GRAND JURY CHARGES

Husband Faces Assault To Murder Indictment

A 27-year-old man, who with his wife was treated for gunshot wounds here in June, now faces a grand jury indictment of assault to murder.

He is Felix Chavarria one of 11 persons against whom Mitchell County grand jury returned indictments.

Rex L. Free, named in an indictment charging felony second offense of driving while intoxicated, is still in Veterans Administration Hospital, Big Spring, severely injured in an accident from which the indictment resulted.

Chavarria is charged in the assault to murder indictment with shooting his wife, Mary Chavarria June 15 "with malice aforethought" with a pistol and "with intent then and there to murder her."

The shooting took place on a vacant lot at intersection of Peach and Hidalgo at about 4 o'clock in the afternoon as Mrs. Chavarria, mother of three children, was on her way to work.

One bullet from a 22 caliber pistol struck the woman in the right forearm and her husband was wounded in the scalp and between the skull and scalp. Police reported that Chavarria had turned the gun on himself.

Free, who was seriously hurt when the pickup truck he was driving and a truck trailer collided June 29 east of Colorado City, is charged with DWI that date and with DWI misdemeanor last April 20.

Four additional felony DWI indictments were returned by the grand jury.

Sefedion Martinez, alias Lito Ramirez, is charged with second offense DWI June 13 following a previous DWI conviction in 1961 in Mitchell County.

Zemery Michael Vaughn is charged with second offense DWI after a misdemeanor DWI in 1963 in Jones county.

Sterling Mimos Hull is charged with second DWI July 4 and Clyde William Jarnigan with the same offense July 16. Hull is alleged to have a previous DWI conviction in 1953 in Carson county while Jarnigan is listed with previous DWI conviction in 1955.

Five additional indictments were returned against persons for theft, burglary, worthless check over $50, theft over $50 and forgery. Names were withheld pending apprehension.

UNDERGROUND RESOURCES

Sept. 1 Report Due for Survey

A joint state-county survey and study of Mitchell County's underground water conditions should be completed by about Sept. 1.

That's the information from Vic Shamburger, water geologist for the state, who has been conducting the survey for Mitchell County and Western third of Nolan County the last two years.

Shamburger is in Austin now to compile and evaluate the data that he has acquired locally.

"I expect the report to be ready about Sept. 1," he informed county officials here last week.

The survey is costing about $26,100 with the State of Texas paying $19,100; landowners of Mitchell and Nolan counties providing $3,000; Mitchell County supplying $3,000 and Nolan County providing $1,000.

Data expected from the survey and study include the following: water reserves for present and future use, including water tables indicating life of irrigation water at present rate of usage; potential of underground water and size of underground water reservoirs and sands.

The report will be made available to all landowners and is expected to prove valuable in long range agriculture and community planning.

OIL DRILLING

4 More Sites in County

Four new oil drilling locations have been spotted in Mitchell County—three in the Iatan-East Howard Field and one in Turner Gregory (Clear Fork) Field.

In the Iatan-Howard Field, C. W. Guthrie will drill No. 4, No. 5 and No. 6. Nina Greber on a 10-acre lease eight miles southwest of Westbrook. The three tests will drill to 3,500 feet at the following locations: No. 4—1,500 feet from north and 330 feet from west line of section Block 29, 1-1-S, T&P Survey, No. 3—990 feet from north and 330 feet from west lines of Section 21; No. 5—1,000 feet from north and 390 feet from west lines.

On an 80-acre lease seven miles northwest of Westbrook in Turner Gregory field, M. L. Meaton of Abilene will drill his No. 3-A Daniel with rotary to 3,000 feet.

No. 3-A Daniel site will be 2,310 feet from north and 990 feet from east lines of section 26, Block 29, T&P Survey.

GROWN HERE FOR CATTLE FEED

FOR 100 HOMES, CABINS

New Road Serves West Lake Area

A new county road has been opened to serve a Lake Colorado City and fishing area on the west side of the lake in vicinity of Cherry Creek.

More than 100 homes and cabins are being served by the 2-mile route built and maintained by the county.

With 60-foot right of way, the road was built in commissioner J. C. (Jake) Norcutt's Precinct 3 with Precinct 3 road crew assisted by crews from Commissioner W. M. Vest's Precinct 1 and Commissioner Drue Cawthorn's Precinct 2.

The road extends north and west from the vicinity of Lakeview Camp on the road adjacent to Mitchell County with between Miller and a California resident, fronts on to Colorado River just northwest of Colorado City.

Miller got the idea for his beets by observing the feeding of sugar beets to cattle in California's Imperial Valley. Some lots there fed sugar beets whole to cattle and got good daily gains, he said.

Miller is hopeful for his project and speculates optimistically that he might be able to graze 1,000 head of cattle or more on the 80 acres.

Plan Bus For Phillips

Quarterback Club will sponsor a chartered air-conditioned bus to Colorado High-Phillips football game, Sept. 4, if enough reservations are made. The contest, first on the 1964 schedule for the Wolves, will be in Phillips.

Reservations for the round-trip, at cost of $9.25 per person, can be made with Jeff Taylor of Sam L. (Buzz) Majors.

Ready For Co-op's Anniversary

Martin Murphy of Harnleigh, seated, and Gwan Strange of Westbrook chart final plans for Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative's 25th Anniversary week. Murphy is president and Strange is secretary-treasurer of the cooperative.

KID COWBOYS AND COWGIRLS

Jr. Rodeo Already Looking to Record

They're already planning for a record field of entrants for Colorado City's 5th Annual Junior Rodeo, Aug. 13-14 and 15th.

That means Western Riding Club, sponsors of the American Junior Rodeo Association sanctioned rodeo, are expecting from 200 to 250 contestants.

Last year 137 youngsters competed in the big event—burning the lights long after midnight before all the championship were decided.

And, if the predictions for this year's rodeo are right, then the field will be swelled by maybe a hundred more.

ONE REASON for the increasing interest in the Colorado City rodeo is the AJRA affiliation. This means there will not be another sanctioned junior rodeo anywhere in the country the same date as Colorado City.

The contestants will range in age from tots to upper teens. No person who has reached his 20th birthday can compete, but any boy or girl 19 years and down can compete in the cowboy events.

TO MEET the needs of this large influx of young cowboys and cowgirls—last year they came from four states and all over Texas—Western Riding Club officials are trying to round up more horse stalls.

They're looking for a shetland pony, too—a pony that will be given away free the last night of the rodeo to a lucky spectator.

So, if you can help with the horse stall problem or know the trail of a shetland, then phone either RA 8-4170 or RA 8-3401 and give the information to Mrs. Charles Wood, Western Riding Club secretary.

Big portion of the kid cowboys will come from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. They'll be attempting to compete.

Ruth Coffey's

CONVERSATION CORNER

Guest columnist for the Sunday edition is Mary Alne McCloud, wife of Judge Austin McCloud, mother of Melinda and Sharon, and daughter of Mrs. Frank H. Kelley.

READING Conversation Corner has long been a favorite activity of mine. I don't think I've read any column that is as continuously fresh, warm and entertaining. Ruth Coffey has the wonderful ability to make everyday life sound as exciting as a trip to the Riviera. My hat's off to you, Ruth, and I'll also tip it in the direction of Joe Earnest who did Thursday's column. I liked your views, too, Joe.

Collecting one's thoughts and transferring them to paper isn't the easiest thing in the world. I have found . . . but it is stimulating and fun to search for words to convey how you feel about things, so if you'll bear with me, here goes . . .

A favorite book, "Gift From the Sea" by Anne Morrow Lindbergh has many good thoughts in it and is one that projects more to you each time you read it. To appreciate the here and now . . . the spontaneity of now, the vividness of here; so often we fail to do this and think only with nostalgia of the past or impatience for the future. Focusing on the "here and now" can keep us aware of so many sweet pleasures as we encounter them. Savoring the fullness of life every minute brings awareness of what a life really is and how often we blindfold ourselves mentally to the good and beautiful around us.

One "here and now" pleasure, I've had as long as I can remember is the feeling that the sight of Colorado City evokes in me each time we return from a trip. This is my town, these are my people and my, how I love it. The slower paced life in a small town gives opportunities for warm relationships to develop, you share in a very personal way the joys and sorrows of such a variety of people with utmost sincerity. What pride we take in all "our people" who are scattered all over the United States and the world. What a bond we have when we find a former Colorado Citian in another place . . . One of the nicest experiences on a recent trip to Casa Manana in Fort Worth was to see Margaret and Curtis Latimer seated nearby with their family . . . Later in the evening our pleasure was increased as we walked out and saw Novalee and Eldon Mahon . . .

THIS is a good town to grow up in I speak from experience. I also find it a good town for my daughters, Melinda and Sharon, to grow up in. People like Idalia Wood, Home Demonstration Agent, make it good. She, along with Mrs. Sidney Compton, Mrs. Charles Holman and Mrs. W. E. Harris held a 4-H Clothing workshop to teach young girls to sew and to take pride in their accomplishment . . . What a wonderful opportunity and experience . . . Josie Bee Randle, Maude McCord, and Mary Ruth Rudd . . . Anita and Porter Richardson . . . Ross Daniels, Bill Randle, Sims Palmer, Ross Hargrove . . . Dorothy Patton, Ruth Grantland, Marion Craddock . . . Margaret Costin and Margaret Sparks, were pleasant faces seen at a coffee break.

ANOTHER "here and now" pleasure is to learn to speak Spanish with some degree of fluency. How much easier to understand and enjoy a friend if we speak his language. I found this to be true while teaching this touching appreciation in a child's eyes when I tried to communicate in his own language in an unforgettable experience. Joan Terry, Susan Rhode join me in this desire to learn. Our patient teacher is Father Carlos of St. Ann's Church . . .

Another class for Beginning Spanish is to be started soon with the Rev. Aurelio Gutierrez of the Latin American Baptist Mission Church as the teacher. The local ministers and their wives will be pupils along with other interested persons.

EACH time I see large city developments praising the "small town atmosphere" available. I wonder how many who live in a small town appreciate the many services and personal interest shown by their merchants and sales personnel; also how nice it is to get to places with a minimum of effort and confusion . . . One of the nicest places to be these hot days is the swimming pool. It's fun to watch the kids swim and visit with especially nice people like Joyce Butler, Betty Kinard, Charles Gregory, Orene Edison, Barbara Denton, Sessie Furlow, Calfie Craig and Sue Hill.

WHAT FUN it is to teach here and have opportunities to know your students and be with them outside of the classroom. How pleased I am to have the door bell ring and see one of my former students John Chinn Jr. stopped by today and it made me recall when the highlight of one's life was to drop by to visit his teacher. I find it even more delightful to have the role reversed and to be teacher visited. Two long time favorite teachers now retired, Mrs. Pearl Shropshire and Mrs. Ethel Dawson, will be missed by students and teachers in school this fall.

One of the busiest spots in C-City is the Mitchell County Federation Library. Along with the fun of browsing, it's fun to visit with Librarian Mrs. Boyd Dozier, and her assistants, Mrs. John Morgan and Sandra Williamson. I was pleased to find over 73 young people are reading in the Summer Reading Program. This is a reading community; on a peak day 212 books were checked out. Those browsing and checking books out with me were Bonnie Burt, Mrs. John Drummond and John Paul, Ruthel McKinney, Retha (Mrs. Dan) Pritchett and children . . . A good book is hard to beat for pleasant and stimulating entertainment . . .

SUMMER visiting is fun . . . Betty Jan Barry Rayfield.

Colorado City Record, Sunday, August 2, 1964 Page 2

daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ari Barry former residents stopped by with her three children David, Suzanne and Teresa. Betty Jane and her husband Dr. Clifton Rayfield live in Abilene. Betty Jane was one of my favorite classmates in high school . . . Another one Fannie Bess Porter Norris, wife of Capt. Eddie K. Norris of Homestead Air Force Base, Fla. is being visited by her mother, Mrs. Lena Porter. Fannie Bess has two sons, Skipper and Dale . . . It's good to have another classmate, Capt. C. A. Wilkins here along with his wife Marian and their children Cella and Walt. They're visiting in the home of the O. B. Trulock family. C. A. is going into training at Davis Monthan AFB, Tucson, Arizona to learn to fly the F4C, the newest Air Force fighter plane. After training, he will instruct others to fly the F4C. They plan to vacation in Santa Fe enroute to Arizona . . .

WAY BACK in the 17th Century the poet John Dryden expressed these timely truths which I'll close with "Happy the man, and happy he alone He, who can call-to-day his own; He who, secure within, can say Tomorrow do thy worst, for I have lived to-day."

Attend Music Camp

Helen May and Jimmie James, pictured above, recently returned from the annual Summer Music Camp on the campus of West Texas State University at Canyon. Both are members of the Wolf Band of Colorado High School, and play flutes. Helen has been a band member for the past seven years, while Jimmie has five years of band experience. Helen has also been a twirler for five years, and was head twirler last year. The girls both made the heading band and honors band at the music camp. Helen won third place in the camp talent show with a twirling routine.

BOTH IN HONORS BAND

WTSU Music Camp Draws Two Wolf Band Members

Two members of the Colorado High School Wolf Band returned recently from the West Texas State Music Camp at Canyon where they studied various phases of music for two weeks.

Wolf bandmen attending were Helen May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. May, and Jimmie James, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl James. Both girls will be senior students at Colorado High School this fall and play flutes in the band.

Instructor for flutes at the music camp was Richard Kole, director of band at Thomas Jefferson High School in San Antonio. The girls participated in section and band rehearsals every morning, followed by ensemble class, music appreciation class and reading band in the afternoons. The reading band is for select students, only, and all members are chosen by auditions.

Helen and Jimmie also qualified for the Honors Band, a band for the highest rated bandmen at the camp. Director of the Honors Band was Dr. Ronald Gregory, head of the band department at Indiana University and past grand president of Kappa Kappa Psi, national band fraternity. Dr. Gregory directs at music camps all across the nation. The music camps at West Texas University is the third largest in the country and draws some of the top director talent each year.

Director for twirling classes was Bill Woods, band director at "Leaning Tower" School. Twirling classes were conducted each morning on the practice field, with band classes and rehearsals being held in the new, air-conditioned Fine Arts Building. Six hundred and forty students attended the 1964 music camp.

Evening entertainment included recitals by the faculty and students, two concerts, dances, "howdy party," and the Music Camp Ball. Helen won third place in the camp talent show with her dance-twirling routine to music of "The Stripper." Her prize was a gift certificate from the University book store.

Jimmie has been a member of the band for five years, beginning her sixth year on August 17, when the band begins summer practice sessions prior to the opening of school.

Helen is a seven-year veteran of the band and has been a twirler for the past five years. She was head twirler last year, and will be among those trying out for twirler this year on the first day of summer practice sessions.

The girls were housed in dormitories on the campus during the camp. Jimmie stayed in Cousins Hall, and Helen in McCaslin Hall.

Miss Kjerulf will be the house guest of Dr. and Mrs. W. S. (Bill) Rhode and their daughters, Susan and Ann from Saturday until August 16.

the country. She celebrated her twenty-second birthday since arriving in New York. Mrs. Rhode, Susan and Ann, will meet Miss Kjerulf in Dallas Friday when her plane arrives from New York. They will return to Colorado City Saturday for visits with old friends and former classmates.

The young Miss, who attended Colorado High School as a senior student during the 1960-61 school term, is in the United States to attend a reunion of foreign exchange students in New York City. Reunion is being sponsored by the American Field Service, with economy transportation arranged through major airlines to New York to visit a foster family throughout the country. She celebrated her twenty-second birthday since arriving in New York. Mrs. Rhode, Susan and Ann, will meet Miss Kjerulf in Dallas Friday when her plane arrives from New York. They will return to Colorado City Saturday for visits with old friends and former classmates.

In her present job Miss Kjerulf has daily use of three languages: English, Danish and her native Icelandic. Her employer transacts most of his business with the United States and Denmark. The former exchange student, who studied shorthand at Colorado High, has converted the English symbols into Icelandic and Danish as there is no recognized shorthand in either language.

During her visit in Colorado City, Miss Kjerulf will appear before the local Lions Club at a Friday luncheon on August 14, in Civic House. She will make the principal speech of the day.

The Rhode family will take their guest to Dallas on August 16 for her return flight to Iceland, via New York.

Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative

AWARD WINNING ESSAY TELLS

Co-op's Start And Growth

(Editor's Note: This essay by June Ritchey of Westbrook won first place in the 1963 state historical essay writing contest sponsored by Texas Electric Cooperatives and tells the history of Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative Inc.)

In 1936, President Roosevelt, working along with Senator Norris and Texas Representative Sam Rayburn, secured the passage of the Rural Electrification Act. The Rural Electrification Administration was created as a division of the United States Department of Agriculture and had for its purpose the construction of electric distribution lines into the rural areas.

The Rural Electrification Administration was to loan money to private utilities and city owned municipalities with these three stipulated restrictions on the use of the money loaned:

(1) must be used to construct rural electric distribution lines;

(2) must be built in rural areas to persons not currently receiving electricity;

(3) must serve everyone, if possible, who desires electricity.

When the companies were presented with the Rural Electrification Administration loan system they refused. The companies at that time were organized to make money and they used the following excuses for their refusal:

(1) we are organized to return a profit to our stock holders and this investment is not economically feasible;

(2) the farmers would not use enough electricity to yield a profit on the investment and;

(3) farmers are not financially able to have such a luxury as electricity.

After this refusal the government started encouraging farmers organize their own Companies. About one Thousand farmers organized associations and borrowed money at interest from the Rural Electrification Administration.

The first meeting of interested people in Mitchell County took place in the Buford School House. A private power company had a representative at this meeting and he told the farmers to go on home and build the lines. But the power company built only one line which extended from Colorado City to Buford.

In 1939 R. A. Brister came to Mitchell County and with the aid of Joe Williams, county agent, he contacted A. K. McCarley. They rode around in Lone Wolf Valley observing the possibility of their connecting lines. Together Brister and McCarley started soliciting interest for electricity in the rural area of the valley.

The first meeting of interested farmers was held in Valley View School house. The next meeting was held in the Looney Community School House and at this time pledges were asked for as to the number of meters each farmer wanted and would pay for. Membership dues were five dollars each. By paying his membership dues each future electricity consumer became not only a member of the association but also part owner.

Aside from the membership dues, the Rural Electrification Administration required that a minimum of two members be pledged per mile of line built. These pledges were not difficult to obtain because the rural people wanted their electricity and most of them were willing to help all they could.

In the Fairview Community Mrs. L. A. Etrain and Mrs. Simpson added their support to the future association by driving to the different homes and obtaining pledges.

Mrs. Strain recalls, "It was a hot day in the late spring of 1939 when Mrs. Simpson and I started obtaining pledges. She drove the car and I would get out and open the gates as we came to them."

"The majority of the people were very enthusiastic about the possibility of electricity in their homes and only a few were skeptical about it. The most memorable things I can remember about that day are the success, and that cold glass of tea we had when we reached Colorado City!"

The cooperative was named the Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative, Inc., as suggested by A. K. McCarley. The name was entered in the official Charter which was applied for and approved by the State of Texas on August 2, 1939.

The first organizational meeting was held in the Thompson and Barber Building in Colorado City, Texas, on the 7th day of August, 1939. All nine of the incorporators and directors named in the Articles of Incorporation were present. The meeting was called to order by J. H. Carlock, who, upon motions duly made, seconded and unanimously carried, was chosen President of the association and chairman of the meeting. G. B. Slaton was chosen Secretary. The Secretary then presented and read waiver of notice of the meeting, signed by all the incorporators and directors, that the Lone Wolf Co-op could connect their lines to it as follows:

"We, the undersigned, being all of the incorporators and directors of Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative, Inc., (hereinafter called the "Cooperative") hereby call the first meeting of the incorporators and directors, waive all notice of the time, place and purpose of said meeting, whether provided by statute or otherwise, and do hereby fix Thompson & Barber Building, in the city of Colorado City, State of Texas, as the place and the 7th day of August, 1939, at 8:00 o'clock P. M., as the time for holding of said meeting for the following purposes:

"1. To adopt bylaws;

"2. To consider and act upon applications for membership in the Cooperative;

"3. To adopt forms of application for membership and membership certificates;

"4. To elect officers;

"5. To take action with regard to insurance;

"6. To take any and all action and to transact any and all business which may be necessary, convenient or desirable in connection with any of the foregoing; and the completion of the organization of the Cooperative at said meeting or at any adjournment or adjournments thereof; and for the transaction of such other business as may come before said meeting or any adjournment or adjournments thereof.

"In witness whereof, we have hereunto set our hands this 5 day of August, 1939.

Signed: E. O. Mahon, E. B. Hale, J. P. Nunn, T. W. Daugherty, J. H. Carlock, L. A. Strain, A. J. Duncan, B. T. Webb, G. B. Slaton.

The farmers now applied for their first loan from the R.E.A. for $145,000.00. The Cooperative was allowed thirty-five years to repay the loan.

In 1940 the Cooperative was ready to begin work. They obtained a wholesale contract with Texas Electric Service Company to buy electricity from them. Texas Electric lowered the volts at their substation north of the Texas and Pacific Railroad and one mile east of highway 208, in order run along smoothly, then all at once the meter reading would jump ahead 100 or 1000 kilowatts. The maintenance men were continually having to change meters and the "bugs" out of the old ones.

The first Lone Wolf Electric lines went in a northerly direction past the present site of the Lone Wolf Drive-in Theatre through the Longfellow Community. Mrs. John Turner was the first person to receive a meter and W. W. Anderson was second on the line. This section of lines was energized in March of 1940.

The contractors ran into trouble just as R. C. Compton, the first man to do construction work on the extension lines did. The people had given the right of way for the lines and the engineers did their surveying and staking. When the stakes were in a field the farmers would plow them up. The farmers said that they didn't want poles in their fields for the weeds to grow up around. But the engineers were stubborn men too and they came back and restaked the lines again and again.

When the contractors started work in the pastures or other fenced areas, they would tear down fences, allowing cattle to drift off. When the contractor's work was completed, he would leave the fence as it was, laying down instead of standing up.

The first meters gave the Cooperative all the trouble they could. The meters would

The first annual meeting of the members of the Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative, Inc., was held in the Herrington Building at the corner of First and Elm Street, the present site of the Colorado Federation Library. The meeting began at 10 o'clock A. M. on March 1, 1941, and was called to order by J. H. Carlock, president of the Cooperative. The annual reports of the President, Mr. Carlock, the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Slaton, and the project supervisor, Mr. O. I. Griffin, were presented, read, and approved.

Lone Wolf Growth Is Traced By President

MARTIN MURPHY
President of Lone Wolf Electric Co-op

In 1964 we members of Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative have reached a milestone in the distributing of electricity to rural areas of six counties . . . 25 years of continuous service and growth.

With over 1,200 miles of electric lines, over 3,000 meters and a plant now worth over $2,250,000.00 we have exceeded even the fondest expectations of the incorporators of the cooperative. No one, even Congress in initiating the REA loan program, could foresee the ever increasing demand that rural America has placed on its locally owned, locally controlled rural electric systems.

Many of our problems of 25 year vintage have been solved; however, the past is but a prologue to the future growth, and hence, problems. A successful first 25 years gives us as Co-op members no excuse to rest on our laurels. We must look forward to the next quarter century now with renewed vigor.

If we are to grow and prosper, if we are to continue to deliver low cost, non-profit electricity to rural areas, if we are to continue to improve our quality of electrical service, then we as members, employees, and friends of Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative must be ever mindful that this is a co-op.

This is true enterprise in its truest form, as American as apple pie. This is merely people serving themselves with electricity, people who could get electricity no other way.

This is our business, our locally owned, locally controlled, tax paying, free enterprise electric business. We must always remember, and uphold these basic facts about our cooperative.

With these thoughts in mind our next 25 years should show LONE WOLF ELECTRIC COOPERATIVE even greater growth.

For those of us who are fortunate enough to help celebrate our Golden Anniversary in 1989, may we look back to 1964 and say that our quality of cooperative service has increased, our kilowatt-hour usage continued to rise, and our public image and acceptance continued to improve.

The first 25 years is history, the next 25 depends upon us.

man; L. E. Barrington, maintenance foreman; D. M. Marcom, lineman; Eddie Gregory, lineman; Lon Carroll, digger operator; R. L. Salmon, lineman; Lonnie Wyrosdick, lineman.

proved, and placed in the files of the Cooperative. The next order of business was the election on nine directors to hold office until the next annual meeting of the members or until their successors were elected and qualified. An election was then held by ballot and the following were elected as directors: J. H. Carlock, L. A. Strain, G. B. Slaton, Z. I. Lasseter, E. B. Hale, A. J. Duncan, E. O. Mahon, J. P. Nunn, and T. W. Daughtrey. When the annual Mitchell County rodeo parade took place in 1941, the Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative entered a float. The theme was the carrying of electricity to rural homes and the float portrayed an electricity pole with lines going to a farm home. A wind mill stood beside the house. The entire scene was displayed on a platform on the back of a pickup truck.

One section of power line had been built when the United States became involved in World War II. Materials became scarce and some of the membership dues received from prospective electricity consumers were returned. The materials the Co-op had or could get were used to construct lines to farmers who could raise enough points to qualify for the lines. A person had to have so many cattle, hogs, chickens, or sheep in order to get their needed points. The people in Rogers Community distributed their points but despite the combined efforts of a dairyman, two ranchers, and a farmer, one neighbor remained out of reach of the electric lines. The distance he lived from the lines over balanced the extra points the others had.

The day the linemen were putting the poles up at our farm, my brothers, ages seven and ten, followed them around as if the linemen were little boys and they were their dogs. Some of the time the boys would hide behind some brush and watch the fascinating work. Once when the boys ventured forth, a lineman told them to go tell their mother to start fixing dinner, the men were going to eat with them.

Of course the men were only joking but off went my brothers to tell their mother about the linemen's self-invitation. My mother, who was washing the clothes and babysitting with me too, would have hit the ceiling if she had been in the house. But of course we had no electricity then so she washed with a rubboard and a tub of water out in the back yard. The men did stay for dinner after all, at my family's invitation. Since you get electricity for the first time only once in your life, why not show your appreciation.

During the war, doorprizes given at the Cooperative's annual membership meetings were war bonds and stamps. The meetings then weren't much different from those today. There were refreshments and doorprizes, which the directors and their wives were ineligible to win, the business meetings, and some form of entertainment. For a few years the Cooperative showed films, mostly comedy, western, or other types different from war films in order to take the people's minds off the war.

When the rural people first received electricity they were very conservative with the new type of power. They would shut the electricity off when their meter reached the minimum reading. One man on the Lone Wolf Electric lines was using only one kilowatt. When someone from the Cooperative went to the man's home to investigate, he found a person who was very happy with his new convenience. He said that electricity was nicest thing that ever happened. He could come in at night, turn on an electric light, find a match without having to stumble around, and then light his lamp with ease.

In 1949 the oil fields received power lines. Since then the number of oil wells being served with electricity has come to a total of 1300, making the number of meters served, 50% commercial, 50% regular Co-op members.

About the same time small community grocery stores, such as the ones at Cuthbert and Vincent, received electricity. The stores could now get refrigerated meat counters in order to serve their customers more efficiently. The homes and stores had to be rewired just as the other older homes and establishments in the rest of the Lone Wolf area had been improved.

The Cooperative suffered a great loss during the ice storms of January, 1949. Lines were snapped in two and service was cut off over the entire region. The worst damage in the Lone Wolf area occurred in the eastern part with losses to both the Co-op and its members.

A drought that began in 1951 caused many people to have to move. Meters connected to empty houses was a common sight everywhere. But the Cooperative didn't completely lose out on everything because the drought started the use of electricity for irrigation.

The Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative's first headquarters was an office room in the Thompson and Barber Building in Colorado City. In this first office apple boxes were used for filing cabinets. The directors met in the office once a month. In June of 1939 the Cooperative moved to the Colorado Hotel, the present site of the Baker Hotel Lone Wolf Electric Cooperative headquarters were located in the hotel for five years then moved to the office building presently occupied by G. D. Foster.

In 1948, grounds were broken for the new Lone Wolf building at the present location of the Cooperative. The next year, a notice was sent to all Cooperative members that the annual meeting would be combined with an open house of the new building on July 7. The people were really proud of their new building. It consisted of offices, a directors meeting room, a demonstration kitchen, and a storage warehouse.

Mrs. W. A. Bell was the first bookkeeper and Miss Nelda Garratt is presently serving the Cooperative as bookkeeper. These women are the only two bookkeepers the Lone Wolf Cooperative has had since its beginning in 1939. There have been only three managers, O. L. Griffin, E. V. Wilder, and Raymond Peude, who is presently in office. The work room and the other offices are modern and efficient in appearance.

Modern time saving and work saving machines are located in the work room, along with a snack bar for the convenience of the employees. The Medallion Room will seat around 200 people and has an all electric demonstration kitchen. It is available as a public meeting place for both Co-op members and non-members, such as Home Demonstration Clubs, Future Farmers of America, and the Business and Professional Women's Club.

All of these new additions, the "Lone Wolf Electric Co-opatorium" offices, and the Medallion Room are financed with borrowed money. However, only 9 1/2% of the money borrowed has been spent on office space. The majority of the loans goes toward the construction of new electric lines and equipment.

The Cooperative's record, as an asset to the community, is long and impressive. The Co-op has given free wiring demonstrations, school supplies, and their time and assistance to little league ball clubs, Churches and other groups which wish to use their projector and screen are free to do so. The Cooperative donates annually to the United Funds, "Boy's Ranch," the local country livestock show, and other charitable drives.

The Co-op also sponsors an irrigation school free to members and non-members, and is an active supporter of the "Highway 80 Association", an organization begun for the appeal of the area along the highway to tourists. The Cooperative takes an active part in county fairs with display booths, financial donations, and free publicity. The Cooperative also helped bring telephones into the rural areas by allowing Bell Telephone to connect their lines onto the Co-op's electric poles.

The primary aim of the Lone Wolf Cooperative today is to continue giving electric service on a non-profit basis to new members who are continually coming into the Lone Wolf rural area and building homes or commercial businesses. Cooperative plans for the future, as begun in 1956, include the eventual return to Co-op members excess margins as they accumulate. These excess margins are called capital credits and cannot be collected by the members until after the capital of the Cooperative shall equal at least forty percent of the total assets of the Cooperative. This capital credits plan shows that the Cooperative is still operating under its basic principal: non-profit electricity for members of the cooperative that is truly "Owned by Those it Serves".

to some 3000 percent members and to take needed electricity to new members who are continually coming into the Lone Wolf rural area and building homes or commercial businesses.

District's HD Award to Hockley Girl

Freda Pointer, 48-year-old Hockley County 4-H Club girl from Ropesville, has been named winner of the annual $500 scholarship given by Home Demonstration Clubs of Extension Service District 2. The scholarship was presented to Freda in ceremonies held Thursday night in conjunction with the Hockley County 4-H dress revue at the Hockley County Fairgrounds.

Freda is the seventeenth winner in the scholarship program. Since 1950, scholarships totaling $8,000 have been awarded to outstanding and deserving 4-H girls of District 2, according to Mrs. Aubrey Russell, District Home Demonstration Agent of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service at Lubbock.

Mrs. Lynn Miller, Home Demonstration Council Chairman from Floyd County, issued the scholarship check. Voluntary contributions to the 4-H scholarship fund are made annually by approximately 160 home demonstration clubs of the district's 20 counties.

The scholarship is to assist worthy 4-H girls to attend Texas Technological College and study home economics, Mrs. Russell said. In order to be scholarship candidates, girls must have completed or be enrolled in their third year of 4-H work; plan to enter college the year of the judging or be a college freshman; and plan to study home economics at Tech. Previous winners may not re-apply for the award.

Freda, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Pointer of Route 1, Ropesville, has been in 4-H work for 9 years. She graduated from high school in May and will enter college in September.

Freda has excelled in leadership work. She has been president of her local club for two years, a 4-H Council delegate for three years, and vice president, secretary, reporter and program chairman for one year each. She has also been president and secretary of the County Junior Leaders 4-H Club.

Last year, Freda was a 4-H electric-award winner, and in 1962 she was Gold Star 4-H girl and a dress revue winner, and received the canning award in 1961, and the home economics award in 1960. She also has been a county winner in dairy foods, food preparation, and clothing programs. The 4-H girl has completed result demonstrations in meat animals, recreation and bed

Mrs. Ratliff To Host Methodist Circle

The Susannah Wesley Circle of the First Methodist Church will meet Monday morning at 9:30 in the home of Mrs. Bob Ratliff.

Why you may never catch up with the Joneses

Their car is a slightly battered '56 model. The house could use a coat of paint and some new rugs all around. The family couldn't get away for a vacation last summer. Why should anyone envy them— unless it's a case of their contagious happiness.

They're close as a family, self-sufficient, self-reliant with what they have. Faith in themselves plays a big part in their happiness. A deep religious Faith plays a bigger part. Take a look at your life and see if it could be better. Regular worship at your church or synagogue can help you find what you've been missing.

Find the strength for your life...
