ENTERTAINMENT COMMITTEE BUSY

PREPARATIONS ARE UNDER WAY FOR THE ENTERTAINMENT OF THE METHODIST NORTHWEST TEXAS CONFERENCE

MEETS IN LUBBOCK NOVEMBER 6, FOR 5 DAY SESSION

Every Home in Lubbock That Can Possibly Entertain A Guest Will Necessarily Have To Lend Assistance in Taking Care of This Large Delegation. Committee Will Finish Work Next Week.

The time is drawing rapidly near for the opening session of the Northwest Texas Annual Conference which is composed of the entire Panhandle and South Plains and extends east to the east line of Wilbarger, Throckmorton, Callahan and Shackelford counties and the tier of counties on the Texas and Pacific railroad West to Midland county, and there will be a large delegation in attendance upon this conference, and they are coming as guests of the City of Lubbock. Not only as guests of the Methodist church, but the entire town will have to open their homes to them if they are entertained as they should be, and when we say that, we do not mean that they will expect elaborate entertainment. It has been our privilege during our life to attend a number of meetings of this kind, and each time the entertainment has been good—just home like, and that is all these delegates will expect. Therefore we hope that the people of Lubbock will see to it that their homes are open to the entertainment of these preachers and delegates.

True, conditions have arisen since the conference was invited to our city that has brought about great changes, but we have invited these people to this city, and we are bound to entertain them the very best we can under the circumstances, and they everyone know the war is on, and will not expect their entertainment to be even as elaborate as it might be under different conditions.

The Avalanche hopes that all the families in Lubbock, and in the nearby rural communities, will extend their most cheerful hospitalities to the visitors who will visit here on this occasion, and make them feel that even though your home is humble, a warm, cordial welcome to what you have will be received by each of them in a Christianlike way.

A Statement From the Entertainment Committee.

As members of the entertainment committee, appointed to secure homes for the preachers and delegates who come to attend the Annual Conference beginning November 6th, we wish to make this statement. The Conference was invited to Lubbock by the pastor at the request of members of the Methodist church, many of the business men, the banks and the Chamber of Commerce, and the invitation was unanimously accepted, and it is now our privilege to entertain this delegation of church people in Lubbock, and we as the committee wish to state that this is not merely a Methodist church proposition. All the church people and all those who do not belong to any church are asked to open their homes to these delegates.

It would be much better if you will entertain them in your homes. That is, furnish them beds and meals, but if you are situated so you can furnish beds and cannot furnish meals or can furnish meals and not beds, then arrangements can be made to suit your convenience, but it is much better to have both at the same home, and if there are those who have no homes, you might entertain a guest by furnishing the money to let your guest take his meals at some

PAY YOUR W. S. S. PLEDGES NOW DUE

The chairman of the W. S. S. committee strongly urges all people who are behind with their pledges to come forward and pay up. You have pledged the president and it is your duty to live up to this pledge. Lubbock county is behind with her quota of W. S. S. and the time is rapidly drawing to close. Get busy and make good your pledge. Let everybody keep this duty in mind.

Some of the most noted men of the South will be in Lubbock during the coming session of the Northwest Texas Annual Conference, in November. It is quite an honor for any city to entertain this body of men, and Lubbock was unanimously chosen last year as the place of the conference this year. Make them feel good with a genuine Plains hospitality.

MAGNOLIA PEOPLE MEET IN LUBBOCK

The selling force of the western district of the Magnolia Petroleum Company held a very interesting and instructive meeting in the parlors of the Merrill Hotel on Tuesday, last. Mr. R. R. Darrah, of Fort Worth, manager, and Mr. Joe Stephens, of Dallas, head man in the lubricating department, were present. The gathering was a get-together proposition and all those present were guests of Mr. Darrah. At the termination of the business meeting a banquet was served to the following: Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Darrah, Fort Worth; Mr. Joe Stephens, Dallas; E. Lee Brown and wife, and Fred Boardman, Lubbock; L. E. Bowman and wife, Littlefield; D. A. Dodson, Muleshoe; M. L. Maggard, Plainview; C. L. Cooper, Tullar; A. J. Ryals, Floydada; C. C. Charbonnier, Crosbyton; C. S. Brown, Post; Tom May, Brownfield; R. B. Red, Lamesa; Fox Stripling, Big Springs; and H. B. Dunagan, Midland.

These meetings are regular events of the Magnolia Petroleum Company in which the agents and managers come into closer contact with each other, swap experiences and much good results.

One pleasing incident of the past meeting was the recent marriage of Mr. Darrah and in this trip he was combining business and pleasure. His marriage took place Thursday last and his bride instantly made friends of all who met her on this occasion. Mr. Darrah expressed himself as well pleased with the volume of business that his boys are getting in this territory and said he was always glad of a chance to visit Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrah motored to Post as the guest of Mr. C. S. Brown Tuesday afternoon.

WILL YOU ALLOW A GERMAN VICTORY

If the latest peace offensive were allowed to affect the volume of subscriptions to the Liberty Loan it might well be regarded as a German victory. Staggering and blind with blood the German Monster is commencing to whine. Surely now is the time to stand solidly behind our Government, ready for any eventuality. With victory assured I know of no greater incentive to the purchase of Liberty Bonds than the fact that the money invested will be used so directly and effectively for that object to the attainment of which we have given our own flesh and blood. I consider that the Central Powers have provided us with a valuable contribution towards the success of the Liberty Loan.

R. L. VAN ZANDT, Chairman Liberty Loan Central Executive Committee Eleventh Federal Reserve District.

J. W. Hoopes, Executive Manager of the Liberty Loan Campaign, smiled when he heard of the German Peace offensive and said "So the Central Powers are calling Kamerad." I was reading the other day of an incident in which the Germans played this favorite trick and then killed a number of Americans with concealed hand grenades. I spoke of the matter to a recently returned officer who said "such incidents are quite common, so common in fact that our reply to this sort of thing now is, Kamerad—HELL!" The German Government is trying this old trick on the people of this district and would like to see the people refrain from buying Liberty Bonds. Reports show that confusion amounting almost to panic exists behind the German lines, and time is needed for re-organization. Of course the Germans are calling Kamerad. When the United States Government tells us that Germany is beaten and has called Kamerad for the last time we will release our efforts but not until then.

CLAYTON, Federal Reserve Bank.

SHALLOWATER FOOD CONSERVATION CLUB

The Shallowater Food Conservation club members spent a pleasant and profitable afternoon last Thursday, with Mrs. Chester Wright. Ten members and two visitors were present.

Miss Halsey was with us and demonstrated on pickles, which was very interesting. As each member wishes to save all their green tomatoes and cabbage, and supply their own tables with these appetizing pickles.

Mrs. Dora S. Barnes, of Clarendon District Home Demonstration agent, was here this week, going over this part of the territory with Miss Halsey, the Lubbock County Demonstrator, and finds that Miss Halsey is doing very fine work and the people are well pleased with her work.

A MESSAGE TO EVERY MAN AND WOMAN

We are addressing you, dear reader every man and woman in this part of our beloved state of Texas. Are you truly patriotic—do you have the burning desire in your heart to be termed and honored as a true American patriot? Most certainly you do and God help you to be so. You are about to have the greatest opportunity to show your real true patriotism, so take careful heed to the following.

The United States Government has arranged the extremely stupendous war program of placing 4,800,000 of our soldiers in France by July 1919, together with a reserve army of approximately 1,200,000 at home. An Industrial Army of from 6 to 8 times the total of the above armies is absolutely necessary to furnish the prerequisites for all of our soldiers. This war program must be carried through successfully, for the President has made the solemn promise to all of the allied nations in this war that it would be done. The Administrative Offices in Washington have put it up squarely to the Community Labor Boards to supply the deficiency and no board can afford to shirk the responsibility or betray the confidence placed in them.

The United States Employment Service through its Community Labor Boards will be compelled to recruit for our ship-yards, Munition Plants, aircraft plants, textile plants, arsenals, mines, farms and many other war industries approximately 35,000,000 workers.

Therefore the Community Labor Board of Lubbock, together with the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce and the United States Employment Service will hold a public meeting in the Court House on Monday night, 8:30 p. m., Oct. 14th, to which EVERY POTENTIALLY AND SINCERE citizen is invited to attend to hear of the plans and necessary steps to be taken towards the furnishing of our part of the laborers so badly needed by our—yes YOUR government. We deserve and must have the undivided and hearty co-operation of every business firm, everyone that employs labor, every man and woman in this town and county.

We do not wish to, nor will attempt to, take any steps that will materially harm any necessary business but rather better conditions in many respects, by replacing many positions now held by men that can just as well be held by girls or women, thereby securing the "man power" from this town and district that MUST get into our government plants.

For lack of space and time we cannot go into detail in this article in regard to the many phases and conditions surrounding this great labor question—let it be sufficient for us to state at present that everyone is expected to be present at the meeting on above mentioned date. However this is the key note, MEN IN THIS TOWN AND COUNTY WHO ARE HOLDING POSITIONS THAT COULD JUST AS EASILY BE HELD BY GIRLS OR WOMEN ARE DOING THEMSELVES, THEIR FAMILIES AND THEIR GOVERNMENT AN INJUSTICE THAT CAN NEVER BE FORGOTTEN FORGIVEN NOR COMPENSATED unless they seek to make the proper changes when we will appeal to them to do so.

Let us help you to do your "Bit" Come to us and we will help you get "Right."

Community Labor Board, Chamber of Commerce, U. S. E. Service, Headquarters Room 204, Leader Bldg.

The Avalanche is unavoidably late again this week, but we hope that this will be the last late edition for many weeks. We can see bright spots on the horizon, which causes us to say in all confidence that we will be out O. T. next week. Our foreman is back on the job, and we have a message from R. B. Ingle, former employee of this paper that he will be here Saturday, and ready for business Monday, which will insure a long string of type by publication day next week. We have had a long hard pull the past two weeks, but the top of the hill is now in sight, and you can watch our smoke go down on the other side next week.

W. M. SHAW'S FATHER DIED WEDNESDAY EVENING

The following news item appeared in the Abilene Reporter Thursday: R. S. Shaw, father of W. M. Shaw, who is connected with the Reporter, died at his home 6 miles east of Ovalo Wednesday morning, at 7:30 o'clock. The funeral was held at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Cope cemetery.

Information has been received here that Claude Burrus and wife are both sick with a severe case of Spanish Influenza at Denton.

KAISER PREPARING NOTE TO WILSON

HAS CALLED THE SOVEREIGN OF ALL GERMAN FEDERAL STATES TO BERLIN FOR COUNSEL BEFORE ANSWERING WILSON.

ALLIES CONTINUE TO POUND THE RETREATING HUNS

Reports From The Western Front Indicate That The German Armies Are Unable To Offer Much Resistance And Are Directing Their Entire Attention To Getting Out Of Invaded Territory

Amsterdam, Oct. 11.—(By Associated Press)—Emperor William has summoned the sovereigns of all the German federal states to Berlin for a consultation before answering President Wilson's note, according to a Cologne dispatch. Such a conference is unique in the history of Germany.

London, Thursday, Oct. 10.—(By Associated Press)—President Wilson's reply to the German peace proposals was published in the newspapers of Berlin last evening. The official North German Gazette says: "We have reason to believe that the peace step which has been commenced will be continued."

London, Oct. 11.—(By Associated Press)—German troops today began the evacuation of the famous Chemin Des Dames in the region north of the River Aisne and south of Loos. Today's advances from the battle front indicate it is virtually certain the Germans will have to evacuate the St. Gobain Forests almost immediately. The evacuation of Chemin Des Dames is being forced by pressure of the converging attacks west and south of it. The Hunding line behind Loos, between the River Serre and Sissonne, has been turned, making the German situation in the Loos area most difficult.

With the Americans at Verdun, Oct. 11.—Heavy artillery firing in the region west of the Meuse began early today. The Americans started action before daylight and the bombardment was responded to by the Germans. Fires are reported in the region of many towns behind the lines and it is believed these were started by American shells.

The American forces struck the German lines east of Argonne forest today, capturing Commerce, Chevrières and Marco. The ridge Dame Marie was stormed after hard fighting. Over one thousand prisoners were taken during the day. Fighting opened this morning with infantry sweeping through the northern portion of Argonne forest for a maximum distance of nearly five miles. Little opposition was encountered from the enemy who probably retired during the night. Pushing forward the Americans discovered that the Germans had destroyed all the roads as they went. By this attack the Americans have taken firmer hold on the territory north of the broken Kriemild line.

FATAL SHOOTING NEAR ROUNDUP FRIDAY P. M.

Friday afternoon a phone message was received by the sheriff's department that Joe Stanton had shot his wife and himself, and asked for medical aid and also disposition of the wounded parties. Mayor Parks, Marshal Mitchell and the deputy sheriff accompanied by doctors Hall and Baugh went to the scene of the tragedy and found both Stanton and his wife in a very critical condition. Mrs. Stanton was shot in the left side of the head just above the temple and the man had shot himself in the forehead twice, both were still alive. He was brought to town in an auto and an ambulance was sent out for the lady. She died before the convenance arrived there. The man is still living at this time but the attending physicians do not entertain much hopes for his life.

Domestic troubles seems to be the cause of the trouble. They were riding in a jitney in the back seat with their four year old child, and another couple were in the front seat and were enroute to the J. S. Johnson ranch and were near Roundup when the shooting took place. The parties on the front seat knew nothing of any trouble till they heard the report of the pistol. Stanton then jumped out of the car and shot himself twice in the head.

This couple had been working on the J. S. Johnson ranch for several months. The remains of the lady will be taken to Jayton for burial, so we understand.

Information has been received here that Claude Burrus and wife are both sick with a severe case of Spanish Influenza at Denton.

With the Anglo-Americans at Cambrai, Oct. 11.—A great battle is now being fought in this region. The fighting is on a front of nearly thirty miles and has been extended to the north. The British are gaining everywhere. There are virtually no enemy infantry operations.

North of the LeCate-Stihair line the Germans are in headlong retreat, says the airplane observers. The Dour salient has been made still deeper and news that the Germans are being to evacuate the city may be expected at any time. The only resistance worth mentioning is coming from the enemy machine gunners. The bulk of the enemy artillery seems to have fled so far east of the battle ground as to be out of range.

London, Oct. 11.—American troops operating with the British on the front southeast of Cambrai, completed last night the capture of Vaux-Andagny and St. Souplet.

London, Oct. 11.—Today's advances from the battle front indicate it is virtually certain that the Germans will have to evacuate St. Gobain forest almost immediately.

London, Oct. 11.—In the region immediately east of Cambrai the British have reached the outskirts of Stavaert and Stauber.

Paris, Oct. 11.—French troops last night advanced in the region of the Aisne and captured Chivy and Moulins and then pushed on beyond.

Paris, Oct. 11.—In the Campagne sector the Germans have begun to retreat towards the Aisne. French forces have crossed the Aisne at Termes.

Washington, Oct. 11.—There is much speculation here regarding the meaning of the conference of the German states called by the Kaiser. The opinion is expressed that an appeal will be made to the petty sovereigns for their renewed fealty and for the suppression of disaffection in their territories. It is also suggested that when the sovereigns meet the Kaiser will either abdicate or will suggest that Germany make unconditional surrender to the allies.

Did Maximilian Cross the Kaiser? London, Oct. 11.—Unofficial advice received here say that Maximilian peace proposal to President Wilson, was made in direct opposition to Emperor William. It is suggested that this may be the reason for summoning the German sovereigns for conference.

SENATOR RUTHERFORD WILL DELIVER ADDRESS

United States Senator Rutherford will deliver an address in the interest of the Fourth Liberty Loan. Senator Rutherford is said to be a forceful speaker and will be able to present some facts and figures relative to the needs of the United States in the great war that will prove very interesting. He will be accompanied by a wounded French Sergeant, of the western front who will be able to tell of some of the experiences in army life. This speaking will be at the Methodist church next Wednesday evening at 8:30 o'clock, and it is hoped that they will be given a large audience.

Mrs. D. R. Cybert, died Friday afternoon at four thirty of pneumonia, developing from a severe case of influenza. The remains were shipped on the two o'clock train this Saturday morning for burial accompanied by her mother-in-law, Mrs. W. W. Cybert. Deceased's husband was unable to accompany the remains, as he was also sick of the same trouble.

George Y. Burns, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Burns of this city is now in the officers training school at Leon Springs, and we are expecting to hear of his rapid promotion. He is in the war to win and his kind usually succeed.

District Attorney Lockhart is here today looking after matters in connection with the shooting Friday afternoon.

David K. Russell and Elizabeth Chandler, and Jose Munos and Refugia Lopez were issued licenses to wed October 8.

PRIVATE DAVIS TELLS OF FIGHTING GERMANS.

Private Ross Be Davis was reported in yesterday's casualty list as severely wounded in action July 20. His mother, Mrs. Lella Davis, has received two letters from him since his confinement in a hospital at Bordeaux, stating that he is injured in both legs.

The first letter received from the soldier since the fight in which he was wounded gave an interesting version of a typical battle.

Ran Into Shellfire.

"It was at 3 o'clock in the afternoon," says the letter, "we took over a sector which the Germans were firing on. Dashing forward for fifteen minutes, jumping over stumps and shell holes, we forced the boche to retire, but they kept firing at us. The shellfire was particularly heavy, as the guns that were firing the shells were behind the lines some distance and the gunners did not see that we were coming after them. Shells dropped all around us, but after fifteen minutes fighting I must have fainted, for when I came to my senses again in a field dressing station it was 6 o'clock."

"In the dressing station they told me that an Algerian soldier picked me up and put me in a shell hole, out of danger of being tramped on. I guess a stretcher bearer must have picked me up there and took me to the station."

Second Letter From Hospital.

The second letter arrived yesterday afternoon, in which he said that he is in a hospital in Bordeaux. He likes the surroundings and says that he walked four yards recently, and the doctors say he will be out of the hospital in four months.

Private Davis asked to be reduced in rank in order that he might get into action. He was a sergeant in a headquarters company. His company, he knew would never get in the fight, so after persistently urging that he be reduced and assigned to the infantry the commander consented.

Went With Rainbow Division.

He enlisted in the District National Guard in the spring of the Mexican trouble, served on the border nine months and was subsequently sent across with the Rainbow Division.

He attended Western High School and afterward worked in Potomac Park. He was born in Richmond twenty-three years ago and came to Washington twelve years ago.

Has Two Brothers in Service.

He has two brothers in service, Clayton, who is now on the high seas with the Navy, and Henry W. with Gen. Pershing in France. Two sisters are going to Western High School.

CHURCH MEMBERS SHOULD TALK UP THE MINISTER.

Years ago there was trouble in a certain Presbyterian Church over the young pastor. Many members insisted upon his leaving. His few ardent friends insisted with equal zeal upon his remaining. Much bad feeling had been generated. The case was critical.

Finally two prominent officials called the congregation together and gave this counsel: "It is true that our pastor is not a great man. He does not preach learned or eloquent sermons. But we all know that he is a good man and that he is doing all in his power to promote our spiritual interests. Let us all agree to bear with him, and instead of talking him down let us go out from this meeting resolved to talk him up."

The advice was accepted. The result you can guess. He remained in that church nearly half a century, and remarkable success attended his ministry to the close.

A good many people talk the minister down. They discount all his doings. They misunderstand his plainest sayings. They credit him with unworthy motives. They predestinate his failure. An angel from heaven could not succeed under such circumstances.

That is unwise. It is unfair. It is wicked.

How much better to "talk up" the minister! The world will accept him at your estimate and respect him according to the measure of your own respect.

Talk up the minister in your home. Help him to win and save the child. Lift up the minister among the young people. Raise not a finger to break the spell of his uplifting influence.

Talk up the minister among your fellowmembers. Be his solid friend. Suffer no tongue of malice to speak against him in your presence.

Talk up the minister in the social circle, on the street, in the cars, in the factory, store or office. Magnify his strong points, minimize his faults. Speak kindly of him or not speak at all.

Do you know what such loyalty to the minister will mean? In nine cases out of ten, it will mean success. Bishop Berry in Christian Intelligence.

HUN HAS YELP COMING IF HE'S FACING SAWED-OFF SHOTGUN.

Kaiser Bill, having been formally introduced to the American shotgun as a most efficacious method of Hun extermination, has let out a squawk heard all around the world. The "Patsdam" "poison gas" artist says they are very unladylike weapons and calls on Uncle Sam to discontinue their use.

How would it do for "Black Jack" Pershing to turn loose a bunch of his negro troops with razors on the Prussian outfit? Or perhaps a squad of Indian soldiers armed with tomahawks might be more to the Emperor's liking.

There are all kinds of shotguns from the old flintlock muzzle-loading kind that it took about a half hour to get going down to the automatic repeater that is in the rapid fire class. Then, there is the sawed-off shotgun.

Sawed-Offs Pizen." If it was this latter implement of destruction about which the Kaiser kicked there might be some justice to a complaint even from such a source for it is known of men that there is no type or caliber of shooting-iron in its class.

"They're pizen," is Uncle Henry Leeman's short but eloquent tribute to the "business" qualifications of the short-barreled artillery. And Leeman knows, in fact, he used to pack one around with him.

Leeman, now a special officer for the Frisco in Fort Worth, spent thirty years in the Indian territory as Deputy United States Marshal. During the period he got acquainted with all manner of firearms as well as all the different types of the genus homo that infested that section of the country when it was the Mecca for the criminal element of the Southwest.

"For close-fighting there has never been invented such a formidable piece of machinery as the sawed-off shotgun," said Leeman the other day.

It was along about 1885 that the guns with the abbreviated barrels made their appearance in the Territory. They were welcomed with gusto by the outlaws. It wasn't very long then until Leeman and the rest of the peace officers proceeded to provide themselves with the same kind of defense.

Deadly at Short Range. "We use to carry them on our horses with a scabbard attached to the stirrup of the saddle; they were always in close reaching distance and but for the mighty 'kick' could be handled with almost the same ease as a pistol," declares the former United States offi-

"My Country 'Tis of Thee"

(From the Literary Digest)

A soldier of France lay on a hospital bed. His shattered arm had just been taken away. The doctor looked down with pity at the white young face. "I'm sorry my boy, you had to lose your arm," he said. The eyes of the lad flashed. "No, no, doctor, I didn't lose it," he said. "I gave it to France." His head sank back upon his pillow, and he whispered "My France."

Americans! Here is your God-given land of liberty, far from the furious battles and the countless hospital beds of France, what flame leaps to your eyes when you say "My Country, 'Tis of Thee?" Have the words filled you with a passion of love and a holy zeal which make service of country the greatest thing of life, the only thing worth while in these days? Are you ready and eager to enroll in the army of twenty-five million men and women now summoned to carry the Fourth Liberty Loan to victory?

Swift and sure we are now moving to the great events which will bring triumphant peace to America, and to all the world, or plunge us into a deeper misery of unending war. General Pershing, with the First American Army, has struck the enemy a heavy blow. Our hearts thrill with eager anticipation after the long waiting. We hope; we trust; we look with proud faith to our great armies, and our brave allies. We expect the "decisive victory of arms" to which our President has pledged the nation. But we cannot be sure of it until every last one of us here at home has given himself and his all, "without pause or limit," to make our armies invincible.

No such victory has yet been won. Initial success is not "decisive victory." It is too soon to rejoice, or to say, "The war will soon be over." It is too early to talk of the headlong retreat of the enemy, or of a German military machine "on the point of collapse." The Prussians are not beaten. Their war machine is not destroyed. Their savage fighting power, their endurance, their strategy, their supplies are still unexhausted. Their breed, their devil-bred Kultur, their obsession for world dominion are still rampant. They could not conquer Russia in the open; they conquered her in the dark with soul poison, bribery, treachery and all forms of bedevilment known to the Huns. Already they are harvesting from that vast domain men and supplies for the German war machine. And now the greatest Hun general, Ludendorff, the most powerful man in Germany, defies the world and says, "Our will to victory is still unbroken. We settled Russia. We will settle the Americans."

We are answering the insolent Hun with our first mighty effort on the battlefield. The beginning of it cheers us mightily, but it is still only at the beginning. It must go on triumphantly. It must succeed. But two million American soldiers soon to be joined by two million more, are looking back across the sea to us with an even more imperative demand, "You must not let us fail. We have staked our lives on your support. We need tanks, and guns, and shells, and airplanes, without limit. Unless you send them we cannot win. Buy more Liberty Bonds than you ever dreamed of buying. Don't you understand? Our part here will be hell if you stint your part at home."

Before ever a soldier of Uncle Sam stepped upon the soil of France and unfurled America's battle flag, the victory of our allies was necessary for the safety and freedom of our country, but now our need for victory is multiplied four million times. The blood of every American boy spilled on that shell-torn ground cries to Americans for victory. From every hospital bed where one of our boys is lying, mangled or wounded; from every cage in Germany that holds a brave American; from every trench and camp in France, in Italy, in Belgium; in Russia, the demand comes to us for victory. From every home in America into which the telegram has come bearing the news of a hero's sacrifice for his country, the demand for a victory that shall repay that sacrifice is challenging us more sternly each day. There must be no peace until such a victory is won. All our work, our thought, our money must be dedicated to this life and death need of our country as truly as the lives of our brave boys across the sea are dedicated to it.

Those devoted lives are in our hands. Shorten that casualty list which already reaches into the quivering hearts of thousands of American families. Lavish upon our armies, quickly, weapons and supplies that shall hasten their victory and stop all casualty lists! Pour out in a flood the paltry price in money, and lessen the greater price to be paid in the precious lives of our sons, our husbands, our brothers and our dearest friends!

The enemy is malignant and merciless beyond our power to believe—we who have not seen. The need for his irretrievable defeat is more imperative than we have known—we who have not learned before of the foul wells from which the nature of the Hun has been springing. If we were forced to see what our soldiers, our chaplains, our Red Cross nurses have seen, we could not delay a moment to rid the world of the loathsome plague, Edward J. Lacey, an old employee, now with the 165th New York, writes: "I can hardly sit still here, thinking of the things I have seen at the different fronts I've been fighting on. I have seen them have women chained to their machine guns, and... The Rev. Geo. A. Bishop, of Baltimore, a chaplain with the Fifth Field Artillery, has told how the Huns took young Belgian and French girls into their first-line trenches and tortured them until their screams made the Scotch and Canadian soldiers so crazed that they rushed to rescue them, only to fall into the machine gun nests into which the women screams had been made to decoy them. Other soldiers, forced back by the leveled guns of their officers, to keep them from needless slaughter, at length, drove the fiends from their trenches and went over. What they saw there was too awful for words.

May a merciful God spare us from seeing our daughters and wives chained to machine guns or tortured by the Huns! May we never see our little children nor our old men crucified up on the doors of our ravaged homes! May we never see our babes impaled upon bayonets and carried through our streets over the shoulders of German soldiers!

Make it impossible! Make our armies invincible. Insure victory now, and freedom forever from the unspeakable Hun. Liberty Bonds without limit—Liberty Bonds for twenty-five million men and women who will buy them to their utmost ability—Liberty Bonds oversubscribed with a whirlwind of patriotic eagerness and grim determination—this must be our immediate answer to the demands of our armies across the sea. Buy Liberty Bonds and keep them; treasure them as a precious investment. Do not sell them or trade them off until your Government calls for them at maturity. They are your proud possession, a proof of your loyalty, an insurance of all you hold most dear, Americans! In the full tide of your power and abundance, answer, with all God has given you, the bitter cries of torn and outraged humanity. God has raised America, strong, rich and free, to be his own right arm of deliverance. Save your homes and loved ones, and save a world lying in blood and tears! Buy Liberty Bonds with a hand that will not stop, and know the sublimer meaning deep in the heart of the words, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee."

He will go into the active ministry again this year, either in that conference or by transfer into this Conference.

Under the Tents at Camp Travis

Men soon to be called into service can practically insure themselves against probable disease in the Army by a simple system of precautionary training while they are awaiting enlistment. This is the advice offered by medical authorities of the "Cactus Division" at Camp Travis, Texas.

Intelligent exercise and proper care of the body of the prospective soldier are more effective than anything that medical science can do during the period of transformation from civilian to soldier. By this training he builds up his physical power of resistance and whips his constitution into such shape that he is practically immune from the lesser maladies and is in much better shape to stand the new conditions, and a certain amount of exposure which he is certain to encounter.

Statistics at Camp Travis disclose that a major portion of the illness in camp is among the recruits and that these recruits are especially susceptible to contagious and infectious diseases. Men who come here in a depleted condition and whose resistance is low, may easily fall victim to malignant germs.

Reports reaching this place are that many young men expecting to be selected are prone to take "a last fling" at home and during this "fling" commit all kinds of indiscretions, among which might be mentioned smoking too much; keeping late hours, overeating, etc. Nothing could be worse say the medical authorities. By the time the draftees reach the camp they are in such a run-down state that their systems offer a festive field for disease.

If the recruit can build himself up to pass the first month or so in camp without any disastrous results, his chance of warding off illness during the whole period of enlistment are increased a thousand-fold. This is due, of course, to the fact that the army training is a steady development of the body and a toughening up process which is without equal in making men virile and steady.

Just what sort of exercise to take and just how to build up the system is very important and this information is willingly given by the army physicians. Above all things the beginner should not overdo his exercising. A schedule of light calisthenics; a short walk or ride daily, and plenty of fresh air baths, and sunshine are all that are needed. The amount of exercise should be of course increased as the body becomes accustomed to it.

Among the exercises the medical experts suggest are deep breathing, body bending to get rid of any excess fat around the abdomen, vigorous leg and arm movements, and any training that will develop "wind."

Doctors advise that the amount of smoking should be reduced previous to entry into army life in order that the lungs may be in the best condition and this is doubly necessary at this time of the year. Pneumonia and Spanish Influenza are two of the most prevalent camp diseases and both have to do with the respiratory system. Travis thus far has managed to prevent the appearance of the virulent type of influenza and has reduced pneumonia to a minimum, but with the constant influx of recruits the danger is always imminent.

Conservative living, a gradual strengthening of the body and constant attention to see that all parts of the body are functioning properly by the civilian about to become one of Uncle Sam's own fighting men, will increase materially his own efficiency as he enters camp, and will brighten his chances for early recognition and promotion for the man who enters "the army fagged out" cannot possibly make a favorable impression upon those in authority.

So well pleased is Uncle Sam with the success which has attended his plan of granting farm furloughs to those soldiers whose help was absolutely required at home for seeding and harvesting crops that he has decided to continue the arrangement, according to orders received at Camp Travis, Texas. He is taking care, however, to see that his generosity is not abused and that his military machine does not suffer because of it.

It takes indisputable evidence that the soldier's help is absolutely essential to the farm work before the furlough is considered; and the soldier's military status must be such that his absence will not prevent him being ready for action when his unit is called upon to perform in the harvest field of Europe.

When the Cactus Division at Camp Travis, Texas, hits France, it will be in good health and in good spirited to take its place immediately in the firing line in case of an emergency for the course of training mapped out for it here at Camp Travis, will include the various specialties in the methods of warfare which generally are taught American fighters after they land on the other side. Furthermore, these specialties such as gas defense, grenade and trench work will be taught by American officers brought back from France for this very purpose; instructors who have experienced and studied the most modern methods in fighting actual combat.

Schools in gas defense and grenade throwing already have been established and an extensive system of trenches is being established in the edge of Camp Travis for the purpose of instruction in trench fighting. There also is ideal terrain within the confines of the camp for all kinds of open field combat. It is expected that when this division sails it will be ready for service, even to the point of carrying its own gas masks across the Atlantic, for recent regulations provide for the supplying of troops with gas masks before embarkation.

James P. Cole is indeed proud of his distinction and progress in the army. He has been on guard with a real club, twice already, and "K.P." twice. He wants his home folks to know of his rapid progress and that he expects to be Commanding General soon. (7)

How a College Education Was Once Obtained

A True Story.

Once upon a time a little girl, named Mary, lived in the most beautiful spot in one of the Atlantic States. At a very early age, the parents had inspired in her heart a desire for a college education. Often, as she gathered violets along the river or made her way to the village school she dreamed of the time when she would be a teacher in the school that was a household word in the family. She was not only a dreamer for when prizes were offered in school Mary was always among the winners.

As it is often the case, sickness, death and reverses in business came. After much thought and consultation the parents decided to move to a far western state. This troubled Mary, for she feared her fond hopes were all blasted. But the most worry came when she entered school for the first time in her new home and found the text books so different, and the teachers not very willing to accept her grades in subjects that seemed far too difficult for one of her age. Not much interest was manifested during the first session and at the beginning of the second, Mary had measles and her eyes were left in a weakened condition, so she did not return to school that year.

It was so hard to adjust herself to the new circumstances, and knowing she could not attend the school where she had longed to graduate, she made up her mind before the beginning of the next term of school—that she would give up her struggle for an education. About the time of this decision, Mary was waiting for her mail one morning when the Postmaster asked if she would like to report the village news for the city paper. This offer was accepted with joy, for Mary had experienced the fascination of paper, when she set type for the publication in her eastern home. The compensation was small but it put a new determination to obtain knowledge into the life of the discouraged girl and she re-entered high school at the beginning of the fall term. Other encouragement came when the editor said he would print one composition each week, written by the pupils, he, himself to be the judge of the ones written. As long as this offer lasted, Mary's composition was printed each week.

Mary kept the position as reporter until the prohibition rally was started in the county and she wrote an article against the liquor traffic and it was refused by the editor. The saddened girl said she would work for no paper that helped to fill the widows and orphans' homes, insane asylum and drunkard's graves. She continued in school, did good work in all her studies, and was awarded first honors in spelling and English.

The Death Angel again visited the earth, but did not bring as much sadness to Mary as the first visit had caused. When the will of the old bachelor was read it was found that he had left money to build a college and endow it sufficiently to give free tuition and books to the boys and girls of the country not able to afford a college education without help.

As had always been Mary's habit, when trying to make decisions, she again went to her parents to talk of entering college. Sadly they told her that they were not able to pay her board during her attendance. This did not discourage her, but instead of giving up she secured recommendations from her pastor and teacher and trustees of her school and sent them to the Board of Directors of the College. Soon a letter came granting her a scholarship. Mary begged to attempt finding a place where she might work for her board and insisted that she could wear the clothes at school she would have to wear, if she stayed at home. She could not be resisted. The boarding place was soon found and Mary was on her way to the city, happy, though sad, for at the age of seventeen she had been away from home only for a week at a time. The funds she carried amounted to a few stamps and fifty cents to pay her fare back home.

Mary's work at the boarding house was hard. The alarm sounded each morning at five o'clock and very often it was nine at night before the supper dishes were finished. Very little advice was given when she left home, for she had always been trusted, and had caused her parents almost no trouble. The only request her mother offered was: "Daughter, don't learn to dance." Occasionally, a dance was given at the boarding house, and often another was needed to make the required number. They begged Mary to join them until they saw it was useless, then they made fun of her, but she never yielded.

As the school came to a close, she told her teachers it would be impossible for her to return another year as the scholarships were not given to any over seventeen years of age. They did not seem to care and never offered a suggestion that might open the way, as Mary had hoped they would do. She was worried at their actions, for they had been so helpful and sympathetic all the year. She failed to think out their cause for lack of interest till the last night of Commencement when the Governor of the state was reading the honors and said: "A scholarship is awarded Mary—for the highest grades made in English during the year at daily recitations and final examinations." It was such a surprise she didn't realize her joy till she reached home next day and saw the happiness of her parents.

She spent her vacation setting type for the village newspaper, and returned to school the following fall, working again for her board. The struggle this year was harder, as all the studies were new and more girls were in the boarding house. Small pox raged that year and all the girls had to be vaccinated. It seemed at one time that Mary would lose her arm as she had no rest from the work she was trying to do. She lost a month of school and feared she would not pass, but studied every minute possible and the kind hearted teachers gave her special examinations.

Just before the end of the term, a shoe store in town offered a pair of shoes to the girl who would write the best advertisement for them. Mary was only sophomore, and knew that several seniors were going to enter the contest, but thought "nothing attempted, nothing done." To make a long story short, she received notice from the merchant telling her to go down and take her choice of his shoes.

During that vacation she sold books to earn money for personal expenses the coming school. She worked again for her board, and was given a few classes to teach to pay her tuition. When more books were needed she would arise at 4 a. m. and do laundry work for girls who were able to hire it done. Instead of going home Christmas, she went to town, she had not visited during the summer and sold books.

The summer before she would enter the senior class that fall, she again worked in the printing office all day and studied at night.

That year's work was hard for Mary. She went into the girls' dormitory to work for tuition, board and laundry. It took about six hours daily for this task, besides the preparation and recitation of the Senior Course, complete review and examination in grammar, arithmetic and civil government and reading the whole of the Old Testament and examination on it.

Her health was not as good as usual and many recitations were missed, which meant zero on daily grades. The graduation thesis had to be handed in for criticism by the first of May. How could she think of a subject and something to say about it, with all the other duties! It must be written without help or notes and a gold medal was offered for the best one. She decided to work on the essay during mending hour, as it was always quiet in the dormitory at that time. One of her friends came in for help on some lessons; the help was given and the writing done during the hour.

It was nearly time for the Senior Reception. Mary did not have clothes to attend, and thinking attendance was compulsory she worried about it. She knew the little mother at home would go without necessities to furnish a luxury to the girl she missed so much, but she would not have the chance. The battle was fought out

CONGRESSMAN WILSON RETURNS FROM EUROPE

By Mary Kunceller Brooks
Washington, October 5.—Representative James C. Wilson, of Fort Worth, who has just returned to Washington from a tour in Europe made with the Naval Affairs Committee of the House, of which he is a member, picked up considerable information on the other side.

Mr. Wilson, realizing the importance of getting information into usable shape at the immediate time of acquisition, kept a most complete diary of each day of his journeyings, with him ten rather large note books closely written with information, intimate details and personal impressions of every place he visited and every personage with whom he came in contact.

"In England," said Mr. Wilson, "we hadn't an especially good opportunity of judging what exact conditions or relations to the food and material situation, since we were guests of the government, and naturally, whatever scarcity there might have been in any particular we would not have been permitted to know it. In France, however, traveling in five automobiles, with a supply automobile in the rear, all painted battleship gray and all marked U. S. A. but going to all intents and purposes entirely unofficially, we were able to observe very closely the actual conditions which prevail.

Abundance of Food.

"We were all amazed at the evidence of abundance of food on every hand. Though it is true that the garden lands of France are only a desert waste of trenches and shell holes, it is also true that the French women, rising to the emergency in far more splendid fashion than might be expected of the women of any nation, have literally put the whole tillable area of France under cultivation. It seems to me that there isn't a spot in France as big as a handkerchief where there is not something growing, and the women are doing the work with a little help from the very old men, the very young boys and the men sent home for the brief rest periods from life at the front. Sugar is scarce and salt almost as scarce as sugar; fats are not plentiful and of course the supply of meats is limited, but France is doing her part towards feeding herself most magnificently. To be sure, France would not have been able to be so warded off starvation but for the assistance in supplies which we have been able to give them. But it is gratifying to know how splendidly France has striven to be self-sustaining and how much we have able to aid with such a very slight sacrifice to ourselves.

Strong Feeling For Americans.

"And the feeling that France has for America and Americans is a thing which must be experienced to be fully appreciated. Wherever an American appears, whether he is in uniform or not he is greeted with the greatest enthusiasm. All along our way wherever we stopped the people, mostly women and children rushed out of the houses just to see us and to throw flowers and kisses after the automobiles when we left. One sight which I shall never forget was well in the interior of France. In the early morning we were awakened by the sound of marching men and going to the windows we saw 1,200 or more French soldiers, veterans of many battles, furloughed home for a short rest, and at that moment mobilized for the return to the front. There were drawn up in the street below our windows, singing that wonderful marching song of the French, 'Madelon,' and in the muzzle of each gun, shining in the early morning light, was either a glowing white flag of France or a small American flag, with the flags very much outnumbering the lilies.

"But that has not always been true of the feeling of the French for us. At first, as I learned from those who have been there from the earliest days of our entry into the war, the French and the British, too, for that matter, were very much disappointed at the part which they thought we intended to play in the war. Our men arrived and our tremendous stores arrived, but our men didn't go to the front. There was no move to send the men to the front. Instead by the thousands they were set to work building docks and supply depots and lines of communication and repairing roads and building bridges and altogether getting laid the tremendous foundation for the mighty things we had planned to do. But the French and the British could not see the plan—they were so desperately in need of immediate assistance that they could see nothing but the failure of that assistance in fighting strength. The feeling spread that to supply them in a material way and to achieve great things in engineering and construction was the extent of what they might hope for from us. In their opinion we would supply money and would work, but we would not fight.

Americans Electrified Europe.

"Then came the time when General Pershing had completed the preliminary for America's great part in the conflict. American men were sent to the front. What happened we all know. The way they fought electrified all Europe. The way they fought made us at home at once proud and humble, gave us a new faith and a consecration to the ideals and traditions to which we ourselves thought we as a Nation had almost forgot. And it was a new birth of the spirit to all our allies.

"With the first engagement in which the American boys participated our allies understood the vision with which we had planned, the genius with which we had executed, and the glorified spirit with which our boys fought and the dauntless courage with which they died for an ideal. Truly unto us as a Nation has been given the God-granted privilege of writing the greatest page in the world's history in the blood of our matchless sons.

"It was the King of England who said to our party when we were received at Buckingham Palace: 'You will never know what your army has been in morale to the allies. The record of the American army in battle, an army which has never lost a battle, and never given an inch, is an inspiration which will last not only through the war, but throughout the life of every man who has come in touch with those magnificent young fighters you have sent to our aid.'

"The British premier, David Lloyd George in vited us not to a reception, but to a conference, and when he received us at 10 Downing Street he remarked that it was interesting to note that it was interesting to note that it was in that dim old room that every momentous matter in English modern history had been settled. It was in this very room, remarked Lloyd George, that Lord North and Lord Chatham met in their famous discussion as to the proper course to take regarding the colonies in America. As we all know it was the fact that Lloyd North's opinion prevailed that brought matter what we may think, looking on the American Revolution, and no back upon Lord North's decision, in the light of incidents immediately surrounding it, I am sure in the light of later and especially present developments, there are none of us on either this side or the other side of the water who regret that Lord North did dominate the council."

Tribute From Clemenceau.

"It was that splendid old statesman, Clemenceau, who said to us, 'It is the most interesting thing in history. It seems to me, that you Americans, having fought to establish your own liberties, should now in a little more than a century be fighting to help give that same sort of liberty to all other peoples. To be sure, we too, in France had our Revolution, but we had the immediate and momentous example of your success and your newly created Government, a Government like unto nothing else in all the world when your supremely inspired statesmen conceived and formulated it and gave it as a model and the inspiration and the hope of liberty to all peoples everywhere.'

"In Italy when we were received by Premier Orlando, it was the same story in different words. 'What we fight for,' he said, 'and what you so gallantly and so generously are fighting that all peoples everywhere may have is summed up in your bill of rights. Your government and its fundamentals are the ideals which we would achieve, but which we could not have achieved without the aid and the inspiration of the wonderful young army you have sent us.'

"But I think," continued Mr. Wilson, "that one of the greatest things the war has done for us is not that our allies have discovered us; wonderful and gratifying as that is, but that we have, as a Nation, found ourselves. Unto us a wonderful privilege has been given. We have proven worthy of that privilege. We have proven to ourselves and to the world that as a people we are worthy sons of great fathers, that we are faithful stewards of a priceless heritage, and the standard which we have now set for ourselves is so high that each of us, at home and abroad, will be too proud of the which America has done to ever let an act of ours tarnish the shining name which has been written forever in the history of all the world."

EXCUSE.

One of the whining complaints which the officials of the Food Administration have to meet most often in these days of saving and sacrifice is the one voiced by the man or woman who thinks he should be released from his share because a neighbor across the street or next door is cheating the government by not living up to regulations.

"I'm perfectly willing to go without flour and have only one teaspoonful of sugar in my coffee, but I don't understand why I should deny myself just so that person can have all the wheat and sugar he wants," so runs the plaint.

It is because there are food slackers along with profiteers and other scum, willing to make dollars out of the agonies of the nations of the earth, that food rulings have to be made. It is because some selfish earth in the shape of man declares, "I will eat what I want despite the fact that" babies of Belgium die with the torture of starvation, and the Hun beats back the allied armies because of this that most Americans must save harder and sacrifice longer.

Let the man who claims when brought before the Food Administration for violations, "the other fellow was doing it," remember that other fellows are leaping from mud and blood soaked parapets to face a shower of Hun bullets and to stop with their bodies the razored bayonets of the enemy. It is an excuse which doesn't go.

One advantage of war is that it compels men to develop. Few men are self-starters, capable of pushing themselves to the limit for an indefinite time. Dynamic bosses in peace time and the vital necessities of war bring out of these men the possibilities which but for this forcing would never develop. A great vision or a great ambition furnishes the driving force in many men, but in war time, all men are under pressure, stimulated, driven, compelled to bring up every ounce of reserve and latent ability to preserve their very lives. War has this, at least to its credit. If the great men, the resourceful men produced by this conflict can but find some great, stimulating task for their newly awakened abilities after the war, then shall we see great things come to pass in the next generation.

TO THE STAY AT HOMES FROM THE BOYS IN KHAKI.

You say he can't stand the army. The life is too hard for him. Do you think he is any better. Than some other mothers, Tom or Jim. You raised him like a girl. He don't smoke, chew or brag. If all the rest of the boys were like him.

What would become of our flag. You say let the rough-necks do the fighting. They are used to the beans and the stew. I am glad that I am classed with the roughnecks. Who fight for the red, white and blue.

You say his girl couldn't stand it. To send him off with the rest. Don't you think she would be glad if he enlisted. When she feels the German's hot breath on her breast.

Think of the women of Belgium. Of the cruelties they have had to bear. Do you want the same thing to happen.

To your innocent daughters so fair.

You can thank God that the stars in Old Glory. Are not bluffed with that kind of stain. Because there are ten million rough-necks.

That have red blood in their veins. They go to the drill in bad weather. And come in with a grin on their face. While your darling sits in the parlor. And let's another man fight in his place.

Maybe we do smoke and gamble. But we fight as our forefathers did. So go warm the milk for his bottle. Thank God, we don't need your kid.

LARGE GARBAGE SAVING

Sufficient grease was recovered from household garbage collected during the month of May from eleven American cities to make the explosive charge for more than half a million 75 millimeter shells, besides millions of pounds of soap and other products, according to figures issued by the United States Food Administration. The garbage grease was sufficient to produce 129,040 pounds of glycerine, from which nitroglycerine is made and for which there is a big demand at this time.

The figures indicate an increase in the amount of grease recovered over the same period last year, particularly in Chicago, which showed an increase well over 200 per cent. The entire amount of grease recovered in an increase of 43 per cent over May, 1917. The returns are from eleven cities having a total population of over 6,000,000.

Since the campaign for garbage utilization has been urged by the Food Administration there has been an appreciable increase in the amount of garbage collected for reduction. This does not indicate that there are more foodstuffs being wasted, but that the cities are making a more earnest effort to collect all available garbage instead of permitting it to be burned, dumped or otherwise utilized. A number of cities which have been wasting garbage have taken steps to install reduction plants, so that the valuable material contained in table and kitchen refuse can be recovered.

THE DEATH OF F. J. STRATTON.

Abernathy Breeze: T. J. Stratton dropped dead at a sanatorium at Lubbock Friday evening, his son, J. R. Stratton, having carried him there that morning, and he withstood the trip nicely, and his death was a blow to his friends and relatives.

He has been failing for some time, and was reduced to a very feeble condition. He had been given every care and attention by loving hands and medical skill but to no avail.

Mr. Stratton was born in Arkansas November 23, 1850, and died September 26th, 1918, and was in his sixty-eighth year. He moved to Oklahoma in 1892 and to Tulsa in 1896, and resided here several years.

He was married in 1872 and to this union was born nine children, six boys and three girls, five of whom are living, one in New Mexico, two in Oklahoma, one in Abernathy and one at Lubbock, besides eleven living grandchildren.

He has been a member of the church for over fifty years, and an Odd Fellow for twenty-five years. A good man and neighbor, a loving father and husband has gone to his reward. The remains were brought to Abernathy Friday morning and carried to the home of his son, J. R. Stratton. Funeral services were conducted at the church by Rev. W. C. Carver, at

To Lend the Way They Fight.

Dedicated to Our Boys "Over There"
By the Central Liberty Loan Organization Eleventh
Federal Reserve District.

To lend the way they fight—for me,
What splendid lending that would be!
Such radiant strength of heart and hand
Lights up the waste of No Man's Land!
Such scorn of danger as they go
With smile and song to meet the foe,
Such zeal to know the VICTORY won,
To know a soldier's duty done;
To lend the way they fight—for me,
What splendid lending that would be!

To lend the way they fight—for me,
What selfless lending that would be!
For ever through the battle's haze,
The bullets' hail, the field-guns' blaze,
They dream of home and love and life,
Of child and mother, sweetheart, wife;
For these they fight and laugh at pain,
And blind with blood fight on again;
To lend the way they fight—for me,
What selfless lending that would be!

To lend the way they fight—for me,
What glorious lending that would be!
For ever with them as they fight,
Flames out the great white sword of Right;
And up above the bursting shell
The pall of smoke, the war's red hell,
It writes some message in the sky,
That makes it even sweeter to die;
To lend the way they fight—for me,
What glorious lending that would be!

SLATONITE MAN VIEWS ROAD WORK.

As H. D. Talley left Slaton Monday morning on his rounds to visit the road work being done in his commissioner district, the Slatonite editor begged the privilege of going with him. First, we drove west fifteen miles to where the county has the steam grader at work on the big lake on the Lubbock-Tahoka road. The fill through this lake is over 1,200 feet long and yet the steam grader plowed up a road-bed and threw up a big high grade across it in three days. That steam grader eats up the earth and throws it around in a way that is truly astonishing.

Next Mr. Talley took the writer over to the Canyon north of Slaton to see what kind of a road is being built through it.

All children troubled with worms have an unhealthy color, which troubles their blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a General Strengthening Tonic of the whole system. Nature will then throw off the worms, and the child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 60c per bottle.
