Wild Mob of 400 Mexicans Runs Out Missionary

American Woman's Bibles Thrown Into Blaze As Huge Bonfire is Struck Up to Celebrate Her Departure After She's Chased Across Country by Natives During the Night

By The Associated Press.

EL PASO, Texas, May 16.—An infuriated mob of four hundred persons of a Durango, Mexico, village, drove Miss Elizabeth Streeter over the terrain during the night of May 4, confiscated Bibles from Miss Streeter's party and used them for fuel for bonfires, according to Rev. Enigdo G. Santos, one of the mob's victims, who made a sworn statement, an English translation of which was received here today by Mrs. J. P. Lancaster, of El Paso, wife of the Methodist presiding elder of the Torreon district.

Miss Streeter's condition is serious, reports from Durango City today said, but she will recover. She is suffering from a broken hip bone, incurred during the chase by the mob.

Without Permission

Rev. Santos' report was considered today by a local committee of clergymen.

Mexican ministers here declared emphatically that persecutions of Protestant missionaries are not done with the permission, expressed or implied, nor with the acquiescence of Governor Jesus Castro or other state officials of Durango.

In Mexico Since Revolt

Miss Streeter has been in Mexico since before the revolution. She is an independent missionary. Her home is in Meridian, Miss.

STONE FAVORS UNIONS MERGER

He Says Newspapers Are Controlled

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Texas, May 16.—Warren S. Stone, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers in his speech before convention officials of the International Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen this afternoon, pointed out the advantages of the proposed amalgamation of the two brotherhoods, advocated concerted political action on the part of the working people, the establishment of co-operative banks by unions and consumers co-operation.

"Both organizations are affected by the same conditions."

Mr. Stone said in referring to the proposed merger.

"The situation confronting both brotherhoods at the present time is the determination of big interests to cripple them. Through control of newspapers the interests that manipulate industries have succeeded in misrepresenting railroad men and their aims to the public.

"One of the aims of this propaganda is to fill the public mind with the idea that the railroad man is being paid enough wages. This is not true. The railroad man's wage will not compare favorably with the wage paid working men in other occupations such as the building trades.

Urges Political Move

"There is great necessity for the entrance of workers as a unit into politics, not with the intention of following the lead of the old parties, but rather with determination of utilizing the voting power of the workers to protect their own economic and industrial interests. This can be done by using the old parties as a medium through which to put men in office who will be fair to the working class. Seventy-two per cent of the voters are working people. It is only a question of using their power for them to get anything they want."

INSITS THAT U. S. SIT IN

By Associated Press.

GENOA, May 16.—Further appeals probably will be made to the United States by the allied powers in an endeavor to induce that country to take part in the meeting of the commission of experts at The Hague, June 15. The inviting powers, England, Japan, France, Italy and Belgium, held a meeting this afternoon to consider the matter further.

Dr. Dubbs was elected on the fourth ballot, Dr. Hay on the third, and Drs. Beauchamp and Dickey on the second. The conference then began its fifth ballot of the day with the understanding that the results would not be announced until tomorrow.

Morvich of Seas Warps Into Port

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 16.—The Majestic, mammoth new Morvich of the seas, warped into her pier at 4:05 this afternoon after a trip from England during which she broke existing records for maiden voyages on the Atlantic.

Sir Bertram Hayes, her skipper, who went to her bridge in successive steps from cabin boy in the White Star line had not tried to put the Majestic at top speed during her volage. For two days she had "loafed" then speeding up as she ran into smoother seas, she drove along at a 25.50 knot pace, hitting it up to 26 on the last leg from Fire Island to Ambrose lightship.

Bolivia May Break Up Chilean Peace

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Chilean-Peruvian conference which began its course here only 24 hours ago, amid universal declarations of optimism, encountered signs of unpleasant sailings today soon after two delegations came together for their first executive meetings.

Most prominent among these developments was a decision understood to have been reached by the Chileans to bring the bitterly debated question of the validity of the treaty of Ancon to a sharp issue at the very outset of the negotiations.

Another disturbing element was a reiterated plea by Bolivia that her rights and interests as well as those of Chile and Peru must be considered in any settlement designed to remove causes for unrest in South America.

CULBERSON IS STRONGER THAN HE WAS IN 1916

Miller Says Senator's Favorite by Long Odds

BY H. N. F.

Special to the Record News.

DALLAS, Texas, May 16.—This is the home of Senator Culberson and the home of his campaign manager, Judge Barry Miller. Judge Miller has returned from a political mission in which he covered San Antonio and its territory and Houston and Galveston and contiguous territories.

He has planned a speaking tour of northwest Texas, the Panhandle and the plains country, beginning at Wichita Falls June 6. He directed the campaign for Culberson six years ago and has made the Culberson nominating speech four times as a member of the Texas legislature.

Speaking of the candidacy of the senior senator, he said:

"Majority for Culberson"

"My prediction is that Culberson will be in the run-off and that he will win by a greater majority than he did six years ago. He is stronger everywhere than he was six years ago. He has the support of the leaders of both factions at El Paso and the two leading newspapers of that city are advocating his election.

"Leaving El Paso in the country lying between the Rio Grande river and all along the Southern Pacific railroad until you reach San Antonio, he is the favorite by long odds.

THIS is the first of a series of articles giving readers of Their Growing Record News an insight into political rumblings as the sharp ear of H. N. F., ably-informed political writer, picks them up. Watch for others to appear regularly from day to day in Your Record News.

In the city of San Antonio the leaders of the two wings or factions of the local democracy are supporters of Culberson. State Chairman Frank C. Davis is for Cullen F. Thomas, but he is taking no part in the campaign, owing to the position which he occupies.

"We are confident that the senator will sweep Bexar county and the surrounding territory on July 18.

"Galveston is a Culberson strong

WHOLESALE GAS GOES UP AGAIN

Price Boosted by Big Companies

Gasoline is up another cent—but not to the consuming public, as yet. The wholesale price has been boosted by the big companies, but they have passed the buck to the independents to pass it on to the public.

Retail prices at the big company filling stations did not make the advance that has usually accompanied the wholesale advances—at least before the sweeping investigations ordered following the last boost.

The proposition before the little fellows—most of the retailers are little 'fellows'—is either to take the lead in advancing the price to the consumer, or have the margin between wholesale and retail prices clipped so thin as to drive him out.

The additional cent means 14 cents more for the refiner on his barrel of crude, and it means that the gasoline obtained from the barrel of crude will more than pay for the crude, and will go a long way toward paying the price of running it through the plants and almost clears fuel oil and kerosene. It makes an increase of 56 cents per barrel in the gasoline return from a barrel of crude since the posted price of crude has been raised. It is a big thing to the independent refiner—until the companies which fix the price "bust" the crude market again and wipe out that margin, an event which is believed to be not far distant now.

LOVE CHARIOT BALKS AGAIN

Left to right: Mrs. May Neary Kelly, Savage, Frolics the common law wife; Mrs. Robert bride of a week

LOVE BUS HITS ROCKY ROUTES

She's Vamp at 91, Hubby Moans

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 16. — Dan Cupid's ol'love chariot, bumping along the rocky road, is being stalled with alarming frequency in the ruts of the marital highway.

Childish flappers, aged vamps and conventions, all are doing their part to put the old bus out of commission for good.

But ever and anon expert matrimonial mechanics, in the form of divorce court judges, manage to patch up the creaking wagon to pass a few more milestones.

A Vamp at 94

One of these, a New York judge recently refused to consider the matrimonial jaunt of Mrs. Mary M. Randolph a failure. Mrs. Randolph is 94. She sought a divorce. Her husband counter-charged that she was a "vamp."

Her plea was refused.

Now It's In Ditch

Right now the "mechanics" are working on the machine of Robert Savage and his bride, formerly Geneva Mitchell, Frolics beauty, which ran out of martial gas after less than a week along the road to happiness.

It's in the ditch and mired with little chance of salvaging it, let alone repairing it.

In the case of Mrs. May Neary Kelly, the machine ran smoothly until after the death of husband-chauffeur in spite of the fact that the Kellys became man and wife by the common law rather than the conventional method.

It's a Stony Road

In this instance the mechanical judge decided that Mrs. Kelly was just as much entitled to a half interest in her husbands' estate as if they hadn't dispensed with the customary "I dos."

And so it goes along the line. Surely Daniel is having a hard and stony road to navigate.

Tariff Backers Defeated in Senate

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The republican tariff bloc, which succeeded in having the finance committee accept most of its tariff rates on products of the farm and ranch, was defeated today in the senate in its first test of strength against the committee. The margin was only three votes, however, and the leaders of the bloc expressed confidence that they would be successful in future efforts as some of their group were absent today or paired.

The test came on an amendment by Senator Johnson, republican, California, to increase the committee rate of six cents a pound on citrate of lime to nine cents.

COALMEN ASK RATE DECISION

Texas Retailers Hold Up Orders

By Associated Press.

GREENVILLE, Texas, May 16.—Asserting that unpertainty caused by delay of the interstate commerce commission in rendering a decision on pending coal freight rate cases is causing stagnation and hindering operations in every branch of the coal industry, the Texas Retail Coal Dealers' association in convention here today, sent a communication to the federal rate making body "importuning" it to "render a decision at an early date."

The communication said retailers are preparing the purchase of coal and even withholding orders from mines until the situation is more settled.

The convention also adopted resolutions requesting the United States department of commerce to take such action "as will, as soon as possible, bring about the promulgation of graduated seasonal regional coal freight rates which are necessary in order to eliminate the present deplorable conditions," with the view of making the coal industry an "all year round business."

DEFIANT LABOR MEN USE FIRE TO TERRORIZE

Building Now Under Construction Is Burned

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Open defiance of the efforts of the police to check an outbreak of labor warfare which has terrorized the city for the last two months, was seen tonight in a spectacular fire which partially burned a 70-apartment building under construction at 7711 Sheridan Road in the heart of a wealthy residence district.

Terrorists Blamed.

Starting just before dark at several points on the first floor, the flames spread rapidly through the $500,000 structure and practically all the fire fighting appartus in the northern section of the city was called out before it was brought under control with half the building lying in ruins.

Workmen employed on the structure were working under the Landis wage award, and the police declared that the fire was but another step in a campaign of terrorism directed against the award which was made by former Federal Judge K. M. Landis, sitting as mediator in a wage dispute between the building trade workers and contractors.

The award was accepted by the contractors but has been actively opposed by several of the unions which were dissatisfied with its terms.

Caught In Raid.

The fire followed several days of quiet during which police have been checking up a vast amount of evidence seized last week in raids on a number of union headquarters, the arrest of more than 150 labor leaders and the indictment of eight of them, including Fred Mader, president of the Building Trades council, in connection with the slaying of two patrolmen by four bombers who escaped in an automobile.

Two new arrests were made during the day following reports that a confession implicating several persons had been made by John Miller, owner of the death car from which the policemen were shot.

Miller, according to States Attorney Crowe, has revealed to the police the entire procedure of labor terrorism, telling of orders for bombings and sluggings and carried out by strong-arm mercenaries who received their order from tree of the leaders now under arrest.

ELECTRA FACES UNEMPLOYMENT

Three Men Apply for Every Job

Wichita county oil fields, particularly Electra, are in danger of an unemployment crisis, according to oil operators, who say that there are three men for every job in the field, so great has been the influx of men, both experienced and inexperienced, in the past two weeks.

The first reports of the new strikes at Electra in 1900 foot sand, resulted in workers coming from nearby Texas and Oklahoma fields, in the hope of another drilling boom. Weather conditoins have not been such as to make any great amount of new drilling possible to take up this new labor, and in fact, oil operators say, there was almost enough labor unemployed, or employed only part time, in the immediate Wichita Falls district to care for a normal revival of operations.

Slowing up of operations in various Oklahoma and Texas pools have made the new operations at Electra seem more important that at present justified, and those who are employing oil field labor at this time state that warning should be issued to workmen in other fields, that a change to the Wichita county field, would be without results.

REV. KNICKERBOCKER BROTHER OF WICHITAN IS RESCUED BY YOUTH

Thousand People Flock to Scene of Span Disaster to Take Part in and Witness Work of Rescuers After Collapse of County Bridge With Cars Full of People

By The Associated Press.

MARLIN, TEXAS, May 16.—Two bodies recovered and two prominent Marlin citizens, Frank Stallworth, mayor, and Dr. W. H. Allen, missing, with the general belief that the death toll will reach 12 or 15 when all are accounted for, was the aftermath at midnight of the collapse of the Marlin-Belton bridge, five miles west of here, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

When the big double span bridge across the Brazos river gave way it carried with it about 30 persons who had gathered to watch some repair work on one end of the structure.

The two bodies recovered tonight were those of Mrs. C. Moseley of Beaumont and J. B. Briggs 7-year-old, both bodies being recovered about half a mile down the river. Mrs. Boseley's neck was broken.

Both Mayor Stallworth and Dr. Allen are known to have gone down with the bridge. Some eye-witnesses say they observed Mayor Stallworth several hundred yards down the river, his face bloody and apparently exhausted. No trace has been found of either man.

Thrilling escapes are recounted by those who were rescued and by those who were fortunate enough to swim to shore. Dr. H. W. Knickerbocker, pastor of the Methodist church, was seen to relinquish the plank which he was holding to some one who was not a good swimmer as he. After he had gone a mile or more down the river he was saved by a boy. Dr. Knickerbocker is a brother to Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker, of Wichita Falls.

J. T. L. Jones, who rescued the body of Mrs. Moseley tonight, is suffering numerous bruises from his battle with the current and drifting wood.

Others rescuer are: Herbert Rive, Charles Phipps, C. M. Jeter, Frank Konosky, George Falkner, J. T. L. Jones, Charles Ottorf, and three negroes.

Immediately after the crash, those who witnessed the collapse, sounded the alarm and rushed to the falls five miles below and to the bridge at Cedar Springs, ten miles below with ropes and boats in the hope of rescuing the victims of the crash at these places.

The collapse which carried the victims into the Brazos flood waters, carried with it also a huge truck and another automobile. It is not known whether drivers and occupants of either were rescued.

Rescue work is being carried on into the night, with over 300 men lining the banks and attempting to navigate the heavy waters with boats.

Rescuers, relegated from crowds on the banks which were watching work on the bridge just before the structure collapsed, worked frantically after the disaster had occurred to bring men, women and children, visible in the swirling waters and holding to logs and driftwood, safely to the bank.

As many as a dozen persons were swept to the Brazos falls, more than a block below the bridge and were caught as they fell over the short incline in distance, about 8 feet over solid rock.

A meeting of Falls county commissioners had been held at Marlin this morning to plan reconstruction of the approach to the west end of Belton bridge which gave way Monday at midnight.

Scores of people during the afternoon accompanied workmen and commissioners to the bridge to view this work of reconstruction and inspection. This accounts for the large number that was on the bridge at the time it collapsed.

MAN KNOWN IN WICHITA STOOD ON DEATH TRAP

Brother of Local Pastor in Disaster

Rev. Herman W. Knickerbocker, of Marlin, brother of Dr. H. D. Knickerbocker and a recent visitor in Wichita Falls, had a narrow escape from death when he was carried into the water in the collapse of the Brazos river bridge between Marlin and Belton and was carried a mile and a half down the river before being rescued, according to information received by his relatives here. Mr. Knickerbocker is an expert swimmer, but he had been exhausted by the buffeting he got in the water before he was rescued. Except for the exhaustion, Mr. Knickerbocker was apparently none the worse for his adventure.

The Marlin preacher is the oldest and probably the most widely known of the three Knickerbocker brothers, all Methodist pastors.

He is widely known for his eulogy over the body of the dead gambler, Riley Granan delivered during the days of his adventure in the Nevada gold fields.

First Wife of Relentless Rodolph'd Like to Do Something About Lover's Annexation of Dancing Girl as No. 2

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, May 16.—Jean Acker, film actress, from whom Rodolph Valentino, film actor, obtained an interlocutory decree of divorce January 10, 1922, said last night she "would like to do something" because of his marriage at Mexicali, Lower California, Saturday, to Winifred Hudnut, dancer and film art director, known professionally as Natacha Rambova.

"I shall take the matter up with the authorities," said Miss Acker, who according to the judges of the Los Angeles county superior court, still is Mrs. Valentino and will be until, if nothing happens to prevent, the interlocutory degree is made final, January 10, 1923.

According to Judge J. W. Summerfield, such a marriage as that contracted by Valentino and Miss Hudnut is bigamous.

FLAP FLAPPERS 'N FALL FOR FUN OF FAILURE!

Daring Damsel Desired by Idolizer Who Would Wed

The pretty girl story in Sunday's paper started something.

Local "beau brummell" writes in agreeing with all that was said about the girlies, but seems to have been unsuccessful in attempt to land one.

Prominent question in the letter asks "How can a busy man find one that is looking for a home?"

Fellow goes ahead to explain that he's in a position and willing to provide home for one, but qualifies that confession that she must be one of the genuine kind.

The fact that business keeps the correspondent from being able to find one seems more or less ludicrous, except for the fact that he further states he's out of town most of the time.

Seems he could surely find time to spend a few minutes on a busy corner some day and pick one out for himself that way.

He suggests that if Record News can't answer the question, then why not ask through the paper "the how."

Girls here's a chance to reveal the secret of your heart and tell how you'd be wooed, wed and won. Not only that, but it will tip the faint-hearted bachelors off as to how to proceed. Your answer may likewise befriend your chum as well as yourself.

Writer of the query asks that name be kept out of print, but it is on file in the Record-News office.

Other communications will be treated with the same confidence.

RICE MEN MAY BREAK RECORD

Baylor and Oklahoma Boys Lose

By Associated Press.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., May 16.—Only the preliminaries of the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash were run in the first afternoon of the southwestern track and field meet here today.

Southern Methodist university of Dallas, Rice Institute of Houston, the University of Texas and Texas A. and M. had decided advantage in these dashes. Arkansas secured the right to enter one man in the finals of the 220-yard dash tomorrow, but Oklahoma A. and M. and Baylor university were left out of the finals.

Lindsey of Rice bids to break the conference record in the 100-yard dash tomorrow. In the first heat he was an easy winner, finishing several yards ahead of Stinnett, Texas university and Smith, Texas Aggies.

Abe Lincoln of S. M. U., who is more or less a dark horse in the meet, was an easy winner in his heat of the 880-yard run, and tied for first with Goss of Rice, in the first heat of the 220-yard preliminary. Perry, of Arkansas, seems to have little chance even to place in the 220 finals which means that the four Texas entrants in the meet excluding Baylor, should make a clean sweep of the event. Present indications make the meet a contest between the University of Texas and Texas A. and M. with Rice having an excellent chance to secure third place.

The fact that Oklahoma A. and M. did not place in either of the dashes, however, does not by any means eliminate the men from the sooner state from the contest. Their main strength lits in the weight events. Pickle of Arkansas at present seems to loom as the Razorback's best winner. He has equalled some of the conference season records in the hurdles and high jump.

CULBERSON—

hold and the Culberson organization in the island city is made up of the leading citizens. All admit that he is far in the lead and it is conceded that he is very much stronger than he was in the campaign for his fourth term. There is absolutely no question about Galveston or Galveston county.

"Culberson has always been strong in Harris county and despite the klan issue, he is strong there today, with powerful leaders pushing his organization and his cause. We have a Culberson organization in the city of Houston that is satisfying as well as gratifying and our man has the support of the leading daily newspapers.

"The Culbersons have ever been popular in east Texas where 'Old Dave' settled when he moved from Alabama to the Lone Star state. He represented east Texas 20 years in the lower house of congress. Charles A. Culberson grew to manhood in east Texas and the first office he ever held was prosecuting attorney for Marion county. Our inside advices are to the effect that he is strong everywhere in east Texas and the Piney Woods and in all the gulf coast section of Texas. There is no speculation about it.

"Mayfield Will Lose"

"Culberson's friends are confident that he will be the leader in the July primary and win by a large majority in the run-off. They were of the opinion first that Thomas was the man they would have to defeat, but now the signs point to Mayfield getting in the run-off with Culberson and they welcome it. Then there will be a straight issue and the lines will be drawn. Mayfield will go down in defeat."

This is the home of Cullen F. Thomas. His campaign manager and his followers are just as confident as ever that their favorite will be in the run-off.

They say his friends are organizing in every county in Texas, that he has made a marvelous speaking campaign, that he will be on the road until the day before the July primary, making from one to three speeches a day and that despite all the claims to the contrary, he is gaining instead of losing strength. He will close with a whirlwind campaign in the blackland counties and the cities of Fort Worth, Waco, Dallas and the larger towns in central and north Texas.

Col. James H. Lowry of the Honey Grove Signal is a veteran democrat and political prognosticator. He is a great admirer of Clarence Ousley, but insists that it will be no surprise at least if Ferguson runs first in Fannin county, owing to the great number of candidates in the field.

Ferguson opened his campaign at Honey Grove and the stuff he fed to the crowd made it hilarious.

Ousley made a very intellectual speech and discussed the leading issues. There was no hilarious demonstration in the part of the audience.

"What church do you affiliate with?" asked a heckler of Ousley.

"None of your business," was the quick reply.

"I worship my God according to the dictates of my own conscience and cheerfully accord the same right to my fellows."

This reminds the writer as some people have thrusted or attempted to thrust the religious issue into the campaign, that Mr. Ousley is a life long member of the Baptist church, Senator Culberson is a Baptist, Mr. Thomas is a Baptist, Mr. Mayfield is a Methodist, Mr. Henry is a Methodist and he has been told that Mr. Strong is a member of the Christian church. As a matter of course, Mr. Ousley was right. This senatorial contest concerns democrats and the candidates are or should be running as democrats and not as theologians.

WAR ON DIVORCE LAW TO START

Bishop Begins Fight At Reno

(By International News Service)

RENO, Nev., May 16.—Bishop George C. Hunting of the Episcopal diocese of Nevada, implacable enemy of the six months' divorce law, which makes Nevada the mecca of those desiring quick divorce, is organizing another attempt to knock out the objectionable statute.

Bishop Hunting announces that he soon will start the circulation of an initiative petition for the re-enactment of the original divorce law, which, adopted by the legislature in 1913, and repealed in 1915, provided for a year's residence for eligibility to freedom from the bonds of matrimony. It is said that Reno business men complained of a severe slump in trade during the time the one-year law was in effect.

NAVY PATROLS TO HURT RUM

Fleet Is Needed to Stop Hooch

Washington, May 16. — The Volstead law will remain in jeopardy as long as the coast lines are unprotected against inrush of liquor smugglers.

Prohibition officials said recently that to stop the smugglers will make necessary the placing of a gigantic fleet of swift rum raiding vessels into commission.

Most of the whiskey of the pre-war brand now being peddled by bootleggers is obtained from smuggled cargoes unloaded on all coasts. Prohibition officials have practically stopped illicit diversions of real whiskey out of bonded warehouses to other than legitimate uses.

MEXICO AGAIN RAISING STOCK

Blue Ribbon Horses Bought in U. S.

MEXICO CITY, May 16—Visions of an early return to the golden days of stock breeding that existed in Mexico before the days of revolutions have been magnifiede by the enthusiasm aroused by the race meet recently held here.

Before the devastating hand of civil war swept this republic Mexico City was the home of the best carriage and saddle horses and the finest equipage to be seen on this continent. It was rivalled only in France and England. Nearly every afternoon the principal thoroughfares of this oldest American capital were lined with the wonderful turnouts of the most exclusive society set. But war and the advent of automobiles eliminated the horse, and it is only during the administration of President Obregon that general interest in breeding has been revived.

BOOM BAKER

Newton D. Baker

Democrats in Newton D. Baker's home town of Cleveland are urging his return to politics as the democratic nominee for governor next fall. The former secretary of war, if he consents to seek the nomination, will run against Vic Donahey, who was defeated by Governor Davis two years ago.

PREMIER'S WIFE ENTERS POLITICS

Mrs. Lloyd George on Town Council

LONDON, May 16.—Dame Margaret Lloyd George, wife of the Premier, has gone into politics. At the elections for the Criccieth Town Council she easily headed the poll. Her brother-in-law, William George, [illegible] of Criccieth, superintended the voting and was in charge of

For three years now Mrs. Lloyd George will help to make the ward assessments; she will have a voice in the appointment of all local officials; she will be expected to attend regularly the meetings of the hospital, fire brigade and asylum committees. Such matters as the condition of the local pigsties and the condition of the seashore all will come under her notice.

MUSKRAT WINS FIGHT WITH POLICEMAN

MANCHESTER, N. H. May 16—Officer Henry B. Leavitt, of the local police force, received severe bites in the legs and about the hands in a battle with a huge muskrat, which attacked and bit Mrs. Joseph S. Debski as she was walking along the streets of this city with her husband.

Mrs. Debski's screams attracted the patrolman, who rushed to her assistance and succeeded in killing the animal with his night stick. Both Leavitt and Mrs. Debski were treated by physicians, and their wounds were cauterized to prevent poisoning.

WAIT AND PRAY GOSPEL HAS REWARD

(By International News Service.)

CAPE MAY, N. J., May 16—The gospel of wait and pray has finally rewarded the Rott family of West Cape May. For two generations the family has been hoping and praying that a girl be born into the family. The stork harkened to their patient yearning and rewarded Mrs. Edward Rott with a baby girl. A monster reunion and celebration is being planned when the baby is christened. And the inevitable wag arises to ask whether if the baby had been a boy he would have been named Tommy Rott.

NAVY SUPREME IN ITS RADIO SERVICE

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Despite the maulings it has received at the hands of the Armament Conference and Congress, the United States Navy stands supreme today in one respect at least—its system of high-power land stations for radio telegraphy is the most complete of all naval establishments.

The navy's station at Arlington, assigned a wave-length of 17,145 metres, is one of the most powerful in the world.

SCHOOL HEAD GIVEN CREDIT

Judge Carrigan Gives Clark Praise

"Credit to whom credit was due—to Superintendent Lee Clark and his corps of assistants" was rendered by Judge A. H. Carrigan, president of the local school board, in telling the University club Tuesday of the advance of the Wichita Falls schools from near the bottom to the top rank in the schools of the state.

Judge Carrigan with W. R. Ferguson, Mrs. M. M. Adickes and W. B. Chauncey of the school board and W. W. Brown, secretary spoke briefly on the future of the schools after Lee Clark, superintendent had discussed the municipal college, a unit favored by the big university, the home and the smaller colleges as the next big step in education, Mr. Clark took occasion to speak of the plans of the board for "body building" in addition to mind building, and spoke in the highest terms of J. W. Jones, new coach and athletic director.

In addition to the credit accorded by Judge Carrigan to Superintendent Clark and his assistants, and to the generous support accorded by the citizenship here, for the advance of the schools, he particularly thanked the banks of the city. "They advanced the school's credit where no credit was due," Judge Carrigan said, "and their support enabled the schools to run during the trying after boom days when otherwise they must have had to close up."

Mr. Ferguson called attention to the need of the schools for the payment of delinquent taxes, and suggested to the University club that they start a move for the payment of delinquent school taxes. On motion of Luther Hoffman, the club named a committee to work with the board in this connection and Luther Hoffman and Walter Nelson were named by W. J. Townsend, acting presiding officer, for this work.

Mrs. Paul W. Larkin, accompanied by Mr. Larkin and Mrs. Lee Clark, accompanied by her daughters, Leoti and Mary Sypert, rendered vocal solos which were warmly received by the club.

Members of the board in speaking of the school program, and expressing gratification for the support accorded in last Saturday's election, warmly thanked the University club workers for their efforts.

PLENTY OF OIL IN S. AMERICA

Virgin Fields Hold Wealth

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., May 16. Oil resources to the extent of more than 13,000,000,000 barrels, or about one-fifth of the world's total supply, await development in the practically virgin fields of South America, according to Dr. David White, of the United States Geological Survey.

With the possible exception of North America, Dr. White declares, the South American continent is richer in petroleum resources in proportion to its area than any other section of the world.

"Geologic explorations have as yet advanced only a little way in South America," said Dr. White. "Thus far only a few regions have been tapped. Geologists have secured evidence, however, of the existence of high-grade petroleum deposits in the continent and these deposits apparently are very widely disseminated."

LONDON GRABS DIAMOND MART

All Competition Is Eliminated

(By International News Service.)

LONDON, May 16.—London has completely cornered the diamond market of the world.

By the astute financial move the last vestige of competition for the rough diamond market has been eliminated, so that it is absolutely impossible for a single rough diamond to be purchased direct any where in the world ouside two blocks of buildings—one on either side of Holborn Viaduct, London.

For a long time the output of the world's diamond mines has been falling more and more into fewer hands but there remained, up to a few days ago, at least two big channels of disposal, and there was competition between the markets of London and Antwerp.

KU KLUX BARRED FOR OPEN MEETING

(By International News Service.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 16.—The Ku Klux Klan has been banned from holding public assemblies in Huntington. Four men garbed in the white regalia of the order rode through the city on horseback advertising a meeting. No interference was encountered until they sought to engage a hall, whereupon the police took a hand. The Ku Kluxers attempted to engage a hall at Twentieth street and Third avenue for the meeting, but the police denied them permission to use a hall in which to address sympathizers.

CITY BUREAU OFFERS WORK

Five Placed; Other Jobs Open

Vacancies for several men who want work were announced last night by city officials. The positions can be obtained by applying to the city employment bureau, which has been established at the police station.

The employment bureau came into being Tuesday at noon, and five men, who were the only applicants seeking work yesterday, were immediately placed and have gone to work.

The agency has been instituted at the suggestion of the new police court administration, who urged the establishment of such an organization in order to segregate the professional vagrants from the men who really desired employment.

City officers stated last night that several vacancies on farms near the city and other kinds of labor can be obtained by applying at the headquarters.

SCOTLAND MAY GET EXTENSION OF LINE

Scotland addition may soon realize its cherished ambition to have an extension of the street car line—an ambition which has been near realization several times in the past. A. L. Huey, one of the promoters of the addition, indicated while at the city council meeting Monday night. Property owners along the route toward the river from the point the line will branch from the present system, Sixth and Indiana, going down Sixth, have about agreed to the help which will be required by the traction company, he indicated. Scotland addition has for some time stood ready to contribute its share—something over $17,000 due as a refund from money posted when water and gas mains were extended to the addition.

TO TRY NEGRO

Breaking the plans of the week, and because the civil docket of the 89th district court would have been idle otherwise, the criminal case of the State vs Joe Norris, negro, will be begun before Special Judge George Smoot this morning.

Norris is charged with forgery in two cases. The state alleges that the negro forged the name of another negro to two checks amounting to $7.50 and $12.00.

YATES ARRESTS BOY

W. A. Stoner, a 16-year-old lad who says his home is in Oklahoma City, was placed under arrest Tuesday by Juvenile Officer R. L. Yates and placed in the county jail on a charge of theft.

Officer Yates stated yesterday that the youth had been arrested in the Maxwell Hardware company store, where he had just acquired a pair of tennis shoes, the property of the store.

The shoes, the officer declared, were found sticking in the lad's overalls. He admitted, according to Mr. Yates that he had stolen them.

Sheriff Charles W. Peters refused to heed the pardon issues by Gov. Len Small and free six women strikers sent to Cook county jail for contempt of court. But he has made every arrangement for the comfort of the women, several of whom have their babies in the cells with them. "It is the opinion of the sheriff and his attorneys that the governor has no jurisdiction in contempt cases. Every one seems to want to get the women and babies out, but no one seems to know how to go about it. Six women and four babies are being held in the jail.

LEE STREET MAY BE GRAVELED SOON

Lee street, one of the first residence streets of Wichita Falls, but in late years largely overshadowed by the growth of the city to the west and south, may soon be graveled, it was indicated at the meeting of the city council Monday night.

The matter is not in shape at present to be acted on, it was indicated by Commissioner Clifford, when a petition for the graveling, signed by a number of property owners, was referred to him. A more general representation of property owners along Lee street must enter the agreement before it will be in shape for definite action, he declared.

CAMPAIGN FOR NEGRO SCHOOL

Dickson Orphanage Asks $5,000

Wichita Falls today and tomorrow is the scene of a campaign to raise $5,000 for the Dickson colored orphanage at Gilmer, Texas, according to plans made at a meeting of the financial committee of the orphanage held Tuesday morning in the office of G. Clint Wood, one of the directors. This orphanage is an institution that has had the interest of a large number of Wichita Falls business men for a number of years, the financial committee being composed of local men, including J. A. Komp, J. W. Culbertson, J. I. Staley, J. C. Hunt and G. C. Wood. W. E. Dickson, the founder and superintendent of the orphanage is in Wichita Falls, and will remain through the campaign which will be conducted by the members of the executive committee.

More than $2,000 of the desired $5,000 was secured on Tuesday, according to the report. Mr. Kemp makes an annual donation of $500 to the institution. Reese Allen and J. I. Staley also made donations of $500 on this occasion. J. C. Hunt gave $250 and J. W. Culbertson and H. M. Waggoner made contributions of $100 a piece, according to the report made Tuesday night.

Three thousand of the required amount will apply on the land notes, and the remaining two thousand will go into the maintenance fund. This effort is made at this time, according to the report to secure a donation of $25,000 for permanent improvements from the general board of education of New York, and from other northern sources. This gift was made condition upon the Dickson orphanage raising $28,000. Of this amount $17,000 has been secured in Dallas, leaving a remainder of $11,000.

The institution has a farm named for J. I. Staley, and an orchard grove named for P. P. Langford, both liberal patrons.

The Dickson orphanage is a somewhat unique institution, and one that commends itself particularly to southern and western people. W. L. Dickson, the founder, originated a plan of training orphan negro children to become domestic servants and farmers, or giving them a thoroughly practical education to fit them for making their own living. There are now nearly 300 in the home, and there are several hundred more desiring admittance, who can not be accommodated with the present buildings and financing.

Link in 1900 Pool Being Made

An important link in the connecting up in the same pool of the old 1,900-foot producers on the Collett, with the new discoveries to the north, on the Waggoner and Burnett, is provided in the No. 4 Waggoner of the Planet Petroleum company, now completing a good-looking oil sand at 1,920 feet. The well was not cleaned out on Tuesday, and estimates of the production could not be made with any accuracy.

The new well is about 2,000 feet west of the Gulf's Collett wells, and about the same distance south from the big 1,900-foot wells of the Planet and Texas company. It is between the Carteret and Griswold 1,900-foot wells which were considered wildcats several weeks ago.

TURNING TO LAW AND ORDER

WHEN first organized labor began its systematic attack upon the injunction process in industrial disputes, one of the most striking and forceful of the criticisms applied to the program was that it lacked common sense. The principal blunder it contained was the assumption that courts would employ their power in but one direction, editorializes the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Last year garment makers in New York, disregarding the Clayton act and the platform declarations of the American Federation of Labor, applied for and obtained an injunction against their employers restraining them from breaking a contract as to wages and hours of employment. The judges acted promptly and in determined fashion. Since then other groups of workers have seen fit to seek out the same remedy and have found the judiciary not only equitable but generous.

What is being learned from this lesson is that the injunction is a bogie and that the opposition to it cloaked a cleverly concealed desire to employ force rather than reason in the settlement of these disputes. Capital, which is also privileged under natural law to use force in its own behalf, usually has sought the more peaceful means, thereby gaining the powerful support of public opinion. The public does not like rioting and brawling.

Intelligent labor is beginning to perceive this advantage and, casting aside the false doctrine of assault upon and ignoring of the calmer methods of the courts, is establishing itself upon a plane where it can also bid for the good opinion of the community. The golden truth of the maxim that this is a "government of law and not of men" is being impressed upon the minds of the rational leaders.

HE IS 60 NOW

A WASHINGTON correspondent says if Mr. Beveridge returns to the senate next March for a third term he will no longer be the boy orator of the Wabash that he was when first elected at the age of thirty-six. This year finds him celebrating his sixtieth birthday. Indianapolis dispatches already croon of a Beveridge presidential boom for 1924. He has one quality that never can fail to appeal to a republican national convention—he's from Ohio by birth.

Mr. Beveridge's monumental "Life of John Marshall" enjoys great vogue in Washington, especially in the international set, where it is regarded a masterpiece of American biography and history entitling its author to genuine literary distinction.

Senator Beveridge, a widower at the time, was married in Berlin to Miss Catherine Eddy, of Chicago, in August, 1907. The wedding took place under the auspices of the American embassy, of which the bride's brother, Spencer Eddy, was counselor.

SIMMONS' PREDICTION

INCREASED taxation, extortionate prices, sky-high profits—the return of the profiteers and profiteering of the world war—will follow the enactment of the McCumber tariff bills, Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking democratic member of the senate finance committee, charged in the senate in a minority report.

Simmons predicted that the "unheard of impositions" of the bill would impose between 3 million and 4 million dollars a year upon the American people, for the "benefit, relatively speaking, of a mere handful who fear they cannot maintain their present high prices and profits and still further swell them at will, unless the people are taxed further."

LIVE ISSUES

"THE senatorial contest has reached the point where the people can discern something of the intent and view of the several candidates. I hope they will form their judgment upon the true and not the false issues, upon what ought to be done in the next six years and not what has been done in the last six years, upon what can be done and what cannot be done."—Clarence Ousley, candidate for United States senate.

Near Geneva they have killed a bird with a bill 16½ inches long. It sounds reasonable, but Europe has grown accustomed to astonishing bills.

DR. CRANE'S EDITORIAL

FROM NOISE TO MUSIC

THE progress of mankind is from noise to music.

Even as the development of the universe is from chaos to stars, from nebular drift to planetary orbits.

Carlyle said something to the effect that every truth is musical.

The most distressing fact about our cities is that they are noisy.

The streets are full of the din of trucks thundering over rough cobble stones, of street cars and elevated trains crashing along in deafening violence; and, as if this were not enough, the newsboys and hawkers add their human stridence to the wild cacophony.

It is a wonder that human beings can adapt themselves to this racking clangor, and that we can have any gentle thoughts whatever, or any acts of order and of peace in the midst of such uproar.

There is one reason why this noise is permitted, and that is that we are all still such savages and so thinly veneered with civilization that we like it. We even take pride in the city's intolerable racket and are lonesome when we have to sleep in the country unaccompanied by any sounds except those of the katydids.

One of the most recent additions to the civic hubbub is the brazen throated automobile horn. What the motor car has gained in the silence of its rubber tires it has made up by the shrieking chorus of its sirens.

A celebrated nerve specialist has declared that if something is not done to mitigate the tooting of motor horns nervous disorders will seriously increase, and he even claims to have tracked a new malady which he blames entirely upon the discordant blasts from taxicabs.

The remedy he suggests is simple.

He would have a law passed making it compulsory to tune all motor car horns to the arpeggios of a certain key. Thus, if the key of C be selected, one taxicab will be tooting in C, taxi Number 2 will be yodelling in E, Number 3 will take the more strenuous note of G, while Number 4 might complete the octave with a high C.

If something like this could be done, the thick stream of automobiles along Fifth Avenue might be 'one grand, sweet song." And instead of the roar of the street drowning one's conversation and stunning one's thought as if with a combination of the cries of all the beasts escaped from a menagerie, the bombardment of a besieged city, the tumult of Niagara, and the wrath of all the angry gods of Olympus, we ladies might do our shopping to the music of the band, even as we take our lunch to the seductive pleasings of the orchestra.

Here, boy, bring us the Thesaurus. We need words. Viola! Enough of this loudness, hubbub, bobbery, fracas, charivari, tintamarre, multisonous clangor, obstreperousness, jingle, chink, clank, guggle, and reverberance, this sibilation, sternutation, hiss, buzz, whiz, rustle, snuffle, sizzle, swish, creaking, stridor, and cacoepy, this grating, jarring, piping, twanging, jangling, yelping, and squealing, and give us that music which is the "speech of angels" and "will sing the savageness out of a bear."

Very likely the photographer gets the joyous smile on Taft's face by reminding him that he isn't president now.

This put-and-take craze is beginning to affect the collection plate. Too many put a nickel and take a quarter.

The nations are inclined to be generous, but Germany is warned that the line of least resistance is a chalk line.

The total amount of hate in the world that isn't occasioned by envy is something less than one-half of one per cent.

Well, if the public should keep up the highways for freight-carrying trucks, why shouldn't it keep up the railways?

After government devises a way to control sound waves, it may feel encouraged to take a little interest in crime waves.

WAITING FOR AN EMERGENCY

THE DAILY STORY

THE GARDEN GIRL

Leah Sanders stood at the window and looked out at her garden. It was a moist May morning and there were things pining to be set out—whole boxes of delphinium and nicotina and sweet allyssum. Such another morning might not be for getting tender young plants into soil where they would grow and beautify the earth. Then there was the matter of the hybrid tea roses. They needed dusting with slugshot, for insects were rioting to the extreme detriment of some promising buds. A moist morning was the best time for shooting at slugs and aphides, and Leah adored her roses.

In spite of these urgent tasks and entire willingness and strength to perform them, Leah decided to keep out of her garden until the sun came out. For unless the sun shone one necessarily endangered the smartest gardening costume in the world. Leah had chosen that costume after careful thought. It had cost her a pretty penny, too, and she had no intention of spoiling it the first day it rained. As for wearing anything else—why, that was impossible. For to do so might be to miss her chance irreparably with the only man she had ever found whom she considered worth while.

Until King Downs came to live with his aunt, Leah had never given much thought to Mrs. Jayne, who lived next door to a towering white house, a house that quite looked down on the Sanders cottage, and who sometimes also looked down on the cottage's inmates. King Downs had a fine position in the bank, and as his hours were not arduous he spent a great deal of time on the porch overlooking the garden wherein Leah toiled. Sometimes he even leaped the porch railing and the fence and came to Leah's aid when a rose vine presented a teasing tangle or there were a good many weeds to grub out. So they had become very good friends, and Leah was hoping for something more when she bought the garden suit, when she should really have been buying good stout gingham for a pair of work dresses.

Leah's mother was a delicate, gentle little widow who allowed her daughter to do very much as she pleased. There was plenty of money to live on and, because Leah had a passion for flower growing, she was allowed to indulge this passion to the limit. In really with an inconsiderable outlay she achieved remarkable results. Her garden furnished flowers in great quantities to the sick, the aged, the young and joyous. She was never selfish with her possessions. Indeed, in Earlville flowers and Leah Sanders were synonymous terms; when you spoke of one you thought of the other. Pink roses brought to mind a slender, tall young girl with glistening black hair, beautifully designed dark eyes and a lovable mouth. They were Leah's favorite flower.

This morning, although she longed to be among her roses, she would not go unless she could wear her garden costume, and she would not wear that unless the sun shone. For King sat on the porch playing hearts with his aunt. It was a bank holiday and he was at home.

Suddenly Leah saw him spring up as if in impatience and leave his aunt. He took his hat and went from the house. Mrs. Jayne sat a few minutes riffling the cards through her plump, white hands. Then she arose and entered the house.

A moment later the telephone bell rang in the room where Leah was standing. She turned and went to the instrument and took up the receiver.

"Is this you, Leah?" It was Mrs. Jayne's deep voice. "Can you come over for a moment? I want to see you."

Leah repeated the message to her mother, who was in the next room sewing. "She was really gracious. What can it mean, mother?"

"Gifts from the Greeks—" Mrs. Sanders stopped. "Oh, dear, I didn't mean to say that."

Leah ran out of that house and across to the other. Mrs. Jayne came out on the porch. "So flushed, my dear! You hurried."

"I ran. Running is a little quicker than walking."

Mrs. Jayne laughed. "I noticed your Russian violets are more luxuriant than ever," she said. "I wonder, my dear, if you will sell me a bunch—a large bunch."

"I'll give them to you." Leah flushed deeper.

"No, I prefer to pay you. I want them for a special purpose." Mrs. Jayne paused. "I want to give them to Miss Lowden."

"Miss Lowden"" Leach's color went like a flash. Miss Lowden was the belle of the town and the bank president's daughter.

"As a little gift of love since, I expect, she is soon to become my niece-in-law. King—"

Mrs. Jayne paused. Perhaps she was struck by something on Leah's face. The girl she thought, however, was holding herself in admirably.

"Of course, you shall have the flowers," she said. "I will go right home and pick them. But you must not pay for them, Mrs. Jayne."

Her mother was waiting for her. "Well, what did Mme Jayne want"! she asked.

"A bunch of violets to give to Rhoda Lowden. I think she is going to marry King." Leah smiled in a tired way. "I'm going to pick them now. But I shall change my dress first," she said.

She went upstairs and put on a faded and shrunken blue gingham and her old garden shoes—the shoes she had worn before King came—and a red sweater to keep off the rain. Red and blue were not a good combination. But Leah was not thinking of color today. She took the beautiful garden suit and thrust it into a drawer and turned the key "I shall never wear it again," she told herself. "What a fool I was! I might have known that it would be Rhoda." Then she went out into the garden and began to pick Russian violets as fast as she could. It came to her that they would be spoiled for her forever, but Mrs. Jayne should have the flowers, and she should not pay for them. Why, to accept pay for them would be like accepting pay for drops of one's heart's blood.

Leah had picked a hundred violets perhaps, when she heard a sound behind her. A hand fell on her shoulder.

"Do you know it's raining and that you're getting wet?" said King Downs.

Leach had not known it was raining. "I'm very busy," she said. "Go away."

"Mayn't I stay and hold my umbrella over you?"

Leah shook her head. "Please go, King. I really mean it."

"Then I shall stay and help you, and get wet, too." He flung the umbrella aside and knelt beside her. "What generous impulse prompts you to gather violets in the rain?" he demanded.

"These violets," answered Leah, "are to go to Rhoda Lowden. I'm picking them for your aunt. And you know why she wants them."

King sprang to his feet, then stooping, made her arise too. "Aunt Flavia said she was going to?" he muttered. "I didn't believe she would. Listen, Leah. Whatever plans my aunt makes in regard to Miss Lowden can have no weight with me. For I have made my own plans, and you are in all of them. Do you understand, Leah?"

As her face took back its look of joy, King went on to tell her what those wonderful, beautiful plans of the future were.

"My garden girl, my all-year-round girl!" he said tenderly. "There's Aunt Flavia on the porch now. We'll take her the violets—and tell her that we're engaged."

ROOTS OF PREJUDICE

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE.

Prejudice—defined in the dictionary as "an opinion or leaning adverse to anything, without just grounds, or before sufficient knowledge"—is admittedly one of the greatest of all causes of human misery and suffering.

It has rent communities in twain, has hurried nations into war. Households have been wrecked by its malevolent influence. Countless are the individuals it has cheated of the well being and happiness that were their right.

Long has it been inveighed against by philosophers and poets. Nor does one have to be philosopher or poet to recognize the evil it has wrought. Yet still it lingers in the civilized world—even in its most direful forms of religious prejudice, race prejudice, political prejudice.

And it has lingered because all efforts to overcome it have been directed at its ugly blossomings rather than at its roots. There it must be attacked if it ever is to be conquered.

Its roots—where are they to be found? In the life of the home.

Prejudice, understand well, is not a thing of sudden growth. It is no more of sudden growth than is the human being of whom it takes possession. And, as a rule, it begins to take possession of him when he is a little child—and grows up with him.

If only parents would appreciate this.

If only they would remember that whatever they say and do in the presence of their children may give color and direction to all the thinking of their children; and if, remembering this, they would guard themselves against exhibiting prejudice to their children, then indeed prejudice would begin to loosen its grip on the hearts and minds of men.

As things stand, prejudice too often is instilled into children before they are fairly out of their cradles. Unkind remarks, jeering words, absurd misstatements directed against this or that person, this or that race, religious denomination, or political party are uttered in children's hearing, sometimes dinned into their ears.

Inevitably the result is that the children become as prejudiced as their parents—perhaps a bit more prejudiced.

Which contributes neither to the happiness of others nor to their own happiness. The prejudiced, as a matter of fact, are hampered in all their thinking. The more prejudiced they are, the less likely that they will progress in life, even in a material way.

Parents really solicitous for the future welfare of their children—parents patriotically desirous of seeing those children develop into citizens of a type making for the prosperity of their nation—will do well to remember this.

They may not be able to free themselves from prejudice. But they can at least restrain themselves from passing on to their children the virus of prejudice. And the children, the nation whereof the children are members, will be infitely better off in days to come if the children's parents do exercise this commendable self-restraint.

Rippling Rhyme

MORAL SAUSION.

James Baxter Twigg, drank lemon pop; prune crush and onionade, and other deadly kinds of slop, of drugs and dyestuffs made; I felt that if he didn't stop they'd plant him with a spade. And people roasted J. B. Twigg, they climbed him every day. They said he was a blooming pig to drink that sort of whey; they jawed him till his sorrel wig soon changed to wintry gray. Oh, now and then we see a gent with stubbornness endowed; he is so built he will resent the preaching of the crowd; though in his head we make a dent, that head is still unbowed. I thought it wasn't strictly wise to roast James Baxter Twigg, for there was brooding in his eyes a spirit strong and big, the soul of one who faints and dies before he quits the jig. And so I said to him, "Oh James, your neighbors make you sore and jawing gents and doleful dames have made your life a bore; if you would queer their moral games, you'll do what they implore. For months they have surrounded you, and raised their daily storm, and tried to pound you black and blue with language rich and warm; I often wonder why they'd do, if haply you'd reform." James Baxter Twigg, he winked threwinks, and said, "Your rede is kind and I'll cut out those noxious drinks which have unhinged my mind, and laugh at all the busy ginks who've talked me deaf and blind!"

Little Stories for Bedtime

Watch your chance and seize it quick;
That's the way to do it.
If you don't it may be you
All your life will rue it.

To rue it means to be sorry that you didn't do it. Little Mite, the baby of Danny Meadow Mouse, who had run away and been caught by cruel Black Pussy, saw his chance when the Merry Little Breezes of Old Mother West Wind led a dog, a stranger on the Green Meadows, to where Black Pussy was tormenting him. That particular dog was particularly fond of chasing cats. Right away he saw fun ahead. But he didn't know Black Pussy. She knows all about dogs. Instead of running she arched her back, swelled her tail to several times its natural size, glared at him with eyes that looked to him as if they actually snapped fire, spit as only Black Pussy can, and started straight for that foolish little dog.

Little Mite didn't stop to see what happened then. It was his chance the Merry Little Breezes had made for him, and he took it. He scuttled out of sight in the tall grass. He heard a great yelping and a "ki-yi-yi" growing fainter and fainter across the Green Meadows. He didn't know that it was the little dog running as if for his life, frightened almost out of his wits by Black Pussy. He wouldn't have cared if he had known. All he could think about was finding a safe hiding place for himself, and he struggled through the tall grass as fast as ever he could. Being so little, it was easier for him than it would have been for any one larger.

At last Little Mite had to stop to rest and get his breath. He just had to. Close beside him was a little ridge, where the ground had been pushed up from underneath. It would have looked little to you or me, but to him it looked very big. He climbed up on it and sat down. When he had rested a little he started on, and because it was easier going there he run along the top of this little ridge. He thought it must lead somewhere, and it did. It led to a little mound and in the little mound was a little hole. For a long time Little Mite studied that little hole. It was somebody's doorway. He felt sure of that. But there didnt' seem to be anybody around. He peeped inside. It was dark and quiet and looked very safe in there. Finally he went inside. There were little passages underground, to which he could see no end. Somehow he didn't want to get far away from that little door. So he curled up right on the floor of one of the little underground passages close by the little round doorway through which he had entered.

He was very tired and soon was fast asleep. Of course he had bad dreams. Who wouldn't after a day of such terrible adventures? He was just escaping from a terrible monster, in a dream, you know. It was grinning its teeth in a frightful way, and Little Mite didn't know what to do. Right then, just when the monster was about to seize him, he awoke. It was lucky, very lucky for him that he did. That grinding of teeth was real and not a dream at all. Something was coming very fast along that little passage, and that something was very angry, to judge by the sounds. Little Mite didn't stop to explain that he meant no harm there. He just scampered for that little round doorway and out of it as fast as ever he could. Then, and not till then, he looked behind. A queer-looking fellow had thrust his head outside. Mite couldn't see any eyes at all, and he had the funniest nose. He scolded angrily, and the bright sunshine seemed to make him still more angry. It was very plain to see that he din't like the sunshine, and in a minute, still scolding, he dodged down out of sight.

Little Mite sighed with relief. "I must have been in his house, though who he is I dont' know," said he to himself. "My, it's lucky I didn't sleep a second longer!"

Of course you have guessed whose house Little Mite had taken a nap in. It was the house of Miner the Mole.

INFORMAL FROCKS FOR SUMMER WEAR

By ELOISE

Although sports togs have won a firm hold in the fashion world they will never be able to completely push aside the pretty afternoon frocks for parties and semi-dress. Every wardrobe must have at least one such frock and the fastidious woman will want several. These three models make one wish for summer days right now.

The frock at the left is a simple and girlish frock for garden parties and summer dances. It is made of cream net and val lace. Bands of embroidered net gather in the tiny puff sleeves and form a triangular border on the under blouse and skirt. A moire silk sash with a huge smashing bow is a youthful touch.

Silk drop stitch jersey in a pale gray makes the afternoon gown in the center. It is made with the surplice effect blouse so dear to the matronly figure. The material is used so that the dropped stitch has the effect of striped trimming. The distinguishing feature is the long puff on the sleeves which is caught into a tight cuff of embroidered organdy at the wrist. A collar of the embroidered organdy finishes the gown.

Beautiful indeed is the gown on the left. It is made of that very popular and durable pongee. The blouse and side panels are elaborate-embroidered in silk of the same shade and loose sleeves of georgette to match are a pleasing contarst with the pongee. A narrow silk girdle placed low over the hips completes the costume which is suitable for any occasion from a formal summer reception to a day at the races.

FASHIONS

With the arrival of summer suns comes the demand for wide-brimmed hats, or in any event for hats, or in any event for hats with brims that shade the eyes. Three hats of this type are shown in today's sketch. The upper and middle ones certainly are simple enough to be "assembled" by even the most embryonic milliner. The lower hat is somewhat more intricate in its fashioning.

The one at the top of the group is a fine milan braid, in mushroom shape, trimmed at the side back with two huge, wide-open, pink peonies and some trailing buds and foliage. The centre one of the group is a trifle smaller as to size and a trifle more drooping as to brim. This was shown in a sage-green hair braid, trimmed about the crown with tulips in various colors and graceful pale green tulip leaves. The lower hat was a taffeta modeal, trimmed at the side back with a large cluster or motif of made, not merely artificial, flowers in many shades and colors. The flower motif is laid flat and matlike on the brim and crown of the hat and firmly sewed into place.

This hat is one that an inexperienced and unskilled milliner had better not attempt, but the one who possesses the skill and imagination to develop it will have a very charming chapeau indeed, especially for wear with a summer suit or frock of the tailored type. Such a hat would be lovely, for instance, with a tailored linen frock in a color matching the fabric of the hat or blending with it, or with a white linen suit or frock.

Among the new dress accessories a veil that is particularly kind to a hat as well as its wearer and commended especially for motoring, has a centre of loose mesh, which holds the flowers or other trimming of a hat in place without concealing them, and with a very deep chiffon border, which may be draped over the face and about the throat.

BEAUTY SPOTS

No. 1.

Wichita Falls, "the city that faith built" is filled with beauty spots, homes, streets and yards, flower laden and colorful. One stretch of street is particularly attractive and calls forth admiration from many strangers who are guests in the city and take a street car ride to the pleasure resort "Lake Wichita." This beauty spot is at the end of the car line where it curves on its journey into the suburbs and on to the lake. The middle of the street between the pavement is left for flowers, and after being worked and enriched was planted in cannas, daisies, grass and other shrubbery. This spring the torrential rains have caused the shrubbery to grow and blossom, giving this section of the city the appearance of a huge flower garden. A small triangle-shaped park near the Ninth street parking is an added attraction, where benches and swings are arranged for children, and several beds of brilliant roses give the needed color. The nook is both beautiful and restful, a furnishes a delightful place for children of the neighborhood to spend many pleasant evenings.

A stranger in the city remarked to his host, that the section of the city described, reminded him of Los Angeles, Calif., the city of flowers.

Tomorrow, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Robertson's verbina beds on Rose street will be described.

PLEAS OF PESTS HIT HARDING

All Wronged Citizens Flock to Him

WASHINGTON, May 16.—History fails to record in the many volumes entitled "Lives of the Presidents" one factor that serves to make their "lives" jumpy with annoyance. This factor (he, she or it, as the case may be) is that of the burden-bearers who daily, and often nightly, back into the White House, there to literally "dump" their burden onto the shoulders of the chief executive. More woes and petty griefs are consigned to the president, often by special delivery and more often by personal delivery, than fall to the lot of the most pestered men of the nation.

They run in from all walks of life. Many have legitimate burdens to unload. Some appear to be under the impression that the way in which to win the president's immediate favor is to permit him to incline his ear to personal griefs. The president lends a sympathetic ear to all and seldom fails to offer a well phrased consolation or an assurance that "pronto" consideration will be given the complaint. The complaint passes out one door and then Pat McKenna, guardian angel (without wings) calls out "Next!" and another "wronged citizen," marches in to lay before the president the collected fragments of varied grievances long endured.

YEAR 'ROUND GOLF PLAYED IN JERSEY

RIVERTON, N. J., May 16.—Year-round golf in a northerly climate is enjoyed by devotees of the sticks and bag here on the eighteen-hole course of the Riverton Country club. Even Winter fails to stop the game.

According to Charles C. Miller, one of the members, this condition is due to the peculiar sandy soil over which the course is laid out. Half an hour after a severe rain the course is ready for playing, so rapid is the absorption. At zero the course remains indifferent to the weather, inviting those with hardy constitutions and warm clothing to "tee off."

FOR GOVERNOR

Mrs. W. D. Mowry

KANSAS CITY, Kans., May 16.—Two Kansas women are seeking the nomination for governor of their state. Friends of each claim that their candidate was the first woman in the state to announce her candidacy for gubernatorial honors. Mrs. W. D. Mowry of Kansas City has entered the race and although Kansas looks with disapproving eyes at skirted politicians she believes that the time has come for a woman to head the state officials.

Miss Helen Pettigrew, a young miss of twenty-one, is the other woman who is seeking the nomination for governor. She sponsors a jazz, bobbed hair and the repeal of the Volstead act. Miss Pettigrew's sister is to be her campaign manager. They are republicans.

AERIAL MAIL QUITE ANCIENT

Fact Is, 'Twas Idea Back in 1822

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The idea of speeding up the mail service of the United States by the use of airplanes was first conceived more than one hundred years ago, Postmaster General Hubert Work discovered in a recent inspection of the department's files.

While going through the records of the post office department shortly after he assumed his new duties, Work came across the following editorial, which appeared in the Freeman's Journal (now called the Norristown, Pennsylvania, Herald) of March 1, 1882:

"We would advise the postmaster general to avail himself of the novel and very ingenious flying machine invented by James Bennett of Philadelphia, by which we conceive the mails would be transported with much more celerity and their arrival at the places of destination be much more certain than is the case at present."

GIRL TAKES PULPIT OF HER DEAD FATHER

(By International News Service)

ROCHESTER, N. H., May 16.—Miss Helen Wallace has been extended a call to become pastor of the Free Baptist church at Alton. She is the daughter of the late Rev. O. H. Wallace, who recently died while serving as pastor of the church.

Following his death his daughter supplied the pulpit and filled out the unexpired term, and the church society being well satisfied with her services extended her a call to become the permanent rector of the church. She accepted and has commenced her pastorate.

Spuds Get Bill Fincher When O'Brien Sold to Denver

MONEY TRADES CHANGE FACES OF HOME CLUB

Pitcher Added When Gardener Sold Outright

By "Spike" Cooper

The sale of Ray O'Brien to the Denver club came as a blow to many local fans. The announcement by officials of the Spudder club yesterday morning catapulted as if from a clear sky. Following the final arrangements of the deal Tuesday, culminated by the immediate departure of the south-handed outfielder, left many fans wondering as to the why of the deal which sent one of the best and most liked gardeners out of the league.

The influx of lefthanded pitchers into the Texas league gave the Spudder management something to think about. One of the greatest combinations of left-handed hitters were doing a daily promenade to the plate in Spudder uniforms, that were ever listed on a score-keeper's card. But almost as regularly were south-paw hurlers, heavers being sent to the firing line. As a result, the Spudder standing in the won and lost column dropped from a glorious start at the head of the column to third place. And there was a reason. With Summa, McDonald, Beck and O'Brien coming up in succession at the south side of the plate, left handers dealt the Spuds an abundance of misery.

Too Many South-Paws

It seems that the several managers of the Lone Star loop realize the threat of the Spudders. At the same time they realize the value of left-handed pitching and are fortifying their defense accordingly. The Panthers have the reputable Joe Pate of other days. Gus Johns has been added to their roster by Detroit's return of the wrong-hander. That gives the Panthers a two-day chance at the Spudders. Dallas presents Swartz, Seely and Hill. Billy Smith has slappey and Bird and the Bears under Hub Northen have a couple of good heavers that throw with their left arms. Joe Mathes has Caldera, the Cuban who sent the Spuds into extra innings Monday and announced the purchase of Slim Love, former Yank twirler, from Vernon in the Pacific Coast league yesterday. Houston at present carries but one left-hander, Reinhart, but his debut here last week is a regret to the Spudders. Then, all told, it looked like a Fan year to the Spud management for left-hand hitters.

O'Brien Goes to Denver

O'Brien recognized his weakness. He even admitted it. When Denver proposed the purchase of the stellar fielder, a deal was finally culminated. The club was carrying Bescher, one of the leading outfielders of the league last year, and carrying him on the bench at that. There was little left as optionate when the weakness against left-handed pitching was so apparent. And thus and because has Ray O'Brien gone from us.

Ruth to Get Chance

It is the purpose of Manager Salm to give Ruth further chance to show his skill in fly-chasing. Ruth was an outfielder before he came to the league as a pitcher. His preference has never been mound duty. Of late he has demonstrated his ability to handle the big mit by catching the pitchers in hitting practice. And he's no slouch at that. With Bescher to take care of left and Miller shifted back to center, the outfield will present an offensive strength equal that of any club in the league.

Fincher Purchased

Following on the heels of the announcement of the sale of O'Brien came the announcement of the purchase of Bill Fincher from the Galveson club. Fincher has been one of the most consistent winners in the loop for the past two years. Fincher is a righthander and will add strength to the Spudder staff. So far this season, Fincher has bested the strong Exporter team in two battles.

The tall hurler is due to leave Shreveport some time today and should arrive tomorrow. Fincher's arrival will necessitate the discarding of some present member of the mound corps. Just who will feel the twinge of his coming has not been intimated by Manager Salm. There are five days of grace extended in the case of an addition to a club, and that will give Salm still further opportunity to decide on who will be cut off.

OLD STARS STILL HOLD LIMELIGHT

The good work of Red Faber, Grover Alexander, Carl Mays, Phil Douglas and some of the other star hurlers so far this season draws attention to one attribute most of the veteran stars have which enabled them to hold the limelight year after year.

That is their ability to pitch with little exertion. Many of the stars of the game do not resort to even a semi-windup motion at the start of their delivery! They have an easy, simple style which minimizes the strain on their salary wings.

This same ease of motion helped Amos Rusie, Cy Young, Christy Mathewson, John Clarkson, Tim O'Keefe and the other famous old timers to stand the batters on their respective heads season after season.

Walter Johnson's speed, as terrific as that possessed by an hurler in the game's history, is all the more remarkable when one notices the apparent ease with which he whips his rifle shots across the plate. Rusie got terrific speed with little exertion. Grover Alexander burns them in gracefully and with minimum effort.

As far as ease and grace in throwing is concerned Christy Mathewson without a doubt was the most graceful pitcher in the game's history.

There was poetry in his motions. Never in a hurry, never fussed, and never angered, he threw the ball carefully, deliberately and with the perfect time and grace of an artist.

KELLY PULLS FLUKE DOUBLE

George Kelly, lanky Giant first baseman, was the perpetrator of a trick double play in the third inning of a recent game between the Giants and Braves in Boston. With one out in that inning and Hank Gowdy on first base, Joe Oeschger lifted a pop fly directly over first base. Joe thought the ball was foul and stood at the plate, carelessly regarding it as it soared downward. Gowdy, believing it would land on fair territory, if not in Kelly's hands, bellowed to Oeschger to run, and with his eyes on the batter, scrambled back to the bag. The result was he collided heavily with Kelly as the latter set himself for the catch. The ball fell to earth at Kelly's feet, and George picked it up and stepped on the base in time to retire Oeschger, who had made a belated dash down the base path. Gowdy still was scrambling around a foot or so off the bag, and Kelly put the ball on him, completing a two ply killing of a kind not often seen or heard of.

ARMY AND NAVY SELECTING TEAMS

WASHINGTON, May 15.—The crack shots of the army, navy, marine corps and national guard will begin shortly to select from their ranks the picked rifle and pistol shots who will compete in the national matches to be held at Camp Perry, O., in September.

The early start is necessary, as rivalry for places on the competing teams of the services is most intense, and elimination will be a hard-fought and long-drawn-out affair. The marine corps begins its elimination trials at Guantanamo, Cuba, May 1, the test matches to be held throughout other West Indian stations of the marines and at all their other posts in the country. There will be eight marine competitions in all.

Rivalry in this branch of the service is especially keen this spring, because fully 50 per cent of the representatives of the corps will be chosen from new material.

JESS DOYLE IS FLASH OF VERNON

Out on the coast, Jess Doyle, Yankee castoff, is making a bid for a return trip ticket to the major leagues. And, thanks to the skillful tutoring of Bill Essick of the Vernon Pacific Coast league club, may realize his ambition. His work in recent games has been brilliant.

Doyle broke into the limelight in 1919 while pitching for Greenville in the South Atlantic league. He won eighteen games and lost but six that year and the following season came back for the same club with twenty-five wins and only eight defeats.

Bob Connery, Yankee scout, grabbed him off. Jess proved a failure with the Yanks in 1921, however. They turned him over to Atlanta. After losing five games for that club Doyle was shunted to the Joplin Western league club, where he won thirteen and lost thirteen games.

Then the Yankee owners asked Bill Essick, Vernon pilot, to see what he could do with Jesse. Essien has done wonders. Doyle has shown that he can stand the gaff in the Pacific Coast league—where major league vets obtain a new lease on life and make things miserable for striving youngsters like Jesse.

YOUNGEST PITCHER IN MAJORS

Old timers predict a bright future for Tom Phillips, the Washington American league club's rookie twirler, who has just passed the spring training season. When the Senators were playing the Boston Nationals, the youngster turned in a game good enough to warrant a season's tryout. He justified this confidence early in the regular season and although he had several set-backs it is believed that the recruit from the New Orleans club will make good.

M'NALLY IS IN HARD LUCK

When Miller Huggins obtained McNally in a wholesale swap with Frazee of the Red Sox before the 1921 season, Mike sort o' figured he would break into the infield as a regular. Peckinpaugh was slated to play short, of course, and Wallie Pipp first. But McNally figured he had a chance against Chick Fewster at second or Aaron Ward at third. No such luck. Both boys starred from the start and Mike drew the bench.

Later Frank Baker played third. Then came Mike's chance. Baker was injured. McNally stepped into his shoes and virtually saved the pennant for the Yanks. This spring it looked as though he could grab a regular infield job due to Huggins' outfield situation, which apparently called for the drastic move of drawing from the infield squad. No luck again. Frank Baker is regaining his prowess as a hitting king.

Mike takes it in good grace, however.

He started his pro career with Utica in 1913, draking attention to himself previously as a member of the famous Minooka Blues.

His first year with Utica, McNally was purchased by the Red Sox. They farmed him to St. Paul, where he ran a dead heat with Gerber of the Columbus club for shortstopping honors in the American association.

He played a brilliant game at second for the Sox in 1920 and last year for the Yanks played sixteen games at second and forty-seven at third.

COYOTES CALL AMARILLO TO STRUTT STUFF

Locals Asking How Do They Get That'a Way

BY "HANK" HAYES

Coach Henderson, of the Wichita Hi baseball nine, after reading a statement in a newspaper Sunday, and saw the report that the Golden Tornados of Amarillo high school had the northwest Texas championship and are in the finals for state title, states that Amarillo must have a deal with his proteges before they cover too much territory.

The Coyotes have been putting the harpoon of defeat into school after school and are still in the race, as not one game has been lost by the locals while the Tornados have lost several during their season.

The moguls of the two teams have tried several times to arrange a series, but there was always some conflict, and they had to be postponed. Henderson states that he has challenged them for a three game series for Monday to Wednesday of next week, and hopes to come to some kind of an agreement with them, so his lads will be clear to compete further in the race.

The Coyotes, with their shutout game with Seymour last Saturday, have swamped five strong teams, and now hold undisputed sway over a long list of counties. There is no doubt that the local team has a strong claim for the position and they are going to go their limit for state title.

The Coyote outfield is the strongest in this section, having an average of .500 or better for each regular. Baldwin leads with an average of .579, Haney .571, Clark .500, for the first five games that they have appeared in thus far. The infielders are weaker at the willow than the outer gardeners, but make up for it in their fast fielding. They average something like .300. The pitchers all are showing up better in each game that they work, and it will take a heavy hitting nine that any school could put on the diamond to lambust one of them out of the box. Bourland looks the best of the staff, while Harris and Brashear are in good form and will develop into winners after a little more experience on the mound. The lads are all waiting anxiously to hear the verdict between the two managements in regard to the series.

JAP TENNIS FASHIONS AFTER U. S.

Japan is to have a national lawn tennis umpires' association modeled after the one which has functioned so successfully in this country for the last several years.

Miki Miho, who was prominent in furthering the interests of the Japanese Davis cup team in the United States last season, is in charge of the movement. He is already enrolled as a member of the United States Tennis Umpires' association, being the first Japanese to hold that distinction.

Miho expects to leave soon for Japan with a national championship cup to be offered for competition by his countrymen. The trophy is the gift of Japanese residents of this country.

Miho, according to his close friend and associate, Zenzo Shimidzu, of last summer challenging Davis cup team, as an excellent critic of tennis.

"Smoking is dangerous to the health."
"Under certain conditions, yes."
"What, for instance?"
"When working in a powder factory or when wearing a celluloid collar."

FIFTH GAMES IN TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Twilight circuit teams play the fifth games of their schedule today, if Jup. Pluvius has had his say, and there will be some fast games staged by the evening boys.

The Millers are all set to meet the Christian nine and are putting their best into the match to win a game, as they have had hard luck thus far and have a low standing, but are ready to start a winning streak.

The University club will meet stiff opposition at the hands of the Methodists, but with Scott on the mound for them, they will have a long chance of emerging victorious. The Pond Laundry nine, which has a clean slate is confident that it will make the Legionnaires taste defeat for the first time this season. The Nobles of the Maskat Temple, who are set to play other shrine teams of the state, will have a good nine on the diamond. However, if the Baptists give Henderson proper support, they will have all they can do to take the contest.

The teams are all down to their regular strength and for the last two games some of them have been giving stiff competition.

DOBIE BRINGS HOPE TO CORNELL

The University students and grads are watching the progress of the track and rowing squads this spring without the fear that has hung over them in past seasons that their teams would be successful in these sports only to be buried in the mire of defeat in football.

For Gimour Dobie, once known as the unbeaten mentor of the west, in his two years at Cornell has raised that institution's football team to a par with its other athletic departments. The coming season looks rosy.

Dobie took charge after Al Sharpe and Speedy Rush had failed, over a five year period, to produce a strong eleven. "The Pessimist," as he is affectionately known, went to Cornell from Annapolis where he had coached for two years after being brought from the University of Washington.

His first season at Annapolis the navy team lost one game—to the great naval training station service team, the Great Lakes team winning on a fumble near the end of the game. The following year the middles lost one game but beat the army for the first time in several seasons.

On the Pacific coast Dobie's teams were unbeaten over a stretch of twelve seasons.

COYOTE GRID SQUAD LOOMS UP FOR 1922

Only Four Members Lost From Great 1921 Team

BY "HANK" HAYES"

With the Wichita Falls high school on the verge of closing her doors celebrating the fact that another year has been completed, to cast ones eyes over their athletic accomplishments for the past year reflects that it has been one of the best in a score of years.

Football, the most popular of all scholastic activities, held the strongest sway of all branches. Under the supervision of Coach Harry Viner, the Red and Black gridiron eleven had a glorious season.

Nine games were played by the Wichita squad, five were victories, three scoreless ties, and one and only one was the sad defeat at the hands of the Electra Hi, the winner of the bi-district section of the state.

Two scoreless ties were played at the beginning of the season between Wichita and Bowie, and a week later with Vernon. The third engagement was lost to the Electra Tigers in the last quarter by a score of 7 to 0.

The Red and Black warriors did not have the push to send the oval across the line, but held Electra to the smallest score of any of the games. Another game was played with Vernon, which resulted in a scoreless tie. Then the Red and Black boys began their winning streak; Henrietta, Burkburnett, Graham, Devol, Okla., and the strong Polytechnic crew of Ft. Worth went down scoreless before the crushing attack at the hands of Coach Viners' pupils. Wichita Hi scored 62 points while only one aggregation was lucky enough to plough through her defense and score a touchdown. This is a record that a very few high schools in this state are able to boast.

1922 Prospects

When the new school year begins about Sept. 19, 1922, a squad will report for training that will be the same old 1921 gang minus Capt. Haney, center; "Bruno" Robinson, guard; "Cherry" Johnson, tackle; Hembrie, end; but with Bell, Captain-elect Walker, Coffey, Shaw, Stringer, Brashear, Chewning, Kenley, Moore, Anderson, all proud wearers of the souvenir sweaters given in appreciation by the University club of this city, all back for a glorious season.

Among the new material that will show up and make their presence known are: Howle, West, Tyson, Deems, Bracken, Cauble and Baldwin, who so far have said that they would "come out."

The coaching department will not be neglected either, according to Supt. Lee Clark, as J. W. Jones, coach of Sherman Hi and Southwestern Military college during his career, has been elected as athletic director. From his previous record he will build up a machine that will stop at nothing short of state honors. He has the material and all he needs to do is to show the lads the way that it is done.

Question of Finance

Last season much difficulty was experienced by the financial management of the school about matching games. There was no available park to play until the Rotary club took up the matter and the Spudder park was obtained. No doubt they will try to arrange for the use of the park this season, and ease up the financial question. The school was also considering a budget system for the schools, as this policy is always a success where it is established, and will tide the athletic department splendidly.

The local citizens are not possessed with the football craze that most other towns in this district seem to be, and from the record of winning teams in the state, those that have the strongest support of their towns-people are the ones that fight the hardest and have the best records.

At the recent older boys' conference, one of the speakers of state-wide reputation made the statement that a winning athletic team was the best advertisement that a city could have, and if the boys play this fall as they did last fall, then this city is due to some heavy advertising.

ARCHIE TYLER GETS A BOOST

Chief Compliments Prohi Sleuth

"I am well pleased with the work of Archie Tyler, and I am also well pleased to find that the city police department, under the leadership of Chief J. W. McCormick, is doing such a fine work and acting in harmony with the federal officials."

That was the statement of E. A. Turner, made yesterday afternoon during his stay in Wichita Falls. Turner is group head of the northern, eastern and western Texas districts of federal prohibition enforcement officers.

"Archie Tyler and myself are the oldest employes under the federal prohibition act establishing enforcement offices," Mr. Turner said. "We are the typical pioneers."

Mr. Turner is headquartered in Fort Worth, and is on his regular tour of inspection over his territory. He will go to Amarillo from Wichita Falls.

"The only thing an officer can do," he said, "is to do his duty. I find my men doing that here, and I'm well pleased."

HELIUM WOULD SAVE BALLOONS

Dirigible Experiment May Be Halted

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 16.—An investigation which may revolutionize the flying of lighter-than-air craft in the United States is under way.

On the results of an inquiry being conducted by Representative Lanham, of Texas, into the possibility of producing the non-inflammable as, helium, cheaply and in quantity, depends an attempt to revise regulations governing air lanes and the flight of dirigibles.

If helium production can be increased to the extent that it will be as readily available as hydrogen gas and at but little more cost, congress will be asked to enact legislation preventing the government air service from further experimenting with dirigibles unless helium is used.

If this legislation is demmed advisable after the investigation it will undoubtedly be extended to include regulation over expected future commercial use of dirigibles, Representative Lanham declared.

Steps to make flight of the big cigar-shaped aircraft safer followed immediately in the wake of the disaster which overtook the giant dirigible Roma, owned by the government.

Belief was freely expressed in congressional circles that the toll of life taken in the Roma fall would have been lessened if the craft had been filled with helium instead of hydrogen, which burst into flame and caused most of the deaths.

Lanham points out that the government has a monopoly on the production of helium at the government-owned plant at Fort Worth, Texas. This plant, however, is now idle. The house recently voted down an appropriation of $150,000 to permit operation of it for the remainder of the present fiscal year.

Take Care as You Go to Wed, He Says

Don't get married unless you have mutual consent—of the parents.

That is the advice county authorities gave to all marriage bureau prospects, a couple of whom were dragged into the clutches of the law yesterday, when two angry paters journeyed to Wichita Falls to have their newly acquired sons-in-law placed under arrest.

One of the parents came from Oklahoma, and accused his son-in-law of false swearing. The young man was placed under a $500 bond and the father carried his youthful daughter back to the former Indian territory.

The other son-in-law, however, was a little too wise for the mandates of the statutes. He had his sister obtain the marriage license, and although his father-in-law is seriously angry, the young man seems to hold all the aces.

CHAMP PLAYS POOR BILLIARDS, 'N WINS

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 16. — "Young Jake" Schaefer, world's 18.2 balkline billiard champion, tonight played some of the poorest billiards in his career, but suddenly reversed his form and by shooting in really championship fashion, defeated Welker Cochran of San Francisco in the first block of their 1,500-point match for the title. The score was 500 to 421.

During the early innings the match was so uninteresting that many persons left the hall. Neither man seemed to be able to handle his cue with precision, each repeatedly missing simple shots, although the leaves also frequently were bad. At one time Schaefer scored only 22 points in eight innings, while Cochran was but little better.

Billiardists said the poor play at the start was due to the well known ill feeling between the two, each man apparently trying too hard to win.

The champion finally recovered his form and in the final three innings averaged 120, including a beautiful run of 202. He went out with an 85 in the fifteenth inning, leaving the balls well together for his first shot tomorrow night.

MID-WEST GETS THRU SERVICE TO EAST

(By International News Service.)

LIMA, O., May 15.—Through passenger service from the Middle West to New York is one of the benefits promised through the recent acquisition of the Lake Erie & Western railroad by those who control a majority of the stock in the Nickel Plate and Clover Leaf lines. Junction points along the new route will be established at Frankfort, Ind.; Fostoria, O., and Buffalo, N. Y.

PUG WRITER

Jim Tully

Jim Tully, ex-tramp, ex-pugilist, and ex-scenario reader never quite reached the champion class as a fighter and then he turned to writing. The result is "Emmett Lawlor," one of the featured books of the year.

"Emmett Lawlor" is an autobiographical novel which has already attained a success that is rare to a first novel. Aside from the fact that his book has attained unusual success, Tully is one of the most astonishing literary figures in America just now. The product of an unkindly orphan asylum, he has been a farmer, a stable boy, a hobo on the road, a chain maker, a prize fighter and a tree doctor.

As a fighter Tully was one of the many near champions, whom circumstances have turned back before they quite reached their goal. He was well known in his fighting days throughout the middle west.

MAY MOVE BARNS

Barns and corrals housing the city's large number of teams and its road working machinery may be moved to a more remote section of the city, Mayor Collier indicated at the Monday night meeting of the city council. The barns, located on a now valuable block between Sixth and Seventh at Holliday have become something of a nuisance to the residents of that section, and should be moved. The land on which they are located has increased so in value that it is thought that the city will make money by the move.

Mr. Sullivan's brother was accidentally killed in a wreck in Florida and was brought to Dallas for burial. The funeral services were conducted from the Sacred Heart cathedral.

EVERYBODY IS BUYING THEM

Women Also Among Purchasers

Today is national flashlight day all over the United States.

Have you purchased that new flashlight that you are needing?

All over the states, Americans are buying flashlights, to watch for burglars, to find things in the dark—and sportsmen are buying them to go frog hunting with.

"Women as well as men can see," a certain flashlight advertisement reads; and it is said that practically as many women as men bought flashlights during the past year.

The flashlight is a novel device for the children; the little tot who starts upstairs in the night, to go to his trundle bed, can be trusted with a flashlight. There is no danger of an explosion, and he can carry the light with ease, because it isn't heavy. Statistics gathered by flashlight companies, according to recent reports, indicate that numerous flashlights are sold to customers who want to save their children from possible explosive lamps.

A flashlight under the pillow can quickly be drawn and shot in the eyes of the most bold burglar, and light on any subject of crime turns the boldest of criminals to flight. Flashlights have undoubtedly saved many persons from having to shoot in emergencies when the lights were thrown on the face of a man of the night.

For those who are afraid of the dark—and their number is legion—the flashlight is a blessing. On rainy nights, the flashlight is what people need to find their way from the road.

Recognizing the vast importance the flashlight has come to be in the realm of light, the manufacturers of the device have agreed upon a national celebration—today is that day.

TEACHER WRITES OF STUDENT'S DEATH

On Thursday night, May 11, Ines Grider died at the home of her mother, Mrs. Annie Walton. Her death coming as a blow to her many friends and schoolmates, caused sadness to the hearts of many. Ines as a student was obedient and diligent and won the love and good will of her teachers and class mates. In her class work she stood first. Her future seemed bright. Because of her commendable characteristics, a beautiful bud has been prevented from unfolding. We miss her at school, her presence was a ray of sunshine; we can only mourn our loss and extend our heartfeld sympathy to her bereaved parents; and hope that her short life may serve as an example to many others.

Teacher in Sam Houston School.

KATY SALE OF INTEREST HERE

Line Lost Money for System

Purchase of the Shreveport branch of the Katy by the head of the Louisiana Railroad & Navigation company for the reported consideration of $30,000,000, approved by the railroad commission Tuesday, has provoked interested comment in local railroad circles, entirely aside from its fate the South for a quarter of a century.

The points of interest are two—first the putting of the money involved in the not overfull coffers of the Katy—in receivership for seven years, and the relief of the interest on the bonds figuring in the consideration—and the release of one of the worst drains on Katy earnings. For, the line although it will be of value to the L. R. & N., has cost the Katy more than it earned for them. Its ownership of the line has forced it to handle a large amount of business from Wichita Falls and other Texas districts on which they lost money—the handling of oil tank cars to the Mississippi river for export. This business is a heavy one, it carried a low rate, and the road has never been able to make it pay, losing money on each car. The branch runs from McKinney through Shreveport.

Its sale will deprive the Katy from one distinction, that of entering every point of Texas of 10,000 or over save three.

HIJACKERS STAND TO BE INVADED

One of the local hijackers' favorite stands is to be invaded by a 610 street light in the near future, it was indicated by Councilman Burton Stayton at the meeting of the city council Monday night.

This is at the Burnett street bridge across the Wichita river into Scott land addition—a point where several holdups have been staged in recent months, and right in front of a grocery store, which has frequently been burglarized. The light will be on the near side of the bridge. Four others of the long list of needed street lights will be ordered in at this time, it was indicated—at Tenth and Virden, Tenth and Hayes, Thirteenth and Clark and Twelfth and Marshall.

STEELS PIVOT IN STOCK MART

Money Favorable to Commodities

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Steels again were the pivot around which today's fairly active stock market revolved. Early strength in these shares soon spread to coppers and related metals, also chemicals and miscellaneous issues. Sales amounted to 1,975,000 shares.

Lackawanna steel rose to a new maximum during the forenoon, but announcement of the ratification of its merger with Bethlehem was the signal for an extensive profit-taking movement, Bethlehem also giving way presumably for the same reason.

Rallies at midday occasioned renewed realizing sales later, the final hour being marked by much confusion. Accumulation of the popular steels, oils, American can, corn products and tobaccos during the period was balanced by selling of several of the cheaper equipments and motors.

On the other hand, Studebaker was steadily bought with Maxwell "A".

Baldwin locomotive and Crucible steel were in demand with U. S. Steel at substantial gains, metals also responding to short covering.

Federal mining and smelting preferred was the day's strongest stock, closing at a gain of 7-5-8 points on the declaration of an increased dividend. American smelting also retained the better parts of its gain and Mexican petroleum and United Retail stores helped measurably to sustain in the higher average of quotations.

While the day's operations in steels were uncertain throughout, traders seemed disposed to pay little heed to the call of federal and state investigation of mergers. Their attitude evidently was based on assurances that such combinations are being made due regard for existing laws.

Money and commodity markets were favorable to the long account in the stock market. Copper prices were firmer on the expansion of the foreign inquiry and higher prices were quoted for lead and raw and refined sugars, but intimations of another advance in fabricated steel and iron were not confirmed.

Foreign exchanges were duller than usual, but all the more important remittances displayed firmness, with marked strength in the Dutch rate. Central European bills continue to ease, especially the Austrian quotation, while Czecho-Slovakian bills were not perceptibly benefited by the prospective loan to Prague.

WHEAT PRICES MOVE HIGHER

Corn and Oats Make Gains

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 16.—Buying in the wheat market today assumed the largest proportions witnessed in several months, and there was a decided advance in prices. Traders generally construed the United States Supreme court decision on the Capper-Tincher act as a bullish influence. The market closed unsettled, 2 1-4c to 3 3-8c net higher, with May 1.45 3-4 and July 1.28 3-4 to 1.28 7-8. Corn gained 5-8 to 7-8, and oats half to 3-4@7-8c. In provisions the outcome varied from 2½ to 5c, decline to a rise of 25 cents.

Stimulating market effect of the supreme court decision was emphasized by a sudden upturn in Liverpool wheat quotations, a reduction of 7,799,000 bushels in the world's available supply and by reports that foreigners were purchasing future deliveries of wheat here. Advices were at hand that the Kansas crop was deteriorating, especially late sown wheat.

New crop delivery of wheat showed relatively greater strength than was the case with May. September and being a higher priced record than any time heretofore this season. Receipts of wheat here continue liberal, 225 cars today, and there were fresh deliveries of 263,000 bushels on the contracts. Purchases of 400,000 bushels of wheat to arrive there were reported.

Upturns in the value of corn and oats were ascribed to the action of the wheat market.

Provisions averaged higher in line with hogs.

BOND MARKET.

By Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 16.—Industrial offerings were the active and strongest features of today's bond market, responding to the prominence of those issues in the stock list.

Steels and coppers improved on the ratification of the Bethlehem-Lackawanna deal and the growing inquiry for copper met at higher quotations.

Lackawanna steel fives of 1923 and the United States steel fives strengthened with Chile copper sixes and Cerro de Pascon eights. Local utilities and tractions showed a further disposition to ease, but Pacific gas and electric fives, DuQuesne lights 7 1-2s and consolidated gas 7s improved, the latter later giving away.

Pennsylvania general fives, Southern railway fives and Colorado & Southern refunding 4½s were firm; moderate recessions being made by Seaboard airlines 6s and St. Louis & San Francisco adjustment 6s and 4s.

Buying of Liberty bonds was light but no changes of note occurred in that group. Belgian 7½s French municipals, Mexican 4s and 5s and Philippine railway 4s made fractional gains. Total sales par value, aggregated $15,073,000.

COTTON GOES UP 27 POINTS

July Advances and Closes at 20.45

By Associated Press.

July advanced from 20.13 to 20.60, and closed at 20.45, with the general market closing steady at a net advance of 3 to 37 points.

An opening advance of 4 to 19 points was in response to higher Liverpool cables and overnight buying orders brought in by the bullish weather and spot news of the previous day. There were 89 May notices but May was relatively quiet and steady, selling off to 20.82, or only 11 points net lower, while October declined to 20.10 and December to 20.08, or 28 to 29 points below yesterday's closing quotation.

May sold up to 21.34 and October to 20.61, or 23 to 41 points net higher. Some people live well on little money

THEY know how to buy food, how to cook it and how to keep it so that flavor and nourishment are fully retained. That's the whole secret.

No well-informed housewife, for instance, would be without ice in early Spring. The weather is too changeable; the temperature is too warm. The food might not spoil so badly that it could not be used; but it would lose the appetizing flavor which makes eating a pleasure and it would have less of the nourishing quality which your children especially need.

From now on, ice should be taken regularly. It actually saves money.

Heron by making publication of this citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the 30th district court of Wichita county, to be holden at the court house thereof in Wichita Falls, Texas, on the third Monday in June A. D. 1922, the same being the 19th day of June, A. D. 1922, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 16th day of May, A. D. 1922 in a suit numbered on the docket of said court No. 12788A, wherein B. N. Ferguson is plaintiff, and the parties above summoned are defendants, said petition alleging that on or about January 1, 1922, plaintiff was lawfully seized and possessed of the following described land and premises situated in the county of Wichita, state of Texas, holding and claiming the same in fee simple, to-wit:

All of survey No. 129, in the name of William S. Kennard, issued by virtue of warrant 4-25 and containing 640 acres;

All of Louisa Neatherly survey, known as survey No. 130, issued by virtue of warrant 4-90, containing one league and labor of land;

All of Donato Leona survey, issued by virtue of certificate 33-40;

27½ acres of land in name of Day Land and Cattle company, certificate 29-122;

315½ acres, John T. Lewis survey, issued by virtue of warrant No. 91;

422 acres in name of Day Land and Cattle company, being survey No. 4, certificate No. 153;

771 acres, G. P. Meade survey, known as section No. 2, H. T. & B. R. R. Co., certificate 19-128;

The east 112.4 acres of block No. 50, Kemp's Wichita Valley Farm Land.

That on the day and year last aforesaid defendants unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected plaintiff therefrom and unlawfully withhold from him the possession thereof, to his damage, $200,000. That the reasonable annual rental value of said land and premises is $10,000 dollars. Plaintiff alleges that he has good and perfect right and title to said land and premises, that he has held peaceable and adverse possession of same, using and enjoying and cultivating the same, for a period of more than 10 years before the filing of this suit. Plaintiff alleges that defendants have at some time in the past held pretended oil and gas leases upon said lands, or parts thereof. That such oil and gas leases, if they ever existed have long since expired, and all rights thereunder have been forfeited for non-payment of rentals, and non-drilling of said lands for oil and gas and such claims constitute a cloud upon plaintiff's title. Plaintiff prays for citation, for judgment for title and possession of the above described lands and premises, for write of restitution, rents, damages, costs of suit, for cancellation of said oil and gas leases, if any, and that the cloud be removed from plaintiff's title, etc.

Herein fail not but have before said court on the said first day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness: A. F. Kerr, clerk of the district court of Wichita county.

Given under my hand and the seal of said court, in the city of Wichita Falls, this the 16th day of May, A. D., 1922.

TEACH ROOKIES 'CHUTE' JUMP

All Get in Game at Post Field

New parachutes and novices at the game of parachute jumping are being broken in at Post Field, Lawton, Okla.

That was the news Tuesday morning with Lieut. A. Henley, who passed through here yesterday en route to Dallas.

Lieutenant Henley said that previously, the government would not allow flyers or enlisted men to make parachute jumps without having received special permits from the proper government authorities. The ruling has been changed, he said, and Maj. Thomas Lamphier, officer in charge of flying at Post field, has decreed that any person in the post desiring to learn to make parachute jumps can undertake the lessons at any altitude.

As a result the officer said, a large number of new parachutes have been received at the post, and parachute jumping which once was a novel attraction, is now commonplace.

The lieutenant's home is located at Salt Lake City, Utah. He has been an officer in the flying corps since 1917, having enlisted during the war. Lieutenant Henley was en route to Dallas yesterday to spend his regular leave of 15 days.

Post Field, he said, which has 200 men, reported the death of the pilot of Ed Lorette. Lorette, he said, was one of the best stick flyers known.

LAND BANK MAY BE READY SOON

Idea Finding Favor With Investors

Actual organization of the stock farm loan bank suggested to the chamber by C. B. Cork, and prominent directors of the chamber, in hands of men will probably be effected in a short time, according to Mr. Cork. Definite steps toward the organization are expected following Mr. Cork's return from the east. Mr. Cork said:

"The advantages of the bank, both from the viewpoint of the farmer and stockman, and from the standpoint of the investor, are to investors interested. Mr. Cork said that the bank is likely to be organized with a million loan for a quarter of a million, as originally proposed.

This capital stock, or the loan fund of $500,000 to farmers and stockmen, is to be let at a rate of six per cent and an additional payment of one per cent which would retire the loan in about 24 years. Payments may be made up to half the assessed value of a farmer or stockman's holdings.

KATY TRAINS ON NEW SCHEDULES

Time on Three Trains Is Changed

Changes in the schedule of the M., K. & T. railroad, announced recently as becoming effective May 14, have been postponed to take effect May 21.

Announcement of the postponement was made yesterday by H. G. Smith, division freight and passenger agent of the road here.

According to Mr. Smith, the change will include the trains on the Dallas and Denison division, and those operating east of Wichita Falls. Trains No. 43, 44 and 46 will have their time cards changed, he said.

No. 43—the St. Louis and Kansas City train and the Dallas train leaving here early in the morning—will be changed considerably. No. 46 will depart at 6:15 a. m. instead of 5:30. No. 44 will depart at 6:45 rather than the old time of 6:15. The latter train, it was stated, will make the same connections at Denison and other points that it has always made.

No. 43, which formerly arrived here at 11:15 a. m., will now arrive at 10:55, bringing a through sleeper.

COULDN'T QUIT FLYING GAME

Hanes Now Flies for Recreation

Harold Hanes, local insurance man, who was a flyer before the war, and during the war an instructor and pilot in the government service, probably the first Wichitan to accumulate a Curtiss plane of the type for instruction during the war government stocks recently. Being a wise mechanic he packed an extra new motor and parts from the government stock and assembled it, having a brand new plane for the price that government stocks have been placed on the market.

He is a great believer in the commercial use of aviation now principally the quick transportation of passengers. This method of transportation is as safe as the ordinary automobile transportation, he declares, pointing out that last year 40,000 passengers were transported without a single fatal accident.

This year, he pointed out, had started with a black eye owing to the wreck of the plane which transported passengers from Miami, Florida, to Bimini in the Bahamas, but declares that this was only the ordinary hazard assumed by anyone who went to sea, be it by plane or boat, and that the pilot of the plane was not in physical condition to make the trip and was helpless when forced to land at sea.

Stunting—he was considered one of the leading stunt pilots during the service as the one branch which Hanes does not see anything to, outside of instruction. He believes that [illegible] should know stunts, so that if he accidentally went into a spin, a slip he would automatically know how to get out of it. But outside of that feature he is all for straight flying.

"Starts Arguin' Who'll Pay For Drink and Fust Thing I Know We Wuz Fightin'," Negro Tells Judge

"You are charged with aggravated assault and fighting," the court stated to a husky man of the brown-skin race.

"What have you to say for yourself?"

"Not much, jedge," the negro confessed in corporate court Tuesday morning when he had been brought before Police Judge Chauncey. "I spec' I se guilty."

"What caused the trouble; what were you doing; how did you get there; what is your idea in attacking a man of your own race and beating him up?" the court questioned in a battery of queries.

"Well, jedge, y'see, I went down thar t' git a drink; well, we got th' drink, n'then we starts arguin' 'bout whose gwine pay fer it. I lowed I warn't; he lowed he warn't, n'th' first thing I knowed we wus fightin'."

That was the way the negro explained how the fight started. He admitted that he had gotten the better of the affray, said he didn't know where the liquor came from, paid his $10 fine and marched out.

"Dat's a strengous jedge, ain't he!" the convicted man said as he departed.

HIGH SCHOOL SHOW TONIGHT

They Call Comedy "The Lucky Dog"

When the curtain rises tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the Wichita theater, those present will have the opportunity of witnessing a burlesque deluxe on the never-to-be-forgotten classic of Bill Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice." Some of the humorously inclined English students of the class of '22 took this story as a base and have modeled one of the most comical dramas compiled in the form that we would like to have studied it in our school days, under the title of "The Lucky Dog."

The cast, which includes the best that the class of '22 possesses in the way of actors, have been hard at work on it and have it down as near perfect as a class of dignified seniors could be expected to have it. The cast of characters as they appear in the play are:

Antipathy (Antonio) The Lucky Dog—Gage McDermott.

Bananio (Bassanio—Polly Clark.

Portion (Portia)—Mary Smith.

Glenrose Mocrocks (Friend of Portia)—Katherine Hopper.

Skyrock (Shylock)—Edward Kadane.

Tobasco (Prince of Morrocco)—Wallace Bright.

Paragon (Prince of Aragon)—Mortimer Clopton.

Jamaica Ginger (Jessica)—Helen Snider.

Launcelot Gobb (Gobo) (office boy)—Barton Perry.

More Gobb (Gobo's father)—James Somerville.

Neerkisser (Nerissa)—Lillian Randle.

Lozenge (Lorenzo)—Clyde Robinson.

Tubad (Tubal)—Carrol Johnson.

Your Honor (Judge of Court)—Darrold Kahn.

Clerk of Court—Francis Jones.

Sheriff—Robert McAbee.

The play is filled with humor, and thrills.

FARMERS EXPECTING GOOD CROPS—JONES

Although being blessed with more rain than they particularly wished, farmers of Wichita county are more optimistic of their prospects than they have been in some time, according to Guy R. Jones, county agent of Iowa Park, who was here Tuesday. Prospects for a good return from the wheat which survived the early drouth are pronounced to be excellent.

NIGHT SESSIONS IN CITY COURT

For the first time, Wichita Falls is to have a night police court.

Agreement that such a court shall be held in the future on occasions when a jury trial is needed was made Tuesday morning by Police Judge Chauncey and E. H. Gipson, city prosecutor, following adjournment of corporate court.

Mr. Gipson said that the court had decided to hold night sessions on jury trials because of the fact that it is hard to obtain a competent jury except from the working men, who are extremely busy during the day, and who can be obtained at night.

When jury trial is necessary and is requested, Mr. Gipson said, the cases will be held in the corporate court room at 7:30 o'clock p. m.

The docket yesterday was crowded, and many kinds of cases were brought before Judge Chauncey. No violator escaped without a fine, and in each instance those prosecuted were warned not to be brought back a second time, unless they anticipated a heavier penalty.

DOG CAME BACK

Six months ago E. H. Winkworth, oil man, gave an Airedale pup to friends to pass on to other friends, out of Wichita Falls. Tuesday morning Winkworth, walking along a downtown street, was nearly knocked over by an Airedale dog, jumping up on him. Dog refused to leave him; scars on neck show it is the same pup he had six months ago. Proof again that an Airedale is a "one man dog."

BUDGET IS DUE BEFORE COUNCIL

May Cause Cut for Police Force

Reduction in the number of city police may be expected within a few weeks, according to observers at the city hall, for it is soon to be budget time with city departments and Mayor Collier is set, it is believed, to swing the axe to the limit.

"We will just have to cut, to keep our expenditures within reach of our income," he said when questioned on the subject.

The street department and the fire department had done all that could be asked in the curtailment of budgets, but the police department would have to have another cut, he intimated, declaring that he saw no way out of it. "Fewer men and faster workers" might be the solution, he intimated, although expressing himself as not being in a position to definitely commit himself until department budgets had been submitted and he could talk it over with the council members heading the departments.

The budget will probably come in for discussion at an early council meeting. Its draft has been delayed by negotiations for the long time loan to retire the city overdraft which will make a considerable change in the makeup of next year's budget.

MISTRIAL IN SUIT FOR COMMISSIONS

No agreement was reached Tuesday by a jury in the 78th district court, sitting before Acting Judge Smoot, in the case of F. T. Childers vs. E. S. Gooch; upon reporting that they were unable to agree, the 12 men were discharged by the judge and the hearing declared a mistrial.

The suit had been brought by the plaintiff against Gooch on the grounds that the latter was indebted to Childers in the sum of $4,750 alleged commissions. Childers claimed to have disposed of certain oil and gas leases in the northwest oil field for Gooch.

SMOOT SPECIAL JUDGE

George A. Smoot was elected special judge of the 80th district court Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock by the members of the Wichita County Bar association.

Appointment of Judge Smoot by the bar followed the resignation of Special Judge Orus O. Ross, who had been designated to fill the chair on the bench during the absence of Judge P. A. Martin. Judge Ross resigned to attend to business matters which were urgent.

Judge Smoot will occupy the bench the remainder of the week.

White Man Conducts Club For Negroes; Police Investigate

Following the order of Police Commissioner J. B. Fitts of the police department to investigate all local clubs with reference to ascertaining whether they are operating pool table games in compliance with the city and state laws regulating such games, the police department uncovered a new kind of "club" Tuesday, they stated.

According to the officers, a club which is being conducted by a white man, but which is for "negroes only" was located here. The officers have filed charges against the club, and it will be investigated in the corporate court to ascertain whether it is conducted in compliance with the law, and whether it has a charter.

All the clubs in the city, the officials stated, are under surveillance.

Man With Price on Head Is Taken to Abilene Tuesday

John Sprinkle, alias Charles Wilson, was carried to Abilene in the custody of Constable Frank Morgan yesterday afternoon, where Sprinkle is wanted on a charge of murder in connection with a shooting which is said to have occurred in Abilene three years ago.

The constable was requested to bring the accused man to Abilene by the sheriff at that place, who informed the Wichita Falls officer in a telephone communication late Monday night that he had been unable to come after Sprinkle, due to sickness.

According to Constable Morgan, Sprinkle admitted that he had murdered a man in a poker game three years ago, and that he had been convicted of a charge of murder and sentenced to prison for 20 years. He said that he had escaped from the Abilene jail, and that he had later been captured again the constable stated.

Sprinkle was captured recently by Constable Morgan, who will collect a $1,550 reward for his prisoner.

The first information on the escaped murderer was obtained by Morgan when Sprinkle was arrested in an abandoned ranch house on the K. M. A. road, where the constable and a posse had gone to raid a still location.

Why Miller Thought "Pinkie" Wasn't Here

"Have you seen my husband? His name is "Pinky;" that's what the boys all call him. He's a gambler and loafs around pool halls all day long."

That is the essence of a communication which Chief of Detectives Jack Miller received Tuesday from a woman in Ada, Okla., begging the chief to institute a search for her husband. He has been missing from Ada for four months, the letter asserts; his wife is anxiously awaiting his return.

"No, we haven't seen him," Chief Miller wrote the woman yesterday. "And if he's a gambler and a vagrant as you say he is," the chief's reply continued, "we would probaly have gotten acquainted by this time, for this police department does not permit that class of persons to remain within the city long unless they are behind the bars."
