Permian rig count up by 6 for a total of 458

By Trevor Hawes
thawes@mrt.com

The Permian Basin picked up a half dozen more rigs this week, raising the basinwide count to 458, according to Baker Hughes data.

Reeves continued to lead all counties with an unchanged count of 66. Midland County followed with 51, also unchanged.

Other counties with double-digit counts this week were Lea, New Mexico (48); Eddy, New Mexico (42); Loving (32); Martin (32); Ward (25); Howard (22); Reagan (22); Andrews (14); Culberson (18); Glasscock (18); Winkler (15); and Pecos (14).

Railroad Commission District 8, which encompasses most of the Permian's active counties, stayed at 312 this week. For other areas with activity in the Permian, District 7B held at three, District 7C was unchanged at 36, District 8 rose by one to 16 and New Mexico jumped by five to 91.

The Permian had 349 rigs a year ago.

Texas & New Mexico

Texas' statewide count grew by two rigs to 515. Of that tally, 367 were in the Permian.

The Eagle Ford in South Texas inched one rig higher to 76, and the Barnett in North Texas stayed at three.

Twenty of the Haynesville's 54 rigs were in East Texas. Six of the Granite Wash's 11 rigs were in the Panhandle. Texas had an offshore rig for the first time in six weeks.

New Mexico's rig count rose by six this week to 93. Its pair of non-Permian rigs were in San Juan County in the northwestern part of the state.

Trump rallies 'real patriots' at NRA event

By Todd J. Gillman
The Dallas Morning News

DALLAS — Donald Trump returned to the NRA's embrace Friday as a popular, if occasionally unreliable, ally after a rift stemming from the Florida school rampage in February and his short dalliance with expanded background checks and gun confiscation.

He made no mention of such sore topics, keeping the focus on the vast common ground he shares with gun owners who helped deliver the election to him, and whose support Republicans need in November to keep control of Congress.

"These are real patriots," Trump said of the NRA members filling the convention center arena. "Your Second Amendment rights are under siege but they will never, ever be under siege as long as I am your president. We cannot get complacent. We have to win the midterms."

He blamed a rash of mass shootings on "maniacs," and reiterated the prescriptions he's been offering for months: arming more teachers and security guards, and ending gun-free zones.

"Ninety-eight percent of mass public shootings have occurred in places where guns are banned," Trump said. "There's no sign more inviting to a mass killer than a sign that declares, 'This school is a gun-free zone.'"

Politics permeated the annual gathering, where attendees could hear rousing speeches and browse for rifles, tactical gear and cutting-edge gun sights.

The National Rifle Association cast its forum on Friday as a show of strength meant to reassure its own members of their relevance, and dispel any notion that recent massacres have deflated their cause. Trump himself used the platform to bestow endorsements on Republican Texas allies seeking re-election this year, including Gov. Greg Abbott, Sen. Ted Cruz, and state attorney general Ken Paxton.

"Greg, I fully endorse you. You are endorsed," he said. "Ken, you have my full endorsement." And he said, "Full endorsement for this man, Ted Cruz," as cheers, hoots and whistles mixed with boos in the hall.

"Boy, that was very rousing," Trump said.

Vice President Mike Pence warmed up the crowd — an unprecedented level of flattery in the history of the nation's preeminent gun rights group, and an acknowledgment of its outsize clout in Republican politics.

"You have two friends in the White House. President Donald Trump and I both stand without apology for the Second Amendment and in this administration the right of the people to keep and bear arms will not be infringed," Pence told the crowd in downtown Dallas. "Thank you for all you do to defend liberty and thank you for electing a president and Congress that are making America great again."

The group's annual convention in Dallas is the fourth straight to see Trump profess his love for the right to bear arms, and for the voters motivated to protect that right.

The president landed in Dallas about 12:25 p.m. in a driving rain and headed to a convention center named for his ambassador to NATO, Kay Bailey Hutchison, the former U.S. senator.

Gun control advocates accused him of bending his knee to the NRA in lieu of working to curb gun violence.

"It's the job of the president to ensure our public safety, but Trump takes his marching orders from the NRA," Gabby Giffords, the former Arizona congresswoman who was badly wounded in a shooting, said in a statement. "Trump has ignored the pleas of young people demanding safer gun laws. … Donald Trump has allowed his presidency to be hijacked by gun lobbyists and campaign dollars. As a result, the threats to our kids and our communities remain unaddressed."

Chris Cox, the NRA's chief lobbyist, framed attacks on gun rights after mass shootings in Florida, Texas and Nevada

Oil settles near $70 as traders wait for Iran decision

By Trevor Hawes
thawes@mrt.com

Oil prices hit a new high for the year as domestic production continues about 10 million barrels per day (bbl/d) and traders continue to wait for the Trump administration's decision about whether to exit the Iran nuclear deal.

West Texas Intermediate futures contracts for June delivery settled at $69.72 per barrel Friday, up $1.29 (1.9 percent) on the day and up $1.62 (2.4 percent) for the week. The intraday high was $69.97.

The average price for a barrel of WTI this year is $63.98.

The Energy Information Administration reported Wednesday that crude oil imports averaged more than 8.5 million bbl/d for the week ending April 27 and that exports were at about 2.1 million bbl/d. Refinery inputs averaged about 16.6 million bbl/d, a decrease of 60,000 bbl/d over the last week. Gasoline production increased to 10 million bbl/d; distillates was mostly unchanged at 5 million bbl/d

Commercial crude inventories increased 6.2 million bbl this week to 436 million bbl. Total motor gasoline inventories were at 238 million bbl, kerosene-type jet fuel was at 39.8 million bbl and distillates was at 118.8 million bbl.

Crude production rose by 33,000 bbl/d to 10.6 million bbl/d.

While oil prices rose this week, traders are anticipating the Trump administration's decision over whether to back out of the Iran nuclear deal. Iran is an OPEC member and major crude oil exporter. A decision is expected by May 12.

The spread between Plains Marketing's WTI "all other areas" and West Texas sour posted prices widened greatly after sour was priced far lower Tuesday. The previous spread of $3.80 is now $7.50 after sour was reduced by $5.20 Tuesday. Prices generally rise and fall in the same increments.

On Friday, the WTI posted prices was $66.25 per barrel, up $1.50 (2.3 percent) on the day and up $1.75 (2.7 percent) for the week. Sour fetched $58.75 on Friday, up $1.50 (2.6 percent) on the day but down $1.95 (3.21 percent) for the week.

Despite the price adjustment, sour is still higher on the year. It's up $5.95, (10.8 percent). WTI is up $7.75 (13.6 percent).

Friday's price marked a new year high for WTI. The high for sour is $61.45. The average price for a barrel of WTI is $60.47; it's $57.26 for sour.

In other futures trading Friday, July contracts rose by $1.32 to $69.58, August was up $1.36 to $69.12 and September jumped $1.40 to $68.82.

OKLAHOMA

State House passes bill to display Ten Commandments

OKLAHOMA CITY — Oklahoma lawmakers have approved labeling the Ten Commandments a historically significant document in an attempt to allow a monument depicting the biblical text to be displayed on public property.

The move comes in response to a 2015 Oklahoma Supreme Court ruling that ordered the removal of a privately funded Ten Commandments monument from the grounds of the Capitol. The Oklahoma Constitution prohibits religious displays on public property.

Republican Sen. Micheal Bergstrom of Adair has argued that the Ten Commandments could be displayed "with other historical documents," such as the U.S. Constitution and the Declaration of Independence.

The measure also would require the Oklahoma attorney general to defend legal challenges to such displays.

The House passed the bill Thursday, and the Senate did so last week. It now goes to Gov. Mary Fallin.

HOUSTON

Worker indicted for manslaughter in Texas gun range shooting

Authorities say an employee of a Houston-area gun range discharged a customer's rifle without checking if it was loaded, sending a bullet into the head of another customer who died.

The Harris County district attorney's office said in a statement Friday that 21-year-old Tyler Sutton has been indicted on a count of manslaughter.

Sutton was working the counter at the gun range in Cypress last December when he pulled the trigger without apparently realizing the gun was loaded. The bullet traveled through a window and struck a man in the parking lot.

Harris County prosecutor Jim Leitner says presuming a firearm is not loaded "is always a recipe for disaster."

The penalty for manslaughter is 2 to 20 years in prison.

WACO

Texas prosecutors dismiss more cases in 2015 biker shooting

Prosecutors have dismissed 15 more cases relating to the 2015 shootout in Waco involving rival biker gangs that left nine dead and 20 others injured.

McLennan County prosecutors said Thursday they're dismissing the cases while focusing on others with "a higher level of culpability."

More than a dozen other cases were dismissed in February and officials said last week that only about 25 cases will be prosecuted out of the more than 150 people indicted on felony charges of engaging in organized criminal activity.

Police arrested 177 bikers following the mayhem at a Twin Peaks restaurant involving members of the Bandidos and Cossacks motorcycle clubs. Law enforcement officers monitoring the gathering also fired on the bikers.

MISSOURI

University of Missouri student arrested in bar shooting

COLUMBIA — A University of Missouri student has been arrested in Texas in a shooting that wounded a man in a bar parking lot.

Twenty-one-year-old Miles Leighton Hillegas was arrested Wednesday in Ward County. He's charged with first-degree assault and two other felonies in the April 26 shooting outside the Black and Gold Tavern in Columbia, Missouri. He's awaiting extradition to Missouri, where he'll be booked on a $500,000 cash-only bond. No attorney is listed for him in online court records.

Columbia police wrote in court records that the victim got into a confrontation with Hillegas while asking people to leave after the bar closed. The victim told police Hillegas began swinging a sledge hammer, tried to run him over with a vehicle and then shot him in the thigh.

MISSISSIPPI

National Guard soldiers continue training for deployment

TUPELO — More than 4,000 Mississippi National Guard soldiers are going through intensive training to prepare them for deployment to the Middle East.

The Northeast Mississippi Daily Journal reports the guardsmen made way to Fort Bliss, Texas in March for the start of live-fire training and maneuvers. The arid, sandy and windy environment mimics some of the conditions the soldiers will face in the Middle East.

The 155th Armored Brigade Combat Team members will begin deployment in support of Operation Spartan Shield by the end of June. They will be based in Kuwait.

Commander Col. Doug Ferguson says the strategy is now more decisive action. Ferguson says they'll be doing more wartime missions with wartime equipment.

HOUSTON

Ex-President George HW Bush released from Houston hospital

Former President George H.W. Bush was released from a Houston hospital on Friday after spending 13 days being treated for an infection that required his hospitalization a day after his wife's funeral.

The 93-year-old Bush was released from Houston Methodist Hospital, said Bush spokesman Jim McGrath.

The nation's 41st president was admitted to the hospital on April 22 for treatment of an infection that spread to his blood. Bush spent some time in an intensive care unit before being moved to a regular patient room.

Bush was hospitalized a day after he attended the funeral and burial of his 92-year-old wife, Barbara, who died on April 17 at their Houston home. Married for 73 years, the Bushes were the longest-married presidential couple in U.S. history.

McGrath had previously said Bush was eager to get well so he could get to his summer home in Kennebunkport, Maine. He also noted that while hospitalized, Bush had been more focused on the Houston Rockets playoff series against the Minnesota Timberwolves "than anything that landed him in the hospital."

The Rockets won the series 4-1 on April 25. Bush, frequently accompanied by his wife, has long been a fixture at Houston sporting events.

11 sentenced in Texas-based human smuggling ring

Nearly a dozen members of a family-run human smuggling organization have been sentenced in Texas.

The Laredo Morning Times reports that the 11 defendants were charged with conspiring, helping or attempting to transport immigrants living illegally in the U.S. around the country, from September 2015 to June 2017.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Alfredo De La Rosa says parents, uncles and in-laws were involved in the long-standing human smuggling ring.

Court documents show multiple witnesses admitted to paying between $5,000 and $10,000 to be transported around the U.S.

Sandra Gongora was sentenced Thursday to three years in prison. De La Rosa says she was second in command.

This photo shows visitors hiking the shifting dunes of White Sands National Monument near Alamogordo, N.M. U.S. Sen. Martin Heinrich on Friday, announced legislation that will seek to elevate the monument to a national park, which supporters say would boost visitation and recognition of the area's scenic and scientific resources.

Bill seeks park status for New Mexico's stunning white dunes

By Susan Montoya Bryan
Associated Press

A vast expanse of shifting white sand dunes in southern New Mexico would be elevated from a national monument to a national park under legislation proposed Friday by one of the state's senators.

U.S. Sen. Martin Heinrich, a Democrat, made the announcement while visiting the state as part of a multiday tour that also included looking at the potential for more outdoor recreation elsewhere as New Mexico and other western states promote their wide open spaces in hopes of attracting more tourists and more money.

White Sands already brings in about a half-million visitors each year, and Heinrich said designating the area as a national park has been something that community leaders and local elected officials have been pursuing for years.

"Everyone who visits White Sands marvels at its remarkable geology, spectacular scenery and outstanding recreation experiences," he said in a statement. "And the broad regional support we've received for what could be our state's second national park demonstrates the endless opportunities this designation would offer to communities and local businesses across southern New Mexico."

With national park status, supporters hope the destination would get more recognition. Entrance fees and access would remain the same.

A study released Friday by the nonprofit research group Headwaters Economics found re-designation of White Sands could result in more than $6 million in new spending and dozens of additional jobs.

The group looked at eight re-designated national parks in California, Colorado, Arizona and Utah and found visits increased on average by about 20 percent within five years. The parks also had more overnight visits and spending per visitor than monuments.

The study also suggests that the uptick in visitation at national parks following the recession will persist as long as the national economy continues to grow.

White Sands was established as a monument in 1933 by President Herbert Hoover to preserve the dunes and additional features of scenic, scientific and educational interest.

Supporters have said the monument contains a more diverse set of archaeological and scientific resources than were first known, including the recent discovery of Ice Age fossilized footprints and sloth tracks.

The monument has the largest collection of fossilized tracks in gypsum in the world, from saber-toothed cats and wooly mammoths to ancient camels.

Thousands of hearth sites where early inhabitants built campfires also have been preserved in the dunes in ways not found elsewhere, and scientists are finding new species and subspecies of insects and reptiles that have adapted to the unique conditions.

White Sands is bordered by a military missile range. The legislation would clear the way for a land trade with the U.S. Army that has been in the works since the 1970s.

An additional 9 square miles would be transferred to White Sands and park officials would take over management of another area currently within the monument's boundary. Nearly 6 square miles would be transferred to the Army.

Situated in the Tularosa Basin, the monument currently spans 224 square miles with the dune field stretching across parts of the monument and the missile range.

Under the proposal, existing agreements would remain in place between the military and the National Park Service to protect use of airspace and testing grounds for the missile range, nearby Holloman Air Force Base and Fort Bliss.

Dozens of wild horses found dead

By Felicia Fonseca
Associated Press

CAMERON, Ariz. — Off the highway surrounded by northern Arizona's Painted Desert lies one of the starkest examples of drought's grip on the American Southwest: Dozens of dead horses surrounded by cracked earth, swirling dust and a ribbon of water that couldn't quench their thirst.

Flesh exposed and in various stages of decomposition, the carcasses form a circle around a dry watering hole sunken in the landscape.

It's clear this isn't the first time the animals have struggled. Skeletal remain are scattered on the fringes and in an adjacent ravine.

It's a symptom of a burgeoning wild horse population and the scarcity of water on the western edge of the Navajo Nation following a dry winter and dismal spring runoff. Conditions aren't forecast to improve anytime soon, and tribal officials suspect other animals have died with not enough to eat or drink.

"One of the things we do is we picture the worst-case scenario when we got out there," said Harlan Cleveland of the tribe's Department of Emergency Management. "I did smell the decomposition and the bodies starting to smell, the carcasses. But I didn't realize until I looked down from the berm and saw all those horses down there."

Here, drought doesn't manifest in having to shut down swimming pools or let lawns go dry.

This rural community does not have its own potable water source. Those who have running water in their homes get it from a well, piped from over 30 miles away. Most haul water, carrying large plastic tanks in the beds of their pickup trucks. The groundwater is brackish and recommended for livestock only, but the two storage tanks closest to the watering hole no longer function.

Animals were accustomed to finding relief at the stock pond where the horses died, but locals say the pool of water beneath the decades-old earthen dam has dried up more quickly each year. Families have been downsizing their herds because they can't rely on the vegetation or watering holes. Some have hauled water and left it in troughs for animals.

Charlie Smith Jr. climbed the small berm overlooking the watering hole three weeks ago in search of his cattle. At the time, he counted 29 dead horses and a cow that wasn't his stranded at the edge looking up at him.

"It's very emotional," he said, standing beside his truck loaded with hay. "I kept calling my sister saying 'this is bad.' It just hits you. You tear up. You know you don't have the capability to save them."

Tribal officials counted 118 dead horses and two cows this week but that tally doesn't account for any carcasses that might have been pushed deeper into the mud by the other struggling animals.

Tribal officials estimate tens of thousands of feral horses on the Navajo Nation, the country's largest reservation spanning 27,000 square miles in Arizona, Utah and New Mexico. Communities have called for roundups, but public outcry tied to Navajo spiritual beliefs about the animals and the role they play in prayers and ceremonies.

Wim Alosery survivor of Nazi camps, Cap Arcona, sinking dies

The last known Dutch survivor of the Nazi concentration camp Neuengamme and the Cap Arcona maritime disaster, Wim Alosery, has died.

A spokeswoman for the Neuengamme memorial center says Alosery died peacefully in his sleep Wednesday.

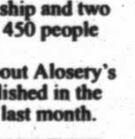

Iris Groschek said Friday that the 94-year-old had traveled to Hamburg to attend an event commemorating the 73rd anniversary of the camp's liberation.

Alosery, a Jehovah's Witness, arrived in Neuengamme from the Amersfoort camp near Amsterdam in 1944.

In the final days of the war he and about 6,600 other concentration camp inmates were moved onto the prison ship Cap Arcona, off Luebeck. Believing fleeing Nazis were on board, British planes attacked the ship and two others. Only 450 people survived.

A book about Alosery's life was published in the Netherlands last month.

Chick-fil-A to collect breakfast items for kids

The Chick-fil-A location at 4508 W. Loop 250 N., near the northside Walmart, doesn't want to see kids go hungry when the school year ends and cafeteria meals won't be available. To combat this, the restaurant is partnering with West Texas Food Bank to collect breakfast-food items.

Chick-fil-A will collect individually wrapped, non-perishable items such as boxes of cereal, breakfast bars and toaster pastries in a white barrel near the carry-out/pick-up area inside the restaurant.

"We see a lot of kids at Chick-fil-A," said Stephanie Fitzpatrick, executive director of sales growth for the location.

Franchisee Andy Slatken and his crew volunteered at West Texas Food Bank last year while his restaurant was being rebuilt. The store has looked for ways to continue to support the food bank such as through continued volunteerism and programs such as the breakfast-item collection underway.

This Chick-fil-A location also hosts a monthly story time event for children from 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. the first Monday of every month. May 21 marks the first senior citizens game day event. Games such as bingo and checkers will be available 9 a.m. to 10 a.m. the third Monday of every month.

Andy Slatken, second row far left, is the owner of the Chick-fil-A on Loop 250 and Midland Drive. While the restaurant was closed during construction last year, Slatken and his staff volunteered at West Texas Food Bank and Breaking Bread Soup Kitchen. The restaurant currently is collecting breakfast items for kids to donate to the food bank.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY for Saturday, May 5, 2018: This year you have a tendency to be overly serious and demanding. You and others will be a lot happier if you relax and don't push so hard. You will meet some very interesting people who will introduce you to new things. If you are single, someone you meet might become important. New opportunities come forward as a result. TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
★★★ The unexpected occurs, and you might find that something as simple as indigestion or moodiness is holding you back. Analyze what is upsetting you, and figure out how to deal with it. A little detachment goes a long way. Tonight: Make it OK to change some plans around.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
★★★★★ Your playfulness marks your decisions and desires. You might feel as if you are on top of the world and able to manage a difficult situation with ease. Understand that strong winds could emerge from out of the blue, and are likely to disrupt the status quo. Tonight: Enjoy friends.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
★★★★ You know what is happening around you, but you might not be sure how to present the facts. Others are likely to have strong reactions, which will force you to head in a new direction. Know that your perceptions could come across as bias. Tonight: Go along with a suggestion.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
★★★★★ You might want to level yourself out and follow the right path for you. You cannot always be the socially responsible Leo and take care of others as well as yourself. Instead, right now is the time to do something just for you. Give yourself some space. Tonight: Easy does it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
★★★★ Your creativity can't be tamed, nor should it be. Loosen up, and do your best to make a good impression. Try not to push someone too hard in order to get the results you want. You might be surprised by what occurs when you relax. Tonight: Express your playfulness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
★★★★ Stay centered, and figure out what is workable. You could feel overwhelmed by the hectic pace and all of the activity happening around you. Do not push too hard to make an impression. Be natural, and embrace what is happening. Just be yourself. Tonight: Where the action is.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21)
★★★★ Your intensity could frighten some people, but those who admire and enjoy you find it a pleasure to deal with your high level of focus and concentration. Examine what is going on around you before making plans. Embrace spontaneity. Tonight: Time for an overdue chat.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21)
★★★ Be more aware of your finances. Though you enjoy making purchases, you also enjoy a certain lifestyle. Someone might be encouraging you to go out on a limb regarding spending. In the long run, you will be happier if you use some self-discipline. Tonight: Celebrate the night.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
★★★★★ You might not be as sure of yourself as you'd like to be. You have a strong sense of direction, and you know what you want. Honor a fast change that could affect your plans. Others seem to be acting differently from how they have in the recent past. Tonight: Just let go.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
★★★★ You express an innate knowledge that makes you seem wise. You could be going through something that a friend has already experienced, and you might feel as if you have a lot to share. Start talking, and know that your words have some significance. Tonight: Not to be found.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
★★★★ Zero in on your priorities, and don't allow others to distract you. A meeting will be instrumental in making plans and gaining a better sense of where people are coming from. Allow greater give-and-take between you and a close friend. Tonight: You are leader of the gang.

NRA

in the last six months as misguided.

"The National Rifle Association is the only organization in America that gets blamed for crimes our members don't commit. … The 5 million law-abiding members of the National Rifle Association will not accept one shred of blame for the acts of madmen and the failures of government," Cox told the crowd.

Wayne LaPierre, the NRA's longtime leader, also complained that Hollywood and media elites try to blame the NRA for horrific crimes the group and its members have nothing to do with, aiming to "kill the NRA and napalm the Second Amendment out of existence."

With public opinion on gun rights jarred by each spike in the toll of innocents, in Las Vegas, Sutherland Springs, Texas, and Parkland, Fla., Trump eagerly lent his voice to the NRA's push to keep attention on criminals, "maniacs" and "madmen" as various speakers labeled the killers.

Trump pushed the point by citing a hospital in London, where firearms are illegal but violence still erupts as criminals turn to knives.

"There's blood all over the floors of this hospital," he said. "Knives, knives, knives."

As part of the public relations push meant to deflect calls for tighter gun laws, the NRA and Trump also put a bright spotlight on a hero of the church rampage in Sutherland Springs last fall.

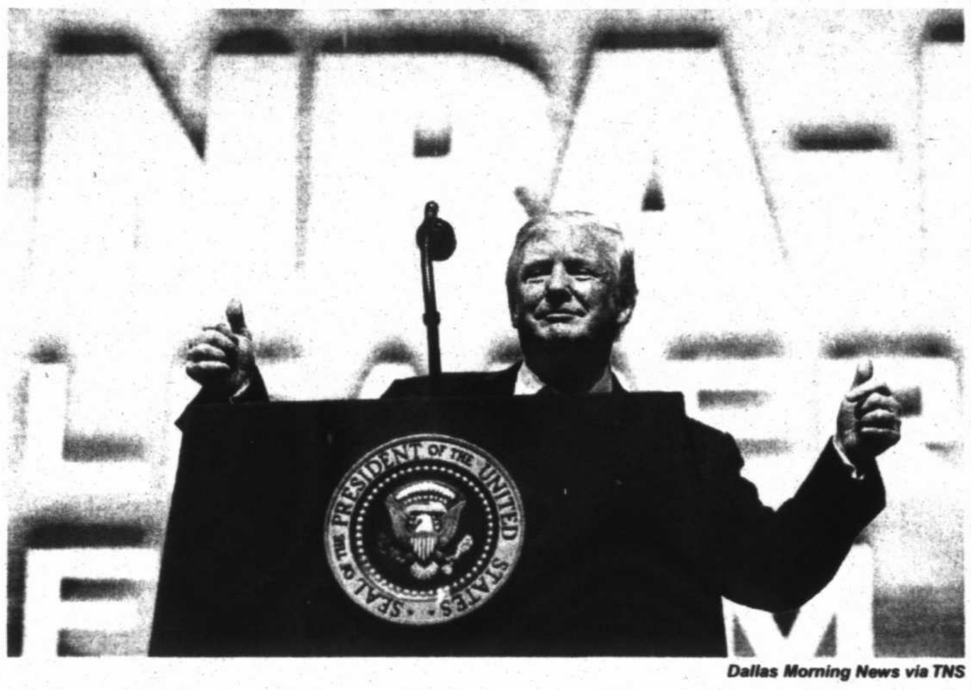

Stephen Willeford, an NRA instructor who confronted the shooter, kept a bloodbath that cost 26 lives from being even worse.

"We are the people that stand between the people who would do evil and our neighbors. … Any one of you would do what I did," Willeford said from the main stage. "I responded for what God told me to do."

The crowd gave Willeford an ovation.

Pence chided news media for spending too much time reporting on "deranged" attackers rather than on good guys with a gun who protect their neighbors. This was a recurring theme at the convention, which drew upwards of 70,000 gun enthusiasts to Dallas.

"They focus on the tragedies and the heartbreak," Pence said, "but too often many in the media ignore what happen when well-trained law-abiding gun owners save lives."

Dallas Morning News via TNS

President Donald Trump addresses the NRA Annual Meeting on Friday at the Kay Bailey Hutchison Convention Center in Dallas.

He and Trump recalled the July 7, 2016, ambush on Dallas police officers, blocks away from the convention center, and the killing of another officer last week. Dallas, said Trump, has "a police force that has lost too many heroes but has not lost its will to protect you."

Trump highlighted his support for beefing up school security and mental health treatment and intervention. He argued that the shooter at the Parkland high school in February — an attack that has amplified demands for a crackdown on guns — should have been intercepted well before the rampage.

"There has never been a case where more red flags have been shown," Trump said.

Ahead of Trump's arrival, a series of hard-edged videos warmed up the crowd, mocking Hollywood elites and the news media. A brief clip of Hillary Clinton triggered jeers.

One video focused on "the ungrateful" — depicted as Black Lives Matter protesters. Police, the video says, "even protect the ungrateful, the ones who are quick to criticize but are even quicker to dial 9-1-1."

In another video, an NRA spokeswoman denounced media "saboteurs" who undermine and question the legitimacy of Trump. "They will perish in the political flames of their own fires," she says.

A third video, a promo for the NRA's TV channel, satirized CNN's advertising campaign that uses an apple to symbolize irrefutable truth — observable from right or left, but still an apple.

"This is a lemon," the NRA's version says. "Some people might try to convince you that this is a journalist. … They might even put JOURNALIST in all caps. … Don't be fooled. This is not a journalist. This is a lemon. A bitter lemon." The crowd cheered.

Pence conceded that mass shootings are a scourge — and a political challenge.

"We … resolve to confront this menace with all our strength and we are doing just that under the leadership of this president. I promise you under President Trump's leadership we will not rest and we will not relent until we end this."

He touted the $2 billion the federal government is sending local schools to beef up security, and legislation Trump signed to improved the federal gun buyer database, and his push for more resources to treat mental illness.

"We need to end this evil and protect our liberties at the same time. That's the American way," Pence said.

Plano resident Mary Fortune, who recently joined the NRA and was attending her first convention, was eager to see Trump, though she was concerned about having both the president and vice president in the same place at the same time.

Why did she come? "There's a lot of talk about taking away guns, but as a single female I have a right to protect myself."

This was the first time both a president and vice president attended the annual meeting.

"President Trump is wonderful. He's doing what he said he's going to do," said another attendee, Stan Messinger, 71, from Lafayette, La.

He said Trump doesn't get enough credit — for advancing peace on the Korean peninsula and for a strong economy. He views blanket coverage of Trump's hush money deal with porn actress Stormy Daniels as a distraction ginned up by Washington insiders trying to hobble the president. "That's bull — BS," he said. "That happened 11 years ago. People do stuff like that. Look at the Clintons and all they did."

At this time last year, there were 443 rigs in Texas and 56 in New Mexico.

US & Canada

The U.S. rig count continued to grow, helped in large part by the addition of oil rigs. The number of rigs searching for oil rose by nine to 834; natural gas and miscellaneous rigs each were up one to 196 and two, respectively. All 19 offshore rigs were in the Gulf of Mexico. The inland waters count fell to two after three rigs went offline.

By drilling trajectory, there were 913 horizontal rigs, up 12; 55 vertical rigs, up three; and 64 directional rigs, down four.

The most active basins were the Permian, the Eagle Ford, the Cana Woodford (69), the Williston (57), the Haynesville and the Marcellus (54). States with the highest counts were Texas, Oklahoma (135), New Mexico, Louisiana (61) and North Dakota (56).

Canada's rig count rose by one to 86, a tally four higher than the year-ago total. Oil rigs rose by four to 37. There were 49 natural gas rigs, down three.

A year ago, there were 877 rigs in the U.S. and 82 in Canada.

Community's sunny surface hides neighborhood grudges

Dear Abby

Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069. Her column is distributed by Universal Press Syndicate.

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I live in a small town in the Northwest. After many years here, feeling that a warmer climate may be better for us, we decided to retire and move to a 55-plus community. We researched and visited several, and recently bought a home in one with about 5,000 residents and a lot of senior activities.

After closing, we stayed around for several days to get better acquainted and got a rude surprise. Everyone we met was very friendly, but quite a few seemed to have a grudge about at least one other person in the community. We've always made friends easily. What can we do or say to be able to be friends with neighbors who have grudges against each other ("If you are friends with them, you can't be friends with us")? — NOT TAKING SIDES IN THE SOUTH

DEAR NOT TAKING SIDES: It appears you not only moved south, but also into an "elementary school" complete with playground politics. Do not allow yourselves to be shanghaied into an exclusive relationship with anyone who tries to blackmail you this way. If your neighbors can't get along with each other, let it be their problem and see them separately. And when they put down the people they don't like, change the subject.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I have been together for two years and are in a committed relationship. Yesterday he told me he isn't sexually satisfied. I was shocked. I thought our sex life was good overall. However, he says he feels he's doing most of the work and I'm not "adventurous" enough. He's not looking for anything crazy, but I have limited experience and lack confidence in this area. How do I get my confidence up and meet his needs? — UNSURE IN ILLINOIS

DEAR UNSURE: Have a talk with your boyfriend. Tell him you are glad that he was honest with you about his feelings. Then ask what he meant by "adventurous" and what he would like from you. It could be something as simple as you initiating the sexual encounters more often. But if it's not, it will be the beginning of an important conversation.

DEAR ABBY: I received an invitation to a "belly and bells shower." The bride is expecting (belly) and her wedding shower is included (bells). Having never received an invitation that honors both events, I'm not certain how to respond gift-wise. Do I buy two gifts? She's registered at two sites, one for baby and one for bridal. — CONFUSED IN MICHIGAN

DEAR CONFUSED: Yes, two gifts are what's being requested. What those gifts should be is up to you — although you will get some idea of what the young couple will need by visiting the two websites. After the shower is over, the rule of etiquette is that you should receive a wedding invitation. If you choose to attend, another gift will be in order, so don't put away your checkbook.

Judge poses pointed questions on Manafort charges at hearing

By Matthew Barakat
Associated Press

ALEXANDRIA, Va.— A federal judge on Friday asked pointed questions about special counsel Robert Mueller's authority to bring charges against former Trump campaign chairman Paul Manafort and suggested that prosecutors' true motive is getting Manafort to "sing" against the president.

Manafort's lawyers argued at a hearing in Alexandria that the tax and bank fraud charges are far afield from Mueller's mandate to investigate Russian meddling in the 2016 election and whether any coordination with Trump associates occurred.

"I don't see what relationship this indictment has with what the special counsel is investigating," U.S. Senior Judge T.S. Ellis III, a Reagan appointee, told government lawyers at Friday's hearing.

The Virginia indictment alleges Manafort hid tens of millions of dollars he earned advising pro-Russia politicians in Ukraine from the Internal Revenue Service, money earned from 2006 through 2015. The indictment accuses Manafort of fraudulently obtaining millions in loans from financial institutions later, after his Ukrainian work dwindled. Prosecutors say that part of the conspiracy stretched from 2015 through January 2017, including the months while he was working on the Trump campaign.

Under questioning from Ellis, government lawyers admitted that Manafort had been under investigation for years in the Eastern District of Virginia before Mueller was ever appointed special counsel. And Ellis said it was implausible to think that the charges against Manafort, which primarily concern his business dealings and tax returns from about 2005 through 2015, could have a real connection to Trump's 2016 presidential campaign.

Ellis suggested the real reason Mueller is pursuing Manafort is to pressure him to "sing" against Trump, though he also noted that such a strategy is a "time-honored practice" for prosecutors and not necessarily illegal. Ellis went on to say that defense lawyers are naturally concerned that defendants in that situation will not only sing but "compose" — meaning that they'll make up facts.

"You really care about wanting information you could get from Mr. Manafort that would relate to Mr. Trump and lead to his prosecution, or impeachment, or whatever," Ellis said.

Later Friday, President Trump praised Ellis during a speech to the National Rifle Association and called him a "highly respected judge." Trump read news articles highlighting Ellis' quotes about the case and his suggestion that the special counsel's goal is to squeeze Manfort. "I've been saying that for a long time," Trump said.

Trump says Giuliani needs to 'get facts straight' on Stormy

By Catherine Lucey and Jonathan Lemire
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Donald Trump insisted Friday that "we're not changing any stories" about the 2016 hush payment to porn actress Stormy Daniels, even as he further muddied the explanations by suggesting the new face of his legal team needed to "get his facts straight."

Trump said Rudy Giuliani, who upended the previous White House defense this week by saying the president knew about his personal lawyer Michael Cohen's payment to Daniels, was "a great guy but he just started a day ago" and said the former mayor of New York City was still "learning the subject matter."

Hours later, Giuliani issued a statement in which he tried to back away from his previous suggestion that the $130,000 payment was made because Trump was in the stretch run of the 2016 campaign.

"The payment was made to resolve a personal and false allegation in order to protect the President's family," Giuliani said. "It would have been done in any event, whether he was a candidate or not."

That was a marked change from Giuliani's earlier comments about the timing of the payment, made on Oct. 27, 2016, less than two weeks before the election.

Of Daniels' allegations of an affair with Trump, Giuliani said Thursday: "Imagine if that came out on October 15, 2016, in the middle of the last debate with Hillary Clinton. Cohen didn't ask. He made it go away."

2nd-longest US expansion on record keeps churning out jobs

By Josh Boak
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The U.S. economy has delivered steady if only modest gains for most Americans since the Great Recession ended in 2009. It's been a frustration for many.

Yet the very sluggishness of the economic expansion helps explain why it's now the second-longest on record and why more of the country might soon benefit from higher pay.

Nearly nine years into the recovery, the job market keeps delivering: The government said Friday that employers added 164,000 jobs in April — the 91st straight month of hiring growth, the longest such streak on record. More tellingly, the unemployment rate fell to 3.9 percent, the lowest since December 2000. Eight years ago, the jobless rate was 10 percent.

But for much of the expansion, many people have felt left behind. Some have found only part-time work. Pay growth, on average, has been meager. The stock market boom and low interest rates that defined the recovery have favored the wealthy.

The economy's modest growth, though, has helped prevent it from overheating and skidding into another recession, as often happened during more robust expansions. And some economists say the ever-lower unemployment rate suggests that a wider swath of Americans soon stand to benefit from stronger pay growth.

"It's just not sustainable for average pay growth to be so low in a labor market this tight," said Andrew Chamberlain, chief economist at the jobs site Glassdoor.

Average hourly earnings have risen 2.6 percent from a year ago. That is slightly more than the year-over-year wage growth of roughly 2 percent that prevailed in 2014 and 2015, when the unemployment rate was higher. Yet by historical standards, wage growth has been relatively stagnant.

Past expansions have delivered faster growth. But since World War II, they have lasted an average of less than five years before slipping into recession.

Gus Faucher, chief economist for PNC Financial, said he thinks annual wage growth could average 3 percent by the end of the year. He notes that employers are having an increasingly difficult time finding qualified workers, creating pressure for them to raise wages.

That may explain why the pace of job growth was slower in March and April: There aren't enough unemployed people to fill openings.

Knutec, a company in Bradenton, Florida, that builds communication network systems, hopes to double its 19-person staff in the next 60 days to meet demand from customers.

Troy Knutson, a founder of the company, said he offers $15 an hour to new employees, who are usually trained on the job how to haul cable and install networks. He said he's now competing against fast food restaurants that are offering workers roughly the same starting wage. The difference, Knutson says, is that his company will provide a career path, cover the costs of health insurance and generally raise a worker's pay to $35 an hour after five years.

"The job market is getting competitive, and people are able to request higher wages," he said.

An encouraging sign for the economy is that the pace of hiring has yet to be disrupted by dramatic global market swings, a recent pickup in inflation or the risk that the tariffs being pushed by President Donald Trump could provoke a trade war.

Much of the economy's durability is due, in fact, to the healthy job market. The increase in people earning paychecks has bolstered demand for housing, even though fewer properties are being listed for sale. Consumer confidence has improved over the past year. And more people are shopping, with retail sales having picked up in March after three monthly declines.

Arizona students back in class after 6-day teacher walkout

By Melissa Daniels and Terry Tang
Associated Press

PHOENIX — Hundreds of thousands of Arizona schoolchildren returned to classes Friday, a day after state lawmakers approved 20 percent raises for teachers and they ended a six-day walkout that shuttered most classrooms around the state.

Teachers at a high school in the Phoenix suburb of Mesa lined up to greet students with cheers and handshakes. An elementary school principal greeted students with high-fives on the other side of metro Phoenix.

Educators returning to work at San Marcos Elementary in the suburb of Chandler traded in their red protest t-shirts for shirts with their black and blue school colors and its bear mascot. Wearing sunglasses and smiles, they hugged and wrapped their arms around each other's shoulders to start the day.

In Jennifer Boettcher's first-grade class, students had a breakfast of muffins, milk and juice waiting for them.

"I'm so happy to see you, you all grew this much," Boettcher said while raising her hands. She checked their meal progress as she called out names for attendance, ensuring one student had a juice carton in front of her and reminding another to hang up his jacket.

Outside, preschool students populated the playground for the first time since last Thursday. They raced down slides and soared on a swing set, the sound of their giggles mixed with the chirping birds while a teacher called out to them by name.

Jolene Gallup, a media specialist and reading intervention teacher, was thrilled to come back. She said the #RedforEd movement was empowering, as she's been teaching in Arizona for 20 years and has seen budgets slashed.

She sees around 100 to 110 students a day, and says the school, with a population of around 600 preschoolers through sixth graders, is like a family. That closeness made the choice to walkout difficult, she said.

Hawaii volcano sends more lava, sulfur gas into communities

By Caleb Jones and Marco Garcia
Associated Press

PAHOA, Hawaii — The Kilauea volcano sent more lava into Hawaii communities Friday, a day after forcing more than 1,500 people to flee from their mountainside homes, and authorities detected high levels of sulfur gas that could threaten the elderly and people with breathing problems.

The eruption that began with lava flying into the sky from a crack in a road continued with reports of molten rock spurting from several volcanic vents. Neighborhoods downhill from the vents were at risk of being covered up. At least two homes were destroyed, officials said.

Julie Woolsey lives on a street where a vent opened up and channeled lava to within 1,000 yards of her house. When it appeared, she freed her chickens, loaded her dogs into her truck and evacuated with her daughter and grandson.

"We knew we were building on an active volcano," she said, recalling how she purchased the lot on the Big Island for $35,000 more than a decade ago after living on Maui became too expensive. But she thought the danger from lava was a remote possibility.

"You can't really predict what Pele is going to do," she said, referring to the Hawaiian volcano goddess. "It's hard to keep up. We're hoping our house doesn't burn down."

The community of Leilani Estates near the town of Pahoa appeared to be in the greatest danger. Authorities also ordered an evacuation of Lanipuna Gardens, a smaller, more rural subdivision directly to the east. But scientists said new vents could form, and it was impossible to know where.

Civil defense officials cautioned the public about high levels of sulfur dioxide near the volcano and urged vulnerable people to leave immediately.

Iowa governor signs nation's strictest abortion regulation

By Barbara Rodriguz
Associated Press

DES MOINES, Iowa — Iowa Gov. Kim Reynolds on Friday signed a law banning most abortions if a fetal heartbeat can be detected, or at about six weeks of pregnancy, marking the strictest abortion regulation in the nation — but setting the state up for a lengthy court fight.

The Republican governor signed the legislation in her formal office at the state Capitol as protesters gathered outside chanting, "My body, my choice!" Reynolds acknowledged that the new law would likely face litigation that could put it on hold, but said: "This is bigger than just a law; this is about life, and I'm not going to back down."

Reynolds signed the law surrounded by children from a local Christian school and children related to supporters.

The ban, set to take effect July 1, has moved Iowa to the front of a push among conservative statehouses jockeying to enact new restrictions on the medical procedure. Mississippi enacted a law earlier this year banning abortions after 15 weeks of pregnancy, but it's on hold after a court challenge.

The Iowa law provides exemptions for abortions during a later pregnancy stage to save a pregnant woman's life or in some cases of rape and incest. A woman would have to report a rape within 45 days to law enforcement or a physician, and incest would need to be reported within 140 days. Another provision prohibits some uses of fetal tissue, with exemptions for research.

Maggie DeWitte, who leads the group Iowans for Life, called Reynolds' move "historic" and added: "She is following through on her pledge to the people of Iowa that she is 100 percent pro-life."

The bill signing came shortly after the Iowa affiliates of Planned Parenthood and the American Civil Liberties Union warned that they would sue the governor if she signed the bill, which the Republican-controlled Legislature approved during after-hours votes earlier in the week.

"We will challenge this law with absolutely everything we have on behalf of our patients because Iowa will not go back," Suzanna de Baca, president and CEO of Planned Parenthood of the Heartland, said in a statement.

Backers of the so-called heartbeat bill — which didn't get a single Democratic vote in the Legislature during final passage and included no votes by six Republicans — expressed hope it could challenge Roe vs. Wade, the landmark 1973 U.S. Supreme Court ruling that established women have a right to terminate pregnancies until a fetus is viable.

A federal appeals court in recent years has struck down similar legislation approved in Arkansas and North Dakota, but conservatives say an influx of right-leaning judicial appointments under President Donald Trump could produce a different outcome in the future.

"This just all propels the whole movement to protect life forward," Republican Rep. Sandy Salmon said after the signing.

Critics argued the bill would ban abortions before some women even know they're pregnant. Outside of Reynolds' office earlier Friday, critics of the bill began leaving coat hangers by her staff's desks. A morning rally outside of the Capitol included more than 100 people who held signs in opposition to the legislation.

Jessi Allard, a 35-year-old youth counselor at a Des Moines shelter, held a sign outside Reynolds' office that read: "You don't own us." Allard said lawmakers need to support social services that help children beyond birth and into adulthood. She called the legislation disappointing.

"It's ridiculous that our government can govern women's bodies," she said.

The same Republican-majority Legislature in Iowa passed a 20-week abortion ban last year. It's now in effect, though a provision requiring a three-day waiting period to get an abortion is tied up in a lawsuit filed by Planned Parenthood and the ACLU. Separately, Republican lawmakers agreed last session to give up millions in federal dollars to create a state-funded family planning program that excludes abortion providers like Planned Parenthood, even though the money wasn't going toward abortions.

Dozens of Palestinians wounded in 6th weekly Gaza protest

By Fares Akram
Associated Press

GAZA CITY, Gaza Strip — Black smoke from burning tires mixed with streaks of tear gas fired by Israeli forces Friday as several thousand Palestinians staged a sixth weekly protest on the Gaza-Israel border. At least 70 Palestinians were wounded by Israeli fire, the lowest casualty toll since the protests began.

Hundreds of demonstrators broke into the Gaza side of a cargo crossing with Israel, damaging pipelines that carry fuel and gas into Gaza, the Israeli military said. Photos on social media showed large flames near the Kerem Shalom crossing, near where the borders of Gaza, Israel and Egypt converge.

Palestinian officials said protesters smashed some equipment near the crossing but were unaware of any damage to pipelines. The Israeli military called the incident a "cynical act of terror" that harms Gaza civilians.

Elsewhere, witnesses said small Israeli drones faced off against flaming kites that were flown by Palestinians over the border fence in recent weeks to set ablaze dry wheat fields on the Israeli side. The witnesses said two kites with burning rags were brought down by the drones, while two other drones crashed after being hit by stones.

The protests are part of a weekly campaign organized by Gaza's Hamas rulers. The marches each Friday are aimed, in part, at breaking a decade-old blockade of the territory that imposed by Israel and Egypt after the Islamic militant group took control there in 2007.

The Islamic militant group Hamas has said the protests would culminate in a mass march on May 15, with some officials suggesting a possible border breach at the time and others saying the protests might continue beyond that date.

Israel has warned that it will prevent such a breach at any cost.

May 15 is the day Palestinians commemorate their mass uprooting in the 1948 war over Israel's creation. Hundreds of thousands of Palestinians fled or were driven from homes in what is now Israel. Two-thirds of Gaza's residents are descendants of refugees.

Despite the risks faced by the protesters near the border, turnout has been sustained by the widespread desperation of blockade-linked hardships of life in Gaza. Virtually all of the territory's 2 million people are barred from travel, about two-thirds of young people are unemployed and power is on only a few hours a day.

On Friday, 229 protesters were hospitalized, including 70 with bullet wounds, the Gaza Health Ministry said. Three of the wounded were in serious condition.

Since late March, 40 Palestinians have been killed and more than 1,700 wounded by Israeli army fire. Friday marked the first weekly protest in which no Palestinian were reported killed by sundown.

Yehiyeh Amarin, 18, said he and his friends will keep going to the border until the blockade has been lifted.

"If no solution happens by May 15, we will continue the protests or we die," he said, as another protester behind him brandished a yellow wire cutter. "We will cut through the fence."

He said he and his friends call themselves the "tires unit," spending their weekdays collecting tires for the weekly demonstrations. "We want a dignified life and a return to our lands," said Amarin, as he and others rolled tires toward the fence to set them ablaze.

The mounting casualty toll has led to growing criticism of Israel. Rights groups say Israeli open-fire regulations are unlawful because they permit troops to use potentially lethal force against unarmed protesters. Israel's Supreme Court is currently weighing a petition by six rights groups to restrict or ban the use of live fire on the border.

Court vacates Kennedy cousin Skakel's murder conviction

By Dave Collins
Associated Press

HARTFORD, Conn. — In a stunning reversal, the Connecticut Supreme Court on Friday overturned Kennedy cousin Michael Skakel's murder conviction in the 1975 bludgeoning death of a girl in wealthy Greenwich.

The high court issued a 4-3 ruling that Skakel's trial attorney failed to present evidence of an alibi. The same court in December 2016 had reinstated Skakel's conviction after a lower court ordered a new trial, citing mistakes by the trial attorney, Mickey Sherman.

It wasn't immediately clear if prosecutors will subject Skakel to a new trial. A spokesman for Chief State's Attorney Kevin Kane said prosecutors were reviewing the new ruling. He declined further comment.

Skakel, a nephew of Robert F. Kennedy's widow, Ethel Kennedy, was convicted of murder in 2002 in the death of Martha Moxley in 1975 when they were teenagers. He was sentenced to 20 years to life in prison, but was freed on $1.2 million bail after serving 11 years behind bars when the lower court overturned his murder conviction in 2013.

The case has drawn international attention because of the Kennedy name, Skakel's rich family, numerous theories about who killed Moxley and the brutal way in which she died. Several other people, including Skakel's brother Tommy Skakel, have been mentioned as possible killers.

The slaying took place in the exclusive Bell Haven section of Greenwich where Martha and Skakel were neighbors. At trial, prosecutors said Skakel was angry with Martha because she had spurned his advances while having a sexual liaison with his brother Tommy.

Skakel's appellate lawyer, Hubert Santos, had asked the Supreme Court to reconsider its 2016 ruling, resulting in Friday's decision.

"We're elated that our argument was vindicated," Santos said Friday. "It was a good decision because it was spot on the law."

Santos argued that Sherman made poor decisions, including not focusing on Skakel's brother as a possible suspect and failing to attempt to contact an alibi witness. Santos said Skakel was several miles away from the crime scene on Oct. 30, 1975 watching a Monty Python movie with friends when Moxley was bludgeoned with a golf club.

Santos also has said there was no physical evidence or eyewitnesses linking Skakel to the killing.

Sherman has defended his work, and state prosecutors have argued he did an adequate job. The Associated Press left a message with him Friday seeking comment on the ruling.

Conservative Justice Peter Zarella wrote the majority opinion when the highly divided Supreme Court reinstated Skakel's conviction in a 4-3 ruling in December 2016. Zarella left the court at the end of 2016 to return to private practice.

When the Supreme Court ruled Friday, the panel included the same justices that ruled in 2016 — minus Zarella. It included Justice Gregory D'Auria, a former lawyer in the state attorney general's office named to the court last year. D'Auria was in the majority decision Friday.

The high court's reversal of a previous ruling is highly unusual, legal observers said.

Writing for the majority Friday, Justice Richard Palmer said Skakel was prejudiced in the case by Sherman's failure to obtain alibi testimony from witness Denis Ossorio.

"Without Ossorio's testimony, the state was able to attack the petitioner's (Skakel's) alibi — a complete alibi for the time period during which it is highly likely that the victim was murdered — as part of a Skakel family conspiracy to cover up the petitioner's involvement in the victim's murder," Palmer wrote.

Chaps drop 2 to OC in frustrating fashion

By Oscar LeRoy
oleroy@mrt.com

Midland College baseball coach Hector Rodriguez sat at the end of the Chaparral dugout, frustrated after getting swept in a doubleheader against rival Odessa College on Friday afternoon at Christensen Stadium.

His frustrations stemmed from the fact that his starting pitchers did everything they could to win each game. The problem was that OC's pitchers were a little better as the Wranglers defeated MC, 3-1 and 3-2 as Odessa kept its postseason hopes alive.

"I tell you what, to score six runs in two games and come away with two wins, it doesn't happen very often in the (Western Junior College Athletic Conference)," OC coach Kurtis Lay. "We played well and we were fortunate enough to add leads in both games."

The Chaparrals (34-19, 24-10 in the WJCAC) got a great start from ace Logan McCrummen in the first game as he allowed three runs (two earned) on six hits, with two walks and 12 strikeouts over seven innings. Then in the second game, fellow sophomore right-hander Levi Hon went 7 1/3 innings and allowed three runs (two earned) on three walks with five strikeouts.

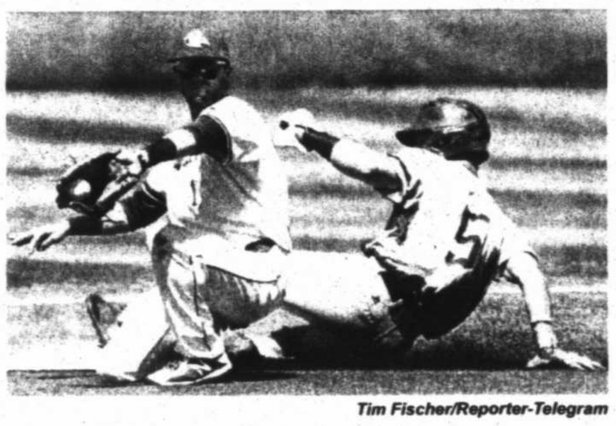

"We spoiled two quality starts," Rodriguez said. "McCrummen threw the ball well but we didn't win the game. We just couldn't get a hit. We couldn't get anything going and we couldn't figure out both of their guys out either. Hon also pitched well, kept us in the ballgame and made quality pitches. At some point you think, you're going to score, you're going to score, but we couldn't. We couldn't generate anything on offense."

Give credit where it's due because both OC starters – Noah Bartlett in the first game and Marc Luna in the second game – kept the potent MC offense from doing any damage.

Bartlett, continued to get out of jams as he matched McCrummen with the complete-game performance and allowed the one run on seven hits, walked one and struck out seven.

Lee's Junior Alvarez (5) celebrates after scoring a run against El Paso Franklin on Friday, at McCanlies Field in Odessa.

Rebels' patience pays off in Game 1 victory

By Will Korn
wkorn@mrt.com

ODESSA — Lee head coach Brian Roper said success in the game of baseball comes down to the winning the counts.

The Rebels did so in their playoff opener against El Paso Franklin Friday afternoon at Odessa Permian's McCanlies Field. Lee batters worked eight walks against Franklin pitchers and crafted 15 at-bats of five pitches or more, as well as seven of six or more offerings.

The patience paid off, as the Rebels broke through in the middle innings and backed up a stingy five-inning start from right-hander Bo Blessie to cruise to a 7-2 victory over the Cougars in Game 1 in a best-of-three Class 6A bi-district series.

Game 2 is slated for 11 a.m. today back at McCanlies Field. If necessary, Game 3 will follow 30 minutes after the conclusion of the second game.

Sophomore Junior Alvarez led Lee at the plate by going 2-for-2 with a triple, two runs and a pair of walks, while cousin Jorge Alvarez drove in two more with a pair of productive sacrifice flies.

In an attempt to set the tone of the series, plate discipline was paramount for Lee. Facing Franklin starter Matt Giles, the Rebels put together promising rallies in both the home first and second innings but were stymied both times.

In the third, it was Alvarez' two-out roped triple to center field that scored Ty Coleman and Adam Becker to hand the Rebels a 2-0 advantage. Fittingly, Alvarez' clutch hit came on the fifth pitch of the at-bat, one offering after he laid off a tempting slider from Giles that landed just outside the strike zone.

In his first varsity playoff start, Alvarez said he was trying to keep things simple at the plate in a big moment for his team.

"It's the same thing the guys told me (before my first playoff start)" Alvarez said. "Don't try to do too much, but just go out there, compete and have fun. (I wanted) to have unselfish at-bats and it paid off (Friday)."

Alvarez' selective approach with runners on base was just what Roper was looking for. His hitters drove up Giles' pitch count to 96 before the right-hander left the game with one out in the fourth inning. Giles issued six of Franklin's eight walks and yielded all seven runs.

"That is something that we preach. When we do things well, that's part of our game," Roper said. "It has been a long time coming but we did a nice job of that (Friday), laying off pitches that we could get ourselves out on. (We had) more plate discipline and that's key. The game is all about winning the counts."

In the fourth, Becker plated two more runs with a single to left, before Chase Pederson stretched Lee's lead to 6-0 with a double to left. Jorge Alvarez, who was also making his first playoff start, then brought home Lee's final run with a sacrifice fly to left.

Jorge Alvarez said he was just looking to find his pitch and make something of his opportunity to help cushion his team's lead.

"My approach today was to have a team (focused) at-bat and produce," Jorge said. "I had runners at third twice, so I

A Derby with lightly raced colts, and lots of possibilities

By Beth Harris
Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Todd Pletcher is throwing numbers at the Kentucky Derby again. Bob Baffert is seeking a fifth victory and he's got the favorite, too. An old jinx could be disproved, and history would be written if Mendelssohn wears the garland of red roses.

The 20-horse field for Saturday's 144th Run for the Roses includes a handful of top contenders who have been consistent this spring.

Justify was the 7-2 favorite in early wagering Friday. Trained by Baffert, the Southern California colt, however, is green, with just three starts.

"We have a good enough horse that can win it, but it's a very competitive race," Baffert said. "You're going to have to have some luck."

Justify is undefeated and Magnum Moon is 4-0, neither having run as a 2-year-old. They'll be trying to upend a so-called curse: No horse since Apollo in 1882 has won without racing as a juvenile.

Arkansas Derby winner Magnum Moon is one of four horses to be saddled by Todd Pletcher, who won last year's Derby with Always Dreaming.

Stars introduce Montgomery as coach, from college to NHL

Associated Press

DALLAS — When Stars general manager Jim Nill started his third coaching search in five years, he took a look at the talented roster that is still among the youngest in the NHL.

Their new coach is certainly accustomed to dealing with youth.

Jim Montgomery was introduced Friday by the Stars, becoming the second head coach in three years to go directly from the college ranks to the NHL.

"I think the game is changing, and in the end it's dealing with people," Nill said. "It's dealing with the younger players, and on top of it, winning, and he's done that."

Montgomery was 125-57-26 the past five seasons at the University of Denver, including a national title in 2016-17. As a player, he was part of a national championship at Maine in 1993.

Montgomery

"We loved our life in Denver and I loved my job, and the only way I was going to move from a great position was for an opportunity that was better," said the 48-year-old Montgomery, who has four young children.

Before Denver, he spent three seasons as head coach and general manager for Dubuque of the United States Hockey League. The Fighting Saints were 118-45-21 from 2010-13, when they won two USHL titles.

Montgomery is a departure from the two first two hires by Nill, grizzled NHL veterans Lindy Ruff and Ken Hitchcock.

Hitchcock, who coached the Stars to their only Stanley Cup title in 1999, returned as their coach for only one season before retiring last month and becoming a consultant for the team. The Stars have missed the playoffs eight of the last 10 seasons.

Philadelphia has made the playoffs in two of the three seasons since Dave Hakstol was hired by the Flyers out of collegiate power North Dakota.

Montgomery inherits a Dallas squad led high-scoring All-Star forwards Jamie Benn and Tyler Seguin, one of the top-scoring defensemen in John Klingberg, and goalie Ben Bishop. Benn, the team captain, was among those attending Montgomery's introductory news conference.

"When I look at this lineup, I really get excited," Montgomery said. "It has everything you want. It has star power. ... You have depth, you have size, you have skill, you have speed at every position."

The Stars were solidly positioned for the playoffs in March before an eight-game losing streak that started with six losses on the road. Still, Dallas improved significantly in a year, finishing with 92 points under Hitchcock after only 79 in the last of their four seasons with Ruff. The 79 points were the second-fewest in a full season for the team since moving to Dallas in 1993-94.

Montgomery played in 122 career NHL games from 1993-2003, his last nine games coming with the Stars. He also played for St. Louis, Montreal, Philadelphia and San Jose.

"I hope my coaching career is going to last longer," Montgomery joked.

Only two head coaches had gone directly from college to the NHL before Hakstol and Montgomery.

Ned Harkness was the first, when he went from Cornell to Detroit in 1970, and was 12-22-4 as head coach before becoming the Red Wings GM.

MCS takes top 2 spots in discus at state meet

From staff reports

HEWITT – Ben Thompson and Colin Rogers finished 1-2 in the boys discus as Midland Christian claimed the top two podium spots at the TAPPS 5A State Track and Field Championships, Friday at Panther Stadium.

Thompson's winning throw was 142 feet, 11 inches on the junior's fourth and final attempt, while Rogers finished just behind him with a toss of 141-3, the sophomore's only legal throw.

Thompson

The two discus throwers' efforts helped the MCS boys register a leading score of 35 points, four ahead of second-place San Antonio Christian, through the first six events.

MCS had a pair of seniors claim silver medals, as Luke Fisher placed second in the boys shot put with a heave of 47-5, and Makenzie Mondragon was the runner-up in the girls long jump with a leap of 16-4 ½.

Lady Mustangs sophomore Bre'anna Culbertson earned a bronze with her third-place toss of 108-0 in the discus.

Also for the Mustangs, freshman Joseph Venzant finished fourth in the triple jump with a 44-4 ½; Garison Breeding was sixth in the same event with a leap of 43-7 ¾; and Culbertson came in fourth in the girls shot put with a 32-7 ¼.

The meet concludes today.

Dominant Davis leads Pelicans past Warriors, 119-100.

By Brett Martel
Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS — Anthony Davis had 33 points, 18 rebounds and four steals, and the New Orleans Pelicans defeated Golden State 119-100 on Friday night to trim the Warriors' series lead to 2-1.

Davis was particularly dominant around the basket, scoring numerous times on dunks of the driving, put-back or alley-oop variety, and the Pelicans outscored the Warriors 54-36 in the paint.

Jrue Holiday scored 21 for New Orleans and Ian Clark had 18 points against his former club for the Pelicans.

Klay Thompson scored 26 for Golden State, but missed 13 of 22 shots. Stephen Curry, in his second game back after a sprained knee sidelined him more than a month, missed 13 of 19 shots and finished with 19 points. Kevin Durant scored 22 points for the Warriors, who never led by more than a single point.

Golden State shot uncharacteristically poorly from outside, missing 22 of 31 3-point attempts and finishing at 38 percent shooting (35 of 92) overall.

The Pelicans, meanwhile, made 14 of 31 3s, with Holiday, Clark, Nikola Mirotic and Solomon Hill each hitting three.

They seemed to benefit from being back at home and looked to be the more comfortable team shooting from the outset.

Hill, who missed all four 3s he took in the first two games, made his first three from deep. At one point late in the second quarter, New Orleans was 10-of-15 from 3, while Golden State was just 5-of-15.

Mirotic's third 3 of the first half put the Pelicans up 60-48 late in the second quarter, but the Warriors' ability to score in bursts help them slash their deficit in half before the period ended.

Thompson, who'd shot poorly in Game 2 and at the beginning of Game 3, scored eight quick points on a driving layup and a pair of 3s, trimming New Orleans' lead to 62-56 at halftime.

But the Pelicans opened the third quarter with a 10-2 run and led by double digits the rest of the way, responding each time the Warriors tried to make a run.

New Orleans lost a 20-point, fourth-quarter lead in Game 3 the last time these teams met in the playoffs in the first round in 2015.

In this Game 3, New Orleans led by 25 in the third quarter after Davis' free throws made it 90-65.

Golden State closed the quarter on a 10-2 run capped by Durant's 3, but New Orleans build the lead back to 26 in the fourth quarter and the Warriors starters were out of the game with five minutes to go.

Lightning beat Bruins 4-3 in OT to take 3-1 series lead

By Jimmy Golen

Elise Amendola/Associated Press

Boston Bruins defenseman Adam McQuaid (54) and Tampa Bay Lightning defenseman Victor Hedman (77) fight as linesman Derek Amell (75) tries to break it up in the second period of Game 4 of an NHL second-round playoff series on Friday, in Boston.

BOSTON — Dan Girardi scored 3:18 into overtime on Friday night to give the Tampa Bay Lightning a 4-3 victory over the Boston Bruins and a 3-1 lead in their Eastern Conference semifinal series.

The Lightning jumped ahead 2-0 for the second straight game. But this time Boston answered with three straight goals, including a short-handed score by Patrice Bergeron — his second of the game — to break a third-period tie.

Steven Stamkos tied it 3-all with seven minutes left in regulation. Girardi ended it when he got a stick on a pass from Alex Killorn that was deflected off Brian Gionta's skate in the crease.

Andrei Vasilevskiy made 25 saves for the Lightning, who will have a chance to clinch it at home on Sunday.

Tuukka Rask stopped 28 shots for the Bruins.

Two nights after scoring twice in the first 3:19 for a lead they would never relinquish, the Lightning again opened a 2-0 lead. Brayden Point scored about five minutes in when he split defenders Zdeno Chara and Charlie McAvoy at the blue line and then faked out Rask in the crease.

With the Bruins already a man down, Chara then backhanded the puck over the glass on a clearing attempt for another penalty. It was back to 5-on-4 when Nikita Kucherov made it 2-0 midway through the period on a power-play one-timer from the faceoff circle. But David Pastrnak one-timed a golf-shot into the net to make it 2-1 after one, and then the Bruins tied it early in the second on a give-and-go from Bergeron to Torey Krug and back to Bergeron. Boston was back on the penalty kill six minutes into the third when Brad Marchand chased down a puck in the Lightning end and then delivered a cross pass that Bergeron redirected into the net.

Tampa Bay tied it with seven minutes left after Kucherov knocked McAvoy down for the turnover behind the Bruins net and the puck worked its from to J.T. Miller and then Stamkos in the slot for a one-timer to tie it 3-all with seven minutes left in regulation.

NOTES: Marchand continued his habit of licking opponents — this time Ryan Callahan. The two went nose-to-nose during after a whistle with 1:21 left in the second, before Marchand leaned in and tried to lick Callahan's face. The Lightning forward pushed him away. ... Bruins Hall of Famer Ray Bourque was in the crowd. ... Referee Francois St. Laurent took a spill in the first minute of the third period and crashed head- and shoulder-first into the boards behind the Lightning net. He remained in the game. ... Krug was helped to the locker room in the third period.

inning on a Cade Bullinger RBI triple.

OC (32-22, 22-12) took the lead for good with a pair of runs in the second inning. The Wranglers then added an insurance run off a Mitch Holding (3-for-3) home run to left field.

Luna had another solid performance in the second game as he allowed two runs (one earned) on four hits, with four walks and five stikeouts.

The game was tied at 2 in the eighth inning when Holding once again delivered with the go-ahead RBI single.

The Chaps didn't have an answer as JJ Irvin pitched three hitless innings of relief to get the win.

"We were hoping to scratch another (run) late to kind of give us a cushion," Lay said. "JJ came in and threw the ball well. For the most part we played well defensively."

Rodriguez added that part of his team's offensive struggled was because the Chaps were a little too passive at times.

"It's one thing to take a fastball for a strike, I get that if that's not one that you like," Rodriguez said. "But then we take a bad swing at a breaking ball. I will say this, we hit the ball hard. But we all know that when the wind is blowing in, you've got to get the ball out of the air. Yeah, a little frustration settled in there but you've got to be mentally tougher and find a way to overcome it."

The series now switches to Odessa's American Legion Park for a doubleheader beginning at noon today. It's safe to say that the Wranglers have the momentum going in.

"The guys are playing with some confidence and that's the biggest thing. We talk about not trying to do too much, not try to reinvent the game, let's just go out and do what the game demands of you," Lay said.

Added Rodriguez: "Game one is important (today). We need a quality start from Chandler (Eaton). I know he's a freshman but he's got plenty of innings under his belt. He just needs to do what he needs to do. He doesn't have to do anything special. (He needs to) just come in and throw strikes, keep us in the ballgame and let our hitters score some runs. Our hitters can't keep quiet the whole weekend, I don't think."

LEWIS BREAKS RECORD: Midland College freshman reliever set the single-season school record for most appearances with 25 when he came in relief of Hon in the second game, breaking Jake Bateman's record he set in 2012.

Lewis allowed just one hit in 1 2/3 scoreless innings.

Franklin got on the board with two outs in the fifth, courtesy of a two-run single to right center by Andrew Prieve. It was the lone blemish on the afternoon for Blessie, who was otherwise dominant over five innings, as he allowed only three hits and struck out four on 84 pitches.

Blessie, who was making his fourth appearance and second start of the year, said his fastball command was key to establishing control early and overcoming four Rebel errors on the afternoon. The University of Nebraska signee worked to both sides of the plate and walked just two batters.

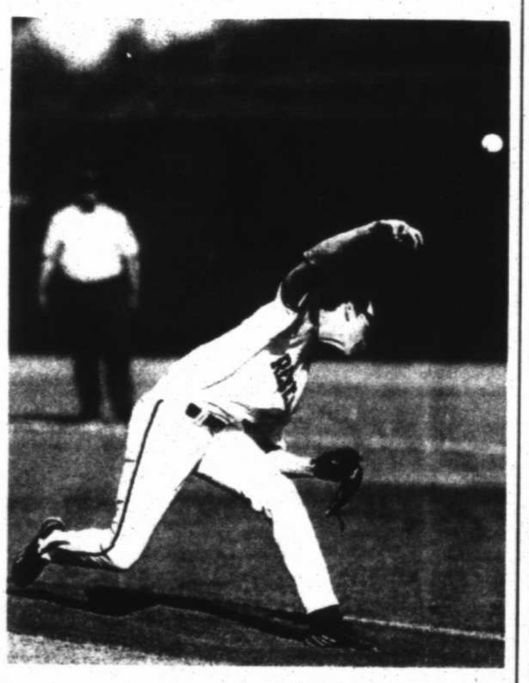

"As long as I could located the fastball and rely on my defense behind me (I'd be okay)," Blessie said. "They are going to get the job done. As long as I'm throwing strikes, my defense will get me out of it."

Said Roper of Blessie's outing: "He was great. When you get a start like that, you get a little momentum. I was very happy for him."

Becker finished 3-for-3 with an RBI and a run, while Pederson was 1-for-3. Lee senior right-hander Dylan Drace fired two scoreless innings in the sixth and seventh, striking out two.

All four of Franklin's hits in the game were singles.

Merryman leads Rangers to bi-district win over Fabens

By Jaydon Hart
MRT Correspondent

Led by the excellent pitching from Dawson Merryman, Greenwood shut out Fabens, 9-0, in a Class 4A bi-district round Friday night at Greenwood high school.

Knowing his teammates had his back, Merryman dominated from the mound posting a stat line of six innings pitched, 12 strikeouts, no earned runs and two hits.

"I think my team helped me out a lot throughout the whole game, they stood behind me," Merryman said. "I knew that I could count on them to make plays, so I wasn't worried about anything, I just got into a groove and stayed in there."

He also scored the Rangers' first run of the game in the bottom first inning by reaching base on a walk and then eventually scoring on a Josh Urias single.

While Merryman continued to throw lights out from the mound, the Rangers added two more runs in the bottom the third off a line drive to right field by Brooks Lundgren.

In the bottom of the fifth Lundgren hit an RBI single, giving Greenwood (11-14-2) a 4-0 lead over Fabens.

Landgren didn't stop there as he continued to produce runs for the Rangers, adding another two of the five runs scored in the home half of the sixth to lock up the Rangers' win over Fabens.

Lundgren finished 2-for-4 with five RBI.

"Dawson was slinging it, he did a great job on the mound," Greenwood coach Stephen Rodriguez said. "He competes when he is up there, and we expect nothing form the best from him. He works his butt off and did a really good job for us tonight.

"(Lundgren) came in clutch, made plays, and had quality at-bats. We go into the game thinking hit lineouts and hitting the ball hard. He took that plan, executed it, and did a great job."

With the win Greenwood advances to the area round to take on Bushland, which defeated Lamesa 18-8 to sweep the series and advance. The time, day and place of that series is still to be determined.

"We always want to try to get better," Rodriguez said. "We want to make sure were staying consistent and playing our best baseball at this time of the year. Everyone in the playoffs at this point is good, so it isn't going to get any easier. So, we just have to make sure were getting better every day."

Texas Rangers' Nomar Mazara follows through on a solo home run against the Boston Red Sox during the fourth inning of a baseball game Friday in Arlington.

Porcello 8 Ks, Betts 13th homer in Red Sox win at Texas

By Stephen Hawkins
Associated Press

ARLINGTON— Mookie Betts hit his MLB-best 13th homer and Rick Porcello struck out eight in six innings while matching the AL lead with his fifth victory to help the Boston Red Sox beat the Texas Rangers 5-1 on Friday night.

Rafael Devers hit two of the four solo homers off 44-year-old right-hander Bartolo Colon (1-1). J.D. Martinez also went deep for the Red Sox, whose 23-9 record is the best in the majors.

Betts homered for the fifth time in three games, putting Boston up 3-1 with his leadoff shot in the sixth. He has gone deep in each of the first two games at Texas after his three-homer game Wednesday at Fenway Park against Kansas City.

Nomar Mazara homered in his fourth consecutive game for Texas, a career-best streak for the 23-year-old slugger who has seven homers this season. That was the lone run, and one of only three hits off Porcello (5-0) in his six innings. Mazara also had a double.

After winning his first four starts, Porcello was coming off consecutive no-decisions in which he went at least seven innings both times. He won each of his first five starts in 2016 on way to 22 wins and the AL Cy Young Award.

Colon struck out four without a walk in seven innings with the only runs coming on the four homers. He threw 91 pitches, with only 22 balls while facing 26 batters.

The portly right-hander, who turns 45 on May 24, has 241 career wins, two short of matching Juan Marichal for the most by a pitcher born in the Dominican Republic.

Martinez led off the second with a towering flyball that ricocheted off the top of the 14-foot wall in left and into the seats. Devers broke a 1-1 tie leading off the fifth, and homered again in the seventh.

Three for Rick

The Red Sox have won 26 consecutive games when scoring at least three runs for Porcello, a streak that dates back to 2016. In his last 37 starts receiving that much run support, Porcello is 31-0; the Red Sox are 36-1.

Trainer's room

Red Sox: INF Brock Holt (left hamstring) will remain with the team through the weekend before a short rehab stint. He has been on the disabled list since April 27.

Rangers: 2B Rougned Odor, out since April 10 because of a left hamstring, is set to start a rehab assignment Saturday at Double-A Frisco. He will be the DH in his first game for the RoughRiders.

Up next

A fresh start for Rangers lefty Cole Hamels (1-4), who had four losses by the end of April for the first time in his career. The Red Sox counter in the third game of the four-game series with lefty Eduardo Rodriguez (3-0), who is expected to return from the family medical leave list without missing a start.

RAYS 6, BLUE JAYS 2

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Relief pitcher Ryan Yarbrough made his case for a spot in Tampa Bay's injury-depleted rotation by throwing five scoreless innings in a 6-2 win over the Toronto Blue Jays on Friday night.

Johnny Field homered off J.A. Happ (4-2) and Brad Miller added a two-run shot to put it out of reach in the eighth. Wilson Ramos, Denard Span and Adeiny Hechavarria also drove in runs for the Rays, who've won 10 of 13 after a slow start.

Yarbrough (2-1) is a 26-year-old rookie who may wind up in the rotation after allowing a single to the first batter he faced — Dalton Pompey in the third inning — then retiring 15 in a row.

The left-hander, who manager Kevin Cash earlier said was a likely candidate to replace injured starter Yonny Chirinos, struck out four before being replaced in the eighth by Sergio Romo, who yielded a solo homer to Aledmys Diaz. Alex Colome worked the ninth in a non-save situation.

While the Rays planned to open the season with a four-man rotation and use bullpen days as needed for a fifth starter, injuries to Nathan Eovaldi and now Chirinos have forced Cash at times to go with three starters and a nine-man bullpen that includes Andrew Kittredge and three other long relievers.

Kittredge made his third start Friday night, allowing one run and two hits in two innings.

YANKEES 7, INDIANS 6

NEW YORK — Rookie Miguel Andujar flared an RBI single with two outs in the ninth inning and the New York Yankees, after blowing two late leads, beat the Cleveland Indians 7-6 Friday night for their 13th win in 14 games.

Gleyber Torres, at 21, became the youngest Yankees player to hit a home run since 1969. He connected in the first matchup between these teams since New York won the decisive Game 5 of the AL Division Series in Cleveland last October.

Aaron Judge homered, doubled and drew a bases-loaded walk in the eighth that put the Yankees ahead 6-5. Cleveland tied it in the ninth, scoring on the second wild pitch of the inning by Aroldis Chapman (1-0), who showed frustration after the ball got by catcher Gary Sanchez. Sanchez has allowed 20 wild pitches this season to go along with five passed balls.

Giancarlo Stanton doubled off Alexi Ogando (0-1) to begin the Yankees ninth, and closer Cody Allen relieved. With two outs and runners on second and third, Andujar looped a single to shallow right-center field.

Down 5-0 in the eighth, the Indians suddenly pulled even. Bradley Zimmer hit a three-run shot off Chasen Shreve, and Jose Ramirez launched a two-run drive off David Robertson.

ROYALS 4, TIGERS 2

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Jorge Soler drove in the go-ahead runs with a two-out single in the eighth inning, bailing out a chagrined ballboy and giving the Kansas City Royals a 4-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers on Friday night.

The Tigers had taken a 2-0 lead in the top half of the eighth when the ballboy down the first-base line mistakenly picked up a fair ball, resulting in a ground-rule double. Blaine Boyer (1-0) walked Victor Martinez before serving up JaCoby Jones' hard-hit double to left field.

The Royals' answered when Francisco Liriano, who was stingy all night, walked Cheslor Cuthbert to start the eighth. Liriano was lifted for Daniel Stumpf (1-1), who gave up a pair of singles and was yanked for reliever Joe Jimenez, who promptly threw a wild pitch to score a run.

Whit Merrifield knotted the game moments later with a sacrifice fly, and Soler's single through the left side of the infield brought home two runs — and gave that embarrassed ballboy a bit of relief.

Royals closer Kelvin Herrera worked a perfect ninth, getting some help from Soler's spectacular catch in foul territory down the right-field line, to pick up his sixth save.

ROCKIES 8, METS 7

NEW YORK — Charlie Blackmon homered as Colorado raced to a big early lead, and the Rockies hung on to beat the New York Mets 8-7 on Friday night for their third straight win.

Hours after the Mets said they are cutting ties with former ace Matt Harvey, another New York starter struggled. Zack Wheeler (2-2) allowed eight runs and 10 hits in six innings, raising his ERA to 5.79.

Antonio Marquez (2-3) allowed two runs and six hits in six innings with eight strikeouts and no walks, retiring 15 of 17 batters in on stretch.

Down 8-2, the Mets closed with two runs in the eighth and three in the ninth. With runners on second and third, Wade Davis struck out Michael Conforto for his 12th save in 13 chances.

While the Rockies improved to 13-8 on the road, the Mets lost their fourth in a row and have dropped 12 of 18 after an 11-1 start.

The collapse by the Detroit bullpen squandered a stellar outing by Liriano, who gave up a run on three hits and two walks.

It also added to the misery that began before the game, when the Tigers had to put slugger Miguel Cabrera on the disabled list with a strained right hamstring.

Colorado took a 5-0 lead in the first on Nolan Arenado's RBI single, Carlos Gonzalez's sacrifice fly, Trevor Story's run-scoring double and Daniel Castro's two-run single.

GIANTS 9, BRAVES 4

ATLANTA — Jose Bautista doubled in his first at-bat of the season and Atlanta set a SunTrust Park attendance record in Ronald Acuña Jr.'s home debut, but the San Francisco Giants snapped the Braves' five-game winning streak 9-4 on Friday night.

Freddie Freeman put Atlanta ahead 2-0 with a two-run homer in the first, then Bautista followed with a double off the wall, thrilling a crowd of 41,807 on hand to see the division-leading Baby Braves following a stellar road trip. That's the most fans since the Braves opened their new park last season.

It was all San Francisco after that.

Gregor Blanco hit a two-run triple during a six-run second inning against Mike Foltynewicz (2-2), and Chris Stratton held Atlanta in check over six innings.

Stratton (3-2) gave up six hits, three runs and two walks and struck out six to recover from a 15-6 loss to the Los Angeles Dodgers in his previous start. He mostly shut down the Braves, who began the night in first place in the NL East and leading the majors in slugging percentage.

Foltynewicz endured the worst of his six starts this season, allowing nine hits, six runs, two walks and striking out four in five innings.

Bautista, whose contract was selected from Triple-A Gwinnett, went 1 for 4 with two strikeouts in his Atlanta debut. He was playing his first game of the season after remaining unsigned until mid-April amid a historically slow free agent market.

NATIONALS 7, PHILLIES 3

WASHINGTON — Bryce Harper hit two more homers from the leadoff spot and the Washington Nationals beat the Philadelphia Phillies 7-3 Friday night for their sixth straight win.

Harper opened the Washington first by lining a fastball from Nick Pivetta (1-2) to the opposite field for his 11th homer of the season. With a runner on first in the third inning, Harper crushed a changeup 473 feet to dead center.

He has four homers in four games as the leadoff batter. After flying out to deep right-center in the third, Harper flied to deep center in the sixth and to left in the eighth.

Matt Adams added a two-run homer for Washington and made a leaping catch at the wall to rob Maikel Franco of at least extra bases.

The game was delayed 39 minutes by rain in the bottom of the fourth.

Gio Gonzalez (4-2) worked five scoreless innings, allowing two hits with five strikeouts.

Carlos Santana and Maikel Franco hit back-to-back homers in the sixth for the Phillies.

In the shortest of his 33 career starts, Pivetta allowed six runs on five hits and three walks in one inning plus three batters.

REDS 4, MARLINS 1

CINCINNATI — Eugenio Suarez surprised everyone by missing only 16 games because of a broken right thumb. His hitting spree since his return has been just as impressive.

Suarez hit a three-run homer that extended his surge, and Sal Romano made another barehand play on the mound Friday night, leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 4-1 victory over the Miami Marlins.

The Reds ended a three-game losing streak and improved to 8-24, their worst start since the Great Depression.

Suarez homered into the upper deck in left field in the first inning off Wei-Yin Chen (1-1), who lasted only four innings in his second start of the season. Adam Duvall followed with another homer that ended his 0-for-9 slump.

CARDINALS 3, CUBS 2

ST. LOUIS — Miles Mikolas continued his early season dominance of the National League Central, throwing seven shutout innings in the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 win over the Chicago Cubs on Friday night.

The win is the third straight for the Cardinals, their second in three games this season against a Chicago team they lost 14 of 19 games against a year ago. The Cubs, meanwhile, have now lost three games in a row for the first time this season.

Mikolas (4-0) allowed seven hits in his sixth start after signing with St. Louis during the offseason. Each of the right-hander's starts has come against Central teams, and he's allowed two or fewer runs in four straight games — throwing seven innings in each.

After pitching for three seasons in Japan, Mikolas' ERA fell to 2.70 in the win. He didn't walk a batter for the third straight start and has now allowed only two walks in 40 innings this season. Tommy Pham provided the scoring for St. Louis with a three-run home run off Chicago starter Jose Quintana (3-2) in the second inning. All three of the runs were unearned after an error by Cubs shortstop Javier Baez, his eighth error of the season and third in his last five games.

PIRATES 6, BREWERS 4

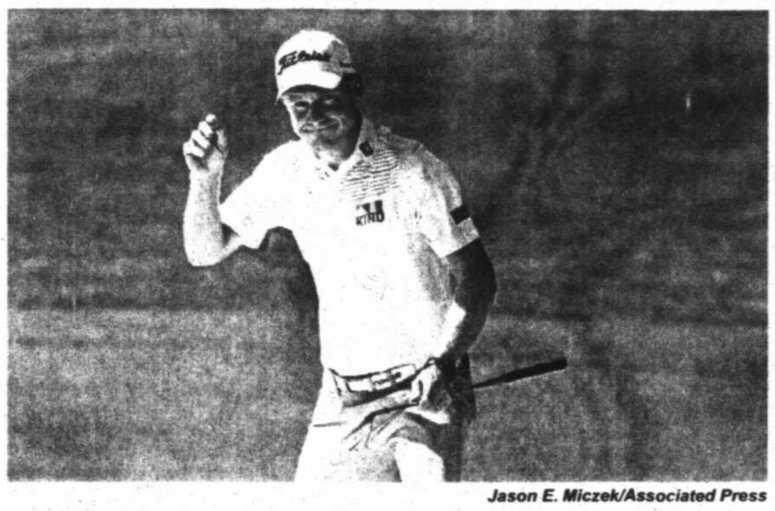

MILWAUKEE — Starling Marte hit a two-run, inside-the-park homer, and rookie Nick Kingham won his second straight big league start in the Pittsburgh Pirates' 6-4 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers on Friday night.

Kingham (2-0) struck out seven but allowed six hits and four runs before being chased with one out in the Brewers' three-run sixth.

Kingham was far less effective than in his sparking big league debut on Sunday, when he carried a perfect game into the seventh in a 5-0 win over St. Louis. But homers from Corey Dickerson and Marte off Milwaukee's Junior Guerra (2-2) gave the young right-hander a boost and helped end a four-game losing streak.

Kingham was pulled after allowing Domingo Santana's two-run homer, which cut Pittsburgh's lead to one.

Marte's fly caromed off a part of the fence set at an angle in left-center. The ball skipped past outfielder Lorenzo Cain as Marte raced around the bases for his first career inside-the park home run and a 5-1 lead in the fifth.

Peter Malnati waves to the crowd after his shot on the fourth hole during the second round of the Wells Fargo Championship golf tournament at Quail Hollow Club in Charlotte, N.C., Friday.

Malnati leads Wells Fargo as Woods survives the cut

By Doug Ferguson
Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Peter Malnati and Tiger Woods both had reason to celebrate on the ninth green at Quail Hollow at the end of their rounds.

Malnati was coming off two straight birdies to take the lead Friday in the Wells Fargo Championship when he put his 5-iron in a deep bunker to the right, with the green running away from him. He was trying to blast out to 15 feet, but he got the club too much under the ball and feared for the worst until it cleared the lip by inches.

Malnati emphatically wiped his hand across his brow, made the 6-foot par putt for a 3-under 68 and had a one-shot lead over Jason Day and Aaron Wise.

"Pretty scary when I hit it," he said. "I got away with it, looked like a genius."

Hours earlier, Woods stood over an 18-foot putt on No. 9, his final hole of another ordinary round that up until then featured no birdies. He finally made one, and stretched out both hands in mock celebration when it dropped.

"I'm on a hot streak right now. I made the last putt," he said.

Never mind that it was the only putt he made longer than 5 feet. Or that he was nine shots out of the lead in a tie for 48th, his worst position through 36 holes in his last five tournaments. At least he was still playing on the weekend at Quail Hollow, where he had missed the cut his previous two trips. That putt made certain of it, though Woods made it the cut with one shot to spare.

Rory McIlroy and Phil Mickelson also had to sweat it out.

McIlroy, the only two-time winner at the Wells Fargo Championship, celebrated his 29th birthday on Friday by matching his worst score at Quail Hollow with a 76, including three bogeys over the last five holes.

He was in the same spot as Woods, nine shots out of the lead.

"Struggled with my game, struggled to get my ball in the fairway, made some pretty bad mistakes, didn't birdie any of the par 5s," McIlroy said. "It just was one of those days where I just couldn't get anything going."

Mickelson wasn't that wild — three bogeys, two birdies, another 72, and he made the cut with one shot to spare.

Malnati rarely is without a smile, even though this is the last year of his exemption from winning an opposite-field event in Mississippi in the fall of 2015. He had reason to celebrate the par, if for no other reason than it was the first time he has led after any round except the final round when he won the Sanderson Farms Championship.

He is not long or regarded as a pure striker of the golf ball, which is not a great combination at this level. Making it worse was that Malnati was caught up in results, which have not been good, and he wanted to get back to trying only to be at his very best over every shot.

"I always have fun. I always smile. I love my job, and I even love my job when I suck at it," he said. "But having fun and being relaxed aren't the same thing. There's a lot of anxiety, there's a lot of really strong desire, there's a lot of pressure that I put on myself."

He was at his best over the last three holes Friday.

Malnati got a hybrid high enough in the air to land softly on the firm green at the par-5 seventh hole, setting up a 25-foot eagle attempt that he narrowly made. Facing a delicate pitch on the next hole from about 50 yards, to a slightly elevated green with the pin on a slope, he got that to 10 feet and holed the putt.

And then came his par save from the bunker, which felt like a birdie.

Wise, the former NCAA champion from Oregon, shot 32 on the back nine with three birdies over the last five holes. He made the turn and was looking to stay in the lead until a sloppy bogey on the par-5 seventh, the second-easiest at Quail Hollow.

The more daunting names on the leaderboard were right behind the final group of Malnati and Wise — Day (67) also was one shot behind, with Paul Casey (68) and former Masters champion Charl Schwartzel (67) another shot back.

Day won at Torrey Pines in a playoff earlier this year, the first step on the road back for the former No. 1 player in the world. He wasn't overly spectacular because Quail Hollow hasn't allowed a score better than 65 so far. He made birdie on the two scoring holes on the front nine. He holed a bunker shot for eagle on the par-5 10th. What really pleased him was a 7-iron from 195 yards to pin-high on the par-3 17th, and the birdie putt he made from just inside 30 feet.

"I was saying yesterday the iron play just needs to tighten up. I think once that starts to happen, then things are going to switch pretty quickly," Day said. "And it was good to be able to come to a golf course like this where I know it's very difficult. I think everyone else is obviously having a tough time with it, too. It's a major championship golf course, so you've got to come out and be patient with yourself and take your chances when you get them."

Celine Boutier's 1-under leads rain-delayed LPGA Texas Classic

Associated Press

THE COLONY — France's Celine Boutier shot a 1-under 70 Friday to grab the lead among the 12 golfers who finished the rain-delayed first round of the LPGA Texas Classic.

After Thursday's play was cancelled and Friday's began following an 8½-hour delay because of rain, the tournament was cut from 72 holes to 36. All 144 golfers will play both rounds with the payout limited to the top 70 and ties. Half the field got on the course Friday.

Boutier, in her second year on tour after playing for Duke, had four birdies and three bogeys on the 6,475-yard Old American Golf Club course that's hosting the event for the first time.

South Korea's Sung Hyun Park shot a 6-under through 14 holes. Park, ranked fifth in the world and the top ranked player in the field, recorded seven birdies and one bogey. South Korea's Jenny Shin and Sei Young Kim were at 4-under through 14 and 12 holes, respectively. Shin's only career LPGA Tour win came two years ago at the tournament's previous home, Las Colinas Country Club in Irving.

The first round was postponed from Thursday after only 34 golfers completed one or two holes because of morning rain and afternoon wind.

This will be the LPGA Tour's first 36-hole event since the Bahamas-LPGA Classic in May 2013, which encountered flooding.

Langer races ahead at Insperity with course-record

Associated Press

THE WOODLANDS, — Bernhard Langer felt like his game was rounding into form after a slow start to the year by his lofty standards, and it all came together on a calm, humid day at The Woodlands Country Club.

The 60-year-old Langer shot a course-record, 9-under 63 on Friday to take a three-stroke lead at the Insperity Invitational.

Seeking his first victory of the year after seven wins in 2017, Langer began unceremoniously when his opening tee shot ricocheted backward off a tree. He still managed a birdie on the par-5 first hole and turned in 32. On the back nine, he birdied five of the first seven holes — narrowly missing eagle attempts on two par-5s — to get to 9 under and distance himself from the field.

"Starting on nine, I was pretty much putting for birdie on every hole," Langer said. "I made some and missed some but continued to play well and give myself chances. The last 10 holes were really good. I don't think I hit one loose shot.

"I've actually been playing nicely the last few weeks. I played well in the Masters and was in two playoffs out here (on the PGA Tour Champions) and lost them both. I felt like my game was in fairly good shape. I was very happy with how I struck the ball the last two or three hours."

The German star won the Houston-area event in 2007 for the first of his 36 victories on the 50-and-over tour. He repeated as champion in 2008, its first year at The Woodlands, and won again in 2014.

Bob Johnson went from Wisconsin to Calgary in 1982 and had a 234-188-58 record in six seasons as an NHL head coach. Johnson team's made the playoffs in all six of his seasons, five in Calgary and his only season in Pittsburgh for a Stanley Cup title in 1991.

Nill said his final list of 10 candidates includes five veteran coaches and five others who could be given an opportunity as an NHL coach.

"He's a guy that's been on our radar screen," Nill said of Montgomery. "He had that passion, that fire. He's built his resume up the right way. It's about winning, and he's found a way to do it, and especially a way to do it in today's game."

Wallace making strides early in NASCAR season

By Dan Gelston
Associated Press

DOVER, Del. — Darrell Wallace Jr. was a budding photographer his first few years at the track, snapping away with his Canon 60D to show an insider's view of NASCAR.

The hobby is on hold. Wallace fills his social media feeds with photos shot on his mobile phone. The fancy camera still has the lens cap on.

"I just don't have time for it now," Wallace said. "This Cup schedule, it takes all your time away."

Wallace's career has come into focus this season in his first full Cup season and he finds himself on the other side of the camera as one of the sport's media darlings. The 24-year-old Wallace has given Richard Petty Motorsports a needed dose of enthusiasm and plenty of optimism with the kind of results that show perhaps better days are ahead for the famed No. 43 car.

"He can be as good as anybody," Richard Petty said.

High praise coming from a Hall of Fame driver who was at NASCAR's first race.

Better known as "Bubba," Wallace would at least like to be better than 22nd in the standings when the season comes to a close. But making it to Cup and having the security of a ride is a victory itself following a career full of fits and starts through the developmental ranks. Wallace made his second-tier Xfinity debut in 2012 and made his first four Cup starts last year for RPM as a fill-in for an injured Aric Almirola.

"You hear to so much about him, you'd think he's been here forever," Petty said.

Wallace has maximized his exposure through his nearly 173,000 Twitter followers, a docu-series on the Facebook Watch show page that ran around the Daytona 500 and the natural attention that comes as one of the few black drivers in NASCAR history. He is already the best of the bunch and hasn't been distracted by the added scrutiny that comes along with his slice of history.

"I've enjoyed it, from on track stuff to off track stuff, getting a lot more attention and kind of growing your brand," Wallace said.

Wallace knows winning can change his career.

He flirted with contention in a few races and led laps at Bristol (6) and last week at Talladega (5) but failed to build those runs at the top into a top-10 result.

Still, Wallace was second in the Daytona 500 and put the sport on notice that he was no ordinary rookie.

"I think that set the bar high for outsiders looking in," Wallace said. "For us, we were just like, great race, that means nothing, let's go to work."

Wallace is hardly alone when it comes to NASCAR's prominently pushed collection of blossoming young drivers — the "Young Guns" as they've been tagged — who can't win. There was so much hype at Daytona around Wallace and other early 20-somethings (such as Chase Elliott and Ryan Blaney) that veterans sort of got lost in the shuffle. That was about the last time they lost anything — former Cup champs Kyle Busch and Kevin Harvick each have three wins.

Racing against the big boys has meant some adjustments. The biggest surprise?

"Just how aggressive this sport is," Wallace said. "It's a challenge. Once you get to this level, you have to be the aggressive one."

RPM and Wallace are on a bit of a learning curve, not just with each other, but with an organization that underwent an overhaul that included a switch to Chevrolet and a technical alliance with Richard Childress Racing.

"He's making rookie mistakes and we're making mistakes because we don't know him that good, either," Petty said. "If we get all the mistakes behind us, we're going to be in good shape. He's learning. He's racing good. But then he misses a gear or comes down pit road too fast or misses the pit."

Wallace will start 26th in Sunday's race at Dover, a rare misstep at a track where he has had great results in other series. Wallace won two poles and finished second in six races at Dover in the Xfinity Series.

He was still a hit at Dover, signing for a steady stream of autograph seekers and posing for selfies. .

Filly Monomoy Girl edges Wonder Gadot for Kentucky Oaks win

By Gary B. Graves
Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — After five relatively easy victories, Monomoy Girl proved it could also handle challenges in the Kentucky Oaks.

The filly first overcame an outside post start before gutting out a close win to maintain its hot start.

Monomoy Girl took charge near the far turn, and the filly outdueled Wonder Gadot down the stretch to win the $1 million Kentucky Oaks by half a length on Friday at Churchill Downs.

A race expected to match the top two 3-year-old fillies in No. 2 Monomoy Girl and points leader Midnight Bisou, the morning-line favorites, soon became Monomoy Girl's to lose. The chestnut filly charged from the outside No. 14 post into contention and the lead and held ground in a thrilling side-by-side stretch battle with Wonder Gadot before Monomoy Girl kept the small edge to the wire.

Monomoy Girl entered the Oaks with five wins in six starts by a combined margin of 20½ lengths. Its latest triumph was much tighter, which made the signature win before 113,510 all the more satisfying.

"It's great, you know," jockey Florent Geroux said. "She was in a war, she had only one try.

Skip Dickstein/Times Union

Monomoy Girl with jockey Florent Geroux, right holds off Wonder Godot with jockey John Velazquez to win the 144th running of the Kentucky Oaks at Churchill Downs Friday in Louisville.

"This filly has been very special for us, known for a long time. We've been pointing to this race since November, to get here in good shape and winning. She was just outstanding."

The filly's win first had to be confirmed by racing stewards.

Wonder Gadot's jockey, John Velazquez, filed a foul claim against Monomoy Girl for a bump down the stretch. The claim was quickly dismissed, giving trainer Brad Cox a defining hometown win in the 144th running of the Kentucky Oaks.

"Obviously, the biggest victory in my career," said Cox, who had two other entrants in Sassy Sienna (sixth) and Kelly's Humor (eighth).

Monomoy Girl covered 1 1/8 mile in 1:49.13 and paid $7.20, $4.60 and $3.60.

Wonder Gadot returned $14 and $7.20. Midnight Bisou finished third, paying $3.20 while having its three-race winning streak snapped.

The biggest surprise was that Wonder Gadot, initially a 20-1 shot, gave Monomoy Girl its biggest challenge instead of Midnight Bisou. The California-based filly entered with three wins by 10¼ combined lengths, fueling expectations of a two-horse race.

Midnight Bisou came on late, but behind the two other fillies that battled hard in the dirt.

Monomoy Girl's main question was how it would handle an outside post and stake its place against 19 other horses fighting for position. Cox, who grew up blocks from Churchill Downs, wasn't fazed. He believed his horse had the speed to get into contention along with the patience to navigate traffic.

Monomoy Girl ultimately had no trouble running outside the crowd before gaining position near the rail and holding on. A brief wait followed before stewards upheld the finish, which sparked a celebration among Geroux, Cox and Monomoy Girl's owners.

Velazquez felt justified in claiming foul.

"At least I have to take a chance on it," he said. "I mean, I'm fighting the whole way around and all of a sudden the last sixteenth of a mile she goes back to her left lead because she got bumped."

Monomoy Girl's Oaks win came hours after last year's winner, Abel Tasman, was beaten in its return to Churchill Downs as a 4-year-old.

The filly finished fourth among six horses in the Grade 1 La Troienne Stakes, in which Salty beat Farrell by a head.

Kentucky Derby winner Always Dreaming also had a tough day. The colt and race favorite in the Grade 2 Alysheba Stakes got out fast and battled eventual winner Backyard Heaven through the final turn but faded to a fifth-place finish.

How every 2018 Kentucky Derby horse got its name

By Linda Blackford
Lexington Herald-Leader

Aidan and Ike Green run Ruis Racing's Montana ranch, where they break and raise Mick Ruis' yearlings. A couple of years ago, Ike Green had picked out a promising colt by Medaglia D'Oro, and brought him to the ranch for training.

"We would sit in the living room and watch him gallop across the pasture so effortless and just float past the other horses with ease and that is right when the summer Olympics were on," Aidan Green recalled recently. "My husband said 'he's just like Usain Bolt, how he gets in front and just starts smiling. So we thought Bolt D'Oro was a pretty good fitting name for him."

Not all names for race horses come that easily. In fact, it can be a complicated process because of rules set by the Jockey Club, which registers all Thoroughbred racehorses. Those include no famous people, nothing vulgar, and nothing already in rotation. There are 450,000 names in the Jockey Club database; owners can plug in their choices and find out if it's already in use.

But names are important, both for symbolism and public appeal. Like Bolt d'Oro, many names hearken back to famous ancestors. Magnum Moon is named for his sire, Malibu Moon. Plus his owners, Lawana and Robert Low, are wine collectors, so a big bottle like a magnum of wine or champagne made sense. Good Magic's dam is Glinda the Good and her dam was Magical Flash.

Some big corporate racing outfits will reserve names in that database, holding them for a horse that's appropriate. That's what happened with Justify, currently one of the favorites in the Derby field. WinStar President Elliot Walden had reserved that name for just the right horse, explained Bethany Wurl, WinStar's marketing coordinator. "We knew Justify was the one after we purchased him as a yearling in the Keeneland September sale."

WinStar has two more horses in the Derby this year, Audible and Noble Indy. Speaking of corporate, Noble Indy was submitted by Howard Lewis, a member of Stablemates, WinStar's fan membership program. The name was perfect, Wurl said, referring to Noble Indy's noble bloodlines of sire Take Charge Indy, who was sired by Belmont Stakes winner and Horse of the Year A.P. Indy, and dam, Noble Maz.

"I get emotional to realize that I had the opportunity to name a magnificent thoroughbred that may run in the Derby — Noble Indy!" Lewis said.

Audible was a strong one-word name referring to the football term, but after he won the Holy Bull Stakes, Wurl said he got a lot of national attention. The audio book company Audible started getting alerts on Google. "They looked in to it and realized it was a horse on the Derby trail, not their company," Wurl said. "From then on a relationship was built and audible.com ended up sponsoring Audible. Forbes even wrote a story about it."

Combatant was not named for his bloodline, which includes his dam Border Dispute, says Winchell Thoroughbreds manager David Fiske. "I think we just pulled it out of the ether," admitted Fiske. "But I also think Ron Winchell, I think he likes to put strong sounding names on his colts, in case they ever have to retire to stud."

Sometimes it's much more personal. Solomini is named for one of Ahmed Zayat's grandsons, Solomon, while My Boy Jack is named for co-owner Sol Kumin's son. According to the Breeders' Cup, Free Drop Billy comes from a golf term for moving the ball before swinging; owner Dennis Albaugh's golf partner Bill Collins enjoys free drops, so they named the horse for him.

Lone Sailor is named for the late Tom Benson, owner of the New Orleans Saints, whose wife Gayle now runs the racing stable. "Mr. Benson won the prestigious Lone Sailor Award from the US Navy a few years ago and we have tried to name a few of his horses after his military service," said Saints spokesman Greg Bensel.

Mike Repole founded vitaminwater and Body Armor sports drink and has referenced that background before, like 2011 Derby runner Stay Thirsty. Repole co-owns this year's contender Vino Rosso, Italian for red wine.

Promises Fulfilled comes from a very personal story, according to Kellie Reilly of kentuckyderby.com. Owners Robert and Deborah Baron were celebrating their 44th wedding anniversary around the time they bought the horse, which gave Robert Baron the idea of a name.

Ron Lombardi, owner of Firenze Fire, said his daughter designs an Italian shoe line. "The two of us travel a few times a year for her business and we were in Florence Italy when I needed to name a few horses, hence Firenze," Lombardi said. "Also at that time Tom Hanks was filming the movie "Inferno" … … Fire … … .Firenze Fire."

The owners of Mendelssohn, part of the Coolmore breeding empire based in Ireland, have hundreds of racehorses around the world, and often pick famous people and places, like champions Galileo, Dylan Thomas and George Washington. So acclaimed 19th century composer Felix Mendelssohn certainly fits. Another famous place, the storied Hofburg Palace in Vienna, the glittery center of the Hapsburg dynasty, is the basis of Hofburg the horse.

Famed Calumet Farm has produced many one-word names in the past few years, such as Sonneteer and Patch. Add Bravazo. The translation for bravaza is "awesome" in Spanish.

A particular horse, like Bolt d'Oro can prove the inspiration. According to Enticed's owners, Godolphin, he was named in the spirit of his dam, It's Tricky, who often had to be "enticed" or persuaded to do the right thing.

For Larry Best, Instilled Regard's name represents "an attitude about life," he said. "What it means is, I'm going to try to instill it in my daughter: Always have respect for your competition and others, always lose well, but always do your best to win whatever race you're in. But do it with respect and admiration for everybody else in the race." Best said that his horses' names "just come to me. I can't explain it. I love the horse, it's a classy horse, so I wanted something that supported the class of the horse."

Then there's the mixture of inspiration and aspiration that gave John Oxley — who owned and named the 2001 Derby winner Monarchos — the idea for Flameaway. "His flaming chestnut coat was part of it," Oxley said. Also, back along his bloodline is the mare Flame of Tara. "Also, I've always loved the name Whirlaway," who won the Triple Crown in 1941.

Oxley has been in the racing game a long time, and said naming his horses never gets easier. "For me it gets harder, I've named so many horses since I got started," he said. "I just wonder is there another name I can find that I like?"

Johnny Sauter defends title in Truck Series race at Dover

Associated Press

DOVER, Del. — Johnny Sauter led 137 laps on Friday and pulled away on an overtime restart to defend his trophy in a Truck Series race at Dover International Speedway.

Sauter narrowly split two spinning trucks with 20 laps to go and briefly lost the lead on the final regulation restart to 19-year-old Noah Gragson. But the two collided while battling for the lead with two laps remaining and Gragson hit the wall.

Matt Crafton and Sauter, the last two winners at Dover, were on the front row for the restart in overtime and Sauter cruised to the victory.

Gragson, the pole-setter, led throughout the first stage and finished 20th. Justin Haley, David Gilliland and Harrison Burton completed the top five.

Stage two ended under caution with Sauter leading.

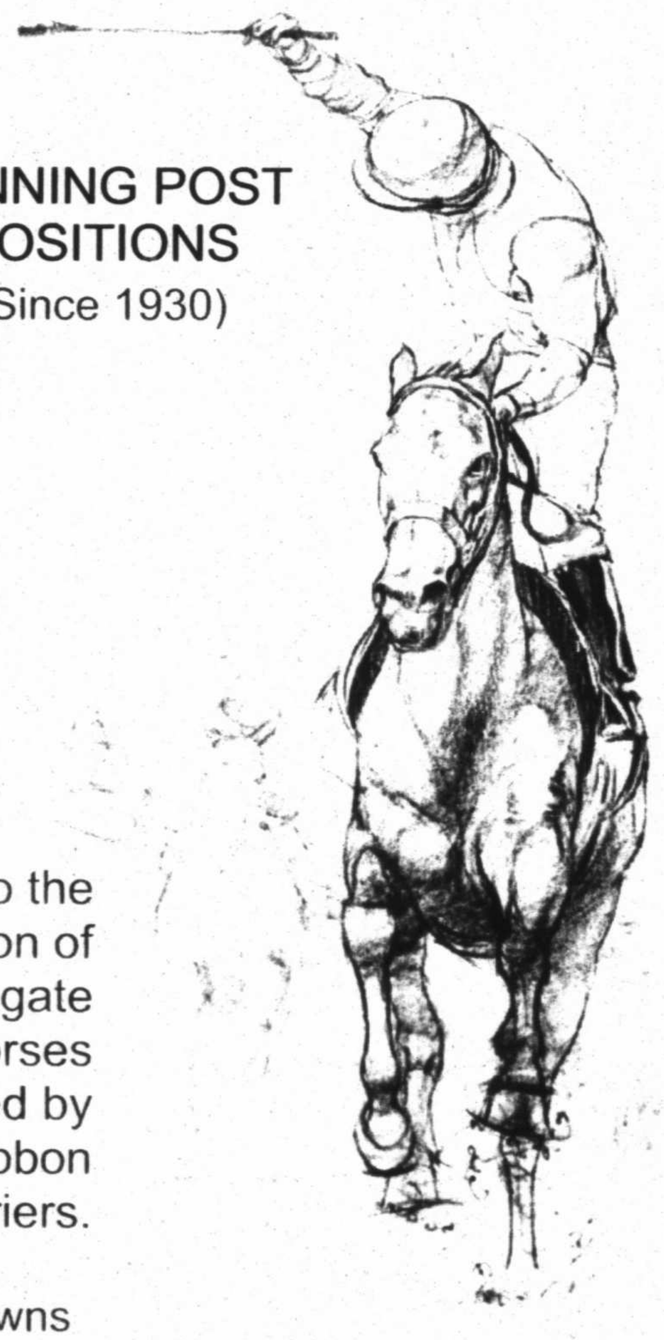

Jesse Little, son of Chad Little, briefly took the first lead of his NASCAR career by overtaking Sauter with 79 laps left, but was penalized for pitting outside the box and finished ninth.

In a position to win

Since 1930, posts 5 and 10 have produced the most Kentucky Derby winners, although no one has won from the rail since Ferdinand in 1986.

Justify has been made the favorite for the 144th running of the Kentucky Derby, with Europe-based Mendelssohn the second choice in a full field of 20 horses. Trained by four-time Derby winner Bob Baffert, Justify drew the No. 7 post.

DERBY

co-third choice at 6-1 with Mendelssohn on Friday. Along with Magnum Moon, Vino Rosso and Noble Indy were double-digit longshots for the trainer, who is tied with mentor D. Wayne Lukas for the most Derby starters with 48.

Mendelssohn has the least amount of time on the Churchill Downs dirt than any horse in the field. The Ireland-based colt made his first appearance Thursday — drawing attention with his screeching — after spending the first part of the week in quarantine for Aidan O'Brien. The trainer is 0 for 5 at the Derby, the biggest victory to elude him.

Mendelssohn was an 18 ½-length winner of the UAE Derby. His regal bloodlines and $3 million price tag suggest he would be a worthy champion, but no Europe-based horse has won the Derby.

My Boy Jack moved up to the 5-1 second choice in early wagering Friday. The closer is trained by Keith Desormeaux and ridden by Kent Desormeaux, a three-time Derby winner and Keith's brother.

Despite Good Magic's top-notch credentials, he was relegated to the 7-1 fifth choice on Friday. He won the Breeders' Cup Juvenile and claimed an Eclipse Award as last year's 2-year-old champion. The colt won the Blue Grass last month, one of six victories at six different tracks.

Getting the ideal trip in the Derby is critical, especially with the traffic from 20 horses making a chaotic charge into the first turn. Jockeys want to avoid anything that would prevent their horse from getting into rhythm, like being bumped, cut off or blocked.

"There's so many horses in the field that seem like they have good chances to win the race with a clean trip," said Chad Brown, who trains Good Magic. "I feel like we have one of them."

High school dropout Mick Ruis will try to become just the third owner-trainer to win. He has Bolt d'Oro, the colt named in part for Olympic champion sprinter Usain Bolt. Bolt d'Oro finished second to Justify in the Santa Anita Derby.

"This is the best we've had him," Ruis said.

Besides Baffert, four other Hall of Fame trainers are in the race: Steve Asmussen (Combatant), Jerry Hollendorfer (Instilled Regard), Lukas (Bravazo) and Bill Mott (Hofburg). Baffert and Lukas are tied for the second-most wins with four each. None of the others has won a Derby.

Hofburg is Mott's first Kentucky Derby runner in nine years. Hofburg has just three career starts, including a runner-up finish in the Florida Derby.

Justify tops list of leading contenders in Kentucky Derby

Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Justify tops the list of leading contenders to win the 144th Kentucky Derby.

Trainers have called this year's 20-horse field one of the deepest in a while, though the Run For The Roses might come down to five considered to have the best prospects over 1 1/4 miles at Churchill Downs.

A look at the leading contenders:

Justify

One of two Derby charges for trainer Bob Baffert, the colt enters as the 3-1 race favorite thanks to a 3-0 record and an impressive win in the Santa Anita Derby. Justify's challenge is putting aside 136 years of history and becoming the first Derby champion since Apollo in 1882 without racing as a 2-year-old. Hall of Fame jockey Mike Smith will try to keep him unbeaten and break the so-called "Apollo Curse." His No. 7 post position is an encouraging omen.

Mendelssohn

The 5-1 second choice has won his last three outings and four overall with a second in seven starts in Dubai, Great Britain and Ireland, where he's been based. He might need more than international experience to become the first European horse to win the Derby. Strong, outgoing and trained by Aiden O'Brien, Mendelssohn must quickly learn Churchill Downs after hitting the track for the first time Thursday following quarantine since his arrival. He'll start from the No. 14 post.

Kentucky Derby entrant Justify trains at Churchill Downs on Thursday in Louisville, Ky.

Magnum Moon

Trainer Todd Pletcher's hopes of winning consecutive Derbys look good with this unbeaten colt, who has won all four starts beneath Luis Saez by a combined 14 lengths. His most recent outing was a four-length triumph in the Grade 1 Arkansas Derby on April 14, which was impressive but also narrowed the turnaround window. One of four members of Pletcher's so-called Derby "Todd Squad," he has career earnings of $1,177,800. He'll start from the No. 16 post.

Audible

The jockey combination of Javier Castellano and John Velazquez has made another Pletcher pupil one of the horses to watch and a tempting betting choice at 8-1. The riders have two wins each over Audible's last four starts, though Castellano will ride him in the Derby while Velazquez guides Vino Rosso for Pletcher.
