MacLeod trial begins...

Fluvanna rancher testifies retelling corpse's discovery

ODESSA (Special) — The cattle rancher testifying today in the murder trial of a Lubbock teacher accused of killing his wife told jurors that he witnessed the road-side dumping of a corpse last May.

Ben Miller, a 34-year-old Fluvanna rancher, testified that he and a ranch hand saw a man dumping an object along the Scurry County farm-to-market road and when they returned to the site later they found a body.

Miller's testimony in the second day of the trial of 36-year-old Arther Lee MacLeod who is on trial for the alleged May 21, 1985 murder of Evelyne Feather MacLeod.

Mrs. MacLeod, 35, was strangled and her head and hands sawed off and buried in the couple's yard, acccording to court reports.

Miller testified he passed a car on FM 1269 the morning of May 21. He told jurors he became suspicious when he saw a man throwing something over the edge of an embankment.

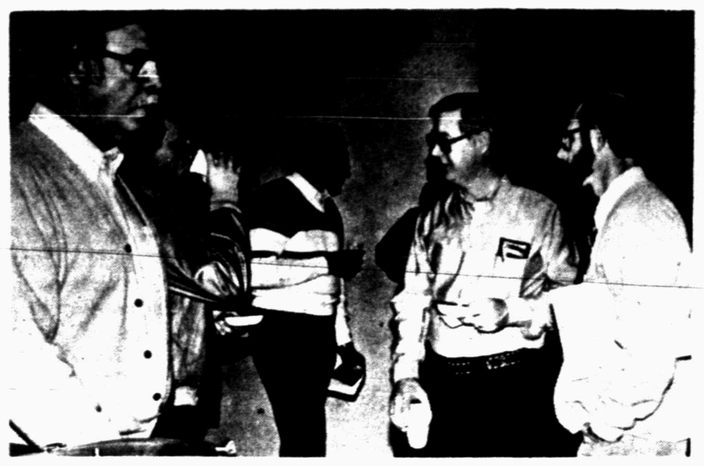

The ranch hand with him wrote down the car's license plate in the dust inside the glove compartment of the Miller vehicle.

After the pair returned and found the body, they called authorities, he told jurors.

That license plate number was later traced to MacLeod, a former sixth grade teacher at Lubbock.

In outlining the prosecution's case against MacLeod, Lubbock County District Attorney Jim Bob Darnell told jurors he would call a plant nursery owner to

1986 deficit to trigger budget cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional and administration budget officials said today the federal deficit for fiscal 1986 will exceed a stagggering $220 billion and trigger the first round of government-wide spending cuts under the new Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law.

In separate projections required under the new law, the White House Office of Management and Budget predicted a deficit of $220.1 billion while the Congressional Budget Office said that this year's red ink would amount to $220.9 billion.

Last fiscal year's deficit was $212 billion.

The two agencies, outlining spending cuts totaling $11.7 billion that would be required by March 1 under terms of the law, enumerated staff and service cutbacks that will be needed in thousands of federal agencies and programs.

In all, across-the-board cuts of 4.3 percent will be needed in domestic programs and 4.9 percent for the military, the budget agencies said.

The extent of the cuts had been disclosed earlier by White House

Under the law, automatic spending cuts are triggered if the estimated deficit, as projected by the two budget offices, exceeds the Gramm-Rudman deficit target for 1985 of $172 billion by at least $20 billion.

In this case, the average of the two estimates — $220.5 billion — was $48.6 billion over the target.

Giant leap noted with first month for state sales tax

While it only reflected one month's spending, the first comparison for Snyder's sales tax during 1986 indicated a marked improvement this year compared to last.

The latest return from the state comptroller's office indicates that local sales equaled a plus 43.3 percent.

In actual dollars, the one month total was $53,625. By comparison, the January check in 1985 totaled $37,415 — a difference of $16,210. This would indicate retail sales inside the city increased by some $1.6 million.

January checks represent taxes collected on sales made in November and reported to the state comptroller's office by Dec. 20.

Statewide, the return was up some 3 percent.

1985 ended its state sales tax total at a minus 4 percent in Snyder.

A comparison of other West Texas cities of like, smaller or larger size indicates a mixed report for 1986's first month.

These include:

—Lubbock: a minus 12.9 percent with a one month return of $2.1 million compared to $2.5 million last year.

—Abilene: a minus 6.1 percent with a one month return of $492,361 compared to $524,486 last year.

—Odessa: a minus 7.9 percent with a one month return of $471,154 compared to $512,025 last year.

—San Angelo: a plus 20.7 percent with a one month return of $316,473 compared to $262,034 last year.

—Big Spring: a minus 2.3 percent with a one month return of $77,810 compared to $79,646 last year.

—Snyder: a plus 43.3 percent with a one month return of $53,625 compared to $37,415 last year.

—Sweetwater: a minus 2.3 percent with a one month return of $44,899 compared to $45,988 last year.

—Colorado City: a plus 11.2 percent with a one month return of $15,853 compared to $14,250 last year.

—Post: a plus 33.1 percent with a one month return of $10,875 compared to $8,166 last year.

SESQUI FLAG — Robert Adams and Dr. Harry Krenek are shown preparing to raise a Texas Sesquicentennial flag at Western Texas College. The flag, donated by Adams on behalf of the Social Sciences Division, will be flown during 1986 along with the U.S. and Texas flags on the south side of the campus. Snyder public schools have received Sesquicentennial flags also for each campus. (SDN Staff Photo)

Record high absentee ends

Some 184 votes have been cast in what has been called the largest absentee turnout ever for Hermleigh balloting.

The count closed Tuesday in the county clerk's office. Officials note, however, that two ballots mailed out have not been returned. Those received by mail through Saturday will be counted.

The election which will decide the fate of the Hermleigh school district is due Saturday. The polls will be open from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. with balloting to take place at the Hermleigh Community Center.

TESCO files Tuesday for refund, rate drop

A previously announced request to refund some $78 million to customers of Texas Electric Service Company was officially filed Tuesday with the Public Utility Commission.

In addition, TESCO, a division of Texas Utilities Electric Company, is asking the PUC to decrease its fixed composite charge for fuel from 2.79 cents per kilowatt-hour to 2.46 cents — a savings projected for the customer due to the drop in price for natural gas.

The lower fuel charge would save the average residential customer about $45 per year, a 4.9 percent reduction compared to what their bills would be under the present fixed fuel charge.

This is being attributed to the declining cost of natural gas, which is used to make slightly more than half of the electricity used by customers.

Regarding the refund, the company is asking the PUC to authorize it at the earliest possible date, which would be March.

The refund is expected as a credit to customer's bills that month.

TESCO officials earlier estimated the refund would equal approximately $12.50 to residential customers.

The $78 million refund represents also savings to customers brought about by lower costs for fuel used to make electricity.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "If every car in the world were put in line, end to end, 90 percent of all drivers would immediately try to pull out and pass the vehicle in front of them."

More and more emphasis is being put on the classroom. If you drive too fast too often, then you may have to take a defensive driving course.

If you work in the oil patch, then you have to be certified to "sniff" gas.

If you get convicted of DWI, then likely the judge will send you to school for additional education.

Now, if you happen to be a habitual hot check writer, then some believe that the classroom may be the answer.

The National Corrective Training Institute in Austin conducts an eight-hour class for bad check writers in several states.

The curriculum ranges from the philosophic (what do you believe is right and wrong?) to the practical (how to balance your checkbook).

In Arizona and Texas, the class is an alternative to prosecution. In Colorado, it's an optional sentence that a judge can give to a convicted hot check writer. In all the states, the student must pay the $40 tuition.

In Travis County, after classes were instituted, check complaints from merchants fell by 40 percent in the first 18 months.

The Travis county attorney belives education, coupled with a light dose of humiliation in the form of group therapy, is the key to the success.

We're more inclined to think the humiliation is more effective than the education. Humiliation was pretty effective in the old days when a businessman could tape all his bad checks on the checkout counter for all to see.

That, of course, is no longer permitted, and could be one reason why bad check writing has been on the rise.

Sign of the times: Fathers usually reach an awkward age. He becomes too round for his old clothes and too square for the new styles.

Ask Us

Q. — Is there a maximum school tax rate per $100 valuation allowed by state law?

A. — Yes. School districts may not tax more than $1.50 per $100 valuation for taxes which go towards the operation and maintenance of the district. There can be an additional rate charged for any bonded indebtedness.

In Brief

Coal reversal

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Supreme Court reversed itself today in a case involving ownership of coal and lignite, and by doing so, some officials said it prevented the loss of over $900 million in state revenues.

On June 12, with Justice Sears McGee writing the majority opinion, the Supreme Court ruled that H.D. Schwarz Jr. owned all the coal and lignite under 817 acres in Webb County that he had acquired and leased for mining.

The General Land Office, contending the state owned mineral rights for the land, estimated the loss in revenue to the state at $918.2 million "over the long term."

Antitrust laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan will soon send Congress a proposal to dramatically overhaul the nation's antitrust laws in an effort to make U.S. industry more competitive in international markets, the administration said today.

Spokesman Larry Speakes said Reagan had approved recommendations made by his top economic advisers at a December Cabinet council session.

"It would be mainly to allow those companies in the United States who are severely affected by foreign competition to have a better opportunity to merge," Speakes said.

Today, the Supreme Court granted the state's motion for rehearing and withdrew its previous opinion.

Temps drop

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A mass of polar air forced down overnight temperatures to 28 degrees in the center of the city, but officials said today no new deaths were added to the nine victims already claimed by the cold wave.

The government newspaper El Nacional said in a front-page headline: "Yesterday The Mexican Republic Experienced the Coldest Day of This Century."

The cold caused new hardships for thousands still homeless from the September earthquakes. They wrapped themselves in blankets as well as they could or huddled around humble fires in the tent cities that still exist in devastated areas of the capital.

Second carrier heading for Mediterranean

WASHINGTON (AP) — A second American aircraft carrier was moving into the Mediterranean Sea today, two days after Libyan jets intercepted a Navy surveillance plane in international airspace and briefly shadowed it.

Although the Libyan fighters — two Soviet-made MiG-25s — made no threatening moves toward the Navy plane, two U.S. F-A-18 jet fighters were scrambled from the carrier Coral Sea to intercede if necessary.

Monday's incident, disclosed by administration sources Tuesday, was described as the first direct contact between U.S. and Libyan forces in the wake of increased U.S.-Libyan tensions over the Dec. 27 terrorist attack on Rome and Vienna airports.

The United States has accused Libya of supporting the terrorist group that conducted those attacks.

As a result of those tensions and increased activity by Soviet naval ships, the aircraft carrier Saratoga and an accompanying group of smaller warships was ordered away from a routine deployment in the Indian Ocean last week and into the Mediterranean to join the carrier Coral Sea.

The Coral Sea, from which the E-3A electronic surveillance plane had been dispatched, was reported in the Ionian Sea, southeast of Italy and due north of Libya.

The Saratoga and three accompanying ships were part of a convoy that entered the Suez Canal at 3:30 a.m. EST today after arriving at the southern end of the canal late Tuesday night, according officials of the Suez Canal Authority. The trip through the 101-mile canal was expected to take 12 to 14 hours.

The officials identified the vessels accompanying the carrier as the guided missile cruiser Biddle, the guided missile destroyer Scott and the ammunition ship Mount Baker.

Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger, although providing no details, confirmed the incident involving the Libyan fighters Tuesday evening. He said he found nothing remarkable about the affair because Libyan planes had patrolled in the general area before.

"Libyan planes have been up in that area. This is a little farther north than they've been before, but I don't think there's anything unusual about it," Weinberger said.

The administration sources sought to downplay the incident, noting that the Libyan MiGs had turned back toward home before the F-A-18s arrived on the scene. One source noted, however, that the MiGs had appeared unexpectedly and moved unusually close to the surveillance plane — "within 200 feet."

In other developments, Pentagon officials stepped up their war of words against Libya and the Soviet Union, with spokesman Robert B. Sims branding the introduction of SA-5 surface-to-air missiles in Libya "a significant and dangerous escalation in the Soviet-Libyan arms relationship."

Help immunity with flu shots

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I get the flu every winter and have to see my doctor for a shot of penicillin. What over-the-counter medicine is available for flu virus?

DEAR READER — To begin with, penicillin is ineffective against viruses. It just doesn't work and, in the opinion of experts, should be limited to therapy for specific bacterial infections. It is not appropriate for flu.

Second, there are no over-the-counter (or prescription) drugs for influenza. Doctors can treat the bacterial complications of flu, but we are powerless to treat the disease itself.

While there is no guarantee that flu shots will protect you from all types of influenza, I believe you would be helped by having a flu shot every year. The injections may enhance your immune system so that you are not as susceptible to each annual variety of flu virus. Ask your doctor if he or she would consider giving you flu shots.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am somewhat "hard-of-hearing," as is commonly said. When I hold my nose and mouth shut, then blow hard, a little click occurs in both inner ears. Then, immediately, I hear twice as well. Could you tell me how I can cure my hearing?

DEAR READER — Your deafness seems to be due to a malfunction of the ear's venting mechanisms, the two tiny Eustachian tubes that connect the middle-ear chambers to an area behind the nose. These tubes serve to equalize pressure between the outside world and and the closed compartments of the middle ear. When the Eustachian tubes remain closed, pressure alterations make hearing difficult. I think an ear, nose and throat specialist would benefit you tremendously.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I injured my eyelid quite a few years ago when I ran into an iron door at work. I have trouble raising the lid. Is there anything that can be done?

DEAR READER — Yes. You may have injured the muscle (or the nerve that operates the muscle) of your eyelid. Reconstructive surgery by an eye specialist may return your normal blink. If you were injured on the job, the Workers' Compensation Board in your home state will supply a list of ophthalmologists who are qualified to perform the surgery you may need.

If you have questions about HIATAL HERNIA, you can get answers in Dr. Gott's new Health Report on the subject. Send 75 cents plus a long self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to ask for the Health Report on Hiatal Hernia.

Silence was golden

By James Jacoby

Don't think that East lost his mind in today's bidding. His jump raise of partner's overcall was pre-emptive a treatment that has become popular. So East's bid simply said to West, "Hey, I think the opponents can make something and I have heart support, so I'm taking away some of their room to bid. And by the way, I've got a lousy hand." South had a problem over three hearts. He did not want to try three no-trump with what might turn out to be only one heart stopper. Eventually he bid four clubs. North did not know how much strength partner might have, but if South could bid four clubs, North's two aces should make five clubs a good bet. And so it was. A heart lead set up a heart trick for the defenders, and of course they could not be denied their ace of clubs, but North-South scored 11 tricks and their contract.

I am not criticizing the East-West methods, since I use the same kind of pre-emptive raise, but my teammates did not use this sophisticated device. Accordingly, at the other table East remained silent. When North responded one spade, East passed. South now bid three clubs. North bid three diamonds, and South, with a heart stopper and the hope that North might have a protected queen or jack of hearts, bid three no-trump. Although East didn't show his heart support, West led a heart anyway, and the three no-trump contract was doomed. There is no moral to this tale. Sometimes when you win championship events, you have a little bit of luck.

Dear Abby

Story of Damsel in Distress Is Tall Tale to Dubious Wife

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1986 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: You once said that you could usually spot a phony letter. Well, today is my 70th birthday, and so help me, this is true. The letter in your column from "Jane," who refused to open the door to a stranger, struck home.

On a recent Saturday, at midnight, I was still reading when I heard a timid knock at the front door. I peered out, and saw a topless young lady standing there with her arms crossed. Fearing a ruse for a robbery, I opened the door slightly and said, "Yes?"

She asked, "Could you please lend me a shirt?"

I said, "What happened?"

She replied, "The guy I was riding with took my shirt. Where is the nearest bus stop?" I thought, should I ask her in and wake my wife—she has 99 blouses—no, that might mean trouble, so I reached into the hall closet for an old windbreaker I use in the garden, and handed it out the door. She put it on and tried to work the zipper, but it was broken, so rather than have her stand there fussing with it, I said, "Bring it back, here is my business card."

She said, "I will. Thank you, thank you, thank you." Then she left.

The next morning at breakfast I told my wife what happened, and she didn't believe a word of it. Now my wife thinks I lied, and I'm out a jacket.

How should I have handled the situation?

EDDY HILL,
VAN NUYS

DEAR EDDY: I think you handled the situation with gallantry, chivalry and style. Your wife may not believe you, but I do. P.S. Let me know if you ever get your jacket back.

DEAR ABBY: My wife complains constantly that she is starved for sex. One look at her and you know that's all she's starved for. Since the birth of our second child, she's gained so much weight she refuses to weigh herself. (She must be 300 pounds.) Fat turns me off. That's why there's no sex.

What troubles me even more is what she's doing to our children. They are both very fat. She keeps feeding them cakes, pies, cookies and fried foods that will only make them fatter. Our daughter will be entering her teens soon, and I know the other kids will make her life miserable. Kids can be so cruel. Our son, who is 7, is so fat he can barely walk, let alone run. How will he be able to play sports?

If my wife is bent on destroying herself, why is she doing this to the kids, too? When I mention that the kids are fat, she flies into a rage. What can I do?

NO NAME, NO CITY,
NO STATE

DEAR NO: The children are not your wife's responsibility alone—they're yours, too.

Your wife desperately needs to be examined mentally as well as physically. She could be suffering from emotional problems. (One of the cheapest and most accessible mind-altering substances available is FOOD.)

The poor woman is also guilty of child abuse, and if you permit her to continue fattening the children, you're equally guilty. First express your loving concern, then get her to a doctor! And insist that the children get into a weight-loss program recommended by their pediatrician.

Cancer claims life of Donna Reed

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Actress Donna Reed was "a consummate professional," a "lovely lady, gentle and kind," friends said of the all-American TV mom and Academy Award winner who died of cancer two weeks before her 65th birthday.

Her husband, retired Army Col. Grover Asmus, was at her side when she died Tuesday at their Beverly Hills home.

"It was probably just as well. We expected it. Her death was imminent. It was kind of rough," said Miss Reed's brother, Bill Mullenger, 58, a real estate agent in Denison, Iowa.

Doctors learned Miss Reed had pancreatic cancer several months ago, when she was hospitalized for ulcers, Mullenger said in a telephone interview. "I saw her at Thanksgiving. She was about like any normal person would be when they find out they have cancer — depressed.

"There was not much hope of remission or that it could be treated."

Funeral services were scheduled Friday at Beverly Hills Presbyterian Church. Burial will follow at Westwood Cemetery, said Pam Flynn, whose husband, Harry, was Miss Reed's publicist.

Miss Reed won an Oscar for best supporting actress in 1953 for her portrayal of Alma, a prostitute, in "From Here to Eternity," the tale of Army life on the eve of Pearl Harbor.

"I can remember in the beginning, when every guy who saw her on the screen had a crush on Donna, particularly myself," said Frank Sinatra, a co-star in "From Here to Eternity." "Donna was a lovely lady, gentle and kind."

DONNA REED

Miss Reed's most memorable TV role was in "The Donna Reed Show," which began in 1958 and lasted eight seasons.

Her last TV role was in 1984, as matriarch of the Ewing clan on the prime-time soap opera "Dallas," a role created by Barbara Bel Geddes for six seasons. Miss Bel Geddes, who left because of ill health, returned a year later and Miss Reed was fired. She filed a $7.5 million suit in April against Lorimar Productions and CBS and, in August, accepted a $1 million settlement.

Despite the bitterness of the dismissal, she was remembered fondly by "Dallas" colleagues. "I am extremely saddened by her passing. My heart goes out to her family," said Larry Hagman, who played son J.R.

"Donna Reed was above all else a lady and a consummate professional," actress Victoria Principal said in a statement. "Her passing away so early in her life is a real tragedy."

Born in Denison, Miss Reed began acting at MGM when she was 20, supporting herself as a dishwasher, librarian and secretary.

She graduated from the Thin Man, Dr. Gillespie and Andy Hardy movie series to become a star with "They Were Expendable" in 1945.

Drugs linked to crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fire ignited by "free-basing" cocaine may have caused the New Year's Eve plane crash that killed rock 'n' roll star Rick Nelson and six others, published reports said today.

Sources said preliminary reports indicate Nelson's body contained a measurable level of unmetabolized cocaine, which means the drug had not been absorbed into his system at the time of death, The Washington Post reported. But the sources said final laboratory reports are not available yet.

Rudy Kapustin, National Transportation Safety Board chief investigator, was quoted by the Dallas Morning News as confirming that the board was investigating the possibility of a drug-related fire.

However, Ira Furman, a NTSB spokesman, said: "The board has no evidence now to support that kind of speculation."

New federal rules might affect local satellite laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for satellite dish manufacturers plan to review hundreds of local zoning ordinances that specify where the home earth stations can be built to see how many ordinances have been pre-empted by a new federal ruling.

Fred Finn, an attorney representing SPACE, the association of manufacturers, dealers and owners of dishes, said a decision by the Federal Communications Commission on Tuesday may invalidate a majority of the 500 to 750 local rules governing backyard and rooftop dishes.

While he anticipates that many of the communities will change their rules when the federal preemption text is published, he predicted that some cases will end up in court.

FCC officials said the order was crafted so it will be difficult for a community to ban satellite dishes if it does not also ban ham radio antennas and apartment house master antenna system dishes.

Albert Halprin, FCC common carrier bureau chief, predicted that the only regulations that would survive a court challenge were general rules existing before the advent of backyard dishes, apartment house master antenna and ham radio towers.

The commission said one type of ban that would pass muster would be a prohibition on any structure that does not blend with the colonial architecture in the historic section of Williamsburg, Va.

Military may be used against Soviet-backed aggression

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military intervention may be needed to counter Soviet-sponsored aggression around the world, Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger said in a speech warning against major cuts in Pentagon spending.

"One out of every four countries around the globe is at war," Weinberger said in remarks prepared for delivery to the opening seesion of a two-day Conference on Low-Intensity Warfare. "In virtually every case, there is a mask on the face of war. In virtually every case, behind the mask is the Soviet Union and those who do its bidding."

Secretary of State George Shultz was scheduled to address the conference today.

Weinberger deleted his remarks on U.S. intervention from the speech he made Tuesday night. The text provided in advance by the Defense Department said some of his prepared remarks would be deleted from the delivered speech for the sake of brevity.

Fred Hoffman, the Pentagon's deputy assistant secretary for public affairs, was asked whether the remarks were dropped for any reason other than to shorten the speech.

"I don't think it has any significance," Hoffman said in a telephone interview Tuesday night. "The long version was for the record. The short version was for brevity."

In the prepared text, Weinberger said low-intensity warfare includes terrorism, insurgencies, guerrilla wars and those conflicts described by the Kremlin as "wars of national liberation," a phrase the defense secretary called "an Orwellian corruption of language."

Americans should not rule out military intervention, despite bitter memories of the Vietnam War, he said.

"We must decide if our interests justify intervention. We must decide if the leadership of the country threatened is capable of using our assistance to proper effect, which is to say for the security and well-being of the nation, rather than merely to sustain itself in power, and to reinforce those abuses which may have contributed to the nation's difficulties from the beginning."

"We cannot permit our disdain for some imperfect regimes to bring forth far worse alternatives," he said.

In his actual speech, Weinberger repeated his warning against reversing President Reagan's military buildup, as may be required under the balanced-budget law passed by Congress late last year.

Although Reagan has pledged to maintain defense spending without raising taxes, the defense budget for the current fiscal year must be slashed by 4.9 percent under the Gramm-Rudman act. The law calls for a balanced budget by 1991, with cuts coming equally from defense and domestic spending.

"When nations place their comfort before their security, they end with neither," Weinberger said.

SESQUICENTENNIAL ARTWORK--The artwork selected for the Sesquicentennial cover of Southwestern Bell Telephone directories in Texas will be on display until February 1986 in the rotunda of the state capitol in Austin. Arlington artist Bill Hall's work, "Texas Retrospect--1836-1986," was selected as the cover art from more than 500 paintings entered in Southwestern Bell Telephone's Sesquicentennial Directory Cover Contest. The art is an oil wash montage which captures the spirit of 150 years of rich Texas history. The painting, which will appear on the covers of nine million Southwestern Bell Telephone directories to be distributed throughout Texas in 1986, features illustrations of people, places and events that helped shape the 150-year history of Texas. Commission finds cost of labor racketeering staggering

WASHINGTON (AP) — The manipulation of a few corrupt unions has enabled organized crime to become so entrenched in the marketplace that millions of Americans "unknowingly pay a surcharge" to mobsters for a wide variety of goods and services, a presidential commission says.

Winding up the first comprehensive federal probe of labor and management racketeering since the McClellan hearings of the 1950s, the President's Commission on Organized Crime concluded Tuesday that crime families and syndicates are "increasingly using labor unions as a tool to obtain monopoly power" in key sectors of the economy.

The 18-member commission, appointed by President Reagan in 1983, charged that federal enforcement efforts are fragmented and inadequate to stem the tide, and it faulted the administration for political ties to one union, the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, on grounds that the relationship simply does not look good.

Just two days earlier, Reagan, in an article for The New York Times Magazine, wrote that "for the first time in our history, we finally have the mob on the run" and boasted that organized crime convictions had quadrupled since he took office in 1981.

But Commission Chairman Irving R. Kaufman, who privately presented the panel's report to Reagan at the White House, said "There has never been a coherent federal strategy to attack organized crime's corruption of our business institutions and labor organizations."

In a summary released to reporters, the commission criticized prosecutors who merely "count bodies" — convictions — as a measure of success, and said, "Instead, a new strategy must be developed to bankrupt individual mobsters and to discourage union officers, employers, and public officials from accommodating organized crime."

Executive Director James D. Harmon told reporters the commission was distressed that of 1,399 racketeering prosecutions, the Justice Department had directed 57 percent of those cases against labor officials with no organized crime connections. The emphasis, he said, should be on the mob.

Common surgery may cause strokes, death

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Doctors are performing a form of artery surgery far too often, and the operations designed to prevent strokes may be causing as many as 12,000 needless strokes and deaths each year, an expert says.

Although there's no evidence that this surgery, carotid endarterectomy, does any good, it is performed on more than 100,000 people each year at a total cost of up to $1 billion, Dr. Mark L. Dyken said Tuesday.

"There are too many procedures performed, in light of present knowledge, by too many surgeons in too many places with too high a stroke and death rate," he said.

Dyken, chief of neurology at Indiana University School of Medicine, presented his findings at a science writers seminar sponsored by the American Heart Association.

Dr. James T. Robertson, chairman of neurosurgery at the University of Tennessee School of Medicine, agreed with Dyken's concerns: "One surgical procedure has reached epidemic proportions in the United States of America."

Stroke, after heart attacks and cancer, is the third leading cause of death in the United States. In most strokes, one of the arteries that feed the brain becomes blocked, and brain tissue dies.

Lady Tigers fall, 63-60...

Mustangs rally to nip ladies

It's said the best teams come through in the clutch and if that's so, then Sweetwater's Lady Mustangs probably deserve their No. 5 ranking.

The Mustangs rallied from a five-point deficit with nine unanswered points here Tuesday and went on to hold off an upset-minded Snyder Tiger squad, 63-60.

The near miss - in front of a vocal crowd of partisan fans - leaves Coach Ken Housden's girls with a 16-2 season record and puts them at 5-2 in District 2-4A. Sweetwater vaults to 21-1 overall and 7-0 in loop action.

Sweetwater took an early lead in the game, going up by as many as six points, 8-2, when Rachelle Mulanax hit on a short jumper.

Snyder cut the margin to 13-11 by the end of the quarter, however, and tied the game at 13-all on a pair of Karlene Thompson free throws with 7:31 to play in the half.

The Mustangs got another bucket from Mulanax, and held a stingy lead until midway through the quarter. Thompson put a rebound back up and in to knot the score at 19-19, and a three-point play by Donna Anderson gave Snyder the advantage, 22-19.

Stephanie McKnight kept the Mustangs off balance with a pair of 20-foot jump shots while Teri Sue Henry popped two free throws and Jill Roemisch answered on a rebound. The result was a 32-27 halftime advantage, made good on Melody Pickering's basket from underneath with two seconds left.

A bucket from Anderson at the start of the third quarter gave Snyder its biggest lead - seven points. Sweetwater went inside to 6-1 Shannon Wilburn to rally back, however, and the quarter ended with the Tigers holding a 49-45 lead.

Snyder kept control of the ballgame until the clock read 3:32. At that point, Thompson scored to put the Tigers in front 56-51. But Sweetwater toughened down the stretch. The Mustangs launched an attack - helped along by three foul calls - that scored nine unanswered points.

Cheryl Owens hit the first shot of the rally. Mulanax followed with a three-point play, then added two more on a fast break with 1:53 left to play. A Snyder turnover was met with a backside bucket from Owens, who gave Sweetwater a 60-56 lead with 1:02 showing on the clock.

After that, it was a matter of hitting free throws. The Lady Mustangs were only two of five over the final 34 seconds, but managed to get good rebounding underneath to help ward off a Snyder comeback attempt.

"I think maybe we relaxed on our zone defense there, but our kids really did a good job overall tonight," said Coach Housden. "Sweetwater's got a good ballclub. They hit everything they put up there when in counted and I think we might have been forcing it a little."

Mulanax led the Mustangs with 16 points. Wilburn got 14 and Stephanie Upshaw added 12. Owens pitched in 10.

Snyder was led by Thompson, who scored 22 points. The 5-6 senior also had eight rebounds. McKnight offered 12 points and led the floor game with 8 assists.

Also scoring for the Tigers were Anderson with 8, Roemisch and Henry with 6 each, Christy Comer with 4 and Pickering with 2. Henry had 7 rebounds; Anderson 5.

Snyder left a number of potential points at the free throw line. The Tigers were 14 of 23 for the game, and missed the front end of five bonus situations. They did go to the line only twice in the second half, however.

The Lady Tigers travel to meet Pecos this Friday.

Tigers bridle 'Stangs, 51-42

SWEETWATER – Snyder's Tigers broke open a tight game early in the third quarter and went on to defeat Sweetwater in District 2-4A play here Tuesday night, 51-42.

Sweetwater led 26-24 on the first bucket of the second half but Snyder rallied behind Chris Garrett's seven straight points to take control of the ballgame. The result was a 31-26 advantage for the Tigers, who led by as many as 15 points before the ballgame was over.

Snyder had fashioned a 6-point lead in the second quarter but couldn't hold it.

"We knew we were going to have a height advantage and we wanted to be patient and get the ball inside. In the first quarter almost every time we'd get the ball we'd score or get fouled," said Snyder Coach Larry Scott, whose Tigers vault to 13-4 for the season and 4-1 in district play.

Garrett, a 6-3 junior, also led the way in the first half. He punched in eight free throws in the game and six of them were in the first 16 minutes.

Sweetwater was able to tie the game at 24-24 before halftime, however, causing Coach Scott to note, "We got a little greedy or impatient and started not working the ball for the best shot. We got a couple of bad breaks and from there it went downhill until halftime."

Snyder forced Sweetwater's man offense outside in the third quarter, took away the Mustang's best shots, and hit the boards.

"We went back to being patient," said Scott. "In the fourth quarter they went to a man defense and it fit right into our hands. We were able to post up Chris, Trey (Tippens) and Jackie (Anderson) and basically get them the ball inside one-on-one."

Tippens got 14 points to lead all scorers. Garrett had 13 and also yanked down 11 rebounds. Anderson scored 12 points and Bobby Scott added 10 for the Tigers.

Sweetwater, now 2-3 both for the season and in 2-4A play, was led by Patrick Goodman's 13 points. Chris Harris added 10.

Coach Scott said he thinks his Tigers will have to play better with district darkhorse Pecos coming to town on Friday, but was not disappointed with the team's effort here.

"We didn't play as good as we should have but at Sweetwater I'm just happy to get out with a win. They've always played us tough there and we've never really played our best game there. We're glad for the win," he said.

Tipoff for Friday's game with Pecos will be 8 p.m. in Scurry County Coliseum. A junior varsity contest will be held first at 6:30.

NCAA approves drug testing

NEW ORLEANS (AP) - Drugs are out, but boosters are still in.

The NCAA voted Tuesday to slap penalties on athletes who test positive for drugs before or after postseason games, but failed to slam the door on boosters making on-campus contacts.

The anti-drug program which failed a year ago to reach the floor for a vote, partly because it didn't include cocaine and other "street drugs," was overwhelmingly passed this time around despite scattered complaints that its cost will be prohibitive and the NCAA has no business getting involved.

And "the potential for abuse" was cited several times as the reason for not extending the off-campus ban on booster contacts to the campus as well.

At the second day of its annual convention, the NCAA also voted:

- To reduce from eight to seven the number of sports needed to remain a Division I-A member.
- To delay for at least a year a proposal to allow five years of athletic eligibility instead of four.
- To keep the Division I and Division III men's and women's indoor track championships.
- To permit, "when circumstances clearly warrant," the restoration of eligibility of an athlete involved in "major" or "secondary" rules violations.

Thompson chosen for all-star contest

KARLENE THOMPSON

Karlene Thompson, two-time all-district spiker who led Snyder to a state championship this past season, has been selected to play in the annual Texas Girl's Coaches Association East-West All-Star volleyball game.

The 5-6 senior was also named to the all-tournament team at the state tournament in Austin and has been nominated for all-state.

The East-West game is scheduled to be played on Saturday, July 12 at 7 p.m. in Birdville Coliseum at Haltom City.

Girls edged by Mustangs

Snyder junior varsity girls got 14 points from Patricia Casias but it wasn't enough to get past Sweetwater, which held on late for a 29-26 victory.

Rhonda Echols scored 6 points for the hosts while Juanelle Sadler led Sweetwater with 6 also.

Snyder actually defeated the 'Stangs 11 field goals to 10, but Sweetwater hit 9 of 18 free throws and the Cats were only 4 of 9.

Christian militia leader rebels, joins Gemayel

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — President Amin Gemayel's main Christian rival, Elie Hobeika, surrendered today after his headquarters near Beirut harbor were barraged for eight hours by forces loyal to the president, military sources said.

But militia sources reported that fighting between Gemayel's right-wing Phalange Party, backed by rebel units of the Lebanese Forces militia, and irregulars supporting Hobeika, commander of the Lebanese Forces, was continuing.

The military sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Hobeika called Lebanese army commander Gen. Michel Aoun by radio from the bunker of his besieged "war council" headquarters at 1:30 a.m. and said he was ordering his men to lay down their arms in the fighting that pitted Christians against Christians.

Hobeika's Lebanese Forces militia, previously the largest Christian militia with about 6,000 fighters, lost half its strength today with the sudden defection of military commander Samir Geagea, according to Christian radio reports.

Sources in Hobeika's command said about 100 people were killed and 300 wounded in more than eight hours of fighting around Hobeika's headquarters in east Beirut's Karantina district and in the Christian heartland north of the capital.

The sources at Hobeika's command, who also spoke on condition of anonymity, said many of the wounded bled to death where they fell because medical teams could not get through because of the fierce fighting.

Radio stations controlled by both sides said Geagea's estimated 3,000 fighters and Gemayel's 1,000-strong Phalange militia mounted a joint attack at daybreak on Hobeika's remaining 3,000 fighters.

Geagea, 37, moved tank units from nearby hills and gunboats from his main base in the ancient port city of Byblos, 22 miles north of Beirut, to join the assault on Hobeika's command post in east Beirut's Karantina quarter.

The sources said both sides were carrying out "suicide attacks" in front line areas in Karantina overlooking Beirut harbor and in disputed sectors between the capital and the port of Jounieh, 12 miles north of the capital.

Witnesses reported apartment blocks, schools and factories in east Beirut, the Christian half of the capital, were set ablaze by artillery, tank and rocket-propelled grenade fire.

Not all eligible poor get food stamps

AUSTIN (AP) — Those who manage Texas' $700 million food stamp program say they found no surprises in a Harvard University report this week that said thousands of state residents below the poverty level aren't involved in the food subsidy program.

"We knew we had variable rates of participation from county to county, and we're really not sure why they occur other than perhaps because of a personal choice not to participate," Randy Washington, director of income assistance for the Texas Department of Human Resources, said Tuesday.

The Harvard report, outlined Monday, called 150 counties across the nation "hunger counties" because of the possibility that poor residents are going hungry. The report said Texas has 29 of the counties, where a substantial number of the residents live below the poverty level but don't receive the food stamps.

Washington said about 1.3 million Texans, living in 400,000 households, receive food stamps. The total getting food stamps, he said, is 46.7 percent of the 2.9 million shown in the 1980 census as living below the poverty level in the state.

Washington said the food stamp program has offices across the state, distributes literature about program eligibility at health departments and county offices, and maintains a toll-free hot line for telephone inquiries.

Jane Jaggar, a Department of Human Resources program director for Travis, Hays and Caldwell counties, said her agency estimates that in Hays County, only 25.9 percent of the residents eligible for food stamps have applied for them. Hays and Caldwell and Milam were three Central Texas counties listed in the report as "hunger counties."

"I do know from my work with the department that there are a whole lot of people who will not ask for help for various reasons," Jaggar said. Elderly people and those without transportation often elect not to apply, she said.

In Caldwell County, with a population of 25,799, state figures show that 2,233 residents are receiving food stamps — a little over one-fourth of the county residents eligible.

"If they don't get help, they're either too proud or so ignorant they don't know who to ask," Caldwell County Judge L.W. Scott told the Austin American-Statesman. "Plenty of pride is involved. Most of them would go hungry rather than ask for help."

The report on the counties was issued Tuesday by the Harvard University School of Public Health and the Physicans Task Force on Hunger. The U.S. government considers that a family of four is living at the poverty level if their annual income is $10,609 or less.

In San Marcos, the county seat of Hays County, Lynn Wright is food stamp supervisor for the office of the Texas Department of Human Resources.

Ms. Wright disagreed with the Harvard study conclusion, but acknowledged that nutrition and hunger problems exist in the rural county whose economy is primarily based on ranching and farming.

"I am sure that there are people eligible for (food stamp) benefits here who have not applied for it. I don't know why that is," Ms. Wright said. "But I just find it very hard to believe that two-thirds of the people who are eligible are not getting stamps or other forms of assistance. I just can't believe that figure can be that high."

Juvenile arrest clears old cases

Police cleared four misdemeanor complaints Tuesday including two which were reported more than a year ago.

The two older cases were said cleared with the arrest of a 13-year-old juvenile. He was taken into custody Tuesday evening on burglary charges filed in connection with the January, 1984 burglary of the Royce Allen apartment at 1910 Coleman Ave.

Questioning of that suspect also led police to clear a theft reported in August of 1983 of a sleeping bag. That theft was said reported by the suspect's father.

The sleeping bag theft was attributed to the suspect's 16-year-old brother who has since been committed to a state youth home.

The 13-year-old was released to the custody of his parents after the questioning.

In other action, the owner of a motorcycle found by police early Tuesday morning was located Tuesday night.

Dana Henderson of 119 34th St. called police at 8:40 p.m. and told officers that a Kawasaki off-road bike had been stolen from outside her residence.

Her missing motorcycle was found to be one of the two which officers found abandonded early Tuesday morning behind the R.E. Smith offices at 1911 40th St.

Chance seen for better relations

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The inauguration Tuesday of Vinicio Cerezo as Guatemala's first civilian president in 16 years should signal improved relations between Mexico and its southern neighbor, editorials here say.

"Mexico will have, finally, a neighbor on its south governed by norms of law and not by force of arms or by foreign imposition," the newspaper Excelsior said. "It is in Mexico's interests that Guatemala raise its institutions."

The newspaper added that "the purposes of the new president of Guatemala are in agreement with the needs for progress and civilization in Central America."

A commentary in the leftist newspaper La Jornada said, "Whatever might happen, there is no doubt that Mexican interests are at stake in Guatemala. It can be argued for many reasons that the best card for Mexico is in a Guatemala that is egalitarian, independent and respectful of human rights."

Most Mexican papers treated the inauguration as front-page news.

Relations between Mexico and Guatemala, whose border is about 360 miles in mostly jungle terrain, have been cool in recent years. About 46,000 Guatemalans, mostly Indian peasants from their country's northwestern highlands, are living in refugee camps in southern Mexico.

"This phenomenon concerns us because of the precarious material situation of the refugees, for the risks to their own security and because of the possibility of friction between Mexico and Guatemala," President Miguel de la Madrid said last year.

A critical point took place in April 1984 when a group of armed men, which the Mexican government said appeared to be Gutemalan soldiers, attacked a refugee camp on the Mexican side of the border and killed six people.

Guatemalan officials, in turn, have charged that the refugee camps offer safe harbors and recruitment centers for leftist guerrillas operating in their country.

Foreign Minister Bernardo Sepulveda led the Mexican delegation to the inauguration, considered here a sign that the government looks favorably on Guatemala's return to civilian rule. Cerezo is of the centrist Christian Democratic Party.

An estimated 60,000 Guatemalans cross the border each year to harvest coffee crops in southern Mexico. Their have been charges that their employers violate human and labor rights.

A series of military or military-dominated governments have held power in Guatemala since a 1954 coup supported by the CIA.

Disturbance causes arrest

Police jailed one local man on a misdemeanor criminal mischief charge following a domestic disturbance call at 1:32 a.m. Wednesday.

That suspect was jailed for damaging a door frame on a unit of the Ole Towne apartments at 1500 27th St. during the course of an argument with his ex-wife.

Four other subjects were jailed for public intoxication Tuesday evening.

One wreck noted

A single minor traffic mishap was reported in Snyder Tuesday.

Involved in it were a 1984 Ford driven by Helen Harris Martin of 2215 41st St. and a 1979 Oldsmobile driven by Anna Conklin Paetzold of Rt. 1, Snyder.

It was reported at 3:49 p.m. in the 3600 Block of Ave. V.

testify that she had sold two Arizona Cypress plants to a man fitting MacLeod's description four days before lawmen unearthed a woman's head and hands under two newly planted Arizona Cypress plants in MacLeod's yard.

Darnell also said he would call the principal of the school at which MacLeod worked to testify that MacLeod had been absent from work the day before and the day of the victim's death.

A retired school teacher also will be called to the stand to testify that MacLeod tried to purchase a chainsaw from her three days before the body was found, Darnell told jurors.

On Tuesday, prosecutors and defense attorneys took most of the day to select the eight men and four women who will decide MacLeod's fate.

Pennzoil enlists help from scholar

HOUSTON (AP) — Pennzoil Co. has retained a Harvard University scholar to help overturn a federal judge's decision to allow Texaco Inc. to post a $1 billion bond, instead of $12 billion, while appealing a record damage award.

Laurence H. Tribe, a professor at Harvard Law School and one of the country's leading experts on constitutional rights, said Tuesday that the federal court's intervention in the dispute threatens the sovereignty of state judicial rights.

He said it also might allow large corporations to shop through courts until they get the decision they want.

"Unless it's overturned, it could set a dangerous precedent," Tribe said.

U.S. District Judge Charles Brieant ruled last week that Texaco would have to put up no more than $1 billion to appeal the $11.1 billion award by a Houston jury.

The decision marked Texaco's first major victory in a legal dispute over its 1984 acquisition of Getty Oil Co., which previously had agreed to a merger deal with Pennzoil.

Earlier, Texaco retained its own constitional expert, Charles Alan Wright, a University of Texas Law School professor who represented former President Richard Nixon during the Watergate proceedings.

Texaco, the nation's third-largest oil company, had argued it would be destroyed by the 94-year-old Texas law that would require a $12 billion bond while it appealed the damage award.

In his opinion issued Friday in White Plains, N.Y., where Texaco is based, Brieant called the idea of requiring a company to post a $12 billion bond "absurd." He also said the amount would cause irreparable harm to Texaco.

Attorneys for Pennzoil, headquartered in Houston, asked the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York for an expedited hearing.

Pennzoil contends Texaco had not sufficiently exhausted its appeals in Texas and was attacking the Texas judicial system.

The two companies had tried for two weeks to settle the multibillion-dollar dispute out of court. But talks collapsed last week after Pennzoil's directors unanimously rejected a cash merger proposal from Texaco. Details of the offer were not released.

Texaco Chairman John McKinley has said he would be willing to renew settlement negotiations. Pennzoil Chairman J. Hugh Liedtke has said he would be willing to resume discussions when Texaco makes a serious proposal.

In November, a Houston jury ruled that Texaco wrongfully interfered in a merger agreement between Pennzoil and Getty when it acquired Getty. It awarded Pennzoil $7.53 billion in actual damages and an additional $3 billion in punitive damages.

Texas District Judge Solomon Casseb Jr. later added $600 million in interest to the judgment and said more interest would accumulate at the rate of 10 percent annually.

Texaco filed a motion last week in Texas courts, seeking a new trial and asking that Casseb be removed from the case.

Correction told

The names of two Snyder men arrested Friday in Big Spring in connection with the robbery of a liquor store were listed incorrectly in an SDN report and reports in area newspapers.

The two suspects identified as Robert Lee Baily and Jimmy Brown were Robert Lee Baker, age 28; and Jimmy Charles McBroom, age 32.

VA pension pushes widow past guidelines

McGREGOR, Texas (AP) — When Alma Bass, 71, was notified recently that she now is eligible for a pension from the Veterans Administration, she was pleased.

Before long, however, the McGregor widow was wishing she'd never heard the good news.

Officials told her the pension pushed her income about $50 above a state cutoff, so that she is now ineligible to receive Medicaid. That means, she says, that she can no longer afford the cost of her care at Westview Manor Nursing Home here.

To make the situation worse, if Mrs. Bass leaves the nursing home, her VA pension will be reduced by $79. That's because her medical expenses would no longer offset her income, said J.J. Apodaca, veterans service officer for the Veterans Administration regional office in Waco.

She would like to just refuse the VA pension, but that's not permitted either, Apodoca said. She would be ruled ineligible for Medicaid because of guidelines that require a person to take advantage of any benefit he is entitled to before he can qualify for Medicaid.

Hank Smith of McGregor, a family friend who has taken up Mrs. Bass's battle with appeals to the Texas Department of Human Resources, says he can't believe what she's going through.

"They force you to cut your own throats," Smith told the Waco Tribune-Herald. "The VA Improvement Pension Program is designed to deny benefits rather than take care of the needy, sick and helpless."

G.W. Vaughn, a service officer for the American Legion in Waco, has tried to find a solution for the woman's problems, and admits, "It's a vicious cycle."

Vaughn added, "It's a classic case of federal laws and state Medicaid laws in conflict. The very real possibility exists this could go round and round in circles. It's an awful sad situation."

Vaughn's only suggestion for Mrs. Bass was to try to find a nursing home she could afford on her monthly pension and Social Security income. Smith said none could be found.

Apodaca said there is nothing the VA can do about Mrs. Bass' situation, even if Mrs. Bass agreed to a reduction in her VA pension. He said her pension could not be reduced enough to make any difference in her Medicaid eligibility.

"We don't have any authority to put her in a VA hospital or another nursing home," he said. "We are paying what the law states we can pay. Unfortunately that conflicts with some other agency. I wish there was some adjustment that could be made."

Smith and Mrs. Bass' brother, Reinhard Boemer of McGregor, appealed Tuesday during a hearing with Department of Human Resources officials to make some adjustment in her case, which Smith described as a case of "widow whacking."

VA officials notified Mrs. Bass last year that under the VA Improved Pension Plan she was eligible to receive $525 a month, Apodaca said.

Mrs. Bass receives $368 a month in Social Security which, combined with the VA pension, pushes her income above the $650.20 Medicaid limit. About $191 of the pension does not apply toward Mrs. Bass' income total for eligibility purposes, Smith said, because it is earmarked for Aid in Attendance, to pay nursing home costs.

Mrs. Bass suffers from arthritis, congenitive heart failure and epilepsy, and a doctor has "strongly recommended" that she remain in a nursing home, Smith said during the hearing.

She has no children, only elderly brothers, and no one to help her should she have to return home, he said.

DHR hearing officer Kathy Cox said she will make a decision on Mrs. Bass' case within 10 days. Unless some adjustment is made, Mrs. Bass may have to leave the nursing home Jan. 31, unless an extension is granted through February.

Your Birthday

Jan. 16, 1986

In the year ahead, several close friends will confide in you and tell you things they would not tell others. Some of this information will prove of benefit to you in material ways.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll be able to handle big problems with relative ease today, but minor infractions could put you in a tizzy. Strive to keep everything in perspective. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It could prove to be a mistake today to let your intuition or hunches override your logic. It's best to deal only with the facts at hand.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Discipline is a must in the management of your resources today. Your budget will be knocked for a loop if you rob Peter to pay Paul.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It won't bode well with your listeners today if you boast about things you have yet to accomplish. Act first and let your deeds speak for themselves.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Refrain from all types of pretenses today, especially pretending you're knowledgeable about a subject where, in truth, you know little.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may encounter someone today who will judge you by what you have, not by what you are. If this busybody starts asking prying questions, politely change the subject.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Thoughtless behavior could tarnish your image today. Companions won't find fault with the big things, but could with something trivial.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Unless you have something complimentary to say about your co-workers today, it's best to say nothing at all. Criticism will sink like a lead balloon.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't give others tips on ways to make money today, unless you know for a fact they will work. Losers who heed your advice will be angry.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Promises will be easy to make today, but later they could turn out to be difficult to keep. Bear this in mind before making any serious commitments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Instead of unexpectedly dropping in on a friend you hope to see today, call first to be certain he or she doesn't have other involvements.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Continue to be mindful of your spending patterns again today. Remember buying lots of little goodies can add up to a whopping total.
