New firm named for WTC campus energy plan

Fanning, Fanning and Agnew of Lubbock was officially hired Monday night to implement the energy conservation management program recently approved by Western Texas College trustees.

The firm's fee will be six percent of the entire project and a $500 fee for any additional trips required on campus.

Total cost of the project has been estimated at $360,790. Of this, WTC expects to receive some $127,330 in federal grant monies. The college's estimated cost is $233,460.

To cool the campus on peak days, it is estimated 700 tons of cooling is required. The firm recommends that a 450-ton chiller be purchased rather than a smaller 340-ton unit recommended in the initial energy study.

The firm will now determine if the federal grant already approved for the college will allow the larger unit to be substituted.

Trustees were also told that a load study would not be necessary as first thought. Estimated cost of the study had been projected at around $20,000.

Trustees also accepted three lows bids and tabled three others for further study.

Bids accepted included one fairway five-reel mower from Chemical & Turf Specialty at a cost of $9,620; and one brake drum disc lathe complete with adapter sets for passenger cars, light trucks and medium trucks from Landers Automotive in San Angelo at a cost of $3,295 (to include a $793 trade-in).

Two local bids had also been submitted for this item. They include Williamson Auto Supply, $4,965 including $545 trade; and D & D Auto Supply, $4,620, including $500 trade-in

Trustees also accepted a low bid of $5,366 from Gilliland's of Arkansas City, Kan. for 6,000

Congress to tackle money bill again

WASHINGTON (AP) — Like students facing an endless school year, unhappy legislators who would rather be home campaigning were returning instead to Capitol Hill today to continue an election-year session they had hoped would adjourn last week.

Members of the House and Senate faced a midnight deadline, again, for approving legislation to keep most of the government operating and avoid a replay of last week's partial shutdown of federal offices that idled about 500,000 workers.

Congressional negotiators, who have been trying to work out a compromise spending package to provide about $470 billion for the remainder of the fiscal year that began Oct. 1, stalemated at the end of last week over space weapons the Pentagon wants and aid for Nicaraguan rebels.

They were trying again today to break the logjam.

When it became clear last Friday that the long-term bill could not be passed quickly, Congress passed a stopgap measure that expires at midnight tonight. It was the third such interim measure in a week that Congress had to enact because of the problems in passing a long-term money bill.

Meanwhile, the Senate was trying to complete action on a House-passed bill adding another $250 billion to the government's borrowing authority — lifting the line of credit to $1.823 trillion.

The legislation boosting the national debt limit stalled last week after senators decided the "must" legislation was a good place to attach pet projects that had little chance of being enacted otherwise.

Still awaiting action were at least two major amendments. One would authorize only enough credit to last through next April 15 and freeze all federal spending for a year to allow Congress to decide on a strategy for shrinking budget deficits.

After months of preparation and planning, the Senior Citizens Center has begun installing Emergency Response System equipment in local homes.

Seven units were to be installed Monday and Tuesday, according to Gloria Shaw, center director. Under the current arrangements, a total of 25 units can be provided.

The Emergency Response System provides senior citizens who are handicapped or who have health problems with a means of calling for help at any time. This could make it possible for some of the subscribers to continue to live at home, Shaw pointed out, and it can provide "peace of mind" for that person and their loved ones.

Basically, the ERS has two pieces of equipment. A control box attached to a private telephone line can relay a call for help to the base station after it is activated by the push of a button on a small unit carried by the individual. The personal unit is small enough to be worn around the neck or attached to clothing so it will always be within reach. If the subscriber does not reset a control on the telephone unit at a prescribed time, it will send an automatic alarm to the base station.

"We invite anyone interested in information about the ERS to call or come by the Senior Center," Shaw said. "We can show them the equipment and explain just how it works. We have had great response from the community in providing funds for the program and we would still welcome donations of any amount to help keep the program working. As little as $10 per month will pay the maintenance cost for a unit and that can mean so much to someone whose income just won't stretch to cover that cost."

Policies linked to H.B. 72

New school policy guidelines — some mandated under House Bill 72 — are due Snyder school board votes Tuesday at the regular October session.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at the school administration building.

Those stemming from H.B. 72 include provisions that:

—All grades for students must be reported numerically rather than by a single letter.

—Any grade less than 70 is considered failing (the failing level was 60).

—Report cards will be issued for grades 1-12 every six weeks (locally, such reports were issued every nine weeks).

—When a student receives less than 70 at the end of the six-weeks reporting period, the report card must also state the need for a parent-teacher conference.

—School teachers will attempt to schedule parent-teacher conferences related to all students. This should include written notice to the parent. Requirements include, for kindergarten students, a minimum of one conference prior to the end on the ninth week; for grades 1-6, a minimum of two, one during the first semester and the second following the end of the fifth six-weeks; and for grades 7-12, "to the extent that time and circumstances allow."

—A new requirement giving parents 10 days from the start of school to provide a valid birth certificate for their child.

Other policy items before the school board relate to school sick leave, compassionate leave and other staff absences, policies discussed last spring by the board and teacher representatives.

Carriker appearance postponed

A Tuesday afternoon appearance here by State Rep. Steven Carriker (D-Roby) has been postponed.

The rescheduling was to avoid a conflict with funeral services for Jeff Polk, age 12, who died early Monday morning due to injuries suffered in a fall.

Carriker was to appear locally to answer questions regarding House Bill 72 — the new state mandate affected Texas schools. He had been invited by the local chapter for the Texas State Teacher's Association (TSTA).

A similar invitation has been extended also to Ray Farabee (D-Wichita Falls), the state senator representing Snyder and Scurry County.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "It's not the things you know that get you into trouble...it's the things you think you know."

Churches across the nation should have set attendance marks last Sunday night. With Presidential debates dominating the three major networks, it wouldn't have taken much to get folks up and out of the house on Sunday evening.

Depending on your political perference, the answer on who won the debate varies. It appears to us the big loser was anyone who sat through the whole ordeal. We sometimes wonder the value of such an exercise, since our mind is already made up.

In the coffee shop Monday morning, one wise guy says he tried some other shows. "I had a choice between the debate, Dr. Ruth on Sex, and the Rock Church...and I chose the Rock Church."

Something the two candidates never could agree on is how to handle the growing federal deficit. We have a solution that is bound to work. Last week the federal treasury ran out of funds. We'd like for it to be broke for about a year and let those half million or so "non-essential" federal employees stay home.

We suspect the federal government is no different from any business. If you want to cut expenses, the only meaningful savings must be found in the payroll. People either have to produce something or find another place to loaf.

When Baird came to pick them up, WTC prexy Don Newbury inquired about a reward.

"Well, sure, I guess so," responded the grateful Baird.

"It ought to be worth at least $10 and make that check payable to the Scurry County United Way," Newbury chided.

Newbury got the 10 bucks, but it wasn't a check. It was 1,000 pennies which Newbury and other United Way leaders were happy to count.

Fire poster competition begins here

Snyder school children may now enter posters in a competition being held in conjunction with National Fire Prevention Week.

The Snyder Fire Department Auxiliary is again sponsoring the State Firemen's and Fire Marshal's Association Fire Prevention Contest.

Posters should be original and may be on any phase of fire prevention. Ribbons will be presented for first, second and third places in each division.

These are divided into four areas. They are primary division, grades K-3; intermediate, grages 4-6; and junior high and high school, grades 7-12. There is

Ask Us

Q. — If the band qualified to advance to regional and state competition, would it be against UIL rules for the community to raise money for this purpose if the school does not fund the trip?

A. — According to school officials, if such funds were turned over to the school administration — who would then be in charge of how it is spent — this would comply with UIL rules.

Local

Morning rain

Morning rains began before dawn here Tuesday, but had stopped by around 10:30 a.m.

Rainfall amounts from .25 to .50 of an inch were reported at most locations.

The official gauge at the City of Snyder water treatment plant had recorded .32 inches of moisture since 7 a.m.

Other totals included Fluvanna, .20 of an inch; Ira, .50 of an inch; and Hermleigh, .30 of an inch.

Change due

Greyhound Food Service Management has notified the Snyder school district of its intent to discontinue cafeteria service here at the end of this semester.

Provisions in the contract between the district and the food service allows either party to break the agreement provided 60-days written notice is given.

Alternatives to providing a food service for the eight Snyder school campuses will be discussed Tuesday during the regular October session of the board.

Grid guessers

For last week's SDN football contest, Thomas Bullard of Rt. 3 Box 66 was the winner, missing only three games of 16. He will receive the $12.50 first place money.

Larry Anderson of 4504 Houston came in second with four misses. He will receive the $5 second prize money.

1st report due

The first report meeting for the 1984 United Way campaign is scheduled for 10 a.m. Wednesday at city hall.

The goal for this year's campaign is $75,830. Division leaders are asked to have campaign packets turned back into the United Way office by 3 p.m. Tuesday.

All board members, officers and division leaders are to attend Wednesday's report meeting.

'Days' still set

Plans to continue with Saturday's White Buffalo Days were confirmed Monday after a called meeting of the committee in charge of the event.

The Whirlagig presentation will be cancelled this year, however.

Duarte's offer 'conciliatory'

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — President Jose Napoleon Duarte's surprise offer to meet next Monday with leftist guerrilla commanders was hailed by U.S. officials as "a major forward step" toward peace but drew a cautious response from the rebels.

Duarte, addressing the U.N. General Assembly on Monday, offered to open peace talks with rebel military leaders in the mountain village of La Palma, near the Honduran border in an area of frequent civil war clashes. Rebels control the last several miles of highway leading to the town.

Duarte said he would arrive without protection — "placing my life as a guarantee to have this meeting to attain peace" — and his only condition was that all participants be unarmed. Previously he has insisted that the guerrilla forces put down their arms before talks could start.

The rebels' position has been that they would talk, but without preconditions, and leftist spokesmen said they are waiting for Duarte to follow up his speech with a direct proposal for talks.

"We are positively and constructively disposed to dialogue, if it is formally proposed," the Mexican news agency Notimex quoted Salvador Samayoa as telling reporters.

Samayoa serves on the joint political-diplomatic commission of the Farabundo Marti National Liberation Front and the Democratic Revolutionary Front, the leftists' military and political organizations.

Duarte, a moderate Christian Democrat who took office June 1, said he was inviting the international press and Salvadoran church leaders to attend the meeting, which has "the complete support" of the Salvadoran military command.

He invited rebel leaders to discuss "the details for their incorporation in the process of democracy and the preparation of an atmosphere of freedom so that we may have another popular election."

A Roman Catholic Church official said Monday that channels between the government and guerrillas had been opened with the archbishop of San Salvador, Arturo Rivera y Damas, acting as a "messenger."

Duarte's speech drew a warm response from most assembly delegates, and U.S. envoy Jeane Kirkpatrick applauded enthusiastically. Representatives of Nicaragua, which El Salvador accuses of supporting the guerrillas, and the Soviet Union did not applaud.

Rep. Phil Gramm leads in donations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Rep. Phil Gramm of Texas is leading the nation in raising congressional campaign funds from oil and gas industry political action committees, according to a new study.

Gramm, seeking the Senate seat of retiring Republican John Tower, had received a total of $187,489 from oil and gas PACs as of Sept. 1. At the same time, his opponent, Democratic state Sen. Lloyd Doggett, had gotten only one $20 gift.

The study, based solely on filings by 212 oil and gas industry PACs with the Federal Election Commission from Jan. 1, 1983 through this past August, showed Democrats on average faring twice as well as Republicans in raising money from energy interests.

GOP candidates for the 33 Senate seats at stake in 1984 so far have received an average $41,650 from oil and gas PACs compared with an average $17,684 for Democrats. In races for the 435 House seats, energy interests have contributed an average $8,502 to each Republican candidate and $4,304 to each Democratic contender.

"About the only places oil and gas PACs are supporting Democrats are in the producing states of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana unless they are key members of the House leadership or Senate committees," said Mike Podhorzer, an author of the study.

Dear Abby

Parents Carry to Their Grave Their Grudge Against Daughter

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: I am sitting here brokenhearted over a problem that could have been resolved years ago. My father died last week; my mother died a year ago. Although we were very close when I was younger, they stopped speaking to me six years ago when I decided to live with my boyfriend, whom I have since married.

When I first told my parents I was moving in with my boyfriend, they called me "slut, tramp" and a few other names you can't print.

I was over 21 and wasn't hurting myself or anybody else, but after this move, they wanted nothing more to do with me. When I invited them to my wedding, they didn't even respond.

Now that they are gone, I feel angry and bitter that they could let this one difference come between us forever. They missed the opportunity of sharing their lives with me, my husband and our son.

Why am I writing? Because I hope you will print this as a plea to other parents who feel the way mine did about living together. Please, parents, don't lock your children out of your lives because their ideas differ from yours.

NO NAME, PLEASE

DEAR NO NAME: Here's your letter. I'm sure many parents will identify with it. My mail tells me that although most parents disapprove of "living together," they accept it rather than lose their children.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Recently you printed a letter from a 14-year-old adoptee, asking how to contact one's birth parents. You advised him to register with International Soundex Reunion Registry in Carson City, Nev.

Until I read it in your column, I never knew such a service existed. I have often had a desire to contact the daughter I placed for adoption 21 years ago.

I filed my application, and within days, a match was made! (My daughter had filed with Soundex Registry, too.) I have spoken with her on the phone, and we made plans to meet in the near future. I am still recovering from the incredible experience. Thank you for making it possible!

KATHERINE C.
IN SAN FRANCISCO

DEAR KATHERINE: I share your joy. I want to repeat, however, that minors may register with Soundex, but until they are 18, they may not be matched with their birth parents. And only if their parents have also registered with Soundex can a match be made. I am in full agreement that birth parents and adoptees should be able to meet, but only when it is mutually agreeable.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: Poems fascinate me, so I clip and keep them. I just came across this one from your column. It's at least six or seven years old. If you agree that it's still appropriate, I hope you'll run it. Thanks, Abby.

ADA M. WHITMARSH,
BINGHAMPTON, N.Y.

DEAR ADA: Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: My name is Steve Zondlak and I am 12. I wrote a poem. If you like it, you may keep it.

GOD'S SHELTER

Let's make a bomb of love and prayer,
For takeoff fuel, let's use God's air.
Let's send it out for all to share
Our plea against nuclear despair.
Let's ask the leaders from all lands
For peace. And then
Let's all shake hands!

Voters to decide who can sell teeth

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Montana voters will soon decide whether to take a bite out of the traditional monopoly of dentists on the sale of false teeth.

If it passes Nov. 6, Initiative 97, the Freedom of Choice in Denture Services Act would make it legal for licensed "denturists" to join in the business now belonging exclusively to dentists and dental technicians.

Five other states currently license denturists: Idaho, Oregon, Maine, Colorado and Arizona. Canada also licenses denturists.

Denturists would be allowed to work on patients' mouths, take impressions, as well as make, fit, repair and furnish false teeth and other dental appliances.

Proponents, including senior citizens groups, argue that the issue is price and consumer choice. A newsletter published by the Montana Elder Association said Idaho and Oregon residents can buy artificial teeth at about half the price charged by dentists.

The Oregon Health Division reported last year that the average cost of a complete set of false teeth from denturists was about $400. The Montana Elderaid it conducted a telephone survey of Oregon dentists and found the average price to be $905. A similar spread was found in Idaho, where an initiative passed in 1982.

Opponents counter that the savings are exaggerated. The real issue, they insist, is professional qualification and public health. They say that poorly fitted dentures may increase the risk of mouth cancer, malnutrition and other disorders.

Dentists say a denture is a replacement for a part of the human body, not just another piece of molded plastic.

Public Notice

Southwestern Bell Telephone Company, in accordance with an order from the Public Utility Commission of Texas, hereby gives notice it has filed a tariff to reduce the monthly rates for the Switched Access portion of the company's intraLATA Foreign Exchange (FX) Service offering that was implemented starting June 1, 1984. Simultaneously, the LATA-wide toll-free calling scope, also started June 1, would be discontinued and the calling scope would return to that in effect prior to June 1. The Commission has assigned this matter Docket Number 5891.

The net effect of the tariff will be a monthly decrease in total billing of approximately $700,000 until November 1, 1984. After that time the net effect on the company's revenue is estimated to be negligible.

Persons who wish to intervene or otherwise participate in these proceedings should notify the Commission as soon as possible. A request to intervene, participate or for further information should be mailed to the Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Boulevard, Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Further information may also be obtained by calling the Public Utility Commission Consumer Affairs Division at (512) 458-0223 or (512) 458-0227, or (512) 458-0221 teletypewriter for the deaf.

Aviso Público

En conformidad con una orden de la Comisión de Servicios Públicos de Texas, se anuncia mediante el presente aviso público que Southwestern Bell Telephone ha presentado una tarifa con el objeto de reducir las cuotas mensuales que se han cobrado desde el 1 de junio de 1984, por la porción de la tarifa para acceso a la red central necesaria con el uso del Servicio de Zona Exterior (Foreign Exchange (FX) Service).

Simultáneamente, el servicio de llamadas de larga distancia sin cobro dentro del área de servicio que también se efectuó el 1 de junio de 1984, se descontinuará; y el campo de llamadas será al igual que antes del 1 de junio de 1984. Se ha registrado la nueva tarifa bajo el Docket 5891.

El efecto real de la nueva tarifa se verá en la reducción del costo total de facturas de aproximadamente $700,000 hasta el 1 de noviembre de 1984. Se calcula que despues de esta fecha el efecto real para nuestra empresa será despreciable.

Los usuarios de Southwestern Bell Telephone Company que estén interesados en participar en esta reunión, o que requieran mayor información, deben dirigirse por escrito a: Public Utility Commission of Texas, 7800 Shoal Creek Blvd., Suite 400N, Austin, Texas 78757. Colonial Daughters learn about music

A program entitled "Music of the Seventeenth Century" was presented in study and organ recital to the Tejas Chapter of the Colonial Daughters of the Seventeenth Century on Sept. 29 in the First United Methodist Church. Helen Cobean introduced program leader, Mrs. Mike Spalicky of Big Spring.

In addition to two degrees from Southern Methodist University in piano and organ and a masters degree in organ from the University of Michigan, Spalicky attended Yale and the Amsterdam Conservatory of Music. On three occasions she attended the Academy of Music in Prague, Czechoslovakia and played in a concert there. She also attended the Fifth International Organ Congress at Olomouc in Moravia and was privileged to play the largest organ in Czechoslovakia in 1983. Because of a study grant, she was able to do research work in Boehemia.

Currently serving as organist of the Episcopal Church in Big Spring, Spalicky reviewed the history of some of the musical instruments brought to America and discussed the mixed acceptance of any kind of music in early colonial America. Organ music included "The Battle of Trenton," a sonata dedicated to General Washington by James Hewitt, 1770-1827, and "Variations on 'America'" (1891) by Charles Ives, 1874-1954.

Members from Kermit, Abilene, Rotan and Big Spring attended the luncheon meeting in the home of Mrs. Bernard Longbotham. Assisting her were Snyder members Mrs. Leland Herod, Mrs. Douglas Hill, Ophelia Blackard, Mrs. Henry Clark and Mrs. Gene Dulaney.

Mrs. Kenneth Whisenant, regent, presided over the business meeting. Mrs. Al Harris, chaplain, read the American Indian version of the twenty-third Psalm. Blackard and Vera Morrow led the Pledge of Allegiance to the American flag, the Daughters Pledge and the American Creed.

Mrs. Jack Phillips attended as a guest.

There are lots of rules for winning tricks at bridge. How about a rule for losing a trick? The Jacoby rule is: When you may have to lose a trick, let it be to that opponent who won't be able to do anything to set your contract.

In today's deal South won the ace of diamonds. "Eight ever, nine never," he said to himself as he played the ace and king of clubs. When West won the third round of clubs with the queen, he shifted to the deuce of spades. Declarer played dummy's queen, covered by East's king. It was curtains for three no-trump! Before the ninth trick could be developed in hearts, the defenders had their spade tricks ready to go and took three spades, a club, and the heart ace to set the contract.

If declarer had thought about the Jacoby rule he would have taken a slightly inferior percentage play in the club suit. Playing the club king and then finessing the 10 brings home five club tricks for a total of ten tricks.

AAUW members hear Beverly Ainsworth

Scurry County clerk, Beverly Ainsworth, discussed the redistricting of the county with members of the local chapter of the American Association of University Women at their regular meeting on Oct. 3 in the Martha Ann Woman's Club.

Explaining the voting habits of Scurry and the surrounding counties, Ainsworth also included a discussion of the party and general election regulations and practices. A question and answer session followed. Ainsworth concluded her remarks by urging the members to register and to vote.

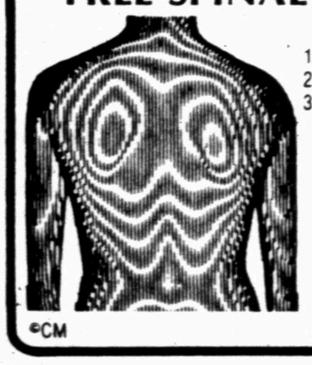

During the business session led by Alta Lynch, the association's finance committee reported arrangements for the group's participation in White Buffalo Days scheduled for Oct. 13.

Ruth McBeth and Joy Guthrie served as hostesses for the meeting.

Mrs. Bush 'sorry' for her comment

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barbara Bush apologized to Geraldine Ferraro and was described as feeling "awful" and "lousy" for saying that she and her husband, Vice President George Bush, enjoy their lifestyle and don't pretend to be poor "like that $4 million — I can't say it, but it rhymes with rich."

Mrs. Bush made the remark Monday while joking with two reporters aboard Air Force Two before a flight to New York. After the conversation was revealed by news services, Mrs. Bush called Ms. Ferraro to apologize.

Bush's press secretary, Peter Teeley, said the vice president's wife "feels awful about her remark and conveyed that to Ms. Ferraro ... I don't think I can express to you the depth of feeling Mrs. Bush has on this," Teeley said.

"She felt lousy about it," he added. Teeley said Ms. Ferraro "could not have been nicer."

The vice president was told of the incident and was "understanding," Teeley said.

Ms. Ferraro, in New York, said, "Mrs. Bush called and apologized and was very, very gracious and very nice."

Tools said taken

Scurry County sheriff's office personnel are investigating the theft of several hand tools from Musslewhite Trucking reported Monday.

According to investigators, a variety of hands tools including several power tools, were taken from the trucking company's shop north of Snyder sometime over the past weekend.

Heavy damages from car fire

Firemen were called to the Junction Club on the East Highway at 12:06 a.m. Tuesday to extinguish the blaze.

Owner of the car was listed as Keith Carter of 5510 Cedar Creek Dr.

According to Fire Chief Terry McDowell, investigation of the cause of the fire is continuing.

4 city arrests

Two local men were charged with driving while intoxicated, one with disorderly conduct and one was arrested for unpaid city fines.

Pecan orders now possible at senior center

Prices are the same as last year, $4.50 per pound for halves or $4.25 for large pieces. For gifts, there are plain or roasted pecans in decorative tins.

Orders for the nuts can be placed by calling the Senior Center office at 573-4035. Thanksgiving orders must be placed by Nov. 7, with delivery guaranteed by Nov. 19. Proceeds from the pecan sales go to the operating fund of the center.

Wrecks reported

Two minor traffic mishaps were reported in Snyder Monday.

Involved in the day's first accident, in the 2100 Block of College Ave., were a 1965 Ford driven by Alez Lopez of 1308 19th St. and a 1971 Ford driven by Kevin Lyle Boyd of Rt. 3, Snyder.

This mishap occurred at 7:44 a.m.

Monday's second accident was reported on the Piggly Wiggly parking lot at 3:57 p.m.

Involved in it were a 1984 Chevrolet driven by Roby Dean Malone of Lubbock and a 1979 Ford driven by Barbara Severs of 2504 Ave. X.

No injuries were reported in either of Monday's mishaps.

Shots are best in B-12 shortage

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been advised to get B-12 shots on a monthly basis. The shots are given in the hip or tnigh. Why can't they be given in the shoulder muscle? Why not an oral tablet or capsule? Why take B-12 at all? Does a sore mouth indicate a need for B-12? As time passes, will the need for shots increase or decrease?

DEAR READER — The only good reason for B-12 shots is because of a vitamin B-12 deficiency, which can lead to pernicious anemia. And yes, that can cause a sore mouth. You can have a B-12 deficiency even if you get an adequate amount of B-12 in your diet. Vegetarians often do not get enough B-12.

The B-12 deficiency may occur because you lack an intrinsic factor in the stomach that is necessary to absorb B-12 from the digestive system. If you can't absorb it, the B-12 in your diet won't do you any good.

That is also the reason why B-12 is given as a shot, rather than a pill. If you swallowed the medicine, you might not absorb it.

The hip and thigh are often used for such injections because they are such large muscles. A shot in the arm muscle might make your arm sore, but you can try it if you want to do so.

The frequency and amount of B-12 is decided on the basis of your response. If your blood-forming response is not good enough, the amount or frequency of B-12 may be increased. Usually, a person with pernicious anemia has to continue to take B-12 shots for life at some specified frequency and amount.

I have explained all of this in The Health Letter, Special Report 15, Vitamin B-12 and Folic Acid Deficiency Anemias, which I am sending you. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

A B-12 deficiency does more than just cause anemia. It can also affect the nervous system and can lead to permanent damage of spinal-nerve tracts that are important in walking. So ask your doctor about your status and understand it, but don't fail to follow his advice if you need B-12 shots.

DEAR DR. LAMB — My son takes vitamin C tablets daily. He eats well-balanced meals. We would like to know if these vitamin C tablets are beneficial in any way in the event that he catches a cold. Will they prevent colds?

DEAR READER — After all the research has been reviewed about vitamin C and colds, most reputable scientists find that additional vitamin C, above your recommended daily dietary allowances (RDA), does not prevent colds. Colds are caused by a variety of viruses and are contagious diseases. The best way to prevent colds is to avoid exposure to people with colds.

There is some evidence that larger doses of vitamin C may decrease the symptoms of a cold to some extent or may shorten the duration of symptoms, perhaps by a day or two, but even this point is argued. If you get plenty of fresh fruit, particularly citrus fruit on a daily basis, it will do about all you that vitamin C could do in terms of colds.

Water shortage ongoing

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Despite three days of rain that temporarily relieved a 19-month-long drought, this parched coastal city continues to suffer under a severe water shortage with no relief in sight.

Isolated heavy rains expected to continue for the rest of the week will help ease drought conditions that worsened over the long hot summer months, said Fred Roush, forecaster at the National Weather Service in Corpus Christi.

"But it will have no significant effect on the water shortage," Roush said. "Not for the foreseeable future."

The weather service recorded .56 inch of rain at 5 p.m. at the Corpus Christi Airport Monday, with isolated rainfall in various locations around the area.

After a weekend taste of rain, Corpus Christi water officials said they are keeping their fingers crossed for more precipitation to relieve the long drought that has forced the coastal city to ration water.

Your Birthday

Oct. 10, 1984

Your financial prospects look encouraging for the year ahead. However, you must be extremely careful not to lend money to unreliable persons.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your resources must be managed with considerable prudence today. Think twice before assuming any new long-term obligations. The Matchmaker wheel reveals your compatibility to all signs, as well as showing you to which signs you are best suited romantically. To get yours, mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Strive to keep a cool head today so you do not react out of emotion rather than logic. Be especially tolerant with your valued relationships.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Procrastination could put you behind the eight ball today. Don't dilly-dally. Give your responsibilities and duties prompt attention.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Independence is an admirable quality, but today, if you fail to go along with the will of the majority, you could be left out on the limb.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If the workaday world treats you a bit roughly today, don't come home and take it out on innocent members of your family. Leave your frustrations at the door.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Think before speaking today or you may say something in the presence of friends you might later regret. Extricating your foot from your mouth won't be easy.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your grandiose financial schemes may look good on paper today, yet they might not be feasible. Re-examine them to be sure they make sense.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be extremely selective of your associations today. Persons whose value systems are not on par with yours could make you look bad.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Attempting to make major changes in your work habits or procedures today could add to your burdens, rather than lightening them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're the one who could end up the loser if you ignore a close and valued friend today in order to be more attentive to a person you met only recently.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll desire lofty accomplishments today but you may not be prepared to pay the price in tenacity that is required to achieve them.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try not to be gullible today. Unfortunately, information passed on by others may have little basis in fact.

Suspension of students working

CHICAGO (AP) — The suspension of 220 pupils at a parochial school because their parents missed Mass boosted attendance at Holy Angels Church and shows the church is "serious," the pastor says.

Usual attendance at Sunday Mass is about 2,700 people, but about 3,500 people came on Sunday, the Rev. George Clements said Monday.The suspension "certainly was a contributing factor."

A week ago, Clements suspended 220 elementary school pupils because their parents had not lived up to an agreement they signed to attend Mass each wwek. The children were back in school after their parents agreed to attend Mass.

FOOTBALL CONTEST

WEEKLY PRIZES!

PERFECT SCORE	FIRST PRIZE	SECOND PRIZE
$100	$12.50	$5.00
Nothing To Buy		No Obligation

Entries Must Be In By NOON FRIDAY

Bring Your Entries to the News Office or Mail to Snyder Daily News Box 949 Snyder, TX. 79549

In each advertisement on this page you will find the contestants in a prominent football game being played around the country this weekend. On the entry blank at the bottom of the page, fill in your selection of the WINNING TEAM only...opposite the name of the business firm on the entry blank. Then clip out the entry blank and send it to FOOTBALL CONTEST EDITOR, SNYDER DAILY NEWS, BOX 949, or bring your entry by the News office. Entries must be in the hands of the editor by 12 o'clock noon, Friday. Games ending in a tie must be specified as a tie or else it will be considered a miss.

To avoid splitting the prize money a TIE-BREAKER slot will be provided on each entry blank. Pick the score for that game only and in case of a tie the one who picks the winner and the nearest number of total points will receive the prize money. The same formula will apply to second prize winners. In case of a tie for a perfect score, the same formula would apply.

There will be fun for the entire family. Only one entry blank will be permitted for any one person. More than one will disquality all the person's entries. Scores listed on the entry blank will have no bearing except in the case of the tie-breaker. Sign your entry blank and list your address and phone number and watch for the story in next Tuesday's SDN. Employees of the Snyder Daily News and their families are not eligible to enter.

Veep contenders preparing

By The Associated Press

Vice President George Bush and Geraldine Ferraro are plunging into preparations for their debate this week with pressure heightened by poll results suggesting that Walter F. Mondale won his confrontation with President Reagan.

"Sure I'm nervous," Ms. Ferraro, the Democratic vice presidential nominee, said of Thursday's scheduled debate with Bush. "I'd be a sick person if I weren't a little nervous about debating with 50 million people watching."

Mondale and Reagan both were at campaigning [illegible] appearing at traditional Columbus-Day events, Mondale flush with the good reviews his debate performance Sunday night was drawing and greeted by his largest crowds in months.

Reagan and Mondale both said they'd let voters decide who won, but Mondale was clearly enthused. "This is a brand new race," Mondale said. "From now on, everything is wide open."

Reagan campaigned in Baltimore, and in Charlotte, N.C., helping GOP Sen. Jesse Helms in his tough re-election fight. "I'm smiling," Reagan told reporters who asked how he thought he'd done. "I do not fear the judgment of my fellow citizens on Nov. 6," he said later.

Bill collecting, challenging, difficult, lonely, never dull

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — Katie, the collector, was doing her job.

From a stack of 300 notices she pulled the name and phone number of a customer — in this case a well-known realtor who had neglected to pay his residential electric bill.

She dialed the number and luckily caught him at home. From her end, the world was calm. Situated in a clean, softly lit office, she had only the tools of her trade beside her: a ledger of customer accounts, a calendar of billing cycles and the phone.

But as she quietly began to explain the dark results of avoiding payment, a storm erupted on the other end.

"He kept cussing," she says, "and I told him I wouldn't be able to help him until he calmed down."

The tirade continued, but hours after the call the man stopped in and paid his bill. The following morning Katie was surprised with a bouquet of flowers and a note of apology. The flowers were forget-me-nots.

Not every past-due customer reacts to simple reminders with such unpredictability. But for dozens of bill collectors like Katie (not her real name), it's this incalculable human behavior that makes their jobs challenging, often difficult, and sometimes just plain lonely.

"Sometimes you get down thinking everybody is a deadbeat," says Greg Koontz, loan collector for Tascosa National Bank. "But most people seem pretty nice about it."

It takes a special person to handle the abuse, or fear of abuse, collectors say. You need a quick mind, a patient soul and thick skin.

And there are plenty of chances to develop those qualities. At Southwestern Public Service, for instance, more than 7,000 of it 70,000 Amarillo customers let their bills go past due each month, says credit adjuster Frank Robinson.

That means collectors must face 250 potential hotheads every day, week after week, year after year.

"It's not that they (delinquent customers) are mad at me, but at the company," Katie says as she shuffles a stack of disconnection notices. "And even though the job is repetitious, it's still a new world each day. You can't say you've heard it all because somebody's always got a hundred aunts that died."

As many as 200 work these jobs citywide, a spokesman for the Credit Bureau of Amarillo estimates. About 150 of those work in-house on 30-, 60- or 90-day past due accounts management hopes will be collectible.

Companies like Sears, Security National Bank, Sakowitz, Southwestern Bell and some petroleum companies employ in-house collectors to make written or telephone contact with late-paying clients.

Many collectors handle accounts outside of Amarillo, and some, like Sears, have their credit collection departments centralized in Lubbock or outside of the state, says Melvin Isley, executive vice president of the Credit Bureau of Amarillo.

Some smaller stores "factor" out their delinquent accounts to large banks or a credit company, such as General Electic Credit Corp. or the credit bureau.

Others use the law.

Amarillo Hospital District officials, alarmed at the estimated $9.3 million in bad debts this year, recently turned over these accounts to Sanders, Saunders, Brain, Finney, Thomas & Smith. The law firm will get 30 percent of debts collected through the courts.

In a word, the task of these frequently highly paid professionals is to collect money. It is money that customers originally agreed to pay when they bought their bowling ball, picked out a new car or entered the hospital.

The price of this activity is nothing to balk at. Typically, a company will have to write off losses of 7 percent of its billings. According to Robinson, SPS wrote off $708,419.85 in July — just from Amarillo customers.

That's not unusal, says David Peterson, director of public relations for the American Collectors Association. Members of the association report that $12.9 billion was turned over to them last year. Of that, only 21 percent was collected.

"The rest is lost, which means you and I are paying for it in higher prices," Peterson says.

But that's money spread out among millions and paid later. For habitually delinquent customers, what counts is avoiding payment today.

"I've heard it all," says one collector. "'My husband didn't pay the child support'...'I mailed it in two weeks ago'...'I've been injured on the job'...'I don't have the money right now'...'We just got back from vacation.'"

Collectors agree they cannot accurately judge whether someone is truly sick or out of money. So most companies provide them with computerized credit histories to help them decide whether to extend more time to laggardly customers.

In-house collectors historically are more sympathetic than their kin at credit collection agencies. While firmly seeking payment, they also have some options for deferring payments or receiving partial payments.

"We try to connect before we disconnect," says one.

Interestingly, upper- and middle-income customers tend to be as delinquent about paying bills as those with smaller incomes, collectors say. Many take offense at dooknob notices or polite phone calls reminding them of their debts. And none are particularly pleased at lawsuits.

But in most situations, collectors have the saavy and experience to feint the most troublesome customers.

copies of the 112-page catalog for the 1985-86 school year.

Items for which bids were tabled included one turf top dresser, one triplex riding greens mower and one aerator.

In other action, trustees were notified of the resignation of Beverly Cross, who was in charge of typesetting services on campus. A part-time staffer has been hired to replace her, Diane Arnold.

Dr. Harry Krenek also presented the small class report. This semester 30 classes do not have the required registration of at least 10 students.

Trustees also agreed to sell the college's old NCR computer system back to NCR for $4,000 plus 160 hours of programming on the college's new computer system.

During the president's report, Dr. Don Newbury reported that he thinks a state-mandated tuition increase can be expected in the future. Newbury based his comments on a recent meeting with State Sen. Ray Farabee, who represents this district.

Trustees also accepted the enrollment report. Fall enrollment at WTC is listed at 1,319 students.

Dodge listed possible for OU game Saturday

AUSTIN (AP) - Coach Fred Akers of No. 1-ranked Texas says the Longhorns and Oklahoma are alike in at least one way: Both teams can trace their undefeated seasons to the play of their quarterbacks.

Akers on Monday described Oklahoma quarterback Danny Bradley "as the most physically gifted quarterback we've faced."

Texas and Oklahoma, 4-0, meet Saturday at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas before a sellout crowd of 75,587 and a national television audience. Kickoff is at 2:50 p.m., CDT.

Texas is 3-0, and Akers was asked at his weekly news conference Monday if Longhorn quarterback Todd Dodge had been the team's spark. "I think a great deal of it has been Todd's steadiness, his performance, his command of things in the offense. It's been a big part of it," Akers said.

Dodge, who went down with a hyperextended knee in Texas' 38-13 victory over Rice on Saturday night, missed practice Monday and Akers said it is only "possible" that he might play against Oklahoma.

Dodge, among the nation's top-rated quarterbacks, has completed 30 of 49 passes for 488 yards and four touchdowns this season.

If Dodge should miss the OU game, Akers said his son, Danny, a 5-foot-9 senior who has never started, "would be the probable starter."

Asked how he felt about starting an inexperienced quarterback against Oklahoma, Akers said, "Danny's been in our program - knows it completely, knows what's happening on the field, knows how to adjust. So, he's not without experience. He's without starting experience."

A redshirt freshman, Bret Stafford, is behind Danny Akers, and Coach Akers was asked if he had thought about moving senior tailback Rob Moerschell back to quarterback. "We thought about it but not for long," he said.

Dodge was among eight starters on the Texas injury list, and Akers said tailback-fullback Ronnie Robinson and offensive guard Paul Jetton are "doubtful" for Oklahoma. The others could return to practice this week but might not be 100 percent healthy.

Akers was asked if the 1984 Oklahoma team is different than other OU teams.

"Not basically," He said. "They've got the speedy backs in numbers, and they'll have the largest offensive line we'll see. They're a very aggressive offensive team. I think probably the biggest difference is they're getting really good play from their quarterback, Bradley. He's a much-improved football player.

"We know he's a fine runner and a great scrambler, and he's throwing the ball well, which gives them more versatility, but physically they're the same type football team with great speed and size.

"Defensively, they're quicker - quicker moving as a whole unit than they have been the last two or three years as far as I can see," Akers said.

He said he didn't know if the Texas-Oklahoma matchup would display the two best college teams in the nation. "I'd say we're two of the best. This game ... is considered by most to be the No. 1 college football game in the country today," Akers said.

As far as a favorite is concerned, he said, "more times than not ... this kind of football game is a tossup."

Cats defeat C-City teams

Snyder junior high volleyball teams swept Colorado City here Monday evening.

The teams play again Oct. 15. Snyder seventh graders play at Levelland, while the eighth graders play in Big Spring. Both two-match outings begin at 4:30 p.m.

Snyder 7th Gold topped the Wolves 15-13, 15-13. Scoring on serves were Shelly Tomlin with 7 points in the first game and Cindy Srna with 6 in the second game.

The 7th Black squad cruised to a 15-1, 15-3 victory. Jacy LaRoux served 9 in the first game; Wendy Hart 11 in the second.

Snyder 8th grade Black won its match 15-6 and 15-10. Debbie Yandrich and Rebecca Vestal scored 7 points each in the first and second games, respectively.

In the other match played, Snyder 8th Gold drubbed the visitors 15-9 and 15-8. Rhonda Echols had 8 points in the first game; Melissa Hodges 5 in the second.

Padres host Tigers...

World Series begins tonight

SAN DIEGO (AP) - It is a matchup both of contrasts - tradition vs. expansion - and common threads binding the San Diego Padres and Detroit Tigers.

And it wasn't even supposed to start here. Chicago was all charged up for its first World Series in 25 years, perhaps the Cubs' first world championship in 76.

But in a most improbable of comebacks, the Padres, only 15 years old, won the final three games in the National League's best-of-five playoffs and now find themselves hosting tonight's opening game of their first World Series.

Eight times previously, the Tigers have participated in this fall classic, winning three of them, most recently in 1968. The names, too, ring of tradition - Ty Cobb, Charlie Gehringer, Mickey Cochrane, Hank Greenberg, Al Kaline ...

And in San Diego, major league baseball tradition is, well, nonexistent. In fact, for a while a decade ago, major league baseball here almost was nonexistent. C. Arnholt Smith, then the owner of the Padres, was on the verge of selling the franchise, which was to be moved to Washington, D.C.

Instead, he sold it to the late Ray Kroc, the hamburger king, founder of McDonald's, a pioneer in fast-food franchising.

This, incidentally, is being called the fast-food series matching McDonald's against Domino's Pizza, a nationwide chain owned by Tom Monaghan, who bought the Tigers after the 1983 season.

Kroc went about the business the past few years of finding the right parts to the puzzle. The pivotal one was Dick Williams, a manager with winning credentials in Boston, Oakland and Montreal. And Jack McKeon, vice president for baseball operations, went about spending Kroc's money for the rest of the pieces, among them:

- First baseman Steve Garvey, for years the All-American boy up the coast with the Los Angeles Dodgers who led the team with 86 runs batted in. He was the Padres' Most Valuable Player in the NL Championship Series against the Cubs, who nearly outbid San Diego for his services in the free-agent market before the 1983 season.

- Third baseman Graig Nettles, the still-slick fielder with the occasional lightning in his bat (seven home runs in six consecutive games in August) was acquired in trade from the New York Yankees.

- Relief pitcher Rich "Goose" Gossage, the stopper out of the bullpen (25 saves) the Padres had so sorely missed, was signed out of free agency when he tired of Yankee owner George Steinbrenner's meddling.

Less traveled than Williams but equally successful is Detroit's manager, Sparky Anderson. He directed the Cincinnati Reds, the Big Red Machine, to world championships in 1975 and 1976, then was stunned by his dismissal after the 1978 season. He was hired by the Tigers midway in 1979.

Like Williams, Anderson also shopped around to pick up the few missing cogs for his new machine, among them:

- Relief pitcher Willie Hernandez, obtained from Philadelphia, last year's NL champs.

- Third baseman Darrell Evans, the San Francisco Giants' MVP in 1983.

Jack Morris (19-11) will open the World Series for Detroit against Mark Thurmond. For the Padres during the season, Thurmond was 14-8.

GAYLA MUELLER
1984 WTBRA Champion

Mueller crowned top barrel racer

Mrs. Gayla Mueller has taken the honor of West Texas Barrel Racing Association Open Champion for 1984.

Mueller competed in rodeos throughout Texas and Oklahoma, winning, among others, in Snyder, Abilene and Collieville.

She works on the Johnson Ranch, alongside Sherry Johnson, another who has made a name for herself in the barrel racing world.

"Without Sherry, this year would not have been possible," said Mueller, who rode a horse owned by Johnson. The big, black six-year old gelding is named Ug.

"I really did enjoy the summer, although it was long and hard. Winning the trailer made it all worth while," said Mueller.
