Bandit Hunt Spreads Over Four Western States House Approves Boulder Canyon Dam Measure

Great Colorado River Reservoir Will Be Created

Measure, Long Bone of Contention In Congress Is Sent Speeding On Way To Senate.

$125,000,000 WOULD BE GIVEN AS START

Protection Will Be Given Imperial Valley, Power Furnished, and Irrigation Made Possible.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 25.—With a roll call vote the House today passed the Swing-Johnson Boulder Canyon Dam Bill, and sent it speeding to the Senate where for weeks a companion measure has been held motionless in the grip of a determined filibuster.

Even when the House was defeating a last minute attempt to keep the bill from reaching a final vote, opposing forces in the Senate renewed hostilities. The warfare, however, continued only for a brief space as senators, fatigued from an all-night row on the Muscle Shoals conference report, agreed to recess until 11 a. m. tomorrow.

The House's final action on the measure was preceded by an unsuccessful move to send the bill back to the irrigation committee which virtually would have shut the doors against any action at this session but the motion, which was offered by Representative Douglas, Democrat, Arizona, a leader of the opposition, was defeated 219 to 177.

The measure proposes the construction of a huge dam, 600 feet high, between the rugged banks of the Colorado river at Boulder Canyon, Colo. This structure would serve the three-fold purpose of providing protection for the Imperial valley in California, of furnishing electric power for the Southwest, and of supplying water for irrigation of thousands of acres of arid lands in several western states.

The bill further would authorize the secretary of the treasury to advance $125,000,000 to finance the project, the money later to be returned to the treasury from proceeds derived from selling power generated at the dam. This money would bear interest at four percent.

WURZBACH PROTESTS
Exclusion From Convention Brings Action

FORT WORTH, May 25. (P)—Protest of the action of the so-called regular republican state convention at Dallas in excluding Harry M. Wurzbach, Texas' lone republican congressman, from its meeting was wired to William Butler, chairman and members of the republican national committee today by the executive committee of the Fort Worth Roosevelt club.

MARYLAND TO HOOVER
Nineteen Votes Are Given Instructions

BALTIMORE, May 25. (P)—Merbert Hoover, will receive Maryland's nineteen votes at the republican national convention at Kansas City the republican state convention decided today, when delegates were instructed to cast their ballots for the commerce secretary in accord with the preference expressed in the recent primary.

ROAD CONTRACTS
Hard Surfacing Maintenance Provided.

AUSTIN, May 25. (P)—Contract for asphalt hard surfacing maintenance on 117 miles of roads were let Friday by the state highway commission along with another for bituminous macadam on 84 miles of highway No. 24 in Baylor county.

The Baylor county job went to H. K. McCollum, Fort Worth for $61,900.

NON-STOP FLIGHT
Mexican Aviator Makes 1575 Mile Hop

MEXICO CITY, May 25. (P)—Making a non-stop flight from San Diego, Calif., to Mexico City, a distance of 1,575 miles in a little less than 19 hours, Captain Emilio Carranza, Mexican Army aviator, has earned the enthusiastic acclaim of the Mexican people.

Captain Carranza, flying his monoplane "Mexico," had hopped off at San Diego at 5:30 p. m. last evening, and landed at Oahuena airfield at 12:30 this afternoon.

Hoover's Orator

John L. McNabb, San Francisco lawyer, is reported to have accepted an invitation to make Herbert Hoover's nominating speech at the Republican convention in Kansas City. McNabb is known as an eloquent orator.

Federal Control Of Muscle Shoals Provided In Bill

Both Houses of Congress Pass Measure Regarding Plant, Long-Paramount Issue of Solons.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, May 25.—Hedged about with expressed hopes of its Tennessee opponents for a veto, the bill creating a government corporation to operate the Muscle Shoals nitrogen plant fought its way today through senate and house.

The votes adopting the revised conference report, which eliminated authority for commercial manufacture and sale of fertilizer but retained provision for construction of the supplementary Cove Creek dam in Tennessee, were decisive but not overwhelming, or sufficient to repass the measure over a veto.

The senate record was 43 to 34, taken after a 24-hour filibuster, led by McKelvie of Tennessee, had broken down. The house vote was 211 to 146, taken amid reiterated shouts of "Vote, Vote, Vote" which rendered almost inaudible and at times choked off attempted speeches against the bill.

The two votes ended for the moment at least a battle that began in congress immediately on the signing of the armistice that ended the world war. Since that time controversy has ranged in season and out around the disposition to be made of the huge hydro-electric plant built by the government during the war as a source of nitrogen needed in war explosives. At no time has congress been without multiplying and utterly differing proposals as to the peace time use to be made of the plant. Yet the bill passed today is the first definite legislative action on the subject to be sent to the president.

Dirigible That Cruised Above North Pole For Hours, Now Long Overdue

Fears Being Felt For General Nobile and Crew After Airship Is Unreported Forty-Seven Hours Past Time When Polar Region Was Reached

(By Associated Press) LONDON, May 25.—Up to 4:00 a. m. today nothing has reached London from any source revealing the whereabouts of the polar dirigible Italia. While there is a possibility that she has encountered serious trouble from the strong northwest winds around Spitzbergen, there are no reports here which would even suggest the ship is in danger.

A late Reuters dispatch from King's Bay confirms earlier Associated Press advices that the Nobile base ship Clitta Di Milano will wait until noon before attempting to go in search of the aircraft. But experts believe the steamer will not be able to get through the ice barrier extending from Spitzbergen to Northeast Island.

Senate Refuses To Pass Haugen Bill Over Veto

Solons and President At Grips Over Relief Legislation and Coolidge Emerges Victor.

PROSPECT OF FARM LEGISLATION ENDED

Refusal of Senate to Override President Sounds the Death Knell for Any Aid To Farmer.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 25.—President Coolidge and the senate came to grips today on his veto of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill and the president won.

The vote was 50 for re-passage over the veto and 31 to sustain the veto. A switch of four votes would have passed the measure, and the lack of them eliminated any prospect for farm relief legislation at this session.

Action followed a brief but brilliant attack on the veto from both sides of the chamber and a declaration by Chairman McNary of the agriculture committee and co-author of the measure that it was too late at this session to enact any other legislation. That course had been suggested by the president.

Senator McNary, Republican of Oregon, further declared that while he had stated to President Coolidge when informed that a veto was being written that he would seek to have a bill re-passed without the amendment, he felt, by the action of the veto it seems that avenue, which might have benefited somewhat the farmers.

It was the first showdown between congress and the president on the McNary-Haugen relief bill, which troubled congress several years before it finally got the measure to the White House last year.

SOLONS AGREE

Smooth Differences On Deficiency Bill

WASHINGTON, May 25. (P)—Within less than five hours today House and Senate conference smoothed over differences on the second deficiency appropriation bill and the House without a word of debate approved the conference agreement.

The conference report immediately was transmitted to the Senate but arrived too late for action. In charge of it will try and call it up the first thing tomorrow.

UPHOLD PRESIDENT

House Refuses to Override Veto On Road Bill

WASHINGTON, May 25. (P)—The house refused today to override the veto of President Coolidge on the Odell bill to appropriate more than ten million dollars for roads through western public domain and Indian lands. The measure previously had been re-passed by the senate over the veto but with the house's rejection it is cast aside.

Another Home Town Boy Leads Procession of Weary Racers Into Passaic, N. J.; Only Bad Accident Can Keep Andy Payne From His $25,000

(By Associated Press)

PASSAIC, N. J., May 25.—(P)—Jaunty in spic and span uniforms, heads perked up and smiles on leather-brown faces, Charley Fyle's puppy-pioneers moved in on Passaic today, almost within sight of the goal of their transcontinental jaunt.

The little Jersey town went wild with excitement, crowds lined the course of the 24.7 mile run from Suffern, N. Y., and traffic was a hazy-busy mess as the long arm of coincidence reached out again, and led Johnny Salo, Passaic shipworker, to the finish line first in the high school stadium of his home town. Entirely by accident, the promoters naively exposing forces in the Senate re doing that all the way along the route from Los Angeles.

As far as competition goes, the race to New York over 3,400 miles of mountains, deserts, and finally asphalt pavement, already is over. Salo cut one hour, 13 minutes and 41 seconds from the huge lead of Andy Payne, Oklahoma farm boy, holds over him for first place in the mammoth trek, but only an accident of serious nature can keep Payne from reaching the ultimate goal in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night with the $25,000 top prize already in his hands.

Only an accident—or the financial collapse of the bunionless parade—the foot-racers, some of them almost unrecognizable with dozens of days of beard freshly scraped from their faces frankly admitted today they were slightly worried about the solvency of the expedition.

Pyle asserted the total prize money, amounting to $48,000, was safely stowed away in a New York bank, although associates admitted that the promoter is some $60,000 behind on the venture.

Hailstorm Makes 200 Homeless and Does Big Damage

Fields Laid Bare As Large Hailstones Sweep Farm Land Through Central Part of Alabama.

(By Associated Press) GORDO, Ala., May 25.—Gordo tonight was the central relief base for approximately 200 persons left destitute in last night's hail storm which swept 60 square miles in west central Alabama. Damage to crops was estimated at $500,000.

Red Cross workers who made a hurried survey of the storm area, found none of the families had deserted their homes, although in virtually every case footstuffs, had been ruined by water and corn, poultry and livestock destroyed.

The immediate problem, workers said, was food and money.

RECESS STOREY TRIAL

Doctor Tells of Robbery Attempt

SHERMAN, May 25. (P)—Illness of S. W. Yeury of Brow brought a recess short after 3 p. m. Friday in the trial of Yancy Storey, charged with the robbery of the bank at Krum three years ago, after considerable testimony had been taken during the day. Court was ordered reconvened at 9 a. m. Saturday.

The state had closed its direct examination of Dr. A. H. Knox, cashier of the bank, when recess was ordered. In his testimony Dr. Knox related circumstances attending the robbery, and described in detail the manner in which it was carried out, as well as the dress and general appearance of the two men involved.

Lone Miner Found Wandering In Shaft Of Mine, Now Made Tomb For Scores

(By Associated Press) MATTHEW, Pa., May 25.—A miner who had been entombed for 146 hours following a blast in the mine of the Malheur Collieries company here Saturday, was brought back to life from death tonight, when he was found by rescue workers seeking bodies some two miles from the shaft in the debris-filled passages.

Officials of the coal company said they believed the miner, John Wade, negro, had been wandering about the workings much of the time since he exploded, and for this reason was not picked up by safety squads.

The worker was exhausted, due to his long absence from food and water. It was said his condition was not believed to be serious.

Chinese Armies Battle On Front 1000 Miles Long

(By Associated Press) HONG KONG, May 25.—Along a line of some 1,000 miles cutting across 1,000 vital railroads, 100 miles in the south of Peking, the northern and southern (Nationalist) armies were in contact today.

The front extended from Tientsin, on the Peking-Hankow railroad, eastward through Hokenfu to Tsangchow, on the Tientsin-Pukow railroad.

The Japanese sent a large force of troops including an infantry regiment and an artillery brigade to Chinchowfu, Manchuria, to protect the entrance to the province in which Japan has announced the "not carry on" southerners shall not carry on their hostilities.

Other troops were diverted from Tientsin to Tientsin, about 60 miles north of the line of battle.

Heavy Fighting Along Large Railway

TOKYO, May 25. (P)—Advices from Peking today reported heavy fighting along the Peking-Hankow railway, vital line of communication with the south.

The Nationalists attacked the Japanese forces in Tientsin, and counter attack after forcing back the right wing of the Mukdenites, troops of the northern alliance.

The main force of General Peng Yu-Hsiang of the Nationalist alliance appeared to be planning to advance northward between the Peking-Hankow and the Tientsin-Pukow railways as they were pressing northward through Hokenfu.

800 More Japanese Troops Arrive

TIENTSIN, May 25. (P)—Eight hundred Japanese troops of the third division arrived last night. The arrival of 3,000 more was expected today. This will bring the Japanese force in Tientsin to 4,500, equipped with 12 field guns and nine airplanes.

THE WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

It seems nothing less than silly to feel constrained in this modern world to write in defense of "old maid."

To be sure, we don't call them that nowadays. They are "unmarried women," or "spinsters," or "bachelor maids." And, they do not need defense from ridicule and funny paper cartoons of bony females, alarm of visage and vertically dressed, but they do need defense from exploitation, for there is no living person in this whole social system so exploited as the unmarried woman past the average marrying years.

She is exploited by society and she is exploited by her own family. She is exploited by society's conscious and unconscious belief that the unmarried woman is a shirker and a drag. I cannot read an article by a woman famous for her intelligence the other day and came upon the phrase "spinsters and other people who shrink their responsibilities to society."

This assumption so often met from piously good married people who did themselves that by marrying they performed a great boon to the world and got enough good marks in St. Peter's book to atone for a million black ones, is so funny that one hardly can argue with it.

Just as if any individual could be found who ever married because he thought he was doing a good turn for society, or for any other reason except that he wanted to for his own selfish comfort and happiness—for the very same reason, in fact, that some other people choose not to marry.

And the assumption that an unmarried individual is a shirker in society is equally funny. Sometimes one wonders just what would happen if there were none of these "shirkers" to help the "bachelor maids" in their job of maintaining a home and raising their children.

These "shirkers" are teachers, librarians, playground instructors, doctors, dentists, social workers, waiters, waitresses, nurses, government, all the professions, devoted as aids to camps, as it were, to parents and homes.

These very "shirkers" nine times out of ten are assuming financial obligations to parents which their married brothers and sisters cannot assume. They have their families, they raise, and their uncles, brothers or sisters have "nobody" but themselves to look out for.

It never seems to occur to them that their own children will be their own props for declining years, whereas the unmarried brother or sister must make hay while the sun shines and pile up during years-saving years enough competence for the lean days.

"I'm sorry, but I can't do a thing for mother or father this year," the married offspring complacently says. "We're actually hard up, buying our new home and the car and radio, and I got my new electric refrigerator and sewing machine, you know, and it costs so to entertain or do anything at all these days. You can't possibly know, having nobody but yourself."

And the unmarried one who might like a car and a radio and a home of her own and some money and peace, the independent and efficient, a little too, but who living at home, sees the immediate necessities of "the old

Mrs. Maude E. Lowe and daughter, Opheila, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Pettola for the weekend. Mrs. Lowe is Mrs. Pettola's mother.

The Morning Avalanche Menu for the Day

BREAKFAST—Stewed prunes, cereal, cream, baked veal cakes with tomato sauce, pop-overs, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Cream of asparagus soup, croutons, raw vegetable salad, rhubarb, and strawberry pie, milk, tea.

DINNER—Planked fish with stuffed tomatoes, new potatoes in cream sauce, jellied cucumber salad, fudge cake, milk, coffee.

Grated carrots, grated beets, and a little scraped onion are combined with a Russian salad dressing to make the luncheon salad.

Rhubarb and Strawberries—Rhubarb, 1-2 cups, peeled and sliced rhubarb, 1 cup granulated sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, plain pastry.

Line an 8-inch pie dish with pastry and brush over with white of an egg. Mix and sift flour and sugar in a wood sheet mixing bowl. Add prepared fruit and mix carefully until fruit is covered with sugar. Turn into prepared pie dish and cover with top crust. Bake ten minutes in a hot oven, decrease heat fifty degrees and bake until fruits are tender and crust is brown.

When removing pie from oven shake from side to side and before putting in oven shake to distribute sugar and fruit evenly in shell.

ALL-COLLEGE DANCE

Affair Tonight Is Final Social Function

The last all-college social affair at Tech for this year is to be a farewell dance at the gymnasium this evening at 8 o'clock. It has been announced at the college. The Tech Foresters will play.

Raymond Woodbridge, who formerly lived here, is a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Howard, 1632 18th street. His home is in Miami, Fla.

Mrs. O. L. Blanton is in Dallas to attend commencement exercises at the Terrill school where her son, Oscar, has been a student for several years.

Lubbock People Hear Number Of Tech Art Course

Musical Production Given at College Gymnasium; Horace Grady Moore In Central Role

Lubbock people heard the first performance of "Aboard the Good Ship Barnacle", musical extravaganza written by W. R. Waggoner, last evening at the Technological college gymnasium, this program ending the artists' course series for the year.

Horace O. Moore, student, had a central role in playing the part of Neptune, with A. W. Mack, artist, in a character part. The college choral club members, as passengers on the ship, sang in choruses.

Other principal characters were Miss Blanche Fann, who danced the Highland Fling; Elvridge Egan, the ship's captain; and Miss Eunice Cox, who took the role of Diana.

Assisting singers were Harry E. Blocker, Mrs. Lynn A. Williams.

PEGGY ENGAGED AGAIN

This Time, Her Fifth, She Picks Count

LONDON, May 25.—(P)—The Evening Standard, declaring that it is able to announce one of the most interesting romances of the year, adds: "It is an open secret among their friends that Miss Peggy Hopkins Joyce, the American actress, is engaged to be married to Count Frederic de Janze. He will be her fifth husband."

Count de Janze was formerly the husband of Miss Alice Silverthorne of Chicago.

Henry Van Dyke Creates Up roar

Reference to Princeton Seminary Throws Presbyterian Controversy Into An Up roar.

TULSA, Okla., May 25.—A reference by Dr. Henry Van Dyke, author and former moderator of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A., to the Princeton Theological seminary controversy before the Presbyterian general assembly here today, threw it into an uproar.

"The trouble at Princeton," said Dr. Van Dyke, "is not a matter of loyalty to the church. The faculty and all officials are sound. The question, however, is whether Princeton should be ruled by a faction in their board or by the church assembly."

"You're out of order," cried one of the commissioners from the floor.

"I object," declared Dr. Van Dyke, turning to the chairman, and then appealing to the assembly, "am I out of order?"

The meeting arose in a body, many shouting: "No, no, you are not out of order, go on."

Churchmen interpreted the incident as a demonstration in favor of a report much in controversy in the church, which will be submitted by a committee to the assembly providing for a reorganization of the seminary government in such a way as to place it directly under the supervision of the general assembly.

HUSBAND TYRANNICAL

That Is Woeful Tale Told By One Lubbock Wife

Alleging that her husband stayed drunk and treated her in a cruel and harsh and tyrannical manner, a petition for divorce was filed in 99th district court yesterday.

In conjunction with the divorce suit an injunction was sought to hold notes and a bank deposit.

Two banks, one of Ft. Worth and the other of Plainville, and the brother of her husband were named as defendants.

WOLFFARTH FUNERAL

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Pat Wolffarth, 78-year-old pioneer citizen, who was found dead Thursday. Services were conducted from the Rynum Brothers funeral home with Rev. W. E. White, First Baptist church pastor, officiating. Burial was in the Lubbock cemetery.

MAYOR GETS "STEP-INS"
PORT ARTHUR.—A little package all wrapped in tissue paper was presented to Mayor J. P. Logan recently. When unwrapped it revealed a flimsy silk step-in. The Mayor is requesting the unknown donor to "step-in" his office for a "bawling out" or worse.

LITTLEFIELD, May 25.—Miss Maurine Irvin, daughter of Sheriff and Mrs. Len Irvin, has been selected to represent Littlefield at the convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, May 18 to 20.

TAKE SHOT FROM BRAIN

MIDDLEBOURNE, W. Va.,—Twenty years ago Guy Wagner, while attending a serenade, was shot in the head with a shotgun. Many of the shot were left imbedded in his brain because they lay too deep to be removed. He recovered, however, and until recently had regained normalcy, both in body and mind. A few months ago he noticed sharp pains in his head. An x-ray showed some sixty of the old shot to be causing the trouble. A difficult operation is planned to remove the shot.

NAME LAMESA COACH

Roger Elms, Formerly Of Trinity Appointed

LAMESA, May 25.—The Board of Education has recently supplied the position of athletic coach for the high school here. T. T. McCollum, who has been connected with the system as high school principal will be in direct charge of athletics for the schools, while Roger Elms, honor graduate and popular student of Trinity University will coach all athletic teams. With the line-up for coaches this coming year and the splendid material at hand in the schools, excellent teams are expected for Lamesa schools during the 1928-29 term.

D. N. Leaverton, local contractor, was the man who had charge of constructing Lubbock's first six story office building, the Myrick building.

J. E. Maxey was contractor for the Baker building.

LAMESA TO HELP

Will Boost for Delegation To Fort Worth

LAMESA, May 25.—Lamesa will cooperate with all South Plains towns for forming a South Plains representation at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention which is to convene at Fort Worth, June 18, 19 and 20.

According to S. L. Forrest, president of the local Chamber of Commerce, Lamesa is ever ready to contribute in any manner possible toward cooperating with other towns of the section to help advertise the South Plains of Texas. It is pointed out that perhaps no other section of Texas is closer aligned for its general good than the South Plains of Texas. While there is keen competition existing among the towns of the South Plains there is never an opportunity overlooked to cooperate when the section has a common problem.

FRAU TOMMY ATKINS GETS NO WELCOME

LONDON.—Johnny Bull doesn't approve of marriage between his boys in the army of occupation on the Rhine and the German Frauen. During a recent discussion in the House of Commons demand was made for withdrawal of Tommy Atkins from German territory because "many marriages have been contracted between our soldiers and German women."

One M. P. wanted to know why "with a surplus of eligible spinsters at home, should this sort of thing continue?" an official of the War Office retorted that such marriages do not exceed 30 a year; while Sir Arthur Yapp estimated the number to be far short of 50 and that that figure is not likely to affect the problem of the surplus English spinsters.

Safe and Sane Relief for Pain

Capudine is the logical agent to relieve pain and high nerve strain because it gives relief by soothing the nerves—not by deadening or doping them. It contains no opiates. Being liquid, Capudine acts very much quicker than tablets and powders. Highly effective for headaches, neuralgia, rheumatic pains, periodic pains. At all drug stores; one and six size. (adv.)

Two Plays Given By Junior Little Theatre Players

Future Sarah Bernhardt
And John Gilberts Cavort
In Bright Lights At Lindsey.

Future Sarah Bernhardt and John Gilberts, now members of the Junior Little Theatre, last night made their debut into the spotlight of stardom with their splendid presentation of "The Sleeping Beauty" at the Lindsey Theater.

"The Sleeping Beauty" was written by Theodore Du Bois. As the story goes, it seems there was a beautiful kingdom ruled over by an austere bewitched king. Then there was the queen, the beautiful princess, and a flock of attendants. Added to this concoction was a conglomeration of all things, evil, pages, knights, and jesters.

Following this play, the presentation of "Patty Saves the Day" by Lindsey Harbee was given. It was a play in two acts, and was given a warm reception by the audience.

Costumes, designed by Mrs. James E. Watson and Dorothy Rosling, were gorgeous.

Specialties entertained the audience between acts.

The plays were directed by Luis the Cravens, and the dancing by Lulu Mobley.

Postal Rate Cut Through Measure Approved Friday

Compromise Postal Bill
Agreed Upon After Series of Conferences Between Senate And House.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 25.—A compromise postal rates reduction bill finally was agreed upon today after a second series of conferences between representatives of the senate and house, allowing for a considerable cut in second class rates. The compromise of Senator Moses, republican, of New Hampshire, manager of the conference, was accepted, allowing a reduction to the 1920 schedule of second class rates in the first four zones. This was at one time proposed in the senate also by Senator George, democrat, Georgia.

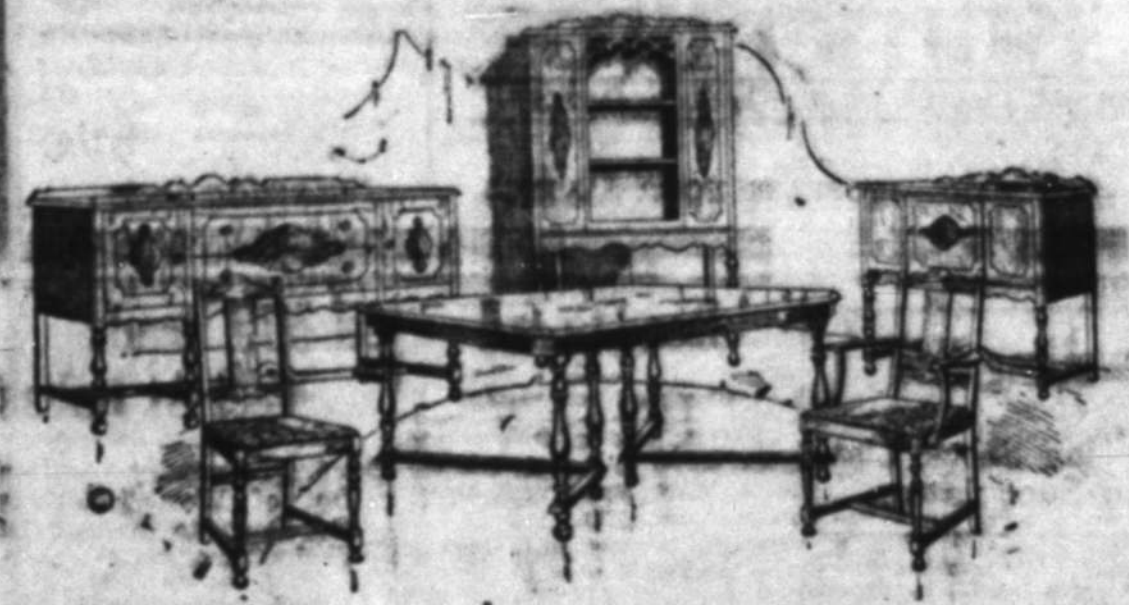

Under the new schedule it is estimated second class mail users, including mostly publishers, will save about $6,310,000 in mail charges annually compared with the $3,860,000 voted by the house and the $7,610,000 reduction allowed under the senate bill.

A compromise also was effected on fourth class matter whereby the two cent surcharge will be retained for parcel post services for the first three zones, with a one cent charge for zones four to eight, reducing revenue about $2,200,000.

Senate Approves Compromise Bill

Agreement Provides For the Slash of $22,495,000 Total In Taxes; Drop Publicity Provision.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—(AP)—Overwhelmingly voting to eliminate the publicity provision of its revenue bill the senate today approved without a record vote the compromise $22,495,000 tax cut and put it in the hands of the house.

Early approval of the compromise reached yesterday by conferees of the senate and house is expected in the house and with this step the tax reduction legislation goes to the white house. The $22,495,000 slash is well above the $20,000,000 limit set by the president, but is believed to be within range of executive approval.

The vote for elimination of the amendment opening income tax returns to the public inspection was 75 to 23. This proposal of Senator Norris, republican, of Nebraska, was previously put in the bill by the senate, 27 to 19.

Although Senator Couzens, republican, of Michigan, urged another vote today strictly on the merits of the publicity question advocating retention of the amendment, Senator Reed, democrat, of Missouri, said he would vote against it now rather than jeopardize all that reason it was not considered that the vote was a real test on the strength of the publicity provision.

There was virtually no discussion of the compromise tax reduction measure aside from the wrangle over publicity.

END DEADLOCK

Missionary To India Named Bishop

KANSAS CITY, May 25.—(AP)—Ending a deadlock of three days, the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church tonight elected Dr. E. Stanley Jones, a missionary of Silapur, India, to the post of Bishop.

Dr. Jones, the author of "Christ of the Indian Road" and for 20 years a missionary in India, was the third and final Bishop to be chosen at this quadrennial session of the conference. The others chosen were R. J. Wade of Chicago and James C. Baker, Urbana, Ill.

The new member of the Episcopacy received 560 votes, 41 more than the necessary two-thirds majority.

ALLOT WAVELENGTHS

Short Channels To Be Used For Trans-Ocean Service

WASHINGTON, May 24.—(AP)—The Federal Radio Commission today allocated 74 short wave channels for transoceanic radio service, making a total of 149 channels now assigned.

The largest single disposition of 20 of the short waves, was made to the American Publishers' Committee, composed of more than a dozen newspapers and press services. This application was bitterly fought by the radio corporation of America at a recent hearing before the commission when it sought to compel the news agencies to use the commercial services if they wished to receive or disseminate news through the air.

ports reached here during the day that Kessinger's body had been found near Scott City, Kans., but these proved erroneous.

The killers were being hotly pursued late today and were reported to be in the vicinity of Modoc, Kans., after a mad flight over the western Kansas prairies.

Doctor Spirited Away

The body of Dr. Wineinger who was lured away from home last night supposedly to dress the wounds sustained by one of the robbers in a gun fight in the bank was found 25 miles south of Oakley, Kans.

He had been shot in the back of the head with a shotgun and apparently tossed over an embankment at the bottom of which his motorcar was found. The body, which was still warm when found by possemen was brought here this afternoon.

Dr. Wineinger was made captive through a ruse, one of the gunmen summoning him away from home with a story that a man had been injured in a tractor accident.

Airplanes Assist
Spurred on by the cold-blooded killings, more than 400 heavily armed men in motor cars continued the hunt for the desperadoes, assisted by the airplanes.

Lieutenant Reavis of Lowry field, Denver, scoured the countryside by air and dropped notes to the possemen as the chase proceeded.

The pursuers were prepared for a pitched battle as it was thought the killers would fight to the last to prevent being taken. The bandits were reported to be armed with a machine gun.

LABOR CONVENTION

State Doesn't Want More Textile Mills, Said

SAN ANTONIO, May 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Wise, of the Texas department of labor, told the annual convention of the state federation of labor today that she seriously questioned whether the state wants "to any great extent" an increase in the population of cotton textile operatives under present conditions.

"The number of operatives who get only $500 a year or less is greater than the number who get more than $500," Mrs. Wise said in a talk to the federation convention. "There are heads of families who get only $500 a year, and they have to have the aid of their wives and families to live."

INTIMIDATION TRIAL

Seek To Show Witnesses Threatened

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, May 25.—(AP)—The defense Friday afternoon put the four defendants in the Raymondville intimidation conspiracy trial of A. B. Crane, John Swanner, Archie Clark and Jesse Rose on the stand to deny that they had plotted to intimidate government witnesses in the trial of former sheriff Raymond Teller and others at Corpus Christi in December, 1926. Through other witnesses the defense also sought to impeach the credibility of J. P. Currie, H. G. Hart and Nat Wetzel, prosecuting witnesses in the present trial.

Rose admitted he had threatened Hart and Swanner admitted he struck him after the threat had been made by Rose.

Movie Ticker Is Prevailing Fad

New Means For Distributing Stock List Blames For Widespread Speculation

NEW YORK, May 24.—The movie ticker, which flashes across an illuminated screen a running story of the day's stock transactions in hundreds of brokerage houses throughout the country, is being hailed in Wall Street today as one of the primary factors behind the wild speculation in recent years.

Once stock traders sat around the customers' rooms of commission houses and watched boys mark up quotations on huge boards, either with chalk or printed cardboard numbers, as they were called out by other young men who leaned over tickers. The number of stocks quoted ranged from 50 to 200 with the boards showing the opening, high, low and last price, and occasionally the previous close and the high and low of the year. The boards were often poorly placed and completely visible to relatively few persons.

These boards are still in use but they have been supplemented in nearly all of the large brokerage houses by the movie ticker, generally placed above or to one side of everyone in the room. These illuminated tickers magnify the tape on a long narrow screen as it emerges from the ticker, giving a quick and detailed account of all transactions.

This has whetted the speculative appetite of thousands and created many new ones, the thrill of seeing one's stock quoted at advancing prices on a heavy turn-over being akin to that of the race track devotee who sees the horse on which he has placed his bet come thundering down the home stretch in advance of the field.

The crew of the Clitta Di Milano, already has begun preparations to go to the assistance of the Italia if she calls for help. They will be able to sail on very short notice.

SLUMBER PARTY

The Apilache group of Camp Fire girls were honored with a slumber party Monday night at the home of their guardian, Mrs. J. T. Lokey on West Garza street. After a short tour of the town in a truck, lunch was spread on the lawn about 6:30. Games of all kinds were played until about twelve o'clock when the hostess made beds on the floor side by side. The pajama clad girls sat and told ghost stories till three a. m. when it was decided that two girls would keep watch for 30 minutes each till sun up. But the first two being unable to wake two more after their time was up, decided to hide the other girls clothes, and when the hostess called the group to prepare for breakfast there was a great scramble and hunt which caused much amusement. The following girls were present: Christelle Souder, Oleta Oleson, Gertrude Leggs, Lea Bell, Dreyer, Doyle Hendrik, Pauline Owens, Beatrice Payne, Virginia Whitehead, Flora Mae Lokey, and Thessa Lokey.

Oil Mill Heads

Meet At Dallas

Brief Preliminary Session Out of Way. Delegates Get Down to Business Of Their Convention.

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, May 22.—A brief preliminary session Wednesday morning out of the way, delegates to the National Oil Mill Superintendents' association and the Oil Mill Machinery and Supply Men's association convention here spent the afternoon viewing exhibits. The main convention will begin Thursday morning with about 400 in attendance.

Prosperity ahead for the cotton oil industry was bespoken in the address of J. E. Sandberry of Dallas, president of the Machinery Men's organization, who called the joint meeting to order Wednesday and in the annual address of W. G. Davis of Sweetwater, president of the superintendents' division.

Mr. Davis urged creation of a loan fund to assist young men in obtaining college educations and recommended the use of the secret ballot in electing association officers.

Final Rehearsal For Tech Seniors Called Tomorrow

Baccalaureate Sermon To Be Given Sunday And Commencement Address Monday Morning.

Final preparations are being made for the Texas Technological college graduation exercises. Both June and August seniors are to participate in the commencement and baccalaureate services which are to be held at the college gym Sunday and Monday. The commencement sermon is to be delivered at 11:00 a. m. Sunday while the baccalaureate address is to be made at 10:30 a. m. Monday.

Graduates of both the June and August classes are to meet at the textile building to-morrow morning at 9:45 a. m. for final rehearsal.

ACUFF SCHOOL PLAY

Presentation Completes The Graduation Program

The school play at Acuff last night completed the commencement program this year.

Graduating exercises were held the previous night, with Dean James Gordon of Tech delivering the graduating address, and County Superintendent W. M. Ferehouse presenting the diplomas. Six graduates received diplomas.

Acuff is the only rural school in the county which has eleven grades. All of the seniors of this year took college examination recently, but results have not been announced.

Lubbock Special Train Depends On Interest Manifest

Participation In West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention Being Planned Locally.

Interest manifested by Lubbock citizens is the factor upon which the possibility of Lubbock's having a special train to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention depends, it was stated yesterday by officials of the Chamber of Commerce.

Lubbock is to take an active part at the meeting, scheduled for Fort Worth June 18, but the extent of participation has not yet been decided.

At least one special car will be run from here to the convention, it is understood. The Lubbock and chamber of commerce officials and others will be included in this car. The Lubbock high school band, which will represent the city in the convention, will go in their truck. The convention being the first of the series of appearances which they will make throughout the summer in the western part of the nation.

Citizens wishing to go to the convention in a special train from here should get in touch with chamber of commerce officials in the near future so that arrangements for the train can be made as early as possible, officials said today.

Girl May Win In British Election

Daughter of Lloyd George Likely to Get Seat Beside Noted Father in House of Commons.

(By Associated Press)

Llangefni, Anglesey, Wales, May 25.—Stormy scenes marked the first political success of Miss Megan Lloyd George yesterday, but today the 25-year-old daughter of former Premier David Lloyd George hoped to sit beside her father in the House of Commons as the Liberal member for the Anglesey division.

Local differences among the Liberal electors caused a noisy scene when they met to choose their candidate for the seat. There were three candidates—Miss Lloyd George, Ellis W. Roberts, and Colonel Lawrence Williams.

Colonel Williams in his speech to the Liberal association showed warm resentment for the support which was being given the young woman and he was frequently saluted by hostile comments. The majority, however, apparently wanted Megan as their representative and she got 223 votes to the Colonel's fourteen while Mr. Roberts got 245.

Megan has much of her father's gift of incisive speech. She made a good impression in touring the constituency and her speech of thanks was loudly applauded. Of her political career, she said in announcing her candidacy:

NAME REPRESENTATIVE

W. T. T. C. "Queen" For C. of C. Appointed

CANYON, May 25.—Miss Grace Ferguson will be "Miss West Texas State Teachers College" at the Tenth Annual Convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. She will be one of a number of college sponsors selected by educational institutions in territory of the regional chamber.

Invitations to have such sponsorship representation have been extended the following places: Abilene Christian College, and Simmons University, Abilene; Sul Ross State Teachers College, Alpine; Daniel Baker and Howard Payne Colleges, Brownwood; West Texas State Teachers College, Canyon; Randolph Junior College, Cusco; Denton Baptist College, College of Industrial Arts and North Texas State Teachers College, Denton; Texas Christian University, Fort Worth; Texas Woman's College, Fort Worth; Texas Technological College, Lubbock; Wayland College, Plainview; John Tarleton College, Stephenville; and Weatherford College.

OKED JAPANESE NOTE

Outlawry of War Provided By Resolution

TOKYO, May 25.—(P.) The Japanese cabinet today approved formally the Japanese note to the United States on the Kellogg proposal to outlaw war. It is understood that the reply is a blanket approval of the plan.

DAILY MARKETS

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 25.—Early declines were followed by advances on trade buying and covering in the cotton market today. October contracts sold up from 20.37 to 20.75, turning a net loss of 15 points into a net gain of 23 points, and closed at 20.71. The general market closed steady, at net advances of 17 to 20 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 4 to 8 points and active months showed net losses of 15 to 16 points in early trading. This was considered the result of further liquidation and a continuation of yesterday's selling on the better weather reports from the south. The relatively easy showing of the cables from Liverpool and continental connections were buyers at the decline, however, and after early offerings had been absorbed, contracts became comparatively scarce. The market was correspondingly sensitive to buying orders and demand seemed to become a little more general, as prices worked higher.

WALL STREET STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 25.—(P.) Resumption of the upward price movement in today's stock market was checked by heavy week-end profit taking. A few high priced specialties were marked up 5 to 14 points but the general list showed widespread irregularity at the close, with both the industrial and railroad averages closing lower on the day. Trading was in fairly heavy volume for a pre-holiday session. The day's sales during over 3,000,000 shares in the four hours' trading.

The stock exchange will be closed tomorrow to give member firms an opportunity to catch up with an accumulation of work preparatory to the restoration of the full five hour trading sessions next week. The exchange also will be closed next Wednesday, Memorial day.

Although the heavy sale of government securities by the federal reserve bank last week indicated that official efforts to restrict speculative credit were being continued, operations for the advance went ahead in several sections of the list. The decrease of nearly $16,000,000 in brokers' loans this week was only about one-third of the previous week's expansion, but it was nevertheless the first reduction since February.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 25.—(P.) The cotton market developed a fair degree of activity after early recessions, principally on unsettled weather prospects, trade buying and reported price fixing. October sold up to $20.27, a recovery of 37 points from an early decline of 13 points below the previous close. The general market closed steady at 19 to 21 points higher.

The May option expired at noon at $20.40 although final trading in that position attracted little attention. Traders appeared occupied with developments in the weather and the active covering by shorts who found contracts scarce with the result that the upgrade movement was fairly consistent.

The market was nervous at the opening. Liverpool came in 3 points worse than due and first trades here showed losses of from 3 to 6 points. The market continued to ease off during the first hour July descending to $20.08, October $19.90 and December $19.87, down 12 to 13 from the previous close. There figures were the day's lows. Some covering was attracted by the appearance of the weather forecast which promised generally cooler weather and otherwise less favorable conditions for the growing crop.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

FORT WORTH, Tex., May 25.—(P.)—The cattle market here today generally was steady. Steers sold around $10.00, cows sold $8.00 to $8.75, calves $11.00 to $11.85 and choice vealers $13.00 and better. The hog trade was steady, the top price being $9.55 and the bulk of sales selling from $8.75 to $9.40. Sows traded from $8.00 to $8.25 and pigs from $6.00 to $7.00. The sheep market was steady to 25c higher. Lambs and yearlings sold from $12.75 to $13.50 and wethers $8.25.

Lubbock, Texas

Montgomery Ward Retail Store, With Great Variety In Merchandise, Will Hold Formal Opening During Day

Is Sixth Establishment Opened In Texas; All of Mail Order Lines Handled Here.

Based on their entrance into this territory upon the company's faith in the future progress of Lubbock and the South Plains, the formal opening of the Montgomery Ward Company new retail store, 1107-19 19th street, will be held today, starting at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

The store is completely stocked in every line handled by the mail order branches, and will be open for inspection and sales throughout the day. The store here is the sixth to be opened in Texas with the exception of the big mail order house at Fort Worth. An enormous expansion program of the company calls for 150 new retail stores before the first of next year.

High Officials Here

A number of officials of the Montgomery Ward and Company organization are in Lubbock in connection with the opening today. The officials here include: F. A. Woods, of Fort Worth, territorial manager; E. W. Numan, of Chicago, display manager; D. D. Prust, of Fort Worth, merchandising manager; M. J. Wright, manager of the San Angelo store; F. M. Galbraith, of Chicago, auditor; and C. J. Meyers, who is manager of the local store.

Officials expressed an appreciation of the courtesies extended the organization by local merchants and banks. Many local business men have marked the entrance of this large firm into this territory as one of the surest signs of progress.

Variety In Stock

Stock of the store here is of a miscellaneous nature; it covers the first, third and mezzanine floors besides the basement, which is to be used as a warehouse and storage room. The stock includes women's ready-to-wear, men's clothing, dry goods, automobile tires and accessories, furniture, hardware, jewelry, musical instruments, radios, draperies, curtains, sporting goods, bicycles, and many other lines.

Mrs. Pauline Owens, of Lubbock is head of the women's ready-to-wear department, which is located at the back of the store on the mezzanine floor. This department is claimed by the management of the store to be one of the smartest in the city.

Merchandising Plan Different

The merchandising plan of the store is different from the usual run of department stores, the management explained yesterday. Everything is placed on counters on the open floor so that customers may see and examine the stock. An effort is made to make the customers feel at home.

At the rear of the store on the main floor a six-room modern bungalow is on display completely furnished. The model home included two bed rooms, a parlor, a kitchen, dining room, bath room, and breakfast room.

Everything was in readiness last night for the opening. Plans have been made to accommodate large crowds today. About sixty-five employees will be in the store tomorrow. It is thought that the about forty employees will be with the store permanently.

GOES FOR PRISONER

Potter County Deputy Passes Through City

Bob Barnett, Potter county deputy sheriff, of Amarillo, stopped in Lubbock yesterday enroute from Big Spring where he went for Sam Huguley, alias Jack Quinn, wanted in Amarillo on charges of theft of more than $50.

The prisoner and the officer came this far on a bus but completed the distance by train.

New Myrick Hardware Store Ignores Tradition Baker Will Open New Furniture Store On Saturday

Dinginess, Once A Part Of Every Hardware Store, Is Banished And Cleanliness Makes It Attractive

Decision Of Management To Make Store Best In West Texas Bears Fruit; Every
Accommodation Offered

The ancient idea, inherent in most everyone, that a hardware store must be in a dirty, dingy building, lined with row upon row of inaccessible shelves, is completely refuted in the new home of the Myrick Hardware company, formal opening for which is to be held Saturday.

In the first place, the Myrick Hardware company's new home is the first floor of Lubbock's fine six-story office building. In the second place, the new store looks like a china closet compared to the ordinary hardware store. The store is long and commodious, is well lighted and excellently ventilated. Shelves are low and many of them are incased with glass. Stock is arranged in alphabetical indexed compartments and most of it is in plain view of the customer.

Cleanliness is Paramount.
Low tables, all brightly polished in white enamel, display stock more suitable to this means of presentation. Every fixture is finished in white enamel and cleanliness is paramount. One searches in vain for dust or dirt.

Large electric lights add to the ample sunlight which pours through the wide front display windows. In the words of Walter Myrick, Jr., manager of the Myrick Hardware company, the firm decided to make its new home second to none in West Texas. All of the improvements which their years of experience had taught them have been incorporated in the present quarters.

In New Building
The company occupies the basement and first floor of the Myrick building. The basement is utilized as a warehouse and store room and also for displaying off-season articles. This last provision allows display, on the first floor, of seasonal goods at all times and also makes possible the arrangement, in attractive form, of off-season goods. A customer by stepping to the basement may find heavy sheepskin coats arranged on a rack with possibly some artificial snow sprinkled about, just for "atmosphere."

A complete stock of every kind of general hardware is carried. Few persons, perhaps, realize just what a variety of articles are stocked by the modern hardware concern. There are rows upon rows of golf clubs, a big stack of baseball bats, yard after yard of fishing tackle, and brightly burnished flys, rods.

Comparison Will Aid Local Store

Store Here Will Compare
Favorable With Any One
In West Texas

The Myrick Hardware company, which has moved into its new home that will compare favorably with any similar store in West Texas, was organized in 1923, although the present manager, Walter Myrick, Jr., has been in the hardware business in Lubbock since 1917.

Partners in the firm are Walter Myrick, Jr., W. A. Myrick, Sr. and Russell Myrick.

Many of the present department officials have been with the company for several years. George Buckingham is manager of the paper and paint department; E. Renfro has charge of shelf hardware and builder's hardware; Joe Harris, one of the best window card painters and window dressers in the city, sells golf sticks, baseball bats, and other sporting equipment when not engaged in painting a window card. Mrs. Fred Sims has charge of the Queensware and glassware department. Frank Bryant knows all about stoves, and his job is to sell them. Mrs. Margaret Byrd is the bookkeeper.

Downtown Section Is Widened Again

New Baker Building Boosts
Thirteenth Street And Is Responsible For Spread
In Retail Area

Acting against the advice of his friends a little more than a year ago, Norton Baker, owner and manager of the Baker Furniture company, built and opened a business on 13th street.

He was told that 13th street would never make a retail business street; that it was foolish to pioneer so far away from the main section of the business district. But he pioneered and built up one of the most successful business firms in the city.

The building on 13th was recently leased to the Montgomery Ward and company for a retail store. Mr. Baker moved to a new Spanish structure farther down on 13th street, now one of the best in the city.

Further evidence of Mr. Baker's faith in the future is shown by his plans to construct a new two-story warehouse on the railroad track.

Contract has already been awarded for the structure and construction is to begin in the near future.

The new furniture home of the Baker Furniture company has no basement, necessitating the warehouse.

Fifty eight countries now maintain regular broadcast service with the United States.

Program Arranged To Ushur In New Quarters; Ten Carloads Of Newest In Furniture Is Ordered By Baker

Norton Baker, Manager And
Owner, Is Proud Of Fine
New Home And Invites
All To View It

Marking a new criterion in the history of Lubbock's business achievement and establishing another milestone in the rapid march toward greater development, the formal opening of the Baker Furniture Company's new $40,000 furniture home, 1211-13 13th street, said to be one of the finest in the South Plains, will be held Saturday.

Program for the opening will include free prizes, music, public speaking, and display of some of the finest furniture ever shown here.

The feature of the opening will be a free drawing at 8:30 o'clock in the evening. Every visitor will be allowed to register and pick out the piece or suit of furniture of their choice. A lucky number will be drawn from the registration, the holder of the lucky number being given the choice of the furniture in the store.

Norton Baker Owner-Manager
Norton Baker is owner and manager of the company. His history in the furniture business in Lubbock for the past five years has been one of continual advancement and success. Starting out on a relatively small scale, Mr. Baker has built his business into one of the finest in the city.

The enormous expansion program of the company calling for this commodious new building was prompted by Mr. Baker's unwavering faith in the future of Lubbock and the entire South Plains. "The future possibilities of Lubbock are enormous," Mr. Baker said recently. "I feel that our great expansion will be justified in a few years by the inevitable growth of the city."

J. B. Maxey was the contractor for the new building to be occupied by the furniture company. It is of Spanish architecture throughout, and has been said to be one of the finest and prettiest in the city. It made of cream-grey brick wrought iron twisted banisters both inside and outside to add to the Spanish effect. Light fixtures will carry out the Spanish idea.

Most Attractive Interior
Although high enough for two stories the building contains only one main story with a mezzanine floor all the way around. Spanish twisted banisters surround the mezzanine floor. The building contains the same amount of space as did the previous Baker Furniture building at 1107 13th street, but offers a much better display arrangement with the mezzanine effect. The old

Loyalty Of Empoyes One Of Best Boosts His Business Has, Norton Baker, Furniture Dealer, Thinks

Experts In Departments Of Store Here Are All Well Fitted For Their Work, Owner-Manager States

Loyalty of employees is labeled by Norton Baker as one of the predominant requisites for success in business.

Much of the credit to the rapid growth of his business is given to the personnel of the employees. They are picked carefully and taught to take an interest in the activity of the business.

Mr. Baker commended his present staff of employees as one of the best he has ever known. He believes that he has an expert in each line of work.

D. E. Sellers, formerly of Shreveport, is assistant manager of the Baker Furniture company in addition to keeping the books. He is the right hand man of Mr. Baker, and said by him to be one of the best executives of the organization. Mr. Sellers has been with the company for about fourteen months, having had considerable experience in the furniture business before coming here.

Roberts in Drapery Department. Paul Roberts is head of the drapery department. He is considered one of the best interior decorators in this section of the country. Mr. Roberts has been in the employ of the Baker company since the first of the year, coming here from the Paley Duro Furniture company of Amarillo.

F. Z. Chandler, salesman, has been with the company for several months. Mr. Baker considers him a very efficient salesman.

One of the oldest employees in the service under Mr. Baker is Norman Morgan. He has been with the company for more than four years, starting shortly after Mr. Baker came to Lubbock. Mr. Morgan is an expert linoleum layer and shade man.

W. O. Curry, also, has been with the firm for several years. He is at the head of the new furniture and the delivery departments.

Mrs. Baker Assists. Miss Martha Webber is an employee in the drapery department. She has been with the company since the first of the year. Mrs. Norton Baker, wife of the owner, also assists in the drapery department.

A. B. Penny completes the personnel of the employees. He drives the delivery truck.

Mr. Baker's rapid progress from a half-interest in a comparatively small furniture firm to his present ownership of one of the leading firms of the city is one of vivid interest. Mr. Baker was born in Lockney in 1893. He attended Lockney Christian College and Oklahoma A. and M.

In 1923 Mr. Baker came to Lubbock and bought half interest in the Simmons Furniture and Undertaking company. A few years later he bought out the other half interest, changing the name to the Baker Furniture and Undertaking company. His brother, France Baker, was connected with him for a few years, but resigned to become vice-president of a local bank.

The undertaking department was sold to Mr. O. F. Powell a few years later. A little more than a year ago, Mr. Baker built the $50,000 furniture home at 1107 13th. Saturday the opening of the new furniture salon marks the apex of his business achievement.

reels, and other traps to snare the funny tribes, as well as any other kind of equipment that the sportsman might desire.

Glassware is featured. Then there are tables covered with beautiful glassware—some of it "clasy" enough to deserve the front display window of the best jewelry store. However, all kinds of glassware, from the most modestly priced to the most dainty, are stocked.

There are also complete lines of queensware and enamel ware.

Builders' hardware, general hardware, wallpaper and paints and almost any article that could even remotely be classified under this general heading can be found in the heavy shelves of Myrick's new store.

Psychology plays a part in the new layout for the company and the new plan for brightly-enameled shelves and tables. "The neat arrangement furnishes a more attractive background for the articles to be sold. Anything almost looks better when it is kept clean and set off in attractive surroundings. Also, a clean table or clean shelf makes the clerk more apt to see that it is kept that way."

This was the explanation from Mr. Myrick, the manager.

Every shelf and every drawer is accessible without the use of stepladders or chairs or other means so often resorted to under the old scheme, where goods were arrayed in shelves, often mounting almost to the ceiling.

Price Tags Displayed. Customers need no longer ask the price of each article. Because in the new store, every price displayed will have the price tag in plain view.

Economy of arrangement is attested in the wide lobby and display room at the front of the store. A forty-foot glass window divides the hardware store from the lobby of the Myrick building. The thousands of people who enter this building each week, face a neatly and attractively arranged display of seasonal merchandise, as they wait for the elevator.

Merchandise in this window is always of the type that appeals at the minute. For instance, golf clubs, baseball goods and fishing tackle are prominent in the window at the present time.

Baker

building was leased to the Montgomery Ward and company, that recently opened a retail store here.

Ten carloads of new furniture were ordered by the company for the opening, and although lack of floor space for such a tremendous stock will not permit the display of the entire amount, the furniture of the highest class will be shown. One entire car of Berkey and Gay bedroom and dining room suits will be featured in the display. Two cars of Kroehler living room furniture will be another added attraction on display at the opening.

The present stock of the company is greater than at any time in the history of the firm. Business of the Baker Furniture company embraces the entire South Plains reaching from 100 to 150 miles in each direction. Mr. Baker said. A large mail order business extending as far as Amarillo, Tulsa, Snyder, Texas, Paducah, and Haskell is maintained. The reach of the trade extends each year, according to Mr. Baker.

"Business during the past several months has been better than at any time in the history of our firm," he said. "And it continues to improve every day. We expect the biggest year of all next year."

The Baker Furniture company is entering the jobbing business in a number of lines, handling both wholesale and retail trade.

Mr. Baker bases his business advancement upon the fact that he handles nationally advertised lines.

carries an extremely large stock, and strives always to give the utmost in service.

The company has always featured a cash business, although a credit department is maintained. "These customers always right in our store," Mr. Baker declared. "We feel that he will not ask us to do anything unjust so we always consider him in the right. Our selling on a close margin necessitates our advocacy of a cash basis."

"Lubbock's" Finest Furniture Store is the claim of the company for the luxurious new furniture salon.

Large well-lighted 16x20 show windows offer a splendid arrangement for display. On the Mezzanine floor, completely furnished rooms will be on display, showing the most refined taste in the selection of household furniture.

Each portion of the building is assigned to a certain kind of furniture trading to the convenience of the customers.

RUSH PLANTING

200,000 Acres In Cotton for Dawson County

LAMESA, May 25.—The farmers of Dawson county are doing double quick time in getting their crops planted. The recent fine rain have left planting conditions in the very best shape here, according to the farmers. Cotton is the principal crop now being planted while much maize and other feed is also being planted. It is estimated that 200,000 acres will be planted to cotton this year in Dawson county. One hundred thousand acres will be planted to feed in Dawson county.

The installation of a satisfactory heating plant for a building the size of the Myrick structure is no little job. That Mr. Myrick is highly satisfied with his heating plant — indicates to you our ability to handle any kind or size job.

IN CITIES the size of Lubbock, it is often necessary to go outside its bounds in order to secure adequate plumbing service to meet requirements in the construction of a building reaching the proportions of the Myrick Building.

IT IS a peculiar demand on the service in a building of this nature, for with the number of professional men located in it, doctors and dentists in particular, plumbing pays no small part in the general satisfaction given to those occupying offices and suites.

THE SELECTION of Roche Newton & Company to install the plumbing and plumbing fixtures, demonstrates conclusively the ability of this organization to render service of a high type of efficiency offering our clientele the benefit of workmanship that comes only through years of experience and the desire to serve well.

Especially Built Warehouse Will House New Business. Owner Announces As His Plan Is Made Public

Simultaneously with the opening of the new home of the Baker Furniture company here, comes the announcement that the firm has branched out into the wholesale business, adding another distributing house to the city.

The wholesale department of the company will be housed in a specially constructed warehouse north of the court house on Avenue H, along railroad tracks, and deals in this new department will be carried on the same high principle as the retail store, Mr. Baker said. The wholesale department will be at the disposal of buyers in West Texas and eastern New Mexico, with a wide variety of stock carried.

One feature of the retail department of the store that is to be pushed to the front is the drapery and floor covering service, it was said. This department will be in charge of experts in their line, and a stock in keeping with the balance of the expansion movement is to be maintained.

Purchases on Jobbing Basis. Purchases in this department of the store will be made on a jobbing basis, Mr. Baker said, enabling the firm to offer an economical service. Goods are all to be bought direct from manufacturing concerns in the east, eliminating the middleman.

Entering the furniture business here four years ago, Mr. Baker has been a close observer of the trend of the business, and through his policies of operation has built up a large clientele through which he has constantly expanded. Through his foresight in having erected especially for his purpose the building one block east of his present location, from where he has just recently moved his stock, that portion of the retail section of the city is now witnessing a rapidly expanding area.

In the new home, on which all the finishing touches have not yet been made, is one of the most spacious in the city, and with one of the largest stocks of the South Plains in the retail department, in addition to the new wholesale division bringing convenience to the dealers throughout this part of the state, Mr. Baker is looking forward to an ever expanding trade from city and territory.

Myrick Hardware Is Cash Concern

Old Credit System Dropped And Better Offerings To Customers Are Made, Says Manager Walter Myrick

The "cash" plan of business has been adopted by the Myrick Hardware company, coincident with its removal to the new home in the Myrick building.

Walter A. Myrick, Jr., manager of the firm, declares that this plan enables a large saving yearly over the former system of credit business.

This saving is marked from the prices charged for articles in the store and is thus passed on to the customers.

"And we have had hardly a complaint since inaugurating the plan," he said. "As a matter of fact our business is growing daily, even though we are not yet settled here."

MASH CHOKES SEWER

WORCESTER, Mass. — Pickaxes were required to open up a 21 inch sewer in the Island District here recently, when mash dammed the line and caused the sewage to back into neighboring homes. Several hundred pounds of solidly packed mash was removed before the sewer could be flushed out and made to operate properly. Authorities blame homebrew and stills, reputed to be operating there, for the blockade.

Choice Of Baker Stock To Go To Somebody, Norton Baker Says In Announcing Opening Plans

The choice of any individual piece or of any suit of furniture in the entire stock of the Baker Furniture company will be given free to the holder of the lucky number in a drawing contest to be held Saturday in connection with the formal opening of the company's new store at 1211-13 13th street.

Registration of all visitors will begin at 7 o'clock in the morning, continuing until 8 o'clock in the evening. Visitors will make their choice and register at any time during the day. The drawing of numbers will be at 8:30 o'clock in the evening. Little Miss Ruth Genevieve Spikes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Spikes, will draw ten numbers, the tenth being the lucky one. The winner will not be allowed to change his choice of furniture after the drawing has taken place.

W. C. Rylander will speak before the drawing.

Connally Says He Wasn't Denied Talk

SAN ANTONIO, May 25 (AP).—Congressman Tom Connally of Marlin, candidate for the United States senate, in a telegram to the San Antonio Express last night denied published reports that he had asked an opportunity to address the state federation of labor convention here and had been refused.

Newspaper stories of Monday's convention session related that Mr. Connally and other candidates were refused an opportunity to speak, but later it was learned Mr. Connally was not on the convention floor and his name was not mentioned. "I made no request to speak and was not present when the incident occurred," Mr. Connally's telegram said. "An injustice has been done me and I am due a correction."

BROOKLYN.—Six-year-old John Collier slept through a ride on the elevated train, homeward bound with his parents. Tumbling sleepily through the turnstile at the Adams street station he caught his foot between the turnstile and the iron floor.

Three policemen gave up trying to release him and John went back to sleep. Then came fire and police

He was awakened while a doctor examined his foot, after which he was permitted to resume his slumbers undisturbed in his own private bed.

Sunday-School Lesson

BY DR. J. E. NUNN

International Sunday School Lesson

For May 27, 1928

General Topic: "The Wicked Husbandmen"

Scripture Lesson: Mark 12:1-12

1. And he began to speak unto them in parables. A man planted a vineyard, and set a hedge about it, and digged a pit for the winepress, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went into another country.

2. And at the season he sent to the husbandmen a servant, that he might receive from the husbandmen of the fruits of the vineyard.

3. And they took him, and beat him, and sent him away empty.

4. And again he sent unto them another servant; and him they wounded in the head, and handled shamefully.

5. And he sent another; and him they killed; and many others; beating some, and killing some.

6. He had yet one, a beloved son; he sent him last unto them, saying: They will reverence my son.

7. But those husbandmen said among themselves: This is the heir; come, let us kill him, and the inheritance shall be ours.

8. And they took him, and killed him, and cast him forth out of the vineyard.

9. What therefore will the lord of the vineyard do? He will come and destroy the husbandmen, and will give the vineyard to others.

10. Have ye not read even this scripture: The stone which the builders rejected, the same was made the head of the corner?

11. This was from the Lord, and it is marvelous in our eyes.

12. And they sought to lay hold on him; and they feared the multitude; for they perceived that he spake the parable against them; and they left him, and went away.

Time: Tuesday, April 4, A. D. 30.

Place: The Temple in Jerusalem and the Mount of Olives.

Golden Text: Jehovah knoweth the way of the righteous; but the way of the wicked shall perish.

Ps. 1:6

Introduction

"Man's basic needs are food, shelter and companionship. To these three objects he devotes the greater part of his life, and his energies and talents. His interest in these may become so great that he finds himself narrowing his activities to such a degree that he ignores the welfare of others and the source of his life and the things he possesses."

It is natural and right for one to work diligently for his own welfare, and thus provide himself with food, shelter, and companionship; but there is great danger of forgetting the source of the materials we use. Therefore Jesus gave us the parable of today's lesson.

Parables, v. 1.

"And he began to speak unto them in parables." Parables are in the plural, though Mark gives only one; two others are given in Matt. 21:28-32; 22:1-14.

The Two Sons and The Marriage of the King's Son. The stories are different, but the main point of all three is the same. "Parable" means literally "beside-thrown." It is a comparison of one thing with another, usually of some material thing or secular happening with a spiritual truth. The use of illustrative stories is common in the East, and Christianity has made it enormously popular and influential in the West. Our Lord was the greatest of all tellers of stories with a purpose. He used this method because he wished to reach all classes and fix his truths in the memory. These little stories were not to be forgotten. Much of their point could be grasped by the poorest intellect, while the deeper meanings furnished food for thought to the most profound minds.

The Owner of the Vineyard, v. 1.

"A man planted a vineyard." The maker of the vineyard in the parable told by Jesus got everything ready for work. He planted the vineyard, enclosed it, and did all things necessary for operating it profitably. But he did not operate it. He ceased his efforts at this time, rented his property to husbandmen, and took his journey into a distant land. He had prepared the way for work, but left that work for others.

We Are Not Tenants, v. 1.

"And let it out to husbandmen, and went into another country." The owner let his property out. He did not give away that which was his but let others use it, expecting to receive his share of the profits. The Builder of the Universe may be thought of as working in the same manner as the maker of the vineyard. He made the world and all that it in it. The precious metals and the less precious but more usable minerals in the hills were placed there by Him. The streams for irrigation, power, and travel were made by Him. The fertility of the fields and the life-sustaining qualities of water and light are his provisions for us. Even our physical and mental powers are due to his providence. He made "all these things" and gave them to us.

The Owner Entitled to Share of Proceeds, v. 2.

"And at the season he sent to the husbandmen a servant, that he might receive from the husbandmen of the fruits of the vineyard." The husbandmen were entitled to certain returns for their labors. Had they not cultivated the vineyard? Had they not pruned the vines, gathered the grapes, made the wine and protected their products against invaders? The owner had been away and had done no work. How could he rightfully claim any share of the proceeds? So when his servants came to collect the rent they were shamefully treated and either sent away empty-handed or slain.

Human Selfishness Forgetting God.

These husbandmen were human or at least their conduct can be paralleled in many well-known cases. How human and natural it is for one to say, "I made it and it's mine." Yes, but out of what did you make it? Wood? God's grow the trees, iron? God placed the ore in the hills. Cotton? God made it grow with his sunshine and rain. So all along the line we find that man creates nothing, but rather brings God-given materials into new relations, thereby forming useful articles. So great has been his success in countless ways that man comes to feel that he has done it all and therefore deserves all the profits of his enterprise. Many a man even goes so far as to forget the source of his abilities, as well as his materials, and leave God out of account altogether. So it is not hard for a person in these days to understand the attitude of the wicked husbandmen, who wanted all the profits of their labors, denying the owner the right to any share therein.

Tenants Claim Ownership, vs. 6-8.

The son comes to collect. The builder of the vineyard had in vain sent servants to collect his rightful share of the proceeds. Finally he decided to send his son. Surely the husbandmen would honor his son and heir. But they reasoned among themselves that the property would be theirs, if the heir were disposed of. So they were put to death. Shameless conduct. If it were done in that fashion in our land justice would probably mete out severe penalties for the guilty. However we treat God, the source of all in a way in which we would not treat our nearest neighbor. We buy a piece of land, and say it is ours. We build a house and call it our home. We raise a crop and use or sell it as our produce. We not only claim all or nearly all of the profits, but we come finally to think that the farm, the raw materials, the energy, the talents, we use in making a living are ours because we have them. But do we own them? Are they not given in trust for our use?

Seedtime and Harvest, vs. 9-10.

"He will come and destroy the husbandmen, and will give the vineyard to others." Seedtime and harvest are as sure in human lives as in plant life. The seed planted will determine the kind of harvest, if not the amount. The wicked husbandmen had their opportunity and could have planted that which would have matured into richness of character and genuine worth. They chose the wrong seed and their harvest was in keeping with the seed. Such is the inevitable outcome.

Take Heed—Watch, vs. 23-27.

Christ's final thought in this final discourse insisted upon the necessity of unceasing vigilance on the part of his disciples. His warnings had to do with events easily confused, the fall of Jerusalem, which would happen in the lifetime of many of his hearers, and Christ's second coming and the end of the world, which would be witnessed by the generation or race of Christ's faithful followers. But they were not to inquire curiously as to the exact time when these momentous events would come to pass, for no man knew, nor the angels in heaven, and Christ was frank to say that he himself while in the flesh did not know it; no one knew the exact time but the Omnipotent Father. Christians are to be like the servants of a man on a long journey who may come back to his house at any moment. Let not the Master, when he comes, find his servants sleeping! Christ's word to all Christians of today is the same as to his disciples of old:

WATCH!

FORESIGHT IN PROVIDING FOR PARK AND PLAYGROUNDS

City parks perform essential social service—such as promoting the public health and child safety, and reducing juvenile delinquency—while creating civic beauty and making the community a more desirable place in which to live, says the Playgrounds and Recreation Association of America. A survey which that organization lately completed shows that Texas is awake to these advantages. This state ranks third in total area devoted to municipal and county playgrounds—15,531 acres. Only California, with 20,858 acres, and New York, with 19,415 acres, apply more land to these humanitarian ends. It is significant that Texas is first in number of state parks, all donated by philanthropic citizens or communities. Also, it hopes to see established in the Davis Mountains a great national park. With regard to scenery, natural wonders and romantic associations, that is an ideal site. To be sure, Texas is more blessed with territory than other states. It still has vast "unimproved" areas which profitably might be turned into playgrounds, game sanctuaries, public forests and the like. Sometimes the very abundance of land minimizes, in the popular mind, its value for recreation. That may not be appreciated until a late stage of community development, after most of the available area has been put to "practical" uses. That six Texas cities among 42 for the country have met the standard of one park acre to each 100 inhabitants, reveals an unusual foresight. It hardly was to have been expected that a people only one or two generations removed from the pioneer stage would set so much store by play.

WASHINGTON'S DEMANDS UPON THE NANKING GOVERNMENT

After a thorough investigation, the United States demands that the Chinese National officers and soldiers concerned in the murder of Dr. Walter F. Seymour and the looting of the Presbyterian Mission hospital at Taining, last April, be arrested and punished. That physician had been in China many years, but evidently did not realize that some organizations in the army under Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang were undisciplined and more dangerous to non-combatants than to the enemy. It is doubtful whether the Nanking government will be able to do more than pay an indemnity for this murder and looting. Feng Yu-hsiang appears to be operating against the Northern war lords in his own way, and may try to shield the guilty. Washington also is investigating the killing of Mrs. T. Hobart, wife of a missionary at Taiian, near Taining. She was slain by a shot through a window of her home, in April. It is believed that Nationalist soldiers were involved, but definite information has not yet reached the State Department. Nanking seeks recognition as representing the Chinese people. It nominally controls all but a small part of China proper and receives the support of most Chinese dwelling abroad. At present it is concentrating its energies upon driving Marshal Chang Tso-lin from Peking, and for this reason it has eceded to the Japanese demands regarding the Shantung situation. Japan will hold the 200-mile Tsinan Tsingtao railroad—on which it has a lien for $20,000,000—and will guard a strip on either side of the track to protect the line from damage. Tokyo has informed Chang Tso-lin that it is displeased with his recent course. It is prepared to disarm any of his troops who attempt to retreat into South Manchuria over the Peking-Mukden railroad, which crosses the frontier near Shanhaikwan. At this writing Chang seems determined to risk all in a final struggle with the Nationalist troops, that are deployed in a long semi-circle southwest of Peking at an average distance of 100 miles. Chang's men are largely veterans, under General Yang Yu-ting, his chief of staff. The people in Chihli province, where Peking is situated, reputedly sympathize with the Nationalist cause. They have suffered greatly from heavy taxation and currency-depreciation during the past two years, and probably expect better times under the Nationalists. The Peking government appears moribund. Its ministers owe their positions to Chang Tso-lin and merely register his will. If Chang evacuates Peking, the Nationalists may endeavor to establish the official capital at Nanking, which is in a much more accessible region. It is on the Yangtze river and was once the nation's political center under a native dynasty. Peking is associated with memories of the Manchus, who were largely responsible for the errors which in the Nineteenth Century, brought about China's repeated humiliation by foreign nations and caused it to lose the Lower Amur River Valley and Formosa.

UP AGAINST THE USUAL LAST-WEEK JAM

Although congressional leaders had planned to adjourn Saturday, it now appears the rush of last minute legislation will prevent that, and the session probably will be prolonged into the following week. None would be surprised to see it continue to the very eve of the republican convention at Kansas City, June 12.

Much time has been frittered away in futile debate, oratory for political effect, and investigations. Congress always performs in that manner during a campaign year—and not much better at other times. The session continuous, with only an interim for Christmas or the Fourth of July, the inevitable jam would come just before the recess. Lawmakers are human and no more inclined to buckle down and finish their work in time than other people.

Much important legislation is unfinished business as the closing date approaches, and some of it is highly debatable. The long-deferred Muscle Shoals and Boulder Dam issues are still to be disposed of—each a matter of weeks, rather than four or five days—yet advocates of both measures confidently predict enactment.

The Senate must pass the 100-million-dollar deficiency bill. The House committee on rivers and harbors working on an omnibus appropriation measure, which probably will be deferred until another session. The revenue bill must go to conference for adjusting drastic differences—a process which may consume several days.

Almost certainly the McNary-Haugen Farm Relief bill will be returned to Congress, and an effort will be put forth to pass it over the veto. At this writing the fate of the White Merchant Marine bill is in doubt; but the advocates feel assured that Mr. Coolidge will approve the 250 million dollar outlay proposed for renovation and replacements in the merchant fleet. The Tyson bill to provide retired pay for disabled emergency army officers also may incur executive rejection.

Although tied up in the speculation, with the repeal of the automobile sales tax—sanctioned by both houses—the 75-million dollar highway allowance probably will be accepted. This will be another four-billion-dollar Congress—recalling, by contrast, the shock of a billion-dollar session in pre-war days. Money which goes for flood-control, national defense, public buildings, conservation services and other essential enterprises is well spent.

MUST DELIVER THE GOODS

Down in Oaxaca, Mexico, persons predict earthquakes and other phenomena calculated to cause terror to people already panic-stricken, will have to deliver the goods or suffer punishment for false prophesying. While that section of Mexico has been frequently visited by temblors, local prophets have kept nerves on edge by predictions of disturbances that never occurred. Hereafter, they will have to get their dates fixed and pull off the show according to schedule, else suffer penalty for practicing deception.

Although Mexico has some laws that challenge understanding, there are others well grounded in reason and sound public policy. For instance, Mexico leads in the campaign for truthful advertising. No exaggerated or misleading statements descriptive of articles offered for sale or performances staged for public entertainment are permitted. Whenever an advertiser makes a statement through the press or other public channels, he had better deliver the goods or have a good excuse for not doing so to tell the court, for it is certain he will be called on to explain. For that reason the flaming posters descriptive of the marvelous exhibition of wild animals and trained athletes that tell us of the coming of the circus in this country are not to be seen in Mexico. If the aggregation includes the republic in its itinerary an entirely different line of advertising matter has to be prepared; for when it proclaims it will exhibit a two-headed man or a full-bearded woman the show had better have them on exhibition because a check-up will be made; and if discovered to be a fake the circus will be confiscated and the performers sent to jail.

Spain confers more decorations than any other country, a writer has discovered—but it cannot hold a candle to the United States when it comes to lodge titles.

SO THINK WE

We think there is no such thing as a "country boy" anymore. The boys who work on the farm and reside there are found in the city nearly so often now that they can hardly be termed as "country boys" any more. They drive their car into town and attend the picture shows. They drive into town and enjoy Sunday services at the church. They come in and attend the big ball games, and the commencement services of the schools and colleges just the same as the boys who reside in the city, and therefore we claim that there is no such thing in this country as a "country boy."

We think there is a terrible lot of guessing going on in this country at this time. People are merely guessing who will be nominated for the presidency at the republican and the democratic conventions. Some say it's Smith while others say he cannot be nominated, and some say it will be some other fellow. We think that we are just in an awful bad fix, and there never was a time in the days of Moses that there was a need for someone to lead us, than at this time. Surely we have not come to the point in the United States that we cannot trot out a man who is not tied up with some kind of a scandal, and who is really unfit to represent the people as the chief executive.

We think that when you see a mansion with a lot of children chasing around in the yard, you can just put it down that that fellow has not been well to do very often, and his wealth came upon him suddenly and unexpectedly, and he just has a poor man's quota of children.

We think there are some would be cities on the Plains that are just about on a par with the real selfish individual. They do not want the other fellow to have any success unless they can.

We think that real charity should always be given, but we think again that there is a terrible lot of money wasted on charity frauds. The Red Cross has a better means of investigating questionable characters, and we should make our contributions larger to this organization. Better still, we are of the opinion that a community chest would be a better plan. This keeps more money in the local treasury, and that is where we need to help. Charity begins at home.

OPINIONS

Dr. Will Durant, author of "The Story of Philosophy," speaks of thought as life's greatest adventure—the "audacity with which a man faces the complete mystery of the world." He was dealing with the greatest thinkers; he urged any one who imagines that thinking is a simple thing, to try it. But the average citizen, although he may make no progress toward the solution of the Riddle of the Universe, is to be credited with considerable use of his brains in making both ends meet in the ordinary process of living. There has to be thought in the making of a brick and in the assembling of a number of bricks into a house. But Tolstoy, one of the greatest friends of the common people, thought that there might be much more thinking than there is in common affairs. Some individuals, he said, treated their reason as if it were a driving wheel without a connecting strap. They were guided in their actions not by their own ideas, but by those of others or by customs and traditions. Stated in another way, consider the mental equipment as the finest motor. It will take its owner nowhere if he permits it to idle in neutral. It takes an idea to throw in the clutch, and ideas will come with thought.—Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

Ancient mythologies tell of gods slain by their worshippers, and something of the kind is happening in Mariposa County, California, where thousands of tourists are unconsciously destroying that which they come hundreds of miles to admire. At the request of the National Park Service, Dr. E. P. Meinecke, United States Forest Service plant pathologist, has investigated the present status of the cherished sequoias and has reached the conclusion that long continued and heavy trampling of human feet has destroyed the root endings and finer roots of many of the trees. Without these, of course, the trees are unable to absorb water and mineral nutrients from the soil. The rescue of Grizzly Giant, one of the finest big trees in existence, from a similar fate about 25 years ago, is recalled. Trampling had destroyed its endings, and the tree was unable to absorb water and mineral nutrients from the soil. YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The potato is almost 80 per cent water, but even so contains less water than carrots, turnips, radishes, beets, parsnips, artichokes or onions.

It is extremely high in carbohydrate, which includes sugar and starch, this constituting 18 per cent of its bulk. The remainder is protein, fat, salts and waste material. Years ago it was discovered that the potato could be a specific against scurvy, and it was much used in prisons and on shipboard to prevent this disease.

Rich and Starchy

It was introduced into the English diet more than 300 years ago. Its richness in starch is its most striking characteristic. The most important mineral salt is potassium, some of which is united with citric acid.

Much of the value of the potato depends on the way in which it is cooked. If the potato is peeled and boiled, a great portion of its valuable content disappears in the water and with the peel.

It has been estimated that if a bushel of potatoes were peeled and soaked before being boiled, the amount of nutrient lost would be equivalent to that contained in a pound of beef steak. It is therefore best to steam or cook potatoes in the jackets.

The digestibility of the potato depends also to a considerable extent on the form in which it is eaten. A well-baked, mealy potato is easily digestible. Large pumpkins, partially cooked potato are digested with difficulty.

Carbohydrate Valuable

Potatoes of medium size, boiled and eaten in the usual way, remain for about two to two and one-half hours in the stomach, which is a shorter period than for the same weight of bread.

IT IS REPORTED

It is reported that the Methodist in session in Kansas City have passed some strong resolutions against military training in the public schools. The Baptist have passed some strong resolutions against endorsing a candidate who is wet, and regard the pledge on the ticket as a kind of secondary consideration, when it comes to choosing a candidate for president.

It is reported that some fellows were arrested recently for stealing saxophones and ukuleles. We believe they should have gotten out habercorpus papers on that, for they were stealing to support a false charge. They should have been detained on a lunacy charge.

It is reported that the happiest person in the world is the fellow who does not amount to much and does not care a rap. That may be, but we never had a disposition like that.

It is reported that the only time that some folks have a conviction is when a judge or jury finds them guilty.

It is reported that some one has figured out a similarity between children and mosquitoes. You always know that when they quit making a noise that they are into something.

It is reported that carpenters and painters and paper hangers and in fact all of the building crafts are busy these days. It is quite different in the story that come from many other sections of the state where there are many men idle. We do not want those fellows however who read this in other sections of the country to come rushing in here, because of this condition, for the fellows who are here are able to keep up with the work nicely, and in that way they make a good living for their families and the community is made up of happy people, otherwise they might not get enough business to keep them at work all the time, and sit down in the street.

The trouble is usually that there is an inclination to flock in to the places where there is activity, and the thing is over done. It would seem to us that craftsmen should keep in touch with the situation or get information from their organizations heads before they make a move, and in that way the condition will not become congested.

HEREFORD CROP PROSPECTS ARE TIME

Crop prospects in Deaf Smith county today look better than at any time during the season after heavy rains which have fallen here intermittently during the entire past week. Total precipitation through the whole period was estimated at well over two and one-half inches.

Light, steady rains fell at intervals of a few hours during the whole week-end from Thursday afternoon to Monday morning.

Reports from cities throughout the Panhandle indicated that rainfall was general over the section. Enthusiastic newspapers saw for the Panhandle the largest wheat crop in many years.

In this section farmers reported that their ground had been well soaked with the most moisture in many months. To the north and west the precipitation was much heavier than in the Hereford country itself, but directly south of here somewhat lighter rains were recorded. Everywhere, however, enough moisture fell to help wheat and grass.

Hail Damage Slight

Sole report of damage came from the Tribble farm, known as the old Gray Wilson place, about four miles southwest. There hail Saturday killed several chickens and damaged wheat to an estimated extent of twenty per cent. This was the only hail reported near here Saturday.

Meantime, wheat growers here have taken heart. Investigation they say, now shows that much wheat which had been given up during the drought will be saved and wheat which looked fairly good before the rains will make substantial yields.

Proof that all of the wheat here was not injured by the drought was furnished by J. B. France, who is displaying wheat from his farm north of town which has already attained a stand of two feet. Many farms north of Hereford will show an equal stand, he says, and several twenty-five bushel yields are expected.—Hereford Brand.

DEALING WITH CAUSES OF CRIME

The criminal law is not itself a solution of the criminal problem. It is society's necessary and instinctive measure of protection against the criminal.

Our present procedure is to indict, try and sentence the criminal for an act which does not necessarily indicate the type of individual involved or the physical or psychological causes which resulted in the act. In other words, speaking from the viewpoint of medical science, the present criminal law is calculated to treat results rather than causes, and to seek success through the instillation of fear rather than through correction of the causes themselves.

The future efforts to solve the crime problem will give increasing scope to the science of medicine as a preventive measure. Already we have progressed to the point where a careful physical and medical examination is made of every inmate admitted to our state prisons; and whenever an inmate is found suffering from any physical disability or mental condition which may be corrected by medical science, the necessary remedy is promptly applied.

But better than physical and mental studies in our prisons would be mental and physical studies conducted by medical scientists among the children of our community. Parents as a class have not the technical knowledge necessary to appraise medically or scientifically the life and tendencies of their children, and too often there is a lack of parental authority and of the discipline and moral training which have been deemed the bulwarks of the American home.

The tendency of the average parent is to entrust to our schools too much of the education of children and the study of their tendencies. If, in addition to the medical supervision now given in our public schools in matters of physical health there were a similar supervision in matters of mental and moral growth, causes ultimately leading to delinquency or anti-social conduct would be removed before they became too deeply rooted in character.

Dr. Thayer, superintendent of the New York State Institution for Mental Defectives, has said that research into the lives of 96 per cent of our criminals reveals that the first anti-social and discoverable transgression, it behooves us, therefore, to apply our remedial and preventive measures to the individual's life. Clinics in our public schools would be of untold service with the problem cases—with those cases of intellectual deficiency, of neurotic conditions and of instability of character which may, in the end, flower into anti-social conduct.

These cases need supervision, and their parents and teachers need guidance and instruction as to their development and direction. Intelligent work of this sort would in time show its results in fewer criminals and fewer paupers. If medical science, with the co-operation of the government, would undertake this task it would make an unequal contribution to the solution of one of the chief problems and dangers in American society—a new obligation to this noble and beloved profession.

IT'S A FIGHT

Watson will go to the national convention with 33 Hoosier delegates, prepared to join the coalition of favorite sons and the various uninstructed groups to prevent the Hoover nomination. Hoover's loss of this important delegation makes it so much the more possible that the 1928 ticket will be named as the 1920 ticket was—at a 2 a. m. conference, after the well-remembered Daugherty formula. That in the national aspect of the case, Indiana Republicans may remain wedded to idols which other States abhor if they wish, but if their idolatry threatens the country with a repetition of events too well remembered it becomes more than a local matter. Indiana edges into the corn belt. Along her western boundary she thinks as Iowa and the rest of the cereal commonwealths think. Hoover's eleventh-hour declaration against the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill has had some effect in losing him the rural counties. Certainly Lowden and other anti-Hooverites will be quick to insist that no candidates for President opposed to the equalization fee can hope to carry the Mississippi Valley, and that Indiana proves it. Herbert Hoover has not been stopped by loss of the Hoosier State, but he has been slowed down as a presidential candidate. He remains leader of the race.

But Indiana, held in the holiness of Jim Watson's hand, says to the Secretary of Commerce that taking anything for granted henceforth is confidence misapplied. It's a fight—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

It is reported that one of the local firemen took unto himself a life recently, and the balance of the fire boys, though they would give him a real taste of what a hard time he would have, and paraded him around through the streets of the city hand cuffed to the rear end of the hook and ladder truck.

It is reported that there are a few people who never look back to see if there are anyone behind them before they back their car out from the curb. This is a dangerous practice and should not be tolerated. The fellow who is driving on the curb has a right to back, and you should back to see if some one is not passing. It will avoid accidents, and hard feelings one man toward another.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service

BY LATH DEWY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

NATHANIEL DANN, is engaged to VIRGINIA BREWSTER, whose father dies suddenly after losing his fortune. NIEL begs her to marry him at once, but FREDERICK DEAN and his daughter CLARISSA persuade her to make her temporary home with them.

VIRGINIA becomes unhappy in her new home and resolves to tell NIEL her fears. But when she shows him the state of her mind, he is angry. This causes doubt and a lovers quarrel which is later explained away happily.

Meanwhile, DEAN is forced to pay blackmail to a MRS. FARLEY or face a scandal which he realizes would spoil his chance of winning VIRGINIA. Hoping to get NIEL out of the way, DEAN has the president of a company he controls offer him a high-salaried position, provided he will go to San Francisco at once. NIEL is overjoyed at the offer and begs VIRGINIA to marry and go west with him. But she refuses to let him sacrifice his art study.

VIRGINIA is involved in trouble with CLARISSA, when the latter, fiancée, RUSSELL WAINGOLD, catches her unexpectedly in a half-drunken embrace.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XII

Without a word Clarissa turned and disappeared from Virginia's agonized sight. And by that silent gesture Virginia realized her worst fear. Clarissa had misunderstood the expression of utter scorn and contempt that had distorted her features as she watched the scene before her. She had flashed her interpretation of it to Virginia with blighting comprehension.

"Let me go," Virginia cried fiercely at Russell. "Are you mad? Let me go."

He laughed as she wrenched and tore to free her frail body. Finally she worked her hands to a position that enabled her to give him a strong shove and managed to break away.

"Oh, what a fool you've been," she choked. "Clarissa saw you!"

"So that's what throttled you? I was afraid you didn't like me."

"Like you? I think you're a beast."

"Just because I kissed you? Say that makes me dirty. I thought I knew how to kiss a girl and make her like it." He spoke in the voice of a complaining child.

Virginia was white and trembling now. The dread of facing Clarissa was replacing her wrath. How could she convince her friend that it was all nothing but a stupid, meaningless episode? In her heart Virginia feared she could not.

"I'm going up to try to explain to Clarissa," she told Russell in a shaken voice, "and I certainly shall make it plain as to who is the guilty person."

"You'd better give her time to cool off. Clarissa knows some pretty strong words," Russell advised.

Virginia did not answer.

"Well, wish you luck," he called after her as she left the room.

She went directly to Clarissa's boudoir. At the door she paused a moment to catch her breath before rapping.

Clarissa threw the door open, banging it back violently.

Virginia walked into the room without an invitation to do so, quaking inwardly before Clarissa's patent fury.

"I don't care to hear any lies, if you intend to defend yourself that way," the latter said in a harsh raised voice.

Virginia looked at her steadily, fearlessly. The words had served to strengthen her, to free her of an unmerited sense of guilt.

"There is no occasion to lie," she replied quietly.

"Then if you haven't anything to say for yourself your presence here is an insult to me," Clarissa declared.

"But I have something to say for myself—simply the truth. I could not help what you saw. Clarissa. You must know that Russell has had too many cocktails. He lost his head."

"Oh, did he?" Clarissa sneered. "Well, it wasn't because of cocktails, let me tell you. I know how much he can drink and I know how much he had. It wasn't enough to make him do a thing like that unless he was encouraged."

rent and they seemed to Virginia like a debris being heaped upon her, the debris of a broken friendship. She wanted to turn and run, but the sight of Clarissa, flaming and raging, fascinated her. She ceased to hear what more was being said. Her mind was echoing the accusations already made against her. She understood now why Clarissa had been so eager to have her in the house. Her face burned with shame. It was too dreadful that Clarissa should have thought she wanted to marry her father. And Clarissa had been willing to have the marriage take place if only because she did not like Mrs. Farley. And now Clarissa thought Virginia had sought to lure Russell away from her because of fear that Mrs. Farley would prove a successful rival for Mr. Dean's fortune.

The whole thing passed badly through Virginia's mind as she stood there, overcome with humiliation and wounded pride. Fear that she was too proud to shed smarted at the back of her eyes and her hands clenched until the nails bit into the palms.

"You don't seem to have anything to say now that you know you can't pull the wool over my eyes," Clarissa thung out, taunting her with her stricken silence.

Virginia's lips parted in an attempt to speak but she succeeded only in uttering a queer, unintelligible sound of protest.

Clarissa laughed harshly. It was such a thoroughly contemptuous laugh that it stung Virginia to a retort. "If you believe what you've just said you don't deserve to be answered," she declared in a voice that held as much contempt as Clarissa's own. She was as angry now as the other girl, but still the thought of a quarrel was as repugnant to her as it ever was.

With her head held high and a disdainful light flashing from her expressive eyes, she turned to leave the room.

Clarissa stopped her. Virginia could not ignore what she said.

"You'd better go down and complete your work with Russell. For I'm sure when father hears of this your chances with him won't be anything to celebrate."

Virginia came back and stood face to face with her.

"I'm ashamed—for you," she said, so simply and coldly and sincerely that Clarissa had to give ground. The sneer left her lips and a dull flush spread over her cheeks.

"It does not matter to me now whether you believe me or not," Virginia went on, speaking slowly and with perfect control. She had recovered from the attack Clarissa had launched upon her; she had brought herself to a state of cold calm for a few minutes at least, and it was now Clarissa's turn to flinch.

"I don't think I should care to have you believe me—to want to be friends again," the stern young voice carried on. "You have changed so horribly since you spent so much time abroad. I've heard you were rushed by fortune hunters over there, Clarissa; perhaps that is why you are so suspicious and worldly. You seem to think that everyone is ready to sacrifice decency for money. And you would have preferred me to ruin my life rather than have your father marry Mrs. Farley. But you've made a big mistake if you've thought that I feel as you do. You can go down and tell Russell Waingold that I don't consider him worthy to speak to the man I'm going to marry—that's how much I want to take him away from you. And as for wanting to marry your father—I'd hate myself if the idea had been mine."

The speech was almost too long for her composure. The last words came with more of natural feeling than the first had held. It proved a relief to Clarissa, who preferred a touch of temper to the quiet thrusts of truth.

But she was too spoiled to accept all of Virginia's statements as truth. Her innermost conviction was that she had acted a fool but she was affronted at the portrayal of herself as a materialist, a worldly-minded, jealous, scheming person. She lifted her chin with a great show of spirit and turned her back, accompanying the gesture with a shrug of disbelief that caused Virginia to turn and leave the room in full knowledge that the break was final.

She knew she must leave the house as well. It would be intolerable to spend another night under a roof that harbored anyone who had insulted her so grossly as Clarissa had. She would pack a few of her things and leave immediately. The thought of seeing Mr. Dean bothered her. She would have to do it, though. He couldn't be held to answer for Clarissa and she owed him an explanation as to why she was leaving his house.

In her room she rang for a maid and asked if Mr. Dean had left. A few minutes later she was on her way to the library, where her host was waiting to see her.

But as she approached the door a thought as staggering as anything Clarissa had said crossed her mind—and she halted abruptly, as though a physical barrier had been thrown up before her.
