COMFORT AT WORK

Comfortable clothes make all the difference when there's work to be done. A case in point are these cotton herringbone twill pants and lightweight matching shirt. They will never shrink out of their easy, comfortable fit, even after countless washings because they are Sanforized. Reverse pleats on the trousers give extra wearing comfort.

Parents Asked To Obtain Birth Certificates Now

Attention parents:

Now would be a fine time to request copies of birth records for children entering school for the first time in September.

To delay is to risk being caught in the August rush.

That is the word from W. D. Carroll, state registrar, who remembers with vivid clarity last year's swamped condition in the Bureau of Vital Statistics at the State Department of Health.

Many schools require certified copies of birth certificates as proof that a child is six years old before permitting the child to be enrolled, Carroll advised. But he strongly urged parents to make a personal check with school officials in their areas to determine for sure that birth records are required in those sections.

If they are, by all means make requests for copies of these records early.

The unidentified person, believed to be from Oklahoma, was found by passing tourists about 6:45 o'clock Tuesday morning. He was lying across the center line of the highway, 12.7 miles east of Groom, patrolmen said.

The only identification found on him was a physician's prescription issued in Blackwell, Okla., to Andrew Marcum.

Patrolmen said the man apparently had been hitchhiking on the highway when he was struck.

HOTTEST RACE IN STATE IS FOR GOVERNOR

The political pot, especially in the state governor's race, was boiling hot this week as campaigning neared its end. Voters go to the polls from 8 o'clock Saturday morning until 7 in the evening in the Democratic and Republican primaries to cast their ballots for their favorites.

Governor Allan Shivers, running for re-election, and his principal opponent, Ralph Yarbrough, were still slugging it out, but Shivers appeared to have the upper hand as the primary date came closer. Other gubernatorial hopefuls, about whom the voters are hearing little, are Cyclone Davis and J. J. Holmes.

Other state races are stirring up only minor interest. They include the lieutenant governor's race, in which incumbent Ben Ramsey is opposed by C. T. Johnson and George Hinson; the attorney general's race, with John Ben Shepperd opposed by Doug Crouch; the U. S. senator's campaign, Lyndon B. Johnson opposed by Dudley T. Dougherty; supreme court, Few Brewster, opposed by Alfred M. Scott and Robert B. Keenan; and the court of criminal appeals, with W. C. Graves, Sam Davis, Alan Haley, and Lloyd W. Davidson in the race.

On the local scene, the hottest race is that for county judge. J. B. Maguire Jr., running for a second term, is opposed by former county judge Bruce L. Parker and L. P. Fort, Pampa businessman. This race actually hasn't stirred up as much interest as was originally predicted, but no person seems to want to predict the outcome.

In the county treasurer's race, Miss Ola Gregory, present office-holder, is getting a hot race from Mrs. Sherman White, wife of the late county judge. The campaign has been a fairly clean race to date.

Still more locally, Constable Luke Henley and J. D. Fish are seeking the constable's post. This race, also, has been marked by the clean sportsmanship on the part of both candidates.

In other opposed races, County Attorney Bill Waters is expected to have little trouble in defeating Harold Sanderson of Miami for the post of district attorney; and Walter Rogers is expected to run away from his two opponents, George W. Crawford and Mike Kemp, in his race for re-election to Congress.

Running unopposed will be Grainger McIlhany of Wheeler for state representative; Mrs. Helen Sprinkle, for district clerk; Rufe Jordan, for sheriff; Jack Back, for tax assessor-collector; Charlie Thut, for county clerk; Don Cain, for county attorney; J. C. Claborn, for justice of the peace, pre-

Wheat Referendum to Be Held Friday

The national referendum on marketing quotas for the 1955 wheat crop will be held Friday, July 23, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson has reminded farmers.

Two-thirds of the wheat growers who vote must approve the quotas before they may be put into effect.

Under present supply conditions, it was explained, Secretary Benson has no choice but to proclaim wheat quotas whenever the supply exceeds 20 per cent of normal. The normal supply, as calculated under provisions of the controlling legislation, is a year's domestic and export requirements plus 15 per cent as a reserve. Actually, the available supply for 1954-55 is about 79 per cent above normal.

If the quotas are approved, producers who comply with their farm wheat acreage allotments may market all the wheat they produce in any way they choose. They will also be eligible for the full level of price support which is authorized for the 1955 crop, apparently somewhere between 75 and 90 per cent of parity. Those wheat producers subject to the marketing quotas —those with more than 15 acres of wheat—will lose their price support eligibility if they do not comply with their acreage allotments; and they will also be subject to a marketing quota penalty on their excess wheat.

If the quotas are disapproved by the growers Friday, there will be no marketing quotas and no marketing penalties. Price supports would be 50 per cent of parity for those who comply with acreage allotments, which will continue in effect even if quotas are voted down.

Eligibility for price support, with or without marketing quotas, will also require compliance with all crop allotments established for a farm in 1955. In addition, a "total acreage allotment" will be estalished for all farms where more than ten acres are diverted from production of allotment crops. A producer will be forced to comply with the total acreage allotment if one is established for his farm, as well as with all individual crop allotments, in order to be eligible for price support on any crop.

At High School—

AUDITORIUM BEING RE-PAINTED

If you'd like to see a scaffolding what is a scaffolding, we'll recommend you take a peek into the auditorium of McLean High School.

The auditorium is being redecorated this summer by Chris Bjerg, and he has erected a scaffolding which allows him to reach almost all points in the high-ceilinged room.

At the present time, Bjerg is working on the ceiling, but is about through with the painting of this portion. Several plaster patch jobs must be done before he can redecorate the walls of the auditorium.

The entire interior of the auditorium is to be refinished—for the first time in many years.

In addition, Jiggs Hinton and Bill McAllister have been awarded the contract for redecorating the lower floor of the high school building. Last summer, the second floor was re-done.

Hinton and McAllister started work this week on the classrooms, and will refinish all lower floor rooms, as well as the hallways.

This work on the high school building is in addition to that already done on the grounds of both buildings, and the work at the football field.

The east stands at Duncan Field have been completely overhauled, with new lumber replacing the rotted out portions. Other improvements at the field have also been made during the summer, and the turf on the playing field is in excellent shape.

MRS. DON BURSON LIGHT

Donna Stubblefield And Don B. Light United in Marriage

Miss Donna Gail Stubblefield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Earl Stubblefield of McLean, and Don Burson Light, son of Mr. and Mrs. O. Z. Light of Panhandle, were united in marriage Thursday evening, July 15, at 7:30 o'clock.

The double-ring ceremony was read by Rev. H. A. Longino at the McLean Methodist Church against a background of tiered candelabra, baskets of white mums and gladioli, with jade foliage and plumous. Garlands of plumous studded at intervals with white mums, fastened with white satin bows, were draped along the white satin-covered chancel and altar rails.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a gown of crystal white French lace and tulle over slipper satin. The sculptured, elongated bodice of lace was designed with an oval neckline, edged with a tiny band of shirred lace. Miniature lace buttons fastened the gown down the back, and the long lace sleeves tapered to deep petal points over her hands. The very bouffant skirt of misty tulle was caught onto scalloped shirred bands of lace below the hip line and the tulle over satin drifted to a formal length train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid showered with stephanotis and satin ribbons.

June Stubblefield, sister of the bride, was maid-of-honor. She wore a waltz length dress of dream blue tulle. The bodice was styled with a gathered off-the-shoulder drape which flowed into knee-length streamers down the back.

The bridesmaids were Dortha Chase, Floella Cubine, Mitzie Wilson and Ann Cooper; and the junior bridesmaids, Lynn and Kay Stubblefield. They wore dresses of heavenly blue net styled exactly like that of the maid-of-honor and bridesmaids wore identical blue picture hats and blue shoes. The junior bridesmaids wore blue half hats trimmed with white forget-me-nots. The flower girl, Elaine Stubblefield, cousin of the bride, wore a white dress styled identically like the bridesmaids, a white half hat trimmed with blue bows, and carried a bouquet of white spider mums.

The bride carried out the traditional something new, old, borrowed, blue, and a sixpence in her shoe. The something new was a single strand of pearls (gift from the groom); old, the Bible; borrowed, pearl earrings belonging to her sister; blue, blue garters; and a penny in her shoe.

Bill Weaks of Plainview was his cousin's best man. Candlelighters were Bob and Jerry Stubblefield, brothers of the bride. Ushers and groomsmen were Bill Jinks of Canyon, Dale Roselius and Delmer Tuggle of Panhandle, and Charlie Chambless of Borger.

Miss Peggy Jo Eastus of Dallas, cousin of the bride, was organist. The wedding music included "Serenade," "Ave Maria," "O Promise Me," "I Love You Truly," and the traditional marches. "O Perfect Love" was played during the ceremony. Miss Peggy Jean Loveless of Dallas was soloist. Her numbers were "Because" and "Through the Years."

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Stubblefield chose a mauve lace dress over silk shantung, with navy accessories and a corsage of white roses. The groom's mother, Mrs. Light, wore a blue lace dress over shantung, with white accessories and a corsage of white roses.

A rehearsal dinner was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Allison, with Mr. and Mrs. Emory Crockett as co-host and hostess.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the garden of the Stubblefield home. Wrought iron hurricane lamps and baskets of glads and mums encircled the serving table. The table was covered with a blue net cloth over blue satin. The centerpiece was an arrangement of white mums and gladioli in a silver and crystal epergne. The cake was three tiered, with a white miniature bride and groom under an arch of forget-me-nots and wedding bells. Mrs. C. T. Cline Jr. presided at the punch bowl and Mrs. Dwight Stubblefield served the cake. Both are of Amarillo. Miss Peggy Jo Eastus registered the guests.

Co-hostesses for the reception were Mesdames C. T. Cline Sr., Ray Eastus, Clifford Allison, Emory Crockett, Amos Thacker, R. T. Dickinson, Ercy Cubine, and Paul Kennedy.

For the wedding trip to New Mexico and Colorado, the bride wore a two-piece dress of blue Italian silk shantung fashioned with a peplum jacket and gored skirt. Rhinestone clips decorated the shoulders. She wore white accessories and a white orchid corsage. The couple plans to live in Ralls, where the groom will be assistant football coach this fall.

The bride is a graduate of McLean High School where she was active in the band, was band twirler, a member of the F. H. A., Curtain Club, and Press Club, and was assistant editor of the Tumbleweed, high school annual. She is a past worthy advisor of the Order of Rainbow for Girls. She attended West Texas State College in Canyon, where she was a 1953 football queen attendant, and is a member of Tau Beta Sigma sorority.

Mr. Light graduated from Panhandle High School, where he was active in football, track, and basketball. He will graduate from WTSC in August. He is active in football at the college, vice president of the Buffalo "T" Club, and was waterfront director at Boy Scout Camp Ki-O-Wah at Canadian.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Cline of Amarillo, grandparents of the bride; Mrs. G. A. French of Springfield, Oreg., great-grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nunn, Mr. and Mrs. Don Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Nunn, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. WE'LL TAKE SHIVERS

IT IS OUR SINCERE BELIEF that Allan Shivers will be better for Texas and its people if he is given an opportunity to serve as governor for another two-year term. With this thought in mind, we are offering five considerations for you to study as basic issues in determining which gubernatorial condidate you should support in Saturday's primary.

These are the five issues:

1. Allan Shivers has taken leadership in a successful fight to keep Communists out of Texas. His successful efforts to get a law passed outlawing the Communist party in Texas have led to a commendation from President Syngman Rhee, who should know, if anyone, of the dangers of tolerating a Communist party.

2. He has taken leadership in the defense of states rights against the strong federal centralized government. Yet he is sensible in his views about states' rights, and doesn't let them stand in the way of asking for federal aid for agriculture, flood relief, highways, and other matters which are of proper federal interest. His principal opponent can be classed in the same group with the liberals who favor more federal control.

3. Shivers has had the courage to throw off the brass collar of the Democratic party, and to support Republican nominees when he has felt that the interests of Texas were best served by voting for Republicans.

4. He led the fight which led to recovery of ten miles of the offshore lands or "tidelands" by the state of Texas, after an earlier error of judgment when he said that it would be better to share the offshore lands and their revenues with the federal government. His critics are attacking him for his statement of 1949, before he assumed the responsibility of the fight as governor. But Shivers is a man who can see when he has made a mistake and correct it, instead of sticking with a wrong decision for consistency's sake.

5. He is opposed to the dictatorial demands of the CIO-PAC, and in turn is opposed by it.

The fact that Shivers is seeking a third term should have little or nothing to do with the decision you make. Just because no other man has sought a third term doesn't make it a crime to do so. When you get a good man, it's wise, isn't it, to keep him on the job.

Texas needs a steady, experienced hand during the coming two years. We believe Allan Shivers has that hand.

The young mother was entertaining her bridge club when her small daughter burst into the room.

"Oh, mother," she cried, "there's a stranger in the kitchen, and he has the maid in the corner, hugging her."

"Good heavens!" exclaimed the hostess "You'll have to excuse me for a moment, ladies . . . "

"Don't go, mother," screamed little daughter, "I was only fooling! It wasn't a stranger at all—it's only daddy."

LES TALK
By LESTER

I'm hoping mighty strongly that all of you who are eligible to vote will go to the polls Saturday and vote. The person for whom you vote is of little consequence to me; but I sincerely believe that if every person will vote, the best man or woman candidate will be elected. At least the person will be chosen by the majority of voters. That's very important. The choice of the majority of all voters (not just those who vote, but the majority of all) will usually turn out to be the best.

* * *

In the state races, I plan to vote for Allan Shivers for governor; Ben Ramsey for lieutenant governor; John Ben Shepperd for attorney general; Lyndon B. Johnson for U. S. senator; Few Brewster for the supreme court; and W. C, Graves for the court of criminal appeals.

In the race for U. S. representative, I plan to vote for Walter Rogers, for I think he will be able to serve us better in the next two years than either of his opponents. Frankly, I know very little about his opponents; and although I don't always agree with Walter Rogers, at leasts I know how he stands, for he doesn't mind letting me, or anyone else in the district, know.

The offices which I have mentioned above are the only ones being contested.

As for the candidates for local offices (district, county, and precinct), I'd rather not say for whom I will vote in the races where there is opposition. It wouldn't do anybody any good if I did, and I would only irritate some people. There are too many personal issues at stake in a local race.

* * *

For some strange reason, I seldom ever get the initials correct when I write something about G. F. Baker. I insist on using the initials, "G. W." Week before last, Mr. Baker came in and gave me a local news item about a visit he and Mrs. Baker made over the July 4 week-end. I even asked him again (for the umpteenth time) for his correct initials. He told me "G. F." and I wrote down "G. W." It came out in the paper "G. W.," of course. In the future when you see an item about the Bakers, please come in and let me explain personally which Baker I mean. Because, chances are, I'll have it wrong in the paper again.

Guess you've been noticing the write-ups in the paper about the Dale Carnegie course to be offered here. This course is one of the most miraculous courses I have ever heard of. The manner in which it is presented during its 15 weeks of meeting (once weekly) is so different from any other instruction I had ever had, it simply amazed me. For the details about the course, I urge you to attend the free demonstration meeting in the basement of the McLean Methodist Church Thursday evening, July 29, at 7 o'clock. You will be under no obligation to take the course; and after you've been given some idea of what it's all about, you may be eager to accept the opportunity of taking it.

We've all heard of it getting so hot an egg can be fried on the sidewalk. Saw a story in the dailies the other day about a lady downstate who got three "fresh" eggs from her chicken house and brought them in to prepare for a meal. Upon cracking open the eggs she discovered that two of the three were baked. That's getting pretty warm, isn't it?

Don't forget to vote Saturday.

Daughter Chris, age five now, has her little heart broken occasionally when some of the older kids refuse to play with her. She just doesn't understand why. The other day, she and Donna Sutton turned the tables on Donna's little brother Dennis. I was in the back yard, and the three of them came back there. Chris and Donna said to Dennis, "Now, Denny, you stay back here and play on the swings by yourself." So Dennis did, although he plainly didn't like the idea.

A short time later, Chris came back, and I said, "Now, Chris, you know how you feel when some of the older kids don't want to play with you. Why did you and Donna make Dennis stay here alone?"

She had no answer to that one. Perhaps it did teach her a small lesson. At least for five minutes or so.

Alanreed Notes

J. C. McClellan and wife, who have been visiting the S. R. Loftin family, are spending the remainder of the summer in Colorado.

Grandpas Mangum and Davis are on the sick list this week, but we hope they will soon be up.

Miss Dora Agee came home from Canyon, where she had been attending the normal, with a severe case of typhoid fever.

A. McEachern and wife are visiting relatives here.

John Hext and others arrived Wednesday to be with Grandpa Davis in his sickness. Grandpa visited a specialist in Oklahoma last week and it was decided an operation would be useless.

P. F. Yoacham has accepted a position with O. C. Brown of Jericho. We regret to lose such citizens as Ferris and his family, but we hope success and happiness will follow them.

Messrs. Yoacham, McCracken, and Crisp have just had their dwellings re-painted. Others should follow.

One of our young men looks so "smily" here of late we think it means something out of the ordinary.

Elmer Reeves' family is visiting in Ochiltree this week. As e passed his house this morning he was preparing a cnicken for breakfast and we heard a soft voice singing, "What Is Home Without a Mother?"

There is not a vacant house in Alanreed and before P. F. Yoacham was sure about moving to Jericho he had several applications to rent his house.

W. M. Greenwood has sold out in Oklahoma, has shipped his household goods to Alanreed, and will be here with his family in a few days. He and Prof. Shultz will either have to move into a house with somebody, build, or move into a tent. Where is the town that can say as much?

Carloads of cattle, hogs, and alfalfa are frequently shipped from here.

E. F. Elms, with his new machine, is busily engaged in threshing the grain crops of Alanreed.

With good roads, good crops, good land, and good people, Alanreed must and will succeed.

Mrs. Nunn Entertains

Complimentary to her sister, Miss Lena Nunn, who is visiting her from Erick, Okla., Mrs. D. H. Nunn entertained eight couples at her home in the west part of town Tuesday evening of this week. The feature of the evening's entertainment was progressive games and the keen rivalry of the games was very much enjoyed.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served and all who attended reported the occasion a most pleasurable one.

At Mrs. Watkins'

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Watkins was the scene on Thursday of last week of a most enjoyable social affair when these hospitable people entertained about 35 guests, young and old mingling in the merriment of the evening with equal zest. Progressive forty-two and many other interesting games were indulged in to the delight of all present.

At the conclusion of the evening's pleasure, delicious refreshments, consisting of ice cream and cake, were served. There was also a very enjoyable impromptu musical program rendered by Misses Maude Thomp- and Maude Gardenhire.

The stars and stripes in the American flag were suggested by the coat of arms of the Washington family.

George Washington had no opponents for either of his elections to the presidency.

In 1861 there were two presidents in the United States—Lincoln in the North and Jefferson Davis in the South.

Earliest New England houses were built of thick planks instead of logs, as is generally believed.

SCIENCE and your Health

TREATING A "NEW" DISEASE

By Science Features

A mysterious disease called pancreatic fibrosis affects one out of 300 infants. Treated for many years, as a combination of pneumonia and an intestinal disease causing malnutrition, it almost always proved fatal to the young sufferers. Even though thousands of children were affected, pancreatic fibrosis was regarded as a "new" disease by many doctors.

Finally, in 1938, Dr. Dorothy H. Andersen of Columbia University, put together the symptoms and various changes made on the body by pancreatic fibrosis, and medical science recognized the "new" disease.

Pancreatic fibrosis produces a double attack on youngsters. A heavy mucus liquid forms in the lungs causing a severe cough and hampering breathing. This condition also results in frequent infections, such as pneumonia and bronchitis. The second set of symptoms affects the pancreas and it fails to deliver its quota of enzymes to the digestive system. The children, though they eat large amounts of food, are underweight and suffer from malnutrition.

As a result of medical research, better methods for treating these patients have been evolved. A series of tests on 49 patients was recently conducted for 15 months by four Boston doctors. They found that the broad-range antibiotics, such as terramycin, were the most effective in this disease, protecting the child against lung infections and at the same time stimulating his growth. With proper diet and careful treatment, the children now have a new lease on life.

Congress May Hold Until Labor Day

By Congressman Walter Rogers

Adjournment Hopes Fade

Congressional goings-on have really warmed up and the pressure is on full steam for an adjournment by July 31. However many of the observers are predicting August 15 as the earliest, and perhaps Labor Day. It will all depend with what speed the Senate moves in getting some of the highly controversial measures back to the House. The Senate amendments will probably require conference committees. These conference committee hearings can get pretty steamed up at times and the debate can get rather lengthy. Unless compromises can be reached on amendments to these controversial measures, earlier adjournment just won't be. This situation has kept many of us in Washington when we would have preferred to be in our districts. I had definitely planned on getting back home not later than July 10, but I knew this plan was knocked in the head when they started talking about adjourning July 31. Once a definite target is set for adjournment of the Congress, it is like beginning on the first dip of a roller coaster. From that time on, you have to hold your seat and hat at the same time and keep your eyes open, up and down and sideways. It looked as though I would not even be able to get home to cast my vote, so I sent for an absentee ballot to serve as a safety net. However, things did slow down a little bit in the House this last week, and I am definitely planning on coming home for several days around the 24th. How long, will depend upon the measures coming up before my committee and the Congress during the week following the 24th.

The Investigation Business

Hawkshawing appears to be holding its own as a national pastime. From the looks of the House calendar, it appears that Hawkshaws are going to start investigating each other. I have reference to House Resolution 439, which provides for the appointment of a special committee to the House of Representatives to investigate the campaign expenditure of various candidates of the House of Representatives. Setting up this committee before the campaigns are over looks like somebody might be anticipating something. The important thing about some campaign expenditures is not the expenditure itself, but where it came from. Anyway, it might turn out to be a pretty good show when the investigators get to investigating the investigators.

The Health Bill

I was very much surprised when some of the folks around here were surprised because the so-called Health Bill did not pass the House of Representatives. It was quite questionable before this measure reached the House that it would receive favorable action. As soon as the debate got well underway, it was quite obvious that there would be not more than a 50-50 chance for its passage, and as the debate proceeded, it became very obvious that the bill would likely be defeated, as it was. Early in the debate, it was brought out in very clear terms that the bill would not reduce the cost of health insurance to the average citizen, that it would not reduce the cost of medical services to the average citizen, and would not make available health insurance to those who could not afford it. In short, it would not accomplish the stated purpose of the bill. In the main, it would have created and provided a direct and indirect subsidy to insurance companies. It is my opinion that if there is any business in the United States that does not need a subsidy, it is the insurance business. If you have a mortgage on your home, the chances are that some insurance company owns that mortgage, because many, many mortgages are purchased every day by these companies. The bill would have provided at least a door to socialized medicine, to which I am unalterably opposed.

Buying From or Selling to Uncle Sam

You would be most amused at some of the transactions and proposals that are presented to the Congress. Some are to sell items to the government, and some are to purchase items from the government. The same group may want to buy one item from the government and sell some other item to the government. The amusing feature about the whole situation is that the value of the items is determined by two different formulas in the minds of these groups. When they want to buy something from Uncle Sam, they demand that it be given to them at bargain basement prices, or it's socialism. When they want to sell something to Uncle Sam, they demand about five prices for it, and if any question is raised, they immediately scream that the government has gone socialistic, and is trying to rob all of the private citizens of their property. Frankly, the value of an item, whether it be a transmission line or a bucket of paint, should be determined by the same formula, whether it is being sold to the government or by the government.

The total value of American production reached a peak in the spring of 1953, and by the first quarter of 1954 had declined by 16 billion dollars. Although this is a comparatively small drop (less than 4 per cent), it is important we know.

The facts indicate that the fall in the rate of production was not primarily due to any decline in demand for goods and services. Sales to consumers and sales of equipment to business dropped by small amounts. This was offset by small increases in construction and in net sales abroad. Sales to government dropped by slightly less than 3 billion dollars, but this accounts for only about 20 per cent of the decline in production.

The great bulk of the decline in the value of production was due to a change in the inventory practice of business. In the second quarter of 1953, business was producing more goods than it was selling, and adding the excess to inventories.

This of course could not continue indefinitely. In the first quarter of 1954 business was selling more goods than it was producing, and taking the difference out of inventories. This change accounted for 11.1 billion dollars, or 80 per cent, of the total drop in production.

It is significant that production declines have not been due to a drying-up of demand. A policy of using inventories, rather than current productionn, to satisfy demand must inevitably bring about its own termination.

Donley County— SOIL NEWS

Next week, July 25-31, is National Farm Safety Week. The National Safety Council and the United States Department of Agriculture, with the cooperation of other organizations interested in promotinng safety among farm people, sponsor this program.

The annual observance of National Farm Safety Week began in 1944 with an official proclamation by the president of the United States. This is the 11th consecutive year that the last full week of July has been so designated.

Did you know that the number of fatal accidents to farm workers is greater than in any other occupation in the United States? Serious injuries are nearly 85 times as many as the fatalities. Farm work is much more hazardous than most people think.

Farm people killed in accidents in 1953 totaled 14,000. The sad part is that no doubt most of these accidents could have avoided if only more precaution had been taken.

Listed below are a few good safety rules that if followed would prevent many accidents every year.

Kitchen

1. Use a ladder—don't climb on chairs.
2. Do not touch more than one electrical appliance at a time

Laundry and Basement

1. Be sure the electric washer is grounded.
2. Do not pour water into the steam iron when it is hot.
3. Adjust water heater so that the water will not reach scalding temperature.

Bathroom

1. Place electrical equipment where it cannot be readily reached from tub or lavatory.
2. Provide a non-slip mat for tub and shower.
3. Keep medicine cabinet locked.

Bedroom

1. Do not smoke in bed.
2. Make certain that children's electrical toys have Underwriters' Seal of Approval.

Living Room

1. Avoid scatter rugs on slippery floors.
2. If gas heaters are used, be sure they are vented to the outside and they are fitted with good shut-off cocks.
3. Install enough convenience outlets so that long extension cords are not needed.

Attic

1. Keep attic free of rubbish.
2. Be sure chimneys do not leak smoke or flue gases.

Help make our farms and highways safe. Cooperate in National Farm Safety Week!

Recent brides are urged by J. R. Sanderson, manager of the Amarillo social security office, to include his office among those getting wedding announcements. This announcement ,he explains, should be a change of name form so that a duplicate social security card can be issued in the new name.

Sanderson points out that failure to file this record causes considerable expense to the government and a possibility that earnings won't be posted properly. If the name and number on the employer's tax return agree with those on the social security card, the posting of wages to the proper account is done by machinery. But if the bride continues to work without advising about the change in her name, he said, her account cannot be posted properly. "With her last name different from that in our records," he said, "any typographical or spelling error in her first name may make it impossible to give proper credit for wages earned and reported."

Filing of a change of record form takes just a few minutes, Sanderson says, and will save the government expense, may save the employer needless correspondence, and will help insure that the employee gets proper credit for his wages. So, if your name is different from that shown on your card, write or telephone the Amarillo social security office for a change of name form.

ECZEMA IN INFANTS

By Science Features

Infantile eczema is one of the most common and annoying diseases affecting young children. Youngsters find it difficult to understand the reason for the constant itching that it causes and parents find it hard to cope with the troubled youngsters.

Both parents and children can get relief from the effects of eczema, Dr. Lila R. McCorriston of Montreal, Canada, recently tested hydrocortisone drugs such as Cortril and reported it to be "70 to 100 percent effective in all cases. . ." After applying the hormone ointment to 101 young patients, she found the "improvement occurred within 24 to 48 hours of the beginning of treatment."

Why should an otherwise healthy child become afflicted with this skin disease?

Doctors have found that eczema in infants usually occurs when there is a family history of allergies—conditions of unusual susceptibility to specific substances which are harmless to most people.

The disease can occur if the child is allergic to certain foods such as chocolate, oranges, strawberries or tomatoes; from physical contact with strong solutions, oil, wool or other fabrics; from friction from clothing or from inhaling dust or pollen.

The outbreak usually appears on the face, ears, hands or legs. Asthma or hay fever sometimes coexist or alternate with eczema, according to doctors, and treatment is necessary to prevent children from becoming life-long victims of these allergies.

People Today Live Longer Because of City Health Programs

Public Health Is America's First Line of Defense

A child born in 1950 enjoys an average life expectancy of 68 years—as compared with only 47 years in 1900. From 17.2 deaths per thousand population in 1900, the U. S. death rate dropped to 9.6 per thousand in 1950, and the rate continues to decrease, The Sanitary Engineering Committee reports.

This remarkable record, says the Department of Health, "can be traced in large part to steady reductions in the death rate for infections and communicable diseases."

Many factors have contributed to our improved public health, but none has been more significant than our municipal sanitation programs. Thousands of miles of underground clay pipe mains carry wastes to disposal plants. Vitrified clay pipe is recognized as the one material that provides all the qualities necessary to satisfy the exacting demands of sanitary structures. Clay pipe resists all the effects of acids and other caustic substances that are found in sewer systems.

Modern sanitary systems constructed of clay pipe play an everyday role as guardian of the health of the people. They are one of the city's lifelines, carrying away deadly wastes.

Wesleyan Guild Meeting Is Held In Church Parlor

Ann Gibson, president of the Wesleyan Service Guild, was in charge of the program held in the parlor of the McLean Methodist Church July 20. The opening song, "Footprints of Jesus," was followed by an inspirational message, "Making Use of What You Have," by Rev. M. E. Fisher.

The representative from this chapter of guild, Ruth Fisher, gave a review of her trip to Mt. Sequoia for Wesleyan Guild week-end there. Fern Boyd and Johnnie Rodgers were honored with life membership pins and certificates for outstanding Christian service for the guild.

Hostesses Dorothy Middleton and Vernene Day served refreshments to members as follows: Lois Page, Rosemary Melton, Loree Brown, Dorothy Beck, Fern Boyd, Maybelle Nash, Ruth Fisher, Erma Hester, Martha Parker, Ruth Magee, Isabel Cousins, Bessie Hamilton, Sinclair Armstrong, Georgia Beasley, Ann Gibson, Johnnie Rodgers, and Lady Bryant; two visitors, Mrs. Zeveley and Mrs. Hogan.

Gingham has come out of the kitchen and is going to the beach in glamorous swim suits this summer. Here, Rose Marie Reid has designed a soft bloomer style suit of embroidered gingham. Parents—

"Working with limited personnel, the Bureau of Vital Statistics cannot possibly render the type service expected by those who wait until the last moment to make requests," Carroll said.

Each application should include the full name of the child, the date and place of birth, and the names of parents. The law says a fee of 50 cents must accompany each application.

Requests for certified copies issued by the state registrar should be addressed to the Bureau of Vital Statistics, Texas State Department of Health, Austin.

How many children will be enrolling in school for the first time this fall? Carroll can't say precisely.

But he does know that some 200,000 children were born in Texas six years ago, which, theoretically, would make them eligible for school this year. And most of those entering public school will need proof of age.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Bruner and daughter of Abilene spent a few days last week visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Bruner, and other relatives and friends.
