

Cisco Edges Mavs; Coleman Next Foe

Cisco won a hard-fought defensive basketball game Tuesday night, downing Eastland, 44-33, in a game which matched the visitor's speed against the locals' height. The game was the first District 7-AA encounter for the Mavs.

Eastland journeys to Coleman Friday night for their second district tilt.

The game was close all the way, with Cisco enjoying a small lead most of the way. The Mavs jumped out front, 11-7, in the first period on the strength of John Wilson's sharp shooting eye, but fell behind, 25-22 at halftime.

Cisco led 37-33 at the end of three periods, and the Lobos then built up a 10-point lead before the Mavs began to narrow the gap. With just less than a minute to play Eastland had pulled to within three points of the Lobos, but time ran out before the count could be evened.

Wilson was high pointer for Eastland with 16 points and Otis Green had 13. Martin Green led Cisco with 14 points and Homer Smith was second with 11.

Cisco won the B team game.

Born April 10, 1866, Mr. Scott married Lucy A. Johnston at Cleburne on April 8, 1906. They lived there five years, then lived in Oklahoma before coming to Ranger.

He belonged to the First Christian Church and Woodman of the World.

Survivors include the wife of Ranger; two granddaughters, Mrs. V. D. Farris and Mrs. J. T. Bridges, both of Odessa and a nephew, Jim Scott of Arlington.

Bud Griffin Is Candidate for Commissioner

E. W. (Bud) Griffin of Olden today announced that he will be a candidate for county commissioner, Precinct 1 (Eastland, Olden, and Ranger) during the coming Democratic primary election.

Griffin has been a resident of Eastland County for 41 years. He moved to Ranger in 1918 and for the past 20 years has made his home in Olden.

He said that he would make his formal announcement at a later date.

Local Woman's Niece Succumbs

Word was received in Eastland Wednesday of the death of Mrs. Hazel Bowerly of North Vernon, Ind.

Mrs. Bowerly was a niece of Mrs. A. R. Myrick of Eastland. Funeral services are scheduled for today in North Vernon.

Nodes' Roundup

Wayne Rhodes is still the main attraction of the Mavs' district opener. They defeated the Dublin boys Tuesday night. Friday they were defeated by 50-42. They played Cisco Tuesday night and will play Coleman at Coleman tomorrow night.

Midterms are this week and everyone is really in the grind. Those that study are still after it and those that don't study are in a very precarious situation.

Everyone is at their old tricks and many are acting like it was the end of school. The teachers are trying to demonstrate that it is not, however.

Eastland was represented at the regional band meet. Mike Potts made the regional band on the drums. We are also proud Raymond Lusk, Gracie Tankersley and Bill Moylan who participated in the contest.

Guess I had better leave for this week and get to my studies. I certainly hope that everyone passes. Good luck.

Effect of Insurance Rates Under New Plan

The new Texas Safe Driving Insurance Plan, which went into effect January 1, has caused many questions to arise. Some of which can readily be answered and some of which can only be answered after the plan has been in effect for a while.

One of the questions is, how will the plan effect the drivers in the Eastland area? The new plan which is a refinement of a plan that has been in effect since 1952, is set up to reward the individual driver, where the old plan set insurance premiums on an area basis.

In Eastland, where traffic is much lighter than in the larger cities such as Fort Worth and Houston, has an Automobile Liability premium rate of approximately $32.00, compared to $37.00 in Fort Worth and Abilene, and $59.00 in Houston which is the highest rate effective in Texas.

Under the new plan a driver in Eastland that hasn't had an accident in the past three years, will be awarded a $6.40 savings on his liability premium. A driver that has had six moving traffic violations may have to pay as much as $64.00 for the same insurance.

A driver in New York City pays $131.00 for the same coverage a driver in Eastland pays $32.00 for. In St. Louis it costs a driver $128.00, and $73.00 in Los Angeles. Tulsa drivers pay $57.00 for their insurance.

Under the new plan, households where drivers have a three year record of no chargeable accidents, or chargeable convictions for moving traffic violations, will be entitled to a 20 per cent discount below regular premium rates. With one point against them, the household will pay the regular rate. With two, three, four, five, six or more against them, the household will pay a corresponding 20 per cent increase for each point, up to a 100 per cent increase.

Why a point system? Studies show that there is a direct relationship between highway accidents and convictions for moving traffic violations. The group of drivers who run up a record of convictions have a much greater chance of being involved in accidents than does the group of motorists who drives in a lawful manner.

Is the plan equitable? Many opponents have expressed doubts about the fairness of the plan because of the three year period in which it reaches back for its records. They say that had many Texans known they were going to be penalized, they would have protested minor traffic infractions in court. There is some merit of truth in their arguments and undoubtedly many of these people would have won their cases. But if these drivers are truly safe drivers, with the one exception they speak of, they will not be charged any more for insurance than they now pay, too, they will have a change to prove their safety ability and earn a discount in the years ahead. Approximately 73 per cent of the motorists in Texas are lawful and accident-free drivers, thus the burden of paying for the Texas Safe Driving Insurance Plan will be shifted to the shoulders of the unsafe drivers who are causing the most accidents.

Who's going to get rich? If anyone is going to "get rich" off the new plan it is not the insurance companies. About the only persons who stand to make a financial gain are the safe drivers.

Will every accident cost points? There are many exceptions in the assignment of points for an accident or traffic ticket. For example, suppose you are backing out of a parking place in a shopping district and accidentally scrape the fender of the car next to you, you would not be assigned points against you, unless the damage exceeded $25. Also, if you are ticketed for defective lights or other equipment, except brakes, you are not assigned points.

Will courts bog down? It has been charged that Texas' court system will create a serious bottleneck in handling the expected influx of traffic ticket appeals. This, unfortunately, is possible, but is not an argument against the plan. Instead, it points up a greater need for a revision of our traffic court system.

Texas now pay in excess of $440 million each year for traffic accidents, not to mention the suffering caused by the loss of nearly 2500 lives and other 125,000 injuries. This is a burdensome price indeed, the Texas Safe Driving Insurance Plan could do much to reduce the costs.

Say that you purchased your house in June 1957 and at that time a check by experts showed that the house was in perfect condition. Then, in February 1958, you discover that termites have been eating your house from under you. Can you claim a casualty loss deduction for the termite damage? Yes, you can, even though the damage took place over a nine month period.

The casualty here, is the invasion of your house by the termites. However, it is probable that a casualty deduction will not be allowed where the termite damage did not occur over a relatively short period of time.

The Property Must Be Yours

You must have ownership of the damaged property to claim a loss deduction. It is quite conceivable that severe damage to the property around your house may cause the value of your property to decline. Although the damage occurred suddenly, you cannot claim a deduction for the loss in value unless your own property was actually damaged.

You can claim a deduction for a drop in the value of your car due to an accident. This is true regardless of whether you or another driver is to blame, unless the accident is a result of your willful negligence. However, if you are responsible for a car accident and have to pay for damage inflicted on someone else's car, you cannot deduct the payment as a casualty loss.

Proving a Casualty Loss

Determining the amount you can claim as a casualty loss may be very difficult. Generally you are allowed to claim the amount by which your property decreased in value. In some cases, a repair bill will be considered sufficient to support your deduction.

The best thing you can do is gather together any information that may help support the amount you claim as a deduction. For example, if your house is badly damaged, a qualified architect can often give a reasonable estimate of the before and after value. The appraisal fee, by the way, is a deductible expense.

Theft Losses

You can claim a deduction for the value of property that is stolen. The problem in claiming losses from theft is that you will probably have to show some evidence that the theft took place. Be sure that there is at least a police record of the theft and a report of any findings the police may have come up with. Also, you might (Continued on Page Six)

Poll Tax Sales Show Increase

Poll tax sales in Eastland County, after lagging behind for several weeks, have begun to pick up, a spokesman for the tax assessor-collector's office said today.

Deadline for paying the tax and getting on the official voting list is Jan. 31.

Payment made at the tax office in the courthouse or at sub-stations in Ranger, Cisco, Gorman and Rising Star. Price of the tax is still $1.75.

With more and more contested races cropping up in the county interest has been increasing daily. In addition to local races this is a presidential year.

While Jan. 31 is the last day to pay poll taxes, it is also the last day candidates can file to have their names placed on the first Democratic primary ballot. The first primary will be held May 7.

New Trailer Law Does Not Apply To Area Farmers

Farmers do not have to comply with a new state law requiring title certification on trailers of 4,000 pounds gross weight or more, when the trailers are used for hauling their produce to market.

This reminder was given local farmers this week by Glenn Justice, president of the Eastland County Farm Bureau, who said many farmers are not aware that the new law exempts carriers of farm products, or produce.

The law, which was passed by the 56th Legislature during its regular session this year, requires certificate of title on all trailers having an unloaded weight in excess of 4,000 pounds. The Texas Farm Bureau was successful in getting an amendment to the law exempting vehicles used by their owners for transporting their own farm produce to market, Justice explained. He said the exemption does not apply when such products are being transported for hire.

The county Farm Bureau president said that the organization has information on the new law, and others passed by the 56th Legislature, in its file copies of the Austin Newsletter, a weekly publication issued by the Texas Farm Bureau legislative department while the legislature was in session, and also in a Legislative Report prepared by the Texas Farm Bureau following the close of the 56th Legislature, regular session.

This information through news channels will be of value to farmers, Justice stated, because many of them did not know that the new law had been passed, nor were aware of exemption which applied to farmers.

One of the most important items on the agenda of business at the meeting will be the election of officers and the naming of two new directors. Directors serve for a two year term.

Doss Alexander of Pioneer, Charley Underwood of Gorman and Ellis Cooper of Ranger, were recently named by the president as a nominating committee to work out and present to the group a proposed slate of officers and directors for the consideration of the membership.

Several committees to work out detailed plans for the annual field day this spring will be named at the meeting. Present indications are that at least a portion of the field day will be held at the first budding Burkett pecan tree in the state just east of the viaduct near Putnam in Calhoun County.

The growers association and the Cisco Chamber of Commerce cooperated in putting a steel fence around the trees with appropriate markers on the nearby highway last summer.

New Officers to Be Elected by Pecan Growers

Oscar Schaefer of Cook, President of the Eastland County Pecan Growers Association, has announced that Jan. 18 is the date for the annual meeting of that organization which will be held in the Chamber of Commerce Building in Cisco at 7:30 p.m.

One of the most important items on the agenda of business at the meeting will be the election of officers and the naming of two new directors. Directors serve for a two year term.

Tax Facts for Homowners About Theft and Damage

(Editor's Note: This is one in a series of articles on federal income tax filing. These articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the (*) Society of Certified Public Accountants, in cooperation with the Internal Revenue Service.)

You can get some relief from casualty and theft losses by taking advantage of the legitimate tax deductions you are allowed.

To help you prepare a correct return and take advantage of legitimate tax savings, this newspaper is printing a series of four articles prepared with the help of the state and national organizations of certified public accountants.

Today's article considers the problems you may have in claiming deductions for theft or casualty losses. Later articles will offer advice on other tax problems of particular interest to homeowners.

Time and Destruction

There are a great many ways in which your property can be damaged or destroyed, as for example, by fire, storm, flood, or explosion. Generally, a casualty which will give rise to a deductible loss must occur with some suddenness. However, there are situations where the casualty occurs over a period of time and still results in a deductible casualty loss. For example, consider the damage caused by termites.

Say that you purchased your house in June 1957 and at that time a check by experts showed that the house was in perfect condition. Then, in February 1958, you discover that termites have been eating your house from under you. Can you claim a casualty loss deduction for the termite damage? ### AS IT LOOKS FROM HERE

Omar Burleson, M. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Each week hereafter during the new Session of the Congress just starting, this column will be sent to all newspapers in the Seventeenth Congressional District.

Every effort will be made to discuss issues of national importance, in the hope that all of us may have a better understanding of what the issues are and their effects.

In Resolving any issue and in solving any problem, the problem itself must be recognized. On the other hand, it is one thing to recognize a problem, but another as to how it should be met.

In these times of action of the congress so often vitally affect every man, woman and child of the United States. Therefore, it is highly important that every citizen take an intense interest in the actions in Washington.

National Defense is, without doubt, the most important of all legislation. Unless the safety of our Country is assured to the fullest degree, then all other matters fade into insignificance. The defense needs of the Country make up in excess of two-thirds of the entire expenditures of the Federal Government.

It naturally follows that the issue of peace or war will dominate in the Congress and, incidentally, will be a principal issue in the coming Presidential campaign.

On the domestic side many of the issues in this Second Session of the 86th Congress will be related to politics. In many instances it is unfortunate, but on the other hand, it is our system. This has been the case since the beginning of our Government.

The Domestic Issues include the fiscal management of our Government and, in fact, most all other issues will revolve around the matter of Federal spending and high taxes.

Included in legislation on which tough fights will be waged are Federal aid to education, changes in Social Security, health and welfare benefits, public housing, aid to depressed areas, veterans' benefits, so-called civil rights, and minimum wage increase.

In addition, there will be action to find an answer to the dilemma in our Highway Program. Early in the Session the Congress will deal with the President's request to raise interest rates on Government bonds issued for longer than a five-year period.

All these and many other matters too numerous to mention will be before the Congress just as soon as the various Committees are able to hold hearings and draft bills. As these questions develop, your views on any of them will be appreciated and respected. It is not only your right and privilege, but actually your duty to express yourself. You can make Washington and your Congressman as near to you as a four-cent stamp and the Post Office.

Included in legislation on which tough fights will be waged are Federal aid to education, changes in Social Security, health and welfare benefits, public housing, aid to depressed areas, veterans' benefits, so-called civil rights, and minimum wage increase.

In addition, there will be action to find an answer to the dilemma in our Highway Program. Early in the Session the Congress will deal with the President's request to raise interest rates on Government bonds issued for longer than a five-year period.

All these and many other matters too numerous to mention will be before the Congress just as soon as the various Committees are able to hold hearings and draft bills. As these questions develop, your views on any of them will be appreciated and respected. It is not only your right and privilege, but actually your duty to express yourself. You can make Washington and your Congressman as near to you as a four-cent stamp and the Post Office.

The Domestic Issues include the fiscal management of our Government and, in fact, most all other issues will revolve around the matter of Federal spending and high taxes.

Report Indicates Overweight Means Short Life

This is the second of a series of articles by Dr. Karl W. Anderson, vice president and medical director of Northwestern National Life Insurance Co., with which he has been associated for about 30 years. A graduate of the University of Minnesota and a 1924 Olympic hurdler, he is also immediate past president of the Minnesota Heart Association. Submitted by Tommy Guess.

By Dr. Carl Anderson

One of the biggest reasons why so many overweight people find difficulty in taking off even 10 pounds is that they seem to enjoy kidding themselves about the real cause of their obesity.

They look around for convenient excuses. They soberly recite reasons why they are "different." They slyly break the rules, explaining that they'll "make up for it tomorrow."

These persons — often in all sincerity — blame heredity, or glands, or "more efficient digestion" or any number of other causes for their excess poundage. But the real reason is simply this: They eat more food than their bodies require.

The popular idea that fat people stay fat no matter how little they eat, or that defective glands cause obesity, has no basis of fact. Fat comes only from food, and obesity results only from eating more than is required to meet the energy needs of the body.

Your seemingly hopeless battle of the bulge may result from eating abnormal amounts of food. Or you may be eating too large a portion of food with high energy content. Or, you may simply be taking too little exercise. But unusually efficient digestion is never the cause.

The efficiency of digestion is close to perfect in all normal people. In very rare cases, glandular faults produce an abnormal appetite, but the resulting fatness is no different than any other. It comes about from too much food.

Honest effort at weight reduction must start in the conscience of the individual. Before the 1,000-a-day menu can work any magic for you, you must first really want to reduce.

If you cannot muster a genuine determination to shed those excess pounds you may not even get off the launching pad. Then, chances are, the actuaries will continue to mark you in their records as one of those agreeably lethargic persons destined for a relaxed but relatively short stay in this vale of tears.

It is my conviction, based on years of medical experience, that many people would choose more sensibly between added pounds and added years if they sharpened their awareness of just what fat is and what it does to the human body.

A common misconception is that fat is merely inert flesh — just so much excess weight. Actually, every pound of fat has to be nourished with miles of small blood vessels, and the many miles of blood vessels in a greatly overweight person have to be serviced by the same old heart.

Little wonder that among heavyweights heart failure ranks high as a cause of death. Fat people also have more coronary disease, more kidney trouble, more diabetes, more cancer and three times as much high blood pressure as do people of normal weight. They even have more falls and other accidents.

If you are among the overweight, or even among those whose weight until now was regarded as "normal," these stark facts should prod your will to reduce.

Fortunately, sheer reliance on will power can be tempered somewhat by a common-sense timetable for your food intake. Doctors and nutritionists who have given the matter extensive study agree that the person seeking to slim down via the 1,000-calorie menu will best be able to do so by "nibbling."

A little snack taken at intervals throughout the day—within the agreed-upon calorie limit — will help you reach your goal a lot more enjoyably than if you lavish your entire calorie count on a single meal or two and then spend long hours bemoaning the injustices of fat and fate as they affect you.

BUSINESS ORGANIZATION

The law allows a business a wide choice of ways to set itself up, to finance and manage itself.

You may have sole ownerships, joint ventures, corporations; and within these classes you have many different forms.

To meet modern business conditions, to get full tax advantage, and to protect investors, for example, the law provides many ways for a company to finance itself. And these, in turn, influence the kind of management it can have, and the way it conducts its affairs.

We sometimes speak of "stocks and bonds," for example, as if they were one and the same.

But when you buy a share of stock in a company, you "own" an "undivided" part of everything it owns, but no particular piece of its property.

But what do you have when you buy a corporation's bond or debenture? You own nothing of the company. Instead you are lending money which it promises to pay back with interest when your bond "matures."

Unlike a stockholder, a bondholder as a rule has little to say directly about who manages and how he manages the company. Remotely a bond buyer by withholding or lending money may influence a company's ability to expand. The bond holder gets only his interest payments, which come before the stockholder's "dividends," since he takes less of a risk than the stockholders.

Thus if the corporation quits or goes bankrupt, it must pay the bondholders off before the stockholders get anything.

Where does the "preferred stock" come in? As a rule, preferred stockholders collect a fixed dividend—after the bondholders are paid but before the "common" stockholders get anything. There are many kinds of preferred stock arrangements. But in return for their first chance at the profits the preferred stockholders often give up any voting rights or ability to control the company directly.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

Football Banquet Saturday Night At Ranger College

Ranger College has scheduled its annual football banquet Saturday, January 16, at 8 p.m. at the college cafeteria.

The banquet is an annual affair honoring the coaches and players of the Rangers football team. The Ranger Lions Club will present trophies to the outstanding letterman and the outstanding non-letterman of the 1959 squad. James Townzen will present the trophies for the Lions Club. Coach Jim Puryear has announced that the 1959 lettermen will be revealed at the banquet. R. E. "Prof" Jackson will be the guest speaker. He is one of the best-known humorists in the Southwest. Robert E. Jackson was born on a farm in Hood County and received his early education in Texas. He took his B. S. degree at George Peabody College for Teachers and his advanced degree at the University of Chicago. He also attended Columbia and New York Universities.

"Prof" is professor emeritus of government at Texas Woman's University where he taught for 35 years. He retired in 1953 to devote full time to public speaking. Before coming to TWU he was principal of Denton High School where he taught history. A frequent lecturer throughout Texas and neighboring states, Jackson's success as a toastmaster, main speaker and commentator began early in his teaching career. "He doesn't talk on education, but his talk is an education in itself," is typical of the comments made by those who have heard him speak.

Del Sharbutt, N.B.C. and Columbia announcer who once introduced Jackson, liked him so much when he spoke in Fort Worth, that he invited "Prof" to California to make a series of speeches. At one time "Prof" had a 13-week contract with radio station WFAA. He has spoken in 42 of the 50 states of the USA.

His keen sense of wit and jovial disposition make him a much sought after after-dinner speaker. His subjects cover a wide range including affairs of home, state, nation and the world.

Ranger College feels that they are fortunate in obtaining such a distinguished speaker for the banquet.

Singing at Bullock

There will be a gospel singing at Bullock at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Everyone is invited to attend.

Good Taste

Apartment Sharer's Honesty In Question

Dear Mrs. Post: I share an apartment with a young woman. She is very neat and pleasant and we get on very well together. However, I have discovered lately that some of my things are disappearing. Two weeks ago I missed a pair of good black gloves which I had worn only once. Thinking that I had lost them, I thought nothing more about them. But several days later I missed a pair of nylons and just today, a slip. I hate to accuse anyone of being dishonest, but I can't help think that she is pilfering my things. This is a very awkward situation and I really don't know what to do about it without offending her deeply. Is there any way I can tactfully handle this situation?

Answer: You might say to her, "I was sure I had another pair of nylons, or 'I can't find my black gloves anywhere. I hope I haven't lost them.' In other words, let her know that you are aware of your things disappearing, and let it go at that, unless they continue to disappear.

Answering Congratulatory Messages

Dear Mrs. Post: My engagement was recently announced and I have received many personal notes as well as printed cards from friends and relatives giving me their good wishes. Should these notes and cards be acknowledged, and if so, by personal note?

Answer: No acknowledgement is necessary for printed cards except a verbal one as you meet the different senders. It would not only be courteous, but you should, send written thanks to any longer letter or affectionate note.

Eating Waffles

Dear Mrs. Post: Should a waffle with butter and syrup be cut with a knife or may it be cut with the side of a fork?

Answer: If you can cut it easily with the side of your fork you do so, though most of us prefer to use both knife and fork when eating waffles.

Very Expensive Shower Presents

Dear Mrs. Post: Don't you think that something should be done about limiting the value of shower presents? After all, shower presents are not supposed to be the same as wedding presents, and many of the bride's friends are unable to give handsome shower presents and then a nice wedding present besides. The other afternoon I went to a shower for a girl I know and brought her a nice present, but not a very expensive one. All of the others gave her really valuable gifts which made mine look like nothing at all.

Answer: I agree with you that shower presents should be small ones, and these other presents should be given to her at some other time. Judging by several letters similar to this, it would seem that the shower question is becoming a serious one, and I do think it is a pity to let the spontaneous lightness of a friendly gesture become a burdensome obligation.

Table Manners

Dear Mrs. Post: When one puts a forkful of food into one's mouth is it proper to put it back on the tongue and close the teeth on the fork, but not the lips, or is it correct to close the mouth (lips) completely as one removes the fork from the mouth? I have seen many women follow the former procedure. I realize it is done to keep from smearing one's lipstick but it does not seem correct to me.

Answer: Even though done with the best of intentions, the procedure you describe of closing the teeth and not the lips on the fork is far from correct.

Sending Flowers To Employer's Ill Wife

Dear Mrs. Post: My Employer's wife is quite seriously ill in the hospital. I would like very much to send her some flowers if you don't think I will give the impression of forwardness.

Answer: Unless you have been in his employ for a very short time, it would be entirely proper to send his wife a few flowers or a plant with your wish for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her booklet, No. 504, entitled "Etiquette of Table Setting," send 25 cents in coin to Dept. E. P., care of this newspaper, (P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y. Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail.

Who Discovers the Discoverers?

"A professor can never better distinguish himself in his work than by encouraging a clever pupil, for the true discoverers are among them, as comets amongst the stars."
CARL LINNAEUS

Somewhere in this mighty land of ours, a gifted youth is learning to see the light of tomorrow. Somewhere, in a college classroom or laboratory, a dedicated teacher is gently leading genius toward goals of lofty attainment. Somewhere the mind of a future discoverer—in science, engineering, government, or the arts—is being trained to greatness.

Our nation has been richly rewarded by the quality of thought nurtured in our colleges and universities. The caliber of learning generated there has been responsible in no small part for our American way of life. To our college teachers, the selfless men and women who inspire our priceless human resources, we owe more than we will ever be able to repay.

Yet how are we actually treating these dedicated people?

Today low salaries are not only driving gifted teachers into other fields, but are steadily reducing the number of qualified people who choose college teaching as a career. At the same time, classrooms are beginning to get overcrowded. In the face of this, college applications are expected to double by 1967, if not sooner.

This is a severe threat to our system of education, to our way of life, even to our very existence as a nation. Our colleges need help—and they need it now!

If you want to know more about what the college crisis means to you, and what you can do to help, write for a free booklet to: HIGHER EDUCATION, Box 34, Times Square Station, New York 34, New York.
