Mekong Delta Assault Meets Slight Resistance

By ROBERT TUCKMAN

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U. S. and Vietnamese marines pushed through forbidding mangrove swamps of the Mekong Delta today and met only slight resistance in the first big American thrust into the delta.

A combined allied force of about 4,000 landed by sea and helicopter Friday 55 miles due south of Saigon on the Thanh Phu Peninsula. Only small, sniper contacts with the enemy were reported.

The operation was the biggest amphibious landing of the war and marked the first major deployment of American troops in the rice field and water-logged delta, where an estimated 100,000 Viet Cong dominate large sections.

As the pace of the ground war quickened after a week's lull, Communist forces in the central highlands unleashed a heavy mortar and ground assault early today against the same airfield at Pleiku where an attack two years ago touched off U. S. air bombings of North Vietnam and led to the massive buildup of American forces in South Vietnam.

A U. S. spokesman said the Communists unloaded more than 100 mortar rounds on Holloway Airfield close to Pleiku City about 240 miles northeast of Saigon. Earlier reports had said 200 to 300 mortar rounds were fired.

The spokesman said 10 enemy soldiers penetrated the airfield and inflicted "light damage" to helicopters and small observations planes. He added that U.S. casualties were light in the 45-minute attack, but several buildings were damaged.

South Vietnamese military headquarters reported the Communists also shelled a nearby Vietnamese airbase early today apparently in a diversionary attack. A spokesman said the Communists inflicted heavy casualties on a regional force platoon defending the Chu Hanh airfield near Holloway and killed four Vietnamese civilian dependents in a shelling of an Army Engineer camp nearby.

In another development, U. S. B52 heavy bombers staged four raids Friday night and today in Binh Duong Province 25 to 30 miles northwest of Saigon.

U. S. headquarters said the targets were Viet Cong troop concentrations, supply points, infiltration routes, base camps, storage areas and fortifications.

The delta operation, called Deckhouse Five, was launched from a U. S. Navy task force of 12 warships and was preceded by air strikes and naval gunfire.

U.S. headquarters reported no allied casualties at the end of the first day and one enemy killed.

In the air war over North Vietnam, U. S. pilots flew 77 strike missions Friday and lost two planes.

One was a Navy F8 Crusader shot down by Communist ground fire. The pilot was missing. The other was an Air Force reconnaissance RF4C Phantom jet shot down by ground fire 100 miles northwest of Hanoi and previously listed as lost by "causes unknown." The two-man crew was rescued.

This brought to 455 the number of U. S. planes lost over North Vietnam. In giving this revised figure, the U. S. command also said helicopter losses over the north remained unchanged at four.

U. S. headquarters, in a periodic report on American plane losses, said 147 planes and 251 helicopters had gone down in combat over South Vietnam.

In air action over South Vietnam Friday U. S. pilots flew 425 sorties and claimed destroying or damaging 343 enemy huts, structures, fortified positions and sampans. South Vietnamese pilots flew 95 strike sorties.

ENJOY REUNION — The only surviving children of the late George and Ellen Eastman, who settled in Scurry County in 1902, enjoy a reunion in the home of Mrs. W. N. (Ruthie) Davis (right), 92, 3005 Avenue T. Her sister, Mrs. Minnie Harris of Brownfield, is 97. Their brother, Charley Eastman, who resides on the Lamesa Highway, is 78.

Sisters, 92 And 97, Recall Pleasant Early-Day Events

By BUCK SITTON

Two sprightly sisters, both in their nineties, and a 78-year-old brother, enjoyed a reunion in Snyder Friday.

The sisters are Mrs. W. N. (Ruthie) Davis, 92, of 3005 Avenue T, and Mrs. Minnie Harris, 97, Brownfield. The brother is George Eastman, 78, who lives on the Lamesa Highway.

Children of the late George and Ellen Eastman, the three still enjoy good health and maintain an active interest in church affairs and the world. Mrs. Davis is a charter member of the Union Baptist Church, and Mrs. Harris is a charter member of the First Baptist Church of Brownfield. Mr. Eastman attends church at the Avenue D Baptist Church.

The two sisters were born in Johnson County, Missouri, shortly after the end of the Civil War. They moved to Tarrant County in 1875 in a covered wagon, later moving to Commanche in 1884 and to Scurry County in 1893. Mr. Eastman was born in Mills County.

Mr. and Mrs. Eastman, parents of the three, were buried in Snyder Cemetery. The father died in 1908, and the mother in 1922.

Both ladies recall their early "schooling" in country schools where they learned the three R's — reading, (w)riting and (a)rithmetic in the old "Blue Back" spellers.

"I could spell every word in the Blue Back speller," said Mrs. Harris, "and I still have a good grasp of figures."

Both ladies were married at the same time in Snyder. The wedding took place on Minnie's birthday. Shortly thereafter, she moved to Comanche with her husband, John W. Welch. He died in 1920, and she married Jess Harris in 1934. He died in 1952. Mrs. Harris also lived in Abilene for five years before moving back to Brownfield a few years ago.

Mrs. Davis has lived in Snyder since she married, except for a brief time in Comanche. Her husband, the late W. N. Davis, died here in 1913. She had seven children, five of whom are living: Mrs. Carrie Line, Mrs. Clint Head, Oscar Davis and Fred Davis, all of Snyder or Scurry County; and, Charley Davis of California. All of the children were born here except Mrs. Line, who was born in Comanche.

Mrs. Davis was excited about a bouquet of feather roses sent to her recently by a granddaughter who lives in California.

Mrs. Harris has eight children, six of whom are still living: Mrs. Ruth Brandon of Hamlin; Otha J. Welch of Austin; Mrs. Ellen Collier and Mrs. Lera Ellis, both of Brownfield; Mrs. Dona George of San Antonio; and Mrs. Norma Dell White of Plains.

Both ladies feel it is a "waste

The project drilled to total depth of 7,211 feet and set 4½-inch production pipe.

Production was indicated by two drillstem tests on the zone at 7,196-7,21 feet.

The first check was for 1½ hours and gas surfaced in 7 minutes with no gauges or estimate on the volume. Recovery from the test was 5,799 feet of formation oil and 25 feet of oil- and gas-cut drilling fluid.

Thirty-minute initial shut - in pressure was 2,860 pounds and final shut-in pressure in an hour was 1,924 pounds. Flowing pressure ranged from 910 to 1,535 pounds.

The second investigation, with the tool open 1½ hours returnd 4,508 feet of oil, plus 25 feet of oil- and gas-cut mud. A gas flow developed in 10 minutes.

Flowing pressure was from 672 to 1,507 pounds; 30-minute initial and 1½-hour final shut-in pressures were each 2,092 pounds.

Blizzard Dumps Deep New Snow

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A wind-lashed blizzard roared into the northern Plains states today, dumping up to 12 inches of new snow on the Duluth area.

The depth of snow on the ground in Duluth was 27 inches.

The storm, which came down the eastern slope of the Rockies Friday, was pushed by winds of 40 and 50 miles an hour. Temperatures in many areas fell far below zero.

Blizzard or heave-snow warnings were issued by local weather bureaus for parts of North Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Missouri, Wisconsin and Michigan.

The Weather Bureau in Chicago said 4 to 8 inches of new snow could be expected in parts of the eight states.

The Duluth snowfall came in 12 hours. At Alpena and Socoda, Mich., the snowfall totaled five inches in six hours. Salt Lake City got five inches.

Hazardous - driving warnings followed the heavy-snow reports and later bitter cold moved into the snow belt.

At 1 a.m., the reading at Glasgow, Mont., was -14. At Key West, Fla., it was 72, the nation's high.

Freezing rain or sleet fell over sections of southern Michigan and showers and thundershowers raked areas southward to the Gulf.

Some Rocky Mountain passes were blocked for a time by snowslides. At Afton, Wyo., a search was under way in an area where a 40-foot deep snow slide may have covered a logging contractor.

Bomb Blamed For Las Vegas Deaths

LAS VEGAS, Nev. AP)—A dynamite blast devastated a three-story motel in this gambling resort today, killing six persons and injuring eight.

Demolition experts identified the explosive and said it was set off by someone who knew little about dynamite.

The bodies of six persons were found in the rubble after the 1:25 a.m. explosion in the Orbit Inn, a 73-unit motel four blocks from a cluster of downtown casinos and two miles from the famed Las Vegas strip.

Police said 30 rooms were occupied at the time and about 60 persons were in the motel. The blast was on the third floor.

Three bodies were found in one room, two in another and one in a third.

Detective Lt. Roy Carlisle said 'a demolition team from nearby Nellis Air Force base identified the explosive as dynamite. We don't know if it was in the form of a bomb or not."

He said whoever set off the blast "went way over his head. He used 10 times the dynamite needed to kill someone else or himself."

Carlisle ruled out the possibility of an accident. "To set off dynamite you need a primer, a blasting cap," he said.

The dead were not immediately identified.

The injured were identified as:

Lewis Palmer, 60, and his wife, Laura, 66, Preston, Idaho; Steve Merich, 70, and his wife Katilde, 57, San Pedro, Calif.; James Mahón 24, and wife Bobbie, 22, Las Vegas; and Charles Pearce, 73, and wife Essie, Bishop, Calif.

Most suffered cuts and bruises, excpt Lewis Palmer, who was admitted for surgery, officers said.

Deputy Coroner Harvey Schnitzer said "six occupants are unaccounted for, but we have, we think, six victims." He said the bodies of those recovered so far are extremely mangled.

Maddox Has Look Of A Winner

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Lester G. Maddox, whose segregationist views brought him national attention, today appeared headed for election Tuesday as Governor of Georgia.

In a 5-2 decision Friday, the State Suprme Court rejected the latest in a series of suits calling for a statewide vote and ruled the General Assmbly has the power and right to choose the next governor.

The decision following a Dec. 12 ruling by the U. S. Supreme Court, apparently clears the way for the predominantly Democratic legislature to choose Maddox over Republican Howard Callaway.

An Associated Press poll of state legislators had indicated that Maddox will win by a large majority.

Rep. Mac Pickard of Muscogee County, a Callaway stronghold, has said he will offer a resolution proposing a runoff.

The contest was thrown into a deadlock when neither Maddox nor Callaway got the required majority because of write-ins for former Gov. Ellis G. Arnall. Unofficial returns gave Callaway 451,032, Maddox 448,598 and Arnall 57,832.

Riot Kills 40 Chinese

VIENNA, Austria AP)—The Czechoslovak news agency, CTK, said today 40 Chinese were killed, 500 wounded seriously and a great number of others lightly in clases between workers and students in Nanking Tuesday and Wednesday.

CTK said the city was in the grip of terror, with transport paralyzed and telephone connection with the rest of the country cutoff.

Leaflets spread in Peking today said the casualties occurred in a battle between two great organizations of "revolutionary workers and students," the agency went on.

The leaflets said the workers were an "instrument of the bourgeois and reactionary party committee of the province," numbering "hundreds of thousands members."

Banks In Texas Set New Records

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Texans hardly ever had it so good, if bank deposits are a gauge.

State and federal banking authorities called Friday for reports of the state of business at year's end.

The reports showed that deposits in Texas banks set a multitude of records as the old year faded out. Some increases were spectacular, and there were few areas where bank deposits were down.

Good crops, aggressive banking practices, industrial growth and the general good health of the economy got the credit.

John E. Whitmore, president of the Texas National Bank of Commerce at Houston, said, "I think you'll find that our economy in Texas is somewhat better than that of the national economy."

A Fort Worth banker said banks aggressively had sought time savings deposits.

A Corsicana spokesman credited expansion of local industries, construction and good crops and said the 1967 outlook appeared good.

Reported bank totals included 1966 yearend figures first, compared with a year ago, with records noted for 1966.

Dallas County $4,186,009,957 and $4,121,923,953, a record.

"We were told," said Mrs. Davis, "that there was a man living on the moon—and he was sent there because he worked on Sunday."

Minnie has 12 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren. Her sister has 11 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Concerning the First Baptist Church of Brownfield, Mrs. Harris said, "There were 14 members when I was a charter member; now there are over 1400."

Husbands of the sisters were stock farmers and ranchmen.

A ripe old age is nothing unusual for the family. Two brothers lived past 80, and another one reached age 92 before he died.

With reasonaby good health, both ladies hope to observe their 100th birthday. Both feel their Christian faith has sustained them over the years.

Mrs. Harris, who lives alone (although two daughters reside in the same town), said she likes to visit the sick.

Many grandchildren of the sisters have attended school in Snyder, and several of them still reside here. Included among the grandchildren are college graduates who are prominent in the world of business and who are active in coaching.

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter ran away to get married when she was 17. Two years later her husband left her and their small baby. The court awarded her sufficient support so that she could maintain her own apartment, which she did, until recently. She decided she wanted to take a practical nursing course at the vocational school, so I agreed to take care of her baby. It simplified matters by having her move in with dad and me.

Before she moved in I made a few rules. One was that she was not to entertain any male guests unless dad or I were home. The other night she had a male friend here, knowing we wouldn't be home. This upset me. Her father claims she is 21 and we should trust her. It is a matter of principle with me. Do you think a 21-year-old divorcee should be allowed to entertain male friends alone?

AGAINST IT

DEAR AGAINST: Yes. She was wrong for having violated a "rule" she agreed to accept. But you were wrong for having made such a rule in the first place. Why offer your daughter a roof over her head and then raise it just because she wants to entertain her friends at home?

Where else should a respectable woman entertain? Either change that rule, mother, or tell daughter to change her address. You'll both be much happier.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: My mother has been sickly ever since I can remember. It's either a "splitting headache," a backache, a pain in the stomach, dizziness, or something else. She eats "painkillers" like popcorn. She buys every kind on the market she can get without a prescription.

If the directions say to take two, she takes four. I am afraid that one of these days she is going to take too many and never wake up. I can't convince her that this is dangerous to her health. Maybe you can.

She reads your column everyday and thinks you have good sense. By the way, I am not a child who is imagining things or exaggerating. I am a 31-year-old married woman.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: A "pain" is nature's way of telling us that something is wrong. To suppress the pain and ignore the warning, instead of going to a doctor to try to find out what IS wrong and how to remedy it, is foolish, dangerous, and short-sighted.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: I go to the barber shop once a week. I am bald on top and all I ever need is a little trim around the ears and a bit of clipping on the back of my neck, so it takes my barber exactly six minutes to give me a haircut. I pay the standard price, of course.

Now, the man who has a full head of hair and has saved up a month's growth takes about five times as much of the barber's time as I do, yet we both pay the same price for a haircut.

I think barbers should charge according to the a mount of time they spend with each customer. I would appreciate your opinion, and the opinion of others.

BALD, BOTHERED, AND BEWILDERED

DEAR BALD: Considering how much a haircut (even a little trim around the ears) does for a man's morale, it's a bargain at any price. Don't split hairs.

CONFIDENTIAL TO BENNY IN WINONA: Better do a little checking. She sounds like the kind of girl who rides home from walks.

Scurry County 4-H Club members won several awards at the Sand Hills Hereford and Quarter Horse Show which closed Saturday in Odessa.

Bob Daugherty, local 4-H Club member, won the E. B. Dickenson Memorial Showmanship Award. This award is one of the coveted awards of the fat steer show, being presented to the outstanding showman exhibiting steers.

The Scurry 4-H members exhibited 10 junior breeding heifers, two fat steers and six fat lambs in the show. In the fat lamb show, Weldon Beck showed the 11th place lamb in the medium weight class. Joe Beck, Dana and Debbie Vicary also exhibited lambs in the show.

In the medium heavy class of the fat steer division, Linda Daugherty's entry place second.

Placings in the junior breeding heifer show included Eddie Eicke second, Bob Daugherty third, Linda Daugherty seventh and eighth and Sahala Eicke 10th in junior heifer calf class; Linda Daugherty fifth, Bob Daugherty ninth and Steve Daugherty 13th, in the senior heifer calf class; Bob Daugherty first and second in the summer yearling class.

Benefits To Veterans Are Cited

Scurry County veterans received benefits amounting to $220,029 in 1966 as a direct result of assistance received from Elmer L. Taylor, Veterans County Service Officer, according to the year end report of the Texas Veterans Affairs Commission.

These benefits are cash payments which rightly belong to the veteran, but in many cases would not have been forthcoming at all, or in not as great an amount, without the assistance of the Veterans County Service Officer, the report said.

In a letter to Taylor, Charles L. Morris, executive director of the Texas Veterans Affairs Commission, praised Taylor's record as a Veterans County Service Officer.

"You have made available invaluable services to veterans and dependents of veterans, who constitute nearly half of the population of your county; you have raised the standard of living of many residents; and you have benefitted the economy of your county, since the monetary benefits being paid result in smaller burden on the communities and county as a whole," said Morris.

section 5, block 32, T-4-N, T&P survey, it is ¾ mile east of the opener of the depleted Luck-Pot (Canyon reef) area, which has been recompleted as a Spraberry producer in the Jo-Mill field.

Brown and Heath's No. 1 J. G. Davis, another Borden explorer, has pumped 38.7 barrels of oil and 24.8 barrels of water in the latest 15-hour test.

Recovery was from the Pennsylvanian open hole at 6,961-64 feet. Further checks are scheduled.

No. 1 Davis is 660 feet from north and 2,369 feet from west lines of section 69, block 25, H&TC survey, 13 miles southeast of Gail, a location northeast of 6,833-foot Pennsylvanian production in the Von Roeder multipay field.

The Garza multipay field of Garza County has gained its fifth San Andres B and D producers and a ¼-mile northwest extension to those pays and its sixth San Andres C well and ¼-mile southwest and northwest extension to that pay with the triple completion of No. 9-G F. B. Robinson by George R. Brown of Post.

From perforations at 3,222-35 feet in the B zone, it was finished to pump 61 barrels of 36.8-gravity oil daily plus 15 per cent water. Gas-oil ratio was 250-1 and the pay was stimulated with 500 gallons of acid.

San Andres C perforations yielded 72 barrels of 36.8-gravity crude daily plus 25 per cent water pumping from the horizon at 3,282-300 feet. Treatment was 1,000 gallons of acid.

It pumped 137 barrels of 37-gravity oil in 24-hours plus 10 per cent water from the section perforated at 3,364-79 feet. The pay was injected with 500 gallons of acid and gas-oil ratio gauged 300-1.

Location is 1,479 feet from south and 1,342 feet from east lines of section 1233, EL&RR survey, ½ mile west of Post.

Shell Oil Co. has potentialed No. 4-C Slaughter Estate as a producer in the Teas (8,100-foot Pennsylvanian) area of Garza.

The project was a re-entry of a former dual Pennsylvanian and Ellenburger well which was completed in 1959 with a total depth of 8,358 feet.

From perforation in the Pennsylvanian between 7,903 and 8,006 feet, it flowed 217 barrels of 37.8-gravity oil daily plus 10 per cent water through a 20/64-inch choke. Surface pressure was 200 pounds and gas-oil ratio gauged 585-1. The section was acidized with 1,100 gallons.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 32, block 2, T&NO survey.

Double U Oil Co. of San Antonio No. 3 Annie Lee Jaggers is projected to 5,450 feet as a northeast offset to the Watts' South (Gardner sand oil) pool opener in Nolan, four miles northeast of Blackwell.

The wildcat spots 1,512 feet from north and 1,783 feet from west lines of section 204, block 64, H&TC survey.

Katz Oil Co. has finished No. 2 Billie L. Coffman as a location southeast extension and sixth producer in the Rotan, East (Hope lime) area of Fisher County.

Daily flowing rate was 127 barrels of 40-gravity oil from perforations at 3,772-798 feet. The crude came through a 15-64-inch choke and gas-oil ratio was 95-1.

Located three miles northeast of Rotan, it is 467 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 173, block 2, H&TC survy, on the southeast flank of the pool.

Tamarack Petroleum Co. Inc. of Midland will drill No. 1-A Carter Foundation as a west offset to its No. 1 Covington, a recently completed ½-mile north extension to the Bissett, East (Strawn sand) pool of Stonewall County.

Sit is 15 miles north of Aspermont, 2,173 feet from north and 2,241 feet from west lines of section 42, block F, H&TC survey. Proposed goal is 5,500 feet.

Germany Boasts Outstretched Ear

By CARL HARTMAN

BONN, Germany (AP) — Chances have about disappeared that the new West German government will tie itself down to spending any fixed amount on buying arms in the United State after July 1.

The U.S. government is reluctant to press for a fixed sum.

Chancellor Ludwig Erhard lost his job partly because he failed to get President Johnson to let him off such a promise. He had undertaken to buy American military goods and services worth $675 million a year until July 1.

This is equivalent to the sum U.S. authorities estimated that they would have to spend in gold and foreign exchange in order to maintain American troops in Germany. West German purchases offset this spending, and prevent a net loss of American gold. Officials estimate that the potential drain may reach $800 million a year after July 1.

Finance Minister Franz Josef Strauss, who was once defense minister, said in a recent interview: "When I signed an agreement like that, I saw to it that a letter was included saying that the Federal Republic undertook to fulfill the accord only within the framework of its budgetary possibilities."

Kai-Uwe von Hassel, Strauss' successor as defense minister, did not write such a letter. Now he has been relegated to the lesser job of refugees minister. Many people in Bonn were surprised that he got into the new Cabinet at all.

Shortly before leaving the Defense Ministry, Von Hassel said West Germany would have to limit its offset buying in the United States to 50 per cent of American expenditures after July 1, instead of 100 per cent. The same figure was repeated in the early days of the new government.

Now the picture is changing Chancellor Kurt George Kiesinger and Strauss have reluctantly consented to fulfill the promise that caused Erhard all the trouble. They have raised taxes but they still have a $900-million hole in the 1967 budget which corresponds almost exactly with what remains of the obligation.

They're going to have trouble finding that money, let alone additional sums for the period thereafter.

No more is being said about the 50 per cent ceiling.

Instead, West German officials are saying they will do all they can after July 1 — maybe less, maybe more than 50 per cent —but that Washington ought to see that Bonn's most important job is to get the country's finances in order.

Unemployment is rising, economic growth is small, industrial activity is falling off and tax receipts are bound to follow.

Defense spending may be cut. The West German armed forces feel less need for new equipment than they did in the past decade, when they were building up from nothing. American equipment is expensive and, anyhow, Kiesinger's new government would like to buy more from France.

For all these reasons West Germany military buying in the United States is likely to be reduced. West German officials refuse to be nailed down as to how much.

Defect Brings Recall Of New Autos

DETROIT (AP) — Collapsible steering columns, much heralded as safety devices, were in the spotlight today because of faulty installation as General Motors Corp. recalled 269,200 new cars.

The largest of the nation's four auto makers said the steering shafts in the company's smaller model 1967 cars will be replaced because they may snap.

Eight such failures have been reported so far — five in Pontiacs, two in Chevrolets and one in a Buick — all at low speeds while parking or turning, GM said.

The steering shafts are the new, impact-absorbing columns designed to collapse under extreme pressure, such as that from a collision throwing the driver against the steering wheel.

The defect is in the way the shaft was installed, not in the design of it, the company said.

The faulty installation resulted in misalignment of the shaft, placing too much strain on it during crtain maneuvers of the car, GM said.

The stress, although not noticeable to the driver, may cause the shaft to break, the firm said.

GM spokesmen were unavailable for comment on whether the problem might leave a car uncontrollable at high speeds.

The fault was first discovered in December and the firm began recalling Pontiac Tempests Dec. 19. A GM announcement at the time said the shaft could break "particularly when the vehicle is being parked or being turned at slow speds."

The firm said that of the 269,200 cars involved, 89,950 are Chevrolet Chevelles and El Caminos, 76,103 are Pontiac Tempests, 56,441 are Oldsmobile F85's and 46,749 are Buick Specials.

The 269,200 cars are in the hands of customers. Models of the cars in dealers' stock will be equipped with a new steering shaft before they are put on sale, GM said.

DOROTHY PRINCE

Public Invited To Attend Program On Monday Night

Dorothy Prince, coordinator of elementary instruction in Odessa Public Schools, will speak here Monday night in the High School Auditorium at a public meeting of the City Council Parent Teacher Association.

Her topic will be, "Readiness-for-Learning Activities in Elementary Schools."

Author of a book for children, "Speedy Gets Around," she holds the bachelor of science in education and master of education degrees from the University of Missouri.

She has served as a classroom teacher at Hannibal, Mo.; supervisor at the University Laboratory School, University of Missouri, and has been on the visiting faculty of the University of Maine and Eastern Montana College of Education. She also has conducted reading workshops for public schools of Atlanta, Ga., Norfolk, Va., and San Angelo.

The public is invited to attend the meeting here Monday night.

Deputies Wounded By Robbery Suspects

HOUSTON (AP) — Harris County sheriff's deputies Barney Watson and Wilbur Pickard suffered gunshot wounds Friday night when they stopped a car containing three suspects in a Baytown beer warehouse robbery.

Watson was wounded in an arm and a leg and Pickard suffered a superficial head wound.

James Lon Shoemake, 29, John Frank Ramos, 26, and Miss Jimmie Davidson, 23, were charged with three counts each of assault to murder in the court of Justice of the Peace Jack Treadway.

The loss at the Baytown Warehouse of Pearl Beer Distributing Co. was estimated at $4,000.

Chimp Art On Display

CHICAGO (AP) — The artwork of three chimpanzees — Betsy, Congo and Zippy — is now on display at the Field Museum of Natural History.

Eight paintings, several with an orange tang, have evoked much comment from patrons of the institution.

"It's as good as some shows we've seen," one art buff said while studying the colorful works.

"I think we draw too sharp a line between human and animal endeavor," his companion commented.

A woman told her two young children: "When you're just as good as the little monkeys you can paint, too."

The paintings were a gift of the late Emily Crane Chadbourne of Chicago as an example of the behavior of great apes in a field generaliy restricted to man.

Texans Reminded Auto Stickers Needed

AUSTIN (AP)—Most Texas vehicles do not have their 1967 inspection stickers yet, Col. Homer Garrison Jr., director of the Texas Department of Public Safety said Saturday.

"The inspection period is two-thirds over and only about one-third of the vehicles have been inspected," Garrison said. "This means that during the 14 weeks remaining before the April 15 deadline for inspections, more than twice as many persons each week must have their car inspected to avoic long lines forming at the end of the period."

Lawbreakers Beware New 'Zot' Guns

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Lawbreakers will need space helmets to avoid the new liquid-bullet "zot" guns issued to St. Petersburg police today.

The weapons go "squish" instead of "bang," and they turn their victims into blubbery crybabies, easily lugged off to the jailhouse to recuperate.

The device is called a "chemical mace," and it is more bug bomb than pistol. But a direct hit leaves a person harmless and stupified.

It eventually may replace the time-honored nightstick.

The chemical, essentially concentrated tear gas, is contained in a pressurized cylinder two inches in diameter and eight inches long.

With a press of his thumb, an officer can send a stream of liquid up to 20 feet, aiming for the face. The victim erupts in blinding tears, his face burns, his nose runs and he gasps and folds up.

"You feel like crawling in a hole and pulling the dirt over you," says Sgt. John Sheffield, weapons officer. "And you stay that way for as long as two hours."

Two Pennsylvania firms make the stuff, and authorities in Pennsylvania, Iowa, Kentucky, Florida, New York, Missouri and Minnesota have put it in service.

"It's a self-defense item," says Sheffield. "The drunk who comes at you in a bar, a hood with a knife, a demonstrator who loses control emotionally but you don't want to knock him over the head."

Howard Noyes, a St. Petersburg Times reporter, volunteered to test two drops of the chemical on his cheeks.

"I was weeping. I could no longer see Sheffield who was standing two feet away. There was a sensation in my noce which made it feel like it was wrinkling.

"I sat down on the floor simply because I didn't feel like standing anymore," Noyes wrote.

50-Year Sentence Meted For Murder

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Dist. Judge H. A. Garcia sentenced Curtis Wayne Davis, 20, of Dora, Ala., to 50 years in Prison Friday after Davis suddenly changed his plea to guilty on a murder charge.

Davis, who said he came to Port Isabel, Tex., looking for work last summer, was accused of slaying Grady C. Crabbe, 38, a Port Isabel shrimper. Davis said he and Crabbe argued in a Port Isabel motel several hours after Crabbe hired him on a shrimp boat.

An autopsy revealed Crabbe had been strangled and struck on the head with a bottle.

Bill Mazeroski of the Pirates, Leo Cardenas of the Reds and Billy Williams of the Cubs played in every game for their teams last season.

Scurry Rains In '66 Were Timely

It's the timing rather than the amount, that counts most in rainfall.

This is a conclusion easily reached by checking the Scurry County moisture records for 1966.

The rainfall in Snyder was slightly below "normal," based on figures for the past 55 years. Yet, farm crops were far above average. A clue to the situation may be seen in the timing — the two biggest rainfall months were April (which meant planting moisture) and August (growing moisture at a time when major crops were at the critical stage).

The April rainfall amounted to 4.51 inchs, while August produced a whopping 5.20 inches. Thus the two critical months accounted for more than half of the year's total, which came to 19.48, or about half an inch below average.

Third biggest month was June, which gave young crops a good start. Only two other months of 1966, September and October, produced as much as an inch of rainfall here. However, there was some moisture in 11 of the months, with December the only month failing to register on the rain gauge.

Walter Stirl who keeps rainfall records in the Inadale Community, reported a slightly higher total for that region of Southeast Scurry County. There, the April rains were the biggest, with a total of 5.90 inches. June was near that of Snyder, with 3.50, but September, instead of August, was the second highest month with a total of 4.10 inches. However, August accounted for a good 3.40 inches in Stirl's gauge, which indicated that much the same growing conditions existed around Inadale. No rainfall at all was logged in either November or December at Inadale but the year's total reached 23.20 inches.

Kirk Denies Immediate Rites Due

KEY LARGO, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Claude Kirk says he would have to clear with the Episcopal bishop of Florida any plans to marry Brazilian Erika Mittfeld.

The state's first Republican governor in 90 years turned up at Key Largo Friday with the attractive Miss Mittfeld. They denied reports that they would wed immediately and then sailed away in a yacht.

Both Kirk and Miss Mittfeld were tanned and relaxed. They wore sailing clothes and smiled often while answering questions of reporters aboard the 50-foot luxury yacht Security Risk.

Miss Mittfeld, said to be in her late 20s, recently divorced Brazilian theatrical producer Carlos Eduardo Dolabella. Kirk also is divorced.

Pressed for specifics about the wedding reports, he said he would "have to clear that with the bishop."

He referred to the Rt. Rev. Hamilton West, Episcopal bishop of Florida, who has said divorced church members must wait at least a year after getting a decree to remarry. Kirk was divorced from his former wife, Sarah, for the second time last March.

Kirk said he and Miss Mittfeld were well-chaperoned during a three-day stay at the Yacht Club, a favorite hideaway for privacy-seekers.

The governor left Palm Beach amid a storm of controversy over his call for a special session of the Florida Legislature Monday to revamp the state's proposed new constitution.

Members of the predominantly Democratic legislature have complained that Kirk handed them a hot potato.

The governor's aides said he was hard at work while at the Yacht Club. They also said he would have an important announcement affecting his personal life.

Wedding rumors cropped up after Kirk and Miss Mittfeld were seen together publicly for the first time Tuesday night at the governor's inaugural ball.

Air Crash Kills Two

WACO(AP) — A light plane carried two men to death as it cracked up in a thickly wooded section near here in Central Texas Friday night.

State patrolmen identified the victims from personal papers as David Gillespie, 34, the pilot, and Alton Jones, both of Lafayette, La.

Officers said Paul Fornet, owner of an air service at LaFayette, reported Gillespie had leased the plane from him for a year.

The plane, a single-engine Cessna, crashed after circling a spot beside Riggs Creek 12 miles east of Waco. Searchers found the wreckage on direc- farmer who saw the craft start tions from Jess Wilbanks, a farmer who saw the craft start falling.

Teachers On Strike

CHICAGO (AP) — About 600 junior college teachers have struck the Chicago junior college system, and many of the city's 23,000 elementary and high school teachers threaten to do the same Monday.

Local 1600, Cook County College Teachers Union called Friday's strike at eight junior colleges. A spokesman for the colleges estimated at least half the 335,000 junior college students stayed away from classes.

The teachers struck after the Chicago Junior College Board turnd down demands for an increase of $1,650, smaller classes and a lighter course load.

In another dispute over wages, the Chicago Teachers Union, which claims to represent 13,500 of 23,000 elementary and high school teachers, prepared for a strike Monday. Such a walkout would be the first in the city's history.

Doctors Give Advice To Olympians

By WILL GRIMSLEY

HOUSTON (AP) — A team of Penn State physiology professors and medical doctors recommended today that U. S. middle distance and distance runners have a 30-day period of adjustment at high altitude — at a place other than Mexico City — before competition in the 1968 Olympic Games.

The group warned that even then the athletes likely would become ill shortly after arriving at Mexico City for the Games and would have to spend another period of up to two days getting rid of the miseries.

The medical report, based on a 1965 Penn State experiment at 13,500 feet altitude in the Andes Mountains of Peru and a similar test last year at 10,000 feet in Alamosa, Colo., was presented to the annual meeting of the U.S. College Track Coaches Association.

Dr. John Lucas, a doctor of philosophy and track coach at Penn State, was spokesman for the group.

"Performances definitely will be lessened in events from 800 meters and up," Lucas said. "But there is no basis for fear of death and injury.

"Ninety-five per cent will become seriously ill," he added. "So the longer a person stays in Mexico City the greater the chance of physical distress."

Lucas said the doctors also agreed on a theory that the best runners wouldn't necessarily win at Mexico City but that the races would go to those better able to adjust.

"It is conceivable that the champion at a distance may not adjust well and, as a result, either psychologically or physiologically, collapse before the end of the race. A lesser performer may pace himself better and win," the track coach said.

Schmidt May Take Gilmer's Coaching Job

DETROIT (AP) — Harry Gilmer is out as coach of the Detroit Lions and Joe Schmidt is standing in the doorway.

William Clay Ford, owner of the National Football League team, officially fired Gilmer Friday. Gilmer had one year left on his three-year contract.

Ford said of Schmidt, "Joe is my only candidate for the job. I discussed the situation with him recently.

Gilmer will be paid in full for 1967 (an estimated $35,000), Ford said.

"It always is an unpleasant step to take," Ford said. "However, my goal is to field a winning football team in Detroit, and I reluctantly have come to the conclusion that our chances would be better with a change of head coaches."

Gilmer, often the subject of criticism from fans and players, compiled a 6-7-1 record his first year and a last place 4-9-1 mark in 1966.

Schmidt was a standout linebacker for the Lions for 13 seasons. The 34-year-old Schmidt was called a very good coach by Gilmer, who said Schmidt had a great ability to impart to the players exactly what he wanted of them.

Three Snyder 7th Grade Teams Win

Three Snyder teams survived first round action of the annual 7th grade basketball tournament in Travis gym Friday. Travis Blue tipped Hermleigh, 25-21; Travis White nudged Roby, 26-23; and, Lamar Grey won a forfeit victory over Lamesa. Only Lamar Red failed to advance, dropping a 29-37 decision to Fuvanna.

Lamar Red was to meet Roby at 9:45 a.m. Saturday in a Consolation clash followed by an 11 a.m. tilt between Fluvanna and Travis White on the winner's side of the bracket. Lamar Grey and Travis Blue were to tangle in a showdown at 12:15 p.m.

Winners of the Grey - Blue tilt were to meet winners of the White - Fluvanna tussle for the championship at 7:15 p.m. Losers of the same games were to decide the third place trophy in a 6 p.m. match.

Hermleigh advanced to the Consolation finals on a bye and was to meet the winner of the Lamar Red - Roby tilt at 4:45 p.m. Saturday in the consolation finals.

The Travis White - Roby tilt was fast - paced with the lead changing several times. The White jumped into a 5-1 first quarter lead and led 10-6 at halftime. Roby rallied to take the lead at 18-16 in the third quarter.

The count was knotted three times in the final stanza, but the White pulled it out on the fine shooting of Jackie Murray, who notched 7 of his 10 points in the last stanza. Mike Glasscock was runnerup for the White with 7 points, and Butch Buchanan looked good on defense.

Daniels, Douglas and Beauchamp each tallied 6 points for Roby.

Hermleigh shaved Travis Blue's 15-10 halftime lead to one point, at 18-17, in the third quarter, but the Blue finished strong on the shooting of George Alderete and Ken Horsley. They scored 8 and 7 points respectively.

L. Contreras, with 13 points, and Patterson, with 10 points, sparked Fluvanna in its triumph over Lamar Red. Fluvanna led by only two points after one period, two points at halftime, and three points going into the last quarter. However, a strong fourth quarter settled the issue. Mike Line netted 9 points and Gary Lankford sank 8 points to lead the Red scorers.

Graham Says Winning Isn't Everything

By RON SPEER

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Joining the pro coaching ranks hasn't brought out a killer instinct in Otto Graham.

"Winning still isn't everything to me," said Graham, who took over as coach of the Washington Redskins a year ago after seven relaxed years at the Coast Guard Academy.

"My philosophy has always ben that you should put on a good show," he said, "although winning is important, too."

Graham, whose Redskins won half of their 14 games in his first try at coaching in the National Football League, said he would rather have an exciting year than a dull, winning season.

"I would rather lose a close, exciting ball game than win every game 3-0," said Graham, who added that he is blessed with sophisticated fans at Washington.

"They don't demand that we win all the time, but they like good, exciting football," Graham said before today's Senior Bowl in which he was coach of the South All-Stars.

Graham, lured from the quiet life of Coast Guard coach by a big salary and a long contract at Washington, said he coaches his Redskins just about like he did his academy boys.

Rochester Loses Golden Opportunity

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rochester had a golden opportunity to come within a whisker of first place in the Western Division of the American Hockey League, but lowly Providence had other ideas.

Dave Creighton, Providence's player-coach, scored two goals Friday night and led the Reds to their fifth victory in what is turning out to be a long season, a 5-1 triumph over Rochester.

Had the Americans won, they would be just one point behind division leading Pittsburgh, which was idle Friday. The loss was Rochester's first to Providence in five games this season.

In other games, Baltimore beat Quebec 3-2, Springfield took Buffalo 6-2 and Hershey blanked Buffalo 3-0.

Buffaloes Bomb Loraine, 101-44

FLUVANNA — The host Buffaloes trounced Loraine, 101-44, and the girls tripped the visitors, 30-26, here Friday night in opening district games.

Bobby Hall was sharp for the Buffs, sinking 24 field goals and 2 free throws for 50 points —more than Loraine compiled as a team. Henry Contreras dunked in 14 points, and Joe Belew collected 12.

For Loraine, Bill Rose popped the nets for 16 points, and Lewis Rose collected 12.

It was all Fluvanna all the way as the Buffaloes took a 33-12 lead in the first period and increased the margin with ease the rest of the way. Fluvanna had a fantastic night on floor shots, sinking about 80 per cent of them.

Rinda Bruner and Sandra Stansell paced the girls with 13 and 10 points respectively. Forbus notched 12 points, and Tartt pitched in 10 for Loraine. The girls clash was close and exciting all the way.

Fluvanna will be at Hermleigh next Tuesday night.

FLUVANNA (101) — Bobby Hall 24-2-50; Henry Contreras 6-2-14; Joe Belew 6-1-13; Victor Contreras 3-1-7; Johnny Dunnam 2-0-4; Bobby White 2-1-5; Johnny Stansell 3-0-6; Joe Turner 1-0-2; totals 47-7-101.

Griese Leads North To Hula Win

HONOLULU (AP) — Two touchdown bombs from Bob Griese of Purdue to Dave Williams of Washington in less than a minute of the fourth quarter provided the margin in a 28-27 victory for the North over the South Friday night in the annual Hula Bowl game.

With his team trailing 21-16, Griese hit Williams for a 43-yard touchdown. Fifty-five seconds later, the same combination clicked for a 40-yard touchdown.

Williams was named outstanding lineman of the game.

Elusive Charlie Brown of Missouri who ran for 111 yards, making two touchdowns for the South, was named the outstanding back, even in a losing cause.

Fifty of the country's outstanding college players were on hand for the game, played before a capacity 23,500 crowd and at least a dozen professional coaches and scouts.

The first half was lackadaisical, but the two teams got into the spirit of the thing in the second half and hit for keeps.

Brown provided a running game for the South, but the North team had little ground gained except for a 79-yard burst around left end by Clint Jones of Michigan State for the first touchdown of the game.

Otherwise it was all Griese's passing. He hit for 14 of 21 and 279 yards, and also kicked a field goal.

Galveston Golfer Close To Leader

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Alvin Odom Jr. of Galveston hung tightly into the race for the national lefthanded open golf championship today, entering the final round one stroke back of the leader, Thorne Wood of Asheboro, N.C.

Wood soared to a two-over-par 74 Friday to make his 54-hole total 218. Odom had a matching 74 for 219 and a tie for second place with Vic Lombardi of Visalia, Calif.

Ross Collins of Dallas, the defending champion, had 224 and was in fifth place, six strokes away from the lead.

Tall Loboes Trip Cold Tigers, 53-47

LEVELLAND — A cold Tiger offense, combined with a tough Lobo defense, propelled Levelland over Snyder, 53-47, here Friday night in a District 3-AAA basktball clash. The win left Levelland with a 2-0 record in district play and set the stage for a showdown battle between the Loboes and Tornadoes at Lamesa Tuesday night. Snyder now is 1-2 in district play, but gets to play the two front-runners at home in the second round of the double round robin schedule.

It was simply a case of cold shooting that proved to be Snyder's undoing. The Tigers hit only 3 of 16 in the first quarter for 19 per cent and only 3 of 10 in the second quarter for 30 per cent. On the other hand, Levelland hit for 45 per cent in the first half. The results were disastrous. The discrepancy in shooting left the Tigers down, 13-8, after one period and behind, 30-18 at halftime. Levelland remained in charge, 41-30, after three periods.

A great Bengal rally in the 4th stanza cut the margin to only six points, at 53-47, but Snyder had waited too late to rally. The issue had been settled in the first two cold frames.

Still, the Bengals hustled throughout the game and the great fourth quarter gave them a 17-12 advantage over the tall Loboes. Tommy Bullard, who meshed 14 points, collected 6 of them in the final eight minutes Mickey Almond was high point man for Snyder with 15 points. These two were the only Tigers to finish in double figures.

Levelland received twin-figure productions from three lads: Mike Dukes with 21, Obezonia (Little boy) Garrett with 12, and Lynn Wright with 11.

They also dominated the boards with their superior height. Of Snyder's 18 rebounds, only six were grabbed in the last half. Bobby Clardy and M. C. Powell led local contestants in this category with four each.

Steve Brashear was more valuable to the Loboes than his two points indicate. Time and again he grabbed the ball on tipoffs, and he passed the ball down court well.

With only one senior in the starting five, the Loboes are going to be tough for some time.

In the "B" game, the Tabbies overcame a slow first half to score a 54-47 win. They were behind, 15-7, after one, and down, 29-19, at halftime. They changed the defense some and hustled a little better to tie it up, 37-37, after three quarters.

Four of the "B" boys hit for more than 10 points: Jerry January 13, Mitch Rambin 12, Jodi Williamson 12, and Benny Ward 11. Levelland's Suite was high point man with 17 points.

The Bengals will be at home Tuesday night with Littlefield providing the opposition.

Elsewhere in District 3-AAA Friday night, Lamesa humbled Lake View, 94-31, and Sweetwater tripped Littlefield, 46-44.

Cuozzo Will Be On Standby Duty

MIAMI, Fla. (AP — A dental student is in town for a brief but familiar chore of backing up quarterback Johnny Unitas— if the Baltimore ace needs it — in the Colts Playoff Bowl game Sunday in the Orange Bowl with the Philadelphia Eagles.

Gary Cuozzo arrived Friday. Thirty minutes after the National Football League event, he expects to be bound back to his studies at University of Tennessee's dntal school.

Whether Cuozzo, with 26 completions in 50 throws, will see any action was problematical. Unitas, who had been nursing a sore shoulder, looked fine in Miami workouts.

With Unitas in good shape the Colts will enjoy a one-touchdown edge in pre-game odds for the contest, despite the Eagles' surprising late season surge that carried them to victories in their last four games.

SWC Leaders Face Each Other

The four undefeated teams in Southwest Conference basketball get together in the second round of conference play this afternoon and tonight.

A game in Fort Worth at 2 p.m. matched Texas, the leading offensive team with 87.5 points average per game, and Texas Christian, also over the 80-point mark.

Southern Methodist and Texas A&M, the other two unbeaten teams in conference action, clash at Dallas.

A battle among two lower bracket clubs should produce the highest scoring. Two of three 200-point shooters in the conference and one who has pitched in 187 are due to see action.

Jimmy Turner of Baylor leads the conference in scoring with 212 and teammate Darrell Hardy is third with 200. Bill Doty of Rice is fourth with 187. Baylor and Rice tangle at Houston tonight.

Texas Tech and Arkansas, also among the beaten, get together at Fayetteville in another 2 p.m. game.

Steve Bartels of Baylor leads the legue in field goal percentage with 43 of 71 for 60.6 percent.

Greg Williams and Mike Inselman, both of Rice, are top marksmen from the free throw line with .949 and .914, respectively.

James Cash of Texas Christian, one of the two first Negroes to play Southwest Conference basketball, leads rebounders with an 11.8 average.

Bullets Are Consistent Losers

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Year in, year out, the Baltimore Bullets remain the same; one of the losingest teams in the National Basketball Association.

Before Jan. 1, the consistent Bullets won only eight of 38 games. The new year has brought only added misery.

First, they lost to Detroit, then they lost again to Detroit in overtime, and Friday night, they averted a near miracle by losing to Philadelphia 121-115 in overtime in Philadelphia.

The last setback came the hard way because the Bullets had to squander an 18-point lead in the third period before the 76ers could record their 38th victory against only four losses.

The defeat was the 11th straight for Baltimore, only six away from San Francisco's record 17 in 1964-65.

Elsewhere, the Chicago Bulls, the team that was supposed to do all the losing in the NBA, continued their turnabout by whipping the Detroit Pistons 135-126 in Detroit.

It was the 17th victory for the Bulls, the league's newest club.

Los Angeles, however, kept the Bulls in the Western Division cellar by edging the Boston Celtics 102-99.

Nate Thurmond's 30 points and 20 rebounds helped San Francisco overcome an 18-point deficit and beat the St. Louis Hawks 129-118.

Wally Jones and Chet Walker ruined any hopes the Bullets had of a form reversal as they each scored 28 points to lead the 76ers' comeback.

Luke Jackson's field goal with 43 seconds sent the game into overtime at 111-all. Walker then took over with two baskets and the Bullets were back in form.

Colts Choice Over Eagles

By BEN FUNK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — With Johnny Unitas healthy, the Baltimore Colts are favored to beat the Philadelphia Eagles by a touchdown Sunday in the National Football League's Pro Playoff Bowl.

In good passing form in Miami workouts, the veteran Unitas appeared to have shaken off the effects of a sore shoulder incurred in a Nov. 13 game with Atlanta and rib bruises inflicted by Green Bay Dec. 10.

With Unitas as the top drawing card, the game which has broken attendance records four years in a row, could be a sellout for the first time in the 72,000-seat Orange Bowl. It came close last year when 65,569 watched Baltimore beat Dallas 35-3.

The rapid growth of the game's popularity has pleasantly surprised the NFL and the co-sponsoring Orange Bowl Committee in view of the fact that it is played by second-place teams.

It is supposed to determine the third best team in the NFL, but doesn't necessarily do so. Philadelphia tied Cleveland for second in the eastern division and got the Miami trip only because Cleveland took it last.

The Colts and Eagles both finished with 9-5 records, but followed opposite routes during the season.

The comeback of the Eagles was perhaps the biggest surprise of the NFL season. Bombed in succession by St. Louis 41-10 and Dallas 56-7, they retaliated by winning their last four games and seven of the last nine.

By contrast, the Colts were in the thick of the Western Division battle early. They had won seven of nine and five straight when Unitas came up with his shoulder injury.

Below par the following week, Unitas was pulled in the first half as the Colts lost to Detroit. Gary Cuozzo finished the game, then started the next one against Los Angeles which the Colts also lost.

Baltimore's title hopes were dead when Unitas returned to lead them over the Chicago Bears.

Willie Richardson will open at flanker for the Colts in place of Jimmy Orr, sidelined with a broken collarbone.

The game, played for the benefit of the NFL player pension fund, has produced more than $600,000 for that purpose and will add close to $200,000 from this game. It will be televised by CBS with the kickoff at 2 p.m. EST).

AIRBORNE JONES SCORES FOR EAST — The East's Clinton Jones (26) of Michigan State soars over teammate Bob Hyland (60) of Boston College to score in first quarter action in East-West Shrine football classic at San Francisco. Jones, 6-foot, 210-pound halfback from Cleveland, Ohio, scored from two yards out. East won game, 45-22. (AP Wirephoto)

UNIVERSALLY RESPECTED, ADMIRED

Baseball World Saddened By Death Of Johnny Keane

By WILL GRIMSLEY

HOUSTON (AP) — Johnny Keane, the gentlemanly little manager who suffered through one of baseball's most tragic success stories in reverse, is dead.

A massive heart attack at his home here Friday night claimed the mild, cigar-chomping perfectionist who won the world championship with the St. Louis Cardinals in 1964, only to be fired 18 months later by the New York Yankees when the American League club plunged to the cellar.

He was 55. He had spent more than half his life — 30 years — building a dream with the Cardinal chain.

When death came to him suddenly, he held the obscure position of special scout with the California Angels.

The baseball world was shocked and saddened. Keane, renowned as a good organizer, an astute manager and a person of extremely high principles, was universally respected and admired.

Bob Fishel, chief publicist for the Yankees, probably expressed the sentiments of most baseball personalities when he said:

"He was one of the finest men it has been my pleasure to be associated with. He was a marvelous human being."

Death came unexpectedly at around 10:30 p.m., EST. Keane complained of feeling ill shortly after dinner. He collapsed and died of what his physician, Dr. William C. Sutton, called a massive coronary occlusion.

Keane's widow, a daughter, Mrs. Pat Masterson, and two grandsons, all of Houston, survive. Services will be held here Monday or Tuesday.

Keane was the central figure in one of the game's most bizarre managerial shifts.

In 1963, Keane's Cardinals were barely beaten out for the National League pennant by the Los Angeles Dodgers after a streak of 19 victories in 20 games.

The next year reports persisted that both Keane and the St. Louis general manager, Devine, were headed for discard. In mid-season the Cards fired Devine and hired Bob Howsam. Leo Durocher was slated to replace Keane.

However, Keane rallied his Cardinals and won the pennant on the final day of the season after the dramatic collapse of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Then the Cardinals won the World Series from the New York Yankees, four games to three.

Keane was in a position to get almost anything he demanded in a contract renewal with the Cardinals. Instead, he quit and —in a startling turn—took over as manager of the Yankees, replacing the ousted Yogi Berra.

With Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris suffering injuries and the team generally riddled with misfortune, Keane was able to get the Yankees only as high as sixth in 1965.

Things went from bad to worse in 1966, and the team plunged to 10th place. It was then, apparently at the direction of the controlling Columbia Broadcasting System, that Keane was summarily fired in May and replaced by General Manager Ralph Houk.

Outwardly, Keane took the action philosophically.

"I left the Yankees with all good feelings," he said. "It is their right to make a change when they see fit."

Then, a team man to the end, he added: "If they can get them (the Yankees) hitting, that is all there will be to it. The pitching wasn't bad. We were just not hitting."

"Things like this happen in baseball," he said at the time. "You do your best, and that's all you can do."

The lean, soft-spoken ex-manager had none of the brash color of Casey Stengel, the militant driving force of Houk or the warmth of Berra.

Many said that the reason he failed with the Yankees was that he wasn't hard enough on the stars, such as Mantle and Maris.

Keane spent 39 years in the game, but he never played in the majors.

Born Nov. 3, 1911, in St. Louis he broke into the Cardinal organization as shortstop with Globe of the Arizona State League in 1929 after reportedly considering a career in the priesthood.

He moved to Houston in the Texas League in 1935, but was hit by a pitched ball in one game and lay in a coma, near death, for six weeks. The accident cut short his playing career.

He became manager of the Cardinals' Albany farm club in the Georgia-Florida league in 1938 and returned to Houston as manager in 1946, winning the Dixie Series championship in 1947.

He managed at Rochester, Columbus and Omaha for the next 11 years, moving up as coach of the Cardinals in 1959. He replaced Solly Hemus as manager in the middle of the 1961 season.

After his 1964 victory, he was named Manager of the Year. "I waited 35 years for this," he said. "I never thought a man could be so happy."

Agreement Reached On Baseball Pacts

By JACK DONOVAN

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—College baseball coaches and the major leagues were a step closer today toward ending their long hostility over the pros raiding the collegiate ranks for players.

John (Hi) Simmons, president of the American Association of College Baseball Coaches said Friday an agreement was reached whereby collegians cannot be signed to a contract until after his senior year, except under certain conditions.

He said the agreement was reached last month at a meeting in Pittsburgh and was adopted by the National Association of Professional baseball Leagues and the major leagues.

The National Football League and the American Football League has long agreed not to sign a college player until his eligibility has expired or, in the case of red shirts, until his class has graduated. A red shirt is a player who completes his three years of varsity football competition in five years.

The college baseball and track coaches met Friday and today in advance of the 61st convention of the National Collegiate Athletic Association which begins Monday.

The baseball signing rule, effective last Jan. 1, provides that no college player can be drafted and or signed to a contract prior to the final game of his senior year.

"This can't help but improve our programs," Simmons said. "It is quite a step forward."

There are four exceptions. A collegian who turns 21 prior to Aug. 1 is eligible for the June free agent player draft and can be signed before completing his eligibility. The other exceptions are players who complete their athletic eligibility, are dropped from school for scholastic reasons, or quit college and remain out for 120 days.

In the past college players could be drafted during the summer vacation periods after their sophomore and junior years.

Simmons said he feels professional baseball will benefit because it "will get a better product, more mentally and physically mature."

The NCAA baseball rules committee announced June 12-16 as the dates for the National Collegiate World Series in Omaha, Neb.; and recommended that the NCAA Executive Committee approve a college division baseball tournament.

The NCAA convention is not expected to produce many changes. Among the proposed amendments to its constitution are ones affecting financial aid to athletics, participation of freshmen in sports other than football and basketball, withdrawing of certification of postseason football bowls if bowl representatives approach colleges prior to certain dates, and the controversial 1.6 minimum grade point average.

RANDY MATSON SHOOTS FOR SHOT PUT RECORD

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The nation's 1967 indoor track and field season opened Saturday night at the Cow Palace with the All-American Indoor Games, and Meet Director Jim Terrill sees three indoor records and 10 stadium marks in danger.

Randy Matson of Texas A&M, owner of the shot put world record of 70 feet 7 inches, could add the indoor mark by tossing farther than 64-11¾.

Bob Seagren of Southern California, who boosted his indoor pole vault record to 17-1 just last Dec. 30 in Canada, aims to increase that height.

Sprinter Charley Greene from Nebraska might nudge the record 5.9 seconds in the 60-yard dash. Last year at the Cow Palace, he stumbled slightly coming out of the blocks yet still was clocked in 6.0.

Matson, Sagren and Greene can't be considered cinch winners of their events dspite their record potential.

Neal Steinhauer, the Oregon shot putter, generally is considered the world's second best and he could notch a new indoor mark.

Seagren faces Paul Wilson in a battle of University of Southern California pole vaulters, and each is expected to top the Cow Palace record of 16-7¼.

San Jose State's Tommie Smith poses the top threat to Greene although the Spartan speedster has been better at longer distances outdoors. The start should foretell the finish. Should Smith get off fast, he could be the winner, but generally Green excels off the blocks.

ST. LOUIS AP) — Henry Armstrong, who once held three world boxing championships, has been named an assistant to the executive director of the Herbert Hoover Boys Club in St. Louis.

Talented Sophomores Lead Princeton, UCLA Teams

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Big Lew Alcindor who has led top-ranked UCLA to eight straight victories isn't the only former New York City youth making good in college basketball. There's Chris Thomforde of Princeton, who is helping bring back some of the glory days of the Bill Bradley era to the Nassau Tigers.

Alcindor and Thomforde both are 19-year-old sophomores, but there's a difference. Alcindor is 7-foot-1, Thomforde 6-foot-9.

Princeton, rapidly forging to the fore nationally, made it 10 victories in 11 starts by crushing Brown 94-50 Friday night at home in their Ivy League opener. Thomforde sat out 15 minutes but still paced the Tigers with 24 points.

With big Chris gladdening the heart of Coach Bill van Breda Kolff, Princeton reeled off eight straight victories before losing to second-ranked Louisville 72-63 in th final of the Quaker City Classic at Philadelphia.

The Tigers bounced right back last Monday and knocked third-ranked North Carolina out of the unbeaten ranks 91-81. That was on the road, too.

Texas Western, the defending national champion, was the only team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action. The sixth-ranked Miners crushed Southern Mississippi 84-54 at El Paso, Tex., led by David Lattin's 24 points.

Oregon State opened defense of its Pacific-8 crown by upsetting California 45-42 at home on Vince Fritz' layup with 13 seconds left. Stanford, also playing at home, edged Oregon 68-65 behind Don Griffin's 23 points, while Brigham Young crushed Utah State at Provo 92-66. Big 6-foot-11 Craig Raymond led the Cougars with 35 points.

Yale made its record 3-0 in Ivy League play by beating Penn 86-74 at Philadelphia while Columbia downed Harvard 80-71 in New York and Cornell whipped Dartmouth 69-57 at Ithaca, N.Y.

William & Mary scored an 85-74 road victory over George Washington, while at Blacksburg, Va., Virginia Tech snapped the 15-game winning streak of the AAU Phillips Oilers 67-60.

On the road Idaho beat Montana 82-79, Gonzaga downed Montana State 80-71 in overtime and Miami of Florida defeated Jacksonville 75-71. New Mexico State humbled Hardin Simmons 69-51 at home.

Welterweight Cokes In Non-Title Fight

DALLAS (AP)—Curtis Cokes, the world's welterweight boxing champion, will meet French champion Francois Pavilla in a Jan. 23 non-title fight in Paris.

He will box Pavilla during a two-week European pleasure tour with his manager, Doug Lord, and their wives.

The party leaves Jan. 16 and will go to London before the fight and to Switzerland and Rome afterward.

A previously scheduled non-title fight in Germany with Elzie Epps was cancelled.

Canadians Win Over Russia In Hockey

WINNIPEG (AP) — Canda rebounded from a gwo-goal deficit in the second period and beat world champion Russia 5-4 Friday night to win the centennial hockey tournament.

KANSAS CITY AP) — A block of Wisconsin cheese has been bet against a bundle of Kansas City steaks on the outcome of the Super Bowl football game Jan. 15.

Mayor Don A. Tilleman of Green Bay, Wis., proposed the wager Friday in a telegram to Mayor Ilus W. Davis of Kansas City, who accepted immediately.

When Denny McLain turned in a 20-13 record in 1966 he became the first Detroit Tiger pitcher to win 20 games in a season since 1961 when Frank Lary posted a 23-9 mark.

Wildcatters Are Off To Good Start

AUSTIN (AP) — Wildcatters in Texas got the New Year off to a good start, reporting 10 gas and 2 oil discoveries this week.

The Texas Railroad commission said oil and gas well completions also looked good — 228 and 54, respectively. The figures compare with 151 oil and 14 gas well completions during the first week of 1966.

Both oil wildcats were in Dist. 2. Four gas discoveries were in Dist. 2, two in Dist. 7-c and one each in Dists. 1, 3, 4 and 7-B.

A total of 225 wells were plugged, including 128 dry holes.

For the full year 1966, the commission said oil well completions totaled 7,207, gas wells 6,902, oil wildcats 329 and gas discoveries 494. Comparable completion figures for 1965 were 6,902 oil and 2,383 gas wells.

Oil and gas operators reported they drilled and plugged 4,623 dry holes.

Dist. 4 topped the state in discoveries with 194 gas and 61 oil wildcats. Dist. 8 had the most oil discoveries, 64, and also led in oil well completions, 1,297. Dist. 4 had 645 new gas wells to lead in that catgory.

Governor Reagan Sells Malibu Ranch

LOS ANGELES AP) — A spokesman for California Gov. Ronald Reagan says that Reagan has sold 250 acres of his Malibu ranch, "Yearling Row," to 20th Century-Fox Studios for about $2 million.

"I can't afford to pay the taxes on my salary as governor,' the spokesman quoted Reagan as saying Friday. His salary as the state's chief executive is $44,100.

Tax records showed taxes on the property rose from $9,000 in 1965 to $24,000 last year.

Sports Writers Honor Jess Neely, Odus Mitchell

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two men who devoted more than 40 years to coaching were given the distinguished service award of the Texas Sports Writers Association.

Jess Neely, who retired as coach of Rice, and Odus Mitchell, who stepped down as coach of North Texas State, were accorded these honors under a special award created only this year.

The award will not necessarily be an annual affair but will be presented when there is a worth recipient.

The sports writers found two very worthy recipients to get things started off.

Neely coached for 40 years, won 206 games and sent teams into a total of 400 games. His influence on collegiate football continues as he becomes athletic director of Vanderbilt University where he started in the game.

Mitchell coached 42 years, during which he won 287 games. His last season was one of his best—8-2.

Neely and Mitchell were not selected solely on the basis of victories or longevity but for their contribution to the game of football.

The Texas Sports Writers Association accorded them unanimous support for the distinguished service award—one of the highest of all.

Spanish Fisherman To Visit America

MADRID, Spain AP) — Francisco Simo, a Spanish fisherman who helped the U. S. Navy recover an H-bomb lost in the Mediterranean last year, has obtained a visa for a visit to the United States.

Simo plans to be in the United States by Jan. 17, first anniversary of the collision of a U. S. B52 jet bombers and a KC135 tanker near the village of Palomares, in southeastern Spain, when the bomb was lost.

Bullet Ejected Through The Nose

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — Cab driver Nick Simotes, 32, was on his way to the police station Friday night to view a man suspected of robbing him and shooting him in the head three months ago.

Simotes blew his nose and out came the bullet which had been lodged in his sinus since the shooting. Physicians had known the slug was there but it had not been removed.

Simotes could not identify the man.

TV Program To Feature Participation In Title 1

Participation of Snyder schools in Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 will be discussed on the "Know Your Schools" closed - circuit television program Monday. Those interested in learning more about the Title I program in the local schools should tune in Channel 2, SCAT, between 6 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

J. M. Kayser, co-ordinating teacher for Title I, will explain purposes of and reasons for the program in the local shcools, and will introduce several of the teachers directly involved in the program here. This TV program has been planned so as to bring local citizens a better understanding of this school endeavor to expand the learning abilities for educationally deprived children, especially those who are handicapped by language problems.

Six teachers will be on hand Monday evening to explain and demonstrate methods of teaching used in the Title I program in the local schools. Teachers to take part on the TV program include Mrs. Carolyn Bowden and Miss Sue Stokes of Northeast Elementary; Mrs. Carolyn Martin and Mrs. Nellie Womack, Central Elementary, and Mrs. Wilma Stone and Mrs. Faye Deffebach of Travis Junior High School.

Kayser also works with the Head Start program which is under the Office of Economic Opportunity and is not a part of Title I. Whenever a teacher elsewhere in the school system sees the need for special work with a child she is encouraged to consult with her school principal and if the two agree that special work is indicated, Kayser's services are available to them and may be solicited.

Jim Erwin is associated with this relatively new program in the schools whenever counseling is indicated as an important factor to improve the learning ability of any of the children accepting the help of a member of the Title I teaching staff. No child is enrolled in one of these special classes without first obtaining consent of his or her parents.

In the elementary schools, each teacher employed under Title I is limited to no more than 12 children under her instruction. Each teacher is assisted by an aide who is responsible for much of the detail work involved, which leaves the teacher free to work more closely with the children. At the secondary level, one teacher and an aide are employed for every 15 students assigned to these special classes.

This special educational program is now in operation in four of the local elementary schools, East, Northeast, North and Cenfral, and in Travis Junior High school. Nine teachers and seven aides are employed to carry on the Title I instructional program.

The Title I program is an integral part of the school in which it operates. It is coordinated to fit into the school's needs which often vary from school to school in the system. Each principal uses the Title I teacher as he sees the special needs of children under his authority and adapts the program to situations which may be peculiar to his school.

Remedial reading is considered to be the most important phase of the local Title I program. Educators find that if a child cannot read the printed page, it is impossible for him to properly apply himself in any other of the subject areas.

English as a second language is also incorporated as a part of the local Title I instructional program. This phase of the teaching program is adopted from the Miami, Florida, system of bi-lingual instruction, used successfully there when the refugee problem presented the need for teaching children of foreign birth. Educators there found it was necessary for those children who had learned the language of their former homeland to become familiar with the language of their adopted country.

Title I teachers are provided with teaching aids and use many new and proven scientific methods, according to Kayser. Special classrooms are set aside for their use in each of the buildings in which they serve. These classrooms are equiped with over-head projectors, and other instructional materials used in the local schools are at their disposal. The very latest in printed materials are used in this instructional program, the Title I coordinating teacher advises.

This program was inaugurated in the local schools in January last year. Approval for this year's participation was received on Oct. 1 for an eight-month-period. A new application must be filed for each school year by the local school education agency — school board. Application is filed in this state with the Texas State Education Agency which works with the U. S. Office of Education through the Division of Program Operations of the Bureau of Elementary and Secondary Education.

In summing up the Title I program for the four-month-period last school year, Kayser says, "Last year proved to be most beneficial to children who participated in the local Title I program. Evaluation made at the end of the school term showed on the average a child was advanced at least one grade level. Many children in last year's Title I classes are now participating satisfactorily in regular classrooms and no longer need the help of these special teachers."

Snyder High school does not have a program in operation at this time under Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965. However, application has been made for self-contained classes from grades 10 through 12 to accommodate those students who it is believed could benefit from additional help outside the regular classroom to improve their scholastic abilities. This program, if approved, would place one teacher on each grade level to teach basics. These teachers would stay with the same group of students for three or four periods each school day and would work with them only on English, mathematics, social studies and science. Students involved in these special class groups would be allowed to choose electives or participate in extra-curricular activities for the remainder of the school day. The high school operates on a seven-period day with the first period starting at 7:30 a.m.

On Monday, Jan. 16, "Know Your Schools" will feature a style show to be presented by students of the high school homemaking department's sewing classes. Sewing classes are under the direction of Mrs. Helen Martin.

Jack Ruby Is Buried Near Family

CHICAGO (AP) — Jack Ruby was buried Friday in a snow-swept cemetery amidst a group of family and friends.

Ruby, 55, died Tuesday of a blood clot and cancer in Dallas, Tex.

Rabbi David Graubart, conducting the funeral service, termed Ruby "the avenger of a martyred president."

Two days after President John F. Kennedy's assassination, Ruby shot and killed Lee Harvey Oswald in a Dallas police station. Oswald was named the president's killer by the Warren Commission.

Ruby, born in Chicago, was laid to rest in a Conservative Jewish ceremony climaxed by his three brothers' reading of the Kaddish, a Jewish prayer similar to the Lord's Prayer.

Ruby's four sisters were also at the graveside services in Westlawn Cemetery. Six policemen stood watch at the canopied gravesite.

Rabbi Graubart told the mourners at the funeral chapel that "on the surface, Ruby was an avenger. He was an avenger of the blood who pursued the manslayer while the blood was hot."

The services were only for 60 family members and friends. Another 100 persons including newsmen and television cameramen observed from a distance. Ruby was buried next to his mother in the family plot.

Lost Sight Makes A Gradual Return

Jack V. Greene, 2110 Twenty-seventh Street, blind since an oilfield accident Aug. 1, 1936, continues to regain his sight.

Jack returned to his home in Snyder last week after another visit to Methodist Hospital in Houston, where eye specialists are keeping check on his condition.

"This last time," said Jack, "they inserted a 'cosmetic shell' over the left eye." The right eye was damaged beyond repair in the accident.

Jack said the purpose of the shell or eye covering was to keep the plastic cornea, which previously had been inserted in the shell since it fits over the eye, in place. He can remove the shell since it fits over the eye much in the same manner as contact lens.

JACK GREENE
. . . brighter outlook

There has been some drainage in the eye where the incision was made for the plastic cornea, Jack said, adding that this will clear up in time. However, he can't see without the shell.

The shell will be used temporarily while Jack's sight continues to improve. Later, the specialists will fit a permanent shell over the eye. The eye also will be "colored", and Jack will be fitted for glasses at a future date. He will return to Houston in 30 to 40 days for another checkup.

Meanwhile, Jack remains encouraged over the slow but steady improvement in his sight.

"Dark colors — such as browns, blues and blacks — all appear dark, but I can easily recognize reds and greens," he revealed.

The insertion of a plastic cornea is the result of a new surgical technique developed to clear up a condition of the eye known as "clouded cornea." It has been performed successfully on others, including a Lubbock man who told Jack of the new technique.

Physicians feel the results of the operation are ahead of schedule and that clear sight gradually will be restored to Jack's eye with exercise, he pointed out.

"I can make out signs around town and see the forms of people and objects," he declared.

Jack's wife, Ola, has been blind since the deterioration of an optic nerve left her sightless in her 11th year. Although surgeons cannot yet do anything for her condition, she remains enthusiastic about the miracle that has touched her husband's —and their—life.

Press Gets Instructions For Trial

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Circuit Judge Lynn Silvertooth has outlined his plans for reporters who will be covering the Feb. 13 murder trial of Dr. Carl Coppolino.

The press, he said, must report the trial "as it unfolds in the courtroom" — and not as it is "pieced together from extra-judicial statements."

Coppolino, 34, was cleared of the slaying of retired Army Col. William E. Farber by a New Jersey jury. He now faces a first-degree murder charge here in the death of his first wife more than a year ago.

The doctor is accused of administering a fatal drug to Carmela, mother of his two children.

Silvertooth said Friday that:

No telephone calls may be made by jurors while they are sequestered and none received by them. No one may talk to or photograph jurors.

Nothing will "be disseminated" that is not introduced in court.

No one shall leave the courtroom except at recess or for an emergency.

Only attorneys and court personnel may handle exhibits.

No photographic, television or sound equipment, including tape recorders, will be allowed in the courthouse or on the grounds surrounding it.

No sketches may be made in court.

Entranceways and corridors of the courthouse are to be kept clear at all times.

No release to any of the news media may be made or any leads, information or gossip by police officers, witnesses or counsel for either side, or their employes.

Extrajudicial statements by lawyers, witnesses or any one working for either side are prohibited.

Progress On Robert Lee Dam Is Good

Good progress is being made on construction of the dam across the Colorado River at Robert Lee.

O. H. Ivie, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, said that the contractor, Clement Bros., Inc. of Hickory, N. C., has completed core trench excavation at the river and will soon complete the backfill. Most of the excavation for the service spillway is complete. Some of excavation of core trench is being pressed south of the river now.

Clement has sub-let the concret spillway construction to Terry Construction Co. of Greenville, S. C., and forming is expected to begin around March 1 on this massive structure. The concrete work has been let by Terry to Ready - mix of Dallas, but Clement will furnish the aggregate.

The district has completed additional core drilling below the spillway and found nothing but good foundation for a depth of 100 feet, said Ivie. Other cores are being taken along the core trench length to verify previous data that the core trench will shut off any underflow from gravel or gyp laminations.

Ivie and S. W. Freese, Fort Worth, consulting engineer, have been conferring with Texas Highway Department officials concerning the rerouting of the Robert Lee-Sterling City and the Robert Lee-Water Valley highway around the spillway at the south end of the lake site. They are hopeful that a decision can be reached soon.

WALLACE W. WILSON

Wilson Speaker For AIME Unit

Wallace W. Wilson, vice president of the Oil and Public Utilities Div., Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Co. of Chicago, will be the guest speaker at the 7:30 p.m. dinner meeting of the Snyder Section of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME to be held Tuesday, Jan. 24, at the Snyder Country Club.

Wilson, a 1966-67 Distinguished Lecturer for the Society, will speak on the topic, "Things They Never Told Me." Based on his personal experience, Wilson will outline some of the important non-professional problems which may be encountered early in an engineering career. He concludes that an engineering education often leaves the graduate woefully indiferent to human relations and problems related thereto, even though success in a business career is principally determined by abilities in this area.

Born in Manden, N. D., Wilson has had a varied career in petroleum engineering. After completing his degree at Pomona College in Claremont, Calif., he was employed by the Pomona Pump Company as a design engineer and after several years' work there joined Ryder - Scott Company in the capacity of a petroleum engineer.

In September 1947 Wilson was named assistant professor of petroleum engineering at the University of Texas where he served until 1950. At that time he joined Continental Oil Company as a senior reservoir engineer and subsequently moved into positions of assistant chief reservoir engineer, chief reservoir engineer and chief of reserves and evaluations.

Wilson joined Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust Company of Chicago, Ill., in 1956 as a petroleum engineer in the Oil and Public Utilities Division. Shortly thereafter he was elected second vice president and in 1960 was named vice president.

Wilson has been active in various professional organizations. He is a member of the Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME, the American Petroleum Institute, the Independent Petroleum Association of America, Illinois Oil and Gas Association and the Oklahoma Independent Petroleum Association.

Active in industry committee work, he has been named to the Advisory Board of the International Oil and Gas Educational Center, the Tax and Cost Study Committees of IPAA, and the Depletion Committee of Independent Oil Producers and Landowners Association, Tristate.

He is one of six 1966 Distinguished Lecturers for the Society who travel extensively to speak before SPE sections throughout the world. The Distinguished Lecture Series was begun in 1960 by the Society so that its members could be afforded the opportunity of meeting personally with leaders in the industry.

The Society of Petroleum Engineers of AIME, headquartered in Dallas, is the international technical and professional organization for engineers and scientists engaged in drilling - production operations for oil and gas.

Army Of Homeless People Compound Somali Troubles

AP SPOTLIGHT
By DENNIS LEE BOYLE

EL UAK, Somalia (AP) — Africa has many problems but none greater than the wandering army of hungry, homeless people treking across borders trying to escape political and tribal upheaval.

Every day a score of African men, women and children die in this dusty desert outpost straddling the Somali-Kenya border.

They die of starvation and disease. Some, mainly the very young or very old, seem to succumb because it is easier to die than to continue the struggle to stay alive.

Tears are seldom shed. Privation and endless misery have robbed people of sorrow.

The pattern is much the same in various sections of the black African continent. They are part of a great lost, unwanted army of refugees, derelicts plunged into the turbulence of political change.

Governments and leaders are toppled by new rulers and military regimes. Border disputes and tribal differences flare into violence. Thousands of Africans seek safety in what they believe are friendlier territories.

Their numbers are uncountable but conservative estimates place the refugee army at well over the 2-million mark.

Uganda, a small Central African teritory roughly the size of Great Britain, has more than 100,000 refugees.

They stream hopefully across her borders from the restless countries of Ruanda, Somalia and the Congo, hoping to find somewhere to live in peace.

President Milton Obote has appealed to the Organization for African Unity for help in rehabilitation of the homeless thousands. Uganda's meager resources are insufficient to cope with the influx.

The sweltering east coast territory of Tanzania believes it has over 50,000 displaced persons. The bulk have fled from the tiny turbulent state of Burundi. Many more live a nomadic existence in the country's desolate border regions, unknown and unaided.

They add to the many problems of Tanzania, most of whose 10 million Africans live at subsistence level.

The Congo, with a history of violence and tribal warring, has a massive internal refugee population, running into many thousands.

Across her borders over 200,000 Africans have sought sanctuary from white-ruled Portuguese Angola. From Ruanda 30,000 and over 10,000 more from Sudan squat inside the Congo border.

Nigeria, once the showpiece of black African stability and now under military rule after a succession of coups, has an estimated one million Nigerian refugees, drifting to and fro between their country's restless tribal areas.

Nearly every black state has similar problems.

Gradually the exuberance of recently won independence is wearing off in parts of black Africa. So too is the mass adoration of the leaders who led people to freedom from colonial rule.

Resettlement of the displaced refugees is an almost impossible task. Most African governments, trying desperately to make something of their impoverished countries, find it difficult enough to feed their own people without the added responsibility of playing host to refugees.

Through the United Nations and other international refugee organizations massive sums of money have been allocated for the African refugee problem. America, Britain and West Germany top the list of donors.

But some governments are wary of monetary, medical and food handouts from sympathetic Western countries. They fear the gifts are tied with political strings.

Vietnam Veteran Killed In Crash

"NEAR HORIZONS" Theme of Altrurian Daughters Club Meeting

The Altrurian Daughter's Club started the new year off with a delightful meeting and program Wednesday afternoon at Martha Ann Woman's Club. Mrs. P. W. Cloud, vice president, presided.

Following the business meeting Mrs. Cloud read a paper prepared by Mrs. Nina Cooper who was ill and unable to attend.

"Saga of Colorado City," was the topic of the program. The following is part of the paper read.

"William H. Snyder was born in Pennsylvania in 1837. After his discharge from the Union Army in 1863, he bought mules and wagons from the government and headed West. After many skirmishes with the Indians he finally made his way safely to Scurry County. He made his camp on Deep Creek and operated a trading post. There were few women in Snyder, so he went to Colorado City and married Miss Nellie Farclought, a native of New York City. Mrs. Snyder was not accepted socially in Snyder so they moved to Colorado City.

City With A Past

"In 1882 Colorado City had a population of 6,000.

"It also boasted 28 saloons, 75 mercantile establishments, 2 photographers, 7 billard parlors, 4 theatres, 3 land agents, 12 lawyers, 1 broker, 7 peddlers, 2 lightning rod agents, 17 doctors, 1 dentist and a newspaper.

"Some joke that the town, 'still' with a population of 6,000, is going backwards — it has no saloons and only one lightning rod agent!

"But statistics can not begin to tell the story of Colorado City, 'The Mother City of West Texas', rivaling Weatherford as the oldest town between Fort Worth and El Paso.

"It may be that there were more saloons for instance. The census - taker was having a hard time keeping count of anything when he got to the 28th- and the population has been anything but constant; it has fluctuated with the changing economy, the 'booms,' and the drouths, going as low as 1,300 people in 1890.

"The town's history must be told as it happened--sometimes a stiff dose to swallow. There's the story of Marshall W. D. Gooch, for instance, who was killed in a saloon during a campaign. A rival candidate was indicted for murder.

"It was a western town. One man shot up a saloon and returned the next morning to soberly pay $75 damage and have a drink with the bartender to an agreement that it was nobody else's business.

"This was the code of the cow country. Men settled their own difference, either peacefully — or violently.

"Gambling tables operated profusely following the incorporation of Colorado City, April 11, 1882. Operators were hauled into city court frequently, but on a fairly regular schedule. Townspeople began to 'suspect' that this was a method of 'Licensing and taxing' more than finding as there were few ad valorem.

"There are a lot of 'first' connected with the community. The first train arrived in 1881, making Colorado City West Texas' first boom town.

"The first building had been erected in 1880 by A. W. Dunn; the first white settlement, a Ranger camp, was set up in 1877; and the first cultural center, the Frenkel Opera House, seating 1,500 was opened in 1884.

"Also notable is the fact that Rev. O. F. Rogers preached the town's first sermon in January 1881, in a saloon, with the bar and its accessories covered with wagon sheets. He started the first school in March.

"This was the home, not the 'playtown' of substantial cattlemen, says Mrs. J. Lee Jones in her history. In 1887 there were 34 cattlemen living in Colorado City with values of more than $100,000 each.

"Fortunes were made and lost overnight. Judge R. L. Looney once wrote that a cattleman having a herd of cattle valued at $150,000 would take out a charter for a corporation with capital stock of $300,000. He would sell the cattle to the corporation for 51 per cent of its stock and sell the remaining stock for cash to all comers. Any way you figure he came out ahead.

"Cattle remained big business for a time, until the passing of the open range, and the town's population dipped to near the 1,000 mark in the 1890's.

"But King Cotton came to the rescue, and the population was back up to 3,000 in the 1900's, until drouth struck a hard blow. But again the economy boomed, this time by oil strikes in the 1920's. Then there was the salt boom, and today it's cattle again, with cotton as a secondary economic factor.

"This history of Colorado City, in actuality a history of the 'wild' West Texas era itself, is being preserved by the Colorado City Historical Museum Association, R. H. Ratliff, president. It maintains a large museum near downtown.

"But the residents of Colorado City aren't quite ready to accept their area as a 'museum' piece — they're even collecting and selling tumbleweeds to keep the town alive, and an interstate highway is bringing tourists.

"Nevertheless, Lawrence of Arabia tells of visiting ruins of old Roman cattle whose mortar, the Arabs think, still is fragrant with perfume builders used 2,000 years ago."

Nestled in a valley where Lone Wolf Creek meets the Colorado River is a city, which was the first frontier supply and recreation center for West Texas. Colorado City, Texas, county seat of Mitchell County, is the oldest town between Weatherford and El Paso.

It has known many firsts — first inter-city bus line, first oil well west of Ranger and discovery well of Permian Basin Oil Fields.

The citizens of Colorado City have preserved their heritage. Now the center of a rich agricultural region, it boasts of excellent churches, library, clinics, schools, its industries, its two lakes, and an ideal place for healthy family living and recreation.

Wedding vows are to be exchanged on January 28th at the Hermleigh Church of Christ. Guru To Art Of Today

DISCOVERING MODERN ART. By P. Sedgwick Jr.

One of the characteristics of modern art is that it baffles such a large segment of the general public. That could be a flaw in its nature, for if art cannot communicate, is it really art?

The fact remains, flaw or no flaw, that the art of our times needs a lot of explaining. There have been a good many books making a try at it. Some authors seem to beat one over the head with loud preachments; some are high - pressure salesmen touting sheepmanship status; some are apologists who try to wheedle acceptance of unfamiliar tenets. And, let's face it, a good many of them are peddling double talk.

Well, this author maintains a calmer approach to the whole business. Thourgh his first seven chapters he serves as a gentle and sympathetic guide (your friendly mentor to the inexperienced and often bewildered citizen.

Sedgwick is an able expositor, and in most of this book he uses plain, lucid language to describe the progression of ideas from Impressionism, through Post - Impressionism, into the mazes of later schools.

He seems to have an abnormal awe of abstract impressionism, which affects his chapter on that topic; it is less lucid than the others, for he slips into the nonsense jargon of the artist rather retaining layman's terms.

After that he skips lightly (and the light skip may be quite justifiable(over Pop Art and Op Art.

He gives less consideration to sculpture than might be expected, and (perhaps - rightly) slights sculpture's current aberrations - constructions, environments and happenings.

All in all, this educator and practicing artist does very well in the difficult task of bridging the prodigious gap between the inquisitive, presumably intelligent public and the super-introverted artist of today.

Stamps In The News

INDIA'S freedom and independence is a 20th Century occurrence as a result of the efforts of leaders such as Ghandi and Nehru. But a great Hindu religious preacher, Swami Rama Tirth, who lived in the 19th Century, helped pave the way for some of the modern reforms of India.

To honor the 60th anniversary of Swami Rama Tirth's death, India has issued a new commemorative stamp, reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. The new stamp, in diamond shape, depicts a likeness of the religious leader with inscriptions in English and Hindi. His dates, 1873 - 1906, are noted. Tirth advocated and argued for the rights of women, the practice of monogamy (which was made the law of India only three years ago) and for the spread of literacy.

Also issued by India was a stamp to honor the 100th anniversary of the Allahabad High Court. Both President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan and Chief Justice of India K. Subba Rao participated in the centenary celebrations. Included in the celebration was an exhibition of century-old court records and photos of judges who have practiced in the High Court. Among the honored are Jawaharlal Nehru, India's first father Motilal Nehru.

The Indian stamp shows a view of the Allabad High Court. The Tirth and High Courts stamps are of 15 paisa denominations.

Australian postal officials believe in planning ahead. The Australian News and Information Bureau reports that a special stamp will be issued in 1969 to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the founding of the International Labour Organization. The ILO office at Geneva, Switzerland, was founded in 1919 as part of the Peace Settlement which followed the First World War. For many years it was connected with the League of Nations and became the first specialized agency of the U. N. in 1946.

THE PERENNIAL phlox turned brown after a good start in spring. Just when the plants started to bud, the leaves began to yellow. By the time they were ready to bloom, the plants had nothing but dried up leaves. The blooms lasted only a few days.

Why was this happening desplte plenty of sunshine and fertilizer and good soil?

There are three possibilities:

1. Red Spider damage, which makes foliage yellowish just before blooming. Insects make mealy webs on the underside of leaves. The standard control is sulphur dust. Frequent syringing with water or spraying with contact insecticide, such as Rotenone with nicotine sulfate, would be most helpful. Alternate this with sulphur dust. Destroy seriously infected plants.

2. Physiological disease. This is not caused by any specific organism. Usually it is caused by the blockage of plant food or water movement at the point of growth (current year and old growth). There is not much that can be done in such instances.

3. Phlox blight. Cut diseased stems back to sound wood. Give plants liberal amounts of moisture. Spray with Bordeaux Mixture to prevent fungus leaf spot that accompanies blight.

Phlox requires plenty of water during the growing season, but the soil must be well-drained. This plant responds well to side feedings of fertilizer (5-10-5) and application of liquid manure when buds are about to form.

It is a good idea to lift and divide plants every three years.

Since phlox are subject to mildew, dust with fine sulphur, starting in July in the Northeast. Be sure to cover the underside of the leaves.

A new garden reference book on controlling insects and plant diseases without pesticides has been prepared by the editors of the magazine, Organic Gardening. (Rodale Press, Emmaus, Pa.)

The contents of the 339-page "The Organic Way to Plant Protection" range from facts about insects, how weather and climate affect insects, to friendly insects. There are chapters about use of resistant varieties of plants, control of pests with correct plant feeding and safe insecticides.

Fruits, vegetables, trees, flowers and ornamental shrubs and vines are covered. There are wise words about insects from ant to wireworm.

The Organic Way answers many questions for gardeners who fear using pesticides and weed killer with poison spray residues that have been found to be dangerous to man, animals and birds.

Miss Sterling Becomes Bride Of Mr. James Michael Posey

Miss Anna Joy Sterling became the bride of Mr. James Michael Posey in double ring vows exchanged in Colonial Hill Baptist Church, December 17th at 3 p. m. Rev. William O Crews, pastor of Woodland Heights Baptist Church, Brownwood, officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Sterling of Snyder, and the late Mr. James L. Posey of Clovis, N. M.

Miss Renoka Hooker presented traditional organ music and accompanied Miss Shirley Frankenfeldt who sang "Because," and "Whither Thou Goest."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin gown featuring round neckline and long fitted sleeves. White lace flowers were appliqued on the fitted bodice, neckline, and on the bottom of the bell-shaped skirt. Her chapel train flowed softly from the waist. The bride made her own wedding dress. The traditional theme was carried out of something old, a necklace given by her father to her mother 25 years ago, something new, her Bible a gift of the groom, something borrowed, her veil, a blue garter made by a friend.

She carried a bouquet of white gardenias edged with white feathered carnations.

Mrs. Lorita Keller attended her sister as matron of honor. Mrs. Golda Riley of Lawton, Okla. and Miss Linda Fuller of Snyder were bridesmaids. They were matching street - length dresses of red velveteen and carried red poinsettias. Their hats matched their costumes.

Mr. Glenn Posey of Brownwood attended his nephew as best man. Groomsmen were Tommy Parr of San Antonio and Roy Utzman of Brownwood.

A reception followed in fellowship hall. The table was laid with a white linen cloth over red satin. Miss Lisa Simpson presided at the three-tiered wedding cake and Miss Jeanne Moody ladeled punch. Guests were registered by Miss Sammye Tyson.

For her wedding trip to Carlsbad, N. M. the bride chose a red wool suit with matching hat, black accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The couple are at home at 1502 Cottage, Brownwood, Tex.

The bride is a graduate of Ira High School and attending Howard Payne College. The groom is a graduate of Brownwood High School and also attends Howard Payne College. He is employed by Southwestern States Telephone Co.

Out-of-town guests were from Lubbock, Port Arthur, Richardson, Dalhart, Canyon, Colorado City, San Antonio, Odessa, Brownwood, Fort Worth, Texas and Hobbs, N. M.

Novel About A Vocalist

SLEEP UNTIL NOON. By Gene Lees.

Can a young man who reviews popular recordings for a magazine and knows a lot about the record business write a good novel about a pop singer? Gene Lees proves the answer is yes.

Lees gets in what he knows about music and making records—his book is fortissimo with authenticity. At the same time, he has written a very interesting novel about a man, his life and problems. It's not, thank all the platters that spin, a thinly disguised story of anybody. Jack Royal is probably between the ages of Tony Bennett and Frank Sinatra. But he's living in France because of an early career boom and bust in the United States.

A few American pop singers are doing that, but they're mostly younger people who've turned from hard rock to soft rock.

Lees also entirely avoids the pitfall of detailing the long, tedious climb to fame, the tours of one-night stands, the breaks. He starts with Jack Royal as a serious Chicago piano student in his teens, tells enough about him to fix our attention and picks him up again as a hard-driving, successful pop singer living in Europe.

Jack Royal knows a great deal about classical music. Not every pop singer does, but then again not every pop singer works out arrangements into a tape recorder because he can't read music—as is often supposed.

Jack Royal is self-centered, demanding, impatient, rude, cruel. But Lees carefully shows the enormous demands and strains constantly put upon the time and attention of a big-name performer. Also Jack Royal has a strong motivation toward perfection that drives him to the ultimate in perfect phrasing, for example, while less motivated, lazier back-up musicians sometimes are willing to think "take 2 is good enough."

The author obviously wrote not to condemn the Jack Royals of the world but to explain them. And he has done a creditable job.

Sonny Jackson of the Houston Astros led the National League with 27 sacrifice bunts last season.

LIBRARY NOTES

When you make your New Year's resolutions, why not include this one — "I resolve to spend more time reading during this year."

You may read for pleasure, for relaxation, for enterjainment, for education. If you read only 15 minutes a day, you would read one-half a book a week, two books a month, twenty books a year and 1,000 books in an average life-time. This would be equal to — going through college five times, making you an authority on any subject you choose, taking a trip around the world.

Some new books recently received at your Scurry County Library include: "America's Exciting Cities," a travel guide for parents and children, written by Alvin Schwartz. This information is based on firsthand research conducted by the author, his wife and two sons during a year in which they traveled 17,000 miles and explored twenty-five major cities. It includes complete information on where to visit, how to get there, costs, hours, facilities, activities, etc.

Howard T. Walden has written "Native Inheritance," the story of corn in America. Corn had been grown on the American continents for hundred of years before Columbus discovered it. Today its potentials are still being refined and exploited. Mr. Walden traces the natural history of corn from its early use in aboriginal cultures through its critical role in the survival of the Plymouth colony, to the vast growing fields and complex starch-refining plants of the Midwest.

In a fast-paced text and with a lavish number of illustrations, "The American Horse" by Barney Nagler, tells the origin and development of all the major American breeds.

For collectors and art-lovers there are "Japanese Porcelain" by Soame Jenyns, a lavishly illustrated volume with myriad traditions and designs of Japanese porcelain fully analyzed and interpreted. "Daumier" provides an unusually comprehensive view of the work of Honore Daumier. 128 reproductions of his lithographs, drawings, sculpture and paintings are represented in this volume. Martin Butlin has selected thirty-two of J. M. W. Turner's finest watercolours for reproduction in "Turner Watercolours." Printed in Switzerland by continuous tone offset lithography, these superb plates are unique in their fidelity to the originals "Splendors of the East" edited by Mortimer Wheeler is a magnificent pictorial presentation of the incomparable art, architecture and decorative motifs of Asian civillzation.

Esquire Magazine has edited "Fashions for Men," a completely new illustrated handbook for men of all ages on every aspect of fashion. A noted health expert, Dr. Justus J. Schifferes has written an up-to-date sensible and workable book of advice on dieting and losing weight using the latest nutritional knowledge to build a startlingly simple new method for weight reduction.

The story of Cary, a half-Indian girl who grows up in a pocket of southern backwoods poverty is also the story of the indomitable spirit of a child, who, by any standards but her own, would have been labelled "deprived." "Moss on the North Side" by Sylvia Wilkinson is a first novel of unsettling originality and artless beauty.

Jon Cleary has written a new novel "The High Commissioner" that is distinguished by topicality, skillful characterizations and an intricate, suspensful plot. Other suspense and mystery titles are "Feramontov" by Desmond Cory; "Blind Spot" by Joseph Harrington; "Cry in the Night" by Kelley Roos; "Wyatt's Hurricane" by Desmond Bagley and Gavin Black's "You Want to Die, Johnny?"

Clothes Tell Story Of Persons

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — A man who wants to be boss at home should choose a wife who wears hats. He should beware of those determinedly independent lasses with hair fluttering unfettered to their shoulders.

That is the advice of Dr. William Jennings Bryan Jr., a California doctor, lawyer, and hypnotist who makes instant personality appraisals by taking into account the clothes people wear.

This talent has been of particular value to F. Lee Bailey, the famous defense lawyer who has never lost a case. Although Bailey does not need any help in choosing a wife — he has a lovely one who wears hats — he has called upon Dr. Bryan on several occasions to help him select prospective jurors.

Dr. Bryan was with Bailey in Cleveland, Ohio, for the Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard trial and in Freehold, N.J., recently to assist in picking the jury which eventually acquitted Dr. Carl Coppolino of charges of having murdered a neighbor.

The portly 40-year-old doctor, who directs the American Institute of Hypnotism in Los Angeles, believes that although clothes do not make the man, they reveal almost unfailingly what the man is like.

"Suspect a person of having very little self-confidence if his dress is not characteristic of his profession," says the doctor.

"If a man is a banker and doesn't dress like the average one — expensive and conservative — then I conclude he doesn't really think of himself as a banker, or at least not a good one. He probably secretly believes he ought to be something else. He has problems."

As for women, he says, "The exhibitionist, the girl who flaunts her sex on the outside is covering up for a lack of fire on the inside."

The really sexy woman, he claims, is tastefully dressed, very well-groomed, a real Patrician. "She has confidence, self-knowledge, and with good reason."

That girl with free flowing hair and little use for hats is, in the doctor's opinion, young, independent and determined not to be dominated by men.

How does Dr. Bryan dress?

"I'm the Ivy League type dresser. I like university life. I am fascinated by minds, and how these can help people achieve their goals."

Blender Makes Magic In Kitchen

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

THE NEW electric blenders can certainly help to make any cook's year ahead a happy one.

The latest addition to blender magic is the 10-button control system. There's something so reassuring about the clearly labeled push-buttons; stir, puree, whip, grate, mix, chop, grind, blend, liquefy and frappe. When the frappe push-button is used whole ice cubes may be put into the blender container provided a proper amount of liquid is also added. But one word of caution: should you have or acquire one of these blenders, be absolutely sure to read and follow all directions for its operation.

Here is a favorite refrigerator cheese pie (made with unflavored gelatin) that is extraordinarily easy and quick to prepare in the blender. Delightful, of course, to taste!

JIGTIME CHEESE PIE

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold milk
½ cup milk, heated to boiling
Rind of ½ lemon (use vegetable peeler to remove rind in thin strips)
2 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups (1 pound) creamstyle cottage cheese (mild, not tangy)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup heavy cream
9-inch graham cracker crust
Candied cherries, pineapple, kumquats and angelica or criton

Sprinkle gelatin over cold milk in blender container; allow to stand while assembling other ingredients. Add boiling milk; cover and process at low speed (stir) until gelatin dissovles. If gelatin granules cling to container, use a rubber spatula to push them into the mixture. Add lemon rind and process at high speed (liquefy) until rind is in very tiny pieces. In this order, add egg yolks, sugar, salt, cottage cheese, lemon juice and cream; cover and blend at high speed (liquefy) until smooth. Pour into prepared crust and chill until firm. Garnish at serving time by making a wreath of halved candied cherries, small wedges of pineapple, sliced kumquats, and tiny pieces of angelica or citron.

BLENDER MAGIC — A refrigerator cheese pie, made with unflavored gelatin, is prepared in jigtime.

Broiled Ham And Candied Yams

2-pound cooked bone-in ham steak
¼ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
¼ teaspoon allspice
2 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon lemon juice
6 medium yams (cooked, peeled and halved)
1 large orange, peeled and sliced

In a shallow pan, broil ham 6 inches from heat for 5 minutes or until lightly browned. Meanwhile in a saucepan, heat and stir the butter, sugar, allspice, water and lemon juice until sugar dissolves. Turn ham; brush with glaze. Arrange yams with ham; top with orange slices. Pour remaining glaze over yams. Broil until hot through. Makes 6 servings.

Chicken With Ham And Cheese

3 medium chicken breasts (about 2½ pounds) halved with keel bones removed
2 eggs slightly beaten with 1 teaspoon salt and ¼ teaspoon white pepper
1 cup fine soft breadcrumbs
½ cup olive oil
6 thin slices cooked ham, each about 4 inches square.
½ pound Mozzarella cheese, cut crosswise into 6 slices after removing ends
1 can (10¼ ounces) Marinara sauce (meatless)

Dip chicken in seasoned egg, then coat with breadcrumbs. In a large skillet heat the olive oil and brown chicken in it so pieces are more than half cooked through — at least 20 minutes. Place chicken in 1 layer in a 3-quart oblong ovenglass baking dish (13½ by 8¾ by 1¾ inches) or similar utensil. To each half-breast with a slice of ham; top ham with cheese. Pour Marinara sauce over chicken toppings. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven until chicken finishes cooking, sauce is very hot and cheese is partly melted — about 20 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

"...you'll be a Man, my son!"
RUDYARD KIPLING

Rudyard Kipling appreciated better than most the making and meaning of a man.

And if he were alive today, he'd undoubtedly have applied the famous quote above to America's newspaperboys. By faithfully delivering the news day-in-and-day-out, fair weather or foul, a newspaperboy learns responsibility at an early age.

He learns enterprise. Dedication. Dependability. How to fill an important place in the community.

And he learns the value of money and saving, too . . . and of looking ahead to the future. That's why many a newspaperboy develops the habit of buying U.S. Savings Bonds regularly. Maybe to help put himself through college someday.

More than that, newspaperboys have done their communities and their nation a real service since 1941 by buying Bonds and by helping to promote and sell Savings Bonds and Stamps.

The nation's brothers and dads in Viet Nam thank you. The Treasury Department and Uncle Sam salute you. And someday, when you're a Man, my son . . . you'll thank yourself for having been a newspaperboy.

Trouble Is Nothing New To Jordan's King Hussein

EDITOR'S NOTE—Trouble is nothing new to King Hussein of Jordan. He has foiled plots on his life a half-dozen times. Even today his brother Arabs are plotting his downfall. But this cool, moderate descendant of Mohammed says: "I fear only God."

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — "Sometimes," says the king with wry understatement, "I feel like the central character in a detective story."

This was King Hussein, speaking of his 15 turbulent, melodramatic years on the throne of Jordan, a reign that began in gunfire and once again is shadowed by menace.

In 1951, when he was only 15, Hussein saw his grandfather, King Abdullah, killed. He saw the assassin turn the gun on him and fire. He felt the bullet hit his chest but, miraculously a medal saved him and the bullet richocheted off harmlessly.

Trouble dogged him. From 1955 to 1958, he held his kingdom together through chaos and violence stirred by his Arab rivals. He escaped at the controls of his own plane from a murderous attack by two Syrian MIG jets. He put down a military uprising by driving into the midst of the shooting. He avoided two other attempts on his life—a bomb and acid in his medicine chest.

Somehow, the king remains confident of survival despite his newest trouble. "There is probably more disaffection in Jordan now than there ever has been," says one Western diplomat.

A brooding tension hangs over the western part of Jordan facing the hated state of Israel, and a sullen-faced Jordanian is likely to clutch the arm of a visitor and mutter, "We must get rid of the regime."

The latest crisis exploded Nov. 13 when Israel, rankled over raids by guerrilla forces that Jordan has been unable to control, sent troops and tanks rolling across the armistic line and smashed the Jordanian village of Es Samu. Riots erupted in Jordan, not so much against Israel but against Hussein, demanding arms, action and vengeance.

Jordan's Arab neighbors joined the cry. Cairo spouted a cascade of venemous propaganda against the kingdom, Syria offered arms to rebels who would rise against Hussein, and the Palestine Liberation Organization broadcast appeals to shell the royal palace.

On the present crisis, Hussein told The Associated Press: "There is nothing we can do except to continue as we have done—continue trying to build the country in face of attempts, by Israel and other Arab countries too, to destroy everything we have built."

This calm assessment is typical of Hussein, now 31. His personality, dashing way of life and appeals for reason and moderation present, at least to the West, the most appealing image of any Arab leader. Those same characteristics, however, plus his family's long associations with the West, damn him in the eyes of other Arab leaders and many of his own subjects.

Hussein is a conservative in a society where conservatism is widely construed as weakness. He seeks progress with quiet words, in an area where wild declarations are often more esteemed. And he is a king, of stately ancestry and British education, in a region where millitary presidents and Socialist juntas have seized the spotlight.

"They say kings have no place in the Middle East," Hussein mused recently in his paneled office in Basman Palace. Puffing on an American filter-tip cigarette and speaking in a rueful voice, he said, "I do not believe the system of kings is a bad one. It assures continuity."

"All these wild statements serve the interests of the Israelis more than the Arab people," he said. "Arab leaders have always refused to tell their people the truth. As a result, we are unreasonable in our actions, we have false dreams. Passions are stirred easily. I have never falsely appealed to my peoples' emotions to deceive them."

Hussein was a straw-hatted student at Harrow, on a visit to Switzerland, when a telegram addressed to "His Majesty King Hussein" told him he was the ruler of Jordan. He recalls it as "the moment I had dreaded." But he buckled down to learn the job for "I had seen enough of Europe, even at 17, to know that its playgrounds were filled with ex-kings. I was not going to become a permanent member of their swimming parties.

"Now I have no regrets," he said. "The responsibility was thrust upon me. I have always tried to do my best, to serve the Arab people."

Following his grandfather's murder, Hussein's father Tallal was called to the throne but proved unable to rule because of mental illness. Hussein spent six months of British military training at Sandhurst and officially took the oath of monarchy May 2, 1953, not yet 18 years old. His father, once a cavalry officer, is still a mental patient in Turkey.

Hussein's family, directly descended from the Prophet Mohammed, was royally poor, living in a five-room house on a budget so slender that his mother sold his bicycle for $25 to make ends meet.

By the time Hussein took the throne, the budget had expanded to include sports cars, but Jordan was a bitter enclave, its population tripled, crammed with a million new Jordanians seething with hatred. The cause and the cause of Jordan's troubles today—was the Arab-Israeli war of 1948.

When the Zionists proclaimed Israel a state, the Arab armies struck to recover the Holy Land. Egypt, Iraq, Syria, Saudi Arabia and Lebanon were no match for the Israelis. Only Jordan's little Arab Legion, well-trained and staffed by 21 British officers, held its own. It bore the brunt of the fighting and when a temporary truce was proclaimed, Jordanian forces held the Holy City of Jerusalem and more than 2,000 square miles of Palestine. King Abdullah, Hussein's grandfather, faced with massive odds and no ammunition, suggested a compromise settlement with the Jews, thus branding himself a traitor in the eyes of the other Arab states.

The war resumed, and hordes of Palestinian Arabs fled their homes, pouring into Jordan. After the armistice of 1949 King Abdullah annexed as part of Jordan the half of Palestine his troops had won, and gave Jordanian citizenship to its million embittered people. Cries of outrage erupted from the other Arab countries — the cries still echo today — that Abdullah had sided with the British to allow the creation of Israel. Even the refugees he had befriended turned against him.

Today, two-thirds of Hussein's two million subjects are Palestinians. Half the Palestinians are those driven from their homes in Israel, and some 230,000 of them still live in bitter futility in U.N. camps.

Swayed by years of propaganda, chronically stirred by shouted promises that the Arab states will drive Israel into the sea, the Palestinians are the most explosive element in the Middle East. Suggestions that the refugees be re-settled are denounced as "imperialist plots" to dissolve the Palestine question. To a non-Arab, the refugees appear to be treated more as hostages of Arab politics than as destitute people.

Unrest has swollen since the emergence of the Palestine Liberation Organization in Cairo. Hussein refuses to sanction Palestinian guerrilla raids into Israel, and refuses to allow the PLO to operate in Jordan or station troops here.

But an incident like the Nov. 13 Israeli raid is enough to rekindle the fires of denunciation from Cairo to Damascus. Hussein is as fervently Arab and anti-Israel as any of his rivals, but with a 350-mile frontier to defend against Israel — the others have 45 to 180 miles, and Egypt has a U.N. buffer — he acts more circumspectly.

"Jordan is a country that depends upon good neighbors for its existence," Hussein says. "On one side we have Israel, on the other side are our sister Arab states, comrades against the common foe of Israel, but also frequently hostile to us."

In the face of such pressures, Hussein somehow remains calm, and his British secretary says "I have never seen him lose his temper." His short, stocky frame is packed with energy which he uses up flying, water skiing, skin diving or automobile racing. He does not know offhand how many cars he has — most are gifts — but he is the best racing driver in the Middle East and his office at home boasts 11 silver trophies.

When Hussein is not in the palace, on a hilltop in Amman, he is often out flying alone or with the air force. "The moment I climb into a cockpit I shake off my problems and worries," he says.

Royal weekends are often spent splashing in the Red Sea at Aqaba, Jordan's only port. Some Western residents think the king should spend more time in his office — in the aftermath of the recent crisis Hussein took a day off to race a new maroon Rover in a 600-mile rally — but few Jordanians are willing to give their opinions of the king's private life.

Nor do they express resentment against the king's having married an English wife. She is the former Toni Avril Gardiner, daughter of a British colonel who is now an executive of Jordan's Water Authority. Hussein and Miss Gardiner were married in 1961 after she became a Moslem and took the name Muna Al Hussein — Hussein's wish.

"She takes the dangers very well. She has never urged me to abdicate," said Hussein.

To critics who claim the king surrounds himself only with those who share his opinions, Hussein answers: "There is no truth in this. I know my people pretty well. I know what they think."

Under his reign, Jordan has unquestionably made progress. The country first existed on British subsidies and more recently on American aid. Now it expects to gain near-independence of its economy by 1970.

The royal couple and their two sons, Abdullah, almost 5, and Feisal, 3, live in a luxurious stone villa called "Darat al Khair" — House of Goodness — on a hilltop 15 miles from Amman. It has a farm and a riding stable, two-miniature bowling alleys in the basement, a well-used dartboard in the hall and a crew of servants.

Hussein shrugs off personal danger by saying "I fear only God." The day after his grandfather was killed he began carrying a gun but "I got out of the habit."

Hussein opposes domination of the Arab world by President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt, but he feels the major threat to the Middle East is communism. If the Arab states fall under its sway, he believes, Israel will get the full backing of the West.

Junior Editors Quiz on TRIGGER FISH

QUESTION: How do fish breathe? Do they sleep?

• • •

ANSWER: With few exceptions, fish get the oxygen they need from the water rather than from the air, as we do. They have gills, which lie back of the gill slits (upper left). In the gills, the blood absorbs needed oxygen from the water passing through.

It is difficult to say whether fish sleep. Many appear to rest at times, lying quietly on the bottom, or hiding in some sheltered spot. Fish don't have eyelids, so it is hard to tell if resting fish are sleeping. There is one fish, however, which experts say definitely does sleep: the trigger fish. This unusual creature makes a kind of bed to which he returns every night. He sleeps lying on his side. He looks like a fine dinner for some prowling larger fish. But the trigger fish has an exceedingly sharp spine which jumps up at the slightest alarm and locks into place. Apparently, in some unknown way, other fish know enough to pass up a dinner which might choke them to death.

• • •

FOR YOU TO DO: Go to an acquarium and see if you can spot any fish which seem to be sleeping. 1-7

Miss Holt, Mr. Shamburger Exchange Doublering Vows

Miss Marguerette Holt became the bride of Mr. Wallace Holley Shamburger III in a double ring ceremony on Tuesday, December 27th at 7 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Snyder with the pastor, Dr. A. B. Lightfoot, officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayland G. Holt of Snyder, and the bridegroom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Wallace H. Shamburger, Jr., of San Jaun, Texas. The ceremony was performed before the altar decorated with candelabras entwined with garlands of English ivy and holding white tapers, with baskets of white stock.

Candle lighters were Steve Holt of El Paso, cousin of the bride, and Jack Shamburger of San Jaun, brother of the bridegroom.

Mr. Ralph Wesson, Organist, presented the wedding music, "Chorale in E Major" by Cesar Frank, "Prayer" taken from Suite Gothique by Boellmann, "Air of Flute" by Bach, "Singonia" by Bach, "Air from Suite in D" by Bach, and "When Thou Art Near" by Bach, processional music — "Adagio from Tocatto C Major" by Bach and "Wedding March" by Wagner — and Recessional March by Kroeger. He also accompanied the soloist, Miss Nancy Swenson of Clifton, who sang, "Eternal Life" by Dungan and "Entreat Me Not to Leave Thee" by Gounad. Miss Swenson and Miss Pat Strother of Waco sang "The Lord is My Shepherd' by Smart.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length "A" line princess skimmer of delustered satin fashioned with bateau neckline. Alencon lace garlanded the bodice and bordered the top of the hemline. The floor length detachable train hung from the shoulders. Three white satin roses enhanced by seed pearls held her shoulder length tiered tulle veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of white butterfly roses and Frenched white mums with white satin streamers on a white Bible.

For something old, the bride carried a white linen handkerchief which belonged to and was carried in her wedding by Mrs. W. S. Bigham. Something borrowed was the headpiece worn by Mrs. Dick Lightfoot in her wedding, and something blue, — a blue garter, — something new was a sixpence in her slipper brought to her from England by a friend, Suzan Witcher of Clifton.

Miss Anita Holt attended her sister as maid of honor. Mrs. Dick Lightfoot of Fairfield, California, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Tawana Boatright of Lamesa, and Sue and Judy Shamburger of San Jaun, sisters of the bridegroom. All the bridal attendants were identically dressed in floor length gowns of red velvet with empire waists and elbow length sleeves. Their head pieces were made of red velvet fashioned in three red roses which held their tulle illusion veils. Each carried long stemmed red roses.

Dr. Wallace H. Shamburger, Jr., of San Juan, Texas, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsmen were Johnny Polk of San Juan, Greg Wallace of Waco, Robert Black of Keller and Don Holt of Waco, cousin of the bride.

Flower girl was Paula Holt of Shreveport, Louisiana, cousin of the bride, and ringbearer was Conrad Holt of El Paso, also a cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a pink sheath crepe dress with pink accessories. The groom's mother wore a blue lace two - piece dress with blue accessories. Both wore corsages of red sweetheart roses.

Following the ceremony, the bride's parents were hosts for a reception in the Fellowship Hall of the Church. The bride's table was covered with a white net and satin cloth. The centerpiece was the white memory candle. The four - tiered wedding cake was topped with three white satin bells. The groom's table was covered with red linen cloth with a center piece of white mums.

Serving in the house party at the reception were Mesdames M. H. Roe, R. H. Hargrove, Jr., G. W. Ferguson, Ray Belt, W. R. Bowlin, Misses Rita Margaret Hanback, Dianne Hargrove, Dee Dee Holt of Gilmer, cousin of the bride, and Pat Strother of Waco. Teresa Phelps of Eldorado, Texas, presided at the guest book.

The bridegroom's parents were hosts for the rehearsal dinner on Monday evening at the Americana dining room.

The bride is a 1963 graduate of Snyder High School and a Senior Music Education major at Baylor University, Waco.

The bridegroom is a 1963 graduate of Pharr-San Juan-Alamo High School and is a Senior Music Major at Baylor. He is Vice-President of the Baylor A Cappella Choir and a member of Phi Mu Alpha, National professional music fraternity. He is now serving First Baptist Church, McGregor, as Music and Youth Director.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Padre Island, the bride was wearing a rose knit suit with black accessories and white rose corsage from her wedding bouquet.

The couple are at home at 820 Speight, in Waco, Texas.

Marshall's Memoirs

GEORGE C. MARSHALL: Ordeal and Hope, 1939-1942. By Forest C. Pogue.

At last we are beginning to get the story of World War II from Gen. Marshall's side. At least, this is as close to Marshall's side of the epic as we shall ever get.

Marshall refused all offers to market his own memoirs — including one offer of $1 million — but turned his papers over to the George C. Marshall Research Center and consented to interviews with Pogue, the center's director. This is the second volume of the official biography, taking us from his assumption of duties as Army Chief of Staff in 1939 to the successful American landings in North Africa in November 1942.

Gen. Omar Bradley, in his preface to the first volume, apparently hoped to exorcise as much controversy as possible from the atmosphere surrounding the biography. Now he faces up to it but wisely cautions the reader against concluding that "controversy rather than agreement marked the progress of World War II."

There unquestionably was tension between methodical Marshall and spectacular Gen. Douglas MacArthur. But Pogue leaves no doubt that Marshall admired MacArthur tremendously as a strategist and regarded him as exactly the right commander in the right place at the right time in the Pacific.

There were other clashes, and it is not clear whether Marshall realized that personalities like MacArthur, Gen. George S. Patton and Adm. Ernest J. King were considerably stimulated by controversy.

Criticism from abroad was something else. Field Marshall Sir John Dill and [illegible] Sir Alan Brooke, successively commanders of the British General Staff, are on record as not rating Marshall too highly as a strategist. Perhaps history will prove them right, although much of Marshall's energy had to be devoted to the gigantic task of building an effective army in record time. Winston Churchill says in his memoirs that he always had regarded Marshall as a "great builder of armies" until he suddenly realized he was a "Military statesman of the first order."

Many persons who see no particular problem in the installation of ceramic tile are a bit leery about tackling it because of the necessity of filling the joints with grouting material.

Actually, anyone who has done a good job of installing the tile should have no particular problem in doing the grouting. However, there are several types of grout, including the new epoxies, so it is important (1) that you explain to the dealer exactly what kind of installation you plan and (2) that you follow the direction on the container to the letter.

Two specially developed epoxy grouts are UG-II and AAR-II, but since they are made by different manufacturers under different brand names, do not deviate in any way from the instructions. Generally, though, the grouting material is spread on the face of the tiles and into the joints with a trowel or a putty knife with a wide blade. The surplus grout is washed off the face of the tiles and off the trowel or knife with warm water. The grouting is done anywhere between 12 and 48 hours after installation, a wide period determined by the specific in structions.

Once the ceramic tile has been installed and the grouting completed, maintenance is easy. Most of the time nothing more is needed than a quick wiping with a damp cloth or sponge. (You can get Andy Lang's helpful booklet, "All About Ceramic Tile" by sending 25 cents and a long, stamped, self - addressed envelope to Know-How, P. O. Box 954, Jamaica, N. Y. 11431.)

A soapless detergent is recommended when the tile is covered with grease or stubborn dirt. Again a cloth or sponge is the best wiping material, although a stiff bristle brush can be used if the grease has hardened on the tile.

Sometimes, especially in a new house, drying out of the floor joists causes a tub to settle, and the back rim of the tub to pull away from the wall tile. When this happens, dig out all the old caulking of cracked grout between the tub and the tile. When the joint is completely clean, apply new caulking compound. Some of the new claulking material is easier to apply and lasts longer than the kind used years ago.

QUESTION: Before I go ahead with the painting of my living room and dining room, I would like you to settle something for me. I have always dreaded painting ceilings, not only because I usually wound up with a pain in my neck, but because I always found it difficult to prevent either the brush or the roller from dripping paint down my arm or to the floor or both. When some friends of mine were at the house the other night, we got into a discussion about painting ceilings. One friend strongly recommended painting a ceiling with a roller attached to a long handle, doing the job while standing on the floor. Another friend said he tried it and had much more trouble than when he stood on a ladder or a table. Who was right?

ANSWER: Painting a ceiling while standing on the floor can be done very effectively, but that statement must be made with qualifications. You can't do ALL the ceiling that way. The portions of the ceiling close to the walls must be done with a brush or a small roller made for that purpose. Since it must be done very carefully it can't be handled properly with a long handle. Large portions of the ceiling can be done with a roller attached to a handle IF you don't put too much paint on the roller and if you don't apply the roller to the ceiling with too much pressure. It takes a little while to get the hang of it. Work on the area in front of you. The more vertical the handle is held, the more likely you are to have a crick in the neck after the job is finished.

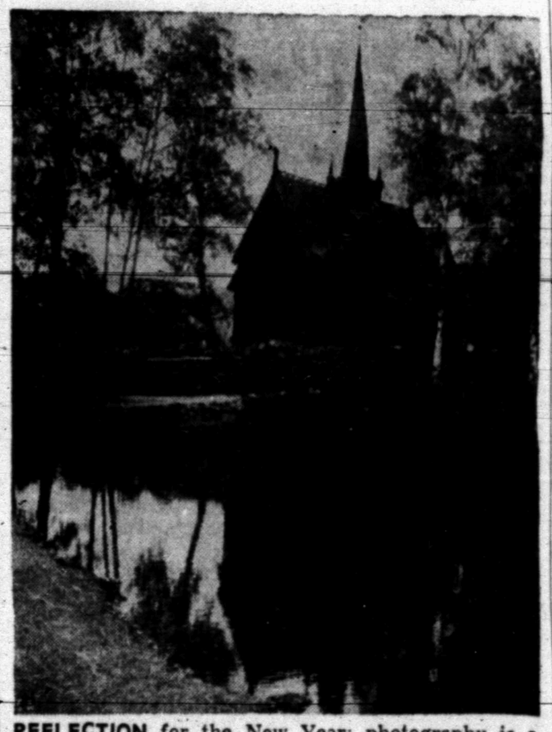
WITH THE START of a new year, an opportunity to begin better photo habits presents itself to camera fans. Like opening a new book of accounts, it's a logical time to start fresh, to keep things neat and orderly and to attend to photo details currently, like filing negatives and identifying slides and pictures, instead of letting them accumulate to "attend to later."

By itself, each new batch of picture taking isn't hard to deal with normally. First eliminate the faulty ones as you come across them. . . now! This raises the caliber of your picture taking greatly and people never miss what they don't see. Then sort the remainder in story-telling order, date and identify them for future reference, and put them in a place of their own. Prints belong in albums, slides in trays or magazines, movies on a larger reel and negatives should be filed in uniform envelopes in a file box.

Success in dealing with current pictures might inspire you to tackle some of the accumulated results of previous photo forays. Certainly, the sooner you try to make some headway with it, the better are your chances of remembering dates, names and events.

Another New Year resolution to make and live up to, is to follow through on picture promises. We all make promises to relatives, friends and our picture subjects to send them prints or duplicate slides. . . "later." At the moment, our intentions are perfectly sincere. But with the passage of time, good intentions become diluted and tend to evaporate.

One way to overcome this is to order duplicate prints or slides immediately on first seeing them . . . when your thought of sharing good pictures is strongest. . . and sometimes even before you promise prints. If you get a batch of pictures from a camera store, follow your impulse and leave the negatives for duplicates then and there. If you make prints in your own darkroom, make duplicates of the pictures you like while you're working on them. Both methods are a headstart to guarantee your good intentions will be followed through.



REFLECTION for the New Year: photography is a hobby whose pleasure increases when it is shared. And here's a memory to be shared of a quiet moment during a 1966 escorted bus tour of Scandinavia: an ancient stave church in the Maihaugen Museum, Lillehammer, Norway.

WELL-SUITED — Snappy red coveralls in pin-dotted cotton knit provides the practical answer for warm and comfortable playwear. Styled with zipper front and buttoned waist tabs, the coveralls have a snap-fastened crotch for easy diaper changes. A muslin lining helps the garment keep its shape.

When you are caramel-coating a pan, heat the utensil before pouring the melted and browned sugar into it.

Peach Cocktail Chutney

1 can (1 pound, 13 ounces) each cling peach slices and fruit cocktail, drained
1 cup chopped onion
1-3 cup currants
1 cup sugar
1¼ cups cider vinegar
1-3 cup Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon each salt, cloves and nutmeg
1-3 cup slivered candied ginger

Into a large saucepan turn all the ingredients except the ginger. Bring to a boil, stirring until sugar dissolves; boil gently, stirring often, until fairly thick — 1 to 1¼ hours. Add ginger about 10 minutes before removing from heat. Makes about 1 quart. At once turn into hot sterilized jars and seal; or cool, cover and store in refrigerator.

More Noodles Than Sauce Lasagne

8-ribbed ripple - edge lasagne noodles, No. 125 (from a 1-pound package)
Tomato Sauce, heated
½ pound ricotta cheese mixed with 3 tablespoons hot water
½ cup freshly grated Parmesan

In 3 quarts unsalted boiling water, with cover ajar, boil noodles until tender — this may take 20 minutes; drain; rinse with hot water. Spoon a little of the hot Tomato Sauce over bottom of the 1½-quart oblong ovenglass baking dish (10 by 6 by 1¾ inches). Cover bottom of dish with 2 of the noodles, overlapping ends as necessary. Spoon a little of the tomato sauce, then a little ricotta and Parmesan over noodles. Repeat, making 4 layers of noodles. Broil about 8 inches from high heat until hot through (ricotta will be only warm) and top is lightly browned. Cut crosswise into 3 large servings.

Tomato Sauce: To ¼ cup hot bacon fat in a 10-inch skillet, add 1 medium onion (cut in very thin strips) and ¼ cup water. Cook gently until onion is soft and water evaporates. Add 3 tablespoons of salad oil to onions; cook until golden brown. Add ¼ pound Italian sweet sausage (casing removed) and lightly cook and crumble with a fork. Add 1 cup water and 1-3 cup tomato paste (from 6-ounce can), 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon sugar; simmer about 20 minutes. Turn into small container and refrigerate overnight; remove all but 1 tablespoon of the fat that hardens over top; heat and use as directed above.
