Capt. Jack Seaton (right) gets a West Texas grip from Ike Robb (center) as Capt. Gerald T. McMillan looks on. The glad-handing was at a special community-Webb AFB hospitality affair held Saturday night at the Country Club. Some 115 captains from Webb were guests at a dinner and evening of visiting, with an equal number of young Big Spring business men acting as hosts. Robb is a chairman of the Base-Community Council which sponsored the goodwill event. Capt. McMillan is an academic instructor in the Pilot Training Group at Webb, and Capt. Seaton is a T37 instructor with the 3561st training squadron.

DeGaulle Foes Seize Control Of Algiers

PARIS (AP)—The French government said Saturday night the right-wing military junta which seized Algiers in a bloodless coup earlier in the day has extended its control to western Algeria by taking over the city of Oran.

The coup prompted President Charles de Gaulle to assume extraordinary police powers and call a Cabinet session which proclaimed a state of emergency in France.

A government announcement said detachments of French Foreign Legion paratroopers supported by the mass of European settlers in Oran, took over in the city under the insurrectional regime of Gen. Maurice Challe.

The announcement said a Gen. de Pouilly, Oran commandant, remained loyal to De Gaulle and moved his command post to the city of Tlemcen.

The sudden strike by the junta split the 500,000-man French army in Algeria into rival groups.

Nabbed Two Hours After Bank Holdup

ALAMO, Tex. (AP)—An agile, death-threatening gunman of 33 cut a hole in the First State Bank through a partition, tied up employees as they arrived for work and escaped with $33,000. Officers arrested him two hours later.

Balding, slightly built Jesse Bobo of Fort Worth was charged with robbery by firearms before Justice of the Peace J. M. Chapin at Edinburg. He set bond at $20,000.

Sheriff E. E. Vickers said Bobo orally admitted the robbery but declined to say why.

MOTEL ROOM
Vickers said a soft overnight bag stuffed with bills was found in a motel room on U.S. Highway 83 where Bobo was arrested. The motel is about five miles from the bank.

The sheriff said a loaded, snub-nosed .32 caliber pistol was found in the room.

Bobo was questioned at length by three FBI agents, headed by Harold Crosssett, agent in charge at McAllen.

The sheriff said Bobo made no resistance when deputies H. Sanchez and R. G. Perez and state highway patrolman S. M. Moxley arrested him at the motel.

Vickers said Bobo told him he came to the Lower Rio Grande Valley from Fort Worth two weeks ago. He said he had no car and officers did not disclose how he got to the motel.

BBK officials said a hooded gunman waited patiently in the bank early Saturday, tied up six employees as they came to work and then forced a bank official to stuff an estimated $33,000 from the vault into a bag.

Bank President F. Everett Knapp said the man gained entrance through the roof. He left by a rear door.

The first employee to enter the bank was Janitor Manuel Cortez. He came to work at 6:30 a.m.

"The man, holding what Cortez described as a 'shiny pistol,' tied the janitor up. Cortez said his hands and feet were tied with small cord and his mouth taped.

The next employee to arrive was vice president W. S. Ray. Ray said he hesitated at the door a moment.

"Do you want to get shot?" Ray quoted the man as asking. Ray replied he didn't.

"Then get in here, this is what this is for," the man said, pointing to the pistol.

Four women employees then came in one by one and were tied up by the gunman. They were Mrs. Edna Bailey, Miss Evelyn Morin, Miss Betty Kochert and Mrs. Irene Kastler.

The pilot of the other plane landed his craft safely at Trade Winds Airport, southeast of Amarillo.

AMARILLO, Tex. (AP)—Two men were killed when two light planes collided near an Amarillo airport Saturday.

They were Larry M. Gulick, 25, Mendota, Ill., and Richard C. Wilson, 38, Eureka Springs, Ark.

Both were in one of the planes which plunged to earth after the collision.

Khrushchev Blasts U. S.; JFK Gets Ike's Support

Warns We're On 'Dangerous Path'

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower discussed the tense Cuban situation with President Kennedy Saturday then side-stepped a direct answer on whether he endorsed Kennedy's position.

"I say I am all in favor of the United States supporting the man who has to carry the responsibility for our foreign affairs," was his reply when asked if he approved Kennedy's blunt stand on Communist-oriented Cuba.

Eisenhower's statement appeared to be more in the nature of an expression of unity behind the President than direct approval of Kennedy's outspoken position or of the administration's role in encouraging the ill-fated attempt to invade Cuba.

TO RALLY SUPPORT

The 70-year-old former chief executive and his 42-year-old successor held a dramatic conference at this haven for presidents in the Catocin Mountains near Thurmont, Md.

Kennedy's apparent purpose in arranging the meeting was to help rally strong national support for whatever further steps he thinks this country must take in the Cuban crisis.

Eisenhower and Kennedy met in seclusion for one hour and 25 minutes in Aspen Cottage, the lodge frequently used by former Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt, Eisenhower and Harry S. Truman.

OTHER REPUBLICANS
Kennedy previously had discussed the Cuban crisis with two other Republican leaders—former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

The White House said his plans to see Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York this week.

Nixon said Friday night he had assured Kennedy of his support, even to the commitment of American armed forces. He said he would back the President in such a move if Kennedy considered it necessary to stop the buildup of the Communist beachhead in Cuba.

If Kennedy got any similar assurances from Eisenhower, the former president didn't tell news-men about it.

After Kennedy and Eisenhower completed their luncheon talk, the two men met briefly with about 100 newsmen and photographers. No formal statement was issued.

Then Kennedy and Eisenhower drove together to the landing pad where helicopters had brought them together. For seven minutes they sat inside Kennedy's black limousine, continuing their talks.

Eisenhower could be seen gesturing with his right hand and Kennedy nodding his head. Kennedy patted the former president's arm as they said goodbye.

The government-controlled Cuban radio said Saturday Prime Minister Fidel Castro will appear on nationwide television and radio hookups Sunday to tell how his regime smashed the rebel invasion.

As far as is known Castro has not appeared publicly since the Cuban invaders struck last Monday.

The announcement by the Cuban radio came as officials in Washington began a thorough review of mistakes leading to the failure of the invasion and the United States and the Soviet Union exchanged statements on Cuba.

The Cuban radio said Prime Minister Castro was personally directing a mop-up of the invaders who landed on Cuba's south coast last weekend. The semi-official newspaper Revolucion published a picture of Castro atop a tank and said he directed fire that blew a rebel munitions ship out of the water.

A Cuban exile reported Ernesto Guevara, Castro's leftist economic czar, had attempted suicide and was in critical condition in a hospital. The anti-Castro radio Swan, relaying the report, challenged Castro to produce Guevara.

CITY OF FEAR
Castro—unheard in person for days—was awaited in Havana to deliver a victory speech. Police turned the Cuban capital into a city of fear, hunting down Castro's political opponents and carrying them off to jail en masse.

A British diplomat reported by telephone that most people in Havana kept to their homes and streets were virtually deserted.

The rebels were still reported active in Cuba but only on the scale of guerrilla warfare that has been going on for months.

The radio station on Swan Island in the Caribbean—which has connections with U.S. intelligence—urged the guerrillas not to give up the fight against Castro's Communist-backed regime and said help was on the way. It addressed its appeal to two rebel battalions but did not say where they were operating.

Justice of the Peace W. C. Underwood, who went to the scene with Cox, ruled that the death was suicide. The veins in his left arm at the elbow, had been slashed by a razor blade. The blade was found beside the body.

Glass is survived by his wife, a son, Allen Joe, and a daughter, Connie Marie, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond William Glass of San Angelo, six brothers and two sisters, of San Angelo.

The body was brought to Big Spring by River Funeral Home ambulance and was later transferred to Johnson Funeral Home in San Angelo where funeral arrangements are pending.

GARY COOPER GETS CALL FROM JFK
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—A close friend of Gary Cooper said Saturday that President Kennedy had phoned the actor and talked to him for six minutes.

The friend—who asked that his name not be used—said Kennedy, an old friend of Cooper, kidded with him and wished him a speedy recovery.

Glasscock County Sheriff Buster Cox said an extensive search was organized for the hunt when Mrs. Glass reported that her husband was missing. Cox said she told him that Glass went to bed at 10 p.m. Friday and that when she arose at 7 a.m. Saturday he was not in the house. She fixed breakfast for him but he still did not show up. At 4 p.m. she reported to the sheriff that he was missing.

Cox said several men began searching the area, and that an airplane piloted by Ted McClung and Dick Standifer, of Big Spring Airport, was called into the search. The men spotted the body and signalled the sheriff.

Justice of the Peace W. C. Underwood, who went to the scene with Cox, ruled that the death was suicide. The veins in his left arm at the elbow, had been slashed by a razor blade. The blade was found beside the body.

MOSCOW (AP)—With a warning of danger ahead, Premier Khrushchev blamed the United States Saturday for last week's wrecked invasion of Cuba and called the attempt to topple Fidel Castro "a crime which has re-volted the whole world."

"Now it has been established incontrovertibly," Khrushchev said in a letter to President Kennedy, "that it was the United States that prepared the intervention, financed, armed and transported the mercenary bands which invaded Cuba."

Referring to Kennedy's declaration that the United States has an obligation to defend the Western Hemisphere from outside aggression, Khrushchev said: "Mr.

President, you are following a dangerous path. Ponder that."

SAUCE FOR BOTH
He told Kennedy in effect: What's sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander—if the United States feels it has the right to help bring down Castro's Communist-backed regime because it threatens American security, then the Soviet Union has an equal right to destroy American-backed governments on its own borders. He insisted, however, that Moscow would not try to do this.

He concluded with an appeal for better U.S.-Soviet relations. This was the third in a series of letters between the President and the premier on Cuba.

Khrushchev started off on Tuesday by warning that the Soviet Union would provide Castro "all necessary aid" to repel the invasion.

KEEP OUT
Kennedy replied several hours later in a letter, warning Khrushchev to keep the Soviet Union out of Cuba and expressing U.S. sympathy for the rebel cause. The President insisted the United States "intends no military intervention in Cuba" but would honor its obligations to protect the Western Hemisphere from "external aggression."

He backed this up on Thursday with a speech in Washington—to which Khrushchev's latest letter, handed to U.S. Charge d'Affaires Edward L. Freers and promptly published by the Soviet news agency Tass, conceded Kennedy's right to express his sympathies for "the imperialist or colonialist countries."

"This is a matter of your morality," he said. "But what has been done against Cuba is no longer morality. This is gunsterism."

"WE ARE PROUD"
He defended Soviet help for Castro by saying that the Soviet Union is doing everything it can to speed the crumbling of the colonial system "and of that we are proud!"

Referring to the invasion, he said: "This was a case of an attempt by the U.S. government to re-establish in Cuba a 'freedom' under which the country would dance to the tune of its more powerful neighbor, and foreign monopolies would again be able to plunder the natural wealth of Cuba, to fatten on the sweat and blood of the Cuban people."

Priest Killed By Terrorists
LISBON, Portugal (AP)—A Lusitania news agency dispatch from Angola said a Capuchin priest was killed by terrorist natives recently and forgave them in his dying breath.

The dispatch, received here Friday from the Portuguese West African territory, called Friar Pietro Juan, 33, of Trieste, Italy, a new martyr. It said he walked up to raiders at the village of Dumba, crucifix in hand, and offered his life to stop further bloodshed.

Lusitania said the terrorists shouted "Kill him, for he is a Catholic" and then hacked the missionary to death as he blessed them. The Capuchins are part of the Franciscan order of priests.

Grant Made For Pollution Studies
AUSTIN (AP)—The University of Texas Institute of Marine Science has been given a $124,000 grant to conduct a large-scale study of pollution in Texas coastal waters, Dr. Howard Odum, director, said Saturday.

The grant is from the National Institutes of Health and will be used in a four-year research aimed at determining the effect of pollution in chemical processes.

The Sign Locates The Shelter

The sign, in the right foreground, will locate the fallout shelter for anyone wishing to visit it for the dedication ceremony and the open house set for April 28, 5 to 8 p.m., April 29, 10-12 and 2-5 and April 30, 2 to 5 p.m. Other dates for inspection may be set later.

Fresh Air Can Be Pumped In

By using the hand crank on the centrifugal pump on an inside wall of the fallout shelter, those taking refuge may get fresh air inside the underground shelter. The pipe at the bottom, when uncapped, allows some fresh air to filter in.

RESURRECTION DAY

By T. H. Vachet, preacher
Church of Christ, West Highway 30
P.O. Box 1283

One of our readers tells us that "Jewish Sabbath" and "Sunday is the Lord's day" are not Bible terms, and that there is no Scripture to forbid working on Sunday, or to say it is a holy day, or that the resurrection was on Sunday.

We would like to ask, does anyone find the following terms in the Bible: "Christian Sabbath" and "Saturday is the Lord's day?" We do not.

What we do find is that the Sabbath law was given to the Jews (Ex. 16:4-30; Deut. 5:1-15). Where in the Bible is one commanded to keep the Sabbath after the "wall of partition" between Jew and Gentile was broken down, and the law to the Jews was nailed to the cross (Eph. 2:15-16; Col. 2:14-16)? Evidently the Sabbath was Jewish. It is true Sunday is not a "holy day" and is not the Sabbath. But the first day of the week (commonly called Sunday) is the day the New Testament disciples met together to "break bread" (observe the Lord's Supper). See Acts 20:7.

And the first day of the week is the day our Lord arose from the dead (all denials notwithstanding). "Now, when Jesus was risen early the first day of the week..." (Mark 16:9).

Welcome to our services today, "the first day of the week," when we meet "to break bread." Sermons, "What It Means to Preach Christ" (10:30 a.m.); "If You and I Are Lost" (7:00 p.m.). Bible classes for adults and children, 9:30 a.m.

Dedication Friday For City's Shelter

Big Spring's fallout shelter, built on city property near the North Side Fire Station, will be formally dedicated at 3 p.m. Friday, and the shelter will be open for inspection by citizens in groups of six until 8 p.m. that night.

The shelter will also be open for public inspection on Saturday from 10 to 12 a.m. and 2 to 5 p.m., and on Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. The dedication program has been scheduled to follow a nationwide simulated attack period during which time all radio and television broadcasting will be silenced for 30 minutes, beginning at 3 p.m. Sirens will be sounded in many areas, including Big Spring, traffic will be halted, and take-cover exercises will be carried out under supervision of Civil Defense Mobilization coordinators.

ANNUAL EXERCISE

W. D. Berry, Howard County's CDM coordinator, said this will be a part of the annual training exercise directed by Defense Mobilization Frank B. Ellis, and will be known as Operation Alert 1961. A two-day increased readiness buildup will precede the mock attack.

The Conelrad alert will be carried over radio stations with frequencies of 640 and 1240 kilocycles, and home radios should be tuned to one of these frequencies during the alert.

The concrete, underground shelter was designed for six persons, or is considered a family-type shelter. Overall inside dimensions are 8 x 10 1/2 feet, with a concrete buffer wall, and a two-foot passageway from the entrance to the main room. A centrifugal blower is attached to ventilation pipe below the center of an end wall, and an exhaust pipe is at the other end above center. Ceiling height of 6 1/2 feet is used.

All walls are eight inches thick and of reinforced concrete. The roof is of the same material and covered with gravel to a thickness of over two feet.

DEMONSTRATOR

The shelter was built as a demonstrator for those who may be interested in building their own home or family shelter.

Berry said the Big Spring shelter will be stocked with the standard equipment as supplies for such shelters. These will include:

Food and cooking equipment—Water (two-week supply, minimum of seven gal. per person), Food (two-week supply), eating utensils, paper plates, cups, and napkins (2-week supply); openers for cans and bottles, pocket knife, special foods for babies and the sick.

Supplies and equipment for sanitation—Can for garbage (20-gal.), covered pail for toilet purposes, (10-gal.), toilet tissue, paper towels, disposable diapers, ordinary and waterless soap, grocery bags, newspapers for soil bags, household chlorine (two pt.), and DDT (one qt. of five per cent solution), waterproof gloves.

Shelter equipment—Battery radio with Conelrad frequencies (640 or 1240) marked, and spare batteries for two weeks, home use radiation meters, when available, flashlights, electric lantern, and spare batteries for two weeks, clothing, bedding (rubber sheeting and special equipment for the sick), a first-aid kit and supplies; writing material, reading material, screwdriver, pliers, and other household tools, games and amusements for children.

WITHIN REACH

Items outside the shelter but within reach—Cooking equipment (canned heat, or camp stove) and matches, home fire-fighting equipment, rescue tools.

Medical publications—Any one of the following publications from a list provided by the Bureau of Health Education of the American Medical Association would be helpful when a physician is not available. "What To Do Until the Doctor Comes", by William Bolton, M.D.

"A Medical Encyclopedia for Everyone", by Randolph Lee Clark, M.D., and "Ship's Medicine Chest and First Aid at Sea."

CITY PARTICIPATES

Disaster Alert Practice Is Scheduled For Friday

By M. A. WEBB

Sirens will wail and whistles will toot at 2:30 and 3 p.m. Friday, in the annual "Operation Alert," in preparation for a simulated enemy attack on certain cities in Texas.

Big Spring's warning sirens will be at Main fire station, and 11th and Birdwell Fire Station, on trucks at the 14th and Main and Northside Fire Stations, and at Webb AFB. Whistles will be heard during the two five-minute periods will be at the VA hospital, State Hospital, T&P railroad shops, and Cosden refinery.

Beginning at 3 p.m. Big Spring and all Texans will be asked to engage in simulated wartime conditions as they participate in a nation-wide civil defense exercise. An undisclosed number of Texas cities will be involved as likely targets for enemy bombers and missiles, and only at an undisclosed time during the 30-minute period will those cities know that they are to be attacked. The annual testing of the nation's survival capabilities is dubbed "Operation Alert."

NOT DISCLOSED

"The exact targets, the size and types of weapons, and the fallout pattern have not been disclosed to participants," James H. Garner, state coordinator of civil defense and disaster relief, said. "We have decided on this course for two reasons. First, the exercise will be more realistic if target cities are not told of their designation in advance. And secondly, local civil defense officials can better determine the strengths and weaknesses of their planning if this method is followed."

In Big Spring, under the direction of W. D. Berry, coordinator of Civil Defense Mobilization, things will begin to move at 8:30 a.m. The notice of increased readiness buildup will be sent out from State Headquarters to all local governments in accordance with local government emergency plans. The general public will be notified if there is a pending emergency and encouraged to take such emergency actions as are consistent to their emergency home plans. This will include all industries, management and personnel.

REPORT

At 9 a.m. Civil Defense personnel will be notified if they are to be placed on standby notice. Some of them will be required to report to the control center which, in the case of Big Spring, will be the police department building. The mayors of Big Spring, Coahoma, and Forsan, and the county judge of Howard County will be notified. They will designate succession of government, status of essential documents and records, and set a place and time for convening in case of attack.

9:30 a.m.: The control center will be activated with personnel needed, including Civil Defense Director, his assistant, assistant chief of police, amateur radio coordinator, emergency radio truck crew chief, telephone company coordinator, assistant city manager, public information staff, teletype operator, two clerks, and fire chief, or personnel at his discretion.

11 a.m.: Reports will be made from city and county governments to those on standby notice. The radio truck crew chief will place the intercom system as directed.

12 p.m.: A report will be made to State Disaster Headquarters on readiness buildup situation.

BLUE ALERT

1 p.m.: The "Blue Alert," with no warning signal will come by telephone. The chief of police will be alerted and he notifies his department of traffic control problems. The fire chief will plan a standby for sirens and whistles. The city manager and county judge will inform department heads to report to control center not later than 2:30 p.m.

2:30 p.m.: The "Yellow Alert," a steady five-minute blast of sirens and whistles which means that the city is to prepare for attack and that the readiness buildup should be complete with every agency in place.

3 p.m.: "Red Alert," five-minute warning blast of sirens and whistles; when means take cover or shelter. Conelrad will be in effect during which time all commercial radio and television stations will be off the air for 30 minutes. Citizens should tune their radios to 640 or 1240 kilocycles for information during emergency conditions. Only under emergency conditions will the use of Civil Defense, police, fire or utility radios in this emergency, be on the air.

ALL CLEAR

3:30 p.m.: "All Clear." No signals will be given for all clear.

Two Killed In Car-Truck Crash

Attending Record Meeting

Among the 315 persons attending the 1961 annual meeting of the Cooperative Gin Supply Company Friday evening were the six officers and former officers shown above. On the back row are, from left, Ralph Neill, member of the board of directors; Ross Hill, president who was re-elected for another term; and B. M. Newton, member of the board. On the front row are, from left, H. E. Tubb, member of the board who was re-elected; Walter Robinson, the first president of the organization; and W. H. Forrest, the oldest member of the 1960 board whose request that he not be re-elected was honored by those attending and voting.

Record Crowd Attends Co-Op Gin Annual Meet

By JOE BEYER

The largest crowd ever to attend an annual meeting of the Cooperative Gin Supply Company was on hand at the company warehouse at 6:30 p.m. Friday for a barbeque and business meeting.

About 315 persons were present this year compared to 195 who attended last year.

At the business meeting, which got under way at 8 p.m., John Jones, auditor, gave a report. He pointed out that the year of 1960 was an excellent year for the Co-operative and its members.

COMPARED

He compared 1958, 1959 and 1960 and showed that the number of bales of cotton ginned has risen steadily in each of the three years. There were 5,763 bales ginned in 1958, 6,997 bales in 1959, and 7,462 bales last year.

At the same time, the Cooperative showed a profit of $5.05 for each bale ginned in 1960, compared with a profit of $2.23 per bale in 1958.

Three years ago the charter was changed and at the 1961 meeting, recommendations were presented and adopted to bring the bylaws to coincide with the charter. This was done to prevent any possible conflict with the Internal Revenue Department regarding taxing of profits.

Taylor Speaks To Father-Son Meet

Senior Hi-Y boys were urged Friday evening to not forget the fundamentals when charting a course for life.

Everett Taylor, program director for the Y, spoke at the dinner given by the fathers in honor of their sons. The affair was held in the YMCA building and R. W. Andrews was master of ceremonies. He lauded George Oldham, who has served as sponsor for the group for the past three years.

Taylor said divine guidance was one of the fundamentals for successful living; concern for one's fellow man is closely akin, and a measure of success of a life is wrapped up in the two.

meeting was the election of 1961 officers for the company. Four men were re-elected and upon request, a fifth was allowed to resign as a member of the board of directors.

Re-elected were Ross Hill, president; Jack Buchanan, vice-president; Lyndell Newton, secretary, and Horace E. Tubb, board of directors. W. H. Forrest, a 10-year member of the board, said he thought it was about time he stepped aside and asked that he be replaced. Walter Bailey took Forrest's post as the new member of the board.

GUESTS

The Cooperative Gin and Supply Company is now in its 35th year of operation and is one of the oldest such operations in the county. Three units are operated by the organization.

LETTER

Housewife Wants Back Use Of Phone

To the Editor:
There is currently a plague sweeping our city which may ruin the disposition of all housewives if it is not stamped out soon. I refer not to genuine telephone surveys, but to what in my estimation is the "racket" of using the telephone to solicit business. Is business really this desperate?

These calls used to be an occasional thing which one usually shrugged off with a polite "No, thank you" as soon as one could get a word in edgewise. Recently, however, there is nothing unusual in being interrupted up to three or four times a week to be informed that your name has been selected to receive a terrific bargain.

Now really, how glibly can you be! The housewife's time is as valuable to her as is any businessman's, and it is insulting to think that the well-informed woman would even consider most of these calls as anything more than a bit of malarkey. This is a poor way to do business; most of the offers are, as far as I am concerned, kissing cousins to the old bait-and-switch game.

I choose carefully from observation of stores and reading of advertisements before I purchase anything, and I think I am capable of recognizing a bona fide bargain when it is offered.

Most of these calls have been from out-of-town companies, but I am sorry to say that lately some of our local people have begun calling. I wonder if business is driven to this extremity, for telephoning people in this manner must be a last resort. I believe I speak for many other homemakers when I say, "Please, let's get the use of our time and telephones back from these usurpers."

Respectfully,
MRS. O. H. IVIE

Double Award

Admiring the double award presented to Rick Taylor are, from left, outgoing president, Don Benson, Taylor, new president, Drew Ballard, and Brad Rowland, State VP, region five, of Abilene.

Presents Gavel

Mrs. Bill Ransberger, Sweetwater Jaycee-ette president and installing officer, looks on as Mrs. Winn Talley (right) presents the president's gavel to Mrs. Royce Beights.

Ballard Takes Helm Of C-City Jaycees

COLORADO CITY (SC) — Drew Ballard, 26, was installed as president of the Colorado City Junior Chamber of Commerce in a ceremony at Civic House Friday.

Installing officer was Brad Rowland of Abilene, state vice president, region five. Outgoing president Don Benson became the state director from the local club.

Other Junior Chamber of Commerce officers included: Cummins Wood, first vice president; Don Womack, second vice president; Danny Majors, secretary; Bill Erwin, treasurer; and Bobby Kimmell, civic house treasurer.

New directors are Ray Linder, James Hull, Austin McCloud, Lewis Williams and the Rev. Alan Conley.

The meeting also included the installation of new Jaycee-ette officers by Mrs. Bill Ransberger, president of the Sweetwater Jaycee-ettes.

Mrs. Royce Beights was installed as president, replacing Mrs. Winn Talley. Other new officers included Mrs. Perry Ellwood, first vice president; Mrs. Alvin Orr, second vice president; Mrs. Don Womack, secretary; Mrs. Wayne Werley, assistant secretary; Mrs. Larry Moffat, treasurer; Mrs. Rick Taylor, reporter; Mrs. Thomas Bob Long, historian; and Mrs. Danny Majors, parliamentarian.

New directors include Mrs. Harold Oliver, Mrs. Ray Linder, Mrs. Bill Erwin, Mrs. Drew Ballard, Mrs. Don Benson, Mrs. Cummins Wood. Mrs. Talley will act as state director for the group.

Several special awards were presented to Jaycees and one Jaycee-ette, Mrs. Cummins Wood, was presented with an award as outstanding Jaycee-ette of the year.

Jaycee awards included a pair of surprise awards made by Bill Ransberger, Sweetwater Jaycee president, to Rick Taylor, former Sweetwater Jaycee who recently moved to Colorado City as editor of the Colorado City Record. Ransberger presented Taylor with the Spoke award and a certificate of merit for his work with the Sweetwater Jaycees.

Colorado City Jaycees Bob Ratliff was presented with the Key Man award for his outstanding work as scrapbook chairman, and Certificates of Merit were given to James Hull and Cummins Wood.

Winn Talley's youth activities committee was recognized as the outstanding committee of the year; certificates of appreciation were presented to Ballard on behalf of KVMC and Taylor on behalf of the Record for publicity given in support of Jaycee projects.

Ballard and Wayne Werley also received recognition for outstanding Jaycee work during the past year.

State Sends ROW Payment

A check for $2,606.25 is on its way to Howard County for the state's share in right of way payment for the north U.S. 87 construction work.

J. C. Roberts, Abilene, is to make the presentation to the Howard County Commissioner's Court.

Right of way concerned lies between a point 17 miles north of Big Spring and the Martin County line on U.S. 87.

The county and state share in the costs of right of way purchases. The highway department pays the cost of title insurance and appraisal work.

DEAR ABBY

Problem Of The Triangle

DEAR ABBY: A friend of ours (let's call her Sue) recently divorced her husband (let's call him Joe) and plans to marry another man (let's call him Carl); which is their business.

We women, who have been friends of Sue's, want to have a party (husbands included) to welcome Sue and Carl into our circle.

Our husbands have known Joe for many years and this is their attitude: "If you girls want to see Sue during the day, that's fine, but out of loyalty to Joe, we don't care to 'welcome Carl into our circle.' Let Sue make a new life for herself with her new husband's friends."

Abby, how can we treat Sue like this? Can we keep her friendship and snub her new husband? Or are our husbands right?

SUE'S FRIENDS: DEAR FRIENDS: If your husbands don't like Carl, and don't want him around, the husband and wife party should be off. How you "keep Sue's friendship" under such circumstances is your problem.

DEAR ABBY: I wish you could say a few words to those cheap, roving tomcats who will never take a girl out, but will go to bars and dances where girls are sitting alone and ask to take one home. They don't care what they take home so long as it's a girl. They rarely ask to dance with you or buy you a drink. They just look the girls over and take their pick.

DEAR DISGUSTED: Girls who frequent bars and dances unescorted should not be insulted if a tomcat asks to take her home. (She can always say no.)

DEAR ABBY: How do you cure a man of running around the house in his undergarments in front of the children? I believe it is indecent, but when I bring it up my husband says I am only trying to start an argument. Our oldest child is 6 and she knows the difference between male and female and, in my opinion, between right and wrong better than my husband does. How can you teach a child decency and modesty when her father acts like this? I have tried every way I know. Begging, kindness and demanding. Nothing works. Please help me as this is becoming quite a problem in our home.

WIFE OF "NATURE" BOY: DEAR WIFE: I agree that children should be taught modesty and propriety by example in the home. If your husband occasionally dashes from one room to another in a state of semi-dress, don't make a big fuss about it lest you compound your problem by overemphasizing it.

Progress Made On Bank Home

COAHOMA — Steady progress is being made toward preparation of the home for the new Coahoma State Bank.

Except for the concrete floor with steel plate, the vault has been completed. New flooring is to be run in the building once occupied by a bank in Coahoma, and an entire new front will be constructed. Luther Coleman is doing the present concrete work.

Bids are to be asked on floor and other work. Bids are being advertised now for demolition of the old Tourist Hotel and an adjoining building south of the tracks, which is bank property and some day might become a new bank home.

Bank officers are Bill Read, president; E. J. Carpenter, chairman; Carl Bates, R. D. Garrett, J. O. Nixon, Mrs. Viola O'Daniel, E. A. Foster, R. E. Martin and Briggs Todd.

YMCA Group Attends Meet

Four men representing the Big Spring YMCA are in Abilene this weekend for a meeting of the West Texas Y Secretaries Association. Joe Leach, acting general secretary, and Everett Taylor, program director, head the group. Granville Hahn, Indian Guide Longhouse chief-elect, was to participate in the sessions led by John Ledley, New York, national camping expert, and Ken Larson was to take in the Hi-Y sessions. Lesley was to lecture on the Indian Guide program; on day, resident and wilderness camping; on junior Hi-Y and Tri-Hi-Y activities.

Clinic Will Highlight National Credit Week

A credit clinic to which everyone, particularly businessmen, is invited will be a highlight of the observance of National Credit Week in Big Spring.

The event is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Friday in the Settles Ballroom.

Willis Short, Dallas, secretary-treasurer of the Retail Merchants Association there since 1932, is to be the featured speaker, addressing the group on "Community Credit."

J. O. Vinson, manager of the San Angelo Credit Bureau and a past president of the state association, and Guy Rutherford, credit manager of Hemphill-Wells in San Angelo, also will be on the program. Rutherford is to talk about "Today's Open Account Credit" and Vinson will speak on "Base Relations."

Two officers from Webb AFB also will be on the program, said Mrs. Ruth Apple, who is heading up arrangements for the affair.

The Credit Women's Club will serve coffee and doughnuts free during the coffeebreak.

Mrs. Apple said that efforts would be made to get all business heads to attend and to have key personnel, particularly those in the credit departments, to take part also.

Credit Executives Plan To Install New Officers

New officers of the Retail Credit Executives Club will be installed at a dinner affair set for 7 p.m., Thursday at Coker's Restaurant.

R. E. Hickson will be installed by Jack Davis, outgoing president, who becomes a member of the board of directors.

Other officers will be Truett Thomas, vice president; Kenneth Huff, second vice president; Marguerite Wooten, treasurer; Eldon Byrd, secretary. Other board members will be Clayton McCarty and Reeves Moren.

Don Newsom, head of Newsom Food Stores, will analyze some of the problems connected with short-term open accounts.

Each of the members is to bring a guest to the dinner.

KEY FACTOR Credit Leavening For High Standard

Many factors enter into the high standard of living in America—the highest the world has ever known—and one of the key elements in the stability and expansion potential of the economy is consumer credit.

This remarkable system of credit has helped people everywhere to buy things they want and need without having to have cash on the barrelhead for them.

How many people, for example, would be able to lay down $3,000 or more every time they went to buy a new car? How many could buy a home, put a son or daughter through college, purchase a roomful of new furniture if they had to pay cash? In cases of sudden and unexpected illness, or big dental expenses, how far would those "high wages" go if the bills came due and payable on the spot?

NEED TIME

wages some people earn, their income is rarely large enough to permit them to meet all their requirements of good living on a cash basis. To indulge our desires, and to fulfill our needs, most of us have to buy things "on time."

The retail stores which grant you credit privileges, and the doctors, dentists and others who render service first and send you a bill later, are actually helping to finance your way of life. To do this, they must have a good credit standing with the companies from whom they buy. To maintain this credit they must faithfully discharge their financial obligations whether you pay them or not.

PAY PROMPTLY

Paying your bills promptly is, therefore, not merely a matter of morality, or pride in your own reputation. By paying promptly, you help to maintain the system of credit financing on which your own good way of life is founded. Paying promptly also helps to pay the wages of those who produce the goods you buy, and enables these people, in turn, to buy the goods or services from which you derive your livelihood.

Maintaining a good credit record depends on two things. First, buy on credit only as much as you will be able to pay for promptly when the bills fall due. Secondly, pay promptly on the date you agreed to pay when you made your purchase. In this way you keep faith with the people who manifest faith in your integrity by extending you credit, and you make sure they will continue to do so on your future needs and wants.

Credit Is Like Rubber Band

National Retail Credit Association members are great believers in credit and are dedicated to the proposition that buying "on time" is the oil that makes the machinery of the American economy run smoothly.

Here's how they figure it: If people were required to pay cash for everything, many purchases would, of necessity, be deferred. And, that being the case, the volume of manufactured goods would have to be cut for lack of market. Then, with the volume of purchases decreased, factory workers would be thrown out of employment, their purchasing power would be crippled with the result that prices for items which depend on mass production for their low unit cost would shoot upwards.

Thus, when you say "charge it" you are doing everybody a favor. But, caution the credit people, you shouldn't abuse the privilege. Credit is similar to a rubber band. Stretch it too far and it won't snap back. Get on the cuff for more stuff than your income can stand and everybody suffers.

After all, business establishments generally don't mind giving you a little time in which to pay for goods and services, but they have no intention of making you a gift of same. As a matter of fact, they rightfully expect you to pay up at the time you said you would.

If you pay promptly you establish what is known as a "good credit rating" which is as good as cash, if not better.

Don't think you can have a sloppy rating with one concern and be considered a good risk somewhere else because the people who determine whether your credit is solid have a system of exchanging information that is more effective than jungle drums. If you don't satisfy your credit obligations satisfactorily the word goes from one credit manager to another, and all of a sudden you'll be paying cash whether you like it or not.

Sales Tax May Be Up To Governor

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas has edged closer than ever before to a general sales tax as a fiscal cure-all in the face of a blunt warning from Gov. Price-Daniel that the fight is not over.

The big question now before the 57th Legislature, well past the 100th day of its session, is whether the governor's traditional stubborn resistance to a retail sales tax can be beaten down.

The House margin of 14 votes for passage of Rep. Charles Wilson's measure levying 2 per cent on most retail sales over 25 cents was greater than ever anticipated by the most optimistic backers of this method of financing state government operations.

That leads to another intriguing question? If this sales tax bill or some version of it wins final approval in both the House and Senate, would the governor veto it? And could enough votes be rounded up to override a veto by the necessary two-thirds?

Daniel has never said he would veto a sales tax bill. He did not say so in his first angry reaction to the House sales tax action Friday, Daniel said.

"I can assure everybody involved in this tax issue that I am not going to stand idly by and let 90 per cent of the new tax load be put on already-overloaded family budgets."

Daniel pointedly noted that the Wilson bill "still falls more than $50 million a year short of providing enough funds if the full Hale-Aikin school program is adopted. I am greatly interested in seeing how this remaining money is adopted."

A floor effort to earmark almost half the bill's proceeds for a proposed $500 a year pay raise for teachers pay was defeated. This might bring later opposition from the powerful teachers lobby — unless the money is assured by some other means.

Opponents of the sales tax proposed by Rep. Ronald Roberts of Hillsboro told the House they have forgotten the people back home.

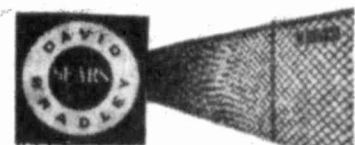

The issue falls automatically into the lap of the Senate Monday.

Home Permits For April Go To $273,000

More than a quarter of a million dollars in new residence permits have been issued during April at the City Building Inspector's office. The year's total for new residence permits has jumped to $1,264,922, as compared to the total for the first four months of 1960 of $979,409.

Total permit value for all types of 1961 construction through April 20 is $1,592,154 as compared to $784,333 through all of the first four months of 1960.

Twenty-nine new residence permits have been issued through April 20, running to $273,000.

Permits were issued for 18 new residences in the Wasson No. 1 addition Thursday to Lyco Homes, Inc., totaling $162,000.

Permits issued, in addition to new residences, total $327,232 for all other types of construction including additions, remodeling, re-roofing, business structures, and signs.

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—A coal mine shaft collapsed after an explosion and fire Saturday at Shemshak, 43 miles northeast of Tehran, killing 11 men. Four others survived.

School-Age Readers Respond To Week's Library Activity

National Library Week, just ended, focused a lot of attention on books in the schools and public libraries of Howard County.

Adult interest in the purpose of libraries, and use of books, stepped up some during the latter part of the week, and check-outs in the Howard County Library jumped over 200 above the same period last year.

As a whole, adult readers did not respond to the week of boosting as did school-age readers.

School libraries featured different classes of reading, and illustrated them with posters and pictures. Some of these pictured the reading material going through the eyes, into the brain, and then to the heart, thus becoming a part of the reader's general makeup. Others featured geographic areas, and products of those areas, as well as the people and how they lived.

The value of reading and its influence on individuals or groups of individuals was brought out in much of the library week boosting material. These placards and folders attempted to steer readers away from meaningless fiction and shallow paperbacks to literature that carried meaning enough to lift the everyday thinking of the individual.

In the schools the use of the library, how the books are catalogued, and how to use reference materials, were emphasized, so that students could consult the files and find what fitted the subjects on which they should hunt additional information.

Through the influence of the youngsters' hopes were held, by good book advocates, that some of the desire for good books might rub off on adults and encourage better home libraries.

Presbyterians To Assemble In Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—Southern Presbyterian leaders wrestle again officially with the age-old question of predestination and a host of other issues when they convene here Thursday for their annual assembly.

Other major questions before the 334 commissioners include merger with other churches and charges made against the National Council of Churches.

The issue of predestination may arouse the most dispute from the assembly floor. The Presbyterian creed on the subject is 313 years old and some in the church feel it should be revised.

Predestination and similar words are used in an effort to understand how much freedom man possesses in deciding his acts and attitudes, and which acts and viewpoints were determined by God from the beginning of mankind.

A special committee has studied the Presbyterian confession of faith on this issue intensively and will present its views. This report will state the opinion that the doctrine as set forth in the confession is not adequate.

But the committee offers no new language, instead recommending that the question be studied by what is called the "reformed community"—church groups of whatever name which are considered Presbyterian in origin.

The Southern Presbyterian Church is known officially as the Presbyterian Church in the United States. It broke from the Presbyterian Church U. S. A. when the Civil War began.

The Presbyterian Church U. S. operates in the former Confederate states and some other adjoining for a total of 19, and in the District of Columbia. Membership is about 900,000.

Newspapers Are Awarded Trophies

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The Mission Times and the Smithville Times won recognition as the best newspapers in their respective classes Saturday at the South Texas Press Association convention.

The Mission paper's award was for cities of over 3,500 population and the Smithville Times' for cities of under 3,500.

Winners Get Awards Today

This afternoon at 4 o'clock the winners of the San Angelo Area Exhibition art show will receive their prizes and awards at the San Angelo College art department.

All winners were San Angeliens, with two first places receiving $100 purchase prizes. Sharing top spot were Mrs. Von Crawford and James F. Gill. Winner of the professional category was Margaret Stites.

Several pictures in this area had work accepted to hang in the show, judged by William Lester of the University of Texas.

Curfew Called In The Congo

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—United Nations and Congolese forces imposed a dusk-to-dawn curfew on Kindu tonight in a bid to check a fresh wave of antiwhite agitation in the town. The situation is tense and threatening to erupt, a U.N. spokesman said.

Baluba agitators infiltrating into Kivu Province from neighboring north Katanga were blamed for the new fear of trouble. The U.N. spokesman said they were calling political meetings and demanding that local schools be closed so that students could attend.

In a TSO eye examination you get... JUST WHAT THE DOCTOR WOULD ORDER if your eyes were his!

For a scientific diagnosis of the true condition of your eyes, two important steps must be present in your eye examination. First, the interior of each of your eyes must be examined for evidence of disease. This is accomplished with the ophthalmoscope, an instrument used by doctors of optometry and medical doctors.

Second, your eyes should be examined for any visual abnormalities such as astigmatism, near or farsightedness and muscle imbalance.

At TSO you receive these important steps so necessary for clear, comfortable vision. Finest quality single vision glasses are as low as $14.85 complete with examination, frame and lenses. Precision-fitted contact lenses, the finest money can buy, are only $65 complete. Convenient credit terms are available.

Consult your telephone directory for the Texas State Optical office nearest you.

U. N. Issues A Plea For Cuban Peace

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The General Assembly finished its record stop-and-go 15th annual session at 6:02 a.m. Saturday after a postmidnight plea for Cuban-American peace and last-minute action to save the U.N.-Congo operation from bankruptcy.

The 99-nation assembly set aside $100 million to run the U.N. force and attendant civilian mission in the Congo for the first 10 months of 1961. $27 million more than the regular U.N. budget for the whole year.

Latin-American countries first voted with the Soviet bloc to defeat a resolution for that purpose.

new library building for which the citizens voted $115,000 in bonds. Work will start soon at Stanton on the new school auditorium band hall.

The past week had its share of tragedy. Capt. David L. Walder was killed and Capt. John R. Ewing critically injured when their T-33 developed engine trouble on the take-off. They lacked sufficient altitude for safe parachuting. If our records are complete, this is the first fatality for a Webb flyer in over two years. Miss Patty Minear, director of Christian education, lost her life when she apparently had a seizure while in her bath. Sam Grimes barely escaped with his life when a pressure line on a drilling rig blew up in his face.

Francis H. Flint, Toledo, Ohio, is to be the new general secretary of the Big Spring YMCA, succeeding Bobo Hardy, who became program director at Minneapolis, Minn. Flint will assume his duties here in July. Since Everett Taylor is leaving a week hence for a Longview assignment, Joe Leach will have it mostly to himself for a couple of months.

Great Western Drilling No. 1 Shoemaker confirmed the extension of the Spraberry-Wolfcamp field nine miles northeast of Stanton. In Borden County, A. K. Guthrie No. 1 Shaffer was finished as a lower Spraberry discovery. Shell No. 1 Christmas is still given a chance as a Glasscock Devonian strike.

Pioneer Gas Company's new district headquarters building drew a lot of attention last week at the formal opening. A handsome, functional plant, it will be an asset to the city's business district, and doubtless a boon to the ladies for their meetings.

County Judge Ed Carpenter evidently doesn't want his court docket to become a roosting place for dormant cases. Last week he whacked 76 cases off the docket, 43 on his own motion and 33 in default. The court is steadily bringing the docket to a current basis.

Jake Roberts, district highway engineer, is due here Tuesday for a conference with city officials regarding a number of highway plans that affect the city. Efforts will be made to coordinate the work into city plans, also to obtain some idea about future right of way needs for some key arteries.

Highway Mishap Fatal To Texan

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — Darrell Calvin Hedgecock, 37, died Saturday after a truck-tractor he was driving and a house trailer he was pulling jackknifed and plunged into a cavern along Highway 156 near Justin, Denton County.

Hedgecock, a resident of Winston-Salem, N.C., was an employee of Myers Trading Post, Winston-Salem.

Eichmann Will Face Those Who Knew Him In Germany

JERUSALEM (AP) — The hour nears for Adolf Eichmann to confront prosecution witnesses who knew him personally as Nazi Germany's No. 1 Jew-hunter during the Hitler era.

Among the first witnesses due to take the stand after the trial resumes Monday will be Dr. Benno Cohn, who met Eichmann at a Berlin Zionist meeting in 1936 which ended in a near riot.

Cohn, 66, now a lawyer in Tel Aviv, will describe in detail that meeting, at which Eichmann is reported to have been kicked in the stomach during the disturbance.

Cohn identified Eichmann shortly after the former chief of the Gestapo's Jewish Affairs Section was brought to Israel from Argentina last year. Describing that brief meeting, Cohn says Eichmann was "submissive and well-mannered compared to his attitude when we met during the Hitler era."

Another prosecution witness, Moshe Agami, will tell how he was ordered to appear before

But later, after the proposal had been changed to cut their share of the cost, they helped put it over on a 54-15 vote, with 23 abstentions. The United States has promised to pay $47.5 million of the total.

Earlier, the assembly adopted a U.S.-backed Latin-American resolution that exhorted all U.N. members "to take such peaceful action as is open to them to remove existing tension" between Cuba and the United States.

59-13 VOTE

It gave a whopping 59-13 vote to the seven-nation proposal, with Cuba and the Soviet bloc almost alone in opposition and 24 countries abstaining.

But, before that, it reversed its Political Committee and knocked out a key provision that asked U.N. members which belong to the Organization of American States to help settle the trouble between Cuba and the United States.

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa charged the OAS was a U.S. puppet and he fought against the resolution even though it said continuation of the American-Cuban situation could endanger world peace.

Frederick H. Boland of Ireland, president of the 15th session, pointed out before declaring it closed that it was the longest in U.N. history. It ran for 127 days — from last Sept. 29 to Dec. 21 and again, after a recess, from March 7 to April 22.

But it still could not finish its agenda, and it postponed the questions of aid to Africa, cooperation in outer space, unification of Korea, disarmament, and freedom for Hungary and Tibet to the next session starting Sept. 19.

WASHINGTON (AP) — In all the excitement over the Civil War centennial, it probably is inevitable that we would at last work our way around to Abraham Lincoln's corn doctor.

Officials of B'nai B'rith, the Jewish service organization, happily report that a special exhibit will open in their museum Sunday on the role Jews played in the Civil War. And prominent in the display are reminders of that foot specialist, Dr. Isaac Zacharie.

Zacharie had a commonsense theory that an army marches not on its stomach, as Napoleon contended, but on its feet — feet that would develop aches and pains.

Why not send special doctors with the troops, Zacharie asked, to keep them footloose and bunion free?

This sounded like a splendid idea to William Colten Bryant, the poet and editor, who had had his own feet whittled back into shape by Zacharie.

On Aug. 21, Bryant wrote Lincoln recommending Zacharie, Lincoln's secretary of war, Edwin M. Stanton, wasn't impressed with the idea of having corn specialists assigned to the field.

But Zacharie soon got himself on a dandy footing with Lincoln. By Sept. 22 the President was writing this card:

"Dr. Zacharie has operated on my feet with great success and considerable addition to my comfort. A. Lincoln."

Runner-up honors went to Miss Donna Ray McHale from Wyoming.

The 5-foot-7 winner, whose home is in Hobbs, N.M., has brown hair and blue eyes and measures 36-24-36.

James Melton Noted Singer, Death Victim

NEW YORK (AP) — James Melton, 57, opera, concert, radio and television singer known for his genial smile as well as his voice, died Friday night of pneumonia.

Melton entered Roosevelt Hospital 11 days ago, suffering from bronchial pneumonia, which developed into lobar pneumonia. He was in a coma several days before his death.

Funeral services will be held Monday in the Riverside Church in New York.

The former Metropolitan Opera star also was widely known as a collector of vintage automobiles. At one time he owned 82—all in running condition.

His singing career reached its peak in the 1940s.

Handsome, 6 feet 2 and usually smiling, Melton got his New York start in the musical world with "Roxby's Gang," an entertainment group at the Roxy Theater.

Radio shows on which he appeared included "The Ford Sunday Hour," "The Texaco Star Theatre," "The Telephone Hour," and "The Harvest of Stars." He later had his own television show.

He sang with the Cincinnati and Chicago operas before going to the Metropolitan.

Melton also appeared in motion pictures, among them "Stars Over Broadway," "Sing Me a Love Song," "Melody for Two" and "Ziegfeld Follies."

From 1940 to 1942 alone he gave 30 operatic and concert performances and appeared on 125 radio broadcasts.

Police have been plagued with another series of burglaries and thefts since Friday. They also investigated a report of a shooting on North Lancaster.

H. B. Stephens reported that two hub caps were stolen from his car while it was parked at the YMCA some time Thursday.

M. B. Woolridge, 1709 Settles, told police that an old model car, with four boys, drove up near his parked pickup, two boys got out with cans and syphoned gasoline from his truck. The other two boys drove up the street, turned into the alley and waited, and then came back and picked up the boys with the gasoline and drove off. He said they got from seven to eight gallons of gasoline.

R. R. Holcombe, 103 W. 1st, called police to investigate a break-in at the Liberty Cafe. The cigarette and music machines were broken into and an unknown amount of money, and packages of cigarettes, taken. Entry was made by breaking the glass from the front door and unlocking it from the inside.

Miller's Pig Stand, 510 E. 3rd, was entered through a rear window and the money box was removed from the cigarette machine.

Mario Espinosa, 511 N. Lancaster, told police that he and his wife arrived home late Friday night and saw two men standing in the yard. One of them took shot at Espinosa and then both ran. He said the pistol appeared to be a .32 caliber automatic.

Cub Scouts Enjoy Train Journey

One hundred and fifty Cub Scouts and 25 adult leaders made the train trip from Big Spring to Sweetwater Saturday, Bill McRee, Scout Executive, said.

The group, which has studied the theme of railroading, as "Cub Railroaders," and literature from American Railroads, took in the entire train," McRee said.

The Cubs marched from the depot to the city park in Sweetwater where they ate sack lunches, and played games until time to leave. McRee said they had a hilarious time.

Another group, maybe larger, will make a similar trip next Saturday, he said. "The trip has been made an annual affair since 1954."

Eichmann in Vienna in 1938. Now a Tel Aviv insurance agent, Agami also identified Eichmann after he was captured.

"That was history turned full circle," Agami says. "When I called on Eichmann in Vienna in 1938, he was shaking. This time it was Eichmann who shuddered."

Evidence from Cohn, Agami, Avraham Krassik — a sole survivor of a concentration camp work crew forced to obliterate the mass graves of Jewish victims — and other witnesses is certain to convey a sharply different portrait of Eichmann than the one he paints of himself.

In recorded testimony read in the court where he is on trial for crimes against the Jewish people, Eichmann insists he only followed orders, had nothing to do with the killings of millions of Jews his deportation trains delivered to Nazi extermination camps and is "not anti-Semitic."

Universal Good Wishes For Cooper At 60

By JAMES BACON
AP Wire - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Gary Cooper, critically ill, approaches his 60th birthday May 7 without a known enemy in the world.

For any man anywhere, that's quite an accomplishment. For a star who has remained atop the Hollywood heap for 35 years, it's a miracle.

Those extremely close to the actor say that he has cancer and that he knows it. This provides a special sadness for his friends—and no man was ever a stranger to Cooper.

To this day he speaks to anyone who speaks to him first, and often he is the first to break the ice.

Richard Arlen is one of Cooper's oldest friends. The two worked as extras in silent pictures, and both got their biggest breaks with Clara Bow as the costars of "Wings."

"Some people are just born nice guys and nothing—not even Hollywood—can change it," says Arlen. "Coop took plenty of knocks in the early days, doublecrosses and the like, and when he got stabbed in the back, he always blamed himself for getting his back in the way of the knife. Coop-just likes people; it's as simple as that."

This doesn't mean that Coop is a dupe. There's no shrewder businessman in town.

When Cooper first came to Hollywood in 1924 he was shy and awkward but friendly. The last time I talked to him he was shy, awkward and friendly—and that was only a few months ago.

He always seems a little embarrassed by his fame. At the Friars' testimonial in January, a panel of speakers praised him to the heavens.

Then Cooper acknowledged the tributes and proved most eloquent of all.

"I want to thank each and every one of you for coming here tonight," he said. He added: "Never has so much fuss been blown by so many over so little. The only achievement I am really proud of is the friends I have made in this community. The words in print sound even a little corny, but Cooper's delivery gave the tip-off why he has outlasted all other movie stars. Cooper, who is really Mr. Deeds or the heroic U. S. marshal waiting to stand up to the gunslings, can make the simplest words come alive because of his sincerity.

His critics have said he always plays Gary Cooper. That's mostly true. When he hasn't played Gary Cooper his pictures have flopped.

In "High Noon" Coop played Coop, a man of strong character who knows that he must face up to danger whether he wants to or not.

That picture won him his second Oscar in 1952. His first came in 1941 from the same type of role, "Sergeant York."

But Cooper, like all strong-minded men of character, doesn't see himself that way.

"If I had lived in the old Wild West and faced up to everything that those guys did, I would have been scared to death."

Much has been written about the Cooper acting style. Director William Wyler summed it up best when he presented the special Oscar to the absent Cooper at last Monday's Academy Awards.

"He's a superb actor, a master of movie acting; he's much better than even he realizes."

A lot of Broadway's greatest actors have learned that to their dismay. A look or a quivering lip from Cooper has stolen many a scene from studied actors.

Joel McCrea, no slouch in that department himself, calls Cooper the greatest exponent of the mature kicker school of acting.

Coop likes that description of his acting method.

"I never did have any burning desire to express myself," Coop once said. "I'll be honest. I got in this business for the money. I guess over the years I've picked up a few things from directors and actors I've worked with. I like to act naturally."

And, as any sincere student of drama will tell you, it's much harder to act naturally in front of a camera than it is to act theatrically.

Ilameta Carr Is Regional Winner In Poetry Reading

"Renaissance" as read by Ilameta Carr sounded good enough to the judges for regional honors Saturday and the Big Spring entry will carry the school colors on to the State Interscholastic League meet in Austin, May 5.

Miss Carr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Carr, read Edna St. Vincent Millay's poem two weeks ago to win the district meet here. In Saturday's competition, she beat other district entries from El Paso and Amarillo.

The boys' debate team of Johnny Cone and Dick Meacham placed second in the Odessa regional meet. They were the only other Big Spring students to enter the regional class.

Miss Carr is a senior in Big Spring High School and has been active in literary events, including drama productions. This is the first time she has advanced this far in IL competition, however she has been in competition before.

"Advancing to the state finals has been little more than a dream before." At the state level, she will be competing in poetry reading with about 10 other regional winners.

'Century Council' To Map Future Plans For A&M

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M directors Saturday created a "Century Council" of 100 outstanding Texans to help map the future of the college.

The group will work with faculty committees on development of the college in the next 15 years.

The plan is aimed at developing A&M fully in line with needs of the state, during the period between this, its 85th year, and its 100th anniversary in 1976.

Two years will be devoted to making long-range plans.

In announcing the action, board president Eugene A. Darby declared: "We are just now getting under way several major programs of research and teaching, in nuclear engineering, data processing, oceanography, and other fields. We know these are important to the future development of Texas. We believe they can be of greatest value if we have the help of the people who will use our research and the talent we train in the early stages of planning and development."

The 100 Texans to be appointed to the council will represent all phases of industry, the professions and the principal fields of interest. They will be named from nominations made by the citizens to the board of directors.

Nominations for membership on the council may be made from now until July 1. They should be submitted to the directors, in care of President Earl Rudder, Texas A&M College, College Station.

Mrs. Dickerson Rites Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Mattie Dickerson will be held at 3 p.m. this afternoon at the Birdwell Church of Christ. Interment will be in Trinity Memorial Park, following rites conducted by T. H. Tarbet, minister of West Highway Church of Christ.

Mrs. Dickerson, 70, succumbed Friday morning to the family home, 406 Benton. She had resided in Big Spring since 1943.

Her husband died in 1954. She is survived by four daughters, two sons, a brother and three sisters. Pallbearers will be Maurice Griffith, Marjorie Cutwright, J. B. Lilley, A. W. Reed, Chester Burton and J. T. Williams.

Nailey-Pickle Funeral Home is in charge of arrangements.

K's Statement Is Called Distortion

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy Saturday declined to reply to Soviet Premier Khrushchev's new message on Cuba but he approved a U.S. statement denouncing it as "polemical" and a "distortion of the basic concepts of the rights of man."

The U.S. response was issued by the State Department after Kennedy received the text of Khrushchev's message — the second from the Soviet premier since the ill-starred rebel invasion of Cuba early this week.

Khrushchev spoke of "gangsterism" and accused Kennedy of following a "dangerous path" in the invasion which Moscow says was U.S. backed.

A dictionary definition of "polemical" is "an aggressive controversialist."

Church Opens Meet Monday

The four day West Texas District Council of Assemblies of God will open here Monday evening at the city auditorium, according to the Rev. S. E. Eldridge, local minister.

Up to 500 delegates are expected to attend the convention representing 134 churches. Services will be conducted by the Rev. J. A. Thomas, Lubbock, district superintendent.

Speaker during the annual event will be the Rev. E. S. Williams, Springfield, Mo., retired general superintendent of the Assemblies of God.

Rev. Williams will address the opening night Youth Rally Monday.

Rev. Eldridge invited all local residents to attend the meetings.

REV. E. S. WILLIAMS

City To Award Contract In Tuesday Meet

A contract will be let for the addition to the water filter plant and new clear storage reservoir well at Tuesday night's meeting of the city commission.

Bids submitted at the April 18th meeting have been checked by Freese, Nichols and Endress, consulting engineers from Fort Worth and their recommendations will be given to the commission Tuesday. Low bidder on the contract was B. B. Adams of Fort Worth, with a base bid of $326,000. Bids were also submitted on two alternate type filters.

The commission will receive and consider bids for two new motorcycles (one two-wheel and one three-wheel) for the police department; one new police patrol car, and one pickup for the street department.

At 7:30 p.m. a public hearing will be held on the proposed increase in electrical rates. The commission heard the ordinance granting the increase, and set the public hearing at the April 11 meeting.

Other business coming up will be reading and consideration of recommendations of both the traffic commission, and the planning and zoning commission; ordinances correcting the paving assessment rolls and approving for payment certain streets as completed by the contractor; consideration of a request from Webb AFB that they be allowed to relocate a section of a building; report from the committee appointed to study a proposed house moving ordinance, and consideration of an amendment to the franchise of Seminole Cable TV transferring the franchise to a corporation.

Attends Funeral

Mrs. D. W. Adkins, 2103 Johnson, left Saturday for Alexandria, Va. to attend the funeral of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Charles Adkins, who died unexpectedly Friday. Funeral is slated for Tuesday at 2 p.m. in Alexandria.

RING FOR SPENCE

Aggie Is Honored As 50-Year Grad

Texas Aggies in the Big Spring area staged their traditional San Jacinto Day muster Friday evening—and highlighted the gathering with a warm tribute to their senior member.

A new class ring—of the year 1911—was presented to E. V. Spence, who ranks as one of the staunchest A&M supporters of them all. And a special A&M pin was presented to Mrs. Spence, characterized as the typical Aggie wife.

The presentation came as a surprise to the Spences.

Spence, manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, and for more than 10 years a city manager of Big Spring, was graduated from A&M in 1911. He went into the engineering field, served as an officer in World War I, then returned to Aggie land to obtain his master's degree in engineering in 1925.

He has been a recruiter of students for his school, an employer of its graduates, a booster for its athletic teams and all its other endeavors, and has been counselor to many of the younger Aggies through the years.

Aggies honored memory of former students who have died during the year, in an impressive roll call.

Howard Schwarzenbach was chairman for the muster, a dinner affair held at the Cosden Club. James Tidwell made the presentations to the Spences, who were escorted to the head table by L. E. (Ed) Edwards, president of the local A&M Club.

Pupil Admits He Knifed Teacher

CHICAGO (AP) — An elementary school pupil has admitted the fatal knifing Thursday of Josephine Keane, 45, in the South Side school's book storage room.

The state's attorney's office identified the youth as Lee Arthur Hester, 14, one of eight children of Mr. and Mrs. Emmette Hester.

The body of Mrs. Keane, a supervisory teacher and mother of six, was found in a pool of blood in the locked storage room after classes were dismissed Thursday. She had been stabbed seven times.

ANCA Granted Permit For Construction

The Federal Communications Commission has granted the ANCA Broadcasting Company of Big Spring a construction permit for an FM radio station.

Application for the permit was accepted for filing on Jan. 3, and since that time Don Anderson and Jerry Caddell, who own the company, have been making preparations for offering the new service. They are hopeful that equipment testing may be started within a month.

Caddell said that the FM station was intended as a supplemental service and differing in approach as well as technique from standard broadcasting media.

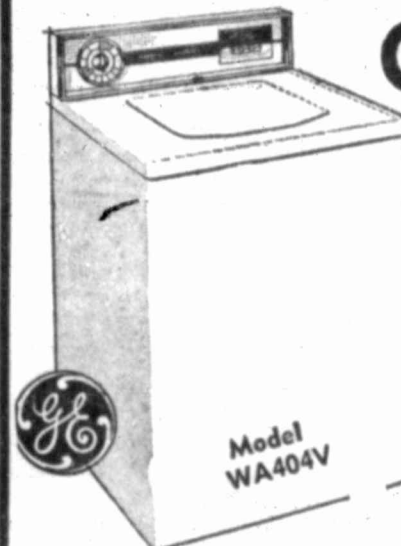

The number of FM sets turned out by U. S. factories has doubled in the past two years, and nearly two million tuning units were put in other radios. The extreme high frequency is said not only to increase the fidelity of reproduction but also to virtually eliminate static.

Approximately 25 cities in Texas now have FM stations, Midland and Odessa each having two. Caddell indicated that the programming would emphasize quality music.

Leaves Belgrade

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Karl L. Rankin, who has served as U.S. ambassador to Yugoslavia since 1958, left Saturday for home. George F. Kennan, his successor, is due in May.

Hawks Avenge Loss To Lubbock Christian

Red Lewis' HCJC Jayhawks decisively defeated Lubbock Christian in the battle for first place in Western Junior College Conference track and field meet held Saturday in perfect weather in Memorial Stadium, 106 points to 83.

However, the Jayhawks still lead the Hawks by a single point in the overall standings, due to a sweeping victory achieved in Levelland two weeks ago.

The conference championship was measured at 153 feet 10 inches. Lubbock Christian grabbed blue ribbons in the broad jump, high jump, sprint medley relay, mile relay, 440-yard run and half mile. NMMI picked up a first when John Puster won the high hurdles in 15 seconds flat while South Plains managed a blue ribbon in the pole vault on James Moore's leap of 12 feet 6 inches.

Franklin caught Puster at the last hurdle in the low and won in the time of 24.3 seconds.

Ron Weeks, Elvis Spradling and Kenneth Day, recruited from the Hawk basketball team by Lewis, all picked up points for HCJC. Weeks placed in two events — the 100-yard dash — 1. Herman Robinson, HCJC; 2. Barry Braham, HCJC; 3. Larry Gould, Lubbock Christian; 4. Toby Weeks, NMMI; 5. Gary Warshaw, HCJC.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Twenty-seven of the first 65 junior colleges coach

L. L. (Red) Lewis of HCJC

out entry blanks for the 1961

National Juco Track and Field

Meet here, indicated they would send teams here...

That's nearly 40 per cent of the NJCAA is made up of 255 schools... If the present trend continues, Big Spring may have more athletes than it knows what to do with May 19-20, dates of the big meet.

Last year, only 40 schools sent athletes here... The word,

no doubt, got around that Big

The New York Giants led the Los Angeles Rams (and all the rest) in average paid attendance

in the National Football League last fall, with a turnout of 59,000 per game.

Baltimore and the Rams each averaged 55,000 per game.

Cleveland 53,000, San Francisco

50,000 and Detroit 48,000.

Dallas trailed the ticket with only 11,000 per game, exactly half of what St. Louis did and the Cardinals were the second worst draw at home

among the NFL teams... Dallas averaged 33,000 away from home... The leading attraction on the road was Chicago, with 47,000... Dallas asked $3.60 for its average ticket in 1960, compared to $4.84 for St. Louis, leader in that respect... Tim Marcum, one of the candidates for the

team next fall, is the son of D. V.

Marcum, who was a coaching aide here at one time... The Marcums recently moved to Loraine... D. V. is operating a sports goods store... Horace

Bostick, the Snyder coach, has his two quarterbacks, Steve Free and Eddie Pity, back from last fall and conceding the Tigers will have their problems at other positions... The Cotton Bowl needs a salesman like the one retained by the Orange Bowl people... The Miami

folks recently sold television

rights to their annual football classic for $250,000 to ABC, over twice what the Cotton Bowl will get from CBS... The additional revenue means that the teams competing at Miami will take

When the third Orange Bowl game was broadcast over ra-

committee chipped in $500 to help defray wire costs, thus assuring itself that its game would get on the air.

Legion Team Still Needs A Pilot

Several local individuals are now working to get the state to provide enough land east of

Webb AFB for a new Teen-

Age baseball park... If the site is located, it would be occupied in 1962... Donnie

Spring High School first baseman, is now playing the same position for the South Plains

JC team, which is leading the

ings... Donnie takes an occasional stint on the mound, mainly because the Texans

don't have any regular hurl-ers... South Plains won seven of its first eight con-

gang attacks on unsuspecting fans and vandalism are be-

dstick Park in San Francisco, home of the National League's Giants... Extra police have been assigned to help control

the problem... American Legion Junior baseball exhibition rules have been liberalized to such an extent that virtually all members of the local high school team will be eligible to play here this summer... Those youngsters born after Jan. 1,

1943, will be eligible to take part... No manager has been named yet.

For the Legion team has yet been named but the job probably will go either to D. R.

Gartman or Tom Farquhar.

Cary Middlecott still leads all of gold's money winners in earnings since 1947, with an accumulation of $274,135.88

but Arnold Palmer has leaped to fourth place with $233,963.27,

just back of Doug Ford

(second) and Sam Snead.

Julius Boros is fifth in the rankings... Al Heist, the Chicago slug who clubbed the home run that beat Milwaukee

the other day, gave up the game of baseball as long ago

as 1952 to become a lift truck operator around Sacramento,

Calif... Oddly enough, he used to be Milwaukee's chatter. Jerry Dunlap, the fell-back on last fall's Big Spring

High School football team,

may wind up at the University of Houston... He could be moved into the line there... Terrell Nevel, the former

BSHS and HCJC athlete who has been teaching at Bayston Elementary School here, returns to Amarillo this summer where he'll railroad the first six weeks and attend school at West Texas State

the last semester.

Foes Rolled Out On Two HCJC Boys

Herman Robinson and Dean

Cheatham in the 100 at the North Texas Relays in Denton

last week rolled out on the

got away last and finished first in 9.5 seconds... His coach, Red Lewis, thinks he's capable of doing better... The

the Odessa ex, Ronnie Goodwin, hitting .452 for the Baylor Bears...

Goodwin may be a better prospect than Abilene's Glyn

Gregory... The HCJC ex, Harold Henson, is the only baseball starter back at Baylor

this season... The Bears play a fine schedule, meeting teams as Kentucky, Tulane, Georgia Tech and Memphis State, in addition to the usual Southwest Conference foes... If you eat at the restaurant inside

Candlestick Park in San Francisco, expect to pay $1.90 for hamburgers, 50 cents for coffee and $2.25 for kosher frankfurters... However, not everyone who watches baseball games there can get in—only those owning box seat privileges who are willing to shell out another $20 for seating privileges... There's some talk here that outside organizations will lead a drive to refurbish Steer Park, the high school baseball diamond, and make it suitable for night games... The light poles are still in place... The San Juan Marlins of the international League are getting

$127,000 for radio and TV rights to their games this season... When they were in Miami last year, the Marlins could not even get a nickel for radio rights... Dick

Snider, named director of in-

edy's Council on Youth Fitness, is a former sports editor of the Odessa American... Bill Brown, the former

Midland athlete, is knocking the cover off the ball for the ball team... National (baseball) League teams will

miles during 1961, which is the equal of about 8 1/2 times around the globe... Press

Marovich, the Clemson baseball coach, has asked to be buried with a basketball

in his coffin.

San Angelo Sams Longhorns, 7-3

San Angelo ganged up on Bowman Roberts in the fifth inning for four runs and went on to defeat the Big Spring Steers, 7-3, in a District 2-AAAA baseball game here Saturday afternoon.

The Bobcats trailed by a score

to assault the slants of Roy New,

Roberts' successor.

A double by Ronnie Stephens,

the winning pitcher, ignited the San Angelo rally in the fifth. Bill

Terrill then worked Roberts for a walk and Bud Ewing doubled to score Stephens.

Ken Lyons followed with a double that scored two runs, then ronped home himself on a sac-

Charley Spieker and Gary Golightly counted for the Cats in the sixth on a hit by Terrill and an

The Cats picked up an unearned run in the seventh, at which time

Roy Franklin crossed the plate.

Roberts scored the first run of the game in the third after singling. Tommy Young brought him home with a triple.

Jack Irons led off Big Spring's fourth with a home run while Jerry Tucker managed a run in the fifth, after walking. A single by Jeff Brown brought him home.

Each side managed eight hits.

The game had been tied 4-4 in the sixth.

The Philies scored two runs in the bottom of the second after

Jack Curtis gave up walks to Tony

Gonzalez and Frank Herrera. Gonzalez scored on a passed ball and Herra on Reuben Amaro's squeeze

bunt.

The Philies then went ahead 3-1 in the third on Bobby Gene

Smith's RBI double.

The Cubs tied in the fifth and scored in the sixth.

Muston Back In Bass Meet

AUSTIN (AP) — The defending champion is ready to go in the upcoming state bass tournament to be held on Highland Lakes May 18-21.

He's Murray Muston, a big guy from Austin who was top catcher in the 1960 tournament on Lake Whitney.

The expert on jig and eel fishing can probably lay claim to the title of the state's winningest competitive fisherman. In all, he has completed in eight bass tournaments, and come away with 12 trophies. Murray's splash started back in 1958, when the state tournament was held on Buchanan, Inks and Granite Shoals. With 600 fishermen in the field that year, the Austin man registered three of the six biggest fish caught.

In 1959, Muston and George Raven, also from Austin, finished second in the team division of the state meet on Belton, and last year, they took the championship at Lake Whitney and Muston won the individual crown.

Also in 1960, they won the team title in the Lake Belton round-up, and finished second in the Lake Travis tournament.

Muston and Curly Morris of Wimberly represented Texas in the Michigan bass fishing of the 1960 world series of fishing.

For complete information, fishermen should contact Earl Golding, Waco Tribune-Herald, Waco, Texas. B. Bowie is now in Class AAA and Anton in B.

Teams indicating they will be here if they qualify include Fort Worth Paschall, Kress, Dalhart, Monahan, Stanton, Anton, Hamilton, Hart, Crosbyton, Kermit, Brownfield, Ralls, Canyon, Gainesville, Anson, Winters, Sundown, Texline, Spearman, Stratford, Monterey, Bowie, Duncanville, Grandfalls, Tahoka, Hereford, Perryton, New Home, Slaton, Floyd, Dallas, Dimmitt, Seminole, Stamford, Azle, El Paso Bowie, Shamrock, Lamesa, Farwell, Gruver, Lefors, Bangs, Phillips, Odessa, Permian, Colorado City, Quanah, Rotan, Friona, Big Spring and Tascosa.

JH Grid Games Slated Tuesday

Local football fans get a chance to see what their high school teams of the future look like in two junior high school contests, scheduled to be held at Memorial Stadium Tuesday evening.

The opening game begins at 6 p.m. Boys in that game will play two quarters, then repair to the dressing rooms for a rest while the second group will take over and play two quarters.

In the second game, athletes of Goodland and Ruidown JH schools will be pitted against each other.

The games climax over two weeks of work for the youngsters. The quarters will run six minutes in each engagement.

Red Raider Relays Carded Saturday

LUBBOCK — The seventh annual Red Raider Relays will be held here Saturday for Texas schoolboy track and field performers who have qualified for the state meet.

Thus far, 49 teams have indicated they will enter if they qualify for the state meet. Teams will have until Wednesday to enter the meet.

In addition, there will be a college division this year, with Arkansas, New Mexico State, the University of New Mexico and Texas Tech sending full teams. Baylor and Texas have indicated they will enter athletes who do not make the trip to the Drake Relays.

There will be a special race for the schoolboys, the two-mile relay and schools may enter this event regardless if they do or do not qualify for the state meet.

Prelims will be held Saturday morning and the finals that afternoon. Shorty Alderson, who starts the state meet, will be the starter for the Red Raider Relays.

Although the teams will run in one division, points will be kept on all teams and trophies will be given to the top team in each of the five classes, Class AAAA, AAA, AA, A and B.

Abilene is the defending champion in Class AAAA and for the overall meet, while Brownfield scored the most points in AAA, Bowie in AA, Anton in A and

Sunland Derby Is Scheduled Today

EL PASO — Eight top 3-year-olds have been entered for the today's running of the Sunland Derby, the Southwest's sand and sage version of the Kentucky Derby.

The turf classic will be run at a mile and a sixteenth, for a purse of $7,500. They include: Dixie Denny's Little Juan, the bay colt who finished front in the tenth running of the Arizona Derby at a mile and a sixteenth at Turf Paradise on March 26th with 113 pounds for a purse of $3,000 added. However, little Juan was disqualified and placed second for interfering with Jax up in the stretch.

Little Juan came back April 14th to win the Turf Paradise Pickers Convention feature at a mile and a half furlongs. With 116 pounds, his regular rider the veteran Robert Ford in the saddle, he took the inspiration Royal Lineage in the Inspiration Sweepstakes at long odds. The P. M. Aldridge filly will have Roy Lumm in the saddle at 111 pounds.

On the outside will be Brendan and Bradford's Bren Brad, who ran second and third in his only two starts to date at Sunland Park. The Dick Orr colt, weighted at 116, will have Xavier Torres up.

In number two post position is the filly Incognito, who will be piloted by Larry Byers, weighted at 111. The Football Farms entry, winner of the Radio KHEY Purse in the Rail, the Paul Oliver trained colt is expected to be one of the hot favorites.

In number two post position is the filly Incognito, who will be piloted by Larry Byers, weighted at 111. The Football Farms entry, winner of the Radio KHEY Purse in the Rail, the Paul Oliver trained colt is expected to be one of the hot favorites.

In number three hole is Royal Lineage, who has been considered to date, Sunland Park's top 3-year-old of the Spring Meet. At 116 pounds the George McVior bred, Walker Pelletier trained gelding is expected to be the favorite as he comes off impressive wins in the Governor's Handicap at a mile, and while carrying the heavy impost of 125 lbs. in the race for Sweepstakes at a mile and a sixteenth quite handily. Royal Lineage will have the capable riding services of Billy Powell.

In number four post position is the flashy gelding Pavo Pardo, with the veteran Jockey Ken Copperrill in the saddle at 116 pounds. The M. R. Prestredge entry is just off a win at a half-mile furlongs in the time of 1:17 and a fifth, and could prove tough.

In the number 5 hole is the stretch running son of Kentucky Derby winner Ponder, Penrock, who ran a closing second to Royal Lineage in the Governor's Handicap, and may find the extra sixteenth of a mile in the Derby to his liking. Assigned weight of 116, the Ralph Love entry will have the services of jockey Joe Sherman.

In the number 6 slot, is Half Share who ran a good second earlier in the season in the Mexican Red Cross Purse, and 4th in the Governor's Handicap. Weighted at 116, Half Share will have the riding services of Jack Brown.

In number 7 post position is the other filly in the Derby, Red Chafe, who ran a good second to Royal Lineage in the Inspiration Sweepstakes at long odds. The P. M. Aldridge filly will have Roy Lumm in the saddle at 111 pounds.

WHAT'S OUT THERE?

Sun, Space And Stars: New Horizon Beckons Mankind

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Writer

The sun, they once said, is a god to be worshipped.
The sun, they once said, circles the earth and the earth is flat. . . Today astronomers are saying the earth wears great halos of energy and perhaps sports a giant tail, and that the sun actually envelopes the earth.

Some say "people" could be living on millions of other planets, and have even tried to make contact with them. . . that new stars are being born now and old ones dying now, and some stars may be 25 billion years old.

Astronomers are seeing glaring light where once they found only darkness; finding intense heat where they expected frigid cold, and boiling seas of atoms and dust in what once was thought to be the emptiness of space.

This new knowledge of earth, sun and universe has been coming in a rush, born of brilliant work by scientists, and born—much of it—from new explorations with rockets, satellites, balloons, radar and radio, computers, and even such devices as a hypodermic needle.

Now man has made his first personal venture into space, with more explorations to follow. Although a Soviet astronaut successfully orbited the earth, important questions still remain to be settled by longer voyages than his historic one-around the globe.

Will manned space vehicles on longer trips be able to pick their way safely through earth's belts of radiation? Avoid being cooked by awesome blasts of hot particles shot from the sun? Escape fatal puncture by swarms of meteors? Some scientists estimate 8 to 10 billion meteors enter the earth's atmosphere every 24 hours, most no larger than a grain of sand, but an extraordinary, occasional one is capable of digging a huge hole in the earth.

Coming, also, are automatic observatories circling the earth or standing on the moon, freed at last from the earth's shimmering, obscuring ocean of air, able to look with astonishing clarity into secrets of the universe.

EARTH'S NEW LOOK
Already our earth and planets have a new look—from findings too new yet to be included in most reference and textbooks.

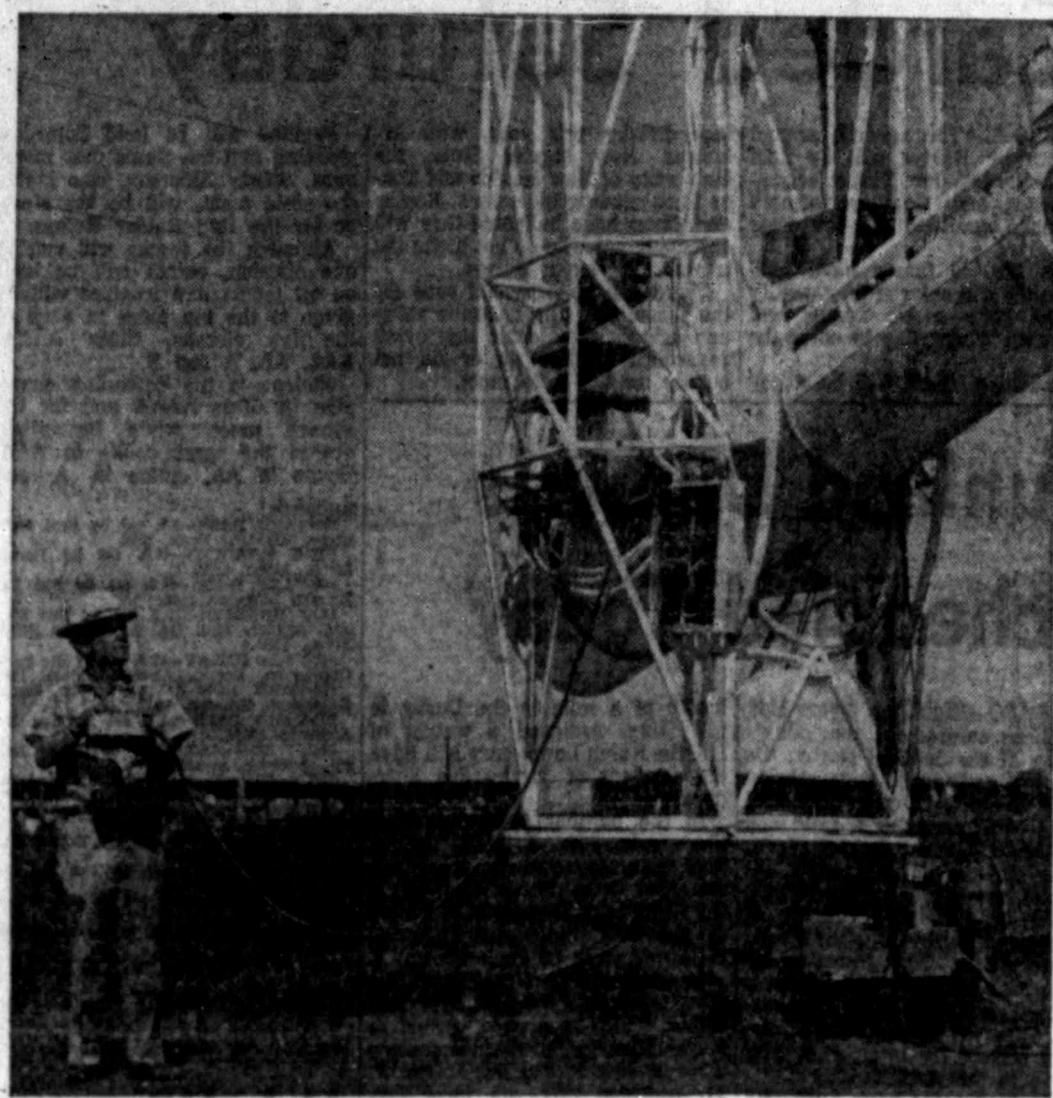

The earth is found to be slightly pear-shaped, the north polar area a tiny bit pointed; the south pole region somewhat flattened. This was detected from gravity pull on six-inch Vanguard I, the tiniest of all man's earth satellites.

Surrounding our globe are five billion tons of air—and some new-found vestments.

One is the geocorona, a thin aura of hydrogen gas. This, says Dr. Herbert Friedman of the Office of Naval Research, may be elongated to give the earth a faintly glowing comet-like tail reaching out 20 million miles, always on the side away from the sun. Rocket-borne telescopes, looking backward, one day may see it.

The earliest U. S. satellites discovered the two doughnut-shaped Van Allen radiation belts girdling the earth.

Later, voluntary cooperation of Russian and American observers confirmed the long-suspected existence of a third electrical halo, the ring current beginning 60,000 miles out from the earth.

Aerial telescope: Dr. Martin Schwarzschild of Princeton University is shown with the two-ton, 36-inch telescope that will be carried 80,000 feet above the earth to examine the universe unhindered by most of the earth's atmosphere.

The earth may be enveloped by two shells of very fine dust particles, says Dr. S. Fred Singer, University of Maryland physicist. One hollow sphere may exist 600 to 1,000 miles out, the other with smaller particles 3,000 to 4,000 miles from earth.

Dr. Fred Whipple, Harvard astronomer, theorizes that a hazy cloak of moon dust may surround our planet—powder-fine stuff splashed off the moon by the impact of meteors.

Several astronomers now think the sun's corona or outer atmosphere—seen as an incandescent fringe during eclipses—actually reaches to the earth and beyond in tenuous form. Thus the earth and sun really touch one another, for their atmospheres meet.

MOON PROBES AWAITED

Britain's Dr. Sydney Chapman says the solar corona 300,000 miles from the sun (the earth is 93 million miles away) is thinner than the best man-made vacuum, but still contains thousands of particles per cubic inch and they are very hot—maybe 50,000 to 100,000 degrees centigrade.

Scientists have bounced radar and radio signals off the moon, and are eager to land instrumented probes there to determine if the moon's outer surface is solid, or covered with a deep layer of debris like ground glass, created by bombardment of meteorites and awful swings of temperatures betwixt day and night.

On the chance it is deep dust, the first U. S. satellite making a gentle landing—in 1963 or later—may well touch down in stills 11 feet high, so it wouldn't sink out of sight.

The question could be settled earlier by "rough" impact landings or by other observations. Perhaps the moon contains rock and other material unchanged since its creation. A solid piece of the airless moon could provide a sample of matter as it was in the beginning.

Optical or light-gathering telescopes cannot make out surface details of the earth's sister planets, except for Mars, and they cannot tell whether the elusive so-called "canals" are real. Clouds or other problems obscure other planets, and provide an exciting reason for sending probes or even men to visit them.

But radar offers one way of exploring their surfaces. Radar echoes returning to earth are distorted versions of the original impulses. Whatever they hit may change their wavelengths or other characteristics.

Some impulses to a planet such as Mars may hit a mountain peak, others an adjacent valley. The echo from the valley will return a bit later because it has farther to travel. From this, an observer can make a topographic map.

Radar echoes can also show whether a "target" area is water, ice or rock. Such radar explorations are under way.

Bright Venus has water in its thick cloud atmosphere. This was determined from a balloon, 15 miles above earth, by Navy Cmdr. Malcolm Ross and Dr. Charles Moore, Cambridge, Mass., looking at Venus through a telescope and taking spectrographic readings.

VENUS AN OVEN

But radio signals from Venus indicate the temperature just under the cloud is some 600 degrees Fahrenheit, too hot for life, reports Dr. Charles Townes of Columbia University.

Other research indicates Venus has a poison gas, nitrogen tetroxide, in its atmosphere.

Jupiter is broadcasting radio waves, and possesses an unidentified source of energy equal to the explosive power of 100 million tons of TNT per second, says Dr. Roger Gallet of the National Bureau of Standards.

Five spots on Jupiter do this broadcasting, and these areas perhaps are something like volcanic or geyser regions, he adds. They don't erupt simultaneously, but on the average produce a burst of energy equal to 10 big hydrogen bombs each second.

What's really there? One day, the puzzle will be resolved.

In 3½ years of the space age, the life-giving sun has produced more surprises for astronomers than anything else in the sky.

Like the solar wind
In 1959, something gave Sputnik III a cosmic nudge that moved it slightly out of its orbit.

The same curious nudge was experienced last fall by Echo I, the lightweight balloon communications satellite.

Scientists, including Dr. Robert Jastrow of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, traced the invisible forces to bursts of highly-charged particles from great flare-ups on the surface of the sun.

First, observers see a tongue of flame shoot upward from the region of a sunspot.

Almost simultaneously, radio sets tuned to the sun's broadcasting wavelengths for this kind of energy begin to hiss and growl.

A day or so later, the earth's magnetic field goes into a dance. Radios black out. Auroral lights flicker over polar regions.

The gust of particles, or wind, beats the lower part of the earth's high upper atmosphere. The air at that level rides and intensifies the air above it, at the level the orbiting satellites were.

For the satellites, suddenly there was a head wind. Slowed down a bit by the increased drag of the atmosphere, the satellites dropped a little, and shortened their orbits.

CHANGING LEVELS

Earlier, German, English and American scientists had discovered that the earth's upper atmosphere rises and falls with the general level of solar activity.

It had taken cooperative observations, and reasoning, to develop the meaning of this—somebody watching the sun, others simultaneously manning radio telescopes, magnetic recorders, spectrographs, cosmic ray counters, and cameras watching auroras.

Particles from the sun unleashed by these bursts feed the belts of radiation named for Dr. James Van Allen of the State University of Iowa. When the belts fill up, they leak particles into the polar regions, and the auroral lights come on.

The solar winds can also bring another kind of radiation—cosmic rays. During solar storms in 1959, a 1,000-fold increase in cosmic ray activity was detected by balloons lofted 90,000 feet high by Drs. Edward P. Ney and John R. Winckler of the University of Minnesota.

These rays, fortunately, were stopped by the earth's thicker atmosphere below that point, so humans didn't get an undesirable dose of radiation. Such bursts could, however, be a serious hazard for astronauts riding in space.

Experts say the sun shoots out about 30 great bursts a year, and there is no way yet of predicting them.

Rockets equipped with special eyes discovered an invisible kind of sunlight so bright it blinds the chance of seeing other cosmic bodies far out in space.

This type of ultraviolet light—more technically called Lyman alpha radiation—is stronger than all the visible starlight combined, says Dr. Herbert Friedman of the Office of Naval Research.

RADIATES FROM SUN

It originates in the excitement or activity of hydrogen atoms in the sun's chromosphere, the layer between the relatively cool 6,000-degree surface and the million-degree corona higher up.

It spreads in every direction from the sun, causing other hydrogen atoms in the dark sky to glow sympathetically with a pale violet cast.

If you had something like X-ray vision and could get above the earth's atmosphere—which absorbs this light—the whole sky would glow.

Such a glare blinded the rocket instruments aimed at looking for other sources than the sun for concentrated radiation of this kind.

Researchers solved this problem by using hypodermic needles as blinders on their special detectors. Looking through the almost microscopic bores of the needles, the detectors could look at just a tiny part of the sky at any one time. In this way, they located stars and sky areas where this Lyman alpha radiation is most intense.

Such studies offer a way of calculating the amount of hydrogen out in space, thus helping to estimate the size and nature of the universe, Dr. Friedman explains. A rocket lofted 123 miles high took a photograph of the Lyman alpha radiation from the sun. It provided the first highly detailed picture of the entire sun, and showed it is strikingly stormy when viewed this way, said J. DeWitt Purcell and Richard Tousey of the Naval Research Laboratory.

SUN AFFECTS WEATHER

Solar activity is suspected by some astronomers and meteorologists to have a definite, if as yet unclear, mechanism vitally affecting weather on earth. Future solar weather reports might vastly improve earthly weather forecasts.

The clearest pictures of the sun taken in ordinary light were obtained through a 13-inch telescope lifted above most of the earth's atmosphere by a balloon in September, 1959.

They show mysterious white spots in the dark depths of sunspots almost the diameter of the earth. These may show some mysterious role in solar activity.

A two-ton, 36-inch telescope to be carried some 80,000 feet high is being prepared by the same scientific team headed by Dr. Martin Schwarzschild of Princeton University.

Its pictures might analyze the rings of Saturn, interstellar dust clouds, and perhaps peer through the atmospheres of Jupiter and Venus.

Orbiting astronomical observatories equipped with telescopes and other instruments are being planned and prepared now to explore these and other problems ever more deeply.

Man's idea of the age of the universe began with a figure of 6,000 years, calculated from Biblical history.

Astronomers generally have raised it now to 10 billion years.

And there are peculiar hints it might be 25 billions, or even a fantastic one million billions.

With their new and future methods of getting evidence, and checking theories, astronomers hope to pin down the age, and clarify the origin and perhaps even the ultimate fate of the universe.

They hope to resolve their intramural argument whether the universe began with a Big Bang—an explosion of one huge primeval atom—and has been expanding ever since, or whether it is in a "steady" state with matter constantly being formed and congregating into stars and galaxies to fill the space required by the expansion theory.

Most agree the Milky Way—the great galaxy or family of stars to which our sun and earth belong—consists of up to 1,000 billion stars. And that there are untold billions of other galaxies of the same or greater size.

They're pretty confident some distant galaxies are colliding—passing through one another. But individual stars are so far apart that rarely if ever do any stars actually hit. Collisions do occur between atoms of hydrogen and gases scattered among the stars.

Recently, astronomers using the world's biggest telescope, the 200-inch at Mt. Palomar, and radio telescopes detected a blob of light which may be a colliding galaxy.

CRUCIAL DISCOVERY

Various bits of evidence indicate that it is six billion light years away—36 sextillion miles away—since light travels at 186,000 miles per second.

For special reasons, this blob of light is considered one of the best finds so far toward reaching a decision whether the universe is expanding, or is very old and in a steady state.

In another discovery using the Palomar giant, Dr. Allan Sandage found a cluster of stars which he thinks may be 25 billion years old—more than double the generally assumed age of the universe.

He calculated this age from the rate at which certain stars in the cluster are known to be burning up their hydrogen. Some stars have burned so much of their hydrogen that it would have taken them about 25 billion years to do so, Dr. Sandage estimates.

Such an age is not impossible if matter is constantly being created and the universe is indefinitely old, rather than having an age dating back to a specific time of the Big Bang.

But one astrophysicist, Prof. Fritz Zwicky, who also observes through Palomar's Big Eye, says he finds reasons to calculate the age of the universe at not less than one million billion years.

Since time began, has intelligent life developed somewhere out there on planets of other distant suns? Might such life be superior to man's evolution so far on earth?

More and more astronomers are coming to believe life must exist elsewhere, and a few think intelligent beings may even be trying to communicate with us, or other planets.

LISTEN FOR SIGNALS

On the chance they might hear some cosmic baby talk, some radio astronomers have turned up their magic ears to several distant parts of the Milky Way for a time.

Hopefully, they listened for a few faint "da da da" sequences of signals or some rhythmic sound like the ruffle of a drum repeated many times.

They haven't heard anything yet.

Dr. Su-shu Huang, physicist of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, says some scientists think it worthwhile to set up regular radio surveillance for signals originating outside the solar system.

Dr. Huang calculates there are probably six million worlds similar to the earth in the Milky Way alone. The nearest possibility, he thinks, is some planet of the star Tau Ceti which is 10.8 light years or 65 trillion miles away.

They could have started signals on the way to us 10 years or more ago.

Radio Astronomer Ronald Bracewell at Stanford University says it is possible other worlds ages ago started satellites toward distant suns, and that one or more of them by now could have reached the solar system, and be circling the sun.

They might be transmitting signals to contact us, and so it could be sensible to start interrogating the region of the sun with radio impulses of varying frequencies and then listen systematically for responses, Dr. Bracewell says.

Death is no stranger to the universe.

Somewhere out there, stars are dying. Many of them probably were like our sun is now—possessing plants harboring intelligent life.

Their fate is death from heat, say Dr. Sandage and Jesse L. Greenstein, who have studied many aging stars from Palomar and Mt. Wilson.

STARS BURN HYDROGEN

Although a star's lifespan is billions of years, observers can get an idea of its doings from birth to death by looking at clusters containing stars of all ages. It is like viewing a family photograph of several generations. Simultaneously you see young ones, and those about to die.

A typical star such as the sun starts life with a make-up which is about 93 per cent hydrogen. Hydrogen is the universal star fuel. Some stars burn it rapidly, some slowly.

When a star has used up about 12 per cent of its hydrogen, its death throes begin, Dr. Sandage reports. It fades from yellow to red, and expands to 30 times its youthful radius. Its temperature rises relentlessly.

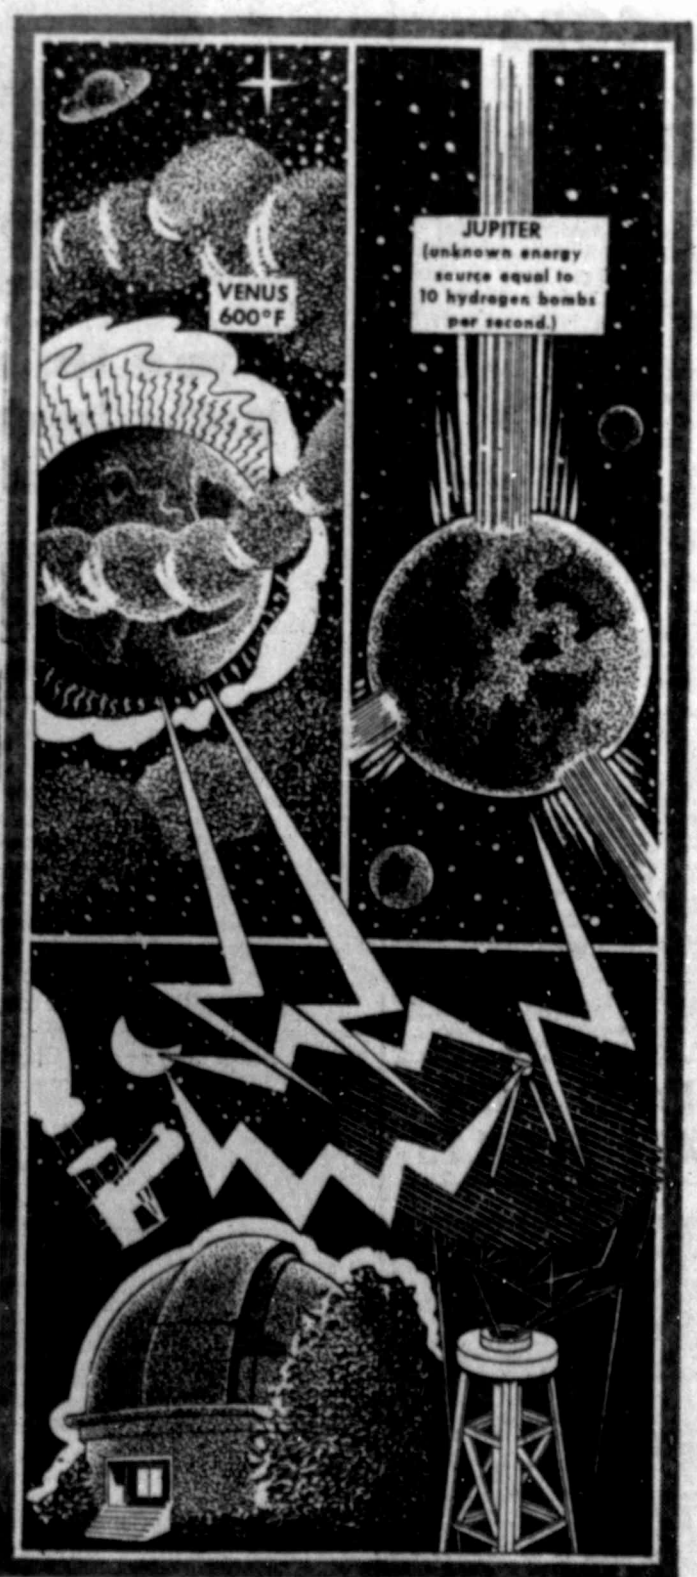

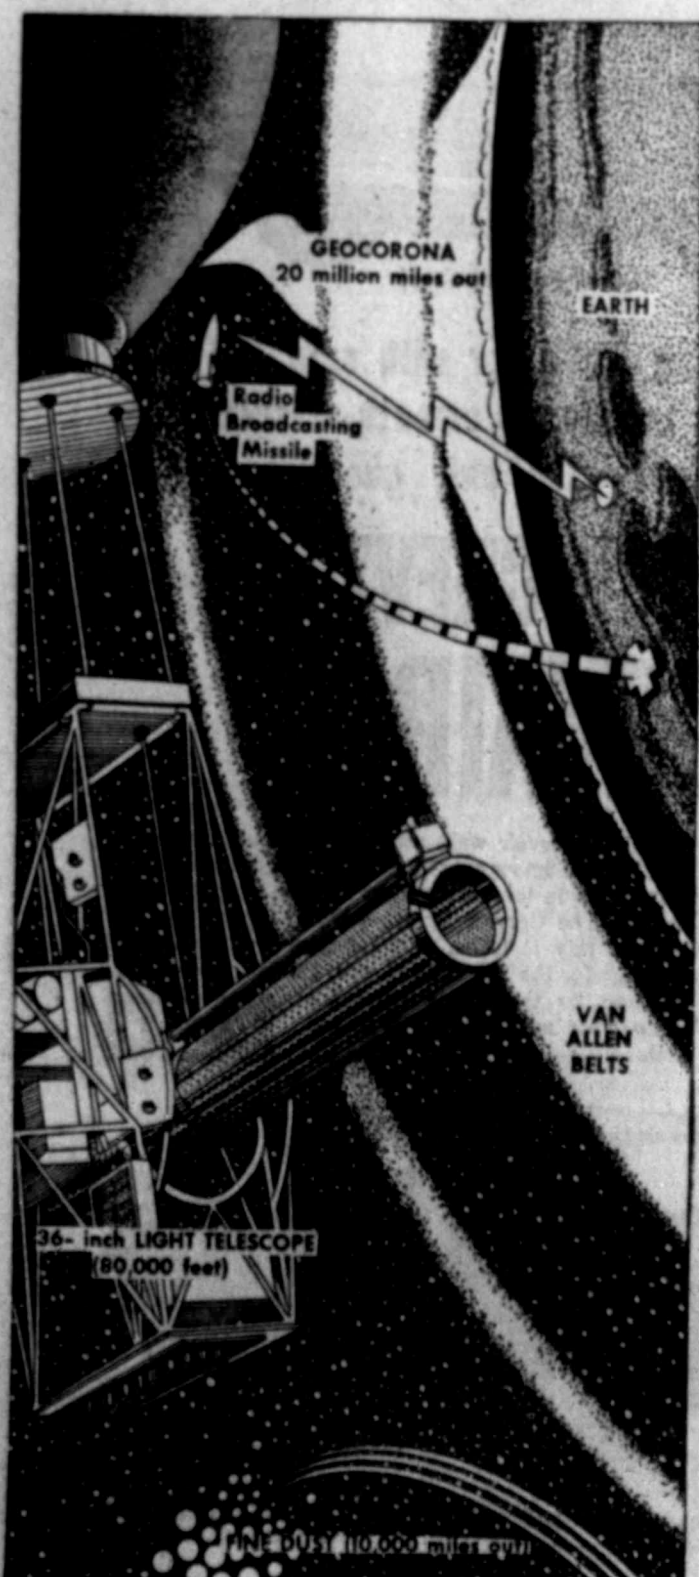

Slowly its planets heat up. Life vanishes. Their oceans boil away. But the planet's temperature keeps rising, to 1,500 degrees, three times as hot as a kitchen oven.

Then the star cools and shrinks, becoming a blue-white dwarf, too cold and too small to look anything like a normal star. Its charred planets freeze to 300 degrees below zero.

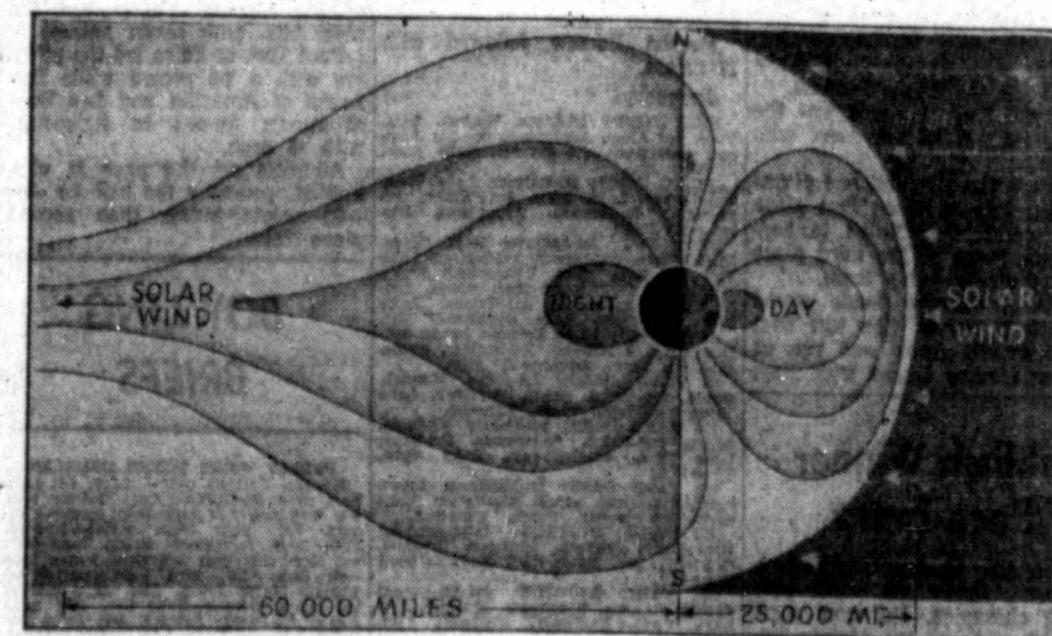

Right now there very well may be people on planets who are being cooked so slowly they don't notice it, says Dr. Sandage.

We on earth are lucky, he adds, because our sun is the size that burns slowly. If it were 10 per cent larger, it would be a fast burner, and we also would be facing heat death.

As it is, we have another six or seven billion years to go.

Probing the mysteries: With the aid of radio, radar and powerful lenses, man is slowly learning the secrets of the universe that surrounds him. Soon a "flying telescope" will be helping him in his quest for the ultimate scientific knowledge.

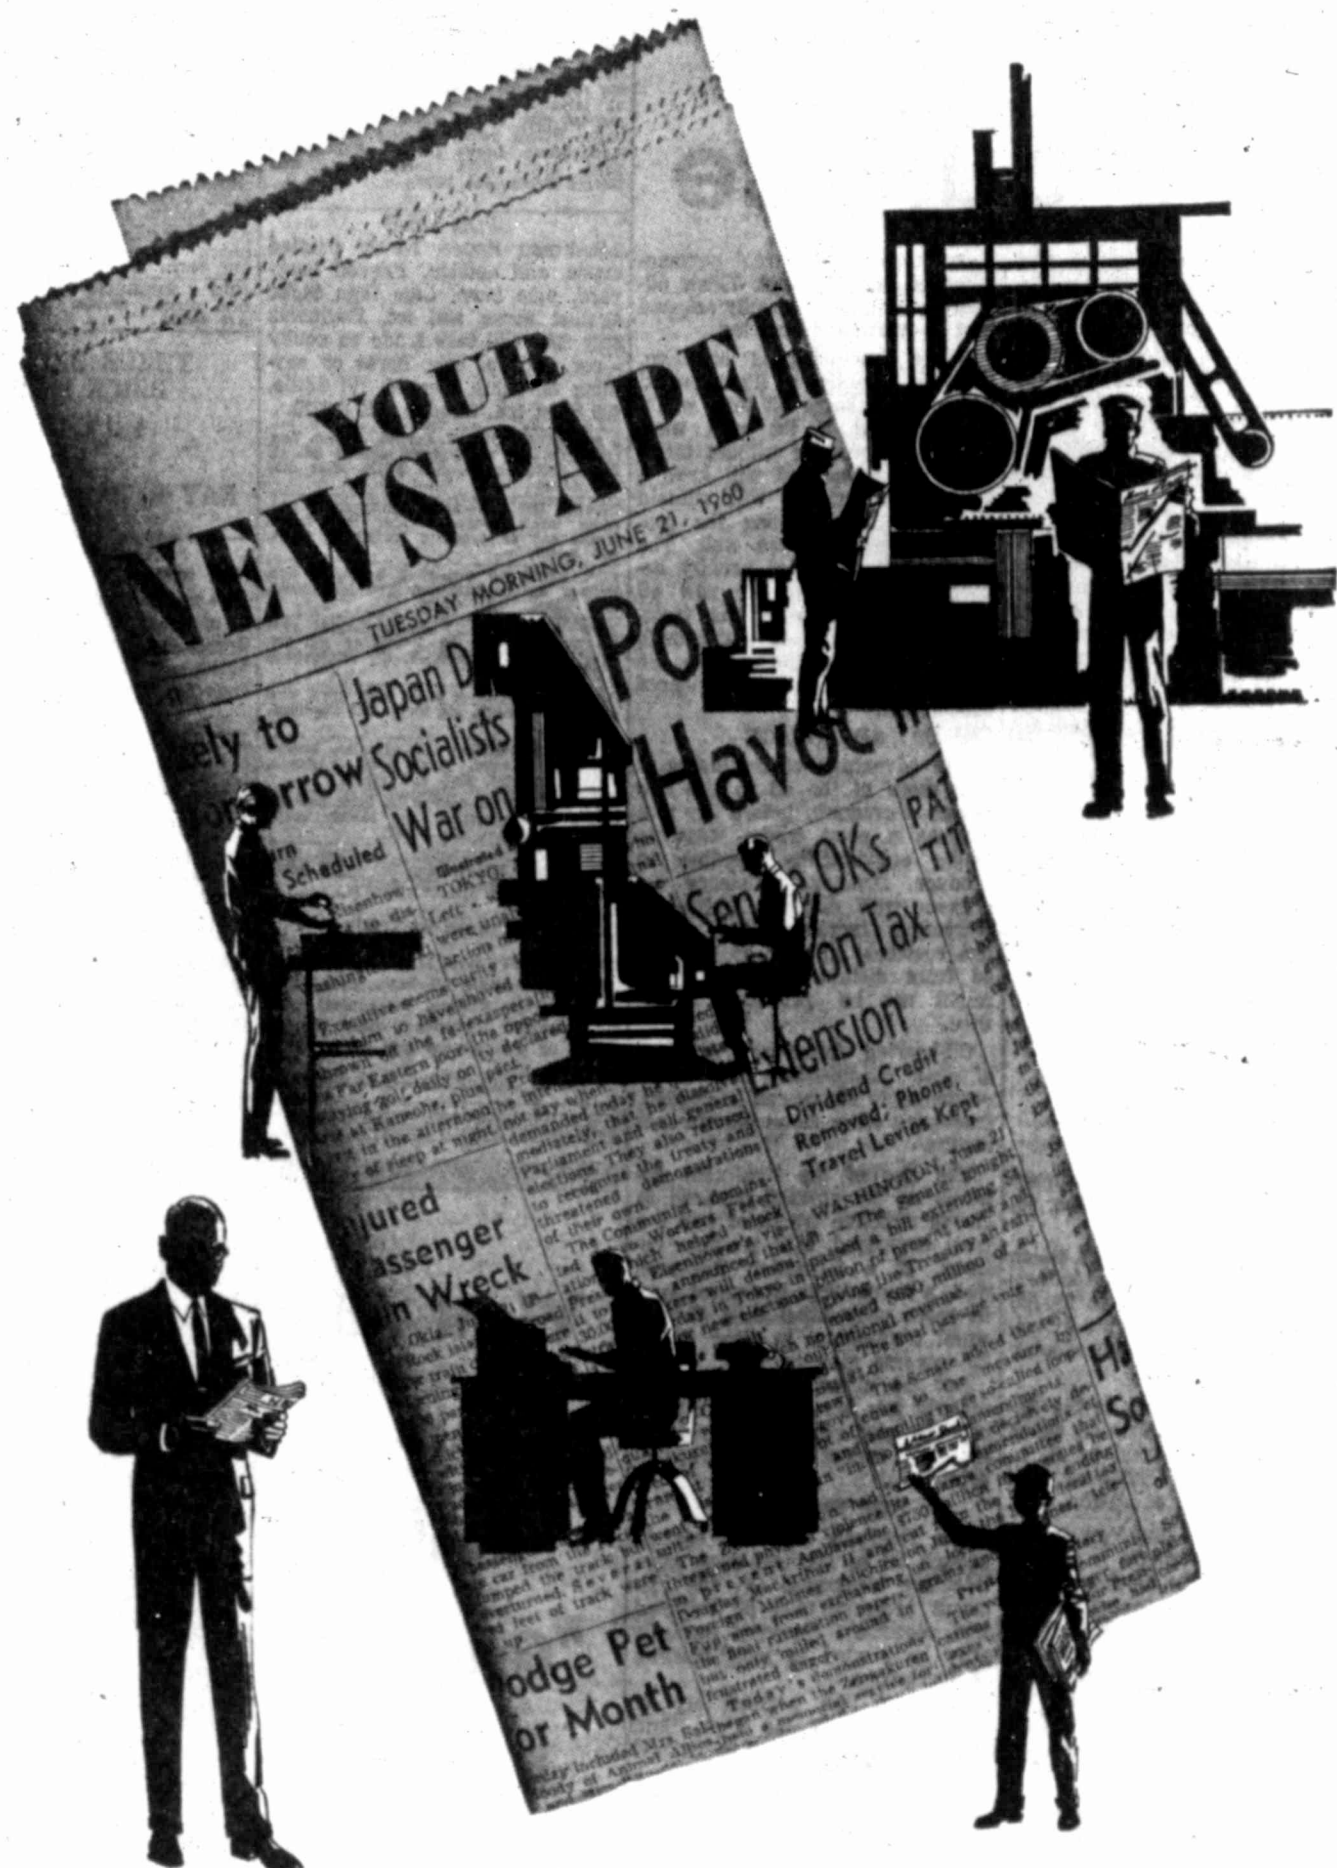

Solar winds are great bursts of highly charged particles emanating from the sun which change the earth's atmospheric temperatures, recharge its radiation belts and boost its cosmic ray activity.

Fracturing The Formation

During the fracturing process, the drilling site is cleared of persons as the fracturing fluid is pumped in under tremendous pressures. The truck and equipment shown recovers tubing from the hole and helps in adjusting and resetting the plug after each perforation and treatment. The pipe coming out of the hole carries the fracturing slurry to the formation.

By JOE BEYER

tures and fluid composition cannot always be relied on.

Sometimes brittle or hard shale beds may fracture instead of the permeable rock. On occasion fractures have been known to jump across beds. The operator uses all knowledge available to control the fracture for most benefit, but still must rely on chance to a great degree.

TO WATER

One danger of using fracture treatment where the oil-water line of the reservoir is near the perforated interval is that fractures may extend into water. Slow injection rates have sometimes prevented this hazard, but this is not always reliable. More recently, additives have been manufactured which will seal off the water and allow oil production, eliminating this danger.

In some zones, horizontal fractures are best because they will decrease the distance oil must travel under the normal permeability of the reservoir. Thick oil-bearing formations usually respond best to vertical fracturing.

Where fracturing is effective, there is usually a flush period which yields more oil than would be recovered if the well were allowed to produce without treatment. Then the well will have a second rate which is somewhat the same during the productive period of the well. This extended flush period usually accounts for most of the new oil recovered because of the treatment, and if this is not enough to compensate for the expense, the treatment cannot be considered economical.

ADVANTAGE

One advantage of fracturing is that more of the oil in the reservoir is produced before the rate reaches a point where it is no longer economically feasible to produce. Drainage efficiency decreases with distance and since

SCRATCHES HAVE IMPORTANT PURPOSE
Watchmaker Grantham identifies his own workmanship

Your Watch Might Be Your ID Tag

By SAM BLACKBURN
If you should take the back off your watch (which is certainly not recommended by watch experts) you will probably find the inner surface marked by a considerable number of scratches. Especially will this be true if you have had the watch for a long time.

And if you should obtain a magnifying glass and look at these scratches you'd find they are letters and figures. Perhaps some such combination as a "Y3789-1458LM".

IDENTIFYING
According to watch repairmen, these little scratches could be highly instrumental in identifying you should some grave disaster befall and only your watch be left on your person.

It has happened. In White Plains, N. Y., for example the police found the body of an unknown murdered woman. She wore a wrist watch. Examination of the watch showed the little scratches. Tracing these down was simple and the woman was identified. With her identification, apprehension of the slayer was simplified.

Each time your jeweler repairs your watch, he scratches a symbol, the number of the repair job as recorded in his book and very often the date.

HIS MARK
Thus, if the watchmaker happened to be named William Jones he might mark a watch he was repairing "WJ 32796-41961". If this watch came back again, he would know that he had previously worked on it ("WJ" being his initials). If he wanted to recall what kind of a job it was he would look up the first series of numbers in his books. And the last series, naturally, would be the date the job was done, April 18, 1961.

There are 130,000,000 wrist watches being worn today by Americans, and according to watch repairmen, each wrist watch is a sort of "dog tag" for national disaster.

There are seven watchmakers in Big Spring. Each has his own little symbol to indicate his work but all use the "scratch mark" system.

MASTER FILE
In Denver, there is an organization called the United States Horological Association which is formed for the purpose of maintaining a master file of all watchmakers symbols for the purpose of identifying the usability of these in identification. None of the Big Spring watchmakers belong to this association but they all agree that it would be a highly effective method of identifying many people.

"Any experienced watchmaker," said James T. Grantham, who has been in the business for a quarter of a century, "can identify his own work instantly from the scratch mark. We all keep careful records of each repair job so we can fix very accurately not only the nature of a previous repair assignment but also its date."

GRANTHAM
Grantham, who operates his own shop at 120 Main says he often does work for Zales Jewelers. Such work he marks with a "Z", adds the job number and then a "G" for his name.

"Sometimes," he said, "a watch comes into the shop with nearly every available space in the back already marked with repairmen's scratches."

He picked up the back of the watch on which he was working. Through his jeweler's loop (the magnifying glass watch repairmen wear in their eye) a dozen scratch mark entries were visible and readable.

"This watch has been around," he said.

AGREES

Roy L. Penney, another veteran watchmaker, is in agreement that it would be a reasonably easy task to identify a person by his watch. Penney works in Zales'. It was pointed out that sometimes officers, using the scratchmarks in efforts to identify victims of crime or accident, have then published in one or another of the several journals published for the benefit of watchmakers. Often this leads to important clues.

Jimmy Mitchell, who works at Clon's, says he usually adds the date to his "scratchmark". Not all repairmen do this. Any scratch in the back of your watch with a "JM" prefix and ending in a "C" means that Mitchell has worked on the instrument at one time or another.

Gets Lenin Prize

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet news agency, Tass, says Estonian writer Johannes Smuul has received a Lenin prize for "The Ice Book," an account of his voyage to the antarctic two years ago on a Soviet ship.

LOOKS AT BOOKS

(THE INDIANS OF TEXAS by W. W. Newcomb Jr., University of Texas Press, $5.75)
While there have been several noteworthy histories on specific Indian tribes, or upon Indians and their activities within circumscribed areas, there has never been a work which undertook to put before the covers of one book the culture, the background and the modus operandi of all Indian tribes in Texas.

Dr. W. W. Newcomb Jr., ironically a native of Michigan, has done this — and admirably so — in his new book. Now director of the Texas Museum, he has a background of teaching anthropology in the University and of having served as anthropologist for the museum.

His task was not an easy one, for most of the tribes had disappeared before Texas, as we know it, came into existence. Indeed, Dr. Newcomb's study seeks to carry many of the tribes' origins back to pre-historic times. The Comanches, for instance, branched off from another major family, possibly the Shoshones, and then suddenly flared into fierce prominence on the Plains. It was inevitable that many of the cultures should overlap, that there would be baffling similarities between greatly different tribes and tantalizing differences between kindred tribes. These constitute some interesting patterns from which the reader may indulge in his own speculation.

The story of Texas Indians concerns but a minute segment of human existence, a cupful taken in a moment from the stream of human events," Dr. Newcomb observes.

He arranges his material in the ascending order of productivity, starting with those whose harsh surroundings forced them into a nomadic, never-ending struggle for bare survival, and progressing toward those who showed some skills in crafts, crude agriculture, etc.

Since the historic big spring from whence this city obtained its name was a pivotal point for a fork in the great Comanche trail, Dr. Newcomb's chapter on the Comanches will be of especial interest to readers in this area. He makes it plain that the history in a single chapter pales beside complete works on this tribe, it is nevertheless an enlightening, fascinating compendium.

The Comanche, according to Col. R. I. Dodge's account, were regarded by the Indians themselves as the master thieves of the plains. Yet they cut no figure at all until the horse came, and suddenly (as time can be calculated) they burst in a blaze of glory and terror over the Plains, raiding toward South Texas and west into Mexico. None were their peers in horsemanship (as well as in stealing horses). While they had chiefs, anyone could organize and lead a war party, but he divided practically all the spoils among his aides to keep up confidence in his strong medicine.

They believed in the great Spirit, in monogamy but with overtones of responsibility by brothers to take up marital continuity. They believed they could capture anything they could surround, hence their traditional circular movements about their foes. They fought to the death; they had great celebrations.

But the duration of the Comanche was "short" — a streaking comet in the night sky. The Quahadi band was driven inexorably back by the white man who killed the lion and eventually the Indian's land.

The story was over.

A Special Teaching Project

By CAROL BARNES

"These children need attention more than they need material things," explains Mrs. Truett Vines about the work her club is doing for girls at the Special Education School.

Like many local clubs, Beta Omicron chapter of Beta Sigma Phi has aided the Special Education School by donating much needed gifts, but during the past few weeks it has spent very little on the school — only time and work.

SINCE THE middle of January, members of Beta Omicron have been teaching girls in the school, whose ages range from 11 to 16 years, how to sew. Practically every member in the club has donated two hours a week to teach the girls, and those who can't teach regularly substitute for the others. One club member, who is unable to make trips to the school, is babysitter for the voluntary teachers.

The project got started when the school was presented a sewing machine. Most appreciative of the gift, but realizing that the girls needed instruction, Mrs. R. T. Newell, coordinator of the school, mentioned the project to Mrs. Vines, who was chairman of the chapter's social committee. It wasn't long before the idea became what Mrs. Newell describes as "a very worthwhile project."

NONE OF the voluntary teachers had teaching experience when they started the project. Most of their sewing experience had been gained as housewives, mothers and a few had home economics when they were in high school. The voluntary teachers' enthusiasm, made up for their lack of experience and they are as proud of the finished projects as the students are.

To date, the girls have made aprons, pillow cases, skirts and blouses. Some of the girls are making presents for their mothers on Mother's Day.

WHEN THE SEWING classes started, the biggest problem for the teachers was to let the girls do all the work by themselves. By curbing some of their enthusiasm, the teachers learned to let the girls do the sewing, except when they needed to be shown how to do something, and supervised the students while they worked. Each girl chose what she wanted to make, the color and the material.

Although many of the school's children have been handicapped by polio, epilepsy, cerebral palsy, speech defects or birth defects, according to Mrs. Vines, the girls' learning ability is normal and they are capable of doing very intricate work.

"PUTTING A zipper in a skirt is no easy task, as anyone who sews knows," says Mrs. Vines. Teaching the girls to sew is the club's main project, but Mrs. Newell believes the voluntary teachers have helped in other ways.

"The refinement of these women has had a marked influence on the girls," explains Mrs. Newell.

AN EXAMPLE of this was when one of the youngsters stopped biting her nails because her teacher explained she would be able to pick up the thread more easily if her nails were longer.

"The children never fail to say thank you," says Mrs. Vines. "They are better behaved than most children."

Although most of the voluntary teachers have children of their own or work, many of them continued the instruction after completing the required seven weeks. Some of the teachers have offered to continue teaching when the project is completed if there is no one else to replace them.

MRS. NEWELL has been an enthusiastic supporter of the project and when necessary, she has rearranged the girls' class schedule in order that they don't miss sewing.

"Time always is worth more than money," expresses Mrs. Newell, "because both sides get the satisfaction of seeing an accomplishment. We certainly need something like this until we have more money to secure more teachers. I think it would be wonderful if we had a similar program for the boys."

WOMEN'S NEWS

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, APRIL 23, 1961

ORIGINATORS—Mrs. R. T. Newell, left, and Mrs. Truett Vines may be considered originators of the voluntary sewing classes. Mrs. Newell, school coordinator, mentioned the need for a home economics teacher to Mrs. Vines, the sorority's social committee chairman, who in turn mentioned it to her fellow sorority members. Here they talk over the progress of the instruction.

following instructions. Mrs. Jones is one of the voluntary teachers of Beta Omicron Chapter teaching the girls how to sew.

members who can't teach regularly work as substitute teachers when needed.

ALL FINISHED—Brenda Henry finishes work on her skirt with a net press job, while a classmate, Judy Johnson, and teacher, Mrs. Horace Rankin, watch. Most of the voluntary teachers are housewives and mothers and some take time from professional jobs to help.

SEW A STRAIGHT LINE—Carolyn West, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. D. West, learns from Mrs. Bobby Bradford the importance of sewing a straight line, especially when putting in a hem. Members of Beta Omicron Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi are teaching the girls sewing on a voluntary basis.

AN EASY WAY—Mrs. Bill Draper shows her student, Linda Davidson, a way to put in a hem, allowing it to be ripped out easily when styles change. Mrs.

Draper is one of the voluntary teachers who has a full time job, but finds time to help the girls twice a week.

Couple Is Wed With Ring Of Grandmother

With a wedding ring which had belonged to his maternal grandmother, William Worth Hutto took as his bride Jo Nell West, Saturday afternoon, in College Park, Ga. Columbia Christian Church was the scene of the nuptials.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon West, 404 Park; the bridegroom is the son of C. E. Hutto of Warrington, Fla., and the late Mrs. Hutto.

Double ring rites were read by Roger McKenzie, minister of the East Point, Ga., Church of Christ, as the bridal party stood before a large basket of white chrysanthemums and gladioli, banked in fern, with an arch of five candelabra holding white tapers.

Norma McDonald, organist, accompanied Cynthia Mathias as she sang "I Love Thee" and "The Lord's Prayer."

A gown of white Chantilly lace over satin was chosen by the bride, who was given in marriage by her father. Scallops of the lace formed the neckline and enhanced the edge of the skirt which extended into a chapel train from a high waistline marked in the back with a flat ribbon bow and streamers. Long white gloves complemented the brief sleeves; a small crown held a veil of illusion that extended below the waist.

In recognition of tradition, the bride wore a cameo pin, which had been the property of the late Mrs. Hutto; she had borrowed a cameo ring from her mother, and her wedding gown and veil from Mrs. J. Clyde Finley of East Point, Ga. The blue garter worn by the bride was given to her by her sister, Mrs. Jerry Fowler of Austin; something new was a lace and linen handkerchief, a gift from Mrs. C. R. Johnson, College Park, Ga.

A white orchid surrounded by lilies of the valley was carried on a white Bible with a cascade of ribbons.

Mrs. Fowler attended her sister as matron of honor; bridesmaids were Mrs. Finley and Mrs. Ralph Warlick of College Park, while the junior bridesmaid was JoAnn McKelvey of Hapeville, Ga.

All feminine attendants were identically attired in full-skirted frocks of silk organza over taffeta in shrimp shade. Roses of the same material marked waistlines, and carnations in shrimp color were fashioned into nosegays.

Ralph Johnson of Savannah, Ga.,

Mrs. William Worth Hutto

Baptist Church Has Jr., Sr. Banquet

Fifty-two guests attended the junior-senior banquet sponsored by the Baptist Temple WMU Friday at the church. Mrs. H. M. Jarratt, president, welcomed the guests.

Master of ceremonies was the Rev. A. R. Posey. Bill Montgomery gave the invocation, and Murphy Woodson led a song fest. Special entertainment was provided by Mrs. David Norvell of Stanton, who sang "A Song" and "If Is No Secret."

Guest speaker was David Norvell, education director of the First Baptist Church in Stanton. Benediction was given by Sgt. Bill Prather.

A Hawaiian theme was used in the decorations, complete with straw hats, oriental lamps, flowers and candles. Place cards were shaped as fans, and leis were presented to the guests as they arrived.

WEBB WINDSOCK

Capt. and Mrs. J. M. Brown, who have been away nine weeks to Wright Patterson AFB have now returned to the Civil Engineer Group.

The M&S and CE Groups elected their new officers at a recent meeting. They are Mrs. D. W. Pennington, chairman; Mrs. A. I. Short, co-chairman; Mrs. D. W. Robertson, treasurer; Mrs. W. S. Osborn, reporter; Mrs. N. E. Bulmer and Mrs. J. M. Brown, telephone committee; and Mrs. W. G. Doust, spotter.

Wives of the Medical Group met recently for a regular business meeting and to bid farewell to Mrs. Robert Marx, who was presented with an engraved silver bon-bon dish. New officers for the group are Mrs. Frederick Romanelli, chairman; Mrs. Jack Petty and Mrs. Charles Lillie, spotters; Mrs. Lawrence Blumen, reporter; Mrs. William Overacker, program chairman. The group discussed plans for the next OWC meeting, which they will sponsor.

Just returned from Maxwell AFB are Capt. and Mrs. Bernard Hevel.

Members of the 3560th Pilot Training Squadron met Saturday afternoon for a picnic at City Park to wish Capt. and Mrs. Curtis Rick, Capt. and Mrs. William Farnes and Capt. N. F. Conant farewell.

Hostesses for the 331st coffee at the golf clubhouse last Thursday were Mrs. Karl Tobin, Mrs. Willard Mason and Mrs. Curtis Uiterbach. Spring flowers decorated the table.

Capt. and Mrs. Paul Smathers had as recent house guests Capt. and Mrs. Sheldon Brown and family from Lubbock.

Visiting Capt. and Mrs. K. Tobin this week were Maj. and Mrs. Edward Lane Jr. from Albuquerque, N. M.

Capt. and Mrs. Glenn Fletcher had as guests Capt. and Mrs. L. F. Jones from Minot, N. D.

assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, where they were greeted by the bride couple assisted by their parents, Mrs. R. E. Dasher, aunt of the bridegroom, and the bride's attendants.

At the register was Mrs. Jack Coker of East Point, Ga.; members of the house party included Mrs. Johnson, Marjorie Easterly of College Park, and Myra Shaw of East Point, Ga.

The bride's table, covered in white satin, was decorated with pink rosebuds and fern; a three tiered cake was topped with an orchid.

For a trip to New York and Bermuda, the bride selected a blue and white suit with white overhouse and box jacket to which she attached the orchid from her wedding bouquet.

Upon their return from the trip, the couple will be at home at 1138 Palafox Drive, Atlanta, Ga. Mrs. Hutto, who is a graduate of Howard County Junior College and Texas Tech, is employed by Eastern Airlines as stewardess supervisor.

The bridegroom attended Armstrong College of Savannah and Georgia State College in Atlanta; he is employed by the Atlanta, Ga., Savings and Loan Association.

Coming from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. William Hudson of Old Hickory, Tenn., and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hutto Jr., of Charleston, S. C.

Visitors in the home of Lt. and Mrs. Raymond Bonkamp for a week were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Bonkamp from Illinois. Also visiting the Bonkamps were his brother, Tom, and his daughter, and his sister, Diane.

Members of the 331st met at Cosden Country Club last Friday evening for a cocktail party and dinner. Gifts and farewells were extended to the following: Maj. and Mrs. Krubah Carnahan, Capt. Phillip Brown, Capt. and Mrs. Donald Thiel, Lt. and Mrs. William Hunt, Tech. Rep. and Mrs. Paul Weaver, and Tech. Rep. and Mrs. Roland Bartlett.

Out-of-town guests included Col. (Slip) Slater, Maj. James Simon, Maj. and Mrs. Leander Smith, Capt. and Mrs. Austin Treadway, Capt. and Mrs. James Morris, and Capt. and Mrs. John Brown. Also present was Miss Delta Dagger of 1960, Marilyn Tenny from Colorado City.

Sixteen guests attended a farewell bridge for Mrs. William Farnes recently at the home of Mrs. Paul Plucinsky. Other hostesses were Mrs. Harry Zahn, Mrs. Norman Conant, Mrs. Robert Stein and Mrs. Frederick Parent. An engraved silver bracelet was presented to Mrs. Farnes. High score was won by Mrs. Roy Robinette while Mrs. Stein took second place.

Maj. and Mrs. R. E. Seekins were recent guests of CWO, and Mrs. W. C. Boyer.

The regular OWC party bridge held last Thursday afternoon at the Officers' Club was hosted by the following: Mrs. Malcolm Williams, Mrs. Leland Younkin and Mrs. Stuart Howarter. Winners for the day were Mrs. Harry V. Lindsey, high; Mrs. Donald Thiel, second and travel; Mrs. Francis Bates, third; Mrs. Eugene Myers, fourth, and Mrs. C. W. Semler, door prize.

There will be no OWC welcoming coffee this month. All newcomers will be welcomed at the May coffee, scheduled at the regular time.

Corsages Now Used To Give Messages

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Could be you'll rue the day this fad got under way, girls. The new gimmick is crazy corsages. It's tough enough to get a big-wheel-on-campus into a florist shop, but when he messes up an otherwise pretty corsage with dog biscuits, ouch!

The trend is getting big, so don't be surprised if your new corsage carries a message.

Sugar cubes and sweet peas go for a "sweet 16" birthday, candy kisses indicate a steady date, and powder puffs are considered a "let's make up" corsage.

But some, sort of like unfunny Valentines, aren't so sweet. A corsage with bubble gum meaning "you're still a kid," or sourballs meaning "you're more sharp than sweet," can make a girl sad. The one with dog biscuits means "let me out of the dog house."

Dallas florists report that teenagers use miniature vegetables and fruits with flowers. Peanuts and pecans mean "you're the nuts." Carrots are supposed to be the symbol for "beautiful bright eyes."

Eight Tables Of Duplicate Bridge At Country Club

A smaller crowd than usual gathered at Big Spring Country Club for games of duplicate bridge Friday afternoon. Eight tables accommodated the group.

Announcement was made that in event players are entered in championship award play, regional, sectional or charity games, the series in progress at the time will be extended. This is in order that players may continue to compete in the series of best five out of six games, it was stated.

Winners in Friday's games were Mrs. Bill French and Mrs. Fred Kasch, first, north-south; Mrs. George McGinn and Mrs. B. B. Badger, second; Mrs. Riley Foster and Mrs. Ray McMahan, third.

Mrs. Malcolm Patterson and Mrs. Hudson Landers led the east-west group, while Mrs. Dan Greenwood and Mrs. Tommy Hutto were second; Mrs. Doug Orme and Mrs. R. R. McEwen Jr. were third.

Chicago teen-agers send corsages of bees and butterflies combined with flowers.

Cleveland, Ohio, moderns use pennies, tiny hearts, butterflies and high school fraternity insignia. Pearls and little birds go big. One florist reports that kids try to outdo each other in cleverness and even wire corsages to friends in other cities.

In Indianapolis girls send boys crazy corsages. Ditto Evanston girls who have turn-about parties for boys. At Lake Forest and Oak Park, Ill., a French corsage is given around prom time. It's fresh flowers, miniature artificial fruits tied with lace and black ribbon.

Merrick, Long Island, young people bring their own materials to florists, and there are requests for corsages of lollipops and gum drops.

New York City girls like crazy corsages for birthdays. One with Life Savers means "I'd be sunk without you."

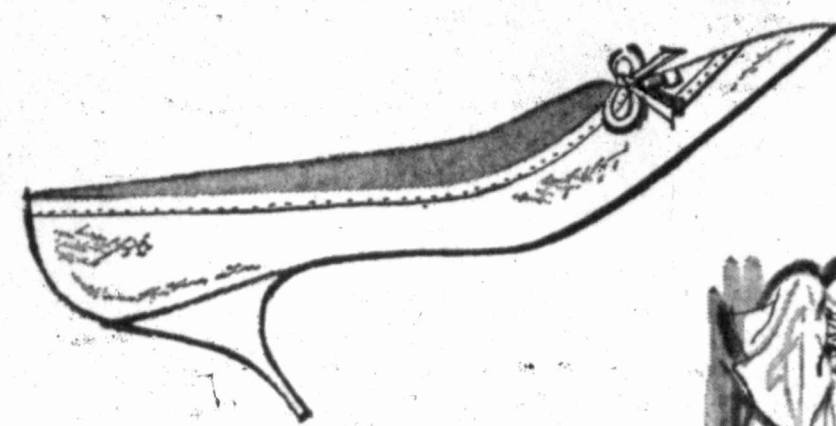

A Wilton, Conn., florist reports that strapless dance dresses have all but made the corsage extinct in his area—the boys prefer, to give wristlets, but these last only a few minutes after the girls get on the dance floor.

But let it be a Texan to place the most unusual gimmick corsage order. He wired a packet of flower seeds made into a corsage to a girl friend "who is so independent she does everything herself."

Two Are United In Ceremony At Home

A home wedding was held for Mickey Nancy Pinkerton and Danny Ray Smith at 4 p.m., Saturday, Tommy Williams, minister of the Stanton Church of Christ, officiated for the double ring ceremony at the home of the bride's parents in Stanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pinkerton are the bride's parents and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Smith, also of Stanton, are the bridegroom's parents.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of white brocade faille. The boat neckline was accented with rhinestones. Her tulle and baby lace veil was shoulder length. The bride wore two birthday pennies in her white pumps which were accented with rhinestone clusters on the toes.

Something old was a handkerchief belonging to the bride's great-grandmother. Her dress was something new, and something borrowed was a white Bible belonging to the bridegroom's sister. A garter served as something blue.

The bride's flowers consisted of red rosebuds atop a white Bible with red and white streamers.

Wanda Smith, the bridegroom's sister, was the maid of honor. She wore a red poplin sheath with an over jacket of white lace. She also wore white accessories and carried a bouquet of white carnations with red streamers.

Best man was Sonny Waldrop. For a wedding trip to Waco, where the couple will reside at 2808 N. 25th St., the bride wore a beige cotton suit with red accessories. Immediately following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. Guests were registered by Lana Airheart.

Decorations included a bouquet of red roses centering a table covered with a white lace cloth over red. Red and white streamers ran from the table corners to the ceiling where a white wedding bell was hung. The bride's three tiered cake was decorated with a miniature bride and bridegroom and red roses.

Both the bride and bridegroom are graduates of Stanton High School.

Forum Has Social Meet

The Woman's Forum dispensed with a program Friday and had a strictly social affair in the home of Mrs. Jack Y. Smith. Hostesses were Mrs. Merrill Creighton, Mrs. J. D. Jones and Mrs. W. H. Bain.

Joining the group for the first time as a new member was Mrs.

Dwain Leonard, and Mrs. Gus Brennan of Cross Plains was a guest.

Members gathered at 1 o'clock for the salad luncheon which was served from a table laid with a pink cloth and decorated with a large bowl of pink roses. Four round tables were centered with bud vases holding rose buds.

Mrs. Clyde Thomas Jr., president, reported a second place win in the educational awards at the recent district convention. Mrs. E. B. Compton, representative to the City Federation, announced the tea on May 7 for all members of the federation.

The May 19 meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Neil Norred and all members are asked to bring suggestions for the 1961-62 program.

Twenty-two members were present.

Roberta Circle Gives Awards

Nancy Hodgett was awarded first place prize for an essay contest sponsored by the Roberta Circle of Coahoma Baptist WMU. The awards were presented in a special assembly Thursday at the Coahoma High School. Other winners were Frankie Firenza, second and Jonnie Wayland, third. Forty-eight high school students submitted entries on the theme, "The Effect of Alcohol on Teenagers."

Presentation of awards was made by Mrs. R. L. Wood, circle chairman.

Gravy Seasoning

Worcestershire, tabasco or cayenne may be just what is needed to season meat gravy made from the drippings in the roasting pan. If you keep caramelized sugar syrup on hand, it will add good flavor and rich brown color.

Lieutenant's Bride-Elect

Virginia Johnson will become the bride of Lt. William P. Stewart according to an announcement made by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Johnson, 611 George. Stewart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Stewart of Pueblo, Colo. The couple will marry at the Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church on June 10.

First Graders Present Program For P-TA

Members of Airport P-TA met Friday evening at the school to see a program presented by pupils of the first grade.

"Henny Penny" was presented by the children of Mrs. Grace Hubbard's room; "The Three Bears," by pupils of Mrs. Dale Vaughn; Mrs. Burke Plant's pupils played in a rhythm band, and a playlet of Mother Goose Land was given by the children directed by Mrs. Frank Hinkley. Mrs.

Hubbard's group won the room count.

Howard Swinney brought a devotion; Floyd Parsons superintendent of schools, addressed the group on "A Purpose in Our Daily Living."

In a report from the recent meeting of the City Council P-TA, Mrs. Ross Stuteville announced a luncheon to be given May 9 at 12:30 p.m. at the Wagon Wheel Restaurant for incoming and outgoing officers of the council.

Members voted to give a five dollar donation for the fee to purchase a correspondence course in English for a patient at the state hospital.

Girl Scout Troop Leaves On Trip

Twelve members of Girl Scout Troop 216 left Friday for a week-end trip to Prude Dude Ranch in the Davis Mountains.

The girls will spend their time hiking, swimming, horseback riding and sightseeing. They will return Sunday evening.

Accompanying the girls were Mrs. Grace Todd and Mrs. Ralph McLaughlin, leaders; and Mrs. Ray Boren.

Making the trip were Sheri Alexander, Mary Boren, Georgia Burns, Diana Durham, Betty Jo Hollis, Sheryl McLaughlin, Jamie Thorp, Diane Todd, Sara Whittington, Debbie Duncan, Ginger Steakley and Claire Hinkley.

The girls have worked all year on various projects to raise money for the trip.

Cotton Does Double Duty At Resorts

Eyebrow and embroidery, batiste and lace are completely at home on the beach for resort and cruise wear, 1961.

This fact would have raised quite a few eyebrows not so long ago—but not this season.

The ruffled bikini in white or ice cream colors is never more feminine than when it appears in batiste, worn with its own luscious matching jacket.

Conversely, hardy mattress ticking becomes appealingly soft and feminine in a two piece suit, worn with a sleeveless white cotton eyelet scalloped overblouse. One hardly knows what to expect next!

Take the matter of terrycloth, for instance. Who'd ever have thought it would turn up as deep, lavish ruffles on the sleeves and edge of a sailcloth beach jacket? It has this season. And it looks just right.

Cotton knit has forever departed the exclusive realm of the masculine T-shirt and has literally taken over the entire fashion picture. A big story last year—it's the biggest fabric story this season and threatens to remain so.

Knit prints are incredibly delicate and colorful—perfectly suited to bathing suits, travel ensembles and just everything from slacks to sheaths.

Mrs. McDonald Is Guest Speaker

FORSAN (SC)—Mrs. Chesley McDonald of Sterling City was the guest speaker for the P-TA meeting here recently in the school.

Mrs. Sammy Porter presided over the business, and Mrs. Tom Kirkpatrick was program leader. Mrs. Joe T. Holladay presented her second grade pupils in a play on spring.

Approximately 30 were present. Members of the social committee were Mrs. Pat Lamb, Mrs. L. E. Alexander, Mrs. Harry Lee and Mrs. Frank Philley.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Anderson and daughter, Nancy, are in Austin with the couple's son, Jimmy, who had an emergency appendectomy at University Medical Center. He is a student of pharmacy at the University of Texas.

Mrs. Paul Kennedy is hospitalized at Malone Hogan Foundation Hospital in Big Spring after undergoing surgery.

Home from Paris, Tex., where they attended a funeral, are Mr. and Mrs. Pete Green and sons.

Mrs. Wilson Wins Long Distance Call

Mrs. Wayne Wilson won the phone call to her home at Thursday's meeting of the International club. Five new members were welcomed into the club when they met at the Service Club.

Refreshments of English strawberry tarts were served to approximately 20 attending. Husbands will be guest at the next meeting, April 29.

For Cool Comfort By BRIGANCEFrom Spadea's
American Designer
Series

Brigance designs summer comfort into every line of this pretty model, insuring mint coolness with no sleeves and a double dipped neckline, treating the skirt to a full sweep of unpressed pleats that make no demands in the figure control department.

Other than gathered softness below the yoke and a flavoring of top-stitched trim, the fitted bodice is perfectly simple. Optional short sleeves are included in the easy-to-make pattern.

In novelty cottons, shantung, plain or printed silks, it sends you out looking your very best; come fall, in faille, taffeta or peau de soie, it is sure to be a sleeveless success for the cocktail-dinner hour.

MR. and MRS. ELBERT MANN and MARIANN are expected home today from Dallas after spending the weekend with MR. and MRS. DAVID DIBRELL and Jo Darla. Marilyn had been in Dallas since Thursday night for a visit with her sister and her family.

MRS. NATHAN ALLEN SR. has been informed of the accident in which her son, Nathan J. Allen Jr., suffered a broken leg while working cattle last Friday. He was attempting to rope a cow when his horse fell with him. His wife and son were with him at the time and took him to nearby Clayton, N.M., for treatment. He is doing well but will be confined to his ranch home for several weeks.

When MRS. JAMES OWENS and MRS. WESLEY DEATS entertained for the Downtown Lions Auxiliary recently they brought summer right into the house with their table decor. They used a pale pink damask cloth on the table and at one end placed an arrangement of pink and white carnations.

I don't know about all of the girls in Stanton High School, but if the members of the student council are any criteria of the other girls, Stanton must be blessed with some of the prettiest girls in this part of Texas. . . and not only are they attractive but they are an all-out charming group including the young men who are also members of the council.

Basketball Teams Honored By P-TA

WESTBROOK (SC)—Basketball teams, their coaches and managers were honored by the Westbrook P-TA with a banquet Saturday in the school cafeteria.

Toastmaster for the affair was Jessie Watson, who introduced Mrs. Edward Blakney, P-TA president to welcome the groups. Prayer was offered by Raye Conway.

Larry Raschke spoke the appreciation of the teams and Ronnie Forbes gave an account of the boys' record. A gift was presented to Jerry Cunningham, boys' coach, by Marnell Contreras. The coach introduced the team members. The record of the girls' team was given by their manager, Helen Brown. Coach Parsons was given a gift by Loretta Whitehead from the girls' team.

Speaker for the occasion was Sam Christy of Colorado City. Benediction was pronounced by Laverne Sullivan.

Trophies won by the teams formed the decor of the head table with the school colors of blue and white carried out in floral arrangements of blue-bonnets. Blue candles and basketball pennants furthered the decoration. Favors were miniature gold colored basketballs.

Forty-eight attended the affair.

Miss Cauble Is Bride Of William A. Tindol

The chapel of First Methodist Church was the setting for the exchange of wedding vows between Judith Ann Cauble and William A. Tindol Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Cauble, 209 W. 14th, are parents of the bride; the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Tindol of Coahoma.

An arch of white tapers in candelabra with a large basket of fern and white gladioli formed a background as the Rev. DeWitt Seago, pastor of the church, heard the double ring vows.

Mrs. Jimmy A. Cribbs, organist, played the nuptial music and accompanied Mrs. Carl Bradley who sang "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer".

The bride's father escorted her to the altar and gave her in marriage. She was attired in white Chantilly lace over white taffeta, made along princess lines. Waltz-length, the full skirt joined a fitted bodice which featured a sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves.

A fingertip veil of illusion floated from a crown of lace encrusted with seed pearls and rhinestones, and the bride carried a white Bible topped with gardenias tied with ribbon streamers.

To follow bridal tradition, she carried a handkerchief, which is owned by her grandmother, Mrs. Eugene Thomas; a new article was the pair of pearl earrings, a gift from the bridegroom. The wedding dress had been borrowed from Mrs. Ray Young of Hobbs, N.M., and the bride wore a blue friendship garter, which had been worn by several of her friends in their weddings.

Mrs. Ronald White, matron of honor, chose an ensemble of peacock blue; her dress of crystal-line, worn over taffeta, was off-shoulder and full-skirted. Her gloves, hat and slippers matched the shade of the dress.

Wearing frocks identical to that of Mrs. White were Terry Jane Cauble, sister of the bride, and Jan Anderson, their cousin, who were candlelighters.

Douglas Warren attended the bridegroom as best man; ushers were Larry Young of Midland and Arlon DeVaney of Coahoma.

Mrs. Warren registered guests as they gathered in the fellowship hall of the church for a reception honoring the couple, assisted in receiving by their mothers and Mrs. White.

White net with a ruffled skirt covered the bride's table with a satin underlay; white blossoms and silver leaves made the centerpiece with white tapers in silver holders.

A three-tiered cake was based in a net ruffle and enhanced with confection roses; a small bridal couple was atop the cake. Members of the house party included Catherine Greenlee, Mrs. Donnie Smith, Mrs. Don Anderson, Mrs. Dan Greenwood and Mrs. Louis Carothers.

Mrs. William A. Tindol

Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Terry of Graham; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Davenport and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Young, all of Midland; Mrs. W. R. Menden of Abilene; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Williamson of Snyder. Several attended from Coahoma.

For a trip to an undisclosed destination, the bride wore a suit of yellow with bone accessories; her corsage was a gardenia from her bridal bouquet.

The couple will make a home in Big Spring, where the bridegroom is a teacher in Goliad Junior High School; he is a graduate of Coahoma High School and Sul Ross College, Alpine.

Former AF Man Makes Home Here

After living in Panama, Florida; Kingston, N. C., and San Angelo while in the Air Force, Jim Burt and his family finally have decided to settle down in Big Spring. Mr. and Mrs. Burt and their two children, Dawn, five, and Scott, three, moved to Big Spring from Sweetwater where the couple lived since 1953, the year Burt retired from the Air Force.

Originally, the Burts are from Snyder where both attended high school. They married shortly after Burt returned from overseas duty. During the war Burt, a tail gunner on a B-26, was captured by the Germans and spent eight months traveling from one stalag camp to another. He had enlisted during his freshman year at Texas A&M.

Before the arrival of Dawn, born in Snyder, and Scott, born in Sweetwater, Mrs. Burt worked as a secretary and was employed with Civil Service for several years.

In Sweetwater Mrs. Burt belonged to several bridge clubs and she hopes to find some bridge partners in Big Spring. The family belongs to the Baptist Church in Sweetwater and plans to attend one of the local Baptist churches.

Since his retirement as warrant officer from the Air Force, Burt has been employed as a salesman. He currently is a salesman for the Ben E. Keith Company. Like his wife, Burt also enjoys playing bridge, but his main interests are leather craft, golf, hunting and fishing.

In fact, Burt's hobby of leather craft practically turns into a full-time business around Christmas. Many friends and relatives put in requests for him to make belts and women's bags for Christmas gifts.

Burt moved to Big Spring six weeks ago, and his wife and children joined him two weeks ago. They hope to make Big Spring their home for at least two years. Mrs. Burt says she enjoyed Orlando, Fla., more than any other place she and her husband lived during his career in the Air Force, but Texas is home.

The family now lives at 1507 Kentucky Way.

BUTTERED TURNIPS
1 pound yellow turnip (rutabaga)
2 cups boiling water
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter

Nutmeg
Pare turnip; use a swivel-blade vegetable peeler if available. Cut into 1/2-inch round slices; dice into 1/2-inch pieces; there should be 1 quart.

Add to boiling water and salt; boil, covered, until tender-firm—15 to 20 minutes.

Lamesa Girl To Wed In Virginia

LAMESA (SC)—Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Campbell of Lamesa announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Betty, to the Rev. Walter A. Whitehurst, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Whitehurst of Princess Anne, Va.

Miss Campbell is a graduate of Lamesa High School and McMurry College, Abilene, where she received the BA degree. She has served three years as a Methodist missionary in Cuba.

The Rev. Whitehurst is a graduate of Randolph Macon College in Ashland, Va., where he received a BA degree. He also served the Methodist Church as a missionary to Chile. He will graduate June 5 from the Divinity School of Duke University, Durham, N. C. The couple will marry in Charity Methodist Church in Back Bay, Va., on June 16. They will reside in Virginia where he will serve as a Methodist minister.

At Least 10 Years

Westbrook P-TA Picks Officers; Has Guest

WESTBROOK (SC)—New officers for the P-TA were elected recently in the school cafeteria. Serving as president next term will be Ralph Bryant, sixth grade teacher. Elected to serve with him was Mrs. Clyde Chambers, vice president. Mrs. Charley Parrish, secretary, and Mrs. Herman Parsons, who was re-elected treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. Gay Moore have received word that their son, Gay Leonard, has been transferred from Ft. Leonard Wood to Ft. Lewis, Wash. He has completed a combat engineer course at Fort Leonard Wood and will be stationed at Fort Lewis for the next two years. Moore received basic training at Fort Hood before going to Missouri. He arrived in Washington on April 13.

Expected guests of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney M. Jones are Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Mariens and daughter, Pauline, of Preport; Mrs. Amanda Mariens of Tomball; Mrs. Bessie A. Shelton of Big Spring and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Roberts of Kermit.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Anderson Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Perry Anderson and children of Odessa and Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Pelton and daughters of Compton.

Mrs. D. B. Humphreys is in Dallas this week for medical treatment.

Mrs. Willie Byrd and Mrs. Gay Moore have been dismissed from Root Memorial Hospital in Colorado City.

Mrs. Spang McKenney is in Altus, Okla., with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Greene. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Golden have moved to Colorado City.

Mr. and Mrs. Bus Gressett entertained members of the JOY Class of the Westbrook Baptist Church with a social Monday night.

It was reported two class projects had been completed. The class had donated one dozen crystal plates to the church and a gift of a silk quilt to a sick member of the church. It was voted as a project for the next month to buy some wool thread for a blind person at Colorado City for hobby-craft.

Group singing was enjoyed with P. E. Clawson leading and Hoyt Roberts accompanying on the violin. Refreshments were served.

Gardeners Hold A Plant Exchange

A plant exchange was held by members of the Planters Garden Club Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. R. L. Collins, and members discussed plans for the 1961-62 yearbook.

Announcement was made of the installation of officers, slated for May 10 at 1:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. R. O. Carothers, 1405 Stadium.

Following the session, a tour of the Collins rose and iris garden was made by the group of eight.

Park Methodist Is Monthly Party Host

The monthly party of the Methodist WSCS was given by the Park Methodist WSCS Friday at the Westside Recreation Center.

A puppet show was presented by Mrs. W. B. Grant's primary group, and a skit was put on by members of Cub Scout Den 6, Pack 14. In the skit were Ray Lynn Wright, Stanley Thornton and Larry Bruns.

Velma Cozart and Peggy Grant sang several songs and played various pieces on the piano. Seventy-five were present.

Pink Is Suggested As Adaptable In Decorating

Color is important in everyday life — and especially in your home where you spend so much time; working in a colorful, pleasant atmosphere can make housework much more interesting.

A favorite color of many, and one that is most adaptable to the home, is pink. Extremely popular this spring, pink can be found in nearly every store window, in shades ranging all the way from the deep, vibrant melon to the subdued almost-white tone.

With a little imagination and planning, the modern homemaker will find limitless possibilities for decorating with the pink appliances, since pink is a most versatile color with which to work and can be used to create any mood from the dramatic to the soothing and restful.

blue-green, pink provides a cool, restful appearance; moss green is another good choice for a restful atmosphere.

The sophisticated homemaker might choose a Dresden blue, charcoal, and white. Varying shades of brown teamed with natural wood cabinets provide still another color combination for pink.

Of course, there are only the basic colors for use on floors, cabinets, curtains and walls.

Seasonless Frock By ALAN GRAHAM

NS-346

From Spadea's International Designer Series

Alan Graham sets the fashion tempo for summer with a design to keep you coolly ruffled with a fresh-as-paint look. Minus sleeves and collar, its plan is almost total simplicity, with a streak of horizontal buttoning down one side for step-in convenience.

With seasonless good looks, this versatile dress can be made for warm weather wear in linen, novelty cottons, shantung, pongee, or plain or printed light silks, and for later seasons in wool jersey or knits, sheer wool, silk or rayon crepe.

From these corresponding body measurements select the one size best for you.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips	Length*

Miss Adkins Feted At Bridal Shower

STANTON (SC)—La Rue Adkins, bride-elect of Kenneth Yates, was the honoree at a miscellaneous shower Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. H. S. Blocker.

Hostesses were Mrs. S. E. Boyce, Mrs. H. S. Blocker, Mrs. Elmer Long, Mrs. P. M. Bristow, Mrs. O. R. Glenn, Mrs. O. H. Badgett, Mrs. Floyd McArthur, Mrs. J. C. Sale, Mrs. C. D. Robinson, Mrs. Jake Hodges, Mrs. Marvin George, and Mrs. Gene Clements.

In the house party were Marilyn Sale, Marsha Bristow, Brenda George, Mona Epley, and Cheryl McArthur.

Mrs. Lois Badgett, sister of the honoree served at the guest register. The appointments were white and lavender, chosen colors of the bride-elect.

Frosting Tip

When you want to cover the top and sides of an 8-inch square cake with confectioners' sugar frosting, you'll need to use 1½ cups of the sugar with 2 tablespoons of butter and margarine and about 1½ tablespoons of cream, milk or fruit juice. Add a tiny amount of the liquid at a time so you'll have just the right consistency for spreading.

Career Info Week Begins Here Monday

Career Information Week, a time during which students and their parents can hear lectures about work areas of interest to the students, begins at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Goliad Junior High School.

Students in the final three grades of high school have been given the results of their achievement tests, a copy of high school courses, college entrance requirements, and the results of an interest inventory. Eight panels will try to give both parent and pupil a better idea of the work in the area of the student's interest.

URGED TO ATTEND

Students and parents should feel free to attend any and as many lectures as they desire. Lectures begin at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights in the gymnasium and cafeteria at Goliad Junior High.

Speakers will discuss the usual duties of each job, characteristics of the work, qualifications necessary, employment prospects, advancement opportunities and possible locations of work.

The program was set up with the help of the A&M Club, the school and interested citizens.

MONDAY

Occupations to be discussed and lecturers for the Monday night program in the gymnasium are Billy Dunn, veterinarian; W. S. Goodlett, soil conservation; Jimmy Taylor, County agent; Bruce Frazer, agriculture education; Maj. Curtis Utterback, military; Jim Bill Little, construction; and Jack Buchanan, farmer-rancher. Ralph Hughes will be moderator.

TUESDAY

Discussions in the cafeteria will be by Mrs. Jo Ann Forrest, TV-Radio announcing; A. J. Prager, salesman; Hayes Stripling Jr., clerk; A. K. Steinheimer, government - politician; Dr. P. D. O'Brien, minister; Johnny Johnson, insurance; and R. H. Weaver, lawyer. Mrs. J. B. Apple will be moderator.

Tuesday night discussions in the gymnasium are by Bessie Love, nurse; Rev. Royce Womack, minister; Joe Leach, YMCA leader; Frank Jackson, teacher-counselor; Bo Bowen, social worker; and Bill Crocker, personnel work. Fred Hoffman will be moderator.

Ed Edwards will be moderator for mechanical occupation discussions to be held in the cafeteria Tuesday. Panel members will be announced later.

WEDNESDAY

Wednesday night's panel in the gymnasium will be Jerry Jenkins, chemical engineer; Bert Andries, electrical engineer; Louis Thompson, consulting engineer; Dewie Stevenson, mathematics; Dr. Louise Worthy, pediatrician; and Mrs. Nancy Annen, dietician. James Tidwell will be moderator.

The panel in the cafeteria will consist of George Thorburn, certified public accountant; Mrs. Betty Rains, bank teller; Mrs. James Tidwell, secretary; Warren "Bud" Farrow, sale and file clerk; Mrs. Sarah Guthrie, traffic management; and Don Newsom, bookkeeping. Carlton Chapman will be moderator.

THURSDAY

Mrs. Florene Watson will be moderator of the panel in the gymnasium Thursday night. Speakers will be Redford Forrest, actor; Robert W. Whippley, editor; Bob Smith, critic; Mrs. Pat Highley, writer's club; Paul Vagt, librarian; and Mrs. Jessie Thomas, author.

Forsan Officials To Take Office

FORSAN — Forsan's new city family, elected some weeks ago, will be formally sworn into office and hold their official meeting on Tuesday night.

C. J. Lamb, mayor, said that the meeting would be at 7:30 p.m. in the Forsan school.

At the initial meeting, a representative of Pritchard & Abbott, tax engineers, will be on hand to advise with the new council on tax matters.

Forsan was recently incorporated.

Spence To Speak To River Panel

E. V. Spence, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, will be on the program of the River Authorities Panel of the Texas Water Conservation Association this week.

The meeting is set for Tuesday in San Marcos and will include a discussion of legislation, status of basin planning, and pollution. Spence will deal with the latter subject. The panel is an organization composed of all the river authorities and districts in the state.

Oil Units Push CRMWD Sales Up

Increased demands from repressuring units have accounted for greater revenue to the Colorado River Municipal Water District.

The gain is so substantial that it overcame a double-month report during the period last year when Big Spring payments for December as well as January were included in January totals. Total revenues for the three months amounted to $461,866 as compared with $448,243 for the same period last year.

Water revenues from the member cities aggregated $326,627, only under the $339,774 which showed the double-month report last year. On the other hand, sales to oil companies for repressuring reached $107,933 for the first quarter as against $79,733. Recreational revenues for the first three months of this year stood at $27,094 as against $28,144 for a year ago.

During March, revenues from sale of water to the member cities showed $80,522 to Odessa, $29,706 to Big Spring, $7,421 to Snyder, and $1,364 to rural users, a total of $118,013. Sale to oil companies for repressuring amounted to $29,734 for the month. Recreational revenues were $2,041.

Total operational costs for March were $43,469, making $148,322 for the first quarter, up from the $133,644 for the same period of a year ago.

Excess of revenues over expenditures for March was $96,320, making $318,544 for the first quarter. Of this $122,577 was transferred to bond retirement and other indebted funds.

During March, water deliveries were pegged at $15,607,000 gallons, making 1,647,100,000 gallons for the three months.

Says Majority Opinion Not Followed

To the Editor:

The writer has been some what disturbed over recent development in our city that smack of dictatorial policies instead of democratic principles. I am referring to the one way traffic condition that is causing so much unfavorable comment.

The traffic commission recommended a plan which they honestly believed would be an improvement. According to the majority of people this has not been satisfactory and does not meet with the approval of the majority of the tax payers, especially the merchants in the areas affected. In the face of this, the powers that be, apparently refuse to admit their mistake on this "trial basis" and seem to be trying to force compliance to an objectionable plan.

Then when a city official will refer to a business operator as "boisterous" because of an opinion expressed in a public meeting, he might do well to remember his salary is paid by tax payers and enough adverse public opinion could get his job.

It seems to me dangerous when a few men can force their will on a majority that is in disagreement.

Four Door Cars Most Popular

So you're considering a new car? What model is it most likely to be?

Based on the record of purchases last year, four out of 10 will take a 4-door sedan. The percentage was 41 per cent of the total market, compared with 38 in 1955. Last year 17 per cent took 2-door sedans, down from 21 per cent five years ago. The hard top market accounted for 22 per cent, down from 27 per cent in 1955.

On the other hand, the convertible market climbed to five per cent as against three per cent, and the station wagon market jumped up to 15 per cent, a five per cent gain over 1955.

★ Use Your Credit Wisely! ★ It Is Your Servant —
If You Don't Abuse It!

Preserving a good credit record is not only a matter of convenience, but of personal prestige.

The files of the Credit Bureau show how you pay your bills. This record is available not only to the members of the Credit Bureau in your own community, but to the members of more than 2,000 other Credit Bureaus throughout the United States and Canada.

The Credit Bureau does not make your credit record. It merely keeps the record. If you buy more than you can afford — and don't pay promptly — these facts will be available to those from whom you may want to obtain further credit.

Your Credit Record is an open book — written by yourself in the way you meet your obligations. The only way to maintain it is by paying every bill on the date it is due.

The following members of the Big Spring Merchants Association have sponsored this message so that the people of Big Spring may understand the advantages of credit, how it is granted and the dangers of its misuse through buying beyond a person's ability to pay — and pay promptly.

Shirley Regards Oscar Nomination As Stepping Stone To More Opportunity

By J. P. ALPERT

How does it feel to be nominated for an Academy Award when you're only 23 years old, when you've made only three films, when you're an unknown? Shirley, slender Shirley Knight, who was nominated for best supporting actress in "The Dark at the Top of the Stairs," admits it's a pretty wonderful feeling. But when she told me how pleased she was, Shirley didn't look at all starry-eyed or sentimental about the honor. With a direct and unemotional gaze, she told me that the nomination's greatest significance for her was that it meant she would be offered a greater variety of roles, not just ingenue parts.

After talking with Shirley for about two minutes I was very much aware that this was a no-nonsense type of actress. Hard work at her career is what interests her most in life. She feels she's not very interesting to interview because all she wants to talk about is her career, acting in general, the theatre, culture in America. "Not a single dramatic thing has ever happened in my personal life," said Shirley, "except maybe my husband."

Her husband is Gene Persson, a TV writer-producer. They were married in 1959. He was seated with us when I talked to Shirley and I wondered if he felt her successful career was in any way a threat to their marriage. He not only feels that it isn't but hopes that their life together has been a boon to Shirley. They were married after Shirley had been in Hollywood only three months, before she had a chance to prove herself at all. "I like to feel I was good for her," he said modestly.

When Shirley was a teen-ager in Kansas and wanted to be an actress, she had no place to express herself, no place to learn her craft. With no dramatic school to attend in Kansas, no great teacher to learn from, Shirley became a "self-made" actress. She began her training by reading. "I read all the Shakespearean plays," she told me, "and didn't understand one thing in them, so I read them all again and again."

There are still parts of Shakespeare's plays I'm reading and trying to understand. She next read Stanislawski. Her reading then led her to modern American playwrights, modern French plays, Greek tragedy and such a wide range of drama that she can now talk with authority about little-known plays by Strindberg that have never been produced.

But more remarkable than her voracious reading is the system Shirley devised by herself for developing a part. As she explained it, "I always start out very technically with the character in the play. I write a complete biography of that person from the time she was born to the time she exists in the play. I write down details like the grades she had in school, the friends she had, why she's shy, what time she gets up in the morning, when she goes to bed at night."

"I do the biography as a chart with the person's name, family, the town she was born in, her physical characteristics. Then I write down all her emotional being and all her psychological being. Then I start to work on the script. I figure out what the girl feels at each moment in each scene. I get this set in my mind and make her feelings such a part of me that they are natural and I can forget about them. That's what I start acting and let instinct or talent or whatever you call it take over."

For her newest Warner Bros. film, "The Couch," Shirley told me that her co-star, Grant Williams, went to a psychoanalyst to get some advice about the part he was playing. Shirley was amazed to learn that the analyst gave Grant a chart to fill out, a chart just like the one Shirley had thought up by herself.

Shirley Knight is intelligent as well as pretty, serious as well as glamorous and although she's got the raw material to give Sandra Dee and Tuesday Weld some stiff competition, she'd rather be praised for her talent than her prettiness. Obviously, she's getting her own way.

Get Interested In Some Others

By JOAN KETCHUM

One of the most miserable experiences in the world is to have your steady break up with you. There you were, happily going along caring about someone you thought cared just as much about you, and then—wham, it's all over.

Many of you write to UNDER TWENTY and ask what you can do about it. And those who do write inevitably say, "Don't tell me to forget about him (or her). I can't." Unfortunately there's no magic formula for winning back someone who's decided to explore new territory. But perhaps the best way to stir up interest again in the person who gave you your walking papers is to get over your feeling of dependence on that person. Exasperating as it may seem, the one who wants out may start to miss you when you no longer seem to care.

But winning a deserter back shouldn't be your attitude once you've been jilted. What you've got to do is face that thing you dread the most—forgetting about your former steady. It's true you can't forget that person ever existed, but you can get over your emotional tie.

The trick is to keep yourself busy with activities that involve other young people. Sports, clubs, dances, parties all help to divert you. And don't turn down any dates or opportunities to meet new people. At first you may not really enjoy yourself when you're out with others. It may be an effort to pretend you're at all interested in anyone but that certain someone, but you'll suddenly find yourself engrossed in someone or something new.

Whatever you do, don't give in to self-pity. It's very easy for a jilted boy or girl to wallow in misery. But if one person rejects you it doesn't mean you're hopelessly unlovable. What it really means is that you and that certain person weren't really right for each other. After you've had one good cry, your move is to start looking for someone who is right for you. Brooding or whining or hoping in a desperate cause aren't ways to go about it.

College Groups Plan For Several Junkets

By JUDY SHIELDS
Doug Davis, Carol Galbraith, and Carolyn Sewell, accompanied by Mr. Rudolph Brewster, sponsor, left Saturday morning for the national Phi Theta Kappa convention in Sheridan, Wyo. Going up by way of Daltown, Raton, New Mexico, Colorado Springs, Denver, and Loveland, Colo., they were to spend the first night in Colorado Springs, and all day today sight seeing at Pike's Peak, the Air Force Academy, and the Rocky Mountain National Park. Monday they will go to Casper, Wyo., and then arrive in Sheridan Tuesday morning for the first meeting. While there they will enjoy a chuck wagon meal, visiting a dude ranch, and seeing the battle ground in Montana where Custer made his last stand. They will leave for Big Spring Friday, and arrive here Saturday.

Another trip taking place this month is the Rocca Rocca Hamma members going on an all-day field trip to Palo Duro Canyon. They also plan to visit West Texas State College at Canyon. Other trips include the same group visiting the Arbuckle Mountains in Oklahoma, May 5, 6, and 7, and the Chemistry and Physics students going to Odessa to a science meeting on May 6.

Sign up now in the library for Cheerleader tryouts to be held in the Sub May 12. Two sophomores will be elected for next year. Only returning students may try out. Deadline for signing up is May 6.

On April 30 there will be a practice tennis meet in Midland with the doubles teams. Mary Griffin and Betty Ellison are the number one doubles for Howard County, and Patsy Greenfield and Joan Woodbury are the number two doubles. The teams are trying to get warmed up for their last conference match which is with Amarillo, May 6, in the City Park at 1 p.m.

The Jayhawk Queens completed their volleyball schedule April 20 with South Plains. Congratulations girls for a fine season. Two sophomores, Joan Woodbury and Dorothy Williams, played their final game for Howard County Junior College. Preceding the game were badminton matches between the two teams. Hermelinda Lopez won a well-played singles match; then teamed up with Sue Lindsey for a victory in the doubles match.

The Spring Formal, an annual presentation of the Freshman Class in honor of the Sophomores, will be held May 5. The theme is "A Fantasy in Flowers," with The Classics of Odessa providing the music from 8 p.m. to 12. Sponsors for the occasion are Mr. Ken Sewall and Mrs. Elizabeth Martin. Make your plans now to attend.

Finals are drawing near, Hawks!

Runnels Slates Spelling Bee

By JUDY ENGLE

Can you spell obsequious, incomprehensible, ostracize? Questions like this have been heard through the halls as students prepare for the contest that marks Spelling Week at Runnels. It will begin Monday and continue through Friday.

Room contests, which are oral spell-downs, will be held Monday, and the winners will prepare for the semi-finals on Wednesday. The finals are to be held Thursday.

A spelling contest will be featured in The Round-Up, which will be on sale Tuesday. Prizes of a silver dollar will be awarded to the winners from the seventh grade, the eighth grade and the ninth grade. Be sure and buy a copy of the paper and enter the contest.

Last week was National Library Week. Each day at Runnels a book review was given by a member of the library staff. This went over well with the students.

GRID SCRIMMAGE

Beginning at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, Runnels will have a post-season spring training scrimmage against Runnels. The game will be a continuous affair with all three teams of each school playing.

Sue Cook, Pat Tubbs, and Mrs. Florence Lenox, homecoming queen, will leave for Dallas Thursday for the State FFA meeting. Sue and Pat will represent the Runnels chapter, and they were chosen on the basis of good grades and the number of activity points they accumulated. They will return Saturday.

Blue Moon Clings To Top Spot In Record Popularity

By JEANNE HARRISON

With the exception of the number one spot, there were scores of top-spy changes in the top ten hit records last week. The Marceles were still suspended at the top with "Blue Moon" but were being pursued closely by a newcomer, "Mother-in-Law" with Ernie K-Doe.

Running wild was "Runaway" by Del Shannon, which moved solidly from fifth to third. Gene McDaniels' "100 Pounds of Clay" came from nowhere and settled comfortably in the fifth spot, just behind Clarence Henry's hit, "I Don't Know Why, But I Do." Here's the lineup for last week.

1. "Blue Moon," Marceles
2. "Mother-in-Law," Ernie K-Doe
3. "Runaway," Del Shannon
4. "I Don't Know Why, But I Do," Clarence Henry
5. "100 Pounds of Clay," Gene McDaniels
6. "On the Rebound," Floyd Cramer
7. "Apache," Jorgen Ingmann

8. "Think Twice," Brook Benton
9. "Surrender," Elvis Presley
10. "I've Told Every Little Star," Linda Scott

People in the music trade say that Connie Francis could sell a piece of cloth and it would sell a million copies. This may be an exaggeration, but the little girl with the lit has cut a new single which should do a lot of spinning under Twenty players. Her "Breakin' In A Brand New Broken Heart" is a torch-voiced country ballad with a fine reading. The flip, "Someone Else's Boy" is a more traditional rockin' companion piece.

Tips On How To Get Dates

It's great to know exactly how to behave on a date, but maybe you have never had a chance to prove it. There are lots of teens who are ready, willing and able to be charming with the opposite sex, but they just don't know how to get someone to go out with them. If you're one of these, this message is for you.

Your first move is to be at a scene of action, some place where boys and girls are bound to be. The local drug store or soda fountain is a good spot to drop in with a friend.

A girl can use a lot of gimmicks to get herself noticed. She can be a little different, wear her hair long and straight when the other girls wear theirs short and curly, or she can be the only girl in her crowd who doesn't wear lipstick. But the best asset for either a boy or girl to be attractive are a smile and a friendly face. And you don't need a formal introduction to say hello to someone you've seen before in school, with friends, or at any gathering for young people.

Sylvia's Slick, Not Invincible

By BOBBIE CARROLL

DEAR DIARY: Guess who was the most popular girl at the party tonight? Sylvia, of course. It's getting to be an old story now. Sylvia is the most popular girl at every party she goes to. I am seldom the most popular girl at any party.

But don't start feeling sorry for me because I don't feel sorry for myself. When I go somewhere I don't go with the attitude that I've got to be the most or I won't have a good time. And I don't get jealous of Sylvia. I notice all the boys falling all over themselves to be near her, but I ignore them. Tonight I started talking to Vic, who was sitting all by himself and looking kind of shy. I just acted as if he were the only boy in the whole place and I think that made him feel pretty good because he wants to take me out.

But some of the other girls acted so silly. I could only feel sorry for them. Take Hannah. She decided she wanted to jure some of the boys away from Sylvia and thought the way to do it was to be very sophisticated. She played up to a couple of the boys around Sylvia as if she were Cleopatra, making remarks as if she were really hot stuff and keeping her skirt a little above her knees. The boys practically ran away from her the whole rest of the evening.

And then there were four girls around the couch who looked so bored up because they weren't having a good time. Who would have wanted to go near them? They looked as if they'd bite someone's head off.

I'm not trying to say I think I'm the smartest girl in our whole crowd. All I'm saying is that I'm the only girl besides Sylvia who had a good time at the party. And the only reason I had a good time was because I didn't get jealous. I don't think I'll ever be the most popular girl at anything but at least I won't let that make me the most miserable girl either.

(Copyright Columbia Features, Inc.)

Check Your Congeniality

Is an evening with you a dream come true? Or is it just a drag? Here's the most painless way we know of to rate yourself as a date and learn where, if anywhere, there might be room for improvement. Answer yes or no honestly to the following questions and then see how you score.

1. Do you have the evening planned before you pick your girl up—even if the plan is as simple as a walk and talk?
2. Are you no more than 15 minutes late in calling for your girl unless you phoned and gave her a good reason why?
3. Do you spend the whole evening with nothing more to say than yes or no in answer to her questions?
4. Do you really listen to what your girl has to say?
5. Do you use just a little bit of flattery with your date—commenting on what she's wearing or how she looks or what you like about her?
6. Do you coax her to try daring things she has good reason to be afraid of?
7. Do you keep her out later than her parents want her home?
8. Do you really enjoy yourself on a date?

Score one point for answering yes to questions 1, 2, 4, 5 and 8; one point for answering no to 3, 6 and 7. If your total score is 8 points, a girl wouldn't be human if she turned you down for a second date. If you missed on one or two of the questions, you've got a couple of rough spots that need ironing out. If your total score is 5 or less, better study the questions you missed out on and make up your mind to do something about them before you subject another female to an evening with you.

- Girls:
1. Are you all set to leave the house within five minutes after your date arrives to pick you up?
 2. Do you tell him about all the other boys you're crazy about?
 3. Do you make fun of the things he's really interested in?
 4. Would you win his vote as the most sarcastic girl he's ever dated?
 5. Do you think that your popularity depends upon a big necking session?
 6. Is your evening ruined if your hair gets messed up?
 7. Do you say catty things about other girls?
 8. Are you a good sport—when he's low on cash or when he wants to take you to some ball game you're not wild about?
 9. Do you try to pin him down about when he's going to take you out again?

You Can't Have Friendship And Your Friend's Best Girl

By BESSIE LITTLE

DEAR BESSIE: My best friend has been going steady with a girl in our school for about a year. Now I like the same girl and she seems to like me. How can I tell him that I have moved into the picture without hurting his feelings and losing a good friend?

—BOB
DEAR BOB: You can't. No matter how you approach your best friend you will hurt his feelings or lose his friendship—or both. If your liking for this girl is not a "life and death" matter, which it probably isn't, go find yourself another girl. Don't be a claim jumper when there must be scores of nice kids around your school.

DEAR BESSIE: A boy has liked me off and on for a long time. He goes with me, then he comes back to me. This has been going on for two years. I want to know if he really likes me or is just using me for a string-along. Please help me.—JODY

DEAR JODY: Like a lot of boys, this one probably just isn't ready to settle down to a one and only. You are the only person who can decide if you are being used as a spare tire, or whether he just happens to date you off and on. He obviously likes you and enjoys your company or he wouldn't ask you out. If you are certain you are not being used, take the dates with him as they come, and date others as well. If you doubt his motives, say a firm "No, thank you" and devote your attentions elsewhere.

DEAR BESSIE: I'm 17 and like a boy who is twenty. The first time we went out we went to a drive-in movie. He got mad because I wouldn't neck so I think I've lost him. I hardly ever see him anymore. How can I win him back?—JANIE

DEAR JANIE: The only thing you can do is tell the boy that wrestling in the car at a drive-in isn't your idea of a date. Matter of fact, the approach is pretty square and immature for a 20-year-old guy. You should tell him that you like him and his company but that his kinds of holds are barred. If he doesn't like those ground rules, you are better off if he turns from you for good. Lots of boys will give the necking routine a try, but the worthwhile ones don't run for the hills when their forward pass is blocked.

DEAR BESSIE: I have fallen for a boy and whenever I see him I just stop and look at him. He never says hello to me, but I know he likes me too. I'm scared I won't get him. Could you give me some advice on how to go around him?—CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: The only way to act around him is to act naturally. I know this is easier said than done when your heart moves up to block your tongue. We get more letters from Under Twenties on how to talk to a member of the opposite sex than we do on any other subject. Girls and boys who have no trouble talking for hours on end, become tongue-tied and awkward when face to face with their crush. This feeling is part fear and often part shame. There isn't anything to be afraid of and there certainly isn't anything to be ashamed of. Take a good deep swallow to put your heart back where it belongs and come up with a warm, friendly hello. He'll answer because he's probably just as anxious to break the ice as you are. Then, be prepared to carry the conversation for a bit about the school baseball team, the upcoming dance or any other subject that has meaning for both of you. After this first exchange you'll find the rest will come easy.

How To Be A BWOC

To be a Big Wheel on the campus, you need good looks, personal charm, a dazzling personality, shining good health, outstanding leadership qualities, some compassion and humility, and great gobs of intelligence. Reading The Herald regularly won't necessarily give you ALL of these, but it sure does help in a lot of ways. You're missing what's going on if you're not reading The Herald—and we mean all of it.

Seniors Name Committees To Plan For Round Of Graduation Events

By LYN CLAWSON

The seniors are beginning to realize how little time they have left at BSHS. They held a class meeting Wednesday afternoon to begin planning for graduation and to decide on a senior gift. President Rip Patterson appointed several committees. On the committee to plan for the seniors' free days are Judy Foster, chairman, Jerry Dunlap, Richard Atkins, Wanda Boatler, and Lida Fiveash.

The committee for the Senior Ring Dance consists of Cleo Thomas, chairman, Lezette Yearby, Ross Reagan, Lyn Clawson, Mike Worley and Alf Cobb. The following make up the graduation committee: Steve Blair, chairman, Wayne Griffith, Jill Mason, Barbara Statter, Mike Worley, Richard Atkins, Wanda Boatler, Lana Lewis, Jane Harrington, Kay Crowover, Anne Homan, Doyle Wadkins, Carolyn Thompson, Tommy Wilkinson, Charles Driver, Beverly Hooser, Cheryl Jones, Tom Roberts, Judy Foster, Lillian Burnett, Charlotte Nobles, Dee O'Brien, and Mary Locke, Crossland.

Several committees were appointed to plan the Senior Assembly. They are: music committee, Elena Patterson and Chip Taute; class history, Sharon Agee and Gary Pickle; class will, Jill Mason, Mike Worley and Tim Williams; class prop, Wayne Griffith, Steve Blair, Tommy Wilkinson and Jane Harrington.

LATIN BANQUET

Thursday night about 110 Latin students and alumni met in the high school cafeteria for the annual banquet. During the evening Mrs. Charles Weeg, the Latin teacher, presented several awards.

Among them seven awards to the first year students who maintained a 90 average throughout the year. Those students are: Brenda Cowper, Tommy Gentry, Cheryl Whitehead, Manning Stroupe, Camella Ryan, Jane Smedley and Jackie Hipp. Tommy Gentry received an extra award for being the highest ranking first year student.

To her second year students she gave an award to the second ranking student in each class and a medal to the highest. La Juana McPherson and Carla Smaula received the awards while Bud Combs and Red Schwarzenbach received the Eta Sigma Phi medals. These are given for excellence in classical languages. I would like to express the gratitude of the ex-Latin students to Mrs. Weeg and her classes for inviting us to the banquet.

LEAGUE MEET

Yesterday several BSHSers participated in interscholastic League events in Odessa. Lameta Carr entered poetry reading while Dick Meacham and Johnny Cone entered the boys' debate. Representing the journalism department were Lyn Clawson and Anne Homan. Participating in the track and field events were Kenny Kesterson and Gary Walker. The gold team composed of Johnny Sloan, Emmett Morgan, Jimmy Patterson, and Tommy Wilkerson entered the golf competition. The volleyball team also represented BSHS.

This is the last week to buy your Senior Magazine. The deadline is April 23. The magazine is a supplement to the yearbooks and will contain pictures of all the school activities since March 1. They cost only 50 cents and may be purchased from any journalism student.

Wednesday the candidates for cheerleader will try out before the entire student body. Those running for senior cheerleader for next year are Karen Koger, Pat Armstrong, Kathy Johnson, Diane Belda, Barbara Bahn and Judy Gillian. The sophomores running for next year are Karen Koger, Karen Foster, Karen Kee, Karen McGibbon, Judy Jones and Bonnie Belda.

PROM FUNDS

All sophomores and juniors who plan to take D. E. or D. O. next year should register with Mr. Lewis at the BSHS. Mr. George Rice in room 123 as soon as possible in order to be eligible for job openings which may occur during the summer.

Next Saturday the band will participate in the Interscholastic League Concert Contest in Odessa. The spring concert will be May 18 in the city auditorium. Gene Smith, band director from Ector High School in Odessa, will be the guest soloist.

Next Thursday the Spanish Club will have its annual banquet in the high school cafeteria. A boy and girl of second and third year Spanish will be presented the American Association of Teachers of Spanish bronze medal for excellence in Spanish by Miss Colleen Slaughter. Also Certificado de Merito will be given to all below: Opening prayer, Jimmy Jackson; solo, David Stevenson; Scripture reading, Skipper Neill and Nelson Clemon. When the Bible Club has its last meeting, members will also have a banquet. Next Thursday Student Council representatives for next year will be elected. Those running for senior representative are Marilyn Gum, Katherine Hepper, Dick Ebling, Jimmy Hinds, Skipper Driver, Mozelle Groeb, Judy Gillean, Kathy Johnson, and Linda Morton. Candidates for junior representative are Brenda Cowper and Freddie White. Five will be elected from each class. The deadline for petitions is noon tomorrow.

Captain Hailey Visits Rannels

Captain Robert Hailey, who was in Big Spring recently for a brief visit before going to Washington, D.C., for a briefing on a new assignment, visited in Rannels Junior High School April 13. He is to be district naval intelligence officer for the 15th district with headquarters at Balboa, Canal Zone.

Captain Hailey had a special interest in visiting Rannels because he completed his junior and senior high school work in the same building. He visited with several of his ex-teachers and took a tour of the building to see the improvements made in the building since he went to school there.

Before leaving he talked briefly and informally with several classes, telling the students some of his experiences and answering questions for them. He especially stressed the necessity of learning. "Education," he said, "is a continuing process." He emphasized that if the United States expects to keep up with changes in today's world, our students must study and search for

Twins Confuse Cross-Eyed Folks

When visitors on the set of "Cimarron" thought they were seeing double, it was understandable.

Eight pairs of twins worked in the film version of Edna Ferber's classic story of pioneer America. Five pairs appeared as twin children of Arthur O'Connell and Mercedes McCambridge. The other three alternated as the son of Glenn Ford and Maria Schell at the respective ages of three weeks, two years and five years.

Two of the Senior Girl Scout Troop attended the Senior Scout Conference at Odessa Saturday. They were Janis Morrison and Suzanne Jones. Senior scouts and their leaders from six West Texas Girl Scout Councils were at the meeting. The girls were accompanied by Mrs. H. P. Morrison.

Honor Society Assembly At Forsan Honors New Members

By BONNIE SIMPSON

A week ago we held a special assembly to name new members of the National Honor Society and to give out other special awards.

The new members are Cleta Newsum, Rodney Allison, Glenda Rutherford, Carla Hughes, H. K. Elrod and H. D. McElreath.

The Crisco award for the outstanding student in home economics was awarded to Lanell Overton, a sophomore. Omega Ratliff received the good citizenship award given by the Daughters of the American Revolution. Twelve students from the choir sang the "Halls of Ivy" and the choir sang "The Lord Bless You and Keep You." Afterwards, a coffee was given for the members of the honor society and the faculty. The sophomore homemaking class furnished and served the refreshments.

OPEN HOUSE

Open house was held Wednesday afternoon as part of FHA week in the home economics department for all high school students. The freshman homemaking class served the refreshments.

Family night will be held Monday at the school cafeteria starting at 7 p.m. and all FHA girls and their families are invited.

Friday during the homemaking classes, foris made flower arrangements and corsages to enter in the Study Club flower show. The girls always enter the show and usually make a pretty good showing.

Everyone from ninth grade to 90 years of age can participate in the Foris Softball League which is being organized. Several of the high school boys are planning to take part.

Wednesday the champions of the intermural volleyball tournament took on the faculty. After hard work and a lot of sweat, grunts and groans, the faculty came out on top with a score of 15-10.

RING IS CHOSEN

Tuesday morning a meeting of grades seven through 11 met in the gym and discussed standardizing the school ring. After a lot of debate, it was voted to be standardized; in addition the design, and colors were chosen. The rings are going to be pretty and we are all proud of the choice.

Week before last, the high school girls as well as junior high girls won district at the volleyball tournament in Sterling City. The high school team by beating Sterling in the first game and then going on to defeat Sands in the championship round. The junior high team defeated Water Valley and then Garden City.

Thursday at noon, 12 girls from the high school volleyball team left for the regional tournament held in Stephenville.

Wednesday the high school volleyball team worked out with Big Spring at the Big Spring gym.

Five track boys qualified at the District meet in San Angelo to go to the regional meet. They are Danny Henry, Kenneth Soles, Walter Fields, Gerry Harkrider and Dewey Howard. The regional meet was held in Stephenville yesterday.

Vocational Panels Due This Week

By NANCY HEDLESTON

Ninth grade students will do well to take advantage of the opportunity to attend the panel discussions for Vocational Career Information Week. These panel discussions will be given at Goliad on Monday through Thursday evenings.

The following subjects will be discussed: Outdoor occupations, persuasive occupations, social service, mechanical occupations, scientific, computational and clerical, literary occupations, and artistic and musical.

These are eight different fields and will give our students a better idea of the world of work and how they might fit in. Each panel will attempt to cover specific areas of interest in the broad fields. Panel members will talk about five minutes on his training, salary, benefits, high school background, etc. Then there will be a session where parents and students may ask questions. We sincerely hope that all of our ninth grade students will attend and anyone who is really interested.

The past week has been "National Library Week." The library staff has given all pupils in the school Goliad bookmarkers. They also have been selling calendars that fit into your billfold. The price of these have been 5 cents, and are obtainable from any library aide.

Next week officers for next year's student council will be elected. There will be a president and a secretary elected from the eighth grade, and a vice president and treasurer elected from the seventh grade. All students running for offices must not have made a grade below C. The Student Council also is giving a diner for the teachers on May 1.

Wednesday night the annual volleyball banquet will be held at Cosden Country Club. The State Future Homemakers of America meeting will be in Dallas April 27-28. The two girls attending from Goliad are Jane Harp and Pricilla Grizard. Both are high point girls in the FHA. Jane will sing in the state choir while Pricilla will represent Goliad as our voting delegate. The girls will leave Thursday morning with their sponsor, Mrs. Fern Alexander and will return Saturday night.

We had six new students to check into Goliad last week. They were C. A. Hines in the seventh; Ethel Bowers, Berdie Bowers, Tommy Hines, Judy Sullivan in the eighth; and Jo Sullivan, ninth.

Lions Schedule Mop, Broom Sale

STANTON (SC) - Member of the Stanton Lions Club will conduct their annual mop and broom sale Monday, April 24. During the day a truck filled with mops and brooms will be downtown and local Lions will be at the truck to sell brooms and mops all during the day.

Lions will conduct a house to house campaign, beginning at 5 p.m.

Proceeds from the sale will go to the Lions sight conservation project, for the blind and other projects.

They Kept It In The Family

How's this for "keeping it in the family"? When the first film version of Edna Ferber's "Cimarron" was made, with Richard Dix and Irene Dunne heading the cast, a six-month-old girl, named Edith Warrack, played Miss Dues's baby.

Twenty-nine years later, Edith Warrack (now Mrs. Siemon) stood on the sidelines on a movie set to watch her 10-year-old daughter, Linda, play a role in the current version of "Cimarron," starring Glenn Ford and Maria Schell.

Club Officer

Judith Reagan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Reagan, has been elected vice president of the Athenean Club, social club for women at Baylor University. Miss Reagan is a 1959 graduate of Big Spring High School.

Year-End Banquet Circuit In Full Swing For Stanton Pupils

By MARSHA BRISTOW
STANTON (SC) - This week has again been a busy one. Banquets, installations, and plays take the top places on the agenda.

Saturday night was the night of the annual Junior - Senior Banquet and it was held at the Sands Hotel in Midland. The central theme was "A Desert Evening." The colors were gold and brown. The tables were decorated with arrangements of gold flowers and tulle. The speaker, A. C. Atkins, Odessa, is well-known for his many civic achievements and as a story-teller. The Juniors and Seniors and their sponsors and special guests attended the banquet, and everyone was excited about it.

Thursday the Student Council banquet was held. This banquet was to honor the Student Council members and sponsors and this annual affair was held in Big Spring at Coker's Restaurant. Our speaker was Joe Pickle, editor of the Big Spring Herald. The Student Council appreciated Mr. Pickle's efforts to attend our banquet and speak to us. This event climaxed the Student Council's activities for this year.

Also, Monday night the FFA Banquet is to be held in the High School Cafeteria. This banquet is to honor and award the boys who have done outstanding work in the FFA Chapter this year. Brenda George, chapter sweet heart, will also attend.

Besides the social events that are taking place this week, the honor roll was also announced. The seniors making the honor roll were Arnold Fincher, Helen Glaspie, Sandra Powell, and Weems Williams. The Junior making the honor roll was Marsha Bristow, and the sophomores making the roll were Markus Hanna and Martha Johnson. The Freshman Class had the largest making the required grades to qualify for the honor roll. Making it were Ronny Driggers, George Foreman, Mary Glaspie, Frances Gossett, Linda Lawson, and Rodney Payne.

Wednesday during activity period, the Student Council installed its officers for next year. Weems Williams was the master of ceremonies. The service was opened by a prayer which was followed by a song by Mr. David Norvell, minister of music and education of the First Baptist Church. Mr. Jimmy Bickley, principal, spoke to the assembly on matters of conduct, apparel, and responsibilities. The officers installed were: President - Glenda Payne; vice president - Frances Graves; secretary - Mona Epley; and treasurer - Jim Sale.

Tuesday at the bi-monthly meeting of the FHA Chapter a film on cancer was shown by Mr. Bill Shaeffer. Also Mrs. L. B. Nelson spoke to the chapter about the coming cancer fund drive. The chapter will conduct the house-to-house Cancer Campaign next Tuesday night. The chapter members will serve the FFA Banquet next Monday night. The chapter is also making big plans for the State FHA meeting. There will be four representatives from our group making the trip. The two delegates are Mona Epley and Kay Bryan. Carolyn Manning, fifth vice president, and Marsha Bristow as a State Officer, will also attend. The meeting will be held in Dallas at the Baker Hotel. The group will be accompanied by Mrs. P. M. Bristow and Mr.

and Mrs. M. C. King and Carole Jean. The meeting will be held April 27-29.

Last Saturday a group of high school students went to Stanton to attend the District Interscholastic League Literary Events Contest. They placed as follows: Steve Springer, fourth in poetry reading; Elida Reyna, fifth in shorthand; Arvil Fischer and Linda Perry also entered the contests. The group was accompanied by Roger Haley, Mrs. Corrine Cape, and Mr. Jimmy Bickley, principal.

Friday will be a big day around Stanton. The band will be attending a clinic at Big Spring High School under the direction of Corbett Smith from Sul Ross State College. Also the regional track meet will be held in Lubbock Friday and Saturday. Those boys entering, after qualifying at the district meet, are Tommy Newman, Thadd Koonce, Jimmy Sale, and Ronnie Hartsell on the relay team; Tommy Newman, 100-yard and 220-yard dashes; Billy Graves will enter the mile and Herb Sorensen will enter the pole vault. Coach Larry Lewis will accompany the team to Lubbock.

Two of the Senior Girl Scout Troop attended the Senior Scout Conference at Odessa Saturday. They were Janis Morrison and Suzanne Jones. Senior scouts and their leaders from six West Texas Girl Scout Councils were at the meeting. The girls were accompanied by Mrs. H. P. Morrison.

Barrymore, Now In Cossack Film, Carries Noted Name

To a segment of the vast global movie audience it seems like only yesterday that such names as John Barrymore, Harold Lloyd, Lon Chaney, Charlie Chaplin and other great movie names were gracing the marquee around the world.

Today, a second generation wave of actors, direct descendants of those named above, are carrying on the proud theatrical names bestowed upon them. Among them is John Drew Barrymore, starred with Edmund Purdom in "The Cossacks," Thursday at the State Theatre.

"The Cossacks," filmed in color in Italy and on location in Yugoslavia, depicts the 10-year war waged by the legendary Cossack war lord, Shamil, against the hordes of the Russian Czar, Alexander II. The Vanguard Film presentation is released by Universal-International.

Young Barrymore is 27 years old, and it is expected that his tiny son, John Barrymore III, will continue the proud banner of the Royal Family both on Broadway and in films. To date, Barrymore Jr. has appeared in ten feature-films as well as many television series and several Broadway appearances.

The actor recently pointed out in an interview that when his father was alive he saw very little of him. Nor did he have ample opportunity to become well acquainted with his famous uncle, Lionel Barrymore.

"Aunt Ethel," Barrymore said, "was the closest to me. She spent as much time with me as possible. Her recent death was a great loss."

In addition to Edmund Purdom and Barrymore Jr., the film's large cast also includes George Moll, Pierre Brice, Elena Zareschi, Erno Grita, Grazia Maria Spina, Louis Seigner and Massimo Girotti, the latter as Alexander II, the Russian Czar.

The film's comedy continues through Tuesday.

Spacemen Called In Pioneer Mold

Today's pioneering astronauts may seem to have little in common with their forefathers who conquered the West, but you can't convince Glenn Ford of it.

"They're cut from the same mold," Ford declares. "They're today's pioneers, with the same spirit that characterized the settlers of a hundred years ago."

"Adventure always has been part and parcel of America and our way of life. In those early days there were always new worlds to conquer out West. Some of the adventures of that era would have made great astronauts had they been born in our time."

Ford recently played just such a character of the West, in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Cimarron," as Yancey Cravat.

"Yancey himself would have made quite an astronaut," Ford says. "He's a wonderful character, the sort of man every boy would like to grow up to be."

Ford considers the role to be the most important of his acting career. He also admits a personal partiality to it.

"I've always liked variety in my work," he says. "But most of all, I dread being stuck inside studio sound stages, just playing in parlor dramas. When the town grows up around him and he finds himself being confined to a desk, he becomes restless and anxious to escape to new frontiers."

Ford has not only escaped being limited to parlor dramas, but his picture making has taken him virtually around the world, from South America to Europe and Japan. In the saddle, he has galloped past movie cameras in nearly every Western state.

Ford lists among his proudest possessions two Silver Spur awards and a special citation from the National Association of Rodeo Cowboys for his expert horsemanship in pictures. The cowboy salute came at the instigation of 170 top Southwestern and Hollywood cowboys who worked with the star in "Cimarron."

Ford is still having trouble with wild youths in the schoolroom.

In "The Blackboard Jungle," made in 1955, the actor portrayed a young high school teacher who was involved in a series of battles with his reckless students. Most of the scenes were set in the classroom of a big city high school.

In his new film, "Cimarron," Ford plays an Oklahoma settler who brushes up against some murderous, delinquent youths, and is forced to shoot one of them (Russ Tamblyn). The scene where the fatal shooting takes place is in a small Oklahoma schoolroom.

THE HUNTER. By Tuvia Friedman. Doubleday, $2.95. "My hand," began to tremble. A huge lump choked my throat. Hoarsely I begged Meyers to repeat what he had just said. Slowly he told me again: Eichmann was behind bars in Israel.

It was the afternoon of Monday, May 22, 1960.

In 1945, soon after the end of World War II, a man in Poland named Tuvia Friedman had set out on a search. He was determined to find Adolf Eichmann, former lieutenant-colonel of the S.S. (Elite Guard) of Nazi Germany, one-time head of an office bearing his name, "Dienststelle Eichmann" (Eichmann authority).

When Eichmann was captured, Premier David Ben-Gurion of Israel called him "one of the greatest war criminals, who was responsible together with the Nazi leaders for what they called the final solution of the Jewish question, namely the extermination of six million Jews of Europe."

In the chaos of the last days of the war in Europe, Eichmann succeeded in escaping.

At that time, Tuvia Friedman was a member of a Polish security force assigned to ferret out and unmask former Nazis. A vast dossier, a rogue's gallery of Nazis, began to build up in his office. He learned a great deal about Adolf Eichmann—and was ordered to find him.

The search lasted 15 years. It ended with Eichmann's capture in Buenos Aires.

Friedman tells the story of this track-down, and much more, in "The Hunter." His story recreates the enormous catastrophe that overtook the Jews in Europe, the camp, the beatings, the totally incomprehensible acts of sadism and cruelty, and the mass murders. Friedman himself was in and out of Nazi camps.

THE FIFTY YEAR DECLINE AND FALL OF HOLLYWOOD. By Ezra Goodman. Simon and Schuster, $5.95.

Having sweated it out, and about the cinema citadel for 20 years, Ezra Goodman pours out a strident verdict with now-it-can-be-told zeal.

"Hollywood, with its insularity, ignorance, arrogance and avarice, with its colossal vulgarity and bad taste, is bad not only for the rest of America and the world but for Hollywood itself," the writer sets the mood and style of his 452-page bill of particulars.

Some pioneers of yore and technicians of today are the only souls to escape the scourge during the racy, headlong indictment that is assembled from Goodman's notebooks, recall and research.

The plain, harsh fact of the matter is that almost all of the tycoons were arrogant, evil, avaricious old men, he insists. Fellow reporters, scenarists, producers, directors—all are assailed with sometimes deadly effect.

Keeping to the staccato tempo favored by expose journalism, "The Decline and Fall" swings from the treacherous and perspective to the gossip and petty. Some of the targets have been well riddled by previous hunters, but fan magazine enthusiasts are going to find fresh substance for disenchantment concerning other idols. And the swimming pool denizens of Southern California will need more than iced drinks to cool them off after inspecting Goodman's greeting.

BAXTER & FORD
Maria looks the other way

He Needed An 'Extra'

A miscalculation on the set of "Cimarron" caused Editor Glenn Ford's "Oklahoma Wigwag" to miss an edition.

Ford spent two hours as a "printer's devil" learning how to operate a high-speed printing press of the Oklahoma land rush era. When the camera was set to film his scene, he confidently pushed the starting button of the press but failed to notice that he had it on "high."

The 75-year-old mechanical monster spewed paper and ink in all directions, sending Maria Schell, Ford's co-star, and members of the crew diving for cover. Ford stood wide-eyed in the midst of the paper and ink barrage, waving his arms and yelling — "Extra! — Extra! — Get 'em while they're hot!"

Unfaithfuls

Gina Lollobrigida is the star of the film, "The Unfaithfuls," but is well supported by actress May Britt. The film begins today at the State Theatre, on a double bill with "Operation Eichmann."

'Cimarron' Tells Story Of Early Oklahoma

One of the most violent eras of American pioneer history, that following the opening of the Oklahoma Territory and the great land rush of 1889, is depicted in "Cimarron," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film version of Edna Ferber's novel.

Starring are Glenn Ford, Maria Schell, Anne Baxter, Arthur O'Connell, Russ Tamblyn, Mercedes McCambridge, Vic Morrow, Robert Keith and Charles McGraw, with hundreds of supporting players appearing in a cast of 368 speaking roles.

Its story covers a period of four decades in which a lawless pioneer settlement of tents and shacks is shown developing into the thriving city of Osage. Most of the picture was filmed on location in Arizona, in CinemaScope and color, entailing MGM's biggest location movement within the United States in the studio's history. Creating the spectacular scenes which fill the screen required 10 cameras, a caravan of 50 boxcars and 35 trucks, 700 horses, 500 pioneer wagons, 3,000 costumes.

There were gunfights, roustabouts, bigots, thieves and killers and the girls who trailed them for what they could get in the old West. But there were also men and women whose courage and adventurous spirit spawned a great new country.

Of these were Yancey Cravat and his young bride, Sabra (Glenn Ford and Maria Schell), whose love story, from the beginning of the land rush through the turbulent decades of Osage's growth, was as tempestuous as the bold era in which they played such vital pioneer roles.

Sabra remains steadfast in her devotion to the restless, unpredictable man she loves. She closes her eyes to Yancey's friendship for the flamboyant Dixie (Anne Baxter), who has tricked him out of his land claim. She is at his side in his fight for the cause of the despised Indians even when he has to resort to shooting. She is dismayed when he turns down the reward for saving hostage children from being killed when their schoolhouse is taken over by a trio of juvenile bank robbers led by the Cherokee Kid (Russ Tamblyn). But she comes to understand why Yancey acts as he does, even when he turns down the governorship of the Oklahoma Territory.

Through the years, Sabra builds up the small newspaper they have started, and whenever Yancey leaves her for new adventures, she takes him back. At the end, when war breaks out in Europe, Yancey enlists with the Canadian Army and again proves himself a fearless adventurer who cannot stay out of a fight.

"Cimarron" was directed by Anthony Mann from a screen play by Arnold Schulman and was produced by Edmund Grainger.

'Bubble Bath' Had Little Comfort

There's no "bubble bath" in "Cimarron," film version of Edna Ferber's classic story of the opening of the Oklahoma Territory, but Maria Schell, playing the feminine lead, was given the Early West's counterpart.

It's a beautiful prairie pool which proves tempting to Miss Schell in the story. Moreover, her "bath" causes a gun battle between Russ Tamblyn, an admiring if unwanted observer, and Glenn Ford, as Maria's infuriated bridegroom.

While the two men battled it out, the actress shivered in the cold water throughout the morning required to film the sequence.

ABC Club Hears HCJC Choir

Members of the Howard County Junior College choral group, with Ira Shantz as conductor and Jack Hendrix as accompanist, entertained members of the American Business Club at noon Friday at the Settles Hotel with a musical program.

The choir and song portions of Schubert's "Mass In G," "May Thy Holy Spirit," "The Hunter," "Let All Mortal Flesh Be Silent," "Oh Mistress Mine," a Negro spiritual, "L'I David, Play On Your Harp" and "Galway Piper."

Bob Rogers, club president, said the end of the campaign to sell advertising space in the club programs to be sold during the National JC Track and Field Meet and the annual rodeo is in sight but that members needed to renew their efforts to insure its success.

Members were also reminded that a banquet honoring the National Executive Secretary of ABC Clubs, Bill Pearson, would be held starting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Student Union building on the HCJC campus.

Tickets for the banquet sell for $1.50 each and wives have a special invitation to be on hand, Rogers added.

Among guests present were Charles Houston, Dwain Henson, J. C. Baker and Gene Chutte.

Docket Cancelled

A criminal docket tentatively slated for this week in 118th District Court has been cancelled, Wade Choate, district court clerk, said Friday afternoon. He said he was not advised when the next criminal docket would be set.

CHARLES CARR

Free Lecture Set Today

The universal law of good will will be emphasized in a free public lecture on Christian Science today by Charles M. Carr of Montclair, N.J.

Mr. Carr, a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, will speak in Howard County Junior College Auditorium at 3:30 p.m. under the auspices of Christian Science Society of Big Spring. The subject of his lecture will be "How Christian Science Can Help You."

A native of Melrose, Mass., Mr. Carr received his education in the M.I.T. He withdrew from business in 1942 to devote his full time to the public practice of Christian Science. Ten years later he became an authorized teacher of Christian Science. He served from 1944 to 1954 as Christian Science committee on publication for the State of New Jersey.

Study Council To Consider Class Teaching Machines

LUBBOCK — "Teaching Machines" or "Programmed Instruction" will be the topic at the West Texas School Study Council at Texas Tech April 26. The meeting will be held from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Tech Union ballroom.

Dr. Bertie J. Fallon, executive secretary, announced that Dr. John Barlow of Earlham College will speak on "Teaching Machines: The Skinner Box in the Classroom." His address will begin at 10 a.m.

Hal Moon of the International Research and Development Corp. will give a presentation of programming for using auto-instructional devices. He will speak at 1:15 p.m.

Another phase of the program will feature slides with taped commentary showing teaching machine theory and operation. These slides, which are provided by the General Atomics Corporation, will be shown at 11 a.m.

The role of the teaching machines has been defined as an aid which gives necessary help in teaching and drilling students and bringing to them new voices, sights, and sounds. Rather than taking the place of the classroom,

A teaching machine program consists of a series of questions that are carefully graduated with respect to difficulty. If a student happens to make a mistake, he must write a correction. Thus, a student never goes on to the next question wondering if his last answer was correct.

For the teaching machine to be effective, the student must be willing to go half-way by answering all the questions. If he does this and still fails to learn, it must be assumed that the machine, not the student, is at fault.

In one machine program using eighth grade algebra students, the achievement examinations showed that 50 per cent got a ninth-grade score and the rest scored average eighth-grade scores or better.

Among member schools and superintendents of the West Texas School Study Council are Andrews Public Schools, T. A. Roach; Lamesa Public Schools, C. W. Tarter; Big Spring Public Schools, Schools, T. E. McCollum.
