Prohibition Advocates To Get Floor This Week In Committee Hearings

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Talker was a little premature in telling about work being in progress on new building at the Wichita Falls State hospital the other day. Work has not yet started on these buildings, but appropriations have been made and the contracts are to be awarded this month.

But Talker's mistake gives the opportunity to say that there is more than half a million dollars in new construction in sight in Wichita Falls in the near future. The Wichita Mill & Elevator company has awarded a $300,000 contract on which work is to start at once, the Elks have let the contract for a $30,000 building, the Wichita Falls Independent School district is soon to let contracts for additions to school buildings costing $100,000 and these with the new buildings at the state hospital will bring the construction work well above the half million mark. Perhaps by the time this work gets under way there will be more building.

This will be more building than has been under way in Wichita Falls in many months and will give employment to several hundred laborers and artisans.

Another life has been taken in an automobile accident in Wichita county. According to the National Safety council someone is killed in the United States in a motor vehicle accident every 17 minutes, day and night. And some one is injured every 31 seconds.

Certain eastern states have reduced accidents about 20 per cent through license laws requiring examinations of all drivers. A license law has been proposed in the state legislature at Austin, but it does not require examination of those applying and would serve little purpose other the collection of fees. Only 17 of the 48 states have license laws and most of these are in the East.

The states having driver's license laws are: Arizona, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Nebraska, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Vermont and Wisconsin. There is also a license law in the District of Columbia.

Talker does not mean to infer that the driver of the automobile was to blame for Saturday's fatal accident on the Burkburnett highway. Indeed the circumstances appear to absolve him from blame. The accident merely brought the subject of automobile accidents in general to mind and hence the foregoing comment.

Everyone admires a man who puts up a strong fight for what he believes is right. Wirt Franklin of the Independent Petroleum Producers' association has made a valiant fight for a tariff on crude oil. When he started his fight the odds were so greatly against him that it seemed hopeless, yet when a vote was taken in the senate the other day the tariff lost by only a few votes. Mr. Franklin announces that the fight just lost was only the opening skirmish of a battle that will be continued. He will remain in Washington to continue the fight.

Mr. Franklin has made considerable progress, even if he has lost temporarily. A man who believes he is right and keeps fighting very often reaches his objective. The Tulsa man continues his fight with much greater prestige and more support than when he began it.

The Wichita Falls Air Transport company reports the sale of three airplanes within a week. Less than 25 years ago the automobile dealer who was successful in selling three cars within a week had accomplished something that attracted as much attention as the sale of these three airplanes.

A delegation of 25 members of the Wichita Falls safety council will attend a regional meeting in

HOSTILITIES TO FLAME ANEW ON DRY ISSUE

Wets Have One More Day To Air Views Before Drys 'Open Up'

FIRST REAL CLASH

Missouri Solon to Urge 2.75 Per Cent Beer to Law Commission

WASHINGTON, March 2. (US)—Hostilities over the prohibition situation will flame anew in congress this week, with proponents of the 18th amendment launching their counter-offensive before the house judiciary committee on Wednesday.

Anti-prohibition forces will continue to hammer on the breakdown of prohibition enforcement on Tuesday.

Then they will stand by while the prohibitionists make their defense. Later the "antis" will be given an opportunity to answer the drys in rebuttal.

First Big Clash

This will bring the first big clash between friends and foes of Volsteadism before the judiciary committee, at its hearings on bills to repeal or modify the 18th amendment.

Counting Tuesday, the "antis" will have consumed seven full days in their assault upon Volsteadism. While they already have presented some of the outstanding captains of the industry and finance, others will follow them Tuesday, Representative Linthicum, Democrat of Maryland, announced.

Dinwiddie in Charge

The Rev. Edwin Dinwiddie, long a spokesman for the prohibitionists in Washington, is generalissimo of the "drys." Working with him to round up "prominent speakers for the cause," are legislative representatives of the W. C. T. U., anti-saloon league and the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition and public morals.

As there are only three or four anti-prohibitionist on the judiciary committee, out of a total of 23 members, no measures affecting the 18th amendment are believed likely to be reported by the committee, though the arguments advanced by the "antis" will have caused many members of the committee to "stop, look and listen" to the rising opposition to Volsteadism.

2.75 Beer Urged

Representative Dyer, Republican of Missouri, will appear before the Wickersham law enforcement commission March 12, in an appeal to the commission to support his 2.75 per cent beer bill.

He will ask the commission to investigate the feasibility of 2.75 per cent beer in the interest of better enforcement of the laws against whisky and other hard liquors.

Congress has full power under the 18th amendment to designate what is "intoxicating" liquor, and 2.75 per cent beer is not intoxicating, Dyer contends. He will introduce expert medical opinion to back his views.

Congressman Hughes Of West Virginia Dies

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., March 2. (AP)—James A. Hughes, 69, representative in congress from the fourth West Virginia district, died today in a sanitarium at Marion, Ohio, relatives here announced. He had been a patient at the hospital several weeks.

Representative Hughes first served in the 57th congress in 1901, and was re-elected successively until the 63rd congress. He then was sent back to the 70th and 71st sessions.

He was a West Virginia state senator from 1894 to 1898, and while a resident of Kentucky, sat in the legislature of that as a representative of Boyd and Lawrence counties, 1887-1888.

Jungle Fever Puts Halt To Prince of Wales' Hunt For Big Game in Africa

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, Africa, March 2. (UP)—The Prince of Wales lay in the grip of malarial fevers and chills in government house today after too strenuous activity in the jungle.

He fell ill near his camp at Voi yesterday after tramping for miles through the bush snapping game at close quarters with a camera. His special train, which he had used as a base for his operations, brought him and his party here last night and the following bulletin was issued today:

"The Prince of Wales is suffering an attack of subtertian malaria and returned to Nairobi in consequence. His fever is following a normal course and it is anticipated he will be quite well in a few days."

Mild Disease

Meanwhile the prince will remain in bed at government house.

Subtertian malaria, as described by physicians, is only a mild form of the disease. It is characterized by attacks on alternate days, but is not accompanied by violent shivering or very high fever and weakens a patient less than ordinary malaria.

The prince had moved his camp to Voi after Captain Campbell Black had sighted a record herd of Buffalo from an airplane near the Voi railway junction.

The prince left the train and began his long hike with the camera, getting as near the buffalo as possible before taking photographs. He also flew over the jungle in a light airplane, sighting game.

Trip Unexplained

Some secrecy was attached to his hurried trip here last night. His unexpected return to Nairobi was not explained until the official bulletin was issued.

It was learned so far the prince had not accomplished his objective of bagging an elephant.

It was the second time illness in the royal family had interferred with his enjoyment of an African visit. More than a year ago he cut short a tour of Africa and hastened home to London when his father, King George, lay seriously ill.

LONDON, March 2. (UP)—News of the Prince of Wale's illness caused great public anxiety here today, inasmuch as the first brief messages from Nairobi did not describe his malady adequately.

Just eight weeks ago the ship's doctor, J. C. Franklin, gave the prince a paratyphoid inoculation aboard the Kenilworth Castle which carried the royal hunting party to Africa. The effects of the inoculation caused him to remain in his cabin almost all the way to Madeira.

The injection was for the purpose of preventing tropical diseases such as malaria and Doctor Franklin informed the United Press its protection should last two years.

Hot Days Fool Hens and Hens Fool Egg Men

CHICAGO, March 2. (US)—This is a tale of warm weather, the hens who were fooled by it, the bulls who lost and the bears who won, in the commodity market.

The warmest February the country had in many years made the hens think that spring was past and summer come. They laid eggs, millions upon millions of them, and created a surplus.

Meanwhile the wholesale price of eggs ranged from 27 to 30 cents. The bulls took all they could get. Then the condition created by the warm weather became clear. The price of eggs broke to 25 cents. Caught in the slump, the bulls tried to corner the market in efforts to boost the price up and cover their losses.

But the bears figured otherwise, sold eggs at 25 and 26 cents and when fresh arrivals of the food kept coming into Chicago and forced the price down to 24 cents, the bulls found they were out more than $750,000—all as a result of having guessed wrongly as to the characteristics of hens in warm weather.

EX-PRESIDENT LOSES SLOWLY

Taft Continues to Linger Near Death

WASHINGTON, March 2. (AP)—William Howard Taft continued to linger near death today while disease slowly sapped the resistance of a once powerful physique that withstood the rigors of of 40 years of service to the nation.

The bulletins from the bedside of the distinguished patient during the day recorded a slow decline from a rally which during the past two days had brought brief, feeble flashes of the good humor that had left an indelible imprint upon the minds of the American people during a long career.

A bulletin, issued at 7 o'clock tonight after a visit which had kept the physicians longer the usual in the sick room, said:

"The former chief justice has taken more nourishment. His condition is unchanged since morning."

Twice during the day his physicians called, and each time they left the sick room saying his condition had not changed since last night. At that time he had been reported weaker than earlier yesterday when he rallied sufficiently to recognize those about him and to speak to them in a wisp of a voice.

To those who visited him in the sick room, however, the patient seemed weaker as if the vitality which had bolstered him so long were slowly crumbling.

There were few callers at the Taft home during the day. Some of his neighbors passed across the board porch to inquire sympathetically regarding the condition of their old friend. They left with sad faces.

Bridge Misplays Bring Petition for Divorce

CHICAGO, March 2. (UP)—So thoroughly excited did Mrs. Lila Colyer become when she drew 13 hearts in a bridge game, she bid six no-trumps and lost every trick.

And so angry did her husband, Edwin, get when she muffed her perfect hand, he tossed a cut glass grapefruit bowl at her, she charged in a suit filed here in superior court for divorce.

Mrs. Colyer's complaint said she was a dancer, that, as a consequence, she knew little about bridge, and intimated her husband had no right to hurl crockery at her, even though she did lose "the hand in millions."

Men and Horses Carried Into Sea on Ice Floe

MOSCOW, March 2. (US)—Carried out into the Caspian sea off Astrakan when a huge ice-cake broke away from the shore, 137 fishermen and 135 horses were tonight believed to have been drowned.

Word of the catastrophe brought airplanes and tugs to the scene in search of the ice floe and its human cargo, but tonight the searchers had failed to find a trace of it. It is believed that the ice may have disintegrated, hurling the men and horses into the sea.

Army Prisoner Shot Down by His Guards

NEW YORK, March 2. (AP)—Army officials announced tonight that Samuel F. Trentor, 35, an army prisoner who enlisted from Keyser, W. Va., was shot and killed yesterday when he attempted to wrest a rifle away from a guard on Governors island.

Brooklyn Matador Postpones Premiere

MADRID, March 2. (US)—Sidney Franklin, the Brooklyn matador, who was scheduled to make his 1930 premiere in the bull ring today, was forced to forego his bout with the bull because of the weather.

Show, an unusual occurrence for Madrid, greeted the populace this morning and forced bull ring officials to call off the fiesta. Franklin yesterday announced that his ring appearance this year will be made under the nick-name of "The Yankee."

Alice White on Way To Marry Chicagoan

NEW YORK, March 2. (US)—The blond flapper of the movies, Alice White, is on her way to Chicago where she will marry Sidney Bartlett. Chicago is their present destination because it is in the windy city that Mr. Bartlett's family lives and he is taking Alice with him for their inspection and approval. The engagement of Alice and Sid has been well known in Hollywood for a long time. They have been "that way" about each other for well over a year.

Plane's Disappearance Remains Unexplained

LOS ANGELES, March 2. (UP)—One week after a Western Air Express plane disappeared with its crew of three, its fate remained as unexplained today as that of another which disappeared in a snowstorm two months ago.

All day five planes and ground crews searched the San Bernardino mountain region for the transport which did not arrive in Los Angeles last Sunday, three hours after leaving Kingman, Ariz.

EARTH QUIVERS CONTINUE TO SHAKE VALLEY

Brawley, Calif., Residents Kept on Alert During Day of Shocks

TRAFFIC RESUMED

Southern California Area Records Eight Shocks In Five Days

BRAWLEY, Calif., March 2. (AP)—With damage estimates ranging as high as $75,000 in Brawley, this Imperial Valley section today still was quivering as earthquake shocks which started yesterday continued in moderated intensity.

While most of the tremors have been slight since late last night, a few more today were very noticeable. No further damage, however, has been reported since yesterday afternoon when major shocks shook down cornices and copings, broke windows, cracked masonry and bounced automobiles like rubber balls.

Woman Injured

Mrs. E. C. Dunham of Brawley was injured seriously when struck by falling debris, but will recover.

Ropes closing off the thoroughfares in the business district here were removed today and, despite an occasional shake, traffic was near normal for a Sunday. Firemen and police inspected buildings, reporting little danger providing there is no recurrence of heavy jolts. All but two of the hotels in town remained closed, however, as a precautionary measure the earth movements are localized in the Imperial Valley and appear centered at Brawley, Westmoreland, Calipatria, Holtville, El Centro, and the town of Imperial reported severe shakings yesterday afternoon, but today the earth generally is quiet no major structural damage is reported outside of Brawley.

Calexico Shaken

Calexico, Calif., and its Mexican sister city, Mexicali, also reported visitations, but they were very slight.

There is no panic among the inhabitants of the valley, although there was considerable excitement yesterday, during the heaviest movements. Guests in hotels, office workers and others in the Brawley business district scurried into the streets on several occasions.

Brawley has experienced at least eight earth movements since last Tuesday. The city, like the rest of Imperial Valley's towns, rests on a silt bed ranging from 600 to 1,000 feet thick.

San Antonio Murder To Be Aired Anew Today

SAN ANTONIO, March 2. (UP)—The murder of Charles Stevens will be aired again Monday when Joe Hebrecht, an alleged member of the gang that killed the prohibition agent from ambush, goes on trial.

Mrs. Altha Harbaugh was freed on an accomplice charge in connection with Steven's death. The state claimed she stopped Stevens as he was returning from a liquor raid, asked him to walk down the road where her car was stalled and led him to the spot where he was killed by men hiding behind a clump of trees.

Accused Slayer To Get Hearing Today

SAN ANTONIO, March 2. (UP)—A habeas corpus hearing will be held here Monday for Earl Ezzell, 37, who is charged with murdering a 23-year-old college boy and wounding his estranged wife here Friday night.

Ezzell is charged with shooting Wilmer Series as the young man was leaving a store. He shot his wife twice before Series was killed. She will recover. Ezzell was held without bail. He refused to make a statement and spent Sunday joking with prisoners and reading newspapers.

FREEZE LEAVES CROPS UNHURT

Orchards and Fields Escape Damage

The temperature in Wichita Falls at midnight Sunday was 30 degrees, according to the recording thermometer at the Texas Electric Service company, but there was no indication of freezing in the air and ice had not begun to form on standing water.

Fears that the 26-degree temperature recorded Saturday night would cause damage to crops and budding fruit trees were dispersed Sunday when reports were received indicating no damage to farms and orchards in this section.

M. B. Oates, agricultural agent for the Fort Worth and Denver railway, stated Sunday night before leaving for Fort Worth that he believed short cold snaps like those of Saturday and Sunday nights would prove of no injury to fruits and crops. The only damage likely, he said, would be to sprouting oats, and freezes of such light character and short duration could produce no extensive damage even in that instance.

Unless the temperature falls to below 25 degrees and remains at that mark for some time, there will be little likelihood of damage to spring crops, he said. It is probable the temperature will make brief drops below the freezing point on many nights before spring arrives to stay but such vagaries of temperature will not greatly affect the size or condition of fruits and plants, he stated.

Building Permits At Amarillo on Increase

Special to The Record News.

AMARILLO, Texas, March 2.—Building activities in Amarillo are on the upturn and indicate the biggest year since the boom year of 1926.

Up to March 1 the building permits exceeded $400,000. This included permits in one week amounting to $217,000, the third week in February.

A. W. Smalley, building inspector, reports advance information on building projects indicate not less than a 50 to 75 per cent increase over last year when the total exceeded $1,800,000.

Moody Scores Critics Of Penitentiary Plan

AUSTIN, March 2. (AP)—Governor Moody today hit back at critics of his penitentiary reorganization plan, advocated by him before the legislature and to the people in radio addresses.

He said the suggestion of a prison system in central Texas, was not new, and pointed out that the original plat of the city of Austin, as the capital of the state, set aside a piece of ground near Austin as a site for the state prison, although this land had long since been sold to private individuals.

Precious Document Unveiled

Moody Speaks at Rites Uncovering Independence Declaration

AUSTIN, March 2. (AP)—The 94-year-old Texas declaration of independence, lately was placed in a main corridor of the state capitol where all may see, was unveiled today—anniversary of its birth—with appropriate ceremonies.

Governor Moody made the principal address, praising the valor of the men who won Texas' freedom.

The Lone Star state flag was drawn aside, to reveal the cherished document in its permanent niche, by Sterling Robert Fulmore Jr., and Mary Elizabeth Miller, descendants of signers of the declaration of independence. The Fulmore child's great, great grandfather, Sterling Robertson, and the little Miller girl's great, great grandfather, Sam A. Maverick, were signatories. Maverick's son, Sam Maverick, is still living here at the ripe age of 92 years. He was too feeble to attend the unveiling however.

The ceremonies were under auspices of the Daughter of the Republic of Texas.

The precious piece of paper, drawn at Washington-on-the-Brazos in 1836, was taken from a vault by Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state, and placed behind glass on a revolving pedestal.

Many members of the legislature and state officials attended the unveiling. Patriotic music was played by the Austin High school band.

WICHITA BANKS TO CLOSE MONDAY

Wichita Falls banks will be the only business institutions in the city to observe Texas Independence day, according to reports to The Record News Sunday evening. The banks will be closed all Monday, but other business houses will be open as usual.

The postoffice will make no observance of the day, recognizing only national holidays, and neither county nor city offices will close Monday. The flag, which was flown from the pole at the Memorial auditorium Sunday, will again be raised Monday to signify the city's reverence for the historic occasion.

The fact that Independence day, March 2, came on Sunday was given as the reason for the lack of observance on the first day of the business week. The historical significance of the day will be recalled in classrooms of several of the city schools Monday. Programs also were given at several schools last week.

Clash of Communist Factions Broken Up

NEW YORK, March 2. (US)—Eighteen men and two women raided the memorial meeting of the American Communist party, left wing, in honor of C. E. Ruthenzerg, its founder, today.

The raiders, known as the "union square" wing, broke up the meeting after hand-to-hand fighting took place for a half hour. A riot call brought a cordon of police to the battleground. Three arrests were made.

Chairs were used freely as clubs and several persons were injured. Police used their fists and clubs to restore order.

FLAMES LEVEL NEW ORLEANS DOCK PROPERTY

Anderson-Clayton Harbor Building and Steamer Are Destroyed

30,000 BALES BURNED

Four Women Visiting on Ship Among Nine Hurt During Fire

NEW ORLEANS, March 2. (UP)—New Orleans provided a spectacular but unscheduled attraction for her thousands of carnival visitors tonight when the cotton warehouse of the Anderson & Clayton company burned, together with a freighter tied at the docks, injuring nine persons and causing damage estimated at $4,800,000.

Four of the injured were women who were visiting on board the United States shipping board vessel Scantic, moored at the warehouse waiting to begin loading cotton early tomorrow morning.

Leap Into Water

The fire started with an explosion of unknown origin on the wharf. Before the moorings could be released, the blaze swept the freighter, driving the visitors and the crew to the stern of the vessel. Several were forced to leap into the water, where they were picked up in skiffs manned by rescuers from the nearby quarantine station.

Mrs. Harold Mann, 20, of Dequeen, Ark., wife of the second mate of the Scantic, was among the injured. The other injured were:

Rolland Kreher, 4, in a critical condition from burns.

Mrs. Charles Kreher, 35, burned about the face and hands.

Miss Renee Buttan, 20, New Orleans, hand and feet burned.

Mrs. Cicely Pike, 32, New Orleans, suffering from shock and the cold water.

Mrs. Annie Buttan, 52, New Orleans, hands burned.

Charles McCreary, member of the crew, burned.

Walter Smith, picked up later while floating with a life preserver, unconscious from cold.

G. J. Kerwin, 33, injured in the first explosion.

Sailors Trapped

Sailors who remained aboard the Scantic were unable to reach the huge hawsers which moored the vessel to the docks. The fireboat Deluge finally freed the freighter by driving at her full steam and

Cave Explorers Discover Possible New Path for Underground Tour

By FRANK E. NICHOLSON
Leader, Carlsbad Cavern Expedition
(All Rights Reserved)

(Copyright, 1930, by New York Times Co.)

CARLSBAD, N. M., March 2.—Scaling gigantic formations of marble-like substance to a hole high in the wall, we found our newly discovered opening to be nothing less than the entrance of a long downward tunnel far too steep for us to descend without the aid of more rope.

It is our belief that this tunnel will open a new route between two explored rooms now open to visitors. If this be proved true Superintendent Boles plans to order construction of stairs and trail so that in later days visitors may traverse this area.

While awaiting additional rope we wandered back into a tunnel inhabited by millions of bats. This section is to the left of the cavern proper and quite apart from the area chartered and accessible.

We walked perhaps a half mile through a great vault of white dripstone strongly discolored with a coating of greenish brown moss. The ceiling some 200 feet above our heads seemed to swirl about in the rays of our lights. Presently we heard a squeaking noise not unlike the sound produced by filing a steel saw. A bat was awakening.

In a few moments there came a discordant concert of squeaks that grew until it reach a terrific din. Ahead of us there appeared two gigantic curtains of black velvet dropped far down from the ceiling. A moment later the festoons of black drapery began to slowly move and I realized they were thousands of bats clinging to each other.

The squeaking changed into a deep hum that grew until it resembled the motors of an airplane as the bats flapped their wings and circled around overhead. Suddenly we noticed the softness of the floor to be a layer of guano in which our feet sank.

The odor was stifling, the noise

BIBLE CLASS HEARS BARRON

'Show Us the Father' Theme Of Sunday Talk

With a plea that Christians look to the works of Christ for their interpretation of his relation to God, John Daniel Barron, speaking before the Kay Bible class of the First Methodist church Sunday morning, discussed the life of Jesus as a revelation of the nature of the Father.

The speaker took "Show us the Father" as the theme for his lecture, pointing out that Christ first gave to man a satisfying and reassuring interpretation of the love of God.

The complete lecture is given below:

"Reflection upon the mysteries of the cosmos and life leads one either to a painfully blank space, or to a belief in God. The origins of the cosmos and life are shrouded in obscurity. The points in time at which the cosmos and life began we do not know. Likewise, the point in time at which man appeared on the world scene is unknown. Those who take the evolutionary point of view quote as astounding figures on the time it took to evolve the cosmos, life and man. I want to say, by way of parenthesis, that this evolutionary point of view need not interfere with genuine religious faith. We must distinguish, however, between the atheistic evolutionist who takes the position that the cosmos and life are the result of pure chance, and the theistic evolutionist who sees in the evolutionary process God's method of creation. Shame on us if we let the atheistic evolutionist take some well established facts and make us appear ridiculous in the eyes of the thoughtful.

Belief in God

"Regardless of the time and the method of man's origin, we find that when he comes out into the view of history he is a believer in gods, and finally in God, that is, in a spirit-power other than and greater than himself upon whom he is dependent and whose friendship he seeks. This belief prevails, so scholars of the subject tell us, among all races of people of all time. That is to say, belief in God has been universal among men from the dawn of history till today.

"And one of the questions that has been to the front in man's mind through all the ages is, what is God like? What is his nature? Is he good, bad, or indifferent? If he enters into communion with man, how does he? If he thinks, what does he think? If he wills, what does he will? If he loves, what does he love? If he acts, how does he act? If he is related to man, just what is that relation and how can it best be established? The answers given to this leading question constitute the history of religion. In the beginning, of course, they were crude. As man advanced in what we call civilization the answer grew more satisfactory. But it remained for the Hebrew people to give to the world an interpretation of God which would satisfy the demands of an intelligent mind and a loving heart. The details of their answer cannot be given here, but the heart of their interpretation of God is found in the belief that God is a good spirit who rules over the lives and destinies of all men.

"Now Jesus took this idea and made it real. He personalized it. He lived it. As no other person has ever done, Jesus told us how God feels and acts. In answer to the question, 'What is God Like?' Jesus said that He is like a father. He is not narrow and grudging in His love. He loves all men, even those who are unlike Him in their natures, for they are His children. He sends his blessings upon the just and the unjust with equal abundance. The parable of the Prodigal Son shows us the attitude of the father's heart toward the millions of His sons who have left His house, withdraw from His presence and fellowship, and renounced His love and care. There is not a true father among us who would not go even unto death if needs be for his child. Multiply infinitely your love, care and solicitude for your own children and you have Jesus' answer to what God is like.

"Not only did Jesus tell us how God feels and acts, but He showed us. He invited us to see God in His own life. He claimed that if we knew Him we would know God, if we saw Him we would see God. That gives us this idea. The spirit that rules the cosmos, that was before the cosmos was, that spirit that brought into existance upon the earth a human race, is Christlike in His nature! God is like Christ. Oh, the depth and the meaning of this thought! God is as compassionate as merciful, as forgiving as sympathetic, as tender, as loving, and as stern as Christ! This conception of God answers the deepest longing of the human heart. It satisfies the heart and the mind. We can go no further. Here is ultimate truth.

False Note in Religion

In passing I want to make two statements about Jesus' claim to have revealed the ultimate truth about God. In the first place, one of three things is true about this claim: (1) It is true, or (2) Jesus has not been faithfully reported by the gospel writers, or (3) he was mad. If Jesus claimed for Himself this unique revelation of God and it is not so, then he was mentally deficient. In the second place, I want you to notice that Jesus does not base His lofty claims upon a pre-existent relation to God, nor to a unique birth. These have been doctrines offered by later Christians in an attempt to explain His uniqueness. Jesus based His claims upon what He was able to do. We have struck a false note in the Christian religion when we place the major emphasis elsewhere. When the two disciples of John came to Jesus to inquire of him concerning the reality of His messiahship He did not say, 'Go tell John, 'In the beginning was (1) and (1) was with God, and (1) was God.' (1) was in the beginning with God. All things were made by (1)(a), and without (1)(a) was not any thing made that was made.' No, Jesus based His claims on more pragmatic grounds. Said He, 'Go and shew John what you have seen and heard. He do for the blind, the lame, the lepers, the deaf, the dead, and the poor.' If His works would not justify His claims Jesus was willing to let them be discounted. He was the first to apply to His claims the acid test: can they be supported by their fruits? Here is where our interpretation of Jesus ought to begin, rather than with some metaphysical propositions.

Loveable Person

"Getting back to our main theme I want you to notice two or three things that naturally follow the interpretation of God as a Father, as being Christlike. God is a loveable person. The old interpretations of God, elements of which still persist in some quarters, made God unloveable. He incited fear rather than love. But here is God so conceived that we can love him with all our hearts, all our minds, and all our strength. We would flee to him and not from him. Communion with him has an immediate value and life enrichment. Then, with this conception of God I feel at home in the universe. I am not an orphan in the world. I am not a stranger here. My home is not far away. I feel perfectly at ease in this world. I trust the God behind it. We do not have to wait till death to enter the Father's house. We can do so now. And finally, I face the unknown future with confidence and trust. What tomorrow holds for me I do not know. But I face it joyously and free from fear. I trust in the good God and push on. Without this faith in the goodness of God I could not hold my belief in life after death, but with it I come to death with the confidence that I shall live again.

And so beside the Silent Sea
I wait the muffled oar;
No harm from Him can come to me
On ocean or on shore.

I know not where His islands lift
Their fronded palms in air;
I only know I cannot drift
Beyond His love and care."

DEATHS

BRYAN BOOZER

Bryan Boozer, 31, of Sweetwater, Texas, died in a local hospital about 7 o'clock Sunday evening. Mr. Boozer, an insurance man of Sweetwater, was brought to Wichita Falls for treatment several days ago. The body is being held at the Hines mortuary pending the arrival of relatives.

Widow of Robert Blake Seeks Share Of Profits on Death Cell Stage Play

Young Woman and Her Mother-in-Law Claim Story of Broadway "Hit" Was "Lifted" by Producers

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 2. (AP)—The widow of Robert Blake, who was put to death in the electric chair at the Huntsville Texas prison 10 months ago, intends to demand a share of the profits from "The Last Mile," Broadway stage "hit," which was taken in part from a copyrighted story by her husband, written while he awaited execution of the death sentence in the Texas state penitentiary a year ago.

Blake's mother, Mrs. Ella Blake, announced yesterday in Amarillo, Texas, where she lives that she would go to New York and see the play herself before deciding whether she would take action to close it, because of alleged violation of the copyright, or whether she should permit it to continue as a protest against capital punishment.

Quarrel Unlikely

The widow, Mrs. Blanche Allen Blake, who came here from Amarillo to seek employment, declared today that she would seek her share of the profits, but she made it plain there would be no quarrel between her and her mother-in-law over the monetary value of Blake's story.

"Robert's mother has been very kind to me and I love her as much as if she were my own mother," the young widow said. "I have not heard from her since the matter of the copyright came up, but I know she will be fair with me and that we both can be benefitted as Robert intended."

The widow said the story, which was copyrighted in the American Mercury, was written by Blake in his death cell to be sold by his mother and widow. It is claimed the story was "lifted" without permission to provide the theme and setting of "The Last Mile," by John Wexley.

Married in Amarillo

Blake and his wife were married Sept. 29, 1926, at Amarillo and lived together for seven months before he was arrested on a charge of murder. The crime for which he died, protesting his innocence, was committee a year before their marriage.

"I believed in him and loved him," the young Mrs. Blake said. "His mother and I did everything we could to save him, but we lacked funds and lost our fight."

She is an orphan and has lived with Blake's family most of the time since he was first arrested. A week ago she came to Oklahoma City to seek work. She is staying with an uncle and aunt.

"I didn't feel like asking his people to take care of me," she said. "Now it seems I will get some help from his own work."

She does not share her mother-in-law's feeling as to "commercialism" of Blake's execution.

"Robert wrote that story to help us," the widow declared. "If I did not know he intended it for that, I couldn't bear to have had it ever made known."

MOTHER OF YOUTH TO VIEW PLAY

AMARILLO, Texas, March 2. (AP)—Gene Howe, editor of the Amarillo Globe and News, announced tonight that Mrs. Ella Blake had told him she had decided to go to New York within the next 10 days to determine whether she would seek to close one of Gotham's stage "hits" or whether she would allow it to run as a protest against capital punishment.

The grey-haired mother of Robert Blake, who died in the electric chair at Huntsville, Texas, last April 29, already had made known her resolve to see the play "The Last Mile," by John Wexley, now running in New York, which appropriated subject matter from a copyrighted article written by her son just before his execution and published in the American Mercury.

She declared she liked Wexley's looks, from his photograph, and wanted to talk with him alone. Howe said he would not accompany Mrs. Blake on the trip.

Freight Speed 'War' Opposed

Dallas C.-C. Asks Roads to 'Slow Down'

DALLAS, March 2. (AP)—Efforts to end the freight "speed war" that has resulted in third morning delivery of merchandise in Dallas from Chicago and second morning delivery from St. Louis, were launched here today by the chamber of commerce.

The transportation committee of the Dallas chamber made public a resolution declaring "such service is unnecessary and must require railroads to run fast trains with light tonnage and at very fast rates of speed. That is expensive operation and is a service not demanded by nor necessary to shippers and receivers of freight in this territory and does militate against Texas jobbing centers."

The Dallas chamber further complained that jobbers and distributors at the northern centers could deliver their goods into North Texas, in some cases almost as quickly as can be done from Dallas, due to what "seems to be a fight between railroads to see which can give the fastest service."

Copies of the resolution were sent to all southwestern carriers and to chambers of commerce at Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio, Wichita Falls, Waco and San Angelo.

COPY OF PROTEST RECEIVED HERE

The Dallas Chamber of Commerce resolution protesting against the freight "speed war" has been received here by Dudley E. Foy, assistant manager of the local chamber, John Boswell, general manager, said Sunday night. The resolution will be taken before the traffic committee of the organization and the committee's action later laid before the board of directors, Mr. Boswell said. The manager declared that no comment or complaint growing out of the situation had arisen locally so far as the chamber of commerce is informed.

Martin to Impanel Young County Jury

Judge P. A. Martin, sitting for Judge Allan D. Montgomery, will impanel the 30th district grand jury for Young county at Graham Monday morning. Sam B. Spence, district attorney, has announced that the investigators will be faced with an unusually light docket and that the work will probably be completed early Tuesday.

THIEVES TRY TO BURN HOME

Blaze Started After $75 in Clothing Is Secured

Thieves entered the home of W. M. Elliott, 1905 Elizabeth street, shortly before 9 o'clock Saturday night and after taking a large quantity of clothing, jewelry and household articles, set fire to a pile of clothing in a closet of the house, according to police reports.

Mr. Elliott stated he believed the thieves escaped only a few moments before the family arrived, since the fire in the closet had not had time to gain headway. An alarm was turned in and firemen had extinguished the blaze with chemicals before considerable damage was done. The thieves' loot consisted of a number of shirts, pillow cases, men's and women's clothing, jewelry, toilet articles and other things, the police report indicated, the value having been estimated at about $75.

BURGLARIES AND HOLDUP REPORTED

Police Sunday night were conducting extensive investigations in the residential section west of Brook avenue and north of Speedway following reports of several burglaries and a hijacking.

Following the report of the theft of about $4 from the home of Joe Art on Brook avenue by robbers who were frightened away by the arrival of the family, police were notified that a large amount of valuable clothing had been stolen from the home of A. Y. Hampton, 1800 Speedway. The thieves gained entrance by prizing open a window, as in the case of the Art home robbery.

Two unmasked men in an automobile held up Sam Swope, 612 Burnett street, while he and a girl companion sat in an automobile in front of a house at 1704 Truehart street about 10 o'clock Sunday night. The bandits, police were told, drove past the house several times before stopping. They took $7 from Mr. Swope.

$4,800,000 Loss In Cotton Fire

wedging her prow between the Scantic's stern and the wharf, breaking the lines. The Scantic was beached farther down river where she was still burning late tonight.

Fire swept from the docks into the huge frame warehouse immediately. Approximately 40,000 bales of cotton were destroyed before the blaze could be checked. The brick warehouse of Anderson & Clayton, across the levee from their frame warehouse, was not harmed. It was filled with cotton.

About 15,000 bales of the destroyed cotton was stored on the dock board wharf ready for loading tomorrow.

Glow Paints Sky

Virtually every available piece of fire fighting apparatus was sent to combat the blaze, the glow from which still shone in the sky late tonight as the slow burning cotton bales were consumed. Several fire tugs were throwing water on the blaze, but firemen said none of the cotton outside the brick warehouse could be saved.

The dock board wharves were valued at $287,000 and were completely destroyed. The superstructure of the Scantic was entirely burned away and fire tugs were throwing water into the holds in an effort to keep the vessel from sinking.

First reports from the fire were a dozen or more persons had leaped to their death from the Scantic and only two or three were saved. A check-up of those on the ship at the time of the explosion revealed all were later accounted for, however. The injured were taken to Charity hospital. Only the lad, Roland Kreher, was believed in a critical condition.

JAILER RETURNS

Syd Johnson, night jailer at the Wichita county jail, was back on duty Sunday night after having been ill with influenza during the past week.

AIR STUNTS DRAW CROWD

Parachute Jump Postponed For Week

The parachute with which R. C. Bridges, veteran pilot, was to have made a "delayed" leap into space at the Municipal airport Sunday afternoon did not arrive and another could not be obtained to carry out the feature stunt of the program, according to C. P. Logan, manager of the port. The jump will be scheduled for another day of maneuvers, probably next Sunday, as soon as the chute arrives, Mr Logan said.

The air maneuvers Sunday, however, were ample in themselves and the large crowd was treated to many intricate stunts and not a little excitement, Mr. Logan said. One pilot, who was cranking his ship unassisted, did not know the throttle was open and when the motor started, the ship lunged forward at high speed, almost throwing the pilot to the ground. He ran after the escaping ship and caught the tip of a wing, hanging on while the plane whirled around in a circle without a pilot. After great difficulty, attendants at the port caught the ship and one succeeded in leaping into the cockpit to retard the throttle.

Lieut. Hugh Fite of San Antonio in a Boeing Curtiss D-12 pursuit ship of the U. S. army, thrilled the crowds with daring stunts and tricks in his fast plane, going through intricate aerobatics while traveling at whirlwind pace. Pilot Fred Ridenour and Pilot Burton L. Walker, who crashed near the Municipal port last Sunday but escaped unhurt, also gave exhibitions in flight. The nine Spartan ships from the Spartan School of Aeronautics of Tulsa, took off for the return trip Sunday afternoon. Pilot Jack Smith of Abilene demonstrated the agility of his Kinner Monosport during the activities.

The Spartan fleet was headed by Instructors Ellis Fagan and John Keiffer and included Pilots Potter, Green, Matthews, Delford, Anderson, Allen, Blakeley, Thompson, Catten, Hudlow, Fletcher and Walker.

The afternoon's program included a motorcycle field meet which riders competed in various races. The field meet was sponsored by the Wichita Cycle company.

HOME-TOWN TALK

Dallas next month it is announced. This shows the active interest in accident prevention. The machine age, the automobile, the airplane and the speed at which we live have added greatly to the hazards of life. Unless we can train ourselves to avoid accidents the toll will become greater than the benefits of the machinery we have created. The National Safety council, of which the local council is a branch, is bringing to workers and employers and citizens generally the results of its researches and the cumulative experience of all to each local group. Great progress has been made. Much remains to be accomplished.

We are reminded again by the contract awarded by the Wichita Mill & Elevator company tripling its grain storage capacity of the fact that methods in business and industry are ever changing. The use of the combine in the harvesting of wheat has not only revolutionized the methods of the farmer in harvesting but has necessitated changes in their methods by the grain dealers, the railroads and the millers. The combine and the motor truck throw the wheat crop into the market within a few weeks. Elevators have to meet this situation, railroads have to speed up the movement of cars and millers have to build additional storage if they do not want to see all the wheat go past their mills to the terminal markets and add to their cost by having to buy it in these markets and transport it back to their mills.

Ten years ago it was believed that methods of handling grain were stabilized. Since then revolutionary changes have come. It is that way in nearly every industry and business. Today's methods may be out of date tomorrow. The man or business which fails to meet change with change is doomed to pass out of the picture.

Thirsty Duncan Men Discover Oklahoma's Latest Booze Racket

Special to The Record News.

DUNCAN, Okla., March 2.—A score or more of Duncan men who jumped at a chance to get a quart of "genuine pre-war scotch" for $2.80 are credited with having discovered Oklahoma's latest booze racket.

A middle-aged man who offered the bargain rates on scotch is in jail here, but no charges will be filed against him, county officers said.

The man approached a number of Duncan citizens with a story which netted him some $50 or so, officers say. He told his prospective customers he was a rum-runner. He had, he said, discovered a way to get "real stuff" in from Mexico.

Two cases of the whiskey were in fact at the local express office, he said, but he lacked about $2.80 of having enough money to get the shipment. Would the gentleman be kind enough to let him have the $2.80 and accept a quart of the shipment in return? Wilson asked a number of Duncan men.

Some 20 responded and paid the "rum-runner" ranging from $2.50 to $3. They were told to meet him at a local hotel where they were to receive the quart before he put the rest of the shipment on the market.

When the hotel lobby filled up with thirsty men, someone began asking questions and it was decided to request officers to arrest the "rum runner" before he acquired all of the loose cigaret money in Duncan.

The man previously had found the same scheme successful in Marlow and Chickasha, officers said.

C.-C. President Asks Wichitans To Give Spring Jobs to Unemployed Here

Householders in Wichita Falls who are in need of help in spring house-cleaning, garden-making, or lawn cultivation are urged to make their wants known to the chamber of commerce employment bureau, in a statement issued Sunday by J. S. Bridwell, president of the organization.

The bureau has the names and addresses of many able-bodied men and women who are in need of a few days work, Mr. Bridwell said, and would-be employers are invited to use the information.

"The unemployment situation is much less serious in Wichita Falls than it appears to be in many other cities," the president declared, "but there are a number of people, able and eager to work, who are temporarily in distress. A few days employment would be a great help to them, and I hope people who expect to use much labor will try to call for it now and help tide over the situation. The chamber of commerce is in a position to furnish good help for these seasonal jobs, and the employer would in turn help alleviate conditions that might lead to distress."

Lockney Man Dies In Hospital Here

Austin Ford, 45, of Lockney, died in a local hospital about 8 o'clock Sunday morning. The body was forwarded to Lockney by the Hines mortuary at 1 o'clock Monday morning for interment there Monday afternoon.

Miss Ruth Ford of Lubbock, sister of the deceased, accompanied the body. Mr. Ford was a long-time resident of Lockney, having been prominent in the business affairs of that city for many years. He was associated with the Waggoner petroleum interests in an executive capacity at the time of his death. He was brought to Wichita Falls some time ago for treatment.

Comanche Pastor To Visit Foreign Lands

DUNCAN, Okla., March 2.—The Rev. Barney Thames, pastor of the First Baptist church at Comanche will leave Monday on a tour of Europe, Asia Minor and the Holy Land. He expects the trip to require two and a half months.

BATS SERENADE CAVERN PARTY

Nicholson and His Men Find Another Tunnel

stupifying, and yet the grandeur and magnitude of it all held us spellbound. Then, realising we had disturbed the bats during hibernation, we hastily retraced our steps.

This is toward the end of the hibernating season and throughout the coming months until September these bats pour forth from the cavern each evening at sunset and feed through the night, returning at daybreak.

The bats of Carlsbad Caverns are mainly the Mexican free-tailed. They are in no way harmful to humans and their peculiar habit of roosting in enormous colonies has given them the special value in the production of guano, a product much prized as fertilizer. Other than bats the only life we have found in Carlsbad Cavern have been crickets and great horned owls. The Indians, however, tell of times when the caverns were the home of cave bears and the Boy Scout in our party says he hopes to meet one down the new tunnel tomorrow.

Work on New Elks Lodge Building to Start Today

Clearing of ground and construction work will begin Monday morning for the new Elks lodge club building at Ninth and Travis streets, it was announced Sunday by E. F. Fruechte, chairman of the lodge building committee.

The structure will be of brick construction, two stories in height, and will be occupied by no other offices than those of the lodge. The contract has been awarded to Carr and Blakemore of Wichita Falls at a bid of approximately $30,000 for the structure alone. Furnishings and fixtures will be estimated later, it was said.

An important meeting of the lodge in the club rooms at Eighth street and Scott avenue will be held at 8 o'clock Monday night for election of officers and discussion of building plans, Mr. Fruechte said. All members were urged to attend.

BEARDEN SUIT OPENS TODAY

Array of Legal Talent to Battle for $3,000,000

Half a dozen preliminary motions having been disposed of in special arguments here three weeks ago, the actual trial of the Lee O. Bearden suit, involving property and royalties estimated at around $3,000,000, and growing out of a controversy over Young county oil land, is expected to get under way before Judge P. A. Martin in the 30th district court at Graham Monday morning.

The contest originated several months ago when Lee Bearden, declared legally dead by a Young county court at the instance of his heirs several years ago, returned to claim his share in a Young county estate left by his father. The Texas company, to which the land was leased, the children and grandchildren, brothers and sisters of Lee Bearden are all involved in the contest. Mrs. Anna E. Bearden, mother of Lee Bearden, now under the care of a legally appointed guardian, has intervened in the suit. A young woman who claims to have married Lee Bearden in California many years ago has appeared on the scene claiming a part of the property for her 10-year-old daughter.

The case is one of the most complicated ever brought before the courts of the district attorneys declare. Judge Martin took the bench after Judge Allan D. Montgomery declared himself disqualified in the case because of previous business with some of the litigants.

The trial will attract to Graham more than a dozen of the leading attorneys of the state and will require at least a full week in the trial, Judge Martin estimates. From Wichita Falls will be John C. Kay, the firm of Kilgore & Rogers, Raymond Myers, Leslie Humphries, and the firm of Weeks, Morrow, Hankerson & Weeks. W. E. Hamilton of Dallas, G. R. Pate and Bill McLain of Fort Worth, E. P. Richie and the firm of Bolin & Esky of Mineral Wells, will represent interests at the trial. Graham attorneys include Fred T. Arnold, McFarland & McFarland, Marshall & King, and S. A. Penix.

Parking Zone Extended One Block on Indiana

The business section two-hour parking zone will be extended Monday to include the 1000 block on Indiana avenue, between Tenth and Eleventh streets, it was announced Sunday by Chief of Police Frank Burns.

The recent building activities on that block have brought about a considerable growth in traffic and in the number of cars parked there during the day, Chief Burns said. The two-hour parking zone was recently extended to include the block on Tenth street between Indiana and Scott avenues and officers have been tagging cars parked overtime there, the chief said.

THE E-Z SELF SERVING

A Wichita Falls Institution Owned and Operated by Crump Brothers

This is the day of foreign owned stores. They are springing up in every town. The question is being asked whether or not the home merchant is an asset or liability. If he is a liability he should not exist, but if he is an asset keep him; and the only way to do that is to give him your support. If merchandise and service is as good, prices as cheap, quality considered, shop with the home merchant and keep the money at home.

HARVEST ARMY READY TO WORK

Field Laborers Soon to Begin Northward March

By MERRILL E. COMPTON

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 2. (UP)—With an early spring forecast the army of 600,000 workers that annually harvests the nation's crops—wheat, corn, strawberries, cotton, potatoes, sugar beets and scores of other foodstuffs—is beginning to appear in the Southwest.

Like a swarm of bees that follows the queen bee, laborers follow the harvest season now about to open in Louisiana and Mississippi. They will end their migratory march in the northern wheat states late in the fall.

Where they go during the winter is a problem. Many thousands have homes in the South where living is cheaper and where winter weather does not tax their resources. Others, like leaves before a wind storm, disappear after the last bushel of grain and barrel of apples have been stored away, to appear in the southlands in the early spring.

Workers in Demand

Demands upon this migratory horde are tremendous.

Louisiana needs 30,000 persons to harvest its berry crops, harvesting of which will begin near March 15.

Other southern states, exclusive of Texas, will demand 250,000 cotton pickers. Texas, the second largest agriculture state in the union, will demand from 250,000 to 300,000 persons to handle its crops this year, government farm labor experts predict.

Missouri, with 30,000 acres of strawberries to be harvested, will call upon 60,000 workers. The same number will be needed in Arkansas where the acreage is about the same.

Kansas, shortly after June 1, will start its grain harvest, using approximately 20,000 men. They will come from Oklahoma where the harvest is earlier.

Northern States

Nebraska calls upon 8,000 to 10,000 harvesters and the northern states demand as many if not more than Kansas.

The situation on the Pacific coast states is similar, government experts said, the laborers there migrating from California into Oregon to end the season in Washington. Many of the workers who start from the gulf states will end their journeying in Montana, Idaho or Washington.

"Watch wheat." That has been the slogan of the harvesters for decades. And now, with the market experiencing severe setbacks, they are watching it as closely as the speculators. If wheat goes down and the prospects for the year are bad, these workers know that thousands of acres of Kansas wheat—already planted—will not be harvested.

They know, too, that hundreds of farmers in the Dakotas and other northern states will not plant spring wheat if the outlook is gloomy.

Manipulating this army for the government is George T. Tucker, a Kansas cattleman and farmer, recruited to manage the United States farm labor division eight years ago. The main office is located here.

Fewer Men Wanted

Tucker said the labor question may become acute this year. Farmers, he said, are demanding fewer men than heretofore and the number of unemployed farmer workers is increasing. If the wheat market causes farmers not to harvest their 1930 crop he forecast a bad year.

Relief, he said, may come from other lines of business. River work on the Missouri, which will open in early March and which is forecast to employ 10,000 men, will probably remedy the situation, he said. Road work planned in the southwest and in northern states will use a good percentage of the harvesters, he said.

Other employment offices here showed like conditions.

Less farm workers will be demanded, they agreed, with other branches of industry calling upon a slightly larger percentage of workers.

'FLUKE' MONEY MAKERS ACTIVE

Nation Deluged With Work Of Counterfeiters

By WILLIAM P. FLYTHE

(Copyr't, 1930 by Universal Service, Inc)

WASHINGTON, March 2.—The United States is being deluged with the greatest flow of counterfeit currency in the history of the country, Chief W. H. Moran of the United States secret service revealed tonight.

"It is all a part of the general reign of lawlessness which is sweeping the country," Chief Moran declared.

"We are making a great many arrests every day, but so far we have been unable to locate the printing or engraving plants where the money is being turned out. Practically all of it is of the new small sized bills, and through some peculiar psychology few people examine it.

"The counterfeits are usually discovered only when they show up at some bank."

Service Has Two Duties

Chief Moran and his aides in the secret service have but two duties. These are to protect the life of the president and other officials, and to safeguard the currency of the United States.

Chief Moran said that he has secret agents in several Latin American countries in the belief that counterfeiting plants may be set up there where they would for a long time avoid detection. Most of the cleverer counterfeit bills, he explained, come from either Mexico or Cuba.

However, Chief Moran is of the opinion that the bills which are now flooding the larger cities are being made either in New York, Chicago, or some other large city.

"With the general reign of disregard and disrespect for law throughout the United States the criminal element has turned its attention to counterfeiting," said Chief Moran. "Of course those who make a study of currency would detect the spurious bills at once, but most people are inclined to accept bills without even examining them.

"The bills for the most part are of the larger denominations. They are 10's, 20's and 50's and a great many 100's. New York is practically swamped with them. The circulation theer is so widespread that we have detailed a special squad there.

"Of course, counterfeit bills are always discovered somewhere in circulation and turned back so that the government loses nothing, but innocent people are suffering the heaviest loss from this source in history.

"We have a new and very dangerous crime element with which to deal which has seized upon counterfeiting as an easy and quick way to make money.

"Everyone should examine money carefully and be reluctant to accept currency from strangers without examining it."

Prince of Fakers Goes to Jail When Copper Mistakes Him for Radical

Stanley Weinberg Who Has Moved in High Circles as Various "Secretaries," "Aide-de-Camps," Etc., Is Behind Bars

By SAM LOVE

NEW YORK, March 2. (UP)—In jail tonight through a misapprehension is Stanley Weinberg, prince of fakers and as charming a black-haired, cheeky young fellow as you'd wish to meet.

Weinberg, who was once entertained by President Harding (also through a misapprehension), was proceeding down Broadway carrying something wrapped up in a newspaper in his hand when he was accosted by Edward P. Beck, a parole officer.

The Communists were planning to hold an unemployment demonstration—(see section IV, instruction V, demonstration)—in City Hall park. And that is the direction in which Mr. Weinberg was headed. Furthermore he looked like a Communist. Weinberg needed a shave, he also needed a good cleaning and pressing and he could have stood a Turkish bath without injury to friend or foe. He was carrying this parcel wrapped up in a newspaper.

Parole Officer Beck pounced upon him.

"Where you think you're going?" queried Officer Beck.

"To an appointment, my good man," said Weinberg. "Have you any objections?"

But Beck, as he said later, had taken a good look at him by this time and recognized Weinberg as the very mug who skipped a $2,000 bail last April—put up by Weinberg's own father, too—after the appelate division of the supreme court had upheld his conviction by the court of special sessions in 1928 on the charge of falsely representing himself to be a lawyer.

"I have a case for you, counselor," said Beck, who has his own ideas of what constitutes humor.

Exhibits Checks

Before Parole Commissioner John C. Maher, Weinberg laid his cards on the table. They consisted of the newspaper parcel and two apparently cancelled checks, one for a round million dollars drawn to the order of the Lawyers Title Guaranty & Trust company and the other, for a trifling half million, made out to one G. H. Drewer. The newspaper parcel held some gnawed remnants of meat and part of a loaf of bread. Weinberg kept a sharp eye on it. But he talked about the checks.

"These checks," he said, "are quite ordinary incidents in my affairs. I have a deal on which you might, no doubt, consider large."

"Why did you jump your bail?" asked the commissioner.

"Oh, that," exclaimed Weinberg. "Oh, that—I had important affairs in London. Enormous affairs. They summoned me. I had no time to dally with ridiculous legal routine. Then I had to go to Montreal in the interest of an international chain of candy and drug stores. It was a $3,000,000 deal. Understand?"

"My goodness!" said the commissioner.

"Yes indeed," said Weinberg. "I expect to be a busy man for the next few months," said Weinberg.

"Your time will be fully occupied," said the commissioner, filling in a printed form.

Fatima's "Aide"

Commissioner Maher had at hand some records which revealed that Weinberg had spent two years in Atlanta federal prison for an odd reason. He received that rap, as it is referred to in some circles, for dressing himself up in gold lace and braid and imposing on President Harding and a number of other people in Washington.

For several weeks Weinberg was widely feted in the national capital as a lieutenant of the navy and special aide-de-camp to her highness, Princess Fatima.

Another time Weinberg gave himself a sumptuous banquet here, posing as the Peruvian ambassador. Later he appointed himself personal secretary to Harold McCormick when the Chicago millionaire was involved in litigation with his wife, Garna Walska.

When the German plane Bremen landed, and the world wanted news, Weinberg stepped to the fore in an aviator's uniform and announced himself personal representative for the flight. But this was no go. Somebody recognized him.

As the "secretary" to Doctor Lorenz, internationally famous "bloodless" surgeon, he enjoyed a slightly longer success.

'Skeleton' of U.S. Mowing Machine Stirs Scientists

LONDON, March 2. (US)—An American dinosaur in Africa! That was the word flashed to London when some workmen came upon what they believed to be the skeleton of a prehistoric animal, in Tetuan near Tangier.

Hot and bothered, but still somewhat dubious of the authenticity of the find a party of scientists hastened to the scene. Several weeks passed; back came the scientists. Their verdict was that the much-exploited bones were nothing more than the ribs and teeth of a hay-making machine—American it is true.

The machine had evidently been abandoned by a Spanish farmer during the Rif war in 1917. The machine was later buried in a landslide and when uncovered bore a remarkable resemblance to a prediluvian animal. A practical joker did the rest.

Mrs. Wagner Suffered More Than a Year

Waco Woman Was Greatly Worried Over Her Condition Until Orgatone Ended Troubles

"I have ganied in health and strength by taking Orgatone and have improved so much I really feel like a different person," said Mrs. Glnevia Wagner of 614 Colcord avenue, Waco, Texas, the other day.

"I have been a sufferer for over a year from stomach trouble," she continued, "and got so bad I could hardly eat enough to keep my strength up. I had no appetite and what little I did eat seemed to do me more harm than good. My food would not digest after eating, gas formed in my stomach that would keep me in misery for hours. I often had a sharp pain in my stomach and my nerves were getting so shattered I could hardly sleep at all, and then I would worry all the time over my condition. I kept getting thinner and thinner all the time.

"I didn't know what else to do for my trouble so I decided I had better try Orgatone, as I was hearing so many favorable comments on this new preparation. I am sure glad I did, for it seems to have gotten rid of my troubles. I eat anything I want now and it don't hurt me at all. I sleep good and get up in the morning feeling hearty and strong and actually able to do all my own housework. I have been entirely relieved of all pain by Orgatone and am better in every way than I have been in years."

HAVE you, too, heard the Cannery racket—the little tin-clad "Sound" operas and jazz numbers, so genially welcomed here by the delicatessen set?

To some theatre interests this is a heart-warming clamor. It means economy for them, hence greater profits.

To persons of sound musical taste, it is lud'—ous and impudent—an affront to the intelligence and taste of the theatre-going public. They see in the talkies no excuse for resort to Canned Music.

Courageous Women Of '76 Featured In D.A.R. Program

At a table springlike in the green and white of its St. Patrick's colors, members of Major Francis Grice chapter D. A. R. had luncheon Saturday in their regular monthly meeting at the country club. The fragrant plum blossoms on the table were veiled in green gauze, and tall green candles gleamed in crystal holders with bows of the green gauze emphasizing the motif. Place cards were miniature pictures of St. Patrick.

During the luncheon, Mrs. Fred T. Couper, regent, presided in a business session during which Mesdames Carey Hunter, G. K. Wilson and Guy Rogers were appointed a committee to prepare the next year's program.

Mrs. G. K. Wilson was leader in the program and introduced Mrs. Lillian Kerr who gave a brilliant and witty talk on the subject of the day, "Courageous Women of '76."

Mrs. Kerr said that in a hunt through historical works for the courageous women of '76, she failed to find them listed; so she began to look up the heroes of '76 and appended to each hero of the period was a very terse sketch of his wife. In fact, the only way to learn of the women was to learn of the men first.

She talked of Molly Sharp, and of Moll Pitcher who gained the sobriquet through carrying water to the fighters and who so bravely manned the gun when her husband fell. Andrew Jackson's mother was sketched in Mrs. Kerr's vivid words and she made a plea for the wonder of so many women's lives whose good has only been known through their families. Susan B. Anthony, who gave 70 years of life working for women's rights, was paid a glorious tribute.

Hostesses for the day were Mesdames L. O. Landon, Guy Rogers, A. C. Ludlam, N. H. Martin, Luke McCrory, Carter McGregor, Paul Pond, J. E. H. Railey, and Miss Nell Gibbs.

Those present were Mesdames E. T. Duff, John Prewett, Guy Rogers, C. Joline, Roy H. King, F. W. Fischer, C. C. Copelin, M. M. Garrett, G. T. Buchanan, S. Y. Ferguson, Ben M. Bell, Ben C. Ackermann, J. E. H. Railey, Ruth S. Cain, Sterling Crumpler, Clark A. Wilcox, R. B. Kerbow, Louise Bristol, E. C. deMontel, Eleanor D. Pace, Carrie E. Wilcox, G. K. Wilson, Clarence Apple, Luke McCrory, L. O. Landon, Paul J. Pond, C. E. Deaton, Walter H. Bachman, Dan Rubsam, Charles H. Reid, J. L. Jackson Sr., A. H. Carrigan, Lillian Kerr, W. H. Sanford, Fred T. Couper, Charles Borland, J. E. Hall, E. B. Bailey, J. T. Harrell, J. P. Waggoner, Jno. L. Waggoner, and Miss Nell Gibbs, with the following guests, Mesdames C. Y. Cavanaugh, Frank Kerr, Mary K. Hartson and F. B. Garcelon.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

We have one deep and abiding thankfulness, that so far in our lives, we have been able to eat just about anything we wished.

◇ ◇ ◇

In the first place—thanks be—it all agrees with us, (it happening that we desire sane and sensible things) and we follow our appetite.

◇ ◇ ◇

Should we call for steak, we are not afraid of steak; we even confess that we do at times like spinach and liver and we can eat shrimp and at the same meal ice cream—if our appetite calls for it. In fact, our digestion has always waited upon our appetite and thereby we have reached what the cards tell us we should weigh and stay just about that weight all the time.

◇ ◇ ◇

Since Providence has been so kind to us, it has been interesting to watch others who—probably being more desirous of sylph-like lines—are forced to diet.

◇ ◇ ◇

We often sit near a woman who lunches on a slice of crisp whole wheat toast and a cup of tea—and nothing more.

◇ ◇ ◇

The Hollywood diet has been rung into our ears. We know quite well two pretty women who started it and stuck bravely to it for almost a week, then fell from grace; and though they seem to be eating all they want, they remain around the same poundage.

◇ ◇ ◇

We know ladies and gentlemen who refuse to eat potatoes, believing that there lies the root of all evil.

◇ ◇ ◇

We know one woman who went through all the days of the Hollywood diet and lost a "too abundant" flesh. Then she said, she regained it. But she is light on her feet and bright in her face and sweet in her heart.

◇ ◇ ◇

We see people lie on their backs and painfully swing legs in the air to reduce they tummy. They perform athletics that are guaranteed to reduce surplus flesh in certain spots—vainly.

◇ ◇ ◇

Just one life to live and then to have to spend half of it making one's self to be graceful in the style of the day. And the style will probably change tomorrow.

◇ ◇ ◇

And think of old Falstaff and the merriment of his days.

◇ ◇ ◇

We are glad they did not diet in Dickens' novels. Our mouths have at times watered over the succulent feasts he set forth.

◇ ◇ ◇

Why we can even remember how good a slice of pound cake tasted when we were 12 years of age and there never was ice cream good as the indigestible rich frozen custard of our youth.

◇ ◇ ◇

We are like one man we've heard of; we'll eat anything but health food.

Wood Block Hand Prints Exhibited In Wichita Falls

An exhibition of original Japanese wood block hand prints, including some important old prints by artists of the 17th and 18th centuries, with a number of moderns, are being shown at the Wichita Falls Academy of Fine arts, where S. Nakaide of Chicago, who is in charge of them, will gladly show and tell of them by appointment.

Hiroshige, one of the important Japanese artists of the past century is represented by several prints, some of them triple and panel pictures showing historical events. There are several other 18th century artists represented in the exhibition.

Examples of the modernistic school of the art of wood block hand prints are provided by Hasui Kawase, Kazumaro Oda, Hiroski Shotol and Soseki. Kawase is, Mr. Nakaide says, an especially prominent new artist.

Subjects shown are landscapes, still life, figures and the historical and symbolical, the two latter being particularly interesting to the Japanese artist.

The exhibition has been shown in Fort Worth and Dallas where prominent artists and business men and women have stamped it with approval by the purchase of prints. From Wichita Falls, Mr. Nakaide will go to Houston where James Chillman, a director of the museum of fine arts, he states has already arranged an exhibition.

To an amateur, the coloring is marvelous and the exhibitor's story of the manner in which these prints are done would create enthusiasm in an artist.

Clubwomen of Wichita Falls will be interested to see among the names of his patrons, that of Miss Anna Shelton of Fort Worth, outstanding in the art centers of that city.

92 Virtues For Boys Given, Only One for Girls

Why Do We Teach Our Boys That There Are Ninety-two Virtues to Which They May Achieve If They Would Enjoy the Respect of Society, and Our Girls That They Need Only One Virtue?

A moralist, who is also a statistician, has figures out that there are 92 virtues to which a man may achieve. Curiously enough, however, only one, single, solitary virtue is deemed necessary for woman. This is chastity. Even purity in woman is regarded as a matter of the body and not of the soul, and so completely do we judge a woman's character by her relationship to men that we speak of a man making an "honest woman" of a woman by marrying her.

The so-called "good women" in every community are those who have lived austerely circumspect lives, with never so much as the flutter of an eyelid toward any man other than their lawfully wedded spouses. This, although they may be backbiters and scandalmongers and filled with all malice and uncharitableness.

And the same view holds as to wives. A woman thinks that she is a good wife if she is faithful to her husband no matter how she nags him, no matter how extravagant she is, no matter what a bad housekeeper she is, no matter if she never does anything to make him comfortable or happy.

Now far be it from me to disparage, even in the slightest manner, this ideal of spotlessness in women. I believe that on the chastity of women depends the purity of the race, the sanctity of the home, the preservation of society itself. I believe that it is every mother's bounden duty to teach her little daughter that her body is a holy thing. I believe that on the plastic mind of every girl should be impressed every text of modesty and clean living.

But I do not think that girls should be taught that chastity is the only virtue that is expected of them and that it does not matter how many petty vices they are guilty of indulging in. Yet this is the general attitude on the subject. From the time a girl can understand anything at all it is drilled into her upon line and precept upon precept, that she must keep herself pure, but nobody says anything to her about being honest and honorable and truthful and reliable, nor a good sport, nor any of the other 90-odd virtues that we expect in a man.

Undoubtedly this is why good women do many little tricks that many a bad man would not do. The woman has qualified in what she believes to be the one supreme virtue of her sex, and so only too often she doesn't consider it wrong to cheat at cards if she gets the chance or to palm her nickel on the street cars if she can get by with it or to have a frock sent up on approval from a fashionable shop and then send it back as unsuitable after a home dressmaker has copied it.

Boys are taught that they must be honest, but girls are not. Indirectly girls are taught that it is a woman's privilege to get what she wants by hook or crook. Boys are taught to be honorable and aboveboard in all their dealings, but a girl is early initiated into all the ways of subtlety and guile and taught that it is a woman's privilege to change her mind and repudiate a bargain when she finds she is getting the worst of it.

Boys are taught to speak the truth, and there is no other man for whom we have such a contempt as we have for the liar, but girls learn to tell fibs along with their first dance steps and generally are accomplished prevaricators by the time they begin to go about. Nor is this considered a reflection on the characters of even the "nicest" girls. It is just that we don't expect a girl to be Veracious Jane, and perhaps we wouldn't know what to do with her if she was.

Nor do we expect women to have another virtue that we demand of men as a commonplace, and that is of being good sports. We call the man a rotter who welches on his bargain, who howls when he loses and who sits down and whines and complains over his lot in life. But it is only the rare woman who is a good enough sport to take things as they come, tempest and storm, as well as sunshine, bitter as well as sweet, and who meets existence as it comes with a grin on her face.

Indeed, women, as a general thing, are such bad losers that many men refuse to do business with them or to help them in the management of their affairs. They have heard too many women blaming men for market depression and investments that went blooey; too many widows who believed themselves robbed of the money they themselves had wasted in extravagance.

And how many women lose out in marriage because they feel that all that is demanded of them as wives is merely to be chaste? They were cold and selfish and nagging. They never made an effort to be companionable or interesting, but they esteemed themselves perfectly good wives because they didn't have affairs with other men.

All of which leads one to reflect that it would be a good thing for the women themselves and for the world at large if they could realize that chastity is not the only virtue. For them, as for men, there are 91 other desirable ones.

SEASONING WITH SUGAR IS APPROVED

Improves the Palatability and Caloric Value of the Food

According to leading food chemists and dietitians, the use of sugar as a flavor in seasoning vegetables, meat dishes, and fruits, is entirely proper.

Sugar adds zest to essential foods which carry vitamins, mineral salts and roughage. It heightens the "taste" of bland vegetables served by themselves. It improves the flavor of meat stews and makes them more palatable. In the case of fresh fruits, sugar modifies harsh acids.

In vegetable and meat cookery, a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a popular rule. This combination in cooking fresh peas, string beans, spinach and other vegetables, not only improves their flavor but also preserves their inviting color.

The great value of seasoning and flavoring foods with sugar is that it makes them more enjoyable. Too often essential foods are rejected, especially by children, because they are not pleasing to the taste. Vegetables and cereals are outstanding examples of foods that can be improved by flavoring with a dash of sugar. Good food promotes health. The Sugar Institute

Bride of Cowboy Selling Tickets

HOLLYWOOD, March 2. (UP)—The smiling young woman who sells tickets at the Bob-O-Link golf putting course of Wilshire boulevard is none other than the former Katherine Thorne, who incurred parental wrath by marrying George Gillespie, a singing cowboy.

The daughter of John C. Thorne, Chicago multi-millionaire and former president of Montgomery Ward and company said today she was earning $20 a week and was happier than she ever had been.

Her employer is her husband. He has $10,000 invested in a one-fourth interest in the course.

"Am I happy?" she laughed. "I got my first check last week and I framed it. Really, it was the first money I had earned in my whole life."

About a year ago Miss Thorne was in Phoenix, Ariz., with her parents. She met Gillespie, fell in love with him and eloped. Her father asked Gillespie's arrest on a kidnaping charge, then withdrew the request because his daughter was of age.

Later, Thorne effected a two-week trial separation, but his daughter and Gillespie were still in love and the marriage continued. The young couple came to Hollywood, where Gillespie worked in pictures for a time.

MISS KATE
Daily Editorial

THEY have buried Kate Barnard, and half the folk for whom she wore her doughty heart to shreds, don't even know that Oklahoma paid final tribute to the woman who did more within her 58 years to correct the abuses of American prisons than any assorted dozen of reform organizations.

But the old lags stood in spirit at her graveside, to wave farewell and beseech an interceding word with the Warden of all souls.

"Miss Kate" was both Oklahoma's first commissioner of charities and corections, and the first woman to hold any elective office in the state.

But boundary lines couldn't contain that compact motor's benevolent energies. Her driving force was felt to the coasts, and wherever it contacted with brutal administration, sparks flew and heads fell.

She was as slight as a buggy whip in those days 90 pounds at most—a mighty small package of woman, but a tremendous batch of dynamite.

At random glance, she seemed plain, insignificant and sallow; but, when in action, her amazing eyes—eyes of a zealot, of an evangelist—invested her face with an eager, challenging beauty; illumined it with the mystic quality of a militant saint's.

She was Jeanne d'Arc, reborn to the prairies—Peter the Hermit, reincarnated in petticoats—a predestined crusader—and, on occasion a human wildcat; by turn, as gentle as Mother Mary and as hair triggered as a two-gunman.

At 30, she came nearer to running Oklahoma than its governor or political machine—a stunted girl whom overwhelming assent had placed in control of the vice and crime and misfortune of her commonwealth.

SOME OF the bosses didn't like her way of managing things, but jobbery never did admire a straight line. If they'd understood the game as well as Kate Barnard played it, they might have ousted her, but in 1915, with a hundred and sixty thousand votes in the palm of her hand and the affection of every decent citizen in the community behind her, she bade fair to hold the job as long as her ambition stayed alive, which meant as long as she was alive, which apparently wasn't to be so very many years. For Kate Barnard was ill, sickened with the miseries of her wards; a prematurely wasted mite, fighting giants' battles for underdogs' betterment.

She came into the world with a second class spine, but a first-class backbone. She was an invalid child, and sickly in maturity.

But Kate was too busy worrying about other people's troubles to notice her own. Her shoulders were hardly wider than a laborer's palm, but they were strong enough to steady an outcast army, until it regained the confidence and courage to march with decent men again.

She cleansed American prisons of their Augean vileness. She introduced humanity where pitilessness was lord. She pointed out the stars of hope through barred windows. She believed in the best of the worst, and found gold where society had habitually looked for brass.

At the start, prejudice and tradition jeered at her theory that a jail-bird is not always destined to remain a bird of prey, but she lived to see that conviction awaken a nation's conscience and inspire a complete revision of its penal method.

"Two hands upon the breast, and labour's done.
"Two pale feet crossed in rest, the race is won."

DAVID BRANCH'S DAILY FILOSOFY

"He who creates machinery to replace workmen should provide sustenance for the workmen."

We must have relief for the great army of unemployed and we will solve the problem of crime to large degree. The law of life is to live and let live and we have too many wealthy people who do not care what becomes of the poor, after they have gotten all they can out of them.

It's almost time for spring housecleaning. Now you may find a couple of those things you have been missing since fall housecleaning.

Maybe congress ought to be adjourned for a while until they get this parrot fever under control.

This is the time of year when every editor must beware of the Ides of March.

A Pup and a Revolution

THE really interesting events in history don't always get the space they deserve. The books are full of brief hints that stir our curiosity; but curiosity is always getting let down with a thump.

There is, for instance, the matter of General Howe's pet dog.

Rupert Hughes, in the third volume of his life of Washington, gives as many of the facts as he can find, and then speculates about the rest; and no reader can help wishing that the chroniclers of the old days had gone out of their way a bit to set down the whole story.

What happened was this:

General Howe, commanding the British army that occupied Philadelphia, had a small dog that he prized very highly. In 1778, or thereabouts, Howe made one of his forays out of Philadelphia in the hope of catching Washington off guard and smashing him. Washington dodged him; but Howe's dog—imbibing, perhaps, the American spirit of liberty—went on the loose, and when the roll was called was not to be found.

Instead of staying with his British master, he had wandered straight into the American camp, where he was busily making friends with the ragged continentals!

A day or so later Washington sent out a squad with a flag of truce. The squad approached the British lines, was met by British sentries—and formally handed over General Howe's dog, who trotted back to headquarters to receive the general's forgiveness.

That's the story. And somehow we'd be willing to swap a lot of accounts of battles and political maneuvers for a good, eye-witness account of that little transaction between the lines.

The thing isn't hard to picture, at that. One can imagine the squad of bronzed Americans stalking along in military formation, with the excited dog tugging on a leash and—no doubt—drawing a string of half affectionate curses from the sergeant detailed to lead him; the arrival of this squad at the British outpost, with all hands presenting arms; the subtle relaxation of military dignity as some immaculate, red-coated British sergeant took the pup into custody—and, lastly, the parade of the British squad to the commanding officer's tent, with the dog joyously frisking forward to stick his wet nose into the face of the good-natured British general.

That's the sort of history that makes interesting reading. To be sure, it isn't so terribly important; yet, after all, it does make the men of that day come to life for us. The Brtiish and American soldiers can never be mere automatons again, once we have seen them in this business of transferring a stray dog from one army to another. They come alive for us, turn into flesh and blood.

The Problem of Hazing

HAZING is one of the perennial problems for the American college. Every college has its troubles with it at some time or another. Just now it is North Carolina State that is the unlucky institution, with three students expelled for the offense and several more under investigation.

The fact in the case are of the usual kind. One student was pulled out of bed by masked invaders and beaten so badly that he was painfully injured. Several other students were forcibly given grotesque hair cuts.

Just what it is that makes intelligent young men carry on activities like this is a puzzler. One would suppose that a college man, of all people, would be above such idiotic barbarities. But the trouble crops out in all colleges. It almost makes one suspect that there is a hidden, inborn streak of cruelty in the American character.

Our Favorite Flower

THE NATIONAL poll by which the American Nature association sought to learn what flower should be chosen as the country's national bloom has just ended, with the wild rose far in the lead. The wild rose got upward of 490,000 out of 1,067,672 votes cast; and the columbine, 150,000 votes behind, came in second.

It is rather interesting to note that such popular favorites as the violet, the dogwood, the mountain laurel and the goldenrod lagged far in the rear, receiving only a fractional percentage of the total.

Whether we really need a national flower, and whether one can be chosen out of hand by popular vote, are other questions. For the moment, at least, the wild rose seems to have first call. And if this national poll will induce a few Americans, this spring, to go hiking through the meadows and wood instead of motoring along hard-surfaced roads, it will have justified itself amply.

Getting Rid of Details

EVERY school boy is familiar with the copybook maxim that one should do things oneself if one wants to make sure that they are done properly.

Modern business, however, steps on that maxim a little bit more firmly each year.

The current issue of The Golden Book quotes Louis Wiley, business manager of the New York Times, as follows:

"I must confess that my system rests on the self-admonition of 'Never do anything yourself that you can get someone else to do for you.'"

For the young man holding his first job, of course, this is punk advice. But for the executive it is excellent. Many a good executive has been ruined because he did not know how to put the handling of details in the hands of his subordinates.

Quotations Worth Noting

Christianity's Saving Power Best Proof of Its Divinity, Says Martin

How Christ Answered Questioners of Own Day Told in Address to Floral Heights Men's Class

In his address before the members of the Men's Bible class of the Floral Heights Methodist church Sunday morning, Judge P. A. Martin declared that the evidence of the divinity of Christ lies in the works of the Christian church and its membership.

"The strongest proof of the divinity of our religion and of its great founder is its saving power as evidenced by the lives of men," the speaker said.

"If it is true that sin is growing and righteousness is decreasing as the years go by, it is because the church of God, the 'light of the world' has ceased to shed the mellow glow of the faith of the fathers to the world of men."

A brief synopsis of the address is quoted as follows:

"John the Baptist, while preaching in the wilderness of Judea, saw the Master one day walking near by, and, raising his voice, so that all his disciples could hear, said 'behold the lamb of God that taketh away the sins of the world.' At that time his faith was supreme and his vision perfect. He had seen at his baptism, the spirit descending upon his head in the form of a dove and had heard a voice from heaven saying 'this is my beloved son, in whom I am well pleased.' So John thought a mighty and a sudden transformation of the world would take place. He doubtless expected to see not only the sudden establishment of a spiritual kingdom, in which there would be no sin, but also the establishment of a temporal kingdom with this wonderfully gifted young man upon the throne of David, reigning over a happy people.

Loose Faith

"But nothing like this had happened. Jesus, with a handful of disciples walked about preaching. No armies were mustered into service; no banners were displayed. Herod still ruled, as John had very good reason to know, for that bloody monarch, getting sore under the rebuke of the desert evangelist had laid hold upon John and cast him into prison. So the Baptist became doubtful and suffered a loss of faith, for the moment, (a common human failing, likely to come to any man in time of trouble and distress). So he sent a message from his prison by two of his disciples asking the Master a truly great question 'Art thou he that should come or do we look for another.' In various forms the same question has been the great question of the ages. Is He really divine? Is he really the son of God? Or was he simply a great teacher, a great prophet, to be classified with Confucius and Buddha and Socrates or with Isiah, Soloman or Moses or Mohammed? And the question is not settled to the satisfaction of the world today. How shall it be answered?

"Let us see how the Master himself answered it. He could have simply affirmed his divinity. But Jesus was all wise. A simple affirmation would not be any more convincing than the claims of a thousand false prophets, both before and after him. So he answered this honest inquiry in the most convincing way imaginable, by simply referring the inquirers to the work he was doing. 'Go, tell John,' said he 'what ye see and hear; how the blind receive their sight the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised up and the poor have the gospel preached to them.'

Proof of Divinity

"Jesus knew that his work would be an unanswerable argument, an unimpeachable proof of his divinity, not only to suffering John in the prison, but to the unborn millions to follow as the ages rolled on. He knew that men through all ages would be asking the same question, so he gave a final and a complete answer to be used by his church, not only to renew the failing faith of the saints but to put to silence the enemies of his religion in all ages of the world. When Jesus left his little band of followers he said 'ye are my witnesses.' And the Christian church became his representative in the world.

"Teeming millions of men and women in the world are even now asking the same question. 'Is this Christ the church is preaching about he that should come, or do we look for another?' We have answered by the simple affirmative time and again. We have referred to historical proofs, legends and traditions; but the world shakes its head and goes on asking the perplexing question. Only by our works, as a church, can we answer it. Is the church doing the work of the Christ; if it is we can satisfactorily answer the question. If it is not, then our professions and our preaching is 'as a sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal.' Can we show to the world that the spiritually blind are receiving their sight, the spiritually lame are made to walk, the spiritually dead are raised up and that the poor have the gospel preached to them? These are the proofs of the divinity of our Master that the world is demanding today more than in any age of the world before.

"And there never was a time in all history when mankind were so ready, so anxious and so willing to be led aright if only the leadership could be had. The world is ready to believe if offered the proof. It is sick of sin and folly, tired of war and weary of pleasure; surfeited with luxury, hungry and exhausted with the mad race of life. It has tasted the bitter dregs at the bottom of the cup of sin. If the church loses its power; if it surrenders its spiritual leadership; if it ceases to carry on the great work of its founder then the world will be led by the spirit of evil and conditions will become a thousand times worse.

If Sin Grows

"If there is any truth in the thing we so often hear nowadays; that the world is growing worse and worse all the time, those who belong to the church of Christ and who are supposed to be the 'salt of the earth' have lost the saving power of the salt; if it be true that sin is growing and righteousness is decreasing as the years go by, it is because the church of God, the 'light of the world' has ceased to shed the mellow glow of the faith of the fathers to the world of men.

"The strongest proof of the divinity of our religion and of its great founder is its saving power as evidenced by the lives of men. Are we real witnesses of this saving power? Do we bear in our own persons the marks of the saving power? Do our lives bear witness of the divinity of the Christ we worship? Is your life and mine an evidence of saving grace? If they do then we are true 'witnesses' for Him."

The Once Over
By H. I. PHILLIPS

"Wanted—Bride and groom for dignified public wedding Dania Tomato Day festival, March 6. All expenses paid. L. A. Packer, Dania, Fla." — Florida Times-Union.

"Oh, goody, goody!" cried Ima Dodo as she came bouncing into the front room to her boy friend. "Now we can do it."

"Do what?" gasped her boy friend.

"Get married!" cried Ima, all aflutter, "and without it costing a nickel."

"How and where?" demanded the b. f.

"At a tomato festival," said Ima, showing him the foregoing advertisement.

"A tomato festival!" exclaimed the b. f.

"Sure," crooned Ima, leaping into his lap.

"What's the idea? Do I look like a tomato?" asked the b. f.

"Not very much, but you don't have to. The advertisement don't say nothing about you having to look like a tomato. You can get married no matter what vegetable you look like."

"It's a great outlook," sneered the b. f. "Are you sure you've read through all the classified ads. Maybe you could dig up a chance to put on a nice wedding at some onion growers' picnic or an eggplant producers' ball or something."

"You're always so funny," lisped Ima. "This is our big chance. Think of a big wedding and all expenses paid!"

"Who's gonna pay 'em?"

"I dunno," admitted Ima. "Probably some nice man who likes tomatoes."

"Sliced or stewed?" demanded the boy friend.

"He don't say," replied Ima.

"Sometimes I can't make out whether you are as dumb as you seem or dumber. Why should a man who likes tomatoes pick on us? And suppose we ain't the kind of tomatoes he likes?"

"You're just putting me off again," insisted Ima weeping a little.

"Now let's get at the bottom of this opportunity for a lovely wedding at the Dania Tomato Day festival," urged the lad. "Don't you understand why that guy wants a bride and groom for that wedding?"

"He don't say."

"Of course he don't say. It's all perfectly clear. It's for advertising purposes. It's a press agent stunt to be pulled off as an entertainment feature of this here cucumber carnival."

"Tomato," corrected Ima.

"All right. The tomato growers are to have a big clambake or something and the idea is that after all the tomatoes have been inspected and the planting and care of this particular vegetable has been discussed at length we are to march out before the vokels and be married to exploit the 1930 tomato crop."

"Is that it?" asked Ima.

"I can see the newspaper headlines now . . . 'Tomato Carnival Romance' . . . 'Touching Love Match Solemnized in Vegetable Kingdom' . . . 'Pair Plight Troth in Interest of Bigger and Better Tomatoes'"

"Would it be like that?" asked Ima.

"There would even be pictures of us with the title 'Happy Tomato Pair Start on Honeymoon Tour of Catsup Factories'" concluded the boy friend.

Hemphill County Votes On Highways March 25

Special to The Record News.

PERRYTON, Texas, March 2—People of Ochiltree county will watch with interest the outcome of the $700,000 road bond issue, which will be presented to voters of Hemphill county, March 25 for the paving of highways 33 and 4 through the county. Ochiltree and Wheeler counties have already voted bonds to pave No. 4 and if Hemphill fills the gap, it will mean almost continuous paving to Fort Worth and Dallas for people of this section.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

A New Viewpoint

Today I wish to urge you to acquire a new point of view about food. You have probably selected your food principally because of its agreeable taste, or because it filled you with a comfortable feeling of contentment; or, perhaps, also because having these filling and tasty properties, it could be secured at a nominal price. If the "pleasures" of the table were the only things to consider, this way of selecting food would be as good as any, but the same caution must be applied to the use of food that you would use in regulating any other acts of your life.

Although we do not often pause to philosophize as we are doing now, it is nevertheless true that our ordinary acts of everyday life are governed by deep seated conscious or unconscious principles which are often called laws of nature. The first of these has been aptly called the law of self-preservation. You are constantly on the alert to protect yourself against bodily harm, but you do not often stop to consider that you may be slowly eating yourself to death.

You avoid drinking a strong poison because you know of its immediate dangerous effect. If you make a thorough study of the effects of food upon the body you will soon learn that slow poisons are being constantly developed by dietetic errors and, although the results are slow in action, they are none the less sure. Study, then, how to select and proportion your food so as to avoid this food poisoning and thus preserve and prolong your life.

The desire to achieve success is an ever-present longing which may be realized only through having a sound mind in a sound body. The successful man will always achieve more if he lives a prudent life. The early deaths of these same successful men are brought about when they become self-satisfied and turn themselves over to injudicious gormandizing.

If the same sensible rules they have applied to business were used in the regulation of their physical habits, those dynamic leaders in our commercial world would find equal success in the cultivation of good health.

Consider as carefully the quality, quantity and mixtures of your foods as you do the quality, quantity and mixture of the gasoline supply for your automobile. The flavor of the right food is just as delicious as that of the wrong food. Eating the proper quantity will leave you with a more lasting feeling of contentment than comes from stuffing. The use of correct combinations of food will increase your assimilative functions, and you will avoid the distress attendant upon food battles in your alimentary canal.

A few minutes' daily study of these diet problems will bring you rich rewards in increased health and vitality with which to carry on your life work.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Automatic Heart

Question—Mrs. W. M. asks: "Will you be kind enough to tell me the meaning of an automatic heart, and is it dangerous?"

Answer—The heart always works automatically, so I do not know what you mean by "automatic" heart. Perhaps you mean either an athletic heart, or what is called an abdominal heart. Athletic heart is one which has been enlarged through hard exercise. The one called abdominal heart is where the heart has been displaced into the abdomen.

Iodine

Question—L. L. S. asks: "Is it safe to use iodine internally to stop pyorrhea?"

Answer—Many dentists use iodine locally on the gums in treating pyorrhea and it is often used as an internal remedy. I do not believe the internal treatment is necessary for the cure of pyorrhea, but in case you do use this treatment you must do so under the directions of a physician who is familiar with its use. The right dosage must be taken to suit each particular case or one is liable to suffer from iodism from taking over-doses of this remedy.

Removing Wrinkles

Question—Mrs. H. asks: "Can you suggest a good prescription for removing wrinkles? I don't know what to buy, as there are so many removers from which to choose."

Answer—It is dangerous to use preparations for removing wrinkles except as they are used by trained cosmeticians. Sometimes liquid preparations are used, and others use a peeling induced by a burning from the ultra-violet light. Massage treatments can then be given to the skin and ice applied several times daily to produce a good blood circulation. The very small wrinkles can be almost entirely removed by such methods, but of course the large ones cannot be changed except by facial surgery, and the final results of this method are very disapointing. will be glad to send you a special article on the subject if you will forward a large self-addressed stamped envelope.

TEXAS LEAGUE BALL CLUBS HOLD INITIAL WORKOUTS TODAY

SPUDDERS TO GATHER ON LOT

Fitzgerald to Pilot Squad Until Friday

With four members of last year's Spudders and a handfull of rookies on the scene, the first workouts of the 1930 baseball season will start here Monday with Howard Fitzgerald, veteran Wichita Falls outfielder, in charge of the squad until Skipper Carl Williams arrives Friday. The workouts beginning Monday will be informal, the regular spring training being scheduled to start Friday.

In addition to Fitzgerald, Hal Wiltse, Cy Smith and Russell Cromer were here Sunday awaiting the first workouts. Wiltse and Smith have been here for several days. Cromer arrived Saturday from Fort Worth. Smith and Cromer were with the Spudders part of last season, spending the majority of their time, however, with Abilene. Eull Moore, also with Abilene last year, will be on the lot.

Steers Start Today

DALLAS, March 2. (AP)—With all but six of 41 players on the roster either signed to contracts or having accepted terms offered them, the 1930 spring training season for the Dallas Steers will get under way Monday morning at the Steer park. Jakie Atz, for years a successful manager of the minor leagues and pilot of six consecutive league pennant winners at Fort Worth, makes his official bow as the helmsman of the Herd.

Only batterymen have been ordered to report the first week and indications tonight were that a number of those probably would be a few days late. Eight men were considered sure to participate in the initial rehearsal. They were on the scene Saturday. The list includes Catchers Robertson and A. P. Flynn and Pitchers Homer Blankenship, Walter Tauscher, Elmer Bray, Bill Wilson, Harry Weinstein and Ellsworth Vickers. Of these, Blankenship and Tauscher are the only men who were on the team last year. Robertson is the only other veteran, the remainder being rookies.

Cats to Mineral Wells

FORT WORTH, March 2. (AP)—More than a score of athletes, the main body of the Fort Worth baseball squad will leave here tomorrow morning for Mineral Wells to begin three weeks drill in the resort city.

Twenty-six of the 38 members of the squad will be battling for the five berths for non-class men on the squad. As the Panthers prepare for their first day's training, it appears they compose the best looking bunch that has represented Fort Worth in the springtime in the past four years.

25 Buffs Ready

HOUSTON, March 3. (AP)—A big blonde Dutchman, Joe Schultz by name, here Monday will superintend the initial 1930 workout of the Houston Buffs.

Around 25 aspirants are expected to assemble Monday morning at 9:30 at Buffalo stadium. The afternoon workout will get under way at 2:30.

Among the athletes at the first workout will be Carey Selph, one of the spark plugs of the long to be remembered 1928 Houston team.

Sports Play Game

SHREVEPORT, La., March 2. (AP)—As a preliminary gesture to the arrival of infield and outfield candidates, batterymen of the Shreveport Texas league Sports, who have been training since Feb. 24, staged an abbreviated baseball game here today.

There were 18 hurlers and four catchers on hand, and they formed the two teams. The second crop of players will report tomorrow.

Indians on Hand

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 2 (AP)—Although the San Antonio Indians will not report for spring training until March 10 and 17, Manager George Burns, former outfielder of the New York Giants and last year manager of the Springfield, Mass., Eastern league team, is already here working out with the Giants.

Pitcher Dick Moudy, acquired last year from the Pacific coast league, is also here for an early start. Catcher Frank Meyers has been spending the winter here and with Burns and Moudy will work out with the Giants and Sox this week.

Two rookies have been added to the Indian list. One is Joe Moore, formerly of Texas A. & M. college, whose home is at Gause, Texas, and the other is Hugo Klaerner, pitcher from Fredericksburg.

Cubs Start Soon

WACO, Texas, March 2. (AP)—There is no training camp activity here yet for Waco's Cubs, and preseason activity today was reported quiet. Del Pratt's Texas league entrants were scheduled to report some time this week.

Street Paving Work At Turkey Begins Soon

Special to The Record News.

TURKEY, Texas, March 2.—With the authorization of C. L. Hazle, engineer, to draw up plans for the letting of a contract for paving of local streets, Turkey is well on the way toward actual construction along this line.

This is in line with the road paving program, on which engineers have about completed their work. Contract should be let on the paving of some 30 miles of highway in Turkey precinct within the next 60 or 90 days. Highway No. 18 is to be paved south to the Motley county line, and east to the Estelline precinct line, and highway 86 to be paved west to the Briscoe county line. It will mean an expenditure of more than $600,000.

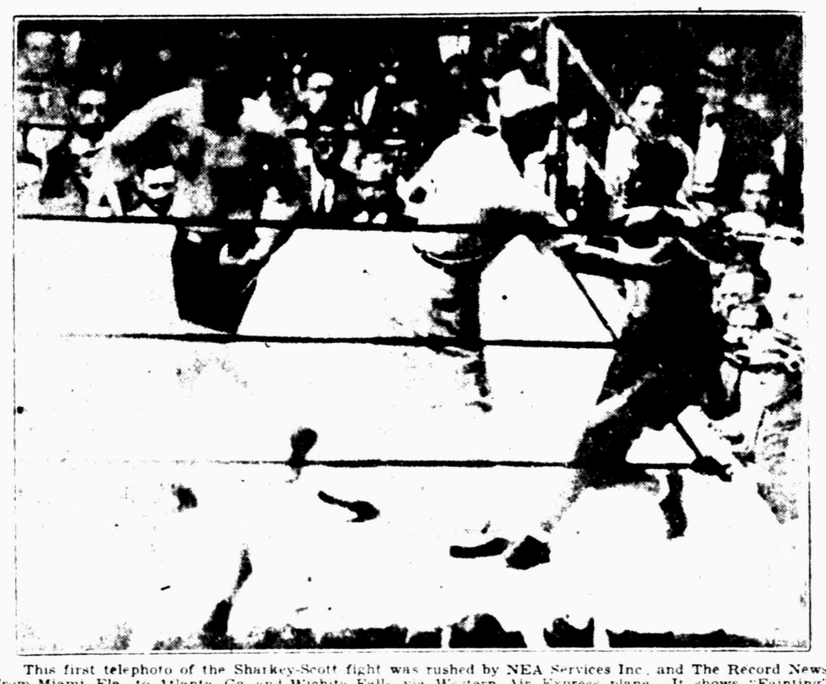

The city commission is hastening the work on the street paving in order to have this work completed before fall.

CLARENDON, Texas, March 2.—Arrangements are being made here by a committee composed of C. J. Douglas, Holman Kennedy and Mrs. Fred Rathjen for the annual banquet of the ex-students from the University of Texas which is to be held next Monday night. This banquet will be a four-county affair, all ex-students from Texas in the counties of Donley, Collingsworth, Childress and Hall being invited to attend.

Heavyweight Battle Ends in Tears and Fouls

This first telephoto of the Sharkey-Scott fight was rushed by NEA Services Inc., and The Record News from Miami, Fla. to Atlanta, Ga. and Wichita Falls, via Western Air Express plane. It shows "Fainting" Phil Scott registering pain as he clung to the ropes in the third and final round of his fight with Jack Sharkey which ended amid tears on the part of the "Terrible Sharkey Man" from Boston and cries of foul by Scott. Lou Magnolia, referee, is seen assisting Scott to his corner. Sharkey, who was awarded the fight by technical knockout, is dancing away to a neutral zone.

PRIMO MEETS NEGRO TONIGHT

Carnera to Box Clark at Philadelphia

NEW YORK, March 2. (AP)—Boxing hits the doldrums this week without anything to get excited about except Primo Carnera's eighth appearance in an American ring.

The Italian giant, none of whose bouts has gone more than two rounds, meets Roy (Ace) Clark, negro heavyweight, in the feature 10-rounder at the weekly show at Philadelphia tomorrow night. Clark stands 6 feet, 7½ inches in his stocking feet and weighs 235 pounds. Carnera will have an advantage of about one inch in height and 40 pounds in weight. Five six-rounders will support the card with Buck Weaver, Medicine Lodge, Kan., meeting Leonard Dixon, Leiperville, heavyweights; Jean Boireau, France taking on Calvin Reed, Philadelphia, featherweights; and Willie Henry, California, meeting Johnny Alberts, Wilkesbarre, Pa., in bouts of general interest.

Carnera was scheduled to box at Tulsa Friday night, but this bout was cancelled because no suitable opponent could be found.

Pampas Stars Sweep Western Polo Contests

LOS ANGELES, March 2. (AP)—South America's Four Horsemen, the Santa Paula Polo team from Argentina, are running rampant in these United States again.

The same quartet of riders which carried its threat to the international matches in 1925 before being subdued, has swept a clean swath of victories during the winter play here and is now contemplating another venture into big time competition with the international meeting Sept. 12 at Meadowbrook.

With their mounts still slow in getting their land legs again, after a hard sea voyage, these Four Horsemen from the Pampas rode off with the Pacific Coast Open championship as their most outstanding performance.

A 24 handicap team, the Argentines displayed superior teamwork in their final match when they edged out the Midwick 24 goal aggregation, which included two of the country's leading horsemen in Eric Pedley and Elmer Boseke.

The Santa Paula team, named for the Estancia of the Reynal family, situated in the Province of Cordoba, has been playing together under the direction of Capt. Manuel Andrada, a seven-goal man, since 1924.

Close followers of the game here say that Alferdo Harrington is the best No. 1 man in the saddle today, and stress the unusual, playing ability of the Reynal brothers—Jose, a seven goal man, and Juan who like Harrington, rates at five goals.

The Sportlight

By GRANTLAND RICE

The Odd Mr. Ott

On March 2, Melvin T. Ott, of the New York Giants, was 21 years old. He was born in 1909 at Gretna, La.

There is nothing peculiar in the fact that Mel Ott is 21 years old or that he was born in Gretna, La. But it is a trifle odd that at the age of 21 Mel Ott is starting his sixth year with the New York Giants. He came to the club at the age of 16. In 1926, at the age of 17, he played in 35 games and batted .383. Without looking further into the matter, you can write this down as a record—the only 17-year-old big leaguer who ever batted above .380. When Ott was 18 years old he played in more than 80 games, and slumped to .282. He broke as swiftly as a flock of stocks crashed last fall. But in 1928 and 1929 Ott came back again to the neighborhood of .330, and last year he was one of the star home run producers of the season.

The young Inat starts his next season with a four-year average of .328. As he is still younger than most recruits who finally break in, he should be about ready to combine experience and youth and step into the middle of his finest year.

Ott's Nearest Rival

Then there is the case of one James Emory Foxx, of the Athletics. Foxx was born in Somerville, Md., Oct. 22, 1907. He is now 22 years old.

Foxx played with the Easton club in the Eastern Shore league in 1924, when he was 16 years old. At the age of 17 he came to the Athletics and in 10 games handed Connie Mack a batting average of .667. Which was fair enough for 17 or any other age you can think of.

At the age of 22 Foxx is starting his sixth season with the Athletics, where his five-year average has been .342. In his one world series start young Foxx paddled out a mark of .350 in five games, to prove that all pitchers practically look alike to his batting eye. Foxx so far has outhit Ott, and the race between this pair of young veterans will be one of the most interesting spots of the next campaign. They are two great kids, who have a long way to go, and as both are sluggers, even at this soon age, one of them may become the Babe Ruth of 1934 or 1935, when the Babe finally decides to cease firing. Ott and Foxx are two unusual contributions to sport, since few ball players ever crash the big league boundary at 20 or 21, much less come to his spot with several seasons under their belts.

A Jump on Cobb

Ott and Foxx had the jump on Ty Cobb in this matter of age. Ty was 19 when he reported to Detroit in 1905, and he was 43 when he finally decided that 23 years of big league competition was about all his age could stand. A remarkable feature is that Cobb at the age of 43 was batting close to the marks held by Ott and Foxx, who were less than half his age. Cobb's greatest years came around the age of 26 and 27, so the two youths from New York and Philadelphia still have some seasons ahead before they come to their prime.

To figure that either will be "another Cobb" is another story. Baseball has known only one Cobb, just as baseball has known only one Ruth.

Other Young Stars

Strangely enough, while tennis and golf have more playing youngsters than any other sport can show today, there are few young stars who have shown championship caliber. The two notables in this respect are Horton Smith and Helen Hicks in golf. Tennis has yet to show that another Tilden, Cochet, Johnston, Richards or Lacoste is coming on.

Horton Smith was a sensation before he was 21. He won't be 21 until May. Helen Hicks has had a remarkable record, and she is still shy of 20. She ought to be a sure champion within a year or two, at almost any given start. Miss Hicks has youth and power, and her game has shown a remarkable form improvement during the last year.

Horton Smith is good enough to win an open now at any start. He may win one in a hurry, or he may have to wait for years, but the winning game is there.

When Mac Smith tied for the U. S. open in 1909 he was as fine a young player as golf has known, and it was predicted that he would breeze through in a flock of opens before he finished. That was 21 years ago, and Mac has yet to win his first national title. He has been a great golfer for 21 years, but the crown has never come to his Scotch dome.

As some one wrote before, "Dame Fortune is a cock-eyed wench that shoots not where she aims." The Old Dame has to be with you in these stirring days before you ever look down on the rest of the world.

PORKERS WEAR CAGE CROWN

Closing Games Have Little Effect on Standings

DALLAS, March 2. (AP)—The Arkansas Razorbacks today wore the basket ball crown of the Southwest conference for the fifth consecutive year.

Battles by the six Texas teams failed to halt the lone entry from Arkansas, and closing games last night made little difference in the standings of the Texas entrants.

Southern Methodist university's defeat of Texas Christian university clinched the former's hold on third place, at the same time sending the Horned Frogs to the foot of the class with Rice institute, defeated in the final game by Baylor.

Texas unexpectedly tumbled before the inspired playing of the Texas Aggies, but the defeat did not affect their hold on second place. The victory placed the Aggies in a tie with Baylor for fourth.

Arkansas, with 10 wins and two defeats, was conceded the crown for the fifth successive year several days ago.

Despite their lowly standing, the Owls furnished the conference its best sharpshooters, Jake Hess and Hart, who between them rolled up 220 points. Hess was conference high scorer with 113 points; Hart second with 107; Eury, T. C. U. center, took third with 104 and Rose the Big 'Un of Texas, was fourth with 95.

Here's the way they finished the season:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.
Arkansas	10	2	.833
Texas	8	4	.667
S. M. U.	6	6	.500
Texas Aggies	4	6	.400
Baylor	4	6	.400
Rice	4	8	.333
T. C. U.	4	8	.333

Perryton Cage Teams Have Profitable Season

Special to The Record News

PERRYTON, Texas, March 2.—Basket ball in the Perryton High school is a paying proposition, as is shown by the fact that the Rangers and Rangerettes emerged with a surplus of $647.51 in the bank after all expenses, including equipment for the season, were paid. The Rangers had a surplus of $450.63 and the Rangerettes $197.15. The equipment purchased during the year should last several seasons.

Seniors Win Over Burkburnett Juniors

Special to The Record News

BURKBURNETT, Texas, March 2.—The senior division of the Burkburnett High school carried away high honors at the interclass basket ball tournament here last week, when they outpointed the juniors by a large margin. Dale Johnson was the outstanding performer of all participants, with 10 points to his credit. The sophomores did likewise in defeating the freshmen by a large score. Fat Smith and Alvis Norvil accounted for the majority of points.

FEW CHANGES AMONG GIANTS

McGraw to Seek Pennant With Same Crew

Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of first hand Associated Press stories on major league baseball prospects.

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 2.—John J. McGraw, five lean years behind him, is preparing to take virtually the same Giant club that pulled up third in last year's National league derby, polish it up here and there, and try to alleviate the situation.

GAYLE TALBOT, JR.

The outfit that has been drilling here for a fortnight perhaps is the least altered of any in either major league. It simply is taking up where it left off last October. There is the same veteran pitching staff, the same catching, an infield intact and outfield without any important alteration. There is, in addition, a fancy crop of rookies.

"You tell me where it will finish," McGraw requested. "I've been trying to do it for 40 years and don't seem to know anything about it yet."

McGraw's new lieutenants, Dave Bancroft and Irish Meusel, have taken much of the early work off the chief's hands. So far the veteran pilot has not donned a uniform, contenting himself with directing things from the sidelines. This was taken by some of the camp followers to be indicative of something or other. At least, after 27 years at the Giant helm, McGraw has gained a certain restraint.

A scrap around the middle cushion between Andy Reese, who held down the fort most of last season and Eddie Marshall, late of Bridgeport, who covets the job, probably has been the most enlivening influence in the Giant camp. Marshall is certain to be retained, and if his batting holds up he has a fine chance of putting Reese on the bench. Right now, they say, he is a snappier fielder than Reese and his batting average of .316 with Bridgeport last year promises to suffice. McGraw likes him.

Art's Brother There

Something of an attraction in his own right, but without real hope of getting on the salary list, is Leonard Shires, brother of the effervescent Art. "Lennie," as he is called has worked out at second and has smacked the ball solidly upon occasion, but is slow afoot. McGraw gave him a chance at Arthur's request.

There isn't a chance of breaking in at the three other points on the inner works. Bill Terry will be back at first, Travis Jackson at short and Freddie Lindstrom at third. Terry recently underwent a minor operation on his thumb and was not due to report for another week.

The veteran Bob O'Farrell and Francis Hogan, hefty youngster, will be back to give the McGrawmen plenty of power behind the plate. O'Farrell just now is listed as a holdout, but they are not taking him seriously. Francis Healey, an 18-year-old from the sandlots probably will be carried as third backstop. He looks like a great prospect. Art Veltman, a converted outfielder, is tagged for another year at Bridgeport.

Veteran Outfield

Eddie Roush, Melvin Ott, Fred Leach, and Charles Fullis comprise a veteran outfield, with Johnny Mostil an added starter. Mostil, reported fully recovered from a broken leg of last season, was McGraw's personal contribution to the strengthening process. He figured he needed a good right-hand hitter, and the White Sox training some five miles away, were willing. So Mostil caught a trolley and changed uniforms reported a holdout, has notified McGraw he will report March 14.

A trio of rookies making a spirited bid for an outfield berth are George Fisher from Buffalo; Ray Fitzgerald from Springfield, Mass., and Sam Leslie from Memphis, of the Southern association. One of the three is likely to catch on. Leslie, who compiled a .376 average last year, may get the nod.

Six veterans of the 1929 mound staff are limbering up for the approaching campaign. Two of them, Carl Hubbell and Bill Walker, are southpaws. John Scott, Joe Genewich, Fred Fitzsimmons and Ralph Judd comprise the Orthodox holdovers. Larry Benton has refused to sign a contract and McGraw, at least, is satisfied he means it. The Giants are prepared to go right on without him. Walker, who won his last nine starts last year, and Judd, who captured three in a row after joining the Giants, appear to be the particular apples of the McGrawan eye.

Promising Rookies

Among the newcomers, Ray Lucas and Leroy Parmelee, both purchased from the Toledo Mudhens, have the best assurance of spending the summer in a New York uniform. Great things also are expected of the veteran Herbert Pruett, whose 15 wins and 7 losses with Newark last year brought him back into the Majors. Jim Tennant, a six footer with a steaming fast ball, has looked good in practice bouts.

McGraw will see his 1930 model in action for the first time when it encounters the Texas university nine March 6 at Austin. From there on the Giants will get chummy with the White Sox, meeting them in a series of 17 exhibition games before getting down to business.

WARD WINS MARATHON

HOUSTON, March 2. (AP)—A spurt at the finish of which the veteran Clarence Demar was incapable, won the first annual national A. A. U. 20-mile marathon for Fred Ward Jr. of Dover, N. J. here today.

Sir Thomas to Enter 'Shamrock V' In Fifth Try for Yacht Supremacy

GOSPORT, England, March 2. (AP)—Sir Thomas Lipton's new American cup challenger, Shamrock V, is nearing completion and will be launched soon for sailing tests at Cowes, Southend and Ramsgate.

The builders call it "the fastest cutter that ever spread canvas to the breeze." Sir Thomas, not so superiative, says the new challenger has a "much better chance than any of the other Shamrocks."

All England is wishing the Irish yachtsman luck in his fifth and possibly last America cup race with crack yachts of the United States off Newport, R. I., Sept. 13.

When the new Shamrock sails sometime in July it will be the 14th time that British yachtsmen have started out to try to regain the world's premier yachting trophy, which they lost to the Schooner America in 1851.

Sir Thomas made his first attempt in 1899 and lost. He repeated the challenge in 1901, 1903 and 1920 but was unsuccessful. On the threshold of his 80th year he is going to try again.

The new challenger is about 70 feet long and has a hollow, steel, three-section mast 150 feet high. It has a sail spread of about 7,600 square feet. In this respect it is smaller than the last challenger which carried 10,500 square feet of sail.

Both challenger and defender will be of approximately the same size and sail spread, since this year they must adhere to the "J" class regulations of the New York Yacht club. Each will have a mast considerably higher than any which has yet been stepped into a vessel of corresponding size.

Capt. Edward Heal, famed Brightline sea sailing skipper, has been selected by Sir Thomas to sail his challenger. The luxurious triple-screw, steam yacht "Erin" will escort the Shamrock V.

BOWLERS MAY ENTER TOURNEY

Local Teams Plan to Go to State Contests

Plans for sending four bowling teams from Wichita Falls to the state tournament at Beaumont April 15 will be discussed at a meeting of captains of all City and Major league bowling teams Monday night, it was announced. The meeting will be held in the office of the Cinderella Boot shop, 821 Indiana avenue. All team captains of both leagues are urged to attend. The meeting will be held at 7:30 o'clock.

The principal matter to come up at the meeting, it was said, is that of financing the trip to Beaumont. The local bowlers recently participated in the tournament at Tulsa, Okla., making the trip there by airplane. It is hoped that it can be arranged to have Wichita Falls represented at the state tournament.

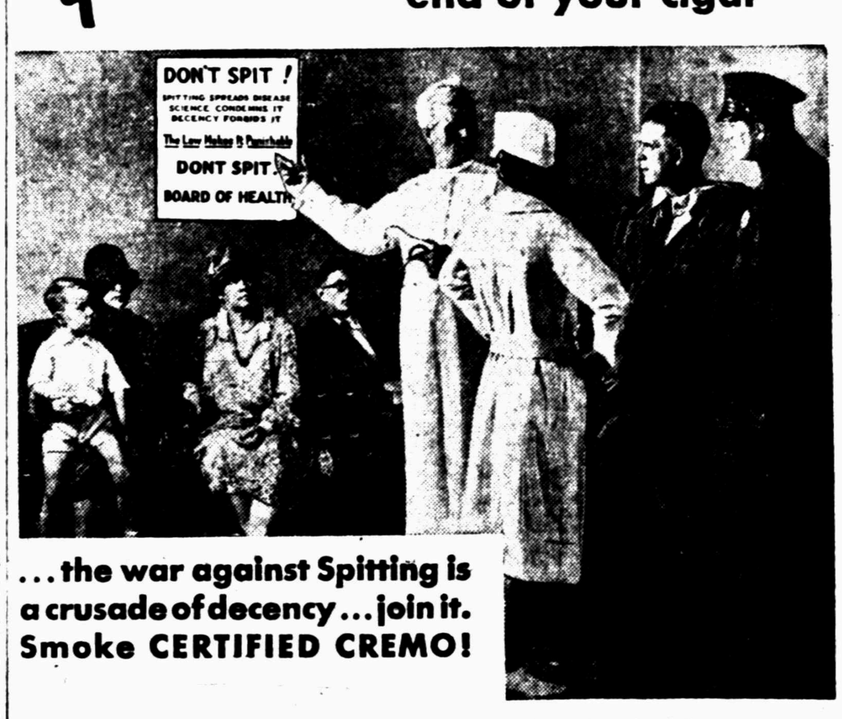

CHAMPIONSHIP TILT

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 2. (AP)—Missouri and Kansas will battle Wednesday in Lawrence for the 1930 big six basket ball title.

Wherever you go

Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar

...the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency... join it. Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

"It serves him right," we say when the filthy spitter is caught in the act. For spitting is an outrage against public decency. And yet, thousands continue to smoke cigars rolled by dirty, yellowed fingers that tip the ends in spit! For more than half of all cigars made in this country are still made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Certified Cremo protects you against this abomination! Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods developed by the United States Government during the war. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof...immaculate...foil-wrapped ... Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly was thinking of when he said: "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

Coolidge to Dedicate Huge Dam in Arizona

Former President Coolidge, on Tuesday, March 4, will dedicate Coolidge Dam at San Carlos, Ariz., on the Gila river. The huge structure is the only multiple-dome type dam in the world and compares favorably in size and importance with famous Roosevelt dam, which is only about 50 miles distant. Coolidge dam will enable the irrigation of 100,000 acres of agricultural lands in the Florence-Casa Grande valley, some 75 miles downstream. Half of these lands will be farmed by Pima Indians and the remainder by white farmers. Additional dams on the Gila, pumping of subterranean flows, and water conservation systems are expected to increase the farming acreage to more than 200,000 acres. Following are some interesting data concerning the new dam: Elevation of the top of the dam above sea level, 2,535 feet; height of dam above stream bed, 229 feet; thickness of domes at bottom, 21 feet; thickness of domes at top, 4 feet; area of land submerged, 22,000 feet; reservoir length, 23 miles; reservoir capacity, 1,200,000 acre feet; annual runoff of the Gila river, 385,000 feet; concrete in dam 205,000 cubic yards; steel reinforcing, 3,500 tons; rock and gravel excavation, 280,000 cubic yards. Little Theater Audience at Archer City Gets Off-Stage Treat

Mirror on Stage Reveals Star's Dressing Room as He Changes to Pajamas

During the progress of the play "White Collars," which was presented in Archer City last Friday night by the Wichita Falls Little Theater, members of the audience found themselves being treated to off-stage entertainment which suggested the daring and originality of musical comedy producers of late years on Broadway.

Following the young husband's retirement to his bedroom to attire himself for the night, patrons of the performance soon recognized the novel manner in which ultra-modern sophistication had been adopted by the Little Theater. In the mirrors of a vanity dressing table, which was included in the stage-set, an illuminated view of the young man, clad only in his sun-tan, left no doubt that he actually was getting into pajamas; that is, he was preparing to do so.

Ripples of laughter from the audience grew quickly to waves, and beat upon the ears of others in the cast. Quick glances about the stage—and revelation. Frantic though minute wig-waggings, and the vision vanished from the guilty glass, jumping into pajamas en route. A necessary but unofficial lapse in the action intervened while all parties to the scene re-established decorum.

It developed that after the stage had been set and approved for the curtain, one member of the Wichita Falls party found the vanity slightly askew, as measured by his practiced eye, and moved it slightly for the satisfaction of his own taste. But, reports have it, the mistake won't be made again, as the change in the angle of the mirror reflected to the audience a full view of the male star's dressing room.

DEPUTIES' JOBS LEFT VACANT

Ellis and Wilson Jailed to Wait Hearing

The places of C. P. (Blackie) Wilson and Dan Ellis, deputy constables convicted of accepting a bribe, will remain unfilled for the present, Frank Morgan, constable, announced Sunday afternoon. Mr. Morgan revoked the commissions of the two former officers Saturday afternoon immediately after the verdict of guilty was returned in the 89th district court. Each of the defendants was sentenced to two years imprisonment. The reduced constable's department now includes, besides Mr. Morgan, John W. Saye, Elmer Thornton, and A. J. Chambers, civil service deputy. No additional appointments can be expected in the near future, Mr. Morgan said.

Ellis and Wilson are being held in the Wichita county jail until the court can act on their motion for a new trial. The defendants are not allowed to make bond until the motion is either sustained or overruled, attorneys explained. A formal motion is already on file with the district clerk and an amended petition is expected to be added at once.

The two former constables were found guilty of taking $95 from J. J. Crow to drop liquor charges after they found 24 gallons of whisky in his car here on Feb. 20.

KNIGHT WILL BEFORE COURT

Contested Document Up for Probate Thursday

The contested will of C. C. Knight, Wichita Falls pioneer who died here last January, will come up for probate before Judge John P. Marrs in the county court on Thursday morning of this week. The will, which disposes of property valued at more than $150,000, is being contested by Mrs. Elizabeth Knight, the widow, against the other legatees.

Mrs. Knight claims that her late husband was unduly influenced in the making of a will which divides the major portion of the estate between herself and his sister, Mrs. N. E. Roberts, and other relatives, including a brother and the widow and children of a second brother.

The will provides that Mrs. Knight and Mrs. Roberts shall share the family home on Ninth street, and that both shall receive a $100 monthly income from the rental on the Knight building, the location of the Eldora hotel. In most other instances the property is split into quarters for the equal benefit of the legatees.

In the probate hearing next Thursday, Mrs. Elizabeth Knight will be represented by Fred Weeks, local attorney, and the proponents of the will by Dan Boone. In accordance with the terms of the will, Judge P. A. Martin is acting as temporary administrator of the property.

MAJESTIC: George and Florence Arliss in "Disraeli," at the peak of screen drama. "Manhattan," talking-comedy. Sound news.

STRAND: "Sunny Side Up," with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell. Sound news.

STATE: "Red Hot Rhythm," musical comedy with Alan Hale, Josephine Dunn and Walter O'Keefe. Sound news. Talking comedy, "Up and Downstairs."

GEM: Gary Cooper and Lupe Velez in "The Wolf Song." Comedy "Bull Fight."

Just what can be done through the talking screen in making the theater's finest productions available to the public generally is demonstrated by the Majestic's present showing of "Disraeli" probably more effectively than by any other picture ever shown here. Through the same dramatic wizardry with which he has dominated the speaking stage in America for a score of years, George Arliss in the sound screen presentation of "Disraeli" holds his audience figuratively in his hand as the domestic and political climax in the life of Lord Beaconsfield quickly unfolds.

◇ ◇ ◇

Arliss' acting beggars description. Bits of dialogue which on paper would appear as stimulating as tepid water become, through his utterance and gesture, charged with dramatic intensity that is breath-taking. Accomplishment of that effect is not difficult with stories which concern themselves with individual characters, and which play heavily upon personal sentiment. But "Disraeli" is a far different story. It demands that the leading actor arouse in the minds of his audience a burning interest in the machinations of cunning diplomats, in the nationalistic expansion of governments, in the self-effacing devotion of a great character to the political exaltation of his country. After following Arliss' "Disraeli" through the maze of intrigue to success, one becomes, in sentiment and excitement, a member of the bedrifted throng which surges eagerly toward the throne room to witness Queen Victoria's reception of her great premier.

◇ ◇ ◇

But the story is not all of statecraft. No more beautiful romance has been reflected on the stage than that of Benjamin Disraeli and his wife, Mary, as portrayed by Mr. and Mrs. Arliss. True to the original character, Mrs. Arliss interpreted Mary as one so tender, faithful, and so devoted to her husband that an intelligence no better than commonplace served rather to intensify her appeal than to lessen it. Their meeting at the reception, just as the picture closes, is the biggest moment.
