WAURIKA BABY BURNED TO DEATH IN LOFT FIRE

Burleigh Grimes Hurls Nearly Perfect Ball And Cardinals Take Series Lead

OLD MAESTRO TAMES MACKS IN 5-2 DUEL

Bing Miller's Single And Al Simmon's Home Run Make A's Total

GROVE TAKES LACING

Philadelphia Crowd Forgets Home Team and Pulls For Burleigh

By HENRY M'LEMORE
United Press Staff Correspondent

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Oct. 5.—With determination in his heart and magic in his arm, Burleigh Grimes, the old maestro, stood out there on the hill today, chewed his slippery ellum and blazed his wicked spitters down the alley at the Philadelphia Athletics.

Riding on each pitch was enough venom to start a fair-sized war in the Balkans, and as each crackling spitter rode up to the plate you could imagine old Burleigh saying "hit that'n if you can!"

Game Lead for Cards

The Athletics gamely took the dare. But that was all they took. The Cardinals took the ball game, 5 to 2, and tonight are riding high with a lead of two games to one in the 1931 world series.

Grimes allowed but two hits. The first one came in the eighth inning when Bing Miller slapped a single to center. The other came in the ninth, when Al Simmons, slugging left fielder, straightened out one of Grimes' curves and laid it over the right field wall, scoring McNair, who ran for Cochrane, who had walked ahead of him.

Simmons' poke was regrettable, for if ever a man deserved a shut-out victory it was the stout-hearted, 38-year-old Grimes, who is now rounding out his 16th year as a major leaguer.

Seven Innings Hitless

For seven innings the mighty Athletics, champions of the world for two years hand-running, were as sand lot boys before the dazzling assortment of spitters, curves, fast balls, slow balls and in-shoots that spun from the moistened fingers of old Burleigh.

During the first seven innings Grimes, save for three bases on balls, was the perfect pitcher. Up the Philadelphia batsmen came. Down they went, shaking their heads and swinging their bats. Not once during these seven innings did the Athletics even so much as threaten to make a hit. Those that didn't strike out, popped weakly to the outfield or rolled lazy grounders to the Cardinals' inner defense.

When the seventh inning turned into the eighth the crowd, sensing that almost unbelievable feat—a no-hit, no-run world series game—forgot their traditional enmity for the scowling, bewhiskered Grimes and all but prayed that the Mackmen would not slap one for a safety. Grimes, too, had caught the spirit of the thing and was bearing down with every one of his 200-plus pounds. You could tell by the way he deliberated before each pitch that he was dreaming of earning himself a front row pedestal in baseball's hall of fame.

Foxx Walks

Foxx, first man up for Philadelphia in the eighth, walked. Then Miller stepped up to the plate and

Vincent Coll Indicted As Harlem Baby-Killer

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (UP)—Vincent Coll, once swaggering gang leader, heard himself described as a cowardly child killer hiding behind a woman's skirts and, two hours after facing a police line-up, was indicted today for the well-remembered Harlem infant massacre of last July.

It took a New York grand jury only 30 minutes to name Coll, Frank Giordano, his lieutenant, and three unidentified men as the assassins who, charging after a gang enemy, poured machine gun bullets into a group of playing children three months ago.

British Cabinet Calls General Election In National Unity Move

LONDON, Oct. 5. (AP)—The British cabinet decided unanimously tonight to call an immediate general election.

It was learned the election campaign would be fought by the Nation government on the basis of a manifesto to be issued by Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald.

The unanimity of the decision was taken to indicate that Sir Herbert Samuel and the other Liberals, whose attitude during the last few days had been doubtful, had thrown in their lot with the prime minister and would give him their wholehearted support.

Mr. MacDonald visited David Lloyd George, veteran Liberal leader, at his country home at Churt earlier today and conferred with him at some length. How far the Liberal swing of late tonight may have been due to this visit was not disclosed, but it was assumed to have a close connection.

It was understood the prime minister's manifesto would be for a free hand to deal with the British situation. It is expected to be "the doctor's mandate" which he already has declared to be necessary.

A. F. L. President Warns Industry Against Pay Cuts

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 5. (UP)—Revolution will result if owners of industry disregard the protests of labor and continue a policy of wage-cutting and refusal to spread available employment, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, warned in opening the 51st annual convention of the federation here today.

"If industry applies the law of the jungle, forcing men into subjection working men will only be driven so far," the dynamic leader of 3,000,000 organized working men in North America shouted.

"There is a tremendous feeling of social unrest. Revolutions grow out of unrest and hunger. In the past, the aristocracies have never learned."

It is the duty of labor, Green declared, "to force reduction of working hours and spread employment to include 7,000,000 men at present idle."

JOBBERS OPEN TOURS TODAY

20 Towns on List for First Good Will Visits

A series of contact trips to acquaint business men of towns in this area with the manufacturing and wholesaling facilities of Wichita Falls will be started Tuesday by the manufacturers and jobbers division of the local chamber of commerce.

A large number of division members will depart at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning from the chamber of commerce offices. Several members will form each contact group. Each group will visit one or more towns in the Wichita Falls trade territory.

About 20 towns are included in the tentative list to be visited during the day. They are Charlie, Petrolia, Byers, Waurika, Ryan, Terral, Ringgold, Belcherville, Nocona, Henrietta, Bellevue, Archer City, Olney, Holliday, Dundee, Mabelle, Mankins, Seymour, Frederick, and Hollister.

Every business concern of each town will be called on by a member of the contact group visiting that place. Ideas will be obtained from merchants of those cities as to how Wichita Falls may best serve its trade territory. The trips are admittedly designed to obtain additional business for the manufacturing and jobbing concerns of Wichita Falls, although it has been expressly stated that no effort will be made to obtain business from a town where that town is adequately served by its own wholesale houses.

Additional contact trips will be made to other towns of the section in later weeks, it was said. C. H. Thompson is chairman of the division here.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 5. (UP)—There is little change "for the better or worse" in the condition of Thomas A. Edison, according to a statement given out tonight by Charles Edison, the inventor's son.

"Mr. Edison spent a quiet and uneventful day," said the 10 p. m. bulletin. "Tonight he is resting comfortably. There is, on the whole, little change for better or worse in his condition."

During the day William Meadowcraft, for 48 years personal secretary and assistant to Edison, visited his former chief in the inventor's bedroom, remaining about 15 minutes.

Raymond McKee, Tillman county man, and driver of the other car, suffered a broken left shoulder and other injuries. Two negroes, Jordon Roberts and his wife, who occupied the car with Mr. Cox and his daughter were cut and bruised.

Physicians here feared Monday night that Miss Cox would not recover.

Mr. Cox and his daughter were on their way to their home at the time of the accident. The two negroes had been employed by them in Elk City Monday morning.

Workman Killed Under Avalanche of Bricks

FORT WORTH, Oct. 5. (AP)—John Malone, about 55, member of a wrecking crew razing a gas manufacturing plant was crushed to death beneath a wall of bricks that toppled this afternoon when a locomotive engine rumbled by.

Malone guessed wrong when J. J. Baer, foreman of the crew saw the swaying brick wall and cried "look out!" Standing in the door of the wall as the cry went up, he ran west. The wall swayed in the same direction, fell and buried the man under an avalanche. The men working with him ran east. One of them, John F. Ladd, stumbled in the debris, bruised his knee but received no other injury. The others came out unscathed.

Texas Higher Courts' Open Winter Sessions

AUSTIN, Oct. 5. (AP)—The supreme court and court of criminal appeals today opened their fall and winter terms, after the usual summer recess.

The supreme court handed down one decision denying application of the state for leave to file an application for mandamus in a case against J. C. Epperson and others, involving a contract for collection of delinquent taxes in Hidalgo county.

The criminal appeals court recessed until Wednesday when it will begin work.

Capone Thinks He Has 'Even Chance' In Income Tax Trial Today

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Al Capone, "the big fellow," by no means shares in any impression which may prevail that he "goes to bat" in the federal court tomorrow with two strikes on him.

"Why, I believe I've got at least an even break," he said Sunday night, when I asked him his opinion of his chances in the trial by which your Uncle Sam seeks to punish Al Capone for not kicking in with your Uncle Sam's "bit" of the profits of the Capone enterprises, your Sam's "bit" being the income tax.

These Capone enterprises, your Uncle Sam intimates, are larcenous in nature, but the nature of an enterprise makes no difference to your Uncle Sam when he is looking for his "bit." Your Uncle Sam horns right in for a piece of many an illegality, all of which is one of the astonishing phases of life in this year 1931 A. V. (After Volstead).

I found Al Capone at Colosimo's restaurant where he was entertaining, or being entertained, at a dinner party. I assume that he was the host, because Al Capone is nearly always the host when there is any hosting afoot. He always picks up all the checks.

Capone is apparently somewhat stouter than when I last saw him in the maginifcent winter home on Palm Island in Biscayne bay, just off the long causeway that connects Miami proper with Miami Beach. This home, Al says, is in his wife's name. It was one of the

AMERICAN PAIR SPAN PACIFIC WITHOUT STOP

Pangborn and Herndon Land at Wenatchee, Wash., From Japan

4,500 MILE FLIGHT

Japanese Representative Hands Airman $25,000 Check for Their Feat

WENATCHEE, Wash., Oct. 5. (AP)—Skidding to a dizzy stop, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon landed their wheelless plane here today to complete the first non-stop airplane crossing of the Pacific ocean from Japan, and one of the few round-the-world flights on record.

The American barnstorming aviators made one of the most dangerous ocean hops ever attempted, flying nearly 4,500 miles in 41 hours and 13 minutes from Samushiro beach, Japan, to Wenatchee.

A Japanese newspaper reporter handed the fliers a $25,000 check, issued by a Tokyo newspaper, for the first successful non-stop flight between Japan and the United States.

"Very glad to see you boys," he shouted.

Both Shoeless

Herndon and Pangborn were in their stocking feet as they climbed from the plane.

"Give me a cigaret," Herndon requested.

Pangborn laughed.

"We have been in Japan so long, we're still going barefooted."

To lighten their load, the daring aviators had dropped their landing gear soon after taking off from the Japanese island at 4:01 p. m., (central standard time) Saturday. They smashed their propellor and Herndon received a nasty gash over his eye. The plane jolted to the ground here at 9:14 a. m., central standard time.

Mrs. Opal Pangborn, almost unnerved by two nights of watching for reports of her 37-year-old son's flight to this regoin, where he was born and reared, was crying with joy when he embraced her.

Pangborn, who brought the plane down and did most of the piloting appeared more tired and shaky than his 21-year-old companion. But the youthful wealthy New York sportsman-aviator admitted he was "wobbly" as their automobile poked its way through a jam of cars to a hotel, three miles from the field.

Two Thrills

Two thrilling moments in the flights, when they thought they would never get through, were recounted by the fliers. Ice on the wings, most dreaded danger faced by fliers in northern climes, almost

Woman Sues Warden For Breach of Promise

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Oct. 5. (AP)—A suit asking $50,000 for alleged breach of promise was filed against Ed Swope, warden of the New Mexico state penitentiary here today by Mrs. Lora McKenzie, of Oklahoma City.

Mrs. McKenzie's petition alleges she became engaged to Swope in Oklahoma City in August and did not know he was married until she came to Santa Fe in September to marry him.

The plaintiff came to Albuquerque a short time ago where she represented herself to be "Mary Eaton, New York actress." She was arrested on a charge of vagrancy and served part of a 15-day jail sentence, was released and rearrested on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. She was fined $15, appealed and now is at liberty on bond.

Meet to Seek New Use For Barred Cotton Land

AUSTIN, Oct. 5. (AP)—J. E. McDonald, Texas commissioner of agriculture today issued a call for a meeting Wednesday in Waco to consider plans to utilize land planted in cotton this year that will be barred as cotton acreage next year under the law limiting cotton acreage in 1932 and 1933 to 30 per cent of the land in cultivation in 1931.

McDonald said it was essential to the success of the agricultural rehabilitation program that this land be used to the best advantage. He expressed the belief a large portion of it should be planted in crops to be fed to livestock.

Provisions of the cotton acreage control law will be explained at the meeting.

Longshoremen's Strike Parley Ends in Failure

GALVESTON, Oct. 5. (AP)—Round table conferences between striking longshoremen's leaders and shippers today resulted in virtual abandonment of hopes for early settlement of their wage controversy and an announcement by steamship interests they no longer intended to make contracts with existing unions.

While special police patroled the wharf to prevent interference, non-union laborers, numbering about 150, were pressed into service and work of loading boats resumed. No attempt at interference was made by the 1,200 union men who walked off their jobs Sept. 30 as protest against proposed decreased wages.

Senator Morrow's Sudden Death Takes Possible G.O.P. Candidate

Financier And Diplomat Dies At Englewood

His Death Comes Unexpectedly

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Oct. 5. (UP)—Funeral services for Senator Dwight W. Morrow will be held at 3 p. m., Wednesday in the First Presbyterian church here, Arthur W. Springer, Morrow's secretary, announced tonight.

The pastor of the church, the Rev. Carl Elmore, will officiate. More complete funeral plans will be announced later.

By MORRIS WATSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Oct. 5.—Senator Dwight W. Morrow died in his sleep today at the peak of a career which carried him into international prominence as a financier and diplomat. He was 58 years old.

A secretary tried in vain to waken the New Jersey sepator late in the morning and then called physicians. Although Mr. Morrow lived for two more hours, he never regained consciousness, and died at 1:52 p. m. of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Addressed Crowd Sunday

The news of his death was intensified by its unexpectedness. The father-in-law of Col. Charles E. Lindbergh, who was a partner in the Morgan banking house until he resigned to become ambassador to Mexico, appeared in excellent health last night as he addressed a large gathering in New York and was cheered by 1,200 men and women for his advice about welfare work.

The passing of the man who had poured oil on the troubled waters of Mexico and his doctrine of courtesy, patience and understanding between nations, removed one of the country's foremost advocates of prohibition repeal, a man who frequently had been mentioned as a possible candidate for president or vice president in 1932, and a leader on whom New Jersey Republicans had expected to lean heavily in the turbulent campaign now being waged for the office of governor.

Parties Even in Senate

His death placed in the hands of Morgan F. Larson, Republican governor of New Jersey, the power to preserve the Republicans' one-vote margin in the United States senate. He will name a successor who will hold office until the general election in 1932 or until a special election is called. Senator Morrow's death leaves 47 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one Farm-Laborite in the senate.

The possibility that Colonel Lindbergh, now in China with his wife, the former Anne Morrow, might be considered for the office appeared remote at least in so far as the appointment is concerned. It was pointed out he would not be 30 years old until next February, whereas a man must have passed his 30th birthday before he can be named to the senate.

David Baird Jr., who stepped down from a temporary appointment to the senate in favor of Mr. Morrow and who now is running for governor, is regarded as a possible appointee to the seat in congress.

Friends Shocked

The shock of Senator Morrow's death, however, was so fresh in the minds of his associates that none mentioned the political significance of the situation.

Small of stature, quiet in speech, Mr. Morrow, college classmate of Calvin Coolidge, was known best perhaps as a conciliator. He seemed GAINESVILLE, Texas, Oct. 5. (AP)—A charge of murder was filed here today against Louie Wiess of Lindsay, a village five miles west of here, in connection with the death of Maria Margaret Bezner, 22.

Miss Bezner was injured a week ago when she fell from an automobile allegedly driven by Wiess. She died this morning without regaining consciousness. She was unable to make a statement.

BRACKEN MURDER TRIAL OPENS

GAINESVILLE, Texas, Oct. 5. (AP)—One juryman was selected today for the trial of Frank Bracken, charged with murder in the slaying of William E. Johns, Gainesville motorcycle policeman.

The defense and prosecution examined 18 veniremen today. A special venire of 150 men had been called.

Defense motions to quash the venire and for continuance of the case because of the illness of Mrs. Nellie Bracken, mother of Frank Bracken, and a material witness, were overruled by Judge Ben Boyd. Objections to Texas rangers being present in the courthouse were included in defense reasons for wishing a continuance.

Johns was wounded fatally July 24 in a shooting affray in which Walter Clements, city fire marshal, was killed instantly. Bracken was charged in connection with both deaths.

NEGRO WOUNDS BOSS TURNS GUN ON SELF

LONGVIEW, Texas, Oct. 5. (UP)—R. H. Whynot, 60, superintendent of a box factory here, was seriously wounded here this afternoon by a negro who then fatally shot himself through the heart with a pistol.

The negro, Zena Blackmon, 35, fired at several other workmen before he fled the factory to take his life on a nearby railway track. Whynot had discharged the negro shortly before the shooting.

Whynot was struck in the right thigh and left arm. The arm was mangled by the charge, from a shotgun, and a surgeon amputated it at the elbow. Whynot was said to be in a serious condition but was expected to recover.

HOOVER CALLS WORLD PARLEY

Nation's Leaders Summoned to Study Crisis

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. (UP)—President Hoover tonight announced he had summoned leading members of congress to confer with him at the White House tomorrow night on the international situation.

He plans new and, he hopes, decisive action in regard to some of the economic problems thrust upon this country by the increasingly serious plight of European nations.

The president acted with dramatic suddenness and in dramatic circumstances, in thus assuming world leadership for the second time in three and a half months.

His first international gesture came late on the Saturday afternoon of June 20, when he announced his plan to postpone war debt and reparations payments for one year.

Today he was on a railway train, returning to Washington from the world series baseball game at Philadelphia. He had been informed only a little while before of the tragic death of his friend and aide, Senator Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey. This news was kept from him while he was at the baseball game.

CLEARED IN LIQUOR PLOT

AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 5. (AP)—Federal Judge James C. Wilson late today gave instructed verdicts for five of the nine men on trial for liquor conspiracy operations and submitted the cases of four to the jury.

BOY TRAPPED IN BLAZE HE BUILT IN BARN

Girl Leaves Structure Before Start of Fatal Conflagration

Special to The Record News.

WAURIKA, Okla., Oct. 5.—Trapped in a fire he started in his play, James Collan Jr., 2, was burned to death in the hay loft in his grandfather's barn Monday afternoon.

His mother, called to the blazing building by the baby's cries for her, looked on helplessly while flames licked round his body. Only bits of charred bone were found when the fire was extinguished.

James, who would have been 3 years old in November, went to play in the barn with his 6-year-old sister while their mother worked in the cotton fields. The older child left the barn and James built a fire in the hay loft.

Alarmed at the quickly spreading flames which cut him off from the door through which he entered the loft, the child ran to a second entrance. The door had been wired.

The baby screamed for his mother as the flames advanced. The woman, with neighbors, ran to the barn, but the mounting furnace held them at bay and the baby's cries ceased.

Funeral services will be held at Addington Tuesday. Besides the parents and sister, the child is survived by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hudson.

POISON FOOD TAKES NEW VICTIM

AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 5. (UP)—Roy Grider, 20-months-old baby, died today from what was believed to be a mysterious food poisoning that brought death Saturday to his twin brother Ray.

The babies were sons of J. H. Grider, Amarillo railroad man. Their 7-year-old sister Johnnie is in a serious condition, although physicians have diagnosed her illness as scarlet fever.

Grider was away from home at the time his family was stricken.

Gambling Halls Close In Mexican Border Town

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Oct. 5. (AP)—Matamoras' gambling halls were under lock and key today.

Reports were that President Ortiz Rubio had issued a decree against border gambling. It could not be ascertained whether the Matamoras establishments closed because of lack of business or were complying with the reported presidential decree.

It was understood the decree closed gambling establishments at Juarez and Villa Acuna, leaving Tia Juana the only wide open town along the border. The decree could not be confirmed.

Lack of patronage recently forced owners of concessions at Reynosa, opposite Hidalgo, to close their establishments.

DEATH CLAIMS D. W. MORROW

New Jersey Senator Passes Unexpectedly

to possess a unique ability to bring individuals, groups and even nations into agreement. Throughout his career as a lawyer, banker, and statesman he strictly adherred to what he termed "rule six." That rule simply was: "Don't take yourself so darn seriously."

It was after midnight last night before Mr. Morrow retired. He made no complaint at that time about his feeling ill. Because he had been in the habit recently of arising late, Secretary Arthur S. Springer, was not alarmed when he went to the senator's bedroom at 11 o'clock this morning and found him apparently sleeping soundly.

Wife Notified

Mrs. Morrow was playing golf when the news of her husband's condition was brought to her. She hurried home from the links to find the senator dying.

Dr. Walter Phillips and Dr. Alvin Cloud of Englewood and Dr. Nellis B. Foster of New York, who were summoned by the senator's secretary, shook their heads when they arrived and said death was only a matter of a few hours.

At the senator's bedside were his wife; Miss Elisabeth Morrow, a daughter; Mrs. A. H. Scandret, the senator's sister, and Mrs. Rebecca Greathouse, a niece.

Cables were sent to Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh, who were aboard a British aircraft carrier on their way to Shanghai with the disabled plane from which they were thrown into the Yangtse river last week when the plane capsized.

They were not scheduled to reach Shanghai until late Tuesday or early Wednesday.

They were not scheduled to reach Shanghai until late Tuesday or early Wednesday.

Others Given News

Miss Constance Morrow, a daughter attending Smith college, and Dwight W. Morrow Jr., a student at Amherst and Mrs. E. L. McIlvaine of Meadville, Pa., a sister were notified.

Dwight Whitney Morrow was born Jan. 11, 1873 in Huntington, W. Va., the son of James E. and Clara Johnson Morrow. He graduated from Amherst college in 1895, and carried on graduate studies at Columbia, University of Rochester, Princeton, Williams, Pennsylvania, Yale, Harvard and Brown. He was noted in his public and private life for his scholarship and deep learning.

Mr. Morrow married Elizabeth Reeve Cutter, of Cleveland, Ohio, June 16, 1903. Besides his widow, he is survived by three daughters and a son, respectively Elizabeth, Anne (Mrs. Lindbergh), Constance Morrow and Dwight W. Jr.

Enters Law Practice

After completing his legal studies, Morrow entered the law firm of Simpson, Thacker & Bartlett, of New York in 1899, remaining with them until 1914. He was made a member of the firm in 1905.

Attracted by his logical briefs submitted in financial litigation and by his civic interest in the affairs of his home community, a member of the J. P. Morgan banking firm, who also lived in Englewood, invited Morrow to become a partner.

Morrow remained a member of the house of Morgan from 1914 until 1927 when he first entered the field of public service as ambassador to Mexico.

The relationship of the United States and Mexico in 1927 was at a delicate junction and the amicable outcome of this diplomatic crisis was credited to the personality and open-handed diplomatic methods adopted by the new ambassador.

In one of the controversial issues at hand Ambassador Morrow took the side of the Mexican government against the claim of American interests in which his former banking associates had a share.

The man who thus made it a rule not to take himself too seriously, despite the fact that he had lifted himself from penury to riches and from obscurity to an international reputation, had a creed for diplomatic and every-day intercourse with his fellows that revolved around the word "neighbor."

"Neighbor," he once told a New Jersey bankers' convention, "is a fine word. Your neighbor is the person who lives next door. He is the person you must get along with, not because he is the same sort of person as you, but because he is where he is and you are where you are."

Neighbors Everywhere

Mr. Morrow had many neighbors, not only around his suburban home in Englewood, N. J., but in Wall street, in Mexico, among the financiers and statesmen of Europe, Latin-America and Japan and in the halls of congress. His ability to create personal friendships was described by his intimates as amounting to genius.

Political expediency alone kept him from becoming a soldier. He had a boyhood ambition to enter West Point and drove far enough toward that goal to win a competitive examination for the appointment. But the congressman of his home district in West Virginia suddenly recollected that Dwight's elder brother, Jay, was already a cadet and he thought it poor policy to have two members of the same family holding these plums at the same time. That elder brother became Gen. Jay J. Morrow, chief engineer of the first army and chief deputy engineer of the A. E. F. in France.

Dwight Morrow might not have been accepted by the West Point authorities even if he had been given the appointment. An arm broken in boyhood had been improperly set and his stature only an inch or two above five feet, might also have counted against him.

Jay Morrow and Dwight were the boys in a family of five children, survivors of eight offspring born to their parents. It was an old fashioned family, particularly on Sundays when the reading of even such worldly favorites of the younger son as the biographies of Washington and Lincoln, was taboo. The psalms, the gospels and books from the Sunday school library constituted the mental fare on the first day of the week and as men and women the five brothers and sisters could give chapter and verse of many a biblical quotation learned in ntheir youth. Through the week there was family worship, both morning and evening. At the age of 12 Dwight joined the Presbyterian church of which has father was an elder.

Dwight graduated from high [illegible] at 16. He was too young

News of Morrow's Death Reaches Lindberghs on Oriental Tour

SHANGHAI, Oct. 6. (Tuesday) (UP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh received news of the death of Mrs. Lindbergh's father, United States Senator Dwight W. Morrow, through the United Press early today.

They were aboard the British airplane carrier Hermes, bound for Woosung with their monoplane which was partially wrecked in the Yangtze river, when the United Press radioed them.

They immediately notified civil authorities here to cancel a welcoming celebration prepared in anticipation of their arrival. Both were described as deeply grieved but bearing up well. The American legation at Peking also transmitted to Mrs. Lindbergh news of her father's sudden death. This was a dispatch from Mrs. Morrow, advising Mrs. Lindbergh that "Daddy died peacefully today. Don't hurry home."

The Hermes was expected to dock at Woosung late today. If the tide was low it was expected the Lindberghs would come up the Whangpoo river to Shanghai, 15 miles distant, by tender.

Brief messages from the Hermes failed to reveal their plans.

HOOVER GRIEVES FOR GREAT AMERICAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. (AP)—President Hoover tonight praised Senator Morrow as "that sort of an American who makes our country great."

On his way back to Washington from the world series baseball game in Philadelphia, the president issued the following statement to newspaper men aboard his special train:

"This country has suffered a great loss in the death of Senator Dwight W. Morrow. His loyal and generous character as a neighbor and a friend; his public spirit as a citizen; his services during the war; his accomplishments as ambassador to Mexico; his unique contribution to the success of the London naval conference—all are the record of that sort of an American who makes our country great."

MEXICAN PRESIDENT LAUDS DIPLOMAT

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 5. (AP)—Emilio Portes, Gil, former president of Mexico, now minister to France, when informed of Senator Dwight W. Morrow's death, today, said:

"Mr. Morrow, as ambassador of his country to mine, played an excellent role. His work for better relations was very intense and crowned with magnificent sucess. Mexico will deeply regret Mr. Morrow's passing."

Roberto Pesquiera, former confidential Mexican agent to Washington, said:

"Mr. Morrow learned to understand Mexico. His work here is not yet clearly understood, but will be recognized as one of the most remarkable achievements in the history of diplomacy between the two countries."

brought their flight to an untimely end soon after they left Japan. Then over the southern end of the Gulf of Alaska, their engine stopped running when one gasoline tank unexpectedly went dry.

"We didn't expect it then and it was several minutes before we hooked up with the extra gas tank," said young Herndon.

They flew almost to Spokane, Wash., they said, before returning to Wenatchee to land where they knew preparations were made to take care of them. They had considered flying on to Salt Lake City, to complete well over 5,000 miles, which would have broken the distance record Russell Boardman and John Polando set on their New York-Turkey flight this year.

Barograph Disabled

"But our barograph wasn't functioning and we had to gun the motor too much in rising over the fog, so we came back," Pangborn explained.

Their brilliant achievement came after failure to better the round-the-world speed record of Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, another pair of American airmen, and a disheartening delay in Japan.

Leaving New York on July 28, they hoped across the Atlantic and headed over Europe and Asia. Their plane was damaged in landing at Khabarovsk, Siberia, Aug. 3, and they gave up the attempt for a new round-the-world record, deciding to try for the honor of being the first to cross the Pacific non-stop.

After reaching Tokyo, they were arrested for flying over and photographing Japanese fortified areas. They pleaded ignoranec of the stringent Japanese laws on the subject and denied any illegal intentions, but they were fined $2,050. Then came weeks of waiting until the Japanese government, after representations from Washington, granted them permission to start the Pacific flight.

and the Smithsonian institution at Washington.

Besides the degrees which he earned by study at Amherst and Columbia, he received honorary doctorates in law from the University of Rochester, 1920; Princeton, 1925; Williams, 1926; Pennsylvania, 1926, and Yale, 1927. The presentation of these brought laudatory summations of his career from the heads of the various schools. But Mr. Morrow's intimates found keys to his character in his own sayings, among them this one:

"If facts can be properly gathered and distributed, the presumption is strong that men in different nations will understand each other. Men want to understand each other. That is the great quest in life."

'AL' CONFIDENT ON TRIAL EVE

Capone Thinks He'll Beat Income Charge

centers of Miami entertainment last winter. I recall seeing some rather distinguished citizens of these United States there.

It is said a number of Miamians have been summoned to Chicago to give testimony for Uncle Sam relative to expenditures by Al Capone in their fair city. You see, having set forth that Al Capone owes income tax—some 215,00 worth—it is up to your Uncle Sam to prove that Al Capone had an income. If you haven't got an income, you cannot owe income tax—or do you know that already?

"Do you think they can show that you spent money?" I asked Capone. He answered seriously.

"Well, maybe some," he said.

He said he had never filed an income tax return. A man who never files an income tax return is said to sometimes be in better case than one who files a return loaded with fibs. Even little white ones. Your Uncle Sam is inclined to be mighty persnicketty about fibs in income tax returns. So always remember to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth when you file your return. But of course you do.

No Bank Account

Al Capone said he never had a bank account. The published stories of his enormous earnings were, he intimated, vastly exaggerated. Also many of his alleged deeds. Or rather misdeeds.

"It would have been utterly impossible for me to have done some of the things charged to me," he said. "Physically impossible."

But Al Capone entertains no illusions about his public status. He thinks, however, that the tremendous amount of publicity he has received has damaged him more than anything else.

Capone mentioned the term racketeer as if it were particularly opprobrious to him.

"Racketeer!" he said, scornfully. "Why, the real racketeers are the banks."

He did not dilute on that thought. I hope some of my banker friends feel nice!

Regrets Publicity

He regrets the cumulative attention of the public prints.

"No matter what happened it was always Capone in big headlines," he said. "If it wasn't Capone being tried in this case you probably wouldn't have heard much of it. That publicity hasn't done me any good."

How much or how little of the high crime and misdemeanor charged against Al Capone be true is not for me to say. I didn't ask him. At the moment the question seemed impolitic. His broad swarthy face was perspiring in the warmth of the little ante room to which we had retired for the interview, and he was very earnest as he talked.

He spoke of his plea of guilty last summer to charges of income tax violations, and conspiracy to defeat the prohibition law. It was this plea, made under an alleged arrangement between Capone's attorneys and representatives of the government by which "the big fellow" was to get two and a half years in a federal prison that brought the announcement from Judge James H. Wilkerson that you cannot bargain with a federal court.

Plea Changed

Thereupon the plea was changed to not guilty, and it is on the latter plea that Al Capone goes to trial before Judge Wilkerson tomorrow.

"I talked the thing over not only with my own attorneys, but with friends of mine in whose advice I have the utmost confidence," said Al Capone. "I was confronted with the prospect of a long and most expensive fight, and my lawyers and my friends thought the best thing for me to do was to agree to a settlement with the government on the basis of a plea of guilty to violations of both the income tax and prohibition laws if the government would consent.

"I was weary of the struggle. I thought if I satisfied the government by serving a sentence, I could then come back, and live quietly the rest of my days. Well, you know what happened."

One thing that seems to weigh on his mind to some little extent is the six months sentence he got for contempt of court some time ago. This sentence, under the arrangement with the government, was to have run concurrent with the two and a half years had the famous deal gone through, I believe.

Claims Illness

The contempt was in not appearing on schedule time, Al Capone's defense being that he was sick in bed in Miami, and the fact that the court wouldn't believe what he insists was really the truth is what seems to bother Al Capone.

"I was really sick," he said, earnestly. "I was very sick, but the doctor who was attending me made an error in his statement to the court as to the length of time I was sick, and they wouldn't believe me. But I was certainly sick."

The sentence for contempt is up on appeal to a higher court.

"But no one ever beats a contempt sentence," said Al, briefly.

Political quarrels are something else that Al Capone feels have worked to his disadvantage.

"I'm always getting caught in the middle," he said. "I'm always getting caught in the middle, when I'd like to be way on the outside. Those things haven't done me any good in the long run."

"I know I'll get a fair trial, and I think I've got a good chance," he repeated, as the interview came to a close.

This afternoon Judge Wilkerson, who will preside over the trial, examined the panel of 100 veniremen, and excused 20 who had good excuses why they should not serve. Al Capone did not appear in court.

Magnetism Of Iron Explained

Ingredients of Force Are Like Fish in Trough

BERKELEY, Calif., Oct. 5. (AP)—A clearer picture of what "happens" within iron when it becomes magnetized and acquires the power to attract or repel other metals appears in conclusion based on a 20-year study of magnetism by Dr. S. J. Barnett, University of California physicist.

Since 1920 when the electron theory "had been considerably developed, the conviction was practically universal that magnetism was in some way related to the movement of electrons within the molecule and that the magnetism of the earth was causally connected with its rotation," says the official report of Dr. Barnett's most recent experiments.

Dr. Barnett finds that generally this theory is correct.

Finds Parallel in Fish

To visualize this process of magnetizing a piece of metal one can think of turning water into one end of a trough of young fish. With no current in the trough, the fish point in all directions, but when the current of water starts, the fish, turn with one accord and head up stream.

In the case of magnetism the fish would be represented by the "elementary magnets," or the tiny particle-like ingredients of this mysterious force.

When the "fish" are headed one way, the metal containing them is magnetized.

If a person strikes an iron magnet sharply with a hammer the "elementary magnets," like the fish, when the current stops, head in every direction and the magnetic power is temporarily broken.

Whirling Metal Magnetizes

In earlier experiments Dr. Barnett found that by whirling a piece of metal the "elementary magnets," having the properties of infinitely tiny "gyroscopes," could be brought to head in one direction—that is to spin on a common axis—and thus a non-magnetized piece of metal be converted into a magnet.

Although Dr. Barnett's experiments have not completely satisfied his original curiosity as to the cause of the earth's rotation will account for more of the earth's magnetism than any other single theory yet advanced.

RECONCILED

FORT WORTH, Texas.—Mrs. Mary Brown, her 13-year-old daughter, Jeanette, and the latter's 23-year-old husband, Jacey Rolling, are reconciled. Jeanette eloped with Jacey recently and they were married. Mrs. Brown threatened annulment proceedings immediately after the elopement, but Jeanette convinced her mother that she was really a big girl, that she loved her husband, and that she would live with him away from home if her mother wouldn't let them stay at her home.

An 1816 portrait by Ferneley brought $2,625 at an auction in London recently.

BANKER'S ROLE HAS CHANGED

Economic Conditions Alter Financier's Purpose

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
(Copyright, 1931, by Universal Service, Inc.)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 5.—The role of the banker, it was emphasized here today at the preliminary session of the 57th annual convention of the American Bankers association, has been altered by changing economic conditions.

In good times, the banker is the critic of the business man. The banker is called upon to put the brakes on over enthusiasm and excessive optimism. However, at this stage of the business depression, leading bankers think that it is their job to go into reverse and put the brakes on unreasoning pessimism. More than 1,000 of the chief money lenders from all parts of the United States are swapping opinions and ideas here, and the prevailing keynote is emphasis on the ability of the American people to dig in and work themselves out of the valley of gloom. There is a conscious striving here for harmony, and a deliberate avoidance of the traditional disputes which have heretofore divided the forces of the organized bankers.

Robinson Sounds Theme

A. C. Robinson, president, Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust company, and retiring president of the savnigs bank division of the association sounded the major theme of the convention, when he said: "Today it looks as if we had reached the nadir of depression, and that the final test of our system of civilization, of our social, economic and financial structures were at hand. If any one really doubts the final triumph of fundamental ideas on which we have builded our system, he has no place as a banker, for a banker of all perrons must not only exemplify the highest ideals of truth and morality, but must himself have an unshakable conviction of these ideals and their ultimate triumph."

Henry Bruere, president of the Bowery Savings bank of New York, said today that Americans should stop looking for an accidental way out of the depression, but should put their faith in purposeful planning and in the scientific method.

Crisis Reviewed

Fairman R. Dick, of Roosevelt & Son, New York, railroad banker, reviewed the current crisis in railroad earnings, and concluded: "I believe the government fully intends to give investors the protection so clearly stated in the transportation act. I feel confident that the other railroad problems will be worked out. In the past our nation has solved problems equally serious. I see no reason to doubt our success now."

Bankers here are in a mood to stress favorable aspects of the economic situation, which the speculative markets have been ignoring. For example, Thomas R. Preston, of Chattanooga, told me that, in spite of the low price for cotton, farmers in his section are not in distress, but are profiting on the ample provisions for their families from the insistence last year of country bankers on a policy of crop diversification.

Felix M. McWhirter, president of the Peoples State bank, Indianapolis, was elected president of the State Bank Division of the association, and Jay Morrison, vice president of the Washington Mutual Savings bank, of Seattle, was chosen president of the savings bank division.

Lone Survivor of Texas Kidnaping Band Indicted

TEXARKANA, Texas, Oct. 5. (AP)—A Cass county grand jury late today returned indictments against William Sullivan, 21, charging him with assault to murder and violation of the anti-mask law.

Sullivan was the lone survivor of a group of men who allegedly kidnaped J. H. Boyd, gasoline station operator, near Atlanta, Texas.

Hardy Luce, Earlton Sullivan, and Willard Fish were slain and William Sullivan wounded by Boyd. Boyd was wounded in the arm. Boyd was exonerated of blame in the shooting.

MASS FARMING TEST IN COURT

Kansas Cases to Contest Corporation Plan

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 5. (AP)—"Corporation farming," a political issue in Kansas since the farmers first felt the pinch of the depression, is engaged in a legal battle testing its right to exist.

Two of the largest of the state's score or more farm companies have been brought into court to defend themselves against suits in which Roland Boynton, attorney general, seeks to oust them from Kansas.

One of the concerns involved in the litigation in the state supreme court owns and operates 64,000 acres of land in western Kansas. It has more than 1,200 stockholders, many of them retired farmers, who have invested $3,000,000 in its securities. The other is somewhat smaller.

The attorney general seeks ouster of the companies on the ground they have exceeded corporate authority by engaging in farming for profit. An old law under which they were organized authorizes incorporations for "encouragement" of agriculture.

In requesting charter forfeiture proceedings against corporations engaged in grain farming, the house of representatives last winter adopted a resolution asserting the concerns were replacing individual farmers and depopulating the state.

The cry against farm corporations was raised in the Kansas political campaign a year ago. The Republican party in its state platform pledged itself to favor preventive legislation.

Mother Asks Sheriff To Aid Hunt for Daughter

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5. (AP)—Mrs. Future Williams, 38, formerly of Pine Bluff, Ark., was the object of a search by the sheriff's office today at the request of the woman's mother, Mrs. Laura Landon of Alhambra who told authorities she feared her daughter had met with foul play.

Mrs. Williams has not been heard from since July 14 when she disappeared with a 21-year-old clerk with whom Mrs. Landon reported her daughter eloped. Mrs. Landon said the clerk and her daughter had married at Tia Juana, Mexico. The young clerk's name was not given.

Mrs. Landon reported her daughter left home with $40,000 in cash, valuable jewelry, silver service and an expensive automobile. Mrs. Landon said the valuables were bequeathed to her by her first husband, M. E. Bloom, Arkansas banker.

Mrs. Williams was divorced from Dr. Harry E. Williams of Pine Bluff two years ago and when he died five weeks ago she was said by her mother to have collected $30,000 from a life insurance company, Dr. Williams having retained his estranged wife as beneficiary of the policy.

Some 140 students voted to publish the book at a meeting of the student body Friday. This is a sufficient number to publish the book if they will make their deposits before the book order is placed. Some 57 seniors, 30 juniors and 17 sophomores pledged to pay for the books.

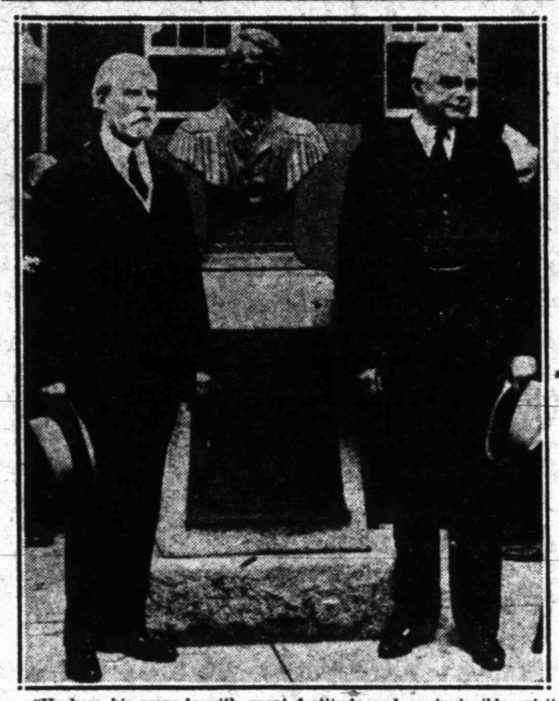

Hall County Hen Lays Eggs of Many Colors

MEMPHIS, Texas, Oct. 5. (AP)—A Shamrock, Texas hen got attention from the press as far away as London because of her "depression" eggs.

Now comes a Hall county hen that sets a mark at which Easter rabbits may shoot. She lays eggs adorned in the colors of the rainbow—at least some of the colors. The eggs were pink, orchid and a reddish brown.

The hen belongs to Mrs. J. W. Oliver of the Plaska community, and the eggs were examined by Miss Ruby Adams, home demonstration agent.

Hughes in Tribute to Predecessor

That was the tribute of one chief justice to a famed predecessor when, in the ceremony pictured above at Frederick, Md., Charles Evans Hughes (left) spoke at the unveiling of a bust of Roger Brooke Taney who headed the U .S. supreme court in the turbulent period preceding the civil war. Governor Albert Ritchie (right) of Maryland also was a speaker.

Inland Waterways Leader Foresees Completion of Great Project

BEAUMONT, Texas, Oct. 5. (AP)—Within two years the intra-coastal canal section from a point where it leaves the Mississippi river, 112 miles north of New Orleans, to the Sabine district in Texas, will be completed and in only a few more years the dream of a quarter of a century of progressive citizenship for an inland waterway from the Mississippi to the Rio Grande will be realized, according to word received here from Roy Miller, executive vice president of the canal association.

Miller summarized the present status of the project, as follows:

All right of ways on the section from the Sabine district to Galveston bay have been obtained and a contract let through Jefferson and Chambers counties. Specifications covering the completion of this section along Bolivar peninsula in Galveston county have been approved and authority to advertise for bids on construction may be received by the district engineer's office at Galveston before this statement appears in print.

Right of way work on the section south from Galveston to Corpus Christi is progressing satisfactorily and should be completed within the next few months so that actual construction work can be commenced.

Construction work on the other outlet from the Mississippi river at New Orleans to Morgan City, known as the Harvey route, is well under way, a contract having been let several months ago for the locks at Harvey, La., where the canal will leave the river, and bids having been advertised for dredging in Terrebonne parish.

An actual physical survey has just been inaugurated on the proposed extension of the waterway from Corpus Christi to the Rio Grande valley, $30,000 having been allotted only a few days ago by the secretary of war for that purpose.

Miller pointed out that with completion of the vast waterway system, it was acknowledged that favored centers on the canal, such as New Orleans, Lake Charles, Orange, Beaumont, Port Arthur, Galveston, Texas City, Houston, Freeport and Corpus Christi, would have distinct advantage over inland cities, and that such a disadvantage could be offset by those inland cities preparing for navigable streams to connect with the canal.

In this connection Fort Worth and Dallas business leaders have inaugurated a movement to bring about canalization of the Trinity river. Communities along the Guadalupe river have mapped out a similar program, and plans have been formulated looking toward the canalization of the San Antonio river.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Oct. 5. (AP)—A map of old Fort Lancaster, which has no buildings and only a few chimneys remaining, now is a part of the records of the University of Texas, Frank Friend, surveyor of the lands of the school, has finished the surveying of the 144 section university block, the bearings for which were located in the center of the parade ground of the old fort.

Tombstone Set For Its Annual 'Helldorado'

TOMBSTONE, Ariz., Oct. 5. (UP)—This old mining town, with its "boot hill" cemetery, quaint adobe buildings and colorful history, is buzzing again with activity in preparing for its annual Helldorado, Oct. 9 to 12.

The Holldorado, designed to show how Tombstone lived during its hell roaring" days, is about all the old town has left.

Once again bearded miners will go on the prowl and the crash of six guns echo through the dusty streets during enactment of 10 of the episodes of the camp's bloody history.

Just outside Tombstone is "boot hill" cemetery—a place where men who died with their boots on were buried in unmarked graves. Approximately 200 fallen warriors found their way into that graveyard.

There is something tragic now about Tombstone. It is a village of less than a thousand and in its Helldorado pays tribute to a period in its history when from 15,000 to 20,000 persons called it home. It was, at one time, the largest city between New Orleans and San Francisco.

For a long time Tombstone remained the seat of vast Cochise county. But a year or so ago an election transferred the county seat to the copper town of Bisbee.

So now the old town lives mostly on its tourist crop. Through the year the curious drop in to see "boot hill," the execution square where frontier sheriffs meted out punishment and various other places of interest.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 5. (AP)—Daniel Flores, who shot and wounded President Ortiz Rubio in February, 1930, was granted a technical suspension of his 20-year prison sentence today by the supreme court.

U S C C REPORTS ON BUSINESS

Detailed Survey of Trade Problems Made

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5. (UP)—A detailed report on the economic situation, with proposals for meeting the present depression and dealing with future ones, was presented to the nation today by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The report was submitted by the chamber's committee on continuity of business and employment. Its recommendations will be sent to all chambers of commerce for a referendum vote.

The committee urged amendment of the anti-trust laws to permit national economic council of three or five members, under non-governmental auspices, to study economic problems of all kinds and try to rationalize business methods.

The committee believes that depressions such as the present one are the natural results of periods during which men, seeking profit, speculate and produce too much goods.

Measures recommended to stabilize conditions included individual planning by manufacturers to regularize employment, and the accumulation of reserves by employing companies so that unemployment, sickness, accident, and old age insurance may be paid.

The committee, in its recommendations for immediate alleviation of unemployment, urged a plan of "individualizing the unemployed," or sorting out workers to fit jobs that might be available.

Compared to European nations, this country's problems are "relatively much smaller and well within our resources if we use our well-tested American methods," the report said.

Bandits Shot After Wounding of Victim

SAN ANTONIO, Oct. 5. (INS)—Police today were searching for two bandits who last night shot and seriously wounded Erwin Canada, a local druggist.

Canada had just closed his store and with his wife was en route to a street car when the two bandits drove up in a car. One man alighted and ordered the druggist to surrender the day's receipts.

Canada grappled with the man, but the bandit broke away and fired one shot into Canada's body. The bandits escaped without obtaining any money.

Taylor was in a critical condition at a Tulsa hospital.

The wounded man said Pressley, who was one of three passengers in a car that drove up to the filling station, opened fire on him while he was servicing the auto. Pressley was recently divorced from Taylor's daughter.

CHILE DEFEATS RADICAL CHIEF

Montero Wins Decisive Victory in Election

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 5. (AP)—Juan Esteban Montero, middle-aged newcomer to politics, succeeded today to the presidency of Chile in an election attended by disorders and marked by at least five deaths.

Montero decisively defeated his radical opponent, Arturo Alessandri, receiving 183,428 votes to Alessandri's 100,000. This was a plurality of approximately 64 per cent. To be elected, a candidate must receive at least 50 per cent of the votes.

Two Communist candidates received only 3,785 votes between them.

Official figures showed five persons killed in yesterday's election disorders, all in Santiago. Unofficial reports said at least 10 lost their lives. Sixty persons were injured in the country-wide rioting, and approximately 300 arrests were made.

President Montero takes up the post vacated by former President Carlos Ibanez who was overthrown in July and fled into Argentina. He previously was appointed acting president and took leave of absence to carry on his campaign, leaving Vice President Manuel Trucco at the head of the government.

Senor Alessandri, defeated for the first time in his career, took the verdict philosophically and admitted his opponent's victory. "The nation has spoken," he said, "and I congratulate the winner. I trust the verdict at the polls will satisfy the country." His remarks were interpreted as a command to his followers to accept the result without agitation.

Syrup Production Sets New Mark

PARIS, Texas, Oct. 5. (AP)—Sorghum syrup production in Lamar county this year will exceed all previous records, according to A. L. Edmiaston, county agent, who estimated an increased production over last year of 500 gallons to one.

Construction of more than 70 sorghum pans by local tinners this season as compared with three pans built last year substantiates the county agent's estimate.

The majority of the sorghum mills in the county are operated by horsepower while approximately 10 mills in operation are powered by gasoline engines.

Sorghum mill operators produce the syrup on a toll basis.

Texas Facts

By BILL EDWARDS

Texas produces more turkeys than any other state in the union and the crop contributes sizeably to the total Texas income. The 1930 crop brought growers $6,500,000 and the 1930 crop is estimated to be about the same as last year's, in spite of some sections of the state showing decreases.

HELPING BUILD TEXAS

That industrial development is the "way out" to prosperity for Texas is the opinion of a number of Texas business men in a series of interviews carried in Texas papers. One of them pointed to the results of a national economic survey recently made by the Gifford employment committee, in which "unchanged" was the report from all sections except New England where, the report said, "conditions were generally improving." New England's present prosperity was ascribed to its diversified industrial development. . . . Industrialization of Texas is proceeding slowly—how slowly is shown by the fact that, topping all the other states in many ways, particularly in the production of raw materials, Texas manufactured products in 1930 represented only 2.1 per cent of the national total, with petroleum products representing considerably more than half the $1,500,000 manufactures accredited to the state . . . Resume of the past week shows, however, that new factories are still being started in Texas, and other industrial activities going on indicative of greater industrial interest in the future. Six fruit packing plants are planned by the Rio Grande Vegetable Cooperative at McAllen, Edinburg, Edcouch, Los Fresnos, Primaera and Brownsville. Contract is let for a new oil pipe line from Longview to Smith's Bluff. Beaumont is to build two cotton warehouses and a new barge terminal, Galveston a new warehouse. Corpus Christi reports work starting on the $10,000,000 first unit of the Southern Alkali corporation's chemical plant. Houston reports plans complete for a new-process oil refinery of 25,000 barrels daily capacity with $2,000,000 to be spent in the producing field where the oil is to be partially processed and $3,000,000 in the refinery, with 100 men given employment in the field and 300 at the refinery.

Collingsworth Wins Fair Exhibit Award

Special to The Record News.

WELLINGTON, Texas, Oct. 5.—Collingsworth county's exhibit was awarded third place at the Panhandle-Plains fair in Lubbock, it has been announced by C. C. Stinson, county agent, who was in charge of the exhibit. Collingsworth county scored higher on major crops than any other county exhibiting at Lubbock, winning 286 points out of a possible 300.

"We have the best county exhibit ever assembled by Collingsworth," Mr. Stinson said, "and I feel sure we will make a better showing at Dallas this year than ever before when the Collingsworth exhibit is placed at the state fair."

A German chemist has discovered how to make edible bread from cotton. And many a new husband, sampling the biscuits, will wonder if his wife has heard about it.

London bridges, it seems, are not the only English institutions falling down.

Making Pancakes

AT A RECENT food show in Los Angeles there was displayed a nice shiny machine which turns out pancakes automatically—turns them out in large quantities, too, delivering 35 on the platter every minute.

This, no doubt, is a triumph of modern ingenuity. Yet there were certain housewives, back on the farm in the old days, who—while they might have longed earnestly for such a machine—would hardly have been impressed by its productive capacity.

Cooking breakfast for a dozen hungry men in harvest time, the farmer's wife learned things about turning out pancakes in quantity that might make an inventor pause. The whole stove, properly greased and heated red hot, became a griddle. The cakes went to the table in great stacks. Perhaps no housewife ever made as many as 35 a minute—but the figure, among the experts, certainly wasn't far below that mark.

Use of Vaccination

THE warning that large parts of the United States are in danger of epidemics of smallpox—a warning recently given the American Public Health association by a Metropolitan Life Insurance company expert—comes as a surprise to a nation which had supposed smallpox a disease that had been conquered.

The trouble, it seems, is that in many neighborhoods there is still a strong sentiment against vaccination. It is precisely in these neighborhoods that smallpox is most prevalent. It is noteworthy that the most thickly populated eastern states had the fewest cases of the disease.

Vaccination offers a sure method of fighting smallpox. Any community that makes an intelligent and determined use of this method has little to fear. But any community that refuses to use it is flirting with danger.

Diverting Politics

THE LITERARY DIGEST announces plans for another presidential preference poll. Calvin Coolidge makes known he will not be a candidate for the presidential nomination and urges all good Republicans to come to the aid of that party and the support of President Hoover. Governor Sterling intimates he will be a candidate for re-election and Democratic candidate for congress in Missouri wins a sweeping victory over a Republican and independent candidate.

Verily politics are beginning to stir and for the next 12 months we shall have something to talk about besides the depression.

And isn't it a good thing to have politics for a divertisement, or anything that will divert our attention from the sadness of our situation.

And there is this about the approaching political campaign: it will be as diverting as any we have had in this country in many years.

The American Theater

GILBERT SWAN, Broadway columnist, reports that revivals of old-time music shows are becoming increasingly popular these days.

A season or two ago the Gilbert and Sullivan operettas were put on to packed houses. More recently some producer revived "The Merry Widow," and profited thereby. Now "The Chocolate Soldier" is being played, and the Broadway crowds seem to like it immensely.

All of this, for some reason, reminds one just a little bit of Henry Ford's passion for restoring buildings, villages and furniture of a century or more ago.

The motor king—who probably did as much as anyone to make complete the gap between the present and the slow-moving, picturesque past—seems to have been assailed by the same emotion that has overtaken New York's theater patrons; a rather wistful longing for a past that won't come back, a feeling that the modern era somehow lacks something that it is good to have.

Those out-moded musical shows emphasize the point.

The theater then, as wise-cracking Cartoonist John Held remarks, was "fraught with romance" in real truth. It could be flip and sly on occasion, of course; but the old moonlight-and-honeysuckle, tinsel-and-stardust recipe was its staple, and the patrons who thrived on it could feel that the romance that came across the footlights was not so terribly far removed from real life, after all.

Today things are different. Our highest-priced music show stars are not ineffably handsome tenors any more; they are clowns, in blackface or in the guise of leering boulevardiers. Instead of trying to transport us into a magic land of beautiful princesses and gallant young officers they tease us with wisecracks. They try to evoke guffaws in place of dreams.

To be sure, the change was inevitable, and probably we are better for it. The Graustarkian, Prince-of-Pilsen era was based on a profound mistake, and it dissolved quickly in the lyddite fumes along the western front in 1914. But because that era lent itself to romantic dreams of that kind, we of today—who have lost most of our dreams, and feel the loss badly—look back, and listen to the old tunes and enjoy the old adventures, and wish that we could get it back.

Quotations Worth Noting

Carnival
(From "City Child")

The circus dancer prances in a petticoat of yellow,
The proud drum-major waves his hand and makes the music play—
The clown pretends to play a tune upon a stringless 'cello,
The elephants catch peanuts, and the waiting horses neigh.
The lion tamer and his wife expose themselves to dangers
While the people in the stands applaud and marvel at the sight—
And behind a door that's labeled: "No admittance here to strangers"
An old and mumbling woman mends a pair of scarlet tights.

The Old Story

When Rudy Vallee was a sax tooter in Gilda Gray's cafe on 15th Street long before he was famous, he once asked Daniel Frohman, owner of the Lyceum Theatre next door, if he might use an empty dressing room so he could rehearse.

"I'm afraid not," said Frohman.

The other night at the Chevalier dinner they sat next to each other. Rudy recalled the incident.

"I'm sorry," said Frohman, "but I'll tell you what. Anytime you want to use my theatre to rehearse come right over. I'll even make my actors wait until you are through."

"That's fame for you," said a listener. "Look at Chevalier. They give him a dinner now that he can afford to buy one!"

Hehehch

And Master Elinson argues that one advantage of being a nudist is that the wife can't find another woman's gloves in your pocket.

Goodness!

Jerome Kern, who never raises his voice, bawled out the entire "Cat and Fiddle" company the other day in Philadelphia.

"I've lost my patience with you," he bellowed. "One of you in this cast is a scoundrel. I could tear him in two!"

"Heavens!" ejaculated one of the frightened troupers, "What is wrong, Mr. Kern?"

"Aw," groaned the composer, "when we came down on the train from New York, I left my crossword puzzle on my seat. And when I came back—somebody had finished it!"

Not a Laugh in a Carr-Load

Frisco, the joker, has suddenly turned dramatic critic. At Reuben's early this morning somebody remarked that Alex Carr's recent casualty, "The Wooden Soldier," might have been better.

"Carr," said the talker, "was advised to put some laughs in it! But he said: 'Laughs? Not me! I make them cry! I'm dramatic!'"

"And was it dramatic?"

"Very," snapped Frisco, "one consekkative week!"

As If We Didn't Know

David Murray of Bridgeport observes that a Lucy Stoner is a woman who only uses her husband's name to charge things with, and that a Scotsman is a person who brings an empty flask to the party.

An X Marked the Spot

In a city not five hours from Broadway last year was the most prosperous night club in the world, they tell you. It drew the smartest people and its annual profit was $160,000.

But it took a ten-dollar bill to melt that 160 thou! It started when the leader of the popular orchestra told the management that a sax player wanted a $10 raise. The management refused. The crew threatened to quit the leader, as a result, and rather than lose his men he arranged backing for a night club across the way.

The town, it seems, just wouldn't support two of them—so both rendezvous failed. It turned out all right for the orchestra, however, for it now enjoys the distinction of being among the prospering favorites on the air waves.

Add Sillies

A person like Earl LaVere can carry a joke too far. He's now going about telling listeners that he knows a Scotsman, who found a package of cough drops and started looking for a draught!

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Overheard

One of the boys asked Monta Bell, "Are times really so tough on Broadway?"

"Well," said Bell, "instead of tin cups the blind men are using thimbles!"

Logic

When Jack Benny, the big-time comic was in London recently he discussed Evelyn Laye, the British star, with his booking agent there. "Her name," said the agent, is not 'Ev-lin'—but 'Eve-e-lyn'!"

"But it always sounds so funny," said Benny, "to hear you all say 'Eve-a-lyn' when you mean 'Ev-lin.'"

"Please," begged the Englishman "it sounds just as funny to us to hear you Americans say 'Ev-lin.' Don't forget. After all, we came first!"

Don't Wake Me Up
(Let Me Dream!)

According to Variety, a mid-western commentator visiting Broadway recently and returned home irritated with us all. He so asserted in a piece for his paper and grumbled long and loud.

Particularly distressing to him were our first-nighters. They were such bores. So much so—that many people in New York, he added, went to the 2nd nights to avoid them.

Another writer, according to a conferee, recently returned to the town from which he came (for success) and lambasted the columnists, New York and Broadway.

Such attacks are annoying when you pause to think of the damage they might do to Broadway. Such pieces in the papers might frighten away visitors and then maybe the traffic congestion would be relieved!

THE GIRL WHO WON

By May Christie

Young and vivacious Nollie Day, public stenographer at an exclusive New York hotel, is befriended by the wealthy Mrs. Judson, a widow. One evening, Nollie goes to the theater in place of Mrs. Judson, where she meets handsome Tony O'Brien. She reveals her own identity but Tony does not hear her. Later in the evening she refrians from repeating her explanation for fear that Tony would lose interest when he learned the truth. Next day, Tony telephones and learns Mrs. Judson has gone abroad. Disbelieving the report, he comes to the hotel. He looks at Nollie without recognition but she believes it is because he has discovered her masquerade. Before Nollie can reach him, he disappears. Nollie secures a new position as secretary to Jack Brilling of Galbraith & Co. Miss Galbraith, Brilling's fiances is jealous when Brilling takes Nollie to dinner and warns Nollie against overstepping. Brilling tells Nollie he loves her.

Miss Galbraith enters the office just as Nollie frees herself from Brilling's embrace. Nollie is discharged.

Mrs. Judson gives Nollie a letter Tony had written her abroad. Intending to help Nollie and set the matter straight, she phones Tony to learn he has left on a vacation.

CHAPTER XXI

Tony O'Brien was off on his vacation!

As soon as fate—in the shape of Jinny Judson—had given Nollie his letter—fate had dashed an immediate meeting from the map!

"The office won't give me his address, nor will they even promise to forward letters. I'll say that's a funny arrangement."

Mrs. Judson was disgruntled over this denouement to the romance. She liked things "to move."

"Maybe meeting you and then losing you has given him a nervous breakdown?" she suggested hopefully, "maybe he's under doctor's orders? Or maybe he's peeved?"

"Oh, no. He's bound to have forgotten our meeting by now."

"Why so? Don't have an inferiority complex."

But Mrs. Judson was erratic. Almost immediately she seemed to have lost interest in the romance.

But not in Nollie Day. She'd taken a fancy to the girl. She wanted to talk to someone sympathetic.

So she babbled of her trip abroad. She'd had two offers of marriage, it transpired. One from a titled Frenchman.

"But he was only after my money, of course. Persistent as the dickens, just the same. He followed me all the way to Saint Juan in the south of France."

Came a vivid description of the life down there. And hectic doings on the shores of the Mediterranean.

"It's a gay life. Awfully expensive, of course, because the place is founded by and run for the Americans."

A recital followed that consisted chiefly of gambling, flirting and drinking.

"We were all so blotto—I mean, lit—we scarcely saw the scenery, magnificent as it is—though we kept tearing round in high-powered cars. Dashing over to Cannes, and Monte Carlo, and to all kinds of restaurants and quaint rendezvous high up in the Alps maritimes."

Nollie was intrigued by stories of far countries. She tried to thrust to the back of her mind all thoughts of this young O'Brien . . .

"There was the most fascinating restaurant called the 'Colombe d'Or' —way up in the mountains—"

It seemed the window had gone there one night, deep in a flirtation with an Italian.

"Titled, too. But he was only playing with me. He thinks American women are good enough to flirt with, but he'd a girl back home in Milan he was going to marry."

This attitude had quite annoyed the widow. In her heart she had believed in the vast "drawing" power of her money!

"I like their manners, but they irritate me so—those foreigners!"

She told Nollie of all-night sessions in the baccarat rooms in the Casino.

"They play till 3 and 4 and 5 a. m. Millionaires from every country in the world. Princes, dukes and dark-skinned maharajahs from India."

Cosmopolitan this trip had been. Jinny felt herself one of what she called, airily (with a droll French accent) "le monde qui s'amuse."

"Couldn't you be—what's the expression?—my social secretary?"

"And can you imagine, there was a handsome young Scotsman in Saint Juan, who'd think nothing of losing a million at the baccarat tables in the casino without turning a hair?"

It seemed that the volatile widow had lost considerably, herself. But she had chalked it all up to "a good time." It had not affected her.

"One's only young once. And I'm not so very young at that. I can spend my money any way I fancy."

Nollie couldn't help think of her own lost salary!

Out of a job was she! Well, life was incongruous!

The widow babbled on. All that she wanted was a good listener.

"We'd drive in the dawn to Cannes, and have another flutter at the tables. Then out on someone's yacht . . . and finish the night with a swift party."

Nollie considered this. After all, what had Mrs. Judson really got out of her holiday?

A depleted pocket-book! Health not improved . . . she looked quite thin and pale! And a new set of hangers-on and toadiers.

"Look here, my dear, I've been boring you for a solid hour and I want to do something for you, besides handing you this letter from the admirer who's inopportunely away on his vacation. I like you, and I'd like to give you some sort of a job."

"That's very kind of you, Mrs. Judson," said Nollie shyly. She thought that this interest was merely "a mood."

Jinny Judson considered a minute.

"I plan to go right up to my ranch and rest after my hectic trip abroad."

"Yes?"

"And why wouldn't you come with me? There's an idea! Couldn't you be—what's the expression—my social secretary?"

Nollie said truthfully, "I want to be fair to you. I don't know anything about housekeeping."

"Well, I have a competent housekeeper, anyhow," admitted Jinny Judson. "But—stop a minute—I just remembered that I plan to write a book and you'd certainly come in useful with the typewriting."

"A book!"

"Yes. A novel that's going to take its leading characters from life. It'll be a scorcher for some of the women."

"How do you mean?"

Mrs. Judson smiled enigmatically. "Don't you know it's the height of fashion to write one's autobiography and to make it as indiscreet as possible?"

"I read that somewhere."

"Well, I'm going to put all the cats into a novel. Sort of just thinly veiled so they and others can recognize themselves—"

"You would? But if you said anything they didn't like, wouldn't that be libelous?"

"Who cares? A case drags on for 20 years in the courts of the good old U. S. A. And, anyhow, we'd all get a big kick out of it."

Nollie laughed gaily. She was intrigued.

"You think you could dictate this book to me?"

"Why not? We'd get it published in the autumn."

"We'd work up on your ranch?"

"Yes. And it's near the Canadian border and it's cool up there. I've lots of visitors. You'd help me in all sorts of ways. You'd have a good time."

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 5. (AP)—Agrarians of four Mexican states have requested the senate to enact a law permitting military instruction of the small farmers with a view to eventually consolidating armed agrarian groups into a federal organization.

Armed agrarian bands have existed throughout the country for some time but until now no effort at consolidation had been made.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

After two nights spent in driving (it was not joy riding,) I was dead for sleep Monday morning and stayed in bed until near noon. I wondered if anything could bring back my interest in life; wonder did not last long.

When I opened my door, the first sound I heard was a voice broadcasting the world series. So clear, so plain it was I might have been there, and I stood listening for a moment, wishing I were.

I went down to the next floor and swelling out in magnificent sound, came the sound of the national air; then I wished it even more. With 40,000 people waiting for the game beside the ones perched on the tenement houses near the park, there must have been many a thrill when the band played.

40,000 people inside the gates. Some one had a little small change, did they not? It is always that way. There's always money to spend on the great American sports, baseball, football and boxing.

And doubtless, among those perched on the tenement roofs where the plays might be seen, were men who had not worked for many a day. Well, it is a good thing there are amusements that will take the mind off trouble.

There is a faculty that should be cultivated in every person; when something is wrong that cannot be helped; some sorrow has come that cannot be escaped, it is only the right and proper thing to turn the trend of thought another way.

There was a time when this seemed to me heartlessness. But I have outgrown that. There have been too many nights when I would have lain sleepless until the dawn. A book sometime will hold my mind from turning to thoughts that would leave me heartsick.

We have others than ourselves to live for—a real excuse for not indulging in sorrow. Long ago I heard a woman say that when everything was wrong, all she could do was to dismiss it. I thought then that she never felt sorrow as I felt it.

But what is right in hugging sorrow to your bosom. It is being as weak as those poor humans who enjoy being ill.

Akin to them are those who thrill over being first to be able to repeat a scandal. "Oh have you heard!" People who get a thrill from such things keep a phone hot when a horrible tale comes to their ears.

The world is a long way from being Utopia. I hear one say there is no depression like the local depression; I hear another say such and such a city or state is bankrupt. But it is a long way to the fall of western civilization. And somehow I feel so long as these people who have financial worry and mental trials can keep a brave smile on their faces and keep on keeping on, things will right themselves.

And I hear someone (mentally) saying "What a sap!"

Mrs. Eugene Liepold opened the meeting with prayer and the program included many lovely numbers. Mrs. Thomas Korn gave two readings and Miss Mary Virginia Barron, accompanied by Mrs. Joe Art at the piano sang two beautiful numbers. Mrs. William Rosenblatt gave the closing prayer.

Kiwanis Told Of Big Fire Losses

Fire losses impose a part of their cost upon every individual in a community regardless of whether or not he owns insured property, Roy E. Carter, chairman of the Junior chamber of commerce fire prevention committee, told members of the Kiwanis club Monday noon in opening local observance of national fire prevention week.

"Those who own no property may think they are escaping the fire tax," the speaker said, "but every time they buy a suit of clothes, or any other commodity, they must help pay the insurance upon that merchandise and the building in which it was kept.

"We should draw a helpful lesson too from knowing that of the fire losses reported in Texas last year, $34,000,000 was caused by matches or the carelessness of smokers. Two-thirds of the lives lost were in residences, and more than half the victims were children of 10 years or younger."

It was announced that short radio talks would be made every night this week from station KGKO at 6:55 o'clock on fire prevention.

Miss Louise Turney, tap dancer; Miss Margaret Key, in a song and dance number; and Miss Ardinella Shaw, reader, presented a program of entertainment Monday.

Bonds Approved By Commissioners Court

Routine business occupied the commissioners court in a brief session Monday. Bonds of J. W. Thompson, deputy public weigher in precinct No. 2, and J. W. Crawford, independent public weigher in this city, were approved by the court. Commissioner W. R. Knauth was authorized to sell two mules now owned by the county but for which there is no further use.

Reports for the past month were received from Miss Ethel Luise Webb, county home demonstrator; Miss Elizabeth Hall, county clerk; and T. W. McHam, treasurer of the Wichita county drainage district No. 2.

The court will meet next in its regular weekly session next Monday.

COUNTY BUILDS CULVERT

Improved drainage at a low spot on the Petrolia road about three miles from this city is being provided in the form of a new 18-foot concrete culvert, according to Commissioner M. A. Bundy.

The new structure will replace two small culverts which have proved inadequate for drainage at times of heavy rainfall, Mr. Bundy said. Dumps adjoining the culverts were being damaged by flood waters, and backwater threatened to make nearby lands marshy.

County Court to Drop All Cases Two Years Old

All civil cases two years or more old will be dismissed from the docket in the county court at law Tuesday morning unless counsel for plaintiffs appear to show cause why such filings should not be dismissed, according to Judge Irvin J. Vogel.

One misdemeanor case was handled in the county court at law Monday, according to County Attorney L. V. Abernathy. A man entered a plea of guilty to a charge of vagrancy, and was fined $1 and costs.

First Methodist W. M. S. Hears Talk On Standards

In the social meeting marking the all-day autumn get-together session of the First Methodist W. M. S., Monday morning, a high degree of interest and enthusiasm was shown in plans for work. Mrs. W. W. Cook presided and Mrs. Stanley M. Raub gave the song opening the session and the devotional was led by Mrs. C. A. Spragins on the subject "Standards." In her talk she gave a beautiful outline of standards that form the basic foundation of a Christian natio.

"What is your standard of faith?" she asked and "What is your standard of righteousness?" stating that individual selfishness has led us to believe in our own standards, whether or not they have been tested. "Paul said to prove all things and keep that which is right," Mrs. Spragins said. "To know the truth and make it the standard, one can find it in life as exemplified by the life of Jesus."

Standards of giving were stressed, the speaker stating that one could not give indiscriminately without harming the one to whom she gave. Her splendid talk was closed with the question "Are your standards responsible for the crime that cost the United States $1,119,000,000 in the past year?"

Mrs. Spragins also gave a report of the zone meeting at Ringgold and brought recommendations from the district secretary on connectional work, especially regarding the week of prayer. Mrs. D. J. Carithers gave the prayer.

Social Luncheon

The plate lunch served by Mrs. Homer Lee and her circle to 93 members conformed in its pretty style with the social event of the morning and roses used in decoration added to the beauty of the setting.

In the business meeting in the afternoon, Mrs. E. N. Ash was named leader of circle seven to take the place of Mrs. A. W. Karrenbrock who has moved from the city. Mrs. L. I. Lucey was named social service chairman and Mrs. E. S. Easton to take charge of publicity.

Mrs. Q. B. Lee, representative to the Federated Missionary society, announced the next quarterly meeting to take place at the Presbyterian church Oct. 29 and said that November was courtesy month for the day nursery for the First Methodist women.

Mrs. W. W. Silk gave a report of the past quarter and the closing prayer. Mrs. W. A. Mangum was introduced as a new member and visitors were Mesdames V. C. Netherton and Jack Craven.

100 Cubes of Morphine Seized by Detectives

Morphine valued at $200 was seized by police here late Monday. One man was arrested and lodged in the city jail. Charges of possession of narcotics probably will be filed against the prisoner in district court Tuesday.

Detectives A. L. Stubblefield and George Garrett found the drug supply buried near the man's home on the Petrolia road. The morphine, approximately 100 cubes, was divided into three packs and buried at different spots outside the home, officers said.

The seizure is the largest reported here in many months.

Old Newspapers' Market

WASHINGTON, (INS) — The United States supplied 97 per cent of the over-issue newspapers imported into Hong Kong, China, during the fiscal year ended April 30, 1931, total receipts of which amounted to 26,545 short tons, according to a report received in the commerce department from Assistant Trade Commissioner David M. Mayhard at Hong Kong. Newspapers are in demand in China by the manufacturers of fire-crackers and topees, by the poorer classes as a substitute for window glass, and by small shops to wrap up purchases. This latter use is by far the most important.

Mountain farmers in Ireland say their potato crop this year is the smallest since 1879.

It is not easy to be "up and doing" when that body of yours seems to rebel against work or play.

So often the reason is simple—that good body of ours has "run-down" under the strain of our way of living ... pressure of work and worry.

Those important precious red-blood-cells that mean so much to vitality become lowered in count ... the hemoglobin percentage begins to fall and we wonder "what is the matter."

That "tired feeling" may be a warning ... so are pimples, boils and paleness. A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease. A lagging appetite often leads to underweight and ill health.

Varieties of Cheese

All cheeses are submitted to some type of bacterial, enzymic, or molding action. The variations in these are largely responsible for the distinctions of taste that are noticeable in the cheeses of different lands.

In some cheese such as the Camembert, the mold is almost entirely confined to the rind, and the ripening process is caused by the absorption of the enzymes produced on the surface; in other cheese, such as Gammclost, the fungi grow all through the cheese and actually absorb the casein to such an extent that instead of eating cheese flavored by the mold one eats the mold flavored with cheese.

Roquefort cheese is named after the French village of Roquefort, where special herds of sheep that supply the milk are pastured. Much care is given to the diet of these sheep, and even the water that is supplied them is whitened with barley flour. Roquefort cheese, itself, goes through a very long process of preparation before it reaches the market.

The Cheddar cheese, named after the village of Cheddar, England, is much like our American York State, or Canadian, cheese. It is made from sweet milk, but the milk may be either whole, partly skimmed, and the cheeses may be white or colored yellow, and marketed either fresh or thoroughly ripened.

Cottage cheese, or "Schmierkase," as it is called in Germany, is a sour skim-milk cheese, which is usually eaten quite fresh, but may be packed away in tubs to prevent further ripening. An excellent cheese may be made at home as follows: Allow whole milk to stand in the ice box for about 10 days. Pour both curd and whey which have formed, into a bowl, beat with an egg beater, pour into a sacked-shaped cheese cloth, tie the ends with a string, and hang in the sun until all the whey drips away. This is something like the cottage cheese, but made with the whole milk has a richer flavor and is smooth, due to the fact that the normal amount of butter fat remains. Cheese made in this way is more easily digested than when the milk is partially cooked over the fire.

There is never any excuse for throwing away either skimmed or whole milk, for cheese can always be made from left-over milk. It is better to keep the milk on ice so that the bacterial changes take place slowly.

Cheese should always be considered a very hearty food, and cannot be used advantageously by htose who have a weak digestion.

All cheeses are concentrated food, containing on an average of from 20 to 35 per cent of caseln which is similar to the protein found in meat. Cheese also contains from 15 to 30 per cent of fat.

It is well to remember that cheese, like all concentrated food, has a tendency to produce constipation. If used with plenty of greens this tendency will be overcome.

Most vegetarians are really lacto-vegetarians, and though cheese is an animal product, or made from an animal product, nevertheless, they find if no meat or eggs are used that cheese furnishes all the proteid necessary for the building of cell structure, and few vegetarians try to get along without milk or cheese.

The great economic merit of cheese rests in the much longer life it gives to the use of milk, and making it valuable also as a non-perishable food.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

High Blood Pressure, Overweight

Question: Mr. R. writes—"The last time I had my blood pressure taken it was 220 degrees. I weigh 195 pounds, am five feet four inches tall, age 37. I have tried all kinds of medicines and treatments but don't seem to be able to reduce my blood pressure or my weight. What would you suggest?"

Answer—Your blood pressure can be brought down considerably and your weight reduced to normal by taking short acid fruit fasts of four or five days at intervals of about a month apart, being careful to eat principally non-starchy vegetables in between, using some protein foods but very little of the sugars, starches, and fats.

Sighing

Question: O. Y. inquiries—"What causes me to sigh deeply? I don't realize what I am doing until afterwards. Sometimes I sigh so deeply that I catch my breath."

Answer—The habit of sighing is usually caused by lack of oxygen in the body. One can usually overcome this by the use of deep breathing exercises four or five times a day. You should also take long walks every morning, breathing deeply while you are walking.

Finger Strengthening Exercise

Question: Miss Jean writes—"My fingers are very weak. Is there anything that I can do to strengthen them? What sort of exercise could I use?"

Answer—A good exercise to strengthen the fingers is to spread out a full-sized sheet of newspaper, grasp one corner with the fingers at arm's length, and then with the fingers gradually pull the newspaper into the hollow of the hand, trying to crush it into a ball which will fit into your hand.

More From Electra

An alleged poet of Electra, probably associated with that Shaver gang, writes under the name of "John Milton the Last."

We thought we had heard "the last" of those rhymsters in Electra, especially after Dorothy Milner of Henrietta had written that all of us were far short of being poets. But alas, from Electra there comes more.

The letter starts off with "Say, Rambler—" Although accustomed to being addressed, in letters, as "Dear Sir," we read on further and find Mr. Milton declaiming as follows:

"We thought you had decided we could write poetry. Between us enemies, we think we can beat you, Nocona and Dot Milner of Henrietta. Let's have a contest, the winner to receive an award (possibly a cash award as we can always use cash). Evidently you still think us punk according to your last Wednesday's corner.

"Our latest poetic attempt is enclosed with apologies to Samuel Pepys and his Diary:

Up to the office and there till four,
Up to the office to draw his pay
Like Mr. Pepys in the days of yore
The Rambler passed his earthly day.

Early he rose or late he lay,
Donned his clothes and ate his bread,
Went to the office to write his say,
Up to the office...and so to bed.

Saw the Spudders do their bit,
Chased the Coyotes till they were sore,
Long in the office he would sit
Writing punk poetry some more.

This is the sum of his earthly day
So to church for an hour to pray
That Electra Shavers wouldn't trim his head.
Asked for a raise but they said nay
Up to the office...and so to bed.

Donned the suit he always wore;
His accounts he never would pay,
His wit his readers did deplore—
This is the sum of his earthly day.

So to The Record News and thence away,
Home, and a volume of Dante read,
Thought "Paradise Lost" to be gay—
Up to the office and so to bed.

L'Envoi

Gather ye roses, Rambler, while ye may,
This is the sum of your earthly day,
And when the whole of it's done and said,
Up to the office...and so to bed.

Well, it is not exactly my custom to go up to the office "and so to bed," but we confess, Mr. Milton (and we trust you are, indeed, the last) that the cacophonous upheaval of unrelated sentences that you choose to call poetry puts me into a sound snooze.

We awake with a yawn to inform you that your proposed contest is no go. I need stiffer competition. For Pete's sake, Mr. Milton, fall in love, or in a well, or something. A sudden catastrophe like that might inspire you to better verse. At any rate, it couldn't be worse.

If you show any signs of improving, I might change my mind about the poetry contest. If I do decide to horn in, we'll put up a cash prize. The cash being the money I'm gonna win when the Cardinals win the world series.

If the Cardinals lose I'll sleep on the curb for a week and get a refund from my landlady, and we'll use that for a prize.

If the Cardinals lose, I'll be sure to win the poetry contest. To me a Cardinal loss would be as sad as falling in love, or in a well. You guys that root for the Athletics give me a pain. Take Lefty Grove out of the lineup and the Galveston Pirates would give them a hiding. Do we wander from the subject? Yes, we wander from the subject. Well, what was the subject? Try to figure it out, but as for me, I'm going out and watch the Coyotes hit the dirt. There's a boy out there named Malcolm Mauldin who is an all-state guard in the making. Or does he play tackle? Well, I'm pretty sure he's a guard. Anyhow, he's going to make the Electra Tigers look sick when that game rolls around . . . Wait a few days and I'll be telling you how the Coyote-Electra game will come out . . . In the meantime, I'm interested in the Electra-Breckenridge game this week. That's going to be a fine tussle. You can't tell but what the Tigers will give the Buckaroos a mighty big scare, but a Breckenridge victory can be put down as certain.

I talked to the Electra coach the other day. "What are you trying to do," asks I, "get your team all cut to pieces."

"No," he answered, "I think it'll do the boys good. I'd rather have the Tigers playing good teams and losing, than just running away with small, weak teams." And Quanah might think that over a little, too.

We'd get a big laugh if the Quanah team was smothered by the Tigers, or the Coyotes. The Quanah boys have been rolling up some terrible scores, but everybody knows the teams they are playing are set-ups. Wonder what they'd do against Breckenridge? Or would they even schedule a game with Breckenridge?

AL SIMMONS RUINS SHUTOUT

Cards Hold Game Lead In World Series

after watching one go by, walked into the second ball and slammed it to center for a clean single.

That broke the spell, but it didn't break Grimes' spirit. He kept working for a shutout. And he would have had it, too, had he not been so foolish as to try to slip a fast one, shoulder high, by Simmons with two gone in the ninth.

Nevertheless, the fact that he turned the A's back with two hits must have given him considerable exaltation.

"Well, that's the best day's work I ever did," he said in the clubhouse after the game. "I guess that evens things for those two defeats they handed me last year."

Grove Takes Pasting

While Burleigh was mowing down the Athletics with monotonous consistency, the Cards, led by that irrepressible Oklahoman, Pepper Martin, were treating Lefty Grove as though they had never heard of his 31 American league victories and his reputation as "the greatest pitcher in the world."

Grove pitched eight innings before yielding in favor of a pinch-hitter and during his stay on the firing line was touched for 11 hits, including doubles by Roettger, Bottomley and Martin. There's no use trying to excuse Grove because of the blister on his pitching finger. He knew it was there and Connie Mack knew it was there. The fact that he started was proof enough that both he and Mack thought he was capable of pitching winning baseball.

Cards Start Right In

The Cards wasted little time in swinging into action. Bottomley, first up in the second, walked and after Hafey had fouled to Foxx, Martin slapped the first ball offered him to center for a single. Wilson scored Bottomley with another single and then Martin slid safely home after Gelbert's long fly to Miller.

Hafey, Martin and Grimes combined to give the Cardinals two more in the fourth. Hafey, champion batter of the National league, smacked one through Williams and Bishop for a single. Martin, with the count two and three, leaned on a fast one for a double, Hafey streaking to third. Martin's ball missed being a home run by inches striking less than a foot below the top of the fence in right center.

Wilson and Gelbert were retired and then Grimes paddled one into right field, scoring Hafey and Martin.

Final Tally

The Card's final run came in the ninth when Watkins, running for Roettger, who had forced Flowers, scored from first on Bottomley's long double to center.

Martin's two hits today gave him a series total of seven hits in 11 trips to the plate for an average of .636. This mark leads all players and is nothing short of remarkable when you remember that Pepper is just a year out of the Oklahoma oil fields and is playing his first year in the majors. Those critics who panned the Cardinals management for trading Taylor Douthitt, will please retire to the foot of the class.

The play by play account of the game follows:

First Inning

Cardinals—President Hoover threw out the first ball. Adams popped to Foxx. Roettger grounded out, Bishop to Foxx. Frisch grounded out to Foxx unassisted. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Athletics—Foxx walked. Miller singled to center, Foxx holding second. Dykes popped to Flowers. Williams flied to Hafey. Cramer batted for Grove. Frisch made a spectacular catch of Cramer's short drive, falling back as he grabbed the ball. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Ninth Inning

Cardinals—Mahaffey went to the box in place of Grove. Flowers walked. Roettger bunted to Mahaffey and Flowers was forced at second, Mahaffey to Williams. Roettger was replaced on first by a pinch runner, Watkins. Frisch hit to Dykes and was thrown out on a brilliant play by a stride Watkins scored on Bottomley's double against the scoreboard in right center. Hafey flied to Simmons. One run, one hit, no errors.

Athletics—Watkins was in right field for the Cardinals. Bishop grounded out to Bottomley, unassisted. Haas grounded out, Gelbert to Bottomley. Grimes deflected the drive to Gelbert. Grimes' hand apparently was hurt and the Cardinals gathered around him for an inspection of the damage. Frisch worked on the pitcher's fingers and Burleigh went back to work. Cochrane walked. Cochrane was replaced by a pinch runner, McNair. Simmons hit a home run over the right field wall, scoring McNair ahead of him. Foxx fanned. Two runs, one hit, no errors.

What a Ruckus!

BALTIMORE.—Marjorie Gordon, 19, after taking a few drinks, decided to go for a drive to get some air. On the drive she ran into the car of T. Carl Jelenko, overturning it, and then drove away. Onlookers thought it was a bank holdup, as the accident happened in front of a bank, and the fire department, several police and a few detectives were called to the scene. Marjorie was finally captured by the driver of a city truck.

GRIMES TELLS HOW HE DID IT

Moist Delivery Fooled 'Em, He Declares

By BURLEIGH GRIMES

Pitcher of the St. Louis Cardinals

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5. (US)—Spit may be an ugly word when applied to drawing room manners, but it is a pretty sweet ally when applied to what is commonly known as the horsehide.

The box score indicates I pitched a good game and I am glad solely for the reason that it gives us a two to one lead over the A's for the world's championship.

But Philadelphia fans should remember that there are only about four of us spit-ball hurlers left and naturally the A's were not what you would call exactly familiar with the moist delivery.

That is the only way I can explain the Mack's weakness at the plate.

On the other hand, I had as much stuff on the ball as I ever had in my life and it took some pretty slick fielding to keep the A's away from the plate. Adams, Frisch and Gelbert all contributed fielding gems to aid in defeating the mighty Grove.

I was glad to get the pitching assignment, especially so since Grove was my opponent. He had a world of speed when he retired the side in order in the first. I worked pretty good, too, in the first. My arm never felt better.

Wilson made his first hit of the series in the second inning when he singled to bring in the first run. A sacrifice fly brought in another and I had a two run lead to work on. I was at bat a long time in this inning, before getting a hit and had a good chance to look Grove's stuff over. His speed was terrific. However, a thing to remember about these speed ball pitchers is that when you hit 'em they go further.

Hafey started the ball rolling for us again in the fourth when he singled with none down. Then up came Martin with a double to right center. With men on second and third Wilson rolled out and Gelbert fanned. It was then up to me to do something besides pitch. I did and we now had a four run lead.

Slick fielding kept me out of trouble in the fifth, Spary Adams' play on Miller's roller being a beauty, as it forced Foxx, who had walked, at second.

The rest of the details are of little moment except that Al Simmons' homer in the ninth was a bit annoying—just that and nothing more.

I wasn't particularly interested in holding the A's to one hit, thus setting, I believe, a world series record.

The victory itself was the only thing that matters.

Tonight, I am no more tired than I am after pitching an ordinary game of ball. As I see it, it is doubtful if the series will go long enough to give me another chance to start a game.

Having beaten the A's two aces—Grove and Earnshaw, it looks as though we were well on our way to a world's title.

Saint Jo Denies Withdrawal From Race; Henrietta Leaves District 3

Definite withdrawal of Henrietta from district No. 3, and Bryson from district No. 4, coupled with the reported withdrawal of Saint Jo from the latter district, caused quite a shake-up in class B football circles of this vicinity yesterday.

The report that Saint Jo would withdraw from district No. 4 was denied by Jot Hodges, coach of the Saint Jo eleven. He said the report probably resulted from the rumor that Saint Jo had forfeited its game with Nocona, scheduled for this Friday. Coach Hodges also denied that Saint Jo had forfeited the game, explaining that there had been a disagreement between officials of the two schools as to where the game should be played. Originally it was scheduled for the Saint Jo field, but it was understood Nocona officials attempted to have the game transferred. Saint Jo refused to play the game in Nocona, and when Nocona refused to consent to play in Saint Jo, Coach Hodges booked a game with Henrietta instead.

The league game between Nocona and Saint Jo probably will be played at a later date, when the two schools come to an agreement on a site.

In withdrawing from district No. 3, Henrietta officials explained that the team was too weak to make a showing, and that it was not advisable to risk injuries to players.

The reason for Bryson's withdrawal from district No. 4 was not learned. Bryson last week was scheduled to play Newcastle but forfeited.

Saint Jo at present is at the top of district No. 4 as the result of its victory last week over Bellevue by the score of 18 to 7. It shares the leadership with the winner of the Graford-Handley game. Reports of outcome of this game had not filtered in from the southern portion of the district Monday.

Last year the district was divided into northern and southern halves, with a separate race being conducted in each, the winners meeting in a final district championship game. The attempt this year to consolidate the two halves is not meeting with success, and it is indicated that next year the old system of dividing the district will be reinstated.

Thirteen teams now make up the conference.

Next week's conference games will find Masonic Home of Fort Worth meeting Handley, Weatherford playing Bridgeport, Decatur meeting Graford, Bowie meeting Bellevue and Graham meeting Newcastle. Jacksboro was scheduled to meet the departed Bryson team.

Masonic Home of Fort Worth looms as the big team in the district after practice tests last week. The Pantherville eleven whitewashed McKinney last week, 26 to 0. Decatur bowed to Alvord, 37 to 0; Bowie was defeated by Olney, 52 to 0; Graham defeated Throckmorton, 13 to 0; Nocona was beaten by Electra, 36 to 0; Jacksboro bowed to the Weatherford college reserves, 30 to 0; and Bridgeport and Grand Prairie battled to a 6-all tie.

GAME MOVED

Crowell Game to Be Played on Archer City Gridiron

The class B district No. 3 game this week between Archer City and Crowell, originally scheduled to be played at Crowell, will be played at Archer City instead, it was announced. The game promises to be the chief attraction of the week in class B circles. It will be played Friday afternoon.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (AP)—Trading in cotton was less active today, but southern selling continued and prices made new lows for the movement. December contracts sold off to 5.49 and closed at 5.51, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 9 to 12 points.

Prices reached the lowest levels of the day in the late trading when October sold at 5.35 and March at 5.77. The close was within a point or two of the lowest.

A number of private end-September crop reports were issued during the day without appreciable effect on the market. Figures on the condition of the crop ranged from 62.4 to 6.9 and figures on the indicated crop from 14,287,000 to 15,937,000 bales, while one of the private reports said that on the basis of a 66.9 per cent condition, the government estimate might possibly be as high as 16,150,000 bales. Private estimates of ginnings up to Oct. 1 ranged from 4,382,000 to 5,056,000 bales. Weather conditions were considered favorable for the movement of cotton in the south, but attracted comparatively little comment.

Liverpool cables said the relative steadiness of that market was due to covering with London and Manchester buying and lower Sterling and reported an improving British home trade in cotton goods. Exports today nil. Exports so far this season 862,813. Port receipts 72,315. U. S. port stocks 3,432,652.

Futures closed barely steady, 9 to 12 lower. July 6.15-16; spot quiet; middling 5.50.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 5. (AP)—Cotton continued to move downward slowly today. Prices developed no important fluctuations but eased off point by point under pressure of hedge selling and liquidation caused by weakness in stocks and lack of buying power, and closed barely steady at net declines of 10 to 14 points.

Liverpool is due tomorrow on New Orleans 3 to 4 penny points down.

Three private crop reports appeared during the day, one estimating the crop at 15,904,000 bales, a second at 15,825,000 and the third at 14,287,000. One of the authorities estimated total ginnings to Oct. 1 at 4,382,000.

Liverpool came in 40 to 43 penny points better than due but this gain was due to weakness and declines in Sterling. First trades here were 2 points down to 2 up. Prices soon eased off however owing to weakness in stocks and hedging and by the end of the first hour, December traded at 5.54 and January to 5.64 down 4 to 5 points from the early highs. Prices made new lows near the end at 5.44 for December and 5.54 for January or 14 to 15 points below the early highs. Both months closed one point above the lowest, December showing net loss for the day of 12 points and January net loss of 11 points.

Port receipts 72,315; for week 135,721; for season 1,622,568; last season 2,732,238. Exports none; for week 19,325; for season 843,351; last season 1,359,725. Port stock 3,437,108; last year 2,524,556; combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 93,737; last year 99,716. Spot sales at southern markets 95,279; last year 50,444.

Stock Values Flop to New Lows As Scared Sellers Flood Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Oct. 5. (US)—Nervousness inspired presumably by reflection upon last week's severe weakness in security prices found repercussion today in a heavy selling movement in all departments on the stock exchange. Both shares and bonds were forced into new low territory. Failure of the week-end period to develop anything concrete in the way of encouragement brought additional liquidation from all quarters. There was hardly a letup in the offerings except for very brief intervals which were succeeded by resumption of the selling wave on greater than preceding volume.

Still without semblance of that disorder that characterizes complete rout, the decline nevertheless led to serious misgivings. The fact that genuine bargains may be gradually developing failed to attract material demand. It was mainly a continuance of the fright that has swallowed a great mass of the investing public, worried by the incessant rumors most of which have no basis in fact.

The selling volume of the day swelled above 3,000,000 shares, and the declines in some of the most prominent stocks were decidedly disconcerting.

Steel common dropped more than six points, American Telephone 6¾, American Can 3⅜, Woolworth 3⅜. Rails were down sharply, the averages descending to brand new lows. Union Pacific broke 6⅞ and Atchison 5¼, both selling below par for the first time in many years. Consolidated Gas dropped 5⅜.

There were no exemptions to the weakness, the market's performance being plainly a reflection of broad liquidation, either of forced or voluntary character. In the main the selling represents a hysteria which controls a great proportion of the investing world, just as a similar unbridled—then of wild optimism—gripped the markets for a year or more prior to 1929.

During the day the news of the bankruptcy of two of Canada's largest brokerage concerns was announced, and the market in its fear assumed that great quantities of additional liquidation would pour into the market.

As a matter of fact the greatest of the Canadian houses has been in process of liquidation for years. At its peak back in the halcyon bull market days this account's "debt balance" in New York constituted the biggest single item of its kind in the entire market, involving a total of $90,000,000. The account was transferred to powerful New York brokerage hands in the panic day of 1929 and since has been virtually in steady liquidation.

It is understood on excellent authority that the account represents but a small proportion of its original size and that virtually all of the necessitous liquidation has been completed.

Nevertheless the news very plainly belies the thoughtless assertions that short-selling has been mainly responsible for the recent price debacle. It has been a case of liquidation and frightened selling.

With indiscriminate selling controlling the markets, there is little solid basis for attempting to compute the termination of the liquidating wave. In a great many instances practically all of the "water" of the bull market hysteria has been forced out of stocks, though there may be instances of such conditions still existing despite the long decline. Nevertheless, the fantastic plunge from the peak has discouraged most of the great bear operators and even today it was disclosed that immense bear accounts were being covered while the enormous liquidation was providing most attractive opportunities for such activities.

The short interest today in the stock market is amazingly small; perhaps this is one of the major contributing factors to the persistent decline, although fright is the outstanding influence at the moment.

The great cry of the markets is for a leadership strong enough to line up in defense of the security structure the great banking powers whose resources are still enormous. There has been a pitiful lack of cooperation among the outstanding financial powers, a reflection of their selfishness and greed for ultimate domination.

The White House was again reported to have called upon the heads of the great New York institutions to seek their cooperation. They in turn are understood to have submitted the "terms" upon which this cooperation and market support will be furnished, but the net outcome of the latest Washington conference remains in doubt. Washington is known to be demanding that steps be taken to end the investment fright that is causing such enormous depreciation in value of securities.

Meanwhile enormous buying is taking place in the markets, though it is still on a downward scale. The great need of the moment is for some startling dramatic occurrence which will drum into the world's investors' minds that indiscriminate dumping of securities at rapidly shrinking values is a thoughtless concession to fright rather than reason.

Irrespective of the market's hysteria, calm investors who have escaped from the collapse are known to be carefully buying most attractive securities, with yields and price-to-earnings ratios a huge proclamation of opportunities.

As one of the greatest of all market factors said: "I am taking advantage of the world's stupidity in throwing over now what they fought to buy at fantastic heights not so long ago."

The general run of investor, and even would-be bullish speculator appears to be waiting his cue from the bond market or from commodities.

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Oct. 5. (AP)—Cash grain demand good for wheat, grain sorghums and barley. Slow for corn and oats.

Corn—No. 2 mixed 33½@35½c; No. 2 white 34@36c; No. 2 yellow 43@45c.

Barley—No. 2 35@40c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds 67@69c; No. 2 kaffir 68@70c.

Basis delivery group three points:

Oats—No. 2 red, 22@23c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Oct. 5. (AP)—New all time low price records for all future deliveries of wheat resulted today from stop loss selling associated with persistent unsettlement of securities. All the corn, oats and rye futures simultaneously broke the season's previous bottom quotations. Liquidating sales were the order of the day, holders continually throwing wheat and other grains overboard, with the crumbling of stock values the paramount influence, reducing grain market buying power to a minimum.

Wheat closed nervous ⅞@1⅛c lower, corn ¼@⅝c down, oats ⅜@½c off and provisions unchanged to 12c setback.

Lowest levels of the day in wheat were reached just before the close, and after the market had been carried down to more than 8c a bushel under the prices which accompanied Great Britain's surrender of a gold basis. Coincident with the sharpest fall of wheat was word that North American wheat export business had come to a halt for at least the time being, and that the United States wheat visible supply total had increased 1,483,000 bushels for the week. In no case were closing prices of any grain more than half cent up from the bottom.

Breaks in wheat were in disregard of almost 5,000,000 bushels shrinkage of the amount on ocean passage and of reports that offerings of wheat at Liverpool were smaller, especially from Argentina.

Big receipts of corn here, 449 cars against 197 on the corresponding day last year, had a particular bearish effect both on corn and oats. Shipping demand for corn was slow, but was relatively good in the case of oats.

Provisions gave way with high values and with grain.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—Dec. 44⅛@44⅜c, 45⅛@45⅜c; May 48⅛@48⅜c, 49⅝; 49⅛c. Corn—Dec. 32⅝c, 33⅛c; May 36½@36⅝c; 37⅛@37⅝c.

PANHANDLE OIL OUTPUT DROPS

Three New Locations Made In Plains Field

The Panhandle field is again declining in daily output after a month of increases, due to demand for the anti-knock quality crude produced in the plains area. Output is still regarded by proration enthusiasts as being too high. The following schedule shows the week just ended and the previous week in comparison.

County—	Wells	Past Week Output	Pv. Wk. Output
Carson	240	6,689	7,000
Gray	761	42,180	42,983
Hutchinson	893	13,490	15,158
Moore	23	1,270	1,685
Wheeler	43	555	356
Totals	1,960	64,184	67,182

Four new locations were announced during the week, as follows:

Magnolia Petroleum company No. 1 Ralph Arnold, in the southeast corner of the west half of the northeast of section 149, block 3, of I. & G. N. survey, in the dolomitic area of western Gray county.

Magnolia's No. 1 Heaston, in the northeast corner of the south half of the northeast of section 164, block 3, in the same area, and just one-half a mile west of the Magnolia Arnold test, was a rig going up.

Vulcan corporation No. 1 Carpenter, in the southeast corner of the east half of the northwest of section 25, block 25, of H. & G. N. survey, in the gas area of eastern Gray county, is rigging up standard tools.

Magnolia was moving in rotary No. 1 Wilson, in the northwest corner of the southeast of section 73, H. Kelly survey, in southeast Parmer county. It is in an area that has had few tests and will rank as a most interesting wildcat.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 5. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Cattle trade around the 11-market circuit was featured by a fairly broad demand for strictly grain fed steers and yearlings at steady to strong prices. Heavy steers in Chicago topped at $10.50. Packers however, operated rather slowly on western steers, both short feds and grassers at steady to 25c lower values. Fed grassers sold around $6.25@7.75 and a spread of $3.75@5.75 took bulk of the straight grassers. There was a fair country demand for stockers and feeders at generally steady rates, some points reporting strength on the better grades. Bulk of replacement steers sold from $4.00@6.00 with a few choice stockers at $6.25@6.50. Aggregate receipts estimated at 117,000 was 10,000 more than a week ago.

Hogs were tendered an uneven decline of 5@35c. The day's extreme top was $5.60. Total offerings were around 105,400 as compared with 115,694 last Monday.

The supply of sheep approximating 155,600 was 11,500 more than a week ago. Increased receipts prompted weak prices on fat lambs, most markets on the close showing losses of 25@50c. Mature killing classes ruled steady to weak. Outsiders in Chicago paid up to $7.00 for a few decks of choice native lambs while choice rangers sold at $6.75.

NEW SUITS FILED

Mrs. A. B. Eichelberger, District Clerk

James E. Parker vs. Roy I. Carter, suit on note.

Work on Postoffice to Start Soon; Contractors to Spend Funds Here

Assurance that construction on Wichita Falls' new federal building will start within the next week or 10 days was given here Monday by H. W. Underhill of Dallas, whose company was awarded the $408,000 contract.

Mr. Underhill also gave assurance that all funds possible for labor and materials would be spent in Wichita Falls. If requirements for the construction of the federal building are available in Wichita Falls, they will be obtained here, he declared.

He said that about 150 men will be employed in the construction of the building, which will require approximately 50 weeks. Of that number of workers, it was explained, only five will be brought here from other cities. These five will have charge of supervision of work, it was said.

Mr. Underhill arrived here Monday and is to remain during the week. He is accompanied here by M. K. Eby, civil engineer, and A. L. Shrum, electrical engineer. The object of the visit here, it was explained, is in connection with the letting of various subcontracts, which include excavation, concrete work, carpenter work, steel work, cement finishing, masonry, mill work, glass work and glazing, finish hardware, lathing, plastering, painting, plumbing and heating, electrical, roofing and sheet metal work, marble work and tile work.

To accommodate applications for work on the construction job, an employment office will be opened within the next few days at the postoffice site, Tenth and Lamar. Workers will be hired there.

More American leather is now sold in the United Kingdom than in any other foreign market.

CIVIC THEATER PLAY TONIGHT

Mystery Comedy to Open At Auditorium

Entertainment which established itself definitely during the past year at the Little Theater as a favorite with local theater-goers will be resumed at the Memorial auditorium Tuesday night when the Civic Theater players, directed by J. C. Straus Jr., open the 1931-32 season with a three-act mystery comedy, "A Lady's Veil."

Leaders of the new organization, however, anticipate a far greater patronage during the coming season, in point of numbers, than could be obtained during the past year despite the high standard of last season's performances. Not only does the Memorial auditorium offer an unlimited seating capacity, but facilities which assure more effective staging of plays and maximum comfort for the audience.

A still more important factor, however, in the promise of greatly increased attendance is the schedule of prices announced for the Civic Theater players' seven-play season. Reserved seats in the first 10 rows on the main floor are being sold at 50 cents. Any other seat on the first floor may be had at 35 cents, while the entire balcony is priced at 25 cents. Season tickets for the reserved section, comprising about 300 seats nearest the stage, are being sold at $2.80.

Players already known to Wichita Falls by virtue of commendable dramatic accomplishments in the past will be featured in this week's two-night presentation of George Middleton's intriguing comedy. Miss Dorothy Campbell is the lady in the case—or behind the veil, since she appears in the role of a bride. Kendrick Cushing, artist-lover in "Passing of the Third Floor Back" last winter, will portray the susceptible bachelor. A second pair, carrying equally heavy roles and introducing much of the comedy action, will be impersonated by Mrs. Cushing and H. H. Ferrell. Other members of the group which strangely peoples the bachelor apartments for one wild night include Ridley Maples, Jimmy Thorne, A. F. Edwards, Allan Rowan, and Gerald Coffey.

Tickets have been on sale during the past several days at Renfro's Drug store No. 1, and will be available at the same place during Tuesday. "A Lady's Veil" will be presented on Tuesday and Wednesday nights at 8:15 o'clock. The ticket office at the Memorial auditorium will be open one hour before the curtain, it was announced.

Efforts Being Made to Secure Land for Goodnight Buffalo and for Game Preserve

Preparations of plans for the celebration of the ground-breaking for Wichita Falls' new postoffice and federal building is included among a heavy docket of matters to be considered by the chamber of commerce board of directors, which will hold its semimonthly meeting in the chamber offices Tuesday at 10 a. m.

The chamber of commerce is taking the lead in making plans for the proposed celebration, having been requested to so do by O. P. Maricle, postmaster. When preliminary plans are complete, other civic agencies will be invited to participate, it was said.

Discussion also will be started of plans to celebrate in September, 1932, the 50th anniversary of the founding of Wichita Falls. Plans for the event are to be started early, it was said, as the celebration is intended to be made the biggest of its kind ever held here. A half century of development such as Wichita Falls has gone through, it was explained, is worthy of such a celebration.

It is expected that the board meeting Tuesday will be marked with a discussion concerning proposals that Wichita Falls make an effort to secure for this section the herd of buffalo for which the state park commission has appropriated a fund to purchase. A definite proposition to secure a tract near Lake Kemp as a buffalo range probably will be submitted, it was said. The state has made the appropriation to buy the Goodnight ranch herd, providing some community in the state will furnish a range for the animals. Those attempting to bring the herd here have expressed the opinion that prospects are excellent that this section will obtain the buffalo herd.

Numerous other matters are to come before the board Tuesday, it was announced. The meeting is called for 10 a. m., a half hour earlier than customary, in order that the heavy docket may be completed. The session will be held in the directors room at the chamber of commerce offices.

Test Proves Value of Maggots In Cure of Bone Infections

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 5. (UP)—Five days ago maggots were placed in the wounds of two patients in General hospital, and bandages were applied.

Today the wounds were uncovered in the presence of nationally recognized medical men attending the Southwest Clinical conference. In each case the tissue was clean and in an advanced stage of healing.

Thus was carried out the first demonstration in this part of the country of maggots, or fly larvae usually found in decaying flesh, as beneficial agents in the medical profession. Dr. H. Lewis Hess of the General hospital staff conducted the experiment.

To the doctors attending the clinic, it was an example of natural functioning of the larvae of erythrocephalia and lucelia ceasar in the treatment of ostemyelitis.

Interpreted, it was the eating away of infected bone tissue by maggots. So it was explained for the benefit of laymen. It entailed, too, according to experts, the probable excretion of a substance stimulating the growth of new cells.

Before the climatic unbinding of the wounds of the patients who for a year have suffered with bone infection resulting from fractures, Dr. Hess pulled a few more tricks out of his general hospital bag.

He showed the visitors the only incubator in the Southwest for raising flies and fostering their progeny. He showed them intricate and delicate mechanical devices for promoting the well being of the pestiferous insect usually subjected to the swatter.

Then Dr. Hess told his colleagues of the fly diet—ground raw beef, liver similarly prepared, commercial yeast. Bathroom facilities for the young flies, or larvae, with alhohol the content, were demonstrated. By this time the maggots are ready to be planted in wounds, he said.

Discovery of the healing potentiality of maggots, made quite by accident during the world war, is regarded as among the most important of the century by the medical profession. Credit goes to the late Dr. William S. Baer of Johns Hopkins university.

Dr. Baer was in France with the Johns Hopkins unit. Two men were brought to the hospital who had lain unattended on the field of battle for six days. They had compounded fractures of the thigh, and wounds extending up into the abdomen.

The physician was astounded to note that the patients had no fever, and were apparently recovering. Examining their wounds he found a nauseating sight—maggots crawling through the wounds. Washing these away, he saw a pink, healthy tissue. Both men recovered.

From that experience came research work which led to the establishment of fly incubators and cultivation of larvae for the treatment of bone tissue infection. Gradually the revolutionary move is gaining ground.

GRAND JURY STARTS WORK

Investigation of Nodurft Slaying Ordered

Grand jurors who will investigate alleged felonies in this county during the ensuing three months were impaneled in the 89th district court Monday morning by Judge P. A. Martin and began their work immediately with W. Daniel of this city as foreman.

According to the plan announced by Judge Martin Monday morning, the grand jury impaneled for the October term will be reconvened on the first Monday of each month during the remainder of this year. Heretofore Judge Allan D. Montgomery of the 30th district court has supervised the activities of the grand jury, but since that court sits here during a period of only one month out of three, the inquisitors completed the quarter's work in one month. One of the primary objectives of the new arrangement, it was said, was to provide for prompt investigation of cases against men who remain in jail while awaiting action of the grand jury.

Judge Martin charged the October grand jury to investigate the killing of Ted Nodurft of Fort Worth in this city early last month. Two negroes, arrested about two weeks ago, are being held in the Tarrant county jail for the killing.

Investigation of violations of the state prohibition laws, operation of disorderly houses, and violations of the statute forbidding rebates to common carriers was requested by the court.

Members of the grand jury besides the foreman are P. J. Lea, W. L. Robertson, J. H. Allison and J. E. Duncan of Wichita Falls; Earl Halton and W. M. Austin of Electra; R. D. Laney, R. M. Gilchrist and A. C. Houser of Burkburnett, and George Hoge and R. C. Acuff of Iowa Park.

Bailiffs named to serve the grand jury were Richard Frazier, C. L. Bradford and W. P. Timmons.

Victim of Crash Clings to Life

The condition of Barney Freeman, 37, of Burkburnett, was unimproved here Monday, following an automobile accident on the Burkburnett road Sunday, when he and five other persons were injured.

Freeman received a fracture of the skull, a crushed chest, numerous fractures of bones in his body, and internal injuries. He is at the Wichita General hospital, where his condition is deemed very grave.

Freeman's wife and Victor Ivy, also of Burkburnett, were released Monday from the hospital. Mrs. Freeman's injuries were found to be not as serious as was at first thought. Sunday night it was believed that she was suffering from a fractured skull and internal injuries. However, severe bruises and lacerations about the head were her only injuries. Ivy received a dislocation of the shoulder and bruises and cuts.

Minor injuries were sustained by Fred Brookman and Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Leath. They were given first aid at the Wichita General hospital Sunday night and were released.

The accident occurred as the automobile, owned by Brookman and driven by Freeman, plunged from the roadway into a ditch. The machine overturned several times and was demolished. The accident occurred about three miles from Wichita Falls. The occupants of the car were en route to Wichita Falls.

A WOMAN'S TEARS—

EL PASO, Texas.—Traffic Policeman T. H. Siedeman is used to handling hard-boiled truck drivers and male traffic law offenders. Consequently, when he found a crying woman on his hands, he was lost. He noticed the woman driver pulling a boner and blowed his whistle. At the blast the woman stopped her car, bowed her head in her arms, and commenced to cry. For 10 minutes she bawled, tying up traffic in a terrible tangle. Just as Siedeman put his shoulder against the car to push it out of traffic, she straightened up, smiled, apologized and drove away.

Physicians Take Pin From Throat of Baby

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 5. (AP)—Nature aided physicians in removing a serious threat to the life of 7-month-old Josefina Carlos here today.

The baby swallowed an open safety pin last week, and, despite attempts of physicians to extract it, the pin slipped from the throat into the stomach. The point was up.

An X-ray picture this morning showed the pin had again entered the throat, this time point down. Dr. W. E. Vandevere removed it with an esophascope.

"The baby must have had a coughing spell," he said. "This forced the pin back into the throat."

PARADE OPENS FIRE CAMPAIGN

Wichitans Reminded Of Need for Caution

The second day of fire prevention week here Monday was marked with a parade through downtown streets. Several pieces of fire equipment were included in the procession and members of several civic organizations marched in the parade.

Fire trucks and automobiles were bannered with warnings against fire. Placards called on every citizen to use caution in the use of fire, and to take care not to start needless blazes, which often result in heavy loss to property and life.

The procession, staged at 5 p. m. at the hour when downtown offices are letting out, was led by the American Legion drum and bugle corps. Four fire trucks, in addition to Chief J. L. McClure's automobile, followed. A field piece of the local national guard units and some 50 members of the batteries participated in the parade. A number of Girl Reserves also formed a part of the procession.

Fire prevention week, observed nationally, opened here Sunday. Ministers of churches here announced the observance of the week from their pulpits.

The week is sponsored here by the fire prevention committee of the Junior chamber of commerce, the fire chief's cabinet, and members of the Wichita Falls Insurance exchange. Speakers have been chosen to go to city schools during the week and to address student bodies on fire prevention. Speakers also are to appear at the various luncheon clubs during the week. Literature has been distributed to bring about the observance of not only fire prevention week, but the observance also of precautionary measures to avoid fires the year round.

Ordinance Cuts Rents On City Auditorium

Passage on first reading of an ordinance establishing new and lower rental rates on the Memorial auditorium constituted the business transacted by the city council in its regular meeting Monday night.

Thelbert Martin, city attorney, was instructed at the meeting on Sept. 28 to prepare an ordinance adopting a schedule of rates adopted by the council at that time. Under the revised scale, home talent productions will be charged $50 per night; the annual cooking school, $75 for the first day and $50 daily thereafter; and all other performances $100 nightly. This last classification is to include such attractions as opera, road shows, artists' concerts, etc. Rent for matinee performances will be half that named for night performances.

A Flash of Lightning

CLINTON, Conn. (INS)—A bolt of lightning emerging from a recent shower raced into the home of Charles Haag here via a conduit leading from Haag's garage, blew out 12 windows and crippled the wiring system of the house. In its course the bolt strewed furniture about every room except the owner's bedroom and departed without having harmed the furniture nor the garage.

FALL INJURES FIREMAN HERE

Blaze Forces Roomer to Leap From Window

A fireman was painfully injured and a roomer was forced to escape through a window late Monday morning when fire wrecked the home occupied by Mrs. R. G. Plemmons, 1614 Burnett street.

Jim Juliuson, captain of company 3, received severe chest bruises when he fell from the roof of the home as he was carrying a line to a vantage point to fight the flames. Unable to maintain his footing on the room, the fireman fell, and landed with his chest against the rail of the steps leading to the entrance of the home. He is at the Wichita Falls Clinic hospital.

R. G. Hendricks, the only occupant of the home at the time, was bathing when the fire broke out. Flames had made great headway when he discovered them. He was forced to jump from the bathroom window, clad only in a dressing gown.

Origin of the blaze was undetermined. Damage to the structure was estimated at $1,200. Loss to the furnishings was placed at $400. The house was owned by Harry Thornberry.

Junior C-C Board To Hear Reports On Library Work

Plans designed to assist the Kemp public library in securing current books will be reported by the recently appointed Junior chamber of commerce library committee Tuesday noon at the organization's regular meeting of directors.

The board will hold its session at noon Tuesday at the Wichita club. The committee appointed to investigate the possibility of securing a game preserve and buffalo herd for this section will also report at the time to the directors.

The library committee, composed of Henry Penix, H. B. Dudley and Overton Abernathy, has conferred with officials of the library here and are formulating plans whereby a campaign may be instituted to induce citizens here to donate new books they have purchased and read to the Kemp library. Funds are lacking, it is said, whereby the library may purchase recent publications, which are the object of the greatest demand. Individuals who subscribe to book club services are believed to be able to greatly assist in stocking the library with more recent books by giving their volumes after they have completed reading them.

A third matter to receive the attention of the board of directors is means of securing a large attendance at the Wichita County fair at Iowa Park on Thursday, Wichita Falls day.

Glasgow, Scotland, is to have air mail collection boxes.

You purchase shoes, fruit and candy. You call for cigarettes.

It's like this: WHEN YOU GO TO BUY A PAIR OF SHOES, you examine the leather, the way the shoes are made, their shape. You try them to see if they fit—if they satisfy you.

Why not follow the same method in purchasing your cigarettes? You want cigarettes that are made from the very best tobacco—mild, ripe, sweet. You want them made right. You want them free from harshness and bite and "pinches." In other words, you want cigarettes that satisfy you.

WHEN YOU GO TO BUY FRUIT—oranges, grapefruit, apples—you want ripe fruit, fruit that has matured before being taken from the tree; fruit that has been handled right and packed right; fruit that's the same throughout—not green on one side and ripe on the other.

Why not apply the same test in purchasing your cigarettes? You want cigarettes made from tobaccos handled right by the farmer—ripened, sweetened in the sun and cured right. You want cigarettes that taste the same, day in and day out. You want them pleasing in taste—mild and satisfying.

WHEN YOU BUY CANDY, you want to know, above all things, that it is pure. Is it real candy or are there a lot of other things mixed in with it? And you want it fresh. You want it freshly made and you want it so packed as to reach you just as it was when it was made.

Why not apply the same test when you buy your cigarettes? You want a cigarette that's pure; for purity counts in cigarettes just as it does in candy. Then again, you want a cigarette that's just as fresh as when it was made.

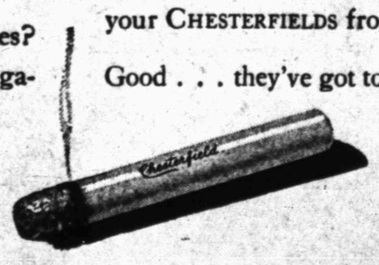

Now, if you apply to cigarettes all the tests that you apply in buying shoes and fruit and candy you will purchase CHESTERFIELD like millions of other smokers.

First, because tobacco men will tell you that in Turkey, Kentucky, Georgia, the Carolinas, Virginia, and Maryland, only the mildest, ripest tobacco is bought for CHESTERFIELD—tobacco cured by the sun's pure rays, by the farmers' slow-burning ovens, and finally by great high-pressure steam drying machines. In the tobacco regions where they grow tobacco and know tobacco, CHESTERFIELD is usually the leading seller.

Second, because the carefully selected CHESTERFIELD tobacco leaves are blended and cross-blended. This exclusive CHESTERFIELD blending method is not just mixing together different tobaccos—it is mixing them in such a way as to bring out the finer qualities of each. It's like producing a new and better type of tobacco—tobacco with greater mildness, more smoothness, much better taste.

Third, because the cigarette paper is selected with the same care. CHESTERFIELD paper is the purest, the best that money can buy. Then the cigarettes are made and packed by machinery in clean, sanitary factories. And the moisture-proof, attractive package—free from heavy inks or inky odor—comes to you just as if you passed the factory in the morning and took your CHESTERFIELDS from the machine.

Good . . . they've got to be good.
