes' case was transferred across the state from Pecos, his home, and the onetime tycoon of farm finance was convicted by a Tyler jury in 1962. He drew an eight-year sentence for swindling a farmer he induced to sign a fertilizer tank mortgage.

Case Returned

Subsequently, however, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled 5-4 that partial television coverage of the proceedings kept Estes from receiving a fair trial. It returned the case to the Texas Supreme Court, which in turn sent the case back here a month ago.

In the meantime Estes was convicted on the mail fraud charges in a trial at El Paso. He was sent to the Leavenworth, Kan., federal prison under a 15-year sentence.

Further prosecution in the swindling case is up to Dist. Atty. A. R. Archer Jr. of Monahans, whose district includes Pecos.

Archer said he expects to talk things over with Dist. Judge R. P. Power, who now occupies the state court bench here, in the next few weeks.

To Pursue Case

"I fully intend to pursue the case against Estes, not because I have any personal vendetta against him—I don't know him personally— but because the case is a matter that must be pursued."

Archer said he has been busy trying cases in his three-county district since Jan. 3 and the calling of a special venire for a double murder case also took up his time.

"As soon as I am free of these matters I will contact Judge Power about the Estes case," he said.

Power said he could set a new trial date if Archer so requests or he could transfer the case to another court on his own motion. The judge did not indicate which course he might follow.

Stafford Feels His Chance For Lunar Trip Good

WEATHERFORD, Okla. (AP)—Astronaut Thomas P. Stafford predicted Thursday that he might be a member of the first lunar landing crew.

Stafford made the prediction at a homecoming ceremony at Clinton Sherman Air Force Base. When asked what his chances were for being a member of the lunar team, he said they were "fairly good, if I stay in good health."

Family Attends

Stafford was accompanied by his wife, Faye, and his two daughters, Karin, 8, and Dionne, 11.

The astronaut and his family attended a parade and banquet Thursday. His mother, Mrs. Mary E. Stafford of Weatherford, was unable to attend the welcoming ceremonies. She is under a doctor's care.

Stafford and his family will visit relatives in the Weatherford area and return to Houston Sunday.

WHAT SHOULD YOU SPEND ON A FUNERAL?

Why not a Corvair? A Falcon? A Valiant? Or perhaps a Volkswagen?

They will all take you over the same highways to the same place. But — you buy what you want to buy, at the price you want to pay.

What's different about a funeral?

There has been much stir of late, about the cost of the American funeral being too high. Resthaven agrees: many funerals are too high.

WHY?

But — in almost every discussion of this tender subject, it boils down to high cost of many funerals arranged at time of need, at a time the bereaved family is torn with grief.

And for 18 years, Resthaven has been preaching the gospel of common sense: Don't wait for that time—make these arrangements NOW.

This is a basic reason why Resthaven Funeral Home was born. Funeral Home, cemetery, mausoleum,—all at one place, all under one responsible management, all operated by one efficient staff, why wouldn't you save money, where "everything is in one place".

THE COMMON SENSE WAY

But—Resthaven's "pre-need" plan is revolutionary. It is available to anyone—any age or condition of health.

It is available for as little as $1.25 per week. Money paid in can be used for a funeral for any member of the family (unlike burial insurance). You pay only what you contract for, then pay no more, ever (unlike burial insurance). And—in Lubbock, this plan, including funeral and cemetery arrangements all at one place, is available only at Resthaven.

But—the only time this plan can be available to you, is NOW. And — why wait until the moment of sadness comes? Why not now?

A TIME TO BE FRANK

The entire subject covered in this message and others in this series, Resthaven realizes, is a sensitive one. We humbly apologize if these, or any of those carried via TV, cause anyone unhappiness. But we consider the truths in these messages of such vital importance to the people of Lubbock, that they must be told.

LBJ LASHES AGREEMENT, LINDSAY CITES PUBLIC INTEREST

Inflationary Aspects Of Transit Pact Being Debated

By JERRY BUCK

NEW YORK (AP) — The wage package that got New York's transit system back on the track is described by President Johnson as inflationary, but Mayor John V. Lindsay says settlement of the strike was in the public interest.

Johnson criticized the settlement as exceeding the voluntary national wage-price guidelines recommended by government economic advisers to prevent an inflationary spiral.

"I do not believe that any settlement that violates the guideposts to this extent is in the national interest," he said at a news conference Thursday in Washington.

Different Ideas

Mayor Lindsay—the man who had been in the middle during the 12-day bus and subway strike that ended Thursday—saw things differently, however.

"I suppose people will argue and debate as to whether the settlement was too high or too low," Lindsay said even before Johnson spoke. "The agreement was best for the workers, the Transit Authority, the city and the country."

He said it "obviously serves the public interest."

Then, in response to Johnson's denunciation of the contract terms, Lindsay issued this statement:

"The chairman of the mediation panel, Dr. Nathan Feinsinger, prepared a memorandum at the time the panel recommended the settlement to the parties. The memorandum stated the settlement was within the guideposts.

Had No Choice

"Under all the circumstances, the mediation panel having arrived at a firm recommendation, and the chairman having state that it was within the guideposts, the Transit Authority had no choice but to accept."

Even as the argument raged over the merits of the settlement, the nation's largest city returned to normal after the painful and costly tieup. The full toll may never be assessed, but it is estimated at $500 to $800 million.

With the settlement agreed upon, the Transit Authority went into court and asked for the release from custody of Michael J. Quill, president of the AFL-CIO Transport Workers Union, and eight other union leaders who had been jailed.

They were arrested Jan. 4 for defying a Supreme Court injunction prohibiting the strike. Shortly after his arrest Quill collapsed and was admitted to Bellevue Hospital.

The eight men were released from the civil jail Thursday and Quill was released from the hospital Thursday night.

Buses Roll

Within minutes after the TA and the striking TWU and Amalgamated Transit Union, AFL-CIO, accepted proposals by a three-man mediation panel Thursday, the first buses were rolling.

The first subway trains roared through the tunnels soon afterward, and by noon near normal service had been restored.

Cost of the settlement is estimated at between $52 and $70 million over two years.

Johnson told the news conference that Gardner Ackley, chairman of his Council of Economic Advisers, said the settlement exceeded the 3.2 per cent guideline on wages and prices.

Government sources estimated the cost of the transit settlement at 4.5 to 4.6 per cent a year.

No Controls

Observance of the guideposts is voluntary and "we have no controls," Johnson said.

"Most of the labor organizations and most of the business organizations of the country have been willing to consider the guideposts and to take them into account in connection with their agreements,....and I am always sorry when there are exceptions that may contribute to inflation," he said.

Dr. Feinsinger defended the settlement as being within the government's recommendations.

"All of the money items involved in the proposed settlement of the present dispute are clearly within the confines of the guidelines," he said.

Feinsinger said the guideposts were flexible and permitted the correction of salary inequities within an organization. Such inequities exist within the city, he said, because a mechanic for the city receives $4.56 an hour while an employe doing similar work for the Transit Authority gets only $3.46 an hour.

Dr. Donald F. Shaughnessy, one of Lindsay's labor advisers, said the settlement represented an increase in labor costs of 5.5 per cent.

Cites Other Pacts

"The settlement is not so dramatically out of line," he said when compared to other agreements negotiated in the city and nation.

Shaughnessy said the Transit Authority did "everything possible" to reach a settlement within the guidelines, including suffering "a 12-day strike in trying to do so."

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Lindsay "did everything in his power to see that the strike was settled within the guidelines."

Rockefeller said he would ask the State Legislature to give the city $100 million to help maintain the 15-cent transit fare until a possible merger of the Transit Authority and the Triborough Bridge Authority.

The merger is viewed as a means of consolidating the city's transportation agencies and as a way to infuse needed revenue into the Transit Authority.

One member of the authority, John J. Gilhooley, said the mediators' proposals for settlement "troubled me enormously" and that this caused a long delay in his acceptance of them.

He said: "Obviously, despite Mr. Feinsinger's assurance, I was aware that the guidelines would be fractured. But my deepest concern was with the misery that the strike was causing to 8 million New Yorkers.

"I finally struck the balance in favor of alleviating the people's agony. Frankly, with all due respect to the President of the United States, I would do as much again."

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A woman janitor at American International College puts down her dust cloth long enough each week for a sideline — she teaches French.

Students got to know Irene Nichols between classes, learned she was born in France and had the equivalent of a high school education. At their urging, she volunteered to conduct a twice-weekly informal course in conversational French.

ECONOMIC EXPERTS PUT FAITH IN CONTINUED BOOM

Revenue Forecast Draws Cries Of Skepticism

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's forecast of a record $111-billion federal revenue total next year drew cries of skepticism in Congress but economic experts said it was easily attainable.

They said the figure may well turn out to be conservative if the boom continues unabated through 1966 and into 1967 as now predicted.

The Treasury has been consistently underestimating tax yields throughout the almost five years of unprecedented economic expansion, the experts pointed out.

Johnson revealed the $111-billion estimate in his State of the Union message, forecast spending of $112.8 billion for fiscal 1967 and said the resulting $1.8 billion deficit would be the lowest in years.

Brightest Picture

If the estimates turn out to be accurate, they would mean the brightest U.S. fiscal picture since 1960, when there was a $1.2-billion surplus. That is the last time the government's accounts have been in the black.

Republicans jumped on Johnson's figures with both feet, particularly the revenue prediction. They said it was unrealistic, unbelievable, obviously padded.

The immediate reaction of some Democrats in Congress was to voice hope that the estimates would turn out to be correct, but to say privately they had serious doubts.

However, Democrats at the Capitol took a much more optimistic view after an analysis of the figures by top staff men on the Senate-House Economic Committee and other fiscal experts.

Could Be Higher

They advised that the $111 billion could be reached with a smaller revenue gain than has been achieved at other times in the last decade when the economy was operating from a much lower base.

The analysis they offered goes like this:

But last November the Budget Bureau announced that this had been jumped to at least $96.5 billion because of the continuing economic boom, with strong indications that it would be considerably higher. There was a feeling among many economists it might even reach $100 billion.

Assuming that the revenues for the current year total $99 billion, a $12-billion gain would be needed to attain Johnson's fiscal 1967 prediction.

Three Changes Sought

But he is asking Congress for three tax law changes which would produce $4.8 billion of this.

That would mean only $7.2 billion would have to come from economic growth.

Revenue figures for the past 10 years show two occasions, in 1956 and 1960, when there was a jump of more than $7.2 billion. Both times the economy was running at high speed.

Johnson's three-point tax package calls for restoring excise tax cuts which were lifted Jan. 1 on cars and phone bills, a speed-up of corporation tax payments and a graduated withholding system on the individual income tax to bring in some money faster.

The economic experts at the Capitol, while defending the $111-billion revenue estimate, say that the $112.8-billion spending figure may well turn out to be too low.

There are so many imponderables in the war situation and in the administration's many domestic programs that the spending picture cannot become clear for many months, they say.

MORE FEARED BURIED IN MUD

By CLAUDE E. ERBSEN

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — The death toll in the Rio de Janeiro disaster climbed to 355 today and many more bodies were believed buried in the mud and debris left in the wake of the worst rains in the city's 400-year history.

A total of 185 deaths were confirmed in the city and another 170 in Rio de Janeiro state, including 100 in the mountain resort of Petropolis, 26 miles north of the city.

Many more were feared dead in isolated areas.

Work Around Clock

"Most were suffocated in landslides," said Dr. Ivan Ferreira. "Many had broken spines and legs."

"The children were the hardest hit. The little ones drowned in as little as a few centimeters of water. Others were unable to withstand even minor slides and were dragged away."

Most of the dead came from the Favela shantytowns on Rio's hillsides. They were brought in by the truckload. Hampered by frequent power failures, doctors performed autopsies on each body.

Many families did not have the money to buy coffins or pay for burial. Radio and television stations broadcast frequent appeals to undertakers for donations of coffins and asked cemetery officials to waive burial fees for the poor.

Authorities estimated at least 4,000 were homeless in the city and another 10,000 in the state.

An undetermined number of persons was killed Thursday when a huge mud slide roared off a hillside in Rio, buried two houses, two trucks and four floors of a seven-story apartment house.

Eight bodies were recovered, but many more were believed buried.

Nearly 50 U.S. Peace Corps volunteers were helping in rescue work. Warren Fuller, Peace Corps director in Brazil, said all of the volunteers were safe and in good health.

The U.S. Embassy said more than 60 tons of foodstuffs were distributed.

'Miss Lubbock' Pageant Entries Being Accepted

Entries are now being accepted by the Junior Chamber of Commerce for the 1966 Miss Lubbock Pageant, announced George Sell and Sam Crow, pageant co-chairmen, Thursday.

The annual event is scheduled for the week of Feb. 14-19 at Lubbock Municipal Auditorium. The theme for this year's pageant will be "L'il Abner."

The pageant, sponsored by the Lubbock Jaycees, is official preliminary competition for the Miss Texas Pageant and the Miss America contest. "Miss Lubbock" will automatically be entered in the Miss Texas competition, scheduled for this summer.

Winner Gets Prizes

The winner of the Miss Lubbock contest also will receive a scholarship, a wardrobe and other prizes.

Anyone wishing to enter the Lubbock pageant should contact Ken Weaver at PO 2-4550 for information.

Other Jaycees in charge of planning the pageant are Jim Whitworth, Jaycee director; Bill Norris, production chairman; Bill Dobbs, program chairman; Reuben Lambert, awards chairman; Jerry Fletcher, attendance chairman, and Kent Apple, publicity chairman.

Two Texans Die In Plane Crash

MIRANDO CITY, Tex. (AP) — Two persons were killed Thursday night when their small plane crashed eight miles south of this Southwest Texas town, which is 35 miles east of Laredo.

The victims, both believed to be from El Paso, were Hazel Willoughby and John Uranga.

Identification was made by the Webb County sheriff's department. Officers said both bodies were badly burned.

Justice of the Peace Juan Salinas said the plane circled Mirando City three times before it crashed. There was a heavy overcast and light rain was falling.

Sheriff's officers said the plane took off from McAllen in the afternoon en route to Laredo.

Hit-Run Victim Dies; Driver Being Sought

HARLINGEN (AP) — Apolinio Centeno, 20, of Harlingen died today at a hospital four hours after being struck by a car while he and two friends were pushing their stalled vehicle.

Chamber Opposes 3 LBJ Proposals

EL PASO (AP) — About 300 delegates at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce midwinter convention gave support Thursday to President Johnson's stand in Viet Nam but opposed three Great Society programs.

Dr. Joe Nelson of Weatherford, chairman of the national affairs committee, said these programs met disfavor:

—Revision of unemployment compensation which would establish a regular year - around wage scale whether an employe works or not.

NOMINATED BY JOHNSON FOR CABINET POST

Senate Okay Of Weaver Foreseen

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert C. Weaver appears likely to have an easier task winning Senate approval as the first Negro member of the Cabinet than he did in 1961 as housing administrator.

President Johnson announced Thursday he would nominate Weaver as Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. Weaver, 58, has been acting head of the new department since its formal creation in November. As administrator of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, he has directed the agencies now under the new Cabinet department.

Johnson said he would name Robert C. Wood, 42, chairman of the political science department at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as undersecretary of the new department. Wood headed a task force that advised Johnson on its organization and functions.

Proud Of Team

"I am very proud of this team," Johnson said.

The nominations were scheduled to go to the Senate today.

The new department — the 11th in the Cabinet — has under its wing the Federal Housing Administration, the Public Housing Administration, the Urban Renewal Administration and the Community Facilities Administration.

Johnson said no decision has been made on a reported proposal by Wood's task force to move the community action part of the administration's antipoverty program from the Office of Economic Opportunity to the new department.

Senators, including some Southerners, generally expressed approval of Weaver's appointment. And two Negro leaders promptly applauded Johnson's announcement.

"Congratulations and deep thanks for your history-making appointment," wired Roy Wilkins, executive director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Serves As Model

Whitney Young Jr., executive director of the National Urban League, said of the appointment: "It will become a model to inspire and motivate the Negro youth in today's society."

Early Senate approval of the two nominees seemed likely. Sen. A. Willis Robertson, D-Va., said the Senate Banking Committee which he heads will hold confirmation hearings Monday. He described Weaver as an able man. He said "I don't anticipate any trouble."

Robertson was one of the four senators voting against Weaver in the committee in 1961. The full Senate confirmed Weaver by voice vote.

When nominated to head the housing agency, Weaver ran into more opposition than any other nominee of President John F. Kennedy. And when Kennedy proposed creation of an urban affairs department and indicated Weaver would head it, there was strong Southern opposition and the move was defeated.

Changes Mind

Reminded of his opposition, Robertson said, "I know. I thought he was going to be prejudiced." He said he had seen "no evidence of any prejudice" in Weaver's operation of HHFA.

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett of Utah, ranking Republican member of the committee who also opposed Weaver in 1961, said it was the President's prerogative to select his own Cabinet members, adding, "I don't know of any effort to block Weaver."

The other two negative votes in 1961 came from Sens. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., and William A. Blakley, D-Tex.

In Huntsville, Ala., Sparkman said Weaver has done "a good job" in his present post but that he would await the appointee's testimony before deciding whether he will vote to confirm him.

Blakley was defeated later by Republican John G. Tower, who also is a member of the banking committee. Tower promptly said he supported Weaver.

The President announcing the nominations said:

"After looking over 300 outstanding potential candidates and talking to literally dozens of people about him, I have come to the conclusion that the man for the job is Robert Weaver."

The President said Weaver's performance as head of HHFA was marked "by the highest level of integrity and ability."

He described Weaver as "a quiet but articulate man of action" and said "he is as well-versed in the problems of urban America as any man here you could find."

Just before the announcement, Johnson held an unannounced Cabinet meeting, introducing Weaver. "His colleagues welcomed him with open arms," the President said.

"I want to express my appreciation for the expression of confidence you have given me," Weaver told Johnson. He said he looked forward with entusiasm to the challenges ahead.

THE LIGHTER SIDE

Son Advised To Be 'Just Another Trainee' Such As Luci's Boyfriend Patrick

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI) —When Patrick J. Nugent, the only Air National Guardsman engaged to a daughter of the President, reported fo r active duty last November, the Air Force said "He is just another basic trainee to us."

And this month when Nugent was assigned, at his request, to an air base on the outskirts of Washington, the Air Force said approval of such transfers was not uncommon.

I mention this simply to emphasize that it had absolutely no bearing on a conversation I had recently with another new Air Force recruit, who previously served as one of my tax exemptions.

Shortly before he was decivilianized, this young man came to me for advice about his military career. It was only natural that he should.

August Rank

At the close of World War II, I was probably the senior technician-fifth grade in the U.S. Army, having held that August rank for a period of about three years.

Anyone seeking helpful hints on how to get ahead in the armed forces could hardly have come to a better source.

"The most important thing," I told him, "is to get off on the right foot. As soon as you reach the training center, ask the commanding officer to regard you as just another basic trainee."

"That's important?"

"Yes, indeed," I said. "The last thing you want to do is create the impression that you are not just another basic trainee."

"Actually," he said, "I am not too worried about basic training. I'm more concerned about where they send me when it's over."

"Don't worry about that either," I said. "If you want to be assigned to another base, you can request a transfer."

"Do you think they would approve it?"

"It's not uncommon, particularly when the request is made by someone who was just another trainee."

"I still don't see what's so important about that," he said.

"Only in exceptional circumstances do the armed forces designate a recruit as just another trainee," I explained. "It usually means the recruit is a movie star, a rock-'n-roll singer, a baseball hero or a relative of an influential politician."

"I hope I make it," he said.

"So do I," I said. "It's even better than being a technician-fifth grade."

Pinch Of Dirt Will Be Placed In Rocket

RICHLAND, Wash. (AP) — A pinch of dirt from Richland will be placed in a Thor rocket to be fired into orbit around the earth from Vandenburg Air Force Base, Calif.

The plan was announced Thursday by C. J. Dorrenbacher, Douglas Aircraft Co. vice president at groundbreaking for the $1.7-million Donald W. Douglas laboratories.

The first shovel load of dirt, from which the pinch will be pinched, was placed in a metal cannister. Dorrenbacher said the mission of the rocket which will carry the dirt is secret.

JAPANESE OFFICES

TOKYO (UPI) —The Japanese Foreign Office plans to establish new diplomatic offices in seven countries this year, it was announced today. The move includes embassies in Bulgaria and Guatemala, consulate generals in Kaohsiung, Formosa; Nakhodka, the Soviet Union; and Perth, Australia; a consulate in Edmonton, Alta., Canada and an overseas office in Karachi.

OPTIONAL INSURANCE TO TAKE CARE OF DOCTOR BILLS

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Many persons over 65 aren't so sure that the voluntary portion of the new medicare program is the bargain that it's touted to be.

The voluntary part of the health insurance program for elderly persons is known as "part B." It is optional insurance that takes care of doctor bills and certain other medical expenses.

It is available to all Americans over 65 years of age for a $3 monthly premium—provided they sign up by March 31.

The disclosure that some old persons aren't convinced of the benefits of part B came after UPI reported in a Washington dispatch that millions of Americans were passing up the world's biggest bargain in health insurance.

Prompts Letter

The dispatch prompted one retired man in Pompano Beach, Fla., to write a letter, saying that many of his friends had decided not to sign up for the voluntary program because "they believe it will be no bargain."

He said he understood part B would only cover portions of doctor bills that were decided to be a "reasonable charge" for services performed. If this was so, he asked, what would stop doctors from charging higher prices and collecting the difference from patients? And how would part B differ from private insurance?

The answer in a nutshell:

"It's true that medicare will cover only reasonable charges," and that some doctors may demand more. But there's nothing to stop a patient from finding a doctor who'll accept the 'reasonable charge.' There are plenty of them.

Still A Bargain

"Also — even if medicare offered no greater benefits than private insurance, it would still be a tremendous bargain. It costs exactly half as much as comparable private coverage. The government pays the other half of the cost."

A more detailed answer would point out that the law provides two alternative ways of reimbursing physicians for services performed for patients covered by medicare part B insurance.

1. The doctor may accept an assignment of the patient's benefit rights, and send his bill directly to the reimbursing agency (which will not be a government agency, but a private insurance carrier operating under contract as an intermediary between the government and the medical profession).

2. The doctor may collect his fee directly from the patient, leaving the patient to send the receipted bill to the insurance carrier for reimbursement.

Ceiling On Payments

The "reasonable charge" provision, if the first method is used, puts a ceiling on medicare payments which some physicians may consider too low for their services. Such physicians doubtless will use the second method of billing and charge prices higher than the "reasonabl echarge."

But not all physicians are so high - priced. A Social Security Administration official said many doctors "are already treating elderly patients for reduced fees, or, if necessary, without any charge at all." These doctors will welcome the opportunity to use the first method.

FOR BUYERS

Wholesale Items To Be Shown Here

Annual summer showing of the Western Wholesale Market Association will be conducted Sunday and Monday on seven floors of the Caprock Hotel, according to John Mallory, association president.

About 500 buyers from the South Plains and surrounding areas are expected to attend the showing at which 55 exhibitors have made reservations for display of clothing, jewelry, cosmetics, etc.

The market association, sponsored by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, holds three showings annually in Lubbock with events in January, May and October. Grey Lewis of the chamber staff is manager of the shows.

Top Show Expected

"The market is developing Lubbock into one of the outstanding market centers of the Southwest," Mallory reports, "and we expect the forthcoming show to be even better than the previous ones that have had excellent reception by area buyers of soft goods and the related items presented in convenient and attractive displays."

The Lubbock market is believed to be largest of its type this side of Dallas, Mallory said.

Exhibitors will move their merchandise into the hotel headquarters Saturday to enable two full days of showing, beginning Sunday morning.

Reese Working On New Aircraft Inspection Plan

Periodic maintenance personnel at Reese Air Force Base this week are working on a new system of inspection for aircraft which will serve as a basis for possible changes at undergraduate pilot training bases throughout Air Training Command.

ATC has directed that Reese be ready to start by Feb. 1 the phase inspection system which will change periodic inspection. Under the present program T-37 and T-38 aircraft are given periodic inspection every 200 hours of flying. Under the new program, phase inspection will take place every 50 hours of flying time, still giving complete inspection each 200 hours.

The new system would drastically reduce the length of time aircraft are available for flying. Aircraft will be given inspection of certain phases and then returned to flying. Later other phases will be performed, and again the plane released. Four phases will be performed and planes will return to flight more quickly, but will be brought back for phase inspections more frequently.

Details of the phase work are being worked out by M Sgt J. R. Wadkins. After operation for a few months here, the new system may be started at other bases.

IN HOUSTON:

Malpractices In School Bus System Bared

HOUSTON (AP) The Houston Post said today an audit that has been kept from the public for more than two years shows malpractices had occurred in the Houston school system's transportation department.

The Post gave these details:

As a result of the audit dated Oct. 31, 1963, Supt. John W. McFarland ordered procedures at the bus garage revised. Independent auditors now examining procedures of the school system plan to re-examine the transportation department.

Malpractices Listed

The 1963 audit, made by the school controller's office, stated tools were missing from a school garage, buses that stood idle were being insured and work had been done on the personal cars of school employes.

The present independent auditor asked whether an employe who had admitted having school property at his home in the 1963 audit had returned it. McFarland said the property had been returned.

"The man had many calls to repair buses at night and on weekends," McFarland said, "so he kept some of these things there. A system was set up so the tools would be checked out."

McFarland said all the malpractices of the 1963 audit had been resolved.

"We always have difficulties in this large system," he said. "We worked with the transportation department and looked into every criticism."

POLICE FIND COBRA

REVERE, Mass. (AP) — Police raided two homes while searching for stolen goods and found a large quantity of antiques, furs, guns, TV sets, Chinese swords, carved figurines and a cobra. The snake was in a box marked "Warning. Box contains poisonous snake. Will kill you in five minutes."

72 ENTRIES

First Annual Rifle Match Set Saturday

The first annual smallbore rifle match, sponsored by the Junior Rifle Club of Lubbock VFW Post 2466, will be held Saturday and Sunday at Texas Tech ROTC indoor range.

A limit of 72 entries has been accepted, including contestants from Midland, Matador, Sherman, San Angelo, San Antonio, Roswell and Albuquerque, N.M., Texas Tech ROTC, Reese AFB, and Lubbock, according to N. T. Conner, official in charge of the meet.

Members of Clubs

Entries are members of the National Rifle Association or affiliated clubs, armed forces and ROTC personnel.

Competitors will be classified according the NRA system: marksman, sharpshooter, expert, and master, but there also will be junior (14 to 18 inclusive) and sub-junior (13 and under) categories. Seniors (19 and over) who are unclassified must shoot in the master class, and juniors may shoot in their NRA class.

Shooting will begin at 8 p.m. each day and continue for 10 relays at one hour intervals both days. NRA rules will govern for the position rifle match, including positions of prone, sitting, kneeling, and standing.

Contests will consist of individual firing in each category and also the aggregate of them, as well as two-man and four-man team matches. All four positions of a match will be fired on one relay.

A range fund match is scheduled for the individual aggregate of the 10 shots prone and 10 shots standing.

Birth Control Advice Backed By Government

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unmarried women may get instruction on birth control methods in federally financed projects under the Antipoverty Program.

Sargent Shriver, head of the war on poverty said today his agency will not relax its ban on using federal funds to supply contraceptive devices or drugs to unmarried persons, however.

There is no regulation forbidding local sponsors of such projects to provide birth control devices to anyone, without regard to marital status, if they use private funds.

Shriver indicated the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) will approve applications for another $500,000 in family planning program funds in more than a dozen areas this year. It has not yet rejected any.

Money For Counseling

The OEO has allocated $689,000 for birth control counseling of 142,000 persons in 13 areas in its 14-month history. In addition, similar programs are part of general health projects in six other cities.

Leaders of the Planned Parenthood Association have protested the OEO rule against federal payment for contraceptives for single women or married women not living with their husbands. They say this would work against the interests of some women who need them most, such as unwed mothers.

It was understood, however, that OEO regulations do not prevent private groups who pay 10 per cent of the cost of birth control programs from buying and distributing these devices or drugs with their own money. The federal government pays 90 per cent of the total cost of antipoverty projects.

IN CASTLE TOWER

Kissing Ancient Blarney Stone In Ireland Is Really A Frightening Experience

By EDDY GILMORE

BLARNEY, Ireland (AP) — The ancient Blarney Stone — kissed more times than all the heroines of Hollywood — seems today strong enough to survive the osculations of the whole human race.

"Aye," said Patrick Byrne, a Blarney Castle keeper, "It shows little sign of wear. They kiss it, and kiss it, and kiss it, but they can never kiss it away."

Asked if all the bussing had not made it one of the most unhygienic objects in existence, Byrne frowned and replied:

"Not at all. Here, high above the sweet earth, swept by the soft rain, warmed by the blessed sun, and caressed by the pure air of Ireland, the Blarney's as clean as a new-washed babe."

Innocent Rite

In this cynical scientific age, kissing the Blarney Stone remains one of the last innocent acrobatic rites of Western civilization. At the height of the tourist season, 800 to 1,000 human beings visit the Blarney Stone in a single day.

The price of admission has risen. From 7 cents in 1929, it has climbed to 35 cents today.

No on really knows the origin of the Blarney Stone, a hunk of limestone four feet one inch long, thirteen inches wide, and nine inches thick, solidly set into the castle battlements.

One thing's certain though — Irishmen all over the world, as well as a lot of other people, believe he who kisses the Blarney Stone becomes blessed with unusual eloquence.

Located five miles northwest of Cork, it is in the village of Blarney, which has a population of just over 800.

Blarney has become one of the most expressive words in the English language.

It is supposed to have first been spoken by Queen Elizabeth I. She became exasperated with one of the MacCarthys who, while eloquently professing his loyalty and affection for the sovereign, kept none of his promises, yet talked himself out of every tight corner.

All Blarney

Losing her temper one day, the queen snorted: "He never says what he means. It's all blarney, blarney, just blarney."

For one reason or another people have been going through the contortions of kissing the Blarney Stone for well over 100 years. It is not easy to do.

Having climbed the 120 circular, and even frightening, stone steps up through the dank darkness of the castle's tower, the visitor walks out beside the battlements.

Down at one end is a rectangular hole. To kiss the stone, you have to sit down — with your back to the wall — fall back, and then kiss upwards to make contact. Two perpendicular iron bars have been set into the wall and you must cling to these. Dangling head down, you get a terrifying view of the ground. It seems a mile straight down.

Six Have Fallen

"Six persons have fallen," said Byrne." The last one, I believe, was in 1932. He was an American sailor. He fell, and do you know, he landed in a tree and only damaged a leg."

He added in a lowered voice: "I'm afraid he was taken in drink."

Blarney Castle and the Blarney Stone are owned by Mary Penelope Hillyard, 53. She inherited it from her uncle, Sir George Oliver Colthurst, baronet. There was a provision that the Blarney Stone must never be moved.

On this subject, Mrs. Hillyard has said:

"Even if the condition were not in the will, I should never let the stone leave the castle where it has been for over 500 years. If the stone ever left our family I think misfortune would overcome us."

No Expansion On Food Aid Planned Now

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration apparently envisions no great expansion in supplying American food to hungry areas abroad during the next several years.

Instead, heavy demands on this country for food in what could become a worldwide food crisis may be 10 to 20 years away.

Committee Appraisal

This appraisal of the widely discussed world war on hunger was attributed to President Johnson's committee on food and fiber, which is composed of the secretaries of agriculture, state, labor and commerce.

Sherwood Berg, dean of the Institute of Agriculture at the University of Minnesota and chairman of the President's new national advisory commission on food and fiber, told newsmen Thursday that such an analysis of the prospective world demands has been given the commission by these Cabinet members.

The 30-member commission closed a three-day organization meeting after deciding to give initial attention to the world food problem.

The commission has been directed by President Johnson to recommend future policies for agriculture. It plans to hold a second meeting here March 24-25 to appraise future U.S. efforts to avert world hunger.

Berg said the President's committee on food and fiber indicated to the commission that the administration has no plans to ease any controls on food production this crop year.

The country's canine population is estimated at 26 million by the Pet Food Institute, which puts the cat population between 20 and 29 million.

WAIT ONE TO FOUR HOURS

GIs In Viet Nam Arrive At 5 A.M. And Stand In Line For A Call To The States

By TOM TIEDE

SAIGON, Viet Nam—(NEA)—The first color of dawn was still an hour away as the fogged-eyed GIs began stuffing themselves into the damp-walled room.

"Are you all calling the United States?" a dreary clerk wondered.

"We are," the group chorused.

"Fill out these forms, please."

"Hey, bud," a soldier asked, "how long does it take to get through?"

"One to four hours."

"That long . . . for a phone call?"

"At least."

"Look, I want Maryland, not Mars."

The men chuckled, filled in the forms and regulated themselves on their rears. Phoning home, they knew, like everything else here, would require the woe of waiting.

The men had arrived at 6 a.m. to be first in line. They were greeted by those who had arrived at 5. The office opened at 7:30 and the first busy signal rang out at 8:15.

"We have only two lines open," the clerk said.

"If weather is bad, calls are cancelled."

Everybody felt ill.

"But normally, there is no trouble."

Everybody breathed relief.

A rooster began to crow somewhere. A man had his transistor shrilling. Morning papers were read. Fingernails were cleaned with matchsticks. A guy began to pass a photo of his wife around.

★ ★ ★

"Boy," said the latter, "I gotta get through."

"Oh?" a man yawned.

"Yeah, my wife's having a baby."

"How long you been married, kid?"

"Oh?"

There are only two places in Saigon where a GI can call home. They are daily jammed with sweating, swearing traffic.

Money is the only problem that isn't one. The cost is only $6 for three minutes of conversation. Six minutes is the limit.

"Who are you calling, fella?" one man asked another.

"My girl."

"That so?"

"At least she was my girl."

"What happened?"

"She sent me a Dear John letter yesterday."

"Tough. Sure glad my gal ain't like that."

"She ain't?"

At 8 a.m. Saigon, it was 12 hours earlier in New York. It was 7 p.m. in Chicago, 6 in Salt Lake City and work day's end in San Francisco.

Conversation in the waiting room was sporadic. Bursts of giggles and then silence. Colonels and Pfcs mingled as one, read one another's magazines, lit one another's cigarettes. The war was not mentioned. Boys talked of sweethearts, men talked of children.

Finally, one man was hastily summoned.

He leaped up and his chair fell over. He tripped over a socket plug. He grabbed the phone and nearly lost a tooth on the receiver.

"Hello . . . hello honey? It's me, Al!"

He paused breathlessly for the cracking, barely audible answer.

"Huh?" he gulped. "Whattya mean, Al who?"

THE ALMANAC:

Today In History

The moon is approaching the new stage.

No morning stars.

The evening stars are Venus, Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

Philippine statesman Carlos Romulo was born on this day in 1899.

On this day in history:

In 1943, President Roosevelt and British Prime Minister Winston Churchill began a 10-day meeting in Morocco to plan allied offensives aimed as the "unconditional surrender" of the Axis powers.

In 1959, the firing squads of Cuban Premier Castro executed 220 persons in two weeks.

EXPAND BLOOD DRIVE

DICKINSON, N.D. (AP) — Members of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity at Dickinson State College started a drive for blood for use in Viet Nam — and it ended up as a community affair. The donors, who included city police and the fire commissioner, gave 122 pints of blood.

"WORKING WITH LBJ"

Soviet Maneuvers Blasted By China

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China today accused the Soviet Union of working hand in glove with President Johnson to peddle his Viet Nam peace "hoax." The attack came while a high Soviet delegation headed by Alexander Shelepin was visiting Peking.

Shelepin stopped off in Peking for 24 hours en route home from Hanoi where he reaffirmed full Soviet support for the North Vietnamese in their war against "American imperialism." It was obvious Peking did not take his statements at face value.

Shelepin, considered the No. 2 man in the Soviet Communist Party, received a frosty reception during a brief stopover in Peking en route to Hanoi. This time the Communist Chinese hierarchy virtually ignored him during a longer stopover.

Reports In West

There have been reports in the West that Shelepin actually was trying to talk the Communist leaders of North Viet Nam into agreeing to discuss peace. Moscow sources have denied this but Peking's statements showed they distrusted the Shelepin mission completely.

Broadcasts did not mention any contacts between Shelepin and such leaders as Mao Tze-tung and Chou En-lai. Instead, the official peking People's Daily accused President Johnson of committing heinous crimes in Viet Nam while the Russians were working with him.

Shelepin left today for home with his arms and rocket experts but there were unconfirmed reports he might fly to Outer Mongolia to join party leader Leonic I. Brezhnev in talks with Mongolian leader Yumzhagin Tsedenbal. Outer Mongolia is a buffer state between China and Russia.

Peking, in a combined attack on Russian and American policies in Viet Nam, said President Johnson cannot "escape the fate that befell Adolf Hitler and Hideko Tojo."

In Peoples Daily

The latest Chinese denunciation of "U.S. imperialism" in general and President Johnson in particular came in an editorial entitled "Johnson administration cannot escape justice." It was carried in today's edition of the Peking Peoples Daily, official organ of the central committee of the Chinese Communist Party.

The editorial said, "The U.S. aggressor army in South Viet Nam is madly pursuing a 'scorched earth' plan marked by its large scale and unprecedently barbarous and bloody method.

"Wherever the aggressor troops go, they burn all, kill all and destroy all. They are attempting to wipe out all life in vast areas in South Viet Nam.

"The atrocities committed by the U.S. aggressors in South Viet Nam have far surpassed the enormity of those committed by the Hitlerite fascist brigands and the Japanese militarists."

Speaker Set For Reese Graduation

Col. Nathan J. Adams, wing commander of Moody Air Force Base, Ga., will be speaker at graduation of Class 66-E from undergraduate pilot training at Reese Air Force Base Feb. 5.

A command pilot with more than 4,000 flying hours, Col. Adams is former professor of air science at the University of Tennessee.

He has been on active military duty since 1941, obtaining pilot wings in 1942. He served in the European Theater during World War II and served in Korea.

For two years prior to joining the Air Training Command in 1963, he was chief of the military personnel division of Strategic Air Command and for two years was director of the plans and policy division of the U.S. Reginola Organizational Defense in Paris.

Bethlehem Steel Boosts Prices

NEW YORK (AP) — Bethlehem Steel Corp. today boosted the base prices of structural shapes to meet similar increases by other major steel producers.

The increases, effective Saturday, follow the U.S. Steel increase of $2.75 a ton on all structural shapes. However, lighter structurals were raised by up to $5 a ton, while some heavier shapes used in highway and major construction were left unchanged.

Bethlehem, the leading manufacturer of structural steels, raised prices $5 a ton effective Jan. 1. It rescinded that increase a few days after the White House denounced the hoost.

The smaller increase by U.S. Steel was accepted by the administration.

Body Of Rancher Is Found In Pond

BALLINGER, Tex. (AP)—The body of Hubert Herring, 56, Runnels County rancher, was recovered today from a stock pond on his ranch about 16 miles east of here.

He was reported missing Thursday.

Justice of Peace Earl Cope withheld a verdict.

The hearing concerns a complaint that Elsa Canning Co. employes were laid off because of union activities, according to Joe Barrera, business agent of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, AFL-CIO.

Edinburg will be the scene of the hearing.

STILL MISSING AFTER SEVEN MONTHS
Betsy Ann Gill, 3, Believed To Be Alive

DISAPPEARED LAST JUNE

Search Goes On Hopefully For Missing Missouri Child

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo. (AP) — Seven months ago, Betsy Ann Gill, 3, a pretty little blue-eyed brunette, walked down the sidewalk near her home, swinging a sand bucket in her hand.

Then she was gone.

Betsy hasn't been seen since. A thorough search of the area turned up nothing. Police Chief Irving Beard concluded she was kidnaped.

But the search for Betsy Ann goes on as hopefully as on the day she disappeared last June 13. Beard has enlisted the help of the Civil Air Patrol in sending out circulars describing the child to law enforcement agencies across the nation.

"I'm certain the child was kidnaped by someone who just wanted a little girl," Beard said. "For six months we've had leads that turned out to be nothing.

"But somewhere, I think she is still alive. I wish someone would bring her home."

Many thought she might have wandered into the Mississippi River three blocks from her home. A four-day search of ravines, abandoned cellars, old wells and junked cars turned up no trace of the girl. Divers with lights searched the Mississippi at night.

The police chief doesn't think Betsy got to the river. He said she would have had to cross a heavily traveled street, climb a levee and go down a steep bank to get to it.

The incident left Cape Girardeau, home of Southeast Missouri State College and a city of 25,000 persons, with an uneasy feeling. Parents began taking precautions with their children, keeping watchful eyes on them while they play.

Harry Gill, Betsy Ann's father, made public appeals. Gill, his wife and their other nine children still wait and hope.

Man Sought In Attempt To Kidnap Woman

City police today were seeking a man who claimed to be a policeman and tried to force a Lubbock woman into his car about 10:30 p.m. Thursday.

Rochele McKee, 2008 41st St., said she was driving north when the man began honking his car and waved her to the curb at 39th and Avenue H.

He told her to get out, that he was taking her to the police department, the woman told officers. She said she got out and asked for his identification. Instead, she related, he took out a knife and pulled her by the arm toward his car.

Another car approached, and the woman yelled for help, according to police reports. The man fled as the car, occupied by a couple, stopped to assist the woman.

The suspect was described as about 30 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, slender, well-dressed with a coat and tie, and driving a Ford Mustang. A license number was reported to police.

Pupils Dismissed Following Tests

High school students in Lubbock Public Schools were dismissed at 1 p. m. Thursday and today after undergoing nine-week examinations both days.

Students required to take 18-week exams will be tested Saturday morning at their respective schools.

The usual class schedule will be resumed Monday, and report cards will be distributed Tuesday. The new semester will officially get underway Wednesday.

Classes in the elementary and junior high schools in the city were conducted as usual both Thursday and today, with examinations being given during regular class time.

Donald Blair Funeral Is Set In Canyon

CANYON (Special) — Funeral services for Capt. Donald R. Blair, 27 of Canyon, former Tahoka High School and West Texas State University football and track star who was killed in Viet Nam, will be conducted here Sunday.

Military rites will be at 3 p. m. in the First Baptist Church of Canyon. Burial will be in the Canyon Cemetery.

The body is to arrive here at 5 p. m. Saturday.

Viet Cong Ambush

Capt. Blair was reported killed in action Jan. 8 in a Viet Cong ambush 50 miles from Saigon.

Details were incomplete but it was indicated he was killed when a truck convoy was attacked near the town of Long Hai.

The officer was a member of Advisory Team No. 89 and had been in Viet Nam seven months. He reportedly was due to have returned to the United States in June.

Survivors include: the widow; two children, John Scott, 6, and Sara Sue, 4, all of Canyon; two sisters, Mrs. Carl Spears, Tahoka, and Mrs. Truitt Lambert, Hawley, Tex; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Blair, formerly of Tahoka and now residing at Canyon; and a brother, Parker Blair, Dallas.

Blair was a 1956 graduate of Tahoka High School and was an all-district fullback. He was a halfback on the WTSU grid team three years. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1960, when he was graduated with a bachelor of science degree.

Mrs. Blair is the former Miss Bonnie Evans, a graduate of Hale Center High School. The couple was married in 1958.

Mental Health Directors Meet

Fire Damage At City Home Heavy

A fire which gutted the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Babb, 1509 E. 16th St., Thursday was being investigated this morning. Firemen said the blaze was well underway when they arrived.

Babb said he had been working when the fire broke out and his wife had gone to pick up a baby sitter before she went to work. He estimated damage to the house, owned by J. W. Ivey, 4709 Ave. C, at about $1,000. Firemen described it as a total loss.

Neither Babb nor the fire department had any idea how the fire started.

FARGO, N.D. (AP) — Larry Braaten of Vancouver, Wash., a trusty at the jail in Hillsboro, was walking along U.S. 81 near Fargo when he was offered a ride. The driver was Sheriff Howard Carver, on his way to a police class. Braaten was hustled back to jail.

Swindlers Get $6,000

DALLAS (UPI)— Police were looking today for two Negroes who collaborated on filching a man out of $6,000 in a confidence game.

Charlie Norris, 71, told police he was approached by two Negroes Wednesday while walking out of a store. He said he was drawn into a card game with them, then one of the men flashed a big roll of money and said he would give it away if the other men could match it with cash.

Refused Check

Police reported Norris said he got a cashier's check for $6,000, but the Negro turned that down, saying he needed cash as good-faith money. Norris cashed the check and gave it to the Negro.

Norris said the Negro put his own roll of bills into an envelope and told Norris he would mail it to him.

The Negro even called Thursday to ask if Norris had received it, the confidence game victim said. The money never arrived.

IN KANSAS

Cattle Sale Fraud Trial In Fifth Day

TOPEKA, Kan. (UPI)— The government entered its fifth day today and said it may be two weeks before it finishes its prosecution in the trial of five men charged with using the mails to further a cattle sale scheme to defraud and deceive.

Delbert Setzkorn, an Offerle, Kan., farmer, testified Thursday his first thought on receiving a shipment of cattle he purchased by mail was that the trucker who delivered them had switched cattle.

Defendants in the case are Stephen M. Speers, 37, and Jerry D. Anden, 28, both of Kansas City, Mo.; James V. Sidary, 40, of Houston; Emery Anden Jr., 31, of Monessen, Pa., and Emery Anden Sr., 52, of Belle Vernon, Pa.

No Farm Found

They are accused of operating the Speers Hereford Farms, first at Belle Vernon, then Tonganoxie, Kan., Heber, Utah, and finally Hereford, Tex., before going out of business in November of 1963.

The government alleges the defendants never actually operated a Hereford farm but merely bought cattle from auction barns and shipped them out whenever anyone answered their advertisements.

All pleaded innocent at their arraignment after charges were filed in August, 1964.

Setzkorn said all the animals "were very poor quality" and showed signs of sickness."

Lamesa Resident Indicted In Dallas

DALLAS (Special) — Federal grand jurors here named Ben Mac Dopson, a 33-year-old Lamesa resident, in a four-count income tax evasion indictment this morning.

The indictment charges that Dopson, a farmer and former operator of Big B Aerial Applicators, "willfully and knowingly" failed to file income tax returns for the years 1960, 1961, 1962 and 1963.

Federal officials claimed Dopson, who has resided in Dawson County most of his life, realized a total gross income of $109,560.21 for the four years.

If convicted, Dopson could be imprisoned for four years and assessed a fine up to $40,000 or both, federal officials said.

Final Arguments Set In Damage Suit

A 137th District Court civil jury was to return to court at 1:15 p.m. today to hear attorneys' final arguments before beginning deliberations in a damage suit arising from a traffic accident Aug. 17, 1964. Judge Jame A. Ellis is presiding.

Margie Lee Sisk seeks $8,170 judgment against Paul Reed Burns and J. H. Burns, alleging injuries in the collision at Nashville Avenue and 31st Street.

An intervenor, Joseph S. Miles, seeks $363.05 judgment against both Mrs. Sisk and the Burnses, alleging his car, which was parked at a curb, was struck by Mrs. Sisk's vehicle following the original collision.

Final Arguments In Murder Case Scheduled Today

FARWELL (Special) — Additional testimony was heard this morning and final arguments are expected to be heard this afternoon in the 154th District Court murder trial of Bernardo Salcido, 26, Muleshoe.

Salcido is accused in the shooting deaths of his 21-year-old wife, Guadalupe, and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Mary Duran Murillo, 41, Sudan, last March 31.

He is being tried in the death of his wife.

Mrs. Salcido and her mother were shot to death during a family argument at the home of Esteban Hernandez on the Dargan Kirk farm near here.

Woman Released Without Charge In Shooting Case

A 29-year-old Latin American woman was released from city jail 10 a.m. today without charge in the shooting of a used car dealer here Thursday afternoon.

Ralfh Chester Seaver, 59, owner of Western Motor Co., 2015 Clovis Road, was treated at Methodist Hospital and released. Attendants said a bullet entered his mouth and came out about half an inch under the right ear.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Bill LauBach said Seaver declined to sign a complaint.

Seaver told police he had repossessed the woman's car about 8:30 a.m. Thursday. She went to his office about 5:30 p.m. and wanted to make a payment and take the car.

However, he refused the request, according to police reports, and the woman pulled out a pistol and fired a shot. The woman was arrested three hours later at her residence, police said.

Losses Small In Break-Ins

Four break-ins were under investigation of city police today, but minor losses were reported.

An automobile was observed leaving Ray Sandlin's Grocery, 114 N. Gary Ave., about 11 p.m. Thursday, where small change was taken from a storage room. Police said three suspects were arrested at a drive-in cafe but later released after questioning.

Two vending machines were looted at Wesley Odorizzi's Mobil station, 2424 Main St., and a back door was pried at Parkway Drug, 1821 Parkway Drive, but nothing was reported missing there police said.

Patricia O'Shea, 2620 37th St., told police about $10 was taken from her residence Thursday.

LBJ PRODS CONGRESS FOR REFORMS

Election Law Study Urged

By RAYMOND M. LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson is prodding Congress to take another painful look at the subject of election law reforms.

This is a subject which has been stirring Congress for years into occasional debate but not to decisive action. The House particularly has been content to live under existing laws, written largely for the campaign needs and habits of 1925.

In his State of the Union message, Johnson said he would ask for legislation to "make it possible for those without personal wealth to enter public life without being obligated to a few large contributors."

Tax Incentives

He was referring to tax incentives to encourage small campaign contributions.

The President said he also would recommend changes in present restrictions on contributions and tougher penalties to force full disclosure of contributions. His other proposals will call for a prohibition on "The endless proliferation" of campaign committees and for making state and local campaign committees subject to federal law.

Chairman Robert T. Ashmore, D-S.C., of the House Elections subcommittee said he favored action along the lines suggested by the President, but indicated he would balk at the recommendation to bring state and local committees under federal policies.

Johnson is a belated convert to the cause of election law reform. The late President John F. Kennedy sent proposals to Congress in 1962 based on recommendations of a special commission he created to study campaign costs.

In addition to requests for modernizing laws on campaign contributions and spending, Kennedy asked for tax credits or deductions to encourage contributions to parties and candidates. After Johnson became President, he said nothing about the issue until this week.

Floundered In House

The Senate passed a fairly drastic bill dealing with campaign contributions and spending in 1957 only to see it founder in the House. It passed another measure in 1961, but the House aso gave the second bill a quiet burial.

Meanwhile, in an age of skyrocketing campaign costs, the national political committees contrive to function under a law setting a $3 million ceiling on their annual expenses.

The law fixes the ceiling but does not limit the number of committees. In a national election year, a national political party sets up as many committees as it needs to spend whatever money it can raise.

The same law puts a $5,000 limit on an individual campaign contribution but permits a contributor to give $5,000 each to an unlimited number of committees or candidates.

The Kennedy plan in 1962 called for complete repeal on the ceilings on contributions and spending with greater disclosure of receipts and expenses.

Chairman Howard Cannon, D-Nev., of the Senate Elections subcommittee introduced a bill last year to provide flexible ceilings based on the number of voters in the previous election.

HARRIS IS LEAVING

Future Of Natural Gas Legislation Is Clouded

By TEX EASLEY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The approaching departure from Congress of Rep. Oren Harris, D-Ark., is stirring speculation about the chances, if any, for new natural gas legislation.

Harris, chief sponsor of the 1956 natural gas bill (which was vetoed by President Eisenhower), is leaving Feb. 2 to become a federal judge in Arkansas. Rep. Harley Staggers, D-W. Va., will succeed him as chairman of the House Commerce Committee.

Staggers voted against the 1956 bill which would have exempted independent gas producers from federal regulation. What his position would be on any new gas legislation considered by the committee, in his new role as committee chairman, is now the question.

Asked about that in an interview, Staggers said his position in 1956 doesn't necessarily indicate how he would vote if the issue came up again.

"It would be premature for me to comment," he said. "You may be sure that any proposition that comes before the committee will get full and complete consideration.

"We will certainly try to resolve any issues for the general good of the United States. I don't think any segment of the economy need have any fears but that it will get equitable treatement."

He added that as chairman of the committee he expects to take a broader view of legislation coming before the group than he would when his responsibility was largely to constituents of a single congressional district.

Harris was the ranking Democratic member of the committee when he sponsored the 1956 gas bill. Republicans were then in control. He became chairman of the committee in 1957 after Democrats regained control of the House.

Odds Against Passage

All available evidence would seem to indicate the odds are against passage of any such gas bill this year, despite a new push by segments of the oil and gas industry for legislation specifically excluding independent gas producers from utility type regulation by the federal government.

Meanwhile the Federal Power Commission continues with proceedings to carry out the regulatory job that was handed it by a 1954 Supreme Court decision.

The commission started the job of controlling prices of natural gas at the wellhead by dividing the nation into 23 pricing areas. Then it started four rate proceedings, involving 11 of the areas and 75 per cent of all gas which moves in interstate commerce.

Exhaustive Hearings

The first proceeding involved the Permian Basin of West Texas and Eastern New Mexico. After exhaustive hearings, the commission last August issued orders fixing rates in the area at 16 ½ cents per 1,000 cubic feet for gas from strictly gas wells and at 14 ½ cents for gas produced in oil operations. Producers have appealed to the courts.

The second case initiated by the commission involved South Louisiana. A long hearing was completed last Nov. 5. Examiner Joseph Zwerdling's recommendations in the case are not expected before summer.

Price proceedings for the Hugoton-Anadarko area of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas and for the Texas Gulf Coast area are currently under way.

STRAWN HORIZON

Strike Indicated In Eddy County

A strawn discovery has been indicated at Pan American Petroleum Corp. No. 7 Big Eddy Unit, wildcat 22 miles northeast of Carlsbad in Eddy County.

A five-hour drillstem test from 11,337-376 feet flowed gas to the surface in eight minutes. Oil came to the top after two hours. It flowed two hours through a one-inch choke, producing 28 barrels of 50.2-gravity oil. The test reversed out 28 barrels of oil with no water encountered. Gas volume was rated at 1.5 million cubic feet per day.

Initial shutin bottomhole pressure in one hour and was 5,784 pounds per square inch. Flowing pressure ranged from 735-865 pounds, and a 1½-hour final shutin pressure was 5,680 pounds.

The apparent discovery is four miles southwest of the operator's No. 1 Big Eddy, a Wolfcamp gas discovery. It is one mile northwest of a lone Bone Spring producer. There are no nearby deep dry holes or producers.

It spots 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from east lines of Section 19-20s-31e.

Test Abandoned

Yates Petroleum Co. has plugged and abandoned No. 4 Pecos River Deep Unit, project 12 miles northwest of Carlsbad in Eddy County.

The test was drilled to 11,100 feet. Location is 1,980 feet from south and 1,650 feet from east lines of Section 12-20s-26e.

Re-Entry Scheduled

LEA — A. C. Holder of Lovington has scheduled a re-entry wildcat, No. 1 Johnson, 15 miles northeast of Caprock in Lea County.

The test, located three miles north of Lane (Wolfcamp) field was originally drilled to 12,528 feet by Magnolia in 1956. It spots 660 feet from south and 1,980 feet from west lines of Sec. 12-9s-33e.

Exploration Scheduled In Andrews

Pan American Petroleum Corp. will drill No. 1-BC David Fasken as a 5,500-foot San Andres wildcat, 12 miles southeast of Andrews in Andrews County.

The exploration is located 1,997 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of Section 29, Block 41, T-2-N, G&MMB&A survey, and is 2½ miles north of Midland Farms (San Andres) field.

Dry Hole

H. L. Brown, Jr. and W. J. Heath of Midland were preparing to plug and abandon No. 1-A-13 University, project 16 miles northeast of Andrews in Andrews County.

The operation drilled to total depth 12,700 feet at 660 feet from north and west lines of Section 13, Block 5, University Lands survey.

Test Scheduled

SCURRY — Tidewater Oil Co. has scheduled a 7,800-foot test in the Drilexco (upper Strawn) field of Scurry County, 7½ miles southwest of Dermott in Scurry County.

The drillsite is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from west lines of Section 403, Block 97, H&TC survey.

New Producer

STONEWALL — R. H. Siegfried, Inc. of Tulsa, Okla. has completed No. 2 F. H. McFarland as the second well and a southwest extension to the Kiowa Peak, Southeast (Strawn) pool in Stonewall County 16 miles northeast of Aspermont.

On the 24-hour potential it pumped 104.88 barrels of 38.4-gravity oil from perforations at 5,224-30 feet after washing with 500 gallons of mud acid.

The operation yielded oil and salt water on a drillstem test of a second and deeper Strawn sand at 5,270-95 feet and a try may be made to dually complete from that horizon.

It is 467 feet from south and 1,480 feet from west lines of W. F. Maury survey, abstract 415.

Quick Arrest Made After Bank Holdup

DALHART (AP)— Police arrested a Dalhart man Thursday shortly after an unmasked man took $2,600 from the Citizens State Bank of Dalhart.

Dist. Atty. William Hunter filed state robbery charges against Charles Archie Floyd, about 22. Hunter said a federal bank robbery charge would probably also be filed.

Arresting officers recovered the money.

The robbery occurred about 2:30 p.m. when a man walked to a teller's cage and handed Mrs. Willie Logue a note which said "Fill the sack with money or I will shoot."

Didn't See Gun

Mrs. Logue said she did not see a gun but that the man held his right hand in his jacket pocket.

Officers said they believed that Floyd had been under medical supervision for some time. He was confined under guard at a Dalhart hospital.

Mrs. Dorothy Jamison, a bookkeeper at the bank, followed the robber to a window and said she believed she recognized the robber.

Deputy Sheriff Jess Felts said officers went to the home of the man indicated by Mrs. Jamison, took him into custody and recovered the loot.

Quick Work

Felt said, "We were able to get onto it pretty fast." He was acting for Sheriff R. C. Johnson, who was believed to be in El Paso.

The officers took Floyd to a physician shortly after his arrest and then questioned him. Felts said that FBI agents were coming to Dalhart. "I suppose they'll file bank robbery charges," he said.

Ray Koehler, president of the bank, first estimated the loss at "about $3,000." Night Capt. C. L. Sanborn of the Dalhart Police Department, said $2,600 was recovered.

Midland County Wildcat Staked

A 10,450-foot Clear Fork and Wolfcamp exploration, No. 2-Y Midland Fee, has been scheduled 13 miles south of Midland in Midland County, by Texaco, Inc.

It is 3,000 feet north of production in the two-well R&W (Clear Fork) field, and is one-half mile north of the No. 2-Y Midland Fee, an active wildcat.

SUTTON — A Strawn gas discovery has been completed at W. R. Lloyd Jr. of Houston No. 1 J. M. Vanderstucken, test 16 miles southeast of Sonora in Sutton County.

Perforations from 4,282-84.5 feet produced a calculated, absolute open flow potential of 1.4 million cubic feet of dry gas per day.

DRUNK OR CARELESS MOTORIST CAN NULLIFY EFFORTS

Hopes For Lower Traffic Toll Must Rest On Drivers

By ROBERT J. SERLING

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The utopia of highway safety would involve a perfect car being driven on a perfect road by a perfect driver.

Nobody, including the safety experts, expects to achieve any such utopia. But it is possible to approach it to a greater degree than we are. Roads and vehicles are improved and there even has been some progress in reforming that most difficult target of all—the human being.

These are the basic needs in the three areas:

THE AUTOMOBILE

—Better means of restraint for both passenger and driver, with seat belts plus shoulder harnesses, the latter needing the same kind of promotion accorded belts to win public acceptance. More research into effective padding, particularly the instrument panel. Present padding is effective in preventing minor injuries, but almost useless in a high-speed crash. Steering wheels should be designed to recoil or "give" on impact. Bucket seats, believe it or not, are safer because they give more lateral support to the hips.

—Automobile design could incorporate more of a preventive philosophy as well as protective. This means dual or standby braking systems (available on only two U.S. cars), power steering that retains the feel of the road, and better shock absorber control. It also means better lighting because blinding by headlights is a frequent cause of accidents. Non-glare windshields have been suggested. Disk brakes are a frequent recommendation of many experts who say the conventional brake tends to overheat and fade. Improved de-fogging and de-frosting systems are badly needed—and for rear windows as well as windshields.

THE HIGHWAY

The dramatically superior safety record of the interstate highway system and turnpikes in general is proof that it's possible to engineer danger out of a road. Obviously, not all roads can be turned into limited-access superhighways. But even the secondary roads, both urban and rural, should be studied by traffic experts for elimination of hazards—whether it be construction of new shoulders or installation of lights where needed.

THE DRIVER

The American motorist is the pivot around which the highway safety problem revolves.

Any safety program—local, state or federal—must rise or fall on the driver's acceptance of what amounts to awesome responsibility: the fact that his two-ton mechanism of chrome, steel and glass can be a lethal killer.

No highway reform, whether it be safer cars or better roads or efficient law enforcement, is worth much without this acceptance. A drunken or careless driver can kill people on the best-engineered road in the world, while operating the safest-designed automobile available.

How to get this message across to the motorist is the biggest facet of the highway safety problem. There is evidence that once the message gets across, it does some good. Some years ago, when a popular magazine published a grisly, hard-hitting article called "And Sudden Death," there was a drop in the nation's accident rate. And almost every driver can testify to an inevitable reaction—the tendency to slow down after witnessing the results of a bad accident.

The so-called "shock treatment" can be overdone. For one thing, it collides with what is easily the biggest handicap facing any kind of safety propaganda or promotion—the feeling of the average motorist that "it can't happen to me."

Over-Confidence Bad

Combined with this is the over-confidence or inflated opinion most drivers have of their ability behind the wheel. Tests run by a major automobile manufacturer a few years ago showed that the majority of drivers think they're a lot better than they really are—and that most of them literally are accidents going someplace to happen at some time.

These are factors in the failure of safety campaigns to have much more than a temporary or even little effect. The holiday highway death tolls played up by wire services and the advance warnings to be careful—are almost futile as an accident deterrent, according to the experts.

Sit in Wrecks

On a local or state basis, there have been some effective campaigns and many of them have emphasized the brutal, sickening aspects of a fatal accident. In one southern community, a judge sentenced convicted drunken drivers to sit for a couple of hours in the blood-splattered wrecks of cars involved in fatal collisions. The Ohio Highway Patrol has made available to police departments around the country a hard-hitting color film called "The Unteachables" which depicts the gory results of fatal crashes.

Arlington, Va., police recently showed the film to a group of Boy Scouts and their fathers. One parent commented later:

"There wasn't a kid in the room who won't be a safer driver because of what they saw. Frankly, it scared the hell out of them— and me, too."

Genealogical Group Hears Plainview Guest

Mrs. Owen Egger of Plainview was guest speaker Thursday evening at the first meeting of the year for South Plains Genealogical Society.

Approximately 146 society members heard Mrs. Egger lecture on genealogical research in the Valley of Virginia, an area of research in which she is a recognized authority.

Mrs. R. P. Swofford, society president called the meeting to order at Municipal Garden-Arts Center. Mrs. Carl Gelin, librarian, and Dr. Donald Ashdown of the group's library committee gave a report on growth of the society's library housed at Lubbock Public Library.

City Man Is Named To Tourist Board

A Lubbock businessman was among six new members elected to the Texas Tourist Council Board of Directors during a recent meeting of the council in Austin.

D. F. Eaton, owner of Eaton Motor Co. in Lubbock, was named to help direct the privately financed enterprise devoted to increasing tourist traffic to and in Texas.

By PETER ARNETT

TRUNG LAP, South Viet Nam (AP) — The U.S. Army Engineers truck had been blown from the dusty road and lay twisted this morning in the brush.

Only the body of the American engineer who had been sitting on the fender could be found. Ten yards back an ambulance had been burned black.

Victims Of Mine

These U.S. Army vehicles were the victims Thursday of a weapon the Viet Cong are using with continuous and murderous effectiveness in this enemy bastion 25 miles from Saigon—the mine.

The Viet Cong bury the mines deep in the dusty paths that snake through the overgrown rubber trees and tangled brush, conceal them in the scrub beside tracks, and fasten them to trees overlooking trails.

U.S. infantrymen have never seen as many mines in Viet Nam before. They are trying to come to grips with this hard fact of life and death.

The vehicles sprawled across the highway only 500 yards from Trung Lap, headquarters of the U.S. Army 1st Division, 3rd Brigade headquarters for this operation. The road had been mined Thursday evening.

Opening Road

C Company from the 2nd Battalion was opening the road this morning, moving carefully along its edges and sending a soldier with a mine detector up front.

As they passed the ruins of the two army vehicles a Vietnamese civilian attempted to ride by on a cycle.

"Take him up front!" shouted Capt. Tyrone P. Fletcher, the company commander from De Funiak Springs, Fla. "He's the best mine detector we've got!"

The company was already at a peak of frustration with mines. The previous day they had lost six men to mines while on patrol. Casualties have been similar almost daily.

The Americans have learned that every Vietnamese in this region, abandoned years ago to the Viet Cong, is either an enemy or an enemy sympathizer.

Zigzags Cycle

The Vietnamese civilian was pushed up front of the column and he moved forward, zigzagging his cycle, a human mine detector that led them safely through to Route 1, three miles away.

"Ain't that beautiful!" shouted one infantryman from an armored troop carrier, a favorite target of mines. He was pointing up at the Vietnamese cycling along the road.

The U.S. infantrymen have tried every device to handle the mine problem. They are using detectors along the roads, artillery bombardments to set them off prematurely, and inch by inch searches of suspected areas.

They had had some success. Many mines have been discovered. But many have been found the hard way.

Three Techniques

The Viet Cong have three techniques in exploding them. One is the simple pressure type that explodes when stepped upon. Another is set off with a trip wire device. The third is the "command" mine, set off by a man hiding in the brush.

The bigger mines are of the "command" type, and they are capable of throwing a two-ton truck 20 feet or more. The Claymore mine is another "command" type and is becoming increasingly popular in Viet Nam.

This terror weapon of the Viet Cong was named Claymore by U.S. and South Vietnamese troops after the two-handed sword of the Scots.

Spews Pellets

The Viet Cong face the Claymore toward a trail. When set off, the mine spews a hail of lead pellets that can tear through a whole platoon.

A good tipoff that ines are around is when the local population walks around a road instead of over it. Around Trung Lap, the people know pretty much about everything the Viet Cong are doing.

American troops have been up in the bastion region for seven days now and the people they meet seem no friendlier.

The first sergeant of C Company, Thomas Davis, from Parsons, Tenn., said: "We've got problems convincing them. My people are old hillbilly stock and I know how difficult it is to change their ways."

Burglar Gets Blame For Galveston Fire

GALVESTON (UPI)— Police suspected today a fire that caused $50,000 to $100,000 damage to three downtown stores Thursday night may have been started by a burglar.

The two-alarm fire moved through a hardware and sporting goods store, a Christian Science reading room, and an optometry office. The roof collapsed at the rear of all three buildings, which adjoined each other.

Investigators said it appeared a burglar broke into the sporting goods store and started the fire accidentally or on purpose. One fireman suffered minor injuries fighting the blaze.

UNDER NEW PROPOSAL

Average Wage-Earner May Find Computing Weekly Withholding A Tough Task

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average wage-earner may find that computing his weekly withholding under a new administration proposal is tougher than making out his annual income tax return.

In announcing the six-step withholding plan, the Treasury showed only how it would affect taxpayers at certain levels — and the figures were based on annual salaries.

Here is the way a taxpayer earning $100 a week could figure his withholding under the present plan.

If he is married — there is a different computation for single men — and has two dependent children, he would subtract $52, $13 for each income tax dependent, and multiply the remainder, $48, by 14 per cent. That comes to $6.72.

Actual Amount

The actual amount withheld may be a few cents higher or lower because his employer uses a table with prescribed ranges — for instance, the range may be $95 to $100 a week.

There will be new tables for employers if the administration plan is approved by congress.

The new plan is much more complicated. The man cited in the example would subtract $13.50 for each dependent, or $54, and then subtract an additional $4.

On the first $19.62 of taxable income, the withholding rate is 14 per cent. That comes to $1.69.

On the remaining $22.77 of taxable income, he would apply a 15 per cent rate. Thtat comes to about $3.42.

Add Figures

Then, adding $2.69 and $3.42, he would get his weekly withholding — $6.11.

Most taxpayers above this level will pay about the same or higher withholding. The scale runs up to 30 per cent.

On the first $19.23 of income, 14 per cent.

On the next $61.50 of taxable income, 15 per cent.

On the next $84.60, the rate jumps to 17 per cent.

On the next $171.15, the rate is 20 per cent.

On the next $82.70, the rate is 25 per cent.

Weather

this morning from Lake Huron to Nebraska and Western Montana to Central California is expected to move by Saturday morning to a line from South Dakota through the Texas Panhandle to Southern Arizona, according to the U. S. Weather Bureau.

Weather observers at Lubbock said the front is expected to arrive on the South Plains during the daytime Saturday, with some increase in cloudiness and winds but little likelihood of precipitation. Maximum temperatures from 50 to 55 degrees are forecast for Saturday in Lubbock County, compared with readings from 57 to 62 expected today. Amarillo Weather Station forecast maximum readings in the upper 40's Saturday, compared with the middle 50's expected today. Cooler weather is expected to continue through Sunday in the Panhandle and South Plains.

First Wintry Spell

Light but chilling rain fell from the Rio Grande eastward along the Texas coast and up to 100 miles inland today, starting what promised to be the state's first big wintry spell of the season.

Skies cleared meanwhile in far West Texas, where more than four inches of snow Thursday whitened the mountain country around Alpine. Clouds also disappeared in the Panhandle-Plains sector.

Roughly the northern third of the state shivered in sub-freezing temperatures this morning. Farther south readings were mostly in the 40s.

Among points receiving rain were Brownsville, McAllen, Alice, Victoria, Palacios, Galveston, Houston, College Station, Beaumont and Lufkin.

Measurements included .43 inch at Houston, .30 at Austin, .71 at Galveston, .09 at Corpus Christi, .31 at Brownsville, .10 at Laredo and .11 at Presido.

Forecasts called for the rain to taper off gradually, starting in the west, but to continue into Saturday morning in the extreme eastern part of Texas.

Long range predictions, covering the next five days, promised below normal temperatures nearly everywhere in Texas from the weekend through Wednesday. Lows down to 14 degrees in the northwest and 17 in the north central and northeast sections were expected.

Firestone

lionaires live amid movie stars. Police officers moved in, along with a policewoman who posed as a domestic to answer the door and phone.

Days passed uneventfully. No unusual phone calls came, no suspicious cars drove by. The identify of the two suspects was known, and they were known to have long records of burglary, robbery and robbery with violence. All attempts to locate them for surveillance failed.

At 6 o'clock last evening the telephone rang. The policewoman, Barbara Ezell, told the male caller that Mr. Firestone could not come to the telephone. The caller hung up.

At 6:20 a black 1965 Ford drove into the semicircular driveway and stopped in front of the door. Policewoman Ezell gazed through the peephole and saw two large men emerge from the car. One wore a Halloween mask over his face and carried a gun in one hand and a sack containing adhesive tape in the other. He was later identified as Bailey.

Wore Surgical Gloves

The doorbell rang and Miss Ezell asked, "Who's there?"

"Parcel post, ma'am," came the reply.

Behind Miss Ezell stood three veteran Beverly Hills policemen: Lt. B. L. Cork, Sgt. Jack Egger and Det. Jack Mourning. They were armed with two shotguns and a pistol.

Egger motioned Miss Ezell out of the room. Then he reached for the knob and jerked open the door.

"They moved in fast and saw us," Cork said later. "Bailey raised his gun and pointed it at us. In my opinion, they were prepared to shoot us. We shot first."

It was all over in two shotgun blasts and three pistol shots.

Bailey's wallet contained a hundred dollar bill and a cryptic note that may have indicated the high stakes the two gunmen were aiming for. On a fragment of blue paper were written the calculations: 200,000 times 10 equals 2,000,000 and 20 times 400,000 equals 800,000.

Aiming For Millions

Police theorized that Bailey and Scalla may have been aiming for ransom in the millions.

Also in Bailey's wallet was a slip of paper on which was written Firestone's telephone number. In the car were another pair of gloves, a rope, blanket, another mask, a 7mm rifle and ammunition. Bailey and Scalla were both from the nearby San Fernando Valley.

The case did not necessarily end with the deaths of the two men. Hankins said police were still investigating the possibility that others were involved in the kidnap attempt.

Firestone, a personable man who has been active in civic affairs since moving here in 1943, lived alone in the modern, white-stucco house. His wife Polly died a year ago, and his three children live elsewhere: Kimball in Akron, Ohio, and Brooks in Pebble Beach, Calif., and a daughter, Mrs. Samuel C. Register, in Paris, Ky.

To Play In Tourney

On police advice, he remained away from the house after the kidnap attempt became known, but he was in Los Angeles as late as Tuesday. He went to San Francisco to conduct some business and stay with friends. He said Thursday night he doesn't intend to return to Beverly Hills, but will continue with his plans to play in the pro-amateur Bing Crosby golf tournament at Pebble Beach.

"I'm going to help some professional get a good score," he said with a note of irony. "I'm nervous enough in a tournament. Think how I'll be now."

Firestone was one of five sons born to the pioneer of the rubber industry. Other sons were Harvey S. Firestone Jr., chairman of the board of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. of Akron, Ohio; Raymond, president of the corporation; Roger, president of Firestone Plastics Co. and Firestone Synthetic Fibers Co. of Pottstown, Pa.; and Russell, who died in 1951.

Leonard Firestone heads the California subsidiary of the corporation. He has been a board director of Santa Anita race track, an owner of the Los Angeles Rams pro football team, chairman of the board of trustees of the University of Southern California, and member for the Beverly Hills City Council.

operation of the war and flew by helicopter out of landing zones under heavy Communist fire. The U.S. and Aussie forces left behind gas-filled tunnels as gigantic booby traps to be touched off later by the bombs of U.S. planes.

More than 8,000 Americans and a battalion of Australian troops were involved in the search and clear operation 25 to 35 miles northwest of Saigon in the "iron triangle" Communist zone. The mission had been dubbed "Operation Crimp."

Seven Feared Dead

Seven Americans were reported missing and feared dead today in the collision of two U.S. Air Force planes which were aiding South Korean troops fighting the Viet Cong 280 miles northeast of Saigon.

The planes were a C123 transport and an A1E Skyraider.

A spokesman for Air America said its C47 transport plane was about 1,200 feet off the ground when hit by Communist fire. The Viet Cong raced to the wreckage, cut down the pilot and co-pilot with automatic weapons fire and later turned their fire on the rescue helicopter.

Tragic Accident

U.S. Marines planes participating in "Operation Mallard" about 20 miles southwest of the Da Nang air base today made tragic attack which apparently resulted in the deaths of four persons, all civilians.

An official military communique said two jet fighters attacked four sampans "reportedly carrying armed Viet Cong" on the Thin Yen River about 20 miles southwest of Da Nang.

A spokesman said all four vessels were sunk after the planes were guided to their targets by an "aerial observer."

The statement said only that in a mistake of timing four civilians were killed and 16 civilians and five South Vietnamese soldiers wounded. "An extensive investigation into the incident is in progress," the spokesman added.

Clash in Vicinity

U.S. Marines manning an observation post in the area killed four Viet Cong and picked up two Chinese Communist-made rifles and other equipment, the spokesman added.

While the lull in the air war over Communist North Viet Nam completed its 21st day, U.S. Marine jet planes flew 131 combat sorties in the South, dropping 32 tons of bombs and firing 456 rockets.

U.S. Air Force B52s today pounded a suspected Viet Cong target in Quang Nam Province but as usual no details of the raid were disclosed.

South Vietnamese authorities are prepared to tell Secretary of State Dean Rusk why they don't agree with the current U.S. peace offensive. Rusk is due here Saturday from Bangkok, Thailand, where he was conferring with U.S. roving Ambassador W. Averell Harriman.

Chas. A. Guy, editor and publisher of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and a member of the committee, filed a separate report. He said he was almost, but not quite, in full agreement with the report.

Among other comments, Guy said it was his opinion that the Daily Texan he observed during a month or so failed to give sufficient space to report significant campus news and too much space was given over to comments by the editor or other staff members.

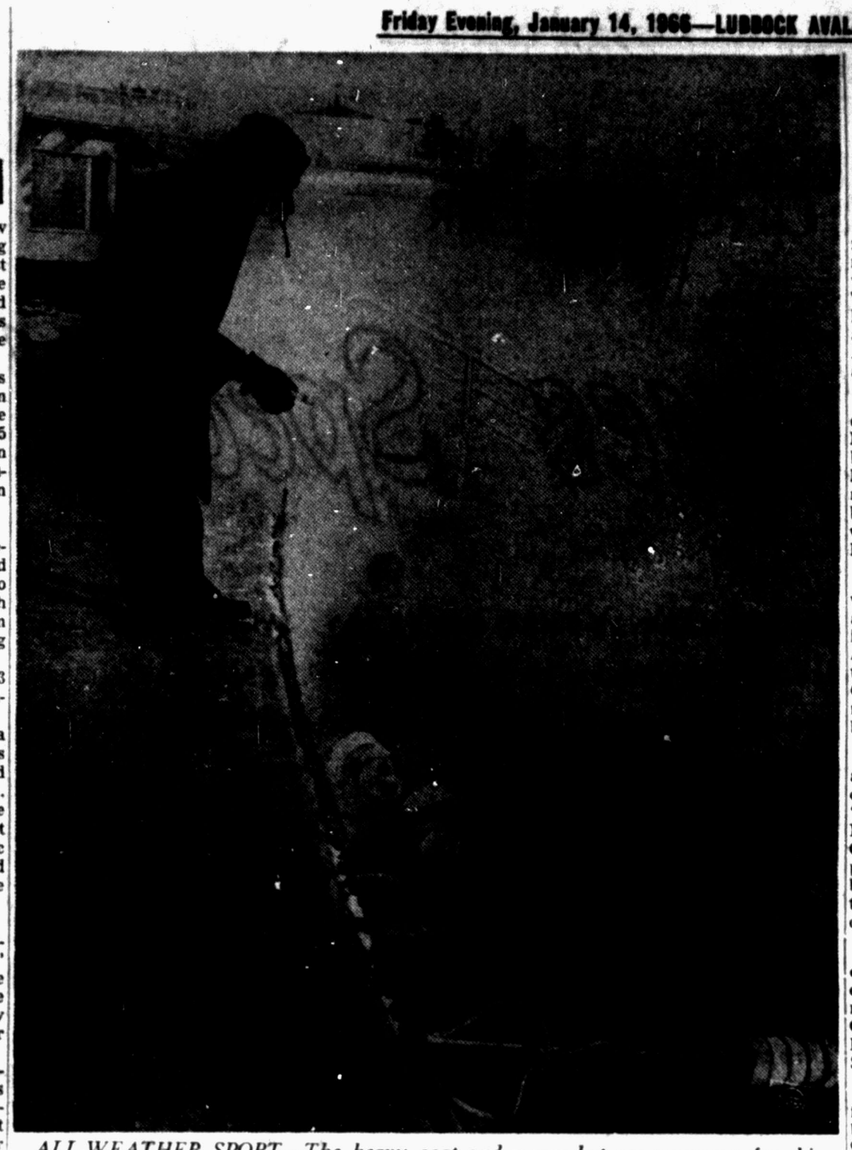

Heath thanked the editors' committee for having given "unstintingly of their time and great abilities." He directed that the full text of the report be published in the Daily Texan, including Guy's separate report.

Family Reunion To End 24 Years Of Waiting

time, Mrs. Burroughs remembers that she had gone to school only part of one year, and that was while she was living with relatives. But when she came to Lubbock she was given an exam and put in the third grade.

"I never failed anything, but it was hard for me to catch up with the class. I remember learning to write by watching the teacher write on the blackboard."

Shortly after the children arrived at the orphanage, Glenn was adopted when he was 3. And none of the brothers and sisters saw him again until last summer when Mrs. Burroughs "found" him.

Also, John was adopted a few months after Glenn left the orphanage by J. P. Hewlett, who now resides in Wilson and is superintendent of Tahoka Public Schools. But the family never lost contact with each other, except for Glenn.

REMEMBERS NOTHING ABOUT CHILDHOOD

Glenn Boyett says he didn't remember anything about his childhood, except that he thought he had a sister named Joyce.

"But I never was really sure I had a 'real' family at all until I met my sister last summer," Boyett said in Lubbock this morning.

After Mrs. Burroughs was married, she began searching for Glenn, not even knowing who had adopted him. Finally, she heard he had been adopted by a family in Sweetwater, so she made numerous trips there to try and locate her brother.

On one such trip in 1955, she and her husband stopped in a cafe to drink coffee and asked another customer if he knew of a family there who had adopted any children. The man recalled Glenn's foster parents, and the chain of "miracles" began to link up.

BUT GLENN'S FOSTER FAMILY had moved from Sweetwater to San Bernardino, Calif., and it was 10 years later that Mrs. Burroughs found her brother.

"I was determined not to give up the search. Glenn was just like my own child. I would have searched until I was 100," Mrs. Burroughs asserts.

Tracing down a cousin of Glenn's foster parents, Mrs. Burroughs learned in about 1956 that her brother was in San Bernardino.

"My husband promised me that when we got the money, we would go to California and look for Glenn. And last summer the possibility finally arrived," Mrs. Burroughs recalls.

So, five months ago, Mrs. Burroughs and her husband went to San Bernardino, a city of about 110,000 persons, to search, knowing only her brother's name.

FOUND NAME IN OLD PHONE BOOK

They stopped at a small cafe and looked in a telephone book and to their surprise found the name "Glenn Boyett." They went to the address listed, but the Boyett family had moved. However, a neighbor gave Mrs. Burroughs the Boyetts' new address.

"We drove over to the address . . . and when Glenn came to the door and I told him who I was, he was stunned. It was the first time he had seen me in 24 years, and wasn't even for certain I really existed," Mrs. Burroughs recalls.

Boyett was surprised to learn they had found his name in a phone book, because he hadn't been listed in the book for more than a year. Miraculously, Mrs. Burroughs had looked in an old phone directory in the cafe.

WHEN MRS. BURROUGHS started to leave San Bernardino, Boyett told his sister he'd like to meet the rest of his family.

Boyett arrived in Lubbock at Mrs. Burrough's home late Thursday night for that prearranged reunion, and Saturday he will see his other brothers and sisters for the first time since his childhood. And the family—except for one brother, Kenneth Doyle Beckham, who lives in California and couldn't attend the reunion—will be together for the first time in 24 years.

How does he feel about "discovering" his family?

"It's hard to describe my feelings, but 'very happy' would sum it up," Boyett says.

POLICE GET INTO ACT

Teenagers Making Spy Film Put On Realistic Showing

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) —Just south of the Union Station a gang armed with clubs and guns was fighting, police were told.

"We were not fighting," said Richard Flores, writer, editor, producer and cameramen for a Lillis High School crew making a spy movie.

"We were acting when all of a sudden all kinds of policemen were there with shotguns pointing at us asking what we were doing," Flores said Thursday.

"Those guns looked real," said Sgt. David Cortney. "Those are big kids. We didn't know what was up. It could have been disastrous if one of them had turned suddenly.

"These are the calls that give you the chills."

"I chased him into a department store. Up the steps he went and me flying after him. He ran into the lingerie department. Then suddenly turned and headed towards the beauty salon. But there he paused and ducked downstairs.

"I kept yelling at him to stop and asking the bystanders to help me. But they just laughed at me.

"Round and round we went—just like something out of a Mack Sennett comedy. Really, now, I felt like Secret Agent 007. But it wasn't funny at the moment.

But we ran down a long corridor. I shouted 'I want that man frisked.' I thought perhaps he was a drug addict or demented. But the people just laughed some more.

Young Men From Foreign Nations Train In U.S. In 'Peace Corps In Reverse'

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chin Suk Yang of Korea, Muhamed Mamser of Jordan, Dickson Zulu of Zambia and Guillermo Rodriguez of Peru built roads, dug irrigation ditches and hauled fish nets in New Mexico last fall.

They got up early each morning, worked hard all day in the rugged Gila Mountain wilderness, then swapped yarns and folk songs around a camp fire at night.

In all, 24 young men from 16 nations took part in the three-month course to prepare them as leaders of national youth service corps along the lines of the Civilian Conservation Corps of the 1930s.

Learn Basic Skills

They learned basic construction skills, physical education techniques, but, most important of all, developed the self confidence to lead others.

The international youth leadership training course was conducted by Sports International and Youth Development a private, non-profit service organization, and financed by the federal Agency for International Development.

A second course will start in mid-February in Puerto Rico. This time 30 young men from 20 nations will take part.

This could be described as a sort of Peace Corps in reverse. Many of the key men running it saw duty with the U.S. Peace Corps, either as staff members or as volunteers.

Dr. David Dichter, former Peace Corps Washington staffer and sports buff, began the organization in 1962 as Sports International. Its first projects were exchanges of athletes and coaches in many sports, involving many nations.

Stresses Two Themes

Dichter said the course emphasizes learning by doing and stresses two themes: That a leader can do hard physical work and still retain his dignity, and that there is no substitute for ungrudging effort if national growth is to take place.

The plan calls for the young men to return to their homes and help organize national youth service corps or work projects capable of involving thousands of young men. Dichter said many already had such plans when they left.

TRAINING FOR YOUTH LEADERSHIP—These are some of the 24 men from 16 nations as they helped build a bridge while taking part in three-month course in New Mexico to prepare them as leaders of national youth service corps along the lines of the Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) of the 1930s. (AP Wirephoto)

Starting last September, the 24 young men spent 10 weeks at Camp Thunderbird in southwestern New Mexico. The program was conducted by Western New Mexico University, with special instructors including forest rangers, soil conservation experts, forestry experts, adult literacy authorities, biologists and a variety of other experts.

Mixed in with lectures on such subjects as soil erosion, irrigation, bridge building, construction and maintenance of recreation facilities, water safety and community development were "do-it-ourselves" projects.

Dichter said during the experience of living and working together, the young men from different countries found they shared many of the same problems in their homelands.

The reaction back home is possibly best expressed by the letter from the director of the Zambia youth service to the fall course director in New Mexico. It said, in part:

"It is only a pity that...we cannot send more to you. Will you please let me know if this course is also open to girls...I should also like to know how many youths you are prepared to take from each country and how many times in a year."

TAX MOVES MAY HURT EXPANSION

Johnson Seeks Business Boom Without Inflation

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The economy will have to grow even faster if President Johnson is to achieve all his defense and "Great Society" goals without monetary inflation.

And some business economists may wonder if the proposed new tax schemes might slow the business boom a bit just when it is supposed to gather speed.

The boom will have to furnish the U.S. Treasury with the money it will need to hold down a deficit that could be inflationary.

Spending To Help

The government itself would be pushing the boom along. The President urges Congress to appropriate nearly $113 billion for the fiscal year starting July 1. This would pump perhaps $8 billion more government money into the economy than in the current fiscal year. If inflation is avoided, the new money would be a big help in keeping prosperity rolling.

But the President also counts on the business boom increasing personal and corporate incomes enough to furnish the federal tax collectors with considerably more revenue than this year. He also wants to get more revenue quickly by earlier tax collections. Together, greater prosperity and faster tax collections are supposed to give the Treasury around $6 billion more revenue than in the current fiscal year. This would hold the Treasury deficit just below $2 billion and thus help stave off inflation.

Problems Explained

Earlier collections means withholding more from pay checks of individuals without changing his total tax bill, and ordering corporations to pay more of their income taxes before 1966 ends, rather than waiting until 1967.

The catch is that earlier collections by the Treasury will be taking money out of the economic stream in the months just ahead. This could more than offset the greater spending by the federal government, which often lags behind appropriations.

And consumer spending is the biggest prop of the current economic boom. Less take-home pay this year might slow down such spending.

Business spending for plant and equipment is a prop of the economy, too. Much of the outlook for greater prosperity in the months ahead has been built on the announcements that corporations plan to spend even more than last year.

May Hurt Expansion

Some economists fear that if the Treasury collects around $3 billion more in corporate tax this year, without affecting the total bill that would be settled eventually, some companies might be pinched for cash and trim their spending plans.

Other economists, however, think that business is more likely to go right ahead with its capital goods investments. It would go into the money market and borrow the $3 billion it otherwise might have available in its cash tills. The demand for loans already is high and growing, and interest rates have been raised and could go still higher. This, too, could chill some business spending intentions.

Results Awaited

Some businessmen shrug the whole thing off. They note that it will be 18 months before the fiscal year the President is talking about ends. And when the Treasury settles its books in July 1967, government spending may be $113 billion, or it may be more; and tax collections may be the projected $111 billion, or they may be less.

In between the nation will have learned if greater government spending has or hasn't overheated the economy; whether individual and corporate incomes have risen, leveled off, or receded.

How government, business and consumers handle their fiscal affairs will go a long way toward deciding if there will or won't be an inflationary spurt that cuts the purchasing value of the dollar painfully.

Demo Candidate In New Mexico Is Critical Of Roadside Signs

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Some roadside signs are giving tourists the wrong idea about New Mexico, says one of the state's four candidates for the Democratic nomination for governor.

"Such signs as 'Come see the rattlesnakes' and 'Get your water bottle, you are entering the desert' put the state in a bad light in the minds of tourists," Roy S. Walker, a Clovis businessman, said in a speech. He urged elimination of such signs.

Boy, 8, Faces Minor "Jellybean" Surgery

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Timmy Denton, 8, will be in the hospital longer than he'd anticipated. He went to the UCLA Medical Center after a minor accident on his bike, and doctors found he had a jellybean lodged in his ear.

Doctors said Timmy, who escaped the accident almost unscathed, will be in the hospital long enough for a minor jellybean operation. How'd he get the jellybean in there? Well, he's not really sure.

Sharp To Continue As Chief In Pacific

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara has approved a two-year extension of Adm. Ulysses S. Grant Sharp's tour as commander in chief for the Pacific.

The Thursday action extended the 59-year-old Sharp's term in the post to June 30, 1968. He took it June 30, 1964.

Formal Opening Slated For Paint-Making Firm

Formal opening of Caprock Paint Manufacturing Co., Clovis Road, will be conducted this weekend with open house festivities scheduled Saturday and Sunday. The public is invited to tour the plant between 1 p.m. and 5 p.m. on each day, according to Garland Newsom, president.

The manufacturing concern actually has been in operation at its present location since January of last year, and it is successor to an earlier paint-making firm operated by Newsom for eight years in 400-block of 26th Street.

Tour Scheduled

Tours will be conducted throughout the 25,000 square-foot facility situated on a 3½-acre tract at the site north of the Clovis Road in northwest Lubbock. Prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be served. Those attending will be shown every process of paint-making, a process that involves use of more than 300 ingredients and numerous laboratory tests before the final product is distributed.

The manufacturing company, of which Billy Morris is vice president and general manager, distributes to retail and industrial outlets throughout West Texas and eastern New Mexico.

Newsom came to Lubbock from Paducah 46 years ago and enrolled on the first day that Texas Tech opened its doors, in 1925. Graduating from Tech, he has operated his own paint stores in Lubbock since 1935.

IN WAR ON REDS:

Unity Call Issued By Peruvian

By TANNER LAINE
Avalanche-Journal Staff

A call for hemispheric unity in the fight against international communism was sounded deep in the heart of West Texas Thursday by Dr. Celso Pastor, Peruvian ambassador to the United States.

Here for a daylong visit sponsored by the Texas Partners of the Alliance, the man who represents Peru in this country told a Lubbock audience at a combined civic clubs luncheon that he had asked President Lyndon B. Johnson to "extend the war against poverty to South America."

"Reds Lose Peru"

"We can't forget," he told the more than 250 persons at a luncheon in the KoKo Palace, "that we have Cuba as a base for international communism and that Russia and China are trying to get her to export it . . . because they believe that is the way to conquer the United States."

Earlier at Lubbock Municipal Airport when he landed Thursday morning, the ambassador had said "the Communists have lost the battle in Peru."

And he added to this at a press conference in the Villa Motel after lunch, the statement that his country had defied the Communists "because Democracy provides the economic freedom needed for Peru's development."

Honored At Reception

While here, the ambassador's party himself; his wife; Antonio Lulli, first counselor to the Peruvian Embassy in Washington; and Edward Marcus, Dallas businessman and chairman of the Texas Partners of the Alliance for Progress toured the Plains Co-op Oil Mill, Texas Tech, and other points of interest.

And, the group was honored at a reception in the Faculty Club of the Student Union Building at Texas Tech. State, county and city officials and their wives joined Texas Tech faculty members at the reception, along with Lubbock civic leaders.

ON INCOME TAX

Certain Amount Of Medical Expenses Are Allowed As Deduction

By RAY DE CRANE
NEA Special Writer

The wisdom of preserving receipts and canceled checks is quickly realized at income tax filing time. Nowhere is this more prudent than in preserving throughout the year all medical expense records.

The person who has all the supporting proof never hesitates to make a proper medical deduction. Those lacking the proof frequently have to overlook this tax-saving opportunity.

Medical expenses are deductible on your tax return to the extent they exceed 3 per cent of income. For the $8,500 total income taxpayer this would mean complete deduction of his medical expenses beyond $255.

Before starting out on your medical deduction, separate first the expenditures for medicines and drugs from your other medical expenses. The drugs are includible in your tabulation beyond one per cent of income. For the $8,500 taxpayer, for example, this would mean the cost of drugs beyond $85.

Your medical expenses include the cost of hospital and health insurance, fees paid to doctors, dentists, optometrist, chiropractor, psychiatrist, Christian Science practitioner, hospital, mental institution, nurses, cost of laboratory tests, X rays, physical therapy treatments, eyeglasses, dentures, hearing aids and batteries, rental of wheel chair or crutches and ambulance hire. Include also the transportation costs in obtaining medical care.

That could be taxi or bus fare or an allowance for the use of your own car. IRS regulations permit the use of a five cents per mile allowance for the use of your own car for medical purposes. You can also include parking charges.

You can consider only those medical expenses for yourself, your spouse and your dependents.

From this medical expense tabulation of our $8,500 taxpayer you have a ready guide for your own return:

Prescribed drugs	$115.00
Less 1% of total income	85.00
Excess	30.00
Hospital insurance	218.00
Bradley Hull, M.D.	85.00
Leslie Slaman, D.D.S.	115.00
Transportation (300 mi. at .05)	15.00

HIGH INSURANCE

Young Male Drivers Are On A Spot

AUSTIN (AP)—The War Baby generation is flooding the auto insurance market and finding the going rough, but the State Board of Insurance is receiving fewer complaints than ever.

"We've had surprisingly little mail," Chairman Hunter McLean said in an interview. "I don't guess I've had 50 letters come to my attention."

Even the recent rate increase, which increased auto liability rates an average of 13 per cent, failed to accelerate the complaints to previous highs.

Realize Cause

"I think the vast majority of the public realizes what causes the rates to go up," McLean said. "They see news stories on highway accidents, and they are hitting home."

Young men drivers who are not married make up 2.3 per cent of the drivers, but they account for 4.7 per cent of all auto insurance claims.

Those same drivers also have the costliest accidents, the companies say. Unmarried male drivers have an average loss cost 156 per cent higher than the average for female and older drivers who have bodily injury insurance. For property damage insurance, the figure is 132 per cent.

Insurance companies are taking an increasingly tough attitude toward young drivers, but no industry official will say the situation is becoming critical.

Coverage Costly

Parents of teen-age boys find it harder to buy auto insurance when their sons begin driving. When they succeed, they find the coverage is costly. The state board sets higher rates for men under 25.

The rates can go even higher if teen-age drivers become involved in accidents and are forced to buy insurance through the assigned risk pool.

Insurance agents say a parent's best chance to buy insurance for a son is to deal with the agent who handles the parent's insurance. This is a strong factor in encouraging companies to accept the teenager.

Even this might not work in some cases. If the parent's agent has sold policies to too many bad drivers, the agent's company may refuse to accept such marginal business as teenagers.

Cool To Proposal

Insurance companies always are interested in minimizing their risk, and some have asked the State Board of Insurance to

ONE OF BIGGEST MANHUNTS UNDERWAY

British Area Combed For Child Killer

CANNOCK, England (UPI) — More than 200 policemen, patrolmen as well as detectives, were seeking a "very dangerous child killer" here today in one of Britain's biggest manhunts of recent times.

The unknown killer is wanted for the murder of Margaret Reynolds, 6, and Diane Tift, 5, whose bodies were found this week in a water-filled ditch near here.

The slain children came from the Birmingham area, about 15 miles south of Cannock. Margaret was last seen alive Sept. 8, while the Tift girl disappeared Dec. 30.

Police warned parents in the area to keep close watch on children and not let them wander far from home. Diane disappeared while walking home from her grandmother's house, barely a quarter of a mile away.

"We are hunting a killer who may well strike again—a man who is very dangerous as far as children are concerned," a police official said.

TAKES OVER LAB

Young Chemist Newest Member Of DPS Here

JERRY McCARTY
Avalanche-Journal Staff

Take the evidence in a test tube, add the testing of a young Department of Public Safety chemist and toxicologist, and the results may put the defendant in a criminal case behind bars.

Craig mans the lab at the Department of Public Safety headquarters at 41st Street and Avenue R, serving the 60-county Lubbock region. It is one of six such labs in the state.

Idle One Year

For more than a year the lab had stood idle following the transfer of Eldon Straughn to the headquarters lab in Austin.

The job is Craig's first since graduation from Arlington State College last June with a bachelor of science degree in chemistry.

He landed the assignment in Lubbock after a five-month training period at the Austin headquarters lab, which has a staff of seven and during Straughn's absence had handled all work

Producers Ask Change

WASHINGTON (UPI)— In view of pressure from congressmen and cotton growers in the cotton belt, the Agriculture Department appears ready to look over cotton acreage allotment rules to see if they might be changed as to release of allotments.

Gordon Preuit, cotton producer from Tuscumbia, Ala., and producers and operators of farm-related business from Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Texas, North Carolina and South Carolina met with department officials Thursday. Preuit said the department indicated it will have a study of the matter.

Old Regulation

An old regulation has been suggested for reinstatement to require growers who want to keep their cotton acreage allotment history either to plant or to release 75 per cent of their allotments.

Acreage released this way could be reapportioned to other producers in the same county or state.

Producers have complained that regulations on 1966 cotton will bring cotton production down to half its potential unless changed.

That would hurt business heavily in some cotton areas next fall, Preuit said, and might make many rural dwellers pull up stakes and move to town.

SPACE AGE SNOOPER

MANILA (UPI)—A six-inch wooden ball with a radioactive "heart" solved the problem of thousands of residents of a nearby town plagued with a water shortage for the last three years. The ball traveled about 11-2 miles inside an eight-inch water pipeline and pinpointed to engineers an obstruction in the water supply for Binan Town.

Selecting fashionable and becoming ensembles is a speciality with Mrs. Robert Gentry, 4610 19th St., and her daughters, La Danna Sue, 13, and Robbi, 11. Mrs. Gentry explains that La Danna Sue makes clothing selections "entirely on her own," and that the younger daughter still requests help from her mother.

La Danna Sue and Robbi attend Mackenzie Junior High School and their brother, Kirk, 9, attends Rush Elementary.

Mrs. Gentry's complexion and dark hair are complemented by an after-five sheath of silver sequins and crystal bead loops.

Tailored ensembles are preferred for daytime wear by this week's Silhouette. She illustrates this preference by modeling a dress of sandlewood light-weight wool designed with long, set - in sleeves, a jewel neckline and princess-style bodice extending into a panel skirt with slightly gathered side panels.

Basic accessories are a charm bracelet of gold, two-strand pearl and gold necklace, and gold and pearl earclips. She chooses either brown leather low heeled shoes or black alligator.

Mrs. Gentry lists activities as being a provisional member of Junior League of Lubbock, membership in Fortune Hunter's Investment club, and Wabbi's, a service club, attending Broadway Church of Christ, bridge, cooking, swimming and handwork. She explains that when traveling, she selects coordinates, usually in colors of black and white.

When the normal line of play cannot possibly produce a successful result, the declarer must rely on a long shot, no matter how great the odds. Failure to pay strict heed to this principle results in the loss of many contracts that might otherwise be salvaged. Observe today's hand where South was the declarer at five diamonds.

West opened the four of hearts. The king was played from dummy and East covered with the ace. He cashed the queen of hearts next and then exited the jack of diamonds.

South drew trump in three rounds, crossed over to dummy with the ace of spades and then led the queen of clubs to take a finesse in that suit. West produced the king of clubs for the setting trick.

South muttered something concerning the poor luck that found both the ace of hearts and the king of clubs offside. North encountered by observing that his partner could have fulfilled his contract by laying down the ace of clubs instead of taking the finesse.

South replied that he could not have led the ace of clubs without first looking into West's hand. Altho fully in accord with declarer's ethics, nevertheless we are inclined to agree with North for the simple reason that South cannot avoid the loss of a club trick even if the king is in the East hand unless that card is a singleton. Suppose, for example, that the queen of clubs is led and covered by the king and ace. The jack wins the next trick; however, the nine or ten must become established for the opposition on the next round, no matter how the suit divides.

Inasmuch as declarer's only legitimate chance for success was to find the lone king in either hand, he should have played for that remote prospect. Jan. 25 in 100F Hall.

Ambassador's Wife Honored At Coffee

By FREDA McVAY
Women's Editor

Mercedes Belaunde de Pastor, wife of Peru's Ambassador to the United States, was entertained with a coffee Thursday morning in the home of Mrs. Marion T. Key, 3007 Mesa Rd.

Mrs. Pastor, who began learning the English language at the age of seven when she spent three years in Miami, Fla., is the sister of Peru's president, Fernando Belaunde Terry, who at one time attended the University of Texas.

She found little trouble conversing with guests at the coffee, which was attended by wives of city officials, wives of the presidents of four civic clubs, and wives of the Texas Partners of the Alliance for Progress, host of the couple's tour.

Mrs. Pastor has visited in Texas several times, but never in West Texas, she reported.

However, she chatted easily with the representative West Texas women on such "typical" subjects as the weather—of course, foods and eating, making coffee and the attributes of several Texas cities.

"Someone told me the Americans don't eat very much," she laughed, "but it seems like we've been eating all the time."

She added that she had also been drinking coffee a lot, although it is not so strong as Peruvian coffee, which is made "drop by drop."

"In Peru we have many ladies luncheons and teas, but not so many 'coffees'—that is more of an American custom."

Mrs. Pastor reported that, in addition to "ladies luncheons," women in Peru are very active in social welfare projects and also participate in politics.

Several Congresswomen

"In addition to the women's activities in helping with political campaigns, we have several Congresswomen in Peru, and several women who serve on city councils," she said.

The Ambassador and Mrs. Pastor have been in Washington, D. C., for two years, during which time Mrs. Pastor apparently has become a great "booster" of the U. S. capitol.

"Everyone is so kind, and so hospitable—I really love it," she said.

The Pastors were accompanied Wednesday night to Houston, final city on their Texas tour, by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Shipley, 3005 25th St. Shipley is an executive committeeman of the Alliance.

The Ambassador and Mrs. Pastor will return to Washington on Saturday.

Beauty After Forty

Dear Edyth Thornton McLeod

"WHAT SHOULD a mature man and woman take as a handsome house gift to a couple who have built a new, small retirement house? We are old friends."—W.

Why not be direct and ask your friends what they need? People who retire and build a new house often do not want many "things." They want to rest and not be burdened with things they cannot use. So ask!

"I AM 59. I had gray hair and I have had it dyed for ten years. Now that I am leaving my job, should I just let it go gray? It does make me look older."—W. P.

Why have something that makes you look older? And what are you doing—retiring from the world? You need an interest in yourself now more than ever. "Never give up . . . you're never too old." That is a good motto to keep in front of you.

"I HAVE never had any bright colors, but now I crave something different. I am 65, and am now living in Florida. It is so pretty here that my dark, plain clothes look and feel so drab."—J. J.

Of course, get some pretty clothes, such as simple dresses in pastels with sweaters to match. This will brighten your life and you can blend with the scenery. If you are going without hats, get a new and attractive hair-do.

"MY DAUGHTER is being married in a large Western city. I do not go out much but she insists that I fly out there. Must I have real dressy things? The wedding is at noon in a large church, and the bride is wearing a white wool suit trimmed in gold braid. What should I wear? I have gray hair and am very plain."—Mom.

If you are "plain," it is your fault, so get busy and improve. Wear an attractive wool suit in a rich navy blue or any color that you like, a small hat, gloves and bag. If you do not know how to shop successfully, ask the buyer at the town's best store to aid you. She will be happy to help.

Monday—"Dear Edyth Thornton McLeod"

PERENNIALS ELEVATED TO HALL OF FAME

Law Student's Wife Heads Best-Dressed List

AMONG BEST DRESSED—Queen Sirikit of Thailand, left, actress Dina Merrill, center, and Mrs. Charles Wrightsman, have been named among the world's best-dressed women. They were named to the Hall of Fame by a committee from votes cast by perhaps 2,500 fashion experts. (AP Wirephoto)

NEW YOR K(AP) — Does an elegant sense of fashion run in families?

Mrs. Carter Burden at 22 tops the 1965 list of the best dressed women in the world, announced Thursday. She is the wife of a Columbia University law student from a socially prominent family, but more importantly, from a fashion viewpoint, she is the daughter of Mrs. William Paley, a member of the Fashion Hall of Fame.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, who usually heads the best-dressed, was elevated to the Fashion Hall of Fame.

The former First Lady's younger sister, Princess Lee Radziwill, often on the list, lost out. Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, mother of the late President Kennedy, repeated from last year.

The Ford sisters — Anne and Charlotte — who recently became Mrs. Giancarlo Uzielli and Mrs. Stavros Niarchos, again were cited as one entry. "Their taste is identical, representing the best of the young international way of dressing," a list committee noted. Their mother, the former Mrs. Henry Ford II, is in the Fashion Hall of Fame.

Among the royal members on the list is Mrs. Angus Ogilvy, the Princess Alexandra of Kent, daughter of the Duchess of Kent, also in the Fashion Hall of Fame.

Then there are the Vanderbilts. Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt of New York placed second, and the former Gloria Vanderbilt, now wife of New York television director Wyatt Cooper, came in third.

The best-dressed list — compiled by a fashion committee from perhaps 2500 votes cast by style experts around the world — goes in this order: Mrs. Burden; Mrs. Vanderbilt; Mrs. Cooper; the Ford Sisters; Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy; Mrs. Kirk Douglas, wife of the actor; Mrs. Ogilvy; actress Barbra Streisand; Mrs. Charles Engelhard, wife of the mining magnate; Mrs. William McCormick Blair, wife of the American ambassador to the Philippines; Princess Luciana Pignatelli of Rome; and Princess Paola, wife of the Belgian crown prince.

"Perennials Elevated"

To make way for newcomers, perennials on the list are frequently named to the Fashion Hall of Fame. Besides Mrs. Kennedy, five other list regulars were elevated for 1965: Mrs. Charles Wrightsman, of New York and Palm Beach, Fla.; Queen Sirikit of Thailand; Dame Margot Fonteyn, British ballet star; actress Dina Merrill and Mrs. Gilbert Miller, wife of the theatrical producer.

Six women in the fashion profession also received Hall of Fame rating: Sybil Connolly, Irish fashion designer; Enid (Mrs. Ira) Haupt, Seventeen magazine publisher; Mrs. S. I. Newhouse, wife of the owner of Vogue, Glamour and Mademoiselle; Geraldine Stutz (Mrs. David Gibbs), president of the New York store Henri Bendel; author Anita Colby, and Princess Irene Galitzine, Rome fashion designer.

SHE'S NO. 1—Mrs. Carter Burden, 22, was given No. 1 position among the best-dressed women in the world. She is the daughter of Mrs. William Paley, herself a member of the fashion Hall of Fame. (AP Wirephoto)

William Patzig, Cynthia J. Lee Hear Ring Vows

SAN ANTONIO (Special) — Capt. and Mrs. William Dennis Patzig will reside at 5317 West 21st Street in Amarillo, following their marriage Dec. 28 in St. Francis Episcopal Church.

The bride is the former Miss Cynthia Joanna Lee, daughter of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert E. Lee. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. William A. Patzig of Tulia.

The bride is a graduate of Nile C. Kinnick, American High School in Yokohama, Japan, and of C. W. Post College of Long Island University with a BA in psychology. She also attended Loyola University at New Orleans, La.

Capt. Patzig, who is with the U. S. Air Force in Amarillo, is a graduate of Tulia High School and Baylor University.

Polly's Pointers

Old Ties Make "Crazy" Quilts

DEAR POLLY—My Pointer is for Mrs. M. B. who wanted to know how to make a quilt out of neckties. I made such a quilt by cutting the ties in various shapes. Some were left in their original shape. Arrange and baste the pieces on cloth blocks of any desired size. Feather stitch, with contrasting colors, around each piece following the bastings. Machine stitch these blocks together, turn to the right side and feather stitch over the seams. Our grandmothers used to call these "crazy" quilts.

I added some velvet scraps to mine. I did not use any batting, just plain colored rayon backing and tacked the top and bottom together with coarse embroidery silk. A strip of colored fabric was used to bind the edges.

When your girls are tired of their full skirts, make use of them. I ripped up a wool pleated skirt, put the pattern crosswise on the material and made my granddaughter a jumper shift. A jumper can often be made for a little girl out of a lady's straight skirt.—Linda

DEAR POLLY: Recently while painting my hall I ran into difficulties when it came to doing the part over the stairs. I tried various things but nothing worked until I discovered that the handle of my paint roller fitted snugly into the tube attachment of my vacuum cleaner. By coupling the two together I could reach the highest point from the stairs without the danger of falling and without smearing the ceiling.—May

• • •

DEAR POLLY: Save those old bicycle tire tubes. My husband cuts pieces long enough to slip on the handles of hammers, hedge cutters, screw drivers and other such tools and they provide a surer grip and are easy on the hands. He uses a drawing board table and was always misplacing his T-square and triangle so he stapled strips cut from old tubes on the back of the board and now slips these things in place so they are always within arm's reach.—Mrs. W. B.

• • •

DEAR POLLY: I would like to share with the others the way I made a beautiful plant for my home. I put two small sprouts of English ivy in a pot and when they grew too long to stand up by themselves, I transplanted them to a large pot and then took a wire coat hanger, bent it to a circle and buried the hook in the dirt. One sprout of ivy was trained to follow the wire clockwise and the other counter clockwise. These two reverse circles of ivy have gone round and round these past six years until I have an almost solid circular mass of leaves. It is beautiful and requires little watering.—L. P.

Hawkins-Fogerson Vows To Be Pledged

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Hawkins, Rt. 6, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Beverly Darlene Hawkins, to Jerry Mike Fogerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell B. Fogerson, 3418 29th St.

Vows will be exchanged Feb. 14 in the Overton Methodist Church.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Cooper High School, and the prospective bridegroom has attended Cooper High School.

Paynes Honored In Country Club

Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Payne, 5215 14th St., observed their 50th wedding anniversary with a dinner in Lubbock Country Club Sunday.

Hosts were their daughter, Mrs. Bill Wright, 4004 13th St., and sons, Stephen Payne, 5228 14th St., and Paul Payne, 5211 14th St.

The couple's six grandchildren and their brothers and sisters attended.

The former Miss Cora Reed of Bell County and Payne were married Jan. 9, 1916 in Crosbyton. They resided in Lubbock, Ralls and other nearby towns until moving back to Lubbock in 1937.

NEEDLE CLUB MEETS

The Betsy Ross Needle Club met Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. W. G. Tarrance, 2206 31st St., with 14 members and one visitor, Mrs. John Ray, present. Projects were discussed and refreshments were served. Next meeting will be Jan. 27 in the home of Mrs. Carmen Tripp, 1904 28th St.

Preston-Lowry Vows Exchanged In Shallowater

SHALLOWATER (Special) — Double ring wedding vows were read at 6 p.m. Wednesday for Mis. Gloria Jean Lowry and Norwin Neff Preston Jr. by the Rev. Gordon Smith, pastor of the First Baptist Church, as one of the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Lowry, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neff Preston.

Mrs. Jay Stanton, soloist, was accompanied by Mrs. Gordon Smith, organist.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore an off white suit with black accessories. The bridal bouquet of feathered carnations and an orchid was carried atop a white Bible.

Maid of honor was Miss Jo Ann Preston, sister of the bridegroom. Mrs. Walter Young was matron of honor.

Tommy Hood was best man, and Walter Young was groomsman.

After a wedding trip to Colorado Springs, Colo., the couple will be at home at 1112 9th St., Shallowater.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston are both 1965 graduates of Shallowater High School. Preston is a freshman majoring in agriculture at Texas Tech.

Zonta Members Receive Review

The Zonta Club met Thursday night in the Plainsmen Hotel with 11 members and 2 guests, Miss Katherine Weaver and Dr. Lola Beth Green, present.

Three new members were initiated: Mrs. Jimmie Settler, Mrs. L. Lokey and Mrs. Genivieve Taylor.

Dr. Florenze Petzel reviewed "The Last Flight" (Amelia Earheart).

Mrs. Berly Mayfield, president, presided.

"Granny"

Dear "Granny": My, what a short fuse you have! Don't provoke a revolution, but do suggest that the code be revised to include the granny dress. Whatever else may be said about it, it is certainly the most modest fad that has come along for teenage girls in a long time. And don't blame the principal for making the decisions when there is a question. He is the highest authority at your school, and the privilege is his.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law rarely buys a gift for anyone. She just takes the gifts people have given her, has them rewrapped and gives them to others. This has been going on for years, and everyone in the family knows this. I once had some lovely tea towels out, and one of my guests remarked, "Where did you get them? I gave some to your mother-in-law five years ago and have never seen any like them." One of her sisters gave her a beautiful nightgown, and the next year she turned around and gave it to another sister for her birthday! I gave my mother-in-law some stationery and dusting powder for Christmas last year, and this year she gave it to my daughter! I now hesitate to put out anything she's given me (like a candy dish or ash tray) because I'm sure someone gave it to her and if I'm asked where I got it, what do I say?

At A Loss

Dear At: The problem is hers, not yours. If anyone asks you where anything came from, tell them the truth. It is no reflection on you that your mother-in-law goes gift shopping in her own drawers.

HEMORRHOIDS?
New formula works 5 ways for faster, longer-lasting relief!
In clinical tests of new M.P.O. — an advanced treatment for hemorrhoids piles) doctors reported "results were good to excellent" for 5 out of every 6 patients. M.P.O. works 5 ways for faster, longer-lasting relief.
1. Helps ease pain faster. You get more medically accepted pain-relieving ingredients, including Benzocaine, than in the preparation you may now be using.
2. Helps shrink swollen tissues. M.P.O. quickly releases the proven vaso-constrictor, Ephedrine Sulfate, to reduce swelling.
3. Relieves embarrassing itch. M.P.O. is homogenized for faster absorption, faster relief.
4. Gives longer relief. A new temperature-stable base holds medication in place, prolongs relief-bringing action.
5. Fights danger of infection. Proven germ-killer Hexachlorophene completes the formula.

Women's Group Plans Book Fair

Lubock's professional chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, women's national fraternity, will stage its third annual "Book Fair" Feb. 11-12 at Piggly-Wiggly Continental.

The group is asking for donations of old books, such as paperbacks, hardbacks, murder mysteries, medical books, encyclopedias or textbooks, for the sale.

Persons interested in donating books may take them by Buckner's Advertising Agency, 1803 Broadway, or call Mrs. Emil Carmichael, Lubbock chapter president, at PO2-8811, Ext. 4136, between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Compromise Sought On Airline Fares

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) and the heads of 11 major U.S. airlines may meet to seek a compromise solution to hold the line on passenger fares.

CAB Chairman Charles S. Murphy Thursday invited the airline heads to a meeting to discuss an airline proposal to let them resume surcharges for net jet routes while offsetting this with a cut in general fares.

LONDON — Postal service in England will be extended.

ANNUAL WEEK OF PRAYER SET

Progress In Church Unity One Bright Spot In World

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International

In a world where men are struggling with so many seemingly-insoluble problems, it is heartening to note that real progress is being achieved in a task that once appeared hopeless.

The task is reuniting the church.

Coming up Jan. 18-25 is "a week of prayer for Christian unity." Millions of Protestants and Catholics will participate in joint prayer services, Bible study, discussions and other activities in which they'll get to know one another not as "those people" but as fellow Christians.

When this annual week of prayer was initiated 20 years ago, it was widely regarded as a far-fetched idea. Why should Catholics and Protestants pray for unity when they couldn't even deal civilly with one another?

Use Common Book

Today it seems so natural and right for Catholics and Protestants to be praying together that one is surprised to learn that this will be the first year in which they've had a common prayer booklet to use at Unity Week services.

Even to a reporter who has covered each step, it is almost incredible how far the ecumenical movement has gone toward healing ancient divisions in the Christian family.

Last month, Pope Paul VI participated in a joint worship service with Protestant leaders who attended the Vatican Ecumenical Council as observers. No Pope had done such a thing since the Reformation.

A few days later, at simultaneous ceremonies in Rome and Istanbul, the Pope and the ecumenical Patriarch of the Orthodox communion rescinded the exchange of excommunications which separated the eastern half of the church from the western half in the great schism of 1054 A. D.

Joint Talks Begun

In the United States during the past year, high-level theological discussions were started, on a continuing basis, between Catholics and Episcopalians, Catholics and Lutherans, Catholics and Presbyterians, Catholics and Orthodox.

Within the Protestant fold, six major denominations made so much progress in their "consultation on church union" that they instructed a drafting committee to present a formal merger plan for consideration at a meeting in Dallas in April.

Less dramatic but possibly even more important in the long run were ecumenical encounters on the local level. In hundreds of U.S. communities, Protestants and Catholics worked together on civic projects, cooperated in a common fight against racial injustice and poverty, or simply sat down together to talk over their differences.

Met In Homes

One of the most successful experiments in bringing the ecumenical movement down to the grass roots was carried out in Worcester, Mass., where more than 100 small groups of Catholics and Protestants, numbering 12 to 15 persons each, met in the living rooms of private homes to discover from frank and friendly conversation not only where they differ but also what they have in common as Christians.

The "Worcester plan" worked so well that a major effort will be made during the coming year to extend it to other communities across the country. The National Council of Churches (Protestant) and the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine (Catholic) have jointly published a 256-page paperback book entitled "Living Room Dialogues" to serve as a guide for such groups.

No Reunion Yet

None of this means that the millenium has arrived. Organic reunion in one great church still looks like a distant goal. Pope Paul acknowledged this in his talk to the Protestant observers last month.

"A great stretch of the road remains ahead of us," he said.

But, the Pope added, one thing at least has already begun:

"We have begun to love one another."

That may turn out to be the greatest accomplishment of the 20th century, not excluding the splitting of the atom and the conquest of space.

IN ST. LOUIS

Elimination Of Synod Sought By Presbytery

By ROBERT SHAW

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — The Presbytery of St. Louis of the United Presbyterian Church is enlisting the support of other presbyteries in an attempt to eliminate the centuries-old synod from the church structure.

The drive by the presbytery is a counter move against a recommendation last May by a special committee of the General Assembly of the church that synods be given more authority.

The St. Louis churchmen fear that increasing the power of the synods would remove decision making from the more local presbyteries. They want the presbyteries strengthened.

They propose that the synods, whose power basically is judicial, be converted into "area offices" that would coordinate the activities of the various service agencies of the church, while retaining some of their judicial powers. There would be only a few of these offices scattered about the nation.

Larger Role

The General Assembly's special committee proposes a much larger role for the synods in church administration.

The committee wants to reduce the number of synods from 33 to 14 to make them more regional in character and give them power over such matters as presbytery property, budgeting, program planning and strategy, now the responsibility of the presbyteries.

Dr. James Spivey, executive secretary of the St. Louis Presbytery, said the philosophy behind the proposal was that the synod is more removed from the places of need and can more objectively apply the resources of the church to the broad spectrum of needs.

"Our response is that by removing this authority from the presbyteries, we fail in the need to involve the people ... we tend to make our actions more professional," Dr. Spivey said.

"There are those who say leave to the presbyteries the care and oversight of churches and ministers, things spiritual.

"They say free the presbytery of the burden of business so it can do its work," Dr. Spivey added.

"But our presbytery says this is part of the church. We think that it reflects in a more vital way the total life of the church."

If the St. Louis Presbytery gets enough support, the special committee's report, in the works several years, might be returned for further study at the 178th General Assembly meeting in Boston, Mass., in May. At the same time, the presbytery hopes its counter proposal will be given consideration.

Both sets of recommendations are aimed at streamlining the church structure, a need Dr. Spivey said has been recognized for years.

He said, however, that the special committee's report intended to elicit response upon which it could base a more definitive program of reorganization, had caused some unrest.

More Palatable

He said the St. Louis proposals, which churchmen here believe to be the first to be offered as an alternative, were more palatable because they take a "grassroots" approach.

"The synods grew up in the 17th Century during the Reformation, but they never have been seats of authority over churches and ministers, Dr. Spivey said. He said they were "something of a fifth wheel."

The presbyteries exercise primary control over the more than 9,000 congregations of the 3.25-million-member church. Synods are intermediate judicatories between the presbyteries and the General Assembly, the national governing body.

Synod boundaries roughly follow state lines, sometimes cutting across growth and population patterns, sometimes not in the best interest of the church, Dr. Spivey said. He said that under the St. Louis proposals, after synods have been eliminated, the 189 presbyteries would be reduced to fewer than 100, basing them on growth and population patterns.

The presbyteries would assume all nonjudicial functions of the synods, he said.

The St. Louis Presbytery will send its proposals to the other presbyteries, as well as to the special committee, for consideration.

National Park Service Historian Aids Tech Study

Robert Utley, chief historian of the National Park Service, is on the Texas Tech campus this week conducting informal seminars with Department of Park Administration, Horticulture and Entomology graduate students who are engaged in surveys and research involving historical and recreational possibilities for parks in Texas.

"I am quite impressed by the students' eagerness, thoroughness, planning and potential," Utley said. "I have been offering as much help as possible in our discussions." The graduate students are Alden Sievers of Escalon, Calif.; Jerry Rogers, Vega, and Don Stence, Miami, Fla.

Screen Sites

Elio J. Urbanovsky, professor and head of the department, said Utley is the first of several National Park Service officials who will visit Tech in the next two years to offer assistance to park administration graduate students.

Utley is involved in plotting strategy on historical portions of the parks operated by the National Park Service.

"It is our job to define historical sites, survey the resources and screen out less significant locations," Utley said.

Ties To Past

"Evidences of the past are disappearing from the United States, and I believe we need tangible ties to the past to remain a great nation," Utley said.

"Americans with more leisure time on their hands are discovering that history is a part of recreation as they visit parks and historical sites over the nation," he said.

Utley pointed out that a majority of the 50 states have formed historical recognition programs of one kind or another, which serve not only to preserve historical sites but to add tourist dollars to the local economy.

Panel Discusses Community Arts

"The Role of Fine Arts in the Community" was the subject of a panel discussion held in the Reddy Room at Monterey Center Thursday before an audience of approximately 50 persons.

All phases of community cooperation between the multiple phases of arts and entertainment in the city and on the Texas Tech and Lubbock Christian College campus were covered by the panel and audience and plans were discussed for the formation of a coordinating Fine Arts Council in the future which would help alleviate conflicting dates and give mutual aid and benefit to each other in the pursuance of fine arts activities.

Introductory remarks were made by Mrs. Dorris Jeanne Smith, president of the sponsoring Theatre Guild of the Lubbock Theatre Centre and by Mrs. David Keay, chairman of the meeting.

The panel members included Jack Sheridan, Avalanche-Journal fine arts editor, as moderator; Carl Gandy, manager of the Lubbock Municipal Auditorium-Coliseum; Mrs. Dorothy Pijan, program director of the Texas Tech Student Union; Mrs. Vera Simpson, representing the Tech speech department; Mrs. June Bearden, speech head at Lubbock Christian College; Dr. Harold Simpson, chairman of the Tech Artists Course series; Mrs. Burt French, representing the Lubbock Theatre Centre, and Walter Windsor, past president of the LTC.

Carr Issues Ruling On Commission Races

AUSTIN (AP) — A person whose home is moved by a precinct boundary change from one county commissioner's precinct to another is ineligible to run for commissioner in his former precinct, Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr held Friday.

Carr's opinion was to Ward County Atty. Ed Keys at Monahans. Keys said new commissioner precincts would take effect Jan. 1, 1967.

"The precinct residence requirement for running for county commissioner in the 1966 elections is to be determined with reference to the boundaries as they will exist after the effective date of the order," the opinion said.

ALL ACTION

Johnson In Best Of Spirits

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson seems in the best of spirits these days — like a man who has climbed Mt. Everest and is satisfied with the view.

One long-time Johnson aide said today he thought the President was in a better mood this week than ever before.

Other Evidence

And there was other evidence to support the conclusion that the chief executive was feeling just fine.

— Johnson said so himself Thursday.

— For the first time since his Oct. 8 surgery, the President is in full public view. In the past two days, he made a major address in living color to Congress and the nation, submitted with smiles and warmth to a couple of time-consuming ceremonies and held his first solo news conference since Aug. 25.

— Johnson, even when voicing complaints and criticism to the White House staff, has tended to soften them by cloaking them in banter. His aides said this was a good sign.

— And he has been trying out off-the-cuff humor in public.

No Sure Answers

There can be many guesses but no sure answers.

For one thing, he has behind him the State of the Union message with its ambitious call for congressional action in 1966. And the budget, due Jan. 24, is virtually completed.

The other, bigger presidential worry, Viet Nam, is a question mark to the public. He says it's too early to tell whether his attempts at peacemaking will succeed or fail. Perhaps his mood mirrors his hopes.

Johnson made very few public appearances between Oct. 8 and Jan. 12 when he stepped beneath 45 klieg lights in the House chamber to discuss the State of the Union.

All Action

But Thursday, he was all action, accepting a citizenship award from college football coaches with an appropriate joke about post-season firings and greeting the 1966 March of Dimes poster girl with kisses and gentlemanly compliments.

Then he met the press for an unannounced news conference that caught several late-arriving reporters at a barred door.

When a reporter asked if Johnson's report to Congress on Viet Nam coincided with one on the same subject a Senate team headed by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, Johnson quipped: "No, it was somewhat later."

Then a lady reporter asked if something might be done about complaints from women in the armed forces who are barred from duty in Viet Nam.

Funeral Here Today For W. B. Hester

Funeral services for W. B. Hester, 72, longtime Lubbock resident were to be at 2:30 p.m. today in the Sanders Memorial Chapel with the Rev. J. R. Anderson, pastor of the Full Gospel Church, officiating.

Burial was to be in City of Lubbock Cemetery under direction of Sanders Funeral Home.

Hester died of an apparent heart attack at 11:45 a.m. Thursday at his resident, 3011 Harvard.

He had been a Lubbock resident since moving here from Plainview in 1955. He was a cotton seed sampler for Paymaster Cotton Oil Mill.

Survivors include his wife; three sons, Duard W., 3011 Harvard; Lewis Wayne, Sublette, Kan., and Lawson, Sacramento, Calif.; three daughters, Mrs. Rosella Chancey, 1307 60th; Mrs. Lola Dean Harris, Brownfield, and Mrs. Johnnie Weaver, Sweetwater; four brothers, Donnie, Silverton; Porter, Los Angeles; Dow, Dallas, and Charley, Sweetwater; a sister, Mrs. Mary Smith, Silverton; 14 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Throckmorton Rites Scheduled Saturday

Funeral services for Mrs. William P. (Maxine) Throckmorton, 55, 1307 E. Rice St., are set for 2 p.m. Saturday in Wesley Methodist Church.

Cuban Forays High On Agenda

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Resuming anti-Castro forays into Cuba is high on the agenda for 1966, say Cuban exile representatives.

"This year there will be continuous actions, effective actions that will help bring about Fidel Castro's fall," said the Cuban exile representation in its newspaper. "These actions will start soon."

Andres Nazario Sargen, head of the Revolutionary Alliance, whose commander, Eloy Gutierrez Menoyo, is Castro's prisoner, said: "This will be the most violent year except for the 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion."

Activist leaders said coordinated raids, with several groups participating, will be carried out.

Louis Huneke Rites Are Scheduled Today

Services of the Liturgy of the Word were to be at 4 p.m. today at Franklin-Bartley Chapel for Louis Huneke, 77, 3508 52nd St.

The Rev. Tim Tinnes of Christ the King Catholic Church was to officiate. Burial was to be in Resthaven Memorial Park under direction of Franklin-Bartley Funeral Home.

Huneke died at 9:05 p.m. Wednesday in Veterans Administration Hospital at Big Spring following a long illness.

A Lubbock resident since 1921, he was a retired brick mason, veteran of World War I and member of the Catholic Church.

South Texas Dairy Groups Form Merger

HOUSTON (AP)—Two South Texas dairy associations have merged into a 77-county organization that will supply the area consumers about 28 million quarts of milk a month.

The Coastal Bend Group, serving 17 counties, merged Thursday with the 60-county South Texas Producers Association.

Roger P. Buckley, South Texas general manager, said the merger was approved by a reorganized board of directors.

He said the merger means "dairy families in South Texas will benefit through elimination of costly duplication of services in hauling, bookkeeping and receiving milk."

The new organization extends as far north as Van Zandt County and as far west as Caldwell County in addition to the entire Texas coast.

Henry W. Haisler, Bastrop, was elected president and board chairman of the association, succeeding G. J. Knigge, Fairbanks, who became first vice president. Other officers include S. F. Coxfin, Mathis, second vice president; Byron Pester, Houston, secretary, and Edwin W. Davis, Caldwell, treasurer.

Buckley was elected manager of the new combined group.

Body Of Texas Youth Recovered

GAINESVILLE, Tex. (AP)—The body of William Dowling Harrison, 19, of Richardson, Tex., was recovered Thursday from the Red River near Gainesville.

The Texas Department of Public Safety said it was not immediately determined how Harrison got into the river.

The victim was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Jacobs of Richardson.

Police said the youth went from his home to Marietta, Okla., to visit a girl friend and while on his return trip home his car stalled on the Red River bridge. A truck driver said he gave Harrison a ride to Marietta and back to the stalled automobile, officers said.

Causes of RELIGIOUS DIVISION

We have noticed from the Bible that God is displeased with the divided condition in the religious world. Although men seem to be content and happy with all the denominations in existence today, Jesus Christ prayed for the oneness of His disciples (John 17:20-21). It is common, however, to hear church leaders thank God for the various sectarian groups "so that everyone may go to the church of his choice." Friends, this type of prayer makes mockery of the Lord's plea for unity. Why does such a condition exist?

One of the first causes of this division in "Christendom" is a departure from God's word. In II Timothy 4:3-4 we read of some in that day who had turned away from the sound doctrine and had begun to "heap to themselves teachers" who would tickle their "itching ears." This simply means that they departed from the Truth of God and sought out teachers that pleased them. We believe this same attitude prevails today as a cause of division.

Another great cause of schism in the religious world is the exaltation of men and their teachings. In I Corinthians 1:11-13 we find that this very thing had happened in Corinth. The people began to exalt Paul, Apollos, and Peter above Christ. Today we see in evidence the same point. It caused division then; it continues as one of the basic reasons for denominations today. We should do away with the human names and allegiances of this modern age and call ourselves Christians and only by that name. (Acts 11:26, I Peter 4:16).

Another contributing factor to the confusion in religion is the abundance of creeds, manuals, catechisms, and disciplines of the various sectarian groups. Friends, as long as these exist we can never hope to see Christ's prayer for unity fulfilled. These creed books forever stand in opposition to God's divine will. In Pslam 19:7-9 we read that "the law of the Lord is perfect." Paul tells us that the inspired (not man made) scriptures will make "the man of God complete" (II Tim. 3:16-17). These plain passages teach that God's Word alone is all that we need. The Bible can be the only source of authority in religion. Unity would prevail if we would all use the Bible as our basis, but, as long as we hold to creed books written by men, we will see the reality of division in religion.

So, we, as members of the church of the Lord, plead for a return to the Book of books — the Precious Bible Divine.

A WORLD IN TROUBLE

What has happened to this marvelous world of ours in this twentieth century of God's grace? Mankind seems to be passing through a sea of troubles which has no counterpart in human history.

There are wars and rumors of wars among the nations, and many of the nations themselves are split into warring factions, each faction striving for supremacy, and each intolerant of the views, hopes, and rights of others.

The great trouble with the world is that men have forgotten God. They no longer seek spiritual guidance, but follow the vain ways of the modern world. We have become a cynical, materialistic generation.

If this drift toward world tragedy and chaos is ever stopped, the churches of the world must do it. The world's hope—our hope—is in God and His Church. He alone can save mankind from a sorrowful fate.

The Church seeks to turn the hearts of men from the ways of war and fear and hate to the ways of peace and love.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

LADIES, IF your favorite male is going around in a blue funk these days, his head down, his eyes clouded, his whole posture reflecting complete dejection, here is the probable reason: He doesn't own four pairs of gloves.

There was a piece in the paper the other day, written by a gentleman name of Walter Logan of UPI, which said nobody but nobody but a dope would think of having fewer than four pairs of gloves. To add insult to injury, he added that a really well-dressed fellow must have even more than four pairs—even though he has only one pair of hands.

This pronunciamento, of course, was enough to make all men think—and, unhappily, to cause many of them to have an inferiority complex.

According to Mr. Logan, who may or may not have stock in several glove factories, basic requirements are unlined gloves of either pigskin or capeskin (whatever that is); driving gloves, with ridges in the palms to enable the motorist to more firmly grasp the wheel; brown or black suede for business wear and, of course, gray suede or mocha for wear in the pm's, along with black tie and dinner jacket.

So, gentlemen, if you ain't got as many as four different sets of gloves, you're definitely not "in," and the best thing you can do to show repentance is to go stand in the corner, or go to bed tonight without any supper—unless, of course, you can talk your wife into punishing you by washing your mouth out with gin!

ALREADY, A SMALL but dedicated group of American scientists have made what to some will seem disturbing progress in controlling the workings of the mind.

And if a group of American scientists already have embarked upon this undertaking, isn't it logical to suspect that their counterparts in other countries have done the same thing?

Thus far, scientists working in this field in the U.S. have confined their efforts and experimentation largely to the brains of small animals and fish but the end goal, of course, is to be able to augment—or perhaps to decrease—the powers of the human mind.

It does not require a boundless imagination to see that much good could come from so-called "mind control"—so long, of course, as it is kept in proper bounds. But neither does it require much imagination to conjure up the evil which could come from "mind control" if, indeed, the intent of the control is in itself evil.

The possibilities are fearful to contemplate.

SOME FORMS of "mind control" already are known.

Two widely recognized examples are hypnotism and what, for want of a better term, is called "brainwashing."

But this new "mind control" currently under experimentation goes much farther than either hypnotism, or "brainwashing." Its scope is much wider. If efforts become successful, it can be carried on with much less noticeable trappings as hypnotism, or the "brainwashing" as we know it.

"Mind control," properly, scientifically—and, above all, ethically—practiced unquestionably would be a boon to mankind. It would go a long way toward improving, if not actually curing, the lot of those who suffer mental illness stretching from simple retardation to complete insanity. But in the hands of a human monster it could become a weapon more to be feared than the most destructive of bombs.

That there are serious implications to the study and possible control of the brain was courageously faced up to by one of its practitioners at a recent session of the American Association for the Advancement of Science at Berkeley, Calif.

Said Dr. David Krech, a University of California psychology professor:

"Let us now (before complete success is achieved) think through this problem. . . .I don't believe that I am being melodramatic in suggesting that what our research may discover may carry with it even more serious implications than the awful achievements of the atomic scientists."

To employ a phrase from the streets, "the doc has got something there."

BILLY GRAHAM:

My Answer

QUESTION: I lost my husband about six months ago, and I have been trying to throw it off, but I become more despondent every day. It has even begun to affect my disposition. I don't want to see anyone, or be around anyone. Can you make a suggestion to help me? E. S.

ANSWER: When during World War I, Sir Henry Lauder, the great Scottish comedian, heard that his son had been killed in France, he said: "In a time like this there are only three courses open to a man. He may give way to despair, curse upon the world, and become a grouch. He may endeavor to drown his sorrow in drink or by a life of waywardness and wickedness, or he may turn to God."

God's arms are strong enough for all the distressed people in the world to lean upon. Peter, who knew quite a lot of adversity, but had found the answer to suffering, said, "Casting all your care upon Him, for He careth for you."

Loneliness is a painful thing, and I can well understand the keen loss you feel for your husband. But you will only compound your loneliness and anguish if you withdraw from God, and those who love you. Instead of being introspective, make an effort to find someone near you who is suffering from loneliness or bereavement—and try to cheer them up by pointing them to Him who has promised to share our burdens. It is always more healing to help others, than to look at the magnitude of our own problems." This will not only be a blessing to others, but it has curative powers for our own hurts.

ALLEN & SCOTT:

Grilling On War Urged

ALLEN

WASHINGTON—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee may hold public hearings on President Johnson's widely controversial policies in Viet Nam.

Such hearings would make it possible for Administration critics to publicly grill Secretaries Rusk, McNamara and other close Presidential advisers on their views and plans.

This procedure, while not unprecedented, would be exceptional under existing circumstances. Administration leaders have appeared before the Foreign Relations and other committees for discussions of Viet Nam, but always behind closed doors and on a confidential basis.

PUBLIC HEARINGS would be a drastic change, and probably vigorously opposed by the White House.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, (D-Ark.), chairman and critic of Viet Nam and other foreign policies, favors the idea of holding public hearings—which is still in the backstage discussion phase. Some Senators are crediting Fulbright with proposing this plan; others differ on that.

It is definitely known that Senators Joseph Clark (D-Pa.), member of the Foreign Relations Committee, and George McGovern (D-S.D.), former head of the Food for Peace program, are urgnng public hearings.

CLARK IS SAID to have indicated the intention to formally request the committee to conduct such hearings. It's up to the committee to decide what is done.

Meanwhile, House Republican Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan, is privately serving notice he wants the Appropriations Committee to ascertain whether the President contemplates increasing U. S. ground forces in Viet Nam to more than 200,000, and if so, why.

Ford's primary purpose is to learn the scope and extent of Administration plans to expand military operations in Viet Nam, and the measures being taken in preparation for that.

Feb. 28 is the President's "deadline" for Congressional passage of his $13 billion supplementary appropriation for Viet Nam.

THAT'S THE WORD Democratic Congressional leaders are conveying to the House and Senate committees that will handle this urgent legislation. Because the huge fund bill will cover expenditures not previously authorized, these provisions will have to be considered by the Armed Services and Foreign Affairs Committees as well as the Appropriations Committee.

That will take additional time. But the President is letting it be known that he wants speedy action. Whether he gets it remains to be seen.

WILLIAM S. WHITE:

"Race War" Lie Pushed

WASHINGTON — A worldwide propaganda push to present the conflict in Viet Nam as a "race war" in which bad white men are shooting good colored North Vietnamese has been opened under the direction of the Chinese Communists.

This is a statement of simple and brutal fact for which there is massive proof in totally objective, professional and unflappable intelligence offices all over the Western world. It is well known, moreover, to those Asian governments which are giving us some assistance against Communist aggression in Viet Nam and to those which are remaining aloof.

IN A WORD, it is anything but the enfevered dream product of hysterical Communist-baiters or of those "little old ladies in tennis shoes" who are supposed to typify right-wind movements in this country. It is a terrible reality—an instance of international well-poisoning so evil as to alarm even the Russians, even though they are co-operating with the Chinese to some extent in the attempt to force us to abandon South Viet Nam to Communist invasion.

The campaign is, of course, both monstrously and demonstrably false. Most of all the dying in Viet Nam is being done by anti-Communist South Vietnamese—not only by troops but by civilians, including women and children, who are of precisely the same color as the invading Communists.

IT IS BASED, moreover—as indeed some other aspects of current Chinese and North Vietnamese propaganda are based—upon Adolf Hitler's Fascist technique of creating the biggest and most irrational lie in the notion that its arrogance might help it to succeed.

It is intellectual germ warfare, comparable to the deliberate spreading around the world of a virus like plague or cholera.

THE ONE HEALTHY possibility in this grisly scene is that the poison may recoil upon the Chinese for its very savagery. Indeed, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey—whose recent mission to Asia was in fact a good deal more important than it looked superficially—brought back word of at least some hopeful developments.

He learned that the colored leaders of both South Viet Nam and Thailand are dispatching agents of sanitation and truth deep into Asia and Africa to give the lie to this Chinese attempt at mass mental infection. These missionaries of public decency are themselves colored men who are telling other colored men that China and North Viet Nam are exploiting their race while murdering people of the very same race.

GIVE THE PLAIN truth of what is occurring, the fact that any American civil rights organization—even an extremist one—can enlist in this ghastly thing must leave any decent American appalled. But this is precisely what the Student Nonviolent Co-ordinating Committee has just done, in a bitter manifesto denouncing this, its own land, as harshly as its Communist enemies have ever done.

And if this is not sickness enough, there is yet more. The 25-year-old head of SNCC, John Lewis, has been pleased to announce that he has sought, and gained, a change in his own draft status from 1-A to that of "conscientious objector."

THERE IS SOMETHING to make the heart heavy in the terrible turncoatism of this organization that abuses a nation which, whatever its past sins toward minorities, is making an agonizing, a successfuland indeed a heroic attempt to right old wrongs.

But there is something more in it, too. Responsible Negro leaders have a responsibility of almost measureless gravity to speak out here, not only in behalf of elementary honor but in behalf of the civil rights movement itself. Let SNCC's action stand uncondemned and the whole movement is itself discredited.

Back To Work Movement

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Steady Growth Seems Better

POPULATION INCREASE has been a goal which most American communities have pursued assiduously since the nation was founded. Every village has sought to become a town, every town a city, every city a metropolis. That is because, in our way of thinking, population growth equates increasing prosperity.

States have followed the same pattern. Each has sought to become bigger and bigger, populationwise. Many of them, notably California and Florida, have gone to great lengths to attract new citizens. And they have succeeded to a remarkable degree.

But now some of them, including California, have found that too-rapid population growth can prove anything but an unmixed blessing. Californians, distressed by the problems which too-rapid growth has created, would like to see the trend halted, at least until the State can absorb the new citizens who have been arriving in increasing numbers in recent years. But they are hoping in vain. The tide will continue to flow in that direction so long as California retains its image as a Land of Promise, which offers everything the average American has ever sought, plus "for free" spending money.

Besides, the development is a reflection of a historic trend. The American growth story has been one of constant movement toward Western horizons. And California has become the mecca of millions who seem to believe they can find in this "paved frontier" something of what their forefathers sought when they pulled up stakes and ventured into the then-unexplored regions of the West.

Today, the flow is both West and South. As a result, both California and Florida are suffering from "growing pains" with which they are finding it difficult to deal.

But the situation in California—especially Southern California—appears to be more acute than in most places. Frank Lloyd Wright once pointed out that America does have a Westward tilt, and everything loose is sliding to Southern California. Hence, the area is suffering from population congestion and all the ills that go with it. Californians are grappling manfully with the problems, but so far, they have not come up with solutions.

Some Texans, in the past, have complained that, in the steady flow of population Westward and Southward, Texas sometimes was being "bypassed." But if this is true, Texas may be more fortunate than some of its citizens realize. Texas certainly is not a region of slow growth—its population has almost tripled in the past half century—but it appears to have escaped many of the headaches which afflict some of the fast-growing areas. For this, Texans should be profoundly grateful.

SYLVIA PORTER:

U.S. Dependency Burden Rises To High Point In This Century

FOR EVERY 100 of us in the predominantly economically productive ages between 18 and 64, there are now 85 in the predominantly economically unproductive ages of under 18 and over 64.

Not in this century has the so-called "dependency ratio" been so high—which bluntly means that not in the history of the U. S. have we, the workers, had to carry so heavy a burden of dependents.

WHAT'S MORE, this "85" is a national average. In some states, the dependency ratio is even steeper. In New Mexico, Utah, South Dakota and Mississippi, there are 100 or more persons under 18 or over 64 for every 100 between 18 and 64. The ratio is almost as high in Minnesota, North Dakota and Iowa.

This is a rarely recognized factor in the low income per capita of some of these states. With so large a percentage of the population in the non-earning years, the impact on the per capita income of the state is bound to be adverse.

At one end of the age span has been the upsurge in the number under 18—reflecting the boom in baby births following World War II. In mid-'65, there were 50 million children five to 17 years of age and 20.4 million under five, says the Census Bureau.

At the other end has been the steadily climbing number of elderly people—reflecting the fact that we are living longer. Our 65-and-over population in mid-'65 was 18.2 million.

THE EXPLANATIONS, though, do not lessen the burden of those in the middle years. To indicate how sharply this burden has risen—in 1940 there were only 60 under 18 or over 64 for every 100 persons between 18 and 64.

What does this trend mean?

A first key point is that this is a fundamental explanation for the pocketbook pinch so many millions of breadwinners feel. We are earning the biggest incomes of our lives—but we also are carrying the heaviest support burdens of our lives. While there were high dependency ratios in the 18th Century, there is simply no comparing the burdens. It was commonplace for young and old to work then; it is not so today.

THE YOUNG are being encouraged to continue their educations past high school. The elderly are being encouraged to retire by public and private pensions, and we, in the working years, are paying peak Social Security taxes to finance the public pensions.

A second point the dependency ratio underlines is the imperative need for rising productivity—via automation, modernized plants and equipment, technological advances in every sphere. With the demands for production on the working population so severe, we need all the assistance we can get to help us produce and sustain our expansion.

A THIRD POINT the ratio emphasizes is the desirability of assuring that both young and elderly are sufficiently protected against the disability or death of the key breadwinners. This implies increased insurance on the lives of the breadwinners and more savings (another pressure).

A fourth point the trend dramatizes is the need for the entrance of more women of productive ages into the work force to add to the family income. The proportion of women in the work force is one-third and the total is at a peak, but both the proportion and the total of women working should rise.

FOR A WHILE the ratio should level off, as record numbers of youngsters cross the 18-year mark and enter the labor force. The leveling won't last, though, for the young men and women will marry and start families of their own, while the percentage of elderly in our population will continue to climb. The Census Bureau estimates that the dependency ratio will be up to 90 within 20 years.

It won't make your pocketbook pinch any lighter to understand the basic reasons behind it—but I, at least, get considerable comfort from knowing that the pinch I feel comes from helping "people"—and not from the pressure of soaring prices or shrinking incomes.

BENNETT CERF:

Time Out To Laugh

DOROTHY MIDDLETON, in a book called "Victorian Lady Travellers," paints an intriguing portrait of Mary Kingsley, who, attired in her "stout Victorian skirt and prim head-dress" scared the daylights out of a fierce African cannibal tribe. Not only didn't they eat her; they ended up beseeching her for remedies to cure insect bites and blisters. She also helped them kill a man-eating crocodile, dispersed a herd of wild hippopotami by poking them with her umbrella, and let a leopard out of a cage that obviously was not to its liking. When the leopard stood liberated before her, not knowing whether to lick her hand or attack her, the indomitable Miss Kingsley simply stamped her foot and commanded, "Go home, you fool," the leopard turned tail and crept off meekly into the jungle.

DICK SHAWN, investigating the string of fabulously successful resort hotels in the "Borscht Circuit," reports: "They say in the Catskills that the only truly happy guest is one who every time he opens his mouth is either eating or laughing. It is essential to keep the guests occupied. For example, there even are classes in jewelry making. A girl may not bag a husband, but at least she can return home with a pair of earrings."

HOLMES ALEXANDER

LBJ Tries New Focus

WASHINGTON—From the last week of December '65 and into early January '66, President Johnson produced something unique—a unilateral peace.

Whether we should praise it is still doubtful, but at least we should recognize its unusualness and its implications in a change of pattern.

MR. JOHNSON simply stopped fighting North Viet Nam, although that country is the pronounced aggressor, has not sued for peace, has not changed its offensive policies and is not in any sense defeated.

By halting the air raids which were intended to punish, reduce and subdue the government of Ho Chi Minh, the President allowed the enemy time to recover from the blows, to repair the damages and to strengthen its defenses, which means, of course, to increase its ability to destroy American lives and aircraft. But there are other considerations.

BY COMMON understanding the "pause" was intended to allow North Viet Nam to reconsider its course of action, yet, the imposition of a unilateral peace—in which we cease to carry the war to the enemy, although the enemy continues to carry it to us in ground action—has another result. It signals a tentative change in Presidential policy that deserves some historical examination.

As the fifth war-making Democratic President of the century, Mr. Johnson cannot escape entirely from the charges which history has leveled at his predecessors.

WOODROW WILSON said in asking Congress for a declaration of war in April, 1917, that we would not choose "the path of submission" by removing our ships from the Atlantic munitions trade, and further that we must "make the world safe for democracy." Wilson's first reason for entering World War I was clearly in the American self-interest, but the second had to do with liberating foreigners from anti-democratic tyranny. Franklin Roosevelt joined with Britain and Nationalist China in undeclared war against aggressors who were not being aggressive against us.

THE COMMON denominator in the policies of all these Democratic Presidents has been the protection of foreigners, and the not unjustified criticism has been that we end up fighting "other people's wars." Dwight Eisenhower, on the other hand, firmly refused to do this. He would not send American troops to save Suez, nor American planes to save the French at Dienbienphu, though nobody can doubt that Ike would have fought if the threat to American security had been clear and immediate.

In trying for unilateral peace with North Viet Nam, Mr. Johnson is saying that the threat to American security is not in Hanoi. Soviet Russia today, and possibly Red China tomorrow, are the only nations that pose any realistic military danger. From Mr. Johnson's viewpoint, the unilateral peace with North Viet Nam allows him to take his aim off a diversionary target and focus it on the main targets.

IT IS A BOLD concept, and we shall have to wait and see if it is boldly implemented. But Truman, by attacking Red China in the 1950's, would almost certainly have had a clear success in Korea. And it has been our unrelenting focus on Russia not on her European satellites such as Communist Germany—which has achieved a relative success in Europe.

The President's unilateral peace with North Viet Nam, if he can make it stick, has the elements of a realistic confrontation with the only two nations that threaten our existence.

RUTH MILLETT:

We— The Women

"WOMEN'S WEAR Daily," which speaks for the American fashion industry, turned up its editorial nose at the clothes selected by Princess Margaret for her recent visit to the United States.

What was wrong with her clothes? "Too matronly," said WWD.

Perhaps the princess didn't know that in America it is considered a fashion faux pas for a matron to look like a matron.

My dictionary says that a matron is a "wife or a widow, especially one that has borne children," and that matronly means "like or befitting a matron."

WELL, IF Princess Margaret, being a wife and mother, chose clothes befitting a matron that would seem only logical and proper—anywhere but in the United States.

But here we reverse things. Little girls are encouraged to look like little ladies, with permanent waves and style that ape mama's.

But women are encouraged to look like little girls, or, at least, to try to. And Princess Margaret certainly didn't look like a little girl, or like a woman who was trying to. Her daytime dresses covered her knees. She wore heels instead of flats. Her evening clothes were womanly. Even her hairdo looked her age.

IN FACT, the princess looked so refreshingly young-matronly that instead of our criticizing her we should be taking lessons.

If college girls want to wear their dresses above their knees and go in for high boots and weird hairdos, that's fine. If they think the little girl look is cute, so it is on them.

But for mature women—matrons, if you will—to try to copy the little girl look only makes them look ridiculous.

The American matron would look a whole lot better in the fashion industry hadn't sold her on the idea that looking matronly was the last way in the world a matron ought to look.

God's word will only be received by men of the new age if it comes to them through the words and ministry of those who are rooted in the same culture, have suffered the same humiliations and fought the same battles.—Dr. Oliver Beguin of London, general secretary of the United Bible Societies.

THINGS HAPPEN

Lee Kurty Hits Stride As Actress

HOLLYWOOD, (Special) — Four years ago young stage actress Lee Kurty was a guidette at New York's Rockefeller Center. Today the hazel-eyed blonde has a continuing role in the "Dr. Kildare" television series.

Miss Kurty was born in Pittsburgh, where her parents, Andrew and Emma Kurty, still reside. She also has a grandmother, Anna V. Patnik, living there, and a brother, Norbert, who lives in West Palm Beach, Fla.

Lee attended St. Francis Academy for Girls in Pittsburgh and first became interested in drama while there. At 17, she joined the Pittsburgh Playhouse dramatic classes.

In Summer Stock

She completed her education at Carnegie Institute of Technology, graduating as an acting major and a directing minor. While in Carnegie Tech and after completing her schooling, she became prominent throughout the area in summer stock productions.

She was a leading lady for two seasons in Pittsburgh's Outdoor Symphonic Dramas, and for another season in the White Barn Theatre. While still in college, she also did extensive modeling in the area.

Going to New York in 1961, she worked as a guidette for six months, then returned to Pittsburgh for a year and a half to take care of her mother during illness. In 1963 she returned to New York and worked for a short time as a waitress while seeking her "break" as an actress.

Things Happen

Things began happening in quick succession. She appeared on a television show and went to Storrs, Conn., as ingenue lead for a season at the famed Nutmeg Playhouse.

She went to Australia and, on her own, completed a trip around the world. Back in New York, she was signed for the play, "Absence of a Cello."

When she gets settled in Hollywood, she intends to add dancing and singing lessons to her schedule, with an eye toward doing a musical one day. She also hopes eventually to direct, and would like to work with young children, helping develop their dramatic talents.

Being young and single, she'd like it known that she's a good cook but prefers to be taken out to dinner with dancing. She also likes horseback riding, and watching football games. Her hobby is writing poetry. She hasn't had anything published yet, "but when I do, it'll be like winning an Academy Award."

San Francisco Busmen Get Hike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — New York's transit strike won a pay hike for San Francisco's bus and streetcar operators, the secretary of the city's Public Utilities Commission says.

James Finn, the secretary, said Thursday the raises are virtually automatic under the City Charter. The Charter sets the pay of the municipal railway's 1,700 operators at the average between the two highest pay scales in other U.S. cities with a population of at least 500,000.

The hourly wage will rise from $3.22 to $3.73 over the 2½-year period.

Philippine Envoy To Attend Ceremony

MANILA (AP) — President Ferdinand E. Marcos of the Philippines will be represented by Jose D. Ingles, undersecretary of Foreign Affairs, at the inauguration of the Harry S. Truman Memorial Library in Independence, Mo., Jan. 20.

Ingles will leave soon for New York to attend a meeting of the United Nations subcommission on discrimination against minorities and then go to Missouri.

Hemispheric Unity Urged In Battling Communism

At intervals here, Dr. Pastor called for "economic unity and coordination" as essential in the Western Hemisphere to the fight of Democracy against communism," and lauded the partners idea as "a most tangible" action that could succeed.

Your country and mine are very similar," he said, explaining that Peru has economic and other freedoms which he believes must be preserved.

And, as if seeking the ears of the White House and the Congress, he said "Texas' support of the Alliance for Progress may be one key to answering the need for hemispheric unity in preserving freedom."

Visibly impreseed, and warmed by West Texas hospitality at every turn in Lubbock, the ambassador summed it this way:

"Lubbock—it has been impressive in the true magnitude of this state."

The party departed by private plane to Houston late Thursday afternoon and this would be the final stop in a tour of Texas in observance of "Peru Week"—proclaimed by Gov. John Connally. Other Texas cities visited included Austin, Fort Worth and Dallas.

But it was in Lubbock that Dr. Pastor was most stimulated about the "partners idea" he confided to Howard Shipley, of Lubbock, chairman of the Texas Partners of the Alliance's social projects group. Shipley is a meinber of the 1966 Executive Committee of the TPA.

Directors of the Texas Partners of the Alliance organization, who live in this area, include: Shipley; Charles Carruth, Andrews; Lowell Croslin, Lubbock; Leo Forrest, Hereford; Bob Honts, Lubbock; Dr. William Pearce, Texas Tech; and Lyle M. Robinson, Tulia.

Tour Oil Mill

It was on the tour of the cottonseed oil mill here, under direction of Wilmer Smith, New Home, president of Plains Co-Op Oil Mill, that Dr. Pastor told of both industrial and agrarian reforms underway to consolidate his country's energies for development of its rich resources.

And it was at Texas Tech, where he told of Peruvian reform programs for combatting illiteracy and the teaching of job skills to the backward and under-privileged peoples of Peru.

While he was highly complimentary of the Texas partnership with Peru, he said gravely in an interview at the airport: "in commercial trade between our countries (the U.S. and Peru) something is going bad."

And he cited his opinion that under the alliance program it was most important for the United States to offer his country means and ways of developing its own resources.

Seeks U.S. Guidance

Along that line, he said Peru was moving ahead with development at full speed while it looked to the United States for guidance and leadership.

The ambassador and party were afforded a "red carpet" welcome to Lubbock with the usual round of presentations including "Lubbock Citizenship" certificates, chamber of commerce memberships, and even some miniature bales of cotton.

Shipley was master of ceremonies at the luncheon attended by members and guests of the South Plains Lions Club, Lubbock Jaycees, Kiwanis and Exchange Clubs. Mayor Max Tidmore responded to Pastor's address, saying the ambassador had helped produce mutual understanding essential to international unity.

Marcus said at the luncheon the Peruvian ambassador was in Lubbock because this area "had been one of the most powerful in producing backing for the organization."

Various civic groups in Lubbock already have assisted the Texas Partners of the Alliance in cooperation with the country of Peru, Dr. Pastor said here he was aware of the contributions of the Lubbock area.

The Exchange Club here furnished woodwork tools for a vocational school in Peru. Also, the Lubbock Jaycees arranged for obtaining, rolling and shipping a large amount of cable to a Peruvian village for a bridge. This cable allowed the villagers to report to their fields for work each day without a lengthy detour around a deep chasm.

"There is a great need for this type of assistance," the visiting ambassador pointed out here.

ON AMENDMENT

Letter To President Gets Results

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — In his 22 years in the House, Rep. Frank Chelf has become known as quite an orator. Now it appears he is quite a letter writer, too.

Last fall, the Kentucky Democrat wrote President Johnson asking him to back a constitutional amendment for a four-year term for House members. Wednesday night in his State of the Union message the President replied. The answer was a resounding "yes."

"When I first wrote that letter," Chelf recalled Thursday, "it was four pages long. I said to myself, 'The President's a busy man. He can't read a letter that long.' So I worked it over and got it down to two pages.

Still Too Long

"I thought that was still too long so I really worked on it. I made every little word sing a song and do a dance and I got it down to one page."

Chelf said the President told him Wednesday, "'What do you think of the Chelf amendment now?' You probably never thought I'd read your letter, but I did. I sure gave it a plug, didn't I."

"I told him it was the best speech he had ever made," said Chelf, 55.

Besides writing to the President last session, Chelf wrote a stream of letters seeking support for his amendment.

"I sent out 8,500 letters," he said. "And I talked up the amendment every time and place I could. Merciful heavens! I was so busy with that and all the other things that I went from 140 pounds to 118."

The effort produced pledges of support from 254 House members and opposition from only 41. He found 44 senators favorable to the amendment and only six against it.

Just Elected

Chelf said he first got interested in the plan 21 years ago when he went back to his district south of Louisville a year after he was first elected to Congress to start his re-election campaign.

"A man said, 'Frank, you running again? We just elected you,'" said Chelf. "When I told him my term was up in a year he said, 'My goodness. I thought you had a four-year term. Why don't you fellows do something about it.' So, now I'm doing something."

He said the cost of two closely contested primaries and two general elections in 1962 and 1964 spurred him into belated action.

"I may be a huge success politically," said the man who made his way up from an orphan home to Congress, "but I'm a financial flop."

BY STUDENTS

Boycott At St. John's Suspended

NEW YORK (AP) — A student boycott at St. John's University has been suspended, but students plan to continue protests against effects of a teachers' strike at the nation's largest Roman Catholic university.

The student council at the university's Brooklyn campus voted 28-1 Thursday night to send a delegation to the Rt. Rev. Joseph T. Cahill, St. John's president, "to express dissatisfaction with the present situation and request a just, equitable and rapid solution."

The United Federation of College Teachers, AFL-CIO, struck the university Jan. 4 to protest the dismissals of 31 teachers. St. John's said the faculty members were fired because of "unprofessional conduct," and denied charges of a lack of academic freedom.

Seek Reinstatement

The union is seeking reinstatement of the teachers, most of them union members. The university remained open during the city's transit strike while the union has disputed claims that it is operating effectively.

About 400 students at the Brooklyn campus picketed college buildings Thursday as a protest against effects of the strike on studies.

However, the student council voted to suspend the boycott Thursday night and send the protest delegation.

A union spokesman said 750 students stayed away from classes, but an administration spokesman said only 25 per cent of the students were absent from one class and most of the students who demonstrated had already attended classes.

Of the university's more than 13,600 students, less than 4,000 attend the Brooklyn campus. The others are in Queens.

"I think both sides are wrong for what they are doing to us," said John Fodera, student president on the Brooklyn campus.

Msgr. Joseph T. Cahill, university president, said that a student who failed to attend classes could endanger "his academic credit."

AEC OFFICIAL DIES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Duncan C. Clark, 45, director of the Atomic Energy Commission's division of public information since 1960, died Thursday of leukemia. Clark at one time was city editor of the Rocky Mountain News in Denver.

Mrs. Leslie Strege In Fair Condition

Mrs. Leslie Strege, 55, 2008 44th St., remained in fair condition this morning at Methodist Hospital where she is being treated for injuries suffered in a five-car pileup Thursday at Avenue M and 13th Street.

Also injured was Mrs. Judy Torres, 21, 501 E. Tulane, who was treated and released at West Texas Hospital.

Investigating officers said the smashup involved cars driven by Mrs. Torres and Mrs. Strege's son. The other three involved were parked.

BUILDS LEAN-TO GREENHOUSE

Lubbock Man Combines Gardening, Mechanical Talents At Residence

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Witcher of 2304 52nd are now enjoying the fruits of their labor in both a literal and an actual sense.

Witcher particularly enjoys many aspects of gardening, especially where he can combine his mechanical talents and his gardening interests. As a result of these interests, the Witchers enjoy a lean-to type greenhouse attached to the rear of their home from about the eave height and extending out to the corner of the house.

The greenhouse is located on a northwest corner and is constructed of corrugated fiberglass. The area covered is about 18 by 20 feet, which now abounds with a wide variety of beautiful plants.

Built Brick Wall

In order to maintain the appearance of his home, Witcher first built a brick wall and then, on a pierced angle framework, attached the fiberglass. A separate heater is installed in this area; thus the home heating is not utilized or affected by the greenhouse location.

Bamboo blinds are installed on the west side, to be rolled up and down when excessive light tends to create heat problems. Witcher reported that he did not have any condensation problems and very rarely had fogging of the glass.

In addition to geraniums, begonias, Joseph's coat, hibiscus, and tropical foliage plants, of special interest was a new variety of tomato from Hereford that Witcher was growing in the greenhouse. The Witchers have been enjoying some fruit from this tomato plant at each main meal recently and have derived a great deal of interest and satisfaction in the growth of all these plants.

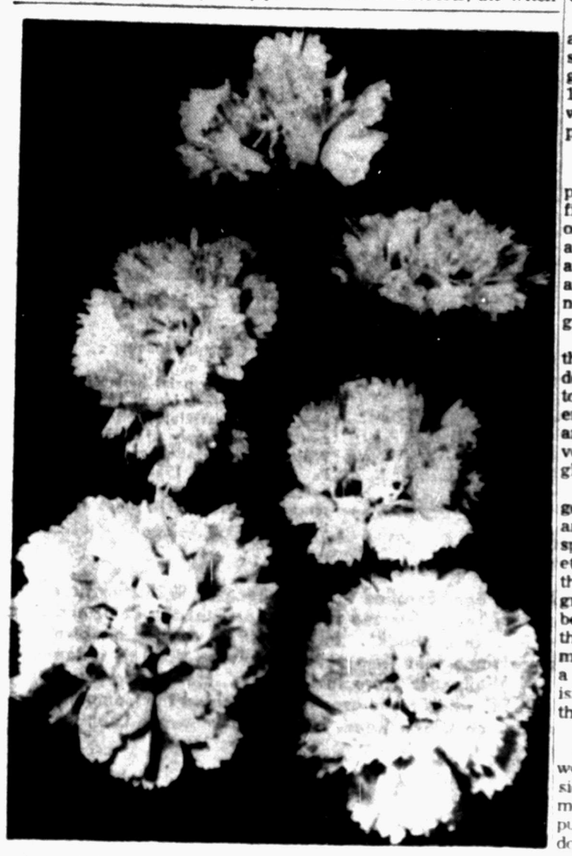

Grow More Rapidly

As the spring wears on the weather conditions warm outside, many plants will grow more rapidly and be ready to put in the garden for full outdoor appreciation.

In addition to the greenhouse, Witcher has built attractive storage areas on the rear of the home, which also blend nicely with the brick of the greenhouse and the rest of the home.

Other main projects in the Witcher backyard are a cactus-rock garden and a fountain pool garden in different sections of the backyard. The cactus garden is built up into a hill in the corner and contains not only rock and many cacti and century plants but also some barrel cactus specimens two feet across. Across the garden, Witcher has ingeniously constructed a pool and fountain and managed to incorporate his electrical skills in providing a recirculation system. He is now contemplating a filtration system.

All these activities keep the family actively engaged during relaxation periods on Saturday afternoons and provide an opportunity for self-expression and earned accomplishment.

Dianthus White Star To Be Introduced In Spring

A new addition to the ranks of the flower that the Greeks christened "Dios-anthos" or "Divine Flower" is the pure white dianthus White Star.

To be introduced this spring, White Star has an ethereal quality that fully justifies the Greek description.

Along with the white flowers is foliage that has a silvery sheen, a pungent old spice fragrance and a wealth of bloom.

Exceptionally Hardy

The exceptionally hardy plants grow 12 inches in height and spread a full 18 inches across. At the same time the plant is neat and compact. An excellent variety for foundation plantings or as a specimen.

White Star has fully double flowers that are 2 inches across—large for a dianthus. They appear in the second year of growth and continue from early June through July. They keep well when cut for indoor use and the quantity of flowers produced on a single plant makes a striking display in the garden.

look into the possibility of setting higher rates for young women—or perhaps putting them in the rate class with young men.

The board has given no encouragement to the proposal, and McLean predicts it "won't get favorable consideration."

Another rate refinement being inaugurated in some states provides for a decreasing rate scale, with the highest rate at age 18 and a normal rate after age 30.

"I haven't seen a statistical basis for going to age 30," McLean said. "They've got to show me that the 25 to 30-year-olds have got to be classified with those below 25 before I'll vote for it."

Board members say generally that Texas' favorable position among the states—more than half the other states have an average rate higher than the Texas rate—is the best available, and that they will stick with it until something better comes along.

Certain Amount Of Medical Cost Allowed As Deduction

Eyeglasses (Dr. Arthur Madden)	35.00
Total Medical Expense	$498.00
Less 3% of Total Income	255.00
Deductible	$243.00

If you were the chief support of one of your parents who was 65 or over you could claim the full amount of medical payments made in his behalf without reference to the 1 per cent or 3 per cent rules even though he had $600 or more income. Your separate statement attached to your return should show a separation of the medical payments for your family and your parents if you and your spouse are both under 65.

TAX TIP: Consider this plan for your medical records. Place an envelope labeled "Medical Expense" in your file cabinet. Each time you pay a bill put your receipt in it or put the canceled check for such payments in at the end of each month. At the end of the year your records will all be assembled for you.

MILD WINTER BLAMED

Activity Of Bulbs Problem In Area

By ED ZUKAUCKAS
Tech Horticulturist

ZUKAUCKAS

While it might be pretty early for some of the bulbs to show up, most of these, like the crocus and the daffodil and the Dutch iris, are not severely damaged by rather cold conditions after the plants appear. Usually injury does not occur unless the plants are much further along and flower buds are pretty well developed.

Warm Winter

Some gardeners are also reporting that there are a few roses still remaining in a reasonably attractive condition, and not even all geraniums have frozen this season. In one instance, an unprotected palm tree out of doors in a western South Plains community appears relatively unscathed by this winter's blasts.

There is some need for gardeners to start to plan their tree planting activities quickly in order to take advantage of the relatively favorable weather conditions which have been available for this type of operation. Soil areas in the flower or vegetable garden could be tilled to advantage; and if weather conditions remain mild, garden construction work can progress ahead.

Water Needed

Don't forget to give your flower and shrub beds a good watering; otherwise bright, sunny, windy days could cause damage to your shallow rooted herbaceous plants.

Areas which you plan to include into bed areas this coming season could well have the grass dug from them at this time.

Some gardeners are also enjoying the animation of birds in the landscape and are now benefitting from the planting of berried shrubs and the use of easily-viewed bird feeders. Yaupon holly and Indian currant and even the oaks are supplying food for some birds, and the voracious feeding bluejays are apparently even stealing pecans.

Those gardeners who normally contemplate sowing their own spring seed and raising their own plants should have their catalogues by now or should be planning to obtain their seed soon for the slowest growing seedlings. It won't be long before the end of the month and before the time that snapdragon and petunia seed will need to be sown for early plants.

Cheerleaders Draw Complaint

DOVER, Del. (AP) — The governor's committee on protocol has complained about high school drum majorettes and cheerleaders wiggling during the playing of the national anthem.

The committee was created by the General Assembly to study all aspects of protocol in Delaware and suggest ways to improve it.

The committee suggested Thursday to school officials "that drum majorettes and cheerleaders are perhaps not aware of the respect due to the playing of the National Anthem." It said it found cheerleaders doing cartwheels "to the rocket's red glare," and majorettes keeping time to "the bombs bursting in air."

Chemist

from the Lubbock region of DPS.

"Ninety-five to 100 per cent of my work is devoted to blood alcohol analysis," Craig said.

Lawmen from throughout the Lubbock region—police officers, deputies and others as well as highway patrolmen—send or bring specimens of blood or urine taken from drunken driving suspects to Craig for testing. Suspects are given a choice of submitting to the test.

Craig tests the specimens for alcohol content and preserves the evidence for use in court, where he may be called to testify.

No Court Calls

Though he tested specimens for 55 cases in December, Craig as yet hasn't been called to court and when he does, it will be his first experience as an expert witness of the Department of Public Safety.

During his training, however, he attended court and listened to other chemists and toxicologists give testimony.

Craig's work isn't limited to blood alcohol analysis, though. Tests can be made to determine whether a substance is marijuana, although all other tests on evidence in narcotics and drug cases must be sent to Austin. This includes heroin, morphine and other narcotics and barbiturates and amphetamines.

Another type of evidence which might be submitted to the lab is clothing from a murder case for analysis of blood stains, part of an automobile involved in an accident for blood tests, hair comparisons or even an automobile crankcase or gasoline tank to determine whether sugar or acid has been placed in the parts.

"You can best describe my job in this way," Craig, a bachelor who resides at 2116 18th St., says. "I try to assist any officer in the investigation of a criminal case in any way I can."

Gardenaires See Program On Herbs

Twenty-four members were present. Next meeting will be at 9:30 a.m. Feb. 10 in the center.

Club Elects New Officers

The Spade and Hoe Garden Club elected new officers for two-year terms Tuesday at Municipal Garden and Arts Center.

Mrs. O. Gowen was named president, and Mrs. Jack Darby, vice president. Other new officers are Mrs. Doris Buchanan, secretary; Mrs. Georgia Gregory, treasurer; Mrs. O. G. Andrews, historian; Mrs. John L. Dea, parliamentarian; and Mrs. Bill Reed, reporter.

The program was presented by Mrs. Douglas Witt, who demonstrated how to make tissue paper roses. Attending were 15 members and three guests, Mrs. C. C. Bloodworth, Mrs. Wallce Bogart and Mrs. W. Calvert Curry.

The club will meet Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Roy Burnam, 2702 60th St., to discuss plans for participation in the annual garden-arts sale slated in February.

The next regular meeting will be at 9:30 a.m. Feb. 1 at Municipal Garden and Arts Center.

Indians Spend Two Much Time On Phone

BOMBAY, India (AP)—Gab—Gab! That is what M. S. Muthanna general manager of Bombay Telephones, says residents of this city do.

Muthanna said the average daily number of calls per telephone is 16, against four to six in foreign countries; and that the average duration of a call is five minutes, contrasted with 70 to 80 seconds in foreign countries.

"CORAL SUNSET"

New Hybrid Tea Rose To Be Introduced In Spring

Because its flowers stand out like a brilliant coral flame in the light of early evening, a new hybrid tea rose that will be introduced this spring has been named Coral Sunset.

Its large 5-inch flowers have from 25 to 30 petals that are strong and resistant to wind and rain. They are also constant in color even under the hottest summer sun. When cut, they are long lasting providing a gay splash of color inside the house as well as in the garden.

HEAVY EATER

The shrew, which ranges in length from two to six inches, consumes its own weight in food about every three hours because of its rapid metabolic rate, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Dahlia Society Names Officers

J. C. Williamson was elected president of the South Plains Dahlia Society organized Wednesday night in Municipal Grand-Arts Center.

Other officers are James Samson, vice president; Mrs. J. Charles Whitfield, secretary; and Mrs. Luther Miller, treasurer.

The society will meet at 7:30 p.m. each first Thursday in Municipal Garden-Arts Center.

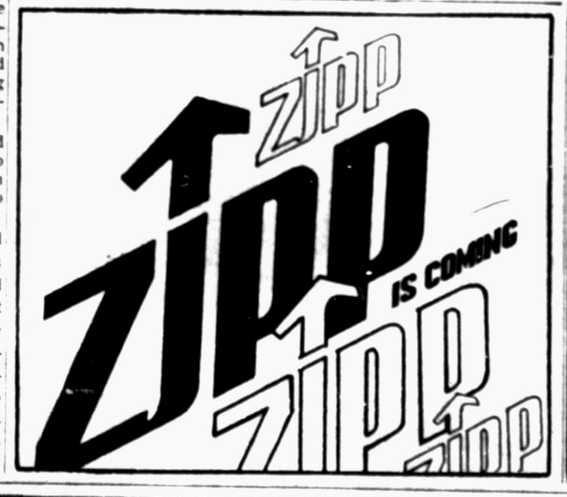

Mrs. Nat Williams was named chairman of a program committee. Serving on the committee will be Mrs. Luther Miller and W. E. Upshaw.

Purpose of the society is to encourage all dahlia growers of the South Plains to participate in meetings and to sponsor a show with trophies and prizes each year.

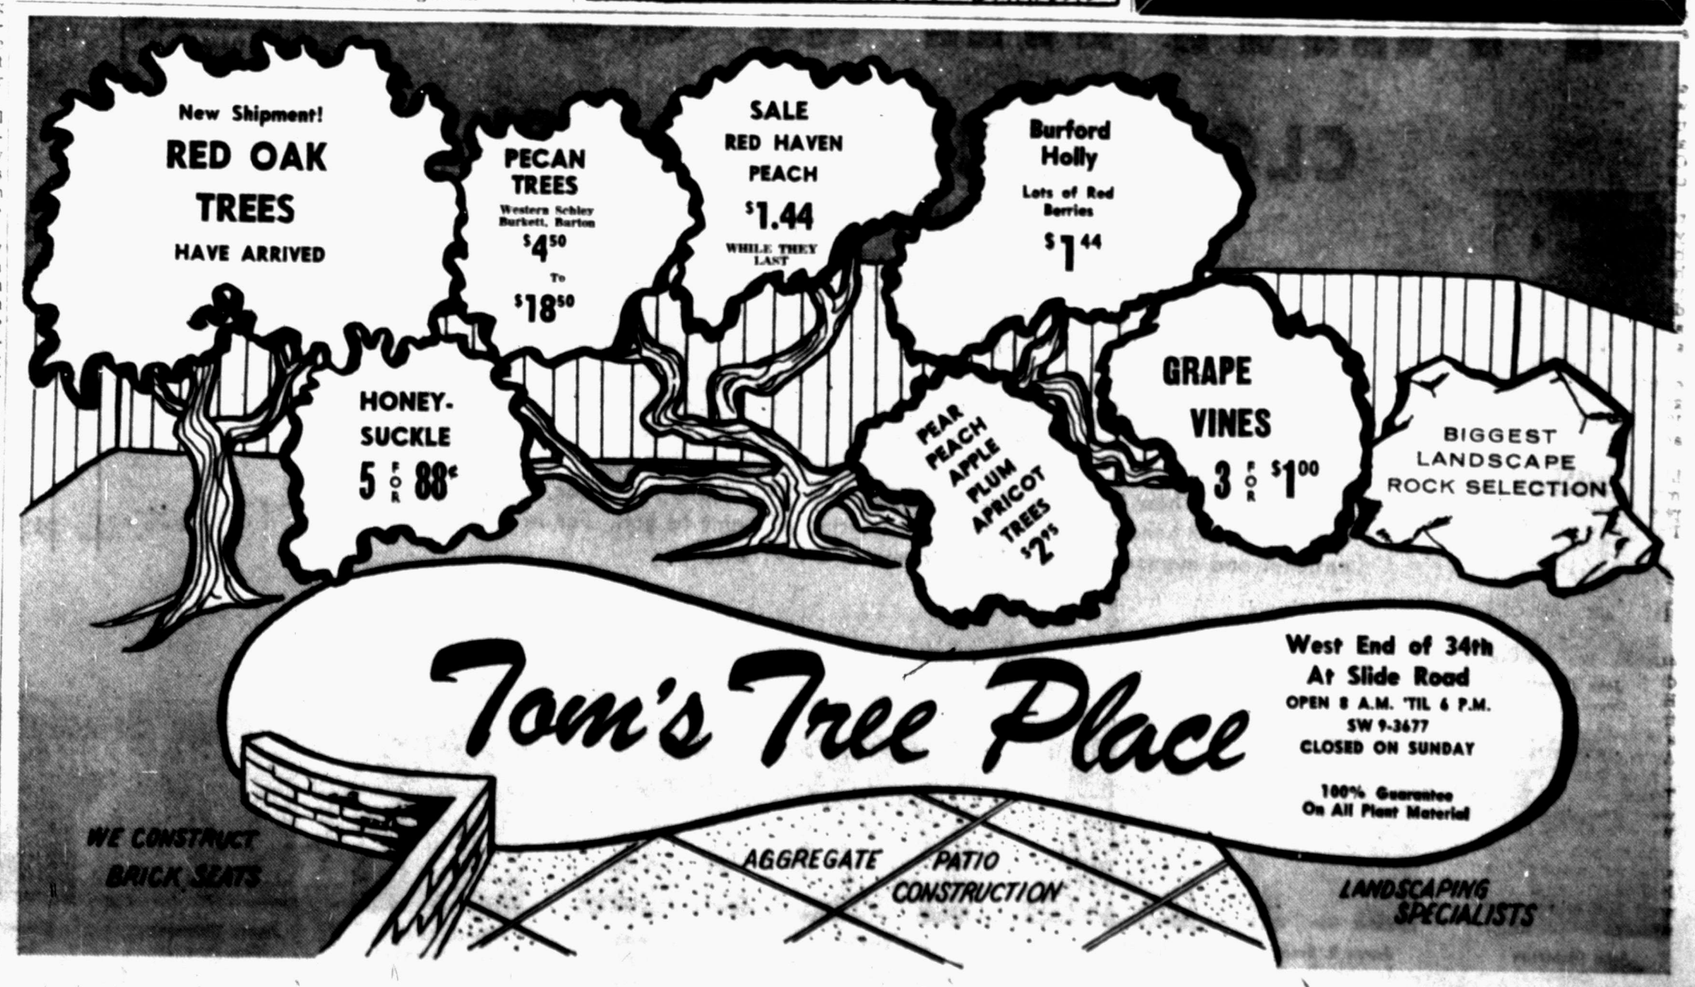

Twenty-eight persons attended the meeting.

Blocker, Aaron Tie For Lead In San Diego Meet

By BOB MYERS

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Tommy Aaron, who led in the first round in 11 PGA golf tournaments last year, but never won one, and husky Chris Blocker, whose name may ring a bell, led the way into the second round today of the $40,000 San Diego Open.

The pair shot 6-under-par 65s in the first round, but a small army of rival professionals was too close for comfort as play resumed today over the par 35-36—71 Stardust Country Club course.

Blocker, a 195-pounder from Jal, N.M., is the cousin of Dan Blocker, "Hoss" of the Bonanza series. He also is a former Texas Tech links star.

Thirty-nine players bettered par in Thursday's first round. Put the carnage wasn't as bad as a year ago when 51 shattered regulation figures in the initial round.

Unheralded Lou Graham from Nashville, Tenn., started today's round one shot back of the co-leaders and tied at 67 were Mason Rudolph, Paul Bondeson, Harold Kneece and Bob Zimmerman.

Bill Casper Jr., the local favorite, had a 70 and Doug Sanders a 72. Another San Diegan, Gene Littler, also had a 72.

Farther back—far back, in fact — was Champagne Tony Lema. It wasn't easy, but he managed to shoot 37-39—76.

City Schoolboys Invade Panhandle Tonight

Borger To Host 'Men

With clean slates and high hopes, the Monterey Plainsmen and Lubbock High Westerners hit the road tonight to initiate the second round of District 3-AAAA basketball action.

The Amarillo Sandies, who marched through the first half of play undefeated, assured themselves at least a spot in the playoff for the outright title and, unless someone is able to do what no one was able to in the first half, Coach John Ethridge's troops could walk off with the title without even a playoff.

Amarillo (8-0) took the No. 1 spot with Monterey (7-1) second and Lubbock High (6-2) third.

Monterey Meets Borger

Coach Gerald Myers' Plainsmen, fresh from a 47-41 victory over cross-town rival Lubbock, launch their second round hopes against Borger while the Westerners, laboring under a two-game losing streak, travel to Tascosa. Both games are on tap for 8 p.m.

Other loop action tonight finds Palo Duro at Amarillo. Pampa, fourth place finisher in the first go-round, hosts non-conference foe Phillips Saturday.

The Plainsmen and Westerners will both be out to make it two in a row over their respective opponents tonight after registering first round wins. Monterey downed Borger, 73-52, in Lubbock and the Westerners edged Tascosa, 42-38, at home.

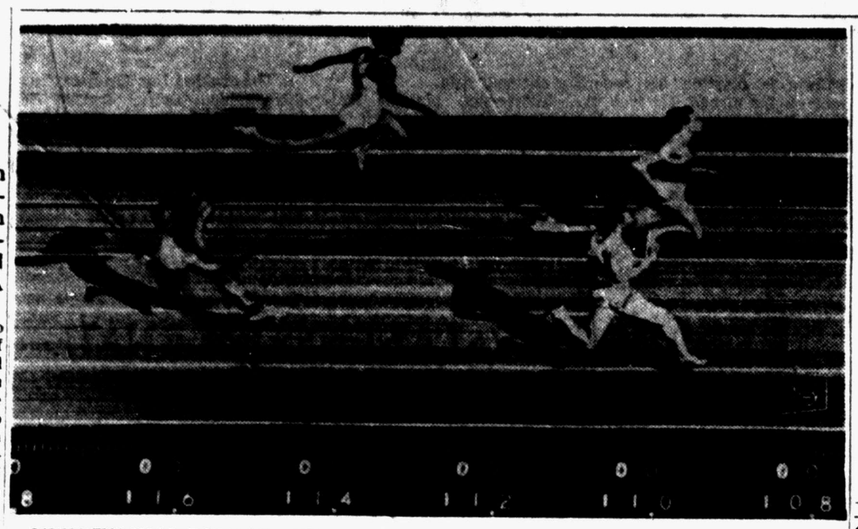

Borger, which can claim but one district win to date, fell to Amarillo in its last outing and can boast only four wins in 14 trips out this season. Tascosa's Rebels fell to Pampa Friday to end the first round with a 3-5 league mark and a 4-11 season mark.

Monterey is now 16-2 for the season and Lubbock is 14-4.

Myers will field the same starting lineup which has proved successful all season for the Plainsmen. Getting the nod before tip-off will be David Reed (6-3), Kenny Coleman (6-3), Steve Hardin (6-5½), Chuck Lewis (6-2) and Craig Wright (6-4¾). Also expected to see a lot of action in the MHS continuity offensive are Danny Sledge (6-6), Steve Hurt (6-2) and Randy Andrews (6-3¾).

Borger coach Tex Hanna will

CHS Tries Pampa B

The Coronado Mustangs will try to move above the .500 mark for the first time in some time tonight when the play host to Pampa B at 6 p.m. in the Monterey Gym.

However it won't come easy because the Shockers ran all over the Mustangs in their first meeting of the year in Pampa.

Coach Carl McMillan's cagers are 8-8 for the year, but they are 3-6 against District 3-AAAA B-team members.

McMillan will go with his usual strategy of playing five players for half of each quarter, then play five more for the rest of the contest.

IN LOOP SHOWDOWN

Panthers Host Carver

The B-game is slated for 6 p.m. and the varsity contest should get started around 8 p.m.

Both teams are tied for the league leadership with 3-0 records and they hold a two-game lead over the rest of the loop members.

This will be the second meeting of the year for the two clubs with Amarillo winning the first contest, 65-43, in the Carver tourney earlier in the season.

Nobody Can Have Everything

COACHING ONE OF these souped up all-star teams isn't all its cracked up to be, notes one J. T. King who just returned from a winter vacation disguised as Hula Bowl Football. . .

"Who would think," lamented Jake Thursday, "that among 24 of the Nation's Finest, there would be not one single kicker. . ."

Which would be a fact easily overlooked to one scanning a roster that glittered amid such names as Donny Anderson, Mike Garrett, Freeman White, Tom Wilson, Tommy Nobis, George Rice, Carl McAdams and on and on . . .

• • •

"WELL, THAT'S HOW it was with our team," King said from underneath a golden tan that might even impress Jeff White. "Not a guy on the roster who'd ever committed a placement kick in a college football game . . ."

There were other minor problems, too.

"Like, f'rinstance, every end on my squad was a split end," grinned Jake, just before explaining what kind of problems you can run into trying to play defense with an SE flanking either side of your six-man front.

• • •

"THE KICKING THING was the main problem, though. I considered letting Donny do it, but then I got scared that—what with his left-footedness—he'd kick ol' Tom's throwing hand plumb off.

"Finally Rice came up to me and said, 'Coach, I used to kick extra points in high school.' That was enough, and he was elected. But it was only until after our first touchdown that I realized how long Rice has been out of high school.

"His kick went clear into the stands, but not like you'd expect. It went in at right angles, never even crossing the line of scrimmage.

"When he came to the sideline, he grinned kind of bashfully and said; 'Gee, Coach, guess I'm a little out of practice.'"

• • •

IN A MORE SERIOUS tone, King described the Hula Bowl as "fantastic," and made no bones about how well satisfied he was with having accepted the invite.

"There were 25,000 people there," he said, "making it the best drawing game in the bowl's history. And it was the type thing you could really enjoy.

"It was completely a relaxed atmosphere. Our dressing room (King and his co-coach, Bob Devany) was right across from Jim Owens' (North coach), and we visited back and forth all the time.

"And, as usual for an all-star game, we agreed on a set defense because of what little preparation time we had before the game."

• • •

IT IS NOT surprising that King was greatly pleased with the performances of his own payoff combination, Wilson and Anderson.

"Those guys were great," King said, making it obvious that even after three years of watching them perform, day in and day out, he still enjoyed being impressed by them.

"They represented Texas Tech, themselves and the South team in as exciting a manner as you could dare hope for. Both had fantastic performances."

"I wondered about the pros when I was reading about all that money they were offering Anderson," Owens said. "But after tonight, I am well convinced that they knew what they were doing."

• • •

BUT THE BUBBLE for Jake has now burst. It was shattered by an explosion of reality that confronted him upon his arrival in Lubbock yesterday, when he wound up the fling that carried him to Hawaii and on to Washington as a lecturer at the NCAA meeting and opened the door to greet such common problems as replacing coaches, recruiting, etc.

The wonderland has been put aside, then, but only for the time being. No matter what the future holds for J. T. King, the memory of the 1966 Hula Bowl will ever remain near at hand.

And it likely will come immediately to the surface each time he recruits a place-kicker or defensive end, bringing forth with it a timely lesson: It's impossible for a coach ever to completely out-personnel all his problems, even with a hand-picked squad.

COLTS, 49ERS DOMINATE PRO BOWL SQUAD

Dave Parks To Start For West Sunday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two teams — Baltimore and San Francisco — will dominate the West All-Star squad's starting line-up on offense in the 16th annual Pro Bowl game Sunday.

All but two offensive starters for the West in the National Football League finale will be Colts or 49ers.

The exceptions are rookie halfback Gale Sayers of Chicago and guard John Gordy of Detroit.

San Francisco will furnish five starters, including quarterback John Brodie and fullback Ken Willard, also a rookie.

The Green Bay Packers, NFL champions, won't have a man on the starting offensive unit. But there may not be much squawking about that — because Packer coach Vince Lombardi is directing the West.

"What we (Green Bay) call a 'fly' (meaning the receiver scoots downfield), San Francisco calls a 'streak.' What we call a 'post' (the receiver heads for the goal post) somebody else calls a 'pole'."

Rounding out Lombardi's starting offense will be end Dave Parks, tackle Walt Rock and center Bruce Bosley, all 49ers; flanker Jimmy Orr, tackle Bob Vogel, guard Jim Parker and end John Mackey, all Colts.

Royals Edge Out Hawks

(By The Associated Press)

The first act was an almost unbelievable one for the Royals — they hit on only 29 per cent of their field goal attempts, fell behind St. Louis by 21 points at one time Thursday night and trailed 63-45 at halftime.

But the second act was different as the stars moved front and center, and the Royals roared home for 107-102 victory over the Hawks to remain just a game behind the first-place Boston Celtics in the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division.

There was no other league action.

The Royals cut the Hawks' margin to 82-79 as Happy Hairston hit four of five shots, Jerry Lucas three of four, Oscar Robertson four of six and Adrian Smith five of five.

The lead see-sawed back and forth in the final period until Robertson tied it at 100 and Hairston followed with a tip-in with 2:05 to put Cincinnati ahead to stay.

Region One Coaches Meeting Set At Tech

The Region One coaches will have their annual meeting Jan. 29 on the Texas Tech campus, John McGuire, director, has announced.

Coaches in all sports are urged to attend the session because voting for coaches and nominating players for this summer's Texas High School Coaches Assn. All-Star games will be made.

Registration will start at 8 p.m. in the Tech Student Union Building and at 9 a.m. lectures will start.

Football lectures for the one-day session will be given by Coach J. T. King of Texas Tech or members of his staff, plus Bill Spann of Dumas, James Odom of Monterey and Colie Huffman of White Deer.

Basketball lecturers will be John Ethridge of Amarillo High, Max O'Banion of Lubbock High, Jerry Hale of Dumas, Gene King of Quitaque and Tom Gilley of Palo Duro.

Making lectures on track will be Mert Fuquay of Caprock, James Harris of Phillips, and Bill Carter of Tascosa.

In addition to the football lectures, films will be shown and a panel discussion will be presented. Track will also have a panel discussion.

Tommy Thompson, superintendent of schools at Kermit and a member of the Interscholastic League legislative committee, will be here and address the coaches in a general meeting.

Nominations Listed

Coaches nominated for the All-Star game in Houston this summer are Don Orr of Denver City in football and O'Banion in basketball. O. W. Follis of Lamesa has been nominated for the basketball job, too, as has Jimmy Payne of Ector in football, but they are in Region 4, which includes some area schools.

This is the fourth year in a row that Tech and Lubbock has been host to the regional meeting. Around 200-300 coaches are expected here for the meet.

Braves Expect Atlanta Ticket Sales To Reach 2 Million

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Braves' baseball team says it expects nearly two million fans to buy tickets to National League games in Atlanta next season.

William C. Bartholomay, chairman of the board, told a federal court here a total of 2,200,000 tickets already have been printed for the 1966 season.

Advance ticket sales already are underway, and Atlanta sports fans have exceeded expectations.

Bartholomay was scheduled to be called as a witness again today. He was to be followed by Manager Bobby Bragan, President John McHale and Dick Cecil, Braves' business manager.

Bartholomay testified Thursday that the decision to move the National League team to Atlanta was prompted by financial losses and lack of interest in Wisconsin.

He said, "There apparently was no interest in the state of Wisconsin in buying shares of stock." He also said "commitments made to us in September of 1963 by representatives of the power structure of Milwaukee were not carried out."

In 1963, he said, the team lost in excess of $700,000. Losses in 1964 were in excess of $800,000 and last year the team lost "substantially in excess of $1 million."

The chairman of the board said an investment firm in Milwaukee gave the Braves a list of 40 or 50 Wisconsin residents who might be interested in buying amounts "equal to the investments we had made."

He said no one bought more than 500 shares. Stock was then offered to Wisconsin residents, Bartholomay said, but only 13,000 or 14,000 of the 115,000 shares offered were sold.

In October of 1964, he said, he recommended that the Braves ask permission of the National League to transfer the franchise to Atlanta, which "I felt indicated a pattern of sports growth in dramatic contrast with what appeared in Milwaukee."

The six Wisconsin directors of the club, he said, voted against the transfer, but the other 12 at the meeting voted to move the team.

Bartholomay denied he had made any commitment early in 1964 to move the Braves to Atlanta.

Bradley Upset By Drake, 75-66

New Mexico Beats BYU

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

The old song goes "I wish I was in Peoria." But the Bradley Braves undoubtedly wish Drake had been somewhere else.

Drake, which lost 64-52 to Bradley last Saturday at Des Moines, Iowa, invaded the Illinois home of the fifth-ranked Braves Thursday night and upset them 75-66.

Brigham Young, No. 7 in The Associated Press poll, also came a cropper, bowing 81-78 to New Mexico at Albuquerque, N.M.

Dukes Nip Clemson

Bradley's defeat was the first at home this season after 10 straight victories and left the Braves at 13-2 over-all and 3-1 in the Missouri Valley Conference.

The Braves, trailing 36-21 at halftime, fought back to tie it at 50-50. But then Harold Jeter hit on a pair of field goals to put Drake ahead to stay. Jeter finished with 21 points.

Brigham Young, held to only 28 points in the first half of its Western Athletic Conference game, rallied in the second half, but could get no closer than one point, 66-65, to the Lobos.

Daniels Scores 23

Mel Daniels got 23 points and Ben Monroe 22 for New Mexico. Brigham Young, now 10-2, was paced by Dick Nemelka and Steve Kramer with 19 each.

Duke had a fight on its hands for a while at Durham, N.C., before winning its 11th straight for a 12-1 over-all record and a 5-1 Atlantic Coast Conference mark.

With the score tied 35-35 early in the second half, center Mike Lewis got the Blue Devils going with three straight baskets, and Duke raced to a 72-47 advantage. Steve Vacendak hit for 18 for Duke, and Lewis added 17. Gary Ward was high for Maryland with 15.

Tulsa took advantage of Bradley's loss to move into first place in the Missouri Valley with a 3-0 record by edging North Texas State 62-60 at Tulsa, Okla., on Gene Demaree's lay-up with 28 seconds left.

Boston College, a major Eastern independent, suffered a scare before defeating Northeastern 70-63. BC, 10-2, led only 63-61 with 90 seconds remaining but then cashed in on several foul shots to clinch the victory.

Color Line Broken

Rhode Island's Steve Chubin tallied 35 points for a school career scoring record as the Rams blasted Duquesne 101-69 at Kingston, R.I. Chubin's performance brought his career total to 1,882, eclipsing the mark of 1,868 set by Rhode Island Coach Ernie Calverley.

At Shreveport, La., sophomore Elvin Hayes and Don Chaney of Houston became the first Negroes to play on Centenary's court as Houston beat Centenary 108-84. Both fouled out, with Hayes getting 20 points before leaving. Centenary's Tom Kerwin was high man with 34.

In other major games, Detroit sent Notre Dame to its eighth straight defeat, 7-84, in a game at South Bend, Richmond entertained Virginia Military and

CONTROVERSIAL INFIELDER HAPPY

Phils Sign Richie Allen As Whitey Back In Yank Fold

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rich Allen, who knocked Frank Thomas off the Philadelphia roster and 15 errors off his record last season, now has knocked about two months off his labor negotiations.

Allen, the Phillies' All-Star third baseman, agreed to a new contract Thursday, which puts him some two months ahead of 1965 when he was a holdout until 10 days after the start of spring training.

The 23-year-old Allen said he was very satisfied with his 1966 contract, a feeling that contrasts with his disagreement with the Phillies last year.

At that time he felt the Phillies didn't want to pay him enough for the record he compiled as the National League's Rookie of the Year in 1964.

In his first year, he batted .318, hit 29 homers and drove in 91 runs. He also committed 41 errors, the most by a third baseman in 23 years. Last season he hit .302, posted 20 homers and knocked in 85 runs.

But while his batting marks were going down, his fielding average was going up. He made just 26 errors, raising his average from .921 to .943.

En route to that performance, however, Allen also raised a pre-game fuss one Saturday night last July when he got into a fight with teammate Thomas.

The flare-up resulted from an exchange of words during batting practice. Allen punched Thomas in the mouth, and Thomas retaliated by taking a swing at Allen with his bat.

Teammates quickly broke up the scuffle, and the Phillies decided to break up the pair. They told Thomas after the game that he had been released on waivers "for the best interest of the club."

Allen remained on the club. After all, he had been named the NL's All-Star third baseman earlier that same day.

Another Phillie, pitcher Jim Bunning, also signed his contract Thursday. Bunning had a 19-9 record last season with a 2.60 earned run average.

Other signings included pitcher Pete Mikkelsen and catcher Jesse Gonder of Pittsburgh, pitcher Whitey Ford of the New York Yankees, pitcher Dick Stigman and outfielder Bob Allison of Minnesota, pitcher Phil Ortega of Washington and catcher Joe Azcue and outfielder Leon Wagner of Cleveland.

MIDWESTERN JV

LCC Plays Tonight

Lubbock Christian College takes a short rest from Western Junior College Conference play here today when they host the Midwestern Junior Varsity team at 7:30 p.m. in the LCC Fieldhouse.

LCC is 8-6 for the year and 2-1 in league play. The Chaparrals resume loop warfare Saturday night in Clarendon against the Bulldogs.

Coach Lester Perrin's cagers are led by Robert Evans, who is scoring at a 27 point clip this year thanks to his second 41-point performance Monday night in the 99-96 win over New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell.

Joining the Hobbs sophomore in the starting lineup will be Jim Harp, who is tossing 'em in at an 18-point average; Ernest Chessire, Gene Hight and Marvin Levels, all averaging over 10 points a game.

Evans and Harp are the top scorers in WJCC circles and Evans is averaging 10 field goals a contest. Evans is third in Region V scoring with a 26-point average as one of the contest results didn't count under regional regulations.

Fight Manager Faces Charges

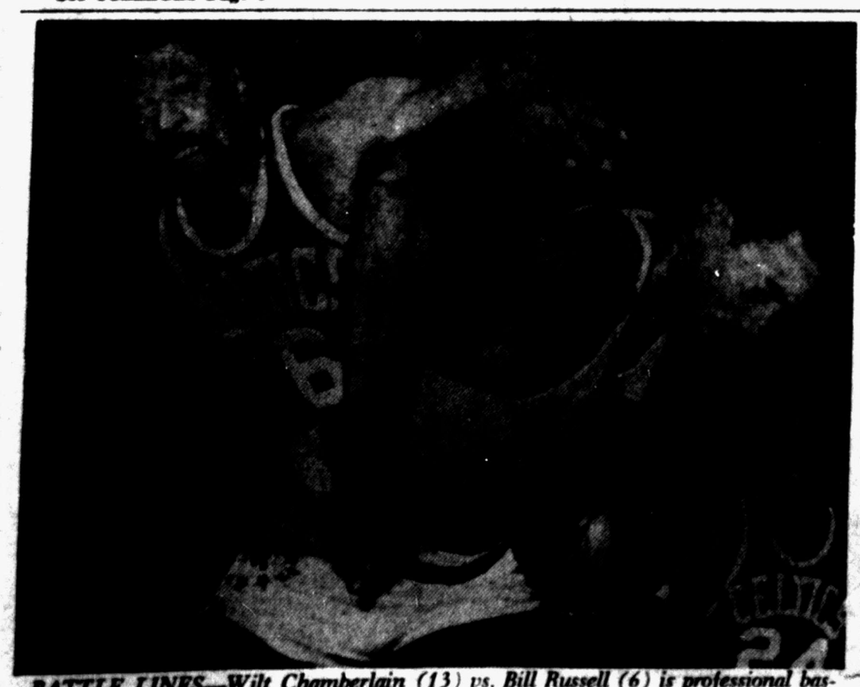

HOUSTON (UPI)—Hugh Benbow, fight manager whose boxer got into a legal scrape that almost cost him his life, had a legal problem of his own today.

Benbow was named in an indictment Thursday by the Harris County grand jury, charging he passed forged instruments and stole a geological map.

The indictment accused Benbow, owner-manager of heavyweight boxer Cleveland (Big Cat) Williams, of passing forged letters signed by a Shell Oil Co. official. The indictment charging theft of a geological map also named Marvin L. Smith, 40, of Houston, a former Shell Oil Co. geologist.

BUT NO WORD YET

Harry Buffington Expected At Tech

By BURLE PETTIT
Avalanche-Journal Sports Staff

Among the problems waiting to greet Coach J. T. King when he arrived Thursday from an extended jaunt to Florida, Hawaii and Washington, D. C., was the task of replacing assistant Joe Blaylock.

Although all indications point toward Harry Buffington, King would not confirm that the ex-Raider aide had been selected to fill the vacancy created when Blaylock accepted a post on Mike Pittman's staff at Tulane.

Buffington resigned Thursday as defensive coach of the Edmonton Eskimos (CFL), adding to already-stemming speculation here that he would soon join the Tech staff.

No Decision Yet

"We have made no decision as yet," King said, "although we have several applications for the job." He did not say whether Buffington was among those who had applied.

King did say, however, that he was seeking "an experienced coach, one who would be able to work with the defense and who had proven himself as a recruiter."

King has been out of town since Dec. 27, when the Raiders departed for Jacksonville, Fla., and the Gator Bowl game with Georgia Tech.

Lectured On Offense

He flew directly from Jacksonville to Honolulu, where he coached the South team in the Hula Bowl game Jan. 6. From Hawaii, King went directly to Washington, D. C., for the NCAA meeting, where he lectured on football offense.

Buffington was defensive coach at Texas Tech in 1963 before resigning to join his old college teammate, Neil Armstrong, at Edmonton. In the Canadian job, Buffington was defensive coach and assistant head coach to Armstrong, with whom he played football at Oklahoma A&M in the early 1940s.

Buffington's family has continued to live in Lubbock while he was employed in Canada. His son, Jack, was a fullback-linebacker for Monterey the past season.

Defensive Staff Boosted

King Thursday cited a need to beef up his defensive staff, which has been undermanned for several years. Matt Lair, who will continue to head up the defensive staff, has been handling the defensive line, and Jim Wright the secondary and linebackers.

If a new defensive coach is added, Lair will continue to head up the defensive staff. But the duties will be divided, allowing one man to work with the defensive interior line, the second to handle the ends and linebackers and the third the secondary.

Although Buffington has not been hired by Tech, he gave his reason for leaving Edmonton "to return to college football coaching."

Current alignment of King's staff has John Conley, the assistant head coach, working with the offensive line, Burl Bartlett with the offensive backs, Bradley Mills with the offensive ends and Lair and Wright the defense.

Mills is the newest member of the staff, being named shortly after the board of directors approved King expanding by one man. Several graduate and student assistants also are used.

AFL Champs Face Stars

HOUSTON (AP) — The two-time champion Buffalo Bills meet a one-week old All-Star team Saturday in the American Football League's All-Star Bowl — an old game with a new name that closes the season and opens a new chapter in football.

The game is a radical departure from the usual post-season All-Star game matching teams from the East and West and thus presents some intriguing situations.

Agreed, admitted Buffalo Coach Joel Collier, but:

"You've got a team like the All-Stars with highly qualified personnel — more qualified than any other All-Star team the league has ever had.

"There is no place you can let up or them."

Littlefield's Howle Quits

Howle hasn't revealed his plans for the future, but he does plan to stay in the coaching profession. He has been attending the NCAA meeting the past few days.

Howle came to Littlefield from Anson after leading the Tigers to the Class AA quarterfinals that year. At Littlefield, his teams won 15 and lost 25.

After the 1964 grid season, the school board announced it would not renew his contract this year. At the time of the board announcement, Howle had a year to go on his contract.

This past year, Littlefield compiled a 3-7 record, but four of the losses were by one touchdown or less and the Wildcats lost to District 3-AAA champion Lamesa by only 9-6.

Important Loop Clashes Slated In Area Tonight

Slaton At Post Gym

By BILL HART
Avalanche-Journal Sports Editor

Districts 3-AA and 4-AA open play for keeps tonight with key games on tap at Friona and Post, while other important contests are slated at Stanton, Crosbyton, Dumas, Springlake, Ropesville, Shallowater and Jayton.

The winner of the Abernathy-Friona contest is slated to battle it out with Dimmitt for the 3-AA crown, while the Slaton-Post victor will contend with Denver City for the 4-AA marbles.

Sudan and Springlake, first round winners in 3-A Tuesday night, battle it out at Springlake, while Lorenzo goes to Crosbyton in a key 4-A contest.

Lorenzo is currently leading 4-A with a 3-0 record and is a game ahead of Crosbyton, Petersburg and Idalou, so a victory tonight would put the Hornets in pretty good shape because Idalou and Petersburg are playing at Petersburg.

Seagraves and Stanton both won their 5-A games tonight and the winner is assured of at least a tie for first place unless Wink loses to Plains, then the victor would be in the top spot.

McAdoo Meets Jayton

Tulia and Dumas lock horns in a key 1-AAA game tonight, while Ropesville and Meadow play for the 8-B lead. Cooper is at Shallowater in a big 9-B game and both are unbeaten although Cooper has played just one loop contest and Shallowater has three under its belt.

McAdoo goes to Jayton in a battle of undefeated teams in 11-B and this one is what many in the circuit feel will go a long way in naming the loop champion.

However, Roaring Springs is undefeated, too, and could play a big role in naming the champion. It plays at Girard tonight.

Levelland stands alone in the 3-AAA race after beating Lamesa Tuesday night and the Tors are in Lake View for a battle with the twice-beaten Chiefs.

Down in 2-AAA, Seminole tries to stay alive when it meets Pecos, and Kermit tries to stay unbeaten when it tangles with Fort Stockton. Andrews, also unbeaten, is playing a non-loop game with Denver City tonight.

High Schools To Host Links Meet

The local high schools will host a practice golf match at Westlake Golf Course Saturday, Jerry Fairly has announced.

Six teams, including three from the local high schools, will compete in the meet. Along with Lubbock, Monterey and Coronado will be Abilene, Midland and Midland Lee.

The match is set to get underway at 11 a.m.

Representing Lubbock High in the match will be Carl Kirk, John Carpenter, Lyndell Spinks, Andy Kerr and Robert Benefield. Coronado's team members will be Freddy Smith, Ronnie MacFarland, Brad Robertson, Steve Furr and Kenny Lorenzen. For Monterey it will be Buddy McClung, Allen White, Frank Johnson, Billy Byrd and Billy Roycraw.

Don Shula Gets Salary Increase

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Coach Don Shula of the Baltimore Colts was given a substantial increase in pay and extension of his contract Thursday.

Carroll Rosenbloom, owner of the National Football League team, lengthened Shula's contract from three to five years. The contract is automatically renewable. At the end of each season it will be for five more.

Shula became head coach of the Colts in 1963 after three seasons as defensive coach for the Detroit Lions. Baltimore won the Western Conference title in 1964 and lost it the past season in an overtime playoff with the Green Bay Packers. The Colts defeated Dallas 35-3 in the playoff between runner-up teams in the Western and Eastern Conferences.

JOCKEY SUSPENDED

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Jockey Dean Hall was suspended Thursday for five racing days, Jan. 15-21, by the board of stewards at Santa Anita race track.

CUT YOUR COSTS BY SWITCHING TO 6 OR 8 ROW FARMING
Use fewer employees and less machinery by trading your 4 row equipment in on 6 or 8 row equipment. Not only can you cut your costs, but you can do a better job with 6 or 8 row equipment. Any farmer who has already made the switch will tell you this.
On our new Farmall 706 & 806 vs. A Eight Row Tractors. International Harvester has gone all out to give you more for your money. More power, heavier axles & rear ends. Dyna-Life Clutches, trouble-free lower pressure hydraulic systems, and power brakes are just a few of the added new features of the Farmall 706 & 806 Tractors. Ask for a demonstration today. Take up to 5 years to pay if you trade with us.

Tomorrow's Horoscope
...by Carroll Righter

GENERAL TENDENCIES: So long as you do not force issues with wishes are concerned, this can be a fine Saturday. Quietly uncover all kinds of situations which could otherwise be to your disadvantage were you to continue unaware of the true situations now existing. Be cagey.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Foregoing recreations and keeping busy getting all responsibilities in back of you is wisest thing to do today. Follow your intuition where an emotional tie is concerned. Come to a better understanding.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Avoid that higher-up who is acting in a most unusual way right now, owing to pressures of some kind, and be with friends who understand you. Much occurs that can be a stepping-stone to success for you.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Instead of running off to new places because you feel you are swamped with work, get at it early and it is behind you quickly. Co-operate with fellow workers also, who need your assistance. Make this a productive Saturday.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Forget about what individuals demand of you and get out and have a very happy day and evening. Be very creative in your hobbies. Make sure that you pick your companions with discretion.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Doing whatever kin desires is very important now so do not permit demands of allies to get you upset. You can start big uptrend in fundamental matters. However, make sure you keep perfect equilibrium.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you talk over with experts how to get routine work operating more efficiently, you get fine results. Use your talents intelligently. Get the information required so that you have greater progress.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Taking inventory is fine today and then get the help of those who are impressed with your good business sense. You can make additions to your present holdings. Come to fast but accurate decisions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Know what your personal aims are and go after them, but avoid family tie who is upset about something that does not concern you. Find unique ways of reaching your goals. Be clever, awake.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Find a far better system to rid yourself of certain situations that keep you from advancing. Then do something kind for those who are in trouble. Your intuition will tell you what to do, how to gain happiness.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Some good friend will give you wonderful ideas for recreation that are very edifying, but you have to forget the material for awhile. This is not a day for finances, anyway. Be social.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Avoid personal aims today and concentrate on the civic or business aides you need. Get out to group meetings where they can be found. Powerful individuals should be contacted, since their ideas are superior to yours now.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Being with new people at new sites, interests is fine right now, so forget the usual routines and get out early. An out-of-town letter clears the picture for you. Be very active—happy.

IF YOUR CHILD Is Born Today he or she will be one of those fascinating youngsters who will waver from the ancient to the modern, the good and the bad, the introvert and the extrovert. Much spiritual training is necessary as well as a good education so that the energy will be focused on the constructive only. Teach early to control the temper. A wonderful actor, actress, orator, or psychologist can be in this chromatic chart, as it were.

"The Stars Impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

AN ORDINANCE AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE OF A SPECIFIC USE PERMIT IN ZONE CASE NO. 1379; DECLARING AN EMERGENCY, AND PROVIDING FOR PUBLICATION
WHEREAS, after receiving the recommendations of the Planning and Zoning Commission and after due notice and public hearing and all matters having been done and performed as required by Section 14-A of Zoning Ordinance 1695 of the City of Lubbock (said Ordinance being an Appendix to the Lubbock City Code) relating to Specific Use Permits, the City Council finds that due to changed conditions it would be expedient and in the interest of the public health, safety, morals, and general welfare to authorize the granting of a Specific Use Permit as hereinafter set forth and,
WHEREAS, this Ordinance affects the daily operation of the Planning and Zoning Departments of the City of Lubbock, which creates an emergency NOW THEREFORE BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF LUBBOCK
SECTION 1. The Director of Planning of the City of Lubbock is authorized to issue a Specific Use Permit to the Applicant in Zone Case No. 1379 in accordance with the recommendations and conditions imposed by the Planning and Zoning Commission, on file in the office of the Director of Planning and the City Council, which are hereby adopted and incorporated herein by reference for all purposes, provided said Applicant agrees to be bound by the terms of the Specific Use Permit, the granting of which is hereby made subject to compliance by said Applicant with all terms of said Specific Use Permit and further subject to all provisions of Zoning Ordinance No. 1695 of the City of Lubbock, including particularly but not limited to, Section 14-A thereof relating to Specific Use Permits. Provided further, that should said Applicant fail to comply with the terms of this Ordinance and Section 14-A of Zoning Ordinance 1695 within Ten Months of the effective date of this ordinance, the City Secretary shall be and is hereby authorized and instructed, upon written notice from the Director of Planning that Applicant has not complied with the provisions, conditions and terms imposed by this ordinance, to note Applicant's failure to comply on the margin of the Minutes of the City Council opposite entry of this ordinance, and the authorization to issue such Specific Use Permit is hereby revoked; and the Director of Planning in such event is directed to remove from the Zoning Map the legend indicating such limited use. The specific use authorized by this ordinance is for Apartment Project pursuant to Section 14-A.1-9 of the Zoning Ordinance and the property is located on Blocks 13 and 14, Madison Addition, City of Lubbock, Lubbock County, Texas. (Between 3rd and 4th Streets and Flint and Elgin Avenues)
SECTION 2. The City Secretary shall cause the publication of this Ordinance once a week for two consecutive weeks in a newspaper regularly published in the City of Lubbock.
SECTION 3. Since this Ordinance is an emergency measure for the reasons set forth in the preamble hereof, the rule requiring two readings before final passage is hereby suspended, and this ordinance shall take effect immediately after its passage.
AND IT IS SO ORDERED
On motion of Councilman Medlock seconded by Councilman Alderson, the above and foregoing Ordinance was unanimously passed by the City Council this 6th day of January, 1966.

NOTICE OF HEARING
THE STATE OF TEXAS
COUNTY OF TRAVIS
TO ALL PERSONS INTERESTED IN THE CREATION AND ORGANIZATION OF SOUTH PLAINS UNDERGROUND WATER CONSERVATION DISTRICT NO. 4
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that a hearing will be held at 10:00 A.M. on the 2nd day of February, 1966, before the Texas Water Rights Commission at the High School Auditorium in the City of Lamesa, Dawson County, Texas, upon a petition for the creation and establishment of South Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 4, in accordance with the following order duly entered by the Texas Water Rights Commission on the 1st day of December, 1965.
AN ORDER setting for public hearing the organization of South Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 4
THE STATE OF TEXAS
OFFICE OF THE TEXAS WATER RIGHTS COMMISSION
AUSTIN, TEXAS
On this the 1st day of December, 1965, the Texas Water Rights Commission convened in regular session at the regular meeting place in the city of Austin, Travis County, Texas, with the following members present, to-wit:
Joe D. Carter, Chairman
O. F. Dent, Commissioner
William E. Berger, Commissioner
A petition signed by more than 50 land owners within the proposed district was received by the Texas Water Rights Commission praying for the creation and establishment of South Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 4, comprising all or a portion of the counties of Andrews, Cochran, Dawson, Gaines, Lynn, Terry and Yoakum, and being coterminus with "Subdivision No. 4 of the Underground Water Reservoir High Plains Area, South of the Canadian River" as redefined and redesignated by order of the Texas Water Commission dated April 26, 1965, to which petition and order reference is made for all purposes.
Said petition further stated that the petitioners would show the Commission that the proposed district should be established, created and organized for the purpose of undertaking large scale effective steps for the conservation, preservation, protection, recharging and prevention of waste of underground water of the territory included in said proposed district and for the purpose of exercising all or any of the powers and functions which may be exercised by a water district organized under Article 7880-3c V.A.C.S.
It appearing that the Texas Water Rights Commission has jurisdiction to entertain said petition, under the provisions of Chapter 3A, Title 128 Revised Civil Statutes of Texas, together with all amendments and additions thereto and it further appearing that said petition is signed by more than fifty (50) land owners in the proposed district, and that said petition containing a metes and bounds description of the lands within the proposed district has been duly filed in the office of the County Clerks of Andrews, Cochran, Dawson, Gaines, Lynn, Terry and Yoakum Counties that it has been filed with this Commission and the statutory filing fee and deposit paid, and that it is in due form and for lawful purposes as provided by Section 59 of Article 16, of the Constitution of Texas and the statutes enacted pursuant thereto, and that said petition should be heard by this Commission.
IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED BY THE TEXAS WATER RIGHTS COMMISSION that said petition be in the same is hereby set down for hearing before the Texas Water Rights Commission at the High School Auditorium in the City of Lamesa, Dawson County, Texas, at 10:00 A.M. on the 2nd day of February, 1966.
On the date set for said hearing, any persons whose lands are included in or would be affected by the creation of such district, may appear and contest the creation thereof and may offer testimony to show that such district is or is not feasible and practicable would or would not be a benefit to the land to be included therein, and would or would not be a public benefit or utility, and also any interested person may appear at such hearing and offer testimony with reference thereto.
Notice of this hearing, containing this order, shall be filed in the office of the County Clerks of Andrews, Cochran, Dawson, Gaines, Lynn, Terry and Yoakum Counties, who shall then deliver said notice to their respective sheriffs for posting of such on the bulletin board used for posting legal notices at the Courthouse door, which posting shall be done at least fifteen (15) days prior to the date of such hearing. Said notice shall be published in one or more newspapers to give general circulation in the area of the proposed district, once a week for two consecutive weeks, the first publication thereof to be at least twenty (20) days prior to the date of hearing. The Sheriff of each of said counties shall make due return of service thereof, and an affidavit of publication shall be filed with the Commission prior to the date of hearing.
It was moved by Commissioner Dent and seconded by Commissioner Berger, that the foregoing order be passed, and upon the question being called for it was unanimously passed, all Commissioners present voting aye and none voting no.
Passed, approved and ordered at Austin, Texas, this the 1st day of December, 1965.

BERRY'S WORLD

GIVES HER DEFINITION

Actress Ann-Margret Is Cautious About Becoming Wrong Kind Of "Swinger"

By VERNON SCOTT

What does it mean? Why are they swingers?

The answer comes from one of Hollywood's classic young swingers, Ann-Margret. She's so closely associated with the term that the red-haired Swedish beauty is currently starring in a movie titled, simply but directly, "The Swinger."

You begin to understand the Ann-Margret repairs for lunch at Paramount Studios where the film is being made. She drove up to her fancy dressing room in a $7,000 gold leaf electric gold cart with a fringe on top and her name emblazoned on the front in gold. Even the cushions are gold.

The cart is named "Scobbie I." And you have the feeling that when the tires wear down there'll be a Scoobie II and Scoobie III.

Sigh With Gladness

Ann-Margret wore a clinging pair of purple pants and matching blouse which made every man worthy of the name sigh with gladness. And when she walked . . . well, hardly anybody walks like that anymore.

So Ann-Margret, what is a swinger?

Her long lashes veiled her eyes in thought for a few seconds, and then she said: "Everyone has his own definition of a swinger. But as applied to me, I think it means non-conformist.

"I don't conform and I won't conform. I'm not rebelliously non-conformist. I just pursue my own life and ideas as quietly as possible. In most people's minds it's permissible for a man to be a swinger, but it's not especially desirable in girl."

Drives Motorcycle

Her two first names and no last name is non-conformity. She also drives a big powerful motorcycle which is not standard equipment for debutantes these days.

Still, it takes more than physical trappings to make a swinger, otherwise beatniks and other eccentrics (hermits) might qualify.

A swinger must be blessed with style and excitement. Ann-Margret has both. But she is cautious about becoming the wrong kind of swinger, else her reputation be tarnished.

A Woman First

"A girl can be a swinger and a lady at the same time," she explained. "A swinger exists mostly in the minds of the beholder, rather than the swinger herself. I've always been impressed with being a woman first and an actress second. I value my character and reputation as a female more than I do my career."

In the movie Ann-Margret plays a swinger who also happens to be a drunk, prostitute, playgirl, stripper and gambler—a type who might be defined as the swinger's swinger.

COMBINES UNUSUAL SOUNDS

By BOB THOMAS

They expect to find a jolly Mexican of the type Leo Carrillo used to play in "The Cisco Kid." Instead, they meet an intent and coolly handsome Jewish boy of 28.

This mixture is part of the power and charm of the Tijuana Brass, which combines an ancient musical sound — the Mariachi band — with a north-of-the-border beat and recording know-how.

The combination has proved a heady mixture for Alpert, once a movie musician. His albums are selling in the millions; two are among the top three current best-sellers. He and the band have appeared on every variety show, and his concerts are sell-outs.

"Bring back the band business?" he muses. "I don't know if anyone can do that. There will always be a few great old bands like Count Basie and Woody Herman. But I'm afraid the days when a Harry James could play one-nighters from coast-to-coast are gone forever.

Economics Cited

"The economics of the music world just won't permit big traveling bands any more. But I do think there is a chance for new bands which are smaller and specialize in frequency sounds — seeking new patterns instead of the same color tones of saxes, trumpets and trombones that once existed in bands."

Alpert would allow that the Tijuana Brass brought trumpets back in style, and that was what he was after. His original concept was actually born at the bull ring in the Mexican border town for which the band is named — and where he never actually has played.

"I was enjoying the Mariachi music between the bullfights, and I wondered why it had never become popular in the United States," he recalled. "I decided to cross the Mariachi sound with the pulsation of American jazz."

His first record even incorporated the bullfight cheers. He and partner Jerry Moss put up $100 apiece to record "The Lonely Bull" in 1962. It was a success, particularly on the West Coast, but the two partners were told that their music was strictly regional.

They didn't think so. They were convinced by a Tijuana Brass gum commercial that became a hit in Minneapolis, Philadelphia and Washington, D.C. The newly formed A&M records issued "Whipped Cream," which logged over a million sales.

"A Taste of Honey" is approaching the million mark. With both teen-agers and their parents as fans, there seems to be no limit on future high notes for the Tijuana Brass.

Long Hair Is Favored

WILSON

NEW YORK—We men who laugh at guys with long hair had better adjust . . . my secretary "B" has hinted she'd prefer a boss with hair drooping down to the desktop . . . and Rita Tushingham, the gifted young English movie actress, says:

"The British boys will never go back to short hair!"

"Never?" I shuddered.

"Maybe when they're 60," said the glamour girl of the Rockers, who was rather fiercely attired in a blue denim shirt, gray wool suit, and bone (cream-colored) stockings which really were tights to keep her warm.

"My husband" Terry Bicknell, 31, a London cameraman—"has lovely long hair down to his shoulders," Rita said somewhat defiantly. "I cut his hair when it needs cutting—maybe once a year."

SHE REALLY LIKES IT

"Of course! He's never had it short since I've know him. His hair's blonde and luxurious, and I like to run my hands through it."

Rita was here promoting "The Leather Boys," following her success in "The Knack" and "Dr. Zhivago." She certainly belonged on the Rockers' Best Dressed List.

"I guess I could never get anywhere with a girl like you with short hair, could I?" I inquired.

Houston Theater Is Destroyed By Blaze

HOUSTON (AP) — A four-alarm fire destroyed a theater and for a time threatened adjacent buildings Thursday night.

Hundreds of spectators were attracted by the flames at the Dowling Theater, about one mile southeast of the downtown area. Firemen controlled the blaze about an hour after the first alarm. There were no injuries.

F. W. Stonem, manager, said the theater was built at a cost of $100,000 and opened in 1941. It had just been painted and repaired.
