Flores Files For Sheriff

Ruben Flores

I, Ruben Flores, am announcing my candidacy for Schleicher County Sheriff. I am currently a Deputy Sheriff for Menard County while maintaining my permanent residence in Schleicher County. I have 2 daughters, Valerie Santellano and Velma Muniz. I moved here in November, 1982, and worked as a Deputy Sheriff under Orval Edmiston from November 15, 1982, until March 31, 1988. I enjoyed my job here as Deputy Sheriff, and I still sincerely care for this community.

This December, 1991, marks my 20 years as a Law Enforcement Officer through the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement. I have worked in law enforcement for a total of 14 years. I received my Basic Law Enforcement Certificate from Southwest Texas Junior College in Uvalde, Texas, in 1971. Since then I have also received my Intermediate and Advanced Proficiency Certificates, along with certificates in Drug & Narcotics, Management & Supervision, Interviewing Child Sexual Abuse Victims, Family Violence, Use of Force, Civil Process Procedures, Law & Liabilities, Advanced Patrol Procedures, Vehicle Stopping Procedures, Firearms Proficiency Control, DPS Crime Scene Photography, and DWI Investigation.

Because I am very concerned about the future of our community, I am willing to put my life on the line 24 hours a day to serve and protect our community in an attempt to lower the existing crime rate in Schleicher County. Under my leadership, the Schleicher County Sheriff's Department will be serving all the people of Schleicher County patrolling both City and County in a professional manner.

I am willing to work with both City and County officials, and most importantly, with all the people I would be sworn to serve.

Please vote for me, taking into account my experience. Given the chance, I will do the best job possible.

TOP OF THE DIVIDE

Over the Holidays our family had to spend several hours looking for scotch tape, or wrapping paper, or replacement bulbs for the Christmas lights. Of course, I was unable to send my children to find anything since they cannot even find a simple thing like "Squat."

I have to admit that as a child I couldn't find "Squat" either. I am not even very sure what it looks like, since I have never been a able to find it. Low and behold my children can't find it either. "Squat" seems to be pretty illusive stuff and the inability to find it must be hereditary. I can't say that my dad couldn't find it since he never discussed his childhood with me. I assume he never did though since he would always tell us we couldn't find "Squat."

I know I could never find it since I had been told I couldn't so often. In fact not only did I never find "squat" but I had some problems finding those "Doo-lollies, thing-a-ma-gigs, or watch-a-ma-call-its". All of these items are very hard to find, so hard that my dad would finally have to come and get the "Thing-a-ma-gig" himself even though it was often "right under my nose" and "if it had had teeth, it would have bit me". I was usually relieved that most of those "watch-a-ma-call-its" did not have teeth. Come to think of it, maybe I couldn't find them was because of the size of my nose?

I never did find "Squat" though, and I still cannot find it, even with the help of my children. Nicolas once thought he found "Squat" but in his haste to come get me it somehow got lost again. "Doo-lollies" can sometimes be found, but I still can't find "Squat!"

As the county races are shaping up, the Texas legislature has convened on redistricting in Austin. This will affect the candidates who will run for our county as state representatives.

As far as the county redistricting is concerned, a proposal was sent in for the justice department to approve. On the county level, several voters will be changing precincts if approved as presented.

Until the redistricting decisions are made, the election dates cannot be set. According to Helen Blakeway, County Clerk, the information will be made public in the Eldorado Success when received. Voters are urged to register to vote. Registration has to be done 30 days prior to an election.

Look for more information in the Eldorado Success.

TEXAS AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

County Agent's Report

A voluntary recycling program for empty agricultural chemical containers that began in November in the Lower Rio Grande Valley may serve as a model to help solve a statewide environmental dilemma.

Farmers are rapidly running out of options for disposing of containers that carry pesticides and other agricultural chemicals.

In just the four counties where the new recycling program will operate, for example, farmers generate 400,000 pounds of empty plastic and metal chemical containers each year. How to safely dispose of them has become an increasing concern.

Because of limited capacity and more stringent government regulation, many sanitary landfills are refusing to accept these containers. Open burning of pesticide containers has been made illegal in Texas, and specially designed incinerators are often too distant and costly for most farmers to use.

A number of states already have statewide disposal and recycling efforts for agricultural chemical containers, but Texas doesn't. The program launched in the Valley is seen as a first step toward making a statewide program possible.

"We can't just burn them behind the barn anymore," said Brad Cowan, Hidalgo County agent for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "It's illegal and potentially damaging to the environment. That's why this rinse and recycle program makes so much sense."

At the heart of the recycling effort that will serve farmers in Hidalgo, Cameron, Willacy and Starr counties is a $68,000 granulating plant that will turn plastic containers into flakes for resale and recycling. Built on a flatbed trailer, it is the first "mobile" plant of its kind in Texas, an advantage that makes recycling projects involving distant collection points more feasible.

Metal pesticide containers have been recycled for some time, Cowan said, but low demand for recycled plastic has sent many of these containers to landfills.

Chemical companies have pledged to buy back the flaked plastic for use only as starting material for new chemical containers, such as a "closed loop" form of recycling prevents the use of these materials for making plastic containers for food, for example.

As another safeguard, the program will accept only containers that have been thoroughly rinsed to remove any chemical residues.

A permanent collection point for agricultural chemical containers has been established in Edinburg. Four other collection sites will accept containers only at announced dates and times, as demand warrants. They are located in Weslaco, San Benito, Raymondville and Rio Grande City.

Originally the brainchild of the South Texas Agricultural Chemical Association, an industry group, the year-old Pesticide Container Recycling project has been endorsed and supported by numerous state agencies, chemical companies, and growers.

Among these are the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas Water Commission, the Texas Department of Agriculture, the Rio Grande Valley chapter of Texas Agri-Women, the Texas Farm Bureau, the Alliance for a Clean Rural Environment, the Lower Rio Grande Valley Chamber of Commerce, the Valley Proud Environmental council, and others.

K'ung Fu-tse

The political season is back. Seems that the politicians are all getting into the swing of things. I can already feel the heat, and I'm not even in the kitchen.

Here in Schleicher County, we are more fortunate than most. We have quite a few very qualified folks who seem truly interested in "serving the public."

This political climate in which we now find ourselves has caused me to consider global politics and those noble people who are "serving the public" around the world. Trouble is, I can't figure out exactly what it is that we are being served (or handed).

Now, to the best of my figuring when the U.S.S.R. was dissolved, the President of Russia sort of took over. Sorta got me to thinking. If our country was to dissolve, would the head of Texas take over? I mean, we are the biggest and best. It would only be logical to look to Texas for leadership in times of transition.

If Austin became the "New Capital", would we be "served" by George or by Anne? If Anne took over, would she let George come back to Texas if he promised not to make waves? Would George tell Ann to read his lips? Would Ann tell George about the recession? Since they would no longer be Governor and President, would they be Queen Ann and King George? Could Queen Ann and King George save the nation of Texas by raising money through lotteries and the Texas income tax? Would the "Education President" become the "Education King"? These are questions to truly boggle the mind and INQUIRING MINDS WANT TO KNOW.

Till The Next Time...

MAY GOD BLESS!

A new year brings forth a new membership drive for the Schleicher County Chamber of Commerce.

Schleicher County has been very supportive of its Chamber in every way. The businesses and individuals, when called upon for help, are more than willing to contribute time and services as well as donate generously in support of the Chamber of Commerce. Without your help, this organization could not effectively function.

In 1991, your Chamber hosted the following activities: January - the 5th Annual Taste of Eldorado; February - the Chamber Pride Committee' Dinner Theatre; March - the Talent Show; April and May - the Chamber Pride Committee busily prepared and planted the Meador/Hotel lot park, the

As you can see, we need your membership to finance such a busy Chamber of Commerce. A business membership is $100.00 and a personal membership is $25.00.

The Taste of Eldorado, set for January 20th at 7:00 p.m., is the annual Chamber of Commerce dinner. Memberships are received at the dinner as well as in the Chamber office (located in the Blaylock Office Building, 115 Main Street) through January. This year, as an added incentive for participation in these activities, a grand prize of a trip to Las Vegas is being offered. Health News

by Rico Forlano

There are two types of diabetes; one is called Type I diabetes the other one is Type II diabetes.

Type I diabetes is usually seen in younger lean people. Type I diabetes is not usually associated with a family history and requires insulin treatment.

Type II diabetes usually affects people over 40 who are over weight and it usually runs in families. Type II diabetes can be treated sometimes without insulin with proper diet and exercise.

New research shows that regular exercise may prevent or postpone the onset of Type II diabetes, a finding that could help people at risk of developing diabetes in middle and old age according to a recent story in the New England

Journal of Medicine. In the study researchers at the University of California at Berkley, School of Public Health, and Stanford University School of Medicine, found the risk of diabetes dropped six percent for every 500 calories per week expended in physical activities. The researchers studied 5,990 men who graduated from the University of Pennsylvania between 1928 and 1947. Each person filled out a physical exam form and was questioned about their lifestyle and health.

Diabetes can lead to many other diseases so it is important to have it diagnosed early. If diabetes runs in your family or you suspect that you might have it contact your medical or chiropractic physician so they can run the proper test.

Local Students Selected For Who's Who

A total of 23 students from this area have been included in the 25th Silver Anniversary Edition of WHO'S WHO AMONG AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS, 1990-91.

WHO'S WHO, published by Educational Communications, Inc., Lake Forest, Illinois, is the largest high school recognition publication in the country. Students are nominated by high school principals and guidance counselors, national youth groups, churches or by the publishing company based upon students' performance in scholarship award contests or extracurricular activities.

Final selection is determined on the basis of criteria which include high achievement in academics and leadership in school activities, athletics or community service. Traditionally, 99 percent of Who's Who students have a grade point average of "B" or better and 97 percent are college bound.

The 25th edition of WHO'S WHO, published in 15 regional volumes, features nearly 700,000 students or just over 5 percent of the nation's 12,000,000 high school students. They represent 18,000 of the 22,000 public, private and parochial high schools in the country.

WHO'S WHO students also compete for over $75,000 in scholarship awards and participate in the publication's annual opinion poll of teen attitudes. The book is distributed to 15,000 high schools, colleges, universities, and public libraries throughout the country.

Local students selected for this year's volumes are: Rosemary Adame, Jessica Conatser, Shanna Edmiston, Angi Fitts, Whitney Fuessel, Amy Hamilton, Laura Hill, Daniel Martinez, Justin Paxton, Stacey Reeves, Heli Sanchez, Barry Thoms, Shannon Chrisman, Denise Crowder, Farah Fennern, Chuck Fitts, Emma Gallegos, Amy Henderson, Johnathan Lemons, Angie McGregor, Jeff Prendergast, Wade Rinehart, and Jennifer Smith.

Fohn Not To Seek Re-election

Today I, Gerald A. Fohn, am announcing that after four terms as 51st District Attorney I will not seek re-election to this office in 1992. I plan to complete my term, spending this coming year doing what I have always done for the people of the 51st District: providing fair but firm prosecution of the laws of this state.

By the time my term ends I will have spent almost twenty years of felony prosecution in this district. I am proud of all that we have been able to accomplish, and I am confident that this tradition of fairness and firmness will continue.

Walther - Candidate For 51st Judicial District Court

by Barbara Lane Walther

Today I am officially announcing that I am a Republican candidate for the position of Judge of the 51st Judicial District Court which serves five counties: Tom Green, Coke, Irion, Schleicher and Sterling.

I have decided to run for this office for several reasons. I am well qualified because of my education, my experiences as a practicing lawyer and my experiences for the past 4 1/2 years as Family Law Master. I have served as the Family Law Master for 12 counties in the 7th Administrative Judicial Region which includes the five counties in the 51st District Court.

Since last spring when Judge Hart first started talking about retiring, a number of people have asked me to consider running for his District bench. After serious consideration, I have decided it is the logical thing to do.

The 51st Judicial District Court is a court of general jurisdiction. That means the court hears litigation involving criminal law, family law and other civil law matters. I have had extensive litigation experience in these areas.

My present position has given me unique qualifications to fulfill the responsibilities of a district judge.

The Code of Judicial Conduct prohibits candidates from making typical campaign promises. It sometimes prevents a candidate from speaking on issues voters might like to have addressed.

However, there are two things I can promise. First, and I am paraphrasing part of the Code of Judicial Conduct: as a Judge I will participate in establishing, maintaining, enforcing and observing high standards of conduct so that the integrity and independence of the judiciary is preserved.

Secondly, I am deeply committed to continuing the long tradition of excellence as the 51st Judicial Court.

Again, I want to thank you for coming. I want each of you to know that I will appreciate your support.

Does Zinc Cure A Cold?

Is there a cure for the common cold? There is one that is worth a try.

Dr. William Halcomb of Austin, Texas, dared to listen to one of his own patients who insisted that anybody could ward off a cold by sucking on zinc tablets.

Dr. Halcomb was willing to test the theory. His study was less than comprehensive, but the results were significant enough that Dr. Halcomb published a paper in the scientific journal called Antimicrobial Agents and Chemotherapy. He suggested: At the first sign of a cold, dissolve two zinc tablets in the mouth and the symptoms will go away. His study on the subject seemed to interest nobody. But some British scientists saw his report and decided to submit the hypothesis to more structured, scientific research.

Sixty-nine volunteers had their nostrils swabbed with a cold virus (HRV-2). Then half of them were given zinc tablets to suck on; the other half were given non-medicinal placebos. And sure enough, the patients who dissolved zinc tablets in their mouths experienced markedly reduced symptoms within one day.

This last month, four years after the first Texas tests, the prestigious British Medical Research Council's common cold unit reported that zinc does, indeed, zap colds! Nobody knows how or why. It does NOT kill the cold virus. The virus remains apparent in nasal secretions and in urine. But the cold's symptoms appear to disappear.

The precise prescription recommended by Dr. Halcomb is this:

At the first sign of a sniffle or sneeze, dissolve in your mouth the equivalent of 23 milligrams (usually 2 tablets) of elemental zinc. Don't chew or swallow the tablets. Allow them to dissolve gradually. Repeat every two waking hours until symptoms vanish. Then quit.

For children up to 60 pounds, cut the dose in half.

File Now For SSI Benefits

In some way, at some point in life, everybody needs help. For more than 4 million people, that help comes in the form of monthly Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits. If you have limited income and resources and are age 65 or older, or blind, or have a disability, or if you know someone who is, SSI can help.

SSI is a Federal program administered by the Social Security Administration. It pays monthly checks to people with limited income and resources who are aged, blind, or have a disability. And being eligible for SSI means more than just receiving monthly checks. SSI recipients are usually eligible for Medicaid, which can help pay health care expenses. They may also be eligible for food stamps and other social services offered in their State.

In 1991, the basic monthly Federal SSI payment is $407 for an eligible person and $610 for an eligible couple (for 1992, $422 and $633). Not everyone gets these amounts, however. Some people get more because they live in a State that adds money to the Federal payment; some get less because they have other income.

SSI isn't just for adults either. It's for children, too -- those with limited income and resources who are blind or disabled.

People don't have to be completely destitute to get SSI. For example, they can own the home where they live and Social Security will not put a lien on it. Within certain limits and under certain conditions, people can own a car, insurance policies, burial funds, and personal or household goods. People also can have some other income -- a Social Security check or job for example -- and still get SSI.

In addition to having limited income and resources, people who can get SSI must reside in the U.S. or Northern Mariana Islands. And the person must be a U.S. citizen or living in the U.S. legally. People with disabilities must accept vocational rehabilitation if offered. If you think you might be eligible for SSI, just call or visit our office

Smith Seeking Election To 3rd Court Of Appeals

Judge Bea Ann Smith has announced that she will be seeking election to the remainder of the term for Justice of the Third Court of Appeals in November 1992. In January 1991, Governor Ann Richards appointed Judge Smith to the Third Court of Appeals which sits in Austin.

"Having served on the bench for almost a year has made me realize that we are each called upon to make our individual contributions to a larger system of justice," says Judge Smith. "As a result, I plan to participate fully by serving as Justice, Third Court of Appeals and continue working together to make this a society that operates under the rule of law."

Prior to her appointment, Judge Smith was with the firm of Graves, Dougherty, Hearon & Moody in Austin. She also taught as an adjunct professor at the University of Texas School of Law and served a judicial clerkship on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fifth Circuit.

In her first year on the Third Court of Appeals Judge Smith has served on the faculty of the College for new Judges in Huntsville and lectured extensively on legal and civil issues.
