Mr. Republican Doesn't Know Effects His Defeat Will Have

CHICAGO, July 12 (AP)—Sen. Robert A. Taft in the blasted ruins of his third and biggest bid for the presidency, vowed today it was his last.

The famed "Mr. Republican," who had boasted just a few short days ago that he had the GOP nomination as good as in the bag, reaffirmed his pledge of loyal support to the man who had snatched it from him, and told a reporter firmly:

"This is the last time I'll ever run for President."

"I'll be too old," he added with a grin.

He turned then with a wave of the hand to girls of his staff clustered dejectedly nearby, and strode off calling back "Well, goodbye." His voice sounded just a little choked.

Former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, whose forces dramatically cast the votes that gave the nomination to Gen. Dwight D Eisenhower, visited Taft this morning.

Just what was said at the meeting remained their secret, but the sober-faced Stasen told a reporter after the brief interview "I came to pay my respects to a great man, a great American." He declined to discuss it further.

He arrived amid the strange hurly-burly of confusion in which Taft's forces were breaking camp, with Democrats moving in behind them and practically stepping on their heels. The Democrats are preparing for their own nominating convention which will start July 21.

What part will Taft play in the campaign for Eisenhower?

How far will he step back from his famed role of "Mr. Republican" in Senate affairs?

He told a reporter he doesn't know the answers yet, himself.

Taft said he was' sincere when he stood yesterday beside Eisenhower in the tumultuous after-the-nomination celebration and pledged him loyal support.

Asked whether he is willing to make the same sort of whistle-stop campaign for Eisenhower that he would have made for himself, the Senator answered:

"I just don't know—I don't expect they'll ask for my help to that extent." He added that no one from the Eisenhower camp has approached him on the subject yet.

He said he has not yet appraised either, the effects his defeat will have on his powerful role in Senate affairs as chairman of the Republican Policy Committee. That is the group which calls signals for Republican members on partisan matters in the Senate.

"It's just too soon to say," he said.

Taft said he plans to leave tomorrow with Mrs. Taft and several other members of the family for their old vacation spot on Murray Bay, (Que.,) to get some "solid rest," then fly to Washington the following week.

Third Case Of Polio In City

A third case of polio for Snyder in 1952 was reported this week by Hendrick Memorial Hospital attendants.

David Patterson Wells, 18-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Wells, was stricken with polio last week and was taken to the Abilene hospital.

Attendants at the hospital said young Wells is now in good condition and has shown no sign of paralysis.

The child's father is a mechanic at the Wells Wrecking Co. on the East Highway. The family lives in the Bootheland Addition.

Both other Snyder polio victims were reported as improving yesterday. Eddie Wilson, 19-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Wilson, Roby Highway, remains in a Fort Worth hospital. He is still being kept off his legs, although he has regained use of them. He was stricken about June 14.

Raymond Webb, Jr., who was stricken with the disease about July 5, was reported as greatly improved at Hendrick. Attendants said he will probably be dismissed from the hospital soon. The Webb family lives at the Butler Trailer Courts on the Post Highway.

Leaking Air Conditioner Causes General Alarm

A large crowd gathered on the sidewalk, traffic jammed the east side of the square, and firemen, both paid regulars and volunteers rushed to a dress shop to fight a fire which turned out to be just a strong whiff of ammonia.

The general alarm was sounded at 9 o'clock last night, and the already - crowded square became more jammed. Policemen kept the thronging Saturday night shoppers and other curious persons away from the building while firemen discovered the cause of the odor for which the report of fire was made. Ammonia was escaping from an air conditioner.

Shower Here Yesterday

A shower falling on Snyder for a few minutes yesterday afternoon measured .06 of an inch and brought the total for the year to 5.28 inches.

Total rainfall during the month of July, which fell in three showers, is now .39 of an inch.

Explosions Hit Two Oil Tankers At Pier

MARTINEZ, Calif., July 12 (AP)—Raging flames, touched off by a spark and punctuated by thunderous explosions, today engulfed two ocean-going oil tankers at the Union nOil Refinery as sailors and dock workers plunged for their lives into San Pablo Bay.

Capt. Eugene Fulton, skipper of the 8,168-ton tanker Victor H. Kelly, died of a heart attack as his ship was wracked by internal explosions alongside the flame-swept pier at nearby Oleum.

Two men were missing and 30 or more injured.

Damage was estimated at five million dollars.

Hours later the Kelly, heeled over at a 30-degree angle, continued to burn as fireboats poured millions of gallons of water into her gutted hulk.

The other flaming tanker, the 10,448-ton Lompoc, was hauled out into the bay by a Navy tug. Crewmen and fireboats put out flames on her decks in an hour's battle.

Fire equipment from a dozen towns, fireboats from San Francisco, Oakland and the Mare Island Navy Yard, nine Coast Guard vessels and dozens of private craft rushed to the scene when the fire broke out five minutes before noon.

Witnesses said a spark on the 1,800-foot pier touched off leaking oil as the Kelly was discharging a cargo of crude oil. The flames spread rapidly through the oil-soaked timbers of the pier. Within minutes 200 feet of the dock and both ships were blazing.

Capt. Fulton dropped dead at his post. He had first fought to back his ship clear, then had ordered his 40 crewmen and officers over the side when the situation proved hopeless.

Two huge explosions wracked the ship. One was in the forward tanks, the other astern. A red ball of fire, described by witnesses as at least 50 feet in diamter, shot high into the sky. Two more blasts followed.

Crewmen, unable to launch lifeboats, jumped into the bay. Most wore life preservers and were picked up by swarming rescue craft.

Chief Mate R. F. Bonner of the Kelly said. "I never saw anything spread so fast in my life. We tried to cut our lines to the pier but it was too hot."

The missing men were both Kelly crewmen, identified as Radio Operator W. L. Liggins of Napa, Calif., and a wiper named Yarter. His first name was not available.

Most of the injured were treated for rope burns and bruises suffered sliding down lines to safety in the oil-covered waters.

For a time it was feared that oil in the network of pipes might spread the flaming destruction to the refinery, one of the world's largest, a quarter-mile from the pier. But workers quickly closed emergency hand-operated valves near the bay. Volunteers manned a diesel switch engine to pull a dozen tank cars off the collapsing pier.

A spokesman for the Union Oil Company estimated damage at five million dollars — 3½ million to the Kelly, one million to the pier and equipment, and a half-million to the Lompoc.

Oklahoma Man Gets Highest Military Honor

WASHINGON, July 12 (AP)—An Oklahoma soldier has been awarded the highest honor of military heroism for the gallantry which cost him his life in a bitter battle on Korea's Heartbreak Ridge.

He is Sgt. Tony K. Burris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney S. Burris, Route No. 1, Blanchard, Okla. The parents will receive their son's decoration at a Pentagon ceremony on a date to be announced later.

Burris won the 52nd Medal of Honor announced by the Army during the Korean campaign, for sustained valor over a two-day period. In that time he was twice wounded, and twice refused medical aid, before he fell the last time as he led his platoon in a victorious charge.

Sgt. Steve Sanchez, Pune, Los Angeles County, Cal., gave this eye witness account of Burris' gallantry and death.

Their unit of the 2nd Division was pinned down by murderous fire during an assault on a huge Communist bunker on Heartbreak Ridge last Oct. 8. Burris called for fire cover from his men, then charged the bunker alone, killing 15 Reds with his grenades.

His charge won the ridge for the Americans. They holed up for the night but renewed their assault the next morning. Burris was spearheading the attack on another ridge when he was wounded by machine-gun fire. Refusing aid, Burris pressed on to the next objective, and was again wounded.

Again the wounded sergeant led his men forward and again the Americans were halted by fire from another of the endless spurs that make up Heartbreak Ridge. Burris leaped from his cover, and with the Japanese battlecry of "Banzai" again charged. His first grenades knocked out one Red machine-gun and his second accounted for a second. But Burris was hit again, this time mortally.

Detroit Gives Vote Challenge

DETROIT, July 12 (AP) — The city of Detroit wants to try to lick eight other leading cities in getting voters to turn out for this year's primary and general elections.

Officials here sent out challenging telegrams today to the mayors of New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Chicago, St. Louis and Los Angeles.

The challenges, signed by Acting Mayor Louis Miriani, suggested separate contests among the eight cities for the primary voting and the November presidential election. The winner of each race would be the city with the highest percentage of residents voting, compared with the total number of residents in the 1950 census.

In St. Louis Mayor Joseph M. Darst instantly accepted the challenge, adding, "We will top the other cities."

Truman Asks Volunteers For Watching Against Air Raids

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP) — President Truman made a bid today for more volunteers to man lookout stations which will go on a round-the-clock watch Monday against air invaders.

Without saying directly that his aim was recruitments for "Operation Skywatch" around America's frontiers, the President still put over the point in a statement saying the project is "a common-sense precaution in which Americans can serve proudly."

The first shifts of some 150,000 volunteers will take their posts early Monday at about 6,000 stations in 27 states to scan the skies for any raiders who might slip through the radar screen for a sneak attack that could set off World War III. The Air Defense Command, in announcing the delayed start of the defense measure emphasied the need for at least 350,000 more observers.

The Air Force wanted to start the watch in May, because the experts said weather conditions are most favorable for a long distance air assault from May through September.

The federal air defense organization was forced to postpone start of the operation because not enough civilians had volunteered to make possible a round-the-clock operation.

The Air Force has pressed for the start of the continuous ground observation because Russia now has the atomic bomb and long distance bombers capable of attacking the United States.

The start of "Operation Skywatch" follows by a few weeks an Army announcement that antiaircraft men and their guns are now on continuous duty around key target areas across the nation.

All the New England states and all those in the Northern third of the country are taking part in the skywatching. Along the East Coast, civilian obselvers will take their posts in the states extending southward through Virginia. The three Pacfic Coast states are also tied into the observer network.

Union Picnic Struck By Bad FoodPoisoning

PORTLAND, Ore., July 12 (AP) — The traditional Boilermakers' Union picnic was getting in full swing today with several thousand persons there when food poisoning broke out.

Just what happened thereafter was a little confused, but within several hours 70 persons turned up at Portland hospitals for treatment. Attendants said many were painfully sick, but none seemed critical.

Someone at the picnic grounds, 12 miles east of Portland, put in a call for mass medical attention when the celebrants began falling sick. All available ambulances in the city rushed to the scene.

A radio station heard of this and advised listeners to go to the scene to help out. Police could hardly handle traffic headed for mess. They finally set up road blocks to stop traffic headed for the scene.

13-POUND BABY; 302ND DELIVERY

A 13-pound son was born Saturday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Pollard Whimbush, Snyder Negro couple, at their residence on Avenue H.

The child was reportedly delivered by "Mother" L. L. Norris, pastor of the Colored Holiness Church, at 4:45 o'clock. The midwife said it was the 302nd safe delivery she has made.

Mother and son are reported to be "doing fine."

Scurry Lake Is Given Name

The Colorado River Municipal Water District lake in Southwest Scurry County will be officially named J. B. Thomas Lake, directors of the district announced Friday.

Thomas, who lives in Fort Worth, is president of Texas Electric Service Co. He was an early advocate of the river project as a potential water supply for the area.

Directors of the water district held a brief business meeting in Odessa Friday preceding a banquet in celebration of the delivery of the district's first water to Odessa. Other business at the meeting included the award of a contract for a pump station on the Odessa water line near Midland.

Snyder directors who attended the meeting were R. A. Schooling, Lyle Deffebach and W. J. Ely.

Approval Of Increase In Steel Price Brings Settlement Hope

PITTSBURGH, July 12 (AP)—Government assurance that the steel industry will get a price increase boosted hopes tonight that a settlement in the 41-day defense-crippling steel walkout is just around the corner.

News from Washington that government officials have okayed a price raise of about $5 a ton came as President Philip Murray of the striking CIO United Steelworkers and his aides hustled from one meeting to another with industry leaders.

There was no immediate comment from either side as to the effect of the price boost on negotiations.

But it seemed certain the price officer will serve to step up the tempo of contract negotiations since the industry has been widely believed to be holding back on a possible contract agreement until it got some assurance it could finance any wage increases provided for in the new pact.

Reports from Washington on the price boost reached a downtown Pittsburgh hotel as Murray and industry representatives prepared for a night session after several hours of negotiations before a dinner recess.

Shortly after hearing the Washington reports, Murray halted a meeting with his top aides to tell Newsmen:

"There will be no further meetings tonight.

"Whether any meeting may be held tomorrow is contingent upon developments."

Murray told newsmen in an impromptu conference that he may make a statement tomorrow to elaborte "with respect to the present situtions."

Murray refused to comment on an earlier session with Joseph Larkin, chief negotiator of Bethlehem Steel Corp., the nation's second largest producer—and the company which helped end the 1949 strike by making an independent settlement with the USW on pension and insurance issues.

The grey-haired labor chieftain maintained his recent jovial air as he brushed aside questions on the reported price increase promised industry.

Honeymooners Injured In Wreck Near Here Yesterday Afternoon

A young Monahans honeymooning couple suffered injuries in an automobile accident 10 miles north west of Snyder at Dermott at 2:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon

James Rosson, 22, suffered a dislocated shoulder and lacerations of the left hand, and his wife, Vonell, 20, suffered lacerations about her head. Both were reported as in good condition at the Battenfield Hospital last night.

Rosson said he and his bride had spent the night in Lubbock and were en route to Abilene when their car slid on wet pavement as they attempted to pass a truck. He said the car, a 1949 Buick sedan, then left the highway and struck an electric line pole.

They were taken to the hospital in a Bolger ambulance.

Texas Politics Finds Itself Wrapped Up With Eisenhower

AUSTIN, July 12 (AP)—Candidates for tomorrow's paper, urging Eisenhower's election regardless of for state office intensified their efforts today as campaigns headed into the two-week home stretch before the July 26 primary, but Gen. Eisenhower still was the center of Texas political attention.

While office seekers drove nails in their platform planks or tried to discredit those of their opponents, Ike fever spread in Texas—particularly at Corpus Christi.

In that city, industrialist and civic leader Maston Nixon proposed in telegrams to 99 Texas newspaper publishers formation of "Texans for Ike Clubs" to insure an Eisenhower victory in November.

Nixon, president of Southern Minerals Corp., said he had never voted for a Republican presidential nominee but believed many independent Democrats in Texas would like to jump the traces this year

The Corpus Christi Caller-Times gave its endorsement to a Republican candidate for the first time in its history in a lead editorial

the Democratic nominee.

An Eisenhower angle was injected in the intra-party Democratic feud by a leader of the self-styled "Loyal Democrats" as he renewed the fight against Shivers-led Democrats.

Fagan Dickson, Austin, executive director of the Loyalists, issued a statement saying: "The Loyal Democrats salute the Eisenhower forces. The loyal Democrats now move forward to fight the same battle in our party which you have already won in your party."

Dickson implied that his side would raise the same cry at the Democratic National Convention as Eisenhower forces from Texas raised against Taft early in the Republican convention—the cry of "steam-roller."

Dickson and the Loyal Democrat group will challenge Gov. Shivers and his followers at Chicago next Friday when a credentials subcommittee begins study of which faction to seat at the convention.

Here's what candidates in state races were saying today:

For governor:

Ralph Yarborough at Groesbeck: "We have this election won but the statehouse clique is frantically trying to escape the wrath of the people by spending a million dollars this last two weeks." He also accused Shivers of copying his platform.

Mrs. Allene M. Traylor at Hamilton: The major issue is "the very tangible evidence of waste, corruption and graft in our state government."

Shivers made no public speeches but visited with precinct workers and supporters in San Antonio and later in Travis County at the ranch of Herman Heep.

For the U. S. Senate:

Price Daniel at Hillsboro: "Everywhere I have gone the people are interested in politics and government more than I have ever witnessed before." He predicted the largest vote in Texas history at the July 26 primary.

For agriculture commissioner:

Incumbent John C. White announced he will start an intensive wind-up campaign for re-election when he sets out on a 3,000-mile two-week tour of the state Monday He will address the Brazoria County Farm Bureau at Angleton that night.

For railroad commisioner:

Joe Laird at San Antonio: "We must stress the necessity of getting as many young people as possible interested in politics, with the sole objective of providing efficient honest and economical government."

And the Eisenhower talk continued.

Mayor Bill Drake of Austin, a Republican, told a reporter, "I think he (Ike) has a good chance of carrying Texas."

WATER OFF ON AVENUE S TODAY

Water will be off this morning along Avenue S between Seventeenth and Twenty-fourth Streets from 8 o'clock until about noon, Ralph Eades, acting city superintendent, said yesterday.

Eades said that workers will be changing a valve at Avenue S and Twenty - fourth Street.

Water outlets along Avenues R. and T between the two streets mentioned above are also likely to be affected, Eades said.

Investigation Of Murders In Houston Asked

HOUSTON, July 12 (AP)—City and county officials today demanded a congressional investigation of a triple murder and suicide at Memorial Hospital involving an Ellington Air Force Base officer.

County Commissioners W. Kyle Chapman and Hugh A. May and City Councilman Phil Hamburger wired U. S. Rep. Albert Thomas (D-Tex.) requesting he start the investigation immediately.

Thursday night, Capt. Renord F. Haywood, the officer, entered the hospital Nurses Home and shot two guards and a student nurse. Haywood then killed himself.

The nurse was Miss Carroll Cooper, 24. The guards were Jesse C. Fair, 69, and Robert P. Peterson, 64.

It was believed Haywood did it because Miss Cooper wouldn't see him.

"On the basis of information now available, it appears to me that this terrible thing could have been avoided," Chapman declared.

"There were indications weeks in advance sufficient to alert Ellington authorities to the gravity of the situation. I want to know whether Ellington is properly policing itself."

Polio Continues To Get Worse

By The Associated Press

Polio headed for epidemic proportions in San Antonio Saturday.

Hard-hit Houston prepared to finish an experiment which may give mankind a serum that will ward off polio's paralyzing effects.

San Antonio's population is such that when it reaches 86 cases in one year it will have enough polio to be called a mild epidemic. Friday the city's 74th case was reported.

At the present rate the 86th—or "epidemic" case—will occur in about three weeks, Dr. Austin E. Hill, city health director, predicted.

Eight new cases were reported Saturday in Houston as the test to determine paralysis preventing powers of a blood serum moved into its final day.

A total of 31,446 Harris County children had received test inoculations through Friday.

Polio had struck Houston severely this year. Saturday an extra 28 nurses recruited over the nation were being sent to that city by the National League for Nursing to help care for polio patients.

Ike Takes Control In Republican Party

CHICAGO, July 12 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower put a firm hand on the controls of the Republican party machinery today with the selection of Arthur Summerfield of Michigan as national chairman.

Supported by the presidential nominee's assurance that he will work closely with the National committee, Summerfield made it plain at a subsequent news conference that he expects to be overall commander of the general election campaign.

Eisenhower told the committee members, whose ranks were swelled by the addition of 32 state chairmen under a new rule, that they sometimes have in the past.

Referring to the difficulties the committee had with the operation of independent clubs when the late Wendell L. Willkie was running 12 years ago, Eisenhower said:

"I assure you that the experience of 1940, which I understand has unhappy memories for some of you, is not going to be repeated."

In a move to patch up the wide division in the party created by Eisenhower's bitter fight with Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, for the party nomination, the National Committee divided up its honors among supporters of the two major candidates and backers of Gov. Earl Warren of California.

Summerfield, who spilled some of the vital votes from Michigan that Eisenhower needed for the nomination, was chosen unanimously after a committee had conferred with the general.

To Sinclair Weeks of Massachusetts, a late but active Eisenhower recruit, went the chairmanship of the party's Finance Committee.

Summerfield said he has invited Thomas E. Coleman of Wisconsin, Taft's convention floor manager, to join the Eisenhower organization in the general election campaign.

Summerfield was reported to have conditioned his acceptance of the chairmanship on the demand that Colenfan, a long-time personal and political friend of his be included in the GOP organization.

Four vice-chairmen, including two National Committee women, were named for the Eisenhower campaign.

They are:

California National Committeeman McIntyre Faries of Los Angeles.

West Virginia National Committeeman Walter S. Hallanan, of Charleston.

National Committeewoman Consuelo Northrop Bailey of Burlington, Vt., and Mrs. Daniel J. Schneider of Mount Morrison, Colo.

Old Pros Are Doubtful As Real Helpers

CHICAGO, July 12 (AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower started his "total victory" campaign rolling today in conferences with House and Senate Republicans and members of the GOP National Committee.

"There are a lot of people we have to hold together," the general told the committee, "if we are going to whip the Democrats."

As Chicago emptied of Republican convention delegates who handed Eisenhower the nomination yesterday, the general's lieutenants began taking over party machinery for the campaign ahead.

Arthur Summerfield of Michigan, who rounded up valuable Michigan votes for Eisenhower's convention showdown with Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, was unanimously elected chairman of the GOP National Committee. Echoing Eisenhower's own words as he took over from Taft supporter Guy Gabrielson, Summerfield called for a great crusade.

"This is a fighting crusade to preserve America," he said, "and we have the people's candidate. The people are with us."

Summerfield declared, too, that "we are today a united and inspired party."

Eisenhower managers were offering the peace pipe to the Taft tribe. Summerfield said he had invited Taft's convention floor manager, Thomas E. Coleman of Wisconsin, to join the Eisenhower organization for the forthcoming fight against the Democrats.

Taft himself said he didn't know to what extent he might campaign for Eisenhower, that there hadn't been any discussions about it. But he said he didn't expect to head into any whistle stop drive for the GOP cause.

How much solid backing Eisenhower will have from the old pros of his party still is in question. Active campaigning on a big scale probably wil be held off until September.

In the interval, some of the scars of the roughest, bitterest Republican convention years may fade. Right now, the wounds left by the scrap are still deep, in spite of all the outward protestations of new-found unity.

Even so, several of Taft's convention supporters turned up at Eisenhower's meeting this morning with members of Congress. Such men as Sen. John W. Bricker of Ohio, Sen. Eugene Millikin of Colorado and Sen. Homer Ferguson of Michigan were there.

And Rep. George Bender, who led the demonstration when Taft's name was put in nomination at the convention, threw an arm around Eisenhower's shoulder and insisted on singing "Onward Christia Soldiers." Bender was sporting an "I Like Everybody" button.

Eisenhower pledged to conduct a drive for a total GOP victory, not just the presidency but by the Senate and House as well.

Sen. Richard M. Nixon of California, still a little surprised at becoming the vice presidential nominee, was on hand for the morning conferences.

Then Nixon, his wife and Mrs. Eisenhower accompanied the general when Eisenhower crossed the street from the Blackstone Hotel to the Conrad Hilton for an appearance before the National Committee.

Candidates Talk, Some About Each Other, At Rally Friday

Like a sardine towing a whale, the rowboat leads the big Queen Elizabeth to dock by catching the first line tossed to haul the hawser ashore.

Two Men In 15-Foot Rowboat Lead Giant Liner Into Dock

NEW YORK—For all her 83,000 tons, for all the 200,000 horsepower of her giant steam turbines, there is a moment in the docking of the Queen Elizabeth when it seems that the world's biggest ship is being pulled into port by a rowboat.

It is one of New York's funniest sights and occurs every time a big ship docks. In a world gone crazy over bigness, it is also reassuring, somehow, to watch a sardine leading a whale by a thread.

The tableau is particularly striking when the 1,031 - foot Elizabeth is met by two men in a 15-foot, 500-pound rowboat.

Just as the huge liner, nudged by tugs, begins to turn into the pier, the men in the rowboat race out from the dock to her bow.

There, tossing around within three feet of the mountainous steel-plated hull while the Queen is still moving in, they catch a heaving line from the deck 60 feet above.

The heaving line, which leads to a hawser, is then rowed quickly back to the pier. It is the first of the Queen's lines which reach the dock. Because of the ship's great height, the line can't simply be dropped onto the wharf. It has to be picked up before the ship comes alongside the pier.

More often than not, the two shepherds in the rowboat are Bill Gordon and Oskar Moe, both members of the sailor gang at the Cunard pier. Ashar rows. Bill navigates and handles the line.

"That little job, even though it takes only a few minutes," said Gordon, "requires a lot of experience. It has to be timed perfectly to the ship's movements and the tide.

"We have to watch the backwash of the tugs or we'll get tossed around. We have to get back as quickly as possible with the line or the ship, as it moves in, will crush our rowboat against the dock."

Gordon's worst experience occurred just recently. Coming near the starboard bow of the Queen Mary, their tiny boat suddenly was bounced against the huge hull. A tugboat on the port side of the lines was pulling water under the keel.

Both Gordon and Moe were doused with water from one of the Mary's scuppers.

"The worst thing" said Moe, was it seemed like everyone on the pier and deck of the ship were laughing at us."

Several years ago, before Gordon and Moe's time, the two men assigned to the rowboat had a real close one. Somehow, because of strong currents and heavy wind, they found themselves caught between the Queen Elizabeth and the pier. As the ship moved menacingly closer to the dock, the men saved themselves only by rowing into an opening in the pilings under the dock.

"Sure, I know we may look a little silly out in that small boat next to the big one," said Gordon, "but I like the job. It gives me a feeling of being important."

Dallas Models Invade France

CANNES, France, July 12 (AP)—Seven Dallas "cowgirls" had their hands kissed by the goateed mayor of Cannes today as they tripped off a train and down a red carpet unrolled by the Riviera to launch Texas Week.

The mayor, red carpet, a schoolboy brass band, costumed dancers, flower girls and a battery of photographers were waiting on the station platform when the seven girls, fashion mannequins from Dallas, arrived in embroidered Western costumes.

Few of the expected 2,000 Texans were recognizable among the crowd, but Gov. Allan Shivers sent a personal representative to award honorary Texas citizenship to several Cannes officials at a municipal reception this afternoon.

At a formal dress blue bonnet gala in the Palm Beach Casino tonight, Texas models showed the French what modern day Texas attire looks like.

U. S. Not Giving Britain Enough Aid, Minister Declares

RUGBY, Eng., July 12 (AP)—Former Defense Minister Emmanuel Shinwell said today Britain should demand far more military aid from the United States.

The Laborite leader said other Western countries also should get more arms assistance than the United States now is handing out.

He charged in a speech that France, Belgium, The Netherlands and some other Western allies are "dragging their feet" on defense and Britain is forced to bear too heavy a burden.

Quebec supplies two thirds of the world's asbestos.

Bill Authorizes Admission Of Baby

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—President Truman has signed a bill authorizing admission into this country of a six-months-old Norwegian baby girl adopted by Douglas Charles Earley and Mrs. Earley of Brownsville, Texas.

About one-third of the United States is arid or semi-arid.

Speeches were brief, but candidates got down to issues Friday night in a political rally in Fluvanna before about 300 persons.

The only candidates whose talks aimed at direct controversy were C. E. McGaw, candidate for county judge, who accused the county administration of extravagance, and County Judge Edgar Taylor, who answered McGaw's accusations.

The rally got under way much like those of years ago—string music was first rendered by the Fluvanna Fence Jumpers, then Charles Chorn, superintendent of Fluvanna Schools, welcomed the crowd, candidates, and the Snyder Junior Chamber of Commerce, which sponsored the rally.

J. R. Jennings, justice of the peace for Precinct No. 2, led the singing of a song, then Ross Hemphill, member of the Junior Chamber, took over as master of ceremonies.

The first speaker on the program was H. E. Carmichael, candidate for justice of the peace, who said "I'm running for justice of the peace, and I would appreciate you vote." Jennings, who is running for re-election to the post, made the same statement, adding a joke.

C. F. Sentell of Snyder, candidate for state representative of the 90th district, said that many persons are interested in the political philosophy of the candidate and what he can do in the legislature. "I served two terms in the legislature several years ago." Sentell continued that he does not believe in the legislative and executive branches delegating authority to the bureaus of the state government, adding that he was opposed to the motor vehicle inspection law. He said he also is against the Dan Moody court plan, under which justices of various courts would be appointed instead of elected. "These offices should be elective. The government should be kept as close to the people as possible."

N. C. Outlaw of Post, began his talk by saying "My county has never had the privilege of furnishing a representative to the legislature, and I am asking for that honor for myself and my county." He continued that he is also against the motor vehicle inspection law. He said our laws should be based on common sense and modified or repealed when necessary to meet modern day conditions. "It so happens," Outlaw stated, "that when my opponent was in the legislature, I was on foreign soil serving my country."

Harley Sadler, unopposed candidate for state senator from this district, did not attend the meeting.

Candidates for county treasurer were next speakers in line. Dell Smith, now county clerk's deputy, gave a brief review of her life and experience, than added "I'm running on my own merits. I have made no commitments to anyone nor am I under obligation to anyone." Mollie Pinkerton, incumbent treasurer, said, "I'm qualified and experienced, and I'm here to ask for your vote."

Pat Johnston, now county attorney and candidate for re-election, said "I think I have made you a good clerk, and I would appreciate your vote and influence." Austin Bratton, his opponent, said "I have nothing to say against Pat...he's a good old boy, but I'd like to have that job, too."

Jim Ikard, unopposed in the race for county tax assessor - collector, spoke from the audience, saying he wanted all the votes in the county.

[illegible] candidate for commissioner of Precinct No. 2, told the group he was reared near Fluvanna and that he had previously spent four consecutive years as commissioner. Cullen Toombs, incumbent, said "I've made some mistakes in my first term, but I've tried not to make the same ones twice," promising to continue to do his best to make this a good community.

Hell Rorin' Ho

Candidates for county sheriff, six of them, then spoke. Ray J. Keenan mentioned his 19 years experience as an officer and began to tell a joke about Lloyd Merritt incumbent, but he was interrupted nine times during his talk by an electrical power failure. Once, just after the mike and lights went off, he said, "Turn 'em on, Lloyd." He finished in the dark by saying "Let's send Merritt back to Hell Roarin' Holler. We've got to get him out of office before anyone else can get in—and I wan' in."

George Lloyd said, "If I were elected to the office, I would keep my good name in mind. I wouldn't give up my name for all the oil wells in the county. Some say George Lloyd is too good a man to be sheriff. What kind of man do you want to talk to your children when they get into mischief and to be their leader?"

Earl Strawn made a brief talk, telling citizens to stay behind the officers if they want to get rid of bootleggers here.

Lloyd Merritt began by saying that he could not make house-to-house calls because "I know you'll agree with me that the work down there in that office is more important than soliciting votes. I have enjoyed working with your youngsters. I was a boy once and remember older officers telling me things I won't forget. I don't blame these other men for running, because that's a good paying job now."

Homer Whisnand, telling his background and 10 years experience, said he was in the race to try to win. "I came to this county because I like it, and if you will elect me I will do my best to make the best sheriff this county ever had."

Jack Fulghum said he had no experience as an officer but that he is asking for a little of it. "There are lots of things going on in this county that I'm interested in. We had a prohibition election here, and you people voted the county dry. If I'm elected, I'll make 'er dry."

Both George Killam and Wayland Holt, candidates for county attorney, pledged honest and faithful service. Killam mentioned going over "the hump in China." Holt said he entered the army as a private and was discharged five years later a captain. He then gave his educational background and explained the duties of a county attorney. "He is to take or reject complaints, determine whether crimes have been committed and whether evidence is sufficient to justify a trial, then it is his job to prosecute the case. A county attorney is the legal advisor of the commissioners court and any other officer of the county who desires his services."

C. E. McGaw, candidate for county judge, said he was a lawyer and that he believed a lawyer should be in that office. Telling about a third dog who got a bone when two other dogs were fighting for it, he said "I want to be that third dog," stating that Edgar Taylor, incumbent, and F. C. Hairston, former county judge, are running against each other for a third term. McGaw accused the present county administration of extravagant spending, citing that the people did not vote on the $129,000 used to repair the courthouse in 1949.

Taylor, the next speaker, said "I'm surprised at an attorney who thinks the county can vote a bond on top of another bond," explaining that the bonds sold on the original building of the courthouse are not yet retired because they had been strung out over a long period of years to prevent the burdening of the taxpayers. "We had a courthouse that was about to fall down, and you cannot vote a bond to repair a building when it is already under one bond. In 1945, we owed $57,000 on the courthouse and had to refinance the bonds. Now we have $39,000 surplus accumulated. The bonds on the courthouse run until 1968. Our county has a larger value than any county west of Fort Worth. We will retire more than $400,000 indebtedness this year. I have lived here all my life, I married a Scurry County girl, and I intend to stay here.

"We have a hospital, park, health unit building, airport, and the people here voted bonds on all these." He commended D. M. Cogdell, Scurry rancher, for the donation of $200,000 plus the site for the county hospital. "All the bonds voted by the people were sold at unusually low interest rates. You can check the records and see for yourself. The county owes $4 million, with $120 million valuation. Lots of counties owe 10 per cent of the valuation and think that is small."

Hairston, following Taylor on the stand, said "there is no one prouder than I that we can do now what we couldn't do when I was in office. I promise to give everything I have to the office if I am elected. The day I can't do that, I'll quit."

M. R. Estes, the only candidate for county surveyor, did not attend the meeting. Mrs. E. E. Weathersbee, the only candidate for district clerk, and who did not go to the stand, stood up and said, "I'm like all the others—I'd like your vote."

Hemphill read a statement from Keith Merrick, candidate for district attorney, that he could not attend the rally because he was in Fort Worth to get his newly-adopted son.

Renal Rosson, another candidate for the office, summarized his background, pledged diligent and vigorous efforts to the office. He said that a district attorney should have "courage to face the issue when it arises."

Bob Davie, present district attorney, told of his appointment to the office when the district was created and asked for an elective term. He explained that a district attorney must investigate both sides of a case and to seek justice, not just try to get convictions.

James Rosser, running for district judge, named three points that he said any candidate should follow, that he have an independent knowledge of the law, ability to disassociate from the attorneys, litigants, and others involved in a case, and devotion of all his time to the office.

Sterling Williams told of his one term as county attorney here, three terms as county judge, and four terms as state representative. He said the people have never elected a district judge who had not previously had judicial experience and that he had that experience.

Robert Patterson said that he was presenting his candidacy with a deep consciousness of responsibility. He mentioned his 15 years experience as an attorney an 11 months as special county judge here. "If I'm elected to the district judge office, I will close my law office and go to the courthouse, where my office will always have the door open to those who need help."

Four Scurry Men In Draft Induction Call

Twenty - four men, including four from Scurry County, are to be inducted into the armed services through the Nolan - Scurry - Fisher selective service board Wednesday.

Scurry County men to be inducted are Charles Leonard Goodlett of Dunn, Lyndon Carlis Moses of Ira, Martin A. Parks of Fluvana, and Francisco Hernandez of Snyder, a transfer from Corpus Christi.

Other men in the call include five from Sweetwater, and two each from Rotan and Roby. The remainder of the group is made up of registrants who no longer reside within the three-county area.

Dr. F. M. Middlebrook

Doctor Opens Office Here

Newcomers to Snyder are Dr and Mrs. F. M. Middlebrook, 1908 Coleman Avenue.

Dr. Middlebrook, a native of Whitney, Tex., has opened his office at 1000 Twenty - fifth Street, with Dr. J. O. Broaddus, for the practice of medicine and surgery. He has practiced in Dalhart and comes to Snyder from Midland, where he was associated with the Western Clinic for two and a half years.

He is a graduate of the University of Texas, having received his pre - medical training and B. A. degree there and his M. D. degree in 1942 from the University of Texas medical school. He served his intership at Shreveport Charity Hospital, Shreveport, La., and was resident physician at Brackenridge Hospital in Austin.

Walter D. Johnson, formerly of Ira, has recently been promoted to the grade of master sergeant in the Air Force. He is now assigned to Clark Air Force Base in the Phillippines. His wife and daughter are with him there.

MEN AND WOMEN TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Many people have reported amazing results with this home recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your druggist and ask for 4 ounces of liquid Barcentrate. Pour into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill bottle. Then take just two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic, from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

Lost 32 Pounds

"I am writing to tell you how much good Barcentrate has done for me" writes Mrs. H. J. Fontenat, Box 633, Anahuac, Texas. "I weighed 195 pounds when I started and am now down to 163 and am still taking Barcentrate. I feel better than I have in six years and I cannot begin to tell you how proud I am to lose weight."

And Mrs. J. W. Harp, 908 S. Cedar, Cleburne, Texas, writes to say: "I think Barcentrate is wonderful. I lost 20 pounds taking it—from 148 to 128. I now have my normal weight and feel like a new person."

Dr. R. G. Davenport of the Keystone Ranch east of Hermleigh and his bird dog Spot both love hunting. Dr. Davenport, who has made a game refuge of his 12,000-acre ranch, did most of his hunting as a boy in Southwest Texas and later when he practiced medicine in Denver, Colo. (Staff Photograph)

Former Doctor Helps Game In Scurry, Fisher Counties

When Dr. R. G. Davenport left his practice in Denver, Colo., to become a West Texas rancher, he made up his mind that he would bring game to an area where for a long time the most interesting wild life had been rabbits and coyotes.

A lifelong hunter, Dr. Davenport had shot javelinas as a boy along the Border. In his study hang trophies from later expeditions—the head of a mountain goat, a bear skin, and several deer heads.

In 1930, when he and Mrs. Davenport came to live on the Fisher - Scurry County ranch that they had inherited from her father, one of the first things he did was to pay a visit to the State Game Commission in Austin.

"I want to stock my place with game," he told them.

"Okay," they said, "you can have game if you'll take care of it."

Dr. Davenport has devoted much of his time since then to taking care of the game—to making his ranch what the sign on the gate says it is: a game refuge.

First his ranch was stocked with quail. About ten years later he received a small herd of deer and, still later, a herd of antelope. He soon learned that he could not keep deer on a place fenced for cattle, and he built a seven-foot game-proof fence around the main ranch.

There has been some trouble with people who like to do illegal hunting, and Dr. Davenport believes that the drouth has caused him to lose several antelope. However, he estimates that there are 40 or 50 deer and about 30 antelopes on his ranch now.

Reports have come lately of baby antelope and deer both that have been seen on the place. The young of the animals sometimes become almost like pets. Last year a young deer fed near the house for several months and the Davenports enjoyed watching it. The antelope are tame, Dr. Davenport says, and so curious they will come quite close to a person watching them.

Because of the drouth, Dr. Davenport said, the 11 tanks on the place will all have to be restocked with fish.

Dr. Davenports experiences with wild game began early. He was born at Sabinal in 1872 and lived there until he went to medical school at the University of Arkansas. Around his home town he hunted javelinas and wild turkeys. Once while out riding with a doctor friend he roped a javelina and led it home like a dog.

He can give an imitation of a turkey gobbler convincing enough to fool a bob cat. At least it worked that way when he was a boy at Sabinal. He was sitting in some bushes giving his call, waiting patiently for game, when he heard a noise behind him. He looked up and there was a bob cat, waiting to pounce on him.

"The darn thing thought I was a turkey," he explained.

Dr. Davenport's father, Andrew Jackson Davenport, was an early-day Texas Ranger along the border, and the story of his Indian fights is told in Dr. Davenport's favorite book, Early Settlers and Indian Fighters of Southwest Texas by A. J. Sowell.

Evidently the father thought one Ranger was enough in a family. Young Bob wanted to be a doctor, but his father didn't want him to go away to school. Then when he got a chance to become a Ranger, his father changed his mind. Rather than have their son follow in his father's dangerous footsteps, the parents agreed to send him to medical school.

With only a high school education behind him, getting through medical school was a big job, but Dr. Davenport earned his M. D. and went to Alpine to practice. Then he moved to Colorado City, where he met and married Kate McCall—"the most beautiful girl I have ever seen," he still declares.

The Davenports lived in Snyder seven years before moving to Denver, where Dr. Davenport was an eye, ear, nose and throat specialist. He holds a degree from a New York college specializing in this branch of medicine.

"I am glad that I have had the opportunity of helping to preserve game," he said, "and I like ranch life, but I miss the intellectual stimulus that I knew as a doctor."

To The Voters Of Justice Precinct No. 1

Due to circumstances I have not been able to spare the time to call on you personally to seek your vote for the office of constable.

The accident that happened some few months ago, causing the death of our son, Jack, forced me to take over his business in order that the obligations he had made would be carried out and brought to a satisfactory conclusion. This one thing I thought most important. I want you voters to consider this as a personal appeal to you for your support and don't hold it against me for not calling on you. Under the circumstances it would have been almost impossible. I want you to give me due consideration when you go to vote and if you deem me worthy of your support, "I'll guarantee you it will be highly appreciated."

Over an inch of sky juice fell last night in all sections of Scurry County, which is the best news of the day. Old Man Rain had been flirting with this section for the past week, but sort of kept himself away until he broke loose last night. When the rain tore loose, it came in sheets and torrents of it poured over everything and everybody.

Snyder had been wanting a new hotel for years, and the proposition is coming to a head this week, according to the following notes given the Times - Signal by the Chamber of Commerce.

First, Mr. William C. Witt, a capitalist of Dallas, will be here tomorrow to look over the situation. Second, Mr. C. C. McBurnett, who owns eight hotels, will be here this week to talk, and, third, Mr. J. A. Nelson, who now operates the Manhatan Hotel, has written a long letter to Secretary Moore assuring him he will be here in a few days with a proposition for a new modern hotel. Fourth, E. S. Cox of Fort Stockton, who was here three weeks ago, is still hot on the trail to know what the Snyder business men propose doing with his proposition.

Kansas Flood Ravaged Cities, Farmlands Just One Year Ago

KANSAS CITY, July 12 (AP)—You might travel throughout Eastern and Northern Kansas today and not realize it, but exactly a year ago this rich farming and industrial region was paralyzed by one of the worst disasters in United States history.

Just one year ago—Friday, July 13 1951—the entire Kansas (Kaw) River Valley from Salina to Kansas City was under water 20 to 30 feet deep at most places. A portion of Kansas City was on fire and a smaller fire was burning in Topeka.

Flood waters were sweeping through the valleys of the Neosho, Cottonwood and Marais des Cygnes Rivers and smaller streams in Southeastern Kansas.

Thousands of persons were homeless. Industry and transportation were paralyzed. The only prospect was for still more water to come.

Loss of life through the flood area was listed at 44, much smaller than in previous comparable disasters—thanks to radio, telephone and warning systems.

Many scars remain from this most costly flood in American history. But they are vanishing rapidly.

Where only wreckage of homes, factories, railroads, roads, and silt-covered farms were visible July 20, 1951, there now are well-ordered homes, rehabilitated and new factories, railroads running on schedule and busy farms. And these aren't recent developments. The recovery came almost as quick as the destruction.

That doesn't mean Kansans still are without a problem. But it's not the grim type they faced a year ago. Right now their most serious concern is where and how to store a wheat crop that some grain men say may turn out to be the largest in the state's hisory.

This surprisingly large crop caught many by surprise, just as the river flood in 1951 did. The weather just slipped up on the Kansans as it did a year before.

Last year, though, it was a different kind of weather.

The rains started about May 1. Some parts of Kansas had 200 per cent of their normal rainfall that month, the Army Engineers reported.

Recovery was almost as speedy as the devastation. After the waters subsided cleanup crews went to work, railroads brought crews from other divisions into the area to repair washed out tracks and telephone and telegraph crews made emergency repairs. Many workers came from as far away as the Atlantic and Pacific coasts.

Factories resumed operations on upper floors, untouched by the flood, while cleanup crews worked on the lower floors. One packing plant was back in production in Kansas City before the end of July. Other industries followed quickly.

Two Locations In Fisher Are To Be Drilled

Locations for two wildcats have been staked in West - Central Fisher County. Both are to start operations in the near future.

The prospectors are slated to dig into the Ellenburger.

The Murphy Corp. of Midland No. 1 Dewey J. Smith is contracted to 7,000 feet. It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 2-3-H&TC.

It is six miles southwest of Rotan and 10 miles northeast of the Claytonville pool.

This venture is being drilled on a spread of leases of 1,600 acres assembled by W. B. (Dub) Yarborough of Midland and Paul J. Knott of Dallas.

They had secured acreage contributions and dry hole money from Kerr - McGee, Phillips Petroleum, Southern Production Co., Federal Royalty Co. and R. A. Welch.

They turned the acreage and the dry hole letters to Murphy to drill the exploratory project. Yarborough and Knott retained an overriding interest in the deal.

Approximately five miles south of the Murphy wildcat site, Clarence L. Norsworthy, Jr., of Dallas is to drill his No. 1 Jame Cave on a farmout from Union Oil Co. of California.

It is 660 feet from south and west lines of section 113-3-H&TC. It is to go to 6,700 feet or a test of the Ellenburger at a lesser depth.

That makes it five miles northeast of the Claytonville pool and nine miles southwest of Rotan and eight miles southwest of Roby.

Good Shows In Nolan Wildcat

J. C. Barnes of Midland No. 1 Faver, one-half of a mile northeast of the one-well Faver - Ellenburger field in Northeast Nolan County, swabbed between three and four barrels of new oil per hour natural.

That petroleum recovery came from open hole at 6,056-6,155 feet in the top of the Ellenburger.

No formation water was developed. Operator is preparing to wash the pay section with mud acid in an effort to make it flow.

Location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 47-21-T&P, five miles east of Sweetwater.

Total depth is 6,155 feet. The five one-half inch casing is cemented at 6,056 feet.

The Faver - Ellenburger field was discovered several years ago by Sophio Petroleum Co. and Hunt Oil Co. No. 1 Faver, which is still producing some oil. It is one-half mile southwest of the Barnes prospect.

No. 1 Sterling Williams To Be Acidized And Make Production Tests

Sinclair Oil & Gas Co. was preparing to acidize the Mississippian section in the No. 1 Sterling Williams, project in Northwest Borden County, and make production tests.

Operator swabbed the project for 131 barrels of oil natural in 20 hours on last tests through perforations at 9,815-9,868 feet. Acid treatment will be through that set of perforations.

The No. 1 Williams was completed from the Siluro - Devonian as the discovery well of the Borden field. Original potential was for 663 barrels of 42.8 gravity oil from that formation.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 45-32-16n-EL&RR, and 11 miles northwest of Gail.

Hobo Field Well Is Completed In Borden

Phillips Petroleum Co. No. 3 Boedeker has been completed for a flowing potential of 845.8 barrels of 45.7 gravity oil in the Hobo field of Borden County.

The potential was calculated from a six-hour flow through a one-half-inch choke. No water was present. Production is from perforations at 7,092 - 106 feet.

The No. 3 Boedeker is 525 feet from east and 2,017 feet from south lines of section 38-25-H&TC.

Scurry Well Is Drilled Ahead After Testing

Hurndall & Gray No. 1 Ida Ganaway, Southeast Scurry wildcat, is drilling ahead below 6,790 feet after a drillstem test from 6,276-300 feet.

The tool was open 45 minutes on the test. Recovery was 30 feet of slightly oil and gas cut mud.

The No. 1 Ganaway is in section 89-3-H&TC, almost three miles northeast of Humble Oil No. 1 James Davidson, an Ellenburger discovery.

No Shows On Borden County Drillstem Test

Ashton & Hilliard No. 1-C L. I. Long and others, Borden wildcat, reported no shows on a drillstem test from 6,048-060 feet.

The tool was open 30 minutes, with a recovery of 20 feet of drilling mud. Operator is now drilling ahead below 6,143 feet.

The No. 1-C Long is four miles southeast of Gail in section 7-30-tds-T&P.

Circular House Near Uvalde Has Advantages As Residence

By The Associated Press

CAMP WOOD, Tex—This is a story about a round house—but it has nothing to do with locomotives.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell R. Vernor's home here is as round as an igloo. It sits under a large oak tree.

Because of its unusual shape and structure, the Vernor house attracts wide attention. Curious visitors from all over the U. S. and Mexico have toured it.

Camp Wood is near Uvalde in southwest Texas.

Vernor, 53, planned and built the house. He got the idea while supervising construction of a round stock tank.

Vernor went to work July 4, 1939, and finished the house one year later. He worked in time he could spare from ranching and trading interests.

The project, a one-story, circular house with a conical roof, looks much more squat than it really is.

The home is 115 feet in circumference, has 960 square feet of floor space, and contains six rooms and bath. The diameter across the circular building is 35 feet.

Inside, the home resembles a pie sliced up. The living room occupies a fourth of the circular floor space. There's a dining alcove next to that and then the kitchen. Three bedrooms occupy the other half of the circle. In the center is the bathroom.

The floor is concrete covered with asphalt tile. Facings, doors and windows are walnut, which Vernor cut and sent to Uvalde for planing.

Vernor says it cost him only $1,000 to build the house—not including his labor.

Mrs. Vernor claims at first she didn't like the house. But she later decided it has its advantages. For one thing there are fewer dusty corners to keep clean.

Two Wildcats Staked In Runnels County

Two new wildcats have been staked in Runnels County for immediate drilling.

Dr. I. S. McReynolds of Houston will drill No. 1-A Noel Hale as a 4,000-foot test one-half miles south of the Ogden-Mabee field in East Runnels County. It is in section 116, ET survey, one miles northwest of Talpa. It is separated from production by a 3,502 - foot dry hole.

Geochemical surveys, Inc., of Abilene will dig a five-eighths mile northwest outpost to the West Crews (Gardner) field as No. 1-W John Harris.

It is in tract 23-514-Juliana V. Cabrera survey. It is to go to 4,200 feet, starting at once.

Globe Will Abandon Project In Runnels

Globe Oil & Refining Co. No. 1 Telitha Ray, Central - East Runnels wildcat five miles west of Talpa, found sulphur water in the Ellenburger and it is to plug and abandon.

This prospector picked a tentative top of the Ellenburger at 4,275 feet. Elevation is 1,946 feet.

It found a small amount of oil and gas in the top of the Ellenburger. It drilled to a bottom of 4,329 feet and at that point developed considerable sulphur water with a slight scum of oil.

Location was 2,310 feet from north and 330 feet from west lines of the W. E. Prichard survey No. 40.

Drilling Activity In State Increases

AUSTIN, July 12 (AP)—A resurgence of drilling activity saw 222 oil wells completed this week, 45 more than the previous week.

The Railroad Commission reported the year's total completions at 6,126 compared with 5,792 a year ago.

A sudden spurt in gas well completions—50 for the week—sent the year's total to 480 compared with 463 in the similar period last year.

Operators reported 154 dry holes. Wildcatting led to 11 oil wells, 4 gas, and 9½ dry holes.

Central-West Yoakum Site Of New Location

O'Neal Drilling Co. spotted location for a wildcat in extreme Central - West Yoakum County, 15 miles southwest of Plains and one mile east of the Lea County, N.M., county line.

It will be drilled as No. 1 J. A. Robinson, 440 feet from north and east lines of the south-half of section 598-D-John H. Gibson survey.

It is 880 feet north of the Lovington - Plains highway. Contract depth is 5,250 feet, starting at once.

Producers To Fight Against Low Allowable

AUSTIN, July 12 (AP)—A renewed fight against curtailed Texas oil production was promised by the president of the Texas Independent Oil Producers and Royalty Owners Assn. today if foreign imports continue to climb.

TIPRO's president, Bryan W. Payne, Tyler, said the association's executive committee will consider the problem Wednesday, the day before the Railroad Commission holds its regular state-wide proration hearing.

The committee will present its views at the hearing, where testimony will be received by the commission prior to setting the August oil allowable.

"Texas production allowables have been cut by more than a half million barrels per day since March of this year," Payne commented.

"Imports, meanwhile, have continued their uninterrupted upward climb, and other producing states in this nation have shown so far the same reluctances to participate in the effort to prevent excessive above-ground stocks.

"Unless there is a marked change in the imports outlook within the near future, independents again will be forced to resume the battle to prevent the displacing of domestic production which is vital to a healthy domestic industry and our national security."

Nolan County Wildcat Likely To Be Abandoned

Houston Oil Co. of Texas No. 1 L. E. Adrian and others, Northeast Nolan County wildcat, found slight shows of oil and gas and some sulphur water in the Ellenburger.

The prospector was circulating while waiting on orders at last report. It likely will be plugged and abandoned, as it had not logged any possibilities of making an oil well in any of the horizons above the Ellenburger.

It is located 1,986 feet from north and east lines of section 53-20-T-&P. That puts it eight miles southeast of Sweetwater.

The last drillstem test was at 6,402-6,450 feet. he tool was open two hours. Recovery was 660 feet of heavily oil and gas cut drilling mud and 1,440 feet of oil and gas cut sulphur water and 540 feet of sulphur water.

To Run Survey In Yoakum Wildcat

Stanolind Oil & Gas was running electric log surveys in No. 1 Argo Oil Corp., wildcat in Central-North Yoakum County, after finding sulphur water in the Ellenburger.

A drillstem test was taken from 13,000 to 13,071 feet. Tool was open two hours and 40 minutes. Recovery was 5,500 feet of sulphur water.

Location is 2,020 feet from north and 1,979 feet from east lines of section 98-D-John H. Gibson survey.

2 Deep Tests Set In Andrews

Magnolia Petroleum Co. has staked locations for two 15,000-foot wildcats to test the Ellenburger in Andrews County.

One of them, No. 1-CA Fasken, will be drilled in Central - East Andrews County, four miles south and slightly east of the Magutex field.

Drillsite is 1,980 feet from west and 660 feet from south lines of section 30-40-G&MMBA survey, 16 miles southeast of Anrews. Operations are to start by Tuesday.

The other deep test is Magnolia's No. 1-BA Fasken, 660 feet from west and south lines of section 21-40-T&P. It is 15 miles southeast of Andrews and 18 miles northwest of Midland.

It is two miles northwest of the Mabee (San Andres) field and five and three-quarter miles northeast of the Midland Farms pool.

The following concerns have working interests in the two projects: Forest Oil Corp., one-eighth; Ralph Lowe, one - eighth; Texas Eastern Production Corp, one-quarter and Magnolia one-half interest.

Tide Water Association Oil Co. No. 1-D J. F. Nunn has been staked as a one and one-half miles east outpost to the Aldwell (Spraberry) field of Northwest Reagan County.

It is to be 1,980 feet from north and east lines of section 6-B-L&SV, on a 160-acre lease. It is slated to go to 7,750 feet with rotary.

New Location Staked In Kelley-Snyder

Magnolia Petroleum Co. No. 5-E LeFors - Mooar has been staked for immediate drilling in the Kelley - Snyder field five miles northwest of Snyder.

Location is 973 feet from west and 467 feet from south lines of section 335-97-H&TC. Contract depth is 7,100 feet.

Fisher County WellCompleted

General Crude Oil Co. has completed its No. 2 Ralph Collins as a producer in the Claytonville pool of Southwest Fisher County.

The well flowed 24 hours through a one-quarter-inch choke to make an initial production of 404 barrels of 44 gravity oil. Gas - oil ratio was 1,287-1.

Casing pressure was 850 pounds and pressure on the tubing was 900 pounds.

Production came from open hole at 4,685-5,720 feet.

Location is 1,980 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 252-3-H&TC and 11 miles west of Longworth.

TAFT PONDERS A PROBLEM

Senator Robert A. Taft, right, of Ohio, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, strikes a thoughtful pose while talking with Sen. Everett Dirkson, left, at his Chicago headquarters before the Republican national convention began its balloting on a presidential candidate. Sen. Dirksen had placed Taft's name in nomination.

THE LAW IN TEXAS

Courts Guarding Inalienable Rights Of Citizens In Nations

The American "Bill of Rights," consisting of the first ten amendments to our federal constitution, all adopted at one time in 1791 specifies in some detail a number of basic civil rights of the individual citizen. Unaltered by subsequent amendments and jealously guarded by our courts, these privileges must still be respected by our governing bodies today.

Among the most familiar of our constitutional guarantees are those relating to freedom of religion, of speech, and of the press. The same article protects the right of peaceable assembly and the privilege of petitioning the government for redress of grievances.

Another amendment secures our persons, houses, papers and effects against unreasonalbe searches and seizures, and pecifies that no warrant shall issue but upon proper cause, and unless supported by oath or affirmation.

The due process of law amendment encompasses not one but several guarantees. Every American is secured against being placed twice in legal jeopardy for the same offense; against being compelled to be a witness against himself in a criminal case; against having his private property taken for public use without just compensation; and against being held for trial for a capital (death penalty) or other infamous crime, unless upon a presentment or indictment of a grand jury. And, of course, no person may be deprived of life, liberty or property without orderly court procedures, on due process of law.

The right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury, in the locality where the crime was committed, the right to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation, and the rights to compell attendance of defense witnesses and to have the assistance of defense counsel in all criminal prosecutions are secured by another section of the "Bill of Rights."

Excessive bail and fines, and cruel and unusual punishments, are prohibited in Amendment VIII. Other articles insure the right to bear arms and ban quartering of soldiers in private homes during peace time.

Then, to make quite clear to our governing bodies the underlying intent of the preceding provisions, the Ninth Amendment states: "The enumeration in the Consitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people."

The Tenth Amendment further emphasizes this basic theory by providing: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people."

Thus, that fundamental philosophy expressed in the Declaration of Independence that men are endowed with certain unalienable rights, and that "to secure these rights governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed,' has been carried forward into the highest law of our land.

Middle East Politics Enter Into Shoolboy Friendship

HARROW, England, July 12 (AP)—Two studious looking youngsters with a lot in common occasionally meet in the narrow winding streets of Harrow.

They stop and chat for a while before waving a cheery goodbye and, passing on.

Experts in Arabic affairs think that before long the chats may lengthen into talks affecting six million Arabs in the Middle East.

Both the youngsters are royal; both are aged 17. One is a king—Feisal II of Iraq; the other is his cousin, Crown Prince Hussein of Jordan, a youngster on the threshold of a throne.

Both are studying at Harrow, one of Britain's most fashionable schools, while 3,500 miles away political rulers of their two countries are mulling over whether to merge the two kingdoms into one.

Feisal has been King of Iraq—four times as big and with four times as many inhabitants as Jordan—since 1939, when his father King Ghazi was killed in an automobile accident. Hussein has been crown prince less than a year, since the assasination of his grandfather, King Abdullah, in Jerusalem last summer.

Both have the same great grandfather—Hussein of the Hejaz, with whose help the British freed what is now Syria, Iraq and Jordan from Turkish domination at the end of World War I.

In the Middle East carve-up that followed the Turkish collapse, Hussein's two sons Feisal I and Abdullah took over Iraq and Jordan.

It's probably no coincidence that brings Feisal and Hussein from the semi-arid deserts of their own lands to the quiet backwaters of Harrow, standing high on a hill overlooking London.

British influence—despite several body blows in recent years—always has been strong in Jordan and Iraq.

Feisal has no worries at home—although he has been at school in England since 1947. He is popular in Iraq and his uncle, the Emir Abdul Illah, holds the reins as regent.

But for Hussein, life has been getting more complicated since his grandfather's death. His father, King Talal—reputed to be anti-British—is under treatment for a mental ailment and shunned by his queen. In Jordan his cabinet has appointed a council to rule for him.

Talal's possible abdication would open the way for Hussein's accession when he comes of age on his 18th birthday next May—or for a merger of Iraq with Jordan.

Congress Passes Bill; Texan Can Keep $505

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—President Truman has signed a bill directing the postmaster general to waive collection of $505 from Silas B. Morris, once a substitute rural mail carrier at Temple, Texas.

The legislation was necessary because of a misunderstanding of the law when Morris worked as a carrier while he was employed by the Veterans Administration.

He was asked to refund pay he received as a carrier while in the dual role for part of 1950.

Gen. Paul Wakefield Undergoes Surgery

AUSTIN, July 12 (AP)—Brig. Gen. Paul L. Wakefield, 57, state director of selective service, underwent emergency surgery for an ulcer condition twice between June 29 and July 5 but is now in "most satisfactory" condition.

There had been no public disclosure of Wakefield's illness before today. His physician said Wakefield would leave the hospital tomorrow and spend a recuperative period at his farm near Austin.

Last Minute Run Gives Game To Snyder Little Leaguers

Snyder Little Leaguers showed their baseball know-how to about 800 persons Friday night when a mixed team from all the Snyder league teams whipped the VFW Cubs of the Sweetwater league 3-2.

The Snyderites started the game with a bang, with Joe Clendenon and Jimmy Allen scoring runs in the first inning. Allen's was a home run. The Snyder team led 2-0 until the sixth and last inning, when Jerry Epperson and Dalton Harvey scored runs for Sweetwater to tie up the game.

After Bud Morgan hit a two bagger in the top of the sixth, Harley Merritt batted him in to break the tie and win the game for Snyder.

Johnny Clark pitched the whole game for Sweetwater, while Clendenon, Gale Courtney, and Ronnie Baker hurled two innings each for Snyder.

Snyder had eight hits and Sweetwater had four, while each team had two errors.

Roy DeBusk managed the Sweetwater group, and Skipper Joyce and Mutt Herod head the Snyder nine.

Herod's Snyder league team, the Lions Cubs, broke a tie in standings and took the league lead last night when they defeated the Quarterback Giants 10-7.

Jimmy Allen, who had hit a home run in the first game of the night, slugged another in the league game. He was also winning pitcher. Loser was Tommy Mills.

The Cubs ended the game with eight hits and nine errors, while the Giants had four hits and no errors.

About two weeks of play remain on the league schedule. Tomorrow night, the Kiwanis Braves will meet the Whiteway Yanks at 7 o'clock, and the Optimist Cardinals will play the Holder Indians at 9 o'clock.

On Tuesday night, games will be the Kiwanis Braves vs. the Lions Cubs and Quarterback Giants vs. Optimist Cardinals.

Games scheduled for Thursday and Friday nights have been postponed until next week.

LEAGUE STANDINGS

Lions Cubs	12-5
Whiteway Yanks	11-5
Optimist Cards	7-8
Holder Indians	6-10
Kiwanis Braves	6-10
Quarterback Giants	6-11

Dodgers Beat Cubs With 12-2

CHICAGO, July 12 (AP)—Brooklyn's vaunted power asserted itself today as the league-leading Dodgers smashed out 22 hits to plaster the Chicago Cubs, 12-2.

The carnage was inflicted despite the absence of two of the Brooks' best sluggers, catcher Roy Campanella and center fielder Duke Snider. Campanella was benched for light-hitting and Snider rode the pines because manager Chuch Dressen wanted to cram as many righthanded batters as possible into the lineup against Cub starter Lefty Paul Minner.

Peewee Reese, Jackie Robinson and Gil Hodges led the vicious assault against four Chicago pitchers. Reese pounded out five straight hits before he retired in the eighth inning. Robinson drove home four runs on a homer and two singles and Hodges chipped in with his 18th homer and two singles.

Dente's Error Costs White Sox Game As Senators Win 2-1

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP) — A disastrous error by shortstop Sam Dente led to two Washington runs and enabled the Senators to edge the Chicago White Sox, 2-1, today. Eddie Robinson accounted for Chicago's run with his 14th homer in the second inning.

Washington collected only three hits, all singles, off Chuck Stobbs and Harry Dorish, but two of them were delivered in the payoff fifth inning as Julio Moreno scattered seven hits to win his fifth decison.

After Moreno beat out a slow roller to Dente with two out in the fifth, Eddie Yost walked. Dente permitted Jim Busby's grounder to go between his legs scoring Moreno, and Jackie Jensen brought Yost around with a single to right.

Tri-State Meet For Elders At Amarillo

AMARILLO, July 12 (AP)—The Tri-State Senior tournamet, limited to golfers 50 years of age or older, gets underway Tuesday at the Amarillo Country Club.

The oldest is expected to be Elmer Winn, 89, Plainview. With him will be his two youngsters, Edgar and Virgil, both of whom are over 50.

Chick Trout, Lubbock, is scheduled to defend the crown he won last year. Some 200 entrants are expected.

Avenue Changes Name

WINTHROP, Mass., July 12 (AP)—A street sign reading "Taft Avenue" was found covered today by a crudely lettered board reading "Ike Avenue."

Indians Whip Athletics Fain Continues Streak

PHILADELPHIA, July 12 (AP) — The Cleveland Indians, with Bob Lemon pitching six-hit ball to earn his eighth win, walloped the Philadelphia Athletics 5-1 today but there was one bright spot for the A's even in defeat: Ferris Fain there was one bright spot for the A's even in defeat: Ferris Fain extended his hitting streak to 24 consecutive games.

Fain's safety, a ninth - inning double that led to the A's only run and ruined Lemon's shutout, thus equals the top consecutive game hitting streak achieved this season by the St. Louis Cardinals' Stan (The Man) Musial.

Texas Trio Takes Top Honors in Skeet Meet

OSLO, July 12 (AP)—A trio of Texans won the first three places in the World Skeet championships today, with top honors going to Clarence Edwinsen. He broke 150 out of a possible 150.

Cecil C. Jones was second with 149 and Charles Michaelis third with 148.

Yankees Over Browns

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—Righthander Allie Reynolds knocked in the winning run with a single in the 11th inning today to give the New York Yankees a 5-4 victory over the St. Louis Browns.

Gets Irish Title, Too

DUBLIN, July 12 (AP)—Maureen Connolly, San Diego, added the Irish Women's tennis championships to her U. S. and Wimbledon titles today by defeating Mrs. Jean Walker-Smith, 6-1, 6-1.

Doris Hart Keeps Title

BIRMINGHAM, England, July 12 (AP)—Doris Hart, Coral Gables, Fla., retained the women's singles title in the Midlands' counties Lawn tennis championships today by defeating Shirley Fry, Akron, 7-5, 3-6, 9-7.

Red Sox Over Tigers

BOSTON, July 12 (AP)—After driving in the winning run with a pinch-hit single in the eighth inning Archie Wilson turned in a game-saving catch in the ninth today as the Boston Red Sox swept a three-game series from the last-place Detroit Tigers, 5-4.

Giants Defeat Reds 5-3

CINCINNATI, July 12 (AP) —The New York Giants, who had lost six of their last eight games, today picked on their favorite National League opponent —the Cincinnati Reds— for a 5 to 3 victory although they were weakening at the finish.

Braves Beat Pirates

PITTSBURGH, July 12 (AP) —Ed Mathews doubled home two runs in a four-run fifth-inning Boston uprising today to pace the Braves to a 5-2 win over the cellar-dwell-

EVENTFUL MEN ON EVENTFUL DAY

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower (left) seems to be in a speculative mood as he confers with Harold Stassen in the Chicago Blackstone Hotel before the session of the Republican national convention at which balloting on the party's nomination of a presidential candidate began. After the meeting, Stassen reported "no change" in his intentions to stay in the race and said that six of his Minnesota delegates at their request had been released to vote for Ike on the first ballot. Later all of his delegates switched to give Ike a first ballot win.

New York Judge Out To Get Motorists Who Ignore Laws

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—John M. Murtagh, New York City's chief magistrate, has nothing personal against motorists who think they can fix or ignore traffic tickets.

He just wants to make their lives as miserable as possible, and he thinks other cities ought to spread this type of misery. He has been conducting a continuing crusade on the matter in New York.

Judge Murtagh fined one trucking firm a record-breaking $4,700 for ignoring 467 parking summonses. He fined one individual $2,200 and sentenced him to 30 days for trying to forget about 84 traffic tickets.

"I'm out to get the average motorist who doesn't think of himself as a criminal but has little respect for the law," explains the 41-year-old jurist.

The guy who tries to fix or forget a traffic ticket, Judge Murtagh believes, is a person who "has to think of himself above the common horde. He is too proud to submit to authority."

What with strait-laced judges and a complicated mechanical brain for processing tickets, Judge Murtagh believes the fix is virtually impossible in this city.

The mechanical brain consists of 39 complicated machines rented by the city for $80,000.

Since the machines were installed early in 1950, the number of traffic violators who ignored sumonses has dropped from 15 to 5 per cent.

Here's how it works:

A cop on the beat gives out a traffic ticket, on which there are two stubs. He keeps one stub. The other is turned into his precinct house. By regulation, the precinct is required to forward the stub and the officer's affidavit to the Traffic Summons Control Bureau by the next morning.

There the machines go to work. They record, reproduce, and collate with other past offenses, the name and address of the violator, date of offense, license number, summons number, precinct involved, make of car and badge number of the ticket-issuing patrolman. The machines also automatically assign the case to a Traffic Court docket and later record in detail each disposition.

The machines handle about 5,500 tickets a day and, among other things, put the finger on missing summonses (all tickets carried by policemen are consecutively numbered), altered license numbers on tickets and judges with a tendency toward passing too many suspended sentences.

Former Red Tells Of Soviet Gains In U. S.

MINOT, N. D., July 12 (AP)—Former Comunist Louis Budenz says Russia has made more gains in the U. S. in the past six years than anywhere else in the world.

"Soviet communism is a Frankenstein marching across the earth, bringing an era of slavery like the world has never seen." Budenz said.

Texans Form Receiving Line After Victory At Convention

CHICAGO, July 12 (AP)—All you had to do was pin "Texas" on your chest at the Republican convention, and you were on the reception committee.

Many an Eisenhower booster from other states believed that it was the furor, the "give 'em hell" and the refusal to compromise of the Texas delegation that paved the way for Southern Eisenhower votes and the general's nomination.

"Why so many people came up and shook my hand, I thought I was at the head of a receiving line," said Mrs. Jack Bliss of Midland.

You can't miss a Texas Eisenhower delegate here. He's wearing a white silk ribbon printed in gold letters with "Texas Likes Ike." And he's always yelling.

The deposed Taft delegation from Texas wore yellow paper badges to which were pinned miniature straw sombreros. On the badge was "Our Hat's in the Ring for Taft."

SOMREROS FADE AWAY

Not a sombrero was showing at the convention hall today.

Henry Zweifel, Fort Worth, leader of the Taft delegation, was in his hotel suite.

The Eisenhower delegation, led by Jack Porter of Houston, claimed that Zweifel's delegates wouldn't give up their badges after the convention unseated them Thursday.

"I had to go to the door and escort our delegates personally to their chairs," said Mrs. Ralph Feugin of Houston. She had been seated at the start of the convention in the compromise that split the Texas delegation 22 for Taft and 16 for Eisenhower.

It was a triumphant Jack Porter who announced a Texas vote of 33 for Eisenhower and five for Taft yesterday on the first roll call vote.

It was Minnesota's switch that gave the victory to Eisenhower.

But Texas was right behind Minnesota with its switch—37 for Eisenhower and one for MacArthur. The holdout was Dallas' multi-millionaire oilman H. L. Hunt, who has poured thousands of dollars into a MacArthur campaign. Toward the end, Porter waved the Texas standard once more for recognition from the chair.

MacARTHUR FADES, TOO

"Mr. Chairman, Texas casts 38 votes for Eisenhower."

And there it was, complete victory. Hunt had changed over to make it unanimous.

The orchestra started "The Eyes of Texas" and got a few strains out before the chairman rapped again.

Thursday night Texans had three big Lone Star flags waving high overhead in the mad throng of the Eisenhower delegation. Every time the organ played "Deep in the Heart of Texas" the roar swelled.

They didn't have the flags yesterday. They just yelled.

THE SNYDER DAILY NEWS

VOL. 3, No. 63 — SNYDER, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JULY 13, 1952 — SECOND SECTION

Rodeo Week In Scurry County

Five Snyder organizations have already entered the rodeo parade, which will lead off rodeo activities here Wednesday afternoon.

Those who have entered floats in the parade are Beta Sigma Phi, Methodist Youth Fellowship, Lions Club, Cosmorama Club, and the Little League Auxiliary.

Leon Huff, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, is taking parade entries. He said that the deadline for entry is 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

No entries for events in the rodeo performances have yet been filed, Billy Boren, president of the rodeo association, said. Boren, who said he expects from 250 to 300 entrants in all the events, said they will probably begin to come in tomorrow.

Boren said that the rodeo headquarters for this year has been set up at his office at 1611 Twenty-fourth Street, adding that all entries in events must be filed there before the Wednesday deadline.

Boren said that Sig Faircloth of Breckenridge will be judge of the cutting horse contest. Flag judges will be Jesse Koonsman and Earl Abercrombie.

The association president said that one special event will be the junior soda pop race, which will be open to boys from eight to 12 years old. He explained that boys will be mounted on horses, ride from the starting line about 150 feet to a place where bottles of soft drink will stand, dismount and grab the bottles, remount and drink the contents of the bottles before reaching the finish line.

Other junior events, the ribbon roping and steer riding, will be open to boys 17 years old and younger. Boren said that Williams Jewelry will give a waterproof wristwatch to the winner of the junior ribbon roping event.

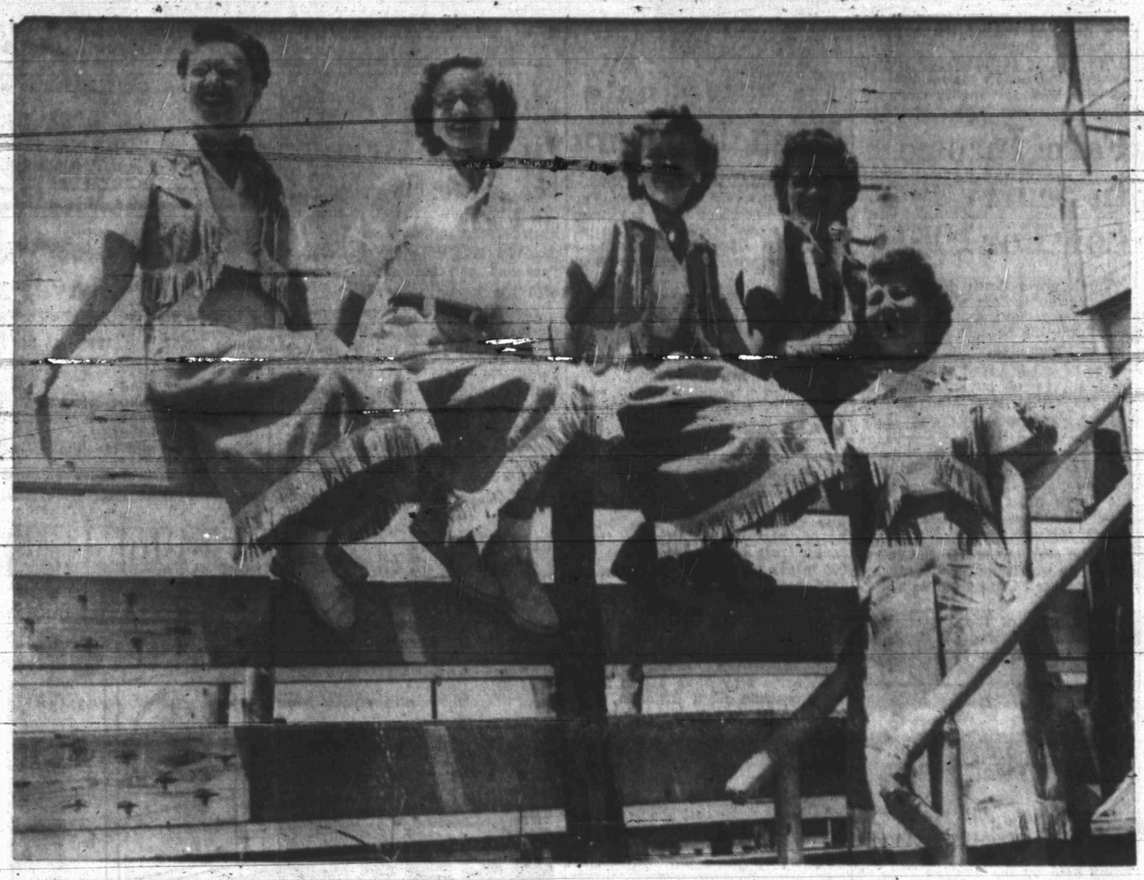
Senior events will be the yearling tie-down, calf roping, bull riding cutting horse contest, saddle bronc riding, bareback bronc riding, wild mare race, and sponsor contest. Prizes for all events total more than $3,400.

Concessions at the events will be sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, and the Jaycee-ettes will sell souvenir programs. The Optimist Club, now completing the sale of hunting to decorate Snyder businesses for the rodeo, will sponsor concessions at the dances. Dances will be held at 9:30 o'clock each night of the rodeo, with the Light Crust Doughboys furnishing the music. Admission to dances will be $1 per person.

General admission to the events is $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for students. Boren said only a few box seats are left at $20 a box. He added that no reserved seats will be sold this year.

Parade prizes will be $125 first, $100 second, $75 third, and $25 for fourth through seventh.

Rodeo tickets are on sale at Fenton-Thompson Shoe Store on the southeast corner of the square.



These attractive cowgirls are members of the Jaycee-ettes, the organization which has planned and prepared the rodeo programs and will be in charge of concession stands during the rodeo performances. Sitting on the old top rail are, left to right, Mrs. Clyde Willbern, Mrs. Bill Williams, Mrs. Bill Zimmerman, and Mrs. Lloyd Clark. Mrs. Joseph Kilgarlin is standing.

Elizabeth Dabbs, mounted on her Tennessee walker, Easter, is flanked by Charlotte Colley, at left, and Jackie Stewart. Charlotte and Elizabeth live in the Humble Camp, and Jackie, whose home is in Corpus Christi, has been a houseguest of the Dabbs. Easter is an importation from the deep South—Mississippi. (Joe Dave Scott photographs)

Rodeo spirit was high among these neighboring children. Bruce and Frank Teagarden, at left, will miss the rodeo, since the two boys are going to summer camp near Kerrville. Edwin Nichols, in the plaid shirt, and his sister, Sandra, will be seeing ther first Texas rodeo, and no doubt, will save some of the stories for the Teagarden boys. Mrs. V. F. Nichols, right, and Mrs. Rose Teagarden are new neighbors on Sunset Avenue. The Teagardens moved here from Abilene this month, and the Nichols family—including an older son, Ronnie, and baby daughter, Debbie, are from Oklahoma.

The first group to enter a float in the rodeo parade was the Methodist Youth Felowship. Talking over plans to decorate the pick-up are, left to right, Edith Blakey, missionary chairman; Mary Frances Alford, a past president of the group; Ed Perry Bolger, vice president; Wayne Pitner, recreation chairman, and Mrs. Floyd Boston, sponsor. Individuals and civic, church and social groups will take part in the parade.

Perched in the judges' stand at the rodeo grounds are these Jaycees and potential riders. Clyde Willbern, far right, and Lloyd Clark are wondering about the seating capacity of the bleachers, while the children are thinking about boots to cover bare toes. Margaret Willbern, Connie Zimmerman, Gloria and Weldon Clark are the children. That's Bill Zimmerman's boot at left.

PATTERN

by American Designer

FIRA BENENSON

If you have already begun thinking of a fall-winter wardrobe, here is a design you will want to study. It was shown in the Fira Benensen collection, and has her touch of custom clothing. Originally designed in gold-colored wool jersey, it will lend itself to any fabric that isn't too heavy. The skirt is tucked at the waist to give a gored effect and unusual because the front panel is lined. Size 12 requires four and one-quarter yards of 50-inch material. The pattern comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. To order, send $1 to Spades Syndicates, Inc., Dept. 163, Box 258, Madison Square Station, New York 10, N.Y. Pattern booklet No. VI is 15 cents, and may be ordered from the same address.

Andrews Sisters Still Speak After 15 Years In Big Time

HOLLYWOOD, July 12 (AP)—The Andrews Sisters are one of the most unusual sister acts in show busines—they still speak to each other after 15 years in the big time.

The secret of that, explains Patty (or maybe it was Maxene or Laverne) is that none of the girls takes each other seriously.

They kid themselves unmercifully about their movie career. Some years ago the girls made 15 low-budget movies which won them a 1940 award from the Harvard Lampoon as the "most frightening" film figures of the year.

"No wonder," comments Maxene. "The guy who made us up also worked on Boris Karloff for 'Frankenstein.' He was always getting us mixed up."

Patty, the one in the middle, added:

"We laugh at it now, but, brother, it was heartbreaking at the time."

The movies never did anything for the Andrews Sisters except earn them a million dollars and their studio millions more. All their pictures were made for around $150,000 to $200,000 each and released during the lucrative war years.

The girls are no Elizabeth Taylors when it comes to beauty but they are far from frightening. All three have large dark eyes with heavy black lashes, nice figures, pretty legs and loads of personality.

They are natural comedienes. They recently played three weeks at the Coconut Grove, their first Los Angeles public appearance. That engagement, witnessed by many television producers, probably did more than any other to dispel the notion the girls were just three girls in front of a mike.

Although the sisters have played movies, theaters and nightclubs for years, their great following is still among the record buyers.

Over at Decca, only one artist commands more respect and he is one of the financial backers of the firm. He also sells more records than anybody else—Bing Crosby.

Fifteen years ago, the three sisters burst upon an unsuspecting public with a strange harmonic version of a Yiddish love song called "Bei Mir Bist du Schoen." The girls themselves are of Greek and Norwegian descent.

In 15 years, the girls have sold more than 25 million records for Decca. They own eight gold records—awarded whenever a recording passes the million mark.

Mrs. Frances Brooks

The sky-blue Studebaker slithered over our cattle guard and crawled up the driveway. The bright yellow sticker on the windshield read "Mexico," the license plates, Virginia. Bronze-brown under their small, billed traveling caps, my two visitors piled out.

"We've got nine Mexican leather handbags in the trunk melting! May we have a gallon of iced water right away, please?"

And within 15 minutes, Bonnie Shankle and Madelyn Bach, clutching cold drinks, were describing what Mexico has to offer two school teachers on their summer vacation — or anybody else southbound.

They crossed the border at Laredo, although Snyder tourists might enter Mexico via the muddy Rio Grande, through Del Rio and jazzy Villa Acuna or from Eagle Pass by way of sleepy Piedras Negras. An ordinary American clerk in a Laredo bank changed 140 American dollars for the girls, and the bundle of 50 peso notes joined their travellers cheques. They had beat a delay at customs by smartly presenting vaccination certificates and visitors' three-month passes secured at the Mexican embassy in Washington, D. C., in whose suburbs they teach.

Bonnie and Madelyn trundled past the last fast-talking Mexican official and were on their own in a foreign country, remembering vaguely admonitions to avoid native vegetables, water except in hotels, and dislike for women in shorts.

The Laredo highway is a fair two-laned pavement cutting through to Mexico City. They flashed past innumerable sad - looking little burros plodding under stacked loads. Once over the Tropic of Cancer, marked with a small neat sign, banana groves began to crop up. They could see peasant women bearing heavy wooden vessels on their heads, their stride graceful and sure. Peons semed to be well-equipped with straw hats but no shoes.

At Reynosa, a wayside village, the travellers passed up roast young goat, native favorite. "Madelyn's lunch on that first day was a complete mystery to us," said Bonnie, who picked up an amazing quantity of the lingo during the two weeks.

They swung onto an American Automobile Association guidebook, and, when settled in their room in a recommended Monterrey hotel, answered a sharp knock.

"I'm Lee," announced the small fellow firmly planted in their doorway.

He would, it developed, guide them in Monterrey, "just everywhere." Leo had lost his driver's license, through a sad accident, and could not charge so much now, he dolefully assured them.

Once hired, his confidence returned in short order. He grandly steered them into Sandborn's restaurant over their protests that they had just eaten. They had coffee, he the six-course dinner.

"I suppose we disgraced ourselves, after Leo," sighed Bonnie. "That evening, handsome, English speaking Jimmie, the hotel manager, invited us to go dancing. I primly said, 'Thanks, but I don't believe I could afford it.' He looked shocked to the bone and mumbled something about 'Is that the way it is in the U. S.?' "

Avenida Juarez, the palm-lined drive leading into beautiful Mexico City, is usually a thrilling spot, maybe because by now you are 750 miles from an American corner drug or anything else so familiar. But a bout with wretched car sickness over the mountain roads had subdued Madelyn, and Bonnie couldn't forget the traveller's cheques burglarized from their motel room in Tamazunchale (Thomas and Charlie to most North Americans).

Hotel Toledo in the capital city was moderately priced, recommended, and their choice. Glamorous Hotel del Prado down the way tempted them, but suites were 90 pesos there (about $12), and they were firmly budgeting. Prices are generally gratifying in Mexico, our dollar being worth about eight and one-half pesos at the present writing with a rise predicted following the election.

A whopping breakfast was three pesos. In Restaurant 33, they found tender steaks for 55 cents. Conversely, a box of matches was nine cents.

La Gruta enthralled the two American girls. Guides this time were Arturo and Hector, less hungry than Leo. But they insisted on a visit to a cave dining place located at the site of the pyramids outside Mexico City proper. This was an early burial ground where masters and their faithful dogs always went to rest together. Four hundred customers could be seated on the three levels of the rather damp cavern.

Arturo's driving engrossed everyone but Arturo as the party roared along the avenues, doing 45 miles per hour in second gear. As many as seven streets empty into a thoroughfare, with no traffic lights discernible and a frantic policeman whistling like fury to no avail.

"Conserve su derecha" (keep to the right) was one sign the girls had deciphered by the time they drove out of the lovely, sprawling city where 2-odd million Mexicans live. They turned a sharp right at Valles, detouring to the beaches of Tampico enroute back to the States.

In this little city, about the size of Abilene, "there were more smells, sights and sounds of a bizarre and foreign nature" than at our other stops, they mused. "We dropped one layer of skin under the bright heat of the tropical sun and collected a scum of oil when we swam in the Gulf waters."

Ixmiquilpan is the last stop for exotic Mexican food before heading home. The town is simply a cafe, filling station and curio shop. Then you start on the long stretch to the border where luggage is rummaged and tourists step through a disinfectant. All shoes are dragged out of tissue paper to have a dip.

"One thing certain," my friends assured, "you can't get out of Mexico with hoof and mouth disease!"

Farm Income In Scurry Is Low For 1951

Total gross farm income in Scurry County last year was $9,823,000, according to a report prepared by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The report is based upon the annual survey of buying power of the magazine, Sales Management.

Lubbock County led the 132-county area served by the West Texas Chamber, with a gross income of $42,533,000. Only one other county in the state, Cameron County in the lower Rio Grande Valley, exceeded Lubbock. Its gross income was $50,580,000.

In the area termed West Central Texas, to which Scurry County belongs, Haskell County led with $20,846,000.

Gross total of the 132 counties of West Texas was $1,063,439,000, just over half the state total of $2,049,893,000.

Soviets Seize Skating Show

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP)—The manager of an American roller skating show whose equipment is being held by the Russian Zone of Germany for $21,000 "ransom" today appealed to President Truman to put up the money out of emergency funds.

Harry Miller, executive director of Skating Vanities, in a telegram told the President of the plight of 78 American showmen stranded in Kiel after the East Zone Germans seized seven of their convoy of eight trucks this week.

The East Germans said the trucks were loaded with watches, meissen china and other items purchased in the Soviet sector of Berlin.

The show had played to full houses for two weeks in West Berlin, and was enroute to West Germany when show equipment valued at $300,000 was seized at a Soviet control point. The East Germans said the cargo was assesed for customs purposes at 90,000 marks ($21,000).

Deny Attempt To Assassinate Miguel Aleman

WITH AMARILLO

MEXICO CITY, July 12 (AP)—The office of President Miguel Aleman laughed today at reports of an assassination attempt as they have laughed at previous questions about it.

Aides said there was nothing to it. The story, which circulated here during the Lions' convention, was revived today by an Amarillo, Tex., couple who said they saw the attempt the night of June 25.

The Texas couple's story was similar to those which circulated here the day after the opening of the convention. The previous stories said that as Aleman was leaving the convention hall, a man rushed at him.

Secret service guards took him into custody and he was badly beaten, the stories said at the time. Many Lions there were some 12,000 in the auditorium at the time—said they had been told of the event by friends who actually saw it.

Reporters were unable to find any eyewitnesses here, or any record of any arrest.

One source in the presidency said the stories may have arisen from the expulsion of a drunken man from the auditorium just before the president left.

The Interior Ministry, which handles interior security in Mexico, said "we still don't know anything about it."

Told the story had been published in the U. S. a ministry spokesman said "then they know more about it up there than we do."

New Lawyer Is In Firm Here

George C. (Brick) Bradford of Dallas has joined the law firm of Park & Hemphill here. The 28-year-old lawyer came to Snyder Thursday and began his practice with the firm Friday.

The marine Corps veteran of World War II has L.L.B. and B. B.A. degrees from University of Texas. He received his bachelor of business administration degree in June, 1949, and his bachelor of laws degree last month.

Before graduating from the law school at University of Texas, Bradford had been sales manager for Publishers Guild in Dallas a year.

Bradford is single. He has joined the Junior Chamber of Commerce here and is a Presbyterian.

TALK OF THE TOWN

By SUE HOLMES

TOM PHILLIPS, recently appointed director of the Presbyterian Church choir, is in the midst of all sorts of musical groups. Something a bit different is the course of music instruction he's organizing to include voice lessons, music appreciation, theory and any sort of piano — from Rimski-Korsakov to Stan Kenton.

A baritone himself, he studied voice with Helon Blount and piano for four years with Lois Zabel in Austin. With piano as a minor, he composed "Sonata in E. Flat Minor" as part of his degree requirements. He also composed "Concert Aria" and "Suite for the Piano." He's a member of Phi Mu Alpha, honorary fraternity for musicians, and is a World War II veteran, having served in the Navy.

Music is Tom's extra - curricular activity here, since he's an employe of Oil Well Supply during regular working hours. His name appears on the list of directors of the Snyder Concert Association.

Since he's also a member of the Little Theater group, perhaps we can look for operettas or originate from that organization.

The new president of the Parent-Teacher Association city council, Mrs. E. N. BAKER, came to Snyder last year with an admirable record in PTA work and has shown enthusiasm for work in which children can benefit. Her daughter, DONNA, who will be a first grader in the fall, has already become well - known for her singing ability. And the latest family triumph came when the Bakers' son, RONNIE, became pitcher for the Whiteway Yanks. Any time the Yanks are playing, you can usually spot Ronnie's mother as the enthusiastic rooter with the megaphone.

Several months ago the PTA at Forsan, the Bakers' former home, awarded her a life membership in the organization for her outstanding work in the local and tri-county PTAs.

Mr. and Mrs. ROSS HEMPHILL, who were in Houston recently to attend the State Bar Association meeting, looked up several former Snyderites. Among friends they saw were the BOB GREGGS and the FLOYD BURNETTS.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. BELL, Sr., 2805 Avenue U, returned last week from a two-week trip to San Antonio where Mrs. Bell says the hotel rooms were air-conditioned to about 32 degrees. One day she missed her husband, only to have him turn up several hours later. He's been standing on a street corner trying to get warm. Mrs. Bell got a new wool stole out of the trip, and she says she stayed wrapped up like a cocoon.

On their way back to Snyder, they stopped in Ennis to pick up Mr. Bell's sister, Miss VELA BELL, who is here now for a summer's visit.

* * *

Mrs. W. J. HESS and three children, who have been making their home with Mrs. Hess's sister, Mrs. L. M. BRUCE, are leaving Friday for California. They will fly to Japan to join their husband and father.

Cy Landrums Are Honored Tuesday

Lip Brush Helps Keep Age Secret

Your true age may never pass your lips in uttered words, but your closed lips may tell the world an age greater than you really carry.

As one of the two most expressive features of your face, your mouth reflects all that you are or have been in thought, in speech, in your way of living.

Worry, discontent, unhappiness reflect themselves in lines around the mouth, in the "set" look. The bigoted mind, consistent ill-temper are reflected in pinched lips and drooping lines. With the passing years these changes from the full lips of youth become permanent, and the appearance of the mouth alone can effectively destroy any illusion of facial beauty.

Yet there is a very simple way to disguise such telltale signs and restore a youthful mouth, and every woman past the age of 30 should avail herself of this easy means to mouth beauty. The use of a lip brush provides a simple, accurate way to correct lip makeup. So the thin mouth may take on charming fullness by drawing the desired outline with a lip brush and filling in the body of the lips with your favorite lipstick color.

Drooping lips, pinched lips, too full lips all can be corrected to a lovely, attractive mouth.

The plea "I can't use a lip brush" is not acceptable. A very little practice in the use of one of these fine beauty adjuncts will make you a confirmed user. You will wonder how you ever got along without one. Not only will the little time necessary for practice pay off in beauty results, but remember, too, that you will be able to use every bit of lipstick in the tube, and that spells economy.

Don't forget, too, that corrective lip make-up is often advisable for the youthful mouth, many of which are far from perfectly shaped.

D.M. Cowarts Honored At Farewell Picnic

Mr. and Mrs. D. M. Cowart were honored at a farewell picnic and party given Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Boone in Highland Park.

Mr. Cowart is to be transferred from the Schlumberger Well Servicing Corp. office here. He is being replaced by Mike Davis.

About 40 guests, employes of Schlumberger and their families, attended the picnic. Canasta and bridge were played following the picnic.

Mrs. E. N. Baker, second from left, was installed Thursday as president of the Parent-Teacher Association city council. Mrs. Myron Roe, second from right, is vice president. Mrs. Harold Brown, standing, is retiring council president, and was hostess for the installation. Other members are Mrs. Lyle Alexander, far left; Mrs. Waldo Montgomery, third from right, and Mrs. L. A. McClanahan, far right. (Staff photograph.)

Mrs. E. N. Baker Installed Head Of PTA Council

Mrs. E. N. Baker was installed as president of the city council of the Parent - Teacher Association at a meeting Thursday in the home of Mrs. Harold Brown, 2404 Avenue I.

The new president was installed after a brief business session conducted by Mrs. Brown, retiring president of the council.

A float for the rodeo parade was planned, and plans for a procedure course and a parliamentary course were discussed.

Other officers of the council are Mrs. Myron Roe, vice president; Mrs. J. Scott Casey, secretary - treasurer, and Mrs. Amon Weaver, devotional chairman.

Present at the installation were the following presidents of the local PTA units: Mrs. L. A. McClanahan, Central Elementary; Mrs. Waldo Montgomery, West Ward; Mrs. Lyle Alexander, North Ward; Mrs. Weaver, Southeast Ward.

with an arrangement of garden flowers.

Guests included Mrs. Wayne Gladson, Mrs. Frank Wilson, Mrs. L. R. McCullom, Mrs. Olin Lane, and Mrs. W. C. Cutcher.

A gift was presented to the honor guest, whose husband has been associated with J. M. McDonald Co. here.

Newcomers' Luncheon Scheduled Friday

Mrs. W. W. Adcock will be guest speaker at the Newcomers' Club luncheon Friday at the Village. Luncheon time has been set for 1:15 o'clock, according to Mrs. Wade Pipkin, president.

Pictures of her trip to Europe and the Holy Land will be shown by Mrs. Adcock.

Any woman who has lived here less than two years is invited to join the club, Mrs. Pipkin said. Reservations for the luncheon are to be made with Mrs. Charles McCaleb by calling 3-6998 by Thursday noon.

Mrs. Abernathy Is Honored at Coffee

Mrs. Forrest C. Abernathy, who is moving today to Colorado Springs, Colo., was honored Friday at a coffee given in the home of Mrs. Stanley Noah, 3001 Thirty-eight Street.

Mrs. Wyatt Lipscomb asisted in hospitalities.

Co-op Association To Hold Barbecue And Elect New Directors

New directors for the Sweetwater Production Credit Association will be elected Monday at a stockholders' meeting in the municipal auditorium in Sweetwater.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. and continue through the noon hour, when a free barbecue dinner will be served to an anticipated crowd of over 2,000.

The Production Credit Association is a co-operative lending agency which is owned and operated by almost 2,000 farmers and ranchers in an area including Scurry, Fisher, Nolan Mitchell, Borden and Dawson Counties. Scurry County directors are J. N. York of Snyder and H. M. Murphy of Hermleigh. Joel Hodges is manager of the Snyder office.

THE ADVENTURES OF PATSY

Building housing beneath the mountains of Judea.

New Towns Rise In Valley Where David Slew Goliath

JERUSALEM — The gradual rejuvenation of the Holy Land is is now reaching the historic Valley of Ajalon where Joshua fought the Canaanites 3,500 years ago and where — some 500 years later — young David slew the giantf Goliath.

Today this central Israel region is no longer called by its biblical name, but the western part of the "Jerusalem Corridor" leading from the fields and groves of the Jaffa-Tel Aviv coastal plain up to the mountains of Judea, to the monasteries of Ain Karem, (the birthplace of John the Baptist) and to Jerusalem.

While the 19-mile long and nine-mile wide "Corridor" politically belongs to the State of Israel, the area to the north and south of it is now within the Jordan-administered part of Palestine. An armistice frontier — not yet made permanent by a peace treaty — separates the two territories.

Firing in occasional skirmishes, usually caused by marauders, smugglers, or infiltrators, make the frontier audible. But that's no more than a very weak echo of the din of war heard four years ago when the Arab-Jewish fighting was at its height.

Road construction was already begun during the Arab - Jewish fighting. And no less than 40 new agricultural settlements and transitional camp villages have now been established there.

The population of the "Corridor" is at present about 10,000, almost all o t hem irwtnsheece,i immigrants from Southern Arabia, North Africa, Ira and the Balkan countries. Only very few of them were ever before what they have now become:road builders, forest workers, farmers or artisans. On the whole, they make a success of their new professions, helped by the American United Jewish Appeal which provides the repayable budget for settlement and irrigation and all the technical assistance; by the Jewish National Fund "Keren Kayemeth" which gives the land and plants the forests; and finally by the state which in addition to road building organizes various services.

Four years ago — most of the "Corridor" was rocky, barren and utterly desolate. It may take another generation or two till all this has changed. But even now what has already been initiated in the old Judean landscape shows what this part of the Holy Land will one day be: a blossoming countryside with fields and farms.

Nocham is one of the 14 transitional camp villages where a belt of white houses for the newcomers already surrounds the primitive canvas or corrugated iron dwellings for the latercomers. Nearby, history looks down from the hill topped by the village of Zoar where Samson was born. And the future looms from another spot where a huge cement factory is being erected.

East Texas Dentist, Civic Leader Dies In Houston Hospital

HOUSTON, July 12 (AP)—Dr. R. E. Lee, who for almost half a century had worked for the civic betterment of Edna and Jackson County, died here today in a hospital following a short illness. He was 62.

Funeral services will be held at 5 p.m. tomorrow at Edna.

Born in Hallettsville, he came to Houston with his parents as a young boy where he attended public schools and graduated from the dental college of the University of Texas.

Dr. Lee had distinguished himself not only as a dentist but as a banker, druggist, cattleman, cotton grower, rice farmer, landlord and builder.

He was organizer and chairman of the board of the First National Bank at Edna; owner of the Lee Drug Store and a modern medical and dental clinic.

In 1916 he started a registered Hereford herd, which is now one of the best in Texas.

Survivors include his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Harrison Stafford and Mrs. Pete Layden, and a son, Dr. Bud Lee, all of Edna.

GALLUP POLL

Tax Limit At 25 Percent Is Gaining Favor With Public

BY GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N.J., July 1 — With income taxes certain to be a political campaign issue, there is rising sentiment throughout the country for a proposed drastic tax reform.

The reform would be a constitutional amendment to limit Federal taxes to a maximum of 25 per cent of a person's income; except in wartime.

This proposal has already been endorsed by the legislatures of some 25 states.

When the idea was put before a cross - section of the nation's voters by interviewers for the Institute, it was approved by a vote of nearly 3-to-1.

This is a higher proportion than in a similar survey last year.

The latest vote:

"It has been suggested that a law be passed so the Federal government could not take more than 25 per cent, or one-fourth, of any persons' income in taxes except in wartime. Would you favor or oppose this 25 per cent top limit?"

Favor limit	68
Oppose	25
No opinion	7
	100

Last September the vote was:

Sept. 1951 Survey

Favor limit	59
Oppose	31
No opinion	10
	100

Various taxpayers' associations have sponsored the plan.

If legislatures of 32 states adopt resolutions requesting Congress to consider the proposal, Congress would by law be forced to act on it.

The resolutions adopted by the various states would give Congress power to place a maximum levy of 25 per cent not only on incomes but also on gift and inheritance taxes, except during a war.

The limit could be lifted in wartime provided Congress, by a vote of three-fourths of each house, agrees.

Vote by Income Groups

One of the interesting aspects of today's survey is that persons who are in modest circumstances and pay comparatively small taxes are just as much in favor of the 25 per cent limit as those in the upper income brackets.

This is shown by the following table giving the vote by occupation groups.

	Favor	Oppose	No opinion
Bus. & Prof	64	29	7
White Collar	69	26	5
Manual Workers	68	24	8
Farmers	69	24	7

One probable explanation for the rising sentiment in favor of the tax limitation is that public complaints over income taxes reached an all-time high this year.

Each year the Institute asks income taxpayers whether they regard the amount of tax they have to pay as too high.

In the 1949 survey the majority said the amount was about right.

In 1950 and 1951 the proportion complaining was larger but not overwhelming.

This year's survey, however, found 71 per cent complaining that their tax is too high, while only 26 per cent considered it about right and the rest were undecided.

Reds Charge Pauker Sided With Wealthy

BERLIN, July 12 (AP)—The Communists accused Ana Pauker today of siding with wealthy estate owners in Romania and sabotaging the collective farm system.

The charge was levelled by Premier Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej in an article in the Cominform Journal.

The article amounted to an indictment. Pauker has been deprived of all her high jobs, including the role of foreign minister, and probably faces trial.

In disclosing a week ago she had been thrown into disgrace, the Communists hurled vague complaints Pauker had acted in a manner inimical to the party and the state. The journal account gave some details.

Gheorghiu-Dej wrote that Pauker, with the connivance of V. Luca and T. Georgescu, other purged cabinet ministers, had committed two "crimes":

1—She helped former estate owners to get back part of their land which had been seized by the state, and led a drive to break up the collective farm systems.

2—She formed her own organization inside the party, a cardinal offense in the Communist world.

Pauker's tinkering with the collective farm machinery, the party boss said, enabled "a number of enemies of the state to make their way into the socialistic administration of agriculture."

Her creation of a personal machine "was against the basic rules of the Marxist-Lennist policy which says the party can be strong only by unity of will."

Communists have been executed for "crimes" of less magnitude than the hearsay charged to Pauker.

Corpus Man Wants 'Texans For Ike' Clubs

CORPUS CHRISTI July 12—(AP) "Texans for Ike Clubs" throughout Texas were proposed to 99 newspaper publishers in Texas today by Maston Nixon, a Corpus Christi civic leader.

Nixon, who declares he has never voted for a Republican president, is a supporter of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

In a telegram sent to daily newspapers in Texas last night he urged: "Let's carry Texas for Ike two to one."

The wealthy industrialist says he thinks Texas has a better congressional delegation than any Republican state, and he doesn't favor kicking them out. But he does want Eisenhower for president.

He has received no response from his proposal of Texans for Ike clubs and said he expects none.

"I have no ax to grind. I just pitched an idea on the table for the editors," Nixon explained. He isn't planning to lead the movement himself, even if it gets started.

A good friend of Walter S. Hallanan, temporary chairman at the GOP national convention, Nixon urged him before the convention to "stop that Taft steamroller."

Nixon told Hallanan that Ike could carry Texas, but that Taft would be beaten, four to one.

DOROTHY THOMPSON SAYS

Pots Calling Kettles Black In New Republican Platform

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

CHICAGO, July 10 — Although Senator Taft's supporters are saying that the Republican party will have dissolved itself when the convention eases out "Mr. Republican," while Eisenhower's supporters are jubilantly hailing new leadership, fresh blood, and the end of the "stranglehold of the old guard," the platform presented this afternoon justified neither claim.

All parties in America are coalitions of ins who want to stay in and outs who want to get in — and their platforms are tailored to suit various factions. In practice, experience has shown, policies are made up by the leadership in power in response to events.

But during a campaign a party platform provides a target for the opponent, and the shorter it is the better. The Republican platform is 20 pages long and opens any number of weak points for attack by able Democratic analysts, of whom the administration has plenty, on and off the government payroll.

These will certainly point out that as far as domestic policy is concerned the platform is the same old dish and full of contradictions, like the furthering of mutual trade while maintaining protectionism. It certainly doesn't represent the "liberal" forces in the party, as it is, if anything, to the right of Senator Taft on domestic policy.

On foreign policy the isolationists have been quarantined. The Republicans have joined the universal interventionists and globalists, only denouncing the Democrats for not being more aggressive in the interests, of course, of peace.

The denunciation of Teheran, Yalta and Potsdam as "tragic blunders with others to follow" is a platitude of hindsight, Nor is it true that "the leaders of the administration in power acted without the knowledge or consent of the American people." There were secret clauses in Yalta though the document as immediately published told the essential story, but there was nothing secret whatever about Potsdam. The Potsdam aggreement was scandalous on its face. This writer claims no superior political talents, but the "political consequences of Potsdam" were immediately recorded in my column at the time. We cannot recall that a single Republican leader unrolled these political, and to my mind, inevitable consequences or protested its signature in America's name. General Eisenhower implemented that policy and defended it.

The truth is that the only presidential candidate who denounced Cario, Yalta, Teheran and Potsdam at the time was the Socialist candidate, Norman Thomas. But this platform give no credit to the Democratic Socialists here or in Europe who were warning against the Russian danger when most Republicans were asleep. The new leader has a better record on this than the New York Herald Tribune.

John Foster Dulles recommended Alger Hiss to be director of the Carnegie Foundation for International Peace. MacArthur favored the total and unilateral disarmament of Japan. No one was more starry-eyed about the Soviet Union than Wendell Willkie. And actually, the best record possessed by any outstanding Republican for foreseeing the probably results of some of our policies at the time is that of Senator Taft.

I'm not writing this to help the Democrats or hurt Eisenhower, In private, General Eisenhower has long been kicking himself for having been bamboozled. But pots should stop calling kettles black and would-be statesmen should stop attributing all the mistakes of history to reds in the woodpile. Our errors have been due to inadequante analysis of the probably alternate results of policies, taking into account all the factors involved. They have been due to loose and sloppy thinking, of which there is more of the same in the Republican platform.

Steel Strike Encouraging To Men In Plastic Pipe Business

LOS ANGELES, July 13 (AP)—If the nation's steel strike continues another few weeks it will make three young partners in the Los Angeles area more than happy—they're in the plastic pipe business.

One of them, Robert Raab, of Golden Bear Manufacturing Co., pointed out that the strike makes it a good time to introduce their product, Kraloy Pipe, to operators in California oil fields.

"Several petrolem companies in Texas and Oklahoma have been using plastic pipe for two or three years," said Raab, "but the market here remains almost untouched."

Altogether, Raab and his partners, Richard Kress and Bob Howard, have sold about one million feet of the plastic product in this state, much of it going to the natural gas companies.

The tenite II used to make the pipe is shipped here from Kingsport, Tenn., said Raab. Its base is cellulose—cotton or wood pulp—and a combination of two organic acids.

At the Golden Bear plant the tenite is dried thoroughly to prevent any defects in the finished plastic, then it is melted and extruded into sections.

Currently, the size scale runs from ¾-inch up to 4-inch pipe with plans for a 6-inch size in the offing. Raab said his company has ordered two $32,000 machines to turn out 6-inch casings for oil field use.

"Oil companies use our pipe," said Raab, "for salt water disposal lines, water lines and oil flow and gathering lines. There are 54 types of raw tenite used to produce various tensile strengths and resistances so we can manufacture pipe for almost any special use."

He named some advantages of the plastic product: "It's non-corrosive, light weight, quickly and easily assembled and has a greater carrying capacity — the inside smoothness of the pipe allows up to 25 per cent more flow than steel pipe of the same diameter."

Also, the plastic has inert qualities which resist salt, lime and other deposits found in most steel pipe and is a non-conductor of electricity. Tensile strength of the tenite made especially for carrying petroleum is 5,400 pounds per square inch. Raab also explained that the pipe can be installed by unskilled labor, thus bringing its complete cost into a similar range with steel.

Music Circus Takes Theater To Suburbs

By SAUL PETT
(For MARK BARRON)

LAMBERTVILLE, N. J., July 12 (AP)—If the people can't come to the theater, bring the theater to the people.

Bring it in a tent and play it in an empty lot in the suburbs, where the rental is low and the patrons aren't inconvenienced by a long ride into town, traffic and parking fees.

This is the idea of St. John Terrell, 35-year-old producer and father of a show business hybrid known as the "music circus." Terrell produces Brodway musicals for summer stock here, 50 miles from Broadway, on an oval stage in a colorful tent seating 1,600 and surrounded by circus trimmings.

It is theater in the round spiced by a carnival flavor. Old circus wagons are used for the box office and refreshment stands.

In his fourth season on the banks of the Delaware, Terrell is playing to capacity in an arena that seats more people than most conventional theaters. He wholly owns this and another "music circus" in Miami.

So far, his shows have been stationary. Each stays put for as long as the season lasts. Now he is planning experimental road shows for next fall.

Terrell is certain there is far greater audience potential than the conventional road companies have yet tapped.

"If, for example, a conventional production of 'South Pacific' gets three weeks in downtown Chicago," he says, "I'm convinced that a tent version of the same thing would play 10 or 12 weeks in one of the suburbs."

As to the theater-in-the-round technique, Terrell feels this inspires a more natural way of acting than the "flat," single-direction theather. The acoustics, he says, actually are better.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Duggar, 3010 Thirty - ninth Street, have as their guess his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Duggar of El Dorado, Ark.

Children Learn Not To Fear Hospital In Cities

A hospital needn't be a terrifying place to children.

The child who first sees a hospital as a place where he can play while he is waiting for the doctor or while his mother is seeing the doctor certainly would not be as likely to approach his first hospital experience on his own as something to be feared.

Some children have their first contact with the smells, sounds and sights of a hospital because they are accompanying their mothers when they go to a clinic, or attending well-child clinics.

At the Jewish Memorial Hospital in New York City, a way has been found to make the first hospital experience reasonably acceptable for children.

It started when officials found that attendance at prenatal clinics was dropping off sharply. A check of mothers-to-be showed that many of these women were not attending clinics because they had no one with whom to leave their little children during the clinic hours. The women were worried that they were not receiving prenatal care, but had no way of solving the problem of temporary care for their other small children.

Out of this problem, an idea grew. If the mothers had some place where their children could play in the hospital's out-patient department while they attended clinics, they could come for prenatal checkups.

So hospital officials checked with the engineer and the carpenter, who found space for a play corner close to the clinic. The social worker and assistant administrator of the hospital learned what equipment would be needed. This included sturdy, child-sized tables and chairs, which were built on the premises. Toys and photographs for the walls were donated. Within a month, the play corner was open for business.

Not only did attendance at the prenatal clinics increase, but mothers took to sitting outside the playroom so they could have the fun of watching their own children play with others.

The play corner was such a success with the enthusiastic youngsters that before long, doctors and nurses wanted to join in the fun, to help them with their "garages" and "trains."

Soon, not only children waiting for their mothers, but children coming to well-child clinics were crowding into the playroom.

The children got a great deal of enjoyment out of learning to make things under the guidance of an arts and crafts teacher, and much encouragement from the teacher in expressing their own individuality.

Officials at the Jewish Memorial Hospital feel that a hospital should not only be concerned with illness, but with persons as individuals. They feel that this concern is one way of wiping out fear of the hospital, doctors and other hospital personnel.

Can frozen fruit juice concentrates be used in cooking? The small cans of juice are so convenient that I'd like to find more uses for them. Mrs. L. J. R.

Yes, the juices can be used very well in cooking. One of the frozen juice firms has developed recipes such as grape fluff, made from frozen grape juice; lemon meringue pie, made with frozen lemonade concentrate. There is also a lime luncheon salad featuring shrimp. Here is a recipe for Orange Cake, using frozen juice:

2 cups sifted cake flour
3 teaspoons double acting baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
two-thirds cup butter or other shortening
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, well beaten
one-third cup frozen orange juice concentrate defrosted
one-third cup water

Sift flour with baking powder and salt. Cream butter, add sugar gradually; cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs. Beat well. Add dry ingredients alternately with orange juice concentrate and water(mixed together), stirring only enough to blend thoroughly. Do not beat.

Bake in two wax paper lined eight-inch cake pans in moderate oven (375 degrees F.) 20 - 25 minutes. Cool. Frost layers with orange creamy frosting.

Orange Creamy Frosting

Cream ½ cup butter or margarine. Add about 2 cups of sifted confectioners sugar gradually, beating well. Add about 2 more cups sifted confectioners sugar alternately with 3 teablespoons orange juice concentrate and 1 tablespoon water, beating until light and fluffy. Makes enough frosting to ice top and sides of two eight-inch layers.

Miss Russett, John Harper Are Married

Miss Nell Russett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Russett of DeKalb, Tex., became the bride of John Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Harper, at 8:30 o'clock last night. The Rev. Earl Creswell, pastor of the North Side Baptist Church, read the ceremony at his home.

For her wedding, the bride chose a two-piece dress of white pique trimmed in aqua. Her corsage and head piece were of pink carnations.

Mrs. J. W. King, matron of honor, chose a blue dress with a white carnation corsage and white accessories.

Ralph Preston was best man.

Following the ceremony, a small reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Breedlove, 2906 Avenue L.

The couple is to live at the Westward Ho apartments. Mrs. Harper attended schools in DeKalb and has been employed by Perry Bros. Her husband attended schools in Breckenridge and is associated with Kerr McGee Co.

David Harlan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Harlan, 3002 Thirty-eighth Street, has returned home from Texas Christian University in Fort Worth where he attended the first summer session.
