Taxpayers' group seeks copies of navigation district subleases

By LESLIE ABRAMS
Staff writer

According to Ed Brennan of the Aransas County Taxpayers Association, the association will be on the agenda at the Aransas County Navigation District meeting Sept. 7 so that they may file a formal request, written and verbal, for copies of all subleases.

This was the plan of action presented at the ACTA meeting Tuesday evening, Aug. 24, at the Aransas County Courthouse.

ACTA president Mitch Ammons and Ed Brennan, officer in charge of ACTA's investigation of the Navigation District, have been in touch with Corpus Christi attorney Gerry Miller, who has agreed to represent the ACTA against the ACND should the case be brought to civil court.

The association is currently compiling a list of the ACND's "10 most flagrant violations" to present to Miller in preparation of their case. "We know there's more than that, but we'll have to stick to these 10," added Brennan.

If the ACND approves the ACTA request for copies of all subleases and public advertisement of all future leases, there is a possibility that the association will not proceed with its case against the ACND. This would save the ACTA an estimated $10-12,000 in legal fees. Brennan urged ACTA members to "think very seriously" about legal proceedings against the ACND. The association will call the question for a vote at their Sept. 28 meeting.

Rockport City Administrator Herman Johnson gave ACTA members an informative presentation on the differences between a general law city (Rockport's current status) and a home rule city outlining the possible forms of government available to each.

Johnson also discussed the differences in annexation processes between the two types of government. According to Johnson, a general law city can only annex property when its owner or owners petition the city and request annexation. In addition, the annexed property must either be adjacent to the city, or at least 500 feet wide and 1500 feet long.

A home rule city, on the other hand, can annex anything within its extraterritorial jurisdiction, whether or not the owner or owners request or want it annexed. The city then has two years to supply the annexed area with utilities and city services. The annexed area may request de-annexation if the city fails to provide these services. "At these inflated prices," Johnson said, "a city would have to give serious thought to any annexation."

In addition, a home rule city is allowed to

City park board wants more active role

Rockport's park board, meeting Wednesday night, Aug. 25, served notice that its members want to take a more active role in development of parks and recreational facilities in Rockport — including Rockport Beach.

In their first meeting since February, members of the board heard a plea by Rockport resident Anita Dingenary that the board become involved in recreational planning for Rockport Beach and met support from Park Board member Kathryn Winkelman who said, "I think we should have some say (about the beach). It is a recreational area and it's in the city. I think the park board should have some say over it."

Board members also expressed an intention to look at other park facilities in Rockport and set a meeting for Wednesday, Sept. 15, to discuss existing city park facilities and their location. That meeting will be at 7 p.m. in Rockport's City Hall.

Items specifically scheduled for action in last Wednesday's meeting included election of a president to replace Tommy Griffith who resigned from the board and recommendation to the council of a possible replacement for Griffith.

George McCague, the board's vice president, was elected president, accepting the post on stipulation that he will serve only until the end of the park board's organizational year in January. Kathryn Winkelman was elected vice president.

Dingenary recommended a possible replacement for Griffith on the board and McCague indicated he would talk to the person.

In another recommendation specifically requested by city officials, the park board voted that a shallow pond (or tank) on the recently-purchased park addition should be filled in.

McCague and Board member Cy Richards both have looked at the pond and both said leaving the pond as is would be hazardous.

Dingenary appeared before the board as a representative of the Beach Committee, an organization with which she has been involved for two year. "I'm here to ask you to help us out," she said. Referring to the park board she said, "I was hoping this would become a viable organization that would effect some recreational changes in the city. In the past, this organization has done not very much."

Dingenary said the Aransas County Recreational Planning Association, which was formed about two years ago to plan recreational facilities for Rockport Beach, "will probably dissolve."

MUD cracks down on delinquent taxes

By PAT BLAIR
Staff writer

LAMAR — Notice has been served to property owners in the Aransas County Municipal Utility District No. 1 (Goose Island Lake Estates) — delinquent taxpayers are being pursued to the full extent of the law.

In Tuesday night's meeting of the ACMUD board of directors, District Tax Collector Alma Johnson said judgment was taken in court this past week against two delinquent taxpayers and, if they do not pay the taxes due in the meantime, the property will be sold in sheriff's auction for back taxes.

Johnson said the cases were among six heard in District Court Tuesday morning. A payment of $201.61 was received from one property owner as a result of the delinquent tax suits, two cases were continued until the end of September or early October and one case was granted a 30-day extension on a legal technicality, Johnson said.

Herman Little, attorney for the district, told directors Tuesday night, "It's historical that you got judgment against two taxpayers. This is an important first step."

Delinquent tax collections were turned over last year to the firm of Calame, Linebarger and Graham. Johnson said delinquency notices were sent out this week on 1981 property and ACMUD Board President Wilton Bluhm observed, "By mid-September we can start filing cases on 1981 delinquencies."

Earlier in Tuesday night's meeting, directors awarded bid for reconstruction and repair of the district's water treatment plant to Membrane Systems Inc. of Corpus Christi for a bid of $68,000 — provided the district can come up with the money.

MSI was the only bidder on the project. In its bid, the company said for $68,000 it would reconstruct a water treatment system so that it would deliver 125,000 gallons per day by a reverse osmosis process with a total dissolved solid content of 200 parts per million or less (less than the minimum state requirement).

Work would be completed within 120 days and the company pledged a six-month money-back guarantee on the entire system, a 12-month money-back guarantee on all elements except the membranes and a three-year money-back guarantee on the membranes.

ACMUD Director Bill Southern moved to accept the bid subject to the district's ability to finance the project within the next 30 days. The motion was seconded by Director Steve Shenk and approved 3-0.

Zoning for mobile home/RV parks still unresolved

FULTON — Although some agreements were reached between Fulton's zoning committee and mobile home/RV park owners in and around the city, the question of zoning for those parks remained unresolved following Tuesday night's zoning committee meeting.

With about half a dozen trailer park owners attending the meeting, Zoning Committee Chairman Charles Belaire presented a compromise proposal between the committee's original special use requirement for the parks and the park owners' request for business zoning.

Belair said the zoning committee proposed that mobile home parks be zoned B-1 "along their leading edge" to a depth of 125 feet with the remainder of the park zoned R-3 residential/resort.

Questioned by the mobile home/RV park owners as to why the depth had been set at 125 feet, Belaire said this is the depth of most lots in Fulton.

Park owners protested, several saying that the depth should be increased to 150 feet because along Hwy. 35 and the Fulton Beach Road, their property was taxed at commercial rates to a depth of 150 feet.

One mobile home park owner said he was "disturbed that we can't have our whole area of land zoned business. One hundred and twenty-five feet isn't very deep." Mobile home owners protested that not having their property zoned entirely for business could devalue their property and inhibit the possibility of a future sale.

Belaire pointed out that R-3 zoning on the remainder of the lot would permit the property to be converted to any R-3 use, such as hotels or motels, as well as other non-business uses. But, he added, the zoning committee would take the park owners' points under advisement.

In response to a request by RV park owners earlier this month for a grandfather clause, Belaire read a proposed grandfather clause drafted for inclusion in the special permit section of Fulton's zoning ordinance. The clause would allow upgrading, expansion and rebuilding of all existing mobile home/RV parks "provided the standards are not lowered beyond those presently existing" in each park.

Belaire said the clause must be presented to Fulton City Attorney Allen Lee for his legal review and approval before being incorporated into the proposed zoning ordinance.

The zoning committee also removed the 240-day time limitation to which the park operators objected and eliminated minimum lot size and interior street paving requirements in the section of the proposed ordinance dealing with new parks. The ordinance as now proposed would simply require that interior access drives have at least an 18 foot width with a weather-proofed surface.

Shurman-Larson surveys not accepted

The Aransas County Commissioners Court accepted two open bids at their 9 a.m. Aug. 25 meeting. In separate actions, the commissioners accepted and approved a $102,832 bid from Anderson Machinery Company for an excavating machine, and a $8,080 bid on a spreader box from Coke Equipment Company. Three companies had bid for the excavating machine and two for the spreader box.

Aransas County Sanitarian Leonard H. Specht and T. E. Griffith, Aransas County Surveyor, asked the court to no longer accept surveys done by Shurman-Larson, based on innacuracies in the past. Shurman, who made an incorrect survey of John De Ray's construction site out in Holiday Beach, turns out not to be licensed as either a surveyor or an engineer. According to Griffith, the state has a file "about a foot thick" on Shurman, containing complaints and possible violations of state law. The court approved a motion to no longer accept the work of Shurman-Larson.

In other court news, the court accepted a motion to allow Jimmy W. Hunt to attend the 35th annual Statewide Conference for Veterans Service Officers Oct. 19-22 in San Antonio.

The court passed on a request from Donald Lane of Pct. 1 for a waterline extending west from Campbell to Moore Ave. pending further information. The court requested Lane file an application stating specific measurements of the proposed waterline.

Aransas County Judge John Wendell, presiding at the meeting, told the court that the U.S. Department of Justice has not raised any objections to the county's proposed plan for precinct redistricting.

A comment of no objections is different from actual approval says County Clerk Val Jean Eaton, in that approval is final and cannot be changed or compromised once it is given. In the case of the Justice Department's comment, objections may be raised at a later date if so warranted.

Aransas County Sheriff Bob Hewes mentioned to the court that two wrecker companies providing service to the county were going to be dropped from the list for failure to provide proof of their liability insurance. The companies were not named.

A Ray Longino-John Lee motion to approve General Telephone Company's application to bury cable lines on the county right-of-way was unanimously approved.

The court also granted a variance to Mr. and Mrs. Felix Cox on a requirement to place a fireplug on lot 42 in the 251 block of Swickheimer Rd.

Charter group needs input

By PAT BLAIR
Staff writer

A small group of Rockport residents have undertaken a difficult task: the formulation of a "new" city government for Rockport.

How new this government is, how different from the one Rockport operates under at present, will depend to an extent on decisions made by this small group — the 15-member city charter commission.

But the decisions made will be based on the input — or lack of it — from Rockport residents. As Commission Chairman Ed Armstrong has said, "We need input from the citizens."

The commission was elected, by a vote of slightly more than 2-1, on Aug. 14, its purpose to draft a city charter for Rockport. This document will deal with everything from the type of government Rockport will have, its administration and powers to whether the members of the council will serve with or without pay. Later this year (at least commission members hope so), when the proposed city charter is completed, it will be submitted to Rockport voters in another election.

If the charter is approved in that election, it will become the basis for Rockport's city government.

The charter commission plans to write a document the citizens of Rockport can live with — and under. It's a job that will be easier if they have some idea of what people want. The charter commission is planning to meet each Monday at 5 p.m. (with the possible exception of Labor Day, Sept. 6). They want to see Rockport residents at those meetings. More important, they want to hear what Rockport residents have to say.

Equally important, by attending the charter commission meetings, Rockport citizens will have a chance to influence our city charter now, during the decision-making period, instead of waiting until it reaches the polls when the only decision possible is a "yes" or "no" vote.

This coming Monday, Aug. 30, the charter commission will meet at City Hall to consider two very basic questions: What type of government will Rockport have if the charter is adopted and what will be the powers of that government.

What kind of government do you want for Rockport? A mayor-council form such as the city has now under general law? A strong-mayor government? Commission? A council-manager government? Should the mayor be allowed to vote on all questions or (as now) should he be allowed only to break a tie? Should he have veto power? Should council members receive pay for their service? How many council members should there be and how should they be elected? If council members do receive payment, how much should it be?

These are just a few of the questions the charter commission may be considering Monday night. In meetings to come, they'll be looking at the question of initiative, referendum and recall — should that be part of the proposed charter — at the municipal financial structure, the tax structure, utility and public service franchises and licensing.

Armstrong has already urged commission members not to wait until the scheduled Monday night meetings — but to talk to their friends and acquaintances whenever and wherever possible.

But they can't contact everyone, and the charter commission meetings provide the opportunity, as perhaps nothing else can, for citizens to not only express themselves but to find out why certain decisions are made, ideas accepted or rejected.

"This is your charter," Armstrong has said to Rockport citizens.

The charter commission must draft the document but if it is adopted in election later, we're all going to have to live under it.

We should all be concerned about what goes into it.

Editorial & Opinion

Justice system needs changing

Another dangerous flaw in plea bargaining laws that sometimes allow defendants to barter with authorities on punishment for crimes has come to light in the Coral Eugene Watts mass murder case.

Stringent examination of statutes that permit prosecutors to strike bargains with criminals should be on the agenda of the next Texas legislative session.

In our opinion, plea bargaining can compromise justice, as it has in the Watts case, even though it may appear to be the most desirable and expeditious means of dealing with criminal cases in which evidence and proof are lacking.

A Houston judge and prosecutors in the Harris County district attorney's office are being criticized for allowing Watts, who has since admitted at least 11 Houston area slayings, to plead guilty to burglary with intent to murder in exchange for a 60-year prison sentence, which he can serve in 20 years or less.

State District Judge Douglas Shaver and prosecutors who recommended the plea bargain agreement contend it would have been impossible to prosecute Watts, 28, a former Houston mechanic for the Metropolican Transit Authority, on capital murder charges.

Assistant DA Jack Frels said Watts would not have admitted the Houston area murders unless he had a plea bargain agreement he would not be prosecuted for murder. Frels and other prosecutors maintain they lacked enough evidence to try Watts on any murder charges without his admissions.

First Assistant District Attorney Ted Busch said investigators would have needed solid evidence to prove Watts kidnapped the women. "You cannot presume there was a kidnapping," Busch stressed.

Judge Shaver said some of the slayings Watts has admitted to fit the technical definition of capital murder because they were committed during either burglaries or kidnappings.

The Texas Penal Code says capital murder is murder for hire or the deliberate killing of a police officer, firefighter or prison guard; or a slaying committed during a robbery, aggravated rape, arson, burglary or kidnapping.

Former District Attorney Carol Vance said the Watts case shows a weakness in the state's capital murder law because multiple murderers often cannot be sentenced to death. He favors making multiple murders and torture murders capital crimes.

While the reasoning and the ultimate decisions of the judge and prosecutors in the Watts case may be legally supportable, actions they took appear to have been too hasty. When Watts demanded a plea bargain agreement in exchange for information about murders he committed, it should have been a signal to those handling the case to move with caution.

Reagan gracious in tax bill victory

Whatever your opinion of President Reagan, you'll have to give him credit for being an astute politician and tenacious fighter who won't give up even when it appears there's no hope of victory.

The president's persistence, coupled with his conviction the legislation he sought was good for the country, paid off when Congress approved his $98.3 billion tax package — 226-207 in the House, 52-47 in the Senate.

Some congressmen marveled at Reagan's ability to put together a different coalition when it became clear his old one wouldn't hold together on the tax bill.

To hear some congressional Democrats tell it, you would think the Republican president is a Democrat.

Rep. Carroll Hubbard, D-Ky., a member of a conservative Democrat group known as Boll Weevils, was lavish in his praise of Reagan's handling of the tax bill campaign.

"It is amazing to see (liberal) House Democrats such as Thomas "Tip" O'Neill and John Conyers (D-Mich.) and Charlie Rangel (D-N.Y.) voting along with President Reagan when just one year ago they thought some of us Southern conservative Democrats were traitors to the party for voting with the president on tax cuts."

Another, Rep. Bill Chappell, (D-Fla.) said the difference was Reagan's ability to twist arms of lawmakers without them feeling any pain.

"I think all of us agree," said Chappell, "he had tremendous leadership abilities and this is just further evidence of that. He has a great ability to work with people, in small groups, large groups and one-on-one."

Although there is no doubt the president was convinced of the wisdom of the tax measure, he desperately needed a stunning political victory to help offset growing discontent over economic conditions not of his making.

The president was gracious in victory, forgiving members of his own party who failed to support the tax package and calling on them to close ranks and help him finish the job he has charted for his administration.

It was the Boll Weevil group that helped Reagan put over his budget and tax-cutting programs last year, but members would not support his tax bill, leaving him nowhere else to turn to but the liberals.

House Speaker O'Neill's unusual plea to House Democrats to support the president was crucial in providing the margin of victory on the controversial tax package. Thus the most surprising aspect of Reagan's narrow victory was the votes that clinched it came mostly from lawmakers who vote against him as a matter of course.

Of the 226 votes that supplied the margin in the House, a majority, 123, came from Democrats. Only nine Senate Democrats voted for the tax bill in addition to 43 Republicans, but they put it over the top.

The list included most major Senate liberals — Edward Kennedy and Paul Tsongas of Massachusetts, Alan Cranston of California, Gary Hart of Colorado and Bill Bradley of New Jersey.

BBC is Britain at its best

WITHOUT MENTIONing the fine music and silly commercials, the area's new public broadcasting radio station delights me because each morning it brings the BBC news (British Broadcasting System).

BBC is Britain at its best. It seems a paradox, but its credibility has risen and Britan's world role has diminished. BBC announcers speak slowly and carefully, and they have no axe to grind. When one hears the news from that source, one feels that he has listened to the straight facts. It is a circumstance that has been cultivated for half a century, a reputation carefully nurtured and guarded against tarnish.

SOMEONE IN THE U.S. Senate last week correctly said the "first and most important duty of a sovereign nation" is to gain control over its borders. Control over borders of this country has never existed. In fact, it has been virtually ignored. It is a costly circumstance and promises to become even more so, especially along our southern border. Now what is known as the Simpson-Mazzoli Bill may possibly bring a halt to illegal immigration, despite opposition from some Hispanic groups. Why, this can only be explained by pointing to the desire of these leaders to control large parts of the U.S., to establish a Little Mexico under the protection of American law. Otherwise those leaders could have no objection to a bill that applies equally to all nationalities. How can these people call such a bill nativist or racist? The real racists are, of course, that Hispanic leadership.

Specifically, the Simpson-Mazzoli Bill would require some form of national registration system for all persons seeking a job within the U.S. It would impose stiff legal penalties and fines on employers who knowingly employ illegal aliens. Finally, it would provide an elaborate, in my opinion, an even too generous amnesty program for all illegal aliens who entered this country prior to Jan. 1, 1977. Neither Mexicans nor any other nationality is mentioned in the bill.

Here let me insert that I bear no animosity toward Mexican aliens. I can't for a minute blame them for crossing our borders, attempting to leave behind them a land where there is virtually no hope for anyone except a privileged 10 percent of the population. I might quote an old friend who for many years has had extensive dealing south of the border: "It's such a beautiful country," he said, "but those people don't have and never had any concept of what we call good government, and I doubt they ever will." I agree, and I recognize that the country is a time bomb, always ripe to explode, and explode it will. When that time comes, most any day, it is going to explode right across the border. Hence my support for the Simpson-Mazzoli Bill.

FOR ONE, I AM DEEPly concerned over this country's decision to send U.S. Marines into Lebanon. Such a force is needed, naturally, but there should be no U.S. troops because Israelis and Arabs alike will almost certainly attempt to create incidents that will bring sympathy from the American public.

Presently there is growing anti-Israeli sentiment around the world. One must hope that it will not turn to anti-Semiticism. Once, some 40 years ago, the Jewish people were victims of one of history's greatest horrors — the holocaust at the hands of the Nazis. But today who is the victim of politican oppression and military terror? Menacham Begin, a madman like Hitler, is the architect of the brutal and senseless bombing of Bierut. Hundreds are dead and crippled for life, all innocent victims. Some 6,000 children have become orphans. The Arabs of Palestine have seen most of their mayors pushed aside by the Israelis, leaving them little or no machinery of their own for political expression. Their kith and kin in Lebanon are being driven farther away from them.

Our President has expressed his anger and distaste for Beginism, but will we continue to give him military aid? From the White House there has come no hint that this generosity will be reduced. Public opinion could change this. But I wonder if it will?

ALL THINGS CONsidered, I stand essentially opposed to our building the military forces of any nation. But if we must I suggest that we become businesslike about it and demand cash on the barrel head for any arms we furnish. In any event, if our stance as a moral nation is to be upheld, Israel is the last country in the world we should supply with arms. Agreements with the country for so long as Begin prevails are meaningless. Thankfully, many Jews in Israel and elsewhere in the world agree.

The toy-less crackerjack case

Editor's note: The Live Oak Peninsula Philosopher on his grassburr farm reacts to a recently filed court case.

Dear editor:

Some people were downright disgusted with the man who encouraged his nine-year-old daughter to sue the crackerjack company because there wasn't a toy in the box she bought like there was supposed to be. That man ought to be ashamed of himself, they said.

Those people don't understand. That man was merely teaching his daughter to get along in the present world. Anybody who can't find somebody else or some company to sue these days is behind the times.

For example, I had a flat on my pickup the other day. Picked up a nail on the road near my place.

I'm now planning on suing the tire company for making a tire that won't resist a nail.

If I lose that case, I'll sue the manufacturer of the nail. A company is responsible for its product, isn't it?

If I lose that case, I'll sue the contractor who built the road. If he hadn't built it, I wouldn't have been driving on it. In legal terms he was guilty of creating an inviting hazard.

If I lose there, I'll sue the State Legislature for voting the money to build the road. If it hadn't, the contractor couldn't have built the road and I wouldn't have had a flat tire there.

If by then my lawyer says he's tired of all these suits and quits, I'll get another lawyer to sue the first one for failing to live up to the principles of equal justice for all.

By the time I appeal all these cases through the lower courts and they finally get to the Supreme Court, somebody is going to wish I hadn't had that flat tire, although I'm afraid it'll be me, which will be unfair because I had no chance to join that crackerjack suit. I don't like crackerjacks.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

Letters

I am Mrs. James D. Reaves of Austin. My husband, James D. Reaves, is the party who nearly drowned in Key Allegro Aug. 10 of this year. I am writing this because so many people in the Rockport area helped him at the accident so fast.

Much praise and thanks should be given to Dr. Hap Lutz of 16 Curlew Drive on Key Allegro Island who happened by and used his knowledge of heart patients and drownings to save my husband's life before the EMS arrived at the scene of the accident. They took him to the clinic.

I have been told there was a write-up in your Rockport Pilot. Would you mind sending us the clipping and also enclose the amount we owe you for the clipping.

To the whole area and each and everyone who helped us in this crisis "thank you" is very little but we do and God bless all of you. Jim is doing real good and taking it easy.

Pollution

Dear Sir,

I would like to make just a short comment or two about recent publicity regarding pollution of the Rockport Ski Basin and other bays. When driving past there on most days it conjures up not-so-fond memories of days long past of countries such as Korea, Japan, Vietnam, etc. Those were days when I developed a capacity for holding my breath which was seemingly boundless. Now with somewhat diminished lung function I am severely limited in that ability, and drive past the area as quickly as possible. A strange thing about the olfactory nerves is that a lot of people become accustomed to rotten odors and if exposed to them long enough tend to ignore them or in some instances actually begin to perceive them as pleasing. Do you suppose that those in our midst who can exercise control over such matters have reached that point?

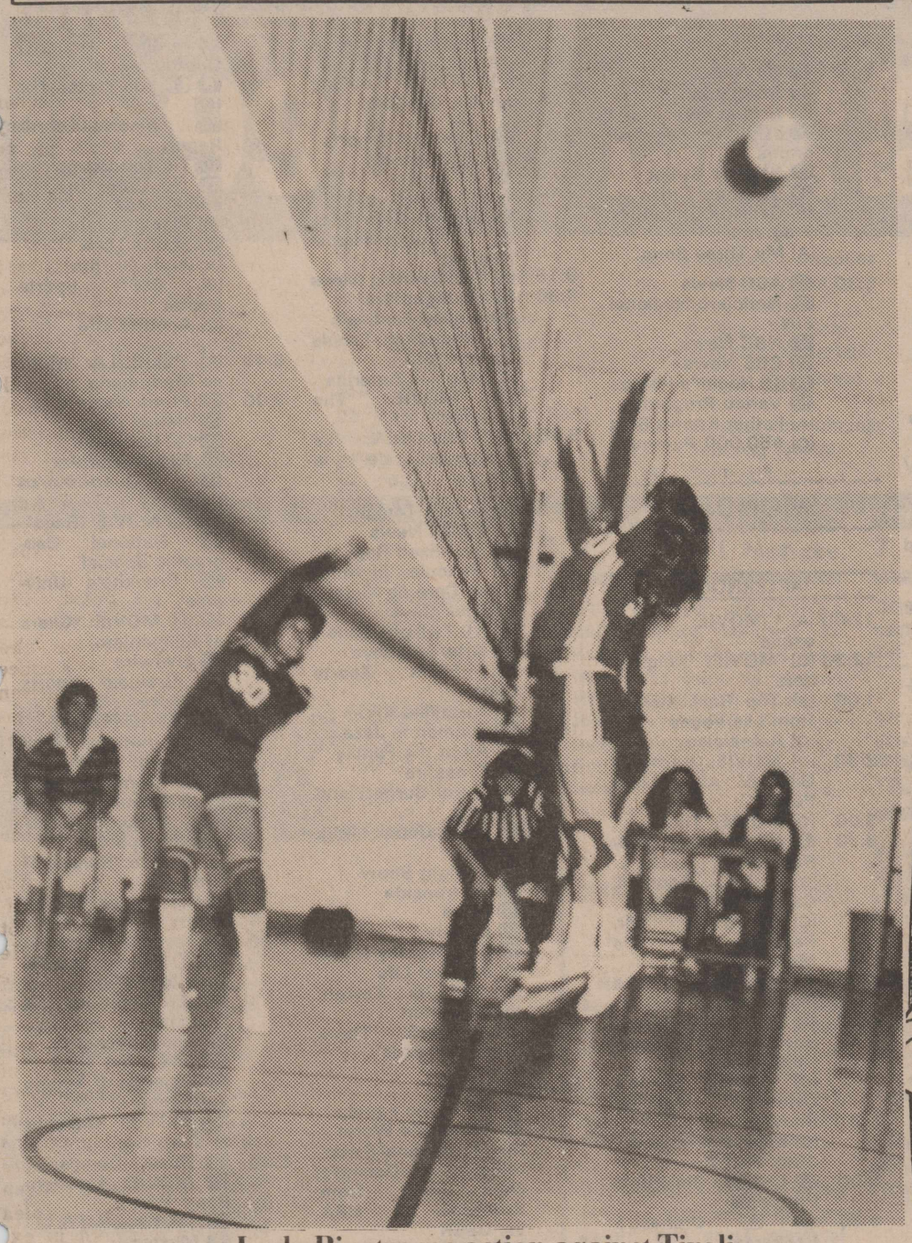

It would seem to me that a person visiting our area looking for a nice fresh breath of good, ocean air might end up thinking second thoughts about just what ocean breezes smell like, not knowing, of course, that they were merely being exposed to our local outhouse.

To this point I have only addressed the esthesia of this matter mainly because of the health problem created by the situation has been mentioned on a number of occasions by those more knowledgeable in such matters than myself. One thing that does not seem to have been mentioned, however, is that the dumping of raw sewage into the bay is no different than seepage from a home septic or any other untreated tank from a viral or bacterialogical standpoint. In other words untreated sewage is still untreated sewage and oysters thrive on it and a lot of people thrive on raw oysters. The thing most people do not know is that the State Health Department will furnish, free for the asking, maps of any area along the coast, showing the boundaries of the contaminated waters and, believe it or not, it is actually illegal for an individual to pick up and eat an oyster in those areas, much less harvest them commercially. (Wonder how many times that law has been enforced?) By looking at their maps to see just where those forbidden zones are they can see that most every bay along the entire Gulf Coast for about an average of one-quarter mile out is included, with some closed completely. Since oysters can't talk, many who catch them can't speak or read English (or even those who can tend to ignore certain rules if they are unethical), then we may have more than enough potential for an epidemic of hepatitis and other communicable diseases. Do you know where your oysters came from? Most dealers will only buy from a reliable source — does yours? Once smitten and you will find out. Come on, folks, you got the kids to Vienna — now let's get the crud out of our bays. You can do anything worthwhile!

Lady Pirates dump Tivoli

According to Rockport-Fulton High School volleyball coach Patty Noble the 1982-'83 Lady Pirates consist of a group of young ladies who although lacking in height are long on determination.

Noble says she is looking to have the two main setters, Diana Herman and Tina Chavez, to be the best in the district. Nanna Cassel, Diana Herman, Lyticha Zepeda will be the spiking strength.

Mona Cowen, Sandra Solis and Patsy De La Garza are doing great backline work according to the coach.

Noble says that Missy Krogsgaard, Elenor Lott and Kelly Mack will apply their skills when the team needs special plays.

Noble says the Lady Pirates should be a contender for the district title and she says she hopes the team will reappear at the regional play-offs.

Tuesday evening the Lady Pirates beat Tivoli 15-2 and 15-10 giving them a 4-2 record.

The Rockport-Fulton Lady Pirates suffered the two losses at the hands of the Goliad ladies in 10-15, 9-15 games in their first match of the season.

The Lady Pirates play every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon. Their next opponent is Goliad on Tuesday, Aug. 31, at Goliad. The JV game begins at 6 p.m. followed by the varsity players.

with JOEY SASSO

Sox manager Tony LaRussa is in an exclusive club. He's one of three lawyer-managers. In the 1890s, John "Monte" Montgomery Ward managed and played for Brooklyn and was a leader of the first players association, the Brotherhood. Hugh "Hughie" Ambrose Jennings managed Detroit from 1907 to 1920 and led the Tigers into the World Series against the Cubs in the 1907 and 1908 (the Cubs won both times). Their achievements may be a good omen for LaRussa. Both are in the Hall of Fame.

After an outstanding rookie season, Boston Red Sox lefthander Bobby Ojeda is finding life in the big leagues a little more difficult this year. Much was expected from the 24-year-old in 1982, and now both he and manager Ralph Houk know time is running out. "It has been more frustrating than you can believe," said Ojeda. "But I feel I've beaten it now. I have no excuses. I still feel good and I don't even think how bad it has been." In 1981, Ojeda came within two outs of no-hitting New York in Yankee Stadium and finished the strike-shortened season at 6-2 (pitching only in the second half). He also had been the International League's pitcher of the year. His 1982 log reads 4-5 with a 5.30 ERA. He has walked 27 and given up 89 hits in 73 innings. "He had a bad spring (2-2, 5.00 ERA) but I wasn't concerned because I saw what he could do last year," said Houk. "It just got to where he couldn't get ahead of hitters. And every time he shows signs of getting out of it, something happens." "It has been a hard battle. There have been times when I felt real low, times when I almost didn't want the ball. I had no confidence," he said. "It hasn't been fun but it has been worthwhile. And by battling back from it, I think it has made me a better pitcher."

Tennis players looking to upgrade their doubles skills might heed the words of a pretty fair doubles player named Rod Laver. The two-time Grand Slam champion, who has also won 10 major doubles titles, claims that success in doubles depends greatly on "how strong your net game is.

Bon Appetit

by Ann Thomas

With such an abundance of lemons, limes and oranges, it seems fitting to devote this week's column to recipes which use these fruits.

CHOCOLATE-ORANGE RIBBON CAKE

This cake is so pretty! You can serve 10 at a cost of 48 cents each. Great for school carnivals.

2 sq. unsweetened chocolate
c. plus 1 T. milk
2½ c. sifted cake flour
2½ t. baking powder
1 t. salt
⅔ c. vegetable shortening
3 eggs
1/8 t. baking soda
1 t. grated orange rind

Recipes for orange filling and chocolate frosting follow.

Preheat oven to 350° F. Grease and flour two 9 x 1½" pans.

Heat chocolate and 1 T. milk in a small saucepan over very low heat until melted; reserve.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt onto wax paper.

Beat shortening, sugar and eggs in a large bowl with electric mixer on high speed until light and fluffy, about three minutes.

Stir in sifted dry ingredients alternately with remaining 1 cup milk, beating well after each addition until batter is smooth. Divide the batters into two bowls.

Beat cooled chocolate mixture into one part until smooth. Stir orange rind into remaining batter. Turn each into pans.

Bake in preheated oven for 30 minutes or until centers spring back. Cool in pans on wire racks 10 minutes. Loosen around edges; turn out; cool completely. Split layers in half crosswise to make four thin layers.

Prepare the chocolate frosting and orange filling. Frost two layers with orange filling and one with chocolate frosting, alternating orange with chocolate and vice versa. Layer so that top layer is ready for chocolate frosting. Garnish with walnut halves and thin, twisted orange slices.

CHOCOLATE FROSTING

Melt four sq. unsweetened chocolate and one stick of butter (half a cup) over hot, not boiling water. Combine one pound powdered sugar, half a cup of milk and one teaspoon vanilla in a large bowl. Stir until blended. Stir in chocolate mixture and beat until thick enough to spread.

ORANGE FILLING

¾ c. sugar
¼ c. flour
grated rind of 1 orange
1 T. lemon juice
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
1/8 t. salt

Mix all the ingredients in a heavy-bottomed pan and cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Cool. Yields 1¼ cups.

The following recipe was taken from the February 1977 issue of Family Circle magazine.

RAINBOW CITRUS CAKE

3½ c. sifted all-purpose flour
2¼ c. sugar
5 t. baking powder
1 t. salt
¾ c. vegetable shortening
1½ c. milk
4 eggs
2 t. vanilla
2 t. each lemon, orange and lime rind
Yellow, red and green food coloring
Lemon filling (recipe follows)
Orange cream frosting (recipe follows)
Orange sections
Pecans
Lime slices

Grease and flour three nine-inch layer-cake pans, tapping out excess flour.

Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into bowl of an electric mixer. Add shortening, milk, eggs and vanilla.

Beat at low speed, one minute; increase speed to high. Beat three minutes longer, scraping down side of bowl several times with rubber scraper.

Divide batter among three bowls; add lemon rind and yellow food coloring to one bowl; stir just to blend; pour into a prepared pan. Add orange rind and yellow and red food coloring to second bowl; stir just to blend; pour into second pan. Add lime rind and green food coloring to third bowl; stir just to blend; pour into third pan.

Bake in moderate oven (350° F.) 30 minutes, or until tops spring back when lightly touched with fingertip. Cool in pans on wire racks five minutes; loosen cakes around edges with spatula; invert onto wire racks; cool completely.

Put layers together with lemon filling; frost side and top with most of orange cream frosting. Fill a pastry bag with remaining frosting and insert a #16 star tip; pipe top and bottom border edges.

Arrange orange sections in a swirling pattern on top; insert a pecan between orange sections and place lime slices in center. Refrigerate until serving time.

LEMON FILLING

Makes enough to fill one three-layer cake. Combine half a cup sugar, one-fourth cup cornstarch and one-fourth teaspoon salt in a large saucepan; beat in two egg yolks and three-fourths cup water with a wire whip until smooth. Cook, stirring constantly with wooden spoon, until mixture thickens and bubbles one minute. Remove saucepan from heat; stir in one-third cup lemon juice and two tablespoons butter or margarine. Pour into glass bowl; cover surface with plastic wrap; cool completely.

ORANGE CREAM FROSTING

It makes enough to frost one three-layer cake. Beat half a cup (one stick) butter or magarine until soft in small bowl of electric mixer at medium speed. Beat in one package (one pound) sifted (confectioners' powdered) sugar and a dash of salt until all of the sugar has been added. Beat in two tablespoons orange juice, two tablespoons corn syrup and two teaspoons vanilla until spreadable. Tint a rich orange with yellow and red food coloring.

I hope you enjoy these cakes. It seems to take a little of the guilt away from sweet desserts if they have fruit in them. Or do we call that rationalizing? See you next week. Bon appetit!

Healthful hints

Brown or white sugar?

By Jean Glowka

Q. I'm trying to get my wife to cut down on the sugar that she uses in cooking, etc. Well, she has switched to that dark brown sugar and thinks she has really done a lot of good. It's not that much better than white sugar is it? What's the deal?

A. No, it's definitely not "that much better"!

Sometimes dark brown sugar is just white sugar that has been sprayed with molasses. Well, molasses is a good source of vitamins and minerals, so this sugar is a LITTLE better than white sugar. Sometimes, however, this sugar is sprayed with carmelized white sugar, which gives it a brown color, but NO food value at all, except calories!

Hope this helps your "cut down on sugar" campaign!

Q. My skin is very dry and scaly, especially my legs and feet. I've tried all kinds of creams and lotions, even baby oil. Nothing helps. What can I do?

A. One thing you can do is to make sure you're getting oil on the INSIDE as well as the outside. This is important! You can put creams and oils on your skin forever and still have dry skin if you don't include oil in your diet.

Now, we're not suggesting that you load up on lard! What we're talking about is vegetable oils, which are known as the "good guys of the fat family" because they are low in saturated fats. Nutritionists and nutrition-oriented beauty experts recommend taking a tablespoon of vegetable oil daily. (Safflower oil is one of the best, or try a blend of 3 or 4 of the good oils.) You can take this straight from the spoon or put it on a salad. Just get it down once a day — you'll be amazed!

Until next week, folks, stay happy and healthy! It's a beautiful world!

Coordination is a learned function

Adults tend to think of coordination as being mainly physical.

But according to Growing Child, the monthly child development newsletter, when the job is easy but new, the skills involved are mostly mental.

A child learning a new skill must consciously think about what parts of the body are to move, where they should go and at what time. Consider an everyday situation that requires complicated coordination. You have driven home with the groceries and start to carry two bags at one time. To make everything come out right, you must be sure that the house key is in hand before you pick up the second bag. Then a knee must be brought into play to support the second bag as you unlock the door. You find yourself thinking ahead, quickly planning what the next move will be.

A toddler must do the same kind of planning with the simpler coordinations her life requires. At first, just avoiding furniture and avoiding furniture and objects on the floor took considerable motor planning. When her explorations lead her to climb on and crawl under many different kinds of objects, pull wheeled toys around corners, carry bulky objects through doors, or open doors without bumping head or toes, she must continually be conscious of what her various body parts are doing. If she is successful in her endeavors and keeps everything in line, we say that she is adequately coordinated. A toddler has to think just as hard about the new things she does as we do with a much more complicated task.

It is often found that children who have learning disabilities are poorly coordinated. It is also found that activities that develop coordination benefit the thinking and planning process.

Nursing Home News

By Maxine Mayer

Residents at the Aransas Pass Nursing and Convalescent Center enjoyed a nice week of socials, activities, volunteers and visiting relatives.

Monday afternoon was bluegrass music time with John Blair, Altie Albers and Fannie and George Langley.

Steve Baker, youth director of the First Baptist Church of Aransas Pass, brought out a group of young people to sing and visit with us on Tuesday afternoon.

Our weekly Bible study and communion with Brother Bob DeWolfe was held Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 18. Winnie Wier celebrated her birthday on that afternoon, and cake and coffee were served to residents and staff.

Paint class was held Friday morning, Aug. 20, with Frankie, Lea and Lyla. They served cookies and crackers to all in attendance. That afternoon the Rockport A.A.R.P. joined us for an old-fashioned sing along. Later in the day, Catholic mass was held for all our Catholic residents.

Sunday morning worship services were led by Rev. Al Bankert. Members and friends of the First Christian Church of Ingleside joined us for a sing-in on Sunday afternoon.

Thanks for all the books and flowers which many of you bring out to us. We appreciate your kindness very much.

Rev. Barrett Renfro
First United Methodist Church

A certain chief administrator and his group of managers were set over a realm of vineyards, orchards, flower gardens and forests to tend them. Word came that a tiny neighboring estate, just beyond the distant limits of the realm, was being plagued with weeds. Moved by fear and anger, the chief administrator sent a small group of experts to show his neighbors how to weed. The experts were unsuccessful in stopping the plants from spreading so they asked for more help. Year after year the chief administrator sent more experts and workers, but still the plants spread. Finally, he was vexed and said, "How is it that I, who am in charge of a vast realm, cannot get rid of this tiny estate of weeds?" And he ordered his managers to send in bulldozers to attack the plants. Still, their spread could not be halted.

Some of the chief administrator's people came to him and said, "Is it not foolish to weed a garden with a bulldozer? Besides, some reports say these plants are not weeds, but only a sturdy, native flower." He replied, "I will not be the first chief administrator to lose a battle with weeds. The stability of our whole realm is the result of such vigilance against weeds and I will maintain this noble tradition." And he sent out an order to use the most sophisticated weeding equipment in their possession against these plants. So his experts and workers moved in with explosives and flamethrowers and fire bombs and chemicals to combat the so-called weeds.

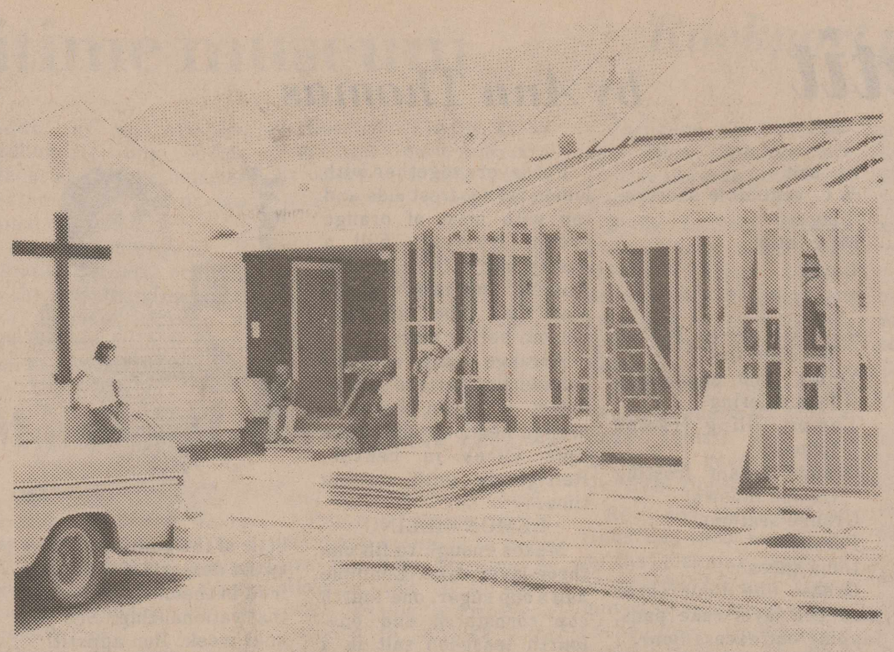

The people mourned. They came to him and wept, saying, "Sir, we are grieved over the realm, over the ruin of this lovely garden, beautiful flowers in full blossom are being scorched; young plants are being damaged and broken without a chance to grow. Old perennials, the glory of any garden, are being singed and maimed; seedlings are being trampled and crushed." The chief administrator replied, "It grieves me as much as the next person to see them destroyed but this is the price we must pay to weed the garden."

So he did not heed the cries of the people. This tiny estate became the scene of great devastation. The earth was wounded and torn and scarred. The trees and gardens and vineyards were leveled and burned in pursuit of the so-called weeds. Finally, that land was a desolation; all to be seen were puffs of smoke rising here and there. All to be heard was the sound of mourning. "Mission accomplished," said the chief administrator.

After a few years a lonely traveler, returning from these parts, reported seeing here and there a new growth of so-called weeds, which seemed to be nourished by the aches.

Wait for the Lord and keep to his way, and he will exalt you to possess the land; you will look on the destruction of the wicked.

Communion Service telecast

CORPUS CHRISTI — A non-denominational World Communion Service led by internationally known evangelist Kenneth Copeland will be broadcast live via satellite Sat., Aug. 28, to the Bayfront Plaza Convention Center, according to local coordinator Steve Moore.

The Service is scheduled for broadcast from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. and will be the largest live, split-screen video teleconference in the history of the communications industry.

A brief address by Dr. Paul Cho of Seoul, South Korea, will be transmitted simultaneously during Copeland's service and beamed around the world in split-screen format. Some 250 cities in the U.S. and 11 foreign countries will receive the broadcast.

Church happenings

Church of God barbecue

Rockport's Church of God, Hwy. 35 at Concho, will have a barbecue and bake sale starting at 11 a.m. Saturday, Aug. 28, on the church grounds.

Promotion Sunday

Sunday, Aug. 29, is Promotion Sunday at Rockport First Baptist Church. A bell will signal time for the event at 10:30 a.m.

First Baptist nursery

Parents of nursery children at First Baptist Church, and any other interested persons, are urged to attend a meeting in the church choir room at 5:30 p.m. Sunday, Aug. 29. Purpose of the meeting is to form a nursery committee.

Funerals & deaths

Julia Brent Douglass

Funeral services for Mrs. Julia Brent Douglass of Lubbock were conducted at 10 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 26, at the West Minister Presbyterian Church in Lubbock. Graveside services were held at 2 p.m. Friday, Aug. 27, in the Forrest Park Memorial Park in Houston.

Mrs. Douglass, 74, died Wednesday morning, Aug. 25, in a Lubbock hospital after a brief illness. She was a resident of Corpus Christi from 1937 until 1968 when she moved to Lubbock.

Survivors include two sons, Donald Douglass of Rockport and Tom Douglass of Richardson; and six grandchildren.

We can complain because the rose bushes have thorns or rejoice because thorn bushes have roses.

Keeping in touch

That mail-box on the city corner . . . that post office at the country crossroads . . . what would we do without them?

Life is too complex for us to live by ourselves. Man's interests and his welfare reach far beyond the boundaries of his community. Communication with people and corporations hundreds of miles away is a part of modern living that we take for granted. We have to "keep in touch."

But long before life became so complex, men discovered their need for another kind of communication—prayer. The courage and faith and hope which steel men for the challenge of each day come from God. The deep spiritual needs of the soul can be supplied only by keeping in touch with God.

We think our mail-boxes are indispensable! Even so, one church means more to a community than all its postal facilities. For not so long ago men lived very happily without a postal system. But men have never lived happily without God!

Wal-Mart Set To Open Tuesday In Rockport

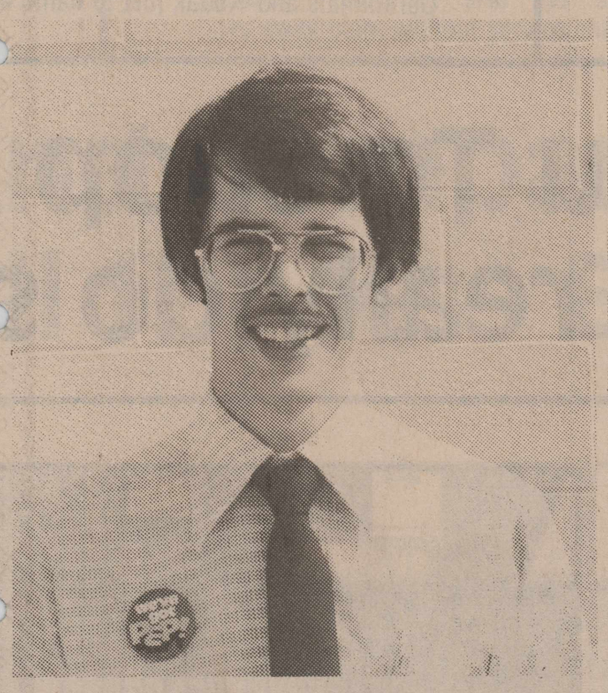

New Wal-Mart Store Located on Highway 35N. of Rockport

Doors To Open at 9 A.M. Tuesday

Ribbon Cutting Ceremony, Tuesday-New Store to Create New Jobs.

Your Local Wal-Mart Managers

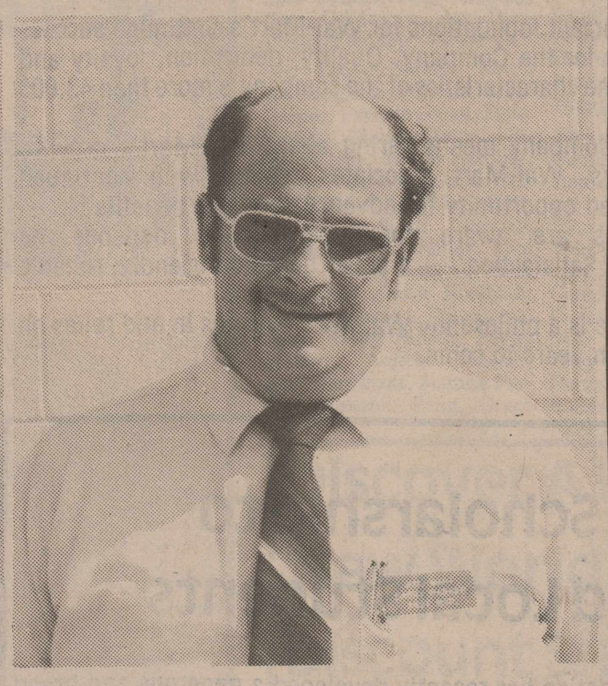

LEWIS SPEIRS is manager of the new 46,353-square-foot Wal-Mart Discount City. He began his career with Wal-Mart as a trainee in his native Manhattan, Kans., and after completing training was promoted to assistant manager in Chanute, Kans. Before coming to Rockport, he was assistant manager for the store in Kileen. He and his wife, Debra, have one son, Travis.

ASSISTANT MANAGER DAVID COWARD was employed with Envirotech Corporation before he joined the Wal-Mart corporation two years ago. A native of Birmingham, Ala., he graduated from Belhaven College in Jackson, Miss., in 1977 and Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green, in 1982. He worked with Wal-Mart stores in Bowling Green and Morganfield, Ky., prior to moving to Rockport.

ASSISTANT MANAGER KENNETH K. VANCE has been an employee of Wal-Mart for 10 weeks, starting with the store in Porter. A native of Cardwell, Mo., and graduate of Como, Tex., High School, Vance is a four-year veteran of the U.S. Air Force and was employed by K-Mart for 11 years. He is married, has two children.

BARRY WARNER, assistant manager, has been with Wal-Mart for a year but has extensive retail experience prior to joining the company. He and his wife Nancy have moved to Rockport from Mexico, Mo. The Warners have five children, one living at home.

Wal-Mart A Company On The Move

Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. is continuing to grow. Wal-Mart, which is headquartered in Bentonville, Ark., had the greatest record of growth in 1981 in its 19-year history. Sixty-nine new Wal-Mart stores opened in 1981. In addition, the company acquired 92 Big K stores.

Wal-Mart's sales have shown steady gains. Corporate volume exceeded $2.4 billion for the fiscal year ending January 31, 1982, up from $1.6 billion for the previous year. At the close of the fiscal year, Wal-Mart had 491 discount department stores in 13 states.

A Wal-Mart store is an important part of its community. It's not unusual for a Wal-Mart store to be the largest non-food retailer in its community. A Wal-Mart store will be anywhere from 30,000 to 80,000 square feet in size. The average store is about 48,000 square feet.

As the company has grown, so has the number of associates who make up the Wal-Mart family. Today Wal-Mart provides over 43,000 jobs in its marketing area.

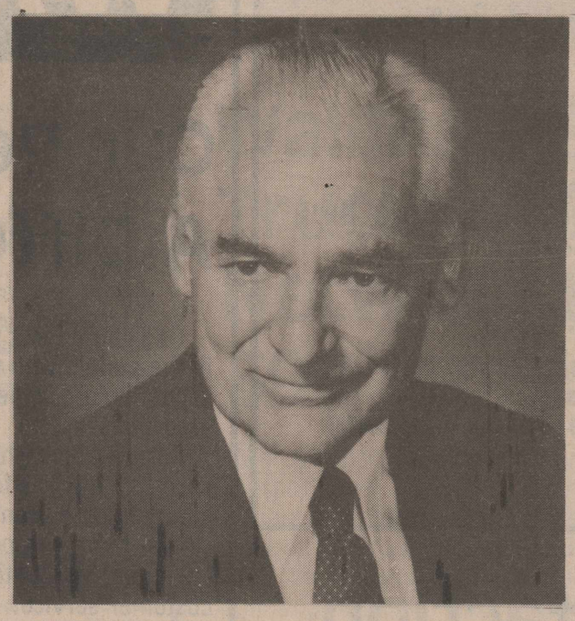

Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., had its beginnings in the small town variety store business. Sam Walton, the company's founder and Chairman of the Board of Directors, opened its first Ben Franklin variety store in 1945. After expanding into a group of 15 successful stores, Walton and his brother, J.L. Walton (who had joined him in 1946) opened the first Wal-Mart Discount City in 1962.

Since its founding, the regional chain has maintained its basic concepts — to provide consumers in mid-America communities and rural areas with a varied selection of quality merchandise at everyday low discount prices, and to guarantee customer satisfaction. Sticking to these principles has brought spectacular growth and remarkable consumer acceptance. Wal-Mart is recognized today as a leader in the retail industry. The key to Wal-Mart's success is proper management of large, convenient stores in small-town America, always with the customer's best interests and pocketbook in mind.

Wal-Mart is growing, yet always striving to provide better service. Construction will start this year on a new 900,000 square foot distribution center in Cullman, Ala., to supplement the five existing centers.

In October, 1970, Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., became a publicly-held corporation, and was listed on the Over-The-Counter Market. The company's stock began trading on the New York Exchange Aug. 25, 1972.

A Message From Sam M. Walton

Sam M. Walton

As chairman and founder of Wal-Mart Stores, I want to take this opportunity to acknowledge and recognize the fine folks and the job they have done in building the community of Rockport. Over the years your community has grown and prospered and I am confident that it will continue to do so in the years ahead.

In keeping with our company philosophy of locating in areas such as yours, we will soon have a Grand Opening of a new Wal-Mart store. With the beginning of our new relation, I want to express a hearty welcome to our new store associates who will strive to provide low prices, wide merchandise selections and values, and a friendly shopping atmosphere for all old and new customers.

The addition of a new store to our company is very exciting, and I want you to know how proud we are to be part of your wonderful community. Hopefully, our Wal-Mart program of good management and caring associates will be good for the entire area and will be a positive influence toward the continued development and growth of Rockport.

Again, we at Wal-Mart welcome this opportunity to serve you.

Wal-Mart's President Jack Shewmaker Named "Discounter Of The Year"

Jack Shewmaker

Jack Shewmaker, President and Chief Operating Officer of Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., has been elected Discounter of The Year in a poll of the leading executives in the industry conducted by Discount Store News.

Shewmaker joined Wal-Mart in 1970. Since joining the company, he has served in a variety of positions, including District Manager, Manager of New Store Opening Division, Vice President of Security and Loss Prevention, Vice President of Security end Loss Prevention, Vice President and Merchandise. He also serves on Wal-Mart's Board of Directors. He is currently a member of the Board and Executive Committee of the National Mass Retailing Institute, the most prominent organization in the retail industry.

Shewmaker's election makes Wal-Mart the first chain with two Discounter of the Year recipients. Founder and chairman Sam M. Walton received the award in 1978.

WAL-MART

Our People Make A Difference!

One of the most important foundations for Wal-Mart's continued success is the people who work for the Company. Quality, dedication, loyalty and capability are some of the characteristics of the company's more than 43,000 associates.

Caring about their Company means caring about Wal-Mart's growth, success and customers. Wal-Mart associates realize, with continued success comes continued opportunity for advancement and benefits.

Wal-Mart associates are aware continued success depends on "Guaranteed Customer Satisfaction" — a policy based on friendly, reliable customer service.

People helping people is a philosophy Wal-Mart believes in and relies on for continued success in years to come.

WAL-MART'S TEAM — It takes a lot of people to run a Wal-Ma the one opening at 9 a.m. Tuesday. Pictured above are the Customer Satisfaction Is Stressed at Wal-Mart.

Wal-Mart stores operate on the firm conviction that the Company's most important asset is the customers. When Wal-Mart says the customers must be satisfied, they mean it! Wal-Mart is dedicated to making this promise more than just another slogan.

With every purchase you make, you can count on complete satisfaction or your money will be refunded. Wal-Mart pledges to offer the finest quality nationally advertised brands at low prices every day. If Wal-Mart runs out of a sale item, you receive a rain check to buy that item at the same low sale price when new inventory is received.

Smart shoppers will join in the familiar tradition of shopping and saving at Wal-Mart. Remember . . . you always save and you must be satisfied.

Wal-Mart Scholarship to be offered Local Students

The Wal-Mart Foundation has recently developed a generous and broad scholarship program that is made available to a high school senior in each community in which it operates. The amount of the scholarship is $1,000 and is payable to the college of the student's choice. Area students are eligible to participate through their local high school counselors. The scholarship is academic in nature and attempts to recognize those students who excel in that area.

Quality name-brand merchandise at super low prices every single day of the week. Wal-Mart is conveniently located to make your shopping even easier.

Wal-Mart's Efficient Trucking & Distribution Network Services Over 500 Stores Each Week

Merchandise in the store is enhanced by the Wal-Mart Distribution and Transportation Divisions. Store merchandise arrives at one of five distribution centers from literally thousands of manufacturers and distributors throughout the United States. A sixth distribution facility is under construction in Alabama and will supply the southeastern stores beginning in 1983. Wal-Mart's own fleet of trucks then delivers the merchandise to over 500 stores in fourteen states on a weekly basis.

Last year company truck drivers logged 25 million miles over interstate highways and state roads. Safe driving records have always been a priority with the company's transportation associates as they strive to keep merchandise in each Wal-Mart store for greater customer satisfaction.

Wal-Mart truck drivers have logged over 25 million miles.

Munro attorney withdraws from suit

The attorney for Doug E. Munro, involved in a lawsuit filed by Allied Live Oak Bank of Rockport, was granted his motion to withdraw as Munro's attorney following hearing in District Court this past week.

Allied Live Oak has filed suit against Doug E. and Carol E. Munro alleging default of a promissory note and is asking for judgment in the amount of the note, $9,470.46 plus interest. The suit was filed May 6.

In an answer filed on May 11, Munro denied all allegations. Carol Munro denied the allegations in an answer filed later.

In his motion to withdraw as Munro's attorney, F. Edward Barker alleged that he has not been in contact with Munro for three or four weeks. He alleged Munro's last known address was in Fort Worth and he is not at that address now.

Munro announced plans in July of last year for development of an Airport Marina Hotel complex at the Aransas County Airport and lease agreement was drawn up with the county commissioners court.

Also in the court of District Judge Ronald Yeager this past week, Donald Gutierrez pleaded guilty to a charge of aggravated assault against a peace officer. Gutierrez was given a five-year probated sentence and was fined $1,000.

Several tax cases filed by the Aransas County Independent School District and the Aransas County Municipal Utility District were heard in Judge Yeager's court and judgements were taken in two of the ACMUD suits and five ACISD cases.

Coin collection stolen

A coin collection valued at more than $4,000 was reported taken when the residence of Ovie G. Kerbow in Lamar was burglarized early this month.

Entry was made through the back door of the washroom and deputies said all the closets had been gone through, apparently by the burglars.

In addition to the coin collection, the apparently-selective burglars took one Garcia reel 6,000-C from among 15 fishing poles and reels as well as some arrow heads, pocket knives, two new billfolds, watches and items of jewelry.

The burglary reportedly occurred between 9 a.m. Aug. 11 and 2:20 p.m. Aug. 12.

In another burglary this month, thieves netted a CB radio valued at $250, a pair of binoculars valued at $200 and 20 baseball caps totalling $60 in value.

That burglary, of the Key Allegro residence of Gene Garrison, occurred sometime between Aug. 3 and Aug. 21.

John Beard of Rt. 1 reported someone jacked up his car and removed all four radial tires and wheels, valued at $1,040. The vehicle was in the driveway of Beard's residence at the time of theft, sometime between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. Aug. 17.

A Thunder BMX bicycle valued at $110 was reported taken from the garage of L. T. Johnson in West Terrace between 5 p.m. Aug. 19 and 5 p.m. Aug. 20.

Rice charged in theft

Marjorie Rice of Ingleside has been charged with three counts of theft over $200, less than $10,000 following report of embezzlement of $21,442.14 from Bart's R.V. Center south of Rockport.

Rice was employed as bookkeeper for the mobile home/recreational vehicle business. The theft of the cash allegedly occured during a period from 1981 through July of this year.

Rice has been released on bond.

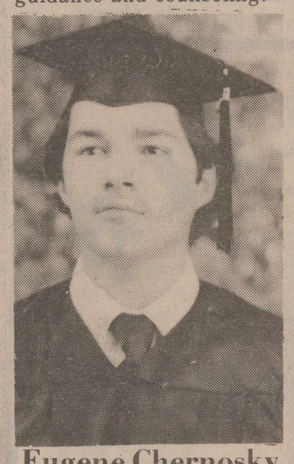

Rockport residents graduate

Three Rockport residents were among 939 students who received degrees Aug. 14 during Southwest Texas State University's summer commencement exercises.

Eugene Stewart Chernosky, son of Mr. and Mrs. A.B. Chernosky, received a bachelor of science degree in industrial arts. Eugene is a 1974 graduate of Rockport-Fulton High School.

Valerie Kay Ovendon, daughter of Mrs. and Mrs. E.H. Ovendon, received an applied arts and science degree with a major in respiratory therapy.

Kam Wagert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heinsohn, received a master of education degree in guidance and counseling.

Artifacts sought for maritime museum

Nautical artifacts and items relating to Texas' maritime history are being sought again this year for exhibit in the Maritime Museum that will be part of Rockport's annual Seafair Oct. 9 and 10.

Area residents who have such items are being asked to lend them for the two-day exhibit. Items already secured for the exhibit include old outboard motors, handcarved scrimshaw, a Coast Guard lifesaving line cannon, pictures of the old Rice and Heldenfels shipyards, a model of an offshore drilling rig, ship models, binnacles, diving helmets, sextants and other navigational devices.

Anyone interested in donating artifacts or items to the museum is asked to call Leonard Specht at 729-7042 or -1218 or Larry Self at 729-0817.

Rockport Flotilla 79 of the Coast Guard Auxiliary is sponsor of this year's museum and Coast Guard auxiliarists will pick up exhibit material on Thursday before Seafair and return it the following Tuesday.

Marine facility dedicated

ARANSAS PASS — Ground was broken Thursday morning, Aug. 26, for a $1 million marine service terminal to be built by Intercoastal Properties Inc. in Aransas Pass.

Ceremonies were at 10 a.m. at the site of the new terminal, located at the juncture of Conn Brown Harbor and the Intracoastal Canal.

Primary purpose of the terminal, according to Aransas Pass City Manager Al Holguin, will be to serve boats carrying personnel and supplies to offshore locations.

Construction is expected to take about 75 days.

By Betty Paul

Christene and Bob Baskett from Cleburne are visiting the area for several weeks.

Molly Lackwa, Dianna Fake, Nancy Adams and Helen Pearson had a reunion breakfast before returning to their respective colleges for the fall semester.

Mrs. Betty Jean Ward has houseguests for several days, Janissa and Gary Davis and grandson Gary Jr. from Houston.

Rev. and Mrs. Richard Giller and their family are in the planning stage of actually having their house moved to another lot close to Fulton Community Church. They are considering charging admission to let everyone come and watch with them.

"Snapper" Suttles celebrated his 7th birthday in a big way Wednesday at his parents Mr. and Mrs. Jack Suttles, Country Corners. A fish fry was held and a circus theme was used. Friends and relatives brought gifts.

A Ladies Bible Study is being started at Fulton Community Church on Thursdays at 10 a.m. The public is cordially invited.

Cynthia Lee and Coke Lee were the host and hostess for a family get-together in honor of Angie Hutchinson's birthday at Country Corners. The theme of the party was "pink roses", used on the tables, plates, napkins and on pink tablecloths. Presents were presented to the birthday girl and champagne was served to all the guests.

This Saturday the women of the Church of God have planned a barbeque and bake sale at 11:00 a.m. in their Fellowship Hall on Highway 35.

Visiting Estelle and Neil Stair for several days were Mr. and Mrs. Mark Myron and their son Neil from Shrevesport, La., Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Boldon from Rockdale, Mrs. Art Baer and her daughter Elizabeth from Houston.

Elder Tom Mathews will be guest speaker this Sunday at the morning service of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints.

Mrs. George Williams is home after being in the Veterans Hospital in Kerrville and feeling better but she will have to undergo further tests at a later date.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Pfeifer had visiting them Mr. Pfeifer's brother Paul, his wife Nola and their sons Andy and Scott from San Antonio.

Grace Stanick had a funny experience with her husband's pick-up truck. She got out of it to get her mail and the truck went into the channel. Lucky for Grace she wasn't hurt.

Al Gemble, formerly of San Antonio, is a new sales associate with Little Bay Real Estate.

Virginia and Al Chernosky spent a weekend in Austin visiting Virginia's parents, Col. and Mrs. H. H. Stewart, and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hudnall. They all went together to attend the graduation of the Chernosky's son, Eugene at Southwest Texas.

Penny Benjamin spent several days in Houston visiting friends and shopping.

Nancy and Bob Chandler spent a week in Dallas on a business-pleasure trip.

Nancy Mayhood returned from a delightful trip to Vancover, British Columbia.

WELCOME! New residents to Palm Harbor are Mr. and Mrs. John Waits from Houston.

Mary and Jowell Hearn spent a weekend in Houston attending the Texas Association of Nurserymen Trade Show.

Carita and Jim Gould have returned from a trip to Enid, Okla. to be with Carita's father Mr. R. B. Kee who was in critical condition. Mr. Kee was improving when they left him.

Virginia Chernosky is so proud of her accomplishment on receiving her Broker's License.

Dee and Bill Freitag had visiting them for six weeks their grandchildren Heather and Jason Cavin from San Diego, California.

Myrt and Dub Blocker are retiring from owning and managing Circle Inn Camp Grounds for five and one-half years and moving back to their original home in Rockport.

"Getting Involved" Doug Norrell

Doug Norrell is not afraid to get involved. Norrell, of D.L. Norrell Construction Company, does all kinds of general maintenance service including new construction, remodeling, design service, and tractor work for any job that needs doing.

He is currently working on St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Rockport, where he is busy adding two new vesting areas and a sacristy to the existing structure. The church area will be enlarged by 600 square feet. The construction and remodeling will add a total of 800 sq. feet to the building.

A member of the church himself, Norrell designed the plans for this "ambitious undertaking" with help from other church members. With the needed funds, Norrell predicts the project should be finished within 60 days.

Norrell is no newcomer to the construction business. "I've been around this business all my life," he says. He began helping his father, who was also in the construction business, at age 12. He's been in Rockport for six years now, moving here from Corpus Christi, and enjoys "getting involved in community affairs."

Norrell also does what he calls "maintenance work for absentee home owners." This includes remodeling and construction work for several area homes whose owners are away. Along with five full-time employees, he will "do anything that's related to the construction business. We specialize in quality construction."

Doug Norrell's phone number is 729-7400.

Guidelines for school meals announced

The United States Department of Agriculture has announced the new income poverty guidelines for determining eligibility for free and reduced-price meals for the 1982-83 school year.

The Aransas County schools serve two meals every school year. Students may buy lunch for $1 in junior high and high school, and for 75 cents in the elementary schools. Breakfast may be purchased for 40 cents in all schools.

Children from families whose income is at or below the level shown on the scale included here may be eligible for either free meals or meals at a reduced price of 40 cents for lunch and 20 cents for breakfast.

To apply at any time during the school year for free or reduced-price meals for children, a family should complete an application and return it to the school. Within 10 working days of receiving the application, the school will let families know whether or not their children are eligible.

If during the school year there are changes in family size or substantial changes in income, these changes should be reported to the school officials in order that appropriate eligibility adjustments may be made.

There are changes in the application this year and all questions must be answered. This application requires the name and social security number of all adult members of the family. Adults without social security numbers must indicate that they do not have one. Schools may verify the source and amount of income as well as household composition.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for benefits. A family having foster children living with them may wish to apply for such meals. The family will need to make an indication of this on the application.

All children are treated the same regardless of ability to pay. In the operation of the program no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, creed, color or national origin. All information received on the application is confidential.

After the applications have been received and processed by the school, if a family does not agree with the decision on the application they may want to discuss it with the school. A family has a right to a fair hearing, and may write to E.J. Randow, Superintendent, at Box 907, Rockport, Texas 78382 or call 729-2276 to make an appointment.

All this information, together with an application form, will be sent home by students the first day of school.

The following applications for permits have been filed with the Army Corps of Engineers. Comments must be submitted to the District Engineer, P.O. Box 1229, Galveston, Texas 77553, on or before the deadline shown.

MATAGORDIA ISLAND

Exxon Corporation, Houston, permission to erect and maintain structures, perform work for drilling wells and for producing oil and gas in the Gulf of Mexico, Matagorda Island area, in State Tract 637-S, central to a point approximately six miles south from Port O'Connor.

Comments must be submitted on or before Sept. 22.

CORPUS CHRISTI

City of Corpus Christi, permission to construct a 24-inch, 220-foot effluent discharge line for a waste water treatment plant at Laguna Madre, southeast end of Jester St. in Flour Bluff. The line will parallel an existing 18-inch line. Approximately 30 cubic yards of sandy mud will be dredged to install the line. All dredged material will be used for backfill. A headwall will also be constructed.

Comments must be submitted on or before Sept. 13.

CORPUS CHRISTI

City of Corpus Christi, permission to construct a storm drainage system with two-barrell, three-foot by five-foot box culverts with a headwall and wingwalls, at Laguna Madre, Las Palmas Dr., Corpus Christi. Approximately 35 cubic yards of sandy mud will be dredged from an area approximately 30 feet by 20 feet to a depth of one foot below mean low tide. The area dredged will be waterward from the proposed headwall.

Comments must be submitted on or before Sept. 15.

annex up to 10 percent of its acreage per year, Johnson said.

Johnson stressed that voters have a much stronger input in a home rule city than they do in a general law city. He quelled fears of higher taxes saying, home rule "will have no bearing on taxes."

In other action, Mitch Ammons named six members to the nominating committee which will select officers for election at the September meeting. Included in the committee are Dale Rolland, chairman, Harold Pinchin, Ed Brennan, Homer Faber, Edwina Stranahan and Kathy Winkelman.

Gilbert Whitcomb represented the association at the meeting of the Texas Association of Concerned Taxpayers in Corpus Christi. The Aransas County Taxpayers Association is one of 1[illegible] members of the TACT.

Park

She noted that Charlie Augustine has resigned as the organization's president and she, as vice president, has been unable to devote enough time to the association. "It looks like the best thing to do is fold the organization and work through some other governmental entity," she said.

At the last meeting of the association, she said, "It was suggested that we work through the park department since the beach is in the city." She cited beach improvements brought about through the association — including lighting, cabanas, dredging of the Saltwater Pool and Ski Basin "and some playground equipment" — and continued, "I feel we can keep improving the beach and find other projects in the city.

"It is a park," she said, "and it's in the city and it seems to me it could be your jurisdiction."

Park board member Howard Black observed, "Since I've been here, the city has never wanted to spend money on the beach because they say it's Navigation District property."

Referring to the work being done now by Rockport's charter commission, Winkelman said, "We might ask them to redefine parks and recreation (in the proposed city charter)."

Another time she observed, "I think the areas we have should be developed. W[illegible] only have one place in town (Memorial Park) and it isn't convenient to the smaller kids."

"I was out in the park the other morning, about 11 o'clock," McCague said, "and there was not a soul out there except workmen clearing the new park area."

Added Patty McArdle, another park board member, "It's off the beaten track."

"We've done a lot of talking." McCague observed at one point. "I wish some more of you would do some looking. Let's come back, have another session. Let's come up with suggestions of things we want to do.

"I think," he said, "we should either meet or not meet at all — call it quits."

"I think we should meet once a month," Winkelman said. In answer to a question from Richards, "Can we do anything?" she said, "If we fight. I think it's going to be an uphill battle."

Crackdown

Board members Daughtry Roberts and Leonard Owens were not present.

Following that decision, the board discussed methods of financing the repairs and authorized Little to pursue several financing alternatives, including a proposal from Whalen Corporation of Dallas to assume ownership of the reconstructed plant for a 10-year period.

Under this arrangement, Little said, the company would assume ownership of new work done to the plant — existing facilities belong to the ACMUD and cannot be transferred, he said — and would sell the water to the ACMUD which would then resell it to the district's customers. At the end of the 10-year period, the facilities would be transferred to the ACMUD's ownership.

Little said Whalen Corporation has entered into this type of arrangement with other governing bodies including the city of Irving and at least one other MUD.

Board members also authorized Little to pursue the possibility of this type arrangement with MSI.

In other action, the board voted to increase deposit and reconnect fees for water and sanitary sewer service in the district. Current fees are $25 deposit for each residential connection and a $10 reconnect fee.

The directors voted to raise these fees to $50 for deposit plus $25 reconnect in a effort to discourage late payment and non-payment of utility bills. They also asked District Operator David McClusky to strictly enforce the automatic cutoff provision for bills that are 20 days or more overdue.

Little told board members the debt adjustment proposal to be presented by the district to its creditors should be in the mail this week.

The district's next meeting will be 7:3[illegible] p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 8.

Aransas is ready for MDA telethon

Aransas County is ready for the annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day telethon to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association, says Ruth Gordon, local coordinator for the event.

The Rockport fire station will again serve as pledge center for the county. Gordon said any adult who would like to help in the center during the day-long event (scheduled here for Monday, Sept. 6, only, from 7 a.m. until 6 p.m. can contact her at 729-3381 or -6667.

She added that youngsters who would like to collect door-to-door for Jerry's Kids can pick up their cans at the pledge center on Labor Day.

Last year, according to MDA officials, Aransas County residents pledged $1,893 to the telethon through the Rockport Pledge Center.

The Jerry Lewis "Extra Special Special" Telethon will go on the air at 8 p.m. Sunday, Sept. 5, and will continue through 5:30 p.m. Monday. Now in its 17th year, the telethon will be seen live from Caesars Palace in Las Vegas on a nationwide network of more than 200 stations.
