AS OUTSTANDING MEMBER

Chamber Pays Tribute To Foster at Banquet

Colorado City's Chamber of Commerce looked to the next half century of service here Wednesday night amidst the urging to recover "lost lines of life."

Spotlight was focused on "tomorrow" at the chamber's 50th anniversary banquet, attended in Civic House by 340 persons from a dozen communities.

Urging the recovery of three lost lines of life—home life; sense of vocation and moral integrity—was Rt. Rev. John Hines of Houston, principal speaker.

Praised for extraordinary service already accomplished were G. D. Foster, applauded as the outstanding Chamber of Commerce member in 1959, and Jeff Taylor, stepping down after two consecutive years as chamber president.

The oustanding member plaque was awarded to Foster — local insurance man and retiring member of the chamber's directorate — by the incoming president, Caddell.

"I feel this selection will be shared by each of you," Caddell said as he called Foster to the speaker's platform, "for he has served unselfishly many years in the Chamber of Commerce.

"He has been an outstanding church and civic leader. He also has served very unselfishly this last year . . . and done a great job for our chamber."

Taylor received the outgoing president's plaque and a pen, presented by Caddell in appreciation for his outstanding service and leadership in 1957 and 1958.

The outgoing president, in turn, praised the directors and other workers who had served with him during the last two years.

He also paid tribute to Foster as "the finest gentleman I've worked with in Colorado City."

"But we should look forward to 1959," Taylor said, "instead of looking back to the year just finished."

He mentioned projects and accomplishments of the chamber in 1958, then pictured the job ahead.

"Unless the chamber officers and board has the cooperation of all its members," Taylor emphasized, "the job will be hard and the accomplishments few.

"The spotlight of tomorrow will be on each of you and your actions will determine what your chamber does."

ONLY TWO DAYS

Last Chance for Poll Tax Receipt

Mitchell County's poll tax receipts Thursday passed the 1,000 mark.

And County Tax Assessor-Collector Tom Glover's office reported more than 100 persons per day were obtaining receipts — key to all voting in 1959.

But Saturday is the deadline for issuing poll tax receipts, and the 1959 total may be one of the lowest in recent history.

Total at noon Thursday was reported at 1,088 — plus 14 exemptions. Last year the mark was 2,362 and in 1956, an off election year, the total was 1,756.

However, last chance to obtain receipts is Friday and Saturday.

Glover said his office would remain open Saturday after the usual 12 noon closing time to accomodate those tardy persons still desiring to acquire their poll tax.

The tax office estimates between 800 and 1,000 persons in the county hold old-age voting exemptions. And the poll tax number for 1959 — those persons between 21 and 60—has just now equalled the exemption number.

Dallas Man Arrested As Roofing Swindle Suspect

Woman Alerts Police

A 41-year-old Dallas man was arrested here Wednesday in connection with an alleged swindling with a roofing repair job.

Officers were alerted for the arrest a few minutes earlier as he appeared at the residence of Mrs. T. J. Ratliff, 504 E. Fourth St.

Charges were filed here last Friday in Justice of Peace T. E. Arnold's Court against a E. J. Oliver, alleging that he swindled Mrs. Ratliff of $287 on or about Dec. 8.

* * *

THE MAN taken into custody here Wednesday was identified as William W. Brooks, 41.

He also was charged in Justice Arnold's court in connection with the alleged $287 swindle of Mrs Ratliff.

He is the fourth person to be named here in felony swindling charges in connection with roofing repair jobs at the houses of Mrs. Ratliff and Mrs. Jim Hale.

Brooks is charged with the man identified as Oliver in the $287 Ratliff case.

Men identified as C. L. Hodges and Harold Biter are charged in connection with an alleged $1,060 swindle of Mrs. Hale. Biter is accused also in another charge listing his name as Bite, with swindling Mrs. Hale of $500.

* * *

DISTRICT ATTORNEY Eldon Mahon said Thursday the Wednesday arrest of Brooks has reasonably assured him that he is seeking four, maybe five, in the roofing repair investigation.

Brooks was arrested by Police Chief Leon Yeager, City Building Inspector J. A. Sadler Jr., Policeman Selma Q. Dickson and Deputy Sheriff Lewis Claxton.

The officers were alerted by a woman companion of Mrs. Ratliff that Brooks was at the Ratliff residence.

Brooks, whom Mrs. Ratliff identified as one of the roofing crew who had been at her house in December, had called at the Ratliff house with a Valentine box of candy for Mrs. Ratliff.

* * *

HE HAD RETURNED to ask for money to cover some bills he said had not yet been paid from previous work at the Ratliff house, Mrs. Ratliff told officers.

He also mentioned the possibility of other work under the house, she said.

The woman friend of Mrs. Ratliff phoned police while Brooks was at the residence.

However, he had returned to his Cadillac and was driving onto Highway 80 from Hickory when spotted by Yeager.

The police chief said the suspect made no attempt to speed away from police or resist arrest.

Mrs. Hale viewed the suspect, but said he had not been to her house.

Bond Friday morning for Brooks was set at $5,000.

AT LOCAL RESIDENCES

Boy, 14, Confesses to 5 Daylight Burglaries

A 14-year-old boy with a "wonderful personality" has confessed to five daring daylight burglaries of local residences.

The break-ins were committed over the last five months.

Police, who say the youth is smart and with "wonderful personality," picked up the kid burglar Jan. 20 after he was surprised the same day attempting to enter the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Newby Pratt at 1374 Austin.

In addition to the Pratt break-in here is the list of burglaries he admitted to police since fall:

Last Sept. 11, residence of Supt. and Mrs. Frank Wilson, 1341 Chestnut — few silver dollars, old coins, locket and child's ring taken.

Last Dec. 15, residence of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Cook, 824 Chestnut — four silver dollars and a pocket knife taken.

Last Dec. 17, Congressman and Mrs. George Mahon's upstairs apartment at 1341 Chestnut — Eversharp pencil, engraved "House of Representatives", taken.

Jan. 15, Duncan residence at 1041 Vine — five or six dollars and wrist watch taken.

Police say the boy offers no reason why he began his burglary spree.

He gained entrance to the homes mostly by punching holes in window screens, unlatching the screen and then entering through the window opening.

His first brush with police was early last year when he handed over to police a pistol he had taken from the residence of Mrs. C. L. Root, 827 Elm.

He felt the strong arm of law again when police picked him up after his attempt to enter the Pratt home was foiled.

Relatives of the Pratts were in the house and discovered him in a window. However, the boy left after giving a fictitious name and saying that he was visiting here from out of town.

Police recovered the watch he took from the Duncan residence, but most of the loot had been disposed of and the money spent.

Juvenile hearing on delinquency charges will be held before County Judge Elmer Martin. However, date for the hearing has not been set.

Until the hearing, though, the youth has been released to the custody of his parents, the judge said.

FOR ZETAGATHIAN PROGRAM

Dr. and Mrs. Cowan Present Discussion, Slides of Turkeys

Dr. and Mrs. Seth Cowan were guest speakers Tuesday for a program of the Zetagathian Study Club in the home of Mrs. Sam L. (Buzz) Majors Jr.

"An Armchair Tour Through Turkey" was the program topic for the regular afternoon meeting of the club, with Dr. and Mrs. Cowan relating some of their experiences, which occurred during the two years they lived in Izmir, Turkey.

The Cowans highlighted their interesting and educational discussion of Turkey by showing numerous colored slides of places of interest in Turkey and also Europe.

"Turkey is about the size of Texas and similar to it in many respects," Dr. Cowan said. "Izmir is the third largest city in Turkey, the other two are Ankara and Istanbul.

"Like Florida too, there is an abundance of flowers and fruits," he added.

"One of the chief means of recreation was the Camel fights, which occur about this time of the year," Mrs. Cowan said. "It would be hard to say which is more entertaining, the fight between the camels or the sights among the people who attend the fights."

The colored slides showed some of the principal industries of Turkey — tobacco, olives, Meerschaum pipes and hand-woven rugs.

Other outstanding points of interest shown and described were — Biblical sites such as where Paul wrote in prison, where John was buried, and ancient ruins of lost cities. Also, important places in the lives of great leaders of the Classic Age, such as, Alexander the Great's Fort.

Turkey is a Moslem country, and the Cowans showed several pictures of typical examples of church architecture of that area.

Dr. and Mrs. Cowan were introduced by Mrs. Paul Boston, program leaders for the meeting.

The club also made a contribution to the Nurses' Scholarship Fund.

Mrs. J. S. (Jay) Craddock Jr., general chairman of the club's forthcoming Hobby Show scheduled for April 16 in Civic House, appointed the following additional chairmen to assist with plans for the hobby show: Mrs. Roy Fox, tickets; and Mrs. Eldon Mahon, publicity.

The hostess served refreshments during the social hour to three guests, Mrs. John H. Moore, Dr. and Mrs. Cowan. Members present were Mrs. Homer H. Bodine, Mrs. Boston, Mrs. Clarence Collins, Mrs. Craddock, Mrs. Trevor Crawford, Mrs. L. S. (Bunky) Girvin Jr., Mrs. Curtis Latimer, Mrs. Mahon, Mrs. Don Mecoy, Mrs. Noble, Mrs. W. S. MRS. MOSER, PROGRAM LEADER

'Living Later Years' Topic Of Hesperian Club Skit

"Living Later Years," a skit, was the highlight for a program of the Hesperian Study Club Friday, Jan. 16, in the home of Mrs. J. D. White.

Mrs. Virgil Moser was program leader for the meeting and presented introductory remarks for the skit and program which concerned "Our Old People."

"Happiness adds and multiplies as we divide it with others," Mrs. Moser said. "There are organizations and, yes, individuals too, that have discovered true happiness does add and multiply as it is divided with others.

"Have you noticed how good it makes you feel to perform a kind deed? To help someone that needs help? To try to make someones burden just a little lighter?" Mrs. Moser questioned the group.

Presenting characterizations in the skit, "Living Later Years," were Mrs. J. W. Watson, Mrs. V. V. Shropshire, Mrs. Lynn Halbert and Mrs. Charles C. Thompson.

Mrs. Watson portrayed a clubwoman, Mrs. Shropshire, Old Lady No. 1 — Clinging and flighty; Mrs. Halbert, Old Lady No. 2 — Sweet and motherly; Mrs. Thompson, Old Lady No. 3 — Too youthfully overdressed.

"Later Years, what are they? Nothing but old age, a time of life we all strive to reach and never acknowledge attaining," Clubwoman Watson said as the skit began.

"Old age is an inevitable fact, we recognize it in other people, but ourselves? I am sure we all look young as we did ten years ago. Seriously though, old age is a state of mind, as well as the number of years lived," Mrs. Watson continued.

"At sweet sixteen I was sure life must be unbearable at twenty-five, one was either an old maid, or tied to a man, a cook stove and babies. We recently heard a Junior Club President, in her twenties, refer to thirty-five, as "That Age."

The skit followed Mrs. Watson's remarks.

Those attending the regular meeting of the club in the White home were Mrs. Arthur Barry, Mrs. Halbert, Mrs. J. E. Hale, Mrs. Otto Jones, Mrs. E. M. Majors, Mrs. Moser, Mrs. J. A. Sadler Sr., Mrs. Bennett Scott, Mrs. Shropshire, Mrs. O. L. Simpson, Mrs. R. K. Snethen, Mrs. Thompson, Mrs. Watson, Mrs. E. H. Winn, Mrs. Cal Wright, Mrs. Raymond Perdue, Miss Mabel B. FOR 1959-60 CLUB YEAR

Mrs. Ginzel Named President Of Hesperian Daughters Club

Mrs. Frank Ginzel was elected president of the Hesperian Daughters Study Club during a business session Friday, Jan. 16, in the home of Mrs. Ace McShan.

Mrs. Ginzel was named to head the new slate of officers for the 1959-60 club year. Other officers elected to serve with Mrs. Ginzel were Mrs. A. L. Geer, first vice president; Mrs. Donald Albright, second vice president; Mrs. Warren Costin, recording secretary; Mrs. Elmer Martin, corresponding secretary; Mrs. R. P. Bates, treasurer; Mrs. A. L. McSpadden, federation counselor; and Mrs. J. F. Selcraig, parliamentarian.

Mrs. Selcraig, president, presided during the business meeting and the club voted to contribute a plant to the Colorado City Garden Club's Civic House Beautification Project.

"The Pathology of Boredom" was the afternoon program topic featuring Mrs. Ginzel and Mrs. John M. Worrell as program speakers.

Mrs. Ginzel discussed — Health for Today.

Mrs. Worrell spoke concerning — After Forty —What?

"Saturday's child, says the old rhyme, must work for a living! The whole idea is that Saturday's child is out of luck — he has to work, poor fellow. And that's wrong," Mrs. Ginzel said. "Work is not a curse. It is a blessing. The worst that one could wish for anybody would be that he would have nothing to do.

"Our grandmothers used to say that the devil would find work for idle hands to do," Mrs. Ginzel added. "Now doctors find that idle bodies and empty minds are invitations to trouble."

Mrs. Worrell emphasized in her talk, "After Forty — What?", "Age is largely a matter of attitude toward life itself.

"A person should maintain a wide variety of interests, stay mentally alert, and stay interested in youth, their projects and problems.

"One should be interested in others and their activities to stay young," Mrs. Worrell said.

During the social hour the hostess served refreshments to Mrs. Dan Pope, Mrs. Curtis Baker, Mrs. Martin, Mrs. Costin, Mrs. Worrell, Mrs. Ginzel, Mrs. Geer, Mrs. Willis A. Jones, Mrs. Selcraig, Mrs. Laurence Rudd, Mrs. Lester Mannering and Mrs. McShan.

The club will meet Friday, Jan. 30, in the home of Mrs. Dan S. Pope of 121 East 11th Street for a program "The Evolution of Fashion." Members will wear their favorite costumes to this meeting.

Michael Dorn Receives Band Honor

Michael Dorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Landon Dorn, was chosen as a member of the All-State Band, which will play in Galveston Feb. 19 through Feb. 21.

Dorn, a senior student at Colorado High School, was selected as a member of the All-State Band, to represent Region II, at a recent band clinic in Abilene at McMurry College.

Dorn, who plays the French horn, has been a member of the CHS Band since he entered high school.

Dorn's band career began back in grade school when he played a trumpet. In about the sixth grade he changed musical instruments, and has played the French horn since that time.

In addition to his regular band instructions at CHS from Dwight H. Tomb, high school band director, he has been taking private lessons from Warren G. Thaxton, associate band director for the past year.

Dorn was also named a CHS Favorite — Boy Most Likely to Succeed — during Howl Night Ceremonies recently at the school.

WESTINGHOUSE LAUNDROMAT
AUTOMATIC WASHER

HERE'S WHY THE REVOLVING AGITATOR LAUNDROMAT IS BEST

Washes Cleaner! There's no old-fashioned center-post. Clothes go inside the Revolving Agitator which lifts, turns, plunges them 50 times a minute, washes all the clothes all the time.
THE SAND TEST PROVES IT!

Rinses Better! Revolving Agitator lifts clothes while soil and dirty water drain away from (never back through) them. Center-post machines strain it all back through the clothes.
THE SAND TEST PROVES IT!

Cleans Itself! Because of its patented design, the Laundromat cleans clothes better, then automatically cleans itself—ready for the next load. All sand, scum, lint go down the drain.
THE SAND TEST PROVES IT!

SAVES HALF THE DETERGENT, UP TO 23 GALS. WATER PER LOAD
Patented Weighing Door is actually a scale; weighs clothes and indicates exact setting for Soap 'N Water Saver. Then your Laundromat measures out the precise amount of water needed for the load. Saves soap or detergent, too!

BANQUET . . .

years ago in University of the South, introduced the principal speaker.

Bishop Hines keynoted his talk by describing laymen as the real actors on the stage of life and a preacher as only the prompter for their lost lines.

"And the major task of our people in this complex time," he declared, "is to recover some of their lost lines while there still is time on the clock of destiny."

In urging the recovery of the lost line of home life, he said there is a direct relation to what happens in the home and what happens in the nation.

"Home still remains the basic element of our fundamental society," Hines said, "and any dissentegration in the home ultimately is made known in the community.

He urged that "we read and understand the Bible in the homes of our land" because it gives "understanding and insight above that of other men."

Hines admonished parents for a tendency to give things instead of themselves — to their children.

"There is no organization which can be a substitute for parents — being and doing what parents can and should do."

We've been a generation to do things for our children," the bishop explained, "when we should do things with them — play and work and pray."

In recovering a sense of vocation, the speaker said a person must first realize he is called to be a kind of person . . .

" . . . a person created by God, a person who must be responsive to God, obedient to God's way.

"Then," he stated, "we can move into a vocation of purpose in any field."

Moral integrity, another lost line, is a must today for every person in every group," he said.

"The pauper today has more than the prince of yesterday days," the bishop said. "This is wrong, for when riches predominate, then God is shoved into the background.

"If medicine beckons . . . or engineering or law or teaching, the first thing we must say is: speak, Lord.

"For after we have committed ourselves to the Lord's purpose, then all life has meaning."

WOLVES TO LAMESA FRIDAY

Mustangs Knock C-City 64-48 In 3-AAA Race

Wolves' Co-Captain

Jerry Treadwell, senior co-captain of the Colorado High basketball team will use this scoring form against the Lamesa Tornadoes Friday night in Lamesa.

A bespectacled southpaw and a burly grid fullback also a left-hander literally wrecked the Colorado High School basketball team Tuesday night as the Sweetwater Mustangs downed the Wolves, 64-48.

The pair Buford Patterson and James Parker scored 20 and 17 points, respectively, in the District 3-AAA contest in Mustang Gym.

And Coach Homer Jefferson's quintet faces even rougher going Friday night when they take on the potent Lamesa Golden Tornadoes in Lamesa.

Lamesa previously beat Sweetwater 53-31 and Tuesday night suffered its first district loss at the hands of Lake View, 54-51.

Lamesa had a fair 10-10 record prior to district opening.

* * *

But back to the Sweetwater fiasco Tuesday night.

It was practically a replay of the 75-59 loss the Wolves suffered to Lake View.

Wolves just couldn't find the field goal range the first half and allowed the Mustangs to leap ahead 7-0 before they could score.

Infact, the Wolves hit only three field goals the first quarter and two the second quarter. Had it not been for the 12 free throws the first half, Sweetwater would have been ahead more than the 29-22 count at halftime.

It was big sophomore Bill Belew that set the Mustangs off with five points in the first two minutes. Wolf center Raymond Weaver, who led the Wolves with 15 points, hit a hook shot and Joe Merritt hit two long shots to leave the Wolves trailing only 12-16 at end of first quarter.

But then Patterson and Parker began to play their tatoo on the backboard with Patterson scoring six points the second quarter and Parker seven for all but one point of Sweetwater's total in that period.

* * *

Behind 29-22, the Wolves came back the second half with Jerry Treadwell getting a field goal on the tip-off and Kerry Kendrick following up with a bucket after stealing the ball to pull within three points, 29-26.

Wolves couldn't gain during the third period as Sweetwater hit 16 to C-City's 14.

Colorado gained some ground early in the fourth period when Weaver hit a hook shot. Kendrick dropped in a charity toss and then Weaver drove in for a crip.

Weaver was fouled on the shot and made the free throw to cut the Mustang lead to 49-42.

With 4:55 left in the game, Kendrick slipped through the horses' defense to slice the lead to 49-44.

But then in quick succession, Patterson hit two goals, Parker and Belew connected to shove the Mustangs ahead 57-44. Wolves' Dwain Thomason hit one goal and Kendrick scored a pair of free tosses while Sweetwater was pushing in five free tosses and two field goals.

* * *

They crowded the middle, not leaving Weaver enough room to move around. And the Mustangs dominated the rebound department.

Wolves were unable to stop Patterson's jump shot from the side or Parker's muscular bull-like rushes at the basket.

Wolf B-team lost a 56-47 decision to Sweetwater B with Turnbow pouring in 15 points for the Little Mustangs and Buddy Compton leading C-City with 13.

CRANE AND COLORADO CITY LEAD THE FIELD

District 2B Tournament Set Here

Ten of the strongest Class B Negro High School basketball teams in West Texas will be in Colorado City Sat., Feb. 7 for the District 2-B Tournament.

Among that group will be the defending Class B State Champion, Crane High School.

And a battle royal is predicted between Crane carrying an undefeated recording of 17 straight wins and Colorado City's Wallace High, boasting a 21-1 record.

Teams slated for the tourney are Crane, McCamey, Brady, Coleman, Hamlin, Ballinger, Stamford, Big Lake, Ozona and C-City, plus the possibility of Breckenridge and Anson.

C-City has lost only to Big Spring, 58-62. They later beat the same Big Spring team, 88-68. Of the teams in the tournament, Wallace holds victories over McCamey, Brady and Hamlin.

Crane, with its 17-0 mark, hasn't lost a game in two years. They beat Wallace last year in the District 2-B Tourney and then proceeded to win the state title at Prairie View.

Wallace Coach W. D. Harris made a guarantee of $200 to the district to land the tournament here. Everything over $200 goes to the Wallace team to buy uniforms, basketballs and other equipment since the school district does not provide funds for this purpose. Tournament tickets, good for all games, are $1 for adults and 60c for students. They are on sale at Chamber of Commerce office and high school.

The Wildcats rely on a fast-breaking type of ball, dominating the backboards and the scoring area around the buck et.

They have scored a total 1,696 points in 22 games for an average of 77.1 points per game. Their opponents have managed 1,047 points for a 47.6 average.

Leading scorer is guard Charles Lindsey with an average of over 20 points per game. Other starters are Ernest Biggers, the Wildcat's 6-3 center, Elmer Randle, Joe N. Christian and Tony Jones.

Wildcats won their 21st game Tuesday night, playing one of their best games of the season in beating McCamey, 80-68, in McCamey.

Wallace led 41-25 at halftime but McCamey caught fire in the third period to pull within six points. Major Dennis and Milan Baucham led the comeback as they dumped in 47 points between them with 32 in the last half. Dennis picked up 24 for high scoring honors with Baucham scoring 23.

Wallace girls beat the McCamey girls, 58-35.

Wallace B team beat San Angelo, 51-48, Monday night after trailing 39-42 going into the final period.

Henry Burton with 16 and Clifton Lee with 15 led the Wallace B scoring attack.

Ira Falls to Westbrook in 16-B Contest

The Wildcats held the lead through out the game played in Westbrook Friday night.

Westbrook girls suffered their first district loss at the hands of Ira's girls, 38-34. Patterson of Ira scored 19 while Linda Fae McMahan tallied 15 for the Westbrook sextet.

It was Charles Rees that shoves 18 points through the hoop to lead the Westbrook boys.

Westbrook took a 9-4 lead at end of first quarter and increased that to 22-13 at halftime.

The Wildcats of Coach Hernan Parsons kept the lead with a 31-22 cushion at end of the third period.

Editorially Speaking

Cities Need Help In Rate Cases

Lone Star Gas officials have made no effort to pull wool over the eyes of the public, so to speak, concerning who finally will shoulder the burden of any increase in delivery price of gas to city gates in Texas.

In fact, letters to municipal officials from the outset have contained statements by the company that adjustment in local rates — the price of gas paid by individual consumers — will be sought ultimately if the delivery price is hiked as now requested by the company.

The gate delivery request is now before the Texas Railroad Commission's Gas Utilities Division. Any request for changes in local consumer rates will go before governing bodies of individual Texas cities.

All of which points up a major need for the State of Texas: an adequately authorized, financed and staffed state agency for regulation of private utility rates.

The regulating agency is needed in the interest of fairness to the public and utilities alike, in the interest of time and money to taxpayers in municipalities across the entire state, in the interest of utilities rates decided after full and enlightened study by representatives of the general public as well as the companies seeking adjustments.

Texas and Iowa, it may be emphasized, are the only two states which do not have a state agency for the regulation of rates and services of private telephone, gas and electric power companies. In fact, intrastate toll telephone calls are unregulated in Texas, electrical rates are unregulated except within incorporated cities and decisions affecting the gate delivery rate of gas within the state ultimately has direct bearing upon the base for customer gas rates within cities.

This situation places an extra heavy burden upon city councils in Colorado City and all other cities of the state who, from time to time, must deal with requests by the private utilities company for rate adjustments.

Often these company requests for rate adjustments — as have been noticeable in the years since World War II — are predicated on months and months of intensive study by large staffs of company experts, supported by data compiled over a long period of time, presented by experts trained in the techniques favorable to company goals.

Representing the communities and local citizens involved, however, are councilmen unfamiliar with the details, city legal staffs without the money or time or manpower to make exhaustive legal studies and city organizations with little or no staffs for studying the complicated operations of utilities.

Colorado City's municipal officials hit the nail on the head recently when they said that rate adjustment should be studied in an overall design and with realization that ultimately the adjustment is placed on the shoulders of the individual consumer.

An adequate state agency, supported with proper authority from the legislature and with adequate staffing and financing is the best means for the overall study, fair representation for the consumer.

It shouldn't be difficult to see that in the final analysis, a municipality with the limitations of Colorado City's tax-supported budget would be carrying a sling-shot against a cannon in a real showdown in a utility rate hearing.

PHILOSOPHER SAYS

Inventor Needed For New Taxes

Editor's note: The Shinnery Flats Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Bone Hollow Creek must be a little tax conscious, his letter this week indicates.

* * *

Dear editor:

I was sitting by the fire the other night flipping through a magazine when I ran into an article saying the United States government is looking for inventors, and it went ahead and listed a long string of things this country needed to have invented.

Now I never have invented anything, outside of a few excuses, but I've had a lot of experience trying to keep other people's inventions running, and what impressed me by that list was what it left out. It left out what looks like the Federal government itself ought to be the first to think of and put at the head of the list.

What this country needs, over and above all other gadgets and labor-saving devices and handier hydrogen bombs, is a new source of tax revenue.

It doesn't make any difference whether it's President Eisenhower in Washington, Governor Daniel in Austin, or the governor of any other state, including Alaska, and the mayors of most cities and towns, everybody is looking for a new source of tax revenue.

Right now, everybody seems to be in a rut, and about all anybody can think of is to put a new tax on cars and gasoline. Any time any official has to wrestle with the problem of finding new revenue to balance a budget, he generally comes up with the idea of raising the tax on gasoline.

This makes sense, in one way, as most people will give up nearly everything, including groceries and clothes, before they'll stop driving their car.

But I'm afraid they can go too far in this direction. Of course their argument is that we're building 30 billion dollars worth of new highways across the nation, not counting all the side roads and local highways, and the best way to pay for them is to tax the users.

Well, I'll tell you. You can tax a driver to pay for a simple highway, one he uses every few days, and it makes sense, the user ought to pay. But it's going to be mighty hard to tax a man going one way for three more lanes going in the same direction and four more going in the other.

The average man just can not use enough gasoline to pay for an eight-lane highway, unless they make cars that burn eight times as much gas, and I think they are working on that too.

The problem is too big for me, but if a man wants to go down in history two notches ahead of Thomas Edison, Alexander Graham Bell, Robert Fulton, and the Wright Brothers, let him invent a new source of tax revenue. And I think he'd better hurry.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

TAX OR SPEND FIRST?

Budget Approach Puzzling as Income Source to Legislators

By Vern Sanford
Texas Press Association

Texas lawmakers face the old "chicken or egg" problem as they move into the session's main issue — money.

Is it best to decide first how much the state must spend to keep its various programs going and then scrape up tax money to cover them? Or should the tax take be set first and the pie sliced up accordingly?

Thus far, both problems are being juggled at the same time. Already the mathematical acrobatics are spreading jitters among spectators — both appropriation seekers and tax worriers.

* * *

GOVERNOR'S PRESCRIPTION—Gov. Price Daniel is prescribing a two-pronged, $210,000,000 plan to cure state fiscal ailments.

First prong is to raise $65,000,000 to pay off the debt expected in the general revenue fund by the end of this fiscal year. Second prong is to raise $72,800,000 a year ($145,600,000 for the next biennium) to cover spending from the general revenue fund.

Sources for this money would include: (1) a natural gas severance tax, (2) an increase in levies on motor vehicle sales, tobacco and corporation franchises and (3) unclaimed bank deposits, insurance policies and property, which the state would take over.

Governor Daniel increased his previously recommended budget by nearly $20,000,000 to include appropriations for retiring state bonds, providing medical care for people on welfare rolls, a driver education program and advertising for tourists and industry.

Total two-year spending from general revenue would be $330,000,000.

* * *

SMALLER PIE—Compared to the governor's proposal, the Legislative Budget Board's recommendation for general revenue fund spending looks modest — only $285,000,000.

Though the Board's spending would be nearly $45,000,000 less than the governor's, it would still be some $4,600,000 higher than the 1958-59 appropriation.

Budget Board suggests slight increases for the judicial system, executive and administrative departments, hospitals and special schools, public schools and highways. Small cuts recommended for junior colleges and higher education.

Spending from all funds for state government would total $2,357,347,479.

* * *

SEELIGSON PLAN—Rep. Frates S. Seeligson of San Antonio has prepared an extensive plan to overhaul and beef up the state's tax collecting.

Topping the list would be a 1.5 per cent sales tax with food, feed and fertilizer exempted. It would bring an estimated $67,000,000 annually.

Another Seeligson bill would recodify present tax laws. It would do away with some regarded as obsolete (such as on clock peddlers, street cars) and others called inequitable (on chain stores, stock transfers, radio, TV, cosmetics, etc.) Same bill would eliminate certain exemptions and revise other taxes, mostly upward, on motor vehicle, tobacco and liquor sales. Net gain from the revisions would be a $11,500,000 a year gain in revenue.

Like Daniel, Seeligson recommends that the state take over unclaimed money and property.

Seeligson was vice chairman of the State Tax Study Commission that spent the between-sessions months working on tax problems.

FAIR WARNING—Governor Daniel and Lt. Gov. Ben Ramsey both declared at their inaugural that they have sympathetic hearts for Texas taxpayers.

Governor Daniel proposed greater efficiency and economy by combining some of the 175 separate agencies and 213 special accounts operated by the state.

Ramsey promised there would be "no stringing up of the unfortunate taxpayer by the heels to shake out enough money to give everyone everything he wants."

Added Ramsey, "I refuse to admit that the success of a legislative session, or an administration, depends solely on the amount of money it can spend."

* * *

NO PAY, NO WORK—House and Senate agreed easily on an automatic shut-off of the regular session at 6 p.m. May 12, but had more difficulty deciding where to get their salary money.

House members shied from a Senate plan to take from a surplus in the fund to aid the permanently and totally disabled. (Future campaign fodder, for sure, reasoned representatives.)

Instead, they proposed borrowing from the insurance Department Building fund. Both houses agreed to tap the drivers license fund.

A definite adjournment resolution this early in the session is unprecedented in recent legislative history. So is a session of only 120 days, the period for which legislators can be paid. Both are regarded as reflecting disgruntlement over the defeat of the legislative pay raise amendment last fall.

Already three new pay raise proposals have been introduced: (1) to pay $50 a day for 150 days, (2) $40 a day for 120 days, $20 a day thereafter and (3) $4,200 a year.

Present scale is $25 a day for 120 days only.

FLOOD BEGINS—Dozens of new bills — and old bills dusted off — are flowing into legislative hoppers. Already introduced or ready for introduction are measures that would:

Tax gross receipts of manufactured products, by Rep. Jerry Sadler of Percilla, estimated by author to raise $400,000,000 a year.

Revise juvenile laws to allow prosecution of youths, 16 and over, for felonies, by Reps. Joe Ed Winfree, Houston, and Ben D. Sudderth, Gustine.

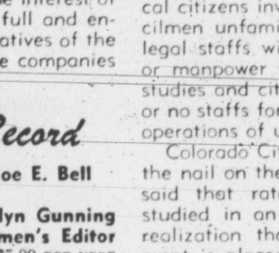

Give electric coops the right for 10 years to build and operate lines in an area annexed by a city, to be sponsored by Rep. Alonzo W. Jamison of Denton.

Require a two-thirds vote of both houses to pass a tax measure, a constitutional amendment proposed by Rep. Bill Jones, Dallas.

LOCAL BUSINESS

Community Slant For Good Service

By JOE ED BOATRIGHT
Record Staff Writer

A glance at a sample of American newspapers is enough to convince anyone that the great retail food stores of the nation believe in newspaper advertising.

To what extent this is true is shown by the advertising investment of A&P food stores. One advertising research bureau estimates that A&P spends $15,000,000 a year on newspaper advertising.

The expenditures of A&P for newspaper space is seven times greater than the store's investment in radio or television advertising.

The attitude of A&P toward newspaper advertising was recently expressed by Stephen W. Shea, vice president of the company.

In an interview with Editor & Publisher magazine, Mr. Shea said that A&P regards their newspaper advertising as a service to housewives. The first objective of the advertising is to provide information on what food is available and on how much it costs.

In helping the housewife with the family budget "we feel that we are rendering a real public service," the A&P executive said.

In spite of the size of the organization, A&P retail advertising has a local flavor. Each advertisement is drawn up by the local store. During recent years the appeal has been based more and more on service and quality.

In short, A&P uses the ingredients of good retail advertising available to any merchant — that is, advertising slanted to the local market in the local newspaper.

BIBLE COMMENT

Christians Must Go 'All the Way'

The cup that in Gethsemane Jesus prayed so earnestly might pass, did not pass.

We know how He drank it, and drank to the very lees of sacrifice and suffering.

It is the mystery of God and the universe that the life-giving powers, alike of nature and of grace, are intimately bound up with suffering and death.

It is one thing to recognize a general law of sacrifice, but how different when we are faced with a real, insistent danger, or demand for sacrifice ourselves.

Then comes the real testing. Many find the faith and power.

Out of Gethsemane the Master came with the serenity of a profound faith in the destiny that the Father had for Him, and with a quiet sublime courage.

That serenity and courage endured alike the buffetings of His aggressors, the taunts of the cowardly and the cynical contempt of the worldly minded Pilate.

From Gethsemane to Calvary! We must go with Jesus all the way, if we could get the inspiration of that divine tragedy and its fulfillment of blessing for mankind. Thus will the message of that divine tragedy come to us personally, pointing the way to triumph and glory.

It is the way of prayer, in discovering and obeying the will of God, and in finding the strength that God supplies.

SENATOR REPORTS

Local Parity Plan In New Farm Bill

(Editor's Note: Following is a Washington news letter prepared by Senator Lyndon Johnson for The Record.)

This has been a good week, a busy one. Much has been accomplished. But a simple, two-syllable word is causing me increasing concern.

It is called "surplus."

This nation now has on hand about $9 billion in surplus commodities. That's a lot of food. And it is food that must be put to use.

The cost of not using it comes high.

Just to store this surplus, the Administration estimates that it will be spending by next July 1 at the rate of $1,027,528,020 a year.

The need for action to solve this problem is urgent.

The Congress will have before it a new farm bill. Within it must be the key to unlock this problem called "surplus."

There is now under study by some very able Senators a broad plan. Briefly this plan would:

Allow a farmer to plant all he wants to.

Assure him 100 per cent parity for that portion of his crop consumed in this country.

Provide that the portion of his basic crops sold in export would be offered on the open market.

The goals are these: Aid the farmer by easing restraints on his own free enterprise. Lighten the load on the taxpayer. And in doing this, help our friends and allies of the free world to help themselves.

This the Senate intends to do.

And a few programs set up to help these people into better housing are handicapped because there isn't enough money available to properly do the job. In addition, funds haven't been available at all under past programs for building homes in rural areas, in small towns and on the farms.

Believing that something must be done about these needs as quickly as possible, Yarborough said, "I have joined in sponsoring The Housing Act of 1959, which I feel will provide for them

FOR FAIR UTILITY RATES

League Study in Line With C-City Proposal

Public utilities and the general problems involved in determining proper rates are scheduled for close observation by cities as the result of action by Texas Municipal League.

The study is in line with the proposal made by Colorado City officials to Texas Railroad Commission's Gas Utilities Division in wake of Lone Star Gas Company's request for an increase in gate rate charges at Texas cities it serves.

City Manager Rollin K. Snethen, in a letter to the division, asked for a thorough study of the rate hike request with an overall look into the rate pattern that eventually will pass any gate rate increase onto the local consumer.

The Texas Municipal League is forming a seven-man study committee on "utility rate-making" to review methods used in other states in establishing fair utility rates.

Louie Welch, councilman-at-large in Houston and president of the league, announced the committee study.

Welch said the purpose of the committee was to bring both large and small municipal representative together to study means of assuring that all utility rates are fair and just.

"Many of our smaller Texas cities," Welch said, "are faced with numerous rate increase requests and do not have the necessary funds to hire rate specialists.

"Rate determination is a highly technical problem and requires considerable research and thus a great deal of money on the part of cities to protect the public interest.

"This committee will pool the knowledge and experience of our larger and smaller municipalities to see of some method of determining fair rates can be implemented."

"The need for such a study by cities is demonstrated by the recent request of Lone Star Gas Company," Welch stated. "The firm is seeking a 33-1/3 percent increase in the gate rate it charges 318 Texas cities and towns."

Named to the rate-making study committee were: James H. McCrocklin, mayor of Kingsville, chairman; J. C. Gunter, mayor of Haltom City; J. E. Bates, manager of utilities of Robstown; Bill Harrison, city manager of Baytown; Joe P. Cox, Jr., city attorney of Sherman; J. W. Monk, public utilities supervisor of Dallas; and Clinton Owsley, public utilities supervisor of Houston.

FEATURED IN WINTER ISSUE

Editor's Note: The following article depicting Colorado City's colorful history, written by R. A. Malone is published in mid - winter issue of T&P Topics with photos of the city today and an 1891 drawing of the old salt works.)

* * *

COLORADO CITY, the consistently-growing county seat of Mitchell County in the rolling hills region of West Texas, boasts as colorful and exciting a history as ever was Hollywood - depicted of any flamboyant frontierstown . . . and, at one time, it literally was "the salt of the earth of the West's great cattle empire."

Well over a century ago, its valley site on the Colorado River in the long shadows of Morgan's Peak and Lone Wolf Mountain was a stronghold of the Comanches. This Indian village, still a marked location, was the scene of a pitched fight between white men and redskins in 1840.

Later, when U. S. cavalrymen in blue drove the Comanches from this happy-hunting-ground and the cattle markets moved westward in the late 70s, Colorado, as the little town was then known, began to come into its own. All the impetus it needed was the coming of the railroad. When Texas and Pacific's first train chugged up to its little new depot on April 16, 1881, Colorado was ready to Challenge Dodge City or any alleged Longhorn capitol as the principal cattle point of the West.

From a few hundred hardy pioneers and a "tent-town" beginning, Colorado almost overnight blossomed into a top cattle distributing center, touting its great beef market, its hotels and newspaper, its doctors, lawyers and cowmen. It also had its lawless element . . . gamblers, dancehall queens, and saloons. Gunfights were as commonplace as wagon-trains.

From 1881 to 1885, Colorado was in its cattle - kingdom glory. Cattle prices soared almost out of sight, yet demand never slackened. English Lords and Earls came to Texas and eagerly exchanged the King's gold for the titles of cattle baron and all this name implied.

In fact, Colorado, in 1884, claimed more millionaire citizens than all the rest of Texas and had zoomed its population to 5,000 cattle-rich people. Corner lots were held for as much as $10,000. A $50,000 courthouse was not considered good enough and, besides, it impaired the view of the river. Summarily, it was torn down only two years after being built and replaced by "a more fitting edifice."

It was at this time, in the heyday of Colorado City's past, that three noteworthy events took place. For one thing, the citizenry felt that their metropolis was ready for municipal pomp and ceremony and so they set up a city council. Secondly, the bottom fell out of the cattle market. Beef prices tobogganed and with their descent went the population of Colorado, dwindling to about 2,000 worried settlers. Finally, the town discovered that all around it was agricultural country.

This last development was demonstrated effectively, but strangely. While the boom was on, Colorado people had been eating Irish potatoes at $2.50 a bushel, never caring from whence they came, even at this ridiculously high price for that time. One day, the town's hero-to-be noticed a potato sprouting in the gutter in front of Colorado's leading bank. The news spread. For the next three months, exmillionaires daily watched the progress of that lonesome spud. It would have been signing your death warrant to have disturbed it. The potato flourished and suddenly the whole town, in those trying times, became a talking farmers' club.

Planters, ignoring the earlier scorn of cattle-conscious Colorado, came to town and began farming. The town grew anew, but with an entirely different personality. It still had its curtailed cattle market, but it was no longer strictly a "cow center." With its expended economy came a measure of dignity.

One of the first acts of the new city council was its decree that Colorado's water was not as good and pure as it should be. It seemed that a segment of the town's more cultured citizens was not satisfied with whiskey-and-water, but just demanded water . . . and good water, at that. This, of course, was an affront to the saloon keepers. Colorado's "Nip and Tuck" Saloon was rated as one of the best in all the West and renowned for its celebrated "red eye."

Nevertheless, the enthusiastic city council raised a considerable sum to locate an adequate supply of good, pure water. A deep hole was bored. At least 1200 feet, it struck petroleum strata, 800 feet of rock salt, but no water. The boring was stopped. The disappointed council then advertised one deep hole for sale. No takers.

At that time in the mid-80s, West Texas cattle were licking salt by the carload . . . and rugged West Texas humans also consumed a lot of salt. Why not, it was suggested, make use of that salt? But how to get it up? From 1200 feet deep in the earth?

The hole, thereupon, was bored a little deeper. It struck fresh water . . . water which promptly rose to within a couple of hundred feet of the surface and which had readily dissolved the rock salt. A pump was hastily installed and a windmill built directly over the pump. The prevailing westerlies and a Texas sun did the rest.

A 30-ft. windmill raised from 5,000-to-8,000 gallons of salt water an hour from the big hole from where it cascaded into a hastily dug reservoir. The sun dried it, evaporating the water . . . and there was salt galore. Colorado City was one of the best "let nature do it" deals ever devised. They even called it "Nature's Salt Works" and it became quite a setup: A string of windmills were erected and connected to the pump; the reservoir area was enlarged; and a salt-sacking works was built. A spur track was laid by T&P to the salt works.

Business boomed again. Money flowed in and was "salted away."

Ol' Sol, then as now, shone on Colorado City some 340 days a year. Wind and sunshine were the key factors; the wind-raised, sundried salt by chemical analysis was rated 98% pure. All that was necessary was to scoop it up and load it into barrels and sacks. Later, a second salt works was built in Colorado City.

Pure water? In time that also came, as did petroleum production, cotton and diversified industries. Colorado City today still teems with civic pride and with its close-to-10,000 population is enjoying steady growth and development.

In looking back to those anything-but-halcyon days of rootin', tootin' Colorado, the dynamic little town was not only a top cattle point and a farm market center, but it also was proud of its salt production . . . . 400 carloads of salt a month . . . when it was, indeed, the "salt of the earth of the West's cattle empire."

LONE STAR GAS COMPANY

Natural Gas Provides...

LIFELINES for TOMORROW in PIPELINES planned TODAY

In the next few years, the people in the West are going to have a lot of new neighbors. The western states served by El Paso Natural Gas Company and its subsidiaries are growing three times as fast as the rest of the nation.

There are good reasons for this rapid growth — climate, scenery, a dynamic economy. New businesses are starting, old businesses are expanding.

Spurring this progress are energy supplies — natural gas, liquid petroleum, water power and solid fuels. They fuel business machinery, heat homes, power mills, provide the basic essentials for the comforts of life.

Today, natural gas is the West's fastest growing source of energy. Use of natural gas is expected to rise an estimated 86 per cent in the decade ending in 1966.

It's our job to see that the West gets that gas. We are constantly searching for new reserves, developing them and then building the pipelines to deliver the gas to distributors and industries, from wells hundreds of miles away.

This effort pays off in the assurance that years in the future — even with demand growing at a record pace — the West will have the energy supplies essential for continued growth.

IN SAVINGS BONDS

County Leads District Sale

Mitchell County led all eight counties of District 14 in percentage of U. S. Savings Bond sales during 1958.

Infact, the local county lacked only six-tenths of one per cent reaching its assigned goal for the 12-month period ending in December.

Savings Bond sales here in Mitchell amounted to $13,420 in December, according to J. Compton Pritchett, executive vice-president of City National Bank and county bond sales chairman.

The December sales placed Mitchell's entire 1958 total at $269,456 — 99.4 per cent of its assigned goal of $271,000.

Nearest other District 14 county was Andrews with a total of $59,023 for the year or 95.2 per cent of its goal.

Other records of District 14 counties are: Borden, no sales; Dawson, $91,963 total for 88.7 per cent; Gaines, $100,772 or 76.3 per cent; Howard, $709,757 or 88.5 per cent; Martin, $31,003 or 64.6 per cent; Scurry, $228,541 or 71.4 per cent.

Pritchett reported that December Savings Bond sales in Texas were 15 per cent greater than December 1957.

Total state sales for the year were $171,851,685 or 98.2 per cent of the 1958 goal. That means Mitchell County's 1958 record was above the state's percentage.

Sales in the nation last year were $4,689,000,000, Pritchett said.

And while sales increased four per cent during the year, redemptions of matured and unmatured bonds decreased 11 per cent.

"The U. S. Treasury Department is grateful to those who gave so much of their time, effort and interest in promoting the sale of bonds," Pritchett added.
