Longview Girl Testifies In Tyler Hearing

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — A Longview Negro girl who filed an integration suit against the Kilgore Junior College testified yesterday that she never knew she won the suit.

State Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd said that Miss Marie Stephens made no effort to attend the Kilgore school although she was one of four successful plaintiffs in a federal case.

"I don't recall whether we won or lost the suit," she said from the stand.

She testified for the defense in the 12th day of a 7th District Court hearing on a temporary restraining order issued against the NAACP in Texas.

The state has asked that the order be made permanent, charging that the NAACP has unlawfully solicited lawsuits and has taken part in politics despite its charter as a charitable, nonprofit organization.

The NAACP has denied breaking any state law and has countercharged that the state has obtained much of its evidence illegally through investigations by armed men.

Shepperd was put on the stand and testified that he believed the NAACP has been "very little help" to Texas Negroes trying to solve the segregation problem.

The attorney general said that he did not think the U.S. Supreme Court "endowed this or any other organization to enforce its (school desegregation) order."

Miss Stephens testified that she was one of 11 original plaintiffs against the Kilgore Junior College.

"I wanted to go to Kilgore Junior College because my parents were tax-paying citizens."

On cross-examination she acknowledged that she began attending Butler College, a Negro school in Tyler, soon after applying at Kilgore. She said she took elementary education and music, two of the subjects she wanted to take at Kilgore.

Absentee Voting Is Started Here Today

Absentee voting for the Nov. 6 election began today.

The ballots are available at the county clerk's office, and persons qualified to vote but who will be unable to appear at the polls in person on the date of the election may vote absentee.

The ballots list party candidates for all national and state offices for which nominees have been named, as well as the proposed amendments to the state constitution.

Absentee voting will end Nov. 2.

Resignation Is Being Studied

AUSTIN (AP)—The tangled question of a special senatorial election to fill the post to be vacated by Sen. Price Daniel remained in a muddled state today as Gov. Allan Shivers said he would take no action until after the general election.

The governor, just back from a two-week bear hunt in Alaska, held his first press conference since receiving a letter of resignation from Daniel effective Jan. 15 or when a successor is elected and qualified.

He said he had not accepted the resignation.

"The letter of resignation does not create such a vacancy as would permit holding an election on Nov. 6 and no further announcement will be made until after the general election," Shivers said.

The governor said a special Senate election "has no place being mixed up in a presidential election."

He said he and his office were still studying the question as to when a vacancy actually occurs.

"Only after we find the answer to that will we be able to set a date for a special election," Shivers said.

Daniel filed his resignation under a section of the law providing for resignations in the future. It empowers the governor to order a special election not less than 20 nor more than 90 days after he receives it. Another law provides for an election 60-90 days after the resignation. This leaves the possibility that an election might be set as late as April 15.

Shivers spent the greater part of his 45-minute conference on the presidential election and said he would actively campaign for President Eisenhower's re-election.

He lashed out at Adlai Stevenson for what he caled "political irresponsibility" and "playing at heart strings" in Stevenson's recent proposal that the United States give up studies of the H-bomb.

Shivers said he is "very much encouraged over the prospect of Eisenhower carrying Texas again, particularly if the people become sufficiently interested in getting out the vote."

"There is no question in my mind the way the majority of the people in Texas feel," the governor said. "It's just a question of getting out the vote."

The governor also rebuked Sen. Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn "for inviting seven senators who voted against the tidelands bill to come to Texas and tell us how to vote."

Shivers said Stevenson and Kefauver were against the Texas tidelands in 1952 and "Kefauver and Stevenson are the same people as in 1952. Unless they announce something different, we must assume they haven't changed their views." Stevenson this year has said the tidelands are a closed issue.

Shivers said he would speak in Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 24 in behalf of Eisenhower and tentatively has set speaking dates on Oct. 25 in Jacksonville, Fla., and Oct. 26 in Memphis, Tenn.

School Fire Investigated

GREENUP, Ky. (AP)—Sheriff Delbert McKenzie believes an explosion, which left a one-room rural school a smoking shambles just minutes after 42 children had been sent home, was the work of youths.

The children had been dismissed yesterday morning after their 24-year-old teacher found the lock on the school door jammed.

Miss Juanita Gullett was en route to report the incident to Greenup County School Supt. Roscoe Stevens when the blast wrecked the 40-year-old school.

The sheriff ruled out any possibility of racial trouble. Only white pupils attend classes at the school which is about six miles from here. The sheriff said no Negroes live in the area.

McKenzie found a 22-inch piece of fuse and said he was "pretty sure" dynamite, reported stolen Monday night from the nearby Tracy Mining Co., had been used in the blast.

The job, according to the sheriff looked like the work of youths. He reported three boys, 12 to 14 years old, were questioned but they "wouldn't own up to anything."

Man Nabbed For Slaying Wife, Child

ST. PETERSBURG (AP)—A husband, who said he had the "urge to kill," stabbed and hacked to death his pregnant wife and two children today.

Detective Lt. Earl Newberry said James G. Burmeister, 28, told him: "It was terrible."

The officer said Burmeister, a power company lineman, under a psychiatrist's treatment, told this story:

His 9-months-old baby, Marilyn, cried sometime after 5 a.m. and awakened him and his wife, Mary, 32.

His wife took the child from a crib and held her in her arms.

Then Burmeister said: "I suddenly had the urge to kill them all."

He took a so-called Marine raider knife with a 6-inch blade and jammed it in his wife's back while she still held the baby.

Mrs. Burmeister cried out.

Burmeister then turned to his 3-year-old son, James Jr., and hacked him to death.

Mrs. Burmeister had collapsed and he stabbed her several times, making certain she was dead. He then stabbed the little girl.

The officer said Burmeister took the children, laid them face down in a bathtub and turned on the water. His wife's body was found in the living room of the small apartment, her face in a bucket of water.

Newberry said Burmeister explained his reason for immersing them in water was "to get it over with as quickly" as possible.

Magistrate Edward P. Silk termed the deaths a triple murder. An autopsy was ordered to determine the extent of Mrs. Burmeister's pregnancy.

EL PASO (AP)—The Texas Concrete Products Assn. elected Nolan Browne of Dallas president yesterday.

Akins Speaks At Oil Week Dinner

A plea for a return to respect for traditional American principles was sounded at the Snyder Chamber of Commerce Oil Progress Week session Tuesday night in the Towle Memorial Park exhibition building.

Principal speaker for the event was A. C. Akins of Odessa.

Prior to his address, defense bonds were presented to four high school students whose entries placed at the top in the annual OIIC essay contest. Receiving the awards were Tennie Eades, Sue Clark, Ronald Smith and Bill Smallwood. The defense bonds were awarded by the Diamond M Foundation, and the presentation was made by Jim Kincaid, production engineer for Diamond M Industries.

Akins, in an address interspersed liberally with humorous stories, suggested that American people today placed too much emphasis on "security" and not enough on hard work.

He warned that the free enterprise system which made the nation great would be lost unless apathy on the part of citizens is curbed.

Special entertainment was provided by "The Teenagers," a group of junior students in Snyder High School, directed by Bob Clinton.

Hicks Allen, manager of SACROC, was master of ceremonies. The Rev. I. T. Huckabee led the invocation, and Dan Warren, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce oil and gas committee, introduced Akins.

A barbecue dinner was served at 6:30 p.m. and the program followed.

Adlai Hits Nixon Work Week Talk

By JACK BELL

WITH STEVENSON IN MICHIGAN (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson told an early morning crowd at Niles, Mich., today that Vice President Nixon took back in four days his proposal for a four-day work week for the nation.

Starting a whistle-stop swing across Michigan, Stevenson told the crowd of about 400 persons that they will have to vote in November on a president, a vice president and a political party.

In Michigan where newspaper polls indicate he is running behind Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams in the party's effort to win state and national offices, Stevenson stressed party affiliation.

The Democratic presidential nominee said he would not say anything about President Eisenhower. He said he did not have much to say about Vice President Nixon.

But he added that Nixon had proposed on a recent Saturday that the nation make a four-day work week one of its economic goals.

"But by next Tuesday he took it all back," Stevenson said. "So I will have to say the Republican advocacy of a four-day work week lasted only four days."

Rural Drive To Kick Off

The fifth drive of the 1956 Scurry County United Fund campaign will open tomorrow.

Tomorrow's drive kickoff will be by the rural division, headed by Dan Cotton.

An announcement today by H. A. Johnson, Jr., general campaign chairman, was that the United Fund so far had about $1,000 turned in by the divisions which are already working. The United Fund goal this year is $36,970.

Divisions which had already been kicked off included business employes, which started this morning under leadership of Olan Griffith; general business, headed by Bob Crowell; advance gifts, Claude McCormick; and branch house, Carl Jones.

There had not yet been any reports from the business employe drive today. By this morning, the general business division had turned in about $1,200.

Workers in the rural division will pick up their worksheets at the United Fund office tomorrow.

Refuse To Go Home

VIENNA (AP)—Eleven Hungarians who come here in a tourist group to see an Austro-Hungarian soccer match last Sunday have refused to return home. The group, which includes four minor government officials, asked the Austrian government for political asylum.

Four Towns Flooded By Heavy Rains

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP)—Whipping winds and generally light rains pressed into the Carolinas early today, the softer edge of a storm whose hard core caused heavy rains, flooding of four towns and at least two drownings in Florida.

Storm warnings snapped along the coast from Brunswick, Ga., as far north as Atlantic City, N.J.

The storm's center was expected to arrive at Cape Hatteras, N.C., by late afternoon.

The Charlotte, N.C., Weather Bureau predicted peak winds of around 40 miles an hour in the eastern Carolinas, "probably not over 50."

Heavy rains also were forecast for the Carolinas' coast, which has received some substantial rainfall at such points as Cape Hatteras — 1.30 inches up to 7:30 a.m.—and Charleston, 1.10 inches, and Myrtle Beach, S.C., 1.03.

The two-state area was generally cloudy, but temperatures remained mild, with most lows in the 60s this morning and predicted to be about the same tonight.

The storm did considerable crop damage in Florida, but the Carolinas — whose growing season is nearing an end — welcomed the rain and expected little damage from the winds.

Sentence Of Taylor Is Upheld By Court

AUSTIN (AP)—The Court of Criminal Appeals today amended and upheld a 35-year sentence for Charles Everett Taylor of Scurry County, convicted of murder with malice.

Taylor was convicted of shooting Ruth Nichols on Jan. 19.

"The judgment is reformed and amended to conform with the verdict of the jury so as to order that appellant be confined in the penitentiary for a term of 35 years," the appeals court said.

Dist. Judge Sterling Williams had sentenced Taylor to confinement "for a term of not less than 2 nor more than 35 years."

Ike Slates Reply To H-Bomb Talks

SEATTLE (AP)—President Eisenhower today directed top administration officials to prepare a new reply to Adlai Stevenson's proposal that efforts be made to halt H-bomb testing.

White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told a news conference here that Eisenhower believes that Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, made "incorrect statements" in his speech on that subject Monday night.

"We are going to set the record straight," Hagerty said.

In his Monday evening campaign address, Stevenson said if elected "I would count it the first order of business" to try for world agreement to terminate H-bomb testing.

The Democratic candidate added that he would strive for such agreement with Russia and Great Britain, the only other nation in the H-bomb field.

Only last Thursday Eisenhower said at a Washington news conference that he had uttered his "last word" on the Stevenson proposal to end H-bomb testing.

Reminded of that today, Hagerty replied:

"We believe incorrect statements have been made and we are going to set the record straight."

The press secretary said Eisenhower feels that since Stevenson has raised the matter again and "made what we believe to be rather extraordinary statements," there should be a new administration reply.

For that reason, Hagerty added, Eisenhower has called on Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission; Secretary of Defense Wilson and Secretary of State Dulles to prepare what Hagerty termed "a complete history in this field."

Eisenhower turned his campaign today to Washington's nine electoral votes with an aide picturing him as optimistic about chances of carrying Minnesota.

Eight From Snyder Attend Demo Meet

ABILENE—An audience of 200 West Texas Democrats, including eight from Snyder, was on hand here Tuesday night for one of the fabulous $100-a-plate party dinners to hear Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) rap the Republican Administration.

"Top Brass" in the Democratic party was well represented at the event. In addition to Sen. Symington, the headline speaker, there were such well-known Texas Democrats as Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson, Speaker of the House Sam Rayburn and Sen. Price Daniel, Democratic nominee for governor, and Rep. George Mahon, Congressman from the 19th district.

"About all we need to have all of the top boys here are Adlai and Estes," one enthusiast commented.

The banquet was a part of a fund-raising campaign to support the Democratic ticket in the general election Nov. 6.

C. T. McLaughlin of Snyder is the state finance chairman, and he headed the Snyder delegation at the dinner. In addition of Mr. and Mrs. C. T. McLaughlin, others attending from Snyder were Mr. and Mrs. Mark McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Patterson, Julian T. Hendren and Herbert Feather.

In his speech, Sen. Symington charged that the Republicans had not furnished a good business administration.

"This is not an administration of all the people," he declared.

On other topics he charged that the Eisenhower administration was neglecting national defense, ignoring the need to educate bright young men and women, and practicing censureship under the guise of security.

Rayburn noted that "there are a few more people here now than when I was here in 1952."

Sen. Daniel then said he was one of those absent four years ago, but was happy to be present this year. He then reiterated his intention to support Democratic nominees "from top to bottom" in the general election.

Meanwhile, the audience had dined (at $100-a-plate) on jumbo sauce, prime rib, green beans with almond sauce, baked potatoes with chive dressing, blueberry muffins, hot rolls, rainbow parfait with petits four glace and coffee.

Feed Grain Supply Program Extended

Farmers may now file applications through Dec. 3 for feed supplies under the emergency feed grain program of the federal government.

The program was extended to that time, according to Joe Box, county supervisor for the Farmers Home Administration, which accepts applications.

The applications can be for feed grain necessary to carry basic livestock herds through Dec. 31. This extension of the emergency feed grain program now coincides with the assistance available under the roughage program for Texas and enables county FHA committees to consider total feed requirements, both roughage and grain.

Israeli Premier Sees Danger Of Possible Egyptian Attack

JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier David Ben-Gurion declared today the greatest danger facing Israel is a possible attack by the "Fascist dictator of Egypt."

Winding up a three-day foreign policy debate in the Israeli Parliament, the 70-year-old government chief said developments of the past few days in the bitter Israel-Jordan border conflict appeared favorable. But he warned against "premature optimism."

At the end of the speech, Parliament approved his foreign policy declarations 76-13.

The right-wing nationalists' Herut party, which advocates a "preventive war" against the Arabs, and the Communists voted against the government policy. Menahem Begin, Herut leader, yesterday charged Ben-Gurion with having failed to take advantage of Egyptian and Jordan weakness in the past.

A government spokesman said Israel is protesting to the U. N. Security Council that Jordan attacks since the cease-fire agreement of last April had resulted in 37 Israelis killed and 45 wounded.

Ben Gurion said of Egypt's President Nasser:

"We must know who is our most dangerous enemy — the dictator of Egypt who rules his country by force, who wants to rule all Arab countries by force and who does not hide his intention to destroy Israel by force."

Ben-Gurion said Israel cannot rely on promises from other statesmen because of "bitter experiences in the past." He renewed the appeal he made Monday for more arms, particularly from the United States, and promised the strengthening of Israeli defenses would continue.

"But," he added, "we still have not sufficient arms and I want to stress that we need further assistance, particularly from the country that can and must help us, the United States."

Ben-Gurion said his country needed defensive arms. He defined them as arms equal in quality to those in the hands of Israel's enemies.

Ben-Gurion repeated his warning that Israel reserves freedom of action if Iraqi troops enter Jordan. Such a step, he maintained, would violate the status quo of the Israel - Jordan armistice of 1949.

"If we are attacked, we will take the fight over to the other side," he said.

In Cairo, the newspaper Al Shaab quoted the Egyptian army's commander in chief, Gen. Abdel Hakim Amer, as saying Egypt would intervene if Jordan or any other Arab state was invaded.

Al Shaab said Amer made the statement in an interview with Salah Salem, Nasser's former propaganda minister and now Al Shaab's editor.

Man Is Hunted In Beating Of Wife

TEXARKANA, Ark. (AP)—Police searched throughout the night for a man they considered to be dangerous after his wife was found nude and beaten alongside a highway near Little Rock.

The hunt centered on this area of southwest Arkansas and northeast Texas after the man's blood-spattered car was found abandoned with a note in it which reads "Help, he will kill us, please help."

Police identified the man as William Crabtree, 30-year-old Little Rock lumber company employe.

His wife, a 32-year-old Little Rock waitress, was found nude and beaten near U.S. Highway 167 south of Little Rock by a truck driver early yesterday.

Taken to a Little Rock hospital, she told police that her husband picked her up when she got off work, that they argued on the way home, that he beat her in their backyard, dragged her to the car, drove out of town, and pushed her out of the car.

She was reported in good condition, suffering with shock and scalp cuts. Mrs. Crabtree made no mention of writing a note.

The note was found in a notebook on the floorboard of the car, together with a foot-long iron bar with hair clinging to it, children's clothing, bloody towels and underclothing.

Police here reported finding the car owned by Crabtree on the Texas side of this border city a few hours after the woman was found.

The Crabtrees' three children were not with them when she and her husband argued, Mrs. Crabtree said. The children are 11, 8, and 5 years old. They were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Crabtree was charged last night with assault with intent to kill. State police at Little Rock said he was "considered to be dangerous."

Democrats Display Unity In Meeting

ABILENE (AP)—Top Texas Democrats got together with a visiting senator last night in a display of unity in behalf of Stevenson-Kefauver.

They included House Speaker Rayburn, who battled for Stevenson in 1952, and Sen. Daniel, Democratic nominee for governor, who supported Eisenhower that year.

Rayburn and Daniel joined Sen. Johnson in defending Sen. Symington of Missouri at a $100 a plate dinner against the attack of the "Democrats for Eisenhower."

The "Democrats for Eisenhower" had asked Symington why he voted against Texas on the tidelands issue—the issue over which Daniel broke with Stevenson in 1952.

Rayburn had warm words of praise for Symington. Johnson called the visiting senator "one of the greatest public servants of our time." Daniel said that Symington had voted with Texas more than any other senator on other issues of vital interest to Texas.

The nominee for governor also drew one of the evening's warmest rounds of applause when he said:

"As Democrats we don't always agree. I don't always agree with the nominees but I want you to know that I am supporting the Democratic ticket from top to bottom. I do so because the Democratic party is the party of the people."

Daniel will appear at rallies to back the national ticket later this month at Laredo, San Angelo and San Antonio.

Symington was the first of seven senators to speak during the next three weeks in an effort to win Texas back into the Democratic column.

Symington slapped back at the "Democrats for Eisenhower" in a news conference. He said a more appropriate question might have been on what the GOP administration has done for drought-hurt farmers and ranchers in Texas. He said his vote on tidelands was a matter of record.

In his speech at the dinner, which grossed $20,000 for the party war chest on "Dollar for Democrats" day, Symington criticized the Eisenhower administration for what he called its failures in national defense, in helping the farmer, and in helping the small business man.

Science Discovery Aids Disease Study

ST. LOUIS, (AP) — The powerful electron microscope has thrown new light on construction of the nervous system — knowledge that could eventually help solve the mystery of multiple sclerosis and similar diseases.

The discovery concerns a substance known as myelin, found in the protective coating around nerves in the brain and spinal cord. Myelin is attacked and destroyed by degenerative diseases of the nervous system.

Dr. Sarah A. Luse, assistant professor of pathology at the School, reporting on a two-year study, said it revealed myelin in the central nervous system actually is formed by and is a part of the nerve-protecting cells.

Until recent years myelin was regarded as inert matter of unknown origin deposited around the nerves.

Dr. Edward W. Dempsey, head of the anatomy department at the school and a member of the research review panel of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, explained the significance of Dr. Luse's findings.

"The information on the origin and nature of myelin is a first-rate scientific discovery, not necessarily because of its relation to any disease, but because of the light it throws on the way the nervous system is constructed," Dr. Dempsey said:

"Every piece of information adds one more clue which finally could be used in unraveling the entire progress of multiple sclerosis and similar diseases of the central nervous system."

Some 60 scientists attended a conference here, sponsored by the multiple sclerosis society, at which Dr. Luse presented electron microscope pictures. Magnified up to 100,000 times, they showed how myelin is formed. Her studies were on animal tissue.

The Multiple Sclerosis Society called her discovery the most important advance in the fight against the disease in 125 years.

YOU AND YOUR TEEN-AGER

By BEVERLY BRANDOW

Is your teen-ager happy and bubbling over with enthusiasm for a number of projects, or is your teen despondent, fearful, and filled with doubts?

As a parent you hold great power over a human life. Being the closest person and the one most needed in your son's or daughter's life, and being the one person he (or she) most loves and watches, you hold the power to make or break your teen-ager's life.

You can boost morale and build self-confidence or you can completely destroy their faith in themselves and leave them pessimistic, afraid to try, weighted down by criticism in the bottomless pit of failure.

"Hold in your stomach; don't slouch. Better put something on those pimples; they look dreadful. Must you talk to that boy every evening? I'll never know what you see in him. He looks just like Mortimer Snerd.

"Just an 85 on the history test? I don't care if it did cover six week's work; it looks like you could do better than that if you really tried.

"No dessert for you tonight. Why? Well just look at yourself in the mirror.

"You want to run for what? Cheerleader? You know you can't do that and keep up with your grades.

"You should have been here this noon when Mrs. Newlywed brought over some chocolate cake. I nearly choked. It was even worse than yours dear.

"What's the matter? Where're you going? Oh well, I'll never understand ten-agers. It's such a trying time."

Could this scene have taken place at your house? It might be well to remember that parents have something to do with making adolescence more trying than it need be in many cases.

It may take a lot of buffing and burnishing to make a diamond sparkle, but your teen-ager is not a diamond. There is nothing in the world hard enough to cut a dismond except another diamond.

Your child's feelings are tender. Like the constant dropping of water will wear away a stone, so will your constant criticism wear away the personality of your teen-ager and rob him (or her) of self-confidence, leaving a despondent, defeated shell of humanity.

All of the great feats and deeds that have ever been accomplished have been accomplished because the person doing them believe in himself and that belief was strong.

Self-doubt is the greatest anchor ever chained to the human soul. Don't shackle your teen-ager with it and toss him into the tide of life to drown.

Constructive criticism is all right if it is passed out sparingly. Make this your formula: one part constructive criticism; ten parts praise, commendation or simply letting your teen-ager know you think he is wonderful and you love him very much.

Your teen-ager must know that you approve of him and are not ashamed and disappointed at the way he "has turned out."

Your love should not seem conditional nor dependent upon any factors. It should spring forth in all seasons like a bubbling fountain.

Take note: The teen-ager who is resentful and rebellious is the teen-ager who is not sure of your love.

NEW YORK, Oct. 2 (E.N.)—According to a report heard over WQXR, the radio station of the New York Times, the Counsel General of Monaco reports "the Grace Kelly wedding stamps are completely sold out."—However, these stamps may be obtained from the Elmont Stamp Co.

WOMEN

PROUD OF LEGS—Laneva Kaye Fambro, above, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Fambro, Harlingen, and former residents of Scurry County, is proud of her new legs, even though they are made of wood. A series of operations which started when she was eight days old have led up to the new wooden limbs. She was born without bone between her knees and ankles and attempts to induce bone growth failed, necessitating amputation and substitution of the artificial legs. She and her parents have spent the past week visiting here with her uncle and family, the G. K. Fambros, in the Lloyd Mountain community. (Lee Watson photograph)

Former 'Ugly' Word

Before, during and after World War II "appeasement" was an ugly word. It was used to describe the Western world's avoidance of stern action against—successively—Tojo, Mussolini and Hitler to stop them from building up another global conflict.

Eventually the free world learned that "appeasement" did not mean peace, but quite the opposite.

Once more we are seeing the fruits of appeasement in the Suez Canal dispute. Britain started it back in the early 1950s when Egypt, without warrant of authority, denied use of the canal to ships bearing cargoes destined for Israel. Stern action then by the Western powers or by the United Nations might have reduced Nasser to nonentity before he even got started.

Then, a matter of weeks ago, the West had its second big chance to slap Nasser down. Britain and France were all set to take that kind of stern action against Nasser that would have kept Hitler from remilitarizing the Rhineland back in the mid-1930s. On that former occasion France was all eagerness to slap Hitler down — and it is known now that Hitler was ready to withdraw if his forces met with even token resistence — but Britain was appeasement-minded, so not a hand was lifted against Hitler. Appeasement did not mean peace.

In the case of Nasser, the U.S. threw cold water on the bold plans of Britain and France. This division of Western sentiment emboldened Nasser still more. Instead of unity of opposition, he was presented with divided counsel.

It is too late now to go back and retrieve the lost ground suffered in this Western debacle.

While the United Nations argues the question of international controls, Egypt not only has taken over ownership of the canal, which was due in 1969 in any case, but it has taken over the canal lock, stock and barrel and is operating it as a private Egyptian enterprise.

Only a miracle can shake Egypt loose from her control of the canal at this late day, and this is hardly the age of miracles in international relations.

At this stage it looks as though Nasser is loose with the halter gone. Next step in the rapid eclipse of Western power and prestige — and more important, respect — in the Middle East will be the progressive taking over of all the West's oil interest in Iran, Iraq and wherever else the West operates there.

But the real tragedy is the separation of the United States from its traditional friends and allies in that solid front of kindred interests without which the West cannot long survive.

With hardly more than a shirt-tail full of real assets, but plus a monumental gall and an unhappy conflict of interests between the U.S. and its allies, Abdul Nasser has made himself the Mr. Big of the Middle East and the darling of Soviet Russia.

Enlightened Bequest

Business and industry are responding to the financial needs of American colleges. And the movement seems to be gaining momentum. Nothing yet in this business giving has been quite so unusual, so ingenious, as well as sizable, as that provided in the will of Charles E. Merrill, formerly senior partner in one of the largest, if not the largest, brokerage firms in the nation. It has a number of noteworthy points:

First, perhaps, is the establishment of a trust which is to have status as partner in the brokerage firm for at least five years. The beneficiary institutions are to share according to specified percentages in the proceeds of this partnership.

Second is the distribution of these proceeds (also according to specified percentages) among educational and other institutions of many faiths.

Third is the emphasis in this distribution on aid to liberal education—a welcome counterbalance to industry's heavy leaning toward technical training for quite understandable reasons of self-interest.

And fourth is the unusual discretion allowed the trustees of the fund to modify the direction of its aid as time goes on. Time does move on and needs change. And many an institution of great value to society has found its services restrained by the "dead hand" of the past in some bequest—a consequence Mr. Merrill wisely planned to avoid. A Little Out Of Hand?

Friends Of Two Presidents In Slugfest For Votes In Colorado's Senate Race

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER (AP) — Friends of two American presidents are slugging it out for a United States Senate seat from Colorado in a campaign enlivened by accusations of "coattail riding."

Democrat John A. Carroll, making a third Senate attempt, originally tossed the barb at Republican Dan Thornton, golfing companion of President Eisenhower.

Thornton retorted that if he is linked to Eisenhower, Carroll must be tied to former President Truman, whom he publicly supported in 1946, 1948 and 1950.

Thornton, millionaire cattleman and former governor who heads the national Republican farm vote campaign, is making his first Senate race. Carroll is a former U.S. representative.

Much of the campaigning has been in rural Colorado, and bitterness already has erupted. Carroll has referred to Thornton as "no barefoot cowboy" and "a huckster." The Republican has been equally as sharp in jibes, chiefly at Carroll's record.

Thornton stresses peace and prosperity under Eisenhower and claims the administration is solving inherited farm problems. Carroll demands more farm aid and argues that small business needs better national policies to survive. Both emphasize a need for more water in the drought-ridden state.

The winner will succeed ailing Sen. Eugene D. Millikin, 65-year-old Republican who is retiring after 15 years.

Aid for both Thornton and Carroll has been forthcoming from men at the top of their national tickets.

Adlai Stevenson, in a Denver address, called a campaign blast against Carroll by Vice President Nixon two years ago "a smear," and Sen. Estes Kefauver urged Carroll's election.

Nixon during a visit to the state called for Thornton's election.

President Eisenhower beamed on Thornton during the GOP National Convention, and state party chieftains say his candidacy was recommended by the national administration.

The two candidates bring differing backgrounds to the Senate race.

Carroll joined the Army while under age during World War I, became a Denver policeman and later an identification expert. He studied law at night and eventually served four years as Denver's district attorney. He lost a race for the Democratic nomination for governor, acted as an OPA official, then entered the Army and did wartime duty overseas during World War II as a military government officer.

Returning from service, he won Denver's seat in the U.S. House of Representatives in 1946. Re-elected in 1948, he ran for the Senate two years later and was nominated without opposition. He lost to Millikin. For a time he acted as a congressional liaison man for President Truman.

He won a bitter Democratic primary for the senatorial nomination in 1954 but was defeated in the general election. This year he shaded Charles F. Brannan, Truman's secretary of agriculture for the nomination.

As in the past, Carroll has received labor union endorsements for the general election.

Thornton was born on a Texas farm, played college football at the University of California at Los Angeles, did movie bit parts, worked in oil fields, became an Arizona rancher and developed a western Colorado ranch for blooded cattle more than 15 years ago.

Because of a foot damaged in a boyhood gunshot accident he was turned down for military service. He was elected state senator in 1948 and governor two years later, serving four years.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

GAY MONARCH: The Life and Pleasures of Edward VII. By Virginia Cowles. Harper.

He was Queen Victoria's "Dearest Bertie," and Kipling's "corpulent voluptuary;" he was a family man and a playboy; for about the first decade of this century he seems to have been every inch a king.

His mother, the Prince Consort and their Baron Stockmar held only a medium-low opinion of him. It was so obvious that if they didn't marry him off he would step out scandalously on his own — he was the Duke of Windsor's grandfather—that they hunted up a bride quickly, Alexandra, of Denmark, and it was one of the most obliging turns they ever did him.

She was a loving, complacent Princess and Queen, and he was a loving, wayward husband. The number of women who entered his circle and were "nice" to him and left it richer by clusters of diamonds appears to be beyond reckoning.

But Miss Cowles gives him credit for being a monarch as well as a gay one, and believes it is not necessarily true that he couldn't reign well by day even while he misbehaved by night. She notes that his role in forming the alliance with France despite his ill-tempered nephew the Kaiser was considerable.

There are fascinating glimpses behind scenes — Victoria on a chair taking down from above one son's bed a picture of Lillie Langtry, the Duchess who fell down the stairs at the coronation and lost her tiara, the American beauties whom Edward made popular even that far back, the future king goading Victoria about her John Brown.

This is an admirable book, full of the drama of history, the pomp of kings, the spice of intrigue, the wit of a monarch's dazzling circle, and the wit of the biographer, too.

Good Times Get Blame For Some Of Nation's Trouble

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Odd thing about today's good times is how they are being blamed for so many of the nation's troubles.

U.S. businessmen are so pleased with the present prosperity and so confident of even better things to come that they are rushing to expand.

Some warn that these plans may prove too big for the nation's economy to support if industries try to crowd all of them in at once.

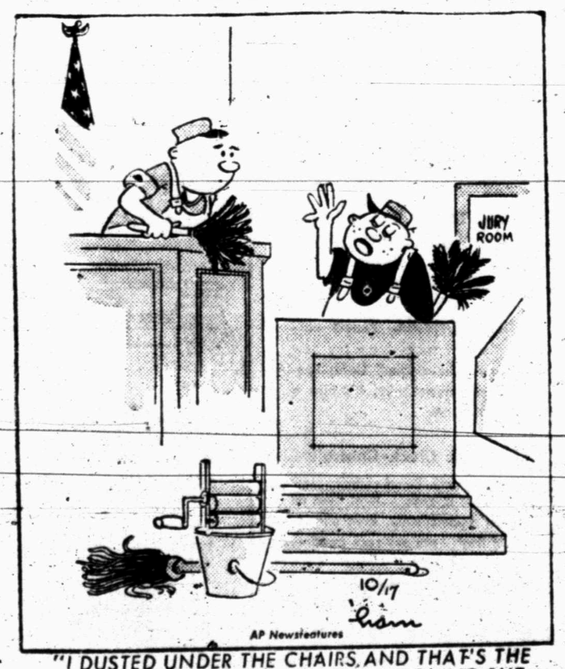

Demand for record financing and for a huge supply of materials for new plants and equipment has strained the capacity of the banks and investors. So financing has been hard to find in some cases and more expensive in all cases.

The good times that encouraged a host of newly prosperous citizens to take on a home of their own, complete with mortgage, have spawned a lot of troubles for cities and suburbs and traffic engineers.

Straining to supply this host of new home owners with water and electricity, with sewers and streets, with schools and hospitals has brought major headaches. And state and local governments trying to find the funds to meet their problems have run smack into the high cost of borrowing.

Americans have felt so prosperous and so sure of their future income that the standard of living has risen markedly — to every one's delight. But some now complain that their present paychecks seem barely to cover the payments on all the good things they enjoy, and to hold out little hope of providing all the other things they now feel they must have.

Stronghold In Eastern Hill Country Give Ike Fighting Chance In Tennessee Again

By ARTHUR EDSON

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Other voters may not know whether they want Dwight D. Eisenhower or Adlai E. Stevenson for President.

But such doubts don't assail R. C. Barret, a onetime sawmill worker in Covington, near Tennessee's western edge.

"I'll vote the Democratic ticket," said Barret, a frisky 79-year-old. "Always have, and always will."

On the other side of the state, and of the political fence, is Mrs. Oscar Shockley, who lives on a farm near Morristown, in eastern Tennessee.

Mrs. Shockey said, of course, she's a Republican. And is her husband too?

"Naturally," Mrs. Shockley said. "I wouldn't have married him if he hadn't been."

These two examples illustrate the rewards, and the problems, that each presidential candidate has in Tennessee.

Eisenhower can count on staunch Republican support in the eastern Tennessee hills where four years ago he rolled up a 95,185-vote margin. This enabled him to overcome Democratic advantages in the rest of the state, and to squeak through a winner, by 2,437 votes. He thereby became only the third Republican presidential candidate in history to carry Tennessee.

Stevenson can count, with some exceptions, on loyal Democratic support in the western two thirds of Tennessee.

Because Democrats normally outnumber Republicans in Tennessee, most neutral observers are saying Eisenhower won't make the grade this time and that Tennessee's 11 electoral votes will go to Stevenson.

Not that the Republicans have given up.

Guy L. Smith, editor of the Knoxville Journal and the Republican campaign manager, says that by getting out a larger vote the GOP margin will be increased. His prediction: Eisenhower by 100,000 votes.

Or take Ray Jenkins, whom many will remember as the Senate committee lawyer in the celebrated hearings involving the Army and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Jenkins, a loyal GOP money raiser, said: "I speak to you with frankness. Up to within 10 days ago, I had written Tennessee off."

But he says Eisenhower's appearance at Lexington, Ky.—"He came out there, with his bouncing stride, so strong and vigorous"—recharged GOP enthusiasm.

Both Smith and Jenkins count on the women, and especially mothers who remember Korea, to put Eisenhower over.

Even so, Democrats believe that with Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee as his vice-presidential candidate, Stevenson shouldn't have too much trouble cutting away that narrow margin Eisenhower had in 1952. Buford Ellington, the Democratic campaign director, predicts: "A landslide victory."

Any impressions of a state as varied as Tennessee are bound to be risky, but nevertheless here are a few that stand out:

That many farmers — especially in western Tennessee where dry weather has multiplied their problems—are unhappy, but no one can say how many are disgruntled enough to switch their votes.

That anyone who doubts Eisenhower's personal popularity needs only to talk with the voters. It's hard to find a Republican who isn't going to support him, and even the Democrats often speak of him kindly.

That the race, at least in Tennessee, seems to boil down to this: Eisenhower vs. the Democratic party. A voter will say, "I'm for Ike," without mentioning the Republicans, or "I'm a Democrat," without mentioning Stevenson. But there are exceptions, such as A. H. Kirkpatrick, who runs a shoe store in Lebanon. He says of Stevenson: "I think he's the smartest man we've ever had up for president. A fine face, intelligent."

Now let's drop in on a few voters and listen to what they are saying.

U.S. Highway 51 heads northeast out of Memphis. Here the land produces cotton, those shacks that seem inevitable wherever cotton is grown, and Democrats.

At Covington, a county seat town of 5,000, J. D. Walk was explaining why the farmer is unhappy. With his brother Hollie, Walk farms 400 acres.

Walk said four years ago he had all his machinery paid for and $8,000, but now that nest egg has shrunk to $2,500. He figures farm prices have dropped at a time when everything else has gone up.

Did Walk know of any farmers who would change their vote?

"Yes," he said. "An old fellow out our way—fine old gentleman—came into the store the other day. Around 20 of us were there. He said he voted for Eisenhower, but now he knew he was wrong and he wanted to apologize, not only to us, but to the whole state of Tennessee."

Tom Anderson, young assistant president of the bank, said:

"You'll find very few outspoken Republicans around here. I don't know of over six or seven in the whole county."

Anderson said, yes, he knew of one Eisenhower supporter of 1952 who won't be in 1956. His name: Tom Anderson. He's changing because of the farm situation.

Now east of Nashville, to Lebanon, so called because cedars flourish here as they did in biblical Lebanon.

John K. Ferrell, who is in the livestock business, was talking with Loyd C. Huddleston. Each was "bred a Democrat." Each feels Eisenhower will lose some farm support.

"What hurts us," Ferrell said, "is that everybody else seems to be doing all right."

Drop down to Murfreesboro, where they raise corn, cattle, cotton and a little tobacco. On the courthouse lawn Kit Vance was saying, "I live off the interest on what I owe." How would he vote? "I'd give both arms before I'd vote Republican."

At a clothing store, Less T. Fite, an insurance man, and John Smythe, a salesman, said they were for Eisenhower. "Did you hear Ike's last speech?" Fite asked. "He's full of vim, vigor and victory."

Now on east to Jefferson City, where they grow cattle, corn and Republicans.

R. R. (Rob) Bell, a retired farmer, has taken an informal poll and is convinced Eisenhower will carry Tennessee again. "He'll get a good vote in the South," Bell said.

But J. L. Caton, a Democrat who edits the weekly papers here, and Tom Gentry, a Republican who publishes them, both figure Eisenhower will get fewer votes in eastern Tennessee this time.

Walter Burkhart came along in his pickup truck. He's a dairyman. He voted for Eisenhower, probably will do so again, and he thinks many another complaining farmer in his area will do the same.

7 Million Sales Would Cure Auto Industry Ills

By INEZ ROBB

DETROIT.—There's nothing the matter with Detroit and the auto industry that the purchase of 6.5 to 7 million cars by the American public during the next year won't cure.

And the auto industry, just unveiling its 1957 models is convinced that it has produced for 1957 such new, improved and bedizened Delilahs that John Q. Public will soon be standing in line to trade in the old jalopy for a new one.

For example, the Chrysler Corporation has come up with something called "torsion air ride" that it believes is the most revolutionary feature in cars since Henry threw away the crank.

This involves something called a "torsion bar" which replaces coil springs in the front of the auto and boils down to a new suspension system. It lessens noise and vibration and, to hear the Chrysler people tell it (and I did), preserves comfort of the ride and provides all the agility and stability of a sports car.

If a driver has to brake suddenly, this torsion jigger keeps the car level. The nose doesn't dip. And, furthermore, the Chrysler disciple said, when torsion takes a curve, passengers don't slide over the seat or into each other.

"You mean that when a feller takes a sharp curve on purpose, his girl won't slide next to him?" I cried.

"Yes, ma'm," the Chrysler expert said.

"Torsion, smorsion," I said, "You call this progress?"

He did, indeed. Then he went on to explain that Chrysler has developed a sensational new color which, it believes, will sweep the automotive field in '57 — black!

The Easter egg or explosion-in-a-paint-factory era is over, in the belief of Chrysler and other segments of the auto industry. The banana-split look is not only giving way to solid color cars for '57, but at least on the Chrysler models the chrome trim is down to a minimum. It will not be necessary for the prospective customer to wear dark glasses in the display room, as in the immediate past.

The result of solid, subdued color schemes and a soupcon of chrome is a sleek, chic car with a lot of moxy, in one woman's opinion.

Of course, all cars are lower in the '57 versions, and none more so than Chrysler. But this new torsion hocus-pocus, the corporation has been able to knock five inches off the height of its cars without reducing their road clearance. Cars just look longer, the company spokesman said, because they are lower, not because there has been actual increase in length.

They also firmly rejected my accusation that cars are getting so low that passengers will have to crawl in and out on their hands and knees. It's all done with mirrors and torsion. But people can still get out and get under in the same old way.

WASHINGTON LETTER

VIPs Add Glamor To Fund Raising Events

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Civic and charity organizations do not lack for VIPs to lead prestige and glamour to their patrons' lists for big fund-raising events in this town. What's more, the bigwigs usually do not just give their names in idle gesture. They show up for the whingdings they sponsor. Some, when they can squeeze in the time between their pressing official obligations, even put in hours of work ahead to make the event a success.

President and Mrs. Eisenhower, Vice President and Mrs. Nixon and Chief Justice and Mrs. Earl Warren head the distinguished list of patrons for the third annual National Symphony Ball to be held here late this month (October). Others include the dean of the diplomatic corps, Norwegian Ambassador Munthe de Morgenstierne and his wife, and Secretary of State and Mrs. John Foster Dulles.

Mrs. Sherman Adams, wife of the presidential assistant, is serving as honorary chairman of Salvation Army fashion show luncheon. The latest "new look" gowns by Paris fashion designer Christian Dior will be shown. Like many other official wives, Mrs. Adams is actively interested in supporting the work of at least a half dozen of the capital's worthy projects. As long as their husbands' jobs keep them here, they feel it is no more than good citizenship to take on some responsibility in behalf of the betterment of the community in which they live, however temporarily.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—In this current week 142 old motion pictures are being shown by seven television stations in the New York metropolitan area. Home viewers can watch movies on one or another channel continuously every day from 9 a.m. until 1:30 a.m.

This is typical of TV programing in every section of the country these days.

The release of large numbers of folks to television is often discussed from the aspect of the film and TV industries. But what, if anything, has been the effect on the viewer?

For some time we've been questioning and listening and listening to numerous viewers on this subject of old films. One's conclusion perhaps sounds obvious, yet it is worthy of emphasis.

People watch and enjoy films, no matter how old, which were good films at the time of their release. Thus, currently in the New York area, you hear expressions of pleasure at seeing Charles Laughton in "The Private Life of Henry VIII," which was released in 1933, and Lloyd Nolan in "The House on 92nd Street," released in 1945.

On the other hand, no one seems to have sat with such turkeys as Slim Summerville in "I'm from Arkansas" and all the bad ones which inevitably are found in a group of 142 films — or 142 of anything else.

Well, Hollywood and English studios say that the only practicable method of releasing old films to television is by locks or packages. TV stations have to purchase in that form or not at all— and many have decided that showing old films is the only practicable method of filling all the programing hours in a week and obtaining essential advertising revenues.

It is, in short, good and practicable business. But good business can be a far cry from good entertainment. It is a strange situation indeed where a regular TV program of old films can include some of the best and the absolutely worst in the way of home screen entertainment.

Who's going to do anything about it? Not the film studios, because they have a profitable deal whereby their worst products command the same prices as their best. Not the TV stations because with rare exceptions, they are unable to buy selectively picture by picture, but must settle for packages.

Obviously when the business offices either do not know or do not care about is the fact that the public already is doing something about it. For the public is not captive, it is a great variety of selective human beings. One thing business offices should remember: each human being comes equipped with eyes and ears and a wrist ready to turn a dial on a TV set.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

FOOTBALL INTEREST IN the city of Dumas apparently is running pretty high.

A special train is expected to bring several hundred Dumas fans to Snyder for Friday night's Tiger-Dumas game.

At this writing it wasn't known whether Dumas officials had enough train passengers to guarantee the special but they expected the quota would be easily reached.

The Dumas band will definitely be on hand whether the special train runs or not.

In all likelihood there'll be at least 500 Dumas fans on hand here Friday, perhaps more.

That would top the backing Breckenridge received from its home folk here last week and Breck is about twice as close to Snyder than Dumas is to Snyder.

But then there's that matter of a winning team and losing team. Breck has been losing right along this season while the Demons have won four of five starts.

The Snyder Quarterback Club is forming a welcoming committee to meet the Dumas special if it runs.

Dumas Averaging 4 TD's Per Game

The Tiger defense, which has done extremely well this season, will certainly be put to a stern test against Dumas Friday night.

The Bengals possibly haven't met a team with a high-geared offense as Dumas possesses. The Demons have averaged four touchdowns per game in five games thus far this season, scoring 127 points in the 5 games for an average of 25.5 points per game.

In halfback Jim Tiner, the Demons have one of the fastest backs in the state. Tiner is the top scorer in the South Plains and Panhandle area.

Tiner scored three times against Seymour last week and threw a pass for another. One of his TD's last week was on a punt return.

Tiner scored two of the three Dumas touchdowns against Canyon the week preyous of which Dumas won by 19-12.

In the two games that Jim Stehley and V. V. Shearburn, Tiger scouts, watched the Demons in action, Tiner gained 224 yards in 33 carries for a 6.8 average.

Tiger B To Meet Midland Here

The Tiger B. team, which originally had an open date this week, will see action Saturday night, after all.

Tiger B. will meet Midland B here Saturday night, starting at 7:30.

Both the Tiger B and Midland B teams had Saturday night games cancelled due to schools dropping their B team programs.

Midland B was slated to meet Lubbock Tom S. B and Tiger B was pitted against Colorado City B but both schools were forced to drop their B programs because of shortage of players.

Tiger B and Midland B battled to a 14-14 draw earlier in the season at Midland. The tie is the only blemish on an otherwise perfect slate for Tiger B.

Two of the Tiger B teamers have been moved up to the varsity since the start of the season. Halfback James Vincent was moved up about three weeks ago to replace the injured Gary Vice.

Then end Tony Anger was brought up this week to replace Arnold Dorman who moved away.

Swaps Not In 'Immediate Danger'

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — The great Swaps, a little uncomfortable from a leg fracture that's keeping him in a sling and standing only on his three other valuable legs, is "not in any immediate danger," says trainer Meshack Tenney.

In fact, Tenney, said, Swaps "is 50 per cent better than Sunday when he reinjured himself."

Tenney's statement, while indicating there was still concern for the condition of the 4-year-old California colt, put to rest for the time being fears that Swaps might be destroyed.

These fears arose last night when a spokesman for Garden State Park, where Swaps is stabled, said veterinarians were working feverishly to save the colt. The spokesman said Swaps, winner of the 1955 Kentucky Derby didn't appear to have much of a chance.

He said complications arising from the leg fracture, suffered in a workout at Garden State Oct. 9, led to the summoning of four top veterinarians. The track spokesman did not say what these complications were.

Swaps suffered the fracture while taking a six-furlong workout. He reinjured the leg while trying to get up in his stall Sunday, breaking the cast on the leg.

Yesterday, a new and stronger cast was put on. The concentration of veterinarians, including one from an insurance company that reportedly holds a million-dollar policy on Swaps, gave rise to rumors that were capped by the track spokesman's statement.

Denson, Hill 1-2 In Tackle Race

Tackle Wiley Denson continues to set the pace in Tiger defensive figures through last week's Breckenridge game.

Denson made nine unassisted tackles and assisted on three others to bring his totals for the season to 44 and 20 for an overall 64.

Guard-linebacker Gary Hill climbed into second place, only two back of Denson, at 62. Hill has 40 tackles and 22 assists.

Two others are above the 50 mark. Tackle Billy Mark Phillips has 36 and 20 for 56 and end Milton Ham 37 and 17 for 54.

McDonald Is Back Of Week

By The Associated Press

Tommy McDonald, Oklahoma's nimble split-T halfback who specializes in the option play, has taken a long step toward repeating as a member of the All America team.

The 170-pound speedster from Albuquerque, N.M., was chosen Back of the Week in the first such 1956 poll of sports writers and broadcasters conducted by The Associated Press.

McDonald was the principal instrument in the 45-0 rout of Texas last Saturday at Dallas. He scored three touchdowns, tieing with a teammate Clendon Thomas in the point-making department.

He scored one touchdown on a 44-yard run and a second on a 53-yard pass play, on which he caught a 35-yard heave and ran an additional 18 yards. The third score was made from four yards out on a plunge.

In all, McDonald gained 160 of his team's 369 yards on the ground. In addition, he caught two passes for 61 yards, returned a kickoff 54 yards and passed 27 yards once to set up a fourth touchdown. He had a 47-yard run canceled by a penalty.

McDonald had to beat out a collection of top-flight backs, including Jim Brown of Syracuse, Ken Wineburg of Texas Christian and John Call of Colgate.

Tighe Named Tiger Pilot

DETROIT (AP)—First base coach Jack Tighe today signed a one-year contract to manage the Detroit Tigers baseball team.

Tighe, a 43-year-old balding veteran of nearly 20 years in the Detroit organization, has worked with the fifth-place American League club for the past two seasons. He also has coached pitching.

He succeeds Stanley R. (Bucky) Harris, who resigned under fire last month and shortly afterward took a job as assistant to the general manager of the Boston Red Sox.

Tighe, who spent 12 years managing minor league clubs, never has piloted a major league club. He returned to Detroit in 1954 as a minor league scout and field director at Detroit's minor league tryout camp, Tigertown, in Lakeland, Fla.

Dallas Firm Honors Mustang Cager Krebs

DALLAS (AP)—All-conference basketball player Jim Krebs has been awarded the W. W. Crook Jr. Endowed Schoarship of SMU.

The 6-foot-8 center who holds the single game scoring record of the Southwest Conference—50 points—has been active in non-athletic organizations as well as sports.

Donor of the scholarship is an advertising executive of Dallas.

Fluvanna 5s Break Even

Fluvanna and Girard broke even in basketball games last night at Fluvanna.

Fluvanna won the boys game, 47-42, while Girard captured the girls contest, 47-26.

It was the 1956-57 season openers for the Fluvanna teams.

K. Holder and G. Smith shared scoring honors for the Fluvanna boys with 13 points apiece. R. Wyatt of Girard also scored 13 points.

Fluvanna boys led 34-20 at halftime but dropped behind, 36-34, at the three-quarter mark before battling back in the final quarter for the victory.

Z. Phillips led the Girard girls to victory with 27 points. J. Martin was high for Fluvanna with 14.

Girard led quarterly by 11-7, 27-15 and 38-18.

North Zone Dove Season Ends Tonight

AUSTIN (AP)—The Game and Fish Commission said today reports indicate ample supplies of both native and migrating doves for the South Zone Mourning Dove shoot which began last week.

The North Zone shoot ends at sunset tonight, reminded Howard Dodgen, executive secretary.

Dodgen said week rains scattered the birds and hurt tank shooting but the rains will improve conditions for the opening of the waterfowl season Nov. 2.

Sooners, TCU Rank 1-2 In Total Offense

NEW YORK (AP) — Official statistics released today served only to confirm what Oklahoma's opponents have known all along — when you meet the Sooners on the football field, you can expect to be run, scored on, and beaten to death.

After three games, the defending national collegiate champions are leading all major teams in scoring, total offense and rushing. Only in the passing department, a minor issue in the Oklahoma attack formula, do the Sooners lag behind.

Oklahoma, unscored upon in rolling to romping shutouts of North Carolina, Kansas State and Texas, is averaging 49 points and 477 yards a game, 406.3 by rushing alone, figures from the National Collegiate Athletic Bureau disclose.

Closest are Texas Christian with 443.7 yards total offense average, Ohio State with a 333.3 rushing average and Tennessee, which has scored at a 39.7 rate.

In passing, it's Washington State by a shade over another Pacific Coast Conference member, Stanford. State has gone overhead for 237.8 yards a game and Stanford at a 234.5 rate. Rice, which hit on 22 out of 32 passes against Florida last week, is the accuracy leader. The Owls have completed 38 of 59 attempts for a .644 percentage.

Mickey Wins Slugging Title

NEW YORK (AP)—Mickey Mantle won the American League slugging championship in 1956 with the highest average in 15 years. The New York Yankees' star center fielder piled up 376 total bases in 533 times at bat for a .705 mark.

Figures compiled by The Associated Press today also revealed Duke Snider of the Brooklyn Dodgers was the National League's pacesetter. He edged Milwaukee's Joe Adcock—.598 to .597.

The titles were the second for both Mantle and Snider.

Mantle, who also led the junior circuit in batting, runs batted in and home runs, numbered 79 extra-base hits among his 188 safeties last season. In addition to his 52 four-baggers, the 24-year-old switch-hitter had 22 doubles and 5 triples.

Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, runner-up to Mantle with a .603 average, was the last player to have a better than .705 slugging mark. He finished with .735 in 1941.

Yogi Berra of the Yankees and Charley Maxwell of Detroit wound up in a third-place deadlock the past season. Both showed .534 marks.

Snider, the National League's leader in home runs with 43, also cracked 33 doubles and a pair of three-baggers among 158 hits for 324 total bases.

Hank Aaron of the Braves, the NL's batting champ, tied Cincinnati's Frank Robinson for third place. Each slugged .558.

SMU, TEXAS ALSO PICKED

Claássen Picks Ags Over TCU

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Eight of 11 selections involving Southern college football teams were wrong last week. In all, there were 30 correct guesses and 13 wrong ones for an average of .698. That makes the season's total 134 right and 39 wrong for .787.

Here are this week's winners — after a menu well spiced with hominy grits and corn pone:

Oklahoma over Kansas: The Sooners' No. 1 position is being threatened. That will be Kansas' woe Saturday.

Michigan State over Notre Dame: Notre Dame's sophomores to get a liberal education watching Michigan State halfbacks Clarence Peaks and Walt Kowalczyk operate.

Georgia Tech over Auburn: The way Auburn handled Kentucky last week was a surprise. This time the Plainsmen will get the surprise.

Mississippi over Tulane: A neighborhood argument that likely will be decided by Paige Cothren's efforts in the Rebel backfield.

Michigan over Northwestern: It simply isn't in the cards for the Wildcats to claw their way to victory in this one.

Southern California over Washington: The Trojans have had a lot of trouble during the past year, including a 7-0 setback by Washington in 1955. USC gets revenge this time.

Ohio State over Penn State: Day by day, in every way, the Buckeyes get better and better.

Iowa over Hawaii: Victory No. 4 for the Iowans.

Syracuse over Army: The Cadets will be grateful that there are not 11 Jim Browns.

Skipping over the others in a hurry:

FRIDAY NIGHT

George Washington over Virginia Military, Denver over Colorado College.

SATURDAY

EAST: Villanova over Boston University, Harvard over Columbia, Dartmouth over Holy Cross, Navy over Cincinnati, Brown over Penn, Virginia over Lehigh, Colgate over Princeton, Boston College over Rutgers, Yale over Cornell.

Paper Says Dallas Skipper To Millers

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—The Dallas News said today it had learned that John "Red" Davis, manager of the Dallas Eagles in the Texas League, has been named manager of the Minneapolis Millers of the American Assn.

The News said the official announcement is expected within the next few days.

Norton High On Sooners

HOUSTON (AP)—The coach of the 1939 national collegiate football champions says Oklahoma's 1956 team is so great the Sooners should match their first and fourth teams against their second and third squads in a bowl game.

Homer Norton, former coach at Texas A&M, said in a column syndicated by the Houston Post that Oklahoma deserves every adjective in the football vocabulary.

"I saw Oklahoma at this time a year ago when they also were rated No. 1 in the nation," he said. "It is a better team now than at any time in 1955."

Norton said the Sooners' multiple offense is putting the pressure on the defense.

"Not only do the Sooners block and tackle expertly, but they are several years ahead of their opponets in offensive thinking," he said. "For the first time Saturday against Texas the multiple offense was brought into the Southwest Conference."

He added that defensive strategy of opposing teams led to adoption of the multiple offense instead of continuation with the split-T.

"Since practically all teams employed the split-T or regular-T the past several years, defense soon adjusted to it and became stock," he said. "Teams merely prepared for the T and allowed more time to concentrate on offense. That isn't true of multiple offense, as demohstrated by Oklahoma Saturday. Oklahoma has now put the pressure back on the defense. Hours must now be spent setting a defense of several possibilities, even though the Sooners may have but two or three plays from each formation."

Norton said Texas was forced to defend against the split-T with a balanced line, the single wing with unbalanced line, the split-T unbalanced and a completely new formation developed by Bud Wilkinson, Sooner head coach.

Plane Ditching Job Is Praised

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—"With the help of God, we knew we were going to get through all right," Mrs. Jane Gordon of Silver Spring, Md., said last night on a radio broadcast from the Coast Guard cutter Pontchartrain to San Francisco.

Mrs. Gordon was one of the 31 persons — 24 passengers and 7 crewmen — on the Pan American Stratocruiser, Sovereign of the Skies, which ditched in mid-Pacific yesterday.

She said everyone was "very nervous, inwardly" at the beginning of the five hours the crippled airliner circled over the ocean waiting for dawn to ditch beside the cutter.

Capt. Richard Ogg, the pilot, said:

"We had a certain job to do, and it had to be done just right, or else . . ." Ogg spoke on a ship-to-shore broadcast set up by the Coast Guard.

Cmdr. William K. Earle, captain of the Pontchartrain, expressed the "greatest pride" in the rescue. Every one of the 31 persons on the plane was put aboard the cutter within 21 minutes after the ditching 1,045 miles from San Francisco.

Earle particularly praised Machinists Mate 2.C. Ronald Christian from Los Angeles. After the plane's personnel had been picked up from the life rafts, Christian entered the sinking ship to be sure that no one had been left behind.

The ditching operation took place on a carpet of fire extinguisher foam laid down by the cutter. The foam helped smooth the sea, gave the pilot a better sighting strip on which to land and reduced fire hazard. As an additional precaution, flight engineer Frank Garcia flooded the two inboard wing compartments, housing the engines still operating, with extinguisher foam just at the moment of landing.

The plane's two outboard engines had failed just after the Stratocruiser passed over the Pontchartrain, on duty at Station November as a weather observation ship, and just past "the point of no return" on the 2,400-mile flight from Honolulu to San Francisco.

"We had mechanical difficulties," Ogg explained, "and lost altitude down to where we had low air speed and high fuel consumption. There were no alternatives. We had to ditch."

Both Ogg and Earle praised the conduct of the passengers. Ogg reported there was "no panic." The entire operation of abandoning the plane took only five minutes.

"We have the situation well in hand, the Coast Guard is ready and the ocean is smooth," Ogg reassured his passengers before ditching.

The smoothness of the operation and the lack of panic was credited by the passengers to Ogg's assurance and the smooth functioning of his crew.

"At no time was there any alarm," said Mrs. Louis Walker of Oakland, Calif. "We were all told what to do and all of us were ready to perform."

Stewardess Patricia Daniels of San Francisco said "we had an excellent list of passengers." They spent most of the five hours questioning her and other crew members.

MAYBE TIPS WERE GOOD—John Van Huda, coatless 52-year-old taxi driver, keeps a wary eye on West Babylon, N. Y., officials as they start counting an estimated $50,000 in cash found scattered through Van Huda's junk-packed house. Police discovered the hoard when summoned to the ramshackle home of Van Huda and his recluse sister, who said two bandits had held them up and hauled away $12,000 in bills. How the Van Hudas came by the money remains a mystery.

More Egyptian Talks Planned

CAIRO (AP) — President Nasser's chief political aide said today exploratory discussions with Britain and France about a Suez settlement may begin next week, probably in Geneva.

Wing Cmdr. Ali Sabry, arriving home from last week's U.N. Security Council debate on the Suez issue, told Egyptian newsmen the negotiations would be based on the six-point formula approved by the Security Council.

Sabry insisted that "Egypt will not accept international control" of the canal that Egyptian President Nasser took over July 26.

British Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Mollet, in a joint statement last night, asked Egypt again to put forth a plan for operation of the canal which would guarantee its free international use as effectively as the international control demanded by Britain and France.

Until Egypt proposes such an alternative, Eden and Mollet said, their governments will stick to their demand for internationalization.

There was no immediate official reaction in Cairo to the Eden-Mollet statement.

Eden and British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd flew to the French capital unexpectedly yesterday for an evening of urgent consultations on the Suez dispute. Lloyd had just returned from the U.N. Security Council meeting in New York at which Russia vetoed the British-French request for council endorsement of their international control plan.

The six principles cited by Sabry, which the council agreed any Suez settlement must conform to, include unimpaired passage through the canal for ships of all nations, and respect for Egypt's sovereignty.

Charges In Bank Probe

FORT WORTH (AP)—Investigators said yesterday criminal charges were expected this week against three persons and possibly five in connection with the shortage of the now-defunct River Oaks State Bank.

The bank failed to open for business Monday and estimates of the shortage range from $300,000 to $700,000.

Investigators were reported looking into the activities of the late Robert Keller, Fort Worth attorney with varied financial interests, who was killed in a plane crash last August near Port Mansfield in South Texas.

Nine reportedly counterfeit $100 bills were found at the scene of the crash. There was no comment as to a connection with the bank.

Professor Says Kids Enjoy Mathematics

DENVER (AP) — Who says kids don't like math?

"If they had a choice they'd keep arithmetic and throw out sports," says Dr. Richard Madden a professor of education at San Diego (Calif.) State College. He's in Denver as special consultant to public schools.

"That old saw about school kids and math is all wrong. But, mathematics is a language. And teachers can't learn to talk it by going to college and studying calculus. They get it by working with kids.

"No, boys and girls like math. The problem is to get teachers to like it, too."

Water Plan Is Boosted By Engineer

TEMPLE (AP) — U.S. Engineer Harry Burleigh says he thinks sale of impounded surface water will both solve and finance the water problems in most of Texas.

Burleigh, of Austin, area engineer for the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, advanced the idea in reply to a series of questions asked by Temple Telegram Editor Frank Mayborn.

"There is plenty of water for all foreseeable future needs of the eastern, central and west-central parts of the state. There are plenty of reservoir sites, and plenty of reservoirs can be financed," Burleigh said.

He said this would not hold true for all of the western areas, where he said the topography offers relatively few watershed-reservoir areas.

Burleigh said the solution lies in the concept of impounding water for the planned purpose of selling it to those who need and want to buy it.

"This concept of impounding water for the specific purpose of selling it does not interfere with flood control, power generation, recreation or any other reservoir functions or purposes, though it may involve some reshuffling of the primary functions of one or more reservoirs within a watershed group," he said.

Earlier this week, Burleigh discused the views with directors of the Brazos River Authority at a meeting at Mineral Wells. They directed their engineers to undertake a study of the possibilities within the Brazos watershed.

The BRA has been hunting for a practical method of financing a chain of six new dams it wants to build on the Brazos between Whitney and Possum Kingdom Dams.

Florida Area Is Flooded

By The Associated Press

An Atlantic coastal storm which drenched southeast sections of the country, caused flooding in several Florida areas and forced evacuation of homes by some 200 persons, headed northward today.

Heaviest 24-hour rainfall was nearly 7 inches reported at Jacksonville, Fla.

Floodwaters at Kissimmee, Fla., forced some 100 residents of the Dellwood Park subdivision to evacuate their homes. Also forced from their homes by floodwaters were about 100 Negroes. Damage was estimated by Sheriff Robert M. Buckels at two million dollars.

For the third straight day, rain pelted drought areas in Texas, with rainfall amounts measuring more than 5 inches in McCoy, in the southern part of the state.

Light rain fell in the Pacific Northwest but fair weather, with mild temperatures, prevailed in most other sections of the country.

Frilly Thefts More Common

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Women's nightgowns, slips, panties and hose are more frequently stolen than any other items in a store, a private detective reports.

The odds are almost 5 to 1 that the thief is working in the shop, says Bill Keith, head of a Miami detective agency. He told a convention of the Council of International Investigators that "lingerie accounts for 41.5 per cent of all thefts."

Keith said men's furnishings, especially hose, ties, handkerchiefs and shorts, are next most popular with shoplifters and thieves. Then come cosmetics, notions, candy and ladies ready to wear. He said some 76 per cent of such thefts are committed by shop employes.

Warehouse Of Nylon Fabric Is Displayed

DALLAS (AP)— A pneumatically supported warehouse made of vinyl-sealed nylon fabric was shown yesterday at a convention of the National Canvas Goods Manufacturing Assn.

The building is entirely supported by air and secured by water. Addison Brown told the group the warehouse, developed by United States Rubber Co., will hold two million pounds of package goods.

Brown, president of the Calumet Industrial Co., and Harvey Richmond, director of Fiberthin Sales Division of U.S. Rubber, announced plans to manufacture and distribute the building nationally.

They said it weighs about 400 pounds, costs $2,000 and can be erected by three men in one hour. It is 80 feet long, 40 feet wide and 20 feet high. They said it contains more than 64,000 cubic feet of storage space.

It is made of a thin nylon fabric called Fiberthin produced in the U.S. Rubber Co. plant at Mishawaka, Ind.

The dome-shaped building is supported by air at low pressure. No rigid metal or wooden supports are used. It is anchored to the ground by a Fiberthin tube 15 inches in diameter extending around the base and containing 23,000 pounds of water.

It folds into a compact package which can be carried in the back of a station wagon.

Rocket Test Is Delayed

FORT CHURCHILL, Man. (AP) — Radio interference from taxicabs in North Carolina, an air base in Florida and missile proving grounds in New Mexico have delayed U.S. Army attempts to test-fire a high-altitude rocket here in the subarctic.

The test by the U.S. Ordnance Corps had been set for noon today. But the Signal Corps team found itself listening to taxicab messages from Ft. Bragg, N.C., Air Force signals from Florida and progress reports from the White Sands, N.M., rocket-proving grounds.

The rocket, a 26-foot Aerobee, is packed with delicate instruments to measure wind, temperature and density. The data will be relayed by radio to scientists on the ground.

Plays By Bernard Shaw Are Withheld

CHICAGO (AP) — Shavian enthusiasts today said the late George Bernard Shaw has become a victim of "commercial censorship" and that amateur rights to his play, "Pygmalion" have "disappeared somewhere behind the Iron Curtain of a Broadway musical, 'My Fair Lady.'"

The Chicago Shaw Society said that as a result of the senationally successful Broadway show—a musical version of Shaw's play—no amateur or stock group in America is allowed to stage "Pygmalion." It also said that the movie version of "Pygmalion" has been withdrawn from public exhibition.

Elmer Gertz, attorney and president of the Chicago group, and Mrs. Lois E. Solomon, a suburban Glencoe housewife instrumental in formation of the society, said withdrawal of amateur producing rights to Pygmalion violates Shaw's will.

In New York, a spokesman for "My Fair Lady" producer Herman Levin said Leven had permission of Shaw's estate to produce the musical, as well as stage and screen rights to the musical until 1970.

He said the only restriction he knows of is against showing the movie "Pygmalion," which is part of the agreement with the Shaw estate.

The spokesman said that as far as was known there are no restrictions of nonmusical presentations of "Pygmalion."

But Gertz and Mrs. Solomon said the Chicago society had received complaints and inquiries from university theaters, high school drama groups and amateur producing companies concerning failure to obtain "Pygmalion" for production.

William D. Chase of Flint, Mich. secretary of the Shaw Society of America, said in a statement that the situation makes the late Irish playwright the "victim of a new type of censorship."

Controversy On Families Is Set Off

TOKYO (AP)—The commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps said today he expects 250 Marines who brought their families to Japan to send them home, but he admitted he can't order them to.

The Marine commander, Gen. Randolph Pate, arrived with his wife on a tour of the Far East in the midst of a boiling controversy over the wives and children.

Marine Corps policy bars dependents overseas. But about 500 dependents of 250 members of the 1st Marine Air Wing came here on Japanese tourist visas. The husbands paid for their transportation.

Some of the Marine wives say their husbands have been threatened with "continuous transfers" or bad fitness reports unless they sent the families home.

"Neither I nor any other military man has the authority to order dependents to return to the United States," Pate said. "I have the right, however . . . to expect that Marines . . . will loyally do their utmost to carry out my announced policy in this regard. . .

"In a time of crisis which might come quickly in the Far East . . . our men would have no time to care for their families."

Pate refused to discuss what might happen if the men didn't send their families home, saying any disciplinary action is up to the local commanding officers.

The Railroad Commission sets the November permissive flow Friday.

Town Plans Hound Statue

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP)—This town plans a statue to "Old Drum," the hound who inspired a famous speech in 1870 by Sen. George Graham Vest of Missouri. The Chamber of Commerce has started a campaign to raise $2,500 fot it.

Vest's famous tribue to dogs was delivered in a damage suit in which he represented a man whose dog had been shot by a neighbor in Warrensburg. The jury deliberated two minutes and awarded Vest's client $500.

A bronze plaque will carry Vest's declaration that:

"A dog is the one absolutely unselfish friend that a man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him and the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous."

Woman Held In Slaying Of 2 Youths

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Mrs. Mary Ann Gamache, 34 was held in jail today and Sedgwick County Att. Warner Moore said she acknowledged stabbing two of her three little boys to death.

Moore said Mrs. Gamache had written a note lamenting she had not been a good wife or mother. She had a nervous breakdown recently.

The slain boys were Jack, 8, and Kenneth, 3.

Moore said Mrs. Gamache told him she had not harmed Danny, 7, because he was a good boy.

The double slaying was not discovered until the distraught woman was picked up yesterday by an officer who found her wandering on railroad tracks about 40 miles from Wichita, near Peabody. A farmer had reported her strange actions. Officers quoted her as saying she planned to throw herself under a train.

The unsuspecting husband and father, Joseph C. Gamache, 36, arrived home from his job as a Wichita Eagle printer at the same time police got there. He found Jack's body in the bathroom, Kenneth's in a bedroom. Both had been stabbed again and again by a large hunting knife.

Entertainers Will Help In Demo Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Democrats said today a number of top entertainers, along with their national candidates and others, will take part in a television program beamed to a series of fund-raising dinners Saturday night.

The National Committee announced 29 of the dinners will be held in all sections of the country, with various sized campaign contributions required for attendane. In Washington, the amount is $100.

National Party Chairman Paul M. Butler will open the closed circuit TV program, speaking from Chicago.

Others who will speak include Adlai Stevenson and Sen. Eestes Kefauver, the party's presidential and vice presidential nominees speaking from Chicago and Los Angeles, respectively former President Harry S. Truman, from Washington; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, from New York City; and Sen. John F. Kennedy (Mass) from Indianapolis.

Orson Welles will be master of ceremonies for the entertainment program. The cast will include Harry Belafonte, Leonard Bernstein, Marlon Brando, Bette Davis, Paul Douglas, Henry Fonda, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Gary Merrill, Mitch Miller, Nancy Olson, Robert Preston, Robert Rayn, Yul Brynner, Lauren Bacall, Franchot Tone, Ann Miller and Faye Emerson.

Actors Get Wet Turnout

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—A group of movie actors pushing for Eisenhower-Nixon got a damp reception last night as about 500—including many children—turned out in the rain.

George Murphy, leader of the "Bandwagon Revue" or "Hollywood Flying Squadron for Eisenhower and Nixon," urged the crowd to "make up in enthusiasm what we lack in numbers."

The Bexar County GOP brass also put up a hastily lettered sign reading:

"Don't complain if Ike brings rain."

Jeanette MacDonald said she was "a little disappointed" at the small crowd, but added "I think the rain is much more important than us."

She sang the Indian Love Call. With the group were actors Gene Raymond, Ward Bond and Irene Dunne.

The actors left for Fort Worth and Dallas.

Panama City was founded by Spanish conquistadors in 1519. Panama is an Indian word for "many fishes."

SITTING ON TOP OF THE WORLD—Petra Schurmann, 23-year-old Miss Germany, has a big smile and a wave after being named Miss World in London. Cheek to cheek with her is Betty Lane Cherry, right, Miss United States, 20-year-old Orangeburg, S. C., beauty, who was second in the international beauty competition. At left is Rina Weiss, Miss Israel, who was third.

Pittsburgh Is Hit By Ammonia Fumes

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Hundreds of people were routed from their beds by police and firemen today as waves of nauseous, irritating ammonia fumes spread over several blocks two miles from the center of the business section.

The sickening fumes came from a leaking 15,000-gallon tank at the 2nd Avenue plant of Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp.

Police and firemen wearing gas masks went from house to house warning residents not to go to sleep and to be ready for evacuation. There was no panic and no one suffered serious effects.

More than 100 police and firemen were called to the scene. The Soho district was the most seriously affected. But the fumes spread to several other sections before two Jones and Laughlin employes — wearing gas masks and rubberized clothing—shut off two main valves on the tank.

Police banned all traffic on several streets surrounding the area.

Firemen played streams of water on the escaping ammonia in an effort to neutralize it. It poured over the scene like a white fog.

"It was pretty rough for awhile," said Battalion Chief John McKeown. "We couldn't get within two blocks of that stuff without a mask."

Enrollment Record Set By Schools

AUSTIN (AP)—State-supported colleges and universities this year set a record high enrollment total of 76,954, up 5,651 from last year, the Texas Higher Education Commission said yesterday.

Ten of the 18 institutions had the largest enrollment ever as of compilations Monday, but four were down from last year.

Arlington State—the fastest growing state college in Texas—had a 30 per cent increase from last year to 4,083 students. It had 3,121 last year and 787 in 1945, the commission said.

Sul Ross was down 88 from last year to 779, while Texas Western's enrollment decreased 68 to 3,839. Both state Negro colleges were down. Prairie View A&M had 2,579 as compared to 2,743, and Texas Southern 2,927 as compared to 2,985 last year.

Besides Arlington, institutions with record high enrollments were (last year's enrollment in parentheses): University of Texas 18,156 (17,521; Lamar Tech 5,302 (4,554); North Texas 6,177 (5,509); Sam Houston 2,822 (2,393); Southwest Texas 2,258 (2,118); Stephen F. Austin 1,757 (1,696); Texas A&I 2,669 (2,440); Texas Tech 3,055 (7,156); West Texas 2,968 (2,588).

Other enrollment figures: Texas A&M 7,200 (6,834); East Texas 2,200 (2,187); Tarleton 959 (778); Texas College for Women 2,224 (2,002).

17 New Puppies

WEST POINT, Miss. (AP)—Kate, a 3-year-old hound, astonished owner J. A. Phelps by producing a litter of 17 pups last Nov. 17. She astonished him again with a litter of 13 Oct. 13. Normal litters average 7 or 8. "Thank goodness it wasn't the 30th of the month," Phelps' wife said.

BEHIND GROCERY COUNTER

Candidate Talks Money

EDMONDS, Wash. (AP) — While President Eisenhower drew the fanfare in these parts today, one of his rivals for the presidency kept right on talking from behind a grocery counter about money—lots of it.

Frederick C. Proehl was behind the rural crossroads counter, about 20 miles north of President Eisenhower's hotel suite in Seattle, because it's where he makes his living. He gets out from behind it often enough to make a few speeches for the Greenback party, because "that's been my hobby for 30 years, but I'm really not doing much campaigning outside the neighborhood."

Like Eisenhower and Adlai Stevension, the 76-year-old country merchant is making his second race for the presidency. Unlike them, he doesn't know how many votes he got last time. He won't predict how many he might get in November "I'm doing it for the principle."

Any votes for him will have to be written in. The Greenback party is not on the ballot. Proehl (pronounced Prayle) was nominated by referendum last December. His running mate is Edward Kirby Meador, who has a printing firm in Boston.

Conventions would have been required to put the Greenbackers on the ballots in the various states and, says Proehl, "we can't afford 'em."

The Greenbackers platform, in brief, the presidential candidate explains, is for the government to issue currency freely to meet its operating costs and to finance such projects as power dams.

"Congress abdicated its power to coin money, as provided in the Constitution," he declares. "The bankers do it and charge us interest on the money we, the people, have given them for nothing. It's unbelievable." He contends the natioff is "under a financial dictatorship of the bankers."

The government should issue money, instead of interest-bearing bonds, he says, to meet its costs, and then the government could store it away or burn it if too much of it got in circulation.

Thornberry Hits Porter, Republicans

AUSTIN (AP)—Rep. Thornberry of Austin today said "Texas Democrats cannot do business with the Republican Party."

The 10th District congressman, in the second radio broadcast of the Texas Democratic campaign series, said "The final 'yes' or 'no' on every Texas question would rest with Mr. H. J. Porter, a man who does not and has never occupied any public office or position of public trust in our state."

He said Porter, GOP National Committeeman from Texas, was the only Texan with whom the Republicans would do business.

"Texas men and women who have made the long journey to Washington during the past four years to take up matters affecting their cities or counties or sections have found themselves ignored, neglected, humiliated in every turn," he said.

"Mr. Porter, not Mr. Eisenhower, will hold the Republican power over Texas, if the Republican Party is in control. Let me respectfully suggest that the question is not whether you like Ike—it is what do you think of Jack?"

He said most of the people in Texas have never seen Porter or know anything about him, but that a vote for the Republican Party would be turning Texas over to him.

He blamed Porter for Texas not getting some federal jobs and installations.

Atomic-Powered Ship Plans Will Be Made

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has authorized the drafting of plans for this country's first atomic-powered surface ship, a 14,000-ton guided missile cruiser.

It sent the Bethlehem Steel Co. a preliminary contract yesterday authorizing the firm to take the first steps leading to construction of the 700-foot craft at Bethlehem's yards in Quincy, Mass.

The Navy has said it expects the vessel to cost about 87½ million dollars, including its nuclear power plant. The Westinghouse Electric Corp. has been awarded a contract to build the ship's reator for $18,335,000.

Rain Slices Fair Crowd

DALLAS (AP) — Rain kept the crowd down a little yesterday, but State Fair of Texas attendance was still slightly ahead of last year.

A total of 89,945 people toured the grounds yesterday to bring the total this year to 1,994,432. The same day last year 109,765 attended for a total of 1,979,271 to that date.

It was East Texas Day and an observance planned in the Cotton Bowl was moved inside to the Livestock Pavilion. The fireworks show was postponed, but 45 East Texas beauty queens lighted up the pavilion.

Directors of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce voted to continue support of legislative action establishing home-rule planning by counties.

Bert Crowder of Athens was a new director from Dist. 3 and Matt Ward of Gilmer from Dist. 2.

North Will Open Circus

NEW YORK (AP) — The tentless Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus plans to open its 1957 season under a roof in Madison Square Garden April 3.

An announcement yesterday from circus chief John Ringling North also disclosed that he has rehired Arthur M. Concello to serve as executive director for the coming season. Concello, fired as general manager several years ago, "will arrange for a minimum of 25 weeks playing time in indoor locations," North said.

The circus folded last summer in the middle of the season and went back to its winter quarters in Florida. North said the show would no longer appear under a canvas "big top."
