Education As It Has Been Affected By The Depression, Is Explained; Asks Aid In Recovery Program

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 — President Roosevelt said in an address to the nation tonight that "only through constant education and the stressing of the ideals of peace" can those nations threatening the peace of the world by "imperialistic desires" be brought into line with the majority against such a policy.

Addressing the third annual women's conference on current problems in New York from the oval room on the first floor of the White House, Mr. Roosevelt stressed the need of further reduction in the cost of local government by "good business methods and the elimination of the wrong kind of politics." He asserted the quality of teaching in almost every state could be "definitely and distinctly raised."

Two Problems Cited

Noting the conference was discussing the "Crisis In History," the president said there were "two problems which can be helped by public interest and public discussion"—the peace of the world and education as it has been affected by the depression.

"The danger to world peace," he said, "certainly does not come from the United States of America. As a nation, we are overwhelmingly against engaging in war. As a nation we are seeking no additional territory at the expense of our neighbors.

"The United States does not seek to annex Canada or any part thereof, to annex Mexico or any part thereof, or to annex Cuba or any part thereof.

U. S. Opposed To War

"It is the attitude of the overwhelming majority of our people towards their neighbors—this complete lack of a national desire for territorial expansion which makes the rest of the world begin to understand that the United States is

The distance from Lakehurst to Sunnyvale is about 3,000 miles and with favorable winds, the Macon was expected to reach Sunnyvale in about 60 hours after departure from Lakehurst.

Alice White Claims She Was Seriously Injured By Man

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 13. — Alice White's story of a terrific beating at the hands of John Warburton, movie actor from England, was told in a transcript of the comely blonde actress' recent testimony before the grand jury, released today.

Alice White

At the same time there was made public the testimony of Martin Block that he and Russell Brown had been induced by Sidney Bartlett, movie writer and friend of Miss White, to attempt a disfigurement of Warburton in retaliation for the latter's beating of the actress.

Warburton late in the day retained a law firm to represent him and the following statement was issued by Attorney Roger Marchetti:

Statement Issued

"In justice to fair play, we appeal to the public to refrain from forming any unfavorable opinion of John Warburton whose good character was maliciously attacked by Alice White in her statement to the grand jury. We ask that people reserve their opinion until all the facts are made known."

Block and Brown were indicted recently for robbing and beating Warburton, but the grand jury took no action against Bartlett, who refused to testify.

Miss White testified Warburton beat her so at her home after a Beverly Hills party that her face was "frightfully disfigured," her eyes swollen until she could not see and that she had to have a plastic surgeon work on her nose.

Warburton, she said, struck her without warning, then threw her down in front of her house and sat on her.

"He beat me up all over the street and grabbed me by my hair," she

Legs Are Broken In Car Accident

Hit by an automobile during a heavy shower last night, J. L. Luck 27, suffered fractures of both legs. He was received at Lubbock sanitarium at about 10:40 o'clock.

Police said Luck, of 1910 Seventh street, was crossing Broadway going south in the 1700-block when he was struck by a 1931 model Chevrolet coupe driven westward on Broadway by J. A. Staton of 2105 Fifth street.

It was a Black Friday accident. Although trembling from shock and intense pain, Luck while waiting for a physician braved a joke on the day and his name. He is unemployed.

Staton stopped to render aid, police said. Richard W. Martin ambulance carried the injured man to the sanitarium. Bone of the left leg, just above the ankle, protruded through the flesh. Luck also had an abrasion on his forehead.

Kelly Starts Prison Jaunt

"Be A Good Boy," Shouts His Wife As He Is Led Away To Train; "I Will," Is Glum Answer Of Bandit

(By The Associated Press)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 13. — With a sneer on his lips, George (Machine Gun) Kelly was started for Leavenworth federal penitentiary today aboard a locked, barred and bullet-proof railway coach.

Eight federal agents, each carrying a machine gun, rode with the desperado, one of six persons sentenced to life imprisonment for the $200,000 kidnaping of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil millionaire.

Makes Another Threat

Another threat was Kelly's parting to newsmen.

"I won't be in this spot long," he scoffed just before he was taken aboard the coach and its doors were locked.

Kelly's auburn-haired wife Kathryn, convicted with him and also sentenced to life imprisonment, remained in the county jail.

Justice department officials said at Washington that Kelly would be confined at Leavenworth only temporarily, that he would be transferred to the government's new prison for dangerous convicts—Alcatraz island off San Francisco — as soon as the island prison is ready for use.

"Be a good boy," Kathryn told her husband and kissed him through the bars of her cell as "Machine Gun George" left the jail.

"I will," Kelly responded glumly as he was led away. There were no tears.

Boycott Voted Against Goods From Germany

Federation Of Labor Speeding Work; Some NRA Officials Criticized; Speed Asked On Public Works

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—Voting a boycott of Germany, criticizing some NRA officials whom they charged with seeking to "undermine living standards," and asking great speed for the public works program, the American Federation of Labor worked swiftly tonight to end its fifty-third annual convention.

Its boycott, shouted through on a chorus of "ayes," marked the first time the federation ever had asked its members—now around 3,000,000—to cease buying the goods of another nation. This action was taken, the convention agreed, because of "dangerous tendencies."

Recommendation Made

The executive council had recommended that the federation boycott German goods and service until the German people were able again to organize freely into trade unions, and until the "persecution of Jewish people" ceased.

In its closing sessions, it voted to protest to the administration against "some officials of the NRA" who "are attempting to undermine living standards under the cloak of an argument that such action would stimulate building construction."

It blamed delay in the public works program upon the "apparent laxity of local and state public officials in presenting authorization and plans for local public works" and added an appeal to President Roosevelt, the public works admin-

Report Given By Committee In Job Probe

Complete Investigation Now Ordered By House; Five Men Will Conduct Inquiry; Must Be Over By Jan. 1

Jarrel Is Blamed

Violations Of Penal Code Are Charged And Testimony Will Be Given County Officers And Action Asked

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 13.—A complete investigation was ordered today by the house into reported sales of jobs with state departments and institutions.

The inquiry will be made by a committee of five members to be appointed by the speaker and it must be concluded by January 1 next. The resolution authorizing the inquiry was adopted on recommendation of the house appropriations committee after it heard four days of testimony on charges that jobs had been offered in exchange for contributions of money.

Jarrel Implicated

In a report to the house of its preliminary findings, the committee stated it was of the opinion the testimony had "strongly implicated" Dr. E. F. Jarrel, of Tyler, a member of the state livestock commission until he resigned last Wednesday, "in the sales of such positions, and evidenced a knowledge upon his part, of such sales, as well as a complicity therein."

Dr. Jarrel sent his resignation to the governor after he had testified before the committee. In his letter to the executive Dr. Jarrel said he was "entirely innocent" of charges that he had promised jobs in return for contributions to a campaign fund.

Many People Paid

"We are convinced that many people throughout the state paid their money under the impression that they were to be given jobs and placed on the state payroll, but in practically all the instances brought to our attention, no permanent positions were awarded," the committee report said.

Representative Gordon Burns of Huntsville, who acted as chairman of the investigating group's steering committee, said it was likely the inquiry would not be resumed immediately. The preliminary report and the testimony adduced by it

Five Are Missing In Gas Explosion

BAYONNE, N. J., Oct. 13. (AP)—Two men were critically burned and five were reported missing tonight in a fire that started with an explosion in a gasoline launch, ignited two piers and four lighters at the Standard Oil company's lower hook plant, and barely missed igniting three tankers and a freighter.

The injured men, Arne Kolvjornsen, of Staten Island, and Magnus Kleppe, of Brooklyn, are in Bayonne general hospital. Police said they were not expected to live.

Kleppe and his companions were on board the Launch R. T. C. No. 7 when fire broke out as it was loading to its 2,000-barrel capacity at pier 3. A third man, who was on the launch, jumped overboard and was rescued by a tug.

Simultaneously with the fire came an explosion. Others followed as one after another of 35 drums of alcohol blew up.

Negro Woman Is Fined Here After Guilty Plea To Charge

Fatal Crash Of Plane Caused By Explosive; Bits Are Found

Some Investigators Believe Time Bomb Had Been Hidden In Ship But No Proof Found To Uphold Theory

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Oct. 13—J. B. Colyer, vice president of the United Air Lines, in a statement tonight said that laboratory tests at Northern-western university showed that the crash of one of the company's three-mile-a-minute passenger planes Tuesday night was caused "by a high explosive."

Bits from the wreckage were collected by federal investigators working under Melvin H. Purvis, head of the local office of the United States bureau of investigation, and given to the laboratory for tests.

Bomb Theory Held

Whether the explosion was caused by a time bomb as some investigators theorized was not determined, Coyler said.

Seven persons were killed as the giant airliner—bound from Newark, N. J., to Chicago—crashed on a farm near Chesterton, Ind.

Coyler's statement said:

The testimony of Ranger Captain James M. Robins of San Angelo that he had promised to use his efforts to keep Trammell "out of the electric chair" if he would confess came as a surprise, as state attorneys were relying on the confession made to District Attorney George Mahon.

Lawrence Westbrook Retained As Director; Committees To Distribute Funds Through Counties Of State

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Oct. 13.—The Texas legislature had completed the enactment of legislation for the distribution of proceeds of a state bond issue to indigents and to permit industry to take full advantage of the NRA program without violating the state's anti-trust laws tonight.

With these two subjects, submitted by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson as the main necessities for an extra-ordinary session, out of the way the legislature was ready to adjourn sine die. The session will expire by constitutional limitation at midnight.

SESSION ADJOURNED

AUSTIN, Oct. 14. (Saturday) The Texas legislature adjourned its special session sine die at 1 a. m. today. The legislators sent a committee to the office of Governor Miriam A. Ferguson to notify her of the adjournment but the governor already had retired and her secretary, J. H. Davis, jr., received them.

Work Through Night

Indications were the legislators could not be through with their work before midnight, if then. It may be necessary to turn the clock back to keep on the same legislative day while odds and ends incident to closing a session are disposed of.

The senate remained in session all last night in order to clean its calendar of bills, mostly proposals of only local application.

The bond relief bill authorizes the issuance of $5,500,000 in state securities, proceeds of which would be administered by a relief commission, replacing, in personnel, the Texas rehabilitation and relief commission, which has functioned in the distribution of federal unemployment money.

The two houses were at variance on how big to make the initial bond issue and on the personnel of the administrative set-up. The senate

After an examining trial yesterday, Justice of the Peace E. H. Ward of Slaton fixed bonds of J. W. Adams and May Shaw, charged with forgery, at $1,000 each to await grand jury action.

Upon identification of Adams as the man who had passed a forged check in a Lubbock store last week, County Attorney Vaughn E. Wilson filed a charge of passing a forged instrument against the suspect in Justice of the Peace J. S. Connell's court here late Friday.

Arrested In Slaton

The man and woman were arrested in a Slaton store Saturday where the woman, in passing a check, was detained until officers arrived.

County Attorney Wilson, who conducted the state's case at the Slaton hearing, said that a check protector believed to have been used in preparing the checks offered in Slaton and at least six other worthless instruments in Lubbock was found on the highway about three miles north of Slaton.

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE BEAN WILSON
Avalanche Woman's Editor

UPON seizing a large distilling plant in New Kent county, Virginia, a state prohibition inspector was surprised to find it displaying a large NRA Blue Eagle.

Why not? We have been wondering recently what patrons of bootleggers are doing since they signed pledges to confine their patronage to NRA supporters.

IT IS THAT SEASON

IT WON'T be long now until every advertisement will carry a picture of Santa Claus himself for already a few firms are starting the campaign with suggestions that "it isn't too early to start that Christmas shopping."

It isn't, as most of us know, but it is so easy to put everything off until the last minute and then dash out and buy presents for the people we are remembering, even though we know this is the easiest way to give the wrong thing.

HER RECREATION

"WHEN the needle club meets it provides almost my only opportunity to do fancy work," one busy mother remarked the other day in speaking of her club.

People who are not actively engaged in club work frequently disparage the programs and the ones who are members. Yet, many social clubs serve a useful purpose.

There is recreation in fancy work for a woman who must spend many hours a week sewing on buttons, mending rips in trousers, patching socks and aprons and doing the necessary stitching around a household. Such women enjoy going to a club periodically and spending an afternoon working on a quilt or making embroidery pieces or doing some one of the other things that comes in the category of fancy work.

IT MIGHT AT THAT

"WELL, it would beat what you run in that paper." That is a pretty good final word with people who have something or other they would like to have printed.

We grant them the privilege of being right and maintain that we have the privilege of choice. When it comes to sermons and poetry and literary masterpieces, the chances are that many of the things are "better" than the writing that is done by the various reporters and editors who contribute to the sheets. Yet, no matter how good the essay or sermon, they often have no place here. This is a paper for printing news and editorial comment.

As to the writing ability that is shown, the chances are that anyone who can write well enough and is willing to accept the salary that beginners are paid in newspaper work will eventually sell a story or land a job.

People who can write masterpieces can sell them, we presume, if they are presistent enough, and there are a lot of places besides the daily newspapers.

In this particular department the comment comes most frequently from women who do not think that there is enough "Christian influence" in the paper or that church leaders are given enough recognition.

Of course, since the things that are used are based on opinion, there is always room for argument. But it always comes back to the fact that a sheet such as this is maintained for the dissemination of news. If people do things we don't like, we can't help it.

We grant you, there are many things that beat the stories we write and the stories we choose to print. Yet we maintain that we are not always wrong.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. 25c at drug stores.

Capitol Chatter From Austin

BY CHARLES E. SIMONS
Associated Press Staff Writer

CHARLES E. SIMONS

AUSTIN, Oct. 15. (AP)—Rep. Emory B. Camp of Rockdale, young redheaded member of the Texas house, made himself unpopular with a certain group of his colleagues by his scorching resolution denouncing the house for standing at ease during the latter part of the first world series baseball game.

The resolution, among other things cited that the main purpose of the regular session was to pass laws to provide for relief of the destitute and not to follow reports of baseball games. It also charged that some of the members had expressed intention to prolong the session indefinitely "for the sole purpose of remaining on the state payroll at $10 per day."

It called on the legislature to adjourn immediately and go home as "the greatest remaining service that can be rendered to the greatest number of Texas citizens" and to "quit wasting the taxpayers money" by following the world series.

Camp was booed by the baseball enthusiasts and his resolution ordered expunged from the record by a substantial vote.

The house worked late that night making up for lost time while the baseball fortunes of the Giants and Senators hung in the balance.

Camp and his associates in the resolution sent a shaft at the senates private office construction program.

The resolution stated "huge sums of money have been spent in the east end of the capitol for luxuries and conveniences for the 'thirty patriots'."

Rep. Cecil A. Lotief offered a novel amendment to a bill to establish the bank deposit insurance company.

There had been broad discussion of the reasons why banks had failed.

Lotief's amendment read:

"Amend the bill by inserting a provision authorizing the company to pay $3,000 for dead bank robbers whether they robbed it from outside or from within."

Bond Plan Is Passed Friday

Anti-Trust Law Proposal Is Also Passed; Members Work Far Into Night To Clear Up Final Details

proposed an entirely new administrative set-up, the house wanted to retain the existing rehabilitation and relief commission and add to it the lieutenant governor and the speaker of the house.

The compromise bill which finally was accepted would create a commission of nine members to administer the relief funds. The governor woul dbe ex-officio chairman, but would not be empowered to vote except in cases of a tie. Three of the commissioners would be named by the lieut. governor, three by the speaker of the house, and one by the governor. The other members would be the chairman of the state industrial accident board and the chairman of the civil judicial council. Fred Adams of Crockett is the incumbent chairman of the industrial accident board and W. N. Crestman, of Dallas, is the present chairman of the judicial council.

NRA Bill Passed

The bill providing for full participation in the president's recovery plan proposes that a code approved by the chief executive shall be recognized as complete defense in event of prosecution for alleged anti-trust law violations. The defense would apply in the cases of both interstate and intrastate business.

Representative Rolland Bradley, of Houston sought to have the conference committee's substitute NRA bill rejected, but his motion was defeated, 84 to 21. The conference report then was adopted, 105 to 17. The senate accepted the compromise, 25 to 3, with little debate. Senator Will M. Martin, of Hillsboro, objected to its acceptance in a brief statement on the floor.

Sanderford Opposed

The senate accepted the bond relief compromise bill by a vote of 25 to three and the house adopted it 116 to 21.

Senator Roy Sanderford of Belton, in Governor Ferguson's home county, made the only speech in the senate against adoption of the report.

He criticized the free conference committee for voting to permit the lieut. governor and the speaker of the house each to name three members of the commission and recommending that the governor be given only one appointment.

He argued further that the bond issue was too small and predicted that the legislature would have to come back in session in later February or March to provide for additional funds.

Senator Clint C. Small, of Amarillo, explained the report on behalf of the senate conferees. He said he believed the compromise bill offered an "excellent opportunity to get a conservative state commission—one that won't be a rubber stamp, but will function."

Lawrence Westbrook would be retained as state relief director. However, he would be subject to removal by a majority of the commission.

The details of selling the bonds would be handled by a separate bond commission, which would comprise the comptroller, treasurer and attorney general.

The interest rate on the bonds would be four per cent. The principal would be amortized in nine annual payments, with the first in 1935 and the last in 1943. The first principal payment would be $500,000 and it would be graduated up to $775,000. The bonds would be retired out of returns to the general revenue fund other than from the ad valorem tax.

Relief funds would be distributed in the various counties, through committees named by local authorities and approved by the state commission. In the smaller counties committees of five members, would be named by the commissioners' courts. In counties containing a city of more than 100,000 population, four of the committeemen would be named by the commissioners' courts and three others by the governing bodies of the cities. The committees would select the county administrators.

Five per cent of the relief money could be spent for administration within the counties provided the federal government did not take care of this expense. One per cent could be used for hospitalization of indigents and one per cent for distribution of pork and other foodstuffs proyided by the federal government.

The present state commission would serve until a majority of the new commission is appointed and qualified. Each of the present county boards would continue to serve until a majority of the board qualified.

WALL STREET REPORT

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 13. (AP) — Financial markets today had their first opportunity to express reactions to the government's fourth liberty loan refunding offer and whatever implications it may have as to a monetary plans or policy, a strengthening in high grade bonds and a sharp advance by the dollar, trends that conformed closely to the accepted pattern for markets which had lost some of their inflationary props.

Stocks and commodities weakened. The former behaved indecisively until afternoon when a pronounced downturn developed coincident with a 5 cent break in wheat, proportionate declines in other grains and a steady climb by the dollar. Share trading was of moderate proportions—1,264,405 shares—and selling took the greatest toll among alcohols, metals and a few specialties which had been speculative favorites for several months. Losses of many leaders held in a one to two point range; some dropped as much as half a dozen points, and several were off 3 or thereabouts.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 13. (AP) — Cotton prices declined rather sharply today owing to lack of buying support and to selling on weakness in stocks and wheat The October position, now the spot month, broke below the 9 cent mark to 8.98, and the general market closed barely steady, 21 to 27 points net lower.

The opening was steady as Liverpool cables came in about as due. Manchester said its market was dull but cloth inquiry was more active. First trades here were unchanged to 1 point down but prices rallied 1 point after the start to 9.38 for December and 9.62 for March or unchanged to 1 point up net. Later the market eased off gradually owing to lack of buying support, some hedge selling and tired long liquidation and before noon December had dropped to 9.21 and March to 9.48 down 14 to 16 points from the previous close.

The market turned quite easy in the afternoon owing to weakness in stocks and wheat, prices making new lows for the day in final trading with December at 9.11 and March at 9.36. The close was at or near the bottom with December at 9.12, down 23 points net, March at 9.36, down 26 points net, and October at 8.98 down 21 points net.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 9 to 1 penny points down.

Port receipts 68,392, for week 382,973, for season 2,567,282, last season 2,033,932. Exports 25,262, for week 238,098, for season 1,723,708, last season 1,529,004. Port stock 3,730,681, last year 3,820,046. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 151,873, last year 141,214. Spot sales at southern markets 66,412, last year 63,160.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, Oct. 13. (AP)—Cotton was lower today under southern selling and liquidation which appeared to be influenced by the weakness of other markets. December contracts sold off to 9.16 or 24 points net lower and closed at 9.18 with the general market closing easy at net declines of 21 to 28 points.

The opening was barely steady at an advance of 2 points to a decline of 2 points. Some buying was reported on the fairly steady showing of Liverpool, but it was supplied by southern selling and after the call scattered selling and liquidation became more active following the weakness in grain stocks. A few stop orders were uncovered as prices broke through the low levels and while trade buying continued, it appeared to be almost entirely on limits or on scale-down orders. The lowest prices of the day were reached in the late trading with October selling at 9.00 and May at 9.54, and closing quotations were at the lows except for rallies of 3 or 4 points on the winter and early spring months.

Exports today 24,543 making 1,737,470 so far this season. Port receipts 84,017. U. S. port stocks 3,715,750.

KANSAS CITY REPORT

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 13. (AP)—Little of consequence occurred in cattle trading today with receipts light and business conducted largely on a clean-up basis at steady prices. A few sales of fed steers and yearlings came in at 5.50@6.00. Western grass steers brought 2.85@3.90. The feature of this week's cattle trade was the very broad demand for fed light steers, yearlings, heifers and mixed yearlings. Supplies of these light cattle were relatively small and prices lined up on a steady to 25 higher plane as compared with late last week. Medium weight and heavy steers closed the period on a steady to 25 lower level. Supplies of western grass steers were more plentiful this week and values were considered steady to 25 lower. Most common to medium straight grass steers cashed around 2.50@3.65 with occasional loads of fed grassers at 4.00@5.00. Replacement steers found a mostly steady outlet, a large portion of them moving around 3.00@4.75 with better grade light stockers up to 5.00 and above.

Generally speaking, hogs sold at steady to 10 higher levels in today's business with St. Louis listing a practical top of 5.25.

Fat lambs brought steady to 25 lower prices with a large percentage of native and range offerings at 6.25@7.25.

Violations Evidenced

It said, too, that "violations of the codes in the textile industry are becoming more pronounced" and asked an appeal to the national labor board "in order to avoid the necessity of strike declarations."

The convention endorsed the fur workers union's campaign against communism, rejected a proposal for a constitutional amendment calling for the retirement from business of all persons who have $150,000 or more, voted to ask congress to make an investigation of the transportation of strike breakers, and directed the executive council to try to settle with the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, of Detroit, the question of whether he was fair to organized labor.

It approved a resolution asking congress to investigate the American Telephone and Telegraph company and urged new laws to "prevent the so-called abuses and impositions on the public by the operations" of this company.

Grains

FORT WORTH REPORT

FORT WORTH, Oct. 13. (AP)—Cash grain prices here today followed the decline in contract values and wheat, corn and oats sold at the lowest levels in months. Receipts included: wheat 15 cars; corn 6; oats 3, and sorghums 3.

Prices ranged as follows, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid to delivery point:

Delivered Texas Gulf ports, export rate, or Texas common points: wheat No. 1 hard 86@87. Barley No. 2 nominally 60@62; No. 3 nominally 59@61. Sorghums No. 2 milo per 100 pounds nominally 1.20@1.25; No. 3 milo nominally 1.17@1.22. No. 2 kafir nominally 1.00@1.15; No. 3 nominally 97@1.02.

Delivered Texas common points: oats No. 2 red 40@41; No. 3 red 39@40.

CHICAGO REPORT

CHICAGO, Oct. 13. (AP) — Overburdened with stop-loss selling for speculators who had bought at 10 to 18 cents above current quotations, wheat collapsed 5 cents a bushel today.

The United States government bond-refunding programme, some trade experts said, indicated a policy of sound money, and this led to hurried retreat of those who had bought on currency inflation prospects. A different reason given by other grain specialists was that of general lack of confidence on the part of new buyers, and it was added that with a change in public psychology the response of grains would be instantaneous.

Wheat closed semi-demoralized at the extreme setbacks which emergency rules permit in any one day, 4 7-8 to 5 1-8 cents under Wednesday's finish, corn 2 3-4 to 3 1-8 down, oats 3 to 3 1-8 off and provisions at 5 to 22 cents decline.

Job Probe

were ordered printed as part of the house proceedings.

The report recommended that officials of several counties take cognizance of the testimony.

Action Recommended

"To the end that practices of job selling in this state should be immediately put at an end, we call upon the officers, especially of Hill county, McLennan county, Dallas county, Smith county, Upshur county, Gregg county, Tarrant county, Angelina county, Leon county, and also all other counties in this state to diligently inquire into such matters and by a proper and legal means endeavor to put a stop to such nefarious practices," the report stated.

Discussing the testimony presented, the committee said "some of the money payments were returned either in whole or in part."

"Some of the payments were primarily made with checks, but in the major portion of such instances, the money was returned to the giver of the check, and the check then destroyed, and then the money itself again accepted by the person pretending to sell the job," the report stated. "We found that a few persons who had paid for jobs were employed for a short period and then discharged after only a short period of employment.

Dissatisfaction Shown

"We find that many of the persons so paying for jobs, but who had not received positions, became dissatisfied with the progress of the awarding of such jobs, or a return of their money; some of them were paid back a portion of their money, and some have received all of their money, and some of them have received no money at all, but practically all of them were dissatisfied with their treatment relative to the money that they had paid out, and practically all unanimous that they had paid their money out for state jobs that were promised them.

"From the testimony we are led to conclude that we have sufficient grounds to believe that Dr. E. F. Jarrel, a member of the livestock sanitary commission, a state officer, was actively concerned in this job selling, and that he received directly and indirectly, some of the money so paid for such jobs and that we have reason to believe that we have sufficient testimony to charge this state officer with such transactions."

The report stated that much of the testimony involved violations of the penal code and that it would be turned over to county authorities for presentation to grand juries.

Officers Seek Burglars Here

Two Display Windows Of Local Store Robbed; Loss Exceeds $500; Mexicans Believed To Have Been Responsible

Police, investigating burglary of two display windows of Grollman's, a woman's clothing store at 1015 Broadway, last night said they were working on a theory that the crime was committed by Mexicans.

Apparel having an estimated wholesale value exceeding $500 was stolen in the burglary late Thursday or early yesterday.

Three Arrested

Three Mexicans were arrested yesterday, but none had been connected with the burglary, George Eubank, assistant police chief said. One Mexican was held for drunkenness, the others for vagrancy.

Eubank said he took fingerprints from the show windows, but whether photographs of them would be satisfactory was problematical.

Loss Over $500

Three women's coats, of cloth with fur collars, three hats, two purses, and three pairs of gloves were taken from a window on the east side of the lobby, C. H. Grollman, the manager, said.

The other window entered, on the west side, contained nearly a hundred pairs of shoes, a departmental head said.

Mr. Grollman estimated wholesale value of the shoes at about $350, and apparel in the other window left bare at about $200.

One of the coats was priced at retail at $79.50 and the other two at $69.50 each.

Grollman's has four display windows, two on each side of a lobby-inset, with two adjoining the store. The two fronting the walk, however, are set apart, and glass-paneled doors in the backs of the cases are exposed.

Locks in those doors were forced with a pinch-bar to give way. Officers expressed an opinion several persons executed the burglary and put the loot in an automobile after carrying it a short distance. Passers-by ordinarily would assume persons in the windows were employes of the store, police said.

Mr. Grollman, coming to the store to open it a few moments before 8 a. m., discovered the loss and informed police.

A night police patrolman covers the beat upon which Grollman's is situated in about an hour, Chief of Police Wiley L. Metcalfe said.

Police expressed an opinion the burglars went to work soon after the patrolman passed.

opposed to war."

His appeal for a better grade of teaching went not only to the New York conference, but to colleges through the country, federations of women's clubs and nearly 2,000 organizations interested in education.

He said he wanted to enlist the support of all these interests "in the fight we are making on the depression."

Government Wants Help

"When this fight is won," he asserted, "your problems will be solved. You can help your government—federal, state and local—and we in the government want your help."

In reducing the cost of local government, he said, "we must at the same time have the definite objective in every state and in every school district of restoring the useful functions of education at least to their pre-depression level."

"We have today, for example," he added, "a large surplus of so-called qualified teachers—men and women who even if we had full prosperity would and probably should be unable to find work in the field of education.

"Even today we are turning out too many new teachers each year. That is just as much an economic waste as building steel rail plants far beyond the capacity of railroads to use steel rails.

"It goes without saying that we should have enough teachers and not a large excess supply. It goes also without saying that the quality of our teaching in almost every state of which I have knowledge can be definitely and distinctly raised.

"The main point is that we need to make infinitely better the average education which the average child now receives, and that, through this education, we will instill into the coming generation a realization of the part that the coming generation must play in working out what you have called 'this crisis in history.'

"The crisis can be met but not in a day or a year and education is a vital factor in the meeting of it."

Ruthardt To Quit Dancing; Convicted In Girl Slaying

DALLAS, Oct. 13. (AP) — Louis Ruthardt, 24, was convicted in district court today of murder in the death of Jo Betty Sell, pretty 17-year-old dancing partner at a night club near Dallas, but was given a five-year suspended sentence.

Expressing a feeling that he could no longer "click" without his partner, Ruthardt revealed while waiting for the jury to file in that he was through with dancing.

"I can't go on with my dancing," he said. "Every time I went on the ballroom floor, the memory of Jo Betty would haunt me. I couldn't stand that. I just know that I couldn't click without her."

Miss White said she refused to leave the party with Warburton and that when she went home some hours later, he met her at the door and "smacked" her in the face.

Texas Ranges Reported Good

Livestock Areas Are Reported At 80 Per Cent Normal In Oct. 1 Survey; Lower Than That Of Last Year

AUSTIN, Oct. 13. (AP)—The United States department of agriculture in its October report, issued today, reported livestock ranges in Texas at 80 per cent or normal. This condition was compared with 91 per cent at the same time one year ago and 83.2 per cent the ten year average.

"Rains during August and early September have improved range conditions in most areas, and on October 1 prospects for range feed are better than they were a month ago," stated the report.

"Range conditions improved 3 points during September and is now rated as 80 per cent of normal compared with 91 per cent a year ago and 83.2 per cent the ten year average. During the past ten years ranges have averaged an improvement of 4 points during September.

"Although cattle have been affected adversely by poor ranges, they have held up well considering the drouthy conditions that have prevailed, and stock, generally, improved during September. In the coastal breeding area and in South Texas cattle are in good shape, many being in shape for market. However, the fall movement to market, generally will be late. Feeding operations will be far below those of last year. The condition of cattle is rated at 81 per cent of normal compared with 88 per cent a year ago and 85.3 per cent the ten year average.

"The Edwards plateau region is badly in need of moisture. Sheep range condition declined 2 points during the month and is now rated at 69 per cent of normal compared with 96 last year and 85.0 the ten year average. Prospects are for poor winter grazing and there promises to be a shortage of feed in the sheep area before spring.

"Sheep conditions declined 1 point during September and on October 1 is rated at 76 per cent of normal compared with 88 last October and 87.5 the ten year average. Shearing is underway and it is anticipated that a larger than usual number of sheep will be shorn this fall."

Better Police Protection

CONSIDERABLE criticism has been directed at the Lubbock police department since the bold looting of the Grollman store windows here sometime between 11 p. m. Thursday and dawn Friday, and perhaps all of it is not unwarranted.

However, there are some facts in connection with police protection in Lubbock with which the average citizen is not acquainted—facts which may bear upon the situation.

Criminologists and practical police officers of years experience are of the definite opinion that the number of patrolmen in every city should be based upon the ratio of one to every 1,000 population. Lubbock not only has not that many patrolmen—it hasn't even that many police officers, including the chief, assistant chief, day and night desk sergeants, motorcycle patrolmen and squad car men.

Including college students and residents of the area which is properly the city of Lubbock, there reside not less than 23,000 persons and it is altogether possible that the total will reach 24,000. But on the Lubbock police rolls, including all hands, there are but 14 officers. If professional officers know anything at all about their business, the Lubbock police force, therefore, is at least 10 men short of its practicable strength.

This is not an alibi for the Grollman robbery. Certainly it seems that a bold swoop, such as the Grollman robbery was, should be impossible in a city the size of Lubbock.

But it is a suggestion that at least through the fall and winter months, when crime booms in this section along with business, the city is entitled to better protection and a larger police force to permit that better protection.

Lubbock needs at least four full time motorcycle patrolmen and has no more than half that many.

Lubbock needs at least two night squad cars to properly protect the city against marauders and, if statistics compiled by police experts is at all correct, it needs more pavement pounding patrolmen especially at night.

Taking into consideration the acknowledged fact that the Lubbock police department every month takes in more money than any other city in West Texas—from Amarillo on down—it would appear that improved police protection should be an easy matter to secure.

For a police department is not supposed to be a money-making department, anyhow.

WHY EXEMPT THE BIG STARS?

Eddie Cantor, head of the recently organized screen actors guild, screams against a code for cinema performers in keeping with the National Recovery act.

Price-fixing, it seems, is all right for the rest of American business but not for the talkies. Mr. Cantor forgets his own advice—for which he is paid a stupendous broadcast fee—of "looking at the woild through rose-colored glasses". Everything is not lovely; it's all wrong now!

Somehow or other, we fail miserably to break into tears over the terrible plight of the cinema great, some of whom receive as much as a million or more dollars for a single picture, others of whom draw from $2,000 to $10,000 per working week.

Frankly, it looks to us that government intervention in the movie business is just as logical as it is in the newspaper business, the grocery business, the drygoods business—or any other kind of business. And all Mr. Cantor's moans seem to be of very little avail.

Ogling Eddie, the Great Garbo, and others threaten to strike if they don't have their way—but don't worry. If they strike at all, they won't strike long, because other favorites will step into their shoes and go right along pleasing the cash customers from Maine to Timbucktoo. There were many popular entertainers and performers furnishing amusement—and good amusement—long before the present crop was hatched. And the boys and girls who are fearful that their present "wage scale" may be adjusted will think of that before they very long avoid the kleig lights.

If ten bricklayers, all working for five dollars a day, make things better than two working for $25 each with the other eight idle, so will 500 actors, working at five dollars a day, make things better than Mr. Cantor and Miss Garbo working at $1,250 per day each and the other 498 idle.

The reduction-of-unemployment feature of the New Deal, as we understand it, is to get more people working even if it does work a hardship upon a favored few.

Mr. Cantor should practice upon himself some of his own high-priced optimism which we have slopped out to us in weekly doses over the ether and, occasionally, via the squawking screen.

In the early days people helped a farmer by giving him a fine bull. The farmer is still getting the bull.

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By George Durno

EVER since Farm Credit Administrator Henry Morgenthau, jr. turned the heat on his hired men things have been humming in the field of agricultural credit relief.

It's virtually getting to a point where a farmer who needs mortgage money can get it ahead of the sheriff's pounce.

The Home Owners' Loan corporation, devised to extend similar aid to city dwellers, also shows flickers of life but so far Chairman "Seaboard Bill" Stevenson isn't in step with Morgenthau.

The Farm Credit administration now is passing money out at the rate of a million dollars a day and increasing the output weekly.

Whereas in the month of August FCA was able to pass on only 2,140 applications for a total of $7,250,000, in the period from Sept. 13 to Sept. 30 it handed out $12,000,000. On Sept. 27 alone 339 applications were approved and slightly in excess of a million dollars turned over.

What's more, although about a billion dollars in applications are pending from the time when red tape bogged down the works new applications received and appraisals made are now running neck and neck.

Back in May when FCA was formed there were only 212 appraisers to cover the whole country. They went out like circuit riders and it was likely to be months before they got around to your farm.

Today Morgenthau has 2,800 functioning and 2,300 more in training.

As soon as the training and checking of the latter group is complete, Henry promises to have dollar bills literally raining on the rural districts.

COMING-TO: The urbanites aren't faring so well as their country brothers but at least from a complete blank the Home Owners' Loan corporation is now able to report a little action.

From its birthdate up to Sept. 23 the corporation was able to report a total of 537 loans with dollar volume of $1,515,592 paid out. Most of these probably were made after mid-September because shortly before that date you could have counted loans on your fingers.

The corporation further claims that as a result of its activities nearly 13,000 foreclosures have been stalled off pending action on loan applications. These would represent about $36,000,000.

CRAPE: Times certainly have changed for the prohibitionists. It almost seems to them as if the ground suddenly had opened up and swallowed them.

Take the Anti-Saloon league.

Only a year or so ago the league was rocking high. Contributions to keep up the good work poured in. Headquarters were established in an office building just across from the capitol so the anti's could keep members of congress reminded of the whip.

Suddenly their headquarters building was torn down. It was removed almost as fast as the prohibition for which the league battled so many years is vanishing. Go looking for the league's headquarters nowadays, look hard enough and you'll find it in a dingy little second-floor office across the street from the Supreme court building.

F. Scott McBride still czars it but somehow or other his attitude seems about as grey as his office.

Out loud the leaguers still won't admit their cause is lost. They know it is but figure there's no sense in throwing up the sponge right out in the open.

But make no mistake. They're not quitting the battle.

They're going on the theory the only place a man is out is in baseball. Carrie Nation's hatchet figuratively is being dusted off and those old schoolroom charts showing the dire effect of alcohol on one's insides are being brought out of musty closets.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

STRANGE as it seems, the heart of capitalist Wall Street favors allowing the American Federation of Labor to go right ahead and organize up to the limit without employer resistance.

The people who think that way are a small minority but others are getting converted and it may be—although by no means certain—that a complete change of front toward the unions will develop. They have two arguments they insist are right to the point.

One is that the bigger and more authoritative an organization, the more conservative it is likely to be. Therefore there would be less chance for a switch to the left from within.

The other is that open shops are easier marks for communist and other radical propagandists than a shop fully organized under established auspices.

They claim the coal, steel and motor people are pretty near-sighted if they think they can get the old days back by bashing the federation. They also insist that industry is in for much more trouble than it realizes if it doesn't play ball with the federation. 'If we want to keep the capitalist system we had better stop smacking its strongest shock-absorber in the eye."

PRICES: Another effort to jack up the price level is due soon by way of making gold more expensive in terms of dollars. New York hears that the treasury is considering the advisability of setting a gold price of $36 an ounce.

This would be another step towards Fisher's commodity dollar in line with the recommendations of Professor Warren (recently mentioned in this column).

Today's One-Minute Sermon

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on Me hath everlasting life.

I am that bread of life.

Your fathers did eat manna in the wilderness, and are dead.

This is the bread that cometh down from Heaven, that a man may eat thereof, and not die.

I am the living bread which came down from Heaven: if any eat of this bread, he shall live forever: and the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world.—St. John, 7: 47-53.

Joan's bewildered, incredulous eyes met Pat's. "So you didn't know!" Pat was saying. "Somebody's been putting things over on our little Joan. Listen to this!"

Posing dramatically, Pat read:

" 'Construction of the first unit of the new Weston Textile Mill plant to be erected near Memphis at an initial cost of between $3,000,000 and $3,500,000 will begin as soon as preliminary work on the waterfront site purchased by the company is completed, it was announced today by Robert Weston, representing his father, James Weston of New York City, owner of the company.' "

"Pat," said Joan, "you're making all of that up. Give me that paper!"

"There's more," said Pat. "Just listen to this!" She read on:

" 'The Weston Mills has a nominal capitaization of $65,000,000, with 1,000,000 shares of common stock quoted at $60 on today's market and 5,000 in preferred stock. It is intended to issue 60,000 shares of common stock for expansion purposes in connection with the company's plants at Niagara Falls, another in New Jersey and the Tennessee project.' Read it all if you're interested."

Bill said, "Great Scott! What do you know about Joan grabbing somebody like that!"

Joan's eyes were wide, her face a little pale. She met her mother's astonished eyes.

"My dear, you didn't dream—?"

"No, of course not," Joan said. "What difference does it make?"

"What difference?' Pat exclaimed. "Oh, none in the world! Rich men go around every day falling for poor girls, like King Copethua and the beggar maid. Only they don't marry them these days."

"A millionaire," said Bill. "Well, Sis!" He stopped, warned by his mother's glance.

Pat was deep in the society page now, characteristically forgetting for the moment the subject which had engrossed her so shortly before.

Joan was thinking: "Well, of course, he didn't tell me. He wouldn't say, 'I'm the son of the man who owns the whole thing'."

"I see where Barbara Courtney is having another party," Pat put in. And then, "Well, of all the double-timing men! Guess he thought you didn't read the society page, Joan! Guess he didn't know that everything Barbara does gets in the paper!"

"What are you talking about, Pat?" Joan asked.

"About your friend, Bob, standing you up for a dinner date with Barbara," said Pat.

"He didn't!"

"Well, maybe I can't read. Maybe Miss Wilson, made a mistake when she wrote this. If you want to read about the party at the Courtneys tonight here it is—with Mr. Robert Weston of New York as big as you please in the guest list!"

There was a silence and then Mrs. Waring, with a glance at Joan's white face, said gently: "Pat, how you go on! Maybe the young man can explain."

"He will," Pat said scornfully. "But I hope Joan won't listen to him."

Joan said slowly, unhappily, "Pat, you're a jealous, suspicious, little cat."

"I'd hate to have you lose your head over him when it won't do any good."

Joan smiled. It was a queer little smile that didn't linger, that didn't reach her eyes. Funny for Pat to be talking to her about losing her head.

"I'd hate to see anybody making a fool of you," Pat continued. "I could have told you before. He was the man I saw with Barbara at the Book Shelf. I didn't tell you because I hated to spoil the dinner for you after you had worked so hard I hope you'll drop him like a ton of bricks if he's started two-timing."

"I'm going up stairs," Joan said. "Don't worry, Pat. My heart's intact!"

She wanted to be alone. Upstairs in the hallway there was a window. Joan paused there, staring at the darkness outside. If Bob had been casual or indifferent it wouldn't have occurred to her to believe he was beginning to care. But he hadn't been casual. He had seemed eager to be with her. He had been tender and protective—not possessive. The way he looked at her, the way his deep voice dwelt on her name. Well, another girl was probably thinking the same things and coming to the same conclusion. Bob had preferred to be with Barbara, evidently and had broken a date to go there. The chief engineer!

"I won't be like this," Joan determined bravely. "I've always despised suspicious, catty people. I'll just forget him!"

But there was no lifting of the shadow in her eyes. She opened the door to Benny's room. "Benny, you have hardly touched your dinner!" she exclaimed.

"Didn't have much appetite tonight."

Joan stood looking down at him. Her heart ached. How thin he was, and yet how dear and uncomplaining!

"Joan, that Mr. Weston who was here last night is a regular fellow, isn't he? I liked him."

"Yes." She stopped and patted the thin hand. "Tomorrow you're going to the clinic again and be thumped and pummeled." She lifted a pillow and shook it before slipping it under her brother's head.

"Joan, Mr. Weston likes you a lot, doesn't he?"

"Benny," Joan broke in breathlessly. "You romancer! I barely know him."

She sat down beside the bed and began reading. The book related the adventures of Richard, a modern lion-heart, whose deeds furnished a thrilling saga.

Once when dangers were piling up for the valiant Richard she stumbled over the words.

"Why Joan." Benny exclaimed. "You're crying, Richard won't die. You don't think they would drop a hero right in the beginning, do you?"

Yes, you would drop a hero right in the beginning unless you wanted to suffer terribly.

"You look tired," Benny said. "There are black smudges under your eyes."

The black smudges were still there in the morning. But they were not there an hour after breakfast. It is wonderful what magic there can be in a telephone call.

"I'm afraid I called you too early," Bob's deep voice came over the wire. "But I couldn't wait."

He couldn't wait. Happiness came flooding back.

"I was wondering if you couldn't arrange to have lunch with me today, And, Joan, I want to explain about last night."

"It doesn't matter."

"All right, go on being a soft-boiled egg!" came Pat's vehement whisper.

"It was a party a girl I know had planned. She had been trying to get me all day and counted me in anyway. It would have upset things if I had dropped out at that hour. I was sure you would understand."

He knew she would understand! She had been silly.

"About lunch?"

"You're absolutely a sap if you don't show some spirit," from Pat.

"I'm terribly sorry, Bob, but I'll be teaching until noon and I'll be busy this afternoon, too."

"Well, all right. It's going to be a long day for me. But I guess I'll find plenty to do at the plant." His voice sounded cheerful. He had no idea that he was being punished. Joan decided.

"Shall I drop around about seven?"

"Fine," said Joan.

Pat stood in the doorway, her coat and hat on. "You're letting him come tonight?" she asked scornfully.

"Yes," said Joan radiantly. "I am."

"You don't know the first thing about handling men," Pat said. "Not the first thing! Imagine letting him off as easily as that."

"I'm never going to be so silly again," said Joan. "You had me imagining all sorts of things. And there was no reason for it."

She might have felt less lighthearted if she had known that Bob had just put down the telephone when it rang again.

"Hello," said Barbara, "Wasn't it cruel of me to get you up when you had just gone to bed?"

"I had five good hours of sleep. Edison said four was all anybody needed."

"I had to call. You slipped away so early. Couldn't you meet me for lunch. There's something exciting I want to tell you."

Matadors Meet Wildcats Tonight; Westerners Reach Abilene For Tilt

Unshaven Tech Gridmen Reach Scene Of Game

Cawthon's Matadors Storm At The Portals Of Arizona U. With Much Gusto; Odds Go Nearly Even On Arrival

(Special To The Avalanche)

TUCSON, Ariz., Oct. 13.—Alighting from their special railroad car with loud whoops and hoots that might have been taken for war cries, 27 members of the Texas Tech football team took this Western city by storm this afternoon, hustled into busses and scurried out to a practice field where they went through a series of warm-up exercises with all the pep and spirit that has characterized their reputation as the "fighten'est" bunch of gridders in this part of the country.

Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock (mountain time) the Matadors clash with the University of Arizona's Wildcats in a Border Athletic conference game. It is Arizona's "homecoming day" feature, and the campus and the town is alive today with high spirited fans. Perhaps the largest crowd ever to see a football game here will jam the Wildcat stadium tomorrow night.

Matadors Nonchalant

If Coach Pete Cawthon's Matadors felt any uneasiness or fright regarding the outcome of Saturday night's game, they certainly did not let it be known. As nonchalant as if they were playing before their home town fans, they bustled through a workout with vim and vigor that thrilled a big crowd of railbirds, not a few of whom hurried back to town with the idea of "hedging" on wagers that previously favored the Wildcats.

They're here for business—and fun—these Matadors. And a tough-looking bunch they are. Whether their football is good enough to stop the rampaging Wildcats may not be determined until the last gun Saturday night, but they're certain to put up a very tough front. Every lineman on the squad left his razor at home, from all appearances, and the big boys apparently had not used them for a week or two before making the trip. The grizzled warriors, hiding behind several days' growth of stubble, made no effort, however, to conceal their identity. Backfield men, on the other hand, are clean shaven, if not downright handsome.

Coaches Non-Commitant

Coaches Cawthon and Dutchy Smith elected to conceal whatever joy and brightness they had by adopting serious attitudes and going about their work as seriously as judges. To them, it's war, yet they cling to pessimistic outlooks.

After a 26-hour ride on the rails, the Matadors were glad indeed to get on terra firma for a good stretching. Practice enroute was limited to several skull practices and blackboard lectures. A large blackboard is part of the Matador's regular traveling equipment, and this was used to diagram plays that the Wildcats are expected to pull.

Cawthon brought along enough men for two complete teams, and indications are that he will start one and execute a wholesale substitution before the game is old. Asked for his starting lineup, Cawthon named eleven men whom he called the "shock troops," a lineup which did not correspond with previous published reports.

"Shockers" To Start

Braxton Gilmore and Sam Jones at ends; Brigham Young and Bert Williams at tackles; E. Harris and Gaines Davis at guards; Crawford at center; J. V. Beauchamp at quarter; Aubrey Butts and Gwynn Dowell at halfback positions and Leonard Curfman at fullback is the probable lineup Cawthon will start.

Following their brief workout and lumbering up exercises, the Matadors went back to town and continued to make themselves very much at home, although as orderly as any traveling ball club ever to visit Tucson. A long walk about the streets after a late supper, and the Matadors were ready to be tucked in for the night.

While the majority of "book makers" name the Wildcats 5 to 4 favorite over the Matadors tomorrow night, some of the more experienced experts were willing to declare the odds about even. The facts that it is Arizona's home coming, that the Wildcats are some stronger than the team which dropped a 21 to 0 game at Lubbock last year, and Tech's defeat by S. M. U. provide reasons for the short odds.

Two automobile loads of Lubbock fans reached Tucson tonight. Other Tech fans have gathered from various western centers, so the Matadors won't be totally without their rooting section.

Gov. James Rolph, jr., of California pitched the first ball to Ty Cobb opening the first annual northern California semi-pro baseball championship.

Intersectional Games To Feature Grid Card Today

Stanford Battles Northwestern On Chicago Grid

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—The crash of big fellows coming to grips, particularly in the midwest, the far west, and the south, rises over the football lands tomorrow. It's still a bit early for traditional rivalries to appear on the scene, but the brilliance of the intersectional card converging on the midwest, adds in color to a day that still packs plenty of championship significance.

From the pacific coast "Tiny" Thornhill, successor to "Pop" Warner, brings the Stanford Cardinals, headed by the sophomore ball carrying ace, Bobby Grayson, into Chicago for battle with Northwestern; while from the east comes "Gloomy Gil" Dobie and the Red Wave of Cornell to tackle Michigan at Ann Arbor in the intersectional standouts of the day.

Old Rivalry Here

The rivalry of Cornell and Michigan dates all the way back to 1889, making it the oldest of intersectional disputes, but the Ithacans have not appeared in Michigan since 1917 when a team dubbed the "War Brides," with most of the regulars away in service, took a 42 to 0 beating.

Far more recent was the midwest's view of the tricky Stanford offense. In between eastern invasions against Army, Dartmouth and Pittsburgh, the Cardinals played a scoreless tie with Minnesota in 1930 and beat the Gophers on the coast the next year, 13-0.

Stanford Is Favored

Beaten by Iowa, Northwestern is the underdog against Stanford, but Michigan, last year's Big Ten champion, holds a wide edge over Cornell in games that share drawing power potentialities with Notre Dame's comeback effort against Indiana after being held to a scoreless tie by Kansas, and the conference tussles of Minnesota and Purdue, Illinois and Wilson.

Nebraska and Iowa State and Missouri and the Kansas Aggies lock in the first of the "Big Six" title matches.

Navy At Pittsburgh

While the eastern spotlight shines on the invasion of Pittsburgh by Navy's rising might, the husky Trojans of Southern California, national champions by acclamation last season and with strength undiminished, take over the far west stage for the day in battle with St. Mary's, beaten by California last Saturday by a single point. The Olympic Club provides California's opposition while in the northwest, Oregon and Washington meet in their annual thriller.

Across the country the card is sprinkled with interesting invasions, as Ohio State, after overwhelming Virginia 75 to 0 last week, tries a more powerful Southern foe in Vanderbilt. Yale entertains Washington and Lee and Columbia plays host to what's left of Virginia.

Syracuse, a fine looking eleven, seeks revenge against Ohio Wesleyan for last year's 19-12 licking, while Delaware absorbs some of Army's lightning, Marquette takes on Mississippi, and Jim Crowley's rampant Rams at Fordham try butting the strong West Virginia outfit. Oklahoma reaches out of Big Six territory for a shot at Texas.

Dixie rivals swing into action with Maryland pitted against Tulane, Georgia against North Carolina, Auburn against Georgia Tech, and Duke meeting Tennessee in outstanding games.

In the Southwest conference Arkansas, already having beaten Texas Christian, 1932 champions, moves against Baylor while Southern Methodist tackles Rice.

Ralls Edges Out Spur In 7-6 Tilt

SPUR, Oct. 13. (Special)—In the most exciting game of the local season, the Ralls high school Jackrabbits went over for a touchdown in the last minute of play, converted, to score a 7-6 victory here this afternoon against the Spur Bulldogs.

In an attack featuring Bostic, Green, and Scoggins, Spur scored first and until the close of the game it looked as if the home team had things on ice.

But Ralls opened up, and in the dying moments of the contest scored the counter and booted the deciding point.

Powell, Smithy, supplemented by Crump aided powerfully in the conference game, a stage in Rall's drive toward a class B crown.

North Carolina has the son of a governor and of an ex-governor in this year's football camp—Blucher Ehringhaus and Ralph Gardner, respectively.

ARMY PUTS POWER INTO PLAY OFF TACKLE

By ART KRENZ
NEA Service Sports Writer

One of the favorite plays of Gar Davidson at Army has been in use by the Cadets for several years. It is an off - tackle smash which, if executed properly, puts a runner in the clear with few men to bar his path to the goal.

"It was from this play that Cadet Ray Stecker ran 57 yards for the winning touchdown against the Navy in New York during the 1930 season," Davidson told me, explaining this play.

"It was also from this play that Cadet Stecker made the second touchdown against Notre Dame in our 1931 game against the Irish.

"The ball is passed to No. 1 back, who fakes to the right and, behind the interference of back No. 2, turns to the left between the opposing guard and tackle, who have been blocked by the defensive center and guard, and the defensive end and No. 4 back, respectively.

"Back No. 3 cuts across to present defensive linemen from breaking through the right side of the line and messing up the play, while the offensive right guard cuts out of the line to block out the defensive end."

Oklahoma Gets Nod To Defeat Longhorn Team

Game Is Feature At The State Fair Today; 15,000 Customers Expected To See Battle At Fair Park Bowl

DALLAS, Oct. 13. (AP) — Fifteen thousand and perhaps more football fans were expected tomorrow at the Fair Park stadium at 3 o'clock when the University of Oklahoma Sooners and the University of Texas Longhorns engage in their 28th annual gridiron combat.

Eighteenth times since 1900 has the Longhorn gored an Oklahoma team. The Sooners have won eight times, and one game terminated in a 6-all tie.

Ed Olle, athletic business manager at Texas, said today the advance ticket sale indicated at least a crowd of fifteen thousand. The game will be a feature of the Texas-Oklahoma and Traveling men's day at the State fair. The weather forecast was for a cloudy sky and probable showers.

Hilliard Won't Play

Coach Clyde Littlefield's Texas Longhorns arrived here today in time for a light signal drill at the stadium. Littlefield said that Bohn Hilliard, slipper Texas halfback and the Southwest conference leading scorer with 33-points, would not play. Hilliard injured his ankle last week against Nebraska.

The Oklahoma Sooners enroute here via motor bus, stopped at Denton, 41-miles away to take an afternoon workout. The Sooners spent the night at Denton, planning to arrive here Saturday morning.

Longhorns Underdogs

The Sooners are strong favorites. The Longhorns, with a weak line and with Hilliard out of the lineup, have little hope for victory. They dropped a 26 to 0 game last week to Nebraska. The Sooners were smothered by Tulsa university, but their tie game against Vanderbilt makes them loom stronger than the Texans.

Jimmy Hadlock, fleet sophomore, was about the only outstanding backfield man that Texas can offer as a rival for individual ground gaining honors against such Oklahoma stars as Bill Panze, Bob Dunlap, and Nig Robertson. Roland Fagan, Texas quarterback, was injured last week against Nebraska, but is expected to play at least part of the game. He is the best passer on the Texas squad.

Two Conference Tilts On Southwest Card

(By The Associated Press)

Southwest conference football elevens were ready to give the pigskin a run for the money Saturday, two of them in conference games.

The Oklahoma Sooners and the University of Texas Longhorns were in Dallas for an intersectional fray on the gridiron of the state fair of Texas bowl. The University of Arkansas Razorbacks had a warm reception prepared for the Baylor university Bears at Little Rock. Southern Methodist's Mustangs were off to Houston for a clash with the Rice Institute Owls. Texas A. and M. clashed Friday night with Texas Arts and Industries at San Antonio.

The Longhorn camp was none too happy over the fact that Bohn Hilliard, star halfback, still was out with an injured leg, hurt in last Saturday's disastrous battle with Nebraska Cornhuskers. However, Coach Clyde Littlefield was looking for great things from one of his sophomores, Jurecka, Arnold or Laurence.

Arkansas was relying on the flashy running attack centering around Ralph LaForge and had been practising for an aerial onslaught against the Bears. Coach Morley Jennings, however, was looking to Kroney and Williams to bring the Bears out ahead.

The Southern Methodists had high hopes for victory in their first conference game, although most of the Owl stars who were out of last week's encounter because of injuries will be back in action.

Major Ralph Goodsell, crew coach at the University of California at Los Angeles, has proposed each major rowing school on the coast pay for an eastern "guest" crew to participate in a 1934 coast regatta.

Push, Not Pull, Is What Linemen Need — And Get

The next time a locomotive breaks down near St. Louis, they'll just call out Washington University's linemen to clear the tracks. Line Coach Gale Bullman has had his boys out shoving gondolas around to develop power, and above you see them in action. The coach, incidentally, is getting a free ride.

Sports, Cafe Team Winners

Mitchell's Cafe Runs Wild To Bury Huie-Ribble Team And J. & J. Defeats J. C. Penney In One-Sided Contest

Going wild in the third inning as their opponents' defense went to pieces, the Mitchell Cafe team scored fifteen runs that frame and added fifteen others in five of the other six innings to defeat the Huie-Ribble team, 30 to 4, in the first game of indoor baseball double header at the Auditorium last night.

Richard Godeke, whose pitching performance for the City Hall team during the outdoor softball schedule was sensational, turned in a remarkable victory last night for the Mitchell men. In addition to limiting the Huie-Ribble team, champions of the summer American softball league, to six scattered hits, Godeke struck out 15 batsmen, and never was in serious trouble.

Bertram Hit Hard

Seth Bertram, who was an ace hurler for Huie-Ribble during the summer, had his offerings hit all over the big hall last night, the Cafe team collecting 35 bingles. Errors, however, mostly at first base, contributed to the heavy scoring.

In the nightcap, the J. and J. Sporting Goods team, champions of the softball association, had a big time at the expense of Manager Joe Chism's J. C. Penney company team, winning, 17 to 7.

In spite of the heavy scoring, both games were crammed with excitement. The defense of the winning team, almost sensational at times, sparkled all the way, and Godeke's pitching act in the first game provided thrills.

Bat Around Twice

The bat went around twice and started the third time when the Cafe team was hitting in the third inning for 15 runs, Fourteen base hits did the work.

The Mitchell team took the lead from the first, scoring 2 runs in each of the first two innings while the Huie-Ribble team, playing without the services of several star regulars, had to hump to get one run in each. It added 2 in the third, and was held scoreless from then on. Godeke struck out three men in the fourth innings, three in the sixth.

Not content with the third inning splurge, the Cafe boys tallied six times in the fourth, four times in the fifth and again in the sixth.

The second game was closer and tougher. J. and J. hopped off to a two-run lead, and saw it erased when the Penney club scored three times that frame. The count was tied in the second, and the Sports took a lead with two in the third, added five in the fourth, three in the fifth, four in the sixth and counted twice the last inning.

Too Bad Bill Shakespeare Couldn't Coach Grid Team Thinks Mr. Blair Cherry

AMARILLO, Oct. 13. (AP)—"Old Bill Shakespeare would have made a great football coach," in the opinion of Blair Cherry, coach of the Amarillo Golden Sandies high school squad, who spends many an evening alone with Shakespeare's plays.

"He not only would have been able to get the best out of his own men," Cherry said in substantiation of his theory, "but he would have been able to figure out the opposition with his uneanny psychology."

Cherry is an ardent student of Shakespeare. He likes the tragedies best, and "Hamlet" and "King Lear" are his favorites He has read them over and over.

"Shakespeare knew people," Cherry said. "Every type of human being you meet today can be found somewhere in his plays. He knew every quirk of human nature, and his characters are all complex psychological studies —especially in the tragedies."

Cherry became attached to Shakespeare's work when he was required to take a course in Shakespeare as an English requirement at T. C. U.

Jack Sullivan Is Facing 20 Years

Although Jack Sullivan received a 20-year penitentiary sentence in Hale county for bank robbery and a 17-year sentence here for armed robbery, he has only 20 years to serve, the state court of criminal appeals has ruled.

In affirming the Lubbock county sentence, from which Sullivan had appealed, the appeals court held that it should run concurrently with the longer sentence received earlier in Hale county, Charles B. Metcalfe, district courts clerk, said Friday.

Sullivan, a former convict, would have had 37 years to serve had the sentences been accumulative. He was tried before Judge Homer L. Pharr in 72nd district court here.

The robbery charge grew out of his taking an automobile from the owner at pistol-point after escaping from Lubbock county jail.

Sullivan is in the penitentiary at Huntsville.

Ben Kucera of Lubbock was his attorney.

BRAILLE PRINTER DESIGNED

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—A device to print more reading matter for the blind at a lower cost is being built by Lloyd V. Funchess, director of music at the Louisiana State School for the Blind. The mechanism resembles a player piano with a typewriter keyboard, which has a recording unit with a perforated roll. Characters are in Braille.

Head Coach A. N. "Bo" McMillin of the Kansas State college football team took chemistry at the college's summer school and finished with the perfect grade of "A".

Frogs Battle Abilene Club

Christians Appear Before Home Crowd First Time Of Season As Cranfill's Cowboys Come To Fort Worth

FORT WORTH, Oct. 13. (AP)—After four weeks of battling on foreign fields, the Texas Christian university Horned Frogs will be unveiled before the home folk for the first time this season when they meet the Simmons university Cowboys of Abilene tomorrow.

Because of injuries on the line and the desire to gain more power and deception in the backfield Coach Schmidt is starting a slightly different eleven against the Cowboys than has faced previous opponents.

Jimmy Lawrence, the shifty and elusive 181-pound sophomore is being started at quarterback replacing Joe Coleman. However, Lawrence will not direct the team as that duty will fall to Johnny Kitchen, fullback, Charley Casper, left half and Jewel Wallace, right half will complete the backfield.

Tracy Kellow and Lynn Brown will be new faces on the starting lineup, replacing Lee Bassinger and Bud Taylor, who are out with injuries at the guard positions.

Captain Jack Graves and subcaptain Jack Langdon will be at ends with Dick Allison and Cy Perkins tackles and Darrel Lester, center.

Coach Les Cranfill led his Simmons university Cowboys into Fort Worth late today, too late for a workout on the Frog field.

Kimbrough's Badgers Defeat New Mexico Normal, 13 To 0

LAS VEGAS, N. M., Oct. 13. (AP)—Displaying a good offensive attack, the stronger and more experienced Amarillo College eleven defeated the New Mexico Normal university, 13-0, here today.

The visitors hung up their markers in the first and last quarters against the Cowboys who played an excellent defensive game despite the final score.

In 1931 George Hine, of Santa Monica, Calif., won the Southern California public links crown and then won the Santa Monica city championship. Last year Hine's closest friend, Fred Gordon, took both titles away from him.

Lubbock High Is Primed For Eagle Contest

Westerners Seek Revenge Today At Abilene Stadium; Coach Shifts Lineup In Effort To Find Suitable Combination

Primed to score their initial victory over Abilene high school, Coach Weldon Chapman's Lubbock Westerners cope with Mayhew's Eagles at Eagle stadium, this afternoon, 3 o'clock.

By no means overconfident, Coaches Chapman and Huffman—who last week watched the Eagles squelch, with speed and backfield trickery, the heavier and favored San Angelo Bobcats—brought 25 gridsters into Abilene last night, abetted by the high school band.

With A Vengeance

Lubbock's gridiron relations with Abilene, for the last two seasons, have been disasterous. In '31, the Westerners, jaded and overplayed bi-district champions, 28 charleyhorses to the man, fell before the thrusts of an Eagle-secondary composed of all-stater Glynn Wyatt, Sad Sam Jones, now of the Tech Matadors, and the blocking half, Lemon Blackmon.

Last year the Eagles returned to Lubbock to hand defeat again to the Westerners by a lone counter.

Chapman Shifts Lineup

Indications were strong that Coach Chapman's starting line-up would be radically different from the set-up thus far. And Mayhew, the Abilene mentor, howling injuries, says he's going to start his reserves this afternoon. The Eagles, according to the latest weights given out by Mayhew, will give a lot of poundage to Lubbock's entry. Mayhew, however, kicked a flock of fat boys off his squad after the Sweetwater game.

The Eagle backs, Brookshire, Pennington, Cogdell, and Brookshire, are short, stocky little fellows, geared and built somewhat along the lines of Granbury, Galbraith, out now with injuries, is rangier and just as fast. The Eagle forwards are swift-moving and well-oiled.

Lubbock's probable starting lineup follows: Ends, Griggs and Meador; tackles, Wimberly and Doherty; guards, Hodges and Phillips; center, Young; halves, Newton and Calhoun; quarter, Ryan; fullback, Hale.

Crosbyton Beats Post Team, 12-6

POST, Oct. 13. (Special) — In a hard-fought and exciting melee, the outcome of which was in doubt until the last, Post Antelopes lost to the Crosbyton high school football team by a 12-6 score.

Fighting all the way with an attack that frequently promised results, the Antelopes, nevertheless found the deft-fingered and nimble-footed Crosbyton team too much for them.

It was a conference game between the two aggregations, Post and Crosbyton being the members of the same class B district.

THE RETURN OF TARZAN, No. 54

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

In half an hour they came stealthily upon a small party of black warriors filing toward the west. As Tarzan saw them he gave a cry of delight. It was a band of his own Waziri. Busuli was there and others who had accompanied him to Opar. At sight of him they danced and shouted in exuberant joy. They had been searching for him for weeks.

The blacks exhibited considerable wonderment at the presence of the white girl with him, and when they found she was to be his woman, they vied with one another to do her honor. With the happy Waziri laughing and dancing about them, they came to the rude shelter by the shore. There was no sign of life, and no response to their calls.

Tarzan clambered quickly to the interior of the little tree hut. There he found the still emaciated form of Clayton. Lines of suffering were upon the once young handsome face. Clasped in his dead hand were some sheets of faded yellow paper. Tarzan of the Apes drew a fold of cloth across the upturned face. Then he beckoned Jane to come up.

For a moment they remained kneeling there, the girl's lips moving in silent prayer. As they arose Tarzan handed her the dead man't pitiful diary, day by day sentences filled with the tragedy of his situation until he was too weak to write more. Through her tears the girl read the tale of suffering and devotion to her. And as she read her eyes went very wide.

Sisto And Refugia Married But Date Not Own Choosing

Sisto and Refugia were married yesterday—Black Friday — but selection of the date was not entirely of their own choosing.

The Mexican couple sought a marriage license Thursday at the county clerk's office. Refugia's parents objected to the marriage, declaring their daughter was only 17.

County Clerk Ed D. Allen yesterday said he established the girl was 18 and issued a license. Sisto is 38. Justice of the Peace W. S. (Uncle Billy) Clark married the couple.

Texas Cattle Leader States Prices Are Going Up Under Federal Plans

DEL RIO, Oct. 13. (AP)—There is going to be a big increase in cattle prices. Canner cows are not going to be sold at $1.50 a hundred and calves are not going to bring $15 when the government gets its scheme in operation in the cattle market, says Dolph Briscoe of Uvalde, president of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers association, when told of the announcement of the compensatory levies to stimulate cattle and sheep prices.

"Cheap cattle are going to double in price and big cattle will get a real increase in value," he said. "I have seen it coming for a good while. A year ago I told the cattlemen that we were making a mistake to oppose the process tax. Now we are excluded from the benefits of this act, but the government has other ways of doing the same thing.

"Those fellows at Washington are consistent, however. They are not going to do anything for any industry that is suffering from overproduction if that industry will not do something itself to curb the overproduction. That is what gives me so much confidence in the ability of the department to solve the agriculture problem.

"Everybody has said that the low prices of Agricultural products is what is prolonging the depression. They are trying to get these prices up and have shown some success. We've got an overproduction of beef and a lot of hungry people. The government has determined upon a policy of trying to help both the hungry and the producers to passing the food along to the hungry and getting the overproduction off the market at the same time.

"I think it is going to work. As it goes through its operation it provides aid all down the line; the cattle go to market over the railroads which the government wants to help. They are sold in the stockyards by the commission men and killed or processed by the packers who thereby give more employment to labor.

"But this is all temporary if the cattle industry itself does not do something to curb the over-supply. We've got to help, too, if the thing is going to be anything but a trival, passing relief measure."

Driver Of Cab Is Exonerated

Self-Styled Mobster Declares He Will Take His Own Rap; Is Being Held On Charges Of Robbery

FORT WORTH, Oct. 13. (AP)—Joey Beam, self-styled "Kansas City mobster" who is held here on four robbery charges, today exonerated a St. Louis taxicab driver of blame in connection with a Kansas City restaurant holdup on October 3.

Everett L. Kirk, 30, the taxicab driver, said in Kansas City that he was forced to assist a man in the holdup. Beam admitted that he was the robber and said he had forced Kirk to drive him to Kansas City from East St. Louis.

"He is innocent," said Beam. "I don't want him or anybody else to take the rap for me."

Beam also said he was one of two gunmen who, a short time ago, forced a Kansas City doctor to remove a bullet from the ankle of one. Beam said he and a pal were cleaning a gun when it went off, the bullet lodging in his "pal's" ankle.

Posing as a member of the thirty sixth division attending a reunion here Saturday night Beam forced Jim Little, a taxicab driver to take part in two holdups. The former school teacher and ex-convict believes he was "squealed on" by a girl he had befriended here Sunday night after committing the robberies.

An Associated Press story from Kansas City said that Kirk had identified a picture of Beam as the man who forced him to take part in the restaurant robbery. Sheriff Thomas B. Bash of Kansas City expects local authorities to send Beam to Kansas City for trial.

Beam said he held up Kirk as he came through Kansas City, while "on the bum" to the south.

"I was short of cash and made him drive me to Kansas City," explained the ex-convict. "Then I forced him to help me hold up a hamburger stand. As we left I saw a car of officers nearby. That was a bad break. "The officers chased us, shooting at us every inch of the way. Finally I told the taxi driver to stop. I emptied my pistol at the officers and took it on the lam.

Beam arrived here last Friday night. He was tired from long hours of "riding the rails" he said, and bought a sedative to make him sleep. Then he committed the robberies here Saturday night, Beam continued, and went to a low priced downtown hotel.

Man Travels Long Way To Find Dog

CHILDRESS, Oct. 13. (AP)—This is the story of two men and their dog When the body of Gilbert Fox was found on the Fort Worth and Denver tracks, a little white dog curlee up on his master's coat, sat guarding the body. Inside a cot pocket, police found a small card on which had been written: "My name is Tiny. Please give me a home."

Police concluded that Fox had intended to tie the card bout the dog's neck.

A Quanah man, whose dog was missing, read about Tiny. He spent all the money he had for oil and gas and headed for Childress in a worn out car. The car's bearings burned out on the highway. The driver hailed a bus, and a passenger paid his fare after hearing the story about the lost dog.

Only sorrow awaited the man here. Tiny was not his dog.

Paul Goes To Antioch

Text: Acts 11:19-30; 12-25

International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Oct. 15

By Wm. E. Gilroy, D. D., Editor Of The Congregationalist

THE evil that men do lives after them as well as the good they have done. Even when a man has been converted, the sins of his ignorance and blindness though they may be forgiven are not altogether wiped out in the seriousness of their consequences and results.

So, though Paul had been saved from the error of his persecuting zeal and had been brought into the light of the truth of the religion of love and grace, the effects of the persecution that he and others had exercised against the Christians went on.

One of these effects—a valuable thing in the light of Christian history—was the scattering of the Christians from Jerusalem. Some of these early Christians came to Antioch and it was here, we are told, that the followers of Jesus were first called "Christians."

* * *

THIS Antioch was the capital of Syria. It was situated on the river Orontes, 20 miles from the sea and about 300 miles north of Jerusalem. This city is to be distinguished from another Antioch—Antioch in Pisidia—which also appears in the life of Paul.

These two Antiochs were the most prominent of 16 cities of the same name throughout the then known world. They had been founded by Greek monarchs and thus named in their honor.

The emergence of Christianity in the Syrian Antioch is symbolic of the nature and place of Christianity in the world. Situated on the great lines of trade between east and west, Antioch was a capital of great prosperity and splendor.

Its colonnaded streets stretched for miles, and its public monuments and buildings were conspicuous as the survivals of an age of outward glory.

BUT the life of the city was full of corruption and the licentiousness of its inhabitants was so much a byword in the ancient world that when men would point to the moral degradation of Rome, they were accustomed to say that "the Orontes had overflown the Tiber."

It seems necessary to grasp so much in the setting if we would understand the place that Antioch occupied in Paul's religious life and missionary journies. This capital of licentious living became, also the new capital of a world movement of vitalizing power.

Here in Antioch distinctive conquests of the Christian faith were begun as certain Greeks or Gentiles responded to Christian teaching. The report of this came to the Church at Jerusalem, and Barnabas was sent as a messenger and counselor to encourage those who had accepted the new faith.

WE do not know a great deal concerning Barnabas, but what we do know marks him as a man of distinctive and very noble character. The record here is that "he was a good man, full of the Holy Spirit and of faith." He had proven that by a devotion in which he had consecrated all his wealth and property to the common good of the Christian Church.

Barnabas was among the first courageously to accept Paul when the erstwhile persecutor had professed conversion to the Christian way. The Christians at Jerusalem naturally feared and distrusted this man whom they had known as chief among their foes. But Barnabas had vouched for the reality of his change of heart; and now Barnabas goes in quest of Paul and, finding him at Tarsus, brings him to Antioch.

The Christians in Antioch, hearing of the distress of their fellow Christians in Jerusalem, contributed liberally to their relief, sending their gifts through Barnabas and Paul, who went to Jerusalem. The men returned shortly to Antioch ready to begin their first notable missionary journey, in which we shall find them well launched in the next lesson.

Policy Board For Oil Is Announced

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13. (AP) — Creation of a labor policy board in the oil administration was announced today by Secretary Ickes.

This board will consult with Ickes, oil administrator, and the planning and coordinating committee to aid in determining "the many basic questions of principle and interpretation affecting labor which must be decided within a short time.

"The new board," Ickes said, "will make a general study of the labor situation in the industry to assure labor a full realization of the advantages provided by the code. It will determine the most practicable method of investigation in dealing with complaints and violations of labor provisions to secure successful enforcement of the code.

"The labor policy board will advise the petroleum administrative board, already organized within the department of interior by the secretary to advise him.

"The labor policy board will consist of three representatives of the petroleum industry experienced in public relations; three representatives of labor appointed by Secretary Ickes and a chairman likewise to be named by the secretary and selected from the present membership of the petroleum administrative board. Complete personnel of the board will be announced within the next week.

DALLAS, Oct. 13. (AP) The attention of Texas Methodism is reverted on the approaching six annual conferences to be held within the state, since a total of 77 delegates to the approaching general conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, will be elected at the various conference sessions.

Dates and meeting places of the conferences follows: North Texas, October 25, at Denison, with Bishop H. A. Boaz presiding; West Texas, October 26 at San Antonio, with Bishop Sam R. Hay; Texas Mexican, November 2, at San Antonio, with Bishop James Cannon, jr.; Texas, November 2 at Tyler, with Bishop Boaz; Central Texas, November 9 at Corsicana, with Bishop Hay; and Northwest Texas, November 9 at Clarendon, with Bishop Boaz.

Members of the North Texas conference will elect eight clerical and eight lay delegates; West Texas conference, six clerical and six lay delegates; Texas Mexican conference, one clerical delegate Texas conference, nine clerical and nine lay delegates; Central Texas conference, nine clerical and nine lay delegates; and Northwest Texas conference, six clerical and six lay delegates.

Of outstanding interest at the approaching conferences will be the report of the committee appointed to survey Methodist institutions of learning in Texas in cooperation with the general board of Christian education. It is expected that the conferences owing the colleges involved will take some action approving or rejecting the recommendations of the committee. It is generally understood that these recommendations, if adopted, will, through consolidations or discontinuance, reduce the number of Methodist institutions of learning from nine to six or less. Five church schools are involved in the reduction plan, namely, Southern university at Georgetown; Texas Woman's college at Fort Worth; Kidd-Key at Sherman; Wesley at Greenville; and Weatherford at Weatherford.

Warships Are Withdrawn As Quiet Prevails Over Cuba

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13. (AP) — Quieter conditions today prompted the removal of American warships from Cuban ports, but 16 vessels remained in the island waters.

The vessels stationed to safeguard American nationals at Manzanillo, Mantanzas, Cienfuegos and Puerto Padre were included in the withdrawal. They were respectively the destroyer Hamilton, coast guard cutter Hunt, destroyer Goff and coast guard cutter Gresham.

State department officials said action meant no change in the status of the present Cuban government so far as recognition was concerned.

Puts the Jinx on Body Odor!

Science Says Good-Bye to Medicine-Smelling Soaps!

Science has made a new discovery about body odor. It is caused by stale perspiration curds, and requires deep-pore cleansing. It cannot be ended by ordinary soaps, because their sluggish lathers cannot reach into the pores and cleanse them. Instead the soap combines with the waste material and forms clogging curds!

Kirk's Coco Castile soap works in an entirely different way. No matter how hard the water, this 100% pure vegetable oil soap breaks instantly into a searching, bubbly lather. This bubbly lather cleans deep into the pores, actually removes the embedded stale perspiration curds — then rinses out completely, and in a flash. Thus it ends body odor at its source!

Delightful to use, Kirk's Coco Castile is entirely free from M. S. (medicine smell). And stimulating to the skin. A big generous cake, half again larger than the average toilet soap, and now at the lowest price in history! At this new reduced price, it is America's outstanding soap bargain. Be sure to ask for Kirk's Castile by name—at your grocer's.
