VOLUME XXXIII — CISCO, TEXAS, FRIDAY, MARCH 13, 1953 — NUMBER 71

The Gay Philosopher

By J. W. S.

TONIGHT'S THE big night in Cisco High School society life. King Lobo and his Queen will be formally crowned in ceremonies at Community Gym, beginning at 8:30 o'clock. There'll be handsome young men and attractive young ladies from each class in all of the schools on the program. A capacity crowd of adults will be there.

Looking over the program, we note that the crown bearers — Rickey Latson and Connie Warren — are children of former kings and queens of CHS. Rickey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Latson, and Connie is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Warren.

Another interesting item we see from the program is that three members of one family will be in the coronation. Carl Ingram is a nominee for King Lobo, Monte Ingram represents the Junior Class, and Molly Ingram is duchess from West Ward. They're the children of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Ingram.

THANKS TO THE fine appetite of Mr. Eugene (Pancake) Pallette, the CJC footballer from May, the Press won honors at the booster club pancake supper last evening. The contest ran for 15 minutes, and Eugene put away 24 pancakes by the time the whistle blew. Second honors went to Roger Lisenbee, sponsored by Cisco Lumber & Supply, who ate 18 pancakes. As the winner, Eugene was presented a $5 gift certificate and two pounds of pancake mix and a bottle of syrup. Roger got some pancake mix and syrup.

The some 300 people who turned out ate 50 pounds of pancake flour, used 11 gallons of milk to mix pancakes, and ate 47 pounds of bacon and 13 pounds of Oleo. Aunt Jemima was there in person to help the boosters cook pancakes. It was a fine party.

I GUESS MR. H. R. (Pop) Garrett will be going to a banquet in at Fort Worth one day soon. Rev. Sid Spain was asked to sell the ticket to the banquet of a church for colored people at Ft. Worth. The ticket price was $100, so he sold five of us a one-fifth interest for $1. Holders of the one-fifth interest include Jim Flournoy, E. L. Jackson, Don Choate, Mr. Garrett and us. The ticket was given to Mr. Garrett as the delegate to represent the group.

IT WAS LIKE old times down at Texas A&M College this week. That's the report that Mr. John Holden brings back from the school for water works operators held there Monday through Thursday. John says it rained most of the time he and Mr. Arlin Agnew were there. Beside all of the school work and lectures, John says they enjoyed the rain.

MRS. PEGGY Gallagher reports that the sale of auto license plates for 1953 is pretty slow over at the Chamber of Commerce office. March 31 is the deadline for equipping your car with the new tags. And judging from the slow sale to date, a lot of people are likely to have a long wait in line if they don't hurry.

I SEE MRS. Charles Cofer in town today. She and Mr. C. came out on business. They moved recently to Arlington. She tells us that within sight of her new home there some 2,000 residences are under construction or soon will be. They will probably have a lot of neighbors before long, wouldn't you say.

FROM THE LOOKS of some statistics we've just run across out at the National Guard armory, it looks like a young fellow can join the National Guard and get married. Three years ago, the unit only had four or five married members. Now, all the officers and 17 enlisted men are married.

A FORMER Press paper boy, Wendell Rayford Taylor, was inducted into the armed forces last week. He and a group of young men from Eastland and Stephens Counties were inducted at Abilene and sent to Fort Sill, Okla., for their initial training . . . The French bread that they make over at Cisco's O-K Bakery is about the best bread we've been into in a long time. Their dinner rolls are tops, too.

FOOD FOR ALL—In Hawaii, the Salvation Army Corps has coffee and doughnuts ready for troops en route to and from Korea. Some servicemen at an airport on the island are about to do some dunking with representatives of the Salvation Army, who are always on hand to help out.

Farm Club Boys Field Day Will Be Held At ACC

ABILENE, March 13.—An estimated 1,000 future farmers — FFA and 4-H Club members — are expected here March 30 for the sixth annual Abilene Christian College Agriculture Field Day.

The youths will be accompanied by their vocational agriculture teachers or their respective county agents. Two hundred invitations have been mailed to agents and vocational agriculture teachers, according to J. Keith Justice, assistant professor and acting head of the ACC agriculture department, sponsor of the day-long event.

The Field Day program centers around judging contests for the young farmers. Prizes totaling $500 will be awarded the winners. They include a registered Hereford heifer, registered Jersey heifer, registered Duroc gilt, 100 baby chicks, boots, hats and plaques.

Recognition will be given to the school or club that receives the highest total points from all contests. This will be the sweepstakes award.

Judging contest will be beef cattle, both Angus and Hereford; dairy cattle, including registered Jerseys and Holsteins; sheep, fat lambs and ewes; hogs; poultry and ewes; hogs; poultry and grass identification.

Justice will be chairman of the grass judging events; T. W. Colby associate professor and manager of the ACC farm, will direct the livestock judging events; Dewey Davis, associate professor, will oversee the poultry contests; and George Pliler, instructor, will preside at the dairy judging contests.

SINGING PLANNED

The regular third Sunday singing class will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Church of God in Eastland, it was reported Friday. Everyone in the area was invited to have a part in the program.

Miss Renabel Bible, student at T. W. C., was expected this afternoon for a weekend visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Bible.

INDUSTRIAL GROWTH OF BRAZIL IS OUTLINED IN ROTARY SPEECH

A graphic word picture of Brazil was given Rotarians at their regular weekly meeting at the Hotel Victor dining room Thursday by Francisco Vienna, a native of that country, who is in the United States observing modern methods of manufacture and production.

He told Rotarians of the geographical advantages and disadvantages of the South American country, and how the geography controlled the growth and development of Brazil. He told of the life in his country and showed how city life and rural life differed.

He said that his country was growing industrially but there was a need for more modern methods and machinery. He praised the development of the area along the coast, but said that the rough terrain would have to be conquered before the interior was properly industrialized and settled.

Mr. Vienna was introduced by Jeff Gregory, head of the local Halliburton office. Mr. Gregory was presented by Rotarian Roscoe Ponsler, program chairman for the day.

Mr. Gregory displayed the trophy won last year by the Cisco office for accomplishments in safety. He said that the trophy was won by the Cisco district in driving a million miles and working during the year with only minor accidents.

Visitors at the meeting were Rotarians Bob Gilchrist and W. C. Ribble of Abilene and Jack Muirhead and Luther Wilson of Eastland. Other visitors were R. N. Cluck of Cisco and the Rev. Roy Craig who is holding a meeting at the First Presbyterian Church.

Vienna is in Cisco with Halliburton Oil Well Cementing Company working and observing well completion methods in order to take his knowledge to his home country in an effort to aid in the future development of the industry there.

SATURDAY PLAY PROGRAM FOR CHILDREN OFF TO GOOD START

The Saturday morning play program directed by the ABC Club is off to a big start, President D. N. Morrison announced today.

Last Saturday, he reported, 100 girls were at the junior high school gym for participation in the play program, which is under the supervision of Roy Killingsworth. The girls play basketball, volleyball and participated in other events. More were expected to report Saturday. The gym is open from 8 a. m. until noon.

V. C. Overall supervises the program for boys at the community gym. Mr. Overall stressed the fact that he desired the boys to play what they wanted. He asked those who wish to play baseball to bring their own equipment. The club furnishes equipment for other games. He is expecting a large group for Saturday.

The program is a part of the club's plan to give every boy and girl in Cisco an equal opportunity to play with other boys and girls in carrying out the slogan, "Athletics Builds Citizenship."

Every boy and girl of school age was invited to be at the gyms Saturday to have a part in the program. The older boys and girls will be given the opportunity to help with the younger group.

Work Of PTA Is Praised By Head Of Health Agency

AUSTIN, Mar. 12. — The word which runs through the State Department of Health these days is this:

"Give the Parent-Teachers Association anything they want. They're helping every kid in Texas."

That's the way State Health Office George W. Cox welcomed 400,000 new allies in the Department's campaign to establish tooth - saving fluoridation programs in all Texas communities.

Members of the Texas P-TA—all 401,541 of them — have pledged themselves to work for adoption of fluoridation in all areas where natural fluoride content of the community water supply is below the leval of 1 part per million parts water as is recommended by practically every reputable health organization in the country.

Following the lead of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers which adopted a pro-fluoridation resolution in their convention just concluded in Chicago, a spokesman for the Texas organization said the entire membership is being urged to actively campaign for the measure "which will mean fewer decayed teeth for our children."

Twelve cities are already conducting carefully controlled programs of water treatment against insidious tooth decay. If the PTA is successful in its promotion project, many other cities will be undertaking similar programs.

And future children of any community where water is treated in the proper ratio will be better off than children in other communities whose leaders have shorter vision.

Long years of study show that children who use fluoride-treated water have 0 to 5 percent fewer decayed teeth than children who are denied the benefits of such water.

This, says Dr. Cox, is why the health agency is giving unqualified approval to fluoridation, and why he enthusiastically welcomes the support of PTA.

Missionary Will Fill Pulpit Here

Dr. Clement Hubbard, president of The American Institute at Lins, Brazil, will preach at First Methodist Church here Sunday at 10:50 a. m. ,according to an announcement by the pastor, Rev. E. H. Lightfoot.

Dr. Hubbard is in Texas speaking in a series of district institutes in behalf of the missionary program of the Methodist church in Brazil. Several from Cisco heard him in the Gorman meeting last week and were greatly impressed by the man and his message. An invitation was extended to him at that time to visit Cisco. This week a telephone message from the conference missionary secretary stated that he would come from Waco Saturday to spend Sunday in Cisco.

Dr. Hubbard has been in Brazil about 35 years and is an enthusiastic booster of this great undeveloped but rapidly growing country. He stated that the population of Lins has doubled in the last ten years and this reflects the growth of many cities. A full time missionary, John Nelson Betts, is supported by the Cisco District.

PANCAKE SUPPER IS DESCRIBED AS BIG SUCCESS BY BOOSTERS

The Aunt Jemima Pancake Supper sponsored by the Cisco Boosters Club at the First Christian Church Thursday night was a complete success, according to club officials, who reported that more than 300 persons were served during the three hour period.

Aunt Jemima in person had charge of the kitchen and helped with the cooking of the pancakes. She had a big part in all the events of the evening and presented the awards in the pancake eating contest.

Eugene Pallette, Cisco Junior College student representing the Cisco Daily Press, won the contest by eating 24 pancakes in the 15 minute period. He was closely followed by Roger Lisenbee, the Cisco Lumber and Supply Company entry. Aunt Jemima presented the winner a two pound box of Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour, a pint bottle of Vermont Maid syrup and a $5 gift certificate.

The program for the supper was given by Miss Linda Lucas, Miss Jan Latson, Ray Judia, Harry Schaefer, Al Anderson and Bill Kendall.

The Cisco Boosters Club thanked the Quaker Oats Company, Norvell and Miller Grocery and Market, A&P Tea Company, White Swan, Surles Dairy, Tennessee Dairies, Mrs. Tucker, and all who donated merchandise or helped in any way to make the supper a success. They also thanked Mayor G. C. Rosenthal for his help in declaring Thursday "Aunt Jemima Pancake Day" in Cisco.

His driver's license was suspended for a period of six months. His attorney gave notice of appeal.

RAINFALL BRINGS HOPES FOR WILDLIFE AND FISH OF STATE

AUSTIN, March 13. — Rainfall bringing moisture to bone dry parts of Texas has stimulated hopes for the Animal Kingdom in the entire state, according to the Executive Secretary of the Game and Fish Commission.

He said the precipitation came at a crucial time for wildlife since species such as quail and wild turkey are readying for the spring reproduction while big game, particularly fawn-carrying does, now are seeking vital green nourishment after changing over from the mast crop winter feed.

Equally important, added the Executive Secretary, fish life is at an important seasonal stage. The rain reinvigorates lakes and streams and restores ponds and tanks which have been dry for months.

The moisture is expected to be particularly beneficial in West Texas, said the Executive Secretary. Some areas there had not had sizeable rains for more than a year. In deep southwest Texas, the drought had become so acute that some species of animals were dying from thirst and starvation.

One immediate effect of the soaking rain in West Texas was announcement of plans by Marion Toole, Chief Aquatic Biologist, for possible resumption of production by the San Angelo Fish Hatchery. He said if enough water is caught from the runoff, brood bass now confined to holding quarters, may be moved to normal spawning tanks. There still is time, he explained, for "a fair 1953 bass production" at that hatchery with consequent stocking of revived lakes and streams or restored farm tanks.

Game bird authorities likewise weighed the importance of the new moisture. Ernest G. Marsh, Assistant Director of Wildlife Restoration for the Game and Fish Commission, said quail are about to pair off and begin mating. Particularly severe dry spells, he said, discourage quail from even planning a family because of lack of nesting cover and absence of food and water.

Eugene Walker, Wildlife Biologist, said wild turkeys also react to moisture at this period since they are breaking up from flocks and beginning their mating activities.

The timely rainfall followed reports from some areas in southwest Texas that some wildlife had perished because of prolonged dry weather. Game Warden Jim Pond at Carrizo Springs said he had seen carcasses of many javelina and armadillo. He said the previous rainfall there, according to one measurement, was one inch for twelve months.

Pond also reported that the drought was curbing predator control work since trails of mountain lions could not be detected. He said he noted that lion tracks made during a light rain in February a year ago still could be seen, in one place.

This was confirmed by John E. Hearn, Predator Control Chief for the Commission. He said dust storms developing from the drought had curtailed coyote control activities because baits on the cyanide guns became fouled.

Hearn suggested that the drought alone was the principal cause of the quail population decline. "Quail must have cover," he said. "The drought killed all the cover. That means quail are preyed upon endlessly by hawks, coyotes, foxes, snakes, and the like." But Hearn was optimistic, saying: "Just give us a couple of good rains and watch everything come back."
